Ford sets veto of housing bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford intends to veto the $1.35 billion middle income housing bill, a White House spokesman said today.

House Speaker Carl Albert said today he did not think the Democratic-controlled Congress could override the veto.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the veto message would be sent to Congress later today and Housing Secretary Carla A. Hills would explain Ford's reasons for taking the action at the same time.

Albert said a House vote to override a veto still was scheduled for Wednesday, but it "cannot be overridden." House Republican Leader John Rhodes, Ariz., agreed, saying the veto would be sustained.

Rhodes said he understood Ford would propose his own program to stimulate housing by making more funds available to the Government National Mortgage Association to buy mortgages from savings and loan institutions, permitting them to make new mortgage loans.

Ford also will announce a plan under which the government would underwrite loans to homeowners facing foreclosure, Rhodes said.

Albert criticized Ford, saying, "It's a jobs bill, and the President is building the most monumental record of anti-jobs vetoes in the history of the Congress."

Today was the deadline for Ford to act on the measure.

Democrats are pessimistic about their chances of overriding a veto. The showdown could come Wednesday.

The measure would provide buyers of new or existing homes a subsidized 7 per cent mortgage or a 6 per cent mortgage which would rise to the going market rate in six years, or a $1,000 cash grant to help with the downpayment.

In addition, it would offer loans of $250 a month for 24 months for unemployed homeowners who had received foreclosure notices.

Despite recent improvement in home building activity, construction unions and the Industrial-National Association of Home Builders have campaigned hard for the bill's approval. Labor says it would create work for 400,000 men.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., chairman of the Banking Committee, which handles housing bills, said the Democrats have only "an outside fighting chance" of winning.

The bill passed the Senate 75-9, but its 255-155 approval in the House was short of the two-thirds majority required to enact a bill over a president's objections.

Ford, in victories which sustained his court with Republicans conservatives, has won recent veto fights over a $3.3 billion bill to create work for 80,000 unemployed persons and a bill to regulate strip mining.

The housing measure was a key piece in the Democratic anti-recession program. The interest subsidies were to be made available to 200,000 home buyers whose income did not exceed the average for their communities by $20,000 and whose houses did not sell for more than $38,000.

The measure also would extend a number of existing housing programs the administration wants to end.

Winds delay Nevada nuclear test

PAHUTE MESA, Nev. (UPI) — Underground detonation of a megaton-class nuclear bomb was postponed today for 24 hours because of high 30-mile-an-hour desert winds.

The explosion, code named "Camembert," was to be the third nuclear test in less than two months and the second in a week.

India court says Indira can stay

NEW DELHI (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled today that Indira Gandhi can remain as prime minister while she appeals her conviction for election law violations, but the mixed verdict could bring new pressure on her to resign as India's leader.

The decision stripped Mrs. Gandhi of her right to vote in Parliament and her supporters were glum, shocked looks outside the court building when the ruling was announced.

Dot's an idea

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Entertainer Jose Feliciano, who is blind, suggests the U.S. Mint turn out Braille money such as used in Holland.

The Dutch put raised dots on the corners of their bills. Feliciano said the denomination can be felt and more easily identified, and "it would also help the sighted — say the guy who is drunk."

IRS, agencies working on probes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service has established a tight working liaison with two regulatory agencies to broaden the investigation of corporations implicated in illegal campaign contributions and unsubstantiated payments to foreign officials.

The IRS has conducted continuous audits of the nation's leading corporations for years, but the recent disclosure generated by the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Civil Aeronautics Board has resulted in new emphasis on payments for political purposes.

Seoul tightens security against Reds

SEOUL (UPI) — The South Korean government tightened security and placed all its military and civilian employees on a higher state of alert today on the eve of the 25th anniversary of the outbreak of the Korean War on June 25, 1950.

A government spokesman said the special "grade two" security went into effect for 600,000 civilian government officials.

By BILL LAZARUS Times-News writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Hubert Humphrey stands the best chance of beating Gerald Ford in next year's presidential race, according to Jimmy "the Greek" Snyder.

But even with Humphrey, the famous odds-maker told the Times-News this morning, the odds are on President Ford keeping his post.

Snyder put the odds at 7 to 5 on Ford in a presidential race. That means if you put up $5 on Humphrey's winning the race, Jimmy would bet $7 that he would lose.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Washington, is next in line with 8 to 5 odds and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., follows with 9 to 5 odds on Ford.

Idaho's Sen. Frank Church is also on Snyder's presidential odds board, but has chances of success are figured at a comparative longshot of 2 to 1 on Ford.

That, Snyder said, runs equal to the chances of Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.; Sen. Edmund

Muskie, D-Maine; Sargent Shriver and numerous other candidates who could conceivably gain the Democratic nomination for the presidency.

"Anybody who gets the nomination isn't going to be any worse than 2 to 1, I, too, Snyder said.

Anybody, that is, except George Wallace. According to Snyder, odds would be 11 to 5 on Ford if Wallace takes the nomination, or slightly worse than 2 to 1.

Despite his willingness to put odds on the presidential race, Snyder said he has not figured the chances on who will take the Democratic nomination.

"You don't know all the candidates yet — they haven't stepped out to do anything yet," he said, adding that odds on that race will come "as soon as they get their feet wet."

Snyder also said that "until someone is nominated" by the Democrats, the odds will be on Ford to win. He said most people now believe Ford is doing a good job and "tries hard."

Senate probes question Chicago gangland figure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Roselli, a reputed member of the Chicago underworld since the days of Al Capone, was ushered into a Senate committee room today under tight security to tell what he knows about a reported CIA plot to kill Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Roselli has been offered special protection following the gangland-style murder of an associate, Sam Giancana, last week in Chicago. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, committee chairman, said Monday-Roselli did not accept the offer.

Accompanied by two attorneys, Roselli was guided through a back door into the heavily guarded room being used by the special Senate committee looking into the Central Intelligence Agency. A committee spokesman said that security regulations for Roselli precluded the taking of photographs.

Church summoned Roselli to testify on what part he and Giancana may have played in the alleged 1961 plot against Castro, his younger brother, Raul, and Che Guevara, another Cuban leader. Roselli and Giancana are reported to have been installed in a Miami Beach hotel in the early 1960s to oversee and execute a plot to poison the three Cubans.

Church announced the Senate panel had been forced to put off testimony by former Secretary of State Dean Rusk, former Defense Secretary Melvin Laird and other past officials to withhold from the public their reports on airline safety.

The Justices, in a 7-2 decision, said the Freedom of Information Act has an exemption which allows the FAA, under laws establishing the agency, to withhold such reports when asked to do so by a party involved.

The decision reversed a ruling by the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia in a suit by the Center for Responsive Law, a Ralph Nader-type organization.

The appeals court said the secrecy provision in the 1958 Federal Aviation Act was overruled by the Freedom of Information Act. But the appeals court said the FAA might maintain secrecy under other portions of the act.

The Freedom of Information Act does not apply to matters "specifically exempted from disclosure by statute."

The appeals court said if the exemption was read too broadly, the purpose of the act would be defeated.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger disagreed. He said the statute was ambiguous, but that whenever possible the Supreme Court should avoid repealing laws, including the secrecy portion of the 1958 act with the FAA secrecy provisions.

Bolts fell cattle

By DIANE ALTERS Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Lightning killed cows, hail damaged some crops and power failures were reported during storms Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Andrews found six cows dead under a tree on their farm near Wendell Monday about 8 p.m., although Mrs. Andrews estimated that the lightning which killed them had struck about four hours earlier.

She said the lightning didn't burn the tree, but the animals were all lying dead under it, one with her feet spread out as if she were pushed to the ground.

The six cows' death represents a $1,000 loss, Mrs. Andrews said. Another cow was downed by lightning on the Clayton Pope farm south of Wendell Monday afternoon.

Pope said he was riding a horse on his property when he saw lightning strike about 100 yards from him. He didn't know a cow had been killed until the boy he sent to milk the cows found her about an hour later.

Safety report secrecy OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today upheld the right of the Federal Aviation Administration and the nation's major airlines to withhold from the public their reports on airline safety.

The Justices, in a 7-2 decision, said the Freedom of Information Act has an exemption which allows the FAA, under laws establishing the agency, to withhold such reports when asked to do so by a party involved.

The decision reversed a ruling by the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia in a suit by the Center for Responsive Law, a Ralph Nader-type organization.

TF High may gain facility

TWIN FALLS — A new auditorium may be in the works for Twin Falls High School.

A recent evaluation report of the high school by the Northwest Regional Accreditation Association suggested several times the school could use an auditorium.

School Supt. George Staudacher said the next building program in the school district would include the replacement of Vera O'Leary Junior High School and possibly Bickel Elementary School.

The auditorium at O'Leary is presently the only one available for high school and junior high productions aside from the auditorium at the College of Southern Idaho.

Staudacher said the auditorium could be included in the building of the new junior high school or added to the existing high school building. A site for the new junior high has already been purchased.

The cost factor for building the auditorium would be less at the new school, Staudacher said.

He said he could not predict when a new building program would be reached. The school district is currently obtaining cost estimates of needed safety and fire code improvements at O'Leary.

Twin Falls fire officials recently inspected the schools and said the fire department needed more improvement to meet fire codes.

Plans for the future will depend on studies presently going on, Staudacher said.

Attorney's fine hiked

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court today increased the fine for a Portland attorney charged with professional misconduct but decreased the time of his suspension from law practice.

The Committee on Discipline of the Idaho State Bar Association had recommended that Mark B. Clark be fined $500 and suspended from practice for six months.

In reviewing the case, the high court agreed that Clark had engaged in conduct violating ethical standards. However, the court found that some of the conduct was "unintentional."

The court increased the fine to $1,000 and reduced the suspension to 60 days.

In another opinion, the court affirmed a second disbarment court ruling that, Norman D. Dean was covered by a group medical insurance policy by Nationwide Life Insurance.

Nationwide had refused to pay a claim for heart surgery, contending that Dean had made misrepresentation on an insurance application by not mentioning chest pains and tests doctors had made.

Kissinger says Cambodia death toll high, Indo war continues

ATLANTA (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today he has received reports of a very high death toll among Cambodian citizens since Southeast Asian nations fell under Communist control.

Kissinger told a news conference there also have been reports of fighting between the South Vietnamese and the Cambodians since the Communist takeover of both nations two months ago.

He said such clashes were reported along the border between the two countries and on offshore islands. Including the one near which the American freighter Mayaguez was captured by the Cambodians a month ago.

"We do know that there has been a rather terrible toll of civilians that has been inflicted upon the Cambodian people as a result of the Communist-ordered evacuation of the country's towns, Kissinger said. "The death toll according to reports that we have is very great."

Kissinger's news conference followed a speech Monday night in which he strongly warned Israel and Egypt they must both make concessions for a Middle East peace and announced in apparent reference to Turkey that "no ally can pressure us by threat of termination of joint agreements."

Asked at the news conference about his allies statement, Kissinger replied that "it was intended as a general warning to our allies. It was not directed at any one ally. Alliances have to be two-way streets."

Kissinger also told the new conference: "He had 'no hard evidence' to support reports of fighting inside Cambodia between Communist and right-wing forces. "Congress will have to approve any American guarantee to Israel that would form part of a final Middle East peace settlement."

"The administration has 'not made any precise decision' as yet on whether the United States will attempt another round of Middle-East shuttle-peace-diplomacy or support a call for a Geneva peace conference.

Asked if he had come to Atlanta to help President Ford's 1976 election campaign in "George Wallace country," the German-born Kissinger laughed and replied, "No one will consider my accent a Yankee accent."

He said he was making trips into the "heartland of America" in order to explain foreign policy and to hear the views of local citizens.

"Only with a strong public support on a bipartisan basis can we hope" to have a successful foreign policy, he said.

He was then asked if his domestic traveling had anything to do with Ford's decision to seek a full term in 1976. "The President considers 'foreign policy beyond-partisan politics,'" he said.

Statement given note by Soviets

MOSCOW (UPI) — The official Tass news agency gave unusually prominent attention today to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's statement that the Soviet Union remains an ideological and political rival of the United States.

In the past, Soviet news media have tended to avoid or play down such statements by U.S. officials in what Western observers saw as an effort not to tarnish the domestic image of the Kremlin's detente policy.

A Tass dispatch from Washington said: "U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, speaking in Atlanta, said that the United States will continue a policy of easing tensions with the Soviet Union which in his words remains an ideological and political rival of the U.S.A."

Certain progress, he said, has been achieved along the road of the easing of tensions. Last month, Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko accused Kissinger of being two-faced "in his views of detente and defense spending."

The action was the bloodiest of the current campaign against leftist guerrillas. The death toll was the highest since last August, when 18 guerrillas of the People's Revolutionary Army, a Marxist group, and two government men were killed in western Catamarca Province.

Gas, power, wire rate hikes asked

In its application, Western Union said it lost $1,000 on its interstate operations in fiscal 1974-75 and the proposed rate increase would cut that loss to $100 per year.

The company noted that interstate rates were increased last year, that the Idaho request and similar applications in other states would bring the interstate rate structure in line with that in other states.

Washington Water Power was first authorized to enter into the joint venture for Rocky Mountain exploration with four other firms in November 1974. Two of the participants dropped out in March 1974. The venture is seeking supplies of natural gas in the Rocky Mountain area.

The Intermountain Gas application proposed a rate boost of 11.1 percent for residential users. That would add $3.30 to a $30 residential gas bill. The rate increase for commercial users is proposed at 14 percent and the boost for industrial users would be 21.5 percent.

The overall 17 per cent increase would cover anticipated price hikes of $1,039,000 annually.

Intermountain Gas indicated that if its application were approved it would have no effect on company earnings.

Increases requested do not reflect increases requested by Intermountain Gas in May. That request, which is pending before the commission, asks for an additional $17,000 in revenues to cover an agreement to purchase Canadian gas from Westcoast Transmission Co. to make up for curtailment of other supplies. That request is scheduled for hearing next month.

ages of 12 and 16. They sniff things, he said, for a "quick high where they see lights and hear sounds."

They die from cardiac arrest, Bass said, which usually cannot be reversed.

"I know of no case in the United States where the kid survived," he said.

Bass noted two recent deaths typical of the overall pattern. Eric Hunter, a 14-year-old Plymouth, Mich., youth died two months ago after sniffing an anti-perspirant spray. Freon was found in his blood.

David Taylor, 13, of Detroit died earlier this month after sniffing an aerosol foot powder. He also had freon in his blood.

Bass said the snarling death rate comes after what looked like a long lull in such fatalities, most stemming from the airplane glue sniffing rage of the late 1960s.

He said the majority of the victims were white, middle-class teenagers between 12 and 16.

Game tag policy queried

JEROME (UPI) — A Jerome man is challenging the legality of the state engaging in a lottery for big game controlled hunts on the grounds it is illegal for the government as it is for citizens.

Wall Phueason, Jerome, has complained to the regional office of the Idaho Fish and Game Department and to the Idaho Attorney General that the policy of awarding big game controlled hunt permits by lottery is illegal.

Phueason said if the applicant for a permit is successful, he is notified by mail but the unsuccessful applicants are not notified and the $1 permit fees are not returned.

Assistant Attorney General Rudy Barchas is handling the complaint. The attorney general's office said considerable research may be required before issuing a formal opinion.

Fish and Game Director Joe Greenley, asked about Phueason's complaint, said: "It was our opinion and the indication of the attorney general's office several years ago that and basically it is an application fee. It is used to offset the cost of operating the controlled hunt."

"We don't consider it to be a lottery, maybe the attorney general can clear this up. I hope so," he said.

Buhl eyes project contract

BUHL — A contract for an improvement project on the Clear Lakes road north of Buhl is expected to be awarded this week.

Stanley Thompson, superintendent of the Buhl Highway District, told Buhl chamber members Monday noon that the Towne Plaster Construction Co., Twin Falls, has submitted the low bid of $90,000 for the project which will include widening and realignment of the grade on the south side of the Snake River.

Thompson said the bid does not include oiling costs, estimated at $54,000, and engineering costs of about $49,000. Funds for the project will be 78 per cent federal with the Buhl district providing the remaining 22 per cent.

The Idaho Highway Department will supervise the project.

Probe set on child abuse cases

BOISE (UPI) — A special, "blue ribbon" committee was named Monday by the head of the Idaho Health and Welfare Department to investigate the agency's handling of specific cases of child abuse.

Department Director James Bax said Robert Hansberger, a Boise business executive, had agreed to head up the committee to pursue a "hard hitting, no holds barred exposition, together with sound recommendations for remedial action."

Bax informed Hansberger that the department "will implement your recommendations as full as our budget and state law will allow."

The director said "because of the urgent-to-correct-the-apparent problem" and it was hoped that the committee could deliver a preliminary report within 30 to 60 days.

"While the department is an important part of child protective services," Bax said, "it's obvious the job will not get done without the full support of interests represented by the members of the task force."

He said his department has "no higher priority than to prevent and remedy child abuse. Unfortunately, the result of a preliminary investigation we have just completed indicates the department is falling short of a quality program, not only the Greater Boise area, but, I suspect, elsewhere in the state as well."

The committee was asked to specifically investigate Region IV, which is comprised of Ada, Elmore, Valley and Boise counties.

Bax said it was hoped the task force also could find ways to focus community attention on the widespread incidence and serious nature of child abuse and neglect.

Double honors

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho College Republicans received double honors this week at the College Republican's national convention in Denver.

They were named the best-organized GOP college group in the nation and their newsletter was acclaimed tops of its type in the nation. They also won unanimous support for their resolution calling for nationwide regional presidential primaries.

Paradise Lost

An exchange between Reps. Steven D. Symms, R-Idaho, and William Lehman, D-Frd., on March 18, taken from the Congressional Record:
Mr. SYMMS. I am happy to have the committee tied up with legislation like this, rather than tied up with unionizing Government employees; but I was wondering, does the gentleman plan to have a Heaven Day, as well as an Earth Day?
Mr. LEHMAN. According to parliamentary procedure, we can only ask for an Earth Day this year and we are only requesting it this year alone.
Mr. SYMMS. There is only an Earth Day, no heavenly aspirations?
Mr. LEHMAN. I did not understand that.
Mr. SYMMS. There will be no Heaven Day? We are just going to have an Earth Day?
Mr. LEHMAN. We will all have our Heaven Day soon enough.
Mr. SYMMS. I would not bet on it.
Mr. LEHMAN. The gentleman can speak for himself.
Mr. SYMMS. I thank the gentleman for his compliment.

BE THINKFUL, COMRADE. WE DON'T LIVE WITH A GOVERNMENT WHICH SPIES ON PEOPLE, PLANS ASSASSINATIONS, BUGS OFFICES, TAPS TELEPHONES, LIES TO US...

Callaway choice master stroke for Ford bid

WASHINGTON — Gerald Ford's selection of Army Secretary Howard H. (Bo) Callaway as his presidential campaign manager may prove a master stroke in Ford's presidential strategy, for in former California Gov. Ronald Reagan and his conservative stalwarts, so lightly that Reagan will abandon any hope of winning the nomination himself.
But beyond that, selection of the exuberant, rich and extroverted Georgia conservative, who had been under active but secret consideration at least since May 27, reveals important details about Ford's developing political style and its healthy contrast to Richard M. Nixon's.
For example, the President himself has had a series of confidential talks with long-time Republican tacticians, such as Jack Mills,

Men liberated

Chicago Sun-Times
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — The state legislature has liberated Illinois men from the requirement that they help clean and repair streets in their home towns for two days every year.
Under the old law nearly every man had to help out with street duty or pay 75 cents for each day they wanted to get out of it.
The only men that were exempted were 'paupers, idiots and lunatics.'
Actually, the ancient statute gave cities the authority to require their male citizens do such tasks, but the Illinois Municipal League said some cities and villages have such ordinances on their books.
The old bill was turned up by Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, a Democrat, who was searching the books for laws discriminating against sex.
The State Senate voted for repeal without objections, and sent the bill to Gov. Dan Walker.

Los Angeles Times
About the Rockefeller Commission report on the CIA and President Ford's reaction to it, several observations can be made:
One, the United States needs a strong intelligence-gathering system. Ford was correct in stating that "the CIA and other units of the intelligence community are vital to the survival of this country."
Two, as the report has shown, a secret agency poses dangers to democracy. Measures must be instituted to make certain that the CIA is operating within the law and under close supervision by Congress.
Three, this is not only must be done, but it must be done in such a way to convince the American people, whose confidence in government has been shaken so often in recent years.
Four, the restoration of public confidence "requires" full disclosure at the proper time of the facts developed by the Rockefeller Commission and by the investigations of the select committees of Congress.
But before the facts are fully in hand, it would be premature to release information relating to the allegations that assassination plots were planned by the CIA. Ford, declining to release that section of the Rockefeller report at this time, effectively countered predictable charges of a cover-up.
The entire report, he emphasized, and any other material available in the executive branch will be given to the Department of Justice and to House and Senate investigators.
It is now up to Congress and the Justice Department to push the inquiries to a conclusion. After the investigations have been completed, and after the information has been released, the American people can reach a judgment.
As Ford has suggested, it is not a question of looking for scapegoats in the past or of "passing judgment in hindsight as to decisions made in the last 15 or 20 years." It is a question of soberly reviewing the past in an attempt to avoid a repetition of past mistakes in the future.

Customs primary defense

WASHINGTON — There was nothing but bad news at hearings by the Senate's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations on the nation's drug problem.
Read on and weep:
Dr. Robert L. DuPont, the White House's expert on dope, testified that a number of cities that had shown a decline in heroin use in 1972-73 now report increases. Dr. Edward Senay, director of Illinois' Drug Abuse Program, said heroin deaths were at an all-time high in Chicago. Senay and Dr. Thomas E. Bryant, president of the Drug Abuse Council, reported that heroin use was spreading from major urban centers to smaller cities and towns.
The response was predictable: Call the FBI.
Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., the subcommittee chairman, gave the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) the back of his hand for "a lack of professionalism," and said it should be replaced by the FBI. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., noted that the FBI is "the enforcement agency with the least corruption problem."
Well, all right. But as Ribicoff remarked, "The FBI has never wanted and still doesn't want" the job of going into battle against dope traffickers. President Ford and Congress could overcome that reluctance, but I'm not sure the problem is that simple.
Most dope comes from overseas — 90 per cent of the heroin, opium and cocaine, and about 45 per cent of the marijuana and hashish. The big job, therefore, is to stop the stuff from entering the United States, and that means that the country's first line of defense is the U.S. Customs Service, which has the statutory duty of catching smugglers.
Thus, the most rational contributor to the subcommittee's chief investigator, who urged greater emphasis on halting this illicit traffic. No creep makes any big dough until the dope arrives safely in the U.S. Then a typical kilogram of heroin is cut up into 100,000 decks of two grains each, which are sold to addicts for 50 times the importer's cost.
Unfortunately, Customs was robbed of most of its clout when President Nixon (in 1972) established the Drug Abuse Law Enforcement office (DALE), and then (in 1973) replaced DALE with the DEA. First DALE and then DEA took over most of Customs' bodies and functions, leaving this ancient service with what amounted to a skeleton force for its war against president of the Tobacco Institute who will be a part-time campaign aide; Ohio national committee man Roy C. Bliss and many more. He is looking to old friends from his days in the House, including Assistant Secretary of Defense Robert Ellsworth, a former Congressman from Kansas, for major jobs in his campaign organization and is leaning toward Richard Cheney as White House liaison for the campaign.

As top aide to White House staff chief Donald Rumsfeld, Cheney's designation as presidential go-between with campaign chief Callaway would give Ford automatic contact with all elements of the campaign. Such personal, detailed involvement was virtual heresy to Richard Nixon, who seldom deigned to talk politics with traditional politicians. So tightly held was Callaway's selection,

ANDREW TULLY

Until then, Customs had been making progress in that war. When Myles Ambrose, a former Eisenhower lawyer, took over as Customs Commissioner in 1969, the bureau (as then called) had the same number of employees it had in the Coolidge administration, and operated on an annual budget of $123 million. Within two years, Ambrose had won an increase in the budget to $189 million and had boosted his force from 9,000 to more than 14,000.
It paid off. During calendar year 1971, the bureau seized 1,308.95 pounds of heroin, more than had been confiscated in the preceding 10 years. In calendar year 1972, dangerous drug seizures rose a whopping 69 per cent. And, as noted above, heroin use declined during that period.
The conclusion is obvious. While Customs had the men and the resources, a dent was made in the dope problem. After Nixon had finished tinkering with the system, dope traffic increased. Now Senators Jackson and Ribicoff would do some more tinkering by forcing the whole job on the FBI.
But the DALE and DEA failures suggest that a centralized enforcement program is not in itself a cure. However efficient and ruthless and honest the FBI might be in cracking down on traffickers within the country, its efforts would be virtually futile unless a new effort simultaneously were made to keep the dope from being smuggled into the country.
In short, a realistic look should be taken at Customs' vital role in the dope war. More than 250 million travelers and their baggage and more than 2.5 billion cargo shipments must be cleared by the Customs Service every year. At the same time, Customs guards must patrol 7,500 miles of land borders and 50,000 miles of coastline. Neither the FBI nor any other police agency can do that job and at the same time track down the dope pushers at home.
The dream of one supreme narcotics agency is just that. The real action is in the thousands of ports of entry where the smugglers operate.

More important, Mississippi state chairman Clarke Reed, the most active and vociferous critic of Ford as insufficiently conservative, says the President "couldn't have done any better" than Callaway for campaign chairman.
The "racist" charge against Callaway's 1966 gubernatorial campaign, moreover, is viewed in "Pss! Want to buy the part of the CIA report that wasn't made public?"

Visiting home of CIA employe shakes nerves

Los Angeles Times
WASHINGTON — Most Americans are willing to put up with all the shenanigans of the CIA in the name of national security.
As a matter of fact the only item in the Rockefeller Commission's report that seemed to disturb anybody was the one where was revealed that the CIA had been experimenting with LSD and giving it to unknown victims.
It makes one extremely nervous now to go to the house of someone who works for the agency.
The day after the report came out I dropped over to Blackwhistle's house to see if I could get any more information than had appeared in the commission's findings.
Blackwhistle asked me if I would like a cup of coffee.
"Yes," I said, "thank you."
He poured out the coffee into a mug and said, "One lump of sugar or two?"
"I'll take it black," I said nervously.
"Is it awfully strong," he said, "let me put one lump in for you?"
"No! No! I don't want any sugar!" I screamed.

"But you always take sugar in your coffee," he said.
"I'm trying to lose weight," I replied.
"Have about a lump of saccharin?"
"Please, Blackwhistle, I don't want anything in the coffee."
"All right. Would you like a vitamin C tablet?"

ART BUCHWALD

"What for?"
"You might catch a cold sitting next to the air conditioner."
"That's all right, I like catching colds."
"Have a cookie," Blackwhistle said. "I just made them."

"You just made cookies?"
"Of course, everybody at the agency learns to bake. It's part of our training." He showed me a book, "The Joy of CIA Cooking."
"Was about to open it when he grabbed it from me and said, 'I'm sorry, it's classified.'
I passed up the cookies.
I sat drinking my coffee and staring at him. Finally he said, "Have you ever thought about taking a trip?"
"I take trips all the time," I told him.
"Wow, I mean a real trip with stars and rockets and rainbows and silver clouds."
"Where are you talking about?"
"Nothing, I was thinking how nice it would be to take a trip some place where you one had ever been before."
"I'd rather go to Disney World," I said.
"Wow, about some saltwater fish? They had a sale on it at the CIA candy store today."
"I'm not hungry, Blackwhistle. As a matter of fact I came to speak to you about the Rockefeller report. It said the CIA was involved in assassinations, break-ins, illegal reading of mail, domestic spying and political espionage."

"Nobody's perfect," he said defensively.
"Wow about a bowl of canned peaches with syrup on them?"
"No way," I said. "Frankly, even your coffee tastes bitter."
"That's because you didn't put any sugar in it. Here, let me help you."
I held the coffee close to my bosom to protect it. "I like my coffee bitter," I cried.
He seemed nervous. Then he said, "Popcorn. Certainly you would like some popcorn with melted butter on it. I can make some in a jiffy. Once you taste it, you'll be out of this world."
"I've got to go. Thanks again for all the hospitality."
"Don't go," he begged. "Have pot luck with us."
"Maybe some other time." I said goodby and dashed home.
When I walked into the kitchen my wife said, "I'm glad you're home. Would you go over to the Blackwhistles and ask if we could borrow a cup of sugar?"
I shouted at her, "Are you out of your blinkin' mind?"

Israel deserves support

Editor, Times-News:
As a regular reader of your paper I have noticed some letters to the editor by a group of women who title themselves as the M.A.I.M. or Mothers Against Involvement in the Middle East.
I can sympathize with them on their complaint about the war in Vietnam and the unnecessary losses that we suffered there. But I can't agree with them on the Middle East. And here is the reason why.
I am a Christian and believe very strongly that the people of Israel or the Jewish race are chosen and blessed people of God. And that his son Jesus was born to this race of people.

All the way through history we read of people who persecuted these people, and if you will notice that every one of them in the end received their just reward. All the way from Babylon of old to Nazi Germany.

Also in the pages of the Bible God said to Abraham, "I will make you a great nation and I will bless you, and make your name great; and I will bless them that bless you and curse them that curse you."

And all through the Bible we see where God speaks of his chosen people and the blessings that he promises them.

I think anyone who professes to be a Christian should realize this. And we are supposed to be living in a so-called Christian nation. So I believe it is our moral obligation to back the country of Israel 100 per cent. And help them in their need and protect them from aggression from other powers.

These are the reasons I think we should back Israel in its needs. I hope the members of the M.A.I.M. will look at it this way and re-examine their stand to see if it is just a selfish stand and if it is right according to the scriptures which our country is supposed to be built on. Thank you.

Entire family feels loss

Editor, Times-News:
We would like to express a few thoughts to the folks who "found" a "stray" dog this past week. We would appreciate their realizing that the female black Labrador they "found" was not a "stray" dog at all. In fact, she is a beloved member of our family. Our children do not understand why their special doggie has not come home.
The puppies she is carrying have been long anticipated by our children. The puppies would be registered and we would gladly reward any person returning our mother dog with one of her papered puppies.

These folks may think our dog is important to them because they bothered to "pick her up," but please know she really is more valuable to us; she has been a part of our household for four years. Why do they need her more than our children?

Our whole family is suffering from the pangs for a lost dog; wondering where she is, how she is being cared for, and why anyone would take her away from us.
Please help us with their return.

Arid land water pumping case before high court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Monday agreed to rule in a Nevada case on whether the federal government can bar ranchers and farmers—in the arid Western states from using water tables for irrigation when such use dries up federal park land.
The appeal by Nevada and two ranch owners will be heard next term.
The ranchowners, Francis and Marilyn Cappaert, began pumping water from an underground table in 1968 to irrigate their 12,000-acre Nevada ranch.
Devil's Hole, in Death

Valley, is a few miles from the ranch and contains the only known supply of pupfish, an endangered species, in a limestone cave.
When the Cappaerts began pumping, the water level lowered in the cave, and the Justice Department filed suit to prevent the pumping in order to protect the nearly extinct fish.

The Cappaerts said without pumping, the profitable portion of their ranch would become unusable for ranching.
The district court and the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered the pumping stopped on grounds federal land legislation permits the federal government to protect water supplies underlying the land.

The Cappaerts and Nevada said there was no implied right to federal control of the water supply in federal law, and that the United States must comply with state water provisions under express terms of federal statutes.

The Cappaerts' and Nevada said that unless the Supreme Court overturned the lower courts, the ability of the arid Western states to control use of their limited natural water supplies would be severely hindered.

The arid land states are Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North and South Dakota, Oregon and Utah, according to an 1877 Supreme Court decision.

Washington Star
WASHINGTON — Congressional critics of the CIA have picked the agency's clandestine department of living in a so-called "dirty tricks" as the main target of the legislation they hope will result from exposure of the organization's past activities.

One source familiar with the thinking of some of the agency's harshest detractors predicted the critics will try to demonstrate that CIA efforts to manipulate events abroad have often backfired on the U.S. interests they were intended to serve.

This source said evidence already collected suggests that some of the CIA's clandestine operations interfered with the agency's intended function of gathering intelligence.

There are indications that CIA reports from Vietnam in the early 1960s which could have alerted U.S. officials to the quagmire that lay ahead were censored by top-level agency officials to protect clandestine operations, he said.

If such interference with the intelligence process can be proven conclusively, he said, it might erode some of the support for continuing covert operations.

The source conceded that an attempt to outlaw CIA "dirty tricks" would probably fail if the legislation were put to a vote today. But he said results of the investigation being conducted by a Senate committee, plus the outcome of a separate House probe that even gets started, could improve chances for passage of such a bill.

The CIA's euphemistically named directorate of "plans" attempts to manipulate overseas events—by such means as forged cables; double agents and evidence collected by Senate investigators shows — assassination. Although the definition secret, some examples have become public.

According to a leaked version of secret testimony by CIA Director William Colby, the CIA helped to undermine the government of President Salvador Allende of Chile. Allende was subsequently overthrown and either committed suicide or was murdered.

—The Pentagon Papers

indicated the agency played a role in the coup that overthrew President Ngo Dinh Diem in South Vietnam, although Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, says Senate investigators have concluded there was no direct involvement in Diem's murder.

"The CIA for years ran a 'secret war' in Laos, using mercenaries and troops. It is generally understood that the CIA played a part in the coup in Iran two decades ago that restored the Shah to his throne.

Covert operations provide the "glamour" of the spy business, novelist Ian Fleming's James Bond was engaged in such activities as were most of the characters in Howard Hunt's numerous pot-boiler books.

By contrast, the collection of intelligence can be mundane work. It often relies heavily on such things as clipping overseas newspapers, interviewing travelers and business men and, of course, posing over photographs taken by spy satellites.

The objective of intelligence work is to keep U.S. authorities informed of military and political events that might affect U.S. security and to predict future trends. Covert activities are intended to manipulate those events.

Clandestine operations certainly are not limited to the United States. The Soviet Union engages in similar activities, friend and potential enemy.

President Ford supports continuation of covert operations.

"I can't imagine the United States saying we should not undertake any covert activities, and keeping it at the same time that friends as well as foes, are undertaking covert activity, not only in the United States but elsewhere," Ford said earlier this year in an interview with CBS television.

"That would be like tying a President's hands behind his back in the planning and execution of foreign policy," Ford said.

But others — not all of them

hardline CIA critics — are beginning to ask if the clandestine operations are worth what the cost in terms of money, international ill will and erosion of the nation's self-image of fair play.

Former Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold, a member of the Rockefeller Commission on the CIA, said in a footnote to the commission report:

"Congress should, in my opinion, decide by law whether and to what extent the CIA should be an action organization, carrying out operations as distinguished from the gathering and evaluation of intelligence. If action operations were limited, there would be a lessened need for secrecy and the adverse effects which the activities of the CIA sometimes have on the credibility of the United States would be modified.

Sen. Frank Church, chairman of the Senate Select Intelligence Committee, said his committee plans to question seriously the need for continued covert activities.

"I know of no disposition on the part of the committee to question the need for the country to maintain an effective intelligence gathering program," Church said in an interview.

"Covert activities, however, have nothing to do with collecting intelligence. They are operations of a quite different nature."

Some CIA detractors, like Rep. Michael Harrington, D-

Mass., find covert activities abhorrent regardless of the ends they are supposed to achieve or the success of the operation.
"Such activities are alien to what we are as a people," he said in an interview. "They are unnecessary because they cause more problems than they solve. I reject totally the premise that they do it so we should do it too."

NFO pledges payoff on packing debts

BOISE (UPI) — The National Farmers Organization has advised its membership that it will make good on debts its members are owed by an Oregon packing plant that folded this spring.
Donald Burkhard of Vale, Ore., an NFO member, in a telephone interview today said cattlemen who have been dealing with Coast Packing Co. and whose checks were not honored in April and May were assured that they would get "100-cents on each dollar."
Representatives from Montana, Utah, California, Washington, Idaho and South-eastern Oregon were in Boise today to discuss the local marketing situation far from the closure of Oregon packing houses.

Food stamp cutoff proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nearly 70 members of Congress have introduced a bill aimed at cutting millions of people of the government's food stamp rolls, but informed sources indicated doubt the administration would back the proposal.

Strong support shown for food aid program

ROME (UPI) — The U.N. sponsored World Food Council hopes to set up a $1 billion-a-year fund by early next year to help hungry nations feed themselves.

John Hannah, head of the Council, opened a five-day meeting on food aid Monday by saying both the United States and the oil-exporting nations have shown "strong support" for the fund.

Hannah, a former administrator of the U.S. Agency for International Development, said he expects "agreement will be reached so that the fund can come into operation in early 1976."

He told delegates from 36 nations that the council hopes to accelerate food production in developing countries through a billion-dollar Fund for International Development.

The United States has called for contributions of at least $1 billion-a-year for the fund while Saudi Arabia has suggested providing $1.25 billion, he said.

The United States told the World Food Conference in Rome last November that it could no longer carry most of the aid burden alone and challenged oil nations to join in the effort.

Council aides said the creation of a $1 billion-a-year fund would provide a 60 per cent increase in foreign investment for agriculture in developing countries.

But the aides said the money, combined with other pledged agricultural aid for 1975-76, would still provide only half of the $8 billion-a-year food assistance target the conference set for 1980.

Hannah also called on food-exporting nations to step up pledged agricultural aid for 1975-76, but hungry nations must still import large amounts despite decreased funds from raw material exports.

"Considering the deteriorating financial condition of these countries, more food aid rather than less will be needed," he said.

Andes mountains hit by cold wave

LIMA (UPI) — A cold wave sweeping the Andes mountains of Peru has frozen dozens of children and adults to death and frozen parts of Lake Titicaca, the two-mile-high lake on Bolivian border.

Official registers in the central sierra city of Huancayo report the deaths of at least 100 persons since June 1. Normally a sunny start-of-winter month in the Andes, June, this year had night-time temperatures of 10 and 20 degrees.

Lake Titicaca, a 3,000-square-mile body of water which is 1,000 feet deep in places, has never frozen over completely. A pre-Columbian Inca emperor allegedly made a divine promise to his people that the waters would never completely congeal.

Aerosol ban put aside, educational program set.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After two years of study it appears the Consumer Product Safety Commission has decided to leave aerosol sprays pretty much alone.

There will be an educational campaign on the dangers of "aerifling," and probably new rules to make sure valves on the can don't squirt in the wrong direction.

But there will be no across-the-board ban on aerosols, which some public interest groups had sought because of dangers ranging from personal health to impact on the earth's protective ozone layer.

Those questions will be left to other government agencies, principally the Food and Drug Administration and the Environmental Protection Agency, which so far haven't shown much interest in the subject.

About three billion cans of aerosol sprays are sold each year in the United States, although consumption is believed to have fallen off after the health issues were raised.

The commission had before it at least five petitions reported Monday, however, that the five commissioners had taken votes on the other issues last week and reached basic decisions on them.

Those decisions, it said, involved an emphasis on getting industry to make valves that do not mispray, causing injuries. Other issues, including the question of exploding cans, were not mentioned and so on, will not be directly addressed, it said.

The ship reportedly succeeded in grasping the sub, three miles below the ocean's surface, with a giant claw and raised it almost a mile before the pressure-weakened hull broke.

About a third of the sub was recovered, including nuclear-tipped torpedoes and the body of a young Soviet nuclear weapons officer with his personal technical journal, the reports said.

"Outfitting activities for an extensive voyage are reported to be going on aboard the ship at Pier E, Berth 122," the official reportedly said.

The 519-foot ship has been at sea in recent months, reportedly conducting rehearsals off Catalina Island, 26 miles south of Los Angeles.

The Glomar Explorer purportedly was built by billionaire Howard Hughes as a supersophisticated undersea mining vessel meant to recover rich mineral deposits from the ocean floor.

Word leaked to a number of reporters several months ago the ship was a CIA project designed to recover a Soviet submarine that sank 750 miles north of Hawaii in 1968. According to reports attributed to

Bayh says schools key to equality

WASHINGTON (UPI) — To Sen. Birch Bayh, the issue of ending sex discrimination in education goes far deeper than the question of joint-gym classes or coed varsity teams.

"Bayh, an Indiana Democrat who has been at the forefront of the women's rights fight in Congress, sees equal opportunity in school as the key to making women fully equal in society.

"Schools... continue to be the primary vehicles in our society for socialization and career motivation," he said Monday in testimony to a Senate education subcommittee.

"To the extent that the school system treats women as second class citizens, inferior to their male classmates, and as worthy of expenditures of educational resources, women will continue to occupy the lower economic strata of the society."

Hearings on the proposed HEW rules were to continue this afternoon with testimony from the National Organization for Women, the United Auto Workers, the American Association of University Professors and presidents of independent colleges.

"The regulations would apply to the full range of education, including scheduling, curricula, and scholarships as well as sports.

Bayh said that while sports are important, what is more important is ending the "persistent pattern of discrimination from the time a youngster enters nursery school that results in men realizing a higher level of education, on the average, than women."

Bayh is boosting anti-sex discrimination regulations proposed by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to implement a law passed three years ago Monday to ban such bias at all grade levels.

The rules go into effect next month unless disapproved by Congress and are running into stiff opposition primarily from coaches and athletic directors who see it as a threat to the survival of intercollegiate athletics.

They contend that sports get no federal funds and so should be exempt from the rules. The heart of their argument is their claim there is not enough money to go around to give females an equal share.

North America's oldest Indian mounds are the largest rings of piled shells that dot coastal and river sites from South Carolina to Florida, says the National Geographic Society's Book, "The World of The American Indian."

We have some advice for you...

There are energy-wise limits for homeowners, too

Insulation is the homeowner's equivalent of the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit. It's just about the best way to make the energy you use at home go further.

Idaho Power recommends these "speed limits" on insulation: 10 inches overhead (R30), four inches in walls (R12) and six inches in floors (R21). The "R" number indicates the insulation's resistance to heat penetration.

Keeping your home cool this summer and warm next winter will be more energy efficient if you've weather-proofed with insulation, weatherstripping and caulking.

Call your local Idaho Power office for a free home energy efficiency check. One of our Energy Advisers will discuss your cooling and heating systems — no matter what type of energy you use — and suggest ways you might reduce energy waste.

In the meantime, help put the brakes on energy waste with our insulation limits — 10, 4, and 6.

Salmon seeks US funding

SALMON—Some $360,000 of the $720,000 proposed westside sewer system 6887 is being sought from the federal government.

An application for the amount has gone to Alfred Ames, Boise, U. S. Department of Commerce.

Ames presented the request to the Office of Economic Development in Seattle Monday.

Harold Neyman, chairman of the Commercial and Industrial Committee of the Lemhi County Overall Economic Development Program Committee, drafted the request.

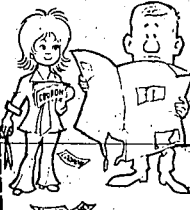

The OEDP Committee has given the sewage collection system its number one priority. The group is headed by Jack Cook, city-councilman.

The request was accompanied by letters of support from various local officials and organizations. Sen. Frank Church also has been asked to work to obtain the federal funds.

Neyman pointed out that the city is faced with an Idaho Department of Health ban on further septic tanks which would prevent additional building in the area.

Jerome man injured

EDEN — Gary R. White, 30, Jerome, was taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital by ambulance early this morning after being thrown from the car in which he was riding. The car driven by Frederick Gooding, 19, Eden, was apparently traveling at a high speed, struck a ditchbank and rolled over, according to investigating officer Cpl. Duane Owen of the Idaho State Police. Gooding had bruises and abrasions but was not hospitalized and the accident near Eden is still under investigation, according to the accident report.

Golf equipment stolen

TWIN FALLS — Theft of golf clubs, a golf bag, gloves and shoes from a station wagon at the Holiday Inn parking lot was reported to Twin Falls city police Monday night. Meldon Anderson, Idaho Falls, told police someone broke into his station wagon and took the equipment. He estimated value at $355. At the same time, Holiday Inn golf course representatives said they lost nine golf flags and poles from their course. Frank Hennla, 650 Del Mar Drive, told police someone took a chest from the back of his pickup truck. He said the chest, 3 feet by 1 1/2 feet, contained about $700 in assorted tools.

Tighter control

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, joined 53 other Congressmen Monday in the introduction of a bill to provide stricter control over the Federal Food Stamp program. Terms of the program "an insidious assault on middle-class America," Symms said the new bill would tighten eligibility for food stamps and reduce administrative waste. Thus saving the taxpayers an estimated $2.5 billion dollars annually.

Residential construction booms

BOISE (UPI) — Counter to the national trend, Idaho's residential construction market appears to be in boom times. For the first five months of this year, the value of residential construction in the state has increased 9.7 percent from the same period a year ago — to $67.5 million from $60.9 million, according to First Security Bank.

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — President William C. Cassell has named Dr. Christina H. Eismann, a history professor, interim dean of the College of Idaho. Eismann will serve in the post until a permanent replacement is named for Duane M. Leach who resigned recently to accept the presidency of a Montana college. Reared in the Caldwell area and a graduate of the C of I, Eismann earned his master's degree at Yale and his doctorate at the University of Idaho. He joined the history department in 1969.

Accident claims Cascade tot

BOISE (UPI) — Jennifer Spickelmire, 1, Cascade, has died in a Boise hospital from injuries received when her mother backed over her in a car Saturday. Burton Walker, Vallejo, County coroner, said Mrs. Jerold Spickelmire left her daughter in the yard near the family home. The child wandered onto the driveway after her mother already had started backing the car, he said.

3 die in Nevada accident

OWYHEE, Nev. (UPI) — Three persons, including a Nampa, Idaho resident, died Sunday when the car in which they were riding careened from the highway about one mile south of Owyhee. The Nevada Highway Patrol identified one of the victims as Jose M. Cafareze, 44, Nampa. Officers said Cafareze was ejected from the car as it rolled six times down a 25-foot embankment. Identify of the other two persons killed in the accident was withheld until next of kin can be notified.

BOISE (UPI) — Thomas R. Adams, publisher of the Idaho World at Idaho City since 1949, has died in a Boise hospital after a long illness. He was 66. Survivors include his widow, Florence, with whom he operated the newspaper, and a daughter.

TF workforce sees April gain

TWIN FALLS — "Moderate gains" in employment in Twin Falls County meant that 17 more people joined the workforce in April compared to March, according to the local office of the Idaho Department of Employment.

Agriculture again provided most of the 170 jobs, according to "Twin Falls Manpower Review," a monthly publication of the local department of employment.

Employment in manufacturing continued to be "somewhat depressed," according to Jim Voegelé, the local manpower analyst who prepares the review. He said 55 fewer people worked in manufacturing in April compared to March, and 230 fewer workers in April of a year ago.

Extra workers were hired to install new equipment at one food processing plant last year, helping swell last year's figures, he said. "Generally poor market conditions that some of the manufacturing plants have been experiencing" have slowed sales, forcing "several plants" to reduce the number of employees and closing down the production line of "at least one relatively small manufacturing plant," Voegelé wrote.

Other parts of Twin Falls County's economy have thrived, however. About 600 employees overall have been added to the non-agriculture, non-manufacturing part of the economy, he said. Of seven major industrial groups in the non-manufacturing part of the economy, only public education showed fewer employees this year than last year in April. Only one — construction — stayed the same.

Expansion of Buhl plant outlined at chamber meet

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

BUHL — Details of an estimated $3 million expansion and modernization project at the Green Giant Co. Buhl plant were outlined at the chamber of commerce meeting Monday.

Bob Kyles, factory supervisor, said the replacement of 33 double cookers with 22 automatic huskers and other new equipment will eliminate about 60 jobs per shift in the plant operation.

He said 25 new hand-fed cutters are being added as well as new washers and cookers. One continuous cooker has a capacity of processing 60 cans per minute, Kyles said.

Installation of the new equipment has necessitated enlargement of the receiving slab at the plant.

He said the new equipment is scheduled to be ready by Aug. 1 and the firm should be able to operate this year with about 120 fewer people. But the official emphasized the cut in jobs would be for the contract labor, meaning persons who came from southwestern states.

"There should be no cut in the number of local persons employed, Kyles said.

Acres for this year's run has increased over last year's 14,000 acres, according to Joe Feherbacher, chamber member and plant superintendent at the plant.

"This is a normal year," Feherbacher said, "the last five years have been so far above normal, you don't know what a normal year is."

He said the corn will not be as tall this year because of the weather. Farmers are still putting in late plantings.

In response to a question as to price, Kyles said "for the consumer it will be a good year; for the producer, it will be terrible." A competitive brand "is on the shelf for several cents less" than Green Giant's, he said.

Kyles also said there is considerable "limber shaking" in the upper echelons of the firm, headquartered in LeSueur, Minn., since the takeover of new leadership in the corporation.

Meet set to air Carey Act

TWIN FALLS — A meeting to discuss newly proposed provisions of the Carey Act will be held Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the Holiday Inn.

Personnel from the Idaho Department of Water Resources and the Bureau of Land Management will be present to discuss the act and rules and regulations governing the reclamation of land.

R. Keith Higginson, water resources director, said the purpose of the meeting was to answer questions concerning the processing of applications and the act's requirements, legal and otherwise.

Higginson said increasing interest in the act has necessitated updating rules and regulations.

The act hadn't been used in 40 years in Idaho until last year, Higginson said, when the legislature made it possible for a couple to file on 200 acres.

Passed in 1894, the Carey Act requires reclamation through irrigation, cultivation and occupation by actual settlers before a patent can be issued.

Higginson said with the lessening availability of federal funds under reclamation acts, new projects are being privately funded again under the Carey Act.

Copies of the updated rules may be obtained from the Idaho Department of Water Resources, Statehouse, Boise 83720.

Noisy storms hit MV crops, stock

The storm, which came between 3:30 and 4:15 p.m., brought hail, which "pretty well stripped the corn and laid grain pretty well on the ground," Pope said.

"I'm very optimistic" that the crops will survive, Pope said. He has 65 acres of corn and 20 acres of grain.

Hail may have caused some damage near Castledorf, according to Ken Hooper, agriculture supervisor at the Green Giant Co., Buhl. He said Loren Heringer reported hail had broken the heads off barley on his property southeast of Castledorf during the storm. He said Heringer indicated that the hail "wasn't so soft out there," but Heringer could not be reached by telephone this morning.

Hooper said hail covered the ground near the plant of Buhl, but that it was soft and not damaging.

Lightning also hit the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Moyle northwest of Twin Falls, shattering the top of the chimney and scattering bricks around the yard. The bolt blew out a pump, television, telephone service and damaged a light switch, Mrs. Moyle said.

Employees at the Snake River Conservation Research Center near Kimberly say they saw lightning strike a barn near the center Monday afternoon, but the rains quickly doused the small blaze it started on the roof.

At the Twin Falls City-County airport, the power went out "off and on" during the afternoon storm with the Air Idaho teletype stopped for about two hours, according to an employee. She said flights were on schedule Monday, with private planes also flying.

The north side of Jerome had a power outage from 3:45 until 5:20, with water also off in the area. City works director Ed Evans said today that he is looking for a surplus diesel-run electrical generator to supplement power for city water and to provide communication and sirens for the fire department during an outage.

No heavy farm damage had been reported to officials in Jerome this morning.

The highest wind recorded at the National Weather Service, Kimberly, was 53 miles per hour at 4:10 p.m. Monday, according to Maurice Faulbon at the bureau.

Faulbon said the facility had no gust recorder, so the figure was an average and not a peak. The center of the thunderstorm bypassed the station and wind gusts were not as strong as they may have been in other parts of the valley.

For a "very few minutes" during the hailstorm, at Buhl, temperatures dropped 29 degrees from 62 to 33, according to Faulbon.

The Elmore County sheriff's office said about 70 miles of Interstate 80N was closed to mobile home traffic during the height of the storm.

Advances changing outlook

SUN VALLEY — Jean Hyler, Seattle, Wash., new president of the National Federation of Press Women, in her acceptance speech here Monday said technology will have a profound effect on the profession of journalism.

Speaking to national delegates and guests before closing the annual conference, Hyler said "it's estimated by the year 2000, America will be a wired nation with interactive television serving 30 separate functions in homes.

"Platitudes, pressless printing less than five years away," she said. "Computers help write books and microfilm is replacing them. Typewriters can talk."

She said the NFPW should delve into the ways of reporting trends.

"Possibly one of the greatest services we can perform as professional communicators is working for changes in wording of laws, ballot issues and legal documents into understandable language."

She said NFPW will continue efforts to boost the status of women through professional recognition, emphasizing international Women's Year and disseminating information concerning the Equal Rights Amendment.

"The NFPW will support legislative action concerning the protection of the people's right to know, freedom of information and other issues vital to us as communicators and women, she said.

"Through united efforts, we can be in the forefront of the back to the people revolution. We can be among those found in a new age of respect and reason," she said.

She asked the delegates why they would be concerned and then gave a capsule summary in the words of a survivor of the Nazi occupation of Germany.

"When the Nazis came to take the Jews, I didn't speak out. I wasn't a Jew. When they came to take the trade unionists, I didn't speak out because I wasn't in the trades. When they came to take the Catholics, I didn't speak out because I wasn't Protestant. When they finally came to take me, there was no one left to speak out."

Quota missed

HAILEY — The Blaine County blood drawing missed its 100-pint quota Monday by 26 pints.

Norma Fica, Blaine County blood drawing chairman, said it is hard to find people to donate and that the blood drawing seldom meets its quota.

Elaine Bartomeo, Hailey, received her two-gallon pint and nine people received their one-gallon pints.

There were 10 first-time blood donors.

Lightning hits tower

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Lightning "klick" the sign atop the station reads, but for a few seconds Monday KLIX was snapping and popping and then it was dead.

Disc Jockey Dave Winter was in the middle of "Goodnight, It's Time to Go" by Connie Van Dyke a few seconds before 10:58 a.m. Monday when the station went — knocked out by a lightning strike to its number one, 205-foot tower.

According to afternoon announcer Johnny Mac, the strike which put the station out of commission was actually the last of three to hit the station's towers. Television station KMYT, whose studio is adjacent to KLIX at the corner of Elizabeth Boulevard and Eastland Drive, was also knocked off the air when the strike caused a power outage.

Mac said the first strike to the towers put the station off the air for about 15 seconds. After that strike, he said, he and another employee went outside the station and witnessed the second and third strikes.

The second strike, he said, followed a strike to the ground in field in which the towers are located and sent lightning zipping and zagging between the guy lines of two of the station's three towers.

The third strike, Mac added, was a direct hit to the number one tower, the highest of the three.

The station was off the air about 40 minutes, until 11:36 a.m., before an emergency generator was reved up and power restored.

Dark and disabled like a boat dead in the water, the station suddenly flicked alive. The lights came on, the clocks started, and the turntable spun, picking up Connie Van Dyke in mid-song.

"Goodnight, sweetheart, it's time to go," KMYT also had its power restored after about half an hour and flickered on with the closing moments of "Let's Make a Deal."

There were no injuries at either station and damage was minor.

Fire school opens Wednesday

TWIN FALLS — Firemen from throughout Idaho will begin arriving in Twin Falls today for opening sessions Wednesday of the annual Idaho State Fire School.

The special fire school and meeting of fire fighters will begin at 9 a.m. in the Twin Falls fire station where "visiting firemen" will have an opportunity to tour the new facility.

At 10 a.m. the delegates will move to the College of Southern Idaho for training sessions and group discussions.

The fire school will continue through Friday with a banquet Friday night at the Holiday Inn for presentation of several awards including the championship and reserve championship honors in the two and four-man hose team competition.

The Idaho Fire Fighter of the Year award and other special recognition.

Bob Bopp, Twin Falls fire chief, and members of his staff are hosting the fire school this year. The annual event was originated in a meeting in Twin Falls in 1948 and is held in a different city in Idaho each year.

Bopp said the program is open to all fire fighters from city, rural and volunteer departments. Displays of equipment and addresses by a number of experts from leading departments in the states will be included in the three-day program.

A special schedule of events is planned for wives of the firemen. These include a tour of the Kellwood Farm, a trip to Snake River Trout Farm, Thursday, and a luncheon Friday featuring a style show by the Mayfair Shop.

The women will join their husbands for dinner meetings and evening programs.

'Freebies' queried at Press Women's SV confab

By BART QUESNELL
Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — A sampling of press women from across the United States during a rap session Monday could not agree whether free desserts and wine by sponsoring companies should be accepted.

The impromptu session, attended by 20 of the about 250 delegates at Sun Valley for the Federation of Press Women convention, broke up after each woman had a chance to relate the climb to her present position which was often hampered, some said, by men.

The delegates could not agree why the federation itself could not support its own conventions entirely. Some said the "freebies" which were presented in one way or another during each meal at the convention were "in-

Others said the wine, desserts and gifts were "a reporter's life and of little importance. However, the issue was important to the convention as a whole, as two of the four resolutions approved by delegates dealt with "freebies" and a code of ethics.

The delegates voted in their first resolution that they "deplore the National Labor Relations Board's ruling that 'freebies' are a part of reporter's salary and expected benefits."

The second resolution "encouraged the active participation in the development of any code of ethics involving a member's publication or station."

Some newspapers have dropped the acceptance of all tickets to all activities, while others continue to accept gratuities from civic groups, according to women attending the session.

The greatest argument centered around acceptance of wine provided during one of the dinners by S&H Green Stamps, a wildflower dinner wine party (all you could drink) sponsored by Galliano, ice cream in the shape of a potato from the Idaho Potato Commission and other.

Most of the women agreed it is past time that all newspapers set down a strict code of ethics so reporters will know where they stand in accepting gratuities.

Many of the delegates blasted the five-day convention as a waste of time with little time "arranged" to sit down and talk out problems related to papers of similar sizes and complexity.

A striving for equality was emphasized throughout the convention and the rap session. Most women at the convention agreed a woman must do twice the job of a man to get and hold a position.

Cattle, grains decline; sugar futures advance

Courtesy Sinclair & Co.
CHICAGO — Cattle and grains were lower while sugar advanced in futures trading Monday.

Idaho rangeland futures gained a nickel on the May 1976 delivery, which closed at 9.20 per hundredweight.

Commodity News Service said Maine potatoes declined 4 to 10 points in all delivery months on a volume of 1,887 trades. Cash market weakness in North Carolina and progress in Maine were factors. The potatoes were lower in the Midwest and warm weather is aiding crop progress.

Heavier runs at major marketing centers coupled with expected increased supplies in six weeks in drive live cattle futures lower. Final quotes were down 17 cents in the two front months but slight higher in less active back months. Over 10,000 contracts were traded. Major retail chains' absorbing of higher wholesale prices has lessened the effects on the retail market.

Feeder cattle prices were slightly higher in lighter trading.

markets

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, trading at its highest level in more than a year, opened higher Tuesday in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was up 0.78 to 865.61 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines, 197 to 60, among the 372 issues crossing the tape.

The Dow average reached its highest level since May 9 Monday and many analysts said it could climb into the upper 800s.

Investors were encouraged by indications the Federal Reserve Board had only temporarily tightened its monetary policy instead of completely reversing its accommodative policies, which have spurred this year's market rally.

The Fed acted last week to lighten its credit reins after reporting a 20 per cent rise in the nation's money recently was sharply higher than its growth target of 5 to 7 per cent. Still, the Fed sparked Monday's rally by stepping in to prevent Treasury bill rates from rising too far.

Last hole break, par 71 aid Graham to Open win

MEDINAH, Ill. (UPI) — Lou Graham, aided by a break on the last hole, made the "dream of a lifetime" come true Monday when he shot a par 71 to defeat John Mahaffey by two strokes in their playoff for the U.S. Open championship, thus earning his first major championship in 12 years on the tour.

Graham, carrying a twostroke lead to the last hole, where he had lost a chance to win an undisputed title Sunday, got his break when he drove hit a fan and bounced back into the rough. Had the ball been unimpeded, it would have been in thick woods, blocking an approach.

As it was, Graham was short of the green and had to chip on, while Mahaffey, on the green in two, took two putts for a par four. That left Graham with the opportunity to clinch the crown by getting down in two, but he needed only one.

Graham, a 37-year-old pro from Nashville, Tenn., who finished in a tie for third place in the Open last year, went over par on only three holes of the tense 18-hole round. He grabbed the lead to stay early as the fifth hole when he sank a second consecutive birdie putt to open up a two-stroke margin.

On the 14th also, when Mahaffey obviously was in position to par, Graham lost only one stroke after an explosion from a bunker, leaving the ball on the fringe. But he putted out of the fringe within a foot of the hole to get a bogey and lose only one stroke.

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Jimmy Connors, having more trouble from a bout of hay fever than his first round opponent, began the defense of his Wimbledon title Monday with a straight sets win against Britain's John Lloyd.

The 22-year-old American, ranked No. 1 in the world, downed Lloyd, 6-2, 6-4, in a center court match that was interrupted three hours by rain. Connors will meet Vijay Amritraj, the Indian Davis Cup player with the reputation for galling killing, in the second round of the $26,600-grass court tournament.

It was the second consecutive year that the 6-foot, blond New Yorker was eliminated in the first round. His victory in the St. Louis tournament earlier this year had earned him a seeding.

The lefthander stayed in the game but threw a wild pitch allowing Morales to strikeout six.

Cubs blank Expos 6-0

MONTREAL (UPI) — Ray Burris stopped Montreal on seven hits and drove in a run with a single Monday night as the Chicago Cubs blanked the

As Open champion which was at stake. Graham, who lost a chance to win the event Sunday when he took too much sand and exploded short to set up a bogey on the last hole, felt more secure after Mahaffey missed the green on the 16th hole and took a bogey five to give Graham a three-stroke edge with two holes to play. Graham three-putted the 17th for a bogey to cut the final margin to two.

Graham's error on the 18th Sunday gave Mahaffey, waiting in the clubhouse for almost an hour, a chance to get into the playoff. Mahaffey, playing midway through the frame of 57 players, tallied a last round 71, par, for a 227 total, and believed the field would come back to him. It did, when Graham went over par on the last hole.

Monday, Graham bogeyed the third hole when he approached over the green, chipped on and missed a 12-foot par putt, and also the 14th. But his eight-foot birdie putt on the fourth and six-foot birdie putt on the 10th put him ahead to stay. He gained a two-stroke margin on the 10th when he approached three feet from the hole for a birdie.

Mahaffey never had a birdie on his round. He three-putted the 16th and 17th second hole for a bogey and went over again on the 18th.

It was the first playoff ever for Mahaffey, 27, the 1970 National Collegiate champion and a pro since 1971 with one tournament victory. Graham was in a playoff once previously, winning, and added his third tourney triumph Monday for the Open championship and the first time since 1947, when Lou Worsham beat Sam Snead, 69 to 70, at St. Louis, that a playoff has been decided by fewer than three strokes.

The payday boosted Graham's 1975 earnings to $86,071 while Mahaffey, ninth on the money winning list heading into the playoff, climbed to $121,665 for the year.

Connors, having trouble with hay fever, still wins opening sets against Lloyd

Each person who works on a payroll should put in no more than three days a week on the job. Each workday should be 10 hours long. Such an employee should live far out in the country with the family for four days and five nights, but sleep in the barracks near the job two nights a week. Business bosses should work two shifts to make a 60-hour week, thus to get 50-percent more production out of their costly equipment. This system would take the schools out of the ghettos and spread them around the countryside. It would boost the rural economy. It would cut traffic dramatically inasmuch as said worker would only make one trip to the big town each week, and thus it would reduce enormously the burning of gasoline. This item No. 7406C in our Bright Idea file is the notion of an economist named Dr. Millard C. Faudt.

DIVORCE

Q. "What's the divorce rate among those American Prisoners of War returned from Indochina?"
A. Last I heard six months ago it was 27 per cent. Probably even higher now. That's about double the typical rate for other men in the same age bracket.

Q. "WHY DOESN'T the Office of Vital Statistics still report births to women over age 50?"
A. Because they found out most of the ages formerly reported were wrong.

Q. "WHAT WAS the first radio commercial?"
A. "It's 12 o'clock, Bulova watch time."

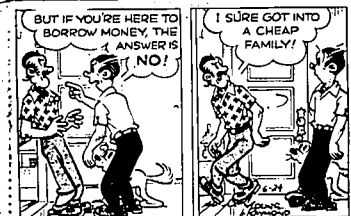

TOMATO

Most popular tomato nationwide now is said to be the one called "Big Boy". ALMOST HALF the practicing psychiatrists admit they've been attacked at one time or another by patients... A COMPANY in Memphis, Tenn. manufactures 250,000 washboards a year. Wonder who buys them?... CREDIT Mississippi, too, as that state whose name is most frequently spelled aloud... ANOTHER BITTER disclosure indicates that approximately 35,000 Social Security checks get stolen every year.

MAY I SUGGEST that Telly Savalas, Yul Brynner and the like stay out of that nation called Chile? Was customary there for a long time to make pickpockets easily identifiable by shaving their heads.

Idaho prof aids Libya investment

MOSCOW — The North African country of Libya has a problem — how to invest an estimated $14 billion annual income from oil revenues.
Dr. Jim Aral, associate professor of agricultural economics in the University of Idaho College of Agriculture, is visiting Libya for consultations with government officials responsible for Libya's far-reaching development programs.
By invitation of the Libyan minister of planning and scientific research, Aral will present two seminars in Tripoli, the capital city. His talks will be addressed to officials in the Ministry of Planning.
In one seminar, the UI professor will discuss the need for economic planning in a developing country. In the other talk, he will show the economic impact of scientific research.
For the past year, Aral has been engaged in a project evaluating the economic impact of agricultural research on the growth and development of the State of Idaho.
Aral is completing his seventh year on the UI faculty. Of Arab descent, he speaks Arabic — the official language of Libya.
He will return about July 1.

Snake R. forecast uncertain

BURLINGAME — The U.S. Department of the Interior released data that shows the below normal temperatures make it difficult to accurately predict runoff in the Upper Snake River area.
The Upper Snake River reservoirs continue to fill, although cool weather is continuing to delay the snowmelt, said Mindkoo Project Supl. Carlos C. Randolph.
According to Randolph, the delayed snow melt will make it difficult to accurately predict what the runoff will be for the next 30 days.
The Interior department's figures on the watershed are: Lewis Divide are 51 inches of snow, 27 in. water; Grassy Lake, 15 inches of snow, 4 in. water; Togwotee, 62 inches of snow, 31.6 in. water.
"This data means there is 1,858,000 acre-foot of water to flow past Hesse, a measuring point on the South Fork of the Snake River below Palisades Dam during the next 40 days."
Due to the cool trend, the discharge at Jackson Lake Dam and Palisades Dam have been sharply cut off.
Normal or above temperatures could reverse the trend, resulting in a big river by July 1.
Reservoirs on the Mindkoo Project that are presently full to capacity are Little Wood, Lake Walcott, American Falls and Island Park; Leaving Grassy Lake, Jackson Lake and Palisades to fill in the next 35 days.

Bean prices reported

STOCKTON, Calif. — Bean prices for this week, last week and the year before, according to the Bean Market News, are as follows:
Idaho: pinks: $31.50-$33.00; $34-$35; $40-$42; great northern: $18-$18.25; $17.25-$18.25; $22-$23; small reds: $26-$27; $26-$27, no quotes; pinks: $28-$29.50; $27-$29; no quotes.
Washington: small reds: $25-$25.25; $24.50-$25; $24.50-$25, no quotes; pinks: $32-$33.50; no quotes; pinks: no quotes.
Colorado-Denver rate: pinks: $33.50-$35; $34-$35; $40-$42.
Nebraska: great northern: $18-$18.50; $17.57; $22.75-$24.
California: pinks: $29, not available.
Bean values reflected only minor changes except for large limas and red kidneys. Planting of the 1975 crop is completed in the early areas and making good progress in the later districts.

June 12 was $1.72 per pound, compared with a national average of $1.52 (in May). The higher retail prices reflect increases in prices of grain-fed cattle and the better quality beef which is sold in supermarkets, said Gordon Van Vleck, ANCA president.
"It doesn't often happen that production of all types of meat declines at the same time," Van Vleck said, "but this is what has happened in recent months. The cost/prize squeeze and financial losses sustained by both livestock and poultry producers during much of the past two years have resulted in decreases in output of both lamb and poultry as well as beef."
"With the long production cycle involved, livestock output cannot be turned on and off like a spigot, and the current situation is the result of decisions and developments occurring months and even years ago — like short feed crops, and record high meat costs, surplus world meat production, and market disruptions caused by government interference with output of both lamb and poultry as well as beef."
"Total meat supplies, particularly of beef and poultry, are expected to increase again in the months ahead, but, for now, production is down. For example, pork output in the week ended June 14 was off 22 percent from a year earlier, beef output was down 10 percent, and total red meat production was off 13 percent. Poultry production was down 9 percent."
Because of the extended financial squeeze and depletion of capital numbers of cattle (or feedlots on June 1 were down 26 percent from 1974, Van Vleck noted, and marketings of feedlot-fed animals in May were down 24 percent.
The June survey showed average prices up from a month ago in all but one of the 19 cities. By cuts, the increases in average prices were 7 cents for ground beef, 18 cents for round steak, 29 cents for sirloin steak, 36 cents for T-bone steaks, and 14 cents for chuck roast. The larger steak price increases reflect summer-time increases in demand, as well as smaller supplies of feed cattle.
Van Vleck said that the recent "cattle price" increases resulted in profits — often for the first time in more than 18 months — for those feeders who had animals ready for the market.
However, virtually all of the basic products will continue to be fed cattle to feedlots, or non-fed cattle to packers, still are losing money.

Sugar beet production gain seen

PORTLAND (UPI) — Two major sugar manufacturers reported sugar beet production in the Northwest will increase this year in spite of poor growth during the cold spring.
Utah-Idaho Sugar Company, which is contracted for about 148,000 acres of beets, up 25 percent more than last year in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Utah.
Amalgamated Sugar Company has contracted for about 150,000 acres, up 63,000 acres from last year.
However, unless the weather extends the growing season unusually late this season, the per-acre yield throughout the region is expected to be down in many areas.
