Fired state patrolman won't appeal dismissal

By GEORGE WILEY Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — An Idaho State Police officer stationed in Twin Falls, has been fired amidst allegations of misconduct and counter allegations of political pressure. The officer has decided not to appeal his dismissal.

Idaho State Trooper Julio Pena, fired Tuesday on charges that he confiscated drugs without turning them in as evidence and that he had misused work without reporting his absence, said today he was "just going to forget it." He doesn't want anything to do with law enforcement anymore. "Pena is one of two chickens on the force."

According to Col. Kenneth De Young, supervisor of the state police alcohol safety action program to which Pena was assigned, the firing followed Pena's alleged confiscation of a small amount of marijuana from two youths in the Burley area without later turning the marijuana in as evidence.

"De Young said Pena on at least one occasion also failed to call in with an explanation when he did not show up for a duty shift."

Pena charged, however, that the real reason for his firing centered around his participation in the Marauders, a Twin Falls motorcycle club of which he is treasurer. He also charged that he had been prevented from going into the Sun Valley area because of political pressure brought by different persons on the state police to prevent arrests being made near the resort.

Pena, said he was told last summer to get rid of his chopper motorcycle or he would be fired. De Young and Sgt. Vance Ricks, ASAP supervisor for the southern Idaho area, both said, however, that Pena's firing had nothing to do with his participation in the motorcycle club.

"I didn't really approve of it," De Young said, "but it had nothing to do with his dismissal."

"There's nothing wrong with being the member of a chopper group," Ricks said. "The only thing I'm suggesting is that they know the members of that group before they lambast us for it."

Pena said that he had confiscated a small amount of marijuana from two youths in Burley whom he had stopped on a traffic violation. He said that he got rid of the marijuana in the same manner he had disposed of it in the past with official approval, by throwing it away.

"I always felt that if there was only a little bit in the baggie," Pena said, "it was not worth mine or his time to go into it, because if it was a small amount he was just using for himself."

Pena said he had similarly confiscated marijuana from youths in the past, trying to "scare them" without bringing them up on criminal charges, and had at least once been told to throw away marijuana so confiscated by a superior officer.

He said he did not report the latest Burley confiscation because he was trying to protect an officer from another department who had been riding with him. He said when asked about confiscating it, he denied having done it, although he had.

He said the youths apparently called the ISP after the confiscation and reported that an officer had taken marijuana from them for his own use.

Job offered

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls firm has offered to help keep President Ford's son off the jobless rolls.

Jack Ford told the Times-News recently he expected to have problems finding a job.

Western Realty President L. James Koutnik contacted young Ford, offering him a job as a real estate salesman in either a "Washington, D.C. or Utah branch office," the firm expects to open "soon."

"With your wide acquaintance and personality," the firm wrote, "I am sure that you could very readily succeed in making contacts with many potential clients."

Ford has not yet replied.

Second tax cut possible in '76

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford is prepared to recommend another tax cut in 1976 if unemployment remains as high as predicted despite this year's tax rebate, his economic coordinator told the nation's governors today.

L. William Seidman, addressing the winter conference of governors, indicated the administration does not expect unemployment to average the 8 per cent next year that Ford forecast in his budget message.

"In 1976, obviously if the economy is not coming out on the basis that we expect, then there can be a tax cut that year," Seidman said.

Ford has proposed a one-time tax rebate this year of $16 billion — $12 billion for individuals and $4 billion for business. It is intended to stimulate the economy.

The budget Ford submitted to Congress early this month projected an average unemployment rate of 8.1 per cent this year and 7.9 per cent next year but subsequently unemployment in January was reported to have gone to 8.2 per cent.

Seidman's remarks were in a response to Gov. Patrick Lucey of Wisconsin, a liberal Democrat, who said unemployment rates projected by the budget are "unacceptable."

"Our society is too brittle to sustain an average unemployment rate of 8 per cent which means the average for minorities will be twice that and the average for young members of minorities will be four times that amount," Lucey said.

Lucey urged that Ford and the Democratic leaders of Congress conduct a summit conference to work out a compromise on the nation's economic and energy problems.

Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton told Lucey that at a White House meeting this morning, Ford assured Southern senators he was ready to talk compromise with the House and Senate ad hoc committees of Democrats which are working out their party's alternative proposals on energy.

"He is totally flexible," Morton said of Ford, but added: "There are certain principles that have to be adhered to."

Seidman cautioned the governors against expecting a rapid recovery from the recession. He said that was beyond aheadwork no matter what policies are adopted. Even if a $75 billion tax cut were enacted this year, he said, unemployment would not be brought down to the 6 per cent level.

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller told the governors today that his, costly, overlapping government — unaware of all it is doing — has led to a growing sense of frustration among Americans.

Panel holds ERA repeal

Times-News Capitol Bureau
BOISE — The House State Affairs Committee held indefinitely a bill to repeal the Equal Rights Amendment this morning.

The committee sent out a bill to begin daylight savings time (DST) this Sunday to the House floor for amendment.

In moving to hold the ERA repeal proposal indefinitely, the stage was set for a House battle today to take the bill out of the committee. Such an action would take a simple majority approval.

Representatives desiring to repeal the amendment, which the Idaho legislature approved three years ago, will want to bring the amendment out of the committee. The vote promises to be a tight one.

A motion to hold a bill establishing daylight savings time on the last Sunday in February was easily defeated in committee.

But by one vote the committee decided to send the measure out for amendment. Backers of repealing DST this month opposed this move.

But Rep. Ward Chaffin, R-Boise, chairman of State Affairs, proposed that a compromise be made between starting DST the last Sunday in February and the last Sunday in April. He suggested the last Sunday in March.

Principal named

TWIN FALLS — Keith Turner was named principal of the new Sawtooth Elementary School in a special meeting of the Twin Falls school board Tuesday night.

The trustees also approved renewal of one-year contracts for other members of the district's administrative staff, with the exception of Supl. George Staudacher. Staudacher's two-year contract was not renewed.

The only shakeup in the administrative lineup resulted from the opening at the new grade school, which will open this fall. Turner is currently principal of Lincoln Elementary. William Stover, principal of Lincoln Elementary, will replace Turner at Lincoln.

Burley cooling down

BURLEY — The heated controversy over firing of Burley's police chief seems to have cooled.

Only a handful of citizens attended Tuesday night's City Council meeting, the first since the mayor and council fired the chief. Last week, hundreds of people attended public meetings on the firing. In contrast eight people attended Tuesday's meeting.

The session also marked the first public appearance of Mayor Charles Shaddock, the man who originally asked for Chief Gary Booth's firing, but who was out of town last week as controversy raged.

'Gate jury charges 2

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Watergate grand jury today indicted a former attorney and a document collector for alleged conspiracy and fraud for their part in the backdating of a gift of Richard M. Nixon's pre-presidential papers to the government.

Nixon's gift was made to elude an income tax deduction of $400,000 by the Internal Revenue Service ruled against him.

The grand jury charged Los Angeles attorney Frank Demarco Jr., 49, in three of the counts and Ralph G. Newman, 63, of Chicago with two counts in the same indictment.

Former White House attorney Edward L. Morgan, who served as deputy assistant to Nixon when he was president, was named as an unindicted coconspirator. Morgan already pleaded guilty to charges concerning his role in backdating the gift.

The grand jury said Demarco and Newman falsified the gift. It appears that Nixon donated his pre-presidential papers to the government on March 27, 1969 in filing 1970 tax returns to Nixon and his wife.

During the government's study of the claimed deduction, IRS investigators urged that a grand jury be empowered to investigate Demarco, Newman and Morgan.

The investigators said that if Nixon's aides could be compelled to testify, they could "possibly correct the taxpayer's" — the provision of "return" — thus providing the basis for a fraud penalty against Nixon.

Most MV solons oppose tot classes

By BILL LAZARUS Times-News Capitol Bureau

BOISE — Magic Valley representatives in the House will vote almost unanimously against kindergarten classes.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' $3.3 million kindergarten proposal left the House Education Committee with a "do pass" recommendation Monday.

But the measure to establish non-compulsory public school kindergarten is expected to be defeated for the fifth year running when it comes before the House as a whole this week.

In the Magic Valley delegation, opposition to the measure is overwhelming. Eight out of 10 representatives believe they will vote against the measure. Only one member supports kindergarten.

The exception is Ernest H. R. Burley. "I've always contended that if we had the funds to support kindergartens I'd vote for them," Hale said.

He believes that vocational and career education programs also deserve more money. "We've got the money for all of them if we want to use it," he says.

Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, disagrees. "I feel that the present programs are what we've got to look at... before we look at any other programs," Roberts, who chairs the House Appropriations Committee, says.

Either new money will have to be found for kindergartens or funds will have to be taken away from existing public school programs, he says. And, Roberts believes, the new money isn't available this year.

John Brooks, R-Gooding, has another perspective. Under the $3.3 million program, he says, smaller school districts such as Gooding would not receive enough funding to actually initiate the program.

Soviet power expanding

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary James H. Schlesinger has warned that the Soviet Union will have "considerable military superiority" over all the United States by 1978-80 if Congress keeps slicing the military budget.

He made the estimate in a spirited defense of the $2.8 billion Pentagon spending request before a House Armed Services Committee with eight new members Tuesday morning, Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill.

In a forceful response to opponents of the $8 billion rise in military outlays in the new budget, Schlesinger said:

"In terms of relative resources, we are at the lowest ebb since 1949. In terms of relative power, at our lowest point since 1949. The way we are going, we will not be a military power second to none."

His off-the-cuff declaration drew standing applause from several Congressmen on the 40-member committee — a rare display of enthusiasm from the veteran lawmakers.

But Schlesinger was told early this year that the Pentagon would not be prepared and often, partly so more funds may be channeled to victims of record postwar unemployment.

"The economic conditions are such that we cannot afford funding that is not absolute necessary," said Price, who replaced Rep. Edward F. Hebert, D-La., as chairman during the revolt of the Democratic caucus. "We are going to make reductions wherever we find they can safely be made."

Coming from Price, a long-time supporter of the Pentagon, that spelled trouble for the $2.8 billion request. Another friend of the military, Rep. Sam Stratton, D-N.Y., issued a similar warning about the $20 billion long-term cost of providing the new B-1 bomber.

"In this atmosphere that's going to be a tough figure to sell to this Congress," Stratton said, urging Schlesinger to consider the FB-111 fighter-bomber, as a possible alternative at one-fifth the cost.

Rep. Ron Dellums, D-Calif., complained about the 42,000 American troops in South Korea. Schlesinger acknowledged that there was less of a military requirement for their presence there, 20 years after the Korean war.

Worried because it was probably just a harmless gopher snake. They stopped by anyway. One officer struck his hand tightly around his arm. "My God, it's a python," he yelled.

Cambodian rebels fire rockets in attempt to disrupt airlift

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Government military sources said today the United States had tripped its airlift of supplies to Phnom Penh to combat a rebel blockade strangling the city. Rebel gunners attacked the city airport with rockets twice today in an attempt to halt the airlift.

One of four C-130s made approach attempts, fired this afternoon missed a World Airways DC-8 jet by only 50 yards and crashed into a police guard post, killing five Cambodians and wounding six others. Five rockets hit the Pochentung airfield earlier today but caused no damage or casualties.

The pro-Communist Khmer Rouge rebels have cut all highways into the Cambodian capital and the government admitted today that efforts to reopen the Mekong River supply route had failed. They said the supply route is "closed and jammed."

Today the Communists launched heavy attacks against the Mekong River naval base of Neak Luang, last government stronghold in the river.

Heavy fighting broke out today almost within sight of Phnom Penh and rebel troops shelled and attacked government lines around Prek Phnom, the main storage facility for military loot, eight miles north of Phnom Penh.

The tank force was not hit but the shells killed six government defenders and wounded 17.

Less than two miles south of Kompong Speu province capital, 25 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, pro-Communist forces entered a refugee camp and burned eight barracks. No casualties were reported, military sources said.

Government officers also reported the military situation around Neak Luang continued to deteriorate. The officers reported seven ground probes today on government units around the town, 35 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

They said Neak Luang appeared threatened by a large Communist force which has besieged the town for the past 50 days.

They said the fall of Neak Luang would spell the end of any slim hopes still held out for river convoys attempting to Phnom Penh.

No ship has been able to reach Phnom Penh since Jan. 31.

Soviets deliver MIG-23s

NEW YORK — The Soviet Union has resumed the shipment of advanced weapons to Egypt by delivering six MIG-23 fighters, according to United States intelligence sources.

The introduction of the super sonic MIG-23 in Egypt, after the delivery of 45 of these planes to Syria and 40 to Iran, is expected to alter the balance of air power in the Middle East.

Air Force sources here and abroad regard the MIG-23 as more maneuverable and slightly faster than the F-4 Phantoms, which are the cutting edge of the Israeli air force.

British and French sources, interviewed by telephone, described the six MIG-23s, which were recently landed by the freighter at Alexandria, as the first installment of 48, or enough for four squadrons.

The Russians, according to these and Israeli sources, also have promised to deliver T-62 tanks and surface-to-air missiles to Egypt.

Senate OK's nominations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate today unanimously approved the nominations of former Attorney General Elliot Richardson as ambassador to Great Britain and former Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., as ambassador to Switzerland.

The approval was by voice vote.

Richardson said as attorney general during the farcical Saturday Night Massacre when he refused to fire special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, Dominick lost his bid for re-election last year.

Big output share sought by developing nations

ALGIERS (UPI) — The developing nations, inspired by the new power of the oil bloc, today demanded an overhaul of the world economy to give them a 25 per cent slice of industrial output.

Delegates from 104 developing nations ended a four-day meeting of the U.N. Industrial Development Organization this morning by calling for a radical transformation of the world economy.

The delegates approved an "action program" aimed at increasing the developing nations' share of world industrial output from seven per cent to 25 per cent by the end of the century.

The program, which calls for an eight per cent annual increase in industrial growth among the developing nations, will be unveiled during a March 17-26 UNIDO meeting in Peru.

Many delegates admitted the program has no chance of total success but others said the West would be wrong to dismiss it as just another plea for a handout.

"Some delegates said the rest of the Third World — the developing nations — may learn a lesson from the success of the oil-producing nations in hoarding petroleum prices."

The delegates said nations producing other raw materials may form oil-type cartels to increase the prices of their products in the same way.

"I won't see any progress in my lifetime," a middle-aged but disillusioned Latin American said.

But another delegate said the rising power of the oil producers gives the developing nations new clout. "A lot depends on this solidarity and the pressure we can exert through it," he said.

"We also have now pressure in the example of the stronger developing countries' willingness to help the weaker ones," he said.

The developing nations want better aid terms, formation of cartels, nationalization of foreign investments, protection of exports, regulation of multinational firms and building of basic industries.

They concede scant chance of total Western acceptance of the program but want to change a system in which 104 nations with 70 per cent of the world's population produce only seven per cent of the global industrial output.

"This is industrial and technological slavery," Ibrahim Abderrahman, a former director of UNIDO, told the meeting.

Eruption batters NZ

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI) — New Zealand's largest active volcano, Mount Ngauruhoe, erupted today, throwing 30-foot boulders dozens of feet into the air and showering ashes onto towns up to 20 miles away.

There were no immediate reports of deaths or injuries but residents of towns near the volcano were prepared to evacuate if ashes contaminated their water supplies.

The volcano had been belching smoke and ash for the past few days, but the blasts which rocked the area were unexpected and experts had earlier declared that it was quiet.

A series of eruptions shook the volcanic area in the heart of the North Island throughout the afternoon, sending giant ash and boulder avalanches down the sides of the volcano and dust clouds high into the air.

Government scientists said ash clouds from one eruption reached 47,000 feet and could be seen 100 miles away.

Mount Ngauruhoe, 7,515 ooth of Auckland, usually experiences minor eruptions or tremors about once a year.

TF women's week slated

TWIN FALLS — A "Women's Awareness Week" designed to explore the relationship of women to the arts and society will be held in Twin Falls March 2 through 10.

Cosponsored by the College of Southern Idaho and the YWCA, the week-long series of events will feature a day given over to each of several topics.

Although speakers for the various events have as yet to be picked, the rough schedule will be as follows:

— March 2: A yoga instruction and information program will be held at CSI.

— March 3: A day-long seminar on "Women and Health" will be held at the college under the leadership of Tara Desmond.

— March 4: Seminar on "Women and Economics" under the leadership of Terry Castaneda.

— March 5: A travel session to Boise to observe the Idaho legislature and discuss the topics "Women and the Legislature" under the direction of Marie Slotten and Dorothy Geist.

A bus has been chartered for this event, and there will be a transportation cost to participants of $4.50 each. The bus is limited to 40 persons, so those intending to make the trip should contact Mrs. Geist through 734-3633 for reservations.

— March 6: Seminar on "Women and Education" to be held at CSI under the leadership of Karen Prince at the YWCA, 733-4384.

— March 7: Seminar "Women and the Arts" under the leadership of Joan Bean.

During the week there will be an arts and crafts exhibit of women's work in the area adjacent to the CSI cafeteria. Women desiring to display their art work or to demonstrate arts and crafts during the seminar should contact Mrs. Bean through 733-0830.

— March 8: Seminar on "The Single Woman" to be held at the YWCA under the direction of Ella Nelson and Shirley Straubhar.

According to publicity chairperson, Paula Hofflied, in addition to the day-long seminars there will be some evening programs or similar repeats for those persons who cannot attend during the day.

A full schedule detailing speakers and times of events will be released next week, Mrs. Hofflied said. Most of the events will be held at CSI and it may be necessary to check the room number for a given seminar on the day it is held.

Admission to all events, with the exception of the chartered bus, will be free to all persons.

Day care for children will also be available at the Presbyterian Church for a nominal fee to cover costs.

Those wishing further information or wishing to be mailed a copy of the schedule should call general coordinator Karen Prince at the YWCA, 733-4384.

March IRS ruling seen on AF dam bond status

By DAVID HORSMAN Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) ruling on tax-exempt status for bonds to build a new American Falls Dam reportedly will be issued early in March.

"We really don't anticipate anything until the first of next month," John Rosbahl, attorney for American Falls Reservoir District, said Tuesday.

After a huddle with IRS officials in Washington last month, Rosbahl told the Times-News he was "pessimistic about a favorable ruling."

The tax decision is a critical part of the plan to finance replacement of the deteriorating dam.

If construction bonds are not tax exempt, the interest demanded by purchasers will be higher, pushing up repayment costs.

Rosbahl has estimated that water users would pay about 40 cents less per acre-foot per year in retiring the bonds if interest on them is tax exempt.

In a shotgun technique, the water users also are pushing introduction of a legislative measure in Congress that would grant the tax-exempt status. Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, is working on that angle, according to Rosbahl.

"We want to get it introduced before March 1," Rosbahl said Tuesday. "If the IRS gives a favorable ruling, we can always withdraw it."

Another vital part of the delicate scheme to build a new dam — approval by the Federal Power Commission of Idaho Power Co.'s plan to construct a hydroelectric plant at the site is making some progress, according to Rosbahl.

"We are aware that FPC application has been processed and is before the full commission," he said. "But we don't know whether they have considered it or started to review it. The staff recommendations are confidential at this point."

If granted the right to build the power plant and generate electricity with the falling water, Idaho Power will kick in about $20 million for construction of the new dam.

Election meet set March 1

SHOSHONE — The annual election meeting for Shoshone Riding Rods will be held at 8 p.m. March 1 at Moonstone Lodge. All necessary material is on hand to build new coronas and arena area at the recreation field and this work will be done as soon as weather permits.

Breakfast slated

TWIN FALLS — Members of Magic Chapter No. 82, Order of the Eastern Star will serve breakfast for Bethels 19, 43, 56 and 14 on their go-to-church Sunday.

The decision to serve the breakfast on April 13 was made at a meeting Monday, which was friendship night. Eastern Star members attended from Buhl, Mountain Home, Twin Ferry, Piler, Hollister, Wenus Falls Chapter No. 29, Wandell, Gooding and Jerome. Mrs. Carolyn Pence, worthy matron, directed the program. Dan Barlogi, Bob Black and Richard Pence participated in the program. Mrs. Mary Frazier was presented a 5th birthday gift. Mrs. Wanda Glendon won the door prize.

Federal group to assess problem

NEW YORK — After months of debate as to the possible role of spray can propellants in depleting the protective ozone of the stratosphere, a federal group has been formed to assess the problem and a week from Thursday will hold its first public meeting in Washington.

The new group, known as the Federal Interagency Task Force on Inadvertent Modification of the Stratosphere, is to submit its report "within approximately four months."

Its chief task is to examine the proposals for the fluorocarbons, such as freon, used under compression in aerosol cans to eject sprays, make their way into the stratosphere. There, according to the hypothesis, they are broken down by sunlight, releasing chlorine that, in turn, breaks down the ozone.

The latter is a gas whose molecules are formed of two oxygen atoms in contrast to the oxygen people breathe, whose molecules are formed of two such atoms. Ozone in the stratosphere filters out the most lethal wavelengths of ultraviolet from the sun, making the earth habitable.

Its depletion, many believe, could lead to a worldwide rise in skin cancer and, perhaps, to reduced productivity of global food crops.

Many household products are sold in spray cans that use fluorocarbons as propellants. A sharp rise in the atmospheric abundance of fluorocarbons has been observed since the sprays came into wide use. Some products, including foods and shaving creams, do not, however, depend on such propellants.

The most widely used fluorocarbon is freon, manufactured by E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co., representatives of the manufacturing industry are being invited to make presentations at the meeting next week.

Last November the Natural Resources Defense Council, an environmental law firm, petitioned the Federal Consumer Products Safety Commission to ban the production and distribution of fluorocarbon propellants.

According to Dr. Warren R. Muir, of the Council on Environmental Quality, a federal advisory group, who is co-chairman of the new federal task force, a representative of the Natural Resources Defense Council is "being invited" to speak at the meeting as well as scientists who have already indicated what they believe to be the nature of the threat.

A number of government specialists who took part in a four-year federal study of possible ozone depletion by supersonic transports are on the new task force. Its other co-chairman, in addition to Muir, is Carroll I. Leslie, Feder, the policy analyst or environmental and ecological problems within the science and technology policy office of the National Science Foundation.

The task force was created by Russell W. Peterson as chairman of the Council on Environment, Quality and Impacts — and alternatives available to the industry, define potentially applicable authorities under which federal actions can be taken, and outline the proposed federal program to resolve the issues.

Boston conviction impact widespread

Letters

By LAWRENCE K. ALTMAN
Of New York Times Service
BOSTON — The manslaughter conviction of Dr. Kenneth C. Edelin in the death of a fetus after a legal abortion could have major legal, medical and socio-economic impacts on the practice of abortion and pediatrics in this country.

Doctors and legal experts interviewed agreed that, even if the Massachusetts or United States Supreme Court overturned the verdict, which Edelin's lawyer, William P. Homans Jr., said would be appealed, the case would leave an indelible imprint on American medicine.

The guilty verdict by a jury of nine men and three women who heard evidence for six weeks at the Suffolk County Court House, stunned the Boston medical community and doctors across the country.

One doctor, who had carefully followed daily reports of Edelin's trial, said:

"Most of us were quite unprepared for the verdict when it came."

Perhaps the clearest point is that the decision focuses on the second, or mid-trimester — that is, the fourth through six months of pregnancy — and has little bearing on abortions during the first three months, the period when most such procedures are done.

Dr. Howard Uffelder, a gynecologist at the Massachusetts General Hospital said:

"The immediate effect on the practice of obstetrics and gynecology will be to limit interruption in the mid-trimester to those in which there would be no argument as to whether the fetus is viable or not. In other words, mid-trimester abortions probably will not be selected if it is at all possible to avoid them, or unless there is some compelling medical reason as far as the mother is concerned."

But as a result of the verdict, legal experts said that even if the Supreme Court upholds the doctor runs the risk of being charged with homicide if he carries out the abortion.

In addition, obstetricians were expected to minimize the use of hysterectomies, operations, similar to Cesarean sections, and tend to maximize the use of techniques such as injections of saline or prostaglandins for second trimester abortions.

The verdict is also likely to push the obstetrical profession to come up with a generally acceptable definition of viability, or the point at which a fetus is capable of sustaining life on its own outside the mother.

"That's not an easy thing to do," because of the lack of precise tests and examinations, Uffelder said.

Doctors were uncertain about the verdict's impact on amniocentesis, a procedure widely used for genetic counseling. In amniocentesis, a needle is inserted in the womb early during the second trimester to withdraw fluid containing cells that are tested for several weeks in the laboratory. A positive test result indicates that a baby will be born with certain genetic abnormalities or hereditary disease.

Dr. Arno Moultsy, an internationally respected geneticist at the University of Washington in Seattle said: "At the present time most amniocentesis procedures are done in the second trimester when there is an indication of chromosomal abnormalities for people who have had a previous child with Down's syndrome, or mongolism, and older mothers who have a 1 or 2 per cent chance of bearing a child with Down's syndrome."

For physiological reasons, doctors usually cannot obtain a sufficient number of cells until the 16th week of pregnancy. Occasionally for technical reasons, the tests must be repeated at the 23rd week.

Some doctors suspect that abortions would continue to be done in the second trimester for such patients.

Perhaps a legal procedure called a declaratory judgment may be necessary to clarify when abortions may be done in the second trimester for mothers suspected of carrying a defective child.

Dr. William J. Curran, professor of legal medicine at Harvard, observed that Edelin's case might not have come about if the medical community had chosen to face a declaratory judgment. This legal device permits doctors to ask a state supreme court justices for clarification of many areas of the law before doctors carry out an operation or other procedure that might become the subject of court action.

The United States Supreme Court's abortion decision is just the kind of situation where you use declaratory judgments because what the Supreme Court did was to leave a number of legal questions unanswered," Curran said.

Curran pointed out that in the pioneering days of kidney transplant surgery, the law was uncertain about what the parents' rights and responsibilities were for their minor children when the removal of a kidney from a well child would not benefit that child.

After such judicial clarification, Boston doctors went ahead and performed the transplant.

Curran went on: "We have something that is not dissimilar here in the abortion situation — whether the physician's responsibility is only or primarily to the mother, or whether he owes a separate obligation to the fetus, and in effect goes against the wishes of the patient who by wanting an abortion does not want the child."

But the verdict in Edelin's case "hurts the opportunity to do anything by that method in Massachusetts now," Curran said.

Doctors said it would be the rare, bold obstetrician who would go ahead with an abortion in the second trimester, and then only if life-supporting equipment were in the delivery room to salvage the fetus, if it were viable.

But they pointed out that this situation raised serious questions:

— What about the mother, who thinking she was having an abortion, was later handed a child — one with a substantial risk of being born brain-damaged, or cerebral palsied?

Who would pay the bills that can reach $500 per day in the limited number of intensive care units available to keep premature infants alive? The mother? The Hospital? The State?

No one has the answers. Whatever the outcome of Edelin's appeal, Curran emphasized: "The battles aren't over. The lines are so clearly drawn and the country is divided with large numbers on both sides."

Even Barnum would be amazed

Editor, Times-News:

Was it Poor Richard who said, "A fool and his money are soon parted"? Wise as these words are, it doesn't explain where the fool got his money. Fools or wise men, the sorry story of how the public has been had in 1974 would make a P.T. Barnum reassess the birth rate of suckers.

With the exception of the auto industry, two airlines, a railroad and the U.S. government, all industry has shown substantial to what is referred to as "obscene" profits.

Several in this state have gone to the extreme of using advertising to cool resentment toward rate increases. The slight of hand in this is that 19.99 per cent of readers do not and could not have the information or technical knowledge to translate these complex tables into an understanding of the necessity or ratio.

But a 39 per cent increase in fuel bills can take a proposed 32 per cent raise being requested together with the admission that 1974 was the most profitable year in corporation history leaves old Joe Deakes with the distinct impression that he has been parted from the money he foolishly thought to save.

The names of corporations charged and pleading guilty under plea bargaining is too long to catalog.

It may be a blessing in disguise that so many students are being graduated who cannot read and understand a simple paragraph. We like to believe this cannot be true in Idaho, but the published figures showing that there are 82 pounds of beer cans for every resident in our country give some inkling as to priorities.

Conversation with an area banker brought this: "Not even our form of government would survive a depression like 1930-34."

And that brings the interesting question whether two generations of beer and sex have the mental and moral capacity to retrench, to look to themselves, instead of marching, rioting and looting while shouting for government to fulfill their lives.

"Have we gone so far down the Roman road that the length of a man's hair, the convenience of abortion, the glorifying of homosexuals in churches and high government positions, where divorce and marriage are almost in balance, where drug usage has become as common as bootleg booze was during prohibition, where little children clinging to the hand of a shyster lawyer, with papa trotting dutifully behind can take an elected school board before a court and require a decision? That is a misconduct has been committed, 2. That it is a punishable offense, 3. The degree of punishment. Can these be our guiding lights?"

We have gone far down that road, but there is still a backlog of people who know that ours is perhaps the last stronghold of a free and enlightened people.

We may have a readjustment of priorities, a reassessment of the essential, but these which control our monetary system and our government cannot risk a situation that could conceivably lead to nationalization.

Opinion should be reversed

Editor, Times-News:

How can anyone say that just a handful of people are contest-minded when a local contest offering one and only one prize of a trip draws 40,000 entries?

Winners of Magic Valley residents took the time and effort to fill out and deposit in specifically designated establishments 40,000 pieces of paper in the hopes of winning a trip.

Currently, national concerns are offering hundreds of valuable prizes in just the same type of drawings and no Idaho resident can win one because one elected official stated that "In his opinion, contests are considered gambling and are therefore illegal in Idaho."

Just think, 40,000 illegal acts by Magic Valley residents last January! How wrong can one man be? Why can't we get this opinion reversed?

Land use planning bills receive strong support

BOISE (UPI) — The Joint

Legislation Government and Taxation Committee heard overwhelming support at a public hearing Tuesday night for locally controlled land use planning legislation.

Nearly 100 persons signed up to testify for and against a package of seven land use planning bills proposed by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

The hearing was carried statewide on public television. Eight consecutive persons told the committee their organizations supported either all or part of Andrus' seven-bill package. Each of the measures can and on its own merit, and can either be passed or killed separately.

Marcia Pursley of the Idaho Conservation League said land use measures will be the most important legislation before the legislature this year. This is the third year in a row lawmakers have considered land use planning.

"When half of all towns and cities don't have land use planning do you call that local control or anarchy?" Mrs. Pursley asked. She said it was essential the bills be considered openly, so public and press have access to the decision-making process.

Robert Schwartz, vice president of Boise Cascade, said land use planning was necessary to set up priorities. He said lack of land use guidelines is currently causing industry to postpone some development because of "unanswered land use questions."

Schwartz said, however, his corporation would be bringing proposed amendments to some of the seven bills. "We believe the guidelines will improve state planning with a minimal delay," he said.

Billie Thompson, a realtor, said property values are maintained by quality planning. The rights of the community should be protected through planning and enforcement of regulations, she said.

She said the people of the Sun Valley area want to be assured that the scenic and economic value of the area will not be changed by improper planning.

Janet Ward of the American Association of University Women said Idaho is the eighth fastest growing state, so it has to maintain "its quality of life for future generations" through land use planning.

She said the prime agricultural land should not be "squandered by subdivisions and recreational developments," adding that the Treasure Valley around Boise is a good example of "urban sprawl" and a "waste of land."

The mandatory final plan deadline of Jan. 1, 1978, should be more flexible, she said, because several communities will have to do a great deal of research to implement comprehensive planning and zoning ordinances.

The seven land use planning bills would:

- Repeal old laws and make local governments implement land use planning ordinances;
- Make available to local governments the legal and technical assistance of the state government in forming land use planning regulations.

Allow for public hearings on land use matters of regional concern and impact.

Martha was right

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

Martha Mitchell was right when she claimed in 1972 she had been "kidnaped" and manhandled by her husband's agents, according to convicted Watergate conspirator James McCord, who was once her bodyguard.

"McCord in an interview with UPI Tuesday, said Mrs. Mitchell, wife of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell had not lied about attempts to keep her from leaving the truth about Watergate just after the break-in.

"Martha's story is true — basically the woman was kidnaped," McCord said. As for Mitchell, McCord said, "I think he was fond of her to a degree. But I don't think the man ever loved with her."

"I think that Martha was ignorant of most of his activities. Shocked is probably more proper. John Mitchell didn't want her to know."

McCord also said that H.R. Haldeman and other top aides of former President Nixon were jealous of Mrs. Mitchell's popularity as an speaking engagements and wanted to do whatever they could to embarrass her.

Ruling assailed

BOISE (UPI) — Senate

Minority Leader C. Chase, D-Mt. States, took the Senate president pro-tem to task Tuesday for a questionable ruling he made while presiding over the Senate Monday.

"I am compelled to say that during all my years of service in the Idaho Legislature, yesterday was not a day to highlight of my Senate career," Chase told his colleagues as he was assailed by Senate President Pro-tem

James Ellsworth, R-Leader, over his procedure in moving two House-passed tax relief measures to the top of the calendar so they could be acted upon ahead of the rest of the measures up for final debate.

To protest Ellsworth's actions, 100 Democrats walked out of the proceedings.

"It is the tradition of this body to adhere to the Senate rules and to afford the same fair treatment to both the majority and minority party," the Democratic leader said.

Economy program okayed

(C) New York Times Service
 WASHINGTON — Senate Democratic leaders agreed unanimously Tuesday to a program designed to eliminate the economy this year, with energy conservation measures given a much lower priority.
 The approval of the program by the Senate Democratic Policy Committee and by the chairman of the Senate's legislative committees was a significant step toward development of congressional alternatives to President Ford's economic and energy proposals.
 Ford and others in his administration have repeatedly accused congressional Democrats in recent weeks of rejecting administration initiatives while proposing nothing to replace them.
 Sen. John O. Pastore of Rhode Island, chairman of a special committee of Senate Democrats that devised the program, said that his group would meet today with a similar panel of House Democrats that is also working on alternatives to the administration's proposals.
 Pastore said he hoped that a joint plan could be adopted by Democratic caucuses in both houses "within a week or so."
 Meantime Tuesday, the Senate after a pro forma debate, voted, 70 to 20, to in-

Utah 3rd state this year to reject ERA

By United Press International
 Utah became the third state this year to reject the proposed Equal Rights Amendment Tuesday. So far, 34 states have approved ERA, which means it needs approval of four more states to become part of the Constitution. Georgia rejected the women's rights amendment Monday, and Oklahoma rejected it earlier this year. Louisiana and Virginia have not formally rejected the amendment, but instead buried it in committee. The amendment would prohibit discrimination based on sex. The law allows until 1976 for its adoption, and in states where the legislature has defeated the proposal, it is possible for a new legislature at some future date before 1976 to pass it. The Utah House overwhelmingly rejected the ERA Tuesday after the Mormon Church announced its official opposition. The house, which is 70 per cent Mormon, voted against it 54-1. On the eve of the vote, the official "Church News" of the Church of Jesus Christ or Latter-day Saints editorialized against ratification. Georgia's senate defeated ERA 33-22 Monday. The National Organization for Women issued a concession statement saying the state senate was irresponsible and predicting that neighboring states will ultimately ratify it. Among 10 states which have yet to take action one way or the other, Nevada has brought the proposal out of a senate committee for a floor vote. The measure was approved by the state assembly a week ago.

Illegal toll-free calls probed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Beep." A tiny box that emits this sound at a precise electronic level is being sold on the American black market — and the telephone company says the device is costing it millions of dollars in lost toll call billings.
 The American Telephone and Telegraph Company randomly monitored more than 30 million phone calls between 1965 and 1970 to stop the use of illegal callers.
 AT&T attorney H.W. William Caming told a House Judiciary subcommittee Tuesday that despite the phone company's efforts, illegal toll-free calls "continue at flood levels today."
 Appearing before the Civil Liberties Subcommittee, Caming showed how the box — no larger than a pack of cigarettes — works.
 When a white button is pressed, a beeping signal "seizes" a telephone line and allows the caller to make long distance calls while circumventing the phone company's automatic billing system.

The boxes cost a dollar or less to produce. They are selling on the black market at up to $1,500 and are "used by racketeers and other unethical businessmen, Caming said."
 He estimated the device has cost the phone company about $1 million in lost billings, and this figure represented "merely that portion of the iceberg visible to the eye."
 "The actual losses currently being sustained may be 10 to 20 times as great as our provable losses," he said.
 Caming testified that 30 million calls were electronically "scanned" and more than 1.5 million of these were monitored with recording devices in an attempt to uncover fraudulent uses. The monitoring uncovered about 25,000 illegal calls, he said.
 He said the monitoring of actual voices was halted in 1970 when the phone company developed more sophisticated equipment to detect the devices.

Meany 'firm'

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany says he has no quarrel with the idea that labor should get into politics. But running political parties is not the business of the AFL-CIO, he said Tuesday.
 Meany said the group's 50-member executive council "came to the unanimous conclusion that the AFL-CIO has no desire to influence the internal structure" of political parties.
 A substantial number of labor leaders connected with the AFL-CIO or its unions are members of the Democratic National Committee, and several of them were so announced with delegate selection rules adopted at the party's Kansas City midyear convention that there was some talk of a walkout.

DEAR ABBY: "Touchy Problem" asked whether she should ask her friend about her severely brain-damaged child who was in an institution. Your reply: "Be kind. Don't bring up anything that might make your friend uncomfortable."
Well, maybe if you were on the other side of the fence you could understand the situation better.
We have a retarded daughter, but we never mention her, for fear of making our friends uncomfortable. However, when people ask about her, we are delighted, and will talk as long as they care to listen.
Please print this letter, and thousands of parents will thank you for coming out of the Dark Ages, and spreading a little sunshine for the families of the handicapped.
A MOTHER WHO KNOWS

Touchy problem

DEAR MOTHER: Another mother who views "the situation from your side of the fence wrote with the perfect solution."
DEAR ABBY: Two of our four sons are in a residential facility for retarded children. When friends ask me how my two normal children are, and fall to mention the two who are retarded, I assume that THEY are uncomfortable with the subject, so as a kindness to THEM I don't mention the retarded boys. But oh, how I appreciate those who ask about all four boys!
I think the best way for friends to handle the situation is to ask, "How are ALL your children?" Then take their cue from the response.
S.S.

DEAR ABBY: I am a Protestant who has been married to a Catholic for six months. It seems that my husband considers sex (normal sex, that is) a mortal sin.
He goes to confession once a week and tells the priest everything that happens in our bedroom, and I do most EVERYTHING!
He tells me that the priest says that I am a source of sin to him!
All this is affecting our marriage. I feel that there are three of us in bed every night — my husband, myself and the parish priest. I am beginning to avoid my husband in all physical contacts as I do not wish to be considered a source of sin to anyone. I am a very decent person.
Before any children are conceived, do you think I should continue in this marriage?
PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: You are wise to wonder. Marital relations are not considered "sinful" by the Catholic church. The parish priest, surely knows this. In fact that your husband discusses this with the bishop. If your husband refuses, he needs to see a doctor — and so does the parish priest. And you should see a lawyer!

DEAR ABBY: May I please use your column to say something I've been wanting to say for years?
Dear People:
Leave me alone. I'm handicapped, and it shows. Don't ask me: "What happened to your legs? Don't ask me: What happened to your arms?" Don't ask me: "What happened to your face?" Don't ask me: "What do you mean YOU. Don't think." She doesn't mean me. I'm asking only because I'm concerned.
No, you're not. You're just being nosy. You're an insensitive clod if you question me after reading this. And I'm telling you you're a clod the next time you bother me. Just leave me alone. Leave us all alone! The next time you see a handicapped person, just keep your mouth shut!
Thank you for printing this, Abby. I hope this stops some strangers from harassing us. Please, no name or location.

If South had stopped to think at the start of play, he might have seen the danger of a club-gut block. In that case he could have let East hold the first spade trick. East would probably have led a second spade and South would let him hold that trick also.
After that South would be able to discard one of dummy's clubs on the ace of spades and score his five-club tricks.
Of course, there is no law that would have compelled East to lead a second spade, but South should have been able to work out a way to get his ninth trick by playing and ducking a second spade himself.

Cabaret Theatre opens

By KIT ARMSTRONG
Times-News writer
SUN VALLEY — Versatility, beauty and talent came to Sun Valley Monday night at the new Cabaret Theatre opened in the Sun Valley Lodge dining room.

Round tables around a raised circular stage provided the setting for the variety show, featuring B.J. Coulson with the eight piece New Trend Orchestra, and comedian, Charles Fletscher.

Sponsored by the Sun Valley Center for the Arts and Humanities, opening night also featured champagne along with a bar for those who preferred mixed drinks.

Although too thin for the Follies Bergere and with a largely untrained voice, Miss Coulson charmed the opening night audience with her natural friendliness and her sincere smile. Her repertoire ranged from blues to rock and back to songs of the 1930s and 1940s. At times she was accompanied by her brother, Jimmie, the orchestra's leader and drummer.

At one point they switched places as he took the microphone for a solo while she played the drums.

As Miss Coulson made the change from the last blues song into a mild form of rock and roll with "Inspiration," the orchestra suddenly came to life. She was speaking their language. Spontaneous bursts of applause greeted her renditions of "I Didn't Mean to Love You," "The More I See You" and "I'll Be Seeing You" as well as her interpretation of Al Jolson's "Rockabye My Baby." She was speaking another language.

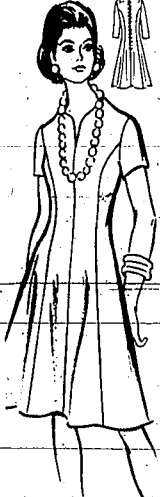

Miss Coulson will have no trouble changing her repertoire to suit the moods of different audiences as various groups visit the resort village.

This was the hope of the show's three producers, Bill Innes, Dick Foster and Tim Emmons, who feel there is a lack of variety entertainment of the type that was enjoyed in the days of woodville. This is Cabaret Theatre.

The success of the winter engagement will determine the show's future.
The same group will perform nightly Monday through Saturday at 9:15 p.m. The cover charge is $5 for ringside seats and $3 for others.

Cystitis problem concerns mother

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, 18, had severe pain in her abdomen, with burning and passing of blood in her urine. Her doctor said she had cystitis.

He gave her a prescription for penicillin tablets. My neighbor said sooner or later she will have to be operated on for it because it will keep coming back on her. Is this true? — Mrs. W.P. No. It isn't true.

An acute urinary infection is often accompanied by blood in the urine. It's called hematuric cystitis.

The only likely operative procedure is a cystoscopic examination. A viewing device called a cystoscope is inserted via the urethra into the bladder. A tiny light at the end of the instrument allows the doctor to view the lining of the bladder to detect inflammation, polyps or other abnormalities.

Your Good Health
By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Two points about cystitis: the urine should be examined to detect the exact organism causing the inflammation. Many bladder infections are secondary, with the primary cause farther up the urinary tract, in the kidneys for instance.

Once discovered, the organism can be matched up with the most effective antibiotic. And this therapy should be continued until all traces of the infection are gone. Too early interruption of the antibiotic therapy usually results in recurrence of the infection.

How effective the penicillin your daughter is using will become obvious with time. Perhaps another drug will be needed.

Your neighbor is right in one respect. Cystitis, which is a common affliction in women, does tend to recur.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband had a check up and was found in excellent health except that he has a fast heart beat. He leads a quiet life — no anxieties.

He checked his own heart beat. It was 88. What is normal? — A.C.B.

A normal beat can be anywhere from 60 to 90 beats per minute.

His self check may not be the best way to find out. It is better to have someone else do the counting. The 88 is getting close to the upper limit of normal, but often apprehension about taking one's own pulse can raise it a few beats or more. Anxiety about the examination in the doctor's office may quicken the pulse. Blood pressure readings also can be a bit higher under such circumstances.

Anxiety is not the only cause of fast heart rates. Overweight, excessive coffee or cola drinking, and smoking are causes. Subtle overactivity of the thyroid gland is another.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there a health advantage in drinking distilled water? — T.Y.

None that I know of unless the regular drinking supply is odorous or contaminated. If so, it can be purified with chemicals you can buy in the store.

Treated drinking water is more tasty and supplies trace minerals the system can always use. Besides, it's a lot cheaper.

Hansen students plan transfer

HANSEN — Hansen grade school students plan to move into their new $380,000 building Friday.

Supl. Percy Christensen told trustees Monday night final acceptance of the facility is being delayed by minor items from subcontractors, such as heaters and fire bell. If these items arrive, trustees and high school boys will be pressed into service Friday.

He said trustees plan to meet at the new school Thursday morning and decide if they are ready to accept the building from the contractor. Aside from the hardware items which have not yet arrived, everything is accomplished until warmer weather.

Christensen said, when outside painting is scheduled and parking lot improvement.

Trustees accepted a bid from Raymond Sudweeks to remodel the old elementary school so junior high students can move in. He will tear out several walls to make two larger rooms to accommodate the seventh grade, Christensen said. There are now 27 students in this class. He said the remodeling should not take more than a week.

Trustees decided to install insulation in the ceiling of the high school to conserve heat.

The district's total heating bill last month was $1,108.60 of which $300 was for the high school.

The board has received the national-school-board-policy package which gives samples of policies of various schools throughout the US in all aspects of student behavior, fiscal and legal policies.

Christensen said the Hansen School District policy is two years old and trustees will spend considerable time studying the national examples and update their policy. A particular area of concern which was discussed Monday night is over-ambitious couples who are creating problems in the high school.

The superintendent said the board instructed him to tell the high school student body in an assembly today that hant holding will be the only show of affection allowed and if the situation does not improve, offenders will be suspended.

Dog returns to accident site

TWIN FALLS — Fadra has been found. She is the pet dog, part Irish setter and part golden retriever, who was lost last Friday morning when her owners' vehicle left the interstate highway in Cassia County and overturned.

The owners, Kelly Buckland, 20, Boise, a paraplegic, and his wife, also 20, were taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital here, with injuries but officers were unable to locate the dog.

Buckland's parents arrived Saturday from eastern Idaho and when they returned to the accident scene, found the young female dog sitting at the site. Mrs. Buckland's shoe in her mouth.

Intersection mishap injures five persons

TWIN FALLS — Five persons suffered minor injuries in a low-speed accident at North and Five Points Monday afternoon.

City police reports show a car driven by Robert Charles Emery, 23, Twin Falls, and a vehicle driven by Alice Jane Hoogland, 31, Twin Falls, collided in the intersection about 2:30 p.m.

Officers said the Hoogland car was following a large garbage truck which turned right, leaving the Hoogland vehicle in the intersection under a red light. The Hoogland vehicle collided with the Emery vehicle as the second auto pulled into the intersection with the green light. Mrs. Hoogland was cited for violation of the red light.

Emery and his passengers from Burkhshire, 16, Twin Falls; Margaret, 17, and Tim Powell, 17, all Hansen, and Mrs. Hoogland were all treated for minor cuts and bruises. Ellen Hoogland, 13, a passenger in the second vehicle, escaped injury. Officers estimated damage at $700 to each vehicle.

Schlesinger defends budget

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary James Schlesinger, punched up in Congress Tuesday to defend his record military budget against avidly questioning congressmen—and was promptly told how he could increase it.

Schlesinger was making his first appearance on the new budget before the House Armed Services Committee. He was primed to grapple with the committee's critics.

But the subject that cropped up the most was the Pentagon's plan to eliminate taxpayer subsidies for military commissaries, which would jack up the prices servicemen and military retirees pay for food in their form of supermarket.

Under questioning on whether the services agreed with the cut, Schlesinger said: "I do recall some conversations that had some strong overtones."

"My mail has some strong overtones," Rep.

Bill Nichols, D-Ala., said in a tone of irritation. Six of the 40 committee members complained of the cuts, which would save about $200 million annually. Food in the commissaries is about 20 per cent cheaper than in commercial supermarkets.

Only two members gave Schlesinger any budget praise on the committee: some people think you are doing the right thing."

Freshman Rep. Bob Carr, D-Mich., sparked laughter when he said, "You may be relieved to know that I don't have a commissary within 300 miles of my district."

But Rep. G. William Whitehurst, the Republican who represents the heavily Navy area of Norfolk, Va., said: "This is not the right place to cut. We have a real moral obligation. You can't tell them we're going to take it out of your hide."

Governor queries candidacy

GOV. Bill Waller, of Mississippi far left, tells a news conference Tuesday he doubts Alabama Gov. George Wallace left will run for president in 1976. Waller, citing the South's desire for a "winner" said, "I personally think his candidacy is remote."

Tuesday Wallace dismissed Waller's suggestion that he was too crippled to seek the presidency and could no longer count on Southern support. (UPI)

Aides charge bias

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Attorneys for William Calley say the former Army lieutenant received an unfair court-martial because the military justice system was unable to cope with widespread publicity over the My Lai massacre.

However, Army lawyers said Tuesday Calley was convicted in a fair and unbiased court martial and that it was wrongly overturned by U.S. District Judge J. Robert Elliott of Columbus, Ga.

They asked the appeals court to reverse Elliott's ruling and reinstate the conviction, even though Army officials intend to grant Calley parole.

J. Houston Gordon, head of Calley's three-lawyer defense team, told the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals the six Army officers who convicted Calley for the murder of at least 22 My Lai civilians had been exposed to a year of news stories and interviews in the case.

Gordon said the officers were "hostile and negative toward Calley before his court martial began."

"A military judge has no contempt power," Gordon said. "His voice is like that of one crying in the wilderness."

Clashes over tax relief, pay hikes continue

BOISE (UPI) — Three Republicans threatened to drag a sales tax relief bill out of the House Tax Committee today while Democrats lined up against the GOP's proposed pay hike for state employees.

Rep. Lyman G. Winchester, R-Kimco; C. W. Neider, R-Coeur d'Alene, and William Onweiler, R-Boise, appealed on the House floor Tuesday for release of a bill to take the sales tax off groceries.

Winchester warned that if it did not come out today he will try to force it out of the Revenue and Taxation Committee for consideration on the House floor.

Senators held on their calendar Tuesday a bill to refund 12 per cent of 1974 state income taxes and their own version of the $3 temporary increase in the grocery credit.

Democrats, meanwhile, vowed to stand firm against Republican versions of pay raises for state employees — reallocation of inadequate pay grades plus 3 1/2 per cent cost of living boosts.

Their chances of defeating the resolution appeared slim and they talked in caucus Tuesday of using the debate for public relations purposes in an effort to win public sympathy for higher raises. They want reallocation plus at least 7 1/2 per cent as recommended by Gov. Cecil

D. Andrus.

Rep. Dan Emery, D-Boise, suggested they talk in terms of what the Republican resolution will mean in take-home "dollars" to representative groups of lower-paid state employees. Joe Welch of the governor's office promised to supply figures on the five lowest pay grades.

Considered the key to final adjournment the Appropriations Committee set the budget for the upcoming fiscal year. Republican leaders in both houses are trying to walk it through to passage as quickly as the rules allow.

Daylight Savings Time again became an issue and a group of Southwestern Idaho House members vowed to try to block suspension of rules on a measure to crank it up Sunday.

An earlier bill was found to be defective so the Senate, acting under emergency procedures, passed a new one Monday which simply repeals the Southern Idaho exemption from DST.

Rep. Dorothy Reynolds, D-Caldwell, said several members from her end of the state felt they came so close to beating the last bill they were able to do in his one.

There also was talk of trying to compromise on the effective date of putting Southern Idaho onto Daylight Time — the end of March instead of the end of February.

Valley House votes against tot class

"If you're going to start kindergartens — strictly state-funded kindergartens — then appropriate enough money to do the job right," he says.

"I've been hearing that kids can't read, can't figure," says Rep. Gordon Hollifield, R-Jerome. "Something's wrong in our school system. I think this has to be corrected before we start taking them at a younger age," he says.

Rep. J. Ward Chatham, R-Albion, believes that a kindergarten program could not be established equitably without costly busing. He says rural children, unable to get to kindergartens would be at a disadvantage.

Rep. E.V. McLean, R-Ketchum, says that if expanded vocational and elementary school programs are not funded he might vote for kindergartens. But McLean says his first priority lies with the other programs. He says there is not enough money for all of them.

"I'm going to oppose them. I always have," says Rep. Steve Antone, R-Rupert. Antone says vocational programs should have a higher priority.

He also questions whether kindergartens would give rural children who do not attend.

"I just can't buy that program... because of the misleading statements that come out of the State Department of Education," Rep. Tom Stives, R-Twin Falls, says.

He says after transportation and all employee benefits are considered, the program will cost closer to $5 million, not $3.3 million.

"The competition with the private kindergarten system is kind of a bad thing," Stives said.

"I'm opposed to initiating any 'new programs,'" Rep. Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls, says. Also, Olmstead maintains that expansions of vocational education programs should have a higher priority than kindergartens.

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Senate Tuesday confirmed the appointment of Dr. James Bax as director of the State Health and Welfare Department. He was confirmed by unanimous voice vote.

House gets filing bill from panel

BOISE (UPI) — The House State Affairs Committee sent to the floor without recommendation Tuesday a bill that would require candidates for the House to run against designated opponents.

"Anyone who's got a record he can justify to his constituents doesn't have to be fearful of this bill," Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello, told fellow committee members.

But Rep. John Reardon, R-Boise, disagreed. "This bill would set up a war of attrition against a strong candidate in a given area," Reardon said.

Rep. Gary Ingram, R-Coeur d'Alene, said if there were a weak incumbent and a strong incumbent in a given district all the filings would be against the weak one.

GOP shoves measure through

BOISE (UPI) — House Republicans used their superior numbers to pass 39-27 Tuesday a resolution stripping the lieutenant governor of his chairmanship and vote on the Land Grant Committee.

This resolution, which goes now to the Senate for concurrence, continues the committee and gives it additional duties — including litigating if necessary the question of ownership of Eastern Idaho phosphate beds claimed by the federal government.

Minority Leader Patricia L. McDermott, D-Pocatello, said that making Lt. Gov. John Evans, a Democrat, an ex-officio member of the committee, the GOP apparently wants him just to watch the Senate perform — with his thumb in his ear.

She said the Republicans consistently have attempted to take duties away from the lieutenant governor — since Evans replaced Republican Jack Murphy in the job.

Conflict end sought

BOISE (UPI) — Over objections from some Democrats, the House State Affairs Committee agreed Tuesday to introduce a bill designed to eliminate conflicts of interest on the Endowment Investment Board.

This measure would remove the requirement that bankers and stockbrokers be among those serving on the board.

While it would prohibit those actively engaged in such businesses from serving, it would not preclude those with past experience in the field.

Tax sought

BOISE (UPI) — The House Resources and Conservation Committee submitted legislation Tuesday that calls for a license tax for extracting geothermal resources.

It requires the royalty to be determined from the value of the resource at the point of delivery to the purchaser and sets the amount at 10 per cent of the value.

TF school trustees okay appointments

TWIN FALLS — After posing some pointed questions and huddling in a closed-door session, Twin Falls school trustees Tuesday night approved the appointments of two teachers to a state educational committee. The trustees' action was partly prompted by protest letters from the teachers who had been ordered by Supt. George Staudacher not to attend meetings of the state committee.

attend committee meetings. Armstrong told the Times-News he has missed eight days this academic year. Mrs. East said she has been gone one day. Armstrong, a Lincoln Elementary teacher, said he had received approval from Staudacher and the trustees before accepting his appointment in July, 1974.

leave ... without loss of pay" for teachers who are "elected or appointed" to responsible positions representing teachers throughout the State. The policy also states that such teachers throughout "will be excused from teaching duties to attend meetings. The trustees Tuesday night effectively asked the teachers to justify their work on the state panel.

of the committee compared to the district's cost in hiring substitute teachers for local members. After a brief closed-door session, the trustees approved the appointments, apparently freeing the teachers to attend meetings. Rank, however, said the issue has "aroused concern" within the board. Apparently referring to the State Board of Education, he said, "The natural and courteous thing for the person in the appointing capacity to do is to clear with the district superintendent before finalizing the appointments."

Pro sport czars reject idea of legal gambling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commissioner Howie Kuhn told a government panel today that major league baseball will wage an emphatic all-out court battle against any move to legalize team sports betting at the state or federal level.

In a prepared statement at the opening of a two-day hearing by a special congressional commission, Kuhn warned that legalizing gambling would lead to "run-shaving" by players and other possible fixes by gamblers trying to obtain a betting edge.

The commissioner declared: "We intend, if necessary, to protect the good name and economic wellbeing of our game through recourse to the courts."

Kuhn and his counterparts from other professional leagues—football's Pete Rozelle, hockey's Clarence Campbell and the National Basketball Association's Walter Kennedy—all lined up at the hearings squarely against federal or state legislation which would allow betting on their sports.

They were witnesses before a 15-member commission, including eight members of the House and Senate, trying to formulate a national policy on gambling.

Kuhn, Rozelle, Campbell and Kennedy are well known opponents of any legislation which would sanction federal, state or local gambling operations—except—professional racing tracks. Proponents see the prospect as a government revenue-raising device and a mean of taking away the multimillion-dollar business that profits the underworld.

Of the prospect of possible legislation which would open up legal betting on non-racetrack events, Kuhn declared: "...Baseball is unalterably opposed to any legislation which would permit a government agency either to conduct or profit from the booking of bets...Baseball people at all levels have labored diligently over the years to develop and preserve the image of our game as one which provides scrupulously honest and wholesome entertainment for American families and from which all taint of gambling is absent."

Kuhn told the commissioners: "Over and above our determination to protect the best interests of baseball, we feel it is not in the public interest to exploit the weaknesses and encourage the vices of our citizens to finance government."

The baseball commissioner suggested that intensified, legal or illegal, might lead to corruption of individual players.

...performers might be injured in run-shaving and pre-determined individual performances which would not necessarily involve fixing a game," he said. Kuhn also expressed concern that a player might tip off a gambler on inside information on injuries and other data that would give a bettor an edge.

He protested the federal government becoming involved with a gambling operation with these words: "I think it is the utmost in cynicism to use the great family sport of baseball to draw into the vice gambling.

World record tarpon

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — Gus Bell of Washington, Pa., had tried unsuccessfully for six years to catch a tarpon. He landed his first one Monday night, "a monster, 243-pound silver king"—the largest ever recorded in Florida waters and a potential world record.

"The mouth of that fish is big enough to poke your head into," Larry Rogers of the Chamber of Commerce said Tuesday. "It has eyes the size of baseballs. I didn't know they made tarpon this big."

Bell was fishing with Capt. Josh West in the Key West harbor, near where the fleet of shrimp boats dock, when the fish struck at sunset. It jumped clear of the water four times. "Well, before Bell set the hook," West said, "another tarpon jumped nearby which the boat captain said looked larger than the one Bell caught."

McAdoo hikes lead

NEW YORK (UPI) — With Buffalo's Tom McAdoo pulling a little farther ahead of Golden State's Rick Barry in scoring, the closest individual race in the National Basketball Association has developed for the rebounding championship.

Through last Sunday's games, five players were within a point of each other with Wes Unseld showing the way with an average 14.9 rebounds a game, according to official statistics released Tuesday. Happy Hairston of Los Angeles and Sam Lacey of Kansas City-Omaha were tied for second with 14.3, followed by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Milwaukee—14.2 and McAdoo (14.1).

The last time a player led the league with less than 15 rebounds a game was in 1952-53 when George Mikan averaged 14.4 for the old Minneapolis Lakers. The reason given for

Finley-Bando feud headed for collision

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley gave in to team captain Sal Bando Tuesday, but it didn't affect their salary stand in baseball's arbitration hearings.

Bando had his hearing moved up a day because of a previous commitment and Finley agreed to the change. The third baseman's original date at the American Arbitration Association was set for Wednesday with Ted Kublak slated to appear the first day after a three-day holiday weekend.

The Finley-Bando salary impasse came about when the owner offered a $100,000 contract for the 1975 season and Bando asked for $125,000.

Last week, Bando, one of 13 A's who originally filed for third party settlement, sought to withdraw from arbitration, but Finley refused to grant the pull out.

Bando along with his attorney representative Wayne Hooper, indicated at the time he preferred to settle their contractual differences on a face-to-face basis but that if an agreement could not be reached, he would play next season under Finley's terms and then possibly challenge baseball's reserve clause before the U.S. Supreme Court.

During the President's Day holiday, Finley made known his feelings about the team captain. The owner described Bando as a "pop-off" and "one of the worst fielding third basemen in baseball."

Continuing, the sometimes volatile owner added he repeatedly warned Bando about sounding off in public and had personally selected Bando to be team captain "and not because the players voted for him."

It was also revealed Tuesday that Finley is resigned to facing slugger Reggie Jackson before an arbitrator in Los Angeles Friday.

"We haven't talked for a couple of days," Finley said.

In two arbitrated cases, Finley received a favorable ruling in the case of Ken Holtzman but was overruled in the second involving Rolfe Fingers. Since arriving here a week ago for the hearings, the fast-moving owner reached terms with six players, including Joe Rudi, Vida Blue, Gene Tenace, Paul Lindblad, Billy North and Dave Hamilton.

Meanwhile, across the bay, the San Francisco Giants announced they will not have any arbitration hearings. reliever Randy Moffitt agreed to terms Monday night and outfielder Garry Maddox withdrew from arbitration, following the lead of Van Lousus.

"Randy gave a little and we gave a little," said Jerry Donovan, assistant to President Horace Stoneham of Moffitt's agreement.

Frayed nerves explode

Filer gains finals

FILER — The Filer Wildcats, coming from 12 points down in the second half, dropped Gooding 61-55 to move into the South Central Idaho Conference Jayvee tournament finals Tuesday night.

Filer will go against Buhl at 8 p.m. Wednesday after Jerome and Wood River settle the consolation prize at 6:30 p.m. in the Filer gymnasium.

Gooding held the 12-point lead in the third quarter and still had eight to spare going into the last period. Rick Davis' 13 points headed three Filer players in double figures while Gooding had four scorers in double digits, topped by Butler with 14.

Bulls batter Lakers

CHICAGO (UPI) — Six Chicago Bulls scored in double figures, topped by Bob Love with 27 points, to help produce a team scuffling high for the season with a 128-105 triumph over the Los Angeles Lakers Tuesday night.

It was the Bulls' fourth straight win, their 10th in the last 11 games and their 10th straight home court win, a team record. Los Angeles took its seventh defeat in the last nine games.

Braves shade Suns

TORONTO (UPI) — Bob McAdoo scored 41 points and Jim McMillan and Jack Marin each chipped in with 22 Tuesday night to lead the Buffalo Braves to a 124-109 victory over the Phoenix Suns.

The victory snapped a three-game Braves' losing streak and provided Jack Ramary with his 100th victory as the Buffalo coach. The loss was the Suns' third in a row and prevented them from gaining ground on the idle Seattle Sonics who they now trail by a game and a half in the NBA's Pacific Division.

The Braves led throughout the game, outshooting and outlasting the injury-riddled Suns who played without regulars Keith Erickson and Curtis Perry. High man for the Suns was Charlie Scott with 23 points — 14 in the third quarter.

Schultz put on notice

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — "Nobody's picking on Dave Schultz," says national hockey league president Clarence Campbell, but the next time the Philadelphia Flyers' high-penalty man abuses an official, he'll be suspended for two games.

Campbell said Schultz's further suspensions will be "automatically escalated on arithmetic basis."

The Flyers forward was given a one-game suspension last week after an altercation with referee Bruce Hood in a Feb. 8 game against Minnesota.

Xavier receives gift

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Corbett Foundation Tuesday gave $750,000 to Xavier University to help construct a sports center later this year.

The first phase of the Paul L. O'Connor Sports Center will include a swimming pool, spectator seating, locker rooms, gymnastic equipment and squash and handball courts.

The swimming pool will be named the Corbett Pool in honor of J. Ralph Corbett, president of the foundation.

Fight marks N.Y. win over Warriors

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tempers flared quickly and fists flew as the New York Knicks, fighting for their playoff lives, combined their most aggressive attack of the season with 34 points from Walt Frazier to beat the Golden State Warriors 99-98 Tuesday night.

Phil Jackson hit a 20 foot jump shot with 33 seconds left to sew up a victory for the Knicks after they blew a six-point lead in the final two minutes. Golden State fought back from a 97-91 deficit to score seven straight points and take the lead with 50 seconds remaining before Jackson's jumper.

Only 42 seconds into the game, Bill Bradley began elbowing and smothering Rick Barry on defense. Barry lashed back and exchanged shouts with Bradley. On the in-bounds play, the two jostled, then suddenly fired punches. Barry landed a right cross to Bradley's jaw while Bradley missed with a punch.

The tension never let up as Barry, clearly unnerved, and the Warriors could not handle the Knicks as they did in three previous meetings. Frazier scored 22 of his points in the first half as the Knicks took a 50-49 edge while Barry, who scored 41 points in his last appearance here, managed only 18 points in the game.

Butch Beard was high for Golden State with 20 points. The victory broke a five-game losing streak for the Knicks while shrinking Golden State's lead in the Pacific Division to just six games.

Golden State called timeout after Jackson's final field goal and missed a chance to move ahead when Cliff Ray was called for an offensive foul going to the basket. Jackson took the ball out on the sideline with 19 seconds remaining but the Warriors applied double pressure on him and he called a timeout before the five second violation on him could be called.

Veteran referee Manny Sokol blew his whistle but then realized that a timeout could not be called in the backcourt in the last two minutes. Sokol gave the ball back to the Knicks, who rebounded and ran out the clock. Barry, who had been screaming at the refs all night and even drew a technical in the third period, followed Sokol off the court and continued arguing for several minutes.

"Sokol made the mistake and it cost us the game," said Barry.

"The refs knew the rule but they got caught up in the game and blew it," said Warrior coach Al Attles. "They should be penalized for that somehow, if not fired."

Horoscope

Carroll Righter

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, FEB. 20, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES. A day to handle details of a business matter, a time to settle and to get your affairs on a most satisfactory basis. Not the day to start any important new ventures, but be prepared for the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Obtain the information you need to put a new project across successfully. Show a willingness to cooperate with associates.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You need to give more attention to property matters. Study your income carefully and think of ways to increase it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can have a far better time at recreations if you are in the company of good friends. Handle important correspondence.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Taking care of personal chores that are little fun but necessary is wise. Try to be more helpful to your associates.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Listening to what good friends have to suggest can bring about fine ideas for the future. Study details of a new project.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't neglect any small tasks connected with your career, even though they may seem unimportant. Think constructively.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You may have to study all aspects of a new project now before you can make it work out successfully. Consult an expert.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You know what your responsibilities are, so get busy and discharge them to the best of your ability. Show devotion to mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you have a talk with an associate over a new project, you can make new arrangements that are more feasible. Be wise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get busy at all that work ahead instead of wasting time with the unimportant. Time spent at improving your health is wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Engage in the amusements that you enjoy. More thought for mate can bring about far better relations at this time. Be happy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't start an argument with closest tie or it could have long-lasting adverse results. Show others that you have wisdom.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have varied interests and no set goal in mind, so teach perseverance early in life. Show understanding and love for your progeny and then the chart can be a successful one. Be sure to give religious training early in life.

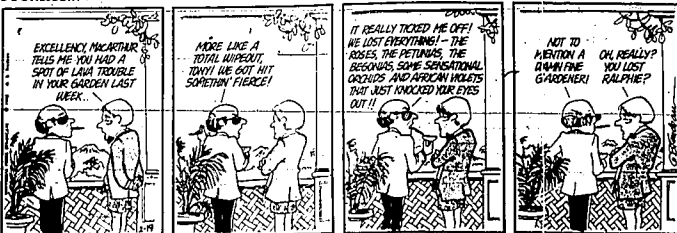

"The Stars impel, they do not compel..." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Hold up your thumbs side by side to look at the base of their nails, please. On which thumb is the nail wider and squared? If the left, you're left-handed. If the right, right-handed. A Missouri medical fellow discovered this handedness test. If you already knew whether you were left-handed or right-handed, never mind.

WHY AFRICANS live in villages away from the big towns never get appendicitis is a mystery, but researchers there say such is the remarkable situation.

Q. "What's the current worth of that institution known as Father Flanagan's Boys Town?"

A. Just $226,662,709.77, according to the latest financial report.

BOOKS with titles that begin "How to" are inclined to sell well. Very well. And hardly a "How to" subject has not been done. Still, I'm thinking about making a little money with such a book. Maybe it'll be titled: "How to Rustle Up Some Good Beefsteak Cheap." If that one goes over, I'll try one called: "How to Treat Gunshot Wounds."

REMEMBER, if you're the one who dialed the telephone, good manners say you should be the one who ends the conversation. That's in social situations. Doesn't apply to conversing dialogues between you and your boss. So report the etiquette experts.

WORKING GIRL

She was from France, this 20-year-old lady of the night. And she told a correspondent that she didn't do so well in Paris. But after she dyed her hair blonde and moved to Japan, she earned the equivalent in yen of approximately $30,000 in just five months. Japanese men are highly attracted to blondes.

THE CLOTHES a wife wore on any given day weighed about a fourth as much as the clothes her husband wore. That was before the feminine pantsuit came along. Her clothes now weigh about half as much as his.

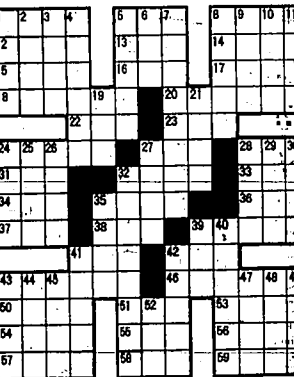

ALMOST TWICE as many boys as girls get set back a grade in school.

Concern for MIAs changes

©Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — A "post cause" attitude now permeates official US government thinking about the problem of the 22 American servicemen listed as missing in action — and unaccounted for — in Southeast Asia.

Families of the missing men, who once received their briefings directly from Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, were invited to dine at the White House and could count on top-level political attention, how find themselves relegated to agencies of the bureaucratic processes of the Defense Department, the Veterans Administration and the Social Security Administration.

The government's falling level of concern has produced bitterness and disappointment among some of these families. One POW wife who was nationally prominent during the closing months of the war, when the POW/MIA issue was politically potent, thinks the government may have compiled dossiers on activists like herself. She wants the congressional committees now investigating the FBI and Central Intelligence Agency to determine whether POW wives were spied upon by their government.

Auctioneer Ken Trout will start the bidding at 1 p.m. There will be 85 Hereford range bulls, both polled and horned, for sale.

Beef bonus posted

NORFOLK, Neb. (UPI) — A dairy executive has decided to try cash bonuses — which have helped buoy the auto market — to boost slumping beef sales.

Leslie Chaffin, general manager of Gillette Dairy Inc., said Monday the company will pay $15 bonus to any employee purchasing a quarter of beef by March 31.

Chaffin said a similar program had been offered by Herden Laboratories in Lincoln, Neb., and challenged other businesses to offer a similar program.

"During the past several months the cattle industry has been severely hurt because of low cattle prices caused by surplus beef. Let's eat our surplus beef," Chaffin said.

On roster

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Directors of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America have admitted to Magic Valley dairymen to membership.

They are Ken and Lois Hill, Jerom, and Phares Schilling, Wendiell. Nine Idahoans were accepted into the organization.

Grain destroyed

ONE OF THE final bags of 47 tons of rice and corn meal destroyed at Helena, Mont., is crushed by Mel Lowe, who called it a waste. The food was condemned by the Department of Agriculture and ordered destroyed after rats and cockroaches were found in a shipment from Texas. The grains were intended for use in the Montana welfare program and for distribution on Indian reservations. (UPI)

Lipton guarantees you can Make-a-Better Burger™ and here's 10¢ off to try it.

NEW

Lipton Make-a-Better Burger is nutritious soy protein and seasonings that turns 4 plain burgers into 8 great-tasting burgers.

The flavor's so good, it's guaranteed?

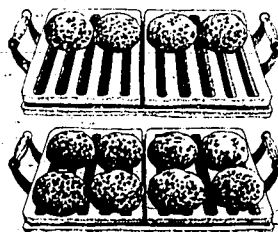

Right. Lipton guarantees you'll like the flavor of Make-a-Better Burger better than plain ground beef or Lipton will refund your money with proof of purchase.

What makes Make-a-Better Burger taste so much better?

Lipton's seasonings — Make-a-Better Burger comes in 4 of your favorite flavors. There's Onion with real chunks in it. There's Chili — red pepper. There's Hickory with bacon-flavored chunks. And there's Mildly Seasoned, too — for folks who like 'em mild in flavor but big and juicy.

4 burgers into 8 — you mean it makes ground meat actually go twice as far?

Yes. Lipton's new Make-a-Better Burger turns one pound of ground beef into double the amount. Burgers are big and juicy and full of flavor. There's less shrinkage, too.

Why Soy Protein?

The soy protein in Make-a-Better Burger is 100% pure, natural protein. New processes turn it into a form that takes on the flavor and texture of meat.

What about nutrition?

Make-a-Better Burger is highly nutritious — not a cereal filler. One average hamburger made with Make-a-Better Burger contains 20% of the U.S. Government's recommended daily protein requirement — with less fat and cholesterol. That means fewer calories.

Does Make-a-Better Burger work in other type recipes?

Any recipes that call for ground meat like Meatloaf, Beef & Noodle Casserole, Hamburger Pie, Chopped Beef Stroganoff, Chili Rice, Sweet 'n Sour Meatballs — all taste better with Make-a-Better Burger.
