Henry confers with Turks

ANKARA (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, still believing a Mideast agreement is possible between Egypt and Israel on the Sinai Golan, Syrian Golan and Jordanian West Bank, talks with Turkish leaders on the situation in Cyprus.

He flew here from Jerusalem after an 11-hour private breakfast with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and a two-hour and 45-minute meeting with the Israeli negotiation team.

After he left Jerusalem, an Israeli government source told newsmen that Kissinger's peace mission probably would be a "long, extended and likely hard negotiation process."

"There is no certainty and possibly even some doubt about reaching an agreement," the source said.

Kissinger nevertheless still was optimistic about an Israeli-Egyptian accord, despite an unexpectedly hard stand by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, who was under pressure from Syria.

Turkish leaders, smarting from the American Congress and its anti-Israel and anti-Arabism, a career labor movement, were not expected to give him much to be optimistic about in their dispute with Greece over Cyprus. They also planned to discuss the future Turkish role in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization with the American secretary.

Acting Premier Sadi Inanik said last month Turkey would "review" its commitment to NATO because of Turkey's long-standing action and Turkey recently withdrew from a joint NATO exercise.

The main point on the day's agenda, however, was Cyprus, where the Turkish minority declared an independent federated state last month.

Turkey maintains between 30,000 to 39,000 of the island. The U.S. congressional action to halt military aid to Turkey was intended to force a reduction of Turkish forces. Turkey withdrew 1,000 soldiers from Cyprus on Feb. 4.

Aides eye Gem plant 'bombshell'

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times News writer

TWIN FALLS — State officials have mixed reactions to the recent "bombshell" announcement that Idaho Power will not have to meet new strict federal air pollution standards. Instead, it will have to meet only the least strict standards.

Gary Montgomery, an assistant attorney general assigned to the Idaho Public Utilities Commission, today said, "Irrespective of any federal rulings, I think we have full authority to order any measure that we deem necessary to protect the environment."

The federal "ruling" was handed down last week by the Environmental Protection Agency in a house duct. In a letter to Dr. Michael Gibson, the EPA regional director sent the Idaho Power plant would be exempt from the new Class II pollution standard because the power firm had already ordered power boilers and steam turbines for the plant. The equipment orders were interpreted by EPA as a commencement of construction, exempting the new plant from the proposed stricter standard. The new standards apply only to plants built after June 1, 1975.

However, Montgomery today said the state Public Utilities Commission has not approved construction of the coal-fired plant so it could not be considered under construction.

"If construction had commenced, they would be in violation of law," he added.

The PUC does have the authority to force Idaho Power to cancel its equipment orders, thereby eliminating any grounds for an interpretation that construction is underway, according to Montgomery. He would not, however, speculate as to whether the state panel would issue such an order.

Dr. Lee Stokes, director of air and water quality for the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, said the coal-fired plant would effectively eliminate any chance for further development of the area if it is allowed to pollute at least a restrictive Class III level.

Idaho Power's plant would effectively use up all the class III allowance for pollution, Stokes said.

"It would put any other future development in a bind," he added.

Also, although the Class III level is the existing national standard, which compares closely with Idaho's current pollution regulations, it might result in some health problems, Stokes said.

"The basis of the existing minimum standards was to protect health, but there's a lot of honest disagreement as to whether the existing standards do eliminate all health hazards," he said.

"I don't think we could say that there is a true threshold that would be detrimental to health," Stokes said.

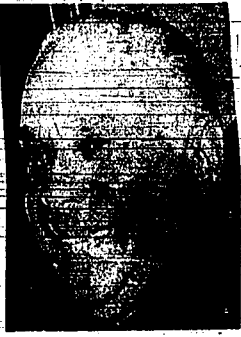

"I think all of us recognize that its conceivable there could be health problems at levels lower than the current standard."

CIA, Caribbean plots reported

MAFIA gunmen were hired by CIA agents to attempt assassination of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, articles published today in the New York Times and Time Magazine alleged. Time also linked the CIA to assassination attempts against the late Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier of Haiti and Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic.

The New York Times said aides to the late Robert F. Kennedy recounted his efforts in stopping the plots against Castro, which supposedly occurred in 1961. (UPI)

Supply flights continue despite heavy Red fire

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Communist-led rebel gunners rained 30 rockets and artillery rounds into Pochentong airport and a nearby village in a five-minute period today, destroying a twin-engine DC3 transport and killing one person. The intense bombardment failed to halt the U.S. airlift.

Ten Commo rockets hit in and around Phnom Penh itself during the day, killing three civilians and wounding nine others, U.S. officials in Saigon said despite the shelling. American-chartered DC8 Phnom Penh today, carrying 700 passengers.

Hummers continued to fly of military coup attempts, cabinet reshuffles and the departure of President Lon Nol, already under attack by legislators asking him to form a stronger government that would give better direction to the armed forces. There was no verification of any of them.

Government officials announced that Lon Nol spent today working at his desk as usual and American officials expressed the opinion that any radical change of government by coup would be dangerous in the present precarious military situation.

The official consensus at the U.S. Embassy was that, with additional aid, the hard-pressed Cambodian capital should be able to hold out until the rainy season begins this summer.

Clearly not all diplomats in Phnom Penh shared that optimistic view. Foreign nationals speeded their evacuation of the capital and the British Embassy issued "the strongest possible recommendation" that all British residents get aboard a Royal Air Force C130 evacuation flight to Singapore Tuesday.

Cambodia's national legislature today passed a resolution calling on the U.S. Congress to consider "with kindness" the request for additional military aid for embattled Cambodia.

Eden man held in stabbing

JEROME — An Eden man was in the Jerome County jail today on an open charge in connection with a stabbing early Sunday in a Jerome restaurant.

Jerome Police Chief Howard Dubois said a Larry Hernandez, 21, of Eden, was being held pending filing of a formal complaint, and arraignment in court.

Luciano Castillo, about 21, Jerome, was in fair condition in St. Benedict's Hospital intensive care unit today with stab wounds in the abdomen.

Chief Dubois said the incident occurred about 1:20 a.m. in the restroom of the China Village restaurant.

Jerome County Sheriff Elza Hall and Ed Johnson, a SALT liquor law enforcement officer, who were in the restaurant at the time saw Hernandez run from the building. They followed him and made the arrest.

Meany sees 'avalanche' of home foreclosures

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With joblessness rising and workers running out of unemployment benefits, AFL-CIO President George Meany predicted Thursday "an avalanche" of foreclosures on home mortgages.

Meany also told the National Housing Conference the federal government must immediately make available some 6 per cent subsidized home mortgages for people with low or moderate paying jobs to get the housing industry moving again.

An upsurge in home purchases at the subsidized rate would provide stimulus to other segments of the economy and help end the recession, the labor chief said.

Thomas R. Bomar, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, said despite some $3 billion deposited in savings associations and mutual-savings banks in January, the average rates for mortgages will not drop substantially lower than the 9 per cent level that prevails now.

Bomar said the inflow of savings will provide funds for those Americans able to handle the cost of today's homes.

Meany said unemployed workers will soon be unable to take full insurance benefits and be unable to make their monthly mortgage payments.

Meany predicted "an avalanche of home foreclosures reminiscent of the early '30s" unless the government is willing to take "drastic action to provide some 6 per cent federal funds."

Meany said only one-third of the $15 billion committed by the Nixon and Ford administrations in attempts to bring mortgage interest rates to a range of 7.75 to 8.5 per cent had been used.

The supply demand, Meany said, is an indication that most Americans cannot afford to buy a home at a high mortgage rate and also pay the taxes and utilities.

Government statistics show that the average cost of a home now is about $40,000, which eliminates more than half the population from the market under traditional mortgage lending guidelines.

At the White House, President Ford presided at the swearing-in of Carla A. Hills as secretary of housing and urban development. "Restoration of health to the housing market is imperative," Ford said. "I am convinced that is imperative."

Cabinet officer is equal to that challenge and the others which will confront her.

TWIN FALLS — Nervous and excited, cerebral palsy victim Larry Ek proposed to fly to New York today in hopes of leading a normal life.

Ek and his mother, Ada Ek, were to leave at 11:50 a.m. from the Twin Falls airport to fly to New York, where Larry will enter St. Barnabas in the Bronx for tests.

Ek will undergo a 10-day series of tests to determine if his brain can manage a pacemaker to correct the effects of cerebral palsy, according to his mother.

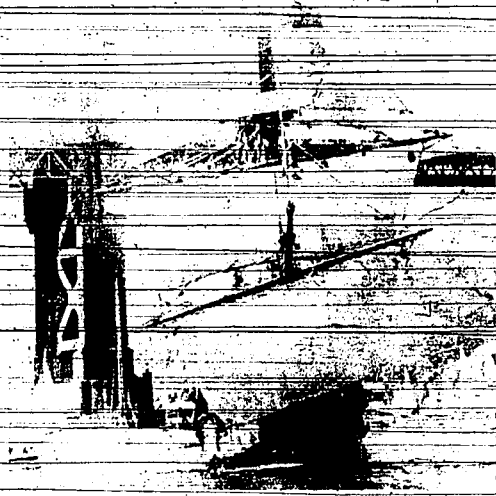

"I'm scared and awful nervous," Ek said. "Everything's been packed for about a week."

"The doctor thinks he has an awful good chance" to pass the tests, according to his mother. If the test results are good, Ek would enter the hospital again to receive the pacemaker.

"People have just been marvelous and townspeople have brought close to $5,700 to the Larry Ek fund for the trip and tests, according to Sherry Bridger, Larry's sister and trustee of the fund.

Both Ek and his mother will make the trip, which ends late tonight after layovers in Salt Lake City and Chicago.

David Fass, a school friend of Ek's, will meet them at the airport and take them to the hospital, for the first appointment Tuesday morning, Mrs. Ek said.

TOWER of San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge looms behind replica of Sir Francis Drake's 16th century galleon, Golden Hinde, as it sails into San Francisco Bay Sunday. Opposes funds
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., said in a televised intelligence reports he has seen show there is little chance of saving the Lon Nol government in Cambodia.

Humphrey said he would vote against an administration request for $22 million in funds for Cambodia, but added he would support funds for "humanitarian" purposes.

Hills sworn as HUD secretary
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today presided at the swearing-in of Carla A. Hills as secretary of housing and urban development and said she faces an immense job because it is a time of recession in the housing industry.

Mrs. Hills is the third female Cabinet member in history, and previously served as assistant attorney general in charge of the Civil Rights Division.

At a oath-taking ceremony in the East Room with other Cabinet members attending, Ford said he considers Mrs. Hills "the best qualified person for this very demanding position."

Demo women give ERA shove
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A caucus of Democratic women today asked members of the party's national committee to adopt a resolution relating to hold its 1976 convention in any state that has not ratified the Equal Rights Amendment.

Scott calls on Nol to quit
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott today called on Cambodian President Lon Nol to resign in favor of a transitional regime which could negotiate a truce and a new government with insurgent Communist forces.

Scott said his proposal was based on the idea that the transitional regime could negotiate a truce in exchange for the release of refugees who want to flee before a new government takes over.

Viet Reds take province capital

SAIGON (UPI) — Tanked Communist troops stormed into Ban Me Thuot provincial capital early today and seized the military command post. Fighting that opened a major new battlefield in South Vietnam.

We can consider that the ally has been captured," military sources said.

At least one regiment of North Vietnamese troops led by tanks assaulted the thinly defended city before dawn under cover of a 1,000-round barrage of mortar, rocket and artillery fire, military sources said.

A 30-man team of Communist sappers blew open defenses of the government military command center, which was then stormed in hand-to-hand fighting.

Ban Me Thuot, if it falls, would be the second provincial capital to be captured by the Communists in South Vietnam so far this year. Phouc Long was overrun Jan. 7.

Vietnamese air force fighters destroyed 10 tanks and 100 trucks of the attacking tanks and defended militiamen destroyed three other tanks with M72 anti-tank rockets, sources said.

The battle caught more than a dozen Americans and a group of three train officials in the embattled city.

The late President Theodore Roosevelt had a hunting lodge near Ban Me Thuot where he used to hunt tigers. However, it burned down in 1971.

Military sources said the Communists launched a three-pronged attack at 3 a.m. against the province capital. Infantry assaulted from the south and tanks rumbled in from the north and west.

The sources said the overwhelmed defenders retreated to key defensive positions in the city of 70,000 and Communists waged a house-to-house drive to oust them.

A U.S. spokesman reported 14 Americans — an embassy official, five military contractors, a Red Cross representative and seven missionaries — caught by the fighting in Ban Me Thuot, 163 miles north of Saigon.

Automakers' profits dip

DETROIT (UPI) — Profits for the auto industry this year will fall below $500 million for the first time since the depression, a Wall Street analyst predicted today.

Harold Hill, hit of the three largest — Chrysler Corp. — will lose $117 million, almost three times the record loss it suffered in 1974. David Eisenberg, vice president of research for Sanford Bernstein & Co., said.

The prediction overshadowed the industry's best production week since November. Three Ford plants will be closed, and General Motors — Chrysler — and American Motors will operate at 100 percent.

The industry's short and long-term layoffs stood at 214,610 this week, down almost 44,000 from last week and the lowest since the beginning of the year.

Eisenberg said profits for the three biggest automakers will total $482 million.

Theatre opens spring run

BUILD — The Antique Festival Theatre began its spring run Friday with a children's show for students of Horizon School.

The preschoolers joined in the improvisational stories performed by the Fiftynine Players, suggesting, among other characters, a mud scientist and a ghost.

As the actors took on the parts, the children themselves took to the stage to become participants.

The Antique Festival Theatre (AFT) is supported by grants from the Idaho Endowment for the Arts and Humanities.

"AFT" will move to Boise March 19 for its official opening, and then give a series of Patchwork Players improvisations around the state, returning to Twin Falls April 30.

The performances by the Patchwork Players include workshops with the students on improvisational theatre and a workshop for teachers.

In addition to the skills by the players, AFT will also give adult performances of Edward Albee's "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" in Boise and on weekends during the state tour.

So far, a Twin Falls performance of Albee's play is uncertain. According to Leo Stasun, who directs both the Patchwork Players and Woolf, Twin Falls has not in the past shown interest in booking the AFT troupe.

Two bookings remain on the troupe's spring schedule which could lead to Twin Falls performances, he said, but whether there is sufficient interest remains to be seen.

Adjournment not seen

BOISE (UPI) — By law, Idaho legislators should be packing for home and finished with their lawmaking tasks by the 8th legislative day, which is Wednesday. But adjournment may be a long way down the road.

Lawmakers began their ninth legislative week today, confronted with such key issues as funding planning, medical malpractice reform, highways and transit automobile insurance.

The Senate Commerce and Labor Committee will hold a public hearing tonight on three medical malpractice reform bills.

A crisis has arisen in the medical malpractice insurance field because the state's largest malpractice insurance company has said it will not insure its 500 doctor clients after June 1. Doctors say they will not practice without the insurance. The first bill would place a $100,000 limit on individual malpractice claims, while the second would make all malpractice insurance writers contributing 25 for the next two years.

The third bill would establish a commission to study malpractice claims in order to take the increasingly common suits out of the courts.

Up for final consideration before the Senate today were six of Gov. Cecil Andrus' seven laid use planning measures. The seventh, and most controversial, the Timetable Act is being held in the Senate Local Government and Taxation Committee until action is taken on the first six bills.

Last week the Senate approved more than 50 amendments for five of the six measures with little debate and significant partisan support. The amendments were sponsored by such industries as the Idaho Mining Association and Idaho Homebuilders Association.

Partisan stance not rigid

By JUDY GARDNER
Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — The Ford administration, worried by restraints imposed by the last Congress on the policy-making authority of the executive branch, is appealing to Congress to set aside what it calls partisan politics and display a greater spirit of unity and cooperation in foreign affairs.

The President and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger are particularly concerned that Congress approve administration requests for sending additional aid to South Vietnam, and Cambodia and resuming military assistance to Turkey.

Yet an examination of congressional voting records for 1974 indicates that votes on the legislation most criticized by Ford and Kissinger were less partisan than the administration has contended.

For instance, during the long dispute over halting military aid to Turkey, the House voted along bipartisan lines on 7 of 12 votes. Senate members followed party lines more often, with a majority of Republicans and Democrats joining forces on only 5 of 11 votes. Nevertheless, it was the Democrats in the Senate who engineered the final compromises on the issue.

In votes last year on a bill linking trade benefits for the Soviet Union to its emigration policy, and barring trade preferences to all members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), Democrats and Republicans alike voted overwhelmingly for policies later criticized by Ford and Kissinger.

Congress expanded role in making foreign policy continues to plague the White House. In dealing with the new 94th Congress on the indochina-and-Turkish-aid requests, administration officials have mixed their conciliatory gestures with tougher language — blaming Congress for any adverse consequences resulting from denying the additional aid.

In his strongest appeal to Congress, Ford Feb. 12 said in New York: "We need non-partisanship in foreign affairs today more than we have ever needed it in the history of this earth."

He invoked the memory of the Truman-Vandenberg era of bipartisanship, when Congress approved the Marshall Plan and other foreign policy initiatives at the height of the Cold War. Republican Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan was chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee during the Republican-controlled 80th Congress in 1947-48 under Democratic President Harry S. Truman.

The speech was a variation on a theme Ford first sounded in his State of the Union message. Kissinger's pleas for cooperation began in late 1974.

While Ford mentioned Turkish aid and Trade restrictions, those reflect a small portion of recent congressional restraints placed on executive power overseas. Others include limitations on military aid to Chile and South Korea because of their alleged disregard of human rights, restrictions on the use of the Peace program for Indochina and new requirements of congressional approval for military and nuclear sales abroad.

Congress established "oversight" committees to monitor the administration's suspension of military aid to Turkey because of its invasion in July 1974 of Cyprus in violation of U.S. foreign aid laws. The suspension was opposed by Kissinger. The 307-90 vote in the House came on an amendment of ferred by New York Democrat Benjamin S. Rosenthal and Delaware Republican Pete du Pont. The Senate vote on a similar amendment was 57-20, with a majority of both parties supporting it.

Both Congress and the administration clung to their positions and a series of votes ensued, including two unsuccessful attempts to override presidential vetoes. Key votes often were party lines, particularly in the Senate, supporting Ford's contention of partisanship. Support votes tended to be more bipartisan.

Compromises were forged on two separate occasions, however, by Senate Democrats Mike Mansfield of Montana and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota. The White House, in the face of Republican opposition, reluctantly accepted them, resolving the impasse. Republicans joined Democrats to pass the final legislation by large margins.

The President was permitted to continue aid until Feb. 5, when it would cease until there was substantial progress toward a settlement between Greece and Turkey. In his speech, Ford called the suspension "a self-inflicted wound" that would weaken important relations with a valued ally, and achieve no benefit whatever.

Last December, the Senate adopted an amendment linking trade benefits for the Soviet Union to its emigration policies for Jewish citizens on an 88-0 vote. The administration made no effort to defeat it, and Kissinger called it "a satisfactory compromise." But in his New York speech 10 weeks later, Ford said it "led the Soviet Union to repudiate its 1972 economic agreement with us."

The restriction on trade advantages for OPEC members was a response by Congress to the Arab oil embargo in the winter of 1973-74.

Sex stream appalling

WASHINGTON — Some weeks ago, a woman reader from San Francisco wrote that she was "appalled by the stream of sex flowing across my television screen night after night."

And then, like most readers, she asked: "But what can I do about it?"

The reply, of course, was that she could raise Cain with the Federal Communications Commission, which is supposed to regulate use of the public airwaves. I don't know whether she acted on this advice, but a recent FCC action shows that public protests can get results.

Moving in what it called a response to "continuing Congressional and public complaints about television program content," the FCC said it would ask Congress for legislation that would ban "explicit visual depictions of sexual material" on the air. According to the commission, complaints about violent or sexually oriented programs had risen from 2,000 in 1972 to 25,000 in 1974.

That's a lot of complaints, considering that only about one out of 15 individuals who feel strongly about an issue bother to complain to anyone but friends and neighbors. It should remind those who claim they are powerless to influence the government that the power to influence is wielded only by folks who summon up the energy to tell government what they think.

The FCC, as usual, is being careful. It is already a crime to use indecent language on the air, but the commission said it was uncertain whether it has the power to take action against the televised showing of obscene and indecent material as well. That hunch would fit in on the proposition that the sun will not burn tomorrow.

At any rate, the Senate Commerce Committee will hold hearings this month on the FCC proposal, and a subcommittee aide said he expected no opposition to such legislation. Not that Congress digests the significance of the 27,000 complaints last year there wasn't, because even the dumbest legislators can calculate the number of votes that figure represents.

Indeed, there appears to be no resistance that the TV networks, a CBS spokesman said he expected the networks to approve the ban against sexual sex "since none of us show it anyway." That depends upon one's definitions. NBC gave an early-morning election night last year a "Barnum Juice" in which a 16-year-old girl was sexually abused, and some of the stuff shown on network prime time falls just short of the vulgar depiction of obscene or indecent material.

For itself, a recent movie about a rape case might have permitted the victim's name to be used in the past rape examination. I didn't really have to see the doctor doing his job with a cop stool nearby.

Meanwhile, it is good to know that the FCC legislation would apply to cable television, too. Several cable systems have been showing X-rated movies in recent years. This is not the same as showing such films in movie houses because cable TV uses the public air waves, except that it charges a viewing fee.

The FCC report also "warned" Congress that there is still the problem of "indecent" language on radio broadcasts. But wouldn't you know it? The commission suggested that a recent order redacting "indecent materials" at times of the day when there is a reasonable risk that children may be in the audience "could prove effective in abating the problem."

Believe that, and I've got a nice new perpetual motion machine to sell you.

But one should be thankful for small blessings. A year after Sen. John Pastore, chairman of the Senate subcommittee, asked the FCC to comment on the TV's sex problem, the commission finally came up with its report. Everything takes time, of course, but one wonders why time is so much more plentiful to Washington bureaucrats.

The answer probably is that we, their employers, also lack a sense of urgency when we get our hands up.

The politics of the poetry of Miss Jung and her husband is also a subject of a recent facial protest, which has permeated so much of the poetry of the past generation.

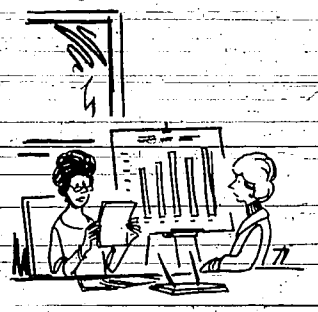

Like the varied carols of the folksingers (Carole King, Carly Simon) — the message in much of the "voice music" written by the women poets flows from an awareness of their liberation. Often using the imagery of the body, they delight in discovering that there is no need to be self-conscious about the consciousness of one's self.

Their message is mainly inward and affirmative, rather than outward and angry, or up-ward and fearful. The protest, when it appears, is social rather than political, against the remaining bonds of sex or against the unwanted responsibility of a sudden infusion of education and opportunity. Rebellion is directed at the way we live and not so much at the way we govern ourselves.

If the young poets are singing what most of their contemporaries are thinking, then aspiring political leaders would do well to push aside conventional poisons and tune themselves in. Instead of "doing exclusively" with energy, environment policy, unemployment-inflation tradeoffs and services-vs-taxes arguments, political leaders will have to find a wavelength that concerns itself with respect for individuality, the glorification of privacy, the resentment toward society's standard impositions.

This inclination to "do your own thing," as Emerson called it more than a century ago in his essay "Self-reliance," is not necessarily prying. It can be selfish and lazy, crowding out the rest of the generation these poets represent is not in going backward, but in falling into the trap Soviet poet Yevushenko finds himself in — dutifully conforming to a denunciation of enlightenment.

Americans ignore poetry in politics

(c) New York Times Service
Americans may be the only people who fail to see the importance of poetry in politics. In the Soviet Union, dissenting poets are treated with the utmost seriousness; their work is suppressed by a state that worries about the latent power in the most free form of literary expression.

Yevgeny Yevushenko, who had been a rebel until he was imprisoned for the Communist cause, is used by Soviet authorities to fight in spring lines that transmit the general line. Criticizing the Peking government, for example, he plies the regimented Chinese "cheated of his human existence from his diapers," and writes: "The young — a splendid confusion. And the wisdom of the old who are still alive is nearly illegal."

What have you done with a human being? Limiting him by harsh veto to our — uncited liberator.

There is irony in the use of a regimented mind to complain about another's regime's regimentation, but it underscores the new freedom and self-discovery that is making itself heard in American poetry, especially in the voices of women poets.

"Poets who are women" is the way most of them would prefer it, and a rejection of sexism is understandable; yet, as with "woman candidates," a gender-engendered interest exists. Women writing poetry tend to celebrate the emancipation of women, and that theme has become an artistic drive as well as a political fact.

Today, young women seem to dominate

American poetry. Although death-obsessed Anne Sexton removed herself from the field with the severest form of self-editing, much of the criticism about her work has been by Lewis and Clark, Diane Wakarusa, Adrienne Rich, Maya Angelou, Nikki Giovanni and Margie Piercy.

Most widely known of the new generation of women poets is Erica Jong, who casts a lovely light because her candle burns at both ends: a serious, playful poet at one end, a witty, playful writer of a sexy novel at the other. Her "Fear of a Rabby" is a masterpiece.

WILLIAM SAFIRE

Flying is a paperback hotcake, and even gets a big play at airport newsstands; its stock value conceals the discovery that you can't own a woman, really think that way, and now have the courage to fly in private.

Miss Jung's sure-to-come celebrity and financial success may cause the rest of the poetry establishment to turn on her, for woman-poet Lois Wyse, whose elegant "Flying for the Very Married" sold 300,000 copies in hard cover, is compared now with male, sentimentalist Rod McKuen, who is a modern A. Oil production cut back

(c) New York Times Service
DOHA, Qatar — The global slump in demand for oil has caused Qatar's oil production to fall to 400,000 barrels a day, and that, in turn, means a seven per cent below its normal level of officials of this Persian gulf sheikdom disclosed Monday.

The production decline is causing concern here, the officials said, because a substantial decline in oil revenues this year would wreck the development plans of ruling Sheik Khalid Bin Hamad. A plan for this barren, unpopulated island peninsula which juts off from Saudi Arabia.

In addition the production fall-off has brought with it a decline in exploitation of the oil-smelting gas that is intermingled with the oil. Qatar is in need for a newly opened gas-liquefaction plant, a fertilizer plant and other industrial installations here.

Other cuts in production have been made known with varying emotions in other Middle East oil nations in recent weeks. Abu Dhabi has complained that her foreign-aid program is jeopardized. Iran has observed that her reserves will last longer, and Kuwait is so rich that she is relatively unimpacted.

Voice test shows Oswald innocent, writer says

(C) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — A writer who used a new device that detects stress in voices said today his tests show Lee Harvey Oswald was telling the truth when he contended he was innocent of murdering President John F. Kennedy. The writer, George O'Toole, said his device also indicated that several key witnesses in the investigation of Kennedy's death lied about the case. The President was killed by a sniper or persons unknown, O'Toole concluded, adding that he felt Oswald was framed. O'Toole said he based his conclusions of analysis of tape recordings by psychologists, stress evaluator, a device that he contends can tell if a speaker is lying or not. Recordings of Oswald's denial of guilt in the hallways of the Dallas Police Department on the night of the Kennedy slaying in 1963 show little or no stress in Oswald's voice, he said. Oswald, the man named by the Warren Commission as the assassin who acted alone, told reporters on Nov. 22, 1963: "No, I didn't kill anybody, no one." Oswald was charged with the murder of Kennedy and J. D. Tippitt, a Dallas police officer, shot less than an hour after the President was gunned down. The 38-year-old O'Toole gave the report on Oswald's claim of innocence.

O'Toole said: "His categorical denial that he shot anyone contains almost no stress at all. Stress is a necessary, but not sufficient, condition of lying. It must be interpreted, and therein lies the margin of error. Had the absence of stress in a sufficient condition of truthfulness. If someone is talking about a matter of real importance to himself, and shows absolutely no stress, then he must be telling the truth." Oswald denied shooting anybody, the President, the policeman, anybody. The psychological stress evaluator said he was telling the truth." O'Toole said: "A presidential commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren concluded on Sept. 24, 1964, that Oswald fired the shots that killed Kennedy and the Dallas policeman. It based its findings on interviews of more than 500 witnesses and thousands of reports from the FBI and Secret Service on the matter. O'Toole said he also used the device to analyze television recordings of interviews with key witnesses cited by the Warren commission as supporting its theory that Oswald

Weak engine slows F15's performance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The General Accounting Office believes an inferior engine on the Air Force's new F15 Eagle has kept it from reaching performance goals. Rep. Aspin said engine standards officially were lowered in November, 1972, that the Air Force could actually accept engines that passed the phony tests. The cause of the lower than expected performance is the Air Force's decision to downgrade the requirements for the engine. The report Aspin said also showed the Air Force has been accepting F15 engines whose thrust or engine power is even less than the revised standard.

Confidence in Ford drops

NEW YORK (UPI) — The number of persons indicating a lack of confidence in President Ford has increased significantly in the last three months, according to a poll released Sunday by Time magazine. The poll, made quarterly by Yankelovich, Skelly, and White, showed an increase from 19 to 21 per cent in the number who said they have "a lot" of confidence in Ford. But the number indicating "no confidence" jumped from 15 to 28 per cent. Those saying they had "some" confidence dropped from 60 per cent to 49 per cent. The poll also indicated growing confidence in the survey showed 20 per cent had "a lot" of confidence in Congress, compared with 12 per cent three months ago. Those indicating "some" confidence dropped from 60 per cent to 54 per cent and "no confidence" fell from 25 per cent to 22 per cent. Other subjects: — 55 per cent favored gas rationing over increased gas taxes, compared with 34 per cent preferring taxes. — 59 per cent of charges against the CIA have been "inflated out of proportion," and only 29 per cent believe the agency has broken the law. — Fifty-two per cent said the charges, even if proved, would not be as upsetting as the Watergate scandals. — Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., remains the presidential candidate with the highest percentage of supporters, 34 per cent.

Barbra upstages President Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — General Ford met Barbra Streisand Sunday night and got upstaged. A Kennedy Center audience packed with celebrities from politics, show business and sports, applauded the President warmly when he and his daughter Susan took their seats at a charity gala organized by the Kennedy family.

Dick Cavett, master of ceremonies at the nationally televised benefit, gave Ford himself and conceded rank has no privilege in Washington. "I guess if one of us gets a standing ovation," he said with a nod up at Ford's box, "it's because it's happened to the next fellow."

Then Streisand, the featured entertainer, walked onstage and brought the house down. Men in tuxedos and women in high-fashion gowns stood up and cheered.

'Salt shaker' blamed for death

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mrs. Charlie Mae Strickland was the first to be stricken. She was dead on arrival at a hospital. Her daughter told police she suspected a salt substitute had killed her mother's death, and threw the rest of the substitute out.

But what she did not do was get rid of the salt shaker. In the weeks after Mrs. Strickland died, the shaker was passed among relatives and neighbors in a South Side neighborhood. It now has claimed three lives and left five persons, including a 2-month-old boy, hospitalized.

Police say the shaker contained sodium nitrite, a chemical substance used in very small quantities as a meat preservative. In liberal quantities, it is deadly.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Profit taking became a major factor in the stock market Monday as prices turned mixed in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 10 points at 763.11 shortly before noon EDT. Advances held a narrow lead over declines, rising to 572 among the 1,600 issues covered.

The two-hour turnover amounted to around 10,000,000 shares, compared with 11,200,000 shares traded during the same period Friday.

Most analysts said their profit taking was not surprising in light of the strong gains the market has made since the first of the year. The Dow had risen more than 150 points since the first of the year and more than 30 last week.

Some early buying was considered a reaction to a report by the Federal Reserve Board's decision Friday to lower its discount rate to 6 1/2 percent from 6 1/4 percent.

Light snow expected in MV

Twin Falls, Northside, Burley tonight in the 20's. The outlook for Wednesday, partly cloudy, and snow mixed today, light snow tonight. Clearing Tuesday. Clouds today and Tuesday 35 to 45. Low over the mountains. The high California coast is moving slowly east this morning. As a result, the southern part of Idaho will continue to experience periods of cloudiness and scattered showers through Friday.

Housing exemption proposed

(WASHINGTON (UPI)) Idaho's Congressional delegation has prepared legislation to exempt sheepherders' wagons from federal regulations covering migrant labor housing.

The bills were introduced by Senators Frank Church and James McClure Thursday and will be submitted to the House this week by Representatives George Hansen and Steve Symms.

The bills are designed to end what the delegation called "an absurd attempt by the Labor Department to apply standards on sheep wagons that were meant for buildings."

The delegation said there should have been a very simple conclusion that regulations requiring indoor plumbing and electricity cannot be applied to sheep wagons. Sheep wagons have wheels and are meant to travel. But such a conclusion has not been drawn, and now it is necessary to take the time and effort to legislate such a common sense conclusion.

Symms, Church and McClure introduced similar legislation last year.

Sales steady

NORTH SALT LAKE, Utah (UPI)—Utah, Idaho, and Eastern Nevada feedlot and range sales for week ending Friday, March 7.

Slaughter steers and heifers steady, with trading not more than moderately active. The bulk of business was transacted late, following settlement of the wholesale meat trade.

Outside interests from California and Pacific Northwest continued to make moderate purchases locally. A moderate volume of cattle continued to move on grade and yield basis, some with prices set, others with price to be set on day of stamping.

Confirmed sales this week on 2,945 steers and 650 slaughter heifers. Average price and weight of choice steers sold 1.0.b. feedlots this week, 35.10 and 1,129 lbs. Last week 35.06 and 1,134 lbs; last year 44.62, 1,008 lbs.

Feed cattle trade rather slow with few sales but steady.

Hansen seeks relief

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, told the Secretary of Agriculture Friday he would work personally with the department to get relief for potato farmers on surpluses in their crops and low prices and to expand foreign potato consumption.

Hansen also announced he has been in touch with the National Potato Promotion Board regarding the possibility of persuading Japan to change its tolerance requirements for sulphur dioxide in dehydrated potatoes so that imports from the United States could be increased.

He asked the board to start similar efforts in European markets where technical restrictions appear to limit imports of Idaho potato.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a physician who reads your column in the Houston Post. A 40-year-old woman wrote to say that after four months of marriage she was still virgin due to impotence on the part of her husband.

Your answer was: "If a physical problem, you have two choices: continue in a marriage without sex, or get an annulment."

From your answer, you obviously are not aware of the fact that recently a small device has been developed that can be surgically implanted into the male organ of men who are unable to effect an erection. With this device, the patient (or his partner) is able to put into the penis, thus producing an erection at will and for as long as desired.

Although the majority of one-cases are men who are impotent due to physical reasons, we have also treated men whose impotence was due to psychological reasons.

This work is presently being done at various medical centers in the U.S., as well as in Europe, although it was introduced in St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital in Houston, Texas. Because this is such a new development, I realize why it has not become a part of your knowledge.

Hope for impotent

Should the letter be published, please do not use my name for ethical reasons so that my letter can in no manner be construed as an advertisement for patients.

HOUSTON CHIROLOGIST

DEAR UROLOGIST: Because my mail has brought me so many letters from readers who need and would appreciate this information, I am publishing your letter. I recommend that those who are interested in learning more about this surgical procedure through their local urologist, please further information write to St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital, Department of Urology, Box 220268, Houston, Texas 77025.

DEAR ABBY: In reference to first cousins who wish to marry and apparently could not do so legally in the state where they lived, such marriages are permitted by the laws of New York—and many other states.

A more curious question: "Can an uncle marry a niece, or an aunt marry a nephew?" A few Latin American countries permit such marriages, and in the U.S.A. the laws of Georgia provide that any marriage permitted by the law of the Levites (Leviticus XVIII) is legal in that state.

Under the law of the Levites, a marriage between a man and the daughter of his sister is permitted. However, the marriage of a man with the daughter of his brother, and a marriage between a woman and her nephew are prohibited.

H.N.N. (N.Y. ATTORNEY)

DEAR ATTORNEY: What you are saying is that a man may marry his niece, but a woman may not marry her nephew—a law which had its origin in the Old Testament.

DEAR ABBY: You have had letters about illegitimate children. May I add my two cents worth?

My parents were adults, well over the age of consent, when they entered into a love affair that would eventually produce me. My father was in the Navy and due to ship duty when he learned of my impending arrival. He felt that under the circumstances he didn't want the responsibility of a wife and child, so he boarded the ship and was never heard from again.

My mother realized her mistake, but she courageously faced the problems that all unwed mothers must face, and she decided to keep me.

She later married a fine man who adopted me, and now I have a whole parcel of brothers and sisters whom I love. I was my natural father's happiness and good fortune. I sincerely hope that the years have been kind to him, and have given him a family to love. I will not look for him, as his mistake is now over 30 years old, and I don't want to cause him any embarrassment.

When I was 18, another told me the circumstances surrounding my birth, which I consider of little importance. I feel no guilt about the mistake of my parents. I was given a life, and what I do with that life is far more important to me than how I got here.

I am now happily married to a kind and loving man and we have children. I don't have a cent of money, but we are in better ways. We have love, and in this time, no one has a right to ask more. Sign me.

BLESSED

DEAR BLESSED: Amen!

Jim: "How about showing some of Terence Reese's hands? There is plenty to be learned from them."

Yes, most of his hands come from actual play and show declarer struggling with an optimistic contract that he can make, but usually doesn't.

Jim: "Today's hand is typical. South's jump to game is a slight overbid. He would have no play against a diamond opening, but it makes his normal lead of the king of clubs. Now South is in business. If he knows what to do."

Essential: A late-stage of the early play will hang down the ace and king of trumps to see if the queen drops. It doesn't, but if South just makes a preparatory play, he can still bring ten tricks home.

The preparatory play is to ruff one of dummy's clubs at trick two. Then cash the ace and king of spades and ace and king of hearts. Next comes the play of a low heart. West can't afford to ruff and ducks a club in his own hand. If West has discarded his last heart, once more West can't afford to ruff and South uses dummy's last trump.

West looks dummy's last club. If West has discarded his last club, that club in dummy is a winner—if West hasn't discarded it, that club in South's hand is the last trump.

TF sets blood quota

TWIN FALLS — Ivan Reed, Twin Falls blood drawing chairman, said hours of the drawing have been extended to 7 p.m. today.

Reed said past drawings have ended at 6 p.m., but this one was extended to 7 p.m. to give those who work and can't attend by 6 p.m. an opportunity to give blood.

The quota for today's drawing is 550 pints. Reed said that blood is urgently needed since the use of whole blood is increasing steadily in this area.

The drawing is at St. Edward's Parish Hall.

Youths to appear in Magistrate Court

TWIN FALLS — Two 13-year-old Twin Falls county boys will be petitioned into magistrate court under the youth rehabilitation act in connection with a house burglary in Hamden.

Sheriff's officers in Twin Falls said the home of Fred Clark was burglarized recently and an assortment of household items and clothing taken.

Officers said the juveniles were arrested over the week end. Most of the items taken in the burglary have been recovered.

Hospital board meets tonight

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Memorial Hospital board will hold its regular March meeting today at 8 p.m. in the board room at the hospital.

The agenda calls for the presentation of the audit report by James William "Tom" Tanki. In addition, there will be discussion of the hospital's malpractice coverage.

The public is free to attend the meeting.

Reward offered

GOODING — The Starnidge Snowmobile Club has posted a $100 reward for information leading to the apprehension and conviction of vandals in the Fairfields area.

Earl Skidmore, secretary-treasurer of the club, said today that two cabins in the Wells Winter Recreation area north of Fairfield have been damaged by persons whose identity is not yet known. He said the cabins and kiosks at Fairfields.

Skidmore said Mrs. James Waugh, president of the club, announced the reward for information in the hope that vandals in the area could be apprehended before more damage is done.

Mrs. Waugh said "naturally all responsible snowmobilers and the Northside Snow Riders Club in Gooding are very disturbed by such acts of stupidity and are cooperating with Forest Service and law enforcement agencies in bringing about apprehension of the vandals and discouraging such acts in the future."

Skidmore said the incident has been reported to the Cassia County Sheriff for investigation.

Items stolen from museum

WEISER (UPI) — An Indian blanket worth an estimated $1,200 and five assorted antique items have been reported missing from the Weiser Museum.

Weiser Police Chief Mel Pierson said the items were apparently stolen from the museum either Tuesday or Wednesday.

Pierson said entry into the museum was apparently gained by breaking down a wooden door in the back of the building.

Autopsy planned

BLACKFOOT (UPI) — Kathy Mackley, 15, Blackfoot, was found dead in the bathroom at her home southwest of Riverside Saturday night.

Bingham County Coroner Carl Staley said the cause of the girl's death has not been determined.

He said an autopsy will be done.

Methadone use studied

BOISE (UPI) — A committee of the Idaho State Environmental Planning Commission is studying whether to continue to allow the use of methadone in the state in treatment of heroin addicts.

Methadone is a drug used in medically supervised programs in Idaho to draw drug addicts away from heroin use and provide them with a means of reentering society. The drug, however, is addictive.

In some areas, an illicit trade in the drug has been created by addicts looking for something to carry them through until they find another fix of heroin, officials said.

"Right now, we don't know what to say about methadone," said Lloyd Jones, chairman of the Commission on Community Problems.

Blaine blood drawing Tuesday

KETCHUM — The Blaine County bloodmobile, which missed its regular time here at the Blaine Community Church, Ketchum, from 2 to 6 p.m. Tuesday.

The bloodmobile, which is in Blaine County most times a year, missed several past times it was here to fill the 100-pint quota.

Morita Community Hospital, Sun Valley, and Blaine County Hospital, Hailey, used more blood combined than is collected in the bloodmobile, according to Rita Hoge, publicist-chairman.

She said there are several people in the area who need blood.

TF plant reports layoffs

TWIN FALLS — Ten people were laid off and the production line stopped at Dev-Tronics last week while the plant waits for new parts shipment.

Hal Humphrey, president of the local electronic calculator component manufacturing plant, said he expected the part, a 30-cent component, delivered "some time this week."

The ten employees laid off Friday will be back at work when the part arrives, he said.

"This is a periodic problem in electronics," he said. "With the recession, manufacturers are playing it close. They are not stockpiling or producing any excess, and shortages sometimes occur."

Hot sessions expected over salaries, revenue

By BILL LAZARUS
Times News Capital Bureau

BOISE Gov. Cecil D. Andrus and the legislature are in position to lock horns on revenue projections and state employee salaries.

If the two became entangled the legislature could be prolonged for weeks.

Andrus told the Times-News in an interview that the legislature's revenue projections are at least $8 million top low.

"That's not my argument, but their own argument," he said. "Since the Revenue Projections Committee has decided to raise their projections for this year's surplus, the basic revenue projections also need to be changed. Andrus maintained.

The governor would not say whether he would veto appropriations bills which are based on the legislature's revenue projections.

But he strongly hinted at the possibility of such action unless the legislature comes up with some type of compromise on state employee salaries.

Early in the session, the Legislative Revenue Projections Committee, chaired by Rep. Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls, predicted state would have revenues totaling $220 million for fiscal year 1976.

That prediction was a $10 million higher, Andrus predicted and meant cutting $10 million out of this budget for the year.

GOV. CECIL D. ANDRUS may lock horns

State employees have a large share of this burden. Andrus had proposed giving the employees a 7.5 per cent cost-of-living raise plus reallocations to put their wages on the same level as salaries of similar employees in private industry.

Over five weeks of stalling, the legislature decided to cut the state employee raises down to a 3.5 per cent "cost-of-living-increase-plus-reallocations" saving the state $12 million.

That proposal is in every appropriations bill written by the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee and now being considered by the House and Senate.

The legislature has not yet voted its hands clear of the state employee salary issue. Proposals are still in both the Senate and House to grant employees a "bonus," out of surplus.

But, according to Senate Assistant Minority Leader Robert Saxvic, D-Burley, prospects for passage of the bonus proposal are not good in the Senate.

Rep. Steve Antone, R-H Rupert and chairman of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee, said the House leadership leans strongly against such a proposal.

Meanwhile the Revenue Projections Committee has predicted the state's surplus this year will stand at $29.2 million, or $7.2 million above its original prediction.

Surplus funds are the monies the state has collected in excess of its budget. Idaho has a $183 million budget for this fiscal year. Now the Revenue Projections Committee predicts the state's income will stand at $210 million, leaving $29 million in surplus funds.

But the committee has refused to change its revenue projections for fiscal 1976.

According to Andrus, this does not make sense.

The implication of the surplus revenue revision is that "our revenue projection of $220 million is going to be a very close, conservative estimate," he said.

But the legislature's $220 revenue projection would apply only if state revenues grew 4.6 per cent.

This year state income grew 19 per cent and the year before it grew 17 per cent, Andrus said.

"If we're going to have a 19 per cent increase next year, it is not even going to be a 17 per cent increase. But we're sure not going to have a four per cent increase," he said.

He said his $220 million projection implies a moderate eight-per-cent revenue growth. Andrus maintained the legislature has a "responsibility" to raise the revenue projections that would leave plenty of money to raise state employee salaries.

But, according to Olmstead, no one on the Revenue Projections Committee supports the revenue projections.

He said it may be seen as a "hump on a camel's back" — an exceptional year of prosperity bringing exceptionally high revenues to the state.

But Olmstead would not say whether the projections might be opened if Andrus starts to veto appropriations bills. "Does the governor think that he's going to get everything he's hating for?" Olmstead asked.

Perhaps he does not. Unlike last year, Republicans do not have the votes to override the governor's veto this session.

Police probe TF burglaries

TWIN FALLS — A series of burglaries which occurred over the past weekend are being investigated by city police.

The first other residence, 1107 1st Ave. E. was entered sometime between Friday evening and Sunday evening while the family was out of town. The family estimated about $5,000 in household goods, furniture and other items had been removed from the home. An inventory is being taken today by the owners.

Two other homes were broken into and ransacked. The Marie Huether home at 314 Ostrander St. N. W. was broken into and several small curio items, books, papers and the house ransacked. Grant Zitting, a neighbor, reported the break in while Mrs. Huether was away.

A similar report of ransacked rooms and broken coin banks was received from Bob Brooks, 729 2nd Ave. W. He said about $25 in small change was taken.

John DeLoe, 147 Brackley St., said $75 worth of tools were taken from his 1971 vehicle parked at his home.

Officials of the Blue Lakes Inn reported $150 in bedding including mattress pads, blankets pillows and sheets taken from one of the motel rooms.

DeLoe said Capt. Tom Quirk said a 12-year-old burglar was in custody today in connection with two burglaries at the home of his family.

About $300 worth of tools and $75 in household items were removed from the home, officers said.

Panel holds siting bill

BOISE (UPI) — After the Public Utilities Commission voted last Friday to recommend the siting authority, the House State Affairs Committee voted 94 today to hold a power plant siting bill for further study.

PUB President Robert Lewa then told the House State Affairs Committee the commission has the necessary statutory authority to deny Idaho Power Co. a permit to build a coal-fired plant.

But while he said he felt certain the PUC has such authority, if the legislature has any questions about it, perhaps it should clarify the law.

Reps. William Onweller, R-Boise, and Ron Twilgar, D-Boise, disagreed with Lewa and other commissioners that PUC has such broad authority.

Twilgar said attorneys for the power company could make a good case in the courts, and the PUC to deny a permit for environmental reasons.

Both he and Onweller said they felt their proposal was needed to make certain environmental considerations are given to building or sited plants as the one proposed for the Orchard area near Boise before construction ever begins.

"I think we're long past the stage where convenience and necessity are the only things we can consider in building power plants," Twilgar said. "There is nothing in the present law requiring the PUC to consider health hazards."

Blacks ski SV

SUN VALLEY — Black Summit, a gathering of Black ski clubs all over the United States is visiting Sun Valley this week, skiing the slopes during the day and enjoying local restaurants during the evening.

This is the first time in Sun Valley's history that any large group of Blacks has come here to ski.

When one Black was asked how he liked Sun Valley, he said "Man, I spent $1,000 to get here and I'm determined to love it!"

Birdy Taylor, a driver with Sun Valley Taxi Transmissions says "They're the greatest people in the world." Another driver said "They are very courteous and understanding — the best group I've seen here."

According to several bellmen at Sun Valley Lodge, the Black Summit "has been one of the best groups of Blacks to come here with."

Gojo Schwartz, a secretary with Sun Valley Conventions office, which is coordinating all of the Black Summit activities, said "everything is going very smoothly. They are most cooperative."

One young skier with Sun Valley's junior ski team who rode up on the lift with one of the Blacks said "They're really ski good."

Burley trial starts today

TWIN FALLS — A Burley man goes on trial today for an alleged double shotgun murder last Nov. 7 in Burley.

Delbert Crawford, 28, is charged with the murder and robbery of Paul Peterson, 23, and Grey Solosabal, 22, both Burley.

Selection of a jury was the first order of business when the trial opened at 10 this morning, under presiding District Court Judge Sherman J. Bellwood.

Two other persons involved in the incident, Gaye and Terry Billingsley, ages 28 and 29, each pleaded guilty to two counts of being accessories and one count of robbery on March 5.

The Billingsley couple was originally charged with aiding and abetting, but agreed to plead guilty to the reduced charges.

Crawford is being represented by Ketchum, attorney Victor J. Rollito, according to the court reporter.

Gordon Nielson, former Cassia County prosecuting attorney, has been named the special prosecutor for the case. Nielson is now an assistant attorney general in Boise.

TF aides to call for bids

TWIN FALLS — County commissioners expect to be ready to call for bids by April 15 on the proposed addition of a second floor to the county judicial building.

Estimated cost of the remodeling and addition of a second floor is in excess of $600,000. County Commissioners held the first floor of the building without letting bids in 1967 at a cost of $154,000 but drew criticism from contractors.

Richard Heindel, architect, presented final plans to the commissioners last week and final call for bids will be made by the end of the week before the plans can be considered ready for bidding.

Heindel said the building has been designed to accommodate county judicial business for at least another 10 years, and is fashioned from the proposals of county officials and employees who will be using the building space.

Addition of the second story will more than double the existing space and will allow all judicial and legal departments of the county to be housed under one roof. In adding the second story, the entire exterior of the building will also be changed.

Heindel said steel and concrete pillars will be added to the exterior of the building and will support an eventual third floor if needed in the future.

The new second story of 13,874 square feet of space will have two district court rooms and one large general purpose room which can be converted to district court use when needed. The law library and all offices of the district judges and their clerks and reporters will be moved to the new second floor. The district clerk's office portion of Harold L. Anestser's staff will move to the second floor.

The first floor will then be converted to magistrate court use and will house the prosecutor's office. The prosecutor will also be able to use the present law library space across the hall from his offices.

Magistrate Fred P. Maughan, who now holds traffic court in the old courthouse building, will move back into the judicial building with the two other magistrates.

As an alternate, the contract will include remodeling of portions of the old courthouse building.

Heindel said changes proposed include moving the drivers license office into the present vehicle licensing office and moving the vehicle licensing office to the third floor adjacent to the main assessor's office.

The Sheriff's office will then expand into the old drivers license space.

In the new building an elevator designed to accommodate the eventual three floors will be installed and the cost estimates include carpeting and other finishing.

Heindel said the exterior of the building would be recovered to coincide with the old courthouse and to better blend with the building and grounds. It will have a more "judicial" appearance, he said. By preparing now for a third floor, the initial cost will be somewhat higher but the eventual saving will more than make up for this, the architect said.

Change could cause chaos

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Labor Department official told Congress today any attempt to assure health insurance protection for unemployed workers would cause administrative chaos.

Richard F. Schubert, undersecretary of Labor, said in testimony prepared for a House hearing that "when you take a system designed for one purpose and try to weld into it a totally new function, you inevitably create an administrative morass which engulfs both new and the old programs."

Schubert opposed legislation to provide for health insurance protection under the unemployment insurance system. The legislation is sought by the AFL-CIO, the United Auto Workers and others concerned about the possible catastrophic costs of an illness while a worker is unemployed and without health insurance protection.

Eagles battle Umpqua tonight

Defense is the key to success in the regional tournament opening tonight at the College of Southern Idaho gymnasium, says Coach Boyd Grant.

His Eagles, seeking a fifth straight championship, will meet Umpqua Community College at 9 p.m. after Ricks College takes an Oregon Community College Conference championship game in the opener at 7 p.m.

The two winners will play at 11 p.m. Tuesday for the title and right to represent the region in the national playoffs in Hutchinson, Kans., next week.

"We have to play defense the way we did in December," Coach Grant told his charges at a "chalk talk" Sunday afternoon. He noted that all the teams in the tournament can play offense well, so added it will be desire on defense as well as the backboards that swing the tournament.

In Umpqua, CSI faces an unknown factor—Umpqua comes into the event with a 19-9 record. But most of those losses came in the first half of the season. It finished by winning 127 of 137 games, including two in the Oregon playoffs.

It split with conference champion Lane, dropping the first game 92-60 but coming back for a 76-72 in the third-to-last game of the conference.

"It would appear that they've really started jelling and we're going to enter them at just about the peak," Coach Grant said. "I know everyone around here is thinking about the playoffs and we can't afford to look back because I feel we have a lot of chances."

Klammer said.

Michael Veith, of Germany finished second in 1974. Rene Herbold, of Switzerland, led in 1974, and Philippe Schindler, of Switzerland, fourth in 1974.

Others finishing in the top 10 were Walter Tresselt of Switzerland, 1:58.60.

Foyt posts 500 victory

ONTARIO, Calif. (UPI)—Colt Colman A. J. Foyt, starting from the pole here for the second year in a row, was the first man in history to win all three jewels in the U.S. Auto Club's "Triple Crown" Sunday when he ran away with the rain-battered California 500.

Foyt finished 43.1 seconds ahead of defending Cit 500 champion Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N.M. They were the only two men on the same lap at the finish.

Foyt, who turned 40 on Jan. 16, scored his fifth win in 26 USAC Cup races and triumphed for the sixth time in a championship car.

Foyt, who led from the 88th lap on the 200-lap event around Ontario's 2.5-mile oval, averaged 154.94 miles an hour, covering the 500 miles in three hours, 14 minutes, 22.26 seconds.

Steve Krisloff of Parsippany, N.J., finished three laps down while Lee Kunzman of Guttenberg, Iowa, was fourth five laps down.

Foyt's other 500-mile win came at Pocono in 1972 and at Indianapolis in 1961, 1964 and 1967. He owned the car which—before Texan Jim McElreath drove to victory in the first Cal 500 in 1970.

Foyt's No. 14 reddish-orange-1974 Coyote Foyt led 189 of the 200 laps, with each lap he led amounting to $100.

Foyt had seven pit stops and four of them came under a yellow flag.

John Martin of Long Beach, Calif., finished fifth seven laps down just ahead of Tom Sieva of Spokane, Wash., who was on the same lap. Twelve laps down in seventh spot was Al Squappia of Easton, Pa.

Foyt of Houston, had tried to psych the rest of the field after winning the pole at 1:05.49 in a 100 and capturing one of the twin 100-mile qualifying races at Ontario last weekend.

Laver captures net title

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—Rod Laver, the Australian, held Sunday at the Australian Open tennis tournament, to give the Aussies their fourth consecutive Aetna World Cup Tennis Tournament win at the Hartford Civic Center.

Ashe has beaten "Rocket" Rod only once in his entire career, with a win in last year's World Cup tourney.

Ashe joined Dick Stockton for a ball duelles match against Ken Rosewall and John Alexander, the final match of the tournament, which was decided by Laver's victory.

Laver dominated from the start, breaking Ashe's first set and capturing an easy first set victory. Laver's consistent ground strokes inflicted a series of foot faults in both sets.

A 13th-year Ashe seemed to come alive only once in the second set with the second-4-3 in Laver's favor. The Virginian got his serve in gear and allowed Laver only one point

The two winners will play at 11 p.m. Tuesday for the title and right to represent the region in the national playoffs in Hutchinson, Kans., next week.

Classic decided

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI)—Stardust Mel and Jockey Bill Shoemaker survived an injury Sunday to capture the 38th running of the $170,000 Santa Anita Handicap, the blue ribbon event of winter racing.

Shoemaker's mount, the heavy favorite, collided with Out of the East just before the wire leading to the steward's inquiry into the running of the race. But after a delay of more than five minutes the steward ruled the winner was not at fault, giving Shoemaker his 107th victory in a race worth $100,000 or more.

It was the 6,800th career win for the 43-year-old rider and his 699th stakes triumph. The win clinched Shoemaker's biggest day of the meeting as his fourth victory on the program.

A distant third was Okavango with Confederate Yankee fourth and Tallanta fifth in her quest to become the first mare to capture the rich race.

Rifle tourney titles claimed

The sub-junior winners were sharpshooter, Rick Gutknecht, Twin Falls, 359; first class marksman, Sherman Schorzman, Idaho Falls, 363; marksman, R. L. Wood, Meridian, 366; and pro marksman, Andy Williams, Meridian, 350.

Trevino wins 18th

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—Jolly Lee Trevino shot a 71 Sunday to win high-18th pro golf trophy by one stroke in the $200,000 Citrus Open in a back nine playoff with defending U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino.

The Merry Mexican, accustomed to collecting prestigious titles, finished at 12 under par 276, a stroke better than Jack Nicklaus, who started closing the gap as the sun started sinking at Rio Pinar Country Club.

Trevino shared the lead with Irwin after 36 holes but moved into sole possession of first place after the third round when Irwin, his teammate on last year's World Cup team, dropped two strokes off the pace.

Irwin posted a 68 on the last day to finish at 277.

Young Ben Crenshaw, the former wonder-boy of golf who has been in a year-long slump, was within reach of the leaders down to the last two holes but wound up with a 71 that left him two strokes behind Trevino.

Crenshaw who had two birdies and a bogey, said, "The way Lee hits the ball you have to make birdies to catch him. He plays airtight golf."

Wearing a special-made red shirt which he wears only on Sundays when I think I'm going to win, Trevino served notice he expects to be a contender next week on the Dorval's "Blue Monster" course in Miami.

"This gives me a tremendous amount of confidence," he said, "and when I win I'll always be expected to be a contender. And besides I like that course."

With a bogey on his first hole and a two on the third, the 40-year winner of the British Open said, "I was kind of scrambling on the front nine. Then with a lone birdie on the last nine, he said, "my round wasn't too exciting."

Irwin had two birdies and a bogey on the front nine, then moved the back half with three birdies, the last at 17.

"You give a player such as Lee a lot of room and he can dance in it," said the 38-year-old resident of St. Louis. "My game was barely hanging on, I hit a few good shots coming in to salvage a good round." Trevino, who picked up $40,000 with the trophy, said he quit working out in December but started jogging and hitting practice balls each night this week.

"I hate it but it looks like that's what I'm going to have to do to play well," he said.

Asked if he was going to do any running Sunday night, Trevino said, "As far as the nearest bar."

WORRIES

Just three years ago, the pollsters asked an enormous sampling of college students what worried them most. In descending order, they listed: 1. Environmental pollution. 2. Wars in Southeast Asia. 3. Population explosion. 4. Nuclear weapons. 5. Feeding the poor. 6. Their own futures. 7. Racial equality. 8. Law enforcement. 9. Quality of education. 10. Street crime. Neither recession nor inflation nor energy shortage even ranked as a matter of concern to those surveyed scholars so short a time ago.

Honor students switch to crime

BOSTON. (UPI) — Susan Saxe and Katherine Power, honor students who switched from college to crime, have been on the FBI's Most Wanted List longer than any other woman.

That wasn't the future expected for them, while they were attending academically prestigious Brandeis University in Waltham.

Now accused of killing a Boston policeman during a drive-by shooting, they were dodged murder warrants and authorities by blending into a counterculture lifestyle.

According to persons who have followed the two in their travels, they have false identities and confide only in each other.

Interest in the case picked up recently following reports the girls spent part of the time since the crime in Connecticut and Kentucky.

An FBI spokesman declined to discuss the status of the investigation. Privately, officials say they are more optimistic than they've been in a long time that the hunt may be nearing a conclusion.

Miss Saxe and Miss Power are among the last of four young women to make the FBI's list during 1970 when violence among college radicals gave authorities a new problem—finding wanted criminals who blended into the youth culture that sprouted on the nation's campuses.

Angie Davis, a self-proclaimed Communist, made the list for her alleged complicity in a Marin County, Calif., courtroom shooting that resulted in Judge Harold J. Daley's death. She evaded the FBI for two months. After capture she was found innocent in trial.

Bernadine Rae Dohrn, a leader of the militant Weathermen faction of the Students For a Democratic Society, was dropped from the FBI's most-wanted list after three years last December when government charges against her in a Michigan bombing case were dismissed. She is still wanted on interstate flight and firearms violations.

A spokesman for the FBI in Boston denies that infiltrating the counter-culture has been the problem in tracing Miss Saxe and Miss Power, both onetime award winners for scholastics and community service. He declined to explain why he declined to explain why they are alleged to have helped rob a Brighton bank and killed officer Walter Schroeder on Sept. 21, 1970. They also are sought in connection with other holdups. Three men also charged with the Brighton crime have been convicted and sent to prison.

Miss Saxe, of Albany, N.Y., and Miss Power, of Denver, Colo., are reported to be living openly as lesbians, working at odd jobs for short periods before moving on again.

They are alleged to have helped rob a Brighton bank and killed officer Walter Schroeder on Sept. 21, 1970. They also are sought in connection with other holdups. Three men also charged with the Brighton crime have been convicted and sent to prison.

Space suits for sale

DOVER, Del. (UPI) — As if there wasn't enough evidence already that the world changes rapidly, a Delaware corporation has added to it by planning to sell surplus space suits, exactly like those worn on the moon.

The ILC Corporation, which has manufactured space suits for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration since 1957, plans to sell off its excess supply of space suits on March 15.

ILC officials said cutbacks in space expenditures have reduced demand for the suits, which are being stored at company expense.

Dog gets pacemaker

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Bonnie the cocker spaniel came home Saturday with a two-year lease on life, maybe longer.

doctors who implanted a pacemaker into Bonnie said she should be able to lead a normal life for the next 24 months or longer.

Barring complications.
