Spain trembles at Franco death

MADRID (UPI) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco died today, and in a political last testament he typed out on his deathbed warned the alert that the enemies of Spain were on the alert and that the authoritarian policies of his 36-year rule must continue.

There were immediate stirrings from the outlawed Communist and Socialist parties expressing hope for political reforms and anguish that violence will follow the death of the 82-year-old Franco. Basques who seek their own independent state in western Spain toasted his death and honked their horns to celebrate.

There were mixed emotions in Madrid where for four decades many had known no other ruler but Franco, the last of the right-wing dictators who rose to power on the eve of World War II. Some people wept openly on the streets, others looked to the future with renewed hope.

The final medical bulletin by Franco's 22 doctors said he had suffered from Parkinson's disease, acute heart attacks, acute bleeding ulcers, peritonitis of the intestinal lining, double pneumonia, blood clots in his left thigh, shock from poisons in his body and at 5:25 a.m. (10:45 p.m. EST Wednesday) "an irreversible heart stoppage."

Spain's uncertain future falls to the hands of Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon 37, who will be promoted Saturday to Captain-General, Spain's highest military rank, and sworn in as the country's first king in 44 years. Until then a three-man Regency Council will run the government.

The government proclaimed a 30-day period of mourning. Franco's body lay in state at the chapel of his El Pardo palace before burial Sunday in the Valley of the Fallen, the monument to the nearly one million persons who died in the Spanish civil war.

A government spokesman said the Vice President Nelson Rockefeller would represent the United States at Franco's funeral.

Franco's typing was crude and there were many typographical errors but his last testament "proved that he was an authoritarian in death as he was in life."

It made no mention to widespread demands for democratic reform, warned of the threat of Communism, declared Franco's enemies Spain's enemies and urged Spaniards to rally round Juan Carlos for God and country following the funeral Sunday.

It left no doubt he wished Spain more of the same policies that brought economic prosperity but kept rancor and freedoms as those of assembly, political choice and the press.

Throughout Spain, offices and factories were working normally. Police jeeps patrolled Madrid streets as usual, and tommygun-carrying policemen were on guard outside precinct stations and government buildings.

Fumes kill fire captain

NEW YORK (UPI) — A fire captain was killed today and 14 other firefighters were overcome by poisonous fumes — apparently spread by exploding cans of insect spray — in a discount store, fire officials said.

A fire department spokesman said Capt. Raymond Koehler, 54, died as a result of inhaling the fumes. He said the firefighters found themselves in an "invisible death trap" while conducting mop-up operations following a two-alarm blaze in the store.

Fireman John Flannigan was reported in critical condition from an apparent heart attack he suffered as he frantically tried to aid his colleagues while in a weakened state from the fumes.

Chilean police kill 6

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Chilean secret police killed six left-wing guerrillas Wednesday in one of the bloodiest shootouts since President Salvador Allende was overthrown Sept. 11, 1973, the government disclosed.

The government information office said the six, including two women, were killed in Maipú, a small town six miles west of Santiago.

It identified them as members of the "illegal" Leftwing Revolutionary Movement and Chilean Communist party who formed "Resistance Committee No. 21" and planned subversive actions against the military government.

Little conviction upheld

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Joan Little, the young black woman acquitted of murdering a white jailer she claimed sexually attacked her, has lost an appeal of a breaking and entering conviction.

A three-judge panel of the North Carolina Court of Appeals found "no error" Wednesday in the trial that convicted her of breaking and entering and landed her in the Beaufort County Jail, where the jailer was stabbed last year.

Miss Little, 21, a former construction worker, was on a national speaking tour and could not be reached for comment on the decision. She will remain free on bond as long as the case is under appeal.

Youth gangs studied

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Philadelphia, Detroit and Los Angeles have the most serious youth-gang problems in the nation, a Harvard researcher says, and gang activity is "a local crisis" in all three cities.

Walter Miller, at the opening session of the National Conference on Juvenile Justice Wednesday, said the problem is probably worst here, where 45 per cent of all violent crimes are committed by youths.

Fromme trial still on

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The judge says Lynette Fromme's trial on charges of trying to kill President Ford will go on. But her attorney says he will play one more unusual card — by calling prosecutors as witnesses for the defense.

Defense attorney John Virgo said he wants the prosecutors to testify as to why they suppressed evidence he claims is favorable to his client, a 27-year-old fanatic follower of convicted mass murderer Charles Manson.

Tiny republic troubled

REPUBLIC OF SAN MARINO (UPI) — San Marino, a tiny Communist government for 12 years after World War II, but politicians today ruled out any new swing to the left in the 21.5-square-mile nation.

The Grand and General Council, meeting in a medieval palace, Wednesday dissolved the government of the world's oldest and smallest republic.

TF panel determined to maintain plan schedule

By GORDON JUDD Times-News Staff

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Joint Planning Council appears determined to keep on schedule even though the planning council doesn't have a planning director.

"The community has been very fair with us and we intend to keep the council going," Jack Muldoon, chairman, said at the council's regular monthly meeting Wednesday night.

Muldoon suggested council members consider engaging the services of a consulting engineering firm, J-U-B Engineers, Inc., Twin Falls in order to keep the planning process "on schedule" until further applications are received from individuals interested in becoming the agency's new planning director.

The Council fired full time planning director David Richey on October 30th after citing him for failure to maintain good communications with county officials.

Two planning experts from J-U-B Engineers, Mike Wardle and Larry Sale, presented their ideas and a plan of action to Council members Wednesday night and both stressed the need for "prompt action."

In an accompanying letter to the Council, J-U-B planner Sale stressed the need to "determine ideas of civic leaders" and "identify areas of agreement or disagreement with existing planning documents."

Sale and Wardell felt there was a tremendous need to get on a "one to one" basis with elected and concerned agency officials and to "initiate a communication review process with planning and zoning commissions, cities, schools, highway districts, League of Women Voters, homebuilders, realtors and others."

County Commissioner Ann Cover, a planning council member, reported she still favored having the activities of the Council funded by the County alone but that the County Commissioners as a group had not voted on this yet.

The Council is presently paying operating expenses out of monies obtained from a H.U.D. 701 grant and has $2,000 left to spend from the grant.

In other business the Council decided to add members from School and Highway districts.

"This means the council will have nine members, instead of the previous seven, made up of representatives of Twin Falls city, Twin Falls county, Rural and Farm areas, Small Cities of the County, Twin Falls City Planning and Zoning; Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning; Highways; Schools; and a Member at Large to be elected by the Council."

called to aid in the search. Hammond is presumed dead following a Saturday morning canoe accident in Lake Walcott that claimed two other lives.

Howard Croft, Paul, joined the search Wednesday, attempting to locate the body with diving flippers.

Croft, who uses two pieces of wire to practice the craft, was successful about five years ago locating the bodies of boys under the ice of the Snake heads of the Mini-Cassia Search and Rescue units.

The Hammond family and friends plan to continue the search while weather permits. A "water-witcher" has been hired as part of the Burley-Highway bridge.

Croft went out in a Bering County Sheriff's Department boat Wednesday. He located four points of pull, but divers found only barbed wire as sources of the attraction.

Croft said he had agreed to the family request to continue aiding in the search.

Eight boats, a half-dozen Search and Rescue members and 20-25 family friends searched the lake Wednesday. They were joined again by members of the Snake River Divers, who had been forced by low temperatures to halt diving after Sunday.

Mini-Cassia Search and Rescue estimated 40 man days spent in the search.

Cover Young praised the efforts of the units.

"We sure appreciate the work the search and rescue boys did," Young said. "I felt, and the sheriff (Ray Mitchell) felt they've done everything they could possibly do. They searched the area completely where the bodies did go down."

Faced with very cold water temperatures that slow decomposition and development of gas in a body, Young estimated that Hammond's body might not rise for 2-3 weeks from the time of the accident.

The coroner said a freeze might be expected before the body came to the surface, in which case it would sink again and would be difficult to find even next spring.

Ski opening set

SUN VALLEY — Sun Valley Company will open Baldy Mountain to skiing Saturday.

It will mark the earliest opening date in the 40 year history of Sun Valley. An early winter snowfall and a $1 million snowmaking machine makes the opening possible, according to company spokesmen.

Lift ticket sales and restaurants will open at 9:30 a.m. and run until 4 p.m. on a daily basis. Skiing for the first two weeks of the season will be on Flying squirrel and mid and lower Warm Springs runs which have a 100 foot vertical drop.

Currently there is 24 inches of snow on top of Baldy, 30 to 36 at the midway point and 18 inches on lower Warm Springs. Skiers will be serviced by the Flying Squirrel and Warm Springs Number One lift.

Tickets will be $6 daily until Dec. 10.

Cost of living rate jumps in October

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost-of-living climbed 0.7 per cent in October, the third largest monthly increase this year, the Labor Department said today.

Higher prices for new cars, fuel oil, dairy products, coffee, clothing, mortgage rates and auto insurances caused the overall increase which was slightly higher than most economists expected.

The increase, which translates into an annual rate of 8.4 per cent, was 0.2 per cent larger than September but far below the 1975 inflationary peak set in July when consumer prices rose 1.2 per cent.

Prices for 1976 model cars rose 2.7 per cent, but seasonal adjustment caused the index for new cars to decline 0.1 per cent, the department said.

Fuel oil and coal prices rose 1.8 per cent after seasonal adjustment — the biggest increase this year. Gasoline prices declined, but less than they usually do in October.

Government economists have predicted inflation will continue through the remainder of 1975 at a rate similar to the 6 per cent annual increase reflected in the September figures.

The Labor Department reported earlier this month that price rises in steel, 1976 car models and other industrial commodities pushed wholesale prices up 1.8 per cent during October.

Although consumers feel the impact of higher car prices immediately, rises in other industrial costs are passed along to the consumer more slowly.

Reagan announces bid for Republican nomination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ronald Reagan announced his candidacy today for the Republican presidential nomination in 1976 — the first direct challenge to President Ford from within his own party.

Reagan, twice governor of California and the favorite of many GOP conservatives, said his name would be entered in all the primaries and specifically mentioned New Hampshire and Florida as states where he would campaign.

He immediately left after his news conference for those two states where campaign aides said he hopes to cripple Ford's chances for the nomination by good showings in early primaries next year.

Reagan said he would not talk about Ford — "I am going to abide by the 11th commandment: 'Thou shalt not speak ill of another Republican.' I'm sure the President will campaign in the same way."

But he said that "now that the ice is broken" other Republicans may join the race for the nomination.

Reagan, 64, began his campaign with a charge that a large bureaucracy and insensitive leadership have driven the United States near bankruptcy.

"The only difference between the national government and New York City at the moment is that the national government has a printing press" for money, said Reagan at a news conference in which he announced a "gentlemanly" campaign to unseat President Ford.

Reagan said that if he defeats Ford for the nomination, he expected the support of all Republicans who are dissatisfied with both parties.

"The candidate is going to have to offer change to those Americans who are disillusioned," he said.

Ford's campaign manager said the competition from a Reagan candidacy will help Ford run a stronger campaign but Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., said the candidacy was foolhardy because Reagan did not represent the mainstream of America.

"Anyone who could point to my record in California and say the positions are extreme, is wrong. It was pretty much in the mainstream of political thinking in this country," Reagan said.

Reagan spoke out strongly on the controversial subjects of women's rights, crime, school busing and energy, Reagan said.

"He thinks forced busing has failed — and added the problems it was supposed to cure. It has solved none of the problems of black and bigotry. I think it is insulting and demeaning to tell a Negro child that the only way he can learn anything is to put him in a school between two white kids."

"Americans are tired of the tentacles of federal government control and the costs of added the problems it was supposed to cure. It has solved none of the problems of black and bigotry. I think it is insulting and demeaning to tell a Negro child that the only way he can learn anything is to put him in a school between two white kids."

"He opposed the proposed Equal Rights Amendment, that inequities against women and minority groups could be solved by statute rather than a change in the Constitution."

He is against gun control legislation because, "you would simply disarm the citizen. He advocated stiffer penalties — up to 15 extra years in prison without probation — for persons using firearms in the commission of a crime."

The compromise energy bill now in Congress should be vetoed because, it would discourage the search for new domestic supplies and increase U.S. dependence on imports.

Nuke blast rocks Nevada

PAHUETE MESA, Nev. (UPI) — A hydrogen warhead carved out an underground molten cavern 2,500 feet beneath this remote volcanic plateau today and jolted high rise gambling buildings 80 miles away in Las Vegas.

The earth above ground zero bounced up several feet, sending a dust cloud into the clear early morning sky. A spokesman for the Energy Research and Development Administration said no radiation leaked into the atmosphere following the 7 a.m. test.

The detonation, possibly 50 times more devastating than the 20 kiloton atomic bombs dropped on Japan during World War II, was believed to be linked with testing of a multiple missile warhead system.

It had a yield of 200 kilotons to one megaton, scientists said.

Teenage drinkers studied

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — About one of every four 13-year-olds in the nation can be considered a "moderate" drinker while only 38 per cent never drink alcoholic beverages, according to a Research Triangle Institute study.

Results of the study, based on a survey of classrooms across the country last year, were released Wednesday by project director J. Valley Rachal at an RTI Board of Governors meeting.

Rachal said about half the students reported that they had been drunk within the past year — and the "ranks" of teetotaling "teens" were dwindling steadily with age from a high of 38 per cent at age 13 to less than half that by age 17.

The project director said researchers had anticipated the trend, but were "thoroughly surprised" by the high number of seventh graders who drank with some regularity.

A moderate drinker is defined as one who has one or two drinks in a week's time and occasionally gets intoxicated.

The $273,000 study was conducted for the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism.

The institute had commissioned the study for use in developing strategy to prevent alcoholism. Scientist here said it will provide the first national sample from which to gauge shifts in alcohol use among adolescents and hope they will lead to a follow-up grant next year.

The study was conducted among 13,122 youths from 13 to 18 years of age in 450 schools across the country. Data was gathered from 35-page questionnaires.

Rachal said black students had the lowest percentage of heavy drinkers. Boys tended to drink more than girls and beer tended to be the most popular alcoholic beverage.

Aliens pay their way

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's estimated eight million illegal aliens contribute far more to the American taxpaying system than they reap in government social benefits, according to a Labor Department study.

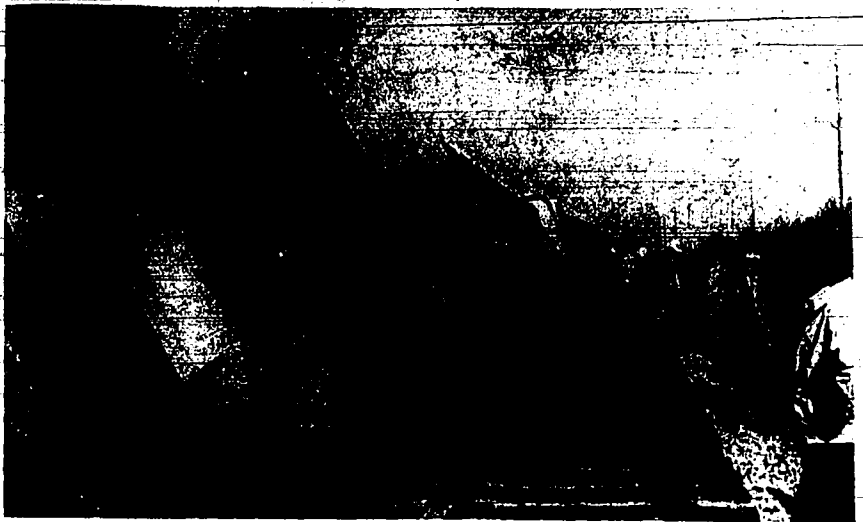

The study, released Wednesday by Labor Secretary John Dunlop, dispelled many myths about illegal aliens and concluded they "are a much more diverse collection of individuals than is popularly supposed."

For example, it said, a significant number are non-Hispanic, skilled and found in urban areas outside the Southwest. It said they are productive employees but "not the wretched workers that they have sometimes been held to be."

The report nonetheless confirmed assumptions that illegals depress wages in low-level jobs and cause a harmful swell of cheap labor, during times of high unemployment.

Dunlop, who will discuss the alien problem with Mexican officials next week, said he was surprised that 77 per cent of the sampled illegal aliens paid Social Security taxes and 75 per cent paid federal income taxes.

Truck derails train

FOUR UNITS of Amtrak passenger train lean at a 60 degree angle near Elwood III, Wednesday after it was struck at a crossing by a six-wheel truck. The speeding train was hit broadside by the truck. Hospital reported between 28 and 31 persons were treated after the accident. (UPI)

Contempt charge withdrawal asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today urged a House committee to reconsider its vote to hold Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in contempt for not turning over subpoenaed documents, saying the issue involves "grave matters" to the country.

Ford reiterated that he would not turn over the subpoenaed documents to the committee on the grounds of executive privilege.

"This issue involves grave matters affecting our conduct of foreign policy and raises questions which go to the ability of our republic to govern itself effectively," Ford said.

"I believe that if the committee were to reconsider the three resolutions of Nov. 14, it would conclude that my claim of executive privilege is a proper exercise of my constitutional right and responsibility," Ford said.

"It is my desire that we continue forward, working together on the foreign intelligence investigation. I believe that the national interest is best served through our cooperation and adoption of a spirit of mutual trust and respect."

The President also said he hoped the Pike committee would allow administration officials to appear at a hearing Friday "to discuss the points I have raised in this letter."

In his letter, Ford noted that only one of the "three" subpoenas at issue was directed to Kissinger as secretary of state and that it demanded he turn over "all documents relating to State Department recommending covert action made to the National Security Council and its predecessor committees from Jan. 30, 1961 to present."

Ford said appropriate State Department officials advised the White House of material apparently covered by the subpoena and that "none of these documents are from my administration."

On the basis of consultations with the attorney general, "I directed Secretary Kissinger not to comply with the subpoena on the grounds of executive privilege," he said.

"I made a finding that, in addition to disclosing highly sensitive military and foreign affairs assessments and evaluations, the documents revealed to an unacceptable degree the consultation process involving advice and recommendations to Presidents Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon, made to them directly or to committees composed of their closest aides and counselors."

Andrus eyes government growth halt, Gem economy

BOISE (UPI) — While a taxpayers group heard a panel of legislative leaders agree with Gov. Cecil D. Andrus Wednesday that Idaho's economy was healthy, they were told that growth of government must be halted.

The governor told the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho while the economic picture was bright there were warning signs that the state may not enjoy the general fund surpluses in the next fiscal year that it enjoyed in the two previous fiscal years.

Andrus said Idaho was weathering the recession in excellent fashion except in the areas of food processing and lumbering.

While unemployment was at an all-time high, Andrus said total employment also was at a record high and because of the fast growing population the economy can only be measured by the amount of employment.

The governor noted that income tax and sales tax collections were up, reflecting the employment situation in the state.

Although both registered healthy increases, Andrus said they were below the rates of increase in the two previous fiscal years and "these are warnings that we cannot expect during the next fiscal year the revenue 'fat' that we enjoyed in the two previous years."

"Neither are they cause for alarm," he said, adding that he still saw no need for an increase in general fund taxes.

S. Keith Anderson, president of the Montana Taxpayers Association, told the session it was time to put a halt to government growth and to put the monetary fiscal house in order "if we are ever to put an end to spiraling prices, shortages, high interest rates and economic stagnation."

Anderson also cautions on the business community to get off "their self-satisfied positions" and enter the political arena to protect their own interests.

He said unions, environmentalists, low-income welfare organizations and other dedicated to increased public spending dominate the political scenes.

"Members of a legislative panel also emphasized that growth of government should be stemmed and that spending must be held in line,"

Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, co-chairman of the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee, noted that the number of state employees in the last 10 years had increased from 8,000 to more than 14,000.

"I don't see where services to the citizens have improved that much," Roberts said. He also pointed out that it was obvious that agency requests for additional funds for the coming fiscal year will have to be pared. He said agencies would not be reduced below current budgets "but requests will be cut."

"We will do our part to protect the taxpayers' pocketbook," Roberts said.

Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Elgin, a member of the joint committee, said he felt in 1976 the "Idaho taxpayer wants better quality not quantity. They want the legislature to serve the system rather than use it."

Mitchell called for the elimination of duplication in government and more public awareness of where tax dollars were being spent.

"We have to know enough to stop inefficient programs — programs where we put $1,000 in one end and the people get about 10 cents out the other end," Mitchell said.

Montana tax official urges business community action

BOISE (UPI) — A Montana tax official called upon the business community Wednesday to get off "their self-satisfied posture" and enter the political arena to protect their own interests.

S. Keith Anderson assured the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho meeting in Boise that unions, environmentalists, low-income welfare organizations and other dedicated to increased public spending dominate the political scene.

"They are well funded, very often with tax money, and their objectives are to get more tax dollars from you," said Anderson, president of the Montana Taxpayers Association.

He said it was time to put a halt to government growth and to put the monetary fiscal house in order "if we are ever to put an end to spiraling prices, shortages, high interest rates and economic stagnation."

"It is about time we get back to the basics of balanced budgets, to pay as you go and doing a day's work for a day's pay," Anderson said.

But he added that to reserve the trend of fiscal irresponsibility, "we need strong leadership, which is a scarce commodity, both at the state and federal level."

"It is imperative for the salvation of business and the average taxpayer that we have a better balance in our legislative halls so the voice of those paying the bill be heard loud and strong," he said.

He said the American voter "is too damned dumb to see what is being done to him."

"Anderson said the nation faced "a double-barreled threat."

"We have the growth of government, at all levels, that is sapping away the resources and the productive forces of the institutions that fundamentally pay the tax bill."

"Then you have those forces, political and otherwise, dedicated to curtailing and hamstringing if not the planned destruction of the free enterprise system that has made this nation the greatest force for good on this earth."

Anderson also blasted the concept of federal revenue sharing, saying the federal government has nothing to share and anything a state receives from Washington simply adds to the federal debt.

"This is fiscal insanity because invariably the so-called states are in a better financial condition than the federal government where an effort is being made to increase the federal debt to $597 billion," he said.

Anderson called this another example of political games being played. He said the administration talks about balanced budgets and reducing the deficit on one hand and on the other backs program of doing money out to the states, which adds to inflation and expenditure programs of both local and state governments.

'Little people' pay

BOISE (UPI) — A federal agent says white collar crime is costing Americans $46 billion a year but receives low priority in law enforcement circles.

"The people who generally pay the cost are the little people," John W. Burns, special agent in charge of the Butte, Mont., regional office of the FBI, told an FBI-sponsored conference Tuesday.

"People don't realize the enormity of the problem."

EPA orders Kellogg firm to install new equipment

KELOGG, Idaho (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency has ordered Bunker Hill Co. to purchase new pollution control equipment costing $200,000 as a means of meeting more stringent sulfur dioxide emission standards.

EPA wants the company by July 1977 to control 82 per cent of its sulfur dioxide emissions at its Kellogg smelters through the use of permanent control equipment.

At present, Bunker Hill has achieved about 62 per cent permanent control of such emissions.

The more stringent standard is part of a new regulation announced Tuesday by Clifford Smith, regional EPA administrator, who disputed company contentions that 62 per cent control is the best that current technology will allow.

"The regulation is realistic in that it requires Bunker Hill to install technology that is reasonable and available," Smith said.

He said in addition to initial purchases, it will cost Bunker Hill about $50,000 annually to operate new pollution control equipment.

James Halley, Bunker Hill president, was out of town and unavailable for comment regarding the new EPA requirement.

The new regulation climaxes a dispute between EPA and the State of Idaho dating back to October 1974 when the federal agency proposed that Bunker Hill control 85 per cent of sulfur dioxide emissions through permanent means.

The state joined with Bunker Hill in arguing that the 62 per cent permanent control already achieved by the company was the best that could be expected, and incorporated that figure into its own regulation enacted in August.

But the new federal regulation supersedes those portions of the state regulation dealing with the degree of permanent control.

Public Lands Resource unit plans annual 'do-ers' award

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Lands Resource Council will award its first working conservationist of the year award next spring to recognize "do-ers, rather than do-gooders."

Council Chairman Vernon Ravenscroft said the honor, for which nominations will be accepted until Feb. 1, will recognize "the individual, company or corporation who has done an Idaho resource." The award is to be an annual one.

"Too often, those who do nothing but complain receive the recognition while those who actually accomplish something positive go unnoticed," Havenscroft said.

"This award is designed to help us recognize priorities in the near-universal efforts to enhance the environment — to honor those who build it up, rather than those who only complain it's being torn down."

Entries for the nomination should be accompanied by a short biography if the nomination is for an individual, a resume of the person or company's accomplishments in conservation and suitable pictures for publication. Nominations should be sent to the council at Box 4848, Pocatello, 83201.

The Rabbits of Lahaska, Pennsylvania.

It's true. Meet Peter Rabbit. His wife, Bunny Rabbit. Their son, Jay Rabbit. And their brand-new Volkswagen Rabbit.

The incredible acceleration? The handling ease? The head and leg room inside of some mid-size cars? The Hatchback, at no extra charge? VW engineering? The low price? "It was all those things," answered Peter Rabbit.

Now when we read about them in the newspaper, we couldn't wait to ask the big question: "What was it that got you to add another Rabbit to the family?" "The 38 miles to the gallon?" "38 mpg Highway — 24 mpg City. Based on the 1975 Model Federal EPA report."

Plus something I've been fond of for 14 years," added Bunny. "What's that?" we asked. "My last name," she smiled.

Jerome helps harried walkers

Other Magic Valley cities should take a good look at Jerome's attempt to help out pedestrians. Jerome's police force now tickets motorists who fail to yield the right-of-way to pedestrians.

Despite the predictable howl of protest from drivers, Jerome's Mayor Charles Hancock this week issued something of a Declaration of Independence for walkers.

"To hell with the complaints," Hancock said. "Motorists are going to have to realize they just can't jump in their cars and take. Pedestrians have rights - so keep issuing citations."

State law expressly gives the pedestrian the right of way in any encounter with a vehicle. Nevertheless, when a vehicle and a pedestrian do converge at a crosswalk, the pedestrian usually is the one forced to yield.

The perils of the pedestrian are even more pronounced when we think about who most pedestrians are. Pedestrians tend to be children too young to drive or senior citizens too old or too poor to drive.

These two groups are particularly vulnerable in traffic - the young because they lack judgment and the old because they lack agility.

Fortunately there is reason to believe that drivers can learn to respect pedestrians. For example, even though not most places in Twin Falls a pedestrian takes his life in his hands, there are some areas in which drivers have learned to yield to the walker.

Drivers appear to be courteous on one street, unyielding on the next.

The solution can't rest with the pedestrian. We can't expect a pedestrian to exert his rights by walking boldly across pedestrian crosswalks. The risks are too high. All we can ask of pedestrians is that they use good sense and stay in crosswalks.

Instead, the burden must be shifted to the driver. Again, the pedestrian doesn't have much bargaining power with an oncoming truck. So it must be the local policeman who grabs the unyielding motorist's attention.

We all should watch the Jerome crackdown on unyielding drivers with interest.

If Jerome is successful in restoring respect for the pedestrian, other cities should join in the effort.

Kissinger expected to stay - for now

WASHINGTON - Secretary of State Henry Kissinger made a funny at a recent press conference, but he'd best be careful. Like many bosses, President Ford is selective about humor.

Asked whether he expected to last out Ford's term, Kissinger told reporters: "Well, I don't answer my telephone on Sundays." The Secretary was referring to the Sunday White House call to Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger summoning him to a meeting with Ford at which he was given the sack.

Kissinger's joke was of the mordant variety, much affected by Eastern Establishment intellectuals, and one of the things Ford didn't like about Schlesinger was his sardonic outlook on political life. Like a predecessor named Eisenhower, Ford prefers broad, light-slapping locker room humor.

The word from aides close to Gerald Ford - naturally - is that Kissinger's job is safe for now. As one staffer put it, "Henry can go back to answering his phone on Sundays, but somebody should tell him he'll never replace Bob Hope around this elegant lean-to."

Ford should be smart enough to know that he couldn't at present find a Secretary of State with Kissinger's high competence, intelligence and grasp of the tight maneuvering required simultaneously to improve U.S. relations with the Soviet Union and Communist China. He may find Kissinger too much of a wise guy, but he will not drop a man that useful over a matter of style.

There is a story around town that Ford is bringing Elliot Richardson home from the Court of St. James not only to become Secretary of Commerce but to be an hand to take Kissinger's place. If the story is true, Ford needs better advice.

Richardson has always had a good press, but he is more office manager than Secretary of State material, an efficient lawyer whose efforts in four Cabinet posts in the past five years were mostly aimed at forcing the bureaucrats to shape up and get more work done.

Some Kissinger aides claim that the Secretary has a low opinion of Rumfeld's intellect, viewing the former Illinois Congressman as "a kind of Mayor Daley with fable mappers."

Big 3 in holding pattern

© N.Y. Times Service

WASHINGTON - Don't expect any major new domestic or foreign policy developments out of here in the next 12 months. Until the future leadership of the United States, the Soviet Union and China is much clearer than it is now, the big three will be in a holding pattern.

The visit of Leonid Brezhnev to the United States has been put off until next year, and in his poor state of health, he may not be in power long after the communist Party Congress early in '76.

President Ford's China trip next month is not expected to produce anything substantive. Mao Tse-tung is still said to be mentally alert, but he is no longer able to speak and writes his answers to visitors' questions on paper. Chou En-lai has vanished from the political scene into a hospital in Peking. So Washington, Moscow and Peking are all hesitating to make any long-term commitments until they know who will be in charge at the end of next year.

The outlook in the Middle East is for stalemate. With the U.S. elections coming on, Ford is not likely to press the Israelis to make more concessions to the Arabs in the next 12 months, and by his vicious charge that Zionism is a form of racism, the United Nations General Assembly has actually made it easier for Israel to ignore the U.N. resolutions calling for Israel to withdraw from more Arab territory.

Meanwhile, the politics of succession dominate almost everything. New York may not default on its debts, but Washington is already in a state of political bankruptcy. The president's trip to Paris and later to Peking are seen here primarily as good television and political opportunities. The U.S. resolution at the U.N. calling on all nations to proclaim "unconditional amnesty by releasing all political prisoners," illustrates the political and propagandistic mood of this city at the moment.

It was an attempt to embarrass the government that had voted the anti-Semitic resolution against Israel in the U.N. and it called on them and all other nations to have compassion for Jews deprived of their liberty primarily because they have sought peaceful expression of beliefs and opinions at variance with those held by their governments.

Of course, the resolution didn't have a chance of liberating one single miserable soul out of jail in the Soviet Union, Cairo, China, Prague, Rio de Janeiro or anywhere else, and the administration knew it, but it was a noble principle and applied precisely to the tens of thousands of U.S. citizens who opposed the Vietnam war.

They are now in exile all over the world because they sought peaceful expressions of opinions at variance with those held by their government, and also because they were denied by President Ford the "unconditional amnesty" he has asked the world to grant to all persons "deprived of liberty."

JAMES RESTON

This is not a bad illustration of what's going on here in Washington. If noble principles promote political interest proclaim them: If harmful to political objectives, forget them. Freedom for all political dissenters, "unconditional amnesty" for Sakharov and Solzhenitsyn of the Soviet Union, and all these jailed political prisoners elsewhere in the world. But if the noble principle of "unconditional amnesty" for the Vietnam dissenters gives George Wallace and Ronald Reagan an argument against Ford in the presidential campaign, skip it!

This is the sort of "selective morality" that Pat Moynihan, our ambassador at the United Nations complained about in the name of the United States. It is also, to his knowledge and personal regret, the same "selective morality" that is being practiced at home - and under the pressure of the presidential campaign.

And the Democrats, of course, are playing the same game. Don Mike Mansfield, the majority leader in the Senate, who is beyond ambition and will defend the President even against his party when he thinks the President is right. Not the Speaker of the House, Carl Albert, who has his own personal problems and will either resign or be deposed in the next Congress.

This, however, is the main reason why there is now a pause in making major policy decisions at home or abroad in the next 12 months. It is not only that Ford, Brezhnev, Mao, Tse-tung, and Chou En-lai are not to be expected to meet now, but that the whole leadership of the U.S. Congress, in both the House and the Senate, may also be quite different after the primaries, the Bicentennial, and the presidential election next November.

The presiding figures in Capitol Hill then may very well be Mike Mansfield of Montana in the Senate but Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia, and not Carl Albert of Oklahoma, but Speaker Tip O'Neill of Massachusetts, or somebody else. This is not merely speculation. Changes in the leadership of the U.S. Congress are already under way, and this is one more reason why everybody the President is right. Not the Speaker of the House, Carl Albert, who has his own personal problems and will either resign or be deposed in the next Congress.

Fortunately, there is no major crisis now at home or in the world that demands immediate or urgent action. The internal problems of the United States, the Soviet Union, China, Japan and the European industrial powers are so serious that nobody has time or energy for foreign adventures. All of them are preoccupied with passing power from one set of leaders to another. In short, it is half-time world politics, with the score about even. Later on, they will come back to the major questions of creating a better world order, but for the present nothing much will be done.

After the Thanksgiving holidays, and Christmas in America, after the Communist Party Congress in Moscow early next year, after the inevitable succession of new leaders in Peking, the cards in the world political deck will be quite different.

Then the parties at home and the nations abroad may come back to the basic problems of population control, arms control and the hunger and misery of the majority of the human family. But not before then. For next year, all the major powers will be waiting on the accidents of life and politics. They will deal with the larger questions later on, at the earliest, at the beginning of 1977.

Iowa's 'non-primary primary' critical

© N.Y. Times Service CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa - "I honestly believe I'm going to be your next President," says former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter.

His style is low-key, what Madison Avenue likes to call "sincere," and his message is strictly middle of the road. There is no inherent conflict between careful planning, tight management, and constant reassessment on the one hand and compassionate concern for the plight of the deprived and afflicted on the other.

That safe-and-sane message is going over well in Iowa, which will become a closely-matched state in a couple of months. On Jan. 19, a non-primary will take place: in each political precinct, Iowa's Democratic and Republican voters will meet in caucus to choose their delegates to next summer's party conventions.

few miles away - and a certain location affection for him exists.

On the Republican side, one might think that, former Des Moines radio sportscaster "Dutchie" Reagan would be moving hard and fast to spotlight his local background and grab the lion's share of the vote. This is Ford country, at the moment, his Cabinet shakeup was not seen as all that important here, and those who noticed thought it showed the President to be a true change executive.

On both sides, the size of the "undecideds" in polls and casual conversation is enormous: Republicans are getting as glib as the over-interviewed residents of Concord, N.H.

Does the forthcoming national interest in Iowa make sense? Is this caucus really important? The answer is yes, because this first test of strength will be treated as important by national media, which - like it or not - makes it important. And after the McGovern experience, which might most of the press grassroots: rest assured Iowa's "first" will be swarmed over.

We will be hearing reports from a generally happy land. Thanks to the weather, the corn crop is in early this year, and farmers are having a more leisurely November than usual:

Berry's World

Parenthesis: Since that word will be bandied about a great deal, an etymological note: some say "caucus" is an Algonquin Indian word, from some "caucicus" or "concoiler" and belongs with Indian contributions to politics like "muckwump," "sachem" and "high muckemuck," others find it rooted in the Greek "kankos," or drinking vessel, alluding to the convivial nature of Boston's Caucus Club frequented by Revolutionary John Adams. End parenthesis.

Four years ago, an indication that Ed Muskie's front-running was an illusion came in Iowa's caucus, when George McGovern's organizations first displayed their talents. Today, similar talk about effective organization centers on the Carter people; the television salesman here say the first queries about time availabilities for a TV blitz right after New Year's are coming from Carter's headquarters.

Although Carter leads the polls at the moment, Humphrey shows his strength as a write-in, on straw ballots, and so support is more impressive to polls than write-ins, which show an intensity of feeling.

AND HERE WE KEEP THE SOCIOLOGISTS WHO RECOMMENDED FORCED BUSING IN THE FIRST PLACE!

Women on high court list

WASHINGTON — United States District Judge Cornelia Kennedy and at least one other woman are on a second list of about eight lawyers and judges whom the Ford Administration has asked the American Bar Association to investigate as possible successors to retiring Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

An earlier list given to the ABA contained 11 men. President Ford is expected to make a choice by the end of next week, according to one source involved in the matter — although not necessarily from the names on either list.

The second list was given to the ABA Tuesday by Attorney General Edward Levi after he met with Ford at the White House. The list is believed to reflect at least in part some of the suggestions that Ford has received from Capitol Hill. It includes at least two Federal Court of Appeals Judges — Malcolm P. Wilkey of the District of Columbia Circuit, and Charles Clark of the Fifth Circuit, which sits in New Orleans.

Both Kennedy, of the District Court in Michigan, and Wilkey were appointed by President Nixon. Kennedy has figured in much of the speculation about the possibility that Ford may appoint a woman, partly because she is both Republican and from Ford's home state.

"The list was described by several persons as including one 'legal scholar' in the academic world. This was widely reported to be Prof. Gerald Gunther of the Stanford University law school, although this could not be definitely confirmed.

There was some talk in legal circles, as there had been when the Ford Administration first indicated that a woman might be selected, that Secretary of Housing and Urban Development Carl M. Folsom and Judge Shirley Hufstetler of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit were under consideration. However, several persons familiar with the second list disputed reports that either were on it.

Judge Hufstetler is believed by many lawyers and judges to be among the most distinguished judges in the Federal Judiciary, male or female, but is too liberal for Ford's taste.

Lesbians fight Army discharges

BOSTON (UPI) — A federal suit to reinstate two women discharged from the Army because they admitted they were lesbians has been filed by the Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts.

The suit, which alleged the Army discriminated against the women and violated their rights of privacy, was filed in U.S. District court Wednesday on behalf of Debbie Watson and Barbara Randolph.

The case was assigned to Judge Frank J. Murray, who will receive preliminary briefs and discovery statements from the parties involved.

The two privates were given less than honorable discharges in August after they said they were lesbians. Both had been members of the honor platoon at the Ft. Devens Security Agency Training School in Shirley.

The suit charged that the women's privacy was violated when they were subjected to intensive, three-hour questioning by officers of the Army Security Agency and Army Criminal Investigation Division.

"The harassment of lesbian women is clearly violative of the rights of privacy and equal protection," said CLUM attorney Jerry Cohen, who submitted the suit.

CLUM Executive Director John W. Roberts said, "It is time the Army and other social institutions stop discriminating against people whose affectional or sexual preference is for persons of the same gender."

New York State works on rescue

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Hugh Carey and state legislators, stung by President Ford's decision to delay federal help for New York City, will work on $82 million in new state taxes to avert default and balance the budget.

Announcing his decision Wednesday, Ford called for a New York rescue plan until at least next week. Ford called for "concrete action" on city taxes. But for the first time he held out the prospect he later might find federal help "appropriate."

Carey, who returned from a two-day Washington lobbying trip, said he would press for action on the tax package, but viewed as a plan to rescue New York City.

"I want to clean up gimmickery in New York state once and for all," he said. "Let's remember the health of the state of New York is tied to that of the city of New York."

"We've learned that lesson. The first item on the legislators' agenda was a 1 per cent city sales tax increase. Such a move would bring the city state sales tax in the city to 9 per cent and provide $20 million in revenue beyond the state tax package."

State Senate majority leader Warren Anderson and other Republicans favor the sales tax increase. However, Democratic assemblymen from city districts argued instead for increased taxes on commuters.

Carey said Ford had made "a disappointing statement" — he had anticipated he would take a decisive step on his own. "He hasn't given us the go ahead, but at least the stop sign has turned from red to amber."

Union power boosted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After 25 years of labor lobbying, the Senate has approved legislation to let construction union pickets close down an entire job site in a dispute with only one subcontractor.

The bill passed 52-45 Wednesday. It includes Labor Secretary John Dunlop's proposal to establish a collective bargaining mediation committee to assist in mediating construction industry labor disputes.

The measure, known as the common situs picketing bill, will enhance the power of the building trades unions by allowing picketing against one subcontractor on a building site to apply to the entire project — thus effectively shutting down the entire site in a labor dispute.

Senate receives secret briefing

CHICAGO Daily News — The Senate goes into secret session today to get an advance briefing on the long-awaited report on the role of the Central Intelligence Agency in plots to assassinate foreign leaders.

Despite protests by President Ford and CIA Director William F. Colby, the Senate intelligence committee planned to make the report public at 4:30 p.m. MST today.

Chairman Frank Church (D-Idaho) said it would be a "detailed accounting" of CIA links to murder plots based on 8,000 pages of testimony from 75 witnesses during a six-month investigation.

Colby, in a rare news conference at CIA headquarters in Langley, Va., said the publication would damage the United States without providing any gain.

"The record in the CIA is at least murky of who approved what," when Colby said about the alleged assassination plots. "I think the evidence is not very clear because of the atmosphere that existed in the 1950s and 1960s," he added. Colby banned any CIA involvement in assassination plots when he became CIA director in 1973.

The report may have political repercussions. One issue is whether the late President John F. Kennedy was aware of or approved CIA-backed efforts in assassination-exterminator Fidel Castro.

Another question that may be answered is the extent of former President Richard M. Nixon's knowledge of a plot to kidnap a Chilean general that ended in the general's death.

Ford has reportedly asked the Senate committee not to publish the report on grounds it would be "harmful to the national interest and may endanger physical safety of individuals."

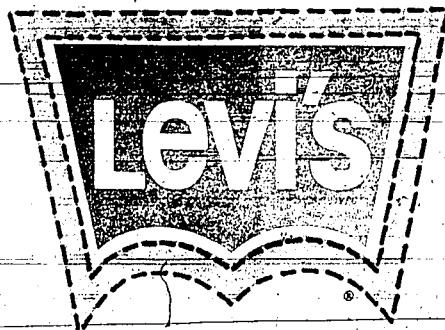

Warning that U.S. enemies would exploit the findings, the President said disclosure of the CIA's past conduct would "seriously impair our ability to exercise a positive leadership role in world affairs."

Portuguese government balks; wants law and order

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — Prime Minister Jose Pinheiro de Azevedo's government walked off the job today, accusing the military of jeopardizing Portugal's future by its failure to impose law and order.

The decision by the sixth provisional government since April 1974 to suspend itself without actually resigning was without precedent.

The cabinet, accused President Francisco de Costa Gomes and the military of failing to provide minimum security for the government and vowed not to return to their jobs until the situation was corrected.

Communist-controlled labor unions and neighborhood committees called on workers to lay down their tools and prepare to march on the presidential palace to demand a Soviet-style "peoples' government."

Workers at the Lisnave shipyards, Lisbon's largest industrial complex, said they were holding a conference to decide their course of action. Similar meetings were reported in other plants and industrial areas.

A socialist spokesman said the cabinet acted to pressure the colonel into moving against disintegration of the command structure and its open anti-government attitude of the military's security chief and other key officers.

Francisco Sa Carneiro, leader of the left-center Popular Democratic Party, said a purge of the top military commanders was the only way to end the crisis.

He stressed that non-Communists cabinet members were firmly opposed to resigning.

"We have a government that wants to govern," Sa Carneiro said. "What we don't have is a military authority that puts the armed forces at the service of the people."

A communique issued by the cabinet said, "The government decided to suspend its activity until the president of the republic can guarantee the government the necessary conditions to exercise authority in all parts of the country."

Israel, Lebanon clash on frontier

By United Press International

Israeli troops and gunners in Lebanon traded shots across the border today in their first frontier clash in more than two weeks, the Israeli military command said in Tel Aviv.

In Beirut, Israeli aircraft swept across the sky late this morning in the second violation of Lebanese airspace in two days.

The Israeli military command said gunners in Lebanon opened fire with handbombs and small arms on an Israeli patrol near the Israeli border settlement of Zarbi about 6 a.m.

The patrol returned fire. No casualties were reported.

The brief gunbattle marked the first border clash in the area since Nov. 4, when an Israeli unit patrolling near the village of Shelufa got into a shootout with Arab guerrillas in Lebanon.

Military sources in Beirut said the Lebanese army was not involved in today's gunbattle.

Air raid sirens signaled a dramatic alert in Beirut late this morning when Israeli warplanes passed over the city at high altitude, spreading vapor trails as they flew north-west over the Mediterranean.

Israeli aircraft passed over

Beirut's presidential palace Wednesday. They also flew over Palestinian refugee camps near the capital and the coastal city of Tripoli.

Palestinian and Lebanese anti-aircraft guns fired at the planes but did no damage.

In Washington, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger testified before a Senate subcommittee Wednesday that Israel would accept a 3:1 inferiority in major weapons categories compared with its Arab adversaries.

Kissinger told the Subcommittee on Foreign Aid that Jerusalem "believes she can accept a 3:1 inferiority because of better use of sophisticated technology."

He urged Congress to provide $1.5 billion in military aid to Israel and suggested that the $1.5 billion not be allowed to increase.

Israel National Radio said Wednesday Egypt has received $1.5 billion in weapons from the Soviet Union since the end of the 1973 October war.

The radio quoted military sources as saying the weapons included surface-to-surface missiles and MIG-23 warplanes.

"The new outbreak pushed the casualty total for seven months of clashes between Christians and Moslems to nearly 4,100 dead and 8,500 wounded."

Beirut radio reported occasional gunfire during the night and warned motorists to avoid a number of roads "because of sporadic shooting incidents and the presence of armed men."

The French diplomat, who arrived in Beirut Wednesday, described his visit as an

Fighting goes on during Beirut talks

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Shooting resumed in rival political militias echoed through Beirut today, threatening to undermine a French envoy's peace talks with Lebanese leaders.

Fighting resumed in many areas of the Lebanese capital following violence Wednesday that killed eight persons. The victims included a British businessman murdered by gunmen who apparently mistook him for an American.

The new outbreak pushed the casualty total for seven months of clashes between Christians and Moslems to nearly 4,100 dead and 8,500 wounded.

Beirut radio reported occasional gunfire during the night and warned motorists to avoid a number of roads "because of sporadic shooting incidents and the presence of armed men."

The French diplomat, who arrived in Beirut Wednesday, described his visit as an exploratory mission to see if France could help negotiate peace between the factions.

French envoy Maurice Couve de Murville opened talks today with Foreign Minister Philip Takla at Takla's house. They apparently chose that site because of the shaky security situation in the streets around the foreign ministry.

The French diplomat, who arrived in Beirut Wednesday, described his visit as an

Canada reduces oil exports to US

WASHINGTON, Canada has revised downward its estimate of 1976 crude oil exports to the United States, and as a result Washington has drafted a system for allocating that oil to American refineries that can't get crude oil.

U.S. officials disclosed Wednesday.

The officials said they expected the National Energy Board in Ottawa to announce Thursday that exports to the United States next year would average 500,000 barrels a day, $2,000 barrels below the level anticipated a year ago. At that time, Canada said that she would eliminate exports by 1983 to diminish her dependence on imported oil.

Canada's exports to the United States account for a small fraction of the country's plus barrels a day of crude oil that U.S. refineries convert to gasoline, heating oil, lubricants, jet fuel and other products. But the refineries in northern states from New York to Washington are vitally interested in Ottawa's policy.

The State Department and the Federal Energy Administration have been exploring ways to maintain adequate crude oil supplies to refineries in northern states that have been buying Canadian crude.

Allocation to those with fewest alternatives is one expedient, but only a temporary one, the official announcement is expected to stress.

"Another resolution might be championed whereby U.S. crude oil is made available to Montreal refineries in exchange for continued Canadian exports to upper Midwest and Puget Sound refineries. However, a team of Canadian officials, including Alastair Gillespie, the Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources, told Washington officials on Nov. 7 that it could see no sign that the refineries were arranging exchanges.

As part of a continuing effort to minimize frictions over the energy, Canadian officials have given Washington advance notice of changes in anticipated exports. Canadian sources said it has been apparent that exports would be cut back because of diminished production capability in Alberta, disappointing exploration results in the Mackenzie Delta and the expected opening in 1976 of a pipeline that will deliver 250,000 barrels a day of Alberta crude oil to Montreal.

REPORT TO THE COMMISSIONER

Two snake handlers sentenced in Georgia

CARTERSVILLE, Ga. (UPI) — The pastor of a snakehandling cult and a member of his congregation have been sentenced to three years in prison and three years probation for assaulting members of a church with a deadly weapon — poisonous snakes.

Bartow Superior Court Judge J. L. Davis Tuesday sentenced the Rev. Clyde Ricker, pastor of the Kingston Holiness Church, and Carl Porter Jr., who were found guilty Friday on three counts each of assault, and one count each of disrupting a church service.

Davis also sentenced five other defendants — found guilty of the misdemeanor charge of disturbing a public worship service — to 12 months on the county work detail under a work release program for first offenders that will allow them to live at home. They could have received 12-month prison terms.

An attorney for the defendants, members of a religious faith that interprets the Biblical order to "take up serpents" literally, said he would appeal the case.

All seven admitted during their trial they took two copperhead snakes in the Calvary Holiness Church Aug. 17 and caused "commotion." The Rev. Doyle Hatfield, pastor of Calvary, testified during the trial that Porter threw snakes in his face when he tried to escort the group out his church.

FBI memos reveal harassment of Martin Luther King

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For seven years the FBI carried "top" a program of harassment against Dr. Martin Luther King that included an anonymous letter threatening to destroy his reputation and suggesting he commit suicide.

FBI memos introduced Tuesday at a Senate intelligence committee hearing showed the bureau bugged and wiretapped the civil rights leader. Anticipating its attempt to discredit King would succeed, the bureau had picked its own man to succeed him as leader of the black movement.

The program was undertaken because, in the words of J. Edgar Hoover, King was "too good" — one whom no Negro expressed concern the King was the "most dangerous and effective leader in our country."

"I must conclude there is nothing in this case that the KGB (the Soviet secret police) does not do — it is a road map to the destruction of American democracy," said Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., a member of the committee. William Sullivan, once top deputy of the FBI, wrote Hoover in 1963 of a plan to discredit King by taking him completely off his pedestal and reducing his influence.

"Obvious confusion will reign" — the Negroes will be left without a national leader," he wrote. The FBI already had selected a black not at that time involved in the movement to succeed King, committee investigators said. They refused to identify him.

Part of a letter, received by King 4 days before he was to be awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1964, was read to the committee. The letter told King: "There is only one thing left to do. You have just 34 days to do it. You are done. There is but one way out for you."

Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, stopped committee counsel Fritz Schwarz, who was reading the letter, and asked, "This was suggesting suicide?" Schwarz replied, "Yes, sir."

Schwarz said a draft of the suicide letter was found in Sullivan's file. Sullivan, no longer with the FBI, "claims he didn't write it but that it was a plant by someone else," Schwarz said.

Hansen school aide refuses 'kickback'

HANSEN — Hansen school Supt. Garth Miller has refused the time honored practice of a photographers' retake on school pictures.

"It's been a long standing practice, he told trustees Monday night, for school districts to get a 20 per cent 'kickback' from the photographer.

But Miller believes this is a questionable practice and one he does not want to get involved in. He said the legality of the practice is now under question among educators.

The board supported his decision and instructed the school secretary to simply reduce the price of the pictures by 20 per cent.

"All we were doing in the past was taking the moneys from the children for the school," Miller said.

Hansen trustees discussed the non-discrimination policy each school district must formulate under provisions of Title 9 federal legislation, stating what steps are being taken to eliminate any discrimination.

The board also hired an aide to assist half days in both the fourth and sixth grades.

In other business, trustees: — Approved three seniors for early graduation. The board's recommendation now goes to the Idaho Board of Education for final action.

Decided to add one bus on the morning runs to eliminate overcrowding. This is not necessary afternoons because some students do not ride the bus home, Miller said.

— Approved purchase of a kiln for ceramic work both in the arts and crafts high school class and for grade school use.

— Approved attendance of two or three teachers at a reading consultant conference Dec. 10-12 in Denver.

Approved purchase of new light fixtures in the school offices and a belt grinder for the industrial arts department.

Marijuana arrests hit record level

(c) 1975 Chicago Sun-Times
WASHINGTON — Arrests for marijuana-related offenses hit an all-time peak last year despite legislative and public-opinion trends toward relaxation of harsh penalties for private possession of "pot."
 Uniform crime reports from the Federal Bureau of Investigation show that 445,600 pot arrests were made in 1974. This is up 6 per cent from the 1973 figure of 420,700. The 1974 figure represented 69.4 per cent of all drug arrests.
 Both the number of arrests and the percentage figure were all-time records, marking the continuation of a steady climb from 1965, when 18,815 arrests for marijuana represented 40.8 per cent of drug arrests.
 Widely accepted estimates indicate that about 81 per cent of marijuana arrests are for private possession and use.

This was not an offense warranting arrest in one state last year and since has been reduced to the status of a non-criminal "violation" in five others.

Military aides use food stamps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A number of men and women in the services qualify for food stamps — military commissary stores redeemed $12.2 million worth last year — but at least one powerful senator is trying to stop the practice.

The Department of Agriculture's $5.8 billion food stamp program helped about 18.5 million Americans last month. Under it, a family of four can buy $162 worth of food stamps each month. The cost can be anywhere between nothing and $138, based on a complicated formula of income evaluation which allows deductions for family size, high housing costs, work and medical expenses, taxes, education and similar factors.

Recipients therefore can range from very poor to middle income families which are either large or have high expenses, and many military families meet these requirements.

A Pentagon spokesman said $12.2 million in food stamps were redeemed in commissaries open to present and retired members of the armed forces in the 50 states, Guam and Puerto Rico. The Army has issued regulations for its commissaries on food stamps. The Navy encourages military personnel to use their food stamps at commissaries, including a sign giving instructions on their use.

Saying "many airmen have financial problems," the Air Force encouraged qualified ones to sign up. A Sept. 17 memo from Maj. Gen. Walter Druen Jr. to local commanders said:

"Air Force involvement with food stamps is a two-point program at the base level: publicity and counseling. Food stamps represent a viable means for Air Force members to supplement their purchasing power but many may not be sufficiently aware of the opportunity.

"Some members who would qualify for food stamps may hesitate applying because of the 'welfare' implications. However, about 45 per cent of the people who do use food stamps are not receiving any public assistance money. A successful publicity program must overcome the association of food stamps with welfare."

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, doesn't like it.

Wildlife ecologist advocates fawn bill

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Orrin Ronstad knew what he was letting himself in for by suggesting deer hunters should kill fawns instead of does or bucks.

"I expected this to stir some controversy," Ronstad said after his views were made public in a release from the University of Wisconsin Extension Department. Ronstad is a wildlife ecologist at the university.

"Hunters who shoot a fawn should be rewarded in some way, not condemned," he said. "They're helping the deer population more than hunters who kill larger, older animals instead."

Ronstad said an ideal deer shooting would concentrate harvesting efforts on fawns.

Hunters should get a reward for shooting fawns, such as a guarantee of a party permit next season, he said. Hunters shooting adult does should be penalized and those killing older bucks should be limited by a lottery system, he thought.

Authorities baffled by fresh graves

GERVAIS, Ore. (UPI) — The two-acre, 100-year-old Masonic Cemetery has been experiencing a population explosion of sorts recently and authorities are trying to find out who is involved — both above ground and below.

In the past few weeks, seven fresh, unidentified graves have appeared on the cemetery grounds, prompting officials of the local Masonic Lodge to call in the sheriff's department to investigate.

The burials have taken place at night and officials believe residents of the local Russian community may be responsible. Each gravesite is marked with a handmade Russian Orthodox cross.

James Fones, a member of the Masonic Lodge, said it appears to be a case of "do-it-yourself" burial.

The Russians, known as "Old Believers" because of their following of the Orthodox Russian religion, purchased 40 grave sites at the cemetery, but those sites have all been filled. Fones said unidentified graves have shown up from time to time over the years, "but seven here all at one time happened in the last few weeks."

"We don't know who did it, when they did it, or how they did it. We don't know who is in those graves," Fones said.

A Marion County sheriff's deputy was sent out to investigate the matter Tuesday and planned to contact the Russians for a possible explanation.

Pocahontas' bones remain in England

GRAVESEND, England (UPI) — Pocahontas isn't likely to be going home next year despite America's bicentennial celebrations. At least, that's the word from the guardian of her grave.

"I think it would not be her wish," the Rev. Colin Pilgrim said. "She is now regarded as being very reluctant to return to Virginia."

The Rev. Pilgrim is vicar of St. George's church, burial place of the Indian princess, who played a key role in the survival of England's first colony in America.

"I don't want to give the idea that we want to hold onto her for any selfish reasons," he said. "But there is another factor."

The church burned down in 1722 and her mother was buried in it. All the bodies buried in the old church were put in a common grave, the vicar said.

"There have been many attempts to find her bones," he said. "No one has ever succeeded."

He said he knew of the resolution introduced in the U.S. House of Representatives calling for Pocahontas' remains to be returned for the bicentennial.

"I certainly hope they don't succeed," one of his parishioners snorted. "It really is rather an absurd thing to do."

Legend says Pocahontas threw herself on top of Capt. John Smith, leader of Virginia's Jamestown colony, to prevent her Indian chieftain father from having him killed.

Dangerous toy list withheld

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government safety officials have decided not to publish their annual list of banned toys this year and have dropped their program of sending volunteers into stores before Christmas to check for dangerous toys.

The reason, according to Consumer Product Safety Commission officials, is that toys have become increasingly safer.

There are still hazards, one expert said, but the "horror show" examples of injury-causing toys that prompted Congress to crack down several years ago no longer exist.

The last published list, put out in October 1974, contained nearly 2,000 banned hazardous toys. Some 15,000 copies of it were sent to toy stores and to consumers during last year's Christmas shopping season.

Pigeons conned by fake snakes

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) — "I don't know if it works, but we haven't seen a pigeon yet today," Gustave Cohen said of his latest efforts to rid his clothing store of pigeons.

The newest plan, which Cohen said he read about somewhere, consists of putting more than 100 fake snakes on the window-sills and the ledges of the Outlet Barn, a three-story building. The green rubber snakes are about 18 inches long and have been nailed in place so that they hang partially over the ledges and window-sills and move in the wind.

Black abuse up

BOSTON (UPI) — Abuse of black students and faculty members at South Boston High School is rising, according to a suit filed in federal court by black parents who want the school closed.

In the suit, filed by the NAACP on behalf of the parents Tuesday, specific allegations were made against police and two white teachers at the school.

South Boston has been the scene of almost constant racial tension since U.S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr. ordered Boston to desegregate its schools more than two years ago.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Here among us Florida retirees, more and more of our widowed friends are "shacking up." If they marry, the widow loses part or all of her Social Security payments. Our problem is how to address these couples. "Mr. John Smith and Mrs. Robert Jones" is probably correct, but it sounds so stilted, and besides, I think old Bob would want no part of this whole deal.

"Mr. John Smith and Mrs. Mary Jones" not only is incorrect but also slightly salacious. Their mailman is a very straight-laced, conservative type, which makes matters worse.

Shacked up or not, these are very proper people, and we want to address them correctly.

Can you help? And please don't take the easy way out and suggest "Occupants."

FLORIDA RETIREES

Oldster
'shack up'

DEAR RETIREES: The only correct way to address one by his (or her) legal name. Don't worry about the mailman. His job is to deliver the mail, not to make moral judgments.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago, my husband's brother died and left a widow. (No children.) We agreed to let her live with us for a while so she wouldn't be alone. (Their apartment held so many memories she didn't want to live in it without him—which was understandable.)

Well, it's now going on the third year, and she hasn't said word about leaving. We do love her and didn't mind having her for the first year, but we want very much to be by ourselves now.

She dates a little and has made a good adjustment, and it's time she started to think about moving. But how do we accomplish this without making ourselves look like villains?

TOUCHY PROBLEM

DEAR TOUCHY: Tell her that you admire the manner in which she has overcome her grief, and you'd be glad to help her find another apartment. It's how you look to yourselves, not to others, that counts.

DEAR ABBY: We have a daughter-in-law who is stealing us blind, and we don't know what to do about it. She steals small items, such as saving-stamp books, small tins of tuna and sardines, cosmetics—anything she can stick into her purse.

We have mentioned having "misplaced" or "lost" specific items in her presence, hoping she will get the hint and quit stealing from us, but it has done no good.

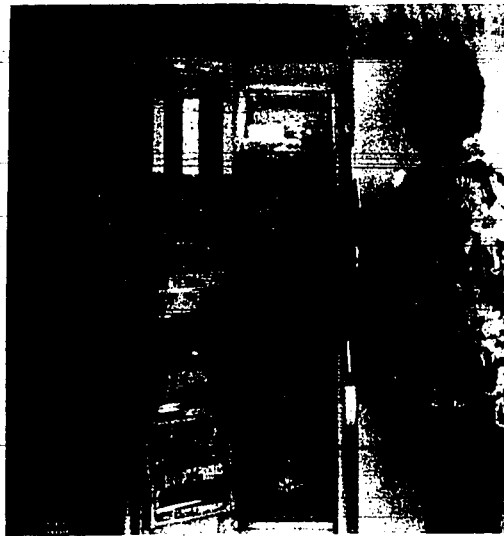

She is not in need of anything, Abby. I cannot understand why she steals from us. Perhaps she steals from others, too. I have seen her slip things into her purse, but of course I would never humiliate her by asking her if I could go through her purse before she leaves the house.

The Bible says, "No thieves shall enter the kingdom of heaven," and I love my daughter-in-law and do want to see her in heaven.

If you print this maybe our son will see it and recognize it as his wife. We haven't the heart to accuse her to her face.

HEARTBROKEN IN ARKANSAS

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: And what if your son doesn't see this column? This problem is much too serious to rely on "hints" and chance. Have a frank talk with your son immediately and suggest that his wife get professional help.

Filer 'seniors' relocate

BY MARJORIE LIERMAN

Times-News Writer

FILER—Filer senior citizens are moving into their new quarters in the former Weathers apartments on Main Street.

The building is owned by Bob Fort, who is chairman of the Senior Citizen program. The center will have an office for its director, Mrs. Joyce Harding; a kitchen, two rest rooms and a large all-purpose room.

Members and volunteers have been cleaning and painting the rooms to get them ready for occupancy and new carpeting was put down on the floors this week.

The group numbers 68 members and a large range of activities are open to them. They meet once a week for a potluck dinner but the rooms will be available each day from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. for quilting, card playing, crafts, reading and social events. Special services available will be meeting with social service representatives on designated days.

The group will be served one communal meal a week at the center, and plans are in progress to begin the Meals on Wheels program by which meals will be taken to shut-ins and others unable to attend the dinners at the center.

The Filer Senior Citizen program is in its second year. It had formerly met in the IOOF Hall in Filer. Serving on the board of directors with Harding and Fort are Charles Young, Willie Ruth Hanson, Gela Miller, Lawrence Knigge, Ernest Ihler and Bill Bunce.

A great deal of work has gone into getting the rooms ready for use, according to Mrs. Harding. People who volunteered their time included Mr. and Mrs. Young, Alberta Bell, Mrs. Tempa Ellenwood, Mrs. Marie Leeper, Mrs. Hanson, Mrs. Matte Peters and Charles Wygall.

Mrs. Ellenwood is cook for the center and Mrs. Elmo Fouts is nutrition chairman.

those two finesses would lead to defeat.

Then South saw a way to end play West, if he held exactly two trumps and at least three clubs and three diamonds.

He took his queen of diamonds, ace of hearts and queen of clubs. Then he led a club to dummy's king and cashed the ace-king of diamonds and king of clubs.

Now he led and ruffed the last club.

West saw that it was hopeless to overruff and discarded a diamond whereupon South simply threw him in with the king of trumps. He was caught in the same end play.

ASK THE JACOBS

An Alabama reader writes to know how the impossible slam made in a recent article.

South had lost a trick and led the queen of spades from Q 9 8 5 toward dummy's A 7 6 4 3. West got brilliant, played the deuce from king-deuce and there it was. The gamblers had cut a few words out of the article.

your health

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

My Achilles tendons got sore when I started playing basketball last October. I finally quit playing for the summer, but I play nine holes of golf every day. The Achilles are still sore and my doctor says there is no cure, only relief, with muscle relaxants.

I am 67, but I do not like the idea of sore tendons the rest of my life. Is there anything that will help? This is the tendon which extends from the leg calf to the heel bone, and it comes under great strain in running and jumping. If you stand on your tiptoes, you will feel the Achilles tendon in action. It is not coincidental that this is the tendon referred to when we speak of athletes whose "legs have gone."

It is also the tendon most subject to tears. Luckily, this did not happen to you or you would not now be paying nine holes of golf a day. Indeed, you would be fortunate to be walking about.

I agree with your doctor. There is little to be done beyond application of heat and use of the muscle relaxants. With winter arriving in your part of the country, this might be a good time to try something you don't even mention—that is, rest.

REVOLUTIONARY lawnswomen, complete with dust caps, gossip about the Liberty tree growing during final rehearsals for "Benet's American Portraiture" set Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:15 p.m. in Theatre 119 of the CSI Fine Arts Center. Tickets can be purchased at the CSI Bookstore or the Music Center.

Joint dinner held

TWIN FALLS - About 32 persons turned out Monday for a ham dinner served by the Veterans of World War I and Auxiliary at a Fifth District meeting at the 100F Temple.

The Veterans voted to send $20 to the Boise Veterans Hospital and Home for Christmas.

The next district meeting will be held the third Friday in March at Gooding.

Auxiliary 509 will hold a Christmas dinner Dec. 8 at 12:30 p.m. at the 100F Temple. President Ethel Brennan and Mary Stearns will roast the turkey and make the dressing and gravy.

Those not contacted should bring a vegetable or salad or call Ruby Gaskill.

SV ski swap planned

SUN VALLEY - The Sun Valley Ski Education Foundation Education Ski Swap will be Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the Sun Valley Inn Linelight Room.

Donations for the swap will be accepted on Friday.

A minimum of $5 will be placed on any items submitted for sale.

Twenty per cent of the total sale price will be donated to the education foundation for support of the alpine and Nordic racing teams.

Yes to all your questions.

Some women shut off like a water tap. Others lose ovarian function (menstruation) gradually over years without ever realizing it is happening. More commonly, menstrual cycles become farther and farther apart or a few months before stopping altogether.

Menopause can begin as early as 45 and as late as the mid 50s. Arthritis sufferers can be helped, Dr. Thosteson's booklet discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications. For a copy of "How You Can Control Arthritis," write to him in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 2999, Elgin, Ill. 60120. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 45 cents.

He won't slow down

Resting the overworked tendons could leave you in pretty good shape for next summer.

Your letter will be contributing to many senior citizens who feel that 67 is a major number that forebodes a sedentary life. However, there are many exercises not quite so taxing as basketball which are more suitable for a person of 67. I suggest you shop around for one.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

I have recently had mononucleosis. Is geographic tongue some sort of after effect of this? Also, I am told a very allergic person can't his be related to the tongue problem? R. S.

Your mononucleosis could have been an indirect cause, but there are so many other possibilities it is difficult to pinpoint one.

The tongue surface consists of many tiny structures called papillae. For some reason these structures can enlarge unevenly causing the pattern we refer to as "geographic tongue." The name stems from the maplike pattern that results.

Irritants such as pipe, cigar, or cigarette smoke or spicy foods can cause this, and the design can change from time to time.

It is common in any ailment accompanied by a fever, as with your mononucleosis. In this it can be related to a general dehydration of the body as well as to changes in diet during your illness. Allergic reaction to certain foods can be involved.

The tongue normally is a healthy pinkish color. Its position of the tongue is an important office procedure because it can mirror specific disorders, including glossitis (inflammation). The strawberry tip is seen with scarlet fever, the smooth red tongue with pernicious anemia, the beefy, red tongue with certain vitamin deficiencies.

Some liquid diets eliminate the chewing action that normally keeps the tongue cleared and this can result in visible changes.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

I have read where some doctors say change of life can begin as early as 35. Can a woman begin in her early 40s and not be aware of it? Can you still have regular menstrual periods in the beginning and still be starting your change?

I always thought menopause meant discontinuing menstrual periods and being at the end of child-bearing years. - Mrs. C. D.

Idaho Music Teachers group honors well-known TF woman

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Teala Bellini, well-known artist and music teacher, has been honored with a life membership in the Idaho Music Teachers Association.

Mrs. Bellini is the first artist in Idaho to be given this recognition for excellence and dedication to music throughout the state, according to Mrs. Robert Blastock Jr., Filer, state president. The motion for recognition was unanimously accepted at the recent state convention in Pocatello, said Mrs. Blastock.

Mrs. Bellini marked the beginning of her 63rd year of teaching this fall and still carries a full schedule of teaching. Her reputation as a teacher is universal and many of her students have attained highest musical honors as well as large scholarships from the schools in which they were enrolled all over the United States.

Her credentials are impressive. In 1929 she was listed in "Prominent Women of California"; in 1948 she was named in "Who's Who of Music and the Dance in California and the West," and in 1951 and 1953 she was listed in "International Who Is Who in Music."

She was listed in the first edition of "Who's Who of American Women" and subsequent editions. She was also listed in "Who's Who of the West." Her name appears in the first edition of "Dictionary of International Biography" which was published in London, and in subsequent editions.

In 1961 she was elected a Life Fellow of "International Institute of Arts and Letters" of Zurich, Switzerland. In 1964 she was named a member of "International Platorna Association," and is also listed in "World Who's Who of Women" and "Notable Americans of the Bicentennial Era," 1976 edition.

Mrs. Bellini is a member of the Idaho Music Teachers Association, National Music Teachers Association, National Piano Teachers Guild, Twin Falls Music Club and a charter member of the Twin Falls Symphony Club.

For eleven years she has been a member of a trip which includes Mrs. Del Slaughter and Mrs. Henry Coier. The three artists presented annual concerts for a number of years and still meet every Thursday morning for practice sessions.

Mrs. Bellini said her music was a life-saver when her husband died two years ago. They had been married nearly 50 years. Her daughter is an accomplished musician and piano teacher in the area.

Her 63 years of teaching have been very rewarding, Mrs. Bellini said. She terms herself a "strict" teacher who expects good work from her pupils and gives it, as well as their respect and affection. She maintains a waiting list of students anxious to have her as a teacher.

In her few hours of leisure time, she enjoys reading mystery books and sewing and she is now making a dinner cloth of delicate Italian cutwork.

Award presented

MRS. Teala Bellini, seated, receives a plaque and an honorary life membership in the Idaho Music Teachers Association from Mrs. Robert Blastock, Jr., state president. Mrs. Bellini is the first artist in Idaho to be awarded this honor and has just begun her 63rd year of teaching in the area.

Glass-topped casket stores body at home

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Although some neighbors are a little uneasy about it, the family of William Sneed III is keeping his body in a glass-topped casket in his bedroom — and health officials say there is no law against it.

Sneed, 29, died Nov. 8 of injuries from an auto accident. Following the funeral, the corpse was taken home to lie in state until the family can obtain a special-use permit to build a private mausoleum.

One neighbor, Mrs. Inez Crady, expressed uneasiness about the situation and indicated that it would expedite her previous plans to move from the neighborhood.

"I was raised Catholic and we were taught to visit the sick and bury the dead," she said.

"I don't believe in keeping something like that where you can look at it."

Other neighbors said they had no objections to the Sneed's plans, although they felt it was an odd course of action.

Glass-topped casket stores body at home

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Although some neighbors are a little uneasy about it, the family of William Sneed III is keeping his body in a glass-topped casket in his bedroom — and health officials say there is no law against it.

Sneed, 29, died Nov. 8 of injuries from an auto accident. Following the funeral, the corpse was taken home to lie in state until the family can obtain a special-use permit to build a private mausoleum.

One neighbor, Mrs. Inez Crady, expressed uneasiness about the situation and indicated that it would expedite her previous plans to move from the neighborhood.

"I was raised Catholic and we were taught to visit the sick and bury the dead," she said.

"I don't believe in keeping something like that where you can look at it."

Other neighbors said they had no objections to the Sneed's plans, although they felt it was an odd choice of action.

Rural zoning plan proposed

TWIN FALLS — The South Central District Health Department Wednesday urged passage of a new zoning ordinance for Twin Falls County.

The proposed ordinance would require persons seeking to build on a site of less than five acres to obtain health department approval that the land will accept a septic tank system without polluting the surrounding lands.

The proposed county ordinance also would require that any plan for septic tank systems be recorded with the County Recorder, making it a matter of public record and available for inspection by later purchasers of land.

"Presently if a farmer sells off five acres of his land to someone who wants to live out in the country the South Central Health District has no jurisdiction over the placement of a septic tank on the property," Robert C. Paine, attorney checking the drafting of the ordinance for the county, he said.

"That same person who bought the five acres might decide to sell off half of the land and the new buyer might do the same, resulting in there eventually being five or six people, all with septic tank systems on his land," Paine said.

"The intent of the ordinance is merely to give the South Central Health District more control over septic tanks in a way that will protect the public," he said.

"In this way when a buyer of land goes to check the title to the land he is about to purchase he will be warned that there is a restriction on the property," Paine added. He said current state law gives authority to the district health department to approve sewage facilities on subdivisions, but does not give such authority to division of some agricultural parcels. "All we're doing is plugging a loophole with this ordinance."

Dr. Wayne Carte, district health director, said he was urging passage of this ordinance because under present law "someone could purchase a lot without knowing that a septic tank might not be approved by the health department."

However, Dr. Carte disagreed with Paine saying that state law already requires health department sewer approval for any new residential construction.

Ed Woods, zoning administrator for Twin Falls County, said that if the new ordinance is passed, any title for land of less than five acres still include information on health department limitations, access road limitations and any prohibition of further land division.

Work on the new zoning ordinance was initiated last summer when Carte announced he would no longer approve septic tank permits for parcels of land of less than five acres.

Carte said he took this action because he had seen too many unsuspecting buyers buy land and then find out that it would not support needed sewage.

The South Central District Health Board has supported Carte's efforts to get a new zoning ordinance.

TWIN FALLS — A picture identification in the Times-News Wednesday on the Flash Cadillac rock concert at CSL, was in correct. United Way meet Friday

TWIN FALLS — All United Way workers and board members are urged to come to the drive headquarters at the Boy Scout office, 164 Main Ave. N., Friday morning to help in a final "cleanup" drive for this year's campaign. Dr. Terry Smith, campaign chairman, said any interested citizen is welcome to help in this final effort. Persons may drop in at the headquarters anytime after 8:30 a.m. to get names of businesses to contact. He said about 60 per cent of the goal of $147,000 has been reached.

Solon questions claim

Buhl — Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, has questioned the claim of state transportation officials that Idaho is $10.6 million short in highway funding. Roberts said the last legislature provided extra funding from surplus money from the general fund, which enabled the highway department to match all available federal money from the highway trust fund. He said the claims by transportation department officials that no new highway construction starts can begin unless the legislature provides $10.6 million in additional money is a little difficult to believe. During a committee hearing in Boise this week Roberts also suggested some type of legislation to make the Department of Law Enforcement fully self supporting outside the highway fund because its requests and requirements are becoming so great.

TF burglary reported

TWIN FALLS — A burglary at Jan's Lounge, 227 Addison Ave. W., was reported to city police Tuesday. The building was entered and a cigarette machine owned by Western Music was opened and all money taken. Officials said it is not known how much money was removed and apparently no cigarettes were taken. Valley Home Builders, Twin Falls, reported to city police someone broke into a storage building where the firm has an apartment house under construction and stole a quantity of tools and supplies. The owners said the items disappeared between Nov. 14 and Nov. 15, from the 1700 block of Heyburn Avenue East. Loss was estimated at about $1,200. Lew Fort, 412 Second Ave. E., told police someone put "kitty litter" in his pickup truck air cleaner and carburetor. He said damage was about $75.

Buhl vote today

Buhl — Buhl school patrons are urged by officials to vote today in the $2.3 million bond election to build a new high school. Polls will be open until 8 p.m. at the gymnasium foyer of the high school and Thousand Springs Trout farm business office for Gooding County patrons of the district. The bond proposal, developed by a citizens advisory committee, will provide a new three-year high school, with 11 classrooms, 2 science labs, speech and drama lab, a media center, physical ed facility and a separate vocational and industrial arts shop. Junior high students would then be moved to the present high school and the old F.H. Buhl building, erected in 1908, would be sold. The new high school will be adequate for 400 students, which school officials say allows for ample growth. The three grades now have 358 students.

Senate and House probers differ on CIA excesses

By BILL LAZARUS Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A lawyer for the House Intelligence Committee has suggested that basic differences exist in the findings of his committee and those of Sen. Frank Church's Senate committee probing the CIA. The Central Intelligence Agency generally has acted under orders and not on its own as a "rogue elephant" in undertaking secret operations, according to Aaron Donner, attorney for the House committee. Donner said in a telephone interview, however, that he cannot comment on whether the CIA has carried out any illegal operations under orders from the President of the State Department.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, earlier had said that the CIA acted alone as a "rogue elephant" in plotting assassinations of foreign leaders. The Senate Intelligence Committee, which Church chairs, is scheduled to make public its special report on assassinations late today.

Donner would not say whether the House committee has uncovered any evidence showing that the CIA acted on orders from others in plotting assassinations.

But, he said, if Church's rogue elephant theory is applied to all major covert operations of the CIA, the House committee's findings would be "generally contradictory." "In the period which we've examined, which is roughly the last 10 years, it has been a general observation that the respective agencies of the intelligence community generally did what they were told and were not acting on their own," Donner said. He said the orders were originally made either "by the President or the State Department."

The House Intelligence Committee Friday approved three contempt of Congress resolutions against Secretary of State Henry Kissinger for withholding subpoenaed documents. Donner said much of the subpoenaed was necessary to find the origin of CIA decisions. He said the House committee has been advised by the White House that the National Security Council, headed by Henry Kissinger until recently, has ordered "approximately 100 major covert operations" during the past 10 years.

Church has come under criticism recently for his "rogue elephant" theory in regard to assassinations and for allegedly not trying hard enough in his committee to trace the roots of CIA decisions.

But Spencer Davis, press spokesman for the Senate Intelligence Committee, said it is "premature to reach a judgment about the work of this committee."

He said the committee has received more secret documents than any other committee in the history of Congress. "We are doing our utmost to be responsible in preserving the integrity and the security in the matters that we are investigating," he said.

When released "I think our work will speak for itself," he said. This work of the committee, Davis maintained, is "leading toward a stronger and improved system of congressional oversight" of intelligence agencies. He said the committee's approach in investigating the CIA has been to look deeply at specific covert operations which occurred in Chile, Greece, Laos, Indonesia and the Congo. Operations occurred under different presidents, he said, and the committee is looking at the chain of command as well as at the operations themselves.

8-year prison sentence set

TWIN FALLS — An eight-year sentence in the Idaho State Prison with 120 days jurisdiction retained by the court has been ordered for Armando Coronado, 30, Twin Falls, who was convicted of voluntary manslaughter.

A Fifth Judicial District Court jury found Coronado guilty of a reduced charge of voluntary manslaughter in the July 14, 1974 death of Solomon Ruit, 28.

Ruit was shot to death in the Chateau Bar and Coronado was subsequently arrested and charged with the crime. Judge James M. Cunningham pronounced sentence this week following a pre-sentenced investigation report.

In addition to the 120 days retained jurisdiction ordered by the court, the defendant, under state law, receives credit for the time he has spent in the county jail awaiting trial and court appearances.

This Judge Cunningham said, will be given at the end of the sentence if he serves the sentence or a part of it.

Snowmobilers fight restrictions, not skiers

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Magic Valley Snowmobile Club say they have no quarrel with cross-country skiers over the use of public lands in the South Hills.

But Mel Quale, a director of the Magic Valley Snowmobile Club, says snowmobilers do object to any federal directives in the South Hills which ban snowmobiles from areas where cross-country skiing would be allowed.

U.S. Forest Service proposal currently is under consideration which would establish an exclusive cross-country ski area in the South Hills.

"What we object to," said Quale, "is the strict federal regulation closing off a specific area for one specific use and banning a snowmobile from crossing this area."

can the hiker, and it is therefore unfair to restrict one type of recreation under such a severe penalty when others have free use of all areas," Qualesaid.

Quale said the club's formal stand is that it is unwise to impose a federal regulation for such a petty matter. Club members say there are only a few cross-country skiers in the South Hills and there is no present conflict.

Few snowmobilers use the area proposed for cross-country skiing and snowmobile members say they will be glad to voluntarily stay out of an area or to sit down with the skiers and decide where the boundaries between the two uses should be.

Quale said the snowmobile club is in agreement with the closure around the Magic Mountain and the Plover ski resorts. There are no club members who feel they should operate their machines on ski slopes developed

Ski season here

ALBION — The ski season will open in Magic Valley, this weekend, with Pomerelle ski resort opening Saturday on a daily basis.

Woody Anderson, resort owner, said the resort has fair skiing conditions with about two feet of packed snow at the top of runs and a foot at the lower lift terminals.

He said there are some rocks and bare spots on the lower slopes but good conditions on most of the mountain. Runs open for skiers will include Muk, Fall, Instructor and Bull. All have been packed and groomed for the opening.

"Snow tires or chains are recommended for several icy areas on the road near the ski resort." The ski school, rental shop, lodge and other facilities will be operating. Plans for the new double chairlift, still under construction, are for operation by early December. Anderson said crews are now in the final stages of assembly.

Alignment chores on the new facility. The existing double chair and rope tow will operate from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. beginning Saturday.

Anderson said there is more snow at the resort now than for the opening day last year.

Ruling given on Hollister municipal election issue

By LORAYNE O. SMITH Times-News Writer

HOLLISTER — The secretary of state's office has no authority to intervene in municipal election affairs.

Ben Yursara, deputy secretary of state, in response to complaints about the Hollister city election, has ruled municipal elections are governed by provisions of Title 50 of the Idaho code.

The secretary of state is chief elections officer for the biennial primary and general elections but has "absolutely no jurisdiction to intervene in matters which involve the actions of judges and clerks in a municipal election," the deputy says.

The official said he had received a copy from a Hollister citizen of a Times-News article in which William Hollifield, county prosecutor, stated the secretary of state should be contacted.

Yursara also said Harold Lancaster, Twin Falls County clerk, "has based his decision for non-involvement on the same rationale. The attorney general's secretary of state and county clerk are, at most, available to advise city clerks who wish to know how a given election law provision Title 34 of the Idaho code is administered in a general election.

"However, the city clerk is the chief elections officer for municipal elections," the state official says.

He said although the secretary of state's office has no authority to intervene, "the office recognizes that poorly conducted elections with haphazard methods destroy the people's confidence in the entire electoral process."

"Therefore we are very concerned with the irregularities which have occurred in Hollister as well as other municipalities. We have urged the Association of Idaho Cities to have its election task force, which is studying local election problems, look into all municipal election irregularities. Hopefully a uniform application of municipal election laws will result, which will make future elections unainted by shoddy procedures," the deputy said.

Neither the secretary of state nor any other official can invalidate election results. The statutory mechanism for contesting a municipal election is contained in Title 34, chapter 20 of the Idaho code, and the jurisdiction of such contest residing in the district court, Yursara said.

Mrs. Dan Whitney, one of the judges at Hollister who had called for a new election because of irregularities in handling of the ballots in the Nov. 4 election, said Thursday she had no plans for taking any further action.

with private money on a commercial basis for skiing customers, he said.

Cross-country skiers is a different matter. It is a free use and enjoyment of the public lands as is snowmobiling and club members feel they should be able to negotiate with the cross-country skiers for a suitable arrangement of area use, Qualesaid.

Lewis Munson, Twin Falls district ranger for the Southwest National Forest, said he favors leaving the area open to all uses.

"We have about 250,000 acres here (in the South Hills) which should be enough to provide winter enjoyment for everyone," Munson said.

"He said the area which the forest service has proposed for cross-country ski use is about 700 acres, running from Deadline Ridge above the Magic Mountain ski resort to the main road. "This is the poorest area for snowmobiling and very few snowmobilers use it now. It is good terrain; however, for cross-country skiing," Munson said.

He added there are very few cross-country skiers in the South Hills at this time and very few snowmobilers in the proposed cross-country skiing area.

Munson said the forest service is continuing to seek comments from cross-country skiers, snowmobilers and other users through Jan. 15, but based on input received to this time all comments call for leaving the area open to all uses.

"As of now, we have not had a single comment from a cross-country skier. Our only cross-country ski information is from forest service personnel who are familiar with the sport," he said.

"Our final decision to close off the specific area for cross-country or leaving it open to all uses will depend on what the people tell us up to Jan. 15," he said.

Beef production hike predicted

By BERNARD BRENNER, UPI Farm Editor
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Beef production next year may rise 3 to 5 percent above this year's record level and hog slaughter may increase 3 to 5 percent as well, an Agriculture Department economist says.

That could mean a good year for consumers, says George Hoffman, the agriculture analyst, added in a report that farmers may find prices for grain-fed cattle averaging about $44 per hundredweight, near or just above the 1975 average. Hog prices, he said, will trend down from this year's peaks if production rises as expected in the latter part of next year.

For consumers, Hoffman said in the report prepared for the Agriculture Department's annual National Agricultural Outlook Conference, "retail meat prices in 1976 may be moderated by expected increases in supplies."

The analyst said this year's record beef production helped push per capita beef consumption to an estimated 120 pounds. Overall 1975 meat consumption is expected to fall to about 180 pounds.

The decline of about 4 percent from the average 188 pounds of meat consumed by each American in 1974 is due primarily to a sharp drop in this year's pork supply. Latest estimates indicate per capita pork consumption for 1975 will be down to about 54 pounds, a drop of 12 pounds from 1974 and the lowest figure in 40 years.

For 1976, Hoffman said that if current production forecasts prove accurate, the average consumer will get a total of about 183 pounds of meat — recovering part, but not all — of this year's decline in the total supply figure. Beef consumption may rise to a record of 122-124 pounds per capita, with pork moving up to a still relatively low level of 56 to 58 pounds per person.

The meat consumption estimates represent considerably more poundage than the average American ever sees on his plate, however. Government per capita meat consumption figures are calculated on a "carcass weight" basis, which means they include much waste fat, bone and scraps which are trimmed away before retail cuts are prepared for sale.

One meat industry expert estimated recently the published figures would have to be reduced about 40 percent to get near the amount of meat shoppers actually take home from supermarkets.

Cattle feeders boosting animals in fattening lots

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. — With a record corn crop already in the elevators and a bumper supply of beef coming off the ranches, cattle feeders are increasing the numbers of animals in their fattening lots for the first time in two years.

For consumers, this means that by mid-winter supplies of the better beef cut will be increasing and retail prices for them could be coming down.

Meanwhile, this fall's unusually large movement of grass fed cattle directly from the ranges to the packing houses was slowing.

But it has already brought stockyard prices for un-fattened beef down more than 10 percent from early September. As a result, retail prices for the cheaper cuts in Chicago have been sliding for the last month and may continue down a little further before Christmas, although they are still well above last year's levels.

Cattle feeders, who bring calves and yearlings from the ranches into their feed lots and fatten them, for four to six months, have suffered painful losses in the last year and a half as the prices of corn, their principal source of feed, soared and market prices for corn-fed beef declined.

Many of these feeders either stopped fattening beef animals entirely or cut their operations drastically.

But in the severe Middle West and Southwestern states, where most of the cattle feeding takes place, farmers have been refilling their lots for the last two months.

Last week, the Agriculture Department reported a 25 percent increase over last year in the placement of young cattle on feed in these states. At the beginning of November the total number of cattle being fattened for market was 12 percent greater than last fall.

For most of the last year, it had been above $3.00. By the end of September choice grade steers were selling at about $30.00 a hundred pounds as ranchers held back their animals as long as they could. Last week these prices had dropped to about $14.00 as grass on the Western ranges dried up and the cattle had to be moved to the packers.

But many of the animals now in the feed lots were bought four or five months ago at favorably low prices, and cattle feeders, the Agriculture Department reported, are now netting up to $9.40 a hundred pounds on the better grades of cattle.

"I expect that with more ranch cattle going into the fattening pens now, you'll see retail beef prices leveling off for the next two months and maybe piling up a little on the better cuts," Holz said.

"But when those animals out there in my lots are ready by mid-February, prices for the better cuts should be coming down," he said. "Unless, of course, inflated costs of transportation, labor, and packaging offset the lower prices to farmers."

Hoffman said his forecasts of rising beef and pork production were based on the assumption that this year's big livestock feed crop, which has reduced production costs for livestock farmers will be followed by adequate

Faster farm info needed

MOSCOW (UPI) — Improved communications are needed to speed flow of agricultural research findings to farmers and to avert a worldwide food crisis, a University of Minnesota educator said Tuesday.

Dr. H. Abraham, director of the University of Minnesota Agricultural Extension Service, urged University of Idaho extension workers to maintain "close linkage and partnership" with agricultural researchers.

Extension workers can help researchers identify the food production problems which should be investigated and they can transmit to farmers the results of scientific studies, Abraham said.

"Food may well be the world currency of the future," he said. "Programs in agriculture and forestry must be given top priority in our research and extension efforts if the world's needs for food and energy are to be supplied."

He said the educational programs of the extension service must be directed not only to increasing food production but also to correcting deficiencies in the public's knowledge about nutrition.

"Nutrition can be improved through education, leading to better use of available supplies of food," Abraham said. "Despite the abundance of food in the U.S., the dietary needs of many Americans are presently inadequate."

Bicentennial Facts

The Americans' self-contradiction for meeting and extending the British armies at Lexington and Concord, and Bunker Hill ignored the poor planning, overconfidence and treasonary hand that dogged the British on April 19 and June 17, 1775.

The Americans gave themselves all the credit, laying special emphasis in their parkmanship as well as their patriotic zeal. In reality, only one minuteman in 15 hit a redcoat on April 19. The World Almanac reports.

Gem bean crop up

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's dry bean crop, up five per cent from last year, is reported to be of excellent quality. The State Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said Tuesday.

This year's estimate crop at 2,622,000 hundredweight more than offset the decline in yield. Acreage harvested for 1975 is placed at 138,000 acres and yield at 1,900.

Last year's acreage was 129,000 acres and yield was 1,940 pounds.

Billing computerized

BOISE (UPI) — Next year's billing notice for ranchers who graze livestock on national resource lands will be prepared in a central computerized system, the Bureau of Land Management said today.

When the automated system is put into operation all bills will be prepared in the bureau's Denver service center, he said. The first notices will be ready for mailing next February.

Under the new system a computer printout known as a "razing preference statement" will replace the annual grazing application.

This statement will include the rancher's basic grazing schedule as well as an application which can be returned to apply for changes the rancher wishes to make in his grazing use for the coming year.

Requests for changes will be reviewed by the district office, Mathews said.

State BLM Director William L. Mathews said some districts will have more than 1,200 billings tied, under the old system, which used clerical help in computing typing and mailing individual bills to each livestock operator.

When the automated system is put into operation all bills will be prepared in the bureau's Denver service center, he said. The first notices will be ready for mailing next February.

Bogota flu blame rumors called political smear

BOGOTA, Columbia (UPI) — A mysterious epidemic in Colombia's eastern Amazonian jungle that linked an alleged visit by President Alfonso Lopez has been dubbed the "Lopez Flu," but health officials say it's a political smear.

Alvaro Moncayo, the health ministry's epidemiology chief, confirmed Tuesday that a disease which sometimes presents flu symptoms and sometimes affects the eyes of the patient has broken out around Mita, capital of the isolated Vaupes region of eastern Colombia.

"We don't know what it is yet," Moncayo said. He called press reports that the disease was spread by the visit of the presidential party to the area on Oct. 12, the first time a Colombian president had ever set foot in the region, "an interesting hypothesis, but not the stories that appear in political journals."

Moncayo said the call press reports that the disease was spread by the visit of the presidential party to the area on Oct. 12, the first time a Colombian president had ever set foot in the region, "an interesting hypothesis, but not the stories that appear in political journals."

Population rate causes war threat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Current population growth rates in developing countries, together with the proliferation of sophisticated weapons, increase the risk of war, the chairman of the U.S. Council on Environmental Quality said Wednesday.

There are 4 billion people inhabiting Earth and J.R. Bussey Peterson said about 70 percent of those people live in the developing nations. At present rates of growth, he said, the developing countries will hold 82 percent of the global population in 20 years.

"That rate of population growth is an unbroken, threefold in productivity, but it is not a threefold increase in the human misery, but a threefold conflagration," Peterson told an international population conference sponsored by the World Population Society.

He said, for example, that overpopulation was the root of the India-Pakistan-Bangladesh conflict.

"Considering the growing interdependence among the nations of the Earth and the proliferation of sophisticated weaponry around the world, it is inevitable that for ever far sighted it may be in controlling the rate of population growth, the consequences of the failure of other to moderate population growth," Peterson said.

He said all nations must work together to halt the world's burgeoning population.

Peterson said birth rates have declined in industrialized nations and some, including East Germany, West Germany and Luxembourg, have achieved zero population growth. But birth rates in most developing countries, he said, have not declined significantly.

"It is clear that population growth in some nations exceeds carrying capacity," he said.

He said most developing nations have a mainly agricultural economy and they depend on the world for workers. In addition, Peterson said that because most developing nations lack provisions for elderly, children are regarded as insurance against deprivation and old.

"People in developing countries begin producing children at rates which guarantee continuing hunger, malnutrition and, periodically, starvation."

Transplant patients face 'better' odds

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Heart transplant patients have a much better chance of surviving than they did eight years ago, when the procedure was first performed, the American Heart Association said Wednesday.

The report, prepared by the Stanford University school of medicine, is based on 10 Norman Shumway, the only surgeon to perform heart transplantation on a regular basis. It covered 10 years of operations on a regular basis. It covered 10 years of operations on a regular basis. It covered 10 years of operations on a regular basis.

Dr. Shumway, who presented the report, said 220 operations have been performed by 13 teams in 22 countries since the first human transplant by Dr. Christian Barnard of South Africa in 1967.

As of Aug. 1, 49 of these patients were still alive, with the longest survivor having lived 67 years after the operation. Of the 50 operations performed at Stanford, the longest survivor has gone 32 years. Overall, 42 Stanford patients are still alive.

The first three months are the most critical, she said, and of 24 patients who died in that period, the survival rates rose to 70 percent after one year and 79 percent after 3 years.

Dr. Hunt said the criteria for patient selection are rigorous. The disease must be so severe the patient is limited to a bed-to-chair existence with no further medical or surgical therapy possible.

Heart transplantation "clearly improves the quality of life in surviving patients," she said. Of the 51 once bed-ridden or severely limited patients, 40 (91 percent) returned to normal activity, no symptoms even with vigorous occupations. Eight died voluntarily.

In the earlier operations, death in those who survived the first three months was attributed mostly to rapid hardening of the arteries of the donor heart, believed to result from the body's immune system.

'Not anyone's father'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — A Catholic priest who says he has been the victim of "a kind of emotional and spiritual prejudice" has filed a civil suit against his bishop for removing him from his campus ministry.

Dennis Putman, 30, who says he is "not anyone's father" and asks he not be called by that priestly title, has filed suit in circuit court against the Most Rev. Joseph G. Vath, bishop of the Birmingham diocese.

Putman said he was removed due to a difference in philosophy.

"My feeling was that it's first-come, first-served on an ecumenical basis at a secular campus like that," he said.

MOSCOW (UPI) — A government official said today the Soviet Union will confiscate valuable foreign currency gifts from abroad and replace them with Soviet money at a reduced rate in an apparent strike at Jews and political dissidents.

The move touched off immediate alarm among dissident Jews, who have lost their jobs and subsist mainly on gifts from American and European charities.

One of the first to suffer from the new ruling could be dissident physicist Andrei D. Sakharov, who expected to receive a $12,000 award as part of the 1975 Nobel peace prize.

Allison, Nielsen awarded all-SIC honors

Six Twin Falls Bruins, headed by first teamers Mike Allison and Craig Nielsen, drew football honors Wednesday. Allison and Nielsen were named to the all-Southern Idaho Conference first offensive unit when loop coaches met in Twin Falls.

Allison drew the second largest number of votes among a strong running back field that saw the coaches themselves unable to decide and end up with five halfbacks.

Nielsen was untouched for tight end honors, missing unanimous selection by only two votes.

Named to the all-conference second offensive unit were tackle Joe Ballenger and placement kicker Gene Turley, the latter just missing a first-team nod.

Defensively, senior linebacker Cliff Gambrel and junior cornerback Bob Latham were placed on the second unit.

All the men listed first or second team conference also were voted to the all-division teams. In the eastern division Twin Falls' Stan Williams picked up a defensive end spot, and Kyle Uscola was the lone Minto representative, being named to the defensive secondary.

Borah took two of the three individual plums with Dave Pankratz being named coach of the year on nine ballots, Jim Koetter, Highland, on two and Dennis Almqvist, Twin Falls, on the other.

Borah quarterback Scott Richardson outpolled leading rusher Ray Dilolo of Boise 6-3 for back of the year honors while Borah's Cedric Minter, a junior, had two and Allison one.

In a twist from the usual, the coaches put a defensive player in as lineman of the year. The honor went to Robb Beckwith of Capital with five votes, one ahead of Highland wide receiver Greg Smith, Kip Palmer, Highland; Jeff Mooney, Borah, and Brad White, Skyline, all had one.

SIC OKs new slate, vetoes expansion

The Southern Idaho Conference will remain as is in alignment.

That was the decision of SIC principals following a day-long hassle in Twin Falls Wednesday.

The only major change in the conference sets up more cross scheduling among the two divisions with the aim that no team will play more than two of the Boise schools per fall.

The final decision was not without some preliminary buildup.

In the knowledge that Bonnevile will be admitted to full membership beginning next fall — an action taken last summer — the principals, voted to add Blackfoot to the lineup and expand to 16 teams the following year with Burley having preference.

This would have allowed the league to regain scheduling and divisional balance.

But when the membership was offered to Blackfoot, the Broncos, refused it, stating they had an agreement with Burley and Madison that all or none of the schools must be taken into membership.

That pact was news to the SIC principals except that Madison, in requesting membership, consideration, had stated its reasons were based purely on scheduling problems if Burley and Blackfoot were taken from their fall slate.

It was at that point that the principals showed a solid SIC line and indicated expansion was no longer a subject they could discuss.

With the cross scheduling and elimination of division on each western division school to play all three Boise schools, both Caldwell and Nampa expressed the idea this would be sufficient relief for them to remain in the conference.

The turn of events left Minto with no real choice but to remain in the alignment — a turn of events that didn't seem to strike too much despair in the Spartan ranks.

The principals met for several hours and according to Twin Falls principal Frank Charlton "there wasn't anything we didn't discuss or see would work. Once Blackfoot refused membership, we knew it had to be settled among ourselves."

This cross division scheduling will be formulated at a third conference meeting in Twin Falls on Dec. 3.

The addition of Bonnevile put the eastern division with a one-team, plurality, and the western division which will cause no problems in football but indicates a change in basketball scheduling.

Under the current set up it would require the eastern division to play 18 games on the home-and-home intra-division and one inter-division. The answer there also must be cross scheduling and will mean that no longer will all the basketball teams play each other at least once per year.

In other action the conference moved its tennis championships from Twin Falls to Pocatello.

Shelton wins again in eligibility case

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon State star basketball player Lonnie Shelton won another federal court test Wednesday in legal battles over his continued eligibility in college basketball.

Further legal action still will be forthcoming from the St. Louis Spirits of the American Basketball Association, who have filed a motion in federal court here seeking dismissal of a suit by Shelton against the Spirits to sever any contractual obligations the Spirits claim. A hearing on the St. Louis motion has been tentatively set for Dec. 8.

Federal Judge Gus Solomon denied a motion by the NCAA Wednesday to set aside a ruling allowing Shelton to return to the Corvallis, Ore. campus to play with this year's Oregon State team. The NCAA said it is appealing the decision to deny a temporary stay of the order allowing Shelton to compete now for Oregon State, pending the appeal in San Francisco.

Shelton, last spring, signed a hardship case contract with the ABA, which transferred that contract to St. Louis.

The All-Coast forward who led the Beavers into the NCAA quarterfinals last March before they lost to Indiana in the playoffs, reneged on the pro contract, refunded the money given him, and said he wanted to return to Oregon State to complete his college eligibility.

He is a junior and under a federal court order has been reinstated to the Oregon State squad to continue his collegiate competition.

Shelton, by signing a contract with the ABA, automatically became ineligible for further NCAA play under NCAA rules. However, Shelton went to federal court here seeking an injunction and got one which reinstated him for collegiate play, the judge saying Shelton had shown he did not want to turn pro by his actions and is entitled to continue his collegiate career.

Oregon State is not fighting the order. Coach Ralph Miller knows Shelton is a key player in efforts to finish first or second this season in the Pac-8. Shelton is working out with the team and will play in early season games prior to the beginning of Pac-8 competition.

The NCAA has said it is appealing the federal court ruling here in order to make its regulations stick on automatic ineligibility for athletes signing professional contracts to continue that sport in college. The NCAA allows an athlete to compete professionally in one sport and play collegiately in another but not at the same sport.

The NCAA appeal, in the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco, was not expected to get action before late December, and an adverse ruling there against Shelton would result in Oregon State forfeiture of all games in which Shelton plays against NCAA member schools.

However, Oregon State is taking that risk. The Spirits simply want to get Shelton's suit against them here in order to secure any contractual obligations, dropped and a ruling that Shelton is the property of the St. Louis team.

Cal favored by two points

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — In trying to dope out Saturday's winner of the Big Game between California and Stanford—a game that has bearing on this year's Rose Bowl—you could cite statistics ad infinitum.

What you could wind up with is statistics and no clear-cut winner.

But the oddsmakers, who use statistics a lot more than might be suspected, see Cal as the winner by two points.

"You can't hardly slice the pie any closer and still wind up with a piece," said one oddsmaker, who uses the weekly UPI Coaches Ratings as his principal guide in picking favorites (UPI has this week named Stanford its underdog).

Cal has to win on superior offense, but Stanford can score from anywhere on the field as long as (Guy Benjamin is in there. If Benjamin gets hurt early or they go with the other guy (Mike Cordova), I figure Cal is better from 10 to 13 points."

NCAA statistics show California is the nation's No. 1 team in total offense. Stanford doesn't make the first 15 although Cal's edge is only one long run a game—355.6 yards to 306.7.

In passing, Cal is No. 1 in the Pacific-8 Conference with a 230.2 yard-per-game average while Stanford is No. 2 at 217.4. But hold it a minute.

Joe Roth, who became Cal's regular quarterback three games into the season, has a completion percentage of 54.1, while Benjamin, who started his first game last week and has played parts of six other games, has a completion average of 59.0.

Cards Coach Jack Christensen is playing cat and mouse as to who will start at quarterback for his side but it's a foregone conclusion he will have to go with Benjamin over Cordova, and for a variety of reasons, the most glaring of which is Guy's superior passing average.

Bucks edge Suns

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Guard Brian Winters scored 20 points, including seven in the fourth quarter, as the Milwaukee Bucks edged Phoenix 96-94 Wednesday night.

Milwaukee moved out to the largest lead in the game, 89-80, with four minutes left as the Suns were plagued by cold shooting and turnovers in the first eight minutes of the final quarter. Phoenix fought back to within three points three times in the last two minutes and within 95-94 with five seconds left when Milwaukee's Pat Dugas shot.

All five starters for Milwaukee scored in double figures with Bobby Dandridge and Jim Price getting 18 each and Dave Meyers and Elmore Smith 11 apiece.

CSI hosts Colorado team in cage opener Saturday

The new College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles open their regular season Saturday night by hosting Colorado Northwest.

The game, which starts at 8 p.m., brings in an old foe with a new name. Northwestern formerly was Rangely JC which performed in the Eagles' early days when Twin Falls high school gymnasium was still home. In fact, Rangely brought in the first seven footer to play against CSI in a sub-regional.

This time Northwestern will be a little shorter and a totally unknown quantity.

"They could be very good because I know they've had some very representative teams over the years," Coach Boyd Grant says.

"They had one man 6-7 and two 6-6 with the rest 6-4 or under," he continued. "They're all from Indiana and Colorado. I'd guess they'll have good ball handling in front because they have some men from Gary, Ind., and they play good basketball there."

Actually its potluck and the Eagles are trying to be prepared for anything.

Coach Grant has been working out against the different numbered zone defenses and feels his charges are at least familiar with those. He seems most worried about a sharp, zone pressing type defense right now because time hasn't allowed him to get too far into that problem.

His Eagles should be in pretty good condition for the opener although Andrew Wakefield still is having pain from the impacted wisdom tooth that was extracted last Friday.

"We've practiced quite a while and I know we need some games to get some fresh spirit back into the club," Coach Grant said. "We've been pretty lifeless in practice and haven't shown any of the enthusiasm it takes to be a good team."

Following Saturday's opener, the Eagles remain home to take on what should be a strong and tall Snow outfit Tuesday night.

After that comes the trip to Hawaii — which might prove CSI's last visit to the islands. Hawaii didn't have a large enough turnout and has eliminated its Jaycee program. The Eagles will play a four-year school from Honolulu next Friday and the following Monday nights.

Coach non-committal about team health

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — The emotional factor has been widely discussed but physical problems may be of more concern to Michigan Saturday when the Wolverines take on Ohio State for the Big Ten title.

Michigan refused to divulge pre-game injuries to both Rob Lytle and Jim Smith prior to last year's contest, which Ohio State won 10-10, and it is possible the Wolverines may be doing the same thing again this year.

The guys who played against Illinois will play against Ohio State," was the only comment Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler would make Wednesday. The statement alone leaves room for doubt.

Schembechler held out offensive tackle Mike Kenn from the Illinois game and it is not known whether he will start Saturday. The Michigan coach said Kenn could have been action against Illinois had he been needed but since he never appeared it is questionable whether his thigh has completely healed.

Senior Steve King, who missed six games with a leg injury, filled in for the sophomore against the Illini.

Several other key performers have been bothered with recurrent injuries. Defensive tackle Jeff Perlinger reinjured his right ankle against Illinois and though he returned to the game he may not be at full speed for the Buckeyes.

Middle guard Tim Davis, who also has been hurt throughout the season, left the Illini contest for several plays with a shoulder problem and his status also was questionable. Finally, defensive back Jim Bolden suffered a hip pointer in the Illinois game and definitely will not be at full strength.

These bumps and bruises, added to safety Mike Hicks' problem with his right hand and fullback Lytle's bruised leg and shoulder, could create an undesirable situation for Schembechler in Saturday's big game.

The Wolverines already have depth problems from early season injuries and should any more of these key performers be unable to play or be at less than full strength, Michigan would be at a distinct disadvantage. But the status of any of the players will not be known until 1 p.m. Saturday — gametime.

Hayes says weather may make great game

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes has his weather eye out for Michigan.

Hayes, whose top-ranked Buckeyes take on the No. 5 Wolverines Saturday at Ann Arbor, Mich., in a nationally televised showdown for the Big Ten championship and a Rose Bowl berth, has turned his eyes toward the sky.

"Who can tell me about the weather?" Hayes asked reporters following Wednesday's "relatively light practice" in sunny, 60-degree weather.

"It stays like, it will be the most remarkable year I've ever seen," said the veteran Buckeyes boss of 25 years.

The long-range National Weather Service forecast for Michigan's Lower Peninsula, however, calls for mostly cloudy skies with a chance of snow showers Saturday. Lows are expected to be in the 20s and highs in the 30s.

LA tries to fulfill Sutton's trade wish

NEW YORK (UPI) — Upset over the way he was used, Don Sutton has asked the Los Angeles Dodgers to deal him. They're doing their best to oblige.

Sutton, a 5-and-10 player with the right of saying yes or no to any deal because he has 10 years in the majors and the last five with the same club, became unhappy this summer when he was removed from some games by Walt Alton he felt he still had a good chance of winning.

He walked into the office of Al Campanis, vice president in charge of player personnel with the Dodgers, after one such game and told him he wanted to go with an American League club. Why not? Look what that had done for Fergie Jenkins.

Sutton said he'd like to be traded to the New York Yankees or Boston Red Sox. Campanis tried to talk him out of it, but saw the 30-year-old right-hander had his mind made up. More recently, Sutton, who had a 16-13 record this year along with a 2.87 earned run average, sixth best in the National League, threw in a third club he'd agree to go to — Kansas City.

Campanis never gave Sutton any flat-out guarantee he'd trade him, but he has been trying ever since the World Series and still is now after having swung that big six player deal with Atlanta. During that portion of the Series played in Cincinnati, Campanis talked to Boston vice president Haywood Sullivan about Sutton. "Who would you want?" Sullivan asked. "What about Fred Lynn?"

"Next case," said Sullivan.

"Well, then, how about Carlton Fisk?" Campanis tried again. "Case closed," Sullivan said, and that ended that conversation.

Campanis also has talked with Yankees' president Gabe Paul about Sutton. Paul told Campanis he'd get back with him again and that's where that one stands now. If also one of the reasons he's here now. Another reason is Andy Messersmith, who won 19 with the Dodgers this year.

Messersmith never signed his 1975 contract with the Dodgers. What he is doing is testing the reserve clause, hoping he winds up a free agent who can sell his services to the highest bidder the same way Catfish Hunter did a year ago. Messersmith is due to appear before arbitrator Peter M. Seitz today.

Losing Messersmith would hurt the Dodgers almost as much as losing Hunter hurt the A's, but with Bert Hooton pitching the way he did after coming from the Cubs and Tommy John apparently back in shape to go again, the Dodgers aren't overly concerned about their pitching. Not when there have been such others around like 15-game winner Doug Rau, Rick Rhoden, a good-looking 22-year-old righthander, and Mike Marshall in the bullpen.

Although the Dodgers got Dusty Baker in their deal with the Braves, Campanis would take another top flight outfielder for Sutton. Failing that, he would want a pitcher he considered at least on a par with Sutton.

"We're not trying to get rid of Don Sutton," Campanis insists. "If we make any deal for him, it will have to be mutually beneficial, benefitting him and benefitting us or else there won't be any deal. I've been completely honest with Sutton. I told him I'm not going to trade you simply for the sake of making a trade."

Meanwhile, the Red Sox, who landed Jenkins from Texas the other day, aren't necessarily finished dealing either.

They're shopping around for a third baseman in case Tito Petroselli quits. The one they'd like is Milwaukee's Don Money, but the Brewers would want plenty in return.

Herron waived by New England

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Mack Herron, the lily running back who set an NFL single season total offense record last year, was placed on waivers by the New England Patriots Wednesday.

"I was not satisfied with his contribution to the team," Coach Chuck Fairbanks said of Herron in a statement released through the Patriots' office here.

Fairbanks told Herron twice previously this season that he was not pleased with the former Kansas State star's output, team spokesman Pat Horn said.

Herron was known to be unhappy that he did not get a substantial raise this season after breaking the record set in 1966 by the Chicago Bears' Gale Sayers.

Herron was also sidelined by two injuries — a bruised rib cartilage and a strained back muscle — this season. He did not play last week in the Patriots' loss to the Dallas Cowboys, although he ran sprints along the sideline.

After the game, he said he had been injured. "But, they (Patriots) told me not to talk about it, so I don't know."

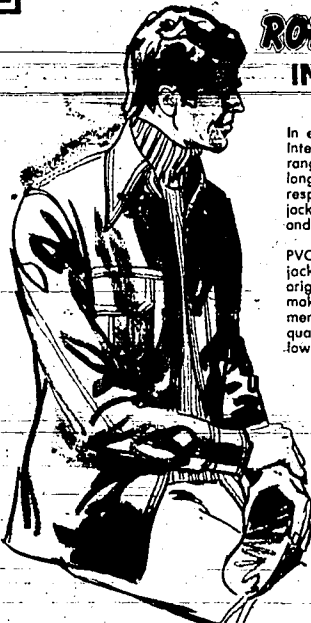

The Patriots later said Herron had muscle spasms and could not play, but listed him as probable for this Sunday's game at Buffalo.

Herron, who was selling clothing in Chicago after being waived out of the Canadian Football League in 1972, was picked up by the Patriots in 1973.

He broke eight individual Patriot return records that year and led the NFL in kickoff return yardage.

ROPER'S — PVC LEADER

IN '73 AND '74 — NOW FAR OUT FRONT IN '75

In early Fall 1973 ROPER'S introduced PVC Jacket to the Intermountain Area and soon had big stocks and wide color ranges and sold hundreds upon hundreds of them. This was long before most stores were even aware of the phenomenal response the public was giving to this comfortable shirt-jacket that was relatively inexpensive and yet had the look and feel of fine leather.

PVC stands for Polyvinylchloride — and the best quality jackets made from this material come from Korea. The original styles sold from $30 to $45 but the savings from making much larger quantities have brought the regular men's jacket price down to $23. Of course, there are lesser quality fabrics, not as sturdy, and they can be tailored to lower standards, and sell at lower prices.

NFL finalizes plan for stocking clubs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Seattle and Tampa Bay, the two newest franchises in the National Football League, have been provided with a player allocation plan that is designed to insure them of being the strongest first-year expansion teams in league history.

NFL owners Wednesday finalized a player dispersal program which will make available the largest number of quality players ever for an expansion draft. For the first time in its history, the NFL will include both active and reserve players in the expansion pool, giving the two new clubs a selection of more than 475 veteran players from which to stock their teams.

"In the past only players who started the first league game were made available for expansion," said NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle. "None of the other players was available. But this year we are including the players currently on the reserve list plus players from the active roster."

"It will be the largest pool of quality players ever made available. Cincinnati, when it expanded, had only 88 players to choose from and only 154 were available for Atlanta and New Orleans."

The expansion pool will consist of 326 players from the active rosters of the existing 30 NFL clubs plus upwards of 150 or more players from the reserve list. There are currently 129 players on the reserve lists of NFL clubs but that figure will grow before the end of the season. The reserve list consists of injured and retired players plus players who are in the armed forces or NFL draft picks participating in the Canadian Football League.

Before the expansion draft begins, each of the current 26 clubs will be able to withhold two players from its Oct. 28 reserve list. Then, each club can freeze 20 players from its active and reserve list before the draft begins.

The expansion draft, which will be held a few days prior to the Pro Bowl game in late January, is arranged so that no more than three players may be selected from any team.

Once a player has been selected from a specific team, that team can freeze one more player on its roster before a second player may be selected. If a second player is chosen, another player may be frozen.

"The idea of allowing teams to freeze additional players after a player is selected from its roster prevents teams from getting hit too hard at one position," said Rozelle.

Rozelle and Thompson both made it clear that the plans regarding the expansion draft were subject to approval between the owners and the Players Association.

"The decision to expand is not a negotiable subject," said Thompson, "but when you're dealing with employees, it is subject to collective bargaining. All of these plans will be negotiable."

Seattle and Tampa also should reap a bonanza from the college draft, which will be held in January.

The two new clubs will pick first or second in each round of the college draft and, in addition, each will get two extra picks at the end of the second, third, fourth and fifth rounds. After the two new clubs pick at the start of the sixth round, 158 players will have been selected and 30 of them will have gone to Seattle and Tampa.

"We are very pleased with this program," said John Thompson, general manager of the Seattle Seahawks. "There is no question in our minds that there will be more quality players available in this draft than ever before. It will give us a decent start and hopefully get us off on the right foot in our first season."

Tampa will begin play next season in the AFC Western Division while Seattle will be placed in the NFC Western Division. Tampa will then switch to the NFC Central Division and Seattle to the AFC Central for the 1977 season.

Finkle released

BOSTON (UPI) — Henry Finkle was placed on waivers by the Boston Celtics Wednesday, but those who will feel the loss most are the team's fans.

Finkle, a sometimes clumsy seven footer, endeared himself to Boston fans with his quiet willingness to perform a thankless task — as a backup center for all-star Dave Owens.

Finkle, 33, rarely saw more than four or five minutes of action a game, but when he got in, performed with such intensity that fans treated their approval each time he reported to the official table.

Nuggets cop 6th in row

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — David Thompson scored 31 points Wednesday night and Dan Issel had 27 to lead the Denver Nuggets to their sixth straight win, 119-106 over the Spirits of St. Louis.

The Spirits, who have lost nine straight games to Denver, led as late as three minutes into the final quarter at 93-92. Issel tied the game on a free throw and added the next basket to give the Nuggets the lead for keeps.

Squires beat Nets

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — The Virginia Squires, earlier this week on the brink of becoming the third ABA franchise to fold this season, were alive and well Wednesday night enroute to an impressive 110-106 over the New York Nets.

Rookie Guard Ticky Burden and Veteran All-Star forward Willie Wise scored 22 and 22 points respectively in leading the Squires to only their second win against 12 defeats.

Hawks win in overtime

ATLANTA (UPI) — Atlanta forward John Drew, playing with five fouls over the final 14 minutes, hit six of the Hawks' 10 overtime points Wednesday night for a 104-98 victory over Golden State.

Midway through the second period the game looked like an Atlanta runaway. The Hawks blitzed the Warriors 21-2 and led 39-23 with 8:30 remaining in the half. But Golden State recovered and cut the margin to four at intermission.

Spurs drop Kentucky

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — George Gervin scored 21 points and grabbed 12 rebounds Wednesday night to spark San Antonio to a 103-106 victory over Kentucky in an American Basketball Association contest.

James Silas added 20 points, Billy Paulit had 19, Allen Iverson 18, Larry Kneen 14 points and 11 rebounds and George Karl hit 10 points for the Spurs who upped their record to 8-4 in the Western Division.

New York Jets fire coach

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — Charley Winner, who took over under controversial conditions and then saw his club crumble beneath him in two short years, Wednesday was fired as head coach of the New York Jets and replaced on an interim basis by offensive coordinator Ken Shipp.

The personable Winner, who was often criticized for being too easy on his players, was in the second year of a three-year contract. His selection as head coach two years ago brought cries of nepotism, since he replaced his father-in-law, Wep Shaw.

Winner guided the Jets to a 7-7 season last year, winning his last six games, and the Jets had playoff aspirations this season. But the club now has lost six in a row, one short of a club record, and seven of nine overall.

Club president Phil Ieltn made the announcement, calling it "a very emotional day for me. I know Charley Winner is a gentleman and that's the basis we kept the discussion on. We made the decision on Monday and hoped we could get through the season, but all the speculation and adverse criticism changed my mind. We simply decided that a move had to be made now."

Winner, highly regarded as a defensive specialist throughout his coaching career, saw his club degenerate after a promising exhibition season in which the Jets defeated Minnesota, Washington and St. Louis, all playoff clubs last year. The Jet defense allowed the most points in the league — 29 — and its worst, leading career last Sunday when Baltimore drubbed New York, 50-19.

Reds collect $19,060 apiece

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thirty-two members of the world champion Cincinnati Reds will receive full shares of $19,060 each, fourth largest in history for their roles in defeating the Boston Red Sox in the World Series. It was announced today by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Kuhn also revealed that 34 members of the Red Sox, including second baseman Denny Doyle and pitchers Jim Burton and Jim Willoughby, will receive full losers' shares of $13,253.87 apiece.

Doyle, Burton and Willoughby were voted full shares by their Red Sox teammates although Doyle started the season with the California Angels and Burton and Willoughby began it in the minor leagues.

The full Cincinnati shares, taken from the club's total player pool of $657,455.29, were exceeded in World Series history only by those of the Oakland A's in 1972-73 despite the fact that the first two of the four games which formed the pool were played in Fenway Park, Boston, which has a capacity of only 35,205.

Thanks to the Red Sox' generosity in voting full shares to Doyle, Burton and Willoughby, it marked one of the few times that all 50 players eligible for the World Series received full winners' and losers' shares.

WORKMEN are shown dropping the Interstate 80 North Highway sheep fence near the Juniper rest stop to allow deer to freely cross at this point. A 23,000 foot long deer drift fence is shown in the background. It was constructed by the Idaho Department of Highways this past year to help intercept deer and guide them across in an attempt to re-establish the migration routes from the Rockland-Sublett areas to Black Pine Mountain.

Migration protection

Deer migration fencing completed on interstate

By STU MURRELL
Regional Staff Conservationist

The Interstate 80 North Highway fence, located about two miles north of the Utah line, was recently lowered to provide better passage for migrating deer. This is a cooperative program between the Idaho Department of Fish and Game, Idaho Department of Highways and U.S. Bureau of Land Management to re-establish traditional migration routes from summer range in the Rockland and Sublett areas in winter range on Black Pine Mountain. These routes have been partially blocked by Interstate 80 North and historically involved about 2,500 deer.

The Idaho Department of Highways has built two drift fences, costing $90,000, this past year in an attempt to intercept deer at two of the migration routes and funnel them across the highway. These are located at Saddlehorse Basin and two miles north of the Utah line. They are 3,500 and 23,000 feet long, respectively. Future plans call for a third drift fence at Switzer Canyon if the proposed land trades by the U. S. Bureau of Land Management and a private landowner are successful.

The sheep fence was removed at the junction of the 23,000 foot drift fence and highway fence, and the wires adjusted so deer could freely cross the highway.

If the deer drift fences are successful in guiding the animals, the State Department of Highways has agreed to construct underpasses at those three locations to further the deer and help to avoid deer-car collisions. The total mitigation costs could involve $200,000 more if highway funds, according to Richard Sorenson, District Location Engineer, Shoshone.

The U. S. Bureau of Land Management is working on cover easements on private land to provide shrubs and trees that would supply safe travel lanes for the deer once they cross the highway.

A temporary snowmobile closure is being considered in the vicinity of the Juniper rest stop area by the U. S. Bureau of Land Management. According to Nick Czekaus, District Manager at Burley, local snowmobile groups have been contacted and are in favor of the proposal. They also plan to publicize the closure in Utah papers since much of the use originates from people in that state.

The Idaho Department of Fish and Game will continue to feed deer stranded in the Snowville, Utah area. This has amounted to a herd of about 700 animals. Hopefully, the deer migration into this poor winter range will be intercepted by the newly constructed drift fences and cross over to Black Pine Mountain. Last winter there were 114 deer trapped on the feeding area near Snowville, Utah and moved to Black Pine Mountain. It was hoped the old does would lead the animals back from Black Pine to Sublett in the spring and help to re-establish these routes. However, monitoring of radio-collared animals in this group have shown they remained on the Black Pine side.

Big 8 coaches won't pick Nebraska-Sooners winner

By CHARLES SMITH
UPI Sports Writer

Big Eight coaches have been hesitant to pick a winner of Saturday's Nebraska-Oklahoma clash. Most have listed all the reasons why either could win, but refused to predict one or the other.

Kansas State's Ellis Hainsberger, whose team played both respectably—losing 25-7 to Oklahoma and 12-0 to Nebraska like the Cornhuskers, however.

"First of all, I think emotions will have a lot to do with the outcome," says Hainsberger. "Nebraska has a little more momentum, but the game is at Oklahoma and they (the Sooners) do have great personnel. But, when you get down to it, I just think Nebraska is a little stronger at this stage of the season."

Still, Oklahoma is listed as a four point favorite by the oddsmakers. The 9-1 Sooners, upset victims by Kansas, and the 10-0 Cornhuskers will be playing for an Orange Bowl berth opposite the Ohio State-Michigan loser. Nebraska already has clinched a share of the Big Eight championship, but Oklahoma can gain a tie with a victory Saturday.

Missouri's Al Onofrio sounds like he may be leaning toward the Sooners.

"If Oklahoma plays error-less football like they did against us, they will be hard to beat," says Onofrio. "Of course, the same can be said for Nebraska. But I think OU's balanced offense—ability to run equally well to either side—is what might hurt Nebraska. How well Nebraska is able to play in a balanced defense will be a big factor."

While those two are playing in the Big Eight's top regular-season finale before a sellout crowd of 70,000 plus, Missouri and Kansas, both 6-4, also will be playing for a Sun Bowl berth in Lawrence, Kan. In addition, the Astrodome Bowl-bound Colorado 8-2 will host Kansas State (3-7) and Oklahoma State (6-4) will visit Iowa State (4-6).

The Missouri-Kansas game is rated even, while Colorado and Oklahoma State are 24 and 20 point favorites, respectively.

Sixth ranked Oklahoma came within a 71-yard touchdown run and two-point conversion by Joe Washington from being eliminated by Missouri last week. But Washington's sensational turn-around play with 4:29 remaining enabled the Sooners to gain a 28-27 victory.

Meanwhile, second-ranked Nebraska was cruising, 32-0, over Iowa State.

Oklahoma will be without split end Billy Brooks and linchpin Daryl Hunt. Brooks has a pulled hamstring and Hunt has a dislocated elbow and neither will suit up. Nebraska is expected to be at full strength, although moustarderman Wonder Mounds sat out the ramp over Iowa State last week.

Oklahoma will play a bowl berth, win or lose. The Sooners

ORU beats Panama

TULSA (UPI) — Oral Roberts University 6-5 junior forward Anthony Roberts led the Titans with 20 points Wednesday night in an 115-68 victory over the Panama National Olympic team.

Five other Titan players scored in double figures in ORU's season opener. Center Harold Johnson had 18 points, center Carleton Hurdle had 17, forward Alvin Scott had 15 and Eddie Colbart had 11 and guard Lionel Warrell had 10.

Leading scorer for the Panama Nationals was Robinson Tucker with 19.

Soviets win in overtime

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI) — Mikhail Korikva scored 17 points Wednesday night to lead the Soviet Union to a double overtime 99-92 victory over Wake Forest.

The Russians jumped out to an early 12-3 margin and held the lead until the Deacons rallied to a 70-66 edge on a basket by Charlie Floyd with 5:59 remaining in the game.

Free throws by Alexander Harchenkov put the Russians back out in front 78-76 with a little over a minute left, but Mark Dale hit from the corner to tie it up 80-80 as regular time ended.

In the first overtime, the Russians led by as much as three points before a free throw by Darryl Peterson and two quick baskets by Dale put the Deacons ahead 88-86. Aramaskov tied it up 88-88 on a "baseline-jumper" as the buzzer sounded.

The Russians dominated the board and the scoring in the second overtime, with the Deacons only managing a field goal and a free throw.

Skip Brown led the Deacons with 25 points.

Akins hopes to be ready

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas quarterback Marty Akins spent 30 minutes in rigorous rehabilitation exercises on his injured right knee Wednesday, then said he thinks he will be ready to play in the Longhorns Nov. 28 Southwest Conference showdown against No. 3 Texas A&M.

"I'm optimistic. I think I'm going to be able to play," Akins said. "I'll probably try to run on it next Wednesday, two days before the game. But the doctors aren't going to tell me or the coach J. D. [L.] to be able to play until the day of the game."

Charles Cravens, supervisor of weight training and rehabilitation, strapped a 10-pound weight to Akins' foot and told the ailing quarterback to lift it 30 times.

BSU's offense to challenge ISU's defense

BOISE — It will be a "winner take all" situation Saturday night in Pocatello, Idaho when the Boise State Broncos and the Idaho State Bengals meet on the football field for the eighth time since 1968.

hopefully we will be a much stronger team here on in," Knap said. "You have to admire the talents of that Aggie offensive unit which features big, solid line blocking, strong fullback play, a brilliant tailback and a very dangerous quick-striking passing attack."

played a more solid game than we're used to seeing. Although we had our chances, but we didn't seem to capitalize enough," he said.

Utah State and still got 19 points. They keep tremendous pressure on the defense with the level of sophistication of their passing game, which is as fine as anybody's in the county," Griffin said.

defense in the league Saturday night. ISU is averaging 290.9 yards a game passing and has scored 25 touchdowns via the pass. Idaho State is giving up a slim 90.2 yards a game against the pass and has allowed just one TD pass this season.

offense. BSU is now averaging 354.2 yards a game and ISU is allowing its opponents 238.9 yards a game.

150 passing attempts for 914 yards and three scores. The top receiver of the Idaho State squad is halfback Kevin Crocker who has caught 18 passes for 285 yards and three scores.

BSU's John Smith continues to lead the team in rushing with 474 yards in 80 carries. Smith is also the squad's top receiver with 41 catches for 784 yards and top scorer with 96 points for the year.

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. in the Lindome.

The winner of the game will be the 1975 Big Sky champion and the host of the Western Region Division II playoff game on November 29. Saturday's game, which has been a sellout for over a month, will be televised live throughout Southern Idaho.

Both teams head into the title game with losses, but the Bengals have had a week more to think more about it. Boise State was defeated by Utah State 42-19 in Boise last Saturday while Idaho State was defeated by Cal Poly (SLU) in San Luis Obispo 65-14, on November 8. Boise State is now 8-1-1 on the year and 4-0-1 in the Big Sky while Idaho State is 7-2 for the season and 4-1 in the league.

Boise State holds a 6-1 series lead over Idaho State. BSU defeated Idaho State 61-3 last year in Boise. The lone Idaho State win over the Broncos was in 1971 by a 21-17 score in Pocatello.

"This coming Saturday we run into a team which I consider very, very good," commented BSU head coach Tony Knap. "Idaho State is a very solid team on offense and really well disciplined on defense. They play tough football and will be very hard to beat," Knap added.

"We learned an awful lot in our game with Utah State and

Armstrong retracts charges

DENVER (UPI) — Denver Bronco running back Otis Armstrong Wednesday issued a statement retracting actions he took in a suit against Pro Sports Advisors, his former agent.

Armstrong, Virginia-Squire center Mike Green and Denver Nugget guard Ralph Simpson have withdrawn a $2.5 million suit filed against the firm and former Cleveland Brown John Wooten, president of the firm. But Wooten refused to withdraw a countersuit against the three unless they rescinded the accusations made in the suit.

The suit, filed last June, charged the athletes' money was invested by Pro Sports Advisors and the "entire investment" scheme is a conspiracy to defraud investors and a violation of federal securities law.

Armstrong, who led the NFL in rushing last year but has missed most of this season with a leg injury, said his participation in the suit was "a result of being misinformed."

Armstrong said the firm had never cheated him in any way and made no decisions without his knowledge or approval.

"We refused to withdraw the countersuit," said Wooten. "We wanted them (Simpson, Green and Armstrong) to come forward and say we had not done the things they had alleged. The simple dismissal of a suit does not say you are not a crook."

Wooten said the suit was instigated by a Denver group which wanted to sue him under contract. At the time of the legal action, Green was a member of the Nuggets.

Pistons rally past Blazers

DETROIT (UPI) — Guard Eric Money came off the bench in the final period Wednesday night to hit 15 points and pace the Detroit Pistons to a 120-114 NBA victory over the Portland Trail Blazers.

Senate approves compromise budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate gave final passage Wednesday to a compromise $7.9 billion appropriation bill for military construction which delays further development of a controversial naval base in the Indian Ocean.

In delaying additional development of the Diego Garcia Naval Base until April 15, Congress told the White House to enter arms restraint talks with the Soviet Union in hopes of keeping the Indian Ocean an "ocean of peace."

The bill, passed in the House Tuesday, is $24 million below the budget request submitted by President Ford. There have been indications from the White House, however, that it would accept the compromise bill.

The measure provides military construction monies for a 15-month period ending Sept. 30, 1976, the last day of the 1976 fiscal year.

"There are no monies in this bill for plush accommodations," said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield after the measure passed the Senate by voice vote.

There have been a number of fears voiced that the Navy's request of $13.8 million for Diego Garcia would lead to an escalation of a Russian military build-up in the Indian Ocean. Several lawmakers claimed the base was obsolete and that the money would be wasted.

Mansfield, noting Congress wanted to keep the area "an ocean of peace," said the administration was instructed to use the period of delay for arms talks with the Soviet Union. Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa, said the final compromise "report puts the Congress on record in support of diplomacy."

Caucus tables bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Democratic Party Caucus Wednesday voted to kill a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment banning the racial busing of students.

The caucus voted 172 to 96 to table a resolution that would have ordered the House Judiciary Committee to send such an amendment to the floor within 30 days.

Rep. Dale Milford, D-Tex., co-author of the anti-busing measure along with Rep. Olin Teague, D-Tex., said a revised resolution would be drafted. He said another caucus vote would be sought sometime after the House returns from its Thanksgiving recess on Dec. 2.

Milford said that more than 25 bills proposing a constitutional ban on busing have been introduced this year but are languishing in the Judiciary Committee.

HAMMETT — Joseph A. King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. King of Hammett has completed his active duty for the United States Marine Corp Reserves.

what's what

L. M. Boyd

Takes a normal healthy woman in her 40s just about eight weeks to exercise herself back into good physical shape. That's the claim of a body building specialist. It's not surprising. What's surprising is this same authority contends it takes about two years for a teenage girl to exercise herself into topnotch physical condition. The comparison is noteworthy, if valid.

A DOCTOR of some renown reports as many as 360 citizens per week die because of unnecessary surgery. He's the fellow who says more than 57,000 needless operations are performed each week. Too many of them are hysterectomies, says he.

HITCHHIKERS

Q. "Louie, you once said that as a boy you hitchhiked all over the country. Would you pick up a hitchhiker now?"

A. If said hitchhiker were an elementary student fleeing from an enraged bull, possibly. It's not indifference that prompts this defensive attitude, please note. Statically, hitchhikers on the whole are known to be pretty dangerous. I'm too nervous.

IF THE OLD ITALIANS hadn't been under the impression that the ailment known as the flu was caused by the "influence" of heavenly bodies, we wouldn't now be calling it by the Latin word for influence, namely influenza.

THE HARD FACTS

Remember, the bottle is worth more than the beer in it, and likewise the can... WAS E. E. KENYON who pointed out that you only begin to believe in heredity when your younger dog gets straight A's... GIVEN A CHANCE, a 40-pound dog will eat three times as much grub as a 160-pound man.

ONE OUTFIT that looks into the future of the automobile industry hereabouts predicts the biggest cars sold in this country five years from now will be about the size of the Pinto or the Vega.

IF THEY HAD IT all to do over again, one husband and wife out of every 10 sets of parents now tell pollsters they would not have children. Remarkable, what? A similar survey at Princeton 10 years ago disclosed that only one out of every 100 such couples would have preferred not to have any youngsters.

Donations approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Corporations can set up political committees to funnel employee and stockholder contributions to candidates, the Federal Election Commission has ruled.

Tuesday's decision, in the form of an advisory opinion requested by Sun Oil, allows corporations, like labor unions, to set up committees to make donations to political candidates. The contributions must be voluntary and come from individuals and not the company itself.

Direct donations from companies and unions are forbidden.

A number of illegal corporate contributions to federal candidates were uncovered during the Watergate scandal, and with passage of a new campaign finance law in 1974, Sun Oil and a number of other firms and trade groups were unsure what kind of political activity was allowed.

The FEC opinion said Sun could use its own funds to establish separate political action committees for its employees and stockholders and those committees could contribute to federal campaigns. But the FEC said the money had to be kept in separate bank accounts and had to be solicited without any threats or promises to the potential donors.

The commission split 4-2 on the question of letting companies solicit employees as well as stockholders for funds and on the question of setting up another "trustee" type of organization to establish bank accounts for Sun employees to funnel their own money to campaigns.

Democratic commissioners Thomas Harris and Robert Tiernan opposed the majority, which included Chairman Thomas Curtis and Commissioners Joan Alkens, Vernon Thomson, Neil Staebler. All but Staebler are Republican appointees.

The FEC also tentatively approved an advisory opinion limiting campaign spending by and contributions to persons seeking election as delegates to the national political conventions.

Udall says liberals may merge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., said today he and other liberal Democrats' presidential contenders might merge forces if one of them wins the nation's first two primaries in New Hampshire and Massachusetts next year.

"Those first two primaries could very well be very influential," Udall said at a breakfast meeting with reporters.

Asked if he meant that the liberals might unite behind the front-runner in those primaries, he said "you could have a coalescing among the liberals very quickly if you have a one-two punch by one of us."

Udall said his own strategy is pegged on "a strong showing" in four early primaries — New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York and Wisconsin.

He said that by April 6, the date of the New York and Wisconsin primaries, "I'll be in very good shape as the liberal front-runner or in some trouble."

Udall said he has seen two surprises so far in the 1976 presidential contest.

The first, he said, was the "failure" of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., to "build a base in the northeast despite spending a great deal of money."

"Second is the emergence of (former Georgia Gov.) Jimmy Carter as a major contender," he said.

Looking at the Republican side of the race, Udall said former Gov. Ronald Reagan's challenge to Ford is "very serious."

"You may well see the historic event of an incumbent President being rejected by his own party," Udall said.

Bottles recalled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hundreds of thousands of bottles of liquor, wine and beer have been recalled during the past three years for problems including underfilling, mislabeling and radioactive contamination, the Treasury Department told Congress today.

None of the recalls was ever made public at the time.

While most of them involved distilled spirits, there is every reason to believe the beer and wine industries have the same problems.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration said today it will order the alcoholic beverage industry to start listing ingredients on beer, wine and liquor labels, although the Treasury Department thinks such a plan is impractical.

"We will, in the very near future, publish a notice to the industry that alcoholic beverages must be brought into compliance with the labeling requirement of the act," Sam D. Fine, associate FDA commissioner, told a congressional hearing.

"We are telling the industry that these are foods," he said. "We have assumed our responsibility."

The Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms had been considering a labeling proposal since 1972 but recently decided not to implement it. As a result, Fine said the FDA is revoking an agreement under which the Treasury agency previously was given authority in the field.

Fine said no hearings or other legal actions will be necessary.

Proponents of the labeling idea still may have a battle on their hands, however, because there is a move in Congress to pass legislation that would take authority over liquor labeling away from FDA.

Rex Davis, director of the ATF Bureau, also announced today that beginning Jan. 1 his agency will make public disclosures of recalls of alcoholic beverages "in those instances involving a health hazard, flagrant consumer deception, unusually large quantities of deficient alcoholic products or other similar situation."

The bureau submitted to a House subcommittee a report showing there have been hundreds of thousands of bottles of liquor, wine and beer recalled during the past three years for problems ranging from underfilling and mislabeling and — in a few cases — asbestos contamination.
