Ek manages to be self-supporting in spite of his handicap and depends on the bicycle for transportation and the basket it carries for delivery of supplies and orders from his copy business.

Ex-CIA agent charges citizens' mail copied

The post office's alleged screening of letters written by Americans, mostly to relatives or friends in the Soviet Union, was said to have started in the summer of 1958 during the second term of the Eisenhower administration, when special agent Arthur E. Sumnerfield was postmaster general.

According to Dr. Cranin's account, the Post Office Department set up areas in post offices in New York City and New Orleans, staffed by specially cleared personnel, where suspected letters were used to open, copy, and resal letters from Americans about whom the CIA sought information.

"The surreptitious opening of U.S. mail was the first straw for me," said Cranin, who resigned from the CIA in June, 1959, seven months after he said he first learned of the mail surveillance carried out by "selective screening" under an agreement among the CIA, the Post Office Department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

A CIA spokesman in Washington declined to comment on whether Cranin ever worked for the agency or on whether such mail opening was carried out.

The spokesman said that the CIA was "not very forthcoming" about naming employees or former employees and that the matter of possible agency involvement in domestic operations was presently under review by a commission appointed by President Ford.

Cranin, who said he joined the CIA in September, 1951, said the agency gave him a "Staff Clearance" — a super-sensitive security clearance — in November, 1953, that made him aware of the highly secret mail interceptions. Thereafter, he said, his office read and copied intercepted letters from Americans each day.

The equipment used in the New York and New Orleans post offices, according to Cranin, enabled the CIA to open, copy, resal letters and send them to their way without any tell-tale signs of tampering. A similar mail surveillance unit was operated by the Washington headquarters of the FBI, he added.

Most of the letters were in English, in French and in Russian in the Soviet Union, Cranin said, and he could recall no instance where "positive use" was made of any information contained in the intercepted mail. One purpose of the surveillance, he said, was to develop contacts with Americans who had acquaintances in the Soviet Union.

"This was often a method for recruiting CIA operatives," he said.

CIA probe panel member once 'Gate jury target'

(c) New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Erwin N. Griswold, the former solicitor general who was named this week to the presidential commission on alleged domestic spying by the Central Intelligence Agency, was warned by the special Watergate prosecutor's office last year that he was a target of a grand jury inquiry, highly reliable sources said today.

The sources, with first-hand knowledge of the case, said Griswold had been told that he was under investigation for perjury in his Senate and subsequent grand jury testimony in connection with the Watergate prosecutors' inquiry into the case involving the international telephone and telephone company.

Griswold, a former dean of the Harvard Law School, who served as solicitor general from 1967 until 1973, refused to comment on the report. He has an attorney, Robert W. Messervy of Boston, a former president of the American Bar Association, initially replied "No comment" when reached by a reporter. A few moments later, however, he telephoned the following statement: "Mr. Griswold was asked some questions by the special prosecutor's office and he cooperated fully with them."

It could not be immediately learned whether the White House had screened Ford's hand-picked candidates for the CIA commission with the special prosecutor's office. "I have been part of the review," said Kenneth White House press secretary, said today, "but I don't know if it still is."

A number of sources, who asked not to be identified, said that the decision not to prosecute Griswold, made last year by Leon Jaworski, that the special prosecutor, had been one of the factors in the sudden resignation last May of at least two members of the ITT Task Force in the prosecutor's office. Jaworski now in Houston, could not be reached for comment.

Another factor was Jaworski's decision, much criticized at the time, to permit Richard G. Kleindienst, the former attorney general, to plead guilty to a misdemeanor charge. Kleindienst was fined $100 and given a 30-day suspended sentence last June on charges that he misled the Senate Judiciary Committee during 1972 hearings into the ITT case.

At one point last year, two sources familiar with the case said, Griswold and his attorney were involved in extensive discussions in the prosecutor's office here with Richard J. Davis, head of the ITT task force.

James E. Doyle, the spokesman for the special prosecutor's office, refused to comment on the report and added that "it is inappropriate for anyone who works here now, who used to work here, or who will work here in the future to talk about any case we have here — unless he talks about it in court."

Pair survives Cascade crash

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — For 50 hours, the two survivors of the plane crash lay in the snow-covered wreckage fighting for their lives.

"I almost wanted to call someone on the telephone and say, 'hey, we're alive,'" said Mrs. Marilyn Foss.

But there was no telephone around as Mrs. Foss, 49, lay with an injured pilot near her side and three dead persons, including her husband — just a few feet away.

The five were on a flight from central Washington to Seattle-Sunday so Mrs. Foss' husband, Paul, 50, could get treatment for throat cancer.

His stormy weather formed thin chunks of ice on the wings of their twin-engine Cessna 206 and it plowed into the forests of the Cascade foothills 25 miles southeast of Seattle.

For 50 hours rescuers, frustrated by bad weather and difficult terrain, searched for the emergency signal coming from the crash site.

The wreckage was seen Tuesday morning and Mrs. Foss and Gregory Bennett, 25, the pilot, were rescued by General Hospital's air, nearby Renton a few hours later. Injured in serious but stable condition with numerous fractures and cuts and some internal injuries, the bodies of Foss, nurse Lenore Crowley, and another pilot, Michael Blass, were to be removed from the crash site today.

Mrs. Foss said she remembered little of the crash.

"They told us we were bucking 60 miles-an-hour winds. I looked out and saw ice forming on the wings. We then started to lose altitude. Suddenly I saw a tree out the window and then we smacked into the side of that mountain."

"We were very calm from the beginning," she continued. He (Bennett) kept saying, 'I'm going to leave. I'm going to walk out.' But I wouldn't let him.

"I felt fortunate for my husband and Bennett would tell me, 'You've got to think of yourself, of your life.'"

US should never yield Panama Canal control

WASHINGTON — An ominous story appeared a couple of weeks ago in the Washington Post under a headline on the Panama Canal. It was headed "U.S. Panama Accord Seen in Early 1975." This was Markese Simons' lead. "A U.S. concession to surrender jurisdiction over the Panama Canal Zone at the end of five years had led to confident predictions by an authoritative source that a new U.S.-Panama canal treaty would be ready for signature next year."

Very well. Let us sound the alarm bells and summon such able warriors, as Congressmen, Flood of Pennsylvania and Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina. For the past 20 years, Flood has raised "Catonian" cries in the House. Helms has made himself a Senate leader of the fight to prevent arrogation of vital rights and property in the Canal Zone. This "concession to surrender" cannot possibly be what it is. We ought to understand all of this, as it is at stake in these negotiations, both as to the Canal past, and as to the Canal future.

Under the Treaty of 1903 the U.S. acquired rights "in perpetuity" over a 16-mile-wide zone of Panamanian territory. The rights included all power and authority the United States would possess "if it were sovereign." By direct purchase from private owners, the United States also acquired title, in fee, to certain lands now involved.

Now, it is understandable that Panama chafes under the continued U.S. presence. Doubtless the present situation is a "source of conflict," and after 10 years of intermittent negotiations, Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker doubtless is correct in saying the Panamanians are "impatient."

TF council to cut hazard

The City Council should be supported in its drive to correct a dangerous situation that exists at many Twin Falls intersections.

The Council plans to bring its own ordinance into agreement with a state law governing parking near intersections, and then to enforce the law.

As a practical matter that means that parking will be prohibited within 20 feet of intersections in the city. Not only would such a program bring the city into compliance with state law, but should help cut the accident rate at intersections where visibility is blocked by parked cars.

The city badly needs both extra parking and a smoother, safer traffic flow, particularly in the downtown shopping area. In this case, obeying the law will cause a reduction of parking places and an improvement in traffic flow and safety, a tradeoff.

Obviously the city now should press its efforts to increase the number of parking places available downtown, both by preventing all-day parking in choice close-in parking areas, and by providing new parking lots as close as possible to the downtown shopping area.

Then the city would have both parking and traffic safety — cake and a chance to eat it too.

When money loafs

Leviston Tribune

Gold earns no interest or dividends. It builds no homes, no factories, creates no jobs and makes no constructive contribution to the growth and strength of our local economy.

George S. Eccles
President
First First Security Corp.

The great evils, led by Idaho Sen. James McClure and others, to give Americans their providential right to own gold, has been won. It has also become one of the biggest economic jokes of recent years.

McClure and others asserted for some time that every American should be able to exercise a basic right to own gold. And that is true. It is a foolish investment for all but a few high rolling speculators who know what they are doing. But the American right to be foolish is well established in other endeavors so there is no rationale for banning gold ownership as long as that ownership does not do appreciable harm to others. Those who own gold mostly harm themselves, blowing the chance of a strong return on their money and taking risks they cannot afford. Gold ownership does so harm in that it denies the economy funds that could be put to work in building homes or in other more constructive enterprises. But the good sense of the American people is so widespread that gold buying will drain only imperceptible amounts of working capital out of the economy.

Foolish rights are also the American way, and McClure and his colleagues have now won for fools one of their most coveted rights. Let gold ownership have always appeared related to flimsy misers, deeply suspicious of their government and their economy, the kind of people who hide pocket change in mattresses or in tin cans, in the backseat. They are people who refuse the American economy toppling into ruins at the hands of a printing press Treasury.

While others walk the streets, in bag in hand, the gold buyers will be cowering behind the locked and bolted doors of their counting rooms cursing the yellow lumps of metal before them. They are the kind of people who used to worry about what caliber of rifle to use during an enemy attack to shoot neighbors who had foolishly failed to build their own atomic fallout shelters.

Most Americans are shunning the opportunity to buy gold. They will protect their economy and themselves by putting their talents to work to improve their country, the faith and spirit to keep the will to move their own door.

It does seem to be a violation of individual rights to say that a citizen cannot own gold. So McClure and his fellow loafers in the cause of economic paranoia have served their constituency well. They have given the terminally suspicious the legal right to clutch their gold security blankets to their ears and to proceed, without fear of prosecution, to sack their freshly plucked chickens.

CIA crisis traced to 1968 order from LBJ

WASHINGTON — The crisis of the Central Intelligence Agency can be traced back to a secret, politically inspired command from President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1968.

Johnson's order to CIA stemmed from his political fear of anti-Vietnam dissidents, eroding his presidency and endangering his Vietnam policy. He wanted CIA to establish a link between the Soviet KGB and other Communist intelligence apparatus and violent anti-war activity in the U.S. No link was established, but the CIA's legal counterintelligence operations overlapped into internal security.

Now that this overlap has been revealed, the CIA's ability to fulfill vitally necessary functions in a dangerous world is deeply compromised. But in his zealous pursuit of the elusive foreign link, CIA's counterintelligence, counterespionage chief, James Angleton, went to extremes. Known American anti-war agitators, including the Weathermen, were placed under surveillance during contacts with leftist student leaders in Europe and then kept under CIA surveillance when they returned to the U.S. This surveillance created a huge file of names which was stored in secret CIA vaults in Langley, Va.

Much of this stemmed from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover's bitter feud with CIA, choking communications between the agencies. CIA specialists say there was often "no connection" to turn domestic surveillance over to the FBI once an anti-war activist returned to the U.S. A full briefing on the "worst case" examples of this illegal CIA activity was given more than a year ago to Congressional watchdogs by William Colby, then newly appointed CIA director. Since these abuses had occurred years before, no public airing was demanded.

Now, damage to CIA's credibility and efficiency in the wake of the New York Times expose is in full bloom, abetted by the ouster of Angleton and the sympathic resignations of his high command: Raytheon, William Hood and N. Scott Miller.

Angleton's suspicious, conspiratorial nature had brought him into high-level disfavor long ago. Yet, that aspect of his personality was essential to his invaluable connections with such men as Henry Kissinger, the French De Gaulle, the Israeli Golda Meir, and the French Duvalier. Bureau and, most intimately, the Israeli intelligence service.

Such ties tend to be shrugged off today as relics of another world. But intelligence experts here say dismantling the top echelons of Angleton's operations alone will prove priceless to the Soviet KGB and immensely costly to the U.S.

That, however, is but the first cost of CIA's tragic errors of the late 1960's. CIA's scandal, following a blackened eye from its Chilean operations, now threatens to close off not only foreign intelligence sources but routine information from traveling American citizens — invaluable the past 20 years.

In addition, morale at CIA today is at quack levels with recruitment endangered. Worst of all, CIA's credibility as a tight ship is vitally every aspect of its work — has been grievously undermined.

The first results of this will show up early in the new Congress. Errors that have tainted in the past to cut down CIA may now succeed. To a generation which never knew the cold war that will be welcome. In truth, it may cost this country dearly in the grim world of 1975.

Air rivalry defused

New York Times Service

NRC — The major step in the improvement of Franco-American relationships has been the defusing of rivalry for new French jet fighters between the United States and France.

Although the subject was discussed by Presidents Ford and Giscard d'Estaing during their Martique meeting they did not settle it by any joint accord. What they did was to agree that in any NATO country where either nation gained the contract for its own plane, the winner would do everything possible to help the loser in satisfactory "lessor" contracts. Moreover, each pledged that licensed manufacture in the purchasing state would, if possible, be arranged in order to avoid local unemployment.

Both leaders recognized it would be impossible to partition the market because each buyer's defense ministry must decide where to spend its money. The leading American entries are the YF-16 and YF-17, the French competitor is the new model Mirage F-1 (M-53). M-53 designates a new, more powerful engine flight tested for the first time Dec. 22.

But the appearances of "smoke" and "jealousy" preceding the bilateral summit have seemingly vanished. The United States had already made available to the French aircraft firm SNECMA all technical information on the new "ten ton" General Electric engine.

In exchange there appears to be French willingness to ask the European community to apply import taxes technically on the Common-Market basis to civilian aircraft purchased abroad (primarily the USA).

There had been speculation as to whether Paris and Washington might try to share world markets. This would allow NATO countries, with their common market, to establish a common market to favor American jets while France moved into non-NATO areas such as the Middle East.

Evans and Novak

Under recent commercial deals, France has sold many arms to Arab states. Moreover, under a new policy Paris feels free to make these available to all countries. Previously it had followed an embargo imposed by General De Gaulle on all participants in the Arab-Israeli war — Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Israel.

This concept was violated when Syria bought French Mirage and ignoring its accord with Paris allowed them to be used by Egypt in the 1974 war with Israel.

C. SULZBERGER

The government of Giscard d'Estaing has developed a new philosophy on the Middle Eastern arms trade. It prefers to de-emphasize weapons exports, and to underscore non-military manufactures in trade with the area.

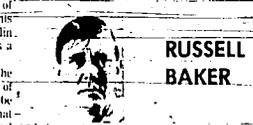

To balance this approach, it would like to develop armaments markets in West Europe.

This, last month, Premier Giscard's "thrust" on a visit to Iran, signed several cooperation agreements. Under these France would build a subway in Teheran, install a color television network, construct a steel plant, an automobile factory and 200,000 housing units. No weapons contracts have been announced.

The Giscard theory is that the Western countries use their weapons only for deterring war or potential defense if ever it should come. The Middle Eastern countries, as they have shown by four Arab-Israeli conflicts, plus those between Iran and Arab states, use arms for war itself.

One of these, dangerous rebs.

Once Chaplin was suspected of wrongdoing, his variegated, boylike, wax, exhumed, fondling strength to the suspicion of impiety, and then he fought with the tax people and left the country, further inflaming the minds of taxpayers.

Chaplin honor sign better here again

(C) New York Times Service
The knighting of Charlie Chaplin should comfort the optimists among us, and subdue Cassandra's who hold that the United States is on the downhill slope.

A generation ago a knighthood for Chaplin would have been widely viewed as an act of ingratiation toward the "entirely foreign" British majesty's government, for Chaplin was widely regarded in that barbaric age as a menace to the United States.

The reasons for this were never clear, but of suspicion sprung from what would now be considered as collateral fact. It was rumored that Chaplin privately held unorthodox political opinions; that he was sympathetic to socialist heathery and ineffectually awed by the evil of Stalin.

One did not know these things for sure, but the rumor of such knowledge was in the air, and where there was smoke there were bound to be bluebeard wife murderer, left the critics too nervous to laugh.

Nervousness was the chronic ailment of the press at that time. Sen. Joseph McCarthy also left it too nervous to laugh.

Although McCarthy was a scoundrel, a mousetrap, a fraud and, in his final period, frequently inebriated in whiskey, the press found it safer to laugh.

Chaplin, who had always laughed, became a threat. In 1953 the Justice Department announced he would have to satisfy the immigration people that he was not a dangerous or unwholesome character before he could be readmitted to the United States.

I retrace this bleak history at length for the benefit of youth who may doubt that the country could have sunk to such an abyss so recently, but principally to suggest to their depressed elders that in some ways the present age is preferable to what we have known.

That is laughable stuff in a period now separately portrayed by the aging as a golden era of American power, when the dollar was still an iron man and America the colossus of the universe. What gold is there in being a colossus that trembles before a tiny mouse of laughter?

Some loss of American power and wealth has obviously occurred; but how many of us would trade the small wisdom we have gained for the know-nothing idiocies which accompanied the supposedly golden power age of Truman and Eisenhower?

Many people, doubtless, for many people would still regard Chaplin as unwholesome for making the world laugh at politeness and rich people and at the routine brutalities of organized society, which are man's daily fare. For those who believe laughter at the expense of order is dangerous, so be it.

Most of us, however, frankly accept Chaplin with gratitude for teaching us to laugh at the hopelessness of everything, thereby becoming indomitable with ridiculous hope.

Nationalization looms within decade

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's railroads, on the eve of what should be their finest hour since the traffic crush of World War II, instead may slide "into some form of government nationalization during this decade."

On the surface, most of the outward signs appear to point toward a rail comeback. Rail traffic has held steady despite the recession; revenues are up; coal traffic, most of which moves by rail, is skyrocketing; rail employment is growing after decades of decline.

1973 are expected to cost $27,000 in 1975. The cost of cross ties rose 45 per cent last year, rail 42 per cent, and car wheels 62 per cent. The latest round of steel price increases will hit railroads hard.

Railroads are not alone in their inflation problems. Airlines have been particularly hard hit by fuel cost increases.

But unlike railroads — the government is at-titude toward airlines is not so benevolent. In-

Storm warnings also abound for Amtrak, however, as losses mount and present management makes cost-saving cuts in the very services which convinced many people to return to the rails. It appears obvious that Congress must soon decide whether to continue subsidizing Amtrak losses as a "for-profit" corporation or to fully nationalize passenger-trains and end the pretense that they may some day be profitable.

Freight railroads are managing to maintain about an overall 4 per cent return on investment despite inflation, largely through rate increases, but railroad association president Stephen Atlas says this won't be enough.

Analysis

The same Congress which squabbled over loans to Lockheed and which refused subsidies to Pan American World Airways appears ready to offer financial help and regulatory relief to railroads.

various actions throughout 1974, Congress and the administration have told airlines to forget about any direct financial help, even if individual airlines face shutdown.

Instead of allowing passenger-trains to die, Congress established a semi-government corporation — Amtrak — to try to make the trains worth riding again, and instead of allowing the bankrupt Penn Central to be sold for scrap, Congress established a government agency to reorganize all the bankrupt northeastern railroads on a private enterprise basis.

Pan Am, for instance, had a November net loss of $15.7 million, pushing its 11-month loss to $60.9 million. Yet Congress refused to pass legislation increasing international air-mail rates and the administration opposes any Pan Am subsidy.

As the most energy-efficient and least polluting form of transportation, railroads — either in private hands or government hands — are assured a future in this country.

Part of this anti-airline attitude apparently is caused by dissatisfaction with the Civil Aeronautics Board coupled with the fact that most domestic airlines were reporting record profits at the same time they were receiving huge fare increases.

With all these factors in their favor, why, then, is railroading in trouble, with most of northeastern lines in bankruptcy, rail maintenance deteriorating, rail reliability still low, and railroads crying for rate increase after rate increase?

Air fare increases — 15 per cent in slightly more than a year — have chased many passengers back to the train and bus, and have angered many passengers and officials. These factors, coupled with the general economic downturn, have pushed the volume of air travel below the same period last year.

The most recent major reason — a reason which may send the railroads into nationalization or semi-nationalization — is inflation.

Air fare increases — 15 per cent in slightly more than a year — have chased many passengers back to the train and bus, and have angered many passengers and officials. These factors, coupled with the general economic downturn, have pushed the volume of air travel below the same period last year.

According to the Association of American Railroads, fuel costs alone soared 106 per cent during 1974. Freight cars, which cost $18,000 in "This still is far from the 10 per cent needed to enable the railroads to keep pace with spiraling costs and establish an adequate financial base," Atlas said.

Inflation, of course, is not the only railroad problem — poor management still plagues the industry except on a few well-run lines, and governmental regulation of the industry is a classic example of the worst in bureaucracy.

Railroads still face problems with poor reliability and slowness. Many items move by truck or barge today for no other reason than that railroads not only may take a month to deliver a car but often may not even be able to promise which month it might get there. Some major terminals such as Chicago are often burying grounds for rail shipments.

These problems are costing railroads millions and the situation shows no signs of improvement.

Officials outbluff hijacker

LONDON (UPI) — "He's becoming irrational," the pilot said over the radio. "He's obviously mentally deranged but he knows what he wants to do."

The worried message came through a hijacker's radio. The hijacking in which airline officials outbluffed a hijacker who seized a British jetliner with a toy pistol and a dummy grenade.

"The airline paid the airfare $25,000 in ransom and promised to fly him to France. Instead, the pilot landed at a small airport outside London and the hijacker wound up in the hands of Scotland Yard."

The drama began when the hijacker, dressed in an Arab headscarf, seized a stewardess and took control of the British Airways BA011 jet during a 30-minute flight from Manchester to London.

"He let all 46 passengers leave the plane landed at London's Heathrow Airport, but kept the five crew members hostage and demanded $250,000 in ransom."

Authorities stalled for eight hours but finally handed over the ransom when the hijacker grew increasingly nervous. The man, wearing sunglasses, then ordered the pilot to fly to Beauvais, a town outside Paris.

The hijacker stayed in the rear of the cabin, keeping a gun trained on stewardess Barbara Brindley. It gave the pilot a chance to talk privately over the cockpit radio with the Heathrow control tower.

"He's becoming irrational," Capt. Harry Lea, the pilot, told the tower. "He's obviously mentally deranged but he knows what he wants to do."

Lea said the man had "a pistol in one hand and a canister clutched to his chest in the other." At one point, the hijacker ordered the crew of the plane so he could blow it up.

but then changed his mind. Roy Watts, chief executive of the airline, went to the tower and suggested that Lea fly the plane to Stansted Airport, a little-used field outside London.

"I don't think they're going to fool him that easily," Lea said, but complied with the suggestion.

Newsmen in the tower overheard the conversation, allowing Britons glued to their radios to keep posted on each development in the drama.

The French government issued orders barring the plane from its territory and said the aircraft would be forced down by warplanes if it entered France's airspace.

"Police said the hijacker realized he wasn't in France just before the plane landed at Stansted. He demanded a fast car to take him from the airport to Dover, a major passenger ferry port for France.

A policeman tackled him instead.

Workers strike defying leaders

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (UPI) — An estimated 6,000 Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union members defied their national leaders and struck Gulf and Texaco oil refineries at one minute past midnight today, setting up picket lines and shutting down the sprawling facilities.

"We are going on the old contract philosophy of no contract, no work," said Floyd Forse, chairman of the Texaco main plant group, OCAW Local #23. "We are in the process of shutting down the units at Gulf and Texaco. We have a federal court order requiring the Texaco main plant to give a safe and orderly shutdown."

The walkout came despite announcement by OCAW President A.F. Grospiro in Denver that negotiations with the petroleum industry would continue today. Contracts expired at midnight Tuesday, but the union instructed its 60,000 members at oil refineries across the nation to remain on their jobs.

Thief gets big surprise

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — The little boy was holding his $18,000 tightly, watching his father play a slot machine, when someone grabbed the child's money and ran away.

"That man took my money," yelled Howard Tippet, 4, as the man jumped into a car and drove away.

The boy was disappointed, but the thief undoubtedly was more so. The $18,000 was all play money.

General 'improved'

PALM DESERT, Calif. (UPI) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland, former commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, was released from the coronary care unit Tuesday and was reported "resting very comfortably" today at Eisenhower Medical Center after suffering a mild heart attack last week.

A hospital spokesman said the four-star general's condition "remains stable and he is resting very comfortably at this time."

He was moved out of the hospital's coronary care unit Tuesday due to his improved condition, the spokesman said, and is now in a private room where he is expected to remain for several more days.

Westmoreland was stricken last Friday night at the Palm Springs, Calif., home of comedian Bob Hope.

Sanity questioned

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Muharem Kurbegovic, the alleged alphas member, is a raving maniac, a psychiatrist told a sanity trial Tuesday.

"Dr. John P. Walters testified that Kurbegovic is mentally incapable of understanding the charges against him or aiding in his defense."

The sanity trial is to determine whether Kurbegovic is mentally competent to stand trial on three murder charges and other counts. He allegedly planted the bomb that killed three persons and injured 45 at Los Angeles International Airport last year, the deadliest civil airport bombing in U.S. history.

FTC says Ford ads false

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission today accused Ford Motor Co. of making false fuel economy claims for its cars during the peak of last year's energy crisis.

The FTC said the country's second biggest auto-maker, when it ran the ads, had no proof that the average driver could expect anything like the performance the ads mentioned.

The ads, based on a long distance run from Phoenix, Ariz., to Los Angeles, as well as a settlement in a third advertising case involving General Motors, the Chrysler case is still pending also.

Ford chose to fight the complaint, saying at the time it was proposed that the ads were in no way deceptive. It claimed that the ads clearly stated the ordinary driver might not do as well with his car on driving habits, adding that it was "guaranteed by the confused rationale of the agency's action."

Negotiations between the company and the FTC since July failed to produce a settlement, prompting the agency to make the complaint formal involved got at least 26 miles to the gallon.

The Ford complaint is part of a larger FTC case which agency officials have described as "a comprehensive effort to insure that consumer anxieties about the energy situation are not exploited by advertising which is false, misleading or unsubstantiated."

The complaint was originally proposed last July, along with a similar one against Chrysler as well as a settlement in a third advertising case involving General Motors, the Chrysler case is still pending also.

Ford chose to fight the complaint, saying at the time it was proposed that the ads were in no way deceptive. It claimed that the ads clearly stated the ordinary driver might not do as well with his car on driving habits, adding that it was "guaranteed by the confused rationale of the agency's action."

Negotiations between the company and the FTC since July failed to produce a settlement, prompting the agency to make the complaint formal today and turn the case over to an administrative law judge for a hearing.

One of the ads said that in the long distance run the Mercury Comet averaged 28.1 miles per gallon, the Ford Maverick 26.7, the Ford Pinto 28.1, the Ford Mustang II 28.9 and the Mercury Capri 29.4.

The complaint says the company is guilty of deceptive and unfair advertising because the ads did not reflect ordinary driving conditions and had "the capacity and tendency to mislead members of the consuming public into the purchase of a substantial quantity of automobiles manufactured" by Ford.

Union continues to negotiate

DENVER (UPI) — The Denver-based Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union said today the union will continue to negotiate in hopes of averting a nationwide strike that could cause oil shortages in many parts of the country.

The union instructed its 60,000 members working in oil refineries to return to their jobs without a contract, and announced it would resume negotiations with the petroleum industry today.

The union's 400 local contracts with major and independent oil companies across the nation expired at midnight Tuesday.

"There are indications that the companies still have not made their best offer," OCAW President A.F. Grospiro said. "We're going to continue to negotiate in order to avert a strike if all possible."

"We will await further response from the oil companies," he said.

Grospiro, who has the power to call OCAW members off their jobs, had said earlier that he could give a 100 percent guarantee that there will be a strike, but I won't make that determination until I think it's necessary."

OCAW began negotiations with the oil industry seeking a $1.50 an hour wage increase in each year of a new three-year contract but reduced its demands to $1.20 an hour over the same period during talks Monday.

The union said companies might need time to "react to our headline proposals."

A strike by OCAW workers at refineries across the nation would cut production by 30 to 40 percent and would lead to isolated gasoline shortages in many parts of the country.

Grospiro said offers received from Continental Oil Company of Houston and other major companies were rejected unanimously by his National Oil Bargaining Policy Committee as inferior.

"We consider those offers to be extremely inferior," he said.

"The OCAW ordered its last general strike in 1963. In 1973, the union pulled 4,000 members out of strike against Shell Oil

Police arrest top IRA leader

DUBLIN (UPI) — Police raided a small home near Dublin today and captured a top Irish Republican Army leader accused of masterminding the pre-Christmas bombing, bite in Belfast. The IRA said the arrest endangered the fragile Northern Ireland ceasefire.

Police said Kevin Mallon, 37, second in command of the outlawed IRA, was arrested in a private home in the fashionable suburb of Foxrock on the southern edge of Dublin.

Mallon, the most wanted man in all of Northern Ireland, Britain and Ireland, offered no resistance.

Sean O'Hirady, the leader of the political wing of the IRA, said "the action endangers the present fragile peace."

The arrest of Kevin Mallon is further evidence of the Dublin government's "hard" faith in relation to the truce."

He was taken away under heavy guard immediately. Mallon, a reported munitions expert for the IRA, has been jailed previously for membership in the IRA. Both times he escaped.

In his most dramatic prison break, Mallon was plucked from Dublin's Mountjoy prison in 1973 by a helicopter that landed inside the prison walls. A year later he blasted his way out of Portlaoine jail.

Little US aid available for Saigon now

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There isn't much President Ford can do to help South Vietnam.

Top officials admitted today that they lack the diplomatic leverage in Peking and elsewhere which might have some effect in persuading the Hanoi government to stop military attacks and abide by the terms of the January, 1973 peace agreement.

They said the administration lacks the political clout at home to get Congress to restore the economic and military aid it slashed from the authorization for South Vietnam.

Congress has prohibited any U.S. military activity in South Vietnam, including air attacks from the 7th Fleet or bases in Thailand. Even without that, the consensus is that Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger would definitely not want to get involved militarily again.

Ford was expected to discuss the situation again with his top aides, as he did Tuesday. So far, the administration has done nothing beyond issuing statements. It condemned the Communist military takeover of a district headquarters in Thong Long Province and the city of Thang Binh, and it charged Hanoi with "grave violation" of the Paris peace agreement.

In view of the restrictions against increasing assistance to the Saigon government, administration officials said, the best way to help out might be to increase the replacement of military equipment by advancing the delivery dates of some tanks and other weapons.

Officials said the job of trying to keep the South Vietnamese government going is compounded by the fact that the American public generally opposes the war in Southeast Asia after American prisoners were released. Now, worried over the effects of the energy crisis, the possibility of war in the Middle East and growing unemployment and inflation at home, most Americans are not inclined to look with sympathy on any new effort to save the Saigon government.

Officials here do not entirely agree what Hanoi seeks to accomplish by the peace offensive, which has been concentrated in the area 100 miles northeast of Saigon. It follows Communist attacks last month farther south in the Delta Region.

However, they discount any idea that Hanoi is attempting to gain more territory. Instead, most officials believe Hanoi attacks by "Vietnamese forces are designed to 'bleed' the Saigon government by gradually destroying its equipment and by destroying the morale of government supporters.

The ultimate Communist goal is believed to be the collapse of the Saigon government or, at the very least, forcing it to enter into a coalition with the Communists.

Administration officials assert that the U.S. military aid program for Saigon for the current fiscal year, which is $200 million, is far below what is needed. It is 25 per cent lower than last year's military aid figure. On top of this, inflation has reduced its effectiveness by about another 25 per cent, according to officials.

economic aid for South Vietnam, but there was no appropriation, and the country is receiving assistance under the general "continuing resolution," permitting the entire aid program to move ahead at about last year's rate pending final action by the legislators in a couple of months.

Officials say any attempt to persuade Hanoi to cease its violations — by reconvening the parties to the Paris agreement, for example — would be pointless. Hanoi has never admitted by the rules of the International Control Commission created to supervise the agreement, the officials say, and there's no reason to believe they would do so now.

Ford asks Rocky to tap 'talent bank' for aides

WASHINGTON — President Ford has asked Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller as one of his first major tasks to tap his personal nationwide "talent bank" and come up with suggestions for the replacement of Nixon administration hollers in the cabinet.

The lack of top-level personnel, rather than Ford's oft-expressed desire to move cautiously, has been the major reason so many Nixon appointees remain as heads of departments, despite official denials from the White House.

"The President is going to rely on Nelson Rockefeller for a good share to come up with some competent people," a highly placed source said on condition he not be identified. "The only thing we hope is that the vice president doesn't come up with another Edward Levi."

"No wonder senators like John Tower and Roman Hruska can scream about 14 million Republicans sweeping the streets and the President nominates a Democrat to be attorney general."

Dr. Edward Levi, president of the University of Chicago and the longtime dean of its law school, has been selected by Ford to succeed William B. Saxbe as attorney general. Levi is a new deal Democrat who was "recruited" by Rockefeller or his agents.

A series of unofficial interviews shows that many of the men and women Ford would appoint have indicated they are not available for public employment at this time. Some say they cannot afford the $60,000 salary; others say privately they are reluctant to enter the administration at this time.

Melvin R. Laird, longtime friend and adviser to Ford and himself a former secretary of defense, bemoaned this situation at a recent breakfast meeting with newsmen. Laird indicated that several big-name personalities had turned down White House offers.

"But Ronald Nessen, White House press secretary," says, "a time-table just had to be set because of the clearance process," and added he was "no difficulty in attracting personnel."

"They are just plain having trouble finding qualified people down there," a leading Republican in Congress said. "They were in a situation where one night he was Jerry Ford and the next morning he was the President of the United States, and they didn't know what kind of hiring and firing power they really did have."

Talks planned

NICOSIA (UPI) — Leaders of the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities will open talks on the problems of Cyprus Jan. 14, the two sides announced today.

The announcement of the talks came in a joint statement following two hours of discussion between Greek Cypriot leader Glafcos Clerides and Turkish Cypriot leader Rauf Denktaş.

Greek ethnics on Cyprus hold a 41 majority over residents of Turkish background, but Turkish troops seized more than a third of the Mediterranean island during last summer's war.

Navy wins nod for oil push

CHICAGO — The Ford administration, in an abrupt shift in strategy, has decided that the Navy — and not the Interior Department as first proposed — should develop the reserves that all reserves in California and Alaska.

President Ford is expected to disclose this new energy plan in his State of the Union message this month, administration sources said Tuesday.

The President, nagged by the threat of another Arab oil embargo, wants to produce oil from the Elk Hills Naval Reserve near Bakersfield, Calif., primarily to create a strategic "stockpile" for future emergencies, the sources said.

Ford also hopes to speed up exploration and development of the Navy's vast reserve on the North Slope of Alaska, estimated to contain 80 billion barrels of oil — only 6 billion fewer than all the recoverable oil in the United States.

In an attempt to win over Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., the powerful chairman of the House Armed Services committee, the administration abandoned the controversial plan to turn the naval reserves over to Interior. In the past, Hebert has thwarted every proposal to pump the Navy's oil. He has always argued that it should be saved for national defense.

It was reported that Hebert and Ford had come to a private "understanding" on the Navy's developing Elk Hills and Naval Petroleum Reserve No. 4 in Alaska, but Hebert vehemently denied any such accord.

Woman pick as chairman for NLRB

WASHINGTON — President Ford has selected a woman to be chairman of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB).

She is Betty Southard Murphy, 46, who is now wage-hour administrator of the Department of Labor.

Mrs. Murphy would be the first woman to head the NLRB in its 40-year history. If she is confirmed by the Senate, no opposition to her appointment is expected.

A native of Columbus, Ohio, she went to Ohio State University and received her law degree from American University. She specialized in labor law during 14 years of private practice with a Washington firm.

Mrs. Murphy is married and has two children: Ann, 7, and Cornelius (Nell), 4.

She would replace Edward Miller, a Chicago lawyer whose term expired last month.

Idaho consumer group to challenge IP plan

BY DAVID BOCKMAN
Times-News Writer

BOISE — Idaho Power Co.'s plan to build a coal-fired generator near Boise will be formally challenged by an Idaho consumer group.

Earlier this week the Idaho Citizens Coalition filed a petition of intervention with the Idaho Public Utilities Commission (PUC).

The company is seeking permission from the PUC to construct the 1000-megawatt "Pioneer" coal-fired steam plant near Boise.

The Coalition's petition asks the PUC to deny the company's request.

Alfred Fothergill, Boise, a Coalition spokesman, said Idaho Power has failed to demonstrate the need to build the plant.

Fothergill said, "there's been a great lack of candor on the part of the Idaho Power Co. in their application for the power plant."

Specifically, Fothergill said, "the potential harmful health effects of the plant have not been fully made available to the public; there's been great confusion about how much this plant is going to cost the public, and finally, alternatives to the plant's construction have not been fully explored."

According to Fothergill, although the plant is being built to serve Idaho's industrial customers, the cost of building Pioneer will be borne by the company's existing customers.

"If Idaho Power is granted authority to build the new power plant, residential customers will pay much higher electric bills in the future," he predicted.

Fothergill says the IPUC should not grant permission to the company to build the plant until the company had demonstrated that all possible steps have been taken to encourage the conservation of energy.

"If the current rate structure is maintained, the small residential customer will end up buying a new electric plant that will be used mostly by the big users of electricity," Fothergill claims.

According to Fothergill, the company is instituting a flat rate structure within each customer class, the big user would pay just as much for electricity as the small user.

This would encourage conservation of electricity, he said, "possibly negating the need for a new power plant."

According to Fothergill, several studies have shown that the demand for power is in part a function of the cost of electricity.

"Essentially," Fothergill says, "the power company is trying to create the demand for the new power plant through pricing incentives and an active marketing campaign."

Flattened rates would be one way of discouraging unwanted growth, he said. "Even if later on a new power plant is required, Idaho Power customers should have the satisfaction of knowing that big electrical customers are paying for the construction of new facilities," he stated.

According to Fothergill, most of the Idaho Coalition membership is in southern Idaho, and therefore in the power company's service area. He said the organization was formed to "promote the wise use of Idaho's resources and to maximize citizen control over those resources."

The Idaho Coalition represented residential users in an Idaho Power rate case brought before the public utilities commission last year.

Operations canceled

TWIN FALLS — Four persons with operations scheduled for Wednesday had them canceled because of an over capacity of patients at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Public relations director Mary Goe said the operations were canceled because the hospital was over occupied in medical and surgical beds.

Treatment rooms were in use Tuesday afternoon as patient rooms, she added.

The patients were scheduled for elective — or non-emergency — surgery, according to Mrs. Goe.

The operations will be rescheduled as soon as possible, Mrs. Goe said.

Railroad action sought

SHOSHONE (UPI) — City councilmen decided Tuesday night to try to persuade rather than force trains going through Shoshone to hold their speed down to 25 miles per hour.

Mayor Elwood Werry, the police chief and more than 350 persons who signed petitions asked the council to amend the city ordinance to restrict the speed to 25 mph.

Werry asked the council to limit the speed until adequate safety devices could be installed in the town's three mainline railroad crossings.

But council members voiced fear that the railroad might retaliate against the city by blocking the crossings with trains.

Although the council was wary of the railroad's delay in securing the protective devices for the crossings it refused to amend the ordinance. It voted instead to write a letter to the railroad threatening the imposition of a 25 mph speed limit unless the railroad demonstrates immediate action to protect the crossings.

No time seen for jury duty

TWIN FALLS — Some people are just too busy to take time for jury duty.

County commissioners in Twin Falls pointed this out when a woman whose name was drawn as a prospective juror outlined her daily activities.

The letter, sent to the county clerk's office with the juror questionnaire, said, "Jury service, Sir, I was so shocked when I received your letter of qualification form, I wept, almost ran a red light and almost had a car wreck."

She informed the county she had no time for another duty of any kind.

The woman, who said she is 64 years of age, has a full-time job — and also attends special classes in connection with her work. She informed the county she lives alone on an acreage, must take care of her home and land by herself.

In addition, she said, people dump their unwanted animals in her area and she has three dogs and three cats to feed and "clean up after."

County officials say it is every citizen's legal responsibility to serve on a jury if called.

"I eat TV dinners because I don't have time to cook. I have no time for social life. It's run, run all the time," she informed the county.

Juror names are selected at random from utility billing lists, drivers license lists and city and telephone directories. The individual who receives a questionnaire has about a one to three chance of being a juror and all excuses, medical or otherwise are ruled on by the district judge when the jury is selected.

County officials say it is every citizen's legal responsibility to serve on a jury if called.

Geothermal drilling project continues at Raft River

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — Drilling for a geothermal reservoir in the Raft River area is expected to continue until a suitable reservoir is drilled to a depth of 8,000 feet is reached.

The Idaho Operations Office of the Atomic Energy Commission, which is conducting the operation through the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory, said drilling started Jan. 3 and will continue around the clock for about 55 days. The anticipated drilling rate will be about 165 feet per day.

The first stage of the program involves drilling a 26-inch hole to 900 feet and setting a 20-inch casing. From the 900-foot level to the maximum depth will be a 12 1/2-inch hole with 9 1/2-inch casing.

The purpose of the program is to develop techniques for locating and determining the energy potential of geothermal reservoirs, to study the environmental and related implications or exploration for and use of geothermal reservoirs, and to develop the engineering techniques necessary to efficiently produce electrical power from geothermal water in the temperature range of 300 degrees Fahrenheit.

The State of Idaho, the Raft River Electric Cooperative and the AEC are negotiating an agreement of cooperation for sharing cost and technical data from the drilling program.

The Raft River project is one of three geothermal programs being conducted at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory.

Other programs involve developing new techniques for withdrawing energy from geothermal water.

Proposals concerning the national park, 95 per cent wilderness in the Sawtooth National Recreation Area will be discussed.

NOTICE TO TELEPHONE CUSTOMERS

Faced with the same inflationary problems as you...

We are requesting changes in interstate Long Distance rates

- Most calls will be higher.
- Some calls will be cheaper.
- But all customers can save.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has filed a new rate schedule with the Federal Communications Commission which will increase charges for most out-of-state Long Distance calls.

A new, lower minimum price and uniform discounts of 35 and 60 per cent will also be introduced for many dial-direct calls, placed without an operator.

About 30 per cent of all interstate Long Distance calls will cost customers less. About 70 per cent will cost more. The new rates, which must be fully justified to the FCC, are intended to produce an increase in interstate revenues of 7.2 per cent.

The new rates are filed to become effective on March 4, 1975.

Here are the specific provisions in the new rates:

- On dial-direct calls (those dialed without an operator) the initial rate period any time of the day or night will now be one minute, rather than three minutes. Since more than one third of all interstate Long Distance dial-direct calls are now two minutes or less, this will represent a significant saving for many telephone customers.
- The number of rate periods will be reduced from four to three. "Weekday" rates will apply from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. "Evening" rates will apply from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. Sunday through Friday. "Night & Weekend" rates will apply from 11 p.m. to 8 a.m. every night, all day and night Saturday, and all day and night Sunday, except 5 to 11 p.m.
- The new rates feature a uniform 35 per cent discount during the "Evening" time period on the first minute and each additional minute for calls dialed direct without an operator. There will be a uniform 60 per cent discount during the "Night & Weekend" time period on the first minute and each additional minute for calls dialed direct without an operator. (See rate box at right.)
- The initial period for all calls placed with an operator will remain at three minutes. The initial period charge for these calls will be the same 24 hours a day, seven days a week. (Calls placed with an operator include person-to-person, credit card, collect, coin, hotel-guest, or calls billed to a third number.)
- All additional minutes will be charged at the same low dial-direct rate, and will include the discount applicable to the time period when you call. This means that the higher initial rate for operator-assisted station-to-station and person-to-person calls will apply only to the first three minutes of these calls.
- Charges for certain Private Line services and Wide Area Telecommunications Service will be increased.
- Charges on most Long Distance calls to Canada and Mexico will be increased, effective March 28, 1975.

Despite a steady increase in the cost of living over the past two decades, this is only the second request for a general interstate rate increase by AT&T in the last 21 years. During that same period interstate Long Distance rates have been reduced nine times. Even with the proposed increases, many Long Distance calls will cost less than they did in 1953. In the same period, the Consumer Price Index has risen 91.3 per cent.

These rate increases are the result of the enormous inflationary pressures that are besetting the economy.

Last August, the Bell System signed an employee wage settlement amounting to well over $3 billion during the next three years. The level of construction expenditures that provides the plant and equipment required for good quality service to the consumer has also risen significantly, reaching $10 billion in 1974. And there has been a dramatic upsurge in the cost of capital that must be attracted in order to finance this construction program.

Although there will be an increase in total revenues, the proposed rates have been designed so telephone customers can take advantage of discounts by dialing their own calls when Long Distance circuits are less busy. By shifting calls to off-peak hours, Bell System operating expenses and capital expenditures, which have been so heavily influenced by inflation, can be held to an absolute minimum. The savings which result will benefit all Bell System customers.

Scientists confused by pot

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists' "diligent" research on marijuana are just as confused and frustrated about the drug as the people who use it, according to a group of scientists.

In fact, the scientists said after a day-long conference Monday they wished the policymakers would stop relying so heavily on scientific knowledge in making public decisions on marijuana.

"I don't think scientists can tell the public that there is going to be any kind of major damage to their physical health on the basis of an current knowledge," said Dr. Daniel X. Freedman of the University of Chicago, one of four participants in a news conference summarizing the closed scientific meeting on marijuana research.

"The question the public is going to have to decide is whether or not they want to spend the money they spend on eliminating marijuana and whether or not they want to regulate access to its use. If they do, all we can say is we don't yet have some of the studies we could have to help guide them as to what would happen if they had a lot of

One closed-door discussion between two scientists at the meeting concerned the effects of marijuana on testosterone, a male sex hormone, said one participant. Each had reached different conclusions, but they finally agreed to disagree.

Dr. Thomas E. Bryant, whose government Spunk Abuse Council convened the scientific meeting, said it was frustrating because the 19 participants were unable to come up with any "clear cut, black or white answers" about recently publicized deleterious effects of smoking pot.

One closed-door discussion between two scientists at the meeting concerned the effects of marijuana on testosterone, a male sex hormone, said one participant. Each had reached different conclusions, but they finally agreed to disagree.

The day-long discussion, concerned marijuana's effects on genetics, immunology, hormones, central nervous system, and psychiatric disturbances.

The scientist voided discussing the sometimes heated social and political issues of whether to change the marijuana laws, said Dr. Peter G. Bourne, a consultant to the foundation financing the meeting.

"There has been a tendency in the past to relate the decision making process as far as public policy in marijuana is concerned with the medical aspects," Bourne told newsmen.

Irate shopper protests 1 cent tax

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — It was a matter of principle and so the Broward County Consumer Affairs Office saw to it that the irate shopper got her money back — all one penny of it.

"Who are we to say that a complaint is small and unimportant?" said Harry Appel, director of the agency. "There's a lot of principle attached to these complaints."

The complaint was filed by a woman who was charged a "one-cent" tax on a half-dozen doughnuts. She contended that food is not covered under Florida's sales tax laws and took the matter to the consumer office.

Mexican-American inaugurated Monday

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Raul Castro, born in poverty in Mexico, was inaugurated Arizona's 14th governor Monday, saying "I cannot work miracles," but pledging leadership in economic stimulation, consumer and environmental protection, and energy conservation.

Castro, a Democrat and first Mexican-American governor in Arizona history, also committed himself "to the implementation of equal opportunity and respect for the constitutional rights of all people, regardless of sex, race, creed or color." Castro, a Tucson lawyer who has said since his Nov. 5 election that economic problems will be first priority, told the inaugural gathering in the capitol mall "under bright sunshine, that Arizona's immediate problems include a faltering economy, a continuing energy dilemma, and new threats to our environment. There are social problems such as coping with crime and continuing to meet human needs despite our economic problems."

Girls teams planned

TWIN FALLS—Girls who want to play basketball in the Twin Falls School District and City Recreation Department program will have to play in the new girls league.

Chad Browning, city recreation director, said his clinic will be held Saturday for elementary school girls interested in participating on basketball teams this winter. The clinic will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

Browning said this is the first time girls teams have been organized for the elementary school groups. There will be fourth, fifth and sixth grade teams if sufficient girls turn out for the clinic session.

Robert Donnelly, athletic director for the school district, said there has not been sufficient interest among the girls to establish teams until this year, but a number of girls have turned out for basketball indicating a need for girls programs.

Browning said one mother and at least one coach are not too happy about a separate league for the girls. One coach who said he has three girls are moved to their own team. One mother also informed Browning she wants her daughter to play on the boys' team.

Donnelly explained the school and city must operate according to the federal regulations known as Title 9. This requires the schools to provide girls athletic programs the same as those available to boys where there is sufficient interest. Donnelly said otherwise the school is discriminating against the girls.

In the event only a few girls are interested, they may play with boys teams but if a girls program is provided the girls must participate on girls teams and the boys of boys teams he said.

Aliens must report addresses

TWIN FALLS — According to the district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, the annual alien address report program is again underway.

A total of 9,778 aliens reported Montana and Idaho addresses last year and the number this year is expected to be slightly larger.

The address reports are required by law, and willful failure to comply may lead to serious consequences. The forms for making the reports are available at the post offices and immigration and naturalization offices.

Trained personnel will be available in all offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service to answer any questions the reporting alien may have regarding immigration and naturalization matters. These personnel will not be stationed at post offices.

Experts predicted quake

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a major step toward an earthquake forecast system, government geologists formally predicted a moderate-sized California quake of the eve of a Thanksgiving Day tremor.

Dr. Vincent F. McKelvey, director of the U.S. Geological Survey, said the event adds "greatly to our confidence and optimism about reaching the long sought goal of earthquake prediction."

The California earthquake occurred between the San Andreas and Calaveras faults in a ranching area about 10 miles north of Hollister. It had a magnitude of 5.2 on the Richter scale and caused little damage.

This area represents one of the most seismically active regions of the San Andreas fault system and is the site of an extensive array of ground measuring instruments set up by survey scientists as part of their earthquake research program.

Four weeks before the Thanksgiving quake, the instruments detected tilting of the Earth's surface at two locations near the center of the quake. Two weeks earlier, instruments showed there had been a major change in the magnetic field in the area.

At the same time, other devices detected a significant change in the time it takes for seismic waves to travel through the area.

These three phenomena are all considered clues to an imminent quake.

Geologists monitoring the instruments met Nov. 27, the day before Thanksgiving, at the National Center for Earthquake Research at Menlo Park, Calif.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You were much too easy on "Proud Mother" who was proud of the fact that "God" had given her 13 children. (Why blame God alone? Surely she had a husband.)

Proud Mother resented being criticized for the size of her family, saying she didn't ask anyone else to raise or feed them. If she is so proud of 13, perhaps she would be twice as proud with 26. Even if she quit with 13, consider the possibilities (and you will need a calculator) if each of her children multiplies at the same rate. In two generations she will have been responsible for 486 people! This number becomes significant when one considers the amount of food and gasoline they will consume in their lifetimes.

While the good lady has been busy making maximum use of God's gift of procreation, she's ignored God's additional gifts of reason based on accumulated knowledge.

Concern expressed

Overpopulation and the exhausting of un-renewable natural resources is everybody's business.

CONCERNED IN CALIF.

DEAR CONCERNED: You were not the only one who expressed concern over "Proud Mother's" attitude.

Briefly, since the world's resources are limited, we can't continue to provide for a population that daily produces 385,000 new mouths to feed. Obviously, we must either decrease our birthrate or increase our deathrate. The choice is up to us.

DEAR ABBY: My mother, who lives in Utah, came to visit my husband and me for two weeks.

We live in a small apartment with only a double bed in the bedroom and a sofa in the living room.

My husband is 6 ft. 5" and weighs 260, and he couldn't sleep on the sofa. My mother is 72 and has a bad back, so she couldn't sleep on the sofa either.

We didn't want to go to the expense of renting a bed, and we didn't know anyone who could lend us one, so I slept on the sofa and my husband and my mother slept in the double bed. (My mother slept in all her clothes plus my husband's raincoat.)

We have had nothing by criticism from the relatives since this story got around. Do you see anything wrong with this situation?

NEW YORKER

DEAR N.Y.ER: No. What was their beef?

DEAR ABBY: I am a 29-year-old woman with feet as though she has been reborn.

It took me 13 months, but I lost 94 pounds. It has changed my life, Abby. I still consider myself ugly, but at least I'm not fat any more and I can talk to people without feeling ashamed.

Everybody tells me how great I look, except this one person at work. She keeps saying, "You look so sickly and frail. I liked you better the other way. You don't look like yourself; you are TOO thin now." Abby, I burn up like a match when she talks that way. I worked so hard to lose that weight, and for her to put me down just about kills me.

I can't ignore her because we work together and I see her every day.

THIN AND LOVING IT

DEAR THIN: Your co-worker is either incredibly insensitive, or she's not playing with a full deck. (Maybe she's jealous.) Love her out.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

ON A NOTE OF THANKS

By Mary Sue Miller

Thank-you notes for holiday remembrances are on the deadline. To delay writing thank you for a gift can only be judged as unmanly. Appreciation aside, a sender wants to know of her gift's arrival in those days of uncertain deliveries. Practical reasons, like bills, become involved.

Really, a thank-you note is a basic courtesy. What's more, it measures your social abilities. Appropriate writing paper makes a good beginning. Folded note paper or a single sheet in white, cream, gray or blue, will not play a writer false. Brilliant colors in the modern category could be a happy choice, too, as could museum reproductions on folded notes or UNICEF originals.

"May thank-you be typed?" many Lovelies ask. Hand-written notes are preferable. But, when one's handwriting cannot for any reason be deciphered, recipients of it vote for the typewriter.

The wording cues a writer's personality. You come through best when you single out some detail about a gift that especially appeals to you. "Thank you for the gloves" - period - expresses little pleasure and less wit. A more attractive wording might be: "Your gift of gloves looks marvelous with my new coat. It's the handiest ever. I do thank you." The giver is complimented as well as thanked.

The biggest secret of charming thank-yous is that you must enjoy writing them. Your pleasure comes through and gives pleasure.

WINNING MANNERS

APPLESAUCE COOKIES

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 cup dry rolled oats
- 3 eggs
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cups sifted all purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon cloves
- 1 cup applesauce
- 1 cup currants or raisins
- 1 cup chopped walnuts or other nuts

Melt the butter in a skillet. Add the oats, simmer gently until lightly browned. Remove from the stove and cool. Beat the eggs until lemon colored. Add the sugar, gradually, and beat thoroughly. Blend the butter with the egg mixture.

Sift the dry ingredients together and gradually add to the batter alternately with the applesauce. Fold in the fruit and nuts and drop the batter by teaspoonful onto a greased cookie sheet. Bake 10 to 12 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes five to six dozen cookies.

The recipe may be varied by using candied cherries, candied pineapple or any mixed candied fruit.

his last trump. Anything he leads gives you your contract. It turns out that East holds the four trumps, you still cash your ace and king of clubs. Now your best play is to also cash the ace and king of diamonds, then throw a spade.

This will cost you your contract if East started with the unopposed queen of diamonds, but since East is long in spades he's likely to be short in diamonds.

So you cash your high diamonds, then cash your ace and king of clubs, since East has to put you in dummy with a club or heart.

We are indebted to Paul Lukacs and Bridge World magazine for today's hand. If you can keep your eyes off the East-West cards, try to plan your play at six spades.

Your first thought: Win the heart-lead with dummy's ace and try an immediate first-round diamond finesse. If it wins you are home, provided trumps don't break 5-0, but you can't handle five trumps in one hand with any line of play.

If it loses and trumps break 4-1 or a diamond is led right back and ruffed you're going down.

A second thought may be better: Ruff the heart and start trumps. If West holds four trumps, cash your ace and king of clubs and throw him in with

Hearing response favorable

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has announced it has received favorable response from the public for participation in hearings Jan. 13-14 on the Idaho Power Co. application to build a coal-fired steam generating power plant near Boise.

The hearings start at 7 p.m. in the Rodway Inn, Boise. The commission said it will give Idaho Power 15 to 20 minutes to present a brief summary of its proposals before the commission and then public witnesses will be sworn in and given an opportunity to testify.

The hearings are scheduled to last three hours each night but the commissioners said they will schedule additional time at a later date to accommodate witnesses if the six-hour is not sufficient.

Inspection inadequate

NAMPA, Idaho (UPI) — The Nampa Association of Insurance Agents has charged that the city of Nampa's fire inspections are inadequate and permit hazards to continue.

A letter from association president Clyde Keithly, said "we feel the beneficial value of such inspections has deteriorated. Dangerous hazards to life and property continue to exist in various establishments in the city," Keithly wrote.

He suggested "careful study" of the situation to "remedy what we believe to be an undermanned and under administered function of our present system of regulation of fire safety."

The city council approved a motion inviting Keithly to attend the next council meeting and explain his complaints.

Jury rules shooting accidental

CAIDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — A coroner's jury deliberated only 15 minutes Tuesday before finding that the shooting death of Rusty A. Pokorney, 27, of Nampa, had been accidental and without criminal intent.

Pokorney died Dec. 30 on a sportsman's access road near the east end of Lake Lowell.

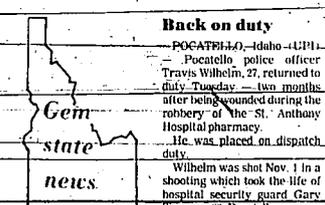

Robert Le Roy Miller, 16, Nampa, testified at the inquest that he came across Pokorney in a duck blind, Pokorney offered the boy a ride "home" and they started walking back to Pokorney's pickup.

Miller said some ducks flew by and he swung his gun from his shoulder and was trying to cock it while wearing heavy gloves and the gun went off.

Fire reported

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone City Volunteer Fire Department was called to the Shoshone State Range Monday afternoon to extinguish a fire that broke out near there.

According to Keith Jackson, yard manager, origin of the fire was not determined and insurance adjusters were expected to help estimate damage later this week.

Back on duty

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — Pocatello police officer Travis Wilhelm, 27, returned to duty Tuesday after being wounded during the robbery of the St. Anthony Hospital pharmacy.

He was placed on dispatch duty.

Wilhelm was shot Nov. 1 in a shooting which took the life of hospital security guard Gary Simpson, 22, Pocatello.

BSU performers selected

BOISE (UPI) — Boise State University Theater Arts performers are among companies selected from Idaho, Montana, Colorado and Utah to present productions at the regional portion of the American College Theater Festival this week.

The BSU play, "A Thurbur Carnival," was performed before Boise audiences in December. It was selected for the festival from preliminary judging in five Rocky Mountain states. Other plays include "Indians" by Montana State, "A Man for all Seasons" by Brigham Young, and "Roshambo" by Northern Colorado.

Berechtoid pleads not guilty

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — Robert E. Berechtoid has pleaded not guilty to a federal charge of kidnaping 12-year-old Jan Broberg of Pocatello last October.

Federal Judge Ray McNichols continued the arraignment Tuesday until a later date after granting a motion by defense attorney Patricia McDermott to allow her client to leave the state.

She petitioned the court to allow Berechtoid to travel to Salt Lake City to attend to his 12-year-old son, Jerry Curtis Berechtoid, who is suffering from paralysis and is being cared for in the Primary Children's Hospital.

Bond was set at $50,000.

Park funds sought

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. Leon Swenson, R-Nampa, has asked the Joint Legislative Finance Appropriations Committee for a $1,370,000 appropriation to finish the sewer and water system at Heyburn State Park in North Idaho.

The Legislature appropriated $774,000 last year to begin work on the system, and Swenson said Tuesday there now is an adequate water supply.

But he urged the committee to appropriate the additional funds to finish work on the water distribution and sewer systems.

Under a proposal which he submitted to the committee, owners of the homes that would benefit from the improvements would be charged a proportionate share.

Correct figures

TWIN FALLS — The Times-News Friday reported the money spent on planning for the American Falls Steam Plant correctly once and incorrectly once.

The correct figure is at least $380,000, not at least $293,000. The Times-News regrets the error.

Buhl hears 'slim chances'

BUHL — Two possible methods of financing a new city hall were outlined at the Buhl City Council meeting Monday night.

But both are "slim chances," according to State Sen. John Barker who told councilmen he had been asked to bring latest word of any possible state help. He suggested either using accumulated revenue sharing funds or investigating possibility of federal funds in connection with law enforcement facilities.

The only problem with the latter route, Barker said, is that these funds usually are for a regional facility.

Winter touch

All Buhl city employees reappointed by council

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

BUHL — All city employees were unanimously reappointed at the Buhl City Council meeting Tuesday night.

Mayor Ted Pence read the list of employees which was approved by the councilmen.

They include Frances McArthur, city clerk; Iva Shover, treasurer; Ben Ekert, police chief; Walter (Dubs) Harner, fire chief; Lawrence Fawcett, service supervisor; Evelyn Karaloff, librarian; Robert Weaver, city attorney; and Dennis Carroll, dog catcher.

The firm of Hepworth, Nungesser, Felton and Hart also was retained.

Mayor Pence also reappointed councilmen to the same committees they have previously held. Chairman of the major work areas include Joe Peterson, water and sewer; Jerry Hawkins police; Richard Thomet, parks and recreation; Darrell D. Loos, fire; Hawkins, library; and Loos, airport.

Wayne Laesli was appointed to replace Tom Schafot on the Buhl City Library board. Other members include Rev. Glenn Walzman, Mr. William Assendrup, Mrs. Robert Franzen and C.E. Barnard.

Councilmen decided to turn a request for re zoning in a residential section over to the city zoning committee, when it was realized that group is no longer functioning. Names were suggested and Mayor Pence said they would be appointed upon agreeing to serve in the post.

The city will request federal funds to build sewer and water lines in the Jacobson addition and near Sawtooth Boulevard.

Councilman Thomet was asked to study the operation of the dog pound, following his report that the animal shelter was seeking additional funds from the city for caring for stray dogs.

In other business, the council:

- pledged continued cooperation to the newly formed Buhl Cemetery District whose chairman, Clyde Cox, attended the meeting to thank the city for its help.

- decided to give a 30-day extension on bids for liability insurance after John Barker and two other agencies reported they did not have adequate time to prepare bids. Bill Assendrup whose agency was the only one having a bid, agreed to the extension.

- discussed the advisability of continuing the present amount of insurance coverage on such utility buildings as the restroom facility at Paris Falls, tool house and pump house.

- set Jan. 23 as the date for a public hearing on the 1975 city budget.

Arguments heard at Gooding meet

GOODING — Responsibility for completion and scheduling of street improvements in new subdivisions "should remain" with the city, Gooding City Council meeting Monday night.

Jim Wilkins, who has just completed the sale of the final lot in his subdivision, said he did not question the agreement he made with the city March 1, 1972, that the subdivision should provide sewer and water lines, curbs and gutters and finish the roadbed to sub-grade. He also agreed to add the gravel for the sub-base.

But Wilkins said there has been difference of opinion as to the sequence of the work. He maintains the city should finish grading the streets before the curbs and gutters are installed, but the city wants him to install them before the gravel is laid.

During the discussion councilmen and the city has no money to do any of the work and wants him to complete the project. After some heated exchanges, it was suggested by Councilman Paul Klingler that Wilkins meet with Wendell Smith, Gooding City engineer, to work out the problem.

Wilkins told the Times-News Tuesday that if the engineer thinks the curbs can be installed before the streets are finished "we will put them in the spring."

He said he has had the money in escrow for the gutters since last summer and a contractor had been obtained for the work but he did not feel the project could be done until the grading of the street was completed.

Wilkins told councilmen he had never been asked to come and discuss the problem and had "blatantly lied" on the paper." Klingler agreed Wilkins should have been invited to a council meeting earlier.

There are 31 homes and one apartment in the Wilkins subdivision. He also told the council the assessed valuation within the city of Gooding has increased by $172,769, from 1972 to 1974, according to the county records. This reflects the new building in Gooding, Wilkins said.

He told councilmen that this increased tax base should provide funds to pay for the services the city should provide its residents.

Wilkins also pointed out that when Mayor Leo Rice subdivided land several years ago the city did all the road work and installed the sewer and water lines. There are no curbs or gutters in that subdivision and the streets are not yet paved.

Wilkins said the Rice and Whipple subdivisions are the only two built since a city ordinance outlining responsibilities of developers was adopted in 1970. There are no curbs or gutters in the Whipple subdivision.

City Clerk George Silva verified that the 1970 code specifies sub-dividers should install curb and gutter, sewer lines, and finish the road to sub-grade.

He indicated that the city would probably do its share of the work after the engineer and Wilkins "work things out."

Gulf Oil leases Camas land for thermal probe

Proctor termed the Camas Prairie "a very good prospect."

A flow of 2,000 gallons of water per minute at 355 degrees Fahrenheit is needed to make a plant commercially feasible, Proctor said.

"The water that has been tested on the prairie has been warm enough to get us interested," he said.

Only surface testing has taken place which is not a good indicator of the capability of the area, he said.

Two major exploratory firms have been conducting tests on the prairie, he said, but their material has not been analyzed.

Proctor said any plant built on the Camas Prairie would have to be capable of supplying a good portion of southern Idaho's electricity.

"We would like to see them there if we did not think a plant could commercially serve most of southern Idaho," he said.

He said the two-part system would require more wells to be dug than the steam method of generation. The vast majority of the ranches from Hill City west of Fairfield to US Highway 89 have been leased, he said.

Although geothermal research is new, Proctor said as well for every 10 to 40 acres is a standard figure for production. If ranchers have just one well on their property they will make "a lot of money," Proctor said.

Currently Gulf is paying $1 per acre per year, according to Wayne Sayer, an engineer for Geothermal Research Co. from California. Proctor said leases in the Geysers area were receiving between $20,000 and $25,000 yearly for the lease of one producing well.

Proctor said the Geysers plant north of San Francisco would produce enough energy by the end of 1975 to completely power San Francisco.

There are as many as 14 geotherms in one building at the Geysers now, he said.

He said a 55-horsepower plant on the Camas Prairie would be a reasonable guess for Gulf to build to start. Sayer said two months ago a plant of that size plus all the connecting well pipe needed would cost at least $20 million.

Utah hunters found safe

BURLEY — Two Utah men stranded in the snowbound City of Rocks Saturday night reached safety Tuesday afternoon.

Richard Lyman, 26, and Brad Nalder, Jr., both Kayville, Utah, had been the object of a search that reached from Oakley to the Utah border.

Saturday, the two had told relatives they were going coyote hunting near Burley, but failed to specify the exact area.

The men went to the City of Rocks where they spent Saturday night. Sunday, the men were unable to start their vehicle and were forced to remain with the car until Tuesday when they were able to walk out.

In the meantime, relatives notified authorities that the men were missing and a full-scale search was launched.

Search efforts were hampered because authorities were unsure where the men had planned to hunt.

Lyman and Nalder were reported to be in good shape.

Mishap hurts Filer man, 65

FILER — A Filer man was listed in critical condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital this morning after being struck by his own automobile.

Tom Remington, 65, was being treated for multiple fractures and possible internal injuries. He was in the intensive care unit.

Filer City police and Twin Falls County officers who investigated the accident, said Remington started his car in the driveway of his home about 2 a.m. and it began rolling backward. Remington resides at 717 Idaho St.

As he attempted to stop it, the car rolled in an arch to the right, pinning him between the door of his own car and another vehicle parked across the street. Officers said he complained of chest injuries and suffered a broken leg.

Remington was taken to the hospital by Magic Valley Ambulance, Twin Falls.

Shoshone bypass eyed

"Tourist" traffic through Shoshone would be curtailed if a bypass is constructed, Werry said.

"It would have an effect on the town," he said. "We'd lose a motel and a couple of gas stations. Shoshone has two motels.

District engineer Howard Johnson said that it takes five to seven years to design a highway project. Any plans depend on how much traffic travels the route, on modes of transportation and on gasoline supplies in the years ahead.

Public response of proposed plans is an important part of the study, Johnson said. Informal public information meetings will be scheduled in the next two months if public interest grows great enough.

An environmental assessment, which should take from four to six months, is the next step in the process. Then the highway division will plan public hearings which are more formal than public meetings.

Final plans can then be completed.

Cost of the planning is usually about 10 percent of the cost the contractor would be covered by state highway user funds, said Johnson.

"We're looking five years away to get the road built to Shoshone," from the south, said Kildner. Any decision on how the rest of the highway will look then depends on whether traffic has increased and what public sentiment is.

Judge drops desert death charges

While they were gone, the group took a vote, according to testimony, to make its way off the lava. During the trek off the lava, Hodgson and Rocky Nielson became separated from the group, Johnson said. He backtracked to find the boys after discovering they were gone.

He said he thought the boys had pulled "the old Boy Scout trick" on him and had circled around him. He found one pack after backtracking, left a note on the pack and returned to the group of nine children. Some of the children were crying, according to testimony, but they all made their way to Schodde well, a deserted water hole.

Jepperson wrote in his opinion "the circumstances surely were not of his choosing, neither could they reasonably be foreseen by him (Johnson). Then having decided to proceed toward the intended destination, can we decide this was imprudent?"

According to a report, Johnson's action was "that of a reasonably prudent parent" and Jepperson was referring to Johnson's action of being near the front, middle and rear of the group throughout the trek off the lava.

"But even if it were decided that he acted without due caution and circumspection, in some particular or another, there is nothing in the evidence to indicate the approximate cause of death," Jepperson wrote.

Jepperson concluded it would be unfair to place the blame on a hired person when the superiors are not charged with wrong.

Testimony during the inquest showed the group had no snake-bite kits. Rattlers were abundant in the desert, according to testimony. Several rattlers were killed during the outing.

The group had no first aid kits, no communication apparatus and apparently not enough water. Fred Chesley was the only person with a map of the area, according to the testimony.

A statement issued by the Blaine County prosecuting attorney said "the coroner's jury found eight people criminally responsible. We felt of the night, one of them was not responsible and dismissed the complaint against the young Johnson boy."

"The preliminary hearing took in different testimony than the coroner's inquest. The coroner's jury heard a different volume of testimony than the magistrate. It is important to understand the magistrate could rule as he did on the basis of the testimony he had and the coroner's jury the way they did," the statement said.

"We have no criticism of either of them. Justice has taken its course. We hope some good will have come of this legal process."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dairy men who get a compromise 10 per cent increase in price supports from the administration last week will seek further hikes soon, a milk producer spokesman says.

Frank J. Healy, secretary of the National Milk Producers Federation, said in an interview that farmers will push legislation built around two basic points, including a cost escalator designed to protect milk prices against losses in milk prices. Healy says the industry will continue to fight for a 15 per cent increase in price supports to a 75 per cent of the 1974-75 rate. Healy said that the industry will push for a 15 per cent increase in price supports to a 75 per cent of the 1974-75 rate. Economist's view for dairies dark

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — An economist professor told the American Farm Bureau Federation the day may come when milk cows are threatened with extinction and milk is sold as a delicacy.

"If milk cow numbers continue to decline in the future, the price of milk will rise due to complex forces in the world market," Calleguin said. "It all added up to a sugar market which, like a sleeping dog, was ready to jump up and bite somebody at the first indication in the world sugar market today," Arthur R. Calleguin said.

Calleguin is director of the sugar division of the Agriculture Department's Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Farm Bargain sniffers should try onions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department advises: Buy onions "lavishly" this month and next.

A food marketing alert issued today says supplies are the biggest in history. An official says farm prices have plunged to half of last year's level and supermarkets are also cutting onion prices substantially below year-ago levels.

The report said heavy supplies of medium-size yellow onions remain on the market as a result of the record 1974 crop which will fill nearly 25 million bags of 100 pounds each. This represents 18 per cent more than the 1973 average.

The dilemma is that supplies may exceed what domestic markets can take, and prospects for export this season are reduced, the report added.

Cuba gains from sugar

MIAMI (UPI) — The Jull market in sugar may bring the Castro government as much as $1 billion in hard currency this year, according to Leon Gioia of the University of Miami's Center for Advanced International Studies.

Gioia made his estimates on the basis of a Cuban sugar crop of 5.5 to 6 million metric tons. Of that amount he thinks the Castro government may have about 2 million tons available for sale on the world market.

The rest is earmarked for other Communist bloc nations at prices pegged below the world price, for export to mainland China for rice, for domestic use, or for exports to Communist friends.

Cuba usually keeps 650,000 to 700,000 tons of sugar for gifts to friendly governments, Gioia said.

BOISE — Fifteen to 20 Idaho wheat producers will attend growers 25th annual convention of the National Association of Wheat Growers, starting Monday in Amarillo, Texas.

Cost of sin may increase in 1975

Newhouse News Service WASHINGTON (UPI) — The wages of sin may rise in 1975. Federal excise taxes on alcohol and cigarettes, which total $7.2 billion in the treasury in fiscal year 1974, will be among the tax areas examined by the House Ways and Means Committee this year.

A staff aide confirmed that the committee will look at the type excise taxes as possible revenue raisers.

"There are no sacred cows in the tax field right now," the aide reported, adding, "We are not sure the excise taxes were not a high priority item."

The committee's first order of business will be tax relief for low income wage earners followed by energy matters, the aide said.

A lobbying group, Action on Smoking and Health, which describes itself as the legal arm of the anti-smoking community, is asking its members to write the new committee chairman Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., about the federal tax on cigarettes, which has remained at 8 cents a pack since 1964.

American smokers an estimated 10 billion in 1974, according to the Department of Agriculture. Each one-cent increase on a pack of 20 would raise an additional $20 million.

State taxes on cigarettes range from 2 to 21 cents per pack. Since this levy often constitutes a major source of state revenue, some tax experts believe the federal government has been reluctant to propose a higher federal tax for fear of cutting into states' funds.

Federal excise taxes on alcoholic beverages are about 15 cents per six-pack of beer, $1.81 per fifth of 60 proof domestic whiskey and 3 cents of a fifth of most domestic wines.

Americans drank about 80 million six-packs of beer—20 million of liquor and 300,000 fifths of wine during the year ended June 30, according to the Treasury Department.

Values defined

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — John W. Oswald, president of Penn. State University, says American universities have not defined strong stands on values, morals and ethical judgments.

"In these recent days of national anguish, we in education need to reexamine the attitudes we sometimes maintained toward explicit reference to values and morality," Oswald said.

"We are somewhat fully aware that men of great influence and responsibility have confessed to varying degrees of crimes and misdemeanors, and we are deeply chagrined that each has been treated at an American institution of higher education."

Medicine cabinets may shock buyers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission said today 9,000 medicine cabinets sold since last September may have a shock hazard involving a built-in electrical outlet.

The agency issued a warning telling the owners of the Sears and Kent brands—medicine cabinets to return them to the place of purchase for a refund or replacement.

The commission said the problem involves an electrical outlet which can use either a two-prong or a three-prong plug.

Because of a defect, it said, persons using—on appliances with a three-prong plug, which would otherwise assure it of being grounded, may not be grounded and could be exposed to a shock from the appliance, the cabinet, or other places in the bathroom where the appliance might be used.

There is also a potential shock hazard if the cabinet itself is not properly installed, the commission said.

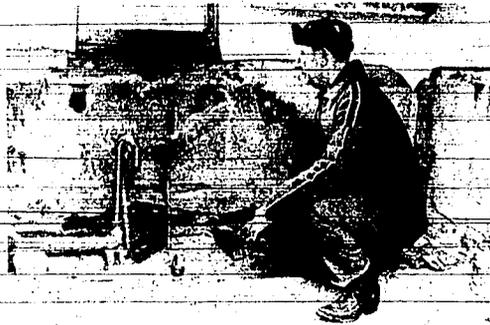

No injuries have been reported.

The cabinets sold for from $50 to $150, depending on the model, in Sears stores coast to coast and in independent stores under the Kent brand east of Salt Lake City.

The Sears models were identified as Nos. 741 with 363 prefix, 30530, 30541, 30551, 30710, 30800, 30551 and 30551. The Kent models, all with the letter "L" as a prefix, are: GO-1216, WO1216, GO-1420, SO-1420, WO-1420, GO-1420-W, CA1420, CO1420, CH1420, FO-1420, LX-1420, WH-1420 and SO1420.

The agency said the numbers are on nameplates underneath the bottom shelf. It said anyone needing help in removing the cabinet from the wall should contact a Sears store or the store from which the Kent models were purchased.

The cabinets were made by the Kent Division of LCA Corp., Bellevue, Ky. The commission said it learned of the hazard from the manufacturer of the outlets, the H.H. Fluorescent Parts, Inc., Cheltenham, Pa.

Thorough thieves

"You won't believe this," Ray Hayes, Rockford, Ill., told police, "but they stole everything including the kitchen sink." Hayes is shown looking over the damage to a home he is renovating for sale. Sometime over the weekend someone entered the home and removed carpeting and paneling and even the sink. (UPI)

Convicted murderer faces more surgery

SPokane (UPI) — An attorney for convicted murderer Carl Cletus Bowles said today his client will undergo surgery in Boise Jan. 14 and could conceivably be ready to travel to Spokane to stand trial on murder charges in early February.

Bowles is wanted here for trial on two counts of first degree murder in connection with the shooting deaths of Earl and Viola Hunter, Eugene, Ore., whose bodies were found dumped in a willow grove southwest of here last July.

Bowles admitted after his capture in Northern Idaho last June 16 that he had kidnaped the Hunters as part of his escape—following a shootout with FBI agents near the Hunters' home June 14.

Bowles thereafter steadfastly denied he harmed the couple.

During recapture near Post Falls, Bowles suffered an abdominal wound and has undergone surgery twice before.

Murtaugh outlasts Kimberly by 57-55

KIMBERLY — The Murtaugh Red Devils, getting a crucial six-point burst by Mitch Allred midway through the fourth quarter, outlasted the Kimberly Bulldogs 57-55 Tuesday night.

Allred hit three straight shots to open up an 11-point advantage and it proved enough to withstand a great 12-point fourth-quarter spree by Kimberly's Tony Slane.

Murtaugh led from the opening seconds of the second period through the final buzzer but couldn't shake the Bulldogs. The go-ahead points came on two straight buckets by Pat Talbot as the second quarter began and Wade Queensell quickly pumped the lead to 20-13 with four more points.

Kimberly, then labored from five to seven points behind through the end of the third quarter.

Cavs lose center for five weeks

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Cleveland Cavaliers' center Jim Chones will be out of action for up to five weeks due to a hairline fracture in his right foot, it was learned Monday night.

Chones' injury was the second major setback of the season for the Cavaliers, just 4 1/2 half games out of first place in the NBA Central Division. The club has also lost the services of all-star guard Austin Carr for up to two months because of knee surgery.

Chones, 24, injured his foot in the last couple minutes of Saturday night's 103-102 loss to the New York Knicks at Madison Square Garden, where Cleveland has never won a game in its 14 trips to Manhattan.

Chones, a 6-11, 230-pounder from Marquette, played in Sunday night's victory over Phoenix and had 19 points and 15 rebounds. The foot did not bother him until after the game.

Dr. Nicholas Sekerak, the team physician, examined the foot Monday and earlier today and determined that Chones had a hairline fracture of the fifth metatarsal. The doctor then placed a walking boot cast on Chones' right foot. The cast will be on for at least three weeks.

It was learned by UPI that Cleveland coach-general manager Bill Fitch, in Atlanta where the Cavaliers played the Hawks Tuesday night, kept Chones' injury a secret from sportswriters because he was in the process of obtaining another center from another NBA club. The deal involved Steve Patterson, the Cavaliers' 6-8, 225-pound, center-forward from UCLA.

It's believed Fitch will not make the deal now because Patterson's services are needed because of the setback to Chones, whom the Cavaliers obtained in rights from Los Angeles last May for Cleveland's No. 1 draft choice in 1976.

CAREY — The Carey Panthers ran their record to 9-0 Tuesday night by dropping the Bliss Bears 58-40.

The Panthers, now 3-0 in the Northside Conference, will host Richfield Saturday night with a chance to assume sole possession of the league lead.

Bliss gave Carey some problems in the early going Coach Allen Peterson put his charges in a deliberate offense and after seven minutes shared the lead at 8-8.

But Carey then took the lead and Coach John Taylor immediately turned to a full-court press. It shook up the Bears and Carey used its big height advantage under the boards to # Agriculture is to Idaho what food is to you.

Your body needs food to stay healthy. Idaho needs agriculture to stay healthy.

That's because between 40% and 60% of the value of all the goods and services produced in Idaho depends in some way on agriculture. Idaho is second only to South Dakota in the percentage of personal income that comes directly from farming. In fact, Idaho is more dependent on agriculture than any other state in the West.

As the state's major industry, it's also its major taxpayer. Agriculture accounted for more than $25 million in real-estate taxes and income taxes. So when agriculture is fiscally healthy, the state government is, fiscally, healthy, too.

Even jobs in the state are dependent upon agriculture. About 1 in 2 — A full 19% of all Idaho jobs are in either farming or food processing, and perhaps another 20 to 40 percent depend indirectly on Idaho agriculture.

No man is an island and so it is with agriculture. Idaho's farmers and ranchers need us as much as we need them. They need us for understanding and support to help keep agriculture in Idaho vital and productive. That way, the entire state can remain vital and productive.

For more information on why you need Idaho farmers and ranchers as much as they need you, write the Idaho Wheat and Bean Commission, Suite M, Owyhee Plaza, Boise, Idaho 83702.

The Idaho farmer. You need him. He needs you.

Wikings coach compares Steelers to 1974 Dolphins

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Bud Grant, coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers, feels the Pittsburgh Steelers are quite a bit like the Miami Dolphins, his Super Bowl champion last year, and he doesn't need to be reminded how well they played.

Grant said his Minnesota Vikings against the Steelers in Super Bowl IX Sunday and he said they compare "quite favorably" to the Miami club that demolished his team 24-7 last January.

"The Dolphins are just a little different," the Minnesota coach explained Tuesday.

"Pittsburgh uses more strength while Miami has more coordinated defensive calls. Pittsburgh can gimmick up its defense because they are so talented. Miami is more disciplined. But other than that, they compare quite favorably."

"Bob Griese is the ideal quarterback for a team like Miami. He throws the ball when he wants to, not when you want him to. Terry Bradshaw is doing the same thing for Pittsburgh now. He's going to play the ball 12-22 yards and usually under favorable circumstances."

"Franco Harris and Larry Csonka are a stand-off as far as a fullback is concerned. Pittsburgh's receivers 'have greater speed. Overall, the Steelers are just as impressive as the Dolphins and they just want to beat us out of it."

Grant indicated he was somewhat surprised by the way Pittsburgh overpowered Oakland 24-13 in their AFC title game last week.

"Pittsburgh did a good job preparing for Oakland," Grant said. "I was very surprised with the ease with which they defeated Oakland. They didn't do anything different than they had been doing all year—they just did it a lot better."

But Grant said the fact that the Steelers held Oakland to only 29 yards rushing and tore apart its defensive line did not scare his club.

"All you have to do is look back over the Pittsburgh-Oakland playoff game last December," he said. "It was just the exact opposite. Oakland just went out and rained the ball down Pittsburgh's throat. Every game is different. You just go out and play the way you don't think about what happened in the past."

In the Steeler camp, coach Chuck Noll indicated that defensive end Dwight White, hospitalized late Sunday night with chronic back pains and a viral infection, would remain in the hospital still another night. Noll said he would start becoming concerned if White were not available for Wednesday's workout.

"I hope Dwight will be ready by game time," Noll said. "Right now he's still under the weather. He still has a problem in the plural area. In the event he can't go, Steve Furness will play. Steve has seen a good bit of action this year and we have complete confidence in him."

"There's not much we can do about the situation. It's just one of those things. All we can do is get Steve on the backside and tell him to go get 'em," he said with a chuckle.

Both coaches were pleased with their club's attitude toward the game, the young Steelers ever enthusiastic in their championship game and the Vikings ever methodical and stoic, a reflection of their coach.

"We worked like hell to get into the Super Bowl and now we're here. We're going to enjoy it," Noll said.

"We struggled to get here and now we are going to reap the benefits. All this hoopla here can be a distraction if you let it. But it's all right as long as we have time to get our work done. Actually, I'm tired of doing nothing. I've seen all I want of New Orleans and I want to get to work."

Noll then sent his team through a workout at Tulane Stadium. In the rain, Minnesota Viking coach Bud Grant, 50, 101-peddled suggestions, his club faces additional pressure because it could become the first team ever to lose three Super Bowls.

"There is just as much pressure on us as you might expect," said Grant. "You learn to live with winning and losing. Otherwise, this is a difficult profession."

"We've got lots of new people this year. This is a new challenge. If we don't win, it's disheartening, but you always have another year. Right now we've got the feeling that we've got $16,000 in the bank and we're going for $25,000 Sunday."

Grant said he is conducting training as he would for any regular season game.

"The Vikings are just the same as it was for Miami last year," he said. "Our purpose in our preparation is the same. We prepare for this like any other game."

MUSICIANS

Beginner or pro, whether you prefer a piccolo-or-a-piano, the best way to sell, trade or buy the proverbial instrument of your choice is through the "Musical Instrument" ads in the Classified Ad pages of today's paper.

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Utah Stars — of the American Basketball Association — Tuesday announced the appointment of Bill Orwig as general manager.

Orwig, 35, had been assistant general manager of the financially troubled Indiana Pacers for the past six years. He replaces Arnie Ferrin, who resigned last fall to take an administrative post at the University of Utah.

Stars' owner Bill Daniels announced the appointment, calling Orwig a "class guy with a delightful personality, who knows basketball."

Orwig is the son of Indiana University athletic director J. W. "Bill" Orwig. He is also a former insurance executive and radio and television sportscaster.

Daniels said he hired Orwig after talking with four or five other people interested in the job.

"I just don't have time for the day to day appointment of the team, anymore," Daniels told a news conference.

Orwig said he had a lot of things he wanted to work on with the Stars, including attendance. He said he would give coach Morris Buckley a free hand in running the team.

Tarkenton figures fans will enjoy game

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Fran Tarkenton feels this Sunday's Super Bowl game between his Minnesota Vikings and the Pittsburgh Steelers could be the best ever.

"The past eight Super Bowl games really haven't been very good games," said the 34-year veteran quarterback Tuesday.

"But I believe this year's football fan will really enjoy this one. It will be won in the trenches—by the guys on the offensive and defensive lines."

One Super Bowl game Tarkenton himself didn't particularly enjoy was last year's contest at Houston where the Miami Dolphins whipped the Vikings 24-7.

"We were never in last year's game," said Tarkenton, who managed to complete 18 of 30 passes and scored Miami's only touchdown on a four-yard run.

"Miami was in control from the very start. They proved to everybody that they were the very best."

Tarkenton then went on to answer the published remarks of Miami receiver Paul Warfield and Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler, who have commented in recent days that the two best teams are not playing this year's Super Bowl.

"I think the best two teams are in the Super Bowl just as they are every year," said an obviously annoyed Tarkenton.

"I am sick and tired of hearing what Warfield and Stabler have to say. Obviously they never read the rules before they started playing the game. Evidently nobody told Stabler that it takes three extra wins to win the Super Bowl, not one, especially not the first one."

"I don't think I hear Stabler or Warfield saying their teams were so much better before they played the teams they lost to," Pittsburgh has done everything a team has to do to get here. So have we. The loser Sunday will need no advice. Whoever wins Sunday is the best, not teams previously eliminated."

For what it's worth, Tarkenton feels the Vikings will have an advantage over the Steelers in having played in the Super Bowl last year while Pittsburgh is making its first-ever appearance. In fact, the Vikings also took part in Super Bowl IV, before Tarkenton joined them in a trade with the New York Giants, where they lost to Kansas City 22-7 and are the only team to have ever lost two Super Bowl games.

"I expect our experience in having been here before will give us a definite advantage, especially in mental preparation," Tarkenton said.

"The toughest thing last year was in trying to adjust to the week off between the conference championship game and the Super Bowl. All year long, you play every week and then all of a sudden you have to get used to having a week off. Now we're more aware of keeping our mental edge."

Tarkenton, who led the NFC in passing yardage with 2,598 yards and threw 17 touchdown passes, feels the Steelers "will try to take away as we do best."

"In that case," Tarkenton continued, "you have two offensive philosophies available. You can come out and do what you do best — run — or — try something new. But if that new stuff doesn't work, you're in a lot of trouble."

"There's no way to intimidate Pittsburgh's defense. But by the same token, they ain't gonna intimidate us."

Steelers tire of story about Bradshaw's mental capacity

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — They keep telling more and more jokes about Terry Bradshaw and his limited mental capacity, one of them being that if he were electricity, he'd be walking around in the dark all the time.

His critics are anything but gentle with the affable, 26-year-old Louisiana-born quarterback for the Pittsburgh Steelers, who are depending on him heavily in their Super Bowl showdown Sunday with the Minnesota Vikings.

Putting it bluntly, Terry Bradshaw has the reputation of being pro football's "dumb blond," good to look at throwing the ball but almost guaranteed to make a mistake somewhere along the line.

He has a lot of witnesses ready, even eager, to testify on his behalf, but somehow nobody really bothers to listen to them — and poor Terry Bradshaw simply goes along, regarded as a kind of Louie in "Of Mice and Men," a big, good-natured Mr. Dum-Dum.

"I think it's a bad rap, a very bad one, unfounded all the way down the line," Chuck Noll, the coach of the Steelers commented before his team worked out Tuesday.

Terry Hanratty, the man whom Bradshaw took the regular quarterback job away from originally, goes further than Noll. "It's the biggest bad rap I've seen, and what makes all the worse is that it isn't even close to being true," said Hanratty.

"Terry can read defenses as well as anybody I've ever seen. He's very intelligent and I don't mean only in football, but in everything. Who knows how this whole thing got started?"

"One person writes it, that's it. Forget about it. I can't explain why he should have a reputation like that. Maybe it's because he's a southerner and the people in Pittsburgh are not used to his way of talking. None of us have any trouble understanding."

Bradshaw says he's tired of fighting the whole thing.

"We're here, aren't we?" Bradshaw said, meaning at the gates of the Super Bowl. "We didn't get here by magic or mirrors. I feel I've contributed."

He also feels he knows how word began circulating that he wasn't exactly a Rhodes Scholar.

"It started in Pittsburgh," he says. "The guy who started it assumed the reason I went to Louisiana Tech instead of Louisiana State was that I couldn't get into LSU. The funny thing is I was all signed to go to LSU, but then I met this quarterback coach and I wasn't too impressed with him."

"I wanted to go some place where they liked to throw the ball. That's why I wound up at Louisiana Tech."

The Steelers made Bradshaw their first draft choice five years ago, he brought the city more publicity than when the Pirates first signed Paul Waner, and his little brother, too.

Burden doesn't miss pros

DENVER (UPI) — Luther "Ticky" Burden gave up the money of pro basketball for another year of seasoning in the college ranks and hopes his value to the pro will increase.

The way the University of Utah junior guard has been playing, his decision to spurn an offer from the ABA Denver franchise and to withdraw from the NBA hardship draft will pay off.

Burden is leading the Western Athletic Conference in scoring as the conference season nears with a 29.7 point per game average and ranks fourth in shooting with a 57.4 per cent average over 11 games. He has been instrumental in the Utes 9-2 record.

But the biggest surprise for Utah has been Dean Porter, who leads the WAC in field goal shooting with a 61.5 per cent mark. Brigham Young Junior College transfer Brian Frishman is the top free throw shooter with an 87.1 percentage and Al Fleming of Arizona leads rebounders with a 15.4 average.

Burden isn't even being pressured in the WAC scoring race. His closest competition comes from Arizona's Bob Elliott who is averaging 21.2 points per game and Fleming, with an 18.3 mark. Gary Brewer of Texas El Paso and Stan Boyer of Wyoming are both averaging 16.3 with Arizona State's Lionel Hollins hitting 16.1.

Frishman's free throw shooting lead is in jeopardy. New Mexico's Pat King is just off the pace at 87 per cent and Brewer is third at 82.5 and Fleming is second at 81.5.

Jay Cheesman of Brigham Young is the runner up in field goal shooting at 59.8, followed by Jack Schrade of Arizona State at 59.3 and Fleming, who held the league shooting title his first two years, was in 13th at 53.0.

Birmingham appeals release of Stabler

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — The Birmingham Americans will appeal Monday's circuit court ruling that the World Football League champions must release Oakland Raiders quarterback Ken Stabler from his three-year contract, an attorney for the Americans said Tuesday.

"Oh yes," said Americans attorney S. Keith Palmer. "We're going to appeal that ruling to the Alabama Supreme Court Wednesday or Thursday."

Circuit Court Judge William C. Barber ruled the financially beleaguered Americans, by not paying the National Football League star $30,000 of the $100,000 promised him, violated the pact.

Barber ruled Stabler, a former Alabama All-American, was "free from any obligation under any terms of this contract." The court order also said the quarterback could keep the $20,000 he had already collected and cancelled the $30,000 remaining note, saying it would be "unfair to require the payment."

Stabler was to receive $100,000 in the first two years of the agreement while he played out his option with the Raiders.

He was to receive $15,000 in 1976, the year he was to start playing for the Birmingham team. He was also to receive incentive bonuses and other considerations.

The league champion Americans, plagued by financial troubles through most of the last half of the NFL's initial season, paid Stabler $50,000 when he signed the contract and used his name in promoting the new franchise.

At one point the Americans boasted one of the best attendance records in the fledgling league. They were reported to be over one million dollars in debt at the end of the season.

In addition, the Internal Revenue Service filed a tax lien against the team for $236,891 in back taxes and a separate lien against owner Bill Putnam for $160,091.55.

These tax problems almost caused a cancellation of the Americans' two championship playoff games in the city and also prompted city officials to call for public ownership of the team.

Putnam said recently the team, while he was owner, would not relocate.

Stabler's release from his contract with the Oakland Raiders has caused a stir in Birmingham.

"I think it's a bad rap, a very bad one, unfounded all the way down the line," Chuck Noll, the coach of the Steelers commented before his team worked out Tuesday.

Terry Hanratty, the man whom Bradshaw took the regular quarterback job away from originally, goes further than Noll. "It's the biggest bad rap I've seen, and what makes all the worse is that it isn't even close to being true," said Hanratty.

"Terry can read defenses as well as anybody I've ever seen. He's very intelligent and I don't mean only in football, but in everything. Who knows how this whole thing got started?"

Football coaches reject proposal to return to one-platoon game

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Football Coaches Association has voted heavily against returning to one-platoon football as an economy measure, it was announced Tuesday.

Jack Curtice, head of the AMCA's rules committee, said the vote in response to a questionnaire was 246-40 against abandoning the present unlimited substitution system.

Curtice also told a news conference that the rules committee endorsed no major changes in existing rules and also recommended adding doing away with the fair catch and adopting pro rules for kickoffs from the 35-yard line.

The coaches are meeting in conjunction with the annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association which began wading through more than 100 proposals and resolutions.

With further floor sessions scheduled Wednesday, the NCAA delegates voted that individual athletes must sign affidavits during their amateur status before any NCAA tournaments or other championship events. The proposal was offered by Dr. Stephen Horn, president of California State University of Long Beach who is spearheading moves by a group of college presidents to toughen up on recruiting and other ethics violations.

Curtice expressed hope that other ways could be found to take care of the growing economic squeeze which is being applied to college athletics.

He pointed out that increased costs are not so much due to the size of football squads or coaching staffs but to the inflationary crisis involving such items as equipment and travel expenses.

He reported that the vote against moving the kickoff back to the 35-yard line was 5-1 against. He noted that the coaches' rules committee, which meets with the NCAA rules committee next week in Dallas, has advocated that game officials be more consistent in their rulings, particularly on spiking the ball after a touchdown, spearing or using the helmet to knock an opponent down during play.

Vince Dooley, a Georgia coach, announced that the AMCA ethics committee has sent out letters of reprimand to five coaches for violating the organization's code of conduct, but he declined to identify the violators.

Bob Blackman of Illinois, president of the coaches' association, reaffirmed the policy of not recognizing for hours a coach or a school which has been placed on probation by the NCAA.

He said that "it just doesn't make sense" to honor "a man or a school for doing something above and beyond the ethical limits."

The refusal of the coaches to recognize Oklahoma's football team this season because of a two-year probation created furor among many fans.

Braves rout L.A. 115-107

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The Buffalo Braves, powered by Bob McAdoo's 44 points, wasted a 17-point first quarter lead but rebounded to beat Los Angeles 115-107 in a National Basketball Association game Tuesday night.

The Braves' win cut into Boston's Atlantic Division lead over Buffalo to one-half game. The two teams meet Thursday night in Toronto.

McAdoo also grabbed 18 rebounds as Buffalo won only its third game in the Braves' last 11 starts.

Investigation continuing

HOUSTON (UPI) — Horstine detectives said Tuesday they kept up the investigation of the deaths of Houston Astro pitcher Don Wilson and his 5-year-old son because of "unanswered questions."

Detective Larry Ott said Harris County Medical Examiner Dr. Joseph A. Jachimeczky had ruled Wilson and his son Alexander, died of carbon monoxide poisoning Sunday.

Jachimeczky also must rule whether the deaths were accidental, suicide or homicide, but was waiting for more information from the investigators.

"We're not pointing the finger at anyone," Ott said. "We just want to know the answers, clear up some unanswered questions and inconsistencies."

Wilson, 29, was found in a reclined front passenger seat of his luxury car in his garage in southwest Houston.

JANUARY CLEARANCE!!

Honkers collared

Some of Idaho's honkers will be wearing kelly green collars when they migrate from American Falls Reservoir to their summer nesting areas.

Biologists of the Idaho Department of Fish and Game have begun early baiting, and trapping is expected to get underway this week on the 5-year project.

Dick Norell, game bird supervisor, said he hopes to collar about 100 Canada geese a year, and information on the geese migration routes will be sent back to the department from resource agencies in Canada when they are sighted there.

Idaho's winter geese are a mixture of flocks from Canada, Montana and Idaho.

"We can get harvest information here, but we need to know where these birds spend their summers. We need the information for better management of the geese," Norell said.

The plastic, 2 1/2-inch high collars will be hiked, then bent around a pipe so that when the geese are trapped, the collar slips over the goose's head.

The project is carried out with authorization of the Migratory Bird Banding Office in Laurel, Maryland.

Squires

under new direction

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Two Tidewater businessmen have taken over the operations of the American Basketball Association's Virginia Squires and reduced home game ticket prices for the rest of January, a spokesman said Tuesday.

Squires president John Bernhardt said Van H. Cunningham and Theodore J. Broecker have become principal stockholders of Tidewater Professional Basketball Inc.

"This represents a substantial building block to the organization and it is one that we have been trying to fit in since last August," Bernhardt said.

Cunningham announced that admission to the remaining Squires' games in January would be discounted to $2.00 for $4.50 tickets and $1.00 for $3.00 tickets.

Keino to return to pro track

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Kenya's Kip Keino will return for his third pro season, Mike O'Hara of Track & Field Association president Mike O'Hara said Tuesday night.

Kip told me on the phone that he's definitely going to be with us again," O'Hara said. "He's not retiring. He thinks he can come back strong."

Keino, winner of the 1,500-meter run at the Mexico City Olympics in 1968 and the 100-meter steeplechase at the Munich games in 1972, had an off-year on the IFA circuit in 1974.

"There were reports that Kip was retiring but they weren't true," O'Hara said.

"If he can regain his form, he will be a valuable asset to us."

The IFA will open a 17-meet season, its third at Montreal Jan. 17.

Boxers easily make weight

SEBIAL, Japan (UPI) — World Boxing Council (WBC) flyweight champion Shoji Oguma of Japan and challenger Miguel Cantu of Mexico were relaxed and appeared confident of victory Tuesday when they easily made the 122-pound limit for their 15-round title match Wednesday night.

Oguma, 23, a southpaw, is generally favored by Japanese boxing writers to win.

Oguma, who was No. 10 contender when he won the title from Venezuela's Betulio Gonzalez with a split 15-round decision last Oct. 1 in Tokyo, is making his first title defense.

Cantu is getting his second crack at the WBC flyweight crown. He lost to Gonzalez in August, 1973, in Caracas in a "championship fight to decide a successor to Thailand's Venice Burks who vacated the title.

Cards defeat Cincinnati

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Undefeated Louisville, paced by Junior Bridgeman's 24 points and nine rebounds went to a seldom-used zone defense in the closing minutes Tuesday night to pull down an 82-77 victory over Cincinnati.

The Bearcats, who trailed 43-31 at the half, closed Louisville's lead to one point on four occasions in the final 20 minutes but never were able to move ahead of the fourth-ranked Cardinals.

Bridgeman, who surpassed the 1,000-point career milestone with his 14th career cashed 12 of 15 free throws in leading Louisville to its 9th straight win this season.

Kings stun Milwaukee

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Nate Archibald scored 32 points Tuesday night; 23 of them in the second half, sparking the Kansas City-Omaha Kings to a 108-97 NBA victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.

The Kings took a 82-79 lead into the final quarter. Consecutive 25-foot jumpers by Archibald midway in the period gave the Kings a 94-87 edge and a basket by Sam Lacey stretched the advantage to nine points seconds later.

The Bucks, led by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who finished with 39 points, rallied to cut the margin to three points, 98-95, with 2:31 to play. A tough Kansas City defense allowed Milwaukee only two more baskets, both by Abdul-Jabbar, the rest of the way.

Bulls down Houston

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bob Love dropped 27 points to lead the Chicago Bulls to a wire-to-wire 106-97 win over the Houston Rockets Tuesday night in a National Basketball Association contest.

Houston never led during the game, although the Rockets' Rudy Tomjanovich took scoring honors with 25 points.

The Rockets had a 2-2 tie in the opening 55 seconds before the Bulls pulled in front and grabbed a 10-point lead in the first quarter. In the second half, Chicago's best margin was 12 points.

The win evened the Bulls-Rockets series this year at one victory apiece and gave Chicago and Houston identical NBA records of 2-1 in the won-lost column.

—It was the Bulls' third win in the last four games.

Spirits lose 11th on road

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Tom Owens and Chuck Williams led a fourth quarter surge as the Memphis Sounds defeated the Spirits of St. Louis 118-110 Tuesday, the eleventh straight road loss for the visiting team.

Owens collected 10 of his 25 points, and Williams, eight of his 26, as the Sounds outscored the Spirits 38-20 in the final period. Reserve forward Jim O'Brien also contributed to the surge with six of his 10 points and three timely steals.

The Sounds led 50-46 at the half, but were outscored 44-30 in the third period. They trailed by 10, 90-80 going into the final quarter. Guard Freddie Lewis, who started the season with 27 points, Center Marvin Barnes had 21 points and a game high 20 rebounds.

Hawks edge Cavs 113-112

ATLANTA (UPI) — Tom Henderson's career-high 30 points, including four crucial ones in the final 90 seconds, pushed the Atlanta Hawks past Cleveland 113-112 in overtime Tuesday night.

Cleveland led most of the way, 42-43 at the half, but the Hawks overcame their shooting and finally caught Cleveland at 80-80 with less than 10 minutes left in the game.

The Hawks built an apparently secure 102-97 lead with one and a half minutes left but seven straight Cavaliers points put Cleveland up by two with six seconds remaining.

Henderson hit an 18-foot jumper with two seconds left to tie the game.

Blazers beat New York

PORTLAND (UPI) — Reserve forward Lloyd Neal scored 15 points in the fourth quarter Tuesday night to lead the Portland Trail Blazers past the New York Knicks 106-92 in a national basketball association contest.

Neal's offense and the Portland defense that held the Knicks to four points in the first five minutes of the first quarter paved the way for Portland's second consecutive victory.

Ohio drops Missouri

ATHENS, Ohio (UPI) — Scott Love scored 25 points and grabbed 14 rebounds and Walter Luckett added 22 points to lead Ohio University to a 78-65 victory over Missouri Tuesday night.

The Bobcats, now 6-4, scored seven straight points late in the first half to take a 36-28 margin at the intermission and the Tigers, 5-5, never were able to catch up.

Ohio University built its lead to 17 points with 4:42 remaining and, although Missouri trimmed to seven points with 1:40 to go, two free throws each by Love and Phil Miller tied it for the Bobcats.

Jim Kennedy was high 5-man for the Tigers with 21 points and Willie Smith added 14.

What's What

—What you can't name in the next three minutes at least 10 functional parts of your own body that are identified by three-letter words? Ask your roommate. Five to help you answer this weighty query. Here's a clue: Eye are above the neck and five below. All right, they're: Eye, Ear, Lip, Jaw, Gum, Arm, Hip, Leg, Toe, Rib. Nothing to it.

—HEREABOUTS you won't find any one person who is a Protestant, a Catholic and a Jew all at the same time, obviously. But in China you may meet numerous citizens, each of whom is a Confucian, a Taoist and a Buddhist all at the same time.

—DO YOU want to check up on your church? The law says all Internal Revenue Service returns of tax-exempt institutions must be open to the public.

ACES

Q. "How come we refer to the best of the wartime fighter pilots as 'aces'?"

A. That goes back to 1915. A French pilot named Roland Garros knocked five German planes out of the sky in 15 days. That supreme accolade, the Legion of Honor, was his immediately. And French writers dubbed him, "l'as," which is what the French call the highest card in a suit. That meant "ace" to the American correspondents, so such is what they called said hero in their dispatches.

—THAT grasshoppers are edible is widely known. Less widely known is the fact that they are three times as nutritious pound for pound as beefsteak.

HEADBANGERS

Far more baby boys than baby girls indulge in that intriguing pastime of banging their heads against walls. In fact, about three-and-a-half times as many boys as girls do it, studies show. Usually, they start just under 8 months of age, and hang in there, banging away, until they're about 3 1/2 years old. Indications are that only about seven per cent of all babies can be described as such head-bangers. And they generally are said to be easy-going, trouble-free youngsters who hardly ever cry.

—THE CITIZENRY has been issuing Christmas trees out of houses lately at the rate of one tree for every four and a half people nationwide.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market, which has rallied for the past week, opened higher Wednesday in moderately active trading on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow Jones industrial average, which has gained almost 40 points in the past six sessions, was ahead of 47 points at 641.86 shortly after the opening in a market of advanced led securities, 255 to 167, among the 86 issues crossing the tape.

Analysts generally agree the recent advances have been fostered by moves of the Federal Reserve Board in moderately active trading to combat the nation's deepening recession.

Also, many investors were encouraged—by indications President Ford will take positive actions soon to remedy the economic problems of the country. The major uncertainty affecting the market is the Middle East situation. Also, some investors have been a bit anxious over increased fighting in Indochina.

CHICAGO—Sugar and grains declined, red meats advanced, and speculative pressure continued in gold during Tuesday's futures trading.

Commodity News Service said the world sugar market fell sharply for the second straight day, with losses of 1 1/2 cents to 2 1/2 cents on 1,925 contracts. The world spot price was cut 2 1/2 cents on tone to 41.75 cents apound; FOB Caribbean ports. Domestic spots were also reduced 1 1/2 cents and fixed at 44 cents a pound, duty paid.

Sugar 10 futures were down 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 cents on 180 trades while sugar 12 settled 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 cents down on 10 trades.

Speculative pressure continued in gold futures trading as traders sought criteria for analysis of the trading. Final details of the GSA gold auction included a weighted average price of accepted bids of 165.65, but considered as 165.00 for the day. Traders see the limited interest in gold by U.S. citizens as a sign of confidence in the economy.

Declines in the gold and the dollar and the general weak economic tone were major factors in the market.

Live cattle futures posted moderate advances in light trading as, improved carcass trading tempered heavy trading. Nearby February was 23 cents higher, despite a decline in the settlement price. Live cattle futures rallied punctuated the day's trade.

Live hog futures closed firmer, following steady cash prices and early pork belly advances. Final spot showed gains ranging from 16 to 15 cents in February to 47 in August, on an estimated volume of 3,969 carlots.

Despite weaker cash bellies, futures strengthened and the March contract touched the limit high. The contract finished slightly off the day's highs, with February gaining 130 points and May 145. Trade was estimated at 6,266 con.

tracts, the best in seven months.

Wheat futures were involved in a limit drop with corn and beans, as selling outlasted demand.

Commercial hedge selling weighed down corn futures, which worked downward in an upward-down trade. Futures were within a shade of limit.

Earnings drop seen

E. SURET, Minn.—Green Giant Co. said today it expects net earnings in the fiscal third quarter ended Dec. 28 will be lower than anticipated.

Preliminary, unaudited results will be disclosed on or about Jan. 17. Robert C. Cosgrove, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, said third quarter margins on canned and frozen vegetable products were down, reflecting price commitments made in the second quarter and the impact of the falling U.S. economy on consumer buying.

"We anticipate improvement in the fourth quarter now that we have accounted for the major effects of our shortened corn and bean supplies and adjusted our prices accordingly," Cosgrove said. "We remain concerned, however, about the potential effects of the recession on consumer purchasing, a situation not expected a few months ago."

Cosgrove said the company looks for sustained sales and earnings growth in fiscal 1975-76 as it expects to enter the new pack season with low inventory carryover and firm pricing.

Beef marts hold line as '74 ends

DENVER, Colo.—The New Year holiday disrupted the cattle market this week—the American National Cattleman's Association said today in its weekly analysis.

Extremely cold temperatures were fully steady to slightly stronger in some areas, while dressed beef prices were generally steady. Feeder cattle prices were mostly untested with many auctions not operating during the holiday period. Hog slaughter was off for the week with late week price strength noted after some pressure early.

The country's general economic situation continues to be a major market factor with the latest employment report indicating a slightly above seven-percent unemployed and another decline in the numbers of people employed.

Feeder cattle trade was extremely slow, particularly early in the week. After Jan. 7, more trade developed but volume for the week was light. Snow in some areas and uncertainty about the market were the main factors slowing activity. In the beef calf prices were steady to weak while heavy yearling feeders were steady to a little stronger in some areas. Some contracting of yearlings off wheat pasture has been seen, generally in the 28.00-31.00 range.

Prices on average choice steers in both the auctions and the country were: 700-800 lbs., 26.00-31.00; 600-700 lbs., 26.00-30.00; 500-600 lbs., 25.00-30.00; 400-500 lbs., 26.00-31.00; 300-400 lbs., 24.00-32.00; under 300 lbs., up to 35.00.
