WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said today the U.S. economy is staging a strong recovery that eventually will permit this country to help poorer, undeveloped nations solve their own recessionary problems.

But Ford said the United States alone cannot solve the world's economic problems — that the poor nations must help themselves as much as possible.

Three major policies to encourage world economic recovery were outlined: — IMF aid for poor countries to help them financially during periods of "sharp fluctuations in export earnings."

Sadat gambles on ability

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—Egyptians call the new Middle East settlement "Sadat's Gamble" and the stakes are as high as can be—war versus peace.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat must convince the other Arab countries that by signing the agreement with Israel he is saving, not betraying, their future. To do this, he must take a number of calculated risks.

The Libyans, Israelis and Palestinians are among those most firmly opposed to a new military disengagement accord in the Sinai Desert.

"Egypt betrays the Arabs," read the banner headline in a Kuwaiti newspaper recently. "Egypt to Sign the Humiliation Accord," echoed a Beirut newspaper.

Sadat is gambling on his ability to contain the criticism and stem Egypt's growing isolation from the Arab radical majority for following Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's road toward peace with Israel.

It is still too early to tell if he will succeed.

Sadat is also gambling on Kissinger's ability to negotiate an interim Golan Heights settlement between Syria and Israel to follow up the Sinai pact.

This would disprove critics who charge Egypt is selling out its Arab neighbors to arrange a separate peace with Israel.

Even while it is clear that the terms of the Sinai pact will offer immediate benefits for Egypt, it is far less clear how they will help other Arabs.

Egypt will get a return of the Sinai up to the Mitla and Gif mountain passes and the valuable Abu Rudeis oil fields lost to Israel during the 1967 Middle East war.

Sadat needs both if he hopes to revive Egypt's long stagnant economy, which he says has been so sapped by wars and fears of more fighting.

From a Sinai agreement, Egypt will get "back" just enough territory to move the income-earning Suez Canal out of the range of Israeli guns and make the waterway area for much-needed investments.

The Syrians, whose army was badly mangled on the Golan front, and the Jordanians, who kept their front out of the war, can hardly feel so generous.

They fear that Egypt's conclusion of a separate peace with Israel can only freeze them out of the negotiating picture.

Sadat faces another sort of

opposition from hard-line Arab states such as Libya and Iraq, which have nothing to gain by a Sinai settlement and nothing to lose if it falls through.

Libya's strongman Col. Moammar Khadafi and Iraq's Saddam Hussein have long based their bid for political popularity on their warlike stance toward Israel. But they can afford it because the geographical dangers of war are remote.

Sadat is supported in his policy by Egyptians still basing their bid for political popularity on their warlike stance toward Israel. But they feel they are now negotiating from a position of strength.

Freezing weather bottles up ships

SEATTLE (UPI)—Ice packs and freezing weather have bottled up a flotilla of ships carrying $500 million worth of cargo for Alaska's Prudhoe Bay oil fields.

A fleet of 23 tugs and 47 barges has been trying for five weeks to get through an ice pack near Wainwright, some 260 miles southwest of the oil fields.

Weather worsened Monday with a drop in temperature at Point Barrow to 26 degrees and a shift in the wind that began blowing the ice pack back toward shore, said C.A. Watkins, vice president of Crowley Maritime.

The flotilla has two or three more weeks "at the very best" to get to Prudhoe Bay with its 150,000 tons of cargo, said Watkins. Winter weather will set in after that and ice and fog will worsen.

Cargo includes everything from nuts and bolts to a prefabricated river bridge, as well as trucks, bulldozers, cranes, arctic-equipped ambulances and giant modular units nearly 10 stories high.

The giant modules are needed to complete flow stations for separating crude oil from natural gas. Without them, completion and use of the trans-Alaska pipeline to Valdez could be delayed for several months.

Watkins said the big issue now was not only getting through but getting back out. Some barges will have to be left at Prudhoe Bay if they make it through at all.

Leader rescued

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (UPI)—A 20-year-old Boy Scout leader, who was almost fatally buried in sand for three hours, was rescued early Monday by about 40 soldiers, scouts and rescue workers.

Authorities said Stanley Wisniewski of Portsmouth, Va., was dug out of the sand on a beach at the eastern perimeter of Ft. Story. He was treated and released at Boone Clinic, a Naval dispensary.

Officers sentenced to death

KINSHASA, Zaire (UPI)—Seven high-ranking army officers have been sentenced to death for trying to overthrow President Mobutu Sese Seko last June.

Seven other officers were acquitted while the other 27 of the 41 persons accused in the plot were given prison terms of up to 20 years by the Military Council of State, which had been deliberating the case since Aug. 20.

The government revealed the abortive plot in June and accused the United States, and in particular the Central Intelligence Agency, of being behind it. U.S. Ambassador Deane R. Hinton was ordered to leave the country.

The United States denied any part in such a coup attempt and no Americans were arrested in connection with it.

Catholics, Scouts reach agreement

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States Catholic Conference and the Girl Scouts have reached agreement on a plan to cooperate on the national level, spokesmen for the organizations said today.

The agreement calls for review by the conference of any national materials developed by the Girl Scouts that "may have a religious dimension."

On a local level, many Catholics have been critical of the Girl Scout program, particularly of materials dealing with sex education and family planning. The Archdiocese of Philadelphia earlier this year broke off relations with the Girl Scouts because of such programs.

Russell Shaw, a Catholic Conference spokesman, said the plan for cooperation "anticipates the Philadelphia situation but can be seen as a response to problems such as that."

Under the agreement, the Girl Scouts will appoint "national religious consultants," one of whom will be recommended by the Catholic Conference. The consultants will advise the Girl Scout board of directors on policy matters which have religious implications.

Police probe TF burglaries

TWIN FALLS — Two house burglaries and one pickup truck burglary were being investigated by Twin Falls city police today.

Harold Allred reported someone entered his home at 514 Addison Ave. W. through an unlocked rear door. He said two gas grills were missing including a rifle and a shotgun. He estimated loss at $150.

Ruth Parsons, 140 Austin St., told police someone entered her home during the weekend. Missing were two sets of wedding rings and a small sewing machine. Mrs. Parsons said the rings were valued at about $600 and the sewing machine at $190.

Officials at the OK Tire Co., 356 4th Ave. W. reported their business was entered during the weekend and $5 taken from the cash register. Nothing else was taken.

Bill Cook told police his 1974 pickup was entered while parked at the Municipal Golf Course and a tape recorder of the tape recorder at $130.

Don't abandon poorest billion

There is growing sentiment among world leaders to quietly abandon the poorest nations. These leaders believe the limited resources that are likely to be sent to the poorer nations won't be nearly enough to help pull them up by their bootstraps.

The poorest nations, those with per capita incomes below $200 a year, also have extremely high birth rates. Population outruns food and industrial production in these nations whether or not the wealthy nations come to help.

Wouldn't it be better, the leaders say, to send what money is available to middle-income nations — those where there is still a chance that production can be increased and population limited enough to permit rising standards of living.

These countries, including Mexico, Brazil, South Korea, Taiwan, Malaysia, are making major steps toward improving their living standards. Average income among these countries should rise to $440 a year by 1980, according to World Bank estimates.

However, these middle income countries are in jeopardy, according to the report. They have been hard hit by the world oil-price explosion and recently have had to borrow heavily in order to make ends meet.

For one thing, the amount of aid currently being sent to the world's poorest and middle-income nations is small compared to the amount that could be made available by the wealthiest countries.

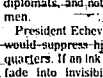

It is clear the wealthiest can make more resources available to help the poorest nations. Such an effort is not charity, but in the long-term best interest of the wealthy who have good reason to maintain a stable world order.

MEXICO CITY — Mexicans naturally resent the United States, for reasons good and bad. We have for many years hung ponderously over the hemisphere as the Colossus of the North.

Officials were frightened last year by a certain edginess in American investment. They argue into the night whether that wariness was the result of the general depression, which hit the United States so hard; or whether it was also in part owing to the truculent anti-capitalism of President Echeverria.

Legislators resume job in capital

WASHINGTON — Trouble is coming back to town. Wednesday, Congress was to resume what is technically described as its legislative duties. This is cause for at least a mild attack of apprehension. Congress cannot get into mischief when its members are off on one of their frequent vacations.

ANDREW TULLY

Apparently the unvoiced hope of these congressmen was that after a session with a psychiatrist most of the spenders would be trundled off to assorted booby matches and the Republic would be saved.

He noted that his offhand, mass diagnosis don't apply to psychiatrists. He would expect to find as many of them in government buildings as in anybody else.

The doctor said no — he wouldn't ask Congressmen or other public officials any souped-up questions — just the usual stuff. At the outset, for example, Senator A. or Representative B would have to prove that he knew who he was.

One of the most important questions would be what the patient thought of himself. Three days later, when the average Senator stopped talking, the doctor would go on to such questions as 'whether the Senator ever heard voices — besides his own; that is: All this time the doctor would be trying to find out whether the patient was elated or depressed.

Fresh struggle brews in Golan

By HENRY KAMM
© N.Y. Times Service

MEROM GOLAN, Israel Occupied Syria — While the internal Israeli battle over territorial concessions to Egypt rages in the streets of the cities, a potentially more-angry struggle is taking shape on the Golan Heights.

There are no Jewish settlements in the western Sinai Peninsula, where the next Israeli withdrawals will take place. Eighteen such settlements stand in the territories seized from Syria in 1967, and more are being established. While Israel has not claimed Sinai as part of Israel, Israeli governments since the six-day war have contended that the Golan Heights cannot be returned to Syria.

Since the Israeli-Syrian disengagement agreement of last year, when a small part of the territory, notably the ruins of El Quneitra, reverted to Syria, the Israeli settlers have waged a political offensive to retain what is left. Now that unconfirmed, but credible reports are circulating that Israel, under American pressure, is likely to negotiate another interim agreement with Syria, anxiety has risen sharply, and so has political action.

Leaders of the settlers are being received this week by Premier Yitzhak Rabin and his entire cabinet to plead the case for the retention of all land under Jewish cultivation. It is indicative of the seriousness with which the government views the movement's potential that ministers are taking time for these discussions in the midst of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's shuttle visit.

Even more significant, perhaps, the new settlements that are being raised have the express purpose of populating as much of the present cease-fire line as possible and making it even more difficult for the government to withdraw.

"We come here because we do not want the Arabs to get it," said 18-year-old Chedva Mintz, who was sitting on a pile of bedding. She arrived with the first settlers of a place they call Jonathan, in honor of a soldier killed nearby in the October, 1973, war.

For the time being Jonathan is an empty Israeli fortification two miles from the cease-fire line and 15 minutes' drive south of El Quneitra. Two old rallyed cars supplement a bunker as living quarters; a third will serve as a synagogue, office and workshop.

The settlers of Jonathan, as well as those of established settlements such as the Kibbutz of Merom Golan, which hugs the cease-fire line at El Quneitra, displayed limited confidence in the government's determination to hold the line and eagerness to stiffen its will to resist pressure.

Although no one suggested physical resistance to possible officially enforced evacuation of settlements or parts of settlements, the possibility of confrontations — within view of Syrian troops — is regarded with great seriousness in official circles.

US force to stay in Korea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger said today upon returning from a Far East visit that he saw no chance of removing some 42,000 U.S. troops from South Korea "in the foreseeable future."

"The deterrent is working," Schlesinger said. "We must prevent any miscalculation by the North Koreans of American and South Korean determination to defend South Korea from attack."

Schlesinger spoke with reporters at Andrews Air Force Base on his return from a today visit to South Korea and Japan to assess America's military position in that area.

"External help from the United States is necessary in South Korea and I do not see the probability" of removing the American troops "in the foreseeable future," he said.

He said he toured U.S. military position in South Korea and found "our forces in Korea in good shape."

"I don't think we will have to call them."

Activist efforts formed People's Party

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — During the antiwar demonstrations of the late 1960s, speakers regularly urged protesters to "go home and organize your local communities."

While most did not listen, some did. One result has been creation of the People's Party, a group comprised of people more interested in local organizing than in national issues.

Starting on Aug. 28, about 300 party workers and local activists gathered in St. Louis to exchange information, map an electoral strategy for 1976 and nominate provisional candidates for president and vice president.

In the 1972 election, the party ran pediatrician Benjamin Spock for president and black activist Julius Hobson for vice president. On the ballot in only 10 states, the party received less than 1 percent of the vote.

By contrast, supporters have been elected to city councils in Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, Mich.; Cotati, Calif.; and campaign Urbana, Ill., all campus communities.

"Our immediate aim," says Patty Mote of the party's national resource center, "is not trying to have an effect on national politics but to restructure society. The strength of the party is that it organizes from the bottom — from a local base."

The ideology is what the party calls "decentralized socialism," but its members do not embrace the systems of the Soviet Union or China.

"There are no decentralized socialist states on this planet," says Wayne Lindberg, another worker in the resource center in Washington. "We're trying to build a homebased socialism."

Leaders agree the task facing the party is enormous. "Left politics today is really shying away from the star system," says Lindberg, "there making it difficult to find a national candidate who could attract media attention without compromising party ideology."

Spock has said he will serve the party any way it wants, and it is conceivable he could become the provisional presidential candidate for 1976.

The party also has sought to interest such people as Karl Hess, a former speechwriter for Barry Goldwater who joined the new left in the mid-1960s; Kate Millet, author of the feminist book "Sexual Politics"; Noam Chomsky, a party supporter and long-time antiwar activist who is a linguist at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; and Maggie Kuhn, a founder of the Gray Panthers.

None has indicated a willingness to run.

In addition, there is a split between the old left — the traditional Marxist parties such as the Socialist Workers Party and the Communist Party — and the new left organizations who have incorporated much of the cultural changes of the 1960s and early 1970s into their politics.

Both Mote and Lindberg reject the idea the left has vanished because there are no national demonstrations in Washington.

Ecuador's chief rounds up foes

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI) — President Guillermo Rodriguez Lara imposed a curfew today and ordered mass arrests of civilian politicians who supported a bloody abortive coup that was crushed by loyal commanders. Military and hospital sources said at least 17 persons died and over 80 were injured in the 12-hour uprising in which a rebel tank unit "managed to seize the presidential palace but was in turn surrounded and forced to surrender by the loyalists."

The rebel troops met stiff resistance at the palace from a 220-man presidential guard and 100 paratroopers. The loyalists held out for 11 hours while the president rallied most major military garrisons to his side. The tide of battle turned in the president's favor when the air force and navy declared their support at mid-day and warplanes began strafing the rebel armored force. Rodriguez Lara, waving to cheering crowds, then led a loyalist army column back to the bullet-riddled presidential palace in downtown Quito and retook the building 12 hours after the rebel assault.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Britain's top official in Northern Ireland met with security chiefs today to discuss the flareup of religious warfare which has killed 11 persons in three days. "These killings are madness," Secretary of State Merlyn Rees said. "People must come forward and help us bring the perpetrators to justice." Shooting attacks, Monday took seven lives in what police and army officials called the most violent day in the province in more than two years. In the most serious incident Monday, four persons were shot to death and 16 others wounded in an attack against a Protestant meeting 50 miles south of Belfast. The commander of the British peacekeeping force in the province, a top police official and other army and police officers were summoned by Rees to devise ways of ending the violence. A group calling itself the South Aramagh Republican Action Force claimed responsibility for the attack on the Protestant meeting hall. It was the second time the group, made up of renegade Irish Republican Army members, has attacked in County Aramagh in recent weeks.

self. For those at the "First Annual Nostalgia Convention," there's no time like the past. While others fled to the beaches and mountains and elsewhere to escape the torments of the present, nostalgia fans collected during the Labor Day for those of those conventions dedicated to the preservation and peddling of the "good old days."

For the convention's chief creator, 16-year-old Paul Saryan of Brooklyn, and 2,000 other, old-Hollywood fans, it was a chance to view old movie serials such as "Captain Marvel" and "Captain America" and some television programs of the early '50s. And as guest of honor, they had Buster Crabbe, best remembered for his roles as "Flash Gordon," "Buck Rogers" and "Tarzan" in serials and so-called "B-features" of the 1930s and '40s. Crabbe, now 67, answered questions, signed autographs and conceded he enjoyed keeping his name alive by appearances at college campuses and at nostalgia conventions.

Edison, N.J., went because her fiance wanted to go. She described nostalgia as "something past and dead, something some people unfortunately want to resurrect."

Dominating the convention was a thriving marketplace of memorabilia, everything from "Hanging Cassidy" movie posters to "Happy Chandler for President" campaign buttons, available for purchase or trade.

Others weren't that easily impressed. Adrian Schieler of

TF miss, Astorquia exchange promises

MR. AND MRS. JAMES ASTORQUIA

TWIN FALLS — Marguerite Quesnell and James Astorquia were married at high noon in a double-ring ceremony on Aug. 16 at St. Edward's Catholic Church with Rev. Father Lafey officiating.

All flowers were baskets of coral and peach gladioli.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Quesnell and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Astorquia, all Twin Falls.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of candlelight chiffon, Belgian lace formed the collar of her V neckline, waistline and the cuffs of her long sheer sleeves.

One row of matching lace down the back and front of her gown "trimmed" with tiny chiffon-covered buttons accented its simplicity. A Belgian lace Juliet cap held her shoulder-length veil.

Along with her mother's bridal handkerchief, the bride carried a bouquet of a "double arrangement of gardenias, peach roses, gypsophila and stephanotis.

Ann Schroeder, sister of the bride, was "matron of honor." Other attendants were Mrs. Archie Quesnell, sister-in-law of the bride; Julie Astorquia, sister of the bridegroom; Patricia McWilliams and Kelli McEntee, Boise.

Dick Little was best man and Ulfers were John Astorquia, brother of the bridegroom; Archie Quesnell, brother of the bride; Gary Quesnell, cousin of the bride; and Bill Galley, Gooding.

Nieces of the bride, Tonna and Mollie Quesnell, were flower girls, Jason Astorquia and Luke Schroeder, nephews of the couple, were ring bearers.

Mrs. Michael Quesnell, sister-in-law of the bride, provided organ music. Muzzy Braund accompanied himself on a guitar in a song he had composed especially for the couple.

At the reception following the ceremony — Mrs. Gary Quesnell registered guests. On the bride's table the three-tiered cake was adorned with china figurines used on the bride's parents' wedding cake 32 years ago. Peach and beige accessories completed the arrangements.

Mrs. F. W. Quesnell served the cake and Mrs. Joseph Quesnell, sister-in-law of the bride, poured the punch.

A champagne fountain and hors d'oeuvres were catered by the Soran Catering Service. Mrs. Helen McCallie and Elfriede Reinsoff were in charge of the arrangements. The Baker Trio provided dance music throughout the afternoon.

Special guests were Mrs. Mary Astorquia, Boise, and Mrs. Anna Quespell, Kimberly, grandmothers of the couple. Out-of-town guests attended from Spokane, Coeur d'Alene, Moscow, Lewiston, Boise, Mountain Home, Pocatello and Javali.

Friday evening the bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner.

The bride was honored at miscellaneous showers given by Mrs. James Sinclair, Mrs. Charles McWilliams and daughter, Patti; Mrs. Ann Schroeder and Mrs. Archie Quesnell and Mrs. Joe Astorquia and daughter Julie.

DEAR ABBY: I live in Salisbury, Mass., and I use the Newbury public library quite often.

I recently checked out an old book and brought it home to read. When I started to read it, I got the shock of my life. There, in the second chapter, was an old $5,000 bill! It's good, I have already checked it out.

What do I do? Keep it or take it back to the library and find out if someone has reported it lost or misplaced. I really want to do the right thing. Of course I would like to keep it, but not if it belongs to somebody else.

Please advise me.

FINDERS KEEPERS

DEAR FINDERS: Take the $5,000 bill back to the library and ask them to try to find the owner. If they are unable to locate him (or her), the money is yours. (And check with a lawyer before you do anything.)

Reader hits gold

DEAR ABBY: I have heard many mothers say, "I have to tell my child three or four times to do something — BUT if his daddy tells him just once, it jumps."

I think I know why this is true. In most families, when the mother asks the father to do something, he just sits there as if she hadn't spoken. But when the father says to Mother, "Send my suit to the cleaners," or, "Mail this letter — the mother does it right away.

Before long, the child notices that Dad's voice gets a response, but Mom's goes unheeded, so he accepts that as normal and follows the procedure.

Any comment?

D.L.

DEAR D.L.: I think the practice of ignoring Mother and jumping when Father speaks probably comes standard operating procedure after the child tested both parents and discovered that when Mother is ignored, nothing happens. But when Father is ignored, all you-know-what breaks loose.

DEAR ABBY: How does a happily married 35-year-old woman handle flirtations initiated by a married man in the presence of both spouses?

I find myself very much embarrassed, and needless to say, his wife and my husband are not exactly overjoyed.

How can such a man be put in his place in a nice but firm manner? We ran into this couple fairly often, and I am dreading the next encounter.

FLUSTERED

DEAR FLUSTERED: When next you meet, give Casanova an impersonal hello, then promptly launch into small talk with his wife. Keep it a two-way conversation until you depart. No man can "flirt" without a partner.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's "baskets" (How to Have a Lovely Wedding), send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 122 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped return envelope.

PROFITABLE FACTS

Not having the authority to draft men for military service, Congress and the states used taxation to induce voluntary enlistment. The states started using this device early in the Revolutionary War, and Gen. Washington soon realized that the bounty system was a necessary evil. He recommended that bounties be offered "in 1780 acres of land, a suit of clothes and a blanket for each man who volunteered for military service." The World Almanac, 1975.

Cassia aide denies bias

BURLEY — Cassia County school superintendent Harold Blauer denies that the school district is discriminating.

Blauer discussed civil rights problems and the new junior high school in Burley in a talk at the Burley Lions Club luncheon.

The superintendent said the Cassia district is not discriminating against either Mexican-Americans or women.

"But it doesn't matter by law," he said. "They see that we have 17 per cent Mexican-American students and so we should have 23 Mexican-American teachers."

The district has two Mexican-American teachers in teaching roles.

Blauer said the department of Health, Education and Welfare complained that 15 per cent of the grade school students are Mexican-American, but only 10 per cent at the junior high level and a mere five per cent in high school.

"We believe, if we had the same socio-economic group involved in our Anglo population, we likely would have the same drop out rate," Blauer said.

He said the district is obtaining dropout rates from districts facing similar situations in other parts of the country.

In answer to a question concerning hiring Mexican-American teachers at the Friday meeting, Blauer said the applicant has trouble obtaining them. He cited a Spanish speaking applicant from San Salvador, but said the man was not acceptable to HEW as a "Mexican-American."

Blauer said HEW also eyed other staff members carefully, including the ratio of men and women teachers at the various levels.

The completion date for the new Burley Junior High School is next Monday, Blauer said. Another three weeks usually is needed to correct any items turned up by the school board's inspection of the premises.

Blauer said one reason for delay is that the cabinets for the junior high classrooms have not arrived yet.

Blauer also briefed the Lions on the new programs, including the new kindergarten course, health-occupation instruction and an auto mechanics class.

Judges start today

Today is judging day at the fair and judges are plucking premium ribbons for show of early-fair-goers when they begin arriving Wednesday morning.

Doors of most departments are closed while judging is in progress, and some passersby peer into the windows hoping for a preview of the judges' choices.

Judging of swine, poultry, dairy, beef, and quality and performance in 4-H horses got underway at 9 a. m. and was followed by sheep judging, antiques, produce and fruits, kitchen and pantry items, and youth.

All merchants' exhibits must be finished by 9 p. m. tonight to be on full display for the fair opening.

The second performance of B. J. Coulson, entertainer-singer, will be presented at 8 p. m. tonight in the grandstand. Miss Coulson played to an enthusiastic crowd Monday evening for her debut performance.

Junior exhibitors produce will be judged at 4 p. m. today in the produce building, and the outstanding exhibitor and first runner-up will receive the "Pete" Creed plaques.

Pre-rodeo entertainment before the first night of the four rodeo nights will begin at 7 p. m. and will feature band music, a 4-H parade, and riding club drills.

Rodeo stock is being supplied by Golden State Rodeo Company, Marysville, Calif., with Colton Rosser as trail boss. Rodeo is action — fast, colorful and exciting, a contest, always compelling — and constantly changing — and is America's own sport, and outgrowth of one of its major industries — cattle.

Americans have always admired cowboys and love competitive sports of which rodeo provides the combination. It is unrivaled as all-around entertainment for the whole family. Kids love the cowboys, horses and brave-rodeo clowns; men and boys eat up the explosive action and keen competition, and the ladies thrill to the color and elegance.

The 16 contestants for Miss Rodeo Idaho will appear during each rodeo performance and the new queen will be crowned during Saturday night's events.

Creech trial scheduled

BOISE (UPI) — Trial of Thomas Eugene Creech on first-degree murder charges is scheduled to begin in Wallace Oct. 6 and may last for several weeks.

Fourth District Judge J. Ray Durtch disclosed the trial date Monday. Earlier, he transferred the trial to Wallace from Cascade because of pre-trial publicity about the case.

Creech, 34, is accused of killing Thomas Edward Arnold, 31, Lancaster, Tex., and John Wayne Bradford, 30, Brownsboro, Ala., last November and leaving their bodies alongside Highway 55 near Denali.

Bruce O. Robinson, Nampa, said it may take from three to six weeks for the defense to present its case.

Idahoans help fight fire

BOISE (UPI) — Forty men from Idaho are among those dispatched to help fight a forest and lumber fire which has raged for five days in Sequoia National Forest in California.

In all, the Boise National Fire Center dispatched 400 men and supplies to help fight the blaze. The center airlifted 30,000 pounds of food, shovels and other equipment in the past two days.

Teletion nets $60,200 in Gem

BOISE (UPI) — Jerry Lewis' 21 1/2 hour Labor Day teletion raised $60,200 in Idaho to combat muscular dystrophy.

The tenth staged by the entertainer, the teletion raised a total of $18,868,456. That is said to be the largest sum of money ever raised by a single humanitarian fund-raising event.

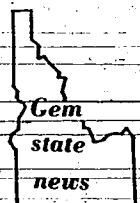

More than 100 celebrities appeared on the show, televised from Las Vegas.

No new data

BOISE (UPI) — Fire Inspector John Borus says investigation into the fires that killed Jim and Judy Lodge has failed to turn up any new information.

Max Fried, 88, died of smoke inhalation when fire swept through his basement Sunday.

Dale L. Crane, 72, died of asphyxiation.

Annual Labor Day fete draws crowd to Bellevue

BELLEVUE — Spectators from throughout Magic Valley lined Bellevue's Main Street Monday morning to watch the kick-off of the 55th annual Labor Day celebration.

Although the crowd was smaller than last year, Bill Ashton, Bellevue, estimated 1,600 to 1,700 ate barbecue beef and lamb sandwiches and long ears of yellow corn.

The old time fiddlers, playing western tunes, entertained the crowd that sat on the park lawn until 5 p.m. Small children and patient mothers waited in line for ferris wheel rides, pony rides or a bounce inside an inflated air bubble.

The action moved to the Silver Dollar and Sam's Club later in the day where in good old fashioned style townspeople and visitors stomped and drank until closing time.

The Silver Dollar was first place in the business division of the morning parade with two men wearing lynx and goat skins and several little Indians riding behind on the float.

The Bellevue General Store float took second place, depicting a scene from Bellevue History. In the children's division, Wendy Irie, dressed as a clown on a bicycle and sponsored by Phyllis' Beauty Shop, won first place.

The Bellevue Library with an "Old Woman in the Shoe" theme placed second, and an unidentified little cowboy won third.

For the fifth consecutive year, Wally Young won the Roberta McKircher handicap for runners 50 years of age or older.

In a tightly contested race Gary McStay won the 25th Annual Special for runners from 30 to 49. There were children's foot races as well.

Forgery charged

BURLEY — A Paul resident was arrested Friday afternoon on a felony charge of passing a forged prescription.

Leona Ruth Barton, 56, was released on $200 bond. She was to appear for arraignment today.

Mrs. Barton allegedly turned in a prescription to the pharmacist at Muller Drug Store, Burley, on Friday afternoon.

Burley police said the prescription was for a non-controlled substance, but for an item which did require a prescription.

The pharmacist allegedly noticed that the doctor's signature was wrong, and asked the woman to return when the prescription had been filled. He called the physician and reportedly verified that the prescription had been forged, then notified police.

A Burley detective stalked out the store and arrested Mrs. Barton when she returned at 3:34 p.m. Friday.

Nude dip ends abruptly

SHOSHONE — A nude dip in Shoshone's new pool ended abruptly here early Sunday.

Five men and women from Oregon and California were arrested for illegally entering the new Lincoln County swimming pool.

According to Alton, Police Chief Ed Critchell, the five men who were charged with trespassing, were swimming nude in the pool about 2 a.m. Sunday.

He said they apparently gained entrance by parking their vehicles near the pool fence and climbing over it.

Randy and Mary Nichols, both San Francisco, Calif., and Christopher and Susan Linnearce and Timothy Erwin, all Oregon, each posted $100 bond, Critchell said. They were scheduled to appear in magistrate court today.

Boaters stranded

BURLEY — A boat disintegrated at 7 p.m. Monday afternoon leaving seven passengers in the Snake River near Crow Island.

Twelve-year-old James W. Stevens, Acquia, suffered broken bones. Mark and Bryce Riving, 15 and 16, Murtagh, suffered cuts and bruises.

Pilot of the boat was Raymond Coats, 33, Twin Falls.

The seven people were pulled from the 33-degree water by persons in another boat.

Coats said he was cruising at high speed, made a turn, and hit the wake of another boat, as well as the high waves on the rough river. He said his fiberglass boat disintegrated.

Questioned

TWIN FALLS — A juvenile boy, described by his principal as one of the shyest youngsters in school, was questioned this morning by school officials and police in connection with some $600 damage at a morning parade school.

Clarence Parker, school principal, said there were 11 large windows, valued at about $30 each, broken along the south side of the elementary school during the weekend.

A resident in the area saw the incident and notified police. Parker said the juvenile's parents will take care of the cost of the damage.

He said in addition to the 11 large windows, one thermal pane was broken in the new addition which has no other windows. Two other smaller windows were also broken out.

Parker said the boy told him Monday he broke the windows, but could not give a reason.

TF lodge hits snag

TWIN FALLS — A construction snag has delayed the grand opening of the renovated Twin Falls Blue Lodge.

The opening was slated for tonight, but has been postponed indefinitely because of a holdup in the construction schedule, according to Maury Gunnarrell, manager of the lodge.

The renovation project includes a health club and handball court in the basement, relocation of the library and activity area to the first-floor and construction of banquet rooms and a kitchen on the second floor.

ISU eyes enrollment

POCAHONTO, Idaho (UPI) — Idaho State University officials said today they anticipate enrollment for the fall semester to surpass the 8,172 students who signed up a year ago.

Acting President Charles H. Kegel said more academic students enrolled this year than last during the first two days of registration and it appears that ISU will not experience the continued downward trend in enrollment that has been predicted nationally.

"It appears certain that ISU will exceed the projections we made earlier on the basis of national figures and our own enrollment pattern during the past few years," Kegel said.

"Enrollment in vocational-technical programs already is up substantially, and it looks as though the number of students in lower division academic classes will increase for the first time in five years."

HOLLY Pockenbusch, five-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ren Pockenbusch, Twin Falls, is ready for the Twin Falls County Fair with her hobby horse, a gift from a friend. The fair officially gets under way Wednesday which is East End Day.

US proposes wide-range economic reform plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The United States has called for a series of sweeping economic reforms to narrow the gap between "have" and "have-not" nations.

Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan, embarking for peace-shuttling Secretary of State Henry Kissinger — presented the wide-ranging economic package Monday at the opening of a special session of the General Assembly.

"We can offer our people slogans of we can offer them solutions," Moynihan said. "We can deal in rhetoric or we can deal in reality. My government has made its choice."

The American ambassador told the assembly "the fate of 1 billion people — half the developing world and a quarter of mankind — will be affected by what we do or fail to do."

The U.S. proposals include:

- Creation of a financing agency to lend developing countries up to $10 billion to offset fluctuations in demands for their exports.
- Expansion of the capital of the World Bank's International Finance Corporation from $100 million to at least $1 billion.
- Creation of an international energy institute to encourage energy development.
- Creation of an international investment trust fund financed by private investors to attract capital for investment in developing countries.
- Creation of an international industrialization institute to provide research on industrial technology for developing countries.

Although the plans call for an outlay of billions of dollars,

U.S. experts said they did not anticipate large-scale transfers of funds from the "haves" to the "have-nots."

The U.N. economic debate will last 12 days. Delegates from Iran, West Germany, Norway, India and Argentina were scheduled to speak this morning and representatives of China, Japan and Indonesia this afternoon.

Moynihan's speech was notably nonpolitical, but he criticized the 1973 escalation of prices by oil-producing countries as a cause of world economic troubles.

"No country or group of countries should have exclusive power in the areas basic to the welfare of others," he said. "This principle is valid for oil. It also applies to trade and finance."

But Manuel Perez Guerrero, Venezuela's minister of state for international economic affairs, blamed "exportation of multinational corporations for the creation of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. He said the "militant solidarity" of the third world nations had forced the United States to adopt "a serious approach" to their economic problems.

All the proposals were approved by the IMF and Congress, since the United States has veto power, before they become effective, probably next year.

Even after the proposed dilution of voting strength, the United States would have 20 per cent of all IMF votes — enough for a veto. OPEC's quota would rise to 10 per cent.

The agreement on gold and quotas were reached Sunday in a 10-hour negotiating session by the IMF's interim committee, a group of 29 finance ministers representing a spectrum of the member nations.

The gold decision sent prices plummeting on the London and Zurich gold markets Monday. Gold fell $4.25 in London and $4.87 in Zurich to close at $155.25 an ounce on both markets.

World Bank President Robert McNamara said increased aid from industrial countries to poor countries would help to end the world recession.

IMF Managing Director T. Johannes Witteveen said the primary burdens will be placed on the United States, West Germany and Japan to spread their economic wealth through increased trade.

Taiwan cut urged

Chicago Sun Times

CHICAGO — A China expert says improvement in Chinese-American relations will be slow unless the United States withdraws recognition of the Taiwan government.

John S. Service, a Foreign Service officer fired from the State Department because he backed a neutral stance toward the Communists in the 1940s, said U.S. officials should accept Peking's position that Taiwan is a Chinese province.

The ball is in our court. Until we (the United States) disrecognize Taiwan, there isn't going to be any great improvement in relations," Service said in an interview here.

Service, 66, maintained that Taiwan should be considered a Chinese internal problem, with the future of the separate Taiwanese government to be determined through negotiations with the mainland.

Monetary system harmony sought to aid recovery

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States today followed up major concessions on the role of gold in the international monetary system with an appeal for harmony to help speed world economic recovery.

President Ford carried the plea for unity to the first working session of the International Monetary Fund's 30th annual meeting, a gathering of finance ministers from 127 non-Communist nations.

German Finance Minister Hans Apel endorsed a cooperative attitude after the United States had opted to end divisive disputes over gold and voting strength in the IMF.

"International solidarity will lead to progress," Apel said, while a relapse into "nationalistic thinking will get us nowhere."

Apel said it was ridiculous that many nations had widespread unemployment at a time when consumers everywhere needed greater production of goods. He urged moderation in price increases to prevent another round of inflation that could damage the economic recovery.

IMF chairman Gumerindo Rodriguez of Venezuela gavelled the five-day meeting open Monday with a declaration that "winds of change are blowing" away world economic domination by the United States and other industrial countries.

Rodriguez mentioned recommendations to dilute U.S. voting strength by one-fifth and to sell $1 billion in gold to aid poor Asian, African, and Latin American countries.

Coupled with the proposals was a recommendation to double the voting power of Venezuela and the other 12 members of the

35 Alabama prisoners injured in short fracas

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Black and white prisoners fought a pitched battle in two darkened cellblocks of the overcrowded Medical and Diagnostic Center Monday night before guards quelled the disturbance with warning shots. Thirty-five inmates were injured.

State Prison Commissioner L. B. Sullivan said one of the convicts received a superficial wound on his ear lobe from a ricocheting bullet. He said about 34 others were treated for stab wounds from inmate fighting.

The fracas erupted at the prison three days after two federal judges fled violence as being commingled in the state prisons. They ordered no more new inmates accepted until the prison populations dropped.

Dozens of inmates routinely sleep on the floor due to a shortage of beds at the institution, built five years ago for 440 men. It has more than 700 inmates.

Sullivan and Warden William Long said the latest disturbance, which lasted nearly an hour, was racially motivated — the same as previous outbreaks at the prison, where all new male inmates are sent for classification.

The blacks were segregated from the whites for the remainder of the night. Guards patrolled the cell blocks they normally do not check except at set intervals.

Seaver sets 50 record

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tom Seaver became the first National League pitcher to win 20 games and also established a major league strikeout record Monday by striking out 10 Pirates in pitching the New York Mets to a 3-0 victory.

The win enabled the Mets to move within four games of the first-place Pirates in the NL Eastern division.

Seaver, who pitched a four-hitter, bringing his record to 20-7, raised his season strikeout total to 204, the eighth consecutive season in which he has fanned 200 or more batters. He previously shared the record of seven with Rube Waddell and Walter Johnson.

By striking out 10 Pirates, it was the 55th time in Seaver's career he has fanned 10 or more batters in a game. In holding the Pirates scoreless, he lowered his earned run average to a league-leading 2.07. It also was Seaver's sixth consecutive victory since he last lost on July 29.

Rookie outfielder Mike Vail, appearing in his first game at Shea Stadium, gave the Mets a 1-0 lead in the first inning with his first major league home run of losing pitcher John Candalaria.

Chicago catcher Steve Swisher, Brock scored on Davis' double play ball for a 3-0 St. Louis lead.

The three stolen bases gave Brock 52 for the season and marked the 11th consecutive year he has stolen 50 or more.

Brook leads Cards by Cubs
ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Lou Brock stroked three singles, stole three bases and scored two runs to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs, despite Andy Thornton's two home runs.

Brook led off the first with a single, stole second and third, and scored on Davis' one-out single.

St. Louis pitcher Bob Fothergill, who raised his record to 12-9, led off the third with a double. Brock singled him to third and stole his third, base of the game. Fothergill then scored and Brock took third on Murray, now 10-7, picked up the victory in relief of Steve Rogers while Gene Garber, 9-9, took the loss.

Astros edge by Atlanta 5-3
HOUSTON (UPI) — Cesar Cedeno drove in three runs with a single and a double to lead the Houston Astros to a 5-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves Monday night.

Cedeno also walked twice, scored once, stole his third base and set up the Astros' first run by taking two bases on a wild pitch.

Chukar season to open September 13 in Idaho

By STU MURRELL, Regional Staff Conservationist

CHUKAR partridge season opens September 13 along with Sage grouse, forest grouse, quail and Hungarian partridge.

The limit is liberal in most of northern and southern Idaho with a 10-bird daily bag and 20 in possession.

The chukar partridge was introduced in the United States from India in 1892 but didn't really take hold in Idaho until the 1950's when a few thousand were raised annually at the Jerome Game Farm and birds planted throughout the state in suitable locations. The first season was held in 1954.

The most important part of a new introduction program with a new species is to determine their exact habitat needs. The chukar partridge is a dryland species preferring 8-15 inch rainfall areas. It does best in areas containing rocky cliffs which it can utilize for escape areas and roosting spots. Its diet consists of large quantities of cheat grass seeds during the fall, winter, and early spring months.

It also eats berries and green shoots of grasses and forbs as they sprout. Insects are an important part of the diet when the young are developing and anytime during the year when they are easily available. For example, I have found chukars with their crops full of half-frozen grasshoppers as late as early November in the Lower Salmon River area.

Chukars are persistent growers and start in late February along the lower elevations in Idaho and if a nest is destroyed for any reason may continue to re-nest as late as August. Their peak of nesting usually occurs in May with only one brood raised per year. The incubation period is 24 days and clutch size is large, averaging 15 eggs. The young are able to fly in about two weeks.

The hunter must learn to recognize the different game birds and the chukar is quite distinctive in coloration. It weighs 1 to 1 1/2 pounds and has a general appearance of a blocky, gray-brown bird from the back. There is a prominent black line from the forehead along the sides of its neck and then across the breast like a bib. The sides are light gray with vertical black and brown bars. The bill, feet, and legs are red. Sexes look alike but once in the hand a male chukar will have more prominent spurs than the female.

The chukar is named after its distinctive call which sounds like chuck, chuck, chuck in a series of faint, listening for this call at first light in the morning is a good way of locating chukars to hunt.

Tarkenton leads Vikings by Miami

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Fran Tarkenton passed for 314 yards and two touchdowns Monday night to lead the Minnesota Vikings past the previously unbeaten Miami Dolphins 20-7 in exhibition football.

Tarkenton completed 15 of 21 attempts before leaving the game after the Vikings had established a 20-0 third quarter lead.

A punt of 64 yards was completions from Tarkenton to Sam McCullum and Oscar Reed's 18-yard run set up a four-yard touchdown pass from Tarkenton to Steve Craig early in the first quarter.

Ed Marinaro's fumble at the Miami three cost the Vikings another scoring opportunity late in the second quarter, but Minnesota used its time out in order to force the Dolphins to punt.

When Miami interfered with a fair catch by Mike Strickland, Tarkenton followed with a 44-yard scoring pass to Jim Lash with just two seconds remaining in the half.

Fred Cox' extra point gave the Vikings a 13-0 half-time lead.

Tarkenton completed four passes for 56 yards to set up Dave Osborn's one-yard touchdown dive midway in the third period.

The Miami offense, unable to move against the first team Minnesota defense, picked up in the second half against the Viking reserves.

Norm Bullock swept left end for 53 yards on a four-and-one situation to give the Dolphins their only score with 8:40 remaining in the game.

Bob Griese played the first half for the Dolphins and completed just one of eight passes for nine yards.

San Diego beats Cincinnati 2-1

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Randy Jones notched his 18th victory against eight losses by scattering nine hits while pitching the San Diego Padres to a 2-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Monday night.

The Padres picked up their first run in the second inning when Dave Winfield walked, stole second and one out later scored on a single by Dave Roberts.

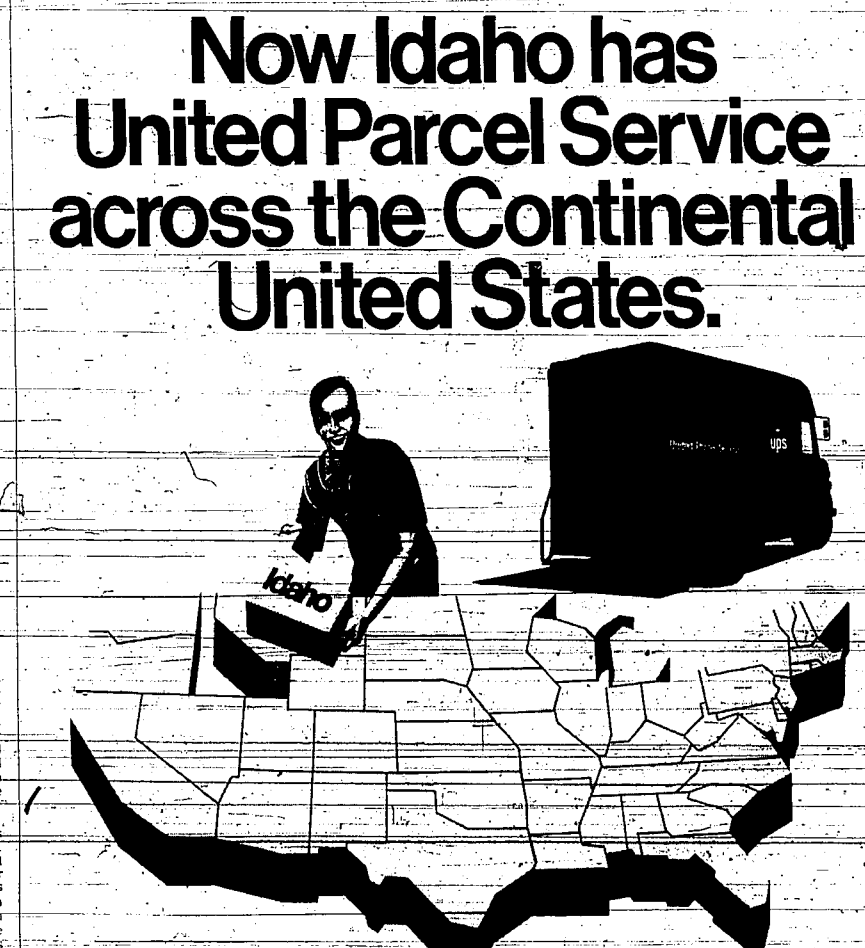

San Diego's 1-0 lead was held until the eighth inning when Cincinnati's Mike Schmidt hit a home run to tie the game.

Padres pitcher Steve Carlton struck out three Reds in the ninth to seal the victory.

Connors, Evert win in US Open Tennis

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Chris Evert and Jimmy Connors, who decided to go their separate ways off the court, Monday night demonstrated why they still are the most talked-about young couple in tennis by registering comfortable victories for the quarterfinals of the U.S. Open.

While Chris and Jimmy prospered, fourth-seeded Arthur Ashe, Wimbledon and WCT champion, from the $309,000 championship by Eddie Dibbs, who now meets Bjorn Borg following the young Swede's 6-1, 6-4, 6-2 victory over the hero of yesterday's Rod Laver.

Miss Evert, who has faltered four straight times at the semifinals hurdle, defeated Wendy Overton of Ormond Beach, Fla., 6-0, 6-1 while Connors, attempting to salvage a championship for a year when he has been big on money but short on titles, ousted Harold Solomon, 6-4, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3.

Miss Evert, the 20-year-old queen of the clay courts, gave up only 16 points in defeating Miss Overton in a stretch, hard-hit ball game on the surface, which started in the summer of 1973, to 81, when she dropped her service in the fourth game of the second set. It was as much a surprise to her opponent as it was to the evening audience of 187.

Connors, who celebrated his 23rd birthday at midnight on the court, came prepared to wage war in the trenches against his old junior foe, Solomon, and the "human retriever" did not disappoint him.

It was not a classic match, but what had lacked in the spectacular it made up for in tension. The air was electric, if somewhat chill and damp. There were occasional drops of rain.

Neither met held service with any degree of confidence during the two hour 58 minute match. Each served an ace, there were but three love games—two to Connors—and two to Solomon—the opening two games went against the server.

Solomon won four of the first five games of the first set before Connors took five of his own. Connors got the decisive break in the third game of the second set, while Solomon wrapped up the third in the 12th game after Connors had served one set point. In the fourth set, Connors took the lead in the third game breaking again in the ninth, when the third Solomon served a double fault at match point.

Connors' quarterfinal opponent will be the unseeded Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia, who took veteran South African Bob Hewitt, 6-4, 6-2, 1, 6, 6, 2.

Cardinals retire Gibson's No. 45

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals Monday retired uniform No. 45 at Bob Gibson Day ceremonies which included a telegram from President Ford.

The President wrote: "Your two Cy Young awards, your 17 strikeouts in a world series game, your three victories in a world series and your 13 shutouts and 112 earned-run average present a picture of overall pitching excellence which is unsurpassed in our time."

Gibson, who will be 40 in November, has announced he will retire at the end of the season. He had his first full year in the majors in 1961 with the Cardinals.

Joining Gibson's mother and two daughters on the field prior to the salute St. Louis-Chicago game were baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn, Missouri GOVERNOR Christopher Bond, Nebraska Governor J. Elton and Mayor Ed Corisky of Omaha, Gibson's hometown.

Following the presentation of a mobile home and bus, groups of boy and girl scouts formed the No. 45 in the outfield, representing Gibson's career victories, as the St. Louis righthander voiced his emotions filled thank-yous.

Allison wins rain delayed car race

DARLINGTON, S.C. (UPI) — Bobby Allison came within an eyelash of losing the rain-delayed southern 500 stock car race Monday.

"I came within six inches of losing the race when the wrecked on the second turn," Allison said after the thrilling 367-lap event. It was his third southern 500 victory.

"It's a terrible place to get bombed. I saw a lot of guys doing a tremendous job of going by him."

Parsons had the lead in the 288th lap when his Chevrolet hit a slick spot and spun out of control. Allison in his AMC Matador took advantage of the misstep and surged into first place over Richard Petty but on his lap. He held on to take a 25-second victory over Petty.

"It looks like we got beat again, or rather beat ourselves," said Petty, who told friends before the nation's oldest major stock car race that a bug had him feeling the worst he's ever felt before a race.

"I think I had the best car on the track today and he (Allison) had the best driver. Bobby drove hard and consistently all day. He just kept hanging in there, one of the rest of us got tired."

Petty said Dave Marcis, who had to drop out when his car overheated in the 210th lap, relieved him at the wheel for a time when "I started weaving around on the track."

The race, which had a $162,500 purse, saw 20 lead changes among eight drivers and a rain delay of 80 minutes

Ashe, 32, had his chances against the 21-year-old Dibbs, but Ashe was unable to win the first points and his decision to attack the net at the wrong time, spelled the difference.

Dibbs, born in Brooklyn of Lebanese parents and a threetime All-America at the University of Miami, was not surprised at his victory. "I should have been seeded," said the man who is one of America's premier clay court players.

Ashe committed 67 unforced errors. That was too much for even him to overcome.

The last time Borg and Laver met was back in May when Borg won a four-hour, five-setter in the WCT semifinals at Dallas. After starting like a whirlwind, the 19-year-old Swede was kept on court just over two hours as Laver produced some of the shots which won him the grand slam in 1962 and 1969.

But time caught up with the 37-year-old Laver, and he finished the way he started—committing unforced errors. Laver made 78 to Borg's major 28.

Patience key to victory

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Patience, Jimmy Connors said, was the key to his victory over Harold Solomon as he sipped victory celebration drink Tuesday morning in honor of his 23rd birthday.

Connors celebrated his birthday with a 6-4, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3 victory over the 37-year-old Laver, and he finished the way he started—committing unforced errors. Laver made 78 to Borg's major 28.

Afterwards Laver said "I've had my share of success—it's time for the young ones to take over."

Early in the day, with a 15,000 crowd in attendance, Kerry Melville Reid, who topped Miss Evert up in the 1972 semifinals, qualified for another meeting with Chris by beating South Africa's Greer Stevens, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Second-seeded Virginia Wade beat Beth Norton of Fairbairn, Conn., 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, to set up a quarterfinal with Germany's Katja Ebbinghaus, a 6-0, 6-3 winner over Pam Teeguarden of Los Angeles.

Evonne Goelagong Cawley, number one in the last two years, beat Val Ziegenfuss, 6-1, 6-2, Cajon, Calif., 6-3, 6-2, and now meets Japan's Kazuko Sawamatsu, who defeated Linky Boshoff of South Africa, 6-2, 7-6. Margaret Court, seeking her sixth championship here and third seeded Martina Navratilova progressed Sunday to set up their quarterfinal match.

"When I play on clay, I walk out there and say, 'here goes my evening.' When I get through, I'm lucky if I can walk to the bathroom," said Connors.

He should have it easier in his next match because Rhodesia's Andrew Pattison does not have the clay court expertise of Solomon.

"I gave him too many short balls," Solomon said. "Jimmy hits outright winners and you don't feed him a diet of short balls."

Buffalo blows out Cleveland 34-20

CLEVELAND (UPI) — It is not true that to stop the Buffalo Bills, all you have to do is stop O. J. Simpson.

The Cleveland Browns held the all-pro running back to just 22 yards total offense and made a couple mistakes and got blown out 34-20 Monday in an exhibition game before 31,155 fans.

With the Browns trailing 21-12 in the third quarter, Billy Parcells fumbled on the Bills one-yard line and Doug Green recovered for Buffalo. Four downs later the Browns took a punt, marched right back, and rookie Henry Hynoski fumbled on the Bills' 3. Walt Patulski recovered and that led to a 31-yard Bill field goal by John Eppard, who then drilled a kickoff between Greg Pruitt and Larry Poole.

The ball died in the end zone and they finally remembered it had to be touched down and ran for it, but the Bills' Tom Donahoe got there first and recovered for a touchdown.

"I thought the ball was going to bounce out of the end zone," Pruitt said. "Its speed and depth of angle made it look like it had to go out, but it stuck in the end."

Browns coach Forrest Gregg called it "a mental lapse" and added, "that's an error that never should be made by any football team."

The outcome left the Bills 2-2 in pre-season play and Cleveland 1-3, wiping out a 20-for-31 passing performance by the Browns' Mike Phipps in 315 yards and one touchdown, his best day as a pro.

"We did have a good passing game," Gregg said. Although Phipps was disappointed because it was "his first time," he said he had a 70 lead on their first possession on Pruitt's seven-yard run, but Buffalo's Joe Ferguson threw touchdown passes to Paul Seymour and Ahmad Rashad for a 14-7 lead after the first quarter.

Steve Holden pulled in a tipped ball for a 13-yard touchdown completion, but Cleveland's Don Cockroft missed the conversion. Decher scored his first touchdown on a one-yard run and Buffalo led 21-13 at the half.

Leypoldt's field goal and Donezh's kickoff recovery in the first minute of the fourth period made it 31-8 before the Browns' rallied for "Hugh McKinnis' one-yard touchdown run, but the Bills kept the ball away from them until the final minute when Leypoldt added another field goal.

NY Jets' Woodall kept out

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — TEAM physicians Monday announced New York Jets quarterback Al Woodall will not require surgery for an injury to his left knee suffered in an exhibition game Saturday night against the Atlanta Falcons.

Doctors said the injury to Woodall's knee was a "posterior capsule" and would keep him out of action for a month.

With Woodall out, the Jets will have three quarterbacks with which to work and Coach Charlie Weis said he plans to use Joe Namath extensively in the club's next exhibition game Sunday night against the Washington Redskins.

Winner said he was alarmed at the porous blocking by his offensive line against the Falcons as New York quarterbacks were sacked seven times. Woodall was injured on one of those sacks.

NEW YORK (UPI)—A mixed news background, just about evenly divided between the good and the bad led investors uncertain Tuesday, and the stock market sought direction in sluggish trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Wall Street was growing more uneasy by the hour as it appeared New York City would have to default on its debts because of its chaotic financial condition and its apparent unwillingness of anybody to bail it out.

But investors were encouraged by further signs of recovery was under way and indications "interest" rates, which climbed recently, may have reached a peak.

Monthly Federal Reserve (FED) reports of the economy were encouraged by further signs of recovery was under way and indications "interest" rates, which climbed recently, may have reached a peak.

Weekly Federal Reserve (FED) reports of the economy were encouraged by further signs of recovery was under way and indications "interest" rates, which climbed recently, may have reached a peak.

New York City's Municipal Assistance Corp. bonds plunged in early trading as the city's financial problems grew more desperate. At the same time, the interest rate picture was brightening. Trendsetting First National Bank of Chicago left its prime rate unchanged at 7 3/4 percent.

Controversy over new law persists

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — California's new farm labor law went into effect this week. But two days of hearings on its provisions indicated that a controversy, after a decade of strife in the state's $6-billion industry, was far from over. The law, enacted in June, gives farm workers the right for the first time to ask for secret balloting elections for the union of their choice or to vote against a union.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 3, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to follow the good suggestions of those who are experienced. You also have better judgment and are most resourceful than usual. A good time to make long-range plans.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Engage in activities that will make your life more interesting. Put your special talents to work. Be careful in motion.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Do whatever you can to make your home more comfortable. Do some entertaining in the evening. Show that you have poise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get in touch with persons who can make you a more efficient person in your line of endeavor. Handle correspondence wisely.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan how to make your monetary structure more profitable. If you have any doubts, confer with financial experts.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get together with good friends who can give you the assistance you need now. Make sure you put ideas across intelligently.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take steps to make the future more affluent. Once business matters are taken care of, engage in recreation you enjoy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Look to a good friend for the data you need. Get together later with individuals whose interests are similar to yours.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get an early start in the outside world where your career is concerned and make big headway. Take care of civic duty.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Put those fine ideas to work that will help you advance quickly. New contacts can be helpful in your line of endeavor.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Following your hunches is wise now, since they can lead you in directions you had not thought possible in the past.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Coming to a better agreement with associates is possible today. You have clever ideas that should be expressed now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make conditions around you more ideal and you can operate more efficiently in the future. Go shopping for wardrobe needs.

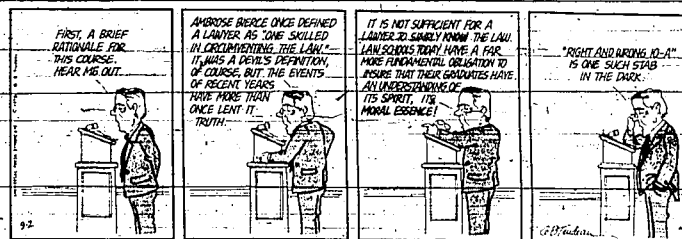

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... ...he or she will be one who likes to get important things done, for personal gratification and for the adulation of others. Be sure to give encouragement. Much vision here that should not be thwarted. Sports is a must.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Until a few years ago, the average Japanese woman was slimmer at age 50 than she had been at age 20. But researchers say different diets recently have reversed the situation. That middle-aged thinness, so revered among the ladies hereabouts, was regarded over there as the curse of rice, fish and oh-so-hard labor.

DO YOU REALIZE that growup male-musk oxen eat only about a sixth as much as do cattle?

PLEASE NOTE, approximately 93 per cent of the people who go swimming every summer can't swim more than 40 yards at a stretch, if at all.

TRIPOLI

Q: There are three Tripolis in the Mediterranean area. In Libya, Lebanon and Greece. Phoenicians founded all three in 700 B.C. Which one do the marines refer to when they sing 'From the Halls of Montezuma to the Shores of Tripoli'?

A: The one in Libya. Tripoli means "three cities," incidentally.

THE FIRST umbrellas made in England didn't catch on. At least, not right away. And particularly, not with the men. The umbrella was a poor-folks symbol. You only needed such a thing, if you couldn't afford a carriage.

THE HARD FACTS

Old scrolls indicate there were 20 different kinds of beer more than 4,000 years before Christ. WHAT OTHER WORD can you name besides "indivisibility" that repeats one vowel six times? THE ELECTRICIAN is far less inclined to get burstis than most other professionals.

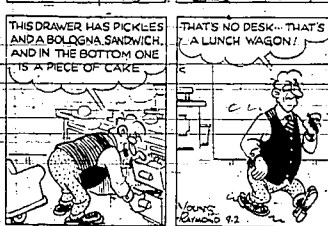

ONLY ministers, priests and rabbis competed in the "madness" golf tournament at California's Desert Hot Spring. Motto of the event was: "Let us not make sin the sign of success." Sports writers in attendance reported the most unusual aspect of the competition was not one swear word was uttered aloud.

EDUCATION is the process, not the destination, the process of moving from cocksure ignorance to thoughtful uncertainty." T. H. Bell, U.S. Commissioner of Education, said that.
