CIA, Mafia tied in death plot

WASHINGTON — The Rockefeller commission has learned of documents supporting the charge that the Central Intelligence Agency conspired with the Mafia in a plot in 1961 to kill Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, authoritative sources reported Monday.

According to these sources, a top former official of the Department of Justice during the Nixon administration has told the commission in secret testimony that Justice Department files contain Federal Bureau of Investigation memoranda that confirm the C.I.A. contacted Sam Giancana, a Chicago racketeer and John Roselli, a soldier of fortune with organized crime connections, in a plot to assassinate Castro.

The existence of those documents are the first public longstanding allegation that the C.I.A. conspired with organized crime figures in such an assassination attempt.

The files, the sources said, has been located and is now in the hands of John G. Kenney, senior assistant attorney general for the department's criminal division.

Kenney is expected to transfer the documents to the commission. He declined to comment on the matter. David W. Belin, chief counsel to the commission headed by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, also declined to comment on the matter. This has been standard practice for the commission.

As early as 1967, columnist Jack Anderson has reported allegations that Robert Maheu, a former F.B.I. agent and manager of Las Vegas properties for billionaire Howard Hughes, recruited Giancana and Roselli in a plot to assassinate Castro.

According to Anderson's version, Roselli, with C.I.A. help, organized one attempted assassination of the Cuban leader armed with poison capsules supplied by the C.I.A. In another attempt, these press reports have said, the group tried to infiltrate rifle sharpshooters to kill Castro during a public meeting.

The sources familiar with the existing files said they did not know if the files went into this detail, but they do confirm that both Giancana and Roselli had been working with the C.I.A. at the time.

One source said the file contained a memorandum signed by J. Edgar Hoover, the late director of the F.B.I., in which Hoover discussed whether Giancana's C.I.A. connections may have protected him from the full weight of a justice department prosecution in the mid-1960's. Another source said the files showed that Roselli's relationship with the C.I.A. came up during the Justice Department investigation of him.

There is no information available from present sources whether the assassination attempt was approved by President Kennedy or any other high Kennedy administration official.

Bad data hampered US force

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon has conceded that faulty intelligence reports led to at least a 30 per cent casualty rate in the operation to rescue the U.S. merchant ship Mayaguez and her 39-man crew.

Spokesman Joseph Lallin said there were 5 dead, 16 missing and 43 wounded, eliminating the superficially wounded. He said the figures might be revised today when final reports come in from all Marine, Air Force and Navy units that participated in the action.

Furthermore, Lallin said, the bodies of the five dead have not been recovered. At least one was a Marine left on the beach at Tang Island by his comrades when the approximately 200-man force was airlifted off.

Lallin's response provoked sharp questioning from reporters who noted that it was a Marine Corps tradition to carry out dead and wounded when withdrawing from action.

Another Pentagon spokesman said there was "only a slight chance" that any of the 16 missing were still alive. The missing men—Air Force and Marines—were in a helicopter that was hit during the first assault on the beach and crashed in flames "under eight minutes" as it made a vain attempt to reach Utapao airfield in Thailand.

Lallin ran into questions about the delay and confusion in releasing the casualty figures and details on the number of air strikes carried out against mainland Cambodian targets.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said in an interview: "The price we paid is considerably higher than we thought. There has been an unexplained delay in getting to us accurate figures."

Furthermore, Percy said, "The intelligence used as a basis for the decision (to use military force) appears to be grossly inaccurate. The aftermath of the capture of the ship and safe return of the crew has been short-lived and offset by a disturbing lack of fact and a substantially higher cost in lives, wounded and other areas than we had been led to believe."

Academy opening set

By CRICKET BIRD Times News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Christian Academy, a new parochial school sponsored by the Grace Baptist Church, will open here this fall.

The school will stress traditional academics and discipline in the classroom, and children will learn patriotism and the "principles of the Word of God," according to Grace pastor Rev. Robert Seaman.

In a day when parochial schools across the country are experiencing difficulties, Rev. Seaman predicts the new school will have full enrollment.

The opening program will offer half-day kindergarten for 4 and 5-year-olds and primary grades 1-4. Maximum enrollment is 150 children.

Rev. Seaman said surveys made before the decision to open the school indicated that a number of parents are interested. He also said the Academy plans to advertise widely and will accept children from Jerome, Kimberly, Filer and other nearby communities. No bus service will be provided the first year, he said.

Tuition for kindergarten children will be $250, Rev. Seaman said. Grade school tuition will range from $350 to $450 per year per child, on a pro-rated basis.

One reason for the low tuition, Rev. Seaman said, is that teachers will not receive salaries comparable to public school employees. It's an "indication of their dedication," he said.

Classes will be taught by five teachers, one of whom, Joseph Wallis, will double as the teaching administrator. No class will have more than 25 children, Rev. Seaman said.

School will be held in the Grace Baptist Church's education wing, which is fully carpeted and conditioned and built toward the front of the church. Children of any faith and age are invited to attend.

"We will be teaching the Bible," Rev. Seaman said.

Before the students are admitted, however, a written application, personal interview and testing is required, Rev. Seaman said.

"We're going to major on academic excellence," and that excellence is "only achieved by discipline," Rev. Seaman said. "We will expect the child to produce at maximum capacity or near that," he said.

The Academy is "obviously not a school for public school dropouts or problem children," Rev. Seaman said, but added the school won't be limited to the "elite."

Idaho has no accreditation requirements for primary schools, Rev. Seaman said, so the Academy will not have to go through lengthy state approval procedures.

The pastor predicted that transferring back to the public school system would not be a problem for Academy students. "They'll be ahead," he said.

The school will use the curriculum of the Pensacola, Fla., Christian School. Several of the new teachers, who all have college degrees, have taught at the Florida school, Rev. Seaman said.

Part of the philosophy behind the new school is the idea that the parent, not the state, is responsible for children.

The school is out to dispute the philosophy abroad today that parents are not qualified to take care of their children," Rev. Seaman said.

A brochure for the Academy says, "There is an increasing surge in the direction of taking responsibility for children away from parents and putting it in the hands of 'professionals.'"

The brochure cites the West Virginia textbook controversy and the "child advocate" principle as examples of this trend.

Although the brochure admits that "many parents are failing miserably, tragically," it states the alternative is worse: a giant step in the direction of a totally controlled society. And undoubtedly the general substitution of humane values and standards for those given by God."

MV school districts elect trustees

Incumbent Ward McLean is opposed by Ronnie Bartlett for the zone 3 seat. In Glenn Ferry, incumbent Gerald Hyton faces Doyle McBride in zone 4. Bliss zone 3 candidates are Jerry Boyd and write-in candidate Ronald Wood; zone 4, Charlene Stroud, unopposed.

Twin Falls has two contests for trustee posts. In zone 2, Gary Custer, Lee Eldredge, Victor J. Smith, Gene Glenn and Warner G. Dossney are vying for the seat vacated by Dr. Richard Savers, who is not running for re-election. In zone 5, incumbent Dr. Howard Rank is opposed by Leon Martin.

Other contested races are:

Camas County zone 5, incumbent Kenneth Peck against Mrs. Shirley Simon; Gooding, zone 4, Walter G. Nelson and C.A. Pope, Jr.; Mindoka County zone 5, Russell Mohlman and Barbara Belnap, both Norland; Buhl zone 2, Gary Grindstaff and Richard Morris; Richfield zone 3, incumbent Grant Flavel against Carol Bell and Lawrence Calkins; Valley School district zone 4, Keith Huetig, Kay Mecham and Terry Single and zone 2, Berywn Muzzmann, Edwin Brunst and Glenn Reed.

Contested races in other areas are: Kimberly, zone 1, incumbent Ron Ballard and Keith Jensen; Castletford zone 1, incumbent Don Kramer and Mrs. Mary Anne Black; zone 2, incumbent Reynold Houk against Frank Van Casteren.

Polls will be open until 8 p.m. today in most districts, with polls open until 7 p.m. in Glenns Ferry, Camas County high school, the Gooding school administration office, Buhl junior high school basement and the Jerome high school gymnasium.

In Salmon, voters will decide on a proposed $1,870,000 bond issue for a new high school. Casita County school patrons will vote on a 5-mill maintenance and operation levy in Mendocino county, residents will vote on a 10-mill override levy for 1976 to construct a vocational education addition at the high school. A 3-mill override levy for school operation and maintenance will be voted on in Hansen.

Defense minded House members preserve funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense-minded House members have so far prevented critics of Pentagon spending from cutting any money from a $32 billion weapons procurement bill.
 Four separate proposals that would have sliced nearly $1 billion from the authorization measure were easily rejected Monday and the House moved toward final passage today. The Senate will start debate later this week on its $30.3 billion version of the same bill. The prime target of the critics was the B1 bomber. So far, three prototypes have been built and one has been flown. The Pentagon wants 234 of them, designed to replace the aging B52 as the nation's heavy bomber for nuclear war and other major missions.
 An effort to cut $100 million for construction of a fourth prototype was defeated Monday, 227-164. A new effort is expected to delete all of the $348.5 million in the measure for the B1.
 Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., a Pentagon critic, said "bombers are obsolete in this day of missiles," but a strong Pentagon supporter, Rep. Joe D. Waggoner Jr., D-La., said "if you do away with conventional weapons then you hasten the day of the nuclear holocaust because you won't have any weapons left to fight a conventional war."
 Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., former Armed Services Committee chairman, said "the Soviets are vitally interested in what this House does about the B1 bomber. They don't want it. I would hope we would have the guts to keep this program going."

Reds close down paper

LISBON (UPI) — Communists today forced suspension of the Socialist newspaper "Republica," last major non-Communist daily newspaper in Lisbon. Government armored cars evacuated Republican employees who had been besieged in their offices by Communist workers.
 At the same time the ruling Armed Forces Movement announced it was creating a "revolutionary tribunal" of military officers to hear cases against soldiers and civilians accused of political crimes. The move further diminished civilian influence in the leftist government and undercut existing political parties even more.
 The evacuees included Republica editor Raul Rego and two of his subordinates who were locked in their office Monday when they refused to strike.
 The workers moved against Rego, who was arrested and tortured several times under the former right-wing dictatorship, because he published a Communist document calling for a new purge in the government-owned television and radio network.

Italian workers shut down nation

ROME (UPI) — More than a million government workers went on strike today in a week of nationwide walkouts halting trains and planes, closing schools and suspending medical care.
 The strikes came less than a month before the June 15 regional elections in which the Communists are challenging the Christian Democrats' claim to be Italy's dominant party.
 Only Justice Ministry employees preparing election lists were excused from the walkout called by Italy's three biggest labor federation to demand reforms of public administration.
 More than 300,000 state workers, 200,000 employees of state controlled companies and 500,000 local and regional government employees walked off their jobs in the daylong strike.
 The unions called for reforms "to eliminate the waste and inefficiency existing today and at the same time exploit and make more gratifying the individual and collectively professional contribution of the workers."
 Firemen, who joined in the strike from 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., forced the closing of airports. Scheduled national flights from Rome's Leonardo da Vinci Airport were cancelled and intercontinental flights delayed.
Man dies
TWIN FALLS — Denny Canfield, 93, died at about 11:50 p.m. Monday at his home at 447 Adams Street. Investigating officers said he died of a self inflicted gunshot wound.

Inaccurate data hiked casualties

 The Pentagon also revised its evaluation of the kind and size of resistance the first wave of 135 marines met when they landed on the beach.
 Since Wednesday night, the weaponry used by the Khmer Rouge had been described as "small arms" which generally include rifles, automatic shoulder weapons and handguns.
 But in addition to this fire, mortars, rockets and captured U.S. 75-mm. recoilless rifles were used against the Marines.
 Another spokesman said a company of reinforced infantry — probably as many as 200 men — opposed the Marines on the island.
 He said the Khmer Rouge were "lucky" in that they had a sizable force positioned at the north end of the small island, near the landing zone picked for the assault.
 The spokesman said the island was largely heavy jungle and whose terrain made aircraft landings difficult, even with infrared devices, the presence of that many troops. This was disrupted by other Pentagon sources.
 There was also, the spokesman said, "little" softening-up fire, either from air strikes or naval gunfire, ahead of the Marine landings.
 This was a gamble, he said, "which usually works on an island of this size." To have provided heavier fire might have tipped off the defending forces as to the target area — an area "where they were already lying and waiting anyway."
 According to one high Pentagon official, earlier intelligence reports said there was no garrison on the island at all, and that it was populated "mostly by old people." Other sources, however, expressed the belief that the island was reorganized after the fall of Cambodia to the Khmer Rouge forces.
 "There were a lot of little ships there [just before the landing]," said a spokesman. "Obviously, this was some kind of operating base."
 The spokesman said the plan had been "to keep putting waves of Marines until we took the island. We had 1,000 men in three waves."
 But offensive operations were ordered halted by Ford as the second wave moved in, and the CH-53 "Jolly Green Giant" helicopters ran into confusion in trying to lift the Marines off the beach.
 "We were limited by the number of helicopters we had," the spokesman said. "It just wasn't as easy as it started out to be."
 Other defense sources have insisted that a full-scale invasion of the island was probably unnecessary, and that certainly the two air strikes on Ream airfield, near the port of Kompong Son (formerly Sihanoukville) and a petrol and oil dump in the same port were militarily unnecessary.
 But sources close to last week's unfolding drama said the military's hopes to mount a low-key attack were balanced off by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's insistence on a major show of force.
 Ford, these sources said, settled for something in the middle: a moderate amphibious action and two air strikes (one earlier one was recalled before attacking and a fourth was scrubbed).
 The B-52 said that Kissinger reportedly wanted to use against the civil-military airfield at Phnom Penh was put on alert status and then scrubbed when the crew and ship was recovered, the sources said.

Gas hike sought

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Northwest Pipeline Corp. has applied to the Federal Power Commission for authority to pass along to customers increases in the price it pays for Canadian gas.

The firm asked for authority to pass along $117.4 million per year from an anticipated price increase.

Northwest, which transports natural gas to utilities and municipalities in seven western states, announced the application Monday from its Salt Lake City headquarters.

The company purchases about two-thirds of its gas supply from western Canada.

Canadian Energy Minister Donald S. Macdonald announced May 5 that the export price of gas would rise from $1.05 to $1.40 per thousand cubic feet Aug. 1 and to $1.60 Nov. 1.

Northwest's current application covers only the August increase. The firm said it would apply to the Federal Power Commission later this year for authority to pay and pass along the November price increase. Total estimated additional cost from that price hike is expected to be about $58.6 million.

Bid opening set June 12

TWIN FALLS — Bids on improvements at Magic Valley Hospital will be opened June 12, according to Merl Leonard, Twin Falls County Commission chairman.

The call for bids will be published three times beginning Thursday, Leonard said.

The improvements will include remodeling of the hospital's second and west wing to add 20 patient beds, enclosure of a third floor sun porch to accommodate staff offices for present staff including the department of respiratory therapy, remodeling of a fourth floor patient ward and adjacent rooms on the third floor east wing to three psychiatric rooms and construction and remodeling needed to bring the hospital into compliance with safety code requirements.

Filer seniors graduate

FILER — The Filer High School commencement exercises were held Sunday at the high school gymnasium.

The processional and recessional marches were played by the Filer High School band under the direction of Russell Terrell. Debra Fleener gave the invocation. Linda Johnson presented the salutatory address and Linda Rupprecht delivered the valedictory address.

Baby crocodile may provide chance for veto

WASHINGTON — It's only an itty-bitty addition to federal bureaucracy, says Sen. Abe Ribicoff of Connecticut.
His new agency, for Consumer Advocacy, would be nothing more than a "small, specialized agency," costing only $15 million in its first year.

The first-year authorization of $15 million is to increase to $25 million two years hence, an increase of 66 per cent. Not bad for an itty-bitty baby.
This "small, specialized agency" is to be headed by an administrator, virtually unaccountable and unanswerable, whose modest duties require him to determine "the consumer's interest" in thousands of decisions made annually by other federal agencies.

advise and assist state and local consumer agencies.
There is much more. The agency would be authorized, for example, to compel businesses and manufacturers, to answer formal interrogatories. The agency would conduct surveys and make studies. It would prepare and publish reports. It will function, says the senator, as a spokesman for "the consumer." It will give "the consumer" a voice in government which can be heard.

Or does "the consumer" want an inexpensive car? How is the administrator to determine the interest of "the consumer" in the price of natural gas? In the price of farm commodities? In air fares? In the building of a dam? In the construction of a highway?

Taxing guzzlers

The "gas-guzzler tax" proposed by the House Ways and Means Committee is a lemon.
The tax-writing committee has proposed a feeble tax that probably never will be collected in order to encourage Americans to drive cars which don't guzzle gasoline.

The committee proposes to tax an automobile manufacturer or importer for each 1978-80 model which fails to get good gas mileage.
There is a catch, however. The tax won't take effect unless the average efficiency of all cars sold by the company falls below a specified level.

And the standard is pegged low enough that the auto companies expect they can easily make it. Average mileage standards would be 18 miles per gallon in 1978, 19 the year following and 20 in 1980.

By the estimate of the House committee's own staff, the tax will never be imposed and it won't raise any revenue. So obviously it won't do anything to discourage people from buying huge inefficient cars.

In response to the committee's watery program, a number of lawmakers have begun to push for a no-nonsense approach to the gas-guzzler.
Their plan is to tax cars individually. So a car which uses an excessive amount of fuel would be taxed heavily.

In addition, extra taxes would be added to a whole company product line if its average mileage fell below the standard.
The per-car tax proposed would begin with 1977 models. That year cars getting 16-17 m.p.g. would be taxed $100. The tax would rise to $800 on cars getting less than 13 m.p.g.

By 1980 the standards would have stiffened to a $100 tax for cars getting less than 20 m.p.g. and up to $1,400 on cars still getting less than 13 m.p.g.
That's a tax that might work. It surely won't prevent people from buying big cars, but it should provide an incentive for the average guy to think about gas efficiency.

Still, the proposal doesn't go far enough. Moreover, it tends to be punitive only.
It would be better to combine stiff taxes on fuel-hogs with a tax credit on more efficient cars. It would serve a traditional sense of fair play if the same number of dollars raised through car taxes were refunded to purchasers of small efficient cars.

Moreover, that would stimulate the small-car portion of the industry to counteract the economically depressing effects of the tax on the big-car lines.

Dissociation keen art

A book has been published — "Resignation in Protest" — consisting largely of published statements by American officials about Vietnam.

The thesis of the editors, Edward Weisband and Thomas M. Franck, is that in America we have an unenviable tradition. It is the tradition of resignation.

It is practiced frequently in Great Britain. When a member of the cabinet, or even a junior official, is out of sympathy with a policy of his government, he publicly resigns. In America, resignation is taken to be something of an act of petulance, a failure of team spirit — as if the tackle on the football team, disagreeing with the quarterback's proposal walked off in a huff.

There is something to be said for the American way, whatever the manifest disadvantages. It draws from the idea of the civil servant — who is there to implement policies adopted by the chief of government. In England, a sharp line is drawn between civil servants, who will poison the water supply if told to do so, and the ministries. These, though entirely dominated by the cabinet, which is dominated by the prime minister, are expected to be guided by their political consciences. That being the case, you would not expect, in England, an under-secretary of state to conspire along with Anthony Eden to invade Egypt. If he did, he would be purged, the enterprise having turned sour, along with his boss.

In the United States, the Vietnam war was the great crucible. Nelson Rockefeller lately made a mockery of the notion of the dutiful servant by suggesting that he was bound to keep his opposition silent, in order to increase the flow of federal cash into New York. And there are dozens of names associated with Vietnam about whom the question is asked by the liberal community — why didn't they do it? Why didn't they quit?

With the exception of the entirely honorable Rostow Brothers, Dean Rusk, and a few others, the rest — or most of them — have practiced the art of dissociation with great skill. One day you slip away from the government. Maybe indeed you wanted to leave government. Maybe, on the other hand, you weren't getting anywhere, and felt it was time to go. A couple of months later, you sign a gentle manifesto of protest, perhaps arguing against (say) the incursion into Cambodia.

Remember, up until now, you have said nothing publicly against our participation in Vietnam. Another few months go by and you are suddenly a speaker at an anti-Vietnam rally. You make some sort of effort to distinguish between the kind of policy now being pursued, and the kind pursued when you were involved in the government. You lean heavily on the key dissociational word: "Incommensurable." Our effort in Vietnam is incommensurable with the ends we seek to achieve.

A few more years that, and you have accomplished an Arthur Schlesinger. You read Arthur Schlesinger of the last few years, and you simply never suspect that there was an Arthur Schlesinger Jr. who vigorously defended the Vietnam War. You think maybe that was his old man.

I have received complaints over a recent statement asking why George Ball, who recently wrote that our cease-fire arrangements were transparent frauds, didn't say they were transparent frauds at the time. I asked, in the same column, why George Ball, who is so greatly opposed to our Vietnam venture in retrospect, did nothing to dissociate himself from the government that presided over that venture until it was replaced by the electorate?

After all, George Ball was undersecretary of state, and then our principal ambassador to the United Nations, where no question was raised more often than the question of Vietnam. And he did not quit that position until mid-summer in 1968. In order to criticize Lyndon Johnson's conduct of the Vietnam war? No, in order to participate actively in the campaign against Richard Nixon and Spiro Agnew.

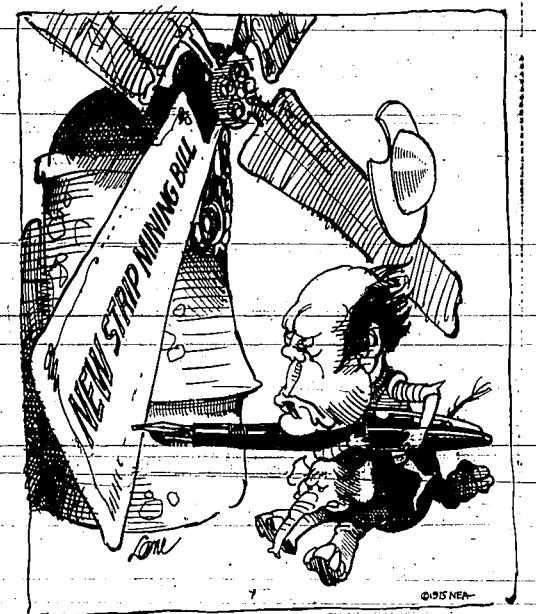

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

The authors of the book about Vietnam suggest that either we should expect more frequent resignations, or proceed on the assumption that cabinet officers are merely civil servants. Their suggestion is not without ingenuity. Let all cabinet officials, they recommend, be selected from the House of Representatives, in the British manner. When they resign they have no political taint; whence they can elaborate their ideas. If George Ball had resigned and gone back to the House of Representatives, he could have been the beginning of a little magnetic field of resentment against Vietnam policy and expressed himself more forcefully.

The trouble is, you cannot under the Constitution work for more than one branch of the government at one time. But here is a reform that we shouldn't have too much trouble getting through Congress.

Tilting at progress

The Republic, Columbia, Ind.
Some congressional reaction to the CIA's recovery effort with that Soviet submarine presents a puzzle.

Sen. Stuart Symington, Missouri Democrat, says the CIA should have asked Congress to OK the expedition before it went fishing on the bottom of the sea. And Sen. Frank Church, Idaho Democrat, says that if the CIA is prepared to pay Howard Hughes $50 million for an absolute Russian submarine, "it's a little wonder we are broke." Why would they think that way?

Maybe we're missing some point of contention but it seems to us that the Central Intelligence Agency acted exactly as a "spy outfit" ought to act. It promptly and quietly without publicity went after what might have been the biggest intelligence coup since the cracking of the Japanese code in World War II or "Operation Paper Clip" that brought Nazi rocket scientists to the U. S. at war's end. This is the CIA's true role, not opening private citizens' mail nor assisting in domestic burglaries.

Realities catch up with politics

WASHINGTON — Nothing would make me happier than a program that would be all things to all people. But in the harsh realities of the time, that's not possible.

The speaker was Gov. Ella Grasso, Connecticut's liberal Democratic governor. As a candidate last fall, Mrs. Grasso had promised some budgetary goodies for the folks after four years of austerity under Republican Gov. Thomas J. Meskill. But now Mrs. Grasso had entered the hard, real world where a dollar's worth of revenue cannot finance two dollars worth of expenditures.

Connecticut's Democratic legislature had approved a $1.6-billion budget for 1975-76 which limits the state's spending for welfare and education programs and decreases a moratorium on salary increases and promotions for the state's 40,000 employees. It also imposes a $125-million tax increase.

Yet, the legislature had given the folks more than Mrs. Grasso had asked for. The budget came to $20-million more than what she had promised in her February budget message.

"It was not a pleasant experience," Mrs. Grasso told reporters about the legislative action, "but these are not pleasant times." She was acknowledging — as so many new governors and mayors have discovered in the past — that candidates cannot always play Santa Claus once they are elected. When the euphoria of inaugural passed, she had to face the fact that there is only so much money available for taxpayer-financed goodies.

Indeed, it was Mrs. Grasso who proposed that there be no increases in welfare spending. She asked that such spending be held roughly to the current level with an appropriation of $351.6 million. But the legislature took note that there were nearly 43,000 families on welfare in March, a caseload growth of 4,000 in the past year, and increased the welfare budget to $74.06 million.

The governor was not even able to redeem her promise that she would pass all of the state's federal revenue-sharing funds — a total of $26 million — through to the towns and cities. Because of the recession and projected decreases in revenue, only $6 million was passed through in the budget.

In short, the facts of governmental life cannot be repealed. Election of a liberal, Democratic or Republican, does not automatically insure — in Mrs. Grasso's words — "a program that would be all things to all people." Politics usually is not the determining factor in the real crunch. Like individuals, governments are — or should be governed by how much money there is in the bank. The U.S. Congress is flaunting this fact of life with its roughly $68-billion budget for the whole nation, but Capitol Hill is going through one of those panicky periods when the cold art of mathematics is tossed out the window.

Fortunately for Connecticut, Mrs. Grasso has become an early convert to budgetary conservatism. It was she who proposed an increase in the corporate income tax from 8 to 9 per cent, and got a 2 per cent boost from the legislature. She also backed an increase in the sales tax, and got it, plus a boost in the capital gains tax and reinstatement of the dividends tax which had been repealed two years ago.

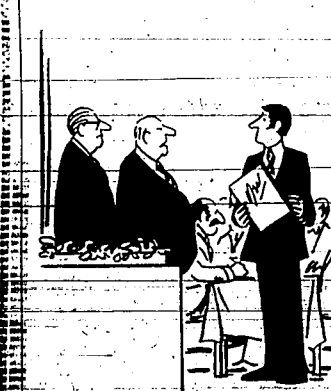

The governor is now under attack from liberals who demand more money for welfare, state employees who want higher salaries and promotions, and Republicans who find the dividends and capital gains taxes distasteful.

But that's life in the governor's office, Mr. am — not at all as it looks in the long-distance vision of an office-seeker.

"Let's hope the economy turns up soon!"

One small act produced big change in image

WASHINGTON — When Richard Nixon ran for president in 1968 his image-makers went to work to make the American people forget he was a tough guy, and believe he was a nice guy instead.

Out of it came the "New Nixon." Gerry Ford has the opposite problem. He is known as a nice guy, and his image-makers now have until 1976 to make him into a tough guy. It will be a lot harder than anyone thinks.

"Mr. President, we'd like to talk to you about the new Gerry Ford," I don't know if I want to talk about that. Does anybody want any breakfast? I'm making pancakes.

"There's the problem, Mr. President, in a nutshell. You're going to have to stop making your own breakfast. Nobody trusts a President who cooks in the White House."

"See what, that's the only fun I have in the morning."
"Do you want to be President in 1976 or don't you?"
"I guess so."

"Then we've got to change the picture Americans have of you. Now for a start we don't want you to release any more photos of you kissing the First Lady or of Susan sitting on your lap. It's too — too family. The only shots we want in the papers are you sitting at your desk firing a Cabinet officer."

"I can't fire anybody, fellows. You know that."

"You're going to have to show everyone you're in charge."

"Whom should I fire?"
"It doesn't make any difference as long as you do it in public and you humiliate the person."

"I don't think I'd like that."
"I don't think you'd like it or not. You're going to have to do it unless you want Ronald Reagan moving into this office."

"He is not, Mr. President, and you better stop saying he is. If he're going to be President of the United States, you've got to hate. Richard Nixon knew that better than anyone."

"Poor Nixon. I hope he's getting better."

"Mr. President, will you forget about Richard Nixon. We're playing hard ball. Now the first thing we've got to do is draw up an enemies list of people you're out to get."

"I'm not out to get anybody. People may not agree with what I have to say, but that doesn't make them my enemies. Golly gundrops."

have: Betty gets mad when I say damn, I'm not sure I want to be President if I have to use expletives deleted."

"Mr. President, Truman used them, Eisenhower used them, Kennedy used them, Johnson used them and Nixon used them. Do you want to be the first President in history who never used an expletive deleted?"

"Well, if you think it would make that much of a difference, draw up a list and I'll choose one. But I'll only say it at Burning Tree while I'm playing golf!"

"Good, now we're getting somewhere. We have to show you're really tough and you're not going to take any guff from anyone. It has to be done dramatically so there will be no question in anybody's mind that you mean business."

"When you go to New Orleans to make a speech, we want you to push Ron Neesen down a flight of stairs."

Old canyon debate erupts.

Contest controversy

Editor, Times-News:
It would be interesting to know how many people are aware of the controversy that the Magic Valley Cattlemen officers and directors have been involved in with their effort to support the 4-H and FFA program with trophies for a carcass contest at the Twin Falls County Fair. Their intentions were to add to the program by rewarding three deserving trophies to the top carcasses entered by 4-H or FFA members. This support was opposed by the Beef Council and by what appears to be a handful of people.
The existing carcass contest is based on live points so that, in fact, only the steers that are petting as equals on the hook which includes at the very most 5 per cent of the contest entrants. The other 95 per cent are not able to win the contest even though one of these steers may produce the best carcass.
The Magic Valley Cattlemen wished to support the carcass contest, completely unrelated to the Open to the World contest, in which the carcasses of these steers would be judged on their own merit.

I certainly favor this as the only way to evaluate a carcass is on its own merit so that we can see what kind of cattle are producing the most desirable carcass to put before the consumer.
In a recent meeting, the Magic Valley Cattlemen withdrew their support to the 4-H and FFA program because of the adverse reaction created by a few people. It is my opinion that if this opposition voiced by a few is the majority speaking, their decision should stand.
However, if this matter leaves as many unanswered questions to other people as it does to me, perhaps a good look should be taken at the existing contest to see why new ideas and new support are not only discouraged but nearly banned.

CIVIL SERVICE SALT LAKE CITY—One of the oldest debates in the West, centering on the recreational use of scenic canyon lands along the Colorado River, is again raising tempers in Utah and Arizona as the National Park Service holds wilderness designation hearings concerning the 1.19 million-acre Glen Canyon National Recreation Area.
In an effort to ease a situation in which sessions attended by backpackers, cattlemen, river runners, oilmen and county officials have sometimes degenerated into shouting-matches punctuated by catcalls and bursts of applause, the park service hearings last week at Kanab and Salt Lake City, and Page and Phoenix, Ariz., centered on six carefully detailed proposals for the preservation of 200 to 352,700 acres for wilderness.
Decorum was good at an overflow hearing Saturday at the state office building in Salt Lake City, though rixers and members of conservation organization said they found redator hoses cut and tires punctured after parking their vehicles in canyon towns while they explored potential wilderness areas.

A proposed scenic, low-speed road along the northern edge of the recreation area from Glen Canyon City to an arm of Lake Powell proved a chief cause of friction at the Salt Lake and Kanab hearings between organized conservation groups and proponents of more industry and tourism. The road would bridge the canyons of the Escalante River, which hikers label a wilderness gem.

However, Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, urged members of the Sierra Club, the Wasatch Mountain Club and the Save the Escalante Council to compromise.

Mary Tyler Moore' show, heavyweight dramas head Emmy winner list

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Mary Tyler Moore Show' ran off with six Emmy awards Monday night as the most popular weekly show on air at the 27th annual Television Academy awards.

A pair of heavyweight dramas, "QB VII" and "Love Among the Ruins," each captured a half dozen awards as the best dramatic shows of the 1974-75 season.

Individually, the big winners were one-time "Our Gang" kid Robert Blake for best actor in a dramatic series, "Barette," and England's Jean Marsh for "Upstairs, Downstairs."

Valerie Harper, in her first year as a leading lady, triumphed as best actress in a comedy series for "Rhoda." Tony Randall, whose series was canceled last month, won the best actor in a comedy series award for his performance in "The Odd Couple."

Sir Laurence Olivier and Katherine Hepburn, both winners of Oscars in motion pictures, were voted best actor and actress in a drama special.

The best single show of the year was "The Law," a hard look at the American judicial system which did not win a single other Emmy.

The British import "Upstairs, Downstairs," a story contrasting the life styles of the English gentry and their servants, was voted best drama series of the season.

"Benjamin Franklin," a four-part anthology of the life of the American patriot, featuring variously Beau Bridges, Jeff Bridges, Richard Widmark, Melvin Douglas and Eddie Albert playing Franklin at various stages of his life, won the award for best limited series of the year.

"An Evening with John Denver" was acclaimed best musical special.

The two-hour Emmy award show from the Hollywood Palladium saw CBS win the network "sweepstakes" with 22 awards. ABC followed with 24 and NBC had 10. The Public Broadcasting System won five Emmys.

Jessica Walters won the Emmy for best performance by an actress in a limited series for "Amy Prentiss," in which she played a chief of detectives, a CBS show canceled earlier this year.

Folker Falk, who had won two previous Emmys for "The Price of Tomatoes" in 1962 and for "Columbo" in 1972, was voted best actor in a limited series, once again for "Columbo."

Outstanding comedy-variety series of the year was "The Carol Burnett Show," which won the award for best comedy-variety series in that category last year and 1972.

Cloris Leachman, winner of a best supporting actress Oscar for "The Last Picture Show" in 1971 and two previous Emmys, was the only individual performer to win two awards this year. She won the best supporting actress award in a comedy for "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and for her supporting role appearance in a musical, the "Cher" show.

The Emmys this year featured nine of television's top leading ladies as hostesses. Presenting the awards were Beatrice Arthur, Lucille Ball, Cher Bono, Carol Burnett, Teresa Graves, Michael Learned, Susan St. James, Jean Stapleton and Karen Valentine.

Voted outstanding children's special of the year was the animated Christmas special "Yes, Virginia, There is a Santa Claus."

In the sports awards categories, "Wide World of Sports" won two Emmys — for most outstanding program and outstanding broadcaster, Jim McKay. Most outstanding sports event was

"The Jimmy Connors vs. Rod Laver Tennis Challenge."

Operatic star Beverly Sills' performance in "Profile in Music" won the award for outstanding classical music program of the 1974-75 season.

The best supporting actor awards went to Ed Asner of the "Mary Tyler Moore Show" for a comedy series; win' Geer of the "The Waltons" for a drama series; Anthony Quayle of "QB VII" for a drama special and Jack Albertson of "Cher" for variety.

Patrick McGowan won the Emmy for best single performance by a supporting actor in a series for "Columbo."

Heart deaths decline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Death rates for heart disease, stroke and accidents, three of the four leading national killers, declined in 1974, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said Monday.

Deaths from cancer, the second leading cause of death next to heart disease, increased a year.

The statistics show a 22 per cent drop in the rate of deaths from motor vehicle accidents, said HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger.

The estimated 45,000 vehicular deaths were 10,000 fewer than in 1973. Weinberger said lower speed limits and less driving because of the energy shortage were accelerating a national trend of reduced traffic deaths.

Weinberger gave no reason for the increased cancer death rate.

The death rate for heart disease was around 53.6 for each 100,000 persons in 1974, compared to 57.5 in 1973. The death rate for stroke was estimated at 67.1 per 100,000 population in 1974, and for cancer, 169.4 per 100,000 up 1.3 per cent from the previous year.

For all accidents the death rate decreased about 13 per cent in 1974 from previous year, most of decline because of the drop in traffic accident deaths.

Oil decontrol fuss boils

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's energy administrator says the administration's plan for taking controls off oil prices is so gradual the American motorist will hardly notice.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., thinks the President is talking one way and acting another.

Their latest squabble is over the President's proposal to lift federal price controls on oil and its products, so that higher prices discourage Americans from using so much and higher profits spur industry to find new energy supplies.

Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb said Monday the plan is going ahead because "the nation cannot afford to wait indefinitely for the Congress to enact a decontrol plan of its own."

In a statement he submitted to a Senate Interior Committee hearing, Zarb said, "Congress has made little progress in either developing a comprehensive energy program or providing the President with the authority he needs to implement his comprehensive energy program."

Ford plans a "gradual two-year phaseout," Zarb said, spread out over two years.

"By spreading the relatively small, five-cent to six-cent per-gallon price increase over a 25-month period... its impact upon the consumer would not be unduly burdensome, when compared to its benefits," Zarb said.

Zarb didn't mention another part of Ford's program — increasing the tariff on imported oil — which is designed to make retail gasoline prices burdensome enough so that consumers will buy less of it.

Jackson said he looked at the proposal Ford published in the Federal Register for public comment, and calculates the Ford plan "would in fact end price controls on domestically produced crude oil in a little over a year — almost twice as fast as the phaseout announced by the President April 30."

That would raise energy prices to Americans by $14 billion a year, he contended.

Oriental swamp man takes life

BUSHNELL, Fla. (UPI) — The wily Oriental "Wildman of the Green Swamp" dined on pepper steak Monday morning and was fitted for shoes. He appeared to be adjusting to capture after seven months of hiding in a swamp.

"I think now he can trust us," Sheriff's investigator Ron Elliott said at the time. "He says he feels safe in here."

"He seems to be content," Chief Deputy Sheriff Don Clark added.

Later that day, jailer Bob Johnson found "e" wildman, identified as Hu Tu Mi, in a sitting position on the floor of his cell at the county jail, a small belt wrapped tightly around his neck.

John administered emergency treatment, but the man was pronounced dead on arrival at Lake Community Hospital in Leesburg, Fla.

Clark said the explanation for Hu's sudden change in behavior was the 2:30 p.m. arrival of Bonds and other officials, who asked the man to sign papers, returning him to his native Taiwan.

He said Hu was advised that "if he did not sign the papers, he would be deported. He fled at signing the papers and became frightened, Clark said.

He committed suicide a little more than two hours later.

Bomb blast felled jet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The TWA jetliner that crashed into the Ionian Sea near Greece last September, killing all 88 aboard was sabotaged by a bomb hidden in a suitcase.

A National Transportation Safety Board report Monday said it apparently was the second sabotage attempt within 13 days on the airline's Israel-New York route.

The report left open the possibility both bombs, the one that felled Aug. 28 and the one that went off Sept. 6, were put aboard by passengers willing to die in order to

US court hearing IBM case

NEW YORK — The largest antitrust case in history, the United States vs. the International Business Machines Corporation, opened Monday in federal court.

Justice Department attorneys are indicating that a considerable portion of their attempted proof of monopolistic practices would come from IBM's own internal documents and data.

The civil suit, which was filed in January, 1969, as the last official act of the Justice Department during the Johnson administration, charges IBM with deliberately monopolizing the general purpose computer industry and asks that IBM be broken up into "several discrete, separate, independent, and competitively balanced entities."

The trial opened at 10:30 a.m. as Chief Judge David N. Edelman walked into the crowded, wood-paneled courtroom.

The non-jury trial is expected to take a year to complete.

Judge Edelman, 65 years, who will be the sole arbitrator, is expected to take another year to reach his decision.

IBM is charged with violation of Section 2 of the Sherman Act. In order to convict IBM the government must prove both that a monopoly exists and that the defendant acted deliberately to create or continue the monopoly situation.

30-day warning

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Suburban Neville Township has posted the following sign as a warning to motorists who may be inclined to speed:

"Neville Township reminds you! Thirty days halt September, April, June and November — and anyone exceeding our speed limit."

The poster was signed by Donald A. Clear, commissioner.

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune & News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure you get a lot of poems about yourself but you recently published one from a 91-year-old lady because you were impressed with the fact that she was 91.

"We oldsters sure get away with a lot—just because we've managed to keep breathing longer than most folks. I have just celebrated my 90th birthday, and I've got it made. I've got longer socks than an apoplectic and what you said yesterday, just explain that you are 80, and you will be forgiven. If you spill soup on your tie or forget to take a pill, or take another man's hat by mistake or promise to mail a letter and carry it around in your pocket for two weeks, say, "I'm 80, you know," and nobody will say a thing.

You have a perfect alibi for everything when you're 80. If you're silly, you're in your second childhood.

Being 80 is much better than being 70. At 70, people are angry at you for everything, but if you make it to 80, you can talk back, argue, disagree and insist on having your own way because everybody thinks you are getting a little soft in the head.

Life begins at 80

They say that life begins at 40. Not true. If you ask me, life begins at 80.

DEAR GOT: You are beautiful. Thanks for a dandy highlighter.

DEAR ABBY: My husband committed suicide and left me with a tiny baby.

When people learn that I am a widow, they ask, "What happened to your husband? Cancer? Heart? Or did he die in an accident?"

Abby, I just can't bring myself to tell them that he committed suicide, so I say, "He was sick and died." (He died under the care of a psychiatrist, so that could be called an illness, couldn't it?)

What should I tell my child when he is old enough to ask about his father? Please help me, Abby. I have no one else to ask.

DEAR WIDOW: The truth is always best. Simply say that your husband was ill (it's true, he was), and he took his own life.

DEAR ABBY: I have an 18-year-old daughter who has a beautiful baby girl.

My daughter and her husband are getting a divorce because he is so immature, there is just no hope for him. She went back to him twice for the baby's sake, but even the marriage counselor told her to leave him for good.

My daughter's mother-in-law wants to adopt the baby. I have offered my daughter $2,000 cash for it. My daughter wants to keep her baby, of course, and the baby's father won't want it. He wants his mother to have it.

What do you think about a grandmother who would try to buy her grandchild for adoption?

DEAR MARSHALL: Not much. In fact, there are laws about buying and selling babies. Your daughter is under a obligation to consider such a proposition.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Questions stamped, self-addressed envelope, please. Write to Abigail Van Buren, 132 LaSky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

South can make the contract easily by just putting the nine and 10 of spades to work.

Hot bath is no contraceptive

Dr. George Thosteson

Except that the thyroid gland is in the throat area, I cannot see why you suspect it as the cause of your throat clearing. An enlarged gland might cause some difficulty in breathing or swallowing, but this would be obvious from the most cursory examination.

It is more reasonable to suspect a mild lung congestion. An X-ray would reveal this as well as a thyroid enlargement.

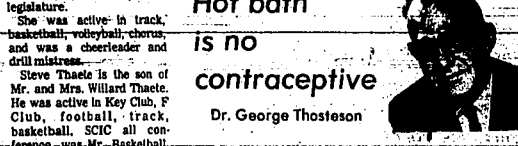

An event more likely possibility is a sinus problem. A post-nasal drip (catarrh) can be caused by excessive smoking, the smoke irritating the membranes, causing them to secrete more than the normal amount of mucus. Although you are a non-smoker, this could be a factor if there are any heavy smokers in your home.

I discuss this and several other sinus and sinus-related problems in my booklet, "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." For a copy of my booklet, send 25 cents for one copy of this newspaper, and enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Another thing, if your coughing seems to increase at about this time of the year, you can suspect an allergy as a factor.

And since you are not exceptionally tall, I wouldn't call you extra healthy with that 225 pound of weight.

Obesity can be another cause of that throat-clearing too.

Richfield OES elects

WHO OWNS THE CHILD?

Children are an heritage of the Lord. The Word of God establishes this fact in Psalm 127. And every Bible believing parent holds to this truth, even though at certain harassed moments he might have some doubts.

The inescapable deduction, then, is that parents are responsible for rearing these children. Besides the text already quoted, there is an abundance of additional Scripture which confirms this principle. Children are to obey their parents in the Lord, as judged by the Lord, because he is Lord. Parents are to love their children as themselves love. Our Lord, as a child, was subject to Mary and Joseph. God praised Abraham because he would command his children, and his household, to keep his covenant posture when he said that he and his household would serve the Lord.

The case of Hannah and Samuel is such a remarkable exception that it scarcely merits mention. Attention has been directed on the virgin Mary, however, this principle of the Scripture is under severe siege today. And more than that, the walls have already been breached. There is an increasing urge in the direction of taking responsibility for children away from parents and putting it in the hands of "professionals."

Creech trial begins today

CASCADE, Idaho (UPI) — A man suspected of slaying in several other western states goes on trial in Cascade today to face first degree murder charges in the slaying of two men whose bodies were found along a road north of Cascade.

Thomas Eugene Creech, 24, is accused in the shooting deaths of John Bradford, 40, formerly of Brownsboro, Ala., and Edward Arnold, 34, formerly of Lancaster, Tex.

He will be tried before District Judge J. Roy Durisch.

Creech and Carol Spaulding, then 17 of Lewiston, were arrested Nov. 8 by Glenn Perry, Idaho, police few days after the bodies were found. Miss Spaulding has pleaded guilty to harboring a suspected felon and is serving a two year prison sentence.

Creech also is suspected in several slayings in other western states and is wanted in Oregon where he is charged with the deaths of William Dean, Portland, and Sandra Jane Ramsamoo, Salem.

The trial is expected to last more than a week, partly because of jury selection.

Canyon County Prosecutor Robert Remakius expressed confidence that a jury could be selected in two days. His sentiment, however, was not voiced by others, including Sheriff Derrol Lynskey who said the feeling of area residents will make jury selection difficult.

Remakius also said the Creech case may be difficult to prosecute.

Remakius said he hoped the trial would be over by the weekend when the fishing derby at Cascade is held. He said it would not be fair to the jurors or the defendant to have a three-day Memorial Holiday break.

Inmate receives reward

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — A prison inmate credited with saving the life of Elko Sheriff Kess Harris after a plane crash last December was rewarded Monday with a "pardon."

Jack Lindsay, 54, a convicted forger, was being flown to the state prison here when the plane, piloted by Harris and carrying another prisoner, crashed against a snow-covered mountain near Lovelock, Harris and the other prisoner were badly injured.

Carl Hocker, a member of the State Pardon Board, said "there was money and a gun aboard the plane and Lindsay could easily have escaped. However, he stayed and helped until rescuers arrived the following morning."

Preston hearing scheduled

PRESTON, Idaho (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission and Utah Public Service Commission will hold a hearing Wednesday at Preston on a request from Union Pacific Railroad affecting Preston and Logan freight offices.

The railroad is asking that use of a full time freight agent at Preston be discontinued and that the agent at Logan travel to Preston as needed to serve shippers there.

The railroad claims that the level of freight business at Preston does not justify maintaining a full time agent. The joint hearing will begin at 9 a.m. in the basement hearing room of the Franklin County Courthouse.

Morgan plans to resign post

BOISE (UPI) — The executive secretary of the Idaho State Democratic Party headquarters confirmed today that Mel Morgan of Pocatello intends to resign his position as state party treasurer.

Pat Gillespie said that she was going to resign last week, and he had indicated he would resign.

"That has been his intention all along," she said.

"About a month ago when he was going into the trial on the criminal misdemeanor charge, he indicated he was going to resign when the trial was over."

Morgan was found innocent of charges that he had conspired with Rose Marie Bowman of Boise to obtain the credit report on George Hansen during the 1974 Congressional campaign, and that he used his position as a Pocatello jewelry store owner to obtain the reports under false pretenses.

"I talked to him last week and he said he was going to think about it but he probably would not resign over the weekend," Mrs. Gillespie said.

"He apparently has some family commitments that he made and he feels obligated to honor them."

"I expect, unless he changes his mind, that we could be receiving (the resignation) in a day or two."

However, no notice of resignation has been received to date at the state headquarters or by local officials.

Bannock County Central Committee Chairman Gary Gould said, "We would hate to see him leave that position. Mr. Morgan has always been a person who has given of himself freely and has been a privilege to work with."

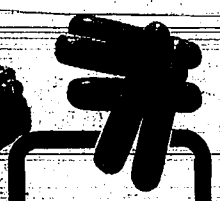

The party executive committee is scheduled to meet the weekend of May 31.

Morgan was reported out of town and not available for comments today.

Gem agency okays fiscal assistance

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Bicentennial Commission voted in executive session Monday to give their director fiscal assistance in return for his agreement to stay with the agency to the end of its mission.

J.M. Nell submitted his resignation to the commissioners May 9 after it became known that the commission was in serious financial trouble, partly because of the failure by Idaho officials to apply for a $50,000 federal grant.

Chairman Tony Park said after the executive session that the commissioners were unanimous in agreeing to provide "appropriate fiscal assistance" to Nell in hopes "that will correct some of the fiscal complexities of the past."

At a meeting May 12 the commissioners agreed to seek money from private sources to help meet immediate bills for the Cataldo Mission restoration and the Malad Gorge—but the committee reported back Monday that "the well was dry" and they had no success getting money from private sources.

In discussing fiscal matters, Commissioner Richard Bieber, Pocatello, said they need $107,000 to complete all projects. The commission presently has agreed to do for the bicentennial.

Bieber said $28,339 of that amount is needed to meet immediate obligations for the Old Cataldo Mission and the Malad Gorge.

CSI accepts bid on arena

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho will build an "exposition center," a giant enclosed arena on the east side of campus.

Trustees Monday evening accepted the low bid of $477,400 submitted by Nelson & Co., a Twin Falls construction firm. The board earlier this year rejected 11 bids because they failed to meet specifications.

AREAS: The trustees' second request for bids, four were submitted. Including the Nelson bid and ones by Mitchell Construction Co., Pocatello, Arrington Brothers Construction, and Miller Construction, both Twin Falls.

Original plans called for the building to be a pre-fabricated steel shell, but now the building will be made of concrete block and topped by a steel skin-stress roof covered with a silicone polyester membrane, according to architect Richard Heindel.

The structure will be 200 by 300 feet, with an outside height of 40 feet, Heindel said. The roof will be made of brick to match other campus buildings. The roof covering will probably be painted to blend with other structures, he added.

The building will have a dirt floor and eventually will be supplied with portable bleachers.

Original estimates set the construction cost at about $500,000, nearly $75,000 below the accepted bid.

Estimates were made eight months ago, Heindel said, and inflation has taken its toll in the building costs since then. The plan for facing the building's front with brick is new, adding to the cost.

Estimates were made by persons not fully acquainted with the soil at the building site, Heindel said.

The arena is "much more sophisticated" than originally planned, the architect said.

CSI business manager Karl Black said the building would be used mainly for the college's agri-business programs. Trustees envision also using it for livestock shows, merchant's shows and other public functions.

Black said the funding for the building came from the college's "construction account," with monies accumulated over some time. No state or federal money will be used in the project, Black said.

Heindel said construction will probably begin next month with completion anticipated before winter.

Other business Monday, trustees:

- approved the recommendation to hire William Anthony Mannen, speech and drama instructor, at a 9-month salary of $10,000. Mannen will replace resigning faculty members, H. Paul Kilias and Ed Collins.
- approved the hiring of Elizabeth A. Shifer as a teacher in the study skills center at a 9-month salary of $8,500.
- approved three bids for vehicles, including $3,651.37 for a four-door sedan from Dave Monroe Chevrolet, Inc., Buhl; $6,476 for a 15-passenger van from the Bob Reese Motor Co., Twin Falls; and $5,345 for a lawn mower.

Winter returns to Valley

By JOYCE CARPENTER
Times-News writer

SHOSHONE — Winter returned to parts of the Magic Valley today, dropping in to eight inches of snow.

The late-May snow centered in Lincoln, Jerome and Gooding counties. About eight inches of snow were reported in Shoshone.

James Terry, National Weather Service meteorologist, said that the Massey observation site about two miles northeast of Jerome reported one and one-half inches of snow and other sites around Jerome reported up to two and a half inches. Unofficial reports from Shoshone ranged from six to eight inches.

An unofficial report from Hailey said no snow fell there and overcast skies were lightening somewhat this morning. Only a trace of snow was reported at Falls.

The weather observation site on the Bayless Farm in Hagerman reported two inches of snow on the ground this morning with snow falling. Three inches were reported at Tuttle. It was snowing lightly in Twin Falls this morning, but Twin Falls and the Burley-Rupert area escaped the overnight snowfall, according to Terry.

The weather station in Gooding reported two inches on the ground at 8 a.m.

Terry said that most of the snowfall accumulated during the night, but was expected off and on during the day today at most observation sites.

Terry said low temperatures this morning were uniform, mostly in the upper 20s and lower 30s. The 23 degrees at Twin Falls, Kimberly and Jerome was a record low for May 20 in Twin Falls. The old record of 32 was set in 1918.

Truck overturns

THIS truck, carrying 40,000 lbs. of dog food, overturned on I-80 just east of Wendell Monday, about 11:30 a.m. Deputy Sheriff James Burke said damage to the trailer may run as high as $19,000. He said a gust of wind caught the truck, causing it to go out of control and overturn. Driver Whitney Stringham, 29, Sall Lake City, was treated at the Jerome hospital and released. Wreckage was not cleared until about midnight Monday after the cargo was reloaded.

Burley reaffirms vote to sign plant contract

By DAVID BOCKMAN
Times-News writer

BURLEY — The Burley City Council reaffirmed its decision to sign a contract to help construct four nuclear power plants in Washington State Monday night.

The council had voted to sign the contracts with the Washington Public Power Supply System (WPPSS) two weeks ago, but moved to reconsider it when Councilman Cloyd Taylor said he had incorrectly stated the contract would cost the city $20,000. The next day the Times-News reported the contract could cost the city $200,000 plus interest.

Last night Taylor said the whole council understood the option contract had a $200,000 price tag, but he had quoted $20,000 by mistake.

Taylor stressed that the contract had not been signed.

Ten Taylor moved the contract be signed and the vote to sign was unanimous.

The contract obligates the city to back $200,000 of "development bonds" to be issued by WPPSS for the $100 million initial construction phase of the four nuclear power plants.

In return Burley receives an option to purchase part ownership of the four plants once construction begins. The final cost of the plants is expected to run about $2.2 billion, of which Burley's share is $44 million, plus interest.

For its investment the city would get one five hundredth of the power produced, or a maximum of 5,000 kilowatts.

The system currently uses an average of about 9,600 kilowatts. The Bonneville Power Administration currently guarantees an average of 25,000 kilowatts.

The initial $200,000 in backing from Burley would be included in the total $4.4 million-plus interest cost.

The cost of the bonds will be paid for through higher utility rates to customers served by the city-owned electric system.

Thereafter, according to Taylor, if the nuclear plants are completed and operated as planned, signing the option contract won't cost the city of Burley anything.

But he said, if the project is not completed the city still will be obligated to pay off the $200,000.

TF council rejects subdivision plans

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council Monday night refused to reconsider plans for a small subdivision northeast of Harrison Elementary School.

The council members, on a split vote, voted against reconsideration of the subdivision which would have been located between Polk and Fillmore Streets.

Several councilmen insisted that the Polk-Lee Subdivision include a through street between Polk and Fillmore, but the developer claimed that such a requirement would make the project economically impossible.

Karl Freeman, Twin Falls, had presented the development plan to the council two weeks ago. At that time, he was instructed to confer with the city engineer and come up with a proposal that included a through street.

However, Freeman said Monday he couldn't "reach any agreement which would be financially acceptable."

He resubmitted the original proposal and forced the council into a "do or die" vote on reconsideration.

Before the vote, Councilmen Leon Smith and Paul Ostyn warned that they would "oppose any plan that doesn't have a through street."

According to City Manager Jean Millar, the city needs "some sort of minor arterial street" running east and west between Filer and Falls Avenues. If the proposed subdivision does not include a through street, it would force motorists to divert to the north or south.

In other action Monday, the council:

- authorized processing of zoning ordinance modification which would clarify setback

Rexburg police officer named to Burley post

BURLEY — Richard J. May, currently assistant chief of police at Rexburg, was named Burley's Police Chief Monday night.

May, 48, was appointed as Burley police chief to fill the position vacated when former chief Gary Booth was fired Feb. 12.

May will assume his new duties in about two weeks.

May said he has been in law enforcement in Idaho for the past 19 years. He started out as a rookie in Wallace, spending nine years there with the sheriff's department and eight years with the city. May said he was chief at Wallace for four years. For the past two years he has been assistant chief at Rexburg.

Following his appointment last night, May declined to comment on any plans he has to alter the structure or operation of the Burley Police Department. However, he indicated he would like to keep the specialized departments of narcotics, juvenile, detective and patrol established by his predecessor. May said he will rely on the help of the men currently on the force and especially on Captain Kirby Harkness to make a smooth transition as he assumes the leadership.

Harkness has been acting chief since Booth's dismissal.

In an impromptu news conference, Immediately after his appointment, May was asked by reporters how he will handle any "prostitution problems" in Burley. May responded he "will get together with the mayor and city attorney and look into it."

When "reporters" compared rumors of prostitution in Wallace when May was on the force 17 years with similar rumors about Burley, May's only comment was that Wallace is a good place for a young cop to learn about police work.

When Booth was fired, 19 police department members walked out. Some said they did so because the mayor and council didn't want a strong chief, but wanted a "yes" man. Asked if he was going to be a "yes man" to the mayor, May said "I'm not a yes man, I will fight for what I feel right."

May said he applied for the Burley chief's job because he has only about a dozen years left in law enforcement. "I wanted the challenge and I want to retire as a chief," May said.

May noted that he mailed his application for the chief's job as soon as he heard Booth had been fired. The new chief was nominated for the position by mayor Chuck Shadduck. May was confirmed unanimously by the council without discussion.

today in brief

Fuel tanks stolen
TWIN FALLS — Dennis Chase, 711 Maurice St., told police someone took two fuel tanks from his travel trailer sometime between Saturday and Tuesday morning.

He said the tanks were attached to the front of the trailer which was parked in the alley behind his home. Chase estimated the value at $150.

Association urges support
JEROME, Idaho (UPI) — The steering committee of the Idaho Carey Act Association is urging Idahoans to rally behind nomination of Stan Hathaway as secretary of the Interior.

Hathaway, a former governor of Wyoming, has come under fire from environmental groups who feel he does not and will not support their position. He is confirmed for the cabinet post.

Vernon Ravenscroft, Tuttle, executive director of the association, said the steering committee adopted a resolution endorsing Hathaway. He said it also approved a policy statement requesting the cooperation of the Idaho congressional delegation to retain the Desert Land Law of 1877.

Hansen urges swift action
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. George Hansen urged the House Interior subcommittee on Water and Resources Monday to act swiftly on a feasibility study to rehabilitate and enlarge the Minidoka Dam in southern Idaho.

Hansen has introduced a bill to broaden the water and power resources of the dam. It has approval of Snake River water users here.

Hansen told the subcommittee that "without sufficient quantities of water for power and irrigation my district would be a sparsely populated desert."

The Idaho Republican pointed out that the Minidoka project was authorized 70 years ago and since then has "greatly benefited" the growth of southern Idaho.

18 officers still on strike
IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — Forty members of the Idaho Falls police department ended a three week strike Monday but 18 others, threatened with dismissal, said they will carry their battle to court.

The returning officers crossed picket lines to attend an official meeting called by Chief Robert Pollock. Many of the men crossing the lines came in the back door of the department, hoping to avoid an expected confrontation which never materialized. Sheriff's department officers sat near City Hall watching for trouble.

Shop operator placed on probation
POCATELLO (UPI) — Federal Judge J. Blaine Anderson has put Anton Bernat, 68, a Blackfoot curio shop operator, on one year's probation for selling eagle feathers.

Bernat refused to contest the charge. His attorney told the court, however, that Bernat for years has dealt in Indian artifacts and "made an innocent mistake" and wished to apologize to the government.

A condition of Bernat's probation is that he refrain from further sale of eagle feathers.

Denver man gets life sentence
POCATELLO (UPI) — Sixth District Judge Arthur F. Oliver has sentenced William Murray Prince, 23, Denver, Colo., to life in prison for a murder charge after a jury found him guilty.

Judge Oliver also gave Prince a concurrent 14-year term for assault with a deadly weapon with intent to murder and a consecutive 30-year term for robbery.

Prince, accused of second-degree murder in the death of Gary Simpson, 23, Pocatello, at the St. Anthony Community Hospital during an attempted robbery last Nov. 1, pleaded guilty to the charges. Originally, he was accused of first-degree murder and he pleaded guilty after the charge was reduced.

New TF school to open

Rev. Seaman said, "We're trying to do something the public school can't do because of law ... teach the whole child."

Daily Bible study will be required, but not to the exclusion of anything else, and patriotism, basic principles and morality will be stressed, Rev. Seaman said.

Traditional methods of teaching will be employed with emphasis on reading, writing and grammar, and arithmetic, Rev. Seaman said.

And according to Rev. Seaman, the traditional methods, discipline and moral lessons work. In the Florida school, 4-year-olds are able to identify such components of speech as consonants, vowels and diphthongs, he said.

Running the school and gearing up for the first day of classes, August 25, is a five-man board made up of church members.

Two other parochial schools, operated by the Lutherans and Seventh Day Adventists, also operate in Twin Falls. A third school, administered by the Catholics, closed several years ago.

If the Christian Academy has a successful beginning, the church planners hope to expand. An additional grade will be added each year, the brochure states.

"The word of God is applicable to every subject," Rev. Seaman says.

And the brochure urges, "Let parents give themselves to fulfill their scriptural responsibilities to children."

"Twin Falls Christian Academy wants to help you discharge your responsibility as a parent."

Pay schedule accepted

JEROME — Jerome teachers have voted to accept a new salary schedule which includes the addition of a 10th step.

Acceptance by the teachers of the salary schedule has ended a two month dispute between the teachers and the Jerome school board over pay increases for district teachers this fall.

The teacher's negotiating team, at a special meeting with the trustee-negotiating team Monday night agreed to accept the new pay scale, plus an additional $4 per month on insurance, bringing the total paid by the district to $11 per month and an additional day of personal leave.

John Andrew, Teachers' negotiating team member said a vote of 35 district teachers gave approval to the schedule with 10 in favor and 9 voting to retain the old salary which included an eight per cent overall increase. With the addition of the 10th step, teachers on the lower brackets will receive a smaller percentage raise than the eight per cent originally offered by the school trustees.

Andrew said the district teachers would like to have some kind of a commitment on possible addition of more steps to the salary schedule in the next few years. Andrew said that with the addition of more steps to the scale, Jerome salaries would be brought up to the state average and more qualified teachers would be attracted.

A special committee will be formed, made up of district teachers, the new superintendent, administrative personnel and a trustee to study the present salary schedule and make recommendations to next year's negotiating teams.

The teachers' negotiating team also requested that negotiations next year be started sooner — they could be completed before the district has to set its budget. It was also suggested that better communications between the teachers and the board are needed.

Decision 'weakens plan'

KETCHUM — The decision to build the Sawtooth National Recreation Area headquarters at North Fork has weakened the Blaine County comprehensive plan, Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, said here Monday.

In an address before the Ketchum-Sunday Valley Chamber of Commerce, Peavey said the decision against prevailing public opinion, to retain the original location for the building, indicates there is a need for more sensitivity in local planning and zoning master plans.

Regional Forester Vern Hamze, Ogden, ruled last week the original site of the proposed headquarters building, seven miles north of Ketchum in the North Fork area, was the best number of area residents had protested the location and asked a new site be chosen with the help of the Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission.

"It certainly speaks to the problem of coordinating needs with local planning and zoning programs," Sen. Peavey said.

Rep. E.J. McInnis, R-Ketchum, also speaking at the Monday meeting, said there are still three problems in connection with the SNRA headquarters building. These include the issuance of a water permit, road improvements to be built highway 66 and Ballouway, and the need for a new bridge to replace a dangerous steel bridge south of Ketchum.

Buhl overtime pay eyed

BOULDER — The U.S. Department of Labor Monday asked a federal court in Boise to order the city of Buhl to stop withholding overtime pay from employees.

The federal agency claimed that, since May 1, 1974, Buhl has employed more of its workers more than 40 hours a week without paying them at least 1 1/2 times the regular rate of hourly pay.

Buhl Mayor Ted Pence today said the city has not been "served with any papers" in connection with the court action. "We're still in the dark about this thing," Pence said.

The overtime wages plus interest allegedly are due 11 city employees. Most of the 11 are employed in the streets and sanitation department.

Pence said, "Morally, I feel that we have done nothing wrong."

Two employees might have been underpaid; but the others possibly were overpaid, according to Pence.

He confirmed that some employees had complained to a federal auditor several months ago about their overtime pay.

However, when the auditor showed the workers their pay records, they agreed that their pay was sufficient. Pence said.

markets

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened mixed in moderate trading Tuesday on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow Jones industrial average, which gained 0.8 Monday in a late session rally after dropping more than 10 points at the outset, was off 0.88 at 877.81 shortly after the opening bell. Advances led declining issues, 154 to 74, with the more than 377 issues crossing the tape.

A decline in interest rates under the prodding of the Federal Reserve Board sparked some attention buying Monday. The Fed, which cut its discount rate to 8 percent last week, moved to drive down Treasury bill rates.

Many major banks reduced their prime rate for top business borrowers to 7 1/2 percent in response to the cut in the discount rate and the Fed's promise to help fight the recession.

The winding down of interest rates in recent months has been a major factor in the market's strong new year advance.

Ringo tournament set

AMERICAN FALLS — The fourth annual Lou Ringo memorial golf tournament will be held May 24-25 at the American Falls course. Competition is based on a two-man best ball team with teams using 50 per cent of their combined handicaps. Merchandise prizes will be awarded over 18 holes of medal play in four flights. Entry fee includes a donation to the national Cancer Society. Those interested may enter by calling best professional Mike Centello for tee-off times.

Gridders arraigned

ROSEBURG, Ore. (UPI) — Kansas City Chief running back Woody Green and New York Jet linebacker Rich Lewis were arraigned in Douglas County District court Monday on charges of raping a 16-year-old girl near this southern Oregon city. Green, 23, and Lewis, 24, are free on $5,000 bond each and will appear in court again Thursday for a preliminary hearing. The rape allegedly occurred near Loom Lake, a resort 35 miles northwest of here on May 11.

Bowa honored

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Philadelphia shortstop Larry Bowa is the National League Player of the Week. League president Charles S. Feeney Monday named Bowa to the honor after the switchhitting shortstop went 13 for 14 for a hefty .433 and helped spark the team's seven-game win streak. He hit a double, powered his first southpaw homer of the season, and knocked in five runs.

Oregon tightens belt

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — The athletic department of Oregon Manday made some realignments in duties of athletic director Norm Ritehey and others in the athletic department in a move generally regarded as "belt tightening" at the athletic level. "We intend to generate maximum income and to use our people to the best of their ability," said Ray Hawk, vice president for administration following a meeting with coaches. Ritehey retains his title, but his duties will be concentrated on efforts in the area of fund raising.

Argentine bans All

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — An Argentine congressman Monday asked the government to ban all future radio and television broadcasts featuring world heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali. Rep. Lisardo O. Nicolich, a Radical party leader, called Ali "unscrupulous and a circus spectacle." Argentine stations broadcast the Ali-Ron Lyle bout last Friday. Nicolich called the latest bout "a pitiful show...very far from resembling a sport's event." "Sports, professional or nonprofessional, carry undeniable standards of honest conduct. What we have seen, adds little flavor to sports or to good taste," he said.

Protest disallowed

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Dave DeBusschere, in his first ruling as Commissioner of the American Basketball Association, Monday denied the Indiana Pacers' appeal of Kentucky's 95-93 victory in the second game of the league playoff finals in Louisville last Thursday night. That meant the Colonels took a 3-0 lead into Monday night's game needing only one victory to clinch their first championship in eight years. DeBusschere made the announcement following a two-hour hearing, saying he denied the protest filed by Pacers general manager John Weisheit. The commissioner said no evidence was presented that "clearly stated" there was time remaining when Indiana's Billy Keller got off a 45-foot shot which, had it been allowed, would have given the Pacers a 96-95 victory and a 1-1 tie in the best-of-seven-game series.

Players share award

NEW YORK (UPI) — California Angels pitcher Nolan Ryan and Chicago White Sox shortstop Bucky Dent Tuesday were named American League co-players of the week for the week ending May 15. Ryan was both of his starting assignments last week, holding the New York Yankees to two hits in posting a 5-0 victory and then blanking the Baltimore Orioles for 8 1/3 innings before winning 5-1. Ryan is the first repeat as player of the week in the AL this season.

Chargers sign six

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The San Diego Chargers Monday announced the signing of six draft choice and free agent rookies, including sixth round pick Billy Shields of Georgia Tech. Shields, 6'4 and 250 pounds, was a first team all-Southeast Conference selection as an offensive tackle last season. All will report at the start of training July 9 in San Diego. Also signed were 11th round draft choice Vince Phares, a 5-10, 165-pound defensive back from the University of Arizona, and linebacker Jerry Dahl, a 6-2, 218-pound 12th round pick, from North Dakota State.

Lafitte wins grand prix

PAU, France (UPI) — Frenchman Jacques Lafitte, driving a Martini-BMW, won the French Formula 1 Grand Prix Monday to retain his lead in European Formula 1 drivers' standings. Frenchman Jean-Pierre Jabouille in an ELF 2 BMW and Patrick Depailler in a March BMW finished second and third in the 120-mile race in southwestern France.

Pearson grabs title

DOVER, Del. (UPI) — David Pearson of Spartansburg, S.C., won the rain-delayed Mason Dixon 500 Monday in a track record 4:55.52. Pearson, driving the only Mercury in the race, earned $14,925 for the victory. Cecil Green of Horse Shok, N.C., took second in a Chevy for $6,000 and Richard Petty, whose Dodge survived a collision with Dean Dalton's car after Dalton suffered a front tire blowout heading into turn two, was third. Petty, from Randleman, N.C., earned $6,500 for his finish. Only 18 cars of the 35-car field finished the race, which was marred by a track record eight caution flags, which slowed the drivers for 97 laps.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Attorneys for Joe Namath and the World Football League agreed Monday on some points of a $4 million contract and league president Chris Hemmetter said "I am optimistic" that the New York Jets quarterback would join the WFL. Hemmetter said the additional provisions would pay Namath payments would be based on his substantial performances by Mr. Namath. He apparently was referring to provisions that would give Namath a series of bonuses based on touchdowns, championships and like. Hemmetter said although "the structure of the offer has been agreed upon," Namath has not signed a WFL contract and was not present at Monday's negotiations. But the league president said Namath and Chicago Wind owner Gene Fullano will meet in Tuscaloosa, Ala., Tuesday to discuss the deal. And Hemmetter said Namath's New York attorneys were already at work writing up a contract including the provisions discussed Monday. Hemmetter said he does not expect any announcement to be made Tuesday, and added, "I would think that if there is to be an announcement of that nature, it would take place in Chicago." "I think we've completed our negotiations," Hemmetter said. "I am optimistic." The WFL offered Namath a $500,000 bonus for signing the contract, an annual salary of $500,000 for three years to play with the Chicago WFL team, $100,000 annually for 30 years even if Namath is unable to play and 5 per cent ownership of a WFL franchise. "A group, which said it would take the Chicago franchise if Namath joined the team, accepted the franchise last Thursday, following several days of negotiations between league officials and Namath's attorneys. The Chicago team recently named Namath's former teammate, Babe Parilli, head coach. Parilli was backup quarterback to Namath in 1968 when the New York Jets won the National Football League Super Bowl. The Monday meeting followed a weekend of meetings among league and team officials who approved new rules designed to prevent the kind of injuries to quarterbacks that have plagued Namath several times. Hemmetter said the regulations put "emphasis on protection of the quarterback." He said the rules prohibit "sparring" or "blinding" a quarterback and "once his arm is in motion he becomes a protected player."

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (UPI) — The growing concern about the fate of the Montreal Olympics will be the main topic of conversation here this week during the four-day annual meeting of the International Olympic Committee. The 78-man committee also will discuss the readmission of The People's Republic of China and the expulsion of Rhodesia from the amateur movement at the session, the most crucial it has held in many years. The IOC has been caught in the middle of a showdown between the Quebec provincial government and the state constitution of the province, which threatens to prevent completion of the Olympic sports complex by July 17, 1976, when the games are to open. The strike by construction workers has triggered reports that the IOC secretly is planning to shift the games to an alternate site, but a well-placed IOC source such-a-move is not being considered. "Either the games will take place in Montreal or not at all," said the source, a member of the IOC's nine-man executive committee. "It is not for the IOC to take a decision to move the games. That must come from Montreal and if they do have to back out, which I doubt, it will be at the last minute and it will be too late." "It would be a disaster for the Olympic movement." There is also the problem of finding an alternative site for the Olympics. Tehran has been most frequently mentioned, but the Iranian delegation is adamant that Tehran neither wants, nor can handle, the games at such short notice. The only other cities equipped to step in at this late stage are Los Angeles and Mexico City. The California city was unsuccessful in bids for the 1976 and 1980 games and Mayor Tom Bradley said he would be "very reluctant, indeed" to take over such a project. Mexico City remains the most plausible alternate site since

SOLE COMPETITOR In a West German track meet, Karl-Hans Rethm, a 24-year-old West German soldier, broke the world hammer throw record four times before finishing with a mark of 257 feet, 6 1/2 inches Monday. Old mark was 251 1/4 by Russia's Alexei Spridonov. (UPI telephoto).

Montreal's construction problem heads IOC agenda

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (UPI) — The growing concern about the fate of the Montreal Olympics will be the main topic of conversation here this week during the four-day annual meeting of the International Olympic Committee. The 78-man committee also will discuss the readmission of The People's Republic of China and the expulsion of Rhodesia from the amateur movement at the session, the most crucial it has held in many years. The IOC has been caught in the middle of a showdown between the Quebec provincial government and the state constitution of the province, which threatens to prevent completion of the Olympic sports complex by July 17, 1976, when the games are to open. The strike by construction workers has triggered reports that the IOC secretly is planning to shift the games to an alternate site, but a well-placed IOC source such-a-move is not being considered. "Either the games will take place in Montreal or not at all," said the source, a member of the IOC's nine-man executive committee. "It is not for the IOC to take a decision to move the games. That must come from Montreal and if they do have to back out, which I doubt, it will be at the last minute and it will be too late." "It would be a disaster for the Olympic movement." There is also the problem of finding an alternative site for the Olympics. Tehran has been most frequently mentioned, but the Iranian delegation is adamant that Tehran neither wants, nor can handle, the games at such short notice. The only other cities equipped to step in at this late stage are Los Angeles and Mexico City. The California city was unsuccessful in bids for the 1976 and 1980 games and Mayor Tom Bradley said he would be "very reluctant, indeed" to take over such a project. Mexico City remains the most plausible alternate site since construction is currently under way for the Pan-American games later this year. The new facilities combined with the complex used for the 1968 Olympics could physically meet the requirements. But the problem of organizing in 14 months what usually takes six years might prove too much for the Mexican authorities despite their experience. Munich, the 1972 host city, and Moscow, the 1980 host, have expressed no interest in bailing out Montreal. Roger Rousseau, of the Montreal organizing committee, and Mayor Jean Drapeau will brief the IOC on the latest development, but, ironically, the IOC is not empowered to take any action. IOC members said any solution will have to be found by the Quebec government, which recently took the construction unions into trusteeship, sparking the most recent strike by the Quebec Workers' Federation. "We will have to see how it works out," said the IOC source. "We are very worried indeed, but there is nothing we really can do." China's readmission into the Olympics (it walked out in 1954 when the late Avery Brundage, then IOC president, recognized Taiwan as a member) may not even be voted upon at the meeting. Lord Killanin, the IOC president, met privately with a three-man Peking delegation headed by Chao Cheng-Hung, vice president of the All-China Sports Council, in Rome last week. IOC sources said the Chinese do not "technically" meet the requirements of the IOC and until they form a national Olympic committee their candidature cannot be considered. The IOC appears split fairly evenly on China's demand to oust Taiwan as a condition for its own membership. The African and Asian members are in favor with the others against.

China lauds U.S. despite track shutout

CANTON, China (UPI) — It could never possibly happen in Oakland, Pittsburgh, Boston or Brooklyn...only in China. A group of invaders had come in, closed out the locals, wiped them out completely and leaving the stadium now, they were receiving a ringing round of applause from the losers and the townspeople lining the sidewalks. The ovation, obviously sincere, was being given to the triumphant U.S. track and field team, which completed a two-day rout over an eager but largely inexperienced People's Republic of China squad with a one-sided shutout Monday. The Americans won all 17 of Monday's events, including the men's high jump, supposedly a Chinese specialty. The meet was friendly, goodwill affair. No point score was kept, which was just as well, because if it had been, the total would have come to 32 events for the U.S., compared with only one for the Chinese. Boyd Gillins of Pullman, Wash., started the U.S. off on the right foot in the opening event by taking the men's 400-meter hurdles in 51.1 seconds. A little later on, Dr. Delano Meriwether of Arlington, Va., won the 100 meters in 10.3 and Keith Francis, New Bedford, Mass., edged Ken Sparks, Boulder, Colo., in the 800 with a time of 1:50 flat. Other winners included Mike Flack, Fargo, N.D., who clocked in 3:42.7 for the 1,500 meters; Dick Buckrie, Rochester, N.Y., who ran the 5,000 meters in 15:57.2; and Dennis Adams, Newburgh, Mich., who high jumped 7'2 1/2.

"That doesn't matter," said Irving Kintisch of Spring Valley, N.Y., one of the assistant coaches of the U.S. team. "The important thing for the Chinese is that they learned from us. They learned a lot about technique and about attitude in competition." "I think we're more embarrassed by the way we beat them than they are. But we shouldn't be. We also learned something. Not so much on the track, but off it...about the graciousness and hospitality of these people. I think we also learned something about humility," said Kintisch, who coaches Columbia University's track team back home.

Some of the problems at state arose from the fact that third district A-1 athletes didn't come close to approximating their district times. There was 16-second difference in the two mile — and that guy didn't win for instance. One theory that could be stilled by the third district was a suggestion we heard last week that the Nampa track where district was run, wasn't accurately engineered at its construction and might not be a perfect 440-yard oval. Anything shorter run around a curve would be greatly affected — especially something like the two mile which includes eight laps. It mightn't be that. But some of Idaho's all-time bests have been run at Nampa and individuals establishing those haven't come close to repeating on other circuits. It appears that the state A-1 basketball tournament is going to be taken back to Boise's Capital high school gymnasium next spring. The A-2 thing will be held in the other ISU gymnasium, A-3 at CSI in Lewiston. Two reasons. Idaho State's associated student body has jacked the price up again on rental of the mindrome. This cuts into profits. This spring, no eastern Idaho team lasted more than one game in the championship division, hence Twin Falls and Capital wouldn't draw as big a crowd as Highland-Twin Falls or Highland-Idaho Falls. The third district, which holds sway in all such legislative matters, also points to the fact that in each of the past three years, the state three place playoff — held the night before the tournament starts — has been won by the third district. That drops a possible third eastern Idaho team out of state. (The fact still puzzles us). So it appears that use of the mindrome is out. That the A-1 tentatively will be shuttled on alternate years between Boise and Pocatello and the host district on those years will have three entries. Now, we still maintain that if the state's major concern is money (and we know it is) then CSI offers the best possible compromise. Not to get two teams out of Magic Valley this year. The simple fact, hereat, and reiterated, is that the CSI gymnasium will hold about as many as the others and is within a two and one-half hour drive from the major population areas. In addition, it is only 10 minutes off the interstate — about as accessible as either of the other two sites — and there is plenty of lodging accommodation available. One other word on the subject. The class A-1 (or AAA or AA or A as it has been known over the years) hasn't been held in this area since 1927.

sports From all angles

Once again Magic Valley track and field athletes have gone to work with the rest of the state and returned with the lion's share of the team trophies. For the past six years now, Magic Valley has taken at least two of the four and three of the five (depending on the addition of classification in women's track). On three occasions the boys have swept all three and twice the girls have taken both sides. After watching Twin Falls for the past 29 years, we can say without a doubt that the effort turned in by the Bruins was the best clutch performance in a championship situation that we've seen. We are expecting certain individual individual games and/or battles. On a winner-take-all basis, no "TWIN FALLS TEAM" tie-in our estimation, which this one did. It was far more impressive than any of the four recent decisions in track. In fact, on two of those occasions, we were most disappointed in the Bruins show. Certainly they won both times, but neither time did they perform to their expectations... Interesting arguments developed at these state track meets. We were often told that since Burley and Minico don't have the track programs of the other districts, Twin Falls should win it every year. We patiently explained that the district was allotted only three track individuals and two field individuals and one relay, legislation every thing up. Plus the added zipper that even if every district was to send 15 people in each event and Twin Falls still had individuals and relays finishing ahead of them, the result would be the same. They still only give six places. But we were told neither of those arguments held merit, that Twin Falls should win since it usually brings about 25 individuals to state. Not even the emphasis that the Bruins scored only one sixth place — meaning they defeated only two people in one event — was held as tenable. However, no one mentions the fact that this area provides only one-eighth of the state A-1 basketball tournament field... No one pointed out that this district has provided one of the two finalists six times in the past 11 years. On the state's percentage ratio — and the often supplied "look at the record" backing, no one has called it to the state's attention that while this area provides 12 1/2 per cent of the tournament field, it has filled the championship game 27 1/2 per cent of the time. Therefore, it is probably just as well this area has won state A-1 basketball only once, or we'd be reduced to one entry every other year. Of course, there also was complaint that Twin Falls had four pole vaulters — taking four places — due to a Coach Jerry Kleinigoff in that event in district. However, since Coach Jerry Kleinigoff didn't accept the rule and since he also has been bitten by others in the rule book, the advantage of the rule is just as legal. Since the four Twin Falls men were capable of placing in the top six, what would make it right if two other men were running around their school hall right now wearing a medal that said they were third and fourth best in the state — and the two Bruins weren't even allowed to be there? It went back to the Bruins taking a couple of lumps in the SIC. It usually is a pretty good barometer for state. This time Twin Falls made an important improvement at the critical time — like turning a fifth place 89-yard SIC team into a state champion, a sixth-place 440-yard SIC relay into state runner-up and going one-up three in the long jump. All this while the other events held up quite well. Those mentioned events are a difference of 28 points

Olympic work resumes

MONTREAL (UPI) — Work on Olympic competition sites partially resumed Monday as construction workers ended a 10-day wildcat strike which threatened the 1976 summer games and delayed completion of other major city building projects. The Organizing Committee (COJO) said most of the 500 workers employed at the Olympic village returned to work without incident, but 1,500 men remained off the job at the $30 million stadium complex and were not expected to return until Thursday. A COJO official appeared dazed by the partial return to work by construction workers Monday. "The crisis atmosphere appears to have eased somewhat," a spokesman said. Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau, was en route to Lausanne, Switzerland, to reassure the International Olympic Committee that the city would be able to stage the games by July 17, 1976 scheduled opening. Drapeau was to stop in Paris Monday to meet stadium architect Roger Taillibert, who was to accompany the mayor to Lausanne for delivery of a work progress report Thursday. Roger Rousseau, president of the organizing committee, also left Sunday for the critical meetings of the IOC.

Small run causes Idaho to ban chinook sport fishing

SANDPOINT, Idaho (UPI) — The Idaho Fish and Game Commission Monday banned all sport chinook salmon fishing in the state this year because of a seriously depleted spring run.

The commission approved the ban on the recommendation of state fisheries biologists, who said only the minimum number of adult salmon needed to meet normal spawning requirements are expected to arrive in the upper Snake river.

The biologists said any sport fishing during the traditional chinook season in June and July would serve only to further decrease the already low run.

The ban applies to the Snake River and its tributaries, and coincides with a similar ban imposed by the states of Washington and Oregon for the main stem of the Columbia River.

The commission said it is hoped sport fishing on the Snake could be resumed at some future date but gave no guarantees for next year.

The chinook ban is similar to a ban on sport steelhead fishing imposed by the three states last fall for the Columbia River system. The ban was imposed when it was learned that steelhead runs were far below normal.

Fisheries biologists lay a certain amount of blame for the low fish runs on the many hydroelectric dams on the Columbia and Snake rivers.

It was in 1973, when river flow was down because of low spring runoff, that fingerlings infant fish migrating to the sea were forced through turbines in dam after dam resulting in a 96 per cent death rate.

In other action Monday, the commission approved an early season chukar hunt for certain areas of the main stem and middle fork of the Salmon River.

The commission also approved a $35,000 transfer of funds to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for use in predator control.

Speedway quiet as ### race nears

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)

— For the first time since practice opened May 4 for the 500-mile Speedway auto race, the famous track seemed a ghostly Monday.

The huge stands around the 2½-mile oval were empty. The hustle and bustle associated with "Gasoline Alley" life, where the exotic racing engines are tuned was gone.

Most of the drivers sought relaxation in the annual "500" golf tournament on the Speedway course adjacent to the race track. Cars that failed to qualify for next Sunday's million-dollar chase were loaded into vans and onto trailers and headed for home or the next stop on USAC's circuit — Milwaukee.

While some garages were locked up, others were alive with activity — although of a more relaxed type.

Crews of cars that made successful qualifying runs last weekend were busy preparing for Thursday's carburetor tests, their last chance for major adjustments under racing conditions.

No other practice period is permitted for the starting field before or after Thursday.

Painters were busy in the pits. Each of the 33 starting cars has space assigned to it along pit row and the names of the drivers and their car numbers were painted on the pit wall two feet high.

Gasoline tanks for each car were moved from the garage area into the pits. By midweek, all race preparations will have been completed.

Inspection of each machine in the race was underway under the supervision of Frank Del Roy, chairman of USAC's technical committee to make certain all rules and regulations are obeyed.

Unlike other recent years at the Speedway, including 1974, there have been no disputes of any kind so far this month.

championship series. Rookie Billy Knight gave Indiana the lead for keeps at 73-72 with nine minutes to go and the Pacers stretched their margin to 11 points, the largest of the game, to assure a fifth encounter in the best-of-seven ## series at Louisville Thursday night.

George McGinnis, the league's top scorer, was held scoreless in the first period but scored 22 points over the final three quarters to lead Indiana in scoring.

The game was tight until Keller hit a three-point basket shot midway in the final period that gave Indiana an 82-76 lead.

Moments later, he connected again and the Pacers gradually stretched their lead to 92-81 with 1:19 left to play.

It was a "do-or-die" effort for the three-time ABA champions, who only hours earlier lost their appeal of Kentucky's second-game victory at Louisville. The Pacers had insisted that Keller's three-point shot from 45-feet out in the final second was legal, but referee Ed Rush nullified it. The game was upheld following a hearing with ABA Commissioner Dave DeBusschere, who said "the officials were in the proper position to make the call."

Dan Issel led Kentucky with 28 points, but Alan Artis Gilmore, who canned 41 points ## in last Saturday's Kentucky victory, was held to 18.

Indiana led 19-18 after the first period, but Kentucky lost in 13 straight points midway through the second period and led 44-41 at the half.

The Colonels maintained their lead through the third period but were in front only 69-67 with one period to go.

Before Keller's "home run" the Pacers exploded for 10 straight points to take their final lead.

Knight had 18 for Indiana while Marvin Roberts hit 14 in relief for Kentucky.

Warriors dislike giving up home court against Bullets

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — It will be a home crowd but a neutral floor when the Golden State Warriors host the Washington Bullets Tuesday in the second game of the National Basketball Association championship.

The "best-of-seven" series moves to the Cow Palace, a cavernous structure in the suburb of Daly City, across San Francisco Bay from the Oakland Coliseum Arena where the Warriors regularly perform. The move was necessary because of an earlier commitment by arena officials to the Ice Folles.

"The only thing I'm worried about is not being able to have our place," said coach Al Atiles. "We've been playing all our games in Oakland, and now we have to play in the Cow Palace. We haven't played there in so long, it's really like playing on a neutral court. The big thing we've got going for us is we'll still have the crowd."

"I've never played in the Cow Palace in my life," offered front line stand-out Clifford Ray. But he wasn't worried. "The home court doesn't mean anything any more. Any team can beat any team, any place in this league when you reach this point."

Golden State, pumped high by its 101-95 come-from-behind win Sunday in Landover, Md. has adopted a work syndrome toward remaining games in the NBA classic.

Superstar Rick Barry summed it up how the Warriors, down 14 points at the half, went to the bench and mustered the police for the second half rush to stun the partisan Bullets crowd of 19,000 in Landover's Capital Center.

"We're not a super basketball team," Barry said. "To win we have to work and that's what we did."

Rookie Phil Smith and his running mate at guard for the entire fourth quarter in the Sunday game, Charles Dudley, sparked the Golden State second half by totally changing the offensive pace. They accelerated the tempo and the Warriors started going inside for easy baskets.

Forward Derrick Dickey, a virtual unknown to eastern fans, turned in a standout defensive job on star Elvin Hayes.

The desperate Bullets began to foul. After just seven foul shots in the first half, the Warriors went to the line 28 times in the final two periods and missed only seven.

"THIS LITTLE DOLLAR STAYED HOME"

Keeping Idaho dollars at home is one of the major benefits Amcor provides in the manufacture of concrete products. Dollars that stay here to circulate in the economy, and create jobs for other Idahoans.

Last year, for example, we had total sales of $3,535,487. And for every sales dollar generated, 73.9 cents stayed right here in Idaho. Here's how that breaks down: $78,021 for salaries; $476,481 for raw materials; $510,033 for fuels, supplies and parts; $28,772 for utilities; $22,976 for gas, road and other property taxes, and $91,122 in sales taxes for the state. All together there were $2,612,724 that stayed here in Idaho. Dollars that remained to feed the economy and provide jobs for the 1.78 more people than we have on our payrolls.

Certainly a good reason for you to use our concrete prestress, block, pipe and related products in your home and industry.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 21, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: During daytime obstacles may hinder your efforts, particularly where getting in touch with others important to some joint arrangement is concerned, or gaining their support. However, the evening finds these hindrances removed and associates give valuable help.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Home conditions come first today. Some basic matter can be annoying, so correct it wisely. Make up with a close tie in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have so much work that it will be later in the day before you can do it. Plan it well first. Improve health of someone with whom you could be touching must carry through with important business to advance. Enjoy recreation in evening.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) The situation seems bleak to you in a.m., so busy yourself at something practical. Evening brings success from worry and you accomplish much.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have early anxieties but these can get much done. Follow an expert's advice as tested against your own good judgment.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Although pals may take much of your time in a.m., be patient since you get good ideas from them. Avoid a depressing old acquaintance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't argue with others. Be productive. Steer clear of common matters which could be touched must carry through with important business to advance. Enjoy recreation in evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) An associate requires your assistance during day and you should give it though you had other things planned. Win higher-up's favor, also.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Keep promises and don't try to squirm out of them. Do not trust your intuition during daytime, but tonight it can be helpful.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Although you want to be adventurous, enjoy recreation in evening. If your child is born today... he or she will like to stick to the old-fashioned ideas and will be family oriented, which is fine, provided you teach to accept also the really good things in New Era ideas and pursuits.

Understand early what the "force" is "behind" them; the education along such lines. There could be fame in this chart, provided the religious training is provided early in life.

What is the clinical name for that neurotic citizen who can't stand waiters and waitresses? So inquires a customer, I don't know. But such there be. Among the earliest of these on record was King Ludwig of Bavaria, the inventor of the dumbwaiter. He so despised his own servants that he wouldn't let them come to his upstairs quarters. He hauled his grub up from the kitchen with a block and tackle.

Q. "WHAT were the measurements of the ideal woman in ancient Greece?"
A. Can only report that the Greek Aphrodite, sculptured in the second century B.C., stood 5-foot-2 and measured 35½ inches at the bustline, 27½ at the waist and 36½ at the hips.

WHEELCHAIR

On national television you never see a prison scene with a wheelchair patient in it. Are there no wheelchair convicts in our prisons?

YOU CAN ALWAYS tell what you really think of somebody, anybody, by considering the first impression you get at the first sight of a letter from said party.

FROM HIS FILE on 18th century toasts, our Toastmaster quotes the following: "Here's to one and only one and may that one be she, who loves but to one and only one, and may that one be me." Clink!

SLEEP

Argument continues as to why the men who sleep on their backs outnumber the women who do so by four to one. Writes a female critic: "I think you'll find that pregnancies in women influence their sleeping habits for the rest of their lives. I think you'll also find that far more thin-waisted men than paunchy types sleep on their backs." Quite logical.

A CHICKEN-FARMER named Eric Weston in Flaxton, England, serenades 2,500 hens, with tape-recorded music. Rock and roll ruins their egg production, he reports, but the mambo raises it greatly.

DID I TELL you that the Zambia National Airways hired a staff gynecologist to take care of its expectant stewardesses?

WHAT DO these people have in common? Bob Hope, Christopher Columbus, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Willie Mays, Norman Vincent Peale, Kate Smith and Harry S Truman. Very little, you say. Quite so, But they were all born in May.

Clash dead identified

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon Monday released the names of three of the five servicemen killed in the fighting last week of the Cambodian coast. Spokesman Joseph Lattin identified the dead whose next of kin had been notified as: —Air Force 2nd Lt. Richard Vandegier, of Buckland, Maine; —Air Force S. Sgt. Elwood E. Rumbaugh, husband of Mrs. Vickie M. Rumbaugh, Dothan, Ala.; —Marine Lance Cpl. Ashton N. Loney, son of Mrs. Virginia E. J. Loney, Albany, N. Y. Lattin said none of the bodies had been recovered.

Safe sought

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — It should be difficult to steal or lose, an 800-pound safe containing $10,000 worth of jewelry. But somebody did. The police department wants to know who, and how. The 4-foot-tall, gray metal safe was found in an alley Feb. 28 by a motorcycle parking control officer. It apparently either fell out of a vehicle or was abandoned by thieves unable to open it. When nobody claimed it after 10 days, detectives had it drilled open and found a valuable collection of pearl and coral jewelry and 3,000 loose pearls. Some papers were found, but they gave no indication who the owner was. —Police Thursday made public the find in hopes somebody will realize his safe full of pearls has been missing for a month.

Efficiency suggestions offered

MOSCOW — Cowmen using artificial insemination may be able to increase herd reproductive efficiency — sometimes substantially — by following suggestions offered by Dr. Garth Sasser, University of Idaho reproductive physiologist in the College of Agriculture. An example is time spent observing cows. Sasser says UI research shows that as many as 26 per cent of ovulating cows are not detected in heat when observed twice a day. When the observation schedule was increased to five times daily, only five per cent were missed. Sasser suggests the following procedure as a quick way for cowmen to check their heat detection success. — List all cows and heifers due in heat. Include cows which are not bred and which have calved at least 45 days earlier. Also include heifers at least as heavy as the following recommended breeding weights: Holstein and Brown Swiss, 750 pounds; Charolais, 700 pounds; Hereford, 650; Ayrshire, 600; Shorthorn beef, 570; Guernsey and Angus, 550; and Jersey, 500. Estrus cycles of heifers will begin from five to seven months of age and prior to reaching the recommended breeding weight. — For a 25-day period, record all heats of animals on the list. Do not add to the list after observation has started. Include every animal on the list of animals that, during the 25-day observation period, reach the heifer weight class or 45-days-after-calving category. Also, cows that start heat early in the observation period will, if not bred, probably show heat later. Do not use the second heat in computations. The formula for measuring success is this: 25-day heat percentage equals number of animals observed in heat, divided by number expected in heat, times 100.

As an example, if 15 cows from a list of 30 are observed in heat, the percentage is 50 — 15 divided by 30 equals 50, times 100 equals 50. Computations are usually more accurate if the list includes 20 or more animals. Sasser says one should expect a 25-day heat percentage of 90. Five per cent on the list will not show standing heat but will ovulate. The remaining five per cent may not be ready to ovulate, and therefore will not show heat. Cowmen who do not observe 90 per cent of animals in heat — or close to it — may have to modify detection methods, Sasser suggests. The most obvious is standing heat: animals stand for others to mount. The average length of time in standing heat is 18 hours. The time period for some is shorter — even less than four hours. Others have silent heats and do not stand at all.

Junior Hereford event set June 5

HOLLISTER — June 5 is the date for the annual Idaho Junior Hereford Association Field Day at the Dave Chadwick Hereford Ranch, beginning at 8:30 a.m. Kicking off the morning activities will be a showmanship contest to determine Idaho's national contestant and a second contest for Idaho Hereford Queen candidates. Rounding off the morning program will be a six-class Hereford breeding cattle judging contest and a weight-gain contest. Immediately following lunch, American Junior Hereford Association treasurer, Dan Austin, Ovid, Colo., will speak concerning several items of interest to the juniors as well as the adults. Keynote speaker for the afternoon will be Bill Bennett, owner of BB Cattle Co., Conell, Wash. Also scheduled for the day-long program is a showmanship demonstration, a skill presentation by the IJHA, a public speaking contest and a queen's contest. Closing out the event's list of activities will be the presentation of various awards, including a registered senior Hereford heifer calf to be presented to the IJHA member who is the high-scoring individual of the judging contest.

Aid pledged for system

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration will not allow the Social Security system to go broke, HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger said Monday. Though the system's cash reserves will be depleted in the early 1990's at the current rate of spending, "we are obviously not going to allow the trend to continue until the reserves are exhausted," Weinberger said in a speech prepared for the American Law Institute. Weinberger, head of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, is expected to unveil administration proposals to meet both short and long-range deficits in Social Security financing when he testifies Tuesday before the House Ways and Means Committee. Holman said the Farmers Union objects to such a "power grab" over agricultural lands by the Corps of Engineers, which evidently has the support of the Environmental Protection Agency. "It is important that farmers and other property owners voice their objection to this proposal by writing to their Congressman and to the Corps of Engineers," Holman said. The deadline for objections in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Washington, D. C. is June 6. The Corps issued its proposals in response to a court suit which was won by the National Wildlife Federation and the National Resources Defense Council in U. S. District Court here, Washington, D. C. on March 27. Judge Aubrey E. Robinson Jr. said in that suit that the Corps jurisdiction extended "under inland than the mean high water mark" which has been the historic limit of its authority. He did not say in his decision, however, exactly how far inland the control should extend.

Engineers' plan draws NFU blast

OGDEN — The national executive board of farmers' union has issued a statement vigorously opposing a proposal by the Army Corps of Engineers to expand its jurisdiction over U.S. waters, especially those affecting agriculture. Roy Holman, president of Utah Idaho Farmers Union, said that a resolution was passed by the board in a meeting at Cincinnati, Ohio. Holman said the Corps of Engineers has made four proposals since 1968 which would involve a substantial expansion of its jurisdiction over agriculture. The most stringent proposal would require every farmer to get permission to plow fields adjacent to flood-control levees and stock ponds. The most restrictive proposal would require permits in coastal areas below the mean high water mark or salt water. "We are not going to let the Army Corps of Engineers take over our water rights and their jurisdiction over our land," Holman said.
