Boycott delays Colby testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three Republicans boycotted the first meeting of a House subcommittee investigating the Central Intelligence Agency today, thereby postponing CIA director William E. Colby's first public testimony on the agency.

The boycott came after Rep. Lucien N. Nezdi, D-Mich., resigned as chairman of the full committee on Intelligence Wednesday night in a jurisdictional dispute over the subcommittee.

Subcommittee chairmen — Stanton, D-Ohio, apologized to Colby after he had waited 30 minutes for the hearing to begin and asked him to keep himself ready to testify on CIA operations since he took over as director in 1973. Colby today declined to turn over sensitive documents which he brought with him to the hearing, because of inadequate security arrangements with the committee. Stanton promised to reach an agreement on security next week.

"After all, crimes should never be secrets," said a statement which Stanton had prepared to deliver to the subcommittee. "For too long, America has stood for too much that is good to let the misdeeds of a few destroy what we have."

Stanton said earlier today he knew of a successful CIA foreign assassination, an area of investigation not covered by the recent Rockefeller Commission report.

Colby has testified several times in private but the CIA by today was to have his first session in public. The postponement followed by two days the public release of the Rockefeller Commission's report on the CIA. Nedzi opponents had charged he never called for an investigation of the CIA despite previously receiving information that the agency broke rules against domestic spying and other activities.

— Nedzi resigned as chairman of the overall intelligence committee of seven Democrats and three Republicans after he was voted down 6-1 Wednesday night in a dispute involving Nedzi's selection of the CIA subcommittee.

But three Republican members boycotted this morning's session, keeping Colby waiting at the witness table for more than a half hour before Stanton adjourned the session.

Labor backs Emergency Housing Act

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It would be "a real calamity" for the economy if President Ford vetoes the congressionally approved Emergency Housing Act, housing industry officials and organized labor said today.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department reported a 25 per cent surge in sales of new single-family homes in April, the biggest monthly rise in 12 years. April was the first month in which home buyers could use a $2,000 tax credit for buying an existing home.

Utility power sale reform advised

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A major reform is needed in the way utility companies sell their electricity, with rates varying from season to season, day to day and even hour to hour, an environmental expert said today.

Dr. Ernst R. Habicht, energy program director for the Environmental Defense Fund, told a government sponsored conference on utility load management that such a reform is the only way to make electric rates reflect the actual cost of producing power.

Habicht said he has been pessimistic for several years "concerning the nature of regulated utilities and their managers and ... concerning the reformation of this sector."

20 oil firms seek Atlantic drilling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twenty oil companies have asked permission to drill for offshore oil and gas in a banana-shaped swath of the Atlantic Ocean running from upper New Jersey to Maryland, an Interior Department spokesman said today.

The 3.1 million acres identified as desirable sites by the oil companies represent about half the 6.5 million acres offered by Interior March 26 as candidate areas for the first offshore drilling leases ever allowed in the Atlantic.

Talks to free Zaire hostages progress

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Efforts to free two American students and a Dutch woman held hostage by left-wing guerrillas in Zaire are making progress and have reached a delicate stage, an intermediary said today.

"Things have started to move and they are currently in a delicate stage," Prof. Peter Steiner said. "I don't want to say any more for fear of jeopardizing the lives of the hostages."

He reported that as of a few days ago the kidnap victims were still "alive and well" in their jungle hideout in Zaire, which neighbors Burundi in central Africa.

US aide warns against quick embargo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A top State Department official warned Congress Wednesday against taking immediate and "premature" steps to lift the U.S. trade embargo against Cuba.

Any effort to lift the ban and begin dealings with the communist government of Fidel Castro before relations are improved by normal diplomatic procedures would be a mistake, said Assistant Secretary of State William D. Rogers.

Governors elect Iowa's Ray chairman

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Iowa Gov. Robert Ray, a Republican, has been elected chairman of the National Governors Conference for the next year.

Ray was elected unanimously at the closing session of the 67th annual conference to succeed Democratic Gov. Calvin Rampton of Utah.

TF High near top of class

By CRICKET WIRD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — After a year of study and three days of exams, Twin Falls High School came out near the top of its class.

At the same time, the examiners made some suggestions for improvement.

A 26-member evaluation team for the Northwest Accreditation Association spent three days in April studying and evaluating the high school and recently issued its report.

Committee chairman Francis Rist of the Idaho Department of Education told the school board trustees "I'm proud of the fact that 63 high schools were evaluated in the past five years. Twin Falls was one of the best."

The majority of evaluation committee members was from the department of education, but members represented such institutions as Idaho State University, the College of Idaho, the College of Southern Idaho, Boise State University, and Filer, Wood River, Valley, Buhl, Minidoka, Burley and Pocatello high schools.

Principal Frank Charlton said before the evaluation team comes to a high school — an event which occurs once every ten years — the staff and administration undertake a self-evaluating process.

Charlton said the self-evaluation began a year ago and involved staff, administration, students and members of the community.

"It's really quite a job," Charlton said, but added, "You really learn a lot from your evaluation."

The staff prepares statements and recommendations about the various areas of the school, including philosophy, curriculum, facilities and specific matters. The committee reviews the statements and recommendations and then makes its own evaluation and recommendations, Charlton said.

Follow-up after the report is made is important and something which school trustees discussed when Rist presented the report.

On the recommendations, Charlton said, "I'd say most of them, we'll be able to implement them in the next few years."

The report generally commended the school and the enthusiasm of its teachers. Praise in the introduction was the "positive, enthusiastic attitude among the staff, administration and students. The remarkable thing about this attitude is that it is student and education oriented rather than institution oriented."

Hansen misses gas tax vote; Symms says 'Nay'

WASHINGTON — Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, did not vote Wednesday on proposed energy bill which relied on gasoline tax increases to promote energy conservation.

Idaho's first district representative, Steve Symms, voted against both a 23-cent and a 3-cent gas tax proposal. The bill was defeated. (See story p. 9)

*Norm Martin, administrative assistant for Hansen, said the representative has been in eastern Idaho this week. But he said Hansen "does not believe there's a fuel shortage" and "would have voted against" the tax proposals.

"One of the best things Congress could do to help solve the energy crises would be to adjourn," Steve Symms' legal assistant Paula Hawks told the representative saying. But she said Symms added that "realistically" Congress should not adjourn, but should stop regulating the energy field.

— Washington today, President Ford, meeting with issue leaders following a defeat of a Democratic plan to hike gasoline taxes, told them today they should realign enactment of a national energy program is of "great urgency" for Americans.

Ford summoned the leaders of both parties following Wednesday's House vote that not only rejected a gas tax increase but also adopted greater import quotas — measures the White House believes damage the President's drive to make America independent of foreign petroleum suppliers by 1985.

In the 65-minute Cabinet room meeting, the President expressed his firm determination that the nation must have a comprehensive program," White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said.

Kimberly man crash victim

TWIN FALLS — Douglas Richard Hoops, 24, Kimberly, was killed early this morning when his motorcycle crashed into the rear of a parked truck on Kimberly Road.

City police said Mr. Hoops was traveling east in the 1700 block of Kimberly Road. The large truck was parked at the right hand side of the road at 1720 Kimberly Road. It had been operated by Larry Wilson, Lexington, Neb., and was owned by Valley Sales Co. The accident occurred at 11:40 a.m.

City police said witnesses reported the cyclist was traveling at a high rate of speed when the cycle crashed into the rear of the truck. County Coroner Cloyd Edwards said the man died instantly of head injuries.

Mr. Hoops was the son of W. R. Hoops, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Helen Hoops, Kimberly.

Still touring

WENDELL — A suitcase belonging to a Wendell college student, lost during a choir tour in South America, has turned up in the Galapagos Islands.

Joyce Thompson, Moscow, tour agent for the University of Idaho, Vancouver center, has received a letter from the Charles Darwin Foundation saying the local military had had the luggage for some time and had turned it over to the foundation because it regularly has foreign visitors.

Two suitcases, belonging to George Ambrose, junior from Wendell, and Nancy Kramer, East Wenatchee, Wash., were lost by the airlines en route to Bogota, Columbia, during the Vancouver tour of South America last January.

"The Galapagos Islands lie some 500 miles west in the Pacific Ocean. The student said the foundation officials said the luggage had been stored and they intended to ship it without authorization due to the high cost of air freight."

INDIA'S INDIRA GANDHI ... costly conviction?

Conviction appeal set

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was convicted today of violating India's election laws — a surprise ruling that could cost her the leadership of her 600 million countrymen.

The Allahabad High Court found the 58-year-old prime minister guilty of two election law violations during the 1971 campaign in her home state — Uttar Pradesh.

Justice J.J. Singh ruled that Mrs. Gandhi illegally used her personal secretary to campaign for her and government officials to arrange election meetings.

But the judge cleared her of charges she bribed voters with gifts, provided free transportation to polling stations and spent more than the legal $5,000 in campaign expenditures.

Mrs. Gandhi's lawyers promptly asked for a stay of the order pending an appeal to the Indian Supreme Court in New Delhi. The judge granted a 20-day stay, letting her remain in power.

The conviction, if upheld, would automatically strip Mrs. Gandhi of her seat in parliament and bar her from holding public office for the next six years.

The stunning decision in Allahabad, Mrs. Gandhi's birthplace 400 miles southeast of New Delhi, climaxed the first trial of a prime minister in India's 27 years of independence.

Mrs. Gandhi's daughter of the late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, appeared in person before the court last March in a dramatic attempt to save her political life.

Her election in Rae Bareilly, her home district in Uttar Pradesh, was challenged in court four years ago by Socialist leader Raj Narain, the main rival in the 1971 balloting.

Mr. T-N says

All braced? Tomorrow's Friday the 13th.

Britain's economic crisis deepens

LONDON (UPI) — The British pound plunged to an all-time low today and stock market prices dived sharply in a deepening economic crisis for Britain today.

The economic woe coincided with more political trouble for Prime Minister Harold Wilson who is seeking to fight off a revolt by the left wing of his governing Labor party against an alleged lurch to the political right by the government.

The pound plummeted to less than $2.97 — its lowest value in terms of dollars since January, 1948.

Against other major currencies its plunge was also more dramatic.

By mid-afternoon its devaluation against the dollar was an all-time record of 26.5 per cent compared with the levels set by the so-called Smithsonian agreement of 1971.

The plunge was sparked by a burst of gloomy reports about the state of the economy.

Inflation rates in Britain have soared recently to more than double those in other Western countries.

Price inflation currently is skyrocketing at nearly 20 per cent a year and pay-inflation at between 30 and 35 per cent.

She is sliding still deeper into the red in her foreign business.

The country also faced the likelihood of being brought to a standstill by a nationwide rail strike June 23, the first in more than 20 years.

In the midst of this economic woe, Wilson tried to fight off a revolt by his own Labor party last week.

The so-called Tribune Group of Labor party members of parliament, which comprises about 20 left-wing lawmakers, set about to test the party's strength in parliament by voting to prevent a government, swing to the right.

Hansen names '74 foe in suit

BOISE (UPI) — Republican Congressman George Hansen amended his million dollar civil suit Wednesday against those involved in obtaining a credit report prior to his election by asking another $800,000 from three more persons, including the man he defeated for his congressional suit. Hansen filed an amended suit in Federal District Court in Boise against former U. S. Congressman Orval Hansen and Rose-Marie Bowman and Judith Austin, both of Boise.

George Hansen charged the three with "willful and malicious violation" of the rights of himself and his wife.

Originally, the congressman had filed a $4 million suit against the late Senator McI Morgan, who was state treasurer of the Democratic party, and Michael McButch, owner of the Pocatello Credit Bureau. However, a Montana judge reduced the suit to $2 million.

Last month, Federal Judge Fred M. Taylor dismissed criminal actions against Morgan and Mrs. Bowman. The judge held that Mrs. Bowman was not connected with Morgan to obtain the report and later, a federal jury acquitted Morgan of falsely obtaining the credit report.

George Hansen defeated Orval Hansen in the Republican primary and went on to win the congressional seat.

George Hansen charged the defendants obtained the credit report "for purposes not authorized by the Fair Credit Reporting Act."

He said that the report was obtained and disseminated for "political purposes in a manner and in an effort to personally and politically damage the plaintiff."

Such publication, the suit charged, "did politically and personally damage the plaintiffs."

The suit said that the defendants had conspired to deprive the congressman and his wife of civil rights, the right of privacy, equal protection and equal privileges and immunities under the law.

As a result, the suit added, the Hansens "suffered great mental anguish and distress, credit worthiness, credit standing, credit capacity, character and general reputation."

In the suit, it was charged that Miss Austin and Mrs. Bowman and discussed the feasibility of obtaining a credit report to help Orval Hansen. It said Mrs. Bowman then called Morgan and asked that he obtain a credit report, which Morgan then allegedly obtained from McButch and delivered to the office of then Congressman Orval Hansen.

"Treatment of the suit said, "Hansen (Orval Hansen) delivered the credit report to John Warren McGarry, a staff member of the Committee on House Administration of the U. S. House."

Belgian PM wins vote

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Prime Minister Leo Tindemans won a vote of confidence today from a divided Parliament over his government's decision to buy the U.S. F16 fighter planes for his NATO forces.

The vote for Tindemans in the 212-seat chamber was 112 to 82 with three abstentions.

The confidence vote followed by six days the government's selection of 102 F16s over the French Mirage F1E for Belgium's air force, thus sealing the multibillion-dollar warplane arms deal of the century for the United States.

The decision ended a four-nation consortium of North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries — Belgium, Denmark, the Netherlands and Norway — to sign an agreement with the United States for the purchase of 306 F16s with options on another 42.

The decision raised a wave of acrimony in Belgium. On Wednesday, anonymous telephone callers threatened to bomb Zaventem International airport if Belgium proceeded with purchase of the F16s.

Police and airport officials said "appropriate safeguard measures" had been taken.

Ruling desire brings change

MONTPELIER, Idaho (UPI) — Congressman George Hansen said Thursday he expanded a suit against those involved in getting his credit rating because he wants the courts to decide on conflicting evidence gathered in the case.

Reached in Montpelier, Hansen said, "The ah, discovery that was had in deposition and otherwise, seemed to, ah, involve a number of people to the point that we thought it only proper that the court and jury be made aware of everything that sort it out and see just what had occurred."

"And there was enough conflicting testimony and statements, that I think it was appropriate to handle in this way."

"Asked about the significance of including Orval Hansen, the man he defeated for the Congressional seat in the 1974 campaign, George Hansen said the former congressman was added "because the evidence that was taken in discovery, I think, showed there was enough apparent involvement on the part of all these people that it was warranted that they be named in the suit."

The amended suit filed in Federal District Court at Boise added Rose-Marie Bowman and Judith Austin, both of Boise, and Michael McButch, the owner of the Pocatello Credit Bureau.

Hansen originally filed suit for $4 million against Pocatello jeweler Mel Morgan and Michael McButch, the owner of the Pocatello Credit Bureau.

The congressman was in Montpelier Thursday to meet with constituents.

Friends may call at the chapel today and until time of services Friday.

FTC hits car rent monopoly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission today accused the country's three biggest car renters — Hertz, Avis and National — of monopolizing the "airport car rental business."

The three companies had combined operating revenues of $1.16 billion during 1973, the FTC said. During that same year they controlled 96 percent of the nation's at-the-airport rent-a-car business.

The FTC is owned by RCA Corp., and is the nation's largest car renter. The second largest in the field is Avis, which until recently was owned by International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. National is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Household Finance Corp.

"We are shocked at the broad charges," said National Car Rental President J.W. James in reply to the FTC complaint. He denied any wrongdoing and said National will "vigorously oppose" the charges.

Spokesmen for Hertz and Avis said they had not yet fully analyzed the complaint. Hertz said its management had no knowledge of violations and "if they exist, they are completely contrary to Hertz policy and unauthorized."

Since at least 1968, the complaint said, the companies have rigged a noncompetitive market structure "by employing national coordinated programs."

GOP boycott slows probe

(Continued from p. 1) "The question was 'do you know of any successful assassination plots,'" Stanton said. "I responded 'yes.'"

He did not identify the victims or further elaborate.

Before the session began, Rep. Michael Harrington, D-Mass., who has been at the forefront of opposing the CIA, said he regretted the formation of the committee, said he regretted the dispute "but we are proceeding forward" with the Colby hearing.

He said the dispute over Nedzi's selection of the CIA subcommittee from which Harrington was excluded was "only part of the matter."

The committee of seven Democrats and three Republicans has been torn by disputes even before it heard its first witness. Members objected to the fact that Nedzi as a member of the House military committee had been one of those privileged to be briefed by CIA officers in the past as part of that body's "oversight" function.

Nedzi opponents charged that he never called for an investigation or CIA despite allegedly receiving information that the agency broke rules against domestic spying and other activities.

As Democratic members conferred in the corridor and then moved into the crowded hearing room which was flooded for television cameras, Colby sat impassively at a small brown witness table with three aides sitting beside him, bulging briefcases at their feet.

A stack of copies of Colby's opening statement were ready for distribution. Then Stanton spoke. He apologized to Colby for the delay and said that under House rules the session could not proceed without at least one member of the minority.

Colby declined to turn over sensitive documents which he had brought with him to the hearing because of inadequate security arrangements with the committee.

Stanton promised Colby the committee would investigate security regulations, and "will have those arrangements early next week."

Stanton indicated that the next step was to await the selection of a new chairman for the House intelligence committee after which it would proceed in its investigation of the CIA.

The Senate intelligence committee plans to take testimony Friday from former CIA director Richard Helms, who was returned especially from his post as ambassador to Iran, to testify.

Hailey planners approve comprehensive proposal

By BART QUESNEL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Quickly and with little fanfare, the county planning and zoning commission voted unanimously Tuesday to approve the comprehensive plan and send it to the county commissioners.

The plan has been in the making for several years, requiring many meetings and public hearings. The commission voted down a last-minute attempt by Twin Falls attorney Lloyd Walker to increase the commercial designation north of town to include his property.

The plan will be given to the county commissioners who must schedule a public hearing before giving approval to it. The county is working now on a new zoning ordinance which will encompass the objectives listed in the plan.

In other action at the regular meeting Tuesday night, the commission voted to give McCulloch Properties an extension of time to increase density in Democrat Gulch. McCulloch owns 1,500 acres in the gulch about 1.5 miles west of Hailey. Presently all the land is zoned "R-1," the lowest density allowed in the county (one unit per acre).

McCulloch wants to increase the density to allow the commission to change the land to A-2 except 23 acres it wants changed to A-3. If the rezoning is granted, McCulloch will be allowed to build 775 units on the land, according to administrator Alan Reynolds.

Joe Coombs, chief of Trico Engineers, the firm hired by McCulloch to complete the Woodside project, asked the commission to allow Trico to work with the planning staff to insure a "precision zoned project" which would "fit the land."

The commission told Coombs he would work the staff to plan the area but would not be guaranteed that a rezoning would be forthcoming.

If the commission voted to rezone the area, utilizing the concepts that Coombs presented, the commission would be "contract zoning," a violation-of-law according to commission chairman Nick Purdy.

The commission approved a consent use permit for Glen Allen to locate a new trailer home on the Lower Board Ranch west of Kelchum on the Warm Springs Road.

Allen has an old trailer there now and wishes to install the newer one.

The commission gave approval to amend a preliminary application to build Broadford Highlands No. 3. Russ Horn and Bill Grant submitted to the commission a proposal to delete the lot eastern most lots in the subdivision located about one mile south of Hailey on Broadford Road.

Horn said he deleted the lots because of the uncertainty of a road the county is contemplating into Friedman Industrial Park.

The commission asked Horn what he wanted to do with the land he wanted to delete from the original plat. Horn said he didn't have the money to develop the land now and did not want to engage an engineering firm to work on the entire parcel of ground until the county figured out the road situation.

Horn agreed to do the subdivision in two phases and list his intent on the final subdivision application for Broadford No. 3.

The commission gave its approval to a plan worked out by the U.S. Forest Service for developing the land now and list inside the Sawtooth National Recreation Area.

Administrator Gray Reynolds said the forest service and the people of Sawtooth City were satisfied with the plan.

Girdle thief hits in Florida

BOCA RATON, Fla. (UPI) — Police are looking for a girdle thief.

Mary Miller reported Wednesday that someone had stolen from her bedroom dresser a girdle in which she had put a set of keys and $43.90.

She told police she had put the girdle in a drawer when she returned from church on Sunday.

Press women plan June SV conclave

TWIN FALLS — The 30th annual convention of the National Federation of Press Women will be held in Sun Valley June 20-24, with the Idaho Press Women as hosts.

Keynote speaker at the convention will be Col. Chris Mann, commander of the 35th US Air Force Recruiting Group of Lackland Air Force Base, and the only woman on the list of 42 colonels selected for promotion to the rank of brigadier general.

Idaho Gov. Cecil D. Andrus will offer greetings at the opening breakfast meeting. Theme of the convention session is "Getting It All Together."

Other speakers will include Paul Miller, chairman of the Associated Press; David Maxey, editor of Psychology Today and former editor of Look Magazine, and Christy C. Bulkeley, editor and publisher of the Saratoga, N.Y., Saratoga.

Miller, who began in the news business as a list worked as reporter, editor and executive, becoming Washington bureau chief and assistant general manager of AP before joining Gannett Co. in 1947.

Maxey worked up the rank at Look Magazine from researcher to editor, then served as Washington editor.

Bonnie, 17, needs home to end interest conflict

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — At 17, Bonnie is much like other teenagers, enjoying listening to records and visiting with friends.

But because of family and personal problems, Bonnie needs a foster home.

Afflicted with epilepsy and slightly mentally retarded, Bonnie has been unable to live in her home because of several other epileptic children in the family and a somewhat difficult home life.

She presently is living with the Dan Jacob family in Twin Falls. But Jacob, a social case worker for the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, cannot keep Bonnie in his home. As a state employee in this area, accepting foster child support payments is "considered a conflict of interest," Jacob said.

But, with several other foster homes not paning out, "We needed a place for Bonnie to stay and that's it . . ."

Jacob said Bonnie is handicapped and she does need attention, supervision and guidance. The best schedule for her is a daily routine that provides her with some degree of regularity, and not so much excitement.

Presently, Bonnie is participating in classes at the Maple-Valley-Rehabilitation Service, learning skills which could gain her employment in the food service trade.

Bonnie helps in "the Jacob home along with the teen-age daughter, doing household chores and joins in family outings and games. She reads at an early grade school level and enjoys books like Charlie Brown ones or other cartoon features.

Bonnie is like many other handicapped adults, most of whom are at the state school at Nampa. Jacob, as liaison officer for the school, would like to see Bonnie and as many other persons as possible placed in homes in the community.

These are "people who are socialized enough that they should be out in the community," Jacob said, but there are not adequate living facilities for them.

In the state school, there are between 30 to 35 people ranging from cerebral palsy victims to mentally retarded persons needing a lot of supervision.

A foster child like Bonnie, gets benefits from the state. Her support level is $200 a month, Jacob said. Adults receive compensation from Social Security and other government funds and in this way can contribute toward their living expenses.

Bonnie turns 18 this summer, Jacob said, and her foster child benefits cease, but other benefits take their place. He hopes she will be well-placed in a foster home where she can continue to live after she turns 18.

TF man, teen face charge

TWIN FALLS — Mitch Dean Mattison, 18, Twin Falls, and a 16-year-old juvenile companion were arrested early today by Twin Falls city police and charged with first degree burglary.

Detective Capt. Tim Qualls said the two were arrested at the Save-On Drug store, 667 Filer Ave., about 5:05 a.m. today.

Gymnastic camp scheduled in TF

TWIN FALLS — A gymnastics camp will be held at the College of Southern Idaho on Friday and for boys and girls between 9 and 15 years old.

The camp, which will be run by Shirley Gibbons, Valley High School gym coach, and Connie Lewis, Robert Stuart Junior High School gym coach, will be split into two sessions.

From 9:30 a.m. to noon children aged 9 through 12 (fourth through sixth grade) will be taught tumbling floor exercises and the basics of working with gym apparatus such as the trampoline, horizontal bar and the side-horse vault. A similar session for 12 to 15-year-olds will be held from 2 to 5 in the afternoon.

Both sessions will begin Monday and last through Friday.

The price of the camp is $15 per person. People may register for the camp at the CSI gym on Monday.

The college also is sponsoring a girls basketball camp for high school students. The camp will take place next week and will last from 9 a.m. to noon. There are still spots available and the $35 registration fee includes a season's pass to CSI basketball games.

CSI basketball coaches and some coaches from other schools will lead the camp.

Persons interested in obtaining more information about any of these programs may call Jan Millileiter at CSI, 733-9554, ext. 302.

TF woman speaks at 4-H meet

TWIN FALLS — The Healthy Cooky Cutters 4-H Club met Tuesday at the home of Shelley Bartlett, president.

Helen Walker, customer adviser for Idaho Power Co., spoke to the girls on "Wise Use of Energy."

Camp scholarship applications were handed out and discussed.

Demonstrations were given by Valerie Kerr on "special care of windows and how to launder curtains," Wendy Steel on "different types of sandwiches and their uses," and Lisa King on "care of your eyes."

Luzann Platt, leader, led a discussion about different seam finishes and their uses.

Susan Baker, teen leader, led a discussion on proper care of the car. Refreshments were served by Shelley Bartlett.

US, France deadlocked on gold policy

Chicago Daily News — The United States and France again failed to break their deadlock over gold policy despite the promise of another hike in oil prices partly tied to money chaos.

U.S. Treasury Secretary William Simon said he was "disappointed" after two days of meetings of 20 finance ministers left unresolved the future of gold and the floating dollar.

French Finance Minister Jean-Pierre Fourcade said the differences with the United States are "fundamental." He showed his displeasure by leaving the meeting after lunch yesterday and attending a French parliamentary debate.

At the same time a meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Libreville, Gabon, decided to give oil-exporting nations another 90 days to make reforms before raising oil prices Oct. 1.

At that time, OPEC will start quoting prices in special drawing rights (SDR) instead of dollars, as partial compensation for the cheapened exchange value of the dollar compared with other money.

Simon commented that this "was not a terribly important decision" because dollars makes up one-third of the assortment of 16 kinds of money in SDR.

The central dispute between Washington and Paris is over French attempts to again peg the dollar to a "fixed par value" in terms of other money.

"Countries should have the option of floating (their value) or establishing par value," Simon said. He rejected any authority of the International Monetary Fund to order par values.

IMF managing director H.J. Witteveen, a Dutch economist, called for "gradually moving to more stable exchange rates" and eventually back to par values.

With the dollar floating down, oil nations get less European or Japanese goods for their dollars, and American exporters can undersell their overseas competitors, adding to their unemployment and recession problems.

The battle over par values is tied to a package with two other key money issues — revising IMF rules on the use of gold and giving new-rich oil nations more vote and responsibility.

IMF has a gold hoard worth $6.5 billion at the official $42 per ounce price, and around $25 billion at world market prices.

Possibly $3 to 4 billion of IMF's gold is to be used to tide over the world's poorest countries hard hit by recession and steep oil price hikes. If and when the package of IMF issues is settled.

The third world is in a crisis stage and it will get worse next year," Finance Minister John Turner of Canada warned.

The finance ministers agreed that SDR should become "the central asset in the international monetary system" with gold's role reduced. "The official ($42) price of gold should be abolished."

Obligations to use gold in payments between the fund and its (126) members should be abrogated," it was agreed. But rules for using gold between governments are an issue in the French-U.S. dispute.

Simon said the United States agreed to increase the quota and voting power for new-rich countries. The U.S. quota could drop to 20 per cent but not below that. Washington is using its present veto power to

Britain pumping North Sea field

LONDON (UPI) — Britain has begun pumping oil from the North Sea after a year of frustrating delays, taking the first step toward self-sufficiency in fuel.

Oil workers opened the valve on a flat-topped rig off the Scottish coast at noon Wednesday and petroleum began surging up from the seabed into a tanker moored nearby.

By the end of the day, the American-based consortium running the operation pumped 2,000 tons of oil out of the Argyll Field, 225 miles east of Edinburgh, brightening the prospects of Britain's troubled economy.

Oil experts predicted that Britain would pump 130 million tons a year from the North Sea by 1980, enough to turn the nation from an importer into an exporter of fuel.

The first British shipload of North Sea oil was scheduled to arrive at a refinery in the Thames Estuary in five days. Two weeks later, North Sea gasoline will go on sale at filling stations around the country.

The first flow of "black gold" from Britain's sector in the North Sea came 11 months after British officials predicted the pumping would begin.

Unexpected delays in stationing giant rigs in the often turbulent North Sea coupled with fierce winter storms and a shortage of equipment had set the timetable back.

Oil from the Norwegian sector of the North Sea began to flow in 1971.

British energy officials predicted that up to 2 million tons of oil would be pumped from the North Sea this year with the figure rising to 15 million in 1976.

Experts said the North Sea areas being explored by Britain have reserves of up to 4 billion tons, enough to meet the nation's oil needs for 45 years.

Economic planners have expressed hope the North Sea oil would help Britain's ailing economy, one of the weakest in Western Europe, get back on its feet again.

Britain has been importing about $7 billion worth of oil annually, causing a chronic balance of payments deficit, soaring inflation and the loss of confidence in the pound.

American woman spy, Reds claim

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — The Communist Pathet Lao press agency today accused an American woman, held by police for the past eight days of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency with orders to undermine peace in Laos.

U.S. Embassy officials said they have been unable to learn the specific charges against the woman, Miss Rosemary Conway, 35, of Chicago and San Jose, Calif.

The officials said they have been told only that the charges are "political" in nature.

American consular officials, doctors and two representatives of the foreign ministry visited Miss Conway Wednesday at the joint police headquarters where she has been held since her arrest last week at a Vientiane hotel.

No details of the meeting were disclosed.

Police sources said Miss Conway was in good health. They said she had been interrogated by Communist police.

Business wails

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Craig L. Campbell's blossoming business wailed as he tried to sell flowers to a secretary in the District Attorney's office.

There was nothing wrong with his sales pitch — six carnations or roses for $3 or 12 for $5 — but he chose the wrong place to make it.

Two district attorney investigators Wednesday said they heard him discussing a sale with the secretary and asked Campbell if he had a solicitor's permit. He didn't, and the investigators arrested him for soliciting without a permit.

Mart seat for Greece?

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Greece today asked the nine-nation European Common Market to admit it as full-fledged member "to consolidate democracy in Greece."

Greek ambassador to the market Stephan Stathatos handed his country's application for membership to Brendan Chilton of Ireland, current chairman of the committee of permanent representatives of market countries.

Fire destroys 747

BOMBAY, India (UPI) — A $25 million Air France 747 was destroyed by fire at the Santa Cruz international Airport here today minutes after the 392 passengers and crew slid down exit chutes to safety.

The passengers and 18 crew members fled through emergency and main exits which opened automatically when the blaze broke out, airport authorities said.

The plane, Air France Flight 153 from Bangkok to Tehran, Tel Aviv and Paris via Bombay, was taxiing for takeoff when, midway through its ground run, the pilot suddenly braked and announced over the intercom: "The engines are afire."

Officials said four of the 374 passengers aboard the 747 were slightly injured in the rush to leave the jumbo jet after all four of its engines caught fire as it was making a 2:30 a.m. departure.

Louisiana governor wins as host, loses on energy

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Gov. Edwin Edwards of Louisiana won the plaudits of his colleagues as a host — but lost their vote on the energy issue.

When Edwards rose Wednesday to acknowledge the standing ovation of his peers, the governors of the sovereign states, it must have been a moment of mixed emotions.

He had just been given, by official resolution of the National Governors Conference, "the grateful salute" of his colleagues for "the constant and gracious attention" they received during their three-day annual convalescence in the shadow of New Orleans' historic French Quarter.

He also had just been given a thumping defeat — 27-11 — on his effort to sell a "dig and drill" national energy program to the 37 other governors who attended the meeting that ended Wednesday.

But the 47-year-old governor of Louisiana was not to be rattled. He said: "We fought as men. Now I hope we will make peace as brothers."

A half-hour earlier, however, it had been embroiled in debate over the energy issue. Edwards himself had predicted there would be rioting in the streets if his recommendations were spurned.

What Edwards wanted was a resolution from the governors calling for an end to all controls on the prices of natural gas and oil, immediate exploration and use of petroleum reserves in

Joint US-Soviet flight efforts match schedule

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Preparations for the launch next month of an Apollo spacecraft carrying three astronauts to an historic linkup in space with a Russian-manned Soyuz are right on schedule.

Officials said they would hold a daylong "flight readiness review" meeting today, bringing together the team leaders for all phases of the mission.

Each will be asked: "Are you ready?" Any negative responses or problems that show up will be discussed in the lengthy talk sessions which will link the Cape with all the other supporting bases worldwide.

Neither the three astronauts scheduled to make the flight — mission commander Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. "Deke" Slayton — nor the three-man backup crew were expected to attend the review meeting.

The Apollo is scheduled for launch at 3:50 p.m. July 15, about seven hours after the Russians launch their Soyuz spacecraft from the Soviet Union with cosmonauts Aleksei Leonov and Valeri Kubasov aboard.

Two days later, the Apollo and Soyuz are scheduled to link in space after which the two crews will conduct joint experiments.

So far, officials have reported the Apollo and Soyuz craft and their launch rockets have passed preliminary testing, including simulated launchings.

No problems have been reported.

Preparations for the mission have included inspection tours of each other's facilities by both the U.S. astronauts and the Soviet cosmonauts.

Nimbus in orbit

LOMPOC, Calif. (UPI) — Nimbus F, the most sophisticated weather satellite ever developed, was launched into a polar orbit today that will take it over every place on earth at least twice a day.

The $60 million satellite was orbiting 685.5 miles above the earth at its farthest point and 602.2 at its nearest, a NASA spokesman said, and everything was "looking very good."

The Nimbus F rode aloft atop a two-stage Delta rocket boosted by nine strap-on motors for extra thrust. It was fired from NASA's western launch complex at Vandenberg Air Force Base at 12:12 a.m. MDT.

CIA halts mail-check

NEW YORK (UPI) — Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar says he has been assured that the CIA has ended its practice of opening and reading mail to and from the Soviet Union.

At a news conference Wednesday, Bailar called such snooping "reprehensible."

A commission headed by Vice President Rockefeller reported earlier this week that the CIA had carried out the practice between 1953 and 1972.

Cancer hazard studied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A governmental panel said today there is "legitimate cause for serious concern" that gases from aerosol sprays are eating away at the earth's protective ozone layer, creating a possible cancer hazard.

Until the release of the gases stopped, it said, there could be thousands of additional cases of skin cancer around the world each year.

It recommended a ban on the use of fluorocarbon gases in aerosol spray products within three years — even if that means the aerosol products will disappear from the marketplace.

Fluorocarbons are the propellant gas for about 60 percent of all aerosol products sold in the United States. More than 80 percent of those are hair sprays, deodorants and other personal care products.

The report is the work of 14 government agencies organized into a task force last year. It also has raised the possibility that depletion of the ozone layer could allow harmful doses of ultraviolet radiation from the sun to reach the earth.

Ozone is a gas, a molecular cousin of oxygen, found in a layer 45 to 55 miles above the Earth's surface, and it filters the amount of ultraviolet sunlight reaching the ground.

The Natural Resources Defense Council, which had petitioned the government to ban aerosol sprays on the basis of warnings by scientists criticized the report as being too weak.

"The evidence they cite indicates that for every year's depletion we'll have an additional 100,000 extra cases of skin cancer in the United States every year," said Thomas Stoel, a lawyer for the group.

"We think that's just too big of a risk."

"We see no reason why the federal regulatory action should not be taken right away, with the possibility of aborting it if further studies turn up something different," he said.

The report recommended holding off on the start of government regulation until next spring, when a separate study by the National Academy of Sciences is complete.

State faces crisis

BOSTON (UPI) — With the state teetering on the verge of bankruptcy, Massachusetts' Senate is in a state of suspended animation while leaders try to round up votes to pass a $497 million deficiency budget.

The budget, and bonding authorization attached to it, were defeated early Wednesday when the Senate failed to muster the two-thirds vote required under the state constitution.

The $497 million is necessary to fund ballooning costs that outweighed costs in the state's general expense budget.

Citing a "deadly serious" financial situation, Senate President Kevin Harrington put lawmakers on an around-the-clock recess Wednesday night.

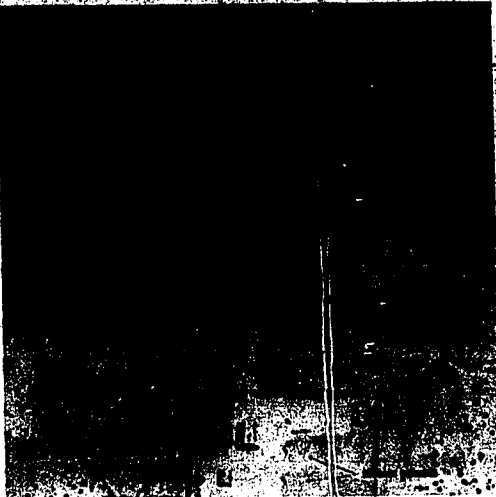

Harrington said he would reconvene the Senate whenever he feels there are enough votes for the budget-bonding bill.

Massachusetts' growing fiscal crisis postponed monthly allotments for about 21,000 welfare recipients Wednesday. Another 33,000 recipients of the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program will go without checks if the bill or a substitute is not passed by Friday.

Checks for 65,000 state employees and pension payments for 20,000 retirees will be jeopardized if the crisis lasts 30 days.

Nothing homes and hospital care for state Medicaid patients are not being paid and some have threatened to stop accepting patients on public assistance.

"It's a deadly serious situation," Harrington said. "I'm going to use every legal and parliamentary maneuver that is available to me."

THE RUSSIANS are building a combat base in Berbera, Somalia, and "most recently we have noted the presence of missiles at this facility," James Schlesinger, defense secretary, told the Senate Armed Services Committee Tuesday. This aerial photograph shows the missile handling and storage facility in Somalia. Wednesday the Somalia government denied they have such a missile facility. (UPI)

Demo gasoline tax bill defeated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A gasoline tax which Democrats had proposed for months as an alternative to President Ford's energy program is dead in the House — but its chief author thinks other provisions in the pending energy bill might still constitute a "viable program."

The tax was defeated in the House Wednesday night. It had been considered by Democrats a key part of the pending energy bill.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chief author of the legislation, said Wednesday night other provisions in the measure still could comprise "the centerpiece for an energy concept."

The House decided on a 209-187 vote to erase the tax from the energy bill, ignoring pleas from its leadership for the measure and listening instead to a four-term member from Arkansas who said people just aren't ready for a higher gasoline tax.

Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., made the motion to delete. He said "I cannot vote for a proposal that takes the money out of the hides of the rural people of this country."

He said they have no mass transit to fall back on when driving a car gets too expensive.

The gasoline tax had been a focal point of Democratic energy proposals since last winter when Ford outlined his own energy program. Ford's program is based on an oil tariff and other measures designed to raise the cost of all fuels made from oil.

Ullman had called the gasoline tax "an absolute necessity for an energy policy."

But he told reporters after the vote that the bill's other provisions — quotas on imported oil, taxes on business use of fuels, tax breaks for conservation, taxes on fuel-inefficient cars — can be "the centerpiece for an energy concept ... Even without the gasoline tax ... we have still got a viable program."

Job requires no work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government official who admits he does nothing but drink coffee and listen to Beethoven in his office has asked Congress to abolish his $19,693-a-year job.

Jubal Hale is executive secretary of the Federal Metal and Nonmetallic Mine Safety Board of Review, a government agency set up in 1971 to hear appeals on non-coal mine closures.

No such appeals have ever been made, and Hale acknowledges he has no work.

He told the Senate Government Operations Committee Wednesday that about $200,000 has been spent by the board so far, mostly on salaries, and the first case is yet to be heard.

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., author of a bill to abolish the board, called Hale's attitude "refreshing" and said he would be a good person for another government job.

NJ eyes state medical insurance

By United From International New Jersey may set up a state insurance agency to compete with steeply rising rates set by malpractice insurers in Virginia, the Virginia Hospital Association said Wednesday. In Virginia, hospitals and insurance companies in Virginia agreed an arbitration plan to keep medical malpractice cases out of court.

California legislative committees considering malpractice problems approved measures that would investigate the rate structures of malpractice insurers, and require them to prove their need for rate increases.

New Jersey Insurance Commissioner James Sheeran said the state should have a state malpractice agency bill drafted by mid-July. The Medical Society of New Jersey has voted a strike Dec. 1 — similar to recent protests in California and New York — if the state does not offer relief for the malpractice problem.

The state agency, which would be the first in the nation, is planned as a self-supporting, nonprofit venture in which any losses would be made up by participating physicians, Sheeran said.

"The state is not going to subsidize any losses," the commissioner said. "This is merely an attempt to set up a competitive and available market, something that private carriers have not been able to achieve."

In Richmond, Va., representatives of the Medical Society of Virginia, the Virginia Hospital Association and the St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Co. agreed Wednesday to study the use of arbitration boards — consisting of one lawyer, one doctor and one layman — to settle malpractice suits.

Willard Osburn, a spokesman for the medical society, said arbitration might keep malpractice cases out of court and reduce monetary awards in such cases. Patients entering a hospital would have to sign an agreement saying any malpractice claims would be settled by arbitration rather than court action, he said.

Osburn said, however, such an arbitration plan would be voluntary. Patients refusing to sign such an agreement would not be refused treatment, he said.

In Sacramento, Calif., a bill calling on medical malpractice insurance carriers to justify publicly their need for premium increases was approved by a Senate committee and sent on for further consideration. A Senate committee unanimously approved a resolution directing the state auditor general to investigate the "rate" structures of companies carrying malpractice insurance.

Conviction upheld by Idaho justices

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court affirmed Wednesday the conviction of Floyd Johnson on second degree arson and being a persistent violator. The court also found the trial court did not err by allowing two witnesses, qualified as experts, to testify as to their opinion as to the cause of the fire. Additionally, the court held the trial court did not err in refusing to instruct the jury that there is a presumption that a building is burned the fire was caused by natural causes. The court found that all evidence indicated that the origin of the fire was incendiary. The high court, however, ruled that "when a defendant is convicted in a criminal case, a subsequent judgment in favor of the same individual in a civil action cannot be used to impeach the prior conviction." The court also found the trial court did not err by allowing two witnesses, qualified as experts, to testify as to their opinion as to the cause of the fire. Additionally, the court held the trial court did not err in refusing to instruct the jury that there is a presumption that a building is burned the fire was caused by natural causes. The court found that all evidence indicated that the origin of the fire was incendiary.

Emergency number assigned Elmore

GLENNIS FERRY — Judy Hooley, Elmore County health nurse, says that the county is fortunate in having the emergency 911 to call in case of need. Elmore is the only county in Idaho set up for the use of this number. Idaho Falls is the only city in Idaho, so far to have this 911 number, which is the same all over the United States. In case of an accident, fire, crime, when an ambulance, the police, sheriff, or the fire department is needed, all one needs to do is dial the 911 for help. In some areas the pay phones are set up so that not even a coin is needed, to call for help. The health department has stickers to put on home phones with the magic 911 number. It is hoped to expand the program over the state and people are urged to publicize it by posters, billboard advertising, news, radio releases, and by money donations to pay for the stickers. It is hoped that in time all pay phones will be set up to receive this call without the use of coins.

He then did research work at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, before taking a post at Berkeley. He also studied at the University of Kyoto, Japan, and the Pasteur Institute, Paris. He was named to the National Academy of Sciences this year for his work in carbohydrate chemistry which led to a new knowledge of sugar, alcohol and fat synthesis in genetics.

Drive slated for Filer family

FILER — A drive to raise funds, clothing, food, furniture and other necessities for a family burned out Sunday has been started in Filer. The drive to aid Mr. and Mrs. Rod Berry Jr., whose home south of Berger burned to the ground Sunday, will be spearheaded by the congregation of the Peace Lutheran Church. The family needs clothing, bedding, cooking utensils, canned food and staples, some furniture and also cash donations. Donations may be brought to the Lutheran Church in the mornings, or may be delivered at other times by contacting Rev. R.C. Mully, pastor. The Berry family plans to continue living on the Berger property where the house burned down, eventually bringing in a trailer house. Articles of furniture will be picked up by Harvey Maxson, Virgil Anderson or Ernest Thate.

POCATELLO — Construction will begin this summer on an air pollution control system to reduce sulfur dioxide emissions at the J. R. Simplot Co.'s chemical fertilizer plant here. The new system, called an Ammax Scrubber, will cost over $3 million.

Ranch dam develops huge hole

MALAD CITY, Idaho (UPI) — A hole 85 feet in width and depth has developed in an earthen dam on a ranch 40 miles from the epicenter of the March 27 earthquake that shook the Idaho-Utah border area. The reservoir had held water year-round since the 60-foot high dam was built and filled in 1945. Buehler said he noticed early in May during an aerial inspection of the area that there was no water in the reservoir. Roads were excavated and inspections from the ground later turned up the cavern. A crack forming a rough arc on the southeast side of the cavern measures one to six feet wide and six feet deep. Water from the small creek that fed the reservoir now flows into the cavern and disappears into the rocks. Dr. Kenneth Cook, an earthquake scientist from the University of Utah, said the quake could have caused a rift to seep into a soft area, resulting in the drop. Several smaller drops have occurred in the southeastern Idaho-northern Utah section, he said. Examinations of the cavern showed that the reservoir had been filled and started to flow over the dam, causing a small wash in the face of the dam but not damaging it. Boise developer files suit against Blaine aides

HAILEY — Boise developer Burt Ballantyne has filed a lawsuit against Blaine County commissioners for $250,000 for turning down his rezoning request on 1,325 acres of land south of Bellevue.

Ballantyne wants to develop 1,790 acres of land in the Bellevue Triangle about two miles south of Bellevue and east of Highway 93. He also wants to develop 385 acres along Big Wood River west of the highway.

develop only on 365 acres if the zoning was changed.

On May 27 the county commissioners confirmed the decision of the planning commission not to grant the rezoning. The commissioners said there was an ongoing Silver Creek aquifer study, the development would remove 500 acres from agricultural production, the request would increase the density severely and the land is agricultural and should be preserved.

The Ballantyne suit contends that classification of the plaintiff's land as A-1 was a mistake in zoning, that the land is not productive agriculturally and it has a high degree of recreational potential.

The suit asks the court to declare the refusal to rezone as an arbitrary action which constitutes the taking of Ballantyne's property without due process of law.

In addition the suit asks for $250,000 for the taking of the plaintiff's property.

Fish run efforts supported by man

SALMON — Bud Hurley, a custodial employee for the Salmon School District, wants future generations to be able to fish for salmon and steelhead in Idaho.

He feels so deeply about the matter that he launched a one-man campaign to support efforts to save the anadromous fish runs.

Hurley has taken petitions into other parts of Idaho, Montana, Wyoming and Utah and by June 15 hopes to have four thousand signers. He said he had hoped to have more but his limited income prevented him traveling to pick up petitions and some were lost.

He will mail them to Wayne Kidwell, Idaho attorney general, for use in Idaho's efforts to obtain a voice in the Columbia River Fishery Compact of 1978.

The petitions, directed to salmon and steelhead fishermen, say the signers back the following:

1. The right whereas if any agency has the right to take fish, then so shall all other agencies have the same right.
2. Under any circumstances enough fish shall be permitted to return to their spawning grounds and spawn to insure a future run.
3. Idaho's lawsuit to enable it to join into the Columbia River Compact.
4. The asking of Congress for financial backing to work on dams, to insure fish passage.
5. A law limit effect to ban modern-day gill netting on the Columbia River by the Indian fishery and limit their fishing whereas they shall fish like the sports fisherman with line and hook.

One of the saddest things is the signers of this petition have to be 18 or older so this petition is for the kids who aren't old enough to have a say," he comments.

Hurley says he feels the reason Idaho doesn't have any fish and its season is closed is because of the Columbia River commercial fishing, the Indian gill netting and the power dams.

"For years Idaho has been getting the short end of the stick on fishing," he said. "And if something isn't done within the next two to three years Idaho will never have another salmon or steelhead come into the state."

Hurley noted Idaho has missed out on two runs of steelhead and is now missing out on fishing on a run of salmon.

"Still, the Indians down below with their gill nets can take out these fish and sell commercially. We are deprived of the right to fish with our rods and lines," he said.

Hurley said that the closure of the seasons in Idaho is having a terrific impact on the economy, particularly of communities such as Salmon.

He pointed to the fish counts at the various dams on the Columbia and Snake River to indicate the loss of fish.

Hurley said that since he began his personal campaign a year ago to drum up support for maintaining the anadromous fish runs in Idaho he has had considerable expression of assistance from sportsmen's groups and public officials.

Chuck Voss, Western regional director of Trout Unlimited, at Woodland, Wash., advised Hurley that "we are convinced that unless our friends in Idaho mount an all-out campaign to protect their anadromous runs, all will be lost."

The Northwest Steelheaders Council of Trout Unlimited has entered into the suit filed by Idaho to allow Idaho into the Columbia River Fishery Compact.

Kidwell advised Hurley: "I am sure that this would be of help to us in this case as a show of widespread public support."

Gov. Cecil Andrus told Hurley that he felt it a "poor practice for the U.S. Department of the Interior to entice the Indian tribes into such a risky commercial venture. The Indian commercial fishing situation on the Columbia River concerns me very much."

Hurley estimated he has written some 400 different organizations, conservation groups, sportsmen's organizations, public officials, including Congressmen, and fishery agencies asking for help. He said he has solicited support from governors, judges and outdoor magazines.

"I think fishing would improve greatly if Idaho had a say in the management. Congress is going to have to go over these treaties with the Indians again and update them," Hurley said.

"The Indian fishing treaty was signed in 1850; surely they had no modern-day gill nets, no power boats to take the salmon then as they do today."

"The politicians are too scared to intervene on these Indians in the slightest," he said. "They can't afford to have another Wounded Knee."

Hurley noted that most of his support on his petitions has come from Montana, the Idaho Falls and Pocatello areas and Northern Utah.

"Although there has been considerable support in the Salmon area too many people here simply shrug their shoulders and say too bad that we are losing our fishing but then do nothing about it."

Crank phones lose

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev. (UPI) — The era of the crank telephone ends in this "world's liveliest ghost town" Saturday.

The old system, in use here since the heyday of the Comstock Lode, will be replaced to a dial system.

Nevada Bell had sought for many years to make the change, but residents objected. However, they eventually lost their case with state officials.

Girls await fire reports

STACIE Churchman, left, and Brian Ward, Bureau of Land Management workers, prepare fire-fighting equipment for the coming fire season. They are employed in Shoshone and will return to college this fall.

Fire fighters prepare for long hot summer

SHOSHONE There were 12 fire control employees at work in the Shoshone District, Bureau of Land Management this week, according to Andy Payne, assistant fire control officer.

A full crew of 55 members will be on the job by June 23, he said. Most crew members are college students, including two girls, Patricia Searns, who will be last summer, and new worker Tracie Churchman both Shoshone.

To date only one fire has been reported within the district. It was located in Blaine County and since it burned into a snow pack it has been given the name "The Snow Fire." This fire occurred prior to the last snow storm in May.

The grass is quite green but with a lush growth this spring due to moisture, the actual fire season may be heavy as the grass dries out.

The Shoshone district covers some 20 million acres of range land from King Hill to the Craters of the Moon and from Sun Valley to the Snake river. To fight the fires the district has some impressive equipment. This includes five tankers that hold 2000 gallons each and one re-fill tanker that holds 1200 gallons, one splitter plane and 160 125 planes under contract from a Twin Falls firm.

"This year the trucks all have new refill pumps."

When a fire is reported, a dispatch center sends out what is called an initial attack crew. This includes a truck with the fire control technician who acts as the fire boss. With him will be two tankers, each manned with two men and a five-man stayed crew.

If the initial crew does not immediately suppress the fire, the refill tanker is sent out in support.

Until actual fires began, crew members are kept busy by doing general repair and upkeep work on equipment and grounds.

Gem school funding up to legislature

BOISE (UPI)—State Supreme Court Justice Allan G. Shepard said Wednesday funding for the education of Idaho school children should be left up to the legislature and not decided by the court.

"The decisions 'lie' outside the ambit of our constitutional authority and within that of the legislature," Shepard said in a "dissent" concurrence of a previous ruling by the high court upholding Idaho's present school funding procedure.

"I find no gross neglect on the part of the legislature in attempting to perform its constitutional duty in the field of education," the justice said.

The high court this spring overruled Fourth District Judge J. Ray Durtsch, who had held that the present method of funding Idaho education was unconstitutional.

In his special concurrence, Shepard said that possibly the legislature was "no better equipped to grapple with and solve" financing problems than the court.

However, he added, "they have been attempting over the years to better the system of education in this state.

"Perhaps it is those actions over the past years that we should examine as a basis for our determination if their attempts to better the financial system have been arbitrary, capricious, illogical and detrimental to the school children of Idaho."

Shepard noted that it was not too many years ago—the common school education system in Idaho was "in many respects substandard."

He said perhaps the "track record" of the legislature should be examined to determine whether or not "there has been entirely too much deliberation and not enough speed."

Since 1946-47, he said, school districts have been consolidated from a total of 1,082 to 115. Also, he added, in 1910 the state appropriated $228,558 for support of common schools while the 1975 legislature funded $118,046,500 as well as appropriated $12 million in state funds to various counties for deposition of the county school funds to reduce ad valorem taxes.

"In my opinion the actions of the legislature in recent years for financing education in Idaho have been taken with a view to the retention of the maximum amount of local autonomy and control, and an attempt to upgrade education in the state," Shepard said.

Shepard said it was within the "plenary power of the legislature, and the legislature alone, under the provisions of our constitution to restructure the system of financing education within the state of Idaho."

He said since neither the legislature or its officer were parties to the action, he failed to see how the decision by the lower court could be binding on them.

He also noted that it was not alleged or proven by plaintiffs in the original action that their children were denied any educational opportunity of that educational quality available to their children was any less than that of any other child in the state.

"Conspicuous in this regard is the lack of any such finding by the trial court," Shepard added.

Local view asked

PRESTON (UPI) — Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, Wednesday urged Idahoans to get politically involved and keep after their Congressmen and Senators to stop harebrained programs.

Hansen, in a radio interview, said, "You stand to have federal control of your lands, federal control of your guns, and federal control of voting regulations. Everything is going to happen from the federal level. State and local government is going to mean nothing if we don't get this thing turned off."

Dispatch plan out

SALMON — Members of the Salmon City Council have approved a recommendation by Mayor Don Vial that the city not participate in a central dispatch system with Lemhi County.

Quarters for such a system are being included in the new addition being constructed to the Lemhi County Courthouse.

The county had been planning for a combination dispatcher to serve both city police department and sheriff's office.

Mayor Vial in a letter to the council asked that the Lemhi County Commission be advised that "under the present conditions of the sheriff's department, the feeling of the City Council and the mayor, we do not wish to make a move at this time."

"We may consider this in the future if there is a change in the sheriff's department.

Lemhi museum open

SALMON — The Lemhi County Historical Museum on Main Street has been open since April 1 but tourist traffic is the slowest this spring in the memory of Mrs. Ross Corum, museum attendant.

The museum is open from 1 to 5 p.m. with the hours to be extended to the mornings in July and August.

The museum is being operated by members of the Lemhi County Historical Society with Richard Miller, president. Other attendants are Mrs. Ida Egge and Mrs. Eleanor Casey.

Mrs. Alice Hobbs, who retired as Lemhi County treasurer, has donated three brass measuring pieces to the museum. They consist of a two-quart, one peck and one gallon U.S. standard.

Also new at the museum is an old clock by the Salmon Post Office which had been in the postmaster's office.

Blaine gets OK, but costs soar

BY BART QUESNELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — The Environmental Protection Agency has given approval to Blaine County's waste water study but the cost of the study has soared above original estimates.

About three months ago the Idaho Health and Welfare Department (HAW) told Blaine County commissioners grant money was available to initiate a Wood River Valley study of all waste water in the county.

The commissioners, concerned with expanding treatment due to an influx of population, decided to interview private engineering firms to see if the study could be done.

The county commissioners were considering a $20,000 figure for the study with the EPA paying 75 per cent of the cost. HAW is per cent and the county paying the remaining 10 per cent.

Brown and Caldwell, Eugene, Ore., engineering firm, was given approval by the county to make a short investigation of county waste water facilities and submit a plan of action to EPA.

EPA approved the study plan of action suggested by the firm Monday. The firm now is preparing a cost analysis for the county. Jerry Troyan, project engineer, said the analysis would be ready in two weeks for review by the commissioners.

However, the original estimate was much lower than the Eugene firm's latest estimate for the study. Troyan said Tuesday the estimate is $55,000 with an expected study period of 6 months.

The commissioners will have to review the contract and if signed get approval from EPA and HAW before the study is started.

Harold Geren, director of the Idaho EPA office, said the study would evaluate the most cost effective method of controlling waste. That could mean the construction of a regional facility with a trunkline collector system throughout the Wood River Valley.

The Big Wood River, into which all effluent is dumped from the Ketchum-Sun Valley sewer plant and the Hailey plant, is rated A-2 by HAW. That is the highest rating of purity streams and rivers in the state can get.

In 1973 the anti-degradation act was passed, Geren said, which means Big Wood River must maintain its high rating. No further degradation from the levels in 1973 may be allowed, Geren said.

That means the county must anticipate future growth and prepare sewer systems that can handle the load. Troyan said this could mean updating of the present sewer systems, new methods of chemical disposal, diversion of water into pasture land or a central facility fed by a trunkline sewer system.

Both HAW and Geren said the two plants dumping into Big Wood River are close to the maximum levels of effluent allowed.

Before the county can apply for a plant facility grant the study has to be completed. Troyan said the go ahead by the EPA for the method of study is a good indication the EPA will fund the study once the commissioners decide to pay for it.

Kimberly lists new fire number

KIMBERLY — Residents in the Kimberly area have a new number to call in case of fire — 425-4611.

Bob Vawter, Kimberly city public works superintendent and assistant fire chief, said calling this number will ring phones in the homes of three volunteer firemen plus the city clerk's office.

Any fire east of the Twin Falls City limits is handled by Kimberly volunteers for the Twin Falls County Mutual Fire Co., Vawter said.

"We have the best bunch of volunteers of any volunteer fire department in the area," he said.

Lincoln officials set housing study

SHOSHONE — Lincoln County commissioners will investigate the proposed housing rehabilitation — winterization program before authorizing a study within the county.

This is a federal self-help program where low-income families may receive some aid and low interest funds to improve their homes.

An explanation of the program was given to the commissioners Monday afternoon by representatives of the federal government.

Permission was given an insurance representative to contact county employees out of working hours regarding a tax shelter type insurance.

Fines and fees received from the magistrate and district court the past month were

Commissioners turned the new bus over to the Senior Citizens and appropriated a fund of $500 to help with a maintenance and insurance program for it.

Accidents injure 2 TF bicyclists

TWIN FALLS — Two bicyclists were injured Tuesday evening in accidents in Twin Falls.

Kevin Lee Lang, 8, suffered injuries when his bicycle collided with an automobile driven by Loman A. Stigall, 60, at the corner of Heyburn Avenue and Blake Street North. The accident occurred at 7:45 p.m. The boy was held in good condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital today.

City police reported the Stigall vehicle was traveling west on Heyburn Avenue and the cyclist approached from the north on Blake Street. The driver of the vehicle told officers the boy failed to stop at the stop sign on Blake Street and rode into the path of the automobile.

Shortly after 8 p.m. Barbara Wolverton, 47, was treated for injuries after her bicycle and an automobile collided at Main Avenue West and Eighth Street West.

City police said Wolverton was riding on Main Avenue and was about in the center of the intersection when a car driven by Ernest Poulligon, 56, Twin Falls, attempted to turn left from Main Avenue onto Eighth Street West and struck the bicycle and rider.

Police cited Poulligon for driving while intoxicated. Mrs. Wolverton was taken to the hospital where she was treated for lacerations and bruises and released.

BLM plans inventory

SALMON, IDAHO (UPI) — An intensive timber inventory will be undertaken this summer by the Salmon District of the Bureau of Land Management, District Forester Gus Vitolins said today.

The inventory will include the Salmon, Idaho Falls, Burley and Shoshone districts with a scheduled completion date of Oct. 1.

Vitolins, who will be in charge of the survey, said purpose of the inventory is to provide the BLM with current timber stand data which will facilitate future timber resource planning, development and management.

The BLM has hired four graduate foresters and three forestry technicians to conduct the inventory.

State high school rodeo contestant, Robert Tyler, Rupert, wrestles 'un-bulldogable' calf

today in brief

190 compete at state HS rodeo

TF Girls' Stater elected
NANPA — Janet Burkhart, Twin Falls, was elected lieutenant governor of Snyrna Girls' State Wednesday. She was a candidate on the Federalist ticket.
Miss Burkhart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Burkhart, Twin Falls.

BURLEY — About 190 top rodeo performers, all of high school age, are competing in the State High School Rodeo championships here this week.
Opening event Wednesday night in the Cassia County Fair grounds arena attracted a moderate sized crowd, rodeo officials said, but as competition progresses attendance is scheduled to increase.
The final events will be held Saturday night with state champions in the various events named at the conclusion of the show.
Winners in the Idaho competition will also have an opportunity to participate Aug. 4 through 10 in the High School Nationals in Gallup, N.M.
All of the young cowboys and cowgirls are competing on professional rodeo stock and most are winners in district events held throughout the state earlier this spring.
Boys and girls are competing in various events, including cow cutting with eliminations being held Thursday morning at the fairgrounds. Other events include bareback and saddle bronc riding, calf roping, break-away roping, steer wrestling, pole bending, goal tying, bull riding and cutting events.
For the opening show Wednesday, a group of 30 tourists from Romania viewed the rodeo, for some their first experience at witnessing the traditional western United States summer-time sport.
State rodeo officials say daytime is being utilized for "black" events in which large numbers of competitors would make classes too large for the night-time shows. Elimination-type events cut these classes to give rodeo fans an opportunity to see the top performers without sitting through lengthy events.
Persons may attend the daytime competition without charge.

GF hearing set tonight
GLENN'S FERRY — A hearing will be held at 8 p.m. today at the Glenns Ferry High School on the 1975-76 budget for Joint School District No. 192, Elmore and Owyhee counties.

Indian water rights on agenda
BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Water Resource Board will take up the matter of Indian water rights at its meeting June 18 in Lewiston.
Chairman John F. Streiff, Lewiston, said today the agenda also would include an energy overview presentation by Bonneville Power Administration.
Other agenda items include discussion of the Indian Hills project, the revolving development fund loan program, review of the "Objectives" report and summary of the state water plan workshops.
Following the meeting, the board will participate in dedication ceremonies of Lower Granite Dam and the Port of Lewiston.

Parents protest closure of Paul country school

By DAVID BOCKMAN
Times-News writer

PAUL — "Chop down the budget" is the battle cry of a group of parents intent on saving a small country school near Paul.
Betty Fisk, president of the Pioneer School Teacher Association, says her group will attend tonight's Minidoka County school budget hearing to protest the threatened closure of the school.
School Supt. Darrell Hatfield has suggested the Pioneer school be closed and its 104 elementary students be absorbed into other schools in the district. Closing Pioneer would save money, but would not affect the quality of the children's education, Hatfield has said.
The money saved could be used in a new vocational program for teacher salary increases or for other new programs, he said.
But according to Fisk the school's closure is wrong. "we get very good education out here. Our goal is to keep our school open," she said.

Fisk objects to closing Pioneer in order to provide money for other programs. "They spend money like crazy and now they want to close our school," she said.
There are "just lots of ways" to cut budgets, according to Fisk. For instance she said recently the school board unnecessarily created a new athletic director's position. "That position could be eliminated and spending for some sports equipment could be reduced, he said.
Fisk supports vocational education but doesn't like the idea of closing Pioneer to expand the v-ed program, as suggested by Hatfield.
"They say they have to have the money for vocational education but surely they don't have to have the very best of everything," she said.
Although Doyle Lowder, assistant superintendent, said Wednesday the proposed budget does not include the closure of Pioneer, Fisk maintains an attempt will be made to close the school at tonight's hearing. If so, Fisk said the PTA will call for a special election to put the Pioneer closure issue before the people.

Cut back studied
BOISE (UPI) — Officials of the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare are thinking of deemphasizing training programs for one year in an economy move.
The Department's Management Council recommended the cut back in the programs, according to James C. Wilson, council chairman and administrator of the agency's Welfare Division.

McClure favors Hathaway
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Jim Mc Clure, R-Idaho, spoke in favor of the Senate confirmation Thursday of Stan Hathaway as Secretary of Interior, saying it was a recognition of a balance needed for natural resource policies.
Mc Clure said the balance recognizes the need for careful use of natural resources but with a sensitive concern for the environment.
The vote in the senate was 60 to 3.

Jury rules on Boise case
BOISE (UPI) — A Fourth District Court Jury at Boise has found Jerry L. Hobson of possession of amphetamine with intent to deliver.
The jury deliberated less than half an hour Wednesday before returning its conviction of Hobson, 34, who was arrested in January, 1972.
In court proceedings three years ago, Judge J. Ray Durtsch ruled the arrest was illegal and evidence gathered as a result of the arrest could not be admitted in the trial. His decision was overturned by the Idaho Supreme Court last year and the issue was remanded to district court for trial.

Outfitters concerned about laws
BOISE (UPI) — Proposed Forest Service regulations on hunting camps and boating operations have Idaho outfitters and guides using the primitive areas and the Salmon River and its Middle Fork (feeling for their livelihood).
At a meeting in Boise, representatives of the Idaho Outfitters and Guides Association expressed their concern with supervisors of the Bitterroot, Nezperce, Challis, Salmon and Payette forests.
Association President Norman Guth of Salmon said outfitters are concerned about requirements that hunting camps be removed at the end of each season in the primitive area if it is classified as wilderness.

Sugar City man, son named in suit
BOISE (UPI) — Charles Burnett of New Mexico has filed a $400,000 suit in Federal District Court in Boise against a Sugar City, Idaho, man and his son for injuries he suffered in an accident.
Burnett charges that he was helping Larry E. Hibbert move furniture when he was injured by a vehicle operated by Larry Allen Hibbert, who he claims was then unlicensed as a driver because of his age.
The suit contends that Burnett will require continued medical care.

Kidwell rules on lie detector test
BOISE (UPI) — Attorney General Wayne Kidwell has ruled that a lie detector test may be legally administered to applicants for the food manager's job at the Idaho State Penitentiary.
Kidwell said this particular job was described to him as supervisory and supervising of security and "as such it would fall under the law enforcement description."
Idaho law prohibits polygraph tests in job applications except in connection with law enforcement agencies.

Union chief re-elected

TWIN FALLS — AFL-CIO delegates voted here Wednesday to re-elect Robert Macfarlane, also, to another two-year term as president of the Idaho Division of the union.
He was elected at the end of the organization's three-day meeting Wednesday at the Blue Lakes Inn. Also elected were Ed Johnson, Lewiston, vice president, and Jim Kerns, Boise, secretary-treasurer.
Named to the executive board for two-year terms were Jim Eldridge, Sweet; Robert Devenen, Lewiston; George Gipson, Kellogg; Catherine Marcotte; Burley; Harold Charlton, Pocatello; and Dee Maynard, Idaho Falls.
Members passed several resolutions and will work for passage of Idaho laws concerning the m. Included are resolutions saying:

— Idaho should pay unemployment benefits to qualified workers unemployed for six weeks due to a strike.
— The work week should be shortened to 32 hours to make more jobs available.
— The retirement age to receive Social Security benefits should be lowered to 60.
— The Idaho Public Utilities Commission should speed up its decision on construction of Idaho Power Co.'s proposed coal-fired plant.
— Picketing should be allowed at construction sites.
— Federal money to local governments be used for public works projects.
Two resolutions backed by a coalition of building trades unions were not passed.

Minico hearing tonight

RUPERT — A hearing is set today on a Minidoka County School budget that is about 9.8 per cent more than last year's.
The hearing is set for 8 p.m. at East Minico Junior High.
Expenditures for 1975-76 are expected to be about $4,026 million. That's about $285,000 over last year. Most of the budget increase will go for higher teacher salaries.
The line item budget for instructional salaries is about $2.6 million, up $224,000 or 14 per cent from a year ago.
Last week the school board and the Minidoka

County Teacher's Association negotiated an 11.2 per cent pay hike.
Administrative salaries are down about $12,000 and instructional expenses are down about $22,700 from last year.
Doyle Lowder, assistant superintendent, said the instructional expense decrease represents a $2 cut per student. Principals at each school will decide how to apply the budget cut, he said.
Capital expenditures this year total $322,868 with most of the expense, $504,000, going for a new vocational education building approved by patrons in a 10-mill override levy May 20.

Oakley inflow nears peak

OAKLEY — Water behind the Oakley Dam may be near its peak today.
Water behind the 136-foot dam was within 2.5 feet of spilling over today, indicating the reservoir level has risen just less than a foot in the past two days. However, the creeks feeding into the 74,000-acre-foot reservoir show signs of going down.
For the past week the reservoir has been filling at the rate of about half foot per day. Water was pouring into the man-made lake from Goose and Tupper creeks at the rate of about 1,200 acre feet per day, twice the rate that water can be released.

Today, however, the inflow on the two creeks was measured at about 890 acre feet. While that is still more water coming in than going out, reservoir operators say it is an indication that creeks are going down and water behind the dam has probably reached its peak.
Rita Layton, reservoir company secretary, said today "I don't think it's going over now."
"There have been fears the water would top the emergency spillway and pour into the abandoned Goose Creek channel and canals below the dam. Any overall threatened to rupture canals and flood farms and homes built in the channel."

TFHS gets good marks

Charlton pointed out that many recommendations involved changes which required more money, and had long been suggested.
Mentioned several times in evaluations of different departments were the need for a high school auditorium, and for darkening curtains in classrooms to show films and slides. The report also suggested that art facilities be enlarged, two extra psychologists be hired, business equipment up-dated and expanded, funding for audio-visual materials be increased, a greenhouse and nursery area be added, tennis courts be constructed, and so on.
Charlton specified several building programs which the school had in mind, including the auditorium, expansion of art rooms and lab space and others.
The report also stated, "Another item which appears to be a strength of the school is the constant attempt to update and review the curriculum to give it breadth and flexibility."
Concerning curriculum the report stated, "Course offerings are extensive, recognizing the limitation imposed by the school's philosophy concerning curriculum."
Charlton said the evaluating team had seemed to feel the school's philosophy was conservative, but added he believed it was in line with the community's desires.

The report said curriculum areas cover college-preparatory, terminal and vocational educational areas, and praised the district for its "sincere effort" to meet the needs of the migrant population.
Staff members were generally commended as enthusiastic, professional, well-trained and dedicated, though the report said the administration could give more support for efforts in self-improvement.
Several times suggestions to coordinate programs throughout the district in one subject area were made, recommending meetings of elementary, junior and senior-high staff members.

Buhl orders tennis court

BUHL — The Buhl City Council has awarded a contract to Gordon Paving Co., Twin Falls, for construction of a standard double tennis court.
The new court is expected to be finished 45 days from the date of the awarding of the contract as a special council meeting Tuesday night, Mayor Ted Pence said today.
Richardson's, Twin Falls, was awarded a contract for the 10-foot-high chain-link fence to be built around the courts. Their bid was $3,535.68. The Gordon Paving Co. bid was $11,180.
The new court will be located on newly acquired city property at Fara Field. The project is a joint operation of the Buhl Recreation Association and the city, the mayor said.
There were several other bidders for both the construction of the courts and the fencing, but figures were not available today at the Buhl City Hall.
In other action at the council meeting, councilmen heard the first reading of an ordinance annexing property north of Sawtooth Blvd., where at least a dozen houses are being built.
No action was taken on a zoning change request from Tom Richmond because the city planning and zoning commission has not yet made a decision on the request, Pence said.
With the completion of the new tennis courts, the city will have two standard courts and a practice area. The other city-owned double-court is adjacent to the elementary school.

Kimberly school budget up

KIMBERLY — Kimberly's school budget for next year has increased by nearly 20 per cent, reflecting salary raises and higher operational expenses.
Supt. Clinton Buggs said about 10 persons attended the budget hearing Monday to question the figures but there was no opposition.
The new budget is $654,650 compared to $558,000 last year. Trustees have approved a $750 "across the board" raise for all teachers, putting the amount budgeted for salaries to $446,800 compared to $378,176 last year.
Other instructional costs will be $30,000 compared to $26,000 last year. Maintenance costs will be $23,000 for the 1975-76 fiscal year compared to $17,500 this past year.
Capital outlay increased by nearly 50 per cent because of funds needed to repair two leaky roofs. The amount budgeted under this item is $15,900, compared to $10,500 last year.
In other business at the monthly trustee meeting trustees took under advisement three bids for some blacktopping to be done on the school grounds.

Maine spuds off, Idahos unchanged; meats gain

Courtesy Sinclair & Co., CHICAGO—Maine potatoes were down, meats were up. Those were two of the trends in commodity futures trading Wednesday, which also saw declines in sugar and wheat.

Idaho russet potato futures closed unchanged at 7.50 per hundredweight on May 1976 delivery.

The Maine potato market closed 1/4 to 1/2 points lower after spending most of the day on the defensive from profit taking pressure.

There was support in the 8:30-9:00 area basis May, but that support faded late in the day. Demand still exceeds supply in the cash markets.

Commodity News Service said live cattle futures with June hitting $2.92 and closing off the highs but well under cash highs of 54.00-54.50 in Omaha and Sioux City.

Most active August registered a 50 cent gain with June up 57 cents and October almost unchanged. Reduced receipts and light deliveries bolstered the market.

Estimates for the cattle on feed survey indicate an increase in placements of up to 30 percent.

Feeder cattle futures were higher in moderate trading. Pork bellies futures set seasonal highs in all but July contract, which hit limit up late in the day.

July and August closed 132 and 125 points higher—but the back months failed to find that support, closing 50 to 67 points higher.

After trading lower and in narrow range most of the day, live hog futures strengthened late in the day and closed near the highs.

Final prices which showed June up 25 cents, July up 45 and December up 15 cents.

Heavier receipts and lower cash prices accounted for the early weakness. New contracts highs were reached in the three lead months plus distant February.

Reports of additional moisture delays in the cutting areas plus forecasts for clearing conditions to allow harvest to resume, plus the crop estimate were the major factors in wheat futures trading.

As a result, futures wound up the day down 1 to 3/4 cents. Japan bought four cargoes of U.S. wheat.

Chicago cash quotes set hard winter up a cent at 3 under July and soft red down 5 1/2 under.

July-September and July-December were active spreads in the corn pit, where trading advanced.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market, looking for definitive signs of the economy's recovery, opened lower Thursday in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 0.39 to 824.16 shortly after the opening. Declines led advances, 164 to 145, among the 507 issues crossing the tape.

Analysts said there has been disturbed institutional investors buy lately, but there has been no overwhelming selling pressure. "The market is continuing to consolidate its gains of the first four months," one analyst said.

Investors have been disturbed the ministers will Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries have at their meeting in Libreville, Gabon, to raise oil prices when an oil price freeze expires Oct. 1 and peg new prices when the agreement of the International Monetary Fund instead of the dollar.

The market has been supported by a decline in interest rates and by news the Treasury Department's next borrowing requirements will be $1.5 billion less than anticipated.

Record winter wheat crop at 1.62 billion bushels

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department Tuesday estimated the 1975 winter wheat crop at a record 1.62 billion bushels, virtually unchanged from last month's estimate and 16 per cent above last year's record.

The new forecast, based on June 1 conditions with the harvest already underway in Texas and Oklahoma, is 1 million bushels below the May estimate of 1.62 billion bushels. It is 227 million bushels above last year's 1.39 billion bushels.

In Kansas, the nation's leading wheat state, production was estimated at 377 million bushels compared with 319 million bushels last year. The new estimate was down 11.8 million bushels from a May forecast.

This year's looming bumper crop had been sought by administration officials to help reduce food inflation, rebuild shrunken reserves and ease fears of shortfalls abroad.

A weekly crop weather report by the Agriculture Department, meanwhile, said today that virtually all of the 1975 crop has now been planted, well ahead of normal in most areas. It added that the crop is off to a good start in many key states although about 10 per cent of the Iowa crop needs replanting because of insects and dry soil.

Soybean planting is also well ahead of normal, the report said.

The implication of the PFA survey is that the 1975 crop will form the nation's leading livestock feed grain, coming well above the record 4 billion bushels indicated by earlier government projections.

This would provide ample supplies for increased shipments to the Soviet Union and other foreign buyers, as well as pointing the way toward lower U.S. livestock feed prices and eventually increased production of meat, livestock and poultry.

Agriculture Department economists have predicted that if farmers get big crops this year, average retail food prices will increase only modestly in the spring and summer and may turn down near the end of the year. The all-1975 food price average then might be only 6.8 per cent above 1974 compared with 14.5 per cent increases in the last two years.

If poor weather scales down the 1975 harvests, however, average retail food prices could be up 8-10 per cent this year with further sharp gains next year.

The June crop report said nothing about 1973 spring wheat production which will not be formally reported until July.

ventative projections, however, have put the potential spring crop at about 525 million bushels. A harvest of that size added to today's winter wheat estimate would produce a total all-wheat crop of 2.14 billion bushels compared with last year's record of 1.793 billion bushels.

A crop of over 2 billion bushels would be enough to meet all currently forecast domestic and export needs with enough left over to drop to general hundred-million bushels to reserve stocks.

Prospects for 1975 record wheat crop this year already have pushed wheat prices down from $4.85 a bushel last October to $3.47 in May. With prices for other crops also down — although livestock prices have surged in recent months — economists now predict net farm income will come down from $27 billion last year to about $20 billion this year.

Tuesday's report estimated that 50,525,000 acres of winter wheat will be harvested compared with 47,117,000 acres last year. It estimated 32 bushels would be harvested per acre this year compared with 32.1 bushels forecast in May and 29.5 bushels per acre harvested last year.

Pasture conditions June 1 were estimated at 86 per cent of normal compared with 84 per cent last year.

The Crop Reporting Board also estimated spring potato production at 17,622,000 hundredweight compared with a May estimate of 18,021,000 hundredweight and last year's crop of 24,297,000 hundredweight. The board estimated 1975 peach production at 2,845 billion pounds compared with 2,881 billion pounds last year.

Gem cool front loses its punch

Twin Falls, Northdale, Burley-Rupert area: Fair and warm through Friday. Lows tonight near 50. Highs Friday 82 to 85. Probability of precipitation, less than 10 per cent.

Halley, Camas Prairie, lower Wood River Valley: Fair and warm through Friday. Lows tonight near 40. Highs Friday near 80. Probability of precipitation, less than 10 per cent.

Synopsis: Wednesday's cool front was so weak it even failed to produce gusty winds and its cooling effect has been wiped out. This leaves Magic Valley with prospects for warm sunny weather through the weekend.

Shower activity, if any, should be confined to the South Hills and to eastern Idaho. The first cutting of hay has a better than usual chance of curing, without getting wet. Crops will continue to make rapid growth and irrigation requirements will increase. Winds will be a little strong for good spraying and dusting during the afternoon hours, but the evenings and morning hours should be favorable.

This warming into the weekend will accelerate the remaining snow melt so that weekend campers and fishermen are likely to find high country streams muddy and high.

Bumper crop may bring renewed US export move

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration officials will step up efforts to increase farm exports if farmers harvest record, price-depressing crops this fall as expected, an outgoing Agriculture Department policymaker says.

The big grain crops currently predicted if weather continues favorable "could" produce a serious farm price and income problem in late 1975 and 1976 if the government does not take new steps, Assistant Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yutler said in an interview Tuesday as he prepared to leave his post.

But Yutler, who has been named deputy Special Trade Representative on the White House staff, said he expected Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz to protect farm prices by aggressive moves aimed at increasing overseas sales.

Among other steps, Yutler said, the administration can expand aid shipments under the Food for Peace Program. Also, he noted, it can try to promote commercial sales by expanding a program of three-year, commercial-rate credits offered to foreign buyers by the Agriculture Department.

The administration is not, however, likely to move back to the export subsidy programs it operated on some major farm crops until 1972, Yutler said. He said this would run counter to government efforts to reduce or eliminate the use of export subsidies by other countries.

Yutler, a 44-year-old Nebraska farmer, lawyer and economist, came to the Agriculture

Beef price rise seen continuing

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — If you are among those weekly shoppers for round steak at your supermarket wondering when prices for beef will come down, forget it. It won't be anytime soon.

So warns Charles E. Ball, executive vice president of the Amarillo-based Texas Cattle Feeders Association. He says increased beef prices are here to stay — at least for a while.

"There isn't a shortage of beef," Ball told United Press International. "There is a shortage of choice fed beef, the kind to which consumers have become accustomed and prefer."

Ball says it's the old story of supply and demand. At present there is a large demand for fed beef and a short supply, and therefore the price per pound is high. He also predicts it will be some time before the supply will catch up with the demand.

"Cattle feeders have lost money for 20 consecutive months, dating back to September of 1973 when the government price freeze was lifted," he says. "This has caused many feeders to go out of the business, and most others to reduce numbers."

"While the current price is good, it takes months of money-making prices for feeders to get back into the business and have grain and corn fed beef ready for slaughter," Ball said.

Last year members of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association fed 3.8 million head of cattle. Average retail prices for fed beef in Chicago, a benchmark market, is currently $1.52 per pound. Ball said that compared with $1.38 a month ago and $1.34 a year ago.

"Prices will not come down in the next few months because the supply of fed cattle will remain short," he said.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reported a 4-million head on feed April 1. That is 31 per cent fewer than a year ago.

Ball said the immediate future doesn't look much better for the beef-buying household.

"The number of cattle placed on feed during the first quarter of 1975 was down 19 per cent from the same period a year ago," he said. "If cattle aren't placed on feed, they won't come off for slaughter six months later — and that's just about how long it takes to get one ready."

Outlook better

CHEYENNE (UPI) — The Wyoming Crop and Livestock Reporting Service Tuesday said it expects a bumper crop growth and boosted prospects for the winter wheat crop.

Nearly all the small grain crops have been planted. Moisture last week, combined with warm weather has improved prospects for winter wheat in nearly all areas of the state.

Most of the state has adequate topsoil and subsoil moisture. Topsoil moisture in the southeast was still short and winter wheat was affected there.

Fruit crops may show drop

SEATTLE (UPI) — Production in winter wheat, Bartlett pears, peaches and apricots is up this year, but production of sweet cherries is down, the Washington Crop and Livestock Reporting Service announced Monday.

Winter wheat production in Washington State is expected to total 118.7 million bushels, nearly 10 per cent above last year's crop of 109.1 million bushels.

The service attributed the increase to good growing conditions in the latter part of May.

"Yields are expected to average 45.0 per acre, compared with 41.0 last year and 35.0 two years ago," the report said.

Nationally, production was expected to reach 1.8 billion bushels, a 16 per cent increase over last year's crop.

But sweet cherry production was estimated at 40,000 tons, 5,000 tons below last year and 5,000 tons below 1973. Cherry production in California and Oregon was up.

Production of Bartlett pears was forecast at 136,000 tons, 8 per cent above last year and 9 per cent above 1973. Peach production was expected to reach 20,000 tons, about last year's crop of 19,000 tons but below the 21,500 ton crop of 1973.

Apricots production will be 2,500 tons, well above the 2,000 ton production of the 1974 crop but below the 3,200 tons produced in 1973.

Soviets offer bonuses to spur harvest efforts

Bull on prwl

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union said today the crucial year when harvest is beginning and that farmers are being offered bumper bonuses to work harder and faster.

The Communist Party newspaper Pravda said the novel, capitalist-style incentive plan is being tried out in the Kuban region of the Caucasus to increase yields of winter wheat now entering the harvest season.

Grain holds a key place in the Soviet economy and the Khrushchev has tried a number of schemes to increase production with varying degrees of success.

The grain crop is not only important to the Soviets—a major crop disaster can force Moscow to increase imports, which can have a direct bearing on food prices in the United States.

The new incentive plan is aimed at cutting the amount of time winter wheat, which is planted before cold sets in during the fall, is spent waiting to be harvested.

The Soviets are offering combine workers a 100 per cent salary bonus if they harvest all their assigned work within eight days, 75 per cent bonuses for nine days and 50 per cent for 10 days.

By shortening harvesting time, the farmers hope to cut wastage and thus increase the yield from each acre. Soviet average yields are far behind those in the United States.

Pravda also disclosed that Soviet farmers are still suffering from the kind of bad planning that has afflicted previous harvests.

It said farmers in Kuban lack spare parts for farm machinery. In one case cited, it said the area needs 8,500 truck tires but has been given only 1,300, meaning that thousands of trucks are unusable.

The Soviets in the past have experimented with incentive plans offering goods such as bicycles and actual crops to reward increased productivity.

A report issued Monday said U.S. experts expect the Soviet grain crop to be about 200 million tons, about 16 million tons below the official Soviet estimate.

BENTON, Ill. (UPI)—“Blackie” prowls the night in this Southern Illinois community, but police are hot on his trail.

Blackie, a cantankerous 800-pound Black Angus bull, was sold Saturday. But when his new owners took a lunch break here, Blackie kicked out the tailgate of the truck in which he was being transported.

Sheriff's department radio operator Everett Lewis says Blackie apparently got into hitting by day and later in the previous night.

Blackie baited the side of a sheriff's deputy patrol car Saturday night after the officer caught up to him.

He was out again Sunday night, first retreating the right of way on South Main Street to a woman who wanted to drive on the curb to get around the escaped bull.

Egg industry assails medics, FTC over heart attack claims

Time to spray

TWIN FALLS—Now is a good time to spray apple, pear and other fruit trees, Donald Youns, county extension agent said today.

Youns, who is the Kuban region of the Caucasus to increase yields of winter wheat now entering the harvest season.

Grain holds a key place in the Soviet economy and the Khrushchev has tried a number of schemes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An egg industry group Tuesday accused the American Heart Association and “power commercial interests” of duping the American people into believing eggs cause heart attacks.

The National Commission on Egg Nutrition further claimed that the Federal Trade Commission, which is holding hearings on advertisements by the trade group, tried to prevent it from holding the press conference at which it made the charges.

The commission made the allegations at a breakfast for reporters which featured silver tureens of scrambled eggs, bacon, pork sausage and bowls of leed butter—all elements in the continuing controversy over the American diet.

Last year the FTC filed a complaint against the egg group designed to force it to stop running ads, which appeared in the New York Times, the Wall Street Journal and elsewhere. The commission charged that the NCEAN ads misrepresented the role of eggs and cholesterol in the development of heart disease.

Hendrik Wentink, NCEAN chairman, told the briefing FTC lawyers currently prosecuting the case before an administrative law judge tried Monday to get the judge to order the press briefing scrapped on grounds it might prejudice the hearing. He said the judge declined to do so.

“NCEAN believes that the American people have been duped by powerful commercial interests and the American Heart Association into believing that the cause of coronary heart disease is known and that the elimination of meat, milk and eggs from the diet will prevent the disease and thereby add years to Americans' life expectancy,” he said.

Asked who the commercial interests were, he singled out the “polyunsaturated fat people” and “the manufacturers of Egg Beaters, and other egg substitutes.”

Asked who was suggesting that meat, milk and eggs be eliminated altogether, Wentink was specific, citing only the “propaganda campaigns” concerning the “alleged world food shortage” and a pamphlet which he said had been put out by Sen. George S. McGovern's nutrition committee.

Weather helping Idaho's farmers

BOISE (UPI)—The weather is finally cooperating with Idaho farmers.

The Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today the favorable weather conditions across most areas of Idaho have allowed near completion of planting operations in all but the eastern part of the state.

Also, the service said, spring crops are making rapid progress with the warmer temperatures.

The agency said the spring work continued at a “leisurely rate” in all areas during the first week in June as crop planting and conditions approached normal for this time of the year.

Planting of spring crops in eastern Idaho has been delayed by wet, snow-covered fields. However, the service said, as drying conditions prevail the area is rapidly being planted.

The service also reported some frost damage to apple trees in the southwest and southeastern Idaho while freezing temperatures set other spring crops back. In addition, the service said,

Antitrust action cites Idaho dairy

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Dairymen Associates Inc. of Salt Lake City has filed a $22.5 million antitrust suit against four other dairies—three in Utah and one in Idaho.

The Salt Lake City firm, which does business as Heber Valley Milk Co., brought the federal court action against Western General Dairies Inc., General Dairies Inc., Federal Dairy Farms Inc., and Utah and Idaho Dairies.

The suit charges the defendants with agreeing to divide customers and territories among themselves, with fixing and maintaining prices on milk purchased, and with buying or attempting to buy competing dairies.

Heber Valley said the four firms have “combined and conspired” to destroy it in its business.

The suit said many independent dairies have been forced out of business, competition has been eliminated among the defendants, and the plaintiff has been prevented from seeking new business.

Senate panel OK's ammonia program

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Senate subcommittee Tuesday authorized $5.1 million for a program to produce low-cost ammonia from water for use in the manufacture of fertilizer.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said an ocean plant ship could produce 1,350 tons of liquid ammonia per day or 475,000 tons per year, at a cost delivered to ports in the United States of $44.60 per ton. That is one-third the price at domestic plants today.

He said the power to produce the liquid-ammonia would be generated at sea in a process known as Ocean Thermal Energy Conversion. The process uses the temperature difference between the warm surface water and cold water at greater depths to operate a heat engine.

Electricity from the heat engine is used to produce hydrogen and oxygen from fresh water. Part of the hydrogen is then burned to form nitrogen. The remaining hydrogen is combined with the nitrogen to produce ammonia.

Wins trap job

BATTLE MOUNTAIN, Nev. (UPI)—Thomas Warr of Las Vegas is the apparent winner of a contract to trap more than 400 wild horses in Stone Cabin Valley near Tonopah, the Bureau of Land Management said today.

District Manager Gene Nodine said a contract will be awarded in the next 10 days if Warr submits performance bonds. Warr bid $26.50 per head, or a total of $10,600 for the job.

Nodine said the animals, which have become so numerous they are depleting the range, will be trapped at water holes and offered to persons wanting to provide foster homes.

TF dairy testing reported

TWIN FALLS—There were 27 herds with 1,650 cows on production testing during April in Twin Falls County through the Dairy Herd Improvement Association program.

Testing associates, Ite and Linda Smith, Kimberly, said of the total, 1,674 cows were in production and 87 dry.

The top herd for the month on a basis of butterfat production was that of Dale Williams, Piler, with 94 cows in production and 24 dry.

Other herds in the order of cows in production, total herd, milk produced and butterfat production per cwt were:

Normal crop seen

B-O-I-S-E-(U-P-I)—Agricultural officials feel with any favorable break in the weather Idaho should have a normal crop even though harvest will be later than usual because of plantings delayed by Mother Nature.

In fact, Jerry H. Williams, administrator of markets for the Idaho Department of Agriculture, said Monday the localized hail damage to some crops occurred in the southwest and southern parts of Idaho.

Potatoes were virtually planted as of June 6 in all areas except the seed producing localities in higher elevations of eastern Idaho. Spring wheat, corn, oats and spring barley were 90 per cent planted by last weekend, compared with 100 per cent for the same week a year earlier. The service said winter wheat and dry beans also were well behind a year ago.

The service said that pasture and range grasses were in good to excellent condition in most areas of the state, although forage growth continues to be behind normal for this time of year.

“Pasture forage is sharply retarded in localized areas of the extreme northern and eastern parts of the state,” the service said.

It reported that livestock in general are in “excellent condition” except for localized reports of parasitic health problems in eastern Idaho.

AAU suspends moratorium running rule

Giants swap Goodson

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants announced Wednesday they had traded utility infielder Ed Goodson to the Atlanta Braves in a straight deal for shortstop Craig Robinson.

Goodson had been with the Giants the past three seasons, playing first and third base but never held a regular job at those positions. He batted .302 in 1973 but was hitting only .207 this season.

Robinson was the Braves' regular shortstop last season after being acquired from the Philadelphia Phillies. He came down with a virus shortly before the start of the season and lost his job to Larvell Banks.

Walton forsakes A-frame

WESTLAWN, Ore. (UPI) — Center Bill Walton of the Portland Trail Blazers doesn't live here anymore.

Walton, who said he was bothered by sightseers, put his A-frame house up for sale for $99,500 earlier this year.

It now has been sold. Walton said earlier he planned to reside in the Portland area but his new address likely won't become as well known as did the house he had built here.

S.D. signs 'Big Hands'

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The San Diego Chargers' No. 1 draft choice, defensive lineman Gary "Big Hands" Johnson of Grambling, has signed a contract with the team, a spokesman said Wednesday.

Terms were not disclosed.

Johnson, 6 feet 2, 260 pounds, made 136 tackles, 49 of them behind the line of scrimmage, in 12 games last season.

"He's as quick off the ball as anyone in football, college or professional," Chargers coach Tommy Prothro said.

ABA faces two decisions

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Basketball Association is expected to adopt the 24-second clock and clarify the Memphis and San Diego franchise situations when it opens a two-day meeting Thursday.

A 30-second clock has been the rule since the league began operations in the late 1960's, but the league investigated the feasibility of using the 24-second procedure that is in effect in the NBA.

The situation with Memphis and San Diego hopefully will be resolved. The league is carrying the two franchises while new ownership is sought. A decision could be reached on keeping the ABA at 10 teams or move into the 1975-76 season with eight clubs.

Bills sign free agents

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The Buffalo Bills Wednesday announced the signing of Mark Johnson of Missouri, their 12th round choice in the 1975 college draft, and three free agents.

Johnson, a 6-4, 249-pound defensive end, led his school in tackles his junior and senior years. The Bills said he also can play linebacker.

The free agents signed were fullback John Lester, a 6-2, 215-pounder from Albany State; quarterback Bruce Shaw, 6-2, 195 pounds, of North Carolina State, who played with the Detroit Wheels of the World Football Association last year; and guard Joe Sullivan, a 6-4, 250-pounder from Boston College.

Riddick wins pair

LONDON (UPI) — American sprinter Steve Riddick scored the only double victory Wednesday night in an international track and field meet at Crystal Palace.

Riddick, nose-out Brittain's Dave Roberts to win the 100 meters in 10.5 seconds and came back half an hour later to take the 200 meters in 20.5.

The meet's main attraction, Tanzanian miler Filbert Bayi, who holds two world marks, failed to run because of illness. He was hospitalized in Stockholm with a virus infection.

Bengals peddle Chandler

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Bengals Wednesday traded reserve tight end Al Chandler to the San Francisco 49ers for a selection in next year's draft.

Chandler, 24, has played behind starter Bob Trumpy and Bruce Cost since joining the Bengals in 1973, when he was the club's second round draft choice from Oklahoma.

The 6-2, 228-pounder appeared in every game the past two seasons, primarily on special teams.

The Bengals now have three tight ends on the roster — Trumpy, Costel and rookie Jack Novak; a 12th round draft choice from Wisconsin.

Lions land five picks

DETROIT (UPI) — Five draft choices, including fourth-round pick tackle Craig Herwig of Georgia, have returned signed contracts to the Detroit Lions of the National Football League.

Herwig is a 6-foot-8, 250-pound offensive tackle. Also signing were seventh-round choice Mike Murphy, a wide receiver from Drake, center-guard Steve Myers of Ohio State, linebacker Andre Roundtree of Iowa State and guard Mack Lancaster of Tulsa. They were the Lions' 11th, 12th and 17th-round choices.

Detroit has now signed 11 choices from the January draft.

Dodgers sign Lee

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Outfielder Leroy Lee, 27, was signed Wednesday by the Los Angeles Dodgers as a free agent, the Dodgers said.

At the same time, outfielder and pinch hitter Charlie Manuel was optioned to the Dodgers' Pacific Coast League club in New Mexico.

Lee played 13 games and batted .130 with the Cleveland Indians before he was released May 22. He previously played for the St. Louis Cardinals and the San Diego Padres.

S.C. stays undefeated

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — South Carolina came from behind Wednesday night and clipped Arizona State's Sun Devils, 6-3, to leave the Gamecocks the only undefeated team in the 29th annual NCAA College World Series.

The win for South Carolina was its 16th straight and for pitcher Earl Bass his 17th without a defeat this year.

Yale hires cage coach

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — Yale dipped into the coaching ranks at Ivy League rival Pennsylvania Wednesday to select its 19th head basketball coach, Ray Catano, 33, an assistant coach at Penn for the past six years.

Catano, a former basketball and baseball player at Penn, explained both teams as a senior and graduated July 1964 with a bachelor's degree in chemistry.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Steve Prefontaine died prematurely 10 days before he had lived, "Pre" probably would have gone out and posted another American distance running record in celebration of Wednesday's announcement by the Amateur Athletic Union that it has suspended its controversial moratorium rule for the remainder of the year.

Prefontaine, America's premier distance runner who was killed in an automobile accident in the early hours of May 30 after running in a meet at Eugene, Ore., led the fight to have the moratorium suspended, or wiped entirely from the books.

Part of Prefontaine's wish was granted Wednesday when the AAU, by a unanimous vote, agreed to suspend the moratorium for the remainder of the season.

The controversial "rule" prohibited athletes competing anywhere 10 days before the national championships and five days prior to an international meet.

Prefontaine, an independent soul who did not wish the AAU to dictate where and when he competed, received support from Olympic marathon champion Frank Shorter, miler Marty Liquori, world record holders Dwight Stones and Al Feuerbach, and other outstanding athletes around the country.

Dr. Leroy Walker, chairman of the AAU's track and field committee and coach and next year's Olympic team, conducted a telephone poll Wednesday among the 15 committee members and they were unanimous in the decision to suspend that moratorium.

Dr. Walker, assistant to the Chancellor at North Carolina Central University in Durham, said: "We are primarily concerned with the total welfare of our athletes and recognize the points made by many athletes about their wishes to select their competition as they find it best suited to their careers and their aspirations.

"At the same time we hope our athletes will recognize and share our desire to make our national championship the most significant track meet in our country and that the teams selected to represent the United States in international competition be composed of the best athletes our country has."

The AAU's track and field committee, at its annual convention in December, will explore further the means of strengthening both national and international meets.

Veteran high hurdler Willie Davenport, the 1968 Olympic champion, who is a member of the 15-man board, expressed surprise when advised of the AAU's decision.

"I respect Leroy Walker and believe that whatever he did, he did because he felt it was the right thing to do, but he never spoke to me on the telephone," said Davenport who has just returned from the People's Republic of China where he was a member of the AAU team which competed in Canton, Shanghai and Peking.

An AAU spokesman confirmed Walker had been unable to reach all 15 members of the board, but said Walker had reached most of them and they had spoken with a unanimous voice.

Davenport, one of the members in favor of the moratorium, said: "I think we should take a second look at this thing. We had not set any date when the moratorium should become effective, but I'll go along with Dr. Walker for the moment."

Miller, Player use IVB as tuneup for U.S. open

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia IVB Golf Classic which opens here Thursday is just another stop on the lengthy pro golf tour but in addition to a nice $30,000 first place check it means "different strokes to different folks" in the field of 150.

To Johnny Miller and Gary Player, the 72-hole tournament at the Whittemarsh Valley Country Club in suburban Layayette Hill is a good tune-up for the U.S. Open which starts next week at the Medinah Country Club, Medinah, Ill.

To Hubert Green, the defending champion here who has been in a slump and has had a touch of the flu, it is a chance to get well, monetarily and physically.

And to Ray Floyd, who won his first tournament in six years last week at the Kemper Open, it is a chance to test his new "maturity" and keep winning.

Player, who tied for second place behind Floyd at the Kemper last week, said "competition is the best warmup for the Open. I'll play competitive golf as long as I can keep winning."

The South African star has appeared in eight other tournaments in the United States this year, also finishing runner-up in the Tournament of Champions in April but said second place "might as well be last. You've got to win."

Miller, winner of three tournaments early this year and second behind Jack Nicklaus in the money winning list with $12,530, said this was a good event "to tone up" for the Open.

"This is one of the best driving courses we play all year," Miller said. "The small greens are a challenge. This course has everything."

Green, who won here last year with a 17-under par 271, finished in third place in the 1974 money winnings with $211,709 but is ranked 3rd so far this season with $37,839.

"I'm not feeling well," said Green Wednesday. "I've had a touch of the flu but I'll feel very good this week if I play good golf. That can turn me on. What makes me feel great is when I shoot a few good rounds."

Floyd credits his new approach to his game to his wife, Maria, a native of 500th Philadelphia.

"She's the greatest thing that ever happened to me," said Floyd, who has yet to reach the promise he showed when he won the PGA in 1969, his last victory before the Kemper.

Floyd said after the Kemper that, "I've matured a lot since 1969. My wife and I had a little chat last year and I changed my mental attitude."

And he said Wednesday, "If you are going to rank the top contenders for this tournament, you'll have to place me up there after last week."

Such big names as Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer and Open champion Hale Irwin have passed up this tournament to get ready for next week's major event.

But eight of the 18 individual winners on the pro tour this year are here. In addition to Miller and Floyd, they are Tom Weiskopf, Bob Murphy, Gary Groh, J.C. Snead, Larry Ziegler and Rick Mastenigale.

ISU's Jones to run in all-champs meet

POCAHONTAS — Jerald Jones has become the first Idaho State runner in history to earn All-American rating both indoors and outdoors in the same season, and the opportunities for him to gain further honors continue to pile up.

Jones has been invited to participate in the U.S. Track and Field Federation All-Champions Meet in Berkeley, California on Saturday June 14th.

The Moreland, Idaho native placed sixth in a 12-man field in the NCAA mile finals last Saturday in Provo in a time of 4:05.34. Earlier he had placed second in his heat behind UTEP's pre-empt favorite Willie Waigwa. In March Jones had anchored ISU's two-mile relay team to third at the NCAA Indoor Meet to earn All-American honors for himself and teammates Bud Couture, Dick Laebke and Ed Spolarich.

ISU Coach Bob Beeten, noting that ISU had nine All-American athletes ever in terms of gaining national recognition, many top track schools won't even have one All-American and he had nine. Jerald became the first Bengal distance runner to place in the outdoor nationals and the first man in history here to be All-American indoors and out.

Jones came under the heading of selected other entries, having placed third among American milers at the NCAA Meet.

Beeten was almost moved by Jones' selection for the All-Champions. "It's one of the best meets ever put together, and it's a real honor for Jerald and Idaho State that he has been chosen to compete. Now Jerald is on the summer national track circuit. He needs to do a little more work to get on the international circuit, for some of the foreign touring teams."

Rose Bowl committee to register reaction

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The vote by the University of Michigan, carrying a motion for big ten teams to play in post-season games other than the Rose Bowl, was expected but the Tournament of Roses directors will not make their reaction known until a meeting later this week, a spokesman said Wednesday.

The contract signed by the Big Ten and the Pacific Eight conference with the Rose Bowl authorities in 1977 specifically provides that the member teams can not play in other bowl games — a means of guaranteeing both prestige and money for the Rose Bowl.

Walter Hoeflin, a spokesman for the Tournament of Roses, pointed out that if the arrangement is changed, Pac 8 teams also would be permitted to play in other bowl games.

"The vote at Michigan was expected," Hoeflin said. "We have been discussing this with the Big Ten since January and Don Canham, the athletic director at Michigan, was out here talking with us not long ago."

Up until 1971, the contract with the Big Ten provided that the conference would not send the same team twice in a row but the rules were changed and Ohio State has appeared in the Rose Bowl three times.

Hoeflin said he could not at this time give any indication whether the Tournament of Roses would oppose changing the contract to permit appearances in other bowl games.

Avatar won't run in special dream race

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Avatar's owner Arthur A. Seelgrass said Wednesday he is turning down a proposed $300,000 race against Kentucky Derby winner Foolish Pleasure and Preakness winner Master Derby because his advisers have told him his Belmont Stakes winner needs a rest.

The race was contingent upon all three colts participating. Seelgrass said he would be happy to schedule the run later in the year.

"I wanted to do it very bad," Seelgrass said of a $300,000 race proposed for June 29 by the New York Racing Association. "But I couldn't find an adviser who would go along with it. They all said it was crazy, a Mickey Mouse thing. Most horses can't live through the Triple Crown."

The owners and trainers of Foolish Pleasure and Master Derby were amenable to the race, which was to determine this year's champion 3-year-old colt.

Seelgrass said Avatar "has run considerably more than the other two horses. It's a grueling thing. They (advisers) just think it's crazy. It was a great idea, but it just wasn't proper for the horse."

"We told them we'd be delighted to do it in the fall," he said. "He's had an awfully tough campaign and he's already in California and it's just not on his schedule."

"It would be a terrible inconvenience. Hell, I just wanted to do it anyway. But the trainer (Tommy Doyle) was against it."

Avatar, who has raced 14 times this year, already has been flown to Hollywood Park in California where the $150,000 Swaps Stakes is scheduled for June 28. Seelgrass said it would be prohibitive to fly the thoroughbred back to the East Coast for the proposed race.

Seelgrass said he would be shocked if his trainer ran Avatar in the Swaps, unless the horse showed strength and the field was weak.

Mile will feature ITA's outdoor meet

BOSTON (UPI) — Ben Jipcho's fast and steady pace will be challenged by the famous Dave Wottle kick Friday night in the one-mile feature event of the International Track Association, to be held outdoors at Boston University's Nickerson Field.

Jipcho also will run in the two-mile race, a distance in which he holds the world record at 8:16.4.

Other entrants in the 14-event meet include shot putter Brian Oldfield and pole vaulter Steve Smith and Bob Seagrain.

Jim Ryan, former world record holder in the mile, will compete in the 800.

But the 6'08 between Jipcho, a 32-year-old Kenyan prison administrator, and Wottle, a 24-year-old Ohioan, rates as the main attraction. Jipcho, leading money winner on the track tour with $22,900, holds the pro record with a time of 3:56.3 indoors.

"Wottle is ready and he is favored for the mile here," said Jipcho Wednesday at a news conference. "His running very well but if my legs can handle a 58.58-58 seconds per quartile mile for a 5:23 total) Wottle can't handle that."

Jipcho will run the two-mile event first, then attempt the mile an hour and 40 minutes later.

"I'm getting a little tired now after running for six months on the tour," said Jipcho, "but I think I can last about four more months."

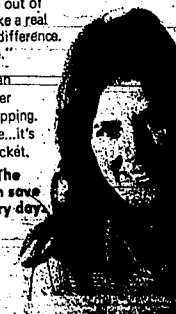

Smith, who holds the pro indoor pole vault record of 18 feet 2 1/2 inches, said he is feeling stronger as the pro tour continues.

Groza says Rozelle rule keeps balance

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Hall of Famer Lou "The Toe" Groza said Wednesday the National Football League's competitive balance and attendance would suffer if the Rozelle Rule were eliminated.

"If you didn't have the rule, the college draft wouldn't be any good," said the former Cleveland Browns kicking specialist. "Both the draft and Rozelle rule are designed to preserve competitive balance in the league. The rule maintains that balance."

Groza said abolition of the provision would result in a few teams having all the superior players.

"If there was no such rule, the wealthy owners could buy the good players as they need them," he said. "The result would be a few good teams and a lot of mediocre ones."

"Attendance would deteriorate because of lack of fan interest. You'd have no identity of the team in a community if a few teams could, in effect, hire the top players."

Groza, who retired in 1967 after 17 years with the Browns, testified at the Rozelle rule trial in U.S. District Court. The provision provides that a player's original club receive compensation when he fulfills his contract with them and signs with another team.

Also called as a defense witness was Chicago Bears General Manager Jim Finks, who served as Minnesota Vikings GM from 1964 to May, 1974.

Finks handled contract negotiations for the Vikings in 1972 with five players who are plaintiffs in the lawsuit—Charlie West, Gene Washington, Clinton Jones, John Henderson and Nate Wright.

West, now a Detroit Lions defensive back, became a free agent May 1, 1972, and his agent, Al Ross, demanded a three-year contract calling for $165,000.

"I tried to the best of my ability to persuade Mr. Ross it was totally unrealistic for a player who had only one good year," Finks said. Mr. Ross told me West was a free agent and free to negotiate with other teams.

Chinook return

Chinook spawners have returned to Rapid River hatchery near Riggs.

Evan Parrish, fish hatchery supervisor, said the first chinook arrived May 28. Four fish arrived the next day and by June 2, 164 fish had made their way from the ocean.

By June 2 of last year, 74 chinook had arrived. Jack salmon, or immature male chinook that have spent only one year in the ocean, total 19 so far. Last year the total by June 2 was five jacks.

Migration routes of elk studied

SALMON — A study of the Idaho-Montana interstate elk herd is attempting to determine migration routes from winter to summer range and to establish key use areas along the route.

Nicholas Grkovic, the study leader, noted the elk herd winters in Idaho north of Salmon and moves into Montana for the summer.

"We hope to expand present knowledge about winter and summer ranges and key use areas and relate this knowledge to potential timber harvest and road construction," Grkovic, a native of Salmon, said.

The herd moves out of the Wagonhammer—Hughes Creek area into the area west of the Big Hole in Montana, and an area west of Lost Trail Pass.

The study will continue to about November this year, going through two complete migration cycles. Elk were trapped in the Wagonhammer-Hughes Creek area in November, 1973, and November, 1974.

Fourteen of the elk had radio collars attached while 45 had polyethylene rope collars with colored flags coded for individual animal identification.

Twenty-one elk were trapped the first year of the study and 39 the second.

The animals remained on their winter range north of Salmon later than usual this year because of snow conditions and slow plant development.

Grkovic said the elk probably would calve in Idaho rather than Montana because of the late season.

"This is a possibility but we won't know until it happens, but we are sure the migration pattern will be different this year than last due to different weather patterns," he said.

'Help our Wildlife' program underway throughout Idaho

Getting a HOW (Help Our Wildlife) card into every hunter's wallet in the state is on its way.

The Idaho Department of Fish and Game has printed 30,000 of the green cards so far and they have gone to distribution points statewide.

The cards, an adaptation of a National Rifle Association program, provide hunters with an easy, concise method of reporting a fish or game law violation on the spot.

Few of the cards have supplied information leading to arrests in the state so far, but conservation officers expect HOW card use to pick up with the opening of fishing season.

Since most violation reports to the department by the public involve violations of season regulations, the fishing season that recently opened should spark more HOW card use, the department said.

One aspect the public has found useful, the department reports, is the list of conservation officers found on the back of the cards.

Calls that have come in reporting a violation, the department said, were from persons who said they had seen violations in the past but did not have a clear idea about whom to report the violation to.

Each of the cards being distributed in the various regions of the state have telephone numbers of conservation officers in each of the regions.

Before the HOW cards were sent out, the department received an estimated 200 reports from the public in 1974. Those reporting did so mostly by letters, telephone calls and personal contacts with conservation officers, the department said.

About half of those reports resulted in successful prosecution of the violator, the department said.

The basic problem facing the department in seeking public assistance in ending unlawful use of the state's wildlife has three aspects.

The department said persons are reluctant to report wildlife violations, because they may have at some time committed the same act and are reluctant to report.

Gooding packing plant changes hands

Gooding, The Magic Valley Packing Company at Gooding is now owned by Blincoe Packing, Incorporated and is being operated as Blincoe Magic Valley Packing Company, Incorporated. On May 22nd, 1975, Richard Blincoe acquired the interests of James Albert and Son of Stockton, California, in their Gooding operation.

Richard Blincoe is a prominent livestock feeder and farmer in the Heyburn area and served as president of the Idaho Cattle Feeders Association in 1968.

Monty Baker, long time employee of James Allan and Sons, will continue to serve as General Manager of the Gooding packing operation. No personnel changes are being made and Virgil Marritt will continue to serve as cattle buyer.

The Allans have operated the Gooding plant since May of 1968 and the operation has handled about 70,000 cattle each year. Beef from the plant is sold principally in the four northwest states.

President Frank Hight of the Idaho Cattle Feeders Association stated that with the extended problems in the beef industry, the continued operation of the Magic Valley Packing Company is a necessity for the Idaho cattle industry. Hight stated that cattlemen could not afford seeing another meat packing plant closed at this time.

The plant will be operated as an Idaho corporation, doing business with Idaho banks. The prompt payment practices endorsed by the Northwest Cattle Feeders in February of this year will be the policy of the new management, according to Richard Blincoe.

Joining with Richard Blincoe in Blincoe Packing Incorporated are Larry and Dean Blincoe, active managers in Blincoe Farms with their father. Dean Blincoe is currently serving as a Director in the Idaho Cattle Feeders Assoc.

Adopts name

LONDON (UPI) — Elvia Presley is about to make his British debut — strumming his guitar and belting out rock-and-roll songs at a factory canteen. But it's not the Elvia Presley of "Love Me Tender" fame. This one is a 35-year-old Burmese immigrant.

His name was Narinder Singh until recently, when he had it legally changed to Elvia Presley. "I thought it would help my career as a performer," Singh, or Presley, said.

TF pastor speaker

FILER — Rev. Ray Thompson, pastor of the Twin Falls United-Methodist Church, was guest speaker at a father-daughter luncheon meeting Tuesday of the Filer Kiwanis Club.

Rev. Thompson urged fathers and daughters not to lose sight of the joy of giving while they journey through life. About 60 persons attended the meeting in the fellowship hall of the United Methodist Church. Roger Vincent was master of ceremonies.

A report was given on the recent high school rodeo sponsored by the Filer Kiwanis Club and the event was termed successful.

There will be no noon meeting Tuesday. A family picnic at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Filer City Park is planned instead.

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH CARTER

TF miss, Carter say nuptial vows

TWIN FALLS — Esther L. Grijalva and Kenneth G. Carter were married in a May 24 ceremony at the Twin Falls First Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. McMichael, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wally Norris, Filer.

Rev. James B. Hughes performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a bouffant gown of satin and chantilly lace borrowed from her sister-in-law, Paula Grijalva. The dress is designed with a lace bodice with a square neckline and long full skirt gathered to a natural waistline.

Her cathedral-length veil of illusion was trimmed with chantilly lace. It was held by a headpiece of pearls and lace and was loaned by Mrs. Davis Small, friend of the bride's mother. She carried a bouquet of carnations, daisies and baby's breath in rainbow colors.

Jolyn McMichael, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Tracy A. McMichael, Twin Falls, sister of the bride; Janette Short and Sherry Jones.

Danny Oliver was best man. Ushers were Patrick Grijalva, Rolfe Riddle and Wally Norris.

Melody McMichael was candlelighter. Jay Grijalva was ringbearer. Tina and Midge Grijalva were flower girls.

The couple was honored at a reception following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. The hall was decorated with daisies and carnations in rainbow colors.

Josie Riddle, Linda Mora

and Verla Austin assisted with the ceremony.

Relatives of the couple attended from California, Washington, Oregon and Montana.

Following a wedding trip to Sun Valley, the couple resides at Casa Grande Apartments, No. 29, Filer. The bridegroom is employed at Magic Mill, Filer, and the bride is a student.

Couple recites promises

TWIN FALLS — Mark Warren and Sharla Timm were married in an evening double-ring ceremony May 24 at Immanuel Lutheran Church by Rev. E. J. Bernthal.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Timm, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard J. Warren, Paul.

The bride was given by her father and wore a gown of white lace and sheer nylon. The fitted bodice with a victorian neckline and long sleeves was of white lace. The skirt and train were of sheer nylon with three rows of lace trim.

She wore a bouffant veil attached to a Juliet cap of crepe covered with rambles and long sleeves of white lace. Her colonial bouquet was of daisies, carnations, pink roses and baby's breath all tied with pink streamers.

The "sister" of the bride, Shella Timm, was the maid of honor and the attendants were Joyce Koepnick, the bride's cousin, Monica Armstrong was the flower girl.

Daniel Carroll was the best man and the groomsmen was the groom's brother-in-law, Dave Sharp, Rupert, Todd

MR. AND MRS. MARK WARREN

Tupper, the bride's cousin, was ring bearer and the ushers were Daniel and Gerald McClain, Rupert, the brides brothers.

Christina and Kelly Christensen, Boise, cousins of the bride, Jill the candel, Jene Lively played organ music and Lee Ann Share, the groom's sister, sang.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the church fellowship hall. Tables covered with white linen were decorated with daisy centerpieces.

Cheri Spriggs was in charge of the guest book.

The bride's table was laced with a three-tiered cake with white frosting and pink and green decorations. Candelabrum with daisies and baby's breath graced the table.

Rosettes were made by Florence Warren and the cake was served by Debbie Taylor and Lori Baird, the bride's cousins. Teresa Thompson and Kim Eldridge served punch and coffee.

Special guests were Mrs. Maggie Koepnick, grandmother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Eldridge, Winchester Bay, Ore., grandparents of the bridegroom.

After the rehearsal a dinner was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride was honored at showers given by Kasey Weigt and Tammy Armstrong and by Joyce Quinn and Susan Broughton.

After a wedding trip to the Oregon coast, the couple lives in Twin Falls where the bride works at Idaho First National Bank and the groom at Sears.

your health

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M. D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you tell me if it is true that a man who has had a vasectomy can still make a woman pregnant? I have heard there is a 10 per cent chance he could — T. Y.

A vasectomy involves the cutting of the vas deferens, a pair of ducts which transport sperm from the testes to the prostate. Some surgeons not only sever these ducts, but apply surgical clips onto the ends as an additional precaution. This is to prevent what is called "recanalization" of the ducts, as rare as that is. But don't stop reading here.

The greater danger is an unawareness by the man that there can be a period after the vasectomy in which viable sperm cells remain in the seminal vesicle, where they are stored. It is wise, therefore, to have two or three sperm checks after the operation, and to take normal post-vasectomy precautions until the doctor has given a final clearance. It takes about 12 ejaculations to empty the vesicle of all sperm.

So, in answer to your question, I'd say that with the development of surgical techniques in this area over the years the chance of a properly vasectomized man impregnating a woman are minuscule.

But one learns never to say never in medicine. An even more minuscule chance of a vas duct regenerating new pathways cannot be entirely dismissed.

A second heart comes back. It is allowed to hold and a third heart knocks out dummy's king. South takes his good clubs and gets two diamond discards from West and a heart discard from East. Now he leads another spade.

West plays low again and the moment of truth has arrived. Is it a pure guess? No, it isn't. The odds are just about two to one in favor of playing the queen. The reason is that if East held king he might well have played the ace, not the king. If he held king-10 he would have had to play the king.

HAZELTON — The LDS Special Interest Group plans a potluck dinner and dance Saturday at the Hazelton LDS Church. The dinner will begin at 7:30 p.m., followed by dancing at 9 p.m. Those attending are asked to bring a covered-dish and their own table service. The Shelley Orchestra will play for the dance, for which there will be a $2 charge. All single LDS men and women, 26 and over, are invited.

TWIN FALLS — The Swinging Sixties will dance Friday at 8:30 p.m. in the IOOF Hall. Live music will be provided.

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Business and Professional Women's Club delegates returned Monday from the state convention in Boise. The five who attended were Beverly Whitehead, Carolyn Comer, Susan La Beau, Frances Bulher, Betty Ainsworth and Doris Harper. Frances Bulher was Chairperson of the Nominations Committee.

Caution important

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Recently, a member of my family nearly lost his life because of a duodenal ulcer, which he didn't know he had. He had been going through a great deal of domestic turmoil and hadn't taken care of himself with regard to diet and rest for some time.

If he makes a good effort to calm himself, and eats properly, will he be able to heal the ulcer for good? What is the risk involved if he has to have an operation? — E. M.S.

Your relative was probably a small step away from the last stage of ulcer development — perforation.

An ulcer begins as an irritation of the lining. Untreated, it may bleed, or it can work its way gradually into the lining, and in time it may penetrate to the depth that results in perforation. Heavy bleeding can occur, depending on the size of the eroded blood vessel.

Yes, preventive measures are, of course, in order immediately, including a careful diet and attempts to quiet any emotional storms brewing in his life. My booklet on this subject, "How to Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed," could help him. For a copy, send 25 cents to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Yes, it may be necessary for him to have surgery to repair any damage at the ulcer site. If that is needed, he should not hesitate to have it done. Successful results outnumber unsuccessful ones.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you tell me the function of the spleen? If a spleen is removed, can a person function normally? If a child of nine years of age has a spleen removed, will he be able to live a normal life? — Mrs. E.G.

The spleen, located in the upper left portion of the abdomen, is a peculiar organ in that while its functions are quite important, it can be removed with no apparent effects on health.

In the unborn child it produces red blood cells, a task that in adult life is taken over by the bone marrow.

In adults it is a reservoir for blood, and also produces certain antibodies.

But despite its functions, it can be removed in cases of enlargement, rupture, and certain blood disorders, and the patient can go on living a normal life. However, in the specific case you mention, it would be important to know the reason for the removal of the spleen in order to predict the future.

BLM presents 27 aims

HEADLINE — The Bureau of Land Management, Salmon District, presented 27 recommendations that apply to the Lemhi Planning Unit in the Lemhi Resource Area at a public meeting attended by 27 persons here.

Lawrence Bardsley, Lemhi Area Manager, made the presentation of major recommendations and alternatives for discussion.

Two of the recommendations include the Bureau's action regarding approximately 109 individual parcels of federal land that were being farmed or had agricultural use on the parcels by the adjacent landowners.

Bardsley pointed out that only nine of these parcels had been applied for or classified under the Unintentional Trespass Act of 1958 and the remaining parcels could not be processed under this Act.

This generated much discussion with those attending feeling that all these parcels should be sold to the adjacent landowner if at all possible.

Bardsley also discussed the possibility of entering into an exchange program with the State of Idaho to block up federal and state ownership.

Salmon Juveniles planted

SALMON — The Idaho Department of Fish and Game is in the process of planting some one million salmon juveniles in the upper Lemhi River.

A plant May 27 saw 300,000 fish placed in the stream with another 300,000 June 3. The remainder were planted June 10 and 11.

Kent Ball, regional fisheries biologist here, said the fish are surplus from the Rapid River Hatchery and are being transported in large tank trucks.

Javier Magno Villalobos, Meyburn, an infant in apparent Twin Falls County.

Herbert F. Coleman, Alfred Kenneth Eckley, Manuel Govia Jr., Kenneth Dale Hall, Richard Bruce Mansfield, Marvin B. Olson, Delos Gerard Poolman, Ruben Perry Richardson, Ana Eva Romo, Van Morley, Schukoski, and Victor Thomas Stockton, all Twin Falls, and Silver S. Velasquez, Buhl, all driving while intoxicated; Mary Louise Banning and Robert Brice Conchie (suspension completed), both Twin Falls, both reckless driving.

Others from Twin Falls County included Mac Dryden Hesterman, (suspension completed) drag racing; Manuel Govia Jr., driving while suspended, and Robert Roy Sken, accumulation of violation points. All are from Twin Falls.

TWIN FALLS — The Bon Marche will hold a diaper derby in the Magic Valley's largest crawler Saturday at 3 p.m.

Entries in the derby will be restricted to diaper-wearing children at the crawling stage.

The entrants will compete with each other by cross a finish line behind which the entrant's mother will be holding the child.

Gift certificates amounting to $38 will be awarded to winners.

Parents interested in entering a child should contact the Bon Marche for registration by calling 734-4800.

CASTLEFORD — Castleford's school budget for 1975-76 will be $307,750, about 10 per cent above last year's expenditures.

No one appeared to complain at the budget hearing when trustees adopted the new budget, according to Mavis Easterday, clerk.

Administrative salaries will be $10,350 next year, compared to $16,700 this past year, while instructional salaries, largest single item, account for $166,500 compared to $105,865 last year.

Plant operation expenditures is expected to be $19,700 this next year, compared to $15,900 last year, while salaries for plant maintenance decreased to $1,500 from $1,500. Capital outlay expenditures will be $2,550 compared to $2,533 in 1974-75.

Estimated revenue for next year of $307,471 is based upon a total levy of 33.7 mills on $3,941,530 assessed valuation. The district maintenance and operation levy of 27.7 mills is expected to bring in $1,064,410, compared to $89,893 last year. County and state support is expected to be $172,018, compared to $150,465 last year.

In addition to approving the budget, trustees rehired Val Moore as a teacher's aide.

Fertilizer firms sued by states

BOISE (UPI) — Attorney General Wayne Kidwell announced today that Idaho was joining Washington and Montana in an anti-trust action against several major chemical fertilizer companies.

Included in the action was the J. R. Simplot Co. and Simplot Industries, Inc.

Kidwell said the suit was on behalf of Idaho farmers and other producers of nitrogen, phosphate and potassium fertilizers to recover damages for what appears to be price fixing.

At a news conference, Kidwell said investigations indicate the Idaho farmers "have paid 25 to 50 per cent more for bulk chemical fertilizer than the free market had been allowed to operate."

He said damages for Idaho and Montana could total $15-20 million each and for Washington State $20-30 million. Oregon and Alaska will not join the suit at this time but might later. He said damages for Alaska were less.

In addition to the suit, he said the northwest states are demanding major changes in the structure of the fertilizer industry in an effort to prevent these price abuses from reoccurring in the future.

His office will notify 25,000 individuals by mail to determine if they want to stay a part of the action and then, if damages are recovered, the amount would be pro-rated out according to the amounts spent by the farmers.

The action will take in farmers in the state who spent $500 or more in a calendar year for the chemical fertilizers.

Kidwell said the allegations are that the firms engaged in price fixing, that representatives of the firms through the mails or in direct contacts agreed to fix prices for chemical fertilizers sold to Idaho farmers.

The defendants are primarily fertilizer subsidiaries of major oil companies including Standard Oil Co. of California, Phillips Oil Co., Shell and Unlon Oil. In addition to the Simplot plants, the Cominco American Inc., a U. S. subsidiary of Consolidated Mining and Smelting, Ltd., a Canadian corporation, also are named.

The suit alleges that the companies conspired to fix fertilizer prices in Idaho and other northwestern states from the mid-1960's to the present.

It also alleges that the main defendants "illegally acquired independent fertilizer wholesalers as part of an individual and joint effort to stabilize and fix fertilizer prices and that the defendants have created an artificial shortage of fertilizer to drive the price upward."

Kidwell said proven damages could be trebled under the Federal Antitrust laws if the state wins the suit.

Kidwell has the Seattle firm of Ferguson and Burdell as special assistant attorneys general to assist with the litigation. He expects the suit to last three to seven years.

The suit contends that the firms in the 1960's began acquiring previously independent wholesale fertilizer distributors and retail dealers in the northwest as part of an agreement to gain control of the marketing of fertilizer from the production of raw materials to the application of fertilizers.

The acquisition, the suit, says, aided the defendants in eliminating competition among themselves at the wholesale marketing level and in controlling the retail prices of fertilizer in the Northwest.

The states also allege that the defendants eliminated all types of competition between themselves based on price and terms of sale by adopting uniform prices and methods of pricing.

Basics classes planned in Buhl

BUHL — The Buhl School District has received Title I funds to conduct a language arts summer program, Supt. Dan Mabe announced Wednesday.

A planning meeting for elementary students will be held at 10 a.m. Friday in the grade school library. Secondary students will meet at 8 p.m. Friday in the high school library to determine the most convenient time for classes.

Mabe said purpose of the program is to give six weeks of intensified schooling in reading, spelling and language to students from first grade through high school. The classes will run three hours daily.

High school credit will be given for high school students taking the course.

Kimberly City Council schedules bid opening

KIMBERLY — Kimberly City councilmen will open bids at the July 8 meeting on resurfacing 2,400 linear feet of city streets.

Councilmen instructed Bob Vawser, public works superintendent, to advertise for bids for the project during Tuesday night's council meeting.

The council held a public hearing to amend the current budget to provide for expenditure of $3,282, which is the city's share in surplus state funds. The money will be used for street work.

In other business, councilmen:

— Told Gene Ringer of Jobeca Construction Co., Yakima, Wash., they will notify the EPA to make final inspection of the sewage trunk line which is now complete. Ringer said final cleanup work such as resurfacing driveways will be complete by Friday.

— Agreed to meet with Twin Falls Highway District and school board members at 7:30 p.m. June 17 to discuss the impact to Kimberly of the three-mile section of road planned for next year south of Twin Falls from Washington Street to 2500 East.

— Approved 27 building permits for an estimated cost of $14,000.

— Increased Blue Cross insurance coverage for seven city employees to provide for $60 per day hospital costs.

— Heard Reed Coulam building inspector explain benefits from membership in The International Conference of Building Inspectors.
