Former Jerome official dies

JEROME — Fred L. Bauscher, former county assessor and Jerome City Council member, died Tuesday morning of an apparent heart attack.

He came to Camas Prairie in 1910 and farmed there until 1951 when he moved to Jerome. He was associated with the Dryden Real Estate Agency in Jerome and worked for the Idaho Department of Public Lands.

He had served one and a half terms as county assessor.

Joint loan to Egypt reported

BOSTON (UPI) — The United States, West Germany and Japan are about to announce a $1 billion loan to Egypt as a means of preserving the moderate leadership of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, the Boston Globe said today.

West Germany has been asked to contribute $400 million to $500 million, the U.S. at least $250 million and Japan $300 million, the paper quoted Ahmed Dawidar, Egyptian under secretary of economic affairs, as saying. Funds from the U.S. however, would require Congressional approval.

Veteran reporter dies

SILVER SPRING, Md. (UPI) — May Craig, a Washington correspondent whose flowery hats and carping questions on the "Meet the Press" television show brought her national recognition, died Tuesday at the age of 66.

Mrs. Craig, widow of Donald Craig, assumed her husband's job as Washington correspondent for the Gannett newspapers in Maine upon his death in 1939. She retired in 1963.

OAS nears Cuba decision

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) — A draft resolution circulating at the Organization of American States convention today asked that each member of the group be allowed to choose on its own whether it wants to lift sanctions against Cuba.

The organization opened its meeting with an air of expectation that the Caribbean island's 11 years of hemisphere isolation would be lifted. A U.S. official said Washington expects the sanctions to be repealed.

The draft, called the "Freedom of Action Resolution," is marked "confidential" in the top right-hand corner, is written in English and was attributed by some Latin American diplomats to the U.S. delegation.

Mileage measure OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has approved legislation that would force the auto industry to build cars by 1985 that get at least double the miles per gallon of 1974 models.

The bill passed Tuesday on a 63 to 21 vote would order the Transportation Department to set minimum fuel efficiency standards each year, beginning with 1977 models. They would be geared to reaching at least a 50 per cent improvement over 1974 models by 1980 and at least 100 per cent by 1985 — about 28 miles per gallon.

The House voted a similar goal for mileage standards earlier this year as part of a comprehensive energy package.

Spacemen maneuver for union

HOUSTON (UPI) — Three American astronauts easily fixed a minor problem in their Apollo today and bore down on Russia's two Soyuz cosmonauts more than 1,000 miles ahead for a union Thursday 136 miles over Germany.

The flagships of the two space powers circled the world every hour and a half in the second day of history's first international manned spaceflight.

Alexei Leonov and Valeri Kubasov opened the day's activities by gunning their 15,000 pound Soyuz into a near perfect "assembly" orbit 138 to 140 miles high to wait for the Thomas Stafford, Vance Brand and Donald "Deke" Slayton to join them.

"Your friends just finished a circ (circularization) burn and they are in orbit waiting for you," Robert Crippen at Houston control told the three Americans.

The astronauts' first chore of the day was to remove a stainless steel docking probe hung up because a wire connector shifted out of position and blocked a removal tool. Crippen radioed up instructions on how to fix it, and the astronaut reported a few minutes later that the probe had been successfully removed.

"Ah, the probe is out," Stafford said at 8:57 a. m. MDT.

The probe was used to clamp docking latches when the Apollo hooked up to its docking module Tuesday. It had to be removed so the pilots could move into the module and later the Soyuz.

The problem was considered minor from the beginning and flight directors said there was no concern about it affecting this week's rendezvous and linkup plans. Russian officials in Moscow, however, expressed some concern and were assured by U. S. technical representatives there that the problem could be overcome.

"In return, we begged them about their TV camera problems," said astronaut Robert Overmyer in Moscow.

One of the four video cameras in the Soyuz failed during launch Tuesday and detailed step by step repair procedures were radioed up by Moscow to Leonov and Kubasov at the same time Houston was sending repair procedures to the Apollo.

Soviet controller Viktor Blagov said the camera problem was traced to a defect in a cable. "It will not affect the flight," he said in Moscow. "The only sufferers are the viewers."

Stafford, Brand and Slayton awoke more than five hours later than the cosmonauts this morning. A few minutes later, Slayton spilled some strawberries he was eating for breakfast.

"We have a strawberry colored spacecraft," he radioed Houston.

"Spill much?" asked Crippen.

"It doesn't take much up here," Slayton replied.

"If you think your TV is looking through rose colored glasses, it's only because it's covered with strawberries," Stafford said later.

At one point, Crippen asked Slayton how he felt.

"I can't believe it," replied the man who has waited 16 years for a chance to fly in space.

Agency cancels sale of machines

By DIANE ALTERS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho State Tax Commission apparently has backed down on plans to sell unlicensed cigarette machines confiscated in Magic Valley.

State Tax Commissioner Jenkin Palmer, Boise, said today the agency had changed its plans and would not hold a sheriff's sale for 93 machines seized in southern Idaho, including 9 in Twin Falls and Jerome.

The seizures of the reportedly unlicensed machines had stirred a storm of protest by local machine owners, who objected to losing their $1,000 or more machines because of a $10 license and $2 sticker.

Palmer said the compromise policy would abandon auction plans but would require the machine owners to obtain proper licensing and pay pro-rated cost of confiscation and storage — about $35.

The action was "the route of the compromise," Palmer said.

Palmer said the compromise didn't include six machines confiscated yesterday in the Nampa-Caldwell area, or machines which may be confiscated next week when tax commission employees go to North Idaho to see if cigarette vending machines there have licenses and stickers.

By Wednesday morning, none of the service stations owners contacted by the Times-News had received their mail, and did not have the letter. They had another letter, however, which had raised the ire of at least two owners.

Larry Utley, co-owner of Larry and Jerry's Lynnwood 76 Service, said he got a letter from the tax commission Tuesday "saying we had to tell them why we need the machines back, admitting our mistake." He said he complained to Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, who talked to the tax commission, evidently helping the letter scheduled for today's mail.

Utley said he was angry about the "principles" of the confiscation. "Everybody should be upset about it," he said. "It's just a small portion of what's going on in this country today... the next thing, they'll be taking your car because it's unlicensed."

He said the tax commission employees who confiscated his machine last week "avoided telling him."

"It's the bureaucracy flexing their muscle," he said.

Utley said he wouldn't do anything until he got the machine back, but he might pursue the case on principle through a local court. Charles Brumbach, the station's attorney, said going to small claims court was "a possibility" as was retaining legal help for a bigger but more expensive court battle.

Blaze guts lodge

FAIRFIELD — An early morning fire destroyed the Moonstone Lodge and Motel near Fairfield today.

The dollar value of the damage and the cause of the fire are unknown. A state investigator will examine the burned remains Thursday morning, according to sheriff's officers.

The resort is 12 miles west of the junction of US highway 83 and State highway 89. It had been closed for about two weeks, according to the Sheriff's Department.

Assistant rural fire Chief James Pigg, Bellevue, said the crew had to break through a barricade leading into the lodge to get to the fire.

Pigg said the rural fire department received the fire call at about 1:30 a.m. and responded with 19 rural volunteers.

The crew and a new tanker truck arrived at the site in about 30 minutes. Pigg said the building was destroyed by the time the firefighters arrived.

'One roof' in TF costly for Gem agency

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The state might pay up to more than six times as much for rent if it combines a number of its health and welfare programs under one Twin Falls roof.

The state is now looking for a 15,000 to 20,000-square-foot office building in Twin Falls.

HAW estimates show that the state's rent bill for these offices could jump from the present $15,000 a year to anywhere from $67,500 to $100,000 a year.

According to Scott Cunningham, HAW regional manager of administrative services, the building would house all the department's programs except the Mental Health Center and most of the Child Development Center.

With the support of HAW's regional advisory board, Cunningham said, HAW is advertising for space "to get a handle on what type of costs would be involved" in leasing such a building. He said no decision to rent has been made and that the department is just checking the feasibility of whether an economic comparison of a central building as opposed to the present arrangement would give a true picture of the situation.

Generally, he said, there is "very little justification for spending additional money."

By Cunningham added that in business investments are made to achieve a goal.

Compared with the rents the department is paying now the building would be expensive.

Currently the department is housing all its programs that would be located in the central building for only $17,000 a year.

At $4.50 to $5 per square foot building would rent, without utilities, from $67,500 to $100,000. That would be 4.5 to 6.7 times as much as the $15,000 a year now spent.

The current rent paid by the state would be higher than the $15,000 figure if it were not for doing so.

However, Cunningham did mention that about 96 per cent of its space.

Cunningham questioned

In this case he said the goal would be to put all the services but the mental health center and the child development center under one roof. Since HAW services often are interrupted HAW will be able to provide better service if offices are together, he maintained.

"I think you have to spend the money and then follow up — is it worth it?" he said.

Cunningham said he might be surprised if a building is available which costs less than $4.50 per square foot a year to rent. Or, he said a building with 15,000 to 20,000 square feet of office space might not be available.

Murtaugh votes for water bond

MURTAUGH — A record 95 per cent turnout of voters approved a $10,000 water and sewer revenue bond issue here Tuesday.

Elva Petersen, city clerk, said 44 of the 46 registered voters went to the polls, with 36 voting for and only 9 against the measure.

The funds will be used to build the first water distribution system for the city of Murtaugh and to assume the mortgage on the present sewage system now operated by the Murtaugh Water and Sewage Association.

The funds from the bond election will be added to a $43,000 grant already approved by the Farmers Home Administration. Total cost of the joint water and sewer project is estimated at $233,000.

The new water system will carry lines from the existing pump and storage tank to the individual homes and businesses in the community. The pump and tank, installed some time ago, provide water for the Staley starch plant which has been operating here about a year.

Mrs. Petersen said voters in Tuesday's bond election will be examined tonight at the monthly council meeting and arrangements made for advertising for bids on the new project.

Fall audit planned

BOISE — A full legislative audit of the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare will begin this fall with priority emphasis on the department's contracting policies.

"It's a full performance audit. It isn't just run-of-the-mill... we'll be looking into everything we possibly can," Legislative Auditor Clyde Koontz told the Times-News today.

He said the audit has been planned since the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee called for it at the beginning of this year.

Auditors will have to "survey the organization" to decide how they will divide up HAW for analysis, Koontz said.

He said auditors will examine problem areas first and generally like to "keep an open mind" on priorities.

But, Koontz said, in its last meeting in June the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee directed the auditor to examine the department's contracting policies first. He said Rep. Ralph Brennan had wanted to see the health care problems, which apparently had developed from HAW contracting with the College of Idaho.

Hospitalized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Stanley K. Hathaway was admitted to Bethesda Naval Hospital on Tuesday after complaining to aides that he was not feeling well.

A spokesman in Hathaway's office said today doctors at the Navy hospital in nearby Maryland had not yet diagnosed his problem and more tests were underway.

"Hathaway told aides that he was not feeling well when after a breakfast meeting Tuesday" with other department officials, an announcement said. "The secretary completed his Tuesday schedule before going to the hospital."

Hathaway was nominated by President Ford earlier this year and sworn into the Cabinet post on June 13 following Senate approval.

What flood?

YOUNG Millstone, N.J., couple didn't seem to mind that their favorite road was under three feet of water as they went for a walk Tuesday after days of heavy rain had brought nearby stream over flood stage. Flood toll climbs in Northeast rampage

By United Press International

Homes and businesses were awash, crops lay in ruin at the height of the harvest season and the death toll mounted. It was midsummer weather on the rampage.

Floodwaters and torrential rains Tuesday drove hundreds of persons from their homes in the flooded Northeast in the latest of a three-day onslaught that has left at least 10 persons dead.

New Jersey was hardest hit — at least seven were dead in storm related accidents and four more were missing. There were reports of more than $20 million in crop losses and additional millions of dollars of damage to homes and businesses.

It's a sad day for New Jersey agriculture and even sadder for the consumer.

New Jersey Agriculture Secretary Phillip Alampi said after an aerial tour of seven counties in the flood-swept Garden State.

Tomatoes and wheat fields lay in ruin at the height of the harvest season. Their loss was bound to raise grocery prices throughout the Eastern states which rely on Jersey produce.

Gov. Brendan Byrne declared a flood disaster in New Jersey to bring federal relief to farmers and homeowners.

New downpours Tuesday hit communities already awash from more than 10 inches of rain. Some areas had received more than nine inches of rain in a 24-hour period.

The flooding and rain stretched from Delaware to New England. Delaware had two weather-attributed deaths and Pennsylvania one.

Some parts of Rahway, N.J., were under five feet of water. Rescue crews using boats evacuated 40 families in Trenton, N.J., where storm-related damage was estimated at more than $300,000. At least 35 families were evacuated and more than 22 roads flooded along the Raritan and Millstone rivers in Somerset County, N.J.

The New Jersey legislative session in Trenton was canceled because of highway flooding.

Floodwaters washed over main roadways in the New York City area during the morning rush hours Tuesday.

The rain stopped in New Jersey — at least temporarily — by mid-afternoon, and the National Weather Service said "the heavy precipitation along the northeast Atlantic coast is beginning to diminish."

One New Yorker, complaining "my tomatoes are washing off my roof garden."

was dubious. "This is St. Swithin's Day," he said. An old English tradition has it that if it rains on St. Swithin's Day it will rain for 40 days.

Useless operations cited

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A physician has told Congress about 32 million operations performed annually in the United States may be unnecessary, resulting in an estimated 16,000 deaths each year.

The House commerce oversight subcommittee opened hearings Tuesday on the problem by listening to the experiences of a Florida woman and California girl who underwent surgery which malpractice suits later determined were unnecessary.

Dr. Sidney Wolfe of the Public Citizens Health Research Group told the panel "the most conservative data" from 1973 studies showed 17.6 per cent of operations surveyed were excessive or unnecessary.

If the figures are applied to the 18.3 million operations performed in the United States in 1973, he said, that would mean "there are about 3.2 million unnecessary operations per year being done in the United States." Using the 0.9 per cent mortality rate associated with elective surgery, he estimated 16,000 deaths result each year from unnecessary surgery.

Guaria Valenzuela, a security guard at Sacramento Airport in California, said her daughter, Linda, now 14, caught influenza and began running a fever in 1968. A doctor decided Linda and her other children needed their tonsils removed and performed the surgery, Mrs. Valenzuela said.

Linda's operation led to 19 days in the hospital — 14 of them in intensive care. Her problem, since corrected but with after effects, actually was a hole in a carotid artery leading from the heart to the brain.

Dorothy O'Grady, 42, of Landerhill, Fla., said when she sought relief from recurring backaches a doctor examined her for a possible kidney problem and then called in a gynecologist who decided her uterus was "out of place."

She underwent surgery to move the uterus and "tie the tubes" but later learned doctors had performed a partial hysterectomy. They also discovered and patched a hole in her bladder, she said, but she still had the backache.

An orthopedist later determined that one leg was one-quarter inch shorter than the other. He recommended a lift in her shoe and exercises which "helped my back," Mrs. O'Grady said.

pected to be completed next spring. A recent government task force called the problem a matter for serious concern but recommended "additional research."

Earlier this week the Consumer Product Safety Commission turned down a petition which sought a ban on fluorocarbon-propelled aerosols under its jurisdiction, principally spray paints. That agency cited the need for additional research for its decision.

The information sought in an order published in today's Federal Register included annual production figures, percentage of propellant in the products, copies of the labels and methods of sale.

Spray cans probed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration today opened an investigation into thousands of aerosol spray products under its jurisdiction in preparation for possible crackdowns should studies show such sprays are harming the earth's atmosphere.

Saying it had concluded the matter warranted "immediate consideration," the agency published an order requiring all drug products, using fluorocarbon, aerosol propellants in the sprays to submit detailed ingredient information.

It asked for, but did not require, similar data from cosmetic and food products using the same propellant.

Fluorocarbon, principally freon, has been implicated in various studies as a possible threat to the ozone layer, which filters out harmful rays of the sun in the atmosphere. Some scientists have predicted increases in skin cancer if the layer is depleted sufficiently.

"Research now going on shows that a significant reduction in the ozone layer is likely to occur, the agency said, then "it must consider regulatory action concerning such products that are subject to the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act."

The National Academy of Sciences is engaged in a study of the question which is expected to be completed by next year.

Man convicted of fetus killings

CAMDEN, N.J. (UPI) — Winfield Anderson, who claimed he was asleep at a friend's house at the time a pregnant woman was shot during a "hip-hop" has been convicted in the murder of twin fetuses who died hours after premature birth.

The conviction Tuesday was unprecedented in New Jersey, where criminal codes had not clearly defined the protection under the law accorded to unborn children.

However, Camden County Judge Leon Wingate, drawing on Common Law, ruled that Anderson could be charged with murder since the 72-month-old fetuses were "victims of a wound upon their mother... were born alive... and subsequently died hours later."

The implication was that had the infants been stillborn, Anderson would not have been charged with homicide.

Prosecutor William Cahill Jr., son of former the New Jersey governor, had called the case a routine homicide. The jury deliberated more than 10 hours over a two-day period.

Anderson, 24, who firmly believed he would be found innocent, was shaken when the jury ticked off 10 guilty verdicts for the two murders and various offenses, including assault, robbery and possession of a gun.

When his attorney, Carl Taraschi, asked for a full call of the 175 men and six women, Anderson stood abruptly with hands outstretched, ready to be led away by a court attendant.

"Take me upstairs. I don't want to hear it," he said several times as his sister wept softly. Sentencing was delayed until next week. He faces a maximum term of life in prison.

Anderson was charged with firing the shot March 9 that hit Nikki Spearman, 22, in the abdomen. According to the testimony of physicians, a chorionic section was performed and both fetuses were breathing when born.

One of the infants, named John Lee, was struck by the bullet in the spinal cord and lived less than four hours. The other infant, named Jonathan Lee, was not struck by the bullet, but death was attributed to the premature birth and shock.

The shooting allegedly took place when Anderson went to Miss Spearman's house to purchase marijuana from her common-law husband and pulled a gun, demanding both the drug and cash.

Taraschi said he would appeal the verdict, but anticipated having to take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Anderson, 24, who firmly believed he would be found innocent, was shaken when the jury ticked off 10 guilty verdicts for the two murders and various offenses, including assault, robbery and possession of a gun.

When his attorney, Carl Taraschi, asked for a full call of the 175 men and six women, Anderson stood abruptly with hands outstretched, ready to be led away by a court attendant.

"Take me upstairs. I don't want to hear it," he said several times as his sister wept softly. Sentencing was delayed until next week. He faces a maximum term of life in prison.

Anderson was charged with firing the shot March 9 that hit Nikki Spearman, 22, in the abdomen. According to the testimony of physicians, a chorionic section was performed and both fetuses were breathing when born.

One of the infants, named John Lee, was struck by the bullet in the spinal cord and lived less than four hours. The other infant, named Jonathan Lee, was not struck by the bullet, but death was attributed to the premature birth and shock.

The shooting allegedly took place when Anderson went to Miss Spearman's house to purchase marijuana from her common-law husband and pulled a gun, demanding both the drug and cash.

Taraschi said he would appeal the verdict, but anticipated having to take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Blaze out in Lincoln

SHOSHONE — Fire crews from the Shoshone district Bureau of Land Management brought a man-caused blaze under control by Tuesday midnight.

Andy Payne, assistant fire control officer, said about 60 acres were burned and one-half mile south of Shoshone near the Milpout Substation, just off Highway 93.

Two tankers and a 10-man crew were dispatched when the blaze was reported about 10 p.m. The fire was declared out this morning.

PERFECT SERVICE because we care

Every Magic Valley family is important to us. And caring enough to serve perfectly every time is what our finer funeral service is all about. As fellow citizens, we believe that we should provide every care for the family with dignity, respect, humane courtesy. It doesn't cost more at White Mortuary, but our caring personal service is priceless.

State backs down

"I don't think that as much criticism as we get, it was any desire to have a sheriff's sale... but people seemed to think we were really out to create a serious incident," Palmer said.

Palmer said he wasn't aware of a threatened sale by local car salesman John Durham, who said Monday he planned to file suit against tax commission agents under the Civil Rights Act. "People in Boise were going to sue us, and I told them that's their pleasure," he said.

Utley credited High and his attorney Charles Brumach for any decision to return the machines without a sale.

High said his interest in the issue was "sort of two-way." "The legislature is responsible for the law, even if it is initiated by the tax commission," he said. "It was not the legislative intent to bypass due process."

Palmer said he was not particularly criticizing the commission, but "Any time any agency... gets arbitrary and capricious with respect to its clients, a legislator has the responsibility" to correct the situation.

Auction called off — MOVERS haul away confiscated cigarette machines in State Tax Commission crackdown on unlicensed users. After protests, the state dropped plans to sell the machines at auction.

Aliens go free in Idaho

BOISE (UPI) — Illegal aliens are going free in Idaho because the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service lacks money to detain and deport them to their native countries.

In southwestern Idaho, immigration authorities have advised law enforcement officials their agents no longer will pick up illegal aliens until further notice.

"We will not be able to arrest and detain illegal aliens in this area," Harrison Rhodes, supervisory investigator for southwestern Idaho, said, "although in aggravated circumstances we would have to handle an illegal alien if he had a criminal record or was involved in criminal activity."

He said 1976 detention and deportation funds have not been appropriated and last year's funds are gone.

"That's about all there is to it, we're out of money for the month until further notice," Rhodes said.

During the past 12 months an estimated 3,500 illegal aliens were permitted to remain in Idaho because the service lacked funds to apprehend, detain and deport them, officials said.

"We have to be very careful who we pick up because we don't have enough money to get rid of them," Presley A. O'Gren, acting chief agent for the Border Patrol at Spokane, the agency in charge of immigration in northern Idaho, said.

He said because of the 1975 fund cutbacks about 1,500 persons escaped apprehension by agents in this area.

Teacher strike possible

BOISE (UPI) — Teachers in the Boise School District are moving closer to a possible strike this fall, claiming the district is offering less in pay raises now than when negotiations broke off in May.

Trustees now are offering an average 10 percent increase to teachers and nurses and an 8.3 percent hike to principals, psychologists, social workers and counselors represented by the Boise Education Association.

"We're getting further in the hole... we'd better call talking or we'll be down to five per cent," Jack White, executive director for the BEA, said.

Acting School Superintendent Ron Runyan said the 10 percent offer is the fairest raise the board can make under the money available.

Plant hearing slated

BOISE (UPI) — Proposed air pollution regulations will be aired for coal-fired power plants at a hearing in Boise Thursday which Idaho Department of Health and Welfare officials said Tuesday could well run into two days.

Dr. Lee W. Stokes, environmental division administrator of Health and Welfare, said a number of organizations and individuals have indicated they will testify. He said the department is prepared to continue the hearing until everyone is heard.

The hearing will commence at 9:30 a.m. at the Idaho Supreme Court conference room.

The regulation would allow the state agency to require installation of the best available pollution control equipment at the time a coal-fired plant is built, Stokes said.

Idaho Power Company presently is proposing to construct a coal-fired generating plant south of Boise in the Orchard area.

Stokes said the strengthened regulation permits the department to insist upon use of newly developed control technology when the public interest would be served.

Under an existing regulation a plant is required to meet emission standards, he said, but there is no provision for requiring specific equipment.

Track meets under way

TWIN FALLS — Boys and girls from ages 6 through 14 will be participating all week in track meets at each city park.

Finalists will go to the city-wide track meet to be held at South Park Friday at 9:30 a.m.

Events include the softball throw, standing broad jump, high jump, 50- and 100-yard dashes, shuttle run and distance run. Boys and girls events are in age divisions of 6-9 and 10-14.

Youths should check their local park for details on the track meets. Each park will also go swimming at its usual weekly time.

The city provides free transportation for each activity, according to park supervisor Kris Amis.

Club meets

FILER — A Hi club met Thursday. The meeting was called to order by Jeff Custer, president with six members and a guest present.

Members discussed a dairy achievement day and an August picnic. Michelle Williams gave a demonstration on changing rollers.

The group also decided to tour the Peck Mill plant in Buhl Thursday July 24 at 10 a.m. for their next meeting.

Band concert Thursday in TF

TWIN FALLS — A trumpet trio will be featured at the weekly band concert Thursday at 8:15 p.m. by the Twin Falls City Band in the city park.

Gerald Ridgway, Dick Youree and Dennis Heidel will play "Bright Eyes" by Walter Finlayson. De Stauffer will direct.

Other band numbers will include "Knights-bridge March," Costas; "Fatiolita Overture," von Suppe; Tara's theme from "Gone With the Wind," Steiner; "Cinderella Waltz," Rodgers; "American Folk Rapody No. 3," Grundman, and "Tribology March," Osterling.

After intermission the band will perform "The Phantom Regiment," Anderson; "The Third Man Theme," Karas; "Hair 72," Dermott and "The New Colonial March," Hall.

The concert will close with the "Star Spangled Banner."

Filer trustees assume duties

FILER — Alvin Ochsmier and Dave Chadwick were sworn in as trustees of School District No. 513 Monday night during a special annual meeting.

During the reorganization meeting, Lawrence Knigge was re-elected chairman, Everett Andrews, vice chairman, and Mrs. Ray Baker clerk treasurer.

Other business: "Bevelly Uresti" was offered a contract to teach half-days of English in the sixth and seventh grades of the Filer Elementary School.

Approved the request of Mrs. LeRoy Fleenor, 101 lunch supervisor, for a five cent increase in the cost of school lunches. Beginning this fall elementary school lunches will be 45 cents, high school lunches 50 cents and adult lunches 75 cents.

Gave permission to Mrs. Fleenor to experiment with lunch innovations this fall such as a salad bar, fruit bar, offering cold sandwiches for those wishing and other new ideas.

Gave final approval to the bus contract which now awaits the signature of LeRoy Fleenor.

Trustees will be operating the 11 buses in the district, which transport students to Filer High School, Filer Elementary School and Hollister Elementary School.

Attorney says judge biased

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Jerry Paul, chief defense attorney for Joan Little, says the judge hearing her trial for the murder of a white father is an old man who "objects to the new way of doing things."

"He's clearly for the state," Paul said before the third day of jury selection began today in the 21-year-old black woman's trial.

Only two jurors, both young women, were selected in the first two days.

Miss Little stabbed 62-year-old Clarence Allgood 11 times in her Beaufort County jail cell last August, but claims he was trying to rape her. Her case has become a focal point for civil rights and feminist groups.

Paul lost his temper Tuesday when Judge Hamilton Hobgood disallowed some of his questions aimed at gauging attitudes of prospective jurors.

"Any questions—the state wants to ask, they have been allowed to ask," Paul snapped at Hobgood. "We have not been able to ask the questions we want to ask."

"I think your honor should exclude yourself because I don't think your honor can give Joan Little a fair trial," said Paul.

Hobgood's only reaction was to turn to the court reporter and say, "You may put that in the record."

"You can hold me in contempt if you want," Paul said. "There has been no attempt after another to railroad Joan Little and I don't plan to stand for it."

Paul told newsmen when court recessed, "He clear-he's for the state. He's just an old judge and he objects to the new ways of doing things."

Singapore leader moderating influence in Asia

SINGAPORE — In the past weeks following the fall of Saigon, a principal influence moderating the stamped by leaders of Southern Asia toward accommodation with Communist power is the leader of its smallest nation, Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore.

Lee is a moderate among the Chinese with a Cambridge education, living in a world surrounded by dreamy, romantic Malays. As such, he has won his neighbors about how to Peking and preached the necessity for a strong U.S. presence in the Western Pacific to balance both China and the Soviet Union.

He believes in the domino theory, in fact, if not name. Realizing that Singapore cannot survive if the Communist wave spreads through all of Southeast Asia, he eyes the post-Vietnam build-up of Communist insurgency in Malaysia and Thailand with deepest concern. "We are at the crossroads," Lee told us.

weaker, with the rush of ASEAN nations for diplomatic ties with China. Singapore, he says, will be the last ASEAN member to recognize Peking. "I believe that by Peking recognizing the existence of contrary regimes — and seeming to abandon the fraternal parties," Lee told us, "the parties become less and less the creation of China and, therefore, become stronger." To Lee, that is Peking's calculated strategy — to give pro-Peking insurgents the appearance of independent strength.

Nor does Lee doubt that a unified Communist Vietnam, after catching its breath, will actively encourage insurgency. He also views the stepped-up Soviet presence in Asia — its naval muscle-flexing, its 100-man embassy in Singapore, its demands for an Asian security conference — with some alarm.

The essential antidote prescribed by Lee is continued U.S. presence — "maintaining the security balance between the great powers so we are not caught by too rapid desire by the Soviets or China to preempt on each other for influence in the region.

But like many other Asian leaders, Lee is perplexed and troubled by the U.S. Congress making a foreign policy separate from President Ford's and privately considers it disastrous. Although more confident today that the United States will not abandon East Asia in the wake of Vietnam than when he visited Washington in May, he is far from convinced.

It is a major irony in East Asia today that Lee Kuan Yew, its most masterful actor, is confined to its smallest stage. Fearful of Communist intent and suspicious of American commitment, the strangling of Singapore sits upon his tiny island and tries discreetly to steer his big neighbors away from folly in these days of crisis for what remains of non-Communist Asia.

Deadly vandals

Someplace in Magic Valley there are some vandals who remove stop signs from intersections. They are the killers. They're on the run.

They probably don't think of themselves as killers. They probably thought it was fun and perhaps a bit daring to openly flaunt the law by repeatedly removing the stop signs at an intersection near Twin Falls. It was really daring to knock down the signs again after a neighbor put them back in place.

Then a Montana family — a father, mother and baby — drove up. Unlike the vandals, the Montanans didn't know the intersection. They drove right through.

All three were killed in the crash.

The shocking deaths have prompted four-highway districts to offer rewards totalling $1,000 for information leading to the arrest of the killer vandals or anyone else who defaces or removes road signs.

The action is a good one, if a bit late.

Our hope is the people involved in the fatal crash are caught and prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

More important, we hope a get-tough policy can curb the road sign menace in the future.

A juvenile or adult prank is one thing. Killing is something else.

Offense against Jackie

Oceanside, Calif. Blade-Tribune

An extremely flimsy little magazine trying to make a niche for itself in the already overcrowded field of bottom-of-the-sewer pornography is carrying in its current issue nude photographs of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, together with a patently manufactured article written only as a frame for the pictures.

The nude pictures of the former First Lady of the United States are about the only thing not indecent in the magazine which specializes in genitalia, both male and female, and sex pervasions.

The pictures of Mrs. Onassis were supposedly taken with a telescopic lens from a fishing boat off the privately owned Onassis island of Skorpios by a European photographer.

This is voyeurism of the lowest kind done in this case not for the off-beat kicks of a Peeping Tom, but solely to make money for the photographer.

This is as much an invasion of privacy of the lady as if the photographer were to have found an open bathroom window and taken pictures there, also, with his telescopic lens.

Magazine dealers who have qualms of decency about selling the publication are pressured by distributors to sell everything shipped to them or lose the service of all magazines, which are virtual distributor monopolies today.

The magazine itself is a sick production interested only in making some money no matter what the degradation.

There is something weak in our legal restraints when the privacy of a former First Lady of the nation, now a private citizen, can be invaded with impunity.

Thoughts

Aldous Huxley, English biologist, said, "Experience is not what happens to a man. It is what a man does with what happens to him."

Leigh Hunt, English poet, said, "There are two worlds — the world that we can measure with line and rule and the world that we meet within our hearts and imaginations."

Jim Masaryk, statesman and author, wrote, "What the world has to educate is fear and ignorance."

Elizabeth B. Browning, English poet, said, "There are nettles everywhere, but smooth green grasses are more common still. The blue of heaven is larger than the cloud."

Ford moves to paralyze challenge from right

Gerald Ford is moving very quickly and very effectively to paralyze a challenge from the right, which up until now has meant a challenge from Ronald Reagan. There is, for one thing, the early announcement of his candidacy — done amiably rather than defiantly, and lacking the fire in that off-putting snarl of a hunger for power that is associated with men of a different temperament.

But the announcement was by no means all. The President's three most conspicuous lieutenants are three conservatives, well known in different political spheres: As head of the election committee there is Howard Callaway, who stepped down as Secretary of the Army. Bo Callaway ran for Governor in his home state of Georgia and lost because he was too conservative (he came out against the minimum wage).

Dean Burch is not only known and admired for his work as head of the Federal Communications Commission, he is a Goldwater man from way back, chairman of the Republican Party when Goldwater was running for President.

David Backard is a businessman, but experienced in government as second in command of the Defense Department under Melvin Laird. He is a Californian whose interest in politics has sharpened as his concern for his country's future grows more acute. So . . . Gerald Ford has got himself (to name only these three) conspicuous American conservatives as the spinal column of his election staff.

Better not to run at all, than to run a campaign that is purely symbolic. He has been waiting to see signs of Ford's weakness. And, a few months ago, Ford was very weak. But in these past weeks, things have been going better for him.

Unemployment is not increasing, the rate of inflation is reducing, the loss of Indochina was substantially assimilated.

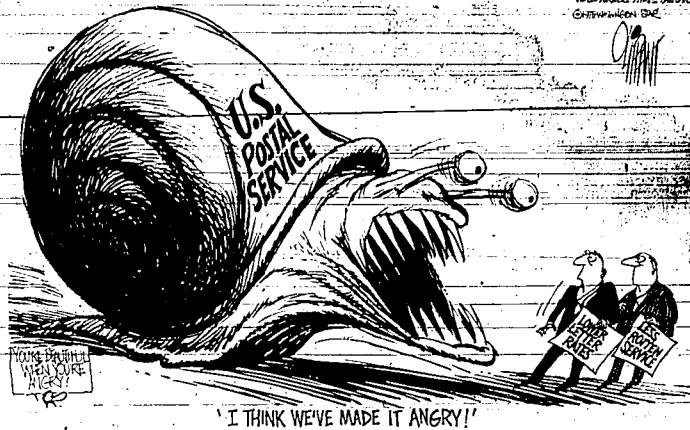

amiability of Ford has a creeping effect on the public's sensibility, and the failure of the Democrats to make common cause leaves the country with the most paradoxical political situation in this century: never has the Republican Party been more despised and seldom, at mid-term, has a Republican incumbent appeared more secure.

The Reagan forces have meanwhile reached a point somewhere between confusion and desertion, and some of them are beginning to look coyly in the direction of — John Connally, who would very much like to be President, and who makes powerful friends with great ease. George Wallace, it is currently believed by a widening circle of professionals, is sicker than he and the Palace Guard let on, and anyway, the latest findings are that a separate candidacy by Wallace would, in the end, hurt the Democrats more than the Republicans. The situation could change radically if, as the world begins to fall apart, which is always possible and, poetically, inevitable; and if (b) Ronald Reagan coincidentally throws the whole force of his formidable strength and personality into the breach.

Most British willing to write off revolution

LONDON — It seems only fitting that at the beginning of the celebration of our bicentennial we visit the mother country to whom all of us so much owe.

I am happy to report, with only a few exceptions, that most Englishmen have gotten over the American Revolutionary War. In fact, of the private gentlemen's clubs in London, many still do not know that they were ever there.

But now these days, unfortunately for the history and honor of the British people are willing to write off the Revolution as a bad show that George III got them into by duplicity and over-confidence.

Still, one hard-liner at White's Club told me, "We should have never gone in there with the Hessians unless we expected to win. Our problem was we didn't use everything in our arsenal against the revolutionaries. The only thing those shifty-eyed

I hate the War once. They never understood the terrain, and they didn't think the insurrectionists would fight. After all, they were so sure they could a rabble of acquiescent frontiersmen. It was only the superior military arms and training of His Majesty's troops. But we still could have won if Parliament had notified George III's hands when it came to voting me and

There is also still a great deal of criticism in some circles of the military. At Boodle's Club a retired major told me, "If Gen. Wolfe had not been killed at Quebec we would have never lost. He was the only military leader we had. In London Lord North received so many optimistic reports from the likes of Gen. Howe and Sir Henry Clinton that we all thought His Majesty's Special security by Gen. Cornwallis' extremely inflated body counts. Everyone over there insisted Washington was finished at Trenton, N. J."

Another Hawk on the Colonies, Col. Blaine, Ret., said, "I don't know whether to say this publicly or not, but the reason we lost is the navy.

Adm. Graves' decision not to engage the French off the Chesapeake Bay was a disaster. I'm still waiting for an inquiry, but I doubt if it will take place. Too many heads would roll."

Although the war is still being fought at White's and Boodle's, the man in the street rarely thinks about the American Revolution any more. The consensus among most Brits is that it's over and done with and England may be a better place today than 100 years ago. But when they invented television, and when I saw with my own eyes the frightful atrocities being committed by British troops I changed my mind."

An English banker said he was glad the American war over because it had been such a drain on the budget.

"We never really needed the Colonies," he said. "I would hate to think of what this country would be like today if America was part of the Empire. The pound would be weak and we'd have to Heaven knows how long it would have taken the Colonies to get their economy in order and bring their standard of living up to ours. Besides, you could never trust an American to remain a loyal subject of the crown."

"Why do you say that?" I asked him.

"Just look at what your people did in Nixon."

Nominee studies busing problem

WASHINGTON (UPI) — F. David Mathews, an Alabama educator nominated by President Ford as the new Health, Education and Welfare secretary, says busing to achieve racial integration has its drawbacks and may undermine efforts to extend quality education to all children.

Mathews told the Senate Finance Committee, which is considering his nomination, that as a "practical man" he has questions about whether busing has achieved the goal of extending better education opportunities to all children through desegregation.

"My view is that it has not produced good results and has made a great number of persons think their rights have been abused in the process," said Mathews, 39, the president of the University of Alabama.

"I believe very strongly that the children of this country should have equal opportunities to achieve a good education," he said, "but some of the means that have been used in the past may be counterproductive to those aims."

Mathews' statements were in response to questions from Sen. Herman Talmadge, D. Ga., who said forced busing creates "ill will between the races, is expensive, hurts education" and uses "vast quantities" of energy.

Mathews said he would "seriously consider" some of the negative data on busing cited by Talmadge.

"In the end, any method has to be justified in the final analysis by its effectiveness," Mathews said.

Mathews, who would succeed Caspar W. Weinberger in the health, education and welfare post, was well received by the finance committee, and his nomination appears to have no opposition.

It is questionable whether the soft-spoken southerner's views on busing would have a major impact on the operations of HEW. Although the agency does issue desegregation orders for school districts and controls distribution of federal education funds, past busing has been the result of local school board action or court orders.

Panel to focus on burglaries

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate panel investigating abuses of the U.S. intelligence community is turning its attention to illegal burglaries against foreign embassies. But committee leaders still hope to complete its findings on assassination schemes by September.

Attorney General Edward Levi and FBI Director Clarence Kelley planned to confer with the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence.

Chairman Frank Church, Idaho, has been critical of the cooperation he has received so far from the Justice Department.

Committee sources said the panel wants to investigate burglaries at embassies which the FBI has committed over the years in efforts to obtain information allegedly important to national security.

Kelley said Monday the FBI until recent years "has conducted" suspicious activities for national security, but breaking into foreign embassies and other places without warrants.

The Washington Post today quoted a source, who said he had approved many break-ins, as saying the FBI until 1969 conducted dozens and sometimes more than 100 burglaries annually. He said most of the burglaries were directed against the Communist Party, extremist groups, embassies and other targets involving "security cases." But some were conducted in ordinary criminal cases.

Meanwhile, Church told newsmen Tuesday evening the panel was making every effort to complete its interim report on alleged CIA assassination schemes on foreign leaders by September.

He promised the assassination report would be uncensored and complete.

He said the White House would have a chance to review the material to be published to insure "integrity" of the information. But he pledged that the committee, not the White House, will have the last say on what is to be published.

Waldheim says situation serious

By United Press International U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim mobilized diplomatic strength today to deal with what he called the "serious and dangerous" situation created in the Middle East by Egypt's refusal to renew the mandate of the U.N. peacekeeping force.

In Tel Aviv, the Israeli government issued a communique today saying the U.N. forces are an integral part of current agreements with Egypt and that Cairo's refusal to extend the mandate does not help the chances for peace.

Egypt has demanded the withdrawal of the U.N. force from the Sinai Desert next week unless negotiations with Israel achieve progress toward an interim peace agreement.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy told a news conference in Cairo Tuesday night he has advised Waldheim that Egypt would refuse to extend the peacekeeping mandate when it expires July 21.

Waldheim said private consultation among the 15 members was expected to begin a second meeting "in the next few days."

"It is a serious situation, a dangerous situation," Waldheim told newsmen, "and we can only hope the efforts which will be undertaken now will lead to an agreed solution."

Although Fahmy appeared to have an opening for the continued presence of the U.N. force of 4,000 men from seven countries as a buffer between Israel and Egypt in the Sinai, Waldheim said they could not remain without extension of the mandate due to expire in eight days. UNCF could not remain on duty without a mandate agreed to by both sides and approved by the Security Council, he said.

Earlier Tuesday, at a Munich press news conference, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, after asking if the Egyptian decision was "now official," said he doubted that Cairo would in fact demand removal of the UNCF.

Reception honors exiled author

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Exiled Soviet writer Alexander Solzhenitsyn has told Congress America is "complacent in its affluence" and "reluctant to understand the suffering caused by the Soviet government."

He spoke Tuesday at a reception in his honor in the Old Senate Caucus Room as the United States and Soviet Union dramatized their policy of détente by launching their joint Apollo-Soyuz space

Ford is to attend in Helsinki this month, the bearded, Nobel prize winner, named the legislators.

"In these very weeks when an amicable agreement of diplomatic shovels will bury and pack dead still-breathing bodies in a common grave, I tried to explain to the Americans that in 1973 — the tender dawn of détente — was when the starvation rations of Soviet camps was made even thinner."

Solzhenitsyn said that as détente has progressed, Soviet authorities have refined their "system of punishment" by introducing forced labor for prisoners in solitary confinement "who are cold, hungry, without fresh air, and working to impossible output norms."

The Russian author has won world renown for his historical novels on Soviet prison camp life. He recently was voted honorary U.S. citizenship by the Senate, but not yet by the House.

He told senators and congressmen the "overwhelming suffering" of the Russian past was a message "which comes to you, as it were, from the future."

Portugal party sets withdrawal

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — The moderate Frelimo Democratic party threatened to leave the coalition government tonight unless Portugal's leftist military rulers agree to set up a Western-style democracy.

The military's powerful 30-man Revolutionary Council called a meeting to discuss the situation but spokesmen for the Popular Democrats said they were pessimistic about the outcome.

The Socialist party pulled out of the government last week. A Popular Democratic withdrawal would leave the Communists as the only major party backing the military.

The Popular Democrats, the country's second largest party, gave the government until midnight to meet a list of demands, including a free press, free elections, and an active role for political parties.

The Socialists, the largest party, made similar demands before deciding to withdraw. Their pullout was sparked by the government's decision to give a Socialist-oriented newspaper to Communist employees occupying the building.

The Socialists and Popular Democrats also opposed the military's decision to create a mass peoples' movement to gradually take over the powers of the government.

More than 15,000 Socialists demonstrated outside their party's national headquarters Tuesday night to express their opposition to the government.

It was the first time a major party openly attacked the military since it took power in authoritarian repression and toward individual freedom and human rights.

"I want to tell you," he said, recalling his Soviet days before he was accused of treason and exiled last year, "how we take in your words, and deeds and actions, sometimes with approval, but sometimes with horror and despair."

Portugal party sets withdrawal

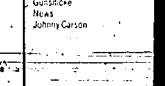

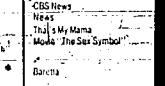

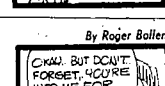

a coup 15 months ago. "The people are not with the MFA (Armed Forces Movement)," they chanted. "The people have been fooled. Action, Action."

Socialist leader Mario Soares told the crowd, their protest was only the first of many to be staged around the nation.

"The country is mobilized from north to south," he said. "We are ready to make sure that the revolution respects liberty and says no, no, no to dictatorship."

The crowd replied with shouts for the ouster of Prime Minister Vasco Goncalves, who has the strong support of the Communist party.

FUNNY BUSINESS

Nomads threatened by severe famine

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Famine has killed an estimated 50,000 nomads in the drought-ridden East African countries of Ethiopia and Somalia and threatens the lives of more than 3 million others, Western relief officials reported.

The officials said Tuesday millions of cattle, sheep and camels have also died in the drought that has gripped Africa from the Atlantic to the Indian Oceans in recent years.

Recent rains have produced a slight improvement, but the officials said millions of nomads in southern Ethiopia and neighboring Somalia still face starvation.

The situation is worst in Ethiopia, where the military government has failed to aid most of the 3 million famine victims the officials said.

The government has, however, rushed some 100,000 persons into hastily constructed refugee camps and also launched a worldwide appeal for more aircraft, helicopters and emergency relief supplies.

The Ethiopian drought was a major cause of the overthrow of Emperor Haile Selassie last year. Some reports from Addis Ababa say the new government has had little success in improving the situation.

Senate OK's oil price control extension

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has approved a half-year extension of oil price controls, ignoring President Ford's proposal that the per-barrel cost be allowed to move more than double over the next 30 months.

Speaker Carl Albert said the House would take the same approach.

But the showdown between the administration and the Democrats dominated a heated Congress on energy policy with some bills dealing with oil pricing — is just beginning to move and has no chance of final action before the August recess.

Senate passage of the six-month extension, 62-29, was only one indication of the major energy program Congress has mapped for the final three weeks before the recess.

The Senate also passed, 63-21, a bill that would force auto manufacturers to build cars that get double the mileage per gallon of the 1974 models by 1985. A similar provision is contained in a House-passed energy package.

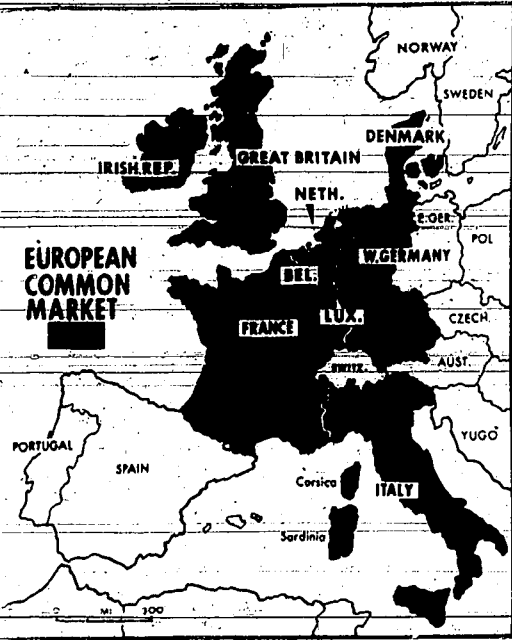

The bill authorizes the Transportation Secretary to set mileage standards beginning with the 1974 models reaching at least a 30 per cent improvement by 1980 and a 100 per cent improvement five years later — that would mean manufacturers would have to produce cars getting 21 miles-per-gallon in five years and 28 miles-per-gallon in 10 years of face times of $50 to a $100 a car.

The House Tuesday began debating a major energy package which would roll back the price of uncontrolled domestic oil, about one-third of production, to $7.50 a barrel and let the controlled oil gradually rise to the same price level.

House Republican leader John Rhodes told reporters "I have no signal from the White House but it is my personal opinion that this bill, as it came from committee, will be vetoed."

The House bill also authorizes rationing as a last resort to limit consumption.

through restrictions on oilfields — to 1974 levels, sets fines for auto makers who do not produce cars that get 18.5 miles a gallon by 1978, sets up a billion-barrel civilian oil reserve and authorizes the President to order energy cutbacks and maximum oil production.

Mart discusses Portugal

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) — Leaders of the nine European Common Market countries gathered today to discuss their economic relations with the leftist military government in Portugal.

Common Market foreign ministers were unable to agree at a meeting Tuesday on aid to Portugal and passed the issue on for debate at today's summit meeting of presidents and prime ministers.

The summit session was scheduled to start at 3 p.m. (8 a.m. EDT) after a preparatory morning meeting of Common Market foreign ministers.

Common Market sources said France opposed sending aid to the Lisbon government on the grounds it would encourage development of undesirable factions.

They said the eight other nations left the market should offer assistance in hopes of supporting non-democratic process and Communist political parties.

The Socialist party has already withdrawn from Portugal's coalition cabinet and the Popular Democratic party was scheduled to follow suit today, leaving the Communists as the only major party backing the military rulers.

Common Market foreign ministers were trying to reach agreement on the issue before a scheduled meeting with Portuguese Foreign Minister Ernesto Melo Antunes next Tuesday.

The aid would not begin until early next year and the exact amount or form it might take was unclear. It could amount to little more than a centralized coordination of assistance already provided by the market nations.

In several instances, Portuguese officials have been unable to agree on ways to use past aid and the money has remained frozen.

The two-day meeting was the second of three Common Market summits scheduled for this year. In one and agenda, it was the most modest and low-key European summit ever held.

The leaders were also scheduled to discuss the possibilities of a European energy policy and to review economic problems.

No decision on either was expected.

It was also possible the delegates might draft an outline for a European approach to the question of guaranteeing prices for commodities exported by Third World nations.

Henry rules out US role in Sinai

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has ruled out the possibility of U.S. military involvement in the Sinai Desert as a buffer between Israel and Egypt.

"Whatever might be done in the Sinai it will not involve the United States in any possible military operation," he said Tuesday in response to a question about a new interim agreement in the Middle East.

Kissinger told a news conference such involvement had not been brought up in general discussions on the Middle East.

The proposal, he said, was that the reconnaissance flights the United States has been conducting the past 18 months on behalf of both Israel and Egypt might be extended to a more permanent basis to warn both parties of military movements by one side or the other.

"That would be done from both sides," he said. "I would not be done for the United States and would not involve any possibility of any military combat."

Kissinger was on a speaking tour of the northern Midwest which brought him to Minneapolis for a speech and news conference Tuesday and to Milwaukee, Wis., Tuesday night, where he threw out the first ball at the All-Star baseball game.

He scheduled a news conference today in Milwaukee before flying back to Washington.

In his Minneapolis speech, Kissinger defended the U.S. Soviet detente, saying the joint manned mission in space, an area of "almost mutual rivalry" years ago is symbolic of the improved relations between the two superpowers.

Flames kill plane rider

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — A Miami man returning from his aunt's funeral in Philadelphia set fire to himself in a restroom aboard a National Airlines DC-10 Tuesday night, killing himself and forcing the plane to make an emergency landing.

Police said Anthony George Townsend, 23, of Miami, entered the restroom about 10:25 p.m., about 55 minutes after flight 1601 departed New York's Kennedy Airport for Miami.

About 20 minutes later, a stewardess, apparently alarmed by a flash of light from the restroom, discovered the fire and found Townsend's body on the floor of the charred restroom.

Police said no suicide note was found.

Jacksonville police spokesman Bob Morgan said a preliminary examination showed Townsend died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

He said Townsend had spread papers on the floor of the restroom and apparently doused himself with lighter fluid.

The New York to Miami flight, carrying 58 passengers and a crew of 12, was passing over Wilmington, N.C., when Townsend, who passengers said behaved erratically after boarding the plane, walked to the rear of the plane.

Townsend, wearing a T-shirt, secluded himself in the restroom, and set himself afire.

He challenged critics to offer a better alternative than detente and asked if they want to go back to the "constant crisis" danger and high cost of cold war.

Jill saves.

"They say the fastest way to a man's heart is through his stomach. But at today's prices, you have to go a little slower. Unless you know when to buy what at the best prices. I read the food columns to find out. He thinks I'm terrific."

India tightens security

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — The Indian government today amended its internal security law, giving authorities power to arrest any foreigner outside the diplomatic corps and imprison him without a trial for up to two years.

Indian President Indira Gandhi said the amendment to the Maintenance of Internal Security Act allowed central government or state officers to arrest non-diplomatic foreigners without giving a reason.

Legal sources said the amendment also tightened another "loophole" in the security law, making it impossible to appeal detention in the courts.

The amendment is the second promulgated since Prime Minister Indira Gandhi declared a state of emergency in India June 26.

The first amendment did not specifically mention foreigners were included under a presidential order.

June 27 suspending civil rights.

To date no foreigner is known to have been arrested under the amended security act, although one journalist has been expelled and another forbidden to enter the country.

Mrs. Gandhi, Tuesday, planned popular opposition leader Jayprakash Narayan for forcing her to proclaim the state of emergency.

Mrs. Gandhi, answering a cable from American pacifist and noted pediatrician Dr. Benjamin Spock, said an anti-government campaign by Narayan forced the decree.

In his (Narayan's) extreme anger and frustration at the lack of popular support, he called upon the army and police to disobey orders," she told Spock. "This is what compelled me to take the unpleasant decision."

Narayan, 72, a Mohandas Gandhi-style advocate of peaceful revolution, called for Mrs. Gandhi's resignation at a

June 25 rally and urged the government, military and police "to disobey any order they considered illegal."

Shortly before the decree, a civil court convicted Mrs. Gandhi of illegal campaign practices in the 1971 national election. Mrs. Gandhi has appealed the conviction.

Narayan and thousands of other opposition politicians have been jailed under the decree.

An official government statement said Spock had asked Mrs. Gandhi to release political prisoners and restore democracy in India. The statement did not elaborate on the Spock cable.

Mrs. Gandhi said the decree had not damaged "democratic liberty" in India. "But it would have been (damaged) if we had permitted the country to drift," she told Spock.

In another development, a highly placed lawmaker told UPI Tuesday Mrs. Gandhi may postpone national parliamentary elections.

Auto sales up sharply

DETROIT (UPI) — Early July sales of American-built cars were up a stronger-than-expected 6 per cent over June, but industry executives found their best news in the truck sales reports.

"The improved truck sales, industry executives said Wednesday, could drag car sales up with them and step up the pace of the slow recovery the industry has nurtured since early spring.

The industry's July 1-10 truck sales released Tuesday showed car sales still 5 per cent below year-ago levels and 32 per cent down from record levels two years ago. But the normal pattern is for an 8 per cent drop between early July and the first part of July.

Truck sales were up 4 per cent over last year, a feat auto sales haven't accomplished since September. Chrysler truck deliveries were a record for a July 1-10 period.

Lincoln County will safety inspect town vehicles

SHOSHONE — A safety inspection program for county owned vehicles has been approved by commissioners.

In his report to the Commissioners Monday, Sheriff B. J. Anderson said the only cost to the county would be the purchase of a light testing machine.

County "supervisor" Byron Hall and possibly another person will take necessary tests and be designated to check the vehicles.

County vehicles to be inspected will include those used by the sheriff's office, the assessor, search and rescue units and weed department.

Inspection fee savings was given as reason for the program. Legislation is being promoted to increase the fees up to $7.50 for trucks and $5 for other vehicles.

Lyle Moneur, region five medical and financial assistant staff training supervisor, met with the commissioners Monday in regard to the food stamp program and finances for "winterizing" of homes of low income persons.

A state representative will be at the treasurer's office in Shoshone from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on the second and fourth Thursdays to allow interviews for persons on the food stamp program.

Moneur said there were 12 families with minor children receiving aid last month; 17 persons in the Wood River Convalescent Center receiving assistance; and 17 persons receiving supplementary help from the state; 28 people received food stamps last month and 20 people received medical help without state help otherwise.

Increase in allowances will increase the case load costs in the county about 16 per cent, Moneur said.

Commissioners decided that home "winterizing" costs per individual must not exceed $150, or if they do, the extra cost must be handled by the individual.

Hall was advised that wages earned for assistance he gives Camas County in its weed program should be paid to him and that costs of vehicle operation, 15 cents a mile, goes to Lincoln County.

County "civil defense" director Reid Newby explained the surplus and excess equipment program to the commissioners, noting that a truck purchased from excess property is being converted into a fire truck for the Wood River Fire District and that the District fire truck is being "fitted" with a generator to be used in keeping pipes from freezing in the winter and to provide lights. Costs of conversions will run more than $8,000 but matching federal funds are to be applied to help cover that amount.

Newby also reported on a seminar he recently attended for civil defense in which warning was given regarding hazardous materials transported by truck and trains and their dangers to citizens in event of accidents.

Newby and chairman of the commissioners, Ward Mills, were both designated to sign applications for surplus or excess property. Only Newby has been designated to sign for such applications and his could hamper the purchase in event he was not available at a time such equipment might be obtainable.

Assessor E. D. Savaria and Wayne V. Powell, Idaho Falls, Bonneville Blue Print Supply Inc., met with the commissioners regarding updating the county plat books.

Rattlesnakes in Boise found in Boise

BOISE (UPI) — Rattlesnakes are within striking distance of Boise.

At least two have turned up within the city limits and Dick Merrill, a game biologist for the Idaho Fish and Game Department, says that's highly unusual.

Paul Ulmer, an employe of Boise Slope, found one of the snakes Monday when he bent over to pick up a piece of paper and discovered the rattler lying beside it. Employees captured the snake and placed it in a wastebasket.

Norell said a man and game employe found a rattlesnake in a maintenance yard last week.

"I'd say it's highly unusual to find a rattlesnake in town," Norell said. "I just can't think of any reason why they'd be coming down this far out of the hills."

Aerosol ban rejected

Bobby's pointy hat hit by lightning

Fire pole now history

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission has turned down a petition for a ban on aerosol sprays, which critics say may be destroying the important ozone layer of the earth's atmosphere.

The agency, saying there is not enough information available now to warrant such a move, rejected on a 3-to-2 vote the petition filed last fall by the Natural Resources Defense Council.

Two commissioners disagreed. They said the first phase of a ban should have been started immediately.

The NRDC requested a ban on all aerosol products which contain fluorocarbon gases — principally freon — because such gases allegedly could destroy the ozone layer which filters out harmful rays from the sun.

Since then, a government task force has called the possibility of ozone destruction a matter for serious concern and the National Academy of Sciences has begun a study of the problem.

The NRDC called the commission's action a flagrant disregard of the responsibility which the commission has to protect people's health.

For every year that the banning of these aerosols is delayed, it said, "evidence shows that an additional 2,000 to 4,000 people will be stricken with skin cancer."

The Consumer Product Safety Commission announcement on Monday is the latest in a series of actions pending or filed before the agency on the aerosol question.

WARRINGTON, England, (UPI) — A bobby directing traffic at a busy intersection was hit by lightning Monday. The bolt struck the point of his traditional blue hat.

Patrolman James Allen, 20, escaped injury except for mild shock and a headache. He returned to his chores after resting in a police car for half an hour.

"I felt a blow on the head," Allen said, "and then I felt like I had been plugged into the mains."

It was raining at the time and motorists said they saw the lightning bolt hit the policeman's hat.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The fire pole, that quick trip down for firemen rushing to battle a blaze, is being replaced by the more modern fire hose jumper and the fireman's ladder.

Modernization of fire hoses and safety are eliminating the brass or steel poles, but no one is complaining.

"It's a proven fact that fire poles tend to cause injuries," said Deputy City Fire Chief Robert Schultz. "Using just a pole to break you down to receive the fire below can cause back and knee injuries."

Schultz also said that once the hose jumper and fire hose ladder are put into use, the fire pole will be a thing of the past.

He said there are only two poles left in the Sacramento stations and he is not even using those any more.

Schultz said the poles were first developed for speed. Not all poles were alike, but the ones that were used, Schultz said, were made of brass and steel. Firemen pulled them with their hands, fire they use their arms and legs as a brake.

While old-time fire engines are still restored and some fire departments still keep them for historical purposes, the fire pole doesn't undergo much restoration.

"They're just pieces of pipe, you know," he said.

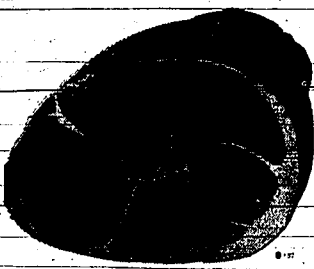

Fire departments are not even complaining about the new, innovative practice of putting down a scale of iron, which is used to get firemen up and down.

"If anything, they're happy not to get battered up," he said.

your health

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

Several years ago I took birth control pills for about 14 months. I have not used them in over two years, but I continue to have "pregnancy mask" on my face.

It consists of unsightly brown spots above my eyebrows, on my upper cheeks, around my nose and under my eyes. These spots are dark enough to be noticeable to others, and they are embarrassing. Can you tell me how to get rid of them? — Mrs. F.L.

This is the so-called mask of pregnancy, known medically as melasma or chloasma. It is a matter about which we know rather little except that it is somehow related to hormonal changes that accompany pregnancy. Since the pill does, in effect, act by stimulating conditions of pregnancy—thus, discouraging pregnancy—it is not surprising that such skin pigmentation irregularity should occur with its use. A woman who has experienced this discoloration during pregnancy should not use the pill.

Melasma that occurs in pregnancy will usually disappear after the birth takes place. For some reason yet unknown, skin changes with use of the pill are more persistent, lasting often for years, as in your case.

There is not much, really, to be done about it, although a cream of two per cent hydroquinone has been tried with some success in lessening the darkness of the discoloration.

The body's hormonal changes seem to account for much of the skin discoloration women encounter during their lives. A young girl may experience a slight pigmentation change at the time of her first menstrual period.

LT. AND MRS. WILLIAM MALONE

Hormonal changes discussed

As women enter menopause a different hormonal imbalance may produce similar symptoms. The same factors seem to be at work in the expected darkening of a woman's nipples during pregnancy. This, too, disappears with a couple of months after birth.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

Over my past 30 working years I have put myself into the habit of going to the water cooler for a drink, and then automatically to the bathroom to relieve myself. This happens about every two hours.

I operate a machine and this is my break time. I have been told that I have a slightly enlarged prostate, but otherwise it's okay. If I hold my urine too long it is not as strong in force and power, and is slower — T.W.

This could be a habit developed from your periodic (two-hour) work breaks. But other possibilities should be considered — diabetes mellitus (sugar diabetes) and diabetes insipidus. Both of these are characterized by thirst and urinary frequency.

Your annual checkup should reveal the proper type, particularly if the blood sugar test is taken two hours after a meal. Diabetes insipidus, a rarer disorder, can cause you to drink five quarts or more of fluid a day. Diagnosis would be made by special tests that would not be a part of your regular annual checkup. This is why you should mention your habitual urination to your doctor.

If there is a family history of diabetes, or if you are overweight, the likelihood of diabetes playing a role is increased.

Your slightly enlarged prostate could also be a cause of a slowing down in your urine stream, but it would not be a factor in your thirst.

If the possible factors I've mentioned are ruled out by examination, I would tend to attribute your drinking-urination pattern to simple habit. We all develop little conditioned responses such as yours in our day-to-day lives. We are all creatures of habit in this respect.

Note to Mrs. J.M.:

Adenomyosis is a complication of endometriosis, in which glands of the endometrium (the inner lining of the uterus) invade the muscular portion of the uterus. It is a cause of uterine bleeding. Hysterectomy is usually indicated.

lovelier you

By Mary Sue Miller

If your job is keeping house, do start the day off right. The breakfast hours are not the time to wear grimy jeans and a shirt that once was white. Maybe you are going to do a dirty chore like weeding the garden or cleaning the refrigerator later on, but don't let your appearance make a chore of the morning meal.

By the way you look in the dawn's early light, you are remembered during the day. Brushed hair, a little lipstick, and a cheery outfit set you to rights. New housewearing designs will take you to the breakfast table and the grocery store.

• Dresses, Found in the Robe Department of stores, slip-on dresses with belts (little sleeves if desired) in bright plaids, knitted flourescent and stripes.

• Pants—as long as they fit, you and the washing machine. Just so, you are off to a good start. Why not aim to end the day right? The National Safety Council states that you are less likely to meet with accidents when you work in well-fitted flat or low-heeled shoes. For "operation ladder," you need non-skid soles.

Florida miss, Malone exchange nuptial vows

KIMBERLY — Janet Lisa Marshall, daughter of Mr. Robert Marshall, Bradenton, Fla., and Lt. William H. Malone, U.S.M.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Malone, Kimberly, were united in marriage in an evening ceremony in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church July 14.

The bridegroom graduated from the United States Naval Academy and is presently stationed at Quantico, Va.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert Cooper before an arrangement of silver candelabra with yellow and white baby roses.

The bride, given in marriage by the bridegroom's father, wore a long dress of natural coloring in Victorian styling. The dress featured a high lace neckband and lace inserts in the long sleeves and skirt. She wore a crown of yellow and white baby roses and carried a bouquet of yellow and white baby roses.

The matron of honor was Frances Malone, mother of the bridegroom. Rod Malone, brother of the bridegroom was usher and candle lighter. Mrs. Fran Ritter played the piano.

A reception was held in the parlor, after the ceremony. The table was decorated with gathered white lace over organza.

The cake was surrounded with yellow and white baby roses and wedding lace. Mrs.

Weekend Arts Festival slated in Jerome

JEROME — McClure's Coach 'n' Four Ranch, 4.3 miles south of Jerome on the old Jerome highway will host three evenings of singing and dancing this weekend.

The public is invited. Admission is free. More than 1,200 people attended last summer's presentation of this Arts Festival. The ranch polo is very large and it is hoped that the crowd will be doubled this year.

Friday and Sunday evenings will feature arias, duets and various ensembles drawn from grand and light opera as well as musical comedy as sung by the same quartet of concert artists that sparked the 1974 edition of the festival.

Saturday evening, July 19, will bring the Ballet Folk of Moscow to the stage with classical, musical and modern ballet. During the past year, this dancing company has played to more than 20,000 people. They have developed their art so that they rank with the finest of traveling troupes. This performance of ballet will be the "kick-off" for the ballet workshop at CSI to be conducted by Ballet-Folk—the Festival-Quartet.

The Festival-Quartet is composed of the finest vocal artists on the West Coast, Dr. McClure said. Marie Gibson, soprano, is a leading soprano with the Los Angeles Opera Co., the Guild Opera of Los Angeles, the Carmel Beach Festival and the Bach to Mozart Performing Ensemble of San Francisco.

She is senior lecturer in voice at Stanford University and is head of the vocal program there. She is well known as soloist in both Los Angeles and San Francisco areas.

Charlotte de Windt, mezzo-soprano, a graduate of the University of Michigan and of the Philadelphia Academy of Vocal Arts, has appeared with the Little Orchestra Society, with the Roger Wagner Master Chorus.

Alex Martin, tenor, hails from Cleveland where he won the Cleveland Concert Series of the Air and was soloist many years with the Cleveland Civic Chorus. He has been tenor soloist at the Los Angeles Conservatory of Music, the Hollywood Opera Reading Club, the Euterpe Opera Reading Club as well as with the great Wagnerian tenor Lauritz Melchior.

Harry Reed, bass, is principal soloist with the Los Angeles Opera Guild and with the Cosmopolitan Opera Company of San Francisco. He has appeared at all of the major music festivals in California and with the Pasadena Symphony Orchestra.

The accompanist and director of the Festival Quartet in Anita Priest. She is fitting her appearance in Jerome into a summer already filled with performance commitments at the Hollywood Bowl, at United Artists recording studios and a tour of Europe.

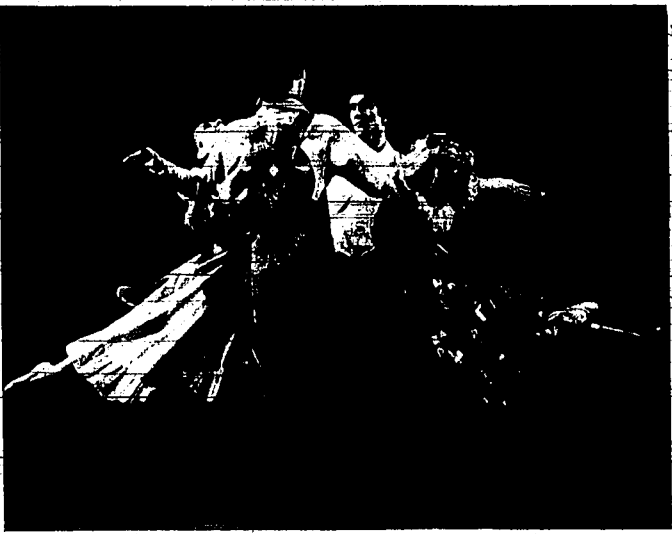

Miss Priest is a regular member of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra. She records frequently for films and for television. She is a principal soloist at the Ojai Music Festival and at the Monday-evening Concerts in Los Angeles Museum of Arts.

Ballet Folk is the only touring ballet company in the Northwest. Under the energetic and able artistic direction of Carl Patrick and Jeanette Allyn, the company has received enthusiastic receptions wherever it was played. Its dancers come from many areas including the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, the Bolshoi Theatre in Moscow, and the Pennsylvania Ballet.

The company travels lightly, packing all of its props and dancers into a brightly decorated bus. It performs in every location.

Its appearances in the open air under the stars at the Coach 'n' Four Ranch has quietly undreamed of in the confines of the concert hall.

The company is a thoroughly delightful group of people, Dr. McClure said.

Obesity problem

PULLMAN, WASH. (UPI) — You are what you eat and Dr. Ruth Steinkamp says too many Americans are fat.

Dr. Steinkamp, a Little Rock, Ark., physician and member of the state health department there, said obesity is a pressing medical problem now and for the future in the U.S.

She has been conducting a workshop on "Prenatal, Infant and Child Nutrition" at Washington State University.

The former World Health Organization official said obesity is directly linked to increases in chronic diseases such as diabetes, arteriosclerosis and many types of heart disease and hypertension.

"We must take a good look at the total food picture and learn more about the nutritional quality of all the new foods that are coming onto the market," Dr. Steinkamp said.

"The outlook for the future food supply is excellent, particularly with all the new foods such as soy beans and other high-protein, vegetable products that are being developed as meat substitutes."

While the proper food is available, the nutritionist said "children and adults in this country must be motivated to change their habits toward a more healthful diet."

Exhibit scheduled

KIMBERLY — An art and handicraft exhibit will be featured Saturday during the Kimberly Good Neighbor Day.

Rose Litzinger, coordinator of the exhibit, said that all artists interested in showing their work should be at the park by 10 a.m.

A $1 entry fee will be charged and proceeds of the sale will go to the artists. Artists are responsible for their own easels and should bring their own easels for displaying paintings. Tables will be available for crafts.

DEAR ABBY: I've been a widow for two years and have relocated to a completely different area, where I have no close friends and no one to talk to about this.

I met a gentleman last year, and I like him very, very much. He wants to marry me, but I don't want to relinquish my freedom.

I do not want a legal tie with him for one reason. He is addicted to alcohol. He seems to handle it wisely, but I don't want to be his wife. Also, we are both in business and I need some time to myself. I enjoy his company enormously, however, and we are compatible in every way. I am 57 and he is 63.

I've considered suggesting to him the new "living together" arrangement so many younger people now find to their liking. He's pressuring me for an answer.

What do you say?

"7 AND HOLDING"

DEAR "57": Remain holding. Don't marry him feeling as you do. And don't suggest living together, either. Continue to see him as long as you enjoy his company, but if he gives you an "either-or," take the "or."

She's 57 and holding

DEAR ABBY: The problem briefly: Our daughter (a good student at an out-of-town college) recently volunteered the information that she is a lesbian. We were stunned since we had no inkling of this.

After discussions and correspondence on the subject, she refuses any form of counseling and says that she is happy at the present time and sees no need to change. What can we do as her parents to keep her from ruining her life? We love her.

NEW YORKER

DEAR NEW YORKER: Why do you assume that her sexual preference will necessarily "ruin" her life? If you love her, accept her as she is and let her know it.

DEAR ABBY: I am highly allergic to dogs. The odor of dogs makes me sick. I can even smell it on a neighbor's clothing. My problem is that my son has married a dog lover, and they have a dog.

I explained to them what my problem was and even offered to buy my daughter-in-law a monkey or any other kind of pet she wanted, if only she would get rid of the dog. So far, she still has the dog.

Of course I can't go over to their place, and when they come to see me, the odor of their dog is on them, and I can't tolerate it for long.

It seems to me that my daughter-in-law could live without a dog if she had to choose between having one and seeing me. What do you think?

HURT

DEAR HURT: Asking a dog lover to get rid of her dog is asking a lot. But if you, people are more important than dogs. Or they should be.

CONFIDENTIAL TO K: So if your husband wants to read "dirty" books, don't embarrass him by telling him you "found" them—knowing that he hid them from you. How can what he reads hurt you?

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send S1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lakeside Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

North's bidding has been both brilliant and successful. He could have jumped right to six diamonds, but he wanted to buy the hand there so he bid just five. Then when West went to six hearts North felt he had to save at seven diamonds.

East had no idea that there was any danger of South making seven diamonds and he was not interested in seven hearts; hence he doubled seven diamonds.

East really should not have doubled. If he had passed the chances are that West would have bid seven hearts on the theory that it just might make. North might well have opened a club and his heart grand slam would have come in.

Ask the Jacobys

A reader from Indiana sent us today's hand with the question: "How should it have been bid and played?" We discussed it in the article, but the answer to the question is that no one knows. Good bidding is based on the study of thousands and thousands of hands. Freak hands occur so seldom that everyone has to guess when bidding them.

(Do you have a question for the Jacobys? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and writers will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

By Oswald & James Jacoby
I've thought a long time about his opening lead. He finally came to the conclusion that some one could ruff a heart lead, but that East's double had to be based on one of the black aces. If he held the club ace, it would keep; if he held the ace of spades, it might be important to lead to it right away.

MR. AND MRS. DON MAIER

Miss Aldritt, Maier wed in TF ceremony

TWIN FALLS — Janaye Deanne Aldritt and Don G. Maier were united in marriage June 27 at the Bethel Temple Church in Twin Falls.

Rev. Carroll McGruder, assisted by Rev. Norman Dillon, performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Aldritt, Kimberly, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Otto Maier, Rupert. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a beautiful style lace gown with hoop skirt, bishop sleeves and a long train with tiers of lace. The mantilla veil was chapel length and made of net. She carried a bouquet of baby blue roses and a white carnation in a cascade arrangement.

Maid of honor was Janell Aldritt, sister of the bride, Kimberly, Dana Aldritt, sister of the bride, Kimberly; Rhonda Maier, sister of the groom, Rupert; Pamela Weddle, Filer, and Sharon Yarrrough, Twin Falls, both cousins of the bride, were bridesmaids.

The best man was Steve Maier. Groomsman were Dennis Cole and Jonathan Walker. Robert Lassiter, Bud Yardley, David Aldritt, Norval Wildman, uncles of the bride, were ushers. Other attendants were Quinn Yarrbrough and Nell Lassiter. Sean Yardley and Tammy Lassiter were miniatures of the bride and bridegroom. Ringbearer was Tammy Lassiter and flower girl was Tasha Maier.

The color theme of the reception was pale and royal blue. The reception line greeted the guests before a pale blue australian pouf backdrop. The five-tiered cake was decorated with blue flowers and placed on the bride's table which was covered with a turquoise tablecloth.

The reception assistants were Mrs. Robert Heldemann, Mrs. Bud Yardley, Mrs. Robert Lassiter, Mrs. Leah Cole, Mrs. Everett Aldritt and Mrs. Dale Messner. Soloists were Mrs. Rozello Wildman, aunt of the bride; Mrs. Stella Messner and Eddie Aldritt, both cousins of the bride. They were accompanied by organist Mrs. Charles Garner and Roy Beams.

Forest routes planned

SALMON — The Salmon National Forest is identifying areas of land and travel routes where use of off-road vehicles may or may not be allowed.

The affected areas, roads and trails are listed on a Salmon National Forest travel map which is available for inspection at the forest supervisor's office.

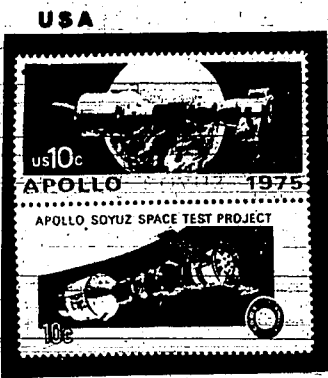

Comments, either verbal or written, on the preliminary plan should be received by Sept. 1. Public meetings will be held on this date. The implementation date for the final travel plan is no later than Dec. 30, 1976.

Under the proposed plan the following would be open yearlong to foot and horse travel only:

- Idaho Primitive Area, Woodtick-Bighorn-Crags-Horse Creek proposed areas for wilderness classification.
- Hat Creek Lakes-East from Taylor Mountain Divide including the headwaters of North Fork and Middle Fork of Hat Creek, Salmon River trail from Corn Creek Campground to primitive area boundary at Horse Creek.

Closed to all uses, except by permit:

- Salmon River watershed including national forest land in the Pollard Canyon; Chipps-Creek, Turner Gulch and parts of Jesse Creek drainages. The old Leesburg Road is not included.

Benefits to end for U.S. jobless

LOS ANGELES — Thousands of jobless Americans — the first victims of the recession, and the epidemic of layoffs that began with the Arab oil embargo late in 1973 — are running out of the unemployment benefits that have kept them financially afloat until now.

For the most part, they are workers who were the earliest of the expendables — the old, the young, and the least skilled — who now are likely to be among the last hired as the nation's faltering economy begins to recover.

The repeated extension of federal unemployment benefits approved by Congress to soften the effects of the recession — to a maximum of 65 weeks for some workers — has provided an economic prop for the vast majority of unemployed. Most of the 62 million people who are now receiving federal assistance under various unemployment benefit programs still have many weeks or months of additional eligibility, according to state and federal officials.

But, manpower officials around the country interviewed this week said that many people eligible for the full 65 weeks of aid have already exhausted their eligibility. And for others, who lacked the necessary eligibility factors, their benefits, too, have run out.

Officials in several states forecast a large increase in the number of people whose benefits will expire during the next 90 days.

In New York, according to the state Labor Department, approximately 50,000 persons have already exhausted their 65 weeks of benefits, and the agency forecast that this number will increase by 3,000 to 5,000 weekly during the next three months.

In Florida, the state administrator of unemployment compensation said benefits had expired there for fewer than 5,000 people, most within the past month. But, he predicted the number will total 75,000 more during the next 90 days.

In the next few months, this will pyramid, he said. "We've had three extensions of the federal program, and I don't think we're going to get a fourth."

A Rhode Island employment security official, said that, already this year, there had been a 124 per cent increase among those whose eligibility had expired — a total of 16,011 — and he forecast a continuing increase.

In Detroit, hard hit by layoffs in the auto industry, a spokesman for the Michigan Employment Security Commission said, "We expect substantial increases of exhaustions in the July-September quarter, and the number will continue to increase through the first quarter of 1976."

Judge sentences man to life in prison

BLACKFOOT (UPI) — Jesse Longoria, 41, has been sentenced to life in the Idaho State Penitentiary by District Judge Arnold T. Beebe on a second degree murder charge stemming from the May 10 slaying of Angelo Lamie in downtown Blackfoot.

Lamie was shot seven times and Longoria was arrested on a first degree murder charge. Following plea bargaining between the defense and prosecution, however, Longoria was allowed to plead guilty to the lesser second degree murder charge.

In pronouncing sentence Monday, Beebe told Longoria "your record shows you have been a violent man who takes the law into his own hands. I can't turn you loose on society so long as you have this attitude."

Beebe said Idaho law requires a man sentenced to life must serve 10 years but he told Longoria "the state board of corrections can commute the sentence to a lesser term."

Longoria's defense was that he feared Lamie and fled.

Blaine County trustees may appeal court decision

HAILLEY — The Blaine County School Board may appeal a recent Fifth District Court decision if it lost next week for breach of contract.

Nan Vance, a Wood River High School math and science teacher in 1973-74, sued the district for opening her position after the board offered her a job for the 1974-75 school year. Vance contended in the suit the district did not wait the required 10 days for her to return a signed contract before opening her job.

Wayne Fagg, school district superintendent, said at the Monday night board meeting "the contract has still not been received at the district office although the teacher contends she mailed it to the Hailley Post office."

Fifth District Judge Douglas Kramer in making the ruling said the board did not give Vance a "reasonable period of time" to return the contract before offering her position to others.

Kramer awarded her $6,800 in damages. School board member Mark Patterson said Monday night that if the board loses the case of winning on appeal, "I think we should go after it."

Art Richards, board member, agreed with Patterson. The board will wait for attorney Stratton Laggis' opinion before pursuing an appeal.

In other action, former Bellevue teacher Nina Hurst asked a narrative from principal Claude Ballard and a letter to the school board he wrote be taken from her open file and placed in a secure place.

The board agreed to put the two letters in a grievance file which is permanently locked.

Mrs. Hurst and Ballard were involved in a controversy at Bellevue Elementary before the school year ended. The board ruled Mrs. Hurst would not teach for one year in the Blaine district and that she be assigned to a different school if she wishes to work in 1976.

In other action the board rehired Supt. Wayne Fagg for two years. He was given a 10.5 per cent pay raise which increased his salary to $20,900 per year. Rhonda Hunt was re-elected board chairman.

The board agreed to subsidize the hot lunch program for $4,000. Fagg announced the deficit and blamed the increased cost of food and higher salaries for cooks for the shortage.

Fagg said something must be done about the free lunches given to teachers on lunch duty. In addition, he said, portions to teachers may have to be cut.

The board discussed increasing the lunch prices a dime over last year instead of the five cent proposed raise.

Recommendations of the board now call for 45 cents per lunch for elementary students, 50 cents for grades 7 through 12 and 60 cents for adults, a raise of five cents. The board will discuss the issue at the next board meeting.

Q: "How do you turn a finicky nibbler into a chow hound?"

A: First, experiment with the basic flavors dogs like most: beef, liver, chicken. For example, try Blue Mountain Beef Burgers, Chopped Liver Patties, and Chunky Chicken Casserole. Find the one he likes best. Then start feeding him on a regular schedule, the same time every day. And don't give between-meal tidbits.

Vandalism continues

TWIN FALLS — Sheriff Paul Corder said today the stop sign vandalism in this area has apparently not been stopped by the tragic Saturday night accident in which three people were killed.

He said his office received a report of stop signs being torn out near Hagerman Tuesday. The incident occurred in Gooding County and the sheriff's office there was alerted, Corder said, and will handle the investigation.

He said the signs were removed in the vicinity of the Orley Bridge. The four highway districts in Twin Falls County have joined in offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for removal of signs.

Corder said his office is especially interested in finding those responsible for the removal of signs where three Montana residents were killed Saturday, one mile south of Curry, but the reward also applies to sign removal in the future.

Blaine blocks shopping center

By BART QUESNELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — The Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission denied a rezoning application for a shopping center north of here.

The commission also denied McCulloch Properties Inc. rezoning for a resort-type development two miles west of Hailey in Democrat Gulch.

Most commission members, in denying Twin Falls attorneys Lloyd Walker's shopping center request, felt rezoning on 11 acres directly north of the Hailey City limits and west of U.S. Highway 93 would open the highway to strip development.

Allan Reynolds, zoning administrator, said the Walker land is some of the best residential acreage in the area. The land is now zoned R-1, a high density residential designation.

Walker presently has two acres zoned commercial and wants to add nine acres to the commercial zone.

Commission member Jack McGuire presented a plan from another developer to locate a huge hostel north of the Idaho Power substation if the Walker plan is approved.

Two other men in the area have told the commission they will apply for commercial designation if Walker is granted a rezoning on his land.

McGuire told other commission members that if Walker's request was granted the hostel would attempt to secure a commercial designation.

"If we give Walker a rezoning, we've stripped it," McGuire said, referring to U.S. Highway 93. Walker's property is located north of several commercial and light industrial use operation. Several homes are also located near his land.

Chairman of the group, Nick Purdy, said before the commission voted on the matter, "I think we will go to court on this."

Purdy said Walker would submit a planned residential unit development to the commission under the present classification. The P.R.U.D. would allow Walker some commercial use in the overall development.

Purdy told the commission Walker would likely use in court the fact that throughout the entire planning process toward completion of a comprehensive plan, Walker's land has been considered commercial.

It was not until about three months ago the commercial classification, was drawn southward toward Hailey, excluding Walker's land. Commission member Fred Jenkins defended the concept. He said the shopping center would definitely create some competition.

Commissioner Neil Wright said the lack of commercially zoned areas in Blaine County is inflating the cost of commercial land in Hailey.

The commission voted four to one against the rezoning of Walker's land.

Under the Blaine County ordinance, Walker must wait one year to re-submit his request.

Williams re-elected in Hagerman

HAGERMAN — Dean Williams was re-elected chairman of the Hagerman school trustees at the July board meeting.

Vern Cox is vice chairman and Alfred Sandy was re-elected treasurer. Mrs. L. A. McAnulty was re-elected clerk. Williams and Charles Pepper, who were re-elected in the trustee election last spring, were sworn into office.

Both school fees and hot lunch prices will be kept the same this next year, trustees decided Monday night.

Grade school students will pay 35 cents, high school youths 40 cents and adult prices will be 50 cents.

Trustees hired Mrs. Donna Christensen, Buhl, to teach home economics. The board is taking applications for a cleaning woman and someone to wash dishes in the school lunch program.

Fire destroys lodge, motel

He said intense flames engulfed the entire structure in the time the crew arrived the roof on the lodge and motel had collapsed.

The building was burning "completely even throughout the structure," he said. It looked as though the roof had "collapsed all at one time."

The fire was in the basement, Pigg said, when the crew got to the scene.

It was the first fire the recently organized rural department has responded to.

The volunteers were called "completely even" by a small fire station and the lodge-to-protect against a possible spreading of the fire. A small service station about 200 feet to the south was saved.

A truck parked near the lodge was also burned in the fire, Pigg said. He said an unidentified person at the fire told him the fire had been burning for two hours before the crew arrived.

The first call came from East Magic Resort. A person there had seen the flames and called the sheriff's office that North Magic Resort was burning.

A trailer home resident near the service station at the lodge, Violet Novis, reported to police she was awakened by the family dog barking early this morning. The entire structure was on fire when she got up, she said.

Shoshone pool lessons filled
SHOSHONE — There are no more vacancies for swimming lessons at the new Shoshone swimming pool, Chris Derbridge, pool manager, said today.

Since the pool is not yet finished and the exact opening date is not known, only one two-week session of lessons has been scheduled. Some 90 students have already enrolled, the manager said.

If the pool can be opened by Aug. 1, it is possible that another two-week session can be offered.

Cost of the lessons is expected to be $4 per student, Miss Derbridge said, but the exact price will be set at the next recreation board meeting.

Linda Sharp, Jerome, will be instructor for the lessons which will be scheduled in the mornings. The pool will be open for public use during the afternoons.

Mother, daughter escape injury
BOISE (UPI) — A mother and daughter escaped from their burning, second-floor apartment through a window Tuesday night and received only minor injuries in the process.

Carolyn Preston returned home about 10:30 p.m. to discover the apartment engulfed in smoke and her daughter, Melissa, 4, inside. She ran up the stairs, dropped the youngster out a second story window into the arms of her husband, Joseph, and leaped to safety, landing on her hands.

Mrs. Preston was admitted to St. Luke's Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation. Her daughter was treated and released.

Phase two under way
COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (UPI) — Phase two of the National Advisory Committee on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals is underway. State Criminal Justice Planning Administrators were told Tuesday at their national meeting.

Richard Velde, an official of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA), said five task forces will study and make recommendations into criminal justice research and development; juvenile delinquency; organized crime; the private security industry and disorder and terrorism.

Velde said his federal organization will work strictly as an advisory council for state agencies but will not endorse whatever recommendations are made.

Storm hamper fish hatchery operation
RIGGINS, Idaho (UPI) — Fresh storms have been falling heavy with fish hatchery operations in the Riggins area and a Department of Fish and Game spokesman said Tuesday it will take at least two weeks to determine damage.

Evan Parrish, head of the hatchery at Rapid Rivers, said "it's going to take about two weeks to get things back to normal and know about salmon losses."

Low bidders named
BOISE (UPI) — An Idaho Falls firm and a Washington construction company were the apparent low bidders Tuesday for two highway building projects in eastern Idaho.

The Division of Highways announced that Sealant Systems Inc., Poulso, Wash., was the apparent low of six bids received for work on the Benton Street overpass in Pocatello. The bid was $451,862.50.

Kennaday Paving Company, Idaho Falls, entered a low of $235,808 for construction on slightly more than four miles of State Highway 33, Hatch's Corner to Driggs in Teton County.

Public meet set Tuesday

TWIN FALLS — A public meeting has been called for Tuesday night in Twin Falls to discuss the "functional classification system" for highways, roads and streets in the area.

Kelth Anderson, engineer for the Twin Falls Highway District, said the meeting is jointly sponsored by the four highway districts in the county and by the Idaho Department of Highways.

"It will be held at 8 p.m. in the Shields Building on the College of Southern Idaho campus.

"Functional classification," Anderson explained, is the process of grouping highways, roads and streets into classes and systems according to the type of service they provide.

There are arterial routes, major and minor collector roads and local roads, depending on the use and traffic on each.

Purpose of the classification system is, first to provide a systematic basis for realignment of the federal aid highway systems and, second, to serve as a management tool for administration of roads and highways at all levels of government.

The functional classification system is the outcome of a cooperative effort by state and local highway district officials. A workshop meeting was held earlier in the year for highway officials from districts, the state and federal levels.

Anderson said the 1973 Federal Aid Highway Act requires realignment of the federal aid systems be completed by June 30, 1976. The "functional classification system" identified in the classification process include principal and minor arterial routes, major and minor collectors and local roads.

PUBLICITY chairman Mrs. Wayne (Bunny) Parish, left, and Art Guild of Magic Valley president Gladys Thompson display pottery and paintings donated by local artists for the 1978 ART GUILD exhibit to be held Sunday in Twin Falls City Park from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Full legislative audit set this fall on HAW

"I suppose the audit will be almost a continuous audit" of the department, Koozot said. He expected the overall audit to require four auditors looking into the department six months out of each year.

He said the audit would have been "scheduled under any circumstances" and had only been delayed because of lack of staff. Up to June 30, 1973, he said auditors had looked into each department organized under the Department of Environmental and Community Services about every two years. That, he said, was about equal to what will now be done.

Rep. Bill Roberts, R-Buhl and co-chairman of the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee, said today he hoped the whole audit on HAW could be completed before the legislature convenes next year.

Roberts expected that to do this would take most of the legislative auditor's staff of 18 concentrating all on HAW. He said the committee could call for this at its next meeting in August if it wants to.

Roberts said the priority audit of the department's contracting policies would include both personal and building contracts HAW has made.

He said problems involved more than with the College of Idaho but would not say what.

Survivors said improved

TWIN FALLS — Four persons who survived a traffic accident Saturday night which killed three others are listed as improved at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital today.

Randy Shank, 22, Filer, was reported in good condition today. He was a passenger in a car driven by his wife, Arlene, 23, which was struck by another vehicle.

Passengers from the second vehicle, Linda Gay Jensen, 25, and Jolinda Pae Jensen, 20, both Murtaugh, are in fair condition; and Michael Everett Jensen, Murtaugh, is listed in good condition.

The accident claimed the lives of a family of three from Townsend, Mont. Bruce Patrick Thain, 27, his wife, Lauretta L. Jensen, Thain, 22, and their son, Jeremy, 7 months, all died of injuries Saturday night. Thain, believed to be the driver of the second car, was traveling north on a county road where stop signs had been removed by vandals when he drove into the path of the eastbound Shank vehicle.

All eight occupants of the two vehicles were rushed to the hospital by ambulances. A disaster plan was called into action by the hospital staff, with pathologists, radiologists, additional doctors and nurses being called to the hospital to assist.

The hospital maintains a plan which includes a first-phase disaster mobilization when five or more persons are admitted at a single time, and another phase for 10 or more. James Rosenbaum, hospital administrator, said the plan worked well under general conditions.

Buhl offers principal job

BUEL — The Buhl School District board of trustees has offered the job of secondary principal to one candidate. They have not announced his name.

Chairman of the board John Hönckel said Tuesday that at Monday night's meeting the board reviewed the applications for the position and interviewed a candidate.

The board also hired a secondary vocal music teacher and a man to teach the multi-occupations course at the secondary level. It will consider more teacher applications in the future.

The board also reorganized and swore in newly re-elected trustees. They were Hönckel, elected chairman for another year; Richard Morris, vice chairman, and George Atkins, clerk. Audrey Silsons was reappointed school treasurer.

In other action, the board:

- Reappointed the firm of Hepworth, Nungester, Felton and Hart as school attorneys;
- Accepted a bid for coal from Wright Fuel Co.;
- Moved to call for bids on milk and on transportation insurance at the next monthly meeting Aug. 11;
- Set regular meetings for the second Monday of the month.

Agency office merger costly

"It might take somebody coming out of the building," he said. In this case, if construction costs continue rising, the project would be likely to cost more than renting a building, he said.

Milton Kline, regional administrator for HAW, said this morning the department is still "a long, long way from any decision on this building. All we're doing is exploring."

He said that the department now has five offices in Twin Falls and eight times taken to travel between them "is also extremely expensive."

No overall assessment of comparative costs has been made yet, he said.

"The people we serve are not second class citizens," he said, adding that the space now available "is often inadequate" and does not afford confidentiality to clients. These factors cannot be compared with costs, he said.

With the addition of new programs, he said, "all in all there's been quite a bit of change" recently with the department here.

Part of the reason for the present low rental rate is that some of the space the department has "has" been donated. According to Cunningham, Twin Falls County, in accord with its responsibility to provide space for local HAW services, has donated use of a 3,400-square-foot building at 404 Addison Avenue West.

County commissioner Merl Leonard said the county would probably chip in $2 per square foot on the 3,400-square-foot building or $6,800 to help pay rent on a new central new office building.

The county also provides a 7,000-square-foot office building 528 Addison Ave. W. to HAW for the low rental rate of $1.61 per square foot or $12,000 a year. Leonard said this is not a "special rate" to HAW and did not expect that the county would pay additional rent to the department if the building was vacated and a central office building moved into. He did say, however, that public services do get a better rate on building space.

Besides 412,000 sq. ft. in main office building on Addison, HAW pays $3,000 annual rent for a 1,400-square-foot building on Falls Avenue West for "child development services." About 2,000 square feet of space is now donated by the Presbyterian Church, Cunningham said.

These buildings which the department would vacate if it moves into a central office building account for 13,400 square feet of space. About 38 per cent of the space is donated and the total annual rent on the rest is $15,000 a year.

The department also houses a mental health center and a child development center. But it owns the building on Harrison for the child development center and another building soon will be constructed for the mental health center.

Police probe armed robbery

TWIN FALLS — The second armed robbery in as many days and a "strong armed robbery" were reported by Twin Falls police this morning.

Detective Capt. Tim Qualls said two young men, one of them armed with a handgun, entered Schmidt's Market about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday and robbed the store attendants of about $20. Qualls said there were no customers in the store, only the manager and his wife.

The two left "in a vehicle," according to Qualls. He said both were described as young.

At about 10:45 p.m. Tuesday two men drove into the parking lot at the Brand Lounge on Blue Lakes Boulevard and grabbed a purse from the shoulder of Roseann Davidson. The said officers the men did not get out of their vehicle, but grabbed the purse and drove away in an old car. She said she had about $200 in cash and valuables in the purse.

Early Tuesday morning a lone bandit held up the Blue Lakes Inn desk clerk, taking less than $200. He, too, was described as a young man armed with a handgun.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JULY 17, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Think in terms of the long time and you will be able to take advantage of your ability at business and finances over a period of time. Consult with older, experienced persons.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Talk over practical affairs with kin to improve things. Solve all problems wisely and carefully. Handle business practically.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Settle some problem with an outside partner for more intelligent operation. One who opposes you needs more understanding.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Coordinate efforts with fellow workers to increase production appreciably. Make your finest talents really pay off.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Make fine plans for the future and work out each detail of such meticulously for greater success. Become more creative.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Discuss your problems with kin and gain their advice. Do not confide in outsiders or that can be trouble. Read helpful books.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Talk over with allies ways to extend your present interests so all of you have more of this world's goods. Do needed paperwork.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): A high-up will give you needed backing if you show you handle assets wisely. Use hunches well in money matters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Some well-formulated plan can now be put in action with good success in the office. Make future decisions now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Make the right arrangements to get that new personal interest into the busy routine of your life.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Contact friend who can become part of a project that would be good for both of you. A long talk solves a problem. Relax tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Please higher-ups with the quality of your work and don't resort to any erratic antics. A day for real activity, efficiency.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Try to gain the goodwill of everyone you contact today and forward aims. An out-of-towner has good ideas, so listen.

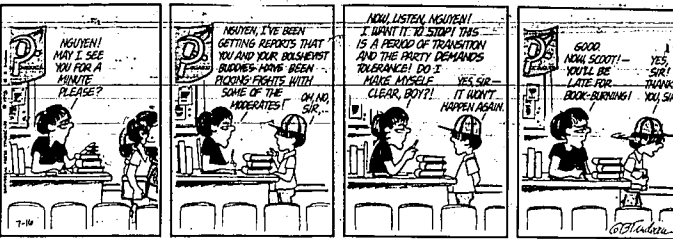

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... He or she will be a natural-born trouble-solver; who can take any problem and work it out resourcefully, so give the finest education, and your progeny can become most successful and famous. Much success in public work here. Sports are a must. Religion important.

Maybe you saw the TV show about those Tassaday natives who live in the caves on the South Pacific's Mindanao. First discovered only several years ago, they were labeled so uncivilized as to be of stone-age mentality. But it has been learned lately that they have a tribal poet named Balayam. And when a reporter asked him to define the human soul, Balayam said quietly, "The soul may be the part of you that sees the dream." That's uncivilized?

WOMEN like men a lot more than men like women. Or so say researchers at Rosary Hill College. Our Love and War man, who's very fond of women, finds that surprising.

A. That's one of those pack sacks that the Indian mothers up around the Great Lakes carried their papooses in. Different tribes had different words for it. But in English, it's a cradleboard.

JUSTICE
Something has got to be wrong with a justice system in which more than half of all the violent crimes are committed by people free on probation, on parole, on bail. That's the situation hereabouts. If you'll meet me at Union Square tonight, I'll bring my soap box to go into it all in greater detail.

Dr. Packard scores ace

Dr. R. W. Packard scored the second hole-in-one of his career at Twin Falls muni's No. 6 hole.

Dr. Packard used a seven iron on the par three, 155-yard hole. The feat was witnessed by Neil Green.

Dr. Packard's son, muni assistant pro Jim Packard, said it may have been coincidental but he'd just given his dad a lesson prior to the round.

Zabel shocked by trade

CHESTER, Pa. (UPI) — Steve Zabel says he heard trade rumors since he began his career with the Philadelphia Eagles in 1970, but couldn't help feeling "shocked and hurt" when he got word Tuesday that he had been traded to the New England Patriots for two 1976 draft choices.

"I had heard rumors over the course of my career about being traded," Zabel said. "Then when the rumor finally is true, it jumps on your back and you have to stop and think about it. I was shocked and hurt I guess."

'Skins to sign veteran

CARLISLE, Pa. (UPI) — The Washington Redskins will sign free agent wide receiver Dan Abramowicz when he completes the required physical examinations, club officials said Tuesday.

Abramowicz, who has played eight seasons in the National Football League, caught 25 passes for 369 yards and one touchdown last year with the San Francisco 49ers. He has caught at least one pass in his last 10 NFL games.

"He's a competitor and can play on special teams," said Redskins Coach George Allen. "He knows he has plenty of competition, but when you can get a free agent like Danny for nothing, you can't go wrong."

Red Jong jumper dies

PRAGUE (UPI) — Jaroslav Broz, holder of the Czechoslovak record of 25 feet 6 1/2 inches in the long jump, died Tuesday at the age of 25, the Czech news agency Ceteka reported.

It did not give the cause of death.

Broz won the medal at the European indoor championships in Grenoble in 1972.

Portland signs Hollins

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Portland Trail Blazers of the National Basketball Association Tuesday signed Lionel Hollins, 6-foot-3 guard from Arizona State University, to a multi-year contract.

Terms were not disclosed.

Hollins was the Trail Blazers' first-round draft pick and is expected to play an important role in the Portland attack next season. He is a playmaking guard, noted for his defense, and is capable of high scoring performances.

Cowboy numbers dwindle

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys released six players from rookie training camp Tuesday and three more left voluntarily.

The Cowboys still had 69 rookies entering the second week of camp. Veteran quarterbacks, receivers and centers will join the rookies Thursday and the remainder of the veterans are due to report Sunday.

Middle linebacker Bob Breeming, a third-round draft choice from Arizona State, resumed non-contact work Tuesday. He had been sidelined since Saturday because of double vision.

Torns penalized

TORONTO (UPI) — The World Hockey Association cracked down on the Toronto Toros Tuesday for signing star junior Mark Napier to a lucrative three-year contract without waiting for him to go through a league draft.

The league decided to let the Toros keep Napier, 18, but warned of stiffer penalties for similar actions in future.

9ers' Krueger retires

GOLETA, Calif. (UPI) — San Francisco 49er defensive tackle Rolf Krueger, 27, said Tuesday he was retiring.

"I just decided I better move on to something else," Krueger, former All-America from Texas A&M, said in a telephone interview with the San Francisco Examiner.

He missed the last five games of the 1974-75 campaign because of a dislocated shoulder. He joined the 49ers three years ago.

His older brother, Charlie, is a retired 49er lineman.

Star slows impatience

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Perfectionist Dan Sileo, the new coach and general manager of the Green Bay Packers, wasn't very excited Tuesday after the first day of practice for rookies and some veterans who reported early.

"The time just flies away from you out there," Starr said. "There's not enough time to do the teaching you would like."

For a first day I thought it wasn't too bad. We're not excited about it, but overall it wasn't too bad."

Rams to test newcomers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams, winners of the NFC Western division title the past two years, open training camp at Cal State Fullerton Monday with an advance group of 38 rookies and free agents and 24 veterans.

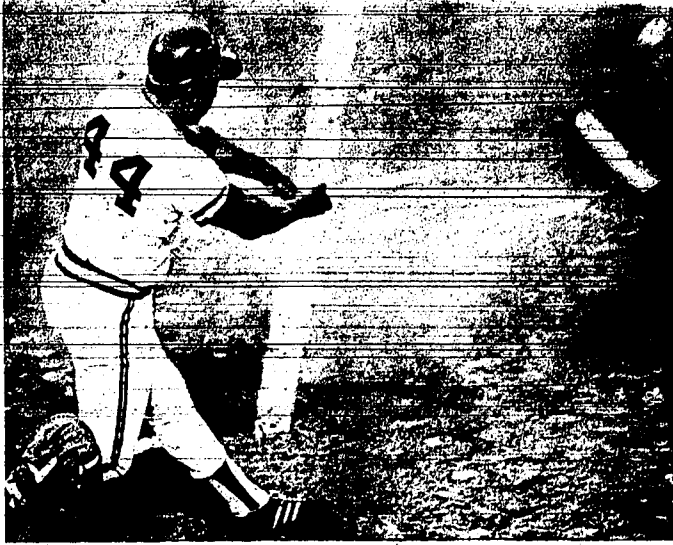

The remaining 28 veterans will report July 24.

Among the contingent reporting for workouts twice daily Monday will be quarterbacks, centers, newcomers and players who are changing positions.

Cowboy scores field goal

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Birmingham Vulcans Coach Marvin Bass said an experimental at World Football League rule governing field goals — taking the ball out of football — was back Tuesday and his coaching staff are against the new rule that awards between one and three points for a field goal, depending on the line of scrimmage.

The rule, being tested in exhibition games, gives three points if it is in the 20-yard line or beyond, two if it is between the 20 and 40 and one if inside the 10.

Splinterville National loop tops American

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The sight of Henry Kissinger wearing a Milwaukee Brewers cap, while Philie Phan, wearing a Philadelphia Phillies cap, led the National League to a 5-3 victory over the American League Tuesday night in the annual All-Star Game.

Thanks to Bill Madlock's two-run single in the sixth inning, the National League whipped the American League to its fourth straight victory in baseball's annual showcase of talent.

Although Finley, the announced Oakland A's owner and Secretary of State Kissinger were obviously invited by Yastrzemski's three-run sixth inning homer that tied the game at 3-3, it was Madlock, the NL's leading hitter and the only Chicago Cub on the squad, who set the tone for the ultimate American League defeat — their 12th in the last 13 All-Star Games.

"The guys in the American League just seem to be waiting out there to get beat and that's what happened," said Madlock, who accomplished the feat by slapping the 43rd of a wild two-run single during a wild third-fourth inning rally.

Held in check for two innings by Jim "Catfish" Hunter, the NL started the New York Yankees' "Three Million Dollar Man" on the way to his second All-Star defeat when Reggie Smith blipped a leadoff single from it that hit off the glove of leftfielder Claudio Washington.

At Oliver, pinch hitting for winning pitcher Jim Madlock, charged into the left field corner with Smith stopping at third and Spencer Rich bringing set the stage for Madlock by hitting Larry Bowa to load the bases.

Madlock then stroked a single down the third base line, scoring Smith and Oliver, and a third run nearly came home when Gossage, trying to peg out Bowa at third, hit third base coach Red Schoendienst in the back. Bowa held third on the play but came home a moment later on a sacrifice fly by Pete Rose.

"I don't hit too many right down the line like that," said Madlock, explaining why AL third baseman Graig Nettles was out of position to make the play. "I'm really more of a spray hitter than a pull-hitter."

Jon Madlock, who hurled the seventh and eighth innings and struck out four, was credited with the victory and shared the game's most valuable player honors with Madlock. Madlock, however, gave all the credit to Madlock for the triumph.

"Give the trophy to Madlock," said Madlock. "Without him we don't win it."

The National League, which now leads in the series 27-16, set the game's early tone with the power that had made it the 8-5

Kuhn to keep job but can't raise

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — There will be some good news and some bad news for Bowie Kuhn Wednesday after the one-day major league baseball meetings are over.

The good news is that he will still be commissioner of baseball.

Forbes to testify

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Dave Forbes of the Boston Bruins was expected to testify in his own defense today in a trial which has brought to the fore the 1967-68 palatable features of major league sports — the pressures, violence and pent-up emotions which sometimes are unleashed.

For the first time in the United States, a player has been charged for his behavior during a game. Forbes was charged during a National Hockey League game between the two teams on Jan. 4.

Tuesday Bruins Coach Donald Cherry testified that Forbes was in tears after the fight in which Boucha received a serious head injury.

"There were tears in his eyes and he was saying, 'What have I done? What have I done?'" Cherry testified.

"He was very distraught and I was trying to console him. He was saying, 'I'm going to get my lawyer to defend me. I'm going to sue the league for not protecting me.'"

Cherry said the Bruins were under tremendous emotional pressure that night. "They were on the worst road trip in five years," he said. "We'd been losing games, we just had to win this game."

He said even very young hockey players are taught to play tough, using physical contact and body checking.

"If you're the best, you can't win," Cherry said.

Current players called best ever

The bad news, as far as he's concerned, will be that he will not get a pay raise and he may not get another seven-year contract.

Baseball owners are also expected to consider the troubles affecting a couple of franchises and the complicated situation in San Francisco, where the Giants and the American League Oakland A's are vying for what little attention that city pays to baseball.

Kuhn said he would not raise his present contract, which is for $100,000 a year plus a fixed expense account, but said that the owners already had his pay raised, and his plea for more money is certain to fall on deaf ears.

"There is some support to unseat Kuhn, but it's doubtful that those opponents can muster enough support to get rid of him. It takes four votes in either league to fire the commissioner.

There is also the problem that there is not any popular candidate waiting in the wings to take over the job of the National League's chief executive officer.

The city of Seattle has representatives at the meeting, but one of them says he doesn't expect any action to be taken at the meetings.

"We're just trying to keep our case before the baseball people," he said.

The Milwaukee Brewers are expected to be mentioned by the city of New Orleans to get that team away from the docks.

The Braves, who left Milwaukee in 1963 with visions of greener pastures in Atlanta, have been disappointed in their reception and New Orleans is wanting in the wings.

The troubles of the Chicago White Sox and Minnesota Twins, who are having fiscal difficulties, are also scheduled for some attention.

Bull schedules Legion tourney

ST. LOUIS — The fourth annual American Legion baseball-Softball tournament will be held at Paris Field Friday through Sunday.

This year the tournament will be double elimination involving four teams over the three-day period.

The Mini-Cassia Sage will play the Valley Vikings at 5 p.m. Friday. The second game will be host Bull against the Payette Pirates.

Three games will be played Saturday. The first game will be played at 1:30 between the two losing teams of the Friday night games. At 5:00 Saturday, the two winning teams will play.

At 8 p.m., the winner of the afternoon game will play the loser of the 5 p.m. game.

The championship game will be played at 1:30 Sunday. Should an extra game be necessary, it will be played at 5 p.m. Sunday.

It is the defending champion.

Orr confirms offer

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Bruins superstar Bobby Orr Tuesday confirmed the Minnesota Fighting Stars of the rival World Hockey Association have made him a "very generous" offer, but he plans to do a lot of talking with Boston officials before making up his mind on this offer.

Orr would not disclose the amount of the Minnesota offer which a Minnesota newspaper reported had been a five year $6.5 million contract.

"Minnesota has been very generous and I have to give it a lot of thought," said Orr. "However, I like Boston very much and I prefer to play in Boston and we still have a lot of talking to do with the Boston Bruins."

Enthusiasm, talent won for nationals

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — To hear the two Most Valuable Players tell it, enthusiasm and a bundle of talent are the reasons for the National League's 6-2 victory over the American League in the 46th Annual All-Star Baseball Game Tuesday night.

Bill Madlock of the Chicago Cubs and Jon Matlack of the New York Mets both said the spirit of the National League was obviously the major factor in Senior Circuit's 12th win in the last 13 years.

"It was unbelievable sitting on that bench the way our guys were playing," said Matlack. "The Chicago guys were the best field line in the top of the ninth game. The National League was so excited."

"Our guys were happy," he said. "We were having fun. You looked over at the American League and those guys were just sitting there, waiting to get beat."

"It's really an experience playing on a team with this kind of enthusiasm," Matlack said. "You could feel it — even out in the bullpen. It just seemed our guys wanted to win more."

Matlack took two outside pitches from Rich Gossage before he got an inside changeup when he timed his swing on Nettles. The bases were loaded at the time and two runs scored.

Kissinger, who threw out the first ball, was given a Brewers' cap by the hometown faithful and wore it throughout the game while surrounded by security men in a special box alongside the American League dugout. After throwing out the first ball, the Secretary of State, an oldtime Yankee fan, cheered enthusiastically for Yastrzemski's homer and the appearance of the Brewers' 41-year-old home run king, Hank Aaron, who ended a third inning AL threat by hitting out to short.

Cincinnati-Dodger rivalry turns red

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Somebody has hit the "on" switch on the "Big Red Machine" and no one can get it stopped.

In fact, there may not be an "off" switch.

The glistening "Big Red Machine" — also known as the Cincinnati Reds — is leaving the Los Angeles Dodgers and the rest of the National League West teams to rust.

The Reds-Dodgers race had figured to be the closest in baseball this season. So far, it has turned out to be the most lopsided.

The Reds have a commanding 12½ game lead over the Dodgers as regular play resumes Thursday following the All-Star break.

And Pete Rose, the fired-up sparkplug of the machine, predicts the Reds will be even better the second half of the season.

Rose says the club is "hungry" for another shot at the World Series. Adds Joe Morgan, the team's leading hitter, "We have unlimited potential."

The Reds have won 19 of their last 21 games, and an amazing record, and have a 10-game winning streak going. The team's 10-day record for consecutive victories is 12, set in 1940 and matched in 1967.

Manager Sparky Anderson says the team is stronger than his 1970 club which won 70 of the first 100 games and wound up with 102 victories. Anderson predicts more than 100 victories this year. The Reds are now 61-29 and have 72 games to play.

Why is the Big Red Machine humming?

Well, first of all the "heavy-duty" veterans like Rose, Morgan, Johnny Bench and Tony Perez are performing as expected — well.

Rose has proven to be solid at his new third base position and is cracking his at a .319 clip. Morgan has a fat .245 batting average and Bench has not only smashed 19 homers and collected 73 RBIs, but is hitting for a good .283 average.

Perez is now rebounding nicely from a slow start.

But there also have been a couple of surprises named Ken Griffey and George Foster who have helped out.

Griffey is the team's third-best hitter at .311 and Foster, now getting a chance to play regularly in the outfield, is not only hitting .293 but is right behind Bench in home runs with 16.

As for pitching, it's true that a Reds starter rarely finishes a game — it's happened only 18 times — but that is part of Anderson's master plan. He has a good bullpen and he goes to it often.

Newcomer Will McEnaney is the best reliever. The 23-year old lefty from nearby Springfield, Ohio, has worked in 30 games, has 10 saves and a sparkling 1.29 earned run average.

McEnaney and other relievers Rawly Eastwick, Clay Carroll and Pedro Borbon have made the absence of top starter Don Gullett, out for at least six weeks with a broken thumb, almost unnoticed.

Young Tommy Carroll, Gullett's replacement, has a 3-0 record and veteran starter Jack Billingham has taken up some slack with a 10-3 slate.

Los Angeles' only chance to catch up now seems to hinge on its 11 remaining games against Cincinnati — where victories mean full game advances in the standings.

But it's going to take a major breakdown of the Big Red Machine for that to happen and as Dodgers outfielder Jimmy Wynn says, "It's like a 'miracle' if the Dodgers can find the machine's 'off' switch in time."

Fairchilds take stock car wins

RUPERT — Allen and Gregg Fairchild drove to first place honors in the men's main and junior cup respectively, in the Rupert stock car races Sunday.

Lynn Rogers grabbed the second place spot followed by Lawrence Burch, was third in the men's main.

In the junior cup dash Jeff Clark nabbed second place honors followed by Don Fenstermaker, third.

Fenstermaker was first in the Junior Trophy followed by Clark and Kenny Kopenick.

In the women's trophy, Diana Kidd was first followed by Jan Jones and Juanita Galbraith.

Jim Clark took first in the men's trophy with Burch, second. This race featured one rollover with Fairchild the recipient.

The ladies slow featured Debbie Ingalls in first, Reneae Winn second, and Sandie Wiber third.

Jim Kopenick crossed the line for the number one spot, followed by Vaughn Reynolds second and Bob Malt third.

The men's fast heat saw Wayne Graham win the top honors followed by Ron Eickula and Sam Weber.

Jones won the women's main event followed by Kidd, and Galbraith.

The men's main dash saw Jim Clark in the first place followed by Ray Smith and Dave Galbraith.

The Ladies main had Kidd on top followed by Bev Clark in the second place spot and Jones in the third spot.

By Larry Hovey

The Idaho state women's amateur golf championship got underway at Boise Wednesday without one of its best players.

Virginia Undheim, Twin Falls, who has won it three times, was not allowed to enter because she tried after the deadline.

She didn't really want to talk about it. "Half the girls in the state are mad at me now, why make the other half mad?"

"I was wrong. I was late," says Mrs. Undheim. "I talked to them earlier and said I didn't know if I could make it. Then when I didn't know I could, I was told they'd closed entries that afternoon. I didn't talk to them until that evening."

Mrs. Winnie Standley, Twin Falls, last year's state president, went to that for Virginia but couldn't get the job done. But she did find a rather unusual thing — that pairings were made up last week.

Mrs. Standley also was informed that due to a family tragedy, one championship flight player had withdrawn and maybe Mrs. Undheim could have that spot.

However, a return call brought the message "no sons" and when the pairings were published Monday, sure enough, there was a threesome.

"There are a lot of good people involved in this tournament," Mrs. Undheim said "and I certainly don't want to throw out a blanket indictment. But I can't help but feel it's not all above board like they want people to think it is."

"There's a wrong," Mrs. Undheim says "I can live with it."

Deadlines being deadlines, as Mrs. Undheim says she was late, but if the women's state association admitted one player after the advertised deadline, then there isn't much argument left.

When the thing was held in Twin Falls last year, Mrs. Standley and her tournament committee would have allowed post-entries and post tee-off times if a threesome or foursome could have been mustered.

"I know it would never happen in a men's tournament," Mrs. Undheim said.

On the subject of golf, Robert Langdon, Twin Falls, may have set a record at Burley last week. One he doesn't particularly want.

He was on the green in two. Puffed past long, missed the comeback and then net comeback. By now he was a little frustrated and you could see the ball with fore-and-backhand strokes over the hole.

Finally the ball went in.

"How many was that? Five or six?" Langdon asked.

"Nine," replied playing mate Scott Massingill, "five times when you hit it and four penalty strokes for hitting a moving ball."

Consistent with our arguments of last fall on why banning of duck hunting would virtually consign the North American migratory waterfowl population to endangered species, here's one in the mail.

It's a release from the newly organized "Waterfowl Habitat Owners Alliance." Its statement is this:

"We think it's time the public understood that the most of the suitable wetland habitat in the United States is owned and managed by private interests. If the hunting incentive is unnecessarily restricted or taken entirely, this vast acreage will surely be converted to other purposes with tragic results for the waterfowl of North America. It's as simple as that."

Add that to the fact that if duck hunting is gone, Ducks Unlimited of Canada won't have the donated millions of dollars to hold that nation's wetlands.

Wetland on drained pebbles, marinas and resort developments on estuaries, etc., are actually the benefits the "ban the hunting" group is trying to reap from its project.

Someone should have learned long ago, that if man doesn't want something on this earth, it isn't going to be here very long. And man doesn't want anything he can't benefit from.

Baseball to compile 'memorable' events

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Baseball's contribution to the nation's bi-centennial celebration will be to select its most memorable events and personalities for recognition next year's All-Star game in Philadelphia, Commissioner Kuhn said Tuesday.

Kuhn said that balloting will begin immediately in each of the major league cities to determine the most memorable events and personalities of each of the present major league teams.

The balloting will run through the end of this season and the local winners announced at the winter baseball meetings next December.

A national ballot will be prepared from this list of winners, along with selection of events and personalities from teams which no longer exist. The all-time winners will be announced during the 1976 season and saluted during All-Star game festivities July 12-13 in Philadelphia.

"In many ways, baseball and our great country have grown up together," Kuhn said.

"Baseball has played a very large role in the lives of so many Americans. We believe one of the charms of the game which has maintained interest at such a high level is what it offers fans in memories, memories which often date back quite a few years."

Kuhn noted this balloting is quite different from the selection of baseball's greatest players six years ago.

"Many of the game's most memorable and most dramatic events have been sparked by persons who never achieved superstar status," he said. "Likewise, some of the best remembered personalities are revered more because they were colorful than because of immense skills."

A single play may be judged the most memorable or a record achieved through years of excellence, Kuhn said.

Reasons for NFL balance conjectured

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — The National Football League is one of the most competitively well-balanced organizations in professional sports, but not necessarily because of the Rozelle rule or other labor action, a sports economics expert said Tuesday.

Dr. Roger Noll, testifying for the second day in U.S. District Court, said he wasn't sure whether the competitiveness of the NFL was the result of deliberate action by the league and team owners or because of the nature of the game.

"The NFL is a well balanced league, and competitive balance is good, that we agree Noll, an economics professor at the California Institute of Technology, told NFL attorney Jim McKay.

"We disagree on the amount of anti-competitive practices needed to bring this about," he said.

Noll is a rebuttal witness for 15 present and former NFL players who brought suit asking that the Rozelle rule be eliminated on the grounds that it holds players' salaries down and keeps them from moving to other teams.

The NFL contends the rule maintains balance in the league by preventing players from jumping to wealthy or otherwise attractive teams when their option with a weaker team runs out.

The rule enables the NFL commissioner to set compensation that must be paid to a team testing a player to another team.

Noll contends the rule is not needed to maintain balance and the NFL could function in a "free market" situation modified by provisions such as revenue sharing between teams or payroll budgets.

"Doubling payroll and free player movement will maximize social benefits," McKay asked.

"Yes," Noll said.

"Do you believe the NFL should not strive for team equality?" McKay asked.

"No, of course not," Noll said.

On another line of questioning, Noll told NFL attorney John French he believes the American Football League would never have been on a par with the NFL if it had merged with the NFL in 1960.

But he said this was not because of a difference in player quality but because of the size of cities where AFL teams were located.

"AFL teams were located on the average in smaller cities, and the smaller the city, the lower quality the team," he said.

"AFL and NFL teams reached parity in very few years in terms of equivalent size cities."

Another economics professor, former Washington Redskins player George Berman, was to follow Noll on the stand. With defense attorneys expected to complete rebuttal testimony by the end of the week.

'New and separate' WFL opens first (or second) season

NEW YORK (UPI) — Memphis, you want to use the World Football League inaugurates its first or second season in little more than a week.

While it will be hard for any fan to forget the WFL Follies of last year, when the organization set a record of kinds for unpaid bills and salaries, new President Chris Hemminger has restructured the league on what he boasts is a sound financial surface and proclaims this to be the start of the "new" World Football League.

In its section on records, the WFL media guide specifies, "This year's World Football League is a completely separate and distinctive league."

Of the 11 franchises vying for the opening kickoff, only two are returning under the same ownership as last year. They are the Memphis Southern, controlled by John Bassett, and the Philadelphia Bell, whose principle owner is John Bosseco.

Both Philadelphia and

Memphis are in the Eastern Division along with the Birmingham Vulcans, Charlotte Hornets and Jacksonville Express. Comprising the Western Division are the Chicago Winds, the Hawaiians, the Portland Thunder, San Antonio Wings, Silverport Steamers and Southern California Sun.

Birmingham, then known as the Americans, won the 1974 World Bowl by beating the defunct Florida Blazers, 22-2.

The new principals of the WFL include A. E. Burgess at Birmingham, Upton Bell at Charlotte, Eugene Pullano at Chicago, Ed Salfian Jr. with the Hawaiians, Earl Knabb at Jacksonville, Richard Bayless at Portland, Norm Bevan at San Antonio, John B. Akin Jr. at Silverport and Sam Battistone at Southern California.

When Hemminger, a dynamic 35-year-old Hawaiian, announced the organization of the "new" league in April, he said it was dedicated to a profit and responsible fiscal plan. He added that it was intended to

Lefthanders keep Pirates sizzling

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Lefthanded batting power and southpaw pitching excellence have contributed to the might of the Pittsburgh Pirates this season.

But Skinner, batting instructor and third base coach, said no other National League team can boast of having a better lefthanded power combination.

"There's none better in this league," Skinner said. "Willie Stargell, Dave Parker, Al Oliver and Richie Hebner all hit well and to all fields. And they all can hit lefthanded pitching. I don't know if there's any American League team that can match our lefthanded power."

Parker, the league's leading batter with 836.

Skinner was a lefthanded long ball hitter when he played with the Pirates at left field and first base for eight seasons in the 1950s and 60s.

Don Osborne, pitching coach, is just as proud of his southpaw pitching corps.

"Jim Hooker and Jerry Reuss are tops, and when Ken Brett is found we have a southpaw lineup," he said.

After the way young John Candelaria has developed in his first month as a major league pitcher, we can give the other teams competition. We hope Ramon Hernandez in the bullpen to give us depth."

Brett was on the disabled list for 21 days because of elbow trouble but has shown progressive recovery.

"We're only pitching him six or seven innings until his arm is sound," Osborne said.

Osborne said he knows of no National League team that can surpass the Pirates' southpaw contingent, but admitted the Phillies are strong in that category.

"The Phillies have great southpaws with veteran Steve Carlton and rookie Tom Dunwoody as starters and Tug McGraw in the bullpen," he said.

The Pirates have won 37 of their last 61 games and have monopolized first place in the National League East most of the season. They held a six and a half game lead over the Phillies.

Reuss tops the pitchers with 10 victories and was the starter in the All-Star game. Hooker has won seven times and Candelaria four. Hernandez is credited with six wins.

But Osborne is not ignoring the skills of righthanders Dock Ellis, Bruce Kison, Larry Demery and Dave Giusti. Giusti and the best relievers in the league, has hit seven Kison with seven victories. Ellis with six and Demery with four have balanced the pitching strength.

Stargell with 17 homers this season has a career total of 363. Last week he passed Johnny Mize and Joe Dimaggio in career homers.

Cosmetic pact makes Namath independent

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joe Namath, secure in the knowledge that a $5-million agreement with a cosmetics firm will keep him in steak and potatoes after his pro football days are over, said Tuesday the next 24 hours could prove critical in his contract negotiations with the New York Jets.

"Even an oral arrangement will be satisfactory and put me in the training camp setup," said the Jets' quarterback, who turned down a $4 million World Football League offer because he doesn't want to leave the New York area. "I want to play and if I get the right signals Wednesday, my lawyer can take it from there."

"Namath said he's 'hungry' to get started and even requested, if a contract can be worked out, that Head Coach Charlie Winner permit him to play to at least half the team's exhibition games.

"I've always had three goals in life: to make the Jets, to be worthy of my contract and to be secure financially after my pro football days are over."

Namath said.

Jim Walsh, Namath's attorney, said that by 2 p.m. MDT Wednesday, Joe might have a more definitive idea of where he stands with the National Football League club.

Namath is reported to be asking for a $1 billion, multi-year contract with the Jets.

Namath will ultimately receive five times that amount with the cosmetics company, Faberge Inc., as the firm's consultant in national and international sports programs and promotions. His contract calls for a minimum of $250,000 a year for the first eight years and a pair of six-year options for the same figure that would carry the terms of complete duration to 20 years.

"This is the first time in my life that I have something substantial to grow with outside of football," said Namath as he sipped a glass of white wine. "I thank the good Lord for keeping me healthy so I could land a job like this."

"It's money the main factor in your life, he was asked.

"Let's say it's certainly a big factor. Security has a good deal to do with anyone's life style. I like to sleep nights and not having to worry about finances definitely helps my peace of mind."

Namath and father leave conference

Namath said he'd like to play football for at least two more years and is excited about the Jets' chances this season.

"We're coming off six straight wins and that does a lot for your confidence. There were uncertainties last year, but now we know we can beat everyone," he said.

Namath hasn't had two healthy seasons, back-to-back, since 1969. He feels the injury jinx is about to desert him. And now with his new toiletric contract, he can smell the sweet fragrance of success.

"We're coming off six straight wins and that does a lot for your confidence. There were uncertainties last year, but now we know we can beat everyone," he said.

Did that "we" mean Namath and the Jets were just a few dollars apart in their thinking?

"I want to play the more work I get, the better quarterback I'll be. But I won't play without a contract."

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market opened higher Wednesday in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was ahead 0.39 to 882.20 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines, 158 to 92 among the 393 issues crossing the tape.

Investors have been encouraged by signs of the economic recovery. The Federal Reserve Board's report—industrial production rose in June for the first time in nine months provided solid evidence.

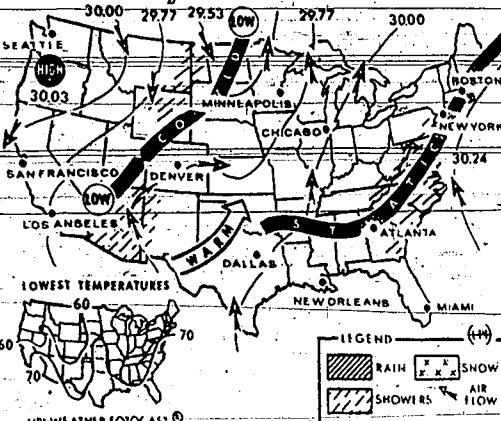

The increase was expected in light of recent $2.97 billion liquidation of inventories by business in May. Analysts said some of that inventory trimming could have helped a few companies through the rough second quarter.

Weight has been surprised by the strength of earnings reports from the second quarter. Most had expected sharper declines than have been presented thus far.

Profit taking which became a factor late in Tuesday's session—continued. Analysts said this was normal in light of the market's sharp gains this year and by the fact the Dow average had reached its highest level since March, 1973.

Cool, dry air returns to Idaho

Twin Falls, Northside, Burley, Rupert-area:
Clearing and cooler tonight. Low temperatures 50 to 55. Sunny and a little warmer Thursday with highs in the mid-80s. Probability of precipitation, less than 10 percent.

Camas Prairie, Halley and Inwood River Valley:

Clearing and cooler tonight. Low temperatures 45 to 50. Sunny and a little warmer Thursday with highs in the lower 60s. Probability of precipitation, less than 10 percent.

Synopsis:
An old, weak upper air disturbance off the coast redeveloped strongly Tuesday and moved inland. It was moving across Idaho today and should be to the east of Magic Valley by tonight.

Cooler and drier air is following this disturbance so that the pleasant temperatures will follow tonight and Thursday.

The extended outlook is for generally "mild" weather and slowly rising temperatures for the remainder of the week Friday through Sunday. High temperatures should return to around 90 degrees by the weekend, but lower humidity will allow the nighttime low drop-back to the comfortable 60s.

Wallace collects millions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama raised another $1.3 million for his undeclared presidential campaign in the last four months, lengthening his fund-raising lead among a wide field of 49 candidates.

As before, most of the Wallace funds came from a massive mail appeal whose costs absorbed a large portion of the new income. Roughly half of the Wallace campaign's direct-mail receipts — a somewhat smaller fraction than before — went to pay for postage and for the printing, mailing and computer services of the Richard A. Vignere Co. in Falls Church, Virginia.

Reports from the Wallace Campaign, Inc., to the federal election commission Monday indicated that Wallace has now raised more than $4 million in the past two years — still more than any other undeclared presidential candidate — put together, including President Ford.

But the reports of campaign expenses also confirmed that Wallace has an unusually costly fund-raising operation. In the period between March and June, 1975, covered in the latest filing, the Wallace campaign reported expenditures of $29,000 — most of it for mail services — and $548,000 to the Vignere company and its subsidiaries. Of its gross income of more than $4 million, the Wallace campaign has spent all but $700,000.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., continues to report the largest net bank balance among numerous Democratic presidential funds — nearly $12 million at the end of June.

The Jackson for President Committee reported contributions of $747,000 in the last four-month period.

Sen. Lloyd A. Bentsen of Texas, raised $350,000 in the same period, and reports cash on hand of $307,000.

Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona reported March-to-June income of $219,000, and a closing "balance" of $82,000 in the last reporting period and had a net of $45,000.

Former Perry Stanford of North Carolina has raised $75,000 in the last four months, and saved $16,000 of it. Former Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma raised an aggregate $39,000 and reported $5,234 in cash on hand at the end of June.

Truckers search for Samaritan

CHICAGO (UPI) — The drama cracked over police radios in four Midwestern states early today.

Children and radios in the big rigs of truckers rolling across highways picked up and relayed the anxious plea.

In all, dozens of people, truckers and police in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin were hunting "Bernie" Basham in a frantic effort to save his life.

Two days ago, in Pataskala, Ohio, where Bernie is a volunteer fireman when he's not pushing his big Interstate tanker, Bernie came to the aid of a 16-month-old boy who had stopped breathing.

Bernie and two other firemen gave the boy mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

On Monday, the boy died of spinal meningitis, a deadly and contagious virus. The search for Bernie was launched.

The other two firemen were quickly found and given antibiotic injections.

When a fireman called Bernie's wife, Sharon, 32, she told him that Bernie was on the road bound for Phillips, Wis.

When the boy's doctor called Mrs. Basham, he was told Bernie was not expected back until Wednesday.

"That's much too late!" he exclaimed. Then he told her what had happened.

"That really shook me up," Mrs. Basham recalled. She hurriedly called Bernie's boss and calls went out over the firemen's band radio for any truckers who saw Bernie's green and silver rig to tell him to contact home immediately.

Lie tests set for policemen

SANDPOINT (UPI) — Three Sandpoint police officers will be given lie detector tests this week concerning their actions prior to the death of a Poplar, Mont., man June 17, police chief Dick Abbott said Tuesday.

The voluntary tests planned today and Thursday will be given to assistant chief Bill Selby, Sgt. Guy Gardner and rookie officer Paul Siem.

Abbott said the tests should conclude an investigation by the Idaho Department of Law Enforcement that began three weeks ago as a result of a joint request by Abbott and Bonner County Sheriff Robert Wilcox.

The request was prompted by a June 23 coroner's inquest into the death of Gerald Brown, 32, who was hit by a truck about eight miles north of Sandpoint where three police officers left him to hibernate minutes before his death.

A seven-member coroner's jury had called police action surrounding Brown's death "deplorable" and also recommended that the matter be further investigated.

The jury's decision came as a result of testimony by Siem, who said he had been in periodic contact with Brown for a 24-hour period ending just before Brown's death.

During the time, Siem told the jury, Brown had displayed irrational behavior, complaining that "they" were trying to kill him and "they" had planted a "secret" radio device on his truck for the purpose of making threats.

Siem told the jury that after taking the man into protective custody, he was told by superior officers that he could be accused of kidnapping. He said he was "bored" after Brown's death, what facts to add and delete from his official report on the matter.

Jack Boothe, an investigator with the Idaho Department of Law Enforcement, will turn over his report to the city council and the county prosecutor's office when his investigation is completed, Wilcox said.

Mandatory busing 'failure'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — F. David Mathews, a college president, criticized as "the new secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said Tuesday as "a practical man" he believed forced busing had failed to achieve its goal of equality of education.

"My view is that it has not produced good results," the president of the University of Alabama told the Senate Finance Committee during his confirmation hearing.

"In the end, any method has to be justified in terms of its effectiveness," Mathews said. "My view is that it has not produced good results and has made a great number of persons think their rights have been abused in the process."

Mathews made his statements in response to questions from Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., who said forced busing creates "ill-will between the races, is expensive, hurts education and uses vast quantities" of energy.

Mathews replied that as HEW secretary he would "seriously consider" Talmadge's criticism of busing programs. As "a practical man," Mathews said, he believes very strongly that the children of this country should have equal opportunities to achieve a good education," said the 38-year-old educator. But he said: "Some of the means that have been used in the past may be counterproductive" to those aims.

Mathews, who would succeed Casper Weinberger in the HEW post, received a cordial reception from the committee and appeared to have no opposition.

He pledged to develop a "working relationship" with Congress and to try to improve HEW's relationships with states to achieve better administrative of welfare programs.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., urged Mathews to maintain his "intellectual independence" in the HEW post.

House approves farm program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House, after rejecting a proposed ban on federal aid for Soviet or Arab grain purchases, has approved a $13 billion appropriation bill for agriculture programs.

Approved by Reps. Clarence Long, D-Mo., and James Weaver, D-Ore., to prohibit U.S. loans or credits to potential grain sales to Russia and Arab nations, was defeated by voice vote Monday. It would not have blocked such sales.

The House also rejected an amendment offered by Reps. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, and Philip Crane, R-Ill., to cut off food assistance to India until "that nation restores civil liberties to its people."

The biggest item in the appropriation measure was $4.4 billion for food stamps through next January.

Another $4 billion was earmarked for basic farm programs, including administration; to provide subsidies to producers of various crops and to fund the Agriculture Department's "production, processing and marketing" programs. The remainder of the appropriations was for programs such as Food for Peace, foreign market development and the Commodities Futures Trading Corporation.

In another action, the House voted 199 to 196 Monday to continue a $3 million taxpayer grant to Cotton Inc., a private cotton promotion and research group which gets most of its money from voluntary farmer levies — but only on the condition that it slash the $12.25 salary and extensive fringe benefits paid to its president.

Under the measure, the group must limit the pay of any one employee to a maximum $60,000 a year, which is the agriculture secretary's salary.

Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., said he was "impressed" by the "lavish" programs, and he wanted to eliminate the $3 million federal payment outright.

Sugarbeet growers warn of price hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spokesman for American sugarbeet and cane growers warned Congress today consumers may face another round of high prices next year unless lawmakers give some form of protection for the domestic sugar industry.

"Sugarbeet growers must have a certain amount of stability if they are to continue in production," Richard H. Blake, vice president of the National Sugarbeet Growers Federation told a House Agriculture Committee hearing.

Ronald M. Cannon, Salt Lake City, Utah, president of the Utah-Idaho Sugar Company added in testimony on behalf of sugarbeet processors that at current price levels, farmers who have planted beet plants because of last year's record sugar prices will lose money on this year's crop.

If that happens, Cannon warned, production will drop next year and consumers could be left facing higher sugar prices in 1976 and 1977.

Blends of grower and processor groups varied in their proposals for a new federal sugar stabilization program to replace the 40-year-old system of rigid marketing controls which Congress allowed to expire at the end of 1974.

There was unanimous agreement, however, that new legislation should not revive the old system of direct government subsidies which drew wide criticism from urban members of Congress.

Beet grower spokesmen said any new law should be designed to set minimum sugar support prices in the same way supports are provided for other crops, and to maintain domestic production with a chance for "reasonable" expansion.

Officials of cane grower groups in Florida, Louisiana and Hawaii also called for passage of varying forms of new protective legislation to protect both farmers and consumers against wild price fluctuations in the future.

Butz paints good picture

EDINA, Minn. (UPI) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz painted a glowing picture of American agriculture Monday, its vast exports and its continued success to the consumer at home.

"Agriculture has done a pretty doggone good job," Butz told a banquet crowd of 1,200 at the annual meeting of the Minnesota Agri-Growth Council.

Speaking of the United States, helping to build agricultural growth in other countries, and said he wanted to strengthen the trend.

"We are doing our best agricultural trade with developing nations," he said, and mentioned Japan, down and out after World War II, bought $3.5 billion worth of American farm products last year.

Speaking of the many years when the U.S. government paid farmers not to grow crops, Butz said "we were afraid to try" production.

He said the average American consumer still is able to buy food for less than 17 percent of his takehome pay and said there is no other country in the world where this can be done.

Butz came out against ceiling prices saying "we are going to do without."

"That's why I don't like to tie to the point where we set prices in Washington," he told the applauding crowd.

Earlier in the day Butz told the Republican congressional boosters Democratic liberals who dominate Congress so far have distinguished themselves "by talking some resolutions and raising their own allowances for office expenses."

"They have mumbled, fumbled and bungled playing politics with the serious economic welfare of a great nation," Butz said, "I'm thinking and irresponsible spending will lead us directly into a top heavy government that will fiddle our institutions."

The secretary-praised President Ford for vetoing Democratic back spending bills which he said could have set off "another explosion of funds inflation."

CROSSBREEDING of the cantankerous American buffalo with docile domestic cows will produce hardier, taster beef cattle, according to Cattlemen Dale H. Pugh, Kaufman, Texas. He is preaching the gospel of the beafalo, the name given the crossbreed creators, to breeders across the country. (UPI)

3 million face death in Africa

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — More than three million people are facing imminent starvation in East Africa because of the prevailing drought, Western relief officials said today.

An estimated 50,000 nomads and millions of cattle, sheep and camels have already died in the drought which swept across Africa from the Atlantic to the Indian Oceans in recent years.

Continues have improved dramatically on the Horn of Africa following recent rains which have turned the landscape from a parched, brown to green, but the situation remains critical for millions of nomads in southern Ethiopia and neighboring Somalia.

According to relief officials today, more than three million people in the two countries are facing imminent starvation.

The situation is worst in Ethiopia, the officials said, where the military government has still not been able to come to grips with the drought and where the bulk of the three million people affected by famine are still receiving no supplies.

The government has rushed 100,000 persons into hastily constructed refugee camps — and has also launched another worldwide appeal for more aircraft, helicopters and emergency relief supplies to feed the starving millions.

The drought in Ethiopia is a major cause for the overthrow of Emperor Haile Selassie last year, but according to some reports from Addis Ababa, the new military government has been having little more success in tackling the drought.

Nagorno Somalia has tackled the problem much more dramatically and with much more success, these officials said.

Spurred by a $60 million Soviet rehabilitation loan and a fleet of Russian transport aircraft, the Somali government has moved at least 20,000 famine stricken nomads from refugee camps to permanent settlement areas in the last two weeks.

Essentially, nearly 20,000 famine victims will be resettled in new farmsteads or fishing complexes across Somalia.

Farmers Union meets in Burley

BURLEY. Officers of Utah Idaho Farmers Union held an executive meeting at the Ponderosa here Saturday.

Odel Smith, president of the Main-Cassia Farmers Union, and Aldo Dahl, executive committee member, and their wives and Mrs. Gary Hoyce, legislative chairman and secretary, discussed the farm situation in the local, national and world economy with union president Hoy, Holman, Salt Lake City, Utah, and his wife.

Smith said the ever increasing cost of food production to the farmer and the "outrageous" jump in prices after the product leaves the farm on its way to the consumer are unrealistic.

Farmers Union members are family farmers whose investments start at about $100,000 and go up.

Dahl said just like in every other business farmers must make a profit to stay in business. Parity, according to Hoyce, is not a magical albatross. He said the albatross he had in mind from the farmer is as impossible as cheap government from Washington.

"Bankrupt the American taxpayer farmers and it will be interesting to see if we can get food from the Arabs too," Hoyce said.
