Jobless roster longer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's unemployment rate rose 0.4 per cent in October to its highest level in four months, 8.6 per cent — primarily because more Americans were out of jobs, according to the Labor Department's quarterly report.

The number of unemployed persons rose by 220,000 to 10 million in October, the department said. Total employment remained virtually unchanged at 85.4 million after rising steadily between March and August.

The unexpected large increase in unemployment occurred mainly because of a surge of persons looking for jobs — the civilian labor force rose by 250,000 to 85.3 million. Some white women and farm workers also lost their jobs in October, contributing to the increase.

The increase in the jobless figures was the second round of gloomy economic news in the past two days. A Labor Department report Thursday showed that wholesale prices jumped 1.1 per cent last month, the biggest monthly increase in a year.

Julius Shulkin, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, told Congress last week that the unemployment picture has improved since peaking 9.2 per cent of the labor force in May and was expected to continue unchanged for the remainder of 1975.

However, there was a decline in the number of unemployed persons who have been seeking a job for six months or more and the average length of unemployment also dropped significantly from 16.2 weeks to 15.4 weeks.

The last time the unemployment rate was as high as October's figure was in June when it also registered 8.6 per cent.

Employment in manufacturing, which has been rising steadily in recent months, jumped by another 110,000 workers in October — a sign that factories are recalling laidoff workers. Most of the increases were in manufacturing of non durable goods or electrical equipment. Employment in mining also was up by 20,000.

Employment in contract construction also increased by 30,000 and 110,000 working persons were added to the payrolls of state and local governments, 35,000 of them striking teachers who returned to work.

Agricultural employment declined by 125,000 jobs, the department said.

Adult white women suffered the biggest setback in October, apparently because of a rise in unemployment among clerical workers and persons employed in the finance and service industries.

Joblessness among adult white women increased 0.6 per cent to 7.4 per cent, a turnaround after several months of declining unemployment in this sector.

Conferees adopt oil pricing plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nine days before oil price controls lapse, House and Senate conferees on energy have adopted an oil pricing scheme that could cut gasoline prices four cents a gallon.

They completed the pricing section of a complex energy bill late Thursday and set a Monday meeting to finish the bill, which was passed in widely differing versions in House and Senate.

John Hill, energy administrator of the Federal Energy Administration, said the pricing section would not meet President Ford's criteria for accepting the bill.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, Wash., head of the Senate conferees, said he was not sure what Ford would accept because "we get a different message every 10 minutes."

Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., said, "I don't give a damn whether the President would sign or veto this."

Current controls on oil prices end Nov. 15. They put a $5.25-per-barrel limit on "old oil," the production rate of 1972, and no limit on "new oil," produced above the 1972 rate. The average of domestic oil prices is $9.75 now ranging up to approximately $11.42 a barrel for new oil, and imports are selling for around $13.

Under the compromise plan, domestic oil would be set at an average of $7.55 a barrel. From there, the President could allow the average to rise by up to 7 per cent a year as inflation rose, and by an additional amount up to 3 per cent for certain risky or expensive-to-produce oil as a spur to extra production.

Making the maximum 10 per cent rise would increase the effect would be at first to raise gasoline and heating oil, for example, down by four cents a gallon. In 1976, they would rise from that depressed level by 1.5 cents, and in 1977 they would regain their 1975 level and go up slightly from that. By 1980, they would rise from the current average of 60 cents a gallon to perhaps 68 or 69 cents.

All of that would happen if nothing else changed.

President Ford's energy plan would allow a 10 per cent rise faster and further, to discourage use of fuels, encourage domestic production, and discourage imports.

Belleuve doubles license fees

BELLEUEVUE — Belleuve doubled its beer and wine license fees Thursday night — the first raise since 1947.

Bars now will be required to pay $98 for a beer license and $300 for a hard liquor license. The rate for beer licenses in stores is now $48, up from the former $24.

City aldermen also passed a stiff new dog leash law, which provides for impoundment of rabid dogs and vicious animals and allows enforcement officers to enter private property after an animal.

The former section on shooting dogs found molesting or causing damage has been dropped from the new law. The dog catcher will transport animals to Ketchum or Hailey and impound them.

Larry Ek due tonight

TWIN FALLS — Larry Ek will return home tonight.

Ek will arrive at Twin Falls City-County Airport at 8:45 p.m. and his family invites all his friends and well wishers to come to the airport for his homecoming.

Ek, a victim of cerebral palsy since birth, had pacemaker surgery at St. Barnabas Hospital in New York City on Oct. 7.

Twin Falls area residents, collected $11,000 toward his operation and medical care.

Resignation 'required'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lt. Gen. Brent Scowcroft would be leaving federal law if he takes over as President Ford's adviser for national security affairs without first resigning from the Air Force, Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said today.

The same controversy surrounded Gen. Alexander Haig in 1973 when former President Richard J. Nixon named him chief of staff.

Ford named Scowcroft, who had been Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's top White House assistant, to replace Kissinger in the White House post in the same shakedown which ousted Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger and CIA Director William Colby.

Soviets buy more corn

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union has bought another 1.1 million metric tons of American corn to help offset its poor 1975 harvest.

The purchase, announced Thursday by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butts, brought total Soviet orders for American wheat and livestock feed grains this year to slightly more than 13.1 million tons.

It was the fourth Russian purchase of U.S. corn since Oct. 20, when the government lifted a moratorium on sales to Russia after reaching agreement on long-range grain trade. Corn purchases since the moratorium was lifted now amount to about 7.2 million tons.

Cook Industries, Inc., of Memphis, Tenn., the nation's third largest international grain marketer, sold the corn to the Soviet Union.

Cook sold the Russians 3 million metric tons of wheat and 800,000 tons of corn earlier this year and has had previous dealings with the Soviet Union and the People's Republic of China since 1972.

today in brief

Franco condition turns for worse
MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco's condition worsened today and he was rushed to a hospital for emergency surgery.

Franco, suffering from renewed internal bleeding and kidney failure, was taken by ambulance from his El Pardo Palace to La Paz Hospital and almost immediately was carried to the operating theater for emergency surgery two hours later.

Mrs. Gandhi's conviction reversed
NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — India's Supreme Court today unanimously overturned Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's conviction on charges of corrupt election practices.

All five supreme court judges, led by Chief Justice Ajjit Nath Ray, also set aside the June 12 Allahabad high court injunction that declared Mrs. Gandhi's 1971 election to parliament invalid and barred her from running for political office for six years.

Charge dropped
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ethics Committee voted Thursday to dismiss a disciplinary complaint against Rep. Michael Harrington, D-Mass., for disclosing classified information about CIA activity in Chile.

Harrington said later at a news conference he welcomed the dismissal of the charges.

Kennedy opens experiment hearings
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Complaining of "an extraordinarily difficult time in obtaining material from the CIA," Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., opened hearings today into drug and other experiments on more than 7,000 Americans.

At least two deaths resulted from the Defense Department and CIA experiments involving LSD and other drugs over a 25-year period.

Tanker master arrested for oil spill
PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — U.S. marshals today arrested the master of a Liberian tanker blamed for a massive oil spill off the Florida Keys last July.

The marshals and Coast Guard officers boarded the 825-foot tanker, Garbis, when she docked here at 3 a.m. at Pier 122 on the Delaware River near the Walt Whitman Bridge in South Philadelphia.

Medicos march

ABOUT 500 striking physicians and interns at Chicago's Cook County Hospital marched to the Civic Center Thursday for a meeting. The strike is now in its 12th day, with the strikers ordered to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court for violating a judge's back to work order. Union security, patient care, pay raises and fringe benefits are at issue in the dispute. (UPI)

Boy bops touring Ford

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — President Ford apparently unfazed and uninjured when struck accidentally by a flag stick held by a young boy, continued to shake hands with wellwishers on his arrival in Massachusetts today to deliver a major speech on foreign policy.

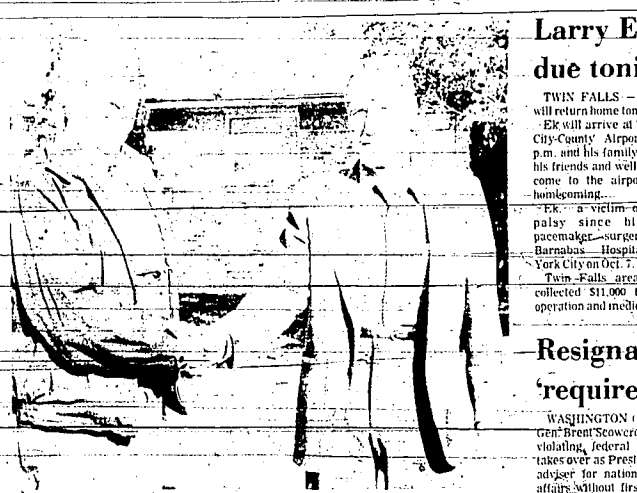

Ford told the New England Society of Newspaper Editors he would keep America's military position "steady to none" despite changes in the Defense Department. He said the spirit of détente requires a strong military force to reduce the threat of nuclear war through negotiation.

Just after Ford arrived at Westover Air Force Base and was walking through the crowd shaking hands, he was struck on the right temple with a 24-inch long U.S. flag staff held by a boy in the crowd.

A Secret Service bodyguard, stopped the stick with the flag to the ground. Ford ducked for a moment, then straightened up and resumed greeting the crowd.

Ford apparently was not injured and the incident appeared to stem only from the boy's excitement. Ford continued shaking hands before going to a brief closed session at a convention of New England newspaper editors before moving on to nearby Boston for what was billed as a major speech following the shakeups in his administration.

Pickets protesting the administration's foreign policy and other Ford policies peacefully marched outside the hotel where Ford met with the news executives at the 21st annual convention of the New England Society of Newspaper Editors.

Frank Gomes, John Gomes reunited in Jerome

Gomes brothers united in Idaho after 62 years

By CHARLOTTE BELL, Times-News writer

JEROME — Frank Gomes last saw his brother John in 1913, shortly before Frank boarded an emigrant ship in the Azores bound for the United States.

For over half a century Frank Gomes has lived in Idaho as a farmer and rancher. His brother John has lived in the Azores Islands of the Atlantic working sea while boat skipper.

This week John and Frank Gomes sat next to each other in the living room of Frank's modest home in Jerome. The brothers said the reunion was the happiest moment of their lives.

The two-day reunion was difficult only because John speaks Portuguese and his brother Frank has forgotten his native tongue and speaks only English.

The brothers had not seen each other in 62 years and they lost written contact in 1950.

According to Tony Vieira, nephew of Frank the brothers last had any contact in 1950 when their father died in Flores Island in the Azores.

Frank's wife wrote a letter to John saying it would be impossible for the Idaho family to travel to the Azores for division of the family estate.

That letter, written to John in English, traveled around in John's pocket for a year until he found someone in the Azores to translate the message from Portuguese to English.

Frank left Flores Island in 1913 because he wanted to seek a better life in the United States. An older brother, Joe Gomes, already had migrated to Idaho and was a sheepherder in Shoshone.

When Frank arrived in Idaho he walked from Shoshone to Hailey to get a job as a milkman. Later, Frank went to war in 1917 and seven years later he would never leave Idaho again.

John spent the last 50 years in the Azores as a wharfhand captain and farmer. Most years also he tried to get a visa to come to America but was turned down.

But last year, when he turned 66, and his brother Frank turned 80, John applied for a Canadian visa and told the Canadian consulate he could die happy if only he could see his brother again in Idaho.

Canadian authorities agreed to give John Gomes a visa to the U.S. and 62 years of separation ended.

Circumstances held key to first degree murder

BOISE (UPI) — The State Attorney General issued an opinion Thursday saying Idaho prosecutors must prove that a killing was performed under certain circumstances in order to charge a person with first degree murder.

The opinion written by senior deputy attorney general Gordon Nielson and assistant attorney general James F. Kile was prepared at the request of Cassia County Prosecutor Alfred E. Barrus.

Barrus asked if Idaho courts law for the felony-murder rule. Kidwell said it was an incorrect premise that the Idaho Legislature failed to re-enact the "felony-murder" rule after the repeal of the Model Penal Code doctrine in 1972 and cannot be revived as part of the Common Law. There is confusion, he said, because criminal statutes retain a provision which is the "felony-murder" doctrine even though that has been repealed.

Because the changes in the murder statute were not completed until the last day of the 1973 Legislative Session, the legislature may have inadvertently failed to consider corresponding changes in the manslaughter statute.

To resolve the problem and clarify the legislative intent, Kidwell said the felony-murder provision should be re-enacted within the murder statute as the manslaughter-manslaughter provision should be amended in the manslaughter statute.

Kidwell said at present Idaho law does not include the felony-murder rule within its statutory definition of first degree murder.

"Consequently, Idaho prosecutors, in charging first degree murder, must prove either that the killing was willful, deliberate, and premeditated—or prove that the killing was of a peace officer acting in the line of duty, or prove that the killing was by a person under a sentence for first or second degree murder," he said.

Church draws fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House has accused Sen. Frank Church of headline hunting in disclosing a government operation that has involved reading international communications for a quarter of a century.

The Idaho Democrat, who heads the Senate committee studying U.S. intelligence activities was rapped by presidential press aide Ron Nessen in a special session with White House newsmen.

Nessen said the disclosure may have damaged foreign intelligence operations. He said the President would not send the disclosure to firms and in recent years about 150,000 messages a month were turned over to analysts.

Until the operation was ended last May, the government read foreign cable traffic to and from U.S. citizens and firms and in recent years about 150,000 messages a month were turned over to analysts.

Amtrak routes may come to S. Idaho

By LINDA LEE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley residents won't be riding Amtrak trains anytime soon, according to Dwight Jensen, chairman of the Idaho Amtrak Committee.

The final decision on whether to institute rail passenger service into Southern Idaho couldn't come until at least December and probably won't be made until June, 1976, Jensen said.

If the Amtrak board of directors approves a South Idaho route, the trains won't be on line until 19 months after the decision to start the service is made, Jensen said.

The Idaho Amtrak Committee won't guess when the rail passenger service will begin. The committee only says the service is expected by the fall of 1977.

Already the Amtrak service to Idaho has been postponed for two years while Congress and the Amtrak directors haggle about which of four experimental routes to add.

Congress asks, in a set up of a new passenger route each year on an experimental basis and the Idaho route has been first or second priority on the list for some time.

Besides footdragging on the part of the Amtrak committee, the Idaho rail service has been held up by a national shortage of passenger cars, Jensen said.

When trains finally roll through Idaho Jensen says the cars will be cast-offs from railroads on the East Coast.

But, by 1980 the Idaho trains should have new double-decker trains, he said.

Shoshone is designated the only Magic Valley stop for Amtrak—Residents of the Twin still believe the advent of Idaho passenger train service will revive the economy of their 1,200-population community.

Mayor Elwood Weary of Shoshone says he is "very happy" about the prospect of a train stop in his town, but said, "If they run old delapidated cars it will make a bad impression and people won't ride the cotton pickin' things."

The Idaho Amtrak Committee has recommended a route connecting Seattle, Portland, Boise, Pocatello, Ogden, Salt Lake City, Las Vegas and Los Angeles.

Between Boise and Pocatello, they recommended that the train stop in Shoshone and possibly Mindoka City.

Jensen said that his committee is asking Sun Valley Stages to arrange bus service from Shoshone to Twin Falls and Sun Valley.

Passengers wishing to connect with Denver and San Francisco can transfer in Ogden to already existing train routes.

A survey taken by the Idaho Amtrak Committee indicated that Idahoans would be most interested in service to Boise, Salt Lake City, Portland, Seattle, Pocatello, Idaho Falls, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Denver.

The only town not served by the committee's recommended route is Idaho Falls. Jensen said that a more long-range plan would include a North Idaho route from Pocatello to Idaho Falls and Yellowstone.

Jensen explained that Idaho was eligible for a new passenger service route because of a federal law which required Amtrak to lay its next experimental route in a state with no service to its major population center.

Four other states considered top priority train states are Iowa, South Dakota, New Hampshire and Maine, but the House-Senate Conference Committee on Amtrak has recommended Idaho.

THIS warning against parking, posted at a downtown Twin Falls construction site, contains a misspelling that might raise some question about who—or what—will be towed off.

Accreditation team evaluating MV Memorial

TWIN FALLS — A five-member team is at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital today for a bi-annual accreditation inspection by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

About 65 per cent of the nation's 8,500 hospitals are accredited by the Chicago-based joint commission, according to James Rosenbaum, hospital administrator.

"It's a voluntary operation of the part of the hospital," Rosenbaum said today. "We don't have to be JCAH accredited, but we are because we feel their approval of the hospital is an indication that we are at least meeting a certain standard of quality care."

Accrediting teams have noted a major deficiency in the hospital in the past three reports — the emergency room facility.

"The facility is much too small," Rosenbaum said, adding, "It does not embrace some of the requirements with respect to space and privacy."

Rosenbaum said he was sure the emergency room would appear again in the report of the current team, but said "that in itself will not keep us from being accredited."

The emergency room is satisfactory in terms of equipment and staffing, Rosenbaum added.

The two-member team includes a physician reviewer and an administrative reviewer who is a registered nurse.

The team will inspect hospital organization, patient and medical staff records and review the life safety codes for fire and safety, according to Rosenbaum.

They will also review hospital policies, administration and the general physical structure.

Then, in six to eight weeks a report is presented to the hospital, Rosenbaum said.

New weather analyst transferred to TF

TWIN FALLS — Bill Gaiken, a man with world wide experience in weather watching, is the new weatherman for the local area at the National Weather Service.

Gaiken worked in Boise as an "upper air specialist" before coming to the Twin Falls area, he says, of his former job he was "the guy who released the weather balloons."

Weather balloons, he says, are designed to rise to about 100,000 feet at which height barometric pressure causes the balloons to expand and burst.

The balloon with attached transmitter parachutes to earth where about 25 per cent are recovered.

Information from the balloon transmitter is fed as data into a computer and forecasts are based upon this data, Gaiken says. The entire process was his responsibility as an upper air specialist.

Gaiken received his training as a weather analyst while serving in the Navy from 1957 to 1961. He has an A.A. degree in agriculture from Mt. San Antonio College in Walnut, Calif., and a B.S. in math from Cal Poly in Pomona, Calif.

Idaho's beekeepers hold meet today in Twin Falls

TWIN FALLS — Beekeepers from throughout Idaho will be meeting here today and Saturday for the annual meeting of the Idaho Honey Industry Association.

One major topic of business to be discussed is proposed inspection regulations for hives.

"The Idaho Department of Agriculture has been inspecting hives for various bee diseases, in order to prevent their spread."

"We presently inspect hives," a department official said today, but added the department is attempting to formalize these inspection procedures.

"We want to find out if there are objections to the regulations, and if there are, how these can be overcome," he said.

A hearing set for Thursday in Boise on the proposed regulations will be reopened in the Twin Falls meet today.

The regulations authorize annual inspections of all apiaries in the state, according to the department. Inspectors will be checking for signs of various diseases of bees, including American foulbrood, European foulbrood, sacbrood and bee paralysis, a department notice states.

Last year about 150 of the 90,000 registered bee colonies in Idaho were destroyed because of discovery of American foulbrood, according to the disease, caused by bacteria, destroys the brood, or the young bees, eggs and larvae, he said. An infected colony must be destroyed because of the very contagious nature of the disease.

About 330 persons are registered in Idaho as beekeepers, according to the official, producing about 6.3 million pounds of honey last year.

Idaho economy improves

TWIN FALLS — "The recession has bottomed in Idaho and economic activity has begun to improve," according to the latest report prepared by Idaho Department of Employment.

"With the exception of lumber employment, remaining industrial employment levels are at or above year ago levels," according to Idaho Economic Indicators, a department publication.

According to the report, "Contract construction employment seasonally adjusted is 19 per cent above a year ago." This increase, which is contrary to the national trend, "probably reflects in-migration into the state," the report says.

"The unemployment rate has settled at something in the seven per cent plus range this year compared to an average over the five prior years near six per cent," the report says.

"The worst recession since the 1930s depression has been described as especially difficult to fight because of the double edged sword of both inflation and unemployment," the report adds. "It appears that inflation has been and will continue to be the harder fought of the two at the expense of unemployment."

Victim still critical

TWIN FALLS — Emma Luke, 80, injured a week ago when struck by an automobile, remains in critical condition at the Twin Falls Clinic Hospital.

Administrator Louis Meigs said today she has not regained consciousness since the accident. She was walking across Blue Lakes Boulevard at Fourth Avenue East when she walked into the side of an automobile and was thrown to the pavement.

TF should obey Gem parking law

Earlier this year the Times-News ran a story about Twin-Falls parking meters placed too close to intersections. The city clearly permitted and encouraged parking closer than 20 feet from intersections and crosswalks or closer than 30 feet from stop signs...

The city is well advised in its efforts to increase parking in the downtown business area. In fact, parking was a major emphasis of the city's successful downtown urban renewal project.

But we doubt that increased parking should come at the expense of public safety. When the requirements of safety are weighed against the desire for convenient parking, safety should be given the higher priority.

Even if the city disagrees with such priority judgments, it still must obey the state law.

A good first step would be to replace the hoods on the corner parking meters and begin removing the meters. The next necessary step is to begin ticketing vehicles parked too close to intersections. We'll bet revenue from ticketing illegal intersection parkers would equal that from illegal corner parking meters.

Mixing oil, grain

The State Dept. has added unnecessary complications to what should be a straightforward deal by trying to wrap Russian purchases of U.S. grain and U.S. purchases of Russian oil in the same package.

About the only thing that oil and grain have in common is that they are both commodities. The grain agreement, announced this week, is an intelligent approach to a relatively simple problem. The Russians have been using the U.S. market to make up the deficit in their annual harvest.

The agreement opens a stable, predictable market to U.S. growers. And it gives the Russians an assured supply that can be used for either stockpiling or consumption each year, depending on their own harvests.

The oil deal is something entirely different. The U.S. has signed a letter of intent indicating that it will negotiate for a 500,000-barrel-a-day deal of Russian oil. The question is: Why does the U.S. government want to negotiate a basic agreement and then the buying and distribution over to the private oil companies. Russian oil might become a significant factor in the U.S. market. But the U.S. government itself should not under any circumstances become involved in buying and distributing oil.

At this point, the Ford Administration should separate oil and grain completely. It should go ahead with the grain agreement. It should take another hard, questioning look at the oil proposals.

Berry's World

I LOVE your show. I think it's SENSATIONAL - but your ratings are low, Mom.

Machismo no trade for consequences

WASHINGTON - Some presidents lead the country and some merely give the appearance of leading it. And President Ford's slaph-dash shuffling of his face cards falls in the latter category. He didn't reorganize his administration but disorganized it. Leaving politics aside for a minute, an original idea in this town, there is no way for these new men to get confirmed by the Senate and master the devilish intricacies of vast organizations such as the Department of Defense, the Department of Commerce, and the Central Intelligence Agency in the short time left to them before the election. It will be Thanksgiving at the earliest before this divided and haggard Democratic Congress approves all these switches, with Ronald Reagan lessing the 19th century into the 20th in the meantime. Then the Congress will be off for the Christmas holidays and the President will be off to the ski slopes of Vail, Colo., and when they come back, the politics of the presidential campaign will dominate everything. In this situation, the President might have felt bad enough alone. At least, his cabinet, whatever their differences - and they were honest differences about arms control, budget priorities, and the urban fiscal crisis - knew the cards in the deck and could have held things together during the coming political storms. But it will be harder for these new appointees to provide the continuity and stability Ford felt he needed after the fall of Nixon, and will need in the coming months while he's running around the country seeking a new term. It takes at least a year for a new boy to know the cast of characters at the Pentagon, and Rumstfeld and Bush will be spending most of this time in Capitol Hill trying to give answers before they have had time to master the questions. There is no man about who was responsible for this upheaval. Washington loves conspiracy and is bubbling now with theories that Henry Kissinger, or Donald Rumstfeld tossed Schlesinger, Rockefeller and Colby to the photographers. But while Kissinger and

JAMES RESTON

Rumstfeld are not above playing these executive-suite games, the fact is that both, Kissinger and Rumstfeld objected, for different reasons, to Ford's sudden and dramatic decisions. Rumstfeld was out at RFK Stadium last Sunday afternoon watching the hot war between the Redskins and the Dallas Cowboys when the President called him from Florida and traded him across the Potomac to the Pentagon. Rumstfeld didn't want to go, and would have preferred to stay in the White House as Kissinger's replacement at the head of the National Security Council, but he is young and ambitious, and apparently didn't struggle too hard against being one of the youngest secretaries of defense in the history of the country.

Kissinger's objections were more subtle as usual. He has his differences with Schlesinger over reaching an accommodation with the Soviet Union on the limitation of strategic arms, and he has not been amused by reading in the papers and hearing from the Hill of proposals by Schlesinger which were not originated within the National Security Council. But he respects Schlesinger's intelligence, and while nobody around here seems to believe it, my information is that he opposed Secretary Schlesinger's dismissal. After all, this places Moscow but displeases Peking, and forces Kissinger to explain the middle to both.

Ford, however, had his own reasons for assisting - his authority, and - whether it's treacherous to speculate on personal motives, some facts seem clear and relevant. There has lately been a sense of drift in the country, even an artificial longing for strong leadership. And sometimes in the last few weeks, faced by the fiscal crisis in New York and the conservative challenge of Reagan, he apparently decided that the nice-guy image wasn't good enough. So he hit New York hard, and after he was benched for a week by a bad cold, reading his critical reviews and sliding pills in the press, he came back to the Oval Office and changed the equation.

Now the "good guy" is the "take charge" guy, and in the present absence of leadership, it may work. But you could make a plausible argument that almost everybody has lost in this turmoil. The country has lost by trying an inexperienced team for an inexperienced team.

The resignations of Dave Packard as Republican finance chairman and of Rockefeller as vice-presidential candidate next year have given a sense of disruption and even of impending defeat.

The dismissal of Schlesinger at the Pentagon, far from consolidating Reagan and the Republican conservatives, has removed the most knowledgeable critic of Kissinger's policy of accommodation with the Soviet Union - it is not appeased. Still, Reagan, which has the most promising political comment since Mayor Hague said: "Fare the Law."

And even Kissinger, who has emerged from these hollowed antics, with his position intact, his two major critics, Schlesinger and Rumstfeld, moved from their main centers of influence, will now be blamed for a reorganization he opposed, and become the major target of the right and a personal issue in the presidential campaign.

America's annals

By Encyclopaedia Britannica UPI GEORGE WASHINGTON George Washington led an "undistinguished military career" prior to being named commander in chief in 1775. In the year 1754 the governor of Virginia gave him the command of about 1,000 troops (all Virginians), with orders to drive the French from their encroachments in the back settlements. In this expedition he proved unsuccessful. On the 3rd of July, 1754, he suffered himself to be surrounded by the French and Indians at the Big Meadows in the Allegheny Mountain and was obliged to capitulate, but on what terms I do not recollect. He by some means or other got from the French very soon and had the command of a regiment of Virginians and was with the unfortunate General Braddock when he was defeated by the French and Indians on the banks of the Monongahela River, July 9, 1755, prior to which, he with a part of his regiment, fell in with a scouting party of his own in the woods, an engagement began, and a number of men were killed before the mistake was discovered. He continued in the Army most of the war, but never performed any action to render himself conspicuous. - From the Journal of Nicholas Creswell.

Soviet sea power gain continuing

PANAMA CITY, Panama - Unhitched fleet was wiped out by the Japanese at Tsushima in 1905. Russia had a considerable naval power since the 18th century. Indeed, after the American Revolution, John Paul Jones accepted the office of rear admiral in the service of Catherine the Great. But Czarist Russia never recovered from its disastrous defeat off the tip of Korea. Apart from a few submarines and torpedo boats, Soviet vessels likewise played an insignificant role in World War II. It had become axiomatic that Russia was not a sea power but a land power. The first hint that Stalinist Moscow was beginning to think in terms of maritime warfare came in 1947 when the British battleship Royal Sovereign and the United States cruiser Mitsushima were handed over to the Soviet Union and fought as the U.S.S.R.'s only two operable capital ships, renamed the Archangevsk and Murmansk. Since that low ebb, when Stalin's naval advisers first began to dream about the kind of blue water fleet that was customarily regarded as the status symbol of a great power, the Russians have worked hard to create a navy comparable with their vast strength on land and in the air. Adm. Sergei Gorshkov took charge of the task when it assumed its first impressive proportions. He boosted on Navy Day (July 31, 1966): "An end has been put to the complete domination of the sea by the imperialist powers." Gorshkov, who joined the navy at 17 and survived wholesale Stalinist purges. He boasted a good war record at Odessa and in command of a Danube flotilla. In 1962, after the Cuban confrontation, his ambitions to accelerate naval development were given a complete go-ahead. He instituted a new type of global electronic intelligence, handled by fishing trawlers. He developed the world's largest submarine force. He dotted the oceans with massive buoys where his ships could be up. He insisted on constructing helicopter carriers and now aircraft carriers, the first of which has been completed.

C. I. SULZBERGER

Thanks to this redemptible man, Russia is today the second greatest naval power in the world and may before long be the first. By Navy Day, 1970, the Russian could claim: "Soviet Navy ships are constantly on the ocean including the stamping grounds of the NATO strike fleets." Through his vision, the Soviet admiral has been able to get the U.S.S.R. back into the role imagined for Russia by Peter the Great and Catherine the Great, a direct toward the southerly Indian Ocean and Mediterranean. But even had a project in annex Madagascar. Catherine concentrated on biting off pieces of Ottoman Turkey. In the 1820s, when Greece gained its independence, a strong Russian fleet fought beside the British and French against the Turks.

The consequence of this persistent policy is that Moscow has gained influence in many distant corners of the world. It has opened naval facilities in the Indian Ocean as the British (Sri Lanka, Gao, Bahrain, Mauritius) and the French (Madagascar and the Comores) closed up shop and while the Americans have trouble gaining congressional approval for unimpressive deals like Diego Garcia.

Auxiliary donates funds to hospital

TWIN FALLS — A check for $4,307 was given this week to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital by its auxiliary for purchase of two new items of equipment.

Presented to administrator James E. Rosenbaum by the outgoing auxiliary president, Doris Jensen, the money is earmarked for a blood bank refrigerator and a piece of laboratory equipment called a tonometer.

Rosenbaum said the presentation coincides with notification by the American Red Cross that MVMH is to be designated as a sub-depot for its regional blood center in the Magic Valley.

This means that MVMH will be responsible for supplying blood to local hospitals in other Valley counties. Previously blood had to be shipped at frequent intervals from the Red Cross blood bank in Boise.

Maintaining reserves of blood here will mean that supplies will be more readily accessible when needed and can be quickly delivered at a savings in transportation costs, he said.

In order to qualify as a sub-depot, Rosenbaum said, a hospital must have appropriate equipment and trained personnel, including supervision by a pathologist. MVMH has such supervision plus the only certified blood bank technologist in the state.

The refrigerator to be purchased with $2,027 of the auxiliary's donation has a capacity of 301 units of blood and will replace the present smaller equipment which is old, less efficient and no longer meets federal requirements.

Featuring a greatly improved air circulation system, the new refrigerator is equipped with a temperature sensing and recording device that will ring an alarm when temperatures vary 2 degrees C. from critical levels specified by federal regulations.

The old refrigerator will be used in the laboratory to store other less fragile materials.

Providing a standard against which to measure the performance of instruments used in testing blood gases, the first tonometer to be purchased by Magic Valley hospital will be paid for by the auxiliary donation, a cost of $2,280. It will be made available to other hospitals with which MVMH contracts for laboratory services in order that their instruments may be checked.

Blood gas tests are used to measure the oxygen-carbon dioxide levels in the blood as a means of assessing an ill patient's ventilating capability, Rosenbaum said.

The test is frequently ordered by attending physicians for patients with chest injuries, infants in respiratory distress, acutely ill persons or those with conditions involving breathing difficulties.

CHECK from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Auxiliary for more than $4,300 is accepted by administrator James E. Rosenbaum. Outgoing auxiliary president, Doris Jensen, presented the donation to be used for two important hospital equipment items.

Albion tie ends with coin flip

ALBION — Ignoring the w o m e n ' s - 4 1 0 e n t a n o n movement, the Albion City Council offered a woman the choice in a coin flip to decide the winner in a council election race Tuesday.

Mrs. Deborah J. Brewster and Kenneth H. Ames each had received 27 votes for a two-year term on the council. The count was verified in Wednesday's election canvass by the council.

The council gave Mrs. Brewster the chance to call the flip of the coin and she chose tails. The coin came up heads and Ames was named to the two-year term.

The strongly contested campaign coming during severe construction and city legal problems over a lease of the Albion college campus drew 93 per cent of the registered voters. Of 149 persons registered, 139 voted.

The canvass showed Robert L. Bouck defeating incumbent mayor Daniel S. Mahoney, and Ralph T. Heller and J.W. (Chris) Cagle winning the two seats for four-year terms on the council.

Bouck drew 29 votes to Mahoney's 29.

Mahoney, 53, ran after he had been elected to the council two years ago, then appointed to fill the mayor's post, on the resignation of Oliver Hedman. He had considered running for council again rather than for mayor.

Bouck is a building contractor.

Heller led the voting for the four-year council terms. He received 84 votes while Cagle had 72.

LaVern E. Jesse pulled 29 votes while former incumbent Mayor Alva E. Winder had 24 votes.

Heller is a writer having lived in Albion two years.

TF man arrested

TWIN FALLS — Howard Pennell, 38, Twin Falls, was arrested Tuesday night and charged with lewd and lascivious conduct with a minor child.

Detective Carl Tim Qualls said Pennell was arrested in connection with activities involving a 13-year-old girl.

Bond was set at $25,000 by Magistrate Daniel Meehl pending Pennell's arraignment.

Judge grants requests

TWIN FALLS — A burglary suspect and a man charged with receiving stolen property have appeared in Fifth District Court here to request statutory time in entering pleas.

Judge Theron W. Ward granted Juvenile Seal, Twin Falls, until Nov. 7 to enter her plea to charges of first degree burglary. She is charged with burglarizing the home of Norma Beck on Aug. 21.

Roger Dennis Bullion, charged with three counts of receiving stolen property, appeared in court and was given two weeks to enter his plea. He is alleged to have purchased stolen items from two Twin Falls men who are charged with committing three separate thefts.

Cherie Gore, also known as Cherie Heidemann, entered a plea of guilty to charges of obtaining money under false pretenses and was granted a presentence investigation. Sentencing was postponed until completion of the investigation and report.

Mrs. Gore is charged by the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare with receiving welfare payments and food stamps while saying she was not employed but in fact was employed under a fictitious name and Social Security number.

Judge Ward, in a judgment filed this week, also ordered Regal Manufacturing Co. to pay $11,929.05 in a case brought by Wasatch Plumbing Supply Co.

The judgment stated the defendant, Regal, failed to appear or to contest the action.

TF reception set Saturday

TWIN FALLS — A reception for Darl Glead and his wife, Jenna, will be held Saturday from 4 to 7 p.m. at the Sierra Life Building.

Glead is the outgoing scout executive for the Snake River Council of the Boy Scouts.

He will be assuming a similar post at the larger Ogden, Utah, Boy Scout Council.

Glead has been in Twin Falls for seven years. In addition to his scout post, he has served as executive director of the Twin Falls-United Way.

Filer city council approves hiring

FILER — Filer City Council has voted to hire a part-time and a full-time city patrolman under the federal program.

Randy Lammers', police chief, was granted permission to hire four uniformed police personnel in next year's budget.

Council members also voted to furnish water free of charge to the Filer Senior Citizens group in its building on Main Street. Bill Brake and Gordon Larson of the Filer Recreation District met with the council regarding a lawn mower which had been owned jointly by the city and the district council members agreed to sell their share of the mower for $20.

Listed 'satisfactory'

BURLEY — A Washington man is listed in satisfactory condition today at Cassia Memorial Hospital.

Doctors are still testing to discover the reasons for a dizzy spell that caused George Haynes, 71, Yukon-Wash. to have an automobile accident in north Burley late Wednesday afternoon.

A Minidoka County sheriff's deputy said Haynes was traveling east on Interstate 80 about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday and turned off the freeway at the Highway 27 exit between Paul and Burley. The deputy said Haynes suffered a dizzy spell and his car and house trailer went into a borrow pit then back across the exit road.

Center expansion eyed

By SHANE O'NEILL, Times-News writer

RUPERT — The Minidoka County Senior Citizen Center hopes to expand facilities and activities next year.

"The community help here has been very great," Keith Neilson told the Rupert Chamber of Commerce Tuesday.

Neilson, chairman of the senior citizen board, said the center hopes to expand the hours it is open by two a day. The center is open now from noon to 3 p.m. and hopes to begin opening at 10 a.m.

Ceramic work is one of the major individual activities at the center. Neilson said the kiln is so small it cannot accommodate the demand and there are some electrical problems.

He said the group hopes to get a larger kiln installed by next year.

Neilson said the senior citizen center is very busy. The projected schedule at the center is Tuesday, potluck and arts and crafts on Wednesday, tours and miscellaneous programs on Friday and fun days with games of the members' choice on Saturday.

The center is closed on Thursdays and Sundays.

Money is the major problem with facility, time and program expansion, Neilson said.

He said Lette Matijalovic, director of the center, is paid only $290 a month. Most centers in the area pay about $2,000 a year for their directors.

Neilson said the center gets federal funds through the Idaho Office of Aging and distributed in the Magic Valley by the area office at the College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls.

Neilson said he spent all of Wednesday at CSI, going over the Titles III and VII grant funds available for the Minidoka budget. CSI distributes for eight counties with 10 senior citizens centers.

Title III funds are for maintenance and operations. Title VII money is for nutrition programs such as meals-on-wheels and together meals.

Streamflow legislation limited to North Idaho

BOISE (UPI) — A legislative subcommittee decided Thursday it didn't want to get into a conflict with southern irrigators, and voted to introduce legislation limiting streamflow legislation to North Idaho.

The subcommittee on streamflow legislation decided that it would introduce legislation which would specify those streams and lakes in the northern half of the state and make no mention of South Idaho streams.

An attempt was made by State Rep. Russell A. Westerberg, R-Soda Springs, to include a portion of the Blackfoot River in southern Idaho in the proposed legislation, but this was defeated.

Westerberg urged that the Blackfoot River be included along with the Kootenai, Pend Oreille, Spokane, Clearwater and Salmon rivers and their tributaries and lakes in those areas. He argued that it was necessary to protect fish spawning areas from proposed industrial development at the headwaters of the Blackfoot.

His motion was approved by a voice vote. He then, however, asked for a roll call vote of committee members and the motion lost on a 4-4 tie.

State Rep. Dan Emery, D-Boise, moved adoption of the proposal to introduce the same streamflow legislation that died in the last legislative session, but to limit it to only the streams north of the Salmon River.

Emery's proposal was adopted after the subcommittee voted to amend the proposed legislation to establish a minimum streamflow impoundment construction matching fund.

Even Keith Higginson, director of the Idaho Department of Water Resources, told the subcommittee that he could see no value with this type of legislation. He added that there also may be court problems.

Emery said there should be a "start somewhere while the state still has water for minimum streamflow."

State Sen. Art Manley, D-Coeur d'Alene, said the state should be "prepared now rather than deal the crisis without tools to do it" at a later date.

Sen. J. Wilson Steen, R-Blaines Ferry, argued that the committee should withhold any action until the Water Resources Department had completed its water plan, which is expected to be ready in rough draft when the legislature convenes in January.

Steen said during hearings held by the subcommittee in various areas of the state, the majority of those testifying indicated that they didn't want minimum streamflow.

The proposal adopted by the subcommittee would be similar to the bill introduced at the last legislative session, but would limit it to certain streams. It would allow the department of Water Resources to establish minimum streamflows for those streams.

Higginson said Emery's proposal was "a bite into the problem," but added that he felt that the subcommittee should look at the whole state.

He also agreed with Westerberg that a problem could arise on the Blackfoot River because of expansion of phosphate developments in southeastern Idaho. He said this was "a reason to be concerned."

Westerberg explained that there were indications that the expansion would be at the headwaters of the Blackfoot and that it may jeopardize cutthroat-fishing spawning grounds. His inclusion of the Blackfoot, he explained, would provide "a tool" to preserve enough flow to protect the fish runs.

School funding increase of $22 million proposed

BOISE (UPI) — State school trustees Thursday called for a $22.4 million increase in the public school appropriation for next year, raising the general fund contribution to $992.2 million.

They accepted a budget proposal based on guidelines they put down in July, a proposal drafted by the Department of Education.

Overall, counting federal and local other funds, their proposal would boost total support of the public schools for fiscal 1977 to $206.6 million from the current estimate of $174.1 million.

Public Instruction Superintendent Roy Truby told the board if the legislature goes along with the budget request and some recommended changes in the equalization formula, there will be fewer property tax override elections next year.

He added that had the legislature not spent $5 million of surplus general fund money on tax relief this year, there would have been fewer override levies this year.

Board members voted to oppose any such tax relief at the next legislative session which could take away potential dollars for education.

Deputy public instruction superintendent Jerry Evans told the board the budget proposal would boost the average administrative and instructional salary of $9,524 in Idaho closer to the average of $11,298 in surrounding states.

He said the increased appropriation from the general fund amounted to a hike of 45.05 percent.

He meant the board:

- Approve recommendation for a four percent in-step and two percent merit salary increase for exempt instructional and administrative personnel at the two junior colleges next year.

- Okayed the rendering of new and expanded program priorities for North Idaho College next year amounting to $157,300, an increase from the $125,285 approved in July.
- Accepted a number of recommendations from the Advisory Council for Vocational Education, including one calling for an appropriation of $12.8 million, $2.7 above the present year.
- Disapproved requests by the Cascade and Boundary County School Districts to erect schools on sites smaller than the board's minimum standards.
- Reviewed preliminary proposal of new stringent teacher certification requirements that include a fifth year of higher education or a masters' degree after six years of teaching.
- Recommended to the governor and the legislature that $262,000 in supplemental appropriations be made to meet inflated utility costs at the four-year institutions for fiscal 1976.
- Asked for $450,000 in miscellaneous supplemental appropriations for the University of Idaho and Boise State University.
- Amended its fiscal 1977 budget request for higher education to include a four per cent in-grade and two per cent merit pay increase for exempt instructional personnel at Lewis-Clark State College.
- Authorized the four-year institutions of higher education to include in their fiscal 1977 budget requests an amount permitting them to meet increased costs on insurance premiums.

Murder charge filed

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (UPI) — An airman from Garden Grove, Calif., stationed at Mountain Home Air Force Base, was shot and killed Thursday and police charged another Garden Grove man with first-degree murder in the death.

Jack Bernard Sheely, 19, was shot in the head with a .22 caliber pistol. He died en route to the airbase hospital.

Mountain Home City Police arrested Gerald Harvey Newton, 24, an unemployed chemist originally from Garden Grove who was living in Mountain Home, and charged him with the crime.

Consumer protection bill faces veto

Newhouse News Service WASHINGTON — The House Thursday passed a bill to create an Agency for Consumer Protection — but the margin was only nine votes, virtually ensuring a presidential veto and death for the concept in this Congress.

election year and we will tell consumers how the people vote. We'll see how many votes the Chamber of Commerce can turn out." In debate before the vote, Rep. Frank Horton, R-N.Y., said the bill's sponsors were agreeing to several amendments to try to make the legislation more acceptable to the President and undecided members.

With consumer advocate Ralph Nader in the hotly debated part of the today's debate, Benjamin Bosworth, D-N.Y., summed up arguments for the bill. He said existing agencies bear only one side of each issue they decide and that new laws would fill the "empty chair" that a public representative of agencies make their decisions.

Compromise reached

RUPERT—Teachers won a compromise on attending all conferences, clinics and workshops Monday night when a grievance appeal by one of them was heard.
The board agreed to grant a professional leave to one representative from each department to attend one workshop during the school year.
The action came after Rick Neill, a physical education instructor, complained about a halt being put to such leaves.
Dr. Darrell Huff, district superintendent, had "put the lid on" leaves by sending out notices Oct. 7. He said the leaves should be cut to a minimum because assessed valuations were lower than anticipated and the district had lost average daily attendance money because it was short another 107 students.

Hufffield admitted that several teachers, including Neill, had been given to understand during the summer they could hold workshops, but pointed out the district is short on funds and substitute teachers.
He said he had decided that all leaves should be denied until the applicant was scheduled as a participant on the program.
Hufffield reminded the board that he had discussed the matter at the Oct. 6 meeting, placing priorities on in-service training over professional conferences. The board agreed.

Services planned in Jerome

JEROME — Revival services will be conducted at the Jerome Assembly of God with the Rhythmaires beginning Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

The services will be held nightly and will run through Sunday evening except Saturday.

The Rhythmaires evangelistic team consists of Rev. Larry Tompa who is the preacher and steel guitarist, His wife, Arlene, is the lead vocalist and plays bass and electric piano. Their daughter, Sharon, blends her vocal ability with her mother's. She also plays the rhythm guitar. They live in Kirkland, Wash. The public is invited to attend.

Buhl Baptists set youth day

BUHL — A "Youth Rally Day" will be held at Magie Valley Baptist Church of Buhl on Sunday.

In the Sunday school hour, beginning at 10 a.m., a number of questions that many churches choose to duck today will be answered from the word of God, according to church officials.

The message for the morning worship hour will be, "A Teen-Age King Who Ruled Well." The message will center on why such a young person was able to lead Israel and become one of the "good kings" of Israel.

Families are invited to attend the church at 417 11th Ave. N. on this special day.

Free Will Baptists celebrate

BUHL — The Free Will Baptist Church will celebrate its 24th anniversary Sunday.

The church was organized by Rev. Virgil Florence on Nov. 4, 1851. Rev. Florence, Rev. Jack Johnson and the pastor Bill Johnson will conduct the services. Special tribute will be given to the former pastors and all the charter members.

Music will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Clay of Buhl. All members, former members and friends are invited to attend this service. Dinner will be provided by the church in the fellowship hall following the services.

Rev. Florence and his wife and daughter, Mrs. Rosa Lee Thomas, are here from Colorado to participate in the anniversary service.

Workshop set as Ascension Church

TWIN FALLS — A workshop on evangelism for clergy and lay representatives from 29 parishes of the Episcopal Diocese of Idaho will be held at Ascension Church, Twin Falls.

The workshop conducted by Rev. A. Wayne Schwab, national officer for evangelism, New York City, will be held this evening and Saturday. Sessions will include "Fellowship of Prayer," "Faith Alive," "Witness" and "Spiritual Renewal."

Saturday sessions beginning at 9:30 a.m. will conclude with a folk mass featuring "Genesis," an inter-faith singing group of college and high school youths from the Boise area, sponsored by the Episcopal Church.

Over-all chairman for the workshop is Rev. Robert Browne, dean of St. Michael's Cathedral, Boise. In charge of local arrangements is Mrs. Edith Robertson of Ascension Parish.

LDS class topics announced

SAWBOONE — Weekly classes for the LDS Relief Society are now being held with studies in spiritual living, family living, which includes health and mother education, social relations and cultural refinement.

The visiting teacher's messages for October and November are on the topic of the Godhead, which is to be further illustrated in the spiritual living lesson for November.

Evidences of physical illness and what to do when a family member is ill were topics of the first two family health lessons.

TF church sets canvass Sunday

TWIN FALLS — This Sunday marks Every Member Canvass Sunday at the Twin Falls First Presbyterian Church.

Visitors from the church will be calling at the homes of members who have not turned in pledge cards.

The 9:30 adult discussion group will meet as usual in the fireside lounge with a coffee hour following.

Rev. Robert Van Nest will preach on "Is The World Still Lost Without Christ?" at the 11 o'clock service in the Sanctuary. Child care is provided for both services.

The inquirer's classes meet each Sunday evening. Rev. Thomas Young is in charge of the young people's class beginning at 6 p.m. in the youth room and Van Nest will lead the adult class beginning at 8 p.m. in his study.

Nazarenes to convene in SV

SUN VALLEY — District Supt. Rev. Grady W. Cantrell of the Idaho-Oregon district of the Church of the Nazarene has arranged a conference of Nazarene pastors of the 50 churches of the district.

It is scheduled for Nov. 11, beginning at 7 p.m., until noon Nov. 12.

Pastors and their wives from this community will participate in the conference which will be held at the Holiday Inn, Sun Valley.

Guest speakers will be Dr. and Mrs. V.H. Lewis. In addition to the special addresses there will be discussion sessions and devotional periods planned for spiritual refreshing and renewal.

This will be the final conference of ministers from the Idaho-Oregon district before the quadrennial general assembly of the denomination which will be held in the Convention Center, Dallas, Tex., June 17-25, 1976.

Film of China shows in TF

TWIN FALLS — A new color motion picture film entitled "The Chinese Are Coming" will be shown at the Grace Baptist Church, 798 Eastland Drive N., on Wednesday, Oct. 30 p.m.

Pastor Robert Seaman announced that the film, produced by Underground Evangelism, gives the story of the persecuted church in China — its survival and growth under communism. He says the film shows what the Chinese are really like.

Nursery facilities will be available for those with small children. Call 733-1452 for additional information.

Local church lists activities

TWIN FALLS — The Community Christian Church will meet for fellowship and worship at its regular hours at the IOOF Hall. Minister Tom Sica's message will be on "Treaty."

A special evening service will be held Sunday at 6:30. A guest speaker from the Christian Evangelism Association will be present.

Plans by the Ladies Sunshine Circle for the upcoming church bazaar are under way. Junior and senior high youth are preparing for their retreat in the mountains.

Nov. 16 a congregational meeting-potluck will be held.

Methodists to hear folk choir

TWIN FALLS — The second public appearance of the new folk choir of the Twin Falls United Methodist Church is scheduled Sunday.

Directed by Pamela Nelson Munson, the choir will sing at the 8:45 a.m. and 11 a.m. worship services. Accompanists are DAVID CHERRY, Mike Snodgrass and Brent Tomlinson, guitar; Debbie Tipple, flute, and Tammy Thompson and Diane Bennett, tambourines.

Catholic lawyers criticize canons

CORONADO CALIF. — Legal authorities of the Roman Catholic Church in America are challenging as "inconsistent, inadequate and unacceptable" the Vatican's proposed additions to canon law governing denial of the sacraments to divorced persons who remarry.

The proposed canons, rather than liberalizing existing canonical discipline, would generally reinforce it.

Some 300 members of the Catholic Canon Law Society, at a four-day meeting here marked by strong demands for liberalization of church discipline dealing with the sacraments, were generally critical of the draft canons on legal and theological grounds.

They adopted a resolution urging the American College of Bishops to "communicate to the Vatican that the proposed schema of laws is not adequate or acceptable as a basis for revision, seeks to legislate in areas where there is no theological and legal consensus and contains inadvisable legal inadequacies."

The society, which has a membership of 1,300 ordained lawyers attached to diocesan tribunals, went beyond draft resolutions of its own committees, which generally recommended deferment and further study of the proposals.

Instead, the conference here urged the Vatican to "consider whether codification should be retained as the most appropriate instrument of Catholic discipline" in view of widespread dissent among clergy and laymen.

Drafts of 361 sacramental canons, 120 of which deal with marriage, divorce and remarriage, were received by the American Bishops from Rome last March and turned over to the canon lawyers for analysis. An estimated three million American Catholics have been divorced and remarried.

The Vatican was asked by the society to defer promulgation of the new canons until areas of disagreement, including the exclusion of divorced persons from the Eucharist, could be resolved.

The draft canons were termed inconsistent with the church's sacred liturgy and the spirit of reconciliation stressed at the 1964 gathering of Bishops in Rome for Vatican II.

Studies by the society indicated that many of the proposed laws would perpetuate "a widespread misunderstanding that all those involved in irregular marriages are prohibited by law from reception of the eucharist."

Church dedicated

Volunteer-built church dedicated in Jackpot

JACKPOT — Constructed by volunteers from the Carolinas in 1974, the white frame 33-by-70-foot Jackpot Baptist Church has been formally dedicated.

Services were led by Rev. Robert C. Schreckenberg, pastor of the Eastside Baptist Church of Twin Falls.

Key to the one-story building with a high, slender, wooden spire was presented to Rev. Schreckenberg by J. D. Eyrton, Twin Falls trustee of the Eastside church, at the altar.

During the fuel shortage in the winter of 1973-1974, the big structure became too expensive to heat and the classes were moved into the lounge of the Horseshoe Casino.

The circumstances were cited by domestic and foreign newspapers, magazines, television and radio stations.

In the dedicatory service

Rev. Schreckenberg cited Dan Young, Weaverville layman, as a leading factor in generating enthusiasm and financing for the local church, which included Jackpot's first Child Care Center.

On vacation from their jobs in the Carolinas, volunteers ate and slept in tents while constructing the Jackpot church.

Lynwood Chapel sets installation Sunday

TWIN FALLS — Rev. Jacob Quiring, new minister of Lynwood Chapel in Twin Falls, will be installed at the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday.

Rev. Jim Kinmel, Northeast district superintendent of the Missionary Church, San Jose, Calif., will be the installing officer.

Rev. Quiring comes to Twin Falls from Yakima, Wash., where he pastored a Missionary church for two years. He previously served churches in California.

A native of Nebraska, Rev. Quiring attended Henderson Bible School, Henderson, Neb.; BIOLA Bible College in Los Angeles and the Pacific Bible College, Fresno, Calif.

He has served on the home mission board of his denomination, worked with the Mennonite Brethren Church and has directed choirs and plays several instruments.

REV. JACOB QUIRING

To speak

DR. L. S. Oliver, former pastor of the Twin Falls First Church of the Nazarene, will speak during the fall revival Nov. 18 through 25 in the Twin Falls church. Special groups will present gospel music each night of the revival services. Additional information is available by calling 733-3679.

Society officers

OFFICERS chosen for the Magic Valley Community Services Organization of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church include Mrs. Lavonia Casey, president, from Filer, and Mrs. Pat Spohn, vice president from Eden.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 15-year-old girl with a terrible problem. I wanted to be popular with the dudes, so I smoked grass, got drunk and did things only married people should do. Now I want to change.

I haven't messed around for four months. I took a part-time job for a janitor at a restaurant and I'm getting real good grades, but I'm still called a "whore."

Nobody will give me a chance. Abby, I have no friends. Girls are afraid they'll get a bad name if they're seen with me, and I can't blame them. Boys want only one thing, and since I've stopped putting out, they don't bother with me. I hate myself. I've been so down and lonely lately. When I was a whore, at least I had someone to talk to. Shrinkers are expensive, and there are no free clinics here for counseling. All my teachers hate me because of my reputation, and I feel too cheap and dirty to go to church. Please help me.

WANTS TO CHANGE

DEAR WANTS: I'm proud of you. You have already grown spiritually, or you wouldn't have thought of going to church or changing your ways.

You're wrong, honey. Your teachers don't hate you, and you're not too "dirty" to go to church.

Pick the teacher you'd like most for a friend and meet her half-way. Also, go-to-church-and-give-your-clergyman-a-chance to help you. All you need to change your life is the will to do it. Please try and write to me again in six months and tell me how things are going. I'll be there.

She wants to change

DEAR ABBY: In response to that 62-year-old woman who is going with a 34-year-old man. She's afraid her children and others will think she's making a fool of herself. She's also afraid people might think she is his mother.

I am 61, and I've been going with a very handsome, 28-year-old man for over two years.

Doyle and I don't care if someone mistakes me for his mother. After all, I am 23 years older than Doyle and that's old enough to be his mother.

The day I stopped worrying about what other people thought I started living.

I have a son who is older than Doyle, and he says, "Mom, anything that makes you happy is just fine with me."

If people limited their friends to their own age group, they'd miss a lot of fun. I say, enjoy what you have while you have it. It will all be gone too soon.

CALIFORNIAN

DEAR CAL: I'm with you!

DEAR ABBY: How does one address a congratulatory telegram to newlyweds who are retaining their individual surnames? Western Union couldn't give me an answer.

UNCLE CLIFF

DEAR UNCLE: "Congratulations to Mary Smith and John Jones on your marriage."

DEAR ABBY: In response to the mother-to-be who asked whether some people were uncomfortable in the presence of a woman who was breast-feeding her baby in public. I would like to post a definite YES.

A woman's bare breast is a bare breast, whether it's exposed to nurse a baby or displayed for sexual titillation. There is no excuse for a mother's nursing her baby in public. She can always find a rest-room.

Business remodels

TWIN FALLS — Arnold Machinery Co. celebrated the grand opening of its newly remodelled and expanded facility Thursday.

Arnold's is the local dealer for Hyster forklifts and will soon be featuring a new series of the forklifts, according to Wall Marlow, advertising manager.

Construction on the building which has doubled in size began in August and was finished by October. Contractor for the project was Ullman Construction Co. of Twin Falls.

Arnold's has been at its present site since 1971 and served the area with a resident service man prior to that date, according to Marlow. Expansion became necessary this year because both customer service and area for parts for the lift trucks required additional space.

"We have faith in the progress of the Magee Valley area," says Marlow.

Branch manager for Arnold's in Twin Falls is Ed Wandling.

Voters to elect new director

TWIN FALLS — Voters in the Twin Falls Highway district will go to the polls Dec. 15 to elect one of four year directors.

Ora Jones, Hollister, who has served on the highway district board the past 12 years, holds the expiring term and has announced he will not seek reelection. Jones said he has served 12 years and feels someone else should have an opportunity to work with county road and highway matters.

Nominating petitions are available at the Highway

District office in Twin Falls and must be returned there at least by 10 days prior to Dec. 1. Petitions must be signed by a minimum of 10 qualified electors who reside in the sub-district for which the nominee is seeking election.

The candidate must reside in the district he is to represent and must be nominated by residents of that district.

Those seeking election are invited to check the January map in the highway district office to determine if they are eligible for the vacancy. Generally the sub-district open in the Dec. 1 election is south of Twin Falls including the Hollister area. Rogerson and as far as the Bell Rapids and Blue Gulch projects.

Nine voting precincts in the district will be established for the election.

Power poles to stay

By BART QUESNELL, Times-News writer

KETCHUM — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has told Ketchum in effect to forget about Idaho Power's erection of power poles higher than the city ordinance allows, according to the city attorney.

Bob Rayburn, city attorney, said IPUC director Arthur Hadley told him National Safety Codes take precedence over local ordinances.

Idaho Power Co. installed new power poles along Warm Springs Road two weeks ago that exceed the city ordinance height requirement. The company did not notify the city when the poles were installed.

IPUC officials told Rayburn the city could request a hearing before the state regulatory body but it would probably do little good. Hadley says it appears the only way the company can comply with local and national laws would be to string two power lines, one on each side of the road.

Rayburn says, "The cost will be passed to the public if we make the company take them down anyway."

Rayburn says the company can do what it wants in the city of Ketchum under IPUC regulations and National Safety Codes.

The news from Rayburn made county members Jack Corroek and Marh Pottevin unhappy. Corroek says, "They have got it in made to stop. The power company has told us the River Run area is close to needing new poles. They're ready to go down there, too."

Pottevin says, "Maybe we didn't make it clear enough to them in our meeting that one way or another those poles on Warm Springs are going to come down. What we are saying is that they have to find another way to supply power there."

Rayburn says there is a serious question what the city can do to regulate pole heights. Corroek says the city must make Idaho Power realize when new poles are erected in the town the company must tell the city so routes and costs can be considered.

"I have a feeling that's never going to happen if we don't rattle their chains," he says.

New trial scheduled

TWIN FALLS — A new trial has been scheduled for Feb. 23, before Judge James M. Cunningham in the case of Willard Dunnigan, 20, charged with robbery.

An earlier trial in Fifth Judicial District Court resulted in a hung jury. Dunnigan appeared this week before Fifth District Judge Douglas Kramer for rescheduling of the case. He was released by the court on his own recognizance pending the new trial. Mel Edwards, assistant prosecuting attorney, said.

Dunnigan is charged with the robbery and beating of Hazel Haffner and robbing William Haffner May 31 at their bicycle shop and home, 236 Fourth Ave. W.

Our own experience with ordinary bridge players is that most Norths would just bid four hearts over South's three hearts, but this would not stop the South players from going right into Blackwood and maybe even trying for a grand slam by bidding five notrump after North shows the missing ace.

The bidding in the box shows how the American Contract Bridge League staff figured most players will get to six hearts.

Six hearts is a fine contract and South should have little trouble making seven since things break nicely for him. The correct technique against a club lead is to play ace of spades at trick two. Ruff a spade with dummy's king at trick three. Lead a diamond to

Sediment, erosion control local problem

TWIN FALLS — Sediment and erosion control should be handled at the local level, Rodney Hansen, member of the state soil conservation commission, told Division 4 conservationists this week.

Hansen was one of several speakers attending the annual division meeting of soil conservation district delegates from Magic Valley.

He explained the proposal of the state commission for administering the erosion and sediment problems through Soil Conservation Districts at the local level. It is probable, he said, if local measures are not taken, the federal government will adopt and administer a program from the federal level.

He said all farmers and others will have to do a better job themselves in the eventual control method. The problems result from farm irrigation systems, construction, heavy runoff from spring thawing, rains and flash floods.

A resolution on sediment and erosion control will be one of several introduced at the state soil conservation district convention in Coeur d'Alene.

Roger Flata, Jerome, discussed the coming state convention and resolutions the local division will propose at that time.

Paul Kelly reported on needed changes in the election procedure for district supervisors.

Garnet Kild, Kimberly, chairman of the division, and president of the state association, presided during Monday afternoon business sessions and during the dinner in the College of Southern Idaho cafeteria.

County Commission Chairman Merl E. Leonard, Twin Falls County, spoke on the previous weed program in Idaho following the dinner. He reported on information presented during the state meeting of weed bureau directors.

The Blaine County Soil Conservation District received the Goodyear award for the outstanding district in this area. Harvey Blackett, chairman for the district supervisors was awarded the outstanding supervisor honor and will receive a trip to the Goodyear plant in Arizona.

The Minidoka district placed second and the Wood River district, Waldo Paugh as chairman, received the Allis Chalmers award for top conservation practices during the year.

A special conservation award was presented to Mrs. Begie Hatmaker, Shoshone school teacher as the outstanding conservation teacher in the division. She also received her award from Allis Chalmers, Inc.

Loan plan offered

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, joined as a cosponsor Wednesday of legislation to aid farmers and ranchers with livestock accidentally contaminated with toxic chemicals.

The aid would be in the form of emergency federal loans. Church said that since 1968 there have been 18 incidents involving the incorporation of toxic chemicals into poultry feed. At the same time, two other incidents involving cattle, swine and lambs have occurred.

"For the farmer, the problem of chemical contamination doesn't end after the cleanup," Church said. "The farmer still has to face the economic problem that will occur."

Wheat data review asked

BOISE (UPI) — Administrator Harold West of the Idaho Wheat Commission today disputed wheat production figures of the State Crop and Livestock Reporting Service and urged an immediate review of these figures.

West disagreed with the service's Oct. 1 figures showing Idaho produced 61.3 million bushels of wheat.

He said he has contracted producers and elevator operators throughout the state and reports reveal production is down anywhere from 14 to 40 percent.

"I have yet to check with a producer who has a greater yield this year compared to last year," West wrote the service.

The October report listed Idaho with six per cent fewer wheat acres this year but total production off only one per cent. Average yield per acre in 1973 was up nearly six per cent over last year, according to the report.

West said, however, there is "strong evidence throughout the state that production is down by as much as 20 per cent." He said such erroneous reports have a drastic effect on marketing conditions for wheat.

"The erroneous report, indicating more production than we actually have is producers and handlers."

"We would hope that, for this purpose, you would discard your present method of survey which is so dependent upon a sampling of one or two per cent of the producers and handlers of wheat in the state," West said.

Stock feeding picks up

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

After "some hesitation" this summer, livestock and poultry feeding picked up in response to favorable relationships between product prices and feed costs, the Agriculture Department said in its feed situation summary.

Feed grain prices, USDA said, are likely to run somewhat lower in 1973-74 than in the past year. Corn prices at the farm may average between $2.50 and 2.60 a bushel, compared to about $3 in 1972. Prices at mid-season will be heavily influenced by the outlook for 1973 crops, USDA said.

USDA said that a continuing gain in the number of eggs set indicates that October-December, broiler marketings may be about ten per cent greater than the reduced 1972 levels and should continue larger into 1973.

Hog producers are expected to have six per cent more sows farrow in December, 1973 - February, 1974, USDA said, after reducing farrowings about 10 per cent last summer and indicating a seven per cent reduction September- November.

Grain deal topic

BOISE (UPI) — The U.S. Russian grain deal will be discussed from both sides at the annual convention of the Idaho State Wheat Growers Association convention Monday and Tuesday in Boise.

Association officials said today.

They said the growers' feelings would be aired by Don Woodward, a Pendleton, Ore., wheat producer and president of the National Association of Wheat Growers, and the administration side would be presented by Peter Paul, Washington, D.C., of the Department of Agriculture.

Woodward has been an outspoken critic of governmental interference in the wheat marketing picture and recently labeled the Russian grain deal "a failure at Yankee trading which limits rather than assures future sales."

Local usage cuts prices

on Gem milk

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — A University of Idaho agricultural economist says Idaho dryfarmers receive low prices because only 30 per cent of their milk is consumed in the state.

Dr. Russell Withers said the flow of milk to market in Idaho is basically the same as it was in 1971. He said there has been no big change in the economic aspects of the industry in Idaho since he wrote a bulletin in May, 1973 and that Idaho remains a surplus producing market.

Since Idaho still is producing surplus milk, most of which goes into manufactured dairy products, he said, Idaho dryfarmers receive a lower price for raw milk than producers in other parts of the country.

Tour conducted

FIFTEEN water users toured facilities of the Twin Falls Canal Co. Thursday. Al Peters, general manager, led the annual tour, which included visits to canal taps and spills, the point where the high and low-line canals divide, the Cottonwood channel and the Rock Creek siphon and an inspection drive along the canal banks.

Disposal well survey begins

By CHARLOTTE BELL Times-News writer

JEROME — State officials have begun surveying Magic Valley waste disposal wells to learn how much they have contaminated the Snake River Plain underground water supply. The four-county inventory involves mapping wells in Jerome, Gooding, Minidoka and Lincoln counties. The survey is being made by the southern district office of the Idaho Department of Water Resources, according to state director R. Keith Higginson. Higginson said information about disposal wells is needed to apply permits to control such wastes. He said wastewater from city sewage systems, farms, industry or power generating plants are the main sources of contamination. Under state and federal law, wastewater can only be permitted where it does not adversely affect domestic water sources. "We hope to formulate basic minimum standards for Idaho regulation which will serve to protect domestic sources," he said. He said a 1972 state survey of disposal wells in Eastern Idaho showed "some of the disposal wells penetrated the water table, thus permitting liquid wastes to be dispersed directly into the ground water." Other wells released their waste in zones of broken rock where the waste could move into the water table. He said such wells, after an economic method of disposing excess water and waste because the Snake River Plain readily accepts fluids into fracture zones. "Fractures, joints, lava tubes and other large openings in basaltic formations may allow bacteria to migrate much greater distances. For this reason liquid wastes injected into the basaltic aquifer of the Snake River Plain may present a significant potential pollution problem," he said. Also, some toxic chemical constituents, such as nitrate, tend to remain in solution and are not readily removed from the water by filtration, regardless of the type of aquifer materials," he said. He emphasized that both bacteria and dissolved chemical constituents in wastewater may be a source of pollutants to the aquifer.

Directional signs urged

BUHL — The Buhl City Council has endorsed the local chamber of commerce in requesting directional signs to Buhl on Interstate 80 at Bliss. Hal Walker, chamber president, said letters are being sent to highway officials as well as congressional delegations urging that a sign be placed on the east Bliss exit of the Interstate indicating Buhl as well as Hagerman can be reached on the Highway 30 route through Hagerman Valley. Councilmen went on record supporting the request at the Tuesday night council meeting.

In other business, final reading was heard of an ordinance to re-zone a lot owned by James Wavra from residential to light commercial. It is located on the west end of Broadway.

Councilmen also have approved trading property at the old dump ground site with Darrell Lyons. Mayor Ted Pence said the city traded six or seven acres for 15 owned by Lyons, all adjacent to the site. He said the trade will be advantageous to the city.

Councilmen will begin work on writing a dog leash ordinance, Pence said, since all councilmen are committed to following the results of Tuesday's advisory dog leash ballot, which was approved by nearly two-thirds majority.

Power hookup discussed

RUPERT — Rupert councilmen continued to doubt possibility of any agreement with Rural Electric Co. but saw possibility of extra contact with potential developers of an area south of Courtdyde Estates.

A group of eight people interested in developing the area with condominiums pleaded with the city council Thursday night to find a method of making the development feasible. Under state law, the area is subject to electrical service from Rural Electric, but developers are seeking annexation to obtain municipal services. The city has a policy of annexing and providing utilities only in areas it also serves with electricity.

The matter was brought up at the last council meeting, but councilmember Titlebop said an agreement with Rural Electric. The company had told developers that it would be willing to offer Rupert 5 per cent of the gross from electrical service, but that was not acceptable.

Mayor Wendell Johnson said Thursday that an agreement might be reached if the company increased the proposal another 30 per cent. Public Services Superintendent Elmer Senek said the city makes about a 25 per cent profit on its electrical system.

Mayor Johnson explained that the city could make such a profit on lower rates than Rural Electric because it had an contract with the power-supplying Bonville Power Administration.

Under the contract, Rupert can take $130,000 a year out of the electrical fund and transfer it to the general fund. It also enjoys some free services, such as power for irrigation water.

Fairfield man chairman of new advisory board

SHOSHONE — Livestock representative, Allen Bausher, Fairfield, has been named chairman of the newly formed Shoshone District Multiple Use Advisory Board, according to Charles J. Hassler, district range manager.

Don Fredrickson, Gooding, the representative for public interest, was elected vice chairman.

Others serving on the advisory board are Denis Burks, Rupert, and Wayne Clark, Bellevue, representing livestock interests; Marshall Everheart, Jerome, wildlife; Stephen Boller, Halley, recreation; Josephine Hillis, Burley, local government; Clifton Dixon, Gooding, land use; and Mary Jane Martin, Ketchum, environmental quality.

Boller also served on the Idaho State Multiple Use Advisory Board, representing recreation interests and the Shoshone district board.

Five-year goals for management of the lands, minerals, range, watershed, recreation, forestry and wildlife are being considered by the board.

Items of concern to the board center around the federal court decision of 1975 directing the Bureau of Land Management to prepare Environmental Impact Statements (EIS) on grazing.

The EIS are an analysis of the effects of grazing on national resource lands. Three grazing areas have been identified in the Shoshone district requiring analysis statements.

These areas are the Bennett Hills, Sun Valley and Wildhorse areas. The completion of the Environmental Impact Statement for the Bennett Hills is scheduled for completion in 1977.

The board felt the EIS requirement would have a detrimental effect on the range land since no further land treatment projects in support of livestock grazing will be permitted until completion of the EIS.

The board has voted to have Stephen Boller express this concern to the Idaho State Multiple Use Advisory Board.

HAW OK's Blaine home agreement

By BART QUESNELL Times-News writer

HAILEY — The Idaho Department of Health and Welfare has approved a new agreement with the Other Side of Time shelter home which guarantees a huge increase in state monetary support for the home.

Al Davison, youth services worker, speaker for district HAW head Milt Klein, Twin Falls, told a board of directors meeting Thursday night the contract has been signed and became effective Oct. 1.

The contract will guarantee a payment of $46.12 per child per month at the home. This year, the figure was about $150 per boy per month.

The state has set a maximum ceiling on the amount paid for OSOT services of $32,841. That figure is based on a full 12-month occupancy with full capacity of six boys.

OSOT must come up with $3,496 in local contributions and give up its share of a match with the state agency.

Davison said the dramatic increase in state support was partially because the cost of care has gone up considerably. Children at the home will be getting the same services as before, he said.

There will be more responsibility on the house parents, who are still to be chosen, he said, to do certain things for the boys in the home. Custodial duties will increase to the parents, he said.

The couple chosen as parents will act as surrogate parents, giving children emotional as well as physical help. They must work for the rehabilitation of the boys. OSOT will act as a liaison between the school and each boy's friends.

House parents must follow the program set up by local mental health center case workers who will be assigned to each boy.

Board member Marilyn Stavros said the home still has some bills which are not paid, "but we're not that far behind."

Board chairman Joe Wurst said he expected no problems in the future with funding. State legislators, he said, have told him the appropriations will keep coming if put to a "beneficial use."

Janet O'Kreilly, who started the Other Side of Time, was presented a certificate of appreciation at the board meeting Thursday.

She said the home was planned in 1971 and the first house opened in 1972.

In 1973, the operation moved to the present location west of the Junction of U.S. Highway 20 and State Highway 68.

Rupert post to Douglass

RUPERT — Nephie (Red) Douglas is slated to take over the reins of Rupert Chamber of Commerce for 1976.

Douglas, manager of the Safeway Store in Rupert, moves up from the vice-presidency to succeed Shirley Leoni, current president.

Mrs. Leoni announced candidates for the board and other officers at Thursday's chamber luncheon.

She said ballots will be mailed out next week and must be returned to the chamber office by Dec. 1.

Jay McBride, owner of Milne Auto Parts in Rupert, and Burley, and Harold Turvey, secretary of Idaho Power Co., have been nominated for first vice-president and the succession right to the 1977 presidency.

Two optometrists, Drs. John Head and Dale Miles, have been nominated for second vice president. Lee Peterson, Minidoka Trifrigation Division employee, was nominated for secretary-treasurer.

Seven were nominated for the board of directors. They are Lyte Myers, Intermountain Gas Co. employee; James Miles, manager of Anderson Lumber Co.; Hans Botherf, First Security Bank; Jack Taylor, farmer and owner of The Bank Store in Rupert; and Robert Haskin, owner of Western Auto; Robert Cameron, co-owner of Cameron Inc.; and Arvin Hansen, owner and manager of Walk-Hansen Mortuary.

Three will be chosen as directors for three years, two for one year.

McBride is currently second vice president and Turvey is a retiring member of the board.

Drs. Head and Miles both are on the board of directors. Head having another year to serve. Other retiring board members include Charles Dalry, Floyd Green and Charles Sitt; well; Dr. Darrell Hatfield; Marvin Tolmich and John Sinclair have two more years to serve.

John Cameron is immediate past president and Steve Torch secretary-treasurer.

The secretary manager is LaVonne Colbert.

Wall wins seat

ACEQUIA — Larry Wall won a four-year seat on the Acequia City Council Thursday night on the flip of a coin.

Wall edged out Glen Stephenson when a coin flip came up heads after the council's canvass of Tuesday's election confirmed that each had 20 votes for the second of two council positions.

Wall is a Rupert miller and has a repair shop in Acequia. Incumbent Gerald Harrison had easily won reelection with 38 votes. The other incumbent, Curtis Bair, netted only 10 votes and Fred Barton had 4.

Mayor Vernard Constock, who has served the city in elective positions for about 25 years, ran up 42 votes unopposed for reelection. He chaired the village board here and has held the mayor position since Acequia became a city.

Rupert councilman resigns

RUPERT — Councilman Ted Creason resigned from the Rupert City Council Thursday. His resignation is effective Dec. 1. The council formally accepted it with regret.

In a letter to Mayor Wendell Johnson, Creason said he has taken a position with a Lewiston law firm starting Dec. 1. Creason was appointed to the council to replace the late William Strasser last spring when Strasser moved to Boise. His seat was up for election this week.

In September Creason announced he would run for council but later said he would not because of "personal and business" reasons. The council seat was won Tuesday by W.F. Bill Whitton, himself a former councilman.

Benefit dinner tonight

HAGERMAN — A benefit dinner will be held Friday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Hagerman LDS Church for Steve and Tina Davis. The public is invited.

Windows reported broken

TWIN FALLS — Four residents on Sun Lattue Avenue reported broken windows from BB guns Wednesday. City police arrested two juvenile boys who reside in the area. Both were released to their parents, pending court appearances.

Mrs. J.L. Ballard, 1823 San Lattue, reported a large picture window broken. Damage was estimated at 75. Allen Debo, 1823 San Lattue, also reported damage of $75 from a broken window.

Kenneth Miller, 1816 San Lattue, said a window in his home and a small window in a travel trailer parked at his home were broken. Damage totaled $70. Terry Conner, 1840 San Lattue, listed damage of $30 from a window broken from the rear of his home.

The two juveniles were charged with malicious destruction of private property.

Tools, tool box reported stolen

TWIN FALLS — Dick Kruse, Hagerman, told city police someone took a tool box and tools from his pickup Wednesday while it was parked at George K's restaurant. He estimated loss at $182.

Sue Peterson, Sun Valley, told officers three sleeping bags were taken from her car while it was parked in a parking lot in Twin Falls Wednesday. She estimated the loss at $355.

William Beane reported the theft of a citizens band radio unit from his automobile. He discovered the theft this morning. The vehicle was parked at his home, he told police. Loss was estimated at $229.

Sentences pending at Burley

BURLEY — Sentences are pending for three men who pleaded guilty to burglaries in Burley.

The three are Thomas O. Meyers, 19, Heburn, David Allen Bass, 22, Heburn, and Larry Wayne Hayhurst, 20, Burley. They entered guilty pleas in Fifth District Court this week.

Meyers and Bass, also known as Carl Lee Swanson, pleaded guilty to burglary of Gary Jones Construction. Radio equipment was taken from the business on Sept. 7.

All three pleaded guilty to burglary of the Mawerick Service Station on Sept. 15.

Meyers and Bass also face forgery charges in Minidoka County stemming from the Jones burglary. Two checks were taken in the theft and passed for a total of $450 at a Paul Hank the following day.

2 fugitives found

BURLEY — Two fugitives from Burley legal proceedings have been found in two different parts of the West.

Michael Dean Yearick, 25, Arkansas, has been returned to Burley by the Cassia County Sheriff's Department. He was arrested Oct. 21 in Pueblo, Colo., on a warrant charging first degree burglary.

David L. McClung, 28, California, is awaiting extradition at The Dalles, Ore., on a bench warrant for failure to appear in Burley. McClung was arrested Aug. 17, 1974, by Burley police and charged with giving two prescriptions for controlled substances and passing them at Sibley Pharmacy. He was also charged with possession of a felon's amount over three ounces of marijuana.

Yearick is in Burley police custody on $10,000 bond. He is charged in connection with the Sept. 7 burglary of the Carl Dayley home on Alma Avenue.

Burley's Town Meeting '76 set Saturday

By SHANE O'NEILL Times-News Writer

BURLEY — Over 190 people have pre-registered for Burley's Town Meeting '76, the first such meeting in Idaho.

Bette Rogers, co-chairman of the event said Thursday that the committee is planning for 250 and can accommodate more.

Town Meeting '76 is scheduled Saturday at the new Burley Junior High School. The meeting begins with registration at 9 a.m. and will end about 3 p.m.

The idea of a day of people getting together to try to present something practical, said Mrs. Roper. The day-long meeting will concentrate in the morning on the challenges today in social, political and economic issues. The afternoon will be devoted to offering practical proposals to solve the problems given priorities in the morning.

Mrs. Roper said an introductory talk on the "new world" will begin about 9:30-9:45 a.m., followed by workshops on the community and nation's problems. The gathering will break up into groups of about 50 people each for the workshops.

A free lunch, featuring hamburgers, hot dogs and apple pie, will be served at noon. Local ordermen will be free to help.

Following a talk on the "new human," afternoon workshops will then develop practical solutions to the problems enumerated in morning workshops.

Each participant will receive a copy of the problems and solutions that have been offered during the day before he goes home.

The results will be computerized with other findings from numerous Town Meetings over the nation and publicized nationwide.

Town Meeting '76 is sponsored by the Institute of Cultural Affairs, Chicago, Ill., with volunteer staff members in major cities in the United States. Two members of the institute will be on hand to set the tone of the meeting and the institute will furnish workshop leaders. Local people will act as backup leaders in each workshop.

The meeting is a one-day community forum for all people in the area to spend a day together identifying the basic issues of the local community and the underlying challenges facing the nation.

Forty-five local communities in 29 states held town meetings involving 7,400 people during a four-month project period ending July 5. Burley is the first town in Idaho to hold such a meeting.

The goal for the next two years is 2,000 town meetings over the nation with a million participants. "It's the old pioneer idea of people helping each other," said Mrs. Roper.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Early a.m. delays can be wiped out by some dramatic activity. Prepare for a most interesting afternoon and evening when all kinds of pleasures and happy events could take place if you are ready and in the mood to enjoy them. Accept invitations, or entertain.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) An outside affair seems almost sure, but the final decision occurs to you, improves surroundings later. Find new wardrobe items.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Garner all data about a new outlet before you get into it, then you can make a fine new ally. Enjoy pleasures later.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get work done. Then you can come to a fine understanding with regular associates, but the final decision occurs to you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Handle private matters early. Later you may have some unexpected visitors. Expand talents. Come to better understanding with mate.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Some personal matter has you amused early, but later all works to your advantage. Spend a little as you can for active fun occurs to you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Fine day to show your best talents to others and gain their backing. Enjoy favorite recreations. Get rid of anxieties early.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't try to force anything. In a.m. After lunch you can get much accomplished intelligently. Entertain congenial at home in p.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Lion out situation that presents delays. Then you can be with good friends. Take any needed short trip in afternoon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study your financial status early. Later, improve it. Be alert to the fine opportunities around you. Avoid a heavy drinker.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Being helpful with others in a.m. could bring much trouble. Use tact, then you have a good day. A newcomer could be useful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Turn a bothersome matter into an opportunity to advance. A trusted adviser isn't understanding in a.m., but turns helpful later.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A pal may disappoint in a.m., but later either changes or you get great assistance from another friend. A personal desire is gained by p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will require a good deal of education since the mind is inquiring and your progeny wants to make big headway in the world. The life becomes successful once the forte is found, since there is a fine ability to coordinate theory and practicality. Don't neglect religious training early. The Star impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Divorce is a pretty rough experience, our Love and War man admits that. But it's not as rough hereabouts now as once it was in Moldavia. That was a principality of what today is a part of Rumania. There was no alimony, no support payment, no separate maintenance, no legal fee and no court cost. Alexandru Tapaseanu, the ruler of the place from 1546 to 1568, simplified the situation greatly. He just imposed the death penalty on anybody who even started divorce proceedings.

Burley, Minico appear in new SIC second division

BOISE — A "second division" of the Southern Idaho Conference, which will include Minico and Burley, appears all but certain.

Superintendents of all the SIC teams plus others sat in on a meeting Thursday at Boise in conjunction with the state trustees' convention.

Reliable sources said Burley and Blackfoot would join with Minico and Caldwell, current members, and incoming Bonnevile in the "second" division. Nampa, one of the prime movers in the reshuffling, announced it definitely would stay in the upper division.

But no one wanted to be quoted as saying that is the way it will be. More will be known next Wednesday when the principals and athletic directors of the schools involved meet in Twin Falls.

They are under instruction from the superintendents to make the program workable.

Just how the probable five-team division would fit into the overall scheme of things or really fit the scheduling problems of the teams involved wasn't made clear.

Blackfoot's decision to go the SIC route came less than 24 hours after the school had asked the Cross State Conference for re-admission. The Broncos once opposed to that alignment but left in the 60s.

Bonneville, which was admitted to the league last season and was to compete in all activities starting next fall, reportedly told the group it wasn't concerned about which division it was placed in.

If the thing works out as sources said Thursday, it would return the SIC to a 10-team league with the three Boise schools, Nampa, Meridian, Iwo, Pocatello and two Idaho Falls schools, and Twin Falls.

That alignment fits scheduling well and allows the teams the non-conference opener they have had since adopting a four-game schedule three years ago.

While the five-team second alignment leaves the new members searching for six non-conference games annually, some at the meeting expressed confidence that once the second division was fact some other schools might join.

Of the 10 remaining in the upper division, none appeared interested in the new division.

The decision ends 36 years of annual participation by Caldwell against the other large schools in Southern Idaho. The Cougar's enrollment has dropped behind the other, for the past several years, largely due to the establishment of Valluave high school.

For many years that district sent all its high school students to Caldwell.

Minico has been a member of the SIC for the past two seasons.

Moe to sign as Virginia coach

DENVER (UPI) — Doug Moe's basketball career has grown along with the American Basketball Association.

He began as a professional player with New Orleans in the 1967-68 season, the first year of the ABA. He became an assistant coach in 1972 with the Carolina Cougars. Now he is on the verge of becoming a head coach with the Virginia Squires.

Moe, who served as an assistant to Larry Brown at Carolina for two years and came with Brown to the Denver Nuggets a year ago, has emerged as the top candidate for the Virginia job, UPI learned Thursday. Moe, in Salt Lake City for the Nuggets' Thursday night game with the Stars, confirmed he was contacted.

"You could say we have gotten past the first stage," said Moe, who expected to discuss contract with Squires' management before the weekend. "But I don't know what they will do now, nor do I know what I will do."

Moe, a three-time All-Star during a career which saw him play at New Orleans, Oakland, Carolina and Virginia, has been offered several other head coaching jobs, including San Diego and St. Louis, but turned them down. There were several things which appealed to him about Virginia.

"It's something when the standpoint that I know some of the players they have and I enjoyed the area very much when I played there," he said. "There are several things I like about the situation."

NFL sets up deadline for signing of WFL players

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League has given its 26 teams a deadline for signing ex-World Football League players so no team can "buy a championship," according to Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Rozelle Thursday said the teams must sign WFL players before Nov. 26 for them to be eligible for the current season. He said the NFL owners have also given permission to the league's two incoming franchises, Tampa and Seattle, to sign WFL players for the 1976 season.

"It is our right to have a cutoff date for a certain class of player," Rozelle said in the Nov. 26 deadline. "The other major sports have it. It prevents a team from buying a championship."

The deadline business started in baseball. Back in 1955, the Chicago Cubs picked up Hank Borowsky from the Yankees and he won 11 straight games in the stretch to help them win the pennant. In 1949 the Yankees picked up Johnny Mize late in the season and he helped them win the pennant and they added

Johnny Hopp late in the 1950 season in another pennant winning year. In 1932 they picked up Ray Scarborough, in 1936 they picked up Eusebio Slaughter.

"The Yankees got out Maglie late in the 1957 season and right about that time baseball tightened up its trading restrictions."

Rozelle said the owners were having difficulty resolving the player allocation problem of Seattle and Tampa. He said some of the owners want to give the two new clubs prime positioning in the college draft and other teams want to make more players available to them in the expansion draft.

Rozelle admitted the owners were looking out for their own welfare more than that of the two new teams.

"Teams who don't have the draft choices, who have traded them away, say 'let's give them a break in the college draft—that's how you build a club,'" Rozelle said. "And the teams with the draft choices want a larger expansion draft in stocking the new teams."

The commissioner said the owners would be back in session at 9 a.m. today on the allocation problem but he advised the press to "sleep in."

"With all the time we take I don't see how we could get things done that quickly," Rozelle said when asked if noon might be too soon to expect an announcement of some sort.

Rozelle also announced the league offices had cleared the first WFL player, making him eligible to sign with an NFL club. He and tackle Chris Morris, formerly of the San Antonio Wings, had been given the go-ahead to sign with any club which might need his services.

Rozelle said it is the individual responsibility of each player to prove to NFL headquarters he is free of all contractual obligations with the WFL before he can be cleared to play in the NFL.

"Obviously if a player got a court order like Stalder (Oakland quarterback Ken) did last year we'd feel safe about that," Rozelle explained. "He could also provide us with clauses in his contract which would free him, or if his team folded as was the case with John Gilliam, or if he could provide correspondence with his owners which might free him."

The annual midseason owners' meetings will be wrapped up today.

ALEX GRAMMAS, righthand man to world champion Cincinnati Reds manager Sparky Anderson, was expected to be named new manager of Milwaukee Brewers Friday morning.

Brewers to hire Grammas, put Aaron in front office

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Alex Grammas, righthand man to Cincinnati Reds manager Sparky Anderson, was named Friday as the new manager of the Milwaukee Brewers. UPI learned Thursday. The Brewers also announced that all-time home run king Henry Aaron will play one more season and then become a club vice president.

Aaron said he has agreed to play another season for the Brewers—as a designated hitter—and then take the highest position ever given a back in baseball history.

The developments ended speculation in which Aaron was considered a prime candidate for the managerial post.

The Brewers scheduled a Friday morning news conference to announce the signing of Grammas, a third base coach with the world champion Reds, to a two-year contract calling for an estimated $45,000 salary.

He will become the third manager in the Brewers' short history, replacing Del Crandall, who was fired before the final game of the 1975 season.

Grammas arrived in Milwaukee Thursday and said he would "talk to the management of the Milwaukee Brewers about the possibility of managing their ball club."

"He is an excellent baseball man," Anderson said. "He helped me tremendously. I'm the kind of guy who jumps, but Alex had a way of restraining me and having me take a second look. I have no doubt he'd be a success at whatever he did, and that includes managing a big league club."

Aaron, who broke into the big leagues with the old Milwaukee Braves in 1954, hit 234 last season with 12 home runs and 60 rbi, raising his record-setting career home run total to 755.

In a joint announcement, Aaron and Brewers President Allan "Bud" Selig said Aaron would complete the second year on his two-year pact with the Brewers before assuming the executive post.

"I started my career in Milwaukee 22 years ago and this is where I want to finish it," Aaron said. "I appreciate the number of opportunities which Mr. Selig and the club have asked me to consider and I have decided to accept their offer to become a vice president of the club when I finish my playing career."

Selig said he was "delighted" that Aaron will play again next season.

"There is no question in my mind that he (Aaron) can make many positive contributions to this ball club in the future," he said.

"His 22 years of professional baseball experience will be an extraordinary asset to our organization and we feel very fortunate in being able to have Henry join us in the front office."

Grammas, 48, known as the "Golden-Groek," had been approached by other major league clubs about managerial jobs. A native of Birmingham, Ala., he played for the St. Louis Cardinals, the Reds and the Chicago Cubs between 1954 and 1963. He served as a coach with the Pittsburgh Pirates from 1963 to 1970 before moving to Cincinnati.

Havlicek says sub adds to his career

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Celtics veteran John Havlicek has found a new hero in young Glenn McDonald.

"I root for him every second of the way," said the 36-year-old swingman of his 23-year-old backup. "He's the kind of guy that will make me last longer."

McDonald, a sophomore pro from Long Beach State, heads into tonight's game at Milwaukee on a different ballplayer from the kid who averaged 2.3 minutes and 2.7 points a game last season in Wednesday night's win over Buffalo. McDonald played 19 minutes and scored eight points—hitting four of six field goals and three free throws.

"I don't know whether to shoot or not," said the 6-foot-6 McDonald before the Celtics left Thursday night for Milwaukee. "I'd get in the game and I didn't know what I expected of me. But this year Coach (Tom) Heinsohn has given me confidence in playing me in tight situations and the players also are giving me confidence."

"They tell me to shoot whenever I have the shot and they say, 'Keep moving more and you'll get the ball more,'" Now I've got the confidence and I don't plan to lose it."

McDonald's improved play has allowed Heinsohn to rest Havlicek more. The 34-year veteran, who averaged 28 minutes a game last season, played 26 minutes against the Braves and scored 44 points. When he was in the game, Havlicek ran like a youngster.

"I think John has in his contract that he's going to play until he retires," said center Dave Cowens, naming Tim General Manager Auerbach still is going strong in his 29th year with the Celtics.

In that span, Auerbach has been a responsible for 12 NBA titles and 13 ABA titles. Association championships, the last one coming in 1974 against the Bucks, whom the Celtics play tonight.

This is not the same Milwaukee team, though, for one 7-foot-2-inch, 230-pound Kareem Abdul-Jabbar has gone to the Atlanta Braves in the Big 10 about match defense. The Bucks have won just one of their first six games with Elmore Smith at center. That victory came as Bob Dandridge, the Bucks' top scorer, slide a pass with 10 seconds left and sank a pair of free throws four seconds later Tuesday night for a two-point decision over Detroit.

The Celtics enter the game leading the Atlantic Division with a 4-1 mark.

N.J. supreme court enters Carter case

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Taking its own initiative, the state Supreme Court plans a hearing for sometime in January in the controversial case of former boxer Rubin "Hurricane" Carter.

Carter and co-defendant John Artis have spent the last nine years in prison for a triple murder in Paterson, N.J.

The court announced Thursday it will hold an "accelerated" hearing for Carter and Artis.

At the same time, Gov. Brendan T. Byrne also refused to rule out the possibility that he may grant Carter and John Artis executive clemency before the court rules.

Carter and Artis have an appeal for a new trial pending in the Appellate Division of Superior Court.

Several organizations have urged Byrne to stay out of the case while it is in the courts.

The New Jersey Bar Association and the state Palicemen's Benevolent Association both have called on Byrne to withhold on a decision.

As a rule, the Supreme Court rarely takes a case on its own unless it is of important public significance.

However, in a surprise development, the state's highest court said in an two-paragraph statement that it will hold a hearing "on an accelerated basis."

"There are lots of rules that allow the Supreme Court to do things on its own motion," said Florence R. Peskoe, clerk of the court. "This is not the only case that ever happened."

Mrs. Peskoe said the hearing probably will be held sometime in January of 1976.

Carter and Artis were convicted in 1967 of the slayings of two patrons and a bartender in the Lafayette Bar and Grill in Paterson. Two black men entered the bar at 2:30 a.m., June 17, 1966 and opened fire on those inside with a sawed-off shotgun and a .32-caliber pistol.

At the time of the slayings racial tension was high in Paterson and Carter was a vocal spokesman for black rights. The victims of the shooting were all white.

Carter, at the time the No. 1 ranking middleweight contender, and Artis, a friend, were convicted based on the testimony of Alfred Bello and Arthur Dexter Bradley, who placed them near the bar shortly after the killings.

However, last year Bello and Bradley recanted their testimony before Superior Court Judge Samuel Lerner, the original trial judge. Lerner refused to believe the recantations and overruled the bid for a new trial.

Carter and Artis then appealed. Lerner's decision to the Appellate Division, claiming exculpatory evidence was withheld at the original trial.

"I am happy that the court has agreed to consider this matter and to hear it promptly," Byrne said in a statement. "If anything comes out of our evaluation of the clemency petition that would be helpful to the court I hope to find a mechanism to bring it to the attention of the court."

"But I will not foreclose the possibility of granting clemency, if our evaluation indicates that it is warranted."

There has been increasing pressure on Byrne to grant Carter and Artis clemency so they can prepare their appeals for a new trial.

Boise State travels to Nevada-Reno

BOISE — Boise State steps out of the Big Sky Conference action this Saturday as Tony Knap's squad travels to Reno to face the University of Nevada Reno Wolf Pack. Game time is set for 1:30 p.m. (PST).

The Broncos ran their season record to 4-1 last Saturday afternoon with a 29-21 decision over the University of Montana. BSU is now 4-1 in Big Sky competition. The Wolf Pack from Reno lost Saturday to Idaho State in Reno by a 28-3 score. UNR is 3-5 on the year.

Reno has their typically enthusiastic and aggressive squad, especially on defense," Knap said. "The game Saturday will present a pretty good test for us. We'll be playing on grass which always throws us off and it's typically windy and cold. We could have some real problems," he added.

This will be just the second game this year the Broncos have played on the "real thing" The other outing was in Ogden, Utah against Weber State with Boise State winning 28-13.

The Broncos and Wolf Pack have faced two common opponents in the 1975 season. Boise State beat Cal State Hayward 42-20 while UNR beat them 17-10. The second common opponent was the Cal Poly (SLO) Mustangs with BSU winning that game 35-29 and UNR defeating the Mustangs 16-8.

The series record between Boise State and the University of Nevada Reno stands at 3-1 in favor of the Broncos. Last year BSU won in Boise by a 36-16 score. The Wolf Pack defeated Boise State in Reno two years ago, 23-21.

UNR's leading rusher is sophomore tailback Tony Monroe. Monroe, who has been slowed by an injury, is expected to be back against the Broncos. He has carried the ball 106 times for 352 yards and two scores. The team's leading receiver are Steve Sentinil with 122 receptions for 242 yards and two scores and Jim Neil who has 11 catches for 212 yards.

Replays, history, cartoons — all part of new scoreboard

BOSTON (UPI) — Fenway Park will feature some new wrinkles and the same old faces next season.

A press conference was held Thursday at Fenway Park to detail plans for an electronic scoreboard. But before the session ended, Manager Darrell Johnson told reporters via a telephone hook-up from Florida that he has agreed to a new two-year contract.

General Manager Dick O'Connell also announced that coaches Stan Williams, Don Zimmer, John Pesky and Don Bryant have been rehired. O'Connell also said he has hired John Chabrone, a former aide to Oakland owner Charlie Finley who scouted for the Red Sox last season, as "my general assistant."

Johnson, named American League Manager of the Year in his second season, said he had not signed his contract yet but that his signature was just a formality. The manager, who took time out from duck hunting to call, will be quite surprised at the change in the 64-year-old park next spring. The entire left field wall is in the process of being covered, a six-foot-high pad will be installed from the left field corner to right centerfield and the 80x20-foot scoreboard will be functioning above the centerfield bleachers.

The designers, Stewart-Warner Electronics of Chicago, said they were installing "the most advanced scoreboard in the world." The board, run by a computer, will be able to show films, video replays, pictures, cartoons, statistics and virtually anything that can be photographed, drawn or printed. It also will be capable of showing more than one image at once.

"My viewpoint is that we're not going to show any controversial replays of any umpire's decisions that would arouse the ire and anger of the fans," said O'Connell, obviously thinking of umpire Larry Barnett's controversial non-call of interference in the third game of the recent Boston-Cincinnati World Series. "And I don't think a player should be ridiculed either, by remarks or pictures from the board." "They're doing their best and I think they should get every benefit."

O'Connell said the scoreboard would flash pictures and statistics of players coming to bat and could be used as a giant television screen to show great moments in baseball during rain delays.

No foul here

Chicago reinstates Bob Love

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Bulls and Bob Love announced Thursday they have resolved a dispute over the star forward's demands for renegotiation of his contract and his six-day suspension from the National Basketball Association team has been lifted.

They settled a long standoff by writing a new three-year contract which will go into effect when Love's existing contract ends at the close of the 1976-77 season.

Love said he was "happy with this new contract arrangement."

Bulls Coach Dick Motta announced that Love's suspension was lifted and that he was returning to practice sessions.

Love, who led the Bulls in scoring the past six seasons, long has sought renegotiation of his contract to give him more than the $143,000 a year which he reportedly has been paid.

Last year he was a holdout for the first 20 games of the NBA season. He lost in arbitration and eventually returned to the club. But the money differences remained a subject of contention between him and Motta.

This season Love reported and played last Friday Motta suspended him, saying he did not think Love was playing up to his ability and that he was not to return until he was ready to go full tilt.

Thursday the Bulls released a Love statement which said:

"I have executed a new three-year contract with the Bulls which starts with the 1977-78 season. My existing contract, which remains in effect, covers the 1975-76 and 1976-77 seasons. I am happy with this new contract arrangement and I am looking forward to rejoining my teammates."

Motta met with Love before Thursday's practice and then announced the suspension had been lifted.

The Bulls also announced approval of a new four-year contract for Norm Van Lier, the team captain.

Van Lier's contract becomes effective for the 1976-77 season. He will complete the final year of his existing pact this season.

Litigation closes purchase of Giants

SEATTLE (UPI) — One of four groups seeking a major league baseball franchise for Seattle Thursday withdrew because of possible high legal costs in a bid to buy and move the San Francisco Giants.

Stan Naccarato and Jim Zarelli of Tacoma announced their decision to step out of the franchise hunt after they talked with officials of the Giants in San Francisco Wednesday night.

"There doesn't seem to be anything out there to buy," Naccarato said. "We are withdrawing."

The two, along with Roy Jackson, president of the Pacific Coast League and a possible participant in the group, met with Charles Ruppert, executive vice president of the Giants, and James Hunt, attorney for the club.

"From what we learned in that meeting, we feel it would be too difficult to move the Giants to Seattle," Naccarato said. "There would be too much litigation, too much cost."

He said they were told the Giants were available, but the legal costs to break a lease with Candlestick Park might be high.

The same holds true for the Oakland A's, who play across the Bay and have a lease with the stadium there.

Naccarato said he and Zarelli would remain available to help out another group making a franchise bid to put a team in the King County Domes Stadium next year.

Arizona State seeks share of WAC championship Saturday

By TRACY RINGLOSBY
UPI Sports Writer

While 11th-ranked Arizona State is trying to clinch a tie for the Western Athletic Conference title and Colorado State is hoping to assure itself its first winning season since 1966, the four other league members take to the road seeking to help the WAC to its first winning record since 1970.

Arizona State, unbeaten and leading the WAC by a margin of 10 1/2 games, will go after its ninth straight win of the season and sixth in the WAC against Wyoming, which has only one win to its credit in eight games (SU sporting a 5-3 mark overall and 3-1 in the WAC as a Texas El Paso).

In nonleague action, Utah visits Tennessee, Brigham Young is at Utah State, New Mexico travels to San Jose State, which has lost only one game, and Arizona visits unbeaten and 12th-ranked San Diego State.

It has been said there is no real pressure on Arizona State Saturday. As long as the Sun Devils beat Arizona in their Nov. 29 season finale, they will win the WAC title and accompany Fiesta Bowl host spot. But coach Frank Kush looks at it differently.

"I keep hearing the pressure is off this weekend because even if we lose we could still be the Fiesta Bowl representative," Kush said. "We need a win for many reasons. Suffice it to say, it is one of the foremost is Frank Kush's peace of mind."

While the offense is averaging 428.6 yards per game, Kush has not been happy with break-downs. Wyoming needs a win for the entire team's peace of mind. In coach Fred Akers' first year the Cowboys have fumbled away several wins. But they have looked sharper in the last three weeks since freshman Don Clayton took over the starting quarterback job.

"We're really thinking about his week's game," said Clayton. "To us it's an excellent opportunity to build up our confidence and get a new program started."

CSU began a new program three years ago when Sark Arslanian became the head coach. After a pair of 4-7, 4-6-1 seasons, the Rams are on the verge of a winning season—only their second since 1958. Their only losses this year were to Texas, Tennessee and ASU. But Arslanian is worried UTEP might be after revenge.

A year ago, the Miners went to CSU with a chance of a winning season in Gil Bartosh's first year, which would have been quite a turnaround from the previous season's 0-11. But CSU routed the Miners 56-24 for their second straight win over UTEP after losing four in a row to the Miners.

UTEP has been a major disappointment this year. It had a lot of returning players on offense but they have not jelled. The only Miner win was 6-3 over East-Tennessee State and senior quarterback Bob McKinley has completed only 45 of 135 passes with 13 interceptions while running only 260 yards.

The Beehive Bowl was designed as a traveling trophy to go to designate football supremacy among Utah's four major colleges. However in its four years, Utah State had won it each year. BYU can put an end to that on Saturday.

Bengals won't sign WFL players

CINCINNATI (UPI) — There will be no ex-World Football League players on the Cincinnati Bengals, says head coach and general manager Paul Brown.

"The worthwhile are under contract to Birmingham or Memphis or are owned by National Football League clubs," Brown said Thursday.

"Besides," he added, "we have our own football players to think of. These men went through a training camp and half a season with us to make our ball club and it would not be just to them. We have our team."

A federal judge in St. Paul, Minn., ruled Wednesday that all former WFL players not under contract could be signed by NFL teams. NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle had earlier banned such signings.

The St. Paul decision made unnecessary a hearing on a similar case that had been scheduled here Thursday.

Chris Morris, who played with Memphis and San Antonio in the WFL, had asked U.S. District Court Judge Timothy S. Hogan to rescind the Rozelle ban.

Bullets down Seattle

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — Elvin Hayes scored 27 points and Phil Chenier scored 25 Thursday night as the Washington Bullets came from behind in the fourth period to defeat the Seattle SuperSonics 116-100.

Washington, trailing 82-79 after three periods, used a 10-point final quarter performance by Chenier to outscore the SuperSonics 31-18 in the period and improve its record to 4-1. Seattle is 3-5.

The Bullets, with Chenier scoring nine first period points along with eight by Hayes, had Mike Riordan, broke on top early 29-26.

ISU's playoff hopes ride on Cal Poly game

POCATELLO — Idaho State University, still in hot pursuit of an NCAA Division II playoff berth, dares not falter even for a moment this weekend in San Luis Obispo.

The Bengals will be broadcast by KSEI over the Bengal Network starting at 8:10 p.m. Mountain Time, with Larry Ekenbrecht calling the play-by-play.

Cal Poly was itself eliminated from playoff contention by a 70-7 loss to Long Cal Riverside. They have also lost to Boise State, ranked second in Division II polls, 35-29, and Nevada Reno 16-8. Their most impressive win was a 24-7 decision over Fresno.

ISU Coach Bob Griffin has tremendous respect for Coach Joe Harper's Mustangs. "Cal Poly" is an extremely well-drilled, well-coached team. Every year we admire the coaching job they do, especially in the offensive line. They come in low and are extremely difficult to block. It sticks out in my mind that the only time we saw Bill Kollar blocked consistently was by Cal Poly.

Griffin also said it would be tough for ISU to move the ball. "Our offense faces the same type of football. They are physical, they hit, and they come off the line quick. To move the ball we'll need a superb effort from our offensive line."

Guard Bob Simerson is one of those who will need a big game, since he's blocking on All-American candidate Dennis Sherlock, a 235-lb defensive tackle.

Cal Poly has a great runner in Gary Davis, last week ranked fourth in Division II rushing. He's gained 817 yards, carries 2310 3/4 times a game, and has scored 10 TD's.

Warriors maul Knicks

OAKLAND (UPI) — Rookie guard Russ Williams scored a team-high 19 points and sparked a 49-point second quarter that powered the Golden State Warriors to a 116-96 National Basketball Association victory over the New York Knicks Thursday night.

The Warriors entered the second quarter trailing 24-18 but reeled off 19 straight points to take a commanding 37-24 lead.

Williams scored eight of those points and finished with 12 for the quarter as Golden State outscored New York 40-14 for a 58-38 halftime advantage.

The Warriors were ahead 66-46 early in the third quarter when the Knicks made it close with a 17-0 spurt featuring Walt Frazier's seven points. Frazier had 13 of his game-high 27 points in the period.

After that spurt which closed the gap to 66-63, Jamaal Wilkes hit three straight jumpers for the Warriors, who were in control the rest of the way. Wilkes scored 16 points and had a team-high 13 rebounds.

Center Cliff Ray scored 18 for the winners. Rival center John Givanni added 18 points and a game-high 18 rebounds for New York.

Cavalliers down Hawks

ATLANTA (UPI) — Jim Choese scored 24 points and Bobby Smith added 21 Thursday night to lead the Cleveland Cavaliers to a 113-108 National Basketball Association victory over the Atlanta Hawks.

The Cavaliers never trailed, although the Hawks managed to tie the score three times in second half rallies.

Joe Hudson led Atlanta with 24 points and Tom Henderson and Dwight Jones had 15 points each.

Cleveland pulled away earlier in the first period and led by as much as 13 points late in the second period when Dick Snyder scored on a layup to make the score 63-50. The Cavs led 62-31 at the half.

AMC

"We at Wills Motor Co. started in business 30 years ago with the 1946 Nash cars which have now evolved into the AMC car line. Many people will recall we sold Nash & Rambler cars for 25 years. Sixteen years ago we added the Jeep 4-wheel drive vehicle sales and service.

These 2 fine lines merged four years ago under one company and because of this and our past experience with both lines, we are very pleased to now represent the entire family of AMC-Jeep vehicles.

Come in and look over the new '76 models on display and meet our friendly sales and service personnel.

Sincerely,
