Mideast war pessimism grows
By United Press International

Middle East European and Communist diplomats in a rare consensus today voiced deep pessimism over the prospects of securing peace between Israelis and Syrians.

Western military experts were equally assessing the chances of a new Middle East war.

In Beirut, the pro-Israeli newspaper Al-Ahram said Palestinian guerrilla factions and refugee camps throughout Lebanon that Israel "maximizes alert" because of intelligence reports that it would intend to launch a military attack in the next half of this month.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Greek shipping tycoon Ariston Onassis is "in critical care" at New York Hospital for an annual physical checkup, but he did not register in his own name.

Defends talk
PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — G. G. Heber, Republican close friend of Richard M. Nixon, says he never heard the former president utter a "hard word" regardless of the language revealed in some of the White House tapes.

"I guess he just got to the point where he would guess it's better than running your fist through the wall."

Ketchum women seeking Gem posts

Betty Laverty, active in Democratic campaigns for 20 years, and Jean Terra, Blaine County Democratic Party chairman, stress the need for land use planning and the preservation of Idaho's wilderness areas. Both women signed and support the Sunshine Initiative.

Half-dozen races on ballot for TF County

BY BILL LAZARUS
Times News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County voters will decide six races Tuesday.

In District 24, encompassing the western half of Twin Falls City and south and west areas of the county, Democrat Joe Stieritz and American Party candidate John Thibert are attempting to unseat Republican Sen. John Barker.

American Party member Tom Amodeo is running against Republican Roy Brackett and William Roberts, an incumbent for two house seats in District 24.

This encompasses the northeastern corner of the county. Had Democrats Ray Graham and John Walker are facing Republicans Ralph Armstrong and Tom Stivers in the district's house contest.

Democrat L. J. Etlinger is running against Republican William Holtcliff in a fully contested race for one of two seats in the county commissioner race. Republican Ann Cover is challenging Democrat W. D. Wiseman, an incumbent who was appointed by the commission in the April 11 runoff two years ago. In the second district commissioner race, Democrat William Holtcliff is facing incumbent Republican W. D. Wiseman.

Three of the four district 25 candidates running for state representative are stressing reduced government. Incumbent Republican Glenstead is calling for an across-the-board 10-per cent cut-back in state spending. He says spending was up 30 per cent this year, probably 20 per cent more than necessary.

Democrat Raymond Stivers believes that cutting taxes will be difficult but that more money can be had out of tax revenue outside the state. He joins Glenstead in opposing state supported land use planning and the Sunshine Initiative. Stivers has also expressed opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment, although he has not taken a position on it.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — William J. Casey Jr., the White House's chief labor trouble shooter, expressed hope today that both sides in the coal negotiations could be brought together soon to avert a national strike Nov. 17.

But others, in the industry were not as optimistic after negotiations between the United Mine Workers' union and representatives of the Bituminous Coal Operators' Association broke down Sunday over a procedural issue.

The present contract for 130,000 miners in 25 states expires Nov. 2 and since union rules require a secret ballot, by every member it was doubtful a ratification could be completed by that time. The union has a new contract, no work, tradition becoming miners would walk out until they were satisfied with a contract.

UMW has been in touch with both sides since talks stopped and although no new negotiations have been set up, it was hopeful today of getting the sessions started again.

"I think we can get it going again," Casey said.

A hope of union delegates voted to go back to the mines and prepare for a strike. UMW President Arnold Miller said Sunday the outlook was "pretty grim" but said a strike was not inevitable.

According to sources close to the negotiations, both sides were close to an agreement but they were still major economic questions to be worked out. Negotiations broke down when it could not be decided what issues to negotiate, they said.

Guy Farmer, general counsel and chief negotiator for the coal association, said, "I still think we have a chance of averting a strike." But West Virginia Gov. Arch Moore, whose state leads the nation in underground coal production, said Sunday he doubts a strike could be avoided.

A prolonged national coal strike would be a serious blow to the nation's already shaky economy and even a brief shutdown could boost inflation by crippling industrial production.

"If it's a short coal strike I don't expect the effects would be too serious," Albert Ross, head of the President's Council on Wages and Stability, said today.

"If it goes on any length of time, of course, it could have a very serious impact on the economy," I hope Bill Casey will be able to bring about a settlement in the next few days.

Gloom in coal talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite a new wave of optimism among Republicans in the last days of the 1974 campaign, Democrats were still confident that the coal industry's strike would be averted.

A United Press International survey in the last week of the campaign showed the Democrats were likely to gain five governorships, two seats in the Senate and 20 House seats.

The survey gave them 47 out of the 50 power seats in Congress and the nation's statehouses in Tuesday's elections.

US turns up pardon memo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The prosecution in the Watergate cover-up trial today disclosed a long lost memo it said showed the seven original burglars knew they were being paid for their silence and expected to be pardoned by the Nixon administration in return.

Prosecutor James F. Nease told the cover-up trial of five former aides to Richard M. Nixon, "The evidence is a 'handshell' memo written by fugitive conspirator E. Howard Hunt, Jr. on Nov. 11, 1972 — was surrendered Saturday by attorney William O. Bittman.

Bittman, Hunt's former counsel and an unindicted conspirator in the cover-up plot over the past two years, Hunt admitted to only recently.

Nease made the disclosure, which he described as a "handshell" in the courtroom plot, before former Nixon campaign aide Jeb Stuart Magrawe testified in his testimony.

"Half measures will be unacceptable," the Hunt memo said. "This should not be misinterpreted as a threat but a reminder that loyalty should always be a two-way street."

The defendants have followed all instructions meticulously and are maintaining their part of the bargain, Hunt said in the memo. "The administration, however, remains defiant."

Boisean dies after crash

WENDELL — A Boise man died Sunday of head injuries suffered in a traffic accident Friday night one mile west of Wendell on I-84.

State Patrolman Jim Finch said Donald Clifford Coleman, 47, Boise, was driving a station wagon west on the highway — high on when he approached an eastbound wrecker pulling a disabled potato truck. The wrecker was at the extreme right of the highway and the tractor said Coleman apparently did not see the slower moving vehicles until he was almost upon them.

Officer Finch said Coleman swerved to the left and as he did so, struck the rear left corner of the potato truck, throwing his own vehicle out of control. It left the highway and rolled over, demolishing the vehicle.

Finch said he believed Coleman was thrown from the vehicle. He was taken to Gooding County Memorial Hospital and transferred to Boise where he died Sunday morning. With Coleman were his wife, June, 48, and their daughter, Tina, 9. Both were treated for minor injuries at the Gooding hospital and released.

Butz asks new food agency

BRISELLES (UPI) — The United States today proposed a new world food agency to bring Russia and the oil-producing nations into food aid programs.

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz told news conference here Sunday that the agency would supplement the existing U.S. Food and Agricultural Organization. Butz said he discussed the idea at the World Food Conference opening Tuesday in Rome, Butz left here for Rome after talks with European Commission officials.

Press reports from Washington had said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will lead the conference's opening session that a new agency, responsible for the U.N. Secretary General, is needed to oversee food, trade, production and reserves.

"The FAO does not include one of the world's leading 'food-producing' and 'food-consuming' nations, the Soviet Union," Butz said. "I think any program like this that will involve a better monitoring of food supplies, to be meaningful, must have some input from the Soviet Union."

Butz added that "by the same token, one of the groups of nations currently able, and which is exhibiting some willingness, to increase their participation in the world food aid programs, are the oil-producing nations."

BELGRADE (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger appealed to the Arab and Israeli governments today to make an effort to bring their positions closer to each other in the interests of achieving a Middle East peace settlement.

"He also moved to patch up the United States' quarrel with Turkey."

After talks with President Tito of Yugoslavia, Kissinger pledged in a carefully worded statement that the United States would do its best to prevent a stalemate from developing following the headline decisions of the Arab summit conference in Rabat.

Magic Valley hospital bond vote up Tuesday

By CRICKET BIRD
Times News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County residents will have their say on a proposed $4.97 million hospital construction program at Magic Valley Memorial during the general election Tuesday.

A previous bond proposal was narrowly defeated last February. At that time, hospital supporters lobbied a poor voter turnout for the failure of the issue to occur.

By scheduling the bond election to coincide with the general election, hospital administrators hope to draw a larger portion of voters, and establish a clear picture of the county's opinion.

Inflation has pushed the cost of the construction program from $4.6 million in February to $4.97 million now, even with cutbacks in improvement plans.

Primary objectives of the expansion and renovation program are:

- Enlargement and modernization of the emergency room facilities to upgrade emergency care and alleviate the space squeeze now a problem.
- Relocation and enlargement of surgery facilities to meet a growing need for surgical space and to cut the wait now faced by many surgery patients.
- Addition of 30 new beds to alleviate overcrowding which presents a frequent problem now at the hospital.

Development of an outpatient treatment center, which would provide one-day surgical treatment, reducing costs for patients and the space strain in surgery. An outpatient center has been identified as a community health need by the state health plan.

Renovation and expansion of laboratory and X-ray departments to meet the expanding need for tests and treatments.

Renovation and expansion of services such as laundry, boiler room and kitchen, in many areas essentially abandoned, since the construction of the hospital in the early 50's.

Expansion of business office space to meet space need for increasing paperwork.

Improvement of hospital safety features to meet tightened governmental regulations.

If approved, the bonds would take 20 years to mature, requiring a yearly mill levy estimate between 4.62 and 5.22 mills. Construction would probably take nearly three years to complete, with the addition of beds a top priority.

The issue has received unanimous backing by the 15-member hospital board, the county commissioners, and the Republican and Democratic central committees.

Any person who is a resident of Twin Falls County, 18 years old or over, a U.S. citizen and willing to sign a voter's oath may vote on the bond election.

Vote Tuesday! Polls open 8 a.m. until 8 p.m.

US, Spain open base talks

MADRID (UPI) — The United States and Spain today started formal negotiations to renew their agreement regarding the U.S. Navy and Air Force bases in Spain.

Sources close to the Spanish government said Spain was expected to make the United States continue a formal search for a final agreement on the government's "generational" program in exchange for continued use of four bases.

The U.S. delegation, led by Ambassador-at-Large Robert McCluskey and including the State Department's Iberian affairs director, Alan Lukens, met with Spanish Undersecretary of Foreign Affairs Juan Jose Irujo and other officials. Spanish sources said the talks — to be followed by other meetings in Washington and Madrid in the coming months — were expected to last two or three days.

U.S. sources said McCluskey was scheduled to leave for Portugal by midweek.

The present agreement, signed in 1970 and expiring in August next year, grants the United States the use of air bases near Madrid, Seville and Zaragoza, and the Polaris submarines base at Rota near the Strait of Gibraltar.

The United States has been providing Spain with technical, economic, military and cultural aid programs in exchange.

The UPI survey meshed with the Gallup assessment of the Senate outcome made Sunday by Democratic national chairman Robert S. Strauss. He was below his estimate of a 27 to 32 seat increase.

Strauss did not give a number for reversionists, preferring to predict instead that 40 to 50 per cent of the people in the nation will be living under Democratic government.

Republican National chairman Mark J. Daley said she has "all during the campaign" declined "to play the numbers game" in her joint television appearance with Strauss, but ventured "I see a turning around" of GOP prospects.

The same cautious optimism came from the chairman of the party's congressional campaign committee — Sen. William Brock, R-Tenn., and Rep. Robert Michel, R-Ill.

They appeared after Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia, the Democratic National Committee's campaign coordinator, predicted Democratic gains of five to seven in the Senate, 15 to 20 in the House, and seven to 10 governorships.

"We're going to do much better than that," Brock replied. "We have an excellent chance to pick up some independent Democratic seats."

The UPI survey gave the GOP two governorships "now held" by Democrats, but estimated a loss of seven Republican governorships. It forecast no Democratic Senate losses.

"We're going to suffer some losses," Michel conceded, but added that he would not consider the loss of 20 to 25 seats a GOP wipeout.

The party chairman, were interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press" and Carter-Brock and Michel on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

One likely reason for the optimism is midterm election history — the party controlling the White House traditionally has "lost" seats in the presidential election year.

Michel said a recent loss was the recent midterm average and if the Democrats fell below that, he would see it as a partial victory.

Other reasons, except for the most extreme predictions, the prospects do not seem firm for the Democrats to gain a numerically "veto-proof" Congress — 67 seats of the Senate and 29 in the House. If Ford and other GOP candidates have been regularly issuing dire predictions of what would happen to the country if the Democrats won that much, and they can be expected to find solace in presidentialism.

An exception to the upbeat tone of Republican talk came from Charles Goodell, the former New York GOP senator now heading the President's cleanup petro board.

Goodell said he had warned Ford of a very bad year, as many as to GOP House seats, going down the drain, mostly because a lot of good Republicans declined to run.

Another prediction came from Speaker Carl Albert, who picked a pickup of 27 to 28 House seats as a solid victory, and said he expected it to happen despite Ford's "wild self" campaign tactics, which he said have "not" sold very well.

But returned to Washington.

The "Survey" showed the Democrats' preference for the West Coast and California, New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Oregon, Arizona and Wyoming, while losing seats in Alaska and Kansas.

It showed GOP voters picking up GOP Senate seats in Colorado, Florida, Kentucky, North Dakota and Utah.

Question . . .
A very dear friend of mine died recently. I am told his property will escheat to the State. What does this mean?
Answer . . .
Your friend evidently has neither a will nor any known family. All of his real and personal property, therefore, is essentially ownerless and will reverts to the State for the common good. The State will hold the property in safekeeping for several years just in case any heirs are located. If heirs do turn up this escheated property will be released to them. To a greater or lesser extent all states practice escheat and look to these laws for revenue.
A current, valid will lodged in a place where it cannot be lost or destroyed is the only real assurance anyone without a family can have that his property will not escheat to the State.

QUESTIONS

1. What do you consider the major legal issues in the country?

2. In what areas should the prosecutor's office step up its activities, if any?

3. In your opinion, what legal areas will demand most of your time as prosecutor? Why?

4. In what ways could the prosecutor better work with county and city law enforcement agencies?

1. The guilt or innocence of those charged with violating state or county criminal laws. The magnitude of this legal problem is exemplified by the fact that a full-time county prosecutor has been authorized by the state legislature. The county prosecutor also acts as a legal advisor to the county commissioners.

2. The addition of a quality full-time deputy prosecutor to the prosecutor staff would allow individual cases to be reviewed in detail to insure the best possible case disposition. The prosecutor's office should also be active in sentencing recommendations which are coordinated with local rehabilitation programs.

1. The prosecution of persons charged with violation of criminal laws of the state of Idaho. This can be accomplished by giving full support to law enforcement agencies yet insuring all constitutional guaranteed rights of the accused.

4. By fully supporting law enforcement agencies within the framework of constitutionally guaranteed rights in the prosecution of criminal matters. Also by advising the agencies on new and amended criminal laws and the technical legalities involved with arrests, searches, and seizures in order to avoid technical dismissals and appeals.

1. I consider the major problem to be the rapidly increasing crime rate and drug abuse in Twin Falls County.

2. The Prosecutor's office should conduct legal seminars for law enforcement officials to increase their efficiency.
b. The Prosecutor's office should provide effective representation for the County officials.
c. Efficient and effective administration of the office in order to handle the increasing number of criminal cases.

3. The area that will demand most of the prosecutor's time will be in criminal prosecution of persons with increasing crime and drug abuse.

4. The prosecuting attorney should develop full communication with county and city law enforcement agencies, and coordinate the joint efforts of these agencies and that of the prosecuting attorney's office. Also, the prosecutor must provide effective leadership for the County and City law enforcement agencies.

5. A Times-News survey last year showed that only about one-third of court-ordered child support payments in the county were being paid. What would you do to remedy this situation?

6. Was the county's mass-gathering ordinance sufficient to control Evel Knievel's Snake River Canyon jump? Is it enforceable or should it be amended?

5. The prosecutor's actions are controlled by Idaho Law Code section 12-710A which makes the prosecutor responsible for enforcing the divorce decree ordering child support payments. Enforcement consists of a court hearing to determine whether or not the defendant should be held in contempt of court. Vigorous enforcement of this law would help remedy the problem.

6. The law provides effective means of enforcing a court-ordered child support payments. I will use them vigorously.

7. The county's ordinance was written for a mass-gathering jump, if the law's conditions had not been compromised by the county's ordinance and before issuing a license. The ordinance is good because it requires proper assembly planning and is enforceable.

8. I believe the ordinance as it appears is sufficient and enforceable. It is extremely difficult under any circumstances to control a mass gathering of that magnitude.

Death probed

HOISEHOF BEND, Idaho (UPI)—Searchers combed the hills of the Harris Creek area near here today, the sheriff, looking for clues in the mysterious death of a 17-year-old Boise boy.

Mark Carlson's body was found last Tuesday lying face down in Harris Creek. The boy had a bullet wound in the stomach, and an autopsy revealed that he had died by death.

More than 40 volunteers were looking for Carlson's red jacket and his hunting rifle, which had vanished without a trace.

Loren Whitney, an investigator with the Idaho Department of Law Enforcement, said the big question is whether Carlson's rifle fired the fatal shot.

"If the missing rifle is found, he said, it will answer a lot of questions."

When found, the boy's body was caked with mud and there was gravel embedded in scratches on his leg, as if he had been dragged or had slipped backward.

Gem rescues praised

BOISE (UPI)—The U.S. Air Force was praised by Idaho Rep. Orval Hansen R-Idaho for assisting in recent rescues of Idaho people.

Hansen praised the rescue of an infant with respiratory problems, a lost hunter and a hunter who had been accidentally shot. All of these instances were cases in which the air force responded with rescue units.

Andrus merits second term

Cecil Andrus has done a respectable job as Idaho governing during the past four years. He should be reelected. While we often have disagreed with Andrus, we find his generally have performed well during his first term...

Frankly the Andrus campaign slogan sums up the feelings of many people: "Now that we have a good governor, let's keep him." After the embarrassment of the Samuelson administration, many people will be pleased to see Andrus continue in office.

Andrus has managed to make his political omelet without breaking many eggs. If Andrus has an Achilles' heel, it is his past reluctance to push for programs that are politically unpopular, but needed.

We believe a strong program-oriented governor is needed if power is to be intelligently shifted from federal bureaucracies to the state level.

Vote yes for better hospital

One of the most important questions to be decided by Tully Falls County voters today is the future of King's Valley Memorial Hospital. We urge the voters to support the proposed hospital expansion and modernization program.

- It would greatly improve emergency room services. The existing pinched facilities would be expanded into a full-fledged emergency care operation. - Add 30 new beds, and lay the groundwork for possible addition of 60 more, to help reduce overcrowding that has occurred in recent years.

The hospital trustees have offered a reasonable, necessary program for hospital improvement. We urge a yes vote tomorrow.

Healing NATO breach

PARIS — The most urgent task Henry Kissinger has set himself on his current diplomatic foray is moving the Cyprus crisis along the path to peaceful settlement, thereby healing a serious breach in NATO.

The United States, however, does not compare with the ultimate peaks sought in continued talks with Russia; but the immediate dangers of failure are great. Kissinger's efforts to get some motion on Cyprus have been delayed by two things. First, the U.S. Congress sought to impose a handicrap on presidential policy making by abrupt termination of aid to Turkey.

"Maybe he'll be good now that he's legitimate!"

Elections most dangerous

Elections are probably the most dangerous part of democracy. I say "probably," because a strong case can also be made for the jury system, which puts a person's fate in the hands of 12 people, anxious to be heard of in a hurry to get home from dinner. However, I suspect elections are even worse because the fates of whole cities, states and countries are up in the air, even more cavalierly than a defendant's hash.

RUSSELL BAKER

I used to vote regularly, never missed an election. We were taught in school that every citizen has a duty to vote whether he knows what he's voting for or not, and I believed it. So I voted in the last primary... Nowdays when everyone prizes himself an independent thinker, this control is weakening. The parties, as a result, look for people who might have some quixotic appeal to the massively uninformed, such as a name easy to remember, a cool look on television or good words.

Budget, I discovered, was a decent but not pertinent matter. I learned that hadron was a creature, Eideklat a jay-soubert, Prande a Mafia lawyer and Shap an illiterate.

(c) Newhouse News Service WASHINGTON — Geothermal power is still in its infancy, but already there are signs of a struggle with the energy industry over control of the young resource. Some electric utilities claim that oil companies, which have bought up leases on most of the federal land thought to cover marketable geothermal steam, are seeking to use the trade journal put it "the monopolization of the potentially valuable energy resource."

The utilities have made it hard in Teps-Ulman, D-Idaho, and Mike McCormack, D-Wash., who recently sponsored a bill to provide a program of newly discovered geothermal areas for preferential bidding to electric utilities. Oil companies, on the other hand, say that is unwarranted favoritism with their capital and expertise. They say oil companies should be the ones to pioneer this financially risky new power source.

We would say the best way to deal it to let the producers explore and produce and let the market determine what and market. The oil companies are not looking to get out of the geothermal business. They are having learned the hard way that the scale of production is small. The oil companies are not looking to get out of the geothermal business. They are having learned the hard way that the scale of production is small.

The small utility is faced with a financial situation which makes it difficult to raise the funds to build a geothermal plant. The Ulman-McCorrack bill, introduced to date to have a chance of becoming law this year, would encourage utilities to invest in geothermal power.

would certainly have the effect of keeping prices of geothermal power low. In some cases sales of rights have not even been submitted bids. Oil spokesmen say this is because utilities are unwilling to gamble on this relatively unproven power source. In part, utilities are strapped for capital and suspect in the early stages. They concede they would rather wait for a geothermal plant than invest in it if they could afford to wait. Some of the most serious oil-pool-order has been a Whittier, Calif., oil field called Romblon. The California Public Resources Commission, which has the authority to lease the oil fields, has made certain "The oil companies can pretty well price out the competition if they know their going to be competition," said Warren Hines, Bark's general manager. "We don't see why we let them have the rocks they're crying over."

Editor, Times-News: This is being written to urge our Twin Falls County residents to vote Tuesday in support of the hospital bond issue.

I've seen the various progress efforts of our citizens in most instances receive enthusiastic support and when it involves the health of the community and every person in our area, it should become more significant.

Recently I was a patient at our Magic Valley Memorial Hospital for about five days. I found that the entire staff and personnel accorded me first-class treatment and the only thing that concerned me was the tremendous handicap under which some of these fine people have to work.

My first visit was in the emergency treatment room and before tests had been completed, an emergency call came received for an accident involving a young woman caught in a car. It was necessary to assign me to an adjacent room while emergency treatment was given to the girl.

The entire staff went into action and extensive professional personnel summed up to her and hardly had the girl arrived when another call was received involving an overdose case.

It was a privilege to see that our hospital needed some very important expansion to accommodate the growing requirements of our valley residents. We are indeed fortunate to have one of the most outstanding group of dedicated physicians, surgeons and specialists in the state and they are constantly striving to bring specialized treatment to our local facility without our having to go elsewhere at additional expense.

Magic Valley Memorial Hospital has a goal to provide us with the best medical services possible and we are being very short-sighted if we do not respond to the urgent requests being made.

When our present facility was dedicated in 1958, I had the pleasure of being a guide on conducted tours through the facility and a speaker at the dedication. R.P. Parry said even then that we could not sit still and expect this to be the ultimate last effort at a modern hospital facility for 1974, somebody would need to be updated and expanded.

The time is now and the need is most urgent. Let us not deny the facts and complain if we have to pay more, the larger this matter is unnecessarily delayed.

But, there is everything wrong with Badger's and Associated Industries' claim that "TF is anybody's business, how much we, Associated Industries contributed," to promote S.H.R. 114's passage. Scientists back delay in cleanup

(c) Newhouse News Service WASHINGTON Auto makers hoping to win a new delay from Congress in meeting the deadline for a 90 percent reduction in auto pollution emissions, have received the support of a substantial panel of university scientists whose views could figure significantly in the coming debate on amending the Clean Air Act.

Scientists from Columbia, Harvard and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in a report commissioned by the National Science Foundation, recommended that the cleanup deadline be extended until 1980. The deadline for controlling emissions of carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons have already been extended to 1977 and for nitrogen oxides to 1978.

The report, based on a three-year study by engineering experts at the three universities, said the delay should be granted to enable the auto makers to develop devices other than catalytic converters.

The report said it was "unwise and unrealistic" to equip 20 million older cars with catalytic converters because "the effectiveness is marginal in relation to the costs."

The converter—a muffler-like device that is being installed on almost all 1973-model cars—is being installed for about $100 in extra cost for a new car. It improves fuel economy and sharply reduces pollutants, so that 1973-model cars emit half the hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions of 1971 cars. But the converters cause pollution of their own by emitting sulphuric acid.

The scientists said a delay in the deadline for reducing 90 per cent emissions would eliminate the need for auto makers to rely exclusively on converters.

America is at a point of decision. We can turn our country around by electing men to Congress who will once again give us government of the people, by the people and for the people.

Bob Smith is such a candidate.

Bob, like most of us, believes that it is time we Americans take government out of the hands of the career politicians who have delivered us into this crisis, and give it back to the kind of men whose aim is to bring the highest level of integrity and intelligence to government . . . not to simply perpetuate themselves in office.

Box score: recession

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All the major economic statistics published for a United States led by inflation and recession.

These statistics are issued separately. Putting them together to show a full picture of how the economy is progressing.

But that reason UPI presents a box score of the latest economic news.

The Consumer Price Index increased in September by 1.2 per cent. It sustained the 13.4 per cent annual increase in the 12 months ending in October of 1973. In the first nine months of this year, prices rose more than they did in all of last year.

Inflation: The annual percentage change in the Consumer Price Index, called the CPI, deflator, a measurement preferred by economists, inflation's pace was at an annual rate of 11.5 per cent during the July-September period of 1974.

Wholesale prices: A partial harbinger of things to come, wholesale prices rose by one-tenth of a per cent in September, the smallest increase in 11 months (and equivalent to a 1.2 per cent annual rate). This was well below the 4.7 per cent annual rate in August.

Unemployment: Joblessness rose to 6.6 per cent in September, the highest in three years. The number of unemployed persons looking for work reached 5.5 million on Oct. 1. The number of persons in civilian work force rose to 92 million in October of 1973. Unemployment was 4.6 per cent.

Output: The nation's "real" Gross National Product, a measure of the total output of goods and services, adjusted for changes in the distortions of inflation, declined in the third quarter of 1974 at an annual rate of 2.9 per cent. This was the third consecutive drop. The common definition of recession as a decline for two consecutive quarters in GNP.

Industrial output: Production of U.S. industries fell at an annual rate of three-tenths of 1 per cent in the third quarter. This compares with a rise of 9 per cent in the second quarter and a decline in the first quarter of 6.6 per cent.

Productivity: Worker productivity, output per hour in work, fell at an annual rate of 0.6 per cent in the third quarter. This helped boost unit labor costs at an annual rate of 13.4 per cent.

Productivity: Productivity often declines at the start of a recession, then a bit smaller work force, employees occupied full time, but the drop in demand is not so sharp, enough in just a few days.

Hourly pay: "Real" hourly pay, adjusted to strip out inflation, fell at an annual rate of 2.1 per cent in the third quarter.

Factory pay: Average hourly pay of Suit broke code

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The widow of astronaut Virgil "Gus" Grissom says in a book published today that she broke a code of silence when she sued the builder of the Apollo 11 in which her husband died.

Grissom, Edward H. White and Roger B. Chaffee died when a flash fire swept their cabin during a ground test a month before their scheduled launch on the first manned test of the moonship.

A review board said the fire probably was caused by a malfunctioning oxygen tank. The pure pressurized oxygen environment allowed the flames to engulf the cabin rapidly.

Betty Grissom says in "Starfire," written jointly with Henry Hill, that she cut a deal with a dance club after the 1967 spacecraft fire. But she said she continued to live by the code of silence that was decreed by the face of peer opinion that you should accept your loss in silence, hear up, speak no evil, don't rock the boat, be noble and sacrifice your life to the military, Hill says.

Mrs. Grissom said North American Aviation, part of the Rockwell Corp. and the main contractor, sued out of court for $300,000.

Albert says inflation key issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker Carl Albert says his primary concern is the minds and they blame the administration for it despite President Ford's "hard sell" of the economy.

Albert, Oklahoma Democrat, predicted in an interview that the Republicans will take a terrific beating Tuesday at the polls.

"We're going to have a solid victory," Albert said, "with 25 seats at least, probably more, maybe 40."

Democrats now occupy 247 of the 530 House seats.

"Economic issues are on the minds of the highest segment of the population," said Albert, fresh from a two-week campaign tour that traversed Nebraska, Illinois, West Virginia, Texas, Ohio and Oklahoma.

Albert's "hard sell" have really been clipped and they're not going to get it," Albert said.

Albert has been checking voter sentiment aboard an Air Force plane provided on a pay-as-you-fly basis by President Ford.

Ford was criticized for campaigning for Republicans aboard Air Force One, so he replied by offering Albert the use of a government plane to do, in effect, some equivalent

Gambling, porno issues on ballot

By United Press International

From casino gambling in New Jersey to bingo in Kansas and porno shops in Oregon, the distortions of inflation Tuesday will decide a broad range of questions in addition to electing people to office.

Some of the referenda involve major political battles, for example, the New Jersey proposition that would legalize casino gambling.

Supporters say it would revitalize Atlantic City and the sagging Jersey shore resort industry. Opponents claim it would bring an organized crime.

Gambling is on the ballots in several other states.

Washington voters, who repealed constitutional annual term limits two years ago, may vote on details of setting up the first state lottery west of the Mississippi.

Hugo is the question in Kansas and also in South Carolina, where voters decide whether to allow the game to be operated by "tax exemption organizations."

Oregon voters will decide whether to outlaw sales of pornography, obscene materials and message parlors offering sexual stimulation.

Obsolete weapons seen power source

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The director of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory has proposed that the Defense Department, as a move toward easing the energy crisis, build nuclear power plants at military bases and fuel by fissionable material from obsolete atomic weapons.

As envisioned by Dr. Harold M. Agnew, director of the Atomic Energy Commission's Laboratory in Los Alamos, 500,000 tons of nuclear power plants for overseas bases could be mounted on barges or in sunken submarine hulls. For major bases in the United States, he suggests that the Defense Department cooperate with private industry in mounting a centralized atomic power plant that could meet a range of power requirements.

The proposal was presented by Agnew in a private lecture at Scripps Ranch, Calif., the Council on Foreign Relations in New York City. With Agnew's permission, a copy of his lecture is being distributed by some of his scientific colleagues, who view the proposal as a novel approach toward using the atomic weapons stockpile and nuclear power technology to ease the Pentagon's dependence upon petroleum products.

GOP paying Ford's tab

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican National Committee will pick up the tab for President Ford's traveling and other political activities in the current campaign, an estimate of $750,000.

GOP officials said each presidential political campaign costs about $4 million, including maintenance and refueling of Air Force One, hotel bills and other expenses.

The committee will be charged $2,000 for each hour the presidential jet was in the air.

Ford completed his campaign tour which covered nearly 17,000 miles and 20 states this weekend. The GOP has a $6 million budget and is required by law to pay for the President's political travel and other campaign activities.

Aide airs WH changes of New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Donald Rumsfeld, the White House chief of staff, declared Sunday that President Ford had made substantial changes in the makeup of the administration from former President Richard M. Nixon.

"It's a Ford White House," Rumsfeld said with emphasis. "He challenged" however, reports of an impending shuffle in the composition of the cabinet, which has not changed since Ford assumed the presidency on August 9.

The New York Times reported on Thursday that White House officials and others close to the President expected Ford to reshuffle the cabinet after the elections next week.

Rumsfeld told television interviewers Sunday that, so far as he was aware, Ford has no present plans to make changes in the cabinet.
The question of the administration's makeup is among the most sensitive matters within the White House. Some Republicans want to have the lingering memory of the Nixon administration erased before the mid-term congressional elections. He suggested that Ford wanted too long to put his own staff in the executive branch.

Rumsfeld, interviewed at the Columbia Broadcasting System, commented that "you can make a case that there's been substantial change."
All of the examples he cited, however, were on the White House staff, which Rumsfeld himself joined three weeks ago.

As the resignation of General Alexander M. Haig Jr. Rumsfeld said that since taking office, Ford had replaced "something over 100" of the senior in or out of White House staff and 124 professional members at the White House staff. "I have left and another 16 are leaving." He did not identify any of these staff departures.

The prosodial and also said that "the best assurance of stability is orderly change, as opposed to abrupt change, in the secretary."

On "Meet, the Press," the National Broadcasting Company's public affairs interview program, Mary Laine Smith, the chairman of the Republican National Committee, said that she would expect and encourage Ford to make changes in the administration.

She said that she was confident the administration "will have the Ford stamp on it, and it should."

The officials quoted by Times on Thursday, said that between the elections and the first of next year, Ford was virtually certain to replace both senior Nixon holdovers. They were identified as Peter J. Brimley, the secretary of labor, Caspar W. Weinberger, the secretary of health, education and welfare, Claude S. Briggance, the secretary of transportation and Roy L. Ash, the cabinet-level director of the Office of Management and Budget.

The sources also said that the President probably would name new officials to replace Frederick B. Dent, the secretary of commerce, F. Lee L. Hall, the secretary of agriculture, James T. Lynn, the secretary of housing and urban affairs, Lynn was said to be likely to move to a top spot on the White House staff.

HABIB BOURGUIBA re-elected

Bourguiba elected to 5th term

TUNIS (UPI) — President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia has been re-elected for a fifth term by 99.99 per cent of the vote on an one-candidate ballot.

Interior Minister Tahar Belkhouja said 1,577,294 citizens cast ballots Sunday out of a total of 1,577,215 valid votes. 1,576,291 or 99.99 per cent opted for Bourguiba, the only candidate.

"This score is unequalled in the world," Belkhouja said. In 1969, Bourguiba obtained 99.98 of the vote.

The election may be Bourguiba's last because parliament will soon vote on a constitutional amendment proposed by the country's only political party making the 71-year-old Bourguiba president for life.

Kennedy criticizes series articles

BOSTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., criticized the Boston Globe Sunday for "fishing" for unidentified sources for a series of articles on his involvement in the 1969 death of a young woman at Chappaquiddick.

Kennedy, in a letter to the newspaper, published in its Sunday edition, said the Globe used the "unreliable sources" to relate "grossly unfair" allegations relative to his involvement in the death of Mary Jo Kopechne.

"On several occasions, the articles make use of unnamed sources at one point or another," Kennedy wrote. "I am sure that you are not alone in your search for a walk on the beach instead of a theory."

"At another point, to say I considered a plan to have Mr. Joseph Gargan, Kennedy's cousin, take the blame for the tragedy," Kennedy's letter said.

"These charges are untrue and grossly unfair," he said.

Globe Editor Thomas Waship, in response to the letter, said "the Globe only says that it did not rely on just one source. In its 100-month publication, the Chappaquiddick affair has always been the spotlight reporting team carefully considered the inquiry and knowledgeability of its sources before publishing information provided by them."

The series of articles said Kennedy's version of the mishap, adding that only "meat prosecution" by wary officials prevented Kennedy's indictment in serious charges.

DONALD RUMSFELD

Ordeal blamed for crisis

BONG BEACH, Cal. (UPI) — Richard Nixon's mental state, the tension of the Watergate struggle and the humiliation of his fall from power to disgrace, may well have brought on his medical crisis.

Specialists in the subject unanimously have made the same answer to a UPI survey — although all added the conviction that they could make no firm diagnosis by long distance.

Nixon has had phlebitis for almost 10 years, but it was not until the end of his presidency became imminent, it is said, that he started to limp.

After his eviction from the White House, facing the ordeal of an appearance on the witness stand at the Watergate begin-up trial, Nixon's health began to deteriorate rapidly.

Nixon had been unusually healthy for his age while in office, but within 47 days of resignation and retirement he was hospitalized for a medical crisis.

Within 82 days he was at the brink of death from postoperative shock after what some doctors say should have been a simple operation.

"Stress can cause a variety of medical problems," said Dr. H. Ross Lynde of the University of Montreal, described as one of the world's leading experts on the links between emotional trauma and medical ills.

"It is quite possible that in Mr. Nixon's case it was the extraordinary stress that he was exposed to that precipitated it."

He noted that stress can cause an increase in the speed of blood clotting, and it was the increased clotting that drastically reduced circulation in Nixon's left leg that brought on the need for surgery.

Comment and Opinion

Smith's Fictions

Senate candidate Bob Smith is making statements of two major pieces of legislation in possession of our and surprising ignorance.

Smith has an odd saying that the Hells Canyon legislation which Senator Church is sponsoring along with Senator McClure will give all 50 states "equal say in the use of the river's waters."

That is nonsense. Far from giving other states control, the Hells Canyon legislation would prevent the Federal Power Commission from licensing dams, whether power to other states.

It also contains this specific language:

"No provision of this act, or any guideline, rules or regulations issued hereunder, shall in any way limit, restrict or conflict with present and future use of the waters of the Snake River and its tributaries upstream from the formation of the Hells Canyon National Recreation Area created hereby, for beneficial purposes, whether consumptive or non-consumptive, now or hereafter existing, including waters used for domestic, municipal, stockwater, irrigation, mining, power or industrial purposes."

The legislation would prevent Idahoans from losing the Middle Snake River and Hells Canyon in further dams. In the absence from such protective legislation, a federal agency is free to make a decision to in effect "export" the canyon.

Smith is at odds with the majority sentiment of Idahoans, as expressed in numerous opinion polls on Middle Snake dams.

Smith is also saying that wilderness management of some lands in Idaho is not good for wildlife.

That is also nonsense.

Continued wilderness management of the central Idaho primitive areas is essential to maintenance of large populations of bighorn sheep, mountain goat, elk, cougar and other species.

Idahoans have in the primitive areas a tremendous variety and abundance of wildlife that simply does not exist any more in areas with roads and heavy human intrusions.

The Idaho Fish and Game Department is in record attendance on the wilderness management of the primitive areas as essential to maintain the elk, sheep, goat, cougar and other wildlife populations, and to protect the watershed of the Middle Fork of the Salmon River.

In analyzing the area, the Forest Service has said the same thing — that opening it to roads and logging would mean a decline of certain wildlife populations and fisheries.

Smith advocates opening the primitive areas to roads and logging. He's representing timber interests on the issue, not Idaho sportsmen.

Smith is attempting to deceive the voters on two of Idaho's most critical resource issues.

Blaine County's races lack luster

HAIHEW—Blaine voters will have to vote early to decide Tuesday in the general elections.

The third district county commissioner race is drawing the most interest with Ken Bennett, Republican, and Guy Miller, Democrat, duking it out.

Miller is expected to carry the office, according to Democratic sources. But Bennett has a strong following in Ketchum.

The race is expected to be a close one and is expected to run about a month in Ketchum and Blaine.

Miller has a long record of public planning experience which he took to the office in the Blaine, Wash. City Council and three years on the planning commission there.

Bennett, 54, is seeking his second term as commissioner and has a record of development in the Blaine area.

The population increase here has doubled the commissioners' job of money management in the four years he has been in office, Bennett said.

In addition, he feels he has done a good job in the supervisory position of maintaining the Blaine sewer system.

Bennett and Gustafson had the completion of the county comprehensive plan and see the protection of Big Wood River as one of the main priorities of the county.

The closest race, according to political observers, is in county Treasurer Dorothy Foster, a Republican, and William Wright, Democrat, who has served as deputy treasurer for the last 12 months.

Bodette Fry, Republican, who is working in the county assessor's office.

Wright is endorsed by retiring treasurer Prox who asked Wright to run for the office. The job of tax notices and collection is "a big job," Wright said. He expressed no opinion on whether he should be deputy treasurer, or the assessor.

Fry says her experience for four years in the assessor's office has prepared her for the office. Fry said she knew the tax structure as well as anyone in Blaine County and this gives her a good foundation for the treasurer's job since the county treasurer is the tax collector.

Political observers view the race as a loss up.

The race for county assessor will probably go to the assessor, according to sources. Incumbent Delmer Nicholson, Republican, is expected to have an easy victory over challenger David W. Stecher, Ketchum, Democrat.

Nicholson is seeking his second term of office and feels experience is a prime requisite for the position. He has attended nine appraisal schools.

and nearly completed. The mapping program to tabulate the work of his office.

His office has nearly completed the required fire insurance reappraisal for Blaine. Ken Bennett and Nicholson said his knowledge of the county and its taxpayers is an asset.

Stelling has worked two seasons as moving company consultant for Estigmene Daves and design and two years in private public accounting.

Stelling said he would like to work closely with the planning and zoning commission regarding new subdivisions. Officials should know the probable increase in tax revenue which new developments generate, he said.

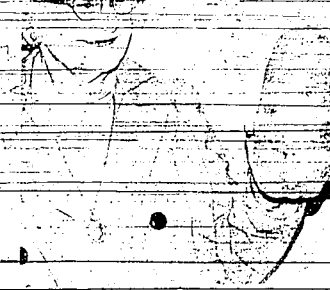

He advocates legislation allowing agricultural land to be used for agricultural purposes, while a rubber provision in the land is developed.

All other county and legislative district offices are unopposed.

Incumbent County Auditor Gary Gardner, Democrat, will run unopposed for county commissioner in the second district Blaine area. Democratic opposition for county clerk and assessor is also unopposed.

State Sen. John Bayne, R-Hubbard, is opposed as are the two representatives of the state legislature—Rep. Steve Anton-Schepert and Rep. E.A. McFall, R-Ketchum.

Regulations affect metals prospecting

REGULATIONS were filed with the Federal Bureau of Investigation to protect the environment during mining and prospecting operations for such metals as gold, copper and lead on National Forest lands.

The commission made by Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz following the public comment on final environmental statement and incorporation of several changes as a result of this comment.

He said the final regulations were printed in the Federal Register Aug. 28.

Secretary Butz said the regulations apply to the 140 million acres of national forest lands subject to locations and entry under the US Mining Laws of 1872.

The US Forest Service first published the mining use regulations on Dec. 19, 1973. After receiving and considering public comment on the proposed regulations were issued.

The regulations were published in the Federal Register on July 16.

A final environmental impact statement on the regulations was filed with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Comments should be aware of requirements under both federal and state laws on locating and marking mining claims on federal lands.

Interested persons should check the lands in which they are interested as to ownership and any restrictions that may exist. Recreation sites and campgrounds are generally closed to mining activity.

Kangaroo bounds from cornfield

PLANO, Ill. (UPI) — It was one of those routine nights for Patrolman John Orr, except that he, almost ran over a kangaroo.

The kangaroo bounded from a cornfield at Orr, who happened to be off duty Friday night, was driving down Riverside Road.

"I'm positive I saw him," Orr said Saturday. "I don't believe you when you see things like that. I definitely know it was a kangaroo."

Newspaper Editors and television viewers who are aware of the kangaroo's normal Down Under habitat, would have to assume that this cornfield-hopping marsupial is more often than not, a hoax which has eluded Chicago police and other "boring" can't-look-back-a-guesser-still-try-for-more-than-two-works.

"I hadn't slowed down," Orr would have had him. He was in the car behind me and when he saw him, he'd plan run on the road," Orr said.

The kangaroo paused in the middle of the road momentarily, then hopped into some weeds and leap-by-leap gradually moved out of sight, heading in the direction of "Tiny Scout camp," Orr said.

He said the kangaroo was at least two or three feet long, about two or three feet long, and was in a small car, so he looked pretty big from "my angle," Orr said.

He filed a report on the sighting with Kenfull County officials, who dispatched a kangaroo hunter to the area throughout this farm area. Plans as 40 miles, southwest of Chicago where a kangaroo was last seen at a Northwest State Wildlife Object in a day earlier, two specimens.

The big questions about the kangaroo are who they are, how they got here and how they came from the States. They are clean hunt and no one has filed a missing marsupial report.

Mrs. Hillis, Maier compete for Minidoka county commissioner post

RUPERT — One of the more interesting races facing voters in Minidoka County is the contest between Josephine Hillis, Democrat, and Fred Maier, Republican, for District 3 county commissioner seat.

Mrs. Hillis, 54, was appointed to the commission by Gov. Andrus 16 months ago, to fill an unexpired vacancy.

Hillis says she would like to be re-elected to the two-year position to see the completion of several projects started during her first term.

Completion of the judicial building, hospital expansion and an expanded landfill are projects she would like to see through.

Hillis would also like to see the beginning of a county historical society.

According to Hillis the county now has a small levy of about $2,500 for the historical project.

With that small levy and "bi-centennial" funds and revenue sharing, she said a good historical society and museum could be started.

Mrs. Hillis said the supports and planning and zoning she said the population of Minidoka has increased by 1,000 since the 1970 census.

Hillis said that with all of the young people coming into the county, there will be an increased load on the schools, roads will be more heavily traveled. Planning is necessary to deal with all the problems that might arise from new growth, she said.

Hillis said the planning that is now taking place in the county is involving people she said there are 150 committees meeting twice a month.

She believes all Magic Valley counties must become part of the regional airport authority before the port can be successful.

Hillis opposes the state Fish and Game Department's proposal to assume ownership and control of the Northside irrigation extension project.

She wants more information on the airport cost and would like to see the complete plans before undertaking it, she stated.

With 16 months on the job, and an extensive knowledge of county government, Hillis said she is the best choice for the commissioner seat.

JOSEPHINE HILLIS
Democrat

FRED MAIER
Republican

RUPERT — Seeking election as county commissioner from Minidoka's third district is Fred Maier, Republican.

Maier, 58, is currently in the race to unseat Josephine Hillis, a Democrat who has held the post for 16 months.

Maier, a potato farmer and city councilman from Rupert, said he is running mainly to "give people a choice."

Maier said that he would like to see much more progress on issues between Mrs. Hillis and himself.

Maier stated, "I don't oppose the 'bi-centennial' to build a regional landing next to the present courthouse."

Maier said, "I'm not in favor of the expansion of public hearings."

Maier refused to state whether he stands on the Snake River regional airport project.

Fair share urged

GOODING — John H. Brooks, Gooding Republican candidate for state representative, stated that he would support and introduce legislation to require the State Fish and Game Department to pay their fair share of the costs of the replacement of American Falls Dam.

"We are all aware that the American Falls Dam created the fishery by accident and it is the fish and game department's wish to continue and develop this fishery."

To the people of Idaho, Thank You

"Today, I want to express to the people in Idaho my profound gratitude for your confidence and trust and for the opportunities you have given me to serve our state.

During this campaign and in four previous years as U.S. Representative I have traveled throughout the Second District of Idaho, visiting every county and town. My family and I have met with you and together we have discussed the challenges of the future. We are all aware of the problems: inflation, high taxes, wasteful spending, increasing controls from the federal government and interference in our lives and the overwhelming crisis in confidence in our leadership. And I think we are equally aware of the opportunities we have to reach out and find solutions to these problems.

As I have met with you and talked and listened and learned of your concerns, I have been humbled and challenged by the very scope of the work ahead. But, I firmly believe that together you and I can make a difference. Together we can work to restore the confidence of the people in our government.

You have given me your trust on many occasions. I give you my promise that I will continue to honor that trust.

Thank you.

DEAR ABBY: I still never be able to make amends to my wife for what I did to her, but if you choose my letter for your column, it might keep someone else from making the same mistake. I'm an average, 33-year-old man, married for 15 years. She has always been a PICKPOCKET.

Now that I'm married, I do the same thing to my husband. Sometimes he misses what I took and sometimes he doesn't. Is it wrong to take money this way? I get an allowance to run the house—but sometimes it's not enough.

DEAR PICKS: If you need more money than your husband gives you, ask him for it when he's awake. To leave him when he's asleep should make you feel asleep.

Fleeces husband

DEAR ABBY: I still never be able to make amends to my wife for what I did to her, but if you choose my letter for your column, it might keep someone else from making the same mistake. I'm an average, 33-year-old man, married for 15 years. She has always been a PICKPOCKET.

One night I went out alone and picked up a nice-looking girl in a bar. Believe me, she looked and acted as nice as any girl I had ever met. She was immaculate and healthy. That night she gave me a good time, and in the morning she gave me such a severe case that she had to have a complete hysterectomy. She is only 30 years old, and now she'll never be able to have another child, and she wanted one so much. The doctor had to tell her that she had to have a hysterectomy because she had never looked at another man, and she knew it had to be my fault.

She says she's forgiven me, but I don't think I can ever forgive myself. Abby, please tell your readers not to take foolish chances like I did. I'm not a tramp, Abby. I went out on my wife only once, and God forgive me, it was the most foolish thing I've ever done.

DEAR HATING: I'll print your letter as a reminder to women as well as men that venereal disease is still one of society's most serious problems. Be careful!

DEAR ABBY: I'm a woman, 22, and married. I quit my job as a beautician because I don't like that kind of work. My friends, neighbors and relatives think that because I'm not working right now I have lots of time on my hands, so they come over and ask me to do their hair—for nothing, go ahead and do their hair. It's a lot easier than making up some kind of excuse. Besides, I don't want any trouble. Now I've had it. Will you please give me a good excuse to use when relatives, neighbors and friends ask me to do their hair?

DEAR RETIRED: You don't need an "excuse"—you have a legitimate reason. Use it, simply say, "I quit being a beautician because I don't care for that kind of work." And you haven't got the courage to stand up and speak your mind because you don't want "trouble"—you're already in a lot of trouble!

DEAR ABBY: "Nameless in Guilt" wrote: "If there were a book entitled 'How to Learn to Love Unwanted Children' it would be just what I need." Abby, what she needs is Margaret A. Hamburg's book, "The Light of Infants" (New York: Columbia University Press, 1973).

DEAR ARTHUR: Your suggestion is a good one. And so is the book, but it's out of print. "Nameless" should try her public library.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please. For Abby's new column, "What's Happening? Want to Know?" send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Talk of food for starving

By Roy Larson

Delegates to the United Nations World Food Conference that opens here Tuesday will be tested by a question that is Biblical in its simplicity and directness. From stars, chiefly from the 32 countries where the hunger problem is most acute, millions of hungry members of the human family — some say 400 million, others put the figure at 800 million or more — are asking the rest of the world to pass that test.

World's population are underfed, or actually hungry. About one-third of the world's population does not get enough of the quality foods needed for a healthy and productive life. Some 400 million persons are perennially hungry, and 40 percent of these are children.

What will take place at the Rome conference? The first event will be official on Monday, Barbara Ward, the economist and a group of other eminent persons are expected to issue a "manifesto" dramatizing the tragic scope of the food crisis and calling for a course of action.

On Tuesday, the conference officially will open with much fanfare. U.S. Secy. Gen Kurt Walthem will give the opening address in the morning and the afternoon session will include a speech by Kissinger.

A large share of the world's intelligentsia seems agreed that the planet currently faces a world food crisis of enormous proportions

Now, 16 when the delegates from more than 100 countries, including all the major powers, and myriad observers from a variety of nongovernmental organizations complete their plans of action, close their articles, and leave Rome for home.

Behind such appraisals are facts gathered by the U.N.'s Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO) which monitors world food needs from its headquarters in Rome. The FAO says:

The first time a serious drop in the 1972 production created a heavy deficit of food at a time when the North American countries were engaged in supply management programs to bring down their large surpluses.

Lamb prices higher at sale

Prices for fat lambs were $1 to $2 higher at the Idaho Livestock Auction for the week ending Oct. 28.

Prices in the world declined for the first time in 20 years. The sudden drop in the 1972 production created a heavy deficit of food at a time when the North American countries were engaged in supply management programs to bring down their large surpluses.

Also, this was the first time in recent decades that adverse weather affected production in several sub-continent simultaneously.

Frost hurts crop

Late frosts severely hampered this year's apple crop in Magic Valley with some orchards reporting a 50 percent loss on nearly all varieties.

Richard Kelly, owner of two orchards in Snake River Canyon near Buhl, reported his supply, which lasted until May through the end of the orchard, will be out of apples in four to six weeks.

MINIDOKA COUNTY FARMERS ANSWER BOB SMITH'S FERTILIZER ADVERTISEMENT

Bob Smith knows the Jones Act states that only American ships (of which there are none available) can carry American products between American Ports. The Jones Act was passed in 1925 to protect American shipping. The chances of changing or amending this act? — none!

What Bob Smith knows and does not state is, — that the President has complete authority to authorize ships under any flag or registry to transport American products between American ports.

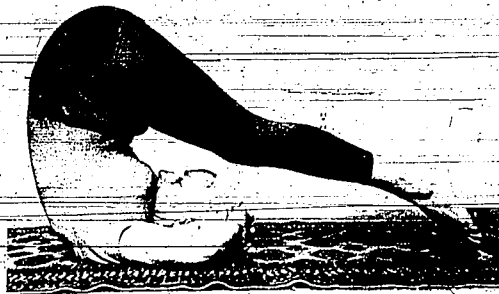

The Idaho deligation under FRANK CHURCH'S leadership first asked the Nixon and then the Ford administration to exercise this authority. A stroke of the pen by the President would waive the provisions of the Jones Act and allow fertilizer to move freely into the northwest by other available carriers.

We are for honesty, openness, integrity and decency in Government! . . .

Mass killing of blackbirds set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army scheduled a mass blackbird killing program in Kentucky and Tennessee for next week despite objections from an environmental group that it won't eliminate the birds and may harm the rest of the environment.

In a report of Alfred B. Chick's film "The Birds," he said the concentration of two million blackbirds at Greaseman, 300 feet spring at a distance of 1 million blackbirds have descended on the area around Ft. Campbell, Ky., and Shiloh Army Ammunition Plant, Tenn.

A spokesman said Saturday that the Army cannot guarantee to spray the birds with DDT.

"An environmentally harmful insecticide is being used," the Environmental Defense Fund (EDF) said. "The birds are a danger to health, crops and aviation. It said three soldiers had come down with histoplasmosis, a lung disease carried by the blackbirds. He said it would start its attack on the birds Wednesday, or as soon afterwards as weather conditions allow."

The EDF said the Army itself had created the problem by planting thousands of acres of pines around hang bases. It said they are so tightly packed that they prevent the growth of underbrush. Such groves attracted the blackbirds because rodents and other wildlife that might attack the blackbirds cannot live in tightly packed pinegroves.

If the groves were thinned and underbrush planted, the blackbirds would be discouraged from flocking, the EDF said.

The Greaseman blackbird swarms was killed "at up after the repeated use of firecrackers and loudspeakers broadcasting jarring loud noises. The birds at Greaseman also flocked to a pinegrove and that grove has subsequently been thinned by one-third."

GREGG, not Frank Church, is responsible for the fertilizer shortage. To preface my argument as you may know, anhydrous ammonia (commercial fertilizer) is by-product of the petroleum industry and, as you may not know, it is exported by major oil cartels such as those belonging to the Domestic International Sales Corporation (DISC). DISC members are encouraged to export scarce commodities such as oil, fertilizer, lumber, and sugar by the special tax treatment allowed them by the U.S. government, and by the tremendous profits they can make selling these commodities overseas, where no laws prohibit them from price-gouging. Probably the worst offender is the oil industry, which Frank Church, as Chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Multinational Corporations, has recently been investigating.

While no government agency is legally empowered to fully regulate the DISC's activities, Church's Subcommittee performs the vital watchdog function of alerting Americans to the DISC's excesses. Under his chairmanship the Subcommittee has discovered the following facts as quoted from its report dated Feb. 21, 1974: "The subsidiaries of Standard Oil Company of California and The Texas Company sold $70,000,000 worth of petroleum products to the U.S. Navy, which—total price—was about $30,500,000 higher than prices charged to other purchasers."

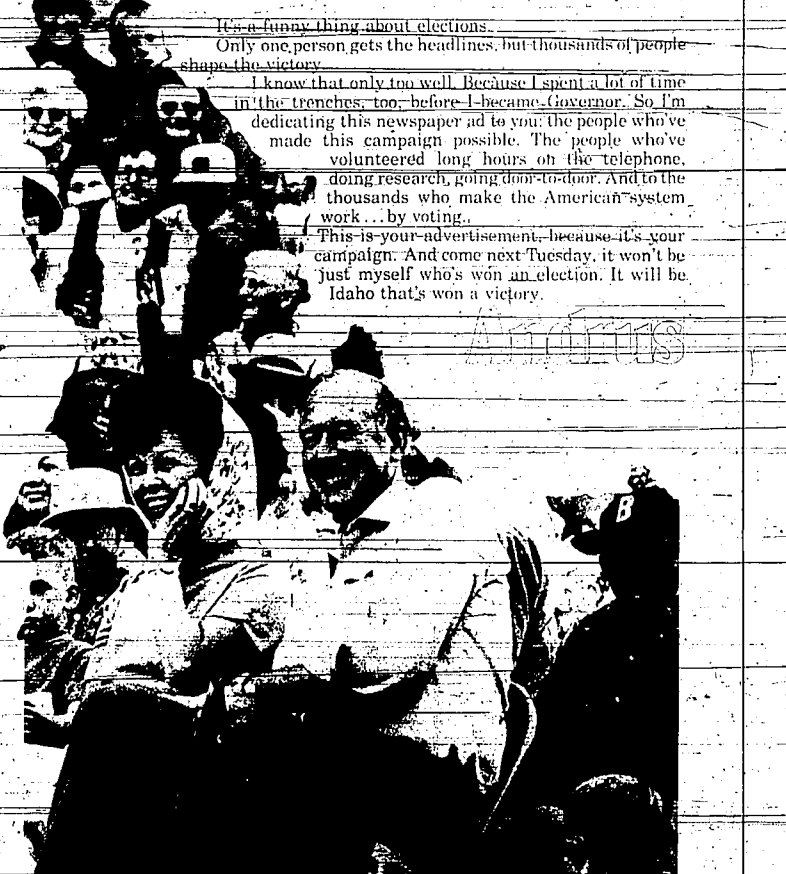

report. Church's Subcommittee notes, "In order to maintain the fiction of pricing bases, the American oil cartel partners engage in uniform collusive bidding when our military seeks to buy petroleum products from them in foreign lands." And, on page 31, "As a result, the cartel members, by their control over dominant segments of the domestic industry, regulate and determine the extent to which this nation shall be dependent on foreign supplies which could be cut off in time of war."

With profit incentives like these, you can see how DISC members, without supervision, would swiftly move to export even more petroleum products, thus depriving the Idaho farmer, and eventually, the American consumer, of the basic necessities of life. Yet, Senator Church's opponent advocates removal of any direction or supervision of these oil cartels or other multinational corporations. This certainly would be disastrous, for greed would prompt these corporations to short our country in favor of getting higher prices elsewhere.

To conclude, Frank Church has obviously in no way created the fertilizer shortage; in fact, he is doing everything in his power to alleviate it by revealing the reasons behind the shortages so laws can be passed to control greedy interests. Indeed, even to intimate that Church is responsible is stupid — comparable to my condemning a State legislator because my federal income taxes are so high.

Sincerely,
Joe Clements

Behind every successful Governor is a great state.

It's a funny thing about elections. Only one person gets the headlines, but thousands of people shape the victory.

I know that only too well. Because I spent a lot of time in the trenches, too, before I became Governor. So I'm dedicating this newspaper ad to you: the people who've made this campaign possible. The people who've volunteered long hours on the telephone, doing research, going door-to-door. And to the thousands who make the American system work... by voting.

This is your advertisement, because it's your campaign. And come next Tuesday, it won't be just myself who's won an election. It will be Idaho that's won a victory.

Bills slip by Patriots 29-28

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI)—John Leypold kicked his third field goal of the game, a 47-yarder at the start of the fourth period, and the Buffalo defense blocked a last-minute field goal attempt by New England's John Smith to give the Bills a 29-28 victory Sunday over the Patriots and, sole possession of first place in the AFC East.

Leypold's winning kick took 1:50 seconds into the final period, after the Bills had moved the ball to the New England 22. The boot sailed straight through the uprights.

New England, which lost its first game of the season two weeks ago, scored at Buffalo, recovered an O.J. Simpson fumble at the Patriot 25 with 4:35 remaining. Quarterback Jim Plunkett moved the Patriots to the Buffalo 2, where the drive stalled. Simpson, who earlier had missed a 47-yard field goal, attempted one from the 36, but the kick was blocked by Earl Edwards, and linebacker Dave Washington.

Washington had given the Bills a 26-21 lead 6:21 into the third period when he intercepted a fourth-down Plunkett pass at the New England 28 and scored 72 yards on the right side to put the Bills in the lead for the first time since early in the game.

New England got three touchdowns from Mack Harro on passes of 43 and 25 yards from Plunkett in the first half and a two-yard run in the third period that gave the Patriots their final lead, 28-26.

The Bills, however, contained the Patriots early in the fourth quarter when Robert James intercepted a Plunkett kick on the Buffalo 25. The Bills ran off nine plays down the New England 19 before Simpson fumbled and Jack Bradford recovered at the New England 45.

After Smith's field goal attempt was blocked, Buffalo ran out the clock with three rushing plays.

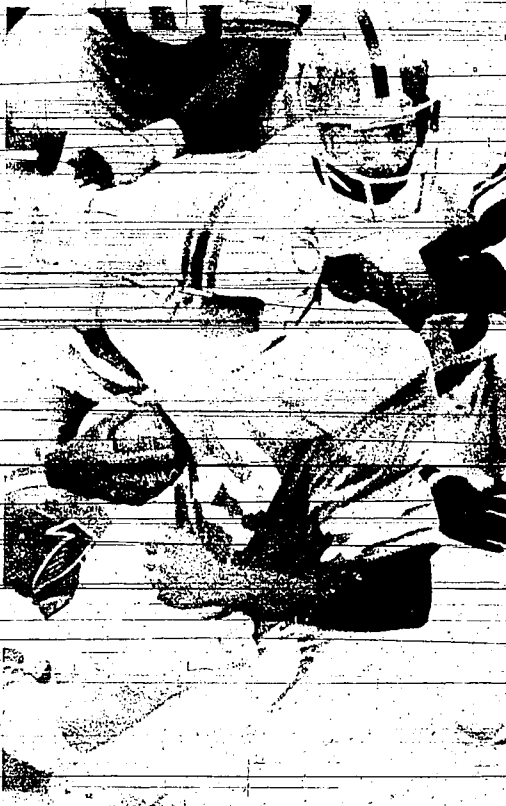

Buffalo took the lead, 8-0, into the game on Leypold's 45-yard field goal, but New England responded four minutes later with Plunkett's 47-yard strike to Harro for a 7-0 lead.

Less than three minutes later Leypold struck from 20 yards to become the highest all-time Buffalo scorer. The kick gave him 251 points, and he added five more before the game was through to eclipse Cookie Gilchrist.

Plunkett and Harro hooked up at 1:43 of the second period, beating linebacker Washington to the right corner to give New England a 14-0 lead. Joe Ferguson, able to beat the New England secondary long and short, hit Ahmad Rashad from 25 yards out for the first Bills touchdown. But Leypold's 45-yard point-after-meat was blocked, leaving New England ahead, 14-7.

Sam Cunningham gave New England a 21-12 lead with a 31-yard option sweep and Patriots threatened to go up 20-12 at the half when they drove to the Buffalo 15 with 1:22 remaining. But Plunkett, who had three passes intercepted, threw into the hands of Buffalo linebacker Merv Krakau, who returned the ball to the Bills' 42.

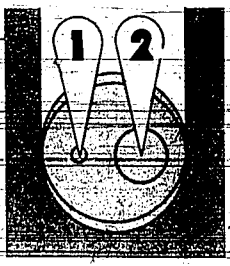

Ferguson completed passes of 20 and 10 yards to Rashad and 27 yards to J.D. Hillis late in the game before Simpson dove in for the score with 39 seconds remaining to close the halftime gap to 21-19.

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI)—Bill Melchioni, so unhappy with his role as a substitute that he has asked to be traded, came off the bench to hand out seven assists in the fourth period Sunday as the New York Nets rang up a 129-109 NBA victory over the San Antonio Spurs.

Melchioni scored six points and had 10 assists for the game, marking the third time this young season he has had a direct hand in a Nets' victory.

Steelers blank Eagles 27-0

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Cornerback Al Blount returned an interception 52 yards for one touchdown and a game-defining pick-six on Sunday while the Pittsburgh Steelers offensive shredded the vaunted Philadelphia defense for a 27-0 victory over the Eagles.

On Sunday, the Eagles had yielded only 86 points in seven games—the lowest in the National Football League. But the Steelers rushed for 238 yards and gained 146 yards in the air while piling up their 27 points.

Terry Bradshaw, who played the entire game, completed 12 of 22 pass attempts.

Blount, scoring his first touchdown on the interception in a five-year pro career, snagged Tom Reaves' pass on the Pittsburgh 48 in the third period, picked up a host of blockers and sprinted along the sidelines for the Steelers' last touchdown.

Tackle Joe Greene recovered Tom Bailey's fumble in the second period and returned the ball 11 yards to the Eagle 35 in set up the Steelers' second touchdown.

Franco Harris bolted over from the five-four plays later and Roy Gerela's conversion gave the Steelers a 14-0 lead.

On their first possession of the game, the Steelers drove 65 yards, culminated by an eighty-yard scoring pass from Bradshaw to Frank Lewis, who reached over the outstretched arms of Joe Lavender in the far corner of the end zone.

Safety Glen Edwards intercepted a Roman Gabriel pass in the third period and ran 26 yards to the Eagle nine. Bradshaw then ran to the one, but the Steelers were set back 10 yards on a holding penalty.

Two plays later Gerela kicked a 28-yard field goal with 4:21 remaining for a 20-0 advantage. Gerela also had booted a 35-yard field goal in the second quarter.

The Eagles were limited to 143 total yards and had penetrated Steeler territory only three times during the game. The only threat they mounted was in the first period, when they moved to the Steeler 27 from when Tom Dempsey's 44-yard field-goal attempt fell short.

Cowboys defeat previously unbeaten St. Louis 17-14

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — Eric Herrera kicked a 29-yard field goal with four seconds remaining Sunday to give Dallas a 17-14 victory over the previously undefeated St. Louis Cardinals.

St. Louis had won five of its seven victories in the final minute of play this year, but on this occasion, the Cardinals committed two costly errors that allowed the Cowboys to keep their winning field goal drive alive.

Playing without breakaway threat Terry Metcalf for most of the game, the Cardinals scored their touchdowns on Jim Hart's passes of 19 yards to tight end Jackie Smith and 10 yards to flanker Mel Gray.

Dallas countered with two-yard touchdowns runs by Robert Taylor and Calvin Hill.

Dallas threatened to take the lead midway through the fourth quarter but had a 22-yard touchdown pass called back on a holding penalty. That left it up to the final Dallas drive, which began on the Cardinal 21 with 4:52 left in the game.

Interceptions help Redskins

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — The Washington Redskins, with quarterback Sonny Jurgensen ailing, used a rock-hard defense and a pair of interceptions Sunday to down the Green Bay Packers 17-14 in a National Football Conference interdivision game.

The interceptions, off Green Bay starter Jack Concannon, led to 10 Redskins points and helped them finish on a 14-play, half-time deficit in their fifth victory in eight games.

The win put the Redskins in sole possession of second place in the NFL's Eastern Division. Green Bay had used field goals of 29 and 26 yards by Chester Marcol to take the lead. The Redskins' only points in the first half came on Mark Moseley's 30-yard kick which was set up by Dave Robinson's interception.

A short Patrick punt set up eight of the Redskins' score attempts, giving the ball to Washington on the 50.

Passes by Bill Kilmer, substituting for ailing Jurgensen, took the half downfield, with the final 22 yards coming on a loss to wide receiver Frank Grant midway through the third quarter. That gave

Morton helps N.Y. beat Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Veteran quarterback Craig Morton paid the New York Giants early dividends Sunday, consistently picking out a 14-year Kansas City cornerback Kerry Reardon and passwhipping the Giants in a 33-27 down-to-the-wire victory over the Chiefs.

Morton, a 10-year veteran acquired only two weeks ago from Dallas, passed for one score to Walker Gillette, who beat Reardon on a slant-in, and slipped a 37-yard strike to Joe Dawkins with 4:13 remaining in the game.

The Chiefs, who were out of time outs drove 62 yards to the New York one-yard line before safety Chuck Cris blocked Larry Brunson after a 15-yard reception on the last play of the game. Time ran out before the Chiefs could line up for another play.

The victory snapped a four-game losing streak for the Chiefs, 2-6, while the Chiefs fell to 3-5.

Ron Johnson scored a pair of New York touchdowns on one-yard runs in the second quarter, elevating the Giants to a 2-7 lead they never relinquished.

That drive was kept alive by a 16-yard personal foul penalty against defensive back Ken Bowers for a forearm smash against Walt Garrison and a defensive holding penalty which gave Dallas a first and 10.

Stabler guides Oakland to win

DENVER (UPI) — Ken Stabler threw four touchdowns passes, two to Fred Biletnikoff and another to Cliff Branch, to lead the Oakland Raiders to their seventh straight win, 20-17, over the Denver Broncos in an NFL showcase played in near-freezing temperatures and a steady snowfall.

The win put Oakland 11 games ahead of second place Denver in the AFC West race.

Stabler guided the Raiders to a 217-yard game, hitting Biletnikoff with 21 and 19-yard touchdowns passes sandwiched around a nine-yard toss to Branch as Oakland ran its all-time record against Denver to 23-14.

Stabler added a 61-yard pass to Branch on a fly pattern with five seconds left in the third quarter as Oakland took a commanding lead in the AFC West with a 7-1 record.

Stabler's first half touchdown came after Oakland had a 14-0 lead when Charley Johnson threw a swing pass to Otis Armstrong and Armstrong raced 87 yards down the right sideline for the score.

Anderson, Curtis pace Bengals win

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Ken Anderson threw three touchdowns passes Sunday, two to speed-wid receiver Steve Curtis, to lead the Cincinnati Bengals to a 24-14 victory over the Baltimore Colts.

The victory was a must win in the Bengals' pursuit of a Pittsburgh bid in the AFC Central Division and gave coach Paul Brown the 20th regular season victory of his career.

The Bengals' final score, a 14-7 lead, was built on a 15-yard pass to Curtis in the game and on Cincinnati safety beyond the reach of the threatening Colts, who trimmed a 17-0 Cincinnati lead at the half to 14-7 on three-point drives in the last two quarters.

The Colts, now 1-2, came back in their first series of downs in the third period to march 72 yards in 12 plays and a pair of tight end's five-yard run over tackle.

The Colts pulled to within three points in the fourth quarter on another Mitchell run from the one.

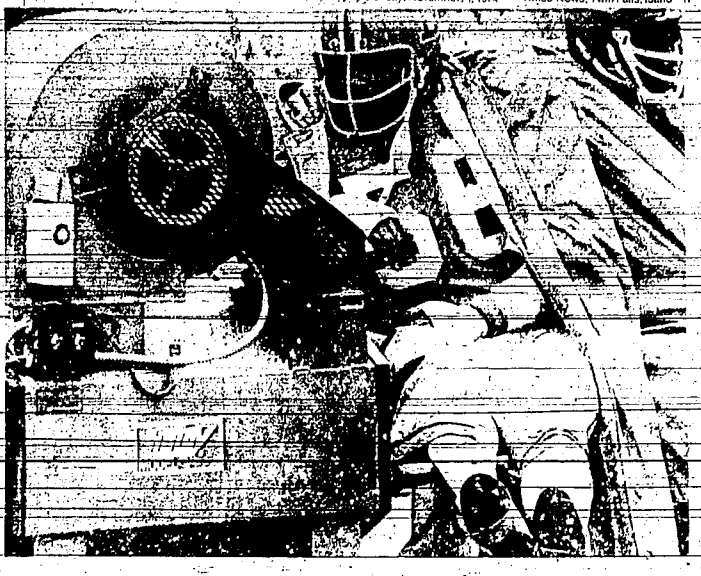

Following a scoreless first period, Anderson fired two touchdown passes in the Late in the third period, Martin pulled Hart for an 11-yard loss back to the St. Louis three and the resulting excellent punt gave Dallas excellent field position at the St. Louis 33.

Dallas scored five plays to tie the game 12-12 on Hill's run, setting up a final drive.

Denver cut the Oakland lead to 12-17 in the third quarter on a 27-yard Jim Turner field goal to cap the opening drive of the second half and a 73-yard pass from Johnson to Billy Hoosen on a quick slant on a third-and-10.

Oakland held Denver on the one with 5:12 to play when Jim Keyworth, trying to hit his way through the middle on fourth down, fumbled short of the goal and, although Johnson recovered, the ball Oakland took over on downs.

Houston tops New York to extend Jets streak

NEW YORK (UPI) — Willie Rodgers smashed over from the one with 1:56 remaining Sunday to give the Houston Oilers a 27-22 victory over New York Jets that extended the Jets' losing streak to six games.

The Jets had taken a 22-20 lead on Bobby Howfield's 25-yard field goal with 3:57 to go. But Dan Pastorini threw a 50-yard pass to Ken Burroughs and Rodgers plowed over for the winning touchdown two plays later.

The victory marked the first time in three years the Oilers have won two consecutive games and led them with a 3-5 mark. The Jets fell to 1-7.

Skip Butler's 46-yard field goal, his longest of the year in the third period gave Houston a 20-17 lead before Howfield, who missed two extra points, put the Jets ahead with his 35-yarder.

Pastorini earlier threw a 29-yard TD pass to rookie Billy Johnson and Steve Moore had a 22-yard interception return to Houston's first score. Joe Namath had two touchdowns of 20 yards to jazz Jackson

Canadians move to control prices

(The New York Times Service) OTTAWA - The Canadian government is moving to take effective control for the first time of oil and gas prices, a move that is expected to end a new version of the "prudent purchaser" doctrine that would have the same power over oil and gas prices. The government has passed an act that would allow it to keep them down but to make sure they go up.

border price of natural gas exported to the United States from a median price of 60 cents a thousand cubic feet to $1 but a move of the larger program. Donald S. MacDonald, minister of energy, mines and technical services, said that "Canada's exports should be priced on a competitive relationship to energy alternatives in the United States." He noted that intrastate gas in the United States was going for well over $1 a thousand cubic feet.
