Arab envoy seeks Ethiopia truce

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — An Arab envoy opened talks with Ethiopia's military rulers today in an attempt to end 11 days of bloody fighting between government soldiers and rebels seeking independence for the northern province of Eritrea.

But shooting continued north of Asmara, the Eritrean capital and center of fighting that has claimed 1,600 lives and left thousands of persons injured or homeless.

Raps force

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic presidential aspirant Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington said Sunday that rather than threaten intervention in the Middle East, the U.S. should "withdraw our gunboats."

In a television interview, Jackson also said he doesn't see much hope for Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's latest peace initiative. Private and direct diplomacy is the best way to deal with the Middle East, he said.

Soyuz crew vows to 'do our best'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Russia's Apollo-Soyuz cosmonauts, joined at America's Inverness Saturn rocket for the first time today and promised the Apollo launch crew "we will do our best" when the Russians meet three astronauts in orbit this summer.

"I know the Apollo spacecraft is ready for flight and the Soyuz is ready for flight too," Soyuz commander Alexei A. Leonov told the gathering of ground crewmen at the big Apollo launch complex.

Worker slain shortly before IRA truce

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen in a stolen car shot to death a 19-year-old Roman Catholic roadworker in South Belfast today less than 10 hours before the start of a new Irish Republican Army ceasefire.

The victim, who died in a hospital with a bullet wound in his heart, was the fourth Roman Catholic assassinated in Northern Ireland in less than 48 hours.

New hopes for peace were raised Sunday night when the IRA announced an open-ended cease-fire for Northern Ireland and Britain effective from 11 p.m. MST.

Strike shuts McDonnell-Douglas plant

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Nearly 12,000 aerospace workers today struck the McDonnell Douglas Corp., seriously curtailing jet fighter plane production at the St. Louis plant.

Picket lines were set up at the aircraft manufacturing complex shortly after the midnight strike deadline passed.

Stricken

CHICAGO (UPI) — Elijah Muhammad, 77, founder and spiritual leader of the Black Muslims, remained in critical condition today following a weekend heart seizure.

A spokesman at Mercy Hospital said his condition had stabilized somewhat. He was admitted Sunday, a victim of an affliction diagnosed as congestive heart failure.

Soviets testing improved SAM

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet Union is battle-testing an improved version of its SAM ground-to-air missile that played havoc with the Israeli air force during the 1973 Middle East war, Western defense sources said today.

The missile — an updated version of the SAM-7 — is being used by Communist forces in South Vietnam, where government officials say its impact has prevented the American-supplied South Vietnamese air force from playing a major part in recent fighting.

Simon sees higher interest rates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary William F. Simon told Congress today the current decline in interest rates — which has been seen as an important factor in curtailing the recession — may soon come to an end.

Simon raised that possibility in testimony before the Senate Finance Committee and asked Congress not to increase the already "staggering" budget deficit President Ford proposed for fiscal 1976.

His testimony compounded the economic bad news contained in a report issued Sunday.

Helms perjury charge?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former CIA Director Richard Helms has admitted he gave incomplete information about CIA activities in Chile to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in 1973. He may face a perjury investigation.

Helms, now U.S. ambassador to Iran, told the committee Jan. 22, 1975 that he had not deliberately withheld answers during his testimony two years earlier. An edited transcript of his recent appearance was released by the committee Sunday.

"If I was less than forthcoming it wasn't because I was being bloody-minded, it was simply because I was trying to stay within what I thought was the congressional guidelines," Helms said.

The possibility Helms might have committed perjury by giving false or misleading answers in 1973 was raised in September 1974 in a confidential report by the staff of the subcommittee on multinational corporations and submitted to his ranking members, Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Clifford Case, R-N.J. The report recommended a perjury inquiry.

In 1973, Helms denied point blank that the CIA passed money to opponents of Chile's late

Budget chief Lynn sworn in WASHINGTON (UPI) — Preparing to depart on another trip to sell his economic-energy program, President Ford watched today as James T. Lynn assumed the job of overseeing what surely will be the nation's biggest peacetime deficit budget.

Lynn, 47, former secretary of Housing and Urban Development and one of the fastest-rising young bureaucrats in government, was sworn in as director of the Office of Management and Budget. The oath was administered by Supreme Court Associate Justice William Rehnquist.

Lynn, who succeeds Roy L. Ash, will retain his Cabinet rank but take a sizeable cut in salary, from $60,000 to $42,500.

"Attacks on the system designed to erode doubts of its soundness and durability are a disservice to the nation," said the unprecedented benefits of the program that provides monthly benefits to more than 30 million retired and disabled persons and survivors of workers.

It said there would be enough money to continue payments through the rest of the century and it was crucial of Social Security critics to claim otherwise.

The 4,500-word white paper, entitled "Social Security: A Sound and Durable Institution of Great Value," was signed by five former secretaries of Health, Education and Welfare and three former Social Security commissioners.

The former HEW secretaries were Elliot Richardson and Robert Finch, who both served in the Nixon administration; John Gardner, Current Cause chairman, and Wilbur Cohen, instrumental in the development of Medicare, both under President Johnson, and Arthur Marxist President Salvador Allende, or tried to overthrow his government.

However, current CIA Director William Colby has confirmed the CIA spent more than $11 million to destabilize the Chilean government and economy between 1964-1970.

"I know the Nixon administration wanted it (the Allende government) overthrown," Helms said, "but there was no way to do it that anybody knew of, and any projects that were made in Chile to ascertain whether there was any force there that was likely to bring this about produced no evidence that there was any such force."

TF taxpayers query budget

TWIN FALLS — Only four taxpayers appeared this morning for opening sessions of the annual Twin Falls County budget hearings.

The taxpayers attending offered no protests but asked questions on several phases of the proposed $87 million dollar budget.

Harold Lancaster, county auditor, reviewed his own budget, which he said is up largely because of the addition of one magistrate in the county for which he must furnish clerical help and supplies. He said even postage rate increases can mean a big jump in his budget.

Lancaster said his department is one of the few bringing in more than it spends, estimating about $300,000 revenue from court costs and filing fees in 1974. His proposed budget is $151,306.

Ron Taylor, assessor, told taxpayers the law requiring a reappraisal of property from the ground up every five years, costs the taxpayers about $400,000. He said he and other assessors in the state plan to contest the law as unnecessary if assessors and their deputies, making field appraisals every year, do a thorough job.

In Twin Falls County, he said, annual appraisals involve a personal inspection of all property. Improvements are added each year to the tax rolls.

"Once we are caught up on this, there is no need for the costly reappraisal from the ground up of all property in the county every five years," he said.

Friday said the ad valorem budget, up from $57,000 to $87,000 this year, must cover cost of additional help to transfer new assessments from the five-year appraisal to the rolls for 1976.

17 Burley cops quit in protest

By DAVID BOCKMAN
Times-News writer

BURLEY — At least 17 of Burley's 31 cops quit today, following the firing this morning of police chief Gary Booth.

Booth was fired during a special council meeting, held for the purpose of his termination. However, Booth refused to attend the meeting, and later called it illegal, and maintains that he is still chief.

Following the meeting, 17 officers dramatically threw their badges down before acting Mayor I.V. Morgan, who had presided at the meeting.

The police officers were led in their actions by Sgt. Kevin Kelly, who said Booth's firing was "not justified, and he wouldn't remain on the force and become a 'lackey' for the council and mayor."

Agnes Young said she had been in the force 19 years, but she quit to show her support for the chief. Young could have retired in one more year, according to fellow officer.

Officer Jerry James said the council gave the "flimsiest excuses I've ever seen," for Booth's firing.

James and another officer, Craig Dayley, said a campaign would be undertaken to recall the entire council and mayor.

Booth's termination, which had been expected since last week, came before an overflow crowd in the city council's city chambers. At least 50 people crowded into the hall, as another 50 waited outside.

Mayor Charles (Chuck) Shaddock who had called for Booth's ouster was not present. Councilman L.V. Morgan presided, stating Shaddock was out of town because of the death of a grandson.

Today, Morgan, acting for Shaddock called for Booth's removal, because by his various actions Booth "caused the executive and legislative departments to have a complete lack of confidence in his ability to perform some of the most responsible functions of a department head, particularly in fiscal matters and matters involving personnel, all of which directly affect the ability of the mayor and council in management of finances and employee relations."

Councilman John Croft then moved that acting Mayor Morgan's firing of Booth be upheld. The vote to do so was unanimous, with only councilman Croft, Jerry Vegwert, Cloyd Taylor and Leonard King available to vote. Councilman James Hoper was out of town.

Following the council meeting, Booth held a press conference at the Flanders Inn.

The just-resigned officers, and most of the crowd from the council meeting attended.

The meeting was emotionally charged. Outside, a police officer was overcome with emotion, and had to be restrained by fellow officers and friends.

Booth said he had refused to go to the council meeting because "it was illegal, and I wouldn't lend credence to it."

Henry arrives in Israel

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew to Israel today, charged with the delicate task of keeping the American peace initiative in the Middle East alive with a new agreement between Egypt and Israel.

"Good Luck, Henry, God Bless you," President Ford told Kissinger at the ramp of the secretary's plane before takeoff from Washington.

A senior official aboard Kissinger's plane said nine-country, 10-day trip was "extremely important and extremely delicate."

Hatless, his nose red with the cold, the President accompanied Kissinger and his wife to the plane, followed by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and other cabinet members.

It was an extraordinary send-off from the President and obviously designed to counter the Democratic party criticism Kissinger.

Ford said 23 million Americans look at Kissinger's record as accomplishments in achieving Middle East peace.

Kissinger's blue and silver Air Force jet touched down at El-Rhine-Mann U.S. Air Force base in Frankfurt today before continuing on to Israel, where it landed at Ben Gurion international airport outside Tel Aviv.

Study shows Social Security healthy, needs funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Social Security system is strong and healthy despite a long range need for additional financing, eight former government officers said today in a bipartisan white paper.

The authors of the system designed to erode doubts of its soundness and durability are a disservice to the nation," said the unprecedented benefits of the program that provides monthly benefits to more than 30 million retired and disabled persons and survivors of workers.

It said there would be enough money to continue payments through the rest of the century and it was crucial of Social Security critics to claim otherwise.

The 4,500-word white paper, entitled "Social Security: A Sound and Durable Institution of Great Value," was signed by five former secretaries of Health, Education and Welfare and three former Social Security commissioners.

The former HEW secretaries were Elliot Richardson and Robert Finch, who both served in the Nixon administration; John Gardner, Current Cause chairman, and Wilbur Cohen, instrumental in the development of Medicare, both under President Johnson, and Arthur

Fleming, an Eisenhower appointee who is now President Ford's commissioner on aging.

The former commissioners who participated were Charles Schottland, William Mitchell and Robert Ball.

Through the paper takes to task those critics whom it accuses of making "destructive," "irresponsible" and sometimes "vicious" attacks on the nearly 40-year-old social insurance system, it nearly always criticizes.

But the paper comes just before the expected submission of a report to Congress by a statutory Social Security advisory council, which will contend that the trust funds, held in reserve for emergencies, face a $6 to $8 billion deficit in 1976.

That report says the deficit will be caused by inflation and larger future deficits will occur because benefits over the long range will be paid out faster than worker payroll contributions are paid in.

The sixth such council to investigate the system since 1938, it will recommend within a couple of weeks that Congress dip in to general revenues to make up the short-range deficit, a move that almost certainly would mean income tax increases.

Pre-Tet attack total set at 25

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist forces blew up a passenger ferry and shot down a troop transport helicopter, killing or wounding 25 persons in advance of the Tet lunar new year, the Saigon military command said today.

The command said the ferry hit a mine Sunday near the town of Hai My while traveling along a canal in the Mekong Delta. The boat was destroyed. Fifteen villagers were killed and four wounded, the command said.

Military officers said Communist forces shot down a big CH-47 Chinook helicopter with a heat-seeking missile Sunday near the town of Tuyen Binh, 60 miles southwest of Saigon. All six crewmen were killed.

In Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu today signed a Tet amnesty decree freeing 269 prisoners. The lunar new year celebrations began on Tuesday.

The command beefed up defenses around the capital to thwart possible Communist attacks during the traditional three-day Tet holiday.

Opposition legislators began a 24-hour Tet hunger strike this morning. "To protest the corrupted, inefficient and oppressive administration of President Thieu."

The 50 legislators, in a statement read before the strike began, said Thieu has used Tet to carry out "dark purposes." They called on him to resign to save the country from collapse.

"In order to secure his precarious position he has used Tet to carry out his dictatorial measures: closing opponent newspapers, terrorizing journalists and smothering public opinion," the statement said.

Safety data for Grange

FILSH — Mrs. Craig Dunlap gave a safety report with information on how to reach the rural fire department at the Grange meeting Friday night.

Alfred Theurer asked women not to forget pies for the sale Thursday. Pies may be left at the R.J. Bennett home, Filsh.

Stanley Walters reported on national and state legislation. The Grange visitation meeting will be on Feb. 26 at the Twin Falls Grange.

Mrs. Clinton Dougherty told about her work with low income families through the extension service. She serves as a coordinator for the program.

Stanley Walters read a Valentine poem and Mrs. Walter gave a reading on Mrs. Lincoln's sister mother for the evening's program.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Matthews served refreshments.

Harley V. Crippen

GOODING — Harley V. Crippen, 70, Gooding, died Saturday at Gooding Memorial Hospital of an apparent heart attack.

He was born on Nov. 5, 1904, at Sibley, Iowa. He came to Idaho in 1924 and lived in the Kimberly and Hansen area. He was married to Helen May Scherupp on Nov. 26, 1930, in Twin Falls.

He moved to Gooding from Bull in 1942. At that time he was employed by the Idaho Power Co. for which he had worked since 1930. In 1945, he went into business as an electrical contractor, known as Miller and Crippen Electric Co. He continued in that business until 1953, when he opened the Gooding Sports Shop, which he ran until 1955.

In 1955, he went to work for Intermountain Gas Co. as a sales and service representative.

Mr. Crippen served four terms as mayor of Gooding, from 1949 to 1957 and from 1970 until 1974. He served on the school board several years, including a term as chairman. He was also fire chief for several years. He had been active in the Boy Scout program since 1939 and at the time of his death he was committee chairman of Troop 23.

He was a third degree member of the Knights of Columbus and was active in the Gooding Lions Club, serving as president twice. He was a member of the Gooding Chamber of Commerce, the Gooding Elks Lodge, of which he was the past exalted ruler, the Gooding County Historical Society, had served as its president, and was a board member of the Senior Citizens Center.

He is survived by one son, Richard Crippen, Sacramento, Calif.; two brothers, William Crippen and Walter Crippen, both Twin Falls, and three grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his wife in 1962.

Question . . .

My mother is receiving a monthly social security annuity check. Is she entitled to receive a lump sum death benefit at the time of her death?

Answer . . .

If your mother is receiving a check as an annuity from her husband's earnings there is no death benefit allowed.

If your mother's monthly check is computed from her earnings she is entitled to a burial benefit.

If your mother was entitled to benefits from her earnings but elected to receive a larger benefit from her husband's earnings she does not forfeit her right to a death benefit. She will receive this benefit based on her eligibility.

State employe wage decision needed

BOISE (UPI) — As Idaho lawmakers begin their 10th legislative week, they will have to find an answer to the critical question of state employe salaries to keep the legislative process from bogging down.

The Senate has been wrestling with the problem for three weeks and has not come any closer to finding a solution. The powerful Joint Finance Appropriations Committee, which reviews and recommends budgets for state government, told the Senate Friday its work may come to a standstill unless the salary question is resolved.

Democrats are stubbornly backing Gov. Cecil Andrus' proposal to give state employes a 7.5 per cent cost-of-living increase with reallocations. Republicans are uncertain about what amount they want to give state employes, as they have changed their minds three times.

What the majority party does know, however, is that it won't support Andrus' recommendation.

There is a measure before the Senate sponsored by the GOP. It would give state employes in the upper pay grades a 4.2 per cent cost-of-living increase, while allowing those in lower pay grades a 7.5 per cent hike. The proposal strikes all reallocations.

Three Republican senators jumped rank last week and sided with Democrats against this measure, forcing the Republican leadership to come up with another proposal.

The Republicans caucused for an hour Friday and unanimously agreed on a proposal that would give employes a 3 per cent increase with reallocations. If this measure Republicans are pushing today as Democrats continue to try and sell their 7.5 per cent boost plan.

The Senate will also be considering two tax relief bills that were passed by the House Friday.

One of the bills would give Idahoans a 10 per cent refund on their 1974 income tax returns and tap $9 million from the state's surplus, estimated at between $20 million and $32 million. The other measure would increase the credit on groceries from $15 to $20 for one year.

Democrats have pledged to oppose tax relief measures on the grounds that they eat-up surplus monies that Andrus said should go for highway improvement projects and public buildings. Republicans are dedicated to opposing Andrus' recommendation.

200 Nevada miners' jobsless

ELY, Nev. (UPI) — Kennecott's Nevada Mines Division is going on a five-day week instead of seven, forcing layoffs of some 200 workers in the Ely, McGill area of eastern Nevada.

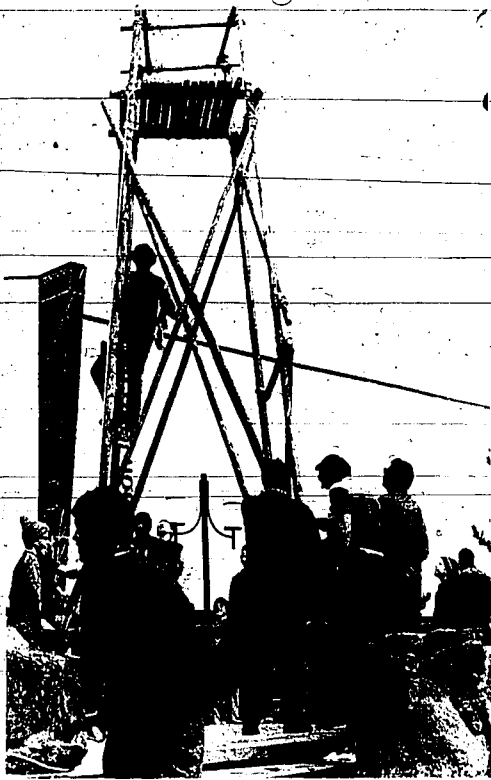

W. H. Winn, division general manager, said the cutbacks are the results of decreasing copper sales that have left Kennecott with a surplus of equipment. The buildup in copper inventory requires that production be reduced until a better balance is restored, Winn said.

At the Nevada Mines Division, some operational units may actually be in service seven days a week, but production in these areas will be adjusted to a five-day rate.

Many persons in the Ely area said the cutbacks would immediately hurt the economy. The layoffs mean a $40,000 decrease in Kennecott's weekly payroll. The company is the area's biggest employer with some 1,450 persons.

John Orr, superintendent of White Pine Schools, said the effects are already being felt.

Another vote sought on speed limit issue

BOISE (UPI) — Proponents of a measure that would make the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit permanent and reinstate normal penalties for violations will again try to get their proposal passed today.

The Idaho House killed the bill Friday by a 31-34 vote, but there was a move to reconsider the issue today. Since the vote was so close and two representatives changed their minds at the last moment, voting against the bill sponsors hope the second time will be a charm.

Several legislators favor setting the permanent speed limit at 55 m.p.h. but are opposed to reinstating the normal penalties.

Last year, during the middle of the energy crisis, the legislature had to pass the speed limit or face the possibility of losing federal monies. In protest, the lawmakers assed a temporary limit but set a simple fine of $5 for violations.

The House did get rid of one of its more controversial issues, Friday — tax relief. Using their superior numbers, House Republicans ramrodded two tax relief measures over Democrats and on to the Senate.

The Senate will begin considering the two measures today, and it is expected to be a hot issue because Democrats have pledged to oppose every tax relief bill.

One of the measures would give Idahoans a 10 per cent refund on their 1974 income tax returns by tapping the state's surplus of $9 million. The other measure would increase the temporary grocery credit from $15 to $20.

Senate Democrats will probably oppose the two measures because they say the proposed tax relief bills cut up too many surplus dollars that Gov. Cecil Andrus says should go for highway improvement projects. Republicans oppose Andrus' recommendation for disposing of the surplus and are dedicated to giving the money back to taxpayers. The surplus is estimated at between $20 million and $32 million. The Senate is still dragging its feet over the question of state employes' salaries. But it received word last Friday from the powerful Joint Finance Appropriations Committee, which reviews and recommends budgets for state government, that its work may come to a standstill unless the salary question is resolved.

Committee heads might revolt against Larsen

BY RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — Allen F. Larsen, R-Blackfoot, appears to be approaching his first real crisis as speaker of the House.

Some of his committee chairmen are ready to revolt because he failed to support two of their colleagues on the floor in the battle over printing of the Equal Rights Amendment legislation.

From the time a freshman legislator first enters the House, he is urged to support his committee chairmen and they, in turn, his leadership.

But when chairman Ed Rice, R-Boise, of the Judiciary Committee, and George Danielson, R-Cambridge, of the Printing Committee, asked for additional time to research a legal question before the rescinder is printed, Larsen did not support them.

Instead, he majority leader Wall Larsen, R-New Plymouth, and Caucus Chairman Elaine Kearnes, R-Idaho Falls, helped provide the necessary 32 votes to print the rescinder. Only one member of the GOP leadership, Assistant Majority Leader Jack Kennick, R-Boise, supported the two chairmen.

In fact, five chairmen — Kurt Johnson, R-Idaho Falls, of the Education Committee, J. Vard Chubbart, R-Blaine, of the State Affairs Committee, Carroll Dean, R-Notus, of the Agricultural Committee, Clifford Scoresby, R-Iona, of the Resources and Conservation Committee, and Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls, of the Ways and Means Committee — voted to print the rescinder.

This, in the opinion of some legislative veterans, seriously eroded not only Larsen's leadership but the "teamwork" system by which the leadership moves legislation through the House.

And without this leadership based on the "I scratch my back, I'll scratch yours" philosophy, without this tacit understanding, it's every person for himself.

It didn't take long for the repercussions to begin. When the Printing Committee met later in the day Thursday, it voted to print all measures before it without even reading them. Normally, it checks them for error.

Sources within the GOP caucus said they detected an immediate erosion of Larsen's power in a meeting just a few hours after the House voted to print the ERA rescinder.

Analysis

Larsen has attempted since then to smooth some ruffled feelings. But some of the chairmen aren't buying it. One told him that while he is not "out to get" the speaker, he may not be as cooperative as he has in the past.

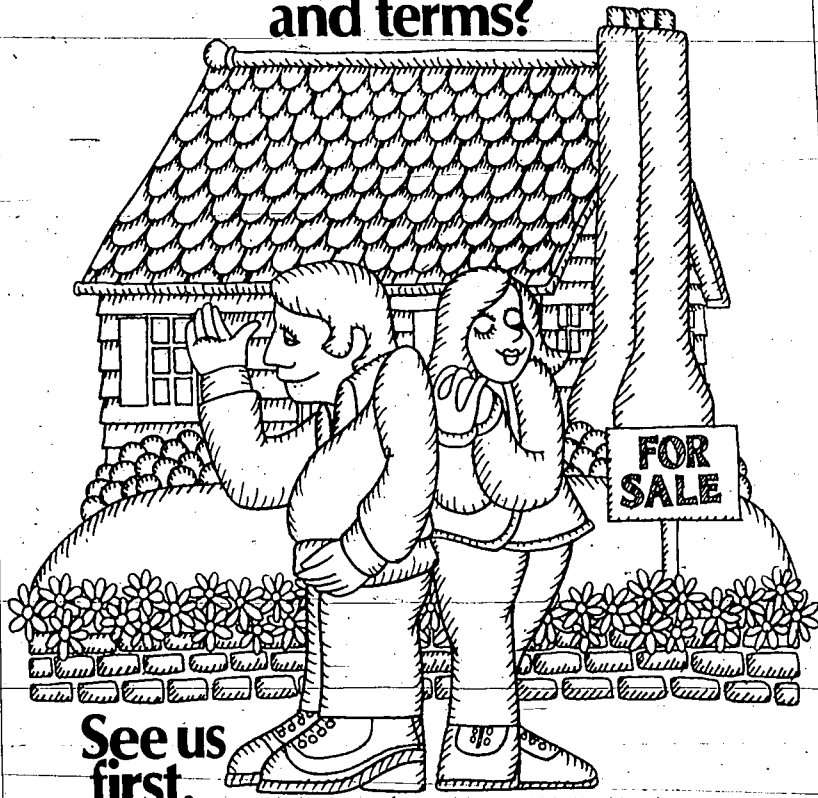

That could become critical if Larsen needs votes to push the leadership program through the House of floor support to sustain a conference ruling from the chair.

It also may mean some trouble ahead, too, for those five committee chairmen who failed to support their colleagues should they, later on, try to retain legislation in their committees.

And, it's a situation made to order for the majority party to seize the reins and guide this Legislature onto a different course.

CIA on the defensive

The CIA investigation unfolds, mostly in the press, and there is no doubt that the agency has become the major hobgoblin of the day.

The height of the hysteria was voiced at Yale University, by John Lindsay, who, briefly in residence there to be criticized on his experience in municipal affairs, attacked the composition of the Rockefeller panel ("not one of them...the members...has a record of civil liberties"), and added that he himself always knew that "the CIA would become a monster and smite its all." Presumably the CIA is to blame after eight years of leadership by Lindsay. Come to think of it, there is no more plausible explanation for the mess in New York than that the enemies of Lindsay were secretly running the government.

There was seldom a situation in which pure nullistic semantics played so great a role.

The spokesmen for CIA have not rushed forward to give detailed accounts of the Agency's activities, and that's wrong. Or, as it is usually put, the CIA has "refused to specify the basis of its allegations." But it is okay for Seymour Hersh of the New York Times to make unqualified statements on the basis of unspecified "well-placed sources."

Then there is the subtle use of quotation marks. Hersh told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that he could not "recall" whether the White House had urged the CIA to engage in domestic spying. The New York Times, quoting well-placed sources, said that the CIA had violated "Why the quines around Helms 'recall' where they do not belong? Why not quines around 'well-placed sources' where, according to the rules of punctuation, they do belong?"

The topsy-turviness progresses. Miles Copeland, the author who has had considerable experience with and within the CIA, wrote recently a letter to the London Times skewering a typical report on the willkwa. The Times' reporter had quoted President Ford aboard U.S. One, flying to Vail. "The President said he had been assured in a midnight telephone call from William Colby, the CIA director, that such ac-

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

"For example, he said..." I quote the Post story. "a CIA training program for local police departments was widely thought to have an incursion into the domestic field. In fact, its purpose was to share with local police several devices and methods the CIA had developed in its own work. One device, he said, is engaged in the apprehension of murderers by detecting whether a suspect had held a piece of metal in the last 24 hours."

The charter says that the CIA shall have "no police, subpoena, law enforcement powers, or internal security functions..." But Papich is responsible for protecting intelligence sources and methods from unauthorized disclosure.

Complexities are being lost to the ideological rigidity. He wonders whether the critics of the CIA would really demand that it reveal its ties on espionage between U.S. probes and foreign moles? Or conversely will a thorough investigation reveal that the CIA has not done enough? Does it make sense, in any case, to repeat the lies of the past when the enemy is defeated? Invade your own territory!

US economists see recovery in midyear

By PETERS NAGAN
Newhouse News Service

WASHINGTON—Governmental economists are just much more confident you will see the beginnings of a business recovery some time around the middle of this year.

They aren't saying, by any means, that a turnaround in the current business recession is already in the bag. Business activity is still weak, industrial production is still slipping, and a few more bad months—with further increases in unemployment—still lie ahead.

Nevertheless, the experts are more optimistic now than they were a month ago. And they feel that the odds on an upturn are growing week by week. One self-confessed optimist would put the probabilities at 20 to 1.

The happier feeling about the outlook could be in part a typical backsliding of the pessimism, even professional analysts can stand only so much gloom and can overreact at a little good news. But there are also signs that certain self-correcting forces are beginning to take hold. In addition, government actions offer promise of getting things going.

For one thing, business men are working out their inventories of materials, goods in process, and finished items at a much more rapid rate than had been anticipated. That, in turn, has lessened stocks which had been thought excessive, and led to a drop in cost of current sales. This will have to pick up.

The auto industry is a case in point. Current production is below sales and could pick up again the huge overhang of unsold cars has been worked down. Of course, auto production moves up and down with the economy.

Consumers are taking up their personal finances, slowly getting back into position to buy

Specifically, they are paying off debts. In reducing their purchases of so-called long-ticket items, like autos and appliances, they are contracting smaller volumes of installment loans, which means that their repayments are coming ahead of new obligations.

The experts count the recent strong rally in the stock market as a positive factor in the business outlook. By increasing the value of their capital assets, people are made to feel wealthier or, at least, more secure—and this, in turn, is a marked factor in the industry's raising new capital through sale of additional shares. Plant-expansion programs are dynamic job creators.

are using the money to pay off their borrowings from government housing-assistance agencies and to fund up their cash reserves. But, in a matter of months, they will be ready to resume lending on a near-normal basis and give home-building a lift.

Indeed, many analysts expect home-building to lead the recovery. Increased construction activity will have its customary ripple effect, increasing orders for materials, appliances, and home furnishings and boosting payrolls and constant spending in the process.

But the recovery in home-building will be slow. Many developers were forced out of business during the housing slump. Others cut operations to the bone and will need time to assemble land and start crews and get their supplies flowing smoothly again.

The expansion in the rest of the economy will be slow, too. Many businesses are squeezed for cash, so that with shortages few and delivery times brief, they will not rush to build up large inventories.

What is more, it will take time for the early evidence of recovery to be translated into business decisions to expand spending for new plant and equipment. Such spending is a key ingredient of any strong business upturn.

A slow recovery means that unemployment will stay high for several weeks to come. Some economists estimate that it takes a rate of real growth of something like 4 per cent a year to whittle unemployment down. That much growth is thought to be still a year or more away.

For the time being, though, the experts will settle for a modest beginning. Considering the gloom they felt a month or so ago, when plants were closing wholesale and unemployment was zooming, just the increasing likelihood of a recovery is good news.

Analysis

The tax cuts that are now a virtual certainty to be enacted are another important plus in the analysts' outlook. Whether Congress stays close to the President's program or revises it substantially, significant amounts of tax money will be left in consumers' hands, and much of that money will be spent.

There is also a psychological or confidence factor that looms large in the analysts' currently optimistic thinking. The President and Congress are coming to grips with the nation's economic problems. At last. Apart from the specifics of the programs being initiated, people are being reassured by evidence of leadership and their jobs, incomes, security, and ability to spend.

The sharp declines in short-term interest rates have stimulated renewed inflows of savings to mortgage-lending institutions. They

Food stamp price increase — pro, con

By Congressional Quarterly
WASHINGTON—Unless Congress or the courts block it, the price that more than 17 million Americans pay for food stamps will jump March 1.

President Ford proposed the price hike late last year. Reaction against the measure was muted in Congress, and both the House and Senate are expected to pass legislation that would prevent it. Ford probably would veto legislation and two-thirds majorities of both chambers would be required to override the veto.

Aside from the legislature seeking to limit the increase, two suits already have been filed challenging it in court.

Under Ford's proposal, all food stamp recipients will be required to pay 30 per cent of their monthly net income for their allotments. In the past, recipients have paid according to a sliding scale based on income and family size, with the average household paying 24 per cent of their monthly net income.

The President's proposal was included in his economic package designed to curb federal spending and its impact on the price in a necessary part of the overall plan. Although the Agriculture Department will make the increase effective March 1, Congress can stop it through legislation.

Critics maintain that nearly three-fourths of Ford's proposed budget cuts are from programs that help the poor, the elderly and veterans, and that food stamp recipients can least afford increased costs during inflationary times.

Should the price of food stamps be increased? PRO: ECONOMIC AND EQUITABLE

Increasing the cost of food stamps "has to be viewed in the light of our total governmental expenditures," said Edward J. Hekman, administrator of the Agriculture Department's Food and Nutrition Service. "That is the rationale. That is the thing that brought this all about."

He said federal spending must be cut to bring down the cost of programs like food stamps, where there are no budgetary controls.

Since the Agriculture Department must provide food stamps to anyone who is eligible, explained Food Stamp Division Director R. Royal Shipp, there is no way to limit the size or cost of the food stamp program. By increasing the price of the food stamps, he said, the program would become "less attractive to people" and the number of food stamp recipients might decrease.

Richard L. Felner, an assistant secretary of agriculture, said another justification for the price increase is equity. Under the present system, he said, "we have a very wide range in terms of what people pay as a percentage of their income, the average being about 24 per cent but going all the way down to zero and even up to between there and 30 per cent."

The proposed food stamp price "would require that everyone pay the same percentage, and so on an equity basis it would be the reasonable thing to do," Felner added.

CON: A STEP BACKWARD

Sen. George A. Stegower, D-S.D., chairman of a Senate committee on hunger, and nutrition, who along with 10 other senators introduced one of the bills to block the increase, said that Congress should take this action to increase equity. "It will be the first major step backward in this country's commitment to eliminating hunger."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., another committee member, said that "various methods of stimulating the economy are being discussed and almost everyone agrees that those at the bottom of the economic ladder deserve a significant reduction in their taxes. Why give with one hand and at the same time take away with the other?"

Rep. Andrew Young, D-Ga., called the measure "crude social policy, foolish economic policy and arrogant agricultural policy."

Attacking the argument that the new food stamp price policy would be more equitable, the Community Nutrition Institute, a non-profit Washington-based organization argued in a report: "Single logic should indicate that making virtually everyone in a group of people pay the same percentage of their income for the same thing is not equitable in the long run."

A December, 1974, report by the Joint Economic Committee of Congress called the President's proposal a "most ill-advised administrative change" that would increase the already severe burden that the poor and near-

Few gentlemen today

WASHINGTON—It happens regularly, usually once a year.

Somebody gets mad about diplomatic immunity and makes a fuss—and nothing is done about it.

This time, it is the New York Post reporting that foreign diplomats at the United Nations had been handed "more than 3,000 parking tickets in the past three months, of which more than 3,000 went to the Soviet U.N. mission. The Post said if the Soviets paid their fines for only one month, the city would be $17,330 richer."

Diplomatic immunity exempts foreign officials from paying parking fines, although some settle up. But the Russians always protest when their own chauffeurs are exposed. In a letter to the U.S. mission, the Soviets complained about "a definite hostile design" to hamper the work of the Russian mission.

New York should kick only certain UN personnel, beginning with the chief of delegation, are accorded diplomatic immunity. Others get it only if there is an agreement among their government, the U.S. and the UN. But in Washington, immunity is extended to the envoy's wife, family and official entourage and, in some cases, to his servants.

In short, a foreign diplomat accredited to the United States can commit any crime—from speeding to murder to espionage—and go free. He can refuse to pay his bills, burn down the capital, or even, conceivably, assassinate the President, and no American court can touch him. Washington's only recourse is to force the offender's person out of the city and demand his recall. If an American conspires with a Russian to steal Pentagon secrets, he may be sentenced to life imprisonment, the Russian only to some tedious Moscow clerkship for getting caught.

American everyman here are potential victims of diplomatic immunity. If a diplomat's car strikes a pedestrian or crosses its lights over the diplomatic car, he cannot be taken to court, the person suffering damages must accept whatever compensation is offered by the insurance company—or if the diplomat's car is insured.

Indeed, the American is lucky to get any insurance money. Paying damages is an implicit admission of guilt, and many diplomats refuse to make that admission lest they get into trouble back home. Several years ago then Rep. Judd Brody, D-Va., introduced legislation to make the U.S. government liable for claims against diplomats. Brody had argued that since it was the government that granted immunity, it should pay the costs of a citizen victimized by immunity. The bill never came out of committee.

Citizens find it exceedingly difficult if not impossible to successfully sue a diplomat for nonpayment of a bill. The plaintiff must depend on the good faith of the foreign government involved, which is a sometime thing, especially in Communist and so-called "emerging" countries.

ANDREW TULLY

However, a French-born hardasser had his revenge after spending six months trying to collect a $500 accident fund from a French diplomat. He merely showed up at an Embassy party, handed his bill to the woman and screamed "I want my money." He got a check the next day.

There was also the African diplomat who rented an apartment in a fashionable building. The papers had to be served when the diplomat's wife persisted in looking down over a campfire on the kitchen floor. The diplomat moved out, but refused to pay damages.

Unfortunately, as New Yorkers have discovered from their unhappy proximity to the UN, the successful practice of the theory of diplomatic immunity depends largely upon an international gentlemen's agreement devised to protect a diplomat's goods and earnings in pursuit of his profession.

That was all well in the days when courtesy of men's hosts was part of the rigid diplomatic code. Today, there simply happens to be a shortage of gentlemen.

Newsmen reveal gossip tidbits

NEW YORK (UPI) — A group of Washington correspondents talking about the private lives of public people Sunday let the public in on some tidbits of gossip.

President Kennedy was a womanizer. President Nixon was at times a heavy drinker. Lobbyists got call girls for certain congressmen.

Newsmen knew all about these goings-on — and usually kept silent.

The correspondents were interviewed on a CBS "60 Minutes" program Sunday. They seemed to agree that if the boozers and the skirt chasers in high public office keep it up, they may be in for a rude shock.

"I doubt whether now in this environment, that all these so-called drunks and womanizers are going to get away with it for very long," said Peter Lisagor of the Chicago Daily News.

Some examples of hankypanky cited by the journalists:

Columnist Jack Anderson said, "I had positive first hand evidence that President Kennedy did a little womanizing on the side. I didn't print it."

— Maxine Cheshire of the Washington Post said she had evidence — former President Richard Nixon drank heavily at Camp David, but her paper didn't use the story because she could not find a second source. On the other hand, Anderson said he wrote the story because he was satisfied he had the proof.

Eileen Shanahan of the New York Times said she believes that lobbyists are procuring call girls for members of Congress and their staffs. She also said she had once seen a prominent senator drunk on the Senate floor and wanted to write a story. The Times told her to forget it, she said.

Said Peter Lisagor of the Chicago Daily News: "Now, we're on a post-Watergate period and we're still undergoing what I think is a kind of Watergate catharsis. I believe that there's an inclination and temptation now on the part of an awful lot of reporters in this town to report the kinds of things that have been going on the Hill for a long time."

"And I doubt whether now in this environment, that all these so-called drunks and womanizers are going to get away with it for very long."

'Guard' reduces Rocky's powers

(C) Chicago Sun-Times
WASHINGTON — Members of President Ford's "palace guard" apparently have succeeded in reducing the commitment — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller that would have given him almost complete control of the powerful White House Domestic Council.

Close associates of Rockefeller and White House insiders say negotiations are still going on over the staffing of the Domestic Council. But it was considered unlikely that Rockefeller would be given the power he has sought, and which a number of sources say was promised him — to run the council free of direct White House supervision.

The council is charged with handling both short- and long-range domestic problems, and who controls it will have an enormous amount of power, administration sources say.

In mid-January, administration sources said, Rockefeller was told he could place two of his closest aides, James Cannon and Richard Dunham, in the key positions of running the staff of 35 specialists. But shortly after the commitment was made, Rumsfeld, the White House chief of staff, had proposed old associate John Robson for the position. Ford associates who defend the position that Rockefeller should not be allowed to give Cannon and Dunham a free hand put their case as follows:

— It would remove the council, which is supposed to change from a day-to-day advisory role to one of long-range innovative strategy.

— It would give the president direct control by senior presidential assistants.

— It would lead to the kinds of "tension" and "crossed wires" that both Ford and Rockefeller aides have been trying to avoid.

— It would give the vice president, who has been in office only since Dec. 19, too strong a role in running the country.

There are also strong political factors involved in the White House resistance to Rockefeller. Some administration officials say privately that Kissinger already has largely overshadowed Ford in the field of foreign policy, much as he did former President Nixon.

If Rockefeller, with his nearly boundless drive and energy, were to be allowed to move out too far too fast, it might lead to the appearance that Ford had delegated his leadership to others more forceful than himself.

US training cadre set to aid Saudis

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The U.S. Army veterans who are reportedly being recruited to train Saudi Arabia's oil field security would pull out of the country if there is any U.S. military move involving the oil fields, the project's director said Sunday.

"I couldn't even imagine such an action," said retired Army Col. William G. Walby, "but it seems to me that would end any involvement of ours in the program."

Vinnell Corp. of Alhambra, Calif., is reportedly recruiting several hundred former special forces soldiers and other Vietnam veterans for the project, sponsored by a $77 million U.S. Defense Department contract.

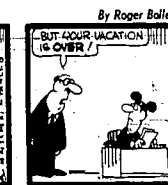

A 1,000-person staff would train Saudi Arabia's 25,000 man internal security force in mechanized infantry techniques. The Saudi Arabian force is primarily responsible for protection of the country's oil fields.

The United States will reportedly provide the military hardware, which would include 105mm howitzers, under a $345 million contract signed with Saudi Arabia in 1974.

Vinnell officials said they were not setting up a "mercenary force," but were merely establishing a training operation and not hiring anyone to actually "pull triggers."

Walby, 49, who joined the company upon retiring as commander of the 4th Advanced Training Brigade and Training Command at Ft. Ord after 30 years service, said he has received many calls about the project, many from job seekers.

Pullout forecast

WASHINGTON (Sun-Times) — Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-Ill., says President Ford probably will be forced by economic conditions to withdraw as a candidate.

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller would be in a position then to lock up the nomination, Crane said and there would likely be nothing the conservatives could do about it.

"The conservative Congressman added he did not think the Republican Party could live through a "second Herbert Hoover."

Stamp allotments insufficient

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Food stamp allotments won't buy the basic amount of food which the government estimates a needy family requires, Agriculture Department figures showed today.

The cost estimated for an Economy Diet Plan — the official base for setting food stamp allotments — rose to $159.90 monthly last December for a four-person family including two school-age children.

The current food stamp allotment for four-member families is $134 a month, $59 or 37.4 per cent — less than the amount needed to buy the Economy Diet — funds at December retail prices. It was up 12.5 per cent from last December.

The new estimates were released as officials awaited President Ford's decision on whether to accept or veto a bill nullifying order to raise the price of food stamps. About 47 million people use the stamps.

The controversy over prices does not affect the level of the monthly allotment. But if Ford's order is allowed to take effect as scheduled March 1, almost all stamp recipients would have to pay 30 per cent of their adjusted net income for stamps, instead of the present 23 per cent average.

Under food stamp law, the $154 stamp allotment which took effect Jan. 1 will remain in effect until June 30 despite official predictions of a 7 to 8 per cent increase in average retail food prices.

Advertising said false

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Federal Trade Commission judge ruled today that A-and-P, the nation's second largest supermarket chain, has deceived consumers by advertising sale prices on items which are either unavailable or marked at higher prices.

shoppers run a 13 per cent chance of not finding what they were lured into the store to buy, or wind up paying more than they thought.

A-and-P, whose gross sales are $6.7 billion a year, said "it was found, as the FTC did, that we have a problem in the roots of our internal procedures and, possibly in the characteristics of A and P's operations."

and deceptive to members of the purchasing public, and is unfair to competitors.

AFL-CIO head predicts jobless rate to hit 10%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany predicts the unemployment rate may be 10 per cent this summer.

Two days after the Labor Department reported 8.2 per cent of the nation's work force was unemployed in January, it projected a yearly average of 8.1 per cent, saying the jobless rate will slowly rise next July.

Meany disagreed Sunday. "I think unemployment may go to 10 per cent by next July," he said.

Meany said his organization's projections are "much more realistic" than the administration's because "we don't put a political figure in it. We don't depress them (the figures) because of political considerations."

Meany was interviewed on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation."

He said the situation is generally worse because the official government unemployment figures do not reflect the actual job market.

"We don't count the underemployed, we don't count those who have become discouraged and are no longer looking for jobs. When you stop looking for a job and you stop registering for a job, you are considered employed. If you work two days a week you are considered employed. The figures do not reflect the extent of the unemployment."

Meany said the administration's economic policy was the "blueprint" of Federal Reserve Board chairman Arthur Burns.

"He's the architect," Meany said. "He is still running the show, his attitude is inhuman. He doesn't understand people. All he understands is his economic theories and they are completely out of date."

Among his recommendations were six per cent home mortgages, 1 million public service jobs, and spending $2 billion for accelerated public works projects.

"All of these things have got to be done to meet this problem but I don't think the White House or the Congress realizes the dimension of the problem and the problem is getting worse every day," he said.

"This country is going into a depression... we've got to take some measures like you take when you are fighting a war... you do a lot of things that you wouldn't do otherwise."

Nixon regrets 'role'

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — Richard Nixon, almost every dropping of power stripped from him six months after he resigned the presidency, "regrets and agonizes" over the Watergate affair, and told a friend during the weekend, "it was wrong of me."

"It was wrong of me, and because of it I left office — I could not continue to subject this nation to a state of bedlam," Nixon was quoted as saying by Rabbi Baruch Korff, a staunch defender of the former president.

Korff told a news conference at the San Clemente Inn Sunday that he spent three days at the Nixon home, finding a mood of depression and sadness as Nixon was forced to discharge most of his staff during the weekend.

Federal funds for Nixon's transition from president to private citizen ran out at midnight Saturday, and Nixon and his wife held a party for departing staff members Saturday afternoon, Korff said it didn't attend.

"I could not face the extreme effort I knew he would undertake to hide his frustrations and appear gregarious because he didn't want his staff to take away an impression of hopelessness," the Rabbi said.

"President Nixon is a lonely, troubled man who faces staggering legal fees and hospital bills that he cannot afford," said Korff, who heads the Nixon Justice Fund, which is trying to raise between $400,000 to $500,000 to pay for legal expenses.

"I have found a nagging weight of uncertainty within the compound," the Rabbi said. "I have concluded that this family has become the first family of sorrow. I have found evidence of inertia, sadness, depression, but no bitterness."

Korff said it was probably optimism that prompted Sen. Barry Goldwater to comment recently that Nixon would like to become active again in the Republican party, or other reports that Nixon would accept a presidential appointment as ambassador to Italy.

"The President has no such aspirations," said Korff. "It will not be months, it will be years — if indeed he ever recovers" before Nixon might again want to become active in government.

No survivors found

KHANEA, Crete (UPI) — Greek commandos today reached the wreckage of a West German air force transport plane carrying 42 soldiers and crewmen which crashed in the Koukones mountains Sunday. They found no survivors.

Greek military authorities in Kheana said the commandos, specialists in mountain climbing, reported the propeller driven Transall transport crashed at an altitude of about 5,000 feet. They said wreckage was scattered over a wide area.

Kheana airport sources said the plane was about to land Sunday when heavy snow storms cut visibility to zero and the pilot turned eastward to make another landing attempt.

During his second approach, the pilot veered south and hit the Koukones mountain range.

Hearings slated on Hughes theft

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A grand jury will begin hearings Tuesday into the theft of several files from Howard Hughes' office which allegedly contained sensitive letters between the billionaire and the central intelligence agency.

The files, stolen from Hughes' Summa Corp offices in Hollywood last June 5, supposedly contained an agreement between the CIA and Summa to raise a submarine Russian nuclear powered submarine from the Atlantic Ocean, the Los Angeles Times reported Friday.

The Times said according to reports circulating among local law enforcement officers "the CIA contracted to lease Summa's Glamour Explorer, a Long Beach, Calif. based vessel designed for deep ocean mining."

Paul Reese, head of Summa's Ocean Mining Division in Houston, Tex., denied the CIA had ever contracted for the use of the Glamour and said he had no knowledge of any "substantial files being stolen in the Hollywood burglaries."

Peter Noyes, a KABC-TV newsman, said he learned through his sources that the stolen files contained correspondence between Hughes and the CIA, but that it had no mention of a submarine war.

Noyes also said the files contained correspondence between Hughes and Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and other politicians.

Noyes said the files, catalogued in manila envelopes, contained most of Hughes' personal correspondence and were of such a quantity they filled two footlockers.

He said 200,000 objects were also taken from the office. The burglars reportedly demanded a $1 million ransom for the files. Negotiations were started for the recovery of the files, but were broken off several weeks ago, it was reported.

Noyes said FBI sources told him Leon Jaworski, the special Watergate prosecutor, was so interested in the theft he called the Los Angeles police almost every day for progress reports.

Kennedy urges end to embargo

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says the United States should normalize relations with Cuba and end the embargo ordered by his late brother 13 years ago.

The Massachusetts Democrat in an interview broadcast over Mexican television Sunday, criticized the embargo as "a reversal of the cold war of confrontation."

"Frankly, it has been ineffective," he said.

The senator's brother, the late President John F. Kennedy, ordered the Cuban embargo in February, 1962. "Whatever the reasons and justifications may have been at the time, now they are invalid," the senator said.

He said the United States and the rest of the Western Hemisphere "should respect the agreement that has taken place in Cuba and normalize relations with it."

Kennedy said the late president "truly believed" in self-defense for deterrence, "despite his brother's desire to isolate Cuba."

Against such a backdrop he also pointed out America's aid program to the island, and, in particular, has been used in the past "to carry through repressive policies."

He said U.S. military equipment has been used to "obstruct" freedom of speech and freedom to hold meetings.

"I think it's good Congress has stopped military aid to Cuba for not respecting human rights and freedom," he said.

He also called on the United States to take a stand against the "violation of human rights in Brazil and other countries."

"It's very important for those who believe in this to talk about it and be sure this concern is reflected in foreign policy."

Board meet slated in TF

TWIN FALLS — The Livestock Industry Hall of Fame board will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce office.

Tickets will be distributed to directors and final plans will be made for the 16th annual banquet.

Information needed for printing the program should be prepared and publicly information should also be ready to turn in.

Accreditation report due tonight

JEHOIME — The Jerome Junior High School accreditation report will be presented at a regular school board meeting tonight.

Jerome schools have been on the warned list of the Northwest Accreditation Association for inadequate facilities.

Passage of the bond for a new high school will enable the district to avoid possible loss of accreditation.

The trustees will meet at 8 p.m. in the superintendent's office.

Also on the agenda for tonight's meeting is presentation by Bill Hart, on the 100-centennial program planned for Jerome during July 1976.

Teachers' negotiations will be discussed. The resignation of trustee Darrell Wolfe is expected to be accepted by the Board. It is anticipated Wolfe will be re-appointed to serve until trustee elections in May.

Decision delayed

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Human Rights Commission will not meet a decision on a sex bias complaint for another month.

A Twin Falls woman, Betty Hoppe, filed a complaint against the State Department of Employment because she was allegedly denied merit increases and promotions in her state job because of sex discrimination.

Hoppe is asking to be reinstated at a higher grade and pay and to be paid back wages reflecting promotions and merit increases she believes she deserves.

Emmett man shot

EMMETT (UPI) — A 29-year-old man was shot in the throat by his mother-in-law while he was apparently trying to break into her home.

Dennis Thurston, Emmett, was reported in critical condition Saturday at a Boise hospital.

Emmett police said Thurston was shot Friday afternoon by Mrs. Fern Castoe, 54, Emmett.

No charges have been filed, and investigation into the shooting is continuing.

Thurston was apparently trying to break in the door, said Gem County Prosecutor Cy Hood. Mrs. Castoe called police to report someone was attempting to break in, and they were en route when the woman tried the shot, he said.

Tax guide available

BOISE (UPI) — Copies of the "Tax guide for Small Business" are available free from the Small Business Administration, the administration's assistant district director said Saturday.

Vic Goertzen said the 192 page guide covers virtually every tax matter of concern to small businessmen. It is published by the Internal Revenue Service.

Tractor trailer rig destroyed

WEISER (UPI) — A tractor trailer rig was destroyed by a southbound Union Pacific freight train at a crossing near Weiser.

The truck driver John Suter, 34, Nampa, told police he tried to warn Union Pacific freight train he was stalled on the crossing.

The rear wheels of the rig dropped off pavement into a muddy borrow pit while he was trying to cross the rails from the Chapman Wood Products Division. Plans to highway 45.

Suter said he was unable to get traction enough to move the rig across the tracks and decided to notify train authorities by phone.

Balloonists have good time

NAMPA (UPI) — Nampa residents feared for the lives of two balloonists whose hot air balloon was launching apparently out of control Saturday along Interstate 80N.

But as it turned out the balloonists were just out for a good time.

Idaho state police said Canyon County sheriff's deputies were notified, just when they reached the scene, they found a pair of smiling, Mountain Home men packing up their red, yellow and black balloon for the day.

"We had some beautiful touch-and-go landings," said balloonist Doug Musser, 35, a pharmacist.

Washington man held

BOISE (UPI) — Donald Peterson, 19, Kirkland, Wash., was being held today in connection with the fatal stabbing of an old school chum.

Peterson is accused in the death of Steve Conn, 19, also of Kirkland, Conn was stabbed Friday and died Saturday morning at a Boise hospital.

Apparently the two men were arguing when the fatal stabbing took place, Boise detectives said.

Food stamp purchase up

BOISE (UPI) — The number of Boise residents buying food stamps has risen almost 340 per cent in the past 16 months, yet Idaho has one of four lowest food stamp participation rates in the nation, says a study.

The study, conducted by the Community Nutrition Institute, also shows 71 per cent of Idahoans are eligible for food stamps but only a fourth of those are getting them.

Only Wyoming, North Dakota and Massachusetts had a lower percentage of eligible people buying food stamps, according to the study.

IPUC schedules hearings in TF

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has scheduled hearings on Feb. 19 and 20 in Twin Falls to take public testimony on Idaho Power Company's proposed 1,000-megawatt coal-fired power plant.

The power company has asked permission to construct the plant south of Boise.

Both hearings will begin at 7 p.m. at the Blue Lakes Inn.

Those persons wishing to testify should contact Kenneth D. Smith, secretary, Idaho Public Utilities Commission, Statehouse, Boise, and file in a form on or before Friday.

State leaders

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Góslin, Horseshoe Bend, are newly-elected presidents of the Idaho Angus Association and Idaho Angus Auxiliary following business meetings and a ball sale at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds Saturday.

Green ways proposed

HAILEY — The Blaine Soil Conservation District has recommended creation of green ways on the Big Wood and Little Wood rivers and Silver Creek.

The recommendation is made by the district for a state water plan to be formulated by 1977.

Betty Laverly, Ketchum, a district board member, said the green way recommendation is one way to control building in the flood plain.

According to the district report, "Green way areas along our rivers would protect fish and wildlife habitat, help prevent erosion, sedimentation, and damage from flooding, and maintain the esthetic value of our water way's public use."

The district report continues "fish and wildlife resources are important to the county and should be protected. Green ways along Silver Creek should be larger than the normal designation, to provide waterfowl nesting and refuge areas within the creek and marshlands."

The Department of Water Resources, in a statewide analysis, has listed the Big Wood River and its tributaries as the principal flood damage risk in the state.

Some of the solutions listed by the department include public purchase of flood-prone land, structural measures, including channeling and levees, work or a modified reservoir operation.

The SCD here has recommended the creation of a reservoir in the Boulder Flats area along the Big Wood River about 12 miles south of Ketchum.

At the same time, the district has recommended the continued use of diversion of water in Blaine County for irrigation.

Big Wood River Valley with its complex, interrelated water underflow, must be cautious regarding a required minimum stream flow of the Big Wood River," according to the report.

Water in Big Wood River is diverted at Bellevue into a network of canals serving agricultural interests. The river bed below the Glendale-Bridge south of Bellevue dries up during the peak irrigation period.

Weekend burglaries reported

TWIN FALLS — Several burglaries occurred during the weekend in Twin Falls, but police reported the losses were generally small.

Burglars entered the Idaho Frozen Foods Co. sometime Saturday night and broke into a number of vending machines. A soft drink machine was damaged and unknown amount of money taken from the machine.

At the same establishment, burglars went through plant and office areas and into the lunch room. A hot-food vending machine, milk vending machine and coffee machine were broken open and cash taken. An electric drill was also taken.

At Roger Brothers Seed Co., burglars also entered the lunch room and office areas. Company officials told police a small cash box containing $25 in bills and change and about $5 from vending machines were taken. About $20 in damage was caused.

Verna Emery, 42, Bratu 2, reportedly "id Twin Falls" police someone entered an apartment from which she had just moved and took an air conditioner. She estimated value at $300. She said this and a number of other items had not been moved out of the apartment when she moved other items. She returned Sunday to check on the remainder of her belongings and found the air conditioner missing.

Hailey cemetery stones, bodies shifted

By BART QUENSELL Times-Newspaper Writer

HAILEY — Bodies have been moved and headstones shifted to lay sprinkler pipe for irrigation at the Hailey Cemetery.

Vaughan Murphy, a new head of the cemetery district, said Wednesday he has heard of two instances of misinterment in the last five years.

A member of a previous cemetery board who declined to be identified confirmed that about two or three years ago a casket had to be moved from one grave plot to another. The source said the family was notified, but the person who had been buried in the wrong plot.

The source said disinterment was accomplished by court order and that the family of the dead person moved was notified.

The previous board member also said headstones on many older graves have been moved, although the person did not say by whom, but lay sprinkler pipe and make mowing of grass easier.

Many of the headstones are sitting on a ditch bank, the source said. He said he knew there were no persons buried where the headstones are now placed.

Vaughan said some of the records in all portions of the older section of the cemetery are lost. There is no record, he said, of who is buried in the southernmost portion of the cemetery.

Some former cemetery board, he said, cleared all of the headstones in that portion of the cemetery.

"The deed to that section, granted originally to the city of Hailey by the Grand Army of the Republic, has been lost. There are no other records, he said.

A triangular portion of land just to the right of the southern entrance of the cemetery is said to be an old Chinese burial ground, Vaughan said.

"We can't bury anyone there," he said, "because we don't know who is buried there or where they are buried."

Vaughan said he has been kept on several of the burial plots. Headstones and names on old maps are off as much as three plots in some instances, he said. He said the headstones mark the correct locations of the graves.

Vaughan said there is no problem with the newer portions of the cemetery. However, plots purchased

Ruling on dads slated tonight

TWIN FALLS — Members of Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Board will decide tonight whether fathers will be in or out of the delivery room.

Board members face the decision for the second time. The board turned down the fathers once before, in mid-1973.

Now the question has come up again, with vigorous backing by persons interested in permitting the father in the delivery room at the time of his child's birth.

One group supporting the proposed policy change advocates fathers be allowed in the delivery room only if he is prepared and if his wife's doctor approves.

But a policy change is unlikely unless the hospital board chooses to overrule the recommendation of the staff physicians.

In a vote by 15 obstetricians and general practitioners each of whom had delivered at least four babies in 1974, only four doctors approved the policy change. Eleven others opposed the proposal.

The Medical Executive Committee, which represents the hospital's staff physicians, then unanimously endorsed the decision by the doctors who deliver babies, according to James Rosenbaum, hospital administrator.

The hospital board will take the committee's recommendation into consideration when making its decision.

Physicians opposing the proposal cite various reasons for their opposition, including a lack of space in the delivery suite, a significant liability risk, the possibility of problems with the fathers, and the need for an additional scrub nurse.

Proponents cite studies which show minimal risk or problems associated with the policy in other hospitals and argue individual physicians should be permitted to make the decision to allow fathers.

The board will make its decision at its regular meeting, open to the public at 8 p.m. tonight at the hospital.

TF budget hearings open today

The county budget for 1975 as proposed in the tentative figures is $8.8 million, compared to last year's $6.7 million.

Most of the 31.14 per cent increase comes from the hospital budget which was expanded this year from $4.4 million to $6.4 million to give the hospital an opportunity to make needed improvements and an expansion to relieve crowded conditions. Although the budget is higher, nearly all of the increase comes from hospital rates rather than tax revenues.

Today commissioners scheduled meetings with department heads for an explanation of their individual budgets.

The budget hearings will remain open through Friday and taxpayers may meet with the commissioners at any time until Friday afternoon at which time the commission expects to prepare the budget for final adoption.

Various department budgets this year and last year are as follows: assessor, $159,292 and $133,977; auditor and recorder, $151,306 and $130,902; coroner, $5,000 and $4,400; commission, $306,816 and $275,000; district court, $65,020 and $61,560; engineer, $57,289 and $66,480; janitor, $149,016 and $155,856; prosecuting attorney, $62,680 and $54,600; sheriff, $305,452 and $249,076; treasurer, $63,042 and $62,752; zoning, $30,366 and $35,010; general, $295,740 and $189,780; public defender, $47,600 both years; airport, $67,000 and $17,000; agriculture, fair, $255,600 and $200,550; hospital, $6.4 million and $4.6 million and solid waste, $171,665 and $131,899.

SS system stays strong

"We may well await the recommendations of this council and ensuing congressional hearings on substantive changes in the system which are being widely debated," said the white paper.

"But we must not wait to deal with irresponsible attacks on the soundness of the structure."

"The most vicious of these attacks is the one charging that promised Social Security benefits may not be paid when they fall due 20 or 30 or 40 years hence."

"To the worker, who is compelled to contribute from his earnings every pay day, who is counting on these benefits for his security in retirement and for the protection of his family in the meantime, planting seeds of unwarranted doubt is a cruelty."

The payment of benefits is mandated by law and legally enforceable in court; Congress has done every thing possible to assure that future legislatures will not weaken that obligation, and the cash reserve trust funds are adequate for their purpose, the paper argued.

Though current inflation will create a need for future additional financing, "my any event, the size of the problem over the next 25 years is only manageable and certainly does not constitute a financial crisis."

Special grange meet tonight

TWIN FALLS — All Twin Falls County Granges and some other Magic Valley Granges will meet for a special dinner at 7 p.m. today at the Holiday Inn.

National grange lecturer, William Brake, Michigan, will be the featured speaker.

Ira Kessler, Gooding, state master, will attend and will briefly address those in attendance.

Clinton Dougherty, Filer is Twin Falls County Pamona Grange master and will conduct the meeting. Glenn Dossell, Pamona lecturer is in charge of the program.

According to Dougherty, about 165 persons are expected to attend the meeting.

Annual Angus sale brings top prices at Filer

FILER — Top prices paid for bulls in the 19th annual Idaho Angus Assn sale here Saturday and the sale average of $60 per head were termed good by sales officials.

The top price paid during the day was $2,000 for the sale's grand champion, Duke Marshall 183, consigned by Dale Countryman, St. John, Wash. The bull was purchased by Brent Bell, Rexburg.

The reserve champion, designed by Naur Angus Ranch; Meridan, sold for $1,400 to Sam and Florence Thornston, Eden, five animals sold at $1,000 or higher. — A total of 83 registered bulls sold for $33,140 or a sale average of $640. # Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) - Prices moved downward Monday on the New York Stock Exchange after trading in a mixed performance in earlier trading.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which had a 2.26 percent gain in a Labor Department report January unemployment rose to a 34-year high of 8.2 percent, was behind 1.80 to 0.03 shortly before noon.

Declines pushed ahead of advances, 666 to 541 among the 1,578 issues traded Gainers held a slim lead over losers early in the session.

Volume came to about 7,200,000 shares, compared with 6,500,000 exchanged in the same span Friday. Last week's volume of 126,353,000 shares was the second highest for any week in the history of the New York Stock Exchange.

A new indication inflation is on the wane came from the National Association of Purchasing Management Inc., which reported the rate of price increases slowed in January for the 10th straight month. Lower prices were cited by 21 per cent of the N.A.P.M. members, the highest percentage since the 1958 recession. New orders, production and employment also lagged last month, the survey revealed.

A new round of banks joined in lowering their prime rates for top business borrowers to 9 per cent. The sharp decline in interest rates in recent weeks has been a major market stimulant. The Federal Reserve Board Friday reported the nation's money supply had declined by 0.1 per cent in the statistical quarter ended Jan. 29 rather than expanded. Lower interest rates generally mean more money is available.

Most stock groups were fractionally lower with the blue chips and plums coming under mild selling pressure.

1776 war cost $135 million

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The cost of America's Revolutionary War, 1776-1781, was about $135 million, Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, estimates.

Today, that's about what it costs per year to run the General Accounting office, a watchdog auditing agency of Congress, Gen. Brown said in testimony to the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The projected U.S. defense budget for fiscal 1975, 200 years later, is $92.8 billion, Gen. Brown added.

"Some may consider this a fatiguing sum."

Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Clifton Tabiner, N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: For the last few months, I have been reading and hearing about the riots and demonstrating at the Boston school. I wish some of them would visit my school for one week.

I am a white, senior girl at a totally integrated high school. This is our fifth year of total integration, and I guess this is the reason I cannot understand the people of Boston.

The president of our student body is black, and he chose me as his secretary. Working together, we forget the color of our skin, and concentrate on the common goal of the students—to have the best school ever.

Goodwill message

In my, high school years, I have gone through many changes along with my classmates. I have learned to love according to character, not color. I have learned about life other than as an upper-middle-class white. I have made many black friends that I wouldn't trade for anything or anybody. I feel that our school has made a great step forward for our country. It's only a start, but it's an improvement.

I am asking the people of Boston to please give desegregation a chance. We live in this country together, yet you are afraid to reach out to a fellow American. Please open your eyes! This is America, and we are all free. Why can't we love each other without prejudice? Won't you help me say it, Abby? Just sign me.

STUDENT: HENRY COUNTY SR. HIGH MC DONOUGH, GA.

DEAR STUDENT: You've said it well. And I'm willing to give your message of goodwill and common sense wider circulation.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the wife who had a fit when she caught her husband using her toothbrush (he couldn't find his) brought back memories.

Several years ago, when I was a young divorcee, I fell in love with a divorced man. We wanted to be married in a church by a minister, but finding one who would marry two divorced people wasn't easy in those days.

We finally found a minister who said he might perform the ceremony if I would answer some questions first. After a few minutes of chitchat, he hit us with the big question. "If you had no other choice, would you use your mate's toothbrush?"

At the time we both thought that was about the dumbest question we'd ever heard, but we thought for a few minutes and both said: "Yes."

The minister smiled and said: "Using someone else's toothbrush is positive proof of total commitment. I'll perform the ceremony." And he did.

We've laughed about it since then, but now we realize how wise he was. HAPPY IN FORT PIERCE, FLA.

DEAR HAPPY: Thanks for brushing me up on what constitutes a "total commitment." It's better than a pat on the mouth.

DEAR ABBY: Bruce and I are both in our early twenties and have been happily married for two years. A rather peculiar situation has arisen between us and I would appreciate your opinion.

Several nights in the past month I have been awakened by my husband's amorous advances, which culminate in making love. Bruce never said anything during these encounters, but was otherwise unusually loving and aggressive.

Afterwards we slept. In the morning when I made subtle comments regarding his previous night's behavior, he always seemed to miss the point, so I didn't pursue it. Last night it happened again, just as before, but I suddenly realized what was so strange about it. Bruce had been sound asleep!

What bothers me is this: How does a woman interpret such behavior? Could it indicate infidelity (or the desire for it) on my husband's part? Sign me. WIDE AWAKE

DEAR WIDE: Why look for interpretations? Such encounters needn't be examined for unconscious motivations. And whether they're endured or enjoyed is for you to decide.

MRS. SCHRENK displays a painting of McGoane Lake, John Day, Ore. The lake was formed by a landslide in the 1800s and a man by the name of McGoane packed trout through the wilderness in milk cans to stock it with fish.

Wendell woman honored

WENDELL — Mrs. Earl Schrenk, Wendell, Idaho, is being honored during February as artist of the month at the First National Bank.

She has studied water color under the instruction of Maybelle Miller, Gooding, and some basic courses in oil with Lois Harms, Wendell, and the late Darwin Taylor, Palm Beach, Calif.

She has exhibited at the Gooding County Fair and the First Security Bank in Gooding.

"I have always felt I could learn to paint, so after 30 years of homemaking, 3-H, Boy and Girl Scouts, PTA, church, school, etc., which all required a lot of craftwork, I'm devoting my spare time learning to express myself on canvas.

"I haven't decided what my favorite subject is. I paint this and that. If I have a hang-up it's the Tetons, Idaho side.

"My goal is to try to preserve what is left of the past, the now, for the coming generation."

She is a member of the Gooding County Sage Brush Art Guild. The high point of her week is Wednesday when all guild members and interested guests who wish hold an all-day painting session, beginning at 9 a.m. in the guild room which is located in the basement of the Gooding Library.

Burley-Rupert club speaker set, Feb. 15

BURLEY — The next speaker before the Burley-Rupert Knife and Fork Club will be John Morley, an author, lecturer, columnist and foreign correspondent.

Morley is scheduled to appear before the club Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Ponderosa Inn, Burley, according to club secretary, George H. Carmody.

JOHN MORLEY speaker

According to the Associated Clubs, Inc. of Tappeka, Kan., Morley, graduated from the Blackstone College of Law in 1933, and "has been in the thick of things nationally and internationally" since.

During World War II, Morley served as director of a military intelligence campaign against foreign spies in this country, according to the associated Clubs.

However, in Burley, Morley is scheduled to talk about the "latest world events he saw and covered during his trips around the globe when he talked to leading figures in England, Germany, Italy, Russia, the Near East, India, Thailand, Hong Kong, Communist China and Japan.

Morley is the author of "I Believe." He has on occasion been a contributor to the Saturday Evening Post, Reader's Digest and the Ladies Home Journal.

Sun Valley center sponsors program

SUN VALLEY — A new kind of music will come to Sun Valley Wednesday night, sponsored by the Sun Valley Center for the Arts and Humanities.

Scheduled for Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in the Lincolnton Room, tickets are available at the Elhorn Depot in Sun Valley Mall—at the lodge information desk and at the door.

Formed in 1970 to present medieval and chamber repertoires, Music for A While has become known on the current musical scene. Its members, LaNoue Davenport, Judith Davidoff, Shula Schornbrun, Philip Levin and Steven Silversher, have experienced in this medium.

Davenport, Davidoff and Schornbrun were long-time members of New York Pro Musica before the formation of Music for A While. All are currently artists-in-residence at Sarah Lawrence College, serving as the faculty for a program leading to the master of fine arts degree in early music.

The group also teaches and performs at the Center for World Music in Berkeley, Calif. One aspect of the group's work is presenting seminars/workshops in conjunction with their concerts, offering instruction on instruments of the middle ages and renaissance—and on the vocal styles of these periods.

Described as a "time journey," the group will play wild instruments of the Medieval and Renaissance periods, as well as early bowed instruments such as the rebec, vielle and turkish lute. Levin will demonstrate his skills on the recorder, shawm, dulciana, haroque bassoon and capped reed instruments and Silversher will play different members of the string family. Ms. Schornbrun will sing a variety of selections from these eras.

Magic Valley Favorites

MYRTLE HARRIS
412 E. Ave. B. Jerome

- Frozen Salad
- 1 pt. sugar cream
  - 2 teaspoons lemon juice
  - 1 cup nuts
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 2 sliced bananas
  - 1 small can crushed pineapple, drained
  - A few marshmallows, crushed
- Mix all ingredients except cherries together. Line muffin tins with paper cups and fill

Jim: "Does anyone ever ask you how he will know when he has become a good bridge player?"

Oswald: "Not often. Most players are too busy telling me about their partner's mistakes."

Jim: "One way to know is when other good players begin to think you are. This doesn't happen too often either. Here is a better test. You are a good player when you learn to make winning plays, that seem to go against normal good procedure."

Oswald: "I see you have a hand, right here to illustrate this."

Jim: "The ordinary player grabs the first trick with the queen or jack of spades and leads a diamond. East wins with the king, leads a second spade and eventually our ordinary player winds up in the soup."

Oswald: "A slightly better player leads a club to dummy at trick two and then plays a diamond. Unless East hops up with the king the hand will come home."

Jim: "The really good player lets East hold the first trick. He wins the second one and attacks diamonds. It doesn't matter who wins the first diamond trick. There is no way for the defense to bring the spade suit home."

USFS begins resource planning

TWIN FALLS — An outline of a proposed plan to implement the Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act of 1974 is available for public review at all forest service offices throughout the intermountain region.

Patrick J. Sheehan, regional information resources director, said "The Resources Planning Act is perhaps the most significant resource legislation to be enacted in several years."

"It requires the forest service to periodically submit to Congress an assessment of the renewable resources on almost two-thirds of the nation's forest and range lands.

"A comprehensive program for national forests will also be developed to pinpoint possible ways to increase resource use and availability in the future. Varying levels of population, disposable income, and other important factors were omitted from past planning efforts will be considered."

"The outline is the first step in implementing the act. It points out how the review will be conducted and how the forest service will develop a long-range program to help meet national needs for range, water, recreation, wilderness, fish and wildlife and timber.

Also contained in the outline issued Friday is a summary analysis of public response to the Environmental Program for the Future (EPFF) which was issued last year by the forest service. The EPFF was developed prior to the Resources Planning Act and will be used in developing the program called for in the act.

"Public review of the forest service outline is invited. Comments should be directed to the Chief, Forest Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, by March 3. This short period of time allowed for public comment is necessitated by the amount of work which must be done to meet the Congressional reporting deadline of Dec. 31.

However, as resource assessment and management program development proceeds, additional public review and comment will be asked for. In early March, the forest service will publicly present alternative goals for six resource systems used in the program.

Swallows en route to Capistrano

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (UPI) — The swallows, celebrated in song, who return to the mission at San Juan Capistrano faithfully each March, are on their way.

A spokesman for the mission said Wednesday that he had been informed by wildlife officials in Argentina, where the birds spend the winter, that the flock left there in "a cloud of thousands" on Jan. 30.

The swallows wing their way northward for about six weeks. The main flock reaches the mission each year on St. Joseph's Day, March 19. Their regularity — sometimes challenged by skeptics — inspired the song popular in the 1930s: "When the Swallows Come Back to Capistrano."

"Thousands of sightseers turn out each year to see the return.

Art shown at CSI

TWIN FALLS — The work of four Burley artists will be featured in an exhibition at the College of Southern Idaho through February.

The artists include Richard Harper, Rachel Kriener, Lewis Sands and Ron Vanek. Twenty-four acrylic and watercolor paintings will be shown, ranging in variety from transparent watercolor to experimental and semi-abstract acrylics.

Three of the artists have been studying recently under CSI instructor Michael Green. Harper holds a commercial art degree and Vanek is known in the Magic Valley for his concentration on watercolors.

SBA aide to visit TF

TWIN FALLS — A loan processing assistant from the Boise Small Business Administration will meet with businessmen Feb. 20 in Twin Falls.

Nancy Guiles will be available for appointments to discuss SBA programs with area businessmen and women.

For appointments, call the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce at 733-7974.

News Of Servicemen

JEROME — Army S. 4 Harley D. Simmons, 20, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Simmons, Jerome, is assigned as a military policeman in Battery C, 2nd Battalion of the 4th Air Defense Artillery in Korea.

TWIN FALLS — Eleven area residents have qualified as the US Army during January, Jim Huges, Army representative for the greater Twin Falls area, has announced.

Those enlisting for the Army's unit of choice and job training are Benjamin Jones, Twin Falls, $2,500 cash bonus and Ft. Bragg, N.C. Airborne; David Andrews, Jerome, supply specialist and Ft. Hood, Tex.; Terry Hopkins, Shoshone, supply specialist unassigned; Martin Foss Jr., Twin Falls, meteorological observer and White Sands Missile Range, N.M.; and Robert Charbonneau, Jerome, $2,500 cash bonus and Ft. Sill, Okla.

The following enlisted for the Army's delayed enlistment program which guarantees choice of training or location:

Robert Bitterli, Wendell, special forces and Ft. Bragg, N.C.; Sandra Lewis, Jerome, clinical specialist unassigned; Dee Whitaker, Twin Falls, memorial activities specialist unassigned; Vicki Miller, Buhl, law enforcement unassigned; Roberta Frewi, Twin Falls, food inspection specialist unassigned; and Kenneth Jacobsen, Twin Falls, law enforcement unassigned.

KIMBERLY — Ronald W. Dewey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Dewey, Kimberly, is attending Officer Candidate School at the Naval Education and Training Center, Newport, R.I.

During the 19-week course, he will receive instruction in naval history and tradition, organization and tactics, personnel management and other basic military subjects.

Upon graduation in May, Dewey will be commissioned a Navy ensign.

TWIN FALLS — Navy Aviation Electronics Technician 3C Mark S. Bancroft, Twin Falls, was promoted to his present rank while serving with Fighter Squadron 14 at the Naval Air Station, Miramar, Calif.

Aviation electronics technicians inspect and maintain aircraft electronics equipment.

A former student of Dewey instruction of Technology, Phoenix, Ariz., he joined the Navy in June 1973.

PAUL — Now wearing U.S. Air Force silver wings is 2nd Lt. Robert R. Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Noble C. Cole, Paul.

He recently graduated from pilot training at Columbus AFB, Miss.

Lieutenant Cole is being assigned to Dyess AFB, Tex., where he will fly the C-130 Hercules aircraft.

The lieutenant, a 1969 graduate of Minidoka County High School, Rupert, received his B.S. degree in political science in 1971 from the University of Utah where he was a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon. He was commissioned there through the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

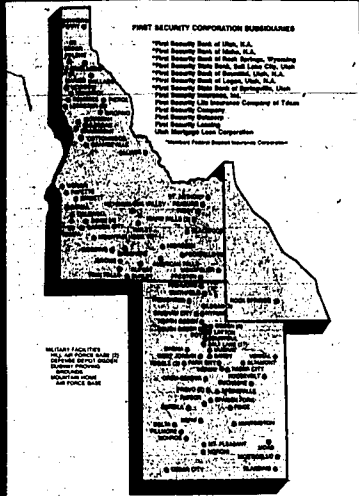

Lieutenant Cole's wife, Jeannie, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Porter, Albuquerque, N.M.

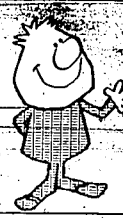

GLENN'S FERRY — Navy Airman Michael A. Harris has returned to San Diego aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Constellation.

He has been on a six-month deployment to the Western Pacific and Middle East. During the cruise he participated in operational readiness training exercises and visited Pakistan, Hong Kong, Singapore and the Philippines.

He is the husband of the former Donna M. Haskins of Glenn's Ferry. She is the daughter of Mrs. Grace Bend, Glenn's Ferry.

Betty Ford's ERA heroine

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The women's movement has enlisted the help of a powerful lobbyist. First Lady Betty Ford in its campaign to win ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment this year.

"She's becoming our heroine," said Mary Brooks of the League of Women Voters, one of the leading lobbyists for ERA. "She is very concerned and very involved in ERA."

The amendment, which would prohibit any law or legal procedure that discriminates on the basis of sex, has been ratified by legislators in 31 states. Four more states are needed to make it a part of the Constitution.

In Missouri, where ERA was approved Thursday by the house and sent to the senate, several legislators in North Dakota, which ratified the amendment earlier this week, and telephoned a senator in Illinois, where it will be voted upon soon.

The White House confirmed that Mrs. Ford had made those contacts and "was delighted with the outcome." A spokesman said the first lady will continue to lobby in situations where she can be influential.

Her political activity is rare but not unique for a first lady. Eleanor Roosevelt set a record for involvement, and Lady Bird Johnson campaigned alone and with her husband for her identification programs and in his political races.

"It's nice to see that kind of support coming from the White House," Ms. Brooks said, noting that Mrs. Ford's efforts help counter suspicions that ERA is a radical feminist issue.

"She's a Republican lady who's really involved," she added, "and up to now the only major Republican lady so far has been Phyllis Shafley," an Illinois woman who has emerged as the leader of the ERA opposition.

"The Missouri Senate is expected to vote on Feb. 17. ERA proponents estimate it will be a very close vote. The Missouri house vote was 82 to 75, the minimum number of 'yes' votes for passage."

Ms. Brooks noted that Missouri and Illinois are "Mrs. Shafley's territory" and anti-ERA activity in those states has been mounting over the past few weeks as the vote nears.

Other states expected to vote soon are North Carolina, South Carolina, Nevada, Arizona, Indiana and Florida. The League of Women Voters has joined with several other women's groups, including the National Organization for Women and the National Women's Political Caucus, to get at least four of these eight states before the year is out.

"All of those states are still very much in the running," Ms. Brooks said, predicting that the opposition will diminish each time another state votes to ratify the amendment.

Now President Karen DeCrow predicted recently that the Florida legislature will provide the final ratification vote when it convenes in April.

USSR-US exchange art

MOSCOW (UPI) — Leningrad's Hermitage museum will send 30 of its most valuable paintings to the United States this May in a six-month art exchange, millionaire collector Dr. Armand Hammer said Saturday.

Hammer, 76, chairman of the Occidental Petroleum Corp., said he concluded details of the exchange Friday with Soviet culture minister Pyotr N. Demichev.

The paintings are old masters which have not left Russia since the Empress Catherine the Great acquired them in the 18th century.

Hammer said the paintings will be shown at the National Gallery in Washington, the Knoedler gallery in New York, the Chicago Art Institute and the Los Angeles County Museum.

A collection of paintings from those museums, including a Vermeer and several works by Joseph Turner, will be sent to the Soviet Union in exchange, Hammer said. Other American museums may participate in the exchange.

The works going from Russia include Rembrandt Van Rijn's portrait of his wife Saskia, entitled "Flora," a rare landscape by Peter Paul Rubens, Bartolomeo Murillo's "The Boy With a Dog," a portrait by Franz Hals, a Pietà by Paolo Veronesi, and a family group by Sir Anthony Van Dyck.

Hammer said the United States will be seeing "unquestionably the greatest masterpieces in the Hermitage. The Rembrandt is beautiful, a particular favorite of mine."

It was the second Soviet-American art exchange arranged by Hammer, whose business dealings with the Soviet Union go back more than 50 years.

In 1973, the Hermitage and Moscow's Pushkin gallery sent a collection of impressionists on an American tour. Hammer brought his own collection here as well as presenting a Goya to the Hermitage and a Dufly to the Pushkin.

Along with the old masters, the Russian Museum in Leningrad will send 10 of its paintings, including works by Ilya Repin and Dmitri Levitsky, painters who are considered the highest representatives of Russian art but who are little known abroad.

In return, the Soviets will see some American "Wild West" paintings from the Buffalo Bill museum at Cody, Wyoming, in a separate exhibition also arranged by Hammer.

Nuclear power plants to create thorium demand

TWIN FALLS — Demand for thorium "probably won't become significant" until 1985, according to a newly published preliminary study on the market.

But by 2000, one type of nuclear power plant alone could demand a yearly supply of 13,000 short tons, according to the director of the Idaho Nuclear Energy Commission (INEC).

The preliminary study, published under the auspices of INEC, was funded by a commission research and development grant at the request of the Central Idaho Mining Association.

Dr. Arthur H. Matheson, a nuclear consultant, directed the study and authored the booklet, now available from INEC and the Central Idaho Mining Association.

The study reports that nuclear power plants will supply about 50 per cent of electrical energy at the end of the century, according to L. I. Anderson, chairman of the board of directors of the mining association.

Dr. Gene P. Rutledge, INEC executive director, said the report shows a projected demand for thorium to fuel the High Temperature Gas-cooled Reactor (HTGR).

"The projected HTGR thorium annual demand, assuming 15 per cent of the market, is about 13,000 short tons by the year 2000. The report does not include an assessment of the thorium that might be needed for the light water breeder reactors," Rutledge said.

Although thorium has some industrial uses, such as for mantles, electric light filaments, electrodes and metal hardeners, no major increase in industrial demand is foreseen.

Matheson concludes that near-term markets could be supplied from currently existing operations. But to meet the long-term thorium demand, additional sources must be developed. In his opinion, Matheson recommended a more lengthy, detailed study be done on the potential thorium market.

Stolen art

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — In exchange for freedom, a suspected art thief arranged for the recovery Saturday of a $100,000 Thomas Gainsborough painting stolen from the nation's oldest public art museum.

Police said they found the painting wrapped in a bed spread next to a telephone booth outside an East Hartford super market. The painting was returned to the Wadsworth Athenaeum and reportedly sealed in a vault for further examination.

Officials at the Athenaeum described the theft Thursday as "a very clean job."

The painting, entitled "Woody Landscape," a work of the 18th Century artist most famous for his "Blue Boy," was cut neatly from its ornate frame in a second floor gallery.

Nets drop Virginia

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — Julius Erving scored 34 points Sunday to lead the New York Nets to a 117-90 victory over the Virginia Squires in an ABA game.

The triumph was the Nets' eighth straight over the Squires and it marked the seventh straight time they've held Virginia under 100 points in eight meetings. The Squires scored 100 points in the first game between the clubs.

New York has now won eight in a row at home and 21 straight against East Division foes.

Pistons snip losing streak

DETROIT (UPI) — Bob Lanier hit 14 points in the fourth quarter and 31 for the game Sunday to lead Detroit to a 97-96 NBA win over the Los Angeles Lakers and snap the Pistons' longest losing streak of the season at four games.

Indoor tennis tourney opens

SALISBURY, Md. (UPI) — Vitas Gerulaitis and Jan Kodess breezed to first-round victories as the U.S. indoor tennis tournament opened here Sunday.

Gerulaitis, the second-seeded American, overpowered Ferdie Taygan of Framingham, Mass., 6-1, 6-4, Kodess, the No. 2 foreign seed, easily defeated Romanian Ion Marcu, 6-3, 6-2.

Third-seeded Sandy Mayer of Wayne, N.J., dispatched of Milos Dimitrijevic of Yugoslavia in 27 minutes, 6-0, 6-1, to advance to second-round play.

Boston stings Knicks again

BOSTON (UPI) — Dave Cowens scored 25 points and snared 20 rebounds to pace five Celtics in double figures Sunday afternoon as Boston reared past the New York Knicks for the second straight day, 105-88.

Jo Jo White, four points short of his fifth consecutive 1,000-point season, added 22 points in the Celtics' 13th win in their last 14 games.

Nicaraguan wins bout

SAN SALVADOR (UPI) — World featherweight champion (World Boxing Association version) Alexis Arguello of Nicaragua defeated El Salvador's Oscar "Chico" Aparicio after a closely fought 10 rounds attended by 5,000 Nicaraguan fans at nearby Poliedro Arena Saturday night.

It was the second encounter between the two in which Arguello felled his opponent at the El Salvador boxer.

Arguello is scheduled to defend his title against Venezuela's Leonel Hernandez in March.

Mora recovers title

COAMO, P.R. (UPI) — Colombia's Victor Mora was the 13th annual San Blas Marathon Sunday to recover both the individual and team crowns from Finland.

Belgian runner Gaston Roelants reportedly was knocked down by a motorcar during the race, but apparently was not badly hurt.

Mora ran the 13-mile rural highway race in one hour, five minutes and 15 seconds, beating Finland's Seppo Tuominen to the city-center finish line by 41 seconds.

Ski flying event sought

IRONWOOD, Mich. (UPI) — This one-time iron mining center, which now boasts the only ski flying hill in the western hemisphere, is bidding for the right to stage the sport's world championship event in 1976.

Tom LaBlonde, manager of the annual North American Ski Flying Classic at nearby Copper Peak, Sunday said the official bid will go to other ski flying countries next month.

Tijuana collects $73,000

TIJUANÁ, Mexico (UPI) — A 34-year-old dilettante owner, who won $54,000 in 1964, picked up his second major payoff Sunday at Agua Caliente — $72,973.90 for picking the winners of the fifth through the 10th races on Saturday's program.

Antonio Ceteda of Tijuana, who wanted his winnings in cash instead of a check, put the foot-high pile of $50 bills into a bag and was escorted from the thoroughbred racing track.

Slips through

DRIVING Tex Walker of the University of California-Santa Barbara escapes Creighton University players Rick Aple, rear, and Daryl Heeke, rear left, in Omaha Sunday. Creighton won 71-62, giving the 18th-ranked Bluejays a school record-tying 10th straight victory. (UPI)

Miller captures third title

PALM SPRINGS (UPI) — Johnny Miller, despite being up half the night with his sick infant daughter, shot a four under par 68 Sunday to win the 1975 PGA Tour, started the Classic by three strokes for his third victory this year and his 11th in the last 14 months.

Miller, who won the Phoenix and Tucson-Opens by a combined total of 24 strokes to open the 1975 PGA Tour, started the final round here three shots ahead of layabout friend Jerry Heard and then caught off successful challengers — from Heard, Tom Shaw and Bob Murphy to finish with a 90-hole score of 21 under par-339.

The victory earned Miller $22,000 and boosted his 1975 bankroll to $107,831 for four weeks of work. In the only event he didn't win this year of the ones he played in the 27-year-old Californian finished in a tie for sixth at the Crosby National Pro-Am.

Miller's youngest daughter — 7-month old Casi — became ill Sunday night at home — finally taken to a hospital Sunday with a possible case of the flu. Miller and his wife, Linda, stayed up with Casi most of the night and Miller even found time to go to church Sunday morning before feeling off in the final round.

He started out with a bogey five on the second hole when three putted from 25 feet but recovered with birdies on the par-4 sixth and the par-5 eighth to make the turn at Bearman's Dunes in one under 35. Coming back, Miller birdied the 13th with a four footer, the 14th with a 20 footer and the 16th with a 12 footer to close out his challenges.

Murphy, who started five strokes back, shot a final round six under 66 for 18 under par 342 and won $18,240. Heard finished with a 69 for 343 and won $11,360, while Shaw finished with a 69 for 345 and a purse of $7,520.

Miller, who won eight tournament titles and a record $23,221 in 1974 and PGA Player of the Year honors, had five birdies and one bogey in his closing round 68 for a tournament total of 28 birdies and seven bogeys.

He missed about a 15-footer on the final hole which would have tied him for the Hope Tournament record of 338 set by Arnold Palmer in the first Desert Classic in 1960.

Palmer, plagued by putting problems, had a final two under par 70 for 353, 14 shots behind Miller. Palmer has won the Hope Classic five times and his last four victory came in the 1973 Hope, so his current slump now has been extended to 24 months.

Winning form

SMOOTH To the end, Johnny Miller sinks final putt to win the Bob Hope Desert Classic Sunday at Palm Springs, Calif. He shot a five day total of 21-under-par 339. Miller now has won three of the four tournaments he has entered this year. (UPI)

Girls vie at Filer

FILER — The four undefeated teams in the fourth district invitational girls basketball tournament will collide tonight at the Filer High School gymnasium.

Twin Falls and Minico will collide at 6 p.m. with Filer going against Buhl at 8 p.m. The two winners will advance to the championship game at 8 p.m. Tuesday night.

In consolation play Monday afternoon, Kimberly was slated to go against Shoshone and Camas County against Murtaugh. The consolation finals are set for 6 p.m. Tuesday.

At stake is one berth in the state girls invitational tournament in Moscow next week.

Buhl, Oakley gird for title clinchers

Buhl and Oakley can wind up all the conference title business in Magic Valley, Tuesday night.

Burley, Carey and Glenns Ferry have three of the crowns tucked safely in the trophy case. Both Buhl and Oakley have two chances this week to lock up theirs.

Buhl, with a two game lead in the South Central Idaho Conference, can nail its title down at Jerome. The Indians have fallen on hard times, losing four of their last five games.

But at last report they were relatively healthy, which should give them even more of an advantage over the underdog and flu-ridden Tigers.

"I should have quarantined that (district) wrestling tournament for my kids last week," said Coach Ed Peterson. "We had hundreds of people running around the gym breathing on everybody and, boy, did we get it (the flu)!"

Oakley will be home to blect in its bid for the Magic Valley league title.

Decis has sharpened considerably in the past couple of weeks, winning four of its last five games. Oakley is riding a six-game winning streak.

The other two games of Tuesday also come in the Magic Valley league. Hansen will be at Hagerman while Murtaugh travels to Castelfield. All four simply are playing out the string and waiting for district next week.

Hutcherson cops Daytona stock race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Ron Hutcherson averaged 145.513 mph in his Plymouth Sunday to capture the Auto Racing Club of America's (ARCA) 200-mile stock car race at Daytona International Speedway.

Hutcherson, of Keokuk, Iowa, clung to the lead for 80 laps to win $4,850 in top prize money and finish seven seconds ahead of Terry Ryan's Chevrolet.

In Sunday's qualifying runs for the 17th annual Daytona 500, Donnie Allison and David Pearson took the Nos. 1 and 2 spots, leading a field of 32 drivers who attempted to qualify for the two front row spots in next Sunday's big NASCAR race.

Allison was clocked at 185.827 mph in his Chevrolet to take the pole position and $5,000, while Pearson, who led last year's qualifiers, qualified with a speed of 184.411 in his Mercury for $1,000.

The remaining 38 starting positions will be determined in qualifying races next Thursday.

Ryan, of Davenport, Iowa, who had started on the ARCA pole, collected $3,225 for his second place finish. Gene Taylor, Huntington, W. Va., finished third for $2,100.

Russell shuns cage honor

SEATTLE (UPI) — Seattle SuperSonics coach Bill Russell, elected to the National Basketball Hall of Fame this weekend, said Sunday he will refuse induction into the shrine and officials of the Hall of Fame expressed shock and puzzlement at the action of the former Boston Celtics star.

BILL RUSSELL...refuses honor

"For my own personal reasons, which I don't want to discuss, I don't want to be a part of it. I'm not going. They know that. I've felt this way for many years," Russell said after learning that he had received one of basketball's most coveted honors.

Russell's unusual decision brought about a startled reaction from Lee Williams, executive director of the Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass. "I'm shocked," said Williams. "I'd spoken to Bill twice during the All-Star game at Phoenix and I told him all about it and he said 'I have no idea what changed his mind.'"

That's the only opinion that Russell's decision had racial undertones since there are no other black players from the NBA in the Hall of Fame. But, Williams said that Russell was off base if he believed the Hall was completely lacking in black representation.

"If that's so, then he's wrong," said Williams. "We have the original five in our honors court. They were elected in 1961 and consisted of seven black players. Also, Robert O. Douglas, owner and manager of the Rams, is in the Hall of Fame. He was elected in 1971."

Russell, who was recognized as the premier defensive player in basketball history during his career with the Celtics, was inducted into the Hall of Fame in his first year of eligibility.

Always outspoken and a leader both on and off the court, Russell, who starred as a collegian at the University of San Francisco, played for 13 seasons in the NBA and led the Celtics to 11 world championships during that time. He ranks second in the NBA in career rebounds and third in minutes played. He also was the first black man ever to be named coach of an NBA team when he was named to that position with the Celtics in 1967.

Hoosiers streak on

By United Press International

They are not yet "Inevitable Indiana," but by now even second ranked UCLA, which swept a weekend twilight in the unfriendly Oregon northwest, Tennessee, which regained its star freshman Bernard King, or ACC powers Maryland and North Carolina State which had three-victory weeks, must be wondering if Bobby Knight's unbeaten top-ranked Hoosiers can be had.

The No. 1 Hoosiers, who face Minnesota tonight in one of the more sterner tests of their unbeaten record, swept to their 22nd straight victory Saturday by downing Iowa 79-56, and only the great 1961 Ohio State team of Jerry Lucas, John Havlicek and Larry Siegfried — with 26 straight — has captured a streak like that in the Big Ten.

For second-ranked UCLA, still very much a threat to reclaim the national title it lost a year ago to North Carolina State, the weekend was quite a booster in that direction. Expected to lose at least one of the road games against nationally ranked and always dangerous Oregon and Oregon State, the Bruins instead showed their might by downing the Beavers 87-63, Friday night and the Ducks, 107-103, on Saturday.

All America forward candidate Dave Myers scored a career high 39 points for UCLA against Oregon at Eugene — including 11 for a 11-point first half — but teammate Pete Trovovich had to finally put the game away with four key foul shots with 1:48 remaining.

Indiana, meanwhile, upped its season record to 22-0, by easily disposing of cold-shooting Iowa at Iowa City behind 23 points from Scott May.

Third ranked Louisville was not as lucky on the road. The Cardinals, which had lost only one game to date, ran into Ken "Grasshopper" Smith on their road trip to Tulsa and came up 82-77 losers.

Atlantic Coast Conference powers Maryland (No. 4) and North Carolina State (No. 6) also had pleasant weeks, the Terrapins putting away Virginia, Furman and Duke in succession, while the Wolfpack first downed South Florida and then breezed past Georgia Tech and Furman in the weekend North-South Classic.

In the hotly contested Southeastern Conference area, fifth ranked Kentucky, and seventh-rated Alabama remained deadlocked in first place with identical 10-1 records. Kentucky whipped Georgia 75-61 Saturday, while Alabama kept pace by beating Tennessee at Knoxville 71-65.

Amateur Martin wins

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Billy Martin, world's top-ranked junior player, whipped fellow collegian George Hardie Jr. 6-2, 7-6 in an all-amateur final Sunday of the $25,000 Arkansas International tennis tournament.

The $5,000 first-place prize money and $2,500 second-place money will go either to the United States Lawn Tennis Association's bonus pool or to the Arkansas Tournament to help defray expenses.

The 18-year-old Martin, a freshman at UCLA, played near flawless tennis in turning back the durable Hardie, a senior at Southern Methodist University, who had to qualify for the tournament and was playing his ninth match in 10 days.

It was the first men's tournament offering prize money that Martin had won. The tournament's defending champion, Jimmy Connors, was forced to drop out with a knee injury after winning his first-round match.

Haynie claims LPGA title

NAPLES, Fla. (UPI) — Sandra Haynie shot a 68 Sunday for a one stroke victory over Donna Caponi Young and Marilyn Smith in the $40,000 Naples-Lely Ladies Professional Golf Association Classic.

Haynie, of Dallas, Tex., came from behind with her best round to finish the three-day tourney at five-under-par 211 and earn the $5,200 top prize. Young and Smith shared second place at 212 for $3,685 apiece after each closed with par 72s.

Dorbie Austin, Okla., N.Y., finished in fourth place at 213 and collected $2,400. Young, of Woodland Hills, Calif., and Smith, of Tequesta, Fla., had been tied with Austin for the lead going into Sunday's final round. Haynie had been tied for sixth place at the end of second round action with a one-under-par 143.

Unseeded netter advances

BOLOGNA, Italy (UPI) — Unseeded Bob Hewitt of South Africa swept past fourth seeded Kim Warwick of Australia 6-3, 6-2 Sunday to reach the quarterfinals of the $50,000 Brisbane World Championship Tennis tournament.

Italy's Adriano Panatta and Onny Parun of New Zealand also gained quarterfinal berths. Panatta, seeded fifth, overcame a three-game disadvantage in the second set to beat Dick Crealy of Australia 6-3, 7-6 and Parun, the eighth seed, thumped unseeded Paolo Bettinucci of Italy 3-6, 6-3, 6-1 after a slow start.

Frew McMillan of South Africa, unseeded, and six-seeded Bob Giltman of Australia meet Sunday night to decide the last of the eight quarterfinal slots.

Evert outplays Court to win Slims singles

RICHFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — Chris Evert blunted Margaret Court's comeback bid Sunday with a 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 victory to win the singles title in the $75,000 Virginia Slims of Akron tennis tournament.

Miss Evert, 20, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., won her second tournament of the year while Mrs. Court reached the finals in only her second tournament since taking a year off for the birth of her second child.

In the 32-minute first set, Miss Evert broke service in the fifth game with a sharp angle passing shot as Mrs. Court came up to the net, then both players held service until the end of the set.

In the second set, Mrs. Court displayed her power game at its best of the day, breaking service twice, for an easy victory.

Miss Evert dropped service in the third game of the third set but broke back in the fourth and again in the eighth, and the match ended when Mrs. Court hit wide.

Miss Evert wins the $15,000 first prize, bidding to match or surpass the $194,000 she won on the tour last year while Mrs. Court picked up $8,000 for second.

Miss Evert said later she was very excited to have defeated Mrs. Court.

"I think I played very well in the 'white tournament,'" she said.

The key point, she said, came in the eighth game of the third set when Mrs. Court appeared to have aceed Miss Evert with a serve but instead the serve was ruled out and Mrs. Court subsequently double faulted. Miss Evert ultimately broke her for a 5-3 lead.

"My strategy was to lob when she came in," she said. "I'm happy with my job. We move each other around the court so well."

She said she was "mentally still riding high" in the subsequent doubles finals which she and Martina Navratilova lost, 7-5, 7-6, to the veteran team of Betty Stove and Francoise Durr on a 5-4 tiebreaker.

"I was 10 times better than I was last week," said Mrs. Court, the four-time top-rated player for years until she left.

"I'm getting fitter. I had my chances but I hit them all wide."

The 32-year-old netter from Perth, Australia, said she did better than last week.

"I was moving better, tasting better and volleying better," she said. "I had a good chance, one point away from a break from a 4-3 lead in the third set. But she made it and I didn't."

"I look forward to playing her again. That's for sure. I think we'll have some good matches."

Wisconsin runners break relay record

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Wisconsin's sprint medley relay team set a new world indoor best in that event Saturday night at the Michigan State relays, but the biggest shock of the all-day affair was who didn't run in the finals.

Reggie Jones and Pat Davey, two former Michigan high school standouts now running for Tennessee, completed just one race between them in the competition — Jones' 300-yard dash preliminaries heat in which he failed to qualify for the semifinals.

Jones, who won the NCAA 100-yard dash championship last spring, appeared to pull up at the end of the 300-yard race. He was scheduled one half hour later to run in a qualification race for the 60-yard dash competition, but was scratched just before the starting gun.

Wisconsin's sprint medley relay team of Tim Rappe, Chuck Bolton, Tariq Nughar and Mark Sang shattered a 14-year-old mark in that event. The Badgers' time of 3:22.8 just nipped the former record of 3:24 flat set by Oklahoma State in 1962.

It was Sang's 1:50.2 clocking in the closing 800 sprint that clinched the new mark for the quartet, running that event for their first time in competition.

Carroll Righter

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An excellent day and p.m. to get in tune with up-to-date thinking and action. Show those of whom you are afraid that you are truly devoted both romantically and practically.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have clever ideas that you would do well to keep to yourself instead of spreading about for others to steal. Unexpected good-time.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Join with fine associates and work on those mutual goals with a vengeance. Make a good friend of that idealist who interests you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you contact that bigwig, you find you can rise to greater heights in your career. Take part in some civic matter.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have just the right inspiration now to get those new ideas working. A plan to travel is good, but discuss with bigwig.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Follow hunches now to gain your objectives. An idea or two from your mate can also be of help to you now. Avoid an ego-deflator.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A good day to get partner to okay your plan, but describe it in full, accurately. Don't hesitate about getting into civic venture.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study newspaper for ideas for home improvement. A fellow worker can be helpful to you, but you have to state it clearly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Contact congenials for recreational activity. Show more devotion to mate and come to a better understanding. Spend within means.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Listen carefully to what family expects of you since you have been too busy to pay much attention to life. Entertain.

LEO (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A good day to get those appointments you've been postponing and get good results. Communications and travel affairs favored.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Now you know exactly how to handle practical affairs most intelligently. Listen to expert's suggestions. A happy social p.m.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Gain personal aims early. The social side of life is good later in day, since others are in a fine mood to be helpful.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... ...he or she will require moral and religious training early and will need white young to be among intelligent persons in order to mature well. It is important that the wrong people are not around your promising progeny, for they could appeal to the darker side of this nature. Ideal chart here for the investigator, the artist, the big business man or woman, the laboratory worker, etc. Bring out musical talent through lessons.

LAWSUITS

Sir, have you as yet been involved in five major legal battles? If not, stand by. Law statisticians contend the average individual will be so involved during a lifetime. Those predicted cases are: 1. Buyer versus seller. 2. Tenant versus landlord. 3. Driver versus driver. 4. Husband versus wife. 5. Insured versus insured company.

Q. "WHAT'S actor Charles Bronson's real name?"
A. Charles Buchinsky.

WHAT FIRST leaps to mind when you and your matrimonial mate are invited out to dinner? If you're a woman, it's said to be: "What shall I wear?" If you're a man, it's more likely: "How can I get out of it?" The foregoing findings may not apply to newlyweds. They were turned up in a survey among Seasoned Citizens in retirement.

GAS COUPONS

You know those gasoline rationing coupons printed up last year during the gas shortage just in case? They can't be used, ever. Turns out they're the same size as a $1 bill, bear a picture of George Washington, and fit all the standard bill-changing machines. That nifty bit of nonsense cost $12.5 million.

THE GREATER the woman's intelligence, the more adventurous she is in matters romantic. Which is to say, sexy. Or such was the conclusion of a Syracuse scholar who devoted two years of formal study to the subject.

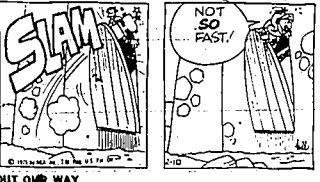

THE CITIZENS of Finland wager an average of $24 per person per year in various gambling games. That's said to be the highest per capita betting figure in the world.

Iran to buy US destroyers

© 1975, Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — The government of Iran has signed an agreement to buy six of the U.S. Navy's newest class of destroyers for a total purchase price of $1.4 billion, congressional sources say.

The warships, Spruance class DD-963 destroyers, will be built at the Litton Industries shipyard in Pascagoula, Miss., as a follow-on to a contract for 30 ships of the same class now under construction for the U.S. Navy.

There have been rumors that such a sale was being negotiated since last June. Iran has bought large quantities of American war planes and missiles recently, but this is the first major ship purchase by the oil-rich Persian Gulf state. Rep. Lee Aspin (D-Wis.), a frequent critic of the destroyer program, said in a news release that a Navy report to Congress on the ships states "the Iranian government signed a letter of offer and acceptance on 27 August 1974."

Two other capital hill sources outside of Aspin's office said the deal involves six ships. One source said the price is $1.4 billion.

The ships for Iran are to be built after the 30 under construction for the U.S. Navy are completed in 1978.

Ford backs electric utilities in price hike practice

© Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — President Ford has sided with the electric utility industry in a growing controversy over the utilities' practice of directly passing on higher fuel costs to their customers without specific approval from state regulatory bodies.

So-called "fuel adjustment clauses," or "pass-throughs," which permit utilities in most states to recover directly from their customers all fuel price increases, have caused electric bills to rise sharply throughout the country. The higher charges have sparked resentment and even rebellion among consumers who have seen their bills increase 100 percent and more in the past year.

Ford in a little-noticed aspect of his overall energy conservation package last month proposed that utilities nationwide adopt the controversial "fuel adjustment pass-through" and that state regulatory agencies be prevented from interference with the practice. This was one of several Ford recommendations, intended to assist the financially pressed utilities industry, which have aroused consumer groups and congressional critics of utilities' practices. Sen. Joe Metcalf (D-Mont.), who has long urged closer scrutiny of investor-owned utilities, is looking into the administration's recommendations with an eye toward calling government and utility officials and consumers to testify before his government operations subcommittee.

"I don't believe the Congress will stand for" Ford's fuel adjustment proposal, said a Senate specialist on utility financing. "And I don't think the state regulators will stand for it because it cuts into one of their main responsibilities — justification of rate increases. These fuel-adjustment clauses are just a built-in way for utilities to rack up and justify higher profits."

In Florida, Montana, West Virginia and other states, utility users have sought legal recourse to halt the practice of direct fuel cost pass-through. The complaints generally have fallen into three categories: — Automatic adjustment clauses diminish the right of state regulatory agencies and consumers to have cost data submitted to review at a public rate proceeding. — If allowed to recover automatically all fuel cost increases, utility management has no incentive to shop for lower fuel prices or to negotiate advantageous long-term fuel contracts.

— The practice has a built-in temptation for abuse, particularly among utilities that own fuel subsidiaries from which the parent company "buys coal or oil."

Ford also has proposed that state utility commissions be required to let utilities include the cost of construction work in progress in their rate base. The effect would be to increase the size of the rate base, which is the figure used by state agencies to determine a utility's allowable profit.

Traditionally the cost of a new plant or facility is not added to the rate base until the plant goes into production.

Ford's industry-supported proposal, said an analyst on Metcalf's Senate subcommittee, "is just another use of the old play they call in the trade, "padding the rate base."

Utilities — spokesmen argue that these and other measures, including larger investment tax credits, are needed if the industry is to generate adequate profit to meet current and future capital investment needs.
