Shipment opposed

COPY OF resolution adopted by International Longshoremen's Association empowering him to order grain sold to Russia not to be loaded from Atlantic or Gulf ports is held by Thomas W. Gleason, union president, in Miami Beach, Fla. Today, Gleason assured Congress the grain would be loaded. (UPI)

Dockers will load grain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thomas Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, assured Congress today that U.S. wheat for Russia will be loaded on schedule, according to Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan. Dole said he received the assurance from Gleason in a telephone call from Miami Beach after the ILA threatened Wednesday to bar 132,000 dockworkers from loading wheat destined for the Soviet Union. "Apparently, although the International Longshoremen's Association still has certain reservations about wheat exports," Dole said, "they have been reassured that it is in the country's best interest and wheat exports will be loaded on schedule." The ILA passed a "don't load" resolution at its convention Wednesday. But the final decision was left up to Gleason on whether to handle millions of bushels of wheat, barley and corn recently bought by the Russians. The resolution said the union would not load the grain until it was assured the price of bread, beer and other items would not go up as a result of the sales. Dole said he told Gleason that refusal to load the wheat "could ruin the livelihood of farmers and the well-being of American agriculture" and hurt the nation's balance of payments. Gleason said in Miami Beach he would meet with officials of other maritime unions in Chicago Tuesday and with AFL-CIO executive council members Wednesday. He said AFL-CIO President George Meany is investigating the grain deal with Russia and particularly Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz' statement that the sale would cause only a "nominal increase" in living costs next year. "A nominal increase to him (Butz) might be a dollar a loaf for bread," Gleason said. (Continued on p. 2)

Church asks added time

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of the Senate's CIA investigating committee today requested that his panel be granted six additional months to complete his work. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, cited "serious and troublesome" delays in obtaining information from the administration as the main reason for the request. Church, chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, said the administration's response request for documents "has been slow and procedural delays have hampered the committee's progress." Voting rights foes beaten again
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate today overwhelmingly killed another attempt by Deep South senators to remove their states from coverage under an expanded voting rights law and moved closer to passage of the bill. The Senate voted 72-22 to table an amendment by Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., which would have struck the triggering provision that pulled seven southern states and other areas under the law's protections.

TF County wages show 35% increase

TWIN FALLS — The average annual salary of a full-time county government employee has increased about 35 percent since 1970, according to Twin Falls city payroll records. Full-time employment by the county was 12 percent higher in 1974 compared to 1970. The Twin Falls County increases are lower than national figures released this month by the U.S. Department of Commerce. The agency reported that average salaries of full-time county employees rose 45 percent during the five-year period and employment went up 20 percent. "I think it still puts us in the position of being a conservative county," Harold Lancaster, Twin Falls County Clerk, said Wednesday. The average annual salary of a full-time Twin Falls County employee in 1970 was $4,465, compared to $6,050 in 1974. In 1971, the average pay was $5,407; 1972, $5,823; and 1973, $5,974. Total full-time employees in Twin Falls County ranged from a low of 85 in 1972 to a high of 103 in 1974. In 1970, the county had 92 full-time workers; 1971, 86, and 1973, 90.

Reserve oil production wins OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Armed Services Committee today approved legislation to permit limited production of oil from the naval petroleum reserve in California and Wyoming. Under the bill, production would be authorized from the reserves at Elk Hills and Buena Vista in California and Teapot Dome in Wyoming. Production cannot exceed 330,000 barrels a day.

Argentine leader's health worsens

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The health of President Maria Estela Isabel Peron has taken a turn for the worse, her private physicians said today in a medical bulletin. The report increased belief Mrs. Peron will ask for a leave of absence. Reports earlier today said Mrs. Peron had lost a great deal of weight and suffered fainting spells as she battled labor unrest, an economic crisis and political opposition that included calls for her resignation.

TWIN FALLS — Tena Knypstra, 101-year-old resident of Sky View Manor in Twin Falls, died early Wednesday. Born Dec. 28, 1873, in Holland, she married Herman Knypstra in Chicago, Ill.; in 1905. In 1908 they moved to the Cedar Draw area of Twin Falls County where they farmed until 1936 when they moved into Twin Falls. (Obituary p. 2)

TF canal firm official goes witching for water

TWIN FALLS — Cliff Montgomery is a troubleshooter for the Twin Falls Canal Co. He is "witching" for water.

Hailey son left in Viet

By BART QUENNEL
Times-News writer
HAILEY — Bureaucratic red tape and lack of prize money may be responsible for the death of a wife and son left in Saigon after the fall to the Viet Cong, according to husband and father Robert Bailey, Hailey.

Retired TF banker Sid Graves dies

TWIN FALLS — Sid Graves, 81, retired vice-president of Idaho First National Bank, Twin Falls, died early this morning at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital following a sudden illness. While Mortuary will announce funeral arrangements.

TF canal firm official goes witching for water

When construction workers at the College of Southern Idaho hit an underground drain line this week, Cliff was one of the first on the scene, tracing the path of the line with his witching rods. As assistant manager of the canal company, Montgomery has many other duties. But now and then, he's called on to use his special touch to find the underground water. "And apparently he's pretty good at it. Like other non-professional water witches, also called doublers, Montgomery uses the method primarily because it's worked for him in the past. Although the company's drain lines are plotted out in big books back at the office, witching is sometimes useful to locate drain lines out in the field. Montgomery also has used the method to locate small holes in canal banks. Witching, which receives uniform pull-down from scientific types and literature, was originated in 15th century Germany where it supposedly was used to locate metal ore in underground veins. Since then, the method has been applied to the search for water. Montgomery has a non-mystical approach to the whole thing. He doesn't know why it works, and doesn't particularly care. "It just works." A canal company employee for 37 years, Montgomery started witching about 12 to 15 years ago. He said he heard rumors about the method and just picked it up. One big reason for witching the lines out is saving work. Knowing where the drain lines or holes are means a lot less digging, he says. A former "maintenance" crew member, Montgomery appreciates that. Like Montgomery, another "witch," Larry Hulme, a Buhl drain-cleaning specialist and plumber, just sort of picked up water witching, and uses it as a work saver. "I was just trying to save myself a lot of digging," Hulme says. Hulme has been digging for about 10 years, locating pipes that way, and has found it to be "pretty accurate." "Although there are many methods of witching, including using a forked stick or a plumb-bob, both men use the rod method.

Witching rods locate water

Bailey said the state department has told him nothing can be done. "The state department says there are so many people in Saigon there's nothing they can do," Bailey said. "My son is an American citizen and they should be able to do something." His wife waited in line with thousands of other refugees, he said, trying to get needed visas to leave the country. According to a friend who knew Bailey's wife, the American embassy in Saigon would not let the woman out of the country without Bailey personally by her side. He said bribes were reported to obtain an exit visa but the money could not be delivered to the woman and child in time for delivery to South Vietnamese officials. Bailey said he was in Portland, Ore., attempting to board a plane to Saigon the day Tan Son Nhut Airport was closed. He said the family lived in a suburb of Saigon, Gia-Dinh. Bailey speculated that she and the boy have made it to the Mekong Delta. Bailey said his only hope is to contact the French and British embassies which have opened diplomatic relations with the Viet Cong. He said he has been seriously worried about the safety of his wife and son. "There is somebody on every block who are Vietnamese sympathizers," he said. His son's blond hair and blue eyes will give him away as American, Bailey said. He said many people knew that his wife was married to an American.

Ford raps aging charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today sent to Congress a report from the new Federal Council on Aging, but he rejected the advisory group's main recommendations and said the report "does not reflect administration policies."

The 15-member council, headed by former HEW Undersecretary Bertha S. Atkins, was created by Congress under a 1973 law, to advise the President and the Congress on programs related to special needs of older Americans.

In its report, the council said: "We continue to be distressed about the apparent lack of consideration for the economic plight of the elderly as reflected in administration proposals for the 1976 fiscal year."

"Cutbacks in federal money for social services for the elderly and ceilings on benefit programs financed from Social Insurance Trust funds are particularly burdensome to this aged group. Many of their financial assets are tied to fixed sources while their needs are noble."

"We recommend that the President reconsider the serious effect of these fiscal proposals on the elderly of this nation with their urgent humanitarian needs."

Ford, in a message to Congress accompanying the report, noted the council's concern about "the level of funding for programs to assist the aged and said: "I sympathize with this concern."

"But I am determined to reduce the burden of inflation on our older citizens and that effort demands that government's spending be limited," the President said.

He called inflation "one of the cruelest and most pervasive problems facing older Americans," and said a reduction of it "would be of particular benefit" to the elderly.

Ford criticized the report on grounds that it "does not include supporting data or analysis" that could serve as the basis for review of administration policy.

In sum, he said: "The perspective and recommendations of this report are limited to a particular area of interests and advocacy. The report does not reflect the administration's policies, which must reflect a broader range of responsibilities and priorities."

Ford's itinerary

VISITS TO five European nations are scheduled by President Ford on the trip which is scheduled to begin Saturday. The first leg will take him to West Germany. He is to return to Washington Aug. 4. (UPI)

Union head assures grain loading

I.A. officials also said the sale of 55 million bushels of barley to the Soviets could hike the cost of beer in America.

President Ford offered personal assurances — in a filmed address to the longshoremen, that the grain agreement with Russia would prove beneficial to the United States.

But the I.A. resolution stated "The record of the present administration does not inspire confidence in its ability to protect the vital interests of this nation and its working people in commercial grain sales to the Soviet Union."

Officials of four major Oklahoma wheat organizations sent telegrams to Gleason protesting the I.A. "can load" resolution. The telegrams stated the resolution "to Russian-incentive more jobs for everyone and predicted the deal would not increase food prices."

Word also was received here that the West Coast Longshoremen's union, which is separate from the I.A., would not support the resolution. The I.A. represents dockworkers in ports from Montreal to Texas, including the Great Lakes and Puerto Rico.

Most of the grain contracted to be shipped from Mexico is shipped from Gulf of Mexico ports and only about 10 percent of the wheat will be loaded at West Coast port.

Kansas farm leaders and politicians Wednesday unanimously criticized the International Longshoremen's Association for its "can load" resolution. The I.A. represents dockworkers in ports from Montreal to Texas, including the Great Lakes and Puerto Rico.

Delegates to an I.A. meeting in Miami Beach voted unanimously to refuse to load the grain until they are satisfied the interests of the American public are adequately protected. But farm leaders and politicians said the latest Soviet-American wheat sale wouldn't harm U.S. consumers.

Kansas Association of Wheat Growers President Tom Ostrander said the longshoremen were wrong in assuming the Russian grain sale would hurt Americans. He said bread prices did not fall last spring while the price of wheat fell almost 50 per cent.

"We've got the potential for 55 million bushels into the present bread prices," he said. "So I don't think the price of wheat will make the price of bread go up until we get above $5 dollar a bushel at least."

Dale Lyon, president of the Kansas Farmers Union, said his organization normally isn't too critical of the labor movement.

"But this action by the longshoremen is disgusting," Lyons said.

John Ford, administrator of the Kansas Wheat Commission, said the I.A. move "could damn sure hurt farmers if they carry it out."

"Kansas Farm Bureau President John Junior Armstrong said a dollar of bushel," Armstrong said. "That would add less than a penny and a half to the cost of a loaf of bread — yet that extra dollar for the farmer may make the difference between profit and loss."

Recession pounds family income

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The family income of all Americans, especially poor whites — took a pounding in the recession. Census Bureau figures show

The median income of the nation's 38 million families fell in 1974 to $12,836 from $13,373 in 1973.

At the same time, the number of Americans living below the government's official poverty level rose 5.6 per cent in 1974, to 24.3 million.

That means about 12 per cent of the U.S. population is considered "poor" by federal standards.

The government's poverty threshold, which is adjusted upward each year to compensate for the rising cost of living, is now $5,038 for an urban family of four.

The income figures were computed in so-called "constant dollars" to eliminate the distortions of last year's exceptionally large 11 per cent inflation rate. In "current dollars," median family income rose 7.2 per cent from $12,051 in 1973.

Median income means half of all families earned more than the median figure and half less.

The Census Bureau's figures show low-income whites were hit especially hard in 1974. The number of white persons below the poverty line jumped 8 per cent, or 1.1 million, to 16.3 million.

Blacks in the "poor" category numbered 7.5 million, essentially unchanged from a year earlier, the Bureau said.

The comparisons of income by racial group also showed the gap that separates black and white families narrowed slightly last year for the first time in the 1970's.

The median income of a white family of two adults and two children was $13,360 and for their black counterparts, $7,810. Thus, black family income averaged 59 per cent of a white family's, an increase of 1 per cent over 1973.

The 4 per cent slide in median family income, first since small declines in 1970 and 1971, is bound to continue through 1975, since the recession did not really get under way until late last year.

Moderate Fed aims best, Burns says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Arthur F. Burns told Congress today the Federal Reserve Board will hold fast to its moderate monetary goals despite the view that a more expansionary policy could softly stimulate recovery from the recession.

Declaring that inflation remains at an intolerable level, Burns said the Federal Reserve sees no reason to depart from its goal of last spring for an expansion of the money supply in the range of 5 to 7.5 per cent.

The money supply is the amount of money available in circulation and checking accounts; and its rapid expansion leads to bring interest rates down and stimulate economic activity.

Burns reported on the Fed's goals to the House Banking Committee as he is required to do four times a year under terms of a resolution adopted by Congress earlier this year.

Many liberals in Congress and in economics have been calling for Fed actions which would seek to expand the monetary supply at a cost of vigorous rate. They argue the economy otherwise is destined to go through a long, painful recovery which is likely to keep unemployment at unusually high rates into the 1980's.

But Burns said the long-range view dictates prudence.

"In conducting monetary policy, we will also have to be mindful of the urgency of dealing with the longer-run problem of inflation as well as with the current problem of unemployment," he said.

Challis set as pilot unit

SALMON, Idaho (UPI) — The Challis Planning Unit of the Bureau of Land Management has been selected as the first of 22 units for the federal agency to prepare an allotment management plan and environmental impact statement.

William L. Mathews, state BLM director, told range users from the unit at a meeting in Salmon Monday that their unit was chosen for the pilot unit because it met the criteria of the National Resource Defense Council.

Mathews said the BLM for the first six weeks will have a 17-member team in the Challis area writing allotment grazing management plans.

A second team of 12 members will come in later to write the environmental impact statements on the effects of grazing on all other resources.

The environmental impact team will have specialists in forestry, minerals, lands, wildlife, fisheries, watersheds, recreation, archaeology, social and economic values.

The BLM must have the first draft of the environmental impact statement completed by January 1976 to enable it to circulate that draft to the public and other concerned agencies for review and comment.

Project bids eyed

GOODING — Waterusers at the B-5 Lateral southeast of Gooding are seeking new bids for their project of 5,300 lineal feet of pipeline with pipe water control structures.

There were no bids offered in the call issued earlier this year.

Proper irrigation water management will necessitate the conservation practice installations of 76 acres of land leveling, graded pipe and ditch linings and 275 acres of improved cropping system, pasture and hayland management.

Sponsors are looking for bids this year and are hoping for construction to start during October.

Sponsor is a non-profit group located adjacent to the southeast end of the city of Gooding.

It then must have time to evaluate the comments and make adjustments in the impact statements for final submission to the Council on Environmental Quality by June 30, 1976.

The requirements for the management plan and impact statements are a result of a federal court decision in 1974 on the BLM's control of public lands.

The range users told Mathews they are concerned that they are not seeing any results in the bureau's control of wild horse herds in the area.

Harry Finlayson, Salmon District BLM manager, said he feels there will be a delay in controlling the wild horse numbers but they are going to continue to plan for control in hopes something can be accomplished in coming years.

He also assured them that the BLM would work with the forest in developing the best management system for the total range area.

Action naming HAW termed test case

TWIN FALLS — Action brought by Sandra K. Mitchell, Eden, against the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare is something of a test case, Mrs. Mitchell's attorney, Joe Hansen of Lapwai, said.

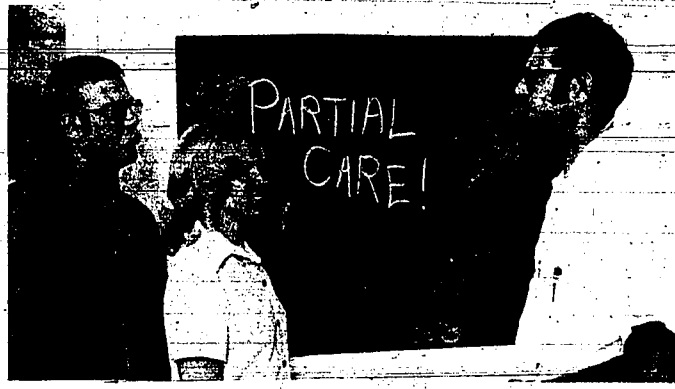

Mrs. Mitchell is seeking, through a notice of appeal and petition for judicial review, to set aside a ruling by the welfare department concerning back payments to her.

Mrs. Mitchell, whose attorney says she is not currently on welfare and has not been receiving benefits for several months, asks the court to rule on the matter in which she says the department of health and welfare says it overpaid her, and then reduced her payments to make up for the overpayment.

Hansen says the matter constitutes an error on the part of the department and his client was penalized for their error.

Mrs. Mitchell says the Times-News report of the appeal Sunday implied she is currently receiving welfare benefits which she is not.

Inspect facilities Mental health services expanded

By LORAYNE O. SMITH Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Regional Mental Health Center will move its partial care services to the First United Methodist Church. Facilities in the basement of the church located at Shoshone Street and Fourth Avenue East, Twin Falls, were inspected Wednesday by Shirley Middleton, Seattle, program consultant for the alcohol, drug abuse and Mental Health branch of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

She and Jack Uditsky, Boise, acting coordinator of mental health field operations for the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, were here Wednesday and today to confer with Mental Health Center officials about deficiencies noted in the site review report last spring.

In the site review last spring were inaccessible facilities — especially in the Burley-Rupert area — poor emergency service and "illegal" formation of the regional advisory board.

Miss Middleton said her recommendations after the two-day visitation will have to "go through channels" to her superior in the regional HEW office in Seattle. Her report, which may recommend removal of restrictions placed upon future funding for the center, will be sent to Dr. James Bax, HAW chief, and thence to the regional HAW office in Twin Falls.

During a meeting Wednesday afternoon with the advisory board, Miss Middleton recommended the group obtain official status, get wider community representation on the board and create steering committees for task forces of citizens interested in mental health problems within each county.

She cited Blaine County in this area and said the plan works successfully there with community members working through Rita Hogg, advisory board member.

Miss Middleton said the board's role should be to actively interpret the center to the community and provide input into how mental health services are delivered.

Members of the board, which is to have two representatives from each of the eight-county areas, now have been appointed by Dr. James Bax, according to Wesley Fields, Fairfield, advisory board chairman.

He told Miss Middleton the board had been working on the problem of getting minority persons on the board, but "we have not been successful."

Board members were urged to "become" involved in the construction plans for a new building to house the center in Twin Falls. Funds for the facility have been tentatively approved. The Regional Mental Health Center currently has 90 per cent federal staffing grant but is administered as part of the state HAW agency.

Idaho water control hit

ROGERSON, Idaho (UPI) — The president of the Idaho Cattlemen's Association said Wednesday a proposed federal control on water is an unbelievable broad measure which could further hamper operations of Idaho agriculture.

Roland Patrick, Rogerson, said the proposed regulation results from a federal court order directing a revision of the Corps of Engineers regulations on the disposal of dredged and fill material in "navigable waters" to include "waters of the United States."

"This could require a federal permit for a rancher who needs to enlarge a stock pond, or the farmer who wants to deepen an irrigation ditch or plow a field," Patrick said.

He said the Idaho Association supports the American National Cattlemen's Association in urging rejection of the proposed regulations and, alternatively, suggesting new legislation defining "navigable waters" and spelling out the Army Engineers' responsibilities more precisely.

He said the situation is particularly critical in Idaho where there are few waters that can be considered commercially navigable but many lakes and reservoirs which are heavily used by boaters and rivers, particularly the Salmon, navigable by expert river runners in especially fast rapids.

He said virtually all waters, particularly in southern Idaho, are used for agricultural production.

"If the regulations as now proposed are permitted to go into effect," he said, "millions of cattlemen and other agricultural producers, including a large segment of this important industry in Idaho, would be further harassed by the long arm of the federal bureaucracy, with more costly impediments to efficient food production."

Library meet set Monday

Arlan Call, librarian, said the meeting is open to the public and will include the annual report of the library programs in this area.

2 Nevada hikers fall short of goal

JACKPOT, Nev. — Donald Brown, 27, and Eddie Dean, 30, Jackpot, were unsuccessful in an attempt to walk cross-country from Jarbridge to Jackpot.

They gave up late Wednesday after having struggled since Monday morning to negotiate the rugged terrain east of Jarbridge.

After having circled Jack Creek, which heads high on the Jack Creek Crater in the 10,000 foot high Jarbridge Mountain range, the two veered south over Sawmill Ridge toward Upon reaching Cougar Creek, they turned northward to the East Fork of the Jarbridge River and not finding a crossing place followed west shoreline northward until they came to Murphy's Hot Springs.

The East Fork is in a lava gorge with sheer walls ranging to 300 feet in height. The men estimate they walked 40 miles. Their proposed route would have been an estimated 60 miles to Jackpot.

'Rap session' set Tuesday

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls City Council will be invited to attend a "rap session" with local developers and engineers Tuesday night.

Designer David Armstrong Wednesday said a proposed resolution requiring city surveying, inspection and testing of projects during construction will be discussed.

The developers and engineers reportedly are worried that the requirements might cause costly holdups in construction projects if city crews can't perform the services fast enough.

They also want private and public construction requirements to be equalized so projects will not have to meet double standards.

The proposed resolution "basically turns all of the engineering and testing over to the city, where now it's done by private enterprise," Armstrong said.

He said the developers and engineers, probably will "encourage the city to certify material before it goes to the job site" rather than checking each project individually. If the materials used in construction are approved, then the projects should meet city standards, Armstrong said.

The subcommittee of city councilmen who drafted the resolution reportedly will be invited to the Tuesday meeting at 7:30 p.m. at Armstrong's office.

Ford on oil

Christian Science Monitor

Democrats in Congress may be winning points with the public in their battle with President Ford over oil prices...

It was not easy for Mr. Ford to veto still another domestic bill, this one designed to get the controls on domestically produced oil off the fact that the White House gave little publicity to the veto action...

Range program that forces consumers to reduce the price of oil encourages the expansion of domestic production and gets the U.S. away from growing dependence on foreign supplies...

The major concern of consumers is that a continuation of price control on oil, which accounts for 30 percent of all domestic production, will trigger sharp increases in fuel costs...

There obviously will be a compromise between the White House and the Democratic Congress. Without it, the controls on oil will expire August 31 and this would produce an immediate and sudden jump in oil prices...

But amid the complex political maneuvering now going on one thing stands out: The nation does not yet have a solid, comprehensive energy program that is understood and supported by the American public...

Somewhat, there has to be better communication between government and public on this crucial matter. According to the New York Times, Mr. Ford plans to send to Congress another program of oil price control...

Judicial triumph

Wall Street Journal

Chalk this one up for judicial activism. Late last year a Federal District Court Judge ordered New York City to release the Tombs...

The catch is that the prisoners in the Tombs didn't want to be moved out, even starting a petition to oppose the change. But when the riot and the judge's decision, the prison population had been reduced to 100...

In spite of these points, and the sensible proposal that the Tombs be maintained as an overnight facility for over detained detainees, the last inmates were escorted to Rikers Island in December...

Below Olympus' peak, a new appeals court

WASHINGTON The U.S. Supreme Court is in recess now, preparing for the new term that will start in October...

The proposal came from a special study commission headed by Sen. Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska. The commission concluded that the present case load on the Supreme Court already is too large to be handled desirably...

Some relief could be afforded by modest measures. Congress could modify certain rules of appellate procedure or create certain special procedures. But the Hruska commission believes the growing problem is not so much as tax law and patent law...

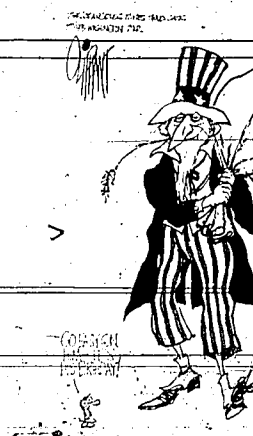

provides. For the most part, the National Court of Appeals would act upon cases referred by the Supreme Court after the high court, for one reason or another, had declined to hear them...

Justice Douglas sees no need for such a court. Justice Brennan remains "completely unpersuaded." Justice Stewart is "not convinced." Justice Marshall believes a new court is "overly strong evidence." The high court itself is thus divided 5-3, a not unfamiliar condition...

Twenty-five years ago, about 1,200 cases were filed in the Supreme Court. Now the number annually exceeds 4,000. Yet the court cannot hear all and decide more than some 150 cases a year...

The troublesome problem of inter-circuit conflicts will not get better. Given the complexity of law and other regulatory laws it will only get worse. Some 40 or 50 serious conflicts develop every year, when one federal circuit interprets a statute in one way, and another circuit rules in precisely the opposite way...

This is a subjective judgment, no more than one man's impression, but I risk it anyway. The quality of this court's work is not high. Granted, the law is not literature, and judicial opinions

Senators get Soviet cold shoulder

WASHINGTON Confidential diplomatic cables reveal that U.S. Senators seeking neutralization of the Indian Ocean met with indifference from high Soviet officials in Moscow...

The cables in fact, contradict claims by Sen. John Culver of Iowa that the senatorial delegation's visit would be the Soviet's receptive to Indian Ocean discussions. The U.S. embassy reported home a cold, evasive response from Soviet officials...

The solitary basis for almost Soviet publicity is private reassurances of one Russian whose official mission is to maintain Soviet-US relations.

Both Culver and Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado are cited in the cables as saying that realize the Soviet's soft talk did not represent Soviet policy but is an attempt to stop the proposed U.S. naval base on Diego Garcia in the Indian Ocean...

its officials not present, the embassy cabled back: "According to Culver, Kuznetsov was evasive about Indian Ocean bilateral negotiations."

But on July 3 Arbatov introduced a new complication. Unable to find Culver, he approached Hart, saying that he feared Soviet side had not made its policy on Indian Ocean clear...

Hart and Culver both denied this to us. However, Hart added he understood Arbatov was "not speaking formally for the Soviet government." Culver went off the record in assailing Arbatov's report...

The embassy's cable described Soviet deputies referring "behind a thick veil of generalities." Later cables asserted the Soviets sidestepped question of their willingness to negotiate base on naval limits in the Indian Ocean...

Granting them every pure intent, these partisan American politicians badly lacking in diplomatic experience are prey to dumbfled, "disinformation" and Soviet counterparts fully programmed by the Kremlin.

You get used to it. "Ford is in favor of helping the poor, but he talks about self-reliance, a term with a double meaning. Sherer talks about self-reliance, but he's outside the boat..."

Should Senators committed against a U.S. government national security policy deal with that policy at the Kremlin as quasi-negotiators?

Shriver's approach makes sense

WASHINGTON Over-patched salmon at the Watergate Terrace, a bunch of liberal Ford Republicans were discussing the just-about presidential candidacy of Stuart Shriver...

The conclusion was enunciated by one of Ford's official political advisers: "Shriver will run, all right, and that means we're going to have to work our tails off to elect him."

At present, Shriver is one of those unannounced candidates. He's given his blessing to a committee of 102, registered with the Federal Election Commission, whose chore is to raise the $100,000 in donations of $250 or less from 30 states necessary to qualify for Federal matching funds...

That is to say, organization includes Steve Starski, Bill Newman and James Chan. Granting them every pure intent, these partisan American politicians badly lacking in diplomatic experience are prey to dumbfled, "disinformation" and Soviet counterparts fully programmed by the Kremlin.

In short, Shriver will be what the media likes to call a "rising" candidate. Translated, this adjective means "he's in a phase like 'getting the country moving,' and will emphasize the need for social programs to improve life for the underprivileged. Shriver will not waste much time on such dry subjects as the federal deficit and high taxes."

But as though anticipating a Shriver candidacy, President Ford has indicated in recent weeks that his campaign will be a striking contrast to that of any Democratic candidate of the Shriver persuasion. He is all for moderation, steadiness and keeping cool, and makes it a point to renege audiences that his approach is "not exciting."

Unless Shriver has changed since he was George McGovern's running mate in 1972, he'll be going around the country declaring "it's the duty of the haves to help the have-nots" period. Every candidate speaks to what he perceives to be his constituency, and Shriver would be the candidate of Big Business. He would not have Harry Goldwater's endorsement.

Both the Ford and Shriver approaches make sense. Ford needs the support, or at least tolerance, of the Republican right wing, and Shriver knows that Democratic Convention delegates demand the red meat of aid to the poor, racial and sexual equality — the whole "progressive" bag. If he wins, he will win with party nomination, the 1976 campaign will indeed offer the electorate a choice instead of an echo.

However cool and collected Ford's language, that race will give the country about as much excitement as it can stand.

Textbook dispute spreading

WASHINGTON The dispute between publishers and educators over what public schools should teach and what texts should be used has spread from West Virginia's Kanawha County, where it exploded last year, to dozens of other communities all across the country.

Mine is involved than protests over allegedly "dirty" texts, though such books often are the catalysts in the confrontation. At issue in the broader sense is who shall control the nation's elementary and secondary schools.

They worry that their children's social and cultural values are being destroyed by too much abstract, unrealistic sex education too much study of radical and liberal politics too much exposure to "lively street language and bluntly realistic life situations found in many of today's modernized text books."

Most educators are resisting change. They say their critics are ultra-high conservatives with no concern about the consequences of censorship and denial of academic freedom.

And a number of publishers are expurgating their books rather than lose lucrative sales. "This thing has spread since the West Virginia outbreak to the point that there is not an educational publisher of any size who has not made at least minor revision in the face of pressure," says Craig T. Seufft, a textbook publisher who serves as chairman of the Education and Textbook Committee of the Association of American Publishers.

"The right of teachers to teach and publishers to publish and students to study is seriously endangered," he adds.

Refugee camps gold buyers' bonanza

By DONALD P. MYERS

United Press International

The Vietnamese are selling gold at a rate of more than $40,000 a day in the four refugee camps in the United States. Some are selling the wedding rings of their fingers.

The two firms doing the most business have bought more than $1 million in refugee gold at camps in California, Florida, Arkansas and Pennsylvania. The price Tuesday was $192 per tael — a group of three thin gold leafs weighing a total of 1.2 ounces used throughout Southeast Asia.

One firm, U.S. Silver Corp. of Van Nuys, Calif., expects to buy $10 million in refugee gold when the Vietnamese get out of the camps and into American society.

"We expect to buy four or five times more gold than — $10 million would be a safe figure," said Richard Thies, chief economist for U.S. Silver. He said many refugees who fled South Vietnam are rich, professional businessmen with "considerable wealth."

"They do have a lot of gold," he said.

His firm and another, Deak-Perera International, Inc., of New York, have bought $2.3 million in gold at the four refugee camps since they opened in May, according to Lt. Col. Hubert Roeder, an Army spokesman at Ft. Indiantown Gap, Pa. A third firm, Manfra, Tordella and Brooks of New York, has bought another $600,000 at one camp alone.

Evan Ecko, branch manager for Deak-Perera at the Pennsylvania camp, said most refugees have sold gold in tael. But some have peddled gold jewelry, particularly wedding bands worth $10 to $50.

"Apparently many of the refugees left Vietnam without money or valuables and they have left to their names," Ecko said.

"We hear rumors all the time that some of the refugees have large amounts of gold they are holding onto. Now that they're in the United States, holding onto the gold and knowing they can get money for it any time makes the refugees feel a little more secure."

U.S. Silver Corp. refuses to buy wedding bands.

"Selling your wedding band is a personal thing and involves a lot of emotion," said Robert Rosebrock of U.S. Silver. "We don't want to participate in that kind of transaction. If a person comes in and wants to sell his or her wedding band, it's probably the last thing of value they have. We try to encourage them to hold off and say that things will probably get better for them."

Most of the selling is going on at Camp Pendleton, Calif., and Ft. Chaffee, Ark. Most Vietnamese know what they're doing and the gold market in the refugee camps is competitive.

"There's a price war on and it's very unprofitable for all the companies sitting there," said Lt. Vigdor, assistant vice-president of Manfra, Tordella and Brooks of New York. "The Vietnamese are very wise. They shop around for the best price."

When the camps first opened, the U.S. government contracted with Deak-Perera to buy refugee gold. In June, the government asked other firms to open offices in the camps.

"When the refugees first got out of Vietnam they were receiving very low prices," Vigdor said. "There was no competition and the Army and State Department asked other companies to come in."

The refugees also have sold a large quantity of jewelry. Thies said the Vietnamese have sold gold at camps in California and Arkansas at the rate of $40,000 a day. Deak-Perera has bought about $120,000 at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida, where things had been slow when the camp opened May 1.

"They had plans to close down about two weeks ago because business was beginning to slow down, but there was a sudden upsurge after people learned of the plans and they're back in doing good business," said Capt. George Neiss, an IGA information officer.

The large amount of gold in the camps has not created any security problems. The firms maintain their own guards and transport the gold and money in armed trucks to and from the bases. Military officials said there have been no major incidents of theft.

But military officials and gold firms believe the refugees are holding onto most of their booty. One says that may mean trouble.

"Most of them say they are going to take it with them when they leave, but I think they're going to have a lot of trouble getting rid of it on the outside," said Dennis Bell of Deak-Perera at Ft. Chaffee. "They'll be able to sell if they go to the East Coast, West Coast or Chicago — major gold centers."

"But can you imagine a refugee trying to sell gold in Iowa? I can almost guarantee they are going to have trouble getting it exchanged in some place like Iowa."

Church says Kissinger due session as CIA probe witness

Kissinger, who once threatened to resign his cabinet post until he was cleared of wiretapping charges by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was reported to be concerned over the Church committee inquiry.

President Ford, however, has acknowledged the secret CIA aid to opponents of Allende and justified it on grounds that the late Chilean leader was trying to destroy a free press and his political opposition.

"I would not agree," he said. "I would ask you to reserve judgment. We are dealing with two former presidents—now dead, neither of whom can speak up. I think it would be just as wrong to attribute guilt to them in the absence of clear and convincing evidence."

Referring to Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy, he said it would be "a grave injustice" to condemn them on the basis of assumption, opinion or conjecture.

Church said he would be holding public hearings on the "open aspects of the CIA operation."
"To make an extravagant public display of this disgrace and telecast it into every far corner of the world, day after day, week after week, would do the country damage in the eyes of the world," he said.

He added that he has been told "it's the best political boxcar that's come along," but indicated he would resist the temptation to make political capital of it.

Church said until the committee has fully investigated the CIA's role in the overthrow of Allende.

Nixon OK'd last-ditch CIA bid in Chile voting

WASHINGTON — Legislation to establish a nationwide system of registering voters by postcard has bogged down in the House Administration Committee.

Ike in dark about U-2

WASHINGTON — Former Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford said Wednesday he was informed President Dwight D. Eisenhower knew nothing in advance of Francis Gary Powers' U-2 flight over the Soviet Union even though Eisenhower took responsibility for the mission, which was wrecked a 1960 summit conference.

Clifford said he did not know that the CIA was negotiating with yet another group. Intelligence sources said, however, that agency officials told Nixon's orders to block Allende, which were strongly worded, constituted a blanket authorization for their activities.

Riviera vessel explodes, 12 die

TOULON, France (UPI) — At least 12 persons were killed and scores of others injured when an excursion boat carrying more than 200 Riviera vacationers burst into flames after its engine blew up Wednesday, maritime officials said.

Identities of the casualties were not immediately known.

Dominique Sorrentino, 45, captain of the excursion boat Venus des Isles II, said he thought the vessel had struck an underwater object, causing a boiler to explode and igniting the fuel tanks.

Sorrentino said he did not know what the object was and could not confirm speculation that it might have been a submarine from Toulon naval base, the country's second largest.

Authorities said 12 persons died in the fire, eight more were seriously burned and at least 50 were slightly injured or suffering from shock.

Passengers aboard the 90-foot boat with a capacity of 300 persons said they did not feel any shock before the explosion. They said they saw flames shoot up from the engine room and black smoke billow into the sky, creating instant panic and an every-man-for-himself atmosphere.

"We were at the front of the boat and the fire started at the back," one French woman said. "We heard shouts of 'fire, fire!' and saw lots of black smoke. There was a great panic and everyone jumped into the water."

The boat was about three miles off the coast headed for the small Mediterranean island of Porquerolles when the accident occurred, officials said.

Mother saves son, dies in flames

DENVER (UPI) — A young mother trapped in a burning car managed to throw her 9-month-old boy out safely. The woman and her husband died in the blast.

"The car flipped on its top and was being held up by a small roller," said Det. Richard Cabbage. "She (the mother) hollered 'please get my baby' and then pushed the child out as the car burst into flames."

The fire prevented witnesses from rescuing Gerald D. and Cindy L. Stone.

Cabbage said Tuesday he planned to file criminal charges in connection with the accident.

Cabbage said the baby was taken to a hospital for observation following the accident Monday night and then was given to the custody of his maternal grandmother.

The detective said Stone, 18, was driving the sports car, which was stopped at a traffic light at a Denver intersection when it was rammed from behind by a car driven by David L. Gamble, 28, also of Denver.

The detective said he would file charges against Gamble, but that an investigation was continuing before determining what the charges would be.

Jobless profiled

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — White collar auto workers who are laid off from their jobs sit around all day watching television, drinking beer and squabbling with their spouses.

That profile was sketched by a Michigan State University survey of 82 white collar employees laid off from a Michigan auto plant.

Salvatore J. Bonanno, a graduate student in business administration at the university who conducted the survey, said 60 per cent of the laid-off workers said they watched more television.

Twelve per cent consumed more alcoholic beverages and 19 per cent favored beer over more expensive hard liquor.

And nearly 70 per cent of the workers surveyed said increased stress had entered their marriages since they lost their jobs.

Oil firm accused of repair delay

WASHINGTON — The staff of a House investigative subcommittee strongly suggests that the Cities Service Oil Co. purposely delayed repairing an offshore natural gas well platform in the Gulf of Mexico until last winter as a means of pressuring Congress to deregulate gas prices.

At the same time, the Justice Department's criminal division has turned over to the U.S. Attorney here for disposition of possible perjury violations testimony given by officials of a natural gas production company.

The Cities Service platform, which serves six wells, was shut down for badly needed repairs for 143 days — from Aug. 20, 1974 until Jan. 20, 1975 — depriving Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Corp. of about 13 billion cubic feet of natural gas during the peak of the winter heating season.

The lack of natural gas contributed to an already severe shortage to Transco's customers along its pipeline.

Water study ordered

SALMON — An order granting the Idaho Department of Water Resources the authority to begin a determination of water rights in the Pahsimeroi River Basin has been signed by District Judge Arnold T. Beebe.

The order authorizes the department to conduct a study necessary to prepare a proposed findings of water rights for the Pahsimeroi River and drainage basin.

This determination of rights will include both ground water and surface water rights.

The order stemmed from a private lawsuit involving water rights on the Pahsimeroi River. The department will begin field mapping this summer and expects to make a recommendation to the district court by December of 1976.

Soused mouse
Dr. J. HOMER Ferguson, University of Idaho associate professor of zoology, watches one of his laboratory mice sip a water-alcohol mixture, waiting for the day the mouse prefers alcohol to straight water. Ferguson is turning mice into biologists for his study of the effect alcohol has on aggression, reproductive systems, maternal behavior, birth defects and social structure.

Professor studies alcoholic mice
MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Dr. J. Homer Ferguson is turning mice into alcoholics in hopes of understanding the effects of spirits on aggression, reproductive systems, maternal behavior, birth defects and the possible correlation of such drink-related traits in humans.
Ferguson noted that, like humans, "you can make an alcoholic mouse fairly easily."
Cages of mice are equipped with sipper tubes containing a mixture of five per cent ethyl alcohol and water. The ethyl alcohol is something like vodka, but is stronger and tasteless.
After the mice have nothing but alcohol solution to drink for awhile, they are given their choice of three tubes to drink from. One tube is empty, one has water and the third contains the spirits. If the animal chooses the alcohol, Ferguson knows it's hooked.
Once an alcoholic is spotted, the animal is isolated in a cage for 15 days, his drinking habit is continued.
Then Ferguson places two alcoholic males in a "neutral" cage to see whether they fight, and if so, to measure the time lapse before the first attack, the duration of the attack and the frequency.
He also identifies the dominant male in the encounter.
For control, he also pits one alcoholic mouse against a teetotaler and just as soon as the mice are together.
"We hope to find out whether the alcoholic mouse is more aggressive than a non-alcoholic one," Ferguson said.
The scientist is also studying to see whether the tendency toward alcoholism is inherited.
Once he's identified alcoholic male and female mice, they're put together to mate. Ferguson is trying to determine whether the offspring are "naturally alcoholic."
He is also studying if there is any correlation between the alcoholic parents and birth defects in the offspring.
Ferguson's studies began in June and are expected to continue through next spring. He makes no promises that what is found in mice necessarily will fit in the human element.
"We're just trying to get a toe hold on the alcoholism problem, and we don't know whether we can extrapolate from animals to humans," Ferguson said. "We're just trying to find out a little about alcoholism."

ISU to finish library building

BOISE (UPI) — A softening of steel prices is going to permit Idaho State University to finish the fourth floor of its $5.5 million new permanent building.

The permanent Building Fund Advisory Council authorized ISU to spend another half million dollars on the building when it learned bids for the basic structure came in more than $1 million under expectations.

Sen. Vernon K. Brasseur, R-Boise, voted against the change order to permit completion of the fourth floor at this time. He said the legislature authorized construction of the building without the fourth floor completed after it was told that floor was as yet needed.

Gerald Wilson voted for the change order but said he did so primarily because the council has no authority to spend the leftover money on any other project.

Even with the change order some $50,000 in the library appropriation will revert to the state order for reappropriation by the legislature.

John Korbus, physical plant director for ISU, said the university had not asked for completion of the fourth floor because it felt inflationary costs prohibited it. He said one of the reasons the costs came in as low as they did was a softening of steel prices.

Mainline, the council authorized the Department of Parks and Recreation to buy a house and vacation home adjacent to park headquarters on Boise's Warm Springs Avenue, for a Lucky Peak park's manager's house and district headquarters. The state will pay L.W. Peterson $55,000 for the buildings and land, $30,000 of it from building funds and the rest from waterway funds.

Approved bid advertising for "eight other" managers' houses at Brunau, Three Island, Veterans Memorial, Ponderosa, Winchester, Farragut, Priest Lake and Round Lakes state parks up to a total expenditure of $248,000.

Okayed preliminary plans and authorized final plans for a $140,000 milking parlor and processing facility at the prison dairy. It gave the Board of Correction the option of building it with inmate labor if bids for contract labor are too high.

Gem narcs raid Boise residence

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Department of Law enforcement officers arrested two men and seized more than $2,000 in suspected narcotics in a raid early Wednesday at a Boise residence.

Glen Ford, Idaho state narcotics agent, said charges of manufacture, possession, and intent to deliver controlled substances were filed against Alton Munson, 21, and Stephen Akres, 28, of 2418 North 5th St.

He said the officers were assisted by Mountain Home police in the raid at the men's residence during which they seized one-half ounce of a substance believed to be cocaine, three pounds of marijuana, 200 to 300 discs of a substance believed to be LSD, and four grams of hashish.

In addition, the officers seized paraphernalia and $1,250 in cash.

Charges filed against the two are possession of marijuana, possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver marijuana, manufacture of a controlled substance, marijuana possession of LSD, and possession of cocaine.

The two men were arraigned before Municipal Court Judge Schroeder and returned to Ada County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bond each. Schroeder agreed to appoint a public defender for Munson. Akres asked for time to obtain his own attorney.

The arraignment was continued until 10:30 a.m. July 29 for pleas.

Ford said the house occupied by Akres and Munson had been under surveillance for two days before the raid.

Fast AF Dam action urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, asked congressional chairman in the House Tuesday for fast action on bills to clear the way for replacing the American Falls Dam.

Church, in letters to Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Rep. Harold Johnson, chairman of the House Subcommittee on Water and Power Resources, cited the pressing need for replacing the dam.

The legislation sponsored by Idaho's two U.S. Senators received swift Senate passage. It provides for tax exempt status for construction bonds. Rep. Tied over the taxing of construction bonds has been the principal cause of delay in getting the replacement project underway.

Slowdown studied

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — An official of the Federal Energy Administration said Wednesday that construction of new electric generating plants is being slowed because of uncertainties on the part of public and private power companies.

Edward Morrison, deputy director of the administration office of energy finance, said the uncertainties concern finances and future power demand.

While he said it has not yet been determined what impact this slowdown will have on the nation, "a cabinet level task force should be established within a month to examine the circumstances surrounding construction delays and come up with solutions to the problem.

Morrison, a speaker at the University of Idaho's annual utilities executives course, said his department spent many study days, concerning construction of new electric utility plants.

"As the utilities perceive their problems financing, problems stem from the insufficient rate of return allowed power producers by state utility commissions," he said.

Boise firm selected

BOISE (UPI) — The architectural firm of Collard Boyeler & Benton of Idaho Falls was selected Wednesday to prepare plans for a $20 million project for Irons State Hospital South to comply with the safety code.

The permanent building and additions, owned by the state, will include installation of a stand-by electrical source and fire control systems. Plans might include replacement windows, installing central air conditioning, lowering ceilings with acoustical tile panels, modernizing the elevator so it can be stunged from each level, replacing old floor tiles and repainting the interior in colors selected by the project firm from a list of three recommended for the work.

Basic math stymies many

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A nationwide survey indicated today that Americans are unable to use basic math to solve everyday consumer problems ranging from balancing their checkbooks to deciding which sized package is the cheapest.

It also reported men "consistently outperform females on exercises involving buying and household situations" and that blacks, inner city residents, persons whose parents lack high school educations and those residing in the Southeast states in general are poorer at solving math problems involved in buying decisions.

The survey covered 34,000 persons aged 17 and another 4,200 adults. It was taken by the National Assessment of Educational Progress, a project of the Education Commission paid for by the National Center for Education Statistics.

Consumers are generally ill-equipped to purchase wisely and make the best choices among competing products," said White House Consumer Adviser Virginia Knauer, commenting on the report.

She said it was not surprising that from 223,000 to 245,000 consumers went bankrupt last year, a record.

Forbes, director of the project, said "too many students apparently fail to see the relationship between math courses in school and the use of math in everyday living."

The survey found adults generally to be better than 17-year-olds at consumer math, apparently because they have had practical marketplace experience.

It found "less than one-half of the 17-year-olds and adults could successfully determine the most economical size of a product. Only 10 per cent of the 17-year-olds and 20 per cent of the adults could correctly calculate tax rate. One per cent of the 17-year-olds and 15 per cent of the adults could balance a checkbook."

The survey involved practical problems which the participants were asked to solve. The checkbook problem included a subtraction error, a deposit error, service charges and an outstanding check. Even though 77 per cent of the adults tested said they had managed to balance a checking account before, only 16 per cent of those tested could solve the problem.

Ski binding sales checked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Treasury Department said today it is looking into complaints from an American company that ski bindings made in West Germany, Austria and Switzerland are being sold in the United States at illegally low prices.

The announcement followed an investigation by the Customs Bureau that uncovered evidence that foreign-made ski bindings were being "dumped" on the American market at less than fair value.

That means their selling price here is allegedly less than in their home country, a violation of the Antidumping Act of 1921.

The investigation began after Safety Systems Inc., of Chicago complained about the domestic selling prices of its foreign competitors. The Chicago firm manufactures the Besser ski binding.

If the Treasury confirms sales at less than fair value and if the U.S. International Trade Commission decides that Safety Systems Inc. has been injured as a result, penalty import duties can be imposed on the European companies.

In 1974, about $3 million of ski bindings were imported from the three European countries.

OAS endorses Cuba trade

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) — The Organization of American States has tentatively endorsed a resolution to end the Western Hemisphere's economic isolation of Cuba.

Fourteen OAS nations, including the United States, agreed Wednesday night to support a "freedom of action" resolution to circumvent the organization's 11-year-old sanctions against Cuba.

The countries, which have the necessary two-thirds majority for approval, decided to vote in favor of the resolution Tuesday at a meeting of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers in San Jose.

The resolution, initiated by Mexico and endorsed by the United States, would leave it up to each OAS nation to decide whether to maintain diplomatic and economic relations with Cuba. The measure would fall short of actually lifting the 1964 sanctions against the Communist government of Premier Fidel Castro, but would make the trade boycott obsolete. Nations supporting the move were the United States, Argen Tina, Colombia, Costa Rica, Venezuela, Mexico, Haiti, Panama, Peru, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Trinidad-Tobago, El Salvador and Honduras.

Diplomats said 12 of the nations have pledged in writing to sponsor the resolution. The remaining two — the United States and the Dominican Republic — have promised in writing to vote in favor of the measure. Chile, Uruguay and Paraguay were expected to vote against the resolution. Brail, Nicaragua, Bolivia and Guatemala — were considered likely to abstain.

WALTON-ON-THE-NAZE, England (UPI) — Ever since her home was robbed three years ago, widow Helen Smith, 82, carried all her jewels and savings in her purse. Wednesday someone stole her purse.

2-year-old gives apology for fall

BOSTON (UPI) — "I fall. I'm sorry," said 2-year-old Tiare Jones from her hospital bed.

Tiare, forced onto a fire escape by flames with her teenage godmother, fell five stories Wednesday when the fire escape crumbled. Her godmother died in the fall.

The child, nicknamed "Tea Tee," apologized for the fall to her 5-year-old sister, Keysha.

She was reported in stable condition in New England Medical Center, but doctors were watching for internal injuries.

Her mother, Patricia Jones, said the little girl was in fair spirits and had eaten several popicles during Mrs. Jones' visit to the hospital. Tea Tee has not yet been told Diane Bryant, 19, died in the fall.

Tea Tee and Miss Bryant came within seconds of safety Tuesday as fireman Robert O'Neill tried to help them from a fire escape to a ladder from a waiting fire truck.

As O'Neill grabbed the ladder, the fire escape collapsed. O'Neill held on to the ladder and the young woman made a frantic grab for his legs. But she missed and fell to the ground a split second before the child. The fireman pulled himself safely onto the ladder.

The teenager, who had been babysitting while the child's mother was at work, suffered multiple injuries and died at 7:20 p.m.

Fire investigators poked through the ruins of the burned house in the Back Bay area to find what caused the blaze which has been labeled "of suspicious origin."

Fire damage was estimated at $50,000.

BPW pushes for ERA

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The national convention of Business and Professional Women voted Wednesday to spearhead establishment of a national coalition of all states for passage of the Equal Rights Amendment.

The 4,200-delegate convention also agreed to launch a national mass media campaign and establish a national coalition headquarters.

Delegates agreed Tuesday that the Business and Professional Women would contribute $50,000 a year toward passage of the Equal Rights Amendment until it was ratified by the necessary 38 states. The proposed Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, already ratified by 34 states, prohibits discrimination based on sex.

The Business and Professional Women have hired the Washington firm of Bailey, Deardourff & Eyre to assist in elections on a state-by-state basis of candidates favorable to ERA.

A resolution before the national Business and Professional Women's convention directed at 16 states which have failed to ratify ERA will be voted on Thursday.

Assists playmate

AFTER a morning of play in the park as temperatures mount in New York, a cool refreshing drink of water hits the spot here Tuesday. Kimberly Hill, 3, demonstrates that sexist chivalry is out and that plain old helpfulness is the new order as she assists playmate Virgil Delera, 3, in quenching his thirst.

Mini-Reviews

"Moko" by Lana B. Kenney reveals an ancient African culture to the white man's world with candor and honesty.

Lana B. Kenney gives a rare and evocative portrait of her extraordinary experiences. She was a teen-age opera singer when she married a specialist in tropical diseases. They were stationed in a small village in the Belgian Congo. Here, with little to remind her of Western civilization, she grew to know intimately a group of remarkable human beings: Malu Moko, the palm-wine entrepreneur; Malali Moko, his small son; Baloki, his beautiful daughter; Lisenge, Caloka's lover; Mafita, the lecherous chief and the witch doctors; Djaji and Mosoko.

With a reverent acceptance at the ways and rituals of these people, she gives a warm, poignant, often humorous recollection of a little-known people and their proud heritage.

"The Coming Collapse of the Past," Office" by Robert J. Myers

Practically everyone is aware that the U.S. Postal Service is in trouble, but most people aren't aware how deep the trouble is and the Postal Service may not merely be a victim of inflation but one of its important causes.

The service is now over $2 billion in debt and still must tackle myriad problems, including labor troubles, competition with private entrepreneurs have been introduced to get back congressional authority over the Postal Service, yet none of the proposed measures have become law.

Meanwhile our post office continues to render poorer service than that of 18th century London, which made deliveries eight times a day. This is not a theory and it is not an exaggeration. The author supports his case with facts and figures.

For anyone who is concerned with our nation's economy and the effectiveness of our oldest communication system, this is a book that gets to the bottom of what could easily become a national scandal and a national disaster.

"One Man's Medicine" by Charles Harris

This is more than a doctor's memoir of his first 20 years in medicine. It is a book peopled by dependent patients — some doctors in name only and others who, as deeply concerned human beings, genuinely care.

It is a loving book, because, as Dr. Harris has written, "I love the profession of medicine which for 500 years been dedicated to the devoted dedication I am proud of the tradition and grateful for having been given the tools that allow me to follow it. I have been dedicated to the decent motivation I am proud of the tradition and grateful for having been given the tools that allow me to follow it. I hope my book will persuade the public that the orthodox center of the profession of medicine is neither crass nor cynical. It is scared, loving and, caring qualities that must be preserved in whatever processes are used to bring the best medicine has to offer to all people."

"Brothers" by Bobb, Jack Nelson

Trouble follows some men around like a lean hungry dog: the more they try to kick it away, the more it comes. These men have long forgotten what it is like to be left in peace. For them the earth is an alien land which they wander strangers and alone.

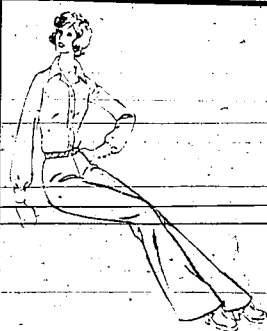

Jimmy Ray, a younger of the brothers, quiet, hard-working, a reader of novels and poems, a shy and vulnerable inner. Curly is handsome, volatile, charming, a man whose spirit runs on freedom and fresh air and who is afraid of nothing except war. Curly fights and Jimmy Ray picks up the pieces, but there came a time of violence and revenge and Jimmy Ray was helpless.

The themes of classic literature, the superbly drawn characters and background in this well-told novel are conclusive evidence of a major new American writer.

DEAR ABBY: Do you have any suggestions on how a deaf person can wake himself up each morning? This is very important to me because I would like to have my own apartment and live by myself if I can solve this problem. Thanks for any help you can give me.

R.

DEAR R: I contacted the Society for the Hard of Hearing, and they suggested an alarm clock with a flashing light. They are sold for around $15 at SHH offices. I was told that these are very popular because deaf people are highly sensitive to light.

DEAR ABBY: After 30 years of marriage, my husband and I are no longer in love. We have not shared the same bed for the last 10 years. I know that for five years he has been in love with another woman who would marry him if he were free, but he is staying with me out of a sense of duty.

Alarm clock for the deaf

Why are both miserable this way, but I still need him for security, since I have no one and couldn't support myself. Also, I am used to his company and an afraid to start a new life for myself at my age (51). I don't know which way to turn. Can you advise me?

LOST IN L.A.

DEAR LOST: First, just because you've never worked doesn't mean you can't. Hanging on to a man who keeps an in-name-only marriage intact out of a sense of duty is unfair to him.

Why not talk it over with him? Perhaps, with his help you could find a job in interesting surroundings that would offer many prospects for new friends. If your husband feels as strongly about the utility of your marriage as you do, he might supplement your income or otherwise contribute to your security. If nothing works out, what have you lost?

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for the exchange on fancy church weddings for young couples who have been living together. You're right; it is in poor taste and an unnecessary expense to parents. It is also a rip-off of the guests invited to the shindig, since they are supposed to show up with gifts in hand to avoid "raping" family and "friend" relationships. I don't care if young people want to kick over my traditions, but I think they ought to try to live with the consequences.

The traditional wedding, and the party after it, has always symbolized a new beginning for a new family. So, if the family began two years ago, why throw a party now? And why ask friends to furnish the house?

TIRED OF THE RIP-OFF

DEAR TIRED: Those who feel as you do (and there are many) should decline invitations to such weddings and feel the obligation to send a gift.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69760, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope. For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

retrained for two reasons. First of all, he was a trifle ashamed of his play, but secondly he had a beautiful sarcastic speech ready.

"You know," he told his partner, "there is a traditional way to get a jackass' attention. You hit him over the head with a two-by-four. You could have obtained this effect by leading the queen and then the king of spades. This unnatural play could mean just one thing. You held just two spades. I would have risen with my ace and given you a ruff to set the contract."

ASK THE GOODY'S

A Michigan reader wants to know the correct response to partner's one-diamond opening when holding:

♠ A K 6 4 ♥ Q 3 ♦ 3 ♣ 3 2

♠ K Q 9 3

The correct response is two clubs. You're on your way to a game of higher and the most important thing for you to do is to give your partner correct information about your distribution. Most sign "he will" note that you hold more clubs than spades.

(Do you have a question for the Jacobys? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The most interesting questions will be used in the column and writers will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The deal was short, sweet and uneventful. East rose with the ace of diamonds and returned the king of spades. It held and he continued with the queen. West thought about overraking but finally ducked. East led a diamond and South ruffed off the rest of the tricks. You play like a jackass. Should East? "Don't you know that I would have raised you in spades if I held king-queen and another."

West was tempted to stand up and poke East in the nose, but

MR. AND MRS. BURDETT ROUNDS

Miss Buel, Rounds marry in Elko rites

TWIN FALLS—Jennifer Sue Buel and Burdette C. Rounds were married in a July 7 ceremony in Elko, Nev., with the Elko township justice of the peace officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin K. Buel, Murtaugh, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. Hal Groce, Twin Falls, and Burdette Rounds, Massachusetts.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white lace-over-light-blue satin in an empire style. The sleeveless dress featured a V neckline and glittering buttons trimmed the midriff of the dress.

The couple renewed wedding vows preceding a July 20 reception at the Murtaugh United Methodist Church Rev. Darwin Secord, minister, conducted the ceremony before family members.

Kelly and Sherri Groce, brother and sister of the bride, and three ringbearers.

The bride's table was covered with white or gandy and a bouffant skirt trimmed with blue lace bows.

The three-tiered white cake was decorated with blue roses and topped with white doves.

The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Devon Anderson, Murtaugh. Silver candleabra holding blue candles completed the table decorations.

Punch was served by Mrs. Dennis Copp, Twin Falls, aunt of the bridegroom. Mrs. Francis L. True, Twin Falls, aunt of the bride, poured coffee. Cake was served by Mrs. Earl Buel, Twin Falls, sister-in-law of the bride.

Guests were served at quartet tables centered with breads, soups and fruiting roses.

Callie Haken and Claude True, cousin of the bride, both Twin Falls, were in charge of the guestbook.

Cheryl Phipps, Twin Falls, cared for the gifts. Kelly and Sherri Groce were gift bearers. Val and Connie Johnson, Twin Falls, cousins of the bride, assisted with the reception.

Earl Buel, Twin Falls, and Mike Buel, Murtaugh, brothers of the bride, served as ushers for the reception.

Special guests included Mrs. Ina M. True, Twin Falls, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Lawrence Copp, Twin Falls, grandmother of the bridegroom.

Out of town guests attended from Twin Falls, Heyburn, Rupert, Wendell, Jerome, Boise, Pocatello, Kimberly, Filer and Burley.

The bride is employed at the Alley Lounge and the bridegroom works at JB's Big Boy Restaurant. The couple resides at Pioneer Trailer Court, 1624 Kimberly Road, Space 50, Twin Falls.

New 'hot tubbing' fad washes inland

NEWHOUSE SERVICE—There's a wavelet of new fad bathing along the West Coast from San Diego to Seattle. Rumor says it also has washed inland and across country to the Atlantic.

Called "hot tubbing," it consists of men and women of any age, in or out of wedlock, steaming and soaking together in the altogether in a vat on hot water outdoors.

The best time is night, in a windy rain, an old tree creaking overhead, and the water's hot. You go all the way up to the waist—or the chin if you crutch. Within five minutes you are a completely new you—or so it is said.

"Now you understand," says Leon Elder "taking up the subject in 'Hot Tubs' (Rumors, $395), "how the Funs can run naked from a sauna to lurid themselves into the snow. What bliss!"

Elder, chronicler of what could be termed an abbreviated form—of—skinny-dipping reports that it all started in Santa Barbara, Calif. There some new young people unlike the more aged old native), got tired of driving nightly the 40 miles of him roads to the Las Cruces hot springs.

So a guy handy with tools, another a specialist in keeping 550 automobiles running, and a third knowledgeable about discarded washing machines, water heaters and water pumps, combined their skills, and wits.

What emerged in a backyard grove of trees, after eight to a vineyard, a junkyard and an hardware store was an old redwood wine vat, six feet tall and across, converted into the first modern hot tub.

A vineyard had provided the surplus vat, a junkyard a still-useable household water heater tank plus a discarded washing machine water pump, and the hardware store the necessary pipe and fittings.

With water, gas and electricity connections made and a slot cut into the vat to allow easy entry and exit—all systems were go. The first tubful-hot-water was heated with soda ash to neutralize wine acid in the vat's inside. The bottom drain pipe was plugged for a day or so.

Then, when the water ran clear, the hot tub was set for its first human visitors. Elder says that a nymph was first in and christened—all eyes of crippled humor and insomnia, are hereby cured.

The original six-foot hot tub, Elder writes, filled with three and one-half of water easily held 33 persons standing. He estimates the six-foot tub held several hundred gallons of water.

"Since that historic night," Elder explains, "a great number and variety of hot tubs, have appeared, both inside and outside the native habitat of Santa Barbara's Mountain Drive."

His paper-bound book puts the emphasis on the home-made hot tub—that requires only some ingenuity, romantic drive, work and a few dollars.

"And just in case you don't live in vineyard country, Elder's book explains how to make a hot tub from scratch—using purchased—made barbed wire and staves.

"Since the first pioneering effort in Santa Barbara a few years ago, the author says, free enterprise has moved into the hot tub field. He tells where and from whom, you can purchase ready-made vats, water heater tanks, and from whom, you can purchase pumps, fittings and so on.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
For the past several months we have noticed that my 11-year-old granddaughter has had an unpleasant scalp odor if she doesn't shampoo every day. She has tried many different brands, but none seems to help. She is embarrassed.
We were wondering if possibly vitamins could have something to do with it. — Mrs. G.C.

Yes, Vitamin B1 (thiamine), used in large doses, can produce a mild body odor. If she has been taking massive doses, you can suspect it as a cause. The odor most often occurs in the urine however.

The cause of the odor is more likely a skin change common at her age. With puberty there is an increase in activity of the sebaceous glands, and this may produce a slight odor.

One should consider also some scalp disorder, and this should be checked out first. The daily shampooing would not cause the problem, unless it results from some element in the preparation itself. If her hair is excessively oily you might select a shampoo designed for that type of hair. I suggest taking her to a dermatologist.

Vitamins can cause body odor

Dr. George Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
I am enclosing 25 cents for your booklet, "Hyalal Hernia, and Eight Ways to Combat It." A stamped and self-addressed return envelope is enclosed. This is the kind of hernia I have, but I'm darned if I can find out much about it.

One question I would like you to answer now is, will it cause chest pains inside my ribcage and under my breast? I also have heart pains, yet the EKG shows no abnormality. Can you give me reasons for these abnormalities? — Mrs. T.P.

Hyalal hernia can mimic heart symptoms because of the location of the "hiatus." This is an opening at the diaphragm through which the gullet passes before connecting with the stomach. In hyalal hernia, this opening becomes enlarged, and a tiny portion of the stomach is forced upward.

This may result in indigestion, stomach juices, the major cause of pain. It is usually most severe on the left side of your chest, since the opening is located slightly to the left center. Pain can radiate downward and under the rib cage. In some cases, it can reach the back area.

Complaints of heartburn that can't be traced to other causes can often be attributed to this type of hernia. Since your EKG showed normal heart patterns it is probably the hyalal hernia that is troubling you.

The booklet I'm sending you will help explain the situation more thoroughly. It will also suggest methods of alleviating the symptoms. In extreme cases surgical repair of the hernia may be required. Usually, though, conservative approaches are sufficient.

Unit chairman installed

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Wayne Fisher was installed as hospity chairman of the Twin Falls Women of the Moose Tuesday night in the Moose Hall.

Mrs. Maynard Ek senior regent conducted the meeting. Other officers attending included Mrs. Gary Cravens, graduate regent; Mrs. John Lively, junior regent; Mrs. Ben Hollbrook, chaplain; Mrs. Elaine Sever, recorder; Mrs. Edna Ordal, treasurer; Mrs. George Klund, guide; Mrs. Roger Paulsen, assistant guide; Mrs. James Howard, secretary; Mrs. Frank Edwards, Argos; and Mrs. B. J. Clark, musician program.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

I drink a lot of black coffee during the day. What I would like to know is whether or not coffee brings the cholesterol level in the blood higher. — T.Y.

If I read your question correctly, you are asking whether there is some substance in coffee that somehow raises the actual cholesterol level by producing some chemical reaction in the body. Am I right?

I know of no evidence of this.

For those who use cream in their coffee, it should be noted that coffee cream contains good portions of saturated fats, a culprit in cholesterol formation.

Although cholesterol has been implicated in heart attacks and other circulatory troubles, it is also vital to human life. For this reason Dr. Thosteson has entitled his booklet, "Control Your Cholesterol Sensibly." For a copy write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 3999, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Here's some save 'em and swap 'em art

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Someday, somewhere, you might find a stamp-sized piece of art hiding in the grocery store, a telephone booth or a library book.

It's yours to keep, free of compliments or artist hassles. Hosteler of Harper, Kan. You can collect a whole series of her miniature drawings, or trade them with friends. But you can't sell them, and she won't sell them to you.

You have to find them. Rosalee, a 38-year-old farmer's daughter who worked in New York for four years as a professional artist, is touring the country scattering her lithographs in shops and stores and stairwells. She tramples down the sidewalk, jiggles looms (flapping, page-boy haircut askew in the breeze and tiny bells on her belt thinking her approach. But there's a serious purpose behind her madness. It's a gimmick or advertising stunt — she wants nothing out of it. It is a gentle protest about society's attitude toward art.

I'm really fed up because middle America — all America — does not buy the work of a living artist! You have to die before you're appreciated," she says.

So I'm protesting, I say, well, if they won't buy it, I'll just give it to 'em."

She conceived of the project give-away in April and drew a series of 40 lithographs, each just over an inch square, with organic-looking yellow and black figures representing flowers, seeds, bugs, whatever you want to see in it.

Bologna and liverwurst sandwiches look like bargains this month

By JEANNE BOSEM
UPI Food Editor

Retail prices are going up so steadily that some ordinary, inexpensive ready-to-eat cold cuts have become as economical for summer meals as many raw ready-to-cook meats.

The one exception this week among raw meats was ground chuck, a favorite for hamburgers and cookouts. The low of 69 cents a pound was in a Los Angeles supermarket, according to "UPI's" weekly survey of food prices throughout the country. That was six cents below the average recorded during the base week of March 19.

Retail prices for ground chuck ranged between 86 cents in Pittsburgh and 99 cents in eight other cities, including Buffalo, Phoenix, Raleigh and Washington, D.C. The highs were $1.38 and $1.39 a pound in Atlanta and Miami.

The most economical cold cuts were chubs, or chunks, of unsliced bologna and liverwurst, often only 79 and 99 cents a pound in a survey made by Cornell University's Cooperative Extension Service. Ten other types of cold cuts, including olive and pickle loaves, cooked salami and beef bologna, were priced between $1.50 and $1.75 a pound in the study.

While there is no waste in such meats, they are not always as good a buy nutritionally as raw meats and poultry, which have a much higher protein content.

Frozen french fries were five pounds for $1 in Washington compared with the 43-cent-a-pound average in March. But the high, in Buffalo, was six cents above the average.

Meat prices roached in record high last week in New York City, said consumer affairs commissioner Elinor Guggenheimer. But she is optimistic about the future.

"The U.S. Department of Agriculture reports an increase in 'feed' for poultry, which means that prices should start to go down by the fall," she said. She added price for fresh potatoes still are rising because the new crop won't be harvested until the end of summer.

There were even a few good buys around in commercially grown fresh produce, despite earlier forecasts of high prices. The United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association's weekly market report, prepared exclusively for UPI, showed these specials in a Boston market: sweet corn, nine ears for 99 cents; cantaloupe, 49 cents apiece; and lettuce, three heads for $1 for iceberg.

TF Humane Society petitions seek county aid

Unexpected visitors

By TONIE NAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS.—The Twin Falls Humane Society is circulating petitions seeking public financial support for an animal control program in Twin Falls county.

Bobbi Glasman, president of the society, said the organization is operating the Twin Falls City dog pound at a monthly rate which covers pound activities but leaves nothing for animal care and investigations outside the city limits.

Donations, which she said are often few and far between, are all the society has for its operation. In addition, the society has received a total of $500 in county grants for capital improvements over a two-year period.

The petitions, to be signed by county taxpayers fully three times the county commission, do pay for a new shelter facility for the county, estimated to cost $50,000 to $100,000. The petitions also seek an annual income of about $10,000 from the county.

She said the annual fee would be less than $100 without a mill for taxpayers and less than one mill for one year's time would cover the cost of an adequate shelter.

Mrs. Glasman said she and a few other volunteers began the Humane Society here several years ago and it has grown so large there are no longer adequate facilities or funds with which to meet the immense animal problem of the area.

The Humane Society of America has visited Twin Falls to attempt to help with the problem Mrs. Glasman said, and has said unless adequate financing can be obtained, the local shelter will have to be closed.

It is overcrowded, almost impossible to keep sanitary, and understaffed, Mrs. Glasman said. This was the evaluation of the national officials following their visit here.

Mrs. Glasman said repeated efforts have been made to increase county financing to cover normal

problems, but the society has been repeatedly turned down except for the capital grants.

Mrs. Glasman said the major increase in rural population has increased the animal problem outside Twin Falls City. These areas, she said, increase the county animal population. Unwanted animals are either brought to the society shelter, abandoned or lost without licenses and therefore become strays, generally ending up at the shelter. Private donations received by the shelter can not keep up with the growing numbers of such animals, she said.

Animals are kept for at least two weeks to be claimed or for finding new homes. Still several hundred animals are destroyed each month at the shelter, she said.

Mrs. Glasman said efforts are made to encourage pet owners to neuter their animals, but educational programs also cost money. Petitions, prepared by attorney Robert Galley, who donaed his services, have been prepared and are available at the society shelter or from society board members.

Mrs. Glasman said the organization hopes to obtain several hundred signatures to demonstrate taxpayers realize the problem exists and feel it should be dealt with.

TWIN FALLS.—The Twin Falls City-County

Airport had an unexpected visit Wednesday morning from four C-7 twin-engine military aircraft.

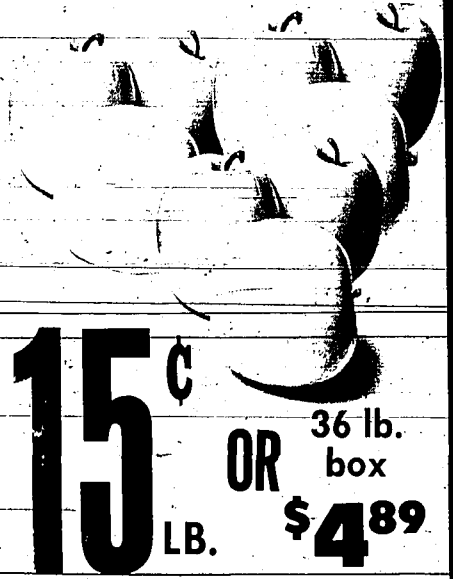

Harry Merrick, airport manager, said the planes out of New Jersey were on maneuvers from Gowen Field when one of the aircraft developed engine trouble and all four landed at the local field.

Fire and crash equipment stood by for the planes which landed with engine trouble but there were no problems, Merrick said.

Campers haul own garbage

SALMON. Budget cuts in recreation funds has brought about changes in the Salmon River Forest Service program on the North Ford Ranger District.

Jeffrey Reese, resource assistant handling recreation camps that a 10 per cent reduction has reduced the manpower from seven persons to four.

The recreation program includes operation of boat checking station at the end of the Salmon River Road, a pet patrol from Corn Creek to Salmon Falls and servicing garbage collection sites.

Reese noted that the garbage collection site operation from the north end of Corn Creek has been discontinued and boaters and others are urged to haul out their own garbage.

There is a depositary at the mouth of the Middle Ford for use by boating parties coming off the river into central Idaho.

Reese urged river users to assist in dealing with the garbage problem by hauling their own garbage to the Salmon sanitary landfill.

The Salmon River boat patrol is under contract to Dave Gilson of Salmon with Floyd Aber the patrolman.

The Snake River District in Montana is handling the Lost Trail Pass picnic area. A new boat ramp has been installed at the mouth of the Middle Ford.

Well repair nears finish

RUPERT - Rupert's best well was expected to be back in service today with a little luck.

Well No. 2 broke down two weeks ago when the pump shaft broke in three places, according to Elmer Schenk, superintendent of city services.

With No. 2 out, the city was dependent on a single well. The city has three other inoperable wells. One pumps sand and two are plugged by manganese and iron discoloring the water and making it distasteful.

Schenk said the pump at well No. 2 is being replaced by a new one ordered from C. Horning. Replacement was delayed when the new pump arrived missing some parts.

The parts were flown in Wednesday and Schenk said, then, "with any kind of luck, we should have it in operation by noon."

The new pump will cost about $9,500.

Rollover injures Bliss man

BURLLEY — A $60,000 dollar truck was destroyed and the driver injured when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel.

The Cassia County Sheriff's Department said Kenneth N. Slane, 27, Bliss, was hospitalized Wednesday when the truck and trailer he was driving left the roadway and rolled over on Interstate 89-N near Sublett.

Slane had apparently fallen asleep, the sheriff's department said.

Slane was listed in satisfactory condition at Cassia Memorial Hospital after the accident.

Bax comments on firing

BOISE (UPI) — Health and Welfare Director James A. Bax says he has elected Vice President of Boys Nation to shape up or he would replace her as his panhandle region director.

Bax said he told Mrs. Trengning that he had little confidence in her administrative ability and that "drastic cleaning would have to take place" or she would be removed from the job.

He fired her as panhandle director Monday. He said he waited seven months to do so in order to give her "every benefit of a doubt." He denied reports that Gov. Cecil D. Andrus put pressure on him not to fire her last December.

Bax declined to say whether he was planning changes in the directorships of the other six HAW regions. But he did say he personally is "monitoring all activities" in Region IV which takes place in Boise, Ada, Valley and Elmore counties.

Caldwell voted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Edward Frank, 17, Caldwell, Idaho, has been elected vice president of Boys Nation at its annual election in Washington.

Frank was elected lieutenant governor during a recent session of the Gem Boys State and was sent to the national conference along with the governor-elect as representatives from Idaho. The conference began July 19 and ends this Saturday.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Frank, John will be a senior at Caldwell High School this fall.

Frank said the challenge of the job will be to get the boys to work together in the senate.

Pilot killed in plane crash

NEW PLYMOUTH, Idaho (UPI) — Edward Volgt, 34, Fruitland, died Wednesday evening in the crash of a light crop dusting plane in a field near old Highway 30 west of New Plymouth.

Volgt, who moved to Fruitland recently from Wausau, Wis., was dusting an apple orchard when the engine apparently stalled and the plane plummeted into a field owned by Jack Dolton.

Landowners seek aid

GOODING — Landowners in the Gooding Dry Creek area are seeking aid from government agencies for control of periodic flooding in the area.

Maurice Capps and Don Bellamy, chairman and secretary of a landowner group, say the flooding has occurred during good snow years in the hills north of Gooding for the past 65 years. Flat lands along the course of Dry Creek are damaged by silt and rock deposited by rampaging flood waters during the spring runoff in wet years and a solution is being sought.

Requests for help have been placed with the Gooding Soil Conservation District, the Bureau of Land Management, the State Lands Department, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and other agencies.

Furniture, appliance stolen

TWIN FALLS — Steve Sterling, Deluxe Motor Lodge, told Twin Falls police someone stole about $260 worth of furniture and appliances from him while he was moving from a home at 248 Adams St.

He said the items had been moved into the front yard of his former home and when he went to pick them up, they were gone.

Celebrations under way

PARADES and rodeos and celebrations were under way today as many Magic Valley residents observed Pioneer Day in three communities.

Parades were held this morning in Carey and Hagerman and the Oakley parade is set for 7 p.m. today. Hagerman's rodeo this afternoon featured the selection of the 1976 Hagerman Pioneer Day queen.

Oakley's events included a chuckwagon breakfast and a beef barbecue at noon with Dr. David Crowther, Ricks College professor, addressing a program at the Cassia-LDS Stakehouse this afternoon.

One of the highlights of the Oakley observance is the pony express race which is scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday, starting from the front of the grandstand.

The final rodeo performance at Carey is set for 8 p.m. today, while Oakley's rodeo is scheduled for 8 p.m. today and Friday.

Hagerman's celebration concludes tonight with the Antique Festival Theatre production of "Pickles n' Pipes" at 8 p.m. in the city park.

IUD suit seeking million

By BART QUESNELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — A Hailey woman has filed nearly a million dollar lawsuit against the manufacturer of an intrauterine device, the Dalkon shield, and the doctor who inserted it.

Kathy Dulgihan, 35, has filed the suit in Fifth District Court here contending California doctor Sue Massey and A. H. Robbins Corp., Virginia, are responsible for the loss of Dulgihan's left fallopian tube.

Dulgihan entered Cowell Health Center, Stanford, Calif., in May, 1972. Physician Sue Massey inserted the Dalkon shield and was careless in selection and use of the device, the suit claims.

In October of 1974 Dulgihan entered the Blaine County Hospital to undergo a left salpingectomy (removal of the tube). On Dec. 10, 1974, she was readmitted to the same hospital for pain in the right fallopian tube.

Dulgihan returned to the Stanford Medical Center, California, in January of 1975, for exploratory surgery and repair work on her right fallopian tube which was infected.

"The scar tissue removal from the right tube and the removal of the left plus medical attention and hospitalization has resulted in a bill of $3,468, the suit contends."

The suit alleges Robbins Corp. has been negligent in marketing and distributing the Dalkon shield and failed to give adequate warnings and instructions to physicians and women-users and violated federal anti-state laws.

"The action, according to the suit, has left Dulgihan seriously and permanently injured. Dulgihan said Wednesday doctors say she has only a 25 per cent chance of becoming pregnant. During the various stages of operations she said her temperature soared to 105 degrees and her white blood count jumped to 20,000.

Dulgihan is asking general and special damages of $103,468 from Massey, $253,468 damages and special damages from Robbins and punitive damages of $500,000 from the manufacturing firm.

Dulgihan is employed as librarian at Ketchum Community Library.

Rupert dumps raw sewage

By DAVID BOCKMAN
Times-News writer

RUPERT — A 2,000-gal. tank of Rupert legally dumps about 500,000 gallons of raw sewage water into a drain ditch.

The ditch meanders past the city's sewage treatment plant to Minlock High School, by a sugar factory, Paul and eventually empties into the Snake River.

Along the way, some homes and small commercial interests add their raw sewage to the stream. The result is an unpleasant odor, according to complaints made to Rupert City officials, and the Minidoka Irrigation District, owners of the ditch.

"Doug Reynolds, Rupert's treatment plant operator, says the old treatment plant can handle only about two million gallons of waste water a day. The excess bypasses the plant and goes into the ditch. During the summer, that is 500,000 gallons daily.

The treatment plant becomes overloaded because high subsurface water from irrigation "infiltrates" the city's old sewer lines, boosting the volume of water beyond the plant's capacity.

Reynolds said the city's sewage is treated with chlorine before going into the ditch and there is a high dilution factor with about nine million gallons of water from other sources going into the ditch. The solids from the bypass effluent settle out within a half mile or a mile, he said.

A spokesman for the irrigation district, Erich Knehaus, said the raw sewage creates a "rotten odor," but he said Rupert's sewage is not the only cause. There are some homes and possibly some small commercial units that also dump sewage into the ditch.

Sometimes it's overflow from septic tanks and other times it's just straight raw sewage, Knehaus said. The irrigation district, the Idaho Health Department and the cities of Paul and Rupert are trying to correct the problem, Knehaus said. But, he said, it is a process that will take years.

Rupert has a permit to dump the excess sewage, but individual offenders don't. Over a year ago the district notified offenders to eliminate illegal discharges but many are not complying with the order, according to Knehaus.

Rupert is planning a new treatment system that will eliminate illegal discharges but many are not complying with the order, according to Knehaus.

Rupert is planning a new treatment system that will eliminate the need to dump into the stream. Until recently, Paul and Amalgamated Sugar dumped raw sewage into the ditch, Knehaus said.

Paul's new self-contained sewage treatment began operation earlier this month and the sugar factory also completed a new treatment system.

MONTGOMERY has two brass welding rods bent into L-shapes. Hulme uses whatever is handy, like coal hangers.

The work is simple: the witcher grasps the rods, one in each hand, with thumbs up, holding the longer portion parallel to the ground.

The rods remain parallel to each other until the witcher walks over the pipeline, hole or drain line. Then they cross, indicating water. When the witcher walks off of the water line, the rods separate again.

Montgomery said the witching has been helpful in locating holes in canal banks. He walks down the inner-bank until he locates the break, stakes it out and walks out the outer-bank until he finds the other end of the hole.

Then workers know what angle to dig for the hole and where to find it.

Montgomery says they've found a lot of holes that way.

Apparently, you either have it or you don't when it comes to witching. Not everyone can rod out the water, Montgomery says.

Trying the witching rods is an interesting experience. You grasp them lightly but firmly and begin walking. In this case, they turned slowly crossing when this reporter approached the place where Montgomery had located a drain line, uncrossing haltingly as I stepped away.

It was hard to tell who was crossing the sticks — the wire holder or the water.

Everybody's been cough-pooos the whole idea. "Minute muscular movement by the douser" is what causes the rods to cross or the forked stick to point down, it states.

But Hulme and Montgomery keep using the method because for them it works.

"That's about the only method we have unless we just dig," Montgomery says.

Neither man seems to have much interest in extending his skill to witching for wells, though.

"Like Montgomery, Hulme has never thought too much about why the method works for him."

"I don't know. It just works. I never questioned it," Hulme said.

Seizure eyed in death

RUPERT — A six year old boy who accidentally drowned Tuesday in a shallow drain ditch may have suffered a seizure.

The younger, Darrel, Livingston, son of Brenda Nicholson, Rupert, was apparently playing near a ditch with two to three feet of water when he fell in.

A playmate ran for help and the six year-old was pulled from the ditch by Robin and Rodney Dayley, both Paul. The Dayleys unsuccessfully applied mouth to mouth resuscitation and the boy was taken to Minidoka Memorial Hospital by ambulance.

The boy was pronounced dead upon arrival.

County coroner Kim Christensen, said today the boy's death was attributable to drowning, but Christensen said the youngster may also have had a seizure at the time of the accident.

According to the boy's family, Darrel had a history of seizures and they speculated to investigating officers that he may have suffered one as he played beside the ditch.

Jerome woman still missing

JEROME — The search for Nora Ann Cook, 41, Jerome, is still under way. Jerome law officials said today.

The body of a woman, found near Moab, Utah, is not that of the Jerome waitress who has been missing since June 25.

A check of Mrs. Cook's dental charts proved the tentative identity false. It was first believed the body found in a culvert along an isolated stretch of Interstate 70 was that of the Jerome woman.

The body was that of a woman 35 to 40 years old who had been shot twice in the head and had been dead three to four months according to Serge Moore, Utah medical examiner.

Portions of her teeth remained, making identification through dental charts possible. Jerome police officials said the dental charts clearly showed that the body was not that of Mrs. Cook who worked at the Holiday Inn in Twin Falls.

Blaine developers say sales legal

By BART QUESNELL,
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Three developers accused last week of illegal land sales in Blaine County say they acted legally.

The county assessor and the planning and zoning administrator said last Wednesday that Bob Ratto and Gerald Sherman, Bob Bellevue, and Ted Teren, Ketchum, were in violation of the law regarding land sales here.

Planning and zoning administrator Alan Reynolds said his office would begin a search Tuesday to find those land sales recorded but not plotted as a subdivision.

Under Idaho Code, a person who sells five or more parcels of land where each parcel is under five acres must file a subdivision plan. The Blaine County ordinance requires a plan whenever a parcel of land is split for sale or trade.

Del Nicholson, county assessor, said deeds recorded show Sherman has sold 12 parcels on the south end of Broadford Road, many of which are under five acres, without recording a plan.

Sherman said Tuesday that was not true.

"I have never been under a plan," Sherman said, "because all my sales have been over five acres and there's no restriction on them."

Many one-acre deeds, he said, have been filed with the recorder's office because of the necessity to show a deed before getting a loan.

Sherman said he has decided some one-acre tracts to sell before all on land they purchased over five acres.

The retaining acreage is held either in escrow or on contract and the deed turned over when all of the land is paid for. Most of the land, he said, was sold after the planning and zoning commission was operating.

Mrs. Bob Ratto, who handled most of the subdivision planning affairs at two East Fork subdivisions, said county officials had assured her everything was okay on the first subdivision she divided in 1969.

All of the lots in the first five-acre subdivision are under five acres and require a plan under state code.

She said David Whyte, then planning administrator, said he would draw up a hard plat copy for her and have it recorded. He never did that, she said.

In addition, Mrs. Ratto said she firm of Newton and Schuler, Twin Falls engineers, had done the planning and zoning commission.

Paul Newton, Twin Falls, said Tuesday the firm surveyed and drew legal descriptions. When turned the work over to the Rattos. In addition, he said the firm never drew or filed a plat for the Rattos.

Teren has 12 different proposed subdivisions in Gimlet, many of which are approved, however, Nicholson said. Teren has sold lots from proposed subdivisions eight, nine, ten and eleven, which are not approved.

Gimlet developer Ted Teren said he has sold only one lot in Gimlet in proposed subdivisions number eight. That subdivision is not approved.

No lots have been sold in proposed subdivision nine, 10 and 11, he said. Much of the land sold in Gimlet is in parcels over five acres, and most of the sales violate the zoning ordinance, he said, Teren said.

He said he has recorded all land sales in his subdivisions.

The danger, Reynolds said, is that some person could build a high density development without controls.

Price support boost effort loses steam

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Improved price prospects for major crops appear to have dampened talk of a "second round" effort to jam price support increases for major crops through Congress later this year.

After President Ford's May 1 veto of legislation to raise 1975 grain and cotton supports, Capitol Hill farm leaders have said another omnibus farm bill might be drafted later in the year if record crops this summer produced sharp price declines.

A Senate source said today, however, there has been "no further discussion" of a new farm bill in recent weeks. With grain prices holding "fairly strong" despite forecasts of a bumper harvest — and with new sales to Russia recently stiffening prospects for heavy exports — pressure from farmers for higher supports has not reappeared, the source said.

Chairman Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., of the House Agriculture Committee also indicated he has current plans for trying to draft a new grain and cotton price support bill this year.

"I still feel we should reserve judgment while we wait to see the result of this coming harvest," Foley said. He said an assessment of both the economic situation and congressional sentiment after the harvest would indicate whether there was any prospect for new legislation.

On the heels of recent gains in some farm prices attributed at least partly to rumors early this month of the impending Soviet grain buying, the Agriculture Department has raised its forecast for 1975 farm income. Instead of dropping from $27 billion last year to about $20 billion, Department economists now predict it will wind up in the "low to mid $20 billion" range.

If this improvement squelches attempts to draft a new omnibus farm bill, House and Senate farm leaders indicate a number of individual agricultural measures may be pushed.

Among other things, Foley noted, a House agriculture subcommittee already has approved a bill to relax rice acreage controls. Other issues simmering before the House and Senate Agriculture committees include reforms in grain inspection legislation, increased protection for farmers who sell livestock to financially-ailing meat packers and a plan to allow cattlemen to set up a producer-financed promotion and research program.

Cutting proceeds

NEBRASKA wheat harvest is making slow progress in the "panhandle" section near Scottsbluff, but momentum was expected to pick up this week. An average crop is predicted, with yields between 30 and 40 bushels per acre. (UPI)

Swift purchases ABP Texas plant

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — The $18 million sale of the American Beef Packers Inc. Dumas, Texas, plant to Swift & Co. of Chicago was consummated Tuesday and proceeds from the transaction should provide the financing necessary for a plan to repay creditors holding some $30 million in ABP debt.

The agreement to sell the Dumas plant, one of the largest, most modern meat packing and processing facilities in the world, was first announced by ABP and Swift April 1.

However, several conditions had to be met, including an opinion by the Justice Department on whether Swift would be violating federal anti-trust laws.

The Justice Department subsequently cleared the sale in the form of a "no action" letter June 18, meaning it would remain neutral on the transaction.

ABP Board Chairman and President Frank R. West said the sale "is a key element in American Beef Packers' plan of repayment."

"Now that the sale has been consummated," West said, "American Beef can go forward with the next step of its plan of repayment and rehabilitation."

West has submitted his resignation from ABP, providing certain conditions are met, including the development of an adequate plan to pay creditors, particularly livestock feeders.

ABP said a $10 million cost overrun on the $20 million Dumas plant was one of the prime factors which forced it to file a limited bankruptcy action in Omaha Jan. 7.

Corn sale price boon

BROOKLYN, Iowa (UPI) — The chairman of the National Corn Growers Association said Tuesday the sale of corn to the Soviet Union will be a "price supporting boon to the nation's corn farmers."

Walter Goepfinger said the Russian purchase, along with anticipated purchases by other countries, would "still leave a comfortable cushion of approximately 700 million bushels of corn on hand when the 1976 crop starts to be harvested a year from now."

"The bettering of the farm economy by the 177 million bushel sale to the Russians means more employment in all the many industries that support and supply the corn farmer as well as the thousands of townspeople throughout the nation who depend on the corn farmer's prosperity," Goepfinger said.

US winter wheat cut nearly done

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Harvesting of the nation's record winter wheat crop was 75 per cent complete by last Sunday and was virtually finished in Kansas, the nation's leading winter wheat state, according to an Agriculture Department report.

Winter wheat, the type included in the record, Soviet grain sales, makes up most of the total U.S. wheat harvest which currently is estimated at a record 2.2 billion bushels.

For corn, which will not be harvested until fall, the weekly report noted the potential record crop was being subjected to increasing "stress" from spreading dry weather last week.

The Soviet-Union has ordered 117 million bushels of corn plus 50.5 million bushels of barley — with an option to substitute additional corn for the barley — for delivery beginning in the fall.

The Agriculture Department's weekly crop weather report did not use the word "drought," and it emphasized that development of the 1975 corn crop continued to advance at a steady pace, still ahead of last year and the normal level in nearly all states.

The weekly report gave no estimate for the corn crop. The last official estimate, based on July 1 conditions, forecast a record 6.05 billion bushels, up 30 per cent from last year.

The report also said development of the 1975 soybean crop continued to make rapid progress throughout major production areas.

SEC asks receiver for NFO be named

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission has asked that a receiver be appointed for the Cornucopia-based National Farmers' Organization.

The SEC made its request Tuesday at a hearing before U.S. District Judge William G. Stuart, charging that the NFO is "hopelessly insolvent" and showed a loss in its operations in all but two of the last eight years.

Attorneys for the commission presented a balance sheet showing that as of June 21 the NFO had assets of $1.9 million and liabilities of $20.9 million. The largest portion of the liabilities — $16 million — was money owed to grain sellers.

Arguing for the NFO, president Oran Lee Staley asked Stuart to reject the request for appointment of a receiver. He said such action "would result in the death of the NFO."

Staley told the judge the group's financial picture has been improving, noting that it has reduced its outstanding loans from about $8 million a year ago to $1.6 million this year. He also said the NFO raised $2.1 million in a four-day drive last week to prove its solvency.

"The NFO unquestionably is solvent," he said.

Stuart did not indicate when he would rule on the SEC request for appointment of a receiver.

Idaho Republican party in financial trouble

Born loser

BOISE (UPI) — Representatives of key Republican office holders set an Aug. 1 deadline Tuesday for the party to liquidate $16,000 in debts and correct a financial situation the state chairman described as "catastrophic."
"We had a thorough review and discussion of the financial state of the state GOP party," said chairman Robert Loville after the meeting. "To summarize its bleak in fact, you could go stronger than that, it borders on a panic."
Representatives of the GOP congressional delegation and the attorney general attended the meeting with Loville.

He said they also will attempt to provide a program of contributions "that is stable enough to permit us to sustain a budget, and we intend to further curtail expenses."
"Some of the bills is very far past due," he said, "and we will pay them off."
Loville noted the ineptness of the GOP party's traditionally wealthy party, being broke.
He blames the problems on the disintegration of the GOP financial base.

"The Democrats have a solid base of labor and the public employees and the educational community, the education lobby."
"The GOP financial base has been business and industry and individuals. But this has been destroyed. I guess you could say destroyed and disintegrated."
If the party is not successful in raising the $16,000 needed in the next week and developing a sustained income, "we will just have to shut off the outflow and liquidate the indebtedness."
"As I see it... the traditional image of the GOP Party has always been the party of the rich. It's an old fact that the GOP Party which has traditionally had "this" image is really broke."

Loville said he did not know if the party is in financial trouble in other areas.
"I think the same situation exists nationwide, but I don't know anything about the national situation."
The basis of the Idaho party's troubles, he said, can be attributed "unquestionably" to the party's Watergate problems.

Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — The federal government is about to launch a national program to allow 42 million Americans who pay Social Security or Supplemental Security Income checks to have them deposited directly in their savings or loan or credit union.
The program will allow individuals and aged checks, property, assets, payments for those who get the benefits, and cut the costs of processing the checks.
"No one will be forced to take part in the program but government officials estimate that in part, 90% of all beneficiaries will route their payments to a financial institution within five years.
Starting next year the Treasury plans to transfer the payments electronically, and disburse with checks entirely for those participating in the new program.
Banks and thrift institutions are expected to begin heavy promotion of the Direct Deposit Program (DDP) next month in states west of the Mississippi. It has been in effect in Georgia and Florida for many months, and banks in other states will begin to offer the service this fall.
"By the end of 1975, a Treasury official says, more than a million persons will have a half billion dollars worth of their Social Security or "SSI" benefits, channeled directly to savings or checking accounts.
"It's a program that happens to be good for everybody," says Lester W. Plumly, Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Treasury for fiscal service. "We feel very strongly this is going to grow over time."
Starting in August, Social Security and SSI recipients from west of the Mississippi River will receive a special insert describing DDP with their monthly checks.
"Direct deposit of your check has certain advantages — they will be in your account with the following complexities listed:
"Even if you are away from home, your check would be deposited instead of sitting in your mailbox.
"You don't have any problems in cashing your check because it goes directly into your account.
"You don't have to stand in line to cash your check or deposit it.
"You don't have to worry about losing your check after you receive it or having it stolen from your mailbox.
"The insert will also include the federal toll-free number that lets the teller tell you whether you want your check deposited directly."

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Pinch hitter Mike Cuihage's sacrifice fly climaxed a two-run rally in the 13th inning Wednesday night to give the Texas Rangers a 9-8 victory over the Cleveland Indians, their third in as many games under new manager Frank Lucchesi.

Texas owned a 7-2 lead going into the ninth only to have Cleveland rally for five runs with two out to send the game into extra innings.

The Indians then took an 8-7 lead in the top of the 13th with an unearned run. With one out, Rick Manning singled and Ryan Carty followed with a single to center. Manning came all the way home when centerfielder Len Randle threw wildly to third.

Tom Johnson led off the Rangers' 13th with a single and pinch runner Tony Morrye scored the tying run when Tom Grive doubled off the leftfield wall.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Mike Schmidt squeezed home pinch-runner Terry Harmon in the eighth inning Wednesday night to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Greg Lazinski opened the rally with a single and stole second. Harmon ran for Lazinski and reached third when Dick Allen grounded to first. Schmidt then beat out a bunt to the mound with Harmon scoring without a play.

Jim Lonborg struck out three and scattered six hits to win his eighth game in 14 decisions.

The Phillies scored in the first when Dave Cash singled, stole second, was sacrificed to third by Larry Bowa and scored on Jay Johnston's groundout.

Philadelphia added a run in the second when Schmidt singled, took second on a passed ball, stole third and scored on Bob Boone's squeeze bunt.

Canadian open sets stage for Nicklaus-Miller money duel

MONTEAL (UPI) — With only $129 separating them on the PGA money list, Jack Nicklaus and Johnny Miller seek to establish a clear cut dollar advantage in this week's $200,000 Canadian Open.

Most of the top professionals will be competing for the first time since the British Open two weeks ago when they tee off Thursday on the tough par 70, 6,628-yard Blue course at the Royal Montreal Golf Club.

"It will be the strongest field in the 66 years of the Canadian Open, with British Open champion Tom Watson, U.S. open winner Lou Graham and top money winners Tom Weiskopf, John Mahaffey, Lee Trevino and perennial threat Gary Player of South Africa entered in the 72-hole event.

Hale Irwin, who trails top earner Nicklaus by $572 on this year's money list, is the only real standout on the PGA circuit not competing in the tournament. He dropped out earlier this week, apparently to spend some time at home, after coming in the British classic at Carnoustie, Scotland, and at Pleasant Valley in Massachusetts last week.

Nicklaus, who was in the running but fell short in both the U.S. and British Opens, has to be the favorite here, as he is in nearly every tournament he enters.

He has never won a Canadian Open, finishing second in 1965 and 1966.

With victories in the Masters earlier this year, plus first place finishes in the Dorset and Heritage tournaments, Nicklaus has earned $180,739 this year on the tour.

Miller, who was tied with Nicklaus for second at Car-of bogies on the back. The last four finishing holes are really tough."

"He said the course was in excellent condition and "the greens are very good. But if you miss the greens here, you're going to have a difficult time."

"That's the toughest rough I've ever seen, but it's a good test."

Defending champion Bobby Nichols won the 1974 Canadian Open by four shots at Toronto's Mississauga course last year.

Following a practice round Wednesday, Nichols said the chase for the $40,000 first prize probably would be decided on the back nine.

"I believe that the front side and the back nine are completely different," Nichols said. "There are going to be a lot of 30s (on the front) and 40s (on the back) shot."

"There are going to be a lot of birdies on the front and a lot

Minnesota opens probe into charges of recruit violations

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — The University of Minnesota Wednesday said it has been accused of numerous violations of NCAA athletic regulations and will investigate them "fully and impartially."

Vice President Stanley B. Kegler said the university won't reveal the allegations on what sports are involved until it completes its investigation. But it has been reported the NCAA was checking recruiting practices of Minnesota basketball Coach Bill Musselman.

Kegler said there were around 100 allegations on the NCAA list—some major and some "mainly requests for information"—covering matters since 1971. The university has until Oct. 1 to investigate and respond to the NCAA.

Kegler also said Musselman is represented by an attorney and the university's attorneys have been in touch with him.

Musselman has been quoted as saying he is guilty of some minor, nonessential infractions but that "my conscience is clear." He said he's sure most coaches are guilty of greater violations "in the fierce recruiting wars."

There have been reports that Musselman will become coach of the San Diego team in the ABA for $20,000 a year or more, but Musselman has said he plans to stay at Minnesota.

Kegler said he didn't know Musselman's plans but they have no bearing on the investigation because "the institution is being investigated, not the coaching staff."

Kegler was asked at a news conference if it was possible there were any violations so serious that a coach could be fired.

"Yes, it could happen," he said.

Asked whether any funds were involved in the allegations, Kegler said, "There are allegations about funds but I am aware of none."

He said the allegations came in a letter from Warren S. Brown, assistant executive director of the NCAA, to University President C. Peter McGrath and the school has until Oct. 1 to respond, "indicating remedial steps, if any, we have taken."

Mark falls, drug scandal hits world swim tourney

CALI, Colombia (UPI) — The American men's 4 x 100 meters freestyle relay team Wednesday night set the first world record of the current world swimming championships, with a time of 3:24.87 in shaving fractions of a second from their world record by another U.S. combination.

The Cali meet was also rocked by a doping scandal when the Yugoslavian waterpolo team forfeited a game against West Germany, was knocked out of the final round because a drug test on one player, Ratko Ruvic, showed positive.

The Yugoslavs charged sabotage and irregularities in the testing procedure and walked out of the tournament. They had been favored to win one of the medals in waterpolo.

In the night's medal harvest in swimming, the United States also captured a gold when Shirley Babashoff, the 18-year-old veteran from Mission Viejo, Calif., upset favored East German swimmer East-Germany in the women's 200 meters freestyle and a bronze when Marcia Morey, a 19-year-old from Decatur, Ill., took third in the women's 100 meters breaststroke.

The East German women, who had been expected to dominate all short distances, had to settle for two gold and two silver medals in three events.

The only gold medal not won by the East Germans or the Americans during the night went to Andra Hargitay of Hungary in the men's 400 meters individual medley race. Hargitay is the world record holder in the event.

The highlight of the session was the new world time set by Americans Bruce Furniss, Jim Montgomery, Andy Coan and John Murphy in the relays. Furniss, the 20-year-old record holder in the 200 meters freestyle, got the American team off to a fast start with a leg of 51.82 but Klaus Steinhilber of West Germany swam an ever faster 51.76 to give his country the lead at the quarter mark.

Then Montgomery, the 20-year-old student from Indiana University who holds the individual 100-meter mark with 51.12, took over and by the time he finished his stretch, the United States was well ahead of the field with 1:42.35 and Coan and Murphy built the lead even further to about 13 meters at the final tip.

The old record stood at 3:25:47—a time set last year in Concord, Calif., in the dual meet between the East Germans and the Americans by a combination of Montgomery, Bottom, Hixcox and Coan.

West Germany took second in the relays and Italy captured the bronze.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JULY 25, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Your judgment is not good today. Where expansion or taking chances are concerned, being alert to what is happening makes conditions easier for you to go along with situations.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you try to force your ideas on others today, you are bound to have trouble, so be diplomatic—follow your hunches.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Not a good day to handle private affairs so wait for a better time. Strive for increased harmony with associates.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get busy improving methods of operation so that you can get ahead faster. Concentrate more on the practical aspects.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Unexpected pleasure can come your way now, so be on the alert for enjoyment you have missed in the past.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Going off on any tangents could be disappointing and expensive, so be more devoted to kin. But that (the skill to work).
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) An associate can give you a fine idea that will open new vistas of advancement for you, so be sure to go along with it.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) You understand much better now what should be done regarding financial affairs. Try not to argue with an associate.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Handle only important affairs early in the day and then lie to recreations that will lighten your spirit.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan how to have more abundance in the future and cut down on expenses where recreation is concerned. Be wise.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Talking over joint projects with associates can bring greater success in the near future. Later engage in favorite hobby.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Discussing finances with experts helps you to run your own affairs more intelligently now. Be careful in motion today.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study a monetary matter carefully before taking any action. Sidestep one who has an eye on your assets. Be logical.
 IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she must be taught to handle any situation that may arise intelligently, and then the life becomes successful and happy. A fine college education is important here. Show the importance of religion and ethics early in life.
 "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

what's what

J.M. Boyd

Young lady, have you figured out how to know when the time is right to interrupt your boss? Scholars who study such matters say there's a simple technique. If he pauses in his conversation but continues to look away from you, that means he's still explaining himself and doesn't want an interruption. But if he looks pausing and you when he pauses, that serves as his invitation to you to jump into the dialogue.

YOU KNOW it's painful to rub salt into an open wound, but did you know it's almost as painful to do likewise with sugar?

PLEASE ADD "unfarsightedly" to your list of 14-letter words wherein no letter is repeated.

CATCHER

Q. "How many times does a baseball catcher have to bend his knees up and down in a typical double-header?"
 A. Figure 300. Try it.

HERE'S A matrimonial expert who contends the average husband loses his temper six times a week, the average wife only three times a week. Our Love and War man won't buy that. No marriage can long endure between any lady and her gentleman friend who lose their tempers for a total of nine times a week, says he.

TAKES A FIFTH of a second to blink your eye. And if you do it the way most people do it, you'll do it 25 times every minute. An ophthalmologist told me that.

THE HARD FACTS

That warm-blooded critter that sleeps the longest and the soundest is the groundhog... ONLY ONE out of every 25 murderers is declared criminally insane... AN INSURANCE STATISTICIAN reports the summer season consistently is the most hazardous time of year... IT'S SAID about one out of every 1,000 U.S. citizens is hooked on drugs... THE AVERAGE PERSON in a course of a lifetime walks a distance equivalent to almost three times around the equator.

QUESTION ARISES as to the average manufacturing wage now. Figure about $6 an hour. The construction boys get about $10 an hour. A little more, if they're plumbers, electricians, bricklayers or carpenters. A little less, if they're painters.

IT'S A MATTER OF RECORD too that distillers have made vodka out of plums, rye, corn, wheat, potatoes, cactais, lilies and even nettles.
