Senate panel vote rebukes Church

WASHINGTON — Yielding to pressure from the White House, the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence has decided to keep secret a report on assistance that commercial communications companies gave the National Security Agency in intercepting telephone calls and cablegrams.

The Committee's decision was a stinging rebuke to chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, who argued that the public had a right to know about activities he described as "illegal."

Shutdown eyed

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. Chairman John Riccardo warned Wednesday mounting losses and more labor unrest might force the auto firm to dispose of its operations in the United Kingdom. Chrysler lost about $35 million in its British operations in 1974 and recorded a $32 million deficit in the first six months of 1975. The firm compiled a total loss of $79 million in the third quarter.

Anti-Reds seize newspaper office

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — A military police unit was put on alert today outside the Communist-controlled newspaper office taken over Wednesday by non-Communist and anti-management workers. The unit was moved in as more than 100 anti-Communist demonstrators gathered outside the newspaper-Seuho's office to support the occupation.

Mideast stability, arms sales tied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary James A. Schlesinger today indicated he would have no objections to selling military arms and equipment to Egypt if it would help "stabilize" the Middle East. Schlesinger also said the balance of power among the world's strongest nations could "collapse" in the future if the United States continues to slash military spending while the Soviet Union continues to increase its military capacity.

States sue to block postal hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eleven states have filed suit to block the Postal Service from increasing the cost of a first class stamp to 13 cents. The suit filed Wednesday said the temporary rate increase scheduled for Dec. 28 would be "inflationary, unwarranted, discriminatory and unlawful under the Postal Reorganization Act." The legal action also seeks to prevent the planned increase from seven cents to 10 cents for post cards.

Path proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William Roth Jr., R-Del., told the Senate Judiciary Committee Wednesday a constitutional amendment is the "only ironclad way" to end school busing related to desegregation. "If busing is wrong, there must be a remedy. It is the Constitution which provides this remedy," Roth said.

Fossil jaw 3.75 million years old

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fossil jaws and teeth apparently from a "true" early man as old as 3.75 million years have been found in Tanzania, East Africa, anthropologist Mary Leakey reported today. Dr. Leakey said the new finds represent the oldest firmly dated remains of a manlike creature and support the view that genus homo, or true man, extends "much further back than believed a few years ago."

House votes down debt ceiling hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House by a 217 to 178 margin voted Wednesday not to raise the national debt ceiling another $20 billion. Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, said that since the current $377 billion ceiling on national debt expires Nov. 15 and the debt is not expected to be paid by then, he will bring another bill to the floor before the deadline.

Quick freedom for Herrema unlikely

MONASTEREVIN, Ireland (UPI) — The Irish government has firmly ruled out force to rescue kidnapped Dutch businessman Tiede Herrema and hopes for a swift end of his captivity faded.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ignoring President Ford's threatened veto, the Senate Banking Committee voted 8 to 5 today for a $4 billion federal loan guarantee to enable New York City to avert default.

The measure was sent to the Senate floor where it is expected to encounter a stubborn filibuster by opponents.

Earlier, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said New York State still has "vast financial resources" which it could use to avert default in New York City.

Ford said Wednesday he was "prepared to veto" any loan guarantee measure designed to keep the city from going insolvent. But Ford suggested a plan under which financial control of the city could be assumed by the federal court in New York after default occurred.

A few Democrats expressed hope Ford would change his mind about a veto but Sen. John F. Tower of Texas, the senior Republican on the committee, said their hopes were futile. "It's doomed," Tower said.

Senate Democrats and one Republican, Robert Packwood of Oregon, voted to send the bill to the Senate floor. Four Republicans and one Democrat, Robert Morgan of North Carolina, voted no.

A House Banking subcommittee was expected to consider similar legislation soon — perhaps today.

Under the Senate bill, a three-member federal board, chaired by Simon, would be authorized to guarantee loans to the city if the city still met certain conditions.

The state would have to increase taxes by $171 million a year for three years. City unions would have to renegotiate pension plans. Banks and other investors, which hold much of the city's $13.2 billion debt, would have to agree to delayed payments and reduced interest rates.

Some New York City congressmen say those terms are so stringent that default may occur even if the bill is passed.

Keeps vigil

UNABLE to restrain her emotions, a woman weeps as she and her son join hundreds in a prayer vigil in a church adjoining El Pardo Palace in Madrid, Spain. The vigil was for Generalissimo Francisco Franco, 82, the Spanish leader who suffered a relapse today and continues near death. (UPI)

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Americans and Europeans crowded Beirut airport today for evacuation flights out of war-torn Lebanon but others not so lucky remained trapped under fire in embattled sections of the capital.

Another explosion killed two Lebanese fighting between Moslems and Christians was rescued six Americans trapped in the St. Georges Hotel. The car was driven, flag flying, by the U.S. embassy's security chief, Lt. Col. Walter Brown.

The embassy also picked up a couple and their two children from the nearby Excelsior Hotel.

Rival gunmen today ignored a government announced ceasefire in the Kantari-Sanayeh-Pleot area and battled on with rockets and machineguns.

Richey resignation asked

TWIN FALLS — David Richey, Twin Falls City-County planner, has been asked to resign by his planning council.

Richey had no comment to make this morning about the matter. According to Jean Millar, secretary of the city-county joint planning council and Twin Falls City Manager, the council unanimously called for Richey's resignation in a meeting this morning.

With its action Millar said, the council issued the following statement:

"Over the past two years we have had a very sincere and honest effort by our planning director to complete our comprehensive plan for Twin Falls County. At this time there is a tremendous need for good communication between the planning director and the planning officials and the elected officials of the county to bring about completion of the plan.

"The definite lack of communication and understanding between the planning director and the planning groups have resulted in action taken by this council.

"The Twin Falls joint planning office will remain open and in operation and a new director will be hired at the earliest possible date."

New Idaho prison fills up

BY DAVID HORSMAN Times-News Writer

BOISE — Idaho's two-cent-old penitentiary is full and must be expanded if potentially "explosive" overcrowding is to be avoided, the state's chief prison official said Wednesday.

Don Erickson, director of corrections, said he will ask the next session of the state legislature for $1.6 million to build an addition that will house another 150 inmates.

About 30 cells in the new $15 million penitentiary south of Boise currently are doubled up with two prisoners in a cell designed for one inmate.

Now the situation appears to be getting worse, Erickson told the Times-News in a telephone interview.

"We are full and if this trend continues, which we are anticipating, we are going to be in trouble," he said.

The prison's capacity is about 520 inmates. Wednesday's daily count showed 517 inmates and "it has been as high as 537," Erickson said.

The current doubling-up-in cells is caused primarily by the required separation of "different classifications" of prisoners, he added.

Recent projections predict the state's total inmate population will soar to 700 by July of 1976, according to Erickson. This estimate includes prisoners held at the minimum-security facility at Cottonwood, which has a capacity of about 100.

The Cottonwood facility, which currently has 61 inmates, could not absorb much of the expected inmate boom because "it is a totally open institution and we have to be careful," Erickson said. It houses court-selected new offenders up to 120 days while judges consider possible probation.

Asked if the crowded conditions at the new prison are the result of poor planning, Erickson said there was no indication that the inmate population would boom when the facility was built.

"Actually at that time, when the planning was done, the institutions were going through a reduced population," he said.

But now the trend has reversed nationwide and many state prisons are running out of room, according to Erickson.

Idaho's inmate population has increased about 25 per cent "just since I came here in April of 1974," he added.

Erickson listed several possible explanations for the spurt in inmates:

— An Oregon study showed a "baby boom factor" that's catching up with us" in the 15 to 29 age group, he said. Most offenders come from that age group, according to Erickson, and as it increases the number of criminals in it also goes up.

About 75 per cent of the inmates received by Idaho in September were between 15 and 29, he said. Also, about 2 per cent of Idaho's population in that age group was in the penitentiary in fiscal 1975, he added.

— The "attitude of the public nationally certainly has been 'let's lock those offenders' up. We're tired of crime on the streets," Erickson said. "The courts are sentencing more people to prison," he added.

— In Idaho, most of the population growth has been in urban areas where the crime rate is usually higher. "The larger communities have grown and, historically, most of the crimes are committed in the urban areas."

— Crimes of violence are up, according to Erickson. These crimes generally carry longer sentences and the offenders pile up in the prisons.

Paroles in Idaho also are up, eliminating tougher parole policies as a reason for the inmate boom, Erickson said.

"If he can't get the money for an expansion program, I'll have no choice except to continue to double up cells and try to manage the situation." However, overcrowding leads to "a more explosive situation" in controlling prisoners, he said.

Police probe Kidwell death

BOISE (UPI) — City Police today continued their investigation into the shooting death of Idaho Attorney General Wayne Kidwell's teenage son, but officers called the fatal wound "apparently self-inflicted."

The body of Dale Kidwell, 15, was found in his father's home, about 5 p.m. He apparently died from a single gunshot wound to the head. A handgun was found near the body.

"We are conducting tests on his hands to determine if he had fired a weapon," said a police spokesman. "We are also attempting to determine the distance at which the weapon was fired from his head."

Police said an autopsy was also scheduled for today.

The investigators declined to immediately release any other details about the shooting, except that they thought the wound was self-inflicted, and police had tentatively ruled out foul play.

Kidwell said the weapon used was his .38-caliber revolver "which I've had since my prosecuting attorney days." He said he kept it in his bedroom.

He said he thought the shooting might have been accidental because he could think of no reason his son would have taken his own life.

"He had his 15th birthday four days ago," Kidwell said. "He was not in any trouble. He was a good student."

Woman injured

TWIN FALLS — Enma Luke, about 70, Twin Falls, was listed in critical condition today at the Twin Falls Clinic Hospital following a car-pedestrian accident.

Mrs. Luke was struck by an automobile at Blue Lakes Boulevard and Fourth Avenue East late Wednesday. She reportedly suffered multiple fractures and shock. Mrs. Luke is active in the Daughters of Utah Pioneers and other LDS Church organizations.

No report of the accident was available at the Twin Falls police station.

Former Buhl cop sues to regain job

By BILL LAZARUS Times-News Writer

BUHL — A former Buhl policeman is suing Buhl's police chief, mayor and City Council in an effort to regain his job with back pay.

In a complaint sent to federal district court Wednesday, John Blake charges he was "arbitrarily terminated" from his position at the force last December.

But Buhl Mayor Ted Pence says Blake quit and he "was not to be rehired until long afterward." And, according to the city clerk, a "retirement system" paper, signed by Blake shows that he did resign.

In the complaint, prepared with the help of Idaho Legal Aid Attorney Louis Garbrecht, Blake says he was "never advised by his superiors that his work was unsatisfactory in any respect" during his nearly 1 1/2 year term on the force.

Blake says he had complained about "questionable practices in the Buhl Police Department" concerning "selective enforcement of laws, illegal search and seizures, office mismanagement, misuse of patrol cars and other practices," while he was on the force. These practices are not detailed in the complaint and Blake would not elaborate for the record, saying the matters should come out in court.

In the complaint, Blake says Police Chief Ben Ekrut did "indicate his dissatisfaction" over Blake "expressing his right to question certain police practices."

Blake claims Ekrut told him he was fired by telephone on Dec. 9, 1974, without giving any reasons. He says he talked with Ekrut, Pence and city councilman Jerry Hawkins for six days afterward, "requesting that he be reinstated."

Blake "never received prior notice of termination, statement of reasons for his discharge, or an opportunity to be heard in refute any charges that may have been made against him, Blake's complaint states.

It also charges that Blake was "faithfully and diligently discharging the duties and responsibilities of his position when his employment was illegally, arbitrarily and unlawfully terminated."

The complaint says Blake was asked "to sign a release confirming the discharge" and that a "favorable employment recommendation" was predicated on signing of the release. "Blake maintains he refused to sign."

In the complaint Blake asks for reinstatement, a hearing on the issue of his being fired and full back pay plus interest.

He also asks for "a statement of reasonable, published standards governing terminations, clearly defining what type of conduct, if proven at the hearing, will result in termination of employment."

In the suit Blake names Pence and Ekrut both individually and in their official capacities and the city councilmen in their official capacity as defendants.

Ekrut would not comment today, but suggested his attorney be contacted on the matter. Attorney John Hopworth also would not comment on the case, saying that "ethically, as an attorney, I'm in no position to comment on the merits of the case before" the court hearing.

He said he has not received Blake's complaint, but that response filings will be filed, after the complaint is filed.

"He did quit. That's the way it is," Pence said. He said that Blake did not try to get his job back until "quite awhile afterward." Pence said, however, that he would have to check city records to see if Blake signed a resignation notice.

City Clerk Frances McArthur said the city does have a paper that Blake "signed for the retirement system." She said a checked box shows he resigned.

Snooping notices sought by groups

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Civil liberties groups today asked President Ford to notify thousands of Americans that their mail was illegally opened, their telephones and cables intercepted, their taxes inspected or that they were put under surveillance by various intelligence agencies.

A letter, released by the groups at a news conference, asked Ford to "notify those individuals who have been the subject of surveillance programs which are now admitted to be unconstitutional, illegal, or, at the least, violations of the charters of the intelligence organizations, that they have been the subject of such surveillance."

Those notified, it said, should be informed of "the right to request access to any files which may exist under the Freedom of Information Act and the privacy law" and should be advised that "the possible violation of their constitutional rights might entitle them to civil remedies in the federal court system."

Signing the letter were directors or officials of the American Civil Liberties Union, Americans for Democratic Action, the Center for National Security Studies, the Committee for Public Justice, the Institute for Policy Studies and the United Antiviolence Workers.

They told Ford that while the individuals should be notified, "we wish to bring to your attention our strong objection to releasing any names publicly without the permission of the individuals involved... Such action is an invasion of constitutional rights to privacy and simply compounds the injury already done."

The letter listed various intelligence programs including mail surveillance by the CIA and FBI that involved the opening of 215,820 letters in New York alone over a 20-year period, monitoring of American communications by the National Security Agency, the CIA's project CHAOS and the FBI's COINTELPRO operation aimed at various groups and dissidents, FBI and CIA burglaries, and the activities of the Internal Revenue Service's Special Staff in establishing files on some 8,500 Americans allegedly because of their political beliefs.

Probe wins nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ethics Committee bucked the Democratic leadership Wednesday and voted to go ahead in its investigation of Rep. Michael J. Harrington, D-Mass.

Rep. Robin Beard, R-Tenn., challenged Harrington for disclosing secret testimony about the CIA's activities in Chile.

The committee, created in 1968, voted 8-2 to take up the complaint, the first ever laid before it.

Board seeks open policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A major board of the United Methodist Church has recommended the 10 million member denomination adopt a more open policy toward church members' for homosexuals, it was announced today.

The 90-member Board of Church and Society proposed a revision of the denomination's basic social principles statement which would make the statement read: "We welcome all persons regardless of sexual orientation into the fellowship and membership" of the church.

The new language would replace the traditional Methodist statement that says "we do not condone the practice of homosexuality and consider this practice incompatible with Christian teaching."

But the proposed revision by the board left intact the statement's admonition that "the church does not recommend marriage between two persons of the same sex."

The issue of homosexuality has been a major problem area in the church, especially around the question of whether avowed homosexuals should be ordained to the ministry.

The board's proposed revision of the Social Principles Statement now goes before the church's policy-making General Conference which meets in April in Portland, Ore. The General Conference is the only body that can speak for the church.

Poster spoofs 'spooks'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A "covert coalition of over 60 concerned individuals" today put up "Halloween Week" posters purporting to list 22 secret or little known CIA addresses where burglars could get jobs as "assassins, burglars and wiretappers."

The 3 x 2 foot spoof poster, an anonymous release the news agencies said, was designed "to remind people that Washington, D.C. has spooks all-year round."

"Spook" is a commonly used term for intelligence agents.

The poster, placed at strategic locations around town, affixed the official seal of the CIA over an inch high headline reading "Employment Opportunities," and alleging that the agency "is now accepting applications for the following positions" and listed 13 categories.

They included "director of Central Intelligence, assassin (GS-18 mass murders), assassin (GS-13), Chief of State, burglar, perjurer, provocateur, corporate executive, wiretapper."

The GS number is a Civil Service seniority ratings. CIA "job benefits" were listed as "unlimited business opportunities; tax shelters and immunity from Internal Revenue Service audits; immunity from criminal prosecutions; travel and advanced education; top secret extras."

The poster listed the addresses of CIA subsidiaries and "proprietary" — businesses of enterprises operated as CIA "fronts" in the Washington metropolitan area.

A number of them are known to be authentic.

Sale gains OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, by taking no action at all, has cleared the way for the sale of $32 million worth of Sidewinder air-to-air missiles to Kuwait.

Congress was required to vote today to disapprove the sale, or else it would proceed.

No action was scheduled in either the House or Senate on the issue. A House subcommittee last week held hearings on the sale, but a staff member said today: "The committee took no further action and none is expected."

Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., had tried to rally support against the sale. He said it represented part of a "rightening escalation" of U.S. military sales to Kuwait and to Persian Gulf states, in general.

U.S. arms sales to the Persian Gulf have been averaging over $4 billion a year during 1974 and 1975.

Confidence crisis looms in US, Gallup aide says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans have become so pessimistic over the economic situation that the nation seems to be heading for "its greatest crisis of confidence" since the Great Depression, pollster George Gallup reported today.

Irving Crespi, executive vice president of the Gallup Organization, told the congressional Joint Economic Committee a just completed survey shows a "significant decline" in the way Americans view the quality of their own lives and prospects for the future.

He said the survey, conducted for The New York Times, marked the first such pessimistic downswing since Gallup began testing the American mood in 1959.

"If this trend persists, it is within the realm of possibility that the United States will in the near future experience its greatest crisis of confidence since 1933," Crespi said in a written report for a hearing on how consumers and businessmen view the economic situation.

Another pollster, Peter D. Hart, said Americans are "willing to go a lot farther than any of their leaders have been willing to take them" in economic policy, with a plurality of 41 per cent favoring major changes.

For example, he said, two-thirds would prefer working for an employee-owned company and 56 per cent would vote for a presidential candidate who advocated ending ownership and management of major businesses.

The Gallup figures showed those who were surveyed rate the quality of their lives as 6.1 on a 10-point scale and expect it to reach only 6.7 in five years. In 1959, the current rating averaged 6.6 and the five-year expectation was 8.8.

"As of now, the combined impact of double-digit inflation and increased unemployment is having a corrosive effect on American confidence that our economy can provide the good life," Crespi said.

He said the nation is "seriously divided" on whether to concentrate on licking inflation or unemployment.

Hart said his surveys show Americans have lost faith not only in government to right the economic situation but also in both political parties — with 57 per cent believing both Democrats and Republicans "are more in favor of big business" than in workers.

"All of the President's statistics and all of the President's men cannot put confidence back together again."

"To expect some spontaneous turn-about in public attitudes without a fundamental shift in who decides economic policy and who benefits from it is to seriously misunderstand the mood of the nation," Hart said.

Prosecutor files Hoppe bias suit

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Pros. Atty. William Hollifield filed a suit Wednesday in Fifth District Court on behalf of Betty Hoppe in her sex discrimination charges against the Idaho Department of Employment.

The suit names the state agency as defendant and asks the court to restore her to a former job with the department but at a grade 10, step 3 pay scale, rather than a grade 7 at which she formerly worked.

Further the court action asks back pay for Mrs. Hoppe from the date she resigned her position in December, 1973, to the time of reinstatement. Back pay is also to be based on a grade 10 rate, the suit charges.

The action also asks $1,000 per working day from July 9, 1975, until reinstatement for Mrs. Hoppe as punitive damages. The July 9 date is the date on which the Idaho Human Rights Commission ruled in favor of Mrs. Hoppe in her sex discrimination filing before that group. The human rights commission recommended to the department of employment at that time that Mrs. Hoppe be reinstated in her former position at the higher pay rate.

In addition, the district court further asks for a revision in the hiring, promotion and training procedure for women employees in the department of employment to eliminate sex discrimination.

Hollifield filed the action after lengthy hearings before the human rights commission and the findings of that group (in favor of Mrs. Hoppe.) Because the department of employment denied the commission's findings and declined to follow its recommendations, Mrs. Hoppe's only recourse was through court action.

She said today she has worked with Hollifield in preparation of the suit and is in accord with what the action seeks through district court.

Mrs. Hoppe resigned her position with the department of employment in 1973, charging she could no longer work under the conditions of sex discrimination. She charged in her action before the human rights commission that she held the position of "employer relations representative" in the Twin Falls office, but the position was held by male employees in other agency offices in the state at salary rates much higher than hers.

She also presented information showing her work record was excellent.

Hollifield said the department of employment has 20 days to submit an answer to his suit. An out-of-court settlement granting Mrs. Hoppe punitive damages would amount to more than $80,000 at this time and based on the $1,000 per working day asked in the suit.

Mrs. Hoppe was paid $673 per month as a grade 7 employee at the time she resigned. As a grade 10, step 3, she would have received $858 per month. A grade 10, step 3 employee now receives $981 per month. Based on these figures, Mrs. Hoppe would receive back pay amounting to $18,876 to $21,582 in back pay, depending on the 1973 or 1975 pay rate, providing the court ruled in her favor.

TF man honored

John Birrell plaque presented to Meigs

TWIN FALLS — The John Birrell memorial plaque for achievement in employment of handicapped persons was presented Wednesday night to Louis Meigs, administrator of the Twin Falls Clinic Hospital.

Mayor Winston Jones presented the award during the annual banquet of the Mayor's Committee for Employment of the Handicapped. Robert Colner, chairman of the committee, said other special recognition was given George K's Fine Foods and Western Products Co., an Eden firm manufacturing farm machines.

Colner said Frances Utt received the certificate for the Eden firm and George Kawamoto, owner of K's received the award for the restaurant. Both Jones and Colner expressed appreciation to the firms and others in the community working with the committee in assisting handicapped persons find employment to which they are suited and assist them in becoming self supporting. "At the same time," Colner said, "the employers generally find they have a high quality worker who is willing to work hard and turn out just a little more work than the average employee."

The John Birrell award is given by the committee annually in memory of the late Mr. Birrell who was an outstanding employer in helping handicapped persons.

Air pollution problems solved by sugar company

By GORDON JUDD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — An Amalgamated Sugar Co. spokesman said Wednesday his firm has solved the air pollution problems which have plagued the Twin Falls plant the past few weeks.

"We feel our smoke stacks and other equipment will pass inspection by state and federal personnel," Ed Bulgin, factory superintendent, said. "Our emissions look like they are less than the 20 per cent opacity test we will have to pass," he said.

Nov. 1st is the deadline set by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for Amalgamated to have its new antipollution controls, including filters on its smoke emissions, installed and functioning properly.

"When the company first started its boilers for the current sugar beet campaign Oct. 7th, dense black smoke poured over the Magic Valley, causing residents to wonder what was wrong. A visit to Amalgamated's plant Wednesday disclosed what appears to be total compliance with air pollution emission standards.

"The heart of the anti-pollution devices is the bag house filters," plant personnel explained. These filters are designed to trap the soot and other particles and when working properly will cause these pollutants to be carried off in waste water.

The filters themselves are long tubular bags made of specially treated glass cloth designed to withstand temperatures of 300-500 degrees. About 3,072 filter bags in all are connected to the exhaust gasses coming from the boilers.

"The problems started when we fired up the boilers and started the process of calibrating the new boiler equipment," Eric Larson, plant engineer, said. "The mixture could not be adjusted immediately and the black, soot filled, exhaust gasses poured into the bag house filters plugging them with a sticky-sooty deposit," he said.

"When we found that the bags were plugged up and not cleaning themselves as they were supposed to do we inspected the bags and at first thought we might have to replace all 3,072 bags."

Since it would have taken six to eight weeks and $65,000 to obtain new bags from the manufacturer, company officials understandably kept on trying to find a solution to cleaning up the bag filters, including taking some of the bags out and washing them in detergent," he said.

Introducing the 1976 Toyotas.

Corolla SR-5. No radical changes, but some reworking improvements. Like an 18% improvement in gas mileage over last year's Corolla, which even then had it all over most other small cars. With its standard gas-saving 5-speed overdrive transmission and steel-belted radial tires, the 1976 Corolla SR-5 got 33 mpg on the highway and 24 mpg in the city in EPA tests.

JUST GOOD GAS MILEAGE AND A LOW PRICE AREN'T ENOUGH ANYMORE. YOU WANT A CAR THAT LASTS, TOO.

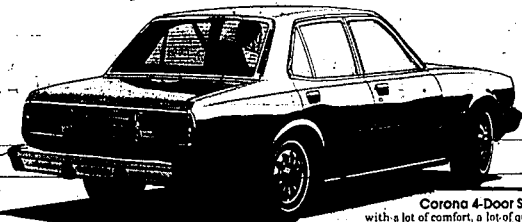

Of course you want good gas mileage and a low price. But is that really enough? What if your new little gas saver peters out. Zip. All your savings go right down the drain.

Take a tip. There's no reason to gamble on some completely new small car that's just come out. Not when you can buy a Toyota, built by people who have been small car specialists for over 40 years.

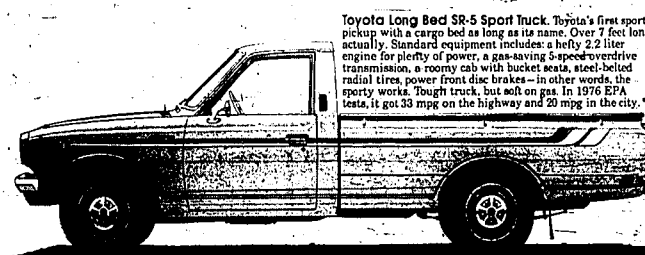

And it's a fact that 94% of all the Toyota automobiles sold in America since 1958 are still on the road. Still going strong.

It's because of the way Toyotas are built and tested (and tested and tested and tested). Did you know, for example, that every single Toyota is drowned with over 3 tons of water just to test for leaks? And that every engine is tested for 30 minutes before it ever spends a minute in your Toyota?

So if you're going to get your hands on a small car — why not get a Toyota. It just might keep your fingers from getting burned.

Corona 4-Door Sedan. If you want a small car with a lot of room for a lot of quiet and a lot of room, stop. This is it. It's really the car that built our reputation for quality. You can see it for yourself in the way the doors and metal trim fit. The upholstery is smooth and taut. And be sure to see its 1976 EPA test ratings: 34 mpg highway, 20 mpg city.

Toyota Long Bed SR-5 Sport Truck. Toyota's first sport pickup with a cargo bed as long as its cab. Over 7 feet long, actually. Standard equipment includes a hefty 2.2 liter engine for plenty of power, a gas-saving 5-speed overdrive transmission, a roomy cab with bucket seats, steel-belted radial tires, power front disc brakes — in other words, the sporty works. Tough truck, but soft on gas. In 1976 EPA tests, it got 33 mpg on the highway and 20 mpg in the city.

TOYOTA

Get your hands on a Toyota. You'll never let go.

*Remember: These EPA mileage results are estimates. The actual mileage you get will vary depending upon the type of driving you do, your driving habits, how well you maintain your car, optional equipment installed and road and weather conditions.

Default first, then federal help for NY

WASHINGTON — President Ford, astonished by fierce antagonism throughout the nation against any federal bail-out of New York City, has passed this private word to top officials: no federal help until after the city defaults.
Such hard-pressed obduracy may cost Jerry Rubin the title of Ebenezer Scrooge. But from the standpoint of practical politics, it puts him four-square both with his own party and the vast majority of American voters.
Indeed, Ford took pains to telephone Vice President Nelson Rockefeller ten days ago with friendly advice. Heading in Hobart Rowen's interview with Rockefeller in the Washington Post, that the vice president predicted "catastrophe" if the Big Apple had to default. The President gently admonished Rockefeller not to make things "more confusing."
Some high administration officials say that Rockefeller has pulled back from his electing-in-breach with the President. In his speech in Indianapolis last week, Rockefeller appeared to temporize (saying he "completely agreed" with Ford that the city has to put its financial house in order before it gets help).
But that leaves unchanged the fundamental difference between President and vice president.
Rockefeller wants the city to prove its future solvency by budget cuts before the December bond default deadline, then receive massive federal aid in the form of bond guarantees to avoid default.

The President's hardened position is exactly the opposite: only default can make federal aid politically saleable. Any federal lifesaving operations before default, he now feels, would be perceived across the country as a bail-out for rich bankers who hold almost 50 per cent of all tax-exempt municipal securities in the nation and, hence, would be the first to reap the harvest of federal intervention.
Evidence to support this is flowing into the White House. For example:
A poll of 1972 Republican national convention delegates from Western States, commissioned by the Western Conference of Republican Governors, came out 253 to 12 against federal aid to New York City.
Item: The bail-out issue has begun to dominate the regular nightly telephone polls taken by Albert Sindinger's polling organization. At this writing, Sindinger shows national and all-out sentiment of more than 4 to 1 and even in New York state, a pro-bail-out ratio of only 3 to 1.
Item: An oft-quoted remark leaning toward federal bail-out by Sen. Lloyd Benson, running both for the Democratic presidential nomination and Senate reelection from Texas, uncensored withering anti-bankers political fire at home. The strong pro-bail-out statements of the most popular politician in Texas, John B. Connally, have subjected him to hostile editorial attack.

One well-informed Texas politician tells us: "New York bail-out is now the hottest single issue in this state."
Perhaps most telling is the way an anguished Congress, almost 2-to-1 Democratic, is pulling back from the salutuous bail-out question.
The President's legislative experts a month ago were worrying over what Ford should do. If but when Congress sent him a bail-out bill. Today, thanks to the national force of politics, pre-default aid in any form looks unlikely with only five weeks before the city's cash flow makes bond redemption impossible.
If the President sticks to this present course, there will be a clear winner inside his administration: Secretary of the Treasury William Simon, arch-critic of any federal aid before default.
Yet, no mood of triumph dominates the Treasury, where there is undue handling of troubling questions that cannot be fully answered until after default. For example: with New York bankers predicting financial chaos if default occurs, would the country react in a psychological frenzy, rushing to redeem gilt-edged municipals in other cities and states and even making runs on local banks?
Simon's economic experts claim the evidence is to the contrary. A Maryland tax-exempt bond issue, for example, sold quickly last week at a comparatively low 5.27 per cent. The market in municipals generally has been good, undercutting the fear campaign of the New York bankers.

Moreover, Treasury men are confident of their post-default plan: a "check cash flow in the form of a federal loan to meet current bond needs." Then, with the U.S. Treasury riding herd on the city's return to fiscal solvency and with the default itself acting as the catalyst for essential peeling of runaway costs (including city pensioners), New York City will be forced into a retrenchment that might be impossible under a pre-default bail-out.
Sticking to his plan over the next five years will not be easy. But given the hardened new mood in the Oval Office, there is no doubt the effort will be made.

Tough questions for Soviets too

For decades the American television public has become used to hearing about the Soviet Union through a series of cold-war filters.
Almost every message about the Soviets has come to us through an anti-Russian ideological bias which grew naturally out of the cold war and several hot wars against Russian-supported Communist forces.
This anti-Russian bias has continued even though the official U. S. policy of Detente now treats the Russians as friends, not foes.
So it was with great interest that we listened in on a series of recent telecasts on A.M. America, shown locally in the morning on KMTV.
The series involves Russian people talking about Russia. The programs are remarkable for the lack of anti-Russian bias we have become accustomed to.
For example, today's program from Moscow featured an interview with a Radio Moscow commentator. He obviously was a skilled communicator (or propagandist, depending on your point of view). He spoke effectively in flawless American (not English) accent.
Unlike most questions put to a Russian by an American newsmen, the A.M. America questioning was designed to let the Russian make his own point in his own terms:
Paraphrased, the questioning went something like this: "As you know, America is troubled by high rates of inflation. You don't seem to have any in Russia. Can you explain this?"
The Soviet broadcaster moved into a classic defense of the Soviet planned economy. Russia can't have inflation, he said, because we plan for so much production and plan for so much income and the two can't get out of balance to create inflation.
It went down like candy.
Any student of economics should have plenty of questions about what the Russian said, but the American interviewer didn't.
The Russian went on to say that his country now has a socialist society, one in which each contributes according to his ability and each receives according to the quality and quantity of his work.
Again no American questions.
"Someday, when Russia is much wealthier, it will have a Communist Society, in which each gives according to his ability and each receives according to his needs, he said.
Again no questions.
The Soviet planned economy is pushing real consumer income up so fast that it won't be long before Russian standards of living are higher than American ones, he claimed.
Again, no questions.
At the end of the program the American interviewer gave what amounted to a sports-caster's pat on the back, a "Well, here's wishing you luck in reaching a socialist society and, eventually, a communist one."
That's some change from what we've been used to hearing.
It probably is a good idea to let Russian officials speak their minds directly to Americans. Their system ultimately will rise or fall on its merits.
But it makes no sense to avoid asking tough questions to supporters of the Soviet system when tough questions would be standard fare in any interview with a supporter of the American system.
Free play of ideas also means competing ideas will clash. There wasn't much clash on A.M. America today.

Exploitation by UNICEF?

Editor, Times-News:
We have always been told that the purpose of UNICEF is to feed starving children around the world and because of this many good concerned people have taken up the UNICEF banner. While I have respect for these people, it might be wise to take a closer look at UNICEF.
First of all, UNICEF is a United Nations organization (United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund), the same United Nations which enthusiastically welcomed, with a standing ovation, the terrorist PLO leader, Yasir Arafat; the same U. N. which has tacitly ignored the slaughter and oppression of literally hundreds of millions of people in Red China and the USSR; the same U. N. whose "peace keeping" forces murdered patients in civilian hospitals in Katanga; the same U. N. which involved the U. S. in no-win wars in Korea and Vietnam. Are we not to believe that the U. N. (which is composed of the very governments which create starvation conditions in their respective countries) is the leading bleeding-heart for hungry children?
The U. S. only accounts for about 4 per cent of the world's population. If the U.S. distributed all her wealth around the world, the world would have a comparable standard of living for approximately two weeks, then everybody would be poor.
Doesn't it make more sense to quit supporting the greedy, third-world Communist governments in the U. N. and allow them to collapse under their own weight so that the citizens can keep the fruits of their own labor and thereby feed themselves and have the dignity of self-sustenance?
It may come as a surprise to most people that the yearly UNICEF Halloween drive accounts for less than two per cent of UNICEF's total funds. We're already "donated" the rest through taxes. Does any reasonable person expect two per cent to feed the world's hungry when 98 per cent hasn't made a perceptible difference?
What then is the real reason behind UNICEF's massive annual Halloween drive? The real importance to UNICEF of the Halloween drive was given in a bulletin prepared by the U.S. Committee for UNICEF which said: "The truth in connection with this is that Trick-or-Treat for UNICEF is primarily an education program" (emphasis mine). It seems offensive that the charitable feelings that people have for hungry children should be exploited for the purpose of trying to create favorable attitudes toward the United Nations.

Old Nixon already back on top

© Los Angeles Times
WASHINGTON — The New Nixon was sitting on the porch of La Casa Pacifica at San Clemente slumped in his chair staring out at the sea.
The old Nixon carrying a golf bag came out jauntily whistling "Hail to the Chief."
"Where are you going?" the New Nixon asked bitterly.
"I'm going to play golf with the Teamsters at La Casa," the Old Nixon replied matter-of-factly.
"How can you play golf after what we've been through?" the New Nixon asked.
"Cheer up, Dicky boy," the Old Nixon said. "We're on the comeback trail. Look at this. We're on the cover of Newsweek magazine. Did you ever dream we'd ever make the cover of Newsweek again?"
The New Nixon shook his head. "I don't get it. You never give up, do you?"
The Old Nixon said, "You're damn right I never give up. They had me counted out after the presidential election in 1960. They said I couldn't get elected dogcatcher after I lost for governor in 1962. But I fooled them, Dicky, and I'm going to fool them again. They haven't heard the last of Richard Milhous Nixon."
"I would believe it if I didn't see it with my own eyes," the New Nixon said.
"Wait until our book comes out," the Old Nixon said. "Just wait until they hear our side of the story. There will be more than Teamsters wanting to play golf with me then."
"Richard," said the New Nixon, "do you really think we can make a comeback? Or are you just saying that to make me feel better?"
"It's in the cards, Dicky. After my interviews with David Frost, the American people are going to see that all we were trying to do was protect the Presidency of the United States. Oh, there will be some who will say we lied and we cheated and we brought disgrace on the office. But we won't hate them for saying that."

"We won't?" the New Nixon said.
"No," replied the Old Nixon, "but we'll keep their names on file cards and someday when we're back in power, they're going to be sorry they ever made an issue of Watergate."
"What are we going to say about Watergate in our book?"
ART BUCHWALD
"It was a mistake, and we should have taken more of an interest in what our staff was doing. They let us down. But we're not going to blame them. We're taking full responsibility for their actions, no matter how contemptible they were and no matter how much we disapproved of the illegal manner in which they carried out our orders. As President it was our job to see that they did not violate the trust we had given them, in spite of all the other things we had on our mind during that momentous period in American history."
"I think Penia will buy it," the New Nixon said.
"It will just be a matter of time, Dicky, before we're on top again," the Old Nixon said. "We'll take a trip to China, then to the Soviet Union and then to the Middle East. They owe us over there, not like the creeps in this country who always had it in for us."

The New Nixon was suddenly coming out of his lethargy.
"You know, you might just possibly swing it," he said. "Six months ago I wouldn't have given 10¢ minutes of tape for our chances of making a comeback. But now with the book and the TV and the Teamsters I'm starting to feel like a new man."
The Old Nixon slapped him on the back. "Atta boy, Dicky. Don't forget what they tried to do to Patton."
"Richard," the New Nixon said, "do you think they'll invite us to the Republican National Convention?"
"Invite us?" chuckled the Old Nixon. "Would you believe the keynote speaker?"

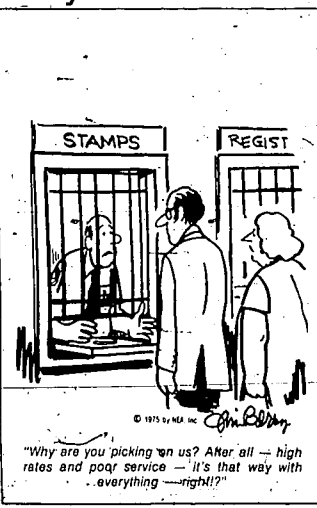

Missile estimates run short

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW
© Washington Star
WASHINGTON — Most of the time since the 1960 fear of a "missile gap" proved unreal, the United States has underestimated the Soviet Union's nuclear-armed ballistic missile force, according to the director of the Defense Intelligence Agency.
Lt. Gen. Daniel O. Graham added that it now appears a large portion of Soviet intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) will have multiple warheads, "thus providing the Soviets with significantly more warheads than previously estimated" by U.S. intelligence agencies.
Graham's testimony last July 21 to the Congressional Joint Economic Committee's subcommittee on priorities and economy in government has just been made public.
The subcommittee was studying the allocation of resources to the Soviet Union and China, updating its similar previous investigations.
The censured testimony indicated that Graham was discussing intelligence estimates since 1960 by the combined U.S. intelligence community, including the DIA and CIA.
"We have tended to overestimate the pace at which (Soviet ICBM) programs are introduced in the early stages of deployment and have underestimated the ultimate magnitude of Soviet programs," Graham said.

During the mid-1960s, he testified, the Soviet strategic missile force deployed SS9 and SS11 ICBM "at a rate much higher than expected."
Comparing published U.S. predictions of future Soviet missile strength with later published estimates for the same dates, Washletter found that between 1962 and 1971 U.S. ICBM predictions varied between 53 and 80 per cent of estimated actual strength.
Graham testified that "it was not until 1970 that our estimates began to catch up with the actual Soviet level of deployment. Unfortunately, we began to underestimate again in 1972."
"It is now apparent," Graham said in the censured transcript, "from the (deleted) that the size of the ultimate Soviet MIRV program will have been underestimated."
"Where we had projected two MIRV systems of three to six warheads, the Soviet developed three MIRV ICBMs with four to eight warheads. It now appears that a large portion of the ICBM force will be MIRV, thus providing the Soviets with significantly more warheads than previously estimated."

Gem bankruptcy rates increase

By LINDA LEE Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Bankruptcies in Idaho and Twin Falls are keeping pace with the huge national increase.

Bankruptcy petitions for the United States rose to a few all-time high in fiscal 1975, reports Commerce Clearing House.

Overall, the 1975 U.S. total of 254,484 case filings marked a 34.3 per cent jump from the previous year.

In Idaho, the case filings for fiscal 1975 marked a 22 per cent rise over the previous year.

These increases include totals of both business and non-business bankruptcy petitions, as well as increases in wage earner plans.

Judge Young reported that in 1974 the total cases filed were 852 and in 1975 there were 1,373.

As usual, the most common form of bankruptcy in Idaho and the U.S. is non-business, said Judge Young. The individual "is willing to surrender to creditors his non-exempt assets and receive a discharge of his debts." As far as business bankruptcy is concerned, Young said, "In Idaho it's mostly small businesses that go bankrupt."

Five dairies filed bankruptcies this past year in the Magic Valley.

L. James Koutnik, a trustee of bankruptcy for the Magic Valley area, said he "is seeing a marked increase in bankruptcies but especially cases with no assets to disperse."

"People are getting much smarter on taking bankruptcy," Koutnik said, "more and more people are taking it on six-year intervals to clean up their debts."

Koutnik said the increase in filings in the Magic Valley is with straight personal bankruptcy.

Koutnik and Judge Young agreed that in this time of recession one of the major causes of bankruptcy is merchants who advance credit to obviously poor credit risks. They also blamed high medical expense for many bankruptcies.

Views sought at TF meet

TWIN FALLS — The public will get a chance to speak his mind on traffic problems along Blue Lakes Boulevard North and at North Five Points at a highway district informational meeting tonight.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn. All interested and concerned persons are urged to attend.

Ev Kidner, assistant district engineer, said the meeting is intended to let highway engineers "explain what we basically put together as a proposal."

The "basic plan" calls for widening of Blue Lakes Boulevard North to accommodate four lanes and a 14-foot median strip for left turns from North Five Points to Pole Line Drive.

North Five Points, under the proposed plan, would be cut to a four-legged intersection, with access to and from Blue Lakes Boulevard cut off. Traffic would cross over from Blue Lakes Boulevard on Ninth Avenue East to Shoshone Street, with a signal light at the Shoshone and Ninth Avenue intersection.

Engineers from the Idaho Department of Transportation's highway division will be present at the meeting to "ask people to give us their ideas of their needs and concerns for the area," Kidner said.

Contract awarded

TWIN FALLS — A construction contract has been awarded to Cannon Construction Co. for a building to house the new office of First Security Bank of Idaho, in Twin Falls.

This building will be the second office in Twin Falls and located at the corner of Addison Avenue East and Elm Streets. The 3,500 square foot, one-story, modular type structure will be entirely occupied by the bank and will feature diagonal cedar siding exterior walls with the interior door-of-orange and brown. Except for the lobby, which will be brick, the building will be completed throughout.

There will be four inside teller stations, a drive-up window and two additional visual auto tellers providing capacity to serve three cars simultaneously. Other features will be an employee lunchroom and a conference room.

Cost of the new building will be $250,000 including furniture and fixtures and is scheduled for completion in the spring of 1976.

Burglaries reported

TWIN FALLS — Reports of three burglaries were under investigation today by Twin Falls city police.

Ron Stansell of Ron's Woodworking Shop, 736 Main Ave. S. told police someone broke into his locked shop while he was at lunch. He said thieves removed $1,045 worth of electrical tools and equipment.

Donna Lakey, 307 Martin St., told police someone entered her home and removed two rings sometime Wednesday. She estimated loss at $350.

A small cash box containing $15 was taken from the Magic Valley Copy Products, 738 Main Ave. S. told police, sometime Wednesday night, police reports showed.

Freed Americans smile on release by N. Viets

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Nine smiling Americans flew out of North Vietnam to freedom today, nearly eight months after being captured during the Communist conquest of South Vietnam.

The Americans, looking thin but ebullient, landed with five other freed foreigners at Bangkok airport this afternoon after a stopover in Vientiane.

Peter Whitlock, a released Australian communications expert, was grabbed by what appeared to be embassy officials after landing and was pushed into a car. He was whisked away from the airport for reasons not clear.

The other 13 refugees were greeted by U.S. Ambassador Charles Whitehouse, who boarded the Royal Air Lao plane briefly as it rolled to a stop and then descended to the tarmac with the group.

The nine Americans, two Canadians, two Filipinos and one Australian left the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi shortly before noon on a flight sponsored by the United Nations Commission for Refugees.

"We're fine, really fine," Mrs. Carolyn Miller of Houghton, N.Y., said after stepping down from the aircraft in a stopover at Vientiane. Mrs. Miller, 35, and her husband, John, 45, were missionaries translating the Bible for the Summer Institute of Linguistics in Ban Me Thuot.

All but one of the Americans was captured at Ban Me Thuot.

John Lewis, an American official, was seized when the port city of Phan Rang fell to the Communists on April 20.

Other freed Americans were Paul Strunarik, U.S. provincial representative in Ban Me Thuot; Richard Phillips, his wife, Lillian, and Betty Mitchell, all missionaries, and Jay Scarborough, a student doing research under a Ford Foundation grant.

Blast injures 4 Yanks

LONDON (UPI) — Four Americans were among the 18 persons injured by a bomb blast near an Italian restaurant in downtown London Wednesday night, the city's second bombing within a week.

The bomb exploded just before 9:30 p.m. near the Trattoria Fiori restaurant, 100 yards from the American embassy in the prosperous Mayfair district.

Most of the victims were discharged from hospital after treatment for facial cuts from flying glass, a police spokesman said.

Two Americans, Alan and Ruth Ward of Riverside, Conn., were detained in hospital overnight for treatment of head and neck.

Two other Americans, businessman Edwin Daly and his 10-year old daughter Ruth, were discharged from the hospital after treatment for cuts from flying glass.

No warning was given of the blast that left the Italian restaurant "blown out shell" according to one witness. Bomb squad detectives estimated the device contained between seven and ten pounds of explosive.

The explosion was the second bomb last in London within a week. Caroline Kennedy, daughter of the American president, narrowly escaped injury last Thursday when a car bomb exploded outside the house where she was staying.

Israeli cargo through Suez

A United Press International spokesman said the first Israeli-bound cargo will be allowed through the Suez Canal since it was reopened. Egyptian and Israeli officials said today.

Ahmed Abdelhamid, an Egyptian official of the Canal Authority, said the Greek ship Olympus would join a southbound convoy of ships passing through the canal at dawn Friday.

"It is carrying about 8,000 tons of cement," Ammar said.

The Olympus would become the first ship carrying Israeli goods to use the canal since the Sept. 4 signing of the second Sinai peace agreement bet-

Slav jet crashes

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (UPI) — A chartered Yugoslav jet plane with 120 passengers and crew crashed while approaching Prague airport in fog today.

The plane was carrying 115 passengers and a crew of five. A Czech airline spokesman said 60 persons were killed.

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug in Belgrade gave unconfirmed reports of the number of survivors at between 15 and

The DC9 of the Inex Adria charter airline crashed in fog while bringing Czech trade union members and their families home from vacation in Yugoslavia.

It went down the northeastern section of Prague in the district of Sedlice near a large hotel.

Details of the crash were given by the Czech CSA.

A CSA spokesman said the aircraft had been chartered by the Czech trade union in the Yugoslav city of Ljubljana to bring vacationers home.

Sadat wants talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has asked the U.N. General Assembly to revive the stalled Middle East peace talks in Geneva with the participation of the Palestinian guerrillas.

Israel, U.N. Ambassador Chaim Herzog immediately condemned the request as "ludicrous," but diplomatic sources said the General Assembly would probably approve Sadat's proposal.

Sadat said Wednesday the Palestinian Liberation Organization, the main guerrilla group, should join the talks on an "equal footing" with the other participants — Egypt, Israel, Syria, Jordan, the United States and the Soviet Union.

"There will be no peace in the region without a political settlement of the Palestine problem," he told the General Assembly. "It is inconceivable, nay, utterly unacceptable, that the Palestinian people should remain homeless and dispersed."

The Geneva conference was established after the 1973 Middle East War to find a peaceful settlement.

The conference has been reduced, however, to a formality, while most of the actual peace talks have been conducted by Israel with its Arab neighbors through the mediation of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Injured

U. S. Ambassador Philip Sanchez was injured slightly Wednesday when a Honduran jetliner skidded off a runway in a rainstorm at Tegucigalpa on a flight from New Orleans. Several passengers were hurt. (UPI)

March on

CASABLANCA, Morocco (UPI) — Mothers in hooded robes and veils raised their arms in blessing and neighbors lined the railroad track to watch the departure of about 10,000 volunteers for King Hassan's mass march into Spanish Sahara.

17 1/2 pound beet
THIS Detroit variety dark red table beet outdid itself in Dr. Jim Wright's garden northeast of Kimberly. He said it weighs 17 1/2 pounds, including the top. A seed company man wants to keep the beet in a cold place through the winter then replant it next spring to grow for seed.

Moving, travel claims approved

BOISE (UPI) — Acknowledging its regulations are ambiguous, the State Board of Examiners approved controversial travel and moving claims today for a new employee of the Public Utilities Commission.
At the same time, the board decreed that representatives of the attorney general's and state auditor's offices sit down to review both the clarity and substance of the regulations.
At one point in the sometimes heated meeting, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus acknowledged he approved the new moving regulations for state employees without reading all the way through them. After the meeting, the other board members said they, too, were unaware of all the provisions.
PUC President M. Karl Shurtliff made an impassioned plea to the board to approve the some $2,000 in moving and travel claims of David W. Haderlie, a new transportation investigator.
He said Haderlie incurred the expenses with the understanding that the moving regulations applied to him. He said Haderlie, although new to the PUC, had been employed by another state agency as a weighmaster in Idaho Falls before joining the commission in Boise.
Shurtliff said he felt the regulations were sufficiently vague that Haderlie legitimately was confused. He also chastised the board for the manner in which it distributed the new regulations last July and for not sending them to department heads.
Had the PUC known it would cost some $2,000 to move Haderlie to Boise, he said, the commission might not have hired the $90 per month investigator. He also said he felt higher-paid state employees might not have been scrutinized as closely on moving expenses, a point with which the auditor and the board disagreed.
Shurtliff said another weighmaster hired by the PUC, Kenneth Baer, was told the moving regulations did not apply to him when he moved to Boise from Twin Falls, he said Baer since has filed a grievance.

In Haderlie's case, Shurtliff said, he felt the state had a "moral obligation" to pay the claims since Haderlie incurred the expenses thinking he would be reimbursed.
Shurtliff also criticized Auditor Joe R. Williams for questioning the claim and said he owes Haderlie an apology. Williams said it is his job to question claims — particularly those which might set precedents. He also said the PUC in no way informed him Haderlie worked for the state before joining the PUC.
"I am a little bit disturbed that you, yourself, knowing this was a borderline case did not notify our office with a cover letter," Williams said.
Besides criticizing the way the regulations were written and disseminated, Shurtliff criticized the regulations in substance and suggested they be repealed and the department heads be allowed to decide on claims.
After the meeting, board members said perhaps department heads should have more leeway. But they said they also felt there should be some guidelines so that all state employees are treated fairly and equally.
"We don't mind complying with reasonable regulations and policies," Shurtliff said later. "We just want to know what they are."
Williams said he also objected to the way the regulations were written, adding that both the travel and moving regulations are difficult for his office to administer.
One section to which Haderlie availed himself provides for up to $2,000 in real estate fees for employees who have to sell their homes because of transfers. Shurtliff said he felt this needs amendment.
Board members said they were unaware of that provision when they okayed the regulations proposed by a committee of state officials.

BIRD CARE SURVEYED
SALMON — Recommendations to protect raptorial birds inhabiting the Challis Planning Unit of the Bureau of Land Management have been submitted to the bureau.
Stephen William Platt, a Ph.D. candidate at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, conducted a study of the unit during August.
The unit is the first of some 212 on BLM lands for which an environmental impact statement is to be drafted under recent court order.
Platt in his report to the BLM commented that birds of prey have lived in the Challis area probably since before the appearance of man.
"Habitat management is the most important long-term consideration," he said. "The monitoring of present population reproductive success and a study of need and feasibility of utilizing the techniques of nest site improvement, or nesting manipulation should be carried out as soon as possible."
"Endangered and threatened species can be aided by captive propagation, restocking, and egg manipulations (where federal permits can be obtained)."
"These species should receive priority in land use planning. Locations of eyries should not be publicized. Public education, ban of the use of toxic substances, modification of any steel traps, ban of hunting from aircraft, continued ban on pesticide use and additional research are also important recommendations."

SCOUT EVENTS BEGIN
TWIN FALLS — The archery shoot, the first event of the 1975-76 Snake River Area Council Boy Scouts of America Explorer Olympic, was completed Oct. 23.
The event was held at the Archery Club in Twin Falls, according to Lavear Thorbeck, Twin Falls, Council Explorer Olympics general chairman.
Explorers from all parts of the council competed in the shoot. Jim Maxson, Post 86, sponsored by the Rupert Ward LDS Church won the gold medal with a score of 205 of a possible 240 on the indoor range.
Scott Wayment, Post 500, sponsored by the Idaho Fish and Game won the bronze medal with a score of 132.
Event chairman was Robert Schroeder, Twin Falls. Facilities and technical assistance were provided by Don Labrum and the Twin Falls Archery Club.
The Explorer Olympics will continue throughout the school year with at least one Olympic event each month.
Events upcoming are the safe driving road rally, Nov. 22; table tennis tournament, Dec. 16; swim meet, Dec. 30; general knowledge test, chess tournament, checkers tournament, all Jan. 22; bowling tournament, Feb. 21; basketball tournament, March, and volleyball tournament, April.
Good, silver and bronze medals will be awarded in each event and team points will be accumulated at the rate of five for gold, three for silver and one for bronze.
The top three Explorer posts in total points at the end of the nine-month-long competition will be invited to the National Explorer Olympics at Ft. Collins, Colo., June 28 — July 2.

TF BOARD INTERVIEWS
TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls School Board interviewed two more architects Tuesday night to get cost estimates on a new junior high school building.
Neil Small of Boise and Richardson and Richardson, Associates of Salt Lake City were the architect firms interviewed at the special meeting, according to Supt. George Staudaher.
Besides the interviews, Staudaher reports that the board engaged in general discussion about the progress of developing the bond.
At the next regular board meeting Nov. 11 two more architects will be interviewed. Staudaher said they would be Ed Peterson of CTA Architects, who designed the new Sawtooth Elementary School, and Richard Heindel of Boise.
Staudaher said after the board decides on an architect it will begin looking for a fiscal agent.

Buhl candidates differ on growth

BUHL — Candidates for the two-year post on the Buhl City Council say they will follow the wishes of voters on the dog-leash advisory ballot in Tuesday's city election.
Theophil Kostecka, 38, Green-Giant employee, and Dave Munroe, 37, auto agency owner, are vying for the two-year council term.
Kostecka transferred to Buhl with Green Giant firm from Blencoe, Minn., where he was born. He has lived in Buhl three years, serves on the three years, serves on the library board and volunteer fire department and belongs to the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He would like to see some beautification of the city and in addition to improvement of streets and curbs, mentioned "hopefully we could get rid of some of the weeds." He also would like to see more growth in Buhl and have the town get more industry, if possible.
His opponent differs on the issue of growth. Munroe said he would want to "carefully screen any industry coming here for its effect on the environment."
The auto dealer was born in Reno, Nev., and has lived in Buhl the last 10 years. He served a term on the council previously and has had his own business the past five years.
Munroe feels "fiscal responsibility of tax dollars" is the most important issue for the council. He said as a business man he "is experienced in watching tax dollars."
He feels "we should continue upgrading the town," but should not seek heavy industry.

Bird care surveyed

SALMON — Recommendations to protect raptorial birds inhabiting the Challis Planning Unit of the Bureau of Land Management have been submitted to the bureau.
Stephen William Platt, a Ph.D. candidate at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, conducted a study of the unit during August.
The unit is the first of some 212 on BLM lands for which an environmental impact statement is to be drafted under recent court order.
Platt in his report to the BLM commented that birds of prey have lived in the Challis area probably since before the appearance of man.
"Habitat management is the most important long-term consideration," he said. "The monitoring of present population reproductive success and a study of need and feasibility of utilizing the techniques of nest site improvement, or nesting manipulation should be carried out as soon as possible."
"Endangered and threatened species can be aided by captive propagation, restocking, and egg manipulations (where federal permits can be obtained)."
"These species should receive priority in land use planning. Locations of eyries should not be publicized. Public education, ban of the use of toxic substances, modification of any steel traps, ban of hunting from aircraft, continued ban on pesticide use and additional research are also important recommendations."

Scout events begin

TWIN FALLS — The archery shoot, the first event of the 1975-76 Snake River Area Council Boy Scouts of America Explorer Olympic, was completed Oct. 23.
The event was held at the Archery Club in Twin Falls, according to Lavear Thorbeck, Twin Falls, Council Explorer Olympics general chairman.
Explorers from all parts of the council competed in the shoot. Jim Maxson, Post 86, sponsored by the Rupert Ward LDS Church won the gold medal with a score of 205 of a possible 240 on the indoor range.
Scott Wayment, Post 500, sponsored by the Idaho Fish and Game won the bronze medal with a score of 132.
Event chairman was Robert Schroeder, Twin Falls. Facilities and technical assistance were provided by Don Labrum and the Twin Falls Archery Club.
The Explorer Olympics will continue throughout the school year with at least one Olympic event each month.
Events upcoming are the safe driving road rally, Nov. 22; table tennis tournament, Dec. 16; swim meet, Dec. 30; general knowledge test, chess tournament, checkers tournament, all Jan. 22; bowling tournament, Feb. 21; basketball tournament, March, and volleyball tournament, April.
Good, silver and bronze medals will be awarded in each event and team points will be accumulated at the rate of five for gold, three for silver and one for bronze.
The top three Explorer posts in total points at the end of the nine-month-long competition will be invited to the National Explorer Olympics at Ft. Collins, Colo., June 28 — July 2.

TF board interviews

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls School Board interviewed two more architects Tuesday night to get cost estimates on a new junior high school building.
Neil Small of Boise and Richardson and Richardson, Associates of Salt Lake City were the architect firms interviewed at the special meeting, according to Supt. George Staudaher.
Besides the interviews, Staudaher reports that the board engaged in general discussion about the progress of developing the bond.
At the next regular board meeting Nov. 11 two more architects will be interviewed. Staudaher said they would be Ed Peterson of CTA Architects, who designed the new Sawtooth Elementary School, and Richard Heindel of Boise.
Staudaher said after the board decides on an architect it will begin looking for a fiscal agent.

'Tools of trade' stolen

BURLEY — A weekend burglary set the culprit up for continued pursuit of that trade or becoming a locksmith.
Tom Martina was burglarized late Friday or early Saturday. Taken were three sets of lock-picks, including a master set, and a lock puller. The thief also got $15 cash.
Police said entry apparently was gained through the back garage door to the locksmith section of the building.

Idaho

Small Idaho crowd celebrates strike

BOISE (UPI) — A sign proclaiming "Sisterhood is Powerful" waved over the heads of some 36 women and six men who gathered on the Idaho Statehouse steps Wednesday to celebrate a national women's strike.

The group included two infants.

"Human Liberation NOW," "Trust in the goddess, she will provide," "Totally free means totally equal," and "Adam was a rough draft" expressed the sentiments of the gathering.

Sitting in the bright sunlight, they sang and chanted, read poetry and essays and named Wayne Cornils, president and general manager of KFXD radio station, in Meridian, "Oppressor of the Month."

Cornils, when informed about the award granted because of his editorial opposing the strike and wishing "Alice and her munchkins will on their day," laughed and said:

"Oh son-of-a-gun, I don't think this is the way to bring about attention to what they want to do... if they want to earn respect, they don't get it by parading around and displaying signs."

"I think what they need to do on the problem, and I'm not sure there is one, is number one, convince the media that there is a problem so they have the facility to express their needs and they must also get the general public on their side. I find it difficult to believe that the general public supports the procedures that they use."

He said the editorial was done to stimulate thinking rather than convince anyone and was accepted as a "fun kind of thing."

Alice Bliss, a member of the statehouse housekeeping staff, was among the few spectators at the demonstration.

She said she went to work Wednesday and was watching the demonstration because "I'm curious."

"I have to work. My husband is an invalid and I have four children. But I not only have to work, I like to work," she said.

Against a background of chants for "freedom now," Mrs. Blackstone observed that the trouble with young people today "is they do anything they can do to get out of work."

Bill Kondracki said he was taking part in the demonstration "because I believe it is time half the world stops oppressing the other half."

"I'm here on my lunch hour but I feel half-an-hour I can give here is better than no time at all."

Karen Palmer, a student from Portland, Ore., said she joined in the rally "because sisters should be free and I want to spread around the world to tell other people to let other people be free."

Mary Commons of Boise said she heard about the rally over the radio and was "surprised to find something like this was happening in Boise."

A paralegal who will start work Nov. 4 with Legal Aid, she said one reason she attended the demonstration was because of friends who were taking part in it.

Watching the demonstrators from a sidewalk, Chuck Skiles of Boise said, "I think it's neat. I'm all for it. It's common sense there should be equal wages for equal work."

The women on the steps read a list of things they would and would not do during "Alice Doesen's" day, including doing what Alice wants to do, avoiding volunteer work, and refusing to accept the media concept of what women are supposed to be like.

Arguments on 15 appeals set for Gem high court

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court next week will hear oral arguments on 15 appeals including one by the Nampa-Meridian Irrigation District to avoid paying for damages caused by a break in the Ridenbaugh Canal in 1973.

The irrigation district case will be heard at 1:30 p.m. Monday, Fourth District Court Judge

Alfred Hagan found the irrigation district liable in damages to 25 Boise property owners.

Judge Hagan determined the canal broke because of the negligence of the irrigation district in constructing and maintaining the canal.

There also is an appeal scheduled for arguments Nov. 5 alleging errors in different aspects of a judgment of the Sixth District Court decreeing priorities among claimants to certain property in Blaine County.

The action was instituted by Russ Hallard and Family Achievement Institute to foreclose a mortgage which they held on property now owned by Lava Hot Springs Resort, Inc.

Other parties in the trial court proceedings, including the federal government, assert claims against the property under liens which they held against the alleged former owner of the property.

In another case, the Idaho Tax Commission claims that Boise Cascade was deficient in its collection of sales tax during the years 1963-67, contending that the sales tax for the sale of prefabricated homes should be based on the full purchase price of the homes.

Hansen plans sign probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Idaho Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, said Wednesday he sympathizes with Magic Valley businessmen who say they are being forced out of business because of regulations prohibiting signs along the Interstate.

Hansen said he plans to "jump into the matter with both feet."

He said the regulations are a "hand-over from the days of Ladybird Johnson."

"People think nothing is going to happen when this type of regulation is enacted and then all of a sudden they realize the full impact, he said."

Hansen said he thinks there are some serious questions about violations of constitutional rights involved when it comes to the use of their own private land.

"On behalf of the merchants in Bliss, the owner of the Shoshone Indian Ice Caves and the Mammoth Caves north of Shoshone, we're going to look into it," he said.

Andrus queried on tax stand

BOISE (UPI) — State Rep. Gary Ingram, R-Coeur d'Alene, has asked Gov. Cecil D. Andrus how he can reconcile his stand against new taxes with suggested increase in the gasoline tax.

"Newspaper accounts of your comments to the North Idaho Chamber of Commerce meeting in Ordino state that you reaffirmed your long-standing commitment to 'no new taxes,'" Ingram said, in a letter to Andrus.

"Does this mean you are being away from previous demands for an increase in the gas tax?" Ingram asked. "If not, how do you reconcile these two conflicting positions?"

"Does this also mean you will veto passage in 1976 of the Idaho cities' demand for new local taxing authority as contained in HB80 earlier this year?"

"I'm not going to comment on it," Andrus said, when asked about the letter.

Revision sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House passed by voice vote Wednesday a bill to require federal agencies to improve their statistics gathering on Spanish-speaking Americans.

The Census Bureau, Bureau of Labor Statistics, Agriculture Department and Office of Management and Budget were given specific directions in the bill.

The measure is aimed at "correcting the inadequacy of current statistics on Americans of Spanish origin and the attendant problems that this causes in terms of equitable allocation of governmental funds and political representation."

Task force team planned

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus plans to appoint a task force representing both timber men and environmentalists to study some noncontroversial but roadless timber areas for possible logging.

Andrus said 35 roadless areas totaling 17 million acres outside present wilderness and primitive areas are designated by the U.S. Forest Service as study areas for possible wilderness status.

He said the task force will be asked to study each area and to recommend those which all can

Policy speech scheduled

BOISE (UPI) — Interior Secretary Thomas S. Kleppe is expected to make his first policy speech since taking office when he appears at a testimonial in Boise for Sen. James A. McClure, Nov. 14.

Kleppe became interior secretary Oct. 17 after serving since 1971 as administrator of the Small Business Administration. He is expected to discuss his policy on land and water management when addresses the McClure event.

Others expected to attend the testimonial include Sens. Robert Griffin of Michigan, minority whip; John Tower of Texas; chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee; Clifford Hansen of Wyoming; Bob Packwood of Oregon; Jake Garn of Utah; and Paul Laxalt of Nevada as well as Idaho Reps. Steve Symms and George Hansen.

Andrus foresees joint efforts on stream flow

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus predicted Wednesday that the battle to save the West's water resources will make strange bedfellows of environmentalists and power companies.

"I see a unique alliance developing between what in the past have been adversaries," Andrus told the opening of the Pacific Northwest Waterways Association convention — the first ever held in southern Idaho.

The Idaho governor said he foresees power companies, apartment and various conservation groups all joining forces to lobby the passage of minimum stream flow legislation.

He urged "wise planning and management," adding that "there is not enough water to satisfy all of man's desires or uses and, simultaneously, maintain our fish, wildlife, and freetowing rivers."

"...water is the staff of life, the universal solvent, the vibrant circulatory system for this planet and the lifeblood of our economy," said Andrus.

A real challenge will be "far more expedient water management," he added.

"Our task is not to predict the future," he said. "It is to shape our future to the greatest extent possible."

Andrus predicted the "demise" of the Snake River if there was not proper planning, "regulating its use as well as its users..."

He said the Snake River practically runs dry at Milner, Idaho, during the summer months of July and August. He said there "is not enough water to share — not only with other states, but even among ourselves."

There is not enough water to sustain critical fish and wildlife resources, irrigate potential South Idaho farmland and generate needed additional electrical energy.

The fact is, Andrus said, there is not enough water in Idaho's rivers, streams, springs or underground aquifer "to satisfy all designs that have been voiced."

Andrus noted that wise planning foresees the development of a major inland seaport in Lewistown and gave the Tocky Mountain States a gateway to the Orient.

"Besides opening up countless new markets for Idaho products, the port will annually save Idaho producers and consumers up to $5 million in transportation costs — or more if our total production increases and if North Slope oil becomes our supply source for petroleum products."

Most Gem women ignore strike, some out in sympathy with NOW

United Press International
Most of Idaho's "Alices" ignored feminist groups pleas for a nationwide strike and went to work Wednesday, but a memo suggesting secretaries "follow their consciences" brought a 30 minute strike in the governor's office.

Four women employees of the State Probation and Parole Department, three in Coeur d'Alene and one from Sandpoint, were among those out on strike. Ginger Welch of Post Falls said they were in sympathy with the National Organization of Women movement.

"First off, our boss was very understanding and is letting us to this in sympathy with the women who cannot," Mrs. Welch said. "We're doing it mainly for women who have to support their own children and don't get the wages that a man is given when he supports his children."

Mrs. Welch said since those women cannot afford to take the day off the four in north Idaho are striking in sympathy for them.

State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon was in her office as usual. She had scheduled an investment seminar in Welser for later in the day and said "I'm going to put it off."

Pat Ehrlich, chairperson for the Commission on Women's Programs, also was in her office. She said she feels there are better ways to find solutions to our problems than striking.

She said she was out of her office Oct. 19, 20 and had work to attend to which prevented her from attending the march on the statehouse scheduled by women in the movement.

"People have various ways of expressing their ideas but I feel the most effective way is to work with the system," she said.

The women in the office of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said they felt the need to respond to an editorial on the strike, which was circulated as a memo by Chris Carlson, the governor's press secretary, with a notation by Carlson suggesting the secretaries "follow their consciences" in deciding whether or not to strike.

Marilyn Crutcher, a secretary in the governor's office, said the female staff members considered the memo and decided it needed appropriate reaction — a 30 minute strike. They attached signs to their desks saying "— doesn't" and then all arrived for work 30 minutes late.

"It was more for fun than anything else," she said. "We let them answer the phone and make the coffee and all those good things for a half hour."

When they arrived for work,

Wayne Mittleider, the governor's assistant for international trade, was at the receptionist's desk, special assistant Joe Welch was opening the mail while special assistant Larry Meterotto was taking on typing duties.

At Boise Cascade, one of Boise's most vocal feminist movement supporters, Alice Dieter was at her desk. Asked if she was going to attend the rally, she said, "No. Of course not."

"Alice does her work; Alice is responsible for doing a job," she said.

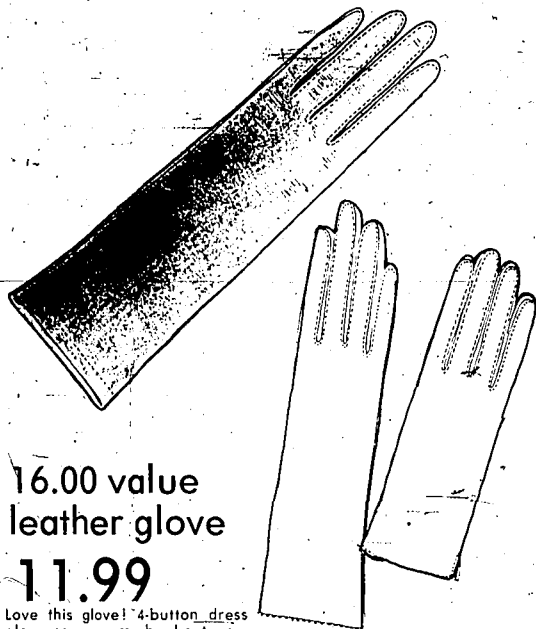

Ms. Dieter, an editorial associate for the Boise Cascade communications division, said she feels action to support the rights of women should be meaningful to what they are trying to say.

"The most effective action, in my mind, is to demonstrate responsible concern for your commitments," she said.

your health

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 Recently I've gained quite a lot of weight and I now have stretch marks on my breasts, hips, buttocks and thighs. What's the difference between red stretch marks and white stretch marks? I plan to start a diet and exercise routine soon.

How long will it take for the stretch marks to fade? — D.C.

The letters I got on stretch marks in a year would stretch from New York to Los Angeles. The answer is a variation on an old song: "Old stretch marks never die, they just fade away."

Your white stretch marks are old ones that have "faded away." They become less noticeable, but they will always be there. The pinkish ones are newer marks, which also will fade (but not disappear) with time. They, too, will turn whitish.

Stretch marks

Your diet and exercises are coming a bit late to do anything about either type. However, if you had your choice between fab and a few visible stretch marks (which can be covered cosmetically) you'd be better off to take the marks.

The length of time it takes for stretch marks to fade varies from individuals to individual. It could be months, even years. The marks actually represent weakening in the skin fiber along areas of stress from excess fat.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 I am a diabetic, and have recently started on insulin. I find it depressing. Added to this, after an injection (from a few minutes to a day afterward) the injection site is reddish and itches.

A spot about the size of a quarter appears. I change the injection site every day, and it still occurs. I would appreciate any answer you can give me to this problem. — Miss T.C.S.

Your experience with the itchy, red blotches it is not unusual. You are apparently mildly sensitive to the material. Continued use should hypersensitize your body and the reaction should disappear. A few people are severely sensitive to insulin and have to be hospitalized through a tedious series of small injections taken at frequent intervals.

As depressing as the use of insulin can be for you, you should thank your stars it is around. Insulin is one of the wonder drugs of the century, and it has saved untold numbers of lives. You should adopt a more positive attitude toward it.

I really wish you would read my booklet, "Diabetes, The Sneaky Disease." It might help you in understanding (this learning to live with) the condition. You can get a copy by sending 25 cents to me in care of this newspaper. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 Does brown sugar have any vitamins or minerals? — N.P.

Unlike white sugar, brown sugar contains a number of minerals, including iron and calcium. It contains 3.4 milligrams of iron per 100 grams compared with only 0.1 milligrams in white sugar. Brown sugar also contains small amounts of the B vitamins. White sugar contains only calories (from carbohydrates).

Much of the value of brown sugar is in the molasses, which is removed in the refining of white sugar.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 I would like to have some information on black sweat. It is mostly on my hands. What is it? Is it contagious? — B.B.

Dark colored sweat may result as a chemical reaction from contact with certain metals, particularly iron or steel. It may also be caused by the action of certain bacteria on the skin in the presence of sweat.

It is not contagious. Wearing gloves when touching the metals should help, if that is the cause. It doesn't indicate any disease process.

You can lose weight if you really want to! Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 2999, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents.

Food editor says average US consumer 'economically naive'

Jeanne Volt remembers the beef boycott of 1973 vividly. It was the day she began her new job as food editor for a major magazine.

Shoppers still beef about high prices on all kinds of food, and particularly meat, Mrs. Volt said in an interview in New York City and a speech prepared for delivery at the annual meeting of the American Meat Institute in Chicago.

"I'm a great supermarket visitor," she said. "You can't run a magazine for the rest of the country from Times Square. I talk to all the people I can."

Some are shoppers in supermarkets; others are members of special discussion groups formed by "Woman's Day" for survey purposes, she said.

"Men and women have traded down from standing rib roast to chuck, from steak to chicken," she added. "A lot are serving macaroni and cheese as a main dish instead of a side dish."

Mrs. Volt described the average consumer as economically naive.

"She thinks if she buys less beef, the price will go down. It never occurs to her that the farmer and feedlot cannot stay in business without a profit."

She told of a young friend who admired fresh snapper steaks in a supermarket, but bought a package of frozen beans instead. When asked why, the young woman said:

"The frozen bean package tells you how to cook them."

Shoppers scrimp one minute and splurge the next.

Sharon Carman, Kohler set date

CORRAL — Mr. and Mrs. John K. Humphreys, Corral, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon Alice Carman, to William Russell Kohler.

Kohler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G.J. Kohler, Dallas, Tex.

The bride elect is a graduate of Emanuel Hospital School of Nursing and Lewis and Clark College, Portland, Ore. She spent four years on the staff of Campus Crusade for Christ International on campus at University of North Carolina, Duke University and Stanford University. She is employed as Industrial Relations analyst at Aeronautics Ford Corp., Palo Alto, Calif.

Kohler is a graduate of University of North Carolina where he was associated with the Delta Upsilon, Fraternity, and majored in political science. For the past four and one-half years he has been employed by Spalding Corp., Foster City, Calif.

The couple plans a Nov. 28 wedding at the Presbyterian Church, Menlo Park, Calif.

Party planned

GLENN'S FEATHERY — The Alpha Delta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will hold a Halloween costume party at the Pasadena Valley School House on Saturday for members and their husbands.

A fresh turkey, pumpkin pies and all the makings of a Thanksgiving dinner will be given away by the sorority. For more information contact any member of the chapter.

Mr. Charles King, Mrs. Jimmie Blair and Mrs. Jack Prater have been accepted as new members.

Magichords set performance

TWIN FALLS — Magichords will give a fall performance Nov. 7 and 8 in the CSI auditorium. Local quartets and the chorus will give three attending a tour through the seasons with music and entertainment from each season of the year.

Burton Hulsh and Russell Bennett will direct the chorus.

"The New Found Sounds" from Seattle, Wash., 1974 district quartet winners, will be the headline group for the local show.

The Magichords placed 13th in 51 competitors in a district Society for the Protection and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America contest earlier this month.

Tickets for the show are available from any Magichord member and the Idaho Barbershop. Senior citizens may purchase tickets for the Nov. 7 performance at a discount.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: That letter on the "best kind of punishment" was interesting. Punishment is always destructive to a relationship. Just think about how you felt when you were punished.

In a well-functioning family, punishment is unnecessary. Parents respect their children's rights—such as the right to privacy and the right to make their own decisions. And children respect their parents' rights, such as the right to be free from worry about their children's safety at 2 a.m.

Children and parents concede these rights out of love and understanding, not fear or guilt. When those rights conflict, parents and children sit down and work out solutions that satisfy everyone.

Thus, relationships grow warmer and closer. That's what being a parent is all about.

JOY R. IN BEVERLY HILLS

Discipline a must

DEAR JOY: You make it sound so super simple. Punishment may be unnecessary, but discipline is a must. Until children reach legal age, their parents are responsible for them, and parents who really love their children will give them guidelines.

I'm all for parents allowing their children to make their own decisions to learn. But while it's wise to let your child stub his toe to a point, would you let him break his leg if you could avert it?

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 25 years, and if I thought my husband wanted another woman, I would not hope that he'd be man enough to tell me. I would not want him in bed with me while his mind was on another woman.

How do you feel about it, Abby?

DAILY READER

DEAR READER: Same as you. But a man who would tell his wife that he'd rather be in bed with another woman is not only cruel; he's an idiot.

DEAR ABBY: We recently adopted a beautiful baby boy who is everything we had ever hoped for in a child. We were married for 11 years before we accepted the fact that we weren't able to have children of our own, so we decided to adopt. I can't describe the happiness this child has brought into our lives.

Our lawyer advises us not to tell our son that he is adopted since all the records, including the birth certificate, show us as the baby's natural parents.

Abby, there are so many people in this town who know of the adoption. I don't see how we can keep the boy from finding out.

We got him when he was only 3 days old. He is our child in every sense of the word, and we want him to feel that he is.

Should we tell him he's adopted? And if so, when? We don't want him to hear it from anyone else.

NEW MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think your lawyer gave you very poor advice. Your son should be told that he was adopted as soon as he is able to understand what it means.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has some relatives who always leave the price tag on gifts they send to us and our children. I just can't understand it. The first thing I do when I buy a gift is to make sure the price tag is removed. It can't be a coincidence that every gift that comes from these people has the price tag on it. Do you think it could be because they want us to know how much they have spent on us and want us to spend the same amount on them in return?

CURIOSUS

DEAR CURIOSUS: I think you've come up with the answer. Ignore the hint and spend what you can afford—and continue to remove the price tags!

Sir Lancelot felt that with his trusty sword he could handle three ordinary knights. He also felt that with the trusty spades he would take his chances against the other three suits.

Lancelot's four-spade bid was typical of his style at both bridge and war. His pass over five spades was a bit of guile.

It is probable that he wanted to play at "bridge" in the "N.Y. Times" six, but knew that his reputation was such that if he bid it on his own he wouldn't be allowed to play there.

So he passed and West pushed him into six. West passed over the six spades and poor East fell into the trap just as almost anyone would. He doubled!

East's king of hearts won the first trick, but that was all for the defense. Diamonds didn't break, but Lancelot was able to pick up West's jack after East showed out on the second diamond lead.

East had a really cheap save at seven hearts, but there was no way for him to know that Lancelot had bid his six spades to make, not as a sacrifice.

Ask the Jacobys

An Ohio reader wants to know if we approve of the 19-point, two-club opening.

This is a very complicated modern convention that has not found many sponsors. We do not use it and do not recommend it. Instead, we prefer either all strong two bids or the use of the two-club opening as the only forcing bid to show either a notrump hand of 23 or more points or a forcing two-bid in an unspecified suit.

Marina Oswald snooping never reported by FBI

WASHINGTON — The Federal Bureau of Investigation ignored the fact that Marina Oswald lived in the living quarters used by her husband after the assassination of President Kennedy, but it failed to report either the fact of the surveillance or its product to investigators for the Warren Commission, according to a former FBI official.

The official, who was closely involved with the investigation conducted by the bureau in the wake of the assassination, said that the electronic surveillance was instituted on the Russian-born Mrs. Oswald shortly after her husband, Lee Harvey Oswald, was identified as the principal suspect in Kennedy's murder.

The surveillance, the former official said, continued for "some months" after the death of Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963, and the killing of Oswald himself two days later by Jack Ruby, a Dallas nightclub operator.

But the former official said that, to the best of his recollection, the surveillance never produced any information that apparently bore directly on Oswald's motives or that supported the suspicions held by some FBI officials that he had been involved in a conspiracy against the president's life. It was those suspicions, the former official said, that prompted the bureau to institute its electronic "coverage" of Mrs. Oswald.

The FBI said in a statement Wednesday afternoon that the agency had "conducted" an electronic surveillance of Marina Oswald's residence from Feb. 29, 1964, to March 12, 1964, based upon written approval of the attorney general of the United States.

At the time, the government contended that in "national security" cases court permission was not required.

The FBI did not deal with its reported failure to inform the Warren Commission of the eavesdropping effort, and a spokesman said he would be unable to go beyond the statement.

None of the volumes of testimony or evidence published by the Warren Commission contain any hint that commission lawyers were told by the FBI of its surveillance of Mrs. Oswald, which the former official said took place in and around the Dallas area where she and her husband lived.

New Yorkers attack Ford

NEW YORK (UPI) — Elected officials say a default by New York City is now inevitable — the only question is when.

"If we convened a special session of the legislature tonight at midnight and tripled our taxes — if we cut every human being off the city payroll tomorrow, we could not avoid default," Gov. Hugh Carey said Wednesday after President Ford said he would veto any attempt by Congress to guarantee city loans.

Others reacting to Ford's speech were more blunt.

Mayor Abraham Beame said Ford is "conducting a cold war on the domestic front" and that federal loan guarantees were essential to avoid default.

City Council President Paul O'Dwyer said the President's speech was an "outrageous, irresponsible diatribe that Richard Nixon, at his worst, would never have uttered."

Others they turned to more budget-cutting sessions to stave off default, now considered likely in a matter of weeks.

"It's not a question of if, but when," said one official.

Beame called the Board of Estimate and City Council leadership to his office for a 90-minute meeting, later described as "stormy and acrimonious."

The group was told the latest figures show the city needs about $1.2 billion in cash flow between December and March to meet mandatory expenses excluding debt service.

The consensus was that the President's position would make it impossible to raise this money, making default unavoidable.

Reliable sources said the group discussed a further $750 million in the expense budget, possibly through additional layoffs, extended payless furloughs of public employees and agreements with city vendors for payment of 80 cents or so on the dollar.

The participants at the meeting were unable to offer any concrete ideas; the sources reported, and Beame, impatient with the lack of direction, adjourned the session.

Business granted relief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee has agreed to prolong an expiration tax relief for business but cautiously has avoided further sweeping tax reductions for large corporations.

Rep. Al Ullman's tax writing committee worked its way through many proposals to ease the burden on businessmen at its sessions Wednesday but in the end the group demonstrated a conservative mood.

One point in the debate on a bid by Rep. Joe Waggoner, D-Ore., to raise the corporate tax rate from 48 per cent to 46 per cent, Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., said he liked what the amendment would do but felt the House would not still for the large loss of revenues it would involve. Waggoner's amendment was defeated 8-6. It would have taken $2.5 billion out of the Treasury's regular income revenue.

President Ford had recommended a permanent corporate tax rate of 46 per cent.

The committee retained and refined an anti-recession tax relief measure in a way that zeroes in on smaller incorporated firms. The effort will save businesses an estimated $1.9 billion in taxes in 1976 and $2.1 billion in 1977.

After studying a long list of options the committee settled on a proposal to tax corporations at the rate of 20 per cent of their profits up to $25,000; 22 per cent for the next $25,000 in profits and 48 per cent for all the profits over $50,000.

Before this tax year, the rates were 22 per cent, 26 per cent and 48 per cent on the first $25,000, the second $25,000 and all over $50,000 respectively.

Businesses that are partnerships or proprietary establishments not incorporated are not affected. On the other hand, some individuals who have incorporated to seek a better tax position, such as professionals, will be entitled to the tax relief.

The committee shunned some tough questions aside for consideration in later months, seeking to get a tax revision bill, which contains tax relief for the 1976 tax year, through the Congress before the end of the year.

TV sleep aid ads attacked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two doctors say television advertisements promoting the use of over-the-counter sleep aids and tranquilizers are contributing to the drug abuse problem among youngsters.

Dr. Anthony Kales of the Hershey Medical Center and David Greenblatt of the Massachusetts General Hospital told a Senate subcommittee Wednesday the heavily advertised nonprescription drugs are ineffective in their recommended dosages, and higher doses may cause dangerous side effects.

But even more important, they said, is the impression left by the drug advertisements that the "perfectly appropriate" to turn to products such as Solimex or Compoz to handle a slight case of the nerves or the occasional insomnia of persons encounter.

"My own feeling is even if these drugs were effective, they should be on the market," Kales said. "We should not medicate ourselves for a minimal degree of nervousness or a minimal degree of sleeplessness."

The said children and adolescents are particularly susceptible to the advertisements.

Greenblatt read a list of nonprescription drugs that contain methamphetamine, an amphetamine, or scopolamine, an alkaloid which was used as a hallucinogen or intoxicant as far back as the Middle Ages, or both. The list included Solimex, Compoz, Xydol, Vanquish, Oxy, Sleep-Eze, Excedrin PM and Quiet World.

He said medical evidence indicates they are ineffective in prescribed doses and dangerous in excessive quantities.

Soliah indicted

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Steven Soliah, the housepainter who shared an apartment with Patricia Hearst just before her capture, has been accused of a bank robbery murder.

It was the first official action linking the Symbionese Liberation Army to last April's robbery of the Commercial branch of the Bank of America in which a 21-year-old woman customer was killed by a 12-gauge shotgun blast. Prosecutors indicated other indictments may follow.

Charges against Soliah, 27, was set at $250,000 during the arraignment Wednesday, only five hours after he was indicted by a federal grand jury. The charge carries a maximum penalty of death or a minimum of 10 years in prison.

Wallace hat in ring on Nov. 12

© Newhouse News Service MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Gov. George C. Wallace will officially announce his candidacy for president in a speech here Nov. 12.

The announcement has been expected for several months, but Wallace delayed setting a date until the regular session of the Alabama legislature ended last month and he returned from a two-week "fact finding" trip to Europe this week.

Wallace, who has campaigned for President in the last three elections, will become the tenth officially declared candidate for next year's Democratic nomination.

Ban proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A consumer group that says more and more children are being poisoned by overdoses of vitamins has asked the government to ban vitamin advertisements from children's TV programs.

In a petition received by the Federal Trade Commission Wednesday, Action for Children's Television also asked the government to go to court to halt "one particular" ad campaign featuring a cartoon character named "Spider-Man."

The Boston-based group asked the FTC to get a temporary court order stopping a $1 million ad campaign by Hudson Pharmaceutical Corp. for "Spider-Man" vitamins.

The president of Hudson Pharmaceutical told UPI he found the allegations "incredible" and "erroneous." He declined further comment until he had seen the ACT petition.

Bill misfires

© Newhouse News Service WASHINGTON — The first attempt by a House Judiciary subcommittee to write an acceptable gun control bill produced only preliminary jumbling and political bucking Wednesday, disappointing everyone but the lobby.

Chairman John Conyers, D-Mich., who says he wants to ban all private ownership of handguns, triggered the dispute when he sought an immediate vote on his own bill and attempted to prevent consideration of a more moderate proposal by Sen. Robert Kennedy, D-Ill., the ranking Republican on the panel.

The resulting argument split the committee's backers on gun control, blocked the vote on Conyers' bill, and left the panel sitting helplessly silent while a clerk slowly read aloud the 69-page McClory bill until all remaining time was consumed and the meeting recessed until today to try again.

Witches predict Humphrey and kissing sickness

NEW YORK (UPI) — According to a survey of 200 American witches, Hubert Humphrey will be elected President and medical researchers will conclude during the coming year that kissing is a serious threat to the nation's health.

The annual Halloween witches' poll was conducted Wednesday by the New York Center for Witchcraft, a non-profit research organization. The center claims the witches accurately predicted a year ago the fall of South Vietnam and the CIA scandal.

Leading predictions from this year's survey:

- New York will avoid default by receiving "a massive infusion of capital from a foreign source."
- Medical researchers will "conclude" the number of germs transmitted during oral contact make kissing a serious threat to the nation's health.
- Hubert Humphrey will be elected president.
- One of America's most prominent political figures asks the Soviet Union for asylum.
- In an attempt to bolster sagging ratings, a television network will attempt to broadcast a - hard-core pornographic film. A landmark court battle will follow.

 - The economy will continue to make strong gains and the unemployment rate will drop sharply, though inflation will continue to be a problem.
 - And, the witches contend, "there will be some hardship caused by nationwide shortages of chocolate, tea bags and laxatives."
- Robert Carson, the center's public opinion research director, said Halloween is chosen for the release of the annual survey because "this is the time of year when an uninformed public is most deeply involved in mocking a genuine religious group."

Carson claims 17 million persons throughout the world practice witchcraft, including "two congressmen, several high-ranking military officers, a famous television newscaster and a leading feminist."

Plans 'scuttled'

© 1975, Newhouse News Service.

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Navy has been forced to scuttle plans to build a giant transport ship — described as "the biggest dry-cargo carrier afloat" — while two identical craft are being built for the Soviet Union with plans developed under a U.S. government subsidy.

The Soviets purchased the blueprints and specifications to build the two ships from the Lykes Brothers Steamship Company of New Orleans, La.

Long hair allowed in school

BOZEMAN, Idaho (UPI) — School trustees have decided to allow a student to return to high school in the manner that he will not cut his hair to conform to the school's dress code.

Superintendent Robert Morford said the trustees decided Tuesday not to take disciplinary action to court and to allow the student to return to school. Earlier, the youth faced possible expulsion.

He said the district is in the process of a new building program and requires all the money that is available.

He chose to use the money in the manner that would benefit all the students," he said, explaining the decision not to go to court.

Morford said allowing the student to return to school with his untrimmed hair automatically means a change in the dress code. He said other portions of the code will continue to be enforced as always.

He said the school board will consider the status of the student's absence since Oct. 20 whether excused or unexcused — at its next meeting. He said the student will not be permitted to make up missed work but to maintain passing grades he will have to learn the material he has missed.

St. John sentenced to life

BOZEMAN, Idaho (UPI) — A 27-year-old Pocatello man was sentenced to life in the State Prison today after being found guilty to second degree murder in the stabbing death of Wayne Bacon, 66, of Pocatello.

Johnathon St. John pleaded his plea to guilty of second degree murder earlier in the year. District Judge Arthur Oliver ruled that St. John was mentally competent to stand trial.

Under the life sentence, St. John will be eligible for parole consideration after 10 years.

He was charged of robbery also in the August St. John was arrested by the police.

St. John was accused of slaying Bacon Aug. 6 during a parent robbery attempt at the man's home.

He was found mentally incompetent Tuesday brought out of the prison to be tried on the charge of slaying Bacon, and suffering from psychosis, apparently from the use of hallucinatory drugs at the time the crime was committed.

He waived presentence investigation.

Markets

Stocks at midday

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices opened lower in fairly active trading Thursday on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which dropped 12.83 points Wednesday, was behind 0.47 to 83.16 minutes after the opening bell. Declines led advances, 22 to 76, among the 434 issues crossing the tape.

In a noon session Wednesday, President Ford pleaded to veto any legislation providing federal aid to New York City to prevent a default and urged a federal court that would permit a measure that assumes control of the city's finances if it fails to meet its debts. Prices eroded steadily following the speech despite Ford's statement default would not create financial panic and cause only "temporary inconveniences" for New Yorkers.

Valley beans

Courtesy Sinclair & Co. CHICAGO.—Potatoes continued to drift lower in commodity futures trading Wednesday, while grains turned sharply stronger.

Meats declined while gold and silver futures strengthened, following the lead of the grains.

The May delivery of Idaho russets closed at an even-10.00 per hundredweight, losing 15 cents.

Commodity News Service said continued liquidation by commission house interests moved May Maine spuds down the 50 point limit to 11.20 where a pool of about 500 unfilled sell orders formed for the 12th straight day. Trade selling in nearby months caused declines to 6.00 in November and 7.57 in March. Volume totaled 4,829 contracts. Some chartists see a support pattern at 10.50 to 10.70 levels in May should selling continue.

Possible export business, strength in all the grains, with wheat rallying to 1.00, and the day in early afternoon. Wheat closed up 5 1/2 cents as the market reacted on prospects of larger sales to Russia plus business with Brazil, the Philippines, and Bangladesh. Chicago cash basis was nominally unchanged.

Hedging trimmed gains in corn where current crop months closed 1/2 to 3/4 cents higher and new crop months were up 2 1/4 to 3 1/4 cents. Storage problems continued to be a negative factor. Chicago cash basis was steady.

Soybean complex trading followed the grain pattern but there were spots of hedge selling which dampened enthusiasm and kept short covering checks. At the close, beans closed 1/4 to 7/8 cents higher for 7 1/2 to 9 1/4 cents. Meal held 1.60 to 3.60 gains and oil ended 8 1/2 to 17 points up.

Maryland eagers scrimmage

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — Maryland basketball coach Lefty Driesell doesn't really want to upstage the Terps' football game Saturday with Penn State. But he wants equal billing.

Driesell, always the showman, has scheduled a squad scrimmage immediately after the football game. And he has invited all the 55,000 fans and 100 newsmen expected at Byrd Stadium.

"I hope a lot of people show up, so we can get used to playing on the road. That helps us get ready for those road crowds in the ACC," Driesell said.

Plunkett may return soon

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — No fooling, Jim Plunkett may be able to resume his job as quarterback of the New England Patriots by next week.

That's the word from Dr. Fred Behling, who removed a plastic screw from Plunkett's left shoulder Wednesday and then said "Jim conceivably could play the week after next."

By that Dr. Behling meant Sunday, Nov. 3.

That's a lot sooner than either Plunkett or the Patriots had expected after Jim reinjured his shoulder last Sunday against the San Francisco 49ers on a foolish running play sent in from the bench.

Spurs bow to Nets

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — Julius Erving scored 15 of his game-high 39 points in the third quarter Wednesday night to lead the New York Nets to a 112-99 victory over the San Antonio Spurs.

New York took the lead for good at the 6:20 mark of the first quarter 12-10 on two free throws by John Williamson and led by six at the end of the first quarter and also six at the intermission. They led by 14 at the end of three quarters 85-71.

Celtics outlast Warriors

BOSTON (UPI) — Newcomer Charlie Scott, who had 23 points, joined work horses Dave Cowens and John Havlicek in a fourth-quarter outburst Wednesday night, pulling the Boston Celtics to 115-106 win over the Golden State Warriors.

Boston took a 29-23 first-period lead but the Warriors, on the torrid shooting of Rick Barry who had 17 points in the period, led at the half 58-53. Going into the final period, the visiting defending National Basketball Association champions held a 83-82 lead, thanks to a basket at the buzzer by Gus Williams.

Glen McDonald's basket in the opening seconds of the fourth quarter put the Celtics ahead to stay. When the Warriors closed to 105-103 with three and half minutes left, Havlicek put on one of his patented last-minute shows and clinched the victory with eight points.

Pistons thump Lakers

DETROIT (UPI) — Bob Lanier scored 41 points and pulled down 16 rebounds Wednesday night to lead the Detroit Pistons to a 112-99 victory over Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and the Los Angeles Lakers.

Lanier scored 26 of his points in the first half as Detroit built up a 62-51 lead, which was shaved to seven points, 80-73, at the end of the third period.

But the Lakers only got to within five points, 82-77 earlier in the fourth quarter, before Detroit's fast break clicked for eight points in a row and the Pistons had a comfortable 90-77 lead.

Pacers drop San Diego

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Billy Keller sank three three-point goals and Don Buse added two more and made four steals Wednesday night to lead the Indiana Pacers past the San Diego Sails 105-100 in an American Basketball Association game.

Keller and Billy Knight finished with 25 points each in the winning effort.

Keller hit back-to-back three-pointers in lifting the Pacers to a five-point lead in the first period, overcoming an early San Diego advantage. The Pacers moved to a 14-point advantage before the Sails scored the last six points of the half to close to within 58-54.

Grid coach resigns

MOREHEAD, Ky. (UPI) — Roy Terry resigned Wednesday for "personal" reasons as head football coach at Morehead State University effective at the end of this season, his fourth with the Ohio Valley Conference school.

"I have met with the president and the administration and have decided not to return to Morehead State for the 1976 season," said Terry, a former assistant coach at the University of Louisville under former Coach Lee Corso.

"It was strictly a personal decision on my part and my family's part," he said. "After serious consideration, I feel a change would be good for the program and for my family as well."

Lions activate Concannon

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Detroit Lions activated veteran quarterback Jack Concannon Wednesday in time for him to act as backup insurance for young Joe Reed.

Reed will start against the San Francisco 49ers Sunday and Concannon will be used only in an emergency situation, according to a club spokesman.

The Lions lost their No. 1 and 2 quarterbacks — Bill Munson and Greg Landry — last Sunday against the Houston Oilers. Both underwent surgery in Ford Hospital, Detroit, Wednesday. Landry had cartilage damage in his left knee and will be out six weeks while Munson had both cartilage and ligament damage, also in the left knee, and more than likely is lost for the season.

Concannon played previously in the NFL with the Philadelphia Eagles, Chicago Bears, Dallas Cowboys (two years on the taxi squad) and Green Bay Packers. He was brought in for a workout Wednesday and signed immediately.

Canisius suspends star

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Forward Kenneth Kee of the Canisius College basketball team, a starter for the past two years, has been placed on disciplinary probation and will miss the first 10 games of the season, the school said Wednesday.

A Canisius spokesman said Kee was placed on probation for the first semester of the 1975-76 school year because of "numerous infractions."

Kee, a 6-6 senior who averaged 11.2 points a game last season, did not appeal the decision by Associate Dean of Students Bill Brooks.

Cal top grid producer

MISSION, Kan. (UPI) — California has produced more major-college football players than any state in the country, with Texas a close second.

According to an NCAA survey, 1,307 California players dot the rosters of the nation's 134 major colleges in 1975. Texas has 1,298 and Ohio is third with 1,233.

Thirty per cent of the nation's players list hometowns in these three states, but the three combine for only 20.7 per cent of the country's population.

Freshmen were included in the survey except in the Ivy League, where they aren't eligible for varsity play.

New Hampshire honors Fisk

New Hampshire goes wild in greeting series hero Fisk

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Grown men blushed and mumbled. Women shrieked. Little boys gave up hair washing for life. The governor got lost in the crowd. And the cause of it all stood there politely smiling and saying "Thank You."

It was Carlton Fisk Day in New Hampshire, the state where the Boston Red Sox catcher grew up and lives, and where — if Wednesday had been election day — he could have been governor right then and there.

Gov. Meldrim Thomson looked out at the 800 persons filling the State House Plaza — you have to be President to get a much better crowd — and said it was plain to see "a good clean-living, hard-playing baseball player can outdraw a politician any day." He suggested the man who hit the 12th inning home run that won the sixth World Series game might be governor some day.

"Right now," shouted a woman on the steps.

"And I'll be elected..." Fisk quipped, while the crowd roared with laughter.

And if he were, it wouldn't be the first time a baseball star governed. New Hampshire, Thomson recalled that 15 years after playing for the National League team in Boston, tobacco-chewing Fred Brown went on to be governor in 1923 and 1924.

Fisk's family and past coaches and a goodly clutch of politicians crowded around as he was presented with a Revere sugar bowl inscribed, "To Carlton Fisk, one of baseball's greatest sportsmen, of whom New Hampshire is justly proud."

With his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Fisk of Charlestown, were his sister and her husband, Red Sox' teammate, Rick Miller, his high school baseball coach, Ralph Silver, and University of American loop keeps designated hitter

DORADO, P.R. (UPI) — In 75 years, the American League and National League have rarely agreed on anything and it wasn't any different Wednesday.

The American League voted to keep the designated hitter in their lineups and the National League voted to go along the way it has been, with pitchers batting for themselves.

That means the designated hitter will continue to be employed only in the American League next season and not in the National League.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn took a neutral position on the issue at a general managers' meeting, which concluded here Wednesday. Since neither league seems prepared to change its mind, the DH rule will remain an American League monopoly for the foreseeable future.

However, Toomey did say there was no breakthrough on the designated hitter question. Kuhn, who attended the meeting, expressed no preference either for or against the rule, but did urge the leagues to adopt the same practice.

The general managers, Toomey said, were all agreed that it would better to have the same rule apply to both leagues, but neither league appeared to be ready to give in.

In addition to Kuhn, American League President Lee MacPhail and minor leagues president Henry Peters also attended the meeting.

Another topic which was discussed, but not given any firm recommendation, Toomey said, was the possibility of extending the league playoffs from the present five games to seven games.

John Gahegan, the management representative in negotiations with the Players Association, reported on the progress of current talks, which are in a preliminary stage. The basic contract expires next Dec. 31 and the pension and benefit agreement expires March 31.

No decisions made in conference meet

BURLEY — Withdrawing, expanding and dividing the Southern Conference was discussed but nothing decided Wednesday night at a meeting of Idaho high school officials.

The only real decision made was to have a second meeting in Boise next week, in conjunction with the state trustees convention.

Another meeting, the usual SIC scheduling meeting set for Twin Falls in mid-November, doubtless will provide another forum in the discussion of conference alignments.

About 16 schools showed up for the meeting Wednesday night, prompted by an idea from Caldwell and Nampa and helped along by Minico to change the current look of the SIC.

At the crux of the matter is the wide range of enrollment in the current conference setup, which, detractors maintain, spoils any chance for balanced competition.

"Still the heart of the matter was never tackled as the officials spent the evening eating dinner and feeling each other's thoughts out."

The mentioned three teams did discuss the possibility of leaving the league, but also staying in. There was other talk of expanding the alignment to 16 to 18 teams and dividing it in some manner.

But what wasn't mentioned was the fact that an alignment already has been discussed among affected schools, but that was a new league of Blackfoot, Jerome, Buhl, Burley, Minico, Caldwell and Nampa.

Mountain Home and Buhl, along with Borah,

Capital and Meridian, were not represented at the meeting. Mountain Home had been suggested as a possible member of the new lower division but the Tigers have indicated they aren't interested.

A point of resistance also was noted among other teams, indicating they would be reluctant to have their schedules shuffled in such a way that rivalries established through years in the SIC might fly by the wayside or dropped to a once-per-three-year system.

Generally the feeling following the meeting was one that the total reaction was fairly well catalogued and that if changes occurred they would start soon after the season ended with outside schools and unsatisfied members breaking into a new alignment. But about as strong a feeling was felt by others that withdrawal from the SIC by any member was not imminent.

"I got the feeling," said one observer, "that some of these schools felt that they didn't want to give up the prestige of belonging to the SIC. I think that's how this lower division idea got started."

Another noted he and several felt that expansion of the SIC to 16 or 18 teams would provide little benefit to the "Upper" division.

"I don't think many schools want to be put in the position of having their schedules dictated to them, which would have to happen with many teams. We want to play the Boise schools and Highland as often as possible. We don't beat them often, but we sure enjoy it when we do."

Filer and T.E. stay unbeaten

JEROME — Twin Falls and Filer, the top two seeds, remained unbeaten in the class A volleyball district tournament Wednesday night.

Twin Falls defeated Jerome 16-14, 15-12 while Filer dropped Minico 15-8, 15-6 in quarterfinal action. Later in the evening, Burley defeated Wood River two straight and Minico then ousted Borah 4-15, 15-9, 15-11. Jerome survived by dropping Gooding 15-9, 15-4.

Twin Falls and Filer will meet to open the final session at 5:30 p.m. Thursday. Jerome will take on Minico in the next game to establish the other half of the loser bracket semifinal. That will pit the loser of Twin Falls-Filer against the winner of Jerome-Minico with the survivor advancing against the undefeated team in the finals.

If the extra session is necessary, it will be played Thursday night also.

NFL sets up new award

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League Players Association announced Wednesday the establishment of the "Building Awards" to be given annually to the outstanding defensive lineman of the year in the NFL.

The winner will be selected by vote of the league's offensive linemen, according to NFLPA president Ed Carvey, who made the announcement.

Twin Falls hosts Boise, Capital invades Minico

Two of the top offensive teams in the state, Boise and Capital, visit Magic Valley Friday night.

Boise, a 9-2 team which has considered the prime contender for the Southern Idaho Conference in August, will be at Twin Falls for what should be a good head knocker.

Capital, which at 7-1 is about the only team left with a chance of catching undefeated Borah, will take its juggernaut to Minico. Twin Falls coach Denny Almuquist is looking for a real battle between his Bruins and the Braves.

"They are an excellent football team," he said of Boise. "They probably have the greatest offensive potential of any team we've faced. Defensively they are very sound."

A large part of the offense is 210-pound fullback Ray Dilalo who is running away with the conference rushing championship. He has picked up 100 yards in 151 carries in the seven conference games.

Right behind him is Jeff Mott, a three-year quarterback starter, who has passed for 921 yards — and almost two-thirds of those to Curt Jackson, 6-3 wide receiver, who was the chief reason that Boise humiliated the Bruins last year.

But Coach Almuquist isn't giving up anything to the Braves.

"Our lines, both offensively and defensively, have started hitting a hot better and quicker in the past two or three weeks. I thought our linebackers Brent Thomas and Cliff Gamblin have been hitting with any linebackers in the league the past two weeks and last week I thought they were really outstanding."

Also boosting hopes is the return of senior halfback Mike Allison who has picked up 367 yards in his last two games — and had one 65-yard run nullified by a penalty.

Ron Ick also turned in his hardest running performance against Pocatello, eliciting praise from Coach Almuquist.

"We would like to be in a position of controlling the ball offensively to keep our defense as fresh as possible," Coach Almuquist said. "You figure that Dilalo weighs 210 pounds and runs hard then figure that his little brother Paul is 200 pounds and is blocking ahead of him."

Minico will be looking at basically a running team. The best in the conference, in fact. Capital has rushed for 2289 yards with Brent Lind getting 820 of those and John Devinspre another 523.

The Eagles pass sparingly, quarterback Zane Sterling hitting for 495 yards.

Minico will be giving up a good edge in speed and size in the

Buhl, Pilots eye championships as Murtaugh, Raft River face playoffs

Buhl and Glenns Ferry go after championships and Murtaugh and Raft River face playoffs in the final big weekend of the high school grid season.

Buhl, with the South Central Idaho Conference title in hand, can pick up the Cross State laurels by beating Burley when the Bobcats came to call at 7 p.m. Friday. Glenns Ferry will be at Valley where a Pilot win nails down the Little Five Conference prize and a shot at Homedale in A-3 playoffs in another week.

Raft River and Mudbaugh are headed for Idaho State's midmonth Saturday night. Raft River takes on Grace at 6 p.m. with Murtaugh going against Westside in the nightcap.

Raft River is heavily favored to defeat Grace while Murtaugh is given a better than even shot at Westside.

Westside is "the common opponent. Raft River defeated the Pirates 32-6 in the early season, then bowed 12-8 to Murtaugh in a showdown two weeks ago.

Coach Kay Harper believes the Magio-Valley Conference teams can sweep the doubleheader but he tends to negate his team's easy-looking win over Westside.

"We didn't move the ball that well against them," he said earlier. "We just hit on some big plays. They didn't have their good back for that game, so I expect they will be a considerably different team against Murtaugh than the one we faced."

The only look Magie Valley had at Grace this year saw Kimberly atop the Bulldogs 44-0.

Buhl can wrap up an undefeated season by beating Burley, something Coach Jon Jud's Indians are favored to do. Unless it snows, Burley showed great snow-shoeing ability in knocking off Rigby on the whitestuff last week.

In an intra-Gooding county struggle, the Wendell Trojans, not having a good year, would love to wind it up with an upset of the Senators at Gooding. Gooding has compiled a 5-4 record and has to be favored in this one.

Mountain Home travels to Wood River for an SICG game at 2 p.m. Friday. Wood River having a chance at an 8-2 year. But then so does Mountain Home.

In a "special attraction," an eight-man game has been added between Bliss and New Meadows at 7:30 p.m. on the Hagerman high field. The two teams came in second in their leagues, were under the 10-game limit and agreed on the neutral site battle.

Mushers face unbeaten foe

FAIRFIELD — On one of the most un-football like hours of a Saturday, the Camas County Mushers will go after a state eight-man championship.

The Mushers, who surrendered the thing to New Meadows last year after three straight wins, will take on Cambridge at 9 a.m. Saturday in the Boise State stadium.

New coach Lou Andersen pronounced his charges healthy and well psyched for the showdown against undefeated Cambridge but added a victory would be hard fought.

The Mushers, relying heavily on underclassmen, bring a three-loss record into the fray. They dropped two non-conference decisions — one in overtime — to open the season and then lost the finale last weekend at Rockland.

Although tied with Bliss for the Snake River eight-man title, Camas County won the playoff right by virtue of a come-from-behind decision over Bliss in the conference opener.

Coach Andersen reports Cambridge not only is undefeated but largely untested.

"I think 30 points is about as close as anyone has come to them," he says.

The Cambridge strength is passing and kick returns, all of it through the talents of Rick Ritchel, a three-year starter. Coach Anderson said Cambridge lives in the air. Ritchel has accounted for several touchdowns with his punt and kickoff return running, but does not scramble out of the pocket much offensively.

"I have to control the ball, I'm sure, to beat them," he said.

"I think we can beat them, too."

Concerning that season finale loss to Rockland, Coach Andersen said, "I think it kinda helped us. In the first place we had a lot of trouble. We had a fire blowout and had to borrow a bus from American Falls to get to the game about an hour and a half late. They (the officials) kicked our quarterback out in the first quarter and we just didn't play well. I don't think the boys were too ready to play either."

"But since then everyone in town has mentioned it to them and they don't like that. They've been working hard in practice this week. It (the loss) made it easy to get them back up for this one."

Coach Andersen added he felt the teams were pretty equal size and speed wise although he gave Cambridge the experience edge with 12 seniors on the club.

Super grid strata planned by NCAA

CHICAGO (UPI) — Organization of a super strata of college football powers will be proposed to the next NCAA convention by its reorganization committee which has approved a plan to divide Division I, the so-called big schools, into Divisions I and IA in football.

Division I would consist of the seven major college conferences, such as the Pacific Eight, the Big Eight, the Big Ten, the Southwest, the Southeast, Atlantic Coast and Western Athletic plus 17 major independents including Notre Dame, Penn State, Army, Navy, Air Force, Georgia Tech, Tulane, Syracuse, Pittsburgh and West Virginia.

There would be a total of 76 schools in the new Division I, and the balance of the 136 schools not playing Division I football would move into Division IA.

The split resulted from problems in scheduling of games for television, and the networks wanted to get more of the bigger schools on the tube. However, the smaller schools objected to being cut out of television completely, and their objections were taken into account in preparation of the new tv plan, already approved by NCAA members in a mail vote.

The new tv plan, while giving the schools which would be in Division I the most appearances, also would guarantee the Division IA schools a minimum number of appearances over the term of the video contract.

Leaders on the reorganization committee and among the various commissioners believe the plan would pass the NCAA convention at St. Louis next January, although it might be approved by a narrow margin.

Since the entire convention would have to vote on the issue, including the Division II and Division III schools, there was certain to be a solid bloc of opposition.

The reorganization plan has been under consideration for more than a year, and the thought that Division I might be split was taken into consideration in preparation of the tv plan.

The super strata of football schools, if approved by the convention, would become effective for the 1976 season, and the network handling the NCAA grid show would be able to arrange its schedule.

Oberlin passes up big time football for 16-man squad

COLUMBUS (UPI) — If Oberlin College Coach Dick Reindeau has more or less than five players standing beside him on the sidelines during a game, he knows something is wrong.

Reindeau, you see, has only 16 players on his squad and simple subtraction—16 minus 11—leaves a bench of five.

More or less and something's wrong somewhere.

"We had 18 at one time," says the 42-year-old Reindeau, "but one got hurt and another had to drop out."

Two-platooning is a joke for Reindeau, who makes one change when his team goes from offense to defense. He takes out his center, replacing him with a defensive back.

He has one reserve at guard, another at linebacker and another at running back, plus one other player.

But, despite the handicap of having to go against much deeper teams, the Yeomen are 2-3 after consecutive wins over Kenyon and the University of Chicago, and can finish the season all even if they can beat John Carroll Nov. 8.

"When we start a game, our intention is to play 12 kids," Reindeau said in a telephone interview, "but we usually end up playing 14 or so."

Oberlin's problems started last spring when it was uncertain whether it would field a football team this fall and when former coach Cass Jackson left, taking some of his recruits with him.

The uncertainty also cost the school in scheduling as some teams cancelled out, leaving the Yeomen with only six games. But that didn't make Reindeau angry.

Camas County girls remain undefeated

SHOSHONE — Camas County, staving off defeat with an overtime win in the second set, nipped Glenns Ferry Wednesday night to become the only unbeaten team in the northside girls volleyball tournament Wednesday night.

The two top seeds divided topside wins with the 16-14 decision by Camas County in the middle game making the difference. Glenns Ferry won the opener 15-8 with Camas County following up its 16-14 decision with a 15-5 wrap up.

The victory moves Camas County into the championship Thursday night at the Shoshone gymnasium. They will await a challenger from the Shoshone-Glenns Ferry loser bracket semi-finals at 6 p.m. Camas County must lose two Thursday night before anyone else can claim the sub-district title.

In loser bracket play Wednesday, Shoshone eliminated Bliss 15-3, 15-8. Carey then came back with two overtime decisions to oust Wendell 5-15, 16-14, 20-18. After the semi-final bout, Shoshone eliminated Carey 15-12, 15-9.

Hagerman moves to volleyball finals

EDEN-HAZELTON — Hagerman decisively whipped defending champion Kimberly to advance to the southside sub-district class B girls volleyball finals Wednesday night.

The Pirates defeated Kimberly 15-4, 15-1 to become the only unbeaten team in the field. Their final competition — in which Hagerman would have to lose twice to lose the title — will come from Valley or Kimberly.

Those two will play at 7 p.m. Thursday at Valley High School gymnasium with the loser going home and the winner against Hagerman.

Only the championship semi-final was decided in two straight in the four-session competition Wednesday. Castelford eliminated Hansen 16-14, 13-15, 15-9; Valley ousted Murtaugh 11-15, 15-9, 15-13, and Valley then came back to bounce Castelford 15-5, 9-15, 15-5.

Irish worry Navy more than bowl talk

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — There is talk around the Naval Academy that the Midshipmen may be in line for a Liberty Bowl bid, but coach George Welsh is immediately concerned with Notre Dame, the Middles' Saturday opponent.

Welsh said Wednesday that the bowl speculation "at this time, means nothing," because "there must be 20 teams on the Liberty Bowl list."

However, he said he thinks his squad can beat the Irish, who are 5-2 and coming off consecutive losses to Michigan State and Southern California.

"If our defense plays that well and without a major breakdown, we'll be in there all the way," Welsh said. "They (Notre Dame) should be angry and ready to play. They've already lost two and will want to prove they have a good football team."

The Middles haven't gone to a bowl since 1963, when their Roger Staubach-led team played in the Cotton Bowl, but Liberty Bowl executive director, Bud Dudley says he's somewhat interested.

"If they (Navy) continue the way they're going, they can finish 8-3, and if they can get by Notre Dame we'll be most interested," Dudley said.

Pro sports ask halt to TV blackout bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pro basketball and hockey representatives opposed a permanent ban on local television blackouts of sold-out sports events Tuesday and, instead, suggested Congress extend the present three-year-old law for another three-year period.

Simon Gourdin, deputy commissioner of the National Basketball Association, and Don V. Ruck, vice president of the National Hockey League, testified on proposed anti-blackout legislation at a House Commerce subcommittee hearing as a prelude to the appearance of National Football League commissioner Pete Rozelle Thursday.

Rep. Torbert MacDonald, D-Mass., chairman of the subcommittee, is sponsoring a bill which would prohibit permanently any league-imposed blackouts of games sold out in advance. Prior to the law enacted in 1972, the NFL refused to permit the showing of any home games.

Gourdin and Ruck acknowledged that the blackout ban has had little impact on their sports but both cautioned against impeding a permanent prohibition.

Gourdin, reading a statement on behalf of NBA Commissioner Lawrence F. O'Brien, told the congressmen: "We continue to feel that a two-year experiment... has not been long enough

Culp feels Oilers building championship-type of pride

HOUSTON (UPI) — Middle guard Curly Culp, not a man to kid or be kidded, Wednesday said the feeling around the Houston Oilers camp reminds him of the attitude that prevailed the 1970 Kansas City Chiefs team.

"The main thing I see is attitude, team morale, things like that," the eight-year NFL veteran said. "From that standpoint, yeah, this team is as good as the one which won it all."

Culp was the strongman in the middle of the Chiefs' defense which helped defeat Minnesota for the NFL title. Now, he is the strongman for the Oilers, a surprising team which has won five of its six games.

"I'm thrilled that this team has done so well, but I would be thrilled any time my team was having this much success," he said. "His attitude represents a drastic reversal from last season. Culp was drafted to Houston — along with a first round trade choice — after the sixth game in 1974 for defensive end John Matuszak. The deal, as far as Culp saw it, had no relation to his ability to play football."

"Lamar (Hunt), the Chiefs owner didn't want to trade me," he said. "Culp, it seemed, did not get along with Hank Stram, the former Chiefs coach who was fired at the end of last season. Relations got no better when Culp, before the 1974 season, signed to play in 1975 with a World Football League team."

"I watched the Chiefs-Oilers game last year from the bench," Culp said. "I had a broken bone in my finger."

When asked if that was why he wasn't playing, Culp just smiled. He is not one to openly criticize.

But the next week, this time in an Oilers uniform, he started in the three-down defense of then-defensive coach Bum Phillips. And in the 14 games since Culp moved south, he has led a dormant Houston team to 11 wins.

"My main concern about coming to Houston was to play out my option before going to the (WFL) California Sun. That thought didn't change even though the Oilers started winning at the end of last season," he said.

But something changed — "I saw the WFL was going under" — and Culp changed his mind last February. Now a vastly improved Oiler team is 5-1 and preparing to play at Kansas City Sunday.

Seattle hopes for baseball team sag

SEATTLE (UPI) — King County Executive John Spellman thinks the odds have dropped on Seattle having a major league baseball team by 1976 but says he is still hoping.

"However, we have a stadium, we have the ownership and we have the market. So, we still hope for 1976," said Spellman Wednesday after he and others met with baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Kuhn held what he described as a "very interesting" series of meetings and said the major leagues still hope to place a team in Seattle in 1976.

"We did discuss specific clubs but I am not at liberty to identify them," he said.

Kuhn met with Dave Cohn, who is associated with the San Francisco Giants; Stan Naeccarato and Jim Zarelli, representing a Tacoma group; Mill Odum, who represents an Alaska group along with some local bankers and Les Smith who is associated with Danny Kave.

Speculation as to the specific teams centered on the Chicago White Sox, Oakland A's and San Francisco Giants.

"My function, I believe, is to bring buyer and seller together," said Kuhn. "Further than that I cannot deal in specifics."

Zarelli, a Tacoma financier, said his group was willing to combine with others to bring major league baseball to the King County domed stadium.

Kuhn also said expansion was discussed but baseball would prefer not to expand.

Flanking Kuhn were State Attorney general Slade Gorton and Spellman.

Gorton was asked if promise of expansion by 1977 would preclude the lawsuit by the area against the American League.

Kentucky denies NCAA investigation

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — University of Kentucky athletic officials, citing the football team's close defeats this season as a possible source for the speculation, strongly denied reports Wednesday the NCAA was investigating the school for illegal point shaving.

University Athletic Director Cliff Hagan labeled the report by a local radio station that the NCAA was considering an investigation of the Wildcats football team as completely untrue.

NCAA spokesmen would not comment on the possibility of an investigation, a statement which Hagan labeled "as purely routine."

"They never say they are investigating someone, and don't you think I would be the first one to contact if they were?" Hagan said. "Some irresponsible radio announcer got on and made this report and the newspapers picked it up and everyone is now checking for denials and attribution. It's simply not true."

Mother sues football coach for saying she babied son

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — The mother of a former Colorado University football player Wednesday filed a $45,000 lawsuit against head coach Bill Mallory for accusing her of "babying" her son and keeping him tied to her "apron strings."

Mrs. Marietta Stevens said Mallory made the remarks when she and her husband, Robert, met with him June 3 to discuss why their son, Steven Griffin, had been dismissed from the team six days earlier.

The parents filed suit for slander, false and defamatory statements and intimidation against Mallory, Athletic Director, Eddie Crowder and the Colorado University board of regents.

"They also accused Crowder of improperly helping their son pass his entrance exams into the school and said an assistant coach had written a report to help him pass a course."

Crowder said he had not seen the lawsuit, and he and other officials would have no immediate comment.

The Stevens, owners of a dry cleaning business, said they were surprised by Mallory's remarks.

"Without provocation, Mallory became furious with my husband and called them offensive and abusive names and berated their character," the lawsuit said. "He physically and verbally intimidated them and did other things of a harmful, humiliating and offensive manner."

"Mrs. Stevens said he told her: 'You are the reason this boy is no man. You are babying him and tying him to your apron strings.'"

She said Crowder entered their store three days later and warned them if they disclosed what happened at the meeting, their business would suffer.

The suit said that she, now attending a junior college in California, had failed his entrance exam into the university in 1972, but said another member of the team, Vance Hawthorne, acting at Crowder's request, took a second exam.

Griffin was admitted, but was briefly suspended from the team while the legitimacy of the test scores was checked, the suit said.

The parents said in 1974, after their son played two seasons on the team, Crowder, Mallory and others at the school arranged for an assistant coach to write a course report for Griffin so he would pass his class.

Up with People!

UP WITH PEOPLE is an independent, non-profit, educational organization providing unique entertainment for millions and wholesome experience for the 500 young men and women of college age who make up its traveling road show.

Since 1965, more than 3,000 young people have spent a year as traveling entertainers throughout the U.S. and in dozens of foreign countries. UP WITH PEOPLE casts have performed on five continents and have been honored with receptions by kings, queens and presidents abroad.

UP WITH PEOPLE is an expertly staged production with exuberant music, song and dancing in the show-biz style that only young people are up to — but which is completely irresistible to all ages.

The performers are of all races and many nationalities and range in age from 17 to 26. Their theme is the joy of living and good, honest, peace everywhere.

People, not nations or ideologies, are what matter. That's an idea worth celebrating, and Up With People does it with charm, love and complicated joy.

THE NEW YORK TIMES

An unbelievable sensation and unforgettable experience. It's brought a breath of fresh air to Belfast which has long been overcast, and the music and songs eased the pent-up tensions of everyone there. The smiling faces and undiminished energy gave the audience a long-needed boost in morale.

BELFAST TELEGRAM

From the moment of the august avowal of the Hall from all corners onto the stage, it was clear that the young men and women who were in for an experience soon they had a hand in the world of their own.

Equality, joy and the celebration of life.

THE WASHINGTON POST

Up With People—the eternal hit

THE BOSTON GLOBE

If this harvest of joy for youth comes to a halt, it will be a loss to the world.

It happens extremely rarely, but it has finally happened. A show has reached the level of social tradition. Up With People is that show.

IL MESSAGGERO, Rome

They sing about life and love, about brotherhood, the quality of life and peace. There is never any end of appreciation from the audience that comes to see the show. It is a beautiful, beautiful show that is a beautiful potential for peace for all.

Into the true world of quality.

THE SIGN at former Shelby's food store in Twin Falls came down Tuesday. Stores in Twin Falls, Burley and Buhl opened with a new name Wednesday morning — Smith's Food King. The stores have "gone discount" and have reduced prices on over 8,000 items.

Hospital plans 'copter landings'

TWIN FALLS — County commissioners and Magic Valley Memorial Hospital administrators have agreed on a project which will facilitate helicopter landings at the hospital.

The commissioners and hospital are going to split the $15,000 cost of burying power lines behind the hospital.

The lines now block the flight path to the helicopter landing pad north of the hospital's emergency entrance. Lines about one block long will be buried.

Hospital administrator James Rosenbaum said about 15 patients were transferred by helicopter to other hospitals last year. Most of the patients have head and spinal injuries and are transferred to Boise, which has the closest neurological center, he said.

Helicopter pilots generally have landed on the front lawn of the hospital, Rosenbaum said, but that means more transporting of patients.

"The lawn landing is not satisfactory because of the distance you have to move patients," Rosenbaum said.

Helicopters, which are primarily Military Assistance to Safety and Traffic (MAST) flights out of Mountain Home AFB, have landed on the back pad before, Rosenbaum said.

"But they don't like it," Earl Haroldson, Idaho Power, said company crew members will be burying primary and secondary lines.

with the primary lines isolated for 15,000 volts.

Haroldson said the $15,000 project was not out of line.

"That's actually a rather low figure. We're giving the hospital credit for subgrade," he said. "Underground is awfully expensive."

Underground lines are somewhat less reliable, Haroldson said. "Underground looks better but it is less reliable than overhead," he said, adding that outages occur less often with underground lines, but last longer when they do happen.

To increase reliability, the hospital has a duplicate feed, Haroldson said. In the case of a total power outage, the hospital also has an emergency generating system.

TF plan close to publication

TWIN FALLS Final changes are now being made on the draft of the Twin Falls Comprehensive Plan, with publication of the finished document planned in mid-December, according to planner David Richey.

Richey said he felt there was some misunderstanding by the public. The drafts already published "are not the final document," Richey said.

Comments and criticisms are still sought by the planners, who hope to incorporate them into the final proposed plan, he said.

"We are using comments so far received to put the thing into what we call a comprehensive plan," Richey said.

The final document will not be significantly different from the draft, Richey said, but added, "We have incorporated a number of changes in it based upon the constructive criticisms we have received."

The early draft gives the "general direction and character" the final proposed plan will follow, Richey said.

"People had apparently felt like 'why should we bother to review and make comments on this thing because we've already published it,'" Richey said.

"By clearing people's minds, we might get some feedback," he added.

The final proposed plan is nearing completion now, but planners will attempt to incorporate criticisms and comments received in the next few days into the finished plan, Richey said.

Two Hagerman men seek mayor post

HAGERMAN — Getting a sewage system for the city is the main platform of the veteran councilman seeking the Hagerman mayor's post, while his opponent wants to "get things moving a little faster."

Dean Holt, 75, has served eight years on the city council, while his opponent, Ray Moore, is making his first bid for public office.

Holt, who worked 43 years for Union Pacific before retiring, said the council is now awaiting cost estimates on the sewer project. He said he hopes the bond election can be set by early spring. Hagerman residents now rely on septic tanks.

The councilman has lived in Hagerman 10 years, but came to Idaho when a small child from Pewaukee, Wis., where he was born.

He said, "We'll have to do a lot of work to sell the bond election."

Nearly one-fourth of its population of Hagerman are widows who are tax exempt, he said. This is a higher than average percentage because the city has long been considered a favorable retirement site.

Holt said many of the older residents are "afraid of the cost of hooking up" to the sewage system, but at the town continues to grow it is essential to have sanitary facilities.

He said most of the growth has been outside the city limits and in the decade from 1960 to 1970 the population only went from 140 to 446 persons.

Moore, 55, feels the council "has been dragging its feet too long." He said when he built his home three years ago he was told not to install a septic tank because the town was getting a sewer system.

"I'd have begun in great shape — three years with no sanitary facilities of any kind," he said. Moore, who has lived here about four years, operates the Y limo bar and restaurant in Bliss.

He also said he would like to stop mobile homes being moved into the city and feels debris and junk should be removed from around the town.

Moore believes water sources are becoming contaminated because of so many septic tanks and said he would "hate to have the state run tests."

Marble shooters set for tournament play

TWIN FALLS — Over 200 boys and girls are expected to participate in the fourth annual YMCA Khwanis Club Marble Shooting Tournament, this Saturday at the O'Leary Junior High School Gym.

According to Charles Lepton, YMCA director, registration will begin at 1:30 p.m. and the tournament shooting will start at 2 p.m. All boys and girls in the first through sixth grades are urged to attend.

Kwanis chairman, Lee Talkington, announced that there will be ribbons awarded to the top four finishers in each grade and a special trophy to the top shooter in the first and second grades, third and fourth grades and in the fifth and sixth grades.

There is no charge for the event and each boy and girl, win or lose, will receive a free bag of marbles, courtesy of Penny Wise Drug Co.

For further information call the "319" at 734-4384 or Lee Talkington at 733-9354.

horoscope

Carroll Righter

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, OCT. 31, 1975
GENERAL TENDENCIES: In the morning you are able to gain the goodwill of one who knows how to do a job in a precise manner. Later you are able to turn problems into opportunities.

ARIES (MAR 21 to Apr. 19) Study the work you have to do, then plan your time and activities wisely so you accomplish what is really important.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan recreational activities early and then use tact in conversing with others. Strive for more harmony with loved one.

GEMINI (May 21 to Jun 21) Take steps to use your money more wisely than you have in the past. Make certain you don't lose your temper with mate.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Stick to important matters of business during the day. Use tact with associates. Handle money matters wisely.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Morning is best time to confer with financiers. Talk the future over with experts. Also, gain the advice of mate.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Morning runs very smoothly but later in the day you have to exercise care in handling finances. Show you have wisdom.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make long-range plans for the future. Obtain the information you need from the right sources. Think constructively.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Good day to be with pals and gain their goodwill, but don't neglect routine duties. Express happiness with mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan time to handle personal matters without making a postponement. Gain the support of a higher-up, be poised.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study new ideas and plan how to make your future much brighter. Don't sever connections with a loyal friend.

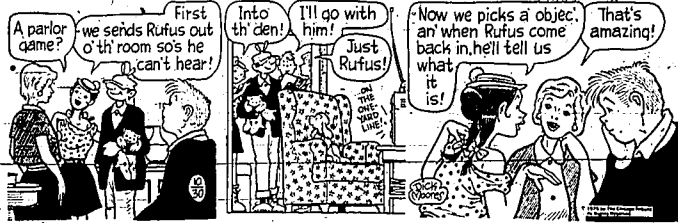

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get busy with all that work awaiting your attention. Some change where mate is concerned is wise. Show kindness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Know what is expected of you by associates. One who has opposed you in the past can be converted now. Relax tonight.

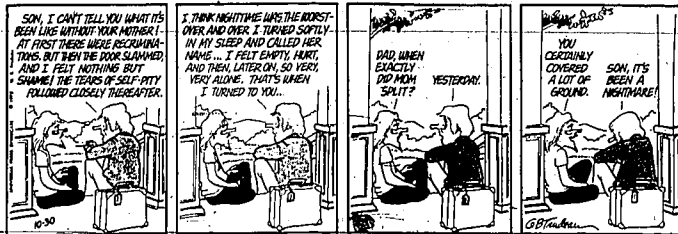

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will do much to help others, but should be taught to be reasonable. Otherwise some may take advantage of your progeny. Send to schools that will bring out the fine, innate intelligence in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Scholars checked out the later careers of 95 professional prizefighters. Each had been either a champion or a major contender. Each had earned more than $100,000 in the ring. MARRIED MEN tend to be better drivers than single men. Not just safer. Better. No, I didn't say that. An Iowa State College scholar so proclaimed after a study of 1,000 drivers.

WHAT DO modern forks and modern shoes have in common? Design of both is exactly 15 years old. Before 1800—in this country, there were no four-tined forks in common use nor were there any separate shoes for right and left feet.

PRISONS

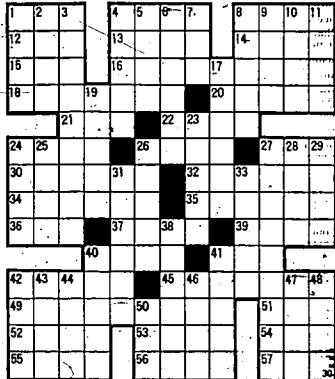

Q "Why are some prisons called penitentiaries?"
 A Because the Quakers of Philadelphia who wanted them as a substitute for the death penalty thought the prisoners therein would be penitent. And in the first of such institutions, said prisoners each was confined in solitary with the expectation that each, unable to talk to any other prisoner for the term of the sentence, would silently contemplate past crimes. It didn't work out precisely as planned.

WHAT ARE the five most common items in a family medicine chest? A druggist says: Aspirin, adhesive bandages, a thermometer, an antibacterial ointment and some sort of topical antiseptic such as Mercurochlorine, iodine or Merthiolate. Calls to mind the oft-repeated claim years ago of a Spokane city detective. He said he could find out more about a man by looking into his medicine chest than by reading his diary. I happened to notice in mine the other morning a yo-yo, an avocado seed and a snapshot of Alan Alda. What do you suppose he'd make of that?

Land firm indicted for fraud

NEW YORK (UPI) — Promoters of Rio Rancho Estates, widely advertised as a "master-planned community" near Albuquerque, N.M., which could provide homesite purchasers with financial security for their retirement, bilked the public of more than $200 million, according to U.S. Attorney Paul J. Curran.

A federal grand jury Tuesday returned an 80-count indictment against Amrep Corp., two of its subsidiaries — Rio Rancho Estates, Inc. and ARC Realty Corp. — and seven major officers, directors and shareholders of the land development concern.

The firms and individuals were charged with 70 counts of mail fraud and 10 counts of violating the Interstate Land Sales Act in the sale of "undeveloped, semiarid desert lots as a good financial investment."

"Amrep, based in New York, immediately issued a denial of the charges, saying they were 'scholarly unwarranted and legally and morally unjust'."

Curran said a 20-month investigation of land sales activities by his office found that in 1961, Amrep bought 91,000 acres of grazing land for $17.8 million — about $180 an acre — and dubbed it Rio Rancho Estates.

Since then, the indictment said, they sold about 77,000 lots to 45,000 buyers for a total of more than $200 million. Most of the buyers, Curran said, apparently regarded the land more as a financial investment than a place to live.

The indictment said the victims of Amrep's scheme bought the undeveloped land for as much as $11,800 an acre for so-called "homesite" lots, and more than $25,000 an acre for commercial lots. Curran said none of the land was suitable either for homes or commercial use.

Amrep replied, however, that it is "a builder of new communities. Rio Rancho was already established itself as New Mexico's fastest growing community," that it is one of the largest employers by the state of New Mexico and a major factor in the state's economy.

According to the charges, buyers were duped into believing that Albuquerque would expand in the direction of Rio Rancho, allowing for a handsome resale of the lots.

Curran said "most of those who tried to resell the lots were unsuccessful."

Individuals charged included Howard W. Friedman of Hewlett Harbor, N.Y.; his brother, Daniel of New York; Amrep's vice president in charge of sales; Chester Perry of New York, executive vice president; Irving W. Blum of New York, chairman of the board; Henry L. Hoffman of West New York, N.J.; Amrep's director; Herman B. Oberman of Miami Beach, Fla., past president of Amrep; and Solomon Friend of Great Neck, N.Y., Amrep's senior vice-president and general counsel.

Nevada women 'bypassed'

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Nuns, prostitutes, female ranchers and doctors played an important part in pioneer Nevada but have been bypassed in the history books and present day women are not being given a chance to shape policy in government and industry.

A panel discussion on "Women in Nevada" Tuesday night talked about the past achievements of women and their hopes for the future. It was part of a series of discussions sponsored by the Nevada Humanities Committee.

Ms. Barbara Weinberg, a member of the national board of the American Association of University Women, said the proposed women's work stoppage today has raised people's awareness of the problem.

"I wish people would see the 'Alice doesn't' movement in its true revolutionary spirit," she told an audience of about 40 persons. "This is America. There is the ability to protest the system... to stand up and say 'hey, notice me.'"

"I have to admit I fear the end result, as with all protesters, pickets and marchers, is that the mainstream of America will find it difficult to accept," she said. The impact of the work strike will be felt in later years, she said.

But Lorene Kosso, a professional historical researcher, said she was not convinced the majority of women in this country favor the movement.

Mrs. Kosso said the movement, which she supports, cannot be successful until women themselves are behind it. "I think we're a very small group of people and we are constantly talking to ourselves so we think there are a lot of people involved but I don't think there are."

Hank Nuwer, a graduate student at the University of Nevada, and a panelist, complained there was only one full woman professor. He said women teach several courses at the community college for $450 a month while a tenured aide earns $750.

German quarantine traps dromedary

FRANKFURT, West Germany (UPI) — Because it came from an area infested with hoof-and-mouth disease, a Pakistani dromedary has been waiting for two weeks at Rhein-Main Airport to be shipped to its new master in Austria.

A spokesman for Lufthansa Airlines said a Vienna businessman, Karl Jellhek, planned to use the dromedary in an advertising campaign and would later turn it over to a zoo.

But under West German regulations, the dromedary, a one-hump camel, has to be kept in quarantine from three to six months.

German and Austrian authorities refused an entry permit to the animal so it could be put under quarantine. Attempts to ship it to Italy, Yugoslavia, Spain or the Netherlands for quarantine ended in failure, the spokesman said.

"As the situation is now," the spokesman said, "there are only two possibilities left. Either the dromedary will be shipped back to Pakistan, or it must be destroyed."

Minnesota town owes $350,000 back coal bill

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — If Buhl, Minn. doesn't pay its $350,000 back coal bill, the town will be without coal by the weekend. And temperatures are already in the 20s.

Last Friday, the two coal suppliers for the vintage 1918 city heating plant cut off all further deliveries until they got their money — or a down payment thereon.

Though much of the town's 103 residents in northern Minnesota had converted to privately operated heating devices, there still were 200 customers for city heat, including schools, nursing homes and residences.

Complicating the problem is a shortage of heating contractors to install home heating devices. Officials have asked contractors in Minnesota's large cities — Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth — for emergency help.

But that's not the only problem. It's also gotten down to a political question of one government agency bailing out another — and echo of New York City's battle with the federal government for financial assistance.

Gov. Wendell Anderson has invited he is willing to lend Buhl emergency funds to buy fuel, but he emphasized it will be a loan and not a bailout grant.

Buhl Mayor Lawrence Haglund said it was an "hour by hour" crisis, but emphasized there were two entities involved — the city and the city utilities company.

The city, he said, was solvent and in reasonably good shape; the utilities were not. Last weekend the Minneapolis Star-Tribune published the results of a poll that showed 45 percent of Minnesotans polled favored federal assistance for New York.

Are the citizens of Buhl in favor of such assistance to New York?

"They aren't talking about it much," Haglund said. "They're just talking about whether we are going to freeze or not."
