Yanks leave, Viet truce hinted

SAIGON (UPI) — The United States pulled out of South Vietnam today, leaving a peace settlement and the surrender of Saigon in the hands of the Vietnamese.

Political sources said the Viet Cong and South Vietnamese administrations had reached agreement in principle to call a cease-fire Wednesday but the Communists raised two more demands before there can be a formal truce.

"The American evacuation on orders from President Duong Van 'Big' Minh prepared for the surrender of Saigon without a fight, ending 30 years of warfare in Indochina and 14 years of American involvement.

There was no immediate confirmation of the reported cease-fire agreement between the Minh government and the Viet Cong. Vice President Nguyen Van Huynh denied it.

But knowledgeable political sources said Huynh had been in contact with the Viet Cong delegation at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airbase and had reached a tentative agreement.

Huyen said on Saigon radio and television his government had decided to meet the last two demands of the Viet Cong for the opening of peace talks — an end to American intervention in Vietnamese affairs and abolition of the Saigon "war machine."

But no sooner had Huynh met these demands than the Viet Cong raised two more — withdrawal of the U.S. 7th Fleet from Vietnam waters and 'disarming' of Saigon's army and police. French government sources said the demands were more like a demand for complete surrender.

Political sources said late today that the Minh government would agree if necessary to disarm most of its forces. The U.S. evacuation fleet was expected to leave Vietnamese waters once the evacuation was completed.

But many South Vietnamese soldiers were reported fleeing the Saigon area as were sailors who loaded their families aboard Navy vessels in the Saigon River for a flight to the South China Sea. The South Vietnamese air force flew out, officers and their families to the Philippines, Taiwan, Singapore and Thailand. At least 70 plane-loads landed in Thailand.

Many commandeered South Vietnamese helicopters and crash-landed near American evacuation ships in the South China Sea in hopes they and their families would be picked up. They were.

Hundreds of Vietnamese gathered outside the U.S. Embassy in Saigon pleading to be taken in the evacuation. There were so many that U.S. Marine reinforcements were flown in from helicopter carriers stationed off the Vietnam coast to help guard the huge compound. One held back a Vietnamese man by sticking his M16 rifle in the man's face.

By nightfall, signs of the American presence, were disappearing. A youthful mob looted the Brinks Hotel, an American landmark in downtown Saigon. Twice bombed by Viet Cong terrorists, the hotel housed American officers for more than 10 years.

Abandoned American homes were looted. A UPI bureau car was destroyed by the crowd at the U.S. Embassy. Late tonight, there was little sign of warfare. At dusk, fires lit the sky to the east and west of Saigon from burning war material. But shortly before midnight, scarcely a shot could be heard.

U.S. Marine helicopters plucked groups of 20 to 50 Americans, other foreigners and some Vietnamese from landing pads at Tan Son Nhut airbase and the U.S. Embassy as the evacuation continued into the night. (Continued on p. 2)

Smooth pullout for US

Sirica reduces McCord 'Gate term'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica Monday reduced the prison sentence of Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr. to four months on a routine motion from McCord's lawyers.

Attorney William A. Mann said his client — sentenced last fall to one to five years by Sirica — will be eligible for parole on May 28 from the Allenwood, Pa., federal prison camp.

McGovern opposes refugee flood

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., said today he is opposed to large numbers of Vietnamese refugees being brought to the United States, "including the orphans and babies" because they would be "better off in Vietnam."

Ford favors oil import tariff hike

WASHINGTON (Star) — President Ford, pessimistic over chances of Congress coming up with the kind of national energy program he wants, is "definitely inclined" to raise the tariff on oil imports by another $1 May 1, administration sources report.

Still a question mark, apparently, is whether Ford will begin decontrolling prices of domestic oil as well. "The President said he will see what happens the next few days in the House," the source said.

Portuguese Socialists win 115 seats

LISBON (UPI) — The release today of the final results of last Friday's election have given the Socialists 115 of the 247 mainland seats in the constituent assembly.

The liberal Popular Democrats came second with 80 seats and the Communist party third with 30 seats. The conservative Social Democratic Center party won 16 seats and the Portuguese Democratic Movement, which has allied itself to the Communists, took five.

Marxists blamed for IRA side death

DUBLIN (UPI) — An Irish Republican Army spokesman said today Marxist mercenaries killed the IRA's second-in-command in the latest outbreak in the group's internal feuding.

Tomas McGlotha, president of Sinn Fein, the Official IRA's political wing, told a news conference, the breakaway Irish Republican Socialist Party was to blame for the assassination of Liam "Bill" McMillen in Belfast 24 hours earlier.

Blasts wreck Greek ammunition plant

ATHENS (UPI) — Twin explosions ripped through an ammunition factory at Lavrion 40 miles south of Athens early today, causing death and scores of injuries.

Police said at least four persons were killed and 60 were injured in the blasts. The factory manufactures gunpowder, small and artillery ammunition.

NH rape statute hits violence

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — The New Hampshire House without opposition passed and sent to the Senate today a bill to change the emphasis in rape cases from sex to the seriousness of the physical assault.

The bill is based on model legislation in Michigan. Supporters of the measure said by switching emphasis to the violence of rape, it would make it easier for victims to report the crime to police.

Morgan-Bowman trial opens

BOISE (UPI) — Criminal proceedings against two prominent Idaho Democrats charged with falsely obtaining a credit customer report for political purposes went to a jury trial in Federal District Court in Boise today with the selection of jurors.

Nel Morgan, a Pocatello jeweler, and Rose-Marie Bowman of Boise are charged with obtaining credit information on Republican Congressman George V. Hansen during his primary election campaign in 1974. They have pleaded innocent to two counts of conspiracy in falsely obtaining the report.

It took less than an hour to seat a jury of five women and seven men. Senior Federal Judge Fred M. Taylor told prospective jurors at the outset of the trial to speak out if they felt that they could not hear the case "fairly and impartially."

Bias claims spur feds' probe at TF labor camp

By GEORGE WILEY Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Complaints of discrimination against the pastoring manager of the Twin Falls labor center have spurred a federal investigation.

Complaints against manager William Taylor include discrimination, harassment of Spanish-Americans, using the camp lawn for an electrified horse-pasture, and lack of maintenance on homes.

Only one charge has been made formally to federal investigators.

According to Francisco Castillo, Twin Falls director of the Idaho Migrant Council, the complaint was filed with the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) by Thomas Guanajuato, a former resident of the labor camp.

Guanajuato, Castillo said, has charged that labor camp manager Taylor exhibited racial bias in evicting him from his house for alleged non-payment of rent.

Guanajuato could not be reached for comment.

According to Wiley Thompson, senior investigator for the compliance division of the Seattle office of HUD, the agency has received a housing discrimination complaint involving the "Twin Falls" camp and is in the process of conducting an investigation.

Thompson said the details of the complaint and the investigation are by law, confidential. He refused to disclose further information concerning the case. HUD findings, he said, could result in a conciliation attempt or a lawsuit by Guanajuato.

The Guanajuato complaint is, however, only one of many being made by Spanish-American residents of the migrant camp against camp manager Taylor, who assumed the post in September.

Other complaints are that Taylor has given preference to Anglo families in renting out houses at the center, that he has turned a lawn at the labor center into a horse pasture fenced with electric barbed-wire, that he has followed a pattern of harassing Spanish-American residents, and that he wears a badge and a gun, something no other camp manager has done.

House near final Viet aid action

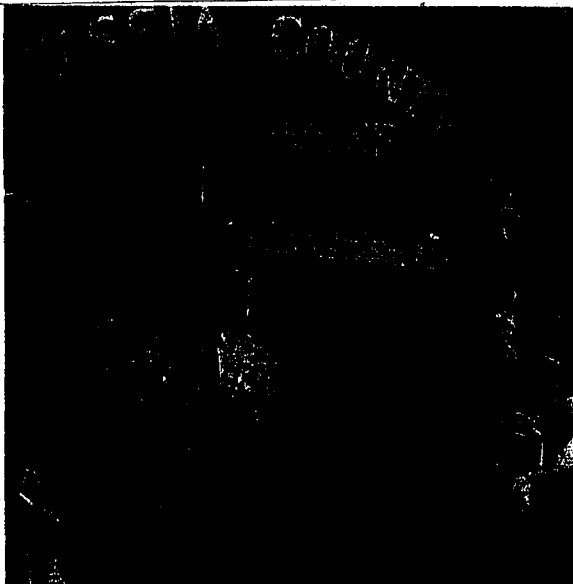

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the last Americans leaving Saigon under Marine protection, the House prepared to take final congressional action today on $227 million for evacuation and humanitarian aid to South Vietnam.

A vote was expected in the afternoon.

The bill provides funds for relocating South Vietnamese, financing overall evacuation operations and other types of nonmilitary and humanitarian aid.

The bill, passed 46-17 last Friday by the Senate, also carefully spells out President Ford's authority to use troops — after he ordered the Marines in today to cover America's final retreat from the war.

"For the United States, this marks the end of a 14-year struggle," said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield. "Although you could go back further if you include U.S. aid to the French."

Mini-Cassia medics lose insurance

By DAVID BOCKMAN Times-News writer

BURLEY — Two Mini-Cassia doctors will lose their malpractice insurance Thursday in the first wave of cancellations by insurers. These are only the first two cancellations. A large group of cancellations is scheduled a month later, on June 1.

Thursday's insurance cancellations will leave the Mini-Cassia area temporarily without the services of one of its two surgeons, and limit the practice of a second doctor.

Burley Surgeon Hayden C. Ellingham will stop practicing until he can arrange for new coverage.

And Dr. Chester D. Cornog said he will stop delivering babies but will continue with the remainder of his family practice under a temporary insurance policy.

According to Larry Duff, Rupert, president of the Idaho Trial Lawyers' Association, the big squeeze will come June 1 when 500 of the state's 800 doctors will lose their insurance from Argonaut Insurance Co.

Some doctors say they will be unable to obtain any malpractice insurance after June 1, and may be forced to leave practice. Others say insurance may be obtainable, but at rates several times higher than before.

The higher rates will be passed on to patients, perhaps pricing medical care out of reach of the average patient.

Some doctors reportedly are calling for a general strike of all doctors, in an attempt to force the state legislature into session, for action that may remedy the situation.

Burley surgeon Dr. Ellingham was notified recently that his medical malpractice insurance policy would be cancelled by Argonaut Insurance Co. May 1.

While Ellingham takes a month off in an "extended vacation," his associate Dr. John Dislere says he will cover for Ellingham until his own insurance policy is cancelled June 1. On June 1 the Mini-Cassia area without a general surgeon.

Rupert's Dr. Cornog said he has found a 6-month policy from another insurance company. "I think I'll be in practice Thursday," Cornog said.

2 life terms for Crawford

By DAVID BOCKMAN Times-News writer

BURLEY — Delbert Crawford, Eden, was given two consecutive life sentences in the Idaho State Penitentiary for the shotgun murders of two Burley men.

Crawford, 29, was also sentenced Monday for up to 15 years for a robbery connected with the slayings.

Crawford was convicted in Fifth District Court a month ago on two counts of second degree murder for the November, 1974, slaying of Greg Solosobal, 22, and Paul Peterson, 23.

According to testimony, Crawford gunned the two men down, with Solosobal's wife, Randi, witnessing the murders. In pronouncing the sentence, Judge Sherman Bellwood said Crawford's trial was "as good a first degree case as ever presented to this court."

In passing sentence, Bellwood also noted in the past Crawford had 20 misdemeanor convictions and 4 felonies, one occurring when the convicted man was a juvenile.

Then, Bellwood said, the three sentences would be served consecutively. Thus, Crawford's possible parole by the Idaho Board of Corrections could not be considered for at least 25 years. (Continued on p. 1)

'An American tragedy'

Chicago Daily News

CHICAGO — Evangelist Billy Graham has termed the Vietnam war "an American tragedy in every way."

Graham spoke grimly and hawkishly of the Asian conflict at the annual faculty-trustee dinner of his alma mater, Wheaton College.

"It was a tragedy that we got involved, a tragedy that it dragged on for so long and a tragedy that it has ended in surrender and defeat," Graham told 600 persons at the school.

Graham told his listeners to pray for about 300 Vietnamese Christian leaders who were to be executed in a plane crash in the near future.

"The conquest of South Vietnam will provide 'bases' for Communist attacks on other Asian nations, including India and the Philippines, Graham declared.

Graham characterized Communists as "hard, tough, dedicated, disciplined...and they want to win. The goal of their world revolution is to plant their flag over the White House."

US pulls out; Saigon, Reds near cease-fire

According to senior government officials, the Saigon gamble to order all official American troops out of Vietnam today paid off with the agreement by the Viet Cong to talk peace.

South Vietnamese soldiers were reported fleeing the capital area and plane after plane flew off officers and their families to Taipei, Singapore, to Thailand, and the Philippines.

South Vietnamese navy sailors began boarding ships in the Mekong River to flee the battle zone. At one point they opened fire on South Vietnamese civilians attempting to join them.

Frightened South Vietnamese pushed and shoved some Americans off of buses sent to take them to Tan Son Nhut airport to be flown out on U.S. helicopters. South Vietnamese troops opened fire on the buses but no injuries were reported.

Fires around Saigon lit the night sky as the huge American helicopters, protected by Navy F-4 Phantom's and Marine Cobra helicopter gunships, continued the evacuation.

There was no word at nightfall how many Americans and other evacuees remained to be taken out, but there was no letup in the helicopter shuttles which began at 3:30 p.m. (1:30 a.m. MDT).

The helicopters carried the evacuees to an armada of more than 50 7th Fleet warships off the Vietnam coast.

The American withdrawal caused some panic, but less than many analysts had believed would occur. A 24-hour curfew kept most Saigon residents off the streets.

The American evacuation was preceded by a heavy Viet Cong rocket attack on Tan Son Nhut airport which killed two U.S. Marine guards, the first Americans to die in Vietnam in 16 months, and shot down four warplanes within sight of the capital.

The Communists pulled back later and there was no known attempt by them to halt the U.S. evacuation. North Vietnam and the Viet Cong promised not to "interfere" with an American withdrawal, and apparently made good on their word.

Vice President Huynh, speaking on Saigon Radio, said the Minh government had agreed to meet the two demands of the Viet Cong for talks: U.S. withdrawal and abolition of the Saigon "war machine."

Political sources said Saigon had agreed, in principle, to disarm the South Vietnamese army except for a limited number of security forces, presumably military police.

Gen. Vinh Loc, the new chairman of the Joint General Staff, told troops in a Saigon radio address to obey orders "and don't run away like rats."

Loc, one of the few remaining generals in South Vietnam, took over the high command after the hard departure of former JCS chairman Gen. Cao Van Vien on Monday.

Some of the shooting around Saigon sent red tracer bullets flying toward the U.S. evacuation helicopters, but there was no indication of any serious attempt to shoot down the choppers.

There was an occasional "thunderous" explosion as Viet Cong in the suburbs lit what sounded like a very large ammunition dump.

The defenses of what was left of South Vietnam continued to crumble. Bien Hoa, 14 miles northeast of Saigon, was abandoned to the Communists early today, the 23rd provincial capital of the country's 44 to fall.

Still, there was no sign of a Communist attack on Saigon itself, although it was clearly in range of North Vietnamese guns and tanks.

Crawford draws life terms

Bellwood noted the board of corrections has considerable latitude in paroling prisoners and said the consecutive sentences would allow ample time for the board to review Crawford's case.

Bellwood said Crawford has 30 days in which to appeal his sentence.

Outside the courtroom, Victor Roizlich, Crawford's attorney, said "the whole thing is being appealed."

In the courtroom the gum-chewing Crawford appeared with hands and feet manacled. He appeared relaxed, and following sentencing, joked with the Times-News reporter.

Asked how he felt about the long sentence, Crawford said, "Well, I'll have lots of time to think about it." Then, more serious, said he did not receive a fair trial.

"They (the jury) didn't see what really happened," he said.

"I don't think the trial was fair," Crawford said. "I know the witnesses collaborated with the help of the prosecuting attorney." There was a "conspiracy" to convict him, Crawford said.

Two other persons involved in the double murder have yet to be sentenced.

Terry and Gaye Billingsley, both Burley, have pleaded guilty to being accessories to the shotgun murders.

Immediately after the murders, Terry Billingsley was named as the killer of Sotolab and Peterson. However, the charges were later amended, naming Crawford as the killer.

The Billingsleys pleaded guilty to the lesser charge and then testified as witnesses for the prosecution.

Hundreds seek US escape help

SAIGON (UPI) — The night was eerie with flare light as hundreds of Vietnamese gathered outside the U.S. Embassy begging Americans to help them flee their country.

"Please take my children," cried a young woman as she clutched an American holding an embassy radio. "They are half-American and the Viet Cong will kill them."

Marine guards in full battle gear and Embassy officials in civilian garb stood within the gates of the white concrete fortress-like building.

"They listened to the Vietnamese pleas with hurried but sad looks.

The Americans were leaving, but they couldn't take the thousands with them who wanted out.

"I worked for the Americans 17 years," said a Chinese man. "Why are they leaving me? I'm their friend."

Dozens of abandoned cars lined the broad boulevard outside the embassy as their owners sought refuge within.

Most of the people were Vietnamese who had worked for Americans or had half-American children, but many were from wealthy or well-to-do families.

"I have gold," said a well-dressed young man to an American. "If you help me get out of Vietnam, I'll give you $200,000."

The wealthy bribed the poor pleaded and others stood with bowed heads hoping the Americans would show mercy and take them out.

Large CH-53 Green Giant helicopters settled on the roof of the embassy with green lights.

Red flares and smoke of smoke grenades thrown to mark landing areas for the helicopters made the night look like something from a horror movie.

The lucky Vietnamese employees inside the embassy compound joined their American employers in boarding helicopters. Late in the evening some Vietnamese gave up and began leaving the embassy area.

Some left in defeat, some hunting other places where they were Americans, still clinging to the faint hope that they too might go.

But most stayed outside the embassy begging the American guards to let them in.

"Please help me! Please help me!"

The cries will echo for years.

Missionaries said freed, in Saigon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Seven missionaries missing in Vietnam for six weeks are reported to have been released and now safe in Saigon, it was learned today.

A spokesman for the Christian and Missionary Alliance, the largest Protestant missionary group in Vietnam, said a telephone call was received during the night at the CMA headquarters in Nyack, N.Y., from an official of the U.S. Agency for International Development in Saigon.

In a telephone interview, the spokesman said that the AID official provided few details and the CMA had not yet been able to confirm the information.

The seven are:

Betty Mitchell, of Ellensburg, Wash., whose husband Archie has been missing in Vietnam since 1962.

Dr. and Mrs. Richard Phillips, both linguists and second-generation missionaries.

Rev. and Mrs. Norman Johnson, of Hamilton, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. John Miller and their 5-year-old daughter.

All are CMA missionaries except for the Millers, who are with Wycliffe Bible translators.

They were taken captive in Banmethuot March 12 as the North Vietnamese stepped up its offensive.

The CMA said Saturday it had received information that the missionaries were alive in the vicinity of Dak To "detained in primitive, degrading and humiliating conditions."

Tjarks heads board

TWIN FALLS — Rev. Eugene Tjarks, Twin Falls, was named chairman of the Twin Falls Salvation Army Advisory Board Monday night at the group's annual report meeting.

He replaces Jack Muldoon as the board chairman.

Other officers appointed were Mrs. Aida Strong vice chairman; Mrs. Evelyn Christoffersen, secretary; and William C. Hedges, treasurer.

The annual report showed that the Twin Falls Salvation Army has a balance of about $7 in operating funds at the end of 1974.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Dr. Carl Buck, minister at the Valley Christian Church. Entertainment was provided by Terry Hansen, Miss Twin Falls, who performed three vocal numbers.

FRANK MOGENSEN, left, Twin Falls, receives Salvation Army's "Others Award" Monday night from Elmer Hagerly, a member of the Salvation Army Advisory Board. The award is for "outstanding service to others in our community." Mogensen, an Idaho state policeman for the past 17 years, has been a Boy Scout scoutmaster since 1951 and has received the Distinguished Eagle Scout Award from the Boy Scout Court of Honor.

Player stolen

TWIN FALLS — Johnathan Meyer, 788 Greenwood Drive, told police someone broke into his home Monday and removed a portable tape player.

He said the player was valued at $149 and an additional $20 damage was done to the vehicle when a window was broken to gain entry.

Gooding meet tonight

JEROME — The Magic Valley chapter of Idaho Public Employees Association will meet at 8 p.m. today at the State School Chapel in Gooding.

Steven Swadley, executive director of IPEA, will attend the meeting to answer questions, according to Walter Rasi, chapter president.

Petitioners seek Hansen ouster

TWIN FALLS — Petitioners describing themselves as a "grass roots movement" have started an effort to remove Idaho's Second District Congressman George Hansen from office.

Mrs. Virginia M. Riggs, Twin Falls, who describes herself as a Republican who did not vote for Congressman Hansen, said Monday the petitioning effort is aimed at getting the House of Representatives Standards of Official Conduct Committee to place Hansen's name before the Congressional membership for a vote on whether Hansen, who pleaded guilty to misdemeanor violations of federal election laws, should be allowed to retain his seat.

Hansen, Mrs. Riggs said, could be ousted from his congressional seat by a two-thirds vote of the House.

The petition, addressed to Rep. John J. Flynt Jr., D-Ga., chairman of the Standards Committee, according to Mrs. Riggs read, in part, as follows:

GEORGE HANSEN, Congressman of the Second District of Idaho, has pleaded guilty to the violations of the Federal Elections Campaign Act of 1971, was sentenced originally to a one year prison term, which was later set aside, and subsequently given a $2,000 fine or two counts. We, therefore, of the opinion that Mr. Hansen should be removed from office.

"It is our understanding that the only other way (besides resignation) Mr. Hansen may be removed from office is by a two-thirds vote of the members of the House of Representatives. We, therefore, urge that your committee immediately take action to have the necessary resolution to remove Mr. Hansen from office brought to the floor of the House of Representatives for a vote.

"We feel very strongly that our elected officials, regardless of party, must stand accountable for their actions."

Mrs. Riggs also released a statement by Mrs. Katherine Nelson, one of the leaders of the petitioning effort in Idaho Falls.

In her statement, Mrs. Nelson said:

"We feel that since George Hansen has broken the law, pleaded guilty and been sentenced, he should have resigned his office. Since he has said he will not resign voluntarily, the only other recourse is the House of Representatives. Mr. Hansen will be totally ineffective as a Congressman from the state of Idaho and should be replaced in the manner provided by law.

"Although a limited number of high-ranking Republicans met in Twin Falls last weekend to protest the court's decision concerning George Hansen, we feel that their statements do not necessarily represent a majority of Republicans. These non-partisan petitions are being signed by concerned citizens who are Republicans, Democrats and Independents.

"There has been no evidence advanced that the case of Congressman Hansen is comparable in gravity to other unprosecuted cases as some Republicans claim. There is also no evidence that the Federal court which sentenced Hansen has been unfair. The judge was provided complete information on the total facts of the case in a very thorough pre-sentencing investigation."

Mrs. Riggs said the circulation of the petitions in Twin Falls is just getting underway.

Anyone interested in signing or distributing a petition, she said, may contact her at 140 5th Street W.

"It's my understanding," she said, "that these things are being filled up like hotcakes."

Hansen calls ruling 'victory'

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, says he won a victory when he was exonerated of any intentional wrongdoing in reporting on the finances of his last election campaign.

Hansen pleaded guilty to two federal misdemeanor charges under the Campaign Finance Act, which was fined $2,000. Originally, U.S. District Judge George Hart sentenced Hansen to two months in federal prison but, last Friday, he set that sentence aside and imposed a fine instead.

The congressman and his wife, Connie, arrived in Boise by air from Washington, D.C., Monday. They have been subpoenaed as witnesses in a criminal trial scheduled to begin today against two prominent Idaho Democrats, Mel Morgan of Pocatello and Rose Marie Bowman of Boise.

In addition, Hansen has filed a $2 million civil suit against Morgan and Mrs. Bowman, contending they violated his rights by obtaining his private credit report.

Hansen called his recent ordeal over campaign finance violations a "nightmare."

"It is inconceivable to me that the campaign laws are so structured that they can drive a man to the wall on a bookkeeping technicality, yet leave the door wide open for a candidate to pocket large sums of money left over from his campaign for his own use, with no legal sanctions," Hansen said.

But he said he felt that he was "completely exonerated of any intentional wrongdoing."

"I feel we won a victory — we proved what I was saying all along — that I'd done nothing intentionally wrong."

No nominating petitions filed

TWIN FALLS — No nominating petitions for two seats on the Twin Falls School Board had been filed by this morning, according to J.T. Anderson, clerk of the school district.

The filing deadline is 5 p.m. Friday. The election to fill the two seats will be held May 20.

Two petitions have been taken out but none has been returned, Anderson said today.

Trustees representing zone 2 (southwest portion of the district) and zone 5 (southeast portion) will be elected. The current zone 2 trustee, Richard Sayers, has announced he will not seek re-election. Dr. Howard Rank, who represents zone 5, has said he will run for the post again.

Jerome pool project delayed

JEROME — The possibility of renovating Jerome's swimming pool has been set aside for at least another year.

Jerome Mayor Charles Hancock said efforts to renovate the pool will have to be delayed. "We have been informed that the plans for the renovation would have to be approved by the State Health Department and there just isn't enough time to get the approval, have the pool fixed and open to the public by June," he said.

Hancock said he did not think the council would have the pool sandblasted this year either. "We will scrape the paint and fill the cracks as best we can for this year and get it fixed," Hancock said.

He said the council is now considering the renovation project for next year and it will be included in the next budget.

Erwin Mehr, sales representative for the Rock Mountain Pool Co., Salt Lake City, Utah, presented a proposal to the council at its last regular meeting on renovation of the pool.

Mehr has estimated the cost of the project would be $36,630 plus another $4,000 to improve the deck area around the pool. He stated the renovation which would be a new liner for the present pool would not be a temporary repair job but would last up to 20 years.

Had the city proceeded with the project this year it would have had to call for bids and to borrow part of the money needed to do the rebuilding. By including the project in next year's budget, revenue sharing monies can be used, thus saving the city the cost of borrowing money.

Efforts are still underway by the Jerome Chamber of Commerce Bicentennial Committee to build a new pool in Jerome. However, it is estimated the new pool may take up to five years to complete. The chamber committee is trying to form a recreational district, possibly in conjunction with the school district. If formed, the recreation district would have the power to assess a three-mill levy in order to help raise the needed funds for the new pool.

Films set Wednesday

TWIN FALLS — The Maple Valley Film Club Wednesday will present a selection of the short films of W.C. Fields.

Sponsored in conjunction with the YWCA, the showing will include "Fields" — "The Barber Shop," "The Pharmacist" and "The Fatal Glass of Beer." The showing will also include "The Music Box" a short film with Laurel and Hardy.

The showing will be at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the YWCA building, 1751 Elizabeth Blvd.

Tickets are 50 cents for Y members and 75 cents for non-members. Admission, at the door will be $1.

Tickets are available at the YWCA, Cios Book Store and the Magic Valley Food Co-Op.

LDS set open house

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls first, third and ninth LDS Wards will have an open house in the new ward building on East Elizabeth Sunday.

Hours of the open house are from 5:30 to 9 p.m. A story in Friday's Times-News incorrectly reported that dedication ceremonies would be conducted Sunday. The dedication ceremonies are scheduled for 4:30 p.m. May 11.

Sunday's open house will include an organ concert by Roy Darley, assistant organist for the Tabernacle Choir at 5:30 p.m.

Deadline nears

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's registered lobbyists have until Wednesday to file their quarterly reports under the State Sunshine Act.

Secretary of State Pete Conners said as of Monday 299 of the 341 registered lobbyists submitted their reports. Violation of the act can be subject to criminal penalties.

Among the latest to file was Idaho AFL-CIO President Robert W. Macfarlane, who reported that he expended $2,603 for food and entertainment on state legislative sessions from January through March.

P.T. Hume, Lewiston lobbyist for Washington Water and Power Company, reported $6,854 in lobbying expenses. They included $3,651 for living accommodations and $1,750 for "other" expenses.

Hume also spent $1,250 on food and entertainment, including $1,030 at the Hillcrest Country Club for a dinner for 70 North Idaho legislators, their spouses and guests as well as Gov. Cecil D. Andrus and his wife, several members of the

FCC member explains language problem clearly

WASHINGTON — Those of you who watched the "60 Minutes" program on CBS last week saw a segment filmed at Ford's Theater here in Washington...

The decision to air these particular portions of the Truman monologue was not reached lightly. Senior network officials were well aware of the FCC's recent decision in the matter of radio station WBAI in New York...

view, was sound.

This is a sticky problem for broadcasters. (It is a sticky problem for newspapers also, but newspapers do not have the FCC to contend with.) It is fearfully difficult for responsible broadcasters to find an acceptable middle position between absolute freedom of speech on the one hand and absolute inoffensiveness on the other...

A wrong judgment happened in the matter of WBAI. A little after 2 p.m. on Oct. 30, 1973, the New York station, licensed to the Pacifica Foundation, broadcast a "satiric monologue" by George Carlin, called "Filthy Words"...

significant social satirist "in the tradition of Mark Twain." His purpose was to demonstrate that language for newspapers also, but newspapers do not have the FCC to contend with...

The commission's declaratory judgment impresses me as fair, reasonable, and prudent. The language was "patently offensive," said the commission. The monologue had "no place on radio when children are the audience..."

Two members of the FCC, Charlotte T. Reid and James H. Quello, went along reluctantly. Mrs. Reid thought the monologue "totally inappropriate for broadcast at any time."

Commissioner Glen O. Robinson wrote an excellent concurring opinion. In some years of contemplating the vexatious conflict between obscenity and censorship, I have not encountered a finer exposition of the First Amendment problem with which judges and commissioners must grapple.

To Robinson, government regulation of taste and manners is plainly aberrant. He shuns the thought of censorship. Yet he grapples honestly with the responsibility of a Federal Communications Commission to administer federal law. He is not certain that the law's proscription of "indecent" material is susceptible to precise definition...

Unless the FCC is to sanction extreme prurience at the one extreme, or to command extreme prudery at the other, Robinson's middle ground offers a reasonable ground on which to stand.

Caramanlis eases stand

N.Y. Times Service

ATHENS — During Greece's recent municipal elections, in which the left-wing opposition achieved several important successes, Premier Constantine Caramanlis behaved more as if he were an impartial president of all Greeks than as the head of a government and, incidentally, a party.

This could be significant. Caramanlis, who remains the strong-man of this kinetic and emotional country, came back last summer amid a terrible Cyprus crisis, the disintegration of the dictatorship, and, on the brink of war with Turkey.

He has managed to avoid war but he has been unable to persuade the Turks to negotiate compromise solutions to the Cypriot and Aegean problems. As a consequence, this nation remains bitterly disappointed.

The result has been an apparent shift in planning for the type of constitutional regime Caramanlis originally hoped to install in Greece if — as he rightly foresaw — it should vote to replace the former monarchy with a republic.

Therefore, when he submitted to Parliament last January his tentative draft of a new Greek constitution in which the presidency was granted strong authority, many deputies were somewhat startled.

At that time his personal power was still near its zenith. However, the Cyprus cancer, the Turkish threat and a steady drumfire of hostile propaganda from the leftist opposition have combined to reduce his prestige, even though he is still regarded as head and shoulders above other contemporary Greeks.

Therefore, when Parliament stalled and the period of decision expired this month, instead of calling the referendum Caramanlis added an additional 45-day time of grace, hoping to gain support for a strong presidential executive.

Now there are hints that Caramanlis, who is a realist, may be altering his conceptions. For the first time there is an indication that he no longer aspires to the presidency; that he could be ready to discard his idea of a "presidential system" like that of France and accept a less disciplined parliamentary democracy, should the majority of deputies so desire.

Caramanlis is talking more now about a moderate and balanced parliamentary system number one constitution that would not resemble France's. He says that whether he eventually decides to be president of premier will depend only on the national interest. Nevertheless, he recently confided to a close Greek friend that he was no longer thinking of the presidency for himself.

This is a considerable change, an evolution imposed by pragmatic Greek necessities on the dogmatic thinking developed during years of French abstractions. One does not know either the precise form of the new constitution or the ultimate choice of posts by Caramanlis. The one clearly depends on the other and Caramanlis will go where the power goes.

But things shift more rapidly in this country than others and men, of course, shift with things.

C. L. SULZBERGER

Despite the leftist gains in city votes, when Caramanlis remained strictly neutral, he probably retains a sure plurality in the country as a whole — although, in all probability, no longer a majority.

Despite carefully orchestrated propaganda now being spread on by various Communist factions and their allies, it is likely most Greeks are praying only for restored economic stability, curbing inflation (which is relatively moderate) and a plague on both extreme political houses.

The far-right pro-colonels group is being carefully pruned. If not purged, and the army is being prudently, slowly depoliticized after its seven-year lull for glory under the unlamented Junta. Whatever else they think, most Greeks agree they want democracy. The trouble is that although they invented the word (along with most other fundamentals in the political lexicon) they do not agree on what it means.

Therefore, whatever Caramanlis hands them will touch off arguments.

Tenth robin a success

WASHINGTON — By now the Tenth Robin is settled in the birdland, accepted as a solid and respectable bird.

The Tenth Robin is of the breed earmarked for big things — definitely top executive timber. Socially, he is the kind who will never find himself in an embarrassing position. Already, one can picture him as president of the local luncheon club.

Politically, the Tenth Robin is safe, too. He doesn't go for all that progressive stuff, and says folks would be a lot better off without the luxuries they buy on the installment plan. He has an impatient contempt for the robin down the street who suggests mildly that even Russian robins might appreciate a juicy worm. He sees foreign robins as trouble makers who should behave themselves or go back where they came from.

Meanwhile, the First Robin is all but forgotten. His name is mentioned only to disown him as a bird of adventure, an irresponsible fool. For the First Robin was wrong. He arrived too soon.

To be sure, the First Robin was a brave figure as he fluttered down from the sky and alighted on a branch of your apple tree. He was shivering from the cold, but his head was cocked perkily and there was a cheery smile on his beak. And his song was sweet after he'd feasted off the bread crumbs tossed onto the snow.

But it wasn't long before the First Robin was discredited. A few days after his arrival, the wind blew and the snow fell and the mercury plummeted. His song and his cheery presence had informed you that it was spring, and you had made your plans. But now it was winter again and a new bird bill had arrived in the mail. So the First Robin was forced to fly away into exile — into a lonely wood, greaking with ice-laden branches. He had been wrong. He had set out from the southland simply because it seemed a fine thing to do. Wiser heads had sought to restrain him, but he had seen only that it seemed a wonderful day to fly, and he had taken off with a cheery goodby, his heart full of hope.

The Tenth Robin, on the other hand, had approached the matter with common sense. He had not been fooled by sunny days in Pennsylvania or by blazing forsythia in Virginia. He had checked all the weather reports until they assured him that spring indeed was headed north. Then he packed his bag carefully — and tucking in a pair of galoshes for insurance — and took off, sure enough, he and spring made it together.

Today, it would seem, the Tenth Robin's planning has paid off. He has been asked to address the Boosters Club. He modestly accepts credit for budding tulips and wine-filled zephyrs. The First Robin is a nobody, perched on a park bench with the rest of the featherless.

Yet, though he end up in a pothole, the First Robin gets this vote. He was wrong, but what of it? Anybody can be right who refuses to take a chance. The First Robin stuck his neck out, and he was willing to gamble on being first, and though he lost, there is something glorious in his losing.

The Tenth Robin, in all, is merely a success. But the First Robin is Daniel Boone.

Quotations on Vietnam point some fingers

Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — There will probably be a lot of finger-pointing about the debacle in Vietnam. It's hard to fix the blame on any one person so, to satisfy everyone's political persuasion, here is a small choice to pick from. A larger choice can be found in a book titled "The Experts" by Clyde Edwin Pettit from which I lifted most of these quotes.

French Gen. Jean Leclerc: "I didn't come back to Indochina to give Indochina back to the Indochinese." (Sept. 31, 1954)

U.S. Gen. Mark Clark: "I am also impressed by the French military plans; by the apparent Vietnamese determination to fight. I could not take any better plans than those already in existence here." (Feb. 24, 1953)

Sherman Adams, assistant to President Eisenhower: "At a Sunday night meeting in the upstairs study at the White House, Eisenhower had agreed with Dulles and Radford on a plan to send American forces to Indochina under strict conditions." (April 4, 1954)

President John F. Kennedy: "I can't do it (withdraw from Vietnam) until 1965 — after I'm re-elected." (Spring, 1963)

Secretary of State Dean Rusk: "Part of the TF man believes in compassion

Editor, Times-News:
This morning on the "Party Line" display on KLIK radio, I made some sympathetic statements concerning the acceptance of Vietnamese refugees into the United States. These remarks were against the opinions of some of our local citizens apparently, because I received a few calls from people telling me I was all wet.

I ask these narrow minded people if they spent three years in Vietnam as I did? Have they seen real suffering, families split by war, swollen bellies, disease, starvation? As far as the "crooks" that may be imported, I ask, what was the last time they looked at themselves or some of the people around them?

Yes, I am militarily proud of it. My wife was military. My father was military as was his father before him. I have a son at the United States Military Academy, West Point, N.Y., and we are so proud of him for choosing the "great line."

Should the future require another U.S. involvement, I know that he will be anxious and ready to go. Our younger son is now being groomed for the active military service and the honor of serving our beloved country.

Why do I mention this? Because, in order to speak out, you must have some experience and/or ground work. We have had it and will get it. When some of these people gain experience, I will respect their authority to speak out.

I wonder how many of you really know what America means. As for the refugees, I can quote an inscription made on a tablet which is held dearly by a graceful, lonely woman who stands tall in New York harbor:

"Not like the brazen giant of Greece's fame, with conquering limbs astride from land to land; here at our sea, washed, sunset gales shall stand a mighty woman with a torch, whose flame is the imprisoned lightning and her name Mother of Exiles."

"From her beacon-hand glowed world-wide welcome; her mild eyes command the air-bridged harbor that twin cities frame. 'Keep ancient lands, your storied pomp!' cries she with silent lips. 'Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses yearning to breathe free, the wretched refuse of your teeming shores. Send these, the homeless, tempest-tost to me, I'll light my lamp beside the golden door!'"

Yes, it's the Statue of Liberty. Let's support our virtues and not back away at them.

Compassion for the less fortunate. Yes, we believe in it whether you few do or not.

Gooding resident expresses opinion

Editor, Times-News:
In reply to your article recently published in the Times-News about reports of "harassment" in Gooding, I would like to express my opinion, if I may.

I would like to take a direct approach to each one of the promoters who conducted the petition to recall Mayor Leo Rice. After all this time of complaining on poorly (directed) organized city government, no one has come forth to specify any charges against the mayor. It has always been a broad generalized statement.

It seems to me that these people might be motivated by personal reasons which enable them to see that city government is a combination of mayor and city councilmen, therefore, it is unfair to single out an individual to praise or ridicule and may I add that they all have done a fair job.

Within the information volunteered, you made some strong statements. "She and the other persons heading the petition drive purposely did not ask either city employees or businessmen to sign the petition for this reason." The reason, obviously, to avoid harassment. I have strongly disagree with you because I am a business man and both my wife and I have been "harassed" to sign the petition at our business location and at our residence. I also know of other business men that have been asked to sign it and have done so.

You also stated, "unless you live in Gooding, you don't realize the Gestapo-like tactics we have here." I have lived in Gooding for a number of years and have never heard of such an absurd expression.

As for the rest of the members heading the petition, I can also think of some of their personal motivations.

Threat of rights loss needs action

Editor, Times-News:
People of America unite. Must we sit idle while our freedoms and rights are taken from us one by one?

It is our right as American citizens to have and bear arms — don't let them take this from us. Are we really so short sighted that we think it will end there? What of our rights will they want next?

Are we so naïve that we will suppose if we have gun control we will no longer have killings and a child will not be accidentally killed? Will they take tires off cars the next time someone runs over a child? Will they take our household knives if someone is stabbed? If a person is going to kill do you think it will stop him because he can't get his hands on a gun, no way!

People! Wake up, don't be so stupid. Before it is too late take a stand, show the government we want a government of the people, by the people and for the people.

We are not robots!

Sabotage suspected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said Monday some advisers to President Ford believe his 1976 election plans are being sabotaged.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen told reporters the advisers have "no suspicion" that supporters of Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller are behind the sabotage. But he said "I don't think I'll go any further" when asked if the suspicions extended to backers of former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Watergate figures, work, write, serve jail time

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Dean, H.R. Haldeman and Charles Colson are all writing books, but other Watergate figures are quietly practicing law and working. A few are in jail.

Here is what the Watergate personnel are doing now:

John Mitchell, attorney general — Living in New York, separated from Martha. The brief in his appeal in the cover trial is due Aug. 1.

Maurice Stans, commerce secretary — Awaiting sentencing after pleading guilty to a mail fraud in a case with other defendants; lives in Washington.

Richard Kleindienst, attorney general — Practicing law since getting suspended sentence of 30 days probation. Represents several Indian tribes and government of Algeria.

H.R. "Bob" Haldeman, White House chief of staff — Sold an interview to CBS for a reported $50,000 and is working on a Watergate book for which as yet he has no publisher. Cover-up appeal pending.

John Ehrlichman, White House domestic affairs chief — Sprung in attempt to spend his sentence as a land-use lawyer for Indians in Southwest, he has gone there anyway, grown a beard and sought to avoid reporters. Plumbers and cover-up appeals pending.

John Dean III, White House counsel — After some college lectures, he and wife Maureen are living in Hollywood Hills, Calif., and writing Watergate books. Jailed four months.

Charles Colson, White House special counsel — Part time with prayer barbed-wire movement and part time writing books on his religious experience and former President Nixon. Served seven months.

Job Stuntz Magruder, White House deputy communications director and Nixon's deputy reelection director — Wrote

Watergate best seller, served seven months.

Dwight Chapin, White House appointments secretary — Working for Chicago executive.

W. Clement Stone, appeal pending on dirty tricks conviction.

Egil "Bud" Krogh, White House "plumber" — Taught at Principia College, two weeks, spoke at other schools, now awaiting Washington state disbarment ruling. Served four months.

Herbert Kalmbach, Nixon's personal lawyer — Disbarred, refuses comment. Served six months.

Robert Mardian, assistant attorney general — Associated with family construction business in Phoenix. Cover-up appeal pending.

Frederick Laube, consultant aide — Mitchell aide — Begun six-month sentence April 1. Oil and land developer in Jackson, Miss.

Kenneth Parkinson, reelection lawyer — Acquired in cover-up, resumed law practice.

Herbert "Bart" Porfer, Nixon's scheduling director — Associated with his father-in-law's construction company in Laguna, Calif. Served three weeks.

Donald Segretti, so-called "dirty trickster" — Awaiting outcome of state bar hearing and living with his father, a hotel chieftain in Marina Del Rey, Calif. Served three months.

Gordon Strychacz, Haldeman's political aide — Law clerk in Salt Lake City. Prosecution dropped.

Hugh "Duke" Sloan, Nixon's reelection treasurer and one of first to resign — Assistant to president of Budd Engineering Co., Troy, Mich.

Robert Reiser, Magruder aide — Director of policy and administration in Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Robert Odle, Nixon's reelection director of administration — HUD's deputy assistant secretary for housing management.

Steve King, reelection security agent who helped subdue Martha Mitchell — Agriculture Department's congressional liaison.

Alfred Baldwin III, lookout at Howard Johnson Hotel during break-in at Watergate — Taught 7th grade math and science at Troup School in New Haven, but has been given, as were all first year teachers, termination notice.

E. Howard Hunt Jr. and G. Gordon Liddy, White House plumbers, and James McCord Jr., reelection security chief — Burklary appeals exhausted, returned to prison.

Sally Harmony, Liddy's secretary — Secretary to the corporate vice president of Marriott Corp., Washington, N.Y. Not prosecuted.

Anthony Ulasiewicz, Kalmbach's courier during Watergate — Backmail pay-offs — A retired New York policeman, living in Saratoga, N.Y. Not prosecuted.

Sen. Sam Ervin Jr., chairman of Senate Watergate committee — Retired, lecturing and serving as part-time television commentator.

Sam Dash, committee's chief counsel — Returned to Georgetown University as director of Institute on Criminal Procedure.

Henry Peterson, assistant attorney general with over-all responsibility for original Watergate investigation — Retired Dec. 31.

Earl Silbert, assistant U.S. attorney and head of original Watergate investigation — Named by federal judges as U.S. attorney.

Archibald Cox, special prosecutor — Teaching at Cambridge, England.

Leon Jaworski, special prosecutor — Returned to private law practice in Houston.

Elliot Richardson, attorney general who resigned during "Saturday night massacre" — Ambassador to Court of St. James, London.

Richard Nixon, president — Resigned and living in San Clemente, Calif. Paroled.

Ford request rekindles passions over Indochina

BY WALTER TAYLOR
Washington Star

WASHINGTON — President Ford's request for clarification of his authority to use Marines to evacuate Saigon was rekindled the passions that for nearly a decade divided the north over United States involvement in Indochina.

After nearly two weeks of bitter debate, final congressional passage of legislation affirming those powers is expected soon.

Possibly by then, the 30-year-old struggle in Vietnam will have ended and the question of recommitting troops will be moot.

But the machinations of both chambers of congress, particularly the House, in considering the President's request have shown that Vietnam has the same divisive impact on many Americans that it did before the United States pulled its remaining combat soldiers from that country more than two years ago.

Suspicion that the President and Secretary of State Henry H. Kissinger still cling to hopes of salvaging the moribund Saigon regime cuts deeply through the Congress, showing no respect for partisan lines or traditional taboos.

Even as Ford was proclaiming in New Orleans last week that so far as America is concerned, the Vietnam war "is finished," the House was locked in a titanic debate over permitting the use of U.S. military forces to rescue Americans and endangered Vietnamese from beleaguered Saigon.

It was clear that many members of the chamber shared the fear expressed by Democratic Leader Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill, D-Mass.:

"What happens," asked O'Neill, "if our troops are ambushed while they are over there? What happens if we have troops who are missing in action?"

He quoted from a newspaper clipping that said California officials are making preparations to receive from 50,000 to 1 million southeast Asian refugees.

"Do any of us think for one minute that we can evacuate 600,000 to 1 million (refugees) without being back in the quagmire that we were in four years ago, six years ago, eight years ago?"

"There is no way you can do it," was O'Neill's answer to his own question.

For many of the 92 freshmen members of the House, some of whom got their start in politics on the front lines of the antiwar movement, the question was one of the most difficult they will be asked to face as legislators.

"I've been fighting against this (pleading) war for 10 (three) years," Rep. John L. Burford, one freshman leader, told a reporter outside the chamber. "Now I'm supposed to vote to send the Marines back in."

Burford, D-Calif., whose brother Philip is chairman of the House Democratic Caucus, led an unsuccessful 15-hour parliamentary fight to prevent enactment of the evacuation bill.

Allied with him were many of the established House doves of the 1960's and early 1970's, some of whom were instrumental in the passage of several end-war measures in 1973: Reps. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y.; Charles W. Whalen, R-N.Y.; Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y.; John P. Siewering, D-Ohio; Donald W. Riegle, D-Mich.; and Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif.

"Once we send military forces back over there we are launched on a cause in an uncharted sea," Siewering asserted, "and we have no way of knowing when we are going to be able to get our forces back home again."

Riegle characterized the authorization as a "black check" that the President could use to launch offensive actions against the North Vietnamese.

"For the most part, those members of the House who in the past had been most outspoken in support of the U.S. war effort left the debate to others.

Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, for example, reasoned that if Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee had the same privileges that the North Vietnamese had, if every time he retreated across the Rappahannock River nobody could pursue him, then one or two things would have happened: either the South would have won the war, or it would still be going on."

Rockets stop airlift, strand most Vietnamese set for rescue

By United Press International
The American airlift of Vietnamese refugees from Saigon halted today in the face of Communist rockets, stranding more than two thirds of the Vietnamese whom U.S. military officials had hoped to rescue.

For those who had already escaped — about 40,000 of the planned 130,000 evacuees were safe on Guam, Wake Island and the Philippines — the job of ferrying them to the United States moved ahead at top speed.

More than 3,000 Vietnamese pushed their way aboard buses evacuating the last Americans from Saigon and escapee about helicopters late today, but the U.S. airlift from Tan Son Nhut airport could not continue.

Mortar fire bombarded the airport and the last Air Force planes circling for a landing left when they saw mobs of panicky civilians missing below.

Some of the marooned citizens of Saigon besieged the American embassy, manned only by a token team of diplomats and officials. U.S. officials have said they could "as a practical matter" evacuate only 130,000 of 1 million Vietnamese men, women and children whose lives would be endangered by a Communist takeover.

Their lives. UPI correspondent Nguyen Anh Tuyet, who interviewed refugees today at Clark Air Base in the Philippines, said many were lured by the promise of a new life and jobs in America.

Some refugees said they bought their way out. Others said they would have been safe had they remained in Saigon and, considering the crowded conditions in the makeshift refugee camps, they wished they had never left.

The work of readying a new home in America for the exiles continued, even as some Americans worried about the impact on their communities.

Military officials are building tent cities to house the refugees at three American military bases — Camp Pendleton, Calif., Ft. Chaffee, Ark., and Eglin Air Base, Fla. Some people in the towns surrounding those bases are concerned the influx of homeless Vietnamese will put a strain on local economies.

In California, Lt. Col. Arthur Brill said every effort would be made to "do everything first class — make them as comfortable as possible." Camp Pendleton is less than five miles south of former President Richard Nixon's San Clemente estate.

The first group of about 700 refugees is due to arrive at Camp Pendleton this afternoon. "Everybody is working around the clock to get ready for the refugees," Brill said. "You can imagine the logistics. We're looking around for cots, blankets, cribs for children."

The evacuation program, intended to rescue up to 130,000 Vietnamese war victims, fell apart today at the same time the final evacuation of Americans in Saigon began. Air Force transport planes circling Tan Son Nhut airport left when they saw masses of Vietnamese on the ground ready to rush the mercy flights.

Slightly more than 30,000 Vietnamese have been flown out of South Vietnam. The U.S. government had approved air rescue for up to 50,000 people from Vietnamese families thought to be on a Communist evacuation list, plus any and all Vietnamese relatives of American citizens or Vietnamese already living in the United States.

Even the total authorized evacuation figure of 130,000 fell short of the estimated 1 million Vietnamese whose existence was considered jeopardized by a Communist takeover of South Vietnam.

U.S. immigration officers on Guam, where about 25,000 Vietnamese are crammed into 12 "tent city" sites, scrapped their already streamlining processing procedures today. They asked the refugees only for identification before flying them on to the U.S. relocation centers, where the Vietnamese will stay "for up to 90 days or more," until they can make plans for their new lives in America.

Other refugees act on Wake Island and Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines.

Edward O'Connor, the ranking immigration officer on Guam, said the new processing procedure consisted of a "visual medical check" and a one-minute interview for the evacuees.

"We are hoping to have enough aircraft within 10 days, to fly 6,000 persons a day out of Guam," said Rear Adm. George S. Morrison in charge of the refugee operation.

Some local officials near the refugee camps in this country voiced reservations about the influx of Vietnamese refugees.

In Arkansas, Fort Smith administrator Ray Idey said, "We have many, many unanswered questions." The city is six miles southwest of Ft. Chaffee.

Viets steal $250,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two South Vietnamese embassy officials stole and cashed a $250,000 embassy check before disappearing, the Washington Post reported today.

The Post said an FBI spokesman told it the two unnamed officials cashed the blank check, signed by embassy superiors, on April 18 at the Madison National Bank in Washington, which is in the same building as the embassy's overseas procurement office.

The FBI was unable to confirm the Post report this morning. The story said the officials, who worked in the procurement office, made out the check to themselves for $250,000 and got the money mostly in $20 bills they put into an attache case.

The check was signed in advance, the newspaper said, by embassy financial officials because one of the required signers was to be out of town and the other thought the check was to be made for about $140 to purchase newspaper subscriptions.

Panel OK's gas tax hike

WASHINGTON Star
WASHINGTON — The House Ways and Means Committee voted Monday to increase the federal gasoline tax — a rise that would begin at 1 cent a gallon and could go as high as 20 cents if Americans failed to curb their excessive use of gasoline.

The vote was 21 to 13, with Republicans solidly against the measure, presumably reflecting White House opposition. The first 3 cents of the tax, which would be imposed next January, would go into an energy trust fund to finance new, expensive, alternative energy sources.

The remainder of the proposed tax is intended to punish excessive consumption, and its imposition would depend on the amount of gasoline consumed.

For example, the tax would increase by 5 cents a gallon if consumption was 1 percent above the 1974 average of 6.67 million gallons a day. The tax would then increase 5 cents a gallon more up to a total of 20 cents for each percentage point above the 1974 base level.

A committee spokesman said that the committee believes the second stage of the tax would probably amount to 5 cents a gallon. He said committee members attribute the current drop in gasoline usage to high unemployment — an economic situation the committee believes will continue through 1976.

Gasoline consumption in the United States is 1.4 percent less now than it was in the same period of 1973.

GAO flays reactor program

WASHINGTON Star
WASHINGTON — A report by the General Accounting Office, released Monday, states that the federal government's program for promoting the breeder reactor "is optimistic and possibly unrealistic."

The Federal Energy and Research Development Administration believes there will be as many as 186 breeder reactors in commercial operation by the year 2000 and that it will become the backbone of the nation's electrical system.

The GAO study, however, says interviews with utility executives indicated that "few utilities" would be willing to commit sizable amounts of capital to breeders until they were convinced that the new power plants would be "economically viable" and safe.

The report notes that while the government was earmarked $100 million to help subsidize the first commercial-sized breeder plants, the subsidy may have to go as high as $2 billion in the program goes, but find a way to contain its soaring development costs, which have escalated from $1 billion to a current estimate of $9.9 billion.

The Environmental Protection Agency has estimated that the program could be delayed from four to 12 years and that the delay might help solve safety and waste disposal problems that have remained unsolved. The report said that the energy administration does not expect to have all the safety-related programs completed on the breeder until the 1980s.

A major unanswered problem, the GAO said, was a need to estimate the probability of the fuel melting down in a breeder power plant, which is designed to contain a nuclear reaction that runs faster and at much higher temperatures than conventional nuclear power facilities.

The energy administration said that its predecessor, the Atomic Energy Commission, had been premature in estimating that chances of a major accident in the plant were one in 10 million. More facts on design and performance are needed, the agency said.

Congress eyes deficit limit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, accused over the years of running up deficits thoughtlessly, is giving thought this week to how large a deficit is tolerable at a time of recession and inflation.

Coming before both houses are resolutions proposing guidelines on spending and deficit totals for the fiscal year that starts July 1. Both call for more spending and larger deficits than President Ford said are acceptable.

Both also propose shifts in how the money is spent — less for defense and foreign aid, more for helping recession victims and stimulating the economy with public jobs.

As debate begins today in the Senate and Wednesday in the House, here are the three proposals from the President and the House and Senate budget committees (figures in billions).

	Ford-House Senate	House	Senate
Revenue	$295.6	$297.8	$297.8
Spending	335.6	368.2	365.0
Deficit	60.0	72.2	67.2

To the surprise of many, the House committee called for heavier spending and a bigger deficit than the Senate panel. In past years, the House tended to be more frugal than the Senate.

The Senate proposal calls for spending 2.5 percent more than Ford has proposed. The Senate panel argues Ford, by oversteering revenues from the sale of offshore oil leases, conceals a deficit which would really amount to $67 billion.

The administration and conservatives argued that deficits as large as the committees propose would "crowd out" business borrowers, driving up interest rates, aborting recovery and forcing off yet another inflation.

Refugee impact divides top Demos in Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two Democratic leaders in Congress are in sharp disagreement over the impact of South Vietnamese refugees on an American economy burdened by recession and high unemployment.

Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd says he has serious reservations about admitting 130,000 Vietnamese, as planned by the administration, partly because of the economic situation.

House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill says the Vietnamese would not be a factor in American unemployment.

The two Democrats agree that the best the Vietnamese can hope for in this country are the menial jobs.

In a Senate speech Monday, Byrd said his reservations about bringing large numbers of refugees into the United States stem also from the cultural differences they will encounter.

But he said "the fact that more than 8 million Americans are unemployed, and that our country is experiencing an economic recession, does not add to the prospect for success for such a program."

Calling the overall economic picture "far from bright," Byrd said "adding well over 100,000 refugees to that picture will not help the United States."

He said there "seems little hope" for the unskilled to find any work and added, "doctors, lawyers, and teachers could wind up doing the most menial work."

O'Neill said in a Public Service Broadcasting television interview, "There are so many jobs that are available — the jobs of the real lower echelon — jobs working in a kitchen in a restaurant, probably running an elevator. We know that in this day and age that we can't fill jobs because of the fact that a person can earn more or get more by being on the welfare rolls."

O'Neill said Cubans who fled to the United States when the Communists took over "filled many of the menial jobs in the Miami area, and of course they've grown in proportions and are getting out of that position."

Opportunists among evacuees

CLARK AFB, PHILIPPINES (UPI) — The U.S. government may have evacuated many South Vietnamese who were not endangered by a Communist takeover but were simply lured by the promise of a new life and jobs in America.

Interviews with some of the 7,000 refugees who have been flown to this huge military base indicate many would probably have been safe in Saigon. A few even said they already wished they had never left.

At least half of the evacuees living in tents and makeshift facilities here are older women and their children, teen-age girls and elderly people.

One angry Vietnamese in his late 40s said, "How come these people were flown out while thousands of capable Vietnamese males, who have a solid profession and who will be the first victims of the Communists, were simply left behind?"

Some of those interviewed said they had no real purpose in leaving South Vietnam other than the lure of going to the United States.

Others said bluntly they had never seen the war and the Communist threat was not the main reason for their leaving. But only a few were willing to explain how they managed to buy — or connive — their way out.

One prosperous-looking Vietnamese man about 45 years old said he paid 1 million piasters (about $9,500) to an American to be able to make the trip to Clark. He said he and his wife cost 4 million piasters and their three children another 3 million.

"I don't regret that," he said. "It would have cost me more if I had to go through the South Vietnamese administration. I am sure I will be able to earn that money back in the U.S. I am a dentist."

But his case is rare. Few of the others have jobs lined up and the future for most is uncertain at best.

The children and teen-agers still have time to learn English and adapt to life in a different society. But many of the middle-aged and older people, who form a large part of the refugee group, will find it difficult if not impossible.

"DEAR ABBY: I got a kick out of the woman who took an extra large second helping and then asked for a "doggie bag" to take her leftovers home with her.

"It reminded me of the time I prepared a sumptuous spread for three couples. (I love to cook.) One woman phoned just a few minutes before the time she should have arrived to ask if she and her husband could bring a friend and to inform me that they would be a "little late."

The three of them arrived an hour and 15 minutes later—half gassed.

"Well, this late broad said she wasn't hungry, but everything looked so good she wondered if I'd give her a doggie bag."

"I said, 'I have my OWN doggie, and I am it. Therefore, I do not provide my guests with doggie bags. Also, people who have the bad manners to show up an hour and 15 minutes late don't deserve any consideration, and this is the last time you'll be invited here!'"

The other guests were somewhat uptight about the confrontation, but the only way to treat people with guts is to put-guts them.

"DEAR ABBY: I have often wanted to write to you, but never had a reason until now. My problem is my mother. She wants surgery done on her "grapes" to have them enlarged to avoid grapefruit size.

"My father keeps saying no—he likes her dried raisins the way they are. Mom disagrees and is willing to give up a vacation in order to have the surgery done.

"It all started as a joke, but it turns out that Mom is dead serious. She's even underlined the plastic surgeon's name in the phone book. She says she wants something BIG for her 40th birthday.

"How do you feel about the situation? GRAPENUTS.

GRAPENUTS

"DEAR GRAPENUTS: If this would be good for your mother's morale—why not? I only hope that she and your father can agree on a fruit that's not forbidden.

"DEAR ABBY: Recently we went out to dinner with two other couples. When the check came, one of the men insisted on paying for everything with his credit card (obviously his company's). Then he collected the cash from the rest of us. I have been told that he does this all the time. How does a person go about putting a stop to this sort of thing? I don't like to be used as a "customer." And knowing that he uses us as so-called business write-offs when we are just social friends makes me feel like a party to something dishonest.

"Any suggestions? USED IN CHICAGO

the setting trick with his last trump. But the Professor was not going to fall into that trap. He cashed dummy's ace and king of diamonds and ace of clubs. His plan was to continue with the club king and then play the second trump. If that club went through he would have trumped and there would be no way for West to throw him in dummy.

Sims tried his last ploy. He dropped the jack of clubs under the ace. This caused Ely to think for some time. Finally Ely decided if Sims really held a trump, he would have opened it. So Ely continued with his original plan and led the king of clubs and made his contract.

There was never a greater rivalry than that between Ely Culbertson and Hal Sims in early days of contract. It was a friendly rivalry. Sims called Ely the "Professor." Ely called Hal the "Master." The Professor, alluding South, won today's battle of wits. The play started normally enough. The queen of hearts was led, covered by king and ace of hearts returned and third heart was led to force dummy to ruff.

The king of spades was led from dummy and the Maestro, sitting West, let it hold. Had the Professor tamed his last trump from dummy the Maestro would win, throw the Professor in dummy and score

4-H club names leaders

BUHL — The Northview Livestock 4-H Club has elected officers.

The club also has voted in seven members.

Officers elected include president Tammy Finney; vice president Robin Juker; secretary Toni Wall; treasurer Randy Pratt; co-reporters Rhonda Price and Kassey Murphy; co-sergeants-at-arms Kendall Wall and Ted Reynolds.

Films on livestock grooming and showing are planned for future meetings. Members were reminded that pictures of their horses must be given to the county agent by Thursday.

The next meeting will be May 15 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Price. All parents are encouraged to attend and participate in the projects.

your health

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

What does an "eroded cervix" mean? What causes it? Would it prevent me from bearing a baby? — Mrs. C.F.B.

The word "erosion" implies a wearing away, but in relation to the cervix the term may not be entirely appropriate.

In this threat of the cervix looks raw, but this is thought to be the result of cell changes occurring during the child-bearing years. Although about 15 per cent of women who have never been pregnant have had it, cervical erosion is the most common in women who have borne children—often in women who have sustained a tear in the cervix from childbirth. A mild infection sometimes accompanies the condition.

It will not prevent pregnancy, although treatment is necessary (usually cauterization). While an erosion is not cancerous, the symptoms are similar and can raise suspicions. A Pap test is usually taken to rule out any malignancy.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

What would cause strange—sounding crackling in my ears? Just one ear is involved. I also have dizziness. — S.S.

Low-level ear noises have been found in more than eight out of ten adults, so you are not alone. In most cases it is not a serious matter. If it were, most of us would be in bad shape, because most of us have experienced such sounds.

What is erosion of cervix?

Dr. George Thosteson

I would bet you are over 40, because it is at about that age most of these strange sounds begin. Causes? Excess wax is an obvious cause. Also, as we grow older we get more ailments that require various medications. Certain drugs (quinine, for example) can cause such phenomena.

I had a letter from an ear noise victim, an elderly lady who told me how she solved her problem—which had been worse for her at night. She slept with a tiny transistor near her head and found she could fall off to sleep easily, her ear noises drowned in a sea of all-night music. She even reported a subliminal spinoff, humming bits of songs she'd never heard.

I don't recommend this necessarily in your case, but it worked for her.

However, your noises could be indicative of another problem in the hearing mechanism, or if you are elderly, of arteriosclerosis. This would depend upon the type of sound (a crackling would lead me to suspect the ear mechanism), a matter I discuss in my booklet on this subject, "Ear Noises, Their Causes and Cures." The booklet discusses the wide variety of such phenomena, and lists some more traditional methods of coping with them. For a copy, and 15 cents to me in care of this newspaper. Enclose a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

I am taking diuretics, which I understand can deplete my body of potassium, causing blackouts, etc. To offset this I am being given potassium chloride.

Does this supplement ever cause lesions in the intestines? — Mrs. E.A.

I would have to know why you were taking the diuretic to begin with, because that would have an bearing on any effects the potassium chloride would have on your body. I can only assume it was to promote urine output because of kidney inefficiency, heart failure or liver disease. If so, the potassium chloride supplement should be taken only with careful periodic monitoring by your physician. Taken in excess, tablets containing potassium can cause gastrointestinal distress or lesions in the intestine.

Maintaining the delicate balance of potassium in the body is not something to be left to the individual patient to handle. It is interesting to note that either too much or too little potassium can produce the same symptoms—general muscular weakness.

So you will need a careful balance of your diuretic and potassium medication.

Former CIA aide curses newsmen, denies charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former CIA Director Richard Helms cursed a newsmen and denied the Central Intelligence Agency was involved in the assassination of foreign officials.

He also revealed that CIA actions in Cuba and Vietnam were part of the investigation by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller into domestic spying.

Helms testified nearly four hours Monday before the Rockefeller Commission — his third appearance and the longest of any of the 41 witnesses.

When he came out, Helms cursed CBS reporter Daniel Schorr, who reported that President Ford was concerned the investigation would reveal that the CIA had a role in plotting the assassination of at least three foreign leaders.

Helms kept saying "Killer Schorr! Killer Schorr!" as he walked down a hallway with reporters. Later, when Schorr asked an unrelated question, Helms said: "I don't know about that, Mr. Schorr, but I don't like some of the lies you've been putting on the air."

"I just want to say one thing. I don't know of any foreign leader that was ever assassinated by the CIA. That's my honest belief."

Helms brushed when asked if there had ever been discussions about assassinating foreign leaders.

"That's like asking me if I've stopped beating my wife," Helms said. "There were always discussions of everything under the sun. Two men may have sat in the State Department or the Defense Department and discussed things that may not be acceptable to the American people. That happens all the time."

Helms said he was questioned on many topics, including Cuba and Vietnam — the first time it was revealed these two areas were investigated. He would not elaborate.

Helms refused to comment on reports that former President Lyndon B. Johnson believed the assassination of President John F. Kennedy was in retaliation for a CIA plot aimed at Cuban premier Fidel Castro.

"I don't know why President Johnson said these things," he said.

Helms, now ambassador to Iran, was director of the CIA from 1966 to early 1974. Before that he was CIA director of plans, the supervisor of secret operations.

Newspaper and television reports have said that during the late 1960s, the CIA under Helms engaged in a massive domestic spying program, illegal under its charter.

William E. Colby, the current director, who has said the CIA may have exceeded its charter in domestic spying, also testified, but he did not see reports.

Denounces newsmen

FORMER CIA Director Richard Helms Monday bitterly denounced CBS newsmen Daniel Schorr for reporting charges that the CIA carried out the assassination of foreign leaders. Talking to reporters after an appearance before the Rockefeller Commission, Helms answered a question asked by Schorr with "I don't like some of the lies you've been putting on the air." (UPI)

Book delivery date slated

CHICAGO (UPI) — The owner of a "Weird Harold's Adult Bookstore," who pleaded guilty to selling an obscene magazine and was ordered, as punishment to deliver 3,000 smut-free books to the Cook County Jail, says he has chosen May 1 — "Law Day" — to deliver the first installment of 1,000 books.

Bookstore owner Harold Rubin said Monday he picked the books himself and they included such subjects as politics and constitutional law as well as some mystic rites.

Rubin, 35, pleaded guilty March 11 to selling an obscene magazine. Circuit Court Judge Marvin E. Aspen fined Rubin $1,000 and ordered him to donate the 3,000 non-obscene books to the prison.

Last of hostages freed, ending 16-hour ordeal

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — A former Israeli soldier who single handedly stormed the Israeli consulate, seized more than 20 staff members and raked the streets with gunfire surrendered meekly today, freeing the last of his hostages.

Police said four persons were killed in the gunfire and 32 injured, one critically, during the 16-hour siege.

Two of the dead were hostages and two were bystanders hit when the gunman sprayed machine gun fire from the windows, police said.

Police identified the gunman as David Protter, 21, a security officer employed for the past year by the consulate to search persons entering the premises.

The Israeli national radio said Protter was discharged from the Israeli army three years ago on grounds of mental instability. Police in Johannesburg said he was a native of South Africa but Israeli reports said he was born in Austria.

Police said he apparently wanted to dramatize a grudge he held against the Israeli government.

Protter quietly surrendered just before dawn to Bureau of State Security Chief, General Hendrick van den Bergh, who told him to "be a man."

Police immediately bundled him into a car and drove him to Pretoria, the capital.

Police would not comment on reports the dead and injured hostages were hit accidentally by police snipers who returned Protter's fire with bursts into the consulate.

Before he surrendered, Protter said he never intended to harm anyone.

Black market baby trade skyrockets, witnesses say

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The pregnant girls are young, scared, confused and alone. The couples are desperate to have a child at any price.

The both find an answer in a baby broker — a lawyer who negotiates the sale of newborn babies to couples at exorbitant prices.

Witnesses at a Senate Children and Youth subcommittee hearing testified Monday the black market baby trade is skyrocketing. Joseph Reid, director of the Child Welfare League of New York estimated at least 5,000 infants were sold on the black market in 1974.

Although many people consider it a crime that doesn't really hurt anybody, Reid said the situation is tragic.

Young pregnant women do not receive adequate counseling on their legal rights and options, he said. He is concerned over what is best for the child and the childless couple may go deeply in debt to be the highest bidder.

The black market involves cash transactions of $10,000 to $25,000 and higher. It centers almost entirely around white babies — with white Jewish women the most sought after, witnesses said.

Elizabeth Cole of the North American Center on Adoption said the shortage came from wider use of contraceptives, more abortion and "socially changing attitude toward unwed mothers. She said legal adoption agencies have "archaic" standards and procedures which make couples wait three to seven years. So they turn to the black market.

"They can get a baby and they can get it quick," she said.

Baby sellers seek out young unwed mothers — one reporter told of lawyers hanging around pregnancy detection clinics and offer to pay living expenses and medical costs, plus cash bonuses in some instances. If the woman agrees, put her baby up for "independent" adoption. Prices ranged between $4,000 and $10,000.

Wanted mothers. She said legal adoption agencies have "archaic" standards and procedures which make couples wait three to seven years. So they turn to the black market.

House approves subsidy for hot lunch program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House voted Monday to subsidize the hot lunch of every U.S. school pupil by a nickel, extend the free lunch program to children of the unemployed and raise the eligible income for reduced-priced lunches.

The House approved the measure 335 to 59 and sent it to the Senate. The bill also extends several school meal programs beyond this year and expands the hot lunch coverage to include an estimated 12 million elementary and secondary students.

The nickel subsidy was attached to the bill on a 213-176 vote when supporters argued that students and entire school systems were dropping out of the 30-year-old federally subsidized hot lunch program because of the increased cost of the lunch to the pupils.

Opponents argued that the amendment added $125 million to a program which already cost $3 billion and benefited only the children of middle income or upper income people. The nickel subsidy, they said, did nothing for a family of four with an annual income of $10,021 or less.

The cost of providing a hot lunch which meets the federal nutritional requirements is 84 cents. Because of state and federal subsidies, the national average cost of these lunches to the pupil is 45 cents.

The measure increases from $5.01 to $6.26 the family income level of children eligible for free lunches and allows children from families earning $10,020 or less to buy reduced price lunches — about 20 cents per meal.

Nixon submits statement

NEW YORK — Richard M. Nixon has submitted a court statement that he authorized wiretaps on the telephone of Morton H. Halperin, former assistant to Henry A. Kissinger "to protect national security information against foreign intelligence activities."

The former President's statement, in answer to a suit against him seeking damages that could run over $300,000, was received by the American Civil Liberties Union Foundation by mail here Monday.

John H.F. Shattuck, who is among the liberties group counsel representing Halperin without fee, said he believed this was the first court statement by a former President in a suit against him.

Nixon had, however, written the Senate Foreign Relations Committee while still President last July 12 saying, "I personally directed the wiretapping of certain specific individuals."

The new action disclosed that Nixon had retained two lawyers for the suit — William G. Hundley, who was chief counsel for former Attorney John N. Mitchell in the Watergate cover-up case, and Cary Mark Feldman, of Hundley's Washington firm. Kissinger, now secretary of state, has said the 21-month wiretaps from May, 1969, to February, 1971, at the Bethesda, Md., home of Halperin "never cast doubt" on his former aide's "loyalty or discretion."

Halperin served as deputy assistant secretary of defense for policy planning and arms control from August, 1967, through January, 1969, and then, until September, 1969, as aide to Kissinger, then the Presidential assistant for national security affairs.

In his seven-page answer to the District of Columbia Federal Court suit, Nixon contended that he had acted in his "official duties" and "broad discretion" as President, and was "absolutely immune from civil liability, therefore."

He also argued that the suit by Halperin, his wife and three children was "barred by the statute of limitations."

Shattuck contended, however, that the suit charged "fraudulent concealment of records" that was only discovered in 1973, so that the four-year time limit began running only then.

Student search continues

STEVENSON, Wash. (UPI) — A helicopter and tracking dog were called up today in the search for two more college students feared dead in an avalanche on Mt. St. Helens.

Rescue teams at the 6,500-foot level of the peak recovered the bodies of three University of Puget Sound students Monday. They were identified as Karen Moniot and Nina C. Engbertson, both of Tacoma, Wash., and Dick Pfeffer, Federal Way, Wash.

They were buried in the landslide which crashed down the campus of a college mountain-clubing class Saturday night.

Still missing and presumed dead were Erick Spurrell, Denver, Colo., and Phil Burck, Eatonville, Wash.

Shannon County sheriff's deputies said search teams would begin combing the mountainside at daybreak, weather permitting.

Three of the 24 persons who escaped the avalanche were treated for minor injuries

Textbook selection eyed

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's superintendent of public instruction told the State Textbook and Improvement of Instruction Committee today that its decisions on recommended reading materials will not please everyone.

"One of the real problems in the production and selection of textbooks is that parents and communities differ so widely in what they consider appropriate," Dr. Roy Truby said.

"We come from many cultures and socio-economic backgrounds," he said. "We have many divergent religious viewpoints. Our positions on politics and education differ."

He said there is a widespread variety of interests, motivations and personalities among Idaho's 185,000 public school children and there are many opinions, beliefs and attitudes among their parents.

"You are bound to run into some conflict and criticism, as well as praise, for your efforts," Truby said.

Freezing temperatures predicted

Twin Falls, northside, Burley-Rupert area: Fair and cool tonight. Low temperatures 25 to 30. Mostly sunny and a little warmer Wednesday. Highs 55 to 60. Probability of precipitation, 10 per cent or less.

Halley, Camas Prairie, Lower Wood River Valley: Fair and cold tonight. Low temperatures tonight in the teens. Mostly sunny and a little warmer Wednesday. The highs Wednesday 45 to 50. Probability of precipitation, 10 per cent or less.

Synopsis: The general weather pattern continues to slowly improve. Weak high pressure is slowly gaining strength over the intermountain region and there is no major storm activity in the eastern Pacific. This leads to an outlook for the remainder of the week for little or no precipitation and good drying conditions.

Temperatures will slowly rise, but not quite to the seasonal normals, which are highs in the upper 60s and lows in the upper 30s. Frost or freezing temperatures will continue to be a threat most nights this week.

Soil temperatures are still quite cool but sunshine should push them into the 40s and 50s by Thursday or Friday. Some farmers were in the fields Monday afternoon and many more will be working today and Wednesday.

Rebate plan offered

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. launched a new cash rebate program Monday that will try to entice car buyers into using their federal income tax refund checks for down payments on small cars that will get them another $200.

Chrysler, the originator of the cash rebate scheme that helped pull automakers out of their worst post-war sales slump in January, will offer the $200 rebates on its Dodge Dart, Plymouth Duster and Valiant models starting Thursday. The new program will cover Chrysler's Tradesman van and will run through May 31.

The No. 3 automaker began outlining the program to its dealers Monday. Spokesman for the other three auto companies, who reluctantly joined Chrysler in the original rebate game, said they have no plans to begin offering cash rebates again.

Chrysler's advertising will hit hard on the theme: "Good News For You From Congress. Good News For You From Chrysler." Pictures will show checks from the Internal Revenue Service along with the Chrysler rebate checks.

Income tax rebate checks of up to $200 will be mailed by the Internal Revenue Service to all taxpayers by May 1.

Other auto makers are reluctant to begin the cash payments again because of the high costs — an estimated $150 million in January and February for the four auto companies.

"This has got to help us," said Don Playford, a Chrysler-Plymouth dealer in Hillsdale, Mich. "Since the regular rebates ended, our sales have dropped. . . . But during February, right after the rebates started, our sales were triple the normal level."

R.D. McLaughlin, Chrysler vice president for the sales group, admitted the company was forced into renewing the rebates because of its lagging sales. Chrysler is expected to report later this week a record quarterly loss that analysts say could easily reach $20 million.

Doctors compared

CHICAGO (UPI) — While today's doctor may be technically better than his elder-days counterpart, he is not nearly as well loved or mysterious as his horse-and-buggy grandfather, according to an essayist.

But Stella Neeson, an essayist writing for this week's issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, makes a case anyway for today's physician — a better specimen than his horse-and-buggy grandfather but not nearly so well loved.

"The American doctor too frequently is a person who has spent a fortune on his or her education and feels entitled to live well materially," she said. "He or she is vulnerable to attack from the idealists . . . for that selfishness. He is also under indictment for practicing a discipline that is unforgivably almost as much art as science."

Further, she said, because the American doctors must spend so much time absorbing and digesting medical knowledge, he has very little time to devote to a broader humanistic education.

New US citizen honored

MURTAUGH — A surprise party celebrating Nicole Marie Carlier Bates' new acquisition of American citizenship was held Friday at her aunt's home in Murtaugh.

Mrs. Glenn Allen Bessie invited to friends and relatives to surprise Mrs. Bates, a former Belgian citizen who was naturalized last week in a ceremony Mrs. Bates' birthday in next week, so the party covered both events.

Jerry Anderson decorated a cake with a spread winged bald eagle made of walnuts and tinsel, a flag and the words "E Pluribus Unum" in it.

Games were played and refreshments served.

Filer recall sparks charges

By DIANE ALTERS
Times-News writer

FILER — Both sides in the Filer mayoral recall movement have issued last-minute charges and countercharges in anticipation of the Wednesday recall election.

The committee to recall Filer Mayor Paul Shover released a statement to area news media Monday charging that the mayor was:

— "drawing salary building inspector (which is against state law)," the statement reads. The committee also asked why the mayor fired the former building inspector after taking office.

In response, Shover told the Times-News that he has tried to hire "three different carpenters," who refused the job. The council told him to take the job unless a complaint was registered. "There has been no complaint until the recall campaign," Shover said. He said holding the position is not against state law.

Shover said the former building inspector was fired because "he did not do the job." He was just around to see that a building was going to collect his money, not to see if the job was done right or wrong.

"To the best knowledge of this committee, Mr. Shover owns no property and pays no taxes. His administration in this year's budget raised the tax levy four mills," according to the statement. The group also charged the city raised the water bill but water pressure has not improved and that the wages of mayor and councilmen were raised and a Christmas bonus given to some city employees.

Shover said he had owned property in town but sold it. The tax levy raised had "nothing to do" with his lack of property.

Shover said the committee was right to say that the water system had not changed. He said the city was "having the water surveyed" by an engineering company. "It will take until next year to get money to improve the system. The water bill was raised for upkeep," he said.

Wages of the mayor and councilmen were raised Jan. 1, 1972, before Shover took office, he said. Giving a bonus to all city employees was a tradition started before he took office.

"We still do so," Shover said.

— Mayor Shover states that he investigates all complaints made to him. We know of numerous complaints of violations of Filer City ordinances not being enforced after being reported, the committee wrote.

Recs' committee chairman E.L. "Mike" Davis said in an interview Monday that a city ordinance prohibiting the parking of mobile homes too close to houses and driveways was unevenly enforced and some mobile homes are still in violation. He said the violations had been reported to the mayor.

Davis also said the mayor did nothing about sidewalks broken by a local company.

Shover said he and his staff "try to enforce all ordinances. Nobody" has complained about trailer houses being too close to houses and driveways," he said.

Shover said the person who owns the property a sidewalk is built on is obligated to repair it. The company in question "promised me that the sidewalk they broke they'd replace — it's their property," Shover said.

"There is nothing degrading about citizens exercising the democratic right to recall a public official. Nothing emotionally disturbing to the mayor is brought on by his personal problems," the committee's statement charges.

The statement also accused the mayor of "harassment" by increasing the remove business from local merchants. Davis told the Times-News that the mayor threatened to take city business away from Seth Blake, a local insurance agent.

Shover said he had talked to Mrs. Blake but "I did not threaten it's nothing but personal conflict," Shover said of the recall movement.

Andrus eyes plant status

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Gov. Cecil Andrus today said he has "interpreted" a recent federal opinion to mean that Idaho Power Co. has not commenced construction of its proposed Pioneer coal-fired plant near Boise.

At the same time, however, he admitted that his interpretation is based on incomplete information and said he "can't quarrel" with another opinion that the power plant is technically under construction.

The question of whether Pioneer is under construction is critical in determining whether its pollution will be controlled by new federal air pollution regulation. If it is not under construction prior to June 1 of this year, Idaho Power must conform to the stringent new rules. If construction has started, however, the power plant will be subject only to older rules which allow much higher pollution levels.

Andrus recently asked Russell Train, administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), if Pioneer would be considered under construction if equipment orders already placed for it can be cancelled "without recourse by the manufacturer."

Idaho Power last summer ordered boilers and turbines (for the power plant. According to a federal definition, if the orders are "binding agreements of contractual obligations," the plant is under construction and would escape control by the new pollution regulations.

In his reply last Friday, Train said, the plant would not be considered under construction based on the details in Andrus' "specific" question.

Train was assuming that the purchase orders can be cancelled "without recourse by the manufacturer."

However, according to Robert Brown, Jr., news director for Idaho Power, the orders can be cancelled only if a penalty fine is paid.

And, according to a regional EPA official, such a penalty would make the orders binding, meaning the plant is under construction.

Douglas Hansen, director of the air and hazardous materials division at EPA's Seattle headquarters, told the Times-News, "If there is a penalty it would appear to be a binding agreement. I would say yes if there is a penalty."

Hansen issued an opinion last month that the equipment orders would constitute commencement of construction and allow Pioneer to escape the new regulations. It was his opinion that prompted Andrus' question to Train.

Hansen, who has reviewed Train's reply to Andrus, Friday said, "There's nothing new in that at all if you ask me," indicating that the plant still is beyond control by the new rules.

Traffic accident hospitalizes 4

TWIN FALLS — Four persons were hospitalized Monday afternoon following a traffic accident four miles east of Twin Falls on Addison Avenue East.

Listed in fair condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital is Mrs. Louise Houburg, 75, Wendell, driver of one of the vehicles.

She suffered multiple fractures of the legs and arms, bruises and shock. Her passengers included her son, Douglas Houburg, 53, who suffered concussion, and Mrs. Lella Doramus, 64, Kimberly, treated for minor head injuries. Both were listed in good condition today. The accident occurred about 2:25 p.m.

Driver of the other vehicle, Leland Brize, 72, Twin Falls, was listed in good condition with head and hand lacerations and rib and leg fractures.

State Patrolman Frank Mogensen said the Houburg vehicle was traveling north. According to witnesses Mrs. Houburg stopped at a stop sign and then pulled onto Addison Avenue East into the path of the east-bound vehicle driven by Brize.

Mogensen said Brize was able to bring his vehicle almost to a stop before the collision which probably saved the lives of the three occupants of the Houburg vehicle.

The accident demolished both vehicles, Mogensen said, although neither overturned.

Changes made

THIS LAWN at the Twin Falls Labor Camp last year was the scene of frequent picnics and in the evening served as an outdoor classroom for adult education classes sponsored by the Idaho Migrant Council. This year the lawn has taken on a new look: electrified barb-wire. Camp manager William Taylor said the lawn will be turned into a horse pasture. The fencing is one of the complaints of camp residents which have spurred a federal investigation.

Back in fields

RUSSELL Herron, east of Twin Falls, was out working in his fields Monday despite high winds that made Monday's highs in the upper 40's and low 50's seem cold. Drier soils in Burley, Rupert and Jerome allowed more activity on farms in those areas. Cold weather, wind and wet soils have delayed planting throughout the Magic Valley.

Jerome seeks separate Humane Society

JEROME — Efforts are under way here to form a Humane Society which would be locally controlled.

Jerome Chief of Police Howard DuBois said he is trying to establish a society which would not be controlled by the Twin Falls Humane Society as the past system has been.

Prompting the action was the resignation last week of Joan Wilder, Jerome Humane Society shelter director. Mrs. Wilder resigned when she was informed that she could not keep small animals in the new office provided by the city as she had in the past.

In her resignation, Mrs. Wilder stated that it was her desire to "run an animal shelter, not just a dog pound. It was my understanding when I took the job that all animals were to be welcomed and cared for in a humane manner," Mrs. Wilder said.

DuBois said the new office was for the benefit of the public and that the trailer which housed the office before was beginning to smell so bad from the small dogs and cats that were kept there it was not conducive to conducting business. "There is a shelter area available for the small animal cages and there is no need for them to be in the office," DuBois said.

At the present time DuBois is in full control of the operation with Brad Reichert hired as dogcatcher. "Each day I check on the operation and we have two high school students answering the phone during different periods of the day. We want to establish a Jerome Humane Society over which the city will have more control the arrangement of the joint effort with the Twin Falls Humane Society was not working like it should," DuBois stated.

The Jerome Humane Society has been in financial trouble ever since it started in Jerome. Because of the difficulties the city agreed to purchase the new office for the society so that it could get rid of the trailer which was used for an office and which was costing $98 a month.

TF buildings damaged

TWIN FALLS — An estimated $2,000 damage was done to the Idaho Power Co. building on Third Street North Monday night by burglars.

Detective Capt. Tim Qualls said someone broke into the building and attempted to force open the safe but failed. While in the building they overturned desks, damaged doors, furnishings and other equipment in the building.

Although a full inventory had not been taken this morning, he said company officials and employees said only small miscellaneous items were missing.

Vandals also entered the Fourth Ward portion of the LDS Church building at Fourth Avenue and Fourth Street North sometime Monday night. Nothing is listed as missing there and no estimate of damage has been set. Capt. Qualls said there is a "large amount" of destruction, however, including door casings, furnishings and equipment in the building.

At the Orpheum Theater and the Boy Scout office on Main Avenue North windows were broken but officers said apparently there were no entries made in either building. Damage estimates were not made for these two buildings this morning.

Capt. Qualls said police are interested in talking to anyone who may have seen a suspicious vehicle or individual in the vicinity of any of the businesses or establishments involved.

Persons with possible information are asked to call the detective division of the police department. Qualls said they need not give their names.

Other doctors don't agree that doctors will strike "the fellows aren't talking strike so much. If you don't have insurance, you just can't practice," Deslere said.

It's against a physicians ethics to strike, Deslere said. But, without medical malpractice insurance, at a reasonable cost, doctors will probably not perform "elective" medical care. Deslere said patients would only take care of emergencies, he said.

Dr. James A. Kircher, Burley, alternate delegate to the American Medical Society, said there isn't talk of a concerted action of general strike by doctors. If malpractice coverage is available, but at high prices, each doctor must decide for himself, Kircher said.

Without some solution to the ever-higher insurance costs, medical care may be priced out of reach of the average person, Kircher said.

Complaints bring federal probe

"I've had them accuse me of discrimination," he said, "but the rules apply to everybody. They just live by the rules of the camp or they move someplace else."

Taylor claims that he did not discriminate against Guannator in evicting him.

He refused to pay, so I evicted him," he said. "Nobody's being picked on."

Taylor also denied that he discriminated in the renting of housing units. He said that he kept a list of persons seeking a house and worked his way down the list regardless of race when a house became vacant.

"Over 50 per cent of the permanent residents here are Spanish people," he said. "Several Spanish people have been rented to."

Taylor contends that previous camp managers have not enforced the camp rules and that he is simply doing so.

"When I came here there was over $13,000 that had not been paid in back rent," Taylor said. "The people that were still here paid their back rent" ... I'm the only one in the last several years that's tried to do anything for these people ... Anytime you make rules, somebody don't like them ... As far as I'm concerned, the only thing I have to say is, if they don't like it, they can move."

Taylor admitted the yard area in front of the camp is being turned into pasture for horses. Andrus first children in the pasture, he said "several different people will have horses here."

Taylor said he will build a playground for children at the camp, as an alternative to the lawn, which he said is being used for children because it is near the road.

Asked what will happen if the children run into the electric fence around the lawn, Taylor said that the fence has not yet been electrified and that before it is signs in both Spanish and English would be put up and parents warned to keep children away.

Asked why he wore a badge and a gun in his role as camp manager Taylor said, "Because I'm a deputy sheriff. Have you ever seen a deputy sheriff who didn't wear a gun?"

"One of them (Spanish residents)," he said, "already tried to pull a knife on me. Anyone trying to stab him, he warned, would face ambulance attendants having to "carry him out in a basket."

"The only ones who gripe," he said, "are some of the Mexicans who want to do as Taylor as they please. And they did before I came here."

Charles Carter, chairman of the board which administers the labor camp on behalf of the several hundred farmers who own it, could not be reached for comment.

Curtis Eaton, a second board member, refused comment.

Thefts reported

TWIN FALLS — Six Twin Falls residents reported the theft of citizen band radio equipment from their vehicles Monday night.

The thefts occurred in most cases from vehicles parked in front of the homes of the individual owners. Detective Capt. Tim Qualls, Twin Falls police, said:

Radio thieves struck at the homes of Jeff Robbins, 1121 Seventh Ave. E.; Gary Bohm, 404 Seventh Ave. E.; Bob Newman, 330 Jefferson St.; Ron Cogswell, Third Avenue West; Jim Smith, 333 Highland Ave., and Robert Thompson, 295 Heyburn Ave.

Capt. Qualls said apparently all of the radios were taken by the same individual or group of individuals. He asked the cooperation of anyone who may have seen persons at any of the addresses involved during Monday night, requesting they contact the detective division of the police department.

Asked what will happen if the children run into the electric fence around the lawn, Taylor said that the fence has not yet been electrified and that before it is signs in both Spanish and English would be put up and parents warned to keep children away.

Asked why he wore a badge and a gun in his role as camp manager Taylor said, "Because I'm a deputy sheriff. Have you ever seen a deputy sheriff who didn't wear a gun?"

Bombay Duck to pace Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The closest thing to a sure thing in Saturday's 101st running of the Kentucky Derby is that the field will have to catch Bombay Duck.

It's agreed by virtually everyone that Roland Aristone's 3-year-old represents the early speed in the lineup of probable starters for the $125,000 added, 1 1/4 mile classic.

Bombay Duck's trainer Ben Perkins will even go a step further.

"Anybody who beats this horse Saturday is going to win the Derby," Perkins boldly predicted.

The Nashua-Egret colt fulfilled a similar prediction made before his last start, the Wood Memorial, when Foolish Pleasure caught Bombay Duck at the wire for the victory in the 1 1/4-mile event.

In four starts this year, Bombay Duck has won only once, capturing the Hirsch

Jacobs Stakes over six furlongs at Pimlico a month ago.

But Perkins denies any disappointment in his colt's performance to date. "We had a schedule and we're right on schedule," he said.

Perkins worked Bombay Duck the Derby distance of 1 1/4 miles Saturday and said he was satisfied with the 2:08 1/3 time turned in.

"Considering the condition of the track and you're brevering the horse 1 1/4 miles by himself, I was pleased. We figured he'd go a mile and lose interest, and he did. Plus, his rider weighed 143 pounds."

"The time didn't matter, the distance did."

"He was laid up six weeks during the winter and got bigger and fatter so it took him a couple of races to come around."

According to the early Derby line, the favorite to catch Bombay Duck is once again John L. Greer's Foolish Pleasure. Trainer Lero Jolley apparently has done a mar-

Bush cites CSI as influence in life

Tom Bush gave College of Southern Idaho and Twin Falls a lot of credit for his personal success and reminded Golden Eagles that basketball was only a pleasant interlude in the lives of most people when he addressed the annual CSI athletic banquet Monday night.

Bush, CSI's first first-team all-American junior college player and now head coach at Martin Luther King High School in Chicago, laid his feelings on the line the 247 gathered at the Holiday Inn.

He noted that when he first stepped off the airplane as a fresh-to-be at CSI, he almost turned around and got back on.

He noted adjustments were very necessary in his life.

But he added before long he felt Twin Falls and CSI had shown him that people were people regardless of color.

Bush also warned CSI basketball players that life can mean much more than athletic success. He noted there are over 200 million Americans and only about 200 of them earn their living as basketball players professionally.

Basketball awards led the fete in numbers. Andre Wakefield, a long-time friend of Bush and a freshman from Chicago, was named the outstanding defensive player of the team Kenny Davis, Detroit, second-team all-American this year, was named the outstanding freshman while Gary Yoder, who left Tuesday morning to begin an eight-game tour through Brazil with junior college stars, won the top sophomore award.

Bob Durham, a Twin Falls product, won his second straight Vern Riddle award while Dwight Boyles, El Paso, Tex., was cited as the most improved player.

In the baseball portion, Coach Jim Walker awarded the outstanding freshman prize to Bob DePasquale while pitcher Roger Bills, Idaho Falls, won the sophomore award.

Track, fresh award went to Nevada Neal McIntyre while Doug Gilkey, the ace quartermiler from Boise, took the sophomore nomination. Kevin Blaisdell, freshman from Blaine, was reported as the leader in the high point race as of now and with a 16-point lead probably will earn that trophy.

A special prize for outstanding nighttime athlete went to Dr. Robert Higdon, the award including equipment that will help his athletic efforts.

Spartans split with Skyline

RUPERT — The Minico Spartans split a doubleheader with Skyline Monday.

Skyline took the first game 9-6. Minico led 6-5 entering the bottom of the fifth when Skyline came back with a two-run homer. Minico went scoreless in the sixth but Skyline collected two more on an error and a sacrifice.

The winning pitcher was Tony Arehart and the loser was Doug Brown.

WFL sets season goals

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — World Football League President Chris Hemmeter Monday detailed legal and financial arrangements that he said would put the new WFL on firm footing for next season — with or without Joe Namath or full television coverage.

Emerging from two days of meetings with other WFL officials, Hemmeter said the old WFL filed reorganization proceedings in Los Angeles federal court Friday aimed at settling all its remaining debts.

"It is not a bankruptcy proceeding," he said.

"Bankruptcy is what we wanted to avoid and that's what we have avoided."

The new WFL, incorporated in Pennsylvania as New League Inc., is providing the funds for the debt settlement by paying $10,000 for the old WFL name and committing one and one-half percent of new league revenues over the next 12 years, Hemmeter said.

Under federal law, the league president said, a majority of all creditors of the old league must approve the plan filed in Los Angeles, but he said he is optimistic the approval will be forthcoming.

"It is very unusual to offer full payment of debts in a Chapter 11 proceeding (the governing section of federal law)," Hemmeter said.

"Therefore, we have every reason to believe the creditors will accept this plan."

The league president said the arrangement is more important to the league than Joe Namath or television coverage.

"We think it would be nice to have Joe Namath as part of the WFL," Hemmeter said.

Golden State guard out

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors, winners of the first game against Chicago in the National Basketball Association's Western Conference finals, learned Monday that reserve guard Phil Smith will miss Wednesday's game because of an eye injury.

The injury report put somewhat of a damper on the Warriors' tight workout Monday at the Oakland Coliseum where the team went through a shooting drill and also watched videotaped film of the first game.

The team leaves for the Windy City Tuesday for Games 2 and 3.

Rick Barry, who sparked Golden State with 38 points Sunday, admitted the Warriors look a gamble in the playoff scheduling.

With the best regular season conference record, the Warriors could have played the first two games at home, but instead chose to play only the first here and the next two in Chicago.

Because of a week-long Oakland Coliseum arena commitment, the Warriors, had they chosen to play the first two at home, would have been forced to meet the Bulls twice in three nights.

"I felt under the circumstances, that the extra rest (one game in five days) would be beneficial," Barry said. "I thought that we'd be better prepared."

"It gives us a big edge to win the first one," he added. "Now they have to win both games in Chicago to hope to keep any advantage at all. If we can win one of the two games, then we come back 2-1 and have three of the next four games on our floor."

Auto crash probe opened

BARCELONA, Spain — The International Auto Federation (FIA) opened an investigation Monday into Sunday's Spanish Grand Prix accident that cost four lives, injured 12 people and brought demands that Formula One auto racing be banned from the antiquated Montjuich circuit.

The accident occurred when a car driven by West German's Rolf Stommelen jumped a guard rail and scattering flaming debris into the crowd. It was the sad climax to a two-day controversy between the drivers and the race organizers over the safety of the track which uses city roads.

A hospital spokesman said that all but one of the injured were expected to survive. Stommelen, 31, suffered seven fractures in his legs, ribs and arm.

"The Montjuich circuit has become antiquated and must not be used anymore for races at today's speeds," the newspaper Pueblo said.

The newspaper Alcazar blamed "stagnant local pride and insistence on holding a race on a track that is not safe for this type of competition" for the accident.

It said the accident had proven world champion Emerson Fittipaldi right. The Brazilian refused risk a drive, saying the track was unsafe and that he valued his life higher than money.

The race organizers have repeatedly said that the accident was not caused by a lack of safety measures, but by a mechanical accident that could have occurred on any track. Films show that the front air foil came off Stommelen's Lola 111 causing it to fishtail and lift into the air as it was bumped from behind by another car.

The FIA, which controls grand prix racing, will announce its conclusions after probing all aspects of the disaster.

The next world championship race on the European circuit is the Grand Prix of Monaco May 11 — also held on a road track.

While the drivers have long been critical of Barcelona's Montjuich circuit, they feel better about the road track in Monte Carlo where race speeds are much lower. In fact, last year they voted Monte Carlo the second best circuit they drove on, including its safety.

Michel Boer, President of the Monaco Auto Club, said all of Monaco's safety measures would be reviewed this week.

"One additional measure will definitely be taken," he said. "We will reduce the number of photographers and newsmen circulating along the track." One of those killed Sunday was a news photographer, and the injured included four newsmen.

Retired former world champion Jackie Stewart of Scotland, a three time winner of the Spanish Grand Prix, said the Barcelona accident pointed out lax laxness in the control of Formula One racing by international sports authorities.

"The situation which led up to the tragedy reflects poor control of the sport," he said.

"The circuit was certainly below the safety standards laid down by the FIA. But there were no complaints by the FIA man and the FIA did not take any action."

Bruins take doubleheader

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Bruins swept a doubleheader from the Burley Bobcats Monday to boost their season record to 10-4.

In the opener, the Bruins won 5-0 on a seventh-inning solo homer by Tim Critt. Sophomore Brent Thomas was the winning pitcher.

Gary Huff paced Twin Falls with two homers and a double in the second game, which the Bruins took 7-3.

Scott Williams was the winning pitcher.

The Bruins play a doubleheader at Minico today.

BASKETBALL HALL of Fame electee Robert P. Vandivler, left, is installed by Hall of Famer Nat Holman in ceremonies at Springfield, Mass. Monday. Also elected (plaques in background) were Bill Russell, who refused to appear, Joseph R. Brennan and Emil Liston. (UPI)

Cagers honored; Russell absent

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — Three oldtimers were enshrined Monday in the National Basketball Hall of Fame, but the most interesting surrounded the plaque of the man who turned down the honor.

Enshrined in afternoon ceremonies were the late Emil Liston, founder of what evolved into the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics; Robert "Fuzzy" Vandivler, outstanding high school and college player in Indiana; and Joseph Brennan, a pro player from 1919 to 1936 and later coach at Manhattan and St. Francis Colleges.

Most of the 200 visitors to the Hall, however, stopped first at the 10-foot high stained glass window bearing the image of former Boston Celtics great Bill Russell. Russell, elected along with the three oldtimers, refused induction "for personal reasons," but hasn't elaborated.

While the windows depicting Liston, Vandivler and Brennan were unveiled, the Russell window was left unshrouded.

"The windows were installed last Thursday," said Hall Director Lee Williams, "and it's amazing how many people have stopped, especially to look at the Russell window."

"Russell was elected and he deserves to be in the Hall," Williams said.

"He (Russell) said he did not want to be enshrined and we took that to mean he did not want to participate in induction ceremonies, but if he were not in the Hall people would say the Hall is lacking. It would be like going to the Baseball Hall of Fame and not finding Babe Ruth's plaque."

Evert sets torrid S pace

NEW YORK (UPI) — In keeping one step ahead of inflation, Chris Evert is well on her way to breaking her own record for earnings by a woman tennis player.

Miss Evert, who set the standard of $261,469 in 1974, already has earned $28,550 in American tournaments this year, according to the list released Monday by the United States tennis association.

Chris, who is 20, added $25,000 to her bankroll last Saturday when she defeated Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia in the final of the Family Circle cup at Amelia Island, Fla.

Miss Navratilova is the only other woman to go over the $100,000 mark with earnings of $115,163 and Virginia Wade of Great Britain is third with $93,563.

Completing the top 10 are Billie Jean King of San Mateo, Calif. ($75,700) Evonne Coolidge of Australia ($74,350), Margaret Court of Australia ($70,763), Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union ($47,288), Betty Stove of the Netherlands ($43,975) Francoise Durr of France ($41,100) and Julie Heldman of Houston ($32,050).

Family tennis tourney planned

NEW YORK (UPI) — Just two days following the richest extravaganza in tennis history, a nation-wide, amateur family tournament that could involve as many as 100,000 Americans was announced Monday.

Whereas Jimmy Connors and John Newcombe earned anywhere up to a million dollars between them for their two-man duel at Las Vegas last Saturday, the Equitable Family Tennis Challenge of

Nicklaus top winner

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI) — For the first time this year, Jack Nicklaus has supplanted Johnny Miller as the leading money-winner, on the PGA tour.

By earning $6,945 with his ninth-place tie in the Money Tournament of Champions, Nicklaus increased his winnings for 1975 to $155,188, according to statistics released Monday by the Tournament Players Division.

Miller, who had held the No. 1 spot after winning the first three tournaments this year, managed only a 15th place tie in the competition at the La Costa Country Club in Carlsbad, Calif., which concluded Sunday. The 41-year-old earned there left his year's total at $153,839.

T of C winner Al Geiberger, thanks to a $40,000 payday, moved into the $100,000 bracket for the first time in a career that started in 1960. Geiberger now stands at $106,545, pushing him to fourth place on the earnings list behind Tom Weiskopf ($117,522).

Lee Trevino, fifth last week, remains fifth in earnings with $90,395, followed by Bob Murphy ($88,266), Hale Irwin ($80,194), Gene Littler ($70,611), Jerry McGee ($70,005) and Tom Rite ($64,010).

Colonels take ABA series

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — With Artis Gilmore scoring 29 points and Dan Issel 28, the Kentucky Colonels eked out the Spirits of St. Louis 123-103 Monday night to win their American Basketball Association Eastern Division final playoff series four games to one.

The victory propels the Colonels into the ABA Finals against the winner of the Western Division series between the Indiana Pacers and the Denver Nuggets. Indiana holds a 3-2 lead in that series, and if the Pacers wrap it up in Indianapolis Wednesday night, their series with the Colonels would open here Saturday night.

The Spirits, handcapped by the absence of injured floor leader Freddie Lewis, were no match for the Colonels' inside strength, embodied by the 7-2 Gilmore and 6-9 Issel. Gilmore was credited with 20 rebounds and seven blocked shots as he did a thorough job of intimidation on the shorter Spirits.

Lewis, remained in St. Louis to nurse a severely sprained ankle and the Spirits relied primarily on rookie Marvin Barnes to carry the scoring load. He wound up with a game-high 35 points.

Teammate Maurice Lucas, whose effectiveness was hampered by early foul trouble, finished second high with 19 points.

The Colonels piled four other players in double figures, reserve guard Bird Averitt with 18 points, Louie Dampier with 17 points and 12 assists.

Royals whip Sox, lead Oakland

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Harmon Killebrew broke a sixth inning tie with his 563rd home run and Hal McRae hit a bases-loaded triple in an inning later Monday night to lift the Kansas City Royals to a 7-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The victory, which went to starter Steve Busby, moved the Royals percentage points ahead of Oakland in the American League West.

Killebrew led off the sixth with a towering homer onto the leftfield terrace, his fourth of the season, to break a 3-3 tie and saddle Wilbur Wood with his fifth loss in six decisions.

Wood, a 20 game winner each of the last four seasons, leads all major league pitchers in defeats.

Chicago got two runs back in the ninth when Brian Downing walked and Jorge Orta homered.

Orta tripled home the Royals' first run in the third and scored on a double play and doubled home another run in the fifth.

Consecutive singles by Orta, Pat Kelly and Garlos May and a double play gave Chicago two runs in the sixth to tie it at 3-3.

Delroy wins in ninth rally

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Gary Sutherland's two-run triple with two out and the bases filled in the ninth inning capped a three-run rally which lifted the Detroit Tigers to a 5-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Monday night.

Sutherland's hit came off reliever Dave Johnson after the Tigers tied the score at 3-3 when Mike Cuellar walked Aurelio Rodriguez with the bases filled, forcing in the tying run.

El Freehan and Leon Roberts singled to start the ninth inning and the rally was temporarily halted when pinchrunner John Knox was thrown out at the plate by Al Bumbry trying to score on Dan Meyers single. Mahagreg Sutherland's hit came off reliever Dave Johnson after the Tigers tied the score at 3-3 when Mike Cuellar walked Aurelio Rodriguez with the bases filled, forcing in the tying run.

Watson paces Astro victory

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Bob Watson singled home two runs and scored a third Monday night to pace the Houston Astros to a 4-1 victory over the San Diego Padres before their seven-bit pitching of Dave Roberts.

It was the Padres' fourth consecutive loss.

The Astros broke a 1-1 tie by scoring twice in the sixth inning to pin the loss on rookie Joe McIntosh, who suffered his first defeat of the season after three victories.

Larry Milbourne and Cesar Cedeno had back-to-back innings to lead off the inning, but after Bill May certified Watson ripped a single to right to score both runners.

Houston added a run in the ninth when Doug Rader walked, moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Roger Metzger, took third on an infield out and scored on a single by Greg Gross.

The Astros took a 1-0 lead in the second inning by touching McIntosh for an unearned run. Watson singled and took third when Jose Cruz singled and Dave Winfield bobbled the hit in rightfield for an error. Doug Rader's long fly scored Watson.

Yanks trounce Cleveland 6-1

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rudy May fired a four-hitter and Alex Johnson knocked in three runs Tuesday night to lead the New York Yankees to a 6-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

May struck out six and walked four in boosting his record to 2-1 and lowering his earned run average 23.3 career against Cleveland, the best mark he has posted against any club in the league.

The Yanks jumped on ex-teammate Fritz Peterson (1-2) for four runs in the first. Singles by Roy White, Elliott Maddox and Thurman Munson advanced the third on John Ellis' throwing error and scored on a sacrifice fly by Johnson.

Ellis' second home run of the season provided Cleveland's lone tally in the seventh.

Maddox increased his string of consecutive hits to six with the eighth inning double, before bouncing into double play in the sixth.

Yankee Manager Bill Virden was ejected from the game in the second inning when he disputed home plate umpire Harry Starnes' third strike call on Fred Stanley.

O'Brien named NBA chief

NEW YORK (UPI) — Larry O'Brien, a career politician who often saved his money to catch the Boston bus from his Springfield, Mass., home to watch the Celtics play as a young man, will be named the new commissioner of the National Basketball Association Wednesday with the hope he can influence key decisions to expedite a merger between the NBA and ABA.

O'Brien, 57, now a lobbyist in Washington, will have the title of commissioner but duties of the office with 34-year-old Simon "Sy" Goldfine, deputy commissioner to Walter Kennedy, the present NBA boss.

For a time, it was believed that Goldfine might become the first black commissioner in professional sports.

But the NBA owners felt O'Brien has more clout in Washington and would be able to wheel more influence among legislators towards accomplishing a long-sought merger with the rival ABA.

O'Brien certainly knows his way around Washington. He is a former postmaster general and was twice Democratic National Chairman as well as being the personal confidante to the late President John Kennedy during Kennedy's administration from 1960-1963.

Long a basketball buff, O'Brien as a young man rooted rabidly for his favorite Celtics and made frequent trips from his home in Springfield to see them play.

NCAA denies Husker appeal

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — The NCAA has denied an appeal from the University of Nebraska of a one-game suspension of four Cornhusker players for the first game of the 1975 football season, athletic director Bob Devaney and coach Tom Osborne announced Monday.

Devaney and Osborne said they had appealed the same suspension verdict by the NCAA as "unfair to the players who had not knowingly violated any rule" when they made trips to bowl games while they were not eligible to play.

They said the appeal was made last week.

The four players who will be ineligible for Nebraska's Sept. 13 season opening game at the University of Missouri are back Jim Burrow, a starter; defensive tackle Dean Gistler, quarterback Vince Ferragamo and defensive end Ray Phillips.

Chicago schedules one playoff workout

CHICAGO (UPI) — Coach Dick Motta changed his mind, so the Chicago Bulls will have only one full-scale workout before they try to even their Western Conference championship playoff series against the Golden State Warriors in the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

The Bulls lost the opener of the best-of-seven series, 107-89, on the Warriors' floor and Motta distinguished said "I didn't think this team could handle worse." He then ordered all the players to report for a workout within one hour after the plane landed at O'Hare International Airport.

But during the dismal ride back he changed his mind, led the players home, and said they would get the usual grueling workout Tuesday afternoon.

Both Motta and the Bulls were somewhat puzzled about the manner in which the Warriors held them out of contention Sunday night. But it was obvious the Bulls were depending upon Bob Love, who had 37 points, including all but one of the Bulls' baskets in a

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 30, 1975
GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are under good influences early in the day and can utilize career matters to fullest advantage. Later you find potentially upsetting conditions urging you to make changes, and you could be misled.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make sure you know what higher-ups expect of you in the morning and don't follow any bizarre ideas. Think logically.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study new ideas you have for expansion but wait for a better day before putting them in operation. Relax at home tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Keep promises made to others instead of trying to avoid your responsibilities. Try not to argue with the one you love.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be sure you don't go ahead and do what associates want you to do without first giving the matter careful thought.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Only if you schedule your time wisely can you accomplish your tasks today. Strive for increased harmony at home. Be poised.

VRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take time to plan social and amusement activities for the coming weekend. Study your work plan before the actual hour.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Use the diplomacy in the handling of any home affairs or there could be trouble. Find the right appliances for more comfort.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You would be wise to do your shopping early since later you are apt to be too busy for such. Avoid one who is a spendthrift.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't spend more money than you can afford or you will regret it later. Show others you have good practical sense.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Handling personal affairs instead of wasting time on small business matters brings right results at this time. Be wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle important personal and business affairs instead of wasting time on trivial matters. You can help a person in need.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Morning is the best time to make new arrangements with associates. Relax at home and relieve tensions tonight. Keep calm.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she could be inclined to disagree with others too much, so teach to have more tact. Ideal chart for dealing with property or government matters, or anything to do with big business. Make sure to give ethical training early in life.

How can you tell whether somebody is lazy? Researchers at Illinois Institute of Technology think they've come up with the best test. If a person has a good vocabulary, but a poor record of accomplishment, they say that's proof said party is lazy. They think a good vocabulary indicates high IQ. So the citizen who possesses same but still doesn't do much with it has to be the victim of laziness, they aver.

Q. "Was there really a pirate named Blackbeard?"
A. Certainly was. Edward Teach was his real name. He claimed 14 wives. He murdered and looted along the Carolina and Virginia coasts between 1716 and 1718. An American crew caught up with him off North Carolina, finally. But how he fought! He took 25 wounds before he dropped. They carried his head, only his head, back to Virginia on a pole.

Idaho spud acreage off

MOSCOW — Less Idaho acres will be planted to potatoes in 1975 than in 1974.

That is the expectation of Hubert Sargent, University of Idaho extension agricultural economist in the College of Agriculture.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's March 1 planting intentions report indicated Idaho potato farmers would reduce their 1975 acreage six per cent.

However, prices to growers for current cash sales and on the futures market have recently risen. Sargent believes this may influence growers to revise their planting plans and not cut their acreage as much as they had intended.

Sargent said he is convinced, though, that if farmers are to "maintain reasonable profitable prices for the 1975 crop" they will need to "produce at least 10 per cent less potatoes than they did in 1974."

The U economist, reflecting on the 1974 potato crop year, said that except for producers who sold early at attractive prices, "later low prices played havoc with many producers, causing serious financial losses."

Nationally, the 1975 spring-planted potato crop, is forecast at 25 per cent less than last year, Sargent said. The summer-planted acreage is also expected to be lower — about 11 per cent less. These two factors have combined to contribute to recent price strength, even though remaining stocks of 1974 fall potatoes, at 72.7 hundredweight nationally, are 30 per cent above year ago level.

Stocks of fresh potatoes in storage from the 1974 fall crop are for the most part of high quality and should move from retail stores at prices favorable to the potato trade, according to Sargent.

The processor side of the market — those in the business of making various products from fresh potatoes — remains weak with respect to demand and price. "Most processors indicate very limited purchases if they are in the market at all," Sargent said.

Senecor approved for potato use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The herbicide Senecor has been registered by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for use on potatoes. Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, said Friday.

The chemical was the subject of considerable controversy last year when the EPA temporarily held up the sale of potatoes treated with Senecor in an experimental program.

McClure said he was "pleased that the EPA acted in time to allow potato farmers the option of using it this year."

State supports Elmore project

BOISE (UPI) — The State of Idaho went on record this week supporting an irrigation project to create new farms under the Carey Act.

A federal court decision is still pending in Boise on whether families can settle on 320 acres on the 6,000-acre Bennett Mountain Irrigation Project near Mountain Home.

The federal government limits settlements to 160 acres per individual, including a husband and wife.

The Bennett Mountain project would provide 320-acre farms for about 20 couples, Norm Young, chief of engineering for the Department of Water Resources says.

The department has asked the Bureau of Land Management to "segregate" the irregularly shaped tract so the desert land can be developed under the Carey Act.

Don Church, a Jerome farmer, is the leader of the 18 persons involved with the Bennett Mountain project. Church said the group, mostly from the Jerome area, will develop the land and settle on it.

The move to the desert will begin just as soon as the BLM "gets off dead center" and decides on the plan, Church said.

"I'm looking forward to it," Church said.

He called himself and the other farmers "desert rats" and said the land is good and smooth and adaptable to farming.

If the BLM approves the plan within the next two months, the farmers would be able to move onto the project by March or April of 1976.

The state acts as a middleman between the applicant and the federal government in most Carey Act matters, Young said.

More than 50 other Carey Act applications are still pending. They have been filed since March 1974 and total 300,000 acres. The sudden renewal of interest in converting desert land to farms under the Carey Act started a year ago when the Idaho Legislature amended the act to allow a husband and wife to settle on 320 acres, Young said.

Fred Cook, a BLM public information officer, said it could take months to process the segregation request.

Dehydrated spud purchase slated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced Friday it will purchase dehydrated potatoes equivalent to two million pounds of raw spuds for use in the Food for Peace program.

Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, in announcing the purchase said he was told the pilot program will move forward soon.

The Agriculture Marketing Service of the department earlier had told Hansen donation of fresh potatoes to the needy overseas was "not practical" but the possibility of using dehydrated potatoes in foreign relief feeding programs was being studied.

Limits on beef shipment nearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Negotiations with Australia, Central American and other meat shipping areas on voluntary agreements limiting beef shipments into the U.S. market are "near completion," the Agriculture Department said today.

The agreements will limit 1975 beef imports to 1.18 billion pounds, said the Foreign Agricultural Service.

The report said import barriers in other countries, which are partly responsible for U.S. import limits, may be easing. Officials said the European Common Market is reported considering opening its doors to 100,000 metric tons of beef imports and Japan has issued a 2,400-ton beef quota for 1975.

Japan had barred beef imports since February 1974 and the Common Market has not permitted any since last July. The closing of those two major import markets had led to increased potential pressure on the U.S. market from a world beef surplus.

USDA experts said world demand for beef and veal is expected to improve slightly this year, but any major change in what has been a depressed market in most parts of the globe "will probably have to wait until 1980."

For American consumers, imports under the pending voluntary restraint agreements currently being concluded will be up slightly from last year's depressed level.

Dry fields hope of beet growers

OGDEN (UPI) — Utah's sugarbeet growers are hoping for just three straight days of sunshine to dry out their soggy fields after nearly a month of rain and snow.

A spokesman for Amalgamated Sugar Co. said Monday "Only about 10 per cent of the acreage in Utah was planted before the wet weather hit on the first day of spring."

"If we could get three straight days of sunshine, or just 50 hours of continuous, non-freezing temperatures — without any more rain — we could go," Allen Hartline said. "All our growers are ready to begin planting as soon as the ground is firm enough."

He said Amalgamated and Utah-Idaho Sugar Co. growers in Utah and in Idaho's Magic Valley are 30 days behind their planting schedule.

"We have growers in Idaho, Oregon and Utah. And we only have about 85,000 acres of our 160,000 planned sugarbeet acres in now. But in Utah and in South-Central Idaho the growers only have about 10 per cent of their planned crop in the ground."

The Amalgamated spokesman said there's "no reason for alarm yet. We've got until about May 15 to get the crop in. But if it stays wet past mid-May, the growers in Utah and Idaho's Magic Valley will have to switch to some other crop."

Bockwurst standard adopted by agency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After two years of pondering, the Agriculture Department announced Friday it has adopted a federal standard for bockwurst.

Effective June 2, all bockwurst made in the U.S. will have to comply with the new ingredient standards. But officials said the standards are broad enough — with a long list of optional ingredients — to allow processors to satisfy regional and ethnic variations in taste.

Under the new standards, bockwurst will have to contain at least 70 per cent meat — either all pork, or a combination of pork and beef or veal. Eggs will also be required, along with onions, chives, parsley and leeks — alone or in combination.

Drought predicted by weather expert

DENVER (UPI) — A government weather scientist says the United States is in a stage for a predictable drought — with a long list of optional ingredients — to allow processors to satisfy regional and ethnic variations in taste.

Whether it will come this year or next we don't know," said Dr. Stephen Schneider, a scientist at the National Center for Atmospheric Research in Boulder, Colo.

"We also don't know how long a drought will last. We do know that if past records are indicative, we will have a drought."

Schneider based his prediction on statistics he said showed that between 1965 and 1972, world food supplies increased 2.7 per cent while in the United States they increased 2.0 per cent. He said however, since 1972, as populations continued to increase, food production dipped 1 per cent because of weather conditions.

He said that by not storing food supplies in the face of current drought-like conditions, world leaders were playing long a drought will last. We do know that if past records are indicative, we will have a drought."
