Rebates lose; new tax cuts eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate committee today formally rejected efforts to increase tax rebates for upper middle income taxpayers but approved billions of dollars in new 1975 cuts including a tax rate reduction which will mean $40 per year to most persons.

Moving toward approval of a tax cut bill of $30 billion or more, the Senate Finance Committee also voted to extend a program to forgive up to $2,000 in tax cuts for those who purchase new, used or mobile homes this year.

Instead of beginning April 1, the program would be retroactive to Thursday, the day the amendment was approved.

The committee defeated 8-3 an amendment by Sen. William Roth, R-Del., to increase House passed rebates of 1974 taxes from a maximum $200 to a maximum $500 which would then be reduced as income when above $40,000. Most of this extra break would have gone to those making more than $20,000.

The same 10-vote majority means the committee will accept the House rebate provision of 10 per cent of 1974 taxes up to a maximum of $200 and a minimum of either $100 or the total tax paid if that was less than $100. The committee did approve a slight reduction in 1975 tax rates. An amendment Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., would reduce by one percentage point the tax rate for the first four income categories — up to $14,000 in taxable income.

By reducing the tax base, this would mean that everyone making more than $14,000 in taxable income — income after exemptions and deductions are taken — would get an extra $40 per year.

Senators today voted unanimously Thursday to delay their March 21-Easter recess if necessary to send the bill to President Ford, and thus to speed 1974 tax rebates to all taxpayers in May and early June.

The committee voted to increase the investment tax credit for business above the level voted by the House. The House would increase this investment incentive from 7 per cent — 4 per cent for utilities — to 10 per cent, but the Senate committee voted to allow companies to choose a 12 per cent rate with one important string attached.

If the company chooses the 12 per cent credit, it would have to place the proceeds from one of the extra two percentage points into an employee stock ownership plan. This amendment was pushed hard by Finance Committee chairman Russell Long, D-La.

Tel Aviv tags new Cairo proposals 'insufficient'

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger presented "concrete" new Egyptian proposals for peace today, but the Israeli reaction was that they were "insufficient and unsatisfactory" in bringing about an Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai Desert passes and Abu Hudeib oil fields.

Kissinger, now in Jerusalem, expecting that Israel would have to consider an official decision on whether to withdraw from the oil fields and the strategic passes that are a cornerstone of Israel's Sinai defenses.

House gets 'go home' bills

BOISE (UPI) — So-called "go home" bills to spend surplus money on property tax relief and prepayment of the endowment fund debt were introduced in the House today.

Members of the Ways and Means Committee introduced a proposal to spend $6 million at the end of the surplus to lower the eight-mile county school levy on property tax bills this year.

Viets quit posts

SAIGON (UPI) — Government troops abandoned a string of outposts only 40 miles from Saigon, imperiling one provincial capital, and battled North Vietnamese forces in control of another, government spokesmen said.

The Saigon command described the seven days of Communist attacks, including two warplanes shot down Thursday, as the heaviest and bloodiest fighting since the 1972 spring offensive.

A spokesman of the Viet Cong mission in Saigon claimed Ban Me Thuot provincial capital had been taken by Communist forces who captured thousands of rifles, including many officers and a big amount of war materiel of the enemy.

US planes brave heavy rebel fire

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — American aircraft flew through rebel rocket barrages today to resume an emergency aid flight halted by the shelling of an airport ammunition dump and government troops fought to halt similar attacks.

US business cuts stocks

By United Press International
American businesses, imposing heavy production cutbacks because of the recession, unloaded unsold goods in January at the highest rate since 1961, the Commerce Department said today.

The sharp reduction in inventories was the first since 1970 and indicates that businesses are bringing their stocks in line with dwindling sales. The reduction of inventories is a necessary first step to ending the economic slump.

Ford still hopeful

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford may win Congressional approval for emergency military aid to Cambodia despite recent severe setbacks on Capitol Hill, administration sources said today.

Westmoreland's opinion in Viet war unchanged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The years of retirement have not changed Gen. William C. Westmoreland's strategies for fighting in Vietnam.

Westmoreland, commander of U.S. troops during the 1965 and 1966 Viet Army chief of staff, emerged from a meeting with President Ford Thursday and told reporters, "the esprit in this whole thing is Hanoi," that the North Vietnamese were responsible for heavy fighting in both Cambodia and South Vietnam.

This statement could be compared with one Westmoreland made in April, 1967, to President Lyndon B. Johnson. "I am frankly dismayed at even the thought of stopping the bombing of Hanoi," a June, 1967, analysis by CIA Director Richard Helms said that bombing would reduce the flow of men and supplies enough to decrease Hanoi's determination to persist in the war.

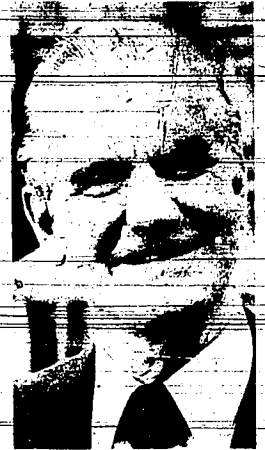

Westmoreland was asked Thursday about congressional opposition to Ford's emergency requests for $300 million in aid to South Vietnam and $222 million for Cambodia.

"It seems to be punishing our friends while rewarding our enemies," he said. Congress should little inclination to change its mind. The Senate Democratic caucus voted 38-14 Thursday against sending any aid to embattled Phnom Penh. The House Democratic caucus voted 189-49 Wednesday against any aid to either Cambodia or South Vietnam. These resolutions do not have the force of law but can be regarded as a barometer of sentiment in the majority party.

The House did pass, 212-201, a $3.5 billion foreign aid appropriation bill, including $1 billion for the Middle East. It was 41 per cent less than the $5.9 billion the administration requested. $2.5 billion for military aid and other Cambodia or South Vietnam, but $40 million in "reconstruction assistance" for South Vietnam.

A compromise proposal to provide Cambodia with $135.6 million in military aid was defeated, 18-15, in the House Foreign Affairs Committee. The White House described Ford as "deeply disappointed" in the House vote.

Assistant Secretary of State Robert Ingersoll told the committee there was a "reasonable chance" but no guarantee that the Lon Nol government in Cambodia could survive the assault of the Communist-led Khmer Rouge until the rains cease local fighting.

WILLIAM WESTMORELAND
... no change in strategy

"We've now simply to abandon our friend who will as to continue defending itself, but whose ability to do so depends on us," he asked. "He drew an excited response from Rep. Pierre S. Dufont, R-Del., an author of the compromise proposal.

"Mr. Secretary," Dufont said, "you don't seem to come to grips with the problem. I don't know if you don't see the problem or have been instructed not to see it."

Dean traded his integrity

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Former White House lawyer John Dean told a University of Utah audience Thursday that he traded his integrity for ambition.

Dean, speaking to an audience of 1,000, also said former President Nixon must face the entire blame for the scandal called Watergate.

"Nixon's former chief counsel and the White House atmosphere which created Watergate," would not have happened if Richard Nixon had wanted it otherwise, because I can assure you of one thing: Things that he didn't want to happen don't happen.

Spring-like skiing now

TWIN FALLS—Spring skiing is rpegied in most areas of the Sawtooth National Forest this weekend.

The U.S. Forest Service recreation report shows some new snowfall during the past week but most areas have packed runs and spring-like conditions.

Magpie Mountain, now open Saturday and Sunday, has 60 inches of snow at the top of the runs and 50 inches at the lodge. The road is closed to uphill traffic from 3 to 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Pomerelle has 66 inches of snow at the lodge with 5 inches of new snow during the week. The annual Spring Fling will be held Saturday and Sunday at Pomerelle.

Skiers are invited to wear costumes and prizes will be given. Blatarn has 20 inches of snow and has discontinued night skiing. The lift operates Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Soldier Mountain has 60 inches at the top of the slopes and 40 inches at the lodge. About 2 inches of new snow fell Tuesday.

Sun Valley has 45 inches at the top of Bald Mountain, 43 at the roundhouse and 27 on the valley floor. About 4 inches of new snow has fallen since last weekend. The Harriman World Cup race will continue through Sunday at the resort.

Snowmobiling is listed good in most areas as is cross-country skiing but softening conditions do occur in the late afternoon.

Snowmobilers and cross-country skiers are urged to continue to exercise care in traveling in canyons or on steep hillside because of avalanche dangers from wet snow.

Other snow depths reported by the forest service include Stanley, 20 inches; Cape Horn, 30 inches; Sawtooth City, 36 inches; 41-43 in Selkirk; and 21-23 in Stanley. Snowmobile program is planned by the Stanley Snowmobile Club for Saturday. Races, fun events and cross-country rides will be featured.

Agency keeps activist list

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Secret Service maintains files not only on persons who have threatened the President, but also on political activists who might disrupt his public appearances.

A high-level Secret Service official testified Thursday the agency maintains files on 47,000 persons, including 200 "hard core" individuals who are sometimes used in surveillance because they pose a security threat to the President's safety.

David Macdonald, assistant treasury secretary for enforcement, told a House subcommittee the names on the Secret Service list have been substantially reduced from 500,000 at the time John Kennedy was assassinated.

Quick Ford decision due on panel's data demand

Washington (UPI)—President Ford will decide quickly whether to give the Senate intelligence committee a copy of CIA Director William E. Colby's report on domestic spying, but will take longer in responding to requests for the CIA's "secret charter" and other documents, White House sources have indicated.

The sources indicated Thursday Ford already may have decided whether to turn over the daily report, but they refused to say that they thought his decision was.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Senate panel, sent Ford a two-page letter expressing appreciation for Ford's past co-operation and an "altruistic effort" to give the committee the information requested by the committee.

A copy of the communication was obtained by the Chicago Sun-Times. It shows the Church committee seeking the Colby report, the "secret charter," this data on the structure, functions, organization and past slitting of highest-level intelligence policy groups, including the CIA Committee and the Washington Special Action Group.

One of the four groups of items asked for was "all executive order, National Security Decision Memoranda, NSDMs, or intelligence directives, NSNs, NSs and of the White House directives pertaining to the charter, structure or guidelines for any overt or covert foreign or domestic intelligence agencies up to this point.

The NSDs issued by and to both presidents over the years since the CIA's founding in 1949 are believed to make up the so-called "secret charter" that expands the agency's original public charter into semi-official forbidden areas.

For example, the internal charter of the National Security Act of 1947 provides that the agency "shall have no police, subpoena or law enforcement powers or internal security functions."

Church went on to say that the committee is gratified at the full and complete co-operation that we have received from the executive agencies up to this point.

"In every respect thus far, the agencies have been fully cooperative with the committee and the staff, and I believe this augurs well for a constructive and expeditious conclusion to our inquiry."

Church said that he had discussed with Ford that the committee's "first requirements are to determine the legal basis for the activities of the intelligence agencies of the United States."

He said he was therefore submitting a request for documents, submitted on an attachment sent to the White House with his letter.

Kimberly signers oppose proposal for annexation

KIMBERLY — About 20 Kimberly citizens, representing a reported 70 petition signers told the City Council this week they see no reason to turn their city "into a haven for low income people in the county."

The petitioners protest the proposed annexation of a subdivision owned by Maxine Larson where a low-cost housing development is planned by Willis Construction Co., Twin Falls.

Kent Taylor, Twin Falls attorney representing the residents opposing the annexation, said "We are not just against this particular annexation. We are trying to set up a policy as to what the community wants."

"We question," he said, "if the town should be in a hurry to open up good farm land for development of federally subsidized low income housing when indications are that private financing may become more available."

Taylor said the owner of the land, adjacent to the mobile home park on Irene Street, has asked for the annexation, but "We take the position there should be a need demonstrated and no request has been received by the council for any such housing."

Tennessee students arrested

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Police couldn't determine who stole a bus driver's purse. So they arrested 35 high school students.

The disturbance occurred when the regular bus on the way to McGavock High School broke down on the morning run. A new bus driven by Mrs. Jewel Curtis, was sent for.

A mechanic, James McCluskey, who came in a wrecker to remove the stalled bus, said the students streamed onto the new vehicle.

He said someone grabbed the driver's purse, removed a few dollars, returned the purse and threatened both the driver and McCluskey if they interfered.

Two police cars were sent to settle the disturbance, but still a new bus driven by too many students to control.

Police ordered the bus and all of the students aboard to be taken to Juvenile court where they were searched and charged with disorderly conduct.

A spokeswoman for the juvenile court said that the students were held in custody until claimed by their parents. She said the matter had been turned over to a judge, but no date had been set for a hearing.

Prison charges probed

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil Andrus said Thursday investigation by the Board of Corrections found little basis for the allegations of mistreatment that inmates of the Idaho State Prison made against the board.

"I see no justification for the attempted removal of either Director of Corrections, Don Erickson or the Board of Corrections and will not," Andrus said.

In a letter to the governor, inmates asked the removal of the board and Erickson for malfeasance. They complained of shortages of clothing and that security guards had taken personal property such as watches and rings from the inmates during shakedowns.

Andrus said in the case of such allegations "where there's smoke, there's fire" but in this particular instance the governor said there was "only a small amount of friction" to the complaints.

At the news conference after meeting with the governor, Erickson and Rice said they could find no evidence in support of the allegations, that jewelry had been taken from the prisoners.

They presented a lengthy letter to the governor refuting every charge made by the inmates.

Rice said "you must keep in mind that they are not all Eagle Scouts out there" but added that "morale is good out there." He said the trouble came from a "minority group of trouble-makers."

The governor said he was still concerned about security at the prison. Rice and Erickson showed the governor a picture of a contraband taker from the inmates during the past month that included knives and illegal drugs.

Bigger deficit looming

Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON - A Congress vote for the spending initiatives now making their way through committees...
Lynn specifically singled out a $3.9 billion bill proposed by House Appropriations Chairman George Maflon, D-Tex.

economic advisers keep a constant watch on the economy to see if a greater stimulus might be needed.
Unless someone in the Congress takes a good look at deficits, Lynn said, there's going to be a lot of votes.

Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns has been reported to feel the budget deficit for fiscal 1976 can reach the $100 billion mark.
Lisagor expressed hope that while Congress was considering budget-making measures, it might also agree to make cuts advocated by the President in order to maintain some kind of balance.

Speeding tax cuts

It has been seven months since President Ford took office and the economy took a turn for the better...
That must not be allowed to happen. Many soldiers are proud of the need for urgent action and we hope their confidence is well placed.

Thought for the day

Franklin D. Roosevelt, 32nd American president, said: "Confidence thrives only on honesty, on honor, on the sacredness of obligations, on faithful protection and on unselfish performance. Without them it cannot live."

Time arrives to allow South to rejoin Union

WASHINGTON - The Voting Rights Act of 1965, unless it is further extended by Congress, will expire on Aug. 6.

registrants have joined the political process in the South. In seven states that were made federal hostages under the law, the gap between white and black registration has been reduced from 41 percentage points to 11 percentage points in Georgia and South Carolina.

Granted, much remains to be done before that millennium day when the last vestige of racial discrimination will have been removed from our human relationships. But speaking as one Southerner, I find these developments immensely heartening; I want to see them continue but not under the ailing, stultifying, unwholesome provisions now contained in section 5 of the act.

Virginia. To the embarrassment of the bill's sponsors, they later discovered they had inadvertently scooped up Alaska, 40 counties in North Carolina, two counties in California, nine counties in Arizona, three boroughs in New York City, and 37 towns in New England.

It is time, I submit, to let the stigmatized Southern states rejoin the Union.

Excess plea bargaining

The legal practice of plea bargaining is coming under scrutiny and is being charged with circumventing justice in many cases.
Emphasis on the practice, in which a defendant agrees to plead guilty to a lesser offense than that with which he has been charged, came to the forefront of public attention when former Vice President Spiro Tefas pleaded guilty to a lesser charge rather than go to trial in Maryland on the charge of having sold the flu vaccine, or accepted bribes.

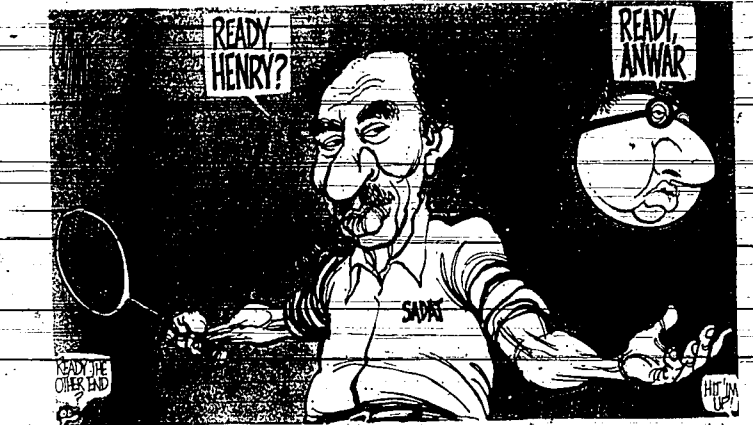

Reforms in Congress threaten energy stalemate

WASHINGTON - Rising expectations of an agency compromise, says a House and Senate committee, may be doomed by the fact reflecting the current state of reform on Capitol Hill.
Rep. Al Ullman of Oregon cannot guarantee anything in negotiations with President Ford.

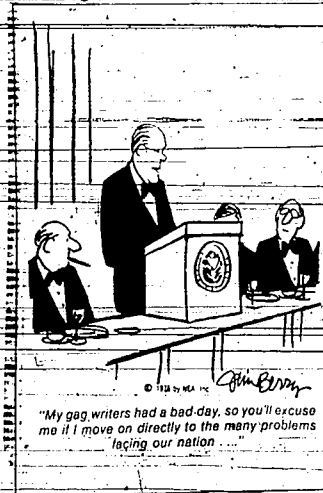

oil tax reform in the Democratic caucus and in the House floor. That opposed the impolicy not only of Chairman Ullman but of the nominal Democratic leadership, Speaker Carl Albert and Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill.

Democratic leadership, Speaker Carl Albert and Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill.
For the future, the oil depletion vote emboldens rank-and-file Democrats to rise up against committee decisions whenever politically expedient, particularly complicating decisions on energy matters.

On abortion, we've got a tiger by the tail

WASHINGTON - West Germany just introduced a law that would allow a woman to abort until the 12th week of pregnancy.
The Supreme Court, failed to address itself to a vital aspect of the question. It did not rule on the right of any, of an aborted but still alive fetus to available medical resources which presumably could save its life. The right to life, therefore, is still an issue.

I expect this issue will be raised in the courts. It is not an enviable task for the judges involved, for the simple reason that even the so-called experts are not agreed on when a fetus, or foetus, becomes a viable human being.

essence is moral, or religious, I should not like to be appointed a judge in his case. There is too much danger of playing God - or, if one is an atheist - a dictator in mult.
For when the courts get around to it, the question will boil down to whether an unwanted child should be saved. Yes, say the right-to-life people, otherwise the mother and the doctor performing the abortion are committing murder. No, say the pro-abortion people, a woman should have the inalienable right to control her own body, including the right to refuse to give or a majority of them, must reach agreement, which also is saying the criteria may be impossible to achieve.

TF jail visiting policy questioned

Editor, Times-News:
 What right does Sheriff Paul Corder have to refuse me my rights to see my daughter, Linda Crawford, in the county jail? He must think he's God himself.
 —LOUISE DIEMERT
 "The PS: You probably won't print this, but the sheriff told me today: (March 11-13) couldn't see my daughter until the trial of Delbert Crawford was over. And he wouldn't give me any reason why. Just that he runs the jail."
 "Editor's note: Sheriff Paul Corder said as a security measure no visitors have been permitted the Crawford during the current murder trial of Del Crawford at the request of the county prosecutor. He said Mrs. Diemert has visited her daughter on many occasions prior to the start of the trial and has been permitted telephone calls. He said after the March 11 conviction again contacted the prosecutor and feels it is permissible for the mother to visit during regular visitation day Saturday."

Deputy's efforts to help-praised

Editor, Times-News:
 I would like to tell you about a man that I consider has done a fine job. This is the man's name is Mack Smith. He is the deputy sheriff guarding the road up Rock Creek.
 He deserves a good word of thanks as he did a fine job of checking into people's welfare and safety and seeing that their tires and chains were adequate to get them up the steep grade to the ski and snowmobile area.
 I use the area a great deal in the winter time and can remember many, many times before Mack was on the job when I would spend as much as three to four hours trying to get there by helping to untangle the mess of stalled and inadequately equipped automobiles and pickups. This certainly would spoil the day for me and many more people, I'm sure.
 Many people would just abandon their vehicle in the middle of the road when it became stalled in the deep snow and catch a ride to the ski area with someone else. Many times there would be no possible way around them.
 I believe the proper officials should start now to consider placing Mack on Rock Creek Road next winter. No doubt the winter sports use up Rock Creek will increase next year and each subsequent year.
 I feel it is a pleasure to enjoy the winter sports area up Rock Creek, having a deputy stationed there can't be over emphasized.

Common Cause aim in Idaho queried

Editor, Times-News:
 Common Cause, the so-called "people's lobby" which claims to represent the "common man" against the "special interests," spends $2 million a year on slick mail-order recruiting that allows it to claim 250,000 members.
 As a Common Cause executive told Mary Nichols of the "Village Voice": "We just want people who will follow the party line."
 The membership is strictly for show as Common Cause is a political front for the Rockefeller and their Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) establishment who put up the money to back this operation run by a member of the board of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund. It is he who sets the "party line."
 Documents on file with the Senate clerk reveal that the Chase Manhattan Bank and Nelson, David, and Nelson, Arthur Rockefeller joined Amory Houghton Jr. of the Rockefeller Foundation in providing the seed money.
 As head of Common Cause, John W. Gardner pretends to be a "people's lobby" to represent the common folk against the "special interests."
 He says nothing about his private income from the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, on whose board he sits, nor does he mention his membership in the elitist CFR, chaired by that great commoner David Rockefeller, whose family and super-rich friends have twice financed Gardner's phony "people's lobbies" to serve their own interests.
 Common Cause in Idaho will be working to further the liberal goals of the Rockefeller and the super-rich. Their programs of deficit spending and foreign giveaways have nearly ruined this great Republic. It is time we demanded less government, more individual responsibility and we will have a better world in which to live.

$77 million sought to bolster Amtrak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Railroads at that time allowed Amtrak President Paul Reistrup says his national passenger train system must have an additional $77 million from Congress to face "serious cash position" early next month.
 Federal Railroad Administrator Asaph Hall, testifying at a House Transportation subcommittee meeting Tuesday, said failure to grant the funds could result in a cutback or stoppage of Amtrak passenger service in April.
 United Press International erroneously identified both men as Amtrak officials in its story Tuesday, making it appear Amtrak was predicting cuts in its service.
 Amtrak officials said today the corporation is in a "no-loss" disposition. In fact, it is a "disruption" in long-haul rail routes or in routes mandated by Congress that have not yet been put into operation. They said Amtrak faced a similar financial bind two years ago but rail operations were not affected.

Airline's illegal fund pinch hurts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Braniff International airline built a huge fund totaling almost $1 million to use for unreported spending, including illegal political contributions, the Civil Aeronautics Board said Thursday.
 The CAB's Bureau of Enforcement, which conducted a year-long investigation, went so far as to recommend that the CAB consider removing Braniff's license to operate as an airline, either throughout its entire system or, as a lesser penalty, throughout Latin America.
 William M. Glingery, who was director of the bureau during the investigation, committed suicide Feb. 17 and left a note complaining of lack of action against at least eight airlines for potentially illegal campaign activities.
 The Bureau of Enforcement also accused American Airlines of compiling an unreported fund totaling $225,000 between 1969 and 1973, and of paying $105,975 from it, "directly or indirectly for political contributions between January, 1971, and March, 1973."
 The bureau took a less stern attitude toward the American Airlines' action than it did toward Braniff's, asking the CAB only to halt American and its officers from violating CAB regulations and engaging in deceptive financial reporting practices.
 It said American gave $55,000 in March 1972, to Richard M. Nixon's campaign finance committee, reimburse the airline officer's $30,000 gift to the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, and paid another officer $10,000 between December, 1972, and February, 1973, for an apparent reimbursement of that man's 16-month leave of absence without pay in the fall of 1972 when he worked for the Democrats for Nixon organization in Texas.
 The Bureau of Enforcement said Braniff had accumulated its fund by selling at least 2,626 tickets without reporting their sale. It said the revenues totaled at least $61,285 and perhaps as much as $92,935.

Frozen coelacanth makes unique meal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Dr. John McCosker was treated by Indian Ocean island natives to a fish meal he had not expected. He thought this particular fish vanished from earth 70 million years ago.
 The director of Scripps Institution of Oceanography said natives of Comoro Island offered him and fellow members of his expedition part of a frozen coelacanth.
 "The coelacanth is a 'living fossil' dating back at least 300 million years — older than the age of dinosaurs."
 "We thawed it out, cooked it and ate it," said McCosker. "It was absolutely delicious."
 McCosker returned from Comoro with 12 watertight boxes of fish Tuesday. He opened one to show his colleagues six small creatures.
 "They look like little Volkswagen buses swimming through the water," he said. "We finally caught some by diving down 200 feet at night."
 The director's only disappointment, said McCosker, was the failure to capture a live coelacanth. The bass-like fish was thought to be extinct until a Comoro fisherman hauled one into his dugout canoe in 1938. Since then, biologists have caught 42 of the creatures.
 McCosker did return home with two frozen coelacanth caught by the natives in 1972. He said marine biologists would study the tissue and organs of the 40 and 80-pound specimens in the hope of learning how they survived the ages.

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — In the 1960s when the Black Panthers emerged, they were a group of militant black bent on revolution.
 But Eldridge Cleaver, Huey Newton and Bobby Seale — all leaders in the once-militant figure of the Black Panthers — have moved on. One lives in exile in Paris, and the whereabouts of the other two are not known.
 Today, the dominant public figure of the Black Panthers is a winsome 32-year-old former schoolteacher, Elaine Brown.
 She has the Black Panthers giving free breakfasts to children and free transportation to the elderly.
 The Panthers have come a long way since they burst into prominence in 1967 by walking into the California legislative chamber carrying rifles.
 Newton and Seale, founders of the party, maintained a following by preaching politics "at the end of a gun." But in recent years they switched from bullets to ballots.
 The party's early history was an endless tale of police raids on Panther quarters culminating in shootouts. Several murders occurred which police blamed on intraparty strife.
 In 1971 the party publicly split in a dispute between Newton and Cleaver, author of "Soul on Ice." Cleaver advocated revolution by violence, and Newton called him counterrevolutionary. Newton emerged "victorious" in the dispute because Cleaver fled to Algeria, jumping bail on a parole violation.
 Cleaver, 39, who lives in exile today in Paris, indicated in a magazine interview last week he too has moderated his views. He said he finds some issues "more complicated than we thought."
 With Cleaver gone, the entire party was directed in Oakland by Newton and Seale; each out of jail after beating numerous legal charges. Newton exercised influence from a plush penthouse apartment, and Seale mounted an unsuccessful campaign in 1973 for mayor of Oakland.
 Last August, Newton and Seale both vanished, leaving a dispute between Newton, 43, laced with three new charges of assault with intent to commit murder, jumped a $42,000 bail and has not been seen since.

 Neither, has Seale. The Panthers say he is in Southern California recuperating from an illness and deny the two men had a personality clash in which Seale, 38, was physically beaten.
 Mrs. Brown, who ran for office with Seale in 1973, currently is running for a seat on the Oakland City Council. She campaigns with the air of a gracious suburban housewife, and has endorsements from several Democratic clubs and AFL-CIO groups.
 In Oakland, minorities hold a slight majority, and Mrs. Brown has attracted broad support by concentrating on concerns with jobs, education, housing and minority representation. Her party had, she furnished free breakfasts for children, free transportation for the elderly and office services.
 Oakland is seen by the Panthers as a model situation in which they can gain political power within the system — and that is why the Panthers are being trained in how to do it.
 The Panthers without membership figures but say chapters are active in a couple of dozen cities, although not in the Los Angeles area where Seale is believed to be hiding out. The Panther newspaper lists its circulation at 40,000.
 Lately titles such as Newton's "minister of defense" have disappeared and decisions are said to be made by collective leadership. "The central body," however, since August, Mrs. Brown has been the sole public leader.
 David — Du — Bois — party spokesman says the switch from guns to ballots is a return "to our original vision as a vanguard organization in the interest of black and other oppressed people."
 "But ultimately, to achieve power for the people, I think an open confrontation with the armed forces of the power structure will be required," he says.
 "What happens then depends on the power structure."

Auto sales down

DETROIT (UPI) — Early March new car sales fell to a 14-year low, but the ending of the $200 to $200 cash rebates didn't have the devastating effect the automakers feared.

Sales of 129,616 cars were 3.1 per cent below last year's energy crisis-depressed level thanks to a strong General Motors performance with a 23 per cent gain. It was GM's best year-to-year comparison since September of 1973 when the industry's worst power sales slump began.

But even the comparison with the Feb. 21-26 period — the last in which all four U.S. companies were offering rebates — wasn't as bad as expected. Sales in the March 1-10 period were off 30 per cent from the Feb. 21-26 period, the same drop experienced in the last five years.

"That's no greater than usual, and I think we have to be very pleased that it isn't any deeper," one industry analyst said.

GM, with sales of 76,855 cars, was up 21 per cent from last year but down 30 per cent from the final February period. Ford sold 31,567 cars, off 35 per cent from last year and a 52 per cent drop from last month, and Chrysler sales of 21,450 cars were up nearly 1 per cent over last year but down 30 per cent from February.

American Motors showed a 22 per cent drop from last year and a 37 per cent decline from February with sales of 7,294 cars.

GM, AMC and Chrysler also announced new production plans that will idle another 17,250 workers in the next two weeks.

GM said it will idle 4,000 workers in one week starting beginning Monday at its Lordstown, Ohio, and Toledo, Me., assembly plants. The move leaves more than 57,000 of its employees out-of-work despite the recall of 300 workers at the Baltimore, Md., assembly plant, which resumes second shift operations on its truck line for the first time since Jan. 14.

At AMC, there will be an temporary layoffs next week although idle workers will be put on an open-ended layoff the following week.

Odds favor Ford in '76

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder, the Las Vegas oddsmaker, says the odds are heavy that President Ford will win reelection to the White House in 1976.

"You got to figure it this way: In a presidential election, it's not party against party, it's a man against a man — that's how people vote," Snyder said at a speaking appearance before the National Association of Accountants Thursday.

He did not quote any specific odds on Ford's chances in 1976.

Jay Weiner testimony

JAY Weiner, right, 20, from Philadelphia, is flanked by his lawyer, Thomas Mennaker, as he testified before the grand jury in connection with the Patriots Hearst case. The man is "the truth," because "somebody else snitched." (UPI)

Patty's prints turn up in Pennsylvania house

SOUTH CAROLINA (UPI) — Pugnacious Patricia Hearst and several members of the Symbionese Liberation Army apparently hid for several months last fall in a rural, northeastern Pennsylvania farmstead in a search for "the truth," it is stated in the affidavit submitted to the grand jury in connection with the Patriots Hearst case. The man is "the truth," because "somebody else snitched." (UPI)

The panel, however, failed to haul down an indictment Thursday and was discharged pending further developments.

U.S. Attorney John Cottone of the Middle District of Pennsylvania said federal attorneys did not recommend any indictments in the case.

"A lot more investigation must be done by the FBI," he said.

One grand jury witness surrounded by investigators fields a washing machine by resting on one side of the structure, and a broken swing set is at the back. Curtains hang on the windows inside.

The man "snitched" is identified as the "mailman" in front, but the house reportedly is owned by Timothy O'Sullivan, a New York City fireman.

The San Francisco Examiner cited by Randolph Hearst, Patricia's father, said Mrs. Hearst's fingerprints were found in a farmhouse in northeastern Pennsylvania along with those of fellow fugitives William gay, Family "Harry" and Japanese-American artist Wendy Misako Yoshimura.

The FBI told me a couple of weeks ago they had reason to believe she had been a farm in Pennsylvania," Hearst said Thursday in San Francisco. "It is a cold trail. It was last summer or late summer. I don't know, quite a while ago."

He also quoted the agents as saying "they don't know where she is now."

The report of Miss Hearst's presence touched off a grand jury investigation of charges she was harbored illegally in Pennsylvania last year.

Change aids home-buyers

©New York Times Service WASHINGTON — The Senate Finance Committee added a new provision to the anti-inflation tax cut bill Thursday that would have the effect of cutting as much as $2,000 off the purchase prices of houses bought between April 1 and the end of this year.

The provision, aimed at stimulating the extremely depressed housing industry, would apply to any purchase of a house or apartment that was the "principal residence" of the buyer.

The committee approved the tax-cut and still larger reductions would be added on the Senate floor.

The most far-reaching of the other decisions voted Thursday is one that would change the basic provision of the present tax law with respect to the $750 personal exemption that is given for every individual covered by a tax return. The committee adopted a proposal by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., that would permit taxpayers the option of using either the $750 exemption, which is a deduction from taxable income, or a $200 credit, which is a deduction from the actual amount of tax that is owed.

The cash saving for home-buyers under the committee's proposal, would amount to 5 per cent of the price of the house up to a maximum of $2,000.

The money would be returned to home purchaser in effect, through the use of a tax credit on 1975 tax returns. A credit reduces the amount of tax that is owed by the government.

The total tax reduction involved in Friday's bill was $2.3 billion. House's decisions by the Senate Finance Committee would add between $3 billion and $4 billion to that figure, virtually all of which would be accounted for by the proposed new tax credit for homebuyers.

The committee's chairman, Russell B. Long, D-La., said after the meeting, however, that he thought the total tax reduction in the bill would reach about $1 billion before

Oil profits listed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The major U.S. oil companies will reap a minimum of $6.4 billion in profits this year — mostly from price increases — even if the price of oil depletion allowances, say these figures refute arguments that eliminating the tax break will reduce incentives to increase production.

The study containing the figures, it said, that cut — of the estimated $6.4 billion in oil company profits, $4 billion was attributed to price rises while $2.4 billion was the result of tax breaks, resulting from the oil depletion allowance.

House panel reconsiders libel bill after quick early approval

BOISE (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee voted a libel bill to the floor with a favorable recommendation Thursday and then, after reconsideration, approved its action.

At first, with the chairman absent and three members also absent, the committee voted 4-1 to send the bill to the floor with a "do pass" recommendation.

At that time, some members indicated they did not want to conduct a hearing on the bill.

Later in the meeting the committee agreed to hear William Moon, executive secretary of the Idaho Newspaper Association, on the bill. After he spoke and after discussion they voted 4-3 to reconsider their action and to consider amendments to the present law at their next meeting.

Under present law a newspaper — if it publishes a retraction within a specified time frame — can be subject only to actual damages. Those provisions for retraction would be wiped from the law books by the Senate-approved bill and the person libeled could sue for punitive as well as actual damages if a retraction were made.

Moon said people running newspapers and people can make mistakes. He said newsmen can err just as judges and doctors can. He said the legal fees could break the owner in many cases.

Rep. Patricia L. McDermott, D-Pocatello, suggested the possibility of shortening the time period in which the newspaper must make the retraction. Moon said he would have no objection.

Miss McDermott, who said she had had untrue things printed about her, said she opposed the bill because "the real people who get hurt by this are the little papers."

"Libel insurance is pretty expensive and a little paper just can't afford it," she said.

Rep. Ron Twillegar, D-Boise, said one feature of the present law requires a retraction to be published in the same place in the publication where the libel occurred — that if a person is libeled on the front page the retraction must be made there.

But Rep. T.W. Silvers, R-Twin Falls, said perhaps a person will be making several times in a story on page one but that the actual libel will be on a paragraph on an inside page. He said the newspapers tend to publish the retraction in cases such as that on the inside page.

"I have some problems trying to defend the news media," Silvers said. "There are lots of small papers published by persons with considerable expertise." He said.

Silvers said some "te papers are bought and run by persons who have worked on large publications in the big cities — especially the East."

"They use that paper as a podium to expound on all types of ideas," Silvers said.

"Doctors can be sued for malpractice," Silvers added. "I don't think we should put the newspaper in the position of being less responsible than someone else."

Road $ beaten by GOP

BOISE (UPI) — Senate Republicans successfully shot down Thursday an administration bill which would have taken $42 million out of the surplus for highway improvements.

The vote was 16-19 with two Republicans — Sens. Dane Watkins and Marsden Williams, both Idaho Falls — joining with Democrats in opposing the bill.

The bill, which was acted upon under suspension of the rules after being voted out of the Senate Transportation Committee, had already been passed by the house.

Prior to voting on the $42 million bill, the Senate had approved a bill which would appropriate $15 million to counties and $1 million to cities for highway work. It was passed without debate and now goes to the house.

In leading off the debate for the $42 million, Sen. Charles Blythe, D-Pocatello, pointed out that the highway bill was "deteriorating twice as fast as we are repairing them."

However, Sen. Walter Yarrington, R-Grain View, said it was just a stop-gap measure. Both he and Sen. Reed Budke, R-Soda Springs, chairman of the Senate Transportation Committee, argued that the legislature should work on a long-term solution to highway funds and not be throwing plus funds into the program or one-shot basis.

Democrats argued that it was a chance to catch up and also fund projects which would not be taken care of through federal matching funds.

Joint unit malpractice plans OK'd

BOISE (UPI) — Without debate, the Senate Conference and Labor Committee voted Thursday to send to the floor a "do pass" recommendation a joint underwriting association to provide malpractice insurance.

It also voted to send to state affairs committee for the production with a "do pass" recommendation a concurrent resolution establishing an interim committee to study the malpractice problem.

The problem arose when Argonne Insurance Company, which provides malpractice insurance for 500 of the 800 Idaho physicians, announced it would discontinue its coverage June 1.

The Senate also has before it another malpractice bill which would limit the liability to $100,000. It is in the committee of the whole for amendment to boost the limit to $150,000.

House OK's report cut

BOISE (UPI) — The House approved 62-1 and sent to the Senate Thursday legislation to eliminate the requirement that a motorist and others involved in accidents make a written report of them.

Investigating officers, still must file reports and under this bill the department of law enforcement still would require a driver to file a supplemental report. Sponsors of the bill said they felt the present report requirements by motorists and others were duplicated reports and unnecessary.

Proof asked

BOISE (UPI) — Without argument the House approved 61-0 Thursday a bill to provide that any applicant for a driver's or chauffeur's license may be requested to submit proof of age.

Floor sponsor Wendell Miller, D-Idaho Falls, said some youngsters "look" much more mature than they are.

House Demos balk at speedup effort

BOISE (UPI) — House Democrats balked at suspending rules to act on more legislation Thursday, arguing that time must be given to consideration of measures like land-use planning.

Speaker Alan P. Larsen, R-Blackfoot, said he had intended to try to suspend rules on some of the second reading calendar after the House finished its regulate debate calendar in hopes of moving legislation along at a faster pace.

But he gave up, he said, when Minority Leader Patricia L. McDermott, D-Pocatello, balked at the idea.

To suspend rules it takes 57 affirmative votes and the Republicans have only 45 members of the house.

Miss McDermott continued she refused to suspend rules. She said she felt the legislature was moving along too quickly with major legislation such as land-use planning still locked in committees.

After the house adjourned for the day the resources committee took up the first of the three Senate-approved proposals with Robert Wise of the State Division of Budget, Policy Planning and Coordination explaining them.

Presbyterians list services

TWIN FALLS — There will be a 9:30 service of worship Sunday morning in the Fireside Lounge of the First Presbyterian Church in Twin Falls.

This service will be followed by a fellowship coffee hour.

At 10:30 a.m. there will be a "divine service" in the youth room of the church. Guitar music will be provided by Chris Van Nest.

At the 11 o'clock service of worship in the sanctuary, Rev. D. Robert Van Nest will deliver a Lenten sermon entitled "Shape Up."

The youth choir, under the direction of Mrs. Charles Ahrholz will sing "What Color is God's Skin?" by Wilkes and Stevens. The chancel choir will sing the anthem "God So Loved the World" by John Stahler. The chancel choir is directed by Mrs. Russell Bohler.

Mrs. Jeanne Determann Knutson will be the guest soloist. Her number is entitled "I Was the Tree" by O'Hara.

Child care is provided for all three services. Church school is held at 9:30 a.m. and 11 o'clock in the Christian education section of the building.

Friends and members of the Maple Valley Presbyterian Churches are invited to attend the dedication services of the new Presbyterian Church in Ketchum on Sunday evening at 7 p.m. It is located on the Warm Springs Road.

A reception will be held following the ceremony at the Holiday Inn in Ketchum.

A third Lenten dinner will be held Thursday evening in the church dining room of the Twin Falls church. This will be a spaghetti dinner, sponsored and served by the board of deacons. The guests will be from the Deacons Crisis Unit.

The guest speaker for the evening will be Rev. Ray Thompson, pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Twin Falls. The dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. and cost will be $2.25 per person, $1 for children age 12 and under, or $10 maximum cost for families.

Child care will be provided.

Boise man speaks in TF

TWIN FALLS — At Wednesday's final Lenten fellowship supper at First Baptist Church at 7 p.m. the speaker will be the Rev. Carl D. Locke, Boise.

Locke is area director for Montana and Idaho of the American Baptist Churches' "Fund of Renewal."

A graduate of Redlands, Calif. University and American Baptist Seminary of the West, Berkeley, Locke worked in Christian centers among miners and low income groups in inner cities.

Before his present position, he was national director of Christian centers for American Baptist Churches; with headquarters at Valley Forge, Pa.

Sunday morning at 9:30 and 11, Rev. James B. Hughes will deliver the Lenten sermons on evangelistic Christian beliefs as he speaks on "I Believe in the Christian Social Ethic."

Cheese-making demonstrated

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Elbert Durfee gave a demonstration on cheese making at the all-day workshop of the Retail Society held Tuesday at the LDS Church.

She made the cheese step-by-step until it was ready for the processor pressing.

Members worked on a quilt for the society. Mrs. Ivan Burdington demonstrated embroidery work on the wheat stitch and the long and short stitch making roses.

Mrs. Jack Erickson, second counselor in the presidency, conducted the meeting.

"Chronic Disease," from the general topic "Homemaking, Family Health" was the subject of the lesson discussed with the class leader, Mrs. Kent Durfee, leading the discussion.

Lunch was prepared and served by Mrs. William Tracy with Mrs. Thera Ward assisting in the preparation.

Prayers were given by Mrs. Wallace Taylor and Mrs. Tracy.

Next month the relations lesson "Community and Compassion" will be presented.

Lutheran women hear minister

TWIN FALLS — Rev. R. J. Schulz, Bull, presided on the topic to cover Lutheran Women's Missionary League members at the March meeting on Tuesday.

Rev. Schulz, who is district counselor, spoke on "Praising God through all circumstances."

Mrs. David Lutz, vice president, welcomed guests; Mrs. Richard Nestrom and Mrs. Tom Garrison. The group voted to have a clothing drive in April.

The special occasion committee reported serving lunches following the job at the Bull and Leroy Schragger funerals last month. They will serve at a home site this month and at the Lutz-Denton wedding reception in April.

The world relief committee reported having three more quilts ready to be sent to the National Lutheran Mission, Canada-Area.

An invitation was read inviting the members to a LAMU "Learn and Share" seminar May 6-7 at the Ramona Inn, Burley. Mrs. Wayne Jacobs presented the closing service.

Mrs. James Horton and Mrs. Verdon Hansen were hostesses. Members at large were Mrs. Roy Carpenter and Mrs. Leo Gehring.

Student conducts revival

KIMBERLY — Rusty Mitchell, a ministerial student from Wayland Baptist College, Plover, Wis., will be conducting a youth revival at the First Baptist Church, Kimberly, Saturday through Wednesday.

At 7 p.m. Sunday, members of the church will be invited to attend the revival in the chapel.

Revival services will be held at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Sunday and at 7:30 p.m. Monday and Wednesday on Tuesday night.

Mitchell will preach at the monthly associational meeting of the Maple Valley Southern Baptist Association at the First Baptist Church, Burley.

Special music will be provided at each service. Although it is a youth revival, it is hoped all ages are invited to attend.

Baptists plan history course

TWIN FALLS — The Rock Creek Baptist Church is beginning a course in Baptist history Sunday at 10 a.m. at the Third Avenue Baptist Church in Twin Falls.

The course will meet each Sunday evening and will include information on Baptist culture and traditions.

Regular church services include Sunday school at 9 a.m. and morning worship at 11 a.m.

According to officials of the church, Baptists are not protestant and they say this will be documented in the course. The public is invited.

Officers elected at Shoshone

SHOSHONE — New officers have been elected for the St. Peter's Catholic Church at Shoshone. Mrs. Louise Jones was elected president. Mrs. Grace Hagan, secretary, and Mrs. Josephine Leamon, treasurer.

The society meets once each month on the first Monday evening, unless otherwise designated.

The annual Basque Dance will be held on March 21 at the Jerome Elks Lodge.

Critics attack Vatican

By KENNETH A. BRIGGS
New York Times Service

Less than two months after Pope Paul VI — formally declared 1975 a "Holy Year" whose theme is reconciliation, the Vatican has again attacked one of the church's most powerful critics in a manner not likely to encourage dialogue between the hierarchy and some of the non-Catholicism's more non-conformist elements.

Essentially repeating previous charges, the Sacred Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith reprimanded the Swiss theologian and priest, Rev. Dr. Hans Küng for views considered contrary to Catholic doctrine. Through his persistent criticism of some of Father King's ideas, particularly those that deny papal infallibility, the congregation's declaration, stopped short of punitive action, except to admonish him not to teach his perspectives.

A statement made simultaneously by the Congregation of German Bishops added to the ambivalence. It explicitly refrained from asking Father King to retract, and further expressed continued examination of basic theological issues such as he has explored.

Man charged in aides' murder may be insane

ASTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A jury deciding the sanity of a man charged with murdering two Mormon missionaries and grinding their bodies to bits will hear reports Tuesday.

District Judge Tom Blackwell has scheduled a jury trial to begin Monday to decide if Robert Elmer Kleasen is competent to stand trial for the slayings of Gary Smith Darley, 26, and Valery, 19, and Mark J. Fisher, 19, Milwaukee, Wis.

Bob Gibbins, Kleasen's attorney, said Wednesday District Attorney Robert O. Smith brought him one of the two court-appointed psychiatrists believes the 42-year-old sometime carpenter is incompetent.

The second psychiatrist's report to the district attorney and defense lawyers indicate he feels Kleasen is incompetent now and was incompetent at the times of the missionaries' murders.

Darley and Fisher were last seen going to Kleasen's trailer home for dinner Oct. 20.

Authorities testified at the inquest they found human tissue and hair that matched samples provided by the missionaries' families on saw at a taxidermist shop near Kleasen's trailer.

Mormons may fight to save tabernacle

BOUNTIFUL, Utah (UPI) — A group of Mormon Church members aren't going to let the Bountiful Tabernacle — the oldest LDS structure still in use in Utah — fall without a fight.

Calling the tabernacle doomed for "destruction" by local church officials — "part of the national wealth" state architectural historian Allen Roberts said LDS leaders should have maintained their original plans for additional facilities around the historic chapel.

About a year ago plans were formulated for completing the 1953 chapel with more spacious facilities around it.

But last Sunday the 468 stake priesthood holders voted almost unanimously to raise the structure, which is listed on the National Register of Historic Sites.

The Mormon leadership said there was a greater spiritual need for a new stake center. They said it would be impossible to remodel the existing structure to meet the people's needs.

A church spokesman also said the five-foot elevation of the chapel would require more steps, which could result in unnecessary accidents.

Church officials said the new stake center would cost about $900,000, as much as making additions in the tabernacle architectural style.

But Cornerstone, a church group which had also fought the raising of the Coalville Tabernacle "is the most historic building we've got."

Professor conducts sessions

TWIN FALLS — Dr. Lawrence Baxter, a professor of Northwest Christian College, will be lecturing on family life sessions at First Christian Church March 21st through 24th.

It will benefit everyone who attends, in that it will help them to achieve a higher level of Christian maturity, says Ray E. Jones, number.

Dr. Baxter holds many degrees and has been active in diverse areas of Christian life.

Anyone who wishes to attend is cordially invited. Sessions will be by class for primary through high school.

TWIN FALLS — Friends had Lenten Suppers at holding services of the Fireside United Pentecostal Church at 10th Ave. E. over the weekend. The church has held a two-day meeting there. The churchers from throughout the Idaho, Oregon, and Washington congregations are the church's guests and are invited to attend at 7:30 p.m.

FILED — The First Baptist Church has installed a new department that is a Sunday school.

The Junior and Senior high departments meet at 1:45 a.m. for a 15 minute opening exercise. Mrs. Malt is pianist and Mrs. Bogart is organist.

Teachers include: Della Novak, third grade; Mrs. Elza Johnson, fourth grade; Mrs. Arthur, fourth and sixth grades, and Clusell, Terrell, seventh and eighth grades.

Singers perform for fund

By RICHFIELD — The New Freedom Singers from Rick's College, Rexburg, will appear at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Richfield stakehouse of the LDS Church.

All proceeds from the appearance will go toward the Shoshone LDS Church building fund.

The singers are using the theme "John Hancock Across the USA" and during the 90 minute show, the singers will dance and emote as they present familiar songs of America past and present.

This is a student organized effort. The group has gone coast to coast on national tours during which it has sung for the President of the United States, for the U.S. Senate and for many other responsive audiences in the major centers of America.

The message tells what is right with America.

The 40 singers are selected after extensive auditions from among the 5,000-member student body at Hicks College. Admission to the concert will be by donation, according to Shoshone LDS Church building fund managers.

Easter egg hunt set in TF

TWIN FALLS — The annual Easter egg hunt for children in Twin Falls will be sponsored by the Exchange Club on March 22.

Rick Carroco, club president, said the event is being held a week ahead of Easter this year, because of the Easter vacation in the schools.

Event chairman is Gary Van Komen who will direct the club members in directing youngsters at the city park event.

Carroco said several hundred eggs will be dug by the O'Leary Junior High School home economics classes under the direction of Anna Davis.

There will be a number of golden eggs hidden in the groups and each one turned in to Exchange Club committee members for $1 cash.

The city park will be divided by rope barriers into four sections. These will be reserved for age groups of children 3 and under, 4 and 5, 6 and 7, and 8 and 9.

Parents are asked to bring their children to the park early in order to be directed to their age group areas.

The hunt will start at 10 a.m. with children restricted to the outside of the rope barriers prior to the second of the starting whistle.

Non-stop speakers

DEAR READER: When someone interrupts a conversation, it's perfectly all right for you to interrupt the interrupter with: "Please excuse me, but I can listen to only one person at a time. Would you mind waiting until we have finished?" The interrupter will probably be struck speechless. And wouldn't that be lovely?

DEAR ABBY: I don't know how to say this, but I have a problem that's driving me crazy. I am 22 to female nicely built, so I've been told, and the only thing I don't have is a rear end. The front of me is really nice, but I just don't have any behind at all. My clothes would fit me so much better if I had a little something there. Can you help me?

NEEDS A REAR

DEAR NEEDS: I can't. But write to Frederick's of Hollywood and ask about their foam rubber fannies. They are the living end!

DEAR ABBY: I just discovered that the man I've been going with for 14 months has false teeth!

Marty's teeth looked so lovely and natural, I never suspected they weren't real. He ate everything, and his kisses were the best.

Last week, Marty's physician suspected Marty had proctitis in his nasal cavity so he sent Marty to an ear and nose specialist. I went with him.

The specialist told Marty to take his teeth out, and when I saw him there with his sunken cheeks and puckered lips, I shuddered. He looked so old!

Ten minutes later, with his teeth back in, Marty was his handsome, youthful self again. I still care for him, but I can't bring myself to kiss him.

He thinks I'm losing interest in him, and maybe I am. How can I get over this foolish hangup?

LET DOWN

DEAR LET: The thought of how Marty looked sans, cheers is turning you off. Forget it. (Are you sure you don't have a few false things going for you, too? There aren't many who are 100 per cent natural.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO YOUSIE DUNLAP: You asked if any readers (other than yourself) had ever lived to help a daughter celebrate her 50th wedding anniversary. Yes, hundreds of them. So far, the record is held by a 104-year-old Indian woman who says she helped her 89-year-old daughter celebrate her 73rd wedding anniversary.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

West North, West South

Opening lead — 1♣

Went with the Jack and led a heart to East's ace. East led the Jack of clubs, which permitted East and West to score their ace and king of trumps separately.

Overbidders should remember one basic rule. They must play exceptionally well. If South had, he would have made his contract.

The play isn't that difficult. After running the three clubs, South should have led dummy's last club and discarded his last heart on East's good jack of clubs.

"This play of a loser on a loser would have made it impossible for the defenders to get-in an overruff. In this way South would have lost only two trump tricks instead of three."

South's jump to four spades is a substantial overbid. In most players would have called the raise a bluff. South was one of those players who felt that dame fortune would favor him.

Dame fortune did as a matter of fact lead and heart return would have cooked his goose, but West led the Jack of clubs.

South's play of three clubs to get rid of one club was a good idea. West would lead a trump. West

Advice given for sore throats

DEAR DR. THOSTESON: Two years ago I began singing with a band, about four hours at a time. Last winter I began to notice that my throat would seem a little irritated every time I sang.

There was a three-week period of hoarseness, then a sore throat at other times. I had a check-up by a throat specialist. He said everything was all right. I'm 39, a little late to be starting a career, but I'd sure hate to quit singing now when things are going good. Could the smoke-filled bars have anything to do with this?

Also, I play the accordion. I'm 7 feet 2 inches, and have to hold most of the weight on the left side, at the shoulder and wrist. Will I pay later for this in the form of arthritis? — Miss M. W.

Since your throat specialist found nothing amiss, I suspect yours is more an occupational hazard than a medical problem. Singing puts abnormal pressures on the vocal cords under the best of circumstances, but having to do this while inhaling smoke and dust-laden air worsens your problem, as you have learned.

I trust that you do not smoke. If you do, try to stop — although for you quitting would amount only to cutting down since you would still have your nightclub exposure to contend with.

There are some things you can try when you get home (on) work. Some singers get relief by inhaling steam. Put boiling water into a clean basin. Then put a towel over your head and breathe into the hot vapors through your mouth as long as they last. For more immediate effect, try a hot gargle. Put a quarter teaspoon of salt into a large glass of hot water as hot as you can reasonably stand to gargle.

One other thought. Since you are late in starting your career, it is possible that you are not singing properly. This usually means in singing are directly related to the amount of air breathed past the vocal cords. The louder the sound desired, the more air required.

However, entertainers who have been at it for a long time learn to conserve their breath, taking in as little air as possible for the maximum effect. If you haven't done so, a visit to a good voice instructor could ease your throat problem, perhaps even make you a better singer.

As far as your other occupational hazard is concerned, I doubt if you will develop arthritis from having to carry your accordian. Your body should adjust to this. Let's hope that your career will take you to better-ventilated establishments soon.

DEAR DR. THOSTESON: Please explain the difference in symptoms of an prethral stricture and an urethral infection. What methods are used to treat the stricture? — Mrs. J. O. U.

The urethral infection is, as the name implies, an infection within the urinary duct, which extends from the bladder to the urinary outlet. Several organisms can be the cause, but the one that is quite common is the gonococcal germ. Symptoms are a burning sensation when urinating, or a discharge of pus, sometimes blood.

The stricture is a narrowing of the duct, usually the result of scar tissue left by an infection. A pelvic injury can cause a stricture. Usual treatment is dilation of the constricted area with a metal instrument called a "sound." In severe cases, surgery is required to open the duct.

DEAR DR. THOSTESON: Could using a rather vigorous vibrator on a three and a half-year-old cause back or leg damage? She enjoys it, and it seems to have helped bring on a bowel movement. She is troubled with constipation. — Mrs. E. A. O.

It will not harm her, but I doubt if it has anything to do with her bowel movement. I'd find a more sensible method of arousing her. If she is truly constipated, she should be seen by a doctor, especially at her tender age.

April meet canceled

TWIN FALLS — The regularly scheduled April meeting of the Twin Falls Progressive Foster Parents has been canceled, officers of the organization have announced.

Members are being encouraged to attend a dinner being planned for April 26 instead of the regular meeting. The time and place of the dinner will be announced. Inter-members were told at the last meeting.

A film "The Lostling" was shown and discussed at the last meeting.

Cook food in serving pans when possible. The dishes will be more attractive, will stay warm for a longer period of time, and will save dishes time and labor.

Idaho study may alter water project evaluation

Farm bill lauded

BOISE - A University of Idaho Water Resources Institute study may revolutionize the way water resource development projects are evaluated to determine whether or not they should be built.

Richard Schermerhorn, head of the UJ Agricultural Economics Department in the College of Agriculture, explained the study's objectives here Wednesday in an appearance before the two-day Idaho Water Conference.

Schermerhorn said the study is funded by the federal government. The research and technology is designed to help ways to measure "direct and indirect economic relationships" of potential water resource development projects plus the "social, environmental and physical impacts."

He claimed "a need exists to evaluate the total impacts resulting from water resource development projects."

development projects.

He said that "in the past, prior to construction, public investment in such projects has been determined by using cost-benefit analysis."

The benefits usually considered have been value of hydroelectric power to be generated, savings from flood control, and value of irrigation water, according to Schermerhorn.

Measurements such as these, he said, are not the only considerations to determine if a proposed project should be undertaken, he said.

There are other factors, he pointed out, that considerations should be given to possible direct economic consequences of a project, the potential impact on an area's environment, and the potential impact on the social well-being of people in the affected area.

The UJ study, said Schermerhorn, is designed to measure various additional factors in determining a project's feasibility.

"Our study," he said, "will attempt to identify the historical and contemporary social, economic, environmental, and physical benefits and costs of the project."

"Compare these benefits to those anticipated during the planning stage of a project."

"And clearly identify developments resulting directly from a project as well as those that do not."

Schermerhorn said, "of utmost importance, as far as we are concerned, is that we are designing the study so the results will be useful to water planners to evaluate future projects in terms of ultimate development goals."

He outlined the area involved in the study as the federally financed Irrigated portions of what is known as the Boise project in southwestern Idaho and a small portion of eastern Oregon.

He noted the area is representative of many water investment projects in the Northwest; it has a 64-year history. It is relatively economically isolated from outside influences, and it represents economic, social, environmental, and physical consequences "that are probably the result of water resource developments."

The study, launched in January this year, is scheduled for three years.

Following Schermerhorn on the program were three UJ agricultural faculty members who talked about the particular area of water resource development study each will investigate.

They were Drs. John Carlson, sociologist, who will research social impacts; Roger Long, agricultural economist, to investigate economic impacts; and Harry Caldwell, geographer, to study environmental and physical impacts of water resource development projects.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Idaho Rep. George Hansen said Wednesday the emergency provisions of the 1975 farm bill have kept farms in Idaho in 37 counties from going out of business.

He was informed by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service that disaster payments under the emergency provisions were made to 2,866 Idaho farmers.

The payments were the difference between bankruptcy and barely staying above water, he said. "It was information that without the payments there would have been significant crop losses and considerable overall damage to the Idaho economy."

New beef grades win cowmen's OK

DENVER - The American National Cattlemen's Association gave a strong endorsement to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's announced beef grading changes.

The final changes are in line with those proposed last September and are in line with recommendations made earlier by ANCA, said ANCA President Gordon Van Vleck.

"The grading standards which will become effective on April 14, should increase the production of more desirable and more uniform quality beef from the American consumer. Also, it should be possible to lower the production cost of cattle feeders through shorter feeding periods," noted Van Vleck.

Basically, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's beef grading changes now will require an increase in carcasses marbling, with increases in cattle age up to 30 months.

Under the new program, USDA will grade beef carcasses both for quality and for yield. The percentage of retail cuts in a carcass - Confirmation or shape) has been eliminated as a factor when carcasses are graded for quality.

USDA has narrowed the range of carcasses that should appear to these consumers, who predict a reduction in the amount of internal and external fat.

"These various technical changes mean one thing for American consumers - lower meat while assuring flavor and tenderness."

"These changes are necessary in the face of the feed grain situation. We can now send quality cattle to the market at a younger age, which will fall within the U.S.D.A. Choice and Good grades," said Van Vleck.

"The new standards will help the industry maintain production of quality beef in the face of more generally limited supplies of feed grains in the years ahead. The public will benefit, and at the same time, cattlemen will be rewarded for producing a superior animal," he concluded.

GLENN UTLEY, NFO director

Minico speaker named

RUPERT - The annual Minidoka County NFO sausage supper will feature a speech by Glenn Utley, NFO national director from Ft. Branch, Ind.

The supper is scheduled for 6 p.m. Saturday at St. Nicholas Parish Hall.

German sausage and homemade pies will be served.

Utley, 39, has farmed in Indiana for many years. He is the National Farmers Organization in 1956. He has worked for NFO as a national staff organizer and at one time was the assistant national organizational director.

For the past 11 years, they have been the national director from Indiana.

Utley was born in Princeton, Ind., and was educated in the Francisco Schools. He served three years in the U.S. Army.

Utley is noted as a dynamic speaker and is exceptionally well informed on the agricultural situation, according to the supper organizers.

Tickets for the supper are available from any NFO member and at the door.

The annual event is under the direction of Judy Reno and Helen Miller, both Minidoka County.

Agency seeking opinion on management programs

OGDEN (UPI) - The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is seeking public opinion on a series of alternate goals for use and management of the nation's forest and range lands.

The present goals are described in a recently released document entitled "Alternative Goals for Six Resource Systems." It is available for review at all Forest Service headquarters offices in the Intermountain Region.

The alternate goal proposals will be used as a starting point in building a long-term, multi-resource program for all Forest Service activities, said Regional Forester Vern Hamre.

He said the preparation of the resource program is required by the Forest and Rangeland - Renewable Resources Act of 1974.

Hamre said the public is not being asked to select alternatives at this time. An opportunity will be provided during a review of the draft program document later this year.

Hamre said now the services are interested in views on whether the goals represent a realistic range of possible national objectives.

He said they are not tied to specific geographical locations, but will be of particular interest to residents of the Intermountain Area.

The apply to six management systems - outdoor recreation and wilderness, wildlife habitat, range forage, timber, land and water, and human and community development, he said.

Comments on the alternative goals should be sent to Chief Forest Service, Room 3217 U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, by April 7.

Computer billing planned by BLM

BOISE - Ranchers who charge their livestock on Bureau of Land Management range this spring will be billed by computer for the first time.

William L. Matthews, BLM Idaho State Director, said today that the Bureau is changing to an automated billing system for livestock grazing.

According to Matthews, the new system will eliminate some of the paperwork involved and make it easier for the livestock operators to apply for their use.

Livestock operators are normally billed 30 days in advance of the date they turn their cattle out onto the public range. However, the first billing under this new system may be a couple of weeks late, affecting only those operators who move their livestock in April. The rest of the billings will be sent out as in the past.

Other states affected during the 1975 grazing season will be Arizona, California, Nevada, New Mexico, and Utah. The remaining public land states will change to the new system for the 1976 grazing season.

Cow's diet cuts only butterfat

MOSCOW - Consumers need have no cause for concern that the amount of protein in milk might be lowered if dairymen reduce protein content of rations fed to milk cows, says Richard Ross, University of Idaho district extension dairy specialist.

According to Ross, the cow's diet does not affect the content of lactose, milk sugar, calcium, phosphorus, sodium and other materials in milk.

The amount of butterfat is the only component affected by diet. He explains that when large amounts of grain and little hay, pasture or silage is fed, butterfat content is reduced.

The cow's response to receiving less protein in the ration is to give less milk. The milk produced continues to be the same high quality with respect to protein content, Ross says to consumers.

Record US citrus crop outlook still improving

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Prospects for the record 1974-75 orange crop improved 2 per cent during February, the Agriculture Department said today.

The department's crop reporting board estimated the crop on the basis of March 1 conditions at 237.3 million boxes, up 3.7 million boxes from Feb. 1 and 10 per cent above last year's harvest.

Prospects improved from Feb. 1 in Florida and California, but declined slightly in Texas. As of March 1 the harvest was about 43 per cent complete, the report said.

The big crop has pushed growers' prices for oranges below year-ago levels in mid-February, growers were getting $1.34 a box compared to $1.72 a year earlier.

Despite that decline, government economists said consumers are paying more for both fresh oranges and frozen concentrated orange juice than a year earlier because of increased processing charges, a spokesman said.

The crop report said the production of all 1974-75 citrus fruit committed was estimated as of March 1 at a record 14.4 million tons. This was up 2 per cent from the February forecast and 8 percent above last season.

The grapefruit crop was estimated at 23.6 million boxes, up 30.000 boxes from February but 3 per cent or 6.1

Spring showers may hit Idaho

Twin Falls, northside, Burley-Rupert area: Fair through Saturday.

Highs today mostly in the 40s and in the 50s Saturday. Lows tonight in the 20s.

The outlook for Sunday: Increasing cloudiness with a chance of rain late Sunday.

Holley, Camas Prairie, lower Wood River Valley: Fair through Saturday. Lows tonight zero to 10 above. The high Saturday in the mid-40s.

The outlook for Sunday: a chance of snow late in the day.

Synopsis: After a weak threat of precipitation early Thursday a previous of spring returned to the Gem State Thursday afternoon. Today Idaho is caught between a split flow aloft which means clouds and precipitation will remain to the north-and also to the south of the state.

A replay of Friday's weather is expected Saturday, however, the storm track is expected to shift Saturday night or Sunday allowing a Pacific storm to penetrate the state late Sunday and Monday, producing cloudy skies and rain.

Some showers may linger through Tuesday.

Little change in temperature is expected with highs in the 40s and 50s and lows in the 20s and 30s.

Illegal military supply trade booming

BEK CHAN, Cambodia — In a war where dwindling supplies are reaching a crucial point and where additional U.S. military aid is vital to propping up the army, the illegal trade in military supplies is still a booming business.

The soldiers here are eager to accommodate anyone willing to pay for the military supplies, whether their comrades need them or not. In most cases, the supplies being sold are needed ones.

Shirts, pants, socks, canteens, even M-16 rifles and ammunition can be bought without any trouble. It's like walking into an Army-Navy surplus outlet. All the goods, of course, are U.S. military issue, paid for by the $614 million in U.S. aid that flowed into the country last year.

A correspondent walks into the post and begins trying on boots, a flak jacket, M-16 jacket, a helmet, and a M-16 rifle. A captured field kit from a Communist Khmer Rouge officer. It's a bargain at $1.50.

The brand-new helmet is only $2.50.

But to get these types of supplies you need not venture out of Phnom Penh. They're all available at the central market. There a Chinese woman will take your order and send a half dozen kids scurrying off in as many directions to come up with the items.

A sampling of the selection and the price is as follows:

A collapsible canteen, $2.50; a standard canteen, 80 cents; an army fatigue shirt, $1; a helmet, $2.50; four pairs of army socks, $2.50; an M-16 rifle, $50 for one in fair condition and $75 for one in good condition; a .45 caliber automatic pistol, $90; a flak jacket, $10; fatigue pants, $2.50; a military cap, $2.25; a pair of combat boots, $6; an all-purpose map case, $1.50.

One gets the feeling that almost anything military is available for the right price, whether it is a Chinese-made AK-47 automatic rifle or a Jeep.

But the disheartening fact is that these goods are available to the enemy as well.

The prices have doubled in the last year, the lady says, in an apocalyptic tone. The Khmer Rouge have been sending their agents into the city to buy the supplies, and this has driven prices higher, she explains.

The sale of food and war materials to the enemy is nothing new in this sometimes battling war, where corruption has been generally accepted and practiced at all levels by civilian and military officials.

There are cases where army trucks carrying 105 mm. Howitzer shells, have simply disappeared, presumed to have gone to the enemy who have captured the Howitzers from the government.

Even barges carrying a simple commodity, cement, sail have vanished.

In the early stages of the war, corrupt unit commanders were pocketing the salaries of missing and dead soldiers. At one point, there were 100,000 non-existent phantom soldiers, whose salaries were being pocketed by the commanders at the rate of more than $2 million a month.

The black market goods being sold by the Chinese were newly issued goods that were never distributed to the troops. There are some officers who deal in uniforms, ammunition and still others in gasoline and ammunition.

Lately, it has been black market gasoline that has kept Phnom Penh's civilian population moving. On nearly every corner a child squats behind a long-necked water bottle filled with deep violet gasoline. Its violet color indicates it is military fuel to be used for the APCs (armored personnel carriers) that transport troops to the front.

The gasoline sells for about $1.60 a gallon, more than double the government-fixed price.

And there seems to be plenty of it for the gas-hungry Cambodians. There is no indication that traffic has subsided in the capital, despite the fact that petroleum is now being "airlifted" into Phnom Penh.

At this point the traffic in military supplies and commodities is so widespread that U.S. embassy officials can only hope to catch a small number of the abuses. Last year, for example, the U.S. embassy through an "audit" found $310,000 of military aviation fuel missing. The Cambodian government had to pay back the U.S. $200,000.

While the Americans have tried to tighten audit controls, the Cambodians have tried, it seems to be in a tug when it comes to accounting and distribution of aid, which naturally makes corruption easier.

"We never question the price of anything, we never question the price of anything, we never question the price of anything," the sign for delvers. "A Cambodian official said.

Corruption is still one of the main reasons why the U.S. embassy chafes millions of dollars in refugee aid, to the private voluntary agencies such as Care, Catholic Relief Services, World Vision and the International Red Cross.

Corruption is also the reason why 200 tons of rice is currently being distributed by the voluntary agencies under a grant when the rice goes directly to the agencies for distribution to the refugees, by-passing the government and the other market channels.

The black market in weapons is thriving at a time when U.S. arms officials here are complaining that the Cambodian army is in need of ammunition and other supplies. They admit at the same time, there are stockpiles of war materials, noting, however, they could be used up rapidly should the war intensify.

There has been enough M-16 rifles brought into Cambodia since the war began to outfit every soldier on both sides, said a U.S. military official.

Women want to be chiefs

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — A short order cook and a bus driver are trying to become the "first" female police chiefs in Oklahoma history.

Cook Janie Trueblood, 32, is in a race against three men for police chief of Hartshorne, population 2,121. Driver Marilyn Sue Heimer, 24, faces four males in a race at Waggoner, population 350.

The elections are scheduled for Tuesday in the eastern Oklahoma towns.

Miss Heimer is a 6-foot, 150-pound brunette who demonstrates her physical qualifications for police chief by holding heavy concrete blocks at arm's length in one hand.

"I've always wanted to get into law enforcement work and this looks like it's just what I'm looking for," she said. "I've done a man's job just about all my life anyway."

Mrs. Trueblood, a mother of three, says her problem is convincing people she's serious.

"I didn't seem to be a hot election before I filed, but I opened a lot of eyes around here," she said. "People are stopping to think about the candidates now."

Mrs. Trueblood joined fellow Democrats Arlene Freeman and Bob Riley in an effort to unseat incumbent Hartshorne Chief James H. O'Kelly.

"Everybody's been real nice and nobody's told me I'm crazy," she said.

Matchless debate precedes smoking ban passage

Feathers n'all

BOISE (UPI) — After a matchless debate that spanned the lunch hour, the House approved 33-27 Thursday a Senate bill to ban smoking at certain public meetings.

The measure, which carries a limit of $5 to $10 per year for the governor for his consideration.

Rep. T.W. Stevens, R-Twin Falls, a reformer, carried the proposal to passage, kiding the smokers while pointing out the health hazards of smoking.

He called the measure "anti-smoking" but rather regulatory legislation and it to traffic taxes and ordinances which prohibit going through a red light.

"In our regulated society, we must change regulations from time to time for the convenience, safety and health of that society," Stevens said.

While he said he would not challenge the right of another person to smoke if he wished he said non-smokers also have rights.

"People want the right to breathe fresh air," he said.

Rep. John Reardon, R-Idaho, an acknowledged smoker, said he felt these routine public meetings could accomplish the same goal simply by asking those attending not to smoke.

"I certainly would honor any gathering that put a sign up, 'No smoking,' Reardon said. "I question whether we have to have a punitive law to enforce this."

Rep. C.W. Nelson, R-Boise, asked, "Smokers how long it will be before there is a law people cannot laugh at in meetings if the bill is enacted. Smokers declined to respond."

Then Rep. Perry-Swisher, D-Pocatello, said the bill reminded his roommate of a tendency to make all his roommates a teahoy. He suggested smokers start showing courtesy to non-smokers rather than ban smoking.

Rep. Jack Kneppick, R-Boise, an opponent of such legislation in the past, said he was allergic to smoke and did not discover it until he became a lawmaker. He urged others to think of those around them.

Smokers closed the debate by saying, "I don't care how much anyone smokes — I just don't want to smoke it for them."

CASTELLON, Spain (UPI) — Three thousand chickens were raised live Thursday when the truck hauling them burst into flames on a highway near here, the news agency Citra said.

Ulster pub attack kills 2, hurts 14

BELFAST (UPI) — A man and a woman were killed and at least 14 persons were hurt Thursday in a bomb-and-pistol attack on a Roman Catholic-owned pub.

Police blamed the attack on Protestant extremists trying to provoke the IRA into breaking the cease-fire they began Feb. 10.

Although Conway's was protected by a 20-foot high fence and a closed circuit television camera trained on the front door, manager John Boyle said he had no warning of the attack.

"They just opened the front door and sprayed the bar with gunfire. I think six or seven shots, I think," he said. "The bomb went off as soon as the shooting ended."

Nine months ago, two men were killed at Conway's when they tried to defuse a bomb that was tossed through the door.

Briefing set

BOISE (UPI) — An hour-long taped interview with Sen. James McClure discusses the Middle East situation will be aired in Boise Sunday at 11 p.m. on KAIT-TV, Channel 4.

The interview is a re-broadcast of the North Idaho College Forum, interview of McClure discussing the issues of war, peace, energy, the world and — domestic economics, and prospects for new trade abroad.

McClure recently made a trip to the Middle East to talk with Israel's Prime Minister Itzhak Rabin, President Sadat of Egypt, King Faisal in Saudi Arabia and with Kuwait and government leaders in Kувait, Algeria and Iran.

At a gallop

BOISE (UPI) — Nobody horsed around with the Appaloosa bill when it came before the House for final consideration Thursday.

After Rep. Jayman G. Winchester, R-Kuna, gave the body a brief history of the Appaloosa's Idaho origin and its use by the Nez Percé Indians the House voted 60-1 to make it the state horse.

Winchester said he wanted to make the Idaho native the state horse because Appaloosas will pull the Idaho biennial wagon train from old Fort Boise to Twin Falls next year.

The bill goes now to the Senate.

N. Idaho posse accuses officer

COVING DALENE, Idaho (UPI) — A group known as the Christian Posse Comitatius, whose say-aids is pledged to help protect the life, liberty and property of citizens, struck out trying to "arrest" a sheriff for being part of a "criminal conspiracy" and "conspiracy."

The posse has been accused by some North Idaho law enforcement officers of being nothing more than a vigilante group, and one sheriff called its members "right wing political activists."

The posse tried Wednesday to make a citizen's arrest of Post Falls, Idaho, Detective Roger Davis, but was thwarted in its attempt by Kootenai County Sheriff's deputies and Coving Dalene Police and Idaho State Police.

David, 55, arrested Leonard Brabham, 51, Abbot, Idaho, Jan. 27, for assault with a deadly weapon, alleging Brabham pointed a .45-caliber revolver at him.

Prior to and after a preliminary hearing Wednesday, Brabham, in Kootenai County District Court, about 50 persons, some members of the posse, tried to arrest Davis.

The leader of the Kootenai County Posse Comitatius, Howard Butler, said the citizen's arrest attempt was based on charges in a lawsuit brought by Brabham that the policeman "was part of a 'criminal conspiracy,' and used unlawful search and seizure methods in arresting him."

Butler said Brabham was not a member of the posse, but its members "were called for help."

Broadened recall measure wins OK

BOISE (UPI) — The House State Affairs Committee sent to the floor with a favorable recommendation Thursday a bill to broaden the recall law and extend it to the district court clerk.

The bill shortens from 90 to 60 days the time in which petitioners can gather signatures, requires the recall election to be held within 30 and 45 days after the petition is perfected and requires a vote equal to or more than that cast for the officer in the last general election to recall him from office.

The measure also stipulates that the petitioners "not be returned to petitioners if they are found to contain an insufficient signatures. If they are found to contain the same reason cannot be used for a second recall movement during the same term of office."

Many of the changes gradually will be made by attempts to recall State Rep. Patricia L. McDermott D-Pocatello, from office the past two years. This session, Miss McDermott is a majority leader.

Sewer plan at Hexburn park passes

BOISE (UPI) — Taking part of the serious pollution problem at the Hexburn State Park, the Senate approved Thursday a $145-million appropriation to complete a sewer and water project at the north Idaho facility.

The vote was 30-5 despite a threat by the Coving Dalene Indian tribe that it may attempt to take over the area because it was not being used for the intent set forth when the land was given to the state for park purposes.

Senate President Pro Tem James E. Hildsworth, Idaho's members had some reservations about appropriating the money because of the title question.

"I'm reluctant to spend money when there is a question of the title of the land," Hildsworth said.

But Sens. C.C. Chase, D-St. Marcus, and Art Manley, D-Coeur d'Alene, said the state had the responsibility to proceed with the project because of the sewage and water problems.

"It would be tragic if we did not proceed with this," Manley said.

Land grant panel passes Gem House

BOISE (UPI) — Despite changes in membership and dependence and integrity of the House, the House approved 33-25 Thursday a resolution establishing a new internal land grant committee.

This committee will be composed of the president and three state house members.

Majority Leader Walter Little, R-New Plymouth, urged approval of the Senate-mandated measure, pointing out the state still must select some 30,000 acres of land to replace lands taken by the federal government to form national forests.

Minority Leader Patricia L. McDermott, D-Pocatello, fought the proposal because the senate has more membership on the committee than the house.

"It's a matter of retaining this body as a representative with the body across the rounds," Miss McDermott said.

Gem Senate kills audit proposal

BOISE (UPI) — Arguing that the authority was lacking in the law, the Senate killed Thursday by a 16-21 vote a House resolution directing the Joint Finance and Appropriations Committee to audit state finances.

Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, co-chairman of the joint committee, and Sen. Art Manley, D-Coeur d'Alene, said it would cause an expansion of staff members and provide for additional expenses.

High said the resolution infracts us to increase our staff.

Both High and Manley said Idaho code presently provides for the audit.

In another action, the Senate approved without debate a memorial to Congress urging that the federal fish and wildlife service be allowed to use toxic materials to control predators. Approval was by voice vote.

Auto check bill passes

BOISE (UPI) — For the second time this session, the Senate has passed and sent to the House a bill dealing with auto check bills of motor vehicles.

It is a vote of 14-11 the Senate Thursday sent a measure to the other body which would provide for spot safety checks. Earlier in the session, it sent to the house a proposal which would have required the safety inspectors to register if they got sidetracked in the House Transportation Committee.

'Clear zone' views vary

TWIN FALLS — Opinions on a special clear zone around the Twin Falls City-County Airport Thursday night ranged from no zoning at all to limits of 40 acres per land parcel.

A public hearing on establishing a clear zone to prevent subdivision and dense housing for safety reasons attracted about 40 persons. The hearing was held before the Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission in the Judicial Building.

Landowners in the vicinity of the airport expressed a wide variety of views. Ed Woods, zoning administrator said. Some agreed the county zoning ordinance which considers five acres or more a farm is a fair size as the limit a landowner can afford from his land for sale.

Several others recommended the limit be as large as 40 acres to continue the genuine use of farming on land around the airport.

Woods said other recommendations included 10 and 20 acre sizes and there was no one proposal which gained more support than another unless it was for no zoning at all.

He said the zoning commission will take comments expressed in the public hearing under advisement and attempt to come up with a proposal for special zoning around the airport.

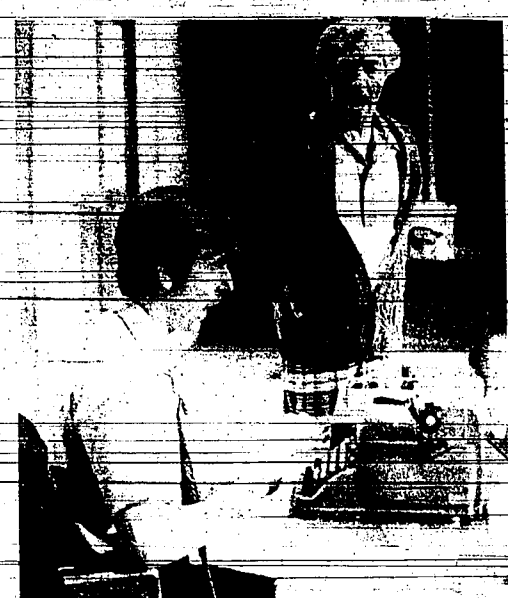

Zoning-board members and airport-commission members feel some action should be taken to prevent homes from developing around the field because of airport noise and traffic which is not a desirable factor in housing and could lead to trouble between the homeowners and airport administration.

In other action the zoning group approved a 25-home subdivision just southwest of Murtaugh. Developer Ken Lee presented the preliminary plat for the project. Members of the Murtaugh city council favor the development. Woods said.

Other items discussed included establishing special areas in the county for mobile home locations and a proposed county road regulator to act as a check on future road expansion.

Both are in a tentative form and proposals are being prepared for public hearings.

Discussions by the Canyon Rim Advisory Committee and by Dr. Wayne Carle, south-central health director, were postponed until later meetings. Dr. Carle said legislation is pending which will affect the regulations on septic tanks and other county sewage disposal facilities.

OPENING night scenes from the DERRITAGE production, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," are caught from backstage. At top, company president J. B. Bigley, played by Art Francis, catches rising executive Finch, Richard Young, working extra on Saturday. At right, budding secretary Hedy LaRue, played by Terry Wood, primp for an entrance to a special party the company gives. The play runs through Monday evening with a Sunday matinee. All performances are at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium.

Channel block trial near end

By BART QUENNEL, Times-News writer

HAWLEY — At least four witnesses in a long trial here testified Thursday Owen Simpson, Ketchum, directed or personally blocked a side channel of Big Wood River.

The testimony involved two civil suits against Simpson which have been consolidated.

The first—a $100,000 damage suit filed in behalf of Tom and John Campion. They contend a west channel of Big Wood River below the Warm Springs bridge, which carried high water during runoff, was filled by Simpson thus directing flood water toward their home.

Campion testified Thursday at least half of his lawn was eroded during high runoff last year because of the channel filling by Simpson.

The other suit was originally filed against Simpson in 1973 by the Idaho attorney general's office under W. Anthony Park.

Park alleged Simpson had dumped trash and fill into the west channel, had never secured permission to fill the channel on state land and had interfered with the public use of Big Wood River.

In addition, the suit contends Big Wood River is navigable and thus title to the bed up to the high-water mark is vested with the state.

Simpson's fill extended about the high-water mark, thus he is trespassing, the suit contends.

Stewart Paynter, who lives across the river from the alleged filling, said Thursday he saw several trucks dump garbage in the west channel. Simpson also dumped lumber, timbers and concrete blocks into the channel, Paynter said.

Don Bennett, another neighbor across the river from Simpson, said on occasion he watched Simpson directing trucks where to dump debris and fill in the channel.

He said Simpson set some of the debris in 1973 and a portion of the debris was washed out during the 1974 flood.

Donald Alma, Boise, who used to own the Campion home, said in 1971 he saw Simpson assembling heavy equipment to block the channel.

Alma said he thought the blockage had caused pressure to the east bank of Big Wood River where his house stood and consequently aided in the erosion of his former property.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs rested their case with the final testimony of Campion who testified to the damage caused by the 1974 runoff and the resulting flow of floodwater onto his property from the dikeing.

Lloyd Walker, Twin Falls attorney for Simpson, moved for dismissal of the case, contending, "there is no evidence indicating Mr. Simpson wasn't just doing something on his own property."

Walker has contended throughout the trial no work was done below the high-water mark. In addition he has argued the northern section of the filled channel has been washed out and consequently is causing no diversion.

Walker's first witness, Kent Shaw, Ketchum city maintenance man, said the upper half of the west side channel appears to be in a state normal.

The northern portion of the fill is washed out, he said, although the southern portion is still there.

Fifth District Judge Douglas Kraemer has denied a motion for dismissal of summary judgments, but has taken a motion to dismiss the case under advisement.

The case should conclude today. Kraemer will probably take the case under advisement before issuing a decision.

Doctor stresses nutrition

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Money, age, lifestyles, religion, state of health and desires all determine the way people eat, according to food technology expert Dr. George V. "It's important for each person to take into account all these factors with the key to good nutrition and health being variety."

York said at the Stanford Day College on Nutrition and Health during the weekend.

York, head of the University of California, Davis, Department of Epidemiology and Preventive Medicine, urged people to record their protein, sugar and starch content on daily basis.

Except for the poor person who usually doesn't get enough to eat, the average American has a "more than adequate" protein intake.

"Forty to 50 grams of protein is sufficient," he said. "Yet we find the average daily intake is more in the area of 70-110 grams."

The fat was too much, he said, and added, "sugars, starch, and the ever present soft drink. The sugar in your coffee and in your breakfast cereal or fruit is all the carbohydrate you need for the day."

He said parents often have trouble getting their children to eat the vegetables he suggested they learn Chinese and Mexican recipes, in which vegetables are delicious.

"Too often we don't know how to cook vegetables, so children turn them away," he said. "Well, prepared vegetables can turn that situation around."

York shied away from extreme forms of diets while advocating that people concentrate on variety. "A pure vegetarian will not eat eggs, for example, and over a period of years will need vitamins B12 supplements," the expert said.

But, he said, too many people don't get up in time to eat a proper meal, so turn to donuts and coffee on the way to work.

Utah tightens porno laws

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Utah Legislature has toughened Utah's anti-pornography laws by specifically defining nudity, sexual conduct, sexual excitement and sadomasochistic abuse.

The measure also allows the state attorney general's office to file complaints in pornography matters.

Hospital finances improve

TWIN FALLS — An audit report recently released shows Magic Valley Memorial Hospital to be in improved financial shape.

It also reveals a significant jump in average hospital costs during 1974.

Prepared by Tonkin, Swenson and Johnson, a Boise CPA firm, the audit "showed the hospital to be in the best financial condition in its history," administrator James Rosenbaum said.

The audit notes that the "excess of revenue over expenses in 1974 was $287,301, a 64 per cent increase over the 1973 figure of $175,477.

The average daily cost for in-patient hospital costs rose substantially during 1974, the audit figures show.

The average daily inpatient hospital care cost for 1974 was about $95, with figures obtained by dividing the number of patient days into the total inpatient billings.

Last year, that average cost jumped nearly 19 per cent to about $113, breaking the $100-per-day mark for the first time.

Hospital use also increased substantially during 1974 with the average per cent of occupancy for adults and children hitting 87.2 per cent.

Outpatient service revenues increased by about $1,000,000 over the preceding year. The number of outpatient visits in 1974 rose by almost 16 per cent, but the average cost per visit stayed nearly the same.

In 1975, the average hospital cost per outpatient visit was $25.27, increasing to $26.97 in 1974.

The audit also showed the bill collection has improved during 1974. In 1974, at least 60 per cent of hospital bills were up-to-date or less than 60 days due, where in 1973, only about 60 per cent of the hospital's patient bills fell in that category.

Rate hike possible

Times-News Capital Bureau BOISE — A bill approved by the Idaho legislature may mean automatic rate increases to utilities if it becomes law, according to the administrator of the Idaho Public Utilities Commission.

The bill provides that the IPUIC must decide rate cases within six months. And, according to administrator Ken Smith, the commission believes the proposed rate increases will be automatic if a rate hearing drags out longer than six months.

"It puts the commission in quite a bind," Smith said. He said the commission has nine major rate increases before it and one coming up before the supreme court.

Meanwhile even though the commission will have 300 employees starting in July, most will be working in the transportation division. Only one will be added to the current staff of three working on utilities cases, Smith said.

With the staff small and the influx of rate cases, Smith said they should hear six months often may be needed for full investigation and hearings on rate increase requests.

But Shurtuff added that the point is moot in this case since FMC has renegotiated its contract with Idaho Power on the same terms the IPUIC set for the corporation in its previous rate hearings.

The rate structure hearings started Tuesday and hopefully will end today, Shurtuff said.

Commission decisions on the cases presented should follow soon but will be delayed a month if

Filer recall hangs fire

By LORAYNE SMITH, Times-News writer

FILED — Petitions in the Filer mayor recall movement have not yet been turned in to the city office, Mrs. Frances Welsch, clerk, said today.

She said petitions were obtained by Charles E. Young who is circulating them along with several other persons whose names she does not have.

Young today denied an earlier Times-News report that he heads the recall movement, but refused to say who was in charge.

Earlier he had said he was seeking recall signatures and had circulated the initial petition.

The petition was rejected by the city clerk who said the law requires that the first step in the recall procedure be to submit a petition with 20 names indicating intent to obtain the necessary signatures.

Young who was an unsuccessful mayoral candidate, also had acted as a spokesman for the recall movement.

Young said Thursday that 40 signatures had been obtained, just short of the number needed to force either the mayor's resignation or a recall election.

Music clinic set Saturday

JEROME — The district 4 junior high school music clinic will be Saturday at the Jerome High School.

About 800 music students from junior, high schools throughout the Magic Valley are expected to participate.

The clinic will include band, mixed choruses, girls choruses and band symposium. Students participating in the symposium will receive instruction in various aspects of music from the following conductors:

The students will also receive group instruction on their instruments, according to Steve Call, Jerome band instructor.

Included in the symposium staff will be Dr. Dean Macdonald, professor of composition and director of bands, Dennis Griffin, professor of percussion, and Glen Fifield, bass instructor, all Utah State University.

There will be a concert at 7 p.m. Saturday in the high school gym with the clinic band, mixed chorus and girls chorus performing. Admission is free. Refreshments will be served for the non-participating student or child.

Trial location change denied

POCATELLO (UPI) — William Murry Prince, Denver, was denied a request Thursday for a change in the location of his trial in a murder, assault and robbery.

District Judge Arthur P. Oliver of the Sixth Judicial District Court said he would make an honest attempt to empanel a jury by the trial date May 14 and if at that time impartial jurors could not be found, he would consider another motion for change in the trial location.

Primary election proposal eyed

BOISE (UPI) — The House State Affairs Committee sent to the floor without recommendation today the college Republicans proposal for a presidential primary election the fourth Tuesday in May.

Drafted by the college Republicans and Sen. Charles Billeuy, D-Pocatello, the bill provides for election of precinct committee members in presidential years at the presidential primary.

Gem pumpers seek power rate relief

Huntley called for making up the lower rates to irrigators by raising rates to Utah Power and Light, which wheels Idaho Power Co. electricity to Monsanto.

Monsanto was not represented at the hearing to respond to Huntley's demand.

At Federal Hill, the Idaho Citizens Coalition believes the proposed rate increases will be automatic if a rate hearing drags out longer than six months.

"It puts the commission in quite a bind," Smith said. He said the commission has nine major rate increases before it and one coming up before the supreme court.

Meanwhile even though the commission will have 300 employees starting in July, most will be working in the transportation division. Only one will be added to the current staff of three working on utilities cases, Smith said.

briefs are to be presented, he said.

The Atomic Energy Commission told the PUC it has been paying for fuel which is not being burned, according to testimony at an Idaho Public Utilities Commission hearing Thursday.

Castle Braden, electrical engineer and AEC witness, said that under the terms of a 1957 contract with utilities the AEC must pay more for electricity when coal prices in Utah rise above 25 cents per million BTU.

When the contract was signed, Braden said, the AEC planned to buy much electricity from Utah Power and Light as well as from Idaho Power.

But during the past three years the commission has purchased very little power from Utah Power and Light's coal-fired plants.

Meanwhile, Braden said, it has had to pay for higher coal costs on all the electricity it has purchased. The power used by Idaho is mostly produced from cheaper hydroelectric generation.

The result, he said, is that the AEC has "overpaid" its electric bills by $79,615 in the last three years. Whereas the commission has paid $88,094 in fuel adjustment costs only $4,476 has gone to Utah Power and Light to pay actual coal cost, Braden maintained.

"I guess we have been paying for a limousine and riding the bus," U.S. General Services Administration Attorney John Matthews told the Times-News.

The AEC presented its case in an IPUIC hearing on Idaho Power's rate structure.

Sweden's Stenmark takes world cup giant slalom

By TIM ARMSTRONG
KIP-News writer

Sweden's Ingemar Stenmark, ranked third in World Cup points after seven of the nine races, gained an overall lead Gustavo Thoen of Italy on Thursday in winning the men's giant slalom. Stenmark finished nearly three full seconds ahead of his closest competitor, Italy's Piero Gros on the first run, a 4:50.00 time, 1.50-foot vertical's drop-run on Bald Mountain. Gros, second after the day's two runs with a combined time of 2:70, was clocked in 1:23.18. Stenmark's time, for the 4,000-foot long, 1,420-foot drop second-run, was 1:23.28 and Gros was second at 1:18.84. Both runs had four gates. Thoen, a four-time World Cup winner who went into the series with a nine-point lead over Stenmark, 219 to 240, was third in the slalom with a combined time of 2:25.1. A surprise fourth-place finisher was Greg Dons of Lake Tahoe, Calif., who had a combined time of 2:27.7. Hans Hinterseer of Austria was fifth, 2:23.2; Engelhard Parggatal of Switzerland, sixth, 2:24.6; Wolfgang Junginger of West Germany seventh, 2:24.7; Hansjörg Schlager, West Germany, eighth, 2:25.1; Ting Pietromagnoli, Italy, ninth, 2:26.0, and Paolo de Chiesa, Italy, tenth, 2:26.3.

In the women's slalom on a

50-gate course, Lisa Marie Morerod of Switzerland won in 1:49.91, edging Austria's Monica Kaserer, who was clocked in 1:54.84. Annemarie Moser-Proell of Austria, who has already been assured of her fifth World Cup title, was fifth.

Fabiienne Serra of France was third in 1:55.41, and Kathy Kreiner of Canada was fourth in 1:55.46. The final cup race will be held next week in Val Gardena, Italy.

CSI meets Sheridan in tourney opener

College of Southern Idaho's Golden Eagles will help kickoff the annual national junior college tournament at Noon Tuesday. Coach Boyd Grant's Eagles will meet Sheridan, Wyo., in the opener. They also are bracketed with Gold Coast of Lake City, Fla., and Westchester, N.Y., who will meet in the second game. CSI will meet either the winner or loser, depending on the Eagles' opening success. Also in the upper bracket with CSI are many-times champion Vincennes, Ind., and home state rival Hutchinson, Kans. Coach Grant and the Eagles are scheduled to leave by bus for Hutchinson Saturday morning.

NAIA test moves to semi-finals

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Third-seeded St. Mary's (Tex.) scored nine straight points in a span of 3:28 late in the game Thursday night, defeated Winston-Salem (N.C.), 67-50, and joined Grand Canyon (Ariz.), Alcorn (Miss.) State and Midwestern (Tex.) as quarterfinal victors in the NAIA basketball tournament. Bayard (Ill.) lost last year, will meet Grand Canyon and St. Mary's will play Midwestern in Friday-night semifinals. Forrest scored 17 points and grabbed 14 rebounds to pace Grand Canyon to a 70-54 over Wisconsin-Parkside. Alcorn scored the first 10 points and 10 rebounds and led against Wisconsin-Parkside. Alcorn ran away from Malone (Ill.) 43-29 and Midwestern, with Isaac DeVore scoring eight points in a 12-3 spree early in the second half. Topps (Iowa) State, 65-60. St. Mary's scored nine points from the 3-42 mark until 1:14 remained in grab an intangible 62-54 lead. Gary Tomaszewski, who made a key three-point play in the fourth, led the Hatters with 26 points. Senior George Gibson talked 24 for Wisconsin-Parkside, behind five points at halftime, pulled to within 43-42 with 9:35 left, but the fifth-seeded Eagles from Phoenix never relinquished the lead and took 15-47 free throws in the last seven minutes.

Drake upsets USC, Arizona tops East Carolina in NCIT

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Larry Harbison, a native of Louisville, celebrated his homecoming Thursday night with 20 points to pace Drake to an 80-70 upset over twelfth-ranked Southern Cal after Arizona defeated East Carolina 91-78 in the first round of the National Commissioners Invitational Tournament. Southern Cal, hampered by the loss of injured guard Fred Williams, relinquished the lead it held most of the last half when Drake reeled off six straight points to go ahead 61-59.

Harbison shared team-scoring honors with Amy Graham at 20 points apiece and Perry McKenzie was right behind them with 19 points, including the basket that sent the Bulldogs ahead to stay at 61-59 with 9:36 to play. With Williams nursing an injured right foot and watching from the bench, freshman Steve Malovic took over the chief scoring role for the Terjans with 19 points and also hauled down 11 rebounds. Guards Bill Burrell and Marc Safford added 14 points apiece.

The score was tied 36-36 at the half before Southern Cal built a six-point lead at 35-39 but Drake went to a four-point deficit to seal the Bulldogs' fifth victory in 27 games. Southern Cal bowed out with a 199 record. Drake advances to the semifinals Saturday against the winner of Friday night's game between Tennessee and Bowling Green. The 47th-ranked Wildcats were held to a 43-41 standstill in the first half of the opening game by the smaller Pirates. East Carolina, representing the Southern Conference, stayed within striking distance in the last half until a seven-point spurt with about six minutes remaining when Arizona widened its lead to 78-67.

Harbison converted a three-point play and floor general Jim Roppis hit a pair of baskets in the decisive flurry. Great Ashorn scored 34 points to lead East Carolina, which entered the game with a 194 record. East Carolina's Robert Goler was the game's leading rebounder with 14 retrieves and 15 points. Elliott and Fleming secured 12 rebounds apiece for Arizona, now 21-6.

Armstrong, McCord take lead as Nicklaus has lapse on 18th

MIAMI LAPH, Fla. (UPI) — Four rabbits, Wally Armstrong and Jerry McCord, shot wood-blow on Thursday and thanks to an 18th-hole lapse by Jack Nicklaus, took a one-shot lead after the first round of the $150,000 Tour East-Open Golf Tournament. The two little-known pros, who both had a quality first round, also both had to leave the tournament on Monday after five holes on the 18th. Nicklaus, who were lunched at the par 72 Dorla Blue Monster Course. With Nicklaus at 69, Ben Bobby, Michael, Jim, Ben Larry Nelson and Mike Hill. Wally Armstrong, who won the Citrus Open at Orlando last week, was two shots back. In a group at 70 and Johnny Miller, a three-time winner this year who is coming off a two-week layoff, had an even par 72.

Nicklaus seemed headed for a comfortable lead as he teed off on the 18th hole, but he was pushed his drive to the right and then hit a one-iron into the water that times the left side of the fairway. "I felt like a good shot, but I guess I pulled it," said Nicklaus, who is seeking his first PGA title in the Tournament Players' Division. Championship last Labor Day. "Anyway, it went into the water. I dropped, wedged to 45 feet and (wounded) for the six feet. I turned something else." He turned into a 69, he expected to be a 68. Armstrong and McCord are both starting their second year on the tour and neither has ever won a tournament. Of the two rounds, McCord's was the more spectacular. He played the first nine holes in two over par 38 with two bogeys and no birdies. But he blazed to a six under par 30 on the more demanding back nine with no bogeys, his longest birdie putt a 5-footer on the par five 17.

BYU chooses Arnold

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — Frank Arnold, an assistant to UCLA's John Wooden for four years, today was named new basketball coach at Brigham Young University. Arnold inherits a team of young giants from departed coach Glenn Potter who was forced into resigning after two consecutive losing seasons. Potter's teams also failed to produce winning records Utah.

Utah State and Weber State. The 40-year-old UCLA assistant had been head Bralby Johnson's varsity coach in his four years under Wooden, and chief recruiting this past season. Before going to UCLA Arnold was an assistant for five years under then Oregon coach Steve Belko. He had also coached at the now-defunct Brigham Young High School here for six years.

Palmer's performance buoys Orioles despite 7-1 defeat

By FRED DOWN, UPI Sports Writer
The Baltimore Orioles Thursday were winners, Thursday they were winners, Thursday they were winners, Thursday they were winners. The Orioles dropped a 7-1 decision to the Kansas City Royals but not a line run, two hits, five-inning performance from Steve Palmer. Their Cy Young Award winning pitcher of 1974, Palmer slumped to a 7-12 record in 1974 and is regarded as the key man in the Orioles' pennant chances this season inasmuch as the New York Yankees strengthened themselves considerably with the addition of pitcher Jim Hunter from the Oakland A's and outfielder Bobby Bonds from the San Francisco Giants. "I pitched better than my 7-12 record indicates last season," says Palmer. "But I realize I have lost some velocity from my last ball and I don't have as much margin for error as in the past." Shortstop Frank White had four hits, including a homer and a double, and Amos Otis hit a two-run homer to lead the Royals to their second victory in an exhibition game. Demetrius Leonard, who worked two scoreless innings in relief, was the winning pitcher. Elsewhere on the exhibition circuit Ed Robinson's two-run double sent the club in the ninth inning. The Orioles' manager, Dave Leggett, and pitcher Frank Robinson's debut as baseball's first black manager. # Wooden not pleased with expanded format of NCAA basketball tourney

NEW YORK (UPI)—

Everybody plays in Saturday's first round of NCAA championship tournament, a fact that has UCLA Coach John Wooden less than thrilled.

Wooden, who can consider the NCAA tourney a private playground with an 808 winning percentage in the playoffs and 36 victories in UCLA's last 40 tournament games, got lost earlier in the week to the expanded 32-team format. No longer will the Pacific-8 and other major conference champions receive a first-round bye.

So, instead of winning its customary four games, UCLA must now live in order to claim its 10th NCAA championship in 12 years.

"I think it's pretty well fouled up," Wooden said of the new format. "I thought we had a pretty good thing going with regionals situated throughout the country. Now they've doubled it—well, almost, because they have had some preliminary rounds before."

On the other hand, Coach Bobby Knight of undefeated Indiana notified last year's champion North Carolina State's absence from the tournament and proposed the playoffs be expanded to 40 teams.

"Oh, that's a good round number," Wooden said, with just a touch of sarcasm, when told of Knight's proposal. "Why not make it 80?"

The Bruins (23-3) open their bid to regain the title against Big Ten runnerup Michigan (19-7) at Pullman, Wash., with Big Sky champ Montana (20-9) meeting Utah State (21-5) in the second game.

Indiana, meanwhile, looks for its 30th straight win of the season against Western Athletic Conference runnerup Texas A&M (20-5) in one of the exciting inter-sectional games set up by the new format. The Hoosiers, the tournament favorite, embark on their title chase without the services of 6-foot-7 forward Scott May, who is out with a broken wrist.

In the second half of the doubleheader at Lexington, Ky., two more teams which know virtually nothing about each other play. Ohio Valley Conference champion Middle Tennessee (26-4) takes on Pacific runnerup Oregon State (18-10).

The geographies of the new format have caused some interesting comments.

For instance, Syracuse (19-7) plays LaSalle (21-6), and Kansas State (18-8) must meet Penn (23-4) at the Palestra, giving both the Explorers and the Quakers a home court advantage.

Kansas State coach Jack Hartman isn't sure what to make of it, but Syracuse boss Ray Danforth knows all too well.

Hartman said he had heard the Palestra crowds "are very, very unruly" and noted the arena had a reputation for being a place "that would inhibit people from coming there if they didn't have to."

"I'm happy about playing in the Palestra," Danforth said. "I'm just not happy about playing LaSalle there."

Then, there's Texas A&M (206) which must meet Cincinnati (21-5) at Lubbok, Tex. Aggie coach Shelby Metcalf said, "We don't know anything about Cincinnati, nor can we get it."

"I thought Xavier was Cincinnati's big rival so I called up there and talked to Ray Baker," Metcalf said. "Know what he tells me? 'Coach, I'm a graduate of Cincinnati—I'm pulling for them—I would give you anything...and he didn't.'"

In the other game at Lubbok, Maryland (23-4) meets Creighton (20-6). Maryland's outstanding point guard Brad Davis is slowed by a sprained ankle, and coach Ledy Drossel is considering returning All-American John Lucas to the point and inserting a Steve Sheppard in the starting lineup to match up with Creighton's tall squad.

Louisville (24-2) also has a front line player hampered by an injury as Wesley Cox is suffering from a pulling hamstring muscle and had to miss the Cardinals' first regular season game. The Cardinals met Rutgers (22-6) at Tulsa, Okla., with Notre Dame (18-9) playing Kansas (19-7) in the other game there.

North Carolina (21-7) has a home court edge of sorts against New Mexico State (20-6) at Charlotte and Furman (23-5) versus Boston College (20-11) in a former game.

Clemson-Providence match highlights opener in NIT

NEW YORK (UPI)—Clemson, an excellent young team which may be making its last tournament appearance for awhile, faces a real test in Providence in Saturday afternoon's opening round of the National Invitation Tournament.

The Tigers, who built a 17-10 record with a strong second half showing in the brutal Atlantic Coast Conference, currently under NCAA investigation and rumors have been circulating throughout the ACC that Clemson is on the verge of a still NCAA probation, which would preclude tournament appearances.

Consequently, during the ACC tournament, Clemson coach Tommie Locke, who is forbidden to take any more inter-league games, ACC Commissioner Bob James, refused to open his locker room to reporters.

Despite the controversy swirling around the Clemson basketball program, the Tigers won't improve tremendously during the season, beating North Carolina State and Maryland, and by the ACC tournament were being touted by many as having the best talent in the conference

But, after a first-round victory over Duke, the Tigers lost in overtime to the eventual tournament winner, North Carolina.

Wayne "Tex" Ballins, Clemson's sophomoric center, is the Tigers' big man, but the real reason for their success this season was freshman guard Skip Wise.

Wise's ball-handling and outside shooting gave Locke the added weapon to change his attack from a deliberate one to a fast-break offense.

Meanwhile, Providence turned in a 17-10 record with a freshman-dominated squad. The Friars' top scorer and key man in 6-5 sophomore guard Joe Hassett. But the freshman a trio of 6-10 Bruce Campbell, 6-9 Bob Missetvich and 6-5 Billy Eason has played a big role in the Friars' success. However, Missetvich is ill and probably will not play in the NIT.

In Saturday afternoon's other game, Manhattan (13-11) meet Massachusetts (18-7).

Saturday night's first-round action has Southern Illinois (18-9) making its first NIT appearance since the Wall-Frazier-led Saluki team won the 1967 title, against Pittsburgh (17-10) and St. John's (19-8) meeting Lafayette (22-5).

Ali doesn't expect title loss

RICHFIELD, Ohio (UPI)—With ten days to go until his fight against Chuck Wepner, heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali doesn't see how Wepner can take away his bid in the Temple.

Alabama (23-4) must play Arizona State (23-3) at its home court, while Nevada Las Vegas (22-4) meets San Diego State (14-12) in the other game.

He made that clear in his usual tongue-in-cheek fashion during a brisk workout Thursday in which he commenced work in earnest toward shedding some 15 of his 240 pounds.

Hasting for three or four rounds. There he will be so tired you will think the film is running in slow motion.

"What, he was asked, would happen if Wepner laid on the punches he used to do?"

"This style lets you fight 20 pounds overweight," he claimed. "When a guy gets in a corner you can't just let him stand there. You've got to be

Fly casting clinic split

TWIN FALLS—Because of an unexpectedly large turnout, the College of Southern Idaho is planning two fly casting classes beginning March 24 and 25.

Popular demand for a special class has made it necessary to have two sessions and one will be held each Monday and the second each Tuesday both beginning at 7 p.m. and continuing until 9:30 p.m.

Ruel Stayner will be instructor for the classes with 12 students a maximum in each group. Cost of the course for the five weeks is $16. Each student is asked to bring his or her own rod, reel and line. Students should wear tennis shoes as instructions are held on the gymnasium floor.

Interested persons should call the college, 732-9554, extension 221 or 278.

Special cast may get May into game

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)—Unlabeled and top-ranked Indiana figures to be the class here Saturday in first round of NCAA tournament, with or without leading scorer Scott May.

"He'll be dressed with that special cast," said Indiana coach Bobby Knight, 44, leading his team into its seventh NCAA tourney.

May was sidelined in the regular season with a broken left arm, but he returned for the last 20 seconds in the Hoosiers' last win, their 29th, against Big Ten foe Michigan State March 8.

It is still doubtful whether May will get Saturday's start as Knight could use May if things get tough for the Hoosiers, winners of 32 straight games.

May is Indiana's only first-year All-American, but junior guard made second-team All-American last season, with forward Steve Green was on the third level. Sophomore center Kent Benson received honorable mention.

Indiana has defeated three top 20 teams on its way to the tournament, defeating touring Kentucky by 24 points, 14th-ranked Notre Dame by 10 and 16th-ranked Creighton by 18, all in a 13-day stretch in December.

The Hoosiers opened this year's first-round opponent, 20th-ranked Texas A&M, Paso

Seniors shave when economics explained

ATLANTA, Ala. (UPI)—Five Auburn football players and all seniors with no playing eligibility left—have shaved off their beards and mustaches to avoid losing benefits from their athletic scholarships.

"We went ahead and shaved," Bernick said. "There's no problem there."

Because he had completed their playing time, the players had moved from the athletic dormitory at the end of the football season.

"Last year they told us if you lived in the dorm you couldn't have a mustache," Gossom said. "But if you moved out, you could. I guess the rule has changed."

Gossom said he didn't understand why he was told to shave now.

No money, no play, womengolfers say

HOUSTON (UPI)—Members of the Ladies Professional Golf Association informed that the sponsor of the Houston tour stop couldn't produce the prize money 24 days before the event moved late Thursday to cancel a three-day tournament at Westwood Country Club.

Bud Erickson, executive director of the LPGA, said the Gulf Coast Golf News failed to meet a deadline to put up the sponsor's money and an emergency meeting was called of the LPGA governing board and players.

"You have to do some things on faith," Erickson said, "but we had a confidence in writing with Larry Flood, our Course Contractor, to pay the tournament. We feel that we gave him every opportunity to perform. We feel that we made numerous concessions. But the decision was made carefully."

The more than 100 LPGA members voted by secret ballot. Erickson said the vote

ABC nabs world series

NEW YORK (UPI)—Control of world series television shifted Thursday when the American Broadcast Company announced a new four-year contract to broadcast the fall baseball classic on alternate years.

The National Broadcasting Company televised the world series every year since 1947, but beginning with 1977 will alternate the broadcasting with ABC.

Rosine Arledge, president of ABC Sports, and Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said in a joint announcement that terms of the new pact call for ABC to handle the series in 1977 and 1979.

Fischer decision nears

NEW YORK (UPI)—World chess champion Bobby Fischer was reminded Thursday that he has less than three weeks to decide whether he will defend the title against Anatoly Karpov. This June in a reported $5 million match series in Manila.

John McCann, president of U.S. Chess Masters, sent a telegram to Fischer in Pasadena, Calif., urging the 32-year-old world champion to reconsider his decision about not defending the title.

Money's only consideration

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI)—Lonnie Shelton, star sophomore forward on Oregon State's second-place Pacific 8 basketball team, says "if the price was right" he might turn pro.

"Money would be the reason," money, it's the reason for everything," he said.

Shelton has averaged 18.8 points and almost 10 rebounds per game, despite consistent foul trouble.

After the season is over, Shelton has to do some research on the hardship draft.

Carroll Righter
FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 15, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Do something special for those who are fond of that will tighten the bond of affection. Later you find some confusion about a new plan you would like to put in action. Study it first.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Morning is bright with many new ideas coursing through your mind for advancement, but the latter part of the day brings confusion.
Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make notes-of-ideas you get for the days ahead, or you could forget them later when needed. Listen to experts' suggestions.
Gemini (May 21 to Jun. 21) Plan just how to get more helpful to them also. Enjoy a group affair.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get into those career matters that are important today and be sure to use more up-to-date methods for better results.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have excellent ideas about how to advance, now and should put them in action quickly. A new center has interesting viewpoints, but study them.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Concentrate on how to help others and vice versa today. Don't waste time or money foolishly. State aims to make an interesting fashion.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Go ahead with the ideas you have concerning others. Be gentle with one who opposes you and wait for your side.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan your activities wisely so you can plan through with everything like a general and get things done right. Watch vitality.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Show devotion to your good friends and they will respond in kind, and the future becomes more mutually pleasant.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show more understanding for one who is disgruntled at home and clear up the situation. Find some way to improve home life.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Discuss your good ideas with friends and gain their views so that routines become more successful in the near future.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Talk over with a clever business expert how to get your responsibilities handled more easily and have more profits.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . He or she will want to bring progressive new ideas to the world and new systems that can be helpful to humanity. Give the necessary education, combining both practical and academic studies. The child should be motivated by wise disciplinary methods, religious understanding, and helpful sports.
The Stars impel, they do not compel. "What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!"

BLONDE
THIS BAVARIAN GROUND HOG IS A FUN-SET.
HE DIGS HIMSELF A HOLE AND YOU DON'T SEE HIM FOR SIX MONTHS.
WHAT'S FUN ABOUT THAT?
WHEN HE COMES OUT HE'S READY TO PLAY.

SHORT RIBS
QUICK, GET A ROPE!
WHAT HAPPENED?
THE KING WAS REMARKABLE HIS STATE OF THE KINGDOM SPEECH.
AND SUDDENLY HE JUST JUMPED IN THE MOAT!

BEETLE BAILEY
WHEN'S CHOW, COOKIE?
CHOW? IS THAT ALL YOU GUYS THINK OFF?
ALAN DOES NOT LIVE ON BREAD ALONE, YOU KNOW.
MUST HAVE THE BISCUITS AGAIN.

THE BORN LOSER
TEKUNISKY CAN NOT CURE THE COMMON COLD!
NEITHER CAN MEDICAL SCIENCE.

RICK O'SHAY
I CAN'T HIT HIM FROM HERE WITH A BANGSWING I'VE GOT TO COME UP THERE.
SO I RECKON IT'S LIVE FOR A STIKATROY!

WIZARD OF ID
I SENTENCE YOU TO THIRTEEN YEARS!
HEY! THAT'S BAD LUCK.
MAKE IT FOURTEEN.
SEE... I WAS RIGHT.

REX MORGAN
YES, HOW ABOUT OUR GOING OUT FOR A CUP OF COFFEE AND A SANDWICH?
I CAN'T RIGHT NOW, CARLY. I WANT TO STAY HERE FOR A WHILE UNTIL I'M COFFEE-TOASTED & SHAKLED.
THAT'S WHAT I LIKE...A HUNGRY-ED-DOCTOR TODAY... BUT ONE OF THESE DAYS WE'LL GO OUT TO DINNER. I WANT TO GET TO KNOW YOU BETTER. DO YOU LIKE FARMING?
I HAVE A QUARTER SECTION OF LAND NOT FAR FROM ANY PLACE. I'D LIKE YOU FOR A NEIGHBOR. I'M AFRAID I HAVEN'T THE LAMB TO PAIN.

OUT OUR WAY
QUIT PUNING THE HORSE. HAIRS OUT OF THAT EYE. FEEL LIKE HERE, THE ONE- PENNIE SOPA! THE VERY IDEA! NO WAY! THE VERY GENTLEST NECESSITY! A RAMMUCK!
I SEE ANY GUN ON MY EYEC... FEEL LIKE HERE, THE ONE- WAY YOU COULD REST OUT IN A BOTTLE OR GET WEAR A SUIT OF ARMOR.

what's what

L.M. Boyd

Once knew a young fellow in northern Washington state who liked to kill porcupines, the savage. He lengthened the rope on the church bell so it touched the ground, then dipped the end in brine. You know how porcupines love what's salty. When the bell clanged to send him there with his gun in the night, the porcupine was gone, but the pastor wasn't. The killer of beasts dropped out of school that week. And the pastor, it was reported, inquired around as to the current price of porcupines, then ordered 100 pounds of salt.

THAT HARD LIQUOR—first-distilled in this world was rum.

ALMOST but not quite twice as many people every year go to horse and dog races as to auto races.

WATCHES
Q. "How come we refer to little clocks as watches?"
A. Because those oldtime watchmen who used to call out "All's well!" in the night were the first to carry same.

Q. "CAN an ostrich sing?"
A. Singing is no name for it, definitely not. However, its various call notes outnumber those of most songbirds.

Q. "LOUIE, HOW tall are you? How much do you weigh?"
A. About six feet and 192 pounds. That's 22 pounds over what's right for six feet, according to the specialists. Who cares? Lasagne tonight.

THE QUEEN
There has not been a single year during this century when the subjects of Great Britain have not heatedly debated whether to continue to support their monarchy. It has to be the longest running argument in the Empire. Yet surveys repeatedly show that as many as nine out of 10 people there want to keep their kings and queens in power, such as it is. Given reasons seem thin. For instance, the monarchy promotes tourism. More clearly, it's a sentimental thing of breadth and depth too great for quick explanation. Or can you explain it?

NO VOLKSWAGEN is not the first company to come up with a car called "Rabbit." Japan's first automobile factory in 1911 turned out a quick little rig called the "Dai" meaning "running rabbit."

Nuclear arsenal security loose

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A research center said Thursday the United States has an arsenal of nearly 30,000 nuclear weapons which "invites an enemy first strike, are susceptible to premature firing and theft by terrorists."

The Center for Defense Information, a private organization headed by Brigadier Gen. R. La Follette, said the force is too large and dangerous and should be reduced.

"It said that nearly 15,000 nuclear weapons are stored in the United States with the rest scattered throughout Europe and Asia and on ships and submarines at sea.

Asked to comment, the Pentagon said it maintained a policy of "not addressing itself to the number or location of nuclear weapons."

"The report said the United States has been producing strategic nuclear weapons at the rate of three per day for the past four years.

"It concluded that the United States has too many nuclear weapons; that there is no overall policy for their use; that they invite an enemy first strike; that they are susceptible to premature firing, and theft by terrorists."

It called for a substantial cut in the number of U.S. nuclear weapons in Europe; abolition of Quick Reaction Alert—Air-Craft possible attacks abroad; fully armed with nuclear weapons; removal of forward-deployed atomic artillery and atomic mines; removal of all nuclear weapons from Asian states; and from aircraft carriers, and a substantial increase in security precautions around domestic weapon sites and storage depots.

The report said the American nuclear arsenal included 22,000 tactical weapons and 8,000 strategic weapons—a number, it said, which will increase to 8,500 by the middle of this year.

In Europe, it said, the United States and its NATO allies have 2,500 aircraft missile launchers and nuclear weapons that can deliver 7,000 U.S. tactical nuclear weapons.

"These weapons carry a combined explosive capability equivalent to an estimated 460 million tons of TNT—roughly 35,000 times greater than the nuclear weapon that destroyed Hiroshima in 1945," it said.

The center claimed there are two U.S. tactical nuclear weapons for each Soviet tactical nuclear weapon in Europe.

In Asia, it said the United States has 1,700 tactical nuclear weapons located in South Korea and the Philippines and at U.S. installations on Guam and Midway in the Pacific.

At sea, it said, the United States has approximately 7,000 strategic and tactical nuclear weapons. Some 264 nuclear ships and submarines are capable of delivering 12,000 tactical nuclear weapons in bombs, depth charges, torpedoes and missiles.

At home, the report said the armed forces maintain an estimated 14,800 nuclear weapons—10,800 tactical and 4,000 strategic weapons deployed at U.S. Minuteman and Titan missile sites and at Strategic Air Command bases. Thousands more are stockpiled at U.S. storage facilities," the center said.

Building plans approved for TF judicial building

TWIN FALLS — Judges, clerks and other department heads who will work in the new floor of the county judicial building Wednesday approved plans for the building.

The plans, presented by architect Richard Heindel, will be prepared in final form for bidding.

County commission chairman Merl Leonard said the architect indicated he would have the plans for interested bidders by about April 15 and bids can be advertised at that time and a contract awarded by about the second week in May.

The plans will call for remodeling and adding a second floor to the existing judicial building, to provide space for increasing demands of both the magistrate and district court divisions.

Commissioners said when the original judicial building was erected in 1967 under an emergency program, there was only one probate judge and a second district court judge had just been added by state supreme court action. Because it was necessary to provide another district court room, the county was forced to build.

Commissioner William Chancey said the building was designed to meet the needs at that time. Shortly after the one probate judge and her two clerical workers moved into new quarters, court reform resulted in closing all justice of the peace offices and city police judge offices in the county and consolidating them under the magistrate system.

There are now three magistrate judges in the county and about a dozen clerical workers. Traffic to function in what was designed for the old probate court system.

As a result Judge Reed P. Maughan, who handles traffic cases, has been separated from the two other magistrates and is housed in offices in the old county building.

Other new state laws have also increased the need for revised accounting systems and greater work loads for offices, such as the district court clerk.

The clerk is now required to collect and disburse all child support payments on divorce obtained within the county. This involves about a $500,000 account annually. Clerk Harold Lancaster says, and requires clerical help to collect and mail out payments.

Central Chile hit by earthquake

SANTIAGO (UPI) — A powerful earthquake shook northern and central Chile Thursday, cutting electric power, shaking inland communities and injuring several persons in the city of La Serena, 300 miles north of Santiago, the Interior Ministry said.

Authorities said the quake was reported to have reached an intensity of 7 on the 12-point Mercalli scale.

In Golden, Colo., the National Earthquake Information Center said the quake was reported to have reached about 4 1/2 miles north of Santiago. Tremors were felt in San Valparaiso and throughout the central zone of Chile when the quake struck, but these cities escaped major damage.

The Interior Ministry said the number of casualties in La Serena has not yet been established.

Carabineros, the national police, told UPI by phone from La Serena that the quake severely damaged old homes, causing some injuries.

The Seismological Institute of the University of Chile said the epicenter of the quake was about 45 miles north of Santiago.
