Orphan airlift resumes

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam Monday resumed a brief halt to "Operation Babylift" and said more of 18,000 children were being processed to leave for new homes in the United States and other countries.

U.S. embassy sources said quick pressure and consultation apparently were responsible for reversing a decision by the Saigon government, attributed to Deputy Prime Minister Phan Quang Dan, to stop the airlift of orphans out of the country.

Another 200 orphans landed at Clark Air Base in the Philippines Monday, bringing to around 1,300 the number leaving the war zone. More were expected to leave Tuesday aboard U.S. Air Force and foreign planes.

Dan said some 18,000 orphans would undergo slow processing before being allowed up for adoption. "We want to avoid tragedy," he said. "Each adopted child must receive approval by his parents. We don't want any claim later in case the child has not been adopted and cared for."

Hours earlier, Dan Scott, director of the World Vision evacuation agency in Vietnam, said "a senior aide to the minister (Dan) told me no more exit visas will be issued to orphans."

"As of today, the evacuation of orphans is over." Dan reportedly reasoned that since he had met his promise to allow 1,400 children out of South Vietnam, no more would be allowed to leave.

Dan later told newsmen the "Babylift" program would continue and pledged the government would try to cut down the red tape.

He also denied the South Vietnamese had used the orphan program for propaganda purposes.

"I think the arrival of the orphans in other nations showed the cruel war in South Vietnam and made them realize the tragedy which has been going on here," he said.

At Clark Air Base, two C141 Starlifter transports landed with 200 orphans—96 below 3 years old. In addition, 89 civilian refugees, most of them Americans, came in from Saigon.

Ex-Shoshone mayor dies at 86

SHOSHONE—Mrs. Myrtle E. Burdett, 86, a former six-term mayor of Shoshone and prominent businesswoman, died Sunday at a Shoshone rest home.

Born in 1889, Mrs. Burdett moved to Lincoln County in 1908. She served six terms as mayor in the 1950's and 1960's. She also served on the Shoshone school board for eight years, owned and operated the Burdett Funeral Home from 1935 to 1957, and served as county coroner and justice of the peace.

Pardon asked

LADDONIA, Mo. (UPI) — Charles Eddie Lucas, who lived here for almost eight years under another name, was arrested last week on charges of escaping from a federal prison in Texarkana, Tex., where he was serving time for auto theft.

Because he had settled down, married and become respected as a man and citizen, more than 50 residents of this town including the mayor have signed a petition for his pardon.

Fresh violence erupts in Seoul

SEOUL (UPI) — Violent antigovernment demonstrations erupted in Seoul again today.

At the same time, there were reports the South Korean government planned to end its policy of "leniency" toward protesters.

About 800 students at the Seoul National University and another 1,000 at Sokang Jesuit University battled police with rocks. Police fired tear gas to keep them inside their schools.

Scoop happy

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., said he is pleased that a Gallup poll shows him to be President Ford's formidable opponent so far for the 1976 election.

Jackson said he feels he can win over many of the undecided voters in the months between now and the election. The poll gave Jackson 41 per cent of the vote, Ford 43 per cent and the other 16 per cent undecided.

Mr. T-N says... April showers bring May flowers, but April snows bring us sorted woes.

Snows whiten Valley

TWIN FALLS — From one to four inches of "Spring" snowfall was reported on the ground this morning in Magic Valley according to James Terry.

Terry, a U.S. Weather Service meteorologist, said the snow fell when an area of low pressure which had been along the west coast early last week moved inland. He said snow fell over the mountains of northern California, Oregon, Nevada, Utah and Idaho Sunday.

The system is slowly drifting eastward. While southern Idaho will remain under its influence through Tuesday, snowfall is expected to taper off over southwestern Idaho this afternoon and the Magic Valley tonight.

Traveler's advisories are in effect for Montana, Wyoming and Utah through tonight with snow expected to be locally heavy in the mountains of southern Idaho this evening.

Yesterday's high of 34 was about 27 degrees lower than the normal for the date in Twin Falls, Terry said. He said highs are running from 20 to nearly 30 degrees below seasonal normals. In some valleys of southern Idaho, he said the cool temperatures will continue at least through mid week. Weather conditions may have contributed to the 14 traffic accidents in the city of Twin Falls during the weekend, police said. (Continued on p. 11)

Reds shell Saigon oil

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist forces shelled an oil storage area less than eight miles from the center of Saigon early today in the first major attack on the capital since start of their offensive.

By late today they had shifted the thrust of the offensive around Saigon to the poppinu Nongkong Delta.

Military sources said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong carried out more than 100 attacks in six provinces of the delta. They reported at least 115 shellings and 19 ground assaults. Several loads were cut and Communist units sank a ferry carrying military vehicles into Vi Thanh, 98 miles southwest of Saigon.

The South Vietnamese command said at least 60 mortar rounds slammed into Nha Be, only six miles southeast of Saigon, early today in an attempt to hit the country's main fuel dump. Six persons were wounded but no major damage was reported in the first major attack near the capital of the current offensive, officials said. (Continued on p. 3)

Rebels nearing airport

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Communist rebels have punched gaps in the Cambodian army's defense lines and are now within four miles of the capital's lifeline airport, just close enough to fire heavy mortars, military sources said today.

Cambodian Prime Minister Long Boret, who vowed to return to Phnom-Penh today from neighboring Thailand, called for negotiations with the rebels to end the five-year-old Cambodian war in the wake of President Lon Nol's departure. Political sources said officials of the caretaker government in Phnom Penh decided at a meeting Sunday not to surrender the city to the Communists.

The sources said Acting President Sau Khampoy, Deputy Prime Minister Hang Thun Hak and other senior officials discussed surrender but decided instead to work for unity among military and civilian leaders.

Long Boret, who is himself on the rebels' "death list" of government officials marked for execution if and when Phnom Penh falls, said in Bangkok Sunday the war will continue if the insurgents won't negotiate. (Continued on p. 3)

Burley, Rupert may borrow to make N-power hookup

By DAVID BOCKMAN Times-News writer

BURLEY — Burley, Rupert, and two other Idaho cities are considering borrowing up to $60 million to pay for a portion of the power from nuclear plants in Washington state.

According to a Bonneville Power Administration (BPA) plan, Burley, Rupert, Idaho Falls and Bonners Ferry would contract with the BPA for electricity generated from new units of the Hanford, Wash., nuclear power plant.

The proposed plants are to be constructed by the Washington Public-Power Supply System (WPPSS).

Altogether, the units could cost as much as $2 billion, according to Peter Wilson, attorney for Bonners Ferry. Idaho Falls would receive about one per cent of the power from the plants, with the other Idaho towns receiving the remainder.

Wilson said a meeting is scheduled May 1, at which time an initial contract with WPPSS for the planning phase will be discussed.

Communities signing the first contracts could then sign on for the actual construction of the plant. If they did so they would actually have a 10-year interest in the plants, he said.

According to Wilson, representatives from Idaho Falls and Bonners Ferry have reviewed drafts of the proposed contracts and have some questions, so the May 1 meet has been called.

However, Burley Mayor Charles Shaddock said, "I don't know a darn thing about it."

John Christensen, director of Burley's electrical department said he is also in the dark about the contracts. Rupert Mayor Wendell Johnson said he is familiar with the program, but referred questions to the Rupert Electrical department head, who was unavailable for comment. (Continued on p. 3) under the plan the four communities would be obligated to pay off the bonds issued by WPPSS even if for some reason one of the additional units failed to become operational, or otherwise could not pay for itself through electricity sold and generated.

However, according to Hughes, there is some question about the constitutionality of Idaho cities making such long term obligations for out-of-state projects.

Some city attorneys feel that an Idaho community can't make such an obligation for more than one year, Hughes said.

Oil price talks start in Paris

Chicago Daily News

PARIS — A 10-delegation attempt to achieve peace in the oil price wars opened in Paris today with both sides still scrambling to get their own forces in line.

It was the first meeting of representatives of oil-producing and major oil-buying countries since the 1973 embargo and accompanying price hikes of up to 500 per cent.

Asylum OK

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., said South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu and his government should receive asylum in the U.S. if they are forced to flee Vietnam.

Although no "fan of Thieu," Udall told a weekend news conference the U.S. "has an obligation to grant asylum to those people who really are in danger."

Coal miners start protest march

WASHINGTON (Washington Star) — Several thousand miners from Southwest Virginia were to begin a long drive to Washington today in chartered buses and heavy cost trucks to protest the proposed surface coal mining control bill, now before Congress, that they say "would kill us."

Several hundred trucks, washed and covered with neatly lettered protest signs, were lined up at the Wise County Fairgrounds to begin the caravan through the winding roads of the Appalachian Mountains.

Cambodian Reds press near airport

"We will not collapse," Boret said. The military sources in Phnom Penh said the insurgents have been within four miles of the airport since Saturday and increased their attacks in the area Sunday.

"There are gaps and penetration points on some areas of this line," said one official source. "The airport has been the only means of supplying the encircled capital with food, fuel and ammunition for the past 63 days. The American airlift of vital supplies continued today despite the new threats."

Elsewhere, most of the government's defense lines 12 miles west of the capital along Route 26 fell into rebel hands and the rebels battled their way to the edge of the market place of Kompong Speu, a provincial capital 25 miles to the southwest, military sources said.

Other attacks were reported on positions six miles north of Phnom Penh.

Arriving from Indonesia in Bangkok on route back to Phnom Penh, Boret called for "democratic elections for the people to decide themselves what regime they want."

Boret accompanied President Lon Nol into exile last Tuesday. He said the president will leave Indonesia for the United States on Thursday.

"We have already made our sacrifice to stop the suffering so now it's their turn to do something," Boret said. "If the other side won't sit down and negotiate, it will be their responsibility for whatever will happen in the future."

"The American aid is still very vital, very important for the present situation. But if we don't get it, we will stay, we will not collapse—militarily speaking—I mean," Boret said.

Boret claimed the Phnom Penh government represents two-thirds of Cambodia's people and said "the only way to end the suffering of the Khmer people is through the political means—by negotiations."

Communist gunners fire on Saigon oil storage

Military sources said a U.S. 7th Fleet task force including two guided missile cruisers, an aircraft carrier and escort vessels were in position 50 to 60 miles off the coast. The ships could be used to evacuate Americans (from Saigon) if all-out attack were launched against the capital.

The sources said four of the bessels were amphibious ships with helicopters and U.S. Marines aboard.

South Vietnamese officials at midday today said they were calling on the country for war orphans but later in the day said mercy missions would be allowed to continue. Several planes arrived at Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines today.

piners today with 205 more Vietnamese orphans en route to the United States.

Salgon remained outwardly calm but Americans and other foreigners continued their exodus from the capital aboard commercial flights and it was disclosed that three U.S. banks operating here had pulled out their American staffs.

The banks are the First National City Bank of New York, Bank of America and the Chase Manhattan Bank. Managers of the facilities during the weekend left their operations in the care of Vietnamese employees, departing with U.S. dollars, travelers' checks and other banking instruments, banking sources said.

Saxe trial scheduled

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Susan E. Saxe, a college honor student turned revolutionary, pleaded innocent today to federal bank robbery charges and was bound over for trial next Monday.

Ms. Saxe, of Albany, N.Y., entered her plea before Judge Judge Tullio G. Leomporra in a courtroom tightly secured by marshals who searched the 100 or so spectators at the door with hand-held metal detectors.

The defendant answered not guilty to the five counts of conspiracy, robbery and aiding and abetting in connection with a $6,210 holdup of a bank here Sept. 1, 1970.

The court accepted her plea and continued her $350,000 bail set after her arrest 11 days ago on a downtown street by an alert policeman who had an FBI photo flyer of her in his pocket.

After Leomporra set the trial date for next Monday, Ms. Catherine Horaback, of New Haven, Conn., Ms. Saxe's attorney, said she had just been retained as counsel and expected to make some pretrial motions which would delay the start of trial for possibly two months.

U.S. District Court Judge Alfred L. Luongo is scheduled to preside over Ms. Saxe's trial. Luongo was the presiding judge at the trial of Stanley R. Bond, who was convicted of the holdup and sentenced to 25 years in prison.

Authorities said Bond later accidentally killed himself when an explosive device he was making in a Walpole, Mass. prison blew up.

The indictment said Bond entered the Bell Federal Savings and Loan Association branch office while Ms. Saxe stood outside trying to light a Molotov cocktail device fashioned from a whisky bottle and containing a flammable fluid.

The indictment said Katherine Powers, a fellow student radical, was at the wheel of a getaway car.

Question . . .

My father is a retired Naval Petty Officer and has requested burial at sea following his death. Is this possible?

Answer . . .

This is quite possible and can be arranged when the need arises. Very little advance preparation is necessary. We should have a copy of your father's discharge papers for our records, and a signed request and authorization form.

There is no cost when burial is at sea beyond that incurred as a mortuary expense. The body must be embalmed and casketed before being delivered dockside of the Naval vessel at the designated time. Metal caskets are acceptable but not wooden caskets. In place of a casket the body may be tightly wrapped in canvas and adequately weighted at the feet.

The date of the burial is determined by the availability of the Naval vessel concerned. Services are held aboard ship in accordance with Navy Regulations and the flag used during the services as well as photographs of the burial are sent to the next of kin.

No Gem bid yet on car-train run

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's AMTRAK Advisory Committee has not formally discussed making a proposal for auto-train service in the Gem State, Chairman Dwight Jensen of Boise said today.

Jensen said, however, the committee had followed upon the requests from Nampa and Boise to study the feasibility of auto-train service in Idaho.

He said the term "auto-train" is a registered trademark belonging to a corporation that operates such trains between Washington, D.C., and Orlando, Fla., and between Louisville, Kentucky, and Orlando. He said the runs all are overnight and are about 15 hours long, roughly the distance from Salt Lake City to Portland.

Jensen said the idea probably would not have a very high priority at this time. He said a study made in Idaho indicated that two-thirds of those who say they would ride passenger trains say they would not be interested in having their automobiles carried on the train.

The committee, he said, is concerned about inadequate ground transportation connecting with AMTRAK stops, especially in the Boise and Magic valleys and parts of eastern Idaho. He said the committee has discussed the possibility of having space on AMTRAK trains to carry bicycles as a means of attracting young long-distance passengers.

The students should take their birth certificates indicating they were born before Oct. 15, 1969.

Mrs. Dorothy Alexander, county health nurse, said DT, polio boosters, tuberculosis and rubella and measles immunizations will be available at the school. The children who have had a complete series of the shots as infants will only need a DT and polio booster.

They should, however, be given a TB test before entering school. The rubella and measles require only a single immunization for life.

Charge will be 50 cents per child.

Experiment called off

GLOUCESTER, England (UPI) — The wrath of nature lovers has forced cancellation of an experiment in which six schoolgirls and their biology teacher planned to try to live for a week by eating mice, sparrows, hedgehogs and starlings.

In announcing that the project had been called off, the instructor, Peter Driver, said people mistakenly thought the group was going to eat nothing but animals during the experiment.

"We would also have eaten plants such as sorrel, chick weed and crab apples," he said.

But conservationists complained that similar projects might be carried out and that endangered species might be all eaten up.

Quake could follow domino theory

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The earthquake which rattled northern Utah and southern Idaho last month, says the U.S. Geological Survey, may just be a warning of things to come.

And silence from the bowels of the earth is just as ominous.

"The area has produced at least six strong earthquakes of magnitude six or larger (on the Richter scale) this century and will undoubtedly produce more in the future," said Dr. Al Rogers, the USGS geophysicist leading the survey's earthquake team in Utah.

"We can expect future earthquakes to be more destructive, however, because more and more buildings and people are moving into areas that are potentially unsafe because of earthquake-related hazards."

The USGS also said, in a report on last month's quake, that parts of the 500-mile long Wasatch Fault have not moved in decades, which the agency labeled "a matter of considerable concern because the fault may be storing stresses which could eventually result in a major earthquake."

The survey quoted a study completed last year on northern Utah faults, which concluded "About three-quarters of a million people, or about 85 per cent of Utah's population, live within or along the active Wasatch Fault zone, presenting a high probability for serious damage and injury as a result of future strong earthquakes."

The study report said extensive damage could result even from a moderate quake, because of population density along the high-danger area.

"Cities on or near these faults that can expect to be affected by future earthquakes include Salt Lake City, Provo, Orem, Springville, Ogden and Brigham City."

"Structures now located astride these active faults include apartment buildings, businesses and homes, as well as electrical lines and water and gas pipelines, all of which will no doubt be severely damaged or destroyed in the event of surface rupturing."

The report added that the Wasatch and Cache Valley faults are likely to generate large earthquakes in the future, and "many of these large earthquakes will be accompanied by surface rupturing."

The USGS report was released less than two weeks before a quake measuring 6.3 on the Richter Scale rocked the Utah-Idaho state line March 27.

Damage from that quake was minimal and no injuries were reported. It was centered about three miles south of the Utah-Idaho line, according to the USGS.

It was the largest in the continental United States since the 1971 quake in Los Angeles, which killed 65 persons, injured 1,000 and caused more than $1 billion damages.

The USGS said the March 27 quake was preceded by a foreshock of 4.5 a day earlier, and followed by at least 500 after shocks reaching a magnitude of 4.7. It said aftershocks continue at a rate of 30 to 40 per day.

"Because of the severity of the March 27 quake," the USGS said, "and the large number of aftershocks that continue to shake the area, USGS and University of Utah scientists have deployed a network of seismometers around the quake center near Madrid City, Idaho."

USGS scientists said their investigation immediately after the quake found no evidence of ground breakage, rockslides, dammed streams or damaged reservoirs or irrigation canals — except for cracks in frozen mud and snow.

North Viets mass for Saigon battle

T-N Phones 733-0931
(Or use our toll-free lines)

By DREW MIDDLETON
© 1975 N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK — United States military sources say that the North Vietnamese have almost completed preparations for the final battle in the Saigon area and that they doubt strongly that the Saigon garrison has sufficient troops or weapons to launch a spoiling attack that could seriously interfere with the northerners' operational plans.

The North Vietnamese forces are massing in the Saigon area, the American sources say, without any sign of effective interference by the South Vietnamese air force. Shortages of transport, especially helicopters, the sources believe, will prevent the three South Vietnamese divisions on hand from carrying out a mobile, counterattacking defense.

Official Saigon claims of a revival of military activity around the coastal ports of Cam Ranh, Phan Rang, Phan Thiet and even Nha Trang are regarded with some skepticism. Sustained counteractions by troops in those areas could buoy morale, but there is no expectation that such actions would influence the main battle developing in the Saigon area.

The Southern troops in the coastal area, according to reports reaching Washington, have lost most of their heavy weapons and have used up their fuel and much of their ammunition. They may be able to divert some of the North Vietnamese units that are moving south, but this diversion is unlikely to affect Communist plans for Saigon.

These troops are now being re-equipped. Originally, the three divisions were regarded as among the best in the South Vietnamese armed forces. American officers with experience in Vietnam are highly doubtful about the prospects of the south maintaining a prolonged defense of the capital and eventually "turning the war around."

The arrival of additional military supplies from the United States does not appear to be a matter of great concern to Communist commanders, according to qualified sources. The Hanoi estimate is that no amount of logistical support now can re-establish confidence in ultimate victory among South Vietnamese forces.

Ford cornered on tax cut

By DON BACON
© 1975, Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — If any doubt remained that President Ford is running — at this time — for another term, it was dispelled when he signed the $23 billion emergency tax cut bill.

He did so, according to administration sources, on the recommendation of his political advisers, whose opinions in this instance carried more weight than those of his economic advisers. Instinctively, Ford agreed with his economic advisers, conservatives all, who felt the proportions Committee. He speaks the language of the Simons and the Greenspan, and probably knows more than they do about the practicalities of fiscal policy.

When they listed all the substantive arguments against his signing this bill, Ford could only agree. But there are times, as they say in politics, when a person must rise above principle. With no tax cut — or a delayed tax cut — unemployment could remain around 8 per cent through the 1976 elections.

From a political perspective, Ford had little choice but to sign, assuming, as nearly everyone here now does, that he was already laying the base for a 1976 bid for his party's presidential nomination.

Ford was around Richard Nixon for too many years not to have heard Nixon's familiar lament about heavy price he paid as a Republican presidential candidate in 1960 because then-President Eisenhower refused to take steps that would have pulled the country out of an election-year economic downturn.

opinion

Democratic-written legislation made too much available to the wrong people and at the wrong time, and was weighted excessively with costly amendments. Better to let the recession play itself out — as it appears to be doing — than to risk greater long-range danger by adding $150 billion to 200 billion to the federal deficit over the next two years.

Ford is no dummy in understanding economic arguments — He majored in economics as an undergraduate. He spent nearly 25 years on the House Ap-proportions Committee. He speaks the language of the Simons and the Greenspan, and probably knows more than they do about the practicalities of fiscal policy.

Saudis back Henry

© 1975 Chicago Daily News JEDDAH, Saudi Arabia — Strongly opposed to any increase of Soviet influence in the Middle East through the Geneva Conference, Saudi Arabia is making tremendous efforts to help revive the Exclusive American negotiating role of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

The Saudis were very disappointed by what happened to Kissinger's negotiations between Egypt and Israel, said the sources. "The government here does not see it as a 'breakdown' or 'failure' of the Kissinger negotiations." The sources said — they prefer to see it as simply a setback, that one stage of negotiation has ended and another stage will begin.

"Failure is too permanent a word," said the sources, "and the Saudi government does not feel that such is the case." Saudi diplomatic reaction to the talks "suspension" was interrupted by the assassination of King Faisal. But sources say that King Khaled and Crown Prince Fahd have given top priority to diplomatic contacts with Egypt and Syria aimed at salvaging the Kissinger mediation.

When Nixon finally gained access to the White House on his own, he spent no little effort tuning up the economy so that it ran high and smooth through the crucial 1972 elections. Nixon got important assistance in 1972 from the Federal Reserve Board, which allowed the money supply to increase at rates the experts found alarming.

Increasing the money supply is one way to install the illusion, at least of prosperity, but at a high cost in subsequent inflation. In 1972, the Fed allowed the money supply to grow 8.7 per cent, the highest in 20 years. By 1974, it was

Viet blame load on solons eased

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary James Schlesinger, in line with a new administration policy, sought Sunday to avoid fixing all the blame for the military debacle in South Vietnam on the Congress.

While acknowledging that a sharp decline in American military aid to Saigon was a factor in the collapse of the South Vietnamese forces, he said the question of who is to blame is a "simple question in a very complex set of events."

"Congress clearly cannot in any way be held responsible, for the cohesion, the discipline, the training, the leadership, the command and control of South Vietnamese forces."

Arguing that the Congress and the president work together, Schlesinger said there is no point in this country "doing less in this time than an extended post-mortem on Vietnam that is as divisive as the Vietnam episode itself."

"The only thing that we need less than that is a major contribution between the executive and the legislature," he said.

The problem, as Schlesinger indicated Sunday, is that the administration does believe that additional aid would have helped Saigon, although now there is no effort to put the onus for the collapse solely on Congress.

Appearing on the CBS program "Face the Nation," Schlesinger stressed that without additional military aid Saigon would definitely collapse.

Schlesinger acknowledged that he did not know if the additional aid — as reported by Congress — would do any good, asserting that this was "the great imponderable about American aid."

"If we are to refrain from giving aid in these cases in which we do not know the outcome, then we will, through a self-fulfilling prophecy, create the fall of many countries," he said.

"I think in this case, it's a question more of the national honor, the perception of American commitments," he said. "No one can say at this stage that provision of military equipment represents the equivalent of a gift-aid investment," Schlesinger said.

"What one can say is it represents a continuation of the American commitment so that all parties will see that the United States was the nation that gave a reasonable chance for the South Vietnamese to survive."

Schlesinger said the South Vietnamese had cast "longing glances" at the possibility of the resumption of B-52 air strikes, but that Ford had ruled out a return of American combat involvement.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — President Ford sent his friend and photographer David Hume Kennerly to Vietnam to find out how it really is, and the young man returned Saturday calling the North Vietnamese "really crummy people."

The 28-year-old White House photographer described a vulgarly to describe the chaotic situation in South Vietnam. "It is really s---y and you can quote me," he said.

Kennerly said the refugees are "terrified they are going to get killed."

"The North Vietnamese are really crummy people," he said.

Kennerly, who won a Pulitzer prize for his combat photography in Vietnam while working for UPI a few years ago, described what has happened to the country and the people since he was there. He spoke of officers running out on their troops. He talked of "Vietnamese" friends begging him to take their babies to America.

Ford dispatched Kennerly, at the photographer's request, to Saigon along with Army Chief of Staff Frederick Weyand. Aides said the President wanted not only the General's official report but the views of a person with experiences, friends and contacts in South Vietnam.

Saturday morning when Weyand joined Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to report to Ford at his Palm Springs vacation villa, Kennerly talked to reporters.

"All my friends were begging me to take their children," he said.

His hands jammed into the pockets of his white suit — the blouse and jacket that for a decade has been a kind of unofficial uniform of reporters and photographers in Vietnam — he said — "It is the worst thing that has ever happened to me in my life."

Then came that dirty word. "They (South Vietnamese) feel they have been let down by the United States. There is no doubt about that. I cannot even blame the people who shot at me," he said.

South Vietnamese Marines, rioting aboard a refugee ship from Da Nang, fired on a U.S. helicopter carrying the bearded photographer and others. There was no damage.

"The leadership of South Vietnam has not been exactly premier," Kennerly said. "You cannot blame the soldiers. If you see your colonel getting on a helicopter to leave, it would be pretty disheartening."

"It is so terrible to see what is happening to my old friends. All of my friends (South Vietnamese) know they are going to get killed.

"There are a lot of people who want to fight. They are wondering why it does not get organized," Kennerly said, referring to Saigon's leadership.

"What can America do? Some additional aid would help," he said.

Poppy seed produces morphine

CHICAGO Daily News CHICAGO — To the surprise of the federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, scientists here have been able to obtain morphine from poppy seeds commonly added to bread and rolls.

University of Illinois pharmacologists purchased the poppy seeds from supermarkets, grew them under special conditions in greenhouses and obtained plants which morphine was extracted.

They called for a change in the law that would require edible poppy seeds to be sterilized to remove their capacity to germinate.

John Bartels Jr., director of the narcotics bureau, said from Washington he had believed the seeds were sterilized. He said the subject would be looked into.

The narcotics bureau lists as "narcotic" all parts of the poppy plant except its seeds, since they do not contain opium or morphine.

But no one apparently realized that the seed could be grown to make a new poppy plant from which morphine could be extracted by elaborate chemical means.

Poppy seeds used in baking and mixed into fillings for cakes and confections are not harmful to themselves to anyone eating them.

USSR stockpiling missiles in Africa

NEW YORK — Defense Department officials say the Soviet Union is stockpiling long-range guided missiles in East Africa in a large new mobile missile support installation at Berbera, Somalia.

These so-called cruise missiles are believed intended for the surface ships and submarines of the Soviet squadron deployed in the Indian Ocean. The squadron, whose strength is said to vary from 10 to 15 ships, is active in the Arabian Sea, the section of the Indian Ocean east of the entrance to the Persian Gulf.

It is believed the Soviet stockpile is required of rapid resupplying of its cruise missiles, a military analyst said, the Russians and their Arab friends from Iraq to Southern Yemen could in an international crisis control the exits from the Persian Gulf and from the Suez Canal-Red Sea supply lines.

The missiles are believed to range from the SSC-1, with a range of 200 miles, to the SS-N-5 with a range of 700 miles.

The death of King Faisal, the strongly anti-Communist ruler of Saudi Arabia, the steady flow of sophisticated Soviet weapons to Iraq, Syria and Egypt and the breakdown of negotiations between Israel and Egypt has led some officials to talk of a prewar, rather than a postwar, situation.

Stable oil price seen for Saudis

CHICAGO Daily News JEDDAH, Saudi Arabia — Although King Khaled and Crown Prince Fahd are publicly committed to seeking a further reduction in oil prices, informed sources say that at best Saudi Arabia can be expected to maintain a stable price for oil at current dollar values.

And sources who have daily contact with the top levels of the government and royal family say it would be "extremely foolish" to assume that Arabia would be any less willing to impose another oil embargo than has his brother and predecessor, King Faisal.

In his first policy statement issued on behalf of the new king, Crown Prince Fahd said Saudi Arabia continues to favor a reduction in oil prices.

But in realistic terms, informed sources say that if Saudi Arabia is capable of effecting a price cut by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) this year, general opposition within OPEC to a price rollback will keep any cut to a modest, token reduction.

The sources say, however, that by virtue of its strong voice in OPEC and its daily growing stock of surplus crude oil, Saudi Arabia will be able to maintain a constant price for oil at current dollar values.

"Considering the state of the world economy and the wide fluctuating monetary market," said the sources, "Saudi Arabia's power to maintain a steady price at current dollar values is itself a considerable accomplishment."

Walkers

453 Main Ave. East Twin Falls

Your health

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
I am 67 years old. Seven years ago I suffered a slight heart attack. Shortly afterward, I began suffering angina attacks. I cannot do any more potato farming and still do what work I can, driving a tractor or truck.
However, walking bothers me as much as anything, especially uphill. I am taking medication for my angina. Can you tell me if I am better off keeping active or should I retire completely? — F.R.C.

Many angina patients continue active lives and learn the art of nitroglycerine tablets — when precisely to take one, when to stop, and how to avoid a potential attack situation, such as before heavy exertion or a heavy meal, or, in your case, when there is a need to considerable distances.

They learn, too, that exertion is not the only factor in bringing on an attack. Breathing cold air will induce angina.

But, as to your question: I would not advise you to retire, but instead I advise you to learn all these tricks you need, including the ones I've listed, so you can remain active, safely.
Take cold air, for example. There is a plastic mask that can be worn over the nose and mouth in cold air, windy weather.
As to your walking, you know that tractors and trucks, especially as they get on in years, become unpredictable in behavior. Since walking gives you problems, you should be armed with a whistle or a horn, so that if you are ever straddled 30 or 80 acres away from the dinner bell, you can give a signal to let someone know to come and get you.
If you are overweight, reduce — admittedly a tough assignment with a farm kitchen around.

67-year-old shouldn't retire

Studies have shown that anginal discomfort can be reduced, along with the need for nitroglycerine, if one engages in regular but mild forms of exercise. Driving a tractor or truck within reasonable limits seems to qualify for this.

So, no, there is no need for retirement even though you are 67, beyond the generally accepted retirement age. Having been active as you probably have been all your life, you might deteriorate more quickly as a retiree.

I would suggest a modification of your chores, especially those involving extensive walking. And there is medication besides nitroglycerine which can be used in a regular, non-emergency dosage to avoid angina pain.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
I have always had healthy fingernails. For the past few years I've been troubled with ridges on only some of my nails. I've left polish off for weeks, and have been treating them with cream. I always wear gloves for chores, as you recommend, so it can't be the soap.
Also, I have another problem. My jaw seems to move around. My left ear seems to be involved. The whole thing is bothering me. — Mrs. E.R.

Nails first. I presume you are referring to longitudinal, or lengthwise, ridges. Small ones are not uncommon as one gets older. Large ridges can be caused by a defect (a scar, for example) at the base of the nail, or in the matrix from which the nail growth begins.

Local application of creams will not help this. Often, it is a matter of the stress to which your nails have been subjected over your lifetime. It is not strange for only two or three nails to be affected. The thumb and middle nails of the hands seem to take the worst of this punishment over the years.

As to your jaw problem, have your dentist check your "bite." Malocclusion of the teeth can often be a factor. This can produce peculiar ear sensations with jaw movement.

If afflicted with problem fingernails or toenails, learn the practical, medically correct form of treatment. Write Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 3999, Elgin, Ill. 60120 for a copy of his booklet, "Solving Your Nail Problems," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Mini-Reviews

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Public Library officials have released mini-reviews for some of the new books recently received by the library.

"A Sensitive, Passionate Man" by Barbara Mahoney.

This is a story of an extraordinary love affair between two people and the agony of the battle against the husband's alcoholism.

"The CIA and the Cult of 'Intelligence'" by Victor Marchetti. There can only be one reason why the CIA tried to censor this book — it tells the truth about the CIA.

"The Rainbow Men" by Glendon Swarthout. This panoramic novel is set in Berlin, London and Hollywood.

It is the story of the crew of the "Lady Beaird," a B-17 bomber based in Britain during World War II.

"The Shooters" by Glendon Swarthout. Most men may end their days in bed or take their own lives, but a man-killer has a third option, one which Brooks decides to exercise. He may choose his own executioner.

"Bed in Hell" by Elfrida

Vipont. This is a story of Maurice Lydonal, crippled in a body but forced by circumstances to be ruthless in spirit and of his driving ambition which ultimately is so destructive to those around him.

Women await Supreme Court ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sandra Wetzel and Mari Ross, who worked for Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. in Pittsburgh, took time off for childbirth in 1971.

The company affords its employees income protection in the event of disability. But the two women were not eligible because the plan does not apply to pregnancies.

They fought the issue through the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission, the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and two federal courts.

When their lawsuits were successful, Liberty Mutual appealed to the Supreme Court where the case is now awaiting the justices' attention. Lower courts have been handing down conflicting decisions in similar litigation. The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and General Electric Co. are among the other firms involved.

The Supreme Court has already spoken on this subject but in a different context — a constitutional challenge to state, as opposed to private, disability insurance programs.

The 14th Amendment to the Constitution guarantees to all persons the "equal protection of the laws." Four women attacked a California disability insurance system on the ground that it provided benefits for almost any incapably, including cesarean surgery and attempted suicide, but not for normal pregnancy.

A six-man Supreme Court majority turned a deaf ear to their arguments. The opinion by Justice Potter Stewart held that, even though pregnancy is peculiar to women, California was not really classifying people according to sex and had a right to keep the plan within sound actuarial limits.

Mrs. Wetzel and Mrs. Ross invoked Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights act, which forbids discrimination in job opportunities on the basis of race and sex.

Also the EEOC, after six years of taking a different view, in 1972 issued guidelines barring employers from discriminating between men and women with regard to employment policies and fringe benefits.

Liberty Mutual vainly insisted to Federal District Judge Gerald J. Weber and the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that the Supreme Court opinion in the California case governs the situation.

Youth named United Nations delegate

SHOSHONE — Richard Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Ray Webb, Shoshone, has been named the United Nations Youth Pilgrimage delegate from district six, Odd Fellows and Rebekahs.

Final judging for the selection of winners was held at the Shoshone 100F Hall Wednesday night.

The area takes in Gooding, Jerome, Wendell, Hagerman, Fairfield and Shoshone and the delegate for this year was to be selected from Shoshone, Hitchfield or Dietrich.

Students participating in the contest were Chris Hildinger, Dietrich; Sherry Fredrickson, Richfield; Patty Faught, Shoshone; Alan Garrett, Shoshone, and Richard Webb, Shoshone.

Sherry Fredrickson is the alternate. She is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson L. Fredrickson.

Themes written by the youths were judged by faculty members of the English Department of the College of Southern Idaho. Judges for the speaking contest were Harold B. Livingston, executive director of the Magic Valley Rehabilitation Center in Twin Falls; Mrs. Kenneth H. Dameron, assistant executive director, and Lew Rodriguez, rehabilitation specialist at the rehabilitation service, Twin Falls.

The pilgrimage is sponsored each year by the 100F and Rebekahs of the United States and Canada.

The three-week tour begins in Idaho Falls on July 14 and includes six days in New York touring the United Nations.

Both sides eye spud price gains

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Both sides are predicting victory in the price battle between potato processors and growers of Idaho. Inc., has not been able to reach any agreement on 1975 contract rates with several processors, including J.R. Simplot Co., Ore-Ida Foods, Inc., and others.

Officials of both Simplot and Ore-Ida predicted Monday that their companies should be able to fill their contract slots for 1975 at the offered price.

But T.C. McClain, vice-president of bargaining for the PGI, said today he "definitely disagrees" with the processor's contention that the contracts will be arranged up.

John Catey, general manager of agriculture at Ore-Ida, said today: "We have had a large interest in our contracts, and I don't expect problems in contracting the acreage we desire."

The 1975 Ore-Ida contract should average about $3.20 in the Burley area, Catey said last year, Ore-Ida growers averaged about $4.30 to $4.40, according to Catey.

Hugo DalSoglio, general manager of the Heyburn Simplot plant, said Simplot has received applications for "considerably more" acres than the company plans to contract.

But DalSoglio said until the contracts were all signed, he could not predict whether the company would run into problems attracting growers.

Simplot is offering a straight contract of $3.15 or a contract of $3 with incentives. The average payout last year was near $4.50.

DalSoglio said Simplot contracted about 30,000 acres last year in the south central Idaho area, but estimated the company would only contract about half as many acres this year.

Catey would not give specific figures on Ore-Ida's contract acreage for this year or last, but said the acreage this year would be "considerably less" than last year.

The Potato Growers of Idaho maintain that the offered contract prices do not assure a reasonable return for their product.

In a newspaper advertisement urging members to stand together, the PGI indicated growers face "an increase in cost of production of $150 to $200 per acre over 1974 production costs."

In light of these increases, the contract offered by Ore-Ida would mean a loss to most growers, he said.

"We estimate that approximately seventy per cent of our producers will show a net loss. Twenty per cent will break even, and only ten per cent will show a minimum profit," he said.

R.L. Stimpson, a spokesman for the PGI, said if the processors do not come up with better terms for the growers, the PGI members may be forced to go to the open market or switch to other crops, according to United Press International.

The UPI story said Stimpson said the prices offered by the processors are below the cost of production and the processors are asking for a higher quality in the potatoes they buy.

Meetings to "assess" the PGI's position are scheduled for later this week, according to McClain.

According to Stimpson, processors have used "scare tactics" such as misleading growers about the numbers of contracts already signed.

"That's one thing I dislike. If the growers are misled on contracts, this becomes a scare tactic," UPI quoted Stimpson as saying.

Spring snow fall

SPRING is famous for its snowfalls, but not for its slide snowfalls.

As new snow fell Sunday and today in Twin Falls, the snow at first clung to this slide but then began to slide toward the bottom, leaving a heap of snow there. Below, park swings present a forlorn sight to small children who probably wish spring would return.

SUN-VALLEY — Even though there is a record seven feet of snow on top of Bald Mountain, Sun Valley officially closed its winter season Sunday.

Operating at half their usual capacity, three lifts were closed down on Baldy the last week of the season, as well as the Elkhorn left near Dollar Mountain.

After 10 inches of new snow in the last five days, skiing was pronounced excellent Sunday even though the visibility was close to zero at times. During the day the bowls were closed and the many skiers took refuge from the storm in Lookout restaurant on top of Baldy, the only one left open on the mountain.

According to Tom Farr, district forest ranger, there are now 97 inches of snow on Baldy, a new record for the date. He also said that on March 28 and 29 a minimum of 10 degrees below zero on Baldy, a new low temperature, was set.

A Sun Valley spokesman stated, "All we can say is the January snows came a little late this year."

Views sought tonight

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls school board members will "listen to the people" tonight at a public meeting on kindergarten, according to Supl. George Staudsaber.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the O'Leary Junior High School auditorium.

Citizens will be asked to voice their opinions on whether Twin Falls should start a kindergarten program and, if so, how the classes should be set up. "We certainly will have to make the final decision, but we also certainly want to hear what the public has to say about it," trustee chairman Dr. Howard Rank said last night.

Although the school board has taken a pro-kindergarten stance, it could be swayed to a negative position "if there is an overwhelming feeling against kindergartens," Rank said.

The recently adjourned Idaho legislature appropriated $3.1 million for a statewide kindergarten program, but gave school districts the option of not starting the classes for 3-year-olds.

Bellevue voters to pick aides

By BART NEWSWELL
Times-News writer

BELLEVUE — Today is election day in Bellevue. The outcome of the mayoral and council election probably will be settled on basic issues — roads, streets and the city charter.

Bellevue is the only town in the state that has retained its charter from the 1890's era. Some candidates in this election have voiced criticism of the charter although most go along with its basic premises.

The voting will be conducted from noon until 6 p.m. at the city library. Voters must have registered this year or have voted in 1974.

Robert Thomas is challenging Lloyd (Pet) Johnson, who is running for his third term as mayor. Three past councilmen are running for election including Joe Bergin, Ralph Griffin and Jerry Smith. Smith filled councilman Mike McGraw's seat after McGraw resigned last year.

Running against Bergin and Griffin will be Jim Burk, Roger Fry and Byron Downard. Glenn Stelma and Martin Gutches will run for Smith's seat.

Thomas contends the council has been run by Johnson with little input from councilmen. He says the city charter should be followed in every instance. Oftentimes the charter is ignored, he said, when it might hinder council actions.

Johnson and Thomas disagree on the publishing of the city's financial statement. Presently it is published once a year.

Thomas feels the statement should be published quarterly. Johnson feels the present practice is "fine."

Road and street repair and a good water system are issues which have been agreed. Johnson says the city has opted all but two of its streets for six blocks east and west of main street and added new feeder lines to the water system.

Water-pressure-sill-plagues many residents, however, on the outskirts of town who were without water on occasion last summer.

Bergin said he stands behind Johnson. "New people and ideas are always welcome," he said. "The council has worked well in the past." He said the charter should be and is followed in every instance.

Byron Downard, running for Bergin's seat said the charter is antiquated but the council should stick to it. Downard said the city is run by a small group of people and he would like to see more young people involved.

Roger Fry said he would like to see more open meetings. He said the people should know how city funds are being used.

Jim Burk said the water system should be upgraded. He said there should be more facilities in town for kids.

Glenn Stelma said the council should have some new faces, although he would hate to see all the positions turned over in one election.

Incumbent Jerry Smith said upgrading of the water system is important. Smith also favors a dog leash law for Bellevue.

Park fishing rules change

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo. (UPI) — Acting Superintendent Bob Haraden said today fishing regulations for the 1975 season at Yellowstone National Park have been revised to protect spawning fish.

Haraden said one major change is the size limit for fish taken from Yellowstone Lake. All fish over 13 inches taken from the lake must be returned, which is a reversal of previous rules, he said.

Haraden said the change was made to protect spawning fish above 13 inches in length because they are better able to reach the upper section of the spawning streams. The larger fish also play a major role in control of rough fish in the lake. Haraden said another significant change in Yellowstone fishing rules is that all streams above the upper falls draining into Yellowstone Lake will open for fishing August 1. Instead of the usual July 15 to allow spawning fish to reach the headwaters of the streams.

Spider fells TF youth, 14,

TWIN FALLS — After apparently being bitten by a rare brown Recluse spider and a five day stint in the hospital, Tony Gamet returned to classes at O'Leary Junior High School today.

Tony, the 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gamet, developed a 102.6 degree fever the morning after being bitten by what his doctor now believes to have been a Brown Recluse, according to Mrs. Gamet.

From the beginning the doctor had been fairly sure the boy had been bitten by a spider while sleeping in the basement downstairs. Mrs. Gamet said. And with the development of the symptoms afterwards, the doctor decided the spider probably was a Recluse, a nearly hair-like long brown spider with a violin shaped mark on its back, he added.

But since a spider was not captured there is no way of knowing for certain if the bite came from a Recluse Spider.

Following the bite, Tony, a diabetic, developed a high blood sugar count and felt too sick at his stomach to eat.

He spent five days last week at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital being fed intravenously and taking antibiotics.

Tony's hand was so swollen from the bite its palm lines could barely be seen, Mrs. Gamet said.

It took two to three days for his temperature to return to normal and his blood sugar level still is somewhat high.

Even so, Tony returned to school today and hopes to join in the March of Dimes Walkathon Saturday, Mrs. Gamet said.

She said Tony was particularly concerned about what would happen if a small child was bitten by a Recluse Spider.

Juvenile boy in custody

TWIN FALLS — A boy allegedly shot at a parked helicopter with his BB gun and was captured. An estimated $2,000 damage was reported to a disabled helicopter parked at A.V.I. at the Twin Falls airport, Pete Lazaros, owner of A.V.I. told city police.

A juvenile boy was taken into custody in connection with the incident.

Lazaros told officers the helicopter had been parked there for some time and the power pack removed. Damage was reported to the bubble front cover and a dashboard. The machine is owned by a Montana resident, Lazaros said.

Judge still 'serious'

POCATELLO — Magistrate Reed P. Maughan, Twin Falls, is still in the intensive care unit of Bannock Memorial Hospital here following surgery.

Hospital officials said he is still considered in serious condition. Judge Maughan was stricken while attending a meeting in Pocatello last Wednesday and underwent surgery to remove an obstruction in a blood vessel.

2-year-old TF boy improved

BOISE — Emery Lynch Jr., 2-year-old Twin Falls boy who was flown to Boise last week with a gunshot wound in the head is now listed in fair condition at St. Alphonsus Hospital.

The child was injured when he dropped a pistol on the floor while trying to remove it from his father's holster. The boy was in critical condition when flown to Boise.

Escapee caught

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (UPI) — City, county and state police officers arrested an escapee from Washington State Prison Sunday night.

Officers identified him as Brian John Smith, 23, a convicted burglar who was serving 10 years when he escaped a couple of months ago.

They picked him up originally on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Upon further checking they discovered he was an escaped prisoner.

ISU speaker set

POCATELLO (UPI) — The National Executive Director of the American Indian Movement will speak at Idaho State University Thursday.

Dennis J. Banks, 42, the father of 14 children, will speak on timely Indian topics as part of the ISU Issues and Speakers Committee series.

His presentation begins at 8 p.m. in the Film Theatre of the Student Union Building.

Pups reported stolen

TWIN FALLS — Becky Sandberg, 234 4th Ave. E. told city police someone took two black and white collie pups from her home Saturday. She said the dogs, Border Collie type, were one and one half months old and were believed to have been taken by three young men Saturday afternoon.

Feds dissatisfied with Idaho reactor tests

TWIN FALLS — The U.S. Government is dissatisfied with testing for possible flaws in its experimental nuclear reactor being built for the Idaho Nuclear Engineering Laboratory.

(INEL); according to the New York Times. The government has ordered a new automated, computerized inspection device to measure possible cracks in the reactors, the newspaper reported Sunday.

In a general story on the problems of reactor inspection, the Times cited experts in the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission as saying that the ultrasonic test used to measure cracks in the pipes of the nation's reactors are not reliable. But though the experts admit that undetected cracks probably still exist in reactor pipes, they maintain the flaws pose no hazard to the public, the Times reported.

Besides recently released government documents, the Times cited a December report of the Aerojet Nuclear Co., which is building an experimental reactor for INEL, as saying that welds in the thick stainless steel pipes "are difficult and sometimes impossible to examine meaningfully with conventional ultrasonic equipment."

Ultrasonic testing attracted public attention last September when the Government ordered the 3 utility owners of 23 reactors to look for cracks in a four-inch bypass pipe after leaks were discovered in similar pipes of three reactors during one 10-day period.

Four months later, on Jan. 29, the Government again ordered most of the same reactors to close down for a special inspection.

On March 5, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission announced that "inspection of 21 of the nation's 123 licensed boiling water power reactors revealed no cracks in the primary reactor piping or back-up emergency core cooling system piping." An additional crack was discovered at Dresden Unit 2, and another reactor was given permission to postpone its inspection.

In a report on March 15 to the Energy Research and Development Administration, Julius R. Frederick, a professor at the University of Michigan's School of Engineering, said that the latest inspection "indicates that current ultrasonic techniques may be inadequate in stainless steel." He added, "There is a variety of possible solutions to these problems."

Orlolo bidder sits tight

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — With all hope for a state loan to help purchase the Baltimore Orioles gone, Bill Veck, the top bidder for the team, said Sunday the next move in the transactions is up to Orioles board chairman Jerold C. Hoffberger.

VECK, a three-time baseball owner, sold from his Easton, Md., home that he has no idea what his purchase group will do next, now that the Maryland Senate has rejected Gov. Marvin Maitzel's proposal for a state-backed $4 million dollar loan to Veck.

"I think it's a little premature to make a decision," Veck said. "The decision is primarily that of the seller. I can't make his decision."

Winds ground Stones

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — World high jump record holder Dwight Stones of the Pacific Crest Club, hampered by winds gusting to 25 miles an hour, failed to clear seven feet for the first time since last April 26 and finished second to Reynaldo Brown Sunday at the Las Vegas Relays track and field meet.

Brown, of the All-American Track Club of Los Angeles, won the event at 7'0 while Stones, who set the record of 7'6 1/2 in 1973, cleared only 6'10. Stones last failed to make seven feet at the Djake Relays last year when he went 6'8.

Aussie swimmer wins freestyle

TOKYO (UPI) — Sonya Gray of Australia defeated teenage teammate Jenny Turrall in the women's 200 meter freestyle Sunday as both swimmers easily bettered the Japanese national record on the final day of the three-day Japan indoor swimming championships.

Miss Gray, 15, clocked 2:06.84 and Miss Turrall, 14, 2:10.83 at the 50-meter Tokyo Metropolitan Indoor pool to top the previous Japanese best of 2:12.91 held by Yoshimi Nishigawa.

Petty captures 12th win

NORTH WILKESBORO, N. C. (UPI) — Richard Petty, leading 311 of 400 laps, Sunday captured his 12th win at the North Wilkesboro Speedway at the Gwyn Staley 400 NASCAR stock car race.

The 37-year-old Handelman, N. C., native picked up a purse of $6,675 for his efforts on the five-eighths mile track in his Dodge, ahead of Cale Yarborough of Tompkinsville, S.C., in a Chevrolet.

Petty, who had the second highest qualifying speed for the race, picked up his fourth win in seven Winston Cup starts and increased his lead in Winston cup point standings to 235 points over second place Cecil Gordon. He now has 168 career wins.

Astros, Braves meet today

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Astros and Atlanta Braves, the two National League West choices to battle for third place behind the Los Angeles and Cincinnati, meet in a 1975 season opener Monday night.

On the mound for the first of a three game series will be Atlanta ace Phil Niekro, 20-13 last year, and Houston's Larry Dierker 11-10.

Besides Niekro, the Braves of manager Clyde King brings in a strong pitching staff to oppose an Astros team worried primarily about its pitchers.

Connors may cancel match

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Tennis star Jimmy Connors' $250,000 match with Australian John Newcombe at Las Vegas, Nev., April 26 may be in jeopardy.

Connors, 22, underwent diagnostic tests, including X-rays and blood tests, at Marina Merc Hospital here during the weekend.

"I don't know just what the trouble is," he said. "I won't get the results of the tests until Monday."

Blalock takes LPGA event

TOKYO (UPI) — Jane Blalock shot back-to-back birdies on the 15th and 16th holes Sunday to knock stubborn Sayoko Yamazaki out of the lead and capture the $33,333 World Ladies Golf Tournament by one stroke.

Miss Blalock took a one stroke lead over Miss Yamazaki into the final round but lost the margin when she bogeyed the second hole. The two remained even until the eighth hole when Miss Yamazaki carded a bogey. They exchanged bogeys once more before Miss Blalock shot the consecutive birdies.

Belgian claims cycle classic

MERBEKE, Belgium, April 6 (UPI) — World champion Eddy Merckx of Belgium sprinted away from his fellow-countryman Frans Verbeek with two miles to go Sunday for his second victory in the Tour of Flanders pro road cycling classic.

Merckx covered the 160 miles in six hours and 16 minutes. Verbeek crossed the finish 30 seconds later. Marc Dameroy of Belgium, sprinted away from the pack in the last 100 meters to take third place, 5:02 behind the winner.

It was Merckx' first victory in the Tour—one of the most difficult cycling classics including many miles of twisting cobblestoned roads and some stiff uphill stretches—since 1969.

Kentuckian top dragger

WARNER ROBINS, Ga. (UPI) — Dale Funk of Valley Station, Ky., drove his Chrysler-powered dragster at 266.22 miles per hour to win the top fuel eliminator race in the National Hot Rod Association's World Championship Series Sunday.

Funk turned the quarter-mile in 5.99 seconds, fastest quarter-mile ever run by a dragster in Georgia.

Kashiwa takes ski cup

CERVINIA CIBOLATO, Italy (UPI) — Hank Kashiwa of the United States won the World Pro Ski Cup with a third place finish in the season's final event, a parallel special slalom.

Runnerup Henry Duvillard of France won the event but Kashiwa wound up the competition with 360 points against 346 for the Frenchman.

Kashiwa finished second in Saturday's giant slalom, which was won by Austrian Werner Bleiner who finished second in the parallel slalom. Duvillard had failed to qualify Saturday.

Soviet captures netter title

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Third seeded Alex Metrevel of the Soviet Union downed Pakistan's Haroon Rahim 6-3, 7-5 Sunday to claim the $2,500 world of the Independent Players Association Georgetown Invitational Tournament.

Metrevel, rated No. 1 in the USSR and within the top ten in the world, started off two set points in game ten of the second set after the determined Pakistani had whittled away at the Russian's 3-0 two service break lead.

Venezuelan wins cycle heat

IMOLA, Italy (UPI) — Venezuelan Johnny Cecotto outlasted Italian ace Giacomo Agostini and America's Ken Roberts Sunday to win the first heat of the Imola 200-mile motorcycle race.

Roberts pulled out on the 14th lap because of a hand injury he suffered at Daytona and Agostini dropped out with mechanical trouble on the 22nd lap after setting a new track record, leaving the field clear for the Venezuelan.

GREENSBORO, N. C. (UPI) — An aggressive Tom Weiskopf, back in the hard-driving form that made him the sensation of the tour two years ago, shot a three-under-par 68 Sunday for a three-stroke victory in the Greater Greensboro Open and a running start at the upcoming Masters Tournament.

"There's no doubt in my mind that I am enjoying the club exactly the way I want to, the same way I did in 1973," said Weiskopf, who finished with a 72-hole total of 275, nine under par on the 6,700-yard Sedgefield Country Club Course.

"There's no reason I can't go into that final hole at Augusta with a chance to win," he said. "I've got a good chance at winning in Augusta and a better chance than 90 per cent of the field."

"I'm not saying I'm going to win—nobody can do that," he said. "But if it doesn't happen this year, I'm confident it will happen some year."

Al Geiberger, a 37-year-old veteran with six wins to his credit, fired his second straight five-under-par 66

Sunday to finish in second place with a total of 278, six under par.

Jerry McGee, a consistent moneywinner on the tour but yet to win a tournament, at one point pulled to within two strokes of Weiskopf when the leader had back-to-back bogeys on the 13th and 14th holes. But McGee double-bogeyed on No. 16 and finished with a 69 for the day and a 280 total, four under par, that was still good for third place all alone.

Nicklaus in the Heritage Classic a week earlier.

"I'm pretty satisfied with my mental attitude; I'm patient and my concentration is excellent," said Weiskopf.

Reds, Dodgers clash in opener

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Although bad weather has already forced some teams to postpone their first games, the traditional Major League baseball season opener here Monday afternoon figures to be played in relatively good weather.

The Cincinnati Reds entertain the Los Angeles Dodgers at 2:30 p.m. (EDT) to officially start the 1975 campaign, and the weather forecast calls for sunny skies and temperatures in the high 50s, possibly reaching the low 60s.

Sold, ice and snow in Detroit and Chicago has forced postponement of inaugural games scheduled there for Tuesday.

The Reds and Dodgers will perform before a sellout crowd of 51,786 at Riverfront Stadium, and the head groundskeeper says the Astroturf field is in excellent condition.

The ceremonial first ball will be thrown out by Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, a native Cincinnati making his first public appearance since suffering a heart attack two months ago.

Also here will be baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn and former astronaut James A. Lovell. Another former astronaut, Neil Armstrong, who now teaches at the University of Cincinnati, is likely to be at the game as well.

President Ford, who threw out the first ball here a year ago minutes before Hank Aaron tied Babe Ruth's home run record, had to turn down an invitation to attend this season.

After Taft makes his ceremonial first toss, the honor of delivering the first real pitch of the season goes to Reds left-hander Don Gullett.

Gullett, who also made the first pitch of the 1974 season but went on to lose to the Giants; will be opposed by Don Sutton.

Sutton came on strong in the second half of last season to finish with a 19-9 record and help the Dodgers win the National League pennant. Gullett, only 24 but beginning his sixth season in the Majors, was 17-11 last year.

Gullett said Sunday he is looking forward to the honor of starting.

"Opening day is more than just another game," Gullett said. "I'm happy to be starting. The weather is important, and it looks like it's going to be good."

The Reds flew in from their Florida spring training camp late Saturday and worked out at Riverfront Stadium Sunday afternoon.

"It's mainly for the nerves," explained Reds manager Sparky Anderson. "We need to get a little of the edge off for opening day."

The Dodgers had a final exhibition game to play Sunday and could not fly here until Sunday night.

Even without Monday's opening-day hoopily of parades, marching bands and award presentations, the Reds-Dodgers clash would still be a top attraction.

The two clubs are considered the best in the National League and are expected to fight it out for the Western Division title.

Los Angeles edged Cincinnati by four games last season, thanks mainly to head-to-head meetings. The Dodgers won 12 of 18 matchups.

Foyt takes Trenton race for 50th title

TRENTON (UPI) — A.J. Foyt of Houston, Tex., reached another milestone in his racing career Sunday when he won his 50th U.S. Auto Club Championship car race at the Trenton 200.

The three-time Indianapolis 500 winner set a 200-mile distance speed record on the 1 1/4-mile course by almost nine miles an hour faster than the previous record, completing the 134 laps in one hour, 17 minutes, 50.07 seconds with an average speed of 154.625 mph.

A crowd of 12,237 watched the race start with an unprecedented "luck of the draw" lineup after high winds Saturday forced cancellation of the scheduled qualifying time trials.

Foyt, 40, a pre-race favorite, picked the 80th starting spot but easily worked his way into the lead by lap 21 and except for pit stops, maintained it throughout the entire distance.

The field ran the first five laps of the event under the yellow caution flag because of a seven-degree wind "chill" factor.

"Everybody was leary about the tires getting warmed up," Foyt said. "We were all scared someone would spin on the cold tires so we just took it easy at the beginning of the race."

Ali, Lyle begin ballyhoo on bout

NEW YORK (UPI) — Muhammad Ali and Ron Lyle began the publicity campaign for their May 16 world heavyweight title fight Sunday with low-key performances which suggested they were preparing for a tea party.

Ali avoided any bombastic predictions about what he would do to the 32-year-old challenger when they meet in Las Vegas, Nev., denied he would make out Lyle to be "a tool of white men" and characterized his opponent as "a gentleman, a fine associate of mine."

Ali made his comments at an ABC-TV press comment at which he appeared along with Lyle, promoter Don King and sportscaster Howard Cosell. Both Ali and King emphasized that the bout would be televised on home TV affording millions of aged and under-privileged people to see the action without paying closed circuit prices.

"Asked if he would train as lightly as Lyle as he had for Chuck Wepner, who he stopped in the 15th round in his last defense, Ali replied:

"I train the way I want to train. I'm not really sure how good Lyle is. I have to see more pictures of him fighting. I'm going to have to do some sparring."

Lyle, who has a 32-2 pro record including 21 knockouts, had an answer ready when asked to defend his right to challenge for the title inasmuch as he has lost to fifth-ranked Jerry Quarry and unranked Jimmy Young.

"Ali is a boxer and I'm a fighter," said Lyle. "Ken Norton lost to George Foreman but Norton broke Ali's jaw and Ali beat Foreman. I don't think it's what you are when you're coming that counts. I think it's what you do when you get there."

"Ali is a great champion and I know he has been an inspiration to many people," Lyle added. "But why should one pro be afraid of another man in your profession?"

Lyle then got a laugh from newsmen at the conference when he turned to Cosell and asked, "Are you afraid of other sportscasters in your profession?"

All said his $1-million purse for the Lyle bout was less than half what he could have negotiated for another title fight but insisted, "millions of poor people, black and white, have never had the opportunity to see this great fighter on home TV or in person. I want the world to see me. I decided to take $1.5-million less so all the world could see this man in action in living color."

Denver trounces Utah in playoff opener

DENVER (UPI) — Ralph Simpson scored 20 points Sunday and combined with Roland "Fatty" Taylor to hold Utah's high scoring guard Ron Boone to just two field goals as the Denver Nuggets rolled in the third quarter for a 122-107 win over the Stars in the opening game of the ABA West playoffs. Nugget coach Larry Brown, his team unable to run the fast break as frequently as it had in rolling up basketball's best record of 65-11 during the regular season, kept rotating Simpson and Taylor in the game to keep them fresh and Boone frustrated. Boone, who set a Stars record with a 25.2 scoring average while hitting 49.5 per cent of his shots, connected on only two of 12 field goal attempts in the game. He finished with 10 points, hitting 7 of 17 free throws. In playing 37 minutes, the former Idaho State star also committed eight turnovers.

Randy Denton led Utah with 26 points and 11 rebounds while rookie Moses Malone, who turned 20 years old on March 23, had 25 points and 19 rebounds. Denver, which was 40-2 at home during the regular season and beat UTAH in nine of 11 games to win the season series with the Stars for the first time, gained control of the contest early in the third quarter, outscoring the Stars 22-9 in the first 6:25 of the second half. And what made the third quarter sport, which saw Denver jump a 53-51 halftime lead into a runaway, was that Denver had only four rebounds to 14 for Utah. But the Nuggets didn't commit an error while forcing Utah to turnover the ball six times.

The Stars, who finished the regular season with less than 50 wins for the first time in their six years in Utah with a 38-46 record, kept in the game with free throw shooting. They had hit 11 of 12 at one point in the first quarter while Denver was only three of five and eight of the Stars successful free throws came while they were held scoreless from the floor in a span of 3:28 late in the period.

The two teams met again in Denver Monday and then go to Utah for games Wednesday and Friday. The winner of the series will meet the winner of the San Antonio-Indiana series, which Indiana leads 1-0.

By virtue of its last place finish, the Lakers will flip a coin with New Orleans to determine which team selects first in the upcoming NBA draft. Lloyd Neal paced the Trail Blazers with 21 points while Chazz Russell was game high for Los Angeles with 25.

Blazers take finale

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Portland Trail Blazers, with seven players scoring in double figures, took an easy 126-97 victory Sunday over the Los Angeles Lakers in a season-ending game for both clubs.

The game was highlighted by retiring Portland player-coach Lenny Wilkens' 41 points, which boosted him into 11th place on the all-time NBA scoring list. He is retiring after 15 years in the league. Portland finished the season with a 38-44 record, its best ever in five years of NBA play while the Lakers finished the year with its worst record ever, 30-52, and last place in the NBA Pacific Division. Portland outscored the Lakers 30-15 in the second quarter enroute to a 66-41 half time lead and was never threatened in the second half. Wilkens received a two-minute standing ovation prior to the game as he was presented with the game ball following a ceremonial tipoff.

He finished his career with 37,771 points and also finished playing more games than any other player except Ital Greer of the Philadelphia 76ers.

Knicks outscore Buffalo, gain playoffs as Cavs lose

NEW YORK (UPI) — The streets of New York were quieter than usual Sunday and the Nelson ratings must have been high for CBS as the Knicks and their fans gathered, nervously around television sets to watch the Kansas City-Omaha Kings edge the Cleveland Cavaliers and give the Knicks a pass to the playoffs.

The Knicks, who scattered to different parts of the city to find out whether their 105-93 victory over the Buffalo Braves in the first half of a nationally televised game meant anything, gained the NBA East wild card playoff berth when the Cavs were beaten 95-94. Both teams finished with 40-42 records but the Knicks go into the playoffs because they beat Cleveland in their season series.

Behagen block wins playoff bye for Kings

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Ron Behagen blocked a last second shot by Fred Foster Sunday as the Kansas City-Omaha Kings knocked the Cleveland Cavaliers out of the playoffs and gave themselves a bye in the playoff qualifying round.

The loss by Cleveland, coupled with New York's win over Buffalo in the first half of the nationally televised doubleheader, left both the Cavs and the Knicks with 40-42 records. New York, however, claimed the wildcard playoff spot in the NBA East by virtue of its 3-1 season series edge over Cleveland.

With one second remaining, Fred Foster put the ball up, but Behagen blocked the shot, while the Kings' Scott Wedman retained possession. Chones led the Cavs in scoring with 23 points, with Brewer adding 18.

Nets claim opener

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — Billy Paulitz hit nine of nine shots from the free-throw line in the second half and scored 24 points as the New York Nets overcame an early 15-point St. Louis lead to defeat the Spirits 111-105 in the opening game of the ABA's best-of-seven Eastern Division semifinal round.

New York led behind by as many as 15 points in the first quarter but reeled off 18 straight points during a span of five minutes of second period to take the lead at 41-37. The Nets' Marvin Barnes, who finished with a game high of 41 points, took charge again, and put the Spirits ahead by five at 54-49 at intermission.

Czechs trounce US team

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — Czechoslovakia bombarded U.S. goaltender Jim Ward with 93 shots Sunday en route to an 8-3 victory over the peppy but inexperienced American team in the world ice hockey championships.

Bullets down Jazz

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — Wes Unseld grabbed 30 rebounds to capture the National Basketball Association rebound title and the Washington Bullets became only the 13th team in league history to win 60 games Sunday afternoon as they romped to a 119-105 victory over the New Orleans Jazz.

Unseld's 30 rebounds gave him a total of 1,077 and an average of 14.753, edging Celtic Dave Cowens who finishes at 14,738. The Bullets had little trouble in equaling the Los Angeles Lakers 1971-72 best home record of 36-5 as Elvin Hayes stalked recognition to a 33-19 lead with 12 first quarter points.

Seattle nips Suns

SEATTLE (UPI) — Driving toward their first playoff action ever, the Seattle SuperSonics won their seventh straight game, tying the longest streak in team history, as they downed the Phoenix Suns 114-111 in their final regular National Basketball Association game.

Veteran Archie Clark pumped in 31 points to lead the Sonics in a game that meant little to either team and was marked by sloppy play, turnovers and poor shooting. Seattle finished the regular season with a 43-39 record, second best in team history, while Phoenix closed out at 32-50 and faces a major rebuilding program in the off-season.

Bulls whip Bucks

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Milwaukee Garrett scored 15 of his 19 points in the fourth quarter Sunday night to lead the playoff-bound Chicago Bulls to a 112-100 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks in the final regular season game for both clubs.

The Bulls led 81-75 going into the final quarter, but the Bucks closed to within 85-82 before Garrett got Chicago back on the right track. Norm Van Lier led the Bucks with 24 points and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Milwaukee led all scorers with 34.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, plagued by uncertainties over interest rates and consolidating first quarter gains, drifted lower Monday in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 4.38 to 742.88 shortly before noon EDT. Declines led advances, 848 to 284, among the 1,551 issues crossing the tape.

The two-hour turnover amounted to about 6,700,000 shares, compared with 6,550,000 traded during the same period Friday.

Many analysts said investors were waiting for signs of the market's direction. Also, they are awaiting some news developments.

In addition, there is uncertainty on Wall Street about interest rates. This has been caused by a huge Federal deficit and by corporations seeking financing to help them out of the recession.

Early in the day, Indiana Standard said it had made an oral offer of $220 million to Passco, a 55 per cent owned subsidiary of Studebaker. The offer was for the Myrtlewood and Fox fields. Passco was the third most active NYSE issue, gaining 1/4 to 2 1/2 on 82,500 shares. Studebaker Worthington gained 2 1/2 and Indiana Standard lost 1/2.

American Telephone & Telegraph warrants led active, off 1/16 to 68.8000 traded.

Travelers Corp. followed, off 1/4 to 21 1/2, on 114,000 shares. Travelers analysts predicted a substantial increase in 1975 investment income.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 8, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Handle odds and ends requiring your own personal attention. Be good to others who are less fortunate; so out of your way to relieve their distress. Avoid feeling you are being put upon. Be kind.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Clean up all those small accumulated tasks so you can get into more important activities later. More thought for mate brings fine benefits.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Consider what is best for both you and your friends who go out to see them. Attend some group affair. Exchange views with others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Consult with a bigwig; follow advice given. Pay bills for better credit in the future. Take it easy tonight and rest.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study into new ideas and interests carefully. Then put in operation only those that can be successful. Listen to new contacts.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Consult with others concerned to know how to keep promises made. Listen to mate's ideas that could be mutually beneficial.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Put plan across wisely. If you push a close tie too far, you can later regret it. Realize that this period is under tension.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Improve appearance of surroundings to suit your taste. Come to greater accord with co-workers. Get right health treatment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Once important work is done, enjoy recreation. Show loved one more affection. Don't play the field or serious trouble is possible.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Please those who dwell with you and establish more harmony in that important realm. Spend more time studying planned project.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Handle those tasks you have been putting off, since they are vital to your welfare now. Get needed information for new projects.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle monetary affairs conscientiously with the aid of an expert in business. Organize budget. Take up the matter of retirement plan.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Handle personal matters wisely and get right results. Dress in fine style and cut a real swathe. Happiness is yours for the making.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will learn early to study the complete situation before undertaking it and can then bring matters to a logical level for right handling.

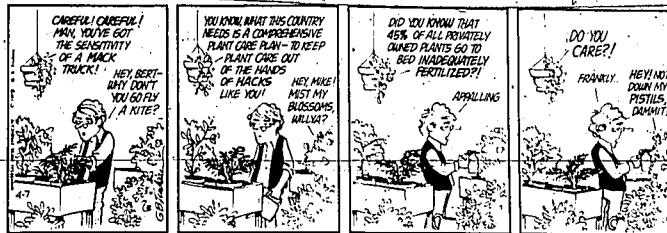

Give the spiritual and philosophical training early that will be the guideline for life. Then this becomes an extraordinarily successful and happy chart. There is a good marriage indicated here. Teach to be a good sport.

what's what

L.M. Boyd

The Talmudists believed that Lilith, otherwise known as Lilit, was the first wife of Adam. He cast her out, because, as it were, she wouldn't eat apples with him. So she returned as a spectre to haunt his posterity, being particularly hostile to all new babies. Therefore, ancient Jewish mothers sang, "Lilias ab!" meaning "Lilias, keep away." That's where we get our word "Lullaby."

IN THE intelligence ratings of animals, hogs rank ninth, sir.

NO OTHER OIL is said to be as fine as the oil in the headbones of a porpoise.

A BIG COMPUTER can execute its operations so quickly that it would take one of same only about 20 minutes to calculate some bit of data about every person on earth.

ARMOR

Q: "How much would a 160-pound knight weigh in full armor?"

A. Figure 335 pounds.

THERE'S NOT much chalk in chalk, you know. It's mostly plaster of paris.

SAV YOU'RE ferryboating across one of the Great Lakes. Do you consider yourself to be on the "high seas"? The U.S. Supreme Court says yes, you are.

SOME MEDICS contend that one out of every 10 people nationwide are sick, but sick only because they think they're sick. In other words, hypochondriacs. That's not one out of 10 who are sick, but one out of 10, counting everybody.

LOVE AND WAR

Only 14 per cent of the nation's brides are engaged to the men they actually marry more than one year. Length of the average engagement is six months. Our Love and War man says that is as it should be. Engagements that are considerably shorter or considerably longer tend to raise the odds against happy matrimony.

"THERE are three species of creatures who, when they seem coming, are going. When they seem going, they come. Diplomats, women and crabs." I didn't say that. Old John Hay did.

CANADIAN medical researchers now contend that their recent studies prove that both overweight and high blood pressure tend to be inherited conditions, not ailments brought on by environmental influences. Interesting, if true.
