Proposed Idaho budget of $218 million drawn

BY BILL LAZARUS
Times News Capitol Bureau
BOISE — The Joint Finance Appropriations Committee voted up its fiscal 1975-76 budget Tuesday with proposed appropriations totaling $218 million.
The College of Southern Idaho and the State School for the Deaf and Blind at Gooding pulled through with the same budget as last year. The State School at Gooding proposed in his budget message at the beginning of the legislature. That means about 12 per cent more in state funds to CSI this year than last year, an increase which Dr. James Taylor, president of the college, says will allow CSI to maintain its current program but not expand.
The State School at Gooding should receive nearly $14 million, up from its estimated $12 million budget this year. That, according to Finance Appropriations Committee records, should enable the institution to expand all its current programs.
Some other programs proposed by Andrus did not fare so well.
According to Larry Scale, fiscal analyst for the executive division, the legislative committee cut out a proposed $300,000 for a new "meals on wheels" for senior citizens and cut out an anticipated $1 million for the department of Special Services budget.
Committee records show that Andrus proposed the department's budget be raised from a current $104,800 to $136,700. The department was appropriated $123,400.
Another substantial cut was made in Andrus' proposal for aid to families with dependent children.
Andrus proposed the state provide 85 per cent of the 1974 standard, raising the average grant $63 to $70 for a mother with 2 1/2 children.
Following the recommendations of the Joint Finance, Health, Education and Welfare Committee the Finance Appropriations Committee cut back Andrus' proposal to 70 per cent of 1974 need, placing the average grant at $24 per month, an average increase of $12 over current levels.
In another health and welfare area, the committee cut out about $20,000 proposed by Andrus for child health services. This will eliminate a mother and care program and aid to day care centers and a hearing and vision program, Scale said.

Meanwhile, the committee approved spending $152,000 more for a cancer research program than had been proposed by the governor.
The committee also cut out about $2.5 million from the governor's budget for the department of Health and Social Assistance.
The bulk of the cut, Scale said, came from eliminating a property tax relief program geared to help the elderly. He predicted that the legislature would limit some of the program's benefits and the committee did not replace them.
The Finance Appropriations Committee also provided no funding for the Alcohol Safety Action project, eliminating the program for next year, Scale said.
The largest cuts from the governor's budget came from state employee salaries and tax relief.

Henry off to Mideast
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger left today on what may be his hardest mission in the Middle East — persuading Israel and Egypt to agree on further Israeli withdrawal from lands seized by the Suez Canal.
Kissinger was moderately optimistic of success as his special jet took off from Andrews Air Force Base here Tuesday after 10 a.m. MDT. He will visit Britain, and possibly Brussels before landing in Egypt Friday.
The latest shuttle in Kissinger's step-by-step approach to peace in the volatile area could last a month or more. State Department officials believe the danger of a new war between Arab and Jew will increase if he fails to get an Israeli-Egyptian agreement.
Publicly, Egypt and Israel are far apart on an exchange of peace assurances from the Arab nation in return for strategic passes and rich oil fields lost to Israel eight years ago.

Gem rebate bill vetoed

BOISE (UPI)—Gov. Cecil B. Andrus today vetoed a bill which would have given Idaho taxpayers a 10 per cent rebate on their 1974 income tax because it did not benefit those that really needed it.
It was the second tax reform measure in the legislature which he vetoed this session. Earlier he refused to accept a bill which would have given a $5 rebate on the 10 per cent rate.
Ceding the 10 per cent rebate "unfairly and unjust," Andrus said the bill lacked "any semblance of getting concern for those who would benefit most by tax relief, those with the lowest incomes."
The governor said one-third of the proposed 3 million rebate would go to those three per cent of the people — those with the highest incomes.
He urged that the $9 million be used to maintain and improve the state's highway system. He also called for construction of needed public buildings which would cost more state dollars.

Some CIA files 'inappropriate'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House subcommittee Wednesday said the CIA maintains a wide variety of files containing information about U.S. citizens and acknowledged that the collection of some of the material may be inappropriate.
Colby also said some CIA files — on individuals involved in suspected or being suspected in foreign espionage — are disseminated to the FBI and other agencies in the federal intelligence community.
In testimony prepared for delivery to a House Government Operations subcommittee, the CIA director previously cited 10 files maintained by his agency that include at least the names of U.S. citizens.
But he reiterated previous denials to published charges that the CIA, in violation of its charter, had engaged in massive domestic surveillance activities, saying that "a few individual files" of alleged aliens had been "exaggerated out of all proportion."
"I believe that some of the material which was collected by the CIA over the past 27 years may not be appropriate today," Colby said, "although the collection was undertaken under the belief that it fell within the charge of the director of central intelligence to protect intelligence sources and methods and under the belief that it was included under our charge to collect foreign intelligence and counterintelligence."
He said that as a result of a 1973 review of intelligence files, "a number of specific directives were issued prohibiting the maintenance of files on U.S. citizens other than those developed as an incidental aspect of foreign intelligence or counterintelligence matters or as an employee, applicant, contact, etc."
"Any accumulation of American names for possible use in connection with foreign in-

Rockets shut down airport

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Communist insurgents brought up guns to within four miles of the Phnom Penh airport today and slammed in a barrage of artillery, rockets and recoilless rifles that cut off all commercial air traffic to the Cambodian capital.
The barrage did not slow the American airlift of rice, ammunition and gasoline and commercial planes chartered by the U.S. military took off and landed at the rate of one every 15 minutes in an operation reminiscent of the Berlin airlift.
The American plane was hit by rocket shrapnel and sustained minor damage, but flew back to Saigon safely.
American officials in Saigon stressed that the halt in civilian flights to Phnom Penh would not affect the U.S. airlift.
The rebel gunners concentrated on Pocheon airport four miles outside Phnom Penh, an adjacent village and the road linking the airport to Phnom Penh. UPI reporters said half a dozen vehicles on the road were hit by shellfire and hand grenades. Pocheon village, already deserted because of prior attacks.
The last passenger plane to arrive at the capital was an Air Cambodge jet from Bangkok. It was met by airport officials wearing lead jackets and helmets. They rushed passengers into the sandbagged arrival terminal and sent the plane off without passengers.

Big radio net to Southwest
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Idaho apparently won't be the site of the world's most powerful military radio station, the controversial project Sangre.
The Pentagon announced Tuesday it will build the station on a 1,000-acre radio transmission complex covering about 3,000 square miles either in Nevada or New Mexico.
Earlier the Defense Department had said Idaho was being considered as a prime site for the project because of the state's sparse population, climate, and dry soil.
The Sangre station is designed to transmit ultra-low frequency radio waves capable of reaching U.S. nuclear submarines at the bottom of the world's oceans.
Pentagon director of communications Thomas C. Reed told a news conference the project would be built on land owned by the defense Department's Nellis Air Force Base, Nev., or the White Sands Fort Bliss complex in New Mexico. (Continued on P. 11)

Valley schools await tot class money
BY DAVID HORSMAN
TWIN FALLS — Most Magic Valley school districts are anxiously awaiting word on that all-important element — money — before taking serious action on kindergarten.
The Idaho Senate approved a $3.1-million kindergarten bill Tuesday and sent it to Gov. Cecil Andrus, who is expected to sign it. The measure has the local option — school districts may or may not start kindergarten programs and parents may or may not enroll their 5-year-olds.
The school districts must make the first move, but they are sitting tight until the state funds down their figures on how much money each can expect.
Twin Falls School District and the local school

We have been studying costs for weeks and it is not clear if the $2.2 million is adequate for state-wide costs," he said the school board will discuss kindergarten as soon as we receive more definite information.
Board chairman Dr. Howard Honk, Tuesday said the district will start "some type of kindergarten" program if the state provides money for it.
Wayne Fogg, superintendent of Blaine County schools, today said, "I don't think $3.1 million is enough to do the job. I'm disappointed that they, if they were going to start a new program that they didn't change it adequately."
It is this district does start kindergarten classes, it will force a change to lower the class sizes in elementary schools, according to Fogg.
A current funding project will provide seven additional elementary classrooms, but a kindergarten program would require about three of those extra rooms, he said.
However, "I think the people in the county seem to be quite favorable toward it."
Lyle Van Orman, chairman of the Jerome school trustees, said, "It just depends on how much money we get."
If a kindergarten program is started, it would have to be housed in "a computer drive building" built and owned by the defense Department today. "We would have to go without for a year if we waited for school facilities," he added.
He said a lot of people have been working for a while here, but there is some opposition too. (Continued on P. 11)

Firemen in new station

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES

TWIN FALLS—The Twin Falls City Fire Department is now doing business at an all-new, 11,000-square-foot, single-story building adjacent to city hall.

While many items still are being unpacked, the firemen are answering alarms from the new facility on Second Avenue East. They are vacating one of the oldest buildings in Twin Falls which has served as a fire station since the days when horses pulled the "fire wagons." It contained about 6,000 square feet of space on the east side of the city.

By contrast the new station provides spacious, carpeted and draped office areas with adequate space for fireman facilities while the firemen are on duty overnight.

A kitchen with three large refrigerators, electric counter-top stove, two banks of cupboards and a serving area is included. There are four bedrooms, each capable of accommodating four beds.

Office areas have separate bathrooms and a large central bath and restroom area includes six washbasins, four shower stalls.

Design of the new building is in three main sections separated by two full-length hallways. One side in the building includes a day room for pool table, tennis and other recreational equipment—a reading and study room which will include television—a classroom, exercise room, locker rooms and two bedrooms.

The second wing includes additional bedrooms, locker and bathroom and quarters, and office for the duty officer. In the third portion of the room office areas include a reception room where the mayor is slated to the fire department, Thelma Tucker, secretary works. Offices for the fire chief, assistant fire chief, inspector and fire marshal are also provided.

The center of the station is the radio and telephones communication room where the dispatcher has contact with vehicles and with all representatives of the system throughout the building. The automatic alarm system for businesses where such alarm systems are maintained also operates from the communication room.

Although only about 40 firms have fire alarm systems which automatically notify the department, the board has space for 50.

There are also a hose room, numerous storage areas, a fire proof and air tight lubrication storage room and a complete sprinkler system in case of fire.

Chief Bobby Bopp said the fire station is a year or more in the United States. An automatic generator provides emergency lights and electrical service including operation of the electric doors from the fire truck bays and the extent of power failure. There are bays for four trucks including a long one for the station. This will allow the fire department to house the auxiliary engine now in storage. Adjacent to the fire engine area are rooms for washing equipment and for shop work. All areas of the station are connected directly to the fire engine area by hallways.

New TF facilities

DISPATCH and communication area of the new Twin Falls Fire Station is the heart of the operation, says Fire Chief Bobby Bopp, standing. Clinton Earl operates communications panel where automatic alarm signals, radio and telephones center. Firemen are now in their new headquarters adjacent to the city hall.

Ketchum aides ponder request

KETCHUM Charles Grubb, contending that the city owes him money, asked Monday for a permit to build a fourplex with building fees to be paid later.

Grubb won a lawsuit filed in district court three weeks ago after he challenged the validity of city sewer hook-up fees, and building permit fees.

Grubb paid under protest in April 1974 over $2,400 in building and sewer hook-up fees. He filed suit afterward, contending the fee schedule increase was a direct result of the increased cost for improvement and alteration of the existing sewer plant.

He contended the fee schedule was excessive and provided revenue for the city contrary to its constitutional limitations. Under state law municipalities are limited in their authority to raise funds for capital improvements by taxing bonds, levies, or other means.

Judge Douglas Kramer upheld his contention. The Ketchum City Council is considering appealing the matter.

The city has another month to file an appeal with the Idaho Supreme Court but Grubb said he is ready to submit plans for another fourplex in a week.

Grubb said he wanted the city to sue him a permit with the fee to be paid when the city adopts a new ordinance as directed in the fifth district court ruling. Many of the council members said they had seen the court draft Monday night for the first time and they would have to have time to consider it.

Grubb said that judgment delays and building permit fees are a problem. He said that judgment was issued three weeks ago.

"I think you owe me money now," he said. "I don't think I should have to pay up and I don't know how long it will take to get the money back."

The council said it needed a week to think over the matter and would take up the matter at the 5:30 p.m. meeting next Monday in the city hall.

commentator Phil Pachter said the latest plans submitted by Seattle developer Paul Steiner for construction of a resort facility to be called Greyhawk Show "a condominium development."

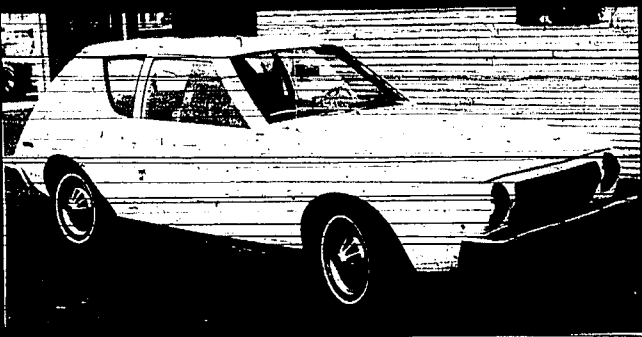

"They are allowed to build a resort lodge but I don't think that is what it is," Pachter said.

No building permit has been issued for the Greyhawk development. Several sets of plans have been received for the resort in the footed hillside near of Warm Springs run but none of the plans have totally complied with city regulations.

The council will take up the matter at Grayhawk at the Monday night meeting.

Gem kids get kindergartens

Now there are only three in the 50 states without state-financed kindergartens, and Idaho is not one of them. After five years of trying, the Idaho Legislature has approved a kindergarten bill on a narrow 18-16 vote in the House and an overwhelming 24-11 vote in the Senate.

Gov. Andrus, who drafted the bill, is sure to sign it into law. Particular credit should go to three of the five Magic Valley legislators who voted to support kindergartens. First, the only Magic Valley Representative who supported it, Rep. Ernest Haje, R-Burley, held the most important vote of all. Had he changed his vote and opposed the bill, it would have died on a tie in the house for the second year in a row.

Gas savings?

Congressional Democrats have formulated an energy conservation plan part of which involves slapping a 40-cent per gallon tax on gasoline and 27¢ on the latest. This means that the average American can look forward to having his gasoline costs increase by $112.80 a year, because of that tax alone.

Town's reactions to streak noted

Editor, Times-News:
I like to invest the Twin Falls-Idaho people's charitable reaction to the statement made by Supt. George Staudaher regarding the croakers.
I am interested that the hostility is directed not at the actual cause, the streakers, but at the man who had the moral fiber to "speak out" against them.
It would seem logical to assume that if the two men were unharmed enough to display their entire persons before a large crowd, they

USSR holds corks to Red Sea, Suez

LONDON (UPI)— Western military analysts said today the Soviet Union is probably becoming more active in the Red Sea and Suez Canal region. The analysts said the Soviet Union's military presence in the area is a direct result of the Soviet Union's recent case history may be compared with that of Cuba as perhaps with Egypt. In the mass exodus of Soviet advisers in 1972, the report said, the United States has a "strategic" interest in the area.

Criticism plagues US consumer panel

WASHINGTON—After being in operation for the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission continues to be plagued by the same criticism and hostility which dogged it since its birth.

"How can really important family products be handled faster in two years? How many major projects has it actually looked?"
Continuing criticism of the agency, as well as the government and industry, is reflected in the recent report of the Senate Commerce Committee. "Sighting in defense of the commission," spokesman of the agency said that not only have the committee officials had to undertake the formidable task of organizing an "efficient" operating new agency but they also have run into many roadblocks along the way.

one-time pump fee
SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Idaho farmers may have to pay as much as $10,000 to Utah Power & Light Company for installation of electric power facilities to run irrigation pumps.
The utility today asked the Idaho Public Utilities Commission for permission to recover a "one-time" non-refundable charge of $25.00 per horsepower for new electric service applications.
Similar charges for irrigation pumps are between 100-200 hp, but could mean charges of $25,000-$50,000 per installation of substantial and transmission lines.
James C. Taylor, UPL vice president, told the commission the company had received requests for irrigation pumps from the Rexburg and Preston areas.
Taylor said that would require construction of additional transmission and substations facilities costing more than $2.3 million.
"We believe the burden of this substantial investment in special-purpose electric service facilities should be borne only by those customers who need them," said Taylor, and should not be passed through to other customers through rate increases.

FAA sets up new rules on 'port X-ray machines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Administration today announced new safety standards for airport X-ray machines designed to safeguard employees who work around the units.

The standards also would help prevent damage to film in passenger carry-on luggage.

The new regulation, which takes effect April 4, was issued after a concerted effort by the FAA to examine carry-on luggage.

The FAA said the new regulation requires that all machines comply with radiation level standards set by the Food and Drug Administration and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Compliance with these regulations must be certified by a radiation check when the equipment is installed and every six months after that. The FAA said it is to have a radiation check made each time an X-ray machine is moved.

The FAA also requires that X-ray machines be designed to be moved without altering the radiation level.

A major feature of the new regulation deals with photographic film, which can be fogged by exposure to sufficiently strong X-rays or by repeated exposure to weaker X-rays such as a traveler might encounter on a joint vacation trip that might involve boarding many different planes.

For X-ray machines operating at a radiation level of less than one milliroentgen, the FAA said, an airline will be required to post a warning sign on the machine. The FAA said that X-ray or scientific film might be damaged and should be removed from luggage.

For machines operating at levels higher than one milliroentgen, the FAA said, signs must warn that all types of film should be removed before the luggage is inspected.

Passengers may request and receive a hand search of carry-on articles in lieu of an X-ray inspection," the agency said. Many airlines have resisted grant requests for such inspection when passengers feared their film might be damaged.

The new regulation also requires airlines to provide employees with personal dosimeters, devices which measure cumulative exposure to radiation, which must be checked monthly to insure that the employees are not subjected to abnormal radiation levels.

PRESIDENT FORD

Agreement announced

Dispatch of the Times, London RIVADIL SAPPD-ARAHIA President Giovanni Leone of Italy announced Tuesday an agreement on international energy cooperation between Italy and Saudi Arabia.

It is the first agreement of its kind between Saudi Arabia and a European country and comes only a day after an economic pact was signed with Japan in Tokyo.

Leone, confiding in the agreement, said it would create increased participation by Italian companies in the process of industrializing Saudi Arabia.

The agreement covers cooperation in industrial, agricultural, technical and financial fields. A joint commission will be set up to oversee the negotiation between the two countries.

Ford puts off oil tariff

N. Y. Times Service WASHINGTON — President Ford announced Tuesday that he would postpone for two final stages of his oil import tax in order to encourage Congress to work out a compromise energy program by May 1 from the energy trust.

Ford made the announcement in vetoing legislation that would have delayed for 90 days the oil import tariff he has been imposing in three stages on Feb. 1.

The proposal he said was designed to primarily force Congress to take action to conserve energy and reduce U.S. dependence on foreign oil.

The 51-49 vote in the House that was effective March 1 and the final 51-49 vote scheduled for April 1 are resented while the administration and Congress try to reach agreement on an energy program.

Ford's action, a compromise in an effort to avoid a confrontation with Congress and to facilitate a further compromise, was also demanded by both sides' energy workers.

"The important thing Ford said is that Congress is finally moving on our national energy problem and, hopefully, we can agree on an energy program by May

At the Capital, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Special Committee on Senate Democrats on energy and the economy, said Ford's action was "quite a concession I think it behoves the Congress to respond in kind. If we can't resolve it in 90 days we can't resolve it at all."

Ford's action, taken at the request of congressional leaders, appeared to be a face-saving device for all concerned, one that may prove a climate for negotiations between the Republican president and the Democratic Congress.

For Ford, it avoids a display of weakness in a congressional session that may prove very difficult. Although he had claimed to have enough votes in the Senate to sustain his veto, one-third of those voting plus one, Senate sources said it would at best have been a very thin margin.

The House has tentatively scheduled a vote for Thursday on overriding the veto, and the prospects there, according to

EPA delays rule change

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency has decided to give the automobile industry more time to delay in higher exhaust pollution rules, sources reported today.

In addition, EPA administrator Russell E. Train planned to tell an afternoon news conference that he endorses President Ford's call for a tougher five-year stall in air cleanup standards for cars.

The automobile industry asked last year for the one-year delay, claiming tougher rules would result in cars that not only cost more money, but which would use more gasoline, neither one desirable, the spokesman said, considering current economic and energy situations.

While EPA was still considering the one-year delay, the President's State of the Union message proposed a five-year rule. That proposal would require slightly tougher limits for two of the pollutants, namely nitrogen dioxide and carbon monoxide, during the suspending period, something the industry opposes. Detroit said it would prefer a simple five-year freeze of the levels used for 1975 models.

Key elements of Congress so far have given the five-year delay, and should.

Current rules affecting 1975 and 1976 model cars allow exhaust to contain no more than 1.3 grams per mile of hydrocarbons, 15.0 grams per mile of carbon monoxide and 2.4 grams of nitrogen oxides.

Foreign investment bar draws fire

New York Times Service WASHINGTON — The Ford administration's proposed legislation Tuesday to oppose the President's power to bar foreign investment in this country.

Instead, the administration proposed the creation of a new central office that would review such investments closely and in a way that officials said would eliminate potential "take-overs" of American companies.

The administration position was stated at the beginning of hearings on a bill sponsored by Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J.

The administration witnesses were Treasury Under Secretary Jack P. Bennett, Charles W. Robinson, Under Secretary of State for economic affairs, and James L. Tate, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs.

The Williams bill, introduced Jan. 27, would be an amendment to the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Its main purpose would be to give the President discretionary authority to block any foreign investment totaling more than 5 per cent of the stock of any American company, with assets of $1 million or more.

GOP national panel 'eats crow'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican National Committee set down today a philosophical view and a budget of cash it had to get the first to get the second.

The crow was the committee's indignant rejection last year of the mere suggestion the GOP accept the nomination of Sen. Barry Goldwater, the nominee of the Illinois group provided by Congress for each major party to hold its own national convention last year.

The GOP leaders probably figured the result if they had their own convention. But in authorizing the suit, Congress also outlawed the so-called convention program jammed with expensive adverstisements which had been a staple of GOP national conventions.

A motion to accept the convention suit was fought on the national committee's agenda at the start of a two-day meeting that also contains some other items for GOP party conflict.

Also on the agenda for action was the report of the party's "Rule 29" reform committee. At least two issues were expected to spark controversy.

One was the Securities Act, which would be expected to expand the 170-member national committee to include states or representatives of GOP auxiliary groups, such as organizations representing labor, students, women and the elderly, minorities and ethnic groups.

KETCHUM — Long time Ketchum resident Fagan asked the City Council for the truth about why city residents are not hooked to the central sewer system.

Appearing before the council at a meeting Monday night, Mrs. Fagan said it was her impression several years ago the entire city would have to hook to the system. She asked why 80 homes in town are still using septic tanks. "I have septic tank I could have been using," she said, "but we don't have a right to keep polluting our river and planet. Many people think they have been hooked up this summer."

Mrs. Fagan then blasted Twin Falls Commissioner James Knutik for reneging on an ordinance requiring an ordinance requiring hookups.

Councilman Jack Corrook told her there were about 150 unhooked residences a year ago. That figure he said has been cut in about 50.

Councilman Glenn Brannett told Mrs. Fagan the council would attempt to get everyone hooked up this summer.

Mrs. Fagan then blasted City Attorney Jim Phillips and City Engineer James C. Cramery, which she permitted. The maximum fine, he said, is $700 for 30 days. Bill on is he pulled out of the house, she said.

In addition, she said the building is encroaching on her property. Mrs. Fagan called for enforcement of the building code.

City attorney Jim Phillips told Mrs. Fagan the city has drawn a complaint against Knutik for building without a permit. The maximum fine, he said, is $700 for 30 days. Bill on is he pulled out of the house, she said.

The council next approved the conversion of a tin shop and a freezer storage on Lewis Street between Lutz tentans, to a commercial condominium. The condominium is to be used as a business, not a residence, councilman Phil Puchner said. Puchner asked the council to consider the condominium as a subdivision.

Adjournment fever creeps into Idaho Senate; House hits snag

BOISE (UPI) — A slight touch of adjournment fever seemed to be creeping into the Idaho Senate today, although the House was caught up in a showdown.

The Joint Finance Appropriations Committee was working hard to come up with a budget which would agree with the figures of the revenue project committee.

Sen. Richard High, Twin Falls, said the committee expected to complete its work on the appropriation measures by Thursday and that they would balance with the House revenue committee's action Tuesday.

The joint committee was working in the neighborhood of the revenue projection of $220.5 million.

If all the appropriation bills are approved, legislative fiscal officer John Anderson said they must reconvene tomorrow to take the budget to be in the lack by 5:30 p.m.

High expressed pleasure with the speed by which the appropriation measures were moving. He said the Senate action Tuesday is the first indication we have that will be the final action.

The senate passed 11 appropriation bills, including one for $45.6 million from the general fund for higher education. It passed without a dissenting vote.

High said that the joint committee approved appropriations that will "just about balance the budget, including the governor's request to extend the circuit breaker to renters and fund senior citizen property tax relief completely at the state level."

However, the circuit breaker bill to extend the relief to renters "bogged down in the House when it was held in committee on a near party-line basis."

Fish funds pledged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, said Tuesday he had received assurances from the National Marine Fisheries Service that efforts to transport steelhead overland to save the dwindling anadromous fisheries will not be hampered by a lack of money.

"I have been assured there will be no fund freeze for this absolutely necessary project," McClure said. "I am told that funding will be available not only for the small trucking program but for the related and very necessary scientific work."

He had expressed concern over reports that a spending freeze involving the small-transport project might have placed at least part of the program in jeopardy.

Suspect arrested

BOISE (UPI) — FBI agents working with Idaho police Tuesday arrested Gerald Paul Flower, 28, as a suspect in the robbery of the Great Western Bank and Trust Company in Phoenix, Ariz., last year.

Flower was arrested near his residence in Boise on a warrant issued on an indictment returned by a federal grand jury Dec. 9, 1974.

Truby will appoint Caldwell's Evans as principal assistant

BOISE (UPI) — Public Instruction Superintendent Roy Truby has confirmed he will recommend appointment of Caldwell superintendent Jerry Evans as his principal deputy.

Truby is going to recommend the appointment to the Board of Education effective July 1, Truby said Tuesday.

Under an arrangement with the Caldwell school board, he said Evans will work one day a week regarding the state office of public instruction.

Truby said he would recommend a salary of $33,000 for Evans — $1,000 less than Truby makes. He said he must offer larger salaries in order to attract qualified personnel.

In recommending the appointment, I felt he was the best for the job.

He said he was certain that in many areas he and Evans may have some difficulties, "but I feel we'll work them out."

Jerry over the years has been a superintendent-oriented to state level problems," Truby said. "He knows beyond his own boundaries. He has been willing to stick his neck out."

The Caldwell School Board has released Evans from the remaining two years of a three-year contract and accepted his resignation. Board members expressed pleasure that Evans' abilities are being recognized statewide.

Evans' resignation effective June 30, 1975 from Cascade, where he had been superintendent for 10 years. He was teacher and coach prior to that and has worked in the education field in Idaho for 20 years.

Board Chairman Dr. Joseph W. Colson said the board needs to express pleasure in Evans' resignation with very sincere regret. We realize he is one of the most effective superintendents in the state today, but we do not wish to hold him back from accepting advancement in his profession. He has done a great deal to upgrade the Caldwell School District.

As deputy superintendent, Evans will be responsible for administrative supervision of the office, finance and legislative matters.

Fraud charges filed

BOISE (UPI) — A Boise minor-falsely pretenses over a couple was arrested in what the Ada County prosecutor's office termed possibly the largest case of welfare fraud in Idaho.

The prosecutor's office filed 32 counts of fraud against Thurmond and Catherine Bowman of Boise. They are suspected of obtaining $2,000

Gem earnings told

BOISE (UPI) — Interest from the short-term investment of the state's general fund is $241,543.16. To date, the general fund has received $2,141,652.90 for the current fiscal year, she said.

This compares with $1,600,000 received for the same period in fiscal year 1974.

The interest by law goes to the state's general fund and is a significant source of money for that fund, she said.

The total compares with the 1974 February total of $241,543.16.

The genetic center of the North American continent is in Osborne County in north central Kansas.

Big US radio net may go to Nevada

At present, the sales can only receive the radio messages if they come near the surface, which makes them more vulnerable to detection.

Sanguinetti will require digging hundreds of miles of trenches for buried cables and extending a 32nd area into a giant reflector for bouncing radio waves up to the ionosphere.

The project has come under heavy fire from environmentalists who fear damage to the trench diggers and who worry that man and beast would be charmed by the radio waves.

In a decade of controversy, the Navy has looked at sites in Wisconsin, its first preference because of the reflective qualities of the rock, Michigan and Texas.

Bred said Sanguinetti in Wisconsin would cost $500 million, but the switch to the Southwest will jack up the costs to $1.4 billion to $1.2 billion.

Bred said the lower conductivity of the rock meant the Navy would have to use three times as much cable length — roughly 2,000 to 2,500 miles spread out in strips over a 3,000 square mile area.

As an example, he said, the Boise superintendent makes $33,000, the Pocatello superintendent, $29,000, the Lewiston superintendent, $27,500 and the Kellough superintendent $26,000.

He said he understood the Caldwell school board told Evans it could not more than match what Truby was offering him. He said he attracted Evans through the job challenge.

In the last campaign, Evans worked for Truby's opponent, Era Moore. But Truby said he did not feel there was a great enough philosophical difference between him and Evans to matter.

"I've had 'em with Jerry and talked with him," Truby said. "I've discussed my programs

Improved fund use endorsed

BOISE (UPI) — A spokesman for higher education said Tuesday he would like to see better use of endowment funds for all higher education.

Milton Small, executive secretary of the Office of Higher Education, said the Senate Local Government and Taxation Committee that he would like to see the committee and state board of education make a joint study in that direction.

Small was asked to comment on a bill by Sen. H. Dean Summers, R-Boise, which would change the way the endowment funds are divided.

John Hohnhorst, an intern for the committee, said under Summers' bill, the State University stand to gain several million dollars while the University of Idaho would lose a similar amount.

The bill would provide for Boise State to share in the monies from the scientific, normal and charitable funds.

Small said that the endowment fund has not been used as an enrichment fund as much when Idaho became a state, but as a means of balancing the budget when a crunch is on.

He also said that Boise State would continue to grow as the present state legislature in 50 years it would exercise influence on not only education but also the business committee.

Tehkness: the power to move inanimate objects by mental concentration, is the force of Stephen King's first novel of suspense and terror. The main character, Carrie White, is a girl out of place in our world, one of those ancasts born to be the target of every person's every-evil-gone-gone.

The tragedy of growing up in a world where you don't belong, where you are "different," makes Carrie a loner. Involuted, miserable and suspicious of every kind word, Carrie's only comfort is her "game," invented by her mother as a ritual like so many other things in Carrie's life.

Carrie can make things move just by concentrating on them. Small marbles scurry about, glasses dance on a shelf, a door locks. This then is Carrie's "game." But she is not just the one concentrating on them. Small marbles scurry about, glasses dance on a shelf, a door locks. This then is Carrie's "game." But she is not just the one concentrating on them.

regressed like everything else about Carrie. One act of kindness followed by another of hideous cruelty compels Carrie to unleash her power in innocent and guilty alike, turns her "game" into a deadly and terrifying and destruction.

The story is a tragedy not only because of the terrifying revenge Carrie inflicts upon her tormentors but also because it paints such a vivid picture of the insignificant but overwhelming realities that the average person is capable of. The evil in the human spirit which has to have someone or something on which to vent its rage and frustration.

"Carrie" is a novel which keeps you interested and involved to the very last page. It is a book through a keyhole at the torments and agonies of an extraordinary human being.

DEAR LOVING: Your kind of neighbor-loving is BREAKING A Commandment, not keeping one. Besides, you'd better review the Commandments. Although there are many references in the Bible to "loving one's neighbor," it is not one of the Ten Commandments.

DEAR ABBY: So "Great Idea in Washington" thinks we should have the Ten Commandments printed on bed sheets and pillow cases?

I am a Christian, and firmly believe in honoring God's law by sleeping and pillowcases on the same plane. The Psalmist David said: "Thy word have I hid in mine heart, that I might not sin against thee." (Psalm 119:11,11) I prefer God's law in the heart rather than on bedclothes. Besides, no command would say "The Commandments—sleep anywhere. My advice to criminals and to "Mrs. Great Idea" is found in Romans 13:10 & 13. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation. For whosoever shall call upon the name of Lord shall be saved.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

You don't need to be a mathematician to know that extra chance gives yourself an extra chance you are playing percentages.

South finds himself in a nice comfort zone three notrump contract. He isn't really happy with the lead. It has killed his chance to handle a 4-1 diamond break successfully. If South is just an ordinary cardist, but a reasonably good player, he knows that a suit will break 3-2 some 68 per cent of the time. He goes right after diamonds. When the suit fails to break, he struggles manfully to find a ninth trick. The same gods of chance, who caused the bad diamond break, fail to cooperate with him and he winds up with eight tricks and a slight headache.

A careful good player looks around before playing to trick five. He sees those four clubs in dummy and reasons that maybe clubs will break 3-3. If they do and diamonds break also he can collect 12 tricks instead of the 11 he would get by starting diamonds. Far more important he sees that a 3-3 club break can give him his ninth trick if diamonds don't break.

Then our careful player gives himself an extra chance at no cost at all. At trick two he leads a club from dummy and ducks to his own hand. It doesn't matter what West does—no South wins the lead, cashes his ace and king of clubs and has established dummy's last club as an all important extra trick.

TWIN FALLS — Fran S. Hood, Red Cross blood program chairman, Twin Falls, said the quota for the blood drive in Twin Falls Monday is 100 pints.

The drawing will be conducted from 11 to 7 p.m. at St. Edward's Parish Hall.

Hood said that with the constant demand for blood throughout the Magic Valley it is important that the 100 pint quota be met.

Condemnation hearing under way

BOISE, UPI — A condemnation hearing to determine value of 4,487 acres of land the government wants for the Tiffins Cattle National Recreation Area has begun in federal court.

The land in question was used in the operation of Corvax Ranch in Pittsburg during the Snake River south of Grand Prairie. The trial is expected to last about two weeks.

Clues lacking in death

BOISE, UPI — Merit County detectives appear to have run into a brick wall in their investigation of the mysterious slaying of Frank H. Campbell, 34.

Campbell's body, wrapped in blankets, was found near the Glenwood Street bridge across the Boise River Feb. 17. Officers believe he was killed Feb. 15 or 16.

"We have followed up on a number of leads but we don't have probable cause for any arrest," Detective Mike Roberts said.

Death ruled suicide

MERIDIAN, Idaho, UPI — Ada County Coroner Steve Jablonski has ruled the death of Steven G. Cooper, 24, Meridian, a suicide.

The man was found, dead, on Tuesday at his home. Jablonski said he died of a gunshot wound.

Welfare mothers get more aid

BOISE, UPI — Welfare mothers are scheduled for an increase in aid to dependent children under next year's health and welfare budget, but not as much as Gov. Cecil D. Andrus recommended.

Andrus asked for money to reach the payment to 95 percent of the minimum subsistence standard developed in 1974. The Joint Finance Appropriations Committee limited $74,000 from the department's budget — thus raising the payment to only 85 percent of the 1974 standard.

This means a welfare mother with two dependent children will receive a $24.90 increase to $214.40. Andrus' proposal would have raised the payments to $250.

Miss Idaho Universe

PORTLAND, Ore. UPI — Charlene McArthur, 19, a professional model in Portland, has been selected as Miss Idaho Universe, and will compete in the Miss USA pageant in Niagara Falls, N. Y. in May.

Miss McArthur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie W. McArthur of Pocatello, Idaho, is a graduate of a Portland Modeling School. She is described as 5-foot 7, blue eyes, with brown hair.

Cassia Sup. Harold Blauer, said, "I think we will start kindergarten in TF. We get everything worked out."

But the 5-year-old probably would be sent to Spangula Elementary school, he said.

Owners and managers of private kindergartens in Twin Falls generally support a public program, although most admit that it would hurt their business.

Chupe Muga, a Horizon School aide, said "I think it's a good thing because there's a lot of children that aren't being reached by kindergartens."

She said a public program would have "some effect" on her school, "but I don't know about all preschool children."

Mrs. Maxine Bean, co-owner of the Twin Falls Kindergarten, said "We have always been in favor of public kindergartens. However, if they are started in Twin Falls, her school probably won't operate at all."

Linda Gapps, manager of Children's Village Kindergarten, said a public program would "give a greater attraction to children who can't go to kindergartens now because of tuition."

A public program would pull some five-year-olds from her school, she added.

Jerome hears first reading

JEROME — The first reading was given Tuesday night to an ordinance increasing water rates at a meeting of Jerome City Council.

It passed the new ordinance will provide an increase of $1 to city residents and $2 to residents outside the city using under 1,250 gallons per month or less. The minimum charge will be $1.

Consumers using more than 1,250 gallons per month and not over 2,500 gallons per month will be charged $2.50 minimum in the city and $4.00 for those outside the city.

Increases are also being made in rates charged industrial users, retaining a dollar increase on the minimum charge for 50,000 gallons per month.

A previous ordinance proposed by the city would have doubled the rate charged residents outside the city limits. A large delegation of county residents protested the proposed ordinance and it was tabled by the council.

Seminars draw out opinions

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Seminars on women and economics — and the low-dose alcoholism — somewhat correct response Tuesday during the second day of "Women's Awareness Week" in Twin Falls.

While no seminar attracted more than a dozen persons Tuesday, the small groups did make for lively sessions much otherwise have lacked.

The week-long conference, one that in the state, is sponsored jointly by the Twin Falls WCA and the College of Southern Idaho.

In the morning the theme was "Economic empowerment of women, both in attaining skilled jobs and in attaining pay scales equal with men."

"It is a new day and we have to change our thinking," Lazel Johnson, State director of women's programs for the U.S. Department of Labor, said in the morning. "When I was a child, I'm not advocating that every woman has to come out of the home and go into the labor force. But those of us who are forced into the labor market, or those of us who are here by choice, afford her equal opportunity and equal pay."

Mrs. Johnson spoke with about 25 people, but progress has been made in the last decade in the battle for economic equality, but she typified the struggle as far from being over.

Judy Soderblom, an attorney for Boise Cascade Corp., said several recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions have greatly expanded the boundaries women's rights. Especially concerning equal rights for women in the military and the right of pregnant women to remain on the job close to the time of childbirth.

An Idaho case heard by the high court in 1971, she said, helped to set precedents for equality of wages established.

In this case, she said, the court held that women, not just men, under certain circumstances are eligible for property tax relief.

Mrs. Soderblom also warned that the current recession may have a detrimental effect upon the ground gained during the past decade in employment equality.

"The most correct employment problem now facing women, she said, is that with unemployment high, women are not as readily being admitted to jobs formerly held by men as they had been in the past few years."

Women are also among the first to be laid off, she said, that is why she had to quit her job.

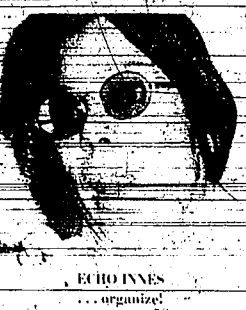

She said that the seniority system, government layoffs, which she characterized as pitting "the worker against the worker," is now slowly being tested in the courts.

Five lower courts, she said, have recently made decisions using different approaches to the problem. She predicted that the issue will have to reach the Supreme Court before it is clarified.

In a discussion of affirmative action programs legislated by the federal government to insure minority applicants, including women, Linda Bark, an enforcement officer with the Seattle office of the Department of Health and Welfare, urged women on the local level to bring pressure to bear on both agencies and employers to assure that the legislation is followed.

"My office," she said, "is not going to enforce the law until there is enough citizen pressure to do it. It is very important that the citizens put the pressure on the agencies to enforce affirmative action."

Employers' views eyed

TWIN FALLS — The afternoon sessions during Women's Awareness Week Tuesday began with a look at employers' point of view of employees.

Speaking on the topic of employment problems confronting women, Betty Hoppe, a former employment counselor, noted during a sexual discrimination seminar against the Idaho Human Resources Commission that the small number of women who had worked for years without questioning whether the unequal conditions for employed women — as far as salaries and promotions were concerned — were not as they should be.

The same sort of unwitting ignorance, she said, afflicted male employees.

"I don't believe that men intentionally discriminate," she said. "I never did question it, the traditional way. — they employees are doing things the way it's always been done."

The comment drew a sharp response from employment officer with the Seattle office of the Department of Health and Welfare.

"It's time we stop dealing with all these employers as if they were just poor little men," Ms. Bark said. "I have no patience for that."

Ms. Bark advised women job seekers to go "to work for broke" in preparing themselves and seeking jobs in categories normally restricted to men.

"If you have the qualifications, they will have a hard time not hiring you," she said.

Anne Decker, a public relations officer for Idaho First National Bank, also advised women to "go into a field that men dominate."

There has not been a sexual revolution in Idaho, Mrs. Decker said, but rather an "evolution." Employers are aware of the problems facing women, she said. "Employers are looking for competent women."

Statistics show, she added, that more women are moving into fields once exclusive to men, such as forestry, engineering and accounting. She advised women to continue the trend.

It should be pointed out that women applicants should expect that employers will question them more thoroughly than male applicants and prepare themselves for tough questions.

The afternoon panels concluded with a question and answer session conducted by Mary Letourneau, EEOC hearing officer at the Pocatello branch of the National Organization for Women.

"Fear runs the world," Mrs. Lines said, in cautioning feminists to stay calm. "Fear 'brings emotion and anger you get caught up in emotion, you lose the whole thing. — It's just something to be aware of and to be calm under the law."

She advised women to organize, "if you want to do something to really effectively change in your community. Nobody is going to fight this battle for us."

Mrs. Mann added, "Women have not been taught to assert themselves. They have been taught to make over and to better."

Abuse cases concern all

TWIN FALLS — Threats to women's lives by estranged husbands are a common occurrence, but are they anything more than an individual problem?

According to Boise attorneys — Detroit, Bail, Remy and several social agencies in Baseline, in the process of setting up a facility where threatened women and their children can stay for short periods.

Speaking during "Women's Awareness Week" Tuesday, Ms. Bail, who participates for Western Idaho Legal Aid and Boise, told of clients whose husbands beat them, even after restraining orders had been issued by the courts.

Police are reluctant to intervene in domestic arguments, she added.

While a "pattern of abuse," may develop, women are also reluctant to leave a domestic situation, Ms. Bail said. The woman may have no skills, no money. Friends may counsel her to try to get along with her husband one more time, despite the beatings.

The Boise house would be shelter for such women in trouble until they can sort out their legal problems, she added.

Police and several social agencies in Baseline and the facility would be staffed by a religious order from San Francisco.

"Word hasn't gotten out," Ms. Bail said on a major change in Idaho's community property law.

Under the new law, which would change the community property law and the way it is legally handled, she said, a husband and wife own property jointly, but the husband no longer legally designated to be the manager of the property. Under the old law, the manager could never debts on the community property and the wife legally had nothing to say about it. Under joint management, both can incur debts and legally manage their property.

The law is an improvement over the old one which designated the man the manager, Ms. Bail said, but one drawback made for tricky legal situations: if the family goes bankrupt, both the husband and wife have to pay a 50 percent share making divorce for bankrupts very costly. Property owned in marriage twice while it ordinarily would cost.

Gooding firm sold

TWIN FALLS — W.D. (Bill) Wiseman, veteran livestock man, today announced the purchase of the Gooding Livestock Commission Co. from Cecil Brim estate.

Wiseman, a former county commissioner, was associated with the State Livestock Commission Co., Twin Falls, from 1946 until 1963 and owned and operated Burley Livestock Commission Co., from 1963 until 1970.

He is a former longtime resident of Hansen, and a lifelong resident of Twin Falls County.

Wiseman said he will be joined in the new business by his son, Melvin Wiseman. The younger Wiseman will move to Gooding June 1 to take over management of the commission sales firm. He is currently teaching school in Vale, Ore.

Melvin Wiseman is a graduate of the Hansen High School and of the College of Idaho in 1972.

The late Cecil Brim had just taken over ownership of the Gooding Livestock sales business of the time of his death last month.

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

BOISE — Public kindergartens probably will begin this year in almost every one of Idaho's 15 state school districts, according to Roy Truly, state superintendent of schools.

"My guess is that nearly every district will adopt kindergartens in some form or another," Truly said in an interview shortly after the Senate voted 24-11 to initiate the $3.3 million program proposed by the governor.

A few school districts are hard pressed to find space for kindergartens, but Truly was optimistic that most districts would get by. "I think most of the state is putting 100 per cent of the districts will come up with a way to provide the program," he said.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus was jubilant following the vote.

He is a former longtime resident of Hansen, and a lifelong resident of Twin Falls County.

Wiseman said he will be joined in the new business by his son, Melvin Wiseman. The younger Wiseman will move to Gooding June 1 to take over management of the commission sales firm. He is currently teaching school in Vale, Ore.

Rupert budget triples

RUPERT — Rupert's City spending will nearly triple in 1975.

Public hearings have been scheduled by the Rupert City Council to consider the proposed 1975 budget and proposed restriction of a new sewage treatment plant.

The hearing for the city's budget is set for March 10 at 8 p.m.

The proposed sewage treatment plant will be discussed on March 20 at 8 p.m.

Overall, the city budget shows an increase from $550 million last year to $572 million in 1975.

However, about $4 million of the increase is for the construction of the secondary sewer plant. Nine per cent of the funds for the plant will be federal aid state.

The proposed budget also includes $100,000 for a field park program. Fifty per cent of the funds will be from the state.

The park funds will be used to improve existing city parks and to construct new tennis courts.

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls City manager Tuesday released details in the proposed $6.9 million budget for 1975.

If the city's budget spending would fall from last year's budgeted level because most construction of the city's sewer project was delayed in 1974.

However, most ordinary city operations will see higher expenditures this year, an average increase of 14 per cent.

The budget shows a five mill increase in taxes to 62 mills.

The budget will be presented for public hearing at the next regular city council meeting March 17 and must be adopted in final form prior to April 1.

Miller said the reduction in total spending does not involve tax, money but comes as did last year's increase, through federal funds for the sewage treatment plant construction — last year the city budgeted $5 million for the treatment plant but spent only about $1 million and must budget the remaining $4 million in federal money next fiscal year for final cost.

This year another federal grant has increased the budget by about $100,000. This is the grant for a community development project in Twin Falls which is now under way.

Blaine aides give apology

BY BART QUESNELL
Times-News Writer

HAILEY — Blaine County commissioners have apologized to former Blaine prosecutor Stephen Bohler for a letter written with Bohler's past performance.

Bohler requested a public retraction of his letter from Commissioners Roy Sweatt and Ivan Gundersen after the two commissioners had written in a letter to state Rep. E. V. McClain that the reason for not including Bohler in criminal and civil cases was the performance of a part-time prosecutor.

The letter to McClain was written to support Bohler in the legislature for the funding of a full-time prosecuting attorney for Blaine County.

Bohler wrote the commissioners he was in total agreement with their "concept of a full-time prosecutor however one statement he said is consistently false."

The letter in fact stated that present he has approximately 300 criminal and 50 major civil cases pending. The reason for this backlog is the past performance of a part-time prosecutor.

The commissioners have replied to Bohler "We were merely suggesting that in no way could a part-time prosecutor be expected to handle this load. The county commissioners are very satisfied with your performance and we request you to continue your letter to Mr. McClain."

Bohler said Tuesday he accepted the apology.

"I can see how the language could have been meant the other way and I accept their apology and will continue to support their efforts for a full-time prosecutor," Bohler said.

Bohler stated in his request letter that of January 4, 1975, when he officially left office there was a total of 28 magistrate diversion criminal cases pending. Most of these he said were disposed of at earlier calendar callings.

He said there were three district court criminal cases and only three major civil cases pending when he left office.

"But more importantly, you placed the blame for whatever backlog there is upon the past performance of a part-time prosecutor," which is "I consider extremely damaging to my reputation."

"It seems to me quite strange that only after I leave office do the county commissioners present to the public by release to the press their opinion that my 'past performance' was not a fault."

"The commissioners replied in the apology letter that they estimated an increase of 70 criminal cases would be pending Dec. 31, 1974, because there were 232 pending criminal cases on Dec. 31, 1973, the reason for the 300 pending cases figure.

Two days ago the actual figures for this year became available which showed 193 pending criminal cases as of December 31, 1974," the commissioners replied.

"In no way did we intend to impugn your professional reputation and we thank you for your four years of service to Blaine County."

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
Please explain the relationship between nicotine in cigarettes which is said to constrict blood vessels and cause poor circulation, and nicotine acid, which is prescribed to avert migraine headaches.

Thought migraines were caused by dilation of blood vessels in the brain. I am baffled.

Nicotine and nicotine acid are similar or their molecular structure, but their properties are quite different.

Nicotine is a poisonous alkaloid found in tobacco. Nicotine acid is a vitamin of the B-complex family, and it is essential to the body.

Nicotine acid has been used in the treatment of pellagra, a disease that was once common in areas where diets consisted largely of corn meal, a food deficient in the vitamin. It was reported that about 7,000 Americans died of pellagra in 1930 alone, most of them in the South.

There were fears that when nicotine acid was figured there would be some confusion, that people would get the notion tobacco nicotine was some kind of vitamin, too.

To avoid this, the name was quickly changed to "niacin," by which it is commonly known today. However, the confusion remains because of the use of the old name by some scientists.

You are confused on another matter. Niacin does dilate blood vessels, but it is not used in treatment of migraine, in which there is first a constriction followed by a dilation of blood vessels in the head.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
Will you please give your opinion of by-pass surgery to take our weight? Is there a danger to health after such surgery? Can it ever be undone?

Would you advise it for a 41-year-old mother of five children who is in good health except she is so overweight? She has tried several diets but they don't seem to work. She can't control her eating. H.L.

A Lovelier You

FLATTERING COLOR TONES

By Mary Sue Miller

Peach and mauve are proven to be favorites among spring-fashion colors. And small wonder—for both shades have a subtle appeal to the eye. There is nothing harsh or blatant about them. They are not show-offish but show you off.

Peach works magnificently for brunettes; mauve for blonds and redheads. Of course, complementary cosmetics further the cause. Makeup begins with a foundation that gives a smooth, sheer velvet finish. The shade used should lend a bit of animation to your own skin coloring. Just a bit!

Soft violet or mauve eyeshadow makes superstars of blue or gray eyes. Mauve shadows heighten the cast of green eyes. Try blue or turquoise shadow if you would deepen the mystery of brown eyes.

Perhaps the item most vital to the color scheme is lipstick. A mistaken shade can cause a beauty clash. Blonds should wear a blue-tipped lipstick when wearing mauve fashions. A frosty rose answers the description. For redheads, the flattering choice is a light, clear red. Brunettes, clad in peach, need a peachy or bronzy shade of lipstick.

What happens if you wear mauve or peach and it's not your best color? Simply use a corrective lipstick shade—a light coral to blend with peach, or a pale, blue-red for mauve. Pretty-making!

Nicotinic acid and nicotine

By-pass surgery involves a closing off of a section of the small intestine. The idea is to reduce digestive capacity, permit less food absorption, and thus lower caloric intake, thereby reducing weight. The theory is physiologically sound, and the surgery often produced desired results.

World Government, Ltd. is not the most dramatic cause of obesity, and when all other methods have been tried or where continued obesity represents an immediate threat to the life of the patient—in-patient-polydipsia is always desired over treatment of overweight persons.

Your letter leaves out an important fact. Just how overweight are you? You would be a candidate for this surgery only if your physician says there is no other way to get weight off you. Most doctors are aware of the difficulties encountered after such surgery, and so do not recommend lightly.

Liver, heart and blood problems have been known to occur as a result of it.

The procedure is reversible since the section by passed remains as a closed off loop that can be reconnected later.

If you are not freshly overweight, some self-control and a sensible diet would be better for you than cutting out portions of the digestive system. One of my booklets is called "Lost Secrets of Weighting." You might get your seasonal depression. For a copy, send 25 cents and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Lecithin capsules may be contaminated

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—About 37 million capsules of lecithin, a food supplement, may be contaminated with a potentially hazardous substance, called hexane, the California Health Department says.

The department said Monday its warning involved lecithin capsules distributed to California retailers within the past six months. It said it is uncertain how the blinding body is affected by small amounts of the compound.

The agency described hexane as a liquid similar to methane and said state food and drug experts are concerned that continuous doses taken over a long period of time are a potential health hazard.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — The Milwaukee Bucks got 28 points on better "rough" three-pointers Tuesday night and demolished their NBA opponent Detroit 101-65.

Karsten "Oldfather" scored 27, Bob Dandridge 26 and George Thompson 20 to lead the Bucks to a victory which moved their game ahead of Detroit in the loss column. The Bucks still trail the Pistons by 2 1/2 games in the standings and must beat them out to gain a wild card berth in the playoffs.

Atlanta downs Lakers

ATLANTA, UPI — John Drew scored 27 points as the Atlanta Hawks secured a first-half depression to edge the Los Angeles Lakers for a 108-97 National Basketball Association victory Tuesday night.

Atlanta's poor shooting from the field and even poorer accuracy from the free-throw line, enabled the Lakers to score eight straight points "three different times" to take a 37-30 lead at halftime.

But Mike Spivey and Drew led the Hawks to a comeback in the second half and Atlanta roared back to tie the Lakers late in the third quarter and go ahead for good in the opening minutes of the last quarter.

LaSalle whips Bucknell

PHILADELPHIA, UPI — LaSalle rallied for a hard fought 85-74 win over Bucknell Tuesday night despite a Bison scare late in the second half of the opening round game of the East Coast Conference playoffs.

LaSalle's lead slipped to three early in the second half but the right wing of the ECOC regular season champion American Flyers at Lafayette College.

The Explorers led by as much as 17 as Bucknell made four of its first 11 shots to open the second half.

The Crusaders won game after game. The Huskies ended the season 10-7 and placed them in third seed in the opening game Thursday against Boston College, 67.

Holy Cross will play Providence 15-9 in the night game.

Celtics outscore New York

NEW YORK, UPI — John Havlicek earned 16 points to top a parade of seven Boston Celtics in double teams and made the NBA's best road team to a 126-111 win over the New York Knicks Tuesday night.

It was the 23th annual road trip for Boston, who has scored as many points in the second quarter, 41, as New York scored in the entire half. It was also the fifth straight time the Celtics have outscored the Knicks with a loss.

Louisville nips Memphis State

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. UPI — Fourth-ranked Louisville sparked its first home victory in the South Atlantic Conference Tuesday by shooting 49 percent from the field to beat Memphis State 73-67 in the first round of the NCAA Midwest Regional as champion of the Missouri Valley Conference, shot into a 14-17 lead in the last half only to see Memphis shoot back to within three points near three o'clock. The last was a 79-76 before Bill and Junior Brantigan clinched the victory with their shooting.

Court, Evert advance

BOSTON, UPI — Margaret Court and Virginia Sluis dominated early rounds of the U.S. Open tennis tournament advance easily in the 57,000-arena Slam.

The top seeded Mrs. Court, the mechanical pummeler of Biggie Cuppers at Smith Athletic, 6-4 in the second day of the latest Sluis tourney.

Miss Evert, the seventh seed, edged the unseeded Diane Fromholt of Australia 6-0, 6-1.

Miss Court's shot came through repeated warning serves and a deadly forward racket kept Miss Evert's return behind and behind.

Miss Evert overpowered Mrs. Fromholt with a barrage of her patented forward-backhanded from the baseline.

A side-sight in the Evert-Fromholt pairing as which of the attractive blonde pros would generate the most applause from the capacity crowd at Boston University's Case Gymnasium.

Dorinda Sluis, a 19-year-old from Kent, is playing only in doubles here.

Steeplechase classic set

LIVERPOOL, England (UPI) — The Liverpool Grand National, the world's greatest steeplechase horse race, will be held this year as usual.

Bill Davy, chairman of the Affair Group, Liverpool, Co. which owns the famous Antree course, denied today he had ever said the race would run on the 10th month but that the race of the three-day meeting was the only one he had ever said he had asked the racing board for a $300,000 grant for the upkeep of the course and approval for his new $200,000 flat race, the Antree Derby, due to be held in October.

The Liverpool race is worth thousands of pounds to other racecourses. "I believe they have not given one penny here for ten years. This course is a better shape now than it has ever been. All we are after is a bumper of the whip," Davy said.

"I am quite happy for the National to go on. We are asking about the first two days. There was never any doubt about the Saturday, the day of the Grand National. We have asked for $100,000. We are trying to do a good job in racing. We have entered to put up $240,000 for racing. It is good for British racing or it isn't. If it is good, let us get on with it," he added.

Davy said he had asked Lord Leverhulme, head of the Liverpool City Council and had been told that they might get one shortly.

"I've spent £100,000 in addition to the $300,000. I will agree to Thursday and Friday racing."

He said it was possible for the Grand National to be run in isolation. He thought he was right and would not back down.

"I'm not sure the meeting is a horse race meeting. It is a simple as that," he said, before driving off.

Wood River, Valley gain tourney spots

WOOD RIVER, Idaho (UPI) — Wood River Valley's Vikings settled most doubts in the opening moments of whipping Parma Tuesday night.

The both Mage Valley teams earned the right to advance to the state playoffs opening Thursday.

Valley will go against Idaho's ranked Parma at 1 p.m. Thursday in the curtain-raiser of the A-1 tournament in Northwest State College in Nampa while Wood River will meet host district champion in the 2:30 p.m. feature of the A-2 opportunity at Idaho Falls High School.

It marks the second straight year Wood River will exist state Coach Fred Trovick, pooling the Waterbury, to the 2000-01 spot last year Coach Forrest Fournier and the Valley Vikings will play in a state tournament for the first time in 11 years.

"We're not sure we could do it," regional Valley athletic director Monte Vidler after the opening romp over Parma. "Our kids were really ready to play. I really wanted to win this one. I tell our defense had a lot to do with it — Parma's miserable point effort."

Wood River came from behind to beat Parma 44-34 inside and it's first home win in the state was Valley's. The Vikings defense was good, but not for a few moments.

In the early point Parma managed to get the ball inside and picked up several offensive rebounds. The third district team place team had a lot of close-up shots but none of them fell.

But after a few minutes, Valley's defense made the adjustments and from about two minutes into the second quarter it was a hummer, everything went in hand.

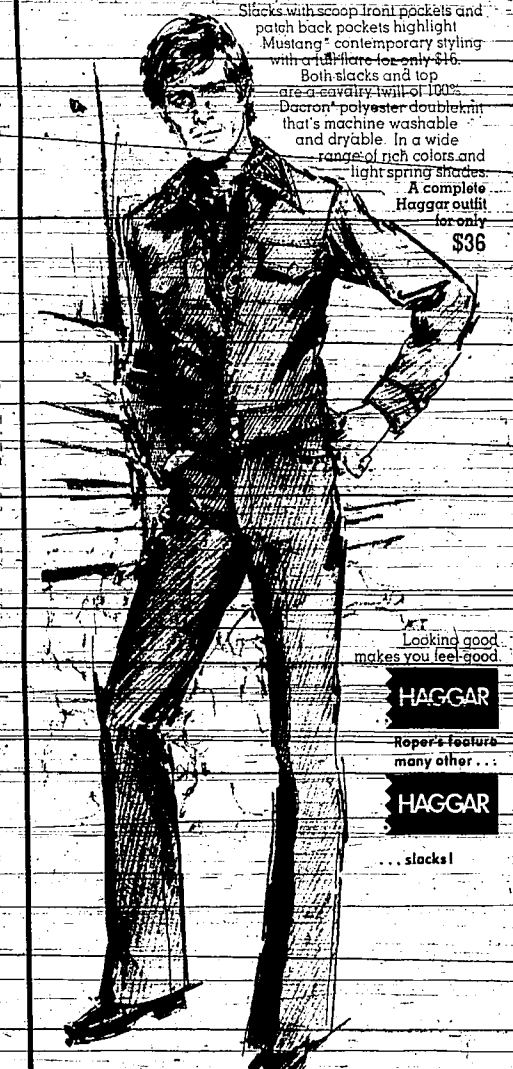

At the end of the game, got the ball inside and shot the Parma 12 to 16 and the simply not the latter Parma defenders up in the air and then moved to the open spot to pick up easy buckets in the first game Wood River substituted the

Race leader flays betting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A spokesman for the nation's state racing commissions declared today that "exotic betting" gimmicks have become a greater threat to horse racing than doping horses or other traditional fix attempts.

John V. Newman, president of the National Association of State Racing Commissioners, told a federal gambling study commission hearing in New York City today that "over the last several years, we have involved alleged attempts to influence one or more of these gambling handicapping games, but still the cry is for action."

Newman, who heads California's Horse Racing Board, was referring to "a long-range multiple betting" operation in which a single superbet can result in a number of his fellow state commissioners disagree with his view of the danger of "exotic" wagering, he said.

"These racing associations that offer multiple forms of wagering claim that they can be satisfactorily policed," he said. "But in the past, we have found that they are not an engaged and disinterested body who let them know. Meanwhile, the entire sport will be watching."

The California official joined a number of other horse racing leaders in opposing the federal government taking control of the nation's tracks and pari-mutuel betting.

"Having commissioners that finance no more than any other enterprise of such enormity" is not entirely free of unethical practices," he testified. "They feel, however, that each state's statutes provide for strong enforcement of the rules of racing and for effective protection of the public, and they do not, above all, see federal regulation or involvement as a deterrent to such occasional transgressions as from time to time may occur."

Another witness before the commission, Ernest H. Morris, director of the U.S. Trotting Association, said there's little need for tougher present federal laws to police racing.

He also said: "In recent years, another element damaging to racing's good name has been the ever-increasing tendency of prosecutors, both state and federal, and in some cases by legislative committees to victimize horse racing for newspaper headlines and sensational television shows."

Morris told the panel which is weighing whether a national gambling policy should be set by Congress: "Publicity approval by accepting and sponsoring television shows, and almost never by conviction, and the parading of discredited hoodlums before television cameras years after racing has barred them from any contact with the sport is sickening."

He said "the depths were plumbed" last year when a group of horse drivers were indicted by federal prosecutors on charges and then acquitted.

Title test due Canadian athletes need cheers

TORONTO (UPI) — Representatives of at least 10 national amateur sports organizations Tuesday demanded a massive show of support for Canadian athletes to spur them to gold medal performances in the 1976 Montreal Olympics.

They warned that if current apathy continues, the Canadian squad risks ending up as a team of also-rans.

"If we are going to do well in 1976, we need a lot of cheering from here on in," the executive director of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association, Julian Carroll, told a news conference.

"We have heard so much negative talk about the Olympics that many of our international caliber athletes are discouraged. We think their performances may be seriously affected."

Carroll blasted the nation from Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau down through government, business and the public for failing to rally around the Canadian sports world as it prepares for the "greatest opportunity in our history" to promote sport across the country.

"We are frustrated by the silence of many sectors of Canadian life that should be giving support," he said.

"We hear in winds of encouragement from the prime minister, from the cabinet or even from federal Health Minister Marc Lalonde, the minister responsible for sport."

Carroll said he spoke recently with star swimmer Wendy Cook and she told him "with all this talk of Canada possibly losing the Games, I'm wondering whether it's all worth it."

Carroll continued: "That is a comment of tragic portent since Wendy currently is working hard in the backstroke and is a chief hope for a gold medal."

Carroll urged a "30 point plan" to "show Canada" intends

Robinson 'tested'

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Frank Robinson ran into his first "crisis" as rookie manager of the Cleveland Indians Tuesday.

Some of the veteran pitchers on the team complained about having to run endurance laps instead of their usual wind sprints and Robinson called a meeting with general manager Phil Seip.

Gaylord Perry represented the pitchers.

"I made some suggestions and Frank made some suggestions," Perry said, "and I'm certain now that everything will be just fine."

Robinson said he planned to go back to the sprints in his conditioning program. "The unhappy pitchers felt the sprints prepared them for the season better than Robinson's 20-lap endurance runs between the foul lines."

"We were going to change the program anyway," Robinson said. "Maybe now they'll come a day or so quicker. I just want to get the work done and I want everyone happy too."

"I want the guys to speak up," he added. "I want to hear their opinion on things."

Yogi plans slim pitcher lineup

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Manager Yogi Berra said Tuesday he doesn't plan taking more than one pitcher north with him when the New York Mets break camp next month.

"If you look at our schedule," said Berra, "we're not going to need more than three starters the first month of the season, and that's where we might need a fourth. But if we get any games called off because of rain or cold weather, we can go with three starters."

"I want my fifth starter to be pitching as often as he should and that's why I'm leaving him with the Tidewater club. They open the International League three days after us and the fellow left behind can get in three or four starts before we need him again."

Berra said he would go the early weeks of the season with his three established starters, Tom Seaver, Jon Matlack and Jerry Koosman and dip into his bullpen when a fourth man is needed.

"I prefer to use Bob Apodaca in the bullpen" but he did a good job for us last year when starting, so if I need another starter, I can always use him. I've also got Harry Parker for sub starts."

Berra said his ideal bullpen situation would be to have Apodaca, Barker, Mac Scarce and rookie Rick Baldwin working in relief, but he'd like to wait and see how his starting

Marichal invited to Dodger tryout

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Los Angeles Dodger manager Tom Lasorda has turned the offer check to inviting the former pitcher to a spring training tryout.

Dodger officials say there's some chance the 47-year-old Dominican stand-up, who was made a free agent by the Boston first Sox last year, will accept the comeback challenge, although a chronic back ailment has plagued him most of his career.

Marichal became the most hotly sought pitcher opponent in the San Francisco market. "He especially stirred the wrath of Dodger players and fans when he 'clubbed' catcher John Roseboro over the head with his bat at Candlestick Park in 1967."

Marichal, who claimed Roseboro threw too close to his head when returning a ball to Sandy Kousser on the mound, was suspended for his actings.

Lasorda cited a $1 million bid not later settled in court reportedly by the Dodger.

The "high-kicking" Marichal has, since expressed regret over the incident and has indicated he would like to try out with a team near his home in San Francisco. He included the Dodger in his list of clubs.

Helping pave the way for Marichal is his Dominican Republic buddy, Manny Mota, one of the most popular Dodgers of all time.

WR area weed control campaign plans drawn

Members of the West River Resource Area will conduct a multi-county effort to control weeds in the WR area. The special committee will have powers that will coordinate the plans and programs with the county commissioners of the four counties involved. The committee members will need to secure one-half inch to the mile maps of each county and also a complete map of the entire county. Each county will be asked to submit a plan for what areas are to be controlled and what public lands, 15 tracts should be listed for special species of weeds for control. A list of active applicators in each county who would be available for weed control is also needed. The board, chairman of the committee, said that land management agencies and farm will be required at the cooperative weed control committee and will be asked for cooperation and assistance. The next regular meeting of the committee is set for 1:30 p.m. March 20 at the RC&B office in Gooding. Committee members are: Steve Harding, Arlin Ashpazz, Luther Koonce, Robert Hartman, Jim Finkley, Bill Hovon, Tom Hankins, Ed Tompkins, Art Huthorn, Tom Miles and Ed Price.

Rancher elected

Jerome rancher Tom Prescott has been elected second vice president of the American International Charolais Association. Prescott is past president of the Western Charolais Association and a member of the South Central Idaho Charolais Breeders Association.

Evaluation course slated at Gooding

SHOSHONE - Livestock operators are invited to a physical traits evaluation or range fall short course at 4 p.m. Saturday at the Gooding Livestock Commission. The short course is of interest to all cattlemen and will assist producers in their physical traits. The short course is designed to assist livestock producers to more accurately identify those animals that excel in their expression of traits that are economically important to the beef industry of the area and Idaho. The workshop is being sponsored by Gooding and Teton County Extension University of Idaho Cooperative Extension Service in the Beef Cattle Improvement Committee of the Livestock Commission.

Wendell men gain honors

WENDELL - Two Wendell men have been honored with production achievement awards for Idaho Registered Holstein cows by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America. Harold C. Taylor and Glen A. Taylor, Wendell, are Glen's sons. Taylor, 28, is a dairy producer and has a record herd of 100 registered Holstein cows milked twice daily in the 365 day division of the testing program. Brad, in the herd of her parent owners, Sheila was sired by Westside A B Seaman 1444H (VG).

Zinc-rich diet recommended

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Experiments with rats have led Agriculture Department scientists to recommend that pregnant mothers eat zinc-rich foods like meat and liver just in case it's a boy. Feeding a zinc-deficient diet to experimental rats during the last third of pregnancy causes poor learning ability in their male offspring during young adulthood, said the report on tests at the Human Nutrition Laboratory in Grand Forks, N.D. The researchers do not know whether zinc deficiency occurs in human fetuses, but it may be prudent for pregnant women to consume foods rich in zinc during pregnancy. In the latest study, Sandstead and Halas tested three groups of rats. The animals which had all received adequate zinc after birth one of the groups came from mothers which had been given zinc short diet in late pregnancy. The rats from the zinc-deprived mothers were slower in learning to avoid electrical shock than others even though they had received adequate zinc after birth. At peak performance, offspring of the zinc-deprived mothers avoided shock by reacting to a warning light only 35 per cent of the time; other rats in the best reached peaks of 70-80 per cent.

Tribes cuts land leases

ROSELAND, S.D. (UPI) - The Rosebud-Sioux Tribal Council Monday charged an organization made up mostly of white ranchers with selfishness and began revoking leases on Indian land held by the ranchers. In a resolution forwarded to the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs, the tribe said it would revoke leases held by members of the "Civil Liberties Union of South Dakota" or "any like organization." The civil liberties group was formed recently by ranchers who said they were concerned over jurisdictional and law enforcement problems on the state's nine Indian reservations.

Word out on farm programs

TWIN FALLS - The word is out on farm programs for this year, except for a conservation cost-sharing program approved by Congress but not yet funded. Ken Kirk, area director of the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs, said that the cost-sharing program will be settled by late March or April. No restrictions were set for the 1975 wheat and feed grain program. The 1975 wheat payments will be based upon allotment if the market falls below the target price of $2.05 a bushel for wheat, $1.13 a bushel for corn. Congress is now considering legislation to raise the target prices according to the ASCS. Kirk said that the ASCS crop losses from natural disasters are available and no sign-up is required before planting. There are no conserving base or set-aside requirements. Price support loans are available on all wheat, barley, corn, oats and rye production regardless of whether the tariff has an allotment for those crops. The ASCS expects a 14 per cent increase in phosphate supplies, indicating increased production and cutbacks in exports. Potash supplies should be 5 per cent larger than last year.

what's what

L. M. Boyd

Asked to identify the world's most followed man that was a Greek named Georgius, Constantine. L. Burnum said he'd support Georgius, if Georgius would get himself trained all over. Sixteen doctors deserted three months ago to decorating him with 388 degrees, three medals, so to speak, thus exercising same. Believe I told you that people like painters and paper hangers, whose work requires them to raise their arms above shoulder level, rarely get bursters.

Q. "WHAT proportion of the first babies are conceived before marriage?"
A. One out of five.

THE HARD FACTS
 Do you know how many students will take some sort of test today? More than 40 million. WAS JUST three years ago that only 7 per cent of the country's medical students were women. More than 15 per cent are now. ONE GIRL IN 100 starts smoking before age 13. But 36 out of 100 do likewise before age 15.

NEVER, NEVER
 Never start a long hike in new boots. Never buy a perfectly airtight sleeping bag. Never build a seven-foot cookfire bigger than the frying pan. Those are only three "nevers" for the backpackers. Can you come up with any others?

IF YOU SELL it as a "hamburger" or a "beef patty," a butter has nothing in it but beef. So rules the Food and Drug Administration. However, if you want to call it "Big Pete," "Roaster," "Dejable Dues," or any other such nickname, you can put almost anything into it, including that bountiful burger builder called soy.

IT HAS BEEN scientifically proved that some people can feel and forecast the weather by the way their feet feel. Corns and bunions can become sensitive to barometric pressure changes.

Valley beans Spuds, metals, sugar off

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market, hit hard late Tuesday by a profit-taking uptick, opened lower Wednesday in netting heavy losses on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 97.74 points, slightly after the opening declines led advances, 191 to 85, among the 425 issues comprising the cap.

Turnover amounted to around 370,000 shares.

Observers said investors still were hopeful producers would lower oil prices soon, but profit taking could still be a factor in the market because of the strong gains of the new year rally.

The oil hopes have been a major factor in recent gains. Early in the new year, Kenneth G. Stanger, chairman of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, nationalized its oil. Many analysts said this had been anticipated.

They also noted some of the political issues surfaced last Tuesday night as the trial date for the Justice Department's fine standing antitrust suit against IBM. Reports from European stock markets indicated investors thought the Justice Department would announce a fine less than that claimed than IBM.

Mutual Funds

Depressed markets, tepid near the 34 cent level, drove support and live cattle futures closed firm, with the spot contract moving into the 600 cent cash market. Prices of beef prices were mixed while Omaha reported steady to higher prices and Chicago posted about a higher cash price.

Feeder cattle futures rose 20 to 40 cents in a heavier trade of 83 contracts.

The hog futures advanced higher, with finer cash prices and better loss in the grain trade contributing to the advance. There were limit gains in August, December and February but the final quotes ranged from 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 cents.

August on a volume estimated at 4,319.

Deterring oil and metal futures were higher while soybeans were mixed to easier as the soybean complex continued to advance. Oil futures closed with losses of 25 to 10 points in March and May while deferred months were 10 to 20 points higher.

Corn futures enjoyed volume business and prices varied over a range of 10 to 12 cents before closing from 1 1/2 cents higher to 6 cents lower. The larger declines were in distant months. Speculative profit taking and hedging offset late.
