MV hospital board sets new bond vote for Nov. 6

By CRICKET BIRD
Times News writer
TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Memorial Hospital board members agreed Monday to propose another multi-million dollar bond issue to finance a hospital renovation and expansion program.
The proposal which will be on the ballot in the Nov. 6 general election, probably will be larger than the $4.6 million bond issue defeated by voters last February.
Board members, faced with inflated costs for the improvements, voted to set the dollar amount of the bond issue at a level "to accomplish our needs." The board members and hospital administrator could not give an estimate of the exact amount to be sought.
A special board meeting is planned within the next two weeks to set the specific amount.
Inflation has boosted hospital construction costs 15 to 18 per cent since February, according to architects' estimates.
At that rate, the bond proposal could run between $3.3 and $5.4 million for the same improvements proposed in the February election.

The board has the choice of accepting the same package as planned before, or working for some reduction in plans, according to hospital administrator James Rosenbaum.
Board members also voted, in view of the short time remaining until election day, to retain CTA Architects, the firm which made the original plans used in February's proposal.
Board members voted 8-3 to run the bond election with the Nov. 6 general election. The majority felt coupling the bond election with the general vote would result in higher voter turnout. One major reason cited by supporters was causing the defeat of the previous bond issue since poor voter turnout. Only 26 per cent of registered voters cast a ballot in the February election.
Dissenting board members, although in favor of bringing the bond issue up for a re-vote, were not convinced that combining the bond vote with the general election would be advantageous.

Nominee relaxes
FORMER NEW YORK Gov. Nelson Rockefeller was nominated today as the vice president of the United States by President Gerald Ford, Rockefeller flew to Washington, D. C. this morning from Maine, where he had been vacationing and this photo was taken. (UPI)

Ford picks Rocky for vice president

(Combined News Services)
WASHINGTON — Nelson A. Rockefeller was chosen by President Ford today to become his vice president.

The designation of the 66-year-old former governor of New York was announced by Ford in an informal ceremony in the White House's Oval Office, where it was seen by a national television audience and members of the cabinet and Congressional leadership who stood along the walls.

"It was a tough call for a tough job," Ford said, as he introduced Rockefeller, who stood at his side, smiling slightly.
Ford said he made the choice "after a great deal of soul searching, after considering the advice of congressional leaders and other national figures."
The choice of Rockefeller confirmed the consensus of speculation that had rife in the capital since Ford himself moved into the presidency 11 days ago.

Rockefeller has been in government for more than 30 years and in politics since 1950, when he defeated W. Averell Harriman to become governor of New York. He resigned last December after 15 years in office and now is heading a commission on Critical Choices for Americans, which he created and financed.

Rockefeller said today he hoped Gerald Ford would run for president in '76, and said he would be "delighted" to campaign this fall for Republican congressional candidates.
But the nominee said it was too early to make any decisions on his own political plans two years hence.
Minutes after being nominated by Ford for the No. 2 spot, Rockefeller told reporters he expected to place his vast financial holdings in a blind trust, and said he would reveal his income tax returns and other financial statements to Congress if asked during this confirmation hearing.

Ford offers self-exiled Viet war foes chance to work way back to US

CHICAGO (UPI) — President Ford found another emotional wound that the nation must heal when he suggested that the young men who left their country rather than fight in Vietnam be allowed to return their way back home.
Ford made the proposal Monday before an audience that could not be considered receptive — the annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The VFW is on the record opposing any form of amnesty — conditional or unconditional.
Early reaction from the men who left indicated that they would be unwilling to accept Ford's proposal, which would mean leaving their new homes and performing some type of alternative service.
The speech came as a surprise to the VFW which had given Ford a warm reception. He described his audience as "ununderstanding." Some of them said they were "stunned."
"All of us who served in one war or another know very well that all wars are the glory and the way out of the jungle," Ford said.
"In my judgment, these young Americans should have a second chance to contribute their fair share to the rebuilding of peace among ourselves and with all nations."
So far, however, the weight of his presidency forces their correct re-entry — earned re-entry — into a new atmosphere of hope, hard work and mutual trust.
"I will act promptly, fairly and very firmly in the same spirit that guided Abraham Lincoln and Harry Truman," Ford concluded. "As I reject amnesty, I reject re-education."

Deadline blaze fight continues

BY BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times News writer
TWIN FALLS — Some 750 fire fighters concentrated today on containing the stubborn Deadline Ridge fire which has now covered 3,000 acres of the eastern edge of the city.
Forest officials said the fire, 30 air miles west of Twin Falls, which began Saturday about 5:30 p.m. and was whipped out of control Sunday, is contained on the north, west and east portions as a result of the efforts of men and equipment Monday and Monday night.
Jack Wilcox, fire boss, said this morning the goal for today's workers is to complete construction of a fire line around three spreading fingers of flames along the southern edge of the fire.
Cooler temperatures last night and a concentration of ground forces succeeded in completing a line around the eastern portion of the fire. Monday afternoon efforts completed the line around the north and west streams.

George Fry, plans chief, said if present conditions hold it will probably be possible to contain the fire today. The goal for Wednesday would be control of the fire.
Fry said some gusty winds are continuing today but temperatures were 35 degrees in the area this morning.

Two large spot fires and several small spot fires were still burning in the eastern end of the fire this morning in the vicinity of Father and Son Campground. The fire is burning on a front five-miles long. It measures from one-half-mile to one-and-one-half-miles in width along this distance.

The fire, believed to have been caused by a propane left in the Bear Hollow area Saturday, threatened a number of summer homes and organizations' camps for a time Sunday and Monday.

Art Selin, information officer, said the threat to such improvements is over and there has been no loss of private property. As far as is known no livestock has perished in the fire although it was necessary to move sheep out of the path of the fire.

Burley logger killed

BURLEY — A Burley logger died early Monday while attempting to remove logging equipment out of an area threatened by the Deadline Ridge fire.
Sheriff's officers here identified the man as Edward Helzke, 37, Burley, an employee of Bob Judd, Burley, who is operating a logging project in the vicinity of the South Hills.
Officers said the loggers had been warned to move out because of the rapidly spreading fire. Helzke was operating a tractor, apparently moving it from the logging camp when it overturned.
The tractor reportedly crushed under the tractor and was brought from the scene to Cassia Memorial Hospital by his employer. Sheriff's officers said he died a short time after arrival at the hospital.
Exact location of the accident was not known as officers said they have been unable to talk to Judd.
Faye Holland of the Twin Falls Ranger District office said Judd had a timberland permit in the Father and Son — Briggs Corral area generally between Rock Creek and Bostetter. It was believed the men were moving equipment from that area when the accident occurred. The fire burned near the Father and Son campground Monday.
Forest officials said they did not learn of the death until late Monday afternoon and since it was the last day of the fire fighting forces, they have not received a report on the location or cause of the accident.
The fire which began in the Bear Hollow area near Deadline Ridge Saturday, burned along the ridge and was moving toward Bostetter Monday night.

Congress acclaims Rocky

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's nomination to serve as the nation's 41st vice president was widely acclaimed by congressional leaders from both parties today, virtually assuring a swift Senate confirmation of the veteran lawmaker and statesman.
Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield

Car crushes man

HEYBURN — A Heyburn man was killed Monday afternoon when a car he was repairing slipped from its jack and crushed him.
Heyburn City Police Chief Robert Vasquez said Shirley Matherly was killed when a car in his yard at Heyburn.
Vasquez said Matherly apparently was removing the engine from the car when the accident occurred.
The car had been jacked up and had jacks stands under the front end so Matherly could crawl underneath, according to Vasquez. The ground under the car was wet and soft. The jacks under the motor apparently sank into the ground and caused the car to fall, Vasquez said.
The accident was investigated by Mindoka County Coroner Vaughn Bair and Heyburn police.

Little harvest effect seen from August rains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although August rains ended a two-month drought in the Midwest they did not significantly improve the projected corn harvest, according to a special report from the Agriculture Department.

The experts said the final size of the grain crop will depend on whether enough rain falls the rest of the season. Also, the crops may suffer from frost damage and could face danger from killing frosts in the fall.

The report reviewed developments since Aug. 12, when the department predicted the 1974 corn crop would be 12 percent below last year and the soybean crop down 16 percent.

The corn crop, which is the production of meat, poultry and milk, was estimated at 4,366 billion bushels and the soybean crop — also important for feeding livestock and poultry — at 1,344 billion bushels.

The forecast fanned off pressure in Congress for limiting American grain exports to hold down prices at home and predictions of higher food prices next year.

The next full-scale crop assessment will be issued in the monthly crop report due Sept. 11.

An Agriculture department official disclosed Monday that three U.S. farm experts will leave on a three-week tour of the Soviet Union Aug. 25 to study prospects for the 1974 Soviet spring wheat crop.

The official said the U.S. experts would bring home a "first hand appraisal" of spring wheat conditions.

Current U.S. assessments of 1974 Soviet wheat prospects indicate Russia will harvest some 100 million tons of wheat, about half of it spring wheat.

The crop would be smaller than the 1973 million ton record but big enough to permit the Soviet Union to return to its traditional status as a grain exporter, a top Agriculture official said.

House drops DST in winter months

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, which has been tinkering with America's time for years, is at it again.

The House voted Monday, 383 to 16, to put the nation back on standard time this November through February 1975. The bill now goes to the Senate, where approval is regarded as certain.

It would suspend the provision of the 1973 Emergency Energy Act that ordered year-round Daylight Saving Time to conserve energy.

Before that, the Uniform Time Act of 1967 ordered that Daylight Saving Time would prevail each year from 2 a.m. on the last Sunday in April until 2 a.m. on the last Sunday in October.

And before that, there were changes back and forth through the years.

Rabin invited

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has invited Israeli prime minister Yitzhak Rabin to visit Washington in early September for the final round of Arab-Israeli consultation on a Middle East peace settlement.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger announced the invitation in a news conference Monday in which he said he would be conferring later this week with the Syrian foreign minister.

TF charges dismissed

TWIN FALLS — City Manager Jean Millar told the Twin Falls City Council Monday night a charge of discrimination against the city by the Teamsters Union has been dismissed.

Millar said he has received a letter from the Idaho Human Rights Commission, with which the charge was filed, stating the case has been dismissed because of lack of jurisdiction by the Teamsters. Roy Corson, executive with the Teamsters, filed the charge following a wage dispute between the city employees of a number of departments and the city.

The employees' working representation by the Teamsters and charged discrimination when the city turned down their request for an election on the matter: The Teamsters Union pointed out that the city employees were allowed to organize and other city employees should have an equal opportunity.

TOPS

HANSEN — Middle age is when the "straps" and the "braids" must begin to change places.

This was the thought brought to the TOPS (Top of Posture) club meeting by Marybeth Howard, the leader, of the Junior Women's organization.

Members of the club, including Mrs. Lorraine Harris and Mrs. Allen were welcomed back as returning members of the club.

Shirley Harris and Lorraine Harris were first place as best losers of the week. Evelyn Harris was best loser of the month. All of the winners did postures as best as they could.

Games and parties assist at them, and are also required to write a couple of lines, 50 lines each pertaining to the TOPS club during the week.

The program was a robust evening. Mrs. Lorraine Harris repeated from a number of songs, popular and well known, and members danced to the music.

The evening ended with an action game, musical chairs, and a drawing of a prize.

TOPS is a club for women over 40 years of age. It is held every Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. at the club. The club is open to all women over 40 years of age.

New hearings asked

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The U.S. Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Monday that U.S. District Court Judge Miles Lord should resume hearings on alleged pollution of Lake Superior by the Reserve Mining Co. of Silver Bay, Minn.

In one of the longest environmental trials in U.S. history, Lord had ordered Reserve to still down its operations because of the pollution.

The company, however, won a reprieve at a hearing in May before the appellate court, and both sides were ordered to consider possible fines if disposal of the waste materials now being dumped into the lake.

In its order, Monday, the appellate court did not change its original ruling, allowing Reserve's 3,100 employees to continue working at the plant in Silver Bay.

In ordering new hearings, the appeals court said it was examining the record and determining if Reserve violated Minnesota a law by its discharges into the lake.

Lord also was urged to see if Reserve was violating federal or Wisconsin state law with its discharges into the lake and to consider possible fines if violations were found.

Israeli proposes new US fleet base

United Press International — A top Israeli military analyst says the United States should consider moving the 6th Fleet's huge port facilities to Israel.

The analyst, Gen. Haim Herzog, said Monday Israel should offer the fleet home port bases to ensure U.S. support in the face of increased Soviet arms shipments to neighboring Arab countries.

The Greek government withdrew its troops from the Suez Canal last week and left undecided the fate of the 6th Fleet, which has home port facilities in Greece and Italy.

Herzog, former chief of military intelligence, said the United States might not only be ousted from Greece but also from Turkey.

"I personally believe it would not be a negative thing from our side to bring the subject to debate so that the American administration will also entertain the possibility," he said.

Herzog said the United States is "imprudent" in the east Mediterranean and "logic would dictate that the Americans should have made overtures — to Israel — and Lebanon, or port facilities."

His comments came 24 hours after the newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth proposed the 6th Fleet establish its base at Haifa, the largest of Israel's three ports.

In Amman, Jordanian King Hussein returned home after meeting with President Ford and other top U.S. officials on the Middle East crisis.

In a joint statement, the two leaders said they agreed to work for a disengagement agreement between Jordan and Israel.

But in Tel Aviv, Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said the time for interim agreements between Israel and the Arabs has passed and Israel should now concentrate on achieving an overall peace settlement.

"The stage of troop separation agreements" with the Syrians, he said, "and now Israel prefers paths that would lead to a real peace." Rabin told a group of soldiers at an encampment in the Jordanian valley.

"If we have to go to war it should be known that we will do this only after our extended hands come back empty," he said.

Mobile court ordinance set

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — An ordinance to allow a conditional use in a residential medium density zone for development of a mobile home court was placed on first reading by the City Council Monday night.

The ordinance would permit Shelby Enterprises Inc. to build a court in the area adjoining the Caswell Mobile Home Court they presently own.

Joseph Shelby told the council the proposed development would not be part of the existing court but would be separate. It would be designed for spacious lots to accommodate double-wide mobile homes and to cater to retired persons. No families with children would be permitted in the court, he said.

Lots would be about four and one-half acres each, containing a minimum of 30 square feet. Tom Schafer, engineer who is designing the development, said the facility would front on Piler Avenue West and would be located on about 47 acres of land now used for pasture.

Sizable land would be set aside for recreation use, Schafer said, and would be used to provide picnic sites for the court residents.

The council will read the ordinance at the next meeting in two weeks, and may either adopt it under a standing order or continue it at that time or continue it at a third reading at the following meeting.

Gooding fete set

GOODING — The Antique Festival Theatre will be in Gooding tonight to present one of its most successful shows of the summer, Rip d' Van Winkle.

The play is based on Washington Irving's classic American tale, but it has been adapted by the APT's resident playwright, Gerald McDonough into a delightful musical. Also contributing to the musical illness was Jim Cockey, musical director, who came from his Boise rock group, "Providence," to add his talents to the APT summer repertory.

Headlining the APT's fine cast is Debra Wildflower who does a memorable portrayal of Rip d' followed by Bill Bidwell as Gretchen, his wife, Constance Bahr as Gerdie their daughter, Paul Abbott as Bruno, Arvid Olson as Otto, and Tom Plank as Dwarvun and Gunthar, Mary Murfin as Schoosch, Rory Scanlon as Nick, and Donna Green as Hildagard.

The play will take place in the Gooding football field and admission will be $1.50 for adults and $.75 for children. There will be family rates and senior citizens are invited to attend free.

Achievement event held by 4-H'ers

TWIN FALLS — The Curry Kids 4-H Club held Club Achievement Day Saturday at the home of Maude and Cozette Allen, a member said Tuesday.

Bob Holloway, assisted the group in learning how to show calves and sheep.

Demonstrations were given by Cliff Hitt, tilting a cow fall; Dean Hall, how to put a blanket on a cow; Cindy Shettel, how to trim sheep feet; Brent Lampe, how to clip a cow; Maude Allen, how to make cherry pie; and Cozette Allen, how to make deviled eggs.

A meeting of the decorating committee was held. Decorations for the animal booth at the fair were discussed.

Register and vote

TWIN FALLS — Students registering for classes at the College of Southern Idaho can register to vote at the same time.

The council also approved recommendations of the city and county airport commission for allowing Phil Auth to use part of the building, owned by Air Idaho for a flight instruction office and classroom.

The council also agreed with airport commission members on retaining the 1956 fire pumper truck at the airport. City Manager Don Miller said the unit would be useful in simple fire control and for use in connection with the new crash and rescue unit being acquired for the airport.

The new bill, he said, is for aircraft fire or crash use only and could not be used satisfactorily in the event of a building fire.

Council members voted unanimously to adopt a motion by council member, Dr. Stephen Lincoln to continue the present ordinance.

The society had proposed a broader program to take over the total animal problem in the city. Lincoln said since the present contract is new he felt it should continue unchanged for a year.

In other action the council approved the tax levy for the 1974 budget. City Manager

Miller said it will be 60 mills, unchanged from last year, but is presented to the County auditor in the amount of the city budget with the county auditor to determine the mills required to raise the amount.

The council also granted a 40-foot curb cut for Ernest Farris for property on State, Highway 74 where he proposes a service station and truck stop.

Mayor Winston Jones was authorized by the council to sign documents for federal aid for secondary road improvements on Washington Street, North and Blue Lakes Boulevard South.

Burley man held on drugs

BURLEY — A 27-year-old Burley man was arrested Saturday on three felony drug charges.

David L. McClung was charged with possession of over three ounces of marijuana, attempting to pass a forged document, prescription, and passing forged prescription. He was also charged with two misdemeanors—possession of marijuana and drunk in an auto.

Burley Police Det. Sgt. Jim Higgins said that police found a pound and a half of "extremely good" marijuana, three or four bottles of unidentified narcotic pills, and paraphernalia, including pipes and roach clips in McClung's apartment where he lived with two other men.

Higgins said the felony charges stemmed from McClung's earlier arrest on the two misdemeanor charges. His apartment was searched after police found marijuana in his car.

McClung moved to the area recently from Washington.

Ready for fun

Burley council vetoes changing street names

BURLEY — An effort to change the system of street names in new sections of Burley was apparently failed.

George Schafer, spokesman for residents of the East 18th — 18th Drive area, appeared before the Burley City Council Monday night with a petition reportedly signed by 38 residents of the neighborhood.

The petition called for naming streets in the area for streets rather than the current numbering system. According to Schafer, his neighbors do not want the confusion of similar addresses in the area which already has an East 18th street, 18th Drive and 18th Lane.

More development in the area may lead to other similar names, adding to the problem, he said.

Schafer appeared before the council previously concerning the problem. After the proposal to use a different system was approved by the planning commission, it was tabled twice by the council. Lucas defeated Monday night.

The council moved to return street signs to the area which has been delayed since the proposal to change the system first came to the council. City engineer Leon Bedke was instructed to research the possibility of "tagging" house numbers to reduce confusion between houses with the same number addresses on similar sounding streets.

No public testimony was offered at the public hearing on the annexation of the property where the new elementary school is under construction and the land between the new school and Overland Avenue. The ordinance to annex the area and zone it for school use was accepted.

The council also passed an ordinance renaming the Casco Memorial Hospital area where a new medical center is to be built.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the single word, "denied," Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell has ruled that Lt. William L. Calley Jr. must stay in prison while his attorneys appeal his murder conviction arising from the killings at My Lai.

TWIN FALLS — About $30 in change was reported taken from Charter Seed Co. in a weekend burglary.

City police were advised Monday of a break-in at the firm located at 405 Wall St.

Larry Young, 40, told officers someone entered the building and pried open the soft drink machine, taking all the money from the coin box. The thieves also took some change from a small plastic container in the office.

Candidate emphasizes importance of counties

TWIN FALLS — A prominent Party candidate for U.S. Senate, Jean Stoddard, believes counties should have the final say in determining what is constitutional.

"The men of the county are the people and the people are above the legislative, judicial and executive branches. This is an interview with Stoddard.

As a "constitutionalist," Mrs. Stoddard called for abolition of federal government except in areas such as national defense and collection of "import" taxes which are specified in the Constitution.

Repeal of the income tax, she said, would be a primary step toward dismantling government. The limited power to the people," she said. "The federal government also has no constitutional authority to implement social security, but this would be by states individually, she said."

The candidate maintained the U.S. Supreme Court often has gone beyond its authority to judge the constitutionality of laws. In any case, the final authority for interpreting the Constitution should rest on the local level, she said.

"The sheriff has the authority to not enforce any law" which he believes is unconstitutional. If the sheriff stands enforcing such illegal laws, she said, the people of the county would have the right to get rid of the sheriff.

Woman sentenced over assault case

TWIN FALLS — Sentences pronounced Friday by Fifth Judge District Judge by Judge Theodor Ward included terms of five years maximum in the state penitentiary for Eileen Knight, 20, Buhl.

She was charged with assault with intent to commit murder in the stabbing of Eldon Knight June 20 and with resisting an officer by means of violence in connection with kicking, biting and scratching Buhl City Officer Don Thuesen and Deputy Sheriff Gil Sweegy following the assault of Knight.

Daniel McCleve, 28, Twin Falls, was sentenced to no more than three years, after pleading guilty to writing a check with insufficient funds.

Dave Mason was sentenced to no more than three years, and placed on 30 days probation on charges of issuing a check in excess of $25 without sufficient funds.

Judge Ward dismissed charges against three defendants upon completion of satisfactory probation periods. These included Betty Doreen Dutt and Charles James Abundis, both Twin Falls charged with grand larceny in the theft of a television set from a motel.

Charges of grand larceny also were dropped against Wanda Lee Johnson, Twin Falls. She was placed on probation Oct. 5, 1973, and has fulfilled terms of the probation, the court stated.

National memory should be preserved, available

(C) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — One of these days the moving vans will back up to the White House and cart off President Nixon's personal and official papers to San Clemente.

This is the way it has been since the beginning of the republic, by tradition, which now has the force of law, the departing president decides what papers he wants to take away, and these are regarded as his "private property."

This means that these papers, which are the memory of the nation, are largely under the control of the departing president and his heirs, who can edit them selectively, or even destroy them, or under the will of the president upon his death, arrange to conceal their contents for as long as he chooses.

For example, the papers of John Adams and John Quincy Adams were locked up until 1856 the Adams family transferred title to them to the Massachusetts Historical Society, which finally made them available to scholars.

So this is not a new problem. The papers of most major presidents have been preserved fairly well. Official records of presidents Fillmore, Tyler, and Harding, which were meager and dispersed, still keep learning up.

Nevertheless, the principle that "presidential papers 'Belong' to the departing president, raises some awkward questions.

Is Nixon, therefore, free to lock up the still secret White House tapes like the Adams papers, or burn them as Warren Harding's widow is reported to have destroyed some of the records of the Harding scandals?

It is important to be clear about what is at issue here, the question is not whether the departing president has a right to the records of his administration — of course he has — but whether he has the sole right to take them away from his own and his family's control, without leaving either the originals or copies behind.

In some cases, he does have this right. For example, in his private correspondence about appointing members of his cabinet or members of the supreme court, there. This could be inaccurate, vindictive gossip, harmful to the characters of the people concerned, so obviously the president has the right and duty to edit but scrupulously personal attacks.

But issues of policy, official conversations with other heads of government, tapes of conversations that produced the first resignation of an American president, are different.

They are important to the history of the country, and should not be entirely under the control of the departing president.

Since Franklin Roosevelt, the papers of the presidents have gone back to memorial libraries in their hometowns, and the system has worked very well.

Nothing in the law obliges Nixon to turn all his papers over to the federal archives and let the government maintain a Nixon Library in San Clemente. By tradition and present law, he can keep them to himself and turn them over in his will to his children and grandchildren.

The changes are that, like the presidents from Roosevelt to Kennedy and Johnson, he will want that library in San Clemente, and submit to the vague rules of what papers now belong to him, and what really belong to the nation.

Like the Kennedy and Johnson, he will get both his papers and his memorial library, to do with as he likes, but the integrity of the nation's record will still be in trouble.

Giving the president all the papers he wants to take home is okay, letting him and his family control them and exploit them is understandable, but in the end they are not really personal papers or private property. They are the record and memory of the nation, and should be preserved for the purpose.

First balm for bad sore

"In my judgment, these young Americans should have a second chance to contribute their fair share to the rebuilding of peace among ourselves and with all nations."

"As I reject amnesty... so I reject revenge." With these two statements, President Gerald Ford applied the first healing balm to another of the festering sores irritating the republic and its citizens. Whether or not to extend some form of amnesty to those who left the United States in answer to personal conviction and opposition to the Vietnam war has been a question — more often ignored than considered — for which no answer has been formulated.

"Some of those who opposed the War have lived abroad now for as long as some prisoners languished in Vietnamese prisons."

There are Americans who favor unconditional amnesty. There are Americans who would prefer a conditional amnesty. There are Americans who wholeheartedly oppose amnesty or pardon, complete or conditional.

Now President Ford, in softening the anti-amnesty policy of the former administration, is asking cabinet officials to propose within two weeks a method for allowing war resisters to perform some form of alternate service and work their way back into American society.

This call for recommendations — whether popular or not with Americans — which has been delayed too long. It is another effort to direct the attention of Americans to problems which have been allowed to worsen to Watergate's shadow.

We hope that once the President receives the requested recommendations quick action will be taken to place whatever measures are decided upon into effect. Only in that way will the sore be healed, although the scar will long remain.

Upholding the law

Christian Science Monitor

While the incoming President of the United States was vigorously promising the country a law-abiding administration, the incoming president of the American Bar Association was calling for renewed emphasis on ethics to those who study and practice law.

Both statements pointed the way toward the kind of positive results without which the Watergate ordeal will have been a meaningless calamity. It may seem incredible that obedience to the law should have taken on the appearance of a notable attitude in the time of a man who granted a requirement among those charged with upholding the law.

But the Watergate roles of government figures, including a high proportion of lawyers, had temporarily downgraded attention from the millions of honest government workers, and from the lawyers who have more accurately represented their profession by being on the side of the law in the Watergate upheaval.

The new ABA president, James D. Sellers, is asking for the minimum when he says that no student should finish law school "without having done some rigorous thinking about ethical problems and without having demonstrated a thorough understanding and appreciation of ethical questions."

But schooling in ethics will do no good unless lawyers, like all other citizens, carry ethical sensitivity not only into their personal lives but into their working lives.
The Watergate White House was not lacking in legal advice; what it needed was a simple discernment of right and wrong; this is why President Ford's unqualified assertion of law-abiding respect for individual rights was so refreshing and so necessary.

BEHOLD OUR ALLY, THE NOBLE TURK

Turk premier admits influence of 3

(C) New York Times Service
ANKARA — Turkey's immensely popular premier, Bülent Ecevit, acknowledges two men as having had influenced him, the literary heroes Romi Ataturk and Ismet Inönü.

Yet the book most admired, the collection of prison letters from Pandit Nehru to his daughter, Indira, now Indian prime minister. He says: "If I had to choose one book to recommend to someone going to the moon — or prison — that would be it."

It is not strange that the man who has swept to astonishing public esteem because of his tough Cyprus policy, should regard Ataturk, father of his republic, as his model. NÖP is from an unexpected source, a renowned army commander and Ataturk's successor, is president but the reasoning is unusual.

The link between Ataturk, Inönü and Nehru is not to be found in Hellenism but in the fact that all three were statesmen, as well as nationalists, and were also, far to the left of most contemporary colleagues. The latter quality is surely true of Ecevit, in terms of Turkey's conservative political prism.

Ataturk built the republic on the wreckage of a crumbling empire and modeled it on democratic and Western. Yet he sought Soviet aid to accomplish this. Inönü developed, increasing if not fully liberalized after he retired as chief of state. And Nehru, despite "wealthy" aristocratic antecedents, became a socialist who contributed close ties between India and Russia. He was also an intellectual.

There is a bit of all of this in Ecevit. The premier is a rather small, tall man with black hair and mustache, longnose, and gleaming black eyes. He speaks easily and well in fluent English and enjoys discussing literature. Which he has contemplated in his mind.

He entered politics in 1938. He is now only 49 through Inönü's Republican People's party. After 21 years of close cooperation the two split, breaking up the organization. Ecevit got control of the bigger faction and turned it leftward. When he was chosen premier this year, much of the army and most conservatives regarded him with suspicion.

C. L. SULZBERGER

They thought him a starry-eyed, quasi-revolutionary intellectual journalist, poet. He is a devotee of the Hindu classic "Bhagavad Gita" and normal reading in Turkish politics, and was attracted to T. S. Eliot since some of whose poems he translated by the Inters' affinity for Sanskrit. He releases his mind with "Bhagavad Gita" because of "the way of combining worldliness and otherworldliness."

Today Ecevit could win an overwhelming victory in an election — although his party still runs a minority, coalition government, oddly aided by a far right coalition of eccentrics. The army, which suspected him, now adores him — perhaps because their policies seem parallel. He says he is a "democratic leftist" which means something here where about 100 ultra-extremists are still in jail.

He has a social vision and a sense of justice but he is also capable of such action which certainly concerns him to this day. And he admires Inönü, when discussing the Cyprus tension. Military actions have their own logic, the logic of motion. It is much harder to stop a moving thing.

Another cherished American principle is the principle of political accountability. Over the years we have treated our intricate system of checks and balances, of reviews and controls of executive and legislative power, of the government, public sector and the private sector, have operated in an effective state of tension. The system may not be perfect, but it has given American a reasonably free and reasonably prosperous economy.

Consumers' commissar bill result

WASHINGTON — Just before we were interrupted, we were talking about the bill to create a Consumer Protection Agency.

It is an extraordinary bill — a profoundly un-American bill — and it merits your careful thought.

One version of this bill, H.R. 13161, passed the House in April. A Senate version, S. 707, is now pending in the upper chamber. If the Senate succeeds in the next or following Congress, eventually the two bills will be reconciled, and with President Ford's approval, we will wake up some morning to find we have voted ourselves a wet blanket.

Perhaps Ford will not approve. His conservative instincts run deeper than those of his predecessor. As he reminded us a few days ago, he takes office beholden to no man — not even to Ralph Nader. And who's afraid of Virginia Knauer? Let us hope this well-reasoned bill, so fundamentally bad, had never, because a public law.

In describing this bill as "un-American," I have this in mind: One of the first principles of the American way of life is that ours is not a "minority society" but a majority society, a society composed of men and women with different interests and different views. The idea of state decreed uniformity is alien to us.

JAMES KILPATRICK

Another cherished American principle is the principle of political accountability. Over the years we have treated our intricate system of checks and balances, of reviews and controls of executive and legislative power, of the government, public sector and the private sector, have operated in an effective state of tension. The system may not be perfect, but it has given American a reasonably free and reasonably prosperous economy.

Now comes this bill to create a Consumer Protection Agency. The agency would be headed by an Administrator whose first duty is to define the "consumer interest." Can possibly be defined. The agency's interest is upon this day the most important task before us.

What is the consumer interest in automobiles? The Administrator would have power to intervene in every proceeding of the Department of Transportation having to do with automobile safety and design. The Administrator would be expected to intervene in every environmental proceeding having to do with air pollution.

Is it in the consumer interest to require that new automobiles come equipped with airbrakes, hydraulic bumpers, and catalytic emission controls? Perhaps. But these devices may add as much as $400 in the cost of a car. Is it in the consumer interest to have inexpensive cars? Perhaps it is. But these two opposing interests cannot possibly be reconciled.

A hundred such questions could be asked. It is anticipated that the Administrator would define a consumer interest as to the packaging of goods. But what is the consumer's interest? Does the consumer want packages that are secure, very secure, or practically impenetrable? Does he want his food to have been tested once or tested twice? The difference inevitably must be reflected in the price of the product. The Federal Register bulges with regulations affecting everything, from peanut butter to cherry pies. Now can one Administrator prescribe a universal package?

In every other agency of the federal government, the decrees of a commissioner or secretary or department head are reviewable. The checks and balances of due process of law operate to protect the citizen against the abuse of power. Congress provides some oversight. An overbearing official can be fired. But as this bill is now set up, the Administrator of the Consumer Protection Agency would have a virtually unreviewable power to do as he pleases; and he would do it in his own time.

In a different society, under a different concept of state supremacy, we would call such an officer a commissar. What in the world do we want with a Commissar Star Syndicate?

A Thought

"A thought for the day." English politician Oliver Cromwell said, "A few honest men are better than numbers."

New press secretary rebuilds post

By HELEN THOMAS

UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI) — When Gerald R. Ford personally introduced his new press secretary to White House reporters a few hours after he was sworn in, a voice from the rear yelled: "Hold him up, we've got him!"

At 5 feet 2, Gerald Franklin TerHorst may reach only to the President's chin. But Peter Lasgus of the Chicago Daily News, who teased his old friend and colleague that day, speaks for many in the White House press corps when he says that whoever Terhorst lacks in physical stature, he more than compensates for in energy, intellect, and solid professional experience.

"Jerry Terhorst — he says — might be his fifth child," says Jim Jerald, 42, a 53-year-old native of Ford's hometown of Grand Rapids, Mich., and has known the President closely since he became a reporter for the Grand Rapids Press in 1946.

TerHorst joined the Detroit News in 1953, came to Washington five years later, and has been the newspaper's bureau chief since '69. His ruddy complexion, full head of light brown hair, twinkling brown eyes, infectious grin and ever-present pipe have been a feature in the White House press room and on presidential travels for years.

Ford's appointment of a veteran reporter as press secretary, and his promises of easy accessibility, and frequent news conferences, were welcomed joyfully by the big or more "regulars" of the White House press corps.

Two hours after he learned that Richard M. Nixon was resigning, Ford asked Terhorst to take the job. "I agreed to come aboard to restructure the press operation," said Terhorst.

Who took over in absence from his paper? One of the things Terhorst did was to place the office of the White House director of communications directly under his supervision and to end his political ambitions. Under Ken W. Clawson, the office had directed the public relations effort to thwart impeachment processes against Nixon.

"I'm in charge of that shop now," Terhorst said, adding that political chores would be assured by the Republican National Committee.

There were other notable changes from the era of Nixon's press spokesman, Ronald Ziegler, who had come to the White House from an advertising and public relations career without any experience in journalism.

Terhorst astounded reporters at first when he mounted a three-foot platform on the briefing room podium, the better to see over the microphones, and remarked that "I just talked to President Ford and he says: 'Ziegler rarely conveyed direct quotes from Nixon.'"

There no longer "photo opportunities" for photographers, but "picture sessions." Terhorst occasionally stumbles, as he did in referring to "President Nixon" instead of Ford, but guards against glibness. He once caught himself saying "F-R-A-N-K-L-I-N-E," grinned and corrected himself by saying "in final form."

"I think he shows a good professional touch," says Lasgus. "When he doesn't know, he says he doesn't know and he will try to get it."

Ziegler, he added, "treated information as if it was something to be packaged, labeled and merchandised."

Terhorst is a graduate of the University of Michigan also. Ford's alma mater and was a Marine officer during World War II. He is a political independent and his wife, the former Louise Itoth, is a Democrat. They have four children, Karen, Margaret, Peter and Marina, and reside in suburban Alexandria, Va.

Ford suggests war resisters work their way home, earn place in US

 Ford ordered that 49,500 cases be reviewed. An aide said this included 29,000 military deserters, 4,000 fugitives — most of them in Canada — 7,000 persons in jail for violating the Selective Service Act, and a few thousand others who were being investigated or prosecuted.

The Pentagon has opposed any amnesty in the past. Gen. Leo E. Benda, a deputy assistant defense secretary, estimated that 3 per cent of those who had been convicted by antiwar feelings and the others because of such things as financial difficulties, problems with girl friends, and inability to adjust to the military.

Ford acknowledged that point. "Only a fraction of such cases, I find in a quick review, relate directly to Vietnam, from which the last American was withdrawn over a year ago. But all in a sense are casualties — still abroad or absent without leave from the real America," he said.

"I want them to come home. If they want to work their way back."
 The statement of amnesty was a departure from a traditional speech in which Ford applauded the hard-headed, deputy administrator of veterans' affairs, to head the huge Veterans Administration. The President's spokesman said that the decision was made after he arrived in Chicago, in a hotel room an hour before the address.

"The right audience," Ford told reporters as Air Force One flew back to Washington, "would be an audience that would be difficult. Rather than go and speak to a hand-picked audience, I picked one that I hoped would have some understanding."

"It would have been a little cowardly if we had picked some audience that would have been ecstatic."

Ford had discussed the proposal with three of his four children. He said they approved. His oldest son Michael, a seminary student, has already spoken publicly in favor of amnesty. White House sources said that Melvin Laird, a former secretary of defense, talked with the President "within the last few days," urging him to "look at the problem."

Another man Ford spoke with was Sen. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, who introduced a bill last year to set up a board that could grant immunity to an individual after he served a certain amount of time in a public service job, such as the Peace Corps. Taft, according to a spokesman, was "delighted that the President has more or less endorsed our concept."

At the least, Ford has provoked a debate. Echoing the feelings of a number of Americans, C.P. Harris, commander of the VFW McGrill Coyne Post in Pittsburgh, said: "They chose to leave this country when we needed them. Now let them fend for themselves."

Jack Klingery, a 25-year-old ex-Marine from Alabama, said "I agree with President Ford. I think they have paid the price and if anyone deserves amnesty, they do."

There is a question how many would return under the conditions Ford suggests. William D. Galvin of the United Presbyterian Church explained saying "anything that deals with earned immunity is not amnesty. It still implies guilt."

A 27-year-old draft resister who edits Amex, a magazine for American exiles in Canada, Gerry

Condon said "a general unconditional amnesty is the only thing acceptable."

"It's a pretty tough thing to ask people who have already paid the price. It's disrupted to say there is amnesty or delay it for a couple more years before they start their life's work."

Many of the exiles in Canada, he said, "want to remain here, some have already taken out citizenship or intend to do so when eligible. But even those are in need of amnesty just so they can have the freedom to visit friends and relatives in the United States."

Vets, organizations split on amnesty

CHICAGO (UPI) — President Ford, in his first sojourn out of Washington as President, immediately touched two sore spots in addressing his fellow members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Ford said he would act promptly on conditional amnesty for Vietnam draft evaders and indicated he may veto an inflationary $1.44 billion GI education bill passed by Congress.

While terming Ford's presidency "a breath of fresh air to the United States," AFV National Commander Ray Soderstrom took issue with the President on these two points.

Speaking after the President, Soden, who presented Ford with the VFW's Citizenship Gold Medal, said the 1.8 million member veteran's group may find itself "at odds" with Ford over conditional amnesty.

He said he felt the group would call for congressional hearings over any act of amnesty for draft resisters.

"Our position is based on the fact that the law has been broken and if they draft resisters want to come back, let them face the judicial system of this country," Soden said.

Soden said he thought amnesty to draft resisters would be tied to amnesty for former President Nixon in Congress, and reiterated the VFW's opposition to amnesty for Nixon.

In Miami Beach, where the American Legion is holding its convention, the national commander said amnesty is a matter for the nation's courts, not President Ford to decide.

Robert E. L. Eaton, 61, Bethesda, Md., said, however, he is prepared to consider conditional amnesty for Vietnam draft evaders.

"The American Legion" has opposed blanket amnesty for Vietnam deserters and draft dodgers. This doesn't mean that we don't want these misguided individuals who bugged out to Canada or elsewhere — to come home. They are Americans and they belong back here."

A number of rank-and-file VFW members at their Chicago convention expressed support for Ford's amnesty stand, while others took a wait and see attitude.

"He's trying to pull the country back together," said Billy Holbrook of Ashland, Ky. "Hell, I want these boys back, but I think they should work their way back."

William Hutchinson of Kansas City, Mo., said he felt the President was "very fair."

think he expressed the sentiments of a lot of people. I think we should take each case as it comes up."

But Bob Bysett of Casselberry, Fla., was "absolutely opposed to amnesty." He says we have to forgive and he's going to deal with them hard. We have to wait and see what he means by hard," Bysett said.

US probes Rebozo

(C) New York Times Service
 WASHINGTON — The Watergate special prosecutor confirmed Monday in court papers filed here that he was investigating charges that a top aide had been about to finance improvements to former President Richard M. Nixon's Florida home and to purchase platinum and diamond earrings for his wife.

The disclosure, as contained in legal papers filed in connection with a federal grand jury investigation into the handling by Charles G. Rebozo, a close personal friend of Nixon, of $150,000 of 1972 cash campaign donations.

The documents, filed on behalf of Leon Jaworski, the special prosecutor, do not state specifically whether the inquiry into Rebozo's handling of the funds had been broadened to include possible criminal prosecution of the former president.

But an affidavit filed with Chief Judge George L. Hart of the U.S. District Court by Judge R. Michel, an assistant to Jaworski, raised the possibility of a criminal investigation.

The affidavit stated that documents sought in contested subpoenas from Rebozo's Florida attorneys would "assist the grand jury and the special prosecutor to determine whether and why Rebozo received a political campaign contribution was subsequently used for the personal benefit of Mr. Rebozo, former President Nixon or others, and what federal criminal laws, if any, may thereby have been violated."

Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune, N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 49, a wonderful man in all respects, and I love him dearly. I am 43, but I'm told I look a lot younger. Not to brag, but I'm also attractive. Living in our apartment building is a handsome, 40-year-old Army captain. (He's a bachelor.) My husband travels a lot, and this bachelor told me if I ever got bored or lonely when my husband is away, I should call him and he will invite me over for a gourmet dinner. (He belongs to a gourmet club and loves to cook.)

No dinner with captain

So far I haven't taken him up on it, but I've thought about it. I've been a faithful wife all these years and have no intentions of being otherwise. I told my husband about this captain's invitation, and he said: "I don't like the idea. It's not that I don't trust you, but I wouldn't trust any man alone with a beautiful woman. Also, I don't want to give the neighbors anything to gossip about."

MR. AND MRS. LLOYD MASON.

Open house slated for Lloyd Masons

TWIN FALLS: Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Mason will be honored on their 50th wedding anniversary by their family at the Mason home Aug. 25 from 2-5 p.m. The Masons were married in Iowa, July 3, 1924, and have lived in Twin Falls since 1931. Mason owned Kingsbury Drug Stores and retired in 1970. The Masons' daughter and grandchildren are giving the reception. Their daughter is Mrs. W. H. McDonald, and grandchildren are Marilee, Nancy and Brock, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Plasted, all are from Caldwell, and Mr. and Mrs. Craig McDonald, Clarkston, Wash. All friends of the couple are invited to attend. The Masons request no gifts.

Miss Howell, King exchange promises

PAUL: Margaret Howell and Paul King were united in marriage July 20 in Paul's United Methodist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burley B. Howell, Anchorage, Alaska. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth D. King, Paul. Her bridesmaid is Miss Alice May Woodley, performed the double ring ceremony. Attending the bride as her maid of honor was her sister Celia Waalkes, Anchorage, Alaska. The bridegroom's sister-in-law is Burley King, the bride's maid. Jeff Bergstrom, Paul, performed the duties of best man. Howard King attended his brother as groomsman and usher.

A rehearsal dinner was given at the Ponderosa Inn by the bride's parents July 19. Following a wedding trip to Surf Valley, Yellowstone Park and Jackson Hole the couple is residing in the farming district north of Paul.

FRESH FRUIT LEATHER
This recipe will work with peaches, apples, raspberries or others. In a blender, puree enough fruit to make two cups. Add two tablespoons honey—blend well. Spread mixture, evenly on gauze, let stand in hot sun all day or until it peels smoothly from the pan. It will be soft and pliable like leather, yet dry. Cut in strips and store in a tight container. The mixture may be cooked in a very slow oven—100 degrees or warm—four to eight hours or longer. It crisps easily around the edges, so should be watched closely after four hours. Makes a chewy, natural sweet.

Linda Call weds Larsen in temple

HAZELTON: Linda Lee Call became the bride of Steven E. Larsen in rites solemnized Aug. 18 at the Logan, Utah, LDS Temple. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville L. Call, Hazelton. The parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert T. Larsen, Logan. President Lloyd Hunsaker officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Following the ceremony, the bridegroom and bride had a wedding luncheon in the West Colony Room of the Utah State University Center for the couple, relatives, bridesmaids and friends. It was followed that evening with an open house at the Logan Fifth Ward patio.

The bride wore an A-line floor length gown of white organza over pink satin. Two panels of venetian, gros lace formed the round neck, bodice of the dress and extended to the floor giving a redemptive effect. The long full organza sleeves had appliques of matching lace.

The fingertip veil of silk illusion was held by a crown of seed pearls and matching lace. Both were designed and made by the bride. She carried a traditional bouquet of white roses accented in blue with long-stemmed carnations.

The bridal attendants were: Eunice John, Idaho Falls, maid of honor; Patricia Hinton and Diane Call, sisters of the bride; Steven E. Stoddard, Logan, served as ring bearer. The groomsman was Lee G. Larsen and Brian A. Larsen, Logan, brothers of groom. Douglas Call, brother of the bride, greeted the guests at the door.

A reception honoring the newlyweds was held Aug. 2 at the Hunt LDS cultural hall. Guests were entertained before an Austrian sheer backdrop with "The Blue Bird" and "The Girl with Yellow Roses. White floor vases filled with yellow and blue daisies marked the reception line. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with blue and yellow roses and white lace hearts. A column encircled with white arches and two doves topped the cake. The bridesmaids carried a pair of garter columns topped with urns of cascading greenery.

Mrs. William Christensen and Mrs. Delbert Waters, Hunt, served the cake. Mrs. Irving P. Burns, Rexburg, served the punch. Assisting with the refreshments were Pat and Kristine Black, Carla and Rose Ann Tomer, Hunt. Guests were served at a gourmet table with white, lace, over-the-shoulder, white, lace, over-the-shoulder, centered with baskets of blue and white flowers.

Clumps of birch trees, white wrought iron lawn furniture, greenery and stone urns of yellow roses created a garden scene at one side of the hall.

Chris O'Connor, Van Falls, was in charge of the guest book. Shana Hutchins and Jennifer Card, Hunt, received the gifts.

Guests attended from Logan, Salt Lake City, Layton, Kaysville, Richmond and Smithfield, Utah; Sacramento, Calif.; Tualatin, Ore.; Idaho Falls; Rexburg; Jerome; Huppert and Twin Falls.

Following a honeymoon trip to San Francisco and Disneyland, the couple will reside in Drury, Mo., where they will continue their education.

DEAR ABBY: I've often considered writing to you about this, but then I would think it's too silly. Now, I've had it. We share a duplex house with two of the warmest, kindest people in the world. They are always so nice. That's the trouble; they are TOO nice! When the mister cuts his grass he cuts ours, too. I know this is silly, but it bugs me. I LIKE to cut my own grass! I've told him not to bother, that I would do it in the evening, but then he says: "That's all right. I already have my lawn mower out."

Abby, I've gone out and started mowing my lawn, and he says the nerve to come over, but my mower off and say: "Now, you go tend your baby, and let me do this." (They have no children and are quite a bit older than we are.)

Abby, I truly like this sweet old neighbor, but he is carrying a good deal too far. How can I tell him?

However, Holmes wasn't quite as pontifical as he might have been. He failed to point out that South had a second chance at a trick four. The News-Tribune is sponsoring the third year as the site of "The Big Western Register of Merit Hereford Show" in conjunction with the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo Sept. 4-7.

The show is dedicated to the Idaho cattle industry, according to show officials. It is one of three scheduled during the year in the Intermountain area.

A register of merit show is a means of recognizing the sires of winning animals in various classes through a point system. A breeder may win or place high in a ROM show and be well on the way to becoming famous in the cattle industry.

Last year there were 14 ROM shows held around the nation and 10 were scheduled this year, according to the American Hereford Association. Entries for the Filer show will close at 6 p.m. today to assure all entries being submitted in time to be listed in the special Hereford catalogue. There will be no weighing of Hereford males. Bulls will be weighed on Sept. 3. Premiums in some classes will be paid in 20 places and in all, at least 12. These include junior bull calves, senior bull calves, senior bull calves, summer yearling bulls, spring yearling bulls, junior yearling bulls, senior yearling bulls, two-year-old bulls and two bulls, bred and owned by exhibitor.

Champion bull will receive a rosette and reserve champion, a purple ribbon. Junior heifer calves, winter heifer calves, senior heifer calves, summer yearling heifers, spring yearling heifers, champion female and reserve champion female to receive a rosette, and purple ribbon.

Get-of-sire, pair of yearlings and pair of calves. A trophy will go to the best six head, bred and owned by one exhibitor. The First Security Bank of Idaho will present a plaque to each first place winner in the individual classes. The Idaho Hereford Breeders will present a plaque to all first place winners in the group classes.

Other special awards by the Idaho Hereford Breeders include for the best six head group, highest place Idaho bull, highest place Idaho heifer. These animals must be bred, raised and owned and shown by an Idaho exhibitor. The Junior Hereford heifer show is sponsored for 4-11 in Sept. 5 and is sponsored by area Junior Hereford Association, the American Hereford Association and the Twin Falls County Fair board.

Exhibitors must be members of their respective state junior Hereford associations and heifers must be the sole property of the junior exhibitor. Animals must be in place no later than 6 p.m. Sept. 3. Premiums in ten places will be paid on junior heifer calves; winter heifer calves, senior heifer calves, summer yearling heifers and spring yearling heifers.

Bulls bring good prices

ONE OF THE top Hereford bulls sold in a special Friday afternoon sale of the M. V. Ranches, Malin, is this $2,000 animal. Another bull sold for $2,200 and several brought more than $1,000. The dispersal sale is offering 1,550 head of registered Hereford cattle at auction in order to dissolve the partnership of the ranch owners.

GW growers' return hits $30 level

DENVER (UPI)—Great Western Sugar Co. said Saturday it has paid average returns of $31.76 per ton for its 1973 sugar beet crop, marking the first time Great Western's growers returns have surpassed the $30 per ton level.

The fourth payment on the crops will average $4.90 according to a company spokesman, and will be mailed Sept. 6. The 1973 crop payment compares to $20.18 per ton average for the 1972 season.

The September payment will be the fourth made this year to more than 4,000 growers who produced beets last year in Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming and Montana.

Robert J. Fisher, senior vice president of agriculture for GW Sugar, said another payment will be made to growers in October in final settlement for their 1973 crop.

Usually, growers receive only three payments for their crop, but two extra were made this year because of higher returns on sugar sales.

Farm credit post filled

SPOKANE, Wash.— Eugene C. Davis, 49, Bruneau farmer and rancher, has been elected to a vacant position on the Credit Association position on the Spokane district farm credit board.

Davis will fill the vacancy created earlier this year by the death of director Ray Lincoln, Twin Falls.

As a district board member, Davis will serve through 1976 as a director for the Federal Land Bank of Spokane, the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Spokane and the Spokane Bank of Farmers Cooperatives.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz so far has managed to keep the White House on the anti-control side, but no one knows if President Ford will continue to back the Butz policy as will former President Nixon.

The issue this time is corn, hurt severely by a June-July drought in the midwest.

Butz has already said U.S. corn use will have to be sharply cut, meaning higher corn prices and therefore higher prices for meat in 1973.

Contract length major problem in settlement

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League Management Council, contending that football would be hurt immediately by another dispute next year, Monday blocked a settlement of the strike by the Players Association with the length of a proposed contract.

"The terms of the agreement proposed by the players for a five-month contract to expire Jan. 31 is unacceptable to us," said John Thompson, executive director of the NFL Management Council. "The playing season is not enough for a reasonable contract. The players want to stand on their year like this one that we've gone through. The strike has had a tremendous economic effect — everyone's been affected."

"We hope that when we reach an agreement we will have a four-year contract or longer. Trying to restore normalcy is our goal."

Over the weekend, the players and owners bargained with federal mediators and Saturday night the players came up with a modified position from their stand of two weeks ago. However, the owners rejected the players' "final proposal," saying they would present a new package in the near future.

"We rejected the offer at the meeting," said Thompson. "We wanted time to study their response, to get back a detailed response to them."

The last owners' package presented was July 15, but Thompson said the NFLPA will get another one "as soon as we can cost out a proposal and the mediators call us back together."

AT NFLMC headquarters here, Thompson explained the owners' reservations to the various terms of the players' offer. He said the main one in which he felt both sides had made progress.

Thompson reiterated that any agreement must be for an extended period of time. "The football clubs couldn't stand the impact of a loss of so much revenue again in so close a period of time. A long-term agreement would help minimize the losses over a longer period."

In discussing the "Rozelle rule," Thompson again made reference to the limited effective length of the players' proposal. "Their claim on the withdrawal of the Rozelle rule is not an compromise — it's only a temporary withdrawal till Feb. 1. In the meantime, the players are leaving matters for arbitrator action. They intend to continue their efforts in Congress to get it eliminated."

"This is an integral part of our system."

The Rozelle rule calls for compensation to a club when a man plays out his option and signs with another team.

"We feel there must be a reasonable request to a club losing a player needs some fair compensation," Thompson said.

"We think collective bargaining is the 'proper' method for settling disputes. In fact, we have effected an either-or, final settlement similar to baseball's arbitration setup. We would want the Commissioner as the arbitrator but would consider other persons, outside arbitration."

Other areas in which both sides still differ, said Thompson, include raising the salary for a player playing out his option, from 90 to 100 percent, eliminating the option clause for veteran players, with the players putting the maximum limit at five years and the owners at eight years; "half the players are five-year men," Thompson said; the standard player contract, not an agency shop and suspension of two playing rules just instituted; the sudden death overtime and the new restricted punt return rule.

"In addition, Thompson said, the players presented two new demands for the first time Saturday night, asking for the right of a player to sit out rather than play out, his option and for a minimum squad size of 47 men.

"We're no longer $16 million apart," said Thompson. "We only $16 million apart on pension and insurance — but the termination clause, requiring 500 per season for a player leaving the team, would cost us at least $300,000 with any retroactive pension for last year."

Thompson said there were reasons for optimism, despite the differences between the two sides.

"I think we've made progress on the option clause and we've offered the players the most input of any sports union into playing rules which affect their lives," he said.

"We have proposed a committee of players and owners, which would meet four times a year which would consider any rules changes which affect player safety and any constitutional or bylaws changes."

"In line with that we've put a two-year moratorium on new artificial turf surfaces."

Thompson said the two sides were close in the area of starting salaries, preseason pay, increased post-season money, insurance, medical coverage and pensions and working conditions.

"We also have offered a shorter training camp, except for quarterbacks who will have to play more than five months, and they are involved in post-season competition or the Hall of Fame game."

Thompson said the players have come down from an original 90 demands in March, at which time he estimated the two sides were $130 million apart.

"Part of the problem," Thompson said, was that in 1970 the players and owners were only $10 million apart.

"They made too many costly demands to start."

Thompson said he thought it was possible, but not probable, that the players would walk out of camp a week from Wednesday, when the 14-day cooling-off period expires.

He said that he proposed Congressional investigation worried him somewhat, but that many active Senators and Representatives refused to sign.

"We're not afraid to put our record in collective bargaining before anyone."

So far, Thompson said, the clubs have lost a half million dollars each but the players have lost more "prestige" preseason pay and, in some cases, jobs.

Colts only direction for this year is up

By PETER BAYLOR
BALTIMORE (UPI) — The best thing going for the Baltimore Colts and head coach Tom Landry is the direction of this year's last year.

The Colts finished fourth in the AFC East in 1973 with a disappointing 4-10 record that made even the most ardent fans wonder on most Sundays just if the Colts would lose, but by how much. The only direction open for the Colts this year is up.

On the basis of two straight victories at the end of last season — and two preseason games played without many of the Colts' starting veterans, Schnellberger is optimistic. "This football team worked very hard and stayed together through some adversity last season," he said. "I'm optimistic this season will be a shoulder injury."

Veteran Raymond Chester is set at tight end, and Glenn Doughty and Cotton Speyer will be back as wide receivers. They may be pushed by the Colts' number one draft pick, Roger Carr of Louisiana State University.

But Carr's future as a regular has been placed in doubt by aching hamstring muscles.

"The defense is the offense is a mixture of question marks and reasons for hope."

Mike Curtis is back at middle linebacker. A solid 10-year veteran who general manager Joe Thomas calls the best in the business, Curtis missed half of last season with a shoulder injury. His presence in the Colts' final two games was a major reason they won both.

All-Pro linebacker Ted Hendricks was traded away as well as two offensive veterans who signed with World Football League teams.

Hendricks will be replaced by Tom Macaulay, voted Green Bay's rookie of the year last season by the Wisconsin football writers.

"I think he's a heckuva football player and he can't do anything but get better."

Looking ahead, the big issue on offense is the renewal of the Great quarterback debate.

Each of the principals, Domres and Bert Jones, has his supporters. The Express Tribune's Schnellberger should go with their favorite because he's the better, more experienced quarterback.

The argument for Jones is that he has more potential and should be given game experience, since the Colts are probably in for a lean year anyway.

Jones started the 1973 season at quarterback, but lost his job to Domres in the sixth game of the season.

Right now the job is up for grabs.

Assuming the player strike ends, the Colt quarterback will have some familiar faces around him. Lydell Mitchell, who set a new club single-season rushing record of 963 yards last year, will be teamed at running back with Don McCalley, who started in the first 11 games of the 1973 season and missed the season finale only because of a shoulder injury.

Another promising rookie is University of Massachusetts receiver Tim Berra, son of Pittsburgh's Yngi Berra. A 210-pound draft choice, Berra has been criticized as too slow and too small (5-11, 180 lbs.), but the strike has given coaches an opportunity to notice he has a sure pair of hands.

There are some indications that perhaps as many as a dozen rookies, including Berra, will be on the Colt team that faces the Steelers in Pittsburgh when regular season play begins Sept. 15.

Van Brocklin predicts Falcons will be strong

ATLANTA (UPI) — Coach Norm Van Brocklin thinks he has a potential winner if the Atlanta Falcons — all of them — perform as he thinks they can.

Naturally, the player strike has cast doubt on the prospects for a successful 1974 season. But if the striking veterans play-and-win, says Van Brocklin, the Falcons will be a stellar rookie crop, "I definitely be a contender," he says.

Van Brocklin hopes for a fast start in the first five games at home "in order to put ourselves into a position where if we have a lull in the middle of the season, it will have no effect on our season."

Lee-of-course, he's called "the general" around here — will be back as the No. 1 quarterback, and he'll still have an MVP trophy winner, as a backup. They could both be pressed, however, by rookie Ken McKinley, who threw for 2,243 yards at Lehigh last season and looked good in the Falcons' first pre-season game at a rookie-studded Philadelphia.

McKinley is only one of several rookies who have impressed Van Brocklin. Others include tight end Henry Hunter, Gerald Carter (the team's first draft choice) of Kent State and running backs: Moly McCrete of Hbndc Island and Dave Cook of Florida.

"We've got a lot of young men who can play this game," says Van Brocklin who praises their hustle. "That would be the reason a coach there's a strong belief in them."

"I see you going to Atlanta from the Vikings (picked up the Falcons) fortunes, which were at a 13-11 and piloted Atlanta to the top of the AFC West, including plays of Los Angeles and super boy-friend Minnesota. Dave Hampton, Eddie Bay and Art Malone are the top running backs but Malone will be out part of the season with a broken ankle suffered in practice. Tucker probably will move in as a wide receiver opposite veteran Ken Carter.

Tight end Jim Mitchell, one of the best will be playing in his final season after having decided to jump to the world football league.

Defensive end is one of the Falcons' strongest points in Claude Humphrey and John Zook, while middle linebacker Tony Stobbs, though a step slower, is a top hand at the position along with Dan Hansen and Greg Brezina.

The defensive secondary, which will be minus Ken Rexey who was traded to New Orleans, led the national conference in pass defense in 1973.

One of the best spots for winter ice fishing is Lake Simcoe in Ontario, Canada, where each year more than 4,000 fish hunters may be seen on the frozen lake.

Switzer insisted that having a good team will "great potential" is not enough. He says he is still worried about this season.

"Hell, yes, I'm worried," he said. "I'd be foolish not to be."

"Just having a good team doesn't guarantee winning on Saturday. Lots of things can happen on a Saturday, and the best team doesn't always win the game," he said.

Switzer did admit he felt good about his offensive team, which has practically the entire starting squad from last season returning.

"With so many returning starters I've got to feel good about that," he said.

The defense is an entirely different story. Most of the starters graduated and many new faces must be groomed before the Sept. 14 opener.

Returning quarterback Steve Davis said in a news conference he felt the defense would "grow up fast" and probably be every bit as good as last year's, which was one of the best the Saints have ever had.

"I wish someone would tell me the defense will be as good as last year," Switzer countered. "Our defense is as good, then I could tell you what kind of team we'd have."

"Oh, we beat 'em," Switzer responded, a twinkle in his eye. "But you know they must be good because Texas only beat them by one touchdown that year."

Switzer responded, a twinkle in his eye. "But you know they must be good because Texas only beat them by one touchdown that year."

Dolphins top Minnesota for Super Bowl replay

MIAMI (UPI) — Larry Csonka played for two touchdowns in the first half Monday night and the Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins, starting most of their regulars for the first time this year, pounded the Minnesota Vikings 21-9 in a manner resembling last year's Super Bowl.

The first half — when most veterans were in both lineups — looked almost like a replay of the Dolphins' grinding 24-7 victory over the Vikings in Super Bowl VIII.

Minnesota scored on a one-yard plunge by Dave Osborne and a 27-yard kickoff Fred Cox.

Market Review

NEW YORK LIQUID - Stocks opened higher on the New York Stock Exchange Tuesday. Trading was moderate. The Dow Jones industrial average had gained 2.74 to 724.58 shortly after the opening bell. Advances led declines by more than two-to-one among the 42 stocks traded. For the past eight sessions the Dow has lost a total of 75.72 points, closing Monday at a new four-year low of 724.04. Analysts attributed the steep market decline to investor concern over inflation, high interest rates and the situation in Cyprus, which has spiraled into American demonstrations and resulted in Greece's decision to withdraw its troops from NATO. Despite the wave of national news following President Nixon's resignation and President Ford's accession to the presidency, investors are doubtful about the future of the economy and fear a severe economic slowdown.
