Main road into Darwin, Australia, devastated by cyclone 'Tracy'

Cyclone victims rescued

DARWIN, Australia (UPI) — The Australian government today began a massive airborne evacuation of survivors of the cyclone that devastated this northern port city Christmas Day and killed dozens of persons. Thousands of others were homeless and without food and water.

The official death toll remained at 44, Rex Patterson, Minister for Northern Development, said today. Some estimates ran as high as 80 and Patterson said, "The final death toll will not be known until rescuers find out what is under the rubble."

Darwin is without electricity, water, fresh food and sewerage. Authorities estimated that 90 per cent of the city of 40,000 was destroyed or damaged and that at least 20,000 houses were hit when tropical cyclone Tracy struck on Wednesday with 163 mile per hour winds.

Patterson, whose ministry encompasses the vast area of the Northern Territory, announced that at least 10,000 persons would be evacuated from the cyclone-battered city in order to "thin out" the population to cope with medical and food problems.

"Everyone here is a mouth to feed, we've got to thin out," Patterson said in the first radio broadcast from Darwin since Cyclone Tracy struck. "It would be intolerable for women and children to stay in Darwin for the wet season when thousands of homes will have to be rebuilt," he said.

An Australia-wide airlift of food, clothing, medical supplies and emergency equipment started moving out of three major air bases across Australia, while three naval ships, the aircraft carrier Melbourne, heavy destroyer Hobart and the frigate Stuart, sailed from Sydney for the 2,000-mile trip. They were due here on New Year's Day. Other smaller vessels were en route to help rebuild the demolished port.

Medical authorities in Darwin began an extensive inoculation campaign of residents against disease. Volunteers were called for garbage collection and a giant cleanup of the city.

The U.S. Embassy in Canberra supplied a gigantic U.S.-Air Force Stratliner transport plane to assist in rescue and evacuation operations. Defense Minister Malcolm Fraser said Australia's three airline operators, including the national line Qantas, would all use available aircraft to help evacuate people from Darwin. Britain sent planes from Singapore to help.

Appeals raise $$ for TF man

BY GEORGE WILEY
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — Christmas Eve appeals raised more than $300 to help cerebral palsy victim Larry Ek get a brain pacemaker.

A former Twin Falls High School classmate of Ek's, 1971 class president David Saxe, organized a telephone appeal to other members of Ek's graduating class. He and another classmate, Cecil Smith, made 400 calls Tuesday.

Ek's friends hope to raise at least $2,500 for medical evaluations needed before Ek can receive the pacemaker. The operation, if undertaken, could cost $10,000 or more. Ek has an appointment for March 11 in New York City where he will be examined by the originator of the brain pacemaker procedure. The procedure reportedly has given relief to the nervous attacks of epileptics and ended or greatly reduced the spasticity suffered by cerebral palsy victims such as Ek, whose condition is the result of brain damage.

Saxe, a senior English major at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., heard about Ek's campaign when he returned to Twin Falls for Christmas.

"We made about 400 calls" Saxe said. "We got hold of about 200 people in the class and got about 100 donations."

Since the telephone campaign, Saxe said he has received calls from several businessmen wanting to help the Ek fund drive, including one speaking tour for Ek to state his case before the local service clubs.

Meantime, tickets for a 20-minute plane ride over Magic Valley are being sold through Harmon Travel Service for $5 apiece, with the funds to go to Ek.

World War II holdout found

TOKYO (UPI) — A man who claims to be a Japanese World War II holdout, has been found in Indonesia, the Japanese government reported today.

A spokesman for the Health and Welfare Ministry, quoting reports from the Japanese Embassy in Jakarta, said the man, clad in rags, was taken into custody by Indonesian Air Force personnel in Morotai, Indonesia's northernmost island in the Moluccas group.

The man told Indonesian investigators he had been hiding on the island since World War II ended in August, 1945. The man identified himself as Teruo Nakamura, 57. He is a native of Taiwan and can speak neither Japanese nor Malay fluently, the spokesman said.

'Landslide' Wyman wins by 2

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Republican Rep. Louis Wyman Tuesday reversed the outcome of a New Hampshire recount and won election to the U.S. Senate by two votes.

The long journey back from political defeat came 50 days after the general election in November. The controversial victory over Democrat John Durkin followed bitter federal and state court battles, a nine-day recount and a ballot-by-ballot review of the election by the state's Trial Law Commission.

Hanggliding record claimed

MORGAN HILL, Calif. (UPI) — A hang-gliding enthusiast was released from 17,000 feet and floated to earth 35 minutes later Wednesday in a stunt to "improve the safety image" of the aerial sport.

Dennis Kurlberg, 22, Walnut Creek, Calif., president of Phantom Wings, Inc., immediately claimed a world altitude record for hang-gliding.

He was strapped to his winglike contraption and then airlifted above Mt. Hamilton just south of San Jose, Calif., by balloonist Brent Stockwell, of Union City.

Nixon library may be scrapped

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Richard Nixon has made no objection to moves by several trustees to dissolve the foundation charged with building a presidential library for him, the Los Angeles Times said Wednesday.

At least eight of the 25 trustees of the Richard M. Nixon Foundation are in favor of giving up plans to build the structure, the Times said.

Only five more votes are needed to get the majority of 13 that would dissolve the foundation.

China oil sale reduced

(C) Chicago Daily News
China has met with a temporary setback in its bid to become a major oil supplier in Asia.

Japan, Peking's biggest customer, was scheduled to import nearly 5 million tons of oil from China in 1974. But because of sluggish demand, Japan has reduced its China imports by nearly one million tons.

Japan, which is utterly dependent on imported oil, has more oil than it knows what to do with. The oil glut is the result of "panic" buying when the Arab oil crisis broke a year ago, coupled with declining demand because of Japan's worsening business recession.

2 hostages released by inmates

LORTON, Va. (UPI) — Rebellious maximum security inmates at Lorton Reformatory today released two of their hostages and met with lawyers on their demand for a guarantee against prosecution.

A third guard was released earlier from among the original 10 persons seized when prisoners armed with butcher knives took over the dining room Christmas night.

Authorities had said that all the hostages were prison guards, but then identified one of the freed hostages as a kitchen attendant.

In a statement, leaders for about 75 inmates involved in the siege said the two men were released "to show the good side of us." Lorton officials said one man was suffering from a hernia while the other had a headache.

Roy Gerard, deputy director of the U.S. Bureau of Prison, assured the prisoners that no reprisals would be taken by prison authorities but refused to promise that the inmates involved would not be prosecuted.

Two attorneys from Washington were summoned by the inmates to discuss the agreement. As a sign of the decreasing tension, 18 inmates left the dining hall and returned to their cells.

The leaders of the rebellion were unaware that while they were negotiating one of four prisoners who fled over the prison wall had been fatally wounded in an escape attempt.

About a dozen inmates had rushed the prison wall and those unable to get out returned to the dining hall where the disturbance began.

Clothes spur search

BY BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — An intensive search resumed today in the South Hills for a missing snowmobiler after searchers found a boot and stocking cap belonging to the missing man.

Sheriff Paul Corder said searchers had found a boot and stocking cap believed to belong to Gene Randy Hayes, 24, Jerome, missing since Saturday in the Deadlift Ridge area of the South Hills.

Sheriff Corder said the searchers will be concentrating heavily today in the area the articles were found late Tuesday and will try to cover "every inch" of ground.

He said the Magic Valley Advance Service has taken radio units to the Diamondfield Jack Snowmobile Area to furnish better communications to the various search units and the Twin Falls sheriff's office.

Corder said Twin Falls district ranger Lewis Munson and a group of volunteers searched Christmas Day in the area where the two articles were found but did not find any further traces of the missing man.

Edwards and a Twin Falls deputy sheriff flew the summer home area Wednesday by helicopter, stopping to check each cabin but again nothing was found.

The search will continue for several days if necessary, Corder said.

Items found late Tuesday, he said, indicated the man walked from his machine to the north-west. The hat and boot were stranded machine. Snowmobilers from Twin Falls, Hailey, Burley and Rupert resumed the search this morning. Some volunteers on snowshoes were also checking the area.

Corder said the boot and hat were brought to his office for identification by the family. The father of the missing man reportedly has identified them. Hayes became lost Saturday afternoon while snowmobiling with Don Mort, Hansen. Mort discovered Hayes was not following him and went back to look for him. Not seeing the missing man or his machine immediately, Mort went to the ranger station for help, and the stranded machine was found about an hour later.

Beef import deal urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford is being advised to adopt a compromise 1974 meat import control plan which would limit beef imports to slightly above this year's depressed level, without formally invoking federal import quotas, an administration source indicated today.

The source said the plan, which was among several options drawn up for Ford's consideration, would be aimed at limiting 1975 beef imports to 1,150 billion pounds. That is 35 million pounds more than this year's predicted imports, but substantially less than officials believe will come in unless Ford reduces the import restraints suspended since mid-1972.

The strategy many administration officials favor would call for an official announcement, possibly as early as next Monday, that the Agriculture Department estimates 1975 imports will not exceed the 1,150 billion-pound level.

That would be 30 million pounds below the 1,180-billion-pound "trigger point" at which Ford would be required to invoke formal beef import quotas. If quotas were invoked, imports of fresh, frozen and chilled beef and mutton would have to be limited next year to about 1,074 billion pounds.

Sources said the 1,150-billion-pound estimate could be announced together with a publicized announcement that the United States expects to reach voluntary shipping restraint agreements with major producing nations like Australia and New Zealand to hold actual imports to the predicted figure.

Clean air rules postponed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency today announced a six-month postponement in implementation of new clean air rules that would have a nationwide impact on construction of major shopping centers, sports stadiums, airports and highways.

Russell E. Train, head of the EPA, said the new regulations, originally scheduled to take effect Jan. 1, would be pushed back to June 30 because of "substantial public debate and misunderstanding" that has developed over the guidelines.

The new regulations require EPA approval for the construction of "indirect sources" of air pollution — those that attract a large volume of motor vehicles.

The EPA says that if the facilities are improperly designed or located they "may cause violations of air quality standards because of motor vehicle congestion they cause."

Train said that the regulations will be discussed with congressional committees when they review the entire Clean Air Act early next year.

"I am convinced that some type of indirect source control is essential if we are to meet and maintain the health-protective air quality standards for pollutants primarily caused by motor vehicles," Train said.

Slick blights waters

TOKYO (UPI) — A leak from a petrochemical complex has turned the scenic Inland Sea into a huge oil slick and has polluted some of Japan's richest fishing waters. Maritime Safety Agency officials here said today they expect the oil slick, which is 61 miles long and 14 miles wide to last for another five days. The Inland Sea lies between the main Japanese islands of Honshu and Shikoku.

The Maritime Agency said the slick is moving through the Naruto Strait, the eastern entrance to the Inland Sea, and moving eastward toward the Pacific Ocean.

The area, which lighthanded the area's beaches, destroyed fish as well as the seaweed upon which the fish fed.

The worst oil pollution in Inland Sea history began Thursday when 150 barrels of heavy oil leaked out of Mitsubishi Oil Co.'s refinery in Kurashiki.

There was no company explanation for the spill. The refinery is located on Honshu Island between the ports of Hiroshima and Osaka.

The Japanese maritime officials said fishing grounds hardest hit were off western Honshu and northern Shikoku Island. Damages up to Wednesday amounted to some $18 million, the officials said.

A Maritime Agency spokesman said more than 20 Japanese rescue ships were mobilized to help clean the sea but made no headway, since we decided not to use neutralizing agents to create new pollution.

Wounded teen loses leg

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Doctors in a two-hour operation today amputated the right leg of a teen-aged Jacksonville, Fla., girl wounded in an Arab guerrilla grenade attack against her tourist bus Sunday. Flawless sent by her Florida boyfriend cheered her.

Prof. Meyer Makin, head of Hadassah Hospital's orthopedic department, described the condition of 16-year-old DeJean Benplage as normal and "as expected after an operation such as this."

Makin, who performed the surgery, said only that he amputated the leg above the knee. He refused to detail the exact location of the amputation though DeJean suffered injuries to her thigh and hip.

Normal steel production expected

By United Press International
Steel production, hard hit by a prolonged coal strike, was expected to return to normal soon as coal miners return from a Christmas holiday at the end of a six-week walkout.

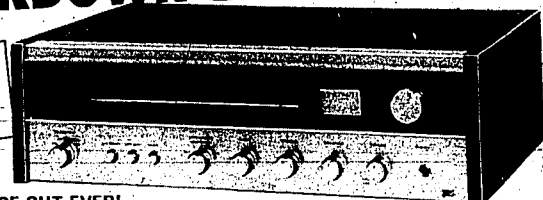

The final threat to all-out production was postponed for at least 60 days while the United Mine Workers, union and the Western Pennsylvania Coal Haulers Association work on a contract dispute.

Belhlehem Steel Corp., the nation's No. 2 steel producer, was expected to announce today whether it would follow U.S. Steel's lead and roll back price increases.

The U.S. Steel cutback involved approximately 20 per cent of the announced increase, a spokesman said. That pact was ratified by 120,000 UMW members after a month-long strike, but UMW construction workers kept almost half the nation's mills idled for two more weeks until they got a contract.

Gem personnel panel opponents outspoken in voicing opinions

(This is the 11th in a series of dispatches previewing the first regular session of the 43rd Idaho Legislature.)

BY ROBERT VANBUSKIRK BOSS (UPI)—Although a majority of legislators don't have an opinion about the performance of the Idaho Personnel Commission, those who oppose its present operation are very outspoken.

"It's either it or flush it," said Rep. Perry Swisher, D-Pocatello, in answer to a UPI poll about the next legislative session.

Swisher said it was subject to "manipulation" by the sophisticated.

He said that some of the criteria the commission used eliminated able persons and discriminated against women in the lower administrative echelons.

An interim legislative committee already has a study underway into the commission. Several lawmakers said they would withhold comment until the study was completed.

Rep. M. Wheeler, R-American Falls, said that the interim study committee was making some suggested changes, "most of which seem to be an improvement."

He noted that the commission had its problems and that some of these were the result of legislative restrictions.

Sen. Leon Swenson, R-Nampa, said the personnel system was "demoralizing" state government.

"Heads of departments have been relegated to the position of accepting, rather than deciding," Swenson said. "This, to me, does not make for efficiency."

Swenson said that advancement came from tenure and not performance.

"I recommend starting over on this problem," he said.

Sen. Arthur Murphy, D-Mullan, said he would abolish the commission.

Murphy suggested a board composed of the 19 new department heads could be appointed to administer the program and adopt and direct a policy "without sacrificing any benefits to the employees."

Rep. Steve Antonio, R-Rupert, said he was not satisfied "that I am not sure what to do. Lower grade employees get short changed under the present system."

Sen. Reed Hodge, R-Soda Springs, called for the elimination of the commission.

Rep. Angus Gendle, R-Preston, said a lot of "red tape regulations" could be reduced and that the cost of the commission could be cut.

One of the few favoring the commission's operation was Rep. Israel Merrill, D-Blackfoot.

"I would hesitate any changes that would weaken the system lest we return to the dark ages of the past," Merrill said.

Upper river water users applauded

Editor, Times-News:

I read in the Times-News of the 19th that Mr. Holden and the upper-Snake River water users are reluctant to go along with the present conditions of rebuilding the dam.

I firmly believe that they should be congratulated for their stand. No member of the lower boards has given us any idea of what the cost per acre will be for 40 years.

It could be in the $15 an acre category at minimum. The present American Falls dam cost is $2.15 per acre and many farmers are still paying.

I do believe that certain members of the lower water user boards are a bit out of line in stating "fish or cut bait."

The economy at present does not look very promising for the farmer.

Another extra cost will be the water quality standard of which the EPA will not commit themselves.

The EPA has forced a drastic slow-down in energy development to the point that if we can postpone building the dam for eight or ten years the Acasis might declare this a disaster area and rebuild the dam to show their good faith.

In the meantime the EPA will be checking the water quality standard of our toilets as it enters the sewer.

Action to prevent tragedies sought

Editor, Times-News:

In your paper of Sunday Dec. 22 I read of another death resulting from a car-train collision at one of the rail crossings in Shoshone.

I am from Richfield and I cross one of these intersections twice every day. Sometimes I forget to look and consider myself lucky that this time there was no train. Sometimes I do look and yet my mind doesn't register that that last approaching light that looks so much like a street light may be hazardous to my health.

It is said that every time an accident or death happens as a result of these hazardous intersections they "talk" about solutions. But why is nothing done?

True, many safety devices have been tried or considered and have been discarded because they are not totally effective. But do we reject these possible solutions until something better is found, if it is found, or do we continue to lose lives?

I am pointing my finger at anyone who can read of such a tragedy and say, "Too bad," and nothing else. If you are concerned, write letters to the Shoshone Chamber of Commerce, City Council, Idaho Highway Department or the Union Pacific Railroad. One of them may have the authority to do something.

My deepest sympathy goes to the family of Tom and Ami Curry. Next Christmas, let's have deft something to prevent such a tragedy.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Deep burn damage can last lifetime

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About 15 years ago I was briefly hospitalized for severe burns from overexposure to a sunlamp.

It seems to me that since that time my skin simply has not tanned as deeply as it did before. It remains red rather than tan as it used to.

Is it possible that the tanning structure of my skin may have been permanently damaged? And was it wise for me to have discontinued regular sun bathing?

A related question: What is your opinion of the "quick-tanning" lotions which seem to provide a nice tan (stain) without exposure to the sun? Do these contain chemicals that may damage the skin? — R. L.

To begin with, a severe burn can damage layers of the skin other than the surface. Among these layers is that containing melanocytes. These are the cells that produce melanin, the coloring that creates a tan. This damage can be permanent. Skins vary considerably in thickness and texture, so the outcome varies from person to person.

I think you were wise to give up sun-worshipping, because I rather suspect that continued sun bathing might have given you not only some painful burns but no tan. Come next summer, I suggest when you are in the sun you use protective lotions containing "sun screens," or chemicals that screen out some of the burning rays of the sun. There are many such lotions, but those containing para-aminobenzoic acid are most effective.

Since these lotions are washed off by perspiration or swimming, apply them frequently (every hour or so).

As to the "quick-tan" preparations that stain the skin, I think not. Avoid the harmful effects, but in any event I assume that you would be using them only in the sunnier months, not the year round.

Your misfortune with the sun lamp may be an ill wind that blows somebody good. Maybe it will remind sun-lampers that the rays are essentially the same as the sun's rays. In burning capacity, and too much exposure can be as damaging as too much sun.

Sun-worshippers are not always aware that they should be that too much tanning can cause an increase in the elastic tissue of skinlayers and give a wrinkled look of premature aging. And, of course, over the years too much exposure can predispose to skin cancer.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you give me any advice for a man who cannot sit in a room where he can see the light as his eyes become painful? He has had his glasses changed several times but this has not helped. — Mrs. C.A.

This is called photophobia. Some people are unusually sensitive to bright light. Or a disease of the inner or outer eye can be responsible. I trust he has had examination of the inner eye. If not, he should. Other than that, tinted lenses or dark glasses will help if he has to face a glare.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has a painful heel, and the doctor said he had gout. Just how does gout act and how can you tell if you have it? — H.S.

Likeliest place for gout to attack is the big toe, as you probably know, but it can attack other joints as well. In the toe, the joint becomes red, hot and painful; if there is doubt whether it is gout (since other conditions can cause similar misery), the blood will be found to have too much uric acid.

Gout can attack the bursa of the heel or other parts of the body. It can also attack nerve trunks — for instance the sciatic nerve and cause "sciatica."

Troops take control

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist infantry backed by tanks and artillery captured a county capital north of Saigon today, leaving the government in control of only one town in the province, Phuoc Long Province.

Military sources said the Communists overran Dong Xoai in a two-pronged assault this morning, smashing through the barbed wire defense perimeter and seizing the town's militia compound.

Dong Xoai, a town of 5,000 some 50 miles north of Saigon, was the second county capital to be taken, in fall to the Communists in two days.

The takeover left only one government stronghold remaining in Phuoc Long Province, the unincorporated provincial capital of Phuoc Binh.

In a move that helped the capture of Dong Xoai, military sources said Communist forces fired a barrage of 57 rockets this morning at the town. It is 14 miles northeast of Saigon.

The rockets knocked off five government warplanes scheduled to bomb around Dong Xoai in an effort to stem the Communist assault, the sources said.

Reports reaching Saigon said the Communists began the final assault on Dong Xoai with a 1,000-round artillery and rocket salvo. Tanks near the town joined in the bombardment.

Columns of infantry then hit the town from the south and west, cutting through the defense perimeter and surrounding the militia outposts guarding county headquarters.

In fierce Christmas day fighting in the province, Communist forces overran Binh Linh, a county capital of 5,000 about 70 miles northeast of Saigon.

The Communists have been in control of the province since Oct. 28, 1973, cease-fire declaration. Five have been captured in the past three weeks.

The battlefield in Cambodia remained generally quiet on Christmas Day.

White House intruder

Threat marks 2nd problem

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 10th threat at the White House Wednesday was the second instance of trouble within a year at the mansion grounds while the First Family was away.

On Feb. 17 Army Pvt. Robert K. Preston commandeered a helicopter at Ft. George Meade about 30 miles from Washington, buzzed the Capitol and the Washington Monument, landed once on the White House lawn, flew off, then was forced to land in a hall of gunfire where he returned.

The Nixon family was not at home at the time of the incident.

Preston, who had washed out of flight school, received minor wounds and was arrested immediately.

Taken to Walter Reed Army Hospital for psychiatric examination, he was then confined to a military stockade for five months until he was court-martialed last summer.

The 20-year-old from Panama City, Fla., pleaded guilty to charges in connection with the incident and was given a year in the stockade and a $2,400 fine.

His sentence was shortened to account for the time he had

Yule fire claims 5

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — Fire officials say a cigarette left on a sofa touched off a fire that spread to a Christmas tree, and destroyed a three-bedroom home Wednesday, killing five children.

The children, ranging in age from eight months to three years, died in the Christmas morning blaze that destroyed the house in less than 30 minutes.

Fire Capt. Ron Delgado said firemen and neighbors dived through windows trying to rescue those trapped.

"Neighbors were screaming that there were children in side," Delgado said.

Three other children and two grandparents who were babysitting escaped by leaping through windows.

Killed were Randy Tuttle, 3, Shawn, 2, and Kenny, 8 months, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Tuttle, of Portland, Ore.

The visiting parents were celebrating Christmas Eve with friends and didn't know of the tragedy until they returned at about 2 a.m.

Also killed were Yvette Gehrke, 6, and Shannon Piascki, 3, daughters of Janice Cochran of North Hollywood.

In the year 1843, John Sager, a boy of 13, with his brothers and sisters including an infant set off on one of the most incredible journeys in American history. This is a true account of their hazardous 2000 mile trek along the legendary Oregon Trail in pursuit of a dream.

4-hour WH threat ends; man surrenders quietly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A man who crashed his car through the White House gates Wednesday and threatened to blow himself up within 20 feet of the North Portico had been known to the Secret Service previously, authorities said.

Marshall Hill Fields, whose late father was a U.S. diplomat, was being held at a mental hospital for observation today after keeping police and Secret Service men at bay for four hours with what looked like explosives tied to his body.

"The Secret Service would have taken a lot strangerer action if the First Family was at home," said agent George Cosper. "It's Christmas Day. We felt some compassion to save the man."

Agents with high-powered weapons hid in nearby bushes and behind pillars of the portico during the incident, but no shots were fired.

Fields, 25, surrendered quietly and the bombs turned out to be highway fuses. Wires hanging from his black gloves were harmless, as were three packages he set down on the ground near him.

Fields, dressed in Arab garb, speaking Arabic and English and claiming he was "wired to dynamite," finally gave up after a black radio station broadcast his demand to meet with the Pakistani ambassador. The demand was not met.

For the preceding two hours, he negotiated face-to-face from 15 feet with Secret Service official George Drescher, who said much of Fields' conversation was about Islam.

Secret Service spokesman William Hawthorne said in the agency before Wednesday, but he would not elaborate.

The Washington Post quoted a Secret Service spokesman as saying "the ways of protective interest to us. He came to our attention because we thought he could be a possible problem towards the people we protect."

Fields' father, Marshall L. Fields, was an official of the Agency for International Development and had served in several Arabic-speaking countries.

The elder Fields died of cancer in May.

The Fields' live in a middle income neighborhood in Silver Spring, Md., a suburban area where Fields recently worked as a taxi driver. He identified himself as Abdul Rahim.

The Post said at least three news media had received material from Fields, indicating he planned to renounce his citizenship on Dec. 25 and seek political asylum in a third world country.

The Secret Service committed Fields to the maximum security ward of St. Elizabeth's hospital for observation. Criminal charges filed against him.

President Ford, vacationing with his family in Vail, Colo., was informed of the incident. He said he would not "pass judgment" now on the adequacy of White House security.

Trial end nears

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The women and three men who were the Watergate jury and its alternates have been sequestered in a hotel room since Oct. 11. Today, after seeing their families for Christmas, they go back to court, ready to start deliberations.

Final arguments resume today, the trial's 60th day, and a jury may get the case by Friday.

The jurors spent up to eight hours with their families Wednesday, eating Christmas dinner and exchanging gifts in the hotel.

At today's session, William S. Frates was to complete his final arguments on behalf of defendant John D. Ehrlichman. He will be followed by Thomas S. Green, lawyer for Robert Mardian, and Jacob A. Stein, representing Kenneth Parkinson.

CIA chief quits under pressure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The CIA's counterintelligence chief says he is resigning because "higher authorities" wanted him to leave after allegations were made that the agency spied on antiwar groups.

Central Intelligence Agency spokesman James Angleton said he would like to get something "straightened out" from previous talks.

"My resignation was reluctant," he said. "I was not pushed."

"The point I'm making is that the (Times) story was highly exaggerated and as far as I'm concerned I had no knowledge of any activities of such by the agency but I can't speak for the agency."

He said he did not recall saying Tuesday that he did not have knowledge of alleged illegal CIA domestic activities.

Why, then, did he resign if he insisted he wasn't "pushed?"

"Let's put it this way," Angleton said. "I was asked by higher authorities."

Angleton suggested contacting former FBI agent Sam Papich in New Mexico about domestic espionage activities.

Papich, now executive director of New Mexico's organized crime prevention commission, said in Albuquerque there were moves afoot to destroy the FBI and CIA.

Helms was reported vacationing somewhere in Europe.

Angleton told UPI Tuesday he was resigning because of CIA "police state" activities but refracted some of his remarks Wednesday, telephoning UPI to say he would like to get something "straightened out" from previous talks.

"My resignation was reluctant," he said. "I was not pushed."

Happy hijacker

HANDCUFFED Jozef Homolov, 30, a Czech-oslavonian-born Canadian citizen, makes "V" sign after his capture in Rome Wednesday. Wielding a pocket knife, Homolov tried to force the crew of an Air India jetliner to crash the plane into the city. (UPI)

Soviets loft station

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union launched an unmanned space station today to conduct research on orbital flights, the official Tass news agency said.

Tass reported all equipment aboard the Salyut 4 space station operating normally. It said the capsule was orbiting the earth every 89.1 minutes at a maximum height of 162 miles and a minimum of 131.

The news agency said the aim of the flight was "to further test the design, onboard systems and equipment of orbital stations and to conduct scientific and technical studies and experiments in conditions of space flight."

Tass said monitoring stations in the Soviet Union and on board the spaceship, known as "Academian Sergei Korolev," are tracking the flight and controlling the station.

The launch came six months and one day after the launch of the still-orbiting Salyut 3.

In a report on Salyut 4 Wednesday, Tass, said the duration of its flight was doubtful, that which was originally envisaged.

MAKE WHAT YOU WANT TO DO WITH THE MONEY YOU SAVE FROM THE CLASSIC 8 A.M.

Hijacker's suicide crash foiled

ROME (UPI) — "Are you sure we are over Rome?" the nervous, unshaven hijacker asked. He then ordered the pilot to crash the jumbo jet into the Italian capital.

But the crew of the Air India plane, carrying 155 persons, overpowered the air pirate and landed the Boeing 747 safely at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci Airport.

Airport police arrested the hijacker, identified as Jozef Homolov, 30, a Czech-born Canadian. Officials said he was mostly incoherent but made clear his motives were not political.

The drama began over the Mediterranean Wednesday morning, during an Air India flight from Bombay to New York with stops in Beirut, Rome, Paris and London.

The long-haired hijacker, wearing a stained green sweater, burst into the cockpit of the jetliner as the plane flew over Athens.

The pilot, Capt. A.M. Kapur, said the hijacker threatened him with a small pocket knife and said there was a bomb aboard the jet.

"Do whatever I say or else I will destroy everything," the hijacker was quoted as saying.

"Carry me to Rome. Don't change altitude," Kapur, a husky, mustachioed man of 50, said he pressed a hijack signal alerting control towers in the area but did not tell the passengers.

Homolov, nervously refusing to sit or to eat, rejected attempts by the pilot and a Czech-speaking stewardess to question him during the flying time to Rome — more than one hour.

"Are you sure we are over Rome?" he said as the aircraft circled over the Italian capital. "Show me St. Peter's."

He ordered the pilot to put on full speed and crash into the city, but the cockpit signaled two stewards and the crew managed to jump the hijacker.

Helms visiting Europe

TEHRAN (UPI) — Richard Helms, U.S. Ambassador to Iran and former head of the Central Intelligence Agency, has left Tehran for an undisclosed European destination.

U.S. Embassy sources disclosed the trip Wednesday but refused to confirm State Department reports that Helms would travel to Washington. The sources also declined to say when he would return to his post in Iran.

The State Department said he would be in Washington just after the new year when five congressional start investigating charges of illegal spying against American citizens during his tenure as CIA chief.

Helms headed the CIA from 1966 to 1973. The New York Times said last Sunday the agency used electronic espionage to compile dossiers on 10,000 U.S. citizens during the period.

The State Department said Tuesday Helms sent Secretary of State Henry Kissinger a telegram that "categorically denied" any illegal activities by the CIA under his stewardship.

Aussies jail British MP

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — A magistrate's court today sentenced British legislator John Stonehouse to a week in jail for entering Australia illegally.

Australian Immigration Minister Clyde Carrern announced plans to use the period to consider a petition by Stonehouse to remain in Australia.

The former British cabinet minister, arrested in Melbourne after disappearing last month from a Miami hotel, appealed to Magistrate Norman McCarble for permission to begin a new life in Australia.

"I have received more understanding from Australians in the last two days than I have received in the last two years in England," he said.

Defense to get first US coal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Energy Administration has taken steps to make sure America's defense effort has enough coal for its energy needs.

In a new regulation published in the Federal Register and effective now, the FEA can order coal suppliers to fill Department of Defense needs ahead of any other obligations.

The Defense Department can set the new process in motion with a written notice that "a serious disruption will occur in the supply of coal necessary to meet a particular and essential military need," under the rule's wording.

The regulation will allow the FEA to direct a supplier to furnish a specific quality and type of coal, as well as the specific amount. The supplier can appeal the order.

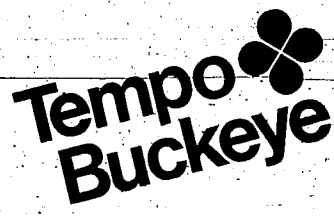

The rule gives a supplier freedom from claims of damage or penalties for anything resulting from his failure to supply other contracted customers which is under an FEA order to supply defense needs.

Violations of the regulation could be punishable by a fine of up to $10,000 and imprisonment up to one year.

The FEA said much of the public comment over the rule, when it was first proposed Oct. 8, had to do with the possible danger to hospitals or schools, if their coal was taken away for military use.

Accordingly, FEA changed the wording to specify it would carry out the rule only if it were consistent with FEA's other duties to ensure fair distribution of energy. Also, the appeal process was added, and it was required that public notice be given of all defense requests for priority deliveries of coal.

Cotton swabs said dangerous

CHICAGO (UPI) — Cotton-tipped swabs have been blamed as a major cause of injury, and hearing loss when they are used to remove ear wax.

Northwestern University pediatrician Dr. Harvey Kravitz writes in the current issue of Clinical Pediatrics that mothers who use swabs to clean wax from the ear may ram the wax deeper into the hearing canal and plug the ear.

"All that parents need to do to clean the child's ears is to wash the ear with soap, water and a wash cloth and dry the external ear with a towel," Kravitz said. "Some cerumen (wax) is normally present in everyone's ears and should be left alone. The removal of the impacted cerumen should be left to the physician."

The pediatrician said the use of swabs usually begins with newborn infants, and sometimes continues for many years, often causing children to suffer early hearing loss that makes it difficult for them to learn vocabulary.

A survey showed inner city mothers were more frequent users of the swabs than suburban mothers, and nearly twice as many inner-city children had hearing loss due to impacted wax, Kravitz said.

In most cases hearing was restored to normal after the wax was removed by a physician, Kravitz said.

Ruling could halt lead gas phase out

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A ruling by a federal appeals court could halt the start of a planned five-year phase out of leaded gasoline set to begin in January.

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, acting on a petition filed by the Ethyl Corporation, issued the order Friday.

The court said it would explain why it took the action in written opinions later.

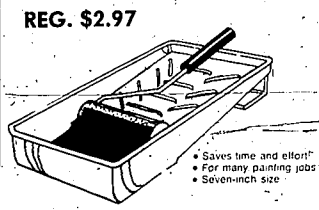

If the court does not change its mind, the order would set aside an Environmental Protection Agency plan to eliminate gradually the production and use of highly leaded gasoline by January, 1979.

Each gallon of gasoline currently contains an about 2 grams of lead. The EPA program would force refiners to reduce the amount of lead to 1.7 grams a gallon Jan. 1, 1975.

Lead content would be further cut to 1.4 grams in 1976, 1.0 grams in 1977, 0.8 by 1978 and 0.5 grams — or what the EPA considers zero level, by 1979.

Atomic plant critic's death 'suspicious'

BY DAVID BURNHAM
(C) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — An investigator hired by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union has disputed the theory of the Oklahoma Highway Patrol about the death of Karen Silkwood, 28, who had raised safety questions about a plutonium processing plant.

In a 37-page report received by the union today, A. O. Pipkin Jr., an investigator from Dallas, said a new microscopic investigation had shown that a dent in the left rear bumper of the car in which Miss Silkwood died was not caused by impact with a cement culvert or by the handling of the car by the wrecker.

Several days after Miss Silkwood's death on Nov. 13, a spokesman for the Oklahoma State Highway Patrol said that her death had been caused by an accident and that the dent found by Pipkin in his preliminary investigation had been made by the wrecker or the culvert.

In his final report to the union, Pipkin said the combination of the dent and the configuration of the tracks found on the Oklahoma highway indicated that the crash had occurred after Miss Silkwood's car had been struck from the rear by another car.

It was a preliminary oral report about Pipkin's finding of the bumper dent that prompted the union's Washington representative, Anthony Mazzacchi, to ask the attorney-general, William B. Saxbe, on Nov. 18, to order an investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation of Miss Silkwood's death.

A spokesman for the F. B. I. says that its investigation was not complete. The Atomic Energy Commission has also initiated investigations of Miss Silkwood's allegations about the nuclear fuel plant of the Kerr-McGee Corporation, a few miles south of Crescent, Okla.

At a meeting with the A. E. C. in Washington on Sept. 27, Miss Silkwood, a laboratory technician, and two colleagues charged that work practices at the Kerr-McGee plant had endangered the lives and health of the 300 employees in the plant. The day she died, she was on her way to meet a reporter of the New York Times and an official of the union to present new charges that the plant was making faulty plutonium fuel rods and falsifying inspection records.

In preparing his final report, a copy of which was sent to the F. B. I. and the Oklahoma Highway patrol, Pipkin was assisted by Dr. B. J.

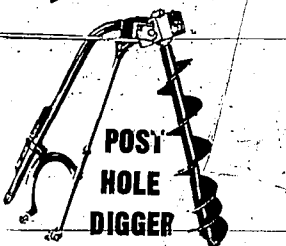

Thursday, December 26, 1974 - Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho, 11
Harris, a consulting engineer, who is a former professor at the University of Oklahoma, and a specialist in accident analysis.

On the basis of the investigation by the two men, Pipkin concluded that "the dents on the left fender were not made due to impact with either the north or south wingwall or the culvert or the subsequent wrecker handling of the vehicle one after impact and during its removal to the garage."

He said his opinion was that "there is enough circumstantial evidence present to indicate that the vehicle was struck from the rear by an unknown vehicle, causing it to go out of control, due either to initial impact or the combined impact and driver over-reaction."

Surviving sextuplet's medical costs soar

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — When Jolene Lange, the only survivor of sextuplets, reaches the age of five months and can go home from the hospital, her parents will face medical costs of $50,000 or more.

Doctors at Santa Clara Valley Medical Center said Monday the little girl has about 2 1/2 more months before she can go home as the only surviving child of the 10 they have had in little more than a year.

Jolene weighed just over two pounds 15 days after her one-in-a-million premature birth. Doctors said she should remain in the hospital's special care clinic until March 11, when she was to have been born.

But if she reaches the healthy level of five pounds before then, said Dr. James Harrod, director of the center's neonatal clinic, she might be released earlier to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Lange.

Harrod estimated the financial impact of the sextuplets' complicated birth and the subsequent struggle by medical teams to save the six infants, although not total, had been complicated.

Mrs. Lange took a fertility drug and had quadruplets, all of whom died a year before the sextuplets were born. Then Jolene's four brothers and a sister died within days after their births on Dec. 8. The delivery cost was $70, but hospital officials wiped that off the books as their expression of good will. But from that point, medical costs for Lange, who earns $12,500 a year as an armored car driver, began to skyrocket.

The babies' under-developed lungs required respiratory support and they were transferred to the Valley Medical Center, where costs for the special treatment was an estimated $500 each day per child.

Costs for hospital/ation have passed $20,000, authorities said.

Jolene's remaining 75 days in the hospital could cost from $20,000 to $40,000, depending upon complications, Harrod said.

The Santa Clara County Crippled Children Services may pick up the cost of the babies' care while they were being treated for respiratory problems, if the Langes can qualify. The fine print from health insurance policies purchased through Lange's job remains to be analyzed.

But an optimistic estimate leaves the Langes under some $1,500 debt after all the agency contributions and insurance funds are paid, the doctor said.

A SPACECRAFT similar to this engineering prototype will begin at 460-million mile journey to Mars in 1975, arriving almost 11 months later on the surface of the red planet. This three-legged spacecraft will carry life detection experiments to determine if the Martian environment can, or in fact does, support life. (UPI)

Groups create dig sites

ENID, Okla. (UPI) — Robert Rhoades and his archaeology students are putting artifacts into the ground rather than taking them out — and learning more from the experience.

Rhoades, an assistant professor of sociology at Phillips University, uses what he calls a "creative approach" to get around the problem of providing amateurs with training while preserving archaeological sites.

Twelve students in Rhoades' Origins and Development of Man class were divided into two groups and told to create a dig site reflecting imagined activities indicative of their studied culture.

Each group developed four levels in their sites, dating from the Paleo-Indian Age to modern Enid. Artifacts were placed at each level.

"In creating the sites, the students had to decide what artifacts naturally occurred together ... and how they were associated," Rhoades said. "This way they learned how archaeological living floors and sites were created, and how objects must be seen in context."

Some actual time-worn items such as flint chips, arrowheads, and awlheads were deposited at appropriate levels, clues to the imagined activities and cultures. Students also planted misleading evidence that occurs in real sites.

Then each group excavated the other's site.

"Good American citizens are ripping off our own archaeological heritage without realizing the damage they're doing," Rhoades said.

"Sites are disappearing rapidly through treasure hunting activities, and within five to ten years America's archaeological heritage could be lost."

Idahoans favor east-west route

BOISE (UPI) — Idahoans favoring a recent hearing have favored an east-west route for a proposed Amtrak train route, a preference which may result in Utah being bypassed when Idaho gets passenger train service.

Dwight Jensen, chairman of the Idaho Amtrak Advisory Committee, said he was surprised to find that people in the southern part of the state voted such strong support for destinations other than Utah.

"The governor has received a letter from the Department of Transportation that said the City of Portland train is being evaluated for reactivation by Amtrak," Jensen said Monday. "That was a Chicago train and it didn't go through Utah."

In addition, he said, "we expected in the hearings to find a lot of people who wanted to go to Utah. But at Idaho Falls, people testified they wanted to go to Boise. At Soda Springs, they wanted Boise and Denver and at Pocatello they wanted

Legislation eyed

BOISE (UPI) — Recent complaints from landlords about tenants who abuse rental property have the Idaho Consumer Affairs and Western Idaho Legal Aid working on proposed legislation to protect tenants and landlords.

"The consumer affairs office in the past couple of months has received a dozen complaints about serious damage to rental property," said ICA representative Helen Kreizenbeck.

She told of one case where a landlord rented a four-year-old house to a man and three children rent free for a year.

Landlord Robert K. Scott, Cascade, said the tenant was supposed to be buying the house from him but had not made a payment in the previous year.

"When the guy finally did leave, he left the place in such a shambles you can't believe it," Mrs. Kreizenbeck said.

"Windows were broken, holes were knocked through walls, water from the upper bathroom had seeped through to a lower floor rotting the carpet and garage" was stream about.

She said the owner was told it would cost $450 just to clean up the house, before repair work could start.

Mrs. Kreizenbeck said the legislative proposals they are working on would protect both the landlord and tenants.

Device developed to assist with diabetic comas

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Researchers have developed an automatic device that can help doctors pull a patient out of a diabetic coma in a fraction of the time it now takes.

The machine, called an artificial endocrine pancreas, will be produced commercially by Miles Laboratories' Life Sciences Department, Elkhart, Ind.

First sales will be to research institutions to develop experience for eventual sales to hospitals.

In all of us, the pancreas gland secretes insulin to regulate blood sugar level. In diabetes it malfunctions and they can go into a dangerous coma if the amount of sugar in the blood is excessive, a condition called hyperglycemia.

By conventional methods it may take 10 hours or more of carefully injecting insulin to lower the blood sugar level and bring a patient out of a coma, according to Anton H. Clemens, head of the department in a telephone interview.

"With this automatic device it takes one and a half to two hours," Clemens said.

He emphasized that the Miles' team didn't work alone, but leaned heavily on others' research that detailed mathematically the responses of the normal pancreas.

The device includes a small computer, blood sugar analyzer and precise dosage injection system. Slated for production next spring, it already has been used on more than a dozen patients in diabetic coma, Clemens said.

He said it also can be used when blood sugar level is hard to control because a diabetic is undergoing labor or using a kidney dialysis machine. He said the device has kept a diabetic mother's blood sugar level normal through a cesarean birth.

Clemens said the machine's instant response is vital, because, it is believed momentary blood sugar excesses often can build up eventually to secondary effects of diabetes such as blood vessel deterioration, blindness and kidney disease.

"The normal pancreas is able to sense an increase in blood sugar immediately when it takes place, even in the normal range, and an initial insulin spike is released," preventing the sugar level from getting too high, Clemens said. He said the machine duplicates this action and has proved the human pancreas does act instantly and in proportion to the need.

There have been efforts to create a tiny gadget that will do for diabetes what a pacemaker does for heart patients. But Clemens said the day "when a diabetic can carry around a tiny, implanted computer and pump to do what the Miles device does still is far off."

He said he believes such an implant would have to have a direct bloodstream connection, not just tissue contact. In his opinion, a tissue implant would be unable to provide the necessary instant response.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 26, happily married and flat as a board. My husband knows that I've always wanted a big bosom, so he agreed for me to see a plastic surgeon about silicone implants. The date for my surgery has been set, but my problem is, what do I tell people?

"I know it's none of their business, but this is a rather small town and gossip is what the people around here live on."

"My husband and I run a small cafe. He cooks and I serve, and all our customers know I've got no bust, and if I suddenly go into the hospital for two days, am off work for two weeks, and then I show up at the cafe with a pair of 36s, won't they figure it out?"

Explanation not necessary

I'm a lousy liar, and if the truth gets out, I'm afraid people will be coming to the cafe to get a look at me.

NERVOUS IN NEVADA

DEAR NERVOUS: You don't owe anyone any explanations. It's not unusual for a woman to go into a hospital for "a little surgery." And a two-week recuperating period isn't unusual either. As for the improved figure—enjoy it, and don't feel compelled to explain it.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my guilt. I had a very unhappy childhood because of my father. He used to beat my mother (and still does) and he'd beat us kids until we were a mass of welts. I hate him, and can't tell you the number of times I wished him dead. He doesn't drink, and he goes to church, but you'd never know it. He only hits people who can't fight back. It's always someone weaker than he is. He's the cruelest man I know. He went into a rage once after he beat Mom up and broke all the windows in our house.

We are all married now and can't understand why Mom still stays with him. We've all told her she can come and live with any of us.

My husband welcomes my mother in our home, but not my father because my father once started sleeping Mom around in our house and my husband has barred him from our property every ever since.

I feel so guilty having a wonderful husband and family and knowing what Mom is putting up with. Thanks for listening.

Another sex barrier broken

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The State Assembly has broken another sex barrier by the birthing of two women assistant sergeants-at-arms.

Beginning next month, Sandra Bourassa, 23, and Lala Usher, 28, will be guarding the gates and helping to maintain decorum in the Assembly as the legislature's first female sergeants.

Both women see no problem with potentially rowdy persons. "I'll just say, 'Hey, honey, follow me into the other rooms,'" said Mrs. Bourassa, who also works as a model. "But once I'm there, I'll disappoint him."

They were able to wear clothing seen in a business office but to stay away from hot pants and low-cut blouses.

Hiring of the two women was proposed by Tony Bend, the assembly's veteran chief sergeant-at-arms. "I think it's about time," he said.

Although sergeants-at-arms may appear to be the legislative version of a bouncer, they really aren't. Few persons have ever been physically ejected from Assembly chambers or hearing rooms.

DEAR DAUGHTER: If your mother knows that she is welcome to live with any of her children, but continues to stay with your father and takes the abuse you describe, she is as sick as he is. And he is sick, sick, sick. No need for you to feel guilty. Your parents need a psychiatrist with two coaches.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please clear up something for me? My husband has two children by a former marriage. They live with their mother.

What am I to them? Am I their stepmother? I told my husband that I was NOT their stepmother because their mother is still living. He became angry and asked me what I thought I was—if not their stepmother.

I told him I was just their father's wife. Am I wrong or right? WHO AM I

DEAR WHO: Your husband is right. Stepmother is the wife of one's father by a subsequent marriage.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norval Wildman, Burley, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Weddle, Weshaden, Germany.

Diana-Lynn Walker, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Pauline Heidemann, Twin Falls, cousin of the bride; Margaret Berbeck, Dallas, Tex., sister of the bridegroom; Kathy Aldritt, Twin Falls, cousin of the bride, and Janaye Aldritt, Kimberly, cousin of the bride.

Sharon Yarrrough, Twin Falls, and Gaylene Novak, Burley,

Portland, Ore., were candlelighters.

Nathan LaGrone, Portland, was best man. Groomsmen were Jonathan Walker, Nampa; Mike Berbeck, Dallas, Tex.; Jeff Nebhart, Portland, and Virgil Aldritt, Twin Falls.

Ushers were Everett Aldritt, Johathan Aldritt, David Aldritt, Robert Heidemann, all uncles of the bride, Gary Heidemann and Mark Beams, both cousins of the bride.

Following a Wedding trip to Sun Valley, the couple resides at 1410 Conant Ave., Burley. The bride attended Conquers Bible College, Portland. The bridegroom also attended Conquers Bible College and is employed at Bank of Idaho, Burley.

A Lovelier You FILLIES CURRY FAVOR

By Mary Sue Miller

A girl in her teens has passed wash-and-brush up inspections. But does she realize that she will look prettier on date nights if she takes more pains with her daily appearance? It's true, because grooming is accumulative.

If you work with your hair and brush it to line every day, it soon manages better than when you took special pains. Let it fly all week, and it will fly all weekend.

Of course, with full study and social schedules, a girl may have trouble fitting in all her grooming duties. To make time, try these double-duty tricks:

During telephone sessions, file fingernails and massage cream into cuticles. Work a skin cream into your elbows. While catching up on essential reading, get the main step in a pedicure out of the way. Simply soak feet in a basin of warm sudsy water and the juice of half a lemon.

A half hour of TV viewing allows for a full manicure. A hand lotion soak, too. While you brush your teeth, apply a deodorant and let it dry.

Set basin laundry to soak before doing your homework. That way it practically washes itself.

Once you get into the habit of dovetailing your groomers with other activities, you will find many other shortcuts. Grooming then slides into your lifestyle, and you come to look as though you had a good one.

Planning a wedding?

Your wedding may be the most important event in your life. We wish you every happiness.

In order to obtain the best possible news and picture coverage of your engagement and marriage a few newspaper rules should be kept in mind.

Time deadlines are important. Engagement stories and pictures must be run in the paper before the wedding. Space is short, and engagement stories take some time to process, so it helps to bring in or mail the information as early as possible.

Pictures of the wedding must be received by the Times-News within two weeks after the event. Beyond two weeks, wedding pictures will not be printed. Remind your photographer of the deadline.

After the two-week deadline, wedding stories will be printed, but often in shortened form as space permits. After three months, wedding stories will no longer be printed.

There is no charge for printing wedding and engagement pictures and stories.

Magic Valley Favorites

ARDITH WHEELER
Rt. 1, Hansen

Mexican Party Snack
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon onion salt
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
4 cups cereal, flaked, puffed and shredded.
1/2 cup salted peanuts
1/2 cup grated parmesan cheese
Melt butter in skillet. Stir in onion salt and chili powder. Add cereal, peanuts and cheese. Mix and heat over moderate heat; stirring constantly for five minutes. Cool and store in covered container. Makes about four cups.

The Times-News will pay $5 each week for Magic Valley Favorites. If you have a favorite recipe, just mail it to the Recipe Department, Women's Page Editor. The recipe becomes the property of the Times-News and cannot be returned.

Hard Luck Joe took his ace of clubs, ruffed a club, returned to his hand with a high trump and tried to ruff his last club, but West foiled that plan by ruffing first with the nine spade. Then West led the four of hearts. East took his king and ace, noted that West followed with the deuce to show five hearts and proceeded to lead a fourth club. Joe could not shut out West's queen of trumps and wound up one trick short.

"Deleted, deleted," swore Joe. "Clubs break 1-2 and West holds both the queen and nine of trumps."

We aren't sure just how Joe should have played the hand, but he should have made it. Had he analyzed the lead and reviewed the bidding he could have assumed the 1-2 club break.

After that analysis Joe could have played the hand very simply. He could cash his ace-king of trumps to leave West with the queen. Then three rounds of diamonds with the third being ruffed. Now a low club would be ruffed and a club or heart discarded on a good diamond. West would ruff and the defense would be held to just three tricks.

'Sexy' secretions found

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists analyzing chemical secretions from women say they have isolated certain acid compounds which possess sex-attractant properties. They also said women on the pill showed they had less of these compounds.

An article in the Dec. 27 issue of Science magazine compared vaginal secretion samples in 92 women — "cooperative wives of colleagues" — with those from rhesus monkeys.

"These acids possess sex-attractant properties in the rhesus monkey and stimulate the sexual activity of males via olfactory pathways. Preliminary studies have also demonstrated their occurrence in women," said the report by Richard P. Michael, R.W. Honsall and Patricia Warner of Emory University in Atlanta.

"The highest level of secretions occurred during ovulation, the study showed. For both users and non-users of oral contraceptives. But those taking the pill showed lower and more constant levels.

"The precise role of olfactory mechanisms in human sexual behavior needs to be clarified," the scientists cautioned.

"We have scant information on the physiological importance of these volatile constituents in the human, although it is of interest that the same substances possess sex-attractant properties in other primates."

It added that "constant vaginal douching results in the destruction of the normal bacterial flora."

The report said the practice "is based on widely held attitudes about genital odors which may, in fact, be wholly unnecessary and quite misplaced."

Youth tests new heart

WARWICK, R.I. (UPI) — One of the first things Patrick Sherlock did when he arrived home was sit down and play his drums. He wanted to see if he could still carry a beat.

The thing about Patrick is that inside him another person's heart is carrying the beat.

Patrick, 16, is home for the first time since last summer when he underwent the first of two heart transplants.

"This is indeed a very special Christmas present for the family," said his mother Ann on Christmas Eve.

"The youngster arrived home from the Stanford University Medical Center Monday night for a reunion with family which will last until Sunday when he must fly back for further medical attention.

Patrick is a victim of cardiomyopathy, a disease which causes enlargement of the heart muscle. He was suddenly stricken with it while on a camping trip with his family last summer.

At first doctors tried to use a pacemaker to keep him alive, but his heart became increasingly weak and there was no other alternative but a transplant, his mother said.

In August he received the heart of a 26-year-old man killed in a glider accident. But that organ showed signs of being rejected and another transplant was performed in October.

"His trip home is a very special treat which is an exception to all the rules, but the doctors examined him before he left California and they decided it will do him more good than harm," Mrs. Sherlock said.

Chimps switch to clay

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Four modern art painting chimpanzees may be switching their creativity to clay just when the Portland zoo reports more than $2,000 in profits this far on their canvas works.

"Things have gotten totally out of hand," said Dr. Philip Ogilvie, director of the zoo, in a report to the Portland Zoological Society.

Ogilvie said an art museum in Southern California has asked for three chimp paintings to include in an upcoming exhibit. He said the zoo is getting inquiries from anthropologists and sociologists wanting paintings to study for psychological significance.

The zoo had given the chimps — Bathsheba, Delilah, Jezebel and Charlie — non-toxic paint and large sheets of butcher paper to paint on in their quarters as a diversion. The paper was then cut up, mounted in frames and sold at the zoo gift shop at prices of $5 to $10 each, with $16 sold so far.

But now they are switching to clay sculpture. "We want to see what the chimps will do with clay," Ogilvie said.

As for the paintings, Ogilvie said "I think we should put an end to this whole business." Dr. Hal Markowitz, zoo veterinarian, agreed, saying, "After all this has just been a stage in the chimps' training program."

TF firm remains out of price battle

Fairfield man asks ski area

FAIRFIELD — A Fairfield resident is asking the US Forest Service to set aside an area restricted to snowmobilers for cross-country skiing.

But the forest service is not now planning to designate such an area.

According to Larry Weeks, Fairfield ranger who deals with ski operations, the forest service recognizes the conflict between snowmobilers and cross-country skiers but is still "wrestling" for a solution. He said Dave Markham's request for a ski area currently is not being considered.

Markham is planning to start a cross-country ski school in Fairfield.

Burley reports corrected audit

BURLEY — A corrected audit shows Burley City officials did not exceed their 1973 budget as claimed in an initial audit.

Last month, the City Council was presented an audit for 1973 which showed the city had exceeded its prepared budget by $96,000. Although the city ended the year in the black, the audit prepared by the firm of Nelson, Sagers, Anderson and King said the city had received and spent $96,000 in unanticipated federal grants.

"Had the city spent the money without budgeting for it at the first of the year, the city would have been acting illegally. State law requires a city spend only money previously budgeted, regardless of source."

However, the amended audit takes the city off the hook. A letter prepared by the auditing firm and delivered to city officials earlier this week stated "the report as corrected shows that the City Council operated within the budget as approved and published for 1973. The city revenue exceeded the estimate by $47,073 and the expenditures were $14,231 less than appropriations."

LinMar Anderson, a member of the accounting firm, explained that the original audit was based on a draft copy of the city's budget. The amended audit was based on a published budget, he said.

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls pocket calculator manufacturer appears to be thriving in the middle of a price battle which has knocked many firms out of the field.

Hal Humphrey, president of Dev-Tronics, says his firm is staying out of the price war which has caused about 20 of the about 30 calculator companies across the country to go out of business during the last year.

Dev-Tronics produces small "scientific" calculators that, according to Humphrey, sell mainly to "students, scientists and engineers." By catering to the comparatively small, selective market, he said, he can stay out of the battle.

According to an article in the New York Times, that battle could pit 20 or 30 more firms out of the business in the coming year.

Humphrey described Dev-Tronics as "a recent entry" into the calculator market, having begun producing in December, 1972, but the industry itself began only in 1971 when the little computers were selling for $100 and up. Today, according to the Times article, the cheapest retails at $17.

In 1970 few people had heard of pocket calculators, today about one in 10 Americans owns one. Almost 5 million units were sold in 1972, the first full year of production, and this year sales should total about 25 million, the article said.

The market should reach its saturation point in 1977, experts say, when sales will even out to about 40 million units a year, since they have a life of about four years.

Because of the incredible expanding market, dozens of companies jumped into the calculator business during the last few years. Most of them, like Dev-Tronics, must buy the components for the calculators from other companies and operate only as assembly firms.

The crunch comes from vertically integrated companies — those firms that manufacture most or all of the components that go into their calculators.

These firms can cut prices to levels which are unprofitable for assembly companies, many of which must buy components from these same firms.

Humphrey, though he would not divulge the name of the firm, said Dev-Tronics purchases its components "from an outside vendor that is not and does not intend to enter the calculator market."

He also said that the vertically integrated companies, because of size and complexity, "can't react quickly to new markets and to sales in those markets."

Dev-Tronics, he said, because it deals with independent vendors, "can move faster than the bigger companies."

"The solution is to know your market — to stay in the sophisticated area. Do what you're supposed to do there and take some sort of reward from the result the bigger companies bring."

The result Humphrey referred to is a growing consumer market with pocket calculators.

Retailers are reporting customer rejection, he said. Consumers are looking over the calculators carefully now that they have owned one and are willing to pay more for a better machine.

The biggest market is for the four-function and memory calculators. These calculators can add, subtract, multiply and divide. Memory calculators usually have more digits and are able to store intermediate totals.

Prices for these models range from about $17 to about $70, according to the New York Times article.

Other models include the slide rule calculator, the scientific and the business calculator as well as an increasing number of specialized models like metric conversion calculators and flight computers.

Humphrey said that as people become used to the four-function and memory calculators, some may want more sophisticated models, bringing them to the market for scientific models such as he produces.

Dev-Tronics' prices — ranging from $79.50 to $139.50 for its three models — are about the same as most calculators of that type.

Zoner hasn't resigned

JEROME — S.N. (Shorty) Weeks said Tuesday he has not resigned as Jerome County zoning administrator.

Weeks said that he has asked the Jerome County commissioners to replace him in that office when a successor can be found. "But I will stay on until they do find a replacement," Weeks said.

He said county officials are looking for someone to replace him.

On Monday, Weeks announced in a letter that he is resigning as a Jerome City councilman, effective Jan. 1, because of his health and of his wife's health.

Jacket stolen

TWIN FALLS — Thomas Tinker, Meridian, told Twin Falls city police someone entered his automobile while it was parked in Twin Falls and took a jacket.

He estimated the loss at $20. The car door was unlocked and the jacket was in a box in the front seat.

Marsha Snow told officers someone broke into her 1959 sedan while it was parked at her home on Third Avenue West. Nothing was taken.

Custer sheriff resigns

CHALLIS, Idaho (UPI) — Listing reasons of an inadequate salary and family health problems, the Custer County Sheriff has resigned and announced plans to move to the Boise Valley.

Sheriff Duane Sorenson told the Custer County Commission that his resignation is effective Jan. 1. Sorenson said he will move his family to the Boise area to be near specialized medical facilities.

Deputy Sheriff Sid Teuscher will be in charge until a replacement is appointed.

Sorenson urged the commission to "correct the contradictions and inequities in the county salary structure so as to retain the qualified and competent personnel presently employed in the Custer County sheriff's department."

Party attracts Boiseans

BOISE (UPI) — All sorts of people turned up at the American Legion Hall for a Christmas day party given by Scott Lattimer and his friends to help people get in touch with the holiday.

Lattimer, who recently returned to Boise after attending school in California, planned and partially financed the day to make Christmas mean more than the "decorated sales" in stores.

He said from 50 to 60 persons showed up throughout the day to eat some of the free food, listen to local musicians who came by to play or just to talk.

Lattimer said the day's activities were for the "hungry, not the poor or the rich, but for people who don't feel they're in touch with Christmas. This is a feel-good place."

Pocatello woman charged

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — A woman was arrested today on charges of attacking a deputy with a deadly weapon after a fight which left at least two persons wounded.

Police arrested Emma A. Stewart, 22, Pocatello, and held her on a $2,500 bond. She is accused of shooting Mary Etta Childs, 24, her next door neighbor.

Miss Childs was taken to St. Anthony Hospital for treatment of a thigh wound. Another woman, whose name was not released, was treated for a human leg wound.

Police said the fight involved both men and women who were attending a Christmas party.

The disturbance ended with the shooting about 1:30 a.m. today.

Elmore poll results given

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (UPI) — Results of a poll conducted by the Elmore County Planning and Zoning Commission showed that Elmore residents are interested in the land, the quality of water and air pollution.

Commission Chairman John Hiler said 427 persons filled out and returned the questionnaires mailed at random to 1,427 residents of the county.

The answer of 34 said land use planning is necessary, while 58 said it is not. A total of 374 favor subdivision ordinances regulating streets, sewers and water systems. Fifty are in favor of air pollution control.

Calculator production

INSPECTION of the operation of dozens of pocket calculators is conducted by Joel Herrmann, Edén, top picture. It takes about 20 minutes to assemble a calculator at the Twin Falls plant. Checking the keyboard of a Dev-Tronics calculator before it is sent into production is Casius Carroll, Twin Falls, right. Periodic checks of the machines are made throughout the production process.

Blaine development moratorium urged

By BART QUESNELL Times-News writer

HAILEY — Two county agencies here have drafted letters to the county commissioners urging a development moratorium on a exclusive agricultural designation for development moratorium be established until completion of the Silver Creek aquifer recharge study.

County extension agent Jimt Eakin has also recommended a development moratorium be established south of Bellevue under which no development be considered until land use planning is complete.

Eakin suggests development be contained between Bellevue and the two mile pit south. In addition, he says that an intensive water and agricultural study is underway in the Silver Creek area and land to the north and he feels more information is needed before development there can be considered.

The Soil Conservation District points to the study as being able to determine how the aquifer recharge system will be affected by existing and potential land use changes within the Bellevue triangle.

It recommends the county look carefully at the effect of subdivision, septic tanks and sewer systems on surface and ground water. In addition the service recommends careful consideration of effect of domestic wells on ground water quality.

Water rights in Blaine, Lincoln and Gooding Counties must be carefully analyzed according to the recommendation as does the effect of land use changes on marsh lands, fish habitat, water fowl nesting areas and other wildlife habitat.

The SCD recommends that the boundaries on the north run on an eastward extension of the Glendell Road, between the first predominant bench west of U.S. Highway 83, and the foothills east of state highway 23.

All three districts have voted opposition to the plan.

Kent Kirk, ASCS agency manager in Twin Falls, said the plan for a service center has been carried out in some areas of the nation and is a new national trend designed to provide more convenience to the farmers. He said it gives them a "one stop" service where they can obtain information and assistance from all agricultural agencies at one time.

Kirk denied any definite decisions have been made for establishing such a center in Twin Falls County but said it has been discussed. A final decision, he said, would be made by the State Administrative Committee which is comprised of the heads of each of the agencies in Idaho. He said before any final action is taken there would probably be public hearings or meetings.

Soil Conservation District officials say they would be held before a decision would be held but no such action has been called for.

Kirk said once the state committee decides on a course of action final approval would have to come from agency heads in Washington, D.C.

Soil conservation boards oppose proposal

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Proposed Twin Falls County consolidated agricultural services center has drawn opposition from local soil conservation district boards.

The proposal, which would include a new building to house major agricultural agencies in the county, is being opposed by the three soil conservation district boards.

Members of the district boards feel the plan is decided already and will be implemented over their objections, probably by spring.

"We are opposing such a consolidation," said Dean Kidd of the Snake River Soil Conservation District. "We feel such a move would separate the Soil Conservation Service from the districts and other agencies with which we work closely. It would also be more costly for the taxpayers."

Marvin Taylor, Twin Falls Soil Conservation District, said the move would separate the Soil Conservation Service — the federal agency with which the district works — from the county extension service and the city-county planning program and county planning and zoning offices.

He said SCS and the districts are more closely associated with those groups than with the other agricultural agencies involved in the move.

As the district officials understand it, the plan calls for construction of a new building on land located between the Masonic Temple and the Turf Club on Falls Avenue. Here a private contractor would build the structure, and the Agencies moving into the new facility in addition to SCS would be the Agricultural Conservation and Stabilization Service, the Farmers Home Administration and the Federal Crop Insurance Agency. SCS would be available to the Twin Falls District ranger of the Sawtooth National Forest and even the extension service if they wished to make the move.

Presently the ASCS, FHA and FCIA as well as district forest ranger are located in the Grattan building on Blue Lakes Boulevard North, about a half mile from the proposed location.

District officials are opposing the plan on grounds it would be less convenient for them and for the SCS and because of financial reasons. Under a present agreement with the county, the districts receive free space in the old hospital basement area.

The rent equivalent can be used to obtain matching funds from the state up to $1,500 for each of the three districts. The revenue obtained in this way pays for district operations and the hiring of Donna Benoit who is district secretary and office manager.

The districts then provide space for the SCS personnel and services of the SCS are available to the districts in their own offices. If the move is made, SCS would be in a new location and the districts would be forced to maintain the present offices at the old hospital.

Without the state matching revenue, Kidd and Taylor said, the districts would be in poor shape. The new and smaller Balanced Rock district would probably be wiped out, they say.

All three districts have discussed the plan and have written Idaho congressional delegates asking for assistance in setting aside any decision in the matter.

All say they have been told public hearings would be held before a decision is made but they feel the matter is pretty much firm at this time with no official notice to the districts.

All three district boards have voted opposition to the plan.

Kent Kirk, ASCS agency manager in Twin Falls, said the plan for a service center has been carried out in some areas of the nation and is a new national trend designed to provide more convenience to the farmers. He said it gives them a "one stop" service where they can obtain information and assistance from all agricultural agencies at one time.

Kirk denied any definite decisions have been made for establishing such a center in Twin Falls County but said it has been discussed. A final decision, he said, would be made by the State Administrative Committee which is comprised of the heads of each of the agencies in Idaho. He said before any final action is taken there would probably be public hearings or meetings.

Soil Conservation District officials say they would be held before a decision would be held but no such action has been called for.

Kirk said once the state committee decides on a course of action final approval would have to come from agency heads in Washington, D.C.

He said if the services center is approved it would probably be mandatory for the four major agencies to move into the central building. He said if desired, the extension service and others could also join the central operation but in Twin Falls County this is doubtful. He said state and county extension personnel are now housed in the old hospital building and would probably not want to separate or move.

Russ Gilder, Twin Falls County supervisor for the local FHA, said he has heard no definite information about the move, but it would be something less than a services center, as discussed on a multi-county basis last year.

As Gilder sees the proposal, the main advantage would be better utilization of space by the agencies and possible hook up with the USDA computer system to assist area agencies in obtaining information on a much faster basis.

For example, he said, the ASCS had a large program going when the agencies first moved into the new Grattan building on Blue Lakes Boulevard North. FHA, he said, has grown by leaps and bounds since then and is crowded for space while ASCS is now operating on a reduced schedule but breaking the lease contracts is difficult.

"If we had our own building we could negotiate among the agencies for the space and better utilize it," Gilder said.

He said he could see no reason for objection by the SCS or the districts other than their method of cooperating with the county for existing office space.

2 Blaine men eyed for post

HAILEY — Two local men are being considered for the county planning and zoning administrator job 1975 in addition to applications from outside the county.

According to the county commissioners the newest applicant for the job is Richard Meyer, planner-architect of Environment West, Ketchum.

Nick Purdy, planning and zoning chairman, nominated current county planner David Whay for the position last week.

Meyer submitted this application to the commissioners Tuesday. He said he could hold down the administration portion of the job for $5,000 yearly. For an additional $1,000 Meyer said his firm would research the possibilities of obtaining outside funding grants for the county.

Meyer said he would be in a Hailey office a minimum of one day a week and be available at his Ketchum office full days throughout the year.

Any planning the county desired, Meyer said, would have to be negotiated and a price fixed.

Meyer said he would turn away any jobs with a conflict of interest.

"If a job came to my office requiring an ordinance change I would turn it away," Meyer said.

The $5,000 figure, he said, would involve only the administration of the office and the screening of applicants and plans before they came before the planning and zoning commission.

Current administrator Bob Barnes said Meyer could not do the job for $5,000 a year. He said the phone rings continually in the summer and there are days when the administrator must make up to a dozen major decisions. Chairman Purdy said the appointment of Meyer could well be grounds for a conflict of interest.

"I think a lot of people will come to you thinking this would give them an in," Purdy told Meyer.

Purdy told the commissioners he thought Meyer would perform "something we've needed from the beginning."

Administrator Barnes said the position requires a planner much more than an administrator and a fee should be established for both functions.

The commissioners agreed a flat fee for both services should be provided them. Meyer agreed to sit in the planning and zoning office to become acquainted with the procedure and study the comprehensive plan and map soon to be adopted by the county.

Gift pets sometimes unwelcome

DENVER (UPI) — Puppies and kittens stuffed into Christmas stockings make great photographs, but they can be trouble when they come as surprise gifts.

"It's very nice for grandma or Uncle John to suddenly decide to give the grandkids, or whoever, a pet, but the parents better be involved ahead of time," said R.T. Phillips, executive director of the American Humane Association.

"There are cases where a friend or member of the family thinks it would be nice to give a pet and the family or the parents are not ready to have one," Phillips said. "Or they may already have one and they can't take another."

He said the rate of animals arriving at public or private animal shelters immediately after Christmas is usually 10 to 20 per cent higher than normal.

The same thing happens after Easter, he said, when rabbits, chickens and ducks sometimes are given as presents.

"A pet is a fine gift, but there should be preparation for it," Phillips said. "If you give it to a youngster who is not old enough to care for it, it usually ends up the responsibility of mother, and she may not want it."

For those who intend to give pets, Phillips has some recommendations — give the animal before or after Christmas Day and stick with the more common varieties — such as dogs or cats.

"There's too much going on at Christmas Day for a small animal to fit into the scene, he said. "Particularly if it's a small kitten or puppy, the excitement is high."

"It would be better if there's a gift certificate or if the pet has been given ahead of time and doesn't get into the excitement of all the family and relatives being there."

As for exotic pets, "Most people have no idea what their needs are," he said. "There are some, real problems here, and we're more and more concerned with this because there are too many dangers."

He said some of the unusual pets are still wild animals, "and unless they're in the hands of an expert whose whole life is devoted to handling and caring for them, then they're still not going to be able to completely get away from their potential of turning to the wild."

But for those who buy the right pet and have made certain it will be cared for, "it's a good thing under the right circumstances, particularly in view of the fact we do have an animal surplus," Phillips said.

Handshake title claimed

UTICA, N.Y. (UPI) — Preston J. Stockman, 49, claims to have set a new world's record for shaking hands, besting no less an adversary than President Theodore Roosevelt.

Stockman, a sophomore at the State University at Binghamton, said he shook the hands of 8,643 persons Monday, breaking the previous record of 8,513 set by Roosevelt at a

New Year's Day White House reception in 1907.

Stockman, who unsuccessfully attempted a year ago to break the 7-day record for time spent in a shower, said he started in front of a suburban shopping center at 10 a.m. with a buddy keeping a count of the hands of shoppers he grasped. He finished shortly after 9 p.m.

Iran shah challenges US

(C) New York Times Service
TEHERAN — Iran — Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi challenged American businessmen Tuesday to become "more aggressive and dynamic" in competing for Iranian development contracts worth billions of dollars.

The shah in an interview also invited thousands of Americans to come to Iran to alleviate the critical manpower shortage in this country's development program. He suggested that American companies advertise to encourage engineers, teachers, nurses, technicians and skilled workers to apply for jobs.

The 55-year-old Iranian ruler, wearing a dark lounge suit and white parka did tie, was interviewed in the large, chandeliered, audience chamber in the modern Niavaran Palace on a snow-covered northern height overlooking Teheran.

He had flown by helicopter to the palace an hour earlier from a residence on Kish Island in the Persian Gulf where he and Empress Farah celebrated their 15th wedding anniversary.

The shah issued his invitation to Americans at a time when American, Japanese and European companies are locked in a struggle for Iranian development contracts worth many billions of dollars. Some billion-dollar contracts already have been signed but others are being negotiated through letters of intent because of delays caused by shortages of manpower, housing and other facilities.

"In our current five-year plan we shall be spending $80 million to $90 billion on the purchase of capital goods and services to complete planned projects," the shah said. Iran's five-year plan is now in its second year and is being financed by oil revenues that the government says will bring in $25 billion this year alone.

US winter wheat crop largest in over 20 years, USDA claims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. farmers have planted the largest winter wheat crop in more than 20 years, the Agriculture Department reports.

The government experts, in a report released Monday, predicted that if the weather stays good and market conditions remain favorable, the crop could top 1.6 billion bushels — 15 per cent more than 1974's record wheat crop of 1.391 billion bushels.

They say a successful crop will hold down domestic food prices during the first half of 1975 and help feed millions of starving people around the world.

However, government economists warn that big crops of winter wheat for 1975 harvest will be necessary to keep food inflation under control in the second half of 1975.

As of Dec. 1, farmers had planted 53,540,000 acres of winter wheat for 1975 harvest, 6 per cent more than the 52,407,000 acres planted for 1974.

The Department's Crop Reporting Board said yields reached the 28.8 bushels per planted acre forecast in the report — compared with 26.5 bushels in 1974 — the resulting harvest would be 209 million bushels above the 1974 crop.

The planted acreage was described as the largest since 1953 and prospects for the crop were called "generally bright."

However, the report said inadequate moisture and snow cover in some areas as well as spotty stands in sections of the Northern Plains and the Northwest are of some concern.

The new forecast for 1975 winter wheat is based on the assumption that "weather conditions will be 'average' for the rest of the growing season — an assumption which did not prove true for the 1974 crop."

Wheat prices reached a record $5.52 a bushel at the farm level last February, but dropped sharply in the early spring when a bumper 1974 crop was expected. Prices in mid-November were $4.87 a bushel.

Gains against hunger not likely during 1974

By PETER J. SHAW
ROME (UPI) — The world enters the final quarter of the 20th century with almost one billion persons not getting enough to eat, and the outlook for any major improvement in the year ahead doubtful.

An estimated 500 million persons are suffering from chronic hunger and hundreds of thousands more face actual starvation. Persistent and acute undernourishment beset more than 400 million others, half of them children.

The global food crisis touches about 40 developing countries in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East. Among the worst hit are Bangladesh, India, and the Sahelian belt countries of Africa.

Causes of the food shortages, range from bad weather and poor harvests to lack of funds for food aid purchases and problems in transporting bulk amounts of food from source to hungry mouths.

resulted in a very low global wheat reserve of about 20 million tons.

The 1974-75 crop year outlook is not bright. Experts predict a word shortfall of about 17 million tons of wheat and about one million tons of fertilizer.

In the 1974-75 short-term crisis period it is likely that only a reduction of consumption can meet needs.

The BLM brought the action against the ranch, accusing it of destroying vegetative cover on public lands by spraying 5,000 acres of sagebrush on its 20,000-acre Horse Haven Pasture, half of which was federal land.

Judge eases sagebrush spray rule

CHEYENNE (UPI) — U.S. District Court Judge Ewing B. Kerr ruled Monday the penalty for spraying sagebrush on federal land was "unduly harsh and oppressive."

In a 16-page decision, Kerr ordered that judgment be entered in favor of the Diamond Ring Ranch and against Interior Secretary Rogers Morton and Dan Baker, state director for the Bureau of Land Management (BLM).

The BLM brought the action against the ranch, accusing it of destroying vegetative cover on public lands by spraying 5,000 acres of sagebrush on its 20,000-acre Horse Haven Pasture, half of which was federal land.

Gem wheat seeding 7% under '73 level

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho farmers have seeded 990,000 acres of 1975 winter wheat, 7 per cent under the 1973 level.

The Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said this was seven per cent less than last year but still 10 per cent greater than the seedings for the 1973 crop.

Based on Dec. 1 conditions, the service said, production in the state is forecast at 45,500,000 bushels. This was two per cent more than the 1974 crops of 39,770,000 bushels but 14 per cent larger than the 1973 crop.

Below normal precipitation hindered seeding and limited development of the crop.

Food stamp cutback draws sharp blast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department is getting heavy public and official response on President Ford's plan to reduce food stamp benefits to the needy March 1.

Virtually all of it is unfavorable, a department official said today.

Royal Shipp, who runs the department's food stamp branch, said "several hundred" letters had been received in response to an invitation for public comment on the proposal.

Shipp said the comments had not been tabulated yet because the public has until Dec. 27 to respond, but he indicated only a handful of letters — all from individuals — support the administration plan.

The plan would require almost all food stamp recipients to pay 30 per cent of their income for stamp allotments, which vary with family size. Only people with cash income under $20-$30 a month, who now get the stamps completely free, would be exempted from the pending order.

Sheep sacrifice scored

TUNIS (UPI) — The newspaper proposed that Tunisians do without sheep sacrifices for five years in order to spare out meat consumption.

The holiday commemorates Abraham telling the prophet Ishmael to sacrifice his son on the Plain of Arafat, but then sending him a sheep as a replacement for the victim.

called this conference. And special encouragement can be drawn from the fact that one of the chief sponsors was the United States, not only the world's richest country but by far the main food producer.

Kissinger told the conference, "It is clear that starvation cannot continue indefinitely to double every generation. At some point we will inevitably exceed the earth's capacity to sustain human life."

The conference advocated a "balance between population and food supply" but stopped short of an actual recommendation in favor of birth control.

As if to dramatize that warning, a report a few days later cited heavy crop damage by locusts in several Sahelian areas.

In mid-December FAO reported that serious food shortages persist in Bangladesh, India, Mali, Mauritania and Niger. Food deficits are anticipated in 12 other nations of Asia, Africa and Central America.

Bangladesh, despite a promising rice crop, was more than a million tons short of requirements during the first six months of 1974. October and November rains in India alleviated some drought effects but led weather at southerly in other areas created dim prospects for the March-April 1975 grain crop.

Kenya farm blows heavy

LONDON (UPI) — Kenya's agriculture has been hit by both drought and spiralling prices of farm inputs over the past year.

The latest Standard-Bank Review reports that the 1974 maize crop is expected to be about 25 per cent below last season's crop, although there should be sufficient to meet domestic needs.

However, in general, the export sector of agriculture continued to make good progress, according to the standard-bank review. Cattle improved in both quantity and quality deliveries to the coffee board were up by 25.5 per cent on the crop deliveries during the corresponding 1973 period.

Hunger pangs sharper

FAO said 1975 food deficits were expected in Honduras, Burma, Pakistan, the People's Democratic Republic of Yemen, Lesotho, Somalia, Burundi, Ethiopia, Gambia, Ecuador, Tanzania and Zambia.

India sought 2.5 million tons of food aid, Bangladesh 2.3 million tons and Pakistan 1.2 million tons.

The World Food Conference agreed that 7.5 million tons of emergency aid was necessary to feed the world's hungry until summer 1975 crops are in.

How to help pay for it remains a problem, Boerma said it would cost $1.8 billion to buy and distribute 7.5 million tons in the Far East, Asia and Africa.

Canada and the United States each pledged a million tons of grain.

The World Food Conference set up extensive permanent machinery to deal with future shortages and famines, but its effectiveness has yet to be demonstrated.

One major decision was to set up a fund for agricultural development in nations that account for 70 per cent of the world's population but only 40 per cent of its food production.

That the conference voted without any concrete pledge being made to the fund by trademark donors - oil producing countries.

The major oil producers were among the sponsors of the proposal for the development fund, which would finance farming projects in developing countries. Oil producing nations indicated they were willing to provide a large share of the money but the exact amount of national contributions was to be worked out later.

The food conference also recommended an internationally coordinated system of nationally held grain reserves to meet emergencies anywhere in the world.

Participants agreed to make available to million tons of grains a year.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz told the conference "increasing world food production is the number one responsibility. The best food security is increased production."

He stressed the profit incentive for farmers, saying "we do not favor food reserves of a magnitude that would perpetually depress prices or destroy farmer incentives."

The question is still, who pays for food aid? The United States during the food conference declined to pledge a precise amount, saying such a declaration would contribute to inflation in America. The Soviet Union is not a member of FAO, China, although a member, is not a participant in its World Food Program which provides food assistance.

The Soviet Union, a major food producer, has also become a large buyer of food and is currently trying to make more purchases on world markets.

China's policy has been to provide development help but not to give food aid.

Oil producing nations at the food conference indicated they preferred to stress the development aspect in whatever assistance they would give.

Considerable cloudiness through Friday with a little light snow at times. Low temperatures tonight to 15. High temperatures Friday in the 20s. Probability of measurable snowfall, 30 per cent.

Monday is far more important change in the general weather pattern. There will continue to be an occasional period of brief light snow, but no major storm activity is in sight.

A slow warming trend is developing which should push our temperatures to near the seasonal normals around the first of the coming week. Those normals are high near 40 and lows near 20.

Pentagon claims recruits smarter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon says only 5 per cent of the volunteers recruited by the armed forces in November had below average intelligence, the best monthly result since such records were started 22 years ago.

Recruiting officials have long said that the poor economy and rising unemployment rate would help recruiting, but there was no statistical proof until now.

Some locales with rising unemployment have shown no improvement in recruitment, they said.

Officials said recruiting was vastly improved this year because they learned from mistakes and problems encountered in the first year without the draft. The services also have more recruiters than ever before.

The Army in particular had been heavily criticized for lowering its IQ standards and for taking too many poor, black recruits.

Last month, 22 per cent of the Army's recruits were black — the lowest per cent in any month since the draft ended almost two years ago.

The Army said it will place no quotas on blacks but would concentrate its recruiters in white areas to improve the racial representation in the service.

But now with fewer black recruits at a time of rising unemployment the service may be opening itself to criticism for taking too few blacks.

Army statistics show that since the current fiscal year began in July, only 14 per cent of the Army's recruits have been below average compared to 18 per cent the previous year.

Loves marijuana

MARTY, the marijuana eating mouse from San Jose, Calif., is shown after he was taken alive by San Jose police. Police set eight traps for Marty, using baits of bacon, cheeses and finally marijuana. Marty, who had been nibbling at narcotics in the police evidence locker, spurned all the trap baits except for the marijuana. Marty will be extradited to Los Angeles where he will be studied and hopefully rehabilitated from the drug habit. Then he'll be returned to San Jose to serve a mandatory sentence — as the narcotics squad mascot. (UPI)

Pot taste traps mouse

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — Marty the mouse passed up cheese, peanut butter and a pretty Minnie, but his taste for marijuana finally tripped him up.

The San Jose Police Department failed to snare the varmint who was nibbling away in the narcotics division evidence room until they used the weed itself as bait in a box trap.

Before that, peanut butter, cheese and a mouse named Mata Hairy were offered without success.

Some time between Saturday night and Monday morning, Marty fell for the marijuana, seeds placed in the trap, officers said.

He was transferred to a holding cage and a booking sheet was used to charge him with possession of marijuana, use of narcotics and destruction of evidence.

Now Marty will compensate for those months of stealth by contributing to science.

Minidoka teachers, trustees negotiate

RUPERT Contract negotiations for the 1975-76 school year are under way between Minidoka County teachers and the board of trustees.

Last week, negotiating teams representing teachers and the board hashed out the ground rules and established an agenda for the first negotiating meeting scheduled for Jan. 15. The negotiators released a joint announcement stating the meeting would concern three items:

- the first of the requests by teachers that five days of each 190-day contract be set aside for "professional improvement such as in service training and workshops."
- the second is a request by the board of trustees that all items on lists prepared by both the teacher's association and the board be negotiated before the salary schedules are considered.
- and finally, a proposal by teachers that an elementary physical education program be established under the coordination of a district athletic director.

Man seeks hearing

TWIN FALLS — Michael Steven Virgil, 22, Twin Falls, requested a preliminary hearing Monday when arraigned in magistrate court here on charges of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder.

He is represented by Richard Reed, attorney, and is being held in county custody in lieu of $20,000 bond. Virgil is accused of shooting Javier Peradez, 18, Twin Falls, in the abdomen with a small caliber handgun Sunday morning.

Peradez is listed in fair condition in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Judge Dan Mehl, magistrate court, will conduct a preliminary hearing in the case, probably about the end of next week.

Pedestrian hurt in TF

TWIN FALLS — Arthur Newell, 50, was injured Monday afternoon when struck by an automobile while walking along Fourth Avenue, South.

City police said Newell was walking on the pavement at the side of the roadway when hit by a vehicle driven by Ray Albert Henzel, 20, Twin Falls. The driver told officers he could not see the pedestrian because of the sun in his eyes.

Newell was treated for minor injuries and released from the hospital. The accident occurred in the 100 block of Fourth Avenue South at 4:43 p.m.

Ford, advisers huddle in Colorado, mull economy policy decisions

New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — Senior presidential advisers will fly to Colorado today for several days of talks with President Ford that are expected to be basic policy decisions about the economy and energy.

Ford personally directed his energy resources council on Dec. 19 and to discuss policy with reporters. Nevertheless, the following information about the secret White House deliberations has become known.

Despite his repeated expressions of dislike, Ford continues to entertain proposals for a higher gasoline tax as a way to discourage driving and help move the country towards Ford's own target of a cut in oil imports of one million barrels a day by late 1975.

At least some energy planners privately doubt that the goal will be achieved. If Ford comes to share the skepticism, he can be expected to stress not fulfillment of the goal to the very last barrel but taking actions that move the country in the right direction — towards importing a little less oil in 1975 and a lot less oil by the 1980-85 period.

Lawyers scrap fee schedule

PORTLAND, Ore. — The Oregon State Bar, after suffering a setback in a government antitrust suit against it, has abandoned its fee schedule for simple legal work.

The fee schedule was published after a U.S. District Court judge ruled in late November that the lawyer's organization was not exempt from antitrust action by virtue of its standing as a learned society and quasi-state agency.

In the first such action against a state bar organization, the U.S. Justice Department contended in an antitrust suit filed last May that the bar's legal fee schedule denied the public the benefit of competitive pricing.

The bar had argued that it was exempt from such actions and sought a dismissal of the suit. But District Judge Morrell E. Sharp of Seattle, who came to Portland to hear the case, rejected the motion.

On Dec. 20, the bar again asked for dismissal on the ground that the fee schedule has now been abandoned. A hearing date on the motion has not been set.

The fee list was adopted before World War II and was changed from "minimum" to "suggested" nearly two years ago. It sets fee guidelines for a variety of common legal services.

Egyptian war hero succumbs

CAIRO (UPI) — Egypt plans a hero's funeral Friday for War Minister Ahmed Ismail, the field marshal who commanded Egyptian forces during last year's Middle East conflict.

Ismail, the architect of Egypt's surprise assault across the Suez Canal at the start of the war, died Wednesday in London at the age of 57. A special Egyptian plane brought his body back to Cairo Wednesday night.

The semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram said Ismail died of lung cancer. He had been undergoing medical treatment in London since last month.

President Anwar Sadat hailed Ismail as a "hero whose name will forever be linked with the glories of Egyptian military might and the heroic feats of the great crossing to victory."

In the "great crossing" at the start of the 1973 Middle East War, Egyptian troops crossed the Suez Canal on pontoon bridges and stormed Israel's Bar Lev defense fortifications along the waterway's east bank.

Government sources said Ismail's body would remain at the armed forces hospital in suburban Maadi until Friday's state funeral. Tens of thousands of people are expected to take part in the funeral procession.

Born in 1917, Ismail was commissioned an officer at the age of 21 on graduating from the Cairo Military Academy. He saw combat two years later, serving with British forces in the Western Desert during World War II.

Ford has been unable to insist on shelving the gasoline tax proposal because it fits too neatly with the advice he is getting from many quarters to ask Congress for a general income tax reduction to reverse the recession. The gasoline tax would raise the revenues that would keep the income tax cut from adding an unacceptably large margin to the budget deficit. A big budget deficit tends to drive up interest rates, choking off house-building and investment.

The so-called double-whammy approach, combining a quota on crude oil imports with reactivation of the petroleum production mechanism for distribution of available supplies, is not a preferred option. It would be held out as an alternative recourse, to be used if necessary.

Coupon rationing of gasoline is out, even though officials recognize that many citizens regard it as fair.

"Politically, that's the easiest thing to do," one planner said. "Substantively, the tax approach will work better. The trouble is that whatever you do, none of these systems is perfectly equitable. Somebody always gets hurt."

Ford is expected to challenge the Democratic Congress to work with him cooperatively and quickly to cope with the economic and energy problems. He has discussed with advisers the possibility of going over Congress's head, making a special energy broadsheet to the American people, sometime after his State of the Union message to Congress, which is tentatively set for Jan. 20.

Ford is expected to be criticized for allegedly not having an energy policy.

There will be many facets to the program Ford touched on several times in October, including gradual decontrol of crude oil prices and congressional permission to start commercial production from naval petroleum reserve No. 1 at Elk Hills, Calif., to which that permission will require administration continues to be criticized for allegedly not having an energy policy.

There will be many facets to the program Ford touched on several times in October, including gradual decontrol of crude oil prices and congressional permission to start commercial production from naval petroleum reserve No. 1 at Elk Hills, Calif., to which that permission will require the White House to engage in a trading battle with senior Democrats on the House Armed Services Committee, and it is not yet clear that Ford has made the requisite political decision.

Energy officials planned to spend at least part of this holiday writing issue papers to present to the President in Vail.

Christmas Spirit?

WHAT do you suppose all these people — a block and a half long — are waiting for in a biting cold wind on Christmas Day? These diehard fans are outside the Oakland Raiders ticket office waiting chance to buy tickets to Raiders-Steelers AFC title game set for Saturday in Oakland. (UPI)

Steeler offense arrived

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Terry Bradshaw and the Pittsburgh Steeler offense have arrived.

Anyone caring to dispute that statement can take his argument directly to "Mean" M. Greene.

Greene, the unchallenged spokesman of the Steeler offense, says he was convinced that by Pittsburgh's playoff victory over the Buffalo Bills last Sunday.

"It was the day Terry Bradshaw proved to everybody that he had finally become a star and our offensive leader," Greene said.

Sunday was more than a chance to meet the Oakland Raiders for the AFC championship. Sunday was the watershed of the Steeler season for Greene, the day they finally put on the field what everyone said they had on paper.

"Last Sunday was a big day in our history," said the Texas native. "I felt like I really belonged in Pittsburgh for the first time, because for the first time the fans cheered for us as a team. Not for individuals, not against one player and for another, but for us as a team."

"It was a whole new experience and I loved every minute of it. Loved it. Now I'm going to be proud to be considered a Pittsburgher."

Greene, a first round draft pick from North Texas State who preceded Bradshaw here by one year, says Bradshaw's problems on the field and off the field have stemmed from the monumental buildup given him by the Stealers and the press in his rookie season.

"Maybe him coming in here as the heralded savior of the franchise put unfair pressure on him. Maybe that and all the calls he's taken have turned him into the man he's suddenly become."

"I remember when I first came here and when I first came here was a tough year. After the pre-season, I thought what the heck, this is going to be a piece of cake. Just like college. But my first regular season taught me how wrong I was. I think Terry experienced a lot of the same problems because his first pre-season was so good. Too good."

Greene, who was named "Weekend" as Pittsburgh's spokesman of the year by the Popper Dan Club, was the first player to congratulate Bradshaw when he left the Buffalo game in the fourth quarter after giving his best performance in four seasons as pro.

But Greene's pride now extends beyond himself, or Bradshaw, or the outstanding Steeler defense. He is now including Pittsburgh's highly-rated offensive unit as a whole.

"We're all in this together. Now I'm proud to include our offense. Baby, they've arrived."

Raiders celebrate X-mas

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders sandwiched their Christmas celebration around a three-hour workout Wednesday as they prepared for their upcoming American Football Conference Playoff game against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"I told the guys last week Christmas would be canceled if we beat Miami," coach John Madden half-kiddingly said after the Raiders went briskly through their offensive drills in preparation for Sunday's game.

Oakland advanced to the AFC championship game Saturday by edging the two-time defending champion Dolphins, 28-26, in a hectic finish.

With the exception of Willie Brown, Madden pronounced his team ready for the step before the Super Bowl. Brown was listed as a doubtful performer because of a nagging leg injury.

Quarterback Ken Stabler, who threw the game-winning touchdown pass against the Dolphins with 26 seconds remaining on the clock, enjoyed a double celebration off the field. In addition to exchanging Christmas gifts, the southpaw sledged from Alabama also celebrated his 29th birthday.

"There's only one thing Kenny really wants," said Delbie Stabler. "If I could get him the one present in the world that would make him the happiest, it would be the Super Bowl. I can't, so I settled for a pool table."

A Super Bowl title would climax an exciting year for Stabler, but he isn't looking beyond the Pittsburgh contest.

"Everyone says how much better we are this year," he said, "but if we don't beat Pittsburgh we won't have gone any further than last year. Our 12-2 record and victory over Miami won't mean anything. Those aren't the things that motivate you. It's wanting to be the best in your division and world champions."

Starr named new coach of Green Bay Packers

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Bart Starr, the late Vince Lombardi's quarterback, was entrusted with the job of restoring some of the Green Bay Packers' old pride and prestige—the kind they used to have under Lombardi—when he was named general manager and head coach of the Pack Tuesday.

Starr, considered by Lombardi as his most valuable player although he built his championship teams on defense, pledged to build on the legend of his former teacher to turn things around and bring the Packers back to contention in the National Football League.

"Everyone has to pull together from within," he said. "There can be no bickering. I hope to build on the great lessons we learned from Coach Lombardi."

Flanked by his wife, Cheryl, and the Packers' President Dominick Olejzjak at the news conference, Starr admitted, "I've been a little disappointed in my travels around the country to see somewhat of a slip by the Green Bay Packers."

"I hope to restore some of the prestige that was so much a part of this organization for many years."

Starr replaces Dan Devine, who quit eight days ago to become head coach at Notre Dame. It is his first head coaching job, though he has turned down several extremely lucrative offers to join other NFL teams.

The Packers had interviewed only two men—Starr and Green Bay Assistant Dave Hamner—for the coaching vacancy. Starr met with the Packers' executive committee in two prolonged sessions Monday to work out final details of the contract.

"Starr said he would have been satisfied to work on a year-to-year basis, "but my wife would have had a heart attack that way."

Starr, who will be 41 on Jan. 8, said no decision had been made on his coaching staff, but he has asked Hamner to stay on and "I do hope to surround myself with people with diverse backgrounds—people who enjoy representing pro football."

"Starr said he realized the job ahead is a challenge. The Packers have had only two winning seasons since Lombardi retired as coach after the 1967 season.

But, he said, he feels up to the challenge and paraphrased Winston Churchill by saying, "When a man is figuratively tapped on the shoulder, what a tragedy it would be if he is unprepared in his finest hour."

Ali named Boxer of the Year

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Muhammad Ali, who regained the world heavyweight championship from George Foreman on Oct. 30, was voted boxer of the year by the world boxing council Tuesday.

The WBC, which has its headquarters here, voted Mexico's Jose "Mantecilla" Napoles boxer of the month. Napoles successfully defended his world welterweight crown for the 13th time against Argentina's Horacio Saldano here on Dec. 14.

Honorary mention was made of Mexico's Rodolfo Martinez, who won the world heavyweight title against countryman Rafael Herrera on Nov. 7.

Starr said there were some obvious strengths—and some obvious weaknesses in the Packers and "we hope to shore up the strengths and rid ourselves of the weaknesses."

He pledged to put the entire Green Bay organization on a "rock-solid foundation."

Starr was the winningest championship quarterback in pro football history, leading the Packers to five NFL and two Super Bowl titles in seven years. He was the most valuable player in each of the first two Super Bowls and in 1970 he was named pro player of the decade by the Columbus, Ohio, Touchdown Club.

A painful arm injury hampered his final years with Green Bay and he was forced to retire after the 1971 season when a series of operations failed to correct the problem.

He spent the 1972 season as an assistant to Devine, calling the signals from the sidelines as second-year quarterback Scott Hunter led the team on the field.

Players see Starr as a great coach

By United Press International

Players who played with Bart Starr and who are going to play under him next season are unanimous in their judgment—he's going to be a great coach and general manager.

Gale Gillingham, all-pro guard who played with Starr in the '60s and is still active but sit succinctly.

"I'm certain that Bart, being the type of individual he is, will take the team back to the good old days. I'm certain he will do a great job," said Gillingham.

The "good old days" refers to the championship years under the late Vince Lombardi. Starr was the quarterback and key player in these years. The fans and the players look to Starr to bring back the good times—something the team could use after lean years, when the Packers' prestige and record slumped.

Ray Nilschke, the former Packer great at linebacker, admitted he is an unabashed Starr admirer.

"I'm a Bart Starr fan. I'll do a great job," said Nilschke. Defensive end Clarence Williams was also pleased by the appointment.

"I think it's great," Williams said. "I think we've got the best man available."

Dave Hanner, a teammate during Starr's playing days and defensive coordinator of the team the past few years, was looking forward to working with Starr—if he is asked. And Starr indicated he will think.

"I think Bart would be a great person to work for," Hanner said. "We've been great friends for many years. We've helped each other out in a lot of ways. I hope this relationship will continue."

"Starr" has the temperament to do the job," said Nilschke. "He has proven his courage on the field. He has great control of himself and I know he has the respect of the ball players."

"He has all the abilities to be an outstanding coach."

Zeke Bratkowski, the underdog to Starr during his playing days and a close personal friend, said Starr has the great ability to handle both jobs as coach and general manager.

"It's an ideal situation where he has full rein over the entire operation," Bratkowski said.

"That way he doesn't have to go to anyone to make improvements for the team. He's a man in charge."

Asked if he thought Starr's "nice guy" image might hamper his coaching ability, Bratkowski answered, "Don't you believe that."

Bratkowski, who has been an assistant to former Bears Coach Abe Giron, is reported to be in line for an assistant's job under Starr.

"I've only been home a week and we visited a couple of times as neighbors," he said. "Of course we talked about it (being an assistant), but he didn't really become involved in the situation until the weekend."

"Former defensive tackle Henry Jordan said he was happy for Starr "if that's what Indiana

Cardinals in the NL East race until the final day, stole his 118 bases in 151 tries, eclipsing his previous high of 74. He got No. 105 the night of Sept. 10 to surpass Maury Wills' mark of 104 set in 1962.

Brock also had 194 hits and 61 walks while batting .306 in 1974. He teamed with Reggie Smith and Bake McBride to give St. Louis one of its most potent outfields ever.

Brock led the National League in steals for the fourth straight year and the eighth time in his career. He extended to 10 his own record of most consecutive years of 50 or more stolen bases.

In announcing the award, the sports weekly, said, "The voting by the Sporting News staff wasn't even close. As usual, there were plenty of other candidates for the award, won by football's O.J. Simpson in 1973 and baseball's Charles O. Finley in 1972.

"Jimmy Connors had a sensational year in tennis. Mike Marshall set relieving records. Johnny Miller scored unbeatable on the links. Football had many heroes.

"Still another top-performer was Henry Aaron, who broke Babe Ruth's mark for homers," the publication added. "But Aaron's was a cumulative thing, a career mark rather than a one season achievement, the basis for the Sports Man award."

76'ers top NY 104-97

NEW YORK (UPI) — Allan Bristow scored a career high 23 points and the Philadelphia 76ers overcame a 16-point deficit Wednesday night to beat the New York Knicks 104-97.

Philadelphia took the lead for the first time, 89-88, on a layup by Steve Mix with 3:52 to play. The score was then tied at 89, 91 and 93 before New York center John Gianelli fouled out of the game and Fred Carter converted two free throws to put the 76ers ahead for good.

In their comeback, the 76ers overcame an 11-point spurge in a six minute span by New York's Earl Monroe in the first quarter and negated Monroe's game-high 23 points.

The Knicks had bursts of 7-0 in 55 seconds and 9-0 within a two minute span to take a 28-23 first quarter lead. New York upped its advantage to 52-36 with only 2:12 minutes remaining in the half.

But Billy Cunningham and Bristow each scored 14 points in the second half to spark the 76er comeback.

Cunningham and Mix each finished with 19 points and Fred Carter led 15 while Bill Bradley registered 18 for the losers.

The defeat was the fifth in six games for the Knicks, who had previously won six straight.

Bullets outscore Hawks

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — Paced by Mike Riordan's game-high 24 points, the Washington Bullets outscored the Atlanta Hawks 12-11 in the second period Wednesday night and rolled to a 110-92 National Basketball Association victory.

The Bullets converted six Kevin Porter steals and 14 Atlanta turnovers into easy second period baskets in moving to their 25th win in 34 games, best in the NBA. Atlanta was followed in scoring by Elvin Hayes and Phil Chenier who scored 19 points each and Porter who had 14.

Riordan scored 12 points in the third period as Washington expanded a 51-29 lead to 90-62. Chenier threw in nine points in the opening quarter to help Washington take a 22-18 lead.

Wes Unseld grabbed 21 rebounds and Hayes 12 as Washington outrebounded Atlanta 67-47.

John Brown, who scored 13 points, in the third period, finished with a career-high 28 points for Atlanta.

Major basketball tournaments open

By United Press International

'Tis the season to be jolly—especially if you're a college basketball fan.

Starting today or Friday, 26 major tournaments with a duration of between two to five days will get underway around the land. Enough college hoop action for anybody.

Eight of these classics begin play today, the most glamorous of them perhaps the five day Rainbow Classic in Honolulu. Among the eight teams participating will be second ranked Indiana, bringing an 8-0 record into the event.

Other teams entered are Florida, Hawaii, Ohio State, Pennsylvania, San Jose State, Tulsa and Villanova, with the 11th ranked Quakers, 6-0, expected to provide the Hoosiers with their toughest competition.

No. 1 North Carolina State is one of the few ranked teams not involved in tourney action: the Wolfpack, 6-0, takes on Kent State Friday and Pittsburgh Saturday.

Fourth rated Louisville is the favorite as the host in the two day Fidelity Holiday Classic, but they're likely to have to beat No. 13 Purdue en route. Florida State and Western Kentucky are also entered.

In a reduced field, fifth ranked Southern California looms as the choice against St. Joseph's (Pa.) and four local teams in New York's five day Holiday Festival. Rutgers, No. 20, figures as the likely final opponent for the Trojans in the six-team tourney — reduced from last year's 16—but Manhattan, Fordham and Seton Hall, because of their local backers, cannot be ruled out.

Ninth ranked Arizona State meets seven foes in the five day Far West Classic, with No. 14 Oregon its chief opponent. Iowa, Oregon State, Wake Forest and Washington State are the others.

No. 17 Oklahoma is the other Top 20 team in action today, visiting Kansas City, Mo. for the five-day Big Eight Classic. Colorado, Iowa State, Kansas State, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Oklahoma State oppose the Sooners.

The other tourneys, starting today are the two-day Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla. and the Pointsettia Classic in Greenville, S.C., and the four-day AllCollege Turrey in Oklahoma City, Okla.

At Jacksonville, Memphis State is favored against Jacksonville, Penn State and Temple; Furman is the choice at Greenville versus Baylor, Lafayette and Washington and host Oklahoma City should prevail over Centenary, Niagara, North Texas State, Pacific, UNC Charlotte, Wyoming and Xavier.

The top classics lined up to start Friday include the Maryland Invitational at College Park, Md., with No. 3 UCLA and No. 7 Maryland; and the four-day ECAC Tourney at Providence, R.I., including 10th-ranked South Carolina and 16th ranked Providence.

The other Top 20 teams in holiday tourneys are No. 12 Arizona in the Old Dominion Classic at Norfolk, Va. and Marquette, ranked 18th, in the Milwaukee Classic.

NY gets present

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Knicks got a Christmas present a day early Tuesday when the Detroit Pistons took Howard Porter, a high-salaried reserve forward, off their hands and gave them a No. 1 selection in next spring's NBA Draft.

Porter had scored only 33 points in 17 games for the Knicks, who were forced to give their own No. 1 draft pick to the Chicago Bulls last spring to obtain him.

Bruins, Carey look to boost winning marks

The Twin Falls Bruins, one of two undefeated teams still remaining in Magic Valley, will take their 60 record to Burley Saturday night to highlight a brief mid-holiday break basketball schedule.

...straight since an opening loss, will be at Payette for a pair of games with A-3 schools in that area.

TWIN FALLS — Tom Turner, bowling in the Twin Falls Commercial League at the Bowling-drome at 728 series this week with 257, 224 and 247 games. Turner's current average is 183. The previous high series was 613 in the league.

John Hicks named NFC Rookie honor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Offensive guard John Hicks, whose crunching blocking and pass protecting provided some of the few bright spots in an otherwise dismal season for the New York Giants today was named the United Press International's 1974 National Football Conference Rookie of the Year.

The Giants finished the 1973 season with a 2-12 record, tied with Baltimore for the worst mark in the National Football League. But it was hardly the fault of the 6-foot-2, 220 pound Hicks, who along with fellow rookie guard Tom Mullen of Southwest Missouri State gave the Giants one of the better offensive lines in the league.

Hicks, a No. 1 draft choice out of Ohio State who proved to be a real "blue chipper," became the first offensive lineman, other than an end, to gain the honor in the 20-year history of the award. He won by a six-one vote over running back Willard Jackson of the San Francisco 49ers in the nationwide balloting of 39 sports writers, three from each NFL city.

"You really can't measure an individual's performance such as mine in view of the team's poor record," said Hicks, who, along with an All America selection, also won both the Outland Trophy and Lombardi Trophy during his senior year at Ohio State. "I really didn't expect to start this year and I had a lot of learning to do. I tried to reach a few conclusions."

present unsupplied beauty of the region. It would also result in serious damage to the watershed as exemplified by siltation of the South Fork of the Salmon River.

Sports

Old champs fell in 1974 sports

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nearly all of 1973's major champions were felled in 1974; a couple of old champions — the Boston Celtics and Muhammad Ali — returned to glory, and some brash new ones spearheaded by Jimmy Connors and the Philadelphia Flyers gave hint to long and colorful reigns of the future.

In a year that saw such proud titlists as the Miami Dolphins, UCLA, the New York Knicks, George Foreman and Australia's tennis Davis Cup and the defending 73 champion, was shocked out in a heavily going in the '74 matches by India.

For All and the Celtics, the year 1974 marked a return to the glory that was theirs through most of the 1960s. Ali, heavyweight champion of the world from 1964 until involuntarily deposed by the governing agencies in 1967, regained the title from the supposedly invincible George Foreman in one of boxing's all-time upsets on Oct. 30 in Kinshasa, Zaire Africa.

At one point a better than 50-1 underdog to the 24-year-old foreman, Ali, 32, knocked out his younger opponent in the eighth round to come back that was launched four years earlier when the supreme court ruled that he was within his constitutional rights to refuse induction into military service.

The Celtics, who ruled the National Basketball association in Dynasty-like fashion from 1959-66 and '68-'69, lost out in the spending competition New York Knicks in the Eastern Division finals and then went on to edge the Milwaukee Bucks in a seven-game final series for the NBA title.

The Celtics thus completed an overall rebuilding of the club (with the one notable exception being John Havlicek) from the Bill Russell-Cousy-Tommy Heinsohn title teams of the '60s. It was only fitting the '74 renaissance took place under the coaching of Heinsohn.

The Miami Dolphins enjoyed a successful 1973 spending the first month of it winning the Super Bowl championship for the second straight year. The fall, however, saw the fall of the Dolphins.

After somehow managing to goad his champions into the playoffs despite a rash of injuries and the knowledge that superstars Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick and Paul Warfield would soon be departing to the fledgling world football league, Dolphin Coach Don Shula saw his dream of an unprecedented third straight Super Bowl championship go for naught in a last minute 24-22 loss to the Oakland Raiders in an AFC playoff.

College football saw Alabama, UPI's 1973 National Champion (based then on regular season play only), plow through 11 straight opponents en route to a rematch with Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl that, with a victory this time, could give the tide two straight championships.

On a lesser level, Texas had its string of six straight south-west conference titles (one tied), snapped when lowly Baylor rose from years of frustration to cop the Cotton Bowl berth with a six-point five straight season-end victories.

Another long college reign that ended in 1974 was UCLA's seven-year stranglehold in basketball. North Carolina State parlayed a balance of high-leaping David Thompson, 7-4 Tom Burleson and 5-9 Monte Towe to bring down the mighty Bruins 80-77 in the semi-finals of the NCAA tournament at a pressure before going on to whip Marquette in the finals.

The tennis world also underwent an upheaval when, cocky, 22-year-old Jimmy Connors, amid his celebrated out-of-court courtship of 19-year-old women's standout Chris Evert, captured both Wimbledon and the U.S. championships. Neither 73 Wimbledon winner Rod Laver nor 72 U.S. open titlist John Newcombe made it to the finals in their 1974 defenses.

Don Woods honored Don Woods named AFC Rookie of the Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don Woods of the San Diego Chargers football team was the runaway winner Tuesday in balloting for United Press International's American Conference rookie of the year award.

Woods was 100 pick-up who broke a National Football League rushing record for first-year backs this year.

Oklahoma State favored over BYU

TEMPE, Ariz. (UPI) — Although the Western Athletic Conference champion has won "it" three previous Fiesta Bowls, the odds-makers are selecting Oklahoma State over WAC titlist Brigham Young this time around.

BYU coach Lavell Edwards does not see it that way, however.

Edwards admitted that overall the Big Eight Conference, which the Cowboys represent, is stronger than the WAC, but added that ASU, winner of the first three Fiesta Bowls, has been on a par with the Big Eight schools in recent years, and that Arizona is close to that point also.

The Cougar attack is led by quarterback Gary Stedie, who finished as the nation's second best passer this past season with 2,174 yards as he helped his team to a 7-3-1 mark.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, following the Christmas holiday, opened higher Thursday in moderately active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which gained more than eight points Tuesday, was ahead 0.39 point at 598.79 shortly after the opening. Advanced led declines, 102 to 104, among the 470 issues crossing the tape.

Tuesday's unexpected gain spurred hopes a year-end rally still may be possible. There has been little in the new background to influence the market recently, most analysts said.

The recession, inflation and the energy problems still are there, President Ford is to meet with economic advisers this week in Colorado to discuss the state of the union speech he is to make to Congress next month.

Wall Street is anxiously looking to Washington for leadership on the economic problems besetting the country.

Idaho potatoes on rise

Courtesy Sinclair & Co. CHICAGO — Idaho russet potato futures climbed 15 cents Tuesday.

Continuing a sharp advance, the May delivery closed at 63 1/2 or "hundredweight" up 15 cents from Monday's 64 1/2.

In contrast, Maine potato futures "closed lower after a quiet session that saw only 817 contracts traded. Commodity News Service said overall values ranged from unchanged to 4 cents lower on the day.

Cash prices in Maine held about steady, at 2.29-4.30 per cwt.

Commodity price decline starting

WASHINGTON (CNS) — A report released by the Brookings Institution today says the high commodity prices of 1974 are unlikely to last, with most already declining.

The report by 15 private economists from Japan, Western Europe and the United States also puts down recent talk about increasing commodity shortages.

"We see nothing in the record to support the claim that in the foreseeable future — say, through the end of this century — the world will be threatened by real and radical commodity shortages of minerals, food, or other primary products," the report states.

Over the long term prices could rise with growing world demand, increasing environmental costs and use of harder-to-extract land and harder-to-mine minerals, but even those factors may be offset by technological change, the commodity experts say.

As for the possibility of more successful cartels like that of the oil producers, dire projections in that regard ignore different economic needs among countries, political problems and the ease of substitution for many commodities.

Yet presidential trade efforts to set up cartels could create temporary shortages and bottlenecks, the Brookings study finds, and lead to a cycle of retaliation that makes things worse.

Further, a generally good global situation can't overlook the special problems of such areas as Sahelian Africa.

— Also the study recommends a number of measures aimed at free international trade aimed at new trade rules, relaxation of import and export quotas, charges and other barriers.

— More international aid efforts to expand production of food and other commodities is developing countries.

Building drop hits forest industries

Courtesy Sinclair & Co. WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Forest Products Association said a nationwide survey indicates declining homebuilding activity "has had a devastating effect on employment and manufacturing in the wood products industry."

According to the NFPA's economics director, John Muench Jr. the survey found the lumber and plywood industries operating at about 65 to 70 per cent of capacity in early December.

That figure should go down further, said Muench, as employees who still have jobs take Christmas vacations.

"Mill inventories have increased substantially," Muench said, as shipments and orders in almost all segments of the industry have fallen below those of the same period last year.

Housing is a major factor in the "decline" he said, because residential construction consumes about 20 per cent of softwood lumber and plywood production.

More price rises on farm equipment

BOISE (UPI) — Members of the Farm Equipment Manufacturers Association anticipate more price rises by 1976, a director of the National Farm and Power Equipment Dealers Association said.

Scott Schifano of Schifano Tractor and Implement Co. in Boise said a survey shows 83 per cent of the farm equipment manufacturers anticipate higher prices in 1976 than at present.

Cost and availability of farm equipment will be principal topics at the annual meeting of the International Association, Hardware and Implement Dealers, Feb. 9-11 in Boise.

The national survey of farm equipment price prospects showed that constantly increasing costs of components since last April give no indication of subsiding. Materials and components comprise as much as 40 to 80 per cent of the total cost of most farm machines.

Domestic spying by CIA 'old news'

BY MYRON BECKENSTEIN
(C) Chicago Daily News
Congressmen should not have been taken away by the stories that the Central Intelligence Agency engages in domestic spying activity. The operations were discussed in detail by Marchetti and John D. White's authoritative book, "The CIA and the Cult of Intelligence," published this summer after the first republication government endorsement of a book in American history.

Nixon approved the Huston plan for domestic surveillance on US citizens. Tom Huston, political groups in the United States were obviously receiving financial support from somewhere, and the sources could be foreign.

Analysis

The defense intelligence agency was also consulted about the Huston plan. Spying by any intelligence agency on US citizens was revealed in 1970. It was the reported cancellation of the Huston plan that apparently led the White House to form the "plumbers" unit, which gained retroactive fame in Watergate.

Marchetti says the agency's Domestic Operations Division has a staff of several hundred people and an annual budget of up to $10 million.

'Career' criminal purge set

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department has initiated the nation's largest prosecutive program in a new program designed to identify career criminals and put them behind bars.

Richard W. Velde, administrator of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, said the $1 million program would, in the beginning, help prosecutors in six to 10 cities in a crackdown on career criminals.

With the federal funds, local district attorneys will be able to expand their staffs and put on five to 10 experienced prosecutors, plus trained assistants, into special major violator units. While less experienced attorneys handle the more routine cases, the experienced lawyers will be assigned to handle the "time-consuming" prosecutive: habitual criminals.

Nuclear power plans lag in Project Independence

(C) New York Times Service
NEW YORK — A year after the proclamation of "Project Independence, the project to make the nation energy self-sufficient in energy, the projected contribution of nuclear energy in the next few years was fallen drastically.

The nation's nuclear power industry is lagging behind schedule. It has increased the danger of power shortages in some areas, and possibly, a delayed recovery from the recession.

The utilities can be speedily reversed. William P. Douth, a former director of the Atomic Energy Commission, and Maryland's public utility commission, said of the delays and cancellations: "We're mortgaging the future of the nation's energy economy."

Horoscope

Carroll R. Lighter

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, DEC. 27, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: One of those days when whatever you have planned does not meet with your expectations. If you relax and quietly attend to your regular duties, surprising benefits could come your way. Make long-range plans for the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Not a good day to make promises of any kind. A time to use extreme care in motion. Don't waste time with scandal-mongering.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study just at how to get ahead faster and forget unimportant outside duties for the time being. Show devotion to mate.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Look to your most interesting friends for the ideas from which you can benefit the most in the future. Attend a group affair.

MIRCO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) Handle credit affairs wisely and forget the advice of some bigwig for now, since it is not the time for that. Be logical.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study those ideas given you by one who has vision and which could lead to advancement. Avoid one who does not understand you.

TAUROS (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Show those to whom you owe money that you are on the beam and eager to come to a better understanding. Show your appreciation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Find the right way to handle a very opinionated person and you can come to a fine understanding. Be more cooperative.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you are in doubt how to solve a problem, be sure to discuss it with an expert. Don't neglect to take health treatments.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are able to get into new outlets now that will bring you greater enjoyment during spare time. Strive for happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make improvement in the home by adding new appliances. Don't forget to pay pressing bills. Show more devotion to mate.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will benefit greatly if you provide the best education you can afford early in life. There is much inventiveness in this nature and both fame and fortune could result. Be sure to give ethical training early in life.

Loss of the marriage partner doesn't seem to shake up a woman as much as a man. Why is that? Repeatedly, it has been noted by the matrimonial scholars that the widow handles her new situation with greater calm and more control, typically. It's likely she'll get herself a new husband; buy some clothing she'd had in mind some time back, and check out possible jobs. She doesn't necessarily start shopping around for another man right away. But it's said she does enjoy the notion she may wind up with a better husband on the next go around, if such is to be.

Q. "HOW OFTEN does a hen ostrich lay an egg? And how many in a season?"
A. Every two or three days until she's laid about 30.

CAGERS

Fact that basketball players are called "cagers" has nothing to do with the fact that basketball nets look like cages. Gyms were smaller years ago. So wire cages were strung up around the basketball courts to protect the spectators in wild plays. And I wish to report that some of those cages were made of barbed-wire, incredibly.

HOW CAN YOU harden pure copper? (Nobody knows; But ancient people in South America did so, once. They made surgical instruments of same.

WHEN AT CHURCH in Omaha, Neb., neither burp nor sneeze, please, such being illegal there.

PAIN

Writes a feminine customer named Grace B. Morse: "You said prizefighters have a greater tolerance for pain. I can verify that. My husband was a career Navy dentist from 1917 until 1941. Unlike most other sailors, numerous prominent boxers in the Navy simply fell asleep in his chair when he worked on them, including such notables as Jack Sharkey and Battling Nelson."

DID OUR LANGUAGE man say "usher" was the only word in English to contain four personal pronouns in a row? Consider "withers" with five — I, it, he, her, hers. And "inherits" with five, too — he, her, I, it, its.

Here's an idea to WARM your heart!

The winter months have arrived and with the thermostat set at 68 degrees, a nice warm feeling is becoming a rare experience. But we have an idea that we think will warm your heart as well as your pocketbook. It's called Classified Advertising.

You own lots of perfectly good items which you no longer use. Why not help someone else by offering these items for sale? You'll be making someone else happy and helping yourself at the same time! That extra cash will warm your pocketbook and the little tool Place your ad today. It's a great idea!
