The vote was 12-0 with China and Iraq not participating. They had indicated earlier they would not vote.

US backs big world food plan

PARIS (UPI) — President Ford has pledged American aid in creating a $1 billion-dollar-a-year farm fund to help feed the world for the rest of the 20th Century, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today.
"The global problems of food are a central moral and political challenge," Kissinger told the 24-nation Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development. "A world order in which tens of millions starve and millions more are undernourished will never be accepted as just."

"Unless we act now, the world may face a series of increasingly unmanageable food crises over the next quarter century," Kissinger said. He halted a proposal by oil-producing nations to create a fund to finance food production in poorer, developing countries.
"President Ford has asked me to announce that the United States will participate in the creation of such a fund. We believe its resources should total at least $1 billion a year," he said.

U.S. diplomats said Kissinger's speech today and his Tuesday address to the 15-nation International Energy Agency formed an outline of America's current foreign economic policy.
Kissinger spoke before flying to Brussels to join Ford at a summit meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and a European tour to include a meeting with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in Salzburg, Austria, as well as sessions with Spanish leaders in Madrid and Pope Paul VI and Italian officials in Rome.

His speech Tuesday outlined plans for the oil-consuming industrialized nations to spend $1 trillion on gaining independence from oil-producing nations. Today's address to the OECD dealt with how rich and poor free nations can band together to prosper.
Kissinger said a food crisis, a global recession and "inflation unprecedented in the postwar period" threaten all free nations and require joint action.

Oil import tariff climbs $1 Sunday

WASHINGTON — President Ford announced Tuesday night the would impose a second $1-a-barrel fee on imported oil beginning Sunday and that he would start phasing out price controls on domestic oil supplies late in June.
"I will not stand here idly while the United States runs out of gas," Ford said in a brief, nationally televised address.
He accused the Congress of "wasting four months in unproductive debate on energy conservation and said he was acting now because: "The Congress cannot drift, dawdle and debate forever with America's future."
Ford acknowledged that the two actions would increase consumer costs for energy. White House officials said the higher import fee would add one and a half cents to the price of a gallon of gasoline or half a cent to the price of a gallon of diesel oil. He said that the elimination of domestic oil prices could cost another five or six cents a gallon over two years.
But Ford contended that the American economy would benefit eventually from his efforts to stop the flow of oil money to foreign producers, and he again urged Congress to enact legislation to tax windfall profits of domestic oil companies.

"When I talk about energy, I am talking about jobs," Ford said. "Our American economy runs on energy. No energy, no jobs. In the long run it is just that simple."
Congress could attempt to block either or both of the President's actions when the Senate and House return next week from a 10-day recess.
But political and procedural complications will make it difficult for Congress to prevent both White House moves.
The decision to double the $1 import fee that Ford imposed Feb. 1 had been widely anticipated. It was slotted, in advance, by Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and the architect of an alternative energy conservation program stalled in the House.
"The nation does not need what the President is prescribing, which is just a huge inflation through-increasing the price," Ullman said in a television interview Tuesday morning.

CHICAGO (Daily News) — Edward Charles, former heavyweight boxing champion, died this morning at Veterans West Side Hospital in Chicago. He was 53.

Diplomatic storm flares in Africa
DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (UPI) — A diplomatic storm flared up today among the United States, Tanzania and Zaire over efforts to save the lives of two American students and a Dutch girl kidnaped by left-wing guerrillas.
American officials said Tanzania was "too hesitantly" rejecting guerrilla demands for the release of the three hostages and that Zaire had offered virtually no cooperation in trying to secure their release.

Cosmonauts rest after first jobs
MOSCOW (UPI) — Two Soviet cosmonauts completed preparations for a program of research and experiments aboard the Salyut 4 space station orbiting 210 miles above the earth and took today off for rest and physical fitness exercises, the Tass news agency said.
Lt. Col. Pyotr Klimuk, 33, the flight commander, and civilian engineer Vitaly Sevast'yanov, 40, were spending their third day on the 20-ton space lab.

Ford starts long jaunt

BRUSSELS (UPI) — President Ford now leaves today on the first leg of a six-day European tour with a program of generating American support for "my NATO coalition" and a program of showcasing American support for "my NATO coalition."
Ford said his Atlantic Alliance against communism has stood strong for 25 years and "detests with the East can only proceed on a foundation of strong and secure alliance defenses."
Ford and his wife, Betty, were greeted by Belgium's King Baudouin and Queen Fabiola and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.
Kissinger invited Ford to help pave the way for the President's first visit to Europe as chief executive — an 11,000-mile trip that will carry him to Spain, Austria and Italy and include meetings with Egypt's President Anwar Sadat and Pope Paul.
Ford will address a North Atlantic Treaty Organization summit here and discuss the latest news by Portugal's government.
"It is fitting that the purpose of my first trip to Europe as president of the United States is to participate in a NATO summit," said Ford in remarks prepared for delivery on his arrival.

The students and local employees of the Agency for International Development claimed a major victory when American officials agreed Tuesday morning to most of the demonstrators' demands, including an end of all A.I.D. presence in Laos by June 30 and turnover of all agency equipment to the Laotian government.

Evel cleanup to court?

BY DAVID HORSMAN
Twin Falls News Service
TWIN FALLS — Local claims detailing over $5,000 for cleanup after Evel Knievel's Snake River Canyon flip may end up in court.
Twin Falls County Commission Chairman Merl Leonard Tuesday said Knievel's Twin Falls attorney "holds very little hopes that Evel will honor the liabilities against him short of litigation."
Attorney James May "doesn't feel that Mr. Knievel will be paying but any money unless he is forced into it," Leonard told the Times-News.
Leonard said he talked with May on Friday.
May, however, denies making "any such statements" to Leonard. "He (Knievel) is in England. I just haven't heard from him, that's all," May said.
Asked if a suit might be necessary to get the money from Knievel, May said, "I wouldn't be surprised but I haven't advised them (local officials) of that."
The city of Twin Falls stands to lose the most if the claims are not collected. City crews cleaned up the Snake River flats after the jump attempt and turned it a bill for about $15,000.

agbrush, the new school was considered to have "all of the conveniences," with rest rooms in the basement and a hand-fired coal furnace for heat.
Some of the children were brought to school in horse-drawn wagons, the account says. The student population of Twin Falls had grown from 100 pupils in 1904 to more than 1,200 in 1909, according to the history.
Mrs. Burkhardt described Twin Falls as the "Miracle town" because the town had a school before it had a saloon and recalls the ankle-deep dust in the unpaved streets.
Women wore knee-high boots and changed to fancy slippers inside, she recalls.
Washington opened in September, 1916, and according to a history by Mrs. W.S. Foster, "was promptly nicknamed 'the tombstone' because it was gray and only one story."
Cost to build the eight-room school was $31,800, plus about $4,200 for the property.
Salaries that year ranged from $75 to a maximum of $300. And according to the US worker productivity climbs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After declining for two years, worker productivity rose in the first three months of 1975, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said today.
The increase of 3.4 per cent in output per man hour reflects a practice by industries to trim fat from their operations and cut costs during a recession.
Economists expect productivity to increase sharply for several months because companies have made their operations more efficient and are slow to hire additional workers after the economic recovery begins.

Moynihan precisely what US needs in UN envoy

Energizing Congress

President Ford has taken action both to "energize Congress" and to prevent the U.S. from "running out of gas."

He added another $1 per barrel fee on imported oil and announced his intention to begin phasing out price controls on domestic oil supplies in June.

Ford emphasized the action was taken because of Congressional inaction on any energy program.

He said it has been four months since he presented the "presidential" energy package to Capitol Hill, and no action has since been forthcoming.

Ford earlier had announced his plan to raise the import fee to $3, but suspended all but the first $1 per barrel in a conciliatory move to give Congress time to produce its own energy program.

Clearly the Ford approach is not the best. It uses artificially high prices to curtail consumption.

It fails to be selective. It imposes energy constraints across-the-board to industry and individuals, but makes no provision for national priorities among the various energy uses.

But even worse than its lack of selectivity is its lack of strength. By some estimates it may lead to gasoline price increases of less than a dime a gallon - enough to hurt but not enough to limit consumption much.

Still, Ford's program is better than nothing. During the congressional four-month dawdle from $8 to $10 billion has been drained from the U.S. economy to pay for oil imports.

So far all Congress has come up with is a poorly supported watered-down energy package that won't much please anybody and won't do much good either.

Congress must take strong action if America is not to become weak.

Ready Teddy

Wall Street Journal

Sen. Edward Kennedy must be getting ready to run for President. Why else would he be cooking up schemes to bedevil the American businessman?

In our Tax Report last week, it was noted that the Senator wants to limit business deductions for air travel to coach fares. Business deductions for first class travel cost the Treasury $280 million a year, his staff calculates, erroneously.

Remember Senator McGovern's complaint that the businessman writes of Martin Luther and the apostle Joe can't even write of a Bologna sandwich?

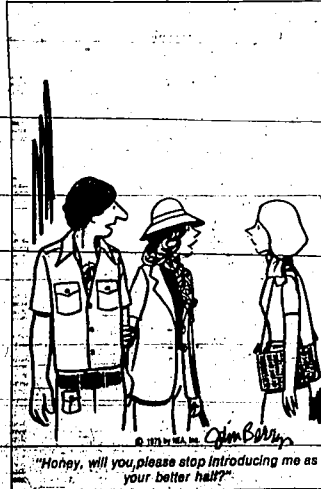

Like his liberal colleagues, Senator Kennedy makes the "tax expenditure" argument, which rests on the assumption that all income belongs to the government, and that any income the government does not choose to keep for itself is a subsidy to the private sector.

The next step for Senator Kennedy is to end business luxury on the ground. Business deductions should be permitted for hotel rooms without bath, but rooms with bath should be considered taxable perks for corporate brass.

Auto-related deductions would only apply for six-cylinder autos that get better than 15 miles per gallon. The blue-plate special shall be deductible, but nothing else.

Alcoholic beverages shall not be deductible as business entertainment, unless members of Congress are in attendance.

Berry's World

"Hokey, will you please stop introducing me as your better half?"

ON Y. Times Service UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. - President Ford's appointment of Daniel Patrick Moynihan to be his ambassador to the United Nations is being attacked on the ground that Pat is too blunt, too dramatic and combative to represent the U.S. at so delicate a time in world history.

He is, of course all these things - a peacock in a world of political crows. He's a talker and a "character" from a previous age: articulate, even glibulous, but highly intelligent, with a sense of history and even a sense of humor - in short, maybe precisely what the U.S. needs at the U.N. in the coming year.

Something odd is happening in the world of leadership these days. Precisely when the complexity of human affairs requires intelligent definition, the political leaders in the free world seem to have lost the gift of speech.

Roosevelt, Churchill, DeGaulle, and Nehru could speak, and somehow reduce all this diversity from the politics of the West. For example, the most eloquent man in Israel, Abba Eban, has been benched. In China, Mao Tse-Tung, a poet, and Chou En-Lai, an articulate politician and historian, are fading into the shadows, and the political technicians and their anonymous speechwriters seem to be taking over all over the world.

The point is clear here at the United Nations. The United States has not had an articulate spokesman or vivid personality here since Adlai Stevenson. It has had competent ambassadors, from Henry Cabot Lodge and Russell Wiggins to Charles W. Yost, George Bush, and John Scall, but increasingly the dominant voices here have come from the new coalition of the Communist-African-Asian-Latin American bloc, crying for a redistribution of the wealth of the Western industrial world.

Moynihan has become a controversial figure recently because he wrote as a private citizen that the time had come for the United States to stop apologizing for its role in the world and to challenge this coalition of the Communists and the new nations at the U.N. In fact, this is precisely why President Ford nominated him. It was Ford's decision, and not Moynihan's, that the U.S. must begin to speak out in defense of democracy and debate the basic issues in the world organization.

Ford's recent appointments deserve respect. He has not been as partisan or ideological as most people supposed. On the whole, he has gone for the best people of whatever political persuasion. He has covered his conservative flank by nominating Stanley K. Hathaway, former governor of Wyoming, as secretary of the Interior, but he has been even more objective than most presidents of the recent past in picking other key officials.

For example: Edward W. Levi, president of the University of Chicago, as attorney general; William T. Coleman Jr. of Pennsylvania, as secretary of transportation; John Dunlop of Harvard as secretary of labor; Carla A. Hills of California as the first woman secretary of HUD; Elliot Richardson of Harvard and the Saturday night massacre, as ambassador to London, and now Pat Moynihan as ambassador to the United Nations.

This is an impressive list, and Moynihan, the President's latest appointment, is much more than an articulate and intelligent dramatic personality. The stereotype of Moynihan as a poetic and vaguely wild Irishman is really out of focus.

He was not only a good but a cautious and proper U.S. ambassador to India: in two years in New Delhi, he made only four public statements, two of them in the last two weeks of his mission at the Indian Institute of Management. He gave only one press conference in two years, and he negotiated, almost unnoticed, the largest debt settlement between the U.S. and India in the history of the world.

In the process, he learned something about the mind of the Third- or developing world, and believes that its anti-American rhetoric must be understood and answered - if the Third World is not to become more and more dependent on the Communist powers.

As the Communist powers, the United Nations is changing, redefining its rules and its mission in the world. It has a limited but important role to play in a hungry and divided world that is already in the middle of a class war between the rich and the poor nations - and doesn't know it.

The coming session of the United Nations General Assembly this autumn, however, will bring this issue between the industrial nations and the Communist and developing nations to the fore, and while Moynihan will not determine U.S. policy, he will be its spokesman - and the guess here is that he will be the most effective ambassador we have had at the U.N. since Stevenson.

Church, CIA probers avoid showdown with Ford

WASHINGTON - Alleviating grave fears inside the White House - the select Senate committee probing the CIA is displaying uncommon discretion in avoiding any showdown with President Ford, a fact that first became clear with the backstage events that began April 9.

On that day, a letter signed by Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, chairman of the 11-member select committee, was delivered to President Ford. It asked immediate submission to the committee of the confidential report prepared by CIA director William Colby for Mr. Ford last December after published reports charged the Central Intelligence Agency with spying on American citizens.

Church's letter, described by one top White House aide as "firm, but not peremptory," outraged the White House. Only one day earlier, the staff of the select committee had been privately advised by the White House that the Colby report would indeed be handed over.

Thus, White House aides, charged with meticulous monitoring of intelligence data wanted by the committee - suspected a transparent political play: that the Church letter was designed to put the President in the humiliating position of bowing to the committee alter the decision had already been made to turn over the Colby report.

But the anger quickly turned to conciliation, thanks to chairman Church. Within 24 hours, he agreed in effect to recall his letter without any response from Ford. Presidential aides believed Church himself was unaware the White House agreed to turn over the material.

The closely-averted crisis established a tone between committee and administration that both Church and Republican Sen. John Tower of Texas, the committee's vice chairman, are intent on continuing.

White House aides are not so sure, but they have become more hopeful that the raw politics inherent in purple exposes of the CIA will play second fiddle to the need for careful investigation. (With its chief hired only last week, the House select committee's investigation could be another matter.)

One obvious reason for the Senate spirit is crossing the spectrum from Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona on the right to Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado on the left, must stay united or his investigation will explode in politics. So far, the committee has voted unanimously on every issue it has taken up.

There is, however, a second, more significant reason. Church is a philosopher deep steeped in the isolationist traditions of the American West but he is no radical fire-eater. Having spent weeks peering into the bubbling caldron of CIA operations, and learning first hand about the extent and variety of its work the past 35 years, he has resolved close issues in favor of the White House.

As one committee member told us: "Frank is leaning over backwards to avoid getting the CIA's blood on the committee's hands or his own. He knows this country needs an intelligence system."

Some committee liberals, aware of the chairman's caution against pushing the investigation too hard or too fast, are showing mild signs of unhappiness. While nothing approaching a schism has developed among committee Democrats, Church may have more trouble controlling them than holding down the Republican side of the committee.

The Democratic unrest stems from this fact: on half a dozen separate issues involving CIA or White House refusal to turn over raw files to the committee, the administration had tentatively decided to invoke executive privilege: each time, however, the committee backed down.

Although it did not reach the executive privilege stage, an incident provides a good example. The committee, after pulling and tugging, was given a voluminous summary of an internal CIA report on the agency's problems containing anonymous criticisms by its own employees. The committee staff asked for names.

At first, Church went along with that request. But when the administration pointed out the flagrant unfairness of attaching the names of CIA employees to their own in-house criticisms, he backed off. If the committee does insist on the individual criticisms, the authors' names will be blarfed out, as they certainly should be.

The CIA and the White House are working hard to keep Church's probe moving cooperatively. Extraordinarily stringent security imposed by Church and Tower on the committee and its staff, with most staffers assigned to specific pieces of the investigation and barred from across-the-board access, has worked well so far. In prospect, then, is a reasoned, fair and non-inflammatory Senate examination of the embattled agency, one that at least can avoid the worst excesses so feared at its start.

Thoughts along Potomac

WASHINGTON - In this Memorial Day week, it seems fitting to grant amnesty to a few imprisoned thoughts and notes about the erratic rhythms of life along the Potomac:

The "Mayaguez affair" has uncoupled the chauvinists, and their fist-shaking glee is unsettling the quietly patriotic citizens who recognize the distinction between pride and bluster. ... In the Valhalla of old Marines, though, John Philip Sousa polishes up a new march, while Smedley D. Butler, the one-eyed general, embroiders tales about his gang-bro days in Nicaragua.

Tough talk circulates like a juicy rumor. ... The ghost of John Foster Dulles can be heard chiding when Defense Secretary James Schlesinger echoes Dulles' "massive retaliation" doctrine of the 1950s, a bluff that worked. ... For the benefit of the North Koreans in Pyongyang, Schlesinger says, "... one of the lessons of the Vietnam conflict is that rather than simply counter your opponent's threats, it is necessary to go for the heart of the opponent's power: destroy his military forces rather than simply being involved endlessly in ancillary military operation." ... Kim Il-Sung, beware!

Congressional liberals, neo-isolationists, non-interventionists, rationalist pacifists and budget-cutters fall back to unprepared positions, yielding turf to proponents of the Pentagon's bigger-bang-for-more-bucks, fearful of a new truculent mood in their home districts. ... Does have turned into fledgling hawks, for the nonce, Mansfield and Church say keep the boys in place along the 38th parallel. ... Even Eugene McCarthy, super-dope on Vietnam, subscribes to the use of limited U.S. force if South Korea should be attacked, says the public will support it.

Henry Kissinger visits U.S. headquarters in West Berlin, listens to the "Star-Spangled Banner" as a U.S. honor guard stands at attention and flags crackle in the breeze, and the tough little geopolitician gets a lump in his throat, collects himself, says, "All of those who doubt what America has stood for should visit Berlin... where basic issues do not require explanations." ... Only a stupid Congress and the people keep requiring explanations, eh, Henry?

A diplomat from a troubled Mediterranean country says Portugal's armed forces could be separated from the Lisbon communists with an adroit covert operation from the outside, laments that the CIA seems to be immobilized by the investigations into its covert operations. ... In this turbulent year, Americans continue to be victimized by assassins in Iran, kidnapers in Tanzania, looters in Laos, beyond the reach of punitive action, a reminder that the price of involvement is often dear.

Leonie Mike Mansfield, a leader by complaint as he is esteemed, a man burdened with truth, says Congress is vulnerable to Ford's charge of do-nothingness in the energy field. ... Asked why he gives ammunition to the President's probable campaign theme next year, Mike replies, "What do you want me to do - lie to you?" ... For that kind of talk the old ex-Marine from Montana could be cashiered by his Senate peers.

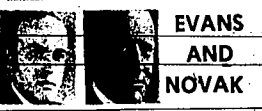

PETER LISAGOR

Mei Laird, the former defense chief who can be charmingly devious and vice versa, is asked if he's trying to draw away from Ford by suggesting that GOP conservatives might satisfy their craving for battle next year by challenging Vice President Rockefeller. ... "How do you want me to answer that?" Laird asks. ... "Honestly." ... Says Laird, "Well, that cracks a problem for me."

Gene McCarthy, full of wry wit and empty dreams, carries a passage from Plutarch in his pocket and produces it for the benefit of those who suggest he's in danger of becoming another Harold Stassen in his endless and seemingly futile pursuit of the presidency. ... Says Plutarch: "They are wrong who think politics is like an ocean voyage or a military campaign, something to be done with some particular end in view, something which leaves off as soon as that end is reached. It is not a public chore, to be got over with. It is a way of life. It is the life of a domesticated political and social creature who is born with a love for public life, with a desire for honor, with a feeling for his fellows; and it lasts as long as need be."

Anyone want to chip in to endorse a bench in LBJ park along the Potomac for Gene to sit on and dispense his rich load of ideas about God, country, Jerry Ford, and the Democratic party?

Ford comes into own in foreign affairs

By SAUL ROHLER
O'Nebraska News Service
 WASHINGTON — With his first trip to Europe since he moved into the Oval Office, President Ford comes into his own in the field of foreign relations and prepares to take on a wide range of problems involving old friends and potential adversaries.

The President ascended to his office in the greatest domestic crisis since the Civil War and for a time, he appeared content to leave foreign matters in the hands of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. It generally was assumed that he had hardly a thought of summitry.

But having stamped himself as his own man at home with his battles against an un-with Congress in the field of energy, and as a tough leader after sending the Marines to reclaim the Mayaguez and its crew—Ford emerges as a President should emerge: He is the man who makes foreign policy and leaves it to the secretary of state to carry out.

In Brussels, home of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization since Charles de Gaulle threw it out of France in 1967, Ford will be busier than a politician running for election. For two days, in addition to attending the plenary sessions of NATO, leaders of the President will:

— Hold bilateral meetings with virtually every NATO head of state, including one with Giscard, who refuses to attend the summit but has consented to fly to Brussels for a dinner given by the King of Belgium. Ford will assure all that America's NATO commitment is firm.

— Meet with the prime ministers of Greece and Turkey over the problem of Cyprus, an island which has caused such dispute that the Eastern Bloc of NATO is endangered. Here, Ford will be stepping in to offer his personal help—no Kissinger's—in the name of international security.

— Discuss the problem of Portugal with his fellow heads of state. Portugal is a member of NATO, which has formed originally to withstand any attack from the Communist block countries, and now appears on the road to going Communist itself. It never would do, the President believes, to have a communist country as a NATO member, but how does the alliance exclude Portugal after all these years?

One of the hardest jobs facing Ford in Brussels is the reassurance he surely will want to give other heads of state that the United States will stand firm in its treaty obligations, despite the unpopularity of the Indochina war among the people, and—more important, perhaps—in Congress.

Here, his forceful action in the Mayaguez incident will stand as a reference. The President was able to recapture the ship and rescue the crew despite general compliance with the War Powers Amendment. And Ford will tell other leaders that the Southeast Asia situation was not covered by a treaty whereas American obligations in NATO are cast in formal terms.

Ford also will be able to reassure heads of other nations that he has some muscle in Congress as he points to his latest actions in the energy crisis. He will depart from Washington less than 12 hours after addressing the nation by television and administering another dose of hard-to-swallow executive medicine in the form of increased taxes.

He already has paid tribute to European countries' efforts to conserve oil and has condemned Congress roundly for its failure to follow suit.

In Madrid—Spain is not a member of NATO—the President will confer, with Generalissimo Francisco Franco, who is celebrating his 80th year as head of state the 100th control while Ford will was a student), on the matter of a new lease for American bases on Spanish soil.

The talks will have implications far beyond the relations of the two countries, since the host could be using as a refueling stop en route to the Middle East. With Portugal a probable follower of the Communist line, the Azores, NATO base likely will be a thing of the past.

At Salzburg, Austria, the President will meet with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat as part of the American "reassessment" of Middle East relationships, in mid-June. Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin will come to Washington for similar conferences.

Kissinger, whose "shuttle diplomacy" broke down, hinted at a weekend meeting with reporters that Ford might propose diplomatic initiatives of his own to resume negotiations between Israel and Egypt if Sadat and Rabin appear intractable.

The last stop in the week-long journey will be the Vatican, where Ford will meet with Pope Paul VI for his first formal audience as President and a discussion on the subject of peace.

High on the agenda for the meeting with the Pope will be the world food shortage.

Rescue account draws blast

Editor, Times-News: To M. J. Gilling, Editor Richard High and reporter Bart Quessell:

Outrage—is an understatement for the way I feel about your article of May 21, 1976. What kind of human being are you anyway? You have your compassion for the suffering of other people? Why did you have to destroy an illusion when the illusion did nothing but help ease the pain and sorrow?

It would not have hurt your article bit to have omitted the mention of the condition of the remains of our loved ones, as you did in Paragraph 18 of your article.

I have no idea as to what kind of a person you are. I guess because of the way you put in print but I do pray for you that you never have to suffer from a broken illusion of your loved one's death as you have made us suffer.

I have a very very low opinion of you both in addition to the Times-News. You are indeed without compassion or feeling for your fellowman in both writing that paragraph in that way and printing it.

God help us if this is all of the compassion we have or show to our fellowman.

MRS. OWEN (CARREN) PETERSON
 Hagerman
 P.S. I have few illusions as to whether you will print this or not.

Editor's note: Reporter Bart Quessell's article described the heroism of a man who risked his life to save another. Ted Teren, Gimlet, wearing only light tennis shoes, drug a man from a burning plane only moments before it exploded with two victims still inside.

Quessell's story soberly noted the facts of the case. Far from being cruel and heartless, Quessell's story pays appropriate homage to a brave man.

The pilot is alive today because of the rescue. It is a story the Times-News must tell.

We do regret any additional suffering that may have caused survivors. However, we will continue to describe real-life heroism when it occurs.

Bureaus increase in power

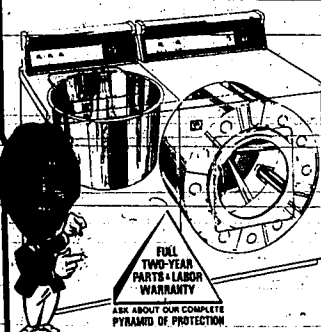

Editor, Times-News: The machine of big government which has hoisted your cost of living into the clouds has done so by inflating our currency (through runaway deficit spending) at the rate of 10 to 15 per cent a year, and through massive government regulation which has added another 10 to 15 per cent to the cost of everything you buy.

Considering that direct and hidden taxes now take 43.5 per cent of personal income. It is clear that big government has set out intentionally to raise our cost of living and reduce our standard of living. Typical of its means of doing this is the Environmental Protection Agency. Its anti-pollution regulations for automobiles will cost consumers $95 billion—a sum greater than the worth of all goods and services produced in Canada in one year. The harnessments of O.E.H.A. alone have already added $3,000 to the cost of building a $33,000 house, and just filling out federal forms required of business currently wastes 130 million man-hours that might otherwise be devoted to producing goods and services at lower costs.

If the Constitutional freedoms and individual rights are to be preserved in this great Republic, it is in individual mind assume a greater responsibility to demand that our elected officials at all levels of government dismantle the bureaucracy which threatens to usurp power and authority from the people.

Supreme court extends protection to juveniles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Tuesday extended to juveniles the same constitutional protection against being tried twice for the same crime that already applies to adults.

The unanimous ruling was another in a series going back to 1967 in which youthful offenders have been extended the same rights as their elders. The most significant right still denied juveniles is that of a jury trial.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said "we believe it is simply too late in the day" to hold that a juvenile does not suffer double jeopardy when a juvenile court finds him guilty of a crime and transfers his case to adult court, where he is found guilty a second time for the same offense.

The decision reversed the conviction of a California youth for armed robbery.

In another opinion, the Court held 8 to 1 that federal courts have no power to block congressional subpoenas of bank records to obtain information about depositors.

The case involved an attempt by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee to obtain records of deposits by the United States Servicemen's Fund, which sponsored coffee houses near military posts and helped put out antiwar underground newspapers.

Burger said "issuance of subpoenas such as the one in question here has long been held to be a legitimate use by Congress of its power to investigate."

Justice William J. Douglas dissented. Justices Thurgood Marshall, William J. Brennan Jr. and Potter Stewart concurred with Burger, but said there might be some instances where the courts could strike down a congressional subpoena.

In another opinion, the Court ruled 7 to 2 that Congress could limit salary increases for employees of state government under the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970.

In a brief order, the justices formally disbarred convicted Watergate coverage conspirator John W. Dean III from practice before the Court. Such actions are routine when a lawyer is disbarred by his home state.

In other actions Tuesday, as they headed toward the end of this term tentatively scheduled June 16, the Justices:

—Agreed to rule for the first time on the constitutionality of hair length regulations. A lower court struck down a Suffolk County, N.Y., police hair length rule, and the county appealed.

—Set for reargument and decision next term a challenge to a 1974 law extending federal wage-hour provisions to thousands of employees of state and local governments.

—Agreed to decide whether the 1961 Civil Rights Act prevents a private employer from excluding pregnancy benefits from a disability protection plan.

—Declined to review a lower court decision upholding new government regulations drastically cutting the permissible exposure of workers to vinyl chloride.

—Left standing a ruling which struck down Minnesota's law giving tax credits to parents of children attending private schools. The Court also sent an Ohio school aid case back to a lower court for reconsideration in light of last week's decision striking down a similar Pennsylvania law.

No lunch

NOBLESVILLE, Ind. (UPI) — A young deer came to lunch Monday at a hamburger restaurant but left without eating.

The deer, a buck about a year old, broke a three-fourth-inch-thick plate glass window, damaged several tables and knocked a hole in a wall. Then it knocked the door open and fled. It suffered a cut to the head and a broken leg.

Police tracked the deer down and gave it tranquilizers so that it could be treated.

Former rail tracks become hiker trail

CONFLUENCE, Pa. (UPI) — In the heyday of the railroad, John Cominsky ran many a freight train through the rolling hills of the Allegheny Mountains, moving eastward along the Youghiogheny River, past the white rapids at Ohkoye, Fishery Creek and Big Savage Mountain.

But the heyday of the railroad is over, abandoned to the harsh realities of refinancing, bankruptcy and rail abandonment.

Cominsky took the Western Maryland Railway passenger train on a final run through the 22-year-old right-of-way this month. The 62-mile stretch will be turned back to its natural state.

Although the railway and its crew are leaving, Cominsky says he is happy that the hills, the lush forest, the mayapple and mountain laurel will not go unappreciated.

The Western Maryland, which decided it could no longer afford the cost of maintaining the track, has begun legal procedures for deeding the land to the Western Pennsylvania Conservancy for development into a mountain trail for hikers and bicyclists.

Cominsky, a 28-year veteran of the railways, is taking the end of the 62-mile Confluence, Pa., to Hancock, Md., run in stride. He has come to accept the financial pressures brought to bear on the railways.

"Like any other industry, this one is so modified you can't even remember what it was like when you started out," Cominsky said.

He has seen many of the changes — desiccation, the longer trains, and the longer cars.

The railroad already has begun ripping up the old ties and rails, and the Conservancy has begun sketchy plans for the trail. The river gorge trail, according to Conservancy members, will be one of the longest and most beautiful "railroad trails" in the country.

Railway ordinances require that the maximum grade for all right-of-ways be less than 3 per cent — a three-foot rise in 100 feet — ideal for cycling.

The Conservancy, which is now looking to the state or National Park Service for financial help, says it is also considering some type of transportation along the right-of-way by some "inoffensive," possibly electric, vehicle.

Nature groups are considering building campsites along the trail so that hikers can stop along the way and enjoy canoeing or rubber raft rides in the white rapids of the Youghiogheny.

The completion of the hiking and bicycle trail is two to four years off. But nature enthusiasts can begin walking on the trail as soon as the tracks are torn up.

For the Western Maryland, times won't change much — just locations. It will continue to wind its freight trains along the B&O tracks opposite the river.

He caught a big one!

DECATUR, Ala. (UPI) — Wayne Roberts of Decatur took his family fishing at Wheeler Wildlife Reserve during the weekend and caught an alligator.

Roberts said Monday his 13-year-old son, Mitch, spotted the alligator in the backwaters of the Tennessee River Saturday night about the time of the eclipse of the moon. He said they tried to catch the five-foot gator with a rope.

"That was a mistake," Roberts said. So, "I decided to lie his mouth shut."

Roberts flagged down a passing car, and the occupants went for Morgan County sheriff's deputies. The deputies and Roberts tried to put the alligator into the deputies' car and take it to a dog pound.

"Putting the gator in the backseat of the patrol car was a mistake, too," Roberts said. He said the animal flopped around strongly.

Then ranger Cecil Davis drove up. Davis took the alligator to a cage designed for geese and kept it overnight. Reserve workers released the gator in an isolated section of the reserve Sunday.

Ford sees 1 of 3 Demos '76 foe

WASHINGTON — President Ford, preparing to make a low-key assessment of the opposition field, was reported by one of several campaign advisers who have been preparing for a President's official declaration of candidacy, tentatively scheduled for early next month.

According to the advisers, Ford is likely to treat the declaration in a matter-of-fact manner, in keeping with the recent tradition of incumbents.

US needs trillion for oil drive

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gulf Oil Co. says the industrial West must embark on a comprehensive energy program to reduce dependence on imported oil by spending well over a trillion dollars on research and development.

A spokesman for the nation's fourth largest producer Tuesday said a program designed to achieve energy self-sufficiency should stress:

- Conservation of available fuel supplies without jeopardizing jobs.
- Development of offshore oil.
- Research on synthetic fuels, including gasification of coal.
- Nuclear and geothermal energy.

In Paris Tuesday, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger called on the world's principal oil-consuming nations Tuesday to cooperate and cut their dependence on oil imports. But a Gulf spokesman said even the expenditure of a thousand billion dollars, as Kissinger proposed, would not solve the problems.

"A trillion-dollar program might not be enough," the spokesman said.

"While Gulf agrees with Dr. Kissinger's primary goals and the importance he places on increased energy production by the consuming nations, we feel that he underestimates the financial requirements needed to develop and expand these energy sources."

Kissinger urged Western Europe and Japan to work together with the United States over a 10-year period to develop independent fuel supplies.

In order to achieve a significant reduction in foreign oil imports over the next decade, "dramatic" increases in the production of coal, nuclear energy, off-shore oil drillings and other energy sources would be required, Gulf said.

"It is vitally important that the United States and other oil-consuming nations reduce their dependence on imported oil," the spokesman said. "It should be noted, however, that while conservation is important, conservation alone cannot provide the solution to our energy needs. Indeed, Sheik Yamani of Saudi Arabia and other representatives of producing nations have stated they have little incentive to deplete their oil resources while the U.S. conserves its energy resources.

"The real solution to the energy problems is for the U.S. to increase its energy production."

The Gulf spokesman estimated the oil industry will spend between $26 to $36 billion this year on research and development.

"Money is the biggest problem," the spokesman said. "Where is it going to come from?"

LISBON (UPI) — The Socialist party today ended for the time being its boycott of the Communist-backed government to attend a vital meeting on the future of the Democratic nomination. Oil import tariff hasn't worked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When President Ford first raised the tariff on imported oil last February, he hoped the resulting higher consumer prices would help cut the demand for foreign petroleum.

So far, it hasn't worked.

After three months of higher prices for foreign oil, imports are running at about the same level as before.

Balance of trade figures released Tuesday by the Commerce Department put the value of imported petroleum and related materials in April at $2.44 billion. That's roughly the average monthly import level of the last half of 1974.

"In other words," said Commerce Secretary Rogers C.B. Worton after reviewing the trade report, "there has been no improvement in the basic problem of dependence on foreign sources of energy."

"Actually, the oil trade has been highly volatile since the first of the year. In January, when American companies first caught wind of Ford's plan for three successive monthly increases of $1 per barrel in the import tariff, there was a rush to bring in as much petroleum as possible at the earlier cheaper rate.

The value of imports jumped to $3.05 billion in January, but then fell to $1.32 and $1.31 billion in February and March as demand sagged because of the temporary oversupply. April imports appeared to return to the recent average rate.

Now Ford has announced his second $1 per barrel tariff increase which will go into effect June 1.

Under federal rules, importers are allowed 10 days in either side of the actual delivery date in which to report the arrival of foreign petroleum. This means that oil delivered up to June 10 could be reported as delivered in May, thus saving the added $1 per barrel.

"This could cause an artificial bulge in May imports and a correspondingly smaller figure for June."

Henry's punch in Tel Aviv less

WASHINGTON — Israeli policymakers are becoming disenchanted with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger as a peacemaker, according to an internationally known expert of Middle East affairs.

At the same time, Kissinger's standing with the Arab bloc continues to be very strong, says Gil Carl Alroy. This is because top-Moslem leaders retain a belief that he is the only American statesman with sufficient political potential to force Israel to accept Arab terms for peace.

"Israeli leaders continue to cooperate with Kissinger, according to Alroy, simply because they must, while trying to put the best face on it." They are resolved to fight him, however," Alroy declares, "if pressed beyond (peace) conditions they can live with."

Alroy's opinion is expressed in "The Kissinger Experience: American Policy in the Middle East," (Horizon Press). His views seem likely to stir controversy here and abroad because of his standing as an expert interpreter of Middle Eastern affairs.

Alroy was employed in that area for 10 years, four with the United States State Department. Alroy now is professor of political science at Hunter College, and is on the graduate faculty of the City University of New York.

Within Israel, Alroy writes, "There are nuances in attitudes toward Kissinger, a sense of anxiety and distrust seems common." This is apparent, the author continues, "even in the small minority of so-called 'dovish' elements, who come as close to being a Kissinger party as any Jewish group can in Israel's present emotional and intellectual climate."

Internal political considerations further extend this circumstance, Alroy asserts, "since the heightened dependence on the U.S. greatly restrains the Israeli government from venting discontent with it."

Also, Alroy writes, "The fact that Secretary Kissinger appears more secure in American public support in respect to the Middle East than in any other area suggests to Jerusalem that fighting him may be futile, and possibly counterproductive."

Husak pick for Czechs

PRAGUE (UPI) — The Czech Communist party central committee has recommended that Gustav Husak, the party secretary, replace ailing Czech President Ludvik Svoboda.

Party sources said Husak is consolidating his position for a new offensive against dissent. His planned accession was expected to bring renewed pressure on the followers of Alexander Dubcek, who was deposed after the Russian invasion seven years ago.

Husak, a 62-year-old Slovak lawyer, teamed up with Russian invasion forces to crush Dubcek's attempt to liberalize Communist rule.

The National Assembly scheduled a meeting today to pave the way for the removal of the 79-year-old Svoboda. A second party session was scheduled for Thursday to elect Husak, government sources said.

Fraud nets

14 pen time

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two years ago they were wealthy, pampered top executives of a multibillion-dollar financial conglomerate that was the marvel of Wall Street. Today they are, or soon will be, inmates in federal penitentiaries.

Fourteen former executives who pleaded guilty to directing the $2 billion Equity Funding swindle — believed to be the biggest corporate fraud in U.S. business history — have begun serving prison terms.

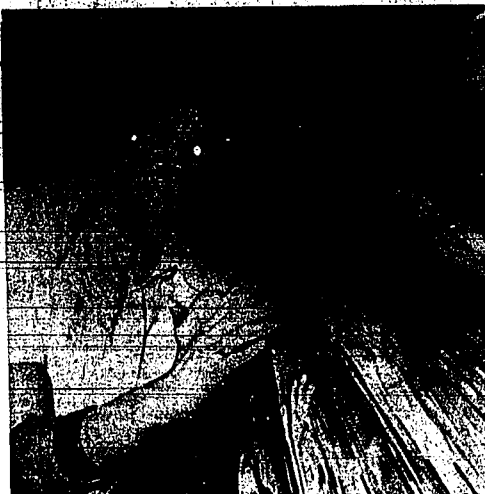

Stanley Goldblum — cofounder and president of the company and reputed merrymaker of the massive and audacious fraud — was reported to the maximum security federal prison at McNeil Island, Wash., Tuesday to begin an eight-year term. The warden reported he checked in five days early last Thursday.

Former executive vice presidents Fred Levin and Samuel B. Lovell surrendered Tuesday at Terminal Island federal prison here to begin five-year sentences.

NINE OTHER former executives are scheduled to report this week to Terminal Island or to the federal prison camp at Lompoc, Calif. Most were sentenced to two or three years. Two were allowed to serve shorter sentences under a "work-furlough" program, holding jobs during the day and reporting to the county jail to be locked up at night.

The imprisonment of the former Equity Funding executives on charges of fraud, conspiracy and securities laws violations does not come close to ending the complex case.

Research supports idea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New research strengthens an 11-year-old idea that radiation from tiny amounts of polonium-210 tobacco might play a major role in the lung cancer of cigarette smokers.

Dr. John B. Little and two associates at Harvard University's School of Public Health found that low doses of alpha radiation emitted by polonium-210 injected into hamsters caused high rates of lung cancer.

In addition, Little said in a telephone interview Tuesday that preliminary findings from experiments still under way suggest polonium radiation enhances the effects of known cancer-causing chemicals in tobacco smoke.

Polonium is a naturally occurring material that is present in minute amounts in most plants and foods. It was suggested in 1964 that its vapors in a burning cigarette accumulate in the lungs and emit alpha radiation which might cause cancer. It generally had been assumed on the basis of early studies that the radiation doses necessary to cause cancer were higher than would be received from polonium-210 smoke over the years.

The new research, however, found that low amounts of polonium radiation caused cancer in hamsters. One out of 10 of the animals developed malignancies when exposed to polonium representing roughly one-fifth the amount inhaled by a person who smokes two packs a day for 25 years.

"These results tend to support the hypothesis that polonium-210 and lead-210 (the parent isotope of polonium) in cigarette smoke may be a significant factor in the initiation of lung cancer in smokers," the scientists said.

In a report in the May 16 issue of Science, the journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, they say: "The radioactive components which are well characterized, do not contribute to 'flavor' and should be relatively easy to remove from cigarette smoke," the report said.

Attorney faces assault charges

CHICAGO (UPI) — Attorney Thomas D. Flanagan, 37, surrendered to police Tuesday and was charged with assaulting Pulitzer prize-winning cartoonist [Bill] Mauldin, who was attacked while photographing illegally parked cars at a party for Mayor Richard J. Daley's son.

Mauldin suffered a broken nose in the attack.

Flanagan, apparently a former business associate of the mayor's son, was charged with simple battery in connection with the assault.

Flanagan's lawyer, Sherman C. Magidson, promptly filed a counter-complaint and an arrest warrant was issued charging Mauldin with battery. Police said it probably would be a couple of days before the warrant is processed. Magidson refused to elaborate on the complaint against Mauldin.

Energy trade show

SOLAR power, little more than an interesting oddity before the 1974 energy crisis, is now coming into its own. The first major solar energy trade show ever held opened in Washington, D. C. Tuesday. Beth Sharer, Montreal, Canada, on the staff of the Solar Energy Industries Association, is reflected in the tubes of solar heating tubing introduced by Corning Glass Works. (UPI)

Turner receives order

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Florida promoter Glenn Turner has been ordered to pay back $44 million to consumers allegedly defrauded by his cosmetics selling operation.

The ruling came from an administrative law judge at the Federal Trade Commission, who said perhaps 30,000 investors in the Koscol cosmetics business run by Turner wound up in a "virtual financial nightmare."

The operation was an endless pyramid scheme, said Judge Donald Moore, which relied on recruiting other investors at prices up to $5,000.

"The fallacy in the 'endless chain' aspect of the Koscol marketing program, with each distributor supposedly recruiting successively two other distributors a month, is that it involves a geometric progression which, carried to its ultimate result, would mean that in 18 months the entire U.S. population (203 million in 1970) would be involved in the plan..." Moore said.

The result, he said, was that the first few people who got involved made money but the later arrivals, unable to find new recruits, were left holding the bag.

Turner, whose "dare to be great" pitches made him a minor celebrity at one point, was tried last year on mail fraud charges but the trial ended in a hung jury and another trial has been scheduled.

Moore's decision, which can be appealed to or reviewed by the full commission, requires that Koscol Interplanetary Inc., Glenn W. Turner Enterprises Inc., both of Orlando, Fla.; and three individuals, Turner, Ben Bunting and Robert Wilder, make restitution to those who lost in the scheme.

Moore did not set a figure but he said there was evidence Koscol lost in more than $44 million from August of 1967 to July of 1972 in initial fees from recruited "distributors."

Work without pay

NEW YORK (UPI) — Doctors and employees at DeLongue Eye and Ear Hospital knew what they had to do Tuesday to keep the financially troubled hospital open. They decided to work without pay.

The hospital is faced with a $1.2 million operating deficit and an immediate $100,000 cash need.

"We're living from hand to mouth," said hospital president Dr. Abner Rosenberg. "What we need is about 15 angels to drop some gold bars on us."

Kitchen workers did their best Monday by scraping together $17.74 for pay for the day's bread bill.

And while the 110-bed facility's clinic was crowded to near capacity, about 100 doctors and staff members met in the cafeteria Tuesday and overwhelmingly agreed to keep the hospital running.

The rest of the hospital's residents and employees were elsewhere — either performing surgery or tending to the sick. In the words — but there appeared to be near unanimity among the entire 300-member staff.

TWIN FALLS — City and county officials Tuesday grilled the two men who have applied to operate the restaurant at Twin Falls municipal airport.

Thomas Ratchford, who currently operates the restaurant and wishes to renew his annual lease at the facility, and Richard Tunlinga, who has asked to take over the operation when Ratchford's lease expires July 1, attended a joint luncheon session of the Twin Falls City Council, the county commission and airport officials at the Holiday Inn.

The Twin Falls Airport Commission has recommended approval of Tunlinga's proposal.

Ratchford, who was questioned and left the meeting before Tunlinga arrived, promised to keep the restaurant open to serve all regularly scheduled flights at the airport.

In the past, Ratchford reportedly has opened the facility from 9 a.m. until 8 p.m. six days per week. With that schedule, he did not provide service for an 8 a.m. daily flight from the airport.

He also agreed to the rental terms at the facility — $450 per month. He had asked several months ago that the monthly payments be reduced.

Asked about the financial condition of the restaurant, Ratchford said the facility has "just got its head above water" after 11 months under the current lease.

He denied the possibility of expanding the restaurant to serve the general public. "It's a coffee house operation for airport patrons and that's all it's going to be," he said.

Ratchford slapped Tunlinga's plan to "cater to a large luncheon crowd, primarily those of the business world," Tunlinga hopes to draw customers out to the airport specifically for a meal.

"I don't think that this man can operate under the plans that he's got there ... I just can't see the feasibility of the plan," Ratchford said.

After Ratchford left the meeting, airport commission chairman Robert Harney said, "People at the airport have objected to Tom's attitude out there."

"Other people from town" also have complained, Harney said.

"I think Tom's attitude has a lot to do with the commission's recommendation" to accept Tunlinga's proposal, he added.

Twin Falls Mayor Winston Jones, in defense of Ratchford, said, "On the other side of the coin, I've had a lot of people speak in support of him."

In questioning Tunlinga, the officials were "most concerned" about his "financial responsibility," his ability to meet the expenses of running the restaurant.

Tunlinga also said his financial backers would be R.W. Stevens, Hagerman, and his father. He estimated that $10,000 would be required initially to begin operation of the restaurant.

Tunlinga also said he has personal liabilities of more than $40,000 which should be eliminated soon. He said he is in the process of selling his interest in Media 5, Inc., a Twin Falls firm, and will use the money to pay off a large portion of the debts.

Stressing his wish to operate the restaurant, Tunlinga said, "I'm 32 and I'm hungry. I'd like to make a success of this thing and I'd like to put whatever is necessary into this thing to do it."

After Tunlinga left the meeting, Mayor Jones said, "I very seriously doubt the ability of Dick to follow through with this thing and make a go of it."

Harney, however, disagreed "100 per cent" with the mayor.

"I happen to think he will take it and make a go of it."

The county commissioners agreed to support any decision the city council makes in the matter.

The council will take final action Monday night at its regular meeting.

"At that time, without too much discussion, we can vote on it," Mayor Jones said.

First graders from Morningside School may be eating their meals with chopsticks as a result of a visit to the school by Scott Fairley, right. Here the Korean resident shows Christy Richey and his chopsticks. Mark Affleck, the fine art of holding the chop sticks.

Use chopsticks

Chopsticks attract first graders

TWIN FALLS — Teachers say it isn't easy to keep first graders interested in school activities the last days of the school year, but this was not the case at Morningside School Tuesday.

All first graders joined for a special program Tuesday morning to learn about Korea and how children in that country live.

Scott Fairley, grandfather of Mark Affleck, a first grader at Morningside visited the school bringing with him a supply of chopsticks for every first grader, dolls dressed in native Korean clothes and lots of information.

Mrs. John Affleck, Mr. Fairley's daughter, who grew up in Korea and graduated from high school there, wore her Korean dress and answered questions and helped the children in learning to use the chopsticks.

Treats were passed out and each child learned to eat with chopsticks, although some methods did not follow the Korean style to the letter.

Mr. Fairley who has served with the U.S. Government in Korea for the past 15 years, said he plans to make his home there after retiring.

In Korea, he said, everyone retires at age 61 and the retired individuals are then cared for and supported by their children and grandchildren for the remainder of their lives.

Elaine Parrish, first grade teacher who arranged for the program, said Mr. Fairley's grandson asked if his grandfather could visit class and the children in her room enjoyed the visit so much, she suggested all first graders be given an opportunity to hear about Korea.

Mrs. Affleck said she had asked her father and his wife to send some chopsticks to request something grew and when the order arrived, there were 500 pairs of chopsticks. Every first grader received his and her own chopsticks to keep.

TF sharing funds eyed for building addition

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Commission has proposed to spend the lion's share of $524,000 in federal revenue sharing monies for an addition to the Judicial Building.

The anticipated federal aid will be received between July 1 of this year and June 30 of 1976 and must be spent by July 1 of 1977.

According to commission chairman Merl Leonard, about $50,000 has been proposed for multipurpose and general government expenditures,

"most of it for the second story addition to the Judicial Building."

Bids are being taken now for the construction project.

Another $50,000 would be spent for "environmental protection," Leonard said this would include "wells, fences, septic tanks and capital outlay around landfills." Also, the weed warehouse in the View area might be improved or replaced, according to Leonard.

"Public transportation" would receive $35,000 under the spending plan. Leonard said this might include "air-port improvements or public roads."

"You never know what might be a needed expenditure" at the airport, he added.

Another $25,000 has been designated for "public safety." "We're working toward the burial of power lines around the helicopter pad at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital," Leonard said. The U.S. Air Force will not land at the pad until the lines are buried or another pad is built, according to Leonard.

Other proposed expenditures are: health, $20,000, "anything regarding health around solid waste disposal and around Magic Valley Memorial Hospital;" social services for the aged or poor, $20,000, to be used to support the four senior citizen groups in the area; recreation, $5,000, "it could possibly be used in the park areas or roads."

Alternate spending proposals may be submitted to the county commission until Nov. 1 of this year.

TF man arrested

TWIN FALLS — Richard Steven Stuart, 21, Twin Falls, has been arrested by Twin Falls police and charged with armed robbery.

Detective Capt. Tim Qualls said Stuart is charged with the May 14 robbery of a couple at the Blue Lakes Inn. The couple and their children checked in to the motel and retired to their room, but were later awakened and robbed.

Qualls said Stuart is being held under $10,000 bond and scheduled to appear in Magistrate Court later today.

Capt. Qualls reported the arrest of two young Twin Falls women on forgery charges involving medicare checks.

Alice Dunnagan, 18, and Patricia Guthrie, 19, are charged with forgery. Qualls said they are alleged to have taken checks from the mall and forged them.

Their court appearances are also scheduled later today.

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
I am 33 years old and divorced. During my marriage I had one miscarriage followed a year later by a ruptured ectopic pregnancy. I was 26 then.
My periods have been erratic, averaging one every four months. I am considering marriage again, and would like to have a child.
What are my chances, at my age, of having a normal child? What about my ability to become pregnant? Would I have another ectopic pregnancy? — M.W.

An ectopic pregnancy is one in which the ovum attaches itself to one of the Fallopian tubes, beginning its fetal development there. The result can be a spontaneous abortion, but more often the growing fetus will (as in your case) rupture the tube. Surgical removal is necessary, including the tube involved.

Erratic menstrual cycles

Dr. George Thosteson

If the other tube remains intact, then another pregnancy is possible. Your age would be no bar. However, with your erratic menstrual cycles, your fertility may be decreased. The possibility of a second ectopic pregnancy cannot be predicted, except to say the same factors which caused the first miscarriage could cause another.

The surgeon who performed the operation would be able to tell you the condition of the second tube. It would also be important to know the cause of your ectopic (tubal) pregnancy. Inflammation of the tube prior to pregnancy is the cause in about 25 per cent of the cases. Other causes can be a deformity in the tube, endometriosis (within the tube), or adhesions from previous infections.

About all you can do is try to become pregnant as soon as possible. If your physician feels you are capable, you should probably discuss your limited fertility with your fiancé before your marriage, especially if it is a matter of great importance to him. There always remains the possibility of adoption, and this, too, should be discussed.

A Further Note to Mrs. G.F.: — Regarding bowlegs, many infants appear to have bowlegs, but they eventually straighten out. However, true bowlegs can be caused by what is called internal tibial torsion, a matter of tension in one of the larger muscles in the lower legs. If not corrected, this condition can persist. The ideal time for such correction would be at the age of three or four months. The youngster's condition could be evaluated by a bone specialist if true bowleggedness is suspected.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
I have been experiencing dizziness and headaches for about six months. Could this be eye fatigue? Can eye fatigue cause this? What can I do about it? — K.K.

It is most likely something more serious than simple eye strain, causing headaches that have persisted as long as have yours. If you wear glasses, you may need to have your prescription adjusted. Or your headaches could signal something more serious, such as beginning glaucoma or cataracts.

I suggest you see an eye specialist. Do not let the situation deteriorate. Eye strain, in and of itself, is not usually the cause of such things as persistent headache and dizziness.

Your eyes are too valuable to allow such symptoms to go unchecked.

Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Dizzy Spells," discusses loss of balance, vertigo and nausea, Meniere's disease and labyrinthitis. For a copy write to him in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 3999, Elgin, Ill. 60120. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Women protest

GOTEBORG, Sweden (UPI) — A feminist group armed with lots of smelly pickled herring has declared war on men looking for prostitutes.

The women, who do not want to be identified for fear of reprisals, said they are protesting against the "contempt for women shown by love buyers" in Sweden's second largest city.

"Every time we walk in a street in certain blocks we get accosted by men taking all women for prostitutes," one of the members said.

"When they open their cars doors we throw in heaps of pickled herring, or paste unremovable stickers on their cars, saying 'I prefer transwoman exploiter.'"

The next step will be to photograph the license plates of the cars, then blow them up into huge posters to put up in stores and public places, she said. "That should stop most men from further hunting."

his way to lead the suit. So Willard went the opposite route. He bid diamonds and hearts on the way to the slam. Now our suspicious West wasn't sure of anything except that Willard was ready for a club lead so he opened a diamond. This gave Willard time to lose the heart finesse but get rid of his losing club. Against a club lead Willard would have had to lose two tricks.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The late Willard S. Karn was probably the greatest exponent of lead-directing bidding of all time.

Take today's hand as an example. After North jumped to three spades, Willard decided he was going to play at six. He could have bid six directly. This was back in the early 30s before bidding was at all scientific, but Willard decided that he wanted to insure that West wouldn't open a club. Of course, if West held the a-king of clubs there would be no way to stop a club lead, but Willard couldn't help that.

Willard could have bid four clubs and then jumped to six spades, but West had played against Willard before and that four-club bid would have been like a red rag to a bull. It would have caused West to go out of

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, who is 25, is a nurse. She is engaged to a 29-year-old doctor. He is from India. We are Irish Catholics. The young man was educated in England. He is well-mannered, quiet and from a good family (who is in India), and he plans to remain here and practice medicine.

Our problem is how our friends and relatives will react. Will they accept him? He is very dark. Will he be considered black?

Do you know what people's feelings are about white American girls dating and marrying people from India? Are our friends going to look down on him?

We would like to have a nice church wedding, to which he agrees, but are people going to criticize us?

They both seem to know what they are getting into. Can you help me?

WORRIED MOTHER

Concerned mother

DEAR MOTHER: If your daughter and her young man love each other and know what they are getting into, you have nothing to worry about. Whether or not he is "accepted" or considered black—or you are criticized—is beside the point. People who matter will accept him for what he is. And those who feel differently aren't worth bothering about.

DEAR ABBY: I am 10-years-old and recently heard of a new group called "Kid's Lib." Kids say that voting, drinking, smoking and many other activities should be legalized at age 13. My class talked about this and about 80 per cent said, "This is cool." "This is cool." "This is cool." Abby, here's what I think: Kids don't have enough judgment to do any of these things until they reach 18. Even then, drinking and smoking are bad for kids, especially younger teenagers. What do you think?

T.L. OBJECTS

DEAR T.L.: I think you've got a good head on your 10-year-old shoulders.

DEAR ABBY: According to official records, the number of deaths and injuries from fire has reached epidemic proportions.

In order to educate the public in fire prevention and control, the U.S. government has made some fascinating demonstrations available.

For instance, government agencies have contracted table-top-sized model homes that actually go up in flames from overloaded electric wiring. They also have graphic demonstrations that show how the fumes of flammable liquids travel great distances, causing explosions and fires. These demonstrations make tremendously interesting programs for schools, organizations and industries, and are perfectly safe in the hands of trained personnel in the fire department.

Fire departments that have no access to such units are happy to present them in public demonstrations. All an interested group needs to do is call its local fire department and request this program.

J.E. BROWN, CHIEF PANAMA CITY BEACH, FLA.

DEAR CHIEF: I hope your letter lights a fire under the program chairman of service clubs throughout the nation. And readers, please don't wait until Fire Prevention Week—which isn't until next October!

CONFIDENTIAL TO SISSIE: Don't place so much emphasis on age. If a man looks young, he's young. If he looks old, he's old. If he looks interesting—smile.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope. Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 LaSalle Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped 12007 envelope.

Nude driver lands in jail

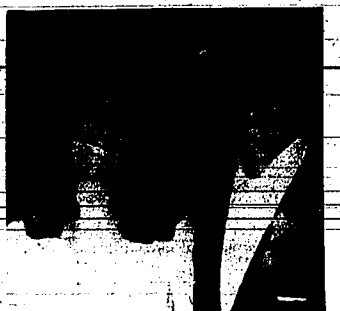

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—When Robert Crofts took nude off the Berkley Bridge, he expected to land only in the Elizabeth River—not in the city jail.

Police arrested the 19-year-old shipyard worker on disorderly conduct charges and bond was set at $250, substantially more than the $10 bet Crofts won for diving off the 55-foot bridge Sunday night.

"I dive, man, off of high places—higher than these Crofts said after a night in jail. "I am not crazy. I could have hit something, but I swam out there a long time ago."

Police did not see the dive as being quite so safe. "In-depth those things there are rocks," a spokesman said. "It's dangerous. Summertime brings on a lot of this and someone is going to get killed."

Crofts' friends, Alan Powell and Fred Burt, took turns with him to the bridge and cheered before and after his dive. "The best part was that he was naked when he did it—naked like a frog," Thomas chortled. "I knew I could do it and I did it," Crofts said.

MR. AND MRS. KIRK FAGG

Couple recites vows in Nevada ceremony

TWIN FALLS — Peggy K. Danner and Kirk C. Fagg, both, Salt Lake City, Utah, were married in an afternoon ceremony May 19 at Lake Tahoe, Nev.

The couple was married at the Carson Valley Ward Chapel by Bishop Robert Ellison.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. (Gus) Keiker, Boise, former Twin Falls residents, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Roy Painter, Twin Falls. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Del Fagg, Salt Lake City, Utah.

For her marriage, the bride wore a beige floor length gown trimmed with a full length lace panel at the front. The dress had wrist length lace sleeves.

She carried a single yellow rose.

The parents of the bridegroom stood with the couple as witnesses.

Following the wedding ceremony, the couple and the bridegroom's parents attended a wedding dinner in the couple's honor at the Christiana Inn, South Lake Tahoe.

Following her graduation from Twin Falls High School in 1968, the bride attended the University of Washington, Seattle, where she was affiliated with Sigma Kappa sorority. The bridegroom was graduated from Highland High School, Salt Lake City, in 1968, and attended Westminster College, Salt Lake City.

The couple remained at the Tahoe Marina Inn, South Lake Tahoe, for a honeymoon and will be honored at an open house at the home of the bridegroom's parents in Salt Lake City on June 7.

The couple will reside at 1747 East Zenth Ave., Salt Lake City, where the bride is employed with Max Ingalls and Associates, Inc., and the bridegroom is employed by Salt-Lake-City-Fire Department as a firefighter.

Mini-Reviews

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Public Library officials have released mini-reviews for some of the new books recently received by the library.

"Primal: Odyssey" by Geoffrey H. Bourne. Ever since Darwin posed his theory of evolution more than 100 years ago, the question of man's origin has provided a subject of interest and controversy. The theory of the evolutionary origin of man was promulgated, debated, fought and vindicated. Its recognition of the close similarity between monkeys, apes and man has had a profound and highly beneficial influence on medical research. Dr. Bourne presents an enlightening, entertainingly readable venture into the world of man's coming relations and hisite forefathers. It is a non-technical view of man's forebears and simian friends from the primitive tree shrew to the modern monkey.

"Quilling: Paper Art For Everyone" by Betty Christy. Paper quilting, the art of rolling narrow strips of paper into coils, cones, scrolls and spirals and joining the shaped pieces together to form designs has been practiced since the Renaissance—but today it is enjoying a revival among artists and craft workers.

"My Lady Benbrook" by Constance Guyas. This is a historical novel set in the Whitehall Court of lusty Charles I. The cast of characters begins with lovely Angel Dawson. She is the street wall of heartstopping beauty who has been educated masterfully and presented at Charles' court. She meets the Man—the "Vanishing Earl of Benbrook"—and loved him as few men have been loved. For this love she makes her Lady Benbrook. The plot deepens when Barbara Castleman cannot forgive Angel for her popularity and her place in the court. She conceives a plan destructive to Angel. The story builds to an astonishing climax and is full of romance, passion and intrigue.

"Emergency Room" by James Kerr. It was horrifyingly busy in the emergency room of the giant Los Angeles Hospital that particular Friday night. Dr. Jack Huchette, a handsome intern and an experienced nurse—had managed to cope with their heavy load until a lab worker in the hospital was brought in comatose. He was examined, treated but inexplicably the man died. The autopsy revealed that his life could have been saved and Jack's career was on the line. His future depended on more than his professional competence as the staff played power politics and the stakes were positions and reputations. This is a suspenseful love story with a convincing look into the operations of a big city hospital.

Ex-resident exchanges vows

MURTAUGH — Former Magic Valley resident Ruth Ann Helnicke became the bride of Charles Bommarito in a candlelight ceremony May 16 at Salem Memorial Lutheran Church, Detroit, Mich.

The bride is the daughter of Chaplain and Mrs. Martin W. Helnicke, Fort Lewis, Wash., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bommarito, Sr., St. Clair Shores, Mich.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the father of the bride before an altar decorated with the wedding candle.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Ivory Chantilly lace, which was the bridal gown worn by her mother and made by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. J. E. Neumann, Murtaugh. The gown featured a sweetheart neckline and long pointed sleeves.

She wore her mother's pearls and her initials were embroidered in blue on the bouffant slip. She wore an ivory colored cathedral length mantilla veil edged with Madera lace. She carried a bouquet of ivory roses, stephanotis and babies' breath with ivory colored streamers.

Mrs. James Bommarito Jr. was a best man, John Bommarito and Carl Farms were groomsmen, Shirley Swan sang during the contemporary service. The couple presented bouquets of red roses to the mothers of the bride and groom during the service.

A candlelight dinner-dance was held in the gold room of the Hillcrest Country Club. The bride's table was centered with a bouquet of apricot carnations and roses with yellow daisies. The guests tables were centered with bud vases of greenery, apricot roses and ribbon. The three-tiered wedding cake, featuring a water fountain, was decorated with apricot flowers and green leaves. The cake stood in the center of the table which was decorated with green leaves and rosette ribbons of apricot.

Music during the reception was provided by The Touch of Class Band.

The rehearsal party was honored at a dinner at Little Caesar's.

The bride was honored by a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. James Bommarito and an afternoon miscellaneous shower given by her aunt, Mrs. Edwin Brune, Murtaugh.

After a honeymoon to Toronto, Canada, the young couple will reside in St. Clair Shores, Mich.

Artifacts plan set

TWIN FALLS — Boise State University instructor Mario Delisio has established an archaeological recording service under auspices of the Idaho Geographic Society.

Delisio said anyone discovering old Indian artifacts sites in the Twin Falls area may report the find by writing to him at 210 Main, Boise 83702 or call 385-3625.

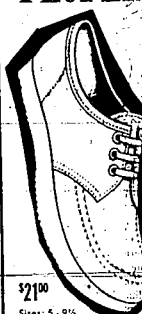

He said many sites go unreported and that the artifacts found at these sites are of great value in piecing together the story of ancient man.

The Utah Reading Lab, of Provo, will offer a 4 week course in speed reading to a limited number of qualified people in the Twin Falls area.

A person is required to attend only one 2 1/2 hour class per week, on the evening of their choice for 4 weeks only. The course guarantees to triple the person's reading speed with a marked improvement in comprehension and concentration. THE FLOWERS THAT BLOOM

By Mary Sue Miller

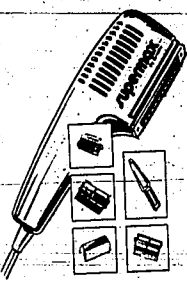

Fashion fashions are literally in bloom. The fabric designers have green thumbs for sure. Some are realistic, while others appear to be etched with a fine brush. Delicate field flowers vie with elegant specimens. Colors range from pastel to bright. But florals are not the only patterns in print. Stripes and polka dots also catch the eye. Stripes vary from narrow to wide, polka dots from tiny to full-blown. As for color, it is either sharp or shadowy. How will you have your's? Before answering, give a thought to flattery. Here's where the laws of proportion come to bear which means the relation of a print's size to your own. As guidelines:

A tall, willow figure is needed to carry splashy, distinct patterns. Let's say cabbage roses on a white ground. For a petite, slight figure, delicate patterns are recommended, such as tiny dots in neutral shades. Tall, full figures are minimized by medium-sized, well-spaced patterns and low-keyed colors; for example, scattered cream carnations on a black ground. To improve a short, full figure, choose shadowy patterns and colors such as spaced polka-dots in a smoky shade on a smoky ground.

A word about stripes: verticals slim, if not over-wide; horizontal add girth; bias stripes are noncommittal - generally safe.

Happy Anniversary!

Contrary to popular belief, couples are still getting married, enjoying marital bliss and celebrating anniversaries. Parties may be given in honor of any anniversary, but the first, fifth, tenth, twenty-fifth and fiftieth are those most generally celebrated.

Pretty as a picture refreshments are just what the occasion calls for. Refreshments may consist of sandwiches, snacks and punch or a complete buffet. Whatever the other food, the main attraction is a beautifully decorated cake.

We've streamlined this Anniversary Cake recipe so it's a cinch to make at home. The high fat content of heavy cream supplies the needed shortening, so the creaming step is eliminated. Nestled between the cake layers is a creamy lemon pudding laced with the fresh fruit flavor of apricot preserves. Homemade, velvety rich butter cream frosting adds the crowning touch. Fresh nontoxic flowers, such as sweet peas or carnations, may be used for decorations instead of frosting roses.

A tray of tempting tea sandwiches such as those shown will elicit "ooohs" and "ahhs" from guests. Checkerboard Grape Sandwiches made with cream cheese and grape jam look complicated, but with our step-by-step directions it's easy to achieve a professional look. The colorful array of Finger Sandwiches have the surprise tang of orange marmalade and lemon juice complementing hard-cooked egg, deviled ham and shrimp. The delectable combination of cream cheese, crushed pineapple and grape preserves is hard to resist in Fruited Sandwich Rounds.

The festive beverage at an anniversary celebration is a brimming bowl of Champagne Tea Punch. The secret ingredient is a base of strong tea. It combines happily with the other ingredients giving the punch body without masking the other flavors. This punch can easily be made ahead of time giving the flavors a chance to "marry". Just remember not to add the champagne, ice and fresh fruit garnishes until just before serving time.

Anniversary Cake

CAKE

- 12 eggs
- 4 1/2 cups sugar
- 1 tablespoon vanilla
- 6 cups (3 pints) heavy cream
- 9 cups unsifted self-rising cake flour

FILLING

- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup cornstarch
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 quart half and half
- Grated rind of 2 lemons
- 2 cups apricot preserves

FROSTING

- 2 cups (1 pound) sweet butter, softened
- 2 tablespoons vanilla
- 3 pounds confectioners' sugar, sifted
- 2 tablespoons rum extract
- 1 cup (1/2 pint) heavy cream
- Blue and yellow food colors

Prepare cake: In a bowl mix 4 eggs, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups heavy cream and 3 cups cake flour. Beat with an electric mixer until smooth and well-blended, about 4 minutes. Pour mixture into a greased and floured 15 1/2 by 10 1/2 inch jelly-roll pan. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350° F.) for 40 minutes or until cake is golden brown and firm to the touch in the center. Cool in pan 10 minutes, then remove from pan and cool completely on a rack. Repeat two more times until you have 3 layers.

Prepare filling: In a saucepan mix sugar, cornstarch and salt. Gradually stir in half and half. Stir in lemon rind and preserves. Stir over low heat until mixture thickens. Cover and chill.

Place one cake layer on a serving platter and spread with half of the filling. Top with second layer and remaining filling. Top with third layer.

Prepare frosting: In a bowl combine butter, vanilla, confectioners' sugar and rum. Add half of the cream and beat until blended. Gradually beat in more cream until frosting is a good spreading consistency. Reserve 1/3 of the frosting for decoration. Spread sides and top of cake with remaining frosting. Tint reserved frosting yellow. Add blue food color to 1/4 cup yellow frosting to make a pretty green color for leaves and stems.

Using a pastry bag with rosette tip make borders around bottom and top of cake. Using a large rose tip make roses on top of cake. Using a large leaf tip make green leaves and using a writing tip make stems on top of cake. Chill cake until ready to serve. Makes 50 servings.

*There is no shortening in this recipe.
Do not substitute milk or light cream.

Checkerboard Grape Sandwiches

- 12 slices firm-type sliced white bread
- 12 slices firm-type sliced whole wheat bread
- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
- 1/2 cup grape or raspberry jam
- Chopped parsley

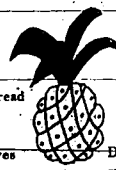

Trim crusts from slices of bread making sure that all the slices are the same size. In a bowl beat cream cheese until fluffy. Stir in jam. Spread bread slices thinly with some cheese mixture. Make 6 stacks (4 slices each) by pressing together alternating white and whole bread slices. Chill until filling is firm, about 1 hour.

Remove stacks and cut each one into 6 thin slices. Stack 4 striped slices, spread thinly with some cheese mixture, making sure the whole wheat stripe is above the white stripe. Wrap and chill until ready to serve. Cut each checkerboard sandwich across the narrow end into 5 slices. Dip edges into chopped parsley, if desired. Makes 45 sandwiches.

- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
- 1/2 cup well-drained crushed pineapple
- 1/2 cup grape, blackberry or boysenberry preserves
- Silvered orange peel, for garnish

Using a 2-inch round cookie cutter or a glass cut 2 rounds from each slice of bread. In a bowl mix cream cheese and crushed pineapple until well blended. Spread all the whole wheat rounds with cream cheese mixture. Cut a 1-inch round from the center of the white bread rounds. Place white bread rounds with the hole in the center on top of cream cheese. Fill hole with some of the grape preserves. Garnish with orange peel. Makes about 25 sandwiches.

Spread one third of the bread fingers with plain cream cheese and top with drained shrimp. Spread one third of the bread fingers with egg mixture and spread remaining fingers with ham mixture. In a bowl mix orange marmalade and lemon juice. Spoon some of the mixture over each sandwich. Garnish as desired. Makes about 56 sandwiches.

2 TF boys report auto incident

TWIN FALLS — Two 13-year-old boys told Twin Falls city police they were pursued by an automobile and the driver attempted to run over them. The incident allegedly occurred at about 4 p.m. Tuesday on Addison Avenue near the Spoke-Wheel Bike Shop. Both boys said the vehicle sped around the bicycle shop building and tried to hit them. One had to climb a fence to get out of the way. He told police another boy managed to get out of the way. City police are investigating the incident.

TF Inquest set

TWIN FALLS — County Coroner Cloyce Edwards has announced a date for an inquest into the death of Jerry Barnett, Hansen, who died of a gun shot wound in the head about 18 months ago at Hansen. Edwards said the inquest will be held Tuesday, June 17, in the Twin Falls Judicial building. He said the death was originally ruled suicide, but by the parents; Arthur and Ruth Mitchell, who had tended the youth was murdered. He died at his home in Hansen and was discovered by his stepfather who notified police. Edwards said he expects the inquest to be open to the public.

Licensing rules adopted

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Department of Law Enforcement announced the formal adoption of rules and regulations Tuesday for automobile licensing and registration procedures. The department prior to a public hearing May 27 issued interpretations of licensing laws. Subsequent to the hearing, the interpretations, as rules and regulations, now have the full force and effect of law as established by the Idaho legislature. As a result of the action, Idaho motorists with license plates on the staggered system ending in five, displaying 75' black on yellow stickers are reminded that their registration card says the license expires May 31, 1975, and must be renewed.

Body surfaces

ISLAND PARK, Idaho (UPI) — The body of a California man who was fishing while fishing last Oct. 21 surfaced in newly thawed Henry's Lake Tuesday afternoon. William E. Schless, Victor, and his son, William Schless-Hazleton, are fishing on the lake when they found the body of Wallace Louis Norwick, 44, Walnut Creek, Calif. Norwick and a companion were fishing when their boat swamped in the wind.

Blackfoot man pleads innocent

BLACKFOOT, Idaho (UPI) — Jesse Longoria, 43, pleaded innocent to murder in the first degree Tuesday in an arraignment before Seventh District Judge Arnold T. Beebe. Longoria is accused of killing Angelo Lomele in downtown Blackfoot May 15 by shooting him seven times with an automatic pistol. Lomele, also 43, was wounded in the back, arm, chest and thigh by the shooting. He was a Mexican national. Defense attorney Dwight Baker requested a speedy trial and told Judge Beebe many of the witnesses have "a transient history" and may not be in the area long. Judge Beebe set trial to begin July 1 at 10 a.m.; Longoria was remanded to the Bligham Sheriff's under $50,000 bond.

Contract negotiations aid sought

BOISE (UPI) — The State Superintendent of Public Instruction asked Dr. Ward Tucker, chairman of the College of Idaho education department, Tuesday to help with the teacher contract negotiations in Boise School District. Dr. Tucker told United Press International he had agreed to perform the task if he is found acceptable by the district officials and Boise Education Association. Dr. Tucker said Superintendent Roy Truby called him Tuesday morning "and he said he would be sending me something official, in the next day or two, I presume." "He asked me would be willing and after a great deal of thought I said, 'yes, if I am found acceptable.'" The Boise Education Association and school district could not and anyone mutually acceptable to aid in resolving the impasse and they asked Truby to pick an individual to take 30 days to conduct factfinding in the negotiations.

Committee meet set Friday

BOISE (UPI) — A committee selected by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus to assist the state land board in setting its lease rates for agriculture and grazing lands holds its first meeting in Boise this Friday, the office of Lt. Gov. John V. Evans said Tuesday. Evans' office said it would be primarily an organizational session. Evans is chairman of the newly-appointed committee. However, Gordon Trombley, Boise, a member of the committee and secretary to the land board, said he expects the committee also will go over past and present policies on the board in arriving at rates on leasing of state land for agriculture and grazing purposes.

Symms says Congress 'liberal'

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — Rep. Symms, R-Idaho, says the present Congress is the most liberal and authoritarian one in the nation's history. "By that, it's more willing to pass rules and regulations to tell you how to live your life and solve the problems with government solutions than in the market place with free enterprise," Symms said.

He told the Caldwell Chamber of Commerce Tuesday that deficit spending is the number one problem facing the country and that it is the worst.

"It really is essential all of us go back and take a look at what happened 200 years ago," he said, calling attention to the Bicentennial year.

On taxes, Symms said he sees a conflict in taxing imported oil to make Americans more self-sufficient and then passing a prohibitive strip mining bill.

Brothers face charges

SANDPOINT, Idaho (UPI) — Brothers Larry and Hilton Phillips were scheduled to be moved to Mendocino County, Calif., today to face charges of kidnaping, rape and murder in the 1974 death of a Willis, Calif., woman. Mendocino County sheriff's Sgt. Bill Lee said the brothers are charged with murder of Barbara Stroud. Stroud's battered body was found three days after she was taken from her car in January, 1973. Lee said the Phillips brothers, who moved to northern Idaho in September to work as loggers, were arrested on a tip from an informant.

By BART QUESNELL

HAILEY — Fifth district Judge Douglas Kramer will impound $200,000 in county tax surplus today and order construction of a new judicial building. Under Idaho code, a district judge may direct the sheriff in each county to build new judicial quarters. Kramer said Tuesday he knew the decision would probably cause some controversy. He told Blaine County commissioners he would take all responsibility for any lawsuits which may occur from the sequestering of the surplus funds.

Any individual may challenge the judge's decision, he said. One method would be the filing of a "writ of prohibition" which would contest the function of the district judge in the matter. The writ would have to be filed with the Supreme Court of Idaho. The decision comes one day after county treasurer Rodette Fry said the surplus or "idle funds" cannot be used for anything but funding an underbudgeted county department. She said the Idaho Code reads, "the county commissioners must not transfer to one department or another or divert from one fund to another nor divert the money in another fund to other uses."

However, the code continues "the commissioners can cause no warrant to be drawn payable out of its order except on the order of district court." Fry contends there is no surplus money. The $200,000 is tax money levied for a specific department in the county budget. Consequently the entire $200,000 is a specific interest in time certificates and cannot be taken out of the bank in a lump sum for a specific purpose, she said. A local judicial building committee here has been counting on the county surplus now held in time certificates to partially fund a new legal facility. The county has land between the present courthouse and the sheriff's office which probably will be used for construction of the building. The commissioners hope to obtain matching funds from the Idaho Law Enforcement Planning Commission for construction of the building. The sequestered $200,000 would be the county's contribution. Kramer presented to the commissioners yesterday a five-page directive and said he would issue the order today and sequester the funds. By sequestering the $200,000, Kramer is preventing its use for any other purpose.

Overflow eyed

Owners hold emergency meet on Oakley reservoir

Owners hold emergency meet on Oakley reservoir

By DAVID BOCKMAN Times-News writer OAKLEY — The owners of the nearly full Oakley reservoir on Goose Creek have voted to take three steps to alleviate possible flooding. They say they will mainly just wait and watch the weather. About 60 of the Oakley Canal Co.'s 200 stockholders met in an emergency session Tuesday because the reservoir filled to within eight or nine feet of spilling over the top. If the water does spill it threatens to wash out canals and farmland below the dam. Only once in its history has the reservoir overflowed. In 1921, most "old-timers" at the meeting agreed that this year's conditions were similar to 1921, if not worse.

The reservoir owners agreed to ask the US Soil Conservation Service to measure the water content of the snow above the reservoir, study the possibility of diverting overflow water to the west away from Goose creek and repair flood gates on Goose Creek channel below the reservoir which have been cemented shut. But the big question is about the weather. If the weather turns hot, dry, it rains, most of the reservoir owners believe the water will go over the dam. The weather forecast does not look promising. No long range forecast is available but the US Weather Service predicts a warming trend the latter part of the week. Temperatures in Magic Valley should be in the 80's. On April 1, the SCS last measured the water content of the snow above the reservoir. The reading then showed moisture at 138 per cent of normal. Since then a late spring storm dumped more snow on the watershed. Ernie Pickett, canal company board member, said he has never seen so much snow on a mountain this late in the year. He has been in this area 30 years. Dack Whittle, 77, who said he was the oldest person at the meeting, vividly recalled the 1921 flooding. At that time Whittle had a cabin on Goose Creek above the dam. He said a warm chinook wind caused a sudden melt of recent snowstorms. Water rushing into Goose Creek rolled huge boulders down the channel. His brother, Freeman Whittle, who operates a stone quarry on the watershed above the reservoir, said three weeks ago he could get within 100 yards of the quarry, but storms since then prevented him from getting to within a mile of the quarry. The 136-foot deep reservoir holds about 74,000 acre feet of water. Tuesday the water had reached a depth of 126.7 feet, or 9.3 feet below the level when it overflowed in 1921.

5th district HS rodeo opens today

FILER — The Fifth District High School rodeo opens at 7:30 p.m. today at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds with a record number of entries. The 235 contestants from high schools throughout Magic Valley are the largest number ever registered for the annual event, according to Mrs. Alan Patterson, Gooding, adviser. She said there will be simultaneous action in two arenas, with the fairground area divided into two sections. The first four place rodeo, scheduled June 11-14 in Burley. Winners of the first four places there will compete Aug. 4-10 in Gallup, N.M., in the national high school rodeo.

Action in the small arena at the Filer competition will include steer wrestling, boys calf roping, girls pole bending, breakaway roping and goat tying. In the large arena there will be bareback riding, team roping, barrel racing, bull riding and saddle bronc events. Stephen Brothers Rodeo, Middleton, will provide RCA approved stock for the rodeo, with many of the horses and bulls having competed under professional cowboys. According to announcer Zeb Bell, the Stephens Brothers are one of the biggest rodeo contractors in the business. Bret Endicott will be the clown and bull fighter and L.D. Smith, Boise, will assist Bell as announcer. The grand jury will start at 7 p.m. with the first events starting at 7:30 p.m. The 21 schools in the fifth district extend from Glens Ferry to Raft River.

Consolidation plan gets nod

BOISE — The Governor's Council on Criminal Justice has recommended consolidation of small police departments and agencies for improved efficiency and effectiveness. The recommendation refers to all law enforcement agencies of 10 or fewer employees and would include small town police departments, according to Terry McCullough, research consultant with the Department of Law Enforcement Planning. McCullough said statistics show about 80 to 95 per cent of the police forces in Idaho contain 10 or fewer full time officers. The recommendation is one of more than 500 contained in a final report presented by the council to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus. The report covered the five interrelated areas of police, corrections, community crime prevention, courts and juvenile justice. The council based its recommendations on a two-year evaluation and analysis of the National Advisory Commission, American Bar Association and other relevant reports on criminal justice in an effort to propose an "ideal" criminal justice system in Idaho. The recommendations fail to say with what other agency the small police units would consolidate. McCullough said it could be a higher county agency or an adjoining community agency. McCullough said implementation of the recommendations will be left to the law enforcement planning agency, and as yet the report is in the "recommendation form" only. He said copies of the 600 page report covering all phases of law enforcement and justice are available from his office and governmental agencies, and others interested are invited to obtain copies and offer their comments.

Probe column said reversal

WASHINGTON — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, reacted with "amused resignation" to a column Tuesday by investigative reporter Jack Anderson blasting his committee's investigation of the CIA, according to the senator's press secretary. Citing as his source "responsible senior" member of the select committee which Church heads, Anderson charged that the committee "has scarcely scratched the surface of the CIA's FBI scandal."

But Church's press secretary, Bill Hall, told the Times-News today that Anderson's column represented an about-face in the type of criticism the press had been leveling on the committee. "His (Church's) attitude is one of amused resignation. Three months ago the national press was saying the investigation was going to destroy the CIA," Hall said. "The work of the committee will decide whether it was a good committee or not," he added. Hall said Anderson's charge that the committee was split on how open the probe should be was "not true." But Church's press secretary said the committee has not yet decided whether it will make public the testimony it can verify.

Viet orphans yes, jobless adults maybe

(Continued from p. 1) The refugees are being resettled temporarily at Camp Murray, near Tacoma. Kramer said public reaction had been "mixed, but on the whole very good." So far, the families "have all been certainly the kind of people you'd have no compunction about being with. By and large they speak good English, they're educated and well-regulated in their family," Kramer said. Washington's unemployment rate for March was 9.4 per cent, compared with 7.7 per cent in Idaho, both seasonally adjusted. The Lutheran church is actively seeking families and congregation to sponsor refugees. A letter signed by the president of the Northwest District Board of Directors was recently sent to Lutheran congregations urging them to give serious consideration to sponsoring a refugee family or individual. "When our Lord was asked, 'Who is my neighbor?' he answered by telling the parable of the good Samaritan," the letter states. "Applying that truth to present-day events... we see so many people suffering at the side of the road... how easy it is for us to pass by on the other side." The LDS Church is "actively involved" in the resettlement program, according to a spokesman for the social service division. The church has staff persons working at Ft. Chalife, Ark., and at Camp Pendleton, according to William Bush, administrative director of LDS Social Services.

The staff is primarily dealing with LDS refugees and those who have requested LDS sponsors, but they are also working with other individuals and families, Bush said. The social service center in Salt Lake City has received a "huge number" of e-mails offering to help the refugees, Bush added. "The church's contract with the State Department lasts only 90 days, and begins in mid-May. When the contract runs out, Bush said, the church will consider renegotiating it. No efforts through local stakes and wards have been made yet, according to Lloyd Hamilton, Twin Falls state president. The Church World Service, New York City, has established programs in three of the refugee camps. The CWS is working through the churches, and has "300 firm sponsorship offers" offered. The CWS is working on the refugee program with Episcopal, Methodist, and Presbyterian groups, as well as the Seventh Day Adventist, Salvation Baptists, United Church of Christ, and others. The bulletin of the First United Methodist Church, Twin Falls, contains a call to help Viet refugees, "which gives information on how to sponsor an individual or family." The bulletin also states that "most of the refugees are married into happily by a local congregation," but adds, "there are many factors to consider; but those who respond to the call will undoubtedly find the rewards greater than the difficulties."

TF planners recommend zone change

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Planning and Zoning Commission Tuesday recommended granting a zone change to allow a home at Falls Ave. and Harrison Street. The zoning change from residential low-density to residential professional, was recommended following a public hearing on a request by C. Lynn Van Orden on behalf of New Horizons Intermediate Care Group. The group hopes to build an intermediate care facility for the care of mentally retarded and severely incapacitated persons at the northeast corner of Falls Ave. and Harrison Street. In recommending the zone change, the planning and zoning commission simply cleared the way for a possible variance. The City Council will have to approve the variance as well as conditional use permit for the structure, before any building can take place. In other action, the planning and zoning commission: — Saw withdrawn a request for a parking lot variance at the corner of Falls Ave. E. and Boise Lakes Boulevard N. The request was originally made by John Price and Associates, which hoped to develop a shopping facility on the corner now by the old entomology laboratory once owned by Amalgamated Sugar Co. Price representatives withdrew the request, according to City Manager Jean Miljar, after realizing that they had requested more parking than needed. Miljar said Price engineers agreed to re-draft the site plan to conform to the city zoning ordinance, which would mean a smaller parking lot and smaller structures. — Turned down a plat request from the developers of the proposed Sahara Subdivision northeast of the City. According to Miljar, the plat was turned down with the recommendation that the developers have the site and adjacent area replatted with the County Recorder to establish clear property lines, and that the proposed subdivision plat be included in the County's platting schedule. Miljar said that while the proposed subdivision does not fit within the city limits it is within the one-mile adjacent area in which the city must approve development. The replatting recommendation was made, Miljar said, because the subdivision plat, as proposed was made up of several scattered parcels north of Falls Ave. E. in an area where other small parcels had previously been sold and developed without subdivision. The intent of the recommendation, Miljar said, was to establish clear property lines and in general "clean up the property" for zoning purposes.

markets

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, bolstered recently by economic uncertainty, opened mixed Wednesday in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was off 1.09 to 825.02 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines, 164 to 161, among the 481 issues crossing the tape.

Early Wall Street reaction to President Ford's decision to raise the oil import tax 41 a barrel and to decontrol "old" oil prices was mixed.

While the tax will be inflationary, it would reduce consumption. The proposed decontrol program is designed to "spur" new domestic production.

Ford left early in the day for a summit meeting of NATO in Brussels and trips to Madrid, Salzburg and Rome. Among other things, he is expected to discuss the "Middle East situation" with various leaders.

Later in the day, the Bureau of Labor Statistics was to issue its monthly report on productivity and costs.

Meats, Maine potatoes gain, grains decline

Commodity news wire reports

CHICAGO — Cattle and Maine potato futures surged sharply upward Tuesday while grain declined.

Commodity News Service said Maine potatoes scored new life of contract highs across the board, with values from 14 to 20 cents higher on a trade of 218 contracts. Cool, wet conditions, planting delays and anticipated acreage cuts were the principal factors.

Idaho russet futures were unchanged in the May 1976 delivery, which closed at 8.95 poundsweight.

Live cattle futures hit the highest levels of 1975, with most deliveries up 25 cents. June hit 50.00 per cwt. for the first time in 10 months, finishing 27 cents higher, but 72 cents off the contract high.

August led the advances with a 35 cent gain. Firm cash markets and steady dressed beef prices gave solid support.

Deadline announced

WASHINGTON — Employers have until May 30, 1976, to file their annual description forms and summaries of their pension and welfare benefit programs under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974.

Administrators of private pension and welfare benefit programs are required to file the first two pages of the plan reporting form (EBS-1), but not the schedules, by Aug. 31, 1975.

Employers don't have to give the summary plan descriptions to participants and beneficiaries until May 30, 1976. Participants and beneficiaries still have lawful rights to information about their plans according to the U.S. Department of Labor's Office of Information.

Cadillac recall set

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. said today it is recalling some 2,000 Cadillacs equipped with air bags because one of the bags inflated accidentally.

It was the first recall involving the safety device since GM began offering them as options in January of 1974. The recall involves all the 1974 and 1975 model Cadillacs sold with the air bags since then.

In the accidental deployment, the driver of a Cadillac received minor abrasions on the chin, but was able to bring the car to a safe stop without losing control. The inflation occurred shortly after the driver completed a turn near his home in Vandellia, Ohio, in early March.

The air cushions are stored in the steering wheel and in the dashboard on the passenger side. Upon impact, they inflate to cushion the front occupants.

Max's Pizza-Will-O-Dell of Twin Falls placed third in the Caldwell Sloop-Inn-Devall tournament over the three-day weekend.
The team tried to come through the back door, playing four games Monday, but wound up behind champion McU Sports of Boise and Ted Chrysler, Pocatello.

Nicklaus tops cash list
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus, who many figure is the top pro golfer in the world, has the money to prove it.
Nicklaus, a golfing millionaire, moved into the lead in this week's listings of the top moneymen on the PGA tour, having amassed $166,113 in 1975 after his tie for third this past weekend in the Danny Thomas Memphis Classic, according to the PGA Tour Statistics.
Johnny Miller, idle this past week, is second at $155,233, while Tom Weiskopf, who tied Nicklaus in Memphis, is third at $127,317.
Memphis winner Gene Littler moved into fourth with his $35,000 winner's check at $110,532.

Yavapai stays unbeaten
GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (UPI) — Yavapai (Ariz.) Junior College scored six runs in the first inning Tuesday and coasted the rest of the way for a 7-2 win over Middle Georgia in the semifinals of the National Junior College Baseball Tournament.
In an earlier game, defending champion Merrimack Community College of St. Louis took a 6-1 win over Louisiana State Community College to set up Wednesday's championship game against Yavapai.
If Yavapai wins Wednesday it takes home the championship. If Merrimack wins, the same two teams meet Thursday night for the crown.

Loop reprimands coach
AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — University of Texas track coach Cleburne Price has been publicly reprimanded by the Southwest Conference for allegedly giving money to sprinter Billy Jackson and other members of the Longhorn track team.
Conference officials apparently decided on the punishment at a SWC weekend meeting in Lubbock and gave Texas 10 days to either accept the decision or appeal.
Chief Speagle, executive director of the conference, declined in Lubbock to say what decision the committee had reached, but said Texas would have 10 days to review it.

Electric prod draws probe
BOWIE, Md. (UPI) — Maryland Racing Commission stewards suspended a trainer and a groom Tuesday until the full commission can hold a hearing into the discovery of an electric cattle prod in a horse stall at Baltimore's Pimlico Race Course.
Trainer Frank J. Hendricks and Morris Gardner, a groom he employs, were banned from further racing activity until the commission conducts its hearing. No date for the hearing was set.

Money sidelined
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — The Milwaukee Brewers said Tuesday their baseman Don Money would be lost to the club for three to four weeks due to an operation to correct a hernia.
Money was scheduled to have the operation Wednesday at Mt. Sinai Hospital.
Money said he felt a pain during the Brewers' last road trip. He kept playing but the pain bothered him. He sat out three games and returned to the lineup for one game, getting two doubles and a single.
"It didn't bother me hitting," he said. "But I could only run about 60 per cent my normal speed and it hurt."

Sneva still serious
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Tom Sneva, 25, Spokane, Wash., remained in serious condition at Methodist Hospital Tuesday with burns from his fiery crash during Sunday's 500-mile Speedway auto race.
The former junior high school principal suffered multiple burns when his car crashed after colliding with one driven by Eldon Rasmussen and disintegrated into a ball of fire in the second turn.
Hospital officials said Sneva remained in intensive care.

Harrelson de-activated
NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Mets announced Tuesday night their shortstop Bud Harrelson had been placed on the 60-day emergency disabled list and that outfielder Cleon Jones has been activated to fill the vacant spot on the roster.
Jones has been on the disabled list since April 5.

NCAA pairings set
MISSION, Kan. (UPI) — Cal State Fullerton, which eliminated 10-time NCAA champion Southern California in the regional playoffs, will open the College World Series at Omaha, Neb., June 5 against Arizona State.
Cal State, competing in NCAA Division I for the first time this season, has a 36-13 record. Arizona State is 58-11.
Texas (52-5) meets Oklahoma (50-8) in the second game on June 6. On June 7, South Carolina (47-4) plays Seton Hall (31-8) and Eastern Michigan (36-18) opposes Florida State (49-8).

Connors snubs French
CHICHESTER, England (UPI) — Wimbledon and U.S. tennis champion Jimmy Connors has snubbed next week's French hard court event in favor of an obscure English provincial tournament on grass where the first prize is only $360, the organizers said Tuesday.
Officials of the Rothman's Provincial Grass Courts tournament at this south coast resort said Connors has cabled his acceptance of an invitation to appear.
"They said the cable came from Rome where he is playing in the Italian doubles championship."

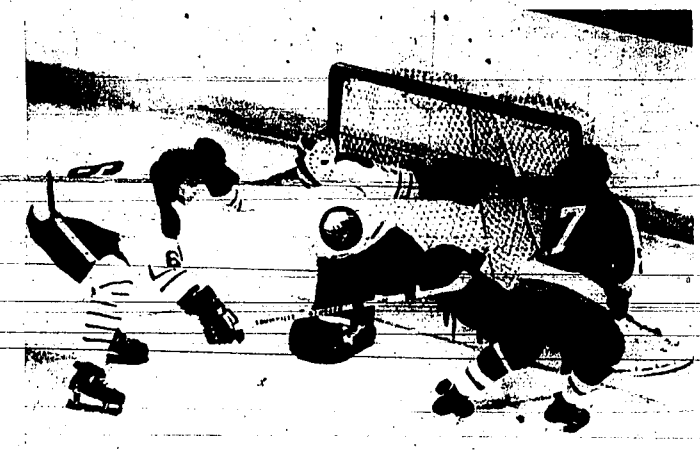

Esposito happy in Boston
"BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Bruins' record breaking center Phil Esposito says happiness is more than a lot of money.
"The 12-year veteran, who has led the National Hockey League in scoring five of the last seven years, signed a multi-year contract with the Bruins Tuesday, saying "I am happy to be in Boston."
"Esposito, who was offered a multi-million dollar pact to sign with Vancouver of the World Hockey Association last year, said he had received offers from other WHA teams last year, said did not negotiate with them."
"One WHA offer I had was two times the Boston offer," he said at a press conference. "Money is a big thing, but happiness is a lot more."
O'Reilly, a fiery third year winger who had 15 goals and 22 assists last season, also signed a multi-year contract. The terms of both contracts were not released.

ATLANTA (UPI) — Pro golf, yielding to pressure from two directions, has reinstated the Tournament of Champions.
The decision to return the tournament, which annually brings together the winners of regular PGA tour events over the previous 12 months, to the 1976 tour was announced Tuesday night by Deane Beman, commissioner of the Tournament Players Division.
Beman had announced on May 9 that the prestigious, 25-year-old winners-only tournament, held in April as a $200,000 event at La Costa, Calif., was being discontinued since it distracted from plans to expand the World Series of Golf as a finale to the PGA tour.
It also was reported that some members of the TPD Policy Board wanted to drop the Tournament of Champions because of allegations against its sponsors.
The cancellation announcement brought protests not only from the sponsors but also from a number of touring pros. There was even talk about overriding the decision, a move that reportedly could have led to Beman's resignation.
Beman and the 10-member policy board met for eight hours Tuesday behind closed doors in an Atlanta hotel, then met with touring pros who are here for the Atlanta Golf Classic, a $225,000 event which begins Thursday with all of the top players entered because it is a "designated" tournament.
"The board reconsidered the matter today and asked me to inform you that the board has rescinded its previous decision and will reschedule the Tournament of Champions in 1976," Beman said in a statement read to the players.
"The board's action was based on the expressed willingness of the sponsor to adjust the format of the Tournament of Champions to accommodate the development of the World Series of Golf."
Beman did not explain what those adjustments will be. In fact, he refused to talk about the decision after the meetings.

The four-paragraph statement he read, continued:
"The sponsor informed us that they intend to file a lawsuit today against a publication as a result of allegations made in the publication."
"Our counsel has advised us that in view of the potential litigation there should be no further discussion of the matter."
"The suit, against Penthouse magazine, was filed in a Los Angeles court Tuesday seeking $70 million. The magazine allegedly accused sponsors of the Tournament of Champions with having criminal connections."
Tuesday's board meeting and following meeting with the players in town for the Atlanta Golf Classic had been set up before the Tournament of Champions controversy. That matter was added to the agenda after a number of the golfers voiced opposition to dropping the rich tournament from the tour.

Flyers retain Stanley cup

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — As if it were really necessary, Bernie Parent and the Philadelphia Flyers proved that last year wasn't a fluke.
"When we won last year we were in the clouds," Parent said Tuesday night after his 2-0 shutout over the Buffalo Sabres enabled the Flyers to complete a successful defense of their Stanley Cup, four games to two.
"This year it was different because we knew what we were doing and where we were going. We proved to everyone that last year was no fluke."
Just as he did here against the Sabres, Parent also came through with a clutch "shutout" in last year's finale against Boston, and for the second year in a row he was voted the Conn Smythe Trophy as the most valuable player in the playoffs.
"I don't even think about Conn Smythe," said Parent. "It's just nice for the team to win the Stanley Cup."
Except for a slip from the Stanley Cup itself, Parent forewent the pleasure of drinking the traditional glass of champagne because "it makes me sick and I want to enjoy this."
For all of Parent's outstanding work, it took a goal by a man who didn't even think he would dress for the game to give Philadelphia the winning goal. Bob Kelly scored it after just 11 seconds of the third period and said later that he had worried Tuesday morning that Coach Fred Shero wouldn't make him eligible for the contest.
"That's only one play," Kelly said of his goal. "I took a lot of games I didn't participate in to get here. When you score a goal in an 8-0 romp, it's nothing, but to score the goal that wins the Stanley Cup — that's something."

GOALIE Roger Crozier (1) blocks a shot by Philadelphia's Bill Barber (7) during the Stanley Cup finals Tuesday night. Moving in is Buffalo's Jim Schoenfeld. Philadelphia won 2-0 to retain its championship. (UPI telephoto)

U.S. continues to dominate Chinese

PEKING (UPI) — Any lingering question over which comes first with them, friendship or competition, has been settled already by the U.S. track and field team in a nice, friendly way in course.
The Chinese set the theme for their goodwill series with the Americans before it even began in Canton two weeks ago.
"No point scores would be kept, no flags displayed and no anthems played, the Chinese said.
Friendship first, competition second, they said then and have repeated ever and over every day since.
"The U.S. athletes accepted the slogan, and indeed, have made many friends among the Chinese, but one thing they wouldn't accept was giving anything less than their best in competition with the Chinese."
"It would be an insult to them," said Bob Getteggack, coach of the U.S. team.
"The Chinese accept that, too, and although it is difficult to believe, they are friendlier than ever with the U.S. athletes despite the fact the Americans have walloped them consistently by winning 80 of 83 track and field events held so far.
One more day of competition remains today, but the Americans wrapped up the third consecutive victory of the series. Bourke, a 27-year-old high school teacher with a Vut Bryner haircut who has been the most impressive performer in the meets so far, ran away from the field in taking the 10,000 meters Tuesday in 28:31.4.

Other "triple" winners are Fred Newhouse, Baton Rouge, La.; Don Merrick, Deland, Fla.; Tommy Haynes, Nashville, Tenn.; Dick Drescher, Greenbelt, Md., and Franette Larrieu, Los Angeles.
Newhouse spritied home in front in the 400 meters Tuesday and was clocked in 45.9 seconds. Merrick made it three in a row with his 10.5 triumph in the 100 meters. Haynes led the long jumpers with a leap of 25 feet, 11.1 inches. Drescher threw the discus 201 feet 11 inches, and the Larrieu girl won the women's 1,500 meters in 4:11.5, only one-tenth of a second off her American record.

Standings

Team	Wins	Losses	Points
USA	80	3	160
China	3	80	6

The Chinese won the board on Saturday when ASHA champion Kao Yu-Kuei scored in the women's discus with a toss of 166 feet, 7 inches. Chinese girls took the first four places in the event.
Most of the U.S. athletes still feel the Chinese will eventually become a factor in world track and field competition, but that it will take some time.

Area trapshooters claim state championships

Chuck Woodland of Filer and Larry Horejs, Twin Falls, took class titles and the Twin Falls team won the singles championship Monday in the Idaho State Trapshooting association's three-day shoot.
Woodland took his title in the A division with 545 while Horejs had the same total in pacing the B category.
Members of the winning team were Ben Ledwith, Chuck Woodland, Steve Fahrenwald, Horys and Vern Howland. They posted 970.
Woodland also placed in a tie with six others in Saturday's singles. The shootoff was won by Tony Johnson, Fritz Hork, Twin Falls, broke 87 to place second in the D class.
Bernie Boyles, Twin Falls, hit 199 out of 200 birds to win the Idaho State singles championships.
Lavern Oehsner, Twin Falls, took the women's title in the handicap competition Monday while Greg Howland of Jerome was runner-up in the sub-junior division with 86.
Steve Fahrenwald, Twin Falls, won the doubles crown with a 96 while Leland Sabin, Paul, took the B division with 92 and Don Atkinson of Sun Valley had 89 and the D title.
Steve Fahrenwald placed second in both the high all-around and high overall with 383 and 550, respectively.

Garden will spice Ali-Bugner telecast with two live bouts

NEW YORK (UPI) — Muhammad Ali will be in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, defending his heavyweight title against Joe Bugner, and two other title fights will be staged as preliminaries on a card at Madison Square Garden the night of June 30.
The triple header will have middleweight king Carlos Monzon defending against Tony Licata and lightweight champion Victor Galindez going against challenger Jorge Ahumada in the Garden ring, followed by the closed-circuit showing of Ali-Bugner.
The heavyweight match was put together by Don King and Video Techniques, who gave the World Zaire last year, and as in the African confrontation of Ali and George Foreman, a national government is deeply involved in the financing.
Generally accepted figures have Ali getting $2.2 million, with his British foe slated for $500,000. Ali's price keeps going up. He got $1 million for his match with Chuck Wepner, $1.2 for punching out Ron Lyle last month.
The patron for the fight is Tan Hajj Razak bin Hussain, the prime minister of Malaysia, while the on-scene promotion will be under the direction of Tinju Duna Sendaria, Berhad (World Boxing Limited), whose chairman is Datuk Abu Manso Basir.

Jurgensen rejects WFL's offer; to remain retired

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sonny Jurgensen rejected a lucrative offer to sign with the World Football League Tuesday and said the retirement forced on him by the Washington Redskins was final.
In a speech to the National Press Club, the 40-year-old quarterback announced he was turning down a bid by the WFL's Philadelphia Bell for his services. Of his future plans, which include possible network television broadcasting, Jurgensen said, "My only definite decision is that I won't play with the WFL this season. I decided, in the best interests of everyone, not to accept."
Jurgensen was the second superstar NFL quarterback to reject an offer from the young WFL, which experienced serious financial problems in its first year of operation last season. Joe Namath, who played out his option with the New York Jets, announced last week he was turning thumbs down on a multi-million dollar offer from the WFL's Chicago Wind.
Jurgensen, a veteran of 18 years who led all active passers before Redskins coach George Allen dropped him, acknowledged that the head of the Philadelphia franchise, John Bosacco, was sweetening the offer in the hope of changing his mind.
Jurgensen said that after Bosacco learned that he was going to announce his rejection of the WFL offer at the National Press Club appearance, the Philadelphia man had an emergency phone call to an intermediary promising to triple the original offer.
"But in his luncheon speech the former Redskins passer said: "Mr. Bosacco made a fair offer and it was very tempting. But I'm retiring here in the best place I know. I understand he's saying that now that Namath has turned them down, the league has more money to offer."
Bosacco expressed disappointment in Jurgensen's decision but added: "As far as the Bell is concerned, although we may continue to attempt to change Sonny's mind, we shall nonetheless proceed with alternative plans and expect to announce the signing of significant players whose stature will be in keeping with our promise to provide the Philadelphia fans with the absolutely finest football."
Jurgensen said during a question and answer session that Namath's refusal to switch to the WFL was a factor in his decision, but added that his wife, Margot, also urged him to retire.
The flamboyant redhead, recognized as one of the finest passers in pro football history, said he has not been approached directly by any of the NFL teams mainly because of the Rozelle rule which would compel a team signing him to give the Redskins compensation in player talent.
"It reminds me of the old song," he told newsmen after the lunch. "I don't want him. You can't have him. He's too fat for me."
"Right now," he said, "I don't see how anyone could interest me in retiring."

Pirates score three runs in ninth to edge Houston

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Bill Robinson singled home Willie Stargell with the winning run with two-out during a three-run ninth-inning rally Tuesday night, bringing the Pittsburgh Pirates a come-from-behind 6-5 victory over the Houston Astros.

The Pirates began their winning rally in the ninth when pinch hitters Paul Popovich and Richie Hebner drove back to back leadoff walks and Rennie Stennett was safe at first on a fielder's choice. Hebner moving to second, Stargell then singled home Hebner and Dave Parker followed with an infield grounder that Bob Andrews fielded and threw home—too late to catch Stennett.

That tied the score and Robinson then belted a liner to lead to score Stargell.

Twins overcome 5-run deficit.

DETROIT (UPI)—Red Carew, whose first home run of the season started Minnesota back from a 5-0 deficit in the sixth inning, drove home the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the ninth Tuesday night to lead the Twins to a 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Eric Soderstrom began the ninth with a single against losing reliever John Hiller. Craig Kusick walked and Danny Thompson delivered a single to right which tied the game at 5-5.

Steve Brye pinch hit and dribbled an infield single off the end of his bat to load the bases before Carew put a two-strike pitch into centerfield which brought in the game-winning run.

Wynn scores three runs, LA past Mets.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jim Wynn belted two home runs, driving in a total of three runs, Dave Lopes smacked a three-run homer, and Steve Garvey batted in two others Tuesday night to power the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 10-4 victory over the New York Mets.

Lopes, who also had two singles and two stolen bases in the "Dodgers"—18-hit attack, opened the game with a single and stole second. Wynn then singled him to third and Garvey doubled home both runners.

Indians drop Angels in 8th.

ANAHEIM (UPI)—Pinch-hitter Charlie Spikes walked with the bases loaded to force in the go-ahead run and John Ellis followed with a two-run single Tuesday night as the Cleveland Indians scored three times in the eighth inning to defeat the California Angels 6-3.

The Indians benefited from the wildness of pitchers Bill Singer and Mickey Scott, who walked four men in a row. The victory was Cleveland's ninth straight at Anaheim Stadium, the streak dating back to August, 1973.

AIRBORNE Rennie Stennett of Pittsburgh starts his slide into home plate as Astro catcher Skip Jutze awaits the throw. Stennett scored as the Pirates came from behind with three runs in the ninth to win 6-5. (UPI telephoto)

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, MAY 29, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is no day to force any activities upon your friends and acquaintances. Instead, work yourself at gaining the hopes that mean the most to you. You find social conditions in your favor.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can now easily get over stumbling blocks in the path of your progress that were difficult in the past. Be logical.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get busy early in the day and improve credit affairs. Remain impersonal with others for now. Take health treatments.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have new ideas but they need more study, so don't jump into them blindly. One who opposes you could cause trouble.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use diplomacy in the handling of promises to others, or you could get into trouble over them. Be charming with others.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You don't understand the views of associates in the morning, so wait until afternoon before discussing an important matter.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Not a good day to put a new system-to-work. Discuss-it-further-with-associates. Make the evening a quiet and relaxing one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) The daytime is not good for recreation since you have important practical affairs to attend to. Relax in hobby-time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't get embroiled in a family squabble, but keep your mind active on important business affairs. Think constructively.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) The planets are not favorable for starting new projects at this time. Show increased devotion to the one you love.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be sure to protect your assets, or you could feel the pinch later on. Be sure to study your monetary position carefully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't neglect any business matters early in the day. Avoid arguments with anyone if possible. Strive for happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are tempted to lose your temper during the day, but this is the worst thing you could do. A friend needs your help now.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... He or she will want to be active to others so direct the education along humanitarian lines so that the greatest number can be helped. Teach him to play.

what's what

L.M. Boyd

Mister, what kind of tie do you wear, if any? A big knotted wide type? A small-knotted narrow sort? A bow? Some scholars who make a study of such matters say the bow tie boys are the most flirtatious, always on the lookout for romantic action. The wide-tie fellows are said to be generous with their affections, athletic as lovers, though not necessarily promiscuous. But the narrow-tie men are thought to be too bashful, too insecure, and too loyal to become playboys. Our Love and War man has assigned a research team to evaluate the foregoing.

CAR BUYERS

Two out of three used car buyers pay the asking price. Most of those whoicker ask for a 10-percent discount. So report the marketing men.

Q. "COME ON, Louie, you've got to admit you're a male chauvinist pig."

A. Maybe, but I don't believe so. What I do believe is that if the world's population were 90-percent men and 10-percent women, we'd perish. But if it were 90-percent women and 10-percent men, we'd survive.

WHICH IS the best sort of smoking pipe—the briar, the meerschaum or the calabash? Smokers who say briar are the most numerous. Those who say meerschaum are the most affluent. But those who say calabash are the most fervent—the calabash boys claim their pipes are far and away the best flavored.

CREDIT

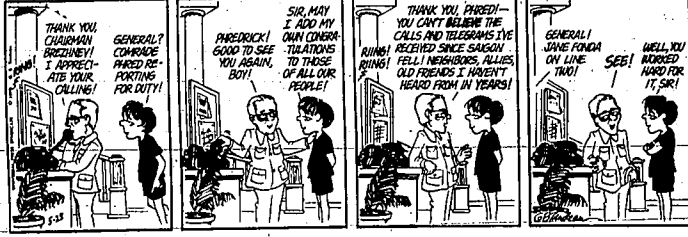

Please note, too, that far more single women than single men are labeled "prompt pay" by the credit experts.

A FELLOW who doesn't object to the fact that his secretary wears a see-through blouse to work every day says, "No, she's not much of a typist, but she can erase 60 words a minute."

WHERE DO you suppose Henry Wadsworth Longfellow got the notion that Priscilla, that pretty Pilgrim, rode home after her marriage to John Alden on a snow-white bull? As I understand it, Priscilla and John took their vows some time in the winter of 1622-23. The first cattle didn't show up thereabouts until Edward Winslow brought some over from England in 1624. Wait, that old boy Longfellow was well intentioned. No need to nipkick.

UFW members protest Texas shooting

Hidalgo, Tex. (UPI) - A group of United Farm Workers demonstrators appeared Tuesday at the El Texano Ranch to protest the Memorial Day shooting of 10 organizers by a farmer who said the workers were on his property and destroying melons. An estimated 500 UFW members appeared at the bridge connecting the United States and Mexico to show their displeasure with allens crossing into the Rio Grande Valley. There a portion of a group went to the ranch owned by C.L. Miller. Sheriff's officials said the protesters were bolder, but peaceful. Deputies dispersed the group at the ranch. Hidalgo County Deputy Sheriff Elias Juarez said the 10 demonstrators were shot by Miller filed assault charges Monday. Miller was arraigned before Peace Justice Matias Morin on 10 counts of aggravated assault and was freed on $1,500 bond and was in the fields today when the protesters arrived. The shooting incident began Monday. A union official who was not at the scene said he heard the incident took place on a county road, but Juarez emphatically said it happened on Miller's property. The UFW was attempting to organize Miller's nonunion farm hands. "Those people came to the fields where he had his hands working and were just trampling all over the melons, all over the vines and pulling them up and everything," Miller's wife said. "They were throwing rocks and melons and they had sticks with them." Many Miller said it was the first time the UFW tried to organize their farm hands. "My husband said they were coming and started walking through the fields and said if they didn't leave they were going to turn their trucks over and break the glass," Mrs. Miller said. "One of the workers got scared and got in his car and drove away right through the field." The 10 wounded UFW members were taken to General Hospital in McAllen where they were treated for superficial wounds and released. Miller told Juarez the union members walked at least a mile through his fields scaring away his farm hands and destroying his cantaloupe crop by trampling the melons underfoot and beating them with sticks. Miller said he was in his pickup truck when he intercepted the demonstrators. "After they scared his workers, (Miller) said they came up to him and he told them to leave because they were on private property," the deputy said. "They didn't, and he said they started throwing his cantaloupes at him and throwing rocks, so he got his shotgun and started firing." Antonio Orendain, a spokesman for the UFW who was participating in another union membership drive in Rio Grande City, said the 50 union organizers went to Miller's El Texano Ranch to invite Miller's farm hands to join the UFW. "To the best of my knowledge," Orendain said, the organizers never strayed from a county road.

New pesticide tests slated

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (UPI) - Renewed warfare to control the Tussock Moth this summer will include testing of three alternative pesticides on the Fernan Ranch District of the Coeur d'Alene National Forest in North Idaho. District Ranger John F. Hossack said today the research is part of a continuing program by the Forest Service to develop effective and safe alternatives to DDT in control of the destructive Douglas-fir killer. Hossack said Dr. William F. Barr, University of Idaho entomologist, will direct the field studies concerning the environmental effect of the alternative pesticides. He will be assisted by graduate student Donald Veirs. Barr is doing the study under a Forest Service contract and his research is designed to evaluate the effects of alternative insecticides on organisms other than the Tussock Moth. Hossack said the three pesticides being used are the chemical Sevin 401; Bacillus thuringiensis, a bacteria; and a natural virus.

Brown's labor bill Monday on journey

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) - A farm labor bill negotiated by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. was at the halfway mark in the California legislature Tuesday in an express train rush for a signal by Friday. A relatively clear track loomed ahead. The delicately aligned plan, crafted by the governor's rival legislators, sailed through the Senate Monday on a lopsided, bipartisan 31-7 vote, 10 more than it needed. The bill by Sen. John Dunlap, D-Napa, was debated in the Assembly Relations Committee. The panel previously approved a virtually identical back-up bill by Assemblyman Howard Beaman, R-Beverly Hills. "I'm optimistic that we'll have it on the governor's desk by the end of the week," Dunlap said. Aides described the 37-year-old chief executive as very pleased at the margin by which the bill cleared the Senate. There is a center-right agricultural labor relations legislation. Seven Republicans joined 24 Democrats in voting for the proposal. All the opposition votes were cast by Republicans, some of whom represent agricultural districts. Basically, the plan engineered to restore labor relations peace to the vineyards to $0 billion a year. California agricultural districts have been in a state of chaos since 1973. The plan would restore certain agricultural

Widowed invited to meet

TWIN FALLS — Widows and widowers in the Magic Valley area are invited to a special program on household security Thursday evening in the Idaho Power Auditorium.

George Paul, who started and directs the programs to assist newly widowed persons in adjusting to living alone, said the program this week will help people secure their homes against intruders, protecting themselves when traveling alone or when on the streets.

He said many who lose a mate, especially the women, lose a great sense of security and need suggestions for taking precautions to feel secure when alone in their homes.

Capt. Tim Qualls of the Twin Falls police detective department will present the program and will also have pamphlets and other material available at no cost.

The program will be held at 7 p.m. and is one in a series of monthly sessions for widows and widowers.

Emergency training class ends

TWIN FALLS — An emergency medical technician class, sponsored by the Department of Health and Welfare and the Mountain States Regional Medical Program, will end Thursday.

Participants in the class have included representatives from the Twin Falls Fire Department, county sheriff's office, Twin Falls Police Department and the Buhl ambulance service.

Dr. Bruce Buck, Twin Falls, and other physicians conducted the 8-hour course which has run two nights weekly for the last six weeks.

Ron Selber, emergency medical services coordinator for DHW, said purpose of the class is to provide life support at accident scenes and thus decrease the mortality rate from accidents throughout the area.

He said such classes are part of an ongoing agency program. More will be scheduled later.

The New York State Commerce Department's Bureau of Industrial, Service and Corporate Development maintains detailed records of buildings and sites available for industrial, distribution and research purposes.

Vandals take tires, gear shift

Small car stripped at resort

SHOSHONE — A 1962 Volkswagen was stripped after a window was broken and the car entered sometime in the last few days.

Owner Leaman A. Clark, Sun Valley, was notified by Lincoln County law officers and Idaho State police. He had parked the car off the road to West Magic Reservoir resort.

Gene were the four tires a stereo, a tool box worth $150 worth of tools and the gear shift, severed with a hack saw. Clark said the culprits made an unsuccessful attempt to take the motor.

Reunion held in Gooding

GOODING — For the first time in 53 years, members of the George Henry and Ettilie Kobold family met for a reunion in Gooding over Memorial Day weekend.

The family, including seven sisters and one brother were scattered when the mother, Ettilie Kobold died in 1922. Each was adopted by a different family as small children.

The group met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Royer. Mrs. Royer is a granddaughter of the Kobold couple.

Students place

TWIN FALLS — Two area students participated in a University of Idaho team which won first place in the annual J. R. Simplot Freshman Engineering Design Competition recently.

An "analysis group" of students won the award for gathering data on a traffic blockage problem in St. Maries. Glenn P. Harman, Buhl, was co-chairman and Marie Freilburger, Rupert, a chemical engineering major, was discussion chairman for the project.

Mechanics get certificates

TWIN FALLS — Two mechanics from Blue Lakes Volkswagen, Twin Falls, have received certificates of proficiency after completing special training in Hillsboro, Ore. Kenneth L. Hopper and William F. Bingham, both mechanics for Blue Lakes Volkswagen Inc., have received certificates of proficiency for completing a course in electronic fuel injection at the Service Training Center, Riviera Motors Inc., Hillsboro, Ore.

BSU sets scholarship

BOISE (UPI) — A scholarship fund that will coincide financially and chronologically with the nation's bicentennial is being started by Boise State University. Boise State hopes to raise $10,000 by July 4, 1976 with a series of public fund raisers. The first of these, called "New and Unique, Old and Antique," is scheduled for June 20-21. Antiques, crafts, plants and various items will be sold on the campus.
