

CIA probe report due tonight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford ordered the release tonight of what he called a "fair, frank and balanced" report by the Rockefeller Commission on CIA activities—but it does not cover the subject of assassination.

Ford denied "any possibility of any coverage" in withholding public disclosure of "extremely sensitive" matters on alleged political assassination plots going back 15 to 20 years. He said this and other material would go to Attorney General Edward Levi for possible prosecution.

The President told a news conference Monday he had studied over the weekend a 256-page report submitted by the commission headed by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller after five months of investigation of CIA domestic activities.

"That would be released this evening, he said.

(Special stories, p. 8)

He also received some 100 pages of "classified" and "incomplete" material relating to allegations the agency was engaged in plans for assassination.

This, he said, could not be released to the public now "in the national interest."

He said it would be "obvious to those who read the (public) report that the commission has done an extensive job" of looking into the allegations that the CIA exceeded its authority by conducting domestic operations in violation of its statutes.

"My reading of the report leads me to the conclusion that the panel has been fair, frank and balanced. I will ask the attorney general to study all the materials gathered by the commission of any matter to determine whether action should be undertaken against any individual."

He said the commission did not have time to finish its investigation of assassination allegations by the time its already-extended mandate expired June 8.

"Because the investigation of political assassination allegations is incomplete and because the allegations involve extremely sensitive matters, I have decided it is not in the national interest to make public material relating to these allegations at this time," Ford said.

Orders release

PRESIDENT FORD gestures for emphasis while answering a question at the White House news conference Monday evening at which he said he will make public tonight the Rockefeller Commission's report on CIA domestic spying, but will withhold findings on alleged foreign assassination plots pending Justice Department investigation of possible prosecutions. Church vows full probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Senate panel investigating alleged CIA wrongdoing, said today his committee now has the responsibility to complete the probe started by the Rockefeller Commission.

"The final decision as to how to handle this very sensitive, very sad question clearly will now be left to the Congress," Church said.

"Harry Truman used to have that little motto on his desk 'The buck stops here.' I believe it could be fairly said, in this case, the buck will stop with the Senate committee."

President Ford announced Monday he will release the Rockefeller Commission report tonight, but that he has decided to keep secret for the time being material dealing with alleged Central Intelligence Agency involvement in political assassinations.

"It isn't a pleasant duty, but we will do our best," Church said. "The American people are entitled to know what their government has done, the good and the bad, the right and the wrong."

"Only in this way can we correct the mistakes of the past and make certain that the government upholds our moral principles in the future."

Church, interviewed on the NBC Today Show, insinuated that Ford should have released information on CIA involvement in assassination plots.

"Certainly the Senate committee will make a full disclosure," he said. "I don't see just what form the disclosure will take. The committee itself must pass upon that question."

"I'm confident that a full disclosure will be made in a way that relates the facts but at the same time minimizes the injury 'til of this deed to the country."

Church's vice chairman, Sen. John Tower, R-Tex, said he was pleased with the President's decision.

"The fact that the Rockefeller Commission could not complete its investigation of matters pertaining to political assassinations renders the work of the select committee in this area of enormous significance," Tower said.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said the Ford's proposal appeared to be satisfactory "just so they lay it all out — I mean all of it."

Governors seek penny of gas tax hike: NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The National Governors Conference found a way out of the jam of its own gas tax today and voted to ask Congress to give the states a penny of the three-cent gasoline tax increase proposed by a House energy bill.

GENE KELLY
... new mayor

Kelly Gooding mayor

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News Writer

GOODING — City Councilman Gene Kelly was appointed mayor of Gooding at a special council meeting Monday night, replacing Leo Rice who was recalled May 21.

Robert W. Reed, Gooding councilman in charge of streets and sanitation to fill the post formerly held by the mayor.

In speedy action at the brief meeting, Councilman Duane Clemens moved that Kelly be appointed mayor until the November municipal election. His motion was seconded by Councilman R. M. Shaver.

Kelly then asked the other councilman, James Alstra, if he wanted to nominate anyone else.

"No, I'll second the second," Alstra said.

The city clerk, George Silva, said Kelly had been in the city of office since the death of Rice. The new mayor admitted his resignation as councilman and Reed's appointment was approved by the group. Reed will be sworn into office at the next regular meeting.

The positions of city clerk and three councilmen will be up for election in November, since there have been three appointments to fill vacancies since the last city election.

The posts held by Clemens, who was appointed by Rice, and Alstra's post, and Alstra who replaced Paul Klingler, also will be up for election this fall.

According to city clerk George Silva, both Clemens and Kelly's council terms are expiring.

While Eddie Hobbey is mayor, he will be for four years while Alstra's post will be for two years since there were two years remaining in Klingler's term.

Atty. Hobbey said he would check as to the length of the term for whose term he is mayor in November. There were two years remaining in Rice's term of office.

The new mayor is a native of Shoshone and has lived in Gooding since 1952. His father of four children, Kelly, has been elected to the Council for one two-year and another four-year term and was appointed to fill an unexpired term before that. He is self-employed as an oil distributor.

Read, the son of Mrs. Wanda Reed, Twin Falls, is in the cattle, grain brokerage, and trucking business and is a longtime Gooding resident.

Accord on oil nearing

LIBREVILLE, (UPI) — The oil-producing nations today were reported to have reached an agreement on a "credit" rate of oil prices by more than 30 percent on Oct. 1.

But they still were unclear whether to accept a U.S. compromise and resume their energy talks with the oil-using industrial nations.

The meeting of ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, the was expected to reach formal agreement tonight to stop quoting oil prices in U.S. dollars and use instead the more stable Special Drawing Right, an artificial currency based on 16 currencies including the dollar.

The ministers also said they would appoint a commission to lay the groundwork for a substantial rise — 20 per cent at most — in oil prices when the current OPEC price freeze ends Oct. 1. Even use of the SDRs was expected to raise oil prices in the United States by one and a half cents a gallon.

The agreement that must be reached to the meeting likely will be a U.S. compromise on oil price reductions. Alfred E. Sloan, Jr., Secretary of State, said the agreement did not mean that the U.S. would accept a "big chance" that the price could be resumed. But Secretary of State, Abdul Karim, said that "Kissinger is interested in any sort of deal."

Other ministers, if not as blunt as Karim, were nearly as skeptical.

Gusty winds, rain but no frost harm

KIMBERLY — Sudden cooling following a wind and rain storm late Monday apparently produced no damaging frost.

Maurice Faubion, meteorologist at the National Weather Service, said most Magic Valley stations reported lows of 36 to 38 degrees. Fairfield had the only sub-freezing temperatures with a low of 29.

Gusty winds late in Twin Falls broke a number of tree limbs and caused power outages in the east part of Twin Falls and Kimberly.

Faubion said generally people in the Magic Valley area were reporting light scattered frost on car tops and garage roofs, but no killing frost. He said there could be some damage to tender vegetation such as tomatoes, but it has not been reported to his office.

Clerence Eldridge, 1313 Seventh Ave. E., told police a tree blew over on his Pacific automobile. The incident occurred about 10 p.m.

Another large tree, at the intersection of Shoshone Street and Seventh Avenue North, was broken by the wind and fell partially into the street.

Airport Manager Harry Merriell said wind up to 40 mph and several downed pine trees in beds at the airport were broken and will have to be replanted.

James J. Johnson, maintenance superintendent for Idaho Power Co., said lightning struck a power pole near Kimberly and burned the upper portion, causing a power outage in Kimberly. Residents there said they were without power for about 45 minutes.

Quest for peace spurs meetings

By United Press International
Beirut — Prime Minister Zakiyah Rabin flew to Washington today armed with cabinet authorization to match the Egyptian concession for concession in search for an interim peace settlement in the Sinai Desert.

Diplomatic sources in Washington said Rabin would seek guarantees of renewed U.S. arms deliveries to underwrite any new interim Middle East agreement.

While Rabin pledged to "do my best" to reach a settlement in talks with President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, Syria and Jordan moved to strengthen their military ties in the struggle between the two Arab powers.

An Assad envoy, Hafez Majid, commander of the Jordanian army said the Jordanian army said the "strong partnership" between Syria and Jordan were making all preparations toward the war effort and war was inevitable. It failed to withdraw from Arab territory.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy reportedly flew to London for three days of talks with the British group on Middle East peace prospects, trade and a possible $1 billion arms deal involving fighter planes, helicopters, missile, radar and infantry weapons.

TF rural fire agency quits

By BILL LARSEN

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls rural fire department has stopped making out-fires because it can't find volunteers.

The department has been operating since 1968 and has been successful in Twin Falls City now is the PUC and Kimberly fire departments, according to William Taylor.

"There is a shortage of volunteers in the rural fire department," Taylor said. "The fire department is not getting the support it needs from the community."

to adequately run a fire truck. Up to recently, he said, he had three men helping. But two moved away and one is busy helping a family. This summer he has only one man helping.

"I'm talking with people who live here and nearby in Liberton, in volunteering for the work," Taylor said. He said the volunteers come from the labor camp, but with most of the men working during the day it is difficult to find volunteers.

Taylor says the extra 10 to 15 minutes delay from having to summon PUC or Kimberly fire trucks makes "any time" difference in fighting fires.

A PUC spokesman said that PUC trucks are not available to help the rural fire department.

"The county really doesn't have the right kind of fire protection," he added. He said most of the rural fire departments are not getting the support they need from the community.

Several times, Taylor said, he has been available, but the fire department has not been able to get the support it needs from the community.

Friction into open

Washington Star
 WASHINGTON After months of exceptionally good relations, friction between the White House and Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller has broken into the open.

The ill will developed as a result of Rockefeller commission's investigation of Central Intelligence Agency, or the report on the illegal activity by the CIA.

White House aides who spoke admiringly of Rockefeller in the past have angrily denounced him and his staff for bungling the release of the report and causing political embarrassment for the President.

One senior adviser to Ford used an explosive Monday to describe the anger of top White House officials at Rockefeller for, in their view, turning the release of the report into a public relations disaster that damaged the President's credibility.

Moreover, there is a feeling among the inner circle of White House advisers that Rockefeller attempted to move too boldly on his own, without consulting the President, in making plans for the release of the report.

Ford himself was a bit upset at Rockefeller, an aide said, but not to the point of making a "display" of his displeasure. "The (White House) staff was more upset than the President," the aide said.

The President simply "had anticipated that if (the release of the report) would go the way it was supposed to go," and it did not; this aide added.

For their part, Rockefeller aides are miffed because they feel the White House knew all along what was going on with the report and did nothing to change plans for its release until the last moment.

And they are worried that Ford's delay of the release until Tuesday, after Rockefeller had indicated it would be released last Friday, will be seen as a slap at the vice president, one they suspect may have been intended but which they believe was not warranted.

Ford orders CIA report release tonight

He said the Rockefeller data and other material from White House files would go also to the Senate and House select committees investigating intelligence operations.

A reporter asked if the President wasn't opening himself to charges of a coverup.

"There is not going to be any possibility of any coverup," Ford answered, "because we are giving them the material that the Rockefeller Commission developed in their hearings, plus any other material that is available in the executive branch."

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, said his panel would have to pick up where the

"It isn't pleasant duty, but we will do our best," he told UPI. "The American people are entitled to know what their government has done, the good and the bad, the right and the wrong."

Ford said that after release of the official report there probably would be "certain recommendations for some legislative and some administrative action" against the CIA, but did not go into detail.

Deputy Presidential Counsel Roderick Hills said the commission made "over 30 specific recommendations" for "structural changes in the CIA" and other branches of the federal intelligence community.

Ford said there was no misunderstanding between him and Rockefeller on the release of the Commission's report — "The vice president and I understand each other perfectly."

He would not pass judgment on what previous presidents may have done in connection with intelligence activities. "We shouldn't be Monday-morning quarterbacks," he said.

He made clear his administration would not tolerate any political killings.

"I am totally opposed to political assassinations," Ford said. "This administration has not and will not use such means as instruments of national policy."

Azores unrest puts 28 in jail

LISBON (UPI) — Diplomatic sources said today police have arrested 28 Portuguese, including an employee at the U.S. consulate in the Azores, in connection with an antigovernment demonstration on the sensitive Atlantic islands where the United States has a vital air base.

They said police arrested Antonio Santos, the honorary French consul, and Vitor Cruz, an employee at the U.S. consulate, in Ponta Delgada, and detained them with the other Portuguese in a military barracks on Terceira Island.

The sources said the arrests came after demonstrators during the weekend forced the resignation of the left-wing civilian governor of the islands.

The demonstrators took over the local radio station, broadcast appeals for insurrection and blocked the runways of the airport with stalled cars, and surrounded the house of Gov. Borges-Coulinho. Troops rescued him and he flew to Portugal.

He blamed the demonstration on two separatist groups who would like to sever the Azores from Portugal and link the islands instead to the United States.

"Because of the emigration from the Azores to the United States and the money they send home, it is natural that they (the separatists) are proceeding on the idea of a link between the Azores and the United States," he told a news conference.

The governor said the U.S. Air Base, which employs several thousand Azoreans at Lajes, complicates the problem.

The United States also used the Azores as a stop for refueling cargo planes carrying arms to Israel during the Middle East war of 1973.

Reports reaching Lisbon from the Azores said life on the islands had returned to normal.

Diplomats said the tension died down after the military threatened to take vigorous action against any rebellion.

Abort law voided

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Rhode Island's three-week-old abortion law was declared unconstitutional today by a federal judge.

Chief Judge Raymond J. Pettine of U.S. District Court ruled on a suit brought by 19 staff doctors at Women and Infants Hospital and two women seeking abortions.

One reason he gave for striking down the new law, signed by Gov. Philip W. Neal on May 21, was that it did not consider the mental health of the mother.

Debate TV start near

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said today the first television coverage of Senate deliberation could begin Wednesday if Republicans agree to limit the debate over New Hampshire's disputed Senate election.

Mansfield told reporters the Democrats want televised coverage and the only obstacle is the Republicans' unwillingness thus far to agree to a time limitation for debate.

The Senate voted Monday to authorize the coverage — the first ever of actual Senate debate. The Republicans say debate should be unlimited so the nation can see and hear how the Democrat-controlled Senate handles the dispute.

Ruling spares Idaho

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A U.S. Supreme Court ruling that an unemployed parent has the right to receive either unemployment compensation or welfare should not affect Idaho, according to a U.S. Health, Education and Welfare Department official.

Bob Burkhardt, state representative for assistance payments with HEW, said Monday that the court decision only affects states with welfare programs for families with unemployed fathers. Twenty five states have such a program, but Idaho is not one of them, he said.

The supreme court ruled, Burkhardt said, that states with such programs could not force unemployed fathers to use-up their unemployment compensation before accepting the usually higher welfare payments.

But this ruling would not apply to Idaho where there is no provision for welfare as long as both parents are with the family and physically able to work, he said.

Theo Mardock, welfare eligibility officer for the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, said only families with just one able parent around are eligible for welfare in Idaho.

He said the state is now paying up to 95 per cent of "need" which is set at $329 a month for a family of four.

According to Idaho Department of Employment figures, the average unemployment compensation paid in Idaho is $65.24 a week or nearly $241 a month.

Maurice Faublon reads pyroheliometer

Kimberly weather office now gauging sun power

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The National Weather Service office near Kimberly is gauging sun power.

Aided by a "pyroheliometer," the office measures the amount of solar energy striking the earth's surface for use by private firms and public agencies.

The device will soon become part of a nationwide network that will contribute to the search for new energy sources.

According to Maurice Faublon, an agricultural advisory meteorologist at the Kimberly office, the pyroheliometer was installed about 10 years ago "as a research tool for long-range forecasts."

That program was abandoned about two years ago, but the equipment was maintained for local use.

Now, with solar energy taking on new importance as an alternative to oil and natural gas, the weather service plans to revive the monitoring of sun power for a national study.

Until recently, the measurements at the Kimberly office were used only by private agricultural consultants to help determine the amount of water needed for irrigation, Faublon said.

Solar energy readings also were taken at the U.S. Bureau of Entomology laboratory in Twin Falls until 1973.

Readings at that location over a 20-year period show that the annual average of solar energy per day in Twin Falls is 378 Langley's (a Langley unit is one gram calorie per square centimeter).

The low monthly average is 131 Langley's per day in December and the high is 622 Langley's per day in July.

This compares to the recorded national high annual average of 528 Langley's at China Lake, Calif., and the national low at 272 Langley's at Seattle, Wash. The high monthly average at China Lake is 819 in June and the low is 300 in December.

The monthly high at Seattle is 497 Langley's in July and the low is 99 in December.

Liability proof needed for license

TWIN FALLS — Starting July 1, Idaho drivers will have to prove they have car liability insurance in order to get their vehicle registered, under the provisions of a new law.

Required liability insurance has "always been the law but there's never been any police action" to enforce it, Twin Falls County Assessor Ron Taylor said today.

Now, to prove that liability insurance is obtained, drivers must present a "certificate of liability insurance" to the county assessor when they have their cars registered.

Vehicles exempted from such registration requirements are: trailers, cabs, buses, hearses, ambulances, wreckers, motorcycles, vehicles over 8,000 pounds GWT, snowmobiles, and boats.

Taylor said all insurance companies will be required to mail the registration certificates to policy holders. But he said the July 1 deadline has been extended 120 days to Oct. 1 for these companies to send out the certificates.

Until then Taylor said, the assessors office will be "limited" to accepting alternative proof of insurance. "We will take a policy number or a receipt," he said, adding that this evidence must be "signed by somebody from the insurance company."

He said only proof of 90-day policy is required.

For the past three months Taylor said, assessors' offices here has successfully been mailing out registration forms. But now this program may not be possible, he said.

Presently a child can just be charged with being under the purview of the state Youth Rehabilitation Act rather than have the charge spelled out.

Mitchell said that presently a child is held accountable for offenses such as smoking, drinking, which he would not have to answer for if he were an adult. "Status offenses" are being closely scrutinized by the nation's criminal justice systems.

Present law makes no distinction between the "minor" or the robber resulting in some 40 per cent of the children at St. Anthony being there for offenses that if committed by an adult would not even be considered antisocial behavior, said Mitchell.

"It is going to have a ridiculous effect on law enforcement and also the Health and Welfare has almost taken over completely to where we cannot have any control over the juvenile whatsoever," he said.

Proposed changes will be presented for consideration by the next legislature.

The revisions include: — A juvenile must be given the warning of his rights when arrested and told he has the right to remain silent.

— Parents have the right to counsel at all stages of the proceedings.

— Charges against the child must be proved by evidence beyond a reasonable doubt.

Gem youth law revision plan opposed

TWIN FALLS (UPI) — Proposed revisions for the Idaho youth laws have drawn attacks from law enforcement and judiciary representatives as being "utopian" and impossible to implement.

The laws were last revised in 1963. Not all officials are viewing the proposals with favor because the proposed act would discourage detention of juvenile offenders.

"Under the new law, we would not be able to do anything about this child."

"The act was drafted by Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Eviston, Gooding County Sheriff Earl Brown views the act as a power play by Health and Welfare.

"The act instead provides for incarceration in shelter homes, some of which do not exist in counties throughout the state and in fact in Twin Falls County.

"In Twin Falls county we would not have facilities to place the child without control of his parents and, nevertheless, under the new act he would not be able to be placed in jail.

Jury convicts SLA 'soldiers'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Joseph Remiro and Russell Little, the only two "soldiers" of the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army ever to stand trial, were convicted Monday night of the cyanide-bullet murder of Oakland Schools Superintendent Marcus Foster.

Remiro, 28, a swarthy veteran of the Vietnam war, and Little, 26, a boyish-faced college drop-out, also were convicted of the attempted murder of Foster's assistant, Robert W. Blackburn. Foster was shot to death in an assassination-style ambush the night of Nov. 6, 1972.

Cambodia urges US aid

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (UPI) — The former President of Cambodia urged the United States Monday to take in 10,000 of his countrymen stuck in refugee camps in Thailand.

"The Cambodians are 'very, undernourished, badly treated and unhappy' in the Thai camps, said Saurkam Khoy.

Court rules on management status

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court has ruled that the top management of supermarket chains can be personally fined and sent to jail if their stores sell unsanitary food.

It was the first time that the Supreme Court had reviewed a conviction of a supermarket official under the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act which provides for a sentence of up to three years in jail and a $10,000 fine for maintaining unsanitary conditions in the storage and sale of food.

Governors select Ray

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Gov. Robert Ray of Iowa was selected chairman of the National Governors Conference Monday night.

He replaces Gov. Calvin Rampton of Utah.

Ray was chosen for the position by Republican governors, whose turn it is to supply a national chairman for the organization.

NY tries to head off bankruptcy

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The state legislature, trying to head off imminent bankruptcy for New York City, today approved creation of a state agency with a $3 billion borrowing capability to back up the city's debts.

The measure had been rushed to the state capitol from New York City, where it was approved by wary councilmen faced with raising $792 million to avoid the city's default on debts coming due Wednesday.

Major banks cut prime interest rates

By United Press International

Major banks across the country have cut their prime interest rates from 7 1/2 per cent to 7 per cent. The lower rates reflect the relaxed monetary policy of the Federal Reserve.

The trend began after the nation's second largest bank, First National City Bank of New York, lowered its prime rate from 7 per cent to 6 1/2.

Ford delays contributions

NEW ORLEANS — President Ford has ordered that no contributions to the 1976 national Republican campaign be accepted until he announces formally that he will be a candidate for a full term in office.

Accordingly, a high White House political source said, "early" contributions are being returned by both state Republican officials and the executive mansion itself. Some of the contributions are said to be "sizeable," while others range down to $5 or $10.

Demos work on compromise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats on a House committee investigating the CIA started work to carry out a compromise which has blunted their demand that Rep. Lucien Nedzi, D-Mich., resign as chairman of the panel.

The compromise was arranged late Monday by House leaders who suggested creation of a subcommittee to handle the CIA portion of the select panel's investigation of all U.S. intelligence agencies.

Nedzi was expected to start consulting with his critics on the select panel — five of the seven Democrats — on the size of the subcommittee, its membership and chairman.

US offers help but won't fight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford says the United States will provide freedom-loving nations with arms and economic aid but cannot "fight their battles for them" as it did in Vietnam.

"Those countries who believe in freedom as we do must carry the burden," he told a news conference Monday night. "We can help them, not with United States military personnel but with arms and economic aid so that they can protect their own national interest and protect the freedom of their citizens."

Ford made the statement when asked what lessons he had learned from the Vietnam War.

His remarks also indicated some skepticism about the wisdom of Vietnam-style limitations on warfare in a future conflict. Recalling the policy differences between civilian and military leaders over war in Vietnam, Ford said: "I think we can learn something from these differences and if we ever become engaged in any military operation in the future—and I hope we don't—I trust we have learned something about how we should handle such an operation."

He declined to discuss any specific possible future cases.

On other areas of the world Ford said:

—The 38,000 American troops stationed in South Korea are important to keeping the peace there.

—He will get Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's assessment of the Middle East situation in Washington talks Wednesday and Thursday. They will discuss options including step-by-step diplomacy or the reconvening of the Geneva Conference. After the Rabin meeting, Ford said "I will be in a better position to know how our government should proceed in trying to achieve a broader peace, a more permanent peace, with fairness and equity in the Middle East."

—Compromises are being made which bring the possibility of a European security conference in Helsinki "closer and closer."

—He is "optimistic" the United States and the Soviet Union will agree on a strategic arms limitation treaty. If negotiations go well Communist Party leader Leonid Brezhnev will travel to Washington this fall for a summit meeting with Ford.

Ford optimistic about US recovery

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford is optimistic about economic recovery.

In answer to a question on the subject at his news conference Monday night, Ford said there is "an accumulation of encouraging signs" indicating that the recession is ending and that things will be even better next year.

He refused, however, to make any specific predictions.

"I'm optimistic that the economy has bottomed out," Ford said. "We've had more good news than bad news."

He said despite a 9.2 per cent unemployment rate in May, total employment had increased by 450,000 persons during the past two months.

Ford said also that the rate of inflation has been cut in half from its record double-digit highs in 1974.

The President listed a number of optimistic economic signs, including the 4.2 per cent rise in the latest leading economic indicators, increases in new manufacturing orders and increased housing starts.

"I think we've got an accumulation of encouraging signs," he said.

MD slowdown ends

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (UPI) — The group which has led doctors in a job action to protest the state's new malpractice laws voted Monday to suspend the slowdown while awaiting a study by a panel appointed by Governor Hugh Carey to look into the controversy.

Dr. Burton White, a member of the Crisis Committee on Malpractice Insurance and president-elect of the Nassau County Medical Society, said "since it appeared the governor wasn't going to yield any more," the committee decided "it was in the best interests of everybody" to seek an end to the slowdown "at this time."

The committee made its decision in a private meeting Monday night.

Judgment mistake conceded

APPEARING before a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee Monday, Richard W. Miller, chairman of the Northrup Corporation executive committee, acknowledged the firm made $454,000 in indirect payments to bribe two Saudi Arabian generals and an Iranian tax assessor. He conceded it was a "serious error of judgment" (UPI)

GOP conservatives eye split

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dissident conservative Republicans are about to decide whether to take a major political step toward establishing a "standby" third party apparatus for 1976.

The decision to be made by a group of congressmen and political strategists, could have significant ramifications for both parties if the proposed electoral machinery were activated in behalf of a yet unchosen presidential contender.

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., called a meeting today of the Committee on Conservative Alternatives, which he chairs, to discuss adoption of a contingency plan that would enable an independent conservative to be on next year's presidential ballot in all 50 states.

Helms' committee was formed last year at a conservative political action conference in Washington and has been researching state ballot laws as the first phase of its project. The panel considered today whether to move to "step two"—adoption of a formal "contingency action plan," a sort of actually forming a third party.

Members of the panel include Gov. Meldrim Thomson of New Hampshire, M. Stanton Evans, chairman of the American Conservative Union, and Reps. Robert Bauman, R-Mo., John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, Phillip Crane, R-Ill., and Steven Symms, R-Idaho.

Governors split on energy issue

NEW ORLEANS, La. (UPI) — State governors, like the television comedian, bemoan the fact they "don't get no respect" as national leaders. The proceedings at their 67th national conference may have demonstrated why.

In their first full-session Monday, the governors found themselves even unable to consider, let alone vote on, a resolution urging Congress to reject proposals for conserving energy by forcing up gasoline and oil prices.

The conference, meeting through Wednesday in a hotel near the historic French Quarter, still could produce an energy resolution. But the impact of a timely statement from a powerful group speaking with one voice is not likely to be back of it.

The purpose of Monday's effort was to adopt a policy statement before the House voted on the energy bill, but the small band of Republican governors used the conference's own rules to block all action.

Democratic Calvin Rampton of Utah, conference chairman, tried to call up a hastily drafted energy resolution on the assumption two-thirds of the governors could suspend the rules, approve the statement and send it to Washington.

After some confusion, it turned out he would have to have a three-fourths vote, and when most of the GOP governors united in opposition the motion went down 27 to 11.

Arguing in opposition to discussion of the resolution, Gov. Christopher Bond of Missouri, chairman of the GOP governors association, referred to the long delay on Capitol Hill in handling energy legislation. He said "I don't believe, based on the past record, that Congress is going to do all that much in the next 36 hours."

After it was over, Rampton observed, "I think this makes us look a little bit like Congress."

The nation's lone independent governor, James Longley of Maine, came out of the session and said, "The only people who accomplished anything in there in the last hour were the waiters."

The thrust of the proposal was to oppose any steps in reducing oil consumption with higher prices—taxes or tariff—until a strong conservation program was put in effect.

But it also said that if gasoline taxes were increased, as proposed in the Democratic bill before the House, the states should get half of the new revenue to help them continue their highway-building programs.

WISE USE IS COMMON SENSE

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune & N.Y. Times Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Do you have a paragraph or a phrase that would make me think twice when I am tempted to take a drink?

I am not a heavy drinker. In fact, I hardly ever drink at all, but when I do, it hits me hard.

I made a fool of myself again last night, and I am sick of it. I've done that only five times in my life, and it only happens when I am out with friends. The next day when I wake up, I have to depend on other people to tell me what I did.

If I had just one meaningful phrase to keep me from weakening and having a drink with my friends, I would carry it with me. A Bible is too big to carry around. I am 20. Thank you.

FOOLISH GIRL

DEAR GIRL: When you are faced with temptation, tell your friends that hard liquor is "poison" to you and that you cannot drink it. Then silently pray: "Oh, Lord, give me the strength I need right now," and quickly pour yourself a non-alcoholic beverage. After one sip, pray again: "Thank you, Lord, I made it!" Try it, and let me know the results. I care.

Hard liquor 'poison'

DEAR ABBY: A letter in your column has caused me to drop my campaign to get the letter "Q" removed from the dictionary and transferred to "K," where it belongs. I quickly discovered that I might be dead before anyone would even be interested.

Now I would like to start a campaign to get all people to knit using the phrase "made love" when they mean "had sex."

I am irritated beyond words when I read that "a couple met at a party, went to a motel and made love." It's an insult to the act of love-making! What they did was have sex. Love had nothing to do with it.

Before I risk wasting my time on this campaign, please tell me if you think I have a point.

VAL (MASCULINE)

DEAR VAL: You have a point, but whether it's worthy of a campaign raises another question. I plead not guilty. When I mean "They had sex," I don't say, "They made love."

DEAR ABBY: The other night I babysat for a neighbor. She has three kids. The oldest is in the 6th grade (I am 16). I walked into the kitchen and, my gosh, you've never seen a bigger mess in all your life! When the woman left, she said, "Oh—be sure to clean up—the kitchen—I just hate coming home to a messy kitchen!"

At first I was stunned. Then I thought for sure she would pay me extra if I did the kitchen.

When she came home, she gave me a dollar LESS than she had agreed to, even with my cleaning up her kitchen. I really was angry, but I didn't say anything to her because I am very shy. Besides, she is a friend of my mother's.

I know she'll ask me to babysit again, and I don't want to, but I don't have the nerve to tell her how I feel and why. Can you help me?

ANGRY AND PUZZLED

DEAR A AND P: Not if you refuse to help yourself. Tell her in a respectful tone that you don't want to sit for her again because she shorted you a dollar last time. And also prepared to pay a little extra.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 63700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Simmons' homer carries Cards past the Atlanta Braves 5-4

ATLANTA (UPI) — Ted Simmons' two-run homer was the big blow of a 16-hit attack which carried the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-4 victory over the Atlanta Braves Monday night.

The Cardinals raked "Blue Moon" Odom for nine hits and four runs in a four inning stint as Odom, just acquired by Atlanta from Cleveland, made his first start in the National League.

Lou Brock and Reggie Smith each had three hits for St. Louis while Darrell Evans had three hits and Clarence Gaston had three runs with a sacrifice fly and two-run homer for Atlanta. Brock singled in the first of Marty Perez' glove, stole second, went to third on an infield out and scored when Odom balked. In the Braves' first, Perez walked, went to third on Evans' single and scored on Gaston's sacrifice fly.

The Braves went ahead 2-1 in the second when Vic Correll and Larvell Blanks singled. Garr drove in Correll with a double down the rightfield line.

Buhl may get new doctor

BUHL — Buhl may have a new doctor within the next 60 days, but nothing is definite yet, the chamber of commerce was told Monday.

Bob Bailey, who heads a committee working to obtain additional medical personnel for the area, said the only doctor in the community, Vern Anderson, is now in Indiana on a trip but is expected back within a few weeks.

Several doctors who have expressed interest in coming to Buhl to look the situation over are planning to visit until Dr. Anderson returns, Bailey said.

"The best possibility we have now is for a partnership with Dr. Anderson," Bailey said, "where his office facilities are already available."

Buhl has had only one doctor since June 1 when Dr. C. W. Cullings closed his Clear Lakes Clinic.

Both Dr. Cullings, and Dr. Anderson, who has practiced nearly 40 years in Buhl, have expressed interest in getting younger men to assist them. With the closure of Dr. Cullings' clinic the Buhl Medical Resource Planning Committee has intensified its search for another doctor.

A chamber member asked if the committee had explored the possibility of obtaining a Vietnamese refugee doctor. Bailey said this suggestion had been received before, but that if considerable re-training would be needed, such as the doctor studying to become bilingual, there would be another waiting period, possibly a year.

"I'm optimistic we may have somebody who can begin working immediately within the next 60 days," Bailey said.

Bias 'may cut' Cassia funding

By DAVID BOCKMAN
Times-News writer

BURLEY — The Cassia School Board was told Monday night that it could lose its federal funds if it fails to meet the terms of the U.S. Civil Rights Act.

Dr. Richard Nelson, affirmative action officer for the Idaho Department of Education, told the board the alternatives facing it were: first, don't comply with the law; second, comply in bad faith; or third, comply in good faith.

Nelson told the board the Idaho Department of Education is not now acting as an enforcement agency but is available to help the board in complying with the Civil Rights Act.

In December the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) charged the school system with being in violation of the Civil Rights Act by:

- Failing to provide bicultural, bilingual education for the large chicanos population in the school.
- Discriminating chicanos students more frequently and with more severity than anglo students.

- Assigning a disproportionate number of chicanos students to special education courses, especially language disability classes, although the students' only problem had been that they were bilingual.
- Maintaining an all-anglo staff, although ten percent of the students are chicanos.
- Discrimination in schools has been prohibited by law for many years, but not until March 1975 did a U.S. District Court rule that HEW's office of civil rights must begin enforcing the Civil Rights Act, Nelson told the board Monday.

The court has given HEW seven months to enforce the law.

So, if the Cassia School Board decides not to comply with the Civil Rights Act, HEW might act to cut off federal funds in Cassia County schools. The cut-off could mean a loss of at least $24,000.

To make up the difference locally an additional 11.5 mill levy would be required.

Nelson said a Michigan school district has elected not to comply with the Civil Rights Act and funds have been cut off.

Federal courts reasoned, he said, that all people, including minorities, pay federal taxes and therefore it is unreasonable to use federal monies to discriminate.

Even if the Cassia board declined to use federal monies, the board and the individual member would be open to court action for failure to comply with the Civil Rights Act, Nelson said.

The board could decide to "play a game" and act to comply with the law in bad faith, Nelson said. But he predicted HEW would detect bad faith compliance and would still enforce the law. If HEW doesn't, the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund (MALDEF), which has threatened to sue the school board, might then initiate action, he said.

The board's best alternative is to act in good faith and comply with the law, Nelson said.

He suggested the board could comply by conducting an educational needs assessment of the chicanos school population; establishing written guidelines for disciplining students; publishing a handbook of student rights and responsibilities; hiring a director of special education programs; and developing an affirmative action plan that commits the board to an extra effort in recruiting bilingual teachers.

Good faith compliance will not only avoid problems with HEW but "you'll be better school district," Nelson to the board.

Gem injury rate high

TWIN FALLS — John H. Stender, assistant secretary of labor, told a union convention in Twin Falls today that Idaho's accident and illness rate for workers is higher than the national average.

Stender, who heads the Occupational Safety and Health Agency (OSHA), said one Idaho worker in seven is injured or becomes ill from a work-related cause.

In contrast, the national rate is one worker in nine.

"Sure, even at seven-to-one, the odds are that you won't get hurt this year. But, most Americans work 30 to 40 more years, and, over that period of time, the odds catch up," he said.

Stender spoke at the Idaho State AFL-CIO convention, the first such gathering to be held in Twin Falls.

Stender said the results of the first four years of effort under OSHA were beginning to show a reduction in health and safety losses.

He said his department has focused on five industries — longshoring, roofing and sheet metal, meat and meat production, wood production and manufacture of transportation equipment.

In those industries injury and illness rates had fallen, he said.

Stender suggested that the slogan "drive defensively" should be used in the workplace as "work defensively." Stender said the challenge facing OSHA now was the collection of data on industrial injuries and illnesses to identify on a regional basis the most hazardous industries and work locations and expanded training in work safety.

He also called for continued expansion of the "advisory inspection" service where OSHA trained consultants conduct OSHA-type inspections at the invitation of employers but without penalties.

Stender said these inspections allow for the discovery of hazards and their elimination before an official OSHA inspection takes place.

Gooding clears NG school plan

GOODING — Gooding school trustees Monday night approved an eighth semester program for seniors with the Idaho National Guard.

Supt. James Muscat said seniors can enlist in the guard and receive some course credit toward graduation.

He said Gooding is one of the last schools in the area to participate in the program which has been approved by the Idaho Board of Education.

The board increased travel expenses from 13 to 15 cents per mile for school personnel.

Eugene Gibbons, elementary principal, presented details of the summer school program for the disadvantaged provided through Title I funds. Trustees approved the continuation of the program which also provides some extra help during the school term for the disadvantaged.

Contracts were approved for Lisa Hofffield, Gooding, to teach third grade; Linda Payne, Shoshone, business math and accounting; Kathleen Jose, Gooding, and Tamara Clark, Eden, both kindergarten, and Robert Heaphy, Butte, Mont., for high school science.

Muscat said one position — for elementary physical education — still needs to be filled for the Gooding district.

The summer recreation program was discussed with Gary Garland, who heads the city-sponsored program. School facilities are used for the activities.

The board authorized purchase of several desks, filing cabinets and projector screens.

Rural fire unit stops operation

"If we can't get the thing going there we might consider moving it," Bill Atkins, Buhl, head of the Twin Falls County Mutual Fire Insurance Agency, said today.

He said he has "one spot in mind" for a new location for the station, but said he was not happy with the idea since it would leave many homes relatively unprotected. Atkins would not say where the possible location is.

Taylor said that talks with several insurance people lead him to believe that insurance costs would go down if a county fire district were formed to take the place of the private fire department.

But Atkins doubted this would be the case since there are now five trucks covering the county, probably more trucks than if a district were formed.

According to Glenn Nelson at Farmers Insurance Group, however, the rural area around Twin Falls is now considered "unprotected" for fire insurance purposes. He said fire and extended coverage rates for a $20,000 house are now $7.60 but would be $11.10 in the district had a fire department.

Meri Leonard, Twin Falls County Commission chairman, said a number of inquiries have been made about forming fire districts but that there has been "no serious interest shown at this point."

Leonard said 25 property owners with at least 1,000 acres of land worth $100,000 in assessed value could petition the county to have a fire district formed. A hearing and elections then would be necessary. Several districts can be formed in one county, Leonard said.

Delegates plan organization push

By DIANE ALTERS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Construction union delegates today resolved to press an effort to organize Idaho's booming housing industry.

Some 34 delegates, meeting in an unusual mini-convention held for the first time this morning before the day's session of the state AFL-CIO convention, heard John Walters of the Idaho Building and Trades Council, Pocatello, tell them that Idaho's housing construction industry has grown from $62 million in 1972 to $89 million in 1974. Walters said that construction workers on the new homes were "largely unorganized" and that "many homes were 'poorly built' as a result."

"We're talking about a power plant as far as work is concerned," business agent Robert Moore of the Southwest Idaho Building Construction Trades Council, Boise, said. He said that he expected $100 million worth of housing construction to be done in Idaho in 1975, with half of it outside Ada County.

The Sybar Building Project for the estimated $500 million Idaho Power Co. Pioneer Plant represented the same yearly revenue, he said as he urged support of Walters' resolution to organize the Idaho housing industry.

Walters said later that union workers in past years have kept to big projects, leaving the scattered housing construction to "unskilled labor." Most of the work boom for his council is in the Twin Falls area, he said, where building at schools and the College of Southern Idaho has intensified.

The building trades delegates sent other resolutions to the main body. They resolved:

- to urge the Idaho Public Utilities Commission to speed up its decision on the proposed coal-fired "power plant" by ending delay on technical hearings to assess the need for a plant.
- urging the state to "stop doing business" with the Idaho Employers Council, an "anti-union, anti-workers" body, according to the resolution, which suggested that the state use its own available resources to deal with labor disputes.

The group also formed a committee of delegates to tell state officials that the Idaho Department of Labor needs the "backbone to stand up and be counted" for labor, as one delegate said.

Union resolutions eyed

TWIN FALLS — Delegates to the state AFL-CIO convention here will consider several resolutions introduced by various local unions in the state.

Among the 16 were resolutions asking unions to work for these conditions:

- The union involved must be notified 30 days in advance of a sale or merger of the employing company.
- Opposition to compulsory arbitration.
- That Idaho pay unemployment benefits to qualified workers unemployed for six weeks due to a strike because "many strikes are deliberately provoked by the employer."
- A 32-hour work week with no reduction in wages or overtime to make "more jobs available to the increasing number of workers."
- To make 50 the normal retirement age with full Social Security benefits and early retirement at 55 for workers in hazardous industries. Another resolution asked that members running for national AFL-CIO offices be ineligible after age 65.

- That all workers be able to receive full Social Security benefits at age 62.
- Supporting a bill allowing unions to bargain for retirement benefits for retired members.
- Changing the annual convention to a month other than June, the busiest month of the year for building trades unions, according to the resolution.
- Support for the Corman-Kennedy national health security program, a national health insurance plan.
- That the state AFL-CIO raise "per capita tax" of members 10.5 cents a month and each local pay an additional tax of 35 cents a month for every member.
- That the convention join with "all concerned consumer groups" to oppose elimination of price markings on store items, a practice made possible in some areas when employers install computer check-out systems.

Labor chief raps solon

TWIN FALLS — The head of the Idaho AFL-CIO lashed out Monday at a Magic Valley legislator as being anti-labor.

Rep. Thomas Silvers, R-Twin Falls, gave the "worst tirade against labor in years" during the last legislature, according to AFL-CIO state president Robert Macfarlane.

In his report on the recent Idaho legislature during the 17th annual Idaho AFL-CIO convention here, Macfarlane said Silvers "displayed his ignorance" or organized labor in arguments against a bill to allow public employees to bargain collectively. The bill failed.

Silvers left the chambers after his speech, according to Macfarlane, and "could not be questioned" on his stand. Macfarlane said Silvers' actions made him like other "ultraconservative labor-baiting" legislators in Idaho, who have a philosophy similar to that of the John Edgar Hoover.

Silvers today maintained his stand was not extreme. He said "there must have been a majority" of the legislators opposing the collective bargaining bill since it was voted down twice in the house.

Macfarlane counted among his organizations' successes a bill he supported which allows a pregnant woman to claim unemployment compensation if she is laid off of a job 12 weeks before her baby due. If a doctor says she is physically able to work and is not retired, she can collect benefits.

He said doctor says she is able to work after the baby is born, but she cannot find work, she may also claim unemployment benefits, according to the bill which becomes law July 1, Macfarlane said.

The bill he worked the hardest on, Macfarlane said, was the one which allowed public employees to bargain collectively. The bill failed, although he had the support of organizations like the Association of Idaho Cities, he said.

Macfarlane said the bill was defeated after much delaying action, and through the opposition of a Bonneville County commissioner, and the Boise superintendent of schools, among others.

Camas development nixed

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

FAIRFIELD — Camas County commissioners Monday upheld the decision of county planners to turn down preliminary plans of a Milwaukie real estate firm to sell land by mail.

The Beckay Real Estate firm has purchased more than 2,500 acres in Elmore and Camas County which they planned to develop through mail-order sales.

Commissioners listed the same reasons as members of the planning and zoning commission in opposing the plans for the proposed Sunshine Valley estates: George Gill, county clerk, said lack of proper planning for roads and lack of arrangements to provide an adequate water supply are the main problems.

"The commissioners do not want to be hard nosed about this," Gill said, "but we feel that if even a few of the potential landowners decide to build soon, there will be demanding services, such as snow removal, which we'd have to supply."

He said the Beckay representatives feel no one would build on the site, the former Harlan Woodford property, for up to 10 years, and that persons simply would buy land such as this for investment.

The property includes 2,664 acres in Elmore County and 678 acres in Camas County, beginning a mile from Hill City. Most of the land is now used for grazing, with only a minimal amount in farmland, Gill said.

The county clerk said the firm never has given any indication of how it would supply adequate water. The supply would have to come from wells and be approved by state health officials.

The firm has proposed subdividing the land into lots ranging from two and one-half acres to 40 acres, with about 800 acres which would not be subdivided.

Gill said that the Milwaukie firm has purchased similar large acreages in other places in the West and sold them as future investments to people who did not plan to live on them, and he asked people if they did come here to live.

"They couldn't possibly find work in Camas County. There's not that much work here."

He said commissioners should not want to be "regressive" about the proposal but they feel details should be "spelled out better," especially provisions for water.

Idaho narc chief resigns

TWIN FALLS — Wilbert Penberthy, chief of the state's narcotics bureau, will resign July 1, according to John Bender, Idaho commissioner of law enforcement.

Bender told the Times-News Penberthy is resigning for personal reasons, including health problems and a desire to return to Seattle, Wash. He said he would prefer to keep Penberthy in as the bureau chief.

Jay Bates, attorney for the Idaho Department of Law Enforcement, said he understood Penberthy took over the job for a year to get the narcotics bureau "on its feet." He described Penberthy as a "strong individual" and said he knew of no problems in the bureau which would cause his resignation. Penberthy, he said, would be completing 20 years of government service.

Penberthy was unavailable for comment Monday afternoon and this morning.

Bender said no new narcotics bureau chief had been chosen yet, although "the selection process soon will begin."

Deadline in Rufener case beaten

RUPERT — With 11 minutes to spare, Mindoka County Pres. Atty. William Manning filed charges Monday with Fifth District Court in the chain strangulation death of Anna Marie Rufener.

A magistrate judge had ruled Friday that papers were to be filed by 5 p.m. Monday.

Manning filed "information papers" with the court at 4:49 p.m., charging Ernest Rufener, Rupert, with involuntary manslaughter, false imprisonment and embezzlement in the death of his mother, Anna Marie. Charges of involuntary manslaughter and false imprisonment were allocated against Rufener's wife, Orsilda.

Friday, Judge Daniel Meehl denied a request by defense attorneys to release the Rufeners and drop charges on grounds the prosecutor had failed to file the charges with district court within 10 days of a preliminary hearing.

The Idaho criminal code requires the charges be filed within 10 days of the conclusion of preliminary hearings. In this case, the preliminary court hearing ended May 22. But, Meehl ruled magistrate Judge George Granata did not sign the preliminary hearing order until May 27, giving Manning until Monday to file papers in district court.

Manning originally brought charges of first degree murder, and first degree kidnapping against the Rufeners. Those charges were reduced by Judge Granata, following a preliminary hearing.

Mrs. Anna Marie Rufener, 77, died Easter Sunday, apparently choking to death on a six-foot low chain that had been fastened around her neck as a restraint by her son and his wife.

Poison charges fading

DENVER (UPI) — Colorado wildlife officials say they are unable to prosecute ranchers who may have distributed poison that killed more than a dozen federally protected golden and bald eagles.

The ranchers on the western slope of the Rockies are using the illegal prothionin, a chemical that kills by poisoning the bird's blood. More than a dozen eagles have been found dead from the poison this spring in Garfield and Rio Blanco counties.

Agents for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Colorado Division of Wildlife began an investigation in mid-March. They identified the rancher who owns or leases land on which some eagles were found, but could not prosecute.

"Under the federal law," a spokesman said, "prosecution would fail without a witness who saw the rancher distribute the poison-bait." He said someone also would have to witness the eagles feeding off the baits and then die.

Ray Burke, chief of the Colorado Division of Animal Industry, said if prosecution was successful, the only punishment available is to cancel their poisoning permits. "We'll just ask them to stop," he said. "We'll just ask them to stop."

State officials also are trying to track down where the ranchers are getting the thallium.

The only manufacturer of the poison in the region, the American Smelting and Refining Co.'s Denver factory, stopped selling it four years ago.

Crows winning flag fuss

SUNCOOK, N.H. (UPI) — Arthur Richard says he is using the small American flag to protect his corn field and doesn't mean to offend anyone.

"I am not putting them on a manure pile," says Richard. "I'm just putting them there to scare away the crows."

But Edgar Bragdon, official of the local Veterans of Foreign Wars post, says the old flags should be burned instead of being used to scare off the crows.

But Richard said the flags aren't working too well. The crows are still getting his corn.

Idaho milk output down during April

TWIN FALLS — During April 122 million pounds of milk were produced in Idaho, about 5 per cent less than a year ago.

But milk production for the first four months of the year was 38.2 million pounds, a 2 per cent increase from last year but 2 per cent below 1973, according to the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

American cheese output was 4.45 million pounds, down 9 per cent from April 1974. In the first four months of 1975, 15.6 million pounds were produced, compared to 19.88 million last year.

Creamery butter was up 18 per cent at 4.24 million pounds, with the first four months' production at 5.03 million pounds. Ice cream was also up 13 per cent at 20,000 gallons, with 581,000 gallons produced in the first four months compared to 82,000 last year, in the same period.

Miscellaneous cheese production was 90.5 million pounds in April, down 4 per cent from March and 1 per cent below April last year.

Milkfat averaged 22.10 a pound, up 5 cents from March. Milkfat test averaging 3.47 per cent.

Bank superagency studied

WASHINGTON — A single superagency to regulate the nation's banks is being proposed by the chairman of the Senate Banking Committee in the wake of some of the most spectacular bank failures in the nation's history.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., says he will introduce a bill soon to create such an agency.

Currently, regulation of banks is divided among the Federal Reserve Board, the comptroller of the currency and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

"Our present system of dividing authority between three agencies is characterized by interagency bickering, buck-passing, indecisiveness, inconsistencies, duplication of effort and most recently by large bank failures," the Wisconsin Democrat declared.

"A unified bank regulatory agency would have the strength, resources, and freedom of action to implement the additional reforms needed to maintain the strength of our banking system."

Three of the largest bank failures since the depression have occurred in the past two years. USS National Bank of San Diego, with deposits of over $1 billion, failed in late 1973; Franklin National, with deposits over $4 billion, got in to trouble in mid-1974, and the $1.4 billion Security National of Long Island (N.Y.) was forced into a liquidation merger early this year.

Proxmire released a compendium of papers written by experts on bank regulation which trace the problems brought on by the drastic changes in banking practices in the past 15 years.

One of the contributors was former Federal Reserve Vice Chairman J. L. Robertson, now a practicing lawyer here. Robertson has been advocating a single banking agency since the early 1960s, and a banking committee source said the Proxmire bill would generally follow Robertson's thinking.

Robertson called for consolidating all the supervisory functions of the Federal Reserve and all the functions of the comptroller and FDIC into a new Federal Bank Commission. It would have five members, appointed by the President for 10 years with one term expiring every two years so turnover would be gradual.

Critics of the present system have charged that the agencies now vie with each other in leniency to protect their bureaucratic position. Fed Chairman Arthur Burns has termed it "competition in laxity."

Robertson cited the case of a Southern bank, which he declined to name. When the state authorities refused to allow a merger, the bank switched to federal regulation, merged, and switched back to more economical state supervision.

"These cases are not uncommon," Robertson said. "It is my feeling that ultimately (the single agency) has got to be adopted. If not this year, then when the Congress has been enough influenced."

The official position of the American Bankers Association is that "consolidation of federal banking agencies would concentrate too much power in a single agency."

'Sunning' assists replants

RENO, Nev. — Sun and water are important things to consider when setting out vegetable transplants, says Richard L. Post, Cooperative Extension horticulturist, College of Agriculture, University of Nevada.

Post notes that home vegetable gardeners throughout the state have or will be setting out transplants with the break in the weather and what appears as the onset of summer.

As a suggestion, Post said if transplants such as tomatoes, pepper, broccoli, or cabbage have been kept in the house, it is a good idea to acclimate them to sun three to four days prior to setting out. He advises putting them out in the sun for two or three hours each day. Sometimes plants put directly into the sun without gradual acclimating may be set back, suffer shock and in some cases die.

If the soil is dry when the transplant goes into it, Post pointed out, it can quickly dry out the plant's root ball, causing lack of the vegetable. He recommends pre-irrigation a day or so before transplanting with a thorough soaking of the soil.

Kneel for crop checks

RENO, Nev. — "Get down on your knees to determine alfalfa cutting time," is the suggestion of Dr. Harry Guenther, Cooperative Extension agronomist and program leader, College of Agriculture, University of Nevada.

Dr. Guenther discussed some newer ways to determine what might be the appropriate time to cut alfalfa to get the best quality crop at any time. He pointed out that the traditional advice has been to cut at one-tenth bloom stage of the plants.

"Recently there have been some better defined approaches as to when to cut," Dr. Guenther pointed out. He said one of the ways was to periodically check the alfalfa field and individual plants. When new shoots emerge at the crown of the plant and before they get over an inch long to get the best quality crop at any time. "It may take getting down on the knees to see the new shoots," explained the agronomist. He added that when the new shoots get longer than an inch they may be damaged in the cutting of the crop.

"A problem with the one tenth bloom stage advice was just what it meant," Dr. Guenther said. It was when individual blossoms were just starting to bloom or at about a tenth of what they look like in full bloom. Dr. Guenther noted that it is now interpreted as meaning a single blossom on one of 10 stems. "The latter is easier to determine," he remarked.

One reason for cutting at a tenth bloom, Dr. Guenther explained is to harvest when protein

DAD'S DAY SUNDAY

... We asked the children of Magic Valley to write us letters telling us why they are proud of their Dads.

As you will find by reading the letters, there are many reasons why the children are proud of Dad. Space does not permit us to reprint all of the hundreds of letters we received but all the children deserve a lot of credit for their enthusiasm.

A special thanks goes to Roy Roper of the Twin Cinema theatres, and to Jack Muldoon of Penny-Wise Drug for their assistance in arranging our prizes.

I am proud of my Dad because he is both my mother and father. My mom lives in Colorado and my Dad does chess most of the time.
 When he gets home from work he still finds time to play catch and take us places like the park and to movies and still comes home and fixes our supper and puts us to bed. And that is why I am proud of my Dad.

I'm proud of my dad because he protects us from everything that could harm us. He takes us places where it is very interesting. He gets us most of the things we want (sooner or later). He punishes me when I need to be punished. He loves me and I love him very much. He works very hard to support my family. When we are in need of something he somehow gets it. That is why I am so proud of my dad.

My mom and dad are divorced and I live with my mom. Therefore I don't see my dad much so I don't know what to say about him. But I will tell you about my grandpa because he's just like a dad to us.

My grandpa lives in Rupert and he is 61. We live in Hailey and he still comes up as much as he can. When we come down there he spends all his time and vacation with us. He even tries to get off work to take my brothers and I fishing. He takes us fishing anywhere we want, like thousand springs, American Falls, Eagle rock, and anywhere else where we would like to go. He stays up till midnight just to play cards with us. He does all he can to make us happy. He knows that it's hard for mom to take care of three boys and he tries to help her as much as he can. I love my grandpa very much and it will never change.

Why I'm proud of my dad when I need help my dad is always there. We live in the country and my mom works so my dad lets me help him around the house and feed the horses and cows. He takes me to fun places. He corrects me when I get into trouble. That's why I'm proud of my dad.

Why I am proud of my dad

I am proud because I love him and he is fun. He knows a lot and he teaches me a lot and he does things for me and he works and he is a school teacher and I think that that's a good enough reason!

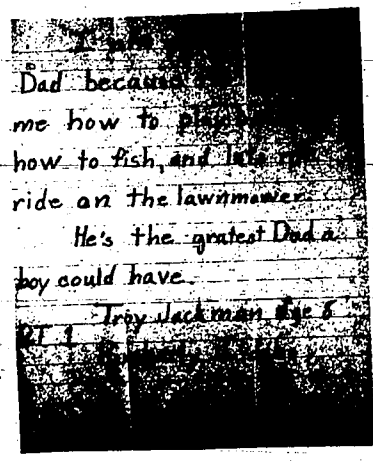

So I'm proud!

"Why I'M PROUD OF MY DAD."

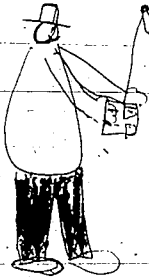

I am proud of my father because he works so hard. He goes to work in the bank at 8:00am (and that's 4 miles away.) He works there till about 4:45 P.M. When he gets home he goes out and works in the fields or milks cows till 6:00pm and comes in and eats till about 6:30 P.M. and goes out and works more till about 9:30 P.M. I am proud of him also because he tries to please us kids so much. Each year he gives us kids a calf to raise and sell for our own own savings in the bank. I know he loves us kids alot and I really love him too.

Because he loves me.
And I love him.
Because he takes us camping.
Because he takes us to the dairy queen.
He works for money to buy a piano for my Mom.
He takes us to bear lake and he takes us for a boat ride.
He works for hard for are family.
He reads me a story some nights.

Why I'm Proud of my Father

I am proud of my dad because he is neat, clean, and fun to be with. He works hard so that we can have nice things. He tells me I can do anything I want to do or be anything I want to be. He won't let us say "I can't". We do lots of fun things together in the summer like horse back riding, fishing, and we also go on picnics. It's alot of fun to work with him because he is cheerful.

I'm proud of my dad because he's one of a kind, the only one like him. He's the best you can get. He helps me when ever I need help, unless he's very busy. He works hard to make us comfortable. It's hard to put down on paper the many things that I'm proud for. But all I can say is that I'm awfully proud to be the daughter of such a wonderful man.

I'm proud of my dad for many reasons. He is the greatest dad in the whole world. We know he loves us because of the things he does for us and the way he treats us, kids. He is always doing things with us that we want to do. He has taught us to swim, water ski, play badminton, skate and fish and lots of other things. He likes to do things with us as a family. He doesn't leave us 3 kids at home with a babysitter so that he can go to the movies or to eat out or something with out us. He likes to take us everywhere with him. We know that when daddy gets mad at us for something we did wrong, it's because he love us and he's trying to teach us what is right. This is just a few reasons why I'm proud of my dad.

I am proud of MY DADDY because we can wrestle together, wash the car and pick up,
 fix things,
 and do everything together.

"Why I'm proud of my Dad"
 One reason why I'm proud of my Dad is because he's so special, nice, smart, intelligent, and sweet.
 Another reason is he never loses his temper in front of the family. And that takes a lot of courage to do that.
 One more is he's considerate and when ever he has some money and you need it he gives it to you so you have it.
 And last but not least he always thinks of his family instead of himself.

Why I'm proud of my dad
 My dad has two jobs but still he does not complain. And in his spare time he fixes cars and trucks. My daddy not only supports his family but he also supports the city family for he is a fireman. He sometimes has to miss family programs but he still has time for us. He loves all of our family even when we do something wrong. He goes to church when ever he can. He helps us and plays games with us. He is always calm and never panics. He takes us on trips. He doesn't mind if we have pets. He helps paint and carpets our house. He lets us take piano lessons even though we don't practice. He doesn't get mad if supper not ready when he gets home and he has to fix it. He comes to recitals and picnics. That's why I'm proud of him and love him.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JUNE 11, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This could be an adverse day unless you follow the promptings of your best judgment which is your best chance to avoid trouble. Take no chances with a risky venture. Be discreet.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You and family members can join efforts in home improvement by replacing the old with the new. Take the initiative.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use extreme care in motion and avoid possible accidents today. Consult an expert for the advice you need at this time.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A good friend comes to your rescue today at a time of real need. Plan to have a larger savings account in the future.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Look on the bright side of situations and make your life happier. A biggy can be of great help to you today.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study your situation in an objective manner and improve it instead of fretting about it. A new contact can be helpful now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Your friends are most helpful today but this is because of pressures they have. Consult an expert and better yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) A higher-up could vent ire on you if you don't steer clear of this person today. Ally yourself with a good associate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have new ideas that need expression, but settling a matter with a co-worker takes precedence right now. Be wise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be sure to keep promises you have made. Take time to engage in favorite hobby. Show increased devotion to mate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take a more positive stand where an important matter is concerned. Sidestep an opponent who is a troublemaker.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have much work to do and should get someone to help you with it for best results. Take needed health treatments.

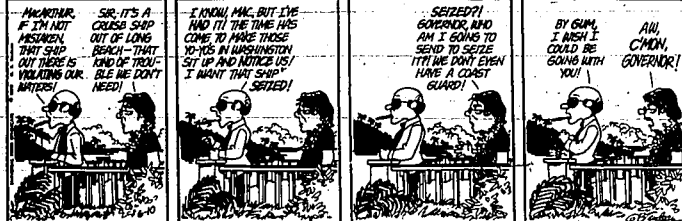

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If you stay within your budget, you can have the amusement you crave at this time. Listen to what an expert suggests.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will know whom to go to in time of stress but teach not to exaggerate troubles. Ideal chart for the field of manufacturing, selling in particular. Religion is especially helpful early in life. Sports is a must.

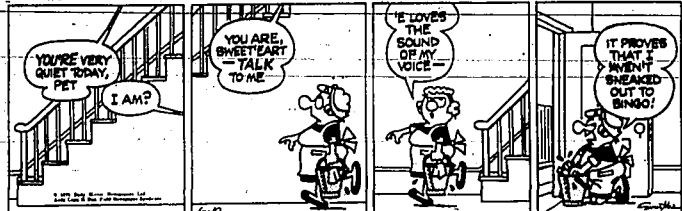

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Noon and 10 p.m., those are the two times of day and night when most wrist watches get damaged. Or so a watchmaker says. It's because a lot of people either drop or dunk their watches when they take them off to wash up for lunch or to go to bed; this professional fellow believes.

SOME WHO regard Beethoven as the greatest composer of all time think it odd he was never able to learn to dance.

CLAIM IS that TV actor Dennis Weaver delivers some of the finest English-accented Shakespeare ever heard in the theatre.

HOW DO YOU explain the fact that the suicide rate among women is rising so markedly?

CHINA

"Are cigarette smoking and liquor drinking common in the People's Republic of China?"

A Cigarette smoking, indeed. Probably, there are more chain smokers there proportionately than anywhere else. But the correspondents say you never see any public drunkenness. The Chinese have a thing about eating when ever they drink. And another thing about never drinking alone.

ALL YOU HAVE to do is say the words "hair" and "egg" aloud to see why lip readers have such a difficult time understanding them. And words like "mama" and "papa" and "baby" and "bye bye" give them trouble, too.

CHRISTMAS TREES

Little late with this Christmas item, but believe you might wish to know, anyway, that the best Christmas trees need at least 140 hours of air temperatures below 40 degrees F. before they're cut. That much cool weather produces a lasting green freshness; I'm told.

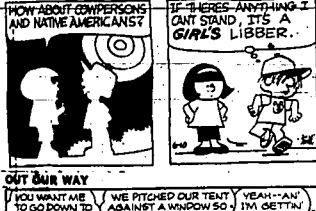

A GOOD FRY COOK never has to cut into that steak to know whether it's rare, medium or well-done. Just touching it with a knife blade tells. If mushy, it's raw. If soft but springy, it's rare. If firm, it's well-done.

DO YOU RECALL Rebecca in Sir Walter Scott's "Ivanhoe"? It's a little known fact that she was patterned after a Jewish girl from Philadelphia named Rebecca Cratz.

OUR LOVE AND WAR man says it takes a special sort of fellow to go with a girl who's taller than himself. Napoleon, for instance, was not as tall as his Josephine. Nor was Humphrey Bogart as tall as Lauren Bacall.
