Personal diplomacy marathon for Ford

BRUSSELS (UPI) — President Ford reviewed the major rivalries and conflicts of NATO today in hour after hour of private meetings with the leaders of Portugal, Greece, Turkey and other partners in the troubled alliance.

Putting personal diplomacy ahead of formal summitry at the outset of the NATO summit meeting, Ford conferred almost nonstop for some eight hours with a total of six allied leaders before motoring to the opening ceremonies of the summit conference.

There, he heard Premier Constantine Caramanlis of Greece, the summit chairman, warn that "the alliance faces serious and difficult problems."

"The only possible answer is true and sincere solidarity," Ford's initial round of revolving-door diplomacy seemed to have generated little progress toward that solidarity, although officials at first offered few details.

The last of the six conferees, Prime Minister Vasco Dos Santos Goncalves of Portugal, came to defend Lisbon's right to remain a full NATO partner, in spite of the extreme leftwing military government that worries Ford.

"Portugal is not a Trojan Horse in the NATO alliance," Goncalves told newsmen before he visited Ford. He said he would tell the President "the truth" about the situation in Portugal.

As Goncalves left the meeting, a newsmen called out, "will Portugal remain in NATO?"

"Certainly," Goncalves replied. "Of course." During one pause in his morning conferences, Ford said he hoped to achieve "some success" in reviving Middle East peace talks when he meets with Egypt's President Anwar Sadat in Austria on Sunday. Otherwise, the talks focused on such NATO alliance problems as the Greek-Turkish confrontation over Cyprus.

The black limousines rolled up to the well-guarded doors of Ford's U.S. Embassy residence all through the day, bringing yet another NATO government chief and another set of bodyguards to meet the President.

Two security men in green fatigues escorted the Greek residence through binoculars from a neighboring rooftop. Secret servicemen and Belgian police patrolled the walks outside.

Making his first visit to Europe as President, Ford stepped right into the role of peacemaker and troubleshooter by holding back-to-back meetings with Prime Ministers Constantine Caramanlis of Greece and Solyman Demirel of Turkey, whose nations have been on the brink of war since last summer's Cyprus fighting. Ford offered America's good offices as an intermediary and quickly found out how tough the Cyprian problem can be.

WITH THE END of the school term in Twin Falls, two events occurred for the final time Wednesday. One was a rush down stairs at Lincoln School (left) and the other was the throng of pupils waiting to cross the street at the North Five Falls intersection near Washington School. The other portion of Lincoln and the Washington building are closing. For more views of the schools, turn to p. 12.

TF teachers ponder hike

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls teachers would get about a 7 per cent salary increase plus their yearly increment if a proposal by the school board meets teacher approval.

Canden Meyer, assistant superintendent and a member of the school district negotiating team, said the proposed salary schedule raises the base from $7,500 to $8,000, a 6.67 per cent increase. Other salaries on the schedule are adjusted about the same.

Teachers apparently are not strongly opposed to the proposal. Bob Kius, chairman of the teachers negotiating team, said, "We feel their offer is not that far from being realistic."

"The teachers want that to mean they're getting a raise," Kius said, "but we feel that they're not getting a raise. We feel that the district is limited by state appropriations, which declines as the number of students in the system increases."

The increase will not be enough to compensate for the effects of current rates of inflation. During the last year, from April to April, consumer prices rose 10.2 per cent, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

If starting salaries rise 6.67 per cent and inflation takes away 10.2 per cent of the beginning teacher's buying power, the real before tax purchasing power of the teacher would have fallen about 35 per cent compared to a year earlier.

However, most teachers will receive seniority raises, which will help compensate for inflationary losses. Meyer said the salary increase would come to about 9.5 per cent per teacher, if the increase is included. In addition, the school district will be paying higher insurance premiums in the coming year, Meyer said, adding what he called an additional one-half per cent to the raise, and making a total 10 per cent raise.

Meyer said the district was facing a drop in students which resulted in some drop in funding. "One of our problems is we haven't been quite keeping up on our allotment of students," Meyer said.

Actual negotiations between the school district and the teachers haven't taken up salaries as yet, and are still stalled on the problem of working out a negotiations agreement. The teachers have been attempting to establish such an agreement for four years, Kius said.

The issues now involve how long the agreement would last, what items it would cover and the method which would insure agreements are reached. The next negotiation meeting is set for Tuesday.

Plunge from canyon rim near club kills TF boy

JEROME — A 125-foot fall into Snake River Canyon from near the Blue Lakes road killed 15-year-old Russell Jay Williams, Twin Falls, Wednesday.

Sheriff Eliza Hall, Jerome, said the boy apparently slipped while looking at the view of the Blue Lakes. He was accompanied by another juvenile boy and a juvenile girl. The boy is the son of Howard and Lucille Williams, Twin Falls.

Sheriff Hall said when he arrived, the Williams boy's body was lying beside the road about halfway down the grade. He said the companions reported the three had taken final tests in school during the morning and had the remained on the day free.

They decided to drive to the Blue Lakes Country Club and had stopped at the spotlight which controls traffic at the entrance of the narrow canyon road. While waiting for the light to change they began to look at the view.

Sheriff Hall said the companions told him they saw Williams slip a few feet and go out of sight. The boy walked to the edge and saw him a short distance below but he was all right. When he failed to join the other two in the automobile they again went to the canyon edge to check on him and found he had fallen a second time.

Hall said the rock ledge where he had gone to view the lake was about 20 to 25 feet from where the vehicle was parked.

Dr. L. M. Neher, Jerome County coroner, pronounced the boy dead at the scene and said he died almost instantly. He struck the gravel shoulder of the road about 125 feet straight down from where he apparently lost his footing, officers said.

Sheriff Hall said the investigation is continuing and he has several other witnesses to question, reportedly including some who were on the road or in the canyon below, and a man who was in the area taking pictures, Hall said.

After 20 years, AF Dam power plant wins license

BY BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — After a 20-year delay, the Federal Power Commission this spring granted a license to Idaho Power Co. for its existing hydroelectric plant at the American Falls Dam.

But the FPC still has not granted licenses for Idaho Power's generation plants at Shoshone Falls and Upper Salmon Falls Dam.

The licenses for three plants were required as of Aug. 1, 1955 when the Snake River near these dams was determined to be navigable and so requiring federal licenses on the dams according to FPC attorney Ray Haganoek.

When the license, Haganoek said, operation of these plants would be technically "unlawful."

But, speaking for himself, Haganoek said that Idaho Power could be held responsible for illegal operation of the generating plants.

According to an FPC news release, Idaho Power Co. filed for operation permits for the hydroelectric generating facilities. Since then 156 cases like these pending with both state and federal agencies objecting to the American Falls plant license.

Joyce Morrison, an FPC public information officer, readily admitted the 20-year delay. She said the commission has not been "sitting on its hands" but has been giving fair consideration to the matter.

"I would like to say that generally the commission tries to find some way to give an applicant or an intervenor a chance to be heard," Morrison said.

FPC grants dam permit

But, despite the decision to release the existing plant, the matter does not appear to be entirely finished.

In a news release on the granting of the license the FPC announced that "recreational and wildlife exhibits were not required" when Idaho Power filed its application in 1959 the commission "is requiring the company to file within two years, with proper consultation with affected agencies."

Furthermore, according to the release, the commission "reserved" setting a land dispute involving the plant between Idaho Power and the Department of Interior "pending notice and opportunity for hearing."

But the FPC release did say the commission believes "this proceeding has been fully developed and considered and does not believe a trial-type hearing would contribute any new and relevant information."

In its decision the commission would not consider Idaho Power's accompanying application for licenses for its generating plants at Shoshone Falls and Upper Salmon Falls Dam.

The FPC release said Idaho Power filed for a license for all three plants at once and that "because no close relationship appears to exist between the Upper Salmon and Shoshone Falls projects and the other two, the commission said it will not now treat the three as one."

"Consideration of the Upper Salmon and Shoshone Falls portions is thus deferred," the release goes on.
Attorney Hagenlock said that in granting a permit for these plants the FPC could require modifications. He said that it would "even be 'theoretically possible' that the commission could have the plants removed, though very unlikely in his own opinion. He did not know when the commission would consider the matter.

"The 20-year delay in granting licenses to these three projects 'is more than any I can recall right now,'" Hagenlock said.

There is not too much concern with the environmental impact of the plants, according to the FPC news release. "All three applied for developments which are semipermanent features of the environment, having operated from 28 to 68 years. Enough time has elapsed since construction so that local human and wildlife populations have adapted to their presence; special requirements and operations modes," the release quoted the commission as saying.

According to Ms. Morrison a total of 102 first license applications for existing plants are pending nationwide.

Agreement explained

MRS. Sharon Triplett, Twin Falls, brought to light an agreement between Idaho and California which allows new Idaho residents from California to use their California car license plates until they expire. She is shown here with her son.

TF officials convinced of license 'agreement'

By DIANE ALTERS
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — A young Twin Falls mother has convinced authorities it is unlawful to ticket new Idaho residents whose cars bear unexpired California license plates.

Mrs. Sharon Triplett, Twin Falls, was ticketed last week for having expired California license plates. Updated stickers on the plates were in the mail at her old California address, she said. Traffic court Judge Reed P. Maughan gave her time to get the stickers, but insisted that she pay a fine for having California, rather than Idaho, plates more than 30 days after she moved to Idaho.

Mrs. Triplett said she learned that an agreement between Idaho and California permitted motorists to keep their California plates until they expired.

The judge checked with state authorities and discovered that Idaho did have a reciprocal agreement with California which said that license plates and registration are valid in Idaho until the California expiration date, including any extension or grace period. Judge Maughan said notice of the reciprocal agreement came in a memo. "It means a continual study, study to keep on top" of the mountain of memos that come through his office, he said.

Maughan said he was "jarred" when he found that he hadn't been adhering to the reciprocal agreement, so he got the latest memo "right from the horse's mouth."
Besides the agreement with California, Idaho has agreements with Washington and Oregon. License plates registered from Oregon are valid in Idaho for the first 12 months of the Oregon license period. The plates of Washington residents who move to Idaho are valid for six months after becoming "casually employed or a resident of Idaho," the agreement memo from the Department of Law Enforcement says.

Minidoka public hearing scheduled

RUPERT — On Thursday night Minidoka County residents can tell their county commissioners how $234,000 in federal revenue sharing should be spent.

Commissioner Lyle Barton said no decisions have been made yet for spending the funds, but he sees a number of places where the money could go. Expansion of the county hospital geriatrics wing on public safety, and on the fairgrounds, are three possible ways to spend the money, he said.

The commissioners are scheduled a public hearing at 8 p.m. Thursday in the commission chambers in the court house.

But, all possibilities for which the money can be spent will be discussed, Barton said. "It just depends on where everyone feels the priorities are," he said.

In the past, Minidoka's revenue sharing has mostly been used for capital improvements, such as for hospital, judicial building and fairground improvements. However, by law, the monies can also be spent for direct services for county residents.

Among other things, revenue sharing can be spent for economic development, housing, education, social services for the aged and poor, libraries, recreation, health, public transportation, environmental protection, and general government.

Laser beams boost reactor fuel quality

LIVERMORE, Calif. (UPI) — The successful use of lasers to enrich uranium to reactor-grade quality in big quantities has been reported by the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory.

Physicist Sam A. Tuccio, who directed the experiment, said this was the first laser uranium enrichment on a larger-than-microscopic scale.

Research on Laser Engineering and Applications sponsored by the Institute for Electrical and Electronics Engineers and the Optical Society of America in Washington.

The experiment produced four thousandths of a gram of about 3 per cent enriched uranium in about two hours.

Nuclear-fuel-enrichment processes increase the concentration of uranium 235 from its natural abundance of 0.7 per cent to the 3 per cent required by most U.S. reactors.

US grain handling probe reaches all major ports

WASHINGTON, (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said Wednesday the investigation of alleged corruption in the handling of grain shipments had spread to every major grain port in the country.

He also told a reporter that there was evidence that organized crime was involved.

The agriculture secretary said that his department's Office of Investigation was playing a major role in building a "web of evidence" that was aiding the inquiry.

Butz listed ports on the East and West Coasts as well as those on the Gulf Coast — New Orleans and Houston — that were previously reported to the center of the investigation.

He said they included Baltimore, Norfolk, Portland, Ore., and Seattle.

Another official source said investigators had also followed leads into other cities, including Albany, N.Y.; Beaumont, Tex.; Duluth, Minn.; and Port Arthur, Texas.

"In some cases we came up with nothing," he added.

New York City, although not a major grain port, is the home port of some shipping companies and individuals that have reportedly been implicated in racketeering.

"The professionals, racketeers," are part of the investigation's scope, Butz said.

"When you've got something like this going, the professionals get involved," he said. Asked if he meant the Mafia, he replied, "Those or similar organizations."

An official close to the investigation, commenting on Butz's remark about the involvement of "professionals," said: "A reasonable man would draw that conclusion."

But, he added, "for me to say now that 'We definitely evidence would be premature.'"

"We are dealing now with the kind of guy and the kind of system that sees great rewards — not just a few dollars but large rewards" — in the grain trade as a result of the sharp increases in values over the last few years, he said.

Protest ends

California MDs set work return

SACRAMENTO — Leaders of the state legislature and several medical organizations announced Wednesday an end of the month long walkout by California doctors who have been protesting malpractice insurance rates.

Leo McCarthy, speaker of the State Assembly, and James Miller, speaker pro tempore of the state senate, joined Dr. Seymour Wallace, president of the 1,700-member Society of Anesthesiologists, in announcing that the doctors would return to work Monday, pending the immediate activation of a Joint Underwriters Association so that physicians will have available the best malpractice insurance.

Donald Burns, secretary of business and transportation for the state, said a hearing would be held Friday in San Francisco on malpractice rates in eight California counties whose doctors were previously insured by Argonaut Insurance Co. of Menlo Park, Calif., a major insurer that canceled the group policy for anesthesiologists on May 1.

Wesley Kramer, state insurance commissioner, is expected to determine at the hearing that insurance is not available in these areas at reasonable rates — defined as rates existing on Dec. 31, 1972. Then, he is expected to activate the Joint Underwriters agreement created by a new law signed last week by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

It was emphasized, it is only a stop-gap that will roll back insurance rates until next January. A "final cure," said Burns through his press secretary, Bill Stall, "can only come through fundamental reform — as set forth" in a special legislative session agenda the governor's staff presented in mid-June, two weeks after the doctors' walkout began.

There are 14 bills now pending in the state legislature on the malpractice question. Among them are measures that would limit lawyers' contingency fees, establish a board that would arbitrate claims and throw out frivolous ones and require examination of surgeons convicted of malpractice.

Berserk student kills 2, wounds 13

BRAMPTON, Ont. (UPI) — A 23-year-old medical student was fed up with life. Wednesday he opened fire on his classmates, killing two and wounding 13.

The shooting occurred in a lecture hall and went directly to a first-floor washroom.

The student had sworn in a suicide pact to kill two teachers who had reprimanded him for getting into a fight with a girl who got in his way. "He wasted a lot of time in carrying out his plan," police said.

John Slinger, 17, who stumbled unaware into the washroom, was the first victim. He was "labeled" into the washroom and collapsed.

Slobodian, firing randomly at students with two rifles, then approached the art room where he shot and killed Margaret Evelyn Wright, 25, one of the teachers on his death list.

After wounding another student nearby, he committed suicide with a single shot in the head.

him for skipping classes, she said. Bronson was in another part of the school at the time of the shooting and was not injured.

Neighbors described Slobodian, the youngest of four children, as a "loner" and a karate expert who didn't have much time for girls.

"We used to call him 'Priest,'" said a one-time classmate. "He always acted in such an aloof, solitary sort of way."

Slobodian, firing randomly at students with two rifles, then approached the art room where he shot and killed Margaret Evelyn Wright, 25, one of the teachers on his death list.

Shale passes test

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The first full-scale test of commercial shale oil was successful, the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. said Wednesday.

The firm tested shale oil heavy fuel to run its Great Lakes freighter Edward B. Greene for six days.

According to the company, the shale oil surpassed preliminary technical expectations for environmental and fuel consumption performance. The test, coordinated by the U.S. Navy's Office of Maritime Administration, was the first in a series of tests to be conducted by the armed forces and industry.

The heavy fuel is one of seven grades made from shale oil at the Shell Oil Shale Development Project near Rifle, Colo.

Bill vetoed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has vetoed a $98.1 million bill that would have encouraged foreigners to visit the United States and Americans to see America first.

The measure would have emphasized travel as a means of participating in America's bicentennial celebration.

Ford's veto message Wednesday said because "states and facilities making extensive facilities to promote tourism by fellow Americans, he found "no justification for the federal government taking on this role." The bill contained $84 million for domestic travel promotion.

Firm's aides meet

NEW YORK — OFFICES of the Northrop Corp. have scheduled a series of meetings in Paris this week and next week with individuals who are likely to be named in a new report of Northrop's controversial payment of $30 million in consultants' fees and agents' fees abroad, well-informed sources said Wednesday.

The report is being prepared by the Washington law firm of Wilmer, Cutler & Pickering, at the request of Northrop's outside directors. It is scheduled to be submitted to a Los Angeles court by July 20, and to the Securities and Exchange Commission in August.

The meetings in the French capital were said to coincide with the Paris Air Show, a major international event attended by many of the world's leading aircraft industry executives.

It was understood that the meetings would be both fact-finding in nature and advisory in the sense that the agents and consultants would be informed that their names were likely to be used during upcoming Senate hearings and in the new report.

A Northrop spokesman said Thomas V. Jones, the company's chairman, as well as a number of other Northrop officials, were attending the show, which began today and continues until June 8.

He declined to comment on the scheduled meetings with consultants, but pointed out that the new investigation was being conducted by five of Northrop's outside directors, without Jones' participation.

Welfare rolls peak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More Americans are on welfare than at any other time in history, according to the latest Health, Education and Welfare Department statistics.

The figures for February, the latest month available, show 11,229,611 children and adults received help under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program. The previous peak was in March, 1974, with 11,155,959 recipients.

When the 1973 record was set, the Nixon administration publicized the huge welfare rolls and the need for welfare reform.

Thursday's low-key announcement by the Ford administration played down the new figure, not even mentioning it was a record high.

"While the rolls are still rising, the smaller proportion of newcomers to welfare suggests that the adverse economic pressures on low-income people are beginning to moderate," said James M. Dwight, administrator of H.E.W.'s Social and Rehabilitation Service.

Credit bias ban eyed

Proud mother

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Proposed government regulations banning credit discrimination by sex would cost creditors millions of dollars and possibly undermine their solvency, a spokesman for the American Bankers Association said today.

Kenneth V. Larkin, a senior vice president of the Bank of America, told a Federal Reserve Board hearing that the proposal poses "a greater feeling that credit is not a privilege but a right."

Congress, thwart the intention of such laws and undermining the judgment of loan officers. He specifically objected to a provision requiring the names of both husband and wife be listed on any account which they both use. He said in his own bank such a switch would cost $5 million a year per year to accomplish.

Larkin proposed instead that all new accounts be listed in both names and that any existing accounts be changed to include both names only on the request of borrowers.

Larkin asked the board to abolish a requirement that creditors provide "a clear and meaningful statement" in writing when they deny credit to an applicant. "To be clear and meaningful we would have to divulge our credit scoring system in which we have invested thousands of dollars and years of highly confidential," he said.

Bicentennial program slated

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A major bicentennial program to explore the meaning of the American Revolution through a series of monthly forums was unveiled Wednesday.

A National Calendar of topics to be discussed was distributed to 250,000 civic leaders and others by the National Endowment for the Humanities and the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration.

To be known as the American Issues Forum, the programs will be launched in September and run through May, 1976. Each month will feature a different main topic with a week devoted to a different aspect of the theme.

Ronald S. Berman, head of the national endowment agency, told a news conference: "It is designed to engage the participation of all Americans—adults and children, through all of the organizations and institutions of which they are members, in a serious exploration month-by-month of some of the issues and forces fundamental to our society—what it is, how it got that way, and where it is headed."

John W. Warner, head of the bicentennial administration, termed the project the "centerpiece" of the observance of the 200th anniversary celebration on a national scale.

The AFL-CIO, the NAACP, the National Grange, the National PTA organization, the Urban League and business firms and groups will encourage participation in the project. Newspapers, radio and television networks and other media will feature the monthly topics as outlined on the calendar.

"It provides every American with the opportunity to participate in history through a true process of national dialogue," Warner said.

The opening monthly theme from Aug. 31 through Sept. 27 is "A Nation of Nations" and will center on the original settlers, the role immigrants have played, the unity of the American people and how to bridge the differences that still exist in society.

Successive months will focus on problems of the cities, land abuse, freedoms guaranteed under the Bill of Rights, the governmental system, American workers, the role of business, the relationship of the United States to the world, family life, education and religion and what lies ahead.

Warner acknowledged that during the Watergate developments, there was "an aura of disappointment" about prospects of the bicentennial celebration but he said this has changed and the sense of participation is growing rapidly.

He said there still are "isolated spots where there is apathy," mainly in the core areas of the big cities because of a "feeling by ghetto dwellers that my voice, my vote, my aspirations are meaningless."

Sadat says Russia, Libya make 'deal'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Russia and Libya have secretly made the biggest weapons deal in the history of the Middle East, with the Soviet Union agreeing to supply $1 billion worth of the most sophisticated arms one can imagine, according to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

The agreement could give the Soviets a military presence on the southern shore of the Mediterranean for 30 years, Sadat told the Los Angeles Times.

In a lengthy interview published in the Times today, Sadat also complained that it is difficult to deal with the United States because the government does not speak with one voice, with the White House following one foreign policy and Congress another. But he called on the United States not to "go on sticking your head in the sand" in post-Vietnam isolationism, and to take a superpower role in bringing peace to the Middle East by pressuring Israel.

The Libyan regime of Col. Moammar Khadafy and Moscow both denied earlier reports in Egyptian newspapers of a secret $4 billion arms deal, calling them exaggerated. Sadat, the Times said, stated that far from being exaggerated, the actual agreement was three times bigger than had been reported.

"The whole deal is for the most sophisticated arms one can imagine," the Times quoted Sadat as saying. It provides Libya with " tanks and aircraft of the latest style," he said. "The Russians have never given me or Syria such sophisticated arms."

Russian advisers will have to remain in Libya for 20 to 30 years to show Libyans how to use the weapons, Sadat said.

Lancelot, the peerless knight and bridge player, looked over at wily Mordred sitting West and remarked, "I am going to treat you like a friend for this hand."

Then Lancelot played the four of clubs from dummy's Gamwin, sitting East, had to play a low club and Mordred's Jack was allowed to hold the trick. He led a second club. Lancelot won with his ace and drew trumps with three leads, being careful to win the third one in dummy. Then he played the deuce of diamonds.

Gawaine followed with the seven. Lancelot turned to Mordred and said, "Here's another friendly trick for you." Then he played his nine spot and Mordred made another trick with a Jack.

"Gadzooks," said Mordred, "I wish I like you better when you act as an enemy. This best I take my ace of spades ere it is lullied to sleep by thy soft words."

So Mordred played his ace of spades and held Lancelot to a contract that would have been beaten if Gawaine had ever been able to gain the lead.

your health

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 Although I have had diverticulosis for a long time, I have had no difficulty with this problem.
 A friend of mine has advised me that colon irrigations are helpful in keeping diverticulosis under control. I would very much like your opinion. — E.J.Z.

I would veto colon irrigations on two counts, at least. Such a procedure will cleanse the lower bowel, but it may also disrupt the natural chemistry of the colon. It is also questionable whether such irrigations would reach any but the lower portions of the colon, and, as you know, diverticulosis (outpocketings from the intestinal wall) can occur anywhere in that structure.

You seem to have your diverticulosis under control, so why foot around with methods that can be damaging, and at best only half-effective?

You would be better off making sure you get an adequate amount of bulk in your diet to promote natural bowel movements. Routine colon irrigations should be avoided unless there is a well-established reason for them.

Friend's advice not too sound

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 On all the laxative compounds there is a warning that continued use may result in dependence on them. But none ever explains what a laxative really does, or what the effect of prolonged use does have. No one else has been able to explain this to me. — K.N.

The body moves unimpeded solids down the intestinal tract in a process that involves a "peristaltic" movement in the walls of the bowels. This alternating contraction and relaxation of the muscle fibers propels the food and, eventually, the waste to the rectum. There, the rectal muscles take over, being called into action for periodic defecation.

A laxative comes under the general heading of a cathartic. It is generally considered a mild cathartic, as compared with a purgative, which is more severe. A mineral oil would be considered to be a mild cathartic. It mixes with food solids in the intestine, softening them and thus promoting easier passage down the digestive tract. A purgative would be a medication that has a direct and usually strong stimulating effect on the muscles of the intestines. Today, the terms laxative and purgative are generally used interchangeably.

Usually a normal diet will take care of the matter, and no assistance is needed.

Prolonged use of any cathartic can disturb both the peristaltic process mentioned above and the natural muscular control at the rectum, making movements irregular and often troublesome. Persons who are habitual cathartic users tend to develop a tolerance more than do people who aren't. My booklet, "The Way to Stop Constipation," attempts to bring some common sense to bear on the whole subject. For a copy, send 25 cents to me in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

But back to your question. The main potential damage in chronic laxative use, besides hemorrhoids, is a disturbance of the body's natural processes. Usually, as I said earlier, constipation will take care of itself, unless there is a functional abnormality. Many people insist on taking a bowel laxative to help their work, insisting on a movement a day, which they consider a universal sign of good health.

By removing bowel material completely with harsh laxatives, it may take two or three days for a new stool to accumulate.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 My sister, age 71, was told she has cystic fibrosis in both breasts, and was told "not to worry about it." Is this common for a woman her age? Could it become cancerous, and is there any treatment? — A.N.

The term is cystic disease of the breast, not cystic fibrosis, which is an entirely different disorder, of glandular origin.

The condition your sister has is not common in older women. It requires close observation and periodic checks, both physical (by palpitation) and by mammography (x-ray of the breasts). It can become cancerous. Treatment is either by surgical drainage or removal of the individual cysts.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune, N.Y. World Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am unmarried with two small children. I don't love their father, although we live together because it's convenient. We get along so-so. We share the bills, and I get the use of his car.

I love Sam only three weeks when we started living together. I got pregnant, and then I was stuck.

"He told me he was divorced, but he won't show me the proof. (I think he's lying.) He gambles a lot, and I can't trust him very far. He works nights and I work days. We have no friends or social life. But Sam is good to the kids, and they love him.

Him, her
—and mom

My mother lives in my building, and she is driving me crazy. She interferes and causes arguments between Sam and me. She goes against everything I say to my kids—calls them stupid in front of them and tells them not to listen to me. When I discipline the kids, they cry for Grandma, and this is the best trip. Counseling will lighten your burden and show you the way. Good luck. Write again to tell me how you're doing. I care.

MISFIT IN CHICAGO

DEAR MISFIT: I see two major problems: Sam and your mother. You need to get away from your mother. She is poison to your self-esteem, and a troublemaker to boot. Call Family Service, and make an appointment with one of their professional counselors. You need to talk at length with someone who can help you put your life in order. Moving with a man you don't love because it's a convenience is a bad trip. Counseling will lighten your burden and show you the way. Good luck. Write again to tell me how you're doing. I care.

DEAR ABBY: Well, here goes my first "Dear Abby" letter.

A dear friend of mine, who happened to be an elderly lady, gave me a beautiful Oriental urn. She was in good health and by no means senile when she gave it to me.

Since her death last week, a daughter-in-law called, saying that I return the urn because "it had been promised to someone in the family." She also suggested that her daughter-in-law was not in her right mind when she gave it to me.

I was very hurt to be asked for something that I know was given to me out of love and generosity. I like the urn, and I want to keep it. I have asked several other people what they would do in this case, and they say, "Keep it." I need your opinion before making a decision. Thank you.

OHIOAN

DEAR OHIOAN: I vote to keep it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has the classic answer to those overly smug parents of children of both sexes.

We were already the proud parents of three fine daughters when I gave birth to a fourth daughter. Many people came to my husband, expressing sympathy because he had no sons.

My husband's reply to them was: "If the good Lord thought another man was needed in my house, He would've sent him."

Miss Roe, Beitia recite nuptial vows

WENDELL — Peggy Lee Roe and John Thomas Beitia were married in a double ring ceremony May 17 at the Wendell United Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Anthony M. Gamley performed the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Roe Jr., Wendell, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gunn, Gooding.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white cotton lace styled with a high neckline with ruffled trim around the high neckline and cuffs. The dress featured a fitted waistline and scalloped hemline.

She wore a wide brimmed white hat decorated with white lace with a large bow in the back. She carried a basket of spring flowers with white roses and white streamers.

Mrs. Tim Craig Wendell, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Jody Olin was flower girl.

The couple was honored at a reception following the ceremony.

The bride's table was decorated with fresh spring flowers. The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Lee Davis, Wendell.

Mrs. Joe T. Roe, sister-in-law of the bride and Mrs. Phil Martin served cake and punch.

The bride's parents were hosts for a dinner for the wedding party and guests at the American Legion Hall, Wendell. Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Avril and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Olin were in charge of the dinner.

Following a honeymoon trip to New York and southern states, the couple will reside in Santa Maria, Calif., where the bridegroom is employed by Union Oil Company.

Woman reaches top

HONG KONG (UPI) — A Chinese woman became the second woman ever to scale Mt. Everest Tuesday and the New China News Agency said it proved wrong "the reactionary fallacy of man being superior to woman."

NCCA said the woman identified only as Phanthog, a Chinese of Tibetan birth, reached the peak from the north slope along with eight Chinese men, also born in Tibet, climaxing an expedition that began two months ago.

Mrs. Junko Tabei, a 37-year-old Japanese housewife, became the first woman to scale Mt. Everest earlier this month.

Fourth grade class gets special honor

TWIN FALLS — For the third consecutive year, the fourth grade class of Mrs. Mildred Jacobs, Harrison School, has received special recognition for outstanding Idaho history projects.

The students in Mrs. Jacobs' class formed an Idaho Historical Society "Prospector" chapter, which was selected as one of the top 1975 prospector chapters, according to a letter she received from the Society.

The letter said only 10 of the 177 chapters in the state are honored in this fashion each year. A certificate from the society was presented to the class during an awards assembly at the school Tuesday afternoon.

During their study of Idaho, the class members each made scrap books of historical material. They also made tapes of stories for the children at the Easter Seal Center and bought two Syringa bushes, the state flower, for the Harrison School grounds.

Last year, Mrs. Jacobs' class conducted a campaign to protect the eagles of Idaho.

Last day for schools

By CRICKET BIRD

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Since the days of ankle-length dresses and horse-drawn wagons, Twin Falls students have attended classes at Washington and Lincoln Schools.

The buildings will be torn down soon. Wednesday, most students raced around the old buildings with the ebullience that traditionally marks the last day of school; others were quiet and seemed to feel an odd let-down.

But most of the current generation of students who filled the school rooms didn't seem to share the sentimental and nostalgic feeling the adults did about the last day of school for the old buildings.

"Are you crying with us?" said one teacher as he carried books from the old to newer section of Lincoln School.

Next year the students will attend different schools, with a different look.

Gone will be the high-ceilinged spacious rooms of Lincoln School, bright with sun from the expansive classroom windows. Gone will be the hardwood floors still left in some of the classrooms, and the detailed and beautiful woodwork, molding and trim. Gone will be the open windows of Indian summer, letting in the dry still heat.

In place — the students will attend modern, brick schools. Carpet will replace the wood floors and tile, air conditioning will cancel the need for open windows, and even the windows themselves will be generally insignificant, with little chance for window-watching and day-dreaming.

Waiting for the final class to end at Washington School, retired police officer John Stephens prepared to see his kids safely across the tangled intersection at North Five Points for the last time.

"I've done this for the past 13 years," he said with a smile. As he waved them across the street, some of the kids said, "Thanks, Johnny," and an older boy, riding his bike home from junior high school, gave him a hello for old times sake.

Inside Washington School principal William Stover gave one of his students a "treat" for doing something especially well. The boy went away beaming. Stover sighed and said, "I'm really going to miss these kids. They're a great bunch of kids."

Poor response on water plans

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's Department of Water Resources is getting a dismal response from the state's Panhandle residents to the state water plan questionnaire.

Department planner Jim Wrigley said today that so far 290 responses out of a possible 46,000 had been received.

"The questionnaire went to nearly every home as part of Panhandle newspapers this month and only about half of one per cent have been returned," he said.

Wrigley said the Panhandle family will take the time to discuss the vital issues and let us know how they feel, the department can develop the state water plan along the lines of citizen desires.

"Agency planners just completed public meetings in Sandpoint, Bonners Ferry, Coeur d'Alene, Kellogg, St. Maries and Priest River. Wrigley said they were a moderate success with the largest attendance 75 persons and the smallest 12 people.

He said data and comments received thus far are being analyzed.

"The statewide effort to prepare a plan that reflects the desires of the local people most affected requires citizen input and guidance for the plan to succeed — and in the Panhandle we do not consider half of one per cent adequate," Wrigley said.

The de Luxe, the Santa Fe Railway's luxury train between Los Angeles and Chicago, carried a maximum of 60 passengers on each trip during its brief history from 1911 to 1917.

Second star

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's adjutant general got his second star today.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus promoted Brig. Gen. James S. Brooks to succeed Maj. Gen. George B. Bennett as adjutant general last December 1 and recommended Brooks' promotion to major-general.

The required Senate confirmation and federal recognition of the promotion came through May 18, and the governor and Mrs. Brooks each pinned a star on the general's shoulders in a brief ceremony in the governor's office.

Brooks joined the Army Air Corps in April 1943 and served as a B-24 commander in the Pacific Theater. Later, he served a year with the military government in Japan.

In 1947 he joined the Idaho Army National Guard as a first lieutenant and has served in various capacities since then, the last 10 years as adjutant general.

Anti-Breeches
Trousers became popular in America after the War of 1812 as a reaction against the silk breeches and hose syndrom that smothered too much of things British. The Duke of Wellington actually helped popularize trousers in England by wearing them to state functions. Early trousers were simply something to protect the fancy breeches when riding, similar to chaps worn by cowboys out West.

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI)—An environmental group today warned the state Health and Welfare Department that its advocacy for proposed Bunker Hill air-pollution regulations casts doubt on the agency's dedication to guarding health.

A letter to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus from G. A. Jayne, a member of the Idaho Environmental Council board of directors, described what he called inadequacies of the state's plan for sulfur dioxide emissions at Bunker Hill.

Lee Stokes, a spokesman for the department, responded that the letter was "just totally inaccurate."

Gov. Andrus said the state and Bunker Hill had worked well together in correcting the air pollution problem and that conditions are improving steadily.

The governor also said that Bunker Hill will be required to meet all reasonable air quality standards and that creation of unrealistic air quality standards just for publicity purposes is not proper.

In a statement from Russell A. Brown, IEC president, he said if the governor and the department believe that a "reasonable air quality standard" is one that allows up to double the Clean Air Act's daily maximum and triple the annual maximum concentration, they should defend it in terms of those numbers instead of generalities."

Russell said the state's data show that, using a previously defined department control strategy, the Clean Air Act daily standard of 14 parts per million was exceeded on 100 days during a one-year test period August 1974-July 1975; the annual standard of 63 ppm was exceeded by a factor of three.

He said the newest department strategy would allow daily concentrations up to 28 ppm, double the level set by the law.

Implementation of that strategy offers some hope that daily concentrations would go no higher, although the data published last year show 43 days when that did occur.

He said the state averages no limit on the annual average concentration, that it would continue at the potentially hazardous 09-12 ppm level until July 1977.

"The state's sensitivity to questions about SO₂ standards at Bunker Hill is understandable," he said. "But the regulations proposed by D&W appear to show more concern for the economic health of the region than for the health of the residents of Shoshone County."

"Implicit in D&W's policy and the governor's veto is the assumption that average SO₂ concentrations of 200 ppb for days at a time pose no hazard to health. If our state officials are not willing to make such a claim, the proposed regulation should be reevaluated."

The IEC noted that the Bunker Hill president described 1973 as a "phenomenal year" with an earning of $4.3 million.

3 new TF tennis courts ready
TWIN FALLS — Three new tennis courts at Harmon Park should be ready to use by the end of June, according to Twin Falls City Manager Jean Millar.

City crews currently are preparing the bases for the courts. Millar said. A contractor will do the concrete work and erect fences for about $25,000 in city revenue sharing monies.

The site for the new courts, east of the existing courts, was chosen "because it least disrupts the maintenance patterns" in the park, Millar said.

Six or seven trees will be removed as part of the project but replacements will be planted in a different area of the park, according to Millar.

Barnett death cause unknown
TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County Coroner Cloyce Edwards said today the cause of death of Jerry Barnett, Hansen, has not yet been officially determined.

An earlier statement by the coroner that the death had been ruled suicide is incorrect, he said today. Edwards has scheduled an inquest into the death for June 17 in Twin Falls.

The boy died about 18 months ago of a gunshot wound.

His parents repeatedly have said the boy was murdered.

TWIN FALLS — A woman on her way to leave a night deposit in the bank was robbed Wednesday night in downtown Twin Falls.

He gained $7 to $8 dollars for his trouble, Qualls said. The officer said the robber displayed a handgun. The robbery occurred at 10:15 p.m., but officers called to the scene a few minutes after the incident could find no trace of the suspect. Investigation is continuing.

Wyoming man arrested after high speed chase

BURLEY — Idaho State Police arrested a Rook-Spring, Wyo., man after a high speed chase around the north side of Burley, until Campbell made it to highway 27 and to Paul.

The chase involved members of several law enforcement agencies and wound through Declo and Burley before the object of the chase, Howell Ted Campbell, 43, wrecked his car.

ISP officer Dee Davis said the chase began near the port-of-entry station near Cottler.

Campbell was notified that a drunk driver was on the Interstate.

A port-of-entry car first tried to stop Campbell, Davis said, but the subject refused to pull over. Next, Campbell passed the officer and refused to stop for him.

Davis said he gave chase, with Campbell leading him at speeds in excess of 100 mph to the Declo interchange, to Declo on state highway 77, then on 81 to the Unity curve, then on 100 south to east 27th in Burley. The chase then continued around the north side of Burley, until Campbell made it to highway 27 and to Paul.

At Paul, Campbell turned west on highway 25, towards the Kasota I-80 interchange.

But the chase came to a sudden stop when Campbell lost control of his car, which ended up in an irrigation ditch.

Campbell was arrested for reckless driving, and taken to Cassia Memorial hospital for minor injuries, Davis said. He stayed overnight in the hospital.

2 guilty in child's death

BURLEY — Sentencing has been set for June 24 for Tony and Julia Pena, Burley, who pleaded guilty Tuesday to the involuntary manslaughter of their infant son.

According to a complaint filed by prosecuting attorney Alfred Barrus, Tony Isaac Pena, 10 months, had sustained severe injuries, including bruises, contusions; broken ribs and suffered from malnutrition. The child was brought dead to Cassia Memorial Hospital on Dec. 7.

At the time of his death, the 10 month old baby weighed six pounds. An x-ray autopsy showed that the infant was a "battered child." The x-rays indicated multiple bone injuries.

An affidavit of captain Pete Rodriguez, Burley Police Department, submitted as evidence in the case, says that a resident doctor at the hospital said on the night of Dec. 7 that the child was in as bad a state as the starving in Africa. The affidavit also said a Twin Falls pathologist told Cassia County coroner Bruce Young the child was malnourished.

The Penas could receive a sentence of up to 10 years on the felony charge.

The Penas have other children, but a check by the state child protective services showed the others to be in good health, Barrus said.

Fifth District Judge Sherman Bellwood has ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

Attorney flails council

HAILEY — It is difficult to determine whether the Hailey City Council or McCulloch Properties is controlling Hailey, Twin Falls attorney Lloyd Walker said Wednesday night.

Walker was speaking as a private landowner before the Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission, which was accused of yielding to private and political pressure for cutting back a commercial zone north of Hailey.

James Kennedy, who was representing Walker, told the commission, "You should have the courage to resist all private and political pressure."

Kennedy was referring to a move by the commission to restrict commercially zoned land to the cities in Blaine County except for one small parcel north of Hailey. The planning commission originally extended a commercial

'Y' pool opened at last

By CHUCKER ROAD
Twin Falls News Service
TWIN FALLS — The YMCA-YWCA swimming pool, after several false starts and years of construction, is open.

The first swimming classes are being held in the pool this week located at the Y-building and adult free swim begins Monday.

Construction of the pool was envisioned when the YMCA building itself was planned, and adequate space left at the site, according to architect Harold Gerber.

The original design, made in 1959 included plans for a pool, gymnasium handball courts and athletic club, Gerber said.

But high construction costs forced planners to drop the idea of handball courts and gymnasia, although they reserved the possibility of adding them later.

Actual construction on the pool began about 1971. Gerber said he was made in designs for the first phase of building and funding, a Times-News report in July, 1971, lists the cost estimate to be $175,000, and optimistically sees "completion of construction early next spring (1972)."

Funding difficulties halted construction, and several changes were made in designs, including adding the all-life covering to the pool; Gerber said.

Funding drives in 1972 and 1974, made it possible to complete more of the pool construction, but still money was lacking. A YMCA appeal for loans at first was turned down, but financing finally was obtained.

The pool was officially opened Tuesday, with classes planned for swimming, synchronized swimming, life saving, scuba diving.

Estimated final cost of the project is between $200,000 and $250,000 for the 25-by-75-foot pool.

Police probe shotgun blast

TWIN FALLS — City police in Twin Falls are investigating a shotgun blast through the front window of the home of Jerry Dellman late Wednesday night.

Detective Capt. Tim Qualls said the man reportedly had gone to bed. At about 11:30 p.m. he heard the shot and discovered a 19-by-19-inch hole in the living room window. Officers said glass and pellets from the shell had scattered through the living room and kitchen of the Dellman home, 476 Pol St.

A cup in the kitchen was broken and the curtain which was covering the window was also damaged.

Dellman estimated damage to his home by the shotgun window, the curtain and cup at $100.

Capt. Qualls said pending further investigation he is unable to say if the man was alone in the home at the time.

designation north of Hailey to include Walker's land.

According to county planner DAVID VINY, the Hailey City Council wanted to keep the commercial land inside the city to prevent a trade shift from the shops in town.

The planning commission then withdrew the commercial designation north of Hailey which excluded the Walker land from the commercial designation. Walker for sometime has admitted he would like to construct a shopping center north of Hailey. The only remaining commercial location with enough space for the project is in the Woodside subdivision.

Kennedy pointed-out to the commission—the Twin Falls lawsuit — White vs. Twin Falls City — in which a similar piece of property was determined by the Idaho Supreme Court to be commercial — although the city had put a restrictive use on it.

TF Camporee set

TWIN FALLS — At least 150 local Boy Scouts are expected to take part in the annual Camporee this weekend at Dickson Lake.

The Camporee is sponsored by the Twin Falls district of the Snake River Area Council.

The camp-out, which will include boys between the ages of 11 and 18 years old, begins Friday evening and lasts until Sunday noon. Between 10 and 15 units and their leaders are expected to attend.

The scouts will compete in ten different activities as they work towards their emergency preparedness merit badge.

The activities will include problems in first aid, compass use, measurement, fire-building and plant identification. For fun, the boys will play tag-of-war, erect a tent blindfolded and timed, and take part in a cross country race.

Saturday night, a campfire will highlight the evening activities with the Order of the Arrow tag-out and awards presentation for the evening.

Sunday, the remaining scouts will have to search for a victim. Scouts who leave Saturday night will have a chance to do the search problem at the discretion of their troops.

Chairman for the Camporee is Dick Sterling, scout roundtable commissioner.

Salmon tract gets full water delivery

HOLLISTER — Salmon tract farmers will have full water delivery in 1975 for the fifth consecutive year.

Morris Huffman, Salmon Canal Co. manager, said the amount of water delivery was decided early this year because of high water level. He expects the depth will probably surpass the record of 73.7 feet established June 15, 1971.

The gauge reading this morning was 84.5 feet, compared to 81 feet a year ago. The highest reading in "boom" years was 73.52 in 1972.

Today's gauging reading shows 135,600 acre feet of water — low in surge. The dam's capacity is 182,000 acre feet.

The dam is 90 feet high and has never overflowed. Huffman said. It was built from 1906-1910 and high water delivery began in 1911.

From 1911 to 1970 there were only three years when shareholders received full water delivery, the manager said, but since 1970 water has been sufficient for full delivery every year. "This year's allotment is 1,167 acre feet per share," Huffman said. "There's still a tremendous amount" of snow in the higher elevations although most of the snow has melted on the lower hills of the Salmon Falls drainage. The reservoir retains water from both the Shooshone basin area and the Salmon Falls drainage to the south and west.

Delivery of water to individual farmers on the tract was scheduled May 21 and some "problems" resulted early that morning when a heavy snow and rain storm brought from 9 to 12 inches of snow between 2 and 7 a.m.

Huffman said, "We had some farmers who had hay spread when they could put the water without harrowing crops cooperated in using some of the excess water in the canal.

Huffman, who has been manager since 1957, said this was the first time in his 18 years experience that heavy spring storms have created such an extreme condition.

"We've had problems from rains before, but never to this extent," he said.

He estimates there is a potential of about another 60,000 acre feet inflow in the next two days but only 1,395 acre feet. He said that inflow would be 180 acre feet. But the inflow will increase as the irrigation season progresses.

Huffman said the maximum daily inflow in 1972 had been 300 acre feet on May 21. He said this year's inflow will reach an average of 200 acre feet.

Gem spuds up, Maine off; meat futures show dips

NEW YORK (UPI) - The stock market, worried about a revival of inflation and the pace of an expected economic recovery, opened lower. Thursday investors trading on the New York Stock Exchange saw the Dow Jones Industrial average off 0.55 to 816.49 shortly after the opening. Declines led advances, 272 to 122, among the 497 issues crossing the tape.
 Just as the market opened, the Commerce Department reported its new index of leading economic indicators rose a record 4.2 percent in April and was the second consecutive monthly advance. The report was considered strong evidence the recession has bottomed out.
 Treasury Secretary William Simon said in Paris the recession either has or is in the process of reaching a bottom. Some investors Wednesday expressed concern President Ford's doubling of the oil import tax would rekindle inflation. farm Market margins on beef narrow WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supermarket margins on beef narrowed sharply last month and returned nearly to levels recorded during the closing months of federal price controls two years ago, an Agriculture Department report shows.

The big swing in the marketing chain last month came in what statisticians term the "carcass-retail" margin, which traces changes in the spread between wholesale whole-carcass prices and retail prices for individual cuts at the supermarket counter.

Idaho crop work gains

BOISE (UPI) — Favorable weather across most of Idaho had field work in full swing and allowed good crop progress during the week ending May 23, the state Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today.

Storms in parts of south-central and eastern Idaho hampered farming operations somewhat at the end of the week. Soil moisture supplies continued adequate to surplus. Spring work continued at a feverish rate in all areas except for a few high elevation counties in eastern Idaho.

Sugarbeet plantings were virtually complete across the state except for the extreme eastern areas. About five per cent of the sugarbeets have been blocked and thinned. Mixed grains and oats were 85 and 65 per cent planted, respectively, compared with 75 per cent a year earlier.

Report dooms Idaho salmon runs by 1977

SEATTLE (UPI) — The national Marine Fisheries Service warned today that unless corrective action already initiated is carried out without delay, "salmon and steelhead runs on the Snake River will be gone in four years."

The report was a study of dams on the Columbia River and its tributaries dating back 10 years.

Five fisheries biologists prepared the report, which said the water impoundments and the dams themselves are deadly to migrating salmon and steelhead in both high and low flow years.

"With high spills the water becomes supersaturated with atmospheric gases to levels that are lethal to fish," the report explained. "In low flow years, with no spill, an even more destructive situation develops in which all downstream migrants must pass through the turbines where many are killed outright. Others are injured or stunned and left vulnerable to intensive predation."

"The gravity of the Snake River situation for chinook salmon and steelhead can be appreciated by noting the rapid decline in the runs in recent years, realizing that this happened largely because of the addition of Lower Monumental and Little Goose dams."

With the Lower Granite, four dams now affect fish passage in the Snake. By the end of 1975, 15 more turbines will have been installed for a total of 24 turbines in the Lower Snake River.

Young migrants from the Salmon River must pass through eight large impoundments and over or through eight major dams to reach the sea.

The report is entitled "Snake River Salmon and Steelhead Crisis — Its Relation to Dams and the National Energy Crisis."

The biologists recommend that young fish be collected at an upstream dam and be transported around all the dams to the Columbia River estuary.

Since 1970, the fisheries has been conducting an experiment in which young migrating salmon and steelhead are collected at Little Goose dam and trucked to two locations downstream from Bonneville Dam.

Although the increased survival rate varies from year to year on one bad year, 1973, the researchers said figures showed one in 22 chinook salmon survived this way, and one in 23 steelhead survived.

Other recommendations were that traveling screens be installed in every turbine water intake to help bypass the fish around the turbines at dams.

Also, the scientists said supersaturation could be reduced by installation of spillway deflectors, known as flipflaps, which break up the pummeling effect of water cascading over the dams during runoff. Final recommendations included reducing migration delays through flow controlled utilization of upstream storage, cross hatchery production, and control thermal, industrial and agricultural pollution by enforcing water quality standards.

Webster seen as top pick in NBA draft

CHINESE PLAYERS, Laili-Hui Lee and Eng-Jay Kao are the first from their nation to sign professional contracts. Cincinnati Redleg President Bob Howans emphasized he felt both Lee, 18, and Kao, 19, have big league potential. The two played for the Taiwan team which won the Little League for Big Leagues tournament in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., last summer. Kao is a pitcher and Lee is a catcher. (UPI telephoto)

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Atlanta Hawks occupy the coveted position of owning two of the first three choices in today's National Basketball Association college player draft. One of those two figures to be the second highest rebounder in college basket-points and grabbed 32 rebounds. Webster averaged 17.5 points per game and hit for a .524 percentage from the field, a very laudable figure for a big man. He was named the Most Valuable Player in the 1974 NCAA Division 2 championships in which Morgan State captured the title.

Coach John Wooden was at the helm. Thompson, a 6-4 forward who frequently played against opponents half a foot taller, was the third highest scorer in the country with a 29.9 average.

The Hawks, who obtained what wound up to be the first pick of the draft from the New Orleans Jazz last year in exchange for Pete Maravich, will likely make their No. 1 selection Marvin "The Human Bongo" Webster, a seven-foot rebounding star, was the second most prolific rebounder in college basketball history, surpassing the totals of such stars as Bill Russell, Paul Silas, Tom Gola, Marvin Barnes and Elvin Hayes.

When the Jazz, the worst in the Eastern Conference won a coin flip with the Los Angeles Lakers; the cellar-dwellers in the West, for the rights to the first pick, the Hawks were the happy ones.

The Lakers, selecting second, are likely to pick a local talent — UCLA's David Meyers — or North Carolina State's David Thompson, with the Hawks grabbing the other man with their second pick. Both Meyers and Thompson received All-America recognition. The 6-8 forward, who averaged 18.3 ppg and — 7.9 — rebounds per game, led UCLA to the national title in the last year

Pitcher's bat wins game, but reliever gets credit

CHICAGO (UPI) — Starting pitcher Bill Bonham couldn't get the win for the Chicago Cubs Wednesday, but he batted in the winning run to give the second of his two relievers, Oscar Gambara, his third victory of the season without a defeat, in a 5-4 triumph over the Atlanta Braves.

Bonham's second single of the game, only his third hit in 24 times at bat this season, scored Manny Trillo, who had opened the fourth with a triple, with the Cubs' fifth run—which proved to be the winner.

But Bonham was removed from the game in the Atlanta fifth when he twice walked the bases full and fell one-third of an inning short of completing the requisite five innings a starter needs.

Bonham was replaced by relief pitcher Steve Carlton, who pitched the final 1 1/2 innings and struck out two batters in the ninth.

U.S. track tour of China hikes friendly relations

PEKING (UPI) — America's triumph track and field members return home tomorrow, greeted by their coach for a job well done and by the highest ranking U.S. official in China for improving the growing friendship between both countries.

"Our team did an excellent job," said Coach Bob Glegengack. "As for the Chinese, they were perfect hosts. Nobody could possibly ask for anymore than they did for us."

"George Bush, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and now chief U.S. Liaison officer in China, was among the 60,000 who watched the American athletes make a clean sweep of their good-will series with the Chinese at Peking Workers' Stadium Wednesday and he expressed his personal praise for them, as well as for the Chinese.

"I guess my feelings can be summed up by pride in our accomplishments," said Bush. "In addition to a fantastic performance by great men and women athletes, there's a lot more to it here as we develop this relationship."

"The friendship they've heard so much about in the past few days really came through. Our people conducted themselves with a sense of maturity, a genuine feeling for the other side that can only make our job easier in the long run. It was a fine group conducting themselves in the great tradition of our country, and I'll tell you I got a big kick out of it. I got a kick out of seeing them winning and I got a kick out of meeting these guys and girls and just reveling in their accomplishments."

From the outset, the Chinese made it plain that their three track and field meets with the Americans in Canton, Shanghai and here would be based on "friendship first, competition second."

There were no medals awarded, no point scores kept, and so it was, which is the good reason just as well because the Chinese were simply outclassed in the actual competition.

The U.S. team won all three meets easily, rolling up 91 victories in 98 events.

The Chinese, in fact, never scored any kind of triumph at all in the men's competition until the final day of competition Wednesday when Li Yunpiao, a 37-year-old cool center, beat Al Hall of Chardon, Mass., in the hammer throw with a toss of 197 feet, 7 inches.

"We are good friends," explained the affable, 6-foot-1, 254 pound LI, who now goes back to his work in the coal mines.

But LI thought to lift his Chinese opponent atop his shoulders after they finished their event, and the crowd, realizing what the U.S. team captain was trying to do, cheered its appreciation.

"But LI courteously declined. He was too embarrassed.

Later, he presented Hall with a special iron ball costing $300.

"It's the best one I've ever seen," exclaimed the U.S. hammer thrower.

The Chinese also achieved two other victories on the last day of competition, in the women's 100-meter dash and javelin throw. Otherwise the Americans grabbed 13 of the 16 final day events.

Walker cup team jumps into 8-4 lead

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI) — The United States Walker Cup team was in the driver's seat today, holding a commanding 8-4 lead over Great Britain and Ireland on the final day of their amateur golf match.

But the pressure still was on for Jerry Pate, the 21-year-old U.S. Amateur champion. The University of Alabama senior is out to restore his battered pride after two defeats in Wednesday's singles and foursomes.

Pate's indignities were made even harder to take in the knowledge that he had lost against a last-minute substitute, Mark James, who would not have played but for an accident to a teammate.

The U.S. non-playing captain, Dr. Ed Updegraff, has shown faith in Pate's ability by retaining him for the second

Nets obtain Nater

MINNAPOLIS, N.Y. (UPI) — The New York Nets, their American Basketball Association "Dynasty" ended after one year by a stunning first round playoff loss to St. Louis, apparently ready to start rebuilding.

The Nets reportedly have traded Larry Kenon, a starting forward, and Mike Gale, a reserve guard, to the San Antonio Spurs for center Sven Nater.

The acquisition of Nater, who was Bill Walton's backup at UCLA, presumably would leave the Nets free to deal for Center Billy Pate. New York coach Kevin Loughery was not satisfied with Pate's play, particularly in the five-game playoff loss to St. Louis.

Baseball's free agent draft set for next week

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than 600 eager and hopeful baseball players who are completing their high school or college careers will be waiting at the telephones on June 4 when the annual summer free agent draft gets underway.

The draft, which will be conducted — by telephonic hookup — among the 24 major league clubs, will be controlled from Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office, with the California Angels making the first selection at noon EDT.

Teams will draw in reverse order of finish in the 1974 season, alternating each side by league. Thus California of the American League will be followed by San Diego of the National, with the Los Angeles Dodgers, the NL champions, making the 24th and final pick.

The World Champion Oakland A's pick 21st, since the Baltimore Orioles — who won the AL East with a higher percentage than the A's, were dropped into the 23rd slot.

The draft this year will span a three-day period, instead of the usual two. It will open with the regular phase — which is primarily for first time draftees and will consume most of the first day. Instead of continuing on the second day this year it was decided to give over the second day to the much shorter secondary phase of the draft, in which players previously drafted but unsigned become available. The regular phase will be completed on the third day.

Ex-champion dies

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ezzard Charles, never a quitter in 122 professional fights in which he became the world heavyweight champion, lost Wednesday to an opponent which never quit — amyotrophic lateral sclerosis.

Charles, 53, died after nearly 10 years of confinement to a wheelchair because of the disease — the same affliction that took the life of baseball's "Father Star," New York Yankee Lou Gehrig.

"Charles, a Georgia native who grew up in Cincinnati, accounting for his nom de plume, the "Cincinnati Cobra," won the heavyweight championship from Jersey Joe Walcott in June, 1951, and lost it again to Walcott — in July, 1951.

He returned to the ring in 1954 after losing twice to Rocky Marciano, once on a 15 round decision and finally in an eighth round knockout. Charles also became a Hall of Famer, in boxing.

Stricken with the disease in 1966, he lived at home with his wife and three children, rolling the wheelchair to his nearby office "most of the time," working with young men and women on Mayor Daley's Youth Foundation. On March 4, 1974, he was hospitalized in the veteran's rehabilitation center where he died.

Charles was "very cheerful" despite his hospitalization, an attendant said.

"He was paralyzed but he joined therapy daily. He worked in activities, liked to watch television. He was a very fine person, but he finally gave out."

Accent on rule changes seen in ski federation convention

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Delegates to the biennial meeting of the International Ski Federation's Alpine Division will open their 30th Congress Thursday with the accent on rule-changing.

About 90 official delegates from 35 FIS member countries will vote on a huge number of rule changes for safety in alpine racing and ski flying as the alpine races.

will be necessary. Applications have been received from Jackson Hole, Wyo.; Garmisch-Partenkirchen, West Germany; Briancon, France; and Kranjska Gora, Yugoslavia.

FIS President Marc Hodler said that safety in alpine racing — receives a high priority among the many suggested rule changes. He said the group would probably prohibit the use of certain new fabrics in these races because of the safety factor, and would also give more authority to its own delegates in safety matters.

Smith sets indoor pole vault record

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steve Smith set a world indoor best of 18 feet 5 inches in the pole vault Wednesday night to highlight an International Track Association meet.

The 25-year-old Smith, from the University of Southern California, broke his own record of 18-4 on his first attempt at the height.

The established world outdoor record of 18-5 1/2 is held by Bob Seagren, although Dave Roberts has a pending mark of 18-7 1/2 set earlier this year.

Smith earlier in the evening cleared heights of 17 feet, 17-8 and 18-1 before asking that the bar be lifted to 18-5.

Smith, who set a world mark for the eighth time, was rewarded with the largest single night purse in pro track history. He earned $2,000 for winning the event and another $2,000 for setting the world best.

Aside from Steve Smith, the big money winner was John Smith, a 23-year-old graduate

Anarchy seen in NFL freedom issues

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — The elimination of the so-called "freedom issues," including the Rozelle rule, would change the nature of the National Football League, the chief professional spokesman for the NFL said Wednesday.

Theodore Kheel, testifying in the Rozelle rule trial in U.S. District Court, said the NFL's position is: "There just have to be some rules and not the anarchy of the market place."

Kheel, testifying as the trial resumed after a 1 1/2 week recess, related that last year's negotiations between the NFL and the NFL Players Association began March 16 with Ed Garvey, NFLPA executive director, presenting a list of demands, including abolition of the Rozelle rule.

The two groups met again March 26 and NFL representatives asked for a clarification of the Players Association's demands. Kheel said Garvey explained that the players were proposing to eliminate all rules concerning the selection, retention and transfer of players and were seeking the same relief being sought in the Mackey case before this court.

Former Baltimore light end John Mackey and 14 other players, some retired, are trying to overturn the Rozelle rule, which they contend restricts a player's mobility to move to another team. Plaintiffs are NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, the league and its teams.

Under the provision, Rozelle is empowered to set compensation before an athlete who plays out his option with a club can sign with another team.

Kheel said he expressed "two major points" for the NFL in response to the NFLPA's demands at the next negotiations meeting April 4.

of UCLA. The world record holder at 440 yards earned $2,000 for winning his specialty in 47.5 seconds, a Madison Square Garden record. The old mark of 48.2 was held by Lee Evans.

Until Smith's record performance in the pole vault, Kenyan Ben Jipcho had earned the plaudits of the sparse crowd by completing another double with victories in the mile and two miles.

Jipcho, the king of the pro races, withstood a final lap challenge from Dave Wottle to win the mile in 4:32.7 and then he came back about an hour later to outdist Australian Tony Benson and capture the two-mile in 14:40.6.

A voice specialist says that stutterers don't stutter when they whisper. This is the same authority who contends that northern stutterers can get rid of the impediment, if they affect a southern drawl, and that southern stutterers can do likewise, if they affect a New England twang. Interesting, if true.

THE DECLARED income of a physicist in this country is $42,000 a year. The declared income of the average Congressman in this country is $42,000 a year. Why repeat that word "declared"? I don't know, Clyde, just seemed like the thing to do.

TERRIER
Q: "How come you never told me the name of the terrier that listens to 'His Master's Voice' on the trademark of Victor phonographs?"
A: Wasn't it "Mipper"?

IT'S A statistical fact that single women over age 55 earn more money on the average than do single men over the age of 55.

IMAGINE YOU know that "villain" originally meant "farm hand." And "chimney" originally meant "oven." And "silly" originally meant "pleasantly innocent."

WOULD YOU favor seizing Middle East oil by force, if the Arabs impose another petroleum embargo? When pollsters put that query to citizens nationwide, just about one out of every six persons said yes.

MIDDLE-AGE
Maybe you, too, suffer signs of middle-age, if you, too, can do without a lot more of these: 1. In-depth TV interviews with convicted rapists. 2. Town hall debates on whether editors should print obscenities. 3. Radio talk shows about homosexual marriage. What bunk! Will bet you a quarter on the corner I get a letter addressed to Louisa May Boyd.

WHERE'S the world's oldest dog license tag? F. Gordon Smith of Oceanside, Calif., has such a canine permit plate from Holland dated 1799.

ON THE BLACK MARKET in England now is a night-mare drug called "Angel's Death." (Partakers of same are said to imagine themselves to be strunken to the sizes of dogs, then cats, finally insects. A pathologist over there named Dr. Donald Teare has reported to the British Medical Association that the oddball potion has incited some patients to try to crawl under teacups, hide behind alarm clocks, escape through keyholes.

Hailey club sues over license turndown Repeat

HAILEY — The manager of Woodside Racket Club has filed suit against the Idaho Department of Law Enforcement for turning down the club's liquor license request.

James Adams, Woodside manager, contends in the suit that the act establishing one liquor license for every 1500 population is unconstitutional and deprives the plaintiff of equal protection of the laws.

He further alleges section pertaining to liquor licenses does not uniformly apply to all constituents of the same class.

Under a 1959 state law, municipalities with 1500 people are restricted to one liquor license. All licenses in effect before the ruling remain valid.

Hailey now has five licenses in effect. The Department of Law Enforcement, in its denial of the Woodside request, implied the city would have to increase its population to over 7,000 people to become eligible for a liquor license.

The city has an official census of over 4,400 people. The suit contends the state said additional licenses were to include those five already in existence.

The 1959 amendment regulates the business of selling liquor by the drink and does not bear an administrative relationship to a legitimate public purpose, the suit contends.

In addition, the suit contends the original act has been amended many times to allow golf course, restaurants in airports, ski resorts and lake resorts outside the jurisdiction of municipalities to obtain licenses.

The Department of Law Enforcement has the duty to issue licenses for retail liquor by the drink to qualified applicants, which, the club contends it is.

MOSCOW (UPI) — Mikhail Najmildinov, a civil air mechanic from Tashkent, was returning to his hotel in Moscow when he spotted a baby boy fall from a third-floor window. He jumped forward and caught him.

At Minsk airport he caught a child who fell 15 feet from an open window, Tass said.

CLARENCE HEDRICK ... honored

TF aide receives award

TWIN FALLS — Clarence Hedrick, district conservationist for the Twin Falls Soil Conservation Service, will receive the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture Superior Service Award.

In the USDA, 79 people received the award last year, and only seven were from the SCS, according to a spokesman at the SCS office in Boise.

Hedrick will travel to Washington, D.C., Wednesday for the presentation. The award will be given to Hedrick by Earl L. Butz, secretary of agriculture, during the Department's 29th annual honor award ceremony.

Hedrick began his career in 1949 at St. Anthony, was assigned to Rexburg, and came to Twin Falls as district conservationist in August of 1952. He has a B.S. degree in Agronomy from Utah Agricultural College and a life teaching certificate from Southern Idaho College of Education.

Confab held on schools

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's chief school officer held a special education conference today the legislature and the parents are equal partners in educating the gifted and the handicapped.

Dr. Roy Truby welcomed more than 20 legislators from six states to a day-long working conference hosted by the State Department of Education and the Education Commission of the States.

Truby said the landmark legislation making special education mandatory in 1972 is helping Idaho meet the challenges of equal educational opportunities both for the handicapped and the gifted in Idaho.

"The Idaho legislature is meeting the needs of special education and a growing feeling that the program is not (just) a part of the financing but an integral part of our school system," Truby said.

He said parents also play a vital role in the education of all children. He said while schools cannot substitute for parental guidance, they can help parents in the early formative years with the education of their children.

"Parents have proved they can be a powerful constituency in convincing state government on the needs of public education," Truby said.

"The courts may say that we must have equal educational opportunity but it is up to the legislature to see that it is practiced by what it does in funding special education dealing with special education problems."
