Hoover kept 48 derogatory files

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Edward H. Levi disclosed today the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover kept in his office a total of 48 files containing derogatory personal information on the lives of public figures, including 15 former and two current congressmen.

"By and large the material in these folders contained derogatory information, concerns individuals," Levi said, confirming officially for the first time the extent of Hoover's long-rumored file keeping.

Accinlined

CHICAGO (UPI) — Wallace Muhammad, fifth born son of Elijah Muhammad, became the spiritual leader of the Black Muslims Wednesday.

An estimated 15,000 persons including boxer Muhammad Ali pledged their loyalty to the new leader of the sect at the "Savior's Day" observance which became a tribute to the man who led them for more than 40 years before his death at the age of 77 earlier this week.

Yank supply planes step up efforts

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — U.S. civilian cargo planes escalated their supply effort to Phnom Penh almost to Berlin-style proportions today in face of a warning by U.S. Ambassador John Gunther Dean that Cambodia could fall to the Communists by April.

Eleven stretched C-119 jet fighters by planes of two American commercial companies flew more than 300 tons of rice to Phnom Penh from Saigon today. Rebel gunners hit Pochentong airport with seven rockets, killing seven persons and wounding 27 others, but no U.S. planes or pilots were hit.

Indians ignore NM plant ultimatum

SHIPROCK, N.M. (UPI) — A spokesman for an armed Indian occupation force said today his group is ignoring an ultimatum to abandon an electronics plant and is going through company records checking out grievances.

American Indian Movement spokesman Lorenzo Levaldo said he viewed the threat by Fairchild Camera Corp. as nothing more than a "tactic. So, we just sit and wait."

Jobless benefit recipients growing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Department said today layoffs in the automobile, construction and textile industries pushed up the number of unemployment insurance recipients in early February to more than 5.9 million.

The department monitors seven separate benefits programs, including some enacted into law Dec. 31.

The department said that during the week ending Feb. 3 about 4,966,200 persons were receiving regular unemployment insurance benefits, up 117,300 from the previous week.

Kidnapped

BERLIN (UPI) — Peter Lorenz, leader of the Christian Democratic party here and candidate for mayor of West Berlin, was kidnapped today on the way to work.

Two men and a woman armed with machine guns were dropped for the sixth straight month, the Commerce Department reported today.

US productivity declines in 1974

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Productivity in 1974 dropped 2.2 per cent, the first calendar year decline since the government started keeping the statistics 17 years ago, the Labor Department said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said that while output per manhour dropped 2.2 per cent, unit labor costs rose 11.2 per cent.

American jets aid ROK sea chase

SEOUL, Korea (UPI) — U.S. Phantom jet fighters scrambled Wednesday night to support South Korean naval vessels chasing 10 North Korean boats near the western sea border, a Defense Ministry official said today.

Kim Young-sun, deputy leader of the Counter-Espionage Command, did not disclose where the American fighter planes were based.

Demos set own oil plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate Democratic panels agreed today on an alternate plan for a five cent gallon increase in gasoline taxes and abandoning President Ford's goal of curbing oil imports by 1 million barrels a day.

The Democratic plan rejects almost all of the key elements of Ford's program to curtail energy consumption by raising its cost.

The Democratic proposals were hammered out at a closed meeting of House and Senate task forces appointed by Speaker Carl Albert and Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield.

The Democrats were responding to Ford's challenge to enact his program or come up with a comprehensive plan of their own.

The key provisions in the Democrat proposal are:

—A five cent increase in the four cent federal gasoline tax with the $5 billion this would raise earmarked for an energy conservation fund to be used to develop new domestic sources of energy.

—An excise tax on new automobiles which consume more gasoline than the average model and a tax rebate on new American cars which consume less.

—A rejection of Ford's proposal to remove controls on the price of domestic oil and on the price of natural gas which is shipped across state borders.

—An increase of approximately 8.7 per cent in benefits paid to more than 30 million recipients of Social Security and made retroactive to Jan. 1, 1975. Ford had proposed keeping the increase at 5 per cent and making it start July 1.

—The $21 billion tax cut and rebate bill which the House was debating today and expected to pass. This provides considerably more economic stimulation than the $16 billion tax reduction Ford has proposed.

—An excess profits tax on large oil companies.

—A budget deficit resulting from the extra economic stimulation that would be $10 billion higher than the $31.7 billion deficit Ford has proposed.

Main repaired

KIMBERLY — Kimberly residents were without water about two hours Wednesday when a water main joint broke.

A four-man city crew worked from about 3 p.m., when the line went out, until 5:30 a.m. to fix the water main.

Bob Weaver, public works superintendent, said the break was at a weak point in a joint on an old steel line.

In addition, a building contractor in a subdivision near Kimberly damaged another main about 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Crew members spent about two hours repairing that damage, Weaver said.

US trade deficit skids in January

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. trade deficit increased by $211 million in January and an index of future economic trends dropped for the sixth straight month, the Commerce Department reported today.

The double-barreled report indicated continuing problems for the U.S. economy on both the domestic and international fronts. Imports last month were valued at $9.62 billion and exports at $9.41 billion. This put the trade balance at $210.5 million in the red, a slightly smaller deficit than December's $287.6 million in balance.

Commerce officials cautioned that under a new accounting method, imports are now being calculated on a "free alongside ship" basis rather than on the "customs value" basis used in the past.

Under the old procedure, the trade deficits would have been much steeper — $952.6 million in January and $1.08 billion in December.

In a separate report, the department said its index of leading economic indicators dropped 1.3 per cent last month with seven of the nine components of the index going down.

Idaho students proving better risks for loans

BY DAVID HORMAN
Times News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Idaho college students apparently are better credit risks than their counterparts across the nation.

A U.S. commissioner of education recently lamented that too many students have ducked repayment of federally-guaranteed loans from local banks.

Citing a national default rate of about 14 per cent, he announced plans to ask Congress for an additional $67 million to cover the bad debts.

However, Twin Falls bank officers and spokesmen for statewide banks with branches in Twin Falls report that defaults are minimal in Idaho.

Also, federal figures indicate that the default rate in Idaho is much lower than the national average.

"Our local situation is absolutely different from the national trend. We've found that there is no problem with this loan," said Neal Garrison, who handles student loans for Twin Falls Bank and Trust.

He could not say what the default rate is at his bank, but claimed that it is "very low."

"I think that the type of person we deal with is a different type than they might be talking about across the nation," he said. "It sounds like it is coming from the West and East Coasts, the more populated areas."

"We have a good relationship with our students," Garrison added. "These people know their responsibilities, when they borrow the money."

Dan Gulbransen, Boise, student loan officer for Idaho First National Bank, said, "Our default rate isn't nearly that high."

Arab blacklist

DIRECTORY of foreign companies boycotted by Arabs is displayed by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, during Senate hearings in Washington Wednesday. Church charged that Arab states are trying to impose a pattern of anti-Semitism on American business life by boycotting firms doing business with Israel. One witness said the Corps of Engineers has bowed to an Arab demand that officers with Jewish sounding names be barred from projects in the Middle East. (UPI)

ERA repealer vote due

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News Capital Bureau

BOISE — Repeal of Idaho's ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment is tentatively set for a vote today.

ERA opponents range from optimistic to confident that their resolution to rescind the state's 1972 ratification of the amendment will pass.

Rep. Butch Otter, R-Nampa, and sponsor of the resolution, said chances for passage look good but are too close to call.

But Rep. Ralph Gines, R-Nampa and co-sponsor of the measure, said, "It's gonna pass." He said the 37-33 vote Tuesday to pull the bill out of the State Affairs Committee is a strong indicator of support for the measure.

Rep. John Brooks, R-Gooding, and Rep. Gordon Hallifield, R-Jerome, also predicted the resolution would make it through the House.

Whether it will pass today, however, is less certain. Being tenth on the agenda the resolution may not be voted upon until tomorrow.

Prospects for the resolution hinge on procedure. Senate Rule 36-7 calls for a two-thirds majority vote to rescind a measure, a requirement which would be almost sure to block passage of the resolution.

But Otter says the Senate commonly passes bills which repeal other bills on a simple majority vote. He believes Senate procedure on this matter will be questioned.

Also on the agenda for a vote today in the House is a bill to give cities the right to adopt any form of taxation with 50 per cent approval by local voters.

Since House Bill 90 is next to the bottom of the list, it's unlikely to be voted on today, according to Rep. Steve Antone, R-Twin Falls and chairman of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee.

But Antone believes the bill will pass the House.

In the Senate, however, he says the bill probably will be amended. Through discussions with Senate Local Government and Taxation members, Antone says he understands there is sentiment that the forms of taxes cities can levy ought to be restricted.

Antone himself had backed limiting the types of taxes cities could impose. But his committee decided to leave the bill broad.

The House did amend the bill in two minor ways, however. One amendment provides that any sales tax levied by cities would be administered through the sales tax commission.

Another amendment projects the possibility that counties might be given the same powers of taxation. It provides that counties and cities would jointly levy taxes if they were to adopt the same tax, according to Rep. Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls.

Attack victims still 'serious'

TWIN FALLS — Two Twin Falls women who allegedly were assaulted in their home Wednesday morning have been taken off the critical list at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Moorehead was held in the custody of the sheriff in lieu of $50,000 bond. He was arrested at the Twin Falls police station at about 11:30 a.m. Wednesday after he had voluntarily come into the hospital.

Crystal Gietzen, 18, was shot repeatedly and beaten. Her mother, Edith Gietzen, 55, was beaten severely, officials said, resulting in a skull fracture, a broken hand and facial lacerations.

The remaining suspect in the case, David Dean Moorehead, 20, was arraigned before Magistrate Court Judge Paul Smith Wednesday afternoon on a single charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder.

A second suspect, Stephen Rayborn, 22, reportedly had committed suicide when officers arrived to arrest him Wednesday.

Cops can't censor story

TWIN FALLS — City police cannot order the news media to cease broadcast or publication of a story, according to Charles Brumbach, Twin Falls city attorney.

He also said the media can receive and disperse information sent over police radios as long as the communications take place within the state. Communications between states, such as police broadcasts between Idaho and Utah and telephone lines, are private, according to Brumbach.

Brumbach made the statement today after it was reported that Twin Falls Detective Capt. Tim Qualls ordered KEEB radio station to halt broadcasts concerning a shooting incident Wednesday morning. Two Twin Falls women were hospitalized in critical condition after the incident.

Twin Falls Police Chief Frank Barnett claimed the radio station received information on the case by monitoring the police radio and said, "It is against federal regulations to intercept a broadcast meant for someone else and use it for your own purposes."

Brumbach today said, "I don't think Capt. Qualls would ever call anybody like that. An issue an order, but I think he would call and request very strong cooperation."

If Qualls did order KEEB not to broadcast, "he was wrong legally," Brumbach said. "There would be no enforcement power behind the order."

"A court can order but a police officer cannot order in this particular case," he added.

However, after receiving a request not to publish or broadcast certain information, a news agency would be taking a "will" choice if it went ahead, according to Brumbach.

It might later be charged with violation of a state statute prohibiting resistance to or obstruction of justice, particularly if news reports interfered with the investigation of a case or the apprehension of a suspect.

Secrecy pact waived

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said today CIA Director William E. Casper has agreed to waive the secrecy agreement required of the agency's employees in order to testify before a special Senate investigation.

Church, chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, conferred with Casper in Church's office for about an hour on matters relating to secret Central Intelligence Agency information.

The senator indicated earlier his concerns about a report the CIA wanted employees about their constitutional rights to testify in a probe of alleged CIA spying on Americans and abuses by other intelligence agencies.

Health aids outlined

TWIN FALLS — Mental health services available in the Magic Valley area were discussed during the Magic Valley Business and Professional Women's Club meeting Monday night.

The group heard a report from Dennis Murray, director of the Mental Health Center, Twin Falls, which serves the fifth region under the Department of Health and Welfare. He told the business women the center provides outpatient services, inpatient services, partial care services and emergency services available seven days a week and 24 hours a day.

There are also educational and consultation services available to those needing direction. Family and marital therapy services are being offered.

The services are reaching an average of two new patients each week, Murray said.

Members of the club also discussed possible ways in which the mental health program can serve in their project of "rape prevention" and a question and answer session followed the talk by Murray.

The oldest fossil mammal skeleton ever found in North America has been discovered in Montana. The bones belong to a triconodont, a small creature that roamed the earth more than 100 million years ago.

Levee project review slated

BY BART QUESNELL

Times-News Writer
HAILEY — A $34,000 Big Wood River levee construction project will receive a 20-day review by several state departments before permission is granted.

The US Army Corps of Engineers has agreed to levee at the Bellevue Bible Camp, the Meyers property south of Bellevue and north of the Deer Creek Bridge about three miles north of Hailey.

Work in the river has been met by groans from environmentalists. Most of dissenters contend levees built by the corps wash out eventually making the work and money spent of little value. Others say the river should be given its full width to wander and individuals who have built in the flood plain should suffer the consequences.

Bob Haynes, district engineer for the Idaho Department of Water Resources, said Wednesday, "Because of the nature of the work and the interest by the people up there we have decided to send the application out for review."

Haynes said the Idaho Fish and Game Department, the Department of Health and Welfare and the Department of Public Lands would each evaluate the project and make recommendations.

The notification of application would probably be signed by local flood control director James Hogg Wednesday. Haynes said, and be into the Twin Falls office by the end of this week.

The agencies have 20 days to reply and offer suggestions. Haynes said he would issue a press release urging all individuals with concerns to write to the Twin Falls office of the Department of Water Resources.

The corps will probably have to wait longer than the 20 days to get approval from Blaine County. Planning and zoning administrator Bob Barnes said Tuesday night he would not approve the work of the corps without the express consent of the planning and zoning commission.

It will be one of the first times an application for river work will be considered by the commission although the Blaine County ordinance requires written approval by the commission.

Blaine County Commissioner Ivan Gutafson, an outspoken advocate of the river's natural rights, said last week he personally would look into the river work to be done before permission is given to construct levees.

Jobless ranks pose violent energy problem

CHAPPEL HILL, N.C. — In the capital of the United States, the economic slump is statistics and politics; but out here in the country, it's people: anxiety over jobs, layoffs, deficits, bankruptcies, drop-outs and firming up.

The federal government, which is seldom excessively pessimistic, tells us that we can expect abnormally high unemployment for at least three years; and to take just one of its startling figures, that 41.1 per cent of all black teenagers in the country are now out of work.

Already, some of the labor union leaders, are talking about bringing the unemployed workers "into the streets," but the social and political consequences of prolonged excessive unemployment in black ghettos could be much more serious than the Ford administration has ever considered.

Total unemployment country-wide was 8.2 per cent in mid-January, but it is higher now, worse than the national average in industrial New England and in the South, much worse among the young in general and the black young in particular.

If anybody thinks this country can have over 40 per cent of its black teenagers out of work for three years without serious trouble in the streets, I haven't met him. But the Ford administration has merely trifled with the problem.

The national statistics are deceptive. They give us general averages for the country, but the unemployment is uneven, and social turmoil often comes out of concentrated urban pockets of despair.

Wherever you go in this country, you see wide disparities between rich and poor communities. In every state, and often within a single town or city.

The situation in North Carolina illustrates the element of accident, or as Jack Kennedy once said, the "unfairness of life." This state is following accurately enough the national economic pattern: over 8 per cent unemployed but spotty.

In government towns, like Raleigh, and university towns like Durham and Chapel Hill, it is below the national unemployment average, but in the mill towns and furniture towns, it is, as they say here, "hurting bad."

The Southeast, which was booming before the slump, is now falling below the national average and this is particularly hard on the one-industry towns in the Carolina Piedmont.

All this makes the problem of policy for the President and the Congress extremely difficult. For an energy problem that fits one area of the country doesn't fit the problems of total different areas, and a policy that deals with 8 per cent unemployment in general, does not deal with 41 per cent black teen-age unemployment.

President Ford has paid his respects to all these problems. He has suggested public service jobs, in a limited way, and he has put other aids to the poor, but he has not really dealt with his own most disturbing statistic: that 41 and soon 50 per cent of the young blacks will be out of work, and that their hope of getting jobs for three years is pretty dim.

Somewhere in the planning of the next year and the authorization and appropriation of money, this problem of young black urban unemployment is going to have to get a higher priority than it now has.

The President has all kinds of models before him: the Civilian Conservation Corps of the old New Deal days, the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, and other programs, but at some point he will deal with a rising unemployment black teen-age population.

The President has recognized it, but he has not grappled with it or funded it. And if his figures are right — and over 40 per cent of the young blacks are going to be out of work for the next three years — this could be more of a violent energy problem than he now has in the Middle East.

Public bears malpractice brunt

The medical profession is facing a crisis in its inability to obtain insurance against malpractice verdicts, or the payment of high premiums when it is possible to purchase such insurance.

A worsening situation has been developing for the last seven or eight years, with large malpractice verdicts growing at an unprecedented rate. As of 1969, for instance, there had been but one million dollar verdict rendered against a physician. Since then, however, there have been 16 million dollar verdicts and eleven of them have occurred in the last two years.

The flamboyant San Francisco attorney, Melvin Belli, was one of the legal pioneers in gaining large malpractice verdicts for his clients.

He developed a legal principle, res ipsa loquitur — things speak for themselves — which did not make it necessary to prove that the doctor has been actually guilty of negligent or inadequate procedures, but the basis of the final conclusion of the patient was the determinant.

Belli's success in the malpractice field did not go unnoticed by other lawyers and firms sprang up quickly specializing in malpractice suits before sympathetic juries.

The ordinary suit is taken on a contingency basis, with the lawyer getting one-third to one-half of the verdict, when one is rendered.

And the suits are usually for about twice as much as they hope to collect on the theory that the insurance company will settle out of court rather than allow the case to go before the juries which are notoriously easy to sway for the plaintiff.

Some of the fault of the growth of the suits undoubtedly lies with the medical profession itself. Failures to discipline its members properly through careful scrutiny of capabilities in surgical procedures has happened when certification of operating room use is not made on a regular intense basis.

Hospital tissue removals which reportedly showed repeated removal of undiseased organs and unnecessary surgical procedures have also contributed to the current crisis.

Our concern is the effect which it has on medical services to the public and the cost to the patient.

Under the fear of malpractice suits doctors are reluctant to take unusual steps in emergency cases to save the life of a patient. If the patient does not survive they may have a suit on their hands.

And the cost of patient care will rise increasingly rapidly as doctors seek to protect themselves from lawsuits by ordering extra tests, x-rays and consultations. Every unnecessary medical procedure raises the cost to the patient.

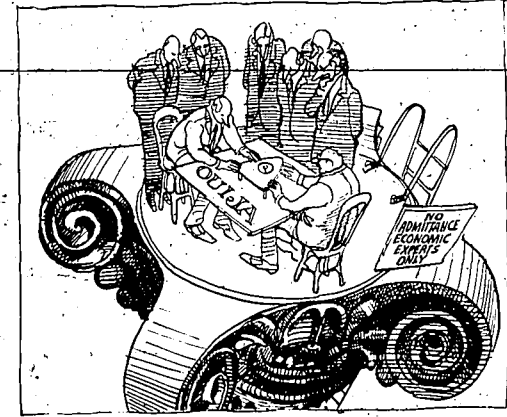

Of course, the additional cost of malpractice insurance, when it can be obtained will be paid for by the patient as doctors pass through the extra costs.

So in the long run it is the general public which is the loser through exorbitant verdicts in such suits.

The profession might find some relief in the establishment of its own insurance company under the aegis of the American Medical Association. This had been done by other profession groups seeking to prevent large verdicts.

They could develop a well-trained legal staff capable of coping with the firms that specialize in malpractice suits.

And if it were set up under the AMA stringent make the profession less prone to this type of action.

Sudden change on panel

By ALLEN EHRENHALT
Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — Change is coming at once to the House Agriculture Committee, traditional bastion of congressional seniority and spokesman for cotton and the rural South.

When the committee convened in January, 18 of its 41 members were standing their first term in Congress. A noisy consumer bloc threatened the committee's longstanding pro-farm consensus. There was a new chairman, Thomas S. Foley at Washington, the first northern Democrat to hold the job in more than 50 years.

Foley, 45, became chairman after the House Democratic caucus turned down W.R. Poage, the Texan who had been chairman for eight years. Foley is urban and liberal, Poage rural and conservative, and speculation has centered on the way their differing styles might affect farm policy.

But Foley, for one, thinks that topic has been overplayed. "The press has emphasized the chairmanship issue," he said. "The big story is the membership change. The newcomers may pay a certain amount of respect to the leadership, but they are not going to defer to my judgment."

The influx of new members has worried some observers, including Agriculture Secretary Earl A. Butz, who thinks farm interests are losing control over the committee. "We've got a flock of new congressmen who wouldn't know the working end of a corn if you showed them one," Butz said in January. "Many of them represent urban areas, not rural ones, and they didn't get there to help agriculture."

Statistics contradict Butz. Under a definition of cities of 50,000 or more as urban areas, only two of the committee's 18 freshmen represent districts more than 50 percent urban. Only four of its districts even 25 per cent urban. Five of the 18 do not have a single urban constituent, and just one has an entirely urban district.

Some conservatives are less worried about urban bias than about efforts by some newcomers to expand government help to farmers. The freshman who worries them most is Tom Harkin, a 35-year-old Iowa Democrat. In his first week on the committee, Harkin tried but failed to attach price support increases to a food stamp bill and called for an investigation into financial practices among Iowa meatpackers.

This is a year when farmers will be seeking boosts in crop loan rates and target prices to compensate for their losses from inflation. In past years, the Senate has passed bills with generous farm payments, knowing that Poage and his conservative-minded committee would knock them down in conference. This year's House committee may be less willing to play that game and could clear a bill with higher rates than would have been desired in the past.

Rural America is not losing power on the committee, but rural South is, and as a result the traditional image of the committee as an instrument of the cotton industry is no longer accurate.

For years, cotton producers had enough influence to push through legislation they favored. Speaking through Ed O'Neil, longtime president of the American Farm Bureau with Poage and the southern Democrats who preceded him as chairman. For years, the cotton subcommittee was the most popular choice among freshmen entering the committee. This year, it placed eighth.

"Cotton will be recognized as a legitimate part of the discussion," said Bob Bergland, a Minnesota Democrat emerging as one of the committee's key members. "But as you can see, cotton is no longer dominant."

When Foley is not resolving the competing claims of farm spokesmen, he will have to deal with an increasingly vocal group that presses consumer issues. Peter A. Peyser, a New York Republican, joined the committee in 1974, proclaimed himself its only consumer advocate and fought Poage on bills to subsidize sugar and rice and indemnify chicken farmers from disaster. He said all of them wasted the consumer's money.

This year Peyser will have allies on the committee. But Foley is optimistic about avoiding conflict. "I've been sympathetic," he said. "To the tooter-tooter view of farmer-consumer issues, that one goes down when the other goes up. I don't view farm interests as hostile to consumers. If people think that producers going out of business is somehow a break for consumers, they don't know anything about agriculture."

Many committee members believe Foley's presence as the committee's leader will improve its image among House liberals. "In the past four years, whenever we reported a bill to the floor under Poage, people felt the consumer was being ripped off," said Bergland. "Many of the 100 or so people who voted against anything Bob Poage favored will listen to Tom Foley."

Even Poage admits that he would have credibility problems if he had stayed on. "I think Mr. Foley will do a better job of it than I could possibly do," Poage said. "He'll have more cooperation than I could possibly receive."

Closed hearts, minds

WASHINGTON — The cancellation of the Congressional mission to South Vietnam resulted less from crowded legislative schedules than from overwhelming concern on Capitol Hill about the fate of Indochina.

Influential members of Congress generally pined off when invited to go. Many Congressmen who did accept are unfavorably opposed to continuing U.S. military aid to the Saigon regime, some of them volunteering for the long journey to make sure anti-Saigon sentiment was on the delegation. Although the administration claims the mission will be scheduled, many have already expressed their opposition. Congressmen would spend so much time "hunting for tiger cages" — that is, seeking to justify propaganda about government repression — that the whole project should be scrapped.

This reflects the Congressional mood on Vietnam. "Don't bother me with the facts, I've got my mind made up," The heartbeats and minds of Capitol Hill are closed to the building tragedy of South Vietnamese troops, debilitated by reduced U.S. aid, being ground down by North Vietnamese troops — in flagrant violation of the 1973 Paris cease-fire. Indeed, Congressmen generally shy away from being exposed to facts pointing to them as responsible for the outcome in Vietnam.

The trip to Vietnam was conceived by a key Pentagon official who was impressed by the Saigon regime's army and popular support. Surely, he reasoned, anti-aid congressmen would be impressed by a firsthand view.

Thus, he proposed a Congressional visit to gain supporters in the forlorn fight for President Ford's $200 million Vietnam aid emergency appropriation. The idea was approved by Ford a month ago, with Assistant Secretary of State Philip Habib assigned to enlist a delegation. He ran into trouble immediately.

Senior members of key committees generally refused to go. One exception was conscientious Sen. Clifford Case of New Jersey, senior Republican on the foreign relations committee and long a Vietnam dove. Leaving for the Bincoln Day recess, Case agreed to serve on the delegation. But a few days later, he changed his mind. While Case cited his busy schedule, the more likely reason is that he inspected the roster of others who had accepted and found them considerably junior to him.

Besides lacking seniority, that early roster was dominated by the minority of Congressmen who support Vietnam aid. The administration frantically sought doves. Habib, for instance, personally recruited Republican Rep. Pete McCloskey of California, who as a dove terminated U.S. embassies on a 1971 Indochina swing.

But other doves were volunteering to make sure the mission was not overly positive. One volunteer was Democratic Sen. Richard Clark of Iowa, who told us it is "very, very unlikely" anything he saw there could make him vote for aid. Vietnam, he added, "is not a military question to me."

The imbalance swinging from right to left gave some Congressmen the totally mistaken notion that Ford was stacking the delegation to dramatize for President Nguyen Van Thieu the mood in Congress. Several top officials (not Habib) began souring on the project.

Cancellations began pouring in for varied reasons besides pleas of crowded schedules. Sen. Joseph Biden of Delaware, a liberal Democrat, got "the impression that it was going to be difficult to get a good look there," Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada, a conservative Republican, questioned whether delegation members had sufficient stature to effect anything in Washington.

Even if Biden and Laxalt had not cancelled, would it have mattered? Biden wants all aid ended and "can't imagine what could change my mind," unless it were proof of Communist reprisals against South Vietnamese after a military collapse. Laxalt opposes the $300 million appropriation and "I don't think I'd ever see anything that would change me."

Nevertheless, hope persists at the State Department that, once on the scene in Vietnam, these closed minds and hearts would be opened by the facts. The hard-boiled appraisal at the White House seems more realistic: those few Congressmen willing to make the trip, and the motives for accepting by some of them, deepen the doubts that Congress will long fulfill the nation's remaining commitment to Vietnam.

Thought for the day

David Lawrence, American Journalist, said, "We look admiringly at our new inventions. But some of the 'improvements' of our day are illusory. We have developed many mechanical devices to get more out of life but we have never invented a better formula for human behavior than the Sermon on the Mount."

THE NEW OWNERSHIP WE THOUGHT HE WAS A TERRORIST!

Berry's World

"Can't we make our program a little more complicated — too many people might understand it!"

Why worry? Look who's writing the manuals

WASHINGTON — The news that the Defense Department was handing out contracts to private firms to train soldiers and airmen in the Middle East to defend their oil fields against shock troops is a little funny.

But Muldoon at the Pentagon told me not to worry.

"Why shouldn't I worry?" I said. "One day Kissinger says if the Arabs frame us we might have to take the oil fields, and the next day you people are announcing that you're handing out contracts to teach the oil producers how to cope with a foreign attack."

"We're not stupid," Muldoon said. "Of course we're training Arabs to defend themselves. But that's part of our overall strategy. We're teaching them how to shoot high so if they ever have to fire at our boys they'll miss us."

"No kidding," I said.

"Look, we had to make a decision about a year ago. Do we train the oil producing nations in the arts of modern warfare or do we let somebody else do it?

"The consensus was that it was better for us to get the contracts than the French or the Soviets. If anybody there was a risk involved. So our people decided to hire instructors who didn't know what they were doing. For example, we found one Air Force ordnance man who always loaded missiles on our planes backward so they would fire the wrong direction. He's been put in charge of instructing Arab ordnance men on how to arm their planes.

"By luck we found a former second lieutenant who was washed out of the Air Force navigation program four times. He is teaching Arab air force instructors how to fly in bad weather."

"Fantastic," I said.

"We found a destroyer captain who ran his ship around three times. We gave him the choice of a court-martial or heading naval school handling training programs in the Middle East."

"He was a good choice," I agreed. "Aren't you instructing a lot of Arabs in anti-tank warfare?"

"Of course. But we have an ex-colonel in charge of the program who has never known how to set a fuse."

When he was in the U.S. Army, his outfit blew up 400 anti-tank guns before the shells left their barrels.

"Where do you find these people?" I asked.

"We have a computer that can produce a foul-up in a matter of seconds. If we want a radar man to train troops in the use of antiaircraft missiles, we just punch in and we get our man. We just gave out a contract to an ex-major who shot down 34 of our own planes during maneuvers last year. Our leading electronics expert, an ex-general, blew the circuits on all our SAC communications systems for 48 hours. He is now installing similar systems all along the Persian Gulf."

"Keep people on the ball," I said with admiration.

Muldoon was defensive. "Everyone criticizes us for these training programs, and they don't think we know what we're doing. Do you believe we'd do anything that would endanger our own military forces?"

"Guess who is in charge of writing all the technical military manuals we send abroad?"

"Tell me."

"Clifford Irving."

ERA not needed to aid equality

Editor, Times-News:
Supporters of ERA can pick up the anti-ERA legislators all they want but it won't change the facts.
Legislative power already exists to strike down every vestige of inequality between the sexes. A constitutional amendment is not needed either to create that power, to extend it, or to perfect it.

If equality between the sexes still exists in the law and public policy demands complete equality, then why not remove those inequalities legislatively?

ERA proponents answer that question by expressing their impatience with the piecemeal approach of the legislative process. They want to remove all inequality at one time by denying the power of government to recognize any inequality.

What they apparently fail to see is that they are simply trading one piecemeal approach for another. Instead of working with state legislatures and the Congress to write laws, amend laws, and repeal laws to remove such vestigial inequalities as yet exist, they will be suing in the courts to define the word equality, case by litigated case.

All they will have accomplished is to change the forum, from the legislature to the courts. They will transfer the power to determine public policy in this important and rather fundamental area out of the legislative branch of government, the branch most directly responsive to the public will, and place it in the judiciary, the branch least responsive, and the federal judiciary is not reachable by the people at all.

My deep concern and, I trust, knowledge of the rightful and proper relationship between the legislative and judicial functions persuade me that the public interest will be best served if the legislative power is not diminished and if the courts are not imposed upon to do the legislature's work of deciding public policy.

Far different than enacting a statute which may be amended to reflect the changing times or to correct court interpretations of it, once Congress assents to the placing of language in the Constitution, it puts that language beyond its reach.

The language then becomes the tool of the Supreme Court to interpret it at will, and the court has been known to find meanings and powers in constitutional amendments undreamed of and unintended by the congresses which proposed them and the state legislatures which ratified them.

In the light of this history, congressmen, legislatures and citizens should painstakingly and exhaustively inquire into and even speculate upon all possible interpretations the court may place upon the language if they would truly understand the scope of the restriction upon legislative power this proposed Amendment encompasses.

The phrase "Equality of rights under the law" will mean whatever the Supreme Court says it means, and the meaning may change from time to time as the membership of the court changes. Within whatever meaning the court may give that phrase, Congress is empowered by the second section of the article to make laws enforcing it.

Without this amendment, the states may legislate within the limits of the equal protection and due process clauses of the 14th Amendment. With this amendment, the states may not legislate at all on the subject of rights under the law, except as the Supreme Court may find their laws free of sexual inequality.

Men and women are already equal under the law and I believe that whatever vestiges of inequality discriminatory against women still remain should be removed. I believe they can be removed legislatively and favor the legislature over the courts to accomplish that goal.

Hansen defended

Editor, Times-News:
If George Hansen is a "criminal," so was George Washington, Patrick Henry, Nathan Hale and all of the founders of our Constitution. Every last one of them were "lawbreakers."

But consider the laws! They were unjust, oppressive, dictatorial and the penalties ridiculous out of proportion to the "crime."

With the radical left-wingers dominating our political structure for such a long period of time, they have proliferated such a mass of "laws" that there are from one to a dozen on the books with which they can nail any citizen to the wall any time they choose.

Consider for example, Mr. Businessman or Mr. Contractor or Mr. Property Owner, that an OSHAcrat can come onto your property without warning or search warrant and fine you $1,000 per day for some infraction of safety rules found in a mass of contradicting regulations and "laws."

Because George Hansen is a patriot, standing like a David against this Goliath and other tyrannies, he has been marked for destruction.

Fellow citizens, don't be blinded by the charges against this man! They couldn't get him on basic principles or even as "act of commission." They had to charge him with "omission" or a technicality, the "law," then warp his "guilty" plea all out of proportion to its significance.

If you let them get away with this effrontery to human rights and dignity, you may be next on their list.

TV movies scored

Editor, Times-News:
I am writing in regard to the movies they are putting on TV lately. With all the bad influences our children have to face today, why expose them to any more?

They tell us to use parental discretion on this matter. They have put some of these movies on after 9 o'clock, which I am thankful for. But how long and how often will it be this way?

When my children ask me why they can't watch TV at certain times, I simply tell them the truth. The TV no longer cares about family entertainment.

Satan has his way of infiltrating our homes. We must take a firm stand and disregard that which will not benefit our children. I hope we will all use wise judgment for the raising of our children.

Complaint queried

Editor, Times-News:
I'm not sure whether Mr. Zeb Bell was complaining in his letter about the Twin Falls County Fair board or the manager, Mr. Shouse.

We have had several occasions to work with Mr. and Mrs. Shouse and have never heard them complain about "extra work." Their attitude seems to be that's why they are there — to help Twin Falls County people.

I hope Mr. Bell's remarks won't change the way Mr. and Mrs. Shouse feel toward the young people interested in rodeo. Mr. and Mrs. Shouse have had nothing but praise for these young people — their attitude and actions.

Mr. and Mrs. Shouse are good friends and good boosters for the young people interested in rodeo.

Public conflict measure offered

BOISE (UPI) — A comprehensive conflict of interest bill for public officials and candidates for public office was introduced by the House Judiciary Committee Wednesday.

Containing both misdemeanor and felony penalties for violations of various provisions, the measure would apply to appointed as well as elected public officials and consultants who are paid $2,000 or more a month by a governmental entity.

It requires certain disclosures of financial involvement and prohibits a number of acts by public officials. It stipulates that no public official shall:

- Use his official position, office or public funds to obtain economic gain for himself, any member of his household or any business with which he is associated.
- Solicit, accept or receive anything of value, whether gift, favor, services or promises of future benefit, upon any understanding, expressed or reasonably inferred, to influence his or another public official's exercise of official discretion.
- Solicit, accept or receive any money or other economic gain as payment for services, advice, assistance or conduct normally exercised in the course of his official duties.
- Use or disclose confidential information gained in the course of or by reason of his official position or activities in any manner which may result in economic gain for himself, any member of his household or any business with which he is associated.
- Enter into any contract, other than in an official capacity, with any governmental entity unless such contract has been awarded through the processes of public notice and competitive bidding.
- Appoint or vote for appointment of any person related to him within the second degree.
- It also prohibits the public official from offering to influence any public official or to attempt to induce, coerce, solicit or require them to violate the act.

Appointments out

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate State Affairs Committee sent to the floor without recommendation Wednesday the appointment of John Bender as director of the Idaho Department of Law Enforcement.

It also sent out with a recommendation for confirmation the appointment of Keith Higginson as director of the Department of Water Resources.

Panel asks project OK

BOISE (UPI) — A bill authorizing the Water Resources Board to sponsor and develop the "Twin Falls Project" (two miles southwest of Hammett) was introduced by the House Resources Committee Wednesday.

It specifically authorizes the board to plan, finance, construct, acquire, operate, own, maintain and be the sponsor and developer of a water resource project under provisions of the Carey Act.

Road fund bills given fast nod

BOISE (UPI) — Both houses acted under suspension of rules to give overwhelming approval Wednesday to bills appropriating $3.8 million in previously-impounded federal highway trust funds.

They are available to the states on a first-come, first-served basis, Sessions said.

He said the other appropriate $2.3 million to match $13.3 million in fiscal 1975 trust funds being released early to the states — again on a first-come, first-served basis.

"I really feel we're ready to embark on an extensive highway improvement program — one badly needed, one to improve the economy," Sessions said.

Price floor proposed

BOISE (UPI) — Legislation setting minimum retail beer and wine prices and to require and wholesalers to maintain certain effective dates for price schedules was introduced Wednesday by the House Business Committee.

Retailers would be required to mark up beer and wine at least 15 per cent above the wholesale cost, brewers and wholesalers who increased prices would have to keep their schedules in effect at least 30 days and those who reduce them would have to keep them in effect for at least six months.

Other sections of the measure also limit the financial interest wholesalers and brewers may have in or assist retailers.

River fish guard asked

BOISE (UPI) — The House Resources and Conservation Committee Wednesday introduced a bill specifying that regulations under the Columbia River Compact shall maintain and preserve the anadromous fish resources for all users.

At present the compact is required to "recognize and give consideration to the interest of all users of the resource" but not to maintain and preserve it for the benefit of all users.

Power asked

BOISE (UPI) — The House transportation committee introduced legislation today to give the Public Utilities Commission power to set intrastate rates and fares of federally certified air carriers.

The authority would apply to carriers operating under certification of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Report links 2nd drug to heart disease deaths

(C) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — Phenformin, the second major type of drug taken orally to lower diabetics' blood sugar has been linked to excessive deaths from heart disease, according to a report published as a supplement by Journal of the American Diabetes Association.
It was the second of two of the so-called oral hypoglycemic drugs evaluated in an 8½-year study involving more than 1,200 diabetic patients. The other drug is called tolbutamide.
The report not only shows an association between use of phenformin and increased risk of death, but also links the drug with high blood pressure and rapid heart beat. The links with blood pressure and heart rate were not found in the study of tolbutamide, scientists familiar with the research said Wednesday.
The new finding is considered important because it may help to explain the increased risk of death from heart disease that seems associated with use of the drug.
The Journal of the American Diabetes Association, one of the world's leading scientific journals in its field, in an editorial describes the 119-page report as the "definitive findings" of the phenformin part of the massive university group diabetes program study.

The project has cast serious doubt on the use of the oral drugs for lowering blood sugar. Since the first report of the project was made public in 1969, it has been a source of intense controversy. Some doctors and medical centers have stopped using the drugs. Others have continued to prescribe them and to defend their usefulness in treating adults with mild diabetes that does not require insulin, which is given by injection.

Tolbutamide, representing a group of drugs called sulfonylureas, was the first studied in a government-supported project at 12 medical centers. Use of that drug was discontinued in the study in 1969 when it became clear that the patients receiving it were showing significantly higher death rate from heart disease than patients who were treated with insulin or even diet alone.

The use of phenformin was discontinued in 1971 for the same reason.

TV broadcasters scored

(C) Chicago Sun-Times
WASHINGTON — Columnist Ann Landers has cut loose with a scathing attack on television broadcasters as "one of the strongest promoters of this medicine chest society which is tied into drugs."

Miss Landers, in a speech here Wednesday said the

Safeguards drawn for FBI taps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Edward H. Levi has drawn up safeguards to be imposed on FBI wiretapping and use of the information stored in its vast investigative files.

FBI director, Clarence M. Kelley and Deputy Attorney General Laurence Silberman were to appear today with Levi before a meeting of the House Judiciary subcommittee on civil and constitutional rights, called by Chairman Don Edwards, D-Calif., during intense congressional concern over possible abuse of surveillance powers.

In earlier hearings, members have expressed concern over several past FBI practices which both Kelley and Silberman pledge will never be repeated.

The late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover reputedly kept files on public figures including congressmen, in his office and for some subjects encouraged agents to report gossip about their sex lives and drinking habits.

Hoover in the late 1960s and early 1970s kept some agents busy disrupting radical groups with "ridiculous" instead of merely investigating possible criminal violations.

The FBI until recently kept a get-acquainted file on new congressmen, collected from newspaper clippings and campaign brochures.

Still another FBI "file" has caused concern, Kelley says the FBI still maintains it, but he says it is only a cross-index of names that crop up in unsolicited information given FBI agents. Some persons named happen to be congressmen, Kelley said.

Levi, when questioned about this in confirmation hearings before the Senate Judiciary Committee said, "I oppose maintaining files which have no relevance, that are not sufficiently closely connected with probable cause of a crime being committed."

Aides eye tax-cut bill

(C) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — The House Rules Committee cleared the way Wednesday for consideration by the House today of the $21.3 billion anti-recession tax-cut bill, coupled with a move to repeal all or part of the oil depletion allowance.

The committee also agreed to a procedure under which the House will be allowed to vote on a Republican tax-reduction bill, which would involve a smaller overall tax cut but larger immediate tax rebates than the Democratic version. The Republican substitute, sponsored by Rep. Barter B. Conable Jr. of New York, would also give somewhat more tax relief to persons in the over 20,000 income group.

It seemed certain that the House would adopt the tax-cut bill approved by the Ways and Means Committee, rather than the Republican substitute and the big issue was the fate of the oil depletion allowance.

Rocky promises to mend ways

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Nelson Rockefeller severely chastised, not only apologized but promised never to do it again.

A chastened Vice President Rocky down after southern conservative senators rebuked him for trying to speed up Senate consideration of a change in the filibuster rule.

Specifically, they were angry at Rockefeller for ordering the start of a roll call vote. Sen. James Allen, D-La., using three hand microphones, was shouting for recognition.

When the Democratic and GOP conservatives were through with him, Rockefeller had apologized to Allen and assured the Senate he would mend his ways.

"He said that 'in light of the discussion and my role as a servant of the Senate there is no question as to the extension as to the will of the Senate and the chair will conform.'"

Under the precedents, the presiding officer does not have to recognize a senator seeking recognition for a parliamentary inquiry, but traditionally he does.

Rockefeller said he ignored Allen in an effort "to speed action" because "Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield had complained of "dilatory" tactics by opponents of the rules change.

Rockefeller's speed-up had moved reformers to the brink of a major break — getting the proposed rules change up for consideration, a move that has been blocked by a filibuster.

It also prompted the first offer of a compromise. Sen. Russell Long, D-La., proposed the rule be changed — for this session only — so 60 senators could cut off debate.

The present rules require two-thirds of those present and voting, 67 if all are present. Reformers want to lower that to three fifths of those present.

Mansfield recessed the session so both sides could consider it overnight. Long called Rockefeller's action "one of the most improper decisions I have seen in my 25 years."

"He does not own this body," Long shouted. Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, a moderate, said, "I don't believe the Vice President realizes how vital courtesy to one another is" in conducting Senate operations.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said, "I never thought I'd see the day a presiding officer takes advantage" of his right not to recognize a senator.

Clemency program deadline Friday

(C) Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — Draft evaders and military deserters have only until midnight Friday to apply for amnesty, unless President Ford makes a last minute decision to extend his clemency program.

Federal officials estimate that more than 100,000 evaders, deserters and people who have already been tried and convicted of these offenses during the Vietnam era are eligible but have not yet applied for clemency consideration.

The program, announced by Ford last Sept. 16, originally was to have expired on Feb. 1, but was given a one-month extension. That extension is up Friday.

To enter the program before it expires, draft evaders must — before midnight Friday — contact any U.S. Attorney's office or the Justice Department here. Military deserters must contact any military base or Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, Ind. People who were tried and convicted for draft evasion, an AWOL offense or desertion between Aug. 4, 1964, and March 28, 1973, must contact the Presidential Clemency Board — a matter of simply calling the White House.

Church cautious as CIA probe progresses

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, who last fall sharply criticized the Central Intelligence Agency's covert activities in Chile, has become cautious and judicious as chairman of the Senate's select committee to investigate the U.S. intelligence community.

"He knows that the inquiry could turn into a 'kamikaze' mission," one congressional source close to Church said. "But he certainly hopes it won't turn into that."

Church was to address the National Press Club today. Church said in September, 1974, that CIA efforts to subsidize opposition elements in Chile were morally reprehensible. He interrupted a hearing of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Sept. 18 to state his views and demand an explanation from Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, who was testifying on U.S.-Soviet detente.

Church has made several moves to try to make the Senate investigation fair and constructive and to safeguard CIA secrets.

—He was meeting in his office today with CIA Director William Colby to discuss how best to handle those secrets.

—He "proposed, and the 11-man CIA committee agreed, to create an outside panel of eminent jurists to advise on how best to protect the rights of witnesses and conduct a fair investigation. Yale law professor Burke Marshall, a former U.S. assistant attorney general, has been retained as a part-time consultant.

—Church has sought out Rep. Lucien Nedel, D-Mich., who heads the House select committee on intelligence, to coordinate as much as possible the congressional investigations into the CIA and its alleged abuses within and outside the United States.

—He has not pressed the Senate committee to rush into its investigation. Rather he has insisted on the careful collection of all available material. He said on Wednesday after an organizational meeting he wanted to receive reports from the presidential commission on the CIA.

headed by Vice President Rockefeller before beginning the Senate probe.

—Along with vice chairman John Tower, R-Tex., Church is seeking meetings with President Ford and Rockefeller to ask for cooperation in carrying out the investigation.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband was just 50. All of a sudden, Melvin started changing his shirt three times before going to work. He was working overtime, putting extra miles on his car, but was always short of money, so I figured something was up.

Asked a few questions, put two and two together, and found out the reason. She is a 24-year-old girl who works where Melvin works. She worked all summer in hot pants, and the place was air-conditioned. I understand that "Hot Pants" was having lunch and coffee breaks with my Melvin and they use the company parking lot for a "love" lane.

'Counselor' needs help

When I asked Melvin about "Hot Pants" he said the poor kid has had a lot of problems, and he's been helping her get her life straightened out. Abby, that "poor kid" is divorced, has two kids, and makes $5.50 an hour. People who have seen her say she could win a Miss America contest if she put a sack over her head.

How do I keep Melvin from making a fool of himself over her? MELVIN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It may be too late. But if he's acting as a counselor for her, he may need a counselor himself. Don't nag or humiliate him. A man in the foolish 50s needs an understanding wife.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to something you recently had in your column. I quote:

"What's the difference between a lady and a diplomat? When a diplomat says 'yes,' he means maybe. When a lady says 'yes,' she means no. When a diplomat says 'no,' he's no diplomat. When a lady says 'no,' she means maybe. When a lady says 'maybe,' she means yes. When a lady says 'yes,' she's no lady." Your comment: "Thanks for a dandy day-brightener." Abby, that joke is indeed old, and should be dead. It's a degrading sexist gambit that makes invalid assumptions

Wife can't testify

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Karen Bursett was scheduled as a prosecution witness. So during a brief recess in the trial, defendant Clayton Sherwood married her. A wife cannot testify against her husband. Sherwood's case. A superior court jury debated three days and found him guilty of selling four ounces of cocaine to a sheriff's undercover agent.

Ex-resident weds

TWIN FALLS — Christine E. Slump and Robert W. Geler were married Feb. 22 at St. Paul's Catholic Church, Boise. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. William H. Slump, Twin Falls, and the late William H. Slump. Rev. Perry Dodds conducted the ceremony.

Terry Freeman served as maid of honor and William Harst was best man.

The couple will live in Boise where the bride is employed at the Bank of Idaho. The bridegroom is employed by Connecticut General Life Insurance Co.

Savings bond awarded

BOISE — Janet Major, 16, Buhi High School student, has been awarded a $100 savings bond by the Idaho Ophthalmic Association in the second annual graphic arts poster contest. Mike Calvin, Wendell High School, was awarded an honorable mention certificate in the same contest.

about women, and furthermore renders them powerless. I wish to amend that old story to read as follows:

I care not about diplomats, but... When a woman says "yes," she means yes... When a woman says "maybe," she means maybe... And when a woman says "no," she means no... And if a man persists, or uses force... he's a rapist!

CAROL IN HILLO

DEAR CAROL: Thanks for setting me straight. I deserved it.

DEAR ABBY: Is there a rule anywhere that says a wedding cake HAS to be white? I understand that the outside of the cake should be white, but what if the bride and groom both like chocolate cake and decide on having a chocolate wedding cake with white frosting?

My son was recently married, and he and his bride had a chocolate wedding cake with white icing. It was beautiful and delicious, but a friend of mine remarked that the cake should have been WHITE—inside and out.

Frankly, I really don't care, but I just want to know if this was improper. GROOM'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: The cake was all right. The criticism was improper!

Valley Weather Report

Fingers of fog shroud Idaho

Twin Falls, northside, Burley-Rupert area: Fog in the valleys today. Recurring periods of rain or snow through Friday. High today near 40 and Friday in the mid 40's. Overnight lows 25 to 35.

The outlook for Saturday: A chance of showers.

Hailey, Camas Prairie,

lower Wood River Valley: Periods of snow through Friday. The high both days in the 30s. Overnight lows 15 to 20. The outlook for Saturday, a chance of snow.

Synopsis: The storm track returned to the northwest this morning as the jet stream passed over southern Idaho. As a result, the flow of most Pacific air moved into the state last evening, triggering light snow over southern Idaho.

Today an extensive area of low clouds and fog covers an area from the southern Oregon coast to western Wyoming. A series of Pacific storms about 300 to 400 miles apart are strung out across the ocean and moving toward the Oregon coast.

The timing is difficult to predict, however, a system is expected every 24 to 36 hours, over the next several days.

Temperatures are expected to remain near normal with rain or snow in the valleys and snow in the mountains.

Old drug beneficial to coronary victims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A drug that scientists once feared would harm heart attack victims appears instead to reduce the extent of heart attack damage, offering new hope for treatment of future victims of the nation's number one killer.

Dr. Stephen Epstein, of the National Heart and Lung Institute, reported Tuesday that nitroglycerin has been used experimentally in 10 heart attack patients and all have shown reduction in the degree of heart muscle injury, a key factor affecting survival.

The drug also was found in a series of tests on dogs to make the heart less susceptible to dangerous heart rhythm disturbances, which sometimes are a lethal consequence of heart attacks.

"This is still experimental and much work has to be done in defining the group of patients who will benefit," Epstein said. "We will also have to determine whether there are patients who will experience deleterious effects."

Nonetheless, the initial results are extremely encouraging and we believe in the future there will be a very important role in the use of nitroglycerin in the treatment of heart attack victims."

WR flood control plans studied

SHOSHONE — Alternate methods of flood control for the Gooding-Shoshone area will be studied at a workshop at 8 p.m. March 6 at the Gooding County courthouse.

Actual purpose of the workshop is to select a plan of flood control and recommend it for development.

According to Don G. Frederickson, chairman of the Wood River Reservoir Area, it is important to secure the views of as many citizens as possible to ensure that anything undertaken to be the best interest and solution in the matter.

City and county officials of Lincoln and Gooding counties are urged to attend the workshop along with all other interested persons.

If local governments are interested in sponsoring a project, they will be required to restate their intent in a letter to be included in the report submitted to Congress.

Ground rules for federal participation show that in selecting a final plan, local sponsors of the project must be willing and able to meet financial requirements. All of the plans are potentially eligible for federal financial help, however, federal participation under authority granted the Corps of Engineers depends upon definite criteria.

This includes an alternative must provide enough benefits, including economic, environmental and social considerations, to offset costs, and for local flood control improvements, the local sponsoring city or county, must provide all lands, easements, and rights-of-way for construction and maintenance, hold and save the United States free from damages due to construction and subsequent maintenance of the project, provide necessary relocations and alterations of buildings and utilities, roads, highways and highway bridge changes, sewers and related utilities, maintain and operate the project after completion, prevent future encroachment on any improved channel or ponding areas which might interfere with proper functioning of the project for flood control.

The workshop will include discussion on the results of a detailed study of various flood control alternatives in the Gooding-Shoshone area, made after workshops on the subject in 1972.

The study was first authorized by US Senate resolutions adopted in 1948 and 1952 in response to local requests for flood protection in the Big Wood River Basin.

The most recent studies concerning the need for flood protection in the Shoshone-Gooding area were begun in 1965 under the Corps of Engineers, continuing authority, to plan and build small flood control projects.

Since these studies indicated that the cost of the proposed improvement would exceed the limits of that authority a more comprehensive study was started in 1970.

Public hearings were held in Gooding and Hailey in June of 1970 to obtain public views. Workshops were held in Gooding and Hailey in 1971 to discuss water resources management goals and objectives.

Followup feasibility studies were then made of various alternatives to satisfy the needs of the basin, and the results were presented at another workshop in August of 1972.

Only the Dietrich canal diversion plan had support of local people at that time. Other plans included a possible bypass channel for Little Wood River around the city of Shoshone, enlargement of the existing Gooding Safety way, and enlargement of the Big Wood River channel between the mouth of the Safety way and the mouth of Little Wood River.

The Dietrich canal diversion plan consisted of provisions for diverting Little Wood River flood flows onto adjacent lava beds.

Chances are better than 1 in 5 your job depends on agriculture

If all the workers directly involved in agriculture drove tractors to work, parking lots around the state would look like this. Every fifth vehicle would be a tractor. Even in our largest cities.

That's because a full 14% of all workers in the state work directly in farming or ranching. There's another 5% who work in food processing. In fact, when one counts all the other industries that supply and support agriculture, an estimated 40 to 60 percent of the total labor force depends in some way upon agriculture.

Idaho needs agriculture. It's the state's single most important industry. Between 40 to 60 percent of the value of all goods and services produced in Idaho depends in some way on agriculture. In 1961, Idaho is second only to South Dakota in the percent of total personal income that arises from farming.

As the state's major industry, it's also its major taxpayer. Agriculture accounted for more than $25 million in real estate taxes last year, and millions more in sales taxes and income taxes.

In fact, when agriculture has a good fiscal year the state government has a good fiscal year.

But for all its contribution, agriculture cannot stand alone. It needs your understanding and support to keep it vital and productive. The simple fact is that this state needs agriculture. The Idaho farmer and rancher is needed in the state. And he needs you. For more information on why you need him as much as he needs you, write The Idaho Wheat and Bean Commissions, Suite M, Owyhee Plaza, Boise, Idaho 83702.

Foreign minister claims physical pain carries message

LENTEN GUIDEPOTS
BY CARLOS P. ROMULO
Philippine secretary of foreign affairs
 In 73 years of living, I have had many brushes with death. In World War II when the Philippines fell, I was hit by shrapnel from a shell burst on Leyte. The plane in which I escaped from Bataan crashed on a nearby island and I barely survived.

My closest brush with death came, however, on a peaceful avenue in Manila three years ago. And the experience taught me something which even for someone my age was a new revelation.

It happened one day as my chauffeur was driving me to an appointment and a truck driver attempting to beat a red light slammed into us. The doors of my car burst open and I was hurled onto the pavement.

Three men in a car behind rushed to help me. The emergency first aid they gave me kept me alive until I reached the nearby Makati Medical Center.

When my physician, Dr. Felix Campos, got to the hospital he found me in shock. A frantic call went out for surgeons, radiologists, anesthesiologists, consultants. I had four broken ribs and multiple fractures of the pelvic region. Just about every internal organ had been wrenched out of place. After four hours of feverish surgery they wheeled me into an intensive care unit — and waited.

Sixteen days later when I regained consciousness I awoke to pain more punishing than I had ever experienced. The next day the orthopedist, Dr. Jose Silao, decided to try to get me up on my feet. It was agony. There was no part of my body that did not cry out in pain. I had no balance; I was like a rag doll flopping from side to side. It took the doctor and two strong nurses to support me.

For the first time in my life I began to question God. Why, in the twilight of my life, should I be called upon to go through this? Had I not suffered enough already? A plane crash had robbed me of my first son. My wife of 44 years had died. Was that not enough for my lifetime? From this black pit of despair, I learned two very important things. The first was that pain, even hideous pain, carries a message of its own. It makes you realize you are alive. That I could hurt so deeply finally convinced me that, despite the gravity of my injuries, I was not dying. I was very much alive. When I realized that I might recover, might someday be whole again, I decided I should fight to live.

The second thing I learned was that if you doubt the goodness and the wisdom of God, he seems far away. But if you accept with faith, and even gratitude, whatever comes, then He seems very close. When I stopped feeling sorry for myself, I was able to thank God for being so generous to me, for allowing me new life. Then I was able to pray for strength to survive the pain and for the will to live.

Even so, the struggle was long and hard. Ten days after I had regained consciousness, Idahoans endorse spud use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Idaho Sens. Frank Church and James McClure want President Ford to include dehydrated potatoes as a major staple in the food for peace program.

The senators said the move could ease world starvation and reduce domestic surpluses which are driving potato producers out of business.

In a joint letter, the two senators stressed Tuesday that an aid program which includes the use of dried surplus potatoes "is in the best interests of the United States and of the world."

Church said the distribution of the surplus potato products would benefit not only the needy peoples of the world but also the depressed potato industry.

"By utilizing the capacity of our processing plants to the fullest," said McClure, "we can supply a valuable new aid commodity, provide needed employment and reduce the burden of our surplus." The senators said thousands of potato farmers in the nation face bankruptcy unless emergency action is taken.

Doctor Silao got me up on two crutches. "Now, walk!" he ordered. "I can't move," I protested. "General, you must!" "But I have no sense of balance." "You will develop it," he said. "Walk!" I made a feeble attempt, then stopped, gasping. "Why did you stop?" Doctor Silao demanded. "The pain," I whispered. "Forget the pain," Doctor Silao commanded me. "Unless you learn to walk now, you will be an invalid for the rest of your life. Don't be afraid. I'm right here behind you." I took a shaky step. I did not fall. I took five steps in all that day. Courage alone hadn't enabled me to take that step. The desire to get well alone couldn't have done it. Faith had done it. When Doctor Silao said, "I'm right here behind you," I could not see him. I had to believe in him and I did believe, and so I took the first step. The doctor stood behind me, and behind both of us, I believe, stood God. "I'm right here behind you."

That's what his voice says to all of us if only we will listen. After I left the hospital, Doctor Silao came to my house every morning at six. Each day we counted the number of steps I took. When we reached a total of 1700, he took away one of my crutches. For two weeks I walked with one crutch. Then one morning he reached out and pulled that crutch away. I stopped paralyzed with fear. "Go on," he said. "Walk. Your sense of balance has been restored. You can walk without a crutch." "No I can't!" I protested. "Try it," Silao urged. "I'm right here behind you." I took a tentative step. And another. I walked five steps without any aid.

Seven months after my accident I was back in my regular seat as head of the Philippine delegation to the United Nations. The following January, in Washington, D.C., President Nixon saw me among the foreign ministers at the memorial service for former President Harry Truman and sent for me. After our visit, he smiled and said to the Philippine minister who accompanied me, "Take care of this man. You need him." I am now convinced there is truth in that friendly remark that someone does need me. In the divine plan that saves from death and despair, there must be something more to be done by a life even as old as mine. 1975 by Guideposts Associates, Inc., Carmel N.Y.

Tax rebate OK'd by single vote

BOISE (UPI) — By a scant 16-17 majority the Senate approved and sent to the governor Wednesday a bill to give taxpayers a 10 percent rebate on 1974 income taxes, second relief bill to pass this session.

But it appeared the passage of the bill may be an exercise in futility. Gov. Cecil D. Andrus vetoed another tax bill earlier in the week — saying it was untimely and costly to administer.

This measure would cost $9 million — nearly three times what the other proposal would have taken from the general fund surplus. Andrus wants to use the surplus for building roads and public works to bolster the economy.

Democrats presented a solid bloc against the House-filiated measure, which squeaked through today. They were joined by Republican Sens. H. Dean Summers, Boise, John Peavey, Rupert, and Vernon K. Brassey, Boise. In debating against the measure, the Democrats claimed program would build the building program proposed by the governor.

Assistant Minority Leader Robert Saxvik, D-Burley, said the bill would do little or nothing for those who really needed the money of inflation.

He said it wasn't a matter of voting against tax relief but "I think there's a better way." He said it would do little for those "who need it more."

Sen. James Risch, R-Boise, said it was a means of returning money to those who had provided the surplus.

Sen. Stan Kress, D-Firth, said people in his area told him since the state already had the money to "keep it for something worthwhile."

Peavey said he opposed the bill because he felt that the money should go to pay off money borrowed by the legislature for the endowment fund. He said $7 million was still owed the fund by the state.

TF votes oppose

BOISE (UPI) — Acting under emergency procedures, the Senate Wednesday approved two bills to give the Idaho Transportation Department $5.8 million to match $42.3 million in federal highway monies.

The vote on both measures was 32-2. A roll call vote was used on the first measure and Sens. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, and John Barker, both voted no.

High voiced objection to using the surplus funds from the general fund for a dedicated fund. He said that he felt the money should be used as a loan.

Vote sought

BOISE (UPI) — The House Resources and Conservation Committee today introduced legislation providing for a new Fish and Game Commission whose members must stand for election on their records.

The measure would abolish the present commission and authorize the governor to appoint a new one. Members now on the commission would serve until the end of their unexpired terms although those with terms longer than two years would have to stand for retention election.

LOOKING FOR A "GROWTH CAREER" THEN CHECK THE CLASSIFIED ADS each day.

Senate resolves Gem pay issue

BOISE (UPI) — The pay issue for state employees was resolved Wednesday when the Senate took final action on a resolution giving the guidance to the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee to set budget allowing a 3.5 percent cost of living increase plus reallocations.

As Assistant Senate Minority Leader Robert Saxvik, D-Burley, said after the 21-13 vote was announced, "The war is over and maybe we will now be able to unlock this session."

Passage of the Republican sponsored resolution, which was adopted by the Senate on a strictly party-line vote, will allow the Joint committee to proceed with consideration of state budgets.

The salary question has upheld the committee's work, which under law has until the 45th day to introduce appropriation bills. Wednesday was the 45th day.

Democrats, who have sought the governor's recommendation of 7.5 percent plus reallocation attempted to uphold consideration of the House resolution by having it held on the calendar for three legislative days.

Sen. Charles Bilyeu, D-Pocatello, moved that it be held so "statesmanship could bloom between the second and third floors."

He suggested that legislative leaders and the governor meet for "breakfast, lunch and dinner and agree on a figure that we can live on."

But his move, which would have taken a two-thirds vote, couldn't even muster a majority.

Crackdown aid offered

BOISE (UPI) — Members of the House Judiciary and Transportation Committees introduced legislation today to help law enforcement officers crack down on drunken drivers.

A bill by the Transportation Committee would force a driver to submit to a breath test for the sole purpose of guiding the officer in deciding whether an arrest should be made. If then could not be used as evidence in any court action.

The Judiciary Committee introduced a measure requiring a resident motorist to submit to a driver rehabilitation program if he is found to be driving with .08 percent blood alcohol content.

Home taxing plan offered

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho House Education Committee introduced legislation today to provide for taxation of new dwelling units and mobile home parks in school districts which have experienced annual student increases of at least 7 percent over three years.

Under the bill, school trustees who find they have inadequate funds to build needed additional classrooms could impose a tax of up to $500 per dwelling unit, collecting it at the time the building permit is issued for construction of the unit.

Mobile home parks could be taxed for each lot within them at an amount determined by the issuing authority issues a zoning certificate.

Another bill submitted by the committee would give the State Board of Education the power to adopt regulations for school building construction, safety and sanitation.

Check asked

BOISE (UPI) — In an effort to get a state handle on federally-funded programs, the House Transportation Committee introduced Wednesday a bill requiring applications for federal airport funds be reviewed at the state level.

This measure said no municipality, county, or regional airport authority — except those serving regularly scheduled airlines certified by a federal agency — may submit an application for airport funds until it is approved by the transportation department.

New license

BOISE (UPI) — The House Health and Welfare Committee today introduced legislation requiring the licensing of social workers.

It calls for creation of a five-member state board of social work examiners, sets standards and license fees and provides for confidentiality of information learned by social workers.

Equipment set for Jackpot park

JACKPOT, Nev. — Playground equipment and barbecue grills will be placed in Jackpot's new town park as soon as weather permits, Elko County officials announce.

Robert Widen Co., Prescott, Ariz., submitted the low bid for installation.

The equipment, including slides, monkey bars, swings and grills, arrived this week in Jackpot.

The park, adjacent the golf course and which will be dedicated to the late George Guy, local golf professional, is being readied under a $10,000 funding by the state of Nevada and Elko County.

Some trees have been planted. More evergreens will be set out in the spring.

Funds 'improperly spent'

BOISE (UPI) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare says the Idaho school system improperly spent $170,156, and the federal government wants the money back.

HEW said in an audit of the Idaho Department of Education programs during fiscal 1974 that federal funds earmarked for aid to the educationally disadvantaged were spent for the benefit of the entire student body in schools not certified for them, or spent in areas traditionally funded by the state.

Gem future eyed

BOISE (UPI) — Slow population growth, new energy sources, clean industry and environmental protection — these seem to be what many Idahoans want for the state's future.

At least, that's what the more than 180 delegates to the Idahoans Tomorrow Program expressed during a two-day meeting that concluded in Boise Wednesday.

Influenza cases reported

BOISE (UPI) — The State Health and Welfare Department received confirmation Wednesday that Port Chalmers strain influenza is throughout Idaho.

Dr. Fritz Dixon of the Department said four cases of the type A Port Chalmers strain have been confirmed in Wallace, Boise, Mountain Home and Pocatello.

He said there are no antibiotics that are of value against the virus infection. The only treatment for the influenza, he said, is aspirin to keep fever down, analgesics for pain and rest.

"If people develop bacterial infections, along with it or as a complication, these can be treated with antibiotics," he said.

"But as far as some specific type of medication to treat the flu, it doesn't exist."

Sugar prices reduced

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Utah-Idaho Sugar Company has reduced the price of consumer sugar $4.00 per hundred pounds and says it has cut wholesale sugar prices by nearly $6 per pound in the last four months.

A company spokesman said Wednesday: "U & I had cut the price at which it sells sugar to brokers to $37.55 for industrial and household sugar."

Company officials said it would take some time before the latest reductions would show up as lower prices on supermarket shelves. At least part of the four cents a pound U & I reduction would be eaten up by the brokers and other middlemen.

U & I officials said that since the sugar market peaked in November at about $97 per hundredweight the company had made periodic cuts to the current level.

Emmett receives funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The City of Emmett was granted $340,800 Wednesday from the Economic Development Administration to improve the municipal water system, Sen. James McClellan, R., Idaho, announced.

Rod Morgan, mayor of Emmett, said that $227,200 of the money will be provided by the city of Emmett and that EDA added a $56,800 bonus to Emmett for participating in the Idaho-Ore economic development district. The total cost of the improvement is $568,000.

Accident claims Utah man

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — A Utah man whose car slammed into a bridge abutment early this week's died of his injuries.

Glen Thompson, 63, Hunter, Utah, died Wednesday from injuries he sustained in the Monday accident near here.

Investigators said he suffered head and other injuries when his car struck the abutment on U.S. 20.

Carol Spaulding sentenced

BOISE (UPI) — A judge in Caspade, sentenced Carol Spaulding, 18, Wednesday to two years in prison for harboring a felon. Now she is faced with a decision on what will happen to the baby she is expecting late this spring.

Warden Dick Anderson of the Idaho Penitentiary said after the sentencing Wednesday there had not been any particular arrangements made to care for the expected infant "but there will be now."

Anderson earlier told UPI the child would not be allowed at the prison.

Miss Spaulding was the traveling companion to Thomas Creech, a man accused of murdering two Colorado men near Donnelly, Idaho, Nov. 8. He is a suspect in slayings in neighboring western states as well.

Lift tickets

revoked at SV

SUN VALLEY — Lift tickets are being revoked for reckless skiing on Sun Valley slopes, according to Sun Valley Co.

"Sun Valley Co. officials are greatly concerned over the danger of reckless skiing and are punishing offenders by suspending their lift tickets," a spokesman said.

"Suspension can range from one day to one week, and even longer in some cases," the spokesman said.

According to the spokesman, Sun Valley's 40 ski patrol members have been instructed to watch for reckless skiers, those using abusive language and skiers breaking into lift lines.

Confiscated tickets may be reclaimed at the Sun Valley sports center only after review and consideration by Sun Valley officials.

"Reckless skiing comes with spring," the spokesman said, "and we intend to enforce skiing etiquette on Baldy and Dollar Mountain. There are four runs on Baldy to be used for hot dog skiing — Limelight, Holiday, Exhibition and Upper River Run."

Swine show

Boise man tops awards

TWIN FALLS — John Farmer, Boise, was awarded first place in the live judging of swine Wednesday at the Swine Show at Independent Meat Co.

Joe Wilhelm, Kuna, received second place and Vernon Miller, Jerome, third.

Gene Gibson, livestock specialist for Twin Falls County, spoke to the growers during a luncheon and program following the morning judging.

The carcass show is being conducted today at Independent Meat Co. Trophies will be awarded during a banquet tonight at the meat company buildings.

Grand champion and reserve champion swine will be named tonight, according to Justin Mills, Twin Falls, president of the Swine Growers Association.

Judging of Future Farmers of America and 4-H club members is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. tomorrow at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds, Filer.

The swine sale with Duroc, Hampshire, Yorkshire and Spotted Poland Chinas going through the ring begins at 1 p.m. Cecil Patterson, Jerome, is auctioneer.

Hailey pair found safe

HAILEY — The Hailey chief of police and his son, the object of a Tuesday snow machine search and rescue operation, have been found in good condition.

Dan Norton, Hailey chief, and his son, Randy, were snowmobiling in the Rock Creek area west of Hailey Tuesday night when they became lost.

The Blaine County Search and Rescue Unit responded about 9 p.m. with 18 members on snow machines.

The unit found the pair in about two hours, heading in the general direction of Hailey on one machine.

Norton and his son had veered into a canyon rather than staying on the ridges.

Mrs. Joy Wheeler, co-director of the search and rescue unit, said the two became entangled in deep snow and lay in the canyon and tried to pull the machines out.

They finally abandoned one of the machines and managed to pull the other out of the canyon. Neither man was injured.

MV students pay debts

"Our's is naturally low because we're more restrictive," he said. "We're trying to lend only to those students who show that they are interested in an education," usually after they have completed the first two years of college.

Gulbransen admitted that the number of students who are behind in repayments is increasing, "but this can be expected when there are so many laid off."

Glenn Lungen, Boise, vice-president of marketing for First Security Bank of Idaho, said, "I don't think it's a major problem in Idaho at all."

His bank's default rate is "much lower because of the quality of people we loan to."

However, First Security has stopped opening new student loan accounts, according to Lungen, although it still making loans to "students we started out with."

As of June 30, 1974, about 25,000 student loans had been guaranteed in Idaho since the program started in 1966, according to the regional headquarters of the U.S. Office of Education in Seattle, Wash., and 372 students have defaulted in the same period.

A spokesman for the federal office cautioned, however, that a percentage of defaults to total loans could not be computed with those figures because many of the loans have not come due.

The students usually are required to start repayment about one year after graduation.

The Idaho loans total over $25 million and the defaults add up to about $487,000.

But the Idaho default figures compare favorably with the state of Washington, where about 82,000 loans have been guaranteed and about 2,700 students have defaulted. About $82 million has been loaned in Washington and defaults total about $3 million.

The Office of Education spokesman said, "I have a feeling that the default rate in our region (Idaho, Washington, Oregon and Alaska) is somewhat below national average."

Burley recall movement slows

BURLEY — A movement to recall Burley's mayor and City Council isn't dead, but "is slowing down."

Following a meeting Wednesday night with eight current Burley police officers, A.M. "Pat" Kelly, said the recall effort "is slowing down, but we are still getting calls. People want to know how things are progressing."

Kelly said the meeting was held to discuss "things pertinent to police and their duties." The committee wanted to know if there was any "influence" exerted on the officers, Kelly said.

Some police officers who walked off the job when Police Chief Gary Booth was fired claim that the city officials were exerting political influence over arrests and investigations.

Kelly said the cops attending the meeting said there had been "insinuations" about "influence," particularly concerning arrests for speeding and driving while intoxicated.

But, while the cops said there had been "insinuations" to lay off important people, Kelly said no officer present could report an incident when he was told to lay off.

"It was all hearsay," Kelly said.

Kelly said the cops were also asked about allegations that police were told to stop investigating prostitution in Burley. Kelly said none of the eight cops had ever been told to "lay off" of such investigations.

Another of the committee members, Paul Struchan, said allegations of prostitution at the Lee Hotel in downtown Burley was specifically mentioned.

Struchan said the police said they had never been told to stop an investigation at the Lee Hotel.

The committee was told there was "no activity" at the Lee now; and there hadn't been "any" some time.

Kelly said the Citizen's Committee will eventually make a report to the community concerning the facts surrounding the firing of Booth.

After the committee makes the report "the people will decide what they want to do," Kelly said. The people could decide to continue the recall effort, he said.

Last night's meeting was one of a series held by the group's steering committee of about 10 people. The steering group has met with the City Council and the city's police committee.

The steering committee also plans to meet with some of the ex-cops who walked off the job when Booth was fired, Kelly said. A meeting with prosecuting attorney Alfred Barrus is also possible, he said.

Aides eye censorship

In other developments, County Pres. Atty. William Hollifield said Wednesday he plans to "look into" possible legal action against a local radio station for issuing an alleged unauthorized news report.

Hollifield said he probably will not take any action immediately, but will do some research into laws governing such reports on the basis of jeopardizing police investigation.

He said he believes the report issued by KEEB radio regarding the beating and shooting of two women early Wednesday morning could definitely hurt the police investigation.

In a statement broadcast Wednesday by KEEB, Klaas said the station henceforth "will not be told what news stories to run and which ones not to run."

Klaas said the station "will cooperate in any way possible with the police agencies but we will not forget nor neglect our responsibility to report the news as it happens as soon as it happens."

Klaas also insisted that the station had not broadcast information received from police radio transmissions. He did say, however, that the station "received the news tip from the police monitor."

He said the station received its information for the story from County Coroner Cloyce Edwards.

Chief Barnett said earlier he was certain the station had illegally obtained the information from the police radio broadcasts and not from the coroner.

Edwards Wednesday confirmed that he had given some information to the station.

He said Klaas had contacted him at Magie Valley Memorial Hospital by phone, and that he had told the reporter that he had taken a woman and her daughter to the hospital and they were injured. He did not have their names, he said, and referred Klaas to the police for further details.

Klaas said after the station's initial broadcast he received a call from Capt. Qualls "ordering" him not to release any further reports on the case.

Qualls said Wednesday he does not intend to comment further on the situation at this time, but said he has recorded tapes of conversations with Klaas and others regarding the reports. Qualls said he could not say without checking the police tapes if he "ordered" the station to discontinue reports until an official release was made or if he "asked" for such action.

Qualls said one of the reasons he felt KEEB should not broadcast the information was because he had asked for and received cooperation from other media in holding up information pending further investigation and a possible arrest in the case. He said it would not be fair for one station to issue the reports and other media to temporarily hold up releases.

Blaine mulls planner post

HAILEY — Blaine County planner David Vasey, with six other men, has been chosen in preliminary competition for Blaine County Planning and Zoning administrator.

More than 70 applications from across the United States were received by Blaine County commissioners after it was decided three months ago the county should seek a new planner-administrator.

Current administrator Bob Barnes is to head the weed eradication program for the county this year.

The planning and zoning commission will pay the new administrator about $15,000 for the job.

The planning commissioners, meeting Tuesday night, chose Robert Richman, Colorado; Scott, Jackson, Utah; Earl Finkler, Arizona; Achille, South Dakota; Rudy Woodruff, Colorado, and Vasey as the seven persons with the best credentials for the job.

The seven will appear before the commissioners for a private interview. The new administrator will be responsible for implementing the new Blaine County Comprehensive Plan, which will go to the county commissioners soon for final approval.

WR council meet Friday

FAIRFIELD — Two important Wood River Resource Area Council of Governments (WRROC) meetings are scheduled for the end of February and early March.

The annual meeting of the Wood River council will begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Moonstone Lodge, seven miles west of the Timmerman Hill junction of State Highway 66 and U.S. Highway 10.

Logan Lenham, vice president of Idaho Power Co., will be the featured speaker.

Chairman Gene Frederickson will deliver his annual message. Officers will be elected for 1975.

An open meeting to inform area residents of the Silver Creek Aquifer Basin Study is set for March 10, beginning at 4 p.m. at the Lincoln County Courthouse.

A panel session will precede a question-and-answer session. The panel will explore the ramifications of the flow of Silver Creek and its effect of fishery and water users of Silver Creek and the Little Wood River.

James Eakin, Blaine County extension agent, will moderate the panel.

Panel members include Betty Lavery, Blaine Soil Conservation District; Nick Purdy, chairman of the Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission; Butch Harper, U.S. Forest Service; Reid Newby, watermaster of districts 27 and 37 M., and Steve Allred, Dept. of Water

So, the $3.5 million tax relief measure hangs in limbo while the Finance-Appropriations Committee plans budgets, assuming the $3.5 million will not be spent on tax relief.

Budgets for all departments except for Transportation, Law Enforcement and Health and Welfare have been set by the committee.

So far, in its budgeting the committee has only picked up $145,000 from Andrus' budget for state departments. The $1.2 million needed to balance the budget probably will come from the Department of Health and Welfare, the state's largest agency and the last on the list to be considered.

If, as Andrus' $3.5 million tax relief proposal is approved, budget cuts for Health and Welfare and other departments would have to be increased substantially.

Budget cuts may hit Gem workers, HAW

BOISE — State employees, taxpayers and the Department of Health and Welfare probably will bear the brunt of legislative efforts to trim the governor's budget.

The legislature predicts Idaho's income this year will be $220 million, down $8 million from Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' revenue projection.

For the past two weeks the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee has been setting department budgets while looking for ways to find the $8 million.

According to Sen. Richard G. High, R-Twin Falls, and chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, the joint committee has set budgets assuming that $8.7 million will come from reducing state employees salary increases and from cutting out a tax relief measure proposed by Andrus. Another $1.3 million will have to come from state department budgets.

After nearly six weeks of wrangling, the Senate gave final approval on a party line vote Wednesday to granting a 3.5 per cent cost-of-living plus reallocation salary increase to state employees. That cut $3.2 million from Andrus' proposed 7.5 per cent cost-of-living plus reallocation proposal.

The Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee also has assumed it would pick up $3.5 million by cutting out a proposal by Andrus to raise the grocery tax credit from $15 to $20. This proposal would reduce everyone's state income tax payments $3.5 million, trimming the state's revenue for fiscal 1976 by $3.5 million.

This measure currently is in the House Revenue and Tax Committee chaired by Rep. Steve Antone, R-Rupert. Antone supports the proposal and believes it has a good chance of passage in the House.

In the Senate Republican leadership appears to be divided at this point with President Pro Tempore James E. Ellsworth supporting and Majority Leader Paul Batt opposing the measure.

Batt believes the $3.5 million should be used for ongoing programs.

But Andrus, sticking to his original budget, supports the tax relief. He believes the legislature should adjust its revenue projections upward.

That's unlikely. In a nearly party line vote the Senate Wednesday refused to endorse such a measure. And House Revenue Projections Committee chairman Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls, believes that none of his fellow committee members would endorse such a revision.

So, the $3.5 million tax relief measure hangs in limbo while the Finance-Appropriations Committee plans budgets, assuming the $3.5 million will not be spent on tax relief.

Budgets for all departments except for Transportation, Law Enforcement and Health and Welfare have been set by the committee.

So far, in its budgeting the committee has only picked up $145,000 from Andrus' budget for state departments. The $1.2 million needed to balance the budget probably will come from the Department of Health and Welfare, the state's largest agency and the last on the list to be considered.

If, as Andrus' $3.5 million tax relief proposal is approved, budget cuts for Health and Welfare and other departments would have to be increased substantially.

All tourneys in action

Exactly half of the Magic Valley high school teams playing Thursday night will be playing their last games.

"It's close but no keeple" doll night in all five district tournaments. It's the night when the one-best teams go after each other with the hope that come fortune then will smile on them for two more nights and a district championship.

Of course, come fortune would have to laugh out loud to make all those wishes come true.

But it will be the same everywhere. Twin Falls will entertain Minico at 8 p.m., Wood River goes after Jerome at 8 p.m. at CSI, Wendell and Valley collide at 8:30 p.m. in Shoshone, Raft River and Murtough play at 8:45 p.m. in Buhl.

For all those Thursday night fighters, there are five fat cats cooling it. Burley is being chased in A-1, Buhl in A-2, Glens Ferry in A-3, and Oakley and Carey in the two A-4 tournaments.

The five will take on the Thursday night survivors Friday and all they have to do is win to finally conclude the area portion of the long winter sport.

For some, Thursday night offers a "second chance." The winners of Valley and Wendell and the Wood River-Jerome game will clinch at least a chance to shoot for a state tournament berth.

That will come March 4 at Mountain Home when the A-2 and A-3 runners-up will play the third-place teams from the Boise area for the eighth spot in the state playoffs. The A-2s will play at 7 p.m. with the A-3s playing the nightcap in that session.

This is the first time in many years that Twin Falls and Minico have played the first laser out contest. And Coach Ron Watson isn't particularly liking it.

"It's tough to play Minico anytime but after beating them three times already, you start wondering about percentages," Coach Watson says.

The coach reportedly told his troops in the last game to

Monday that he, for one, was tired of losing close games and suggested using the head as much as the feet might prove of some assistance in the future.

The ability of senior forward

Tim Crist to go hard for any period of time still remains questionable. The youngster is having trouble with a chronic knee injury but last week came on to play well particularly with his ability to shoot against Burley.

Under the A-1 site format, whichever team wins Thursday night will host Burley Friday. That brings up another part of the format. If it's Twin Falls and the Bruins should win Friday night, the extra game will be played at Minico. If it's Minico and the Spartans win Friday night, Minico will have to go to Burley Saturday because the Bobcats would not yet have had the home court advantage against Minico.

Northwest deaf cage meet opens Friday

TWIN FALLS — Idaho Athletic Club of the Deaf (IACD) will host the 22nd annual Regional Northwest Athletic Association of the Deaf basketball tournament this weekend.

Ronald Jones, president of IACD and chairman of NWAAD committee, announced that the headquarters of NWAAD would be the Blue Lakes Inn. Delegates and officials of the NWAAD will have a business meeting at the Blue Lakes Inn Friday morning.

The NWAAD basketball tournament will be held at Robert Stuart Junior High gymnasium, beginning at 7:30 Friday afternoon. The second session and final session of basketball games will be played all day Saturday.

The nine teams of the NWAAD territory will compete. The nine teams are: Golden Spike Athletic Club of the Deaf (GSAACD), Utah Athletic Club of the Deaf (UACD) both from Utah; Oakland (EBOD) and San Francisco, both California; Portland and Salem, Oregon; Seattle and Greater Seattle, both Wash., and IACD.

The final session of championship will start at 4 p.m. The regional championship team will represent the NWAAD and compete in the national tournament at the Yale University gymnasium in New Haven, Conn.

Chairman Jones will emcee banquet and present the awards to the championship teams, sportsmanship and most valuable player. The banquet will be held at the Blue Lakes Inn Saturday night.

No cutback seen in Olympic agenda

CHICAGO (UPI) — Roger Rousseau, president of the Organizing Committee of the 1976 Olympics, said Wednesday that despite reports to the contrary, the entire schedule of the Summer Games will be held in Montreal at its scheduled time and sites. Rousseau said he was "flabbergasted" when he read a report in a Montreal French-language newspaper (Montreal Gazette) which said the International Olympic Committee was holding contingency plans to move certain athletic events at scattered sites in the United States and Europe in the manner of a "floating crap game."

"I heard that report when I returned from the International Committee's meeting in Lausanne. It was very surprising because a Gazette reporter was there. I can assure you nothing of that sort was ever mentioned at the meeting. I was flabbergasted," he said.

Rousseau, a Montreal resident, commented at news conference hosted by Montgomery Ward & Co., which announced it has been granted exclusive rights for the sale of 1976 Olympics tickets in the United States.

Philip O. Krumm, U.S. Olympic Committee president, said Ward's will handle the American allotment of about 170,000 tickets at its 2,300 domestic retail outlets.

Rousseau said there is "absolutely no doubt about" the Summer Games going on as scheduled in July, 1976, because all buildings and other facilities will be completed in time and housing arrangements will be ample.

The "convertible indoor-outdoor" stadium, most ambitious project of the complex, he said, already has its footings in place and will be assembled on its site from prefabricated sections.

"This will easily be finished by May 15. There is just no question about it. So, which is being grown elsewhere, will be planted at the time," Rousseau said.

Robinson ready to get down to work

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Frank Robinson, baseball's first black manager, will officially launch his career as the field boss of the Cleveland Indians, worrying only about media interference with the preparation of his squad this spring.

More than 30 sportscasters and sportswriters attended a special press day Wednesday. The Indians will open the season Thursday with 19 pitchers and five catchers in camp.

"We decided to hold a press day in order to get most of the TV and radio interviews out of the way," said Robinson, 39. "From now on I expect no interference between the white lines."

Robinson has repeatedly expressed concern about emphasis being put on him rather than his team.

Part of the rookie manager's training program will be

Russians expect to be tough

NEW YORK (UPI) — Despite the absence of several world class athletes, Igor Ter-Ovanesyan, coach of the Soviet Union National track team, is optimistic of his country's chances in next Monday night's fourth USSR-USA indoor track meet in Richmond, Va.

"People here we don't have (Valery) Borzov so they are disappointed," said Ter-Ovanesyan, a former world record-holder in the broad jump, at an AAU press conference Wednesday to greet the Russians. "We are bringing a young team, but a very good one. I promise we will compete very well."

The missing performers include Olympic gold medal sprinter Borzov, 800-meter silver medalist Yevgeny Arzhanov and world record triple jumper Victor Saneyev. Among the women, Tamara Pangeleva, considered to be one of the top middle distance runners, did not accompany the team on the trip.

Baltimore won't ease play rule

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — Baltimore general manager Frank Cashen has rejected attorney Jerry Kapstein's suggestion that the Orioles allow several of their holdouts to take part in the club's spring training drills underway here. "I can't do that," Cashen said, "because next year I'd have a whole squad in uniform without signed contracts. I can't afford to bend that rule."

Kapstein, who represents 10 Orioles players, including eight who haven't agreed to terms, met with Cashen for three and a half hours Wednesday, with most of the conversation centered around pitchers Ross Grimsley and Wayne Garland.

"I'd say we make slight progress," said Cashen, "but the situation really hasn't changed." He represents so many of our pitchers, he could almost be in the position of manipulating the staff if the holdouts are prolonged."

running, including for himself. Robinson will be a player-manager this year, the first since Hank Bauer in 1961 with the Kansas City Athletics.

The conditioning of the Indians will reflect the influence of former California Angels manager Bobby Winkles, who was Robinson's last manager before he joined the Indians.

"Winkles had every guy running all the time, from position to position and from one field to another," Robinson said. "No one will be walking here. I think this is an excellent program for getting into shape. I will do it, too. But not all the time."

Connors to meet Newcombe for $250,000 prize

NEW YORK (UPI) — Who's No. 1 in world tennis? We'll find out April 26 when John Newcombe and Jimmy Connors face each other across the net at Caesars Palace, Las Vegas, with $250,000 riding out the outcome of the best-three-of-five sets challenge match.

Connors, the 22-year-old lefthander from Berkeley, Ill., was voted No. 1 last year by the U.S. writers, but Newcombe, who won his eighth major title when he defeated Connors in four sets on New Year's Day in the Australian final, disputes the claim.

CBS television and Caesars Palace, the firm which gave you Connors-Laver on Feb. 2, came up with the money for the latest challenge match which could net the players an additional $1 million after all minutes have been counted.

Newcombe's lawyers are en route from Australia to discuss how the additional money should be split, but the winner gets the quarter million.

Newcombe, in Australia preparing for this weekend's Davis Cup tie against New Zealand, appeared via closed circuit television at a CBS studio where the match was announced. He smiled when Connors kidded him about being late and about his mustache, then explained why he does not think Jimmy is the world's premier player despite his victories in the Australian, Wimbledon and U.S. championships last year.

"I've been at the top 10 years & now," said Newcombe. "I've won eight major titles. Jimmy's had one good year. Talk to me about him in 10 years time."

Reminded about Connors' record in 1974, Newcombe, countered by saying he was 3-0 against Jimmy, "and I beat him in the first major final of '75."

Asked to comment on Connors' outbursts of temper on court, Newcombe said, "I enjoy playing Jimmy. I would not presume to tell him how to conduct his public and private life."

Both men agreed that service would be the key to the match — Newcombe's big first ball and Connors' superb return of service.

He remembered the Forest Hills quarters in '73 — Newcombe went on to win the title — when John served so very, very well. I seemed to have chalk in my eyes all afternoon as he kept hitting the line. I'll have to get my return wrong."

Carey nips Mushers to stay unbeaten in A-4 meet; Richfield ousts Devils

GOODING — Carey outscored Camas County 20-2 in the closing four minutes of the third quarter but still needed two free throws by Peterson with 11 seconds left to win the fourth district A-4 semi-finals 60-59 Wednesday night.

Earlier, Richfield just stayed ahead of Dietrich through the second half to post a 56-47 decision and send the Blue Devils to the sidelines. Richfield now meets Camas County at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Gooding High School gymnasium with the loser facing the task of beating Carey Friday and Saturday night to win the title.

Carey, holding a huge height advantage, appeared to have broken the back of the Camas County team in the late third quarter. The Panthers then elected to go with a four-camera delay offense from the outset of the fourth period.

They couldn't keep the ball away from the aggressive and quicker Mushers and although Carey never fell behind, it was under pressure in the closing minute.

Pivotal for Camas County's upset hopes was the early cold shooting lapse by senior dynamo Ben Stroud and then Stroud's fouling out with 3:56 left in the game after scoring six straight Musher points.

It was a one to three-point ball game throughout the first half with Camas County making the first move in the third quarter. A free throw by Larry Lee and Novis' follow field goal of a second missed foul loss, sent the Mushers ahead, 35-33. Stroud then hit four points to crest the Mushers at 39-33.

Immediately after Jerry Ivie hit three buckets and brother Dave one as Carey reclaimed the lead at 41-39. Seconds later Stroud went to the bench for a four-minute rest due to four fouls and Carey continued. Jerry Ivie hit four more points and Barton, Peterson and Bame rang in with two each.

That carried Carey from a deficit of 39-33 into a 53-41 advantage. Stroud and Lee quickly sliced that to 55-61 with 3:56 left — and Stroud leaving for good.

Immediately, Jerry Ivie hit three free throws to raise Carey's advantage to 58-51. But Novis, Larry Ivie and Lee then hit buckets to pull the Mushers to within 58-57 with 23 seconds left.

Peterson led it with his two free throws which left Larry Ivie's closing Musher basket of little consequence.

The first game was played at snail's pace by comparison to the latter. Richfield proved patient and a winner when the Tigers hit the close-in shots and pretty well dominated the backboards. Still, Dietrich, with flying Larry Anderson making some big plays and some bad ones, too, kept the pressure on.

Richfield started pulling away when the second half opened and during the third period ran up seven and eight-point leads but each time saw Dietrich cut back to within three.

Maestas and Mike Robinson opened the fourth period with Richfield points and a seven-point deficit and held at about that mark over the next three minutes. Then Ron Sorenson reeled off five straight points for the Devils to pull Dietrich to within two at 46-44.

But Richfield's Flavel hit a free throw the next time down to court and Maestas followed with a short jumper to increase the lead to six points. From then on Dietrich couldn't get back into contention.

Blazers edge Lakers

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Lloyd Neal scored a career-high 27 points Wednesday night as the Portland Trail Blazers ended a five-year losing streak here by handing the Los Angeles Lakers a 117-116 double overtime defeat in an NBA game.

Neal, filling in for the injured Bill Walton, hit eight of his points in the second extra period. The Blazers beat Los Angeles for the first time in 12 games on the Lakers' home court.

Sidney Wicks also enjoyed a career-high by grabbing 22 rebounds. He scored 21 points. Los Angeles Rookie Brian Winters scored 28 points, also a career-high, and hit a 32-foot court shot at the buzzer to end the first overtime period.

If you enjoy singing in the shower but are also interested in economizing you had better leave off a couple verses or speed up the tempo. The average shower head flows about 5 gallons of water per minute of which approximately 1/2 is hot. You must pay not only for the water but also the fuel that was used to heat it. A few minutes less time per shower can add up to substantial savings over the period of a month.

EXAMPLE: If a full tank of hot water is used during a shower (approximately 30 minutes) it will require as much energy to reheat as would be used to heat your living room for about 6 hours. Based on the average cost of fuel this would amount to around 20¢. Plus the cost of the water, if you just can't talk your self out of the luxury of a long shower, come in and check out an inexpensive flow control valve that can let you easily cut down on the amount of water from the shower head.

Maryland collects first league title

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — Second-ranked Maryland dominated the inside game Wednesday night to edge 15th ranked Clemson 76-64 and win its first Atlantic Coast Conference regular season basketball title, a coveted bye in the ACC tournament next week, and possibly a shot at the national championship.

It was one of Maryland's toughest victories, their 21st in 24 games and averaged the Tigers' win at home 83-82 last month.

Maryland coach Lefty Driesell said the victory gave Maryland a sure ticket to the NCAA playoffs and a chance to win the national championship.

"Everybody played well and we just got to keep it up," he said.

Clemson, which had won 10 of 11 games since Jan. 18, is now 15-9 overall and 8-4 in the ACC, tying them with North Carolina State for second place. North Carolina is 7-4 and could make it a three-way tie. Maryland's ACC regular season record ended at 10-2. Clemson coach Tate Locke refused to let reporters other than those from North or South Carolina into the locker room because of stories in the Washington and Baltimore press alleging the school is being investigated for basketball recruiting violations.

Freshman guard Brad Davis led Maryland with 20 points while Owen Brown added 18 and Tom Roy 16, but the victory came after three Clemson starters, Wayne "Tree" Rollins, Skip Home and Jo Jo Hechea, fouled out late in the game.

The 6-9 Roy and Brown, at 68, literally played over their heads taking crucial rebounds from Clemson's 7-1 Rollins and 6-9 Wayne Croft every time Clemson threatened to go ahead.

Roy forced Rollins out of the game with fouls with 3:27 left, holding the Clemson sophomore to four points and 10 rebounds.

Brown and Roy combined for 12 rebounds before Roy fouled out with 2:56 left in the game with Maryland ahead by five points.

Squires, exporter of stars, sign Wise to rebuild team

NORFOLK (UPI) — Willie Wise, a former all-ABA forward with the Utah Stars, has been signed by the Virginia Squires and is expected to be in uniform for today's game with the St. Louis Spirits.

The Squires, who raised the ire of their fans by continually peddling away such proven talents as Swen Nater, Julius Erving, George Gervin and Charlie Scott, announced Wednesday that Wise had been purchased for what was termed a "substantial sum."

The 215-pound, five-year veteran, Wise balked at playing for the Stars this year after he encountered contact hassles at the beginning of the season and asked to be traded. Van Cunningham, chairman of the Squires' board of directors, acknowledged the sad Squire history when he made the announcement. "Whenever the Squires held a press conference in the past, it was to announce the selling of a player," he said. "Well today, we are pleased to announce the signing of Willie Wise."

"This marks the end of the exodus of superstars from Virginia and hopefully a reverse trend," said Doc Caltrix, Squires promotion director.

Wise averaged 19.7 points a game during his standout years with Utah, and was named to the all-ABA team his last three seasons. He owns the career playoff scoring record of 20.9 points a game.

When Earl Foreman sold the Squires last year to a group of Virginia Beach businessmen, the new owners vowed to reverse the selling trend in order to begin securing star players. Wise is their first proven star.

Wise averaged 19.7 points a game during his five years with Utah, making the all-star team his last three years. He owns the career play-off scoring record with a 20.9 average.

At the team announcement, Wise said he was "happy to be here and happy to be playing for coach Al Bianchi, who I have a lot of respect for."

Cunningham said the Squires completed purchase of Wise's contract Jan. 30, but that he did not sign until "certain modifications" were made in his four-year pact.

The last-place Squires, who own the league's worst record trail the fourth-place Memphis Sounds by four games in the Eastern Division.

"With the addition of Wise, we believe we have an excellent chance to catch Memphis and earn a play-off spot," Caltrix said.

Nicklaus shoots 63 to defeat President Ford by 37 strokes

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — President Ford won the applause and sympathy of a record gallery Wednesday, shooting a 29-over-par 100 while two of his partners clowned and another, Jack Nicklaus, broke the course record by two strokes in a program preliminary to the Inverrary Classic golf tournament.

Ford, playing with Nicklaus, Bob Hope, Jackie Gleason and businessman Elliot Kahn, avoided skulking on spectators and his game improved after lessons from Nicklaus and course pro Gene Stout. The President shot a 56 on the first nine holes, but trimmed the second nine to 44, including two pars.

Nicklaus, meanwhile, carded a 32-31-63, nine under par and two strokes better than the course record he and four other golfers shot here last year.

"He could be a good golfer," said Nicklaus. "He's very strong, but his principal problem is his grip. He could be a solid six or seven handicap if he played more."

The President, Nicklaus said, "enjoyed" the round of golf. "He thoroughly enjoyed that. He doesn't get too much time to enjoy himself," Nicklaus said.

The official attendance figure was 41,730, a record for one day on the PGA tour. The fans cheered when the President's shots were true and groaned when they went awry.

Hope strutted and pranced when his shots went well, and the crowd was duly appreciative, but it clearly was the President they were on hand to see.

"Look, there's the Prez," one shouted when Ford came into view.

"Keep your head down, Mr. President," another fan advised.

Ford acknowledged the crowd by waving and smiling, and sometimes waved his club in a sort of victory salute.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Consider relations with others today, especially with partners. Think of ways to back them and to win their cooperation in coordinating efforts with yours. You have charm and magnetism today and should use it to please all you meet.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Talks with partners about mutual enterprises being greater understanding and rapport now. Show close ties your devotion.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make the artistic changes in your environment that will delight you and others. Buy new garb that makes you more attractive.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan recreations with congenial that will take you out of the doldrums and make you feel better.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study ways of improving home situation so that you and kin can be happier. Extend invitations to relatives you haven't seen recently.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Glad about seeing customers, friends, relations today for a new lease on life, success from tensions, and ideas. Correspondence brings new friends.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Handle monetary matters in a practical and wise way now. Discuss with a financial wizard if doubtful. Enjoy close ties tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can easily get others to do what you like and improve your position in life considerably. Accept invitations. Dress well.

CONJUNCTION (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Dealing into personal matters of importance is your best way to make this a productive day—p.m. You can enjoy mate if you ignore outside pressures.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You reach a plateau with some situation, so get out to see good friends and clear your mind. Then you know how to handle problems in life.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get an early start at duties in the outside world but use caution in driving, motion of all kinds for best results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have excellent new ideas. Check them with experienced person. Garner all the data you need. Keep busy, happy, out of trouble.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get that plan operating through which you can handle all your responsibilities most efficiently, which has been hard to do in the past.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... others will find this charming progeny so attractive they will want to spoil him or her too often, so point out to this youngster that really worthwhile things are gained only through own efforts. Teach to work early so that a happy and productive life can be had here instead of one full of self-incrimination which would not be of the youngster's doing. Give as fine an education as desired by this offspring. Excellent artist here.

The Stars ungel, they do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Among those fellows who class themselves as executives, almost three out of four say they like a drink of liquor before the evening meal. "What sort of liquor?" inquired the surveytakers. Scotch came in first, Martini, second, Bourbon, third, Rye, fourth, and beer, fifth. As for after-dinner drinks, scotch was first again. But beer was second.

Q. WHEREABOUTS in this country is the greatest

A. Now there you have me. Could it be New York state? One Joseph William Taylor of Honeyvale Falls, N.Y., reportedly has spotted 716 species of birds. Nobody else in the American Birding Association has picked out that many, not yet.

PIN SPOTTER
Sir, did you ever work as a pin spotter in a bowling alley? Likewise. The pits were hot, remember? Boys and drunks served shirtless. Arms and shoulders glistened. As each ball rolled, the setter hiked himself up on the sidewalk and kicked with legs high. My left ankle was always black and blue. It's a bygone job, though. The first automatic pin spotter was put together just 25 years ago by the American Machine and Foundry Company. What we did for dimes is no longer done by a whole generation of kids who now do something else for dollars.

THE HARD FACTS
Remember, the outdoor dog needs almost half again as much grub as the indoor pup. . . IT'S WIDELY believed in India that the Hindu who dies on the south bank of the Ganges River will turn into a donkey. . . THE "AUTO" in words like automobile and automobile means "self" from the Greek "autos." . . IT'S ALSO true that men as well as women in ancient China used to carry fans. . . ONE OUT of every three mattresses now sold is either a king or a queen in size, please note.

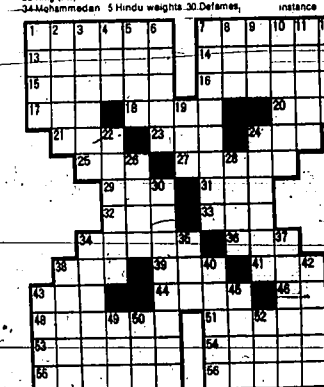

WHAT YOU think Balboa was the first European to see the Pacific Ocean? Most historians think not. Marco Polo was, they say.

DO YOU HAVE one of those electronic pocket calculators? If so, turn it on. And record side by side, not added up, each number mentioned in the following story. Exactly 7 Arab nations fought in a war. There were 107 men in each company. They battled for 73 days. In the end, only 45 men were left. Who won the war? Turn that calculator upside down to find out. Should read: "Shell Oil."
