Tax-free dam bond wins US Senate nod

By DAVID BOCKMAN and DAVID HORSMAN Times-News writers

BURLEY — Good news greeted irrigators who gathered in Burley today to seek agreement on a plan to rebuild the crumbling American Falls Dam.

The US Senate Tuesday approved a bill which would allow the American Falls Reservoir District to issue tax-exempt bonds to build the dam; and greatly reduce interest payments on the new dam.

The legislation would have to be approved by the House and President Ford before becoming law.

Doubts about whether the dam project could be funded at low-interest tax-free bonds had been a major stumbling block to a number of irrigation districts who have refused to agree on a proposal to rebuild the dam.

John Barker, president of American Falls Reservoir District No. 1, said today speeches he supported proceeding with the dam project would try to get non-participating districts to commit themselves today to rebuilding the dam should their objections to the plan be removed.

Barker said that although some dissenting districts had objected to specific provisions of the proposal, Idaho Power Co. to help rebuild the dam, other districts have said they would not participate even if their specific objections are met.

Barker said he hoped the dissenting districts will at least make a conditional commitment to sign contracts and hold bond elections to finance the project.

If no such commitments are made, Barker said, he hoped the districts would offer some counterproposals.

To date speakerholder districts representing about 77 per cent of the reservoir capacity have approved the Idaho Power proposal, and districts representing about 20 per cent have opposed it.

Reservoir district officials have said they expected 80 to 90 per cent support would be required before the dam project could be undertaken.

A spokesman for a group of Upper Snake River Valley Irrigation districts who had opposed the plan, William Holden, Idaho Falls, said Idaho Power's offer still falls to meet irrigator demands that the utility pay the difference between taxed and non-taxed bonds should tax-exempt status not be achieved.

Holden said the irrigators also believe the power company should pay all costs associated with maintaining water quality standards that will be lowered if the company's generators are included in the new dam.

And upper valley users are talking at proceeding with the project because the power company has yet to obtain a license from the Federal Power Commission to place generators at the new dam site.

USSR blasts trade pact 'strings'

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union Wednesday flatly renounced any trade agreement with the United States binding Moscow to ease emigration.

An official Government statement distributed by the Tass news agency denounced the trade bill under consideration by the U.S. Congress for "attempts to include provisions concerning the departure of Soviet citizens for other countries."

It said Moscow "flatly rejected as unacceptable... any attempts to interfere in internal affairs that are entirely the concern of the Soviet state and no one else."

Ford invites Wilson to visit US

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has invited British Prime Minister Harold Wilson to visit the United States beginning Jan. 20, the White House announced Wednesday.

The announcement said Ford and Wilson would use the visit to discuss a range of international and bilateral problems, particularly economy and energy.

Quits Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, says he has changed his mind and will resign Monday to permit Sen.-elect John H. Glenn, D-Ohio, to pick up seniority over other newly elected senators.

If Metzenbaum had stuck to his original decision to finish out his term, Glenn would have been sworn Jan. 14 along with other freshman senators.

Demos want action on tape controls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats threatened today to hold up congressional adjournment until President Ford acts on a bill giving the government sole control of former President Richard M. Nixon's Watergate tapes and documents.

Ford has until midnight Friday to sign or veto the bill concerning Nixon's tapes and documents. If he does not sign it, and Congress is still in session at that time, the measure would automatically become law.

Second GI convicted in hair case

BERLIN (UPI) — A U.S. Military Court today convicted a second American soldier of disobeying a lawful order to cut his hair.

The court declared Spec 4 Richard H. Shadon Jr., 22, of Hoboken, N.J., guilty of refusing an order to trim his hair and masculine to regulation lengths.

The military tribunal delayed sentencing of both soldiers until it hears character witnesses presented by the defense.

Highway measure fixes 55 mph speeds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House-Senate negotiators agreed late Tuesday night to make the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit permanent and to increase minimum truck weights on interstate highways, committee spokesmen said today.

The $73.8 million compromise federal highway aid bill was expected to be passed finally by Congress Friday.

Border clashes erupt

By United Press International

Israel's border war with Palestinian guerrillas based in Lebanon flared up again today with attacks by both sides. There were reports in the Lebanese press that Arab nations apparently had sent in Soviet-built missiles to Lebanon to help fight off the Israeli air force.

Airborne Israel commandos raided a Lebanese border village, blew up six houses and kidnapped four civilians before flying home in helicopters. Shortly afterwards the Palestinians cut through a border fence and carried out a grenade and bazooka attack on an Israeli village.

Lebanese military sources said Israeli gunners followed up the raid on the village of Majd el Zoun six miles inside the border by shelling five other villages in the area, damaging crops. The Israeli Air Force flew over the border area but did not attack.

Israel released two of her captives but released two others who then were taken for interrogation by Lebanese military authorities.

A Lebanese army communiqué said artillery units opened fire on the raiders, but by the time a mechanized patrol reached Majd el Zoun, the Israelis had gone. The Israelis wounded one child in the operation, the communiqué said.

Less than 12 hours previously, Lebanon disclosed it had asked Arab countries to supply it with weapons and also had requested a high-level Arab conference to decide on Lebanese defense requirements.

The pro-Bghidas newspaper Beirut reported that military vehicles with Arabic license plates had been seen entering Lebanon, carrying equipment "believed to be anti-aircraft weapons to be used for urgent defense purposes." It gave no further details.

Another newspaper, Al Yom, said the Lebanese army had recently received sophisticated weapons from France.

Brinegar quits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Claude S. Brinegar today resigned effective Feb. 1 as secretary of transportation, the second Nixon cabinet holdover to resign under President Ford.

While House sources said Brinegar will be replaced by John Rolson of Chicago, a transportation specialist and former aide to Donald Rumsfeld in the early 1960's, Rumsfeld, a former congressman, is Ford's staff coordinator.

Brinegar, 46, served in the post for two years and during his tenure the 55 mile per hour federal speed limit was adopted in an effort to combat fuel shortages last winter.

Craig, Lehrman win CSI trustee seats

By DAVID HORSMAN Times-News Writer

LEROY CRAIG ... retains seat
DR. CHARLES LEHRMAN ... elected to board

TWIN FALLS — LeRoy Craig, Jerome, and Dr. Charles Lehrman, Buhl, were elected to the College of Southern Idaho board of trustees Tuesday.

They beat five other candidates in winning the two six-year seats.

Incumbent Craig, a 40-year-old insurance agent, coasted to an easy victory in the election although voter turnout was light. He received 1,042 votes.

The only close race was for second position, where Lehrman, a 47-year-old veterinarian, edged out Benny Bliks, 31, a Castleford farmer. Lehrman collected 617 votes and Bliks received 530.

The other candidates and their votes were Allen Duane Pierson, Jerome, 195; George Anthony, Buhl, 108; Leon Wright, Twin Falls, 98, and David Woodhead, Twin Falls, 76.

Their 1,334 ballots were cast in Tuesday's election, compared to 2,694 in the 1972 trustee contest.

Voting was heaviest at Jerome Junior High School, where 553 ballots were cast. Craig piled up his biggest margin at the Jerome poll, collecting 540 votes and leaving the nearest contender, Pierson, far behind with 120 votes.

Lehrman won handily in the Buhl polling place, picking up 225 votes to Bliks' 163.

Twin Falls voters supported the winners, giving Craig 252 votes and Lehrman 108. Bliks was next with 142 votes.

In pre-election interviews, both Craig and Lehrman expressed satisfaction with the status quo at CSI.

Craig, appointed to the board earlier this year, said, "I think we've got a fantastic school. I think it's the best in the nation." He approves of the move by the college to expand vocational training courses.

Lehrman wants to maintain a "dual emphasis on the academic and vocational programs" at the college. "I like to see good strong academic and cultural programs," he said, "it's this balance that I'm seeing now that I am interested in seeing continue."

Ford wants explanation

© New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — President Ford, described as "concerned and very disappointed," directed the United States Steel corporation to justify in writing the reasons for its price increases announced Tuesday.

Ford ordered his Council on Wage and Price Stability to "immediately" obtain the company's justification for the price increases averaging 8 per cent to 10 per cent on about two-thirds of the product line of the nation's largest steel company.

Ron Nessen, White House press secretary, acknowledged that the council had no authority to delay or roll back the price increases, most of which take effect immediately. However, the council could hold public hearings on the matter, Nessen noted.

A spokesman for United States Steel said there would be no immediate comment on the President's action.

Firms score proposed plant site agency

—BOISE (UPI) — Representatives of Monsanto and Idaho Power companies told a public hearing today another regulatory agency to control power plant site selection would be a duplication of government bodies and costly to the utility customers.

Both George Attwood of Monsanto and James Bruce, president of Idaho Power, told the hearing conducted by Atty. Gen. Tony Park that the Idaho Public Utilities Commission has sufficient authority to take care of plant locations.

Doll Ohl, representing the League of Women Voters, disagreed with the company officials. In her testimony she said it would be prudent to evaluate them as proposed power sites very carefully.

Mrs. Ohl referred to the impact an installation such as Idaho Power's proposed coal-fired generator could have on the environment, on water supplies needed for agriculture, daily living in the cities of Idaho and wildlife.

She said "tradeoffs" must be figured carefully in selecting a site and "deciding" what sacrifices must be made to obtain new power supplies.

The power company has proposed building the new plant 24 miles southeast of Boise to meet the projected power needs in the area in 1980. It would be fueled by coal.

The attorney general's office and Rep. Bill Onweller, R-Boise, have drafted legislation to control the siting of future plants.

In other comments, Mrs. Ohl said the League disagrees with the timetable proposed by the legislation. She said a full year would be needed at the minimum to make appropriate studies on weather in a site under study and other factors that would be affected by the installation of a coal fired generating plant.

She said it would be preferable to have 18 months between the time an application is made and when a permit to build would be issued but that two years would be even better.

She said the area of greatest division between the utility and the citizens is the definition of need and demand — what the company feels the customer is demanding, and what the customer really needs.

Trade deficit larger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government said today the U.S. balance of payments in the third quarter — July through September — was in the red by $3.6 billion, 300 million more than in the second quarter.

The Commerce Department's Bureau of Economic Analysis said the increased deficit was due largely to a single payment to an unidentified foreign petroleum affiliate.

The payment doubled the net long term private capital outflow from the second quarter to the third quarter, from $1 billion to $2 billion. The petroleum affiliate had accumulated the liabilities earlier, the department said.

The balance of payments figures measure the deficits of U.S. relationships with other countries in current accounts and long term capital.

The payments showed a $2.5 billion deficit during the second quarter.

Outflow for U.S. direct investments abroad rose $400 million, to $2 billion during the third quarter, the government said.

The balance of payments for goods and services accounts was in deficit by $300 million, only slightly larger than the second quarter deficit of $200 million. The government said an increase in the merchandise trade deficit was almost offset by increases in net investment income and net receipts from other services.

The current account deficit for the quarter was $1.6 billion, down from $2.1 billion the decline was partly due to reductions of about $600 million in U.S. government grants. U.S. government capital inflows also declined by about $600 million.

US jobless rolls grow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Even as Congress prepared to pass a $5.5 billion bill to create jobs and pay more to the jobless, the Labor Department announced today every state in the union reported increased unemployment insurance rolls on Nov. 30.

The latest report signaled deeper trouble for the staggering U.S. economy at Christmas time.

For the week ending Nov. 30, about 2,962,000 persons were receiving unemployment insurance benefits — up 353,700 from the previous week, the Labor Department said.

Congress is expected to pass legislation before adjournment creating 500,000 public service jobs and extending jobless benefits to millions of other persons out of work.

The nation's unemployment rate for November was 6.5 per cent with about 6 million workers unemployed. But many workers are not covered by unemployment insurance.

Gay time had by all at Ford's Christmas ball

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's Christmas ball for departing members of Congress had all the ingredients for a successful party — loud dance music, popping champagne bottles and guests who all knew each other.

Spurring a wine-colored formal jacket with his black tuxedo pants, Ford was in rare form dancing, cracking jokes and huckling his former colleagues from the House and Senate.

"We live here, but my heart is up there," on Capitol Hill, he confessed.

About 900 guests showed up for Ford's bash, held in state rooms festooned with Christmas beryery, red ribbons and other holiday glitter.

No party lines were drawn. Democrats and Republicans alike were welcomed in the same way. Some of his cronies like Rep. William Ford, D-Mich., caught themselves saying "Jerry" and quickly changed it to "Mr. President."

Many of the guests said they had not been to the White House since 1960 when the late Lyndon B. Johnson, who also kept his sentimental attachment to Capitol Hill, gave a going-away party.

"It's nice to hear people laugh," said one congressman's wife.

In the East Room, New York handleader Mike Carney never took a break, and he struck up "This Could Be the Start of Something Big" when Ford and his wife, dressed in a Chinese red brocade gown, began to dance.

Competing for attention on the dance floor — and getting it — was Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., who wore a black sequined gown and a matching sequined evening hat with ostrich feathers. She did a rock dance with her husband, Martin, and the sweat poured from her forehead.

"I danced my feet off," she said.

Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., a presidential candidate, made himself at home and was one of the last to leave the party.

"Following his guests," Ford quipped: "This beautiful Christmas tree came from Michigan. That tree and I have a lot in common. Neither expected to be in the White House. Both of us are green. Both of us have been put on a pedicel and we've both been trimmed a little lately."

Minidoka school forms advisory group

BY DAVID BOCKMAN
Times-News Writer

RIVERVIEW—A special Minidoka School advisory committee has been created to consider whether retarded students should be allowed to take driver education courses. The committee of parents and educators was appointed Monday night by the Minidoka School Board after a dozen parents protested a proposed school policy which they said would exclude special education students from driver education.

A spokesman for the Minidoka Association of Retarded Citizens (ARC), Gus Gerleman, says the exclusion of retarded children from driver education might be the stage for their exclusion from other classes.

Special students should be kept in the "mainstream" of school, he said. "Treated like human beings, these kids can learn," Gerleman said.

Gerleman said ARC members talked to the school board after hearing that a policy might be established that would declare there is danger in giving driver training to special education students.

Further, the policy would have said students aren't capable of learning to drive. Such a policy would be discriminatory and would label special education students as unable to learn, Gerleman stated. That sort of negative labeling might carry over to other classes, he said. After hearing from the parents the board appointed a committee that will come up with a recommended policy concerning driver education and special students.

Included on the committee are Gerleman, ARC; Bob Larson, school psychologist; Elmer Edgington, driver education supervisor; and Louis Eisenhardt and George McInnis.

In other action, the school board: — approved the concept of teaching life sports such as skiing — but took no action establishing such a curriculum until insurance can be obtained. — approved a proposal for the drill team to participate in the national drill team pageant in Santa Monica, Calif. — approved the awarding of one credit to students who participated in a summer outdoor education program conducted by the Bureau of Land Management.

League has Yule party

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls chapter of the Idaho Writer's League held its annual Christmas luncheon and party Tuesday.

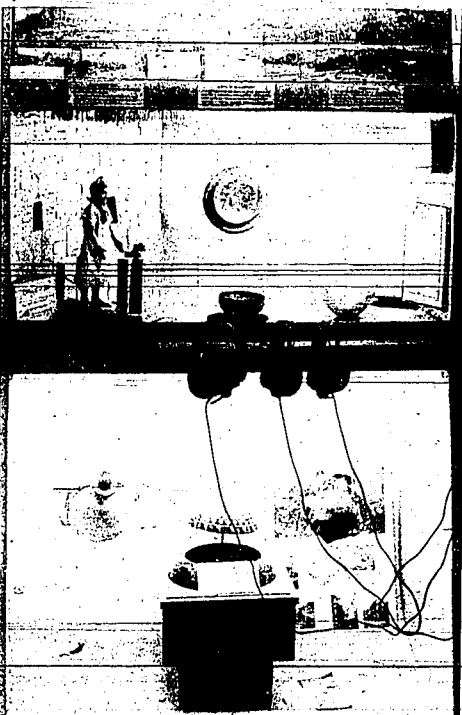

Idaho poet laureate Mrs. Sudds Huger read about the origin of mistletoe and several Christmas poems including poems by league members, Mrs. Elizabeth Sliger and Olive Kelley. Members exchanged gifts and tried to guess the contents from attached descriptive poems.

OES unit honored

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Chapter No. 29 members were honored guests of Magic Chapter No. 42, Order of the Eastern Star at a meeting Monday evening.

Mrs. Richard Pence, worthy matron of Chapter no. 42, led the officers in a Christmas address. Lillian Moran and Harold Brown served as pro tem officers.

Helenia Ehresman was chairman of the refreshment committee, assisted by Wanda Glandon, Sharon Keltie and Howard Ehresman.

NEW DISPLAY cases will fill the Herrett-Arto and Science Center in Twin Falls. The cases are about seven feet high and four feet wide, much larger than those previously used, and some will have audio-visual attachments. Norman Herrett, founder of the center, said about 60 of the cases will be built — 20 to be used in the museum and 40 to be stored for later use.

TF opposes N-storage in Idaho

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council has adopted unanimously a resolution opposing the long-term storage of nuclear waste in Idaho.

The resolution follows the US Atomic Energy Commission consideration of the Idaho Nuclear Energy Laboratory (INEL) as one of three possible sites for storage of "removable" nuclear wastes from atomic reactors around the nation.

Resolving a committee appointed by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus sharply criticized the AEC for inconsistent plans and opposed using the INEL for nuclear waste storage.

Citing the health and welfare of Twin Falls residents as of primary concern and the storage of nuclear waste as potentially creating "unknowable and incalculable hazards," the City Council resolved to support the findings of Andrus' blue-ribbon committee.

In another matter the council gave conditional approval on construction of a multi-unit dwelling on Seventh Avenue East, 30 lots west of Locust.

But Luke and O'Daniel Construction Co.'s original plans to put up a "sixplex" may not meet building codes because the lot is too small.

John O'Daniel said he had twice gone to the city building inspector and found that the 14,177-square-foot lot was large enough for a six-unit dwelling. But at the council meeting city engineer George Michael said the lot size would not suffice for the planned building. O'Daniel said he would build a five-unit dwelling.

Neighbors protested the plans. "What guarantee do we have that we are not going to end up with a lot of trash and what not — hipsters in that area?" Harold Lammers, who lives across the street from the planned development, said. "I may even want to live there myself," O'Daniel responded, adding that he certainly would not want "hippies" as renters. He said the new complex would upgrade the area.

"Why would you want to invest in such an expensive building on such an old residential area?" Larry Drexler asked.

O'Daniel said this is one of the few areas where the city allows such multiple dwelling units.

"If six people are going to live in that little space there I certainly object," long-time area resident Lud Drexler said.

But, councilman Stephen Jaworski said that as long as the building meets space requirements he understood that such a multi-unit dwelling is acceptable in the area. "It may not be possible for the City Council to deny a permit, he said.

Councilmen Paul Ostyn and Henry Woodall voted no on the 5-2 vote to grant the permit on condition that a fence be erected and that city building codes be met.

Question is cost — how much, to whom?

to Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON — Amid all the hand-wringing about the economy, the loss of jobs, bankruptcies, slumps in housing and auto sales, intolerable inflation, the clamor for a "quick fix," President Ford stands like a comfortable rock, a friendly fixture in a sea of roiling anxieties and fears.

What seems increasingly clear, though, is that Ford is a true believer in the orthodox of conservative economics. This troubles and scares some of his critics. Ford's critics would feel easier about him if they believed he would do what conditions dictated, not what the theologians around him tell him. And he may, especially if he has in mind being a candidate in 1976. But what if Jerry Ford means what he says? He has been around long enough to know that the President is not omnipotent. He told the business council he can't and won't promise a sudden change for the better." He cracked through his native optimism for a moment when he said: "There is no prospect that I can discern for instantaneous improvement in the economy." "Today's difficulties, he said, evolved from past policies and developments, and any new policies adopted now "would not be felt for months to come."

To emphasize and underscore an apparent belief in natural economic forces, Ford went on to say that confidence in the economy cannot be "restored with rhetoric — mine or that of other political players or sideline sitters. I do not believe it can be restored by federal government activity alone. I do believe it can be restored by the effective teamwork and enlightened self-interest of all elements of our American free enterprise economy and our representative free political system."

Summed up, he still believes in limited federal intervention, voluntarism, fiscal restraint, buying wisely, wiping the plate clean, and private business decisions unimpeded by public proposals. In theory, it is as good a position as that advocated by the critics: A move toward immediate pump-priming, including a tax cut for lower- and middle-income workers; mandatory energy measures, and other cushions for the jobless. But in practice, it does nothing for public confidence in his leadership and in the ability of the economy to make itself whole. Stagnation rarely works; an innovative mixture of measures might.

The fatalism in Ford's outlook is novel and alarming. He has not been noted for a complacent belief in fate. But listen to what he says: "In my 25-plus years in this capital, our economy has gone through at least five recessions — five in 25 years. And the facts are that we have recovered from every one of them, and I predict without any hesitation that we will recover from this one, also. The question is when and how?" The question is: At what cost? And to whom?

TF double jeopardy

Sometimes the Twin Falls City Council just can't win. Much of Monday night's council meeting was taken up with discussion of the city's disobedience of state and city laws prohibiting parking near intersections. The discussion became animated. Finally, the councilmen adjourned the public meeting. Immediately after adjournment, the councilmen held a meeting from which the public and the press were expressly excluded. Only one trouble with this. The executive session apparently broke a new state law requiring such meetings be open to the public, except in certain cases. Before a closed meeting can be held, the council must give advance notice, and reveal the subject to be discussed and the statutory authority for closing the meeting to the public. None of these requirements of the law was met. While the councilmen are looking up the parking laws, they might as well also check out the law on open meetings.

Behavior control

Christian Science Monitor
It's hard enough for anybody to do experimenting with the control of human behavior through drugs, surgery, and electrical implants in the brain. But when the United States Government finances such experiments, as freshly publicized by a Senate subcommittee, the nation's cause for concern about individual rights is greatly heightened. The past week's warnings about government-financed "behavior modification" were accompanied by a measure of new hope for protecting the rights of those subjected to it, including prisoners, mental patients, and children. But the hope depends on Congress following through on the work of the new National Commission for the Protection of Human Subjects of Biomedical and Behavioral Research, which has just had its first meeting. The commission, drawing on experts outside the government, was congressionally authorized this year for a two-year term, to be followed by a permanent committee charged with a similar protective role. Further legislation is unlikely until the commission makes its recommendations. These must be expeditious in view of the numbers of persons already having their thoughts, bodies, and emotions tampered with. It is no wonder that a constitutional expert like Senator Ervin issued a warning about individual rights in relation to behavior modification. "This is a real question whether the government should be involved at all in programs that potentially pose substantial threats to our basic freedoms," said Senator Ervin in profacing the recent report from his subcommittee on constitutional rights. He is submitting the report to the new commission. It will have to consider the report's documentation of a degree of government involvement that amazed those gathering it over two years. Not only ethical and constitutional questions have to be answered but questions about the scientific validity of some programs and the fiscal responsibility in supporting them. It appears that concern over controlling violence in the '60's played a part in opening various government agencies to behavior-modification proposals adding up to more than anyone realized. The report says that the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare is the biggest spender on behavior control research, but various other federal departments and agencies are also involved — "without a review structure fully adequate to protect the constitutional rights of the subjects." This "absence of strict control" makes the question of government participation even more acute, said Mr. Ervin. "Certainly strict control is the minimum that Congress should call for when it gets the commission's recommendations. It is instructive that one dubious behavior-modification project volunteered to give up government funding when questions began being asked about its methods. Ideally, the government should get out of the business of supporting any such reported projects as administering powerful emetic drugs to alter prisoner conduct. It is idle to suppose that research into artificial control of thought and behavior will suddenly end. But the goal must remain behavior dictated not by drugs, psychosurgery, or shocks but by the individual's highest concept of human capacity and responsibility fostered by family, education, and religion. And any behavior-modifying experiments should at least be subject to a review mechanism ensuring genuine "informed consent" by the participants and full protection of their human and constitutional rights.

On key questions, US, France use reason

(c) New York Times Service
PARIS — It has become recent custom for U.S. and French presidents to hold private summits on midway islands to give the impression that neither is sacrificing face. Thus Nixon and Pompidou met in the Azores and Iceland. Now Ford and Giscard d'Estaing confer in Martinique, a French territory off the Americas. They exchanged opinions on the world, on the Middle East and on Leonid Brezhnev, who has been courting both of them. And they reviewed differences between U.S. and French policy. But little A, inescapably, is all. If they can compromise enough to face the bloc of petroleum producers — primarily, the Arabs — their basic problem will be settled and the rest of the European community will go along. The second alternative was to cancel the preview altogether. The second alternative was to cancel the preview altogether. Needless to say, even our State Department, which had been in hectic consultation with gallery officials, advised for cancellation. It was too late to advise all the newspapermen and critics who had been invited. They came to the door of the gallery, and were told, simply, that the preview had been called off. That night there was the dinner Mrs. Gerald Ford was present, most conspicuously. But a few others declined to attend, in protest against the exhortatory principle that the officials of the People's Republic of China, had laid down. Among those sensitive enough to stay away were Mr. Graham, the publisher of the Washington Post, and James Reston and Chilton Daniel of the New York Times. Now we probably view the episode as a victory of sorts for our side. After all, we declined to meet their terms, they declined to meet our terms, so the preview was cancelled. But it was no mere victory for us than it was a victory for the Chinese, because they themselves said that unless their terms were met, there would be no preview. Later that day, at the dinner, Mrs. Ford made a little speech and raised her glass to toast the exhibition as "an important symbol of the growing ties of friendship between our two people." That is cant to begin with, there being no visible signs of an increasing friendship between the Chinese and the American people for the perfectly straightforward reason that japan counter to France's conception of itself. As NATO developed after World War II, France gradually found it could gain the benefits of alliance without sacrificing its nationalistic concepts.

C. SULZBERGER

Emphasis on independence continued even within the European community which binds together nine nations including France. On many issues, above all oil, Paris found itself outnumbered eight to one. Yet it managed to impose its will, at least partially, on the rest.

Nevertheless, this is an essentially logical nation. It knows if the industrial world drains in a flood of petroleum money, flung about by Arab lands enriched through rising prices, France will be among the first to sink. The French — who are just starting to feel its fetid breath — want to avoid a depression as much as anybody. A weakness of the French bargaining position is that Europe (above all France) is basically short on energy, resources, while the United States is relatively invulnerable to pressure and could soon become autonomous. Nevertheless the wisest approach by far is to coordinate action in both petroleum and monetary negotiations between the U.S., Europe and Japan. German Chancellor Schmidt is trying to mediate differences between Europe and the U.S. and between France and its community partners. His diplomacy seems to have inspired certain results and Giscard knows that in some respects he represents a "European" position to Ford, as a result of the recent Paris summit. So the prospect of the Giscard-Ford get-together should be propitious. Secretary Kissinger has elaborated a plan for a consumer-producer meeting that is not profoundly in contradiction to Giscard's preference for including underdeveloped nations. Since this is so and since both the Americans and French acknowledge the need for solution to avoid world economic disaster, there is every hope for an agreed course of action. France and the United States are old allies but they have often quarreled. On absolutely principal things, however, like the importance of orderly access to oil and a means of paying for it, both nations are impelled toward reason.

US pride oozes away

For many days it was a well-kept secret. But as the moment came for the preview, a decision had to be made. The National Gallery of Art was faced with two alternatives. The first was to examine the credentials of every newspaperman or critic who came to the door. If it proved that he was a Taiwanese, or a South Korean, or an artist, or a South Vietnamese, he was to be denied entrance. The second alternative was to cancel the preview altogether.

American can visit China without getting a special visa. But Mrs. Ford's toast under the special circumstances of the cancelled preview was a little worse than routine cant. Don't blame her; she just reads the stuff the State Department gives her to read. The entire political matter reminds one of the dependent fact that there is no such thing as a free lunch. Because the Communists are concerned. There is only psywar. It surpasses the understanding why we put up with it.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

In Peking, in 1972, the President and his press party were made to endure the world's worst ballet, The Red Detachment of Women, on the theme of the triumph of Mao's Army of Liberation against the capitalist-imperialist forces of the bourgeois world. I walked out after the first act. President Nixon stayed and then talked about how he had seen ballets all over the world, but had never seen a better one than this one. It was good training for his "future statements on Watergate." The question before the bourgeoisie is, really, what is the reason for letting them get away with it? The answer is that we don't do it for exactly the same reason that we are, really, losing all over the world. Because our spirit is enfeebled. We still have a lot of hardware, but the national pride is oozing away, and our tanks and missiles are derelicts.

"I haven't been very good. Would you consider a little plea bargaining?"

I'm going to let you in on a good thing

WASHINGTON — Muhlberg dashed into my office yelling: "GOLD! GOLD! I've discovered gold!" "Take it easy, Muhlberg," I said. "You mean you've hit a gold mine?" "No, you fool," he shouted, his eyes blazing. "On Dec. 31 we're going to be allowed to buy gold. We'll all be rich." "How can we be rich if we have to buy the gold?" "Haven't you read the advertisements in the newspapers? Gold is going to go up to $400 an ounce. If we buy it at $150, we'll more than double our money." "But, Muhlberg, there's no guarantee that gold is going to go up. Suppose it goes down?" "It can't go down," Muhlberg cried. "Everybody wants gold. Now we can get our hands on it and stuff it in our mattresses and no one can touch us."

"You've really got the gold fever, Muhlberg. But I think I better warn you. Owning gold isn't what I'm cracked up to be." "It breaks up friendships and marriages. It turns man against man, and woman against woman. If someone knows you have gold in your mattress they'll do anything to get it — including pillage and rape." "Hopes?" "I read that somewhere. In any case, gold turns people into animals. Is this what you want to become — an animal?" "Don't worry about it," he protested. "When I get my gold I'm not going to change. I may not go out as much because I'm going to have to stay home at night to weigh it and count it to make sure I've got it all. But outside of that, you won't even know I have the stuff." "I've read articles about this crazy gold-buying thing," I said, "and they indicate the only ones who stand to make money on gold are the dealers who sell it, the insurance companies who insure it and the banks who store it. Also the Mafia seems to be into it and a lot of gold bars may turn out to be brass. I would be careful if I were you before I got into this business." Muhlberg snarled like Humphrey Bogart. "I might have known it. You're just saying this because you want to buy my gold cheap. You're all alike. Well, you're going to have to kill me first before you get it."

"Muhlberg, will you please put that gun down. No one is after your gold. You can buy all of it you want to. It's yours to do with what you want." "Then why did you bring up the pillaging and rape?" "I was just trying to warn you that people have done it in the past to get their hands on gold. Perhaps this time they won't. After all Americans are much more civilized than most peoples. You're a perfect example of someone who hasn't let his cool become his government is going to allow him to buy gold." Muhlberg put his gun back in his belt. "Well, there are other things in life besides gold. I'll tell you what. I'm going to let you in on a good thing. There's this place in Florida who just discovered a cache of gold coins on a sunken Spanish Galleon and for $10,000."

Latin arms accord show?

(C) Washington Star-News — WASHINGTON — The arms limitation agreement signed by eight Latin-American nations last week has no relation to reality.

Despite his praise for the agreement, William D. Rogers, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, put his finger on one major flaw: the absence of Brazil from the convener.

Brazil, with 100 million people and a military government under no restraint to skimp on arms, would have to be a signatory to any limitation on offensive arms for it to have any meaning.

Beyond that, the signing of the declaration by Peru and Chile is enough to provoke skepticism by Latin experts.

Peru is rearming herself with tanks from the Soviet Union and France, sophisticated Mirage jet fighters from France and A-37 attack planes from the United States. The buildup is more rapid and expensive than that undertaken by any other Latin nation.

And the Chilean general, Pinochet, caught with an outward bag of obsolete World War II weapons and worried about Peru's intentions, is trying to buy arms wherever he can find them in a world reluctant to deal with the hard-line Santiago regime.

The presence of Bolivia on the list of signatories is greeted with cynicism — far less concern — because the landlocked Bolivians are not in the same league militarily as Peru, Chile, Argentina,

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Infected heart lining causes endocarditis

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our son just came home from five weeks in the hospital with endocarditis. They fed him penicillin in his veins for four weeks. He is 31 and feels fine now.

Can you tell me something about this disease? Will he have any heart damage? Mrs. J.J.K.

The endocardium is the lining of the heart, and infection in that lining, is endocarditis. It can, as is true of many conditions, appear in varying degrees of severity. In acute cases the germ involved is a form of either streptococcus — or staphylococcus, the infection on the heart lining occurring when the germ is released into the blood stream, as may occur following a tooth extraction, for example.

Large and prolonged doses of penicillin, as in your son's case, are the treatment. After all, those already affecting the heart lining must be subdued as quickly and completely as possible. Examination by blood cultures will disclose the presence of the germ.

Development of a heart murmur during the infection suggests involvement of the heart valves — and I am sure that doctors watched for this while he was in the hospital. He doubtless had the other principal symptoms of endocarditis — fever and anemia.

Even though he feels fine now (for which be thankful) he should be checked closely for several months for any recurrence of fever or anemia, or indeed any other indication that the heart has become involved or damaged.

In addition, in the future, antibiotic treatment should be given as a precaution before and after any tooth extraction. He should also take any sore throat seriously and seek prompt attention from the doctor. Although most sore throats are due to a virus, some are due to the streptococcus (so-called "strep throat") and would constitute a potential danger of a new attack of endocarditis.

I don't wish to frighten you or him, since he has, after all, evidently come through this siege successfully. But all the same he should be on guard in the future to avoid the risk of going through another bout in the hospital.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, 8, had an extremely bad case of chickenpox, and, even though she didn't pick any of the scabs and they eventually — left off by themselves, they left small scars, mostly around her chin.

Is there anything that can be done to help fade the scars? Any lotion or cream? — Mrs. L. B.

You ask about "fading" the scars, so I presume that they are quite recent. The color will fade out by itself, although the scar itself can remain, but be less visible.

Dermabrasion by a dermatologist or plastic surgeon can get rid of superficial scars but probably will not entirely obliterate scars as deep as those from chickenpox. This should not be attempted at her age but might be considered later.

Ash, Ford confer on budget

Lynn may succeed Ash as US budget director

Washington Star-News WASHINGTON (UPI) — Roy Ash resigned Tuesday as director of the Office of Management and Budget in the second cabinet shift since Gerald Ford became President.

The long-tenured departure of Ash, a close adviser of former President Nixon, was announced by an exchange of letters between Ford and Ash.

Ronald Nessen, the White House press secretary, declined to say who will succeed Ash, but it is believed that James Lynn, the secretary of housing and urban development, will take over his job.

The resignation of Ash is part of a cabinet reshuffle in which Ford is seeking to put his own imprint on his administration.

Until Atty. Gen. William French Smith resigned last week, the entire cabinet was made up of hold-overs from the Nixon administration. Smith was nominated to become U.S. ambassador to India.

Other cabinet members who are expected to leave the administration soon include Transportation Secretary Claude Bringer Libbe and Secretary Peter Brennan and Caspar Weinberger, the secretary of health, education and welfare.

According to Nessen, Ash will leave the administration in late January, or early February after the President completes work on the federal budget for 1976.

In a letter accepting Ash's resignation, Ford said that Ash's "leadership and sound judgment will be sorely missed. The letter continued, "You have had a tremendous task of keeping the Federal budget within reasonable proportions while at the same time enabling our government to meet its responsibilities to the American people.

"With your assistance, however, I believe we have been able to shape effective, workable federal budgets."

Ash, in a letter of resignation dated Dec. 10, said that he had intended to serve two years in government. "As a matter of fact, these two years are completed this very day," he said.

The outgoing OMB director praised Ford for having "made a long way toward restoring the faith of the American people in their system of government and confidence in its executive leadership."

US spurns UN-created aid agency

New York Times Service UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. The United States said today that it would boycott a special fund being set up here to provide emergency relief and development aid to the economically hardest hit countries.

The decision, announced tonight in the General Assembly, marked the first time that the United States had declined to participate in a major new United Nations undertaking.

It was certain to be seen here as a retaliation for controversial decisions taken at this session by a coalition of Arab, African, Asian and Communist countries, which John A. Scali, the chief U.S. representative, assailed as a "tyranny of the majority."

The United States has been warning since May that it would not give money to the fund, which was created mainly at the insistence of third-world countries at a special General Assembly meeting in April.

probably would recess for two days over Christmas and go to the jury on Dec. 26.

Parkinson, 47, a tall, sun-gloated and soft-spoken lawyer, is the only defendant with no direct ties to the Nixon administration. He said he was an "airborne" military policeman during World War II, later worked on behalf of neighborhood legal aid in Washington, and was never involved in politics.

He said he was hired by President Richard Nixon's reelection committee five days after the June 17, 1972, break-in at the Democratic National Committee to defend the $1 million damage suit filed by the Democratic party.

He said co-defendant Robert Mardian, former assistant attorney general and then a campaign lawyer, told him the burglars were "a bunch of idiots" and to defend the case on grounds there was "no connection whatsoever" between them and CRP.

Parkinson said he did that — handling the case as he would any other suit. Parkinson and Paul L. O'Brien, another defense lawyer, and an undicted co-conspirator, briefed Mitchell on the case July 13, 1972.

He said Mitchell told them they were "on the right track." Parkinson said Mardian threw his feet on Mitchell's desk, pointed at the two lawyers, and said, "John, these fellows think you're involved in the Watergate break-in."

Parkinson said the statement embarrassed him. He said Mitchell "laughed and puffed on his pipe and said it was absolutely ridiculous."

UAW leader warns of economic woes

HOUSTON (UPI) — One million workers in the automobile and related industries will lose their jobs next year because of the virtual collapse of the auto industry, according to United Auto Workers' President Leonard Woodcock.

Woodcock told a UAW meeting, Tuesday, the auto industry's "profits" dropped dramatically for the first nine months of 1974 with General Motors' earnings plummeting 66.5 per cent, Ford's 60.1 per cent and Chrysler's 88.2 per cent.

"The automobile industry from September to November, literally collapsed," Woodcock said. "We've been critical of pricing and high profit targets, but we've hidden the nation doesn't want it. Ford doesn't want it."

Woodcock said Ford Motor Corp. recently announced it was laying off 250,000 employees early next year.

"Based on projected statistics there will be a million or more out of work by the end of the first quarter of next year," he said.

Woodcock accused the Ford administration of doing nothing to fight recession and urged congressional approval of a 10 per cent tax cut for lower and middle income families and extended unemployment benefits.

"The whole economy is in at least a severe recession and it will continue to get into a depression," he said. "We are learning again by bitter experience that things just don't work themselves out."

"The workers are being ripped off and they know it."

Congress buries recreation bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation to create the Hells Canyon National Recreation Area in the Pacific Northwest was quietly buried today by the House Interior Committee.

The end for the fiercely lobbied bill came when a final meeting to consider the measure was abruptly canceled by Chairman James A. Haley, D-Ia.

"I'm disappointed," quite frankly, said Rep. John Dellenback, R-Ore., one of the strongest supporters of the bill.

"It's too bad," Dellenback said, "it came so close, and it was good legislation."

Dellenback, like other committee members, was told of the cancellation of the meeting in a phone call shortly before it was to begin.

Rep. Ray A. Taylor, D-N.C., who had presided over the final attempts to get action on the measure, could not be reached for comment.

Taylor, who heads the National Parks and Recreation subcommittee, had scheduled the meeting Monday after the committee failed to muster the necessary quorum to move the bill to the House floor.

There was no way doubt but that the bill would be approved by a heavy margin if a quorum could be obtained.

The legislation would have put about 100 miles of the Snake River into the recreation area and blocked construction of a huge hydroelectric dam on the river between Idaho and Oregon. It also would have reserved a congressional reservation for construction of a federal dam at the Astin site in Washington.

The fight against the bill was led by James duck Rep. Craig Haysler, R-Calif., the senior GOP member of the committee.

The legislation was pushed by environmentalist groups and opposed by lobbyists for the electric utility industry.

New try promised

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus of Idaho said today he was disappointed by the death of legislation to create the Hells Canyon National Recreation Area, but promised to return to the next Congress to try again.

"Many of the dedicated people in the state of Idaho must feel that a lot of effort has been expended for very little results," said Andrus.

The bill died in Congress when Chairman James Haley of Florida abruptly canceled a final meeting to consider the measure. Opponents of the legislation had sabotaged the measure by keeping the chairman from having a quorum at committee meetings.

"The obstructionists who were involved in the stalling tactics which brought about the action that prohibited the entire House of Representatives from acting on this will have to learn the bitter lesson that we'll be back next year and there are people who take a dim view of their parliamentary manipulations," said Andrus.

"I'm sure that this will result in their reconnection at the ballot box somewhere down the road," he said.

The legislation would have put about 100 miles of the Snake River into a recreation area and blocked construction of a hydroelectric dam on the river between Oregon and Idaho.

Congress speeds effort to end session Friday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress has voted to find new sources of energy for the nation and is nearing final approval for $5.5 billion to provide jobs and benefits for the growing ranks of the unemployed.

By a rush to adjourn Friday, Congress also is working on final passage of a compromise foreign aid bill providing military aid to Turkey Feb. 5.

The Senate Tuesday approved a $2.7 billion foreign aid bill after House and Senate negotiators agreed to a compromise allowing President Ford to give military aid to Turkey until Feb. 5. The House is expected to approve it today.

The House earlier had voted an immediate ban on the arms aid to Turkey. But Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger lobbied for an extension, saying the ban would hurt his negotiations for a Cyprus peace settlement.

Congress approved and sent to the White House a bill to promote construction of deep water ports for use of foreign ships.

Congress approved and sent the White House a bill to provide the terms on which veterans can obtain guaranteed home loans and another increasing educational benefits for disabled vets.

The Senate voted to pay cash bonuses of up to $400 to poor families who do not qualify for welfare because the head of the household is employed. Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., who sponsored the measure, said it was designed to encourage fathers to work rather than desert their families to qualify them for welfare.

The Senate voted to raise from $25 to $50 the tax deduction an individual may claim for a political contribution. The allowable $12.50 tax credit for an individual would also double.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., said the purpose was to encourage small political contributions and get away from reliance on large contributors.

Law files opened

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted 77-8 Tuesday in favor of a bill that would give citizens access to government records, except law enforcement agency documents, that affect them personally.

The compromise bill was sent to the House without a provision that would have established a privacy protection commission with enforcement powers. That section was dropped by Senate and House conferees.

The bill would, however, set up a seven-member commission to study federal record-keeping procedures and how the government uses its data.

Reds seize key strip

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist forces captured a key airstrip and a hotel-a-nearby airfield in a drive against the northern approach to Saigon, military sources said today.

The Saigon command said a Communist assault force captured Dong Xoi airstrip, 50 miles north of Saigon, Tuesday night, cutting off the district capital's last link with the rest of South Vietnam.

Military sources said one of the Communist bombers fired a barrage of rockets Tuesday at the Phuoc Binh province capital airfield, 66 miles north of Saigon, and just as a C-124 Hercules transport plane arrived with military supplies.

Saudis OK World Bank loan

WASHINGTON — Saudi Arabia said the World Bank jointly announced Tuesday that Saudi Arabia would lend the bank $750 million — the largest borrowing in the bank's 25-year history.

The money will be used by the bank for loans to dozens of underdeveloped nations around the world.

The loan will be in U.S. dollars. It will extend for 10 years with an interest rate of 8 1/2 percent. Because the Muslim religion forbids interest, the Saudi Arabians technically call their return on the loan a "commission."

Earlier this month the bank borrowed $500 million on the New York bond market at a rate just under 8 percent. Its own lending rate for projects in the poorer countries is 8 percent.

Robert S. McNamara, president of the bank, said in a brief interview that he was "euphoric" about the loan from Saudi Arabia. It not only means a big addition to the bank's lending resources but also helps to "recycle" money from the Arab and other petroleum producing countries to investment in the less developed part of the world, he said.

US aides want ITT action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department has charged International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. with wasting time in complying with an antitrust agreement.

The department filed papers Tuesday asking the U.S. District Court in Hartford, Conn., to appoint a special master who would find ways that the giant corporation could, as the court required, divest itself of Avis, Inc., Levitt and Sons, Inc. and Hamilton Life Insurance Co. If it could not work out a way to accomplish this divesting, the Justice Department suggested that ITT be ordered to get out of the very profitable Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

other corporations ITT carried $321 million in 1973.

On Sept. 24, 1974, the federal court in Hartford ordered ITT within three years either to divest itself of Hartford Fire, which earned $123 million in 1973, about a quarter of the ITT total — or Avis, the car rental company; Levitt, the home builders; and Hamilton. It said getting rid of Hartford would be easier but allowed ITT a chance to untangle the financial bonds between it and the other subsidiaries.

Americans receive unneeded X rays, report says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than half of all diagnostic X-ray doses received by Americans are unnecessary, according to a report issued today by a Ralph Nader research group.

Priscilla W. Laws, a physics professor at Dickinson College, wrote in "A Consumer's Guide to Avoiding Unnecessary Radiation Exposure" there are three major causes of unneeded X rays: Bad judgment by doctors, employers or patients; poor equipment or sloppy techniques; and the practice of taking X rays for defenses in possible malpractice suits.

Radiation exposure may increase a person's chance of having damaged genes, a starting jolt or cancer, but Laws said the risk varies according to the type of examination.

Average X rays of the extremities or teeth may pose less risk than smoking one cigarette a day. Abdominal X rays may involve as much cancer risk as smoking between five and 20 cigarettes a day for a year, although the danger may be considerably greater for unborn children.

Laws' advice to consumers is to avoid routine X-ray examinations, but not to avoid X rays if the doctor can explain why there is a need for it. She emphasized that diagnostic X rays can have substantial benefits.

Laws said the decision to use X rays should be based on some clinical indication that the patient may have a condition that can be accurately diagnosed only by X rays.

"Unfortunately, many X rays have been wasted on people because decisions to use them have been motivated by extraneous factors which are not related to the health of the patient," said the report, sponsored by the Public Citizen Health Research Group.

The report quoted a study by two Massachusetts Institute of Technology researchers who estimated that one third of all X-ray examinations are conducted for malpractice protection. That means, Laws said, that $1.4 billion per year is being spent for X-rays not medically justified.

C.G. 'BEBE' REBOZO
... gets double blow

Rebozo receives double trouble

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo looked back over developments of the day and decided "this isn't a good day to have my name."

Rebozo, known for his friendship with former President Richard Nixon, was dealt two blows simultaneously Tuesday: his petition to have the street in front of the Nixon compound here declared private was rejected and, for the first time since it was founded 10 years ago, his bank was robbed.

The robbery at the Key Biscayne Bank and Trust Co. occurred while Rebozo sat in on a Dade County Metro Commission meeting considering his proposal to close Bay Lane to the public for the sake of Nixon's privacy.

The commission voted 5-3 against the petition which was signed by Rebozo, millionaire industrialist Robert Altshuler, Nixon and several other Bay Lane residents.

"I heard about it (the robbery) on the radio on my way back from the commission meeting and I immediately thought my vice president (David L. Woods) had put on a wig and absconded with the money," Rebozo joked afterward.

The bandit got away with $1,000, to $10,000 in marked $20, $50 and $100 bills. Woods said part of the loot was "bait" money which had recorded serial numbers.

The man approached a newly-installed drive-in window and placed a hand-lettered note in the pneumatic tube instructing the teller to turn over the money or an accomplice inside the bank building would detonate a bomb.

Debbie Capparelli, 21, complied, then pressed the help alarm and dashed to the floor. The robber reportedly sped off in a blue and white Datsun.

The move to declare Bay Lane private met with opposition from the 200-member Key Biscayne Property Taxpayers Association. A spokesman for the group said the petition sought a "special privilege."

Rebozo argued that to allow public access to the road would cause traffic problems created by curiosity seekers who would crowd the area to look at the former President's vacation compound. Secret Service surveillance of the area ended Monday.

Rebozo said the vote meant that Nixon would not be able to return to Florida because he "must have privacy here and must have that."

Basques blamed for 3 killings

MADRID (UPI) — Three persons including a police commander died by gunfire in Spain's politically restless Basque provinces Tuesday night, police sources said today.

The sources blamed Basque separatists for the killings, separating a rural-police commander and his aide at the town of Mondragon. They identified the victims as Lt. Luis Santos, 32, commander of the local police station, and his aide, Argimiro Garcia, 50.

The sources said police later opened fire on a car which refused to stop at a police roadblock near San Sebastian, killing Jose Miguel Zalagui, 21, and injuring Jesus Calvillo, 57. Santos and Garcia were killed by a burst of fire from a speeding car as they patrolled a street of the town, the reports said. Mondragon is in Guipuzcoa province which was partly paralyzed by a political strike and the site of incidents between police and "demonstrators" a week ago.

The Basque country has been the scene of frequent violence between police and Basque militants fighting for the region's autonomy. "The reports said the slayers were suspected members of 'Basque Homeland and Liberty,' an underground separatist organization.

Viet aid funds low

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Less than half way through the budget year, the Pentagon has already spent almost three-quarters of the funds Congress gave it for aid to Vietnam.

The administration originally wanted to spend $1.6 billion on military equipment for South Vietnam during the fiscal year that began July 1. Congress finally imposed a $700 million ceiling.

Pentagon officials said today that as of Dec. 12, $506 million had been spent. That means that 44 per cent of the way through the year, 72 per cent of the funds had been exhausted.

Recession hits condo project in SV

IRS holds undelivered funds

BOISE (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service is holding $55.48 in undelivered refund money belonging to 211 persons who worked and lived in Idaho for at least part of 1973.

The IRS said the taxpayers moved without leaving forwarding addresses, or were divorced and changed their names or simply cannot be located.

Howard Martin, IRS director for Idaho, said the undelivered money will stay within the general treasury while it is held by the government.

Martin said the list of persons due refunds is kept on record so that if an individual files a tax return in the future he can be notified of his refund.

More education funds sought

BOISE (UPI) — The top priority of the Idaho student lobby at the forthcoming legislative session is more funding for higher education.

The organization said Tuesday this was the unanimous choice of the group's executive board, which is composed of the student body presidents from all member schools. Hileks College is the only non-member.

The group said it will work toward an increased student financial aid program in the form of a state supported student loan program.

The student organization also plans to lobby in the area of tenant-landlord relations and environmental issues.

4 staff positions open

BOISE (UPI) — Four staff positions are being advertised by the Idaho Department of Education, including a chief deputy position at a year salary of $22-25,000.

State Public Instruction Superintendent-elect Roy Truly said Tuesday applications will be screened by a department commission and top candidates referred to him for final selections.

The application deadline is April 1. Candidates must have administrative experience in public school administration and hold a master's degree, preferably a doctorate, from an accredited institution.

Other openings are for a consultant in the school lunch program, a consultant in teacher certification and coordination of school building construction and related duties.

Loan agreement signed

BOISE (UPI) — A $30 million seven-year loan agreement has been signed by the Morrison-Knudsen Co.

Vice President H.K. Woodhead said Tuesday the banks involved share equally in the loan.

He said the banks were American National Trust and Savings, Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago and Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York.

Plends not guilty

BOISE (UPI) — A Boise naturopath has entered pleas of not guilty to seven charges including practicing medicine without a license and unauthorized sale of drugs, a felony.

A trial by jury is scheduled for William Reimer April 8th in Fifth District Court.

Charges pending against Reimer include five counts of illegal possession of drugs, misdemeanors.

Joint efforts planned

BOISE (UPI) — The City of Boise and Boise State University plan to work together to get legislation that would require all state agencies to comply with federal zoning and building codes.

Mayor Dick Eganley, after meeting with BSU President John Barnes, said Tuesday university officials are willing to help city officials to push such legislation.

Recent opinions from the State Attorney General said the university and all state educational institutions are exempt from zoning laws.

Eganley said Barnes asked for a special "university zone" but told the Idaho Statesman "we reached no consensus on that."

Bill passes Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill introduced by Sen. James McClure of Idaho to guarantee tax exempt bonding authority for construction of a new dam at American Falls has passed the Senate.

Republican McClure, joined by Democratic Sen. Frank Church in the action called the measure "essential to the economic future of south Idaho."

IF firm low bidder

BOISE (UPI) — Allied Paving Corp. of Idaho Falls was the apparent low bidder for repaving the pavement of 5.30 miles of U.S. 91, from the junction of I-80N to State Highway 25 in Jerome County.

Allied offered a bid of $120,570. The offer was one of six bids submitted.

Vice presidents appointed

BOISE (UPI) — Appointment of three senior vice presidents has been announced by Albertson's Inc., of Boise.

They are Gary Michael as senior vice president of finance and treasurer, Clint Joyce as senior vice president of management and information systems, and Gerald R. Rudd as senior vice president of corporate services.

Michael has been with the company since 1966. Joyce became director of management information systems with Albertson's in 1968. Rudd started with the firm as a labor relations negotiator in 1959.

Homicide ruled out

BOISE (UPI) — An investigation into the death of Rully L. Leonard, whose body was found Sunday in the Boise River, has ruled out homicide, according to Boise police.

"There has been no evidence that would indicate there was any foul play involved in the disappearance or death," said detective Richard Schuler.

Mrs. Leonard, 62, was last seen by her husband about 4 a.m. April 24. Her body was found lodged on an island in the river west of town.

Dental charts were used to make positive identification of the remains.

TF man arrested

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls police Tuesday arrested Frank Washington, 19, Twin Falls, on a charge of first degree burglary in connection with a break-in on Dec. 13 at D.J.'s Lounge.

According to police reports, Washington was arrested about 3 p.m. by Twin Falls detectives. He was arraigned later Tuesday and bond set at $500.

Times-News Writer

SUN VALLEY — The recession in the US economy has hit at least one major Sun Valley condominium development.

The 100-unit John Gardner tennis complex, called The Ranch, a small village of pre-1970 two-bedroom condominiums about 2.5 miles east of the resort, have been sitting empty for nearly a year, with only one sold.

Dick Dahlgren, sales manager of the Ranch, said California developer Lewis Douglas Jr., who is backing the project, was hit with "financial bad times" as were many small developers because of current tight money.

"A property management and rental firm, Vicolor, has been hired to try to generate some income," Fred Thompson, president of the firm, said about 40 units have been rented for the Christmas holidays and this hopefully will offset some of the interest costs of the $4.5 million loan at 12 percent borrowed to finance construction of the Ranch.

"Vicolor representatives" are working on the West Coast markets to get people into the condominiums.

Dahlgren said it is a pity to term over-saturation of the condominium market for the failure of sales at the Ranch. The problem, he said, is that the company simply has no loan financing for its buyers.

Prospective buyers must pay cash or make their own loans, he said, if they want to purchase one of the units which sells for $59,950.

The pre-1970 Boise Cascade two-bedroom units have the same floor plan, with only minor differences. The exterior of the buildings is all all-wood shingles.

The first ground was broken in October, 1973, and the units begin arriving early in 1974. Almost all work except some interior finishing is completed and most of the units have been available for nearly a year.

Twenty plex-pave tennis courts, which dot the complex, are used for the Gardner summer tennis camps. Dahlgren said the tennis program is about the only successful thing this year.

Very few two-bedroom units are available in the Sun Valley area, he said. Although only one deal has been closed, Dahlgren said individuals seeking 21 of the units are ready to buy when financing is available.

Vicolor will not solicit people to buy condominiums, but they will help, Dahlgren said, by "getting people in here who will look them over."

A good percentage of the buyers will probably be tennis enthusiasts who want some place to come to get away from it all and have available courts and instructors, he said.

Vicolor president, Thompson, said the project looks encouraging for rental accommodations. People like the seclusion, Thompson said, of a project like the Ranch and they will be only 2.5 miles from Sun Valley. He said the Elkhorn building will make regular stops at the Ranch for passengers.

The Ranch will be without a restaurant and bar this year. Those accommodations are expected in the future, Thompson said. The restaurant and bar are built, but the financial situation at the moment does not warrant their operation.

Vicolor is hiring workers now and Thompson said an on-site property manager would be hired by the end of this week.

A rigorous looking campaign will be started soon, centered around summer tenants, Thompson said. Agents on the coast will be arranging for convention bookings also.

Vicolor manages condominiums in Aspen, Snowmass, Steamboat, Vail, Tahnah, Heavenly Valley and Squaw Valley.

NW vet school endorsed

SALMON — Establishment of the Northwest College of Veterinary Medicine will enable researchers to bring more pressure to bear on important problems of the animal industry such as the weak-kick syndrome. Dr. Floyd Frankel, dean of the Idaho faculty of veterinary medicine, said in Salmon.

The freshman class of eight Idaho students and three Idaho faculty members form the nucleus of the new program.

Dr. Frankel said the students are attending school at Pullman with faculty members teaching there and on the Idaho campus and doing research as well.

"With this kind of arrangement we can strengthen veterinary programs on both campuses and also strengthen our research program."

When in full operation the college expects to handle 60 students with 15 entering the program each year.

Oregon State University intends to go to the Oregon Legislature in early 1975 to be made a part of the program, Dr. Frankel said.

"The way the program is structured, we hope to have a regional college of veterinary medicine with campuses in the three states. The arrangement provides for coordination of activities in the field of veterinary medicine, including research, and will bring all the benefits of a college of veterinary medicine to Idaho."

Dr. Frankel noted that in the past the program under WICHE saw Idaho sending dollars out-of-state for Idaho students to attend out-of-state schools.

As to the new Northwest College of Veterinary Medicine, Dr. Frankel said:

"We are in a four-year phasing-in of the program in terms of faculty and students and funding. This year, we will be requesting funds for a veterinary medical clinic for teaching research in large animal medicine to be located in Caldwell. This is a critical year in terms of development of the program."

"We do look forward to having a substantial teaching program in large animal medicine, also a substantial continuing education program for veterinarians and ranchers in the field of animal disease."

"And we will be conducting an expanded program on animal disease by virtue of an increased staff and faculty and thus be able to bring more research pressure to bear on important problems of the Idaho animal industry."

Dr. Frankel said that "this kind of regional cooperation is being looked upon as a basis for cooperation in many other areas of research and education, both in the northwest and elsewhere."

"This program has brought substantial national attention to Idaho. Thirty-one states don't have colleges of veterinary medicine. All have increasing numbers of students who want to be veterinarians," Dr. Frankel said.

"Everyone of these states is finding itself in the position of needing to provide an opportunity for education in this field, but we are faced with a declining opportunity because states which have veterinary schools are starting to take more of their own students and fewer of the non-resident students."

"We've had inquiries from all over the US as to the mechanics of this program and visitors from several states. The program is really of a precedent setting kind."

Listed 'fair'

TWIN FALLS — A Boise man was in fair condition this morning at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital with injuries suffered in a one-vehicle accident near Rogers Tuesday morning.

Confined to the hospital with ribs, bruises and possible fractured ribs is Robert N. Wintersteen, 39, who was injured when his semi-trailer and truck jack-knifed on US 93 about nine miles south of Rogers.

According to Twin Falls County sheriff's officers, Wintersteen was northbound between Jackpot and Rogers about 10:30 a.m. when his freightliner hit an icy spot and jack-knifed off the left side of the roadway.

A passenger in the truck, Al Spielmann, 42, Eagle, was taken with Wintersteen to Magic Valley Memorial by ambulance but was released after treatment for minor injuries.

The truck Wintersteen was driving belonged to Willis Shaw, Boise, according to sheriff's officers.

Acting police chief named

GOODING — Dwayne Walker, the only remaining member of the Gooding Police Department after recent firings, has been named acting police chief.

The temporary appointment, which could become permanent depending on how Walker works out, was made at the Gooding City Council meeting here Monday night. He replaces Lyle Clifford, who resigned last week instead of accepting demotion. The other two patrolmen were fired for conduct unbecoming an officer and for not being certified.

In other action, councilmen were presented plans for two new building projects. Lauren Shaver, chairman of the Gooding Housing Authority board, and several other directors, presented a plan for a new senior citizens housing project. The six units, to be located on Second Avenue and Wyoming Street, will be small apartments, with priority for low-income senior citizens, Shaver said.

AF Dam tax bill advances

In addition to these demands, Holden says the power company should agree to pay half of its dam replacement costs above $28 million. Now Idaho Power has agreed to pay half the cost in excess of $40 million in addition to its original offer to pay $19.5 million for the dam's reconstruction.

The legislative amendment that would grant tax-exempt status for American Falls Dam replacement bonds was approved Tuesday by the Senate after it was maneuvered through the Senate by Sens. James McClure, R-Idaho, and Frank Church, D-Idaho.

They attached it to an unrelated bill dealing with import duties on upholstery equipment.

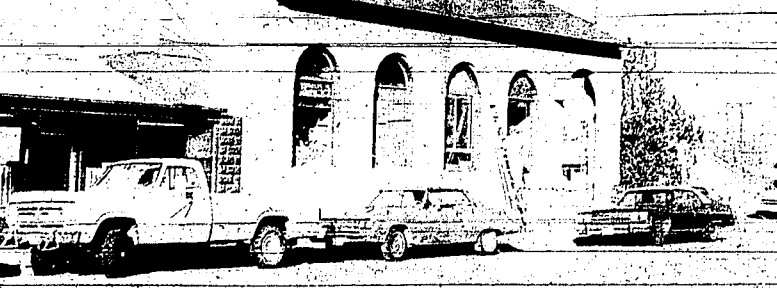

The amendment now goes to a conference committee of Senate and House members and a final test in the House.

McClure said the measure should be decided by the end of this week.

If successful, the amendment would effectively bypass a tax ruling by the Internal Revenue Service which has hindered for months the final plans for financing the replacement dam.

John Rosholt, Twin Falls, attorney for the American Falls Reservoir District, today said the amendment would turn the tax question into a legislative rather than an administrative decision.

Rosholt estimated that water users would pay about 40 cents less per acre-foot per year in retiring the bonds if interest on them is tax exempt. They would pay about 86 cents per acre-foot per year for 40 years. If the bonds are exempt, he said, compared to about $1.25 if the bonds are taxable.

Good lesson in fire prevention

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man was taught a lesson in fire prevention early this morning and luckily escaped with minor damage to his home.

According to Twin Falls Fire Department officers, the home of Rickes York, 387 Highland Ave., sustained about $100 damage in a fire about 7 a.m. this morning.

Officers said York had been building a fireplace and in order to keep the mortar wet had placed it under a tarp with an electric heater.

The tarp caught fire and scorched the interior of the house.

Firemen received the alarm call at 6:55 a.m. and were back in the main station at 7:06 a.m.

Rupert orders annex ordinance

BY DAVID BOCKMAN
Times-News writer

RUPERT — The Rupert City Council voted Tuesday night to prepare an ordinance annexing the Chapman subdivision.

The action came at the end of the regular council session after city employes told councilmen two residents of the subdivision wanted to hook into city sewer lines.

The two homeowners, Dr. Carl Keeley and John Clark, had told public works director Ron Klebe that they were having serious septic tank problems requiring almost daily pumping. Told that Keeley and Clark were willing to pay the hook-up costs, the council voted to allow them to connect to the sewer system immediately.

The emergency action providing sewer service came even though the two homes are not within the city limits and therefore ineligible for city sewer services. However, if the council is successful in annexing the subdivision the two residences will also become part of the city.

Sugar decline continues

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices opened higher Wednesday on the New York Stock Exchange in an apparent continuation of Tuesday's advance. Trading was fairly active.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which gained 0.21 on a late rally in the previous session, was ahead 0.55 to 588.09 shortly after the opening bell. Advances led declines, 152 to 70, among the more than 3,000 issues traded.

Analysts said there was no specific news to spark the Tuesday bounce, but at least one observer attributed the surge to the long-awaited beginnings of a traditional year-end rally.

Investors apparently ignored a statement by Treasury Secretary William Simon the nation's recession might deepen and finally kick heart from the Federal Reserve Board's recent moves to stimulate the nation's lagging economy by making more money available.

CHICAGO — Sugar futures continued to decline Tuesday.

Commodity News Service reported live cattle showed gains but most grains closed lower.

In the New York world sugar market, lack of export determinations helped keep the market without major feature. A liquidative mood continued to prevail, with most futures down the daily 2 cent limit at the close, although deferred deliveries were 1.52 to 1.25 cents under the Monday close.

Sugar 10 and 12 futures saw downward movement on a volume of 34 trades and 64 trades, respectively. Domestic spot process were cut by a cent.

Mutual Funds

NEW YORK — Mutual fund prices were mixed Tuesday.

Maine spuds lose again

COURTESY SINCLAIR & CO.

CHICAGO — Maine potato futures lost again Tuesday.

Commodity News Service said final prices were from 5 to 16 cents weaker in old crop potatoes while distant November gained 3 cents.

Overall dealings were figured at 2,837 carlots, with May, continuing to claim the largest volume.

Bearish fundamentals, including the huge potato supply, continued to dominate the market, with futures prices likely to sag further.

The Maine cash market was weaker with most quotation at 2.20-2.35 per hundredweight.

When futures prices fell, buyers were reached Tuesday by considerable margins.

St. Louis' quarterback named NFC top player

NEW YORK (UPI) — Quarterback Jim Hart, a one-time free agent who directed the St. Louis Cardinals to their first playoff appearance in 26 years, today was named the 1974 National Football Conference Player of the Year by United Press International.

The 30-year-old Hart, whose professional career appeared in jeopardy only one year ago because of an arm injury, came back to connect on 200 of 388 pass attempts this season for 2,411 yards and 20 touchdowns — the most scoring passes hurled by an NFC quarterback this year.

Under Hart's direction, the Cardinals posted a 10-1 record while winning the Eastern Division title and gaining the playoffs for the first time since the club moved from Chicago to St. Louis in 1960 and earning its first playoff spot since 1948.

Hart, who received 17 of a possible 39 votes in UPI's balloting of sports writers, three from each NFC city, beat out teammate Terry Metcalf and Minnesota running back

Chuck Foreman for the honor. Metcalf, whose rushing, pass receiving and kick returns accounted for 1,585 yards in total offense, received nine votes and Foreman had eight.

Hart, who was bypassed in the 1966 college player draft after his graduation from Southern Illinois and signed with the Cardinals as a free agent, injured his passing arm when he was hit by Detroit defense tackle Herb Orvis in the 12th game of the 1973 season. He sat out the remainder of the campaign while complete rest and therapy was recommended but the pain lingered for months.

"It didn't come around as quickly as I thought it would," Hart recalled. "There was serious doubt in my mind about my future."

However, rather than risk surgery, Hart decided to wait and fortunately for both him and the Cardinals the arm began responding to treatment prior to the 1974 season.

"The offensive line and receivers must share the credit for this award," said Hart who didn't need to be reminded that St. Louis passers were sacked only 16 times — the lowest total in the National Football League this year.

"You get reminded of that song, 'Is That All There Is?'" Hart continued. "There is always something else."

"You think you've reached a plateau where things couldn't be better and then you're named to the UPI All Star team. Then you win the division and you aim for the championship. Being named player-of-the-year is another plateau."

Hart takes what he hopes will be another step up Saturday when he leads the Cardinals against the Central Division champion Minnesota Vikings in an NFC playoff game.

Lombardi's influence seen in selection of new Packer coach

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Vince Lombardi and the aura he left in Green Bay is one of the handicaps any coach for the Packers has to live under — as Dan Devine found out.

Now speculation is swirling around two former Lombardi Packers, Bart Starr and Dave Hanner, in the search to find the man to steer Green Bay back to those glory years.

Both have said they are interested in the spot vacated when Devine resigned under fire Monday and announced he had taken the head coaching job at Notre Dame.

The question of a successor to Devine will be taken up Wednesday by the club's executive committee.

Starr, once described as "an extension of Lombardi on the field," is the popular favorite among the fans. A 17th round draft choice out of Alabama, Starr went on to become the field marshal for Lombardi's Packers.

Yes, I am interested in the job," Starr said after hearing of Devine's resignation. "It's an educational thing, although I feel it's wrong to make a major decision based strictly on emotion."

Starr, now a successful businessman, makes his home in Sunland Park, Calif.

Hanner, the Packers' defensive coordinator under Devine, said he also would be interested in the coaching job, but not as coach-general manager, the dual role held by Devine.

"I definitely would be interested," Hanner said. "Just as the coach, though, running the football end of things I wouldn't want that general manager stuff."

Hanner, who has been with the Packer organization 21 consecutive years as player or coach, has also been mentioned as a possible source of opinion in the Packer coaching staff against Devine. He discounted that.

Other names mentioned as possible coaches include Penn State's Joe Paterno; Norm Van Brocklin, fired this season by the Atlanta Falcons; and Miami coach Don Shula.

Behagen paces win

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Iten Behagen's tip with 25 seconds left and Scott Weidman's steal at the 10-second mark propelled the Kansas City-Omaha Kings to a 111-110 victory Tuesday night over the Buffalo Braves.

The Braves, whose four-game winning streak was snapped, led most of the way before the Kings finally caught them 99-99 with 5:50 left.

76ers top Celts

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — The Philadelphia 76ers came up with five points in the final 25 seconds of play for a 115-109 victory over the Boston Celtics Tuesday night at the Providence Civic Center.

The Celtics held a 109-108 lead when Clyde Lee tapped in a rebound with the clock showing just 25 seconds to go.

The Celtics then put the ball in play but John Havlicek lost it out of bounds, ruining their chance of catching the 76ers.

Then came the NBA contest on three free throws by Billy Cunningham.

Barry rips Knicks

NEW YORK (UPI) — NBA scoring leader Rick Barry burned New York with 44 points after reeling off eight straight field goals in the first period as the west division-leading Golden State Warriors handed the Knicks their worst defeat of the season, 126-108 Tuesday night.

LA streak ends

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Jimmy Cincimini, picking up for injured scoring leader Austin Carr, collected a career-high 23 points Tuesday night as the Cleveland Cavaliers ended the Los Angeles Lakers' five-game home winning streak with a 119-106 NBA victory.

Blazers end drought

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Sidney Wicks, in one of the best games of his career, scored 25 points to lead the Portland Trail Blazers to their first victory over the Milwaukee Bucks in two years Tuesday night with a 119-103 victory.

Wicks scored 15 in the first half, pulled in 19 rebounds and handed out eight assists to give the Blazers their second straight victory and move them into second place in the Pacific Division.

Turning the corner

RUNNING STAR Scott Laidlaw of Stanford takes off on an end around but is soon stopped by Gray's defensive tackle Louie Kelcher. Laidlaw scored on touchdown and set up another as the Blue beat the Gray 29-24. (UPI Telephoto)

Laidlaw sparks Blue to win over Gray

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — When the rosters were made up for the 57th Blue-Gray football classic, North coach Jack Christiansen of Stanford made sure running back Scott Laidlaw was included.

"It was Laidlaw of Stanford who scored a third quarter touchdown to keep the Blues in the running and then set up a fourth quarter score Tuesday night to give them a 29-24 come from behind victory over the

Grays. Based on an eight-yard touchdown run by quarterback Steve Fowler of Memphis State and a 25-yard scoring pass to Brad Boyd of Louisiana State led the Blues 17-14 at the half.

In the third quarter it seemed that the Grays would put it out of reach as Jay Lynn Hodgkin of South Carolina, the game's most valuable player and the workhorse of the South's running game, scored on a 10 yard punt.

But Laidlaw, who along with Chuck Heater of Michigan were the main forces in the North offensive line, scored on a 27 yard run in the final minutes of the third quarter.

Then, with just over two minutes left in the game, Laidlaw broke through the tough South defensive line for a 20-yard run down to the Gray

Utah nips Utags

LOGAN, Utah (UPI) — Utah fell behind after leading by 16 points in the first half, but the Utes finally overhauled Utah State for an 89-82 win Tuesday night — UTSU's first home loss in 20 games.

The Utes raced ahead 12-2 in the opening minutes, built that up to a 16-point advantage and led 43-34 at halftime before the Aggies caught fire behind the scoring of forward Jimmie Moore.

Utah State finally tied the score at 51-all on a layup by center Ed Gregg, and then moved ahead by six points, 67-61, before Utah scrambled back to win its sixth game of the season.

Charles Menatti led Utah with 21 points and teammate Ticky Burden added 19. Moore led all scorers with 26 points.

Devine to keep Irish in Ara's tradition

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Dan Devine promised Notre Dame's football fans the same type of football he had under Ara Parseghian in his first appearance as coach of the Fighting Irish Tuesday, 11 years after he was first considered for the job.

"I've been basically using the same type of offense that Ara has," he said. "I always run the quarterback and pass the sprintout pass. Our offensive philosophies are similar. I'm not a dropback-passer coach."

Devine, who resigned Monday as coach and general manager of the Green Bay Packers, revealed that the Notre Dame job was offered to him last Wednesday. He said there was "a meeting of the minds" that he would take the post if he could obtain his release from the last year of his five-year Green Bay contract.

"I'm glad to be coming here," he said. "I'm not glad to be leaving Green Bay, but I left a potential championship ball club here, which is not what I inherited."

Devine also accepted a five-year contract at Notre Dame.

He said he had seen parts of two Notre Dame games on television this year and "I saw a lot of things I liked. One of them graduates."

"I like a hitter. I like a guy that plays. Give me 30 or 35 percent of the offense and I'll give you 100 percent, they're going to win. You've got to have talent. But if you don't sacrifice, you're going to have a tough time winning."

Devine, who coached three years at Arizona State and 13 at Missouri before he went to Green Bay, said that following a coach who had a 9-2 record in his last season "makes the job more of a challenge." He said that if he had been looking for an easier situation he could have had it.

Devine said he did not know whether he would watch Notre Dame's Orange Bowl game against Alabama from the stands or on television.

"I have the gut feeling this is Ara's club," he said. "When the game is over, I'll come."

The Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, Notre Dame vice president and chairman of the Board in Control of Athletics, said Devine was offered the job last Wednesday and he didn't know until Monday that Devine had accepted.

Joyce also disclosed that Devine was second choice to Parseghian 11 years ago when Parseghian left Northwestern for Notre Dame.

"Ara had not taken the job," he said. "Devine would have been our first choice."

Parseghian went over his reasons for resigning and the reaction of his family and friends to the decision. Earlier he had said he was physically exhausted and emotionally drained.

He disclosed Tuesday that he has been taking blood pressure pills and tranquilizers and that he "could see all the symptoms coming."

He said he had been contemplating resignation for a year or a year and a half and that he reached his decision after the game against Navy Dec. 2. He told Joyce of the decision Dec. 6.

Parseghian spoke of the "accelerated" pace of college football now and said the past year was particularly difficult, citing last year's Sugar Bowl, recruiting, spring practice injuries, industrial accidents, the suspension of six players for violation of dormitory rules, and his daughter's wedding as events which affected him emotionally.

"He said it would have been ideal but not practical" for him to take a leave of absence, because coaching football now is "more than a 12 month job."

"If I wasn't as fit as I am," he said, "maybe I would not have enjoyed success. Pressure is self-inflicted."

Parseghian said his assistant coaches "came to console me" when he told them of his resignation. "I got choked up about it."

Asked the reaction of his wife, Parseghian laughed and said, "She says 'He no coach.'"

Parseghian said he would take at least six months to determine whether he would return to coaching. He indicated that if he did return it probably would be with a professional team.

But he ruled out any idea of going to the expansion franchises at Tampa and Seattle beginning in the National Football League in 1976 because they would have to begin organization before he would be ready to coach.

Idaho Falls tests Bruins here tonight

A one-three-one trap zone is Twin Falls Coach Ron Watson's biggest concern tonight when his Bruins host the Idaho Falls Tigers in quest of their fifth straight victory.

The game is one of two toughies for Twin Falls this week as the Borah Lions will move in Friday night.

Coach Watson notes Idaho Falls has good height and will be a little taller overall than the Bruins in average. But his worry is ball handling against the trap defense Idaho Falls uses.

He notes last year Twin Falls went into the fourth quarter with a 27-point lead and that trap press ate up all but two of the points — those coming in the final seconds of the foul line.

"We know what we want to do against it (the trap)," said Coach Watson Tuesday night. "But it might be a little early in the year for our boys to run into something like that and handle it the way they will in another month."

Going into the contest Twin Falls has four men averaging in double figures — and that will give the Idaho Falls defense something to think about.

Cowboys undergo surgery

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys Tuesday said surgery had been scheduled for three players.

Bill Gregory, defensive lineman, will be operated on Wednesday for calcium deposits in his left index finger.

Offensive center John Fitzgerald and running back Charles Young will undergo surgery Jan. 2. Fitzgerald for calcium deposits in his right elbow and ligament damage to his left knee, and Young for calcium in his ankle.

Vikings flee distractions

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — It was not fair skies or comparatively warm weather and lack of snow that brought the Minnesota Vikings to Tulsa for their second year of practice prior to a playoff game in quest of the Super Bowl — it was the lack of distractions.

"It gives us more of an opportunity to concentrate on the game without the distractions of the season," one Viking coach said Tuesday before the team began its first workout at Tulsa University's Skelly Stadium.

"Back home there would have been distractions from friends and relatives, Christmas shopping and other things."

The Viking coaches said they would run general practice sessions of the same type they had during the regular season and did not plan any special activities in preparation for Saturday's game against the St. Louis Cardinals in Bloomington.

Bogus check starts probe on plan

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — State Attorney Robert Egan said Tuesday he has launched an investigation of a $1.5 million check "bounced" after it was presented to the founding Florida Blazers of the World Football League.

The check was written by a man conducting a two-week investigation of possible fraud and trafficking in bad checks.

"We're looking at it from the aspect of whether or not a crime was committed by putting a bad check into circulation and, in addition, whether or not there was some sort of fraudulent scheme to persuade the players to do what they otherwise may not have been willing to do," he said.

The check was first flashed before television cameras just before kickoff at the Nov. 21st playoff game between the Blazers and the Philadelphia Bell.

Cocoa Beach financier Robert Prentice handed the check to Blazers attorney Robert Deutsch, saying he represented a group of unnamed investors, and promised the players and coaches it would be used in part to make up several weeks of back pay, as well as paying off the Internal Revenue Service and other creditors.

A few days later the check was returned to the Sun First National Bank of Orlando due to insufficient funds.

While reports circulated that Prentice represented a combine ready to invest many millions in Florida and rescue the entire WFL from its financial morass, a Nashville, Tenn., newspaper (The Nashville Banner) reported last week the check was written by a Tennessee firm with less than $2,000 in the bank.

The check was written on a corporation chartered in Nashville on Nov. 12, listed as corporation in Cocoa Beach, now of Cocoa Beach, Nashville attorney Sam Wallace identified himself as chairman of the board and secretary of the company which he said was founded to "handle some funds when and if they were available."

Egan declined to discuss particulars in the case. "The investigation has just commenced and we don't have the facts in hand at this time."

DEAR ABBY: I am too ashamed to ask a doctor this question, so I'm turning to you.
Does sex make a person hungry? It appears to be true in my case.
I am 27, and all my life I've been fighting weight, so I am constantly counting calories.
My husband travels during the week. He comes home on Thursday night and leaves again on Sunday night.
All during the week when he's away I have no trouble staying away from fattening foods, but when he comes home and we resume marital relations I go crazy eating all the things I shouldn't eat. (I seem to crave sweets.)

Does sex hike appetite?

After he left last Sunday I ate half a chocolate cake and a whole quart of ice cream all by myself! (I could not admit this to anybody else.)
The only thing I can figure out is that sex increases my appetite. Is it only a coincidence, or is it a fact?

NAMELESS IN N.Y.

DEAR NAMELESS: My medical experts tell me that any kind of physical exercise stimulates the appetite, but there is no hard evidence that sex leads to chocolate cake.

DEAR ABBY: From a woman's standpoint, would it be better to marry a man who loves you more than you love him, or to marry a man whom you love more than he loves you? In other words, is it better to love than to be loved? M.

DEAR M.: Since all women are individuals, it isn't possible to speak for all women. For some women, the greatest joy is in giving love. For others, the ultimate pleasure is in being loved.
Basically, one's generosity is motivated by selfishness, for one loves in order to be loved. But why specify a woman's standpoint? The same holds true for a man.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are often invited to dinner at our friends' homes. We have no children; most of our friends do.

More often than not, our friends' pre-school children are still up when we arrive. They are fed at the same table with the guests, and remain present long afterwards.

The problem is that it is difficult, if not impossible, to carry on an adult conversation with children interrupting every few minutes; running through the room and whatever.

Abby, we have nothing against children, but we feel that children should be seen and heard—briefly—when adults gather. One might say that if we had children, we'd understand. However, we consider this to be a poor excuse for parents' failure to discipline their children. What do you think? And what's the solution?

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: I think you're right on target. And the solution is to level with your friends. You may lose a few, but you might educate a few others.

DEAR ABBY: The best answer I have ever heard in response to an impolite question was given by my daughter, aged four.

A rude person asked her, "Who do you love more, your mother or your father?"
She replied with a courteous smile, "Why do you want to know?"

R.R.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.
Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

New Italian drug fights bone cancer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An expensive Italian drug named Adriamycin has given American doctors their first significant chemical tool against bone and muscle cancers, according to the National Cancer Institute. Adriamycin was released commercially in the United States six weeks ago and "is the first drug that shows meaningful and significant activity against soft tissue and bone sarcomas," Dr. Stephen K. Carter said Monday. "I would call it one of the most active drugs we have had. It's not a breakthrough," added Carter, associate director at the government research center. Adriamycin, developed by the Farmitalia Co. of Milan, Italy, costs about $20 for a 10-milligram vial and a six-months series of treatments would average around $2,000, according to Carter.

The antibiotic was the subject of a two-day seminar for cancer physicians describing its development, its early clinical evaluation and results of American trials against a wide variety of cancers.

which required a two-day, round opening with five hearts and four spades. Since East did not make this Flannery-two-diamond opening he had to hold six hearts and just three diamonds.

Bridge Jacoby

South overcomes stacked trump

a six-card minor and a reasonable amount of high cards.

North's two notrump said, "Tell me which minor you hold." Eventually South got to five clubs, which West doubled.

West opened the jack of hearts to East's queen and South's ace. The hand looked like a cinch, except that West's double might well have been based on all four missing trumps. South saw there was hope anyway and proceeded to make his contract.

He led a diamond to dummy's ace and played the nine of spades. East rose with the ace and led the king of hearts which South ruffed. The next tricks went quickly. King of spades; spade ruff; diamond to the king; ace of trumps; ruff of the last spade...and then pause.

South held king-jack-eight-seven of trumps. West held queen-10-five of trumps and a mystery red card. West had dropped the queen of diamonds under South's king, but South knew what to do.

He led and ruffed a diamond while West had to follow. Then he led a low club and made his contract.

How did South know what to do? It seems East and West were playing a modern convention called, "Flannery" according to Carter. The antibiotic was the subject of a two-day seminar for cancer physicians describing its development, its early clinical evaluation and results of American trials against a wide variety of cancers.

Youth's spirits bright

ABERNATHY, Tex. (UPI) — Even though Christmas is still a few days off, it's already been a joyful year for 6-year-old Patrick Lewis.

The six-sized second-grader, a victim of multiple birth defects, can now get around wherever he wants to go. For Pat, even that is an accomplishment.

The youngster refuses to let the fact he has no natural arms or legs overshadow his ambition or his enthusiasm.

"To Pat, handicap is only a word he cannot spell," said Alma Ruth Patterson, his schoolteacher.

"He didn't get his artificial arms and legs until a year ago, and he got his wheelchair only recently. But he makes the best of his situation."

At school, he and another youngster who also has a wheelchair sometimes like to race in the hallways.

"We are glad to see a little of this, and we encourage him at many things," said Miss Patterson.

"As this Christmas season approaches, sometimes we like to get all involved in our own problems. But seeing Pat, and the way he is working to overcome his handicaps, one gets a new meaning of the real Christmas season."

Mrs. Home-Bell Lewis, his grandmother, and her husband, said the Scottish Rite Hospital in Dallas last year donated the artificial arms and legs he wears, and this year he was given the chair.

"We are so pleased that people still care—and are willing to help," she said.

His therapist said Pat would be able to walk, with a minimum of assistance, throughout his life.

"Pat is bright and creative, and will be employable as an adult at any task that excludes ponderous paper work," Miss Patterson said.

"He already has learned to use a pencil, and his artificial arms and legs are adaptable. The only variant is in Pat's decision and choice of vocation."

Gun totes unwelcome

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson Monday said to many gun-carrying Detroiters "one should not go to the country north of the Motor City and warn them to stay out or leave their guns at home."

Detroit is an armed camp, Patterson said. "I am not going to tolerate the spillover from Detroit into Oakland County."

"I guess what I'm saying is that Detroit and Wayne County residents are welcome to come in Oakland County as long as they leave their guns at home."

Law ups truck weights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation to allow bigger trucks on the interstate highway system appears almost certain of passing Congress this week.

Senators also should expect state police to be more rigid about the 55 mile an hour speed limit next year as a result of the same legislation — a $763 million federal highway bill which would cut off funds to any state that does not enforce it.

The House passed the bill Monday. It now goes to a conference to iron out differences with the Senate version.

The House bill did not mention larger truck weight limits on the interstate system, but the House debate indicated its negotiators would simply accept the Senate section to increase "maximum" weights from 73,000 to 80,000 pounds.

Rep. Edward L. Koch, D-N.Y., said members of the House Public Works Committee who will serve on the conference committee would simply accept the Senate truck language, then return the bill to the House where it would pass easily.

The people of this country do not want the size of these trucks to be increased," Koch said.

No one denied Koch's charges on the House floor, and the bill's opponents outmaneuvered Koch when he tried to have the House negotiators instructed not to accept the big truck section.

No roll call votes were taken on the bill because Koch never could get enough support.

The 55 m.p.h. speed limit went into effect during last winter's fuel shortage, but motorists largely ignore it today.

The bills would make the speed limit permanent and cut off highway funds to any state that did not enforce it.

Integration may elude urbanites

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Urban segregation in both the north and the south is likely to increase, according to a draft report of the US Civil Rights Commission.

"Without positive action," the draft report said, "segregation in urban areas, both north and south, appears likely to increase, and urban-suburban racial divisions will be intensified."

The report, a survey of equal educational opportunity 20 years after the landmark "Brown" Supreme Court decision, was up for debate Tuesday at a public meeting of the Civil Rights Commission.

The commission's draft report recommends "immediate steps should be taken to develop a uniform national school desegregation standard" which can be used to determine in each locality the extent to which the constitutional mandate for school desegregation can be carried out.

While the draft report does not spell out the specific what steps should be taken, it does recommend that President Ford propose and Congress enact legislation to help finance housing of students where "transportation is necessary to maintain compliance with the proposed uniform standard in a fair and equitable way."

The commission's findings are subject to change following the public consultation.

The report said less than 4 per cent of present housing is for desegregation and that 43 per cent of all public school pupils are currently bused to school.

Praise offered for ski package

KETCHUM — Sun Valley Co. president Bill Janss was praised for initiating a special ski discount package for businesses.

Chamber president Iuth Leder said Janss had not received due credit for the $50 season pass Sun Valley is extending to employees of business in the valley. Under the new plan skiers will pay for a $50 season pass plus a $5 daily pass. Regular rate is $10 daily for people not under the program.

To operate successfully Sun Valley must get 500 people to participate in the program, according to recreation vice president Wally Huffman.

Consequently, the chamber has extended the offer to the Hailey Chamber of Commerce as well. Members of the Hailey chamber will have to be dues-paying members of the Hailey chamber to take benefit of the program.

The chamber office is open now, and reservation information is available. Leder said the two buses used for inter-city transportation will run and will be operated by the chamber beginning Dec. 22.

Tickets can be purchased at 50 cents each or 10 rides for $2.50. The chamber is attempting to sell advertising space inside the buses to offset the cost of cooperation.

The chamber has offered to give the buses to the city of Ketchum. The council here has not decided whether to accept the offer. Ten drivers have been hired.

Leder said the chamber will quit operation of the buses if the buses fail to produce adequate income. A general meeting will be held before the chamber shuts down operation if the business proves unfeasible inoperative, Leder said.

Huffman said half-day discounts will be extended on Dollar and Elkhorn mountains for $3 daily. The half-day discount will not be extended to Elk Mountain.

The chamber hit financial disaster earlier in the summer. The new discount program is the incentive the chamber hopes will bring businesses back into the chamber.

Members of both chambers are asked to submit a full-time employee list to the chamber. Upon receiving the request the chamber will write back to the chamber member. Employees are then asked to go to the Sun Valley Sports Center with a photo identification.

Employees will then be assigned to the Sun Valley personnel office for picture taking and certification. Any lost tickets should be reported to the Sun Valley Sports Center immediately.

Chamber officials have made a plan not to call them at their working business offices. The chamber of commerce address is Box 465, Ketchum. All telephone inquiries should be directed to the chamber phone 726-3241.

Burton denies rumors

GENEVA (UPI) — An unusually subdued Richard Burton, insisting he hasn't had a proper drink since breaking up with Elizabeth Taylor, says he's getting along just fine with Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia.

The actor says he plans to spend Christmas with Princess Elizabeth, the woman he wants to marry following his divorce last summer from Miss Taylor.

"I still am in love," he says Monday night about a report that the princess had left him because he drank too much, Burton replied. "Absolute rubbish."

"There is some truth that I have been known to have a few pints but since June I haven't been drinking except for the occasional glass of social wine."

Burton said Princess Elizabeth wanted to sue a London newspaper that reported the breakup of their two-month-old romance. He calmed her down on the telephone.

"I take these things in my stride, but I get angry when people who are not concerned get attacked," he said.

He said the couple plans to spend the Christmas vacation with his children at Gstaad and with the princess' children in Switzerland.

He said the princess is spending Christmas together, but he will be commuting between the two places, the actor said.

"He said the princess isn't with him now because it is only natural that before Christmas she would want to visit her children in London and make arrangements for Christmas."

Burton, normally ill-tempered with newsmen, was relaxed and philosophical during the conversation at a local restaurant close to his villa in the Geneva suburb of Cologny.

He said he is supposed to start a new movie in Rome on Thursday, but he hopes to be back in Switzerland on Friday to start the holidays. "I have made four films this year, and that is enough for any man," he said.

Jailed Soviet spy's sentence commuted

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — The 20-year prison sentence of a convicted Russian spy jailed for over seven years awaiting trial and later convicted of trying to obtain U.S. defense secrets has been commuted.

The federal jail term for Igor A. Ivanov, was set aside Monday at the urging of the State Department.

Ivanov, 44, had been permitted to return to his native Moscow in 1971 with the stipulation that he return to the U.S. once his appeals were exhausted. The last appeal was rejected last Oct. 14.

But Monday, U.S. attorney for New Jersey, Jonathan L. Goldstein went before a federal judge in Newark to ask that Ivanov's sentence be vacated in the interest of relations between the United States and the Soviet Union. The motion was granted by Judge Lawrence A. Whipple.

Goldstein said the State Department requested dismissal of the case on grounds that further jailing of Ivanov could adversely affect important foreign policy objectives and would "not serve the national interest."

Ivanov was convicted in 1961 along with an American engineer working on Strategic Air Command projects of conspiring to transmit American defense secrets to Russia. At the time he worked as a chauffeur for the Soviet trading agency, Amtorg.

Man, dog stalk San Francisco rats

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sanford W. Westphal and his German Shepherd Bonnie are killers who stalk San Francisco's streets before dawn.

Their prey — the city's population of 300,000 rats.

"It's a challenge," Westphal said. "We don't make much money, but we have a lot of fun."

There are some drawbacks to the job, however. "There's a bunch of looks in this town," Westphal says. "Some of 'em are even ready to start a lawsuit if they see you trapping a rat."

Westphal gets $50 a month from the city for his work.

Blacks' economics improve

New York Times Service UNITED NATIONS — A United Nations report says that the economic situation of blacks and other ethnic minorities in the United States has improved significantly in recent years, diminishing the social basis of racial discrimination.

The document points also to emphasis on the quality of life, the emergence of a strong women's movement, the end of campus disorders and the national debate on the political system as a result of the Watergate scandal as important social trends in the United States.

The 42-page paper, issued by the United Nations Economic and Social Council, is the section on North America of the 1974 report on the world's social situation.

The report will be considered by the council's commission for social development in a three-week session here in January. The document was compiled by members of the world organization's staff and consultants.

Like all such United Nations studies, the report uses existing and published research.

Consumers get sugar $ break

By United Press International
A full-scale sugar price war in sections of Eastern United States Tuesday gave consumers their first break on the sweetener in weeks, but sugar prices remained high or dropped only slightly in other sections.

In some areas the price had not risen as high as in the East and Tuesday's prices were even lower than sugar-war prices.

In Austin, Tex., the Holbert Painter Wig store offered a two-pound bag free to women who buy a wig at $12.50 or more.

There also appeared to be a trend toward lower beef prices. The Agriculture Department said a surplus of beef cattle promises to force even lower prices next year.

Wholesale beef was sold in Chicago last week for 50 cents a pound for choice cuts and a market specialist said supermarket chains placed large orders.

A UPI survey showed a great disparity in sugar prices. First City was selling a 16-pound bag in Minneapolis for $5.69. But in Utah, Albertson's market was selling 10 pounds for $3.64, the five-pound price in some areas. A spokesman said the chain is "not making a dime, but we're not losing either."

In Washington and Atlanta, where supermarkets freeze prices when they were rising, consumers weren't getting the benefit of lower prices either.

Supermarkets in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut Tuesday were running specials on sugar, selling it at a loss to attract customers to their stores.

Wegman's Supermarkets in upstate New York offered a five-pound bag at $1.99 to customers who buy $30 worth of other groceries. Wegman's regular price was $2.89. The special was more than a $1 less than the wholesale price.

In Buffalo, N.Y., Tops advertised a brand name for $2.49 for five pounds. A spokesman called it a "good draw."

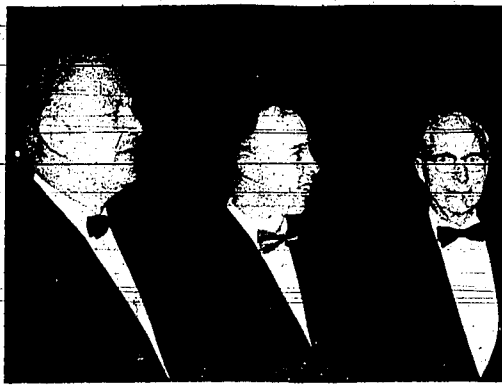

The sugar price war in the New York area was touched off Sunday when Pathmark supermarkets dropped its five-pound price from $1.29 to $2.79, 26 cents below the wholesale price.

A.P. the nation's largest chain, matched the Pathmark price Tuesday. "In order to meet competition," a spokesman said. Two other major chains, Grand Union and ShopRite, also dropped their prices to $2.79. ShopRite said it was losing 30 cents on each five-pound bag.

Washington Star-News WASHINGTON — "In the spirit of Christmas," Rabbi Baruch Korff called Tuesday for a "moratorium on the pressure" on former President Richard Nixon.

"If it does not let up, this man will die," Korff asserted, referring to the ailing, ex-president. "It is a matter of weeks or months."

"I appeal to the agencies, I appeal to the media, I appeal to everybody, in the spirit of Christmas, let us have a moratorium on this pressure," said Korff, who has been a leader of citizen support for the ex-president since his troubled Watergate days at the White House.

TF Kayler Lodge installs

TWIN FALLS — Installation of officers for Kayler Lodge No. 94 AF and AM Saturday night might have included a state-wide first.

Mason Floyd Bandy installed his grandson, Rodney Davis, as worshipful master of the lodge during the ceremonies. At the same time, Rodney Davis' father, Glen Davis, served as installing marshal, and his cousin, DeVerne Fuller, served as chaplain. Jack Hyder was installed as Junior warden and Glen Cannon was senior warden during ceremonies.

Other officers installed include Craig Grayhill, treasurer; Walter Slaughter, secretary; Jim Beal senior deacon; Roy Hopper, Junior deacon; Loren Craig, senior steward; Ken Beechel, Junior steward; Will Furling, marshal; Harley Williams, Tyler; George Warberg, building board.

Soviets man batteries

Author asks TV show cancellation

NEW YORK (UPI) — Elie Abel, dean of the Columbia University School of Journalism, has asked ABC-TV to cancel a special three-hour dramatization of the 1962 Cuban Missile Crisis on grounds that "its script is largely lifted from a book he wrote on the subject."

But the company which produced the program maintained the script was "totally original" and the network said the show, "The Missiles of October," will air as scheduled Wednesday night, at 8 p.m. EST, despite the threat of a lawsuit.

Abel, a former NBC diplomatic correspondent, said he attended a private screening of the program and then "went carefully through the script" and "the book," Abel's work, "The Missile Crisis," was published in 1960.

which produced the show — if the program is shown.

The scriptwriter, Stanley Greenberg, expressed shock at Abel's allegations.

"I feel that a chair has been pulled out from under me," said Greenberg from his home in Kensington, Calif., a San Francisco suburb. "I am not guilty of plagiarism."

Abel's work, said Greenberg, was just one of "many, many, many sources."

An ABC spokesman said the network plans to go ahead with the program and that Viacom has agreed to assume the costs of any legal repercussions.

A Viacom official said his company's lawyers were "initially satisfied that there is no problem whatsoever."

One of the lawyers noted that there's "certainly no proprietary right in a historical event."

Abel said his comparison found the script "borrows very heavily" from his account, which he called "the definitive book" on the subject.

"It is the custom in this world when you use other people's work to first ask permission, second give credit, and then you pay for it," he said.

Abel's lawyer, Gerald Dickler, said his client may sue ABC and Viacom International.

Drought cuts Argentine grain production hopes

(C) New York Times Service BUENOS AIRES — A pessimistic outlook for the most fertile grain-producing zones of Argentina has led to rising pessimism among agricultural experts here that the country will be able to significantly aid the worldwide food situation.

According to leading farmers' organizations, one-third of the grain crop in southern Buenos Aires province and La Pampa has already been lost because of the drought in Entre Rios, another agriculturally rich province.

grain yields are reported to be half the normal yields. Together, the three provinces account for more than half the wheat, corn and sorghum production in Argentina.

This year, Argentina produced 6.6 million tons of wheat, which was considered a poor harvest in a country that had annual wheat yields above 10 million tons.

Farmers "increased" their wheat acreage by 20 per cent over last year's planting, but the drought has brought most harvest estimates down to about 5 million tons.

This will mean that Argentina will probably have to import wheat again to meet contracts and commitments made with Latin American and European grain clients. After overselling the last harvest, the government was forced to import about 500,000 tons of wheat.

Earlier this month, the government raised the support prices for wheat farmers by 15 per cent to about $90 a ton. The increase came too late to affect the planting season, but it may serve as an incentive to farmers, who claim that costs have risen so much that even harvesting the crop is too expensive.

There have already been reports that some farmers in southern Buenos Aires province have grazed their cattle on wheat fields not considered worth harvesting.

Corn yields are expected to run 5 to 7 per cent above this year's harvest of 9.9 million tons. But agronomists warn that production will depend on rainfall, particularly in December when the corn crops are formed.

Besides the drought, agriculture here continues to be plagued by a lively contraband trade. The state-run National Grain Board — the only unauthorized buyer of crops — often pays that price often less than half the world market levels.

As a result, huge quantities of agricultural products find their way across the borders to Bolivia, Chile and Paraguay. Last year, the government estimated that more than $500 million in foodstuffs were smuggled into neighboring countries.

Fertilizer prices up 10-15% in 1975

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fertilizer prices may be up between 10 and 15 per cent next spring, a much softer blow than farmers got when prices more than doubled during the past year.

Agriculture Department economists said today.

A fertilizer industry spokesman said that while the administration is calling for expanded plant food production, the Federal Power Commission curtailed fertilizer supply, refusing to approve a priority for natural gas needed at a fertilizer plant in Oklahoma.

"If the administration is serious about increasing the nation's food output, then it must be willing and active in assuring farmers a steady supply of fertilizer," said Edwin M. Wheeler, president of the Fertilizer Institute.

The Agriculture Department said the prospect of a 10-15 per cent price increase next spring over levels of late 1973 may signal an end to the recent upward price spiral of recent months.

The report said use of all three primary plant food components — nitrogen and phosphorus will increase in 1975. But the gains for nitrogen and potash may be smaller than posted this year, experts added.

figures indicate that farmers are trimming their buying plans because of high fertilizer prices and uncertainties about the 1975 season. Purchases in the last half of 1974 appear to be down from a year earlier and inventories have increased.

In spite of the slowdown, experts predicted that fertilizer demand will increase in 1975, because farmers are expected to increase planting of corn, wheat and other major crops.

Worldwide, the report said, total use of fertilizer in 1974-75 may reach 47 to 48 million tons, up 13 per cent from the previous year. But the supply and demand balance will remain tight because of widespread pressure to increase food production.

Red meats imports off 1973 levels

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With fresh and frozen beef imports down by more than one-fifth, total US imports of all red meats for the first 10 months of 1974 were 17 per cent below a year earlier, the Agriculture Department today.

Officials said October imports of meat covered by a currently inactive import control program — mainly fresh and frozen beef — were only 72.3 million pounds, down 52 per cent from a year earlier.

For the 10 months ending in October, imports of these meats totaled 881 million pounds, 22 per cent below a year earlier.

Total meat imports, which also include other products such as pork and canned corned beef, were estimated at 1,249 million pounds for the 10-month period, the department's Foreign Agriculture Service reported.

Better carrot taste goal

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — If the honeybees will just cooperate, kids may prefer munching carrots to eating a piece of cake.

A Michigan State University horticulturist, professor Larry Baker, was in Canyon County last week to sample experimental carrots grown by Seed Producers, at the Crookston Co., Caldwell.

About half the hybrid carrot seed grown in the U.S. is produced in Canyon County.

"What we're doing," Baker said, "is breeding a variety of carrot which is so markedly improved in eating quality that the kids will raid the refrigerator instead of looking for a piece of cake."

Selective breeding has brought about a carrot that is sweet, long and thick, and orange clear through. But the horticulturists are having a difficult time getting the honeybee to cooperate with their discovery.

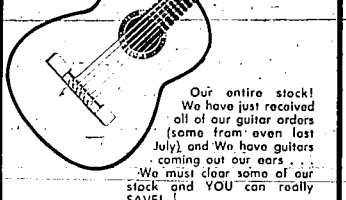

An acre of hybrid carrots only produces an average of 125 to 150 pounds of seed, whereas the less appetizing conventional carrot turns out between 800 and 1,000 pounds per acre.

The reason the established carrot produces so well is that it is an "open pollinator", meaning both male and female plants are on the same plant. So a bee, in gathering either pollen or nectar, is much more likely to fertilize the plant by moving pollen from the male anthers to the female stigma.

"A honey bee can visit a carrot plant without even landing on it," Baker said. "What we need is a good, dumb insect that will pollinate the hell out of carrots, like the real cutter bee does for alfalfa seed."

Solving the problem is part of what Baker calls the second cycle of carrot research that is now going on. Presently, only about 20,000 pounds of the 150,000 pounds of carrot seed produced in the U.S. annually is hybrid.

Outlook favorable for broilers

Courtesy Sinclair & Co. WASHINGTON (UPI) — In its "Broiler Marketing Facts" for 1975 second quarter, the Agriculture Department's Economic Research Service today reported the outlook for output of goods and services, employment and income "is not bright" but overall demand for broilers in 1975's second quarter will likely be "a little stronger" than in the same 1974 period.

Demand for broilers usually strengthens seasonally in the second quarter, especially in June, USDA noted. In addition to the seasonal increase, demand for broilers in the second quarter of 1975 will be boosted by less competition from pork and turkeys and a one per cent population increase. This will more than offset the adverse effect of the expected increase in beef supplies, the agency report said. Inflation may be slowed, but real consumer income is expected to be below a year earlier. Broiler demand will be a little stronger than in the same period of 1974, USDA said.

The cost of producing broilers continues high because of extremely strong prices of feed ingredients, USDA summarized forecasts that corn prices at Chicago in the second quarter of 1975 may reach or exceed $2.30 a bushel and soybean meal prices are expected to average around $150 a ton.

If the differences in these projected prices for corn and soybean meal are realized, it would add more than six cents to the per pound cost of producing ready-to-cook broilers, USDA said.

The costs of other items used in the production of broilers will be higher than in 1974, USDA predicted. Processing and marketing costs will also be higher than in the year earlier period, as the prices of most items continue to rise, the report stated.

In response to higher costs in relation to product prices, placements of chicks for broiler marketing in the fourth quarter of 1974 and first quarter of 1975 have been cut sharply, USDA said. Based on pullet chicks placed for the hatchery supply flock seven to 14 months earlier, the hatchery supply flock in the second quarter of 1975 will be 12 per cent smaller than in the same quarter of 1974.

Bee lack may cut food supplies

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — The world's supply of bees is declining—and it could affect man's food supply, according to a government bee expert.

It isn't that man is running out of the busy insects, but there may not be enough of them around to pollinate properly.

"Man is at a point right now that anything that gets in his way ought to be sprayed and killed. It's an attitude that has to change," said Dr. John Harbo, research leader of the Agriculture Department's bee breeding and stock center laboratory in Baton Rouge.

He said the worldwide shortage of bees has not reached a critical stage, despite assaults on the insect from pesticides and insecticides and intrusions of civilization into their habitats.

"This isn't something sudden. It's been happening for years," Harbo said. "We're not going to run out of bees. I don't think there's anything to worry about."

What does worry some scientists is the effect a continued decline in bees could worsen the world food situation. The cross-pollination of flowers and plants that bees accidentally carry on as they gather food is essential for successful growth of many fruits and other crops.

For example, the seed of alfalfa, a main source of food for cattle, has to be pollinated in order to grow.

"The reasons for the shortage, I think you could start with the fact that bees depend on wild plants for growth. They get their food from natural flowers," Harbo said.

"As our population keeps growing we lose some of the waste grounds where these wild flowers grow."

He said some of the flowers from which bees draw food are a nuisance to farmers and are mowed or sprayed. And pesticides used to kill harmful insects often kill bees as well.

Harbo said he has no statistics on the rate of decline of the bee population, but had noticed sharp increases in the price bee growers pay for queen bees and worker bees.

The price of a queen bee is up to $5.50, about double what it was a few years ago. And the wholesale price of a pound of honey has jumped from 12 cents three years ago to 47 cents this fall.

Harbo said some of the research conducted at his laboratory involved breeding techniques and the behavior and habits of certain types of bees. Much of the research is aimed at improving methods of raising honey bees.

"These are certain environmental factors which make a bee more likely to sting. Some bees are meaner than others. Just like people. We're trying to learn the aggressive nature of stinging bees," Harbo said. "If you had an ideal bee, you'd have one that produces a lot of honey and that doesn't sting much."

Many farmers who grow crops that need pollination hire a beekeeper who brings in hives to do the job. But the number of man-made bee colonies used to pollinate crops has dropped by 11 per cent, according to one report. The report estimated a net decrease of almost 200 billion bees in the world.

Farm

Israel due grain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has agreed to finance the shipment of 50,000 tons of wheat to Israel under the long-term credit provisions of the government's Food for Peace program, the Agriculture Department announced Monday.

The shipments, valued at about $9 million, will begin some time after Jan. 1, officials said.

Earlier the administration had approved similar and larger food aid deals for several of Israel's Arab neighbors. Egypt will get 300,000 tons of wheat and Syria will receive 100,000 tons of wheat and rice under recently announced Food for Peace deals.

Washington (CNS) — California sugar beet growers probably will expand their acreage from this year's level of 215,000 acres to between 310,000 to 315,000 acres, Malcolm Young, of California Beet Growers, Ltd., told a House agriculture subcommittee.

Both Young and Richard Elake of the National Sugar Beet Growers Federation told a subcommittee investigating high sugar prices that they too are worried about the high prices because of what effect the prices might have on consumers' future buying habits.

Oregon man named to USDA sales job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James Hutchinson, an Oregon native who spent the last 15 years promoting sales of American wheat in the Far East, has been named general sales manager of the Agriculture Department, it was learned today.

Hutchinson was appointed to the post after Secretary Earl L. Butz, under pressure from a powerful house leader, designated the job as an independent position.

Nearly a year ago, Butz had merged Export Marketing Service into another agriculture agency, the Foreign Agricultural Service and the post of general sales manager was downgraded.

The shift displeased Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss; chairman of a House appropriations subcommittee which handled agriculture. Whitten, asserting an in-managee was needed to prevent re-emphasis of foreign marketing, was publicly critical of the change.

Monday, agriculture officials disclosed Butz had given the sales manager post independent status as a one-man policy development agency.

Supermarket competition eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The president of Safeway Stores Tuesday cited identical prices as proof that competition exists in the supermarket industry.

"All those stories about price gouging, profiteering, ripoffs, price fixing and monopoly are just not so," William S. Mitchell told the Joint Economic Committee's investigation of food prices.

Mitchell said identical prices result from keen competition. When one chain store drops a price, others follow, he said, so identical prices mean they are competing — not colluding.

Under questioning, he conceded, it works both ways.

— when one chain raises prices because its costs have risen, others tend to follow.

The white-haired Mitchell, puffing a pipe, also denied the industry has undiseased profit ratios comparable to the average returns of nearly 20 per cent of the big oil companies.

He said the old nursery rhyme line about "a penny for the grocer" more accurately reflects the profits of his industry.

Safeway, with about 2,000 stores and $5.5 billion in sales, is second in domestic size only to A&P.

But Mitchell said identical pricing showed competition was real.

"We check each other's prices, and nobody in this business is going to be undersold," he said.

Anyway, he said, the chains buy at the same prices from food producers and have similar costs.

Humphrey said so far this year Safeway profits were 40 per cent higher than last year.

He said stating profits in terms of sales — a penny or a penny and a fraction on the dollar — "is misleading. When profits are compared to investment they range around 20 per cent, he said.

"Your profits are as good as the oil companies and here I was going after all these years!" Humphrey said.

Financier steals food

LONDON (UPI) — Edward Ash, 40, an oil-work financier, who lives in a $384-a-month apartment, was released on probation Monday after admitting he stole $5.57 worth of cake and cheese from a store.

Ash, 40, had been a partner in an investment firm that went out of business in Britain's recent economic crisis.

He told the court he was hungry and "in severe financial distress" when he stole the food.

Police said Ash's bank account was overdrawn and he was having trouble paying rent on his luxury apartment. His unemployment checks had not begun.

Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., claimed however the frequency of identical prices in competing supermarkets suggests the chains arrange to avoid head-to-head competition.

Proxmire said he suspected they have "a soft, gently benign policy of not competing on price."

Humphrey said he was "astounded" that a check last October in Safeway and A&P stores in Kansas City showed identical prices for 2,000 of 3,955 items.

ASK BUD...

"Should a turkey be cooked breast up or breast down?" MR. R.M. - TWIN FALLS

Our experts tell us it's a good idea to roast your turkey breast side down if it's below 15 pounds; because that way the juices off the back will baste the drier white meat. Of course, if it's a bigger harder-to-turn turkey, roast it breast side up.

Make sure to cook the turkey slowly, so it stays nice and juicy. That means in a moderate 350° oven if it's below 15 pounds; 325° if it weighs in at 15 to 18 pounds; and 300° if it's one of those enormous you're-having-the-whole-family-over-to-dinner birds.

Allow about 20 minutes for each pound.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: If uncertain about what to do with many divergent interests, use proven methods to achieve all purposes and take no chances with conditions where you aren't experienced. Get advice.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle those great matters wisely and don't worry because outside duties are not ready to be taken care of as yet.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take the advice of friends who are practical and not those who are living in a sort of dream world. Keep out of trouble.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make sure to show bigwigs you are an A-1 citizen. Do not take any chances with your present security or good name.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Many new ideas pop into your mind, so sift out the poor ones. Put the best to operation very quickly.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't forget an important government matter. Being more proper with loved one is vital now. Show that you have restraint and poise.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Listen to associates' suggestions. Stop imagining that others are taking advantage of you, but if they are, don't permit it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Improve surroundings artistically. Building up the ego of a partner is wise. Become more enthusiastic and you become happier.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have some particular talent you seldom use, but it can now become a new source of revenue for you. Recreate without overexerting.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Show close ties how important they are to you and gain their added affection. Spend more time with them than in the past.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Taking any risks in driving or in converting with others could bring expense and trouble that is best avoided right now.

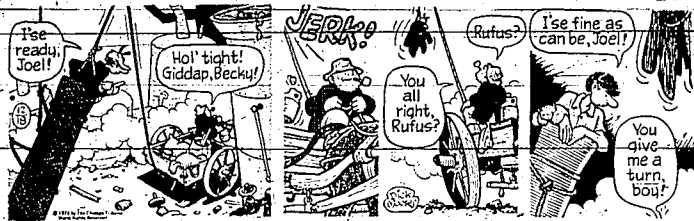

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Talk some big money or property matter over with an expert now since you aren't your usual brilliant self. Your hunches are faulty now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Give your home, health more attention in a.m. Before you venture forth in the outside world, Not a good day to ask favors.

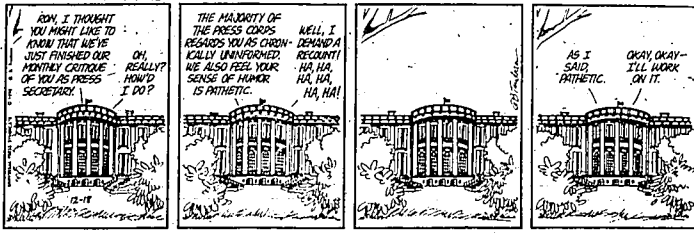

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have to be taught early to steer clear of arguments, since the desire to win over others is phenomenal here and could cause heated discussions that would keep your progeny in constant turmoil. It is best to direct the energy and intellect into constructive channels, then much can be accomplished in life. Give as fine an education as you can, since there is great ability at solving difficult problems.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Husbands are happier than single women. Single women are happier than married women. Married women are happier than bachelors. Or so say University of Chicago scholars.

THE CHILDREN WHO take one year of piano lessons only outnumber the children who take three years of piano lessons by 100 to one.

THE THYROID GLAND was named after a cartilage. Which because of its shape was named after a Greek battle shield. Which because of its shape was named after a door.

UNDERSTAND THE Bellsville agriculturalists are trying to grow little apple trees about the size of tomato plants in the hope they can be harvested by machine.

CROSS BREDS Q. "Is there such a thing as a cross between a lion and a leopard?"

A. Is indeed. In Tokyo's Hanshin Park Zoo live some leopards. As big as lions, but spotted like leopards. And elsewhere there are ligers, too. Half lions, half tigers. The foregoing facts destroy my erroneous notion earlier that the mule was the only species that could survive even though entirely killed-off.

CLIENT ASKS how that game known as lacrosse came to be so called. Some nameless Frenchman thought the stick used to play it resembled a bishop's crozier, that's how. You know the Indians called the game baggawattaw. They devised it long before whites ever showed up hereabouts. Oldest known game on this continent, that.

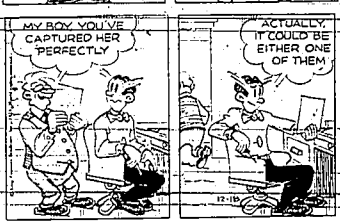

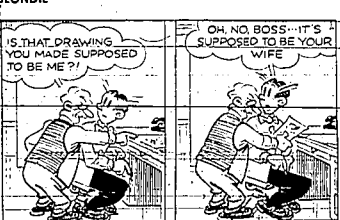

MEMORABLE MEN

The 20th century is almost three-quarters over. Question arises as to which persons in the first 75 years have mattered most to history worldwide? Whether for good or for evil. Which will be longest remembered? Candidate names include Franklin D. Roosevelt, Adolf Hitler, Albert Einstein, Nikolai Lenin, Thomas A. Edison, Mao Tse Tung, Will Rogers, Mohandas Gandhi. Pick your own top five.

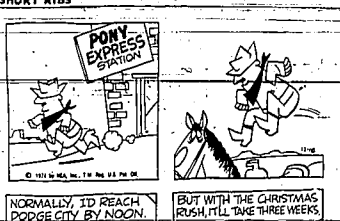

MIGHTY BRIGHT high school girl, this one. Insufficient room in her locker, she said: "No room for mirrors, combs, brushes, extra stockings, doodads. So she sewed a dozen pockets onto one long piece of denim. And sewed that to a hanger. Works in a dandy manner."
