LDS stance: Defending American family

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UPI) - The Mormon Church, which helped defuse the Equal Rights Amendment in Utah, has taken a strong stand against the measure.

The church's official position is that it is fighting to preserve the American family.

"What woman could want any greater glory or tribute than to know that she is the creative force in her husband's life?" asks Mormon first counselor, Eldon Tanner in a pamphlet distributed by the church.

"God has clearly defined woman's position, duties and destiny... and we must never forget that one of woman's greatest privileges, blessings and opportunities is to be a mother with God's help and His children in the world."

However, backers of the ERA the proposed amendment which would prohibit sex discrimination, say the Mormons are meddling in politics. "It is a violation of the constitutional separation of church and state."

The church officially announced opposition to the ERA in mid-January, shortly after pro-ERA forces in Utah said they had almost enough votes to ratify it.

Mormon President Spencer Kimball, 79, broke tradition and used an editorial in the church newspaper and statements by his public relations staff to oppose the woman's rights amendment.

He has declined to say in an interview with UPI late last year, where the church had not taken a position. Kimball said that Mormon legislators would vote against it because of "our strong feelings about the importance of the family."

Seventy percent of the Utah is Mormon, and the ERA was overwhelmingly rejected.

In independent Nevada, all five Mormons in the senate voted against ERA, and it was defeated 128 after winning easy approval in the assembly.

The two Mormons in the Arizona Senate cast key "no" votes in rejecting the ERA, 1964. But it did not matter because the Arizona house with its four Mormons among the opposition, overwhelmingly rejected the amendment.

Kate Butler, state coordinator of Nevadans for ERA, called the defeat at Carson City a "raw power play" by the Mormon Church.

It is the frightening prospect that this rejection, fed by anti-ERA letters encouraged from under the roofs of Mormon churches, places in jeopardy not just the issue of equality, but the legislative system in our state," Butler said.

Marsha Doble, Nevada coordinator of the National Organization of Women, said, "The Mormon Church has been allowed to flex its muscle and can lead to nothing but a further erosion of rights."

Anti-ERA forces have detained the church's right to take a stand in this case, saying it is not a violation of the separation of church and state because the ERA's "worst" question, which "churches have always spoken out."

"The church itself has remained quiet since release of the official opposition. Kimball has declined to answer questions and the church refers inquirers to a Jan. 11 editorial in the 'Mormon Church News.'"

The editorial supports the equal opportunity for women but urges defeat of ERA on grounds it is dangerous, will work to the disadvantage of both men and women, and is a "step backward in time."

"But all of this will not change the fact that men and women are different, made so by a divine Creator. Each has his or her role. One is incomplete without the other."

SPENCER KIMBALL breaks tradition

ERA vote set 4th time

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) - For the fourth time in six years, pro-Equal Rights Amendment forces today placed the rights question before the Illinois state legislature in hopes of pushing the measure three steps closer to ratification.

Members of the ERA club on the agenda today in North Carolina, where the proposed constitutional amendment is expected to come up for a vote later this year.

Senate sponsors in Illinois said the key to ratification was getting all the voters on the floor this year, even if the bill was assigned twice.

Once past the senate, the ERA would need house approval before Illinois could become the 33rd state to ratify it. It takes the approval of 38 states to amend the Constitution.

Advocates on both sides latched intense, often highly emotional campaigns around the Illinois capitol in recent weeks. Hundreds of charging demonstrators opposing ERA locked through the halls last week, incorrectly thinking the senate was to vote that day.

Proponents said a favorable Illinois vote would reverse an almost unbroken string of setbacks which has seen ERA defeated or bottled up this year in Oklahoma, Arizona, Nevada, Georgia, Utah, Virginia and Louisiana. Only North Dakota has been added to the "ratified" list this year.

Sen. Elton Sappaloni, a Chicagoan, state leader of pro-ERA forces said Monday that ERA opponents have threatened to work to defeat lawmakers who vote for ERA. "As a result, she said, some ERA support may be eroding."

Sen. John Davidson, who voted for ERA last June, says he has received 3,100 letters in the past few weeks, urging him to reconsider his position.

The Senate took the ERA off the agenda generally requires planning. Committee members agreed to see what happens with the first six bills of the package before being brought to a debate on what to do with the rest.

The six bills, which passed through the committee will now go to the Senate floor for approval. Committee approval amendments weighs heavily in the final decision.

Mail tone turns

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Mail to First Lady Betty Ford has changed in favor of her support of the Equal Rights Amendment by a 3-1 margin, and Mrs. Ford is "very happy" about it.

Sheila Rugh, Washington, her press secretary, said Mrs. Ford has received 6,412 letters favoring ERA and 2,729 against it since the White House disclosed that mail was running 3-1 the other way.

"Mrs. Ford said it was 'great,'" said Mrs. Wagoner.

"She said the First Lady said it 'is very important that people who are for ERA not sit back because it's the only way ERA is going to be passed.'"

Panel sends out 6 land use bills

BY BILL LAZARUS

Times-News Writer

BOISE - The Senate Local Government and Transition Committee sent out the Senate Bill Monday, all but one of the six bills sent to the Senate floor.

Each of the six bills sent to the Senate floor were approved for amendment while the other two proposals voted out without recommendation.

But the committee bill pending Senate action on the other six bills, which sets a date by which cities and counties must adopt comprehensive zoning ordinances.

This last bill, requiring planning by Jan. 1, 1978, and providing for possible state planning if the deadline is not met, is an instrumental component to the first key bill which generally requires planning. Committee members agreed to see what happens with the first six bills of the package before being brought to a debate on what to do with the rest.

The six bills, which passed through the committee will now go to the Senate floor for approval. Committee approval amendments weighs heavily in the final decision.

The amount of such land which would be planned by the state at any one time was reduced from five to two percent of the whole state.

Also, a provision to include a key suit against the state for major development as the type of area which might be state planned was struck by an amendment approved by the committee.

And the committee approved an amendment to not enable heads of four state agencies to initiate a request for statewide land use planning.

Approval of each of these amendments was a substantial victory for the Homebuilders Association.

But in an all-important turnabout, the committee did rescind its approval Friday of amendments proposed by the Home Builders Association which would have required effective the key bill requiring local planning by making adoption of comprehensive plans and zoning ordinances optional.

Rupert man found dead

RUPERT - Richard Dutton, 51-year-old Helweg resident, was found dead at the chapel at 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

He was found by his partner in the business, Gregory D. Christensen.

Minskota County Coroner Kim Christensen said death was attributed to carbon monoxide poisoning and he estimated Mr. Ogilvie died about 18 to 20 hours before he was found in a house in the chapel garage. He had last been seen by his family at about noon Saturday.

Christensen said no autopsy was performed and whether or not an inquest will be called will depend on his conference with the prosecuting attorney, Sheriff Bob Novakz, who was called to investigate the death.

Highway project

TF road fill project progresses

TWIN FALLS — Completion of one of the major links in a cross-county highway, a fill in Rock Creek at the end of Orchard Drive, is anticipated by this fall.

Keith Anderson, engineer for the Twin Falls Highway District, said fill has been collected at the area for about the past 20 years and the fill material was recently spread and compacted to a hard stabilizer.

He said through a federal aid program the highway district was able to install pipe to carry the creek through the fill area. Drainage pipes to handle sewage water has also been installed.

COLLECTION of rock, dirt and other fill material for the past 20 years is building up at the end of Orchard Drive in Rock Creek Canyon. It will soon form a road bed across the canyon for part of a proposed cross-county highway.

This summer, the highway district plans to complete the fill work using highway district equipment and manpower to haul dirt from the Bureau of Land Management permit site near the county sanitary landfill.

When this is completed, Anderson said the district will be ready to put at least a gravel bed over the creek and canyon area by late this fall.

Another federal aid project in the near future will pave the crossing as part of a three-mile surfacing project. The entire project will run from South Washington Street to one mile east of the sugar factory.

The cross-county highway, running from the Castleford area to Mirtaugh, will especially benefit trucks and other farm traffic wishing to cross the county without running with traffic in the city of Twin Falls, he said.

Anderson said the large sugar beet trucks which haul beet to the factory from the west part of the county have no suitable route. They must travel through the city and on roads or streets not built to deal with the weight.

When completed, the cross-county road will have a 34-foot paved area and gravel shoulders, a 40-foot wide lanes for traffic, Anderson said it will be comparable to Adams Avenue Road.

"We expect this road, once it is built, will have a great effect on the traffic pattern of the county," Many streets and roads are carrying loads will see some of this shifted to the through route, he said.

Hostage freed

By United Press International
Five freed West German anarchists held up in Aften today and sent the pastor who was their volunteer hostage back home — a possible prelude to the release of kidnapped West Berlin political leader.

The Luthmans' being out that flew the five urban guerrillas to the capital of South Yemen, a Marxist-ruled Arabian peninsula nation that is a frequent haven for hijackers — brought Protestant pastor Heinrich Albertz back toward West Germany.

A spokesman for the committee in West Berlin said the plane was expected to land in Frankfurt in the afternoon and Albertz, a former West Berlin mayor, would probably continue on to Berlin immediately.

The whereabouts or condition of Christian Democratic political leader Peter Lorenz, who was presumed still in the custody of the group that kidnapped him last Thursday.

West Berlin authorities said that the kidnapers have not replied to their pleas Monday night for a message on Lorenz's condition.

In a radio and television broadcast, authorities had asked the kidnapers to name the place where Lorenz had been held, a West Berlin spokesman said.

Study shows no upturn seen in recession areas

By United Press International
 The recession is worse than indicated by everyone of the DEAREST government measures, according to a Federal Reserve study.

And even Democratic staff members on the Senate Budget Committee agreed, there is little Congress can do to prevent high unemployment.

There also was further evidence there has been no upturn in the depressed construction industry.

But the stock market showed continued strength Monday on the New York Stock Exchange, as measured by the Dow Jones industrial index, soared 14 1/2 to 753.13.

The Dow closed at the highest level for the year, exceeding the prior high of 749.77 Feb. 21.

The Commerce Department said construction spending dropped 2.7 per cent in January to the annual rate of $124.1 billion, the lowest since November, 1972, when it was $122 billion. Building volume was 13.5 per cent below a year ago when inflation is discounted.

Residential housing and public construction both declined a sharp 46 per cent and private construction was down 1 per cent.

The Commerce Department said the economy slumped in January at almost twice the rate indicated by the Commerce Department composite of nine leading economic indicators.

The index is significantly better, measured than the Commerce Department composite because it allows for inflation and Commerce does not.

The Fed's study showed an economic slide of 3 per cent from January to February and 21.7 per cent since July, 1974.

'John Doe' sought

TWIN FALLS — A complaint was signed Tuesday morning by Twin Falls police against 'John Doe' charging resisting arrest after being out of focus in a foul rage.

Police reports indicated officers were called to Ash Street and Second Avenue East about 12:42 a.m. Tuesday on a report of someone taking gasoline from a truck. The suspect was confronted by officers as he returned to his parked automobile and while officers were attempting to arrest him he crossed toward an alley, broke and ran, outrunning pursuing police.

One shot was fired over the suspect's head in an attempt to force him to stop but he continued to run.

How far is down in US recession?

Oh, Charles! I have some VERY exciting news! For the first time since we were newlyweds, WE'RE OVERDRAWN AT THE BANK!

Thought for the day

A thought for the day: President Franklin D. Roosevelt said: We too have to freedom and freedom is freedom to be what you want to be.

To pare the price, try cutting a few corners

WASHINGTON—The automobile companies who have cut a tough line on the price of cars, have named executives for bad news on themselves.

everybody to pay extra money because a few people are going to get an accident. I looked at the sketch again—Where are the windshield wipers?

"You still have seats," I said. "Of course we have seats—we're not going to sacrifice comfort. Our concern is with costly safety features that have nothing to do with the performance of the car."

ART BUCHWALD

I studied the sketch. "Why, there are no bumpers on it." "That's correct. You eliminate bumpers and you save 150 pounds. The only time you need bumpers is when you hit something like another car or a building. There is no reason for energy. In the early days we put them on as optional equipment because a few of our customers complained it was hard to move when it was raining or snowing. Then the government insisted they had to be on all cars. Why should people who don't want windshield wipers have to pay for them?"

"The gas tank looks kind of funny," I commented. "I made it Saran-wrap, a specially treated compound because it can hold twice the amount of fuel as a metal gas tank. By doing away with gas tanks we can save the consumer $75."

Gem sweepstakes law draws fire

Editor, Times-News: I, too, take issue with Idaho's sweepstakes law and the ruling handed down by the state supreme court in this law. However, we must not lose sight of the fact that the law itself, while not a part of our state constitution or attorney general could or would find basis for such a ruling.

In my opinion this ruling not only right but unfair. It reads as follows: "We conclude that any contest, whether sweepstakes or other game, in which anyone is based entirely on chance or luck is a lottery if a participant must suffer some inconvenience, no matter how slight, as a condition of participation."

Such inconvenience may amount to nothing more than a trip to a business establishment, returning an entry from a mailing, or a purchase of a similar condition to participation. Any promotional or advertising program structured in the above described manner constitutes a lottery and is prohibited by the provisions of Article III, Section 20 of the Idaho Constitution.

Of course, it is within the discretion of the local prosecutor to initiate action for prohibiting such "lotteries" pursuant to Chapter 9, Title 18, Idaho Code.

Appreciation told

Editor, Times-News: The Minidoka County Mother's March Committee for the March of Dimes wishes to express its thanks to all who gave their time and support in our recent campaign.

At this writing, this year's goal has been exceeded. Twenty-four hundred dollars was what we were shooting for. It is more than double what was raised in previous years. The amount used to raise these funds is around $2.65, which means that through the efforts of the local chapter more money stays in the community and that which goes out is greater to supply research into the causes of birth defects.

Special thanks goes to our area captains for the untiring efforts to have the whole county canvassed. Last, but not least, the support and co-operation of the local media in spreading the message across to all was a significant reason behind the success of the drive. Thank you South Idaho Press, Times-News, The Minidoka News and KATV-Radio for the time and effort they have put into our news releases.

Those who have contributed to the cause of the March of Dimes may rest assured that their donation will be put to use for the purpose it was given.

JUNE POTTER, Minidoka County Mother's March Chairman and Alpha Eta Chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha Area co-ordinators CHEWEL MATHESON, Publicity Chairman

Editor, Times-News: I maintain this ruling is discriminatory because it effectively keeps Idaho sweepstakes sponsor outside the state but allows Idaho sponsors of sweepstakes to operate with impunity, which the local option section of the ruling says they may.

The so-called magazine sweepstakes require a purchase of a magazine or other product or service as a condition of participation. I question whether these particular advertising promotions really are sweepstakes, except possibly by the strict interpretation of the word "sweepstakes" by the attorney general.

I have written to some of those out-of-state sponsors of sweepstakes asking why "Void in Idaho" pops up in their rules when sweepstakes or drawings or whatever are conducted here perhaps every day of the week. They tell me that as long as Idaho's sweepstakes law and its consequent ruling stand they must respect it.

I appeal to our legislators, and I appeal to the voters, to change the regulations of Idaho's sweepstakes law to amend this law so that we, who enjoy entering sweepstakes, may do so both in Idaho and other states.

ERA rhetoric form noted in debating

Editor, Times-News: It is interesting to note the vast differences between the forms of rhetoric employed by the opponents and advocates of the Equal Rights Amendment. Opponents of the amendment have repeatedly resorted to "middle-class" arguments, supported by well-documented evidence and based on actual experience with other federal meddling. They have obviously taken the time and effort to research the implications of the amendment, thoroughly there is little to be added in their case which has not already been accurately and eloquently stated.

Proponents, on the other hand, have resorted to the typical Marxist ad hominem

Fox bounty dropped

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Passenger trains must receive increasing government subsidies for the foreseeable future and it is time to be honest about it, with the American taxpayer, the president of Amtrak said Sunday.

Paul Reistrup, former vice president of the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad, said he would attempt to hold costs as low as possible, but there probably will be growth in the Amtrak deficit, especially as the agency expands service in the East and upper Midwest.

But government aid will be necessary, he said. If Americans are to benefit, they are demanding more and better passenger trains. "It appears that the country demands this alternative form of transportation," he said.

Reistrup took charge of the national rail passenger corporation Saturday from Roger Lewis, who headed Amtrak since shortly after it assumed control of the country's passenger trains on May 1, 1971.

Reistrup, who said he plans to ride every Amtrak train at least once before the end of the year, spent his first night as president on a train, the Broadway Limited, from Chicago to Washington.

In an interview in the lounge car as the train rumbled down the picturesque Susquehanna River valley Sunday morning, Reistrup said his philosophy as president will be to discover where the public would ride passenger trains and then to give them frequent, well-run trains. "It's disturbing to see trains running that don't reach people when you're spending billions of dollars on them," he said.

Reistrup said the "most evident" priority for any passenger trains would be along the southern shore of Lake Erie, a corridor which includes Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo and Chicago. He also mentioned other routes, particularly Cincinnati-Detroit, Cleveland-Pittsburgh and Cleveland-Detroit.

Reistrup said he was impressed with the U.S. Railway Association's recommendations that 16 passenger train corridors be established in the East and Midwest, and he expects to see passenger trains serving all of those cities within the next decade.

But Reistrup said he will not recommend any new long-distance routes for the time being, although he might increase the number of trips on all or part of some existing long-distance routes. Short-haul routes certainly must be operated on a frequent basis, he said, because "in a short-haul market, you're wasting your time on one train a day."

More Amtrak subsidies ahead?

Reistrup said his personal philosophy would be honesty and openness. He started by saying Amtrak simply cannot live up to its original legislative goal of operating passenger trains for profit.

"Anyone who knows about the subject didn't believe it would make a profit," Reistrup said. "There was a grave concern by all those interested in this the original Amtrak law that Mr. Nixon might have vetoed it. That's the major cause for this including notion that it could make money."

Reistrup noted that to him the "profit" means having the minimum number of passengers at the lowest possible cost.

"I would hope the less per passenger could be kept under control," he said, but the deficit will continue and "there probably will be some growth in the budget," he said.

With Amtrak spending twice as much as it takes in with double digit inflation and with the automobile as a competitor, large can not be increased enough to keep up, he said.

Reistrup said he intends to ride his own trains as much as possible. One of the major criticisms of Lewis was that he did not ride Amtrak trains frequently and that major Amtrak officials often traveled by air between cities with Amtrak trains.

Reistrup will go by train to the West Coast in April.

Cambodia aid favored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A majority of the eight-member congressional delegation just back from Indochina favors sending $120 million worth of ammunition to Cambodia.

All the members recommended sending $75 million in emergency food there.

The delegation, headed by Rep. John Flynt, D-Ga., is headed by Rep. John Flynt, D-Ga., its conclusions on Cambodia today at a hearing of the House foreign operations subcommittee.

President Ford has asked Congress for $222 million in emergency aid for Cambodia and $300 million for South Vietnam. Some members of Congress have sharply criticized the aid requests. The administration proposed that Congress send the delegation to see for itself if aid is needed.

Rep. Paul McCloskey, R-N.J., and Bella Abzug, D-Mass., were the loudest critics of the aid requests. They said the delegation probably is required to hold together, the government that there would be a change of distributing food aid.

"This is a dramatic tragedy of the most urgent nature," she said, and described the aid requests by insurgents into Phnom Penh from across the Mekong River.

Sen. Henry Hartell, R-Okla., said Congress must act within two weeks if the aid is to reach the government of President Lon Nol in time to remunere the defenses around Phnom Penh. Rep. William Chappell, R-Idaho, a longtime hawk, said the trip changed his mind in one respect. He previously voted for aid to Indochina "reluctantly." Now, he said, he would vote "enthusiastically."

A former official in Lon Nol's government, Chappell told UPI over the weekend that the Cambodian government was giving all U.S. military aid to its soldiers, not to military civilians. Chappell called that report "a serious intrusion."

A State Department official in Washington said Monday the United States will give 200,000 metric tons of rice from Smith Mountain in Cambodia to be distributed for war refugees. U.S. and international voluntary agencies

He said he has not decided whether to seek the GOP presidential nomination next year and he said the political plans as final.

Reagan also criticized appointments President Ford made to the administration. He said liberals could leave the Republican party if they cannot accept what he said were its conservative principles.

Reagan said he would support Ford for re-election but would not support Ford's conservative GOP leadership.

Although he declined to be specific, Reagan is known to be displeased with the nomination of Carl Albert, a former U.S. ambassador to the United Kingdom and U.S. ambassador to the United Kingdom.

"I do not believe a president should make appointments on the basis of trying to span a political spectrum," he said. "I think a president should make appointments of people who will implement his philosophy."

Reagan stresses probe dangers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ronald Reagan today has "very frightened" that congressional investigation of the Central Intelligence Agency will impair the lives of American citizens.

Reagan, the former Republican California governor who belongs to the President's Commission on CIA Activities, was asked in an interview with UPI's weekly congressional inquiries into reports the spy agency violated its charter and sniped at Americans who employed similar services.

"With the history of the investigation from investigation, the danger is very real to the point of endangering the lives of men who are serving the United States in that capacity," he said.

"What I'm very frightened of is what they can do," he said. "I might also point out this is the same Congress that did so well with the Iran-Contra affair, that dealt with the security of the U.S. as a reference to the House's abolition of its Internal Security Committee this year."

Poppies eyed by US

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Birch Bayh said today the administration may be considering growing opium poppies domestically to meet the United States' need for self-sufficiency in opium.

"This way," he says, "the country would be able to rely on an important-to-need legitimate medical needs."

Bayh borrowed the phrase from the opium industry discussion today in his prepared statement opening hearings on legitimate and illegals of opium.

The testimony before his delinquency subcommittee, he said, would include "the feasibility of proposals" — some reportedly from the Office of Management and Budget to cultivate domestically opium poppies, particularly those with little or no abuse potential to meet raw legitimate medical needs.

Senators' filibuster fight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate took an important procedural step Monday toward settling the dispute over a change in its filibuster rules.

Top votes were taken on complicated technical points and senators disagreed on whether they were sufficiently important.

But the votes assured, according to many reformers, that there will be sufficient votes later in the week to shut off debate on the vote change.

If the debate can be brought to an end, there is little doubt that the Senate will approve a compromise rule permitting three-fifths of the membership to invoke closure on all measures except rule changes.

Two-thirds of the senators present and voting would still be needed to end debate on a rules change. But on all other measures, an 80-vote majority would be enough to close debate and bring all other matters to a vote.

Sen. James H. Allen, D-Ill., said he will have an extensive group of parliamentary procedure for more than a week to keep the Senate from even considering the rule change.

Monday, he insisted that the formal journal of the Senate's proceedings, which is usually adopted automatically, be read in full.

The journal, like minutes of a meeting, is a summary of the last legislative day's business.

The Senate has been recessed rather than adjourned for the last week, the journal for the last legislative day covers everything that transpired in the Senate last week.

The reading of a clerk was expected to take six or seven hours.

Nonetheless, Sen. Robert C. Byrd, West Virginia, the assistant Democratic leader, filed a motion Monday to prevent a vote to end his filibuster on Monday.

If that attempt at closure obtains, the necessary two-thirds vote, the rules change will officially be up for debate.

They will be expected to file a second closure petition calling for a vote on Friday to end debate on the change.

Under the rules, once closure is adopted, one senator can speak at the matter at issue for more than an hour.

February auto sales take jump

DETROIT (UPI) — In their rush to beat the cash rebate deadline, dealers helped push auto sales in the final days of February to the highest level of the 1974 model year.

Industry analysts said sales reports expected from General Motors, Chrysler and American Motors, Inc., and from Ford, will show a 20 to 30 percent increase in the last week of the year.

The rebate promotion ended Friday, and dealers contacted by UPI said it was too early to tell what kind of sales drop there will be in early March.

While sales were moving steadily upward in February because of the rebates, they moved back from huge inventories of unsold cars to the lowest production in 1974, the four automakers reported Monday.

The sales upswing from the rebate programs means higher output for the industry in the next three months.

The rebate promotion ended Friday, and dealers contacted by UPI said it was too early to tell what kind of sales drop there will be in early March.

GM, Ford, Chrysler and AMC said they turned out 47,000 cars in February, a 31 percent drop from the energy crisis period last year and the lowest February production since 1961.

Analysts estimated that February production schedules and the sales pickup helped bring the industry's inventory of early-bought cars from the 4.5-million level in January to 3.5 million.

The industry statistical service, Ward's Automotive Reports, predicted March production at about 47,000 cars, a 27 percent drop in February but still the lowest since 1961.

Production upswing, however, could mean a return to the 4.5-million level by the end of the month.

Monday, he insisted that the formal journal of the Senate's proceedings, which is usually adopted automatically, be read in full.

Argentine farmers strike

For more than 70 percent of the country's income, Argentine farmers called a two-day strike Monday to protest a price freeze on agricultural products.

The action meant that for important agricultural products including Buenos Aires, La Plata, Entre Rios, Santa Fe and Cordoba were being sent to markets elsewhere in the country.

Argentina currently has the fourth lowest food prices in the world, after Colombia, India and the Philippines, according to UPI's "The Economist's" week-end report. But cattle ranches protest that they are losing out to other farmers.

The Soviet Union is the only country that consumes more than it produces.

Payment date set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government contracts have been given nine months to comply with a law that requires 512 million in damages to be paid to Vietnam veterans.

The suit affects 1,000 of the 4,000 persons detained during the mass arrests and subsequent arrests on the steps of the Capitol building.

Judge Bryant set out procedures to help the ACLU locate the demonstrators.

Rent-a-soldier plan set by US

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon officials have decided to get rent-a-soldiers to show foreign troops how to use American weapons.

It hopes in this way to get around congressional pressure on the military budget.

The trend has been away from MAAGS — Military Assistance and Advisory Groups — and instead to have the country involved pay some of the expenses of its civilian contractors.

The Pentagon used MAAGS to assist inexperienced foreign officers and help train their men in the use of new weaponry.

Abby

By Abigail Van-Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune, Inc. New Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago, my husband was in an auto accident and suffered an injury to his spine that left him paralyzed from the waist down. He has made a remarkable recovery, both physically and psychologically, and gets around very well with a wheelchair.

We are thankful that he is alive and we have both accepted the fact that he will never walk again, but you should not believe some of the questions people ask me. I can't answer personal questions about my husband's condition. (What he is and isn't capable of doing.) They want to know if our sex life is over. It isn't. But I resent their prying.

How do other people in this situation handle this problem? I feel like telling them it's none of their business, but I do not have the time to say anything like that.

Is there some other way to politely tell them I would rather not answer such personal questions?

STUCK FOR WORDS

Wife stuck for words

DEAR STUCK: Answer their rude questions with another question. In a very pleasant tone, ask, "Why do you want to know?" And then change the subject. This really works.

DEAR ABBY: My husband got very upset with me yesterday because I served him his breakfast in my nightgown and bathrobe, which I had never done before. He said, "Ahh, Abby. Aww, how sweet." He was just prettied up to serve him his breakfast, but the lady had a bad cold and I was up half the night with her, and I was so tired I could hardly get out of bed in the morning. When I tried to explain this to my husband, he wouldn't listen. He carried on about how his mother always got dressed up in the morning, and he didn't want me to start developing any sloppy habits.

Did I commit such a crime, Abby? I don't intend to make a habit of it.

DEAR TIED: A crime? Certainly not. The best time your husband needs attention during the night is when you are up. So, you can get up and ask him to please take over so you can get your rest. That way you will be able to dress and get all prettied up to serve him breakfast.

DEAR ABBY: Our son (I'll call him Bob) went off to college last fall, and when he came home for the Christmas holidays, he had long hair and a beard. He looked wild because he never combed or brushed, he just went around with that tangled mess of hair.

My husband couldn't stand the sight of the boy, and told him so. Bob said Jesus had long hair and a beard, but my husband wasn't buying any of that. Finally, my husband offered him $500 cash if he would get a short haircut and a shave. Bob agreed without an argument, and everybody was happy.

Last weekend, Bob came home unexpectedly and it was plain that he had let his hair and beard grow again. Father was furious and demanded that Bob give back the $500. Bob said he upheld his end of the bargain by getting a shave and a haircut, but he didn't agree to let his hair and beard grow again. I am in the middle. Where do you stand?

Lecture set in TF

LOIS BRAVO lecturer

TWIN FALLS—Lois Bravo, a national traveling lecturer and leader, with the Inner Peace Movement will speak Tuesday evening at the Holiday Inn here.

The lecture, open to the public for a $1.50 donation, will begin at 8 p.m. in suite 412.

Mrs. Bravo said she will discuss "how to balance the physical world with the mystical experiences that we have everyday."

"This brings self understanding and purpose into our lives," she said.

All people have the gifts of spirit and self. Miss Bravo develops them which brings understanding and communication with yourself and others.

MR. AND MRS. GARY KEITH

Miss Knefel, Keith exchange promises

TWIN FALLS—Marlene Knefel, Twin Falls, and Gary Keith, Bliss, were married in a Valentine's Day ceremony Feb. 14 at St. Edward's Catholic Church here.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Knefel and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Keith.

Rev. Father Bill Dolman performed the ceremony. Attending the couple were Mark Raeh, best man; Debbie Powell, matron of honor, and Kenneth Knefel, usher.

The bride's gown was designed with a long full skirt, full sleeves and a train. A tulleed design decorated the gown and the full-length lace veil was held by a pearl-jaulet tulle.

Her bouquet was made of red and yellow roses accented with baby's breath and yellow streamers.

A reception followed the wedding at the Keith home in Bliss. Flower baskets of red and yellow roses decorated the reception area. Three tiered cake trimmed in red and yellow Assorted with the wedding reception were units of the bride and the bride's sisters.

After a wedding trip to Las Vegas, the couple resides in Twin Falls where the bridegroom is employed by Shotwell's Electric.

your health

Dear Dr. Throsteson:

I am 50 and I am having a problem with water retention. Every week I have to take two water pills, and that is an amount five or six days. I weigh 180 pounds. My blood pressure is 130 over 72.

My ankles get puffy, and they ache especially in warm weather. Also, my eyes get puffy, and I look like I've been crying for a week. Being otherwise healthy, I wonder why I have this miserable problem.

I take estrogen for menopause, but I stopped and now I have the hot flashes. Is taking two water pills every week too much? Would it be harmful to my general health? B.H.

Liquid retention has several causes, and one of them is a particular variety of edema, cyclic edema, which occurs frequently in middle-aged women. (Age factor in this is essential.) It may also be related to a pituitary gland hormone, which has to do with release of water from the system. This might be worth investigating.

You should reduce your salt intake if you're already doing so, and you should avoid foods like sausage, pickles, or others where salt is used as preservative.

Discussing the estrogen ought to have brought some relief, but perhaps you are being a bit impatient. Eliminating the estrogen and continuing with the water pills two or three times a week should produce some results for you.

If this doesn't work then it might be time to begin a search for other causes: kidney malfunction, liver disorder, or an allergy. As for the flashes, since you apparently cannot take the estrogen without aggravating your edema problem, your doctor might want to prescribe a mild tranquilizer to ease this distress.

I'm a middle-aged woman who has been enduring for many years the problem of talking not hair. I'm not from bald, but the amount I lose every day is rather troubling.

Water retention problem

I am in excellent health, keep my hair relatively short, shampoo twice a week and use hair conditioner. Do you think I need vitamins, and if so, which ones? Mrs. F.Y.

We are all blessed with approximately 100,000-150,000 follicles, producing hair follicles at birth. As adults, we are losing about 100 hairs daily, but luckily for most the follicles regenerate replacements most of our lives. Unfortunately, as we grow older fewer and fewer of these follicles are up to their replacement duty.

The result: baldness. The main cause is heredity. Look at some of the old portraits in our family scrapbook and see if you can't detect a thinning on the head of grandpa or great-grandpa.

Alpecia (hair loss) can be a result, too, of certain disease processes, but this is usually only temporary unless there has been irreparable damage done to the follicles and their underlying cells.

The cosmetic chemistry revolution may have contributed its bit in some cases of premature hair loss. You might prudently discontinue using the coloring for a few months to see if there is any change. The vitamin to try would be of the B-complex variety, but there is only a minimal chance that this will improve things.

Your best bet is to take care of the hair you have. Brush very gently and massage your scalp gently to keep the scalp skin tone healthy.

Dear Dr. Throsteson:

I have a slight burning sensation at times when I urinate. Also the urge to urinate when I don't have to. The pressure comes and goes. What could the problem be? H.D.

Could be a urinary tract infection or a sign of your bladder being called a cystocele. This is a protrusion of part of the bladder through the diaphragm, which could be the cause of the pressure you feel. A urinalysis will detect an infection, and a pelvic examination may bladder abnormality.

Gem wilderness lockup asked

BOISE (UPI) — Timber interests laid out preservationists in the Idaho Senate Monday when senators voted to ask Congress to classify 1 million (one) State acres as wilderness.

By a vote of 10-8 the Senate adopted the resolution and sent it to the House.

The Senate also returned to the committee a measure which would strip the land management authority of the local lands committee and take away its voting rights on the committee.

Sen. John Peavey (R-Idaho), sponsor of the wilderness resolution, told the senate the area which would be locked up was a "major riparian habitat."

"It's untouched now and I'd like to leave it like that," Peavey said.

He said it would preserve the elk and fish spawning grounds in the Chamberlain basin.

However, Sen. Tom Swenson (R-Nampa), said he was limited because of the area's timber and wilderness. He said it would be used by the rich and the "middle people" without means would not be able to enjoy it.

Sen. David Frazier (R-Idaho) said it should be returned for multiple use.

"I'm sure we'd make it a great area better instead of poorer if on a multiple use concept," Little said.

He said it was ridiculous to close an area such as this when the timber resources of the area could be used. He said the memorial was contrary to multiple use and the economy of the state.

Sen. J. Wilson Steen, R-Glenns Ferry, said the memorial would just confuse things.

Sen. Stanley R. Gann (R-Idaho) said there was little timber that would be logged on the area.

He said the state might use the dead and dying timber and manage the timber presently available instead of worrying about locking up the area.

Monday said that logging would "destroy it" it is today.

New Gem worker pay plan drawn

BOISE (UPI) — A new pay proposal for state employees was presented to the Senate State Affairs Committee Monday, but it was held until a bill could be drafted concerning bonuses for the employees.

The bill given the committee was for a 7.5 per cent increase in the board pay raise for all employees if a surplus larger than 200 million anticipated existed as of Jan. 1, 1975.

Senate President Tom Termstrom, following the proposal, said he would bring up the bill using the surplus for the salary raises. He said he would prefer seeing bonuses given to the employees if there was a surplus.

He was joined to Sen. Tom Swenson, R-Nampa, and William Rosen, of the Idaho State Employees' Association said bonuses bothered him.

He said they cause some problems, such as employees would receive a bonus whether they had been with the state "one month, one year or 12 years."

"I don't like that approach," Rosen said.

School bond limit increase approved

BOISE (UPI) — The House approved 66-3 and sent to the Senate Monday "stopgap" legislation to increase the authorized bonding capacity of a school district to 25 per cent from 20 per cent.

This measure would assist some 17 districts floor sponsor W. Israel Merrill, D-Blackfoot, said have used their capacity and are hit by burgeoning student populations.

Rep. William Onweiler, R-Boise, one of the three who voted against the bill, said there are better solutions to the problem.

He suggested that those who are creating the problem by moving into new homes or the overcrowded districts should foot the bill. He suggested attacking urban sprawl by requiring the subdivisions to do something about the problem.

Rep. Lyman G. Winchester, R-Kuna, said he did not feel this was the complete answer, either. But he said it would help while the House considers other bills in the necessary package.

Others who voted against the bill were Rep. George Danielson, R-Cambridge, and Robert Hosack, D-Hewlett.

Idaho tax collections in February show drop

BOISE (UPI) — State tax collections for February are beginning to reflect what unemployment figures already show — that the recession is coming to Idaho.

A legislative fiscal analyst told the Joint Revenue Projection Committee of the Legislature late Monday that while income still is up from last year the cumulative increase has dropped from January.

Committee members appeared in agreement that they do not want to require "emergency" tax increases for the next year's revenue, "that earlier fears of a downturn appeared to be justified."

Bruce Bildeston of the legislative fiscal office prepared more statistics for review by the committee before they report to the House and Senate tax committees.

Meanwhile, the Senate State Affairs Committee is talking about giving bonuses of $300 apiece to each state employee if there is sufficient surplus in the general fund June 1.

This came up during discussion of a bill on a proposal for a state employee pay raise from 7.5 per cent to 10 per cent.

House Democrats agreed in caucus to back a bill to appropriate $42 million in surplus funds for the read-justment program when it comes up for debate and a vote.

Wednesday House Republicans discussed the measure, but reached no consensus.

Elsewhere on the legislative scene —

The Senate killed and then revived a proposal to limit the rental government to 10 per cent. It also killed a bill to allow a liquor license at race tracks.

Two no fault insurance bills that were up for final consideration Monday were held for another Wednesday.

The Senate passed a bill and then refused to reconsider the vote taken on a bill which would make it illegal to drive a motor vehicle with a driver's control device that is not

Schoolyard guard OK'd

BOISE (UPI) — Saying it wanted to "maintain reasonable order," the House approved 53-16 today a bill making it a misdemeanor to disrupt the school process on school grounds.

Rep. John Boardman, R-Boise, said the measure is directed at those who would "peddle marijuana" or sell "desecrating booklets" on school grounds.

The measure is intended to maintain reasonable order, Boardman said.

But Rep. Patricia Mc Dermott, D-Florence, said it goes a bit further than that. "It is to remove people from school grounds," she said.

She added that she wants someone arrested under the drug laws if marijuana is being sold on school grounds.

The proposal goes now to the Senate.

Permit program killed 2nd time

BOISE (UPI) — For the second and final time, the House killed today a bill that would have raised penalties high enough for the state to administer the pollution source permit program.

Last Friday, the House killed the measure on a 10-10 vote. Later in the day, it voted to reconsider its action and the proposal was hung on the tentacles of a filibuster.

Apparently the proposal did not improve with age. The House said it was 10-10 at the second time around.

Rep. Herb Fitz, R-New Meadows, said that while the maximum fines of $10,000 and $5,000 for each day's violation would be the same as the federal penalties, the state would have no minimum fine.

He noted the minimum under federal law is $2,000.

He urged the House to put the program under local control of the state.

But Rep. Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls, said the federal program is working well enough and that he did not covet this bill which would provide local control.

Rep. Russ Westenberg, D-Soda Springs, said the bill would require a permit system in Idaho and duplicate the Environmental Protection Agency program in Idaho. He said it would merely duplicate the federal program.

Weather aid measure out

BOISE (UPI) — House taxwriters put in the hopper today legislation allowing county commissioners to establish a weather emergency fund to cover up to four funds to finance it.

To form such a district, a petition signed by no fewer than 50 of the resident real property holders within the precinct would have to be filed with the clerk and recorder.

After suitable advertisement, the commissioners then would conduct a hearing on the proposal, after which they would decide whether to create the district or deny the petition.

Panel range to broaden

BOISE (UPI) — The House State Affairs Committee on Monday introduced legislation mandating that eventually will have to be created the district or deny the petition.

It requires that on and after July 1, the government make appointments to the district's governing members — industry and labor each eventually will have two members, that there be one licensed realtor, one attorney and three members at large.

Iran seeks N-fuel firm stock

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Iranian government wants to buy stock in a new American plant that will produce enriched uranium for nuclear reactors, State Department sources said today.

A delegation of Iranian officials led by economics minister Hushang Ansary is in Washington this week for economic talks. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger had a luncheon for the Iranians Monday, telling Ansary, "We appreciate the help you've given us."

The government has given no details — led by economics minister Hushang Ansary is in Washington this week for economic talks. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger had a luncheon for the Iranians Monday, telling Ansary, "We appreciate the help you've given us."

Iran was taken as praise for Iranian investments of petrodollars in this country, but could be taken otherwise since the Shah of Iran was the principal organizer behind the 50 per cent jump in oil prices that has disrupted the balance of payments of most nations.

State Department sources said the demand for enriched uranium to fuel power plants here and abroad will soon be greater than the capacity of the three existing American plants.

The sources said the talks were leading up to Iranian investment in a fourth plant. The Bechtel Corp. is trying to put together a consortium to build it.

One source said it wasn't clear if Iran would own stock in the plant or simply lend money to make construction possible. Another source said Iran wanted to be a part owner and the United States did not object.

The Iranian economics minister told Kissinger Monday that he hoped the talks of the U.S.-Iran Joint Commission "will prove to be spectacular in more ways than one."

The sources said separate negotiations were under way for an agreement under which the United States would sell nuclear power plants to Iran as well as fuel for the reactors.

Aides claim Egan doomed from start

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Consul John Patrick Egan was doomed to die from the moment he was seized by members of the extremist Montonero movement in Cordoba, Argentina, last week, U.S. officials said Monday.

The kidnappers' price for Egan's life was a demand that Argentine authorities show four captured members of the guerrilla movement on television to demonstrate that they were still alive. This, U.S. officials have learned, was impossible even if authorities had been willing to at least two of the four missing Montoneros already were dead.

The deal, officials said, was that Egan's life was a demand that Argentine authorities show four captured members of the guerrilla movement on television to demonstrate that they were still alive. This, U.S. officials have learned, was impossible even if authorities had been willing to at least two of the four missing Montoneros already were dead.

It is pointed out that Egan's bullet-riddled body was found Saturday about only an hour after a note signed by Egan was found in a bar. The note, addressed to U.S. Ambassador Robert C. Hill, listed the names of the captured Montoneros and urged him to acquiesce. The Argentine government is complying with the kidnappers' demands.

When the consul, 62-year-old U.S. consul official knew their contracts had been slain. Why they seized Egan is not known. If they knew or suspected the truth, officials say, the demand that their fellow guerrillas be shown on TV was cynical and would indicate the kidnappers never had any intention of permitting Egan to live.

The Argentine government privately gave U.S. officials in Buenos Aires the sort of information that it would not produce publicly because they had been released. But there also is evidence that the kidnappers never intended to spare the North American businessman.

BUILDING A WORKABLE nuclear bomb is possible, a Public Television documentary claims. Here actor John Holcomb portrays a student who designed such a bomb, and who subsequently asked to remain anonymous for fear he might be kidnaped and forced to build it. (UPI)

BOSTON (UPI) — Could a terrorist group using only technical know-how available to the general public design and build an atomic bomb?

To find out, the Public Broadcasting Service asked a graduate student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to try to design a nuclear bomb in five weeks, using only information anyone in the public can get.

According to the nuclear weapons expert, the student drew up plans for a bomb that, if built, actually could work. The student met the deadline — and asked to remain anonymous for fear he might be kidnaped and forced to build it.

The student, who designed the bomb, is portrayed by an actor in the program, said it was a challenging, mainly because of the time element involved.

He told UPI in a telephone interview that all the information needed was readily available in any book library, and most calculations involved in the design were nothing more than high school algebra.

Once a design has been completed, a terrorist group would need to get essential material, the PBS program says. Film clips of terrorist actions show such groups are fanatical and care little for their own lives and less for the lives of bystanders.

The program suggests security around plutonium probably would not stop a large, dedicated group from reaching enough to make a bomb. It takes only 1.5 ounces of plutonium to make a bomb with the wallop of 1,000 tons of TNT.

Officials interviewed by PBS say plutonium security is intended to delay, rather than prevent, outright theft. State officials interviewed by PBS said it could take 40 minutes for them to respond with reinforcements.

Revenue sharing losses may exceed $4 million

MOSCOW (UPI) — Local government in Idaho may have to cut expenses $4 million, or $5 million, or replace that amount if Congress fails to renew the federal revenue sharing program, an interim report on Idaho use of the federal funds published Monday.

The revenue sharing program will expire Dec. 31, 1976. The report has been published by the University of Idaho Bureau of Public Affairs. Research for the Idaho Legislature's Joint Finance Appropriations Committee, the Association of Idaho Cities and the Idaho Association of Commissioners and Clerks.

Dr. H. Sydney Duncombe, bureau director and co-author of the study, said a final report is due this fall.

Duncombe and co-author by Congress, $4 million being distributed to state and local governments over five-year period which began Jan. 1, 1972.

Dr. H. Sydney Duncombe, bureau director and co-author of the study, said a final report is due this fall.

Duncombe and co-author by Congress, $4 million being distributed to state and local governments over five-year period which began Jan. 1, 1972.

In a few places the report notes, replacing the funding will not be difficult after the program ends. But in other areas cities or counties may have to resort to tax increases, or cost reductions and tax increases, if revenue sharing is phased out.

Researchers speculated Idaho cities and counties would try to obtain additional funding by asking the legislature to increase sales tax or otherwise limit to local governments by requesting an increase in property tax limits set by law, or by asking the legislature to allow local units of government to levy new sources of taxes.

42 bodies from tunnel

LONDON (UPI) — Four days after a fire which tore through a subway, disaster recovery teams pulled more bodies from the wreckage today and estimated the total death toll would reach 42, two more than previously thought.

The names of the victims were taken from the mangled lead car, the first recovered since Sunday. It brought the official count to 42, with more bodies reported still in the debris.

Fire department officials supervising the mucky search operation through intense heat and the stench of death said it might be Thursday before the last of the victims is recovered.

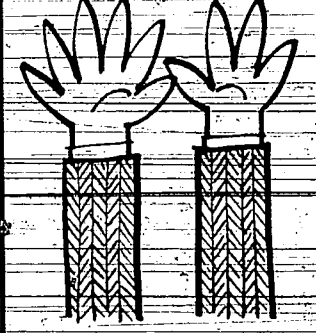

Among those remaining inside was the body of the driver, Leslie Newsom, 35.

RV license onto floor

BOISE (UPI) — House taxwriters sent to the floor with approval Monday legislation to exempt recreational vehicles from personal property taxes, but impose special license fees on them.

While the committee gave a thumbs-up recommendation to the bill, some members expressed concern about exemptions for pickup trucks or shells designed for occupational use.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAR. 5, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is adverse for taking chances and the judgment of others could cause difficulties, so wait until the afternoon when conditions improve before putting a new plan into operation.

ARIES (Mar. 7 to Apr. 19): You should take a different view and make new arrangements if that project is to work out right. Relax at home this evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): If you take more interest in helping others with their projects, you can add to your own progress. Don't follow any hunches now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Not a good day to launch a new project. Make present set-up more streamlined and all goes well. Use more logic in your dealings.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Morning is not good for improving your career, but later your judgment is fine and you get excellent results, be-wise.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Handle your regular duties in the morning as the you will have time for recreation later. Take time to improve your talents.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Choose your words well at home or you could have trouble. Don't take any chances where your security is concerned. Be poised.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): The afternoon is fine for carrying through with monetary matters of importance. A financial expert can give you needed advice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): You can gain the interest of a higher-up by showing increased skill in your work. Take no risks with your good reputation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Take care you don't get involved in activities that could bring you nothing but trouble. Take health treatments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): Improve your appearance so that you feel more confident. Don't make any decisions of importance in the morning.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 19): Do nothing that could alienate your good friends today because the planetary conditions are not favorable. Be calm.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Be sure you do nothing to irk a higher-up in the morning or you could regret it later. Take steps to improve your credit.

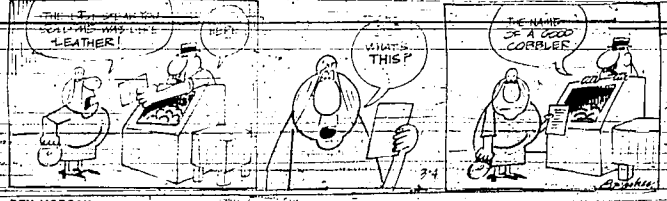

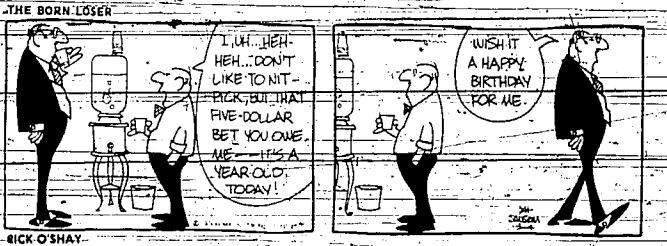

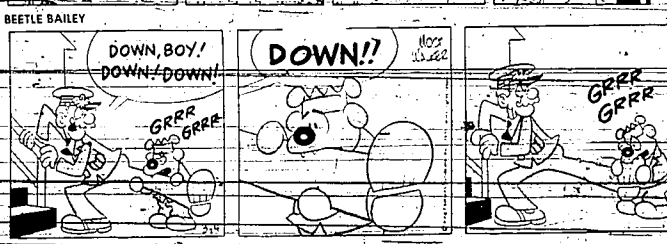

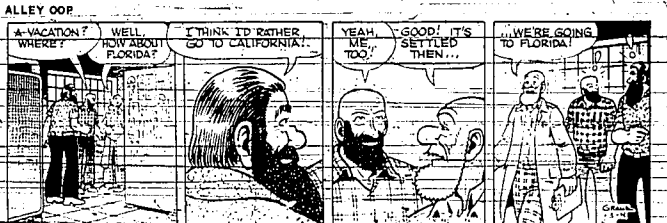

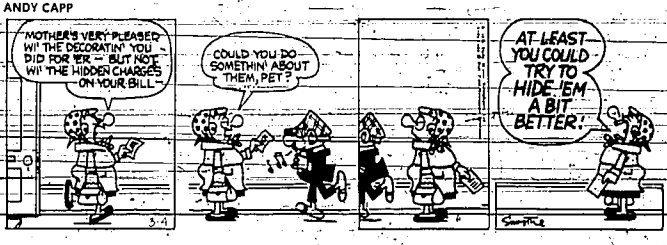

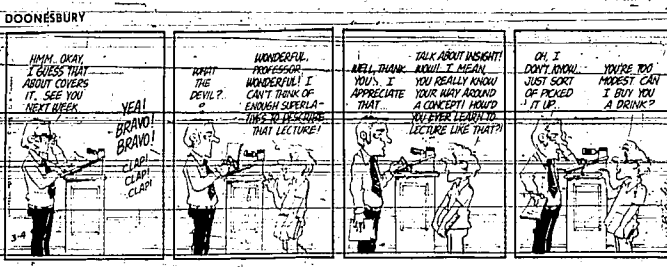

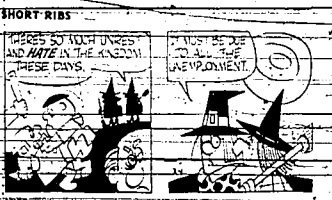

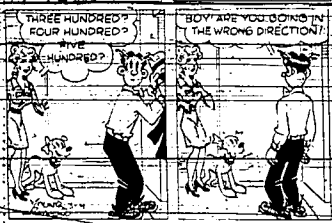

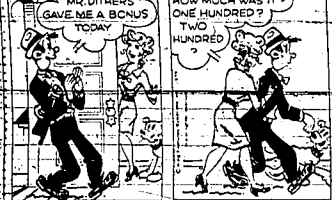

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be a great problem solver if the home conditions are right. Teach that adventures are tests for the ability to challenge. Give the right religious training that will set the right philosophy. A foreign language will be helpful in career.

The Stars impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

WIN FALLS — Insurance coverage increases for barley, beans, sugar beets and wheat have been announced by the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The coverage on dry edible beans has been increased from 10 cents per pound to 11 cents per pound in Cassia-Groding, Lemhi, Lincoln and Twin Falls counties.

Bushel guarantee on barley in the six counties has been increased from four to six bushels to the acre over 1974 guarantees. The dollar

A weak storm may brush Idaho

Twin Falls, north side, Burley-Rupert area: Periods of cloudiness through Wednesday. Highs today in the mid 50s and Wednesday near 50. Lows tonight 45 to 45.

The outlook for Thursday: A chance of rain.

HAILEY, Camas-Prairie: Lower Wood River Valley. Periods of cloudiness through Wednesday. The high both days in the 40s. Lows tonight 40 to 45.

The outlook for Thursday: A chance of showers.

Synopsis: Split flow in the upper levels will keep southern Idaho partly cloudy to mostly but dry and mild through Wednesday. A weak weather system moving over northwest Canada today will brush northern Idaho producing possibly a few showers over the north today and tonight.

An upper air low pressure system centered about 700 miles of the central California coast is expected to drift northeast, increasing the chance of precipitation over California and Nevada. Weak fronts extending south from Idaho may experience some light precipitation from this system as it passes to the south about Thursday.

Ag census cooperation requested

WASHINGTON, D.C. — President Ford issued a proclamation asking farmers and ranchers to cooperate with the 1974 census of agriculture.

The sole purpose of the census is to secure general statistical information regarding agriculture and related activities in the county, the proclamation said.

After four million farms have been planted to farms and ranches in the 50 states, according to the U.S. Bureau of the Census, which is seeking information on agricultural operations during 1974.

The 1974 census is the nation's 20th farm census since 1880 and mainly concerns data on farms and ranches with sales of $2,500 or more annually.

Estimates are acceptable and can be used if no records are available, according to the census bureau.

DES regulations return in Idaho

BOISE (UPI) — The State Department of Agriculture Monday announced the return and strengthening of regulations governing the use of DES on cattle or sheep headed for slaughter.

Beginning March 16 all cattle and sheep brought to federal or state inspected packing plants for slaughter must be accompanied by a certificate stating the animals have not been fed diethylstilbestrol or hormone commonly called DES — for the preceding 14 days.

Dr. Vernon E. Cooner, Boise, chief of the Bureau of Meat Inspection, Idaho Department of Agriculture, said the regulation was in effect prior to January, 1971.

Nevada completes study of range forage growth

RENO — A 1 1/2 year study in Nevada relating range lands to use by deer and livestock adds significantly to knowledge needed in managing aspects of the state's natural resources.

The study was conducted by the Nevada Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Nevada, in cooperation with the U.S. Bureau of Land Management and the Nevada Department of Fish and Game.

Dr. Paul T. Tueller, professor of range management at the university, was study leader.

"The main objective of the work," Dr. Tueller said, "was to evaluate potential forage production, and condition and trend, on several representative ranges around the state used by both cattle and deer. The goal was to determine the degree of diurnal usage by the animals, and its effect on animal response or the other related to overall range condition and welfare of the animals involved."

Dr. Tueller said the study began in 1969 and was completed in 1974. In the course of the work, five university graduate students worked on the research. A variety of techniques and methodologies including use of three phase enclosures were employed to gather the data. Results of the work are included in a soon to be published large volume titled "Management Guidelines for Range Forage Growth."

One primary conclusion that could be drawn from the study," Dr. Tueller said, "is that intelligent management concepts and plans concerning range lands resources can result in maintaining plant productivity for deer, cattle and sheep."

In the course of the study, he did not see enough evidence of badly deteriorating range lands to indicate that as a primary factor in reduction of deer numbers over the past 10 years, Dr. Tueller said. He added that it was his feeling that other factors were also involved such as poor fawn survival, mobility of hunters and others.

Study sites selected to represent different range land situations in the state included the Pequpas Mountains in Elko County, Mory-Bench in Nye, Duck Creek Basin in White Pine, White Rock and Blythe Springs in White Pine counties.

Suez Canal ready soon

CAIRO (UPI) — The Suez Canal soon will be ready for resumption of commercial traffic but the date will depend on political events, according to Canal Authority Chairman Mashhour Ahmed Mashhour.

The authority said today Mashhour toured the canal area late last week to check progress on repairs to installation damaged or destroyed since the 1967 Middle East war.

Regional leaders have said the canal will remain closed until French pulls back out of the canal from the waterway.

Arms race danger mounts

FREEDOM CITY President Ford said today that the "grave" danger of negotiations between the United States and the Soviet Union, the danger of the arms race continues to grow as more countries develop nuclear weapons.

Ford made his remarks in a message he sent to Congress along with the annual report of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

"Over the past year we have made considerable progress in our arms control negotiations with the Soviet Union," Ford said.

He said that in Vladivostok in November the accord he reached with the Soviet Union, U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, U.S. Ambassador to Paris, Jeane Kirkpatrick, and U.S. Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger, "will enable our two countries to establish significant limits on the strategic arms race and will set the stage for negotiations on reductions in all later phases."

He said the past year also saw a U.S. Soviet agreement on limiting anti-ballistic missile deployments "in one country," a Paris Security Conference which "will reduce the number of nuclear-armed states in Europe, an important endeavor to limit and reduce armaments."

Perjury charge dropped

WASHINGTON U.S. Superior Court Judge Philip H. Danforth today dismissed a perjury charge against John Ehrlichman, already under federal sentence for his part in the Watergate cover-up.

In a hearing that lasted less than three minutes, Judge Danforth dismissed the charge after assistant district attorney Stephen Trent said further prosecution would be "an excess of our obligations."

Ehrlichman was not in court. He was represented by attorney James Douglas Dalton.

The perjury charge stemmed from Ehrlichman's testimony before a grand jury about his knowledge of the break-in at Dr. Lewis Fielding's office in Beverly Hills during the "Pentagon Papers" trial.

Fielding was Daniel

the federal sentence and would be "a long and expensive trial."

Danforth asked Ehrlichman's attorney if there was any objection to the district attorney's offer, considered appropriate.

Ehrlichman was sentenced to two years in prison for eight years in prison. The conviction is being appealed.

Trent said any sentence on a conviction of the local charge could run concurrently with

Gregory to speak

POCAHELLO Dick Gregory, controversial black comedian, is scheduled to speak at the State University on Tuesday, March 11, beginning at 8 p.m. in the Ballroom of the Student Union Building (SU).

Gregory is a well-known civil rights activist, social satirist, critic, philosopher, and political analyst.

The talk is free and the public is invited, according to Jesse Robinson, chairman of the 1975 Issues and Speakers Committee, which is sponsoring the event.

BLM airs inquiries

SALT LAKE CITY UPI. Officials of the Bureau of Land Management say they have received dozens of inquiries since a Salt Lake City newspaper ran a story in December that was cheap land was available to homesteaders.

Jack Reed of the Salt Lake BLM office, said today the story was misleading because it indicated there were thousands of acres of cheap land available under the Carey Act of 1894.

Reed said the BLM had classified 1.7 million acres under the Classification and Multiple Use Act. Land was classified in its potential for "indeterminate" uses, such as "wilderness preservation," "wilderness transfer to private ownership."

In order to qualify under the Carey Act, the land must meet certain criteria and the prospective owner must agree to certain terms.

He must live on the land, the exclusion of another home, he must prove he has permanent water source capable of irrigating the land and he must grow crops on a certain amount of the acreage.

The land must qualify as to soil, water, and climate. Reed said most of the one million acres under the program is not available because it is too steep or has insufficient water.

"Most of the good land was grabbed up years ago under the homesteading laws," said Reed. "It just makes sense that if there was any good land it would have been taken already."

About 37,000 acres of the available water, taken, but BLM officials said it had been more than 50 years since any land on any potential homesteader had qualified.

Gold coin sale booms

NEW YORK UPI. In the two months U.S. gold sales have been legal, sales of $1 billion have failed to attract much more than passing interest. But the sale of gold coins is booming.

There's been a revival of the pre-Depression practice of minting gold coins for circulation to grandchildren.

New York numismatist dealer said gold sales in February were several million dollars, primarily in gold coins.

John Flynn, vice president of Republic National Bank of New York, the most active bank in the gold business, said it has sold 2.5 million in gold coins and only $100 million in bullion since they began in gold was introduced in Dec. 1.

Alex Halokin, Republic vice president, said coins are more appealing because coins are more portable than bullion. The South African Kruggerand is the single most popular gold coin.

People like the dollar as a store of value, but they don't like carrying it around. As a result they are buying the coins, Flynn said.

A Louisville, Ky., man recently bought $200,000 in gold from Republic National Bank. John Halokin said he has sold $100 million for speculative trading, but rather for gold security.

Also done a brisk business in the numismatic community. The Franklin Mint, Philadelphia, Pa., claims to have struck the first gold coin, the Panama Balboa, after the nation was lifted.

This particular coin was the largest single issue in the history of the company, said Halokin. It was produced in mint sold 71,193 collector-quality proofs, containing about $50 worth of gold, at $10 each when it stopped taking orders. The 71,193 "Silver Proof" $100 cheaper quality coins were sold at $10 each.

Most of Franklin's regular buyers are coin collectors and Brown said about half the gold coins have been sold to foreigners.

One of the interesting things that has happened is the revival of the tradition of grandparents buying gold coins for their grandchildren, he said.

Earthquake rumbles LA

LOS ANGELES UPI. A minor earthquake rumbled through the city Monday, jolting residents awake and shattering glass windows in the Civic Center area. No damage was reported.

Seismologists at Cal Tech in Pasadena said the 6.3 a.m. tremor measured 2.4 on the Richter scale and had its epicenter in the Inglewood area.

Police said numerous burglar alarms were set off by the quake that was variously described as a "sharp jolt" and gently rolling.

"We really felt it here," said an Inglewood police officer. The tremor was felt through the Los Angeles basin in areas such as Inglewood, Hawthorne, Compton, Gardena, Manhattan Beach and Lennox and Carson.

Civilian units to help police

NEW YORK Times Service. The Soviet leadership, in an annual display of concern over crime in Soviet cities, indicated recently that local police will receive "help" from civilian auxiliaries.

The concern was expressed in a front-page editorial in Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper.

The "auxiliary" role of the auxiliaries would be increased in accordance with a directive of the government and the party leadership. Crime statistics are given annually in the country and the Pravda editorial did not suggest that a crime wave was sweeping Soviet cities.

Pravda did indicate, however, that some of the responsibility normally borne by regular municipal police, would be shifted to the auxiliaries, called Druzhniki in Russian.

Up to now, the principal duties of the auxiliaries, as they strolled city streets wearing red armbands, has involved watching for persons drunk or disorderly or loitering. The editorial emphasized that in the future, the officially sanctioned civilian vigilantes would expand to include the theft of state-owned property, a traditional function of the regular police.

Pravda noted that the auxiliaries have been fighting crime generally in cities including Moscow, Leningrad, Minsk, Tashkent and Khabarovsk. They were said to be fighting particularly against theft of state property in Riga and Sverdlovsk.

Firing still with council

BY DAVID BOCKMAN
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — The aftermath of last month's firing of Police Chief Gary Booth were still apparent at Monday night's Police City Council meeting.

Booth's alleged failure to submit police department bills to the city for payment again became a topic with the presentation of four more bills from his administration.

However, Councilman Jerry Vegvert was critical of the city administration's past performance in keeping a running account of the city's expenditures.

Vegvert noted the city had purchased a computer that was to be used for monthly financial statements. But, Vegvert charged, that never happened and that was the failure of the city.

When Booth was fired, the council charged that his budget was overspent by nearly $22,000 at the end of the year.

Booth countered that he was not provided timely information about his expenditures from the city treasurer's office and had no way of knowing if he was over-spending.

According to city records, monthly budget printouts which include a running account of expenditures were not provided the city during the months of October and November.

The September printout indicated the police department's spending was at an acceptable level, with 74 per cent of the budget spent by the ninth month of the year.

The next printout covered the three-month period of October, November and December and showed the police budget over-spent by about 22 per cent.

Monday night Vegvert said the printouts should be current. "We have a right to demand this," he said.

According to Vegvert, the city is "a big business with a big investment." The city "deserves better accounting," he said.

Councilman James Roper said he agreed, "we have to do what ever is required to get the job done." He said the failure of the treasurer's office to provide financial statements on a timely basis was result of the turnover in staff.

Roper said, "we have to give them an opportunity to get the job done."

Among other reasons given by the council for Booth's ouster was his alleged failure to submit bills to the city payment. As a result, the council charged, the police department's budget was not only over-spent by Dec. 31, 1974, but there were more bills outstanding.

Monday, city attorney Bill Parsons presented four more bills to the council. Two of the bills will be paid and two will not.

According to Parsons, Booth signed a work study contract with the College of Southern Idaho in August. So far, the city's bill is about $250, Parsons said, but Monday night was the first time the council learned of the contract.

The council agreed to fund the contract.

However, the council turned down bills from two companies for a $65 pocket watch and $20 gun holster. The bills were sent to the city clerk, addressed to Gary Booth, chief of police. Parsons said.

Seminars on health top awareness week opening

Patients should ask the doctor to communicate, so that they can understand their illness and the doctor's methods in treatment, he said.

Following the patient's rights panel, gynecologist Dr. Thomas Mayer discussed birth control.

The most commonly used and most effective birth control method, he said, is the pill.

There are at least 20 different pills on the market, he said, most of them similar.

He cautioned against the morning after pill, which he said should not be frequently used because of its high estrogen content.

In a further chilling side note, Dr. Mayer said that the method of low-dose birth control of the shot, is not widely used in this country because of its possible side effects.

The shot is more common, he said, in developing countries where the women are less educated to the daily realities of birth control with the pill.

Some of the side effects of the shot, irregular and continued flow of blood from the vagina and a restriction of the ability to become pregnant at all once the shot has been used for a few months.

Dr. Mayer said that his preference was, in his opinion, still "a little radical for sterilization."

but the more common method of oral litigation is not 100 per cent effective and restoration for pregnancy after procedure at best about 10 per cent effective.

"While there is a birth control pill for males," he said, "I would not know how to get it."

He said almost all the responsibility for birth control typically remains lodged with the woman.

"The males have just sort of taken a back seat in birth control in our population," he said.

He added that there are a lot of unanswered questions about another method of male birth control, the vasectomy.

Production of semen continues after the operation, he said, and can cause disease. Vasectomy may also result in the onset of arthritis, he added.

"There really are a lot of problems with the vasectomy."

Mayer's lecture and question and answer session was followed by a discussion of the Lamaze prepared childbirth method, which attempts to help husband and wife in conducting a birth without artificial aids.

"The fear of childbirth, which is to be feared," said Joanne-Mar Fairland, who conducts classes of Lamaze at the YMCA, "that's why I teach."

She showed a film on the method, and answered questions on the method's breathing and muscular control techniques.

"The Monday sessions" concluded with an evening discussion by psychiatrist Dr. Richard Wurst, who discussed women and stress, alcoholism and drug abuse.

Women are more willing than men to consult a psychiatrist, he said.

He said alcoholism and drug use he viewed as symptoms of stress problems, not the problem itself.

He advised women to give themselves time each week for personal care, so that they can communicate with themselves and come to understand their personal stress situation.

Today's program will focus on women and life and economics, with Lucille Johnson, director of women's programs for the U.S. Department of Labor, kicking off the morning discussions with a 9 a. m. presentation on "Laws and Myths Affecting Women."

She will be followed by equal employment specialist Lynda Baril from the Seattle office of HRW, who will speak on women's rights in employment.

Further information on the week-long series of events is available through the YWCA, which is co-sponsoring the program with the CSI Student Affairs Committee. Call 733-3384.

Time to self pases stress

TWIN FALLS — "Time to yourself" was one of the remedies prescribed by psychiatrist Richard Wurst to relieve stress.

"We do live in a very difficult, very complex, very fast-paced society," he said, "and we need an evening session of 'Women's Awareness Week' programming."

The complications result in conflict and stress, Wurst said, and the very participation in our society offers us the opportunity of great happiness to us as individuals.

Wurst advised the largely female audience to gear their lives to its expectations.

"If you're a woman, who has had the expectation of keeping the household and being a housewife and who is happy doing that," Wurst said, "then I think that's fine. But I'm thinking about those women who have discovered another part of themselves."

Freud's expectations, he said, result in stress, in anger, perhaps in the ovaries of alcohol and drugs.

Alcohol and the use of drugs are just symptoms of the problem, he added.

Wurst gave a short list of 10 personal goals. Wurst said the medical profession has also taken a lot of the guilt for that.

"Drugs such as valium and lithium, while making the recipient feel good, are psychologically addicting and have other side effects," he said.

In telling statistics of revolution, Wurst said that the number of psychiatric patients currently seen, 66 are women, 31 are men, and only six are couples.

Asked why so many more women sought his services, Wurst said in this society, and perhaps particularly in this area, "women are allowed to work and seek help, and men are not."

The psychiatrist advised the women to set aside periods of time each week to be alone.

He said that the women should be alone, communicating with themselves during those periods, coming to an understanding of their problems.

Gooding cancels lease

BY LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News Writer

The airport manager, who said he attended the meeting at the request of Mayor Les Blee, inquired as to the source of the complaints and said they were not true. But he was told to wait until he received the letter and then, according to terms of the lease, he would have 30 days in which to reply.

Councilman Kelly, who is no relation to Earl Kelly, said today, "I think it was a dirty trick."

Sgt. Calvin Willard, National Guard official, asked the council for approval to land helicopters on city property near the National Guard Armory. Mayor Blee took the request under advisement. Willard also said March has been declared Minute Man Month nationally.

In other business, councilmen:

— approved a new uniform fire code for the city.

— accepted changes agreed upon in the Strickland and Painter subdivision.

— passed the wages of City Atty. Cecil Hobbey from $125 to $500 per month, starting Feb. 15.

— decided to call for bids on two pickup trucks for city employees.

— instructed the clerk to write a letter of disclosure explaining the fire chief also is a maintenance man and obtain official clarification from state workers' compensation and retirement officials as to his insurance status.

— decided to write the Joint Fire Department outlining costs of the rural fire operation and asking for more money. The rural district now contributes about $2,100 per year to the city.

Suspect gives different name

BOISE (UPI) — A man flushed out of a motel room with tear gas says he's not the man the FBI thinks he is.

Originally, police identified the man as Steven Lynn Linn, 23, a state prison escapee wanted by federal officials for a bond default. But when the man appeared in court Monday, he told Magistrate Lewis Woods his name was Nicholas P. Hines.

After court proceedings, a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus may be necessary to determine the man's real identity.

McIntire, Jones is being held on a charge of second-degree kidnapping of Linn's ex-wife, Colleen, and assault with a deadly weapon.

Ketchum-SV aides apply for bus service funding

By KIT ARMSTRONG
Times-News Writer

KETCHUM — The Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce has applied for federal funding for its public bus service, officials announced Monday.

After being introduced by Ruth Lieder, president of the chamber's first meeting of the season, Jim Ball, chamber manager, reported that the red buses are now in the area.

"We have transported 22,000 passengers so far this season," he said, adding that over 10,000 more riders are expected to use the bus.

Ketchum-Sun Valley Warm Springs runs before the season is over.

"We'll stop running as soon as we stop making money," Ball said. He said it takes about $100 per day to run each of the two buses.

Ball said the chamber of commerce has applied for federal funding for the buses.

"We stand a very good chance of receiving help," he said. "We have a better chance of receiving the funding than any place in Idaho because of our track record. This is our third winter in operation," Ball said. He said the buses are only operated during the winter.

Ball said the government will put up 80 per cent of the cost to run the buses 12 months of the year.

"We would have to put forth a totally new type of bus service," he said, "running buses between Ketchum and Hootch is part of our consideration. We would, conceivably, have three brand new buses with radio dispatchers. The federal government is quite interested in using us as a showcase."

Announcing that the chamber is in operation again after being defunct, Ms. Lieder introduced the board: Wally Huffman, Sun Valley, Ernest Bengtsson, treasurer; Bill O'Neill, Warm Springs property manager; Bill Carr, resort reservations; Tommy Farr, U.S. Forest Service; Jim Deibert, lawyer; and Dolly Thompson, past president.

Ms. Lieder announced that there will be a membership drive, noting that Sun Valley's generous ski pass policy for member firms should be a drawing card.

"Car announced that the chamber will put up members welcoming World Cup ski teams next week. He said many member hotels are donating free accommodations to the teams."

"The meeting was adjourned after an announcement that the chamber is operating from the A frame in front of the Ketchum Police Department with Mr. and Mrs. Ball dispensing information and building correspondence."

today in brief

Burglars reported

TWIN FALLS — Burglars entered the office building of Dr. Kenneth Briggs at 1133 Locust St. during the weekend and took postage, a small amount of cash and an adding machine.

City police said entry was discovered about 10 a. m. Monday. Missing were a postage box, a cash register and an office adding machine. Several other machines including a typewriter had been moved from their office locations but were found in the building.

SS Keith Gramberry, 635 North Washington St., told police someone broke into his home and took a tool box with a number of sets of wrenches and other tools. He estimated the loss at $300.

Pollution standards eyed

BOISE (UPI) — A Boise surgeon with a background in chemical engineering says a proposed coal-fired power plant near Orchard may not meet air pollution standards with proposed controls.

Dr. Robert Holden has looked into the pollution question on behalf of the Ada County medical society. He also has a PhD in chemistry and chemical engineering.

"The medical society has gone on record saying the pollution controls planned by Idaho Power are inadequate."

It also has endorsed power plant siting legislation to help assure a detailed independent evaluation of the project.

Gem programs funded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration has awarded $1,025,000 to the Idaho Law Enforcement Planning Commission to fund programs to reduce crime and improve the state's criminal justice system.

The grant also will be used to support corrections programs. Federal program administrator Richard Velde said $1,301,000 will be used to fund anticrime programs outlined in the state's Comprehensive Criminal Justice Plan. $153,000 will be used to fund corrections programs, and the state will receive $172,000 as part of a small state grant.

Swatley reappointed

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has reappointed Dr. John Swatley, Boise, to the State Board of Education and announced the retirement of Trustee Kenneth Thatcher of Idaho Falls.

Thatcher asked not to be reappointed to the board, but the governor asked him to serve through the board's March meeting.

Swatley's reappointment is subject to confirmation by the State Senate.

Gooding tops blood quota

GOODING — The Gooding Red Cross blood drawing Tuesday collected 127 gallons of blood, according to Mrs. M. V. Klingler, drawing chairman.

The quota was 100 pints.

A four-gallon pin was given to Virginia Bowles, Devayne Wenzler, John Benner and Catherine Swartz received three gallon pins. Jacks Toomey received a two-gallon pin. One-gallon pins were given to Albert Moody, Alan Johnson, Perdita Humphreys, Dale Jose, Jean Stuart and Lloyd Miles.

Helping with the drawing were members of the Gooding Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, High School Future Nurses and city employees.

Possession concepts 'archaic'

TWIN FALLS — An attorney for Magic Valley Memorial Hospital told a CSI women's conference Monday that men no longer automatically own medical care decisions for their wives.

Fred Decker said the once commonly held notion that a woman was her husband's property is archaic.

"The outdated concept of the husband making the medical decision for the wife, I think is archaic."

But women, Decker said, often are hesitant to question their doctor, and usually are reluctant to stand up on their hind legs.

Decker said the question of patients' rights was a difficult one because "there may be reasons in the practice of medicine that the patient doesn't want to know, these things (diagnosis and the effects of treatment)."

However, he said, it is incumbent upon the doctor to communicate the truth if that is the patient's wish.

"If he doesn't tell you the truth, he probably opens himself to a malpractice suit," Decker said.

Decker also said there is a "great fear" on the part of the medical profession of being rejected by the patient for their ideas and concepts of treatment.

"The doctor has to play good in certain instances, and he wants to play to disinherit that," Decker added.

Other panelists concerned themselves with patients' rights — concerning medical experimentation by doctors without the patient's consent, even if necessary.

Physicist agrees unwilling participation in medical experiments are included in a new "Patient's Bill of Rights" being circulated nationally.

Decker and the other panelists, Barbara Omara, Mary Helen Perry and Nedra Blankenship, agreed that medical experimentation is not really a problem in Twin Falls, but becomes a problem to the Twin Falls patient when he is transferred to Salt Lake or some other metropolitan center where medical research is done.

"She takes away your identity," said one audience member who requested that he be identified. "I found all these infusions around me. I went into shock."

"I don't think we ask enough questions," said Mrs. Blankenship.

"The patient often doesn't know what questions to ask," responded Mrs. Omara.

In another segment of the discussion, Mrs. Omara stressed her belief that the patient has a right to read his own medical files, particularly any files which contain information that may be sent to insurance companies or prospective employers.

The right of file review is also included in the national Bill of Rights proposed.

"When I would want to look at the file, I would be on the point of firing the doctor," Mrs. Perry countered.

"I don't feel that it would do me any good to know a lot of little things ... If I were going to die, I think that I would want to know."

Turist implicit in the doctor-patient relationship, she argued.

"The patient has to take more responsibility for what you see and what you ask him," Mrs. Desmond said.

Head is the problem for both clubs. "Bishop Kelly has some fine raw talent," says Coach Fred Trinkle. "They have three big sophomores and the average age is 6.3. The thing that I thought when I scouted them last week was that at times they'd hit a 25-foot jumper and turn around and blow the tripple. They were just inconsistent. Like you see young teams."

On his own problems, Coach Trinkle said Martin definitely didn't play due to a bad ankle. "We just have to hope we can get past Kelly and give Tim a couple more days of rest — and hope then he can do in the state tournament. Using motioned pretty well on his ankle Monday night in practice, but his conditioning might not be real good now. He spent 10 days doing nothing but trying to get well."

He is a menace to the healthy development of any young person in North America," John Fisher, Director of Mental Health Canada, said in an interview.

Anybody who advocates violence in today's society should be taken out of the main stream and taught differently for a while. "Regrettably, Campbell is yet another example of those who would rather damage Canada's social well being rather than encourage a few tall tales."

Fisher's attack followed a weekend television program in which Campbell said opponents would drop if violence was taken out of hockey.

World champion Jack Wajuhor won the men's 800-yard run in 1:49.4 and the world's top high jumper, Dwight Stones, won his specialty with a leap of 7-1. Former Big Ten champion Dennis Adama also topped 7.

Americans swept the top two spots in the women's and men's 60-yard hurdles; men's and women's 400-yard dashes; men's shot put; men's and women's long jump; men's and women's 200-yard dash; men's and women's 800-yard dash; the women's 400-yard dash and the men's 100-yard dash.

SOONER alumns fight back TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Oklahoma State alumns Jim Treat said he told Big Eight commissioner Chuck Nennis Monday he wanted the truth about Jimmie Mackin's involvement in the recruiting of a high school football player.

"I want it corrected and corrected immediately," said Treat. "I don't want to see a store chain — if he chooses to do so, let it be. I will take action in Tulsa County and I'm going down here to tell the story."

Another alumns dispute was the Big Eight also said he would sue the conference if it was not settled. The Big Eight voted to reprimand OSI for 12 football and wrestling recruiting violations. One violation — a representative of OSI's athletic interests made arrangements to hire out a prospect the night before the Big Eight letter of intent was due.

Treat said the recruit, Wes Hankins of Brisson, was not in hiding at his house when he spent the night there before the conference signing date.

He said Hankins already had stated his intention to sign with OSI. "Two coaches from another school in the Big Eight conference contacted with him and subjected him to undue pressure. He didn't know how to handle it. His parents didn't know how to handle it," he said.

He said Treat's parents asked Treat to take the youth to his home. "I want to see a store chain — if he chooses to do so, let it be. I will take action in Tulsa County and I'm going down here to tell the story."

Dow Jones Average
30-INDUSTRIALS

March 3, 1975

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, continuing its new year rally, moved sharply and broadly higher Tuesday in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange, rally amid hopes of prices might decline soon.

The Dow Jones industrial average entered cracked the 800 level with a 14-point gain Monday, was ahead 11.34 at 764.47 shortly before noon EDT. Advances for out-distanced declines, 99 in 271 among the 1,643 issues crossing the tape.

The two-hour turnover amounted to around 15,000,000 shares, compared with a 6,000,000 traded during the same period Monday.

Many analysts and investors simply were unconvinced by the market's rebound from last week's losses and the steady decline in interest rates. The advance, they said, showed more than a temporary recovery in money on the sidelines to invest in securities.

Sparking some of the buying enthusiasm were hopes of prices, might decline soon, according to some sources. The Organization of Oil Producing Countries opened a summit conference in Algiers and signs of disagreement over dealing with consumer nations. Wall Street was watching to see if oil cartel would make a move.

Airline issues were among the pacemakers. They have been rising since speculation emerged last week oil producers were shaving prices. Delta, which announced a new cargo service was ahead 1.1 and UAL Inc. 1.1.

Chemicals were particularly strong, along with electronics, computers and some of the glamour "low chemical" group, and other Union Carbide, Alcoa, Eastman Kodak a point or more each.

Sony Corp., which has become something of an international favorite, was the most active issue, up 2 1/2 in 20,000 shares. Also in the electronics and computers, IBM gained 3/4, Burroughs 2 1/4, Digital Equipment 2 1/4, Motorola 2, Texas Instruments 1 1/2.

Health-related issues included Ethicon, Carter's dividend 1 1/2.

S.K. Kravitz was the second most active big board issue, up 1/2 to 24 1/2 in 100,000 shares.

Also in this group, Sears Roebuck gained 1/2, J.C. Penney 1 1/2 and Federated Department Stores 1. Penney was exclusive making gains in the "same street" line of children's clothes.

Food-related issues in the third most active group, up 1 1/2 in 100,000 shares. General Motors rose 1/2, and Chrysler 1.

Prices were higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Xerox led the active group, up 1 1/2 in 20,000 shares. BASF's Petroleum followed, up 1/2 to 31 in 20,000 shares. Solutia Devices was third, up 1/2 in 20,000 shares.
