Rate boost eyed

BOISE (UPI) — Intermountain Gas Co. will seek a minimum 12 per cent rate hike by late spring, according to President R. D. Grimm. Grimm said rates may go up as much as 26 per cent for residential customers and 32 per cent for industrial customers by the end of the year because of increases in wholesale natural gas costs. He said his company will ask the Public Utilities Commission for the initial increase sometime in late spring and will ask for an additional increase in the fall.

Senate panel OK's oil tax bar

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee today approved a House-passed bill to rescind President Ford's increase in oil import fees for 90 days. The bill was approved by a vote of 11-9. Decisive ballots were cast by Republicans Robert Dole, Kan., and Robert Packwood, Ore. The measure is designed to rescind the $1 a barrel fee on imported oil which Ford imposed Feb. 1 and to block him from increasing that fee to $2 on March 1 and $3 on April 1 as he intends. The committee also approved by voice vote a bill to increase the ceiling on the national debt by $36 billion to $311 billion through June 30. Unless this bill passes by Feb. 18, the administration says, the federal government will have no authority to borrow, putting a crimp on orderly fiscal operations. Congressional Democrats say they intend to frame an alternative energy program during the 90-day period. They say Ford's program, to conserve oil and other fuels by drawing their prices up, will intensify the inflation and impede recovery from the recession. Senate consideration of the bill is expected to start next week. The threat of a filibuster by Ford's supporters from Republican ranks and from the oil states appears to have faded because his supporters believe they have the votes to sustain a veto. A two-thirds majority is required to override a veto. A sustained veto would mean a key segment of Ford's program will have been achieved despite the clear opposition of Democratic majorities in the House and Senate. The Democrats were frustrated and embarrassed, too, by their failure to muster a quorum at Tuesday's meeting of the Finance Committee, giving Ford more ammunition against a "do-nothing" Congress.

today in brief

Revolt flares in Malagasy

TANANARIVE, Malagasy (UPI) — Army troops today attacked a rebel police camp outside the capital in apparent revenge for the assassination of the island nation's military struggler. Diplomatic sources said an ultimatum to surrender ran out and gunfire and explosions were heard from the area, which was sealed off.

Revels end

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Thousands of Mardi Gras revelers in a "pitter" crowd sang, danced, drank and shouted themselves to exhaustion Tuesday as they wound up pre-Lenten celebrations here. Among those participating was jazzman Pete Fountain (left), who led one of the parades through the downtown area. Lent began today. Ash Wednesday, and continues for 40 days until Easter.

Rebel rockets hit Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — A rebel rocket ripped into central Phnom Penh today, killing five persons and wounding 10 sources said. It was the first shelling of the capital in six days. On the edge of the Cambodian capital, communist gunners fired eight rounds of rockets into the vicinity of Pocheoning airport in the morning but did not inflict any casualties, military sources said.

Hansen seeks disposal site pick

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, says he is trying to get a committee together to conduct a survey on the selection of a site for the Atomic Waste Depository. Hansen told the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday he wants a committee of congressmen and experts to present information on the opposing sites in the selection of the site, and to get proper coverage of Idaho's effort to obtain the Waste Processing and Management Program.

Onassis condition 'guarded'

PARIS (UPI) — Greek multimillionaire Aristotle Onassis has developed a jaundice condition following his gall bladder operation and is in "guarded" condition, the American Hospital announced today. The hospital declined to elaborate on Onassis' condition, saying only that his state of health "remains guarded." The hospital also acknowledged for the first time that the shipping magnate does suffer from a potentially fatal muscle disease, myasthenia gravis. It said that ailment and a heart condition made it impossible to give a prognosis for his recovery at this time.

Millions voting in ROK referendum

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — Millions of South Koreans ignored calls for a boycott and voted today in a controversial referendum on the one-man rule of President Park Chung-hee, the nation's strongman for 14 years. Park vowed to resign if voters reject his two-year-old constitution.

Ethiopian rebels blast bridge

ASMARA, Ethiopia (UPI) — Rebels blew up a strategic highway bridge over the Tocar River six miles outside Asmara today, but the city itself began to return to normal after 13 days of civil war. Sudan's acting foreign minister, Jamal Mohammed Ahmed, said in Addis Ababa he was encouraged by two hours of talks with government officials aimed at ending the conflict that has taken an estimated 2,500 lives.

Standing room

School aide actions eyed

By DAVID HORSMAN Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — An overflow crowd jammed the Twin Falls School Board meeting Tuesday night to protest or support the school administration's handling of a recent "streaking" incident. The about 150 parents, patrons and students who filled the small board room and spilled into the hallways, appeared about evenly divided on the issue of whether school officials acted too harshly against two Twin Falls High School seniors who "streaked" through a girls basketball game last month.

In addition to suspending the two boys from classes for five days, the administration filed criminal charges against one of the students, aged 18, and brought action against the other in juvenile court. The older student was originally charged with indecent exposure, but Magistrate Judge Paul Smith changed the charge to disorderly conduct and sentenced him to six months probation, fined him $75 and ordered him to work six Saturdays for the county without pay and write a 1,000-word essay. The juvenile's punishment has not been made public. Most of the debate Tuesday centered on Twin Falls Supt. George Staudaher, who was conspicuously absent from the crowded room. Staudaher had ordered high school officials to take court action against the "streakers."

PARENTS, PATRONS and students crowded the Twin Falls school board meeting room Tuesday night to voice displeasure with or support for administration of schools recently highlighted by disciplinary action against two high school "streakers."

Ban defended

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto blamed political opponents today for violence throughout Pakistan and said he was justified in banning the major opposition party and arresting its leaders. "Flow slowly and step by step the opposition have taken the path of violence," Bhutto said in a speech to the National Assembly. "They have taken the attitude of taking guns in their hands. They have taken the attitude of breaking the dialogue. They have taken the attitude of a bomb in their hand. They have taken the attitude of assassinating ministers of the government." Bhutto made the speech soon after a coalition of eight opposition parties announced it would boycott the National Assembly session. "We have been driven to the wall to take these measures," Bhutto said, referring to the banning of the pro-Moscow National Awami party and the arrest of its leaders.

enough to read it." Several persons criticized the Times-News, which published Staudaher's statement verbatim. One man received applause when he said the newspaper was "lent upon breaking down the school system." Mrs. Colleen Beutler defended the newspaper, saying she had learned that Staudaher called the Times-News and dictated the statement to a copy editor, demanding that it be printed verbatim. The editor read back the statement to Staudaher and asked if he wanted it to be published exactly that way. He replied, "Absolutely."

Variable rate proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Home Loan Bank Board proposed today fluctuating interest rates on home mortgages that could rise by as much as 2.5 per cent above the initial lending rate. The proposal also would allow the mortgage rates to decline after the purchase based on an index to be determined by the board. The proposal could take effect within 90 days but is more likely to become effective next fall, FHLLB chairman Thomas R. Bomar said. The proposal allows savings and loan associations to lend money to homebuyers at a "variable rate." The changing rate would allow thrift institutions to adjust the interest rate up or down depending on the movement of interest rates. The interest rate index would be based primarily on the average rates charged by the nation's mortgage lenders. The maximum increase above the initial interest rate determined at the moment when a home was purchased would be 2.5 per cent.

Burley mayor, councilmen recall drive targets

By DAVID BOCKMAN Times-News writer
BURLEY — A campaign to recall Burley's mayor and City Council is underway. The recall effort followed the Monday firing of Police Chief Gary Booth, according to recall organizers. Recall supporters held a rally Tuesday evening to promote the recall effort and the newly formed "Concerned Citizens for Better Law Enforcement." The rally was attended by about 250 people, most supportive of ex-chief Booth. Related pictures, story, p. 15 However, at the meeting Booth was subjected to some sharp questioning, and the plan to circulate petitions for the ouster of Burley's elected officials, petitioned to lose steam. Tuesday, signatures calling for the recall of Mayor Chuck Shaddock and all of Burley's City Council were circulated. About 5 p.m. the recall organizers presented a petition with 20 signatures to city clerk E.E. Brinegar. The petition stated the city officials should be recalled because of the "discharge of chief of police, Gary Booth, without giving substantial reasons." By early Wednesday morning, a second petition bearing 20 signatures had been filed. However, Brinegar said that only 17 of the signers are qualified Burley voters. City attorney Dick Smith said before the recall effort can become "official" the organizers must present to Brinegar one petition with 20 valid signatures. Then the clerk must certify that the signatures are valid and the petition is in correct form. At the Tuesday meeting, Burley businessman Wendell Campbell was elected to chair the citizens group. Campbell suggested that the recall petition effort be postponed until the group met with the city council and mayor. "If we don't get some answers, then we should fire them," Campbell said. In a related development, Idaho's attorney general says he will send two investigators to Burley. At Gen. Wayne Kidwell, said he is sending the investigators to assist Cassia Pros. Atty. Alfred Barrus in "an investigation."

Kidwell said, "we're going to look into the entire problem involving the Burley police department." Barrus said the investigators will conduct a "general inquiry to see if we should go into a full-fledged investigation into some matters." It is a general criminal type investigation, he said. However, Barrus said "it's not related to misappropriations of funds of the firing of Chief Booth." Tuesday, Kidwell had denied he was assisting in an investigation. However, Barrus had stated, Kidwell had been asked to assist in an inquiry. Later, Kidwell said, Barrus "asked us to assist him in whatever investigation he's going to conduct. And we're agreed to help."

Kissinger reports progress

CAIRO (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said he and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat made "progress" Wednesday in their first talks on a new military disengagement agreement between Israel and Egypt in the Sinai.

Emerging from four hours of talks at his Nile Delta Barrage rest house north of Cairo, Sadat, although unsmiling, termed them "very fruitful" and said he was satisfied.

Both men said the talks would continue during dinner at Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy's residence and that Sadat would attend. "I think we made progress in clarifying the issues in which a solution should be found," Kissinger told newsmen. He said he was hopeful that even more progress would be made in their talks later.

"The basic problem is to bring peace to the whole area," Kissinger said. "In reaching that, there undoubtedly will be individual steps and I personally have some idea what these might be in the context of overall peace."

Before meeting with Sadat, Kissinger expressed optimism and said he would be returning to the Middle East "definitely" next month. He told a questioner who asked about the differences between Israel and Egypt, "I am here because I think they are reconcilable."

Sadat said, "I am always optimistic when I receive my friend Henry." Kissinger is to fly to Syria and then back to Israel Thursday.

Before he departs, Kissinger and Fahmy will sign an $80 million loan agreement — part of a $250 million American aid package pledged to Egypt in fiscal year 1974-75. The money, repayable over 40 years at a two per cent annual interest with a 10-year period of grace, will be used to finance imports of agricultural and industrial equipment, spare parts and other essential commodities, Egyptian and American officials said.

Kissinger flew here from Israel and what he called "very constructive" exploratory talks with Israeli leaders. He and his wife, Nancy, then drove to Sadat's rest house, 18 miles north of Cairo.

A senior official aboard Kissinger's plane said the secretary heard a full exposition of Israel's views concerning disputed points in the Middle East crisis before coming to Egypt.

Thoughts for today

A thought for the day: Charles M. Schwab, American industrialist, said: "Lead the life that will make you kindly and friendly to everyone about you and you will be surprised what a happy life you will live."

A thought for the day: Walter Lippmann, American journalist, said: "While the right to talk may be the beginning of freedom, the necessity of listening is what makes the right important."

A thought for the day: Daniel Webster, American statesman, said: "The longer I live the more I realize that I estimate the Christian Sabbath as the more grateful I feel to those who impress its importance on the community."

A thought for the day: Theodore Roosevelt, 26th U.S. president, said: "No man is worth his salt who is not ready to risk his body, to risk his life, to risk his well-being in a great cause."

Fatherly smooch

PRESIDENT Gerald Ford takes a big bite of cake as he ceaves a press conference in Topeka, Kan., Tuesday. Shortly before that, the President was kissed by State Rep. Sharon Hess, R-Whitish, one half of the state's only husband-wife legislative team. Mrs. Hess said later it was "like kissing your father." (UPI)

Ford renews campaign against draggy solons

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford renewed his campaign against what he called congressional foot dragging on the nation's economic ills during a two-day swing into Texas and Kansas.

The President, who returned to the White House Tuesday night after holding a news conference in Topeka, Kan., will meet with his top economic aides this morning and then commemorate Abraham Lincoln's birthday by laying a wreath at the Lincoln Memorial.

Ford's main theme during his brief trip was that he is taking action to cure economic and energy problems, but Congress is not.

Although he denied campaigning against Congress, the President's speeches recalled President Harry Truman, a native of nearby Missouri who sought re-election in 1948 by attacking a "Do-nothing Congress." Ford expressed admiration for Truman's style.

Ford got the emotional bit of "liberally cheering crowds, experiences like being snubbed by school children who waited two hours in sleet and snow to see him." This is unbelievable, it is very touching," he said. "I'm just overwhelmed, not only by the numbers but by the warmth."

The President took two actions Tuesday.

—He announced the release of $2 billion in impounded federal highway construction and the governors said state matching money was available and within a few months relief could come to a construction industry that averages 10 per cent unemployment. Ford estimated 140,000 jobs would be created.

—He told the Kansas legislature the administration is setting up a rebate program to compensate the farmer for increased energy costs caused by our conservation program.

Ford acknowledged "gray areas," but he kept holding up a 167-page copy of his program and comparing it with the only action Congress has so far attempted—a House passed bill to delay $1.5 billion in interest on import taxes.

Discussing a 3 1/2-hour lunch with Midwest governors in the news conference, Ford said: "I think they respected this program, which is an answer. Whether they liked every part of it, they preferred this program to a four-page step back."

He also said that if Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is unsuccessful in getting the Arabs and Israelis to come to terms, "there is a very serious prospect of war in the Middle East. It war should occur, it raises the possibility of another oil embargo."

Freed road fund assists Andrus

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' proposal to spend $10 million of the surplus on roads took a turn for the better Tuesday with a report President Ford was releasing $2 billion in impounded trust funds.

House Majority Leader Walter Little, R-New Plymouth, said it appeared Idaho could get as much as $20 million in additional federal road-building funds if it can match them.

He said it would take about $1.5 million if the interstate formula of 92.8 is used and about $7.1 million if the 65-35 formula is used.

Little said members of Andrus' party relied the word to him while he was in a Republican caucus and he passed it on to the caucus. He said it was not discussed, but he expressed personal belief that if Idaho can get the $20 million it should use the surplus to match it if it has to.

Director of Transportation Darrell Manning said he is unsure what restrictions will be placed on the use of the federal highway money.

Manning said under a formula used last year Idaho could receive up to $20 million and that would require "in the vicinity of $1 million" in matching funds from Idaho.

8 women die in jail fire

ROSARIO, ARGENTINA (UPI) — Eight jailed women died in a fire they set off today in a cell block in a Rosario prison, police sources said.

The women began rioting and breaking windows in the jail some 300 miles north of Buenos Aires late Tuesday night to protest alleged poor treatment. The sources said they said the women set fire to their mattresses and the fire swept out of control, killing the eight.

Runaway aids Utah search

ELKO, Nev. (UPI) — A teenage runaway has armed Salt Lake City police with names and descriptions in their search for three men who assaulted a policeman in Emigration Canyon.

Sources close to the investigation said today the 16-year-old Southern California girl told them she was with the three men when they beat Officer Brett R. Elcock Monday night and apparently led him for dead in the snow along the canyon road.

She said two of the three men bragged they had killed three police officers in other parts of the country.

Authorities have broadcast bulletins for a trucker believed headed toward the Pacific Northwest and two men—a white and a black—believed headed toward southern Nevada.

The girl, whose name was not released, was reported waiting to be sent home to southern California today.

Earlier today, Elko County Sheriff's deputies said the girl had not been helpful in interrogators, and was in jail "refreshing her memory" before another questioning session today.

However, sources said the girl provided names and descriptions of the three men and of the vehicles they were driving. Salt Lake detectives returned from Elko today and did not plan to question the girl further.

She told investigators she and the truck driver had been traveling together. She said they parked his rig in Salt Lake City, where they met the other men, apparently friend of the driver.

All four got in the station wagon the two men had and drove into Emigration Canyon east of Salt Lake, where Elcock pulled them over for a registration check. During the check, she said, the black man decided to jump the officer.

After the men beat Elcock, she said, she and the trucker left the other two.

She was taken into custody as a runaway in Nevada, and has reportedly requested protective custody after telling her tale to authorities.

She said her companions at the time of the assault on Elcock apparently told her the officer was dead when they left the canyon.

Funeral prices should be understood, too.

In times like these, it's a good idea to know what we get for our money—even in a funeral.

That's why White Mortuary invites the family's inquiry about our many complete funerals, all reasonably priced. A member of our staff will gladly explain all services and prices without obligation.

PUC seat sought

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate State Affairs Committee has asked the Senate to confirm the appointment of Karl Shurtliff, a former Democratic legislator from eastern Idaho, as a member of the State Public Utilities Commission.

The action came following an appearance by Shurtliff before the committee.

Shurtliff said his concern as a member of the commission was the "health and well being" of the people of Idaho and the business community.

"I hope I can accommodate both those interests," he said.

TF club honors police officer

TWIN FALLS — James Milton, Twin Falls city police officer, was honored by the Exchange Club Tuesday as law enforcement officer of the year.

He was presented a large plaque by Kendall Egbert, program chairman, and was also given a pocket computer from the club members. In presenting the award, Egbert said Milton, in addition to being an outstanding police officer, assists in many other community programs and activities.

The award was presented as part of the club's observance of Crime Prevention Week. Fifth Judicial District Judge Theron W. Ward, principal speaker, told Exchange Club members legislation has been passed by Ralph J. Gines, D-Nampa, which would set the courts and penal institutions back 60 years in efforts to adequately handle felons.

Judge Ward said in 1914 the state saw fit to eliminate the minimum requirements of prison sentences for felons, leaving it up to the courts and state board of corrections who now determine the possibilities of rehabilitation for the criminal.

The judge said the proposed legislation would again make at least some prison time mandatory on a conviction or plea of guilty to a felony.

Judge Ward told the club members under the present system of probation nearly every felony case involves a presentence investigation covering the individual's entire life.

"Statistics show 90 per cent of those who are given an opportunity through probation have learned their lesson and return to society as successful and law abiding citizens. This is a pretty high degree of success, I think," Judge Ward said.

He said it costs $17.71 per day to keep a prisoner in the state penitentiary as compared to 86 cents per day as the calculated cost of maintaining a probation.

"The taxpayers are also benefiting under the present system," he said.

Officer cited

POLICE officer of the year as selected by the Twin Falls Exchange Club is James Milton, left. An Exchange Club member, he was honored with a plaque and gift presented by Kendall Egbert. The award is part of the club's crime prevention program.

MV Symphony director resigns

By LORAYNE O. SMITH Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Symphony's pops concert at CSI Tuesday night was an unspoken tribute to its resignation before the last number.

Do Slaughter, who has been associated with the symphony since it began in 1959, told orchestra members before the season's final concert began in the Fine Arts auditorium that he was resigning. He listed personal and family reasons for his decision.

Slaughter, who has directed the orchestra for more than 12 years, succeeding Richard Smith who was the first director. Slaughter played clarinet in the group before assuming the directorship.

He introduced three members who have played with the group during all 17 seasons, Helen Cramer, cellist; Jean Sautelle, violinist and business manager, and also his wife, Julienne Slaughter, concertmistress. The director also paid tribute to the patrons who have supported the community orchestra, many of them since the symphony began.

Slaughter, who is high school acquisition. Auditor Joe H. Williams said at least two of the county commissioners favor the state's action.

Williams spoke out sharply about the fish and game and parks departments' opposition last fall, accusing it of "underrating" the board's position and the work of those involved.

Parks Director Steve Wilf told the group he had notified the board of concern as early as October, 1971. Robert Wise as county planning said the county expressed concern as early as last May.

Rep. Melvin Hammond, D-Hoburg, said there are different opinions in Fremont County about the proposed band and orchestra director here, expressed appreciation to the musicians for whom participation in the group is, he said, "a labor of love."

Over the many years, Twin Falls symphony audiences have come to appreciate, and expect, the excellent programming which has been a hallmark of Slaughter's regimens.

What the concertgoer never knows is the frustrations experienced — increasingly each year — in trying to bridge the widening gap between musical excellence and volunteers with varying degrees of loyalty.

Professional orchestras surely have problems, but an amateur group has some of the same ones, plus the added difficulty of having to be content with the members' leftover luggage.

The pops concert, which has become traditional for the closing event each February, was highlighted Tuesday night by the graceful demeanor of Beverly Hackney's ballet students.

Dressed in identical frilly pink outfits, the girls performed against the biting strains of Richard Rodgers' "Cinderella Waltz," which had been choreographed by Mrs. Hackney.

The girls included Marsha Brumback, Julie Allred, Teri Kessel, Jeny Ball, Kathy Kiley, Lark Kyles, Monie Smith, Ann Rangan, Shannon DeWald, Lauri Johnson and Helen Ryall.

From the exhilarating

"Zampa-Overture" which opened the program to the ever-popular "My Fair Lady" selections at the end, the orchestra performed with distinction.

The artistry, balance and general professionalism displayed probably is taken for granted by many in the audience, but for one who had long been involved in the group, it is impressive to hear the symphony perform, while sitting in the rear of the auditorium.

Several of the numbers gave, opportunistly for many brief solo parts throughout the woodwind and brass sections, and all the players performed creditably.

Report commends MVRs

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Rehabilitation Services, a non-profit agency which provides job training for the handicapped, has been commended in an accreditation report.

In accrediting the agency for a three-year period, investigators for the National Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities wrote in part:

"The facility is functioning at a notable level in all respects. This performance is due primarily to the exceptional organizational and administrative abilities of the board members, director and staff. Not only does the facility meet the standards, but has developed exceptional systems to guide every aspect of its business affairs and client services."

According to Jeff Crumrine, executive director of MVRs, the accreditation for the three-year period is the maximum obtainable under the regulations.

"What this accreditation means to the community is that the impartial review of our facility informs the community of the type of services we're providing," Crumrine said.

MVRs now operates out of the old tuberculosis hospital in Gooding and is in the process of remodeling a second facility on Eastland Drive in Twin Falls. Crumrine said

MVRs, Crumrine said, serves about 40 to 45 clients with job training both at its facility and through on-the-job training at businesses in the Magic Valley.

Board OK's go-ahead on land exchange

HOISE (UPI) — By a vote of 31, the State Land Board agreed today to go ahead with a proposed land exchange in Fremont County but promised not to sell or develop any land it gets for at least two years.

Board members took the action after a 45-minute meeting with members of the Legislative Land Grant Advisory Committee and the heads of the state fish and game park, and planning agencies.

Because of board rules, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, as presiding officer, does not vote except in case of ties. But, he told newsmen he would have voted for the motion had he the opportunity.

Public Instruction Superintendent Roy Truly voted against the motion.

saying he wanted to explore first a suggestion that the department could get some of the lands from the federal government at $2.50 per acre for recreation and public use.

Involved are federal lands under jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management near Henry's Lake, Island Park Reservoir and Harriman State Park. The Land Board is seeking them in lieu of some of the acreage taken at the turn of the century from the state for incorporation in national forests.

The Fremont County Planning and Zoning Commission, and the parks, fish and game and planning agencies — of the state — have opposed the acquisition of these lands for fear they will be sold and developed.

When and if acquired, they would go into the endowment lands and the land board has a constitutional charge to get the most money it can from these lands.

In addition, the parks department wants some of them itself to block up with the Harriman Park lands in keeping with an agreement between the Harrimans and the state.

At its January meeting the board explored with Fremont officials the possibility of declaring a moratorium on sale or development of the lands until the county completed its comprehensive land use plan in about two years.

The officials indicated that would be acceptable.

Before the board took its action — which will give the county time to complete the plan before anything is done with the lands — all involved reviewed with some heat various actions.

Members of the legislative advisory committee complained that the three state agencies opposing the acquisition did so after the land board already had applied for the lands.

They charged the agencies should have spoken first to the board and should not have waited so long to do so. The agencies made their formal opposition known in replying to a routine query from the BLM last fall.

Parks Director Steve Wilf told the group he had notified the board of concern as early as October, 1971. Robert Wise as state planning said the county expressed concern as early as last May.

Rep. Melvin Hammond, D-Hoburg, said there are different opinions in Fremont County about the proposed acquisition. Auditor Joe H. Williams said at least two of the county commissioners favor the state's action.

Murtaugh teachers satisfied

MURTAUGH — All Murtaugh teachers have indicated they want to return next year. Superintendent John S. Flowers today told trustees at the monthly board meeting Monday afternoon.

Trustees accepted the bid of Frank's Motor, Burley, to install a new short block in the motor of a 1970 school bus. The firm's bid of $76 was lowest of those received.

It was decided to install locking devices on all school buses because of theft of fire extinguishers and other equipment from school buses.

Trustees approved a $40 monthly raise for Mary Christensen, head cook, because of the extra hours she has spent on the job.

The board also approved the girls' high school basketball team's participation in an invitational tourney at Weiser. They left Tuesday for the event.

Trustees discussed price of tickets for school sports events and how the receipts are spent.

Father figure for US

WASHINGTON — In this strained capital, seemingly always on the verge of hysteria, the observer who strives to explain in print its bifurcated political-military-com-sol stand-quad refreshment for mind and soul by standing for a few minutes before a seated figure...

needs a father, like the Lincoln that sits in stone as national father figure. Visiting Lincoln in the simple majesty of that circular, cryptic, unmentally-purged, over the history books that remind posters of an historic act by Lincoln that was almost surely illegal, but politically and morally right...

ANDREW TULLY

We say that the proclamation that freed the slaves' and in effect that is true. But the proclamation actually was a military measure: a punitive step, against the South. It freed slaves only in those areas not under the military power of the United States — Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana except for 13 counties, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina and Virginia, except for that part known as West Virginia, which later became a state...

Armageddon approaches

By NEA/London Economist News Service
TEL-AVIV (LENS) You might think that considering how much international anxiety the Arab-Israeli conflict has already caused the prospect of a Middle Eastern nuclear war would horrify the whole world so much that special efforts would be made to avert it. But this hardly seems to be the case...

The Egyptians say they only want practical nuclear power. But their reactors would produce plutonium, and no assurance has been given that this plutonium would be safeguarded by the International Atomic Energy Agency in accordance with the nuclear non-proliferation treaty...

That is why so much congressional anxiety was aroused when President Nixon offered, last June, to provide both Egypt and Israel with reactors, with scant regard for the United States' obligation under the nonproliferation treaty to insist on full IAEA safeguards. President Ford and Henry Kissinger do not seem to have been greatly impressed by this anxiety...

Thought for the day

A thought for the day: Therefore Roosevelt, 24th President said, "It is only through labor and painful effort, by grim energy and courage that we prosper to better things."

(C) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — President Ford could assure his place in history with one simple act that would diminish his critics and lift the spirits of his countrymen beyond measure. It would break the chains of disenchantment with politics that burden his people, rally the nation to his goals and purposes, and redeem his pledge to compose the fractured national soul...

To prove that he wasn't copping out or recognizing his own limitation, he would simultaneously announce that he is bringing two prominent Democrats — say, Robert Humphrey and Robert McNamara — into his cabinet in a government of national unity, and together they will campaign, like men possessed, for programs that will hasten economic recovery and restore the country's confidence and sense of well-being...

Perhaps the script's chief flaw is the logic of it. In a time when the games politicians play have led to a deepening malaise and disillusionment, a denunciation by Ford of the usual ruses and recents of politics would refresh the process and give the country a renewed faith in its ability to solve its difficulties. Ford is believed to be sufficiently free of the sins of ego to permit him to resist the idea that such a move would be an admission of inadequacy and failure...

At the moment, Ford is being perceived as a two-year president. His budget deficits have prompted conservative Republicans virtually to disown him. His energy conservation program has seen so few adherents that his press spokesman saw encouragement in the 309-114 House vote against his plan to levy a tariff on imported oil. His budget projections of unemployment and inflation for next year have been so hectic that his economic advisers, practicing the familiar art of flamboyance with their statistics, have sought to revise the figures downward...

PETER LISAGOR

This is the old politics, and in the pursuit of it Ford can be expected to retreat from candidly to show the truth, to smudge reality under a blanket of propaganda, to sidestep the facts with the usual tactics of denial and dissembling. If he believes in his program, he would find release in rejecting the strategems required of a candidate. Treasury Secretary William Simon may be misguided in his economic views, but the dailies with the truth when he wonders aloud if a President concerned with election can make the tough moves to cope with a recession and inflation at the same time...

Time to contain highway spending

Rep. Nov Brackett, R-Twin Falls, who chairs a House subcommittee looking into highway department needs, has outlined several alternatives for giving the Idaho Highway Department the money it wants. The department has asked an additional $4.5 million over and above what it expects to receive next year from funds dedicated for highway use. Brackett says there are four alternatives under consideration to find this money...

The state could raise its gas tax by one and a half cents per gallon. car and truck license fees could be tripled. about a cent and a half of the current three-cent sales tax on cars and trucks could be diverted from the general fund to the highway department use. or the $4.5 million could come from surplus expected from the current year, instead of giving this money back as immediate tax relief. We don't like any of these alternatives. They all amount to raising spending in one form or another by $4.5 million.

The nation is in the grips of a long-term fuel shortage. The only way we can obtain enough fuel for our cars and trucks and other uses is to bankrupt the country or to permit the Arabs and other oil producing countries to buy us up.

It makes little sense to continue the rapid expansion of superhighways designed for 80 m.p.h. speeds and heavy traffic loads when we are looking to an era of 55 m.p.h. driving and only a few cars on the road. That does not mean that we don't need gradual improvement of highways and maintenance of the ones we have. But it does suggest the era of the high speed big car is nearing its end, and with it, the era of big highway spending.

That does not mean that we don't need gradual improvement of highways and maintenance of the ones we have. But it does suggest the era of the high speed big car is nearing its end, and with it, the era of big highway spending. It is in the national interest, not to mention the interest of Idaho taxpayers, to rethink our funding of highways. As anyone who buys gas should know, it is a time to go slow.

Nothing wrong?

Wall Street Journal
We note that eight ex-burgos from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare trotted out a stack of holes on which to swear nothing was wrong with the Social Security System. Suggestions that there is a serious problem, they said are "destructive," "irresponsible" and "baseless." Apparently the former HEW and Social Security heads were upset because discussion of the system's actuarial deficits has caused some rumors to worry about whether they will receive their next check. We would also like to do our part to calm such fears. We cannot realistically conceive of a way the system would not meet its obligations in the next two years...

Back in the original debates one bug issue concerned the accounting problem. The pro-social Security forces won and accounting for the system is not done on the "full reserve actuarial concept" that would apply to a private pension system. Rather, to reflect the pay-as-you-go aspect, a new and less stringent method of accounting was developed. Under this "dynamic assumptions" method, the actuarial deficit of the Social Security System is now $1.1 trillion over the next 75 years, discounted to present value. This is the first time the official actuarial concept has shown a deficit of any such proportions. Somehow it seems to us that if you are facing a deficit of such size, it is not exactly irresponsible to take some notice of the fact. Indeed, if somehow seems to us the irresponsible thing to do is to sweep the $1.1 trillion under the rug.

CIA probe bias looms

WASHINGTON — The probability of bias in the Senate investigation of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) hardened into certainty Tuesday morning last week when Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, chairman of the select investigating committee, disclosed some plans to the committee's senior Republican, Sen. John Tower of Texas. Church informed Tower he planned to name as CIA staff director a veteran Senate staffer and foreign affairs expert named William G. Miller. Church was telling, not asking. The name was only vaguely familiar to Tower, and he offered no protest. However, when Tower returned to his office to inform his staff, an angry bell sounded. Miller is an unofficial leader of the unofficial group of Senate staffers "a cabal," say Senate hard-liners who take a revisionist view of the cold war and push for reduced defense expenditures and a softer foreign policy. The word was sent down Pennsylvania Avenue to the White House where one senior presidential aide responded with deep distress: "This is an absolute disaster." He and other administration officials wondered how the Republicans let it happen. In private conversation, Miller has not concealed his opposition to CIA cover operations. Like many fellow members of the "cabal," Miller is a former foreign service officer disgruntled with the past generation of American policy. Although some press accounts of his new assignment describe Mr. Miller as a "Republican foreign-policy analyst," his positions are far closer to the New Left than the GOP.

As aide to then Republican Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, now ambassador to East Germany, Miller was a key strategist in the 1959 Senate fight against the anti-communist House ABAM and the 1970 battles to force a unilateral U.S. pullout from Indochina by passing the Cooper-Church amendments.

EVANS AND NOVAK

State Department officials became so frustrated during the ABAM fight that they insisted on meeting Cooper without Miller present. The move, they say, was a deliberate attempt to denigrate the Senate debate by consistently taking at face value dubious information given him by the Soviet emissaries and passing it on to Cooper.

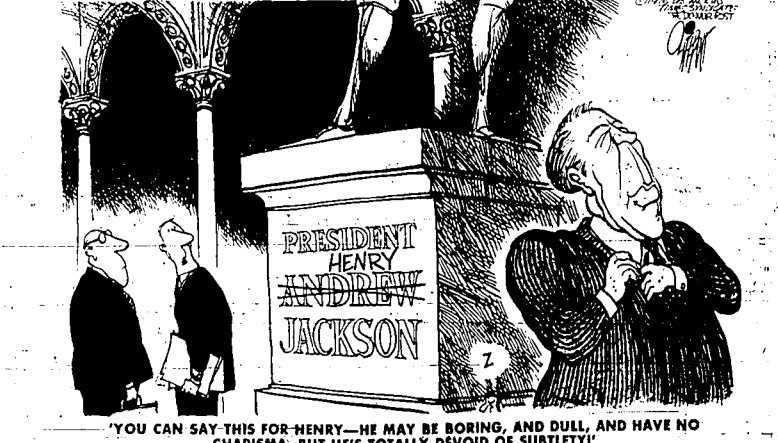

Consequently, there is hope in the administration and among hardline senators that Republicans will apply belated pressure on Church for a more even-handed staff director. But the Republicans are not united. One investigating committee member, Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, played word to us that he has no objections to Miller and has heard none from other senators.

Queen squeezed

LONDON (UPI) — Even the Queen of England is having trouble coping with inflation. The British government wants Parliament to raise the rate of inflation tax by 20 per cent to help her cope with inflation. That would make her income $2.8 billion a year. The upkeep of her palaces and salaries of palace employees comes out of her salary. Because of inflation, she may not be able to make ends meet unless she gets a salary increase from her present $2.34 million, government officials said. Prime Minister Harold Wilson had been expected to make the announcement, Tuesday but government sources said the statement had been put off indefinitely. The proposed pay raise faced opposition from left-wing members of Wilson's governing Labor party. One lawmaker asked how workers can be asked to keep wage demands down "if the Queen is given a raise like this at this time."

Erasers 'waste'

TRIDENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Erasers on pens are a waste of money in the eyes of New Jersey state Treasurer Richard Leone. The treasurer said Tuesday he has taken seriously Gov. Brendan Byrne's challenge to cut costs by $2 million and, to show his sincerity, is starting with the pens on his desk. Leone said the state buys 537,000 pens a year, and the erasers cost a penny extra. Eliminating the erasers will save more than $5,000.

Jerome sewage plans opposed

We, the undersigned, residents and property owners of Jerome County, Idaho, register our "citizen in-pul" as follows:

1. In strong protest against initiation of the City of Jerome in "the affairs of the rural community in its proposed planning for a city sewage system.
 2. Attached is a summation of "citizen in-pul", indicating various areas of concern, not heretofore given adequate consideration.
 3. The attached drawing, made from aerial map of the City in the office of the Jerome County Assessor, shows the present sewer site and adjacent undeveloped land where, obviously, there is sufficient land for a new facility.
 4. If the canyon pipeline plan is pursued, then we believe it should be as nearly directly South of the site area as possible.
 5. This petition, together with "in-pul summation", drawing re site area, to be submitted to individuals, organizations and groups as per list attached.

Strong home life best solution yet

Editor, Times-News: These letters are to be time appropriate, thus I believe this letter to be. Why is the US in the state that it is in? Maybe this letter will give you some ideas.

Dear Mrs. ———
While you work outside your home, I have been caring for your two small children. They are sweet, but rather trying at times, displaying the same jealousies and hostilities found in most siblings.

I am well paid, but this is just a job with me, and I cannot give your children the same affection I gave my own children when they were small. I am hired help — not their mother.

Your children resent the fact that you leave them all day. They seem to sense that you are gone from them because you want to be, not because you have to be. "It is obvious that your husband has provided you with all the material things your heart desires, but you prefer to work because your job offers more excitement than your role as a mother.

"One day you may become bored with the "business" world and decide to return home and raise your children. And if you do, I hope it won't be too late!" (signed)

"Substitute Mother"
Ladies, I am not against you working, what I am against is our children growing up into an immoral world.

Home life, home teaching, parental guidance is the remedy for all ailments, a cure for all diseases, a solution to problems.

It's so simple we just won't accept anything so simple, but it is.

Privacy lack hit

Editor, Times-News: I attended the Old Time Fiddlers Jamboree at Robert Stuart Junior High and was appalled at the lack of privacy in the rest rooms.

There are no doors, either to the hall or the individual toilets. Also, the boys' rest rooms had no locks, calling "Boys" so that many elderly women were embarrassed on entering the rest room.

Mr. Stauffer has expounded on gorality and modesty recently, but yet the teenagers attending Robert Stuart can have NO modesty, when performing a basic biological function.

I'm sure that the cost of the beautiful new building was high, but do a few more doors cost that much?

How can we expect much from our youngsters concerning modesty when we as adults can't furnish them with doors to their rest rooms?

The Times-News welcomes letters from its readers.

Letters should deal with topics of general public interest.

Stand applauded

Editor, Times-News: I would like to publicly thank Mr. George Stauffer for having the courage to do what was right, both in a legal and a moral sense, even though it may have been an unpopular move.

I feel we should support our school officials when they do what is right and not start screaming that we need a new superintendent or that there is a generation gap between him and the students. There should be a generation gap there. I certainly don't want teenagers teaching my children.

When a young man is 18 years of age he is considered an adult and should face the consequences of his actions like a man and stop running home crying.

If there were more concerned adults like Mr. Stauffer that didn't consider a violation of law and moral ethic just a boyish prank, maybe we could start having stricter enforcement of our laws and fewer criminals.

I feel the Times-News is wrong in taking the attitude they have. I hope their editorial does not reflect the attitude of their entire staff and hope the people will judge this case on what is legal and proper and support Mr. Stauffer.

ERA points up history class lack

Editor Times-News: The flurry that the ERA seems to be causing in our area is a testimonial to the lack of good history classes in our schools.

The ERA is merely giving back to the American woman the rights that she had before the men wrote the Constitution of the United States and before the corporations took away her remaining rights through the industrial revolution in the 1800's.

Abigail Adams, voted in every Massachusetts election until her husband helped write that Constitution, which made only males electors in our new country.

The Equal Rights Amendment is merely a reaffirmation of a fact of nature — that a woman is a human being, not merely an attachment to the male population or a chattel of her husband. We have done nature too long and the ERA is merely a forth of educating all people — male and female — that the human race is composed of women as well as men.

For those who fear that ERA will defeat family life, consider this. If the ERA forces fathers not only to help support their children but to raise them as well, to be fathers in deed as well as in fact, then we will have a return to the family life we had when we were a rural nation.

The 200th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence is a "fitting" year for the ratification of this amendment.

Bicentennial move receives applause

Editor, Times-News: Congratulations to the chamber of commerce! The first organization to come to my attention in our area to show enthusiasm toward our bicentennial of the United States. Their theme "Then and Now" was unique at the banquet recently held.

It was just a year ago that most of the civic organizations were represented at a luncheon in Twin Falls. Tony Parks, former attorney general, who is chairman of the Idaho Bicentennial Commission, said at the luncheon "It is time for Twin Falls to get aboard the bicentennial bandwagon." The Area American Legion and Auxiliary are laying plans for a big county Fourth of July celebration in 1976. They hope to have school band and drill team contests, races, little theatre acts, and entertainment for all ages. Watch for further organizational plans by The American Legion and Auxiliary.

Congress hears report on US defense issues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense officials say a new arms race with the Soviet Union could mean the development of the ultimate shell game — using mobile missiles.

In his annual defense report to Congress, Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger also said Tuesday China's efforts to develop super power status have been stymied for the moment by technical difficulties.

The 301-page report is the Pentagon's primary public statement on defense issues. It is a tome mined by defense specialists, newsmen, Pentagon critics and the Soviet Embassy.

Such classified versions went to the Armed Services and Appropriations committees of Congress.

Schlesinger told Congress he wants to continue research work on — but not production of a new ICBM for the mid-1980s in case arms limitation talks with the Soviet Union fail to progress.

The missile could be buried in sites like the current Minuteman, Schlesinger said. But missiles the Soviets began deploying a few weeks ago are so advanced they will threaten all Minuteman sites when enough are built, he said.

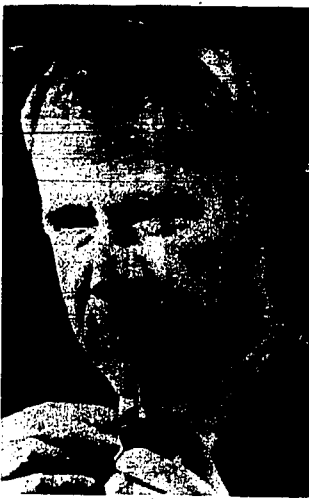

He said that, he said, the United States should consider "mobile" missiles in the mid-1980s. The Soviets couldn't target mobiles because they wouldn't know where they were.

Air Force experiments have proved it is feasible to drop a missile out the back of a large plane and ignite the engine. That would be a possible form of mobile missile, but Schlesinger said it would be very expensive because both planes and missiles must be bought and the planes must be kept airborne long hours.

He suggested a shelter system in which the United States would build hundreds of shelters but only a few missiles. At night the missiles would be shifted from one shelter to another. The Soviets would never know which shelters were empty and which contained missiles.

If they really wanted the ability to hit all American ICBMs, the Soviets would be forced to spend a fortune building enough missiles to hit every inexpensive shelter, Schlesinger said.

Of the Chinese missile program, Schlesinger said, "in the last year or two it appears to be losing some of its momentum, at least in part as a result of technical difficulties."

JAMES SCHLESINGER gives report

More layoffs slated

DETROIT (UPI) — American Motors Corp. will lay off one-third of its hourly labor force Monday and concentrate production on a single model — the small Pacer.

The layoff, announced Tuesday, involves 8,500 workers.

The announcement was the first indication from U.S. automakers of their planned production next week in the face of a three-month supply of unsold cars. There are 252,960 workers idled this week, compared with 275,130 on short and long-term layoffs last week.

AMC's supply of unsold Gremlins, Hornets and Matadors stood at a 90-day supply entering February, a sharp drop from the 120-day supply at the beginning of January because of $200 to $300 cash rebates it began offering Jan. 21.

But the stock of unsold cars was large enough to cause AMC to continue its one-week on, one-week off production schedule. The rebates ended this week after a one-week shutdown that ended Monday.

Next week's layoffs include

4,500 workers at the Kenosha, Wis., assembly plant, 3,000 at the Milwaukee body plant and 1,000 at the Brampton, Ont., assembly plant. Indefinite layoffs will remain at 450, a small number in comparison to its "Big Three" competitors who have 207,200 workers on opened layoffs this week.

Production of the new Pacer, a short-bodied car with interior space equal to mid-sized automobiles, will be increased next week, an AMC spokesman said. The company hopes to have at least 13,000 of them in dealer stock by the end of the month when it debuts Feb. 28.

AMC Chairman Roy D. Chapin Jr. has said the new Pacer should take up some of the slack that will accompany the ending of the industry's rebate programs.

Industry observers said AMC has selected the week-on, week-off production scheduling in hopes of avoiding the massive open-ended layoffs that have been the industry's answer to slumping sales.

Industrywide, there was a 50-day supply of unsold cars at the start of February. A 60-day supply is considered normal.

The White House was designed by an Irish-born architect, James Hoban, who won a competition paying $500. Coincidentally, the main facade bears a striking resemblance to the Duke of Leinster's house in Dublin, according to The World Almanac. Though President Washington chose the site of the White House, he never lived in it.

Resources overestimated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A panel of the National Academy of Sciences says the government has overestimated the undiscovered oil and natural gas resources in the United States.

The Committee on Mineral Resources and the Environment — composed of 20 academic and industry representatives — also said in a report Tuesday the government has placed too much emphasis on increased domestic production to achieve energy independence.

The report, which questions government estimates of undiscovered but recoverable oil and gas resources, said domestic resources estimates by private sources, including the major oil companies, are "considerably smaller" than government figures.

The disputed government figures, prepared by the Interior Department's U.S. Geological Survey, estimate undiscovered but recoverable resources of from 200 billion to 400 billion barrels of oil and from 590 billion to 2,000 trillion cubic feet of gas.

Figures in the panel's report, which it says are "more reliable and more trustworthy," are 113 billion barrels of oil and about 530 trillion cubic feet of gas. Seventy percent of the resources are in Alaska and the Outer Continental Shelf. The report said these will require slower and more expensive drilling techniques.

ATLANTA (UPI) — The embattled prime-time access rule of the Federal Communications Commission began a new episode Tuesday when the District Court of Appeals for the second circuit in New York ruled for an expedient appeal and scheduled a review of all arguments, for and against the rule, the week of March 3.

The court acted in response to petitions filed by various television organizations, including the three networks, either asking that the rule be invalidated as unconstitutional or challenging the commission's new amendments to the rule, which are to go into effect next fall.

The original prime-time access rule, instituted in 1971, required the networks to devote three hours of programming during the peak viewing hours of the evening, leaving the remainder to be programmed by individual stations in the top 50 markets, mostly with syndicated shows.

Knowledge denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James J. Angleton, former counter intelligence chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, says he did not know at the time that a group attached to his unit was involved in domestic spying.

Angleton denied a report in the New York Times which said he directed for the CIA a massive illegal domestic intelligence operation during the Nixon administration against anti-war movements and other dissidents and that a spy unit had completed files on at least 10,000 Americans.

"My feeling," Angleton said Tuesday in a telephone interview, "is that the charges made by the New York Times Dec. 22 as they related to my colleagues and reference to counter intelligence were entirely false."

He said he regretted there had been no CIA rebuttal because, he said, readers of the report would be led to believe that the charges were correct and that the charges were done a great deal of damage to the men in my unit."

Boisean quits GOP caucus

BOISE (UPI) — Accusing the House Republican leadership of discourtesy, Rep. Peggy Bunting, R-Boise, "dropped out" of the GOP caucus Tuesday and vowed not to return until she receives a formal apology.

Last week, Rep. Ralph Gines, R-Nampa, asked the Judiciary Committee to wait two days before considering a resolution to rescind ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment. He said he could not be present and wanted to speak on the subject.

Mrs. Bunting, who also wanted to discuss the matter, said she, too, had to be away from the legislative halls until Monday of this week and Tuesday.

Director R. Keith Higgins said the measure even prevents diversion of Idaho water by other states or the federal government.

He asked the committee to introduce the measure so it can be printed and studied. He said a public hearing ought to be held.

When the question about the validity of the resolution came up on the agenda last Wednesday, Gines successfully moved to adjourn the meeting. Then, on Thursday, he helped force the printing of the resolution after it was halted out of the Printing Committee.

Mrs. Bunting said Tuesday she should have received the same legislative courtesy extended to Gines.

Because of this incident, she said, she will not attend any House Republican Caucus until she receives a formal apology. She said she has no intention of "binding" her vote in caucus when her own party denies her equal treatment.

After the GOP caucus, Majority Leader Walter Little, R-New Plymouth, said if a person does not want to come to the caucus it is up to that person.

Little said he told Mrs. Bunting that under House rules there was no way to keep the ERA rescinded in the Printing Committee.

But he said he had promised to keep it from coming up for consideration on the floor while Mrs. Bunting was gone.

"The only thing that happened while she was gone was that it's printed," Little said, noting the resolution is now sitting in the State Affairs Committee.

Flow measure due

BOISE (UPI) — After a quick briefing by the director of water resources, the House Resources and Conservation Committee voted Tuesday to introduce a minimum streamflow bill.

Director R. Keith Higgins said the measure even prevents diversion of Idaho water by other states or the federal government.

He asked the committee to introduce the measure so it can be printed and studied. He said a public hearing ought to be held.

through Washington and Oregon this morning, heading for Idaho. Overrunning warm moist Pacific air invaded Idaho during the night. As a result, most of the state by midmorning was receiving rain in the valleys and snow in the mountains above 5,000 feet. For southern Idaho, very little change is expected through Sunday. After a more general type precipitation today and Thursday, periods of scattered rain showers in the valleys and snow in the mountains will prevail. Temperatures are forecast to remain near normal with highs in the 30s to mid 40s, and lows in the 20s to mid 30s.

Rape law repeal, redefinition asked

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate Judiciary and Rules Committee has agreed to print a bill repealing the present law dealing with rape, and replacing it with a new chapter referring to the "crime of sexual assault."

It also would define sexual contacts as being among "persons."

Byron Johnson, a Boise attorney and former member of the Idaho Womens Commission, said many cases went unreported because of fear of being "branded" as being raped.

He said the bill would "define" the term rape and "speaks of assault by one person against the another, without reference to man and woman."

Sen. James Rusch, R-Boise, opposed the bill. He said "rape is rape" and changing the wording to sexual assault would not make that much difference.

Compact OK wins nod

BOISE (UPI) — The House State Affairs Committee sent to the floor with a favorable recommendation today a measure to repeal ratification of the Columbia Interstate Compact.

Only Montana, Wyoming and Idaho have ratified the compact — taking the action in 1962. Washington and Oregon never ratified the five-state compact and Montana and Wyoming since have rescinded their ratification.

R. Keith Higgins, director of the Department of Water Resources, told the committee that repeal by Idaho possibly would open the door to a new compact.

Vets score expansion

BOISE (UPI) — War veterans have lodged strong objections to a proposal to expand the state's merit system register from hiring the top three to hiring the top 10.

Representatives of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Disabled American Veterans turned out in force Monday night to oppose elimination of the so-called "rule of three."

A rule of 10 would be an "abrogation of a viable merit system," William Hewitt, employment chairman for the Legion, said.

The Senate and House State Affairs Committees conducted the hearing to get testimony on a bill designed to strengthen and reclassify the state personnel system.

Idaho worker pay hike still deadlocked

BOISE (UPI) — House Republicans rejected a senate proposal for state employe pay hikes and sent their leadership back into a middle today with Senate GOP leaders on the increasingly critical issue.

Speaker Allan F. Larsen, R-Blackfoot, said this legislative session rapidly is reaching the point where the issue must be resolved by the two Houses.

Senate Republicans, in an effort to mollify the minority party, wants to give employes 3.5 per cent across the board pay boost and re-evaluate their salaries.

Earlier, they proposed — and the House GOP bought a proposal — to give them a 7.5 per cent hike in the lower pay scales and a 4 per cent boost in the higher levels. There was no reallocation, however.

House Republicans still prefer the earlier version, Majority Leader Wall Little, R-New Plymouth, said, but are willing to look at other alternatives if the senators have them.

Until the issue is resolved the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee cannot begin setting the general fund budget — key to adjournment of any legislative session.

Meanwhile, Little reported Idaho may get up to $20 million previously impounded Federal Highway User Trust Funds. He said if that is the case, and surplus general fund money is needed to match them, it might be used to use some of the surplus for that purpose.

While he announced the possibility to the caucus, he said, the caucus did not discuss it Tuesday afternoon.

Litter solution

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. Beverly Bistine, D-Pocatello, says her returnable container bill would help solve the state's litter problems.

The House Resources and Conservation Committee, however, isn't ready to buy it.

Closely resembling the law enacted in Oregon 2 1/2 years ago, the bill would require a five-cent deposit on all beverage bottles and a two-cent deposit on all certified containers.

Rescinder airing set

BOISE (UPI) — The House State Affairs Committee plans to consider a resolution to rescind ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment next Monday morning.

The committee also has designated 8 a.m. for Feb. 21 for a hearing on a power plant siting bill and 8 a.m. Feb. 26 for a hearing on a public employes collective bargaining bill.

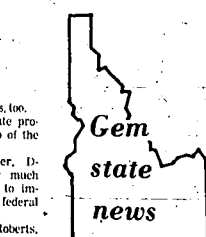

Gem House passes US fund oversight

BOISE (UPI) — After a prolonged, lunch-hour debate, the House approved 34-33 and sent to the Senate Tuesday a resolution to provide legislative oversight of applications for federal funds.

Rep. Larry Jackson, R-Boise, said the purpose of the concurrent resolution was to enable the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee to examine in advance those federal programs which may become built into state government and from which federal funding later may be removed.

In the present appropriations requests, he said, there are proposals for some $2.9 million in general fund appropriations to supplement federal funds no longer available to the state.

Rep. Gary Ingram, R-Coeur d'Alene, urged the House to approve the resolution but said it also should apply to funds sought directly from the federal government at the

Drunk level hike sought

BOISE (UPI) — A bill making it automatically illegal to drive with a blood alcohol content of .08 per cent had been approved for printing.

However, the Senate Judiciary and Rules Committee voted to change the figure to .1 per cent after the bill was introduced.

Chairman Edith Miller Klein, R-Boise, said she felt raising the figure .02 per cent higher would remove some of the objections that had been voiced against the bill.

Darrell Brock of the Health and Welfare Department said there would probably be fewer "not guilty" pleas in drunk driving cases, and trials would be "much simpler and quicker."

George Lentz, director of the State Alcohol Safety Program, said eliminating the reference to drunken driving would do away with "literally hundreds of court trials."

Democrats object to deadline change

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. Arthur Murphy, D-Mullan, says the chairman of the Senate Judiciary and Rules Committee wants to change the rule on introduction of bills to "put personal ambitions."

But his objections and those of the other Democrats on the committee, failed Tuesday to stop introduction of a resolution allowing Senate standing committees to introduce bills up to the 4th day of the legislative session. As the role now stands, the 30th day-Tuesday, this session was the final day for introduction by all but the Finance and State Affairs Committee.

Earlier Tuesday Republicans caucused and agreed to the rule change. Murphy said Committee Chairman Edith Miller Klein, R-Boise, was behind the move.

Democrats said the rule change would only extend the session.

But Sen. James Risch, R-Boise, and Mrs. Klein argued the higher class trade mark bills up to the 4th day would shorten the session, because the House was still introducing bills up to the 45th day and the Senate was waiting on the House action.

Bill passes

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Senate revived and sent to the House Tuesday a measure to allow management of multi-agency buildings by the departmental public works.

It was killed Monday, 14-20. Upon reconsideration it was passed 19-16.

Prosecutor pay local

BOISE (UPI) — The House Local Government Committee introduced Tuesday a bill to require county commissioners instead of the legislature set the salaries of prosecuting attorneys.

However, the measure stipulates the compensation shall not be less than $1,500 nor more than the compensation of any lawyer magistrate for the county.

The bill would not become effective until next Jan. 1.

91 register

BOISE (UPI) — Ninety more lobbyists have registered with the secretary of the state the past 10 days, bringing the total to 379.

Deputy Secretary of State Hayden Hiler called the total amazing, adding, "I expected 50 would be a big number."

FTA repealer asked

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. Stan Kress, D-Firth, received favorable approval from the Senate Local Government and Taxation Committee today to print a bill repealing Idaho's Fair Trade Act.

Kress said seven states this year repealed the fair trade acts, the latest being the neighboring state of Washington.

He explained that there was "no competition" for some of the higher class trade mark items because of the act.

"In these days of inflation," Kress said, "we don't need to support artificially fixed prices."

Land plan draft set

BOISE (UPI) — The final environmental statement and land use plan for the Mountain Home Planning Unit of Boise National Forest is available for public review.

The statement was transmitted by the U.S. Forest Service to the Council on Environmental Quality for national review on last week.

Review copies are available at the Boise National Forest supervisors' office and the Mountain Home Ranger District office.

Comments should be sent to Forest Supervisor Edward C. May before March 21.

Permit tax sought

BOISE (UPI) — A legislator from one of the fastest-growing areas of the state has proposed a $300 tax on each building permit for new dwellings in school districts with high growth rates.

But the House Education Committee held up action Tuesday on the bill by Rep. Lyman Winchester, R-Kuna, to clear up discrepancies.

Rep. C. L. Otter, R-Caldwell, said one building permit could be issued for a 1,000-unit trailer court, enabling the builder to pay only one fee for 1,000 new residences.

Winchester said his bill would not come into force

BSU funding share asked

BOISE (UPI) — An Ada County Republican asked today for a fair share for Boise State University in sharing the endowment funds.

Sen. H. Dean Summers, R-Boise, said his bill came about because of the "gross negligence in the proper distribution of the endowment funds."

He said the bill would provide BSU with a share from the normal school fund, the scientific and the charitable institutions fund.

Mike is a life-long businessman in the Gasoline and Auto Services field. He has operated units in Montana, California and Idaho and has learned the market and trends inside and out! He says . . .

SOME REASON YOU SHOULD KNOW!

The Federal Government has set up for the individual States a system of Gasoline Fuel Allocations to guarantee the securing of a share of the gasoline in the event of a shortage as was experienced last year. As stations (National) closed and moved from Idaho their Idaho Allocations of Gasoline were lost. So Idaho has lost a great amount of this allocated fuel, and in case of a national shortage Idaho could really suffer. We at McCa have gone to the time and trouble to apply and receive an allocation for fuel, because we feel that if we are to live in Idaho we should help support our state. Now if there is a shortage of gas we will still be able to apply you through our allotment! That really should mean something to YOU!

today in brief

Hall of Fame fetz planned

TWIN FALLS — Directors of the Southern Idaho Livestock Hall of Fame met briefly Tuesday night to plan for the organization's annual banquet.

Tickets were distributed to directors in preparation for the Feb. 25 banquet. The banquet will be held at the Ponderosa Inn in Burley.

Six persons have been chosen as the 1975 honorees. Their names will be announced shortly before the banquet.

Jerome meet tonight

JEROME — The State Division of Highways will hold a public information meeting today at 7:30 p.m. at the Wood Cafe here.

The meeting is designed to get public input on the highway project on U.S. 33 from 180N to Newspan's Corner, seven miles north of Highway 25. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Shoshone meet Thursday

SHOSHONE — Members of the chamber of commerce will meet with Dr. J. M. Neil, executive director of the Idaho Bicentennial Commission, at 8 p.m. Thursday at the city hall.

Floyd Silva and D. H. Hansen were appointed to siting and are expected to meet with Dr. Neil and Mayor E. R. Werry and other interested persons to determine what Shoshone might do to observe the event.

A report on ideas will be given at the next chamber meeting on Feb. 25.

Authority queried

BOISE (UPI) — Attorney General Wayne Kidwell says the State Board of Corrections does not have authority to bargain collectively with prison employees.

Kidwell issued the opinion Tuesday at the request of the board of corrections. He said the board does not have authority to allow an election to be held at the prison nor to enter into a collective bargaining agreement.

The opinion concluded that public employees in Idaho have no collective bargaining rights and there is no existing authorization for the state's departments, agencies, institutions or political subdivisions to enter into collective bargaining agreements or for further the purposes of collective bargaining for or with their employees.

Nampa votes increase

NAMPA, Idaho (UPI) — The Nampa City Council on a 2-1 vote agreed to raise municipal irrigation rates 50 per cent, in part to fund a replacement to the present flood system used in the farm.

The increase will amount to $4.50 annually on a standard flow in Nampa.

Mayor Ernest Starr said 20 per cent of the proposed rate, or $1.80, will be used for increased costs. The remaining $2.70 will be put in fund to replace the flood system with a pressurized sprinkler system.

The pressurized system would cover some 7,500 lots. There already are 818 lots in the town that have a sprinkler system under a local improvement district.

The city plans to do all the work over the next few years, beginning in the older section of town where the present system is the most deteriorated.

Joe Laekabee, city engineer, said last year he received more than 5,000 calls complaining about the city irrigation service. Nampa has a population of 21,000.

Indian education studied

BOISE (UPI) — Reforms and new concepts in Indian education are being developed in Idaho, the director of the Idaho program said Tuesday.

Director Don A. Barlow said it is important that education be more responsible to the Indian people and, in turn, the Indian people should be more responsible to education.

He said one way to accomplish this is by making local parent committees more active and vibrant.

"The committee can play an important role in setting goals and in evaluating problems to determine if we are meeting the needs of the Indian students," Barlow said.

He said completion of a new federal Johnson-O'Malley procedure manual also will help to give direction to the parent committees and local school districts on responsibilities each can share in the overall program.

IRS in Burley Thursday

BURLEY — Internal Revenue Service and Idaho State Tax Commission taxpayer service representatives will be in Burley from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday.

The Times-News previously reported that they would be in Halley. The representatives will be at the Burley post office. Representatives will be in Halley Feb. 20.

Influenza spreading

BOISE (UPI) — Influenza is spreading across Idaho and state officials say 184 cases so far have been reported across the state. Dr. Fritz Dixon, a health services officer, said 60 cases of flu were reported Monday morning by one Idaho Falls physician.

As of Jan. 25, only nine cases had been reported. The statewide total climbed last Friday to 44.

"We've sent out notices to physicians around the state saying flu is around and Health departments would like to have a small number of throat swabs from people who exhibit symptoms of classical respiratory influenza," Dixon said.

Nampa committee reports

NAMPA, Idaho (UPI) — The committee named in 1973 to help plan a new city government and law enforcement facility for Nampa has submitted a final report and asked to be discharged from its duties.

Sumner Johnson, chairman of the Nampa Citizens Development Committee, said in the report the committee had made two proposals for the needed facilities and both times the suggestions were allowed to die for lack of action on the part of the city.

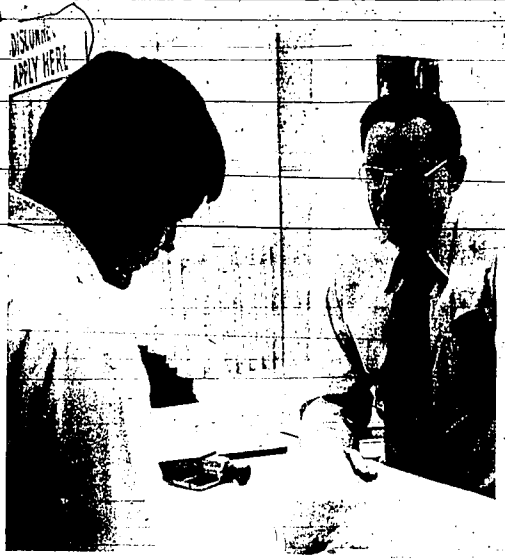

"The committee therefore feels it can be of no further assistance in this matter," the report said.

Mayor Ernest Starr said the committee probably would take action on the matter at its next regular meeting. He added that council members were considering a single two-story building with a basement to house both government and police facilities.

The building would be constructed on a half-block where City Hall now stands.

Hold line

DETROIT (UPI) — Michigan's state aren't backing down on selection of convicted murderer Lloyd E. Tisi, 31, as one of the state's five top young men, despite protests from his family.

Recall petition

School aide acts eyed

Staudaher's defenders generally praised his disciplinary tactics, claiming they contributed to a healthy environment of Twin Falls schools.

Charles Harris, calling himself a "peacemaker," said, "I admire George Staudaher for the stand that he has taken. Board members and George Staudaher, I stand behind you."

A woman said Twin Falls High School is "the cleanest—and most—moral—school" that her children have ever attended.

Another person said Staudaher "took action under the law and after that it was up to the courts."

Bob Brockman said, "I would like to stand in support of George Staudaher. He has been an excellent disciplinarian throughout the years. I'm glad he's got the guts to do something about it."

Staudaher's critics pointed him as a harsh administrator who often overreacts to student misbehavior.

Ken Self said, "It's a question of methods." "The man instilled fear" in students in past administrative posts. Self said, comparing Staudaher to another school official who maintained discipline but also earned the respect of students.

Student leader Walker backed up Self, claiming that "right now, the students don't respect Mr. Staudaher. I think it would enhance his respect if he apologized" for his controversial statement to the news media.

Lavarr Thorneck said, "I feel in this instance that he was out-of-bounds in his language. I feel he should make an apology."

Max Mathews called for an investigation by the school board into administration of the district. "When I read the article in the paper, I assumed that very possibly anyone could be angry and could make comments that they'd later regret. I passed the article off at the time."

"I then learned that Staudaher called the Times-News and insisted that the statement be put in," he added. "And a number of people called me and told me things about the school district I can't believe. I think you as elected officials should look into these. If I can find these things out, I'm sure you can."

After the regular meeting, Honk told the Times-News that the trustees "will take these matters under advisement." He said the board would meet with Staudaher to discuss allegations against him.

Honk also confirmed that the trustees had not advised Staudaher in his action on the "breaking incident." "The board has never met since this incident took place," he said.

Potato growers hold price line

BY DIANE ALTERS
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Some Magic Valley potato growers met Tuesday night and decided they would not consider lower contract prices for potatoes than they got last year.

About 245 growers packed into meeting rooms at Blue Lakes Inn.

The Potato Growers of Idaho met to review contracts from last year, to get growers' opinions, improve contract language, discuss bases for trading and to bring growers up to date on the national situation, according to member Clarence Parr of Burley.

"They expressed a great deal of concern about the skyrocketing cost of production," Parr said today. Growers felt that a "slight increase in contract price would be justified," he said.

Last year's average contract price was $4.39. A slight increase, would be "about 10 per cent," according to Parr.

If prices continue to fall from last year, some potato growers could change to other crops, which "look very, very attractive," Parr said.

The group talked about switching to beans, wheat and feed grains if it considered the risk factor "very strong" on raising potatoes.

Cost of production climbed for basic items, according to Parr. Increases in fertilizer, fuel, machinery and labor costs, and a 16.9 per cent increase in power rates all added to the cost of growing potatoes.

Fuel costs will increase, Parr said, but other factors "may level off," this year.

Other crops looked attractive when growers compare the costs per acre. According to balance sheets distributed by the organization Tuesday, the cost of growing an acre of potatoes, $86.90 in Magic Valley, far outweighed the cost of growing any other crop in the area.

What was listed, at $28.53 an acre, grain at $27.50, dry seed peas at $212.10, beans $446, and beets $663.16.

Sugar beet acreage may increase at the expense of potato acreage, Parr said. Parr said he hoped that producers would "exercise caution" before they planted potatoes and that he would see at least a "small percentage reduction" in acreage planted in potatoes. Five to ten per cent "would help tremendously," he said.

Although he refused to discuss contract specifics, Parr said that the growers wanted to retain basic concepts in potato contracts—including writing a base price for U.S. No. 1 and No. 2 potatoes, rather than recording a separate price for each grade.

Base price contracts were first used last year, he said.

New residential zoning for Ketchum proposed

KETCHUM — A new residential classification was proposed at the Ketchum Planning and Zoning Commission meeting Monday night.

Andy Schoenbrenner and Jack Corraek suggested an amendment to the zoning ordinance which would create a general residential, medium density classification.

This would include triplexes and four unit apartments on low density lots. The ordinance now provides "three residential classifications, limited residential with a single residence per 8,000 foot square lot; general residential, low density, permitting duplexes on the same site lot and general residential, high density, for apartments and condominiums."

The proposal for an additional classification will go to the City Council for final decision.

Fred Jenkins, Loomis Construction Co., submitted a request to build living quarters for a night watchman near a warehouse they plan to build in a light industrial area. The request was tabled until the next planning and zoning board meeting.

A third item on the agenda was postponed because Twin Falls was unable to attend from a night watchman near a warehouse they plan to build in a light industrial area. The request was tabled until the next planning and zoning board meeting.

The commission also discussed new forms which will have to be completed by those requesting variances for building or remodeling. The next meeting will be Feb. 24 at the city hall.

Threats follow firing of Burley police chief

BURLEY — Threats and acts of vandalism have followed the firing of Burley's former police chief, according to the chairman of a newly-formed citizens group.

Wendell Campbell, a Burley businessman, was elected as co-chairman of the "Concerned Citizens for Better Law Enforcement" Tuesday night at a rally.

According to Campbell, Burley City councilmen's cars and homes have been vandalized since they fired Booth.

All the same time, Booth's life has been threatened, Campbell said.

There's been no provision of the names of the councilmen whose homes and cars have been damaged, but he said, "I'll vouch that it's true."

Campbell told the group, "all the facts concerning Booth's firing haven't been brought out yet."

There's been an injustice to Booth, Campbell said but he cautioned against "rallying" the present mayor and City Council out of office.

The rally had been called by organizers of an effort to recall the council and mayor because of their firing of Booth.

Booth attended the meeting, and refuted the several reasons given for his removal.

Most of the crowd of 200 seemed to support Booth, and the mayor and council were heavily criticized for the firing.

Following Booth's statements, one woman said, "It's really sad" that the city officials would "bring charges like that against you."

While the sentiment of the crowd was generally for Booth, the ex-chief was asked some sharp questions.

Booth was pointedly asked if he had overspent the police budget by $22,000 as charged by acting

Mayor L. V. Morgan.

Booth at first failed to answer the question directly, but quoted from a news article describing a Burley City Council meeting.

The news article said the city had "technically" overspent its budget by spending federal funds which had not been included in the city's original budget.

Booth said the same "rule" of technical overspending should apply to his department.

Booth also said the charge of overspending was wrong because of faulty accounting procedures used by the city. As an example he said, a $1,900 auto repair bill covered by insurance was incorrectly charged to his budget.

But, Dick Smith, a Burley attorney, countered Booth's statements. Responding to the news article quoted by Booth, Smith charged that was "intentionally misleading people by quoting out of context."

The article referred to the entire city budget, Smith said, and was irrelevant to Booth's police department budget.

Finally, Booth admitted, "on paper, we're $22,000 overspent."

Opinions vary of firing of Burley police chief

Walter Mooso

"I don't know enough details to know if it was justified. Far as I know, I don't know if he was the chief or not."

Georgia Heckman

"He's (Booth) a good man and they shouldn't have done it. I think there's a clique at city hall that shouldn't be there."

Don Hansen

"I don't feel that anyone knows enough to have an opinion. Until the news media do something about getting the facts, I don't believe any one can have an opinion."

Donald Day

"I haven't heard much, but what I read in the newspaper. From what he (Booth) says, I don't think he should have been fired. Sounds like a lot of the program lies in the council and the mayor."

Bruce Newcombe

"I could give a h--- I don't think he's (Booth) been doing his job. From what I hear he's just been harassing people."

Paula Wooland

"I don't know the whole story. I have heard lots of things on both sides are wrong. I believe the police were doing a better job than before Booth was here."

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, in a somnolent session, opened mixed Wednesday in moderately active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which lost 0.29 point Tuesday, was off 1.25 at 706.35 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines, 206 to 150, among the 330 issues crossing the tape.

Many investors were observing the Lincoln Day holiday. Banks and some other institutions were closed, but the securities markets remained open. Most analysts said this could cause a slow turnover during the day.

The market has given ground gradually in the past three sessions following a large jump since the first of the year. Most observers said they were surprised there has been so little profit taking, which normally follows a boom.

Many investors have shown increased concern over the deepening recession. But there were fears of another war in the Middle East, which could trigger another oil embargo. President Ford Tuesday warned of a serious threat of war. Ford is scheduled to speak to securities analysts on New York Thursday.

Monsieur, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger arrived in Egypt to continue his latest round of peace efforts.

Record spud stock

Courtesy Sinclair & Co. WASHINGTON (CNIS) — The Agriculture Department confirmed today that stocks of potatoes for all uses held in storage totaled a record 130.7 million cwt on Feb. 1.

This was 24.1 million cwt, 123 percent more than the 106.6 million cwt on hand Jan. 1, 1974 and 5 percent above the previous record Feb. 1 stocks of 1971, said.

The department also reported that:

For the eight Eastern States, Feb. 1 potato stocks of 29.0 million cwt were 41 percent above the 20.0 million cwt on hand a year earlier.

Stocks in the eight central states on Feb. 1, at 25.9 million cwt, were 23 percent above the 21 million cwt a year earlier.

In the Red River Valley of North Dakota and Minnesota, quality is variable and shrinkage and loss continue above average in some storages.

Stocks in the eight Western states totaled 76.8 million cwt, 17 percent over the 65.7 million cwt on hand a year earlier. In most areas, potatoes went into storage in good condition and quality of remaining stocks in storage is average or better.

Disappearance from the 1974 fall crop to Feb. 1 totaled 157.0 million cwt, excluding Nevada, 7 percent more than the 147.3 million cwt. moved during the comparable period a year earlier.

The accumulated quantity of potatoes processed in seven major states to Feb. 1, 1975 from the 1974 crop totaled 56.6 million cwt, slightly below the 58.8 million cwt processed for the comparable period a year earlier.

(Courtesy Sinclair & Co.) CHICAGO — Potatoes, sugar and cattle were lower but wheat and corn advanced in futures trading Tuesday.

Commodity News Service said Maine potatoes were mostly lower in futures trading which saw price changes. Except for April, which was unchanged, futures were down 2 to 7 cents in 1.665 carlots traded.

Idaho russet potatoes closed at 5.40 per hundredweight for the May delivery, a 10 cent decline.

The world sugar market closed .16 to 1.35 cent down on 2,804 trades. Sugar 10 was mixed 45 cent lower to 3 cent higher on 341 sale. Sugar 12 futures settled 30 to 25 cent higher but were unrated.

The world spot price was fixed 5 cent higher at 37 cents a pound. FOB Caribbean ports. Domestic spots were unrated. Futures settled 30 to 25 cent higher but were unrated.

Reductions in deliverable stocks of wheat prompted gains in wheat futures, where there was considerable commercial spreading, buying March against sales of May. Export inspections totaled 24.7 million bushels. Cash prices were unchanged at Chicago and the Gulf.

Corn futures received some support from export buying but prices stayed in a narrow range most of the day. Export inspections totaled 22.1 million bushels. Chicago cash basis was unchanged for hexbins at 1 cent under March and 1 cent higher for hexbins at 1 over March.

Local short covering and moderate commission-house support enabled live cattle futures to recover from early losses despite unimpressive cash market tone and general lack of confidence in the cattle complex. Prices closed up as much as 57 cents in most active April while thinly traded deferred options lost 7 to 10 cents. About 8,600 contracts were traded.

Hog futures closed lower despite a late recovery, with cash prices down 50 cents to 1.00. Losses ranged from 12 points in February and April to 42 points in December. Final volume was placed at 5,537 contracts.

Hailey councilmen answer queries

HAILEY — The Hailey City Council, sitting without a quorum, could only field questions from Hailey residents Monday night.

Jack Basolo, owner of Sawtooth Ford Sales, Hailey, complained to the council saying the uniform building code regulations could cause him undue economic hardship.

Basolo plans to construct a new auto repair and sales building in Friedman Industrial Park in south Hailey. The uniform building code, Basolo said, requires fresh circulated air throughout the repair shop every 15 minutes.

This regulation requires the installation of four huge fans that would cost him nearly $500 in heating bills monthly just for the shop, he said.

Basolo said the shop will have three hoses in two work stalls in the floor to direct exhaust fumes outside. He told the council many similar buildings have been constructed recently without the ventilation regulation.

City Atty. Stephen Bötter told Basolo he would have to ask for a waiver of that section of the building code requiring the ventilation. A public hearing would be required on the request.

Dave Lake and Harold Drusel, appearing on behalf of the Hailey Rodco Association, asked the council if the city was going to pay its half of the insurance on the Hailey rodeo arena.

Lake said the city made a promise in 1974 to pay half of the insurance costs. The chamber of commerce has paid $172, Drusel said, leaving $103 to be paid by the city. The council took the matter under advisement.

China Garden residents once more asked for improved road conditions in the west-Hailey subdivision. A letter signed by residents there reminded the council the 75 families there pay $1,700 in property taxes. The letter asked for consideration of the road conditions in China Garden as the new 1975 budget is being prepared.

Plans for McCulloch's interim treatment center came before the council.

CSI flag presentation CSI flag becomes community project

TWIN FALLS — The VFW commander here thought there was something missing when he attended basketball games at the College of Southern Idaho.

Commander Lynn Young finally figured out what it was — a school flag.

So as a community project,

VFW Post 2136 and Ladies Auxiliary arranged for a black and gold polyester flag to be made for the school gym.

Young presented the flag to Coach Grant at CSI's game with Utah State University Monday.

The flag has the insignia of CSI and the VFW embroidered on it.

Filer teacher corps reports to trustees

FILER — Filer teacher corps members gave a resume of activities to school trustees Monday night.

Mrs. Lenore Bunce, director, said the interns spend 30 per cent of their time in the classroom, 30 per cent doing college work and 20 per cent in community assignments, such as with Boy Scouts, churches and senior citizens.

The group plans a six-week program this summer.

Mrs. Ernest Theonor, music director at the high school, was given permission to take Shirley Reed and Ron Luker to the northwest choir meet this weekend at Portland.

Letoy Fleenor, school bus owner, discussed the contract for providing school bus transportation. His bid was the only one received and trustees decided to study the contract before making a decision.

Russell Larson was offered a contract to serve as attendance officer as well as athletic director and wrestling coach at the high school. Trustees hope that having an attendance officer will cut down absenteeism, which is quite high this year. Filer has not previously had an attendance officer.

Trustees discussed insurance contract with Anderson Blake Insurance firm, Twin Falls, but no action was taken. They also discussed hiring a parttime maintenance man to assist janitors with repair work.

The board reviewed applications for head director to replace Russell Terrell who resigned last month.

Ray Baker, superintendent, said the light poles for the new elementary football field will be installed when weather permits. Bill Elliott, Filer, was awarded a contract to move the poles from the high school field.

Church honors Scouts

TWIN FALLS: All 67 of the past members of Boy Scout Troop 67 who are Eagle Scouts were honored at the First United Methodist Church Monday night.

A good many, including Stan Vandenberg, Twin Falls, and Jim Utley, San Diego, who were the troop's first Eagles in 1952, attended their parents also attended and special tribute was paid to one of the group, the late Boyd Given.

A list of the entire group, giving the man's current address and occupation, compiled by Scoutmaster Frank Mogensen, was distributed.

Chet Hillman, assistant scoutmaster, reported on plans to construct an inter faith chapel at Camp Bradley in honor of Given.

In reviewing the history of Scouting, both nationally and for the local troop, Mogensen said troop 67 was chartered in 1929 with two of the boys listed on the first charters, Al Dougherty and Eugene Champlin, among the fathers of Eagle Scouts.

Mogensen also recognized five of the seven "boys" who joined troop 30 in 1934. The group received national recognition at the time when all seven became Eagles. Five of the men, including Mogensen, were special guests Monday night.

Lincoln budget gets nod

SHOSHONE Lincoln County commissioners approved the county budget of $468,801.19 Monday despite an objection from Floyd O. Silva, a county taxpayer.

Of the total regular funds represented $336,162.07 and revenue sharing funds were $93,491.12 plus $39,228.00 of revenue sharing funds unused last year and held over for this year.

The 1974 budget was $343,800.70 in regular funds and $52,400 in revenue sharing funds, of which only $53,572 was spent. The total 1974 budget was $436,239.70.

Silva objected to the purchase of a vehicle for use by the Senior Citizens Center, since the purchase was not printed in the legal advertisement.

Commissioners explained they had approved $5,000 for purchase of a bus and $500 for its operation from revenue sharing funds.

Silva said he objected to the fact that no breakdown on revenue sharing fund expenditures had been printed so citizens could study them and express an opinion prior to adoption of the budget.

Concern was expressed by commissioner Walter Bowman that the $10,000 budgeted for the Senior Citizens center would become a county responsibility when federal funding is dropped in three years.

Mrs. Wella Carraway and Herb Love met with the commissioners and discussed future obligations and fundraising projects carried out and planned to help finance activities of the Senior Citizens Center.

Mrs. Carraway said the Senior Citizens plan a cafe to serve breakfast when Shoshone restaurants are closed. Success in remodeling and equipment procurement is under way, but an opening date has not been set, she said.

Mrs. Carraway and Love both said they do not expect the center to become a tax burden. They said the center plans eventually to provide a "meals-on-wheels" service to commissioners voted to increase salaries for the county clerk, assessor, treasurer, sheriff and prosecuting attorney by $40 per month, bringing their salaries to $7,800 annually. Bowman cast the dissenting vote.

All three commissioners agreed to allow additional pay to the sheriff for overtime he cannot otherwise be compensated for, bringing his annual pay to $8,100.

Clifford Ward, Richfield, met with the commissioners about a county landfill. He said one of the main problems is dumping of dead animals at Richfield.

He said burning by area residents over people from other counties is also a problem. Ward said if there is not to be a county landfill, Richfield will have to fence its dump-area and hire a man to police it.

Recession solutions talk topic

TWIN FALLS: The Magic Valley chapters of the John Birch Society are sponsoring a talk by an insurance executive and financial counselor from Colorado Springs.

Robert Adelmann of Colorado Springs will talk about solutions to the causes of recession at the Robert Stuart Junior High cafeteria at 8 p.m. Thursday. He believes that inflation is caused by the government and by "political money manipulators in positions of power."

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Excellent new ideas should be put in action by using mature judgment and intuitive perception. Find an expert who rounds out your own ideas. Be open-minded.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Plan some time for being alone and analyzing your situation in life; get away from confusing conditions. Avoid a troublemaking liar who drinks.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) State your desires to bring and gain needed backing. Attend helpful social affairs that keep you in touch with persons you like.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make contacts that will help you become more successful in your own line of endeavor. Delve into civic work that makes you more important.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) An inspired new idea should be put to work quickly to gain the benefits therefrom. Make a new contact who will give you needed suggestions.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Carry through satisfactorily on your responsibilities. Gain more happiness with the one you love by a change of attitude. Avoid a hypocrite.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Better policy arrangements with your associates for a better future. Strive for more prosperity. Reach understanding with opponent.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Go through with any contacts you have made in detail. Cooperate with fellow workers more. Evening is ideal for social life.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get your finest abilities to the attention of bigwigs who can help you commercialize on them. A fine evening for social happiness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make your home more functional and kin happier, as well as feeling more in tune yourself. A new project can be put in action though difficult before.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Improve relations with associates and everything will go more smoothly. Plan short trips for business and personal improvement.

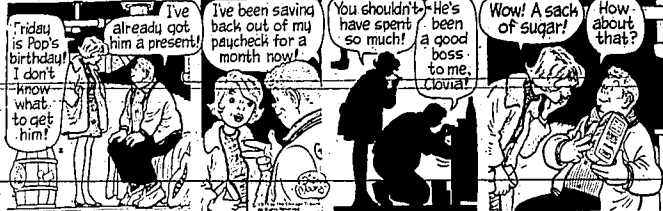

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Contact experts for advice if you have monetary problems. Improve your budget so you have more income and less expense.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Use your own good judgment so you can improve the conditions around you, business or personal. Entertain or be entertained in p.m.

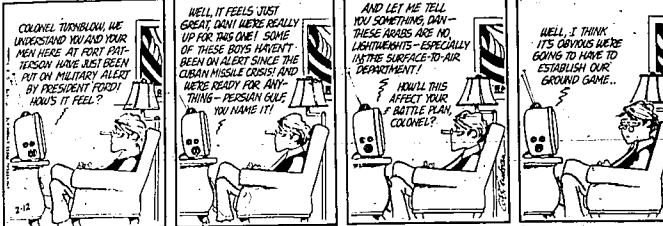

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have fine qualities and will require careful handling and nurturing by the parents so the energies will be directed in proper channels. Be sure no foibles are built up in this nature-owing to the lack of vision of those who have this youngster in charge. A fine combination of ideas and manual dexterity here. Give the right religious training early. Sports won't spread much here.

What's What

Mister! if your wife were offered a better-paying job than yours, would you want her to take it? Pollsters put that query to numerous husbands. And one man in six said no, he's want his wife to turn down said job. Two in six said sure, let's get that extra money, or words to that effect. Three in six said it didn't matter, she'd take it, anyhow.

IT'S A MATTER of record, too, that Sophia Loren's husband, Carlo Ponti, gave his wife for her forthright birthday a 14-carat gold toilet set. Correspondents say it was custom fitted, but they won't say how.

THE HARD FACTS

Am told by a garment maker that large women wear out clothes twice as fast as do small women... REMEX, MER, bartender, if the old boy can't pronounce "truly rural," he's had enough... GOURMETS who ought to know contend no alcoholic beverage goes better with curry, chili or steamed clams than cold beer.

WHAT'S the first thing you think about when you wake up in the morning? "What time is it?" may be a little bit obvious, but that's my answer. Recently put this query to a small sampling of about 20 young men and women in adjacent offices, and those who didn't blush mentioned the time thing, too. Except one transplanted Yankee. He said, "Oh no, grits again."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q. "What's a 'crossword pancake'?"
A. That's what the English call waffles.
WAS NONE OTHER than Robert Schuman, that famous French-diplomat, who said: "When I was a young man, I loved never to marry until I found the ideal woman. Well, I found her. But, alas, she was waiting for the ideal man."

THAT GOOD HUMOR man who drives around the neighborhood to sell ice cream to the youngsters on Saturday afternoon should be required by law to equip his truck with school-bus-type flashing lights and fold-out signs that read "Stop! Proceed with caution." So suggests a safety expert. Possibly so. But the recommendation is not new. Indianapolis has required such for some time now.

DEAR ABBY: The wife who said her husband smelled because he seldom bathed, reminds me of a story they tell about Samuel Johnson, the noted English lexicographer of the 1700s.

Johnson was a "purist" where words were concerned, but when it came to his personal hygiene, he was a notorious slob.

A woman passenger sitting next to him on a coach train said, "Sir, you smell!" Whereupon Johnson replied: "Madam, you are wrong. YOU smell, I stink."

Perhaps the husband who was accused of "smelling" would like to show this to his wife. A.C.H.: SEATTLE

DEAR A.C.H.: Samuel Johnson was wrong. If he gave off an offensive odor, he "smelled" and stank as well. Or should's Shakespeare's immortal line be Romeo and Juliet have been: "A rose by any other name would 'stink' as sweet?"

Smelly subject

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and work as a secretary in a large office. My boyfriend works there, too. The other evening, we attended the wake of a fellow employee.

First off, my boyfriend became angry when I held on to his hand while we both walked up to the casket. Then a young kid who works at the office came in and kissed me on the lips. I suppose I could have moved my head and given this kid my cheek instead, but it all happened so fast.

Then someone came up to talk to me and I spoke to him before I introduced my boyfriend, which my boyfriend said was very bad manners. After that happened he said: "Let's go," so we did. As soon as we got in his car he said he was ashamed of my behavior, then he punched me in the mouth. Please tell me how to deal with this hot-headed boyfriend. After he hit me, he didn't even say he was sorry.

PUNCHED

DEAR PUNCHED: If you continue to go with this hot-headed boyfriend, you are begging for trouble. If you're wise, you'll dump this bully—unless you enjoy getting punched in the mouth.

DEAR ABBY: Seven years ago, my father died, leaving my mother and six children. I was 15, and the oldest. Four months later, Mom met a man named Jack who was divorced and had custody of two minor children.

Pretty soon Jack and his kids moved into our house. Mom said she and Jack were married "at sea," but I never really believed it. I think she just made that up so we wouldn't think she was terrible for letting Jack share her bed. Anyway, he came up to talk to me and I spoke to him and I wish them both luck, but what's always bugged me is the way Mom has always tried to get us kids to call Jack "Dad." The younger kids did, but I never could. (I call him Jack.)

I'm married and just learned that I am expecting, so when I told Mom yesterday, she ran into the next room and yelled, "Jack, you're going to be a GRANDFATHER!" I exploded and said, "Mom, YOU are going to be a grandmother, but Jack isn't my father, and he is NOT going to be a grandfather! And furthermore, my baby isn't going to call Jack 'Grandpa' if I have anything to say about it."

Was I wrong? EXPECTING

DEAR EXPECTING: Yes. Your reluctance to call Jack "Dad" is understandable, but what's to be gained by making an issue of what your yet-to-be-born child will call him? Wait until the baby gets here and starts to talk. Most youngsters come up with their own special names for grandparents—legitimate or otherwise.

Endometriosis

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Almost three years ago my doctor informed me I had endometriosis.

After reading two letters in your column and your reply, I decided another problem associated with endometriosis would be worth mentioning. That problem is infertility.

Although I have been under close medical care, my doctors did not inform me how detrimental endometriosis can be to fertility. On my last checkup my physician suggested that my husband and I start adoption proceedings if we wanted any children.

Please warn women with this disease that abdominal pain is only part of the problem—a part that can be controlled. Many infertile women accompany endometriosis, but the reasons for it are not clear.

Your Good Health

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Endometriosis, as you probably were told, is the presence of uterine lining tissue that is misplaced outside the uterus. The name of the mucous membrane lining the uterus is endometrium, hence the name—endometriosis. The misplaced tissue can be found anywhere within the pelvic cavity.

Endometriosis occurs in women during their childbearing years, often in women who have never carried a child successfully. This misplaced tissue responds typically to the effect of the female hormone, with resultant pain at the time of menstruation.

If pregnancy occurs before the endometriosis becomes too extensive, the condition usually abates for varying periods of time. Thus one treatment for it is to create a "false pregnancy" with the use of ovarian hormones, either with the birth control pill or with a drug called diethylstilbestrol. If you have been under close observation for three years, as your letter indicates, you may already have had this widely-used treatment.

The surgical approach is to remove as much of the misplaced ectoperitoneal tissue as possible. But if the condition is extensive, the uterus and ovaries are removed, which of course means absolute infertility.

Women should be made aware of the infertility factors accompanying this condition, but they should also know that the future is not always predictable or certain.

Italian style ham featured by chef

BAKED HAM ITALIAN STYLE

Soak in water for 24 hours one five-pound piece of smoked ham. Scald the ham under running water and place in large casserole and cover with cold water.

Bring to a boil, reduce the heat and simmer for two hours. Remove it from the cooking liquid, and when cool enough cut off the rind.

Place the ham in a roasting pan, add one glass of Marsala wine. You can replace with any suitable wine. Cover the pan and bake in the oven for 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Remove the cover and score the fat with a knife. Sprinkle the top with brown sugar mixed with dry mustard. (Two spoons of sugar and one spoon of mustard.)

Chef's Specials

By Antoine Ganche

Raise the oven heat to 450 degrees and bake uncovered for 20 minutes more until the surface is glazed. Baste sometimes. Transfer the ham to a serving platter and pour over the rest of the sauce. Serve with sweet potatoes and asparagus with butter.

ASPARAGUS A L'ITALIANA

Boil, in a large casserole, water with salt. When boiling add a pinch of baking soda and pour in the asparagus spears already peeled. Bring to a boil and simmer on low heat for five or six minutes. (Depending on how large they are.)

The asparagus spears must be cooked "al dente" (crisp). Then drain and use cold water. In this way they stay green and nice. When the asparagus spears are cooked, arrange them in a sauce pan with some butter and put on the stove till warm. Sprinkle with parmesan or swiss grated cheese and serve.

SWEET POTATOES

Cut sweet potatoes in pieces like the regular potatoes and boil with a little salt. When cooked, (about 25 minutes) strain and pour in a sauce pan with two ounces of butter, one spoonful of sugar and one spoonful of wine vinegar. Cover the saucepan and glaze for about ten minutes.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South played brilliantly—at least he thought he had, quickly to everyone agreed to that, and with conspicuous lack of success.

He rose with dummy's jack of hearts, plunked his ace on East's queen, took the club finesse and ran off six club tricks. Then he led a heart and hoped for the best. The best did not eventuate. West had discarded one spade, one heart and two diamonds. He cashed the last three hearts and led a diamond to give his partner tricks with the ace and king.

South wanted to know why North had bid three notrump, instead of dropping the bidding at two notrump or signing off at three clubs.

North replied, "If I had known I was playing with a butcher, I would have bid three clubs."

We wouldn't go so far as to say that South had butchered the hand, but we do know that a really enterprising player would have brought home nine tricks. At trick two he would have led the queen of spades. If West covered he would take dummy's ace, come back to his hand with the second spade and then finesse the club. If West ducked, South's queen of spades would hold the trick. Now the club finesse would be taken. This would have led to a substantial set if either finesse had lost, but South wasn't doubtful and should have taken the chance.

Billboard censored

PARIS (UPI)—A blue jeans shop had erected a half dozen billboards around Paris showing a girl wearing an extra tight pair of blue jeans with the zipper half open. Tuesday the posters sported an addition: black paper rectangles, about 18 by 14 inches, pasted over the area of skin exposed by the open zipper.

The Vice Squad of the police department confirmed it had censored the posters. A spokesman at the boutique which sells the Italian made "skin jeans" however, said he was not discouraged. "More people maybe have looked at the posters now than would have before, eh?"

Free bath offered

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Police Chief Daniel Gutierrez Santos is threatening to give bus drivers a bath in police headquarters if any of them report for work dirty.

"We want the drivers to look good, and we want their vehicles to look good, and if they don't, we'll give them a bath right here in police headquarters," the chief said. "We will use a right hand." Gutierrez Santos said his department is investigating a number of other complaints against city bus drivers, including rudeness, refusal to make change, and overcrowding the buses.

Bliss schools studied

BLISS—A needs assessment study of the Bliss school system is expected to begin within the near future. Supt. Burton Lenker told the trustees Monday night.

He said the comprehensive study of the entire district is expected to take about a year and will be made by the Idaho Department of Education specialists. It will cover school curriculum, faculty, school facilities, schedules and other phases of the educational system.

Lenker said the department representatives will also meet with patrons of the district and parents to obtain their views on the system and programs.

Lenker said when the study is completed, meetings will be held with the school board and the department will return to the district to work with the administration and staff to make recommendations for possible changes and improvements.

Cost of the study will be handled by the Idaho Department of Education with local district costs limited in postage and other incidental matters.

A number of other districts have completed the needs assessment studies, Lenker said, and superintendents he has talked with have been pleased with results and benefits.

The study in the Bliss district is an outgrowth of a movement last year by a number of parents who insisted be allowed to send their high school students to Gooding. The parents contended the Bliss High School was not providing adequate educational opportunities for the youngsters and asked they be allowed to enroll in Gooding without paying tuition.

A state team checked into the matter and recommended high school students in Bliss attend nearby schools with better offerings.

Camas buses on the air

FAIRFIELD — Camas School District trustees have approved installation of radios in their four school buses "so we won't lose them."

Supt. Harold Stroud said Tuesday that high wind and drifting roads have been causing problems for the buses which transport about 50 per cent of the students. Monday two buses never did complete their routes and school was not held.

Classes were back in session Tuesday. The radios, which will have a base station, also will be installed in the county highway trucks so when school buses become stuck they can be located easier, Stroud said.

Trustees also approved the school calendar for the 1975-76 year.

GF youth nominated to academy

GLENN'S FERRY — Wayne R. Owen Jr. has been nominated for appointment to the US Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

His nomination was announced by US Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho.

He is a seventh semester graduate of the Glenns Ferry High School, having graduated Jan. 17 with top honors. He is presently serving with the US Air Force Reserves and plans a military career.

Cadets practice first aid

Cabaret Theatre set at Sun Valley lodge

SUN VALLEY — The Sun Valley Lodge Dining Room is going theatrical.

The 39-year-old dining room will open as a Cabaret Theatre on Monday at a rhapsodic premiere benefiting the Sun Valley Center for the Arts and Humanities.

Singer B.J. Coulson will perform at the opening and nightly thereafter at 9:15 backed by the New Trend Orchestra. Members of the orchestra will also play at the cabaret, according to newly formed TV and theatrical production company, Foster, Innes and Emmons.

Dick Foster, Bill Innes and Timm Emmons bring with them a combination of experience in the entertainment field.

They will be assisted by "general go between," Lynn Barry.

Foster first came to Sun Valley three years ago to produce the Peggy Fleming ice skating show, for which he won an Emmy.

Innes has been in the entertainment business since 1960. Timm Emmons has experience in theatrical direction.

Currently B.J. Coulson is completing a 13-week engagement at Harrah's in Reno as hostess of the Successful Booth Tug Revue, a variety television show.

Originally from Grand Junction, Colo., her background includes a variety of concert tours with such stars as Ann Murray, Tony Orlando and bore and Dottie Gray.

She costarred in a television special with Nancy Wilson, Bobby Darin, John Denver and Artie Shaw. Last year she recorded the theme from the motion picture "Papillon."

Accompanying Coulson will be the New Trend Orchestra, consisting of eight musicians, who are also under contract with Capitol Records. The New Trend has toured with Ms. Coulson for the past four years.

"She has the vocal ability of a Sirensaid and the personality and warmth of a Carol Burnett," Foster says.

The new cabaret will be a theater-in-the-round, according to Foster, Innes and Emmons. The room will hold 300 people. The cover charge with be $3 for stage-side tables, all others will be $1.50.

For information on opening night prices, contact the Sun Valley Center for the Arts and Humanities.

Dietrich student selected

DIETRICH — Carol Anderson has been named Betty Crocker Family leader of Tomorrow for Dietrich High School.

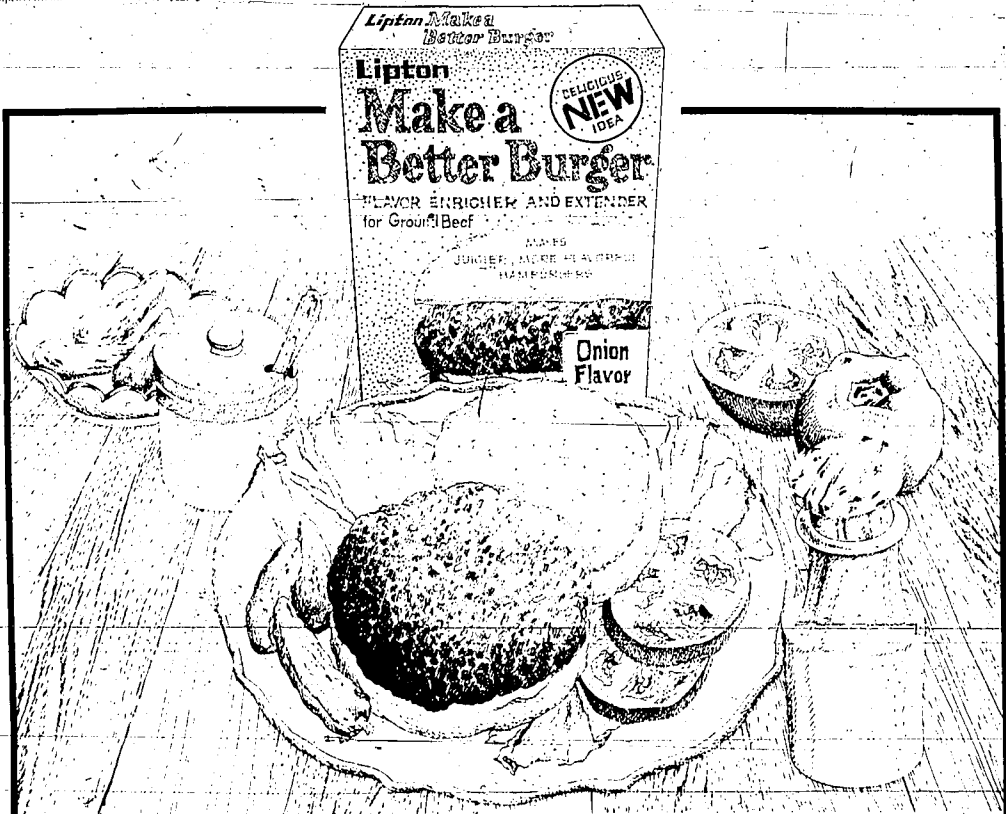

Principal Wayne Perron made the announcement Monday after receiving notification from the General Mills Co.

She completed with other seniors in written knowledge and attitude examination in December and is now eligible to win state and national honors.

The state family leaders of tomorrow receive a $1,000 scholarship with $500 going to the second place winner.

Lipton guarantees you can Make-a-Better Burger™ and here's 10¢ off to try it.

Lipton Make-a-Better Burger is nutritious soy protein and seasonings that turns 4 plain burgers into 8 great-tasting burgers.

The flavor's so good, it's guaranteed?

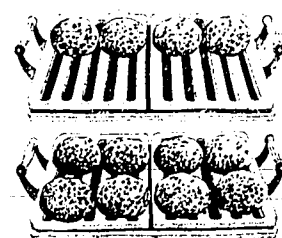

Right. Lipton guarantees you'll like the flavor of Make-a-Better Burger better than plain ground beef or Lipton will refund your money with proof of purchase.

What makes Make-a-Better Burger taste so much better?

Lipton's seasonings—Make-a-Better Burger comes in 4 of your favorite flavors. There's Onion with real chunks in it. There's Chili—red pepper. There's Hickory with bacon-flavored chunks. And there's Mildly Seasoned, too—for folks who like 'em mild in flavor but big and juicy.

4 burgers into 8—you mean it makes ground meat actually go twice as far?

Yes. Lipton's new Make-a-Better Burger turns one pound of ground beef into double the amount. Burgers are big and juicy and full of flavor. There's less shrinkage, too.

Why Soy Protein?

The soy protein in Make-a-Better Burger is 100% pure, natural protein. New processes turn it into a form that takes on the flavor and texture of meat.

What about nutrition?

Make-a-Better Burger is highly nutritious—not a cereal filler. One average hamburger made with Make-a-Better Burger contains 20% of the U.S. Government's recommended daily protein requirement—with less fat and cholesterol. That means fewer calories.

Does Make-a-Better Burger work in other type recipes?

Buhl drops Jerome 50-43 to clinch SCIC cage title

JEROME Del Adams and Cary Schneckepfer collected a field goal each in the closing minutes Tuesday night to stave off a late Jerome rally and give the Buhl Indians the South-Central Idaho Conference championship with a 50-43 decision.

Buhl holds a two-game edge in the conference standings meaning Friday night's collision at Wood River can't keep the Indians out of the district tournament opening berth.

Jerome wants up its schedule by hosting Friday night.

Although Buhl led from the opening tip on, the Tigers made a series of runs at the Indians that kept the game in doubt until the final minute.

John Donkershoet had a good scoring effort early as the Indians marched into a 14-7 first quarter lead and pushed that to 19-0 moments later.

Buhl held 10-lead three times in the second period with Jerome just nipping that to eight by intermission.

The Indians had their biggest margins in the third quarter, leading 41-29 at the rest. Then sophomore Rick Hiller hit a couple of buckets to pull Jerome back into the game and Keith added a free throw to reduce the deficit to 41-29.

After each team had possession a couple of times,

Adams hit his bucket and the next time down the floor Schneckepfer banked a follow shot that nailed the decision down.

TF girls win district cage championship

FILED The Twin Falls Bruins, headed by the clutch inside play and scoring Miss Cooper, dropped Filer 32-20 Tuesday night to wrap up the district girls' invitational basketball championship.

Miss Cooper scored 16 points and gave Twin Falls control of the backboards as the Bruins, although leading throughout, had to put down a late Filer bid to clinch the victory.

Filer pulled to within three points with about two minutes left but four buckets by Miss Cooper broke the back of the Filer.

The victory sends Twin Falls to Moscow next week for the invitational state playoffs. That's slotted in from Feb. 17 through the 19th.

Earlier Tuesday, Buhl bounced out on Minico 14-3 in the first quarter and went on to claim a 32-29 decision for third place.

Kimberly grabbed the consolation championship with a 28-19 decision on Camas County.

Promoter joins in charity promises

VALLEY VIEW, Ohio (UPI) - Executive Don King of Cleveland is striving to become the world's premier black promoter.

For starters, he plans to give away up to $500,000 in proceeds from the Muhammad Ali-Chuck Wepner world heavyweight title fight March 24 at the Coliseum in Richfield, Ohio. The money would go to help blacks throughout the U.S.

"I plan to give back 25 cents from each ticket sold to the match and this includes the tickets for the closed circuit televising of the fight," King said Tuesday at a news conference attended by the two contenders and Ken Norton, who will face Oscar Bonavena in a "preliminary event—the same evening." "I could give away between $20,000 and $500,000."

Ali, who Monday said he would fight (and win) "for nothing," except expenses, also plans to give away up to $200,000 to area blacks to establish a bakery and restaurant solely operated by blacks.

"All my fights from now on are freedom fights, all invested for the folks in the ghetto," Ali said. "This is a new inspiration to me to continue to fight even at the old age of 33."

All my names are for the people I have to fight for my underprivileged brothers who are struggling."

When he announced his intentions, Ali was a serious man; during his verbal jab session with Wepner at a Cleveland restaurant in this Cleveland suburb.

Ali told Wepner he had two chances, slim and none, adding that "the only way you'll win is if you bring a gun with you."

"He's a pretty boy, but I'm going to rough his face up even though he says he won't touch me," Wepner, the "Bayonne Bleeder," said. "He's going to get it. He's going to think he's in a gang war."

Phils angling for rights to Allen

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - The Philadelphia Phillies would like to acquire slugging first baseman Dick Allen, but so far they have not opened formal trade talks with the Atlanta Braves.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn Tuesday cleared the Phillies of tampering with Allen, who has informed the Braves he will not play for them this season—Atlanta acquired Allen in an off-season deal with the Chicago White Sox.

Two Phils players, second baseman Dave Cash and third baseman Mike Schmidt, admitted tampering with Allen recently at his farm in Kodonster, Pa., just north of here.

The two denied, however, that they were trying to talk Allen into playing for the Phils and club president Ruly Carpenter rebuffed a charge by Braves general manager Eddie Robinson that the Phils had tampered with him.

"He's the greatest offensive player the Phils have had since I've been around,"

Carpenter said. "It's a damn shame we couldn't have done something the first time Allen, disenchanted with the fans here, asked to be traded and was sent in 1969 to the St. Louis Cardinals. He was later traded to Los Angeles and the Chicago White Sox before being dealt to Atlanta.

Allen had a brilliant rookie season for the Phils in 1964, hitting .312, driving in 91 runs and hitting 29 homers while almost carrying the Phils to the National League pennant.

Paul Owens, Phillies Director of Player Personnel, said the Phils had adopted a "wait-and-see" attitude about him. He said he had not talked to the Braves about Allen, who was asked by Atlanta to sign on the voluntary relief list.

"I'd have to talk to Ruly Carpenter, (vice president) Bill Giles and manager Danny Ozark to find out how they feel about it and even then I'd have to weigh a lot of things before making my final decision," Owens said.

Rebound dogfight

Wolves top Devils

CASTLEFORD - The Castleford Wolves jumped on the Murtagh Hot Devils for 10 points in the first quarter and never let them up Tuesday night in registering a 56-43 victory.

Couch Bud Watkins' crew owed the final tip to the foul line where the Wolves hit an unspectacular 12 of 22 but Murtagh was atrocious with only two of 15.

Hayes flays facts of Rozelle rule ills

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Wide receiver Bob Hayes, who signed two multi-year contracts with the Dallas Cowboys, said Tuesday he was turned down and took a cut in pay for playing out his option.

Hayes testified in federal court for the 16 present and former National Football League Players Association members challenging the "Rozelle rule." The rule enables NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle to maintain a balance among the 26 teams by compensating the club which loses a player who plays out his option.

"Hayes is not a party in the suit."

"We hope to show by Hayes' testimony how the Rozelle rule works," players' attorney Edward Glennon said.

Hayes' testimony appeared to lay the factual basis of contracts, but did not get into the rule itself. Glennon said that fact would come out in the future. He indicated part of the players' problem was their need for attorneys each time a contract was negotiated.

Glennon said the court not complete the testimony by the end of the week so the trial will recess then, resuming before U.S. District Court Judge Earl Larson April 21.

Hayes said he never talked personally with the Cowboys on contract figures. He said his first pact with Dallas, a three-year one for the 1965-1967 seasons, was negotiated by his coach at Florida A&M.

Hayes said Dallas Coach Tom Landry refused to elaborate when he turned down a $75,000 request for the 1970 season.

The track star, who won gold medals in the 100 meter dash and 200 meter relay in the 1964 Olympics, played out his option in 1970 which cost him $2,400 of his $23,000, the figure he got in the 1967, 1968 and 1969 seasons. The contract would have been nullified if he were injured and could not make the team, he said.

"You are important to our game plan," Hayes said. Landry told him before the 1970 season, Hayes said he countered: "I don't think you should put me in your game plan." He did not sign a contract.

That was the year in which Hayes was benched for much of the season, Hayes said, because Landry told him he wasn't hustling or blocking enough.

In 1971, he was offered a five-year pact for $55,000 plus $10,000 in bonuses and a deferred payment figure of $60,677. The deferred figure was paid, putting the average at $87,259 for the four years 1971-1974, including post-season game pay. The Cowboys beat Miami 24-3 in the 1971 Super Bowl.

Hayes is under contract for $55,000 plus $10,000 in bonuses for the 1975 season if he makes the team, Glennon said.

Twice-fired Nissalke figures he can rebuild Stars' record

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A twice-fired but still confident coach Tom Nissalke took over the fading Utah Stars Tuesday and vowed to wake up the "sleeping giant" of the American Basketball Association.

Nissalke replaced coach Morris Buckwalter, who was fired by Stars General Manager Bill Orwig because of a "lack of intensity" on the club.

Orwig said he hoped Nissalke, 40, who has a reputation as a hard-nosed disciplinarian, would turn things around and get the Stars into the ABA playoffs.

"Utah is the only team I would have joined this late in the year," said Nissalke, who was replaced by Buckwalter in 1973 after being fired as coach of the NBA Seattle Superstars. Nissalke was dismissed by San Antonio of the ABA last Dec. 13.

"I've always had a great deal of respect for the Stars' organization and for Salt Lake City, and I think the club should be likened to a sleeping giant," Nissalke told a news conference at the team's offices.

Orwig said he had not warned Buckwalter, who was in his first season with the Stars, about his impending fate before calling him Monday nigh to fire him following the Stars' victory over the Virginia Squires.

The win was only the team's fifth in its last 16 games and left it languishing in fourth place in the ABA West with a 23-22 record. Utah, which lost the ABA playoffs to the New York Nets last season, is in a dogfight with San Diego for the last playoff spot in their division.

Orwig, who was hired from the Indiana Pacers last month by Stars' owner Bill Daniels, said he took full responsibility for dismissing Buckwalter, a former University of Utah star who was popular with the hometown fans.

Arbitration may become usual part of pro baseball's scene

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — On the eve of Ken Holtzman's contract hearing before the American Arbitration Council Wednesday, a prominent Oakland A's teammate said the third party settlement may become a way of life in baseball.

Holtzman, one of 13 members of the three-time world champion A's who are seeking more money than what owner Charles O. Finley is willing to part with in 1975, will be the first of 39 major league players to appear before the hearing board which is convening for the second year.

Last year, Holtzman took his case to the arbitrators, came away with what he sought and went on to win 19 games for Oakland.

"It's a way of life with me now," said Reggie Jackson, who saw his 1974 salary upped $15,000 to $135,000 through the arbitration process. "If I'm to get what I want, and what I think I'm worth, I know I must go to arbitration. There's no other way."

Jackson, who was voted the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1973, is also seeking judgment from the arbitration panel this year, as are Sal Bando, Rollie Fingers, Joe Rudi and Vida Blue, who along with Holtzman have played important roles in Oakland's domination of the baseball world.

There are other big names who have applied for arbitration hearings, which are scheduled in Los Angeles, Chicago and New York through Feb. 22 with a possible three-day extension.

Ferguson Jenkins, a 25-game winner with the Texas Rangers last year, is one along with American and National league battling champions Rod Carew of Minnesota and Atlanta's Ralph Garr, Bert Blyleven of the Twins and Ron Cey of the National League champion Los Angeles Dodgers.

Other A's who have made known their positions are outfielder Billy North, first baseman Gene Tenace — meaning the entire A's outfield, half the infield and the key pitchers have filed — catcher Ray Fosse, pitchers

Paul Lindblad, Blue Moon Odom and Dave Hamilton and infielder Tony Kubak.

Shortstop Bert Campaneris, after further meetings with his representative Jerry Kapstein and Finley, decided not to seek arbitration. "We feel we are close enough (to a settlement) so we will continue to negotiate with Mr. Finley," Kapstein said.

Although arbitration is mandatory when asked by a player, a player may decline arbitration by a club. At the hearing there is no compromise at the arbitration table.

Birmingham awaits word on WFL club

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Fans of the World Football League Birmingham Americans awaited word today on the results of a Tuesday night meeting between local businessmen and WFL President Chris Hemmeter to see if the franchise will remain in the city for 1975.

Businessman Ferd F. Weil, leader of the group meeting with Hemmeter, said Tuesday the group was "committed to keep the financially troubled Americans in Birmingham."

The Americans, winners of the WFL championship World Bowl, set league attendance records during the first season in 1974 but incurred debts speculated to be between $1 million and $2.8 million, which must be cleared if the franchise is to remain.

"Well said, and the stock offer had been considered," Weil said. "I can't say much more about our plans."

Taiwan stripped of ping-pong crown

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The president of the National Table Tennis League charged Tuesday that a team from Taiwan (republic of China) used toothpaste on ping pong balls for fear of an "losing face" in defeat by an American team.

Windsor Olson said he stripped the Taiwan men's team of its world professional title and awarded the championship to the Seattle Sockeyes. He said he acted after finding toothpaste on the balls, paddles and under the tables used in the championship matches in Hillsford, Ore., on Feb. 4.

"They are very nationalistic," said Olson of the three-man Chinese team. "They didn't want to return home having lost the title match."

Buckeyes mum

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Ohio State University Athletic Director J. Edward Weaver said Tuesday the Athletic Department would "not discuss the specifics" leading to the suspension of four Ohio State University basketball players, including two starters.

ISU's Big Sky hopes ride on battle against Montana

POCATELLO — The "must win" basketball games continue to present a challenge to Idaho State. ISU picked up its crucial road wins over last weekend, but Montana State and league-leading Montana visit the Bend home this week.

The Bulldogs come to town Friday and the first-placed Grizzlies Saturday, both games starting at 8 p.m.

"We knew we had to win two and we did," commented Coach Jim Killingsworth. "I just hope we play as well this weekend."

Montana is in double jeopardy. Bob (SI) and Boise swept two on the road to remain 2-2 games behind BSU. Montana, and those are Coach Judd Heathcote's two foes. However, Montana has the experience, depth, and defense to take both contests and wrap up the Big Sky first-ever Big Sky roundball title.

Montana Sports Information Director George Fultz says, "We know what it takes to win on the road. We're 3-0 away from home in the conference and in every one we took an early lead and held off our opponent when they made a late run at us. We start four seniors — and the experience pays off."

Fultz also pointed out that Idaho State can pull three top reserves off the bench, and that USM tops the Big Sky in defense, allowing only 62.9 ppg — the way-to-a-155 overall seasonal mark.

Last year's unanimous all-conference center and league MVP Ken McKenzie leads the Montana team. The aggressive

6-9 Canadian tops his club in scoring at 18.5 ppg, and in rebounding at 10.3. He and ISU pivot Steve Hayes are not strangers. Hayes has clashed three times last winter although Hayes was then coming off the bench behind Dan Spindler.

The guard line has turned into a real strength for Montana after early in the season it appeared it might be the club's Achilles heel. Ben DeMers is back and has played 11 games after suffering a broken foot. He's averaging 6.1 ppg and as a soph is the only non-senior starting for Heathcote. Teaming with DeMers is 5-10 Tim Peck, scoring at a 6.6 clip. When DeMers and Peck were injured early a freshman, 6-4 Mike L. Richardson came on like gangbusters and teamed with senior 6-1 guard Mark tough and deep. Possibly the best all-around Grizzley is 6-3 forward Eric Hayes, who does things the guards do forwards.

1975 PONTIAC ASTRE
Standard on the Astre is an overhead cam engine, front disc brakes and a beautiful interior that looks like extra cost. The list of optional accessories is indeed impressive and just a few minutes behind the wheel of any new Astre, and you'll know you're driving a Pontiac.

and 1975 PONTIAC VENTURA
It used to be you bought a compact car for three reasons. Size. Price. And Economy. Pontiac's '75 Ventura gives you all three--And a lot More. Even our lowest Ventura has cut-pile carpeting, front disc brakes, a radial tuned suspension, radial tires and a maximum mileage system, plus you can order just about any accessory imaginable. If you don't see what you want, maybe you don't want a compact after all.
