January wholesale prices dip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Declining food prices helped reduce the wholesale price index for a second straight month in January, but rising oil prices may soon reverse the trend, official figures showed Friday.

Labor Department statistics showed a drop of 0.3 per cent in overall wholesale price levels for January, but they took no account of President Ford's new fees on imported oil.

The higher fuel prices bound to result from the progressive $1 a barrel fees will begin showing up in coming months unless Congress succeeds in its attempt to delay Ford's order. The higher fuel costs in turn would drive up the prices of a wide range of industrial commodities.

The slight January decline in wholesale price levels followed an 0.5 per cent drop in December. The January index stood at 171.8, meaning that a selection of goods which cost $100 in 1967 cost $171.80 in January.

— Although an improvement over recent levels, the January figure was still 17.2 per cent higher than January, 1974.

The month's decline was led by decreasing wholesale prices for farm products, processed foods and feeds, which dropped 2.5 per cent overall for the second consecutive month.

Sugar and confectionary goods registered the most drastic reduction — 10.8 per cent from December.

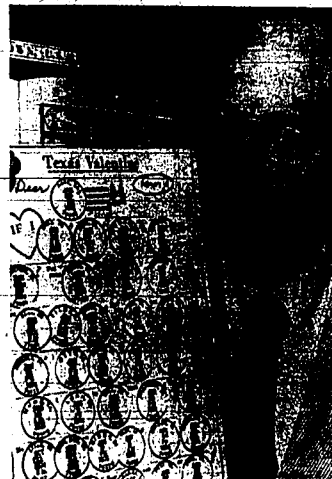

Industrial commodities, however, increased 0.5 per cent after holding steady in December. Iron, steel, household fuels, electric power, gasoline, natural gas, coke, machinery and industrial equipment all rose in wholesale price.

The lower passenger car prices created by January's rebate sales only partially offset increases in other consumer durable goods, such as jewelry, household appliances, glassware, flatware and dinnerware.

As for the impact of future energy costs, Ford ordered a $1 a barrel fee on imported oil effective Feb. 1 as part of his program to force energy conservation by driving up prices. Succeeding $1 a barrel fees were to be added on March 1 and April 1.

The House voted to delay Ford's order for 90 days while a compromise energy program is worked out. The full Senate has not yet acted.

Waldo Emrick and valentine

Texas postmarks, love make unique Valentine

HOUSTON (UPI) — If you are lucky enough to get a letter from postmaster Waldo E. Emrick Friday, you'll open up a lot of love.

Inside the envelope will be Emrick's personalized Valentine using as its medium the tool of his trade, the postmark.

"I enjoyed making the card," said 61-year-old Emrick, "because Valentine is the one holiday you have license for puns, atrocious puns. I mean there's no holds barred. My main objective was to use as few connecting words between the 37 as possible."

Here is Emrick's message: "Dear Hart: If I Wink a Loll, Woden you by my Verbiest Valentine? I've seen China, the Klondike, Trinidad — the Hull Tilden Earth. But you Art the Whon for me. Ackery. I Otto Runge to Tye the Knot.

"How I Lawn to call your Telephone, but no Rice. My LITTLE Dime Box is Priddy Plat. Bayside, I Harlity have the Pep or Energy. This Paradise has Heat my Fate! Your Loving Texon."

Emrick is a 37-year veteran of the post office. He said the Valentine is the third such card he has put together.

"People have come up to me and asked, 'Is there really such a town?'" and I just have to laugh," he said. "The reaction has been good."

"It took a lot of time and work writing each town's postmaster, enclosing a self-addressed envelope and getting a perfect postmark," he said.

Sirica denies new trials

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today refused to overturn the guilty verdicts and grant new trials to four former Nixon aides convicted in the Watergate cover-up.

Sirica set next Friday for sentencing of former White House aides John D. Ehrlichman, H.R. Haldeman, Robert C. Mariani and former Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

The four were convicted on New Year's Day following a lengthy trial on their part in covering up the 1972 break-in and bugging of Democratic National Headquarters.

They had based their appeals mainly on errors which they charged Sirica made in the trial.

Kenneth W. Parkinson, the fifth defendant in the case, was acquitted by the jury.

TF mobile home zoning problem crops up anew

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County zoners are faced again with the thorny problem of mobile homes and where they should be allowed in the county.

The zoners spent a lot of time on the controversial issue last year when they put together a new county zoning ordinance.

They scissored for months — designating havens for mobile homes and then backtracking when residents of those areas protested — before arriving at what seemed to be a workable combination of available space in acceptable localities.

But Thursday night they learned that mobile home dwellers are pinched by the plan. They are clamoring for sites, especially near Twin Falls City, where they may place individual or groups of mobile homes at a reasonable cost.

Existing mobile home parks are jammed and few new parks are planned because of soaring development costs and red-tape hassles.

"Mobile home park owners have called me and said, 'I've got a list coming out of my ears. You've got to do something to help these people.'" Ed Woods, county zoning administrator, told the Times-News.

So the zoners agreed Thursday to try to amend the fledgling zone law to open up more mobile home sites.

Taking a "safety-in-numbers" approach, the panel decided to toss three proposals before the public for a hearing.

One would allow mobile homes in industrial zones. In the Twin Falls City area, that plan would throw open a large chunk of land southeast of the city along Eastland Drive South and Sugar Factory Road.

Zoner L. James Koutnik questioned that approach, pointing out that residential development currently is banned in industrial zones because of their undesirability for living.

"We're being a little inconsistent," Koutnik said, describing industrial areas as "obviously and potentially non-residential."

DST or not? That's question

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said Thursday the legislation passed this year to return Idaho to emergency daylight saving time Feb. 23 will not take effect because of a 1975 law.

The governor said the law passed in 1975 to exempt Idaho from year-around daylight saving time will keep southern Idaho on mountain standard time until April 27, 1975 unless it is repealed before Feb. 23.

The governor said he would not sign the bill passed this year because it has no legal effect. It will become law Feb. 18.

The governor said, after consulting the attorney general's office, that southern Idaho will remain on mountain standard time while northern Idaho and the neighboring states move to emergency daylight time on Feb. 23.

Saving Time Act put the nation on a four month, standard time, eight month daylight time schedule as a compromise.

Andrus advised Lt. Gov. John Evans, as president of the senate, about the difficulty so the Senate could make the appropriate changes.

Ex-chief fired, fined on bad check

By DAVID BOCKMAN
Times-News writer

BURLEY — The Times-News has learned that fired Burley Police Chief Gary Booth was also fired from a previous position in Nebraska after being fined for issuing an insufficient funds check.

Booth apparently was forced to resign as chief of police of the Plattsmouth, Neb., force in 1972. Booth's application for Burley chief states he was appointed to the Plattsmouth position in November 1969.

Today, Plattsmouth city attorney, Herb Elworth, told the Times-News Booth was asked to resign by the city mayor.

Elworth stated Booth's forced resignation "involved property and policy matters." Elworth would not elaborate on the reasons, and Plattsmouth's mayor was not available for comment.

However, Virginia Bunch, Plattsmouth city clerk, verified that Booth was asked for his resignation.

"The mayor did want him to leave," Bunch stated.

Elworth said that Booth's stay at Plattsmouth may have been shortened when he acquired a court record.

"However a check of court records indicates only that Booth pleaded no contest in 1972 to a misdemeanor—insufficient funds check charge."

According to Darlene Grushenka, Cliff County, Nebraska, associate judge, Booth was charged in 1972 with having issued an "insufficient funds check."

Grushenka said court records show that in October, 1972, Booth entered a plea of "nolo contendere" to the charge. Booth was sentenced to a fine of $50, plus court costs and restitution of the $34 check, the judge stated.

Booth has been unavailable to comment on the matter.

Kevin Kelly, an ex-police officer, said Thursday night Booth had taken his wife to relatives in a town "more than a day's drive away," for her protection.

Burley chief not alone in overspending budget

By DAVID BOCKMAN
Times-News writer

BURLEY — A number of Burley City department heads overspent their budgets recently, but only Police Chief Gary Booth was fired.

City records, accompanied by official confirmation, show that some other department heads overspent their budgets by a higher percentage than did the police chief.

The chief's excessive spending was given as one of the principal reasons for his termination on Monday.

According to city records, the police department's budget for 1974 was $20,000. A "budget printout" indicates that by Dec. 31, the department had spent $14,700. About a seven per cent overspend.

The records indicate the city parks budget was overspent by 45 per cent.

The park's budget was $20,296, but spending was $41,024. That's an overexpenditure of $12,727.

The other departments overspending are: Cemetery 8 per cent over the budget; golf 20 per cent; airport, 4 per cent; engineering 4 per cent; building inspector, 5 per cent; fire, 11 per cent; building 9 per cent; legal 8 per cent; inventory control, 7 per cent; city clerk, less than 1 per cent; legislation 2 per cent.

The records also indicate that 11 departments were overspent.

In the city spent $3,000,000 out of a budget of $2,947,000.

At a meeting Thursday night, when the City Council members were questioned about overexpenditures, several councilmen admitted that several departments were overspent.

However, they said more than just overspending his budget resulted in Booth's dismissal.

Councilman Cloyd Taylor said Booth had failed to turn in vouchers for some expenditures made in October of 1974 until after the end of the year.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two economic forecasting firms predicted today that unemployment will average close to 9 per cent this year if President Ford's energy and economy programs are adopted intact.

One of them also concluded that Ford's program would be worse than doing nothing to help the economy.

The administration has predicted unemployment will average 8.2 per cent this year and peak at 8.5 per cent before declining.

Wagon train spotlighted for Bicentennial Era

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A wagon train that goes east instead of west will be one highlight of the bicentennial era, according to Idaho's bicentennial chief.

J. M. Neil, executive director of the Idaho Bicentennial Commission, said the wagon train would include one detailed replica of the Prairie Schooner for each state.

Neil, in Twin Falls to discuss preparations for the celebration, said wagons would leave Blaine, Wash., in early June this year, trek through Idaho and make winter camp at Ft. Laramie, Wyo.

In spring, 1976, the wagons would resume their cross-country jaunt, aiming for Valley Forge, Pa., on July 4, the country's 200th anniversary.

The wagons will travel about 20 miles a day, accompanied by three wagoners and a motorhome to accommodate them, he said.

The wagons will reach the Idaho border in late August, Neil said, and will follow the route of the Oregon Trail across the state. The train should travel near to Twin Falls, taking most of the month to cross Idaho.

Each night the train will stop and professional entertainers and musicians will provide campfire programs for the public.

Idaho's wagon made like the others by an Arkansas firm should arrive in the state in early March. From March to July the wagon will travel around the state to various communities and state parks, Neil said.

The wagon is almost an exact replica of the famous Prairie Schooners which crossed the plains with the pioneers. A few changes have been made, for instance, ball bearings are used in the axle to make the wheels roll better and a thin strip of rubber will be installed on the wheels.

According to Neil, other persons are free to accompany the wagon train in their own wagons at their own expense, of course.

Neil said the wagon train program has attracted a "tremendous amount of interest." Those who wish more information about the trek, or interested in arranging a visit of the wagon to their community should contact David Thompson, trails coordinator, Idaho Department of Parks and Recreation, Statehouse, Boise, at 384-2294.

Neil said "literally thousands of people" are interested in the wagon trek. There is an opportunity for Idaho citizens to participate as blacksmiths, riders and campfire participants, he said. Neil admitted the economic situation is affecting plans for the nation's bicentennial celebration.

"Private contributions have been hard to come by in the past few months," he said, and corporate donations have been cut down.

"But in terms of enthusiasm it's the other way around," Neil added. "We're looking for something that we can be proud of, that we can be involved in."

"It's a good escape," Neil said. "We can have a festival and we can do some honest bragging that we have the oldest existing democracy in the world."

The economic picture has forced people to look for projects that aren't the expensive bricks-and-mortar type, instead choosing other community services which cost less, Neil said.

Ski areas report new snow

TWIN FALLS — All ski resorts and winter recreation areas have received new snow this week, ranging from about 8 inches in the southern areas to 17 inches in the north.

Magie Mountain ski area officials report 8 inches of new snow this week. Area officials said this morning the road has been plowed but snow tires or chains are recommended. Most runs are packed with some powder on Magie. The area will also be open Monday for the holiday.

Panzerelle has received about 10 inches of new snow, resort officials said today. Snow plows cleared the road late Thursday but snow tires or chains are recommended. The resort is operating seven days per week and reports 66 inches of snow at the lodge and 96 inches on upper slopes.

Soldier Mountain had new snow but telephone communications to the resort were out today. The area has received about a foot of snow this week, according to reports from skiers.

Sawtooth National Forest reports show 17 inches of snow has fallen at Rotair since Wednesday. The area is open Saturday and Sunday and on Tuesday and Thursday nights for night skiing.

At Sun Valley the forest service reports show 17 inches of new snow since Wednesday with 77 inches at the top of Bald Mountain, 66 at the Roundhouse and 45 on the valley floor. Bowls have been closed because of heavy snow accumulations, but other runs are open and lifts operating. The area operates daily.

Lower elevations report wet heavy snow with snowmobiling difficult in the northern parts of the forest. Sawtooth officials say, More stable conditions exist in the southern part of the forest.

Dangerous avalanche conditions exist in the Halley to Stanley area and to the north of Fairfield. These conditions do not apply to controlled ski areas, but recreationalists are advised to observe ski resort signing and to stay out of steep canyons if snowmobiling.

Magie Valley Snowmobile Club members will hold a Fun Day program at Diamondfield Jack area south of Hansen Saturday and Sunday.

Economy by compulsion

(C) Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON - Automobiles that average 25 miles per gallon would contribute a 40 per cent cut in gasoline consumption and save the equivalent of 2 million barrels of oil a day, according to Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.
Nelson has introduced a bill that would compel Detroit and Ford to make a market auto that gets 25 miles to the gallon by 1985.

cars for their market line to average 25 miles, the equivalent of a 75 per cent improvement over the current average mileage, Nelson said.
Nelson said that with cars using 20 per cent of all petroleum products a year, "nothing is more fundamental to straightening out the energy-economy mess than reducing gasoline consumption."

Nelson noted that in 1972 the auto industry produced 27 per cent in large cars, 45 per cent in middle-sized cars, and 28 per cent in small cars. To achieve the standards required by his bill, Nelson said, the mix would change to 10 per cent large cars, 44 per cent middle-sized, and 46 per cent small.

Piggy-back abuses

One of the least admirable parliamentary devices employed by the Congress is that of "piggy-backing," or attaching a doubtful piece of legislation, through amendment, to one which has a much better chance of passage.
It is a subterfuge to legislate into the law measures which will not stand on their own feet because of their controversial nature.
We think the American people deserve a little more forthrightness from their legislators than that type of legislative legerdemain.
One recent flagrant example of this was the attempt to attach to the bill raising the national debt ceiling an amendment providing for the nullification of President Ford's graduated fee plan on imported oil.

Kissinger's short circuit demonstrates power

WASHINGTON - Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has won a bitter struggle within the Ford administration over international oil pricing policy, exhibiting his pervasive - and to some government officials, disturbing - ability to short-circuit regular policymaking machinery to get his way.
Kissinger's rivals, notably Treasury Secretary William Simon, do not fully realize they have lost. In fact, Kissinger's oil price floor is established administration policy. President Ford endorsed it without revocability. The White House Energy Resources Council, previously deadlocked after bitter debate.
That seems the death blow for Simon's hopes of hardline bargaining drastically forcing down world oil prices. But even some officials who disagree with Simon are uneasy over Kissinger's triumph. They are dismayed by his power in imposing his ideas as government policy.

variable import tax to protect expensive new domestic energy sources.
The upshot: a finesse. The President's energy proposals of Jan. 15 called for government action to achieve domestic energy price levels necessary to reach self-sufficiency goals without filling in deficits, thereby postponing a decision.
So it was with some shock that the Treasury, Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and Federal Energy Administration (FEA) on Jan. 31 received Kissinger's speech to be given at the National Press Club on Feb. 3.
That stage stunned them. Kissinger proposed a common floor on oil imports by western consuming nations set by State Department spokesmen at $7.70 a barrel. Some officials (including Assistant Treasury Secretary Gerald Parsky) tried to tone down Kissinger's proposal. It was delivered unchanged. Two days later Enders presented the price floor as an administration proposal.
Parsky, also in Paris, denied this was more than the State Department position. In Washington, Simon was insisting Ford had not floor needlessly subsidizes oil producers and is the worst kind of politics.

The technocrats present, while sympathetic to the price floor concept, felt Enders's $7.50 level was too high. The President made no decision at all.
Back in Washington, Simon fumed about State Department ignorance and came up with a

A woman for England?

Christian Science Monitor
Margaret Thatcher's election as leader of Britain's Conservative Party is an extraordinary achievement.
It is a credit to her political skill and hard work that she is now in a position of perhaps becoming her country's first woman Prime Minister.
Her capacity to lead remains to be seen, however, and her lack is formidable: to resolve and unite the Tories into a strong, effective opposition party able to offer viable alternatives to the programs of Harold Wilson's Labour government.
If she cannot rise to this challenge, the Conservative Party might be relegated, as one Tory voice put it, to being "a permanent opposition, a class-based rump," unable to command popular support and to reverse the changes it opposes.
It is essential to any democracy that there be a vigorous opposition to the ruling party. Yet the Tories are in poor shape.
While in office, they failed to solve the dual problem of providing effective economic management while coping with Britain's aggressive trade unions and as a result lost ground everywhere in Britain except the southeast. They are lacking in leaders of shining talent and zestful ideas.
Their image as the party of the rich remains perhaps their greatest liability and the question is whether Mrs. Thatcher can broaden the party's appeal. She herself comes from the middle class but, some critics feel, she has taken on the cold political ideology of old-time conservatism.
As Britain wrestles with the worst economic crisis in 25 years, it seems clear that a real problem is not only the lack of social discipline needed to galvanize the economy. It is also the failure of the middle and upper classes to communicate with the working class and secure its participation in industrial growth.
It is thus in large part the age-old problem of class-gap that confronts Mrs. Thatcher. Her challenge is all the greater given the fact that Prime Minister Wilson is doing reasonably well. There are now tentative signs, for instance, that the left-wing trade unionists are willing to compromise on their demands for industrial nationalization.
The new Tory leader will thus have to muster all her energies and undoubted talents to bring her party out of its doldrums.

Congress 'villain' in high federal pay scales

WASHINGTON - There are enough ideas one promises oneself to get around to some day.
That day has arrived for an idea suggested last September by John D. Boente Jr., of Hibbing, Minn.
In a long, thoughtful and documented letter, Boente wrote:
'I became aware a few years ago of the fact that we non-government workers compensate our employees, federal, state and local government workers, in general, more generously than we ourselves are compensated.'
Boente's thought is one whose time has come because President Ford has proposed a 5 per cent ceiling on a pay raise due federal government employees next Oct. 1. But there is every sign that Congress will permit wage and salary increases expected to average 8 to 9 per cent on that date. After all, most of the nearly 2.5 million folks on Uncle Sam's payroll also vote.
The concept is that federal government workers' pay should be kept abreast of wages and salaries paid by private industry. Yet the average white collar federal worker nationally now earns $12,815, and federal employees in the Washington metropolitan area earn an average $15,508. Both figures are well above the national pay average for private industry.
Thanks to Boente, some local specialties are available. He exposed a study by the Minnesota Department of Manpower Services comparing median monthly wages of federal and private industry employees. The study showed that of 33 positions, the median wage for federal workers in Minnesota was higher in 26 categories, the same in one category, and lower in only six.
As Boente put it: "Our system requires the average experienced typist in private industry to help pay the salary for an experienced typist in government earning 24 per cent more than he or she earns.
The Minnesota study revealed other inequities: A federal senior keypunch operator is paid 25 per cent more than his counterpart in industry. A government accountant earns $1,645 a month, compared to the $1,065 paid a senior accountant in industry. A federal principal engineer gets $1,006, a principal engineer in

ANDREW TULLY

Industry, $1,336. For all jobs studied, the federal monthly pay averaged $759.36, the private monthly averaged $576.69.
Moreover, the cost to the taxpayer is not just in wages. The government, meaning you and me, also pays 32 per cent of sick pay in various fringe benefits - health and hospitalization, retirement funds, paid vacations, sick leave.
The villain is that august body humorously referred to as "our" Congress. No federal funds can be spent unless they are appropriated by Congress - and Congress takes care of its brothers and sisters. Last fall, for example, the Senate thwarted President Ford's attempt to postpone a 3.5 per cent federal pay raise until Jan. 1. The saving would have been $700 million.

New Ford has announced plans for a new study of the complex machinery employed to fix the pay of both civil servants and those in the military. His proposal calls for a "blue ribbon" panel to re-evaluate Uncle Sam's benevolent practices.
Well, good, I guess. But studies by "blue ribbon" panels take time, and it is a general refrain in Minnesota earning $756 a month in industry while paying my counterpart in the federal government $911. I'd take a stick to the next member of Congress I met.

Reform movement penetrates conference panel

By MARTHA GOTTORON
Congressional Quarterly
WASHINGTON - Congressional reform is penetrating the conference committee, that vital but traditionally private phase of the legislative process.
This year, for the first time conferees will be meeting in public to wield differing House and Senate legislation into a single, final bill.
But some members of Congress already are warning that simply holding conferences in the open will not dissuade the congressmen from this obscure aspect of congressional procedure. Conference committees are chosen when bills on the same subject pass the two houses in different form. They generally disband a few weeks later, with few people even hearing of their existence.
The power and the anonymity of conference committees have made them a target of congressional reformers for nearly a century. Sen. George Norris R-Nebr. 1913-43, made them a virtual obsession.

"The people have no voice as to who these members shall be," Norris complained during the 1930s. "No constituent has any definite knowledge as to how members of the conference committee vote, and there is no record to prove the attitude of any member."
Open conferences may solve some of the problems Norris worried about. But others remain. Committee chairmen, for example, have effective control over the choice of conferees, even if they did not support the legislation as it passed their own chamber.
That issue was effectively used this year against F. Edward Herbert D-La., in the successful fight to depose him as chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.
A staunch advocate of a strong military establishment, Herbert generally took only the most senior members of his committee to conference. Like him, they favored heavy spending for military programs. Herbert's opponents were particularly angered by his actions in 1973 during consideration of a military weapons bill.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., a second-termer and a disident member of Herbert's committee offered a successful floor amendment that slashed $50-million from the amount that the committee had recommended. The Senate subsequently approved a higher funding level.
When the bill went to conference, Herbert designated himself, the next four senior Democrats and the four senior Republicans from the committee as conferees. They quickly abandoned the Aspin-amendment. Herbert reported to the House that Senate conferees had been adamant on the higher authorization, but the senators denied it.
When Herbert came up for reconfirmation this year, his opponents remembered the 1973 conference. Herbert lost his chairmanship on a 152-133 vote. "If you've authored an amendment," said one member, "you certainly ought to be in conference to protect it."
Occasionally, conferees will get in trouble because they are more liberal than the full body. A classic example occurred in 1972, when it was apparent that proposed House conferees on a bill raising the minimum wage favored the more liberal Senate version over the coalition House position. In that case, a coalition of House Republicans and southern Democrats objected so strongly to the conferees that they blocked the bill from going to conference at all.

-In an effort to avert similar clashes in the future, last year the House modified its rules on conferee selection. The new rule says that in making appointments, the speaker shall choose a majority that will support the House position.
Rep. Lester L. Wolff, D-N.Y., does not think the new rule goes far enough. He proposes a rules change that would require conferees who were members of the subcommittee that first considered the legislation, or who had successfully offered major floor amendments. "We are discarding the seniority system in committee," he says.

ERA supporter prefers baking

Editor, Times-News:

I would like to thank the Times-News for its excellent, rational editorial in favor of the Equal Rights Amendment. Most disappointing to me has been the low level of attack being aired so freely in this dispute.

Your editorial compares very favorably to the highly emotional, usually sensational approach taken by a vast majority of ERA opponents.

As a reminder to all, the amendment is very simply: "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

It is true and right that passage of the amendment will create change; however, I submit to you that the changes brought about will be positive ones which will strengthen our basic philosophy of equality of opportunity for all rather than undermine national foundations as ERA opponents believe.

As a matter of fact, I too would "rather bake bread than climb telephone poles" as the ladies visiting the State House recently proclaimed. Further, I have no intense desire to compete in the business world, on the football field or anywhere else with the male population. The Equal Rights Amendment does not threaten the life style I have chosen. Instead, it reinforces each woman's right to choose for herself the goals she wishes to pursue.

It is a very unfortunate situation indeed when our legislators are made to deal with this issue for the fourth year in succession. Idaho has the distinction of being among the first states to ratify the Twenty-seventh Amendment to the Constitution.

Since then our lawmakers have made it clear that they want to stand by that decision. With such immediately important matters as the economy, highway and building construction, public education, the quality of our environment, energy and land-use planning to consider, it is a real shame that they must, once again, spend time in dealing with ERA.

It's my sincere hope that in 1975, International Women's Year, the necessary 38 states will have ratified this fundamental, unthreatening amendment.

Please join me in communicating your support for the Equal Rights Amendment to your legislators. Thank you.

TF aide commended for morals stance

Editor, Times-News:

I wish to reply to the remark of Jim Farrar of Twin Falls, relating to his views on the recent streaking incident.

I think George Staudacher acted wisely in handling this case by insisting the guilty be prosecuted for indecent exposure. In my estimation, Staudacher did not overstep his authority. After all, if he did not take action, who would or should? It has to start with someone.

Farrar states, "Mr. Staudacher's position is both banal and incompetent" and "that it reflects nobody's opinion but his own." I dare say that if Farrar would take a poll of those who witnessed the incident he would find many others with a similar opinion as Staudacher's.

I wonder how Farrar would react if the two "streakers" would have exposed themselves only to his wife and daughters, providing he has a wife and daughters.

I think he would be one of the first to scream for justice.

As for Staudacher's "own opinion" and "public officials' conscience" I wish to inform him that the beginning of our nation's history, God set up a code of morals.

When Adam and Eve realized they were naked, they sewed fig leaves together for clothing. God in His mercy gave them something a little more noble than fig leaves—namely skins of animals.

Since the time of Adam and Eve, most humans have had a shame of displaying their naked bodies in public.

I commend Staudacher for the stand he has taken in a time when morals are at a low level.

As for the judicial disposition of this case, involving a reduction of the charge from indecent exposure to disorderly conduct, whether it be a right or wrong, way to handle it, I myself believe that an example should be made by a more serious charge.

The act of these two boys was not a wise or intelligent thing to do. To me it was very disgusting and immoral.

Try catnip, ease worry with plants

Editor, Times-News:

In the Sunday magazine of Jan. 12 there is a complaint of people who have trouble of cats eating their plants.

If they have nothing else green, they sometimes eat them—because they have nothing else.

You will avoid this trouble if you will gather catnip anytime from spring to fall. Give it dry or green; it is loved by all cats and is medicine to them. It grows on many hills here in Idaho. It has a square stem and soft appearing leaves.

You can get a sample at the drug stores, dried in little packages, (smell) and take up a plant from outside and plant it. You have to protect it as cats will dig it up.—They roll on it.

It takes a strong wire fence large enough so they can't reach through; I gather by the armfuls and dry it for winter for all the cats I know. I have been in Idaho 30 years now and at one time could never find it. After the sheep came in from the east, we had catnip.

Hoping this will ease your worry.

In defense of aide

Editor, Times-News:

I am writing in defense of George Staudacher on streakers.

Your editorial writer and a writer in the forum seem horrified that such action, as two students appearing before the public nude, would demand the penalty prescribed.

I would like to say that I think George is right. Our laws say this is indecent exposure.

If our writers don't want the law upheld, I'm sure George could handle this within the school with the student body witnessing a bare-bottom paddling.

—It is the attitude of laughing at such practices by you, writers and judges that encourages such childish behavior.

Anti-ERA reasons told

Editor, Times-News:

This is to state publicly that I oppose the ERA on the following grounds:

1. The 1963 Equal Pay Act and.
2. The 1864 Civil Rights Act and.
3. The Federal Employment Opportunity Commission are all doing an excellent job of righting past wrongs.

Your kind editorial prompts this "conservative, street-headed, sobriety-republican woman to state publicly for the record that she opposes the vague, unspecified wording of the ERA and agrees with the new attorney general, Edward Levi, that it would result in thousands of lawsuits before the ERA can be clearly defined.

Hydro power usage backed by TF man

Editor, Times-News:

An open letter to Sen. James McClure:

Enclosed is a clipping from our local newspaper. I was happy to find that at least one other person feels the same about hydro-power as I do. Along with ex-Senator Jordan this makes three.

I wonder if it would be possible to get a vote from all the people on your mailing list on just how they feel about hydro-power to help solve our energy problem, especially if you explained the following facts before asking to vote:

1. Hydro-electric power generation is many times cheaper than power from fossil fuels or nuclear sources.
2. Over the long haul hydro-power is much cheaper than any other known source.
3. The primary source of hydro-power will be available as long as the sun shines on the earth.
4. One kilowatt of hydro-power will replace 23 gallons of gasoline each year. Report in the December issue of National Geographic claims the Columbia river hydro-power generation is equivalent to 7.7 billion gallons of oil per year.

5. There are enough hydro-power sites in Idaho to supply all the power needs of our state for the next 50 years. Utah has the coal but Idaho has the falling water.

Perhaps we would be sacrificing too much to develop the Salmon River drainage, but there is no excuse for not utilizing to the fullest extent the Snake River drainage all the way to the mouth of the Salmon River.

If these many sites were not enough, at least they would supplement the available fossil fuels and give us time to develop oil sources such as wind, tides, and solar.

I can't help but believe that if you and the other legislators would quit worrying so much about votes and screw up your courage enough to use a little common sense our state would be a much better place to live.

Law claimed unfair

Do you realize that the Times-News is a law-breaker?

—The Times-News along with most individual merchants, shopping centers, cities, radio stations, fair, organizations, etc.

say in their rules: void in Idaho, Illinois, Georgia, etc. so out of the 50 states there are only 10 states where such things are illegal.

I wish the Times-News would use its influence to get this ridiculous law changed.

Bax spends hour on panel grill

BOISE UPI — Dr. James Bax spent an hour on the Senate State Affairs Committee to be heard on his confirmation as head of the Health and Welfare Department and left without a decision.

Bax will have to wait until today to see if the committee sends his confirmation, which was "referred" under reorganization, to the Senate floor with its blessing.

After questioning Bax, the committee agreed to wait for another day or action until it receives a recommendation from Chairman John Barker, R-Ill., of the Senate Health, Education and Welfare committee.

Barker said he would ask his full committee this morning for a recommendation. Bax had appeared before the HEW committee Thursday morning to clear up questions committee members had about the operation of his department.

Barker told state affairs that

Bax had answered the questions to his satisfaction, but that he would like to hear from the entire committee before making a recommendation.

Barker said "we want the best Department of Health and Welfare we can have and we don't want any hanky-panky going on."

He said that he was bothered by anonymous letters that he had received about the department. He added, however, that the committee meeting was not meant to be a "witch hunt."

At the conclusion of the session, Barker said he was sure the "committee is much more satisfied than before you came before us."

Sen. Stan Kress, D-Fr., also complimented Bax. He said there had been some "pretty sticky" questions tossed at the director and he "got on top of the information" and provides it in an excellent manner."

Barker said Bax's answers were forthright.

Bax said that because of the large size of the agency and the number of problems it dealt with, "we're going to make mistakes — there's no way to avoid them."

At the start of questioning, Barker asked Bax to explain the dismissal of Jack Steneck from the department and the reason he still was on the payroll.

Bax said that Steneck still was doing work for the department pending a grievance hearing on the dismissal. He said that he was working with Boise State University and was "diligently pursuing his work in that area."

Steneck's work with BSU, Bax said, has been "highly successful."

Bax said one of the reasons the grievance hearing had not been completed was that the two non-partisan members selected to hear the matter had not yet selected the third member.

The third member should be appointed shortly and the hearing held in the near future," Bax said.

Barker said Thursday was the first he had heard that Steneck still was working for the department.

He also questioned why there had been no contract signed between the department and Dr. Glen Wegner, who is conducting a study on lead poisoning in the Kollgava area.

Bax explained that Bunker Hill Mining Co. was fooling the bill and the department was providing office and secretarial assistance.

He said Wegner was agreed upon by the department and Bunker Hill because he "knew the legal and medical side of the problem" as well as the "Idaho" having been raised at Kendrick.

No Nixon return, Ziegler says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard M. Nixon, blames nobody but himself for the scandal which brought about his resignation, plans no political comeback, and would never accept an ambassadorial post, one-time press aide Ronald L. Ziegler said Thursday.

In a television interview, Ziegler also said Nixon telephoned the White House last week to tell President Ford he has full confidence in him and never doubted his ability to handle the job.

The issue of Nixon's confinement in Ford surfaced last Friday when former White House aide Charles W. Colson said Nixon expressed doubts to him about Ford's potential abilities as a president, and described Ford as a slow starter who "would take two years to get up to speed."

"President Ford not only has the respect of former President Nixon," Ziegler said, "but also he feels that President Ford has taken hold of the office."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and others have raised the possibility of Nixon's eventual return to Republican politics or diplomatic affairs. In a taped interview in San Clemente, Calif., with Jim Hartz on the NBC-TV "Today" program, Ziegler declared:

"He is not planning a political comeback. The only comeback he is planning now is to regain his health so that he can begin work on his memoirs. I have never heard him talk about wanting to be an ambassador. I know he will never become an ambassador. I know he would never accept an ambassadorial post. He said that to me."

Ziegler said Nixon "has to live with" the knowledge that his own actions brought about his downfall.

The former press aide said Nixon "certainly understands that it was the acts taken by his administration that led to his resignation. He does not blame anyone for that. He has to live with it."

On other issues, Ziegler said:

"The Nixon White House conducted probably the worst public relations or press program in the history of the United States in the way we handled Watergate... We did a very bad job of that."

—He personally "made mistakes as press secretary... but as a press secretary is only as good as his source of information."

—Nixon is on a "very tight" budget. If he had to turn only to his own resources to pay for the current and anticipated legal costs he would be in a very serious financial position."

—About $100,000 has been collected so far for Nixon's legal defense fund. He has $225,000 in legal fees facing him.

—Ford's decision to pardon Nixon was "an important act of compassion" and was also in "the national good."

Ford will veto tariff rollback

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has decided to veto the bill which would roll back his controversial tariff on imported oil and is now focusing his strategy on winning enough votes in the Senate to sustain his veto.

Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., an ardent supporter of the tariff rollback, met briefly with Ford at the White House Thursday to discuss the strategy.

"He's prepared to go to the mat on this one," Packwood said of the President. "He's going to go all out."

Ford is "confident" he will be able to garner the 34 votes needed in the Senate to assure that the veto will not be overridden, Packwood said. It takes the votes of at least two-thirds of the senators to override a Presidential veto.

Packwood said that the President has completely ruled out any compromise in the full implementation of the tariff. "There will be no compromise," he quoted Ford as saying during their discussion.

The full Senate has not yet voted on the bill to rescind the 51 tariff imposed by the President on Feb. 1 and to bar him from adding another 32 in fees by April 1.

But both he and the President have given up any hope that the Senate will turn down the tariff rollback bill. The House voted 389-114 last week to kill the tariff, and some 53 senators have signed the bill.

As a result, Ford and GOP leaders in the Senate have decided to concentrate their efforts on the vote to override the inevitable veto, Packwood said.

There are 28 or 29 senators who are "absolutely irrevocably" in favor of the tariff, Packwood said, and another 15 or so who are undecided.

A series of meetings with senators at the White House next week is designed primarily to give Ford an opportunity to woo the undecided.

Conceding that "it's going to be close," Packwood said that the President should be able to pick up the votes of four or five undecided senators.

The senator said that he and the Republican leadership in the Senate will make sure that there are no absentees among those willing to support the tariff veto on the day of the vote.

The President will meet with the GOP senators over a White House dinner on Tuesday, and Packwood said he expected that several of them would side with Ford.

The next day, the President will have breakfast with a group of southern senators in hopes of picking up some conservative Democratic votes.

Stamp bill not signed

WASHINGTON — President Ford announced Thursday that he would, reluctantly, allow a bill freezing the price of food stamps for the remainder of this year to become law without his signature.

The action was taken as a concession to Congress, which had voted overwhelmingly last week to halt the administration's plan that would have raised the purchase price of the food stamps for almost all of the 17.1 million current recipients of the stamps.

The President said the price increase, which had been scheduled to take effect March 1, was needed to save the government $650 million and to hold down the rapid rise in government spending on social programs.

Industrial production declines

WASHINGTON — Industrial production dropped by 3.6 per cent in January following a decline of 3.1 per cent in December, the Federal Reserve Board reported Thursday.

The new figure on the output of the nation's factories, mines and utilities was further confirmation that the nation is in its deepest recession since World War II.

The one-month drop in output of 3.6 per cent has not been exceeded since a decline of 8.9 per cent in December, 1937. The sharp recession of 1937-38 interrupted what had been the beginning of recovery from the great depression earlier in that decade.

Industrial production has dropped 9.5 per cent since September. This four-month decline exceeded the worst four months — the 1942-44 recession, previously the sharpest postwar slump.

The nation's unemployment rate, by reaching 8.2 per cent of the labor force in January, has also exceeded the previous high for the postwar period of 7.9 per cent reached during a coal strike in 1949.

Rocky to head domestic council

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Ford has given Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller a major domestic policy assignment and has hinted broadly he wants the former New York governor to stay on board as his 1976 running mate.

Ford used the occasion of a "Salute to the Vice President" dinner attended by 1,600 New York Republicans to announce that Rockefeller would take over Rockefeller for running the White House Domestic Council, a Cabinet-level post on the administration's chief domestic policy agency.

As he repeatedly praised his vice president for two months, Ford said "There is a somewhat trite slogan that says 'Ford has a better idea.' Well, I am here tonight to tell you that one of the best ideas this Ford ever had was nominating Nelson Rockefeller to be vice president."

Then turning to Rockefeller, Ford put out his hand and said, "Mr. Vice President, I hope to share for a very, very long time your counsel, your confidence and your wonderful company."

The President said that two top Rockefeller aides will head the 38-member staff of the Domestic Council.

James M. Cannon, Rockefeller's special assistant for domestic affairs, will become executive director of the council and join the White House as assistant to the President for domestic affairs. The post was held in the Nixon administration by John D. Ehrlichman.

Another top aide, James M. Cannon, Rockefeller's special assistant for domestic affairs, will become executive director of the council and join the White House as assistant to the officials as the secretary of agriculture, the director of the Office of Management and Budget, the administrator of veterans affairs and the executive director of the President's Economic Policy Board.

Right wing thunder echoes anticipated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Ford administration will hear thunder from the right this weekend.

The 1975 Conservative Political Action Conference convened for a four-day run Friday showing few signs of a "wait and see" attitude for the President and his associates.

Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., keynoting the meeting, called on conservatives to demand ideological purification of the GOP and damned recent trends in both parties.

Calling the Democrats a collection of "special interest groups, power blocks, union bosses and assorted leftist kooks," Bauman said conservatives in the GOP "have been asked to give an inch, then a foot, and then a mile until finally we as a party have embraced a socialistic philosophy that has enervated and debilitated the Democratic Party and three-fourths of the world as well."

Bauman warned against conservatives forming "new splinter groups which cannot win votes or offer ideas but exist to satisfy the egotism of would-be leaders." He said, "I am of the opinion that this country does not need a third party; but by any objective analysis it badly needs a second party."

Bauman's proposal for realignment of the existing parties into conservative and liberal organizations was by no means the consensus at the meeting, which was expected to draw as many as 600 delegates.

Ron Docksal, chairman of Young Americans for Freedom, which is sponsoring the meeting with the American Conservative Union, said he expected adoption of resolutions criticizing the Ford administration and Vice President Rockefeller as Nelson President. He did not know if a majority would favor the formation of a separate national conservative party.

"I am definitely third party oriented," Docksal said.

His views were bolstered by those of M. Stanton Evans, editor of the Indianapolis News and chairman of ACU. Evans said "there is a spurt of rebellion" and "a great deal of disaffection toward the Republican Party among conservatives but he did not know if a third party would be backed by a majority.

The conference will adopt resolutions Sunday and there was word that some effort will be made to call for creation of a new party despite some misgivings by staunch Republicans who do not wish to abandon the GOP.

Gas price increase predicted

MIAMI (UPI) — Gasoline prices will climb to 75 cents a gallon by mid-summer and even higher later in the year, President Ford's proposed 33-barrel oil import tax is approved, Interior Secretary Rogers Morton says.

Morton, who stopped here Thursday while touring the country to promote the President's energy program, said in an interview motorists will begin to feel the price increases by April 1.

Morton said the 15-to-20-cent-a-gallon hikes will reduce oil imports by about 600,000 barrels a day. The remaining 400,000-barrel reduction sought by Ford will come from substituting of domestic energy supplies, he said.

Morton said plans to lease 10 million acres of offshore Atlantic Ocean bottom for oil exploration have been held up by opposition from coastal states, but Interior officials are proceeding with plans to lease more than 1 million acres in the Gulf of Mexico. Oil companies are interested in more than 6 million acres off the Northwest Florida gulf coast and part of that area is expected to be put up for bids in December.

ERA rescinder's fate hangs on speaker's rule

BOISE (UPI) — Members of the House Judiciary Committee handed Speaker Allan F. Larsen, R-Blackfoot, a no-soon-to-be-vaunted today — a parliamentary ruling on the fate of the Equal Rights Amendment rescinder.

Eg. Larsen, an opponent of the ERA and yet a speaker who says he wants to be fair to the entire House, it could be a decision that puts him between a rock and a hard place.

Cutting three days of debate on a foreigner's committee, the committee voted 8-4 Thursday that it takes a two-thirds majority to rescind a prior ratification of a U.S. constitutional amendment.

A minority report drafted by Rep. Ralph J. Gines, R-Nampa, contends it takes only a simple majority to rescind the ratification.

If the rescinder ever reaches the floor, Larsen must choose between the two. Should he go for the minority report his ruling could be challenged and, possibly, overturned.

When the measure rescinding the ERA first was introduced the printing committee questioned its form — a concurrent resolution requiring only simple majority approval.

With the committee's concurrence Rep. Peggy Dumit, R-Twin Falls, asked the Judiciary Committee for a ruling.

While the printing committee awaited a decision sponsors of the resolution dragged it to the desk and, mustering the necessary 32 votes, forced its printing. Larsen, who voted to print the measure, then referred it to the Judiciary Committee.

Judiciary Chairman Ed Rice, R-Boise said Larsen and the chairman of Printing and State Affairs Committees all orally asked him to get an advisory opinion from his committee.

State Affairs is supposed to consider the resolution next Monday. At that time the majority and minority reports from Judiciary should be in the committee's hands.

Should the committee decide the majority is right and hang onto the resolution, proponents of rescission then could try to drag it to the floor. If they are successful, opponents of rescinding ERA could then ask the speaker to rule if the rescinder is in proper form.

Because it appears highly unlikely those who want to rescind can muster a two-thirds majority, it is in their best interests to seek concurrences with the minority report.

And that could set the stage for a matter that could shake the very foundation of Larsen's power structure in the house.

If he rules in favor of the majority report he must go against his conscience as an opponent of the ERA. But if he rules for the minority report he can be accused of letting personal feelings influence his decision on House procedure — a serious breach of his responsibilities.

There may be one out: If someone else is in the chair when the fur starts to fly and that person, as Speaker Pro Tem, is forced to make the decision.

Solons mull office pay proposal

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate State Affairs Committee was to consider today a bill giving state legislators $6,000 a year to maintain a "legislative office."

The bill provides for voter approval of the pay.

Eliminated by the proposed "allowance increase" would be the present $35 a day received by lawmakers while in session and $3 a day the rest of the year to cover out-of-pocket legislative expenses.

The bill would not affect the constitutionally established $10 a day salary which is paid during the first 60 days of the session.

The increase, which would nearly double what legislators presently receive, would not go into effect until the 1977 legislature after each member would have had to stand for election and the referendum approved by the voters in the 1975 general election.

House GOP's accept pay increases in $ figures

BOISE (UPI) — House Republicans have spirited the legislature toward adjournment by agreeing to a leadership proposal that spells out state employees pay hikes in dollars instead of percentages.

Caucus Chairman Elaine Kearnes, R-Idaho Falls, reported after a two-hour closed-door meeting Thursday that the majority of the Republican House members favor the proposal.

Speaker Allan F. Larsen, R-Blackfoot, said the resolution establishing the amount of money to be spent on pay raises would be drafted and then introduced in the House, probably by the Appropriations Committee.

Senate Majority Leader Phil Batt, R-Wildier, said he felt the Senate Republicans would buy the proposal if and when it reached the upper house. Larsen said he felt he has enough GOP votes in the House to pass it even if Democrats remain firmly against it.

Democrats, in their House caucus, agreed to support 100 per cent the governor's proposal for reallocation of state employee pay grades plus a 7 1/2 per cent, across-the-board hike for all state employees.

"This is more than twice what the Republicans approved in their proposal for cost-of-living raises."

In dollar terms, the Republican proposal calls for $1,618,000 in general fund money for reallocation and $2,390,000 for cost of living raises.

"This is the same — in total dollar amounts — as the 3 1/2 per cent cost-of-living raise plus reallocation which the Senate Republicans suggested earlier, but the House GOP rejected."

However, many members of the GOP House Caucus believe it will be easier to explain to their constituents that they put $4 million in general fund money into state employee pay hikes than to mention reallocation and a 3 1/2 per cent increase for cost of living.

Mrs. Kearnes said Appropriations Chairman William Roberts, R-Boise, told the caucus that when the reallocations and the cost-of-living raises are put together, they amount to an overall pay increase of 8.26 per cent.

Larsen was optimistic about this session finishing its work in 60 days or less. He said the Joint Finance — Appropriations Committee had been working along while the GOP wrestled with the pay increase problem, and the committee simply will plug those figures into the appropriations.

Should the Senate Republicans change their minds, however, it would be a new ball game.

"If they change their minds over there again we've got real problems," the speaker said.

Hindrance hit

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, warned colleagues Thursday the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee must have legislative guidance in the new few days on pay increases for state employees or it can't get out the appropriations on time.

"If we can't come to grips with the problem in the next two or three days," High said, "we can't have the appropriations bills out by the 45th day."

By statute, the committee, of which High is co-chairman, has until the 45th day to complete action on the appropriation bills. However, the committee is being hindered "because the legislature has not provided it with the amount of a pay increase that will be given state employees."

Option hearing set

BOISE (UPI) — The House Local Government Committee will hold a public hearing at 7 p.m. Feb. 25 in the Statehouse on bills to provide for optional forms of county government.

A house joint resolution would amend the state constitution to add a new section which provides for optional forms of county government.

A house concurrent resolution would direct the legislative council to study and hold hearings on proposed optional forms of county government.

Those wishing to testify can make arrangements through the House Local Government committee in the Statehouse, Boise.

Alternate energy sources draw eye

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Thursday he will be watching to see that every effort is made to develop alternate energy sources during hearings of the interior subcommittee he heads.

The hearings of the energy research and water resources subcommittee are scheduled March 3-6 on the proposed authorization bill for the energy research and development administration. The hearings will be in Washington.

"These hearings will be the first time the Senate Interior Committee will have a chance to review the new Energy Research and Development Administration budget," Church said. "As chairman of the subcommittee, I intend to scrutinize this budget to make certain that every effort is being made to develop alternative sources of energy."

Church said if the nation is ever to become energy self sufficient, "then we must not be timid about contemplating and developing new energy sources."

Review OK'd

BOISE (UPI) — Two bills providing for interim legislative review of agency rules and regulations and their uniform publication and indexing passed the Idaho Senate Thursday.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus vetoed similar legislation last year.

The bill authorizing publication and distribution of rules had little trouble and was approved 33-0. The other measure, however, touched off a flurry of debate before finally passing 24-11. The bills now go to the House.

Manning asks quick move on funds

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's transportation chief warned Thursday the state had better act fast if it wants to receive up to $42.3 million in federal highway grants.

Transportation Director Darrell Manning told the Senate Transportation committee the minute the legislature appropriates $5.8 million in matching funds, the state could receive the $42.3 million, including $23 million previously impounded.

But he said there should be swift action because the federal dollars are provided on a first-come, first-serve basis and Idaho's share may end up in another state.

Manning said the $2 million in impounded funds released by President Ford earlier in the week would be available within 45 days.

He said the administration also was releasing early 1976 highway money for the same purpose and Idaho could quickly immediately for $19.3 million.

Manning is asking for $10 million from the 1974-75 fiscal year general fund surplus to fund a $4.2 million road betterment program and match the federal monies.

Idaho's maximum share of the 1976 early release money actually would be $40 million but the state has only $42.3 million worth of project contracts ready, including the $23 million from impounded funds.

How to give till it helps

There are some who think we're only after money, when we say, "Give till it helps!"

Money is indeed important when you're called on to help millions upon millions of people every year. But money isn't everything.

3,114,743 people helped us last year by donating blood, for instance.

And there are hundreds of other jobs to be done. Everything from rescuing older people from the sea of loneliness. To helping to feed and house families after a disaster.

Many people can't give us all the money they'd like to. But there's hardly anybody who can't lend us a hand in some way.

Learn how you can give till it helps. Call your local American Red Cross chapter.

Today wouldn't be a bit too soon.

Butz says he doesn't want support rate hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz said today he doesn't want to raise support rates for major crops this year, and he doesn't think an increase is needed to assure heavy food production.

Butz declined in an interview, however, to flatly rule out the possibility of an eventual compromise with farm bloc leaders who want higher supports to encourage increased food supplies.

"In a poker game, the dealer doesn't show his hand," Butz said.

The secretary's comments came as the Senate Agriculture Committee prepared to wind up this week its scheduled public hearings on an overhaul of the basic 1973 farm support law. Chairman Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., and other farm bloc spokesmen say they want their pending new bill to include increases in 1975 support target prices for crops including wheat, corn and cotton.

Butz's bill, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., would raise the wheat target from the presently scheduled $2.05 a bushel to $3.70. The corn target would be pushed from $1.38 a bushel to $2.51, and the cotton rate from 38 cents a pound to 68 cents.

McGovern and others backing increases say there have been sharp jumps in farm production costs since the scheduled 1975 targets were set by a 1973 law. As a result, they say target hikes are needed now to protect farmers in case big crops send market prices down this fall. Some farmers have threatened to hold down grain production this year unless support floors are raised to minimize their risks.

Coyote carcasses spark solon scrap

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Utah's shepherds, sportsmen and conservationists scrapped Wednesday over the carcass of an coyote.

All agreed predator control was necessary to protect the state's livestock industry—but not on who should be in charge.

More than a dozen witnesses, including the sponsors of a pair of conflicting bills, testified along ecological, ecological and often emotional lines at a two-hour hearing of the Natural Resources and Agriculture Committees of the Utah House and Senate.

Rep. Charles E. Bennett, D-Salt Lake, urged placing predator control under the auspices of the Division of Wildlife Resources on grounds that agency should manage all wildlife "to maintain the balance of nature."

Sen. Robert Clyde, R-Herber City, defended his bill to keep control in the Agriculture Department and increasing the bounties paid on coyotes and other predators, saying, "too many people are bleeding for the coyote, and not for his victims."

The two committees squeezed into the state of the State Office Building Auditorium while about 250 persons jammed the hall to hear arguments by the proponents of both bills. The committees took no action.

"I'm not sure stockmen will profit from their bill," warned Lamar Farnsworth, director of Salt Lake City's Eagle Zoo.

"It is unwise to eradicate the predator population from any area. The result is a population explosion among rodents, rabbits and deer—which destroy the forage and drive out livestockmen," he said.

Supporters of Bennett's bill also questioned the current methods of control, the bounty

"boondoggle," and sheepmen's claims about the extent of predator damage.

Clyde accused them of making "an emotional appeal" about the methods of control—such as poisons and traps—when the "tools" to be used aren't mentioned either bill.

"Wildlife Resources is not going to control predators without hurting them," he said. "I'd like to see those who bleed for the coyote bleed for their victims."

He then described in bloody detail lambs with their throats cut, or their entrails dragging on the ground, and ewes with their udders ripped off by predators.

Louise Johnson, a spokeswoman for the Council on Utah Resources, attacked the broad definitions of predators in Clyde's bill, saying it "covered every animal in Utah—including man."

"This bill would be an open checkbook to eradicate any species deemed detrimental to agriculture," he said. Johnson also criticized bounties, saying they were paid to sportsmen who would kill coyotes anyway and out-of-state hunters who brought pelts into Utah to collect the reward.

Eugene Bostak of the Utah Audubon Society also questioned expansion of bounties, saying "from the multitude of research data available there is not one shred of evidence to indicate that the bounty system does anything but increase private income from the take of pelts at the expense of the taxpayer."

"The Utah Wildlife & Outdoor Recreation Federation, Utah Humane Society and the Tiger Lilies also testified for Bennett's bill.

Farmers confused, USDA aides claim

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farmers at the moment are confused, uncertain and fearful of the future, according to two Agriculture Department advisory committees.

Glenn Weir, associate administrator of the department's agricultural stabilization and conservation service, said the nervousness about future price prospects, emerged strongly in meetings Wednesday with advisory committees composed of leaders of the grain and cotton growers and allied industry.

"The uncertainty is the most pronounced I've seen," Weir said. He said many grain area spokesmen fear recent price declines for their crops are the forerunner of a collapse like that experienced recently by cotton. The market price of cotton has dropped to below the production costs of some growers.

Weir said many advisory committee members indicated hopes that government support prices could be set to guarantee protection at "cost of production" floors. But he said none of the members directly recommended increases in supports.

Administration officials are taking a "hard line" against raising supports, Weir said, even though some farmers have begun talking about cutting 1975 output if they don't get stronger price protection.

Weir said some committee members recommended restoration of price support

Feed grain available

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, says an emergency livestock feed program for Bear Lake County will make grain available at reduced prices.

McClure said Wednesday the emergency program is needed "to relieve feed shortages caused by a number of factors, including serious and continued drought conditions experienced during the summer growing season, and early fall frosts."

He said the grain would help forestall liquidation of livestock herds.

The feed program becomes operative in counties where the Agriculture Department determines severe drought, flood or similar conditions have reduced feed supplies to the point where assistance is required to help eligible farmers maintain and preserve livestock.

Final AI class set

TWIN FALLS — The final class for the current school year on artificial insemination of cattle begins Monday at the College of Southern Idaho.

Herschel Boydston, agricultural director, said the class will continue through Feb. 20 and will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day.

Cost of the course is $15 per person.

Export goal pushed

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Bean Commission says it will continue working to provide the state's bean industry with overseas outlets through in-state bean dealers.

The commission Wednesday discussed the one-day export seminar put on for bean dealers in Twin Falls last week, and said it was a great success.

But Harold Brown, dealer member of the bean commission, said the "somewhat indifferent attitude toward exporting expressed by many dealers after the Twin Falls session was disappointing."

The commission agreed to continue efforts to develop interest among Idaho dealers, in response to the increasing number of inquiries expressing interest in Idaho's high quality, low moisture beans.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our whole family is in a turmoil because, after 52 years of marriage, our father has left our mother. They used to have their fights over the years but we never thought it would come to this.

Dad left Mother to go and live with a 63-year-old nurse he met three years ago when he was in the hospital. Dad is 74, and Mother is 73. Mother is so humiliated, she hasn't been out of the house since Dad left.

...What do you think of this mess? How can we get Dad to come to his senses and go back to Mother? It's the talk of the town.

DISGRACED

Nurse wheels dad away

"DEAR DISGRACED: Stay out of it. And you needn't feel "disgraced." A person can disgrace only himself.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old widow, not unattractive. A middle-aged physician (divorced) invited me to dinner at his home.

When I arrived, he fixed a cocktail, then the phone rang. I could talk by his conversation with a woman. And she was a 30 minute! I sat quietly sipping my drink while he talked for 30 minutes! When he finally returned, he resumed the conversation with me, making no apologies for leaving me alone for so long.

About ten minutes later a car drove up in front of his house and stopped. He said: "Let me see who that is." Then he went outside.

When he didn't return in 20 minutes, I took my wrap and went outside to tell my host I was leaving. He was standing by the car, talking to a lady who apparently had come to see him.

I said: Good night. I am going home." The lady immediately drove off. My host insisted that I go back into the house. I did, but only because I wanted to tell him off for his rudeness to me. Before I had a chance to say anything, he told ME off for having "embarrassed" him by coming outside.

Was I wrong? How would you have handled it?

MISTREATED

DEAR MISTREATED: You were not wrong. I would have handled it much the same as you. Only I'd have said my goodbyes immediately after my host returned from his 30-minute telephone conversation.

DEAR ABBY: I never miss your column. It's a kick to read about some of the stupid problems some of those fools who write to you come up with. I'm amazed at the number of women who write to say they're afraid of losing their husbands to another woman.

That's the last thing I'm worried about. I say: "The woman who steals my husband steals my troubles."

NOT WORRIED

DEAR NOT: If that's the way you feel about your husband, why don't you just turn him loose, so there will be one less potential thief in the world?

DEAR ABBY: About the woman who always mentions the fact that one of her three children was adopted: One shouldn't be so quick to criticize her. Perhaps she was wanted to publicly announce the fact that, although she is the mother of three children, she brought only two into the world; and because she adopted the third, she is not guilty of adding to the world's overpopulation.

JUST THINKING

DEAR JUST: Thanks for thinking of an angle I didn't think of.

Local DAV chapter seeks MV talent

TWIN FALLS—The local chapter of the Disabled American Veterans is looking for talent among Magic Valley high school and junior high students.

Commander Keith Johnson, Twin Falls, said that the group is sponsoring a student talent show March 20 at 7 p.m. at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Building. Tickets are $1.50 and are available from members—and from—high schools and junior high schools in the valley.

Each school has been asked to select a talent act (either an individual or a group of six students or less) which will play at the March 29 show at CSI.

Participants in the show will travel to Boise to perform at the Veterans Hospital there, Johnson said. "If this works out," he said, "we'll like to put talent shows in every veterans hospital in the country." Other DAV groups are watching the local chapter where the idea of talent shows for VA hospitals originated, Johnson said.

The cost of the tickets will defray expenses of renting the auditorium, busing students to Boise and other costs, according to Johnson.

Dinner is by reservation only. Reservations must be made no later than Monday by calling 733-9238 Twin Falls, or 324-5374, Jerome.

Book Review

By MAREDA WRIGHT
Twin Falls Public Library

"The Mysterious Corn" is a book which has combined the sciences of agriculture, archaeology and botany into an interesting search for one of man's most valuable foods.

Charles Darwin in his search for the theories of evolution raised the question of maize. In his travels he had never seen a wild corn plant.

Darwin's theory of evolution plants can evolve only if they are able to survive and among the varieties he had seen, not one was able to survive.

Without man's help it could not scatter seed to produce new plants year after year.

Knowing that men had not always been farmers, corn must have been a different plant which could scatter seed and grow wild. His interest was aroused and so were others carrying enough oxygen for astronauts to breathe during long moon voyages. Taking plants along may be the answer. "Corn may be the first plant on the moon."

Dr. Paul C. Mangelsdorf had a theory which eventually proved the origin of maize. During the time he was trying to prove his theory, he got involved with archaeologists who were excavating caves. From their diggings they found small corn cobs and through carbon-14 dating (measures the radioactive carbon and polynology (a study of pollen), in Mexico City, his theory was proven correct.

All of these investigations have increased man's understanding of corn's past. Understanding can lead to further improvements of what is already the most useful plant in the world. Work improving corn continues for the farmer and his hybrid seed, but products of maize have found their way into a multitude of industrial products used everyday.

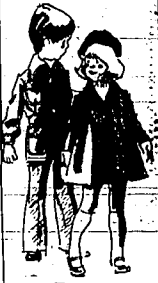

The corn-product industry has only begun to exploit the uses of the plant. One of the examples is in the chemical makeup of cornstarch which is similar to petroleum; maize may be turned into automobile fuel.

Another kind of corn may solve a space travel problem,

Constipation tips given by doctor

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, 18, has been bothered with constipation most of his life. He has been to the doctor who can find no reason for it. He drinks juices and takes laxatives. — Mrs. E.D.C.

Constipation in young people is often due to faulty habits at stool or in eating. Also, "constipation" is sometimes a matter of a person's improper notion of just what it is. Some folks think they are constipated if there is not a daily movement. Not so. A relative of mine had one movement a week and he lived to a ripe age with no difficulties.

Body build can be a factor. Tall, lean individuals may have sluggish movements.

If there is true constipation an X-ray of the colon might show abnormally size or a partial obstruction.

The bowel is stimulated to act by stool accumulation in the lower portions, and if the urge is not heeded, the reflex mechanism can be thrown out of kilter along with the rhythmic movement of the intestinal walls.

To maintain proper bowel rhythm, meals should be taken regularly (teenagers note) and at least three a day. The type of food is important. There should be sufficient bulk in the diet—as from fruits and vegetables.

Water is necessary to keep the bowel content moist. Juices are fine, but have no bulk, although prunes juice is a pleasant, helpful laxative. Whole prunes, apples, bananas, as well as celery and lettuce and other vegetables are excellent bulk producers.

Timing is important. A glass of cold water on arising can stimulate the intestines into initiating a bowel movement, thus beginning a regular daily timetable.

Your Good Health

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Movement may be initiated by bland laxatives such as milk of magnesia, a castorca preparation, or mineral oil. Every other day is fine enough, and the laxatives should be discontinued when regularity is achieved.

Perhaps a commercial bulk-producing preparation can be prescribed by your son's doctor. In severe cases, movement is hastened by insertion of a glycerin suppository.

Harsh laxatives, such as certain salts, tend to irritate the bowel and add to the problem: If a movement is provoked this way, it can empty the colon for two, even three days, leading to a false impression of constipation.

Be sure your son isn't on this kind of a program.

Even at 18, your son could benefit from instruction in proper bowel habits. You are right to be concerned. If he doesn't correct this, he may have the problem the rest of his life.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor put me on fluid pills to prevent my legs and feet from swelling so badly. That was about two years ago.

He told me to drink plenty of juices, especially orange juice, to prevent my body from becoming too low on potassium. What are the side effects of not having enough potassium in your system? — Mrs. L.H.

Low blood potassium levels (hypokalemia) cause muscle weakness, constipation and a drop in blood pressure, particularly when standing.

In your case, the low potassium levels may have resulted from the diuretic drugs used to reduce fluid retention in your legs and feet. Such drugs can cause a loss of potassium through the urine.

If the diuretic is correcting the fluid retention, then the juices would restore the potassium being eliminated, and your balance should stabilize.

AFS seeks home in TF

TWIN FALLS—The American Field Service in Twin Falls is looking for a home for an exchange student for 1975-76.

Judy Baxter, representative of the organization, said interested persons should contact Doris Watts at the Twin Falls High School before Tuesday. The student would reside with a Twin Falls family for a year beginning in August.

The only requirement, she said, is for the family hosting the exchange student to have at least one high school student in the family. At this time the American Field Service does not know from which country the student will come or the age, sex or other details.

This year a young lady from Costa Rica attended the Twin Falls High School under the AFS program.

Jerome survey nearly 50 per cent complete

By CHARLOTTE BELL Times-News writer

JEROME — Charles L'Harrison said Tuesday a special survey is being conducted in Jerome to determine what improvements are desired by city and area residents.

L'Harrison told members of the Jerome Chamber of Commerce Transportation Committee, officials of the Idaho Department of Highways, Idaho Department of Transportation, Jerome Highway District and City Council, "We are also conducting a survey of local merchants, which is over 50 per cent complete. Part of the questions, which have been asked of the consumers, deal with traffic and parking and improving the downtown area."

L'Harrison and John T. Stelle III, members of the transportation committee, have requested technical assistance with evaluation of traffic problems in and around downtown Jerome.

L'Harrison said that with 50 per cent of the resident survey complete, 50 per cent of consumers and merchants feel that removing heavy through traffic in downtown Jerome would benefit shoppers. The other 50 per cent felt the problem was not serious yet, according to L'Harrison.

Stelle said the meeting was called mainly because merchants feel any changes to roads in and around the town should be made before any major improvements to the downtown shopping area are started.

L'Harrison said the survey shows that 60 per cent of the consumers and 80 per cent of the merchants feel traffic should be slowed on Lincoln and Main. He also said 85 to 90 per cent of the consumers and 80 per cent of the merchants want crosswalks in downtown

Keith Longenecker, Idaho Transportation Department, Boise, said the city has not been told to make an Urban D study, but in order to receive the funds (estimated at $60,000) for Jerome, an urban development plan would be needed.

He said the plan would designate an Urban D road system with boundaries, identifying roads in Jerome heavily used by urban traffic and including projected figures of growth for these roads and needed improvements.

Longenecker said the Urban D federal funds will replace secondary funds. He said the Urban D funds would be channeled to the city through the highway department and that the money could only be used for approved construction projects on designated Urban D roads.

Pat Wilson, Jerome Highway District, presented a proposed truck route, with truck traffic coming in from State Highway 93 to State Highway 25 routed north and south on the two-mile road.

Truck traffic would go two miles north, west four miles and back south two miles.

Truck driver buried in trash

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Herbert L. Stewart, 38, a trash truck driver, he asked friends he wanted to commit suicide. He ended them to bury him alive.

They wouldn't do it.

His body was found buried under debris in a city dump Wednesday.

Police said they were still trying to determine the cause of Stewart's death, and whether it was suicide. He was last seen Saturday when he brought his truck to a landfill dump to empty it. At the end of the day, the empty truck was there, but Stewart could not be found.

Fellow workers, who told police Stewart had once asked them to bury him alive in his car, searched for days through 2,500 cubic yards of trash before finding his body.

Park funds granted

TWIN FALLS — The cities of Wendell and Ketchum have been granted more than $3,000 from the Federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation to develop city parks.

The grants, which are both 50 per cent matching fundings, were made by Pacific Northwest Region recreation bureau as part of the Land and Water Conservation Fund, according to Idaho State Park and Recreation board member Merle Allison.

The grant is being used to develop McChesin Park in Wendell and Ketchum City

Lincoln contract let

SHOSHONE — Lincoln County commissioners have awarded a $8,437.74 contract for construction of rest rooms and shower facilities at the weed department building.

Steven McClure and Jerry Padgett were the sole bidders. They will install a septic tank, construct the rest room area to specifications and do electrical wiring.

Frank Shaffer was awarded the contract for painting two rooms of the assessor's office for a bid of $151.80. McClure and Padgett bid $222.

Mrs. Jay McClure, county clerk, had the contractor of a new subdivision in the Dietrich area has not planned the area. She said any time five deeds have been in an area a plat is required. The contractor has failed to comply with requests for a plat, Mrs. McClure said. The county attorney was asked to handle the problem.

Ward Mills, chairman of the county commissioners, administered the sale of office to Mrs. Jewell E. Ware, deputy assessor.

Mrs. McClure reported $1,404.30 was collected in January for district court fines and fees and $277.40 in recording fees for the clerk's office.

Commissioners signed an ambulance service subsidy agreement with Francis Bergin. He will be paid $500 per month during 1975 for transporting county patients by ambulance within a 50-mile radius. His monthly subsidy could be increased to $550 if the legislature changes the law.

Switchover Saturday

KIMBERLY — Today is the last day of operation for the Kimberly sewer plant.
On Saturday the switchover to the interceptor line which will connect the Kimberly sewage system to the Twin Falls trunk line is expected. The event culminates a project several years in the planning.
Kimberly residents approved a $100,000 revenue bond issue in November, 1972, for construction of the trunk line, which was also financed by an EPA grant.

Saturday program canceled

TWIN FALLS — The gymnastics program of the Twin Falls City Recreation Department scheduled for Saturday will be canceled for this week only.
Chad Browning, recreation director, said the cancellation was necessary due to the state wrestling tournament here this weekend.

Prisoner 'takes walk'

TWIN FALLS — City police in Twin Falls are looking for a prisoner who walked away from city jail Thursday afternoon following an interview with his attorney.
Detective Capt. Tim Qualls said John Lee Hanson, 39, from Oregon, was arrested Wednesday night and charged with two felony counts of forgery. Thursday afternoon he was taken from the cell to talk with his defense attorney and disappeared following the interview.

Post office bids open

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Postal Service has called for bids on a new main post office in Ririe, Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, announced.
The facility will consist of 1,828 square feet of interior space with 11,700 square feet of parking area. Bids will be opened March 10.

Arrest reported

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls police arrested a 39-year-old man Wednesday on a charge of cashing a check without sufficient funds in the bank.
John Lee Hanson, address unknown, was arrested Wednesday afternoon in the parking lot of a Twin Falls supermarket after having allegedly cashed a bad check with a previous party who reported the incident to police.
According to chief of detectives Tim Qualls, Hanson was being held today in the Twin Falls city jail pending further investigation.

Painting stolen

TWIN FALLS — Three Twin Falls artists know their talent is appreciated by someone.
Charles Upton, director of the Twin Falls YMCA, told city police Thursday someone took seven paintings from a display at the Y. The paintings were hung in the building's lobby as part of the February exhibit.
Taken were two paintings by Gladys Holmes, including a scene of the Teton Mountains and a red floral painting; two paintings by Sade Kartum, including a seashell painting and a scene of Swan Lake, and three paintings by Gladys Thompson. Her work included a floral still life, one of fall colors and another of a mountain lake scene.

75-year sentence given

SANDPOINT, Idaho (UPI) — William Morgen, freed from the Bonner County Jail by armed friends last year, has been sentenced to 75 years in prison after pleading guilty to kidnapping and armed robbery.
Morgen, 29, was flown to the state prison in Boise immediately following his court appearance Thursday.
Morgen was being held on a parole violation July 22 when two men freed him at gunpoint. He was accused of then kidnapping and robbing a California man and his son about a week later near Clark Fork, Idaho.

Judge voids proceeding

BOISE, (UPI) — U.S. District Court Judge J. Blaine Anderson has voided a 27-year-old condemnation proceeding on the basis that the Bureau of Reclamation illegally assumed ownership of property belonging to the YMCA on Cascade Lake.
The YMCA received the property in 1921 as a gift. The government in 1946 condemned the land.
The organization found that it no longer owned the property when it started making plans to use the 80 acres of flat, pine covered land for a camp.
Anderson ruled there had been no due process because the government did not serve proper notice to the YMCA when it took over the property.
YMCA attorney Calvin Dvornsak said the issue of whether the YMCA should get the property back or receive adequate compensation will be decided at a later court session.

Boise businessman sentenced

BOISE (UPI) — Boise businessman Richard C. Parsell has been sentenced to three years in prison and fined $1,500 after his conviction on two counts of income tax evasion.
The prison term was suspended, said Parsell was ordered to serve 90 days in Ada County Jail and to serve three years' probation.
U.S. Attorney Mike Williams said Parsell attempted to evade a substantial amount of taxes during 1968 and 1969.
Federal Judge L. Blaine Anderson handed down the sentence.

Blaine aides ask review

HAILEY — The Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission is asking elected officials to review alleged non-cooperation by Sawtooth National Recreation Area personnel.
A letter has been sent to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, Sen. Frank Church and several state representatives listing alleged SNRA violations of the new county comprehensive plan.
The letter contends the SNRA has proceeded with plans to construct a headquarters complex at the mouth of the North Fork Canyon with blatant disregard for public opinion and local agencies.
The letter states general opinion expected "the proposed project would be one commensurate to the usually accepted life style of forest service architecture, not a palatial structure to house a mere 42 full-time employees."
Gray Reynolds, SNRA supervisor, has said since Reynold's the project would continue because underground sewer and water pipes have already been installed.
The letter contends that to allow the project to proceed on those grounds is "deleterious to the idea of democracy."
The planning and zoning commission asks the forest service to obtain public opinion on the location, justification of need and cost effectiveness of the structure. "The new headquarters project violates every basis for planning that this county has utilized in developing its master plan," the letter says.
The proposed project site is about seven miles north of Ketchum and the building is to be about 15,000 square feet in size.
Reynolds says there seems to be a complete credibility gap between the SNRA and the planning and zoning commission. He said the commission has some of its facts wrong.
Reynolds said the proposed headquarters and visitor complex will be 12,000 square feet rather than 15,000. He estimated the cost at between $300,000 and $700,000 and not the "multi-million dollar expense" the commission contends it will be.
The planning commission also questions whether the building meets the Uniform Building Code and states "It is definitely in violation of the county's building height limitations."

Avalanche damages home at Hailey; boys saved

HAILEY — An avalanche ripped out a wall of a Hailey home Thursday. In addition, three Ketchum boys were rescued from a potential avalanche zone after being stranded on Bald Mountain Thursday.
Electrical power that was off from 1:30 a.m. Thursday has been restored to Blaine County except for a few outlying ranches in the Carey area. Power had been off from Ketchum to Carey.
Earl Paige, local Idaho Power manager, said a transformer in the fairway at Sun Valley was hit by a grader about 8 p.m. Thursday, leaving some Sun Valley residents without power until about 2 a.m. today.
A 13-inch wet snowfall Wednesday broke transmission lines and cut telephone service completely in Fairfield and Hailey.
Mountain Bell Hailey plant manager Phil Warner said 50 per cent of the telephone service south of Bellevue was out Thursday. Most of the service has been restored, temporarily, he said.
Police departments have reported no major accidents, although residents are complaining of stranded cars in the city as well as on county roads, Sheriff Orville Drexler said.
Schools in the district were closed Thursday, but have reopened. One bus was struck early this morning at the Clarendon Hot Springs turn around. Avalanche warnings had been posted on Warm Springs road, forcing the bus to turn around at The Prospector Drive-In.
A snow slide on the eastern side of Carbonate Mountain just north of Hailey ripped through the west side of a house owned by Joe O'Neal at about 11 a.m. Thursday. The slide crossed Big Wood River and entered the O'Neal home which is situated about 100 feet from the river. No one was inside the house and no injuries were reported. The slide left 5 to 10 feet of snow in the living room.
Three Ketchum youths were stranded on cliffs north of the River Run Thursday evening. The Sun Valley Ski Patrol rescued the youths after residents in the area heard their cries for help about 6:30 p.m.
The Ski Patrol lowered ropes from above the stranded youths and pulled them up, according to Ski Patrol officials.
The boys were skiing Lower College and instead of following the cut track, thought they knew a short cut to get to River Run. They skied right up to a cliff in an avalanche zone. They said they thought they should stay and wait for help rather than try to get down by themselves and possibly cause an avalanche.
The rescue was completed at about 8 p.m.

TF zone panel approves Buhl Snake subdivision

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County zoning Thursday night recommended approval of a 30-acre subdivision on the Snake River north of Buhl.
The developer, Richard Kaster, plans to split the Melon Valley tract into 19 lots of one acre or more and get up a small park along the shoreline.
The housing proposal, called Oregon Trail subdivision, sparked some dissent at the regular zoning meeting.
She also pointed out the "precedent-setting effect" of approving a housing development along the Snake River since the area is currently zoned for recreational purposes. Subdivisions are permitted as a conditional use.
Leo Ray, who owns property near the proposed subdivision, said he did not oppose the development but cited several problems that it might cause.
He said the road to the area would have to be widened if it receives a heavier traffic load and it could disturb wildlife on a nearby Snake River island. He also pointed out that well water in the area has a high fluoride content which could prevent domestic use.
City-county planning director David Ritchey recommended disapproval of the development for many of the same reasons. He cited possible damage to aesthetics in the area, possible pollution from septic tanks and increased costs to local governments for upkeep of public facilities.
Ritchey's advice, which he said served as an example of what he had to offer all zoning panels in the county, was attacked by zoner L. James Koutnik.
Koutnik, an avowed opponent of Ritchey and his land use planning concepts, claimed the planner's presentation was "a sabotage of these gentlemen's project," referring to spokesmen for Kaster.
He said Ritchey's recommendation appeared to be an official action by the county zoning staff, when it was actually an example of what he could do if requested.
Ritchey countered by pointing out that his statement was "not under the guise of any other organization or individual."
"I identified it as an example of what the planning staff could do," Ritchey said.

Budget approved

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — County commissioners approved the $8.8 million 1975 Twin Falls County budget Thursday afternoon with no changes from the tentative budget.

The new spending figure was nearly one third above current levels.
Ann Cover, commissioner, said the action was taken Thursday afternoon as there had been no taxpayers comment on the budget figures since Monday. Originally the county had announced plans to continue public hearings through Friday.

Mrs. Cover said throughout the week there have been no protests to various phases of the budget although a number of persons met with the commissioners Monday to take questions.

She said commissioners feel the budget, which is up 9 per cent, reflects no extravagance. The improvement program to bring the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital up to standard and to provide additional patient space constitutes most of the $2.09 million increase this year.

Aside from the hospital, she said, the budget provides generally for cost of living increases and higher prices the county must pay for services and material.
Salaries, which constitute about 52 per cent of the regular county budget, increased this year.

Mrs. Cover said each department head was given $500 per year more per employee and the department head will determine the increases for each employee, depending on the length of service, demands of the job and quality of work.

Some, she said will receive more than a $800 per year increase and some will receive less.
In the sheriff's department, additional salaries are also provided for parttime employees who will serve as night jailers. This is a safety precaution and space in the remodeling program was provided for a jailer on the fourth floor. In case of fire, injury or illness to a prisoner the jailer can communicate directly with the sheriff's office below.
The county also budgeted additional money for local waste but will be receiving new revenue from cities using sanitary landfills in the county.
Funds in the county fair budget are up about $500 for building improvements at the fairgrounds.

Revenue sharing in the county budget this year is $812,324.48, part of which is remaining from last year because of a two-year span for spending of each year's allocations. Mrs. Cover said this will be used as needed, plus the additional amount in the county judicial building with smaller amounts used for special projects.
A lump sum of $2,500 was given from revenue sharing money to the Humane Society for building improvements.

Mobile home issue eyed

Another proposal would establish a new zone designation especially for mobile homes. That plan would demand a complete survey of county land by the zoners, who then would draw up an "overlay" zone for "mobile homes." When completed the new zone would be applied over a county map, second floor on the county judicial building with smaller amounts used for special projects.
The final proposal would permit mobile home subdivisions in medium-density residential zones. In the Twin Falls City area, that would affect several large parcels of land, the largest being north and west of the College of Southern Idaho. Another large chunk lies south of Orchard Drive along Washington Street South.
Mobile home "parks" already are allowed in medium-density residential areas. The new plan would also permit mobile home "subdivisions."
"Parks" are developed by one person or agency, with lots zoned to mobile home owners.
"Subdivisions" lots are sold to and developed by individual owners, eliminating the big investment required of a "park" developer.

Tourney set

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho State Closed Chess Tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Y building.
Between 40 and 45 chess players from throughout Idaho are expected to attend. Play will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday. Three games are scheduled for Saturday and two for Sunday.
The tournament will be run in the Swiss style, according to Dr. Marvin Slope, member of the sponsoring Twin Falls Chess Club. This means after the first game players compete with another person with the same record of win or loss.
By the final game there will be only two people who have won all previous four games.
Players must belong to the US Chess Federation to enter the tournament, but they can join at the time of the meet, Dr. Slope said.

Praises, criticism heard on city tax proposal

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News Capitol Bureau
BOISE — A proposal to let cities establish any tax they choose drew strong praise and criticism Thursday night.
In public hearings before the House and Senate taxation committees supporters lauded the measure as bringing "more equity" to cities. They said it would bring an alternative to raising property taxes.
Opponents asserted the bill would bring chaos to tax collection, cause new taxes the consumer can ill-afford, and let just taxes be levied.
House Bill 80 would let cities adopt a sales tax, liquor by the drink tax, hotel tax, business tax or any other tax after approval by a simple majority of city residents.
Currently, cities are allowed only to levy property taxes in accord with a 1923 Supreme Court decision.

City officials showed up from around the state to support the measure. Businessmen, chamber of commerce spokesmen, and individuals speaking for themselves split on the issue, showing no clear blocks of support or opposition.
Speaking on behalf of Ketchum Mayor Bill Brand and Sun Valley Councilman Fred Judd, Rep. E. V. McFain, R-Ketchum, said in Ketchum a permanent population of 1,450 must support a population of 10,000 to 8,000 during winter and summer vacation times.
"The tax burden must be borne by small numbers of property owners in the city" even though everyone uses the services, McFain said. A tax on tourists would ease the situation for local residents, he said.
"I don't know of one thing of what we have in Boise or Washington, D.C., can do better than people at home," he said.

Speaking of the economic plight of the area, McFain said a 17.7 per cent unemployment rate prevails.
But upon questioning about how a sales tax and a high unemployment rate could be reconciled, he said that in a resort community there are a lot of "surt" bums, ski bums or whatnot" though the unemployment problem still exists.
"The fact is that Idaho cities do not have local control. Our cities are chained and restricted to the property tax," Weiser Mayor Bart Westburg said.
To meet inflation costs, cities can either raise property taxes further, go to the federal or state government for help or establish other taxes, he said. The idea behind the bill, he said, "is that elected city officials and city voters are intelligent enough to decide for themselves."
But Ted Eberle, Boise attorney, termed the proposal a "defective bill" without controls, without limitation and destructive of the goals of the tax system in Idaho.

"Only" the legislature has the overall viewpoint," Eberle said. Under the current system, he said, cities receive the bulk of the sales and gas tax revenues the state collects.
"If some cities were to impose a sales tax while other cities not impose it, a legislative move to raise this tax would be considered unfair by some, he said.
Eberle said the bill makes no provision for revoking a sales tax. He said the Boise Greater Chamber of Commerce opposes the bill.
Andy Purcell, Payette, said his town's city council members of commerce and local merchants are mostly against the bill.
Purcell said the city's needs are adequately provided by the property tax, but that there would be a "clear danger" that people might vote to levy a tax against a special group.

But Rupert Mayor Wendell Johnson said that raising the property tax will let city in the town would contribute to urban sprawl. He said other city taxes would let county folk pay for part of the services they share in.
"When times change, court decisions have to change," Idaho Falls City Attorney Art Smith said. He called the area's property taxes "intolerable," adding that "people are almost ready to abandon their homes in some places."
Other supporters said HB 80 should be passed and immediately be tested in the courts.
Max Yost, executive manager of the Association of Idaho Taxpayers, said that property taxes through the years have become a smaller portion of local government revenue, despite profit tax increases.

Ward heads Jets

NEW YORK (UPI) — Al Ward, who first made his name as a publicist for the old AFL, before rising to become vice president of administration with the Dallas Cowboys, Thursday was named the new general manager of the New York Jets to succeed retired Weeb Ewbank under a three-year contract.

Ward, who worked in New York in 1968 as the AFL's Director of Promotions before returning to Dallas to join the Cowboys, said, "I think the Jets job is among the best in football. It's not easy to leave an organization like the Cowboys, but this is very, very exciting."

Mill wins downhill

WENATCHEE, Wash. (UPI) — Andy Mill, Aspen, Colo., won the men's downhill Thursday at the U.S. National Alpine Skiing Championships with a combined time of 1:21.79 seconds for two runs.

Gull Blackburn, Brunswick, Maine, won the women's single run downhill with a time of 61.49 seconds.

Hill was followed by Greg Jones, South Lake Tahoe, Calif., with a time of 1:22.95. Dave Currier, Madison, N.H., was third in 1:22.98, Karl Anderson, Greene, Maine, was fourth in 1:23.34, and Cary Adgate, Boyne City, Mich., was fifth in 1:23.47.

Kim Mumford, Pulney, Vt., was second in the women's competition with a time of 62.60, and Becky Dorsay, Wenham, Mass., was third in 62.72. Susie Patterson, Sun Valley, Idaho, was fourth with a time of 63.20, and Leith Lende, Castle on Hudson, N.Y., was fifth in 63.50.

Sooners cut freebies

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI) — Courtesy football tickets to University of Oklahoma games were officially cut off Thursday for everyone except legislators, the congressional delegation and top state officials.

O.U. Regents adopted the new policy Thursday, citing economic reasons.

A university spokesman estimated it could produce additional income of $18,000 for a six-game home season and $15,700 for a five-game season. He estimated 525 season tickets were involved.

Buckeyes reinstated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Ohio State Coach Fred Taylor announced Thursday that four Buckeye's basketball players he suspended Monday will be reinstated Sunday.

Taylor said the four were suspended six days "for violation of training rules," but he would not elaborate on the reason.

Bradley beats Tulsa

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — Mike Davis and Bobby Humblets scored 21 points apiece Thursday night to lead Bradley to a 92-87 Missouri Valley Conference win over Tulsa in a game which saw nine players foul out and 62 personnel fouls called.

Bradley hit 11 of 12 free throws in the last 3 1/2 minutes of the game to hold off a Tulsa rally and move its overall record to 12-8, 5-5 in conference play.

Denver drops Utah

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Denver Nuggets scored 14 points from the foul line in the fourth quarter to down the Utah Stars 118-112 in an American Basketball Association game Thursday night.

The foul-plagued Stars gave up 30 points on free throws.

Utah's Ron Boone scored a professional career-high 40 points, 26 in the first half, but a balanced scoring attack by Denver and the free throws made the difference.

Irish win squeaker

NEW YORK (UPI) — Adrian Dantley, who was held to only 18 points, sank a pair of free throws with 1:48 left to play Thursday night to pull out a 68-67 Notre Dame victory over St. John's at Madison Square Garden.

Dantley, who has been averaging 31 points a game, gave St. John's a shot at the winning basket with a critical walking violation in the last minute and also missed a later one and one free throw opportunity which would have sewn up the victory for the Irish.

Louisville romps

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Seventh-ranked Louisville held Drake without a field goal for seven minutes midway through the second half Thursday night, and the Cardinals rolled to an 86-66 victory behind Allen Murphy's season-high 26 points.

The win boosted the Louisville's season mark to 17-2 and kept the Cardinals atop the Missouri Valley Conference standings with an 8-2 record. Drake fell to 11-9 overall and 4-4 in the conference.

CSI overpowers BYU jayvees 116-75

Smashing fastbreak

CRUMPLING Randy Hunt of CSI sends John Vanderveen of BYU sprawling during fast break action Thursday night. Hunt was called for a foul but CSI won 116-75.

College of Southern Idaho's Golden Eagles looked like the barnburners of December Thursday night as they slashed past the BYU Jayvees 116-75.

Celebrating a break into the top 10 in the national JC rankings, the Eagles went to their halfcourt trap defense and wilted the luckless Cougars. Ironically CSI trailed 16-7 five minutes into the game.

But once the Eagles went to the zone, it was nothing but a succession of aquala, and running plays. Within the next nine playing minutes the Eagles had swarmed into a 39-22 lead.

The Eagles, ranked 20th last week, burst into seventh place this time around and were fourth in national defense with a 59-point per game average.

Coach Boyd Grant said both items were emphasized during a team meeting earlier in the day and the squad decided to return to the defensive intensity it had shown in the early part of the season.

Meanwhile, the injury report indicates that sophomore Bob Durham will be out for at least 10 days and perhaps the remainder of the season. Bernard Boyd's hamstring pull still is a few days away from real testing.

The Eagles now take the rest of the week off, hosting the Idaho State Jayvees at 8 p.m. Thursday in the season finale.

BYU opened rebuttal against the Eagles, missing their first shot, hitting the next five, then missing again before coming back with a three-straight string.

CSI was battling on four points from Gary Yoder and Ken Davis' three-point play.

But when it arrived at 16-7, sophomore Lon Trotter started the comeback. He hit three field goals, including a one-shot and fastbreak triple and Andre Wakefield and Davis then collected a series of breaks to give CSI the lead at 17-16.

L. Dasso and Jeff Simmons replied for BYU with Oscar Spruill and Dwight Boyles reducing the margin to one. CSI took the lead for good on Wakefield's bucket with Steve Lake hitting for BYU the next time downcourt.

From then on the CSI trap was devastating. The Eagles hit the next 16 points of the game and by halftime were breacing 55-33. Their biggest margin came at 96-49 by BYU, providing most of the closing points.

The point total tied the second best ever for an Eagle team. The first 116 points, ironically, were posted against BYU in a 116-100 victory. The CSI record is 122, established in the season opener against Walla Walla Community College.

Finley wins first round

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Charles O. Finley gained a favorable decision in his arbitration case against Ken Holtzman Thursday and the Oakland A's owner, moving fast to cut the list of players seeking third party help over 1975 contracts, signed Vida Blue only a few hours before a scheduled hearing.

Holtzman, a 19-game winner in 1974, led off the salary arbitration hearings Wednesday and sought a salary of $12,000, $19,000 over his pay last year. Finley told John A. Hogan, a veteran arbitrator and professor of economics at the University of New Hampshire, that Holtzman declined in several key categories and was therefore, being offered the same salary of $3,000 for 1975.

Hogan's decision in favor of Finley was revealed only 24 hours after the hearing.

"We're disappointed," said Holtzman's attorney, Jerry Kapstein, "but not devastatingly disappointed."

games last year for the three-time world champion A's, was about to depart for the hearing at the American Arbitration Association when he decided to agree to Finley's 1975 offer.

Terms were not disclosed and a spokesman for the A's said it was a "routine" signing.

With the signing of Blue, Finley has cut his arbitration list to eight. Originally, 13 A's had requested arbitration and even after Wednesday's hearing, the owner said there was a possibility that several players would sign contracts before their hearings.

"It's possible, it's possible," the grey-haired Finley said when asked if he thought some of his players would sign before the hearings took place here and in Los Angeles.

He settled with Paul Lindblad for an estimated $55,000 before sitting down to face Holtzman and by nightfall Wednesday, two others, outfielder Joe Rudi and first baseman Gene Tenace, said they were satisfied with Finley's offer.

Jerome, Teton cop wrestling leads

Jerome and Teton took the first-day lead in the combined class A and B wrestling tournament Thursday but neither had to look far behind for their closest competition.

Jerome kept 11 men alive in the championship bracket to move ahead with 12 1/2 points but Pocatello, two-time defending champion was right behind with 10 points and eight men still in the title chase. Snake River and Lewiston were tied with 9 1/2 points each and seven men.

Other scores in the A division were Bonneville 8, Nampa 7, Shelley 6 1/2, Skyline, Vallive and Capital 5; Caldwell 4 1/2; Borah, Highland, Post Falls, Preston, Rigby and South Fremont 4; Burley, Coeur d'Alene and Meridian 3; Madison and Moscow, two; and Blackfoot, Kellogg, Minico and Twin Falls one.

On the B side, perennial power Teton had 11 points but third-place Aberdeen kept the most men alive. Teton and Salmon have six men each while Aberdeen has seven. Salmon is second in team scoring with 9 1/2, while Buhl and Aberdeen each notched eight points. Buhl has five men still alive while Lakeland and Parma, six; Challis, five; Wood River, Ralt River, Valley, Marsh Valley, Kamiah, Gooding and Firth, all fourth; Delev, Filer, Fruitland, Kimberly, Middleton, North Fremont—all three; New Plymouth 2 1/2; St. Maries, Lapwai, Bonners Ferry, all two; Kuna, Weiser and Wendell 1 1/2; Cambridge, Cascade, Clearwater Valley, Grace, Grangeville, McCall — Donnelly, Soda Springs, West Jefferson and Westside, one each.

Section shifts from Twin Falls Friday school to the College of Southern Idaho gymnasium Friday and Saturday. Quarterfinals were slated for Friday afternoon with the semi-finals for both classes going at 7 p.m.

That will leave all day Saturday for the wrestle-backs and the individual and team championships will be crowned beginning at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Veeck-headed group tried to buy Orioles, club owner says

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Baltimore Orioles' board chairman Jerold C. Hoffberger has confirmed that a group headed by baseball entrepreneur Bill Veeck submitted a $12 million offer in early November to buy the team.

Hoffberger, in a telephone interview Thursday, also said he had heard from a person linking himself with a syndicate which includes retired General Motors President Edward N. Cole.

"I received a call Tuesday from a person who said he was a messenger from Cole's group," he said. "It was anonymous. I will not discuss it further."

Hoffberger said he has not talked directly with either Cole or Robert L. Fenton, a Detroit attorney for the Cole group.

Veeck, who now lives in Easton, Md., is a three-time major league club owner. His group also includes Hall of Famer Hank Greenberg and former Orioles General Manager Paul Richards.

Veeck has refused to comment on possible plans for the team.

Hoffberger would sell the team before opening day. He said Thursday he has other cities, and added that no deadline has been set for accepting Veeck's offer.

Last week, without mentioning Veeck's name, Hoffberger described the offer "as good as gold." He also described it as coming from persons interested in seeing the team remain in Baltimore.

Hoffberger planned to meet today with Maryland Sports Fans Inc., a local group that wants to purchase a controlling interest in the Orioles' holding corporation through a sale of its own stock to the public.

Gov. Marvin Mandel and Mayor William D. Schafer have warned they are prepared to go to court to prevent any transfer of the team out of Baltimore.

Angels sign Ryan

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Nolan Ryan, who has pitched three no-hitters in his three years with the California Angels, has signed a new two-year contract, the club announced today.

Terms of the contract were not revealed but General Manager Harry Dalton said Ryan, 28, "received a very good raise in line with his performance."

"His two-year salary will be commensurate with the records he has established as an Angel," Dalton said.

Weber snaps spell by beating Vandals

Ogden (UPI) — Weber State snapped a three-game losing streak at home, the longest in school history, by downing the University of Idaho 81-72 in Big Sky conference action Thursday night.

The Wildcats led the way and took advantage of the Vandals' frigid 27 per cent first half shooting to grab a 47-27 halftime lead.

Idaho's leading scorer, Henry Harris, scored in 22 of his game high 30 points in the second half. Other Vandals in double figures were Steve West with 14 and Jim Nuess with 13.

Al DeWitt led Weber with 24 points and 13 rebounds. Jimmie Watt had 17 and 12 rebounds and Darrell Flourney contributed 10.

Weber is now 3-6 in conference play and 8-12 overall while Idaho now occupies the conference cellar with a 2-7 record and is 8-12 overall.

New commissioners put of F-G board

BOISE (UPI) — Two new appointments to the Idaho Fish and Game Commission were announced Thursday by Gov. Cecil Andrus — Wynne M. Blake of Lewiston and Willard H. Godfrey Jr. of Boise.

Blake replaces Paul Keeton, also of Lewiston, and Dr. Godfrey, a Boise State University professor, replaces John Easton of Cascade.

Blake, 52, an attorney, is a former prosecuting attorney for Nez Perce County and a member of the Lewiston school board since 1961.

Godfrey, 37, was graduated from Brigham Young

University and received an M.S. from Arizona State University. He has a doctorate in marketing from Montana State.

Andrus said both men are avid sports enthusiasts who are deeply dedicated to the protection and maintenance of Idaho's fishing and hunting resources.

Tree problem is no problem

EARLY LEADER Peter Oosterhuis, four-time British champion, makes his approach to the fifth green from behind a small tree. He parred the hole and went on for a six-under-par 66 in the Williams classic. (UPI telephoto).

Oosterhuis shoots 66 for early lead

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Peter Oosterhuis, Britain's four-time champion playing in weather more suited to his game, shot a six-under-par 66 on a cold and windy day, Thursday for a one-shot lead after the first round of the $170,000-Andy Williams San Diego Open.

The 6-foot-5, 200-pound Englishman, who graduated from the 1974 U.S.-PGA qualifying school, had five birdies, an eagle and a bogey on his card of 32-34.

That gave him the lead over Artie McNickle and Mark Hayes, who had five-under-par 65, and a two-shot edge on Lou Graham, John Lister, Bruce Crampton, Ray Floyd and Phil Rodgers.

Billy Casper, playing his best golf during the last week after a two-year slump, J.C. Sneed, Bruce Devlin, Jim Simons and Ben Crenshaw had 69s to lay three shots off the lead.

Johnny Miller, winner of three tournament titles this year and 11 over the past 14 months, had a one-under-par 73 and was seven shots off the pace, while defending champion Bobby Nichols opened with a 71 and was five shots back.

Gene Littler, winner this year of the Crosby National Pro-Am, opened with a 71 and Gary Groh, winner of the Hawaiian Open, had a two-under-par 74. U.S. Open champ Hale Irwin had a two-under 70.

The weather was overcast day-long over the two Torrey Pines courses, which front on the Pacific Ocean. Additionally, there was a stiff breeze throughout the day and more than likely accounted for an unusual number of high scores. But it didn't seem to bother Oosterhuis.

"The wind wasn't much of a factor," Oosterhuis said. "I'm quite happy playing in this sort of weather. At home, this would have been a great day."

Oosterhuis started on the back nine at the North course, and he three-putted from 70 feet on the initial hole for a bogey. But he recovered with a six-foot birdie putt on the 15th, a 25-foot putt uphill on the 17th and two-putted from 60 feet on the 18th to make the turn in 34.

Coming back, he chipped to within five feet for a birdie on the first, made a three-footer for another bird on the seventh and then eagled the par-five, 497-yard ninth when he put his second-shot, three-wood, within 10 feet of the cup and ran it down.

"Unquestionably," Oosterhuis said, "this is the best round I have ever shot in America."

Oosterhuis has played in five of the six tournaments this year and broke 70 only four times.

Rubin wins case, loses tickets

MIAMI (UPI) — Attorney Ellis Rubin, the man who led the fight which lifted local area television blackouts of sell-out football games, accused the Miami Dolphins Thursday of sealing him a "cheap shot" by refusing to renew his season tickets.

"Why sell tickets to somebody who is going to turn around and cost you a hundred times the price of those tickets in lawsuits and legal expenses?" asked Ticket

Manager Mike Robbie.

Rubin said he had failed to receive in the mail the renewal form for his five season tickets so he sent his son Mark to the Dolphins' office Wednesday with a check. Robbie refused to sell Mark the tickets, the attorney said, and advised the youth to have his father contact the team's attorney, Dan Paul.

"Paul said he knew nothing about it, but he guessed that if they had cancelled my tickets, it was because I filed all those lawsuits against them," Rubin said.

"I think it is a helluva rap for my four children, who share these tickets with me and who have attended every game since the Dolphins' first game. We have been season ticket holders for nine years," Rubin said.

"Personally, I'm very surprised that Joe Robbie (Dolphins' president) would stoop to this cheap shot," the attorney added.

Mike Robbie confirmed the rejection.

"The reason is simply that he sued us a year ago over these tickets—about the pre-season. In his complaint, he says we're forcing him to buy an undesirable product," the ticket manager said.

Rubin had sued the Dolphins unsuccessfully in an attempt to have the pre-season exhibition games removed from the season tickets sale package.

"The Miami Dolphins are not in the business of forcing anybody to buy anything...let alone an undesirable product," Mike Robbie said.

"Now he (Rubin) seems to turn around and wants to force us to sell him that same undesirable product."

Gonzaga tops NAU

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (UPI) — Ken Tyler picked up a rebound and hit a 10-foot jumper with 15 seconds left to give Gonzaga a 91-90 Big Sky Conference victory over Northern Arizona Thursday night.

The Bulldogs had led the entire game after breaking a 4-4 tie early in the game. The Lumberjacks took their only lead at 90-89 on a three-point play by David Hillman with 33 seconds left.

West rips Vikings

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Former Minnesota Vikings defensive back Charlie West testified in federal court Thursday that after playing out his option in 1971 he was not contacted by the other 25 National Football League teams and subsequently had to sign again with Minnesota in 1972.

West said he met with then Minnesota General Manager Jim Finks in the spring of 1971 but rejected the club's offers.

"Mr. Finks would not agree to giving me the $25,000 I requested and I told him I couldn't accept his $21,000," West said.

After turning down a Finks' offer of "two years for about $1,000 more," West played out his option and received $18,000, $2,000 or 10 per cent less than in 1970.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: If you try to force conditions to your will now, you are in for unpleasant, delaying conditions, but if you go along with the tide you make rapid, unexpected progress. Listen attentively to what those of different backgrounds suggest.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Use your intuition to help yourself today, since conditions are rather difficult. Avoid misdeeds and live by highest principles.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't fall to keep promises made, or you get into trouble. Drive carefully. Try to please loved one more. Steer clear of troublesome person.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Listen to associates' suggestions, since your affairs aren't going as well as you wish. Handle conditions wisely. Help others.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get needed work done, though you want to go out for pleasure. Take no chances with one who has a peculiar sense of humor.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get out and have a good time; forget dreary chores. Show more affection for your mate. Avoid a foolish tangent.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Improve conditions at home and forget friends for today, since they are not in a good mood. Avoid arguments. Enjoy solitude.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle outside affairs carefully and put aside some public activity that has not been working out as expected. Be tactful at home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get busy on practical matters to increase money for remove worry. Take care of wallet while shopping. Avoid trouble.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't overspend or invest heavily, or you could regret it. Accept some social invitation and listen carefully. Update self on world events.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Not a good day for doing specialized work, since you feel nervous, so take it easy and await a better time for removal today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get together with fine friends for recreation and have an excellent time. Being a lone wolf and fretting gets you nowhere fast.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Forget some new interest and concentrate on career and public matters that are important to you. Not a good day at all.

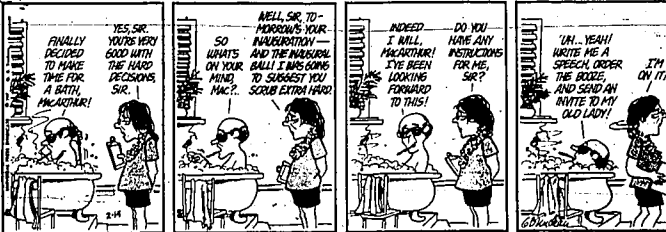

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be searching for the right philosophy of life to lean on upon reaching maturity, so be sure to help him or her to find it early by inculcating the right principles, and then this becomes a successful chart, especially where work in foreign lands or in connection with them is concerned, even in the religious field. Teach early to let go of whatever is no longer of use.

WHAT YOU can't name those four animals, besides the elephant, that provide ivory? The walrus, hippopotamus, whale and boar.

NAME GAME

What feminine given name do you like best? And what masculine given name? Such were the queries put to about 1,350 undergrads at Ohio University. The girl's name Wendy got the most votes. As for boys' names, it was a toss-up between Michael and James. Least liked names in this poll were Alfred, Percival and Isador.

DO YOU as a matter of custom use the words "viable," "hopefully" and "whopping"? I don't. Too proud. Call it humble, if you like. Who cares?

PILOTS

THE recruiting of U.S. civilian pilots for the U.S. government's airlift to besieged Cambodia was being conducted "secretly" Wednesday in the hotel Leaning Tower, Oakland, by a firm that lists itself as a notary public service. A sign in the hotel lobby says Bird and Son... notary, top pilots and navigators were being recruited for the mission. (UPI)

US pilots sign 'secret' papers

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) Bird & Sons Co. of Oakland is listed as a notary public service. It is now getting five more C-130 airplanes from the Pentagon to carry on its business. Its business, at least in part, is in Cambodia.

On Wednesday, in an old hotel, the notary public service was recruiting American civilian pilots for the U.S. government's airlift to besieged Cambodia.

Bird & Sons was a comfortably obscure firm until Tuesday when the Pentagon announced it was doubling the size of its four-month airlift to the Phnom Penh government — using the air freight services of "Bird Air of Oakland."

The Pentagon said Bird Air would receive five more C-130s and boost its supply flights to the Cambodian capital for 20 a day with food, ammunition and medical supplies under a reported $3.3 million agreement with Bird Air.

There is no Bird Air of Oakland.

But on the third floor of the hotel, once an elegant landmark of the 1920s but now showing its age, there is Bird & Sons Co.

Owner William Bird, it turns out, is not in the notary public business. He owns the hotel. He also owns Bird & Sons, whose business cards list it as an international contracting firm.

Bird also owns Bird Air, a civilian air freight firm based wherever Bird is hanging his hat. That is now an Air Force Base in Thailand, from which Bird Air planes — turned over to him free by the Air Force — are operating.

Recently Bird told a newsman that the Air Force is using Bird Air "to get around the congressional ban on U.S. military involvement."

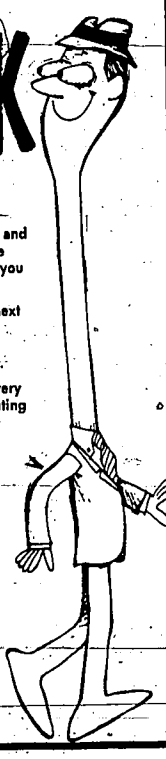

Since October, Bird Air has been functioning as the surrogate Air Force supply arm to Cambodia on contract with the Pentagon.

Bird Air has no "listed telephone number in Oakland. Bird Air has no desk in the Leaning Tower Hotel.

"The home office is overseas," said an employee. "We're just a 'service company' for Bird's properties. There is this building and a shopping center in Arizona and the air freight office."

As for the sign in the lobby reading "Bird & Sons, Notary," an employee said, "That's me, I'm a notary."

Bird was a construction man who built roads and airstrips in Southeast Asia after World War II.

Some honest sense about cars

Buying a new car now is a solid investment. For you and for our economy.

Compared to earlier models, our new cars conserve valuable fuel. A breakthrough in emissions control gives better performance and more miles per gallon. New cars require less scheduled maintenance, so they cost less to operate. And with today's higher used car values, the amount needed to buy a new car is lower than most people think.

When you buy a new car, you help America's economy. Your purchase can contribute to growth for the nation. It can pay off in more jobs, more revenue for government, more strength for businesses — large and small. This helps everyone.

You'll be surprised at the values being offered this week

Hair unprotected, court rules

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Men's hair length is not protected by the Civil Rights Act, according to a federal appeals court. The court said it does not like the employer's hair length regulations because they give a choice: cut his hair or find another job. The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, in a Georgia case decided by all 15 judges, said Wednesday it did not consider that a sex discrimination violation. "We adopt the view, therefore, that distinctions in employment practices between men and women on the basis of something other than immutable characteristics do not constitute a violation of the Civil Rights Act," the court said.

Cooler temps return to Idaho

Twin Falls, northside, Burley-Rupert area: Mixed rain and snow showers through this evening. Decreasing clouds tonight, becoming fair Saturday. Gusty winds at times. Coldest: Lows tonight 18 to 23. The high Saturday mid 30s to low 40s. Outlook for Sunday, a chance of showers. Hailey, Camas Prairie, lower Wood River Valley:

Snow through this evening. Partly cloudy tonight, becoming fair Saturday. Gusty winds at times. Coldest: Lows tonight 5 to 15. The high Saturday in the 30s. The outlook for Sunday, a chance of showers. An upper air trough of low pressure moving out of the Pacific pushed into Idaho late Thursday night. At mid-morning the system was located on a line from west Montana south by southwest across southwest Idaho into Nevada and moving eastward about 30 miles per hour. The system is producing light snow over southern Idaho. However, to the south over northern Nevada and the Utah mountains heavy snow is forecast for this afternoon and evening. As the system moves southeastward skies will become partly cloudy over Idaho tonight and fair Saturday. Colder air under clearing skies over the region tonight will drop low temperatures into the teens and 20s. The extended outlook for Sunday through Tuesday calls for widely scattered showers Sunday, and becoming mostly dry by Tuesday.

Anti-guerrilla efforts studied

© New York Times Service WASHINGTON — Efforts of the Federal Bureau of Investigation to combat Arab guerrilla terrorism — the efforts allegedly included a burglary of the Arab Information Center in Dallas by government agents — are likely to come under the scrutiny of a new Senate select committee, according to Senate sources. The new committee, the select committee to study governmental operations, with respect to intelligence activities, headed by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, has not begun active investigation or finished selecting a staff. "But well-placed Capitol Hill sources said the committee would be provided with evidence of FBI domestic intelligence operations against alleged Palestinian terrorist groups. The evidence was said to include statements by L. Patrick Gray, 3d, former director of the FBI. According to sources on the now defunct Senate Watergate Committee, Gray testified that as acting FBI director he authorized an illegal entry of the Arab Information Center in Dallas in the fall of 1972 to obtain a list of 94 alleged Al Fatah agents. The list allegedly belonged to Dr. Saif Wade Ramhah, the director of the center. Gray, according to the Watergate committee sources, gave the same information to the Watergate special prosecutor. It is the Watergate committee's material on FBI operations that will reportedly be given to the Senate committee. The operation was mounted, according to Gray's version, because the FBI had been told that the documents might contain a list of names of men involved in planned assassination in the United States. The operation, which was briefly mentioned in Newsweek magazine in 1973, obtained a list of 94 names written in Arabic with addresses in the United States and Canada. "The FBI was acting upon a request from the Central Intelligence Agency, according to committee sources. The CIA in turn, was following up on intelligence received from foreign governments that believed the International Palestinian terrorists were operating in the United States, these sources said.
