Whites walk out at Boston school

BOSTON (UPI) — White students walked out of South Boston High School today shortly after classes began at the troubled facility. A leaflet from the White Student Caucus said the action was to test a new protest method by which white students could walk out on a given signal. A spokesman at the South Boston Information Center said such walkouts would be staged when black students began provocations.

Lebanese security units in hotel area

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Lebanese security forces moved into Beirut's war-torn waterfront hotel area today and took over control of the unfinished Hilton Hotel in a new bid to end fighting between Moslem and Christian gunmen. In the wake of the latest government-arranged ceasefire, fighting between rival militias dropped away to isolated sniper duels after a week of killing in Beirut and other cities left nearly 600 dead and 900 wounded.

Sentenced

DUESSELDORF, West Germany (UPI) — Confessed Communist spy Guenther Guillaume, charged with high treason, was sentenced today to serve 13 years in prison for stealing state secrets.

The scandal which brought Guillaume's spying to light toppled the government of former Chancellor Willy Brandt. The state court which spent six months hearing the case against Guillaume and his wife sentenced her to eight years for simple treason.

Scoop enters Massachusetts primary

BOSTON (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) officially entered the Massachusetts presidential primary today, promising to put the economy back to work. Jackson told a news conference that inflation and unemployment are the two major issues of his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination. He also said "busing has failed" as a means to achieve racial integration in public schools.

Ford advised to veto picketing bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has been encouraged by most of his advisers to veto a politically volatile bill that would expand the picketing power of union construction workers. White House officials said Monday. One of his officials said he believes that Ford has received no advice he has been receiving and will veto the bill known as "common situs picketing."

African leaders asks Angola cease-fire

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Presidents Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya and Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia called today for an immediate cease-fire in the Angolan civil war and the formation of a government of national unity. The two African leaders expressed their great concern at foreign involvement in Angola resulting in heavy loss of human life. In a communique issued after three days of talks here.

Cites danger

NEW YORK (UPI) — Israeli Defense Minister Shimon Peres said Sunday establishment of a Palestinian state on the borders of Jordan and Israel would pave the way for a flow of Soviet arms into the area. Creation of such a state to solve the Palestinian problem would pose "real problems" and new dangers for both Jordan and Israel. Peres said on the CBS-TV program, "Face the Nation."

Cassia mishap claims TF couple

BURLEY — The deaths of two Twin Falls residents Friday afternoon, Burley, apparently was not the result of bad driving conditions. Burton Farnsworth Webb, 61, and his wife Irene, 55, Twin Falls, died in a head-on crash with a car driven by Arthur Thornton, 23, Burley. The 12:28 p.m. crash occurred in bright sunlight and the roads were not icy, according to police.

No recommendation on dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Rules Committee, on a party line vote of 5 to 3, voted Monday to send the Oklahoma election dispute to the full Senate without a recommendation of how to decide the bitterly contested race won by Republican Sen. Henry Bellmon.

Suspect rights case due review

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today accepted for review still another case involving the controversial "Miranda" rules protecting the rights of suspects being questioned by police.

The justices agreed to examine a Des Moines, Iowa, sex-murder case which could mean a basic change in the Miranda guidelines. A decision also could be based on far narrower grounds.

The Court also agreed to hear arguments later this term on whether zoning ordinances must give way to efforts to break down housing segregation.

A lower court found no proof of discrimination in an Arlington Heights, Ill., comprehensive zoning plan, but said the protection of neighboring property values was not sufficient reason for rejecting a low and middle income housing project.

The justices also blocked, pending appeal, a landmark ruling by a Philadelphia panel which granted major rights to children before they can be committed to a mental institution.

In the Iowa case, a suspect was convicted after police persuaded him to lead them to the body of a 10-year-old girl who had been raped and murdered. A lower court ordered a new trial on Miranda grounds.

In the 1966 Miranda decision, the Court ruled that a suspect being questioned in a police station has a right to a lawyer and to be told he can remain silent and anything he says may be used against him. Since the departure of Chief Justice Earl Warren and the arrival of President Richard M. Nixon's appointees, the Court has chipped away at the rules but has not overturned them.

Only last week the Court held that questioning once stopped may be picked up again on another subject. Justices William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall have taken a dim view of the trend, and indicated the rules may be on the way out.

The Court today also: — Agreed in a Kentucky case to rule on whether prisoners have minimal procedural rights when they seek parole.

— Agreed to decide whether federal civil rights law allows state government employees to collect back pay from the states if they prove past employment discrimination.

— Accepted a Utah case challenging seizure of documents without a warrant by the Internal Revenue Service after a taxpayer had been found in default.

'Home town' cites Henry

U.S. SECRETARY of State Henry Kissinger shakes hands with Kurt Schuster, mayor of Furth, West Germany, as he accepts the Golden Clitten's Medal during a ceremony today. His parents also attended. Kissinger's family fled their native city in Nazi Germany in 1938. (UPI)

Bush pledges high standards for CIA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George Bush promised Congress today that if he is confirmed as CIA director he will establish high ethical standards for the agency and restrict it to gathering foreign intelligence.

Bush also told the Senate Arms Services Committee his extensive political background may help him in his new job. Bush is a former congressman and Republican party chairman.

"Some of the difficulties the CIA has encountered might have been avoided if more political judgment had been brought to bear," he said. "I am not talking about narrow political partisanship, I am talking about the respect for the people and their sensitivities that most politicians understand."

"I do not feel political experience is a detriment. I view it as an asset, but I also recognize the need to leave politics the minute I take on the new job, if confirmed."

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., the committee chairman, made passing reference to the widely reported instances of CIA abuses in his opening statement.

He said "a number of bad things that happened from time to time in various other administrations. I know for a fact that the CIA had been quite valuable in its role," Stennis said.

Bush said that if he is confirmed he will "do all in my power to keep informed personally, to demand the highest ethical standard from those with whom I work and particularly to see that this agency stays in foreign — repeat foreign — intelligence business."

Bush promised to work for improved morale at the CIA and to prevent what he called "wanton disclosure" of sensitive information.

Bush anticipated questions about whether he would run for vice president if President Ford asked him to do so.

Bush said he would not allow anyone to advocate his nomination as vice president, but he said if he were asked, "I cannot in all honesty tell you that I would not accept."

"To my knowledge, no one in the history of this republic has ever been asked to renounce his political birthright as the price of confirmation for any office."

Angola arms info sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Warning against "another Vietnam," Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said today Congress should demand an explanation of secret U.S. arms aid to Angola from the secretary of State and CIA director.

He called for Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings on the issue, and said Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and William Colby, the CIA chief, should be called to testify. "We do not want another Vietnam," Mansfield told reporters. "and the Congress has every right to know what we're doing there."

"We'd better get an explanation about why $25 million has been spent by the United States in military aid to Angola and why we're going to spend another $25 million," he said.

Some other members of Congress also were clearly angered by weekend news reports that the "United States" was "aiding" two Angola guerrilla groups.

United strike cuts SV reservations

By BART QUENSELL

Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — The nation-wide United Airlines strike has hurt Sun Valley winter resort reservations.

Sun Valley hotel sales manager Bruce Buttermore says more than 10 per cent of the winter traffic at the resort could be lost because of the United strike.

Nationally, the major ski resorts stand to lose $500 on every reservation canceled because of the United strike, according to spokesmen for a number of major resorts.

Pilkerton, executive vice president for Utah's Snowbird operations says 25 per cent of that resort's reservations could be affected by the United strike.

A spokesman for Empire Travel Services in Salt Lake City, which book reservations for all major resorts, said most people are waiting until the very last moment to cancel their reservations for Christmas holidays.

A 10 per cent loss of reservations at Sun Valley would mean about 500 fewer people at the resort during the Christmas holidays, according to Buttermore.

Buttermore said Sun Valley has 4,000 to 5,000 people booked for the Christmas holidays but is expecting a 12 to 12 per cent of those reservations to cancel for lack of air space or expected convenience on United.

United charter flights to Sun Valley scheduled to begin in mid-January are also tentative pending a strike settlement. Several charter Sun Valley after Christmas traffic came from charters, mostly on United.

Four operators are on contract with United, 30 days prior to the start of the scheduled charter flight. That means contract cannot be broken with United until Dec. 17.

Buttermore said operators are contacting other airlines but cannot reserve air space until the contracts run out.

TWA and American are reluctant to release regular flight space to charter, Buttermore said. "Because charters are certainly not a moneymaker."

There are no east-west flights into Boise because of the United strike which further hurts Sun Valley, Buttermore said.

Just under 50 per cent of all Sun Valley bookings for Christmas are on east-west flights, Buttermore said.

The only north-south airline for skiers and vacationers in the west coast is Hughes Airwest. Hughes has no more space for weekend flight however, Buttermore said.

Holdup probed

BURLEY — A lone gunman held up a Burley tavern Saturday and escaped with $100.

Peggy Griffin, owner of The Doghouse, said a man came into the bar, bought a can of beer and as he left pulled a snubnosed revolver from his coat and demanded she empty the cash register.

Witnesses said the robber was about 5 feet, 6 inches tall, had dark brown hair and was wearing denim trousers and cowboy boots. He escaped on foot.

Burley police are investigating.

Alcohol problems confront teens at junior high age

By CRICKET BIRD

Times-News writer

"We've got the best kids we've ever had." — Carl Snow, principal, Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School.

"There is a terrific teenage drinking problem." — Magistrate Judge Daniel Meehl.

"I'll get drunk about every weekend." — 13-year-old boy, Twin Falls.

TWIN FALLS — Anne is bubbly and confident at 14. Anne is not her real name. No real names will be used in this story.

A junior high school student, Anne is an active participant in school. She belongs to Pep Club, Drill Team and takes part in many other activities.

She says she doesn't drink and isn't aware of drugs being around her school. She likes boys but has decided, with the help of her church, not to date until she reaches 16.

First of a series
Gienna, also in junior-high, is quiet with a pretty face. She likes to drink and often does so with her friends on weekends or special school nights. She smokes marijuana when its around and has tried harder drugs, speed and LSD. She says she had her first sexual experience when she was in eighth grade.

Both Gienna and Anne go to schools in Twin Falls. At first glance they are as different as day and night but like other kids growing up in Twin Falls, they both face some difficult problems as early as junior high and upper elementary grades.

Most students, counselors and school officials who discussed today's junior-high life agree that involvement with alcohol and other drugs as well as sexual encounters was not limited to the high school and college set.

Alcohol has the longest history for teenage involvement, it seems.

For a number of years, drinking among high school students hasn't been unusual.

Gene Riethe, youth officer for the Twin Falls police department, says "I would imagine just about every kid out there (at the high school) has been involved in drinking at one time or another."

Tim Prince, supervisor of Youth Services for Health and Welfare in Twin Falls, comments, "Alcohol is an expected way of life around here."

And high school counselor Chris Charlton says, "keggers" or beer parties are "very popular with both boys and girls."

"It's standard knowledge that every athletic event ends with a kegger," and the senior party ends that way, too, — Mrs. Charlton says.

Although counselors and school officials agree that some students handle drinking fairly well, alcohol does cause major problems.

Much national interest has focused recently on alcohol use by youths, which specialists say has reached a crisis stage.

The National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism (NIAAA) offers these alarming figures: 1.3 million youths between 12 and 17 have serious drinking problems, with arrests for teen-age drunken driving tripling in the past 15 years. And more than half of those killed on the road in alcohol-related accidents are still in their teens.

Prince says, "We have a number of kids who have severe alcohol problems at 15 and 16 years old."

Judge Daniel Meehl, who deals with many juveniles in his courtroom, says, "There are several teenage kids that I have in court that are alcoholics before they even reach legal drinking age."

A major concern is the reported expanding use of alcohol by younger and younger kids.

Mrs. Charlton says, "From what we hear, junior high students are really quite involved" in drinking.

Asked about drinking, Twin Falls junior high students had a wide range of responses.

One 14-year-old says, "As far as I know it's all talk." Centers on weekend parties, which he doesn't attend. He prefers to become involved in his school projects.

"A ninth grade student says he drinks, but only on special occasions, and then just beer. "Nobody drinks hard stuff," he explains. "You 'throw up too easy.'"

In his opinion, kids "drink to laugh... to have fun."

Several other junior high boys agree that drinking was reserved for parties, mostly on weekends.

But then the drinking is an earnest. A 15-year-old says "You drink to get drunk. Nobody can stand the taste of it." Another boy echoed his sentiments, commenting simply, "Beer is horrible," though he had tried drinking several times.

Several of the junior high girls say neither they nor their friends drank.

"I think it's mostly the boys," says one ninth grade girl, an active participant in school activities.

But another girl, now out of junior high, says "We drink a lot. We get about four cases of beer and tequila. There's nothing to do in town. We might as well get drunk."

US aid quits

PARIS (UPI) — A high ranking American official at the U.N. Education, Scientific and Cultural Organization has resigned to protest the United Nations resolution defining Zionism as a form of racism, sources close to UNESCO said Monday.
Information Director Jack Blocker, 43, resigned effective Dec. 31 on grounds he disagreed with anti-Israeli measures adopted by the United Nations and its agencies. His letter of resignation said:

Blocker was believed to be the first high-level official of the U.N. body to quit in protest against Arab-sponsored resolutions which have increasingly isolated Israel diplomatically for the past year in the world organization and its agencies.

Blocker confirmed he was resigning but he said only, "I will have nothing to say until Jan. 1, 1976."

Tightened security proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House subcommittee will probably recommend that the Alaska Pipeline Service Co. provide more armed security personnel for the protection of workers on the Alaska oil pipeline.
Several members of the House public lands subcommittee recommended the increase during "oversight" hearings last week on work stoppages on the pipeline. The recommendation is expected to be made in the panel's report on the hearings.

The calls for greater security were triggered by the testimony of Jesse L. Carr, secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters Local 529, who told the committee that a "Tonsina safety meeting" at the Tonsina camp had resulted from a dispute between pipeline workers and members of Teamsters Local 798.
Work stoppages are banned under the Teamsters' labor contract and a federal court has issued an injunction forbidding further stoppages as a result of the Tonsina incident.

briefs

Cecil Childs and Amos Caudill will be the installing officers.

Airline strikes create sellout

By United Press International — If, indeed, half the fare is going there, many Christmas week travelers might do well to prepare themselves for a not too pleasant experience.
Strikes against two major airlines, United Air Lines and the nation's largest domestic air carrier — and National Airlines, have resulted in a nearly complete Christmas week sellout of all airline seats between major cities in the continental United States.
There was no indication that either strike would end before the heavy holiday season. National Airlines officials late Sunday rejected the latest proposals by striking flight attendants and "voted" to continue a court fight to end the 15-week work stoppage.
Talks in the United Airlines strike broke off last week with no date set for their renewal. United has canceled its flights through midnight, Christmas Eve.

The two strikes have grounded 23 per cent of domestic scheduled passenger flights and the Civil Aeronautics Board was expected to rule today on an offer by Pan American World Airways, an overseas carrier, to carry holiday travelers on two United routes between New York and San Francisco, and between San Francisco and Seattle.

A UPI weekend survey of major airlines, travel agencies and offices of the American Automobile Association revealed:
— Telephone delays of up to one hour in getting through to airline reservation clerks.
— Only a few seats still available for this week, nearly all seats left for Christmas week and a gloomy outlook for New Year's week.
— Jammed Amtrak trains and Greyhound buses.
— Absurd routings for connections still available.
— Canceled airplanes and terminals for persons lucky enough to have obtained confirmed reservations.
— Nearly all flights to the West Coast from the eastern United States have been sold out for several weeks, with Hawaii reporting full bookings for both Christmas and New Year's weeks, travel agents reported.
— A spokesman for Amtrak, the nation's national passenger rail system, said most of its New York-Florida trains have been sold out. Space on most other trains is scarce and travelers are advised to "call quick" for reservations, chiefly on three routes: Seattle-San Francisco, Chicago-Denver, and Cleveland-Toledo-Chicago.

"The airlines have extended themselves, but all extra sections they had put on were full before the United strike," said Gerry Wetherill, an American Automobile Association travel agent. "A few seats — a very few — are still available around the nation for Dec. 14-18, but after that — the 'booking' — becomes 'sold'."

Miss Wetherill said she helped one man last week obtain one of the last routings available from Cleveland to Tampa, Fla.
"But, buy what a routing," she said.

Tired, Run-Down Condition

The pace of today's world, with its constant pressures and demands, is producing a generation of "tired" people.

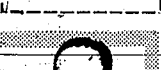

Whether you are able to measure the pulse of your body, or not, the condition of your body is the key to your health.

What you eat, how you live, and the stress you put on your body, all make a difference in the health of your body.

The chiropractor, using scientific instruments, locates the areas of nerve pressure. With specific, skilled hands, he makes physical adjustments which relieve the pain, restore function, and allow you to live the life you desire.

With the nervous system properly functioning, the body can handle the stresses and strains of life.

Pioneer to hike Ada taxes

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Power's proposed Pioneer power plant would mean an extra $12.5 million in property tax income to 25 units of government in Ada County, said Max Yost, executive manager of Associated Taxpayers of Idaho.

It seems "difficult for anyone to comprehend that the annual property taxes on the plant will be an estimated $12.5 million in 1981, based on 1974 data," Yost told a meeting of the Idaho Food Producers today.

"All of the tax will be allocated to the various local units of government in Ada County. Some people have the impression that whatever taxes there would be would inure to the community around Orchard," he added.

Yost explained property taxes paid in a county on electric utility operating property are allocated to the units of government in the county on the basis of miles of transmission lines within the boundaries of each unit.

"For example, from the Pioneer plant the Boise school district would receive $5.3 million more in tax revenue. The Meridian district would receive an additional $1.3 million. The Star cemetery district, clear across the county, could receive $3,636. The 5th school district would receive $650,000, nearly twice their total tax charges in 1974," Yost said.

"All of the local units of government in Ada County except the city of King, the Fairview Cemetery District and the Aldage Heights Sewer District would receive the benefit of increased property taxes from the proposed plant," Yost said. "25 units would benefit by increased assessed valuation for bonding capacity and taxes."

"After construction is complete, there would be very little demand for extra government services as a result of the plant and its operation and no additional demand for services in most of the units of government which will receive additional taxes," he added.

"If the Pioneer plant were located in a county other than Ada, that county and its local units of government would receive all of the property taxes. If the plant were located in another state, Idaho and its local governments would receive no property taxes from the plant," Yost pointed out.

Cancer specialist commends TF hospital

By BONNIE BAIRD-JONES
TWIN FALLS — A leading cancer specialist has commended Magic Valley Memorial Hospital for "notable success" in the early detection and effective treatment of common malignancies in women during recent years.

Dr. Charles R. Smart, chief of surgery at LDS Hospital, Salt Lake City, and director of the Rocky Mountain States Cooperative Tumor Registry met with MVMH medical staff members last week to review data from the hospital's tumor registry to compare and evaluate progress in the management of cancer.

"One of the most unusual findings," Dr. Smart said, is that cancer of the cervix is the most frequently seen of all types of cancer at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. Ordinarily in other parts of the country, cervical cancer accounts for fewer cases than lung and breast cancers.

This finding is particularly important, Dr. Smart said, when coupled with the fact this type of cancer is being diagnosed earlier here than in most other areas of the country — 90 per cent being detected in the earliest stage as compared to 68 per cent in Utah.

The importance of early diagnosis, he said, is obvious when one sees the survival rate of 98 per cent among the 183 treated cervical cancer patients originally diagnosed while the disease was in the early stages at MVMH.

Dr. Smart attributed this unusual record of achievement to "the diligence of patients and doctors" in having pap tests performed for cervix cancer detection.

This year in 1975 the laboratory at MVMH has processed more than 16,300 pap tests, some 2,000 more than in the year of 1974.

"The record in regard to cervical cancer at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital is the best of any community I know, even compared with Olmstead County, Minn., where the Mayo clinic is located," Dr. Smart said. "The pap test is really paying off in Magic Valley."

Detection of breast cancer by stage here is comparable to what is found in Utah, he said. Of 184 cases reviewed 47 per cent were diagnosed in a localized stage, where the cancer is confined to a lump in the breast.

This compares to a finding of 48 per cent in Utah. At MVMH, 91 per cent of breast cancer patients with localized disease realize a five year cure, he said, comparing most favorably with the 84 per cent cure in Utah.

"Although the hospital is comparable to some other areas in detection of early cancer of the breast, it is not comparable to the best," he said, adding more effort by women and physicians alike could raise the number of cases detected in early stages.

Dr. Smart recommended women learn and regularly practice self breast examination and have an annual examination by their physician. If this were done, he said, 70 per cent of breast cancer could be diagnosed and treated while in the early localized stage, he said.

"Utilization of mammography which is available at the hospital could raise the early diagnosis figure even higher, he said, particularly when used on women over age 40.

Data reviewed in Twin Falls by the Utah doctor included 1,511 cases of cancer reported since 1965 when the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital tumor registry was established.

Dr. Smart is one of several cancer specialists who attend the monthly tumor board conference and consult with medical staff members here. These discussions are tailored to meet the needs of each individual patient and the type of tumor involved. Dr. Julian O. Nicholson, Twin Falls otolaryngologist, is this year's board chairman.

Both major amendments must be served

O.N.Y. Times Service
WASHINGTON — When the individual defendant's right to a trial before unprejudiced jurors comes into conflict with the press's right to report the news, which right should prevail? For a couple of centuries, the answer has been neither. When basic rights conflict, accommodations have to be made. But in today's winner-take-all atmosphere, when entire institutions become pugnaz, we are witnessing an attempt by some judges to decide the issue once and for all — with fair trial taking precedence over free press.

In Lincoln, Neb., a defendant in an especially gruesome murder of an entire family is to be tried. The court, rightly concerned about protecting the rights of the accused, has placed a "gag order" on the press to keep the lurid details out of the papers and off the screens during the pretrial proceedings.

Supreme Court Justice Harry Blackmun, acting as overseer of the judicial district where the case is to be tried, sustained the gag order; the matter is now being considered by the entire Supreme Court.

Justice is not done when a defendant is tried in a poisoned atmosphere, before a contaminated jury; neither is justice done when a murderer is set free because an unprejudiced jury cannot be found. Something has to be done, but the Nebraska solution is the wrong answer. The Sixth Amendment (fair trial) cannot triumph over the first (free press); both must be served. The answer is to cut off the prejudicial publicity at the source and not at the outlet. This means that judges must get together with people now constitutionally under their control, and not try to reach out to get together with people not under that job for them. Here's how:

1. Tell the proud police chief or arresting officer to shut up. It's only human for a lawman to brag about nabbing a murderer, but this publicity before trial doesn't do the system any good. So policemen and FBI officials who do their job should cut out the business of holding a suspect up before the cameras, and should instead announce the apprehension, the name of the suspect and little else. The heroic bows can wait until after conviction.

2. Stop prosecution publicity at the source. Whenever we read that somebody is "about to be indicted," chances are that somebody in a prosecutor's office has been blabbing. No public purpose is served by advance tips of indictments. The next time this happens, a judge ought to parade a prosecutor's entire office before the bench, under oath, to find the leaker:

such fear of perjury might discourage blabbermouths. And the next light-seeking district attorney who holds a news conference to add to an indictment should be held in contempt; the prosecution's comments should be limited to the indictment and up.

3. Limit defense publicity to one equal-time blast. The issuance of a public indictment by a prosecutor necessarily defames a defendant. If he wishes, the accused should be able to get in strong and angry public response. And then that's over. The defense attorney, an officer of the court under control of the judge, should then stick to the courtroom and not try to drum up support in the press.

The other day, the prosecutors in the Patty Hearst trial demanded that a gag order be jammed between the teeth of the articulate defense attorneys. That's patently unfair, for 18 months prosecution has indicted, tried, convicted and lynched Miss Hearst before trial; including a characterization of her as a "notorious criminal" by a sheet from the fourth attorney general of the United States.

If there had been a hold down earlier on statements by police and prosecution, a judge could have properly restrained defense counsel now.

4. Let judges admit now and then that a fair trial cannot be conducted in their locality. It seems that every judge takes as a personal challenge the defense suggestion that a fairer trial could be held elsewhere. Too many judges take a "change of venue" as an admission of failure.

That's nonsense: even with national television, in many cases a change of venue could make all the difference in a fair trial. The political show trials of Watergate, where verdicts are likely to be overturned because of prejudicial publicity, could have been held with far more fairness outside the hostile atmosphere of Washington, D.C.

5. Let judges and laymen alike rail at the press for sensationalism, but lay off on attacks on the First Amendment itself.

Public pressure and judicial diatribes have a good effect on journalists: When a judge says "That convicted murderer goes free thanks to the editor of the Squeedunk Gazette," the Gazette's editor is likely to think twice before turning a trial into a carnival next time. Much of the news business recognizes the need for restraint, and will be encouraged to respect Sixth Amendment rights if the sources of juicy tidbits about mass murders dry up before the trial. The Constitution gives the right to a "public trial" to the defendant more than to the public; in the same way, publicity can be a protection to the defendant.

Will the answer to the clash of rights be in accommodation or will one right "win" at the expense of the other? Some hope is seen in the answers of Judge John Stevens at his confirmation hearings: He suggested that the solution might be in controlling the release of information, rather than controlling the press. "Hear ye, hear ye. Let judges do their duty to protect the rights of the accused — and not demand that the press do that job for them."

The United States, The United Nations and Pat Moynihan

The Irish-American wordsmith who is the current U.S. ambassador to the world organization is fighting inflammatory Third World rhetoric with some pointed rhetoric of his own. The question is whether it is doing the U.S., the U.N., or himself much good. A LENS analysis.

An uneasy relationship

By NEAL London Economist News Service
WASHINGTON — The United Nations in its earliest days, was generally viewed by Americans as an extension of their own highest ideals.

Hence the bitterness in some of the immediate reaction to the general assembly's recent vote on Zionism, which was seen by politicians and the press as a perversion of language and procedures.

Secretary of State Kissinger quickly warned Americans against an over-reaction and President Ford, while deploring the action, said the United States would not consider withdrawing from the U.N. Even in Congress, where public expressions of shock and dismay are sometimes as convenient or meaningless as general assembly resolutions, the initial ire subsided within a day.

At the insistence of Rep. Robert Kasstameter, a traditional liberal-Democrat whose district includes the University of Wisconsin, the House omitted from a proposed congressional resolution a clause calling for prompt reassessment of American participation in the general assembly.

The United Nations, however, has been declining in the public's estimation for many years, roughly in line with the long-term switch in "block voting" away from a pro-American majority and towards a numerical majority in the general assembly for Communist and non-aligned nations.

After the admission of China in 1971, involving as it did the expulsion of the Nationalist government of Taiwan, Congress insisted that America's contributions to the UN general budget be no higher than 25 per cent previously, under a formula based on national wealth, these had run as high as 33 per cent last year. Congress barred further funds for UNESCO because of anti-Israel action taken by its members.

Earlier this month the state department, partly at the urging of George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, said American would withdraw from the International Labor Organization in two years if that agency did not reverse its trend toward anti-American political activities.

But what to do next? Here opinions differ sharply, particularly on details. The latest General Assembly vote gave American politicians a rare opportunity to court both right-wing and Jewish support at the same time. Basically, however, neither group is comfortable with the other, and no alliance between them is likely to last; on UN issues, the two have usually been at opposite ends of the spectrum, with the right distrustful of all international organizations, and Jews in favor of them on humanistic grounds.

Older UN supporters at the grass-roots level, such as the United Nations Association, are holding to their traditional positions.

declaring that the current troubles will be overcome, and anyway, the UN still sees a lot of good works. But such people, mainly pre-Kennedy Democrats, represent an increasingly narrow constituency. Their impact is less than the current common-sense view that the UN retains some potential use, particularly for security council actions such as the Middle East peace force.

The American public is now pinning great hopes for getting more realistic responses from the UN on its chief delegate, Daniel Patrick Moynihan. A great wordsmith — he is both an Irish-American and a Harvard professor — Moynihan argues that the third-world challenge is fundamentally ideological, and must be met head-on with an eloquent ideological defense of Western democracy.

The idea is to fight rhetoric with rhetoric; and in the process to deflate the importance of the assembly through scorn and disdain.

Moynihan, however, fell into a debater's trap of his own making earlier this autumn, when he coupled a remark made by the Ugandan leader, President Amin, with Amin's temporary status as head of the Organization of African Unity. The result was to insult other black Africans and turn many away from supporting American attempts to head off a floor vote on the Zionism resolution.

Moynihan's supporters, such as Sen. Clifford Case, for traditionally, interested in the Republican from New Jersey, say the ambassador's basic argument needs to be made. It will eventually take hold. Case says, when third-world countries realize "There ain't no free lunch."

But Sen. Gale McGee, a Wyoming Democrat and delegate to the September special session at which Kissinger's lengthy speech on economic co-operation was well received, wants Moynihan to try legislative-style persuasion along with his professional-style pronouncements.

Pointedly, Kissinger himself said he would not have thrown in the OAU together with criticism of remarks Amin made as president of Uganda and not in his capacity as OAU chairman.

The next difficulty with Moynihan's approach is that it could come to look like more bark than bite. American can continue its piecemeal penalties against various UN activities, but only up to a point. After that, it will be hard-pressed to call itself a world leader while also withdrawing more and more from the world scene.

One genuine indication of American attitudes will come when the normally popular UNICEF Christmas cards go on sale, and people all across the country will be faced with a decision of whether to associate themselves with the UN in a decidedly personal manner.

Impasse between US, Turks worsens

WASHINGTON — The impasse between the United States and Turkey, instead of being resolved with a loosening of the arms embargo, has now worsened to the point where restoration of anything close to the easy relations between the two old allies is utterly ruled out — an ominous development in the strategic Eastern Mediterranean.

Without public acknowledgement, private negotiations, begun after Congress in October repealed the most objectionable part of the Turkish arms embargo, are now mired deep in Washington-Ankara sludge. Some officials here doubt the U.S. can ever again become chief arms supplier for its faithful ally.

That would mean finding other ways to keep Turkey viable as eastern anchor of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). One possible way: make other NATO members responsible for supplying Turkey's army, thereby ending the long special relationship between Washington and Ankara.

Any possible "evolution" of the Turkish army is for the future. For now, this much is tragically certain: Turkey will never fully recover from the blow to its pride and arms — of the congressional embargo, implying permanent loss of this country's lowering influence with the Eastern Mediterranean's key nations.

American diplomats hoped the embargo's repeal would partly restore U.S. prestige and encourage Turkey to permit active use of U.S. anti-Soviet espionage bases. Such hope flattened the moment the new negotiations opened Oct. 28. What came through to U.S. negotiators with thundering clarity was this impossible Turkish demand: a U.S. pledge that the flow of American arms would never be interrupted again, either insultingly by congressional edict or otherwise.

The demand invokes Catch-22. No such pledge could be given under the U.S. constitution, without even if it could, the U.S. would pledge nothing without a prior understanding that the Turkish government would "pull back" some troops from Cyprus and return some territory seized during Turkey's 1974 invasion. Turkey refuses to do either.

The impasse is described by one U.S. official: "We've gotten ourselves caught in a Catch-22 situation. They want something we wouldn't give, even if we could, without getting something in return they won't give first."

So deep is the impasse that Turkey has suggested a radical transformation of its underlying relationship with Washington along lines of the U.S.-Spanish bases agreement. Instead of the U.S. having base rights given by it to an ally, the U.S. would negotiate a long arm treaty with Turkey guaranteeing annual rental payments for American use of the bases as in the case of Spain. Once the treaty had been confirmed by the Senate, U.S. payments to Turkey could not be interrupted by congressional embargo.

But the relationship between allies (Turkey and the U.S.) and non-allies (Spain and the U.S.) is profoundly different. NATO commits the U.S. to come to the defense of Turkey in case of Communist attack. Since with no such commitment from Washington, has every right to charge money for U.S. bases.

Consequently U.S. officials flatly reject such a transformation of the U.S.-Turkish relationship. Besides, Congress would almost certainly never approve a Turkish bases treaty.

At this week's NATO meeting in Brussels, Sec. of State Henry Kissinger tried again to break the Greek-Turkish deadlock over Cyprus — the source of all the trouble. Kissinger has been "extremely active" recently "trying to soften Turkey's understandable, but potentially suicidal hard line. One Kissinger ploy: secretly dispatching Democratic Rep. Wayne Hays of Ohio to Ankara last week for a long huddle with Turkish Prime Minister Suleyman Demirel.

According to Defense Department officials, Demirel told Hays that since the five major American bases now closed down are all intelligence stations — the U.S. should guarantee regular payments to Turkey. Spy bases, said Demirel, are an obvious provocation to Moscow, which would make them immediate targets in case of war.

Some progress could result from Kissinger's efforts in Brussels to keep Greeks and Turks in regular contact on the Cyprus issue and from Cyprus negotiations scheduled next month under United Nations auspices. Certainly Greece wants a settlement. Presumably so does Turkey, which was chastised in the UN General Assembly last month, 117 to 1, on the Cyprus question.

But similar anemic signs of "progress" have been a running part of the tragic Cyprus affair for more than 7 years. They do not modify the harsh truth that Turkey has been transformed from faithful friend to sultry stranger, with dangerous liabilities for the U.S. and NATO and potential assets for the Soviet Union.

Another coffin nail driven

Editor, Times-News:

The do-gooders in Congress have succeeded in driving another nail into the free enterprise coffin and the real victim is the American public which is suffering stragglingly.

The recent passage by the House of Representatives of a so-called Consumer "Protection" bill by a close vote of 207 to 159 is intended to create a new federal "super agency," a bureaucratic King Kong which could easily turn into the greatest public nuisance ever concocted.

The principal function of the legislation is to create an independent, supposedly non-regulatory agency for consumer protection. At first glance, this looks good but it is important to note that virtually every one of our 450 existing federal agencies and departments already have some sort of consumer office or advocate, and are now 1,000 consumer programs working on the behalf of the consumer.

At a time when we are looking at a possible

$80 billion national deficit and proposals to reduce taxes by $28 billion and a like cut in federal spending, it does not make sense to add another layer of federal bureaucracy which would initially be funded to the tune of $60 million for three years and promises of higher expenditures to come.

Evidence suggests that the major reason for our economic troubles is too much regulation. The Consumer Protection Agency's requirement would in effect substitute government regulation for free choice in the market place, and would create staggering costs, needless confusion, and less freedom of individual choice.

National elections coming up next year present an opportunity to rid ourselves of those do-gooders in Washington who are strangling us in an effort to "protect" us.

'Helpful' Moluccan band gives up after 12 days

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (UPI) — A band of Bible-reading terrorists who held 23 hostages aboard a hijacked train were "nice helpful fellows" who tried to make their captives comfortable, one of the released passengers said today.

The six young South Moluccans, who killed three persons during the 12-day ordeal, surrendered meekly Sunday after meeting with a mediator and praying with their hostages. Police said the six would be charged with murder.

Hospital officials said the hostages were in good condition.

Dutch officials said they hoped the capitulation would persuade a second band of South Moluccans holding 25 hostages in the Indonesian consulate to surrender as well.

But there were no signs the gunmen inside the red-brick consulate planned to give up. Officials said they hoped to resume negotiations with them this morning.

Trade union official Louis Laurier, one of the hostages aboard the train, said the passengers had begun to feel some sympathy for their captors.

"Whatever we asked for from the hijackers, we were given, for they were very kind to us," he said. "They kept both the train and the lavatory clean themselves."

He said there was "hardly an explanation why we agreed that they were nice, helpful fellows who gave their scenes to the women, even though we abhorred the killings."

Laurier said the hostages killed time by "doing knee-to-knee, reading pamphlets on the Moluccan cause distributed by the hijackers, playing cards and sometimes singing psalms."

The terrorists seized the two-car, yellow train as it sped through a potato field near Bellen, about 75 miles north of Amsterdam. They demanded independence for their island homeland from Indonesia, a former Dutch colony.

After the prayers, the longhaired gunmen, some wearing bright scarves around their necks, jumped from the train and walked across a cow-pasture to where police and marines waited to arrest them. One waved a defiant clenched fist.

Most of the hostages were able to walk from the unheated train and some even carried their luggage.

Marines found on the train three sub-machineguns, three carbines, a hunting rifle, two revolvers, a pistol, a curved Indonesian saber, three knives and 400 rounds of ammunition, a police spokesman said.

But he said the "explosives" police thought had been used to booby-trap the train's doors were merely firecrackers.

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — King Juan Carlos called his two-day-old government into special session today to decide how far and how fast it would move toward reform.

The new cabinet, which was sworn in Saturday, was expected to draft a declaration of its aims, giving Spaniards their first insight into plans to reform the right-wing regime left by the late Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

"We will issue a very clear statement confirming that our government means to move cautiously but steadily towards reforms," Interior Minister Manuel Fraga Iribarne said in a weekend interview.

The government meeting came amid new violence against leftist and pro-reform demonstrators who want Juan Carlos to free all of Spain's 2,000 political prisoners and grant immediate democratic reforms.

In the Basque city of Bilbao, right-wing extremists Sunday attacked some 2,000 demonstrators demanding amnesty for political prisoners.

When police charged the demonstrators, tough from the extreme right-wing organization Guerrillas of Christ the King also attacked the protestors, witnesses said.

They said about 60 marchers were arrested at the demonstration near Basaurri Prison, where scores of Basque separatists are held.

Few of the Basque prisoners have benefited from the limited pardon issued by Juan Carlos Nov. 25, five days after Franco's death.

The pardon excludes persons convicted of "terrorist" crimes, and offenses involving the Basque struggle for autonomy and independence.

Club-swinging police have beaten dozens of protestors at pro-reform demonstrations during the past 10 days.

Fraga said he intended to order police to use less force against demonstrators. But he added, "I will not let them (leftist demonstrators) disturb our peace and order."

Fraga has submitted a draft for the proposed government declaration and other reform-minded ministers have reportedly done the same.

But the program must get by other more conservative men in the cabinet.

Vice-President and Minister Without Portfolio Gen. Fernando Santiago y Diaz de Mendivil said Saturday the Spanish people want a life "without sudden switches or adventures."

Prostitutes gripe to Pope

BOLZANO, Italy (UPI) — A group of prostitutes has complained to Pope Paul VI and President Giovanni Leone they are being barred from hotels and restaurants.

"We respect the law, we cause no scandal and, being Italian citizens, we would like to have the same rights as everyone else," the letter read.

The letter, made public over the weekend, was the first group action by Italian prostitutes and followed protest demonstrations by their colleagues in France and other countries.

The women said their position had become

"untenable since police arrested a number of Bolzano hotel owners Dec. 5 on charges of exploiting prostitution."

"Since Dec. 5 we have lived under impossible conditions," the prostitutes wrote. "Hotels do not accommodate us, restaurants do not tolerate us. We keep our bags at the railroad station and we never know where we will be tomorrow."

"We are not begging. We would not even ask for understanding because this is a right, but at the point we have reached it is indispensable that our problem be solved."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Newsweek magazine reports that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has been told Soviet Party Leader Leonid Brezhnev is terminally ill.

Newsweek said it was told that Anatoly Dobrynin, the Soviet ambassador to the United States, had informed Kissinger of the illness.

The article quoted observers at the recent Polish Community Party Congress in Warsaw as saying Brezhnev stumbled over common words and spoke unusually slowly.

Ford's campaign chief blasts away at Reagan

By United Press International
President Ford's campaign manager, whose assessment that Nelson Rockefeller would be Ford's main political liability augured the vice president's withdrawal from the ticket, now apparently has it in for Ronald Reagan.

Reagan has said he will not attack the President personally and Ford is reported to be disappointed in the Republican.

But Ford's manager, Howard "Bo" Callaway, attending the Southern Republican Conference in Houston Saturday, said Reagan's campaign is nothing but "a Hollywood facade" and that he would lose the California primary because of his record as governor for eight years.

Of the Democratic side of the Gallup poll, which last week showed Reagan surging ahead of Ford among Republicans, Sen. Hubert Humphrey increased his lead among Democrats.

A November poll showed Humphrey with 39 percent, up from 11 per cent a year ago, and George Wallace with 20 per cent, far ahead of the rest of the pack. According to the poll, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., is favored by 29 per cent of the Democrats when included as a candidate. Among independents, Wallace led Humphrey, 27 per cent to 19.

At the southern GOP meeting, presumably a bastion of Reagan support, Callaway noted the President's Ford Committee has the support of almost every major GOP official in California. He went on to say that as governor Reagan's "historic was great and his performance was poor," specifically on the matter of personal income taxes.

Reagan, addressing the conference later, called for fellow party members to march under a banner of responsible Republicanism. He expounded his familiar theme that Congress is responsible for its support of high spending and social programs.

"The result," Reagan said, "is a fourth year of government, a permanent structure of elected employment determining policy to a greater extent than most of you know."

Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, who was Humphrey's running mate in 1968, said Sunday the Minnesota senator is "most likely" to win the Democratic nomination next year despite his repeated insistence he is not running.

"Muskie, appearing on a television interview (ABC's 'Issues and Answers'), said 'there is no question' Humphrey is the 'front runner and I think very likely so."

"Especially the Democratic parade."
Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., campaigning in Milwaukee said no one is fully qualified to be president, but he is more qualified than anyone else. "I can deal more effectively with the economy, with energy, with the Russians and with foreign policy in general than the other candidates," he said.

— Jimmy Carter and Sargent Shriver addressed Mississippi loyalist Democrats Sunday. Shriver, who ran for vice president in 1972, said he wants to "re-establish trust in our form of government and trust in trade which has made this nation great." Carter said, "The candidate that can convince the people that we can have a decent government will be in the White House next year."
— Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., in Milwaukee, said there are "no immediate answers for the intractable problems of the Middle East," but that the United States must maintain its commitment to Israel.

— Fred Harris announced in San Antonio, Tex., Saturday he would run in the Texas primary. A straw poll among 215 liberal Texas Democrats showed Harris with 28.5 per cent of their votes to 19.2 per cent for Udall and 7.7 per cent for Shriver.

— George Wallace, campaigning in Atlanta Sunday, said, "People who live in rural communities must have an equal opportunity with those residing in our cities." He said it is time to relieve taxpayers of the burden of urban social costs by "redirecting our attention and efforts to rural America."

— Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., told the Madison (Wis.) Capital Times he will not be a presidential candidate next year. He called it a "definite decision."

HHH leader

SEN Edward S. Muskie, D-Maine, said Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers" that Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., is at this time the "most likely" to win the Democratic presidential nomination next summer. (UPI)

Urns given to US aides

HONG KONG (UPI) — China today handed over to American officials the remains of two American airmen who were shot down in the 1960's.

A government spokesman said Chinese Red Cross officials handed over urns containing the ashes of Lt. Cmdr. James L. Buckley, Sioux City, Iowa, and Parachute Rigger Kenneth W. Pugh, Lancaster, Calif. at the border between China and Hong Kong.

A Red Cross official said the would deliver the urns to the U.S. armed forces at the Katak airport.

He said the remains would be flown by military aircraft to the Joint Casualty Resolution Center for final processing.

The remains were returned to the United States in what the Chinese described as "a gesture of good will."

Aid offered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has declared parts of Washington State disaster areas because of recent floods.

The six western Washington counties eligible for federal assistance under Saturday's disaster declaration are King, Grays Harbor, Lewis, Skagit, Snohomish and Whatcom.

Melendez' body was found by a caddy on a dirt road near a golf course at the Pine Valley Country Club.

Melendez was arraigned on charges of murder, robbery, attempted murder, aggravated assault, burglary and criminal conspiracy and was held without bail for a preliminary hearing Dec. 17.

Rights groups challenge HEW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Health Education and Welfare Secretary David Mathews has been challenged by a coalition of major civil rights groups to prove his department is still interested in ending discrimination and segregation.

The 57 groups last week issued a strongly worded letter accusing HEW of "shocking, inexcusable failure" to enforce civil rights.

"They said HEW's Office for Civil Rights observes only "A paper commitment" to protect the rights of women, minorities and handicapped persons and is trying to "weaken or eliminate" even that commitment.

"Today OCR's enforcement strategy is bankrupt," the letter said.

They urged Mathews, former president of the University of Alabama, to direct his urgent and sustained attention to the shocking, inexcusable failure and refusal of the department to carry out its legal obligations.

Woman jailed again

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Jean Little, a black woman acquitted of murdering her white jailer, has been arrested for failing to appear last week to sign bond papers on another charge.

Miss Little, 21, was arrested Sunday in Durham, N.C., 23 miles away. She had failed to make a routine appearance Thursday at the clerk of Supreme Court's office to sign bond certification papers. She had been free on bond while appealing a larceny and breaking and entering conviction.

Changed appearance by Knight suspect?

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Salvatore Soli, sought in the knife slaying of newspaper editor Knight, may have altered his appearance to evade authorities, police said.

Soli, 38, one of three men accused in the Dec. 7 murder, may have shaved his mustache and cut his hair to avoid being captured, officials believe.

Local and federal authorities Sunday concentrated the search for Soli, a convicted felon with more than 10 previous arrests in Philadelphia and southern New Jersey.

Another suspect, Isias "Felix" Melendez, 20, was

Contracts to Hughes

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Billionaire recluse Howard Hughes has been awarded at least $6 billion in contracts by the U. S. government in the past 10 years, the Philadelphia Inquirer said in a copyrighted article in its Sunday edition.

The Inquirer said 80 per cent of the contracts were awarded without competitive bidding.

The $6 billion figure, most of which represented Defense Department contracts, was a "firm minimum" based on available government records, the newspaper said.

The article said Hughes' firms received "many contracts" from the CIA but the agency refused to disclose dollar amounts.

During an eight-month investigation by the newspaper, the article said, the government went "to extraordinary lengths" to protect Hughes.

"Howard Hughes has become almost a clandestine branch of the federal government, operating in total secrecy, guaranteed 'secure' profits, checked or monitored by no outside force whatsoever," the paper said.

"Hughes and his enterprises, as measured by all the available evidence, received more American tax money—over $1.6 billion a week, every week—than is paid to any other privately controlled business in the world," the Inquirer said.

your health

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like your personal advice on what could be a small problem. I am a 19-year-old girl who is very scatterbrained. What bothers me is that I don't want to be that way, but I can't seem to do anything about it.

Once I'm interrupted at doing anything I completely forget what it was and go back to doing something else. Is there anything I can do about this problem, or will I have to accept being an absent-minded-professor type person? — M.S.

There can be physical factors involved in memory deficiency, most of which are associated with the aging process. And if brain dysfunction were involved, you would report for example, who have complete recall of the most minute details of an old business transaction years ago but must grope to recall where their cars are parked.

We tend to remember the things we consider important. Conversely, we tend to forget those things we consider unpleasant or unimportant. It has been said that if we remembered "everything" we would be as laid off as if we remembered nothing.

So what can you do about it? People in your situation are often found to be spreading themselves a bit thin, so to speak. They are into so many things that they cannot do a self-satisfying job in any. You might try concentrating on a few activities or projects you particularly enjoy.

Bad memory bothers girl

more dramatic symptoms than mere forgetfulness. A complete physical examination at this point in your life would be in order, if only to establish that nothing more serious is involved.

Discounting such possibilities, the next most important factor in memory deficiency is the neurotic personality. The neurotic type is likely to become panicky, and before long a minor problem is blown out of proportion. In younger people what is called memory deficiency can often be a lack of concentration or limited attention span. While this is usually found in children, a certain tendency can linger on through the teen years. The person can quickly acquire the label "scatterbrained."

From your letter I suspect there is nothing wrong with you that some self-discipline, maturity and responsibility wouldn't cure. For some people, the demands of life, as in marriage or business, rather quickly dissipate the problem. Yet, I know respected men in business, be sure you are getting sufficient rest. Fatigue can engender forgetfulness over small details. Work conscientiously on your problem by developing a more orderly lifestyle. Keep a diary, in which you are forced to recall the significant events of the past day.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible to have a successful hemorrhoid operation, then 15 years later "require another"? — Mrs. A.R.

Yes. Hemorrhoids can recur, but the chances of this happening are not great. About 90 per cent of hemorrhoidectomy patients are cured permanently. If a second operation is required it is for hemorrhoids occurring at a different site in the rectum and involving different veins. Hemorrhoids are varicosities, as you know.

Post-hemorrhoidectomy care is very important, especially because of the fact that the affected area cannot be completely immobilized, but must continue to serve its regular function.

Even when you begin this late in the year, it's still possible to get a full year of tax credit with either of two retirement plans.

The average wage earner can now benefit from a new tax shelter — the Individual Retirement Account, often called "IRA".
A new Federal law says you may make certain tax deductions when you start an Individual Retirement Account. You can deduct annual contributions to your account of up to $1500, or 15% of wages, whichever is less, when figuring your income tax.
You may make those contributions monthly, quarterly, annually or whenever you like as long as it is within the year being considered for tax credit.
Start it now before the end of the year and an entire year of tax credits belong to you (in the amount you actually contribute).
An Idaho First Individual Retirement Account will earn the maximum allowable interest PLUS a tax deduction for you. You have a wide selection of short or long term maturing periods (90 days, 120 days, six months or from one to six years), paying 5% for savings to 7 1/2% for six year maturities, all customized to your need.

Start now when a late start becomes a head start.

And, if you are self-employed ...

A new tax break is now available to professionals, business proprietors and other self-employed individuals, thanks to recent Congressional action on pensions for the self-employed.
Until now, self-employed persons were allowed a special tax deduction for funds set aside for retirement — 10% of earned income with a $2,500 ceiling.
Now — if you're self-employed — it may be possible to salt away as much as three times the former limit, since the new annual ceiling on deductible contributions has been increased to 15% of earned income with a $7,500 limit.
To help make sure self-employed persons in this area get the full benefits under the new HR-10 law, our bank has developed a Master Retirement Plan.
To get the facts, drop in to Idaho First today.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 Chicago Tribune-N.M. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a male, age 32. My parents had me circumcised when I was an infant. We are Christians, so there was no religious reason for having maimed me in this manner.

I feel that subjecting a helpless child to such barbaric surgery is an assault on his person and a violation of his rights, and I am seriously considering suing my parents for $100,000 for having permanently disfigured me.

Do you know if such a suit has ever been filed?
SERIOUS IN N.Y.

DEAR SERIOUS: No, I don't. But if you win, you could call it "severance pay."

DEAR ABBY: Like a lot of other people, I never thought I'd be writing to Dear Abby, but I have something to say. I lived with my husband for a year before we were married because we both wanted to be sure we were right for each other in every way.

'Maimed' man $100,000 mad

I know the heartache it causes parents who have trouble accepting that sort of thing, but believe me, divorce, which is dirty and painful 99 per cent of the time, is even harder on them, I know. I've been there, too.

I never slept with my first husband until we were married, and that marriage was a nightmare. We dated for three years before we were engaged, but we didn't really know each other.

I don't think kids who have lived together should expect their parents to give them a big wedding and honeymoon, but I don't believe a wedding can make a marriage.

Living together may be no guarantee that the marriage will succeed, but at least both parties will know what they are getting into.

It may not be the answer for everyone, but I wish people would quit condemning those who think it's best for them. I've been married for two years and have an adorable 4-month-old baby.

NEVER BEEN HAPPIER

DEAR NEVER: When you assume that living together for a year will teach both parties what they are getting into, you're buying at the moon. A successful marriage is made of three parts: luck, patience and effort. I know of no sure shortcuts.

DEAR ABBY: I was recently called for jury duty for three weeks. I work three hours a day and made arrangements to make up the work at odd hours so I could serve as a juror. I felt it was an honor and a privilege, but when I mention it to people, they make me feel as though I must have been crazy and myself be "trapped" for jury duty. They say I should have had a doctor write me an excuse or have my boss say that it would jeopardize my job.

Am I a nut for feeling as I do? Or do only suckers serve?
HONORED

DEAR HONORED: You're no nut. You are a good citizen, and others could learn from you.

Old forcing bid works well

JEROME — Mary Alaniz and Ralph Hopkins were married in a 7 p.m. ceremony Dec. 6 at St. Benedict's Priory. Father Cosmas White conducted the ceremony. The chapel was decorated with baskets of white chrysanthemums and red gladioli.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Alaniz, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Hopkins, Hansen.

The bride wore a dress of white cotton styled with a high collar, long sleeves and an empire waist. Ruffles trimmed the sleeves and hem of the dress. Small pearls trimmed the collar, sleeves and front of the dress.

She carried a bouquet of miniature red carnations and pastel asters tied with pink streamers.

Annabel Alaniz was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Margaret and Delores Alaniz, Jim Hopkins, Twin Falls, was best man. Ushers were Sammy Alaniz and John Valencia.

The couple was honored at a reception following the ceremony.

Decorations carried out a red, pink and white color scheme.

Guest tables were covered with white tablecloths and were centered with white candles and holly arrangements.

The three tiered wedding cake was iced with red and white icing and trimmed with miniature bells. It was topped with four white lace balls. Christmas holly surrounded the cake.

Two sets of red candles in silver candleholders completed the table decorations. Holly and red bows were used as accents.

Kelly Christensen received gifts. Kelly Irwin was in charge of the guest book. Nigry Ann Truhl served cake.

Following a wedding trip in Sun Valley, the couple resides in Twin Falls where the bridegroom is employed at Idaho Frozen Foods and the bride is employed by the Blue Lakes Boulevard A & W.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "We discussed strong two bids all last week. There are lots of reasons why you should use something better if you want to get the best possible results. On the other hand if you are an ordinary bridge player and just want to have fun there is no reason to complicate your bridge life by trying something else. The old-fashioned two bid works pretty well."

Jim: "Most experts use two clubs as their only forcing opening. A very few use one club. These can both work well if you learn how to handle all the problems they cause you but don't let anyone tell you that they simplify bidding. They, and particularly the artificial one club, really complicate matters."

Jim: "Here is a hand bid some years ago. South decided to take full control. His plan was to bid six if North showed two or three aces. When North showed all four (they played five clubs to show zero or four aces) South bid seven spades."

Oswald: "He probably had some anxious moments if North thought about notrump, but I see things ended happily. North let him play the one 'makeable grand slam'."

ASK THE EXPERTS

"A Wisconsin reader wants to know if spades were always the highest-ranked suit."

The answer is that they always have been in the game of contract bridge, but in the first days of auction they were the lowest suit. The promotion from bottom to top occurred around 1910.

"Do you have a question for the experts? Write 'Ask the Jacobys' care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN."

Hints

Serving dairy eggnog after a chilly night of Christmas carols has long been a holiday tradition. Add a different twist by making that a hot spiced eggnog. Combine one and one-half cups dairy eggnog, one-half cup milk, one stick cinnamon and one-eighth teaspoon ground cloves. Heat to simmering point, stirring occasionally. Remove cinnamon stick. Pour into two of your prettiest mugs and top each serving with sweetened whipped cream and a dash of nutmeg.

Nurse inmate counts

© Chicago Sun-Times
CHICAGO — To most of us the 11th of each month is just another day. To Jane Kennedy, it has become a private milestone, a benchmark, to anticipate with desperate urgency.

"I actually count off the days until I comes around again. I have been locked up since April 11, 1975. When it's the 11th, I can tell myself that there is one less month to serve."

Without parole, she will have 22 more months to count.

Jane Kennedy is the nurse who was tried, convicted and sentenced to three years in a federal penitentiary for burning draft records during the Vietnam war. Previously, she had spent 14 months in prison for destroying Dow Chemical Co. records.

At the moment, she is sitting cross-legged on the floor of a Loop hotel room. She was granted a brief furlough from the federal women's prison at Alderson, W. Va., to participate in a University of Illinois Medical Center conference on medical care in prison institutions. Within a matter of hours, she will be back at Alderson, where all her days but the 11th are a monotonous blur.

Baggage handlers steal false teeth

Chicago Daily News
CHICAGO — False teeth were a prime target of a ring of baggage handlers accused of stealing items from passengers' luggage since 1971, federal investigators said today.

"They wanted the false teeth for the gold and silver," one said.

"They could get $100 for a set of false teeth containing gold or silver. Watches, cameras and jewelry were also regarded as prize items."

Twenty present or former baggage handlers were charged in an indictment returned by a federal grand jury Thursday, but suppressed until yesterday so that FBI agents could make arrests, said U.S. Atty.-General K. Skinner.

"It's not just the monotony and the differences from everyday life," she says. "The same three pairs of pants, five tees, two pairs of shoes and four pairs of socks. The same underwear, with holes that keep growing larger and elastic that keeps getting looser. The dehumanizing of the thing that tears me up. What upsets me the most is that prison is for the poor and minorities. The injustice of our society to the contrary."

She says she is so lonely, she is writing letters to other women and write letters for them to try to help with their problems.

"Perhaps if I tell you a story it will help you understand justice, extend a family member's hours, she says.

When I left to come here, the women all gathered around me to say good-bye. And then they all said, "When are you coming back?" There is a certain excitement in the air. We count on one another because that is all the human here is."

December 31st: 1975 Deadline To Get An IRA Tax Deduction

What is IRA?
 It is a personal tax-sheltered retirement plan available now under the Federal Pension Reform Act of 1974.

How does IRA, the Individual Retirement Account Work?
 Each year you can set aside in a qualified IRA plan up to 15% of your earned income (but not exceeding $1500 yearly), free of current federal income taxes.

The income earned by your IRA plan is also exempt from federal income taxes until you actually begin withdrawals.

You may deduct your IRA contribution (up to 15% or $1500) from gross income, whether whether you itemize deductions or take the standard deduction.

Who can participate in IRA?
 The IRA plan is open to both full-time and part-time employees, including a spouse working full or part-time; and self-employed individuals not covered by the Keogh plan, or another approved plan.

Can IRA Deposits Be Made By Payroll Deduction?
 Yes, if your employer will install an Employee Savings Plan.

Must I Have My IRA Plan Approved by the IRS?
 No, the Internal Revenue Service has already approved our basic plan.

How Are IRA Funds Invested At First Federal?
 In an Insured Savings Account always worth 100 cents on the dollar. They earn the highest interest rates permitted by Federal regulation, compounded daily for maximum earnings.

Concorde faces limited payloads

WASHINGTON Star — The British-French Concorde supersonic transport faces a further reduction in its limited payload on flights into Dulles Airport here and a longer North Atlantic crossing time if it ever flies commercially into the United States.

Unless the federal government reverses itself and grants permission for the Concorde to fly through prohibited military airspace off the U.S. coast, the plane will suffer "more than a 10 percent" reduction in passenger carrying capacity, according to industry sources.

The Concorde now is slated to carry 100 passengers. The distance from Paris to Dulles already stretches the plane's operating range, and a detour required to avoid the restricted areas will further curtail the limited payload, which already makes it the western world's least efficient jetliner on a cost-and-fuel basis.

The sources said the detour probably would make little difference in the capacity of flights into New York, but that Concorde's payload might have to be cut quite a bit more than the 10 percent figure for flights into Dulles. The planned 4 1/2-hour transatlantic flight time also would be made longer, but it is unclear by how much.

The air space in question consists of four zones, from Nantucket, Mass., to Wilmington, Del. Although they are technically "joint use areas," they are "under the control of the Defense Department and have been closed to civilian traffic since the end of World War II for safety reasons.

Air France and British Airways, which are seeking permission to operate two flights a day into Dulles and four a day into Kennedy Airport in New York, have applied for an exemption to allow them to operate through the restricted areas.

The requests have been denied, according to a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman, who said there was "virtually no chance that the decision would be reversed." He pointed out that all transatlantic air carriers had applied to fly through the zones and permission had been refused.

In another development concerning the "Concorde" a House subcommittee has challenged the authority of the transportation secretary to make the final decision on whether the plane should be allowed to fly into this country, rather than leaving the question in the hands of the FAA.

Fords mail Christmas cards

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The President and Mrs. Ford began mailing their Christmas cards Friday and the White House said about 35,000 in all will go to foreign leaders, members of Congress, federal and state officials and personal friends.

Printed on each card is a reproduction of part of a painting of a snow-covered farmhouse and animals in rural Connecticut about 1825. The original, hanging in the White House Green Room, is entitled "Farmyard in Winter" and was done by George Durrie.

ITMA protests Sawtooth plan

BY BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Idaho trail bike riders aren't happy with the Sawtooth Forest Travel Plan which closes many mountain trails to motorized vehicles.

Steve Miller, Twin Falls, a director in the Idaho Trail Machine Association, (ITMA) says his organization is protesting the plan which calls for closure of many trails to trail bike riders.

Miller said the ITMA will make a formal written protest of the proposed Travel Plan for the southern division of the forest, but violently opposes plans to close mountain trails north of Ketchum and Fairfield to trail machines.

He said the trail machine operators are "not asking for anything we don't already have" but are opposing the forest service's plan to "take away many trails we now enjoy during summer months."

Miller said there are natural closures on the trails during much of the year with snow keeping trail machines out of the high country except during late July, August and early September.

Miller said in the Ketchum Ranger District, the Travel Plan proposals would close about 20 trails to the bikers; eliminating about 200 miles of trail they now enjoy. Another 42 miles or so of six trails would be closed but these are currently unavailable to trail bikers because of poor maintenance.

In the Fairfield Ranger District, the restrictions are considerably less with 66 miles on 16 trails proposed for closure and 18 miles on six trails included in the closure bracket but not currently used because of maintenance and other problems.

Miller said where the Forest Service affords alternatives on certain trails they amount to nothing more than closure to trail bikes.

By its own guidelines, Miller said, the Forest Service says the "Travel Plan" is to "protect resources," "promote safety" and "minimize conflicts between different user groups."

Miller argues recreation for off-road vehicle operators is one of the "resources" they should be protecting.

With over five million off-road vehicles in the nation, the association members say they deserve consideration in the overall recreation plan.

"We represent a sizeable segment of the taxpayers," Miller said. "We feel all interest groups should be given consideration."

Specific recommendations the trail bikers are offering the Forest Service ask the agency to manage land under the multiple use concept on a basis of "accommodation" not "eradication," meaning they feel provisions should be made to accommodate all users rather than eliminating one entire group to solve problems for others.

Bikers are also calling for disbursement of trail machines over a large number of trails groups, rather than concentration on a few.

In considering conflicts between groups, Miller said, the trail bikers are always the losers. He suggested in some areas other uses might be eliminated instead of trail machines.

As for safety, he said there is also danger to the trail machine operator who meets a pack string on the trail, but more than that, the pack string meeting another pack string on a narrow trail might have even more difficulty.

Miller suggested the Forest Service consider such questions as how much revenue is generated by the various users and how much money is being spent on trails in the wilderness area, closed to all motorized vehicles, and how much is spent to maintain trails for off road vehicles.

He said in 1972, Forest Service figures show about twice as much was spent in the Primitive Area compared to all remaining areas of the Sawtooth trail maintenance.

Not only do trail bikers generate more revenue in the area by equipment and fuel purchases, Miller said, but they use revenue which they originate to improve trails and add other facilities which are then available to everyone — under the multiple use forest program.

Miller said anything the trail machine organizations provide in the way of trail improvements, shelters or other facilities, are available to all other users. He said the one per cent gasoline tax up to $300,000 annually in Idaho goes back to local counties, and the off road vehicle fund provides additional revenue for such improvements. This is from registration fees paid by machine owners.

Teens face 'problems'

One thing the kids all agree on: It's easy for them to get alcoholic drinks. In most cases, friends or older brothers buy it.

"As one girl says: "There's always a guy who'll buy it."

Sometimes, though, it's the parents who bring home the beer. Several of the junior high students say their parents didn't mind them drinking that much, and sometimes let them do it at home.

A general community acceptance towards drinking may be one reason for a fairly high alcohol involvement by Twin Falls youths. Parents who would violently oppose drug use may see little harm in their kids having some fun with alcohol once in a while, and even expect it from a counselor says.

And as one kid puts it, "If somebody's parents drink, I don't see how they can tell their kids not to."

Some adults who deal with teenagers were fairly optimistic.

O'Leary principal Carl Snow said he felt the drinking problem was more isolated now, with the school knowing who the problem kids are.

O'Leary counselor Laveta Younger, who came to Twin Falls from a larger town, says she was surprised "at the little amount" of drinking she has found. "I've been quite surprised at the lack of the problem here."

Yet Harold Livingston, executive director of the Magic Valley Rehabilitation Center, says it is the junior high drinkers who worry him the most.

Livingston says he has counseled several teenage alcoholics, including some girls.

"One area we're having trouble with that people don't like to talk about is people who leave their liquor at home and unlocked" and accessible to babysitters, he said, adding he has counseled several babysitters "on the verge of being alcoholics."

This is the first year that a treatment and rehabilitation program for teenage drinkers has become available through the Department of Health and Welfare, according to Judge Meeth.

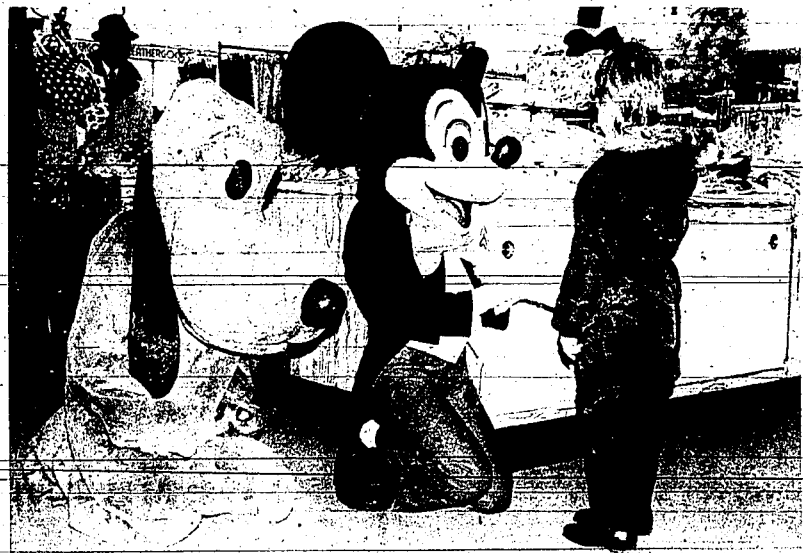

"Something that's been needed a long time," the program is too new to evaluate for effectiveness, Meeth said.

Principal Snow said he felt education and a strict approach might help alleviate the problem.

"I don't think we should ever combine drinking the use of tobacco, or the use of a narcotic or any drug," he says.

The drinking problem probably won't be easy to deal with.

A recent high school graduate says most kids start drinking in junior high school. "In fact, if you don't drink by the time you're in high school, you're considered a little weird."

TF-visitors — PLUTO and Mickey Mouse greeted kids in the Bon Marche Sunday as part of the store's downtown Christmas promotion. Gooty was there too, but got lost in the store when this picture was taken.

Meet set on fate of MVAG

BY CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News Writer

JEROME — County commissioners from eight Magic Valley counties will be in Jerome Tuesday to decide if the Magic Valley Association of Governments should be given a one year stay of execution.

The meeting, scheduled for 2 p.m. at the Jerome County courthouse, was called after the governing board of the MVAG decided in November to have opinions from all of the eight county commissioners and not just MVAG representatives on whether to continue association funding for another year.

The MVAG went through a similar struggle last year, when it was funded with the stipulation the association could prove the funding for MVAG was justified for Magic Valley counties.

The commissioners are again questioning the value of the organization and have individually expressed doubt about funding for another year.

The MVAG has requested a budget of $39,000 for the fiscal year 1976-77. According to budget figures, the MVAG will end this year with $23,32 which would be carried over to next year's budget.

The Association has sent a request for a HUD 701 grant in the amount of $30,000. However, Congress has cut HUD funds by 23 per cent and the Association does not know how much if any of the $20,000 will be received.

Because of the uncertainty of HUD funding, only $23,000 of the $39,000 was used in computing next year's budget.

Also unclear is whether the MVAG is entitled to monies appropriated to the South Idaho Resource Planning and Development Association (SIRPDA) and the Wood River Resource Association (WRRA) before the two groups were combined.

If the money in the two accounts can be transferred to MVAG, the eight county expenditure would remain at 10 cents per capita with the same level of services being provided next year as have been this year by the MVAG.

If the monies cannot be transferred to MVAG, the counties will have to increase their participation to 15 cents per capita in order for MVAG to function at the same level.

Minidoka eyes book purchase policy

BY SHANE O'NEILL
Times-News Writer

RUPERT — The Minidoka County superintendent of schools will recommend the school board adopt a book purchase policy developed by a special committee, not the book plan developed by the school board.

Dr. Darrell Hatfield said Sunday he is proposing the board drop all attempts to revise the policy proposal and go back to the original recommendation.

The school board meets at 8 p.m. today at the East Minidoka Junior High School Library.

"I feel we need to get something done," Hatfield said. "That particular policy seems to be more acceptable to more people than the policy that we have worked over."

The controversy over school books and their selection has been waged since parental objections were raised concerning two books used in a junior high school English class last spring.

A new textbook and selection and review policy was agreed upon in October by a special committee appointed for that purpose. The policy has received criticism and support from various individuals and groups at the last several board meetings.

Last Monday the board held a special work session and made revisions that have drawn the wrath of the Minidoka County Educational Association. The major change was in the appointment of professional members of selection and review committees.

Under the original proposal, teacher members would be appointed by the curriculum director from lists prepared by the AECTA. The revision calls for the superintendent to make the appointments after consultation with the association.

"After over six months of debate on this issue, I feel the decision should be made," Hatfield said. "It is beginning to divide the community and the school system ... and we really haven't tried anything."

Hatfield said he telephoned Dr. Harold Calvert, chairman of the school board, about his recommendation but has not talked with other trustees.

"After hearing proposals, counter proposals and all sides of the issues, I have concluded there will never be a policy all the people can agree on," the superintendent said. "There were teachers involved in the policy committee and patrons worked on the committee. They had different differences of opinion at the start," he said, "and I know they came up with a compromise ..."

Hatfield said he does not believe any purpose is being served by the board continuing to review and revise the policy. He said the original policy proposal "is more acceptable to both teachers and the patrons' group."

He agreed there will be further criticism because "some people will think it too liberal and some will think it's too conservative."

The superintendent said "Because we asked the committee to report its recommendation to the board and because the committee was composed of people with differing points of view it is my recommendation we accept the committee's policy proposal."

today in brief

Stranded men found — OAKLEY — Two young men were stranded Friday evening off Birch Creek road out of Oakley.

Their four-wheel vehicle was pulled out during the night by a Mike Cassin Search and Rescue unit. Leonard C. Baker, commander of the Mike Cassin Search and Rescue Unit, was called out about 6 p.m. Friday to rescue James Bowers, Burley, and a companion. The task was completed about 2 a.m. Saturday.

Baker said the two men had become stuck in a snowdrift about a mile in the hills above the road to the City of Rocks.

They had a citizen's band radio in their vehicle and managed to contact someone in Murlough. Baker said that was the only route the radio signal could travel.

Party times incorrect — TWIN FALLS — The times for Christmas parties at Skyview and Hazeldele Manors were incorrect as reported in Sunday's Times-News.

The party at Skyview will be at 3:15 p.m. Friday and the time for the Hazeldele Manor party is 2 p.m. All relatives and family members of patients are invited to attend. The Old Time Elders will entertain.

The Times-News regrets the error.

Choice rapped

WENDELL — State Sen. James Yost, R., Wendell, Saturday termed the appointment of Milton Klein, Twin Falls, as head of the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare "a big mistake."

Yost, who was critical earlier of Gov. Ceell Andrus, prior to the appointment for delaying the appointment, said he feels Klein is much too liberal in his administration of welfare programs and would be inclined to continue the system as it is now.

Yost said he feels the vast amounts of money being spent on welfare are not benefiting the most needy.

"We need someone in that office (department administrator) who will back off on some of the federal programs," Yost said.

markets today's weather

Stocks at midday

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices turned in a mixed performance Monday on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was light.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which gained 0.08 point Friday, had risen 1.42 to 834.23 shortly before noon EST. But declines still held a slight lead over advances, $40 to $35, among the 1,610 issues crossing the tape.

Two-hour volume came to 5,500,000 shares, compared with 5,380,000 shares exchanged in the same period Friday.

As the market opened, the Commerce Department reported business inventories rose 0.7 per cent in October for the third consecutive month. Business sales increased 1.1 per cent. The October inventory gala was the largest since last December.

But aside from this encouraging report, there was no other news to assuage investor fears the economic recovery may peter out in the fourth quarter of the year.

Portfolio adjustments, tax-loss taking and year-end profit selling continued to dominate market behavior.

Kansas City Southern Industries paced the actives, up 1/4 to 127 on 63,000 shares.

General Motors was second, up 1/4 to 56 3/4 on 53,400 shares.

Snow, winds return to MV

Twin Falls, Northside, Burley, Rupert Area.
Locally gusty winds, 10 to 20 miles per hour at times. Areas of light rain or snow in the low valleys, with snow in the higher terrain increasing later today and tonight. Variable clouds and a chance of more snow Tuesday. Highs Tuesday in the 30s to low 40s. Lows tonight in the 20s to low 30s. The outlook for Wednesday, mostly dry.

Walley, Cassa Prairie, Lower Wood River Valley.
Cloudy and windy. Periods of light snow by tonight, continuing through Tuesday morning. Partial clearing Tuesday afternoon. Highs Tuesday in the 30s to low 40s. Lows tonight in the 20s to low 30s. The outlook for Wednesday, mostly dry.

Tuesday 25 to 30. Lows tonight 10-16. The outlook for Wednesday, mostly dry.
Synopsis:
A cold front was located in an east west position through Washington, northern Idaho and into Montana, this morning. This front is expected to move through the Magic Valley area tonight bringing a chance of rain which will change to snow later tonight. After the front passes a more northerly flow aloft will bring the possibility of a flow of arctic air into the Magic Valley area by late Tuesday. This will lower overnight lows to near or below zero.

The extended outlook for Wednesday through Friday calls for mostly dry weather with cool steady moderating temperatures. Highs will be mostly in the 30s and low temperatures will be mostly in the teens, and 20s.

Meat prices stabilizing for coming 12 months

DENVER (UPI)—The outlook president of the American National Cattlemen's Association said Friday meat prices should remain fairly stable next year, but the era of "cheap beef" is long dead.

Cattlemen have slaughtered more animals this year than ever before in an effort to balance the supply with the demand," said Gordon Van Vleck, who will step down Jan. 30 as head of the organization, which represents 200,000 cattlemen across the country.

"This reduction should lead to stable conditions next year which will keep beef prices at about their present levels," he said. "But consumers who are wishing for a return to the time of cheap beef prices are only kidding themselves."

Van Vleck, an Elmhurst, Calif., said producers generally were much better off in 1975 than last year, when losses of $100 to $150 per head were common, but he said

McClure urges EPA to approve chemicals

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, has urged the Environmental Protection Agency to approve the use of chlordane and heptachlor, two pesticides intended to be banned by the agency.

McClure pointed out a decision Friday by the administrative law judge for the EPA which announced a clean bill of health for the two chemicals. The decision followed two weeks of hearings and testimony by several scientists.

"It is most important that we not allow the use of these important chemicals," McClure said. "I have urged Mr. Train to accept these pesticides, which are used for the treatment of most feedgrain seeds and by many backyard gardeners as well."

McClure noted the chemicals have been widely used in Idaho to prevent the loss of feed-grain seeds to insects during the winter months.

Colts nip Dolphins

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Toni Linhart kicked a 31-yard field goal through a dense fog 12:44 into sudden death overtime Sunday to give the Baltimore Colts a commanding 10-7 victory over the Miami Dolphins and put them into a commanding position for the American Football Conference Eastern Division championship.

The win lifted Baltimore's record to 9-4 and the Colts can take the AFC East title next Sunday with a win over the New England Patriots. The loss also left the Dolphins at 9-4 with the prospect of being out of the playoff picture for the first time since 1969.

The Dolphins still have a chance for the title should they beat Denver next week and Baltimore lose to New England.

The Colts launched their winning drive from their own four-yard line, and led by Bert Jones' passing and Lydell Mitchell's running, advanced to the Miami 14. Linhart's kick, out of Marty Domres' hold, was near perfect, sending the crowd of 59,388 into bedlam.

Broncos take Eagles

DENVER (UPI) — Floyd Little, playing his last home game before 37,000 fans who braved a 15 degree temperature and slight snow, ran 67 yards with a screen pass for one touchdown and dashed two yards off tackle for a second Sunday to lift the Denver Broncos to a 25-10 win over the Philadelphia Eagles.

Little, who finished with 19 carries and 56 yards rushing and five catches for 94 yards, will end his nine-year career with the Broncos following next Saturday's game at Miami. In that game, Denver, 6-7, will be hoping to salvage a .500 season.

Oilers stop Raiders

OAKLAND (UPI) — Dan Pastorini's two-yard touchdown pass to tight end Mack Alston with no time on the clock tied the score and Skip Butler kicked the extra point for the margin of victory Sunday as the Houston Oilers snapped Oakland's win streak at seven games with a 27-26 triumph over the playoff-bound Raiders.

Rookie quarterback David Humm's 13-yard pass to Morris Bradshaw with 1:50 left in the third quarter had given the Raiders a six-point lead which they protected despite a fumble late in the fourth quarter until the Oilers started their winning drive from their own 42.

Lions trip Vikings

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — The Detroit Lions stunned Minnesota with two touchdowns within 37 seconds of the first quarter Sunday and then held on to hand the listless Vikings only their second defeat of the season 17-10.

Minnesota could have been guaranteed the home field advantage for the NFC title game by winning here and at Buffalo next Sunday but now must hope it emerges through the tie-breaking system since the Vikings and Los Angeles have identical 11-2 records. Detroit is now 7-6.

Rams defeat Packers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Second-year quarterback Ron Jaworski came off the bench early in the first quarter and played the rest of the way Sunday, directing the NFC Western Conference champion Los Angeles Rams to a 22-6 victory over the puncheonless Green Bay Packers.

Jaworski, who threw only 11 passes in the Rams' first 12 games, was inserted after James Harris' passing shoulder stiffened up in the pre-game warmups and he threw a first quarter interception.

Falcons trounce 49ers

ATLANTA (UPI) — Rookie quarterback Steve Bartkowski passed for 205 yards and two touchdowns Sunday and the Atlanta Falcons, in an unanticipated favorite's role, played daring offense while beating the San Francisco 49ers 31-9.

The teams were locked in a scoreless duel until late in the second period but once Bartkowski found the range, the Falcons were almost unstoppable.

Cardinals top Bears

CHICAGO (UPI) — Jim Ottis rushed for a career high 147 yards, pushing his season total over 1,000 yards Sunday, and scored two touchdowns to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 31-0 victory over the Chicago Bears that gave St. Louis its second straight National Football Conference Eastern Division championship.

Ottis carried 33 times in the game to set a Cardinal team record of 256 carries in the season and had to carry only four times in the last quarter to total 1,007 yards gained — his first 1,000-plus season in his pro career. It was only the second time that a Cardinal ball carrier has gained over 1,000 yards. John David Crow ran for 1,071 in 1960, the first year the Cardinals played in St. Louis.

Browns beat Chiefs

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Greg Pruitt darted for 214 yards and three touchdowns and passed the 1,000-yard rushing mark for the season Sunday as the Cleveland Browns overthrew the Kansas City Chiefs 40-14.

The little halfback carried 26 times and scored on runs of 10, three and 14 yards to run his season's total to 1,830 with one game left.

Bills crush Patriots

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — O.J. Simpson ran for 185 yards, scoring on a 63-yard run, and Jim Braxton bulled for 101 yards and two one-yard scores Sunday as the Buffalo Bills crushed the New England Patriots 34-14.

Joe Ferguson flipped a 61-yard pass to Bob Chandler and reserve quarterback Gary Marangi heaved 41-yard pass to J.D. Hill for the Bills' other touchdown. Buffalo has won its last nine games against New England.

The Patriots' scores came on a 62-yard pass from Steve Grogan to former Bill Don Calhoun and a 20-yard run by Andy Johnson after the Bills had completed their scoring.

Giants defeat Saints

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rookie Rony Colbert returned a third quarter punt 65 yards for a touchdown and Doug Kotar reeled off a 46-yard scoring run the next time New York got the ball Sunday as the Giants snapped a five-game losing streak with a 29-14 victory over the New Orleans Saints.

Colbert's punt return for the score was the first by a Giant since 1970 and Kotar's 47-yard jump was the longest from scrimmage this season by the 4-9 Giants. It was the 16th straight loss and the 11th setback in 13 games for New Orleans.

Nets outlast Pacers

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — Bill Melchioni came off the bench to get eight assists and Julius Erving scored 22 of his game-high 31 points in the second half Sunday to lead the New York Nets to a 99-83 victory over the Indiana Pacers.

The Nets, who trailed 71-67 with 2:30 remaining in the third period, turned the game around when Melchioni entered the contest and assisted on three straight baskets to get New York even at 73-73 after three periods.

Buhl takes Boise tourney

BOISE — The Buhl Indians wrestling team won the varsity competition and took second in the JV portion at the Boise Invitational Wrestling Tournament held this weekend in Boise.

Buhl had three first place finishers — 103 Kendall Wolf, 112 Kelly Bartlett, 155 Scott Walden. Third places went to — 119 Kim Fultz, 185 Keith Metzner. Fourth places were won by — 98 Rob Gletzen, 132 Andy Wagner, 138 Byron Stutzman, 145 Dale Butterworth, 167 Doug Lowe and heavyweight Scott Hoffman.

Buhl took second in the JV portion of the tournament with two first place finishers — 126 Grant Hopkins, 132 Albert Fullerton.

There were two second place finishers — 138 Dennis Ewing, 145 Gerald Overhart. Fourth places went to — 105 Jay Barr, 119 Rocky Olander and 185, Rick Cantrell. Mountain House took second in the varsity portion of the meet and Capital took top honors in the JV segment. Eight teams were entered in the tournament.

Kilmer season over

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Quarterback Bill Kilmer will undergo two operations this week and is through for the season, the Washington Redskins announced Sunday.

Team physician Stanford Lavine said the main operation sometime this week will be to repair damage to Kilmer's right shoulder, which he re-injured in Washington's 31-10 loss to the Dallas Cowboys Saturday. The veteran quarterback also will have corrective surgery on his left foot to fix a bone chip condition in the arch.

Carlos Monzon still champ

PARIS (UPI) — Argentine Carlos Monzon successfully defended Saturday for the 13th time in five years his World Boxing Association middleweight title by knocking out Frenchman Germain Tonna in the fifth round.

More than 6,000 spectators sitting under the canvas big top of the Jean Richard Circus watched as Monzon unbalanced Tonna with a series of fast, sharp left jabs and then landed a straight, powerful right to the back of Tonna's jaw.

Tonna made no effort to get up as the referee gave the count to 10. When the count finished, Tonna stood up and almost immediately began protesting that he had been hit in the back of the head while falling away from Monzon.

Back in a smaller tent lockerroom, Tonna said, "I was staying down for the count because I was sure Monzon would be disqualified. He hit me in the back of the head."

Except for a small but vociferous group of Tonna's supporters, Monzon's punch was regarded as legal and superbly executed. Frenchman Raymond Deloustal, who refereed one of the earlier bouts and was sitting at ringside when Tonna was hit, said, "There was absolutely nothing wrong with Monzon's blow. In fact, it was a magnificent demonstration of boxing."

This was Tonna's second championship bout. He fought Rodrigo Valdes, the World Boxing Council's middleweight champion, in November of 1974. That bout ended in the 11th round when Tonna was knocked out. He claimed afterward that Valdes hit him after the referee had called for the fighters to separate.

Monzon, the WBA champion, plans to meet Valdes, the WBC crown holder, in the spring of 1976.

After the fight, Monzon said, "I kept telling you that Tonna was just a stop on the way to Valdes. Now I'll beat Valdes and then everyone remember that the only world-middleweight champion was Carlos Monzon."

Blalock takes Colgate crown

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — 29-year-old Blalock of Highland Beach, Fla., sank a 20-foot birdie putt on the first hole of a sudden death playoff Sunday to capture the $50,000 Colgate Triple Crown LPGA Tournament at Mission Hills Country Club.

Blalock edged out Judy Rankin of Midland, Tex., and JoAnne Carner of Lake Worth, Fla., on the first hole of the sudden death after the three were tied with 142s after 36 holes of regulation play. The two-day tournament featured the top nine ladies on the LPGA tour.

"I got a little lucky and found my game on the second nine after a shaky start," Blalock said. "My driving was my best feature. Normally I don't drive as well as Judy or JoAnne, but today I was very straight."

Blalock won the contest with a fantastic putt that rolled straight for the cup, but then curled and for a split second hung on the lip before dropping in.

"I didn't think it would fall, but it did," she said. The victory was good for $15,000 first place money, plus an additional $1,000 for stroking the best round of the day.

Rankin and Carner each won $8,750. A stroke of bad luck befell JoAnn Washam of Fort Worth, Tex., who played well until the 18th hole when she missed a 12-foot putt for a bogie and had to settle for third place and $5,000.

Sunday's final round began with Carner and Washam in a two-way duel for the first nine holes. The pair was tied at the turn and Washam actually led the tournament for one hole when Carner bogied the 10th and Washam sank a six-foot putt for a par.

But Washam's lead was short-lived because Carner birdied the 11th, and for the next two holes the pair was neck and neck.

Rankin made it a three-way race when she birdied the 13th. Then Rankin, Washam and Carner stayed even until the 17th. At that time Blalock made her move by sinking a birdie putt on the 17th. Rankin had twice missed easy puts on the 15th and 16th holes, but once she found her game, she played steady golf.

Blalock attributed her success to some helpful hints she picked up Wednesday from Hall of Fame golfer Johnny Revolta, a pro at Mission Hills. She and Revolta played nine holes Wednesday.

"He straightened out a few things that I was doing wrong," she said. "They weren't big things, but they must have been very important because here I am today in the victory chair."

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Your reasoning power is now good. You should be able to handle matters intelligently. An excellent day to sell others on your ideas. Good for Christmas shopping.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Go after data needed to make your operations more efficient in the future. Be alert, wide awake. Keep appointments on time.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Keep busy figuring out ways to increase income and work with a vengeance. A clever businessperson can give you good ideas.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Go after personal aims. Gad about socially and make some new, worthwhile contacts. Avoid places where you could have trouble.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Hit on a better plan for handling obligations and adding to your influence with the public. Follow expert's suggestions.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Enjoy amusements you like with congenials. Attend that social function where you can really shine above the others, like a true Leo.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Conscientiously handle any responsibilities. Have a nice talk with mate for a far better relationship. Listen more understandingly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Put those fine ideas to work that will help you advance considerably. Cultivate new contacts who can be close friends in future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Follow your intuition which is most accurate now and you can be more successful—in whatever you do. Cooperate more with associate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Decide early how you want partnership matters to go and then exchange ideas with associates. Don't be opinionated and all is fine.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Put ideas to work that will help you operate more efficiently and envision the future more clearly. First build up health to do more.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try to perfect your talents and methods so they are more efficient and profitable. Plan more ideal kind of recreation.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are puzzled about how to take care of some home problem. Be objective and you find the right solution. Study new project.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be resourceful, with a knack for doing the right thing when an emergency arises. Siant education along such lines as police work, medicine, law, etc., where this fine talent can be used to fullest advantage and usefulness. However, be sure to teach early to complete what is started, since there is a tendency to turn to other things too often.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

CATS AND RATS Occasionally you hear about somebody who loathes cats-to-the-point-of-repulsion. Such a person can't stand to be in the same room even with a kitten. And the idea of petting such a beast would make said party downright sick. A lady citizen says this is hard to understand. Maybe so. But would it be hard to understand if the animal were a rat? Probably not. Eight out of 10 women and three out of 10 men are violently repelled by those rodents, dead or alive. Their reaction is not unlike the reaction of feline phobia folk to cats.
