Burger orders trial held

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, saying that Judge John J. Sirica knows what he is doing, has refused to grant any further delay in the Watergate cover-up trial set to begin Sept. 30.

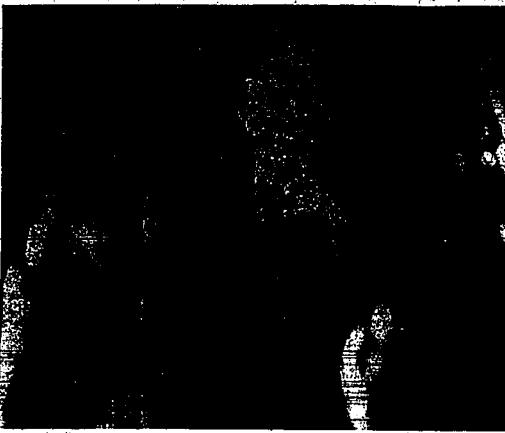

In a four-page opinion Wednesday, Burger turned down an emergency appeal from defendant John D. Ehrlichman that the trial be postponed as least until January on grounds of massive prejudicial publicity surrounding former President Nixon's resignation.

Frankie wins

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Frankie Laine, under orders from a U.S. judge to give a statement under oath about his alleged misbehavior, has had the action moved here from Salt Lake City and barring newsmen from the office.

The statement is sought in trial of a $2.5 million suit by Frank J. Weinstein, Salt Lake City, who alleges Sinatra and two of his cronies beat him up in a quarrel over Weinstein's wife at a Palm Springs, Calif., lounge.

Accepts question

PRESIDENT Gerald Ford is framed by raised hands of newsmen seeking acceptance of their questions during his first press conference in the White House Wednesday. The conference lasted 30 minutes and the press generally gave Ford high marks for his conduct. (UPI)

Israelis kill guerrilla suspects

By United Press International
Israeli soldiers patrolling the southern Golan Heights ceasefire line shot two men suspected of being Arab guerrillas, the military command said today.

There were no shots fired at the Israeli troops, the command said.

The brief encounter came late Wednesday night at the southern end of the line near a deep ravine which separates the Syrian and Israeli troops.

Posts fall

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist troops captured three government outposts in bitter attacks against the jungled defense line guarding the former imperial capital of Hue, military sources said today.

The attacks ended in an uneasy truce observed by government and Communist forces near Hue, South Vietnam's third largest city, since the Jan. 20, 1973, cease-fire.

Ford asks vet measure changes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford Wednesday urged Congress to rewrite a veterans benefits bill, cutting down large benefit increases for Vietnam-era veterans and eliminating inequities such as giving greater increases to able-bodied veterans than disabled ones.

Ford said a $973 million measure turned out by a House-Senate conference committee was inflationary, and that the $767 million bill which the House passed in an unexpected move just before the Labor Day recess "may be" inflationary.

Aide sues

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Dannie Johnson, 19, grand dragon of the Texas Flery Knights, has sued the city of Houston and a police captain for $25,000 "charging false arrest for wearing a Ku Klux Klan robe in public."

A short-term worker, Johnson, claimed he was arrested and held for several hours May 25. The police later dropped the charge. Johnson said he was wearing a white rose with KKK in reflectors on the back.

No tax increase planned in '74

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has no plans to request a tax increase this year, his White House spokesman said today.

J. F. Tolbert, White House news secretary, said Ford believes it would be "unrealistic" to propose any new taxes since Congress "is anxious to adjourn and could not possibly consider such legislation in the short time remaining."

Young Ford to watch Evel

TWIN FALLS — President Ford's son John (Jack) Ford and his secret service escort will arrive in Twin Falls for Evel Knievel's canyon jump.

Ford, a senior at Utah State University, will stay with a college friend, Brian Olmstead, son of Rep. Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls, at his home southeast of Twin Falls.

According to family sources, Ford will arrive with 12 secret service agents the day before Evel's Sept. 4 jump.

"It was not known how long Ford would remain in Twin Falls.

Gem air pollution rules said costly

BOISE — (UPI) — A consultant for the Idaho Power Co. testified today that the firm could meet proposed new air pollution control regulations for coal-fired plants "but only at a price to consumers."

J. Louis York, told the State Department of Health and Welfare at a hearing on the proposed new regulations that the price must be paid by the citizens of Idaho.

He could offer no precise cost figures. But York said the regulations will add 30 to 40 per cent to the cost of the plant. Idaho Power proposes to build in southwestern Idaho.

"In addition," York said, "operation of the control equipment will consume 15 to 20 percent of the power generated by the plant."

He said a further objection to the proposed regulations was that much of the control equipment does not have as high a reliability as the rest of the equipment in the plant. This, he said, could result in a plant to be shut down at times while control equipment is repaired.

Paul Pusey, Boise, said on behalf of the Associated General Contractors that the department should maintain flexibility in the new regulations in order to allow industry to meet the demands of the energy crisis.

But Janet Ward, Boise, urged the department of health of the American Association of University Women to adopt "and maintain stringent pollution control regulations."

She said the department should adopt air pollution control a non-degradation clause.

It has added for water pollution control.

In question is a regulation which will cover standards for sulfur dioxide and air pollution. Covered under the regulation would be fossil fuel fired steam generators, incinerators, Portland cement plants, nitrile acid plants, sulfite acid plants, asphalt concrete plants, petroleum refineries, storage vessels for petroleum liquids, secondary lead smelters, secondary brass and bronze ingot production plants, iron and steel plants, sewage treatment plants, kraft pulp mills and sulfite pulp mills.

Dr. Lee Stokes, administrator of the Environmental Quality Division of the department, said that in addition to control of emissions the proposed regulation also requires scheduled maintenance that is approved in advance by the department.

In the 30-minute conference nationally televised but held in the afternoon rather than the evening, as was customary for Nixon — Ford seemed relaxed.

In the same time, he made it clear that Leon Jaworski, the special prosecutor, had the responsibility to take whatever action he saw fit "against" any and all individuals.

As far as Jaworski's role, Ford added, "he is on his side." He contacted Jaworski about the case.

WASHINGTON — President Ford said Wednesday he subscribed to the belief that former President Richard M. Nixon had been punished enough for the Watergate scandal.

But he had left open the option of granting him protection from prosecution, or a pardon.

Ford addressed the question of Nixon's troubled future in his first news conference as President.

His statements clearly leaning toward leniency for his predecessor, followed those of other Republican leaders.

Taken together, they seemed designed to bring about a climate of public opinion in which some step could be taken that would spare Nixon prosecution or a prison term.

"But let me add," he said,

"in the last 10 days or two weeks I've asked for prayers for guidance on this important point. In this situation I am the final authority. There have been no charges made. There has been no action by the people, there's been no action by any court, there's been no legal process. It has been understood that it would be wise and uniformly for me to make a judgment."

At the same time, he made it clear that Leon Jaworski, the special prosecutor, had the responsibility to take whatever action he saw fit "against" any and all individuals.

As far as Jaworski's role, Ford added, "he is on his side." He contacted Jaworski about the case.

Soviet cosmonauts land safely in Asia

MOSCOW (UPI) — Two Soviet cosmonauts rode their space capsule back to earth early today, dropping through darkness and bad weather in a hair-raising descent apparently caused by trouble aboard the craft.

The official Tass news agency said the spacemen's grandfather, Lev Demin, 88 and his 32-year-old commander, Gennady Sarafanov — were "in good health" following the unprecedented, pre-dawn landing in Central Asia.

Western experts said the tricky and dangerous return of Soyuz 15 in adverse weather conditions suggested an emergency forced toward the craft, but Tass treated the landing as routine.

The news agency said Col. Demin and Lt. Col. Sarafanov landed the capsule soon after midnight in Soviet Kazakhstan.

about 30 miles from the city of Tashkent.

Tass explained the Soviet Union's first manned moon landing by saying most likely the two cosmonauts spent two weeks aboard the station, which was launched June 25.

Tass said ground recovery teams quickly evacuated the cosmonauts "in a difficult meteorological situation," but the news agency made no other comments about the bad weather conditions.

Western space experts said they had no doubt the two-day landing was a success.

Earlier, Tass said the spacemen made repeated attempts to re-enter the atmosphere, but failed because the capsule was too low.

Tass said ground recovery teams quickly evacuated the cosmonauts "in a difficult meteorological situation," but the news agency made no other comments about the bad weather conditions.

Western space experts said they had no doubt the two-day landing was a success.

Flight ended prematurely. They said there might have been trouble with the landing mechanism or problems mechanical as well as human inside the Soyuz capsule.

"Something must have gone wrong," one Western expert said. "They could not have accomplished anything significant in two days."

U.S. space officials in Washington said the Soyuz 15 flight would have no direct bearing on next year's planned return to American space.

The Soyuz program has been a major success.

plagued with problems. In the worst case, three Soviet astronauts died on their return to earth in 1971 after 24 days aboard the Soyuz 1 space lab. Scientists blamed the mishap on a faulty hatch cover.

Red unit overruns garrison

PINOM PENH (UPI) —

Cambodian Communists troops

overran the Chamkar Kor garrison Thursday 30 miles southwest of Phnom Penh on Highway 4, leaving about 100 outposts a 250 defenders mailed or dead, field reports said.

Chamkar Kor had been under heavy insurgent attack for the past two days. Field reporters said an order to abandon the outpost came down Thursday.

Survivors scattered to nearby outposts to the west and east of Chamkar Kor, the reports said. The post is located on the main highway between Phnom Penh and the American-built road.

It connects Phnom Penh with the deeper part city of Kompong Som, 134 miles southwest of the capital but it has been cut for months by Communist forces.

Further along Highway 4, field reports said, rebel gunners poured 400 rounds of captured American-made 105mm artillery shells onto the post, which had a 400-man government garrison at Kompong Som, 60 miles south of Phnom Penh.

Field reporters said three persons were killed and 25 wounded at Kompong Som, which has been shelled daily for the past three months by visitors.

Day-care center readied

TWIN FALLS — A local group of parents is organizing a day-care center which they plan to open this fall.

The "full-day" child care program will be operated in the St. Edward's School building with cost tentatively set at $150 a day per child. Children 3 to 6 years old will be admitted, with toilet training a requirement.

The group is composed of Head Start parents who are concerned at the lack of reasonably-priced day care facilities in the area. The termination of the full-day Head Start program last May left many parents with no satisfactory day care for their children for one-half of each day.

"We feel there is a need for a good, low-cost day care center in Twin Falls," said Leona Bascom, one of the parent organizers.

At least one full-time teacher will be hired to coordinate the program. The parents group is operating the center as a cooperative, and parents will assist in teaching organizational or administrative tasks, or by doing service in the form of tasks, errands and other needed items.

The parents group hopes to open the center the day Head Start begins its fall classes which is Sept. 16.

Meetings are being held to plan for the center. The next meeting is scheduled for Sept. 4, Tuesday, at 7:30 at St. Edward's Schools. For more information contact Leona Bascom or Carol Rocaneaga at 733-9351.

PTA conducts fall workshop

TWIN FALLS — The importance of communication between the local, state, and national PTA boards was stressed by Mrs. John Hayes Tuesday night.

She was guest speaker at the Twin Falls PTA Council sponsored fall workshop.

SHOWING her doll is Shelly Urwiler, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Urwiler. Jackpot, who will be a pupil at new day-care center to be opened this fall by a group of parents.

Sewer bond denied

SALMON — Williams Lake property owners have voted against a proposed sewer bond while approving a water system.

The 31-23 vote failed to reach the required two-thirds majority required.

The action came Tuesday when voters decided to allow the county to issue a $750,000 bond issue to finance both sewer and water systems.

The question of legality of the vote was raised Wednesday as a result of legal advertising which limited those who could vote to resident property owners.

Milton Slavin, attorney for the Williams Lake Sewer and Water District, advised that three days prior to the election it was learned that a law enacted the past session of the Idaho Legislature permitted all property owners to vote.

In the case of Williams Lake, Slavin noted the question now arises whether the Farmers Home Administration will approve a loan under those circumstances.

The matter will be checked out with a special bonding council in Denver for clarification, Slavin said.

Property owners were notified by word of mouth that they could vote but not all property owners were contacted and there was no legal notification, Slavin indicated.

Performance set Saturday

KETCHUM — The last performance of the 1974 summer season of the Antelope Festival Theatre will be held Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at Easley's campground.

The troupe will perform "Mistress of the Inn," an 18th century "comedy." The company has "played its summer repertoire before an estimated 10,000 persons throughout Idaho and two appearances at Expo '74 in Spokane."

Some of the actors are preparing to return to college and others will go to other acting jobs.

Rehearsals for the fall tour will start Sept. 1 at the American Legion Hall in Hailey.

Grange dinner planned

KING HILL — Plans for the "Hi Neighbor" potluck dinner were made at the Tuesday evening meeting of the King Hill Grange.

The 34 new area families will receive invitations to the dinner on Sept. 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the King Hill Grange Hall. Mrs. Dick Rote was named dinner chairman for the affair. Mr. and Mrs. William Kenyon were accepted as new members.

During the lecturer's hour, Mrs. T. M. Timbers, lecturer, gave a "resume" of early American Colonial history, which began in 1776. She asked every Granger to be alert to seeing clothing of the period, by borrowing or purchasing articles so that they may celebrate the 200th anniversary of America in 1976 in a proper way. She has written a skirt for the occasion.

Election of officers will be held the second September meeting of the 25th. Mr. and Mrs. Garland Brightwell and son Gary were on the refreshment committee.

Petitions back center

TWIN FALLS — County commissioners in Twin Falls have received petitions with 75 signatures supporting the purpose and continuation of the Magic Valley Living Center.

Commissioners said there are no addresses given for the persons signing the petition. In their petition, the signers state they believe retarded children are entitled to all services and essentials of a normal life style and have the right to be understood, respected and helped. The signers say this should pertain to all children regardless of age, status and background.

Another petition stating the

Magic Valley Living Center

is an important need and provides a service to the community have been submitted by 21 signers. Again no addresses are given.

Commissioners say the latest petitions were brought to them by citizens concerned by

Mrs. Walter Snow, 72, of

Earlier petitions with about

65 signatures were submitted asking the county and state to take action to close and discontinue the Magic Valley

Living Center. These persons who gave their addresses reside within a five-mile radius of the center located west of Twin Falls.

The center, a home for retarded adults, is privately operated. Residents petitioning to have it discontinued charge there are many adults and children at the center who are without suitable supervision and constitute a danger and nuisance in their area.

One of the former residents, Richard Lee Huffman, 23, is charged with first degree murder in the Aug. 7 knifing of Stephanie Whitesides, 30.

News at the auction block

The Idaho State Land Board has set a dangerous precedent in its attempt to auction exclusive television rights to film Evel Knievel's landing.

The state agency apparently decided it might as well join the rush to milk Evel's trans-continent leap for everything it is worth. It voted to set a $50,000 minimum bid for rights to set up live television cameras on the north side of the Canyon on state-owned land near where Evel is scheduled to land.

Such action is not appropriate.

The Land Board is partially correct. It is right to try to make a maximum financial return for land under its control. It would be appropriate, under such circumstances, to charge high fees for use of the northside land for profit-making sideshows accompanying Evel's jump.

But is the state within its rights when it attempts to sell rights to cover news? A major public news event becomes public property and should be open to the public. The state may impose reasonable restrictions on the number and conduct of newsmen attending such an event when matters of safety or order are involved. But the state cannot arbitrarily pick and choose among newsmen seeking to cover such an event. If such behavior became standard there would soon be little freedom of the press, as public agencies could begin choosing reporters on the basis of favorable news reports. The reporter's role soon would be defined by the public agencies involved, or else he would be barred from coverage in the first place.

The fact that such rights are being sold only adds insult to injury. The principle of news choice then degenerates to "money talks."

The rights of the press extend to every citizen. The one-man newspaper printed on a mimeograph machine should have the same access to public events as the powerful and wealthy New York Times. KMVT's cameras should have the same access to Evel's landing as does CBS.

There is no real reason why even thousands of newsmen could not record Evel's landing from the northside state land. It would be a fairly simple matter to arrange for their safety by moving them back a safe distance from the impact area.

To do otherwise would be to arbitrarily close public land from public use and tamper dangerously with free flow of information to Idaho's citizenry.

WASHINGTON — Unless he has undergone a change of mind since entering the White House, President Ford opposes any "tinkering" with the present tax structure to combat inflation.

He also is "worried" about interest rates, and believes that if the Federal Reserve can be induced to produce a "modest" decline for that has "no simple or easy answer."

President Ford will eventually decide what actions to take, if any, based upon the ideas presented at the various meetings. He also will preside over the summit, which is expected to be televised.

Frosts' views on inflation contained in an interview in the August issue of Dun's Review, a business monthly, were expressed in the last days of his vice presidency. They take on added significance with the scheduling of 10 regional meetings prior to a domestic summit conference on the sagging economy here Sept. 27-29.

The pre-summit sessions, starting with a conference of leading economists which Ford will chair on Sept. 5, are designed to involve every segment of the public in a national dialog on how to control inflation, according to a William Seldman, a Ford associate and executive director of the top-level economic policy staff.

As to cutting a taxpayer margin, Frosts' prediction of the summer of the world's series or superpower, Americans like nothing better than to give their personal views on how to deal with inflation and the "margin tinkerer" is likely to be overflowing with ideas by the time it convenes here in late September.

Although the summit is not conceived to be a "decision-making apparatus," Seldman says, it will be a forum for "the best brains" that can be brought to produce a "modest" decline for that has "no simple or easy answer."

President Ford will eventually decide what actions to take, if any, based upon the ideas presented at the various meetings. He also will preside over the summit, which is expected to be televised.

PETER LISAGOR

In his interview with Dun's Review, Ford said he believes that through slowdowns and eliminations in federal spending, the current budget of projected $305 billion can be cut back to $280 billion. He also disagreed with Simon's judgment that $20 billion could be cut in federal spending.

Asked if he were "worried" that interest rates

"could tip the economy into a really deep recession," Ford replied:

"I am worried about interest rates. I hope that the federal reserve, since it sees that there is an honest-to-goodness effort being made in fiscal policy, will not be so tough."

He acknowledged that there was "danger" of an optimistic toughness, but added that he was "optimistic once Arthur Burns [chairman of the Federal Reserve Board] and his associates are convinced that fiscal policy is going to be a firm one, they will then relax their attitude on the supply of money."

In response to a question on an acceptable inflation rate, Ford said he thought it was too high at 4 per cent. "But when you are dealing with 10 per cent or 11 per cent, if at the end of the calendar year it is down to 12 per cent, I think that is significant progress — not acceptable, but significant, and ought to lay the groundwork for 1975 for additional progress."

He said he was against a tax increase, "decisions, or changes in corporate income taxes."

"I think rather than tinkering now in a period of uncertainty, and in a period of perhaps hysteria in some areas, it is better to keep a positionist stand," he said. "The mere threat of some changes I think adds to uncertainty, and we have enough of it now."

JAMES
KILPATRICK

Very well. The press, which is meant to great newspapers and the TV networks, may have erred from time to time in its coverage of the Watergate story. Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward concede in their best-selling book, there were certain excesses of zeal. It is that, though irrelevant to the main charge, that the press never gave Presidents Johnson and Kennedy the carpet-beating treatment it gave Richard Nixon. The Record isn't perfect.

But the record of the press is amazingly good. Corruption in high office is news. Gross corruption in the highest office is big news. The Watergate story, taken as a whole, dealt with unparalleled corruption of the presidential office. In terms of politics and government, Watergate was — the biggest news story since Hayes-Ridley in 1876. Does the gentleman speak more maturely? In Watergate we found American statesmen.

Did the press hound Nixon off of office? I don't think it absolutely. It was not the press that burglarized the Democratic national headquarters. It was not the press that laundered dirty money through Mexican banks. It was not the press that overwheeled the involvement of top officials of the re-election committee.

The press did not hire a quid pro quo trickster and set him to writing anonymous letters. The press had a part in preparing an "enemies" list — to be used in harassing the press. Our editors extorted illegal campaign contributions. CBS did not pull the FBI on Daniel Schorr. The media did not involved in erasing tapes and falsifying transcripts.

These acts were the responsibility of the president and the president's men. In the beginning, the press, chiefly Bernstein and Woodward — exposed some of these acts; but as the story gained momentum, the role of the press was largely to report the evidence exposed by the courts and by Congress. When the dam finally broke on Aug. 5, the president's resignation was impelled by a flood of denunciations from his disillusioned supporters on the Hill.

Yes the press is powerful, and yes, the press here and there has abused its power. But I will not buy into the "as if" description of the charge that such journalists as Carl Bernstein and Woodward drove Nixon from office. The fault was not in these stars, but in himself.

Staying in the Kitchen

Some marginal people in US heroes

(c) New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — I read in the papers recently that there are 500 million marginal people on the earth.

These are people the world can't use. There is no job for them, no place for them in jobs, maternal natural resources, not enough arable land, not enough food. Socially and economically, they are useless. If not worse, since they cause political upheaval, high taxes and slums.

It must be despicable being one of the world's marginal people. Knowing that the blue-chip people with whom you just disappear cannot help self-esteem; living in the margin must cheerless and demeaning.

Even at its best, as in the United States where old people in the margin — due on pet foods and marginal mothers are tyrannized by welfare bureaucrats, the sustainability offered by a robust state is potentially threatening.

Marginal people in America have become marginal now, soon if the economists are correct. These are the people who will have to move off the unemployment list as inflation shoves down the economy. Official economists are talking about unemployment going as high as 6 per cent before inflation begins to slow down, and pessimists are talking about 7 per cent.

These are only guesses by people whose guesses have lately been wrong. In regularly, but everybody seems to do it, that is to say, to have to move more people out into the cold of the margin before we stabilize the price of milk.

And afterword, what? Shall we go on in old-style abusing them, as they are — we are — failures, shameless takers of government handouts. If the losers' people have let the country down?

These traditional views rest on the notion that work is good and that people who work are, therefore, good — too — and ought — not — to be burdened with the support of people who don't work (bad).

Surely, however, this traditional view fails to reflect economic reality. If more people must go into the margin to halt inflation, then the people who go are doing great service to the state.

I am not naive about this. I realize that there is a serious obstacle to recruitment. This is the national faith in a conviction that working is ethical and not working isn't.

The government can change this with its propaganda machinery.

If the country needs fewer workers, not more, it has every reason to preach the nobility of non-work ethic. Uncle Sam needs idlers. That should be its slogan.

Once we lured into the margin all the additional people necessary to save the dollar, what would we do with them? That's where the distinctive liberal button they could be proud of, I think, comes in: a slogan of unemployment compensation until the crisis passed, and then, after enough time had gone by, go back to wishing they would disappear, like all old heroes.

BAKER

And afterward, what? Shall we go on in old-style abusing them, as they are — we are — failures, shameless takers of government handouts. If the losers' people have let the country down?

Scandal threatens US arms aid end

(c) New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Blatant misuse of American military aid by the ousted Greek military dictatorship is about to be exposed in a major international scandal — threatening the permanent end of U.S. military aid to Greece and widening the dangerous Washington-Athens breach.

Washington, Aug. 29 — After months of becoming marginal now, soon if the economists are correct. These are the people who will have to move off the unemployment list as inflation shoves down the economy. Official economists are intervening militarily on Cyprus. But when the junta mobilized the Greek reserves, military stores of U.S.-aid rifles, ammunition, boats, machine guns and rockets were discovered to be totally inadequate.

Evans and Novak

Crates of the American M-16 rifle, for one example, were found to contain one or two layers or rifles at the top, rocks, wood and other filler material hidden underneath.

The full extent of the disappearance of American arms aid is still not known. Some well-intended experts believe strategies perpetrated by several years of Greek military rule believe the arms were sold to cash for foreign countries possibly in Black Africa, behind the backs of military commanders.

High officials here are "unaware" of the Karanitis-Mavros investigation which revealed the junta's inability to mobilize the Greek Reserve. That investigation is now centered on three major military depots: Attica, the site in the Athens-Piraeus area of major Greek military installations; Larissa, in central Greece, the headquarters of the First Army; and Salonika, Greece's second city and the headquarters of the Third Army Corps.

Although administration officials are in the dark, key members of Congress — committee chairmen of the foreign relations and armed services committees of both Senate and House — have been apprised of the scandal by Elias Demetropoulos, the best-informed anti-junta Greek exile here the past seven years.

Key congressional committee members, including one senator who supported U.S. military aid to Greece even during the military dictatorship, will soon demand a complete investigation by the General Accounting Office (GAO), congressional "watchdog" over government spending.

"But if the GAO probe shows that there was wholesale abuse of reluctant aid to the government of Karanitis,"

Even without the scandal, restoration of aid to Greece is considered — the fact that Karanitis' known to anti-American sentiment by withdrawing from Nato's military organization and accepting Moscow's formula for a political settlement on Cyprus.

The impact of a finding by GAO that large amounts of American aid were puffed or squandered would radically advance the argument against foreign aid widespread in Congress and fanned by neo-isolationism. In this way, too, the chickens of U.S. support for a clique of primitive greek colonels are coming home to roost with a vengeance.

AEC imposes few penalties

(c) New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — The Atomic Energy Commission regularly finds safety violations in more than one out of three of the facilities it inspects.

However, it imposes a penalty in only a small fraction of even the most serious of these cases, commission records show.

For the year ending June 30, for example, commission inspectors found a total of 3,131 violations in 1,200 of the 3,047 installations they examined.

According to the commission's own definition, of those charges were considered the most serious of three categories of violation and posed a health threat in that they caused, or were likely to cause, radiation exposures to employees or the public in excess of permitted limits. This involved the release of radioactive materials in the environment beyond permitted limits or were a security threat.

During the year, its inspectors found more than

Watergate press plea not guilty

WASHINGTON — Out in Albuquerque, N.M., the other evening, I addressed the annual dinner of the National Legislative Conference.

It was perhaps a mistake for a speaker to talk about Richard Nixon at all.

But I began by recalling the tragedy of a president who had resigned his office because of the certainty of impeachment and the probability of conviction.

"Horse manure!" cried a gentleman on the deck of the speaker's platform. "The press drove him out!"

"Nonsense!" I replied.

The gentleman departed. I persevered, and the conference adjourned. But it occurs to me that, while "horse manure" is a sufficiently definitive accusation, "Nonsense!" is hardly a comprehensive reply. The gentleman's charge merits a more measured answer.

The charge is widely attested in my mail. A gentlewoman in New Orleans writes that the "dirty" press is the product of the press. A gentleman in Fayette, Mo., identifies himself as one of "many millions of Americans who firmly believe the American press drove Nixon out of office." A gentleman in Vienna, Va., says: "The news media must share the major responsibility in this tragic happening."

But the record of the press is amazingly good. Corruption in high office is news. Gross corruption in the highest office is big news. The Watergate story, taken as a whole, dealt with unparalleled corruption of the presidential office. In terms of politics and government, Watergate was — the biggest news story since Hayes-Ridley in 1876. Does the gentleman speak more maturely?

Ford may be GOP's savior from 1974 disaster

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican ovation that greeted President Ford's maiden speech before Congress was more than a heartfelt tribute to an old friend. It also was the signal that his political voyage had begun.

Barely three weeks ago, the GOP was taking water fast on the shoals of infatuation and scandal, and facing a tidal wave of state and congressional election losses in November unmatched since the Goldwater debacle of 1964.

The White House says Ford intends to seek a full term in 1976. Ford would be the front runner for the nomination without announcing it. But much more than an elected President, his political fate depends on how he handles his new job.

If the country is in trouble

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Constant scratch worrying spouse

By GEORGE THOSTERSON, M.D.

Dr. Thosterson: My husband has a skin disease problem. It is so bad that it worries me, anyway. It is so bad he scratches himself until he bleeds, even in his sleep. He scratches mostly in his groin and on his legs.

Two doctors said it was eczema and one said it was something he was born with. It's in his system and he has it.

Could you tell us about eczema, the cure, how does it start, is there some way we can treat it? — C.G.

"Eczema" is what we call a "wastebasket" term — a general term that means an itchy rash. There are all sorts of causes, but most of them are in the nature of allergy — a sensitivity to something or other.

In babies, "eczema" can result from allergies to foods at times; also allergic to various substances that touch them, Wool, for one.

To that extent it may be "something you are born with," but I vigorously dispute the idea that you "just have to live with it."

The location of your husband's itching could be an important clue. It could, for example, be something to do with his underwear — his shorts changing to some other Democratic ranks, "A recent poll by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a narrow percentage lead if the election were today."

In a very real way, Ford may be his party's rescue from disaster this fall. Another pollster, projecting a GOP loss of 54 House seats if Richard Nixon remained in office, but may be 29 or less if he had departed before the election.

If Nixon would mean Ford saved 15 Republican House seats, simply by becoming President since his departure.

Try these things: If they don't give up, go to a skin specialist or to an allergist and get some special help in tracking down the source of the trouble.

BURLEY, Ore. — Keith R. Warren, son of Mrs. Rose A. Glover, Burley, is attending U.S. Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps field training at MacDill Air Force Base, Florida.

During the encampment, cadets receive survival and small arms training and aircraft and a crew indoctrination. They also have the opportunity to observe careers in which they might wish to serve as Air Force Officers.

The cadet is a student at the University of Oregon.

Cadet Warren is a 1974 graduate of Lake Oswego, Ore., High School. His father, Kenneth C. Warren, resides at Palmdale, Calif.

throughout 1975, it is entirely possible that one or more Republicans will challenge him.

If he does a good job and gets breaks at home and abroad, Ford probably can have his party's nomination for the nomination go to the campaign finance to win off anyone now in sight in the succession — effectively eliminated Watergate as a campaign issue.

To higher Republican joys, the Democrats proved they were as divided as ever last weekend in Kansas City when their charter-writing committee broke up in public brawling. The two main elements split the old guard-labor regulars coalition.

Then Ford chose former Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York to be vice president.

"I cannot remember a day when I have been more joyful," said Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott.

Scott chose to bring the long-time leader of the GOP's liberal wing into the administration rankled Rockefeller's old conservative foes but cheered John J. Rhodes of Arizona, the conservative-minded House Republican leader.

Rhodes saw Rockefeller as a way to unify and broaden the base of the party — essential for a serious bid for control of Congress. The GOP has not held demanding his resignation or impeachment.

Ford will want help GOP candidates because his long association with Congress is not enough. In politics, the question always is "what have you done for me lately?" The best answer for a President is looking for ally in Congress is to help get him there.

Suddenly, all bets were off, including talk by AFL-CIO agents of a "veto-proof" Democratic Congress that would mean gains of at least 42 seats in the House and four in the Senate.

Rockefeller, a pragmatic compromiser and one of the GOP's highest fund raisers, may be forced to come to Washington for lengthy confirmation hearings in the House and Senate that may extend beyond the Nov. 5 elections.

Nevertheless, with Watergate ebbing in the public mind, Ford can — and early reports say he will — campaign for GOP congressional candidates in the fall without having to concern front-line demonstrators on television demanding his resignation or impeachment.

Ford will want to help GOP candidates because his long association with Congress is not enough. In politics, the question always is "what have you done for me lately?" The best answer for a President is looking for ally in Congress is to help get him there.

Ford probably will firmly announce his intentions and settle things in 1976. Among them will be his own party's picture of mature health and vigor, and his performance in the House and as vice president indicates he enjoys both politics and public office.

At age 66, Rockefeller does not pose a potential threat to Ford's 1976 prospects because of his age. Any Rockefeller effort to advance his own interests while serving as vice president would not likely sit well with the party.

Pole sets visit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will meet in Washington with Polish Communist Party leader Lech Gierek Oct. 8, the White House announced Wednesday. Deputy Press Secretary John Hushen said Gierek, first secretary of the Polish United Workers Party, would be making an official visit and would be the highest ranking leader of his country to come to the United States since the end of World War II.

Romanians falter

LONDON (UPI) — Romania tried but failed to mediate in the Sino-Soviet conflict during the simultaneous presence in Bucharest last week of high Kremlin and Peking leaders, diplomatic sources said today.

Romania follows a "highly independent course within the Soviet bloc. In the past it has played a active and successful role in the improvement of relations between the United States and

But Kusign returned to Moscow quickly. Nor was there any indication that the Chinese were willing to talk.

Moscow apparently saw nothing in the meaningful negotiations while Chinese Mao Tse-tung remains in office.

The Soviets are believed to be marking time in the hope that after Mao leaves the scene, chances may improve for a Sino-Soviet reconciliation.

Gunmen kidnap Mexico statesman

GUADALAJARA — Mexico (UPI) — Soldiers sealed off Mexico's second largest city today in a desperate search for President Luis Echeverria's 81-year-old father-in-law, kidnapped by guerrilla gunmen on a Guadalajara street.

Troops ringed the city with roadblocks while local police and federal officials conducted a systematic search of cars and houses for the kidnapped 41-Guadalajara Zuno Hernandez, a political power in Mexico for half-century.

"At the moment we have no certain clues," a spokesman for the Jalisco state attorney general's office said in Guadalajara.

Police said Zuno Hernandez was riding in his chauffeured limousine through a poor district of Guadalajara Wednesday when four gunmen forced his car off the road.

Authorities said the statesman bent up in a sheltered doorway, dazed him into unconsciousness and then sped off.

A Mexican City radio station said the guerrillas were demanding $1 million ransom and the release of 100 political prisoners for Zuno Hernandez.

Echeverria's wife, Maria Esther, flew to Guadalajara as soon as she learned of her father's abduction. Security agents shielded her from newsmen and she went to the home of a brutal Revolutionary Armed Front of the People, a left-wing guerrilla group responsible for the kidnapping of U.S. Consul Terence Loewen.

Claimed credit for Zuno's kidnapping, police said.

The government freed 30 political prisoners to win Leopoldo's release, but since he had adamantly refused to negotiate with guerrillas.

The kidnapping seemed a mad act in a mad nation.

Echeverria's speech

said there will be additional Soyuz flights related to preparations for next year's mission.

Yardley said Russian space officials seem to be bending over backwards to work with their American counterparts, and "we're quite pleased with the cooperation that we've gotten from the Russians."

He said, if Soyuz-15 had troubles in any systems that might be used in the spacecraft for the final flight, he expected the Russians would make every effort to correct them so the joint mission would go well.

Fletcher said in a statement that the Russians said the successful Soyuz-12 spaceflight was designed to test equipment for the joint flight.

He also said the Russian spacecraft was not equipped with the new docking, an apparatus which will be used in next summer's joint mission.

U.S. and Soviet engineers concluded the design of the new docking system and Russia's prototype is undergoing tests at the Johnson Space Center at Houston.

The new design differs from both the current Apollo and Soyuz docking systems, and will be used on future spacecraft of both nations to facilitate space rescues.

Fletcher said in a statement that the Russians said the successful Soyuz-12 spaceflight was designed to test equipment for the joint flight.

There has been no confirmation, however, that Soyuz-15 had trouble during its two days in orbit.

John F. Yardley, associate NASA administrator in charge of manned spaceflight, told a meeting of the National Space spacecraft was not equipped with the new docking, an apparatus which will be used in next summer's joint mission.

Club that the Soyuz 15

Conference in deadlock

CARACAS (UPI) — The 10-week U.N. Sea-Law conference ended in deadlock today, but delegates expressed hope a new treaty governing the world's oceans can be negotiated at two follow-up sessions next year.

"There is no clause for billing the conference a failure," John R. Stevenson, Argentina's special ambassador to the talks, said.

Stevenson said the 1,500 delegates from 148 nations "have virtually completed the technical job" necessary for drafting a new treaty.

He predicted the delegates would return to Venezuela next year to sign a treaty after expected hard work at a scheduled March 17-24 meeting.

The conference, called to rewrite the 17th century sea code still in use, ended its deliberations deadlocked between rich and poor nations on the four main issues needing agreement for a draft treaty.

"The next step is for governments to make political decisions necessary to resolve a small number of critical issues," Stevenson told a news conference.

The four issues — fishing

agreement were: definition of territorial sea limits, deep sea mining, pollution control and lawful right of way in the many narrow straits joining bodies of water.

The developing nations want virtual sovereign control over a 200-mile sea.

The industrial nations, led by the United States and Russia, want a 12-mile territorial sea limit and a 10-mile economic zone open to other nations for fishing and scientific research.

Cheese alternates OK'd for schools

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Children eating in school lunchrooms can now be given "cheese alternates" made with vegetable oil.

Agriculture Department officials said they have approved the use of substitute cheeses products if local officials want to use them to help cut costs. The products may be made from conventional ingredients such as milk and animal proteins and animal or vegetable fats.

The new substitutes cannot be used alone, however. Officials said they must be mixed with natural cheese.

A regulation permitting use of the cheese substitutes will take effect Aug. 29.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We drove 500 miles to attend the wedding of our son who was to be in the bridal party. The wedding was to take place at 4 P.M. on Saturday. On the way to the church, during the wedding, the bride and groom got into a fight and this caused the bride's nose to be broken.

What do we do with the wedding gift we were going to give to the church? Who pays for the tuxedo our son rented for the occasion and never got to wear? And how about the hotel bill?

I think the bride's parents who invited us here for nothing should help us out. Should we ask them to?

STUCK IN ILLINOIS

Broken
beak

DEAR STUCK: That's what you are. Stuck. Stuck for the wedding gift—unless you can return it. You're stuck for sure for your son's rented tuxedo, and you're stuck for the hotel bill.

And no, don't ask the bride's parents to help you out. They've got enough trouble trying to comfort a bride with a broken nose.

DEAR ABBY: My husband died very suddenly not long ago. It was a terrible shock as he had been in the best of health and had no warning whatsoever. We had 43 good years together, which is more than many couples have, but somehow, I still feel cheated.

I was in such a state of shock when this happened that my eldest daughter took care of all the arrangements for three weeks. When I returned to my own home, I was unable to find that every trace of my beloved husband had been removed. Not one thing belonging to him remained!

My two daughters and one son (all married) took it upon themselves to go through my house and dispose of all their father's clothes.

I broke right down and wept. They tried to explain that they thought they had done me a big favor.

Abby, wasn't it MY right to dispose of my late husband's things in my own good time? Perhaps I wanted some memento.

It's too late in my case, but please print this for others who one day may presume to do what my children did.

CRUSHED

DEAR CRUSHED: Please consider the motivation. They undoubtedly wanted to spare you what they thought would be an agonizing task. But you make a good point. Perhaps they should have.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old male college student. I am being married in the near future. Both my parents would like to have a big wedding and invite our many friends, but the cost would empty their parents' pocketbook.

My fiancée and I feel that the tradition—that says—her parents must foot the bill for the wedding is entirely outmoded but I'm afraid her folks would feel hurt if my parents offered to help in any way.

As it stands now, my future in-laws feel a bit inadequate alongside my well-to-do family.

If you can come up with a solution, it would be a most welcome early wedding gift.

DOOMED GROOM

DEAR DOOMED: Why not break with tradition in the interest of common sense? Perhaps your future in-laws wouldn't be as "hurt" as you think if you ask them. If they refuse to go the traditional route, and after you return from your honeymoon, your parents can throw a party for you and all your friends.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MARK: Lose her. She has a "girl" complex.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $4 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Luckey Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Miss Huish, Wright wed in temple rites

TWIN FALLS — Janette Huish and Cory Wright were united in marriage in rites at the Salt Lake LDS Temple.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Huish, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lester Wright, Provo, Utah.

Elder William H. Bennett, assistant to the temple president, performed the double ceremony in the presence of relatives and close friends.

The bride's gown was duchess organza over polyester crepe with a gathered skirt and bodice in the empire line. The sheer striped yoke was accented with ruffles, venise lace trim and covered buttons. The high neck was edged with matching lace with straight sheer sleeves and ruffle trim. The shawl train was offfitted at the waist with venise lace trimming at the edges.

The bride's bouquet was of yellow daisy poms, yellow and white roses, baby breath and sprenger with a "detachable corsage of white roses."

Attending the bride was her sister Nancy Huish, maid of honor; Debbie Wright, Elaine Horrell, Provo, Utah; Carolyn Hall, Debbie Skinner, Polly Moloney, Kim Thomas and Cindy Carlson, all Twin Falls; her bridesmaids; Merrill Lee and Marlene Giles of Garland, Utah, cousins of the bride; were flower girls.

King persuaded not to wed teen now

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI) — Pressure by women's organizations has helped convince King Abdul Halim Shah of Malaya not to take a teenaged beauty queen as his second wife until his five-year term as monarch expires next year, government sources said today.

Muslim kings are elected by their fellow sultans of the nine Malaysian states. Halim's reign ends a year from next month, when he will revert to being sultan of Kedah state.

Prime Minister Tuanku Abdul Razak persuaded the handsome Halim, 46, during a round of golf Wednesday to postpone the wedding, government sources said. Razak intended his intended second wife is Zubaidah Bintangam, 19, a student who recently won a beauty contest sponsored by a shopping center. Her father is a mechanic.

The sources said the king had planned to marry Zubaidah next week. Razak gave new news of the postponement to about 300 women's organization delegates who had gathered at his residence today.

Muslim religious law permits a man to have up to four wives at a time provided he can support all of them.

Halim's wife is Tengku Bahiyah, 43, daughter of the first king of Malaysia, Tuanku Abdul Rahman. They have a son and a daughter.

Government sources said the main reason Halim wants to marry again is that Tengku Bahiyah cannot bear him any more children. He wants a male heir to his throne in Kedah.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
There is a certain abomination that is used in connection with not opening a club. It is the so-called "open-and-closed" club-opening, with three small or a doubleton.

South can make a grand slam in hearts, if he just pulls one round of trumps and then crosscuts. Six hearts will make the take two rounds of trumps, if he pulls all East's trumps, he will hold himself in five.

However, South never opened four-card majors. Most five-card majorities would make an exception and open one heart, but South was going to rise and fall with a silly short club.

Everything might have been fine if good old West hand's stuck in a nonvulnerable four-grade club. North went along to show off his Blackwooded, but settled for a six-club bid, in spite of South showing both missing aces.

East was too happy to double. He just maintained and collected three trump tricks.

Population unit revises policies

(C) New York Times Service

BUCHAREST — Debate here got down-literally-to-the problems of using a single command, whether a word should be "would" or "should," and finally a document-writer delegate from India asked that such be settled by immediate vote.

"We haven't had a hot meal in five days," she said plaintively. Then a British delegate suggested the use of "could" as a compromise between would and should.

This is the United Nations World Population Conference after 10 days neared the end. Its pick-and-shovel work Wednesday night prepared a two-line final "declaration" of parliamentary formality to put a seal of approval on its deliberations.

The 135-nation conference's focal 93-point "plan of action" — a set of suggested guidelines for nations in formulating population policies — has been laboriously revised almost line by line.

Reaching completion of a massive secretarial job, no one was sure of the final details that had emerged from the avalanche of 340 proposed amendments to the draft plan prepared at a series of pre-conference United Nations.

What was clear was that the declaration had been radically reworded.

The original thrust was that excessive population threatened world peace and resources, and that population limitation should be a major component of development policies.

As revised, population limitation was pointedly subordinated to economic and social development itself as the prime means of rationalizing population growth.

In effect, nations are laudatory or indifferent to population limitation; history of "naturally" declining fertility and passed it back at them saying, "If that way was good enough for you, why isn't it good enough for us?"

The change in the declaration's tone was attributable largely to the fact that the underdeveloped nations — which were less active in the original drafting process — outnumbered the advanced nations by more than four to one. And in the United Nations, where one of the world's population growth is now approaching 80 million persons a year — is centered in the less affluent, so-called world nations of Asia, Africa and Latin America, and while some of them are concerned about excessive population and resultant dilution of capital and material resources, the debate here has shown that those nations are far more preoccupied with development.

Nixon attorney

HERBERT J. MILLER, attorney for former attorney general Richard Kleindienst, has been retained by former President Richard Nixon to represent him in Watergate-related court matters in the nation's capital. (UPI)

Abrams still listed 'serious'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Army Chief of Staff Gen. Creighton W. Abrams is suffering from two separate bad clots, one in the leg and one in the lung, his doctors said Wednesday.

Abrams, who had a cancerous rectal tumor 12 weeks ago, entered his second straight week listed in "serious but stable" condition by the hospital.

LONDON (UPI) — One of the world's top military authorities said today the Soviet navy has surpassed the United States in submarines, missiles and cruisers, and is challenging America's aircraft carrier supremacy.

"It is a very powerful fighting force," the authoritative Jane's Fighting Ships said in a foreword to its 1974-75 edition.

Jane's said the U.S. Navy's building program could in the next six years give it a fleet "more adequate to the second to none."

The Lutherford analysis

said the chief Soviet naval weaknesses are manpower and submarines, including at least one nuclear-powered vessel, and the world's largest fleet of small ships.

The present Chinese fleet

may well be only the forerunner of one of the world's greatest navies of the near future," it said.

Jane's said the Soviet navy leads the world in seaborne missile armament, both strategic and tactical, both ship and submarine launched.

Its short-range air force is second to none.

The Lutherford analysis

said the chief Soviet naval

weaknesses are manpower and technical maintenance, submarine building, anti-

submarine operations, ship

torpedo aircraft and custom-built fleet supply ships.

"Thus the Soviets possess a navy with great strengths but certain important weaknesses.

They have... nevertheless proved themselves capable of

presence with all the political value which comes from this."

Jane's said the Soviet submarine fleet is 131 nuclear vessels and 206 convention-powered craft.

"It sold the U.S. fleet had 102

nuclear submarines, with 23

being built, and only 15

"conventionally" powered submarines, with three in reserve.

Jane's said the U.S. Navy has six cruisers equipped with

Russia's 34, but 196 frigates, destroyers and escorts compared with the Soviet navy's 102.

The United States, Jane's

said, still has an overwhelming lead in aircraft carriers, with 14 in active service, five in Reserve and three nuclear carriers under construction.

But it said Russia's first

40,000 ton carrier, Kiev, is now fitted out at Nikolayev on the Black Sea and a sister ship,

Minsk, is being built in the same yard.

Dixie blast injures 13

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — A thunderous explosion leveled a building, bursting two lounges on Chattanooga's strip of night clubs early today and set fire to an adjacent church and several nearby businesses and houses.

Police said at least 12 persons were injured, but "we have no reports of fatalities."

The explosion ripped through an one-story building containing the "Giant Lounge" and the "Cactus Club" at 3:05 a.m., sending flames shooting 200 feet into the air and hurling debris more than a block away.

Investigators had no immediate comment on the cause of the blast, which left a smoldering, six-foot deep crater where the clubs had been.

Sgt. Don Weller and officer Rick Wynn of the Chattanooga Police Department were three blocks away when the blast occurred and said they found confusion and hysteria when they arrived.

"We saw people lying on the sidewalk and running from the buildings screaming, their heads off," said Weller. "We went to what was left of the barbershop and pulled about five people from under the bricks. We stayed inside as long as we could trying to search for others until the walls started crashing in on top of us."

Witnesses said flames from the explosion spread to Mee's Barber Shop and a liquor store and then leaped to the St. James Baptist Church and several wood frame houses nearby.

Both of the destroyed lounges were closed for business at the time of the explosion. Most of those injured were believed to be patrons of other clubs nearby.

Bob Harrison, information director for Erlanger Hospital, said all but one of the 13 persons taken there were treated and released and none was seriously hurt. Richard Campbell, 57, was hospitalized in fair condition.

John Thomas, who lives in an apartment building a block away, said the explosion sounded like "a howitzer going off."

Jimmy Simon, who works on an early morning shift at a downtown cafeteria, said he ran outside after he heard glass in the building rattle.

"It was like an earthquake. The whole building shook," said Stinson.

Proxmire rips Rocky's policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nelson Rockefeller's potential shortcomings as vice president "stand out like a skunk at a family picnic" when it comes to fighting inflation, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today.

"Rockefeller has followed one consistent theme in his political career: To solve a problem, throw money at it," said Proxmire, who failed to become chairman of the Senate Banking Committee last year.

He said the former New York governor "will have to reverse his field with a vengeance" and come out strong for heavy spending cuts if he is to be an effective inflation-fighter should he be confirmed as vice president.

Overall, the senator said, President Ford made an excellent choice in picking Rockefeller for the job.

"But the former New York governor does not come without potential shortcomings," Proxmire said in a statement.

"These shortcomings stand out like a skunk at a family picnic when it comes to the first big job the President is reported ready to give Rockefeller — fighting inflation."

"As governor, Rockefeller sponsored a huge public works program largely on highways, which the administration did not explain federal spending programs, and increased taxes a mammoth 500 per cent,"

Proxmire said.

He also described another "Rockefeller project," the huge World Trade Center in New York, as "the kind of public works boondoggle that has contributed to present inflation."

Proxmire said, the federal budget will have to be "cut and cut deep," including defense, space and public works programs.

Drug boat seized

MIAMI (UPI) — The Coast Guard said Wednesday the second drug-laden yacht in two days had been intercepted in the Windward Passage between Florida and Cuba and warned that drug smugglers are blocking small boats as cargo vessels.

The six tons of marijuana aboard the two yachts blocked by the Coast Guard cutter Diligence had an estimated street value of $3.5 million, authorities said.

The Coast Guard warned in Washington that 44 boats containing 202 persons are missing and may have been related to drug-trace hijacking in the past three years.

Drug smugglers, said Adm. Owen E. Siler, Coast Guard commandant, "are looking for boats and a cover" and are "definitely dangerous" to boat operators in U.S. coastal waters.

Butz foresees no export control

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With pledges from the two biggest foreign buyers of U.S. feed grains, Butz told reporters Wednesday the cutbacks mean there will not be a drain on domestic food supply.

Petruss Lardinois, agricultural commissioner of the Common Market, said at a joint press conference with Butz that because the United States is reducing its use of corn, it is "only normal" that Europe should do the same.

In effect, Butz added, the Common Market is joining the United States and other countries in sharing the impact of the drought-reduced U.S. corn crop by trimming livestock production.

Butz, continuing, the normal export rates would have pulled world supplies below even a sharply reduced level. Agriculture Department officials are currently predicting that.

Japanese officials told Butz they planned a 10 per cent cut in purchases of American feed grains. In the coming year, European Common Market officials also pledged a 10 per cent cutback.

Because the Common Market and Japan are the two biggest buyers of American feed grains, Butz told reporters Wednesday the cutbacks mean there will not be a drain on domestic food supply.

Petruss Lardinois, agricultural commissioner of the Common Market, said at a joint press conference with Butz that because the United States is reducing its use of corn, it is "only normal" that Europe should do the same.

In effect, Butz added, the Common Market is joining the United States and other countries in sharing the impact of the drought-reduced U.S. corn crop by trimming livestock production.

Because U.S. consumers are already facing higher retail prices partly because of reduced pork and poultry supplies, further cutbacks in world supplies would have meant still higher corn prices and an even greater cutback in the livestock foods produced from corn.

News meet highlights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Highlights of President Ford's news conference Thursday.

Nixon immunity

"Now the expression made by Gov. Rockefeller [in favor of immunity], I think, coincides with the general view and the point of view of the American people. I subscribe to that point of view... Until any legal process has been undertaken, I think it's unwise and untimely for me to make any commitment... I am not rating it out. It is an option and a proper option for my president."

Inflation control plans

"We will spend less in the government in the current fiscal year than $40 billion... reduction of about $6 billion... an $500 million cut in minimum. This I think will have two effects: Number one, it will be substantially beneficial; it'll make borrowing from the money market less, freeing more money for housing for the utilities to borrow, and in addition it will convince people who might have some doubts that we mean business... I foresee no circumstances under which I can see the re-imposition of wage and price controls... wage and price controls are out... period... if we take care of inflation, and get our economy back on the road to a healthy future, I think most of our other domestic programs or problems will be solved."

Advice to wage earners

"I think every wage earner has to realize that we're going through a serious economic problem with inflation in double digits... not as bad as people in many Western European countries but it will require him or her to follow the example of their federal government which is going to tighten his belt and likewise for an interim period of time watch every penny."

Defense budget

"No budget for any department is sacrosanct, and that includes the defense budget."

Public works program

"There is a recommendation from some of my advisers saying that if the economy gets any more serious, that this ought to be a program, a broader, more expensive public service program. We will approach this problem with compassion and action if there is a need for it."

Foreign oil situation

"I think this points up very vividly the need to accelerate every aspect of 'Project Independence.' I think it highlights the need and necessity for us to proceed with more oil and gas drilling... I believe it points up the requirement that we expedite the licensing processes for new nuclear reactors..."

Dog house humor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Being top dog at the White House has landed President Ford in the dog house with his wife.

The new President opened his first news conference Wednesday with the sheepish admission that he and Betty Ford "forgot to apologize" for their first session with the news media because it was scheduled the same day as his.

"We worked this out between us in a calm and orderly way," he said. "She postponed hers until next week — and until then, I'll be making my own breakfast, making my own lunch and making my own dinner."

Rockefeller's duties

"I think Gov. Rockefeller can be extremely important in the new administration as my successor. In doing effective work in the areas of the Domestic Council, I believe that Gov. Rockefeller will take over my responsibilities heading the subcommittee of the Domestic Council on privacy. Gov. Rockefeller, with his vast experience in foreign policy, can make a significant contribution to some of our decisionmaking in the area of foreign policy. Obviously, in addition, he can be helpful, I think, in the political arena, under certain guidelines and some restrictions."

The executive branch

"I will be as candid and as forthright as I possibly can. I will expect any individual in my administration to be exactly the same. There will be no tightly controlled operation of the White House staff.... There will be no one person, no any limited number of individuals who will make the decisions. I'll make the decisions and take the blame for them or whatever benefit might be the case... there would be no illegal wiretaps, there would be none of the other things that, to a degree, helped precipitate the Watergate crisis."

Plans for 1975

"I expect what has been said on my behalf that I'll probably be a candidate in 1976. I think Gov. Rockefeller and myself are a good team, but of course the final judgment in this matter will be that of the delegates to the national convention."

Cuba

"If Cuba changes its policy toward us and toward its Latin neighbors, we of course would exercise the option, depending on what the changes were, to change our policy". But before any major policy change, we would certainly be in concert with the other members of the Organization of American States."

Oil cooperation goal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford is pursuing a dual-track approach to insuring adequate U.S. oil supplies.

Sources in the State Department and the Federal Energy Administration say the joint efforts being considered include increasing oil storage capacity, joint pooling or allocation of supplies in a tight supply situation, joint research for new sources, commitments for conservation measures and sharing of technology for more efficient use of energy.

The major oil-consuming nations met Feb. 11 in Washington. Despite some internal disagreements, and France's refusal to cooperate, an energy coordinating group was formed and has met since to discuss ways to offset any future Arab oil embargo.

Sources in the State Department and the Federal Energy Administration say the joint efforts being considered include increasing oil storage capacity, joint pooling or allocation of supplies in a tight supply situation, joint research for new sources, commitments for conservation measures and sharing of technology for more efficient use of energy.

Whether to prosecute Nixon for his role in the Watergate cover-up obviously has been troubling Ford since he became president, and it was that subject that dominated the news conference.

The first question: Did he agree with resolution introduced recently by the American Bar Association that the law applies equally to all men; or did he agree with Rockefeller that Nixon had suffered enough?

Ford said that he had made a statement on his swearing in that "I had hoped that our former president who brought peace to millions would find it fitting."

"Now the expression made by Gov. Rockefeller, I think, provides the broader view and the point of view of American people," he said. "I subscribe to that point of view."

Later he was asked whether Jaworski could in good conscience prosecute the former Nixon aides in the Watergate case as long as there was a possibility that Nixon himself might not be prosecuted. Nixon, shortly before resigning, issued a statement admitting that he had ordered Vietnam residents and the former president, and that both will be found acceptable by a broad spectrum of political and national security reasons.

"I think the special prosecutor, Mr. Jaworski, has an obligation to take whatever action he sees fit in conformity with his oath of office," Ford replied, "and that should include any and all individuals."

Jaworski has not yet indicated what he would do in regard to the former president now in retirement in San Clemente, Calif.

Ford's statements on the subject, since taking office indicate he is leaning toward leniency for the former president, just as he is favoring leniency for 50,000 Vietnam war draft dodgers and deserters, all as part of his effort to bring the nation together after years of division.

This has aroused speculation that he plans to grant some form of amnesty both for the

4-H'ers hold last meeting

TWIN FALLS - The Healthy Cookies Cutters 4-H Club met for the final meeting of the season Tuesday at the home of Susan Baker.

Following a tour to Hendrikson's Sewing Center, the club went to work on their quilt which the members had left to finish on their projects.

Water service restored

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — Mayor Bob Paisley has restored city water service to the Top Top Theatre but says he will not tolerate pornographic films to be shown in Caldwell.

"Any and all legal action open to the city will be purchased to stop these shows," Paisley said Wednesday.

Tuesday, Paisley ordered the theater's water cut off in an effort to prevent its new owner, Jason Williams, from opening the theater Friday.

SHELLEY, Idaho (UPI) — A lineman for Utah Power & Light Co. was electrocuted Wednesday when he touched a 7,200 volt line while installing a transformer on a power pole.

Ried Andreassen, 30, Shelley, was killed when his hand contacted one of the lines leading to the transformer.

Another lineman working below Andreassen on the pole, helped lower the victim to the ground, where crew members gave him mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and heart massage. But he failed to regain consciousness and was pronounced dead at an Idaho Falls hospital.

Earlier Tuesday, the Utah Supreme Court refused to consider an appeal filed by Andrews of a similar Wahlquist decision.

A driver for the Charles Robinson Trucking Firm, Billings, Burbank was enroute from American Falls to Montana with the cargo.

State Police Officer M.H. Anderson, Rexburg, said Burbank apparently fell asleep at the wheel, the truck left the road and the trailer section was smashed beneath the trailer in the crash along U.S. 20.

Evel seeks ban on tourist map

TWIN FALLS — Robert (Evel) Knievel, Butte, Mont., has filed a complaint in Fifth Judicial District Court here seeking injunctive relief against the promoters and publishers of a "Tour Guide Map."

The book, picturing Knievel and depicting the Snake River Canyon jump site, is prepared and published by Robert Crandall doing business as Advertising Services, Inc., and Hardie M. Putzer, The Times News Ace Printing Inc. also is named as a defendant in the case.

Knievel charges the publication, using his photographs, his name and symbols was printed and is being circulated without his permission. He also charges the promoters have declined to cease distribution of the publication in spite of repeated demands.

Knievel asks the court to order an injunction against the defendants to prevent their unauthorized use of his name, photographs and symbols for their own profit and benefit. He also asks the court to award him punitive damages in the amount of $100,000 and general damages in the amount of $10,000.

River trip ends, canoe capsizes

TWIN FALLS — Two young Colorado men on a canoe journey down the Snake River narrowly escaped injury Wednesday when their canoe capsized in rough water below Shoshone Falls.

According to Twin Falls County Sheriff's deputies, Marc Fredericksen, 21, and his brother, Doug, 19, both of Indian Hills, Colo., had portaged around the falls and put in below when their canoe capsized in rough water beneath the Idaho Power Co. spillway.

Both men were able to make their way through the water and climb out on the south side of the canyon, although Marc was stuck on rocks in the water for about an hour.

A rescue party from Twin Falls and Jerome County sheriff's offices later fished the youth from the river downstream from Shoshone Falls Park.

The accident put an end to the brothers' river trip. They had reportedly started down the river near Grand Teton National Park.

Evel's jump on after TF snag settled

By ROBERT VAN BUSKIRK

BOISE (UPI) — CBS network withdrew its offer of $50,000 to use snake river for live television coverage of the Evel Knievel jump over the Snake River Canyon north of Twin Falls, Idaho, after promoters of the jump had realized the legal ramifications that could result if it televised the event which will be offered on closed circuit television by Top Rank. This was not so, countered O'Malley.

The Idaho Land Board reopened bidding for the exclusive use of the land on the north side of the canyon for the coverage of the event after the promoters had protested its use by anyone else.

CBS, in withdrawing its offer at the last minute, said through Kevin O'Malley that the network did not want to see the event cancelled.

Tuesday, Don Branker of Top Rank Inc., promoters of the event, told Land Board members if they accepted the CBS offer, the jump would be called off.

Later at the auction Wednesday, the CBS had realized the legal ramifications that could result if it televised the event which will be offered on closed circuit television by Top Rank. This was not so, countered O'Malley.

"We did not want to be the agency that can call the jump," he said.

O'Malley said he believed the press had the right to cover the event because of itssworthiness, encouraging the board to allow the Idaho media to set up their equipment at the land site. He referred to, the request by the Idaho Press Club to allow use of the area for filming the jump by Knievel.

But Branker warned the area would be closed to the press with the exception of one person from each of Press International and Associated Press and an independent. He stressed that only "still cameras" would be allowed on the North Rim area.

Branker sold the south side site of the launch would have press facilities.

"Fair and ample warning has been given as far as the press goes," Branker said, referring to the limitation of media personnel on the North Rim.

He pointed out that a "nuisance" would result if more than three were allowed inside that area. He said more than that would "entice other people" to enter the site.

Brunker said Knievel was a performer and, as such, had certain rights.

"We are purchasing those rights for $6 million and will protect those rights at any cost," he said.

The Top Rank official said his group would film the event from the air for closed circuit television.

Richard Chernock, bureau manager of United Press International in Boise and vice president of the Idaho Press Club, said the position of his organization had not changed. He said the club still felt it was a news event and "we have the right to cover it."

Skycycle registered as airplane

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — At the request of state officials, Evel Knievel has registered as an "airplane" the "motorcycle" with which he intends to jump the Snake River Canyon Sept. 8.

Darrell Manning, director of the Department of Transportation, a pilot and a former state aerodynamics director, called for the registration — saying that under state law Knievel's craft is an airplane.

Knievel's attorney, James May, Twin Falls, subsequently filed a civil action a claim for $25,250 and asked the state airplane registration board will be in compliance with the law. Manning said Knievel's personnel were "very good about it."

"They licensed it," he said. "Their attitude with us was that they wanted to comply with any state laws."

Pictures of a prototype test cycle show it has a fuselage, wing-like fins and two small wheels on the rear.

"We contacted them," Manning said. "We were concerned whether it was a rocket and should be licensed as a rocket under state regulations."

He added if the rocket is manned it becomes an airplane under Idaho law. State law requires any airplane operating in the airspace be registered if it has Idaho as its home base and defines a plane as "any contrivance now known, or hereafter invented, used or designed for navigation or flight in the air."

Knievel's craft, which officials say shows it has a "home base" of "Snake River Canyon," is to be launched from the south rim of the canyon east of Twin Falls and is supposed to travel through the air to the north rim. Knievel plans to parachute to earth from the craft.

May said the same rules, if an airplane under the law, would apply. "It is intended to operate in the airspace."

He said the fee for registration is two and one-half cents a pound of useful load. That, he said, is the difference between the empty weight and the person, parachute and fuel — if any.

A spokesman for Knievel, Manning said, told him the vehicle does not have fuel aboard.

After Manning contacted a spokesman for Knievel May wrote the assistant legal counsel for the DOT:

"I proposed motorcycle jump of Evel Knievel."

"Pursuant to Mr. Darrell Manning's telephone conversation with Mike Gray at 4 o'clock Aug. 15, 1974 heretofore filed enclosed a check in the sum of $25 for a license for firing or projecting of rockets or missiles under Idaho code."

Airman hurt in accident

BURLEY — A Mountain Home Air Force Base airman has been injured in a one-car accident on Interstate 15.

According to Cassia County sheriff's deputies, the accident occurred at the Salt Lake City interchange two miles southeast of Burley at about 5 a.m. Wednesday.

S/Sgt. Frank Peter Barron Jr., 26, was injured when his car was destroyed after rolling over at least six times. Deputies said Barron apparently went to sleep at the wheel as he was traveling west on the interstate. His car ran off the roadway and into the median; then crossed the roadway again, traveling about 50 feet before coming to rest.

Barron was released Thursday from Minidoka Memorial Hospital.

MV council receives OK

JEROME — The Magic Valley Association of Governments (MVAG) received approval Wednesday to continue operation although it does not represent 75 per cent of the eight-county populated area.

Ray Mickelson, Boise, regional representative of the State Planning and Community Affairs Agency, told the group it could continue operation as long as membership remained open to all cities and counties.

Mickelson said the group is also eligible for federal and state funding.

Dee Taylor, director of MVAG, said the association at the present time has 60.7 per cent participation from cities and counties in the eight-county area. Twin Falls, Jerome and Blaine County have not signed articles of incorporation, nor have they agreed to pay the 10 cents per capita assessment, according to Taylor.

The cities of Jerome and Twin Falls say that 10 cents per capita levied on the cities could be double taxation because residents of the cities are also part of the counties and the counties are also being assessed 10 cents per capita.

Bud Cheney, Twin Falls, reaffirmed its position Wednesday night.

John Van Orman, chairman, presented six membership alternatives. However, associate members declined to take any action on the proposals until they had more time to evaluate them.

Following some favorable comment was the second proposal, which would require the counties to pay the assessment on a per-capita basis with cities and special purpose districts paying a membership fee. Under the plan, the present executive board would be retained.

The proposed fees ranged from $200 for Twin Falls City to $10 for the smallest cities.

Special purpose districts would be assessed a $10 membership fee.

Another proposal called for the eight counties to pay the entire assessment and reducing the executive board to eight county commissioners.

Flight ban scheduled

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Temporary flight restrictions will be placed over the Snake River Canyon north of Twin Falls, Idaho, where Evel Knievel is scheduled to make his jump on Sept. 8, the regional office of the Federal Aviation Administration said Wednesday.

Flight restrictions will start at sunset and end at sunset beginning Sept. 6 and concluding at sunset, Sept. 8. The restrictions will be imposed in accordance with the FAA said.

The ban extends from the surface to an altitude of 8,000 feet above sea level over the area where Knievel plans to catapult in his "SkyCycle" over the chasm. The portion overlying the Twin Falls Airport Control Zone is not affected by the restrictions, however.

Murphy was quoted as saying: "Can we be certain that Knievel's suicidal jump will not be imitated by our own children and youth? I believe the answer is no."

"Certainly the telecast of a money-mad, human rocket catapulting across a 500-foot deep gorge on a suicidal mission does not, in my opinion, meet the criteria of serving the public interest," he was quoted as saying.

The FCC spokesman said the commission had no jurisdiction on the matter for the present.

He added it also could be said that parents have a responsibility over what their children watch."

Boise firm

low bidder

RUPERT — Bids were opened Wednesday for the intercept sewer line from Minico High School to Rupert.

Galey Construction Co., Boise, was the apparent low bidder with a bid of $117,012 on both alternates in the bid. The engineers had estimated cost of the project at $100,000. Appropriations for the project totaled $200,000 because many recent bids have been over cost estimates.

Bids were also submitted by Bengal Construction Co., Pocatello. Bengal's bid was about $175,000. Vandegrift Construction Co., Boise, bid $131,903. The low bid will be sent to the Environmental Protection Agency for review.

The sewer line is needed because of problems with the old sewer at the high school, which is located between Paul and Rupert. The school was closed twice during the last school year because of health problems associated with sewer failure.

Construction will begin as soon as possible after EPA approval is granted.

The EPA will refund 90 per cent of the cost of the project if it is approved.

The sewer line will be constructed whether the EPA makes the fund or not.

Condition 'good'

BOISE (UPI) — Laura Hunt, 13, Boise, was listed in good condition today at St. Alphonsus Hospital where she is recovering from an accidentally-inflicted gunshot wound in her neck.

Monday, Hunt, 13, suffered a bullet wound in her neck when she apparently tripped over a rug in her home and the weapon discharged.

Hunt was released Thursday from Minidoka Memorial Hospital.

Tranquillizer dart ends tiger search

CALCUTTA, India (UPI) — An American zoologist brought down an eight-foot Bengal tiger with a tranquilizer dart Tuesday, ending a three-week search for the beast which is believed to have killed a woman Aug. 2.

The tiger, instead of being killed as it had been customarily done, hid when an animal is suspected of killing a man and later turned loose in a forest preserve 20 miles from where it was found.

Tigers are now a protected animal in India.

Authorities said the tiger made no effort to eat the woman it is suspected of killing in Jharkhand village so it might be safe to let the animal live.

The tigress, named Sundari—the Tiger Girl—turned out to be a male.

It was felled with one shot by John Seldenecker, 30, of Dillon, Mont. Monday night, Seldenecker is a research associate with the Smithsonian Institution in Washington and has been working on a wild life project in neighboring Nepal.

The tiger eluded Seldenecker for several nights. The forests had been flooded by monsoon rains and Selden-

Woman, 74, charged in smuggling

MIAMI (UPI) — A Pennsylvania woman believed to be the oldest person ever arrested in a drug smuggling case here waived preliminary hearing Tuesday and was bound over to a federal grand jury for possible indictment.

Mrs. Parlow, 74, East Stroudsburg, Pa., was arrested at the U.S. Customs and Migratory International Airport Aug. 6. Agents said they found cocaine with a street value of $30,000 in small plastic tubes woven into a rug she brought with her aboard a plane from Bogota, Colombia.

Federal Drug Enforcement Administration agents said she was the oldest person ever arrested in the FDRA's record against drug smuggling charges, and perhaps the oldest in the nation.

Mrs. Parlow remains free on her own recognizance. She told customs agents she was given the rug by a friend in Colombia and was unaware it contained cocaine.

Attention getter

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — An 18-year-old woman picketing a construction company office came up with another way to draw attention.

Elizabeth Adams took her clothes off Tuesday and marched up and down in front of the office carrying her picket sign for about five minutes before getting into a car and driving away before police arrived.

Elizabeth and her husband, Danny, contend the contractor has refused to pay his father, John, for plastering work his firm performed on a construction project.

Whale bumps Long Island in search for herd

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (UPI) — An 18-year-old whale who ran 20 miles from the eastern tip and the fast-moving Gulf Stream that could speed him northward, turned around and headed back toward the southern shore almost made it to the eastern tip Tuesday but then turned around.

The 35-foot mammal has been swimming eastward along the 118-mile long bottom of the island since July but apparently lost her sense of direction Tuesday and turned around.

reported seeing Lili last night and said she seemed quite contented despite the shallowness of the water.

Marine biologist believe Lili first "swam off" Manhattan, N.J., — somehow — became separated from her herd and is instinctively trying to migrate north but finds the island in her way.

Experts have identified Lili as an extremely rare "right" whale whose herd is probably well north of Maine or Nova Scotia by now.

"The breed is an endangered species under federal law."

DETROIT (UPI) — Motorists who frequently drive in heavy traffic and find their engines overheat consistently while idling between the slow-moving cars should consider increasing the idling speed of their car. The greater fan speed should show a drop in temperature.

VERY FRUITY AD

SOME OF SWENSEN'S PAST ADS MAY HAVE SEEMED PRETTY FRUITY, BUT OUR AD THIS WEEK IS DESIGNED TO BE THE ABSOLUTE FRUITIEST OF ALL!! A REVIEW OF OUR SPECIALS BELOW WILL SHOW YOU WHAT WE MEAN.

NOTE: Anyone planning to put in a supply of fruit for the winter should not necessarily conclude that the high price of sugar makes home canning and preserving uneconomical as opposed to buying fruit in cans. Last year's commercial pack of all canned fruit is completely gone. This year's opening price on peaches, already announced, are roughly $4.00 per case higher than last year. Other canned fruit prices will be undoubtedly up in the same degree, so home canning and processing is still as inexpensive relatively as it ever was.

Cooler weather slows Gem crops

BOISE (UPI) — Cool weather and frosts in higher elevations slowed Idaho crop development last week, although harvests of small grains, hay, fruit, sweet corn, onions and early fruit crops made good progress.

In its weekly summary, the U.S. Agriculture Department and National Weather Service reported that combining of winter wheat was about 80 per cent complete while about one-half of the spring wheat crop had been harvested.

Fruit crop harvest was 80 per cent complete for the state, the agencies said, with combining past the peak in the southwest but at peak level in other areas.

The agencies said cool, windy weather during the season had slowed potato tuber development in south central localities, but added digging of a few potato fields was in progress in the southwest and harvest was nearing in the Fort Hall area of eastern Idaho.

In other crop activities:

Second cuttings of alfalfa have neared completion in lower elevation fields.

Swathing of the commercial dry bean crop is starting in southern Idaho while harvest of dry peas was nearly 90 per cent complete and 80 per cent of the north Idaho crop had been harvested.

Mint harvest was past the halfway mark.

Picking of a light crop of early prunes neared completion in southern localities while harvesting of sweet corn for processing was active and the onion harvest was starting.

Summer fallowed fields were being worked and fertilized in north Idaho in preparation for planting of fall grain crops.

Meanwhile, the agencies reported that livestock were generally in good condition with adequate supplies of feed. They added ranges continued dry but irrigated pastures were providing normal amounts of forage and that cattle were starting to move from summer grazing areas back to home ranches.

He said beef prices have advanced from a June low because of the tightening supply of market ready cattle. He said increasing feed and other costs dictate the higher break-even levels while prices for feeder calves were at a four year low and half the price they were a year ago.

Ford may keep closer track of farm policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford probably will take a closer personal hand in his administration's farm policy than former President Nixon according to an informed Congressional source.

The source, a staff aide who has worked closely with both Congressional and administration leaders on farm affairs for many years, said "Ford's basic philosophy on farm programs in the past has been similar to the free-market policy advocated by the Nixon administration.

But there could be important changes in the way the White House approaches its goals because Ford "has a better personal understanding of farming and probably the subtleties of it," the source said. "I don't think Nixon ever really understood farm politics and the way policies and legislation are put together. He relied on the advice of his agriculture secretaries and advisers and then made final decisions, but he didn't have a basic understanding," he said.

Ford, on the other hand, was a well-developed "feel" for the complexities, inconsistencies and shifting geographical, economic and political alliances which have gone into the formation of national farm policy, the aide said.

"He has it the way Lyndon Johnson had it, " the aide explained. "I've seen it over so many years in Congress and leadership posts. Both House GOP leader and Johnson and Senate Democratic leader, before reaching the White House."

"And nobody can go through that kind of experience without being thoroughly exposed to all the factors and subtleties of farm policy," the source said.

With this background, the staff veteran added, Ford has the ability to tell his aids "when people are crying at the moon, and when they're really hurting."

What specific changes, this might produce in future White House decisions on farm issues remained uncertain.

"I suspect the [ideological] strategy will remain unchanged for a while, at least," the aide said. That ideology, as portrayed in Ford's Congressional record envisioned a diminishing government role in directing the farm economy and a theory that farm prices "should be made in Des Moines and Kansas City," not in Washington," he said.

Magic Valley's progress shown in TF County Fair premium books

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News writer

FLESH. — The premium books put out each year by the Twin Falls County Fair Board are barometers of conditions and progress in the Magic Valley area.

In feasible through a number of the books kept at the fair office, many interesting facts come to light.

When the fair began, farmers were using work horses rather than tractors to pull farm machinery, and the 1916 book listed a good-size class of heavy work animals including Belgians.

Percherons and French draft horses, Shires, mules, Jacks and Jennets, as well as Shetland ponies.

The dairy department had replaced the work horse did the lighter breeds popular for riding, and all the ranch classes turn up in the books.

Now the horse department includes Arabians, Quarter Horses, Morgan's, Appaloosas, Paints and Pintos.

The 1917 books state that one entire day of the fair would be set aside as a special farmer's horse day, devoted exclusively to the showing of draft and riding animals.

Beef and cattle breeds have changed somewhat through the years, with the 1916 books naming Shorthorns, Herefords, Aberdeen Angus, Red Polled, Holsteins, Jersey, Guernseys and milk cows.

The dairy department of the fair was discontinued several years ago, and the beef department now includes Aberdeen Angus, Hereford and Polled, Shorthorn, Shorthorns and Charolais.

The earlier fairs, premiums in the sheep department were paid for breeds such as Lincoln, Cotswold, Hampshire, Shropshire, Rambouillet and Merino.

Swine were Poland China, Dorset-Jersey, Berkshire, Chester White, Tamworth, Yorkshire and Hampshire.

Several other departments have been dropped during the years, but there is still a number of them following here:

the department for bees and honey, one for rabbits and a milking contest. Anyone seen a dairy maid lately?

Horse races were held at the fairs for many years and by 1926 two nights of fireworks in the grandstand were added. Other entertainment that year presented "The Cotton Pickers," advertised as "four black boys direct from the Oprah Winfrey Vaudeville Circuit." Other free entertainment included The Three Indians, presented by the American Indian's Circus. For children, which had four trained ponies, two trained bears, trained monkeys, and dogs.

The Twin Falls City Band presented lively band music each day, and in the midway a merry-go-round, and ferris wheel thrilled people with their speed.

The 1926 fair introduced something new in the way of a baby clinic. Some of the earlier fairs had held beautiful babies contests; but this year a clinic was set up with no fee charged for examination of children, and mothers were admitted free to the fair on the day set for examination of babies.

The year 1931 saw the beginning of the boys' and girls' 4-H Clubs. Free entertainment listed that year included rides and shows, races, fireworks and band music.

"School" departments began exhibiting in the juvenile building in 1936, and the following year the Future

Farmers' of America department was added.

It became an important part of the fair day until about 1936, and besides the free acts, and music a horse-pulling contest was started.

Times change and so do fair premiums. Latching on to the catchy phrase "Bigger and Better" about ten years ago, the fair has continued to get larger and better each year.

What has never changed though, is the friendly atmosphere, the "Hi! Neighbor!" greeting on the part of friends. People started coming to the fair to check whether it was livestock, produce and goods, fancywork or good cooking. They still do.

People came to the fair to enjoy the midway rides, the free shows and entertainment and the good food. They still do.

People came to the early fairs because it was a chance to visit, with people they hadn't seen for a year, to catch up on the lives of their friends and neighbors, and perhaps hear a little gossip.

Most people now are too busy to do much visiting during the year so they come to the fair to see old acquaintances and friends they haven't seen since last year's fair. People who have moved away try to set aside time for the fair to do much visiting during the year.

Through the years the county fair remains just what it set out to be — a time of fun and entertainment, and pride of work for all.

Most futures marts post declines

CHICAGO — A summary of futures market activity Wednesday, compiled from reports of Commodity News Service.

A month of favorable growing weather and announced government attempts to limit overseas bookings continue to be important negative influences in corn. Frost reports in Canada provided a late recovery to near Tuesday levels after a day of mixed trading.

Main potatoes weakened, spending the session in a narrow trading range, closing 5.10 cents lower at 2.73 cents a carlot. Cash prices in the U.S. were slightly weaker.

Cattle futures closed with limit losses in all options with 1,597 carlots traded. February rose slightly but dropped again. Cattle meat trade reports poor demand and weak prices. Cash markets were weak, too.

Wheat futures opened lower, based on the basis of export bookings. The "air of caution" pervaded the market.

Chicago cash wheat showed hard-chummed-at-2 cents over September, soft red winter 2 cents higher at 3 cents over September.

Live hog futures were down from 115 points in December to the 150 point limit in July. Cash markets reported losses of 50 cents to $1.75 as supplies out ran demand. Cattle trade was slow.

Frozen pork bellies declined from 101 points in February to 123 in August despite increased cash belly prices. Closing prices were mostly below Tuesday levels.

LIVESTOCK

DENVER, COLORADO

Grid season opens with 12 games on weekend

All but seven of Magic Valley teams will taste defeat this weekend when high school football returns to the sports scene.

Most of them are traditional openers but there are a couple of inter-state and inter-district battles on tap.

And many of the teams expect to be on the up-and-down conference finish in the month of September when they will get their first tests either winning or disowning the pre-season favorites.

On the inter-state scene, the Burley Bobcats, debuting under new Coach Ray Berryhill, will entertain Bear River of Tremonton, Utah, at 8 p.m. Friday. At 8:30 p.m.

Saturday (mountain time) the Jerome Tigers will be at Elk River, Berryhill, moving to Burley from Elmer, and his junior-laden club would like to whip Bear River since the Bobcats haven't done that.

A lot of people around here are telling me that the Bear River boys will win this year," he says, sharing the enthusiasm his Bobcats have been displaying on the practice field.

Jerome will take a passel of seniors and only eight juniors to Elk. Not even Coach Ed Peterson is sure of what he'll see from his Tigers:

"That's largely because the word from Elk is the host-team will be tough."

"The coach tells me his bunch was second in the state finals (7-2) last year and he's got them all back. I don't know if he was trying to cover me up, but he is," Coach Peterson admits.

On Saturday afternoon Wood River, the only getting-most-of-the South Central Idaho Conference (Ingen) pointed at it, will entertain American Falls. The Beavers dropped the "Wolverines" 14-6 last year and Wood River hasn't forgotten them.

Those who knew the Wolverines last year hardly need say a program this season, since the lineup looks about familiar.

Wendell-and-Gleens Ferry along with Shoshone, figure to be strong contenders in the Little Five Conference and they open against non-league foes.

Wendell goes down the hill to Hammon, which is facing its season with a mix of inexperience and youth and not inexperience.

Wendell will bring everyone back from last year's team but two. And since the Trojans figure to have a big edge in speed, Wendell's testing appears to be a little further into the future.

Gleens Ferry, another veteran Hill club with some good-looking young boys, is looking up. With 'be' at Deuel where Coach Mike Mathews gets them all back. I don't know if he was trying to cover me up, but he is," Coach Peterson admits.

Shoshone, known from its defense last season, will put up against Raffi Raveri at Shoshone Friday night. Raffi Raveri is expected to have good speed and can throw the ball well. However, Shoshone has its entire backfield back and also boasts probably the biggest offensive line in the Little Five.

Kimberly debates under new coach Rick Erickson, who was a Bulldog himself not too many years ago. The Bulldogs will entertain Oakley which in previous years has shown a preference for throwing the ball. Coach Mike Neal Wyatt believes his Hornets are still away from being tough.

The Murtough at Valley affair should be a grudging affair since both teams have their defensive units returning fairly well intact. However, both coaches also like their offensive backfields.

Ridgefield usually an eight-man team will go with 11. Friday afternoon in hosting the Jerome Jayvees. These extra three men make a lot of difference in coaching and playing this game," smiles Coach Leroy Johnson.

Meanwhile, Bliss, with all but one boy in the high school out for football, is being picked as a contender for the first time in many, many years.

And, Coach Steve Sorenson, who had the pre-season dispensers could ride. He'll start to get in on Friday afternoon when the Beartooth Rockland in a non-conference game.

Teeth of Bears' bite

STARTING BACKFIELD for the Bliss Bears is one of the reasons the town is looking forward to its best football season in several years. Quarterback is Jay Lenker. Greg Gough and Rod Hess and halfbacks are Don Gill is fullback. The Bears hosts Rockland Friday afternoon.

Texans lose Matuszak to court order in first quarter, still down Stars 14-11

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Texans, ignoring a court order to keep NFL defector "Big John" Matuszak off the playing field, Wednesday rallied behind quarterback Mike Taliaterra's two touchdown passes to beat the New York Stars 14-11 for their third victory in four games.

The Texans won the field but lost on the sidelines as Matuszak was handed a temporary restraining order keeping him from playing in the NFL for days.

The 6-8, 282-pound second year defensive end who jumped a five-year Houston Oilers contract to sign with the Texans Wednesday, played live downs before retiring to the bench under the order.

Despite his absence at middle guard, a re-chipped Texans defense which allowed the Stars to run up a 41-10 win one week ago, held New York in check until it was too late and broke the Stars' five-game winning streak.

Quarterback Taliaterra, who left the game with bruised ribs in the fourth quarter, completed 11 of 20 passes for 182 yards and connected on touchdown passes of six yards to tight end Willie Frazier and 35 yards to flanker Rick Eber.

A 10-yard touchdown run in the first quarter by the trial of Matuszak at #40, the Texans first scoring drive.

Houston moved up 17 yards for their first touchdown after safety Joe Green recovered an Ed White fumble. Taliaterra threw five yards to running back Mike Richardson for a first down at the four and after the Stars pushed Houston back, Taliaterra then hit Frazier over the middle with a touch-down toss.

Stars' quarterback Larry Sherry picked up a Taliaterra pass and returned it 44 yards setting up New York's first score, a 34-yard field goal by Moses Lajerman.

Taliaterra put the Texas ahead 14-3 with 13:26 left with a touchdown pass to Eber.

Upping a 77-yard drive in seven plays,

Bell drops Detroit

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Jim Corcoran threw for two touchdowns and Claude Watts scored twice Wednesday night to bring the Philadelphia Bell a 27-23 victory over the Detroit Wheels in a World Football League game.

The Bell scored twice in the first 3:35 of the game, the first on a 17-yard pass from Corcoran to Watts. Six plays later, following an interception by Ryan Marshall, Watts scored on a 12-yard run. The Bell missed both action points for a 14-0 lead.

Detroit came back to score on an 11-play, 63-yard drive with quarterback Bob Wechsler going the last yard. Wechsler passed to Terry Phillips for Detroit on a two-yard keeper with 2:21 to play.

Memphis stuns Florida

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) —

Speedster John Harvey tore up the field for a 49-yard touch-down early in the game to give the Memphis Shamrocks to a 26-20 victory over the Florida Blazers in a battle between World Football League leaders, Wednesday night.

Memphis quarterback John Huarte, winner of the Prismish Trophy at Super Drome, drilled one touchdown pass of 35 yards to Ed Marshall but depended mostly on a crackling ground attack to crack the top ranked defensive unit of the WFL.

At Tangerine Bowl crowd of 17,126, with 15,746 paying customers, watched the Southerners win their sixth game in eight tries and leave Florida leader of the WFL East Division, with a similar 6-2 mark.

In the second period Detroit scored with Jesse Minns going 25 yards around end for the score. Minns scored the action point giving Detroit a 14-10 lead.

The Bell took the lead, for good on the next series ending with a 25-yard field goal by Jerry Warren. After retrieving the ball, Corcoran hit flanker Don Shanklin with a 24-yard scoring pass, putting Philadelphia ahead 24-16 at halftime.

After a scoreless third period, Wechsler kicked a 19-yard field goal midway through the fourth quarter. Wechsler scored the game's final point for Detroit on a two-yard keeper with 2:21 to play.

Blazer quarterback Bob

Davis staged an aerial show, hitting 15 of 25 passes for 225 yards and a 20-yarder in the last half alone, but Florida never managed to catch up.

Harvey, a second year product of Tyler Junior College, ripped off his first touchdown just five minutes in to the first period, and Huarte found Marshall with a pass for the action point.

Neither side claims victory in NFL row

CHICAGO (UPI) — The players couldn't claim victory because no one would in the decision for striking veterans to play the regular season National Football League games without settlement of their contract dispute.

An announcement that the players would remain in training camp — after expiration of a 1-day trial period in which they could have been traded — would play the day after two days of futile negotiations between the NFL management council and the players' committee.

The players rejected by a vote of 25-1 a proposal by management made Tuesday, which Executive Director John Thompson of management said, "we might settle the dispute."

But management insisted upon retention of a modified Rozelle rule under which NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle determines what compensation should go to a team on which a player plays out his option and then is traded or dealt to play for another team.

The players had dropped the Rozelle rule from contract demands; since the matter lies before a federal court in Minneapolis, Minn., but retained demands on option clauses and waivers.

Management insisted upon continuing to negotiate the rule because Thompson said, "We want an understanding with the union if it will or will not accept our system."

Management's modification of the Rozelle rule would have required each team to submit a view of fair compensation and Rozelle would have ruled in favor of the proposals.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the players, and Thompson, who said negotiations would continue with the game over, although Garvey laughingly said, "We still may be trying for a contract on the day after the Super Bowl — or the day before."

Garvey said the players in addition would consider affiliation with some other union, appealing to Congress for legislative action, and filing grievance cases "which are piling up" under NLRB regulations.

Garvey said the player delegation recommended that all players be allowed to play more games "takes away a lot of the pressure" on management to negotiate, but Thompson said the miners wanted a collective bargaining agreement as much as the players.

"The game cannot survive another six months of year such as we've come through this year," he said.

Federal Mediator W. J. Kovacs, who has been negotiating in the negotiations, said he would call the two sides together another in the near future, without any idea of the date.

Kaline's homer sinks Angels

DETROIT (UPI) — Al Kaline hit his first Twins' second-pitch home run of the ninth-inning frame to win the game and moved within 26 hits of 3,000. Wednesday night to give the Detroit Tigers a 2-1 victory over the California Angels.

California's Don Dierol hit .312 last night, but Kaline's 10th hit of the season gave him 2,978 career hits. The Angels' Mike Vernon had 2,977.

Texas rallies past Orioles

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — A two-run homer by Tony Harrah and a solo homer by Jim Fregosi rallied the Texas Rangers to a 4-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night.

Indians rip KC behind Perry

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Charlie Spikes' two-run second-inning single and Rich-Carty's two-run third inning single Wednesday night sparked the Cleveland Indians and Gaylord Perry to a 7-1 victory over the Kansas City

Royals.

Tommy Davis' two-run double and a two-run triple by Jim Fregosi rallied the Texas

Rangers to a 4-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night.

Johnson hikes shutout string

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bert Johnson, 36, a four-time and extended his scorelessinning streak to 24 with his second straight shutout Wednesday night as he out-dueled 20-game winner Luis Tiant and pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 3-0 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Cotton Crumbliss, Twin Falls, scored the first hole-in-one on his golf career Wednesday at Twin Falls municipal.

Crumbly sank his approach on the par three, 160-yard sand trap hole for the 18th hole. Steve Stover and Clyde Lewis were witnesses.

Dove season opens on Sunday morning

BOISE — With mourning dove season opening from September 1-15, hunters are urged to continue using all due care and discretion of private property, dry range land and when shooting near telephone and power lines.

"I've never seen a documented case which held dove hunters responsible for a range fire," says Dick Norell, game bird supervisor for the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

"Each year we patrol dove hunting areas with airplanes," he added. "Dove hunters have an excellent record over the years on fire prevention. This record is expected to continue."

Doves fly with a corkscrew motion and can hit 60 miles per hour. Norell says they give hunters the opportunity to sharpen eye-hand coordination with a bonus of excellent table fare.

Doves are more abundant and widely distributed than any other game bird in the United States. They raise several broods of two young birds per year. Mourning dove eggs are incubated 14 days and the young leave the nest 34 days after hatching. This compares with an incubation period of about 24 days for other game birds.

This rapid growth rate is caused by a high protein diet of "pigeon's milk" which is manufactured in the parents' crops. Doves depend mainly on weed seeds and small grains, especially sunflower and pigweed, patches.

Hunters ask why the Fish and Game Commission does not set the season a week or two earlier, since doves often migrate out of the state before September 1. This change to an August season would mean rewriting the International Migratory Bird Act and changing the Convention on Migratory Birds. The existing treaty stipulates that migratory birds seasons cannot start earlier than September 1.

No NFL team would trade for Thomas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Screening of the Cleveland press conference after lunch on Monday:

"I assumed it was because he wasn't feeding Bellagio so I left go," Walter said, adding he decided to end the Monday night team meeting to an hour, so I could meet with Blair and go over the film that he hadn't seen yet."

Blair, who said Allen has flatly ruled out Thomas rejoining the Redskins at any time, said the reason the team was entirely "negative" and assumed the reason for being difficult.

Allen said Tuesday evening that he was releasing Thomas due to a disagreement Monday night in which Thomas accused backfield coach Charley Waller of being a racist, challenged him to a fight, and pushed him into a wall.

Walter said Thomas, who was ill with the flu, missed a Sunday night team meeting then failed to show up for a

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Maybe a little more than $500, that's all the great composer Franz Schubert earned from his music during his entire lifetime. However, Sigmund Romberg made at least $100,000 from "Song of Love," which he lifted from Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony." Was that fair?

• QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q. "What's Canada's official national anthem?"

A. Doesn't have an official one. But both "God Save the Queen" and "O Canada" are sung as such.

Q. "I CAN'T even get this sink white with scouring powder and chlorine bleach."

A. Try scrubbing it with a paste of cream of tartar and hydrogen peroxide.

Q. "I KNOW the people who migrate from Japan elsewhere are called Issei. And their youngsters born outside Japan are Nisei. But what are the children of the Nisei called?"

A. Sansei.

OUR LANGUAGE MAN thinks the word "mummy" came from the Arabic "mumya" meaning "pitch." Maybe you already knew the ancient Egyptians used pitch to embalm their dead.

RIO

It was just about 30 years ago that the citizens thereabout air-conditioned Rio de Janeiro, a high hill called the Morro do Castello blocked off the sea breezes. So teamsters hauled away sand hill in wagon loads. Average summertime temperature downtown dropped almost 10 degrees. This comes to mind because a client asks if any city in the world is completely air conditioned. Know of no other.

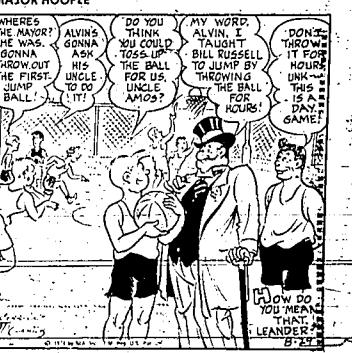

THOSE SLEEP SPECIALISTS just about always come up empty when they try to research nightmares. Ordinary dreams...no problem. Citizens do indeed dream when they serve as subjects in laboratory experiments. But they don't have those scream scaring terrors. Something about the controlled circumstances prevents such evidently.

ROCK GARDEN Condominium Townhouses are quiet luxury in a beautiful open space setting. A unique, secure cluster of individual homes set in the natural world of Rock Creek. Rock Gardens is room with a view: Rock Creek, its Canyon... and municipal golf course. It's an alternative to the drudgery of home ownership, offering a whole new way of life. ROCK GARDENS is a perfect place to enjoy the everyday pleasures of country living with all the urban conveniences.

We have a choice of five models, all individually constructed with a view of their own, integrating nature's shrubs, trees—and plants to enhance and beautify the area.

Consider ROCK GARDENS whether you prefer condominium living or traditional housing. NOW is the best time to purchase either. There's no reason to tie up money in more home than you can use... now that the kids are grown (or about grown). Owning is one of the best protections against inflation. Building costs are probably going to continue to soar as the price of everything goes up. It's an economic fact of life. Quite honestly, our townhouse prices will never be lower—and your selection never better.

We urge you to visit the ROCK GARDEN TOWNHOUSES during our Open House showing. You'll find they offer the very finest in thoughtful, modern design and workmanship. Quality Frigidaire appliances make the living easier. Central heating and air conditioning plus efficient sound conditioning make each unit very livable. You'll never worry about cutting the grass or shoveling snow. Just relax and enjoy the natural amenities that are part of the ROCK GARDENS Lifestyle.
