

Judge accepts Moore's plea, sets sentencing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sara Jane Moore's hint that she talked to others about assassinating the President could be her key to escaping a life sentence for firing a gun at Gerald Ford.

U.S. District Judge Samuel Conti, who Tuesday accepted Miss Moore's change of plea from innocent to guilty on the assassination charge, told her she might receive "more lenient" treatment if she tells the court about talks she implied she had concerning a presidential killing.

"I am concerned about the defendant's statement about who assisted her in forming the intention," Conti said. "I suggest she give this information to the probation officer so it could assist in mitigation of her sentence."

Miss Moore, 45, a former FBI and Treasury Department informer, could be sentenced to life in prison. Conti set Jan. 15 for sentencing. The U.S. Probation Department will prepare a report before that time.

Miss Moore fired a .38-caliber pistol at Ford as he was exiting from a downtown hotel Sept. 22. Ford was not hit, and Miss Moore was quickly subdued by police.

Conti, prior to deciding whether to accept her change of plea, asked whether anyone else may have been involved in the shooting.

"Not on this particular date (Sept. 22)," she said.

"Did anyone encourage you in this act?"

the judge asked.

"As to this particular time and place, no."

"I'm trying to find out if you acted of your own free will."

"In this particular act of firing a shot at Gerald Ford on Sept. 22, I acted voluntarily and of my own free will."

"Was your intention formed alone?"

"On this particular date, yes."

"What about some other date?"

"I'm not going to answer that."

She said she changed her plea to guilty because she did not want to undergo a trial which would be a "circus."

Miss Moore was also called to the witness stand to describe the day of the attack on the President.

She said she took her son to school, traveled to Danville across San Francisco Bay and picked up a pistol from a gun dealer. She said she had bought it the day before.

She waited outside the St. Francis Hotel until the President appeared. "I took out my gun and fired a shot at him," she said.

Miss Moore has been in and out of mental hospitals during the last 25 years. She acted as an informer on radical groups but fell into disfavor when she told an underground newspaper she had acted as a government agent.

Some friends had said she shot Ford in an attempt to win acceptance by revolutionaries.

Sirica says postal rate hike illegal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The law provides that the Postal Service board of governors file requests for rate increases with the Postal Rate Commission, an independent body set up by Congress to approve rates after considering the public interest.

If the commission fails to act within 90 days, the Postal Service can impose rates temporarily.

Postmaster General Benjamin F. Hallar said the ruling would be appealed because any delay would result in worsening of the Postal Service's $200 million a month deficit.

Suspected Ford plotter pleads to threat count

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Preston Michael Mayo, one of two men charged last September in an aborted plot to assassinate President Ford on the same day Lynette Fromme pointed a gun at him, pleaded guilty Tuesday to a lesser charge of threatening the President.

Mayo, 21, of Warren County, Va., and Gary Steven Desure, 32, of Montana, were indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of conspiracy to assassinate the President during his visit to Sacramento, Calif., Sept. 5.

The indictment claimed Mayo and Desure planned to place explosives in street sewers near the State Capitol, detonate the bombs when Ford walked by and shoot him in the confusion.

Miss Fromme pointed a gun at the President that day as he walked toward the State Capitol, but authorities say there was no apparent connection between the two cases.

The charge of threatening the President carries a five-year prison term, compared to a possible life sentence for conviction of conspiring to kill the President.

U.S. District Judge William P. Gray said

Mayo's sentencing for Jan. 5.

Gray scheduled a hearing Wednesday for Desure, a former mental patient, after studying a psychiatric report on the defendant.

The men allegedly hatched the plot on August 12, one day before arriving at Glacier National Park in Montana, but their plans went awry when they were arrested Aug. 26 in Santa Barbara, Calif., on suspicion of stealing a television set from a hotel.

The plot was uncovered when authorities found incriminating papers in a car they had rented and driven to Hollywood-Burbank Airport in Los Angeles.

In a related case, U.S. District Judge Jesse Curtis agreed to a request by government prosecutors to dismiss a charge of threatening the President pending against Kent Frey.

Frey, 26, allegedly wrote a letter threatening Ford that was found outside his cell in Santa Barbara. Authorities said Frey met Mayo and Desure in the jail and apparently acted on their suggestion that if he wrote the letter he could get out of jail and be placed in a hospital.

Bush target for salvos by Demos

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There are probably enough votes to approve his nomination, but George Bush is finding it hard to convince Democrats on the Senate Armed Services Committee he could keep politics out of the Central Intelligence Agency as its director.

Some of those liberal Democrats told Bush that they would rather have him as a vice presidential nominee—a post Bush would not disavow, although he said he does not want the job and would not seek it.

"When does one who served his party in difficult times build up enough of a record so that you will look at the whole man?" asked Bush, who was Republican party chairman during the Nixon administration.

"I had three years in foreign affairs, four years in Congress and two years of running the party — and many, many years in business. I think that's enough of a record."

A number of senators weren't satisfied. "This is the first time anyone with a partisan political background has been named to head the CIA," said Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

Testifying before the committee, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said: "While there is no need to eliminate from consideration an individual simply because he or she may have held public office, the line must be drawn somewhere. A man of Mr. Bush's prolonged involvement in partisan activities at the highest party level surely passes over that line."

In response, Bush said, "I do share Senator Church's view that the agency must be devoid of partisan politics. I tried to make clear to the committee yesterday, and apparently I did not satisfy Senator Church, that I do have the ability to do so."

Sen. John C. Culver, D-Iowa, who called himself a friend of Bush, said, "The next director must be a builder, not a curator. He cannot project even the appearance of partisan bias."

Gas price bill chilled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill to remove some natural gas price controls to meet a winter shortage may be out in the cold during the busy pre-holiday period in the House.

Sponsors of a bill to lift some of the controls only on an emergency basis failed to successfully Tuesday against allowing amendments to be brought up on the House floor. The House Rules Committee voted to allow two amendments to be proposed, one for long-term lifting of federal price controls on natural gas and the other for a seven-year "experiment" in certain sales outside the price controls.

As a result, sources among the House leadership said it was unlikely the bill would be considered by the House before the holiday recess starts Friday.

The Senate has passed a bill allowing emergency exemptions along with long-term price deregulations but House liberals wanted a bill that would deal only with the immediate future and Federal Energy Administration predictions of a severe shortage this winter that could result in factories closing and throwing as many as 500,000 people out of work.

The Senate was bogged down Tuesday in a squabble and mini-filibuster against the comprehensive energy bill. The bill, approved Monday night by the House, includes price controls on oil, conservation guidelines for a long list of energy uses and emergency gasoline rationing authority.

The House made two relatively minor changes to the House-Senate conference committee's version of the bill and therein lay the Senate's trouble.

Republicans contended, as Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, put it, "The House bamboozled the Senate" by amending the bill in a way that did not allow further Senate amendments.

Republicans blocked attempts to limit debate on the bill, prompting charges of filibuster. But before the Senate quit for the night, Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said he and fellow opponents of limited debate would work out something that could lead to a final Senate vote later today.

New United meet called

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal mediators have scheduled a meeting Friday between negotiators for United Airlines and its striking machinists in order to "take another reading."

Talks between the company and the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, AFL-CIO, representing 16,700 workers, broke off last week in an apparent stalemate over the issues of pay, pensions and part-time employment.

The IAWA writer represents food and ramp service workers, flight dispatchers and mechanics, began its strike Dec. 5. The airline has since laid off another 13,000 workers and canceled flights through Christmas Eve.

No slump in Valley

Magic Valley's economy seems to be escaping the national economic slump nicely.

According to State Commission figures, third quarter taxable sales in Magic Valley grew to $83.5 million. This is an increase of 9.1 per cent over the same period a year ago.

Sales grew faster than inflation, which rose 7.8 per cent during the same period.

The bright spots were the booming Jerome County, the steadily growing Cassia County and Twin Falls County.

Blaine County showed some growth, but not as much as the rest.

Camas, Gooding, Lincoln and Minidoka counties experienced lower growth rates which probably mean a net loss of sales after adjusting for inflation.

Several trends are interesting. The larger cities are increasingly getting a larger share of the business. Jerome and Burley and Twin Falls did best.

And when the Valley is considered from a regional standpoint, both the North Valley and Mini-Cassia areas saw sales growing at a slower pace than urban Twin Falls County.

Still, it is encouraging that the variations are slight, and that the overall picture is for continued steady growth in the Valley.

The common wisdom may be correct. We may not be the richest place in the country, but we are relatively recession-proof.

Weakness missed by Watergate

A nagging question about the revelations pouring from the Senate Intelligence Committee about FBI excesses over the past 25 years is why all this didn't come out during the Watergate investigations.

Congressional committees looking into Watergate could have discovered those excesses of other administrations. Certainly, there were rumors enough about them.

The allegation that presidents and attorneys general back to Franklin Roosevelt used the FBI for political purposes...

The allegation that presidents and attorneys general back to Franklin Roosevelt used the FBI for political purposes...

We are not suggesting that Mr. Nixon should not have been ousted from office. There was more than enough evidence of his unfitness...

One skeleton getting a belated calling is the FBI's shabby and shocking pursuit of Martin Luther King, Jr. Although this has been revealed to warrant a full inquiry...

The larger question is: Where will all of this probing and exposing leads? Bresting and agonizing don't accomplish much by themselves.

That hope that a great many Democratic skeletons are being rattled was dashed there will be a distinct slackening of enthusiasm on Capitol Hill...

Here a note of caution: December polls; seven or eight months before the nominating conventions and almost a year before the final voting...

In December of 1962, the favored choice of Republican voters in the Gallup poll was Nixon, but the Republican, then, as now in a conservative mood...

Similarly, in December of 1952, while Nixon held a long lead among Republican voters...

Nevertheless, this political capitol follows these popularity polls the way the rest of the country watches the pro football odds...

It is likely to have some influence too on some of the other candidates, who are not leading the country so much as they are trying to follow the mood of the country...

Two contradictory estimates of this mood are now being debated here. The first is that the voters are disappointed by many of the results...

Letters Questions about motives

Kissinger's delicate might start to look good in comparison.

We don't need more professional politicians leading our country, but rather down-to-earth Americans with enough heart to have true empathy with this great nation and the Godly things it once stood for.

One big labor reach the point where it does more harm than good. The answer is quite obvious. Why should the big labor unions strike so hard to wrangle the "goose that lays the golden egg?"

There are times when the motives of all of us are subject to question. But surely in these times of turmoil and tribulation, the motives of our politicians and others in high places should be the most questionable of all.

ROGER BRINSON Twin Falls

Editor, Times-News: In regard to your informative editorial Dec. 3 about Senator Church voting for the Common Status Bill on behalf of big labor interests...

When a politician votes in the interest of organized labor, it is in the interest of the public. It could mean that he either owes big labor something or he expects to receive something from them.

How about the campaign slogan - 'Frank Church for Idaho'?

Senator Church once said that he didn't expect his position as chief investigator of our intelligence agencies to be a springboard to the presidency.

There are so many couples that cannot bear children and want to adopt. But are told there are no infants to adopt. Why these cases of child abuse can't be resolved court enough to save the child, I don't understand the laws, courts or judges!

Grateful for greetings

My heart is full of gratitude and thanks to the dear people who have sent me greetings and wishes with well wishes since my photo and write-up appeared in the Times-News.

Especially do I say a hearty "Thank you" and "God bless you" to "Well Wisher," from Murch. Laugh, God still has his way with you, all is right with the world, even though some of the world's inhabitants are "playing pretty rough."

We must not falter in our faith and remember. God does answer prayer. I know, for he has,

To be a parent is the most rewarding job on earth. To see your children saying their prayers, jump into bed - safe, healthy, happy, content. You can go to sleep at night safe and content.

Don't the Penns have any conscience at all? I feel they are sure to they would realize they need help and reach out for it. I just feel so sorry for those little girls and all other children who have to grow up - if they're lucky - in that atmosphere of being scared.

God give all these poor children strength and us strength to get the laws changed. Take these kids away and put the parents in jail. Harsh? Yes, so is a 10-month-old baby dying.

I don't always agree with your articles but keep up your good work.

MRS LANOMA BLOM Jerome

My prayers. He has said in his precious book the Holy Bible...

Again, many, many thanks to dear "Well Wisher." May God bless you richly, you planted the seed of faith and it will be returned to you a hundred fold. And thanks and God bless the ones who have sent greetings.

Hoover monument fitting

WASHINGTON - Obviously, the late J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI was not a nice man.

There were some loudmouthed men in that grimy, hure, figure. He bugged private citizens for political purposes at the behest of six presidents, and he did his best privately to smear people he didn't like by leaking dossier stuff to friendly politicians and media people.

It can be argued that Hoover should have refused to obey those surveillance orders from Presidents Roosevelt H. Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon...

The American people have been disillusioned many times, but I believe we still desire of our heroes both rectitude and guts. In knocking down to presidents who ordered him to conduct immoral and probably illegal surveillances, Hoover showed a streak of cowardice.

All of which brings us down to the petty controversy over whether Hoover's name should be removed from that new architectural obscenity on Pennsylvania Avenue which houses FBI headquarters.

God's proposal has political aspects, of course, but I find it mostly tiresome, irrational and capricious. It reminds me, in reverse English, of the mad rush to name things after John Kennedy following his assassination and, later, after brother Bobby.

God is judging only one side of the man named J. Edgar Hoover - the bulky and lithe who took a casual view of the law when it suited his personal purposes.

I much prefer the view of Atty. Gen. Edward Levi, not the type of man who would have socialized with Hoover...

God's campaign is the kind of play-made order for the many unthinking and hysterical Hoover haters, and I think Gude knows it because he tends to play to the gaudy liberal crowd.

Park boundary expansion concerns Wyoming F&G

CHEYENNE (UPI) — Proposals to expand the boundary of Grand Teton National Park have wildlife experts at the Wyoming Game and Fish Department concerned about the impact on the area's elk herd, an official said Tuesday.

Earl Thomäs, assistant superintendent, said the game and fish commission will be asked at its January meeting to comment on the boundary study proposal of the National Park Service.

"The major concern will be any boundary extension of Grand Teton National Park which affects or interferes with the presently very difficult management of elk that go from Yellowstone Park to the federal elk refuge and anything that would remove from our capability the hunting of those elk and the reduction of that herd," he said.

Thomäs pointed out although elk may be in the park, management of the herd is in charge of the state game and fish commission. Hunting is currently permitted under a special permit program at Grand Teton, but park planners hope someday to eliminate all hunting.

A real management headache could be created someday with a growing elk herd if the boundary is expanded and hunting eliminated, he said.

Yellowstone National Park, to the north of Grand Teton and where sport hunting is banned, has had problems controlling the size of its herd. During the past 25 years, park rangers have killed hundreds of elk in so-called "direct reduction" programs, the last a controversial one in 1967.

Thomäs said the commission has been asked to comment on the plan and documents are being studied by the staff for presentation to the commission. An official position will probably be drafted at the meeting, he said.

Since several alternative boundary changes are being studied, he said, it is difficult because for the department to determine the extent of the impact on the herd in northwest Wyoming, the largest in the United States.

The park service has already held a series of meetings in the Jackson area on the plan. Monday is the deadline for public comment on the study and park staff plans to submit their recommendations to the Interior Department by April.

Congressional action will be required before the park service could purchase private lands or otherwise proceed with a change in the boundary. Most of the study areas are on the east and southern boundaries of the park.

Aide says Gem lacks farm plan

BOISE (UPI) — A University of Idaho director of agriculture research believes plans for energy, water and land use without the development of agriculture planning are putting the cart before the horse.

"Idaho has an energy plan, a land-use plan and a water plan but it lacks a plan for agriculture," said Dr. Raymond Miller, Moscow, director of research at the University of Idaho's College of Agriculture.

He told Idaho news commissions since Idaho's economy is largely based on agriculture, a long-range comprehensive plan for that industry would appear to be the "fundamental step" in developing plans for future energy, land and water needs in Idaho.

"We've apparently got the cart before the horse," Miller said. He blamed the situation on agriculture's failure to recognize the need for such a plan.

"Agriculture is over-subsidized, the largest use of energy, water and land," he said. "Yet the industry allows such planning without any determination of what agriculture's future needs will be."

The research director said the development of short-term and long-term plans will be an arduous task and will require a concerted effort by all segments of the industry.

"Agriculture has got to start working together. The problems facing the industry are, by and large, common to any and all commodities."

Noting the yields on many Idaho crops have reached plateaus or are declining, Miller said research is needed to develop new strains and varieties and cultural techniques which will keep Idaho farmers competitive.

He said some 30 per cent of Idaho crop yields are lost to insects, weeds and diseases.

Miller challenged the bean industry to determine its short and long-term needs and agreed to put his staff to work on developing suggestions for specific bean programs.

Boise raid brings arrest

BOISE (UPI) — Two Boise residents were arrested and charged with delivery of a controlled substance after a raid on a home in the Highland subdivision and confiscation of 18 pounds of marijuana.

Idaho Department of Law Enforcement Narcotics officers Monday evening arrested Joseph West, 19, of 514 East Highland, and C. Jackson Ramsey, 22, of 564 Sierra Drive, at her home. The value of the narcotics confiscated was estimated at more than $4,000.

She was released on her own recognizance. He posted $1,000 bond.

Idaho group asks clarification of '72 water act

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Food Producers Association is asking for clarification of the 1972 water act giving jurisdiction to the Corps of Engineers and to impose a tougher penalty on the theft of rural highway signs.

The members of the association at their annual meeting Monday voted to ask congress to straighten out what power the Corps of Engineers is to have over navigable domestic waters.

The association feels recent court decisions have expanded the jurisdiction beyond that intended by Congress.

They passed a resolution asking that the removal of highway signs from rural roads be changed from a misdemeanor to a felony. They said vandals take the signs and install them before they can be replaced.

In addition, the association voted to oppose pending federal legislation to pay 2.5 times normal wages in all work over 40 hours in any week.

The group wants an increase to $200,000 from $50,000 for estate tax exemptions to protect the small farm owner. Members said inflation has raised the value of land so much that families cannot afford to pay taxes and so lose their family farms if property owners die.

They also passed a proposal urging the state to create a large animal forage research center on the farm lands of the Idaho State School and Hospital in Nampa.

"The Department of Health and Welfare would continue to operate and maintain the school for mentally handicapped persons, and the university would operate the research center."

"The association noted the arrangement would maintain the school in its present pastoral setting yet get the educational out of the farming business. It also would provide an alternative to selling the land for residential or industrial development."

Church renews appeal for stamp

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church said Tuesday he renewed his appeal to postal officials this week for a commemorative stamp depicting a scene from Idaho's Hell's Canyon.

Church also asked interested Idahoans to support his efforts by contacting the Citizens Stamp Advisory Committee of the U.S. Postal Service, in Washington, D.C., urging approval of the project.

"The best way to direct attention toward a worthy stamp request is to provide an indication of broad interest and support," Church said in a letter to Idaho Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

"Letters to the Postal Service from Idahoans and Oregonians from organizations and officials and from the members of the respective delegations would serve to emphasize the interest and support for this request."

Church wrote Postmaster General Benjamin F. Ballar that "the recent creation by Congress of the Hell's Canyon National Recreation Area has sparked renewed interest in the matter and the enactment of that law seems like an appropriate time to reconsider a commemorative stamp."

He noted Idaho has had only one commemorative stamp — one in 1940 in honor of 50 years of statehood.

McClure backs reform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James McClure is advocating a reform of regulatory restraints placed on American society by the federal government.

McClure said there is an ever-growing concern among citizens over a freedom from government.

"Scarcely a day passes when a constituent fails to beg for help in fighting some regulation or other. The usual complaint is not that the regulations are confusing nuisances — which many of them are — but that they threaten the very livelihood of the citizen himself."

"Ironically, the very legislators who claim the most sensitivity to those who call themselves alienated — who say that their government is unresponsive to their needs — continue to plan ways to saddle them with more of it."

McClure said under the population system "we are not only subjected to the whims and caprices of unelected bureaucrats, we are actually put in jeopardy because of the difficulty in reading, interpreting and applying the rules which have the force of law."

Consumer power eyed

BOISE (UPI) — Deputy Idaho Attorney General Rudy Barchas said Tuesday consumers are banding together to exert "a significant force in the market place."

Barchas said in the last couple of years people have become aware of their rights and "we no longer have the theory of buyer beware."

He noted that the business community is recognizing its responsibility in protecting the public it serves. He said there used to be some reluctance on the part of some businessmen to accept the consumer protection laws.

The fact is that these laws protect the honest businessman and those laws help the honest businessman from unfair competition, Barchas said.

University teachers back bargaining bill

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — University of Idaho teachers voted Tuesday to support passage of legislation enabling higher education faculty in the state to bargain collectively.

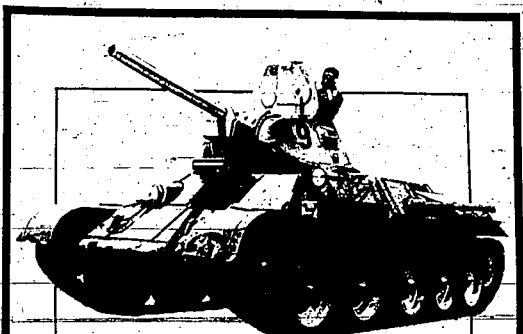

But "faculty" members stressed that the vote was not necessarily in support of collective bargaining, but rather aimed at giving teachers a chance to vote on the issue.

Drafting of a collective bargaining bill is up to the Council of Higher Education Faculties, but Bill Roden, the council's legislative consultant, said he would not act until faculty at all of the state's four-year institutions pass resolutions supporting his effort.

Roden said only the University of Idaho and Idaho State University have taken such action. He said he is unaware of any action taken at Boise State University and Lewis-Clark State College.

The University of Idaho faculty resolution is the outgrowth of an earlier report that the school's teachers might well benefit from collective bargaining.

New alarm foiled

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI) — A security company that thought a bomb would make the perfect burglar alarm may have to find another way to scare would-be thieves.

Police, a bomb squad and federal agents were called to a construction company Tuesday after roofers working in the area discovered a dynamite bomb near the top of the structure.

The dynamite was attached to a 9-foot battery, a series of wires and a tripping device. It was detonated safely and no one was injured.

Police said they were later told the security company contracted to protect the building had authorized placement of the bomb to thwart would-be burglars. There have been several recent robberies in the area.

Gleason to altar

CLOSING HER eyes, the former Marilyn Horwitz displays her wedding ring as she receives a kiss from her new husband, actor and comedian Eagle Gleason, they were united in an exclusive North Miami, Fla., club Tuesday. It is Gleason's third marriage, the bride's second. (UPI)

Arrested

SEATTLE (UPI) — Veteran actor—Bob Cummings—was arrested Tuesday on charges of using an electronic gadget to cheat the telephone company of at least $4,500 in long distance charges.

Cummings, 66, was released on his personal recognizance after a brief court appearance and was freed from jail after playing the lead role in the current play "No Hard Feelings."

Police said the actor was booked after officers went to his apartment with a search warrant and found a "blue box."

Robber shoots body shop workers

MAHERO, Ill. (UPI) — A gunman robbed two employees of a body and fender shop Tuesday, ordered them to sit down and then shot each of them in the stomach.

"The robber first entered the business, Marrero Motors, and asked for work. He was told there was no work," said Jefferson Parish sheriff's department spokesman Bob Lindsey. "He left and returned with a pistol."

"He forced the two workers to give up their wallets. And after he had taken everything of value from them, he sat them down and shot them point-blank in the stomach."

The victims, Jake Michel, 45, and Nessim St. Pierre, 61, were hospitalized in full gunshot wounds to the stomach. They underwent surgery and were expected to survive.

Sheriff's deputies said the gunman escaped on foot.

"Only a small amount of money was taken," Lindsey said.

Lauds plan

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock says the nation's social security system is a model of administrative efficiency.

Woodcock, 63, said in a speech at an American Public Welfare Association conference Tuesday.

"Social Security is one of the truly successful and popular government programs," Woodcock said in a speech at an American Public Welfare Association conference Tuesday.

Spmachine gun barrage kills cow

MILAN, Italy (UPI) — Policemen used a submachine gun barrage Tuesday to kill a runaway cow. Stray slugs from the fusillade wounded a passerby.

Police opened fire at the cow when it broke out of a slaughterhouse and dashed through the streets.

A burst of the same gunfire hit Bruno Rigotti, 43, in the side.

Agents arrest ex-janitor in theft

CLEVELAND (UPI) — FBI agents arrested Gerald Ramsey, Jr. 27, Tuesday on a charge of stealing $12,000 in quarters from the Federal Reserve Bank in Cleveland.

Ramsey, formerly employed at the bank as a janitor, could get a maximum five years in prison plus a $5,000 fine if convicted.

Inquiring

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., has asked the Ohio Secretary of State's office about procedures for running as a Republican presidential candidate in the Ohio primary election June 3 or an independent candidate in the general election Nov. 2.

The inquiry, however, was only part of an information-gathering process, said Mathias press aide Alan Dessiff.

Vicar, housekeeper face charges

PLYMOUTH, England (UPI) — The Rev. Stephen Care and his housekeeper have been charged with robbing a bank by threatening to blow it up.

Police said Care, 32, and his housekeeper, Stella Bunting, 59, asked to see the bank manager on the pretext of discussing a bank account. Once inside, the man pulled out what he said was a radio control device, with which he threatened to blow up the bank. The robbers escaped with $1,500.

A barmaid at a pub near St. Chad's church, where Care is the Anglican vicar, said he was known as "The Penguin" because of his white cassock he wore.

The strike closed 826 government-run schools, a spokesman for the high school teachers' association said.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UPI) — President Ford will unveil a new statue of Harry Truman, his favorite chief executive, next spring.

Ford, who has ordered the White House office with a bust of the former President, will unveil the new statue May 8 at the Truman Library, a city spokesman said.

The ceremony will coincide with Truman's birthday.

Angered women inmates wreck California prison

FRONTIER, Calif. (UPI) — Inmates angered by the cancellation of guest privileges at an upcoming Christmas party stormed through California's only women's prison Tuesday night, screaming, setting fires and breaking windows throughout the campus-like grounds.

"At one point in the disturbance about 300 of 750 women we have here were actively involved," Dick Guzzard, spokesman for Superintendent Brook Carey of the California Institute for Women, said.

The rioting began when a group of 200 women marched from their housing units in the administration building to protest the announcement that outside guests would not be allowed at Christmas parties this weekend.

"They were told the decision would not be changed. From there they began to mill about," Guzzard said, "and then they started setting fires."

"They set a clinic on fire, and they may have been going for medication, we don't know yet. They also broke into the kitchen and set the drapes on fire, causing extensive damage."

He said the women also broke windows throughout the facility and tried to burn or destroy some of the furniture.

A short time later officials ordered the inmates to return to their quarters, and guards from the women's facility and two neighboring men's institutions fired three warning shots into the air.

"With that the women moved back to their units," Guzzard said.

There were no major injuries in the rioting, and no other shots were fired. Earlier reports that someone had suffered a heart attack and that the inmates were holding hostages were incorrect, officials said.

Several Manson Family members are housed at the prison, but Guzzard said they were not in the units involved in the disturbance.

Quartet cleared in probe

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit News, the nation's largest circulation afternoon newspaper, devoted much of its front page Tuesday to a story about a Detroit quartet of men charged with the murder of a woman.

The banner headline read: "Bikers cleared of murder."

Behind that headline was another story of a newspaper's tenacious, costly search for justice.

The story, as far as the News was concerned, began 14 months ago when a woman wrote a letter to the newspaper.

She said her boy friend and three other men had been framed in a murder trial in Albuquerque, N.M., and were sentenced to die in the gas chamber.

The woman, Rose M. Bucca, said the four men, three of them former residents of the Detroit area, were members of a California motorcycle club and were victims of authorities who disliked their life style.

The letter was forwarded to now retired Managing Editor Boyd Simmons and he, along with two reporters, launched one of the most intensive investigations in U.S. journalistic history.

Before it finished its investigation, the News had published more than 100 stories, and sent reporters to New Mexico and elsewhere for weeks at a time.

Its first story was published Dec. 8, 1974, and by the time it published its banner headline Tuesday, the News had discredited almost all of the state's evidence.

The newspaper's vindication came when an Albuquerque district judge, Philip Baimonte, dismissed the original murder indictment.

Woodsman, family quarry in Ozarks

SHELBYVILLE, Mo. (UPI) — Authorities think an experienced woodsman and his family, wanted for a grocery holdup, are hidden in the rugged Ozark hills, living off the land and supplementing their food supply with occasional robberies.

James Hatfield, 43, his son, daughter and two grand-children have eluded officers for two months.

"I think they're in there and I think we're going to find them," Taney County Sheriff C.L. Kethley said Tuesday. "But they're smart. They know the hills and the area and they've had experience on this kind of land."

"We think they may be living off game, or maybe they've got some food from the grocery store robbery or other robberies that have occurred recently in this area," Kethley said. "The Hatfields would not surrender quietly."

Baby-mart study set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Children's Bureau has begun a study of black market babies and other adoption abuses in five cities.

"The selling of babies is barbaric and the need to eliminate such activities is urgent," said adoption specialist Ursula Gallagher in a report explaining the study.

She cited press and congressional reports that infants have been bought and sold for fees in the 100,000 recent years. She recalled that Senate hearings in the 1950s and 1960s disclosed abuses including placement of children for high fees without consent of the biological mother, qualifications of the would-be parents or the safety and welfare of the child.

"It appears that history is repeating itself, probably in view of the imbalance between supply and demand of babies," her report said.

The report, in the new issue of Children Today, a publication of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said the cities were chosen for the study because of large volumes of adoptions: New York, Philadelphia, Miami, Los Angeles and Des Moines, Iowa.

150 prospective juror names picked in Minico

RUPERT — Names of 150 prospective jurors were drawn Friday at the Mindoka County judicial building, the first for 1976.

County Clerk August Bethke said he expects to need about 55 jurors for the Fifth District Court and another 25 for magistrate court from that group.

The normal attrition of people away at school or disqualified for some other reason will eliminate the remaining 70, Bethke estimated.

Names were drawn by Mindoka County Deputy Sheriff Ray Jarvis under Bethke's supervision. One man appeared to watch the proceedings as Jarvis pulled names from the wheel.

Bethke could not release the names drawn because state law now provides they can be disclosed only by "specific order of the administrative judge."

A computerized listing of all driver's licenses was provided by the Idaho Supreme Court. It was matched against the voter registrations in the county to eliminate duplication of names.

Bethke said there are about 8,000 registered voters. The driver's license comparisons and another 3,000 for a total of about 11,000 names from which to draw juror prospects.

Bethke said a number is drawn to determine where on the list the selections will start. Seven was drawn this time, making the first name to go in the master jury wheel the seventh in alphabetical order.

Bethke said about 1,200 names are needed over the year out of the 11,000 on the master list. Every ninth name is typed up and placed in the wheel.

The names are emptied from the wheel each December and refilled for the new year.

CHARLES BOHLEN

Rupert native honored

RUPERT — Charles H. Bohlen, a former Rupert resident and graduate of Mindoka County High School, has been named an Outstanding Educator of America in the 1975 national awards volume.

Bohlen, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bohlen, Rupert, is instructor of biology at East Central Junior College, a midwest community college near Union, Mo.

Bohlen attended Magic Valley Christian College in Albion, then transferred to Oklahoma Christian College at Oklahoma City, Okla., where he graduated in 1965 with a bachelor of science degree in education.

He returned to Mindoka County to teach biology and earth science a year before entering the University of Oklahoma, Norman, where he received a master's degree in natural science and biology in 1968.

Choppers look for choppers

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — The Nevada Division of Forestry is using helicopters and ground patrols to look for thieves taking Christmas trees without permits.

A spokesman said theft of Christmas trees from public lands is a nationwide problem, but the problem is most serious in the west. A forester estimated 50 trees a day are taken from woods near Reno.

Authorities reluctant to dig for Hoffa's body

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Authorities investigating the disappearance of former Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa appeared reluctant Tuesday to begin digging for a body without a specific location of an abandoned Jersey City dump.

The FBI said it has not done any digging at the site, located under the Pulaski Skyway and would not comment on whether plans were being made to dig.

Officially, the FBI would not comment even though federal authorities have obtained a search warrant to look for Armand Faugno, a reputed loan shark missing for three years and believed buried somewhere on the 47-acre site.

Some federal officials have indicated they also expected to find Hoffa's body buried in the dump.

It has been two weeks since the government obtained the warrant, which expires next Monday. But one law enforcement official, who declined to be identified, said federal authorities have not abandoned plans to search the area where an informant claims a body is buried in connection with the Hoffa case.

"We're not going to give up just because the dump is so big," the official said.

Last week, authorities said an informant had pinpointed a 10-acre area where he said a body was buried. But officials said, it would still be a monumental task to dig up the area.

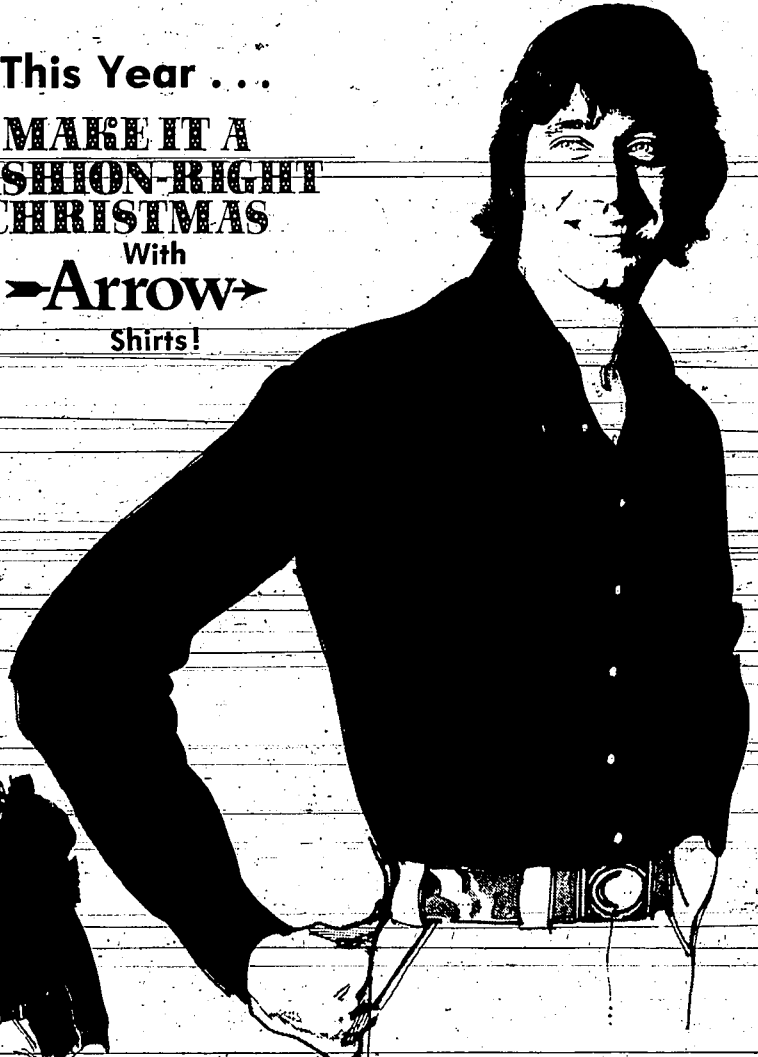

An affidavit filed in federal court in Newark said agents had surveyed the sprawling, industrialized area and were procuring excavating equipment.

On Monday, Richard Gregory, an attorney with the Newark Organized Crime Strike Force and three FBI agents spent an hour with a U.S. Magistrate in connection with the Hoffa investigation. Those proceedings were sealed.

Reporter recalls junior high days

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News writer

Junior high was a place for acne and awkwardness. I wore braces and bobby socks for most of my junior high career, until the braces finally came off and my best friend told me confidentially that bobby socks were "queer."

My social life was limited to "messaging around with the girls." Every afternoon we faithfully watched Lloyd Thaxton to see what the kids from California were doing, while drinking Diet-fite and eating potato chips.

On Saturday nights I endured the pain of social dancing lessons with Miss Stephanie and her slimy-looking beau. There were three boys to each girl and I spent most of the lesson writing my sweaty palms together on the sidelines.

The popular kids hung around in a big group looking popular and the girls wore stockings (my mother wouldn't let me). There were rumors, occasionally, of a big makeout party, but I wasn't sure I really believed it.

I desperately wanted a boyfriend so I could trade daggers (my daggers were the rage. I don't know) but the only guy who liked me was named Donnie Shore and he was a creep. I responded to his attention by kicking him in the shins.

That was ten (long) years ago and I look back now on my junior-high years—with a mixture of amazement and relief.

Kids today, even the ones that end up doing science projects and starring on the drill team, are playing in a whole different ballgame. I had never heard of marijuana, believed beer was for dad and football games, and thought kissing a boy sounded horrible. I didn't even think beyond kissing.

It was easy for me, though. Nobody around me was drinking a lot or offering me a joint, and I got nowhere near kissing or anything else.

Now most kids—hear somebody talking about big weekend drunks and run into somebody smoking pot or at least know it's around. And in Junior high in Twin Falls, pregnant girls aren't that much of a surprise.

One of my most horrifying memories of my first months in Twin Falls centers around a conversation with a public health nurse. She was telling me about VD and specifically about a patient the health clinic had recently treated.

The patient was a little 12-year-old girl and by the time she got to the clinic, she had gonorrhea so badly that she would be sterile for the rest of her life.

The nurse patiently went on to explain that no, there was no regular educational effort in the schools to talk about VD.

If I were in junior high now, I would hope somebody a little older and wiser (and not just my older sister) would be around to help me over some of the hurdles.

Ten years ago I had several years head start before I ever reached those hurdles.

Not "fur" to go

Jr. high drug use discussed in TF

However, Tim Prince, supervisor of youth services for the Department of Health and Welfare in Twin Falls, feels—drugs are a serious problem here and becoming worse.

He says his case workers see "plenty" of drug involvement and "it's getting worse." "I'm seeing more . . . heavy, heroin type involvement," he said.

A couple of years ago Prince said he wasn't seeing any heroin cases. "Now they're popping up . . . with people who are dependent on either pills or heroin."

"I think the problem is worse than the town realizes," he said. "We're all apparently falling somehow."

The "people on the line, the police, the courts, we (HAW) know it's there," he said.

Gene Ritchie of the Twin Falls Police Department seemed to feel drugs were a worse problem than drinking for youths.

Penalties for drug use are more severe, the drugs cost more money, which often causes involvement in other crimes such as shoplifting and burglaries and besides, Ritchie said, "I have no use for drugs."

But apparently some of the town's junior high students do. One ninth grade girl commented, "It isn't much liquor anymore, it's drugs."

Drugs are the biggest thing in Twin Falls.

Autumn harvest

CALENDAR reading December is no deterrent to Alex Johnson, Carlyle, Ill., who was harvesting clover in 60 degree temperatures Monday. Harvesting of that crop usually ends in September, but mixed-up seasons have allowed growth to continue through the autumn. (UPI)

Vinyl chloride exposure reduction sought by EPA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency Tuesday proposed regulations to cut by 90 per cent the amount of cancer-causing vinyl chloride gas to which 4.6 million people are exposed in factory areas.

The agency said there was a public health risk in the current exposure level and the new rules will reduce the up to 20 cases of cancer which occur every year due to exposure to vinyl chloride — a raw material of the plastic industry.

The Society of the Plastics Industry said it does not believe there is any current risk to the health of individuals residing in the proximity of the plants. But it said, the producers of the chemical "agree that rigorous emission controls are in the public interest."

The EPA also said that four plants employing a total of 30 people have indicated they will close rather than make the necessary changes and that a fifth plant has already indicated it will close next March because it cannot meet labor department rules to reduce the exposure to factory workers.

EPA Administrator Russell E. Train said the cost to plants which produce vinyl chloride, ethylene, dichloride and polyvinyl chloride will total $100 million, with an additional $70 million being required each year to keep up the control.

The plants also will be required to reduce the amount of vinyl chloride in water discharged, at an added estimated cost of $83 million.

Train said the cost will filter down to the consumer in the form of a 2.5 per cent hike in the prices of consumer goods made from PVC.

The widest use for the plastic material is in plumbing pipes and conduits. The second largest use is for wire and cables in electrical systems, and the third most common use is for flooring although the material winds up in everything from garden hose to clothing.

Under the proposal, which could go into effect sometimes during 1976, the 58 existing plants and any new ones will have to reduce their internal and external discharge of vinyl chloride in such a way that concentration in the surrounding air would be reduced by 90 per cent in a five-mile radius of such facories where the Agency estimated that 4.6 million persons live.

The four plants which may have to close were listed as the Occidental Petroleum Corp., Hicksville, New York, and three plants of the Jonat Corp. in Torrance, Calif., Tucker, Georgia, and Somerset, New Jersey. In addition one EPA official said the Uniroyal Inc. plant in Palmsville, Ohio has already announced it will close on March 31 because it cannot meet Labor Department's standards.

Valley residents welcome home Miss Rodeo America

BY LINDALEE Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — It was like a scene from a movie when Miss Rodeo America came home Tuesday.

The high school band, the bouquet of red roses, the welcome home banners, the cowboy boot heels clicking on the floor, all surging toward Betty Schnell as she entered the airport with two chaperones at each arm.

"I just didn't expect all this," Betty said, with a huge smile on her face. "I've been up since 3:30 this morning. I was so excited about coming home."

And the local people were excited with her. Cameras were flashing away as Betty's family welcomed her home.

The Filer High School Band played "Here We Have Idaho" as Betty in red suit, red gloves and red hat received flowers and embraces. At least a hundred people were there, each jostling for a look at the new Miss Rodeo America.

Betty was crowned two weeks ago in Oklahoma City, the fourth Miss Rodeo America from Idaho in the last fifteen years. Everyone who knows her agrees that this small dark haired cowgirl definitely has the charm and beauty to handle the honor she has given.

She topped the personality and appearance competitions and scored high in horsemanship to win over 42 other contestants from the United States and Canada.

Her first appearance as Miss Rodeo America was in Oklahoma City at the National Finals Rodeo.

Betty said she will only have a short visit home. Right after Christmas, she is expected in Denver for the National Western Stock Show for western wear clothing markets and a rodeo.

"I will be booked for as many Professional Rodeo Cowboy Association events as possible, on a first come first served basis," Betty said. She said last year's Miss Rodeo America was home only 70 days in the year, and this year will be busier than last year because of the Bicentennial.

At the Twin Falls Airport, Betty was presented with roses from the Twin Falls county commissioners and the Fair Board. A key to the city of Filer from Mayor Paul Shover and flowers from the Filer High School Rodeo Club, and Thomas Creek area where her family ranches were at the airport to greet her. Betty participated in Rodeo Club and was a cheerleader.

Her parents, Ralph and Hazel Schnell, her sister and brother-in-law Janie and Shane Morton, and many families from the Rogerson and Thomas Creek areas where her family ranches were at the airport to greet her. They felt like a "real cowgirl" had won.

Some people who attended the contest felt the horses given to the contestants to ride were too wild, even for cowgirls, but Betty disagrees. She said she felt real bad about Miss Rodeo Colorado who fell off her horse and broke her fifth vertebrae. "She was a good horsewoman and would have been a tough competitor," Betty said.

No decision made on MVAG funding for coming year

BY CHARLOTTE BELL Times-News Writer

JEROME — Magic Valley county commissioners have once again failed to reach a definite decision on whether to continue funding the Magic Valley Association of Governments. A motion by John LeMoigne, Gooding County commissioner, to withdraw support of the MVAG on Jan. 1, 1976, was seconded and then tabled at Tuesday's MVAG meeting in Jerome.

The motion was tabled after commissioners realized they did not know what would happen if MVAG was dissolved.

If dissolving MVAG would require commissioners — to reinstate the South Idaho Resource Planning and Development Agency, and the Wood River Resource Association in the MVAG on Jan. 1, 1976, was seconded and then tabled at Tuesday's MVAG meeting in Jerome.

The motion was tabled after commissioners realized they did not know what would happen if MVAG was dissolved.

Levi Barton, Minidoka County commissioner, spoke favoring the MVAG, noting his county had received help from MVAG on its comprehensive plan. He said there was no place else the county could go to get planning help for a small cost.

Barton recommended MVAG be funded for another year, saying "if the thing don't work for another year, toss her in the creek."

A chorus of "that's what we said last year" rang out from the county commissioners when Barton made his statement.

Van Orman said part of the MVAG problems are due to the commissioners not specifying exactly what they wanted from the MVAG.

"The MVAG is supposed to be helping the local governments do their local planning," Minidoka County is the only concrete evidence we have that this has been done," Van Orman said.

Both Gooding and Twin Falls counties have not received any help from the MVAG with their plans which could not have been obtained from the Soil Conservation Service.

Merl Leonard, Twin Falls County commissioner, said he took a poll of mayors in his area and the poll showed a definite lack of faith in the MVAG since none of the cities have received any help and all grants obtained have been received without help from MVAG.

Hospital revenue may fund building

BY BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Memorial Hospital revenue could probably support about a $2.6 million Phase III construction project without a general obligation bond issue, hospital auditor G. W. Tonkin said Monday.

Tonkin presented a brief report to hospital board members on the financial feasibility of the proposed third phase hospital expansion. In view of two bond issue failures in the $5 million range, he was asked by the board to review financial feasibility of undertaking the expansion by other means than a general obligation bond.

Tonkin told the board if funds are borrowed, interest rates would cost the hospital nearly as much as construction and therefore would be out of reason.

Based on present hospital rates with a reasonable increase, Tonkin said revenue through 1980 could support about a $2.6 million improvement program, but could not meet the estimated cost of the total Phase III program presently in the $6 million range. The $2.6 million proposal would be financed through loans under the Health Facilities Authority financing program rather than a bond issue.

County Commissioner William Chancey said he felt the $2.6 million improvement program would be much more acceptable to taxpayers. Administrator James Rosenbaum said hospital improvement will have to come in smaller packages and cover a longer period without general obligation bonds.

He said with the changing requirements for hospitals it's possible a $10 million building program could be outmoded in another 10 to 20 years.

Rosenbaum reported rate figures now listed by other hospitals around the county show a California Hospital now charging $174 per day for semi-private rooms and $38 for intensive care unit services per day.

He said Magic Valley Memorial is attempting to keep rates as low as possible and cannot price the residents of the area out of medical services.

Rupert benefit set

BY SHANE O'NEILL Times-News Writer

RUPERT — A benefit dance will be held Thursday for the families of two Rupert men who died when their canoe overruled in Lake Walcott last month.

Darrell (Peewee) Goodnight, of the Mini-Cassi Search and Rescue unit, said the dance will start at 9 p.m. Thursday at the National Guard Armory in Rupert.

Proceeds will go to the families of Jay and Burdell Hammond, two of the three men who died after a canoe dumped four persons into Lake Walcott last Nov. 15.

Jay Hammond, 21, and Ture Nordstrom, 22, were rescued from the Snake River, but Jay died en route to the hospital.

Searchers recovered the body of Don Pearce, 34, later that day. The body of Burdell Hammond, 24, was never recovered.

The dance is being sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hebes, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hebes, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Lon Malter.

He said local businesses have donated gifts and pies will be auctioned at the dance. Three to four bands have donated their services to provide music for the dance.

Judge sets trial dates

TWIN FALLS — Fifth Judicial District Judge James M. Cunningham set trial dates for two criminal cases, placed two defendants on probation and ordered a pre-sentence investigation this week.

Bill L. Graft, 19, charged with a felony of delivery of a controlled substance (LSD), pleaded innocent and Judge Cunningham set trial for Feb. 17, 1976.

Donnie Lee Persinger, 19, charged with the Sept. 3, 1975 armed robbery of the Red Steer drive in, entered a plea of guilty. He was placed on 24 month probation by Judge Cunningham. As part of the provisions of the probation, the judge asked that a lay counselor be named to work with the defendant and a report be made to the court within three months.

C. G. (Ole) Moore, 37, charged with a felony of obtaining property under false pretenses was placed on eight month probation with the provision he repay at a rate of $75 per month some $476 in food stamps he obtained under false pretenses.

Moore pleaded guilty to the charge. The complaint against Moore stated he obtained $476 worth of food stamps from Twin Falls County while actually residing in Jerome County. Further, the complaint stated he was unable to work and earn an income because of a back injury, while in fact he had 7 head of cattle he did not report, and was a partner in a free service business. Further, the complaint stated he reported having two vehicles while in fact he had four.

He was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail and the sentence withheld, for probation which will be unsupervised, providing he completes restitution as ordered.

Two Murtaugh girls injured

MURTAUGH — Two 15-year-old Murtaugh girls were injured Tuesday afternoon when the west bank of Highway 20 bridge east of here Tuesday afternoon.

Jill Ann Andersen, a passenger in a car driven by Jeanette Breen, was in serious condition this morning at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. She suffered multiple leg fractures and lacerations.

Miss Breen was in fair condition at the hospital with multiple lacerations of her forehead and a fractured wrist.

The westbound car skidded 300 feet, narrowly missed the corner of the bridge and was airborne for 60 feet before landing in the west bank of the stream and rolling twice, according to Twin Falls Deputy Sheriff Buddy DeWeese.

The bridge is located three-quarters of a mile east of the LDS Church in Murtaugh.

"Evidently they had mechanical difficulty with the left front of the vehicle," DeWeese said. "Something apparently 'dug into' the pavement and threw them off the road, he added.

A witness said the car was traveling about 55 miles per hour, according to DeWeese.

Truant officer hired

KIMBERLY — Dr. Tom Utterback, longtime educator and administrator in several Magic Valley schools, has been hired as truant officer for the Kimberly School District.

Dr. Utterback recently retired as superintendent of the Emmet School District as Edson and Hazelton and previously headed the Murtaugh schools. He resides at Murtaugh.

Kimberly Supt. Vernon Exner said he feels someone of Dr. Utterback's experience will be a great help to deal with the school attendance problem. The action was taken at Monday night's school board meeting.

"Our average daily attendance is 85 percent," he said. At present the principal tries to contact the home when a student is absent, but because so many parents work, he often is unable to make any contact, the superintendent said.

When the need arises for disciplinary action the school officials have used the police. The new truant officer will work with students who are frequently absent and try to find out why they are out of school.

Trustees also reviewed the high school student manual of school policies and the new official will work with the policies as stated there.

Exner presented a tentative school calendar for 1976-77 for trustees to study. He also reported on the regional trustees meeting held last week at Robert Stuart Junior High School, Twin Falls.

Campaign appearances eyed

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — Chances appear excellent that Pres. Gerald Ford and his GOP opponent Ronald Reagan both will make campaign appearances in Idaho next year, state Republican chairman Vernon Havenscroft said Monday.

Havenscroft said Ford could stop in Idaho March 11 and there would be a good chance that Reagan also would campaign in Idaho.

He said tentative plans would have Ford in Pocatello March 11 to make a special presentation at Idaho State University in commemoration of its anniversary. Ford would fly on to Boise later the same day.

Santa sets Kimberly visit

KIMBERLY — Santa Claus will arrive in Kimberly at 1 p.m. Saturday along Main Street in a fire truck.

Barbara Homan, president of the Kimberly Chamber of Commerce, says this Santa will have plenty of time to visit with them. He requests all children to bring a letter with them, so if he forgets what they want for Christmas he can refer to their letter.

He will proceed along Main Street to the community center, newly remodeled depot.

Kimberly is all painted for Santa. Mrs. Homan said. Children of the area have painted decorations on windows of the downtown business. Santa will bring money for the winners of the window contest.

Children also decorated a tree in the community hall.

Program progress reviewed

FILER — Principal Edwin Marshall Monday reported to Filer School trustees on the remedial reading program at the high school.

Marshall said he was pleased with the progress of the program which is being directed by FREDERICK THOMPSON, a teacher at the high school.

The trustees discussed whether it should be mandatory for cheerleaders attend all games, and decided that unless there is available transportation, it will not be required that they attend all of town games.

Bill Heaps, Filer elementary principal and trustee Dave Chadwick reported on the needs assessment program at the schools. This new program was recently set up and has a committee visiting the various schools in the district and assessing needs for various school programs.

Promotions announced

TWIN FALLS — Police Chief Frank Barnett today announced two promotions in his department.

Ron Garey has been promoted to detective from the regular uniform division. He succeeds Robert Greene who resigned to move to Florida after two and one half years with the department. Garey has approximately five years with the Twin Falls police department, having joined the force in September, 1969.

Barnett also announced the promotion of Pat Bermingham to sergeant from the patrol division. Bermingham joined the Twin Falls police department April 1, 1968.

Barnett said both promotions resulted from written tests and evaluation by supervising officials in the department. Bermingham will act as shift sergeant.

2 complaints filed

TWIN FALLS — Two complaints seeking damages were filed in Fifth Judicial District court Tuesday.

Peter Link, Hansen, asks $15,300 payment alleged due him for the delivery of hay to a hay company.

Defendants in the suit are Jack Spann, doing business as U and I Hay Co., and the Bailock Insurance Co. Link claims he delivered hay valued at $4,500 and a second order valued at $10,800 to Spann and the bank refused to honor checks given for payment.

Michael Bruce Futrell, Rocky Mountain Trout Co. and Hateries Inc., are plaintiffs in a $41,000 suit brought against Sam Martin and Jack and Lloyd Dodson as the result of truck and farm tractor accident May 15, 1975 just east of Twin Falls.

Futrell, driver of a truck owned by the trout company and pulling an empty ring trailer owned by Hateries Inc., was injured when the vehicle demolished when he attempted to pass a farm tractor operated by Martin. Both vehicles were traveling east on Addison Avenue East, the complaint states when Futrell attempted to pass the tractor which then turned left.

Committee of Nine to review budget

BY SHANE O'NEILL Times-News Writer

BURLEY — The Committee of Nine will meet Thursday to review the Bureau of Reclamation budget and receive a rundown on the Bureau's order to administer HUD Valley funds.

The annual meeting will be held jointly with representatives of spaceholders at the American Falls Reservoir. Bureau officials will discuss irrigation problems during the critical time of reconstruction of the American Falls Dam.

The meeting is scheduled for 9 a.m. Thursday at the Ponderosa Inn. Burley. A meeting of the Committee of Eight, the group representing spaceholders in rebuilding the dam, is scheduled after the Committee of Nine meeting. The Committee of Nine is an advisory board representing the entire upper Snake River Basin on irrigation matters.

Carlos Randolph, superintendent at the Burley office of the BLM, said the committee represents all parties.

"It has no executive power," Randolph said. "It is a sounding board and has been a good advisor to keep me informed."

"The committee is primarily concerned with storage rights and water rights problems," Randolph said. "It's been a real good, workable deal."

costs of river operations during the past year and the estimated costs for 1976. The joint session was planned to give considerable discussion to river operations during dam reconstruction.

The dam project is to be privately financed by Idaho Power Co. and the spaceholders. A bill to make the construction bonds tax-exempt is expected to be signed into law before Jan. 1.

Elections by the various irrigation districts relative to incurring the bonded indebtedness are scheduled next month.

Increased feeding potential provided some impetus for corn, which gained 2 1/2 to 4 1/2 cents despite aggressive hedge selling and spreading. East Germany and Italy are prospective buyers.

Live cattle ran into a selling wave created by the bullish cattle on feed report, sparking heavy liquidation. Prices sagged the daily limit in April and October while February and December contracts benefited from light deliveries and a fairly close cash line. More pressure was added from the hog pits. There was weak cash and a wave of cow and yearling marketing.

Live hogs closed locked limit down in a trade depressed by sliding cash and weakened cattle prices. February advanced 50 cents and December a dollar but trading was light and pork movement continues to lag.

Foreign pork bellies recorded their third straight day of limit losses with all months locked limit down at the close, and a backing of almost 800 sell orders. Some pressure came from the weak fresh pork contract, which fell back for lower despite light receipts. More bullish news is expected.

Chemical suit settled

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Farm Bureau Services Inc. announced Tuesday it has settled its $4 million dollar damage suit against the Michigan Chemical Co. and pledged the proceeds to a PBB settlement fund for farmers.

The settlement cleared the way for some 450 farmers whose cattle were contaminated by the fire retardant chemical polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) to obtain financial relief.

It followed months of closed-door negotiations involving Michigan Chemical, manufacturer of PBB, Farm Bureau Services, which sold the tainted cattle feed and representatives of Gov. William G. Milliken.

Farm Bureau Services had sought $277 million in damages from Michigan Chemical, but settled for less out of court, a spokesman said. The exact amount was not disclosed.

Last year, the companies disposed of more than 825 million worth of claims from 300 farmers through a special fund that eventually dried up.

Milliken had threatened to push for legislation that would have set up a special state fund for the farmers and would have been financed primarily by companies such as Michigan Chemical and Farm Bureau Services.

"Farm Bureau Services has given up its right to recover its own substantial losses in order to create a settlement fund for its members because we believe that this action will serve the best interests of Michigan agriculture, our members and particularly those farmers who have patiently trusted us to put their needs ahead of our own," said Donald R. Westbrook, executive vice president of the firm.

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's commercial dry bean production this year showed a three per cent gain over last year, the State Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today.

Feeder cattle numbers increase across nation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Beef producers are continuing to refill their cattle feeding lots at a rapid pace which will produce a sharp increase in supplies of high grade grain-fed beef for consumers soon, an Agriculture Department report showed Monday.

The report, following a monthly survey in seven major producing states, said the number of cattle and calves on feed for slaughter Dec. 1 was estimated at 8.2 million head — up 25 per cent from a year earlier.

The upswing continued a recovery which began in October when numbers on feed were 1 per cent above a year earlier, the first time in two years that feedlot inventories had topped year-ago levels. The gains continued in November when reports showed 12 per cent more cattle on feed than a year earlier.

Economists said the growing movement of cattle into the feeding lots — and on to slaughterhouses — when they have been too enough grain to reach preferred quality levels will mean larger supplies and possibly lower prices for Choice grade cuts in the supermarket this winter.

The Agriculture survey indicated the recovery in fed beef production gained momentum rapidly last month. Officials said 1,955 million cattle were moved into feedlots in the seven survey states last month, up 47 per cent from a year earlier.

Experts explained that cattle feeding had been depressed earlier this year because of high feed grain prices produced by a poor 1974 corn crop. Beef production is rebounding now, they said, because of a combination of improved cattle prices since last spring and lower feed prices following a record 1975 corn harvest.

Monday's report noted that the number of grain-fed cattle marketed during November in the seven survey states was down 11 per cent from a year earlier. But economists predicted that the number going to supermarket meat counters from January through March may be up 10 per cent from a year earlier.

The report said Texas, largest cattle producer among the survey states, had 7 million head on feed Dec. 1, up 28 per cent from a year earlier. Gains in other states included 16 per cent in Nebraska, 42 per cent in Kansas, 23 per cent in Iowa, 10 per cent in Colorado, 12 per cent in California and 50 per cent in Arizona.

Beef grade rehearing denied

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has rejected a request for a rehearing of its order last month which allowed the U.S. Agriculture Department to implement new nationwide meat grading standards.

A three-judge panel of the appellate court returned a lower court injunction by U.S. District Judge Robert V. Donnelly of Omaha, Neb., who found the Agriculture Department had failed to show the inflationary impact of the new standards.

Consumer groups had argued that the new USDA standards would result in higher prices for inferior beef, and a rehearing on the issue by the full court was sought. But the request was rejected without comment in an order issued Monday.

In its 27-page ruling handed down Nov. 14 the appellate court ruled Donnelly exceeded his authority in issuing the injunction barring Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz from putting the new standards into effect.

The new regulations broaden the category of "choice" beef to make it include beef that under old standards would have been graded "good." Consumers argued that the new rulings would make beef more expensive at the supermarket even though it was no more expensive to raise.

Cattlemen had sought the new regulations, claiming it cost too much for them to feed animals what was required under the old standards for choice beef.

Weber stuns Utah

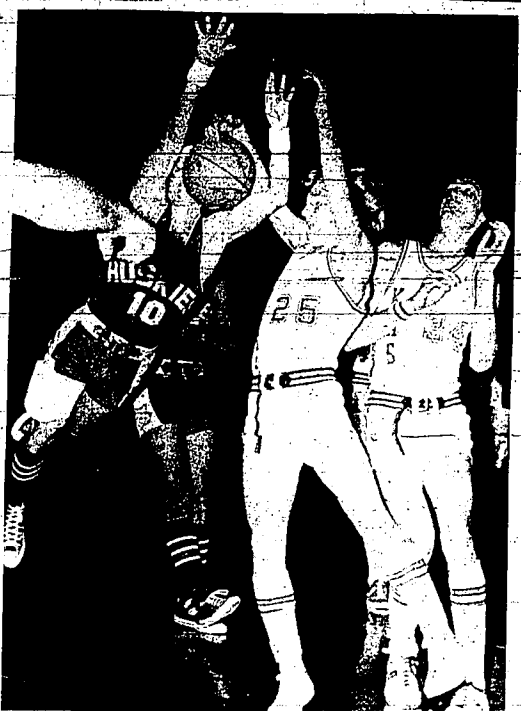

COLLEEN, UT. - Guard Bob Holgate sank a free throw after he was fouled on a layup for the last three points in the game and center Al Hewitt scored 30 points in Weber State's 88-67 overtime win over Utah in a non-conference game Tuesday night. Weber forward, Jimmie Watts put in a short jumper win just nine seconds left in regulation time to knot the score at 81-81 and send the game into overtime. Utah sank the first basket in the extra period and led by two points three different times until Holgate tied the score for a 10th time on his layup and was fouled by Utah forward Jeff Judkins. Holgate then sank his fifth straight free throw in the game, with 1:33 left in the overtime, and Weber State survived a stolen basketball pass with 40 seconds to go to leave the Utes in Utah's first game ever here.

Marquette rips Badgers

MILWAUKEE (UPI) - Earl Tatum personally destroyed the Wisconsin zone in the early going Tuesday night to put the second-ranked Marquette Warriors on the road to a 78-54 victory over the Badgers. Wisconsin opened in a 1-1-3 zone but Tatum hit five long baskets as the Warriors jumped to an 18-9 lead. Wisconsin then switched to a man-to-man defense and the speedy Warriors ran the Badgers off the floor. The Warriors led 42-21 at the half and continued to pour it on in the second half. The win was the fourth in as many games this year for Marquette and the 11th consecutive victory for the Warriors over the Badgers. The loss was the first in six games for Wisconsin.

Spartans win

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) - Allieghan State, bolstered by career best performances from juniors Bob Chapman and Jason Simpson, trounced past Northern Michigan, 81-65, Tuesday night in a non-conference game. Chapman scored 24 points and Wilson clipped in 15 to lead an unusually balanced Spartan scoring attack. Michigan State star Terry Furlow contributed 20 points and 16 rebounds to the cause. State broke open the game early, stretching out a 10-point lead away through the first half. Penetrating drives and accurate shooting by Furlow and Chapman enabled Michigan State to pull away in the second half. The Spartans were led by Junior Dimm Conley, who had 21 points. Sophomore Scott Paulsen and Junior Tom Izzo put in nine apiece. The win boosted Michigan State to a 3-2 record. Northern slipped to 2-4.

GUARD CONFRONTATION saw Kimberly's Vern Exner (25) whistled for a foul when he tried to stop Hansen's Doug Borah Tuesday night. Kimberly won 77-40.

Webb lifts Indians to upset over W.R.

SHOSHONE - Shoshone sophomore Jason Webb hit a three-point play with 18 seconds left to give the Indians a 44-41 upset of Wood River Tuesday night. Webb, a 6-1 starter, saved the upset for the Indians who led practically the entire night but fell behind with about 1:40 left. Wood River, which had led only once at 2-0, pulled from five points behind and took its first lead at 39-38. Wood River's last hope came with about 1:40 left when it moved up 41-39. Shoshone was brought off that spot when Meservy made a steal and drove for a tying bucket. Wood River then appeared waiting for the last shot but turned the ball over with 18 seconds.

The Indians immediately went to the hot shooting. Webb, who made the shot, was fouled and canned the clinching free throw. Webb ended the night with nine of 18 from the field and added 14 rebounds and blocked five shots. His 24 points led all scorers although Wood River put three men in double figures. Shoshone also won the preliminary.

Castleford rallies past Camas

FAIRFIELD - Castleford, headed by Keller's 20 points, rallied past Camas County in the last half 41-37 Tuesday night. Camas County, seeking its first win and playing with all-time coach Al Glanders at home, hit 48 per cent from the field in the first half to take a 26-18 intermission advantage. But the Mushers' shooting plummeted to five of 23 in the second half and Castleford pushed back for the victory. Most of Keller's 20 points came on outside shots.

Royals release Pinson

KANSAS CITY, MO. (UPI) - The Kansas City Royals placed veteran outfielder Vada Pinson on waivers Tuesday, giving him his unconditional release so he can look for a berth with another club. Executive Vice President and General Manager Joe Burke said Pinson has been an outstanding professional baseball player and he has made contributions to the Royals in the past two seasons. "In evaluating our club for 1976 Vada does not figure in our plans," Burke said. "We made the decision now so he will have every opportunity to contact the other clubs." In his two years with the Royals he hit .225 with 10 home runs and 63 RBI's. Pinson, 37, native of Oakland, Calif., has been one of the most durable and top all-around performers in baseball during his 17-year major league career. In his first full major league season in 1959 with the Cincinnati Reds he compiled a .316 average. He had four seasons with a .300-plus batting mark and also logged four seasons in which he had more than 200 hits.

Ara Parseghian

Woody Hayes

TV calls louder to Ara coaching

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ara Parseghian, who quit as coach of Notre Dame at the end of the 1974 season because of extreme pressures, said Tuesday definitely would not coach on the professional level in 1976 and instead would enter the world of television as the host of a half-hour, youth-oriented weekly series on sports.

Parseghian, one of college football's most successful coaches during his 11-year reign at Notre Dame, admitted that several pro teams had contacted him but after deliberation he had decided to concentrate his energies on his TV venture with Vincom Enterprises. The series will be called "Ara's World of Sports" and will premier in the fall of 1976.

"Vincom told me I could do both the TV series and coach if I wanted to," said Parseghian. "But I thought it out carefully over the weekend, and I decided I had a commitment to this program. I have decided not to coach pro ball in '76."

"Three or four clubs contacted me but I discouraged such things as salary and negotiation talks until I had made up my mind what I was going to do. I told them it was a waste of my time and their time. I don't want to say which teams were interested in me since they still have to go out and get a coach for next year."

Parseghian said the condition of his health was not a factor in his decision not to accept a pro coaching job next season.

"My last years at Notre Dame I was going at too fast a pace," he said. "With control I'm doing well with my blood pressure. I don't have the anxiety I had two years ago. I've been doing a lot this past year but I've programmed my activity."

"Obviously, I'll be weighing the options available to me after next year," he said. "I'm sure I will remain in close contact about what's happening in pro football."

When Parseghian left Notre Dame he firmly stated that he would not be returning to college football. And he confirmed that decision Tuesday.

"I've missed the staff—the players—the strategy and the field work, but I haven't missed the other demands that go with college football," said Parseghian. "And it would be difficult for me to change my allegiance from Notre Dame. It would be difficult for me to give the same energy and dedication to another college that I devoted to Notre Dame over the years."

Parseghian's TV series will concentrate on youngsters and their involvement in sports. Each of the 52 hour-telecasts will consist of three athletic events and a fourth segment of instruction by a sports superstar. Local, regional and national events and championships will be covered from coast to coast.

"This gives me an opportunity to work with young people," said Parseghian, who has been very active over the years in charity work, most notably multiple sclerosis. "One of the few regrets I've had in my life is that I haven't worked with youngsters in their more formative years."

North club includes top U.S. passers

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — Look for the North to stage an aerial circus in the Senior Bowl Jan. 11.

The North squad, announced Tuesday, has the top two major college passers in the nation at quarterback — All-America Gene Swick of Toledo and Craig Penrose of San Diego State.

Swick set a collegiate total offense record of 6,074 yards for his four-year career. This past season he led in total offense with 2,706 yards and was second in Penrose in passing.

Penrose, 6-foot-3, 210 pounds and rated the top pro quarterback prospect among last season's college seniors, completed 198 of 319 passes for 2,660 yards and 15 touchdowns.

Swick, 6-2-1/2, completed 190 of 308 passes for 2,487 yards and 15 touchdowns.

Swick also scored eight times himself, accounting for 29 touchdowns in all.

The nationally televised Senior Bowl (12:30 p.m. EST, NBC) will be the first professional appearance for 62 college seniors. The North is being coached by Chuck Fairbanks of the New England Patriots and the South coach, announced last week, will be coached by Jack Pardee of the Chicago Bears.

Running backs for the North will be Tony Galbreath of Missouri, Jim Jensen of Iowa, and Larry Gaines of Wyoming. The wide receivers are second-team All-America Theo Bell of Arizona, Billy Brooks of Oklahoma, and Duke Ferguson of San Diego State. The tight ends are Joe Smpalor of Illinois.

Bradshaw leads NFL in passing

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Terry Bradshaw remains the leading passer in the National Football League as the Pittsburgh Steelers lead into the final week of the regular season.

Bradshaw holds a 4-point advantage over Bert Jones of Baltimore and a 9-point advantage over Ken Anderson of Cincinnati.

Mel Blount leads the NFL in pass interceptions with 11, and Lynn Swann leads the league with 44 touchdown passes.

Franco Harris is second in the league in rushing. He has gained 1,120 yards but is far outdistanced by Buffalo's O. J. Simpson, who has gained 1,760 yards.

Roy Corley is second in scoring in the American Football Conference with 92 points. Simpson holds a commanding lead with 126 points.

The Steelers, second in both AFC offense and defense in the AFC, will leave Friday for Saturday night's game with Los Angeles.

Buckeyes' Hayes aims for more than 'coach of year'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Woody Hayes of Ohio State, who guided his club through a perfect regular season campaign despite the loss of 13 starters from last year's team, has been named Coach of the Year by United Press International.

The 62-year-old coach of the Buckeyes, who continues to turn out winners despite an ultraconservative approach in an era of liberalism, was selected by a panel of sports writers over such distinguished colleagues as Frank Broyles of Arkansas, Emory Bellard of Texas A&M, Mike White of California and Frank Kush of Arizona State.

"It's very nice but the goal I'm seeking is to be the coach of the team of the year," said Hayes, whose team is ranked No. 1 in the AP's 25-year-old Coach of the Year series. "I'm glad to be on the Rose Bowl. Ohio State has not won a UPI national championship since 1963."

"After the way Arkansas beat Texas A&M, my vote would have gone to Frank Broyles," Hayes added.

Hayes, however, earned the honor by leading Ohio State through its finest regular season in history. Faced with his most difficult schedule in years, Hayes took a team that had been hit hard by graduation losses in both the offensive and defensive lines and built it into an awesome power.

Led by Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin, the Buckeyes outscored their opposition 354-79 against competition that included nationally-ranked powers Penn State, UCLA and Michigan. The Buckeyes had only two exceptionally difficult games, a 17-9 triumph over Penn State and a 27-14 victory over Michigan. In the regular season finale against the Wolverines, the Buckeyes had to score two touchdowns in the final quarter to pull out the victory.

"This team came along about the way we projected it," said Hayes, who is completing his 25th season as head coach of the Buckeyes. "We felt last spring they were going to be a good football team, but above everything else was our senior leadership. They kept us on an even keel all the way. There was also our lack of injuries. I'd guess I'd have to say it's one of my most satisfying seasons."

Over the last eight years, Hayes' record is virtually unmatched for success. Despite sticking to an old-fashioned-of-fence style that stresses the run while practically ignoring the pass, Hayes has posted a record of 73-10-1, won three Big Ten Conference titles outright and four co-championships over the last eight years.

A stickler for perfection, Hayes' teams are among the most perfectly schooled in execution of assignments, a major reason why the Buckeyes continue to win with their dated "three yards and a cloud of dust" offense.

"As a coach, Hayes considers himself a "benevolent despot." "I'm honest and straightforward with my players," he says. "I believe in positive reinforcement. I get out of a man just what I expect from him. He gets better what he puts into it for the team. That's what the country needs today."

"The only time I'm in on the field is after a defeat. If you have turbulent conditions in the players after a defeat, if you can laugh off a loss you'll play badly. I raise hell when we're going

Duran predicts KO

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — World lightweight champion Roberto Duran of Panama predicted Tuesday he would floor Mexican challenger Leonelo Ortiz before the seventh round of Saturday's title fight here.

His trainer, Jesus Gomez, was only slightly less optimistic, predicting a knockout in the eight or ninth round.

Asked if he was concerned by the fact that Ortiz is left-handed, Duran remarked: "I've fought left-handers before. It's the Mexican who good. That's when we need it." Hayes feels his program at Ohio State is the best it's been in the 25 years he has been at the school.

"We like to feel that way," he says. "Although we're losing another outstanding senior class we will have another good team next year. Maybe not as good as this year's, but a good team."

This is only the third year that UPI has awarded Coach of the Year honors. The two previous winners were Bernie Eller of Tulane (1973) and Grant Teaff of Baylor (1974).

Evans can't worry about critics

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Vince Evans is the other quarterback in town.

While John Scarra of UCLA prepares for a Rose Bowl rematch with Ohio State with flourish in Westwood, the much-maligned University of Southern California junior quietly readies for next Monday night's Liberty Bowl game with Texas A&M.

Along with departing head coach John McKay, Evans has drawn most of the criticism for the Trojans' late-season collapse in 1975. After a 7-0 start for a lofty No. 3 national rating, USC lost its last four regular season games.

"At first," he said, "it bothered me a whole lot. I'm a sensitive person and it upset me. But I had a talk with one of our assistant coaches, Willie Brown, and he helped me put my mind at ease.

"Now I don't worry about what people have said or are saying. I know there are people who will always be there to criticize you when things go wrong. All I can do is listen to the coaches and go out and do my job."

Things definitely haven't gone right for Evans, a soft-spoken, humble junior from Greensboro, N.C.

There were inevitable comparisons with Pat Haden, the passing wizard of the Trojans' 1974 national championship team. It wasn't a fair comparison because Evans is a running-quarterback.

Then Evans suffered an early-season thumb injury and missed three games. In eight contests, he was only a 29 per cent passer — 29 for 99 — and had eight aeriels intercepted.

"I never claimed to be one of the best passers in the nation," he said. "I'm not going to complete all my passes and I'm going to have some, intercepted. But we didn't really throw the ball all that much this season and I had a few balls dropped on me."

Evans said a victory over Texas A&M on national TV Monday night would be a big boost for incoming head coach John Robinson's 1976 Trojans.

"There are a lot of juniors on this team," he noted. "It would be nice for us to be able to start out next season with a win instead of a loss behind us."

"Losing has hurt our confidence somewhat but I think everybody realizes that we've beaten ourselves with mistakes and inconsistency this year and the talent is still there."

Evans and the Trojans will leave for the Liberty Bowl at Memphis Friday after two weeks of workouts.

"When you've been winning the game is more fun," the Trojan quarterback admitted. "But our morale is up and we're really looking forward to this game. We know we're going to be facing a good team."

Evans did want to make one point, Ricky Bell, the Trojan NCAA rushing champion, deserved to win the Heisman Trophy and not Ohio State's Archie Griffin. Bell, a junior who "popped up" in 1975, finished third in the Heisman voting behind Griffin and California's Chuck Muncie.

"Words can't really describe what kind of a year Ricky has had," he said. "He's one of the greatest. Personally, I think he should have won the Heisman, and I think he would have had a very, very good chance if we had won our last four games instead of losing them."

And still champion . . .

Forego repeats as 'horse of year'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. Martha L. Gerry's strapping, 16-hand gelding Forego was named Horse of the Year for the second straight year Tuesday.

The 5-year-old millionaire son of Fort was the Bellows Awards poll conducted among members and the Thoroughbred Racing Association.

Forego also was selected the top older male horse, while the late Ruffian was an overwhelming choice as the 3-year-old filly of the year.

Stuart Janney's Ruffian, who had to be humanely destroyed after fracturing the hock bones in her right foreleg during her match race with Foolish Pleasure, was undefeated in 10 races up to that point.

A model of consistency and the successful counterpart of great-weight handicaps, Forego won six of his nine races this year to raise his career earnings to $1,163,520 before being retired for the season with a filling in his left foreleg.

Trained by Sherrill Ward and ridden by Heliodoro Gutierrez, Forego won the Sentinels and Widener Handicaps at Hialeah. Then, carrying impressive burdens, Forego prevailed in the Carter Handicap at Aqueduct and the Brooklyn and Suburban Handicaps at Belmont Park.

Giving away 19 pounds to Wajima, who edged Foolish Pleasure for 3-year-old colt of the year, Forego was beaten in the Governor at Belmont, Wajima, receiving 10 pounds this time, again beat Forego in a thrilling stretch duel in the Marlboro.

But, in the weight for age Woodward, Forego carried only a five-pound disadvantage and convincingly beat Wajima, who was syndicated for a record $7.2 million.

If Forego, who got off to a slow start and was an unheralded fourth behind Secretariat in the 1973 Kentucky Derby, overcomes his ailing leg and returns to racing next year, he will be in pursuit of Kelso's all-time, money-winning record.

Although trainer Leroy Jolley did not collect the 3-year-old colt award with Foolish Pleasure, he captured the 2-year-old colt award with Bertram F. Firestone's Honest — Pleasure, another son of Florida stallion What A Pleasure.

Steve Dittmore, who trained Wajima, had another award winner in Richard Bailey's 2-year-old filly Dearly Precious, who edged another Firestone/Jolley product named Optimistic Gal.

Ered W. Hooper's Susan's Girl, the only distaff to surpass the $1 million mark racing only in North America, was named the champion among females four and over.

Robert P. Horton's Gallant Bob wrested away the champion sprinter title from Forego and Edward P. Taylor's Snow Knight was named the grass champion. Virginia Gees's Life's Illusion was selected the top steeplechase horse of the year.

Shakeup strikes cage ratings

NEW YORK (UPI) — A major shakeup occurred among the top 10 ranked college basketball teams in the United Press International's Board of Coaches ratings this week, with Nevada-Las Vegas and Cincinnati cracking the select circle for the first time this season.

While the top five remained intact from a week ago, Nevada-Las Vegas (16-0) moved up three places to No. 8, after posting a pair of victories, including an upset of previously ninth-ranked Arizona. Cincinnati jumped two spots to No. 9 after raising its record to 6-0 with a pair of victories.

Notre Dame and Alabama also advanced among the top 10 with the Irish jumping up two places to No. 6 and the Crimson Tide moving three places to No. 7. Notre Dame lost its first game of the year during the week but it was a 63-60 squeaker to top-ranked Indiana.

Arizona, Louisville and Tennessee all dropped severely in the ratings after being upset last week. Arizona lost three straight games before finally beating SMU and tumbled from No. 9 to No. 19. Louisville was upset by DePaul and dropped from seventh to 15th and Tennessee was beaten by St. John's (NY) and fell from sixth to 10th.

Indiana once again received all the first place votes cast by the 41-member coaches board who participated in the No. 1 spot with 119 points. Marquette, Maryland, North Carolina and UCLA rounded out the top five.

There were three newcomers to the second 10. St. John's (unbeaten) in six games, moved into the No. 15 spot, Arizona State (5-0) grabbed the No. 18 position and Wichita State (3-0) took the No. 20 slot.

Davis carries CSI past Rangely 71-51

RANGELY, Colo. — All-American Kemy Davis picked up the CSI Eagles in the second half Tuesday and carried them past Colorado Northwestern 71-51.

Davis, who dominated the boards, had a season high 27 points but eight crucial ones midway through the second half after Colorado had stormed from a 14-point lead into a tie.

CSI-wins-up-its-December-schedule-Wednesday night by invading Western Wyoming Tech of Rock Springs. It should be their most severe test thus far.

CSI had walloped Colorado Northwestern 92-47 in the season opener and the memory of that might have dulled their competitive edge. The nationally seventh-ranked Eagles played ragedly in the opening 10 minutes but were safe as Rangely was ice cold from the field.

The Eagles scored right off the opening tip but then had to struggle through seven minutes with only an 11-7 lead. Over the next couple of minutes, however, the fast break heated up and both just about everyone scoring. CSI moved ahead 22-11.

That flurry ended as quickly as it started and in the final five minutes CSI managed only field goals by Eric Howe and Ed Nickels as Colorado closed the intermission gap to 26-23.

The first several minutes of the second half was Davis' scoring vs. Colorado's. He hit twice and Andre Wakefield once but Cullen replied for Colorado, the last time tying it at 31-31.

Wakefield sneaked into to shove CSI back on top again and Davis collected a tipin with 15:30 to play. Butts pulled Colorado back to within two before Davis reeled off a free throw — an 8-point lead.

That dipped once again to five on Horral's bucket but Wakefield and Dwight Williams picked up the CSI scoring. With a 46-41 advantage and about 6:30 left, CSI went into a spread and Colorado immediately forsook its zone. After that the Eagles piled up points on inside shots, its first 20-point advantage coming at 68-48.

Superdome falls on hard times

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — A ruling by Attorney General William Guste Tuesday could mean the Louisiana Superdome to close unless the $183.5 million stadium is built out by a special session of the legislature.

Superdome officials have said they anticipate a $4 million deficit this year. The stadium's current funds were expected to run out in March.

Guste's ruling, requested by Rep. Kevin Rellly of Baton Rouge — chairman of the House Appropriations Committee and a member of the Superdome Commission — applied to all agencies, not exclusively the Superdome.

The ruling said regarding an agency that has spent all of its funds: "The only alternative to a cessation of the agency's activities is an additional appropriation made by the legislature in an extraordinary session or in the early days of the next regular session, depending upon the date on which the agency's available funds would be exhausted."

When asked for reaction to Guste's ruling, Rellly said, "That means that we're going to have a special session to handle the Superdome deficit because they'll be in the red before the general session."

Canada figures only dome will be missing for '76 Olympics

NEW YORK (UPI) — Roger Mousseteau, president of the Organizing Committee for the 1976 Montreal Olympic Games, said Tuesday that the only thing which will be missing on opening day next July 17 will be a roof on the main stadium, and they don't need that anyhow.

"The Games will start on time and the facilities will be ready. The only critical area is the stadium, where the roof may not be in place," said Mousseteau at a news conference.

"Actually, the International Olympic Committee rules say the sports to be contested there — track and field, football, equestrian — must be outdoor competition anyhow. If we had a roof we would need special dispensation. The essential things will be in place."

At the news conference was Gilles Bergeron, director general of the committee for the housing of Olympic visitors, who reported that 110,000 to 120,000 daily visitors were expected, and that 235,000 beds were available within an 85-mile radius.

Ticket sales are going well, the committee said, with 701,000 sold so far in the United States out of an allotment of 1,169,000 tickets for the various sessions of the 21 sports on the Olympic program.

"We believe the Games will draw 120,000 Americans each buying several tickets," said Mousseteau. "World-wide, we have sold half of our total ticket supply for $20 million."

Each of the 132 competing nations got an original allotment of tickets, and the tickets not sold by Dec. 31 will be returned to the Organizing Committee for allotment. The committee expects that more than 4 million tickets will be sold.

"If another labor strike should halt work on the main stadium, it would hurt us badly, but we would find a way to get it done," Mousseteau said in answer to a question. Strikes have put the construction behind schedule, to the point where there have been unofficial hints from Mexico City, site of the 1968 Olympics, that it would be willing to step in and host again.

The 1972 Games at Munich were marred by the murder of 11 Israeli athletes by Arab extremists.

Is Montezuma confused?

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Something has gone wrong in preparations for Friday's scheduled Davis Cup series between Mexico and the United States. It's the Mexican squad which is reporting stomach trouble.

"Nobody has quite figured out how that old tourist scourge, polio-like known as 'Montezuma's Revenge,' could get so mixed up."

Even more surprising to the Mexicans was U.S. team captain Tony Trabert's selection of Brian Gottfried over Harold Solomon as his singles entry with Jimmy Connors.

The locals somehow seemed to feel that Gottfried would not be chosen for a possible go against Mexico's Saul Ramirez, not here anyway.

But when he benched Solomon in favor of Gottfried, Trabert was simply calculating the odds.

"One of the most important reasons in selecting Brian was that he has defeated Ramirez the last five times they've met," Trabert said.

"There were other considerations but I figure this one will definitely have bearing on the final result," he added.

Gottfried and Connors were in tip-top form. So were Solomon, Erik Van Dillen and Dick Stockton.

"We haven't had any problems from the altitude or anything else," said U.S. team physician, Dr. Omar Farced, "and we don't expect to have any."

The Mexican victor was Marcelo Lara. His problems appeared likely to eliminate him from the number two singles spot, a position now considered likely to go to Roberto Chavez.

Cincinnati players told to win one for the old wallet

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Cincinnati Bengals coach Paul Brown says he has told his players "they have a lot at stake financially" in Sunday's regular season finale here against the San Diego Chargers.

A victory would give the Bengals the American Conference wild card berth for the playoffs and send them to Oakland to take on the Raiders Dec. 28.

But a loss to San Diego, coupled with weekend victories by Miami and Baltimore, would bring Bengal football to a jarring halt and Miami would wind up in the playoffs.

"We're fortunate to have our own destiny to make or break," figures Brown. "It's up to us to do it ourselves. Either we do it or we don't."

Brown, along with his assistant coaches and players, watched on television Monday night as the Chargers won only their second game of the season, a 21-16 decision over the New York Jets.

Brown told his players, "to take a good look at the San Diego team and study the man at their position."

The Bengals resumed practice Tuesday after taking two days off following last Saturday's 35-14 loss to Pittsburgh.

Cincinnati takes a 10-3 record into the San Diego game and a victory would not only send the Bengals to the playoffs but also equal their best season record in their eight year history. The Bengals were 10-4 in 1973.

Veeck ready for making news

CHICAGO (UPI) — New owner Bill Vecek of the Chicago White Sox, who has made more news in a few days than any other player in the league, has scheduled another "major announcement" for today.

Vecek, the 61-year old baseball promoter, sat through a check-signing session Tuesday and turned over the $9.75 million purchase price to John Allyn to take over the White Sox for the second time.

Then he went out of the ball park to talk to club personnel and ponder what he might do to get media attention.

Later he scheduled a news conference for this afternoon at which, a spokesman said, "a major announcement" will be made.

It might be as simple as announcing that 1976 season tickets will go on sale. He might make a trade. Although Vecek made six trades in 54 hours after he acquired the ball club last Wednesday, he's indicated he's not through, that more deals can be expected.

He might have something to say about whether he'll retain Chuck Tanner, whose contract has three years to run, as manager. Or whether he'll retire radio's announcer Harry Carey, who was fired by Allyn after the 1975 season.

"We'll have an announcement on Tanner and Carey sometime," Vecek said in answer to questions about their status. "You'll just have to be patient."

Vecek previously owned the White Sox in 1959, when the club won the last pennant in Chicago and its first in 40 years, and in 1960 before he had to sell because of poor health. Already he has scheduled a celebration party in making the purchase. He'll probably have something to announce then too.

Duvillard wins pro ski race

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI) — Frenchman Henri Duvillard, recovering from a near fall in a semifinals match, Tuesday defeated Austrian Werner Bleitner in the final of the slalom event of the first world professional ski meet.

Duvillard, 26, won the giant slalom on Sunday for his third back-to-back win of his professional career.

Duvillard had only one bad moment while skiing against Switzerland's Josef Odermatt in the semifinals. The Frenchman was polling for speed toward the finish line and caught his pole between his skis. He turned a circle and went through the speed traps backwards.

"That made me a little nervous," he said, "but I ski better when I'm nervous."

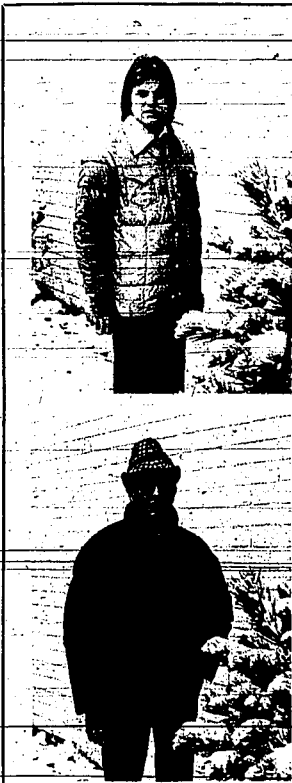

Bleitner's second place finish combined with a third place run in the giant slalom put him in second place in the pro standings—15 points and $4,000 behind the first place Duvillard.

Cardinals will use Metcalf

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The Cardinals already have clinched a playoff spot, but St. Louis coach Don Coryell says star running back Terry Metcalf will play Sunday at Detroit.

Metcalf was held out of the victory over Chicago, in which the Cardinals captured the National Football Conference East Division title, because of a sore hip.

The versatile back was injured early in the third quarter of the Dec. 7 win against Dallas.

"I felt ready to play," Metcalf said of the Bears' game. "The Atlanta Metcalf is always available to the Cardinals. He is particularly eager to add 110 yards to his total regular-season offensive output."

That's how much he needs to top the 2,444 yards gained last year, by Black, for a run for a National Football League record. Metcalf now has 2,335 yards in rushes, pass catches, punt returns and kickoff returns. He also has thrown a 31-yard touchdown pass but that don't figure in the total.

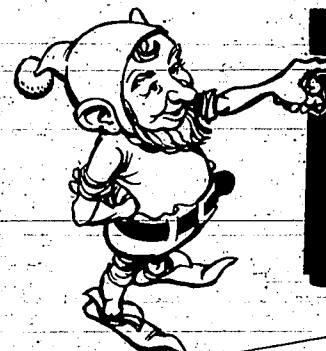

Coryell never spares the elusive running back, but explained why he sat out the Chicago game.

"My rationalization was this: If he went in and got the record but got hurt, he not only wouldn't have gotten the record, but it would have hurt our chances in the playoffs."

Metcalf never spares the elusive running back, but explained why he sat out the Chicago game.

Burley withdraws purchase offer

BURLEY — The Burley City Council withdrew an offer Monday to purchase school district property.

The city had offered $32,000 (on an optional basis) for the north part of the old Burley Junior High School property behind city hall. That was the figure of an earlier appraisal.

The optional part of the offer was to allow the new council to consider the matter again when it takes office in January.

Monday's withdrawal of the offer was a formality to place the matter in the new council's hands.

The Cassia County School Board did not accept the offer. Instead, it decided to have a new appraisal of the property.

The appraisal will not be made until after Christmas. Councilman L. V. (Les) Messersmith Monday

Andrus picks TF man

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus today announced the appointment of Maj. Gen. George B. Bennett (Ret.) to succeed Robert L. Rice on the State Board of Correction.

Rice resigned because of what he termed "an over commitment to outside responsibilities." He has served on the board for the past seven years.

Bennett, 61, is a former Idaho adjutant general. He will serve on the board through a term expiring Jan. 1, 1981. A native of Oklahoma City, Okla., Bennett is a graduate of Twin Falls High School, Idaho State University and the University of Idaho.

He served as adjutant general from 1965 through 1974. Since 1966 he has been state director for selective service.

"We are fortunate to have a man of the caliber of Gen. Bennett available to serve in this most important post," Andrus said.

Andrus also expressed his appreciation to Rice for his years of "distinguished service on this board."

Juveniles may face adult courts

NEW YORK — A national commission preparing guidelines for the nation's juvenile justice system has recommended a sweeping change that would shift the approach of the family court from an insulated tribunal where judges and lawyers attempt to help youngsters in a defined adversary proceeding similar to the adult criminal court system.

This means that like the adult adversary court process, the lines would be drawn between prosecution and defense, although the sentences proposed by the commission would be limited to a maximum of two years for the most serious crimes.

The proposals follow a set of principles set forth by the commission two weeks ago. In disclosing the first efforts of its four-year and $2 million study, the commission recommended radical changes in sentencing procedures that would modify the traditional guideline of acting simply in the "best interests of the child." The commission would supplement this criterion for sentencing with other factors, including the seriousness of the crime, the culpability of the youth and his or her prior criminal record.

The latest recommendations are contained in a series of reports obtained by The New York Times and previously approved by the panel, the Institute of Judicial Administration-American Bar Association Commission on Juvenile Justice Standards.

In upcoming months, the commission will meet to adopt standards on child abuse, neglected or abandoned children, probation services, corrections, records, schools, police and architecture. Next summer, the commission will ask the American Bar association to adopt its standards.

SIR, Hiland annex delayed in Burley

BURLEY—Annexation of SIR Estates, and Hiland Sub-division No. 2 in South Burley will be ready for action Jan. 5, according to City Attorney William Parsons.

Meanwhile, he advised developers, "I think you could go ahead with your plans. The council is now rewording approving it." Parsons told the council that only an engineering error had delayed the process. He said an agreement had been reached that would allow the original plat as already approved by the council.

That plat involved opening Burton Avenue south from 27th Street. The road was blocked by objections by Wilma Parish, who said she did not want the dedication easements for the street.

Landowners met with the Burley Planning Commission last week and ironed out an agreement.

Mrs. Parish, who had protested the annexation because it placed 25 feet of her land for the street, agreed to dedicate the property.

Parsons said she asked council assurance that the remaining 20 feet of her land would be annexed against her will. The city attorney said this stemmed from a misunderstanding of the law but advised paying the assurance.

The council endorsed a draft letter he offered.

The council adopted an ordinance under emergency procedures to vacate seven feet of an easement in McBride Addition at 27th Street and Almo Avenue.

City Engineer Leon Bedke explained that the easement was 20 feet wide for sewer and water line purposes. He said a house had been built on six feet of the easement.

Bedke assured the council that the remaining 12 feet would be adequate for city purposes.

Councilman picked

BURLEY—Garth Payne will take office as a Burley city councilman in January along with four men elected to seats last Monday night. It was unanimously confirmed by the City Council.

Payne, 51, will fill the two-year vacancy left by Jerry Ververt, who resigned from the council in October upon moving outside the city limits.

Shadrick said Payne will be sworn in January 5, along with James Henderson, Tyle Harlow and re-elected incumbents Clyde Taylor and Leonard King.

All four were elected Nov. 4. Henderson and Harlow replace L. V. (Les) Morgan and John Crut, who did not run for re-election.

Born in Paul, Payne is director of Payne Mortuary, Burley. He served six years as Cassia County engineer before legislative action barred funeral directors from the coroner position in counties where there are two or more mortuaries.

Payne is a graduate of Burley High School, Idaho State University and the San Francisco College of Mortuary Science.

He and his wife have two children, both married and living elsewhere, and five grandchildren.

"I certainly feel it's an honor to be asked to serve and I certainly think it will be a pleasure to serve with the type of men that have been elected," Payne commented this morning. "I feel we have a very strong council at this time."

Treasurer's office open this Saturday

TWIN FALLS—Because this year's deadline for taxpayers to make payments on their 1975 real and personal tax bills falls on Saturday, Twin Falls County Treasurer Ruth E. Jones will keep her office open.

She said this will be the only Saturday her office is open but it will be a minimum 15-minute tax paying service from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday. It is every regular business day.

Mrs. Jones said payments on the 1974 taxes and all prior years will be accepted up to closing time Dec. 20 at the office or they may be mailed to her office if postmarked by midnight Saturday.

Mrs. Jones said less than one half of the taxes due this month had been received as of Tuesday. She urged persons to make the payments as soon as possible to avoid delinquency.

The total tax bill in Twin Falls county for 1975 is $7.42 million which is $346,416.54 more than the 1974 tax charge.

Of this amount the treasurer said public utilities will pay $1,245 million.

Couple tests 'joke'

STEPHENVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Because the Texan cannot get along without the automobile, a mass transit expert warned last week, traffic threatens to choke to death the state's seven largest cities by the year 2000.

"If they had any kind of following, Gene and Sue Atkinson could upset the expert's prediction."

The couple, both Tarleton State University professors, decided a year ago to rid themselves of the family vehicle and see if they could live without it in this town of less than 10,000 persons, located at the junction of three U.S. highways about 50 miles southwest of Fort Worth.

"They have survived."

"It started out as a joke," Sue said. "I wanted a new car and he wanted to repair the one we had. We compromised and bought a washing machine. We decided that doing the wash was the only thing we really needed a car for."

Gene says their decision was partly practical and partly philosophical.

"There was the gas crisis, of course, and too, I feel that a car is a luxury and not a necessity. I had noticed I would jump in the car to drive a block."

"We've found we can be just as happy at home," Sue said. "We learned to be more organized, to make fewer but better planned trips to town."

"We discovered that almost no one walks with the exception of numbers of retired persons," Gene said. "Other than that, we rarely run into other people."

"We cut out less, there are no car, insurance, gas bills, license plates, or inspections to pay for. That, and we very carefully weigh everything before we buy it."

"We took quite a bit of ribbing at first. The campus needs its eccentric," he said. "Many people say they agree with us and Stephenville would be the place where a person could get along without a car, but so far no one has joined us. I think the instinct to drive cars is too deeply ingrained."

Maybe the expert was right. Even the pianist, Atkinson shows signs of skepticism.

Gene was asked if they had thought giving up and buying another car.

"Well, we talk about it but so far we haven't agreed enough on one to look seriously. So, for the time being, no car," he said.

Jackson campaign launched

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — A campaign to put Sen. Henry M. Jackson on the ballot in the first presidential primary of 1976 opened Tuesday, the strongest indication to date that the Washington Democrat plans a quiet showdown with liberal rivals.

Filing for the Feb. 24 New Hampshire Primary closes Dec. 26.

"We're gathering the petitions to give him the option to come in if he wants to," said Robert Tendler, a friend of the 63-year-old candidate.

A dozen sympathizers agreed to gather the 1,000 signatures required for the primary hours after Jackson formally entered the second 1976 presidential primary in neighboring Massachusetts.

Jackson told a Boston news conference he would decide on New Hampshire's opener within "a few days."

While Jackson has not authorized the campaign, supporters indicated sympathetic campaign aides approved the move. The debate over whether to enter the crowded New Hampshire primary has deeply divided Jackson's staff, local supporters said.

Six liberal Democrats already have operations underway, some for as long as a year.

"The ones who favor Jackson coming said, 'Okay, go ahead,'" said Richard Leonard, a Nashua attorney and unsuccessful 1974 candidate for governor. "We're doing this in case he decides to come in."

DEAR ABBY: I am 23 and have recently met a very attractive, intelligent, sensitive 21-year-old woman. So what's my problem? Our relationship seems to be on two levels: My feeling for her is on a romantic level, but she says she wants to keep our relationship on a friendship level.

I am content to wait and let our relationship grow, but my friends advise me to quit seeing her. What do you say?
HOPEFUL-BUT UNCERTAIN

DEAR HOPEFUL: Continue to see her and if she doesn't get on your level by St. Valentine's Day, level with her. Tell her you want a sweetheart, not a buddy.

Relationship uncertain

DEAR ABBY: My daughter has been keeping steady company with a young man for the last three years. They met at college and both graduated last June. We have never met David's parents, although we've talked to them on the phone. They seem like nice people. David now has a good job. I told him I'd like to meet his parents, and he said he'd get us together "soon." Meanwhile, months go by and we haven't met them yet. When my wife told David we'd like to invite his parents to our home, he said his father was rather "unfriendly" and it would be better if we met at the wedding! Abby, my daughter doesn't even have a ring, and no official announcement of her engagement was ever made, so a "wedding" is a long way off.

He told me he loved our daughter and his intentions were honorable, but when I asked when they were getting engaged, he said, "That will have to wait. I'm fresh out of college and only just started work." Abby, I told my wife if David has serious intentions with our daughter, we'd have met his parents already. My wife says I should keep out of it—kids do things differently nowadays. Our daughter says she loves him but isn't pushing for marriage. I say, if he loved her, he'd become engaged even if they couldn't marry for five years. What do you say?

DELAWARE DAD

DEAR DAD: I'm on your wife's side. Don't pressure David. He's obviously not financially ready for marriage. Etiquette doesn't demand that parents meet until the couple becomes officially engaged. As long as your daughter is satisfied, butt out, Dad.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I lent my ID to a friend and he got into trouble while carrying my ID in his wallet. It has caused me a lot of trouble, and now my name is in records and files where I don't want it to be. I was stupid. Please print this letter so other people will think about the consequences before lending out their ID's.

MRS. EDWARD J. NICKEL

Miss Smisek, Nickel exchange promises

TWIN FALLS — Sherry Ann Smisek and Edward J. Nickel were married in Nov. 29 services at Kuntze Memorial Lutheran Church.

Rev. Paul deFreese officiated the 7 p.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smisek, Cobraska, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nickel Twin Falls.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white Quiana knit styled with a V neckline and jeweled bodice ornament accenting the raised waistline.

The floor-length skirt flowed to a chapel train. The long fitted sleeves were closed with lace and ribbon trimmed cuffs.

Her two-tiered cathedral length veil was held by a camelot cap trimmed with pearls. She carried a nosegay styled with a V neckline and jeweled bodice ornament accenting the raised waistline.

The floor-length skirt flowed to a chapel train. The long fitted sleeves were closed with lace and ribbon trimmed cuffs.

Big break comes in arrest

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Robert Rossi, a struggling artist, got a big break from a marijuana possession.

Rossi, 35, had no money to pay the $315 fine imposed by Superior Court Judge Carlos Velarde last week, so he offered one of his canvases, "Hollywood Cowboys," as payment.

Rossi was lucky enough to have been brought before a judge who is an art collector. The judge said that in his opinion, the painting was very good and obviously worth more than the amount of the fine, and he would check with the county purchasing agent to see if it could be accepted as payment.

Pattly Hunter was maid of honor. Bridal attendants were Janet Adams, Sharon Lundquist, Carol Incontro and Pam Friegel. Shelley Smisek, sister of the bride, was flower girl. Shawn Nickel was ringbearer.

Michael Madison was best man. Kurt Olsen, Dennis McCoy, Steve Kennedy and Mike Spencer were groomsmen. Dan Nickel, Kearney, Neb., and Walt Nickel, Grand Island, Neb., brothers of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony at the Thomasville Clubhouse.

Following a honeymoon to Colorado, the couple resides in Omaha, Neb.

lovelier you

By Mary Sue Miller

A young Lovely writes: I have my first real evening dress. No sleeves, just little straps. But there's a hitch. My arms are too thin and gawky. What can I do about it?

The answer: As this is the season of "first" for many young girls, they are suddenly arm-conscious. Here's the remedy:

Evening dress problems

Teach your arms to behave gracefully. Grace makes up for shapelessness. For the purpose, give 10 minutes a day to these "teachers": Stand tall, raise arms high over head and place backs of hands together. Then let arms fall sideways, really let them drop to touch your skirt. Now notice how your elbows, wrists and fingers are relaxed in natural curves. This is one of the most times a day.

Next, keeping the arms relaxed, rest the back of the left hand on the back of the hip and let the right arm, hand lightly flexed, nudge the side of the waist. Last, clasp your hands behind your body, low on the hip, then in front of your body.

With practice the positions become automatic. You can forget about them and you'd better. Dancing partners want undivided attention.

YOUR GAIN

Are you too, too thin? And you never can gain an ounce? Send for my leaflet, YOUR GAIN. It shows you how to gain a pound a week by eating the right foods, working with spot increasing routines and having fun. Plus tips on your most flattering fashion styles. For your copy, write to Mary Sue Miller, in care of your newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin.

Busy day planned

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. predicts that customers will make a record total of about 13.7 million interstate calls this Christmas day, traditionally the busiest day of the year for the phone company.

To meet the demands of such a busy day, the Bell System will add about 3,200 circuits to the telephone network and will have thousands of employes working.

The company expects about 500,000 of the Christmas calls will be made to overseas locations.

AT&T suggests that customers place calls before 6 p.m. Christmas Eve or on Christmas afternoon, which the company said are the least busy times on those days.

Holiday season marks end to 10 cent 1st class mailing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Christmas stamps are in short supply this year because the post office didn't want any leftovers, according to postal officials.

The Christmas mailing season marks the end of 10-cent first-class mail in this country — postal rates rise to 13 cents per ounce on Dec. 28 — and extra-Christmas stamps will have to be destroyed, the officials said.

"The Christmas stamps have no denomination on them because they didn't know about the rate," according to Roy Baker, manager of retail sales and services at the post office here. "They reduced the number just to get through the Christmas period."

There are two 1975 United States stamps. One depicts a 15th-century painting of the Madonna and the other shows an early Christmas card by Louis Prang.

Baker said the Columbus post office ran out of Christmas stamps last week, but received a limited supply during the weekend. However, he added, Christmas mail was running about 1 or 2 per cent below last year's figures.

In Cleveland, postal clerk Laura Czerwony said there seems to be enough supply to meet demand, although a shipment was sent Monday to Cleveland to accommodate card-senders.

"Those who specifically want them for Christmas cards ask for them and don't even want the other kind," she said. "We'll sell them until we get an order to destroy the Christmas stamps."

"We have the new 13-cent stamp on hand — enough to meet the public's needs," Baker said. "And although we may not be able to give everyone three-cent stamps to add to leftover 10-cent stamps, we do have plenty of one's and two's. The need for different usage stamps — one's, two's and three-cent stamps — always changes. After the 25th we'll need the smaller denominations."

Sleepwear traditional best seller for Christmas gifts

Chicago Sun-Times

Most women don't find mink or diamonds under the tree on Christmas morning. They find a nightgown.

Sleepwear is a traditional best-seller for holiday gifts. It's become a Christmas ritual for men. Sure, some men choose long flannel numbers. But they're the exception. You may not like to hear this, but even in this age of feminism, most men still think of women as sex objects. So they buy them sexy, slinky styles in sensuously soft and filmy fabrics.

Would you believe that black lace things are still favorites? They sell best because they have a provocative connotation, with possibilities of romance, says Vivian O'Sullivan, manager of the intimate apparel department at I. Magnin in Chicago.

Red also sells well for the holidays, which is not much of a surprise. And this year, gray, especially in a pale pearl shade with extra lace trim, is a chic color.

Though Miss O'Sullivan says ankle-length styles have been outnumbering knee-lengths during the last few years, this season there has been increased interest in shorties.

Remember the baby dolls of the '50s? They're back again in sweet, demure versions. But they're generally bought by aunts or grandmothers for young girls. The short styles calculated to lure male gift buyers are those with a bit of bordello in them.

"A couple of years ago we couldn't give the short styles away," says Miss O'Sullivan. "Now they check out as soon as they arrive, in black, red and pastels."

your health

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

I have a son who is 16 years old. I am a little worried about him. He seems to want to dress up as a girl when he thinks I am not around. He gets bras of mine, pantyhose, etc., from my dresser. I found a dress of mine removed.

Should I take him to a psychologist or is this just a phase he is going through? Should I mention this to him and chastise him? I am quite upset. — Mrs. A.W.

This is a difficult problem to handle. It doesn't lend itself to easy correction.

I think it would be safe to say that the boy is probably confused about sex drives at this point in his life. He knows he is a male anatomically, but has some urge to be female, at least during these episodes of which you speak.

Some transvestites (that is the man) get a sexual stimulation by dressing in clothes of the opposite sex. This is in contrast to the transsexual individual, who rejects his sex.

This boy's problem may have existed from early years. Maternal dominance or paternal neglect? They often go hand-in-hand anatomically, but it would be important to analyze his other behavior patterns. Does he show feminine traits? Does he have male friends? Does he engage in sports with male friends.

Difficult problem

Dr. George Thosteson

It is my understanding that at 16 little can be done. Transvestites do have heterosexual urges, will marry and have children. If strong-willed enough, social pressures can convince them to abandon their "cross-dress."

It would be a good idea to talk to a counselor — psychiatrist or psychologist — either of whom can give you hints on how to handle the problem. I would not chastise the boy. I would casually ask him what your dress was doing in his room. Accept his answer — or his silence.

Beyond this, you would need, as I said, some professional advice. It is not unusual for small boys to don mother's shoes or even her dress. But this is part of play fantasy, and it usually passes rather quickly. By 16, this should have stopped.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 35 years old and in good health. My doctor has found a dermoid cyst on one of my ovaries and has scheduled surgery for removal. What are the chances of this being malignant? — Mrs. K.F.S.

A cyst is any sac containing a liquid or semi-solid substance. However, some cysts can contain bits of foreign material, as bone or hair. This is a dermoid cyst.

Most cysts are harmless, but neglected they can change for the worse, becoming infected or obstructive. Removal is wise.

Your letter is a testimonial to something I stress continually, but only because I feel it is so important. That is the need for women to have occasional, thorough pelvic examinations.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My little boy, now 2, was not circumcised at birth. How often should the foreskin be retracted and how should the penis be cleaned at bath time?

I haven't done much about this up to now, and I have noticed that retracting the foreskin seems to be uncomfortable for him. — H.C.

You should retract the foreskin gently at each bath and cleanse the part with soap and water. The foreskin will eventually stretch so that the procedure will become less unpleasant. It's an important procedure because neglect of proper hygiene can cause adhesions (phimosis) that will inhibit retraction later.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Thosteson. In care of this newspaper, for his booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents.

Funerals offered as holiday gifts

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — "To do something for people," the Mount Vernon Mortuary is offering free funerals as holiday gifts.

Dick Chaffin, manager of the funeral home, said the giveaway also is designed to "improve business."

The $475 funerals, which include a cloth-covered wooden casket and professional services, will be free to the next of kin of any Sacramento-Roseville area resident who dies before midnight Dec. 31.

Chaffin said it is the second year the gift funerals have been offered. Last year about 30 persons from the area took advantage of the offer, which is widely advertised in local newspapers.

"Even if the customers have never seen our advertisement, we still mention it to them when they come in," Chaffin said.

But the offer has some conditions. Not included are the cost of a cemetery plot, taxes, "honorary" for a clergyman if desired and transportation beyond 20 miles.

Opening lead — K ♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

If you could always get off to the right opening lead you could ride away from your bridge game in a limousine.

No one can be right all the time, but there are certain principles you can follow that will help you a lot.

The most important of these is to lead your partner's suit. You won't always be right here, but even if it turns out wrong your partner isn't likely to be unhappy with you.

On the other hand if you enter into uncharted waters and try to find a better lead, you may really incur his displeasure.

West liked his club holding and decided to lead it. We don't really blame West. That club lead might have been a winner, but this time it worked out badly for him. South grabbed the first club, drew trumps with three leads, discarded two losing hearts on dummy's lost diamonds and eventually lost two clubs and one heart. Of course, one club was ruffed in dummy.

A heart lead would have given East the first three tricks and South would still have had to lose a club at the finish.

ASK THE GOOBY'S

A couple of months ago we showed how a player called "Desperate Dan" obtained a top score in duplicate by bidding six spades and being set three tricks. A couple of readers have asked us to explain why it was such a good result.

The answer is that his score was minus 800. If he had let his opponents play the slam it would have been minus 1270 and everyone had bid the slam so his minus 800 became top for those holding his hand.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if the stamp, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Declo student chosen

ALBION — A Declo High School senior has been chosen to get a page for the Idaho legislature.

Harvin Nielson, 17-year-old president of the Declo High School senior class, will begin six weeks of service as a page for the legislature on Feb. 3.

Nielson—who has lived in Albion for the past nine years—was born in Twin Falls. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Nielson. His father is manager of the local bank.

Harvin was recommended as a page by Rep. Vard Chaburn, Albion. He filled out an application and, on the basis of his academic and extra-curricular activities, received the appointment as page.

Notice of the appointment, dated Dec. 11, arrived Friday. Nielson must arrange his studies with his teachers to maintain his schoolwork. He has a 3.0 plus average—straight A—except for one B when he was a freshman.

The legislature pays a living allowance, for which Nielson will be on duty from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., six days a week. He must arrange his own room and board in Boise.

Nielson wrestles at 138 pounds for Declo High School and was on the football team. He also is active in the LDS Church and recently received his "State to God" award.

WR Area Council proposes budget

SHOSHONE — The Wood River Resource Area Council of Government is proposing a budget of $1.1 million, based on five cents per capita for citizens and counties in the district.

In announcing the budget, Don Fredericksen, Gooding, said the money will be spent, for such things as postage, tour and office supplies. This year's budget expenditures ran $1,150.

Annual election meeting of the organization will be on Jan. 28 at the Gooding Country Club. Nelson King has been named chairman of a nominating committee.

Fredericksen said a notice of grant-in-aid was received from the National Park Service, USDI, for restoration of the McCall Hotel in Shoshone, and local cost to install a strategic stream gauge on Silver Creek amounted to $1,300. Each of the counties most benefited by the Cooperative Silver Creek Study, Blaine, Gooding and Lincoln Counties, will be asked for $500 each and the Wood River Resource Area Council will provide the other $300 to complete the amount.

The council has asked for increased authority for the Corps of Engineers to study waste water quality in the upper Big Wood River area to assist the planning commission of the city and county of Blaine.

Bill Burt, Halley, announces a proposal has been made on a prospective RC&D measure to clean up the old city dump at Halley and use it for an industrial recreation park.

The city of Halley has corresponded with Baden Baden, West Germany, for information and economic appraisal for a health spa within the proposed recreation park. Baden Baden is world famous for health spa activities.

Burley traffic gets stop signs

BURLEY — Stop signs will be erected on 10th Way and 10th Lane at Hilland Avenue in Burley.

The City Council adopted a resolution Monday night ordering stop signs at west traffic at those two intersections.

City Attorney William Parsons said the council will have an ordinance draft ready Jan. 5 to lower the speed limit on South Overland Avenue. The state already had agreed to the lower speed limit inside the city as a compromise on the city's request that the lower speed extend beyond the city limits.

One reason for the lower speed is the Mountain View Elementary School on 27th Avenue.

A proposal also had been made that the city employ a school crossing patrol at 27th Avenue and Overland Avenue.

At Mayor Charles Shandrick's suggestion, the council agreed Monday to return the proposal to the Cassia County School District and let them take care of it.

Parsons said he had discussed the insurance problem and it was thought the city's general liability would cover the crossing guards, but he proposed that the school district could better correlate the duty time with its schedule shifts.

He said the city could deputize the guards for the specific purpose.

Wendell sets fees on uniform basis

WENDELL — The Wendell City council has established a new uniform policy on fees for extension of city water and sewer hookups.

Mrs. Gwen Collett, city clerk, said Monday.

She said in the past the practice has been "uneven" with some individuals charged and the city providing the extension in other cases.

Councilmen decided at last week's meeting that "such costs should be paid by the contractors or builders," the clerk said.

There will be a $75 fee for sewer hookup and inspection and all sewer installation must meet or exceed the state code.

The water hookup fees will remain at $150 for inspection and installation of meters up to 3/4 by 3/4 inch. Any larger meters will necessitate a higher fee, she said.

The original sewer hookup inspection fee was $50, Mrs. Collett said. Then last January, because there was such demand for extension of the lines, the council set a $300 charge for the hookups. Protests were heard about the price and now there will be a uniform fee and policy, she said.

Meet delayed

RUPERT — Monday's regularly scheduled Rupert City Council meeting was postponed until next week.

City clerk Loretta Klingenberg said the meeting has been rescheduled for Tuesday. The council work session will begin at 7 p.m., with the regular meeting at 8 p.m.

NEW YORK — If you're not a man who can throw a baseball through the eye of a needle at 100 miles an hour or thread a golf ball consistently through every hazard man and nature can devise perhaps the next best thing to be these days is a man whose name speaks of some familiarity with a needle, thread, cloth and design.

If so, chances are that someone is willing around to sign you up and put your name on a line of clothing that may eventually find its way to a display area all its own in some department store or in a store specializing in men's clothes.

Although women have been accustomed since the mid-19th century to the impact of individual couturiers on the design of their clothing, the comparable phenomenon in men's wear is only a decade old.

And while traditional attitudes toward men's clothing remains dominant — the Menswear Retailers of America estimates designer clothes to amount roughly to 5 percent of a $23 billion market — the phenomenon, shows no sign of slackening.

— A glance at the Christmas catalogues shows clothing, accessories and scents promoted on the basis of such names as John Weller, Geoffrey Beene, Ralph Lauren, Carlo Palazzi, Christian Dior, Bill Blass, Yves Saint Laurent, Nino Cerutti, Halston and Pierre Cardin.

Barney's, which first began to stock designer clothes about eight years ago with Cardin, now offers at least 20 such labels and is in the midst of a major enlargement and redesign of its International House of Fashion store.

— Grief & Co. a Baltimore-based division of Ganesco and for more than 112 years years a manufacturer of highly regarded tradition—and announces that four "name" designers — Donald Brooks, Lanvin, Ralph Lauren and Guy Laroche — will create four collections.

Assurances sought in spy sentencing

BOSS, Germany (UPI) — Opposition party leaders today demanded assurances from Chancellor Helmut Schmidt that convicted master spy Guenther Guillaume will not be extradited to Communist East Germany before serving his full sentence.

A Duesseldorf state court Monday found the 40-year-old confessed East German agent, who served as an aide to former Chancellor Willy Brandt, guilty of high treason and sentenced him to 13 years in prison.

The court convicted Guillaume's wife, Christel, of simple treason and sentenced her to eight years behind bars.

Willy Weiskirch, spokesman for the opposition Christian Democratic party, said Guillaume "must serve his full sentence and not be sent off to East Germany after a short time."

Government spokesman Klaus Belling said Schmidt's Social Democratic government has no intention of letting Guillaume off before serving his full sentence.

"The matter is irrelevant, and there is no intention on the part of the government to exchange Guillaume," Belling said.

The Guillaume conviction ended West Germany's most celebrated spy affair that toppled the government of former Chancellor Willy Brandt 18 months ago.

Guillaume's only reaction during the hearing was an outburst of laughter when the judge said how he photographed top secret messages, including a personal note from then President Richard Nixon to Brandt on NATO problems, and sent the negatives to East Berlin for relay to the Soviet Union.

During the entire two-hour reading of the verdict and sentencing, both defendants appeared in good spirits.

Only two Communist spies have received harsher sentences — from West — German courts and the government exchanged both of them for other prisoners after six years.

Problems resolvable

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford feels American and Canada are bound to have differences, but none that cannot be resolved; a White House spokesman said today.

The comment came after William J. Porter, the outgoing U.S. ambassador to Canada, told reporters in Ottawa last weekend that evidence of increased Canadian nationalism appeared to be leading to a deterioration of relations between the two countries.

His remarks irritated Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, who told his Parliament Monday the country had gone beyond diplomatic bounds in saying such things publicly.

Porter comments "do not correspond to what either President Ford or Secretary Kissinger have been telling me," Trudeau said.

William Greener, the deputy White House press secretary, said today, "The President and Prime Minister Trudeau have a long-standing close and friendly personal relationship. In any relationship between two countries so closely associated in every respect, there are bound to be differences that arise in certain areas. However, the President feels there are no problems between the two countries that are not solvable."

White House visitor undetected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former University of North Carolina student climbed over the fence surrounding the White House on Thanksgiving Eve and roamed the grounds undetected for almost two hours before being arrested, the Secret Service confirmed today.

A Secret Service spokesman said the same man, identified as Gerald Bryan Galunus, 24, broke into the grounds on Dec. 6 and again was arrested. Galunus, who was unarmed, was charged on both occasions with "unlawful entry."

The incidents were first reported by Washington radiotelevision station WMAL. The station said at one point Galunus got within five feet of Susan Ford, but a White House official denied that.

The station said Galunus was sent to jail after his second arrest where he remains.

Galunus was attempting to see President Ford so he can ask him to pardon his father, an Air Force sergeant convicted on drug smuggling charges, the station said.

The station said on the first occasion Galunus hid in bushes on the South Lawn and eluded guards even after he tripped an electronic warning alarm that turned on floodlights across the lawn.

According to WMAL, this is what happened:

The young man climbed over the fence Thanksgiving eve at the south grounds of the White House, regarded as the building's "backyard." The man was dressed in black and carried a briefcase.

He went 50 yards before he triggered an alarm, causing lights to flood the area, but hid in shrubbery while three security guards searched the area for 10 to 15 minutes.

When the guards left and the lights went off, he continued hiding for a time and then slowly crawled through darkness toward the driveway of the White House where a guard was standing. After a while the intruder stood and walked across open ground toward a car at the door where Susan Ford, the President's 11-year-old daughter, was unloading things from the car.

A guard asked him, "Who are you?"

The man pointed at Miss Ford, who was entering the mansion, and said, "Ask her."

"Keep Susan in the house," the guard shouted, calling for help, and the man was arrested. White House photographer David Kennerly was "at the scene" and saw Susan watch the man being handcuffed and taken into custody.

GE collecting radioactive waste

By BRUCE INGERSOLL
Chicago Sun-Times

CHICAGO — General Electric Co. is turning its $60 million nuclear fuel-recycling plant near Morris, Ill., into the nation's largest commercial storage depot for radioactive wastes from nuclear reactors.

Insurmountable operating problems had rendered the GE facility a white elephant until the Nuclear Regulatory Commission recently permitted a sevenfold increase in the plant's storage capacity.

Nuclear power companies from coast to coast soon will be shipping tons of used-up uranium, "fission products" and deadly plutonium to the GE plant, 40 miles southwest of Chicago. These wastes, called "spent fuel" by the nuclear industry, will be immersed in two deep holding basins. The water absorbs the so-called "decay heat" from the bundles of spent fuel and shields plant workers from radiation.

For the nuclear power industry, the NRC decision on Dec. 3 to let GE expand its capacity from 95 metric tons to 750 could not have been more timely. A glut of spent fuel is building up at the reactor sites throughout the land.

ITEM: Ten reactors, including Commonwealth Edison's two big Dresden reactors near Morris, will have to shut down by mid-1978 unless their operators can somehow find space in their own storage pools to handle a full load of spent fuel.

ITEM: By the end of this month, an estimated 1,624 metric tons of spent fuel will have accumulated in storage pools, according to the Energy Research and Development Administration.

ITEM: The accumulation will swell to 3,550 metric tons by 1980 and to a staggering 10,000 metric tons by 1984, said Cliff Bastin, chief of ERDA's fuel reprocessing branch.

Why is all this radioactive baggage piling up at the reactor sites of Edison and other nuclear power companies? What prevents them from shipping spent fuel to reprocessing plants as originally planned?

There are only three reprocessing plants in the nation. General Electric's facility is inoperable. Nuclear Fuel Services, a Getty Oil subsidiary, is modifying its plant at West Valley, N.Y., but it won't go into operation for four years or so. Allied Chemical's plant at Sellafield, England, is also inoperable.

finishing construction on its plant near Barnwell, S.C.

The Barnwell plant should be physically ready to go in 1977, Bastin said, but Allied-Generals engineers have yet to solve a technical problem — how to solidify liquid wastes from fuel reprocessing.

Thus, there exists "a huge gap in the nuclear fuel cycle," he said, and this gap won't be closed until 1980.

"Technological imperfections are not the only deterrent to the nuclear industry's grand design of recovering uranium and plutonium from spent fuel and recycling them back to reactors as a blend of fresh fuel."

A national debate is raging over the perils of plutonium, one of the most toxic substances known, Ralph Nader and other critics of nuclear power are challenging the adequacy of safeguards to prevent the theft and misuse of plutonium. In the hands of terrorists or blackmailers, plutonium would pose a catastrophic threat, they contend.

The nuclear establishment insists that the critics are exaggerating the risks and belittling the safeguards. Nevertheless, the controversy has forced the NRC to scrutinize alternative safeguards.

Until the plutonium issue is settled, Bastin said, the nuclear industry has but one option: Pack the bundles of spent fuel more tightly together in existing and new pools. This is just what General Electric is doing. It is putting new racks in its pools. Each rack holds fuel bundles in tighter clusters.

"We're trying to help the reactor operators, who had counted on us to reprocess their spent fuel," said Eugene E. Volland, GE plant manager. By the end of February, the racks will be ready for shipments of spent fuel arriving by rail or truck in radiation-proof casks.

Twelve companies are moving prudently to expand the holding capacity of pools at 12 reactors across the country, according to NRC officials.

General Electric's fuel-reprocessing plant was to have gone into operation in 1972. However, GE engineers ran into a sticky problem. The reprocessing system kept plugging up during test runs. Unplugging moreover proved difficult since high levels of radioactivity forced them to do it by remote control.

Prof makes wood flutes

MOSCOW — Two years ago Richard Hahn spent several weeks researching and photographing a late 19th century wooden flute. Now he manufactures replicas in his garage.

Hahn, a University of Idaho associate professor of music, found buying original early instruments extremely costly. "Good string instruments are hard to find for less than $20,000 and those usually are snapped up by investors," he noted. "A flute supposedly played by Frederick the Great went for $12,000."

Hahn also found that many instruments inadvertently were being destroyed by well-meaning individuals who were attempting repairs without proper guidelines. "There is a definite lack of knowledge of even the basic techniques of preservation and restoration of early instruments," Hahn said.

The Idaho Research Foundation gave Hahn a grant to gather and codify information on the preservation and restoration of historical musical instruments. The study was limited to a detailed analysis of contemporary historical instrument makers' construction practices.

Hahn also conducted personal interviews with the few remaining individuals in the United States who are engaged in instrument making as it was before the advent of mass production.

"I wanted to learn the proper restorative techniques in order to work on my own collection of early and modern flutes and also to be able to duplicate flutes not readily available to students," Hahn said.

The young, bearded musician, who is a member of the Northwest Wind Quintet, spent time at the Smithsonian Institute, the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Boston Museum of Fine Arts exploring the vast material available concerning early wind and string instruments.

While at the Smithsonian, Hahn spent many hours taking photographs of one flute of Baroque design by H. Gressner of Dresden. "A one-keyed flute with conical bore, it was considered to be a 'perfect instrument' by flutists from 1750 to 1800, the zenith of flute playing," Hahn said.

"The turning point in the evolution to the modern flute was reached between 1810 and 1850."

Hahn chose the Gressner flute to duplicate for several reasons. "The instrument plays well and sounds mellower than a lot of typical Baroque flutes. It has a series of middle joints, all intact still — and can be played at a modern pitch and at a low pitch," Hahn explained.

Also, the cross fingerings or half-tones on the Gressner flute are not only in tune but have a very good quality sound. Many Baroque flutes are hazy and unclear, he added.

However, actually duplicating the flute wasn't easy. Hahn first had to learn photography. "I had to make measurements to 1/100th of an inch and the only way I could do this was to make a photograph with the image being a 1:1 ratio with the actual instrument," Hahn said.

After teaching himself the basics of photography and purchasing the necessary equipment — micro lens, camera body, darkroom equipment — Hahn took the film into the darkroom and blew up each photo to the full size of the flute's section. He then took his measurements from the photographs by cutting along one curve and using a micrometer.

Also a furniture maker, Hahn has built a modern design coffee table, elaborate bookshelves and cabinets, two harpsichords from the 17th and 18th centuries and the garage which contains his workshop.

From his woodworking experience and knowledge of flutes, Hahn knew that woods make the difference in recreating early instruments.

"A harder wood makes for a sharper edged sound," he said. Traditionally, ebony was used during the 18th century and then rosewood, an abrasive, was brought in during the 19th century.

Hahn uses both and also boxwood, a light-colored, soft wood, originally from Turkey. He obtains his wood in large slabs, varying in size, from a New York importer. Each slab is cut to two-by-four lengths.

After a rough cut and boring, each piece is set aside to cure. Then a center hole is bored and the sections are curved to their proper shape.

Beating checked in Quinlan case

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — A New Jersey grand jury has been empaneled to investigate the possibility that Karen Ann Quinlan may have been beaten the night she lapsed into a drug and alcohol coma, it was disclosed Tuesday.

A spokesman for state Attorney General William F. Hyland said doctors and investigators have been puzzled by bruises on Miss Quinlan's body and the source of drugs which she consumed.

As part of the probe, the state of New Jersey asked a court in Rock Island, Ill., to order one of Miss Quinlan's companions to appear before the grand jury here.

A law enforcement source said investigators believe the companion, William Zywot, who formerly lived in Miss Quinlan's home town of Landing, N.J., was with her last April 14 when she went into a coma after consuming gin and tonics and tranquilizers at a tavern.

The state spokesman said the investigation began at Hyland's request even before a trial last October on a motion by Miss Quinlan's parents to have a respirator removed so their daughter could die a natural death. Judge Robert Muir Jr. denied their request.

During the trial, Miss Quinlan's doctors testified they never were able to learn what happened in the hours before she was brought unconscious to Newton Memorial Hospital. An initial hospital report indicated only that she had apparently suffered an adverse reaction to a combination of drugs and alcohol.

Stroke victim believes in Santa

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Justy Tuck hasn't been able to cry since a stroke partially crippled her two years ago. But if tears were possible, this would be the time for them.

"She would cry from joy, not sorrow."

"I hope no one ever tries to tell me the Christmas spirit is dead," said Mrs. Tuck, 47, who suffered a stroke two years ago which paralyzed her right arm, impaired her speech and walk and left her unable to shed tears. "I know it's not. People really want to help."

Two weeks ago, Mrs. Tuck and her husband, L. Harold Tuck, spent almost all the family's money on Christmas presents for the couple's four children, aged 1 to 7. The children were delighted because of the poorly wrapped presents under the Christmas tree.

"The kids were so happy, they'd look at the boxes all wrapped up and shake them before opening them," said Mrs. Tuck. "I spent all our money on presents — maybe I had to do that! Last year we didn't have any money at all. Our friends gave us presents."

But a thief cut short the Tucks' happiness. The family returned home from a visit with relatives to find all the presents gone along with stereo equipment, tapes and a cello maker. It was the fourth time in a year the house had been burglarized.

"Things were pretty bleak," said Mrs. Tuck. "We didn't know what we were going to do."

But others did know what to do. People from as far away as Oklawaha decided to help the Tucks when they read of the family's plight.

"Things were pretty bleak," said Mrs. Tuck. "We didn't know what we were going to do." Gifts and donations poured in, so many that Tuck is now referring donors to children's homes.

Wednesday, December 17, 1975 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 43
"We've never had a Christmas like this and I know we'll never top it," said Tuck, who suffered a stroke himself when he was in and still has occasional seizures. He works on the assembly line at a suburban Ford plant but is frequently laid off because of economic problems within the auto industry.

No doubt you're aware that contracts in numerous societies customarily have been sealed with kisses. But did you know that if those contracts were to be broken, it was the custom also to unseal them with kisses? Breakers of such contracts could not simply abandon them without a word. The honorable thing was to give formal notice of dissolution by again kissing the parties to the broken contracts.

AT WHAT AGE is a person who drinks liquor likely to drink the most of same? Between 21 and 24, according to a 12-year study of imbibery. The stereotype of the alcoholic is usually pictured as somebody of middle age. But the facts indicate most drinkers start to cut-back somewhat on their bottle feedings after age 25.

Federal 'rules' violated

Washington Star
 WASHINGTON — An investigation into personnel practices at Action, the federal Civil Service agency, has revealed a systematic operation to turn Civil Service jobs into political appointments, the Civil Service Commission says.

"In a report on this investigation," the commission said, "the agency conducted a political screening of candidates for merit system appointments from its creation in 1974 until early 1974. In two instances, the commission found 'good reason to believe' that records were destroyed or otherwise kept from scrutiny to avoid detection."

"In a covering letter to the report addressed to Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif., the commission said the campaign to corrupt the merit system was carried on in violation of federal law and regulations — but the commission added that it isn't in a position to prove it.

Commission Executive Director Raymond Jacobsen wrote to Hawkins that "The testimony we have obtained leaves no doubt in our minds that there was widespread political screening of candidates from Action's creation to about May 1972 and to a lesser extent from that time until early in 1974."

"However, we were unable to obtain documentary evidence in specific cases to establish individual responsibility or culpability," Jacobsen continued. "This is due principally to the fact that most of the known records of political screening activity were destroyed."

Jacobsen also noted that no evidence of improper political screening after early 1974 was found.

The heaviest period of political activity coincided with the time when Alan Hawkins, assistant director of Action for staff placement and training, the commission said. "There is no question that during his tenure there was in operation a system for checking the political affiliation of candidates for positions in Action and for making staffing decisions the basis of political consideration," according to the commission's report, which was made available by Hawkins.

In January of this year, several former employees of the agency charged that they used the agency as a proving ground for the techniques later set down in a document called "The Federal Political Personnel Manual." May said in the manual that the overriding goal of personnel management was to place qualified and politically reliable officials with an eye to firm political control regardless of Civil Service requirements.

Action had a prepared statement ready when a reporter inquired about the commission's findings. It was attributed to current personnel chief, Philip Bourbon, and read in part: "We agree with the findings that the actions of the present administration of the agency are totally legal and proper. We are unable to respond regarding allegations against the previous administrations."

Mexico protest denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department today denied reports Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has sent a letter of protest to Mexico against its mistreatment of American prisoners in Mexican jails.

"The secretary has not sent such a letter nor has the department delivered a protest in any form," an official said.

Approximately 550 Americans are serving prison terms in Mexico on a variety of charges, most of them for violations of drug laws.

In a recent report, a House International Relations subcommittee said American prisoners had been subjected to torture, forced to sign self-incriminating documents and in some cases had been victims of entrapment.

Castleford sewer facility complete

By LORAYNE SMITH
 Times-News writer

CASTLEFORD — Castleford's new sewerage system is complete and the town fathers have heaved a deep sigh of relief.

Mayor E. F. Pinkston said it has been a long struggle with "nothing but trouble" in installing the town's first sewage facility.

Residents started looking up to the new system in July and the task is now virtually complete except for one item.

"The City Council has not yet received the final official approval on the $18,000 project, financed partially by a $6,000 revenue bond issue and state and federal grants."

But the mayor said all the paper work is done and "everything is in" the major governmental approval.

Castleford voters twice approved the project on the city issue Feb. 17, 1974, with only 100 more votes cast at the time. Young Mrs. Amos Williams, city clerk, estimated only "three or four" registered voters in the town failed to vote in the election.

Financing the project was the least of the Castleford problems, as Pinkston recalls. It seems the town sits on a rocky ridge and part of the excavation for the sewerage lines was done through solid rock.

Then the lagoons leaked and some 4,000 yards of clay had to be hauled before they finally were sealed.

Two lift pumps pump the town's sewage 230 feet into two lagoons. The lift stations cost some $2,000, Pinkston said.

The lagoons are located on 26 acres of land owned by the town and their capacity far exceeds the current population of Castleford which the mayor estimates between 1,200 and 1,500 persons.

"Castleford will have to grow a lot before these ever are filled," he said.

Proper operation of bacteria and water in the aeration ponds eliminates all odors from the lagoons. Pinkston said and might be added at times, such as when the ice is melting, there can be some odor.
