

International help for Viets US goal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The head of the government's refugee program told Congress today the administration will pressure "the international community" to assist in the resettlement of Vietnamese by allowing some to live in other nations.

L. Dean Brown also told the House International Affairs Committee that the evacuation of refugees from South Vietnam has been officially completed. Other witnesses said there was a possibility that some "undesirable" refugees could be jailed rather than allowing them to "run free" in this country.

"We intend to press the international community to accept more refugees and we have moved energetically to enlist its cooperation," Brown said. "Specifically, we have been in frequent contact with the international agencies, principally the United Nations and the U.N. commission for refugees."

Brown appeared before the panel to review the progress of the mass evacuation of nearly 120,000 refugees from South Vietnam.

Meanwhile, 233 Cambodian refugees arrived at Camp Pendleton Tuesday night, joining some 45,000 homeless Vietnamese already there. About 7,000 Khmers are expected at that camp.

In Washington, the State Department said it is receiving hundreds of offers of jobs and housing for refugees. A toll-free telephone number, 800-368-1180, has been set up to aid persons offering assistance.

Rep. Peter J. Rodino, D-N.J., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, said in testimony before a judiciary subcommittee that Congress should "extend the national hand of welcome" to the refugees by rapidly approving legislation to finance the resettlement.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield predicted Congress would approve funds for the refugees.

"While I was never in favor of intervention, I feel we have an obligation to these people and we should live up to our obligations," Mansfield told reporters.

Brown testified that "the evacuation is now over. No American vessels are currently operating off the coast of Vietnam and Cambodia. There are, however, Vietnamese continuing to arrive in ports like Singapore and Hong Kong on their own vessels."

today in brief

Marines' bodies left behind
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The bodies of last two U.S. Marines killed in Vietnam were left behind in the confused final day of American evacuation from Saigon, the Pentagon said today.

"Different people thought others had taken care of the matter," said Pentagon spokesman Joseph Laitin. "It was certainly not that the effort had not been made."

Takes seat
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Shirley Pettis was sworn in as the 19th woman member of the U.S. House of Representatives Tuesday.

Mrs. Pettis, 50, a Republican, takes the seat of her late husband, Rep. Jerry L. Pettis, who was killed in a plane crash Feb. 14. She was elected over several opponents in a special election April 29.

S.C. inmates yield, free captives
COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — Three prisoners in a disciplinary unit of South Carolina's central prison took two guards as hostages in an escape attempt today, but two of the inmates surrendered four hours later after releasing their captives unharmed.

The third prisoner managed to flee the disciplinary cellblock but apparently was confined within the walls of the huge prison in the South Carolina capital.

Renominated
GARY, Ind. (UPI) — Mayor Richard G. Hatcher, one of the first black mayors in the nation, came from behind Tuesday to win renomination for a third term in the Democratic primary.

Hatcher polled 30,377 votes to 29,844 for Donler Allen, who is also black. Hatcher trailed by as many as 6,000 votes early but rallied much as he did four years ago when he was nominated to his second term.

Phnom refugees near Thai border
ARANYAPRATHET, Thailand (UPI) — The last convoy of foreign refugees from Phnom Penh traveled along the war-battered roads of Cambodia today and appeared to be within a day's drive of the Thai frontier.

French Ambassador JeanLouis Toffin said the truck convoy stopped for the night at the Cambodian town of Stophon, 30 miles east of the Thai border.

McGovern, Castro meet in Havana
HAVANA (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern held an hour-long meeting with Premier Fidel Castro Tuesday night and planned to meet again today for discussion of substantive issues in U.S.-Cuban relations, the senator announced.

McGovern, D-S.D., told a news conference that Castro dropped in unannounced on a meeting he was holding with Vice Premier Carlos Rafael Rodriguez and Foreign Minister Raul Roa.

Legime Lore
Figs and figlets are said to have played an important role in the diet of ancient Romans and Egyptians. Numerous other legumes, such as the lima bean and ordinary red bean, were unknown outside the New World until the 16th Century. China's soy bean is said to contain up to 40 per cent protein, placing it at the top of the legume list, nutritionally speaking. Water right clash looms

By BART QUESNELL
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — The state of Idaho and the U.S. Forest Service are on a collision course over water rights in Blaine County.

A Times-News check of the water supply for the proposed Sawtooth National Recreation Area headquarters site at North Fork showed the Idaho Department of Water Resources has no record the forest service has filed for water rights on a well installed over a mile up the canyon for the proposed site.

In addition, there was never a permit issued by the department of water resources to the forest service to install a pipeline under the North Fork of the Big Wood River to connect with the well.

U.S. Forest Service officials claim both actions do not require a permit from the state. The chief of water rights with the department of water resources said Monday any agency or individual on federal, state or private land must file for water rights.

Rep. Freeman, water rights official from Boise, said Monday he respite here is a difference of opinion whether the forest service has reserved water rights on reserve land.

"We feel they have to file with the state. We think the state controls all water rights within its boundaries."

It is a misdemeanor offense, he said, not to file for water rights.

Idaho Deputy Atty. Gen. Terry Coffin said his office is starting an investigation into the water rights issue. The forest service, he said, feels it can do as it pleases under the reserve land doctrine.

GF school patrons OK building taxes

GLENN'S FERRY — Glenns Ferry, King Hill, and Hammett residents voted Tuesday to build a combination gym and vocational education building and fund a kindergarten bus system.

Of the 296 votes cast, 220 voted "yes" and 74 "no" to be taxed an additional 18 mills (1.8 cents) on each dollar of assessed property valuation.

Voters also supported a one-mill override levy to help fund a kindergarten bus system. Of the 295 votes cast on that issue, 161 voted "yes" to 134 "no."

School Supt. George Powell said the 18-mill levy would raise about $19,000 in one year. The 18-mill levy is high, but payments need to be made for only one year at that rate, he said.

"It will cut down interest," Powell said.

The facility will cost about $225,000, Powell said, with the remainder of the money coming from the funds already on hand.

With the 18-mill levy, for the next year only, taxpayers will pay about $30.00 for every $10,000 of actual valuation of property, Powell said. The one-mill override levy for a kindergarten bus system will cost taxpayers about $1.70 for every $10,000 of real valuation, he said.

Before the facility is built, the district must meet again with the architects. Plans then must be sent to the state for safety standard approval before bids are let, according to Powell.

Gem aide endorses malpractice offer

BOISE — Medical malpractice insurance offered by a St. Paul company is about the best Idaho doctors can get, according to state insurance director, Moore Gollaber.

Gollaber said the rates offered by St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Co. are lower than premiums charged by Argonaut Insurance Co. On June 1 Argonaut will cancel its malpractice insurance, which covered 500 of Idaho's 800 doctors.

St. Paul will charge an interim "going in" rate of $387 a year to be covered for $130,000. After five years, that premium would "mature" to $796, according to Gollaber.

Turn from Vietnam 'why' to problems, Ford says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford says the United States should turn away from the "why" of Vietnam and toward solving what remains: the pain in the families of those killed and wounded, the refugees who used to be American allies, the new challenges to foreign policy.

"The war in Vietnam is over," the President said Tuesday.

"I think the lessons of the past in Vietnam have already been learned — learned by presidents, learned by Congress, learned by the American people — and we should focus on the future. As far as I am concerned, that is where we will concentrate."

Later at Tuesday's news conference Ford was asked whether Ambassador Graham Martin complicated the airlift of Americans and Vietnamese out of Saigon. Ford's left hand began chopping up and down, emphasizing his phrases.

"I never had much faith in Monday morning quarterbacks or grandstand quarterbacks," he said. "I would rather put faith in the man who carried out a very successful evacuation of Americans and South Vietnamese."

Ford said the more than 120,000 refugees were the best evidence of the need for evacuation. He quoted "hard intelligence" that 80 or 90 Cambodian officials and their wives were executed after the Communists took over Phnom Penh.

Consumer guard bill makes gain
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic leaders moved today to cut off debate on a controversial consumer protection agency bill, giving a boost to its chances after five years in Congress.

Even before scheduled debate on the legislation began, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield announced, a petition for closure — a device to end debate — would be filed on Friday with a vote on the petition next Tuesday.

The closure will surely pass, backers of the agency contend, because fewer votes — 60 — are required under new Senate rules to cut off any filibuster.

Despite opposition by President Ford and an array of big business interests, backers of the nation's first consumer agency predicted it will gain quick Senate approval after closure.

The proposed "Agency for Consumer Advocacy" would create an agency in interagency for the consumer with other government agencies when decisions are being made on issues such as prices, wages and safety.

TF shop unit proposed

TWIN FALLS — A new shopping center is being proposed to replace the vacant entomology laboratory "bighouse" on Blue Lakes Boulevard North at Falls Avenue East.

Prievard Rentals, a Utah development firm, says it is planning to put in one large building which would house both a grocery store and a drug store at the site, according to Mary Dobkins, planner for the company.

But the complex probably will not be built unless a parking variance can be obtained from the city, Dobkins said today.

He said that if Prievard has to conform to Twin Falls City parking requirements, the building would be too small to be financially feasible.

The parking requirements here call for more parking space than do the requirements in Salt Lake City, Utah, where Prievard has built other such complexes, he said.

Dobkins said she is now working with the Twin Falls City Planning Commission on variance possibilities.

"Right now, the complex is just a concept," he said. "I don't know if it will be built or not. It has been discussed with any particular business owners in the building, Dobkins said.

Women lose anew

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Armed Services Committee has rejected a proposal to let women enter the service academies.

The vote was 24-12 against the move by Rep. Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., who offered it as an amendment to a $29.8 billion defense weapons authorization bill.

Stratton said he would reward his proposal to meet objections that women might be sent into combat and will resubmit it on the House floor.

Ford urges attention to problems

Ford said he could understand some of the adverse reaction in the United States toward the 120,000 refugees in a time of serious economic problems, but that he didn't like it. Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott said Tuesday Ford was "damned mad." Fully 60 per cent of the refugees were children and only 35,000 were heads of families, Ford said.

"I understand people who are concerned with our economic problems, but we have assimilated between 50,000 and 100,000 Hungarians in the mid-60's and we have brought into this country some 500,000 to 600,000 Cubans.

"They have been good citizens and we ought to welcome these people in the same way, and despite our economic problems I am convinced that the vast majority of Americans today want these people to have another opportunity to escape the probability of death and therefore I applaud those who feel that way," he said.

Asked what he would say to the families of the Americans who died or were wounded in Vietnam, all Ford could offer was the praise and thanks of the President on Tuesday evening, which she photographed as part of a school assignment.

"They made a great sacrifice," he said. "The 56,000 that died and the countless thousands that were wounded. I honor and respect them and their contribution was most significant.

"I think their contribution was not in vain... I think we should praise them, congratulate them, we have an unyielding commitment to them in the future. All we can say is, thank you very much for what they have done for freedom."

For those who deserted the armed forces or dodged the draft, Ford would not offer what many demanded — a general amnesty. He defended his annual re-entry program, which has attracted about 30,000 of the 120,000 who were eligible. Still, he left the door open ever so slightly.

"There is always a chance in the future if the future is justly," he said.

"The future is a better direction we are at the end of the road. I think we will be the prospects for an upturn in the housing industry."

"We have indicated to our friends that we will maintain our commitments. We understand the perception that some quantities may have as a result of the setback in South Vietnam. But that perception is not a reality because the United States is strong militarily."

Great Britain's Harold Wilson, Australia's E. Gough Whitlam and New Zealand's Wallace E. Rowling were in Washington today to meet with Ford and other officials as part of the "forward movements in foreign policy."

Ford was calm throughout the news conference, occasionally becoming emphatic when ruffled.

He was asked a question about his mood. "I have learned to control my temper," he said, smiling.

"I get very upset internally, but I have learned that is not the best way to solve a problem... I have found that the best way to meet personal problems or to handle a serious matter where a decision has to be made that if you can keep cool, you can make a better decision."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Susan Ford made her debut as a photographer at her father's press conference Tuesday night.

President Ford's 17-year-old daughter took pictures of the chief executive with a 35mm camera along with the press photographers at the news conference.

"Who's that blonde over there clicking pictures?" a newsman jokingly asked Ford after the news conference. The President laughed.

He said Susan was working for a month for White House photographer David Hume Kennerly — "without compensation" — to take the photographs she needs to complete a school project.

Press secretary Ron Nessen joked, "Maybe he can replace Kennerly and we can save money."

Susan shook her head, went on clicking pictures and replied, "No, I'd want the same pay."

Earlier in the day Susan showed up when the White House photo corps was called to the Cabinet Room for a picture-taking session of Ford and Republican congressional leaders.

Following her mother's instructions, Susan wore a bright green and yellow print cotton wrap-around short skirt and a white blouse with a handana around her blond hair.

Betty Ford had issued an order to her working daughter: "No blue jeans."

Opposition delaying Gem-train

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Opposition from the Department of Transportation is delaying a proposed experimental Amtrak route for southern Idaho.

Dwight Jensen, Boise, chairman of the Idaho Advisory Committee on Amtrak said the next experimental Amtrak route will not be designated until sometime during the first half of 1976.

He said the Department of Transportation opposes the Idaho and all other experimental routes. However, a compromise bill is expected in the Senate next week. It would shift authority to implement routes to the Amtrak board of directors from the department.

Jensen and Sen. Frank Church said this would be a good thing for Idaho because the department has been "dragging its feet."

Quality

EXTENSIVE BUT NOT EXPENSIVE

It is not unusual for people to be impressed by a beautiful memorial service and conclude it was possible only at great expense. Not so. Marxism spread worrying Henry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The spread of Marxism makes Henry Kissinger gloomy about the fate of the free world.

But socialism will not prevail in the United States, he said today, because "people on both sides of political dividing lines can still talk to each other."

The Secretary of State's comments came in the third of a four-part series of taped interviews for the NBC "Today" show.

Interviewer Barbara Walters asked: "It has been alleged that you are gloomy about what you see as the decline and erosion of the free world. Is this true that you feel this way?"

Kissinger replied: "As a matter of fact, it is. It is partly true. It is not so much erosion of the free world. I think if we look around the world today that in many countries Marxist ideologies and perceptions of the world which are contrary to our values are gaining in strength and that therefore we have in the world both a political problem and a philosophical problem. That is, a problem of the degree to which we appear relevant to other countries."

Asked if the United States would eventually turn to the left, Kissinger said: "I would suppose that the intellectual and philosophical currents in the world will sooner or later affect the United States and then it is a question of what other currents exist here to deal with them."

"...I don't think we are becoming socialistic in this country. This is not at all a trend."

In political terms, he described the Vietnam war as "really a symbol between a more radical trend and a more conservative trend... It could really go in either direction."

Winners listed in arts exhibit

TWIN FALLS — Winners to the annual state-wide Industrial Arts Exhibit held here last weekend included a number of students from the Twin Falls classes.

Winners announced Tuesday by Bill Jacobson, instructor, include a sweepstakes award in the overall drawing division to Mike Hutcherson, Twin Falls.

Other Twin Falls winners in that division included Harvey Skinner, fourth in architectural drawing and Jeff Larson, second, and Carl Murphy third in mechanical drawing.

Metal casting earned a first place for Bryant Easton and a fourth place for Jerry Lawrence. The Twin Falls students entered several individual exhibits in addition to metal casting all trophies and sweepstakes awards for the show.

Gary Christensen won a first and Jerry Skinner a third in crafts and Steve Flora a fourth in the electronics.

There were 538 students from 40 schools throughout Idaho in the three-day show.

Students attending also competed in contests in which they made a product in one of the eight show divisions during one day's time and were judged on the product and procedure. Students competed individually and as school teams.

Local winners included Dan Geus and Harvey Skinner, second team in architectural drawing; Kevin Skinner and Dan Munger, first in mechanical drawing, and Munger, first place individual in mechanical drawing I. Jim Deahl and Jeff Larson won team honors in mechanical drawing II and Jeff Larson was high individual in that division.

Terry Taylor was first place individual in leather tooling II and Tracy Hatfield, second.

Terry Taylor and Jenny Skinner won first in team honors in leather tooling II and Tracy Hatfield and Boyd Farnsworth, second.

Betty Mable and Gary Christensen were first in leather tooling I team competition and Betty Mable first individual in that category.

The game begins at 7:30 at the Twin Falls High School Gym. No tickets will be sold but the public will be asked to donate to the fund for the cerebral palsy victim.

Council elects

TWIN FALLS — New officers were elected and installed by the Twin Falls PTA Council Monday evening.

The slate includes Del Traveller, president; Tom Moore, second vice president; Mrs. Norman Beutler, secretary, and Mrs. DeVern Fuller, treasurer. Mrs. Kermit East, county vice president for PTA District Four, installed the new officers.

Moore was presented a past president's pin. Recognition awards were given to Mrs. Beutler, Darl Gioed, Gladys Griffin and Carolee Parrott. Officers and committee chairmen presented reports and new presidents of local units were introduced.

Hearings waived in TF drug case

TWIN FALLS — Three Twin Falls residents arrested on drug charges early Tuesday requested preliminary hearings but magistrate Court later in the day.

The trio, Gloria Jean Dally, 21, Sterling W. Jones, 26, and Cody Jud Swensen, 25, returned to the county jail in lieu of $20,000 bond each which was continued by the court.

No date had been set Tuesday afternoon for the hearings. The three were arrested about 1 a.m. at their home in the Greecman Trailer Park where officers, on a search warrant, confiscated what they say is about $3,000 in heroin.

In other court appearances two 18-year-olds charged with first degree burglary in connection with some nine Twin Falls break-ins also requested preliminary hearings.

Snow measurements set all-time record in May

TWIN FALLS — An all-time record May snow and water content measurement has been reported for the South Hills area.

Water content is nearly double the average. Soil Conservation District snow survey crews report 100.1 inches of snow on Deadline Ridge with 38.7 inches of water. This compares with a 20-year average of 20.3 inches of water.

Most of the other snow courses on which measurements were made for May as of April 30 show far more snow and water than ever recorded before at that time of year, and most are an all-time record for any winter measurements.

The May measurements are the greatest of any time for the year and usually show a decline from March and April measurements. Soil Conservation officials said after reviewing the depths there will be plenty of water for Salmon and Roseworth Tract farmers.

A sudden change in the weather with high temperatures could result in some flooding in lower Rock Creek, reports indicate. In some years with lower snow depths a change to warm weather has resulted in flooding of picnic areas, roadways and some ranch fields in the lower canyon.

Reports show snow depths as much as 143 percent of normal on Goat Creek and up to 346 percent of normal on Wilson Creek. All courses are above average. Measurements were made by Lyle Fuller and Marvin Taylor. Measurements do not include the last two snowstorms.

Report by snow course in the order of snow and water this month, for the same time last year and the average water content:

Magie Mountain, 80.4 inches of snow, 29.6 inches of water, 49 inches of snow and 24.5 inches of water a year ago and 16.5 inches of water for the 20-year average; Deadline Ridge 100.1 inches and 38.7 inches, 52 inches and 26.5 inches, 20.3 inches, Shoshone Basin, 79.7 and 10.1 inches, no measurement last year; Hummingbird Springs, 120 and 40 inches, 90 and 36.5 inches and 27.1 inches.

Pole Creek, 98.6 and 34.1 inches, 64 and 25.9 inches and 19.2 inches, Goat Creek, 84.6 and 27.5 inches, 64 and 25.9 inches and 22.9 inches; Cedar Creek, 46 and 18.8 inches, no snow last year, no average at this time; Bear Creek Meadow, 96 and 34 inches, 45 and 18 inches and 19.6 inches; 76 creek, 42 and 14.5 inches, Irace, and no average; Red Point, 33 and 18 inches, no snow and 7.7 inches average, Wilson Creek, 52 and 18 inches, no snow, and 5.2 inches average.

Idaho, Forest Service on 'collision course'

He said Atty. Gen. Wayne Kidwell is discussing the issue with a water specialist this week and will have a report in the near future.

"We are conducting legal research into the question of where our rights stop and where the federal government rights stop," Coffin said.

A water specialist with the forest service in Washington, D.C., Michael Barton said filing for water rights varies from state-to-state on federal land.

Barton said the forest service files applications on acquired lands if the state demands a permit to be filed. Acquired lands are those condemned or purchased outright from a county or state.

He said the forest service does not have to acquire a permit on reserve land. Reserve land, he said, was withdrawn from the public domain when the forest was established. It is land that has never passed into private ownership, Barton said.

Ren Nanes, a forest service water rights expert from the regional Ogden office, said the question of federal versus state rights is generally settled in a court action.

The state director of water administration can initiate adjudication proceedings, he said.

Nanes said the forest service has completed an inventory of water needs on all lands under its jurisdiction in Idaho and turned it over to the state department of water resources to be used in the statewide water study to be completed by 1977.

Norm Young, a Boise official with the Idaho Department of Water Resources, said the forest service and his department have established a "memorandum of understanding" on work to be done in streams and rivers on federal land.

Each April, the forest service and the department of water resources discuss what the federal agency is going to do throughout the year, Young said.

"In effect, the work they do on their own land does not require a permit as long as it meets or exceeds our standards," he said. "Invariably they meet or exceed those standards. The cooperation has been very good."

Mike Steele, fishery biologist with the Twin Falls office of the department of water resources, confirmed that one year ago the forest service told the department it would have to run a pipe under ground to a well near Mudrock Creek that would have to pass under the North Fork of Big Wood River.

Steele said under a memorandum of understanding between the state and federal agencies, the federal government did not have to file a stream alteration permit. The state was aware, he said, of the work to be done.

Demand for quality handguns outpaces supplies at Idaho sporting goods stores

By ROBERT VAN BUSKIRK
United Press International

Demand is outpacing supplies for quality handguns in Idaho.

Idaho sporting goods dealers feel if they had more quality handguns they would be able to sell them.

Those answering a random sampling for United Press International Monday noted there seemed to be more interest in the purchase of handguns lately but they really didn't know why.

Some said it was all the talk about federal controls on the sale of handguns or an increase in crime, or both. Others said it was just a matter of the manufacturer not being able to produce enough quality weapons and people afraid they couldn't obtain them.

Idaho law enforcement officials seem to feel that the latter is the case. They tend to discount people wanting weapons to protect themselves because of the increase in the crime rate.

State Law Enforcement Commissioner John Bender said for several years there has been a shortage of handguns being supplied by the manufacturer. He said dealers he had talked with indicated the short supply resulted from the commitment of major manufacturers to military needs.

"Even police officers can't get them," Bender said, adding that he didn't think any increase of crime had anything to do with an increase in demand.

It even took Bender nine months to obtain a service revolver.

Agreement with Bender's crime assessment was voiced by Idaho Falls Police Chief Robert D. Pollock and Lt. Richard Maus of the Boise Police Department.

"We would get more citizen complaints to do something about crime before they would go out to buy handguns and we haven't received that kind of pressure," Maus said.

Maus said there would always be a certain number who probably would go out and buy handguns for protection, but he and Roberts indicated that they hadn't heard such reports.

Roberts and Maus also agreed that handgun control was the answer because if a criminal wanted a gun he would either steal it or he would make his own.

"Felons still carry weapons in spite of gun control," Maus said.

Pollock said "criminals will still get them even if unavailable, they have to steal them and they are easy to make. Any kid handy with machine equipment can make one in a hurry. It may not be the best, but at close range it would work."

Ike Ellis, owner of Ike's Gun Shop in Idaho Falls, agreed that gun control was not the answer.

"The thing that makes me mad is blaming guns instead of the people behind them," he said. "A drunk driver is a lot more dangerous than the guy with a gun."

"It's not the people but the gun that gets the blame."

Floyd Hazen, manager of the Blue Lakes Sports Center, Twin Falls, said he felt that it wasn't people wanting handguns for protection against increased crime but gun control that was making an added demand for weapons.

"If you take away something that people want," he said, "that's when everybody wants them."

Two Boise gun dealers said crime probably had an impact on renewed interest in handguns.

Russ Purcell, owner of Purcell's in Boise, said "as crime goes up people want to protect themselves. If they break into your house you want to be able to protect yourself."

Bernie Moon, owner of Moon's Gun and Tackle in Boise, said it was harder to get guns this year than usual.

"People are buying them for protection," Moon said. "It's hard to call the cops when the criminal is already there."

Moon said he would not sell a gun to a known criminal. But, he added, they will find a way to get them if they want them.

He said his store had been broken into on two different occasions and 21 handguns had been taken.

Farrell Davidson of the Targhee Sports Center, Rexburg, said crime might have "something to do" with the sale of handguns in the East.

However, Davidson said, a felon could buy a "cheap gun." He said if a criminal wanted to "go out and bump somebody off, a cheap one will do just as good a job."

Larry Swing, the Pend Oreille Sports Shop, Sandpoint, said more gun controls would just create a "blackmarket" and the "criminal still will get them."

Chief Dodge, owner and operator of the Pocatello Gun Shop for 29 years, said he doubted the increase in crime had anything to do with any increase in sales.

Senate ends Hathaway hearings

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate hearings on the nomination of former Wyoming Gov. Stanley K. Hathaway as Interior Secretary were recessed Tuesday with no date set for resumption.

The hearings closed on a note of uncertainty over the accuracy both of a document outlining Hathaway's environmental record and of a rebuttal submitted by the Environmental Defense Fund.

George W. Edgus, an EDE lawyer who was called because of Hathaway's denial of some charges made by EDF, insisted under oath that the Hathaway document contained "omissions and misleading statements."

five areas not covered by state law.

But Loesch said Pring made no mention of Green's response of "no" to the question of whether EPA had "taken over" clean air enforcement because Wyoming standards did not meet federal standards. Green said Wyoming's standards had always been "at least as stringent" as federal standards.

Loesch also asked Pring, whether it was true that no state had come up with air pollution regulations that fully met the requirements of the Clean Air Act at that time.

"That's correct," Pring conceded.

During questioning by senators, Hathaway again supported "land-use planning and a pending strip mining control bill similar to one voted last year by President Ford.

But in both cases, the nominee qualified his support on the basis of budget restrictions and the possible economic impact of the measures.

In response to questioning by Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., Hathaway said he would try to impose federal strip mining regulations similar to those proposed in the bill "if it is vetoed. He noted, however, that such regulations would apply only to government lands.

Hathaway, whose views on conflict of interest had been challenged by Common Cause, said he would go as far as the law allows in trying to eliminate such conflicts among Interior Department employees.

He noted that he had submitted his own financial statement to the committee and said he hoped it would be made public.

In recessing the hearings, Sen. Floyd Haskell, D-Colo., who presided in the absence of Chairman Henry M. Jackson, said he would discuss with the Washington Democrat whether further hearings should be held.

Vatican-Hungary ties may improve

VIENNA (UPI)—The death of Cardinal Jozsef Mindszenty, a symbol of anti-communism in the West, is expected to help normalize relations between the Vatican and Hungary.

Roman Catholic church sources said today...

The sources said the Vatican would likely appoint a new Catholic primate for Hungary—a post vacant since Mindszenty's removal against his will last year as archbishop of Esztergom.

The cardinal, a center of contention in the cold war between East and West, died Tuesday at the Barnabazze Bruder Hospital four hours after a prostatic operation. He was 83.

The cardinal died of heart failure, a church spokesman said. "The operation was a routine affair and went fine but the cardinal's heart was too weak."

Pope Paul VI sent two messages of blessing before the cardinal's death, but relations between the two church leaders were strained until the end.

The cardinal, an uncompromising foe of both nazism and communism, said in his memoirs his life was drawing to a close in "complete and absolute exile"—an apparent reference to his estrangement with the Vatican.

The Communist regime in Hungary sentenced Mindszenty to life imprisonment in 1950 at what was widely regarded as a mock treason trial.

The cardinal was accused of holding secret talks in Chicago with Otto Hapsburg, pretender to the Austro-Hungarian throne, after taking part in a 1947 church congress in Ottawa.

Anti-Communists freed him from prison during the 1956 Hungarian revolt. He took refuge in the U.S. Embassy in Budapest when Soviet tanks pushed down the uprising.

Mindszenty stayed in the embassy for 15 years until—in his opinion—both the Vatican and the United States began to regard him as a barrier to détente.

He asked former President Richard Nixon in 1968 to let him stay in the embassy, but he said Nixon's response indicated he was "an unwanted guest."

He finally left the country for the West at the Pope's request but refused to resign as primate of Hungary. Pope Paul dismissed him.

In October 1971, Mindszenty moved to Austria—the closest he could get to his native Hungary. He spent his last years at the Pazmanian, a home for Hungarian theology students.

"We have been assured that the cardinal's stay will be purely private," Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky said at the time. "If he is here privately there is no problem."

An Austrian official, advised of Mindszenty's death, said the cardinal "kept his promise to stay out of politics" and "never took part here in anything official."

Cardinal J. Mindszenty ... Communist foe

Burch takes lead in Ford campaign

Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON—A conservative Republican associated with the disastrous Goldwater campaign of 1964 and the last-ditch Watergate defense of Richard Nixon is taking a leading role in President Ford's election campaign.

Dean Burch, 47, was mentioned by Ford as heading a group of supporters who will meet this week to start planning for the President's drive to win a four-year term in 1976.

Former Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton, a spokesman for liberal forces in the GOP, and former Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird also are in on the preliminary discussions, a White House aide said.

So is Bryce Harlow, a lobbyist for Procter & Gamble who has been involved in presidential politics for more than 20 years, starting with the winning campaigns of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"Within the last week a group headed by Dean Burch has indicated that they would like to get started in a very informal way to kick off a campaign of the proper time," Ford said at last night's news conference.

"They expect to get a great many more who will join

Gas fees debate planned

N.Y. Times Service

WASHINGTON—For the first time since 1956, a Congressional committee voted Monday to send to floor debate a bill to scale back federal regulations of natural gas prices.

If enacted, the bill would lead to gradual but eventually substantial increases in natural gas supplies and costs to households, sponsors said.

The Senate Commerce Committee approved, 14-7, a compromise bill worked out among Democrats that would virtually end price ceilings for new natural gas supplies on shore. Off-shore, the maximum price for new gas would be allowed to rise 50 percent or more.

Sponsors said the bill was drawn with the intention of forcing the 22 largest oil companies to withdraw gradually from the on-shore natural gas business. Because the big 22 would be limited on shore to prices less than half those of independent producers could charge, the latter would expand their share of the on-shore business and eventually dominate it.

On-shore gas sold to independent producers could be priced up to $2 a thousand cubic feet, four times the recent prices permitted for interstate sales of newly discovered gas by the Federal Power Commission. This would be roughly equivalent to the present unregulated price of oil at $12 a barrel.

The commerce committee voted set the stage for a debate on the Senate floor that is likely to be one of the longest and most contentious of the year. It is expected to begin in June.

Omaha tornadoes claim 3 lives

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Three tornadoes struck at least six times and tore a quarter-mile wide swath through two populous Omaha areas Tuesday — possibly the costliest disaster in Nebraska's history. Some victims armed themselves with table legs to ward off looters.

The onslaught left at least three persons dead and 119 injured. In terms of deaths, it was the worst tornado disaster in this city of nearly 400,000 since 1913 when an Easter-Sunday twister killed 94 persons.

"I am overwhelmed at the massiveness of this storm," said Gov. J. J. Exon. "I've lived in tornado country all my life and it's the worst I've ever seen from a property damage standpoint."

Exon compared the tornado damage to the aftermath of a bomb raid and said he planned to ask President Ford today to declare Omaha a federal disaster area.

The dead were identified as Lloyd Kramer, in his 40s, Margaret Burke, 86, and Pamela Myers, 23.

Mrs. Burke's body was found near the ruins of her home, which was moved off its foundation. The Myers woman was found in the rubble of a restaurant.

Authorities said they believed Kramer was killed while standing on a service station roof to watch the storm.

Two U.S. Postal Service employees were hospitalized in serious condition from injuries suffered when one twister ravaged a postal branch station.

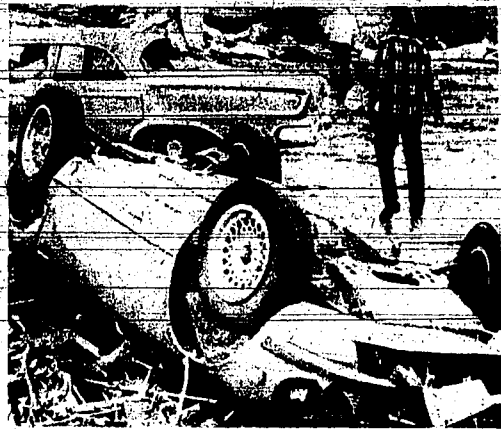

"A fortunate part is that we are counting deaths by ones," said Mayor Edward Zorinsky, who declared a 2,000 square block area an emergency zone. Helicopters with search beams flew over the scene during the night pinpointing damage spots.

Several persons were arrested for looting as police and National Guardsmen with loaded M16 rifles with fixed bayonets patrolled on foot.

At one point, employees of the Nebraska Furniture Mart in one of the hardest hit areas carried table legs to protect themselves against looters. The general manager of the sprawling furniture facility, Robert Batt, estimated damages at "$5 million easy."

Deputy Police Chief Eugene Stark said the hospitals were in "complete chaos with tons of people coming in," but added most had minor injuries.

Exon estimated at least 500 to 700 homes and living units were destroyed and at least 1,000 homes were "badly damaged."

'Counterforce' favored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Armed Services Committee has voted in favor of the "counterforce" strategy of fighting nuclear wars, which supporters say would give the President more flexibility in responding to crises.

Opponents contend "counterforce" would add new, dangerous elements of risk and instability to relations between nuclear powers. They said today they plan to fight the decision in the whole Senate.

Some Senate sources predict a confrontation similar to the recent fight over the anti-ballistic missile.

The Senate Armed Services Committee met behind closed doors Tuesday on the Pentagon's $10.2-billion research and development request. It is expected to announce final decisions soon, perhaps today.

Sources not wishing to be quoted because the committee has not yet made all its decisions said the vote was 11-4 in favor of $100 billion in research for five "counterforce" proposals. An example of one idea is MARV, a nuclear warhead that can be guided toward a target after it is fired. The idea behind "counterforce" is to have a missile so accurate and powerful that it can destroy an enemy missile before it is fired.

The committee reversed the research subcommittee, headed by Sen. Thomas McIntyre, D-N.H., which had eliminated these projects. McIntyre is one of the opponents who calls "counterforce" dangerous. In his phrase, "pulling a hair trigger on nuclear war."

They say it is only a matter of time until both the United States and the Soviet Union get this capability, and if a crisis comes both sides will try to push the nuclear button first — because the second one could have its nuclear arsenal destroyed.

Supporters, who include Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger, say "counterforce" gives the president another military option between doing nothing in a crisis or risking all-out nuclear war.

The sources also said the committee voted to cut $223.3 million from the $672 million request for the B1 bomber program, and permit only continued research and development, not production. The subcommittee originally cut $150.8 million, and the committee vote narrowly to keep the cut. A later compromise cut more, the sources said, and it passed 10-4.

Conservatives may ask the full Senate to restore funds for the B1, designed as the nation's major heavy bomber for nuclear war. The House Armed Services Committee was kinder to the controversial plane, voting Tuesday to authorize all the Pentagon asked.

Agency flayed

LOS ANGELES — California state and local officials asserted Tuesday that the Department of the Interior was trying to "thwart the will of Congress" in pressing for early offense oil leasing while changes in regulatory laws were pending.

The words "haste" and "precipitous" were sounded repeatedly at an Interior Department hearing as the Ford administration moved a significant step closer toward launching a controversial program of development in untested "frontier" areas of the outer continental shelf off both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts as a means of eventually alleviating the nation's dependence on oil imports.

Gem court affirms decision

BOISE (UPI) - The Idaho Supreme Court affirmed today a district court decision that upheld the Ada County commissioners' denial of a conditional use permit for a mobile home park.

In a unanimous opinion by Chief Justice Allan Shepard, the high court held that the appellants had failed to show that the ordinance was arbitrary or unreasonable in that it required mobile home parks to have direct access to a major arterial while no similar requirement was imposed upon conventional housing developments of comparable density.

The court said the ease with which mobile homes, as opposed to conventional dwellings, can be displaced and transported to new locations and the greater widths and presence of turning lanes in the case of major arterials.

Idaho seeks funds

BOISE (UPI) - The Idaho Bicentennial Commission has asked for help from the state's congressional delegation and governor to get $50,000 in federal funds for which it failed to apply by deadline last year.

Commission Chairman Tony Park said today letters had been written to the congressmen and other commissioners talked directly with the delegation on getting a waiver to obtain the federal money.

"We of course asked the governor to assist us in that endeavor," Park said. "We are hoping that we will have word by our next commission meeting..."

Park said it would be hard to assess responsibility for the failure to send in the grant application by deadline. He said it was "a lack of understanding and communication" between the commission staff and the state historical preservation office on what was required. "It was a purely technical requirement in any event." But he said "the signs are good at the present time" that the Idaho commission will be able to get the money after all.

Railroad may outlast bankruptcy

CHICAGO (UPI) - Rock Island Railroad President John Ingram says the line may survive despite its present bankrupt status as long as it maintains "a positive cash flow."

In a speech to the 68th annual meeting of the American Railway Development Association, Ingram said rebuilding the line would be approved a year, but it will be done - more slowly - even if it does not get federal aid. "Every day that the Rock hangs in there gives its trustee and the new management time needed to fix the service, equipment, and people problems that have so disrupted Rock Island's historical role in mid-America," he said.

"To keep going, the Rock must maintain a positive cash flow," Ingram said. "Right now, we have a positive cash flow and projections look good, despite the talk and actions of the competing neighbor railroads."

3 Shaf quintils ill

CHICAGO (UPI) - Three of the four surviving Shaf quintuplets developed varying respiratory ailments in the past week. One was considered seriously ill.

Derek was in "improving, but stable" condition Monday night after admission to Resurrection Hospital. Saturday night, in critical condition with pneumonia, he was transferred to Children's Memorial Hospital after he stopped breathing several times. He was receiving intravenous feeding and antibiotics. A brother, Adam, remains hospitalized, but was reported in "satisfactory and stable" condition in the hospital's daily report. A sister, Wilmary, was released from Resurrection Monday. The three, born Feb. 9, are the children of Vance and Cheryl Shaf of suburban Morton Grove.

Church hails first step on Hells Canyon bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Idaho Sen. Frank Church said a House subcommittee's unanimous decision Tuesday to report out a bill creating a Hells Canyon National Recreation Area was "the first step toward probable passage."

Church said the Senate has supported legislation in the past and, "in my judgment, will do so again."

"The bill has encountered difficulty previously in the House," he said. "Today's subcommittee vote suggests that the House will accept the legislation this year and that the long struggle to protect Hells Canyon can be won in this Congress."

The Parks and Recreation subcommittee of the House Interior Committee reported the bill out. It had been introduced by Rep. Al Ullman of Oregon and was similar to legislation introduced by Church, and Sens. James McClure of Idaho and Mark Hatfield and Robert Packwood of Oregon. The Senate bill is pending before the Senate Interior Committee. Church said the legislation now proceeding through both houses of Congress would:

- Create a Hells Canyon National Recreation Area.
- Create within the recreation area (two Hells Canyon wilderness areas, located on either side of the Snake River.
- Designate the Snake River from Hells Canyon Dam to Asotin, Wash., as part of the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System.
- Prohibit further dam construction in Hells Canyon.
- Protect upstream water rights in Idaho.
- Specifically designate the ranching, farming and associated occupation of lands and homes within the recreation and wilderness areas be allowed to continue.
- Limit the condemnation power of the Forest Service in acquiring private lands in Hells Canyon.

Economy causes more incorporations

BOISE (UPI) — Easier loans at higher interest rates are enticing more and more homebuilders and farmers in Idaho to incorporate.

Many are operators who, in the past, did not want to bother with the reporting and bookkeeping procedures necessary with corporations. Small and medium operators, they found they could operate better as individuals or small companies.

But tight money last summer and fall changed the picture and spokesmen for the secretary of state, the home building industry and farmers indicate it's still changing:

"There are more (corporate) filings now than ever before," Margaret Lawrence, corporation clerk and administrative assistant to the secretary of state, said Tuesday. "In April, there were 195 brand new ones. In 1967, it averaged 75 per month."

Mrs. Lawrence said increases in corporate filings primarily are by homebuilders and farmers. She ascribed that to the fact that banks, by law, can charge corporations an extra two per cent interest.

Idaho's usury laws allow banks to charge individuals up to 10 per cent interest and corporations up to 12. When money was tight last fall many financial institutions could not lend money at 10 per cent for construction and agriculture and still make money on the loans.

For that reason, many farmers and homebuilders previously deigned incorporation found it a necessary way of life if they were to survive in the business world. Although the interest rate since has dropped most who elected to incorporate have decided, now that their books and reporting procedures are set up, to stay that way.

Steady growth of the Idaho economy has had something to do with the increase in new incorporations, too. But Mrs. Lawrence believes the current rise in incorporations is due primarily to interest rates.

A spokesman for the homebuilding industry tends to agree. "That's exactly right," Hal Sweet, Boise, executive vice president of the Idaho State Homebuilders Association, said. "Anyone that does any building over one or two units a year would now probably file as a corporation."

"I know it's a considerable increase. But anyone we would look at as an association member certainly would have to incorporate to have the financing to do the job."

"We have 300 plus members statewide," he said. "We would have about 354 homebuilders in that number. I would say they would average out statewide at a dozen units a year."

"There are a lot of our builders who normally would not think of incorporating," he acknowledged.

But during the tight money periods last summer and last fall, he said, many felt they had to do so in order to qualify for the higher interest loans.

"There's a lot of reporting required," he said, adding that a small, unincorporated business might not want to put up with such red tape. "They just felt there was no way—but to make the change."

Lawsuit filed in Canyon

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — A petition was filed in Third District Court Tuesday to find out who has legal right to several thousand dollars donated by the owners of the Bill Ness Bar in Nampa where Monroe cashed the checks made out as contributions to the association.

Ness since has demanded $1,900 of that amount which he claims is his. When the deputies went to Ness' home after Monroe told them Ness was holding the money for him, Ness gave them $500 in cash from a candy jar.

money. The sheriff's office has held the money as evidence. During the investigation, sheriff's deputies confiscated $2,400 from Bill Ness, one of the owners of the Seven Seas Bar in Nampa where Monroe cashed the checks made out as contributions to the association.

Ness since has demanded $1,900 of that amount which he claims is his. When the deputies went to Ness' home after Monroe told them Ness was holding the money for him, Ness gave them $500 in cash from a candy jar.

Auto kills Arco woman

ARCO, Idaho (UPI) — An Arco woman was fatally injured Tuesday as she tried to stop her vehicle that had been left with the motor idling and started rolling while she was in the post office.

Arco police said Florence Naomi Ambrose, 53, rushed out of the post office to stop the pickup truck when the postmaster noticed it was rolling. She accidentally knocked the transmission into reverse and was thrown under the front wheels.

She died a short time later of internal injuries at a hospital.

Arco store burglarized

ARCO, Idaho (UPI) — Burglars at the Lost River Drug Store in Arco early Tuesday got away with 29 rifles and handguns, $550 in cash and $1,000 in "dangerous" drugs.

Arco police said the burglary was sometime after 1 a.m. and was "discovered" at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Delay in confab explained

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (UPI) — The chairman of the board of the Sunshine Mining Co. said Tuesday that a six-month delay in holding last year's annual meeting was for the benefit of the company and its stockholders.

Irwin Underweiser, New York, also said he did not believe a conflict of interest existed because of his duties as legal counsel for the company, particularly during a proxy battle last year in which he received $125,000 in legal fees.

Underweiser's statements came in response to questions at the company's annual stockholders' meeting in Coeur d'Alene.

During his regular presentation, Underweiser said the company, operator of the nation's largest silver mine at Kellogg, Idaho, enjoyed record net income of just over $5 million during 1974. He also said reserves are now an all-time high of 1,258,200 tons.

Kellogg gardens shunned

KELLOGG, Idaho (UPI) — The Idaho Department of Health and Welfare Tuesday advised Kellogg residents not to grow vegetables this summer because of the threat of lead absorption.

Health officials said tests on a limited number of locally-grown vegetables collected at Kellogg showed high lead levels.

Last fall tests showed several hundred Kellogg children had abnormal levels of lead in their blood and, while tests in February showed lead levels had dropped, they were still at abnormal levels.

The Bunker Hill lead smelting complex at Kellogg was cited as a contributing factor in the presence of high lead levels.

Health officials said that for some reason blood-lead levels usually increase in the summer and eating vegetables containing only small amounts of lead may seriously worsen the problem.

Health officials said they plan to grow several varieties of vegetables this summer to determine which can be grown, and eaten safely.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
I have a problem I hope you can help me with. I walk in my sleep. But that's not the only problem. I go to the refrigerator and take food and I eat it. I don't know I have done this until the next morning when I see crumbs on the floor and in my bed.
I figure I must have eaten the food in bed and on my way back from the refrigerator. As a result of eating during the night I am gaining so much weight that my clothes don't fit me. I don't eat much during the day.
Doctor, will you please tell me if there is any way of stopping this?—Mrs. M.P.

Somnambulism is a sort of hypnotic state in which the person has possession of his senses, but retains no recollection of his actions. That seems to fit your situation except you have provided your own trail of evidence to go along with it.

Sleepwalking can accompany a dream, and in your case the dream could be about food. Such occurrences often stem from unresolved emotional conflict. Again, in your situation food may enter the picture.

But it is also possible that actual hunger is a factor. You don't eat much during the day, according to your letter. Perhaps if you ate three balanced meals the subconscious urge to eat at night would disappear. The meals could be low in calories. A protein snack on retiring might help also. Try a piece of meat, a cheese sandwich, or a glass of milk.

Do the crumbs provide any clue as to what you have eaten? Your weight gain is probably a result of gorging on high-calorie foods you deny yourself during your waking hours. If a change in eating habits doesn't work, then you should probably see a psychiatrist, who might detect other emotional conflicts involved that may not be apparent to you.

Sleepwalking fattening

By George Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
My doctor told me two years ago I was a hidden diabetic. Can you tell me what this means, and the symptoms of it? Is it like other forms of diabetes?—Mrs. G.M.

With a latent—or hidden—diabetes there may be no overt symptoms, but the doctor may have found sugar in your urine or an elevated blood sugar, both classic signs of the disease. This means that you have the potential now for developing an overt diabetes, especially if you are not careful.

If you are overweight, you should reduce, since a history of obesity is found in about 80 per cent of all diabetics. And you should be checked rather regularly from now on (once or twice a year—at least) for urine and blood sugar.

If you are an older person you can slip into overt diabetes with very few symptoms, and this is why you should now be taking the precautions I suggest.

Latent diabetes is often found in women who have had large birth weight babies or unsuccessful pregnancies (miscarriage or stillbirth).

In your case, a more extensive urine and blood test would probably reveal abnormal sugar content, a borderline situation that could get worse unless you are careful.

The "C" in ARCH stands for Count your winners and losers. Sometimes the total doesn't come to 13. Thus you can count 11 winners after 13th spade opening. Two in spades and three in each other suit. The three in clubs come from the "R" in Review the bidding which marks East with the queen of that suit 2½ part of his opening bid.

When you count losers you are looking at two aces and three spades for a total of five losers. This makes a total of 18 tricks. A further study shows that if you win the first trick with your ace of spades over East's king you will knock out one of East's aces. He will lead back a spade. West will let you win that trick. Then when you knock out the other ace, the three spade tricks will be taken against you before you can score your own tricks.

Now you come to the "H" or How can I make this hand?

The answer is you can make it by changing your count of both winners and losers. Obviously when you analyze the lead you assume that West has led fourth best of a five-card suit headed by the king of queen. Your Review of the bidding marks East with both aces. Thus, you let East hold the first spade and West the second one. Now the defense has two spade tricks, but can't get a third. You have time to knock out both aces and make your contract.

A — Pass. Your partner has bid only four and five spades. Accept his judgment.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune, N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is friendly with a fellow who dances topless in a bar. (I'll call her "Sandra.")

I'm ashamed to say that my husband has been to this bar, so he has seen Sandra practically naked. He says she has a "fantastic" body, even though she admits to having had silicone implants.

He insists that Sandra is a very "sweet and down-to-earth" person, and he keeps wanting me to meet her socially. (His buddy wants the four of us to go out together.)

Abby, I don't care to meet her. I would be very uncomfortable in the company of a woman whom my husband had seen topless. My husband says, "It's only a job," and that Sandra is as nice a person as I am.

Am I wrong to feel the way I do? What kind of a woman do you think would dance topless for a living? She can't be a very moral person.

ST. LOUIS

Can't bare hubby friend

DEAR SAINT: Not everyone views nudity as "immoral." Some women (and men) pose nude for artists. However, if you would feel uncomfortable in Sandra's company, it's your right to avoid her.

DEAR ABBY: I was recently invited to a friend's home for dinner. The table was beautifully set, but after the guests were seated, I was surprised to see that the hostess had not set a place for herself.

She said that she was "on a diet" and had already eaten her diet dinner. Then she served us and didn't even join us at the table.

Was this proper? I felt as though we were invited to her home to be given a free meal like a couple of charity cases. What is your opinion of this?

FED, NOT ENTERTAINED

DEAR FED: Your hostess should have sat with her guests and eaten her "diet dinner" unceremoniously while you ate yours.

DEAR ABBY: When I was younger, I used to drive a car as though I were going to a fire. But now that I am married and have a son, I realize how precious life is, so I no longer drive that way.

I want to know if you think it's wrong to ask the person who is driving too fast to slow down. My husband says I should keep my mouth shut, and my trembling knees and nerves to myself.

Don't I have the right to have a safe trip? When I've been a passenger in cars with reckless drivers, I have promised God that if He would only let me get home safely, I would never get into a car with that driver again.

My husband has a fit every time I complain about somebody's driving. (Not his. He's okay. I mean friends and relatives who drive beyond the speed limit whether they are late or not.) Am I wrong?

NO EASY RIDER

DEAR NO: No! You are absolutely right! Whenever possible, avoid riding with reckless drivers. Should you find yourself trapped with one, let your feelings be known - loud and clear.

CONFIDENTIAL TO B.B.: People who live in glass houses shouldn't get stoned.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

How to write letters: Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lakeside Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Viet tots may suffer from shock

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Vietnamese refugee children may suffer from culture shock following their arrival in the United States, says Dr. Jean E. Carlin, a psychiatrist with two tours of duty in Vietnam.

She offers the following advice to adopting and foster parents through an interview in the American Medical News, weekly publication of the American Medical Association.

"Do not speak loudly to the child, as if by that method one can force him to understand English."

"Let any child over two years of age choose between overalls and chaps/jeans. Under two years, Vietnamese children are fed with a spoon."

"Let the child have bowls of rice and thin rice soup, plus new American foods."

"Let the child hold his head up under his chin, as is the Vietnamese custom."

"Let the child squat on his haunches instead of sitting on a chair as long as he chooses."

"Let the child choose between a bed or a place on the floor with a blanket."

"Lightning, thunder, fire and fireworks will terrify them, but they can't even tell you. They might hide under beds, etc. Expect it, and reassure them."

"Do not expect thank-yous in any language. These children have not been taught this. Teach them as you would an infant."

"It would be a major mistake to change a child's name suddenly."

Hot sulphur spring spa no longer fashionable

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — The hot sulphur spring waters bubbling up at the old Hot Wells spa caressed the likes of Theodore Roosevelt and Sarah Bernhardt and Rudolph Valentino.

The restorative liquids still bubble but the spa in modern times fell out of fashion.

"If it weren't for Ralph Jones, it would have fallen into extinction."

Largely through the efforts of the 85-year-old proprietor, enough of the former glory of Hot Wells survives, supporters say, to make the old place worth saving. Conservationists are talking about restoring the resort and making it part of a national parkway also embracing the city's old Spanish missions.

Pat Osborne, a city historian, says supporters of Hot Wells are hoping for a benefactor to come along with $1.5 million to take over the 19-acre spa on the banks of the San Antonio River across from the Mission San Jose.

There are rumors the three-story Hot Wells, luxurious when it catered to the high rollers of the 1890s and early 1900s, was full of one-arm bandits and for awhile served as a high-class bawdy house.

"I don't know about prostitution," says Jones who runs the Hot Wells Motel and the "Flame Room" bar, pool hall and shuffleboard parlor in the bathhouse "dormitory area."

Despite his years, Jones keeps spry maintaining the place. He still bathes twice a week in the hot sulphur waters which many people believe possess magical healing qualities.

"It's the best water in the United States," Jones says, "better than Warm Springs, Ga."

Back in 1900 when the Cincinnati Reds baseball team partied at Hot Wells, it cost 50 cents for a bath in one of numerous private tubs at the spa. $1 when an alcohol rubdown was included.

The Jones still charge $1 for a swim in the 105-degree sulphur-water pool and many still go there to bathe.

In 1907 when Hot Wells turned away 2,000 visitors because of overcrowding, the sulphur waters which issue from deep hot springs were advertised to cure "rheumatism, blood disease, skin disease, stomach trouble, high blood pressure and nephritis. Hot mineral baths stimulate skin action and the water, as a laxative, improves intestinal elimination."

The magnificent digs lured millionaires in private railroad cars which they parked on a siding built to Hot Wells by E. H. Harriman, railroad magnate father of diplomat Averell Harriman. Visitors are said to have included such notables as Mexican President Porfirio Diaz, the wife of entrepreneur J.P. Morgan and numerous stage and screen stars.

Judge Roy Bean, the "Law West of the Pecos" at one time lived near the spa. He is said to have liked it so well he once donated a mountain lion to the Hot Wells zoo.

Cat spends life No. 1

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (UPI) — Emerson the cat will be spending the next few days with a bandaged belly — not a heavy price to pay, really, for falling to stories from an apartment building.

"One of my neighbors on the eighth floor said he saw a cat go by," said Emerson's owner, 36-year-old David Sterns. "That's how I found out what happened."

Sterns summoned his veterinarian who treated the animal with intravenous injections of sodium bicarbonate.

"It's the same treatment we give to humans for shock," said Dr. Bruce Hartlon.

He bandaged Emerson's stomach to stop some bleeding but, otherwise, the cat was in fine shape.

Emerson, of course, had landed on her feet.

Technologists to meet

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Society of Radiological Technologists will hold its state convention Friday and Saturday at the Blue Lakes in Twin Falls. Registration for the convention will be conducted Thursday evening. Several area doctors will address conventioners. A banquet and ball Saturday evening will conclude the convention.

Gooding aide appointed

GOODING — Bill Stuart was appointed to serve on the Gooding Planning and Zoning Commission during a meeting of the City Council Monday night. Stuart replaces Bob Mink who resigned. The councilmen heard correspondence to the city, read and approved building permits and paid the city's monthly bills.

IF teachers plan strike

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — The Idaho Falls Education Association members voted Monday to authorize a strike vote if negotiations with the School District 91 officials break down. The teachers would not say what they are demanding in the negotiations and the administration officials declined to reveal their offer. A joint statement from the officials and association is expected this week.

Airlines hearing set

BOISE (UPI) — A public hearing is scheduled in Boise, June 16, on an application by Interwest Aviation Corporation, Salt Lake City, to provide air service between Pocatello, Twin Falls and Boise.

Interwest told the Public Utilities Commission it wants to haul both passengers and cargo between those points. The hearing will begin at 1:30 p. m. in the PUC's hearing room.

Boise clinic set

BOISE (UPI) — Gem Health Association, Boise's pilot health maintenance organization (HMO), hopes to open its clinic next year with a staff of three to five physicians. But Director Don Ledden said the HMO probably will not be open to individual consumers at first.

"Our primary targets will be major employers," he said. "When we open we'll have a commitment in facilities and personnel — thus we need to get as many members enrolled as quickly as possible, and an employer can solicit large numbers at a time."

Coach honored

TWIN FALLS — Students at O'Leary Junior High School honored P.E. coach Glenn Sheen at an assembly today.

Sheen has taught for 26 years and coached the basketball, football and track teams, according to student body president Ren Gleed.

During the assembly, students presented a trophy to Sheen and spoke about his accomplishments. Student Joe Jimenez was president of the Mr. Sheen Committee which planned the event.

Jerome planning group sets meet

JEROME — The Jerome County Planning Council will hold a regular work session at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Jerome County Courthouse courtroom.

Topics of discussion will include commerce, housing and recreation.

Susan Baggs, secretary, said representatives from the Jerome Chamber of Commerce, school board, City Council and county commissioners are expected to be in attendance to discuss the recreational proposals.

The Jerome Chamber of Commerce is considering forming Jerome County recreation districts with the same boundaries as the school districts. The districts, subjected to a favorable vote by the people, would have the power to levy a mill property tax.

Tempting

TWIN FALLS — Paul Armstrong, who works as a night security officer in Twin Falls, checks to make certain doors of businesses and offices have not been left unlocked to tempt burglars.

When he finds an unlocked door, he notifies police and the owner usually hurries downtown to the building.

Early Tuesday morning he contacted the police desk to report he had found another unlocked door. It was the Second Avenue North entrance to the police department, leading to the detective offices. A detective was notified to come down and "secure the building."

Insisted, he said, government manipulation of the supply has caused chaos for producers.

"In the last half of 1973 and early 1974," Smutny said, "the market was responding to the supply of milk. Prices to the producers were rising because of declining production and the continued consumer demand. The government then allowed excessive import over and above the established quotas.

"They broke the market but the consumer didn't see any savings in the cost of dairy products. He actually saw increases because of inflation at the transportation, processing and marketing levels," Smutny said.

Inflation also hit the dairymen, the association president said.

"Not only were they hit as consumers, but prices of items needed for production rose as much as double in many cases. This included fertilizer, gasoline and feed to name a few."

As a result many dairymen are continuing to go out of business, which should alarm the consumer who needs a continuing supply of milk products. Unless the cost-price squeeze on the dairyman is alleviated the continued supply is in question, the official said.

Workmen pour concrete footings for new rim-to-rim bridge

Bridge concrete poured

TWIN FALLS — The construction crew poured about 660 cubic yards of concrete Tuesday for the new Perrine Bridge.

"It was one of the biggest we've poured around here," according to engineering technician Dale Welch at the Snake River Canyon site.

Project engineer William Merrill said that the concrete was poured to make the "northeast skewback," the last of the arch footings.

Smaller pours of about 100 cubic yards each will go on top of both the northeast and the northwest skewbacks, he said. The concrete pouring should be finished by June 1.

Crews will then remove the derrick, castings will be set and erection can begin on the steel, according to Merrill. "Hopefully, all the steel will be up by sometime this fall," he said.

Merrill said high winds gave the derrick a little trouble during the pour.

Jerome teacher talks hit snag

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — An agreement between the Jerome Teachers Association and board of trustees for an eight per cent salary increase tentatively Monday has struck a snag. A special school board meeting has been called for tonight in which board members are expected to reject the teachers' request to eliminate the media specialist position and use these funds for other benefits.

The teachers agreed Monday night to accept the board's offer of an 8 per cent pay increase, an additional $5 on insurance and an additional day of personal leave per year. Teachers further requested an additional tenth step be added to the pay scale. The additional step would benefit tenure teachers who have been with the school district long enough to reach the present maximum ninth pay level.

The negotiation team of teachers requested the teacher who has served the past year as a media specialist under the Project Select Program funded for one year by the state, be returned to the classroom. Teachers asked the money set aside to continue the media specialist position be used instead for the additional tenth step pay level.

Jerome board chairman said today at least three members of the trustee board will not agree to dropping the media specialist position.

"I am sure we will have no objection to the teachers reducing the salary schedule to include the tenth step providing they do so with the money already allotted in this year's budget for the 8 per cent pay increase," Van Orman said. Hampering the enactment of the new pay scale is the fact one contract, that of teacher negotiating team member, has been signed and returned to the board of trustees. The contract must be returned to the negotiating team in order to use the per cent money granted him in revising the pay scale.

The board's negotiating team Monday night said it has no choice but to honor the contract unless the teacher asks for its return.

Negotiating teams will meet again Monday night at 7 p. m. prior to the regular school board meeting.

Governor examines future

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said here today that he would like to see Idaho "basically what it is today" in the year 1995.

He said he would like to see the state maintain the same "quality of life" when he addressed the "Idaho Tomorrow" conference at the College of Southern Idaho.

But the governor mostly asked questions in accord with the idea of the conference, which is to elicit citizen's views of what the state should be like in 20 years.

About 70 persons from around the Magic Valley attended the opening of the Idaho Tomorrow session. Other regional conferences are being held throughout the state and participants, hopefully, will hold similar sessions in their home towns, according to Mike Gray, director of this conference.

"If we don't join together to plan for our desired Idaho tomorrow, then someone else is going to plan it for us," the governor told the conference participants.

He outlined six different areas which must be considered in planning the state's future: population, industry, agriculture, energy, natural resources and personal well-being. With the world population growing at the rate of 83 million persons a year, the demands on prime agricultural land will increase dramatically, Andrus said.

At the same time, with Idaho's own population up 12 per cent in the past four years, pressure will be put on the land for development, he added.

"Do we want it to be Orange County, Calif.? Do we want the cropland to grow hoes instead of crops?" Andrus asked.

Rupert asks safety funds

RUPERT — The Rupert city council gave the go-ahead Tuesday night, to a private consulting firm to draw up an application for funds for a traffic safety study.

The application for $10,000 will be submitted to the Idaho Traffic Safety Commission, Friday. The city will have to kick-in another $3,000.

Consultant, Ernest Bramwell, with CH2M, Boise, and the proposed six-month study would end up in a written safety traffic plan.

Bramwell said if the state awards the grant, the study will include an inventory of city "traffic signs and signals," a survey of existing traffic patterns, an inventory of parking facilities and movements, review of traffic accidents, and an analysis of major intersection capacities.

The council indicated they hoped the study would lead to solution of parking and accident problems around the town's square.

The council also opened bids for a new lawn mower for the city parks department. The apparent low bidder was Turf Equipment Co., Salt Lake. However, the bid will not be awarded until the mower offered by Turf is compared with specifications.

The council also accepted the resignation of H. L. Caraway from the city labor-relations committee. Mayor O. W. Johnson was authorized to meet with non-supervisory personnel to discuss establishment of a new labor-relations committee.

Blaine lawsuit testing zone ordinance strength

By BART QUESNELL

HAILEY — The civil suit of Dawson-Ramsey Motors continues here today in a test of strength of the Blaine County zoning ordinance.

Dawson-Ramsey Motors, Ketchum, sued the Blaine County commissioners early this year after the planning and zoning commission, the appeals board and the Blaine County commissioners all voted to disallow a zone change which would allow a General Motors sales and service outlet north of Ketchum.

The land in contention is immediately adjacent to KSKI Radio and forms a triangle between U.S. Highway 93 and the Union Pacific Railroad tracks. The corporation bought 12.8 acres at the site from Gary Hibbard for $128,000. Gerald Olsen, Pocatello attorney representing the corporation, is arguing the land zone presently R-1 for residential use is actually in a prime commercial area. The GM plant cannot be constructed without the zone change.

Willis Coble, an owner of adjacent property to the south of the proposed motor sales property, said he felt that strip of land was good only for commercial purposes. She anticipates putting in a health spa on her property.

Defense attorney Tom Campion pointed out several areas in the county bounded by the UP tracks and the major U.S. Highway 93 and several pieces of property in Ketchum and Hailey which could have been purchased for commercial use.

Hanley Dawson Jr. and Don Ramsey, partners in the motor sales corporation, and Hibbard all testified Tuesday they were under the impression the land would be zoned commercial.

"Each of the men said they talked to the Blaine County planning and zoning administrator, David Vihay, in 1974 and he had indicated the area should be zoned commercial."

The men said Vihay never promised the land would be rezoned, however. Dawson and Ramsey said they purchased the property on the impression given them by Vihay that the property would be reclassified.

Dairy aide hits price support, says 'manipulation creates problem'

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The president of the Idaho Dairy Association says he, and probably most other dairymen, do not subscribe to price support programs, but said "government manipulating" makes it difficult to find any other solution.

Alvin Smutny, Twin Falls state association president, says the present situation for the American dairy industry is critical. He said most dairy producers favor a free market system based on supply and demand. Such would provide a market situation which would create a profit incentive for the producer — the only way the consumer can be assured a supply of milk.

Insisted, he said, government manipulation of the supply has caused chaos for producers. "In the last half of 1973 and early 1974," Smutny said, "the market was responding to the supply of milk. Prices to the producers were rising because of declining production and the continued consumer demand. The government then allowed excessive import over and above the established quotas.

"They broke the market but the consumer didn't see any savings in the cost of dairy products. He actually saw increases because of inflation at the transportation, processing and marketing levels," Smutny said.

Inflation also hit the dairymen, the association president said.

"Not only were they hit as consumers, but prices of items needed for production rose as much as double in many cases. This included fertilizer, gasoline and feed to name a few."

As a result many dairymen are continuing to go out of business, which should alarm the consumer who needs a continuing supply of milk products. Unless the cost-price squeeze on the dairyman is alleviated the continued supply is in question, the official said.

Smutny said President Ford's faulty logic in vetting the farm bill is "disturbing to say the least."

"The president said a number of positive steps to assist farmers have been taken including an increase in the price support level for milk which would be helpful to dairy producers."

"The fact is," Smutny continued, "dairy farmers received only $7.02 per hundredweight of milk or 22 cents below the support price of $7.24 set in January. The President vetoed an 85 per cent parity bill then saying it would be highly inflationary."

"The $7.02 received by dairymen is only 75.4 per cent of parity. The quarterly adjustment feature of the dairy provision of the farm bill would be 80 per cent of parity at $7.75," Smutny said.

He added if the questionable figure's bantered about by the U.S. Department of Agriculture of increasing milk 6 cents per gallon and 15 cents per pound on butter were correct, it would raise the cost to the consumer $2.20 per person per year based on the current consumption figures of 25 gallons of milk and 4.7 pounds of butter each, or 20 cents per month per person.

"It is too much to help the United States, dairymen stay in business and prevent a world dairy cartel that could double today's prices on dairy products," the association president asked.

He said another evidence of faulty logic by the administration involves imports allowed in 1974. This totaled the equivalent of dairy products purchased under support programs, Smutny explained.

The Idaho Dairy Association president charged the nation's new coverage with stating the support prices granted under the Nixon administration cost consumers thousands of dollars.

"The truth is the market price of milk was then well above the increase price support granted and had been for some time. You can see the government meddling is the cause of many of the dairymen's frustrations and will be if politicians try to think for the business-minded dairymen," Smutny said.

While he and other dairymen favor an open market system, he said they also fear total national production will decline and result in higher consumer prices.

Smutny said he sees nothing wrong with 100 per cent of parity if there is to be a parity program. He also charged politicians have come up with a parity based on 1910-1914 figures and "without the advice of those involved in dairy production."

Smutny said he now gets about 72 cents a gallon for his milk and the supermarket pays about 99 cents per gallon for milk. The consumer is paying as much as $1.70, he added.

Smutny says the supermarkets will deny it, but in Oregon milk is about $1.40 a gallon and the producer is getting about $1.

"There is too much of a spread between our prices and the consumer costs," he said.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market, blitzed the previous session by profit taking in blue-chips, opened Tuesday on a mixed note, trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which lost 20.88 points Tuesday, was off 0.63 to 834.09 shortly after the opening Tuesday's loss was the worst in the Dow since it fell 22.68 points on Nov. 18, 1974. Declines led advances, 191 to 112, among the 435 issues crossing the tape.

Turnover—amounted to around 520,000 shares. Most analysts said they expected some profit taking to continue. They said Tuesday's sales were expected because the Dow average had soared 53 points in the previous four sessions. Most said this was too much, too soon, in active trading.

One analyst said the market has anticipated an economic recovery this year and many investors were encouraged.

President Ford, at his news conference Tuesday night, said the recession had reached bottom.

Also hearing was the statement by Arthur F. Burns, chair man of the Federal Reserve Board, although the recession is painful, it is paving the way for an upturn by correcting certain economic maladjustments.

 CHICAGO — Idaho potato futures closed unchanged Tuesday.

The final quote on the May delivery was 6.90 per cwt. — lowest since March 1974. The price was recorded in the May delivery with some 4,500 positions open at that delivery at the start of trading.

The Maine cash market was a shade higher, at 2.40-2.75 per cwt.

Other commodities wound up the day mixed to lower. Live cattle futures suffered marked declines in heavy trading, with steady live and dressed markets falling to steady downside tilt. Final prices exerted heavy pressure.

Feeder prices fell in lighter trading after reaching season highs Monday.

Despite strong cash markets, pork bellies fell to limit losses in all but May and March on a trade of 6,113 contracts. Fresh cuts were higher and so were live hogs.

The world sugar market edged down after a featureless day of 4,000 trades. Contracts were 24 points steady at 30 cents over July.

The outlook for Friday, partly sunny.
Halley, Camas Prairie, lower Wood River Valley:
Cloudy with widely scattered showers today through Thursday. Decreasing clouds Thursday evening. Slow warming both days. Gusty afternoon winds. Highs in the mid 40s both days. Lows tonight 25 to 30.

The outlook for Friday, partly sunny.
Synopsis:
The clearing and drying trend has been delayed another 24 hours. The large low pressure center in the Intermountain region is now stationary over Wyoming. With clouds and showers rotating around the center, bringing cool wet weather to most of the Intermountain states of Idaho, Montana, Utah and Wyoming.

It would take only a small eastward movement of the low to make a vast improvement in Idaho's weather. The cold mass causing most of the showers terminates just west of Idaho's western most borders, where considerable sunshine occurs during the day.

Perhaps a little improvement will creep into the Magic Valley Thursday afternoon.
The extended outlook for Friday through Sunday calls for a brief drying warming trend.

Field work advances rapidly

BOISE (UPI)—Field work and planting operations made rapid headway in most areas of the state last week, the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today.
Favorable weather conditions prevailed through most of the week and planting operations were in full swing throughout the lower elevations in the state. Soil moisture supplies continued above normal, making unnecessary any irrigation so far.

Spring work is most advanced in the southwestern and southern areas of the state with crops making good development. But for the state as a whole spring planting is about two to three weeks behind usual.
Progress of winter wheat remained slow but plants are beginning to make more top growth as temperatures rise. Fruit trees are beginning to bud and, in some areas, to blossom.

Freemore damage to fruit has been very minor to date. Seed potato movement remains active.
Approximately 30 per cent of the spring wheat was planted by week's end. That compares with 80 per cent for the same week last year. About 25 per cent of spring barley was in the ground, compared with 75 per cent last year.
Sugar beets were 50 per cent planted whereas last year by the same date 90 per cent were in the ground. Mixed grains and oats were 45 per cent and 30 per cent planted, respectively, compared with 80 and 70 per cent the previous year.
Potato planting made good headway in the southwest and some southeastern areas but by week's end only about 10

Compromise supports called economical

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The proposed compromise increase in grain supports wanted by President Ford rejected last week probably wouldn't have cost taxpayers anything in the long run, Agriculture Department analysts say.

The proposal, which some administration officials wanted Ford to authorize as a substitute for a farm bill he vetoed last Thursday, would have raised the 1975 wheat support loan rate from the present $1.37 a bushel to $2.

The corn support would have gone from the present $1.10 a bushel to $1.50.
If this had been done, analysts estimate, net government spending on 1975 crop loans for grains would have reached about $192 million. This is $87 million more than the $105 million loan agreed to in the 1974-75 farm bill on grounds the legislation would force a needless increase in the federal deficit.

Agriculture Department analysis said today in response to questions that the extra $87 million in spending would have increased the federal deficit in the 1975 fiscal year. But this probably would not have cost the government anything in the long run because the money laid out in crop support loans almost certainly would have been fully repaid in the following fiscal year, an economist said.

Agriculture experts have estimated, for example, that the season average market price for the 1975 wheat crop will be $3.15 a bushel. A farmer who used a bushel of wheat as collateral for a $2 support loan, experts agreed, would be certain to repay the loan and redeem the grain for sale at a higher price on the open market.
For corn, the 1975 season average market price to farmers has been estimated at $2.25. Farmers who took out corn support loans at $1.50 also would repay them in order to redeem the grain for sale, a specialist said.

In both cases, farmers who used the support loan program would employ it only as a temporary source of financing to enable them to delay marketing until after the harvest season.
Under the bill Ford vetoed, the 1975 wheat support loan rate would have risen to $2.50 a bushel and the corn loan to $1.87. The bill would have raised the companion "target" prices which serve to trigger supplemental direct income subsidy payments to growers if market prices dip below the targets.

The House is expected to vote on an attempt to override Ford's veto next week. Rep. Carl Albert, D-Wis., who voted against the farm bill earlier, said he may reverse his stand and vote to override the veto, but GOP farm allies said odds were strongly against an override.

Idaho fertilizer rules changes set

BOISE (UPI)—Revisions in the state's commercial fertilizer regulations become effective May 20, the Department of Agriculture reported today.
Elmer Russell, administrator of the plant industries division, said no objections to the proposed changes were voiced when a hearing was conducted April 15.

Russell said the revisions were designed to update regulations as they applied to bulk blends, fixing the responsibility for material unloaded from a bulk car or truck and resold as is.
When a product is removed from its original container - whether it is a bulk car or truck or even a bag - the manufacturer can no longer be held responsible for the contents, Russell said. "The new regulation fixes the responsibility with the party who resells the product."
He said the previous allowable deviations from "guarantee" - the amount of plant nutrients assured in a fertilizer mix - were too rigid to be applied to bulk blends. He said the new regulations will permit a more realistic evaluation of bulk blend fertilizers.

Russell said such customer-mixed formulas shall be deemed to be the responsibility of the overall index value is below 97 percent of the guaranteed analysis.

Slaughter decreases

(Courtesy Sinclair & Co.)
WASHINGTON (PEN)—There were 993 million pounds live weight of poultry inspected for slaughter by the Agriculture Department during March, 1975, USDA reported today.
This is six per cent less than March, 1974, but nine per cent above February, 1975.
Young chickens inspected totaled 83 million pounds, five per cent below March, 1974, but eight per cent more than last month. Mature chickens inspected totaled 69.4 million pounds, 15 per cent less than last year but up 11 per cent from February 1975. Turkeys inspected at 68.8 million pounds were down eight per cent from a year ago but up 15 per cent from last month. Duck inspections at 4.1 million pounds were up 16 per cent from March, 1974, and 30 per cent from the previous month.

Most Idaho farm prices show rise

BOISE (UPI)—Prices received by Idaho farmers and ranchers generally rose during the month ended April 15, the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today.
Exceptions were declines recorded for dry beans, milk sold to plants, egg prices and cow replacements, which remained the same level as the previous month.

Although most commodities rose in price from the previous month, they still generally were below the levels for the same period a year ago. Commodities not reflecting this price relationship were barley, oats, mixed grain, lamb and hog.
Potato prices advanced during the month but remained much below April 1974. Beef cattle prices were up from last month with steer and heifer prices showing the greatest change.

Prices paid by Idaho farmers and ranchers for feed were down for cottonseed meal and the dairy feeds. But prices rose during the month for the chicken feeds and remained the same for bran, middlings and soybean meal.

Bowyer signs with CSI

Dennis Bowyer, leader scoring-rebounder of the state A-1 runner-up Twin Falls basketball team, has signed a letter of intent with College of Southern Idaho, announces Boyd Grant, head basketball coach.

Bowyer, a 6-6 leaper, is the second first-team all-state A-1 tournament team member to sign with the Eagles. He joined 6-6 Kim Coets of Moscow.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowyer, Twin Falls, Dennis was the fourth leading scorer in the Southern Idaho Conference with 341 points and a 17.0 average this past season for Coach Ron Walston. He also was second in rebounding with 284 lakdown over the 20 game season.

Bowyer shot .456 per cent from the free and .691 from the foul line in leading the Bruins to the district championship in a come-from-behind effort against Burley. Twin Falls finally was stopped in the finals by three points by the undefeated Capital Eagles.

As a junior, Bowyer, who was not a starter but played almost equal time with the forwards and center of the 1974 state championship team, was 10th in rebounding with 170 and average 9.3 points per game.

"We're very happy Dennis has chosen to play basketball with us," he said Coach Grant. "We are extremely pleased that CSI now is getting some of the top athletes in the state to come here."

The coach said he has no other signees to report as yet but notes his recruiting efforts are continuing.

The No. 1 requirement at this time is a big center, he added.

Robinson imposes first fine

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Frank Robinson meted out his first fine since becoming the Cleveland Indians manager and outfielder Charlie Spikes was the player who will have to come up with the money.

Spikes was reportedly fined $100 after a Sunday game against Baltimore because he missed his cutoff man, an error Robinson had cautioned him about repeatedly.

Robinson, whose fines start at $100, warned Spikes about missing the cutoff man from his right field position during a game against Boston last week. So when Spikes did it again, he became the first Indian to be hit in the pocketbook this season.

Spikes has been benched since the start of the series here with the Red Sox, but Robinson points out it is not due to the fine. He said Spikes was out of the lineup reportedly because of a hitting slump which has afflicted the outfielder's overall play.

Spikes' current batting average is .142 with no homers and only three RBIs. Last year he ended the season with a batting average of .271.

Robinson has been adamant when it comes to debriefing his players of mistakes they consistently make. He has made statements to the effect that practice would start three hours earlier if that's what it takes to clean up play.

"There is no excuse for not hustling or not executing," he said.

Charlie has been missing the cutoff man repeatedly, Robinson added. "At bat, I think he's pressing but the one part of the game there is no excuse for it is not thinking. We are going to correct it."

Jets seem confident of keeping Namath in fold

NEW YORK (UPI) — "We want Joe back," said Phil Iselin, president of the New York Jets Tuesday, "and we have made him a very substantial offer. If we have yet heard from Jimmy Walsh (Namath's attorney) but I hope that Joe will accept."

Iselin said he had made the offer last week and while refusing to give exact figures, admitted that it was in the $1 million range for three years, but that the payment of the million dollars could be spread over whatever period of years Namath and his attorney might desire.

In the past, the negotiations between the Jets and Namath have come down to a final face-to-face concentration between Iselin and the veteran quarterback. Iselin admitted he had not seen, nor spoken to, Joe since the Super Bowl in January.

"I think we have made an extremely fair offer to Joe. He began in New York. He belongs in New York. I think I hope that he will play in New York," Iselin said, but declined to say flatly that the offer he has made is the final offer.

Iselin was aware of the World Football League reported offer of $4 million to Namath and that a check for $300,000 supposedly is waiting for the man who made football history by leading the jets to their Super Bowl victory over the Baltimore Colts in 1969.

Iselin obviously did not want to become involved in a personal battle with Chris Hemminger, the new head of the WFL. Phil said only that "our offer to Joe is a firm one and I am waiting to hear from either Joe or his attorney."

Iselin has been waiting for a week now, since Namath became a free agent, and seems content to await the next move on the part of Broadway Joe, and seems confident that Joe will remain a New York Jet.

In Honolulu, Hemminger said that "Namath is requested and we have granted him an extension until 'May 14' to make up his mind about joining the WFL."

"We are in contact with him and have had a number of sessions and are proceeding in accord with prudent business and legal methods," Hemminger said.

Hemminger said he believed the purpose of the delay is for Namath to review the legal documents and financial documentation that backs up our offer. We are optimistic and have always been confident Joe was going with the WFL. There's no reason to feel differently now."

He said the final WFL offer remains the same—$500,000 down, $500,000 for each of the first three years, and $100,000 a year for the next 20 years.

Lawyer says Rozelle rule costs his client 2 possible offers

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — The agent for one-time New York Jet Mike Taylor, testified in federal court Tuesday two National Football League teams dropped negotiations for his client when they were told the linebacker had played out his option and was a free agent.

Fred Steinhart, a Detroit lawyer, said Buffalo Bills Coach Lou Saban and Detroit Lions' General Manager Russ Thomas were interested in signing Taylor, an All-America choice at Michigan in 1971.

However, Steinhart said Saban and Thomas never called back after they were told he had played out his option with the Jets before signing with the Detroit Wheels of the World Football League. The Wheels folded last fall.

"Teams don't want to take the risk of signing him because no one knows what the compensation for the Jets will be," Steinhart said. "It may be substantial."

Steinhart, who has represented 25 football players in the past five years, was one of the final witnesses for the plaintiffs in an antitrust suit brought by 16 present or former NFL players. The players are challenging the "Rozelle rule" which they contend is "monopolistic" and "restricts a player's mobility."

Under the rule, if an athlete plays out his option and sues with another team, the club losing the player must be compensated. NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle is empowered to determine the compensation.

Steinhart said he negotiated a $30,000 one-year contract for Taylor with the Jets in 1972. Taylor also received a $10,000 signing bonus and an added incentive of $2,500 if he made the All-NFL Rookie team, which he did.

The agent said he was unable to negotiate a satisfactory contract for Taylor for the 1973 season and Taylor played out his option with New York that year. Taylor became a free agent May 1, 1974, and signed a 1974 contract with the Detroit Wheels. Taylor played for the WFL club until it folded in midseason of its first year.

Dionne angles for big pact

DETROIT (UPI) — Marcel Dionne has revealed he wants to find out what other National Hockey League clubs think about his stunning 1974-75 season with the Detroit Red Wings.

The Red Wings announced Tuesday they have had preliminary contract talks with Dionne, who becomes a free agent June 1, and also confirmed rumors that he has sought talks with other clubs.

Dionne and his lawyers told Red Wings management last week that they would like to find out what other NHL clubs consider Dionne's value to be before they enter final negotiations with Detroit.

In a statement Tuesday, Coach Alex Delvecchio said: "We are anxious to complete the negotiations and see no reason why Marcel should wait until June 1 to make these inquiries. We have given him permission to feel out other clubs at this time."

Delvecchio said there has been no suggestion that Dionne would sign with another club.

"It is our belief and hope that we will be able to come to an agreement on a contract that will be satisfactory to Marcel," Delvecchio said.

Oriole owner in no rush to sell club

sports Warriors rip Bulls to square series

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Jerold C. Hofberger, board chairman of the Baltimore Orioles, signaled Tuesday that despite progress in his negotiations to sell the team to a group headed by Bill Veeck, he is not bound and determined to transfer ownership to anyone this season.

"I'm not committed to selling anything to anyone," said Hofberger, who put the Orioles up for sale last October because of his disappointment with their attendance figures.

Hofberger, whose family-owned brewing firm has a controlling interest in the ball club, said that "many points" had been cleared up in his long negotiations with Veeck, whose ownership offered $12 million for the team in November.

"But even if we had all the points negotiated, and we don't, it would be impossible-to my mind at least—to have a transfer of ownership before the end of the season. I think it would be the end of the season or after the end of the season," Hofberger said.

He cited tax rulings and approvals from the Securities and Exchange Commission and the American League as complicating factors that would delay a final sale even if he reached agreement with Veeck on all terms.

"And I'm not committed to selling the team to Veeck," he added. "He can walk away from the deal and I can walk away."

Hofberger, however, then dismissed the $12.6 million offer that former General Motors President Edward N. Cole had made through the office of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

"That communication was not to me but to the franchise committee of the major leagues. I have no reason to believe it was anything more than a communication," the Hofberger said. He declined comment on the possibility that the Cole-figure could trigger renewed threats of lawsuits by stockholders who have argued they want the team sold to the highest bidder.

Hofberger told a meeting of Oriole stockholders earlier this year that at least one out-of-town stockholder had threatened legal action if the club was sold for anything less than the highest bid.

The board chairman has made it clear he would prefer to see the club stay in Baltimore but has refused to rule out a sale to other interests.

Veeck has said he would keep the team in Baltimore for at least the time being. Cole's group would move the team to Washington.

All interested persons are invited to attend.

Warriors rip Bulls to square series

OAKLAND (UPI) — Rick Barry scored 20 of his 36 points over the final three periods and the Golden State Warriors overcame a 19-point deficit to stun the Chicago Bulls 111-100 and square their NBA Western Conference championship series Tuesday night.

The best-of-seven series stands at 2-2 with the fifth game being here Thursday night.

The game started as if the Bulls were going to blow the Warriors out. Jerry Sloan and Bob Love each scored 11 points as Chicago boiled to a 35-18 lead after one quarter and increased it to 39-20 in the first minute of the second period.

Golden State then began finding the range and got a big boost off the bench from Jeff Mullins. The Warriors outscored Chicago 30-13 the rest of the quarter to pull within 52-50 at the half.

Mullins scored eight of his 12 points in the period and the Warriors connected on 60 percent of their shots to storm back into contention.

Barry erupted for 14 points in the third period but the Bulls retained their two point edge, 84-82, entering the frantic final quarter.

The Warriors took the lead for good three minutes into the period when reserve forward Derek Dickey hit a layup for a 90-88 lead. The inspired play of center Nate Thurmond kept the Bulls within striking range down the stretch but Dickey's basket earned an eight point lead, with 2:30 left as the Warriors maintained their momentum.

Love, who paced the Bulls with 27 points, hit a driving jumper to cut the lead to 107-104 with 1:02 to go, but Charles Johnson gave the Warriors breathing room with a long jumper.

Sloan scored 22 points and Curt Walker added 21 for Chicago, which now has a 2-20 playoff record on the road. Dickey added 14 points for the Warriors and Cliff Ray topped all the rebounders with 18.

Seventh horse added to Preakness field

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Golden Chance Farm's Mastek Derby, fourth in the Kentucky Derby, Tuesday, became the seventh colt to join the lineup of expected starters in the 100th running of the Preakness Stakes May 17 at Pimlico.

Master Derby's trainer, W.E. "Smiley" Adams, informed Pimlico General Manager Chick Lang that he plans to ship the son of Dust Commander from Louisville by van Thursday evening and is expected to arrive at Pimlico Friday morning.

Master Derby had won five straight races, including the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland and the Louisiana Derby at New Orleans, before finishing fourth in the Kentucky Derby. However, the colt's owner will have to pay a $10,000 supplementary fee since he was not nominated for the Preakness.

Adams said he was impressed with Master Derby showing in the Derby and wanted to give him another chance against the best 3-year-olds in training.

The other six probabilities for the Preakness are Derby winner "Fashion" Pleasure, Avatar, Diabolo, Sing, Bolt Chapeau and Just the Time. The Preakness now has the first four finishers in the Kentucky Derby.

W.A. Levin advised Pimlico Racing Secretary Larry Abbandi Tuesday that he was considering making Native Guest a supplementary entry.

Native Guest won the Eldorado Handicap at Hollywood Park last Saturday for his fourth straight victory.

The list is expected to grow before the end of the week. Other possibilities are Dancing Champ, Winter Fox, Con Man, North of the Law, and Huggles Ferry.

English Pleasure and his two closest rivals in the Derby, Avatar and Diabolo, checked in at Pimlico Monday after arriving on the same plane.

Vandals name captains

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Fullback J. C. Chadband and safety Bill Traylor will serve as co-captains of next fall's football team at the University of Idaho.

Coach Ed Troxel said he felt the team made an excellent selection of captains. He said both men already have demonstrated their leadership ability and have contributed vitally to squad morale.

"I look for them to lead the Vandals to a much improved season and record in the war of 1975 in Vandalville," Troxel said.

Horton leads hitters

NEW YORK (UPI) — Willie Horton, who gave up his regular outfield position to become the Detroit Tigers' designated hitter this season, has found success in his new role.

Through last Monday's games, Horton's six homers and 17 RBIs lead all DH's and his 19 hits tie him with California's Tommy Harper for the league lead. His six roundtrippers also lead the entire league.

Boston's Jim Rice, in his first full major league season, leads the designated hitters in average for the second straight week at .288. Horton is second at .268.

Last year's top DH, Tommy Davis of the Baltimore Orioles, is fourth at .233.

Foyt shows speed in first practice

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — A.J. Foyt, considered by many to be the top choice for a record fourth Indianapolis "500" crown this year, made his 1975 debut at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Tuesday and quickly established himself among the speed leaders.

For two other drivers, Tuesday's race was a "trouble" race. Steve Krisloff was injured when his car hit the wall. Rookie Chuck Gurney was somewhat more fortunate. He escaped injury when his machine hung on the wall.

Foyt, Houston, Tex., was late in arriving here because of his daughter's illness. But he wasted no time, turning in a top speed of 183.936 miles per hour to join the early speed leaders in practice for the May 25 race.

Foyt sat on the pole here last year and won the California "500" earlier this year.

Former winner Gordon Johncock, Phoenix, Ariz., continued to be the top speed leader. He turned a 190.880 lap Tuesday—the fastest anyone has gone in practice this month. Another former champ, Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., was next with a top speed of 187.852.

All-star game sold out

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Brewers announced Tuesday it took only one day for all available reserved seats for the All-Star game later this year to be spoken for.

More than 15,000 ticket orders were received by the Brewers with a postmark of May 5 on them and the American League team said all orders postmarked after that date will be returned.

The club also said orders will be processed within the next few weeks and tickets mailed out.

Olsen, Stowe sign

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Phil Olsen, Los Angeles Rams' reserve defensive end, agreed to terms with Denver Tuesday and wide receiver Otto Stowe came to the Rams from the Broncos in a transaction involving two free agents.

The Rams originally announced it was a trade but were pulled up short by the National Football League office, which pointed out neither the Rams nor the Broncos could claim the athletes the other since they had played out their options.

Sabres nip Canadiens

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Rene Robert of the "French Connection" line slammed in a pass from the facemask circle at 5:56 of overtime Tuesday night to give the Buffalo Sabres a 3-4 victory over the Montreal Canadiens in their Stanley Cup semifinal series.

The victory enabled the Sabres to take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series, which moves back to Montreal Thursday night.

De Oliveira takes third shot at title

MONTE CARLO (UPI) — Brazil's Miguel de Oliveira will make his third attempt to win the World Boxing Council version of the world junior middleweight title when he meets Jose Duran of Spain Wednesday night.

On the same card, Britain's Kevin Finnegan will defend his European middleweight title against Frenchman Gracien Tonna.

The world junior middleweight title is vacant following the retirement of Japan's Koichi Wajima and de Oliveira will be the favorite to fill it. The Brazilian drew and lost on points to Wajima in Japan last year whereas it will be Duran's first crack at the title.

"The two have not met before and will bring contrasting styles into the ring. De Oliveira is a hard-hitting fighter who likes to attack and who has decked nine of his last 12 opponents. Duran is a technician who relies on his counterpunching and fast footwork and has an 11-1-1 record over the past two years. De Oliveira arrived in Monaco Sunday after completing his training in Genoa.

"I have never even seen Duran fight on film but I don't make any difference. I am stronger and I know I can beat him," said de Oliveira.

"I won't predict a round for the knockout but I am sure the fight will not go the full distance. I am even fitter than I was against Wajima and I feel stronger than ever. I thought I beat Wajima so I should have the title already but this time I will make no mistakes," de Oliveira said.

Duran remained more cautious and says little.

"I hear he has a hard punch but I am fast enough to keep out of trouble and I have knocked out more than 30 of my opponents already. He will be no problem," said Duran.

TF, Jerome favored in district meets

Twin Falls and Jerome look like the big favorites to repeat in the district A-2 track and field meets Friday evening at Brant Stadium.

Action will open with class A-2 preliminary at 7 p.m. and field finals at 4 p.m. A-1 field finals and preliminaries, if needed, will begin at 5 p.m. The running events, alternating divisions, will start at 6:30 p.m. In case of poor weather, Coach Jerry Kleinkopf, Twin Falls, said an effort to "hurry up" the start of the finals will be made.

Jerome returns for defending champions while Buhl has three and Gooding one in the A-2 division. Sophomore Chris Bell will be back in the 100-yard dash for Buhl with Junior Mark Tappen the defending champion in the mile and two-mile. Last week Tappen went in the Buhl medley as the Indians showed better than expected against the Tigers in the SCIC finals.

Byron Lyons will defend his intermediate hurdles and triple jump titles for Jerome while Tom Cochran is back in the discus and Norm Cochran in the shot. Sophomore Jim Butler of Gooding returns for a possible second high jump crown.

On the A-1 side, Twin Falls has four defending champions. Burley has one man, Bob Lynes, who won the triple and long jumps as a junior but isn't out of track this spring.

Junior Randy Barbour is back in the half mile with junior Dick Murray in the two-mile. Gary Miller defends the pole vault while Dennis Bowyer faces a rough task against Burley's Brent Beatty in a quest for two high jump crowns.

With Twin Falls an overwhelming favorite in the A-1 event, Coach Jerry Kleinkopf is more worried about distance man Rick Murray right now. Murray had to give up running for two weeks with a knee problem and the weather hasn't helped him get back into any kind of conditioning. Murray's points would be critical in Twin Falls' run for a state championship in another week.

For the most part the events on both sides have favorites. The A-2 questionmarks will come in the mile and two-mile and what Tappen does. He looked out of condition in the Cross State finals last Tuesday but came back with two fine efforts in the SCIC on Friday.

It also will depend on what Hank Savage puts him. About the only one that feels however is Jerome. Coach Karl Kleinkopf's distance corps will blitz the

Steelhead run still down but egg production up

One of the recurring truths of mother nature's plan for reproduction is the leaner the year, the better the average crop.

That is holding true on the steelhead run currently being harvested by the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

C. R. "Bob" Quidor, Niagara Springs hatchery superintendent, reports that while the run is off over 1,000 adults from last year, the females ratio has risen to 71 per cent. In addition, the average egg lake from each female is up about 1,600 from previous years.

Still the run is far from healthy. As of Tuesday the department had taken 596 adults at the Pahlsmeyer weir compared with 1,710 at this time last year. Some 425 of those are female — about 12 to 13 per cent over the usual average.

So far the department has spawned 286 females for 1,604,014 eggs. Should another 150 to 175 females show up, although it is getting late now, the department still may harvest the two-million plus eggs it requires.

On the other end of the cycle, the department has completed the transfer of smolts to the Pahlsmeyer to start their trek back to the ocean. This amounted to 1,339,800 smolts or 166,639 eyed eggs to Niagara for the start of the new rearing season.

Miami tries to bolster club

MIAMI (UPI) — Coach Don Shula made one move to shore up the loss of the Miami Dolphins' big "three" to the World Football League.

He acquired running back Donny Anderson from the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday. It cost him wide receiver Martin Briscoe, who wanted to be traded anyway. Briscoe, entering his eighth pro season, was Miami's leading pass receiver in 1973. He was unhappy at being put out of action on the injured reserve list last year after pulling a muscle early in the season.

At the same time, the Dolphins came to terms with tight end James McFarland, who had played out his option with the Cardinals, and sent reserve running back Hubert Ginn to St. Louis.

"The swap of the four veteran National Football League players was a package deal which involved both a trade and compensation to the Cardinals under the "Rozelle rule" for McFarland, who had become a free agent.

Shula says he views the 6-foot-2 Anderson as a replacement for Jim Knick, who has departed along with fullback Larry Csonka and wide receiver Paul Warfield to the WFL in the publicized $3.5 million package deal.

"Our main interest in Anderson is as a pass receiver coming out of the backfield," Shula said. "We feel that he can play either halfback or fullback in passing situations."

Kick's forte as a Dolphin was catching passes in crucial third down situations. He also was an accomplished blocker which Anderson may not be, but Anderson will be a backup punter to Miami's Larry People, having averaged 39.6 yards with 307 punts during eight of his nine NFL years.

The 6-3, 225-pound McFarland, who has played five years behind the Cardinals' Jackie Smith, is being signed as insurance for the Dolphins' Jim Mandich and aging Marv Fleming. Shula said Andre Tillman has not recovered sufficiently from a knee injury suffered in his rookie season last year to be counted on yet.

McFarland may also be tried at wide receiver. "Because he has good speed for a big man," Shula said. With the loss of Briscoe and Warfield, the Dolphins are a little thinner on the flanks than Shula would like to be. He has the proven veteran Howard Twilley and second-year man Nat Moore, coming off a knee operation, returning, backed up by plintized Mel Baker and rookie Freddie Solomon.

Most Dolphins fans consider it a fair deal and Csonka irreplaceable. Many judged them the best in the league at their positions, a view expressed by many.

Jerome golfers win conference crown

BUHL — The Jerome Tigers, headed by medalist Morgan and his 85, won the South-Central Idaho Conference golf championship during gale winds Tuesday afternoon.

Playing the Clear Lakes course, Jerome had a 366 to 101 Buhl. It was two strokes. They were followed by Filer at 375.

NBA playoff game tonight, each grimly aware that the Washington Bullets and the Boston Celtics, faced into their psychological upper hand in Mountain Home 399 and Gooding 405.

The weather conditions were the dominant factor of the day, evidenced by one luckless Mountain Home golfer who ran into hook problems on the No. 8 river hole. He posted 18 and 11 for his two trips.

One Buhl man, on his home course, was 11 and 9 on the same hole.

All but Mountain Home will compete for the district class B championship over Twin Falls municipal starting at 10 a.m. Friday.

Detroit's Coleman stops Brewers 4-2 on one hitter

DETROIT (UPI) — Joe Coleman pitched a one-hitter while Ron Lezcano batted in two runs and scored one Tuesday night to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 4-2 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

The only hit given up by the forkballing right-hander was a two-run home run in the first inning by George Scott. And Scott might not have even batted—had shortstop Tom Verzyr held a potential double play cleanly. Robin Youn was hit by a pitch with one out then forced at second on Silvio Lezcano's grounder to Verzyr.

12,000 Viets processed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon said Tuesday 11,851 of the estimated 120,000 refugees who fled Indochina have been processed at three relocation centers and sent on to their new homes.

Most of them have relatives in the United States who are helping them.

The Pentagon said another 15,000 refugees are at the three relocation centers in California, Arkansas and Florida. The rest are being processed at Pacific staging areas or are en route to the U.S. mainland.

Bellevue council approves water pipe purchase

BELLEVUE — The Bellevue City Council voted last night to buy 2,500 feet of eight-inch plastic pipe to complete a trunk line water system through town.

The water pressure and service to residents of Bellevue has been criticized many times before. The present pipeline — constructed many years ago — is not large enough to carry the full head of free running water the city is allowed.

A month ago the city bought 8,000 feet of the same kind of eight-inch plastic pipe for $18,000 as a start on the worsening problem. The additional 2,500 feet which will cost about $6,000 — will allow the city to extend the main trunk line to the north as well as to the south part of town.

In a related matter, the council voted to appropriate three of the four revenue sharing payments to the city's water department. Each payment will be about $200.

The remaining payment was voted into the streets department.

City Clerk Anna Faye O'Donnell swore in incumbent alderman Joe Bergin and Ralph Griffin and newly elected aldermen Glenn Steima and Jim Burk. He-lected Mayor L. T. (Pete) Johnson was also sworn into office.

Mayor Johnson appointed the aldermen to various city departments. Bergin, Steima and Griffin will serve on the water department.

Duke Martin and George McKay and Burk will serve on the streets department. Bergin will again serve on the library board.

Mrs. O'Donnell read for the council a recently passed act of the state legislature which gives Bellevue $1,132 for street maintenance.

In other action, the council voted to repair a 1971 patrol car used by the city marshal. Marshal Bud Taylor said the transmission may need to be repaired.

Taylor asked for a $100 a month raise but was rebuffed by Mayor Johnson who said employe pay raises would be considered in a separate meeting.

The city hired Robert Buchanan as the city water and sewer maintenance man from a list of six applicants.

A letter was read from the Federal Communications Commission stating that a recent application to extend Sawtooth Cable Vision into Bellevue contains some inconsistencies.

Bank tellers 'expensive'

CHICAGO (UPI) — Tellers in the United States lose an average of $140 a piece annually — a total of $175 million, according to a survey by the Bank Administration Institute.

The survey covered the 1973 calendar year and showed bogus checks accounted for the heaviest dollar loss, $45 million. The next highest loss was $38 million attributed to human errors in various processing departments. Teller differences were third, at $29 million.

The study reported minimal bank losses in the area of counterfeit securities and currency.

TF council delays action on zone applications

TWIN FALLS — Two of three items considered in public hearings before the Twin Falls City Council Monday night were delayed for later action.

The third, a request for an import car repair shop in a medium density residential zone, brought no action from the council.

Mayor Winston Jones told the applicant, Diane C. Eiminger, his property at 226 Borah Ave. W. can be used for this purpose under existing zoning regulations.

The question, however, is whether a restrictive covenant on the subdivision at the time it was developed 18 years ago will prevent Lampe from going ahead with his plans.

Mayor Jones explained this is a civic matter and if other residents wish to stop the plan they would have to take court action.

Other items included application of David Perkins and Jack Pease for zoning variance on set-back requirements on property at 1153 and 1151 Ninth Ave. E.

Planning and zoning commission members took no action on the variance pending research on the two buildings located there. It was reported the older home was to have been removed when the newer one was finished several years ago, but instead the property was sold with both homes and in attempting to remodel the older one, the new owner has found he cannot meet setback requirements.

The council delayed action pending further information.

Price Rentals Inc. asked for a zoning variance for reduction of off-street parking requirements on property at the corner of Falls Avenue East and Blue Lakes Boulevard North. The request also received a delay in action.

The firm has submitted two proposals and action was delayed until a single plan is ready.

The council opened bids for sale of a house to be moved from city owned property behind city hall. Seven bids were received, with the house going to the high bidder, Glenn East, Twin Falls, for $11,510.

Bids ranged generally in the $1,000 range with the lowest being $300. The house is to be moved by July.

The council voted to construct three tennis courts with non-colored concrete and accepted the low bid from Ulman Construction Co. in the amount of $21,628. Bids were opened last week in alternates of two or three courts of regular or colored concrete.

Councilman Leon Smith said the parks and recreation commission has contacted the Tennis Club and been advised players would rather have an additional court than have the colored concrete.

Other bids were submitted by Idaho Construction, Arrington Construction, J. A. Clawson and Creative Builders.

A call for bids was issued for

May 30 for purchase of a new pickup truck and a tractor for the city-county airport.

Resolutions and other papers required for the city's new signing program were authorized by the council. The program, involving 107 new stop signs and 286 signs prohibiting parking at intersections, is a federally funded program of about $16,000. Miller told the council.

The council also approved an agreement for flood insurance in the city and agreed to provide out-of-city sewer service to two homes located northwest of the city.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, MAY 8, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to continue to put in action the plans you decided upon yesterday, and to add some new ideas. The hectic pace slackens tonight so you can get a good rest.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are full of ambition today as to how to improve your position in life and become more successful. Improve health.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Keep promises. Use more up-to-date methods for best results. Reach better understanding with loved one. 21) Home is a fine place for what is most important for you to do. Rid self of whatever has been causing friction. Have fun.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Contact bigwigs and executives and gain their backing for your projects. Pay bills and improve credit. Increase income.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have to think big. Don't permit others to deter your progress.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You may have to give up old outlets and replace with the new for real progress now. Make relationship with mate more ideal.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Go over with allies some particular project to iron out kinks. Listen to what others say first and then quickly express your views.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan your time carefully and you can handle duties ahead with efficiency. Try to cooperate more with co-workers.

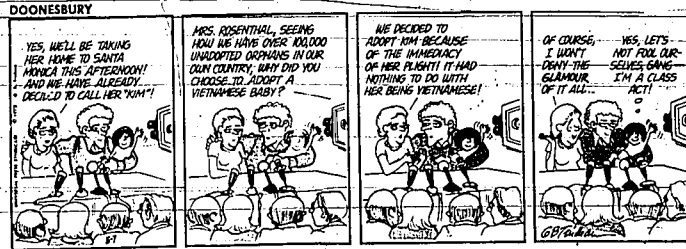

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) By joining with those you really appreciate, you can make this a fine day and p.m. You make business progress via social request.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Home is a fine place for whatever is most important for you to do. Rid self of whatever has been causing friction. Have fun.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Meet partners in a.m. to iron out any wrinkles in your joint projects. Then get busy on work needed. Social chat in p.m.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You now know how to handle monetary affairs in a most intelligent way and should do so without further ado. Have workable budget.

"YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY..." he or she will be a gift child with extraordinary vision and imagination. But will be one of those brilliant starters who do not finish anything unless you as parents teach early to persevere. Give a fine education that will help this progeny put ideas to work intelligently. Ideal chat for whatever has to do with building, selling, the arts, etc. "The Stars Impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

what's what

L.M. Boyd

An advertising photographer who mostly takes pictures of beautiful women says the pantsuit gets its largest support from middle-aged ladies—not from young girls. Mature women are not so inclined to show off their legs, that's why, he says.

THE MEDICAL STUDENTS who plan to become surgeons tend to be the most stubborn, impatient and irritable of all medical students. Or so some scholars at the University of Illinois said after they sprang personality tests on a sizable batch of future doctors.

WRESTLERS. Don't suppose anybody pays attention to it, but the law in Los Angeles prohibits a wrestler from making faces during a match.

ITEM 4615A in our Love and War man's file on "Pretty Women" is a quotation from J. B. Priestley: "She was not pretty, but she might have been handsome, if somebody had kept telling her she was pretty."

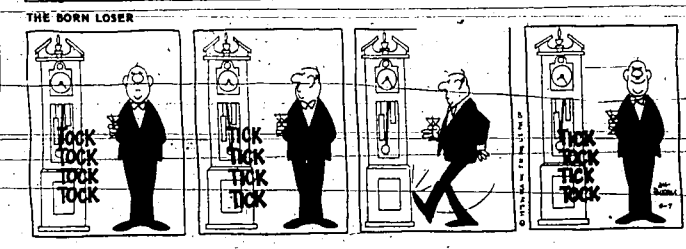

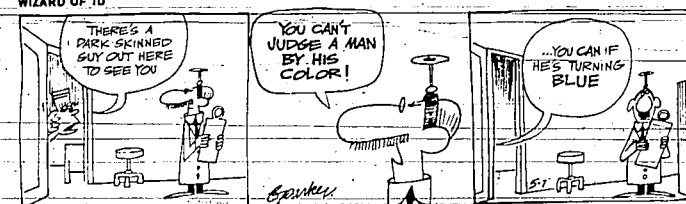

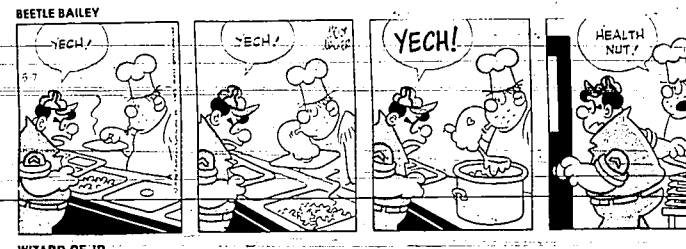

CLASP your hands directly in front of your face. Your right thumb, not your left thumb is the closer to your chin, no? Such is how the enormous majority clasps the hands; not just the enormous majority of right-handers, but of left-handers, too.

Q. HOW LONG does it take a chicken-plucking machine to remove all the feathers of the chicken?
A. About 14 seconds, I'm told.

THE HARD FACTS
The gentlemen of Germany 600 years ago trimmed their clothing with hundreds of tiny bells... THERE ARE 18 kinds of fishes worldwide that are totally blind... WHO WAS IT that reported a shipload of yoyos sank in Manila Bay, can be came back up 38 times?... COMPOSER Johannes Brahms had a snow white beard and a coal black mustache... NAME of that dog called the "Borzo" is a Russian word for "swift."

EXAMINE an ostrich feather, if one comes to hand. Its vanes are of equal length on both sides of the quill—if that's a characteristic of any other bird's feathers, I don't know what bird—at any rate, because of this, the ancient Egyptians used the ostrich feather as a symbol of justice about the same way we use the blindfolded lady with the scales.
