Anti-Viet bias sparks Ford ire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today told Republican congressional leaders he is "damn mad" that there is some American resistance to the resettlement of Vietnamese refugees in the United States. Congressional leaders quoted Ford as saying the concept of the resettlement effort is "morally right."

Scott insisted that he had hardly any anti-refugee mail and said that "Congress will soon learn the innate sense of decency and morality of the American people." Ford also defended the last U.S. ambassador to Saigon, Graham Martin, who has come under severe criticism for allegedly delaying evacuation until the last possible moment on grounds that the withdrawal would cause panic and endanger Americans.

TF's 5¢ parking charge may vanish

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer TWIN FALLS — There may soon be one more item that a nickel won't buy — downtown parking. Parking meter rates may be increased in Twin Falls with the present nickel-an-hour meters to be replaced with those which will require a dime.

Grange hits gun control

SHOSHONE — Lincoln Blaine Pomona Grange members have voiced opposition to gun control legislation and sent petitions and letters of protest to legislators.

Report on the action was given after a meeting was held at Richfield Grange Hall Saturday. Mrs. Dean Barney, Shoshone, announced Monday.

Welcomed as a new member of the Grange was Mrs. Eugene Alexander, Richfield. Subordinate Grange reports were given by Mrs. Louis Couch, for Magic; Eugene Alexander, for Richfield; Mrs. Dean Barney, Wood River Center, and Ralph Towne, Dietrich.

Members voted to provide a trophy for the Lincoln County Fair and to subscribe to the publishing of the fair book. There will be no meeting in July, the next regular meeting date, because the annual picnic is held that month. The exact date of the picnic will be announced later and any business of the time will be handled during the picnic business meeting.

Using the topic "Hail To America," and Mrs. Louis Couch gave a reading. The next regular meeting will be on Sept. 4 at Wood River Center. Grange Hall northwest of Shoshone.

Administration secrecy overshadows hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The issue of administration secrecy almost overshadowed legislation on no-fault auto insurance at a Senate Commerce Committee hearing Monday.

The witness was Transportation Secretary William Coleman and he declined to answer a series of questions about the administration's opposition.

650 sign Hansen petition

TWIN FALLS — Over 650 persons from Idaho's second congressional district reportedly have signed petitions calling for the removal of Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, from office.

Lincoln groups to meet on Wednesday

SHOSHONE — The physical, social and economic committees of the Resource Conservation Development planning program will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Lincoln school.

The committees will continue gathering inventories and then assess the facts for the overall plan of project-wide resources.

A similar meeting will be held again for the committees on May 21 at the same time and place.

Mrs. Virginia M. Riggs, Twin Falls leader of the petition drive, said Monday afternoon that she soon expects to have a total of 15 petitions of 13 signatures each from several towns over the Magic Valley to send on to the House of Representatives.

She said the petition drive has been going on about one week and will go on indefinitely. Anyone interested in signing or carrying the petitions should call Mrs. Riggs at 734-2341.

Plans for CSI museum under way

TWIN FALLS — Preliminaries are underway on construction of a cultural museum on the College of Southern Idaho campus.

CSI President James Taylor, Twin Falls Bank and Trust President Curtis Eaton and Twin Falls Jeweler and museum operator Norman Herrett are forming a private, non-profit corporation to raise funds for the museum.

The proposed museum will cost about $160,000, according to Taylor. An application for $20,000 in federal construction funds was submitted last month to the national bicentennial commission.

The museum will be built on campus "but not in the periphery of the existing buildings," he added. Its exterior design "probably would be closely related to our present buildings" or would include "wood and indigenous stone from this area," Taylor said.

Congress ponders opening floor debate to TV

By CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

WASHINGTON — Alarmed by a dismal public image that polls show is getting worse, Congress is considering opening its floor debate to television and radio.

Except for ceremonial occasions and special events, the House and Senate never have allowed television or radio coverage of their floor proceedings.

But now, to upgrade their image and to counter the White House—media relations machine, the House and Senate are working on proposals to allow broadest coverage of their sessions on a trial basis.

Resolutions to set up the experimental program have been introduced by Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont, and Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex. Under these proposals, picture and sound coverage would be fed to television monitors in selected House and Senate offices.

In 1975, 28 years later, resolutions have been introduced to authorize a one-year trial of television and radio in the House and Senate. If the experiment is a success, microphones and television cameras may become permanent fixtures in the inner sanctums of Congress.

Should the House and Senate allow broadcast coverage of floor sessions?

By denying itself access to television, says Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., Congress is doubly damned. On the one hand, we cast a blurred and confusing image for the man on the street; on the other, we are regularly made victim to end-runs and upstaging by the president.

The Harris poll showed in 1974 that Congress had received the lowest positive rating ever measured by that organization. And that rating—less than 20 per cent—was the lowest accorded any institution, including the presidency, studied in the survey.

It is almost as if they have counted the creep vote and decided to play it cool.

At present, President Ford joined the prudent club. He came out against violent crime, but divorced himself from the phrase "law and order," one of the—unfortunately ineffectual—slogans of the Nixon administration.

Rather, Ford said in a Yale Law School speech, "I return to the constitutional phrase 'domestic tranquility.'"

Good night and damnation! Come on, Mr. President. Of course we're all for "insuring domestic tranquility," but why must a politician be so coy about it? Even if the phrase has come into disfavor among certain elite lawbreakers...

Indeed, it is significant that the word "law" is given precedence in the phrase. That means order may be maintained only through law, not through men's whims.

What happened, I presume, is that Ford and his advisers reached a policy decision. The phrase "law and order" was a Nixon phrase Nixon has been discredited. Therefore, one mustn't sound like Nixon.

"Pshaw!" In fact, Ford made a pretty good speech. He called for a crackdown on violent criminals, urging that "virtually all of those convicted of a violent crime should be sent to prison."

As an inmate criminal lawyer once admitted, while in his cups: "No criminal locked up in a jail ever committed a crime outside that jail."

to members. After a testing period to iron out any bugs in the system, the broadcast feed would be given—on compressed—and public broadcast to use as they saw fit.

"I think there is some question we as bureau chiefs have to be concerned with as to who controls it," said William Lord, head of the ABC News Washington bureau.

"Broadcasters would like complete control over the operation. Some members of Congress support them. 'Give the press free access and lay off,' said Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., a former San Diego television news director.

"At a minimum, the networks would like to use the same sort of camera 'pool' system they used in covering the Watergate scandal. They would like to see cameras realize they are in Congress's backyard and will have to play by its rules."

CON: "Participation of the public in the formulation and execution of public policy is essential in a democratic society," said Sen. Jesse A. Helms, R-N.C., but not at every stage of the process.

Noting that the founding fathers met in secrecy to draw up the Constitution, Helms argues that the people were never intended to participate directly in congressional proceedings. The glare of television would not only complicate the proceedings, he says, it would distort them by focusing only on the final stage.

Helms is a former radio-television newsmen.

Realistically, Lord said of the Metcalf-Brooks plan, "that's the most efficient way to get it done."

One network executive explained that the windy nature of floor debate does not lend itself to the compressed spot news format of the network programs.

Lord said that floor debate could account for "maybe 10 per cent" of the evening news program, but he expected that small increase to greatly improve the news.

The only way networks can cover floor debate now, he said, is with artists' sketches and post-session interviews with participants in the radio-television gallery.

One network executive who worked in the House for several years agreed that members would indeed be self-conscious at first. "But within a year," he said, "it will be business as usual... People who normally slouch and put their feet up will slouch and put their feet up. People who normally speak in debate will speak and people who normally don't speak will not."

Sanford Scocow, Washington bureau chief for CBS News, said the camera will simply show what it sees. "Congressmen don't seem to understand that it doesn't hurt and that nobody is criticizing," he said. "We don't try to ridicule people. All we do is reflect what's going on there. If someone makes a fool of himself, then he will be ridiculed."

Dime parking pound foolish

The Twin Falls City Council is considering a proposal to double the cost of downtown parking. It now costs a nickel an hour to park. The new cost would be a nickel for a half-hour, a dime an hour and 20 cents for two hours.

And for the "convenience" of the shopper, the new parking-meters will take a quarter in case exact change is not available.

The purpose for the new dime-an-hour parking is to raise additional money for landscaping, lighting and resurfacing the downtown parking lots.

All the extra money won't go toward the parking lots, however, as the proposed dime rates would require replacement of more than two-thirds of the city's 900 meters and tinkering with the rest. This will cost the city a considerable portion of the new revenue generated.

We think charging shoppers a dime an hour to park is a mistake. It may be penny wise, but surely it is also pound foolish.

Consider history. The City of Twin Falls spent heavily on its downtown urban-renewal project. The major thrust of that project was to prevent decay of the city center by bringing shoppers back downtown. A good deal of federal and local money, including that of both merchants and shoppers, went into the project.

But what sense does it make to lure shoppers downtown, make parking available, and then sock them with excessive parking charges?

The predictable result of dime parking is an accelerated exodus of business to outlying shopping centers which offer free parking.

The city's policy is to bring traffic and business into the downtown area to prevent its decline.

If so, what sense does it make to impose a parking charge guaranteed to discourage people from shopping downtown.

If revenue must be produced, let it be produced in some other way which supports city policy.

Instead of raising parking fees to a dime, the city should consider eliminating them entirely.

Even a parking meter activated by a nickel-sized slug of nominal value would regulate parking time, dutifully noting each overtime parking violation. Overtime parkers still could be ticketed to discourage misuse of the limited parking spaces available.

In its own best interest, the city should rethink the role of the parking meter. It should be considered a method of regulation, not of raising money.

Secret Viet deals

Salt Lake Tribune. If former President Nixon's many troubles proved anything it was that sooner or later the public will demand and get the truth, or at least a significant portion of it.

President Ford, whose administration is supposedly big on candor, appears to have suffered a relapse into useless secrecy. It is hard to understand his refusal to release correspondence and other documents relating to Mr. Nixon's promises to then President Thieu of South Vietnam about enforcing the 1973 "peace with honor."

Pros, cons of coverage

By Congressional Quarterly WASHINGTON — In 1947, television crews entered the House chamber to record the opening session of the 80th Congress.

Except for ceremonial and special occasions, they have not been allowed in either the House or Senate chambers since.

In 1975, 28 years later, resolutions have been introduced to authorize a one-year trial of television and radio in the House and Senate.

Broader proposals see the proposals as an opportunity to redress a growing imbalance of power between the executive and the legislative branches.

Why the gingerly approach to violent crime?

WASHINGTON — One of the things that has puzzled me during the past decade or so is why so many national politicians take such a gingerly approach to the problem of violent crime.

It is almost as if they have counted the creep vote and decided to play it cool.

At present, President Ford joined the prudent club. He came out against violent crime, but divorced himself from the phrase "law and order," one of the—unfortunately ineffectual—slogans of the Nixon administration.

FPC handed 2 controversial gas plans

Drum of dissent beats during bicentennial year

Editor, Times-News: Lately, I've heard the drum-beat roll of your "American heritage." But yet, I hear and feel the beat of another type of drum. The drum of dissent.

During the next 22 months, beginning with March 17, 1975, "Old Glory" will get an exhaustive work out. The resurrected spirits of the "founding fathers" will make Lazarus, and the calling of Mephistopheles look like child's play. You will be inundated with patriotic oratory, parades, pagentry and marching bands. The steady drum-beat rolls of the Revolutionary Era will reverberate in every nook and cranny of the nation.

But yet, I hear the beat of the drum of dissent. Why don't you? Why can't you? Why won't you? Is it because you don't care? Disinterested? Apathetic?

Listen to the non-conforming beat undercutting your patriotic drum roll. I hear and feel it every waking second of my life. Your founding fathers did not hear nor feel this dissonant beat. Why else would they relegate the American Indian to a beast, when they refer to the Indians as savage in their Declarations of Independence?

Did they forget so soon, that it was these same "savages" that demonstrated compassion toward the first white settlers in showing them how to survive the harsh winter? Did they forget? Some of these same "founding fathers" perpetuated this lack of feeling for the Indian heart-beat by specifically excluding the Indian from the original laws of the nation. Believe me, the Indian has not been ecstatic about the third class citizenship bestowed upon him in 1924.

Your forefathers demonstrated a complete lack of human concern for the inherent rights and welfare of the original inhabitants of this land.

In 200 years of your American heritage, the Indian has suffered and still does, from the capitalist, colonial tyranny imposed on him since the founding fathers fled to this new country to release themselves from their own oppressive colonial tyrants.

More than 600 Indian tribes have vanished from this land during your American heritage. In many cases they perished as the result of their trust and kindness to your forebears. The remaining 200 tribes are waging a non-war type of tribal survival in your oppressive reservation system which fetters them with an impossible type of bureaucratic dictatorship. During your 200 years of American heritage, every single one of the hundreds of Indian treaties negotiated, supposedly in good faith, by your government and solemnified by your Great White Father has been broken, beginning with the Delaware Tribal Treaty negotiated in your fabled year of 1776. No one such treaty has ever been broken by an Indian tribe.

Your 200 years American heritage of paternalistic capitalist tyranny of Indian people is remembered by the Indian as one marked by murder, rape, robbery, suffering, disease and finally, only limited civil rights for the Indian people.

What Indian pride can be endangered for your American heritage? It puts the Indian on the scag-heap of human misery. It puts the Indian No. 1 at the bottom of your human needs scales in education, health, unemployment and object misery.

Go ahead white man! Celebrate your American heritage with your bicentennial birthday party of your nation.

We Indians will content ourselves daily in our celebration with the Great Master and Mystery of Life. We will daily thank him for letting us survive another day. Perhaps by your 400th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, if there are any of us left, the Great Spirit will have seen fit for the surviving tribes to have an independence of their own to celebrate daily, not once a year or every century in the hereafter.

FBI file squabble brewing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Power Commission is being asked to choose between two controversial proposals for shipping natural gas from Alaska's North Slope to consumers in the lower 48 United States.

Environmentalists are opposed to both proposals and it may be a bitter battle. The FPC hearings come just two years and six days after the start of work on the Alaskan oil pipeline. Some of those involved in the gas project predict a long fight which may, like the oil pipeline project, have to be decided by Congress.

Two radically different gas shipment plans are compelling for FPC certificates of public convenience and necessity needed before construction can start.

One, by the Alaskan Arctic Gas Pipeline Co., calls for burying a pipeline four feet in diameter across 2,625 miles of Alaskan and Canadian wilderness. The pipeline would split in southern Canada, entering the United States in Idaho and Montana.

The other, by the El Paso Alaska Co., would put a pipeline straight across Alaska from the North Slope gas fields to Graveline Point on the southern coast of the state. Gas would be liquefied there and shipped by tanker to the U.S. West Coast.

Arctic Gas says the El Paso proposal for converting the gas to a liquid and moving it by ship would waste energy and add an estimated cost of $445 million per year that would have to be passed on to consumers. El Paso says the Arctic Gas proposal leaves the United States vulnerable to a potential cutoff by Canada of vital gas supplies.

Environmentalists say huge terminals to receive liquefied natural gas on the West Coast would pose a safety threat. They say the proposed trans-Canada pipeline would cut through and endanger wildlife refuges in Alaska and Canada.

Balanced against those arguments is an urgent demand in the lower 48 states for more natural gas.

Traditional supplies are running short, and the proved but untapped riches of the Alaskan North Slope near Prudhoe Bay — estimated at 21 trillion cubic feet of gas — already equal 10 percent of the nation's natural gas reserves. Potential Alaskan reserves have been estimated at 100 million cubic feet.

William W. Brackett of Arctic Gas, scheduled as the first witness, said in a statement released Sunday that the all-pipeline proposal would deliver gas to consumers at the lowest possible price.

He said studies prepared for his company show transportation costs for El Paso's pipeline-and-tanker system would be 77 per cent higher for gas reaching Chicago, 85 per cent higher for gas going to Pittsburgh, 23 per cent higher for shipments to Los Angeles and 37 per cent higher for gas shipped to San Francisco.

Manipulation irks farmer

Editor, Times-News: I am tired of sending anybody information and having them use it on a partisan level for a bunch of bureaucrats and capitalists to manipulate prices and statistics with.

I am not in agreement with the false image that is portrayed by the Department of Commerce.

An instance of this and a good example is the doctors going on strike because of their malpractice insurance costs doubling. In other words they'll sit down and quit, but a farmer such as I who pays three times as much for fuel and three times as much for fertilizer and three times as much for machinery and I'm not even thinking about quitting just because the country needs to be fed.

Hansen parents appreciative

Editor, Times-News: To all of George and Connie Hansen's friends and supporters. As George's parents, we are most sincerely grateful to you for your trust in him — for your loyal giving of time, effort, and means in his behalf; and for your telegrams and letters, and the messages of comfort and encouragement to all of us — Your support and devotion have been beyond measure.

We are sure that many of you, like ourselves, have felt great fear for all men's liberty and freedom when there, can be broadcast unfounded accusations and half-truths, a smearing of honorable names and reputations, and cruel unjust punishment for minor or unintentional or unavoidable infractions of the law.

But now that Judge Hart has abrogated his first sentencing of George for a harsh but more specious penalty, we feel justified and more secure in our old-fashioned faith in our country's government.

Above all, we thank you for your prayers, and for your faith in Divine Intervention; and we ask you now to continue your confidence in George and thereby enable him to do the work he was selected to do.

the new attorney general has made it clear that he intends to stand by the traditional negative position of the FBI and the Justice Department when the Congressional committees investigating government intelligence operations ask for — or demand — a look at the files.

Although neither the Senate nor the House committees probing the intelligence agencies has yet requested what are called "raw files" — a White House official familiar with Congressional administration fighting over access to information said he expects an open confrontation within a matter of days.

Levi's position was set out, in his typically scholarly fashion, in a 30-page speech on the importance of confidentiality that he delivered to the New York City Bar Association last week. Much of the speech dealt with the problems raised by demands from the press for access to government information.

But department officials familiar with Levi's thinking said the heart of his message was in the sections of his talk where he warned against the harm that could come from disclosure of information provided to Congressional committees.

Twice in the speech, he quoted favorably from a statement made by Afling Gen. Robert Jackson in refusing to provide FBI investigative files to a Congressional committee in 1941.

A White House official said Congressional committees "looking into" such matters always feel they have not done their job until they have examined the original documents.

A senior FBI official said he had no doubt the bureau could satisfy the legitimate needs of the Congressional committees without giving them direct access to the files.

"The question," he said, "is whether they will feel the same way."

T-N invites reader letters

The Times-News welcomes letters from its readers. Letters should deal with topics of general public interest.

The writer must sign his name and provide his address. Unsigned letters will be discarded.

In rare cases, letters may be printed with the writer's name withheld if the situation warrants. When such a request for confidentiality cannot be honored the letter will be returned to the author without being printed.

Because space is at a premium, letters should be limited to about 250 words. Longer letters may be edited for length. If possible letters should be typewritten.

Letter writers are bound by canons of good taste and laws governing libel.

Price hike moves harm new lands

GENEVA — The International Labor Organization, a United Nations agency, warned Monday that the developing countries that attempt to force up the prices of their raw materials through cartels can be as harmful to themselves as to the industrial powers.

In a study on the mining industry the ILO noted the trend among mineral producing countries to follow the example set by the oil-exporting nations by establishing cartels and assuming control over their tin, bauxite, copper, iron-ore and other mining industries.

But it stressed that such a move as the curbing in the production of raw materials that is sometimes contemplated as a means of achieving higher prices was "fraught with uncertainties" and could cause unemployment in producing and consuming countries alike.

Senate panel debating how US should fight nuclear battle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Behind the acronym and complex technical phrases, the Senate Armed Services Committee is debating how the United States plans to fight a nuclear war.

It will decide whether the present posture should be more accurate, more powerful — a U.S. missile could penetrate defenses and knock out an enemy missile silo before it is fired.

The battle will rage over the Pentagon's $10.2 billion research and development request. The research and development — subcommittee headed by Sen. Thomas McIntyre, D-N.H., cut it by $640 million.

That included eliminating $109 million for five nuclear warfare projects — such as MARV, the nuclear warhead which can change course in flight, $160 million from a $272 million request for the B1 bomber, and $140 million from defense of missile sites.

Although the definitions are not precise, the votes can tell which the committee wants a "counterforce" strategy — targeting some missiles at the opponent's missiles — or prefers the present balance of mutual destruction of each side's cities.

A supporter of counterforce, the Pentagon says the President must have flexibility in case of attack instead of a choice between doing nothing or beginning an all-out nuclear war.

This was argued by two Harvard professors in the late 1950s and early 1960s — Henry Kissinger and James Schlesinger. It is backed by a Democratic presidential candidate, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

Greeks, Thais ask US military out; base network shrinking

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's worldwide network of military bases is getting smaller. The Greeks on one side of the world and the Thais on the other are giving the United States its walking papers.

The governments of Thailand and the United States announced jointly Monday more than one-quarter of the remaining U.S. forces in Thailand would be removed by June, dropping the total to below 19,000.

Thai chief calls for plane return

BANGKOK (UPI) — Thailand's Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj today demanded the United States stop the removal from Thailand of airplanes flown out of Saigon by fleeing South Vietnamese pilots.

Some Thai officials have insisted all the Americans must go within a year, but U.S. officials hope to keep about 10,000 aircraft there.

Bases in many other parts of the world could be closed or cut back in the coming months.

The U.S. military is far from closing up shop abroad. It still has about 2,000 installations in 33 foreign countries. Most are single buildings — radar sites or navigational aides — but about 340 are rated as major bases.

The pressures come not only from foreign governments. Many in Congress feel the U.S. military presence abroad is bloated and unwarranted because of the U.S. balance of payments.

Of the 2.1 million men and women in uniform, one in four serves abroad. Around the world, the recent changes look like this:

—Greece: The Greeks are angry at Washington for backing the military junta which fell last summer. The new prime minister, Constantine Karamanlis, is pro-West but had to demonstrate his country's displeasure. Last week Athens announced six U.S. destroyers no longer will be home ported in Athens and those bases which do not contribute to the defense of Greece are to be closed or cut back.

—Portugal: The United States and the new left-wing Portuguese government are dickering over the continuation of Lajes Air Base in the Azores. Portugal already has said it will not allow the U.S. Air Force to refuel planes there on their way to Israel in any future Arab-Israeli war.

—Turkey: Like Greece, Ankara is upset over the American attitude on Cyprus. No action has been taken against the bases there, but U.S. officials are well aware a base is a visible and easy target in times of political friction.

—Philippines: The Manila government has displayed publicly its unhappiness with Washington after the Vietnam collapse. It has asked openly if it should rely on Washington or go its own way and has asked how much longer the U.S. bases there will be needed.

—Spain: The bases agreement is up for renewal and the Spaniards reportedly have said they want the United States to vacate one of the two U.S. air bases there. However, that is believed to be a bargaining ploy.

—Japan: For years the Japanese government has wanted the Americans to move off many of the old imperial Japanese bases of the United States inherited at the end of the war. This is not a case of anti-Americanism. Growing cities have spread around many of the bases and there are now prime real estate.

—Okinawa: The island was returned to Japan two years ago. It has a left-wing government which often complains about the U.S. military presence. U.S. officials are anticipating the day the United States must leave by doing the ground work for a new base complex on Tinian Island in the mid-Pacific.

—Taiwan: The Nationalist Chinese want the Americans to stay, but the United States told Peking three years ago it would trim the U.S. presence there. Most of the troops were added on the island only to help keep supplies flowing to Vietnam, so they are not considered necessary.

HENRY KISSINGER ... denies CIA link

Kissinger disclaims CIA ties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Monday he and the National Security Council had had no involvement in any domestic operations of the Central Intelligence Agency and that he had never "transmitted" to the agency any feeling of concern about domestic security on the part of President Nixon.

Richard Helms, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, had said in January that domestic operations were conducted in response to presidential concern that foreign influences were controlling the domestic antiwar movement.

Kissinger's statement raised the question of whether the CIA's operations were in violation of the National Security Act of 1947, which calls upon the CIA to "perform such other functions and duties related to intelligence as lie within the national security as the National Security Council may from time to time direct."

The present CIA chief, William E. Colby, said in January that the agency conducted domestic intelligence gathering from 1970 until 1973 as an outgrowth of presidential concern over radical activities.

This concern was expressed in the so-called Houston plan, a proposed attack on radical movements that included burglaries, electronic surveillance and mail covers, which was prepared in 1970 but not implemented. The CIA, Colby said, continued to gather information and maintain files on Americans even though the plan was not adopted.

Monday, under questioning, Kissinger said "since I have been in Washington, the National Security Council or the National Security Council staff or the assistant to the president for national security affairs did not concern themselves with domestic intelligence or were not informed about domestic intelligence."

Writer says CIA led Malagasy coup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Central Intelligence Agency was involved in the coup that overthrew the Malagasy Republic, according to an article in the current issue of Penthouse magazine.

The article by Tad Szulc also said the CIA kept dossiers on Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and in the 1950s broke into the offices of the late Sens. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., and Robert Kerr, D-Okla.

Szulc also charged the CIA was recently involved in covert operations in Portugal and that the National Security Agency has been monitoring many of the 60-million overseas telephone calls made each year.

The article, entitled "Kissinger's Secret Empire," says Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger directs U.S. intelligence activities and that the cost of U.S. spying is about $25 billion a year, more than previously reported.

The Penthouse article says McCarthy's office was broken into because "the CIA was especially interested in the private sources that fed him the information to conduct his witchhunt."

Kerr, said Szulc, had "secret political knowledge," especially about Middle East oil operations, that the CIA wanted to know about. There was no specific reason for keeping tabs on Humphrey, he said, other than "to have as much confidential material as possible on the man who held our second highest elective office."

The CIA, Szulc said, has ties to the Mobile Police Group, which killed Malagasy

President Richard, Ratsimandrava Feb. 11. He said U.S. and CIA interest in what was formerly called Madagascar lay in getting military facilities at a former French base on the Indian Ocean near the entrance to the Persian Gulf.

Szulc said, "There are reasons to believe that the CIA was in close touch with the military group of Gen. Antonio Spínola" on March 11, Spínola led an abortive coup against the Portuguese government that last year overthrew the world's oldest dictatorship, the article noted.

Ky claims lead of Viet throngs

EL TORO MCAS, Calif. (UPI) — Former South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky arrived in the United States as just one more refugee aboard a military cargo plane — then immediately pledged to assume leadership of Vietnamese exiles in the country.

He also said leaving from the war zone to the United States was "quite a difference" and predicted fellow Vietnamese refugees would have a difficult time adjusting to life in this country.

Ky, wearing a white jumpsuit and a purple silk scarf, stepped off the jet Monday night and spent 15 minutes talking with reporters before entering a room to have his papers checked and his duffel bag searched.

The former premier, first of the 68 refugees to leave the CIA, was escorted by seven military police officers. Other refugees filed past him and quietly walked down the runway, virtually unnoticed.

Asked whether he would try to assume the leadership of the South Vietnamese here, Ky replied, "Yes, in whatever way I will try to help. Think it is my responsibility. I think it is my responsibility to guide them."

Two weeks before leaving Saigon, Ky, who once headed the South Vietnamese Air Force, called the Vietnamese who fled the country "rebels" and said they would wind up as houseboys and servants in the United States.

"Did he still feel that way?" Ky replied, "At that time I still had some hope that they would give me the army, so I could organize the fight."

Ky said the fall of Pleiku in the central highlands at the start of the North Vietnamese onslaught in mid-March was the beginning of the end for his country.

"A change in the military leadership could have prevented the debacle," he said.

He said "it is too soon to decide yet" if he wanted to become a U.S. citizen. "I just want 48 hours of sleep," he added — looking remarkably alert after a 5-hour 20 minute flight from Honolulu.

CALDWELL — The annual state convention of the Idaho State Geological Society will be held Friday and Saturday at the College of Idaho in Caldwell.

The convention, which begins at 6 p.m., will have registration in the student union building.

Humphrey unaware of illegal funds

NEW YORK — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey testified Monday at the trial of his former campaign manager that he was not aware of the $2 million in illegal funds which he sought the support of the Associated Milk Producers Inc.

But he said he had no "personal knowledge" of the illegal contribution that Jack L. Chestnut, the former aide, is accused of taking from the dairy cooperative.

The calling of the 1968 Democratic presidential candidate as a prosecution witness came as a bit of a surprise to the defense.

Chestnut, a 42-year-old Minneapolis lawyer, has been associated with Humphrey since the 1968 campaign and is generally considered to be the man who engineered the Minnesota Democrat's return to politics in 1970.

When asked by Eugene F. Brannigan, assistant United States attorney in U.S. District Courts here, if he personally sought A.M.P.I. support, Humphrey said, "I surely did." But he said he had no personal knowledge of the details of the contribution.

"Mr. Chestnut is a lawyer," the senator replied. "He knows the law. I'm sure they came from TAPE (Tapes for Agricultural Political Education), the political arm of A.M.P.I. That is the only legal fund for the milk cooperative."

Further, during opening statements, Brannigan told jurors that he would prove that Chestnut had "willfully and flagrantly violated laws to insure integrity of elections."

Pulitzer prizes bring joy, unbelief

By WALTER WISNIEWSKI
"Unbelievable," said Washington Post photographer Martin...
"It's better than winning the Oscar," said Roger Ebert...
"It was a hard way to win the Pulitzer Prize," sighed Jack...
The Pulitzer prizes were awarded Monday and the journalists...
Lewis' award was the first Pulitzer for color photography...
Ebert, 32, won for his reviews and essays on films...
"No Pulitzer could make me go through it again," said Jordan...
Cartoonist Gary Trudeau, who won a prize for his "Doonesbury" strip, said "I'm flattered, but I never grant interviews and today is no exception."
The Boston Globe won a gold medal for its "massive and balanced coverage of Boston's school desegregation crisis."
Awards were distributed in 11 journalism categories, and the other winners received $1,000 each. They included a reporting team of the Philadelphia Inquirer for national reporting, and a Chicago Tribune team for international reporting.
The Inquirer noted the Globe had been a target of anti-busing demonstrations, paper hijackings, boycotts, bomb threats and actual bullets for its editorial support of school desegregation. It was the Globe's second Pulitzer gold medal for public service. The first was won in 1966.

Boston Globe publisher W. Davis Taylor, in a congratulatory message to his staff, said: "Everyone on the Boston Globe has just won a Pulitzer Prize gold medal for meritorious service. You all performed professionally. It is fine to win prizes, but it is sobering to realize that this honor grew out of such a trying period in our city's history."
Dominick Argento in Minneapolis said: "I felt it was my best piece and it's especially thrilling when a group of strangers agrees with you."
He won the music prize for "From the Diary of Virginia Woolf."

In Chicago, two victors agreed their story was one of the most worthwhile news assignments of their lives.
William Mullen and Ovie Carter of the Chicago Tribune, a reporter-photographer team, won prizes for their six-part series on the families which beset Africa and India.

"There's champagne in the photo room and a lot of it is on my shoes and down the front of my tie," Mullen, a 30-year-old general assignment reporter, said. "It's just the greatest thing that can happen to anybody in this business."
Carter, 29, "I had hoped to win a Pulitzer Prize by the time I was 20 and that makes me very happy. I'm ahead by year."

In Charleston, W. Va., editor John D. Maurice, who won the prize for editorial-writing in the explosive Kanawha County's explosive textbook battle, said he felt "overwhelmed."
The Daily Mail defended the books, which protesters had labeled anti-Christian and anti-American in an often-violent crusade to bar them from classrooms.

Donald L. Bartlett and James B. Steele of the Philadelphia Inquirer were honored for disclosing inequities in the federal taxing system placing poor and middle income taxpayers were more harshly treated than the rich.

The prize for special local reporting went to the Indianapolis Star for a six-month investigation of police corruption. The Star's reports forced the resignation of the police chief and public safety director.

Other winners were:
Commentary—Mary McGorry, of the Washington Star, for " trenchant commentary spread over more than 20 years as a reporter and columnist in the nation's capital."
Spot News Photography: Gerald H. Gay, of the Seattle Times, for a photograph of four weary firemen resting briefly during a waterfront fire titled "Lull in Battle."
They were six Pulitzer awards for letters.

"The Killer Angels" by Michael Shaara won the fiction award; "Seascapes," by Edward Albee, drama; "Jefferson and His Time" by Dumas Malone, history; "The Power Broker, Robert Moses and the Fall of New York," by Robert Caro, biography; "Turtle Island," by Gary Snyder, poetry; and "Pilgrim at Tinker Creek," by Annie Dillard, general non-fiction.

Youths rights not violated

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — The constitutional rights of 18 youths sued from a 1971 address by then President Richard Nixon were not violated by four former White House aides and other persons leading to a jury decision.
The court sought $1.1 million in damages in a civil suit on grounds they were illegally barred from Nixon's address at Charlotte Coliseum honoring evangelist Billy Graham, a Charlotte native.
The jury of seven men and five women deliberated two hours before returning a verdict Monday in favor of the nine defendants, including former Nixon chief of staff H.R. Haldeman, three White House advance men, three Charlotte policemen and two volunteers from the Veterans of Foreign Wars who ushered at the event Oct. 15, 1971.
"I know that I wouldn't be let down by the United States," said Ernie Helms, a VFW volunteer who said he acted on orders from the White House in evicting several persons from the coliseum.

More food stamp funds requested

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House says it needs $998 million more this year for food stamp and children's milk programs because the recession has made more persons eligible.
More money will be needed next year. Rising prices have increased the food stamp allotment to about $182 a month, which takes effect with the new fiscal year in July. The Agriculture Department says it will raise the income eligibility ceiling by about 5 per cent.
Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Monday President Ford had asked for $5 billion for the milk program and $984.8 million for food stamps in addition to the $3.2 billion already requested for this year, fiscal 1976.
Congressional sources expect food stamps would cost $5.9 billion in fiscal 1977.
Nessen said the request was made necessary because of the recession which has cut family incomes and made more persons eligible for aid. The administration originally estimated 15 million households would get food stamps, he said, but the figure has now risen to 18 million.
Some families at poverty levels get food stamps free. Others can buy stamps depending on net income, with taxes, living costs, transportation and a wide range of other expenses removed. The present income ceiling is $813 a month which will increase to $840 a month with the new eligibility, the Agriculture Department said Monday.

At present, a family of four with an income just under $150 a month pays $122 for $154 worth of stamp allotments. After July 1, they will get coupons good for food worth $162.
Nessen said if Congress had not rejected a Ford proposal to raise the cost of food stamps for some families, Ford would have had to seek $200 million less.

Congress is likely to revise food stamp legislation this summer. Both the House and Senate Agriculture Committees have ordered reviews. The House panel has spent $200,000 for a staff study — to get statistical information, it says Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz will not provide.
Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., introduced a bill Monday to spend almost $1 billion a year on food programs. It would increase monthly food stamp allotments 12 to 15 per cent — meaning $192 instead of the present $154.
States would be required to step up efforts to enroll eligible persons. Some experts estimate the number of recipients — 19 million — would double if those who are eligible knew they could get stamps.

California medics band together

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Doctors boycotting Northern California hospitals to protest soaring malpractice insurance rates banded together in a show of strength today. Some colleagues paid the new rates but said their patients' pocketbooks would feel the pinch.
An estimated 1,000 anesthesiologists gathered in the state capital to discuss and seek solutions to the medical care crisis, which has already resulted in employ layoffs and individual hospital losses of up to $19,000 a day in San Francisco.
Operating rooms were shut down in both of Monterey hospitals for one day only so a delegation of anesthesiologists could join the discussions in Sacramento aimed at getting legislative action. Two remained on duty in case of emergencies.

The walkout, spearheaded by anesthesiologists six days ago, curtailed all but emergency surgery in 50 bay area hospitals.
Many physicians supported the boycott but others paid the new rates, which were as much as 400 per cent higher than last year, with anesthesiologists paying the most.
Those paying the higher fees for protection against malpractice suits would pass the rates — as much as $23,000 a year — on to their patients, said Dr. A.H. White, president of the Medical Society in Marin County.
"What possible choice have they got?" said White. "Doctors are totally depending for their livelihood on patient fees. That's the whole issue in a nutshell."
He estimated the cost of an office visit will go up 10 to 12 per cent, operations by 40 per

Energy tax bill passes hurdle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., looked over the energy tax bill — a gasoline tax, an auto fuel efficiency tax, a new way to control imports — and said "the big things are behind us."
Too far behind, some members of Ullman's Ways and Means Committee felt. They considered the tax bill too watered down for its original purpose — saving a considerable amount of gasoline and other fuels.
The committee has approved in tentative form the biggest issues. It hopes to finish in the next day or two with the remaining issues — specific quotas on imports, a levy on industrial use of fuels, a windfall profits tax on oil companies and credits for solar energy use.

McGovern asks end to trade boycott

HAVANA (UPI) — Sen. George McGovern toured Havana today, dining on black beans and rice at an intellectual hangout and calling for an end to the U.S. trade boycott against Cuba.
The South Dakota Democrat arrived in Havana Monday evening on a three-day fact-finding visit and drove right from the airport to a lecture on farm reform.

"I have no powers to lift the embargo, but open trade is in the interest of both countries," McGovern said on arrival at Havana's Jose Marti Airport.

Later in the evening, he dined with a group of Cuban intellectuals at La Bodeguita del Medio — a quaint restaurant in the old section of Havana.
Poet Nicolas Guillen, who chatted with McGovern over a typical Cuban meal of black beans, rice, fried bananas and pork, said he liked the senator's "poetic sense of life."

The committee got over one big hurdle Monday. It approved, 21 to 13, a proposal by Rep. Joe Waggoner Jr., D-La., to tax cars based on how many miles they get to the gallon of gasoline.
The tax would fall on manufacturers whose domestically produced fleets of autos do not average 18 miles to the gallon or 180 mpg in 1978 models. If the fleet met those standards, the individual cars would still escape taxation. If the fleet falls below the standard, then those individual models that do not measure up would be taxed.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 36-year-old, liberated woman. About sex, I've tried it, and I don't like it. I don't dislike it, but it's just not worth all the trouble.

I've been married, and it didn't work out. Sex was never a very important part of my life, but most people think something is "wrong" with a person who doesn't have a strong "sex" drive. People seem to feel proud if they are sexually overactive (and can "perform" well), and they feel ashamed if they can either take it or leave it.

I am a frigid. On the contrary, I am very affectionate. I can lie in my lover's arms and enjoy the feeling of closeness, but if it doesn't culminate in the sex act, it's all right with me.

Am I weird? Or do you understand what I'm saying? CONTENT IN COLORADO

Women enroll for military science

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Young Mississippi women are enrolling in military science programs at public junior colleges in increasing numbers — but they apparently have little intention of actually becoming Army officers.

"Many of them are more or less experimenting to find out what it is all about and then many drop out," said Col. William Taylor of the headquarters detachment at Mississippi State University.

"You run into a few, though, that come into the program knowing exactly what they want and they go for it," said Taylor, who also teaches military science at Holmes Junior College.

"I've got a girl of Holmes that came in and said, 'I want to go for a law degree and I want to join the Judge Advocate General's Corps in the Army,'" said Taylor. "She's flying right after it — doing real well academically and in ROTC."

Latest figures show senior Army ROTC enrollment increased 47 per cent for the school year 1974-75 over the previous year. The total junior college enrollment in the program was 1,387, 41 per cent of them women.

your health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have just had an X-ray that showed I have diverticulum on my left side.

It wasn't explained to me what diverticulum is, but I have some ideas from reading references to this in your column. I was told not to eat anything with seeds, and to avoid rough food. I am not sure what I should eat. Do you happen to have a booklet on this subject?

Does the condition change? Do I live with this the rest of my life? — Mrs. H.J.R.

To refresh your knowledge, a diverticulum (diverticula is the plural) is an out-pouching from the wall of any hollow, tubular organ. It's caused by a localized weakening of tissue. The most common site is the lower third of the colon (the large intestine), which is on your lower left side. The condition is found in roughly a third of all people over 45 years old.

It need not ever cause you any trouble or require any treatment, but knowing it is there is important to you. You should take the conservative precautions suggested by your doctor to heart. Otherwise it is possible the condition could develop into diverticulitis, a more serious condition in which the pouches become infected.

You should avoid food with large, tough seeds such as those in grapes and some fruits. These can irritate the diverticula and lead to infection. The small, softer seeds such as tomatoes and cucumbers shouldn't bother them. And a certain amount of roughage is required by your system. In fact, it can be helpful in diverticulosis.

My booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," contains more detailed information than I can give you here, including diet suggestions. For a copy, send 25 cents to me in care of this newspaper. Don't forget to enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for return mail.

For that roughage I mentioned above, appropriate fruits and vegetable and bran cereals should suffice with no effect on your problem. Your diet should result in a soft (but not liquid) stool, ideal in diverticulosis.

You should also report any future cramping or pain in the area to your doctor. This can be a symptom of diverticulitis, for which treatment would be required.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard that the breathing in (accidentally) of mineral oil into the lungs is a danger accompanying the use of this substance as a lubricant for the colon. Please comment. — C. B. R.

Yes, this is true. This is why mineral oil is not recommended for youngsters. The small, softer seeds, such as tomatoes and grapes, especially if the child is a "gagger." The use of mineral oil as nose drops is also to be avoided, and for the same reason.

The oil droplets can cause a pneumonia-like reaction in the lung tissue. The condition is called lipid pneumonia.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I thought I would pass this along to you. Several years ago a relative of mine had bad breath. He had it for years until it was discovered he had a bleeding ulcer.

Once that was brought under control, no more bad breath. I hope this helps someone. — Mrs. D. D.

Amos: People are not born with bad breath. A change in breath odor can be a symptom of such a disorder. I have made this point in answering readers' letters on the subject of bad breath, but I am glad to pass on your relative's experience.

The cause of the problem can and should be investigated, whether it is poor oral hygiene or some internal disorder. Realizing this, it is dismaying to receive so many letters from people complaining about bad breath as a social handicap when it should be considered a symptom, perhaps of something more serious than that.

"Bad Breath Can Be Cured!" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's booklet explaining the causes and cure of bad breath. For a copy write to him in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 3999, Elgin, Illinois 60120, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

TWIN FALLS — Ann Roberts Axakovsky, Mesa, Ariz., former Twin Falls resident, will receive her bachelor's degree cum laude at Arizona State University in Interior design. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Keller, Burley. Her mother, Matt Roberts, will graduate from Twin Falls high school this month.

HANSEN — News of a swallow-our-pride occasionally is the "craze of the '70s."

"It was the thought brought to me by ID No. 84 by the leader, Maybelle Howard at the meeting at the home of Dorothy Stetehim. Debbie Higgins was the 'beat loser' of the week. Gaius was the loser for the week was to say the pledge before each meal.

Carolyn Bowman was the best loser for the month of March. Miss Higgins was the division 6 quarterly winner. Other division winners were not present. Mrs. Bowman and Miss Higgins received gifts and pictures with taken of Debbie in her cape and hat.

All members present brought wrapped white elephant gifts to be used for weekly prizes. A game was played with each member acting out a pantomime. Club members wished to express a welcome to anyone wishing to visit or join the Monday night meetings.

TWIN FALLS — Members of the literary Art Guild met for a luncheon Saturday at the home of Mrs. Glen Leggett with officers as hostesses. Mrs. Jerry Meyerhoeffer reviewed "I'm OK, You're OK" by Thomas A. Harris. Mrs. Leggett, president, introduced Joan Watson, a new member. Former members were honored guests.

She's honest about sex

DEAR CONTENT: I understand what you're saying, and you're not weird at all. I think you are an intelligent, honest woman who values love above sex. No need to apologize for it.

DEAR ABBY: I just married a beautiful widow after about a year of courtship. She had been a widow for five years, and I've been divorced for nine. She is a very clean person and keeps an immaculate home.

I sold my house and moved into her home. She has a 23-year-old son living with her. He is college-educated and has a good job. He shares the expense of running the house. He is generous, friendly and cooperative.

But he is dirty beyond belief. He has to be told to change his underwear and socks. He has to be reminded to shower, and believe it or not, he never washes his hands after using the bathroom.

To make matters worse, he loves to help in the kitchen. He cooks, sets the table, makes the salads, puts ice in the water, etc. When I sit down to a meal he has helped with, my stomach turns.

I've spoken to my wife about this. She keeps saying she'll talk to him, but it's been three months, and nothing has changed.

What can I do? I don't want to make an enemy of her son, and I don't want to spoil a good marriage.

DEAR IN A QUANDRY: Take the young man aside and tell him in a kind and loving way that cleanliness is next to godliness. Tell him again, if necessary. And again, and again.

DEAR ABBY: I had recently become engaged to a divorcee. She has no love for her ex-husband, but she adores his mother.

She claims that a woman can divorce her husband; but her in-laws are forever, and she intends to remain friendly with her "mother-in-law" as long as she lives.

This is all right with me, but when I asked her what MY mother would be to her, she said, "She will also be my mother-in-law." Is this correct?

After this preliminary thought he would have led the same low club from dummy. East would have followed with that same five spot and careful South would have put on the eight, not the king. This would be quite likely to cost him a 20-point overtrick, but what is 20 points against about 1,500?

"Trick one" was easy: "He won in dummy. Then he led a low club and went up with the king after East followed with the five spot. West showed out and there was no way for South to win 12 tricks."

Hiring of minorities not urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The General Accounting Office says the Labor Department has done little to force large federal contractors to employ more women and minorities.

The GAO said Sunday the department has not monitored adequately compliance of its guidelines requiring each nonconstruction contractor with 50 employees or more and working on a federal contract of $50,000 or more to prepare an affirmative action program for equal hiring.

An executive order issued in 1965 prohibited federal contractors from discriminating, on the basis of race, color, religion, sex or national origin. The guidelines requiring affirmative action programs were written to fulfill that order.

GAO said that during the 1974 fiscal year the government awarded more than $50 billion in nonconstruction contracts to contractors employing about 25 million workers.

Despite the large numbers involved, the GAO said, the Labor Department has completely evaluated the compliance program of only one of the 13 federal agencies charged with the responsibility.

TF man, Hansen student honored at U of I event

MOSCOW — Three persons were honored here Monday night by the University of Idaho chapter of Gamma Sigma Delta, agricultural honorary society, during an awards and initiation dinner.

Activities during the evening included installation of officers and acceptance of 41 initiatives into the society.

Guest speaker was Harold Blain, Moscow, Idaho, and Len Lull, Commission administrator. His subject was Idaho and its relation to international culture.

Honored were Joseph McCollum, Twin Falls, businessman; Robert Clark, Moscow, University of Idaho professor of accounting; and Dean Rae Peltogyrove, Hansen, College of Agriculture student majoring in agricultural economics.

McCollum received the society's Distinguished Service to Agriculture Award for outstanding contributions to Idaho agriculture. The Award of Merit for Excellence in Teaching Agricultural Students was presented to Clark. Miss Peltogyrove, now a Junior student, received the Outstanding Sophomore Award for academic excellence and participation in College of Agriculture activities.

McCollum, a native of Arkansas, has lived in Idaho since 1942. He is a University of Arkansas graduate and did advanced work at the University of Illinois.

Before coming to Idaho, McCollum worked for the U.S. Department of Agriculture in California, Indiana, Michigan and Illinois.

He organized the first of a chain-of-distribution outlets known as Simplot Soil Builders which market fertilizers and agricultural chemicals manufactured by the J.R. Simplot Co.

He is an honorary alumnus of the University of Idaho, a former member of the University of Idaho Board of Regents and is active in civic and community organizations and activities.

Clark, a native of Wallace, came to the University of Idaho in 1956. The bulk of College of Agriculture students taught by Clark are enrolled in his principles of accounting course for freshmen and sophomores. About 400 students a year are enrolled in that course.

Clark also teaches courses in accounting theory, auditing theory and a graduate accounting course in the master of business administration curriculum.

He is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Idaho Society of Certified Public Accountants. He is a member of the Governor's Advisory Council on Comprehensive Health Planning and the Idaho Health Facilities Authority. He is also director of the UI public utilities executive's course.

Clark has bachelor's and master's degrees in business from the University of Idaho. Miss Peltogyrove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Peltogyrove, Hansen, is or has been active on the campus in marching, and symphonic band, university chorus, InterVarsity Christian Fellowship and Spurs, a women's sophomore service honorary. She spent the 1974 fall semester as a National Exchange Student at the University of Massachusetts. She has been active in her residence hall, Campbell Hall, where she was scholarship chairman, vice-president and president and representative in the Women's Recreation Association.

She is a past secretary of the Agricultural Economics Club. She recently received the 1975 William E. Polz Scholarship and earlier the Bevan Scholarship.

Garth Sasser, associate professor of animal industries, was installed as Gamma Sigma Delta president, succeeding Myron Molnau, associate professor of agricultural engineering. Jim Arall, associate professor of agricultural economics, vice president; Glenn Lewis, professor of soil science, treasurer; Fred Kohl, assistant to the director, Cooperative Extension Service, historian; and Lawrence O'Keefe, associate professor of entomology, secretary.

New data available

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Population and per capita income estimates for some areas will be available between official censuses for the first time, according to the U.S. Bureau of the Census.

Reports will include estimates of population for each county and 19,000 incorporated areas in the United States.

Each state report shows population estimates taken for July 1, 1973 and 1970 census figures. Per capita money income will be estimated for 1972.

The reports will be published in Current Population Reports available for the U.S. Government Printing office.

GM slips from top of heap

CHICAGO (UPI) — General Motors has lost its prestigious No. 1 position in the "Fortune 500" for the first time in history in Fortune Magazine's list of the nation's top 500 industrial corporations.

Exxon is now on top.

The magazine said five of the first seven corporations on the list, to be published Tuesday, are oil companies.

For General Motors, the loss of the top spot it has held since 1955 reflected what the "Hit" oil prices has given to the sales, profits and rankings of the oil companies," the magazine said. The Fortune list itself has been published since 1955.

General Motors came in second on the list, followed by Ford Motor Co., Texaco, Mobil Oil, Standard Oil of California, Gulf Oil, General Electric, International Business Machines and International Telephone and Telegraph.

The directory includes 15 newcomers — nearly half of which are related to the energy field, the magazine said.

Chrysler Corp. had a deficit of $52.09 million, the largest suffered by any of the 21 companies reporting losses.

The directory also showed that total employment among the 500 industrials is down 1.8 per cent.

In a related article reviewing the 20 years the "Fortune 500" directory has been published, Fortune said 28% of the "Fortune 500" have been on the list every year.

Champagne has no monopoly on ship launches; during the Prohibition, the "President Coolidge" was christened with water from the Chief Executive's Vermont farm.

Canyon recreation area under attack

CALDWELL — An Idaho farm leader has denied that opponents of the proposed Hells Canyon National Recreation Area are pushing for development of any cast and said it could "spell the end of any future irrigation" in the state.

Vernon Ball, Caldwell mint-hops grower and president of the Southwestern Idaho Development Association, also described an Idaho Statesman editorial attacking the Resources and Industry Coalition as a sharp contrast to the newspaper's position on open meetings and complete hearings which is what the coalition wants in Idaho.

"Just as Senator Jordan has said repeatedly, it would make the secretary of agriculture the 'czar' of the Snake River."

Ball conceded that legislation creating the recreation area contains language that "supposedly" would give irrigators' water rights priority over potential recreation water use downstream.

But, he added, "experienced" legal opinion tells us that the Agriculture Department, by citing the so-called "national interest" provisions of the legislation, could mandate stream flows in the lower end of the canyon."

Complaint cites Idaho sales firm

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Emmett Livestock Commission Co., Inc. of Emmett has been charged with violating financial requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said today.

USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration has charged in an administrative complaint that Emmett Livestock operated as a market agency and dealer from Sept. 30 through Dec. 31, 1974, while its current liabilities exceeded its current assets by as much as $243,000.

The Department of Agriculture says the firm has a right to a hearing to determine if the evidence supports the charges. If the charges are proven, the firm would be placed under a cease and desist order and its registration could also be suspended.

Gem meat output off

BOISE (UPI) — Commercial production of red meat in Idaho during March totaled 26.9 million pounds or a drop of about four per cent from last year, the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today. Cattle slaughter during March totaled 41,500 head, compared with 44,500 head a year earlier. Hog slaughter, at 7,500 head, was down 12 per cent.

Idahoan given award

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Colorado State University's forestry college has conferred this year's honor alumni award on a dean at the University of Idaho.

Dr. John J. Ehrenreich, dean of the College of Forestry, Wildlife and Range Sciences at Idaho, earned his bachelor's and master's degrees from CSU. He became dean at Idaho in 1971.

China combats narcotics

WASHINGTON (UPI) — China may be ready to join more actively in international efforts to combat narcotics trade.

In a report made public Saturday, the House International Relations Committee recommended that the United States seek China's cooperation in curbing illicit narcotics trade.

"We should work for the cooperation of the Peoples Republic of China in the next few months concerning joint patrolling of the waters off their coast which are used as drops for Hong Kong junks which pick up drugs from ocean going vessels," it said.

The report, written by Rep. Lester Wolf, D-N.Y., said the Chinese "made a significant seizure in November... of a ship which was carrying several tons of opium."

"They may now be ready to work more actively with international efforts," Wolf suggested the forming of a group among Western nations facing serious addiction problems.

"We must realize the invasion of drugs is just as great as a military invasion of our shores," he said. "We should not hesitate to withdraw all support from any country which does not show the same commitment to the drug problem that we do to their defense."

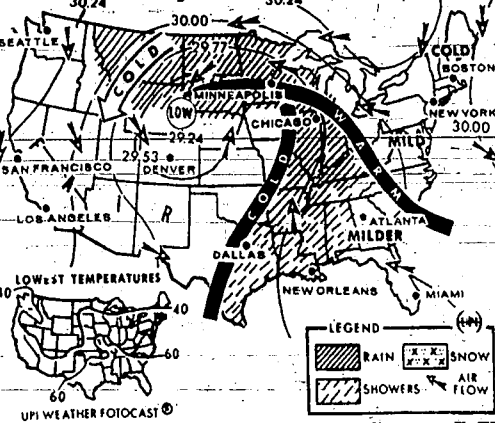

Rep. Benjamin Gilman, R-N.Y., suggested that it might be cheaper for America to buy up as much of the world's opium as possible, then destroy it. Gilman said the Shan State of Burma offered to sell its opium crop for a "comparatively cheap" $12 million, but the United States did not respond "because of a fear of offending the Burmese government."

"Considering the amount of suffering caused by heroin in the United States," he said, "the American government should not prevent us from pursuing every avenue to stop the international drug trade."

Indy 500 hopeful cracks up

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Veteran Mike Hiss, Tustin, Calif., was involved Monday in the second practice accident at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway as he prepared for Saturday's opening day of time trials for the May 25, 500-mile race.

Hiss, who started third in last year's classic and finished 14th, lost control of his car in the second turn, spun once and slid 400 feet before striking the inside wall before bouncing another 60 feet down the track. The accident occurred as Hiss was "traveling over 170 miles per hour. The left front of the racing machine suffered extensive damage, but Hiss was released after a check at the infield hospital.

Twenty-five of the 48 cars at the Speedway made appearances on the track during the day. However, a dozen of the entries on hand still must pass initial technical inspection. Six drivers had worked their mounts above 180 m.p.h., led by 1973 winner Gordon Johncock, Phoenix, Ariz., at 184.297. Johncock's teammate Wally Dallenbach, Basalt, Colo., was 4 m.p.h. slower and 1969 champion Mario Andretti, Nazareth, Pa., was in at 181.451.

Also over 180 were defending winner Johnny Rutherford, Fort Worth, Tex., and Bill Vukovich, Fresno, Calif.

Rookies Chuck Gurney, Livermore, Calif.; Dan Andretti, Racine, Wis.; Bob Nagle, Bethel Park, Pa., and Bill Putterbaugh, Indianapolis, also made initial appearances.

Also out for the first time for a shakedown run was Al Unser, a teammate of Andretti. Andretti will not be able to qualify this weekend because of a commitment to race in the Grand Prix at Monte Carlo.

"All I have is two days before I have to leave again," Andretti said. "We have no choice, but we know that all along: The main thing is to get the car race-worthy."

Jones racing team from California. Both cars are Dan Gurney Eagles, powered by four-cylinder Drake Offenhauser engines.

While Unser's machine is rebuilt from last year's model. Asked if he will be ready to qualify Saturday, the first day of the time trials, Unser said, "There's no way we can tell yet. You never know with a new car. We'll know more later in the week."

"Through mid-afternoon on a sunny but windy day, more than a dozen cars had appeared on the 2 1/2 mile oval for shakedown runs but only Pancho Carter was over the 180 mile per hour mark."

AVATAR, who finished second to Foolish Pleasure in the Kentucky Derby, is led from an airplane to a waiting van upon arrival at Baltimore Monday. Avatar will get another shot at Foolish Pleasure in the May 17 running of the $150,000 Preakness Stakes. (UPI)

Preakness contender

Foolish Pleasure falls en route to Preakness

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Kentucky Derby winner Foolish Pleasure slipped while being loaded onto a van after arriving here from Louisville Monday but apparently managed to avoid getting injured.

Avatar and Diabolo, the second and third place finishers, respectively, in last Saturday's derby, accompanied Foolish Pleasure on the airplane ride from Louisville as the three horses will now prepare for the 100th running of the Preakness Stakes at Pimlico May 17.

"Everything went fine until the plane landed and the horses were transferred to the van," said a visibly disturbed Leroy Jolley, trainer of John L. Green's Foolish Pleasure.

The horses, after being unloaded from the plane, were walked across a rain-soaked patch of grass to the ramp leading into the van which transferred them from the airport to Pimlico.

Foolish Pleasure, led by Jolley, slipped on the wooden plan and, when he was partially inside the van, slipped again and went down on his two front legs.

Sid Martin, trainer of Frank McMahon's Diabolo, was right behind Foolish Pleasure with his horse. Martin also slipped but the horse remained on his feet.

Arthur A. Seeligen Jr.'s Avatar was not so fortunate, however. He was being led aboard the van by groom Sergio Ortiz, and as he started to move inside the van, he too lost his footing and went down on his front knees.

However, on arrival at the Pimlico Stakes barn, the three horses showed no evidence of the accidents. They were quarantined in widely separated stalls, with Foolish Pleasure occupying No. 42, the stall usually reserved for the Kentucky Derby winner.

Prior to boarding the plane in Louisville for the flight here, Jolley was asked if he felt now that Foolish Pleasure, winner of 11 of his 12 career races, belonged in the "same class" with wonder-horse Secretariat who, in 1973, became the first horse in 25 years to sweep the Triple Crown by winning the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

The trainer replied: "A horse like Secretariat comes along once in a lifetime. Foolish Pleasure still has a long ways to go."

Olympic tickets sell fast

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Canadian distributor of tickets for the 1976 Montreal Olympics opened its outlets for the first time Monday and got caught in an unexpected crunch of persons seeking seats for the Summer Games.

Some angry scenes developed at ticket counters in Montreal and Toronto, where buyers, some of whom waited in line for up to eight hours, were turned away, and reportedly told the store was sold out or that tickets weren't available for the events being sought.

Most of the trouble apparently centered around an inadequate numbering system and clerks unable to handle the great number of customers.

"The response was fantastic, beyond our wildest dreams — and that was the cause of the trouble," said K.A. Jones, vice president of special marketing services for Pan Am and Canadian exclusive Canadian distributor.

He said "there has been a lot of criticism of the Olympics and we thought it might have dampened people's enthusiasm. Remember, too, the games are still 16 months away."

"With all this, who would have thought people would camp outside our stores on a wet windy night (in Toronto) to get tickets. It makes me proud to be a Canadian."

Eaton's will distribute 2.6 million tickets in Canada — 65 per cent of the 4 million being sold for the games — at 80 stores across the nation.

The power of our people is the music in our song.

It may be the age of automation, but it's still people, much more than computers, that keep our railroad humming. Each day, we go to work in tune with the needs of people like you, the people of Idaho. We see that the goods you need get delivered, on time and intact. And then we see that your potatoes, lumber, fertilizers and wheat get delivered to people in other parts of the country.

We're the Union Pacific, and if you've been looking at us as miles and miles of cold, impersonal railroad cars, we suggest you look again. And look deeper. You'll see a vital form of transportation, with vital people at work for you — delivering all types of goods for all types of needs.

Rangers continue winning streak

ARLINGTON (UPI) — Oscar Torres had three hits including a two-run single in the eighth inning Monday night leading the Texas Rangers to a 4-3 victory over the California Angels and their ninth win in their last 10 games.

The Angels entered the eighth leading 2-1 thanks to first-inning back-to-back triples by Jerry Remy and Mickey Rivers, a double by Remy and a Rivers RBI single in the third and a sixth-inning homer by Bill Sudakis.

However, Dick Lange—who had relieved Frank Tanana in the seventh walked pinch hitter Mike Hargrove and then gave up singles to Jim Spencer and Roy Smalley, the latter driving in one run.

Catfish error costs Yankees

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Paul Blair scored the game-winning run on an eighth inning throwing error by Catfish Hunter Monday night when the Baltimore Orioles beat the New York Yankees 3-1 behind Jim Balme's first-inning homer.

Blair scored all the way from second base when rightfielder Bobby Bonds' peg to the plate overthrew Thurston Munson, Grich ending up at third.

Cards batter Phillies 11-3

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Little-used Mike Tyson drove in four runs with a single, triple and home run Monday night when the St. Louis Cardinals pounded five pitchers for 14 hits and an 11-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Tyson, getting his first starting assignment this season, had only one hit and no RBI going into the game.

LA hurler blanks Astros

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Doug Rau turned in a nifty two-hitter and recorded his second major league shutout Monday night when the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Houston Astros 2-0.

Rau, a 13 game winner last season, allowed only a pair of singles in improving his record to 4-1. He struck out two and walked two.

Doug Rader singled to right with one out in the second and Houston starter and loser Larry Dierker singled to left with one out in the third for the only Astro hits. Rau retired the final 15 Houston batters in order.

The first of two Willie Crawford doubles led to the only run Rau needed. Crawford doubled to right with one out in the first inning and Dierker then walked Jimmy Wynn and Steve Garvey to load the bases before Ron Cey delivered a sacrifice fly.

Los Angeles scored its second run in the third on three of its six hits.

Blair scored all the way from second base when rightfielder Bobby Bonds' peg

Rookies lead Expos victory

MONTREAL (UPI) — Rookies Pepe Mangual and Larry Parrish homered Monday night to lead the Montreal Expos to a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Mangual's first homer of the year gave the Expos a 2-0 lead in the third inning after Barry Foote, was walked by losing pitcher Ray Burris. Parrish scored what proved to be the winning run with his solo homer in the sixth inning.

Writers cite jumper Stones

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dwight Stones of Los Angeles was named winner of the James Abramson Award Monday by the Track Writers Association as the outstanding athlete of the indoor track season.

Stones, affiliated with the Pacific Coast Club, won 13 of his 14 indoor competitions during the season and cleared the same height as the winner in his one losing effort.

He equaled or broke the indoor record five times, with his world best at seven feet, 5.34 inches. Stones' average winning weight was 74, a mark no other American reached even once during the season.

Phosphate industry pollution probe initiated

TWIN FALLS — A joint federal-state probe of radioactive pollution by Idaho's phosphate processing industry was started last week, according to a state official.

A five-man team of experts from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare (IDHW) began the first phase of testing April 23 at the Pocatello plants of J.R. Simplot and FMC companies, according to Michael Christie, supervisor of HAW's radiation control office.

The probe will determine the level of radioactivity released by the plants during production. Simplot makes agricultural fertilizer and FMC produces elemental phosphorus for use in detergents and other commercial items.

The phosphate are used by the plants containing uranium. It is suspected that radioactive derivatives of the uranium are released into the air during processing. The radioactive elements also might be contained in the plants' waste materials and possibly in the consumer products themselves.

Polonium, a derivative of uranium, has been measured at about three times its natural level in the atmosphere a half-mile away from the two Pocatello plants. Inhalation of polonium-contaminated air can cause cancer.

Christie today said the first phase of the probe should be completed by Friday. It includes acquiring production samples and conducting air tests within the plants.

In production sampling, the investigators start at the front end of the line where the basic ore is received and take samples to see how much radioactivity is flowing into the plant.

Christie said. "Then, in the myriad of chemical processing steps, they will try to determine where that radioactivity is going."

"In other words, there might be radioactivity released to the atmosphere inside as well as outside the plant," Christie added.

He said the second phase of the probe will be conducted this summer over a six to ten-day period. This "far more complex" phase will include sampling the stack emissions from the plants, he said.

Asked when results of the tests will be released, Christie said that was "up to EPA." The federal agency will analyze the test samples at its Las Vegas, Nev., center, which could take several months, he added.

Christie said the results might be used "to develop guidelines for a non-nuclear industry that might have some nuclear problems."

About $500,000 in federal money has been budgeted for a nationwide study of the phosphate industry, he said, with about $100,000 earmarked for Idaho. Similar studies are being conducted in Florida, Louisiana and North Carolina.

Cold helps fruit trees

TWIN FALLS — Those delicate-looking fruit blossoms showing through the snow on trees in the canyon may not be in the danger non-farmers would imagine.

The blossoms are about four weeks late and they may be healthier for their tardiness, according to one area orchardist.

Mrs. Richard Kelley, who owns the former Goulet Orchard in Snake River Canyon and the Orr Orchard north of Buhl, said the cold weather has been good for their trees.

"They're in full bloom now," she said, but the blossoms are four weeks later than usual. The lateness may help the fruit for when the buds are late they face less danger of frost which can kill the fruit. The snow on the branches doesn't hurt, she said, because snow means temperatures are around 30 degrees, harmful frosts won't occur until temperatures drop to about 28 degrees, she said.

Cloudy weather keeps temperatures warmer at night, also helping guard against frost, according to Mrs. Kelley.

Mrs. Kelley said they were hoping for warm enough weather for bees to come in to pollinate the orchards.

Outside the canyon, where temperatures are lower, some orchard growers can only guess on the effect of the cold spell. Mrs. Ken Nesbitt, who owns "a couple a hundred" apple, pear and apricot trees, said she didn't know what effect the cold weather would have on the Nesbitt fruit crop, which is southwest of Twin Falls.

Greengrass Farm, which has a small stand of 450 trees owned by Carolyn and John Comer, also may not be faring as well as trees in the canyon. The Comer trees are near the airport "all right" but she said it was "too early to tell" if the cold had hurt the fruit, mostly apples.

Wind has been a problem, she said. It strips the petals and the pollen, and the cold discourages bees from coming in to pollinate the blossoms.

Double duty

DR. Harry Brumbach not only served as the duty physician at the Twin Falls Red Cross blood drawing Monday, he was a donor as well. Above, Dr. Brumbach also chews on an unlighted cigar as registered nurse Gene Bricker prepares his arm for venipuncture. The quota of 150 pins was exceeded by 80 as the total for the drawing climbed to 230 pins.

TF drawing exceeds quota

TWIN FALLS — An agreement was approved Monday night by the Twin Falls City Council, raising prisoner-meal costs from 85 cents to $1 per meal.

The agreement covers city prisoners when they are housed in the county jail, and county prisoners who may be transferred to the city at times.

City Manager Jean Miller said it costs the county about 97 cents per meal at this time to feed each prisoner because of increasing food and labor costs over the past few years.

City Manager Jean Miller said it costs the county about 97 cents per meal at this time to feed each prisoner because of increasing food and labor costs over the past few years.

TF meters fee rising?

Miller said the city has had meters since 1946 and there has been no price increase since that time.

L. James Koutnik reminded the council the ultimate goal at the time the off-street lots were built was to eliminate meters, not to increase them and their costs.

"If you want to encourage more shopping centers this is the way to do it," he said.

Faulkner also objected to the higher downtown parking fees saying it will drive more business to the unmetred shopping centers.

The proposal of Traffic Appliance Corp., a lease-purchase agreement, would guarantee the city $4,100 per month income to continue paying for off-street parking improvements.

The company and the city would split all revenue in excess of this from which the company would repay its investment in the 900 meters.

Bunn told the council Monday he originally proposed a three year lease-purchase contract but in closer examination of city parking revenue believes the meters would be paid for in about 22 months.

Miller said the $4,100 per month is the present average income from all city meters. He said it is hard to say what each meter would cost because of the many different kinds. The "duplex" meter covering two parking stalls and the meters which require only a replacement mechanism represent different costs.

Miller said by the May 15 downtown meeting he will have a closer per-meter and overall meter cost figured for the proposal.

Meet open for public

KETCHUM — The meeting here Wednesday between Vern Hamre, regional forester, Ogden, Utah, and county officials in discussing the proposed Sawtooth National Recreation Area Headquarters building will be open to the public.

An official in Hamre's office has confirmed while there is no public hearing scheduled at this time, the public will be invited to the 2 p.m. meeting in the Holiday Inn near Ketchum.

Hamre and Blaine County officials will discuss a course of action regarding the construction which has arisen over the proposed 12,000-square-foot administration and visitors center building of the U.S. Forest Service plans to build at North Fork, seven miles north of Ketchum.

3 arrested

TWIN FALLS — Two men and one woman were in custody in Twin Falls today after city and county officers confiscated an estimated $3,000 worth of heroin.

Detective Capt. Tim Qualls of the city police department said the three were arrested at their residence in the Graecum Trailer Park about 1 a.m. today.

A search warrant resulted in the confiscation of the heroin.

Qualls said Gloria Jean Dalley, 21; Sterling W. Jones, 28, and Cody Jud Swensen, 25, were all arrested at the residence. They were being held in city jail this morning in lieu of $20,000 bond each, pending formal court appearances.

Barber named

KETCHUM — Glen Hewart, Nampa, was named Idaho barber of the year at the Idaho State Barber Association's 25th annual convention held here Sunday and Monday.

Don Shepherd, Boise, was elected president and Larry Anderson, Twin Falls, was elected first vice president.

Jim Ries, Grangeville, was named second vice president, and Brad Storer, Idaho Falls, was elected third vice president.

The barber's styling show will be held this year in Pocatello.

Next year's convention will be held in Lewiston, with Jim Ries as chairman.

Store robbed

BOISE (UPI) — Two men robbed a Circle K store on Overland Road Monday night, taking an undetermined amount of money at knifepoint and cutting a clerk in the process.

The robbers entered the store shortly before 11 p.m. as the clerk was placing the night's receipts in a floor safe. One of them demanded he hand over the money bag and when the clerk at first refused the robber slashed at him with the knife, leaving a six-inch gash on his arm.

The robbers then grabbed the money and fled on foot.

Trail group to meet

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Trail Machine Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Idaho Power Auditorium.

Members plan a benefit dance for Larry Ek at the Elks Club from 8 p.m. to midnight May 20. Music will be donated by the Magic Valley County Music Association and the lodge is donating the dance floor.

The next trail ride is planned for 10 a.m. May 18, leaving from the Elks Club in Jackpot, Nev.

Burley-okays power plan

The money spent by the city for the option agreement would apply to the $4.4 million.

The vote to sign the option agreement came on the motion of Councilman Cloyd Taylor who said the option would cost the city only $5,300 per year.

Power from the nuclear plants is expected to cost four to five times more than Burley now pays for electricity from BPA.

Currently, BPA rates for electricity are about 4 mills per kilowatt-hour. Electricity from the nuclear plants is expected to cost from 12 to 15 mills per kilowatt-hour.

Also Monday night the council held the first reading of an ordinance raising electric utility rates an average of 15 per cent. The ordinance calls for rates to some "preferred" customers to be raised 60 per cent over the next several years.

The council also conducted a public hearing for a proposed $121,600 grant application to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for improvement of the city water system. A second hearing will be held May 12.

In other business, the council:

- heard a request for extension of city sewer services to the Wauna Vista subdivision area, and
- awarded bids for two new pickups and two dump trucks to Frank Motor Co., Burley.

GF patrons voting on bond issue for gymnasium, vo-ed facilities

GLENN'S FERRY — Polls will be open until 8 p.m. tonight for Glenns Ferry, King Hill and Hammett residents to vote on a proposed $225,000 combination gym and vocational education facility.

Voters will also decide a proposed one-mill override levy to help fund a kindergarten bus system.

Polls are open at the King Hill Grange Hall, Gjording's Motel in Hammett and at the administrative offices of the high school in Glenns Ferry.

According to George Powell, superintendent of the joint school district, the combination vocational education facility would adjoin the back of the present gymnasium.

The lower level of the two-story, 6,000-square-foot building would be used for elementary school physical education classes during the day and for high school wrestling and weight lifting at night.

The upper story would house a "small motors" class two periods in the day, a welding class for one period a day and an automotive septic class for a three-hour block of time for seniors. There would be enough space for 15 students to work on six cars, Powell said.

The building would be partly funded by an existing school plant facilities fund. The proposed 18-month bond issue would raise about $190,000.

The cost to taxpayers would run $30.60 for every $10,000 of actual valuation of a home for one year only, Powell said. A two-thirds favorable vote is needed for approval of the project.

Powell said the state will pay 90 per cent of the transportation costs for the district, but that this money will not be available until the end of next school year.

Meanwhile, he said, the district is likely to need two 12-seat mini-buses at a cost of $11,000 to take the kindergarten children to and from school.

The one-mill override levy would mean an additional $1.70 tax per every $10,000 valuation. Powell said a single $10,000 vote is necessary for adoption of the tax.

Vote until 8 p.m. today on Glenns Ferry school bond proposal

Markets

NEW YORK (UPI) —

The stock market, which has been optimistic about the chances of a pickup in the economy, opened slightly higher Tuesday in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 531.90 point gain after the past four sessions, was ahead 0.16 to 855.75 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines, 173 to 123, among the 617 issues crossing the tape.

Investors have been encouraged by a relaxation in pressure on interest rates. The Treasury Department's needs, revealed last week, were less than expected and this sparked a rally that has carried over.

Also, the Federal Reserve Board has promised a relatively easy monetary policy over the next year in an attempt to fight the recession.

Mutual Funds

New York Times (UPI) — Mutual fund investors are expected to continue their search for high yields in the bond market as the stock market remains volatile.

The mutual fund industry has seen a steady decline in assets over the past year, with investors seeking higher returns in bonds and cash equivalents.

Investors are looking for funds that offer a good balance of risk and return. The industry is expected to see a recovery in the coming months as market conditions improve.

Potatoes

IDAH0 FALLS, Idaho (UPI) —

Potatoes: Upper valley. The Idaho potato market is showing signs of recovery after a period of low prices. Demand for high-quality potatoes remains strong.

Producers are hopeful that prices will improve as the market stabilizes. The Idaho Potato Commission is working to promote the quality and reliability of Idaho potatoes.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 7, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A change in perspective now can give you a better idea to expand your interests. Get the goodwill of those whose background is different from yours. So be open-minded to new means and methods.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Morning is rather slow paced, but later you speed up and can get right into the path of success. The good news is that you are in a position to succeed.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Your intuition shows you how to make big improvements in your life-style. Work on some new plan in the evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You think partnership affairs are impossible to solve, but sitting down and talking to associates shows the good way to do so.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Contact persons you like to plan recreation for now or later. Then get your creative talents to work and make big progress.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get a good start on new projects early so they will be basically sound. Show enthusiasm for whatever you do and be successful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Anything of an idealistic nature can be put in action with much future success. Show your fondness for another, instead of hiding it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Straighten out situation at home to make kin happier there. Plan to attend some social affair that is good for you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan your time and activities well early, for big accomplishment. Get that well-groomed look. See yourself as others do.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study newspapers, brochures, etc., for new ideas to expand present income. Gain from correspondence. A charming social evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Expand horizons. Use good practical sense and get right results. Listen to what seasoned business experts suggest.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be pioneering and while young will have to be grounded in accepted standards, systems to prevent getting lost in idealistic concepts, without practical footing, thus becoming a loser instead of a winner. Permit your child to give full expression to ideas, and then point out flaws, teaching to be careful of details. Sports are a fine outlet here, too.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

what's what

Here's another theory on the origin of nail polish. When the cave man brought back the game from a hunt, the cave woman dressed it out. By letting the blood dry on her nails, she made two social points. First, those red fingernails indicated her man was a good hunter. And second, they proved she was a willing helpmate. File this under "Fingernails." No, make it "Wild Game." No, just file it.

ARCHAEOLOGISTS in Mexico have turned up several hollow cans, stuffed at one end with tobacco ashes and at the other end with cotton fibers. Think of that! The filter-cigarette is more than 1,700 years old.

MALE elephants get real romantic about once a year.

DIVORCES Q. "Why is it that Tuesdays and Thursdays are the two biggest days for divorces?"

A. Because those are the two days when the largest number of judges on any given week hold court.

AMONG the most valuable possessions owned by anybody 1,000 years ago were the secret cheese-making recipes walled up in the monasteries.

DID YOU KNOW a newborn baby whale is just about as long as its mother and half as heavy, too?

FIRST PURPOSE of the pendulum was to measure the human pulse.

FAMOUS NAMES It's odd how some famous names for better or worse are linked together in history. Take John Howard Payne, who wrote "Home, Sweet Home." He witnessed the marriage in a jail cell of John C. Colt, who murdered a printer with a hatchet. Colt dodged the gallows by stabbing himself to death. As previously reported, he was the brother of Samuel Colt, who invented the renowned revolver. I can understand Sam's invention. Can you understand "Home, Sweet Home." Can you even understand "murdering a printer with a hatchet, sure enough" but how did these men's diverse lives fit together? Odd.

IT'S POSSIBLE for a woman to bear twins, each of whom is the offspring of different fathers, medical men agree to that.

WOMEN have carried cigarettes in their purses for 133 years. It was that long ago that such smoking started in France.

DON'T FORGET, no true bug chews its food.

Aide develops visual method of evaluation

By BART QUESNELL
Times-News writer

KECHUM—A U.S. Forest Service employee says he has developed a "predictable" method to visually analyze all structures inside the Sawtooth National Recreation Area.

Tom Strell, landscape architect with the SNRA, says the system he has developed can be used to determine the compatibility between human development activities and a site's capacity to absorb those modifications.

The SNRA is using the new method in the controversial area of certification.

The certification process is not mandatory. Volunteers can ask for the certification at any time.

The effect of the certification is that "property for which a certification is held by the owner shall not be acquired by the secretary of agriculture by condemnation," according to the law governing the SNRA.

Property that has been determined to be not in conformance with the applicable standards may be acquired by the secretary by condemnation.

If the property does not meet SNRA objectives the USFS can recommend the owner to move his building, remodel it or plant shrubs around it to make it comply.

According to the SNRA rules, "These regulations will limit the environmental impacts of use, subdivision and development of private land by defining those activities that do not impact the historic, wildlife, natural, scenic, pastoral, and other values in the SNRA."

The new system of evaluation can be applied to any structure or site in the SNRA except designated communities of Sawtooth City, Stanley and lower Stanley which will establish their own rules.

The four elements used in the visual analysis are form, line, color and texture. The elements are weighted in accordance with their visual dominance on the landscape.

Form is weighted heaviest in the formula allowed by the line, color and texture of the building and associated site.

Probe of slaying ends with crash

BOISE (UPI)—A trip to California for Idaho law enforcement officials with convicted murderer Thomas Creech to assist in a hunt for slaying victims near Barslow ended with a plane crash Sunday near Winnemucca, Nev.

Ada County Sheriff Chuck Palmer went to California Friday with Creech to try to fill out details on a number of unsolved murders. The investigation has been ongoing for about 6 months.

Palmer said the bodies of eight murder victims were supposed to have been placed in caves and old mines near San Bernardino but they were unable Saturday to uncover them.

Palmer, Creech, Bud Mason, state police investigator, and Ada County Sheriff's Deputy Tom Taylor, and Tom Ambrose, a Boise pilot, were involved in a crash up on their plane while returning Sunday from an unsuccessful effort to assist the San Bernardino County sheriff in locating the murder victims.

No one was injured in the crash. They were rescued by Winnemucca County Sheriff's officers four hours later.

The sheriff said Creech has been "very cooperative" with investigators. Creech is suspected of murders in Oregon, Montana, Wyoming, Nevada, California and Idaho. He is being held in Idaho on charges of murdering two men whose bodies were found last fall near Cascade.

Palmer said the latest tips supplied by Creech concerned the location of eight bodies in San Bernardino County, Calif., near Barslow.

Palmer said Creech was not suspected of murdering all eight of the victims. He would not comment on who the other suspects were or whether they had been apprehended but said they were "narcotics" connected.

On their return trip, Palmer said Deputy Taylor became unconscious at 1:45 p.m. while they were flying at 14,500 feet altitude 70 miles south of Winnemucca at Squaw Valley.

Because of the deputy's position in the plane seat, it was necessary to get the plane landed before they could work on him and restore his breathing.

Ambrose tried to land the single engine six-passenger plane on an old dirt road but slid into mud from snow and rain and hit culvert, knocking out the nose gear and damaging one wing.

Surplus equipment sought for Idaho

BOISE (UPI)—The State Administrative Services Department is developing a program to help state agencies and local governments obtain excess federal equipment for economic development related activities.

Director D. E. "Skip" Chilberg said today millions of dollars worth of the equipment will be available with the recipient paying only the transportation fees to move an item to a new location.

Trucks, road building items, communications equipment and possibly buses will be available under the program.

Chilberg said Congress qualified the Pacific Northwest Regional Commission for the program and responsibility for its administration was given to his staff partly because the office already was operating the program for federal surplus property.

"A lot of road building equipment may be available and we may be able to provide some assistance to city and county road departments," he said.

Regions designated

BOISE (UPI)—Gov. Cecil D. Andrus announced the establishment by executive order today of six health planning regions for Idaho with the sub-areas conforming to the state planning districts he set out in 1972.

To assist in the prompt and orderly implementation of the law, Idaho, Andrus said, he designated the State Department of Health and Welfare as the State Health Planning and Development Agency called for in the new federal law.

"Creation of the six regions was prompted by requirements of the recently enacted National Health Planning and Resources Development Act," Andrus said. "For the purposes of the federal government, the entire State of Idaho will be treated as one health planning area."

"But, people from throughout the state made it simply clear that if there was going to be health planning going on in Idaho, they wanted the planning done on a local level. That persuaded me to go beyond the federal requirements and establish six health planning subregions within the one health planning area of the state."
