

No moderation for US inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of living continued its steady climb to November, increasing 0.7 per cent for the second consecutive month, the Labor Department said today.

The increase, which translates into an annual rate of 8.4 per cent, dashed administration predictions that inflation would begin to moderate near the end of 1975.

Big increases in auto insurance and mortgage interest rates, property taxes, natural gas prices, telephone services, new cars and some foods cut deeply into a 0.9 per cent increase that the average worker received in his paycheck.

The real earnings of an average worker, nonetheless, rose 0.7 per cent, the department said.

The Consumer Price Index was 165.6 in November, meaning that goods and services that cost $100 in 1967 now cost $165.60.

Food prices increased 0.6 per cent in November, compared to a 1.3 per cent jump the previous month. The costs of other commodities rose 0.3 per cent.

The biggest increases occurred in services, which rose 1.1 per cent as a result of sharp increases in transportation costs and prices of household services.

An 8.5 per cent rise in auto insurance rates forced all transportation costs up 3 per cent. Auto repairs and parking fees rose 1 per cent.

Household service costs rose 1.3 per cent, reflecting a 1.6 per cent rise in mortgage interest rates. The department said mortgage rates were influenced by higher interest on FHA insured loans.

Property taxes were up 2.1 per cent while natural gas costs rose 3.4 per cent and telephone service rates climbed 1.4 per cent — the largest monthly increases for these items during all of 1975.

In another report, the Commerce Department said manufacturers' orders for durable goods fell 1.2 per cent in November. Commerce said the declines were "widespread." It was the second month of declines following five months of gains during the initial stages of recovery from the recession.

Both Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, and James Pate, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, have gone on record recently saying the rise in the cost of living is moderating in the final months of 1975.

Pate wrote in the December issue of Commerce Today that the index probably would rise at an annual rate of about 5 per cent in late 1975 and early next year. This would produce a 6 per cent annual increase through 1976.

"Six per cent inflation is still unacceptably high," Pate said. But he noted it would "represent continued improvement" over the estimated 9-10 per cent rate of this year and the 11 per cent increase in 1974.

"Looking ahead," he said, "it is likely that the overall rate of inflation will be influenced in large part by prices of energy and food at home, which have been volatile in recent years."

TRAVELERS jam Chicago's O'Hare International Airport Terminal Thursday as the holiday crush increases. Airlines said today there are plenty of seats available for travelers willing to wait until early next week and Amtrak reported it has limited train space. There was a ray of light today with word that United Airlines and striking machinists had reached tentative agreement. (Related story, p. 2.) (UPI)

All homeward bound

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today vetoed a $45 billion appropriations bill that also contains an anti-inflation provision on the grounds it provides nearly $1 billion more than he requested and represents "a classic example" of "unchecked spending."

The bill would have provided money for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today vetoed a $45 billion appropriations bill that also contains an anti-inflation provision on the grounds it provides nearly $1 billion more than he requested and represents "a classic example" of "unchecked spending."

The bill would have provided money for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

Ford seeks US campaign funds
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, apparently declining not to raise the entire $10 million campaign spending limit on his own, has asked the Federal Election Commission for an initial $300,000 in matching money.

Ford and two Democrats, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas and former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, were certified by the FEC Thursday as eligible for federal matching funds.

Tax bill accord in Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate and President Ford reached a last minute compromise on a tax bill today, but House Democratic leaders refused to go along with the Senate's promise to cut future government spending by the same amount as future tax cuts.

House leaders said they would pass their own tax cut bill with their own spending language and let the Senate — and Ford — take it over.

The House leadership's reaction to the Senate-Ford compromise at least temporarily derailed a deal that would prevent withholding taxes from rising early next year.

However, the fact that Ford agreed to accept the Senate promise to hold down spending, plus the maneuvering on both sides, raised hopes a final compromise would be worked out before the day was over.

The Ford-Senate compromise took shape when the Senate Finance Committee approved the same tax cut bill that Ford vetoed earlier.

NY bank raises prime rate

NEW YORK (UPI) — First National City Bank, a trendsetter on interest rates, today raised its prime interest rate to 7 1/2 per cent from 7 per cent.

The higher level brings the key lending rate at Citibank, the nation's second largest bank behind Bank of America of San Francisco, in line with that charged by most of the nation's commercial banks.

3 Demos quit Massachusetts race

BOSTON (UPI) — Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and George S. McGovern, D-S.D., have formally asked their names be removed from the Massachusetts March 2 presidential primary ballot.

The three were on the list of seven Republicans and 10 Democrats put on the ballot by state Secretary of State Paul Guzzi earlier this month. Affidavits asking their names be removed have been filed in Guzzi's office.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and U.S. Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson, on the GOP list, have indicated they will also ask to be stricken from the ballot, although no formal notification has been received.

Solons to get 3 Yanks' remains

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — The remains of three American servicemen listed as missing in action will be turned over to a congressional delegation in Hanoi Sunday and flown to Bangkok, an official of the U.S. high commission for refugees said today.

The congressional delegation identified the dead soldiers as Lt. Col. Jesse Taylor Jr., Lt. Col. Stanley James Pitton and Capt. Dwight Terry. The three were described as flyers, but information on their hometowns was not immediately available.

Testimony rechecked ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The staff of the House Judiciary Committee, has been ordered to review President Ford's testimony last year about his decision to pardon Richard M. Nixon.

The White House said Thursday Ford's testimony was accurate and complete, including his statement that the issue was central to him by any Nixon representative.

Lone MV Selective Service office shuts

BY BILL LAZARUS
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — The only U.S. Selective Service office in the Magic Valley shut down Thursday.

"There is no requirement for them (18-year-olds) to register at this moment. Therefore, there is no reason to maintain an office," Maj. Gen. George Bennett, state director of Selective Service, said today.

Selective Service used to have six offices around Idaho. Now, two offices remain, one in Boise and one in Lewiston. The Lewiston office is to be closed in February and eventual closure of the state headquarters in Boise is "a pretty good possibility," according to Bennett.

The choice apparently is between annual registration of 18-year-olds for a possible future draft one day each year, or closure of all offices in the state.

Selective Service, he said, has not been including people into the armed services since December 1972. The registration of 18-year-olds, he said, was abandoned by presidential proclamation on April 1 this year.

Correspondingly, Selective Service's budget has been cut. In fiscal 1975, Bennett said, the agency had a national budget of $47.5 million. This fiscal year the budget is $75.5 million. For fiscal 1976 the agency requested a $28.5 million budget but "that figure apparently is going to be reduced substantially," Bennett said.

He said the $28.5 million budget proposal would allow for a national draft registration of 18-year-olds one day each year.

But, "right at the moment it doesn't appear that will happen." He said that if registration is not re-instituted he "would assume" that only a national headquarters would be kept open. But, Bennett added, "I'm not in a position to say because that decision has not been made yet to my knowledge."

He said that at present local Selective Service boards are still intact but are only involved in "helping to plan annual registration should it occur."

The Selective Service system has 2,200 employees nationwide. "If the system goes out we'll have to seek other employment or retire," Bennett said. He said the majority of local directors in Idaho are retiring.

Mary Vanhook, Jerome, was in charge of the Twin Falls branch office. Mrs. Vanhook was reportedly in Boise today, for retirement ceremonies.

Stevens sworn in as newest justice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Paul Stevens was sworn in today as the 101st justice of the Supreme Court in a brief public ceremony witnessed by President Ford and retired Justice William O. Douglas, the man Stevens replaced.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger administered the judicial oath and then wished Stevens "a long and happy career" as a colleague.

Stevens, 55, who has been sitting on the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago, was confirmed to the post unanimously by the Senate Wednesday.

After Ford officially informed Burger that Stevens had been nominated and properly confirmed by the Senate, Attorney General Edward Levi produced the "duly signed" commission, which was read aloud by Court Clerk Michael Rodak Jr.

Rodak then escorted Stevens to Burger's place on the bench, where the chief justice administered the judicial oath. Stevens swore to "do equal right to the poor and to the rich."

A few minutes earlier, Stevens had taken the constitutional oath in the Justices' private conference room.

The most extensive security precautions in the court's history accompanied the brief ceremony. The front bronze doors of the building, were closed and all guests were checked in on the ground level.

Angola aid ban stalls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate today put off efforts to halt all covert U.S. aid to Angola until after the Christmas recess, giving the administration time to urge other nations to remove their forces from Angola.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said an administration supporter filibuster was the main reason for the decision not to press for a vote on legislation, sponsored by Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., that would prohibit any funds in the pending $112.4 billion defense authorization bill from being used for covert aid to Angola.

"There is a filibuster," Humphrey told reporters. "We are realists. I can count. So can you. There ain't no bill."

But Humphrey said the Senate Foreign Relations Committee "needs a great deal more information" to plug loopholes in other appropriations legislation used by the CIA for various covert operations.

"We are chasing rabbits when there is a lion loose," Humphrey said. Humphrey said the interim holiday period would be used by the administration to pursue a diplomatic initiative administration sources said was already under way to convince the Soviet Union its intervention in Angola was jeopardizing East-West detente.

"We are simply telling them the administration to proceed with diplomatic negotiations to get the Soviets out, get the Cubans out, get the South Africans out," Humphrey said.

April, Ford had a 47-46 per cent lead over Humphrey. By September it had grown to 49-42 per cent lead.

The latest survey was conducted from Nov. 24 to Dec. 1.

Monetary prop ready

PARIS (UPI) — The United States and its top industrialized allies adopted a common stand today on how to prop up the ailing world monetary system.

The decision was announced by French Finance Minister Jean-Pierre Fourcade and British Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey after a closed-door meeting of the Group of Ten.

The Group includes the non-Communist world's wealthiest nations — the United States, Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, Holland, Belgium, Sweden, Canada and Japan.

The nations are coordinating their strategy on "world monetary issues."

Fourcade said, however, that International Monetary Fund Director Johannes Witteveen was opposed to parts of the accord, claiming they ran counter to IMF rules.

Poll shows Hubert in front

NEW YORK (UPI) — A survey of 1,213 voters on their choice for president next year shows 52 per cent prefer Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey over President Ford, the party's poll reported Friday. Forty per cent said they would vote for Ford.

Those polled also preferred Humphrey over Ronald Reagan, 50-43 per cent, surveyed Sunday.

Shoshone numbed by deaths of teenagers

By CHRIS PECK
Times-News writer

SHOSHONE — The high school band played "Still is the Night" while townspeople of Shoshone sat in stunned silence this afternoon at the funeral of two local girls.

Services for Cheryl Davidson, 15, and Kathy Churchman, 16, were held in the Shoshone High School gym at 1 p.m.

School Principal Jim Clements donated the gymnasium for the funeral because it was the only building large enough for the crowd who came to pay final respects.

The deaths of a school cheerleader and the daughter of a Shoshone city councilman have numbed this small community.

"It's hard to explain how totally subdued this town is," high school English teacher Gene Harris said this morning. "The day after this happened the school was totally quiet. I've never seen anything like it."

(Twelve-year-old) Cheryl Davidson died on a freight train that smashed into their car in downtown Shoshone.

The intersection did not have railroad dropmarks which had been on order for months.

"I have some very bitter feelings about these deaths," Clements admitted. "You can bet the railroad is putting in those dropmarks today."

The two girls killed in the accident were "very popular" in Shoshone, according to English teacher Harris.

Kathy was the school principal's secretary and Harris had the Davidson girl in his speech classes.

"These girls did everything available in the high school," Harris said.

"Tomorrow night was supposed to be one of the highlights of the school year. In Shoshone, the junior-senior prom was planned for the gym."

But Shoshone students voted Thursday to cancel their prom after learning the news of the Davidson and Churchman deaths.

"We canceled the prom out of respect to these two girls," Principal Clements said, "and because nobody is in the mood."

Moluccan gunmen surrender, free 25 Amsterdam consulate hostages

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (UPI) — South Moluccan gunmen who held about two dozen persons hostage in the Indonesian consulate for 15 days surrendered today and released their hostages.

Twenty-five smiling hostages walked out of the consulate at 1:22 p.m. (12 a.m. MST) and entered a special bus. They were followed about five minutes later by the seven gunmen who stood out of the building one by one.

The surrender came five days after another band of South Moluccans meekly gave up and released the 23 hostages who had been in a country train they hijacked about 75 miles north of Amsterdam.

Both sets of gunmen were demanding independence from Indonesia for their Spice Islands, homeland of a former part of old Dutch empire.

The consulate siege lasted 362 hours and two minutes — Holland's longest running hostage drama.

The twin sieges left four persons dead — three killed on the train by gunmen who went before each slaying, and one man who died of injuries received when he jumped from the consulate shortly after the gunmen seized it.

Cheers broke out among the crowds behind heavy police barriers outside the consulate as the hostages came out of the building. Police, marines, and other law-enforcement forces cordoned off the streets. Doctors in white coats stood by with half a dozen ambulances. Police vans were parked on all surrounding roads and alongside the barbed wire and sandbag barriers. Everything glided under a steady drizzle.

After the gunmen were driven off in police vans, two South Moluccan mediators — the Rev. Semol Melary and Johannes Manuasa, president of the self-proclaimed South Moluccan Republic — left the building.

They had met face-to-face with the gunmen for an hour to arrange the surrender.

The gunmen, each of whom was heard to shout a battle cry as he left the building, were driven in a police cortege of motorcycles and vans to police headquarters where they are to be interrogated and officially charged.

Bomb squad experts entered the consulate, followed by Indonesian police and the Sutoyo Yuwono Proclamation. In the Hague, the government, broke off its weekly session to listen to news of the surrender on the radio.

Joyful relatives of the hostages, many of whom had maintained a nonstop two week vigil in a hotel around the corner, cried, shouted and waved as the 'ordained' ended. People leaned out of windows and hung over balconies of nearby houses.

The surrender and the release of hostages came after a government 'eris' team' headed by Prime Minister Joop den Uyl met to discuss the long standoff.

Negotiators open way for United, mechanics to settle long strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Negotiators for United Airlines and some 16,000 striking employees tentatively agreed to a new contract today, opening the way for the nation's biggest airline to resume holiday service.

United said in a statement today that pending ratification it is preparing to resume more than 30 per cent of its services on Monday, 80 per cent by Tuesday and 100 per cent by Wednesday, Christmas Eve.

The settlement was reached following all-night bargaining sessions conducted by federal mediators at the National Mediation Board. A board spokesman described the agreement as a "stroke of luck."

Chief federal mediator W.J. Usery predicted the airline's two-week shutdown would be over by Monday. Both the company and union agreed to do all they could to resume flights as equitably as possible.

The workers, represented by the International Association of Machinists, walked off their jobs Dec. 6, forcing the airline to lay off another 13,000 workers and cancel all flights through Christmas Eve.

Millions of holiday travelers were forced to seek alternate routes. Thursday the Civil Aeronautics Board granted permission for other airlines to fly some of the United's routes to free the Christmas rush.

The terms of the agreement were without subject to ratification by the striking workers. The settlement surprised federal mediators, who privately were prepared for an extended strike.

Both sides were under increased pressure when the talks resumed Thursday night for the first time in eight days. Earlier that day, the striking workers had received their last paycheck, and the government had granted three other airlines permission to fly some United routes.

Sanctions might gain US approval

Do you remember the talk about 'the new Cuba'? The Cuba we should 'normalize our relations with'—The Cuba that promises no longer to interfere in other people's politics? The Cuba a couple of trendy senators opened their arms to on a pliant, exuberant, child of state of the Congo.

Well, it transpires that the reason Cuba doesn't have guerrilla fighters roaming around such countries as Colombia, Bolivia, and Venezuela these days is that Cuba's resources are strained. You see, Cuba is off-liberating Angola. From the Portuguese? No; from other Angolans.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

An update from that was spoken not long ago by then Senator Fulbright. "We have no quarrel with any country in the world, no matter how repugnant its policies, unless that country seeks to export those policies." But this of course is different. It isn't as though the bad guys were winning in a purely local context. If the Luanda government prevails, it will be the direct result of Soviet-Cuban interference. That interference gives the lie to Soviet protestations made public by Leonid Brezhnev when he last visited this country, and to public protestations made by Fidel Castro every week or so.

Positive side of U.S. cleanup

Another myth bites the dust. We've always heard and generally accepted the comment that strict pollution controls would cause many plants to close and lead to a large job loss. Usually, such claims are made by firms facing an expensive cleanup chore, and their comments are laced with understandable hyperbole. Even so, we generally accepted the notion: Now the White House Council on Environmental Quality has released a report which suggests just the opposite is the case. Environmental cleanup creates many more jobs than it eliminates.

Deer figures explained

Editor, Times-News: This is in regard to Joseph C. Greenley's rebuttal carried in the Nov. 16 issue of the T.N. It seems Mr. Greenley is in disagreement with everything I said, including the figures on the size of staled deer herds and hunter success rates. Just for the record, the figures used in my article, "Public Awakens to Decline of Idaho Deer Herds," were from an article published nationwide in the November, 1974, issue of Outdoor Life magazine, after the editors did a nationwide survey on the size of deer herds and success rates.

Appreciative

Editor, Times-News: I would like to put in a few good words for the two gentlemen of the sheriff's department who were so kind and considerate to see that I got home safely from the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital on Nov. 23 after losing my husband.

Pet mourned

Editor, Times-News: Tigey's a murderer loose in Twin Falls; he drives a green truck, and his name is "hit and run" driver.

Thoughts for today

"Have courage for the great sorrows of life and patience for the small ones; and when you have laboriously accomplished your daily task, go to sleep in peace. God is awake." — Victor Hugo, French novelist.

The F. & G. Dept. is on the right track shortening the game seasons; however, they're not acting fast enough for the herds' depleted condition. Some units still have 9 weeks' open season; that's far too long under present circumstances. As I said before, some units may have to be closed altogether for a few years to allow the herds to replenish themselves.

I said Idaho has the smallest deer herds in the West except Hawaii. Mr. Greenley says there are 3 western states with smaller herds than Idaho. They are Hawaii, Arizona and Nevada.

T-N error on vote claimed

Editor, Times-News: In answer to your editorial "Church opts for labor." You stated: "For the record, the other three members of Idaho's congressional delegation opposed the bill."

It makes only common sense to shorten the seasons and protect the females now. A lot of sportsmen won't like the idea and the F. & G. Dept. will be criticized, but if people want to save their game animals, it must be done soon or it won't be a question of poor hunting in the future. It will mean completely closing hunting in the entire state in the very near future due to no game animals left at all.

Mr. Greenley himself admitted at the public meeting of C.S.I. on October 20 that hunting license sales were down considerably this year. Well, mister, that's just the tip of the iceberg! If drastic changes aren't made soon, and I mean soon, not in a few years, they'll see license sales drop thousands more each year.

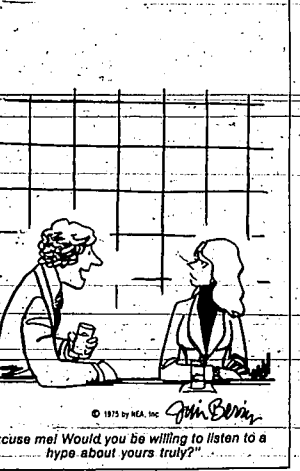

I realize the average person in Idaho couldn't care less how many people live in Pennsylvania. In 1974, there were 18 million in Pennsylvania, but in Pennsylvania, not less than "one million" like Idaho; and Pennsylvania has 700,000 deer. New York with its huge human population of even more people than Pennsylvania has 300,000 deer. The only reason I compare these states is to prove, beyond a shadow of a doubt, that a state can have lots of people and still maintain good large deer herds.

Editor's note: There is no error in this case. Sen. McClure's office says he voted against the commonsense pickers bill. That claim is supported by Congressional Quarterly's Nov. 22 Weekly Report, which shows McClure voting against the bill.

American gunrunners

It should shock the public to learn that the murderous cycle of terrorism that grips Northern Ireland is heavily abetted by arms supplied by Irish-Americans in the United States. On no grounds is such aid justified and it is encouraging that the U.S. and other governments are vigorously combating the illegal and dangerous arms flow.

Medicaid fund demands put Idaho HAW 'in hole'

BOISE (UPI) — An unprecedented increase in demands on Medicaid funds put the Idaho Health and Welfare Department in a $5 million hole. Its acting director says it will require shifting welfare funds to balance.

Joe Nagel told reporters Thursday there also is a $700,000 deficit in other programs that will require abolishment of programs and staff positions to correct.

He said the Medicaid deficit was not a result of bad management or bad administration but an "increase in clients and in the cost of medical care."

"Idaho is not peculiar in this problem," said Nagel. "Three-fourths of the other states are in the same situation."

He said $900,000 of the deficit will be made up from funds earmarked for aid to dependent children because there has been a "reimbursement" in that category and a surplus there.

The agency will ask the legislature for $500,000 in a supplemental appropriation to combine with the $900,000 welfare surplus for a $1.4 million total that will generate $3.6 million in federal money to cover the $5 million gap.

"The department does not have the general fund money to earn the receipts that would the legislature we could."

Nagel said the department to adjust a $780,000

deficit also will:

- Reduce the Central Office budget by $300,000 in welfare, $80,000 in legal work and $60,000 for management.
- Eliminate the Resource Development Division in the Central Office, abolish eight positions from that of director Roy Hancy to secretaries and transfer other positions to different divisions.
- Eliminate the Alcohol Treatment Unit and its 10-member staff and three administrative support units.
- Freeze all new hiring in the Department with the exception of training officer and administrator for the Division of Community Rehabilitation and stop meritorious increases, promotions or re-classifications not already received by the Central Office.
- Eliminate the budget for Idaho State School and Hospital by $50,000.
- Reduce the general fund budgets by $25,000 in both Region II and IV and by $10,000 in Region IV.

Nagel said the measures should balance the budget by the end of the fiscal year.

In a memo to the staff, he said "the obvious long range issue which must be addressed is that part of the Department's financial growth which has been uncontrolled and unplanned."

Action praised

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Steve Symms applauded the House action Thursday that sustained President Ford's veto of the tax bill, calling it "a vote of compassion and common sense."

Ford vetoed the measure Wednesday because it lacked a provision for a corresponding spending cut. The bill would have extended another $16 billion in income tax reductions over the next six months. The house sustained the veto 265-157.

Symms, who voted to sustain the president, said he was "delighted at the common sense the House displayed."

"We all know that there's no such thing as a free lunch," he said. "If taxes are lowered without a corresponding cut in government spending as the president requested, some one still must pay the bills."

Congressmen against override

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Both Idaho Congressmen voted against overriding President Ford's tax cut bill veto Thursday.

Rep. George Hansen and Rep. Steve Symms, were among 125 Republicans who voted against overriding. There were also 32 Democrats voting against.

Voting to override were 246 Democrats and 19 Republicans. The House failed to muster the necessary two-thirds majority to override the veto, on a 265-157 roll call vote.

Solons to receive pre-filed proposals

BOISE (UPI) — Legislative proposals giving a tax break to low income property owners and doing away with annual sessions of the Idaho Legislature were among 14 pre-filed measures printed and returned Thursday to the office of Lt. Gov. John V. Evans.

Evans said the measures would be mailed to all legislators as well as daily and weekly newspapers. He said any other pre-filed proposals also would be mailed out as soon as they were printed.

Both the tax and legislative session measures were among six filed by Sen. Dane Watkins, R-Idaho Falls.

One of Watkins' proposals would provide a reduction of ad valorem taxes in a current tax year for those who have a household income of between $3,000-$5,500.

He pre-filed a Resolution calling for a constitutional amendment which would return the legislature to biennial sessions during odd years.

Among other measures by Watkins were bills repealing the motor vehicle inspection law and providing that only persons with a violation during the three years his driver's license was valid would be required to take the written examination for renewal.

He also filed proposals which would exempt purchases by charitable institutions from the sales tax and which would allow cities or other political subdivisions to create in debtness for rehabilitating existing electrical generating facilities when approved by a major of qualified voters.

Four of the bills were authored by Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Lewiston. They dealt with salaries for county prosecutors and county commissioners, adopting the interstate compact on the placement of children and leasing of school buses to nonprofit organizations.

Cenarrusa to ignore law

BOISE (UPI) — Secretary of State Pete T. Cenarrusa says he is going to ignore a new voting law that requires candidates for the state House of Representatives to run against specific opponents.

Cenarrusa notified the leadership of the legislature that he will not require candidates for the House to file their candidacy by June 1-7. The legislature made such declarations — known as the "head-to-head" candidacy — mandatory in a 1973 law. Since then, Attorney General Wayne L. Kidwell has called the bill unconstitutional.

Brezhnev health big question at age 69

LEONID BREZHNEV ... turns 69 today and thus political well-being has been the subject of persistent speculation for more than a year.

Kissinger described as "total fabrication" a Newsweek report that the Soviet ambassador in Washington had told him Brezhnev was suffering from a terminal illness.

The Soviet leader's periodic, often unexplained illnesses and his tendency to slur words have prompted many observers to suggest he is suffering from a serious disease. Cancer of the jaw has frequently been mentioned. The tumor mills had more to work with in October when Brezhnev postponed two summit meetings with French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing without giving a reason.

This week he did not attend the first Cuban Communist party conference as many expected him to do.

Yet at his most recent public appearance — 10 days ago at a party meeting in Poland — Brezhnev appeared to be healthy and vibrant. A top State Department official said recently the busy Soviet leader seemed to be in better health.

Brezhnev is not the only aging member of the ruling 15-member Politburo. The average age is almost 66 and in February two of its senior members, Prime Minister Alexei Kosygin and President Nikolai Podgorny, will be 71 and 73, respectively.

'Hit man' quits

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — University of Kansas student James P. Dillard says he's given up the life of a paid hitman.

Dillard, cofounder of the K.U. Pie Faced Assassins, made his decision after a Douglas County District Court Wednesday dropped battery charges against him for throwing a chocolate cream pie at a psychology professor.

County Attorney David Berkowitz questioned whether pie throwing should be considered a crime. Dillard, a psychology student from Springfield, Mo., was accused of hitting Dr. David Holmes during a class at the university.

"There was a contract on him, that is, I was paid to make the hit," Dillard said of the May 6 incident. "But I didn't get paid because I didn't hit him in the face."

Dillard said the pie hit Holmes in the forehead. He said his friends would pay him $200 if the pie had been on target.

Holmes chased Dillard from the class, apprehending him outside and subsequently pressing charges, police said.

"If this kind of behavior is not stopped, it might have a snowballing effect," Holmes said after the incident. "It was illegal and inappropriate. I have seen a lot of distinguished teaching awards. I take my job and my classes very seriously and I will not have them turned into a circus."

Reconsidering?

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. will reconsider its $113 price increase if other companies do not follow its lead and sales begin to slip, Board Chairman Henry Ford II says.

"If General Motors doesn't follow, then we'll have to look at the market and see if it's costing us sales," Ford told a year-end news conference Thursday.

Bludwacher victim of own car

WELDON SPRINGS, Mo. (UPI) — A 62-year-old man was struck and killed by his own car apparently while watching birds in the August Bush Wildlife Area, Curator Joseph Mueller said Thursday.

James F. Comfort of Webster Groves, a member of the Audubon Society, was found by Conservation Agent James E. McCain with his binoculars around his neck.

Police said Comfort stopped his car at the top of an incline and stepped out to get binoculars. He apparently struck a concrete and rolled over him before stopping against a tree.

Painter paid

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fines and damages exceeding $19 million have been assessed against the Marlborough Gallery of New York, its owner and three executors of the estate of painter Mark Rothko, left.

A judge directed that the gallery return to Rothko's daughter and son 650 unsold paintings by the abstract expressionist because they defied a court injunction in their sale in the United States.

'Nessie's' name an anagram?

LONDON (UPI) — Nicholas Fairbairn, a member of the House of Commons for Scotland, has come up with a new twist in the latest Loch Ness monster controversy.

"Before the latest scientific triumph is hailed as valid," he wrote the Times of London, "our readers might like to know that the generic name ascribed to the Loch Ness monster — Nessiteros rhomboides — is an anagram of Minister Hinx by Sir Peter S. So much for science."

Sir Peter Scott, a respected naturalist, is an associate of Dr. Robert Rines of Boston who recently exhibited photographs he believes to be of a family of giant reptiles in Loch Ness.

LSD test victim payment sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress is being asked to approve a $1.25 million settlement for the family of Frank Olson, a scientist who plunged to his death 22 years ago after unknowingly taking LSD given him by the CIA.

David Rudovsky, the Olson family's attorney, said the Ford administration promised the Justice Department and the CIA would support the legislation that is necessary for the award.

Sens. J. Glenn Beall Jr., R-Md., and Charles McC. Mathias Jr., R-Md., and Rep. Goodloe Byron, D-Md., plan to sponsor the agreement in Congress, Rudovsky said.

The Olsons, who began negotiating with government lawyers after receiving a public apology from President Ford in July, said the government also agreed to give them the complete CIA file on the scientist's death. They said the report would be made public later.

Olson, a civilian biochemist employed by the Army at Ft. Detrick, leaped from a New York City hotel several days after he was given the hallucinogenic drug by the CIA at a resort lodge in western Maryland.

The family was unaware of the events behind Olson's death until the Rockefeller Commission report on CIA activities was released last summer.

"We have concluded that nothing more can be accomplished by a lawsuit," the Olsons said in a statement released by Rudovsky. "Indeed, given the long delays and uncertainties of litigation, full relief may not be forthcoming. If at all, for several years."

This case has received much public attention and has helped to focus public concern on the illegal activities of the CIA.

Dying lad called by film hero

Chicago Daily News

CHICAGO — Keith Mitchell, 14, used to entertain his family and his friends with imitations of movie stars, especially his favorite actor, James Cagney.

Sixteen months ago, the boy developed brain cancer.

He is unable to speak and lies in a semicomatose at Northwest Memorial Hospital in Arlington Heights, but he can communicate by nodding his head.

Thursday, the phone rang in Keith's room. Cagney, 71, the veteran tough guy actor, was on the line.

"He had been thoroughly briefed on Keith's condition and asked if he could talk with him," said Mrs. Helen Mitchell, the boy's mother.

"When I handed Keith the phone he became alert," she said. "His eyes opened up and he nodded his head."

"After it was all over, I thanked Mr. Cagney and he told me it was his pleasure and to give Keith a big hug. That's when I became overwhelmed with emotion," she said.

Mrs. Mitchell said Cagney talked to Keith about 20 minutes.

"What he said, of course, we'll never know," she said. "After that, it was all over. I thanked Mr. Cagney and he told me it was his pleasure and to give Keith a big hug. That's when I became overwhelmed with emotion," she said.

Mrs. Mitchell said Cagney talked to Keith about 20 minutes.

"He nodded his head yes," she said. "He knew it was Mr. Cagney."

Small town called heroin haven

SEDALIA, Mo. (UPI) — Police Chief William Miller regards his town as a quiet place where little happens except for the annual state fair. But some citizens believe the central Missouri community is a heroin haven.

"Everyone seems to be aware of the drug problem here—except the police department," said Mayor Jerry James, who tried to remove Miller from office a year ago.

More than 2,000 of Sedalia's 23,000 residents packed a city council meeting when a resolution to fire Miller was introduced this week. They whistled, clapped and shouted for his removal.

A group of citizens presented a petition with 3,000 signatures asking for Miller's resignation and an outside law enforcement investigation.

A majority of the council agreed to seek a federal grand jury inquiry but voted to retain Miller, prompting one woman to jeer, "Lynch Miller! Kill him!"

Retorted the chief: "This has turned into nothing but a witchhunt — into 'let's get Miller."

Miller believes the case against him is politically motivated — a Republican mayor and newspaper trying to end his 12-year tenure as police chief, by pointing to a drug situation as an excuse for his ouster. He concedes the community has a drug problem.

"But," he said, "we're not worse than any other city this size in the Midwest."

Some townspeople were aroused by a series of four articles entitled "The Heroin Connection," published by the Sedalia Democrat-Capital.

The articles, implied the police department cultivated the drug problem by protecting pushers and even selling hard drugs in some instances.

Listerine ordered to admit lies

WASHINGTON (UPI) The Federal Trade Commission Thursday ordered the makers of Listerine either to stop advertising entirely or to spend $10 million on ads admitting they have been lying since 1921 about how the mouthwash will prevent or cure colds and sore throats.

It was the first time the commission has ordered a company to run a corrective advertisement. Previous cases have all involved negotiated settlements where the firms involved agreed to make the "confessions."

"After carefully reviewing the testimony of the experts called by both sides and the studies admitted into evidence, we must conclude that the preponderance of the evidence demonstrates that, contrary to advertising claims, the use of Listerine, as directed, will not prevent or cure colds or sore throats or ameliorate cold symptoms," said FTC Chairman Lewis A. Engman in an opinion approved unanimously by the commission.

The FTC ordered this language to appear in future ads:

"Contrary to prior advertising, Listerine will not prevent colds or sore throats or lessen their severity."

The manufacturer, Warner-Lambert Co., Morris Plains, N.J., called the order "unfounded" and said it would appeal it to the federal courts, including the Supreme Court, if need be.

"Listerine advertising is based on the latest scientific evidence relating to colds and does not suggest that Listerine prevents colds," a company spokesman said.

"The commission has chosen to ignore significant evidence including well-controlled scientific studies, which confirm the effectiveness of Listerine in the treatment of colds symptoms, the testimony of scientific experts from legal and medical institutions, and consumer acceptance for more than 80 years."

The initial decision by the administrative law judge who heard the case would have simply required corrective ads for a two-year period. But Engman said that may not work if Warner-Lambert chooses simply not to do much advertising for the next two years.

As a result, he said, the agency is ordering the company to spend the equivalent of one year's Listerine advertising budget for the period 1962 to 1972 on ads which will carry the correction, and to run those ads for however long it will take to spend that amount of money.

For the period involved Warner-Lambert spent $102.1 million on Listerine ads, ranging from a high of $13.6 million to a low of $6 million. The average figure, according to exhibits entered in the case, would be $10.2 million.

Sled builder bankrupt

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — The company that built the famed Flexible Flyer sleds dear to the hearts of three generations of young Americans has gone bankrupt.

And the company, which built its first flexible flyer in 1893, went bust just before Christmas, the day youngsters traditionally got the sleds, and as prime "sledding snow" was arriving in many parts of the country.

Blazon Flexible Flyer Inc. of Medina, Ohio, owes about $3.7 million regarding to attorney Clair E. Whitmer, who said it filed for reorganization in U.S. Bankruptcy Court to work out arrangements to pay its debts.

Whitmer said the firm ran into serious problems because of slow 1975 sales and credit woes when First National City Bank reduced its line of credit from $1 million to $1.7 million.

Juvenile program adopted to 'get foot in the door'

BOISE (UPI) — A new juvenile justice program was adopted in Idaho today so that the state "can get its foot in the door" for federal funds despite a warning that the state may be buying a multi-million dollar headache.

With only three dissenting votes, the Idaho Law Enforcement Planning Commission approved the new plan to implement goals of the National Juvenile Justice Planning Act.

Adoption of the plan makes Idaho available for an initial $200,000 in federal funds from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

A lengthy debate preceded adoption of the program of a state juvenile advisory board. Most of the debate centered around "status offenders," which are those juveniles that are picked up by authorities for offenses that adults would not be charged with, such as for truancy or running away from home.

Robert Arneson, Idaho Law Enforcement Planning director, told the commission that "we are going to have problems but we should at least get our foot in the door."

He said it would make available funds so his agency could at least get input into the Juvenile program. He said that the state could always back out of the program at a later date without having to repay federal funds spent.

"I have reservations, but let's keep our foot in the door until we can get more data," Arneson said.

Even if the state later pulled out of the program, Arneson said, the state would have had funds to gain valuable information in the juvenile justice field.

Twin Falls Police Chief Frank Barnett said, however, that possibly the few thousand dollars the state would get from the program would end up as "a $3 million problem that will have to be paid for by the people of the state to implement it."

He said he has received a negative reaction from people in his area to doing away with detention of status offenders.

"We can eliminate the crime by eliminating the law, but we haven't eliminated the problem," Barnett said.

Arco Magistrate Glen A. Phillips argued against adoption of the program because he didn't want to see the deinstitutionalization of status offenders eliminated.

Phillips said that problem youngsters have been taken from their home and placed in detention and "corrected, the problem."

"The $200,000 is no reason to change the system we have now — it's working," Phillips said.

One of the requirements under the federal act is that there be deinstitutionalization for status offenders within two years after the states enter into the program.

State Sen. Edith Miller Klein, R-Boise, questioned Phillips' remarks that Idaho presently had a good system and that it was working.

Mrs. Klein said that incarceration provided a "negative reaction" for a child and "produces a scar that can never be eliminated from that child."

Court aids taxpayer

Newhouse News Service WASHINGTON — The U.S. Tax Court has reversed one of its own rulings, defied federal court decisions and reinterpreted federal law in order to help a taxpayer.

Prior decisions, the court said, make "no sense."

The case arose when the taxpayer, Fred Sylvan of Oklahoma City, Okla., mailed to the Internal Revenue Service a petition asking that IRS reconsider its claim that Sylvan owed $22,755 additional federal income taxes for 1971.

The deadline for filing such a petition was 90 days after Sylvan received a notice of deficiency from IRS. Congress, federal courts and the Tax Court have held that such a petition that is postmarked by the 90th day is acceptable. Sylvan mailed his on the 90th day, and it reached IRS headquarters in Washington the next day, but the Postal Service had failed to place any postmark on it.

IRS argued that the petition, because it bore no postmark, was too late, and that Sylvan should pay the $22,755 forthwith.

The Tax Court acknowledged that all precedent supported the IRS claim, but also pointed out that the Tax Court and regular federal courts in the past have accepted letters with illegible postmarks when the senders could prove that they mailed them on time.

"It certainly makes no sense to continue to distinguish between part of a postmark consisting of an empty or obliterated circle (or part of a circle), and no postmark at all," the Tax Court ruled.

University course makes waiters tremble

BY RAY DOHERTY
MENOMONIE, Wis. (UPI) — The waiter's hands trembled just the slightest bit as he bent over my left shoulder with the wine bottle. He was nervous as he turned the bottle ever so gently.

Not a drop spilled as the amber liquid slipped into my glass. The waiter looked relieved.

Not that I am so fussy. But one of the diners at our table was the waiter's department head. He also was being watched by the wine steward in the front of the room. He was being graded on how he did.

This was an elegant, elaborate test for more than 50 students in the hotel-management course at University of Wisconsin-Stout. I'm a 20-minute eater myself. But I spent seven hours eating, talking, drinking and enjoying this meal.

It cost only $35 each for my wife and me. Duplicated commercially, the meal would cost $225 per person.

"It's as close as you can come to the real thing in an academic setting," said Tim Ross, the department head sitting at our table.

The pressure is there, too. One of Education's responsibilities is to show students the ideal — the ultimate in dining, although in actual practice they will never do this. We had 12 courses interspersed with wine, two intermissions and three complete table settings.

Defense carries gun

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — John Virga, defense attorney for Manson cultist Lynette Fromme, revealed he sometimes carries a pistol for protection because "you don't know who will crawl out of the woodwork."

"I think it would be foolish for me not to carry a weapon," Virga told reporters Wednesday after Miss Fromme was sentenced to life in prison for trying to assassinate President Ford.

In another disclosure, a court official said marshals were "keeping an eye" on U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. MacBride who issued the sentences. However, a marshal refused to comment when asked about security arrangements for the judge.

Virga, who filed a notice of appeal for Miss Fromme, said he was not armed while in court.

"I don't fear for my life from Lynette Fromme or Sandra Good, but any time you're involved in a case like this, you don't know who will crawl out of the woodwork," Virga said.

Miss Good, Miss Fromme's former roommate and fellow disciple of imprisoned mass killer Charles Manson, angrily stalked into the hall outside the courtroom and shouted, "John Virga is not on the appeal."

Special breed plays P.D.Q. Bach

NEW-YORK (UPI) — Not everyone can play the music of P.D.Q. Bach, legendary son of pianist-composer Johann Sebastian Bach.

It requires a special breed of musician — if musician is the term.

Among those who thought they were suited to the task were a fledgling cheek player, a trumpeter with everything but a trumpet and a plastic robot who makes no claim to musical greatness — nor should he.

Prof. Peter Schickele, who claims he discovered the off-beat music of Bach's prodigy, has spent the last decade playing it for the public. He auditioned performers this week for his "Mostly P.D.Q. Bach" holiday concerts at Lincoln Center.

Ben Simon, who can make his lips sound like a trumpet, blared away with a rendition of "Flight of the Bumblebee."

For an encore, the 36-year-old state prison guard switched to satirical humor, which he can also imitate, for "Summertime."

Simon's talented lips next mimicked a flute-and-recorder duet and a violin solo. Then Ben Strimling sat down and began a sax performance of "Night in Tunisia" — without a sax, of course.

It was a hard act to follow. But lots of folks tried.

Edward Bellow, 22, played "Swanee River in A-Major" on his cheeks.

"I started playing in high school," he said. "This is my first attempt at going professional."

The door burst open and Paul Fleisher 31, of New York City, carrying a saxophone, rode in on a unicycle. He was wearing a red mechanic's suit with matching sneakers.

"Excuse me, I thought this was the men's room," Fleisher said, and wheeled out again.

Bruce Mahler, dressed in a tuxedo, introduced himself and his companion, "This is Jeffrey, my mute," Mahler said. Jeffrey, dressed in a tuxedo and long Johns, never said a word.

Mahler played classical music on the piano, giving the time and the weather after each number. Jeffrey played a triangle and "lidded things" up.

CIA tied to Onassis deal

WASHINGTON Star — The Senate Select Committee on Intelligence has learned that the Central Intelligence Agency played a secret role in an effort by U. S. oil companies to break a rich shipping contract which Aristotle Onassis negotiated with Saudi Arabia.

Robert Maheu, whose ties with the intelligence community go back to World War II, testified that he worked closely with the CIA in a complex international campaign to undermine the deal between Onassis and King Saud.

Maheu said his techniques included planting a hidden microphone in a room occupied by Onassis and using an Italian newspaper secretly owned by the CIA to float stories damaging to the Greek tycoon.

Although the action took place more than 20 years ago, the CIA's part in it has never been disclosed. The intelligence committee hinted at the story in a footnote to its assassination report last month, but the lawmakers decided to withhold most of the details.

Maheu testified for more than five hours to a closed-door committee session July 30. The transcript has never been released.

"A committee aide said the campaign against Onassis was considered only tangential to the assassination investigation. He said the committee might give additional consideration to the events when it probes the CIA's use of newspapers and other communications media.

According to the assassination report, Maheu testified that he "provided impetus for termination of the (Onassis) contract by publicizing its terms in a Rome newspaper which he said had been purchased with CIA

BRAVING the sub-zero temperatures, a lone woman crosses the street in Minneapolis as streaks of vapor from cars surround her as expected temperatures for later in the day were predicted as low as 20 below. (UPI) funds." The newspaper was not named, but the committee has learned that the CIA purchased several newspapers in Italy, France and Germany following World War II.

In addition to revealing secret CIA participation in the effort to break the contract, the incident provides a case study of Maheu's method of operation. Although never an acknowledged CIA official, Maheu performed a variety of tasks for the agency, serving as the go-between who recruited mobsters Sam Giancana and John Rosselli for a series of plots on the life of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

The committee commented on Maheu's participation in the Castro plot, treating other matters only as side issues or footnotes, but the report makes it clear that Maheu frequently made use of his relationship with the CIA, sometimes capitalizing on it for its own private benefit.

The report said, "Maheu subsequently drew on his involvement with the CIA to avoid testifying before Sen. Edward Long's committee investigating 'invasions of privacy in 1956.' According to the CIA's inspector general's report, when Maheu learned that the committee intended to call him, he exerted pressure on the agency in a variety of ways — suggesting that publicity might expose his past sensitive work for CIA." The Long committee did not call Maheu to testify.

The committee's report did not mention Onassis by name, but sources outside of the committee identified Onassis as the person involved. This was subsequently confirmed by a committee source.

School officials seek Rupert meet

RUPERT — School officials want a meeting with the City of Rupert, including attorneys, over repayments on the Minleo High School sewer line.

The city has authorized payment of $70,000 immediately from the Environmental Protection Agency funds and $3,000 a month. Darrell Hatfield, superintendent of schools, told the board.

The board agreed with Dr. Hatfield that the district should receive EPA funds as the city receives them.

The district paid for installation of the sewer line, while the city applied for a grant to cover it. The grant was approved, with the district to be reimbursed with it after the city took out administrative costs.

Hatfield said a meeting of the attorneys to discuss the contract might be sufficient. The board instructed him to seek a meeting with the City Council if necessary.

'Ho, ho' no-no for holiday employes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—One of the nation's largest agencies for hiring holiday employes to say "ho, ho," a booming voice can be heard in the homes of children and sounds of phony: according to the agency's guidelines for the 100 to 125 Santa Clauses it provides yearly.

"You shall not promise anything," says one of the commandments handed to each Santa employed through Western Temporary Services, Inc.

One of the firm's "Santa coordinators," Shella Allen, says Santas go through "rigorous screening and training. Much research, she said, has gone into the main reasons Santas are dismissed.

Among these are:

- Shopping: "The Santa uniform is quite large. Santas have actually been known to use it to hide merchandise."
- Drinking: "We would of course not want an inebriated Santa Claus."
- Suggesting political or controversial philosophies to youngsters.
- Coverting with young girls. "Normally Santa's helpers are young and pretty... flirting is out."
- Rough handling of children. "Indifference" or a "belligerent attitude."
- "What should a Santa be?"
- "He is there to offer a happy memory and comfort to a child," said Miss Allen.

Inmate lost in jail for almost 2 weeks

Chicago Daily News

CHICAGO—An inmate was lost in Cook County Jail for almost two weeks because of a bureaucratic oversight.

He finally was found, sitting in a cell, listed under the last name of a judge.

For John Smillie, 27, it was a frustrating experience, that began Nov. 4 when he was arrested for carrying a sawed-off shotgun in the trunk of his car.

Smillie, a disabled former Marine who has a history of mental problems was taken first to a mental health center for observation.

He was twice sent to the county jail before returning a third time to the center, Dec. 4 for further testing. That's when the trouble started.

A deputy placed at a name inside Smillie's folder and noted the word Jerrick.

It referred to Judge Robert Jerrick, who had ordered Smillie's trip to the center. But the deputy, apparently thinking his prisoner's name was Jerrick, took Smillie to the jail and booked him under the judge's last name.

And there, he sat, while his wife, anxious to talk to John Smillie, found that the jail had no one listed under that name. She said deputies told her, "after they couldn't locate Smillie, 'don't worry about it. He'll show up in court.'"

But Smillie's court date — into last week — came and went and when he did not show up, an arrest warrant was ordered Monday.

Mrs. Smillie's frantic calls to deputies, finally convinced officials at the jail to search for a man fitting Smillie's description.

Methodist circles meet at Filer

FILER—The circles of the Filer United Methodist Church met this month.

The Friendship Circle met at 7 p.m. Thursday for a salad luncheon at the home of Mrs. Morris Carlson. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Donna Brown, Mrs. Maxwell Drake, Mrs. Margaret Thomas, Ruth Soekel—and Ann Marie Hjalmlin.

Mrs. Mary Moreland presented the devotional service on "He Left Us The World" and Mrs. Carlson was in charge of the lesson on "A Season of Loving and Remembering." Roll call was "Memory Lane."

The Sara Angelo Circle met at 8 p.m. Monday at the church with Terry Debban, hostess. The evening was spent preparing Christmas treats.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-McGraw-Hill, New York, Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm getting married soon, and my fiancé and I discussed our pests thoroughly. I asked him if he had any kids anywhere and he said he didn't think so. He admitted that he did go to bed with one girl before he met me. He said he might have gotten her pregnant, but he didn't think he did because he never saw her after that. He said he didn't care and didn't want to know. But I want to know.

I found out her name and address and want to call her up and ask her, but my fiancé says he doesn't want me to. I would like your advice.

WANTS TO KNOW

DEAR WANTS: If your fiancé had gotten the girl pregnant she would have contacted him, if for no other reason, to help with the expenses. The word from here is to forget it.

Don't pry into past

DEAR ABBY: Dick and I have been married for two years. I'm a little older than he is, and maybe that's why I feel so insecure.

Two weeks ago, I found a letter hidden in his underwear drawer. It was addressed to his office and was from an old friend. She wrote that she is being divorced and wants to pick up where she and Dick left off!

I wrote to her and told her that we were happily married and to leave my husband alone. Then I tore up her letter. She either called Dick at work or wrote him there to tell him about my letter because he came home and raised a can with me for writing to her and destroying her letter. I explained that I only did it because I loved him and was trying to save my marriage. That's the God's honest truth, Abby.

Last night while he was sleeping, I went through his billfold and found her phone number, so I'm sure he's been calling her.

Should I write to her again or call her or what? This is my third marriage and I want it to last. Dick was a perfect husband until this woman came into his life again. Please help me. My whole world is falling apart.

NOWHERE TO TURN

DEAR NOWHERE: Stay out of your husband's billfold and drawers! And don't call or write the other woman. It will only infuriate him and drive them closer together. If Dick has an interest in her, there is nothing you can do. The outlook for a marriage that's falling apart is counseling. If he won't go, go alone.

DEAR ABBY: My wife has a habit of downgrading sincere compliments.

"She says," "Dear, from you look nice in that dress," her reply is likely to be, "Do you really think so? It's just a rag my sister gave me."

Of if I tell her she did a great job cleaning up the house, her response might be, "Well, I guess you haven't seen the kids' room."

I find it hard to understand why she can't accept a compliment without putting herself down. And it hurts me a little. How do you explain it, Abby?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Your wife lacks self-confidence and feels somewhat embarrassed to accept praise. Don't be hurt. Most people have difficulty accepting compliments with grace.

Write to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (2¢) envelope.

FILER — Poplar Hill Social Club met Tuesday noon at the home of Mrs. Reuben Lierman for its annual Christmas dinner meeting. A gift exchange was held following the potluck dinner.

BOISE — The Idaho Heritage Bicentennial Poster Contest deadline has been extended to Jan. 1, 1976. Entries should be delivered or mailed to Idaho Heritage, 513 North 13th St., Boise, Idaho, 83702. Posters may be in color or black and white and the topic must concern the celebration of the American Bicentennial in Idaho.

TWIN FALLS — A children's Christmas party for the Loyal Order of Moose and the Women of the Moose will be held at the Moose Hall on Sunday with a potluck dinner at 5 p.m.

TWIN FALLS — The square dance will have a Christmas dance at 8 p.m. Saturday at Rex School. All square and round dancers are invited and there will be a potluck dinner. Those attending should bring a covered dish and table service. No gifts are required.

TWIN FALLS — The Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary will hold a dance Friday at 8 p.m. at the DAV Hall. There will be live music and the public is invited. A family potluck supper and Christmas party are planned for Monday at 7 p.m. at the DAV Hall. Members are requested to bring two covered dishes, table service and presents to put under the tree for their children.

TWIN FALLS — A Christmas party will be held at the Odd Fellows Hall at 6:30 p.m. Sunday. All Odd Fellows, Parkas, and their families and friends are invited.

BECKY Holer, Ashland, Ohio, puts the finishing touches on her rather unusual Christmas tree. Getting married next week, Becky and her fiance wanted a tree in their new mobile home but they didn't have room for it on the floor. Solution—they suspended it from the ceiling where it couldn't get knocked over. (UPI)

Christmas concert presented at Valley

VALLEY SCHOOLS — The annual Christmas concert was presented by the Valley High School Music Department Monday night at the high school.

Music instructor M. Wayne Miller directed the program which included Christmas melodies by the cadet band and choir, soloists, established girls' chorus, high school chorus and concert band.

The concert band played "Christmas Sulte", arranged by H. Walters, to climax the performance. They also played "Still, Still, Still" (German-Carol), "Covenry Carol" (English Carol) and "Great Festival".

The chorus sang "Sing a Song for Christmas," "Christ is Born" and "Ding, Dong, Merrily on High," accompanied by Stephanie Alastra and Julie Schwarz.

"Calypso Noel," "White Christmas," "Carol of the Bells" and "Joy in the World" were sung by the senior choir. It was accompanied by Kim McDonald and Neil Ross.

"The Babe of Bethlehem" (Mountain Christmas Carol) was sung by the combined girls' chorus with Pauline Lucas, violinist, and Kim McDonald, accompanist.

The cadet band played the "Nutcracker Suite," "Sounds of Christmas" and "Tayland." The cadet choir sang "Christmas Comes in the Morning," "We Wish You a Merry Christmas" and "Silent Night." Patsy O'Leary and Cheryl Christopherson were accompanists.

'Messiah' scheduled Sunday in TF

TWIN FALLS — Handel's "Messiah" will be performed at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts auditorium under the direction of Carson Wang.

The Jerome High School Choraliers and Community Singers will present Part I and the "Hallelujah Chorus" of the famous oratorio.

The Magic Valley Chamber orchestra.

Soloists will include Roger Vincent, baritone; Jay Fowles, Shoshone, tenor; Helen Allen, soprano; and Camille Cox, alto. Both women are from Twin Falls.

Vicent has concertized throughout the United States with the Community Concert Association as baritone in "The Sereaders Quartet." He is founder and director of the Magic Valley Chorale and has been guest soloist with the Boise Philharmonic and has had many lead roles in Twin Falls and Boise musicals and operas. He currently is president of the Northwest Opera Association, Inc., a Magic Valley group which last week produced "Amahl and the Night Visitors."

Fowles has sung in operas in Boise and participated in "Amahl and the Night Visitors" in Twin Falls this season. He has sung the "Messiah" on several previous occasions.

Mrs. Allen has soloed with the Seattle Chorale, the Central Oregon Oratorio Society and with the Jubilee Singers, a Columbia Artists group. She has appeared in numerous concerts in the Northwest and Canada under the auspices of the Community Concert Association. She also is an accomplished violinist, having played in symphonies in Oregon and Seattle and is a member of the Magic Valley Symphony.

Mrs. Cox is a native of Twin Falls, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlon Bastian. She studied voice with Dr. John H. Halliday at Brigham Young University where she received her B. A. in music education. She studied German and music in Europe during her junior year. She and her husband, James Cox, lived in Chicago where she studied voice at Roosevelt University. She also has soloed with the Magic Valley Chorale since moving back to Twin Falls.

your health

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dr. Thosteson: My husband had the shingles, which were painful. After two days he went to our doctor who told him that he had them, but that they were gone. He now has pain in his stomach and back where the shingles were. He has neuritis from them. I don't want to know if there is any cure for this, or does the shingles leave in time? — Mrs. C.W.

The case of one medical colleague who has been attempting to treat the pain in his elderly mother with little success.

That doesn't sound too encouraging. One study showed that the whole attack usually ends within a month for people under 40, lasts somewhat longer for those over 40, and hangs on for a year or more for about half of those over 50. So age is important in the duration of pain after the original blisters have disappeared. The blisters usually dry up in from seven to 10 days.

Shingles vary with age

Treatment? The case of my medical colleague and his elderly mother indicates that any treatment is unpredictable at best. Ordinary pain killers, as aspirin, are rarely effective. Several thinking leads toward treatment of treatments containing perphenazine and amitriptyline or imipramine, which have been effective. Strangely, one of these given alone does not seem to help. I mention the generic (non-trade) names for these drugs because there are several commercial brands available, each containing the main ingredients. Your doctor can prescribe.

In shingles, the word is not "cure," but control of the pain. This usually subsides with time and without treatment.

This subject always raises a curious controversy among my readers. Does one attack of shingles confer permanent immunity? Well, the preponderance of medical opinion says it does. I'm willing to qualify that, and say that one attack "usually" confers immunity. This would take into account medical rarities. I believe most reports of second attacks in vague episode recurrences of pain after the initial viral infection. A true second attack would include the appearance of new blisters.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We have a three-year-old grandson who has excessive thirst. He awakens at night for a drink. Is this something to be concerned about?

He perspires a lot, especially while sleeping? — Mrs. R.N.

The fluid loss through perspiration can, of course, cause thirst. If it occurs only at night, there is usually not cause for concern. Perhaps he is "overdressed" at bedtime. Maximize lighter covers would alleviate the perspiration. Temperature in a hot room should be kept moderate.

From your brief description of the situation I would suspect such factors as these.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have had a partial hysterectomy, in which the uterus was removed, with the tubes and ovaries left in place. Is there a chance of becoming pregnant if no preventative is used? Is there a chance of becoming pregnant in the tubes? — E.J.

No.

Shingles can be a painful disease. For a copy of Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to him in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 16 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Worthy grand matron honored

FILER — Mrs. Robert Schlers, Pocatello, worthy grand matron of the Order of the Eastern Star, was honored Sunday evening at a dinner hosted by the Filer Past Matron's Club at the home of Mrs. Jack Ramsey, OES of Filer's said Wednesday.

Saturday noon a luncheon honoring Mrs. Schlers was hosted by Star Social Club in the Masonic Hall. Mrs. B. J. Hawkins served as toastmistress and Mrs. Donna Brown led in the invocation.

Musical selections were presented by the Star Trio, composed of Mrs. Rex Reed, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Duane Ramsey with Mrs. Helen Beem accompanying at the piano. The Rainbow Girls also sang with Phyllis Ramsey as accompanist.

The dining room was decorated by Mrs. Hawkins, Mrs. Roy Grubb, Mrs. Luther Pierce and Mrs. Everget Bonnetiere.

Mrs. Schlers and Bill Clark, worthy grand patron of the grand chapter of the Order of Eastern Star, were honored at a special meeting Saturday evening in the Masonic Hall.

Mrs. Pierce and Mrs. Hawkins greeted members and guests.

Also welcomed and introduced by Mrs. James Regal, worthy matron and Clinton Dougherty, worthy patron, were grand representatives, worthy matrons and worthy patrons, and grand chapter committee members and appointees.

Mrs. Helen Beem, a 50-year member, was given a special welcome. Addendas were presented for both honored guests and each was presented gifts and honorary memberships. A silver drill was held.

Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Ruth Hanson were co-chairmen of the serving committee, assisted by Edith Leeper, Iva Shearer, Phoebe Lancaster, Helen Swartley, Florence Melton, Dorothy Porter, Mrs. Merle Allison, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Tucker, Mrs. William Bloss, Mrs. Ed Johnson, Lucille Johnson, Mrs. Lewis Hack, Mrs. Bill Elliott and Mrs. Gilbert Deklatz.

Sneak preview

ROME (UPI) — Commuters got an unexpected sneak preview of the circus that arrived Wednesday.

Twenty-three elephants surprised drivers in downtown Rome as they marched single-file down the Via del Tritone, up the Via del Corso and across the Piazza del Popolo.

Owners of a circus on the outskirts of town explained the German trainer escorting the elephants from the railroad station lost his way and wandered into the city center.

Obscure issue poses political dilemma for Ford

Hong Kong chill

CURIOUS residents of subtropical Hong Kong bounce on icicles formed on shrubbery during a six day cold snap which brought temperatures to a low of 40 degrees, the coldest in 91 years. Eleven persons, most infants and ailing elderly, have died because of the cold. (UPI)

Sea refueling dangerous job for ships

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Refueling warships at sea is a routine but dangerous job. Three times in the past month, ships in the Atlantic Fleet have collided in the process — an unusually high number. The statistics have been so high that Adm. T.C. Kidd Jr., who runs the Atlantic fleet, has ordered experienced teams of refuelers to Europe to make sure there are no more mistakes. Naval sources who saw Kidd's Wednesday message said his blunt and salty language was an indication of how important the admiral sees the problem. A Navy study found that in a statistically typical three-year period, there were 21 collisions out of the thousands of refuelings that

By SARA FRITZ.
WASHINGTON (UPI) — An obscure, well-worn issue with a funny Latin name now poses a costly political dilemma for President Ford.
Faced with losing the support of some conservative Republicans or the loyalty of a cabinet officer, Ford soon must decide whether to sign or veto a bill on "common-situs picketing."
The bill would allow a trade union to picket and shut down an entire construction site even though its quarrel may be with only one subcontractor on the site. At the present time, a building trade union must confine its picketing to the subcontractor with which it has a dispute, but other construction work may continue.
"The very life of this problem seems to cause a lot of people pain," Labor Secretary John Dunlop said Wednesday.
Dunlop, a respected Harvard economist with years of experience in construction industry labor relations, has done nothing to quell speculation that a presidential veto would bring his resignation.
Having fashioned a union-management compromise on the bill by promising that Ford would sign it, Dunlop says, "conservation industry negotiating in 1976 will be 'unmiltigated hell' if it is vetoed."
The two Ford executives warned that unless Congress eases proposed clean air standards "that are unworkable and inconsistent with the best and latest scientific knowledge," car prices could climb by $300 in the next three years and fuel economy would suffer.
Ford and Iacocca said there definitely would be growth in the car and truck market next year for the first time since the Arab oil embargo triggered a two-year slump in late 1973. "The rate of growth is difficult to forecast in view of the sharp fluctuations in the money supply, continuing uncertainty over the outcome of the physical crisis in New York, conflicting signs from the leading economic indicators and next year's labor negotiations in our industry," Ford and Iacocca said.

Despite the uncertainty, Ford plans to double capital expenditures in the United States next year to about $50 million. The company plans to spend about $750 million worldwide — an increase of 25 percent.
Backing up its planned production increases, GM will add 33,000 cars to the January-March schedules. That will give GM production of more than 14 million cars, double the depressed first quarter of 1975 and within 16 per cent of the record 1973.

workers is weak.
All agree the victor ultimately will be the right-to-work movement, which has gained new vigor and support as a result of the battle.
The bill has passed Congress but in order to prevent a pocket veto it probably won't be sent to Ford until after Congress' Christmas recess.
The issue known as "common situs picketing" plagued politicians since the time Ford first was elected to public office. It stems from a precedent-setting Supreme Court ruling that Denver craft union pickets illegally shut down an entire construction site in 1949 in a dispute with one subcontractor who was paying less than union scale.
Although the building trades unions have been trying to reverse that principle ever since, Congress continually spurred the bill until Dunlop eased the way in August by drafting a companion measure to stabilize "contract bargaining in the industry."
Dunlop also managed to convince Congress the construction industry, beleaguered by the recession, high labor costs and 20 per cent unemployment, needs such a law.

Analysis

The President will pay a political price no matter how he decides. Those involved in the dispute explain it this way: Ford's signature on the bill would firm up the support he enjoys among construction workers but force many conservative businessmen to turn to GOP challenger Ronald Reagan, who opposes the bill.

A veto will appease some conservatives but risk a Dunlop resignation and force the building trades unions to follow through on a threat to "actively work against" Ford. The unions insist Ford should sign because, as AFL-CIO Building Trades President Robert George says, he can never appease conservatives who would rather have Reagan in the White House. The conservatives reply that Ford should veto it because his support among construction

Auto sales gain forecast in '76

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. Chairman Henry Ford II predicted Thursday that auto sales in 1976 would increase 12 to 15 per cent over this year and that virtually all of the gain would be made by U.S.-built cars.
In a year-end statement, Ford and President Lee A. Iacocca predicted sales, including imports, would range between 9.6 million and 9.9 million cars next year compared to the 8.6 million cars sold this year.
However, their statement was in sharp contrast to one issued by General Motors Chairman Thomas A. Murphy who said sales, including imports, would top 10 million cars next year. That would be a 20 per cent jump from this year and put 1976 in the record books as the third best in industry history.

GM backed up Murphy's optimistic prediction by announcing Wednesday that 5,700 jobs will be added as 600 payrolls early next year when afternoon shifts are resumed at three assembly plants that build mid-sized cars.
The two Ford executives warned that unless Congress eases proposed clean air standards "that are unworkable and inconsistent with the best and latest scientific knowledge," car prices could climb by $300 in the next three years and fuel economy would suffer.

Love letters sold

LONDON (UPI)—More than 80 love letters—written from the World War II battle front by the commander of the British army to the wife of a senior diplomat—were auctioned Wednesday for $3,000.

The letters from Sir John French, commander of the British Expeditionary Force, addressed to society beauty Winifred Bennett, are sprinkled with passionate Edwardian endearments.

"My darling darling Wendy," he began. She called him "Peter." Wendy's friend in the tawny tale "Peter Pan," Mrs. Bennett referred to her husband as "Fomous Percy."

But between the cooling lines, French wrote about secret troop movements and plans for British army attacks, as well as visits by King George V, Winston Churchill and Gen. Horatio H. Kitchener.

When French resigned after thousands of soldiers died in a series of fruitless battles, he wrote to Mrs. Bennett, "I shan't care one jot about this if you understand. It is only you that matters to me and I think you realize the value of the work which has been done in the past 15 months."

French's descendants criticized the sale "as the lowest form of muckraking," but Mrs. Bennett's family said the letters gave a valuable insight into the conduct of the war.

Public hearing set

BOISE—The Idaho Department of Water Resources has scheduled a public hearing on Carey Act rules and regulations at 2 p.m. Dec. 30 in the Statehouse, Boise.

On Oct. 28 the director of the department had adopted, on an emergency basis, rules and regulations for the administration of the act. The rules and regulations were only valid for a 120-day period.

The hearing has been called to consider adoption of the rules and regulations on a permanent basis. Opportunity will be provided for public testimony at the hearing. Written comments will be considered if received prior to 5 p.m. Dec. 30.

Timber sale held

BOISE—Boise Cascade Corp. submitted the high bids of $72,601.50 for the High Quartz timber sale and $36,233.00 for the South Fork timber sale on Dec. 15.

Edward C. Maw, Boise National Forest supervisor, said the High Quartz sale area, located on the Lowman Ranger District, is in the Rock Creek area of the South Fork Payette River drainage. The sale consists of some 3,628 thousand board feet of ponderosa-pine, douglas-fir, alpine fir and other species.

The South Fork sale area, located on the Idaho-City Ranger District, is in the South Fork Rabbit Creek area in the North Fork Boise River drainage. The sale consists of some 2,102 thousand board feet of ponderosa pine, douglas-fir and other species.

Other qualified bidders in the two sales were Guy Harris and Son Lumber Co. and Producers Lumber Co.

TF mayor urges tight-fist plan

By DAVE HORSMAN

Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Mayor Winston Jones, who will leave office next month, Thursday urged the city to maintain a tight-fisted spending policy.

In what may have been his last speech as mayor, Jones warned members of the Twin Falls Citizens Club that "what happened in New York City can happen in Twin Falls."

"We must be prepared to cut back in services and spending. We must hold onto what we can afford to pay," he said.

Jones has served six years on the City Council, including the past two years as mayor. He did not seek reelection in November.

City employee wages must be held at reasonable levels if budget-breaking costs are to be avoided, Jones said.

"He urged resistance to legislation allowing collective bargaining by public employees. The City of Twin Falls has 'resisted unions successfully so far,' he added.

City employees in Twin Falls have received a fair shake without the pressure of organized labor unions, according to Jones.

"Our policy is to equalize wages in all departments," he said. The salaries of city firemen, who belong to a union, are comparable to those of workers in all other departments, he added.

An agreement for salary adjustments was reached last year with an employee committee," he said. It provides for quarterly pay changes based on the consumer price index.

"That method resulted in a 7- to 8 per cent salary hike for workers last year, Jones added. The average pay of a policeman or fireman is about $11,000, including $1,600 in fringe benefits.

Jones also said the city should have "some say" in setting priorities for expenditure of highway district revenue collected from city residents.

"The Twin Falls Highway District receives about $250,000 a year from the TF citizens," he said. About $92,000 is returned to the city, but the remaining $171,000 is retained by the district and spent without direct participation by the city, according to Jones.

In other areas, Jones:

- Supported maintenance of federal revenue sharing as "one of the best ways to alleviate the pinch of property taxes. "We have about reached the point where we cannot raise property taxes any more."
- Urged a close review of a regional airport master plan due next October. Twin Falls County does not belong to the South Idaho Regional Airport Authority, which plans the regional airport. Although the master plan should be reviewed, "I don't think we're going to be able to afford" participation in the project, Jones said.
- Claimed the nearly-completed Twin Falls sewage treatment plant is needed but "costs too much because of Environmental Protection Agency standards."

Lincoln youngsters waste little food

By LINDA LEE
 Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls School officials say they have been able to reduce lunchroom food waste, to only two per cent.

"According to Evelyn Beck, director of the Twin Falls school lunch program, the 30-day survey of food waste in city schools was conducted this fall. Food wastes were weighed and compared to the amount served.

In comparison, a recent survey by a Des Moines, Iowa, newspaper in schools there found a much higher waste level, around 25 per cent.

A Times-News check at one school tended to confirm the Twin Falls school survey result.

The 550 Lincoln Elementary School children and faculty members threw away only about 15 gallons of food Wednesday, or an estimated five per cent of the total food used that day.

However, it was a "peas day," which school officials say means there will be a more than usual amount of food discarded.

Mrs. Beck credited the low waste level here to lunchroom aides who encourage students to try unfamiliar foods, to menu planning that takes into account food students are known to eat, and to school cooks who do all the baking in the schools' kitchens.

The survey also ranked the schools according to amount of waste. The Twin-Falls High School had the lowest waste, and Sawtooth Elementary School was highest.

Mrs. Beck said an interesting outcome of the study is that students from higher income families waste more food than students from lower income families.

And younger children waste more food than older children.

Beck found the eight schools in Twin Falls waste food in the following order, with the lowest waste school listed first and the highest waste school listed last:

- Twin Falls High School, lowest waste
- O'Leary Junior High School, second
- Stuart Junior High School, third
- Bickel Elementary School, fourth
- Lincoln Elementary School, fifth
- Harrison Elementary School, sixth
- Morningside Elementary School, seventh
- Sawtooth Elementary School, eighth, and highest in waste.

At the Lincoln School which was visited Wednesday, Principal William Slover helped curb waste by standing at the door as the youngsters' lunches were opened. Students filled past and he checked their milk cartons and untouched hamburgers.

Untouched hamburgers were passed out to hungrier students and full, but opened milk cartons were encouraged to be finished by their owners. Unopened milk cartons were returned to be drunk by other students or used in the next day's cooking.

Beck said if a student drinks three-fourths of the milk it is considered finished.

"We think milk is so important that any amount we can get into the students is helpful to them," Beck said.

"Beck said her staff prepares lunch for 4,800 students a day. She said that number represents 90 per cent of the elementary students, 70 per cent of the junior high students, and 65 per cent of the high school students. She said she feels these high figures indicate the success of the program. In other words, if the lunch wasn't good she wouldn't be selling that many.

According to Beck, the Twin Falls lunch program is $500,000 a year program. In November alone, she took in $28,476.90 and served about 86,400 lunches, 11,800 of which were free.

State and federal funding help to make up the difference between what she spends and what she takes in.

Cecil Olsen, state supervisor of the school lunch program, said, "Lunch should be a learning experience." He said the program is trying to teach students what a well-balanced diet means to their health.

"If the school lunch program is there only as a filling station—then they ought to close it down," Olsen said.

AF Dam project aide appointed

By SHANE O'NEILL
 Times-News writer
BURLEY — A Gooding attorney has been authorized to represent a group of spacheholders in reconstruction of the American Falls Dam.

Cecil Hobday was selected Thursday to represent spacheholders under the American Falls Reservoir District.

Roger Ling, Rupert attorney, was named alternate for Hobday.

Spacheholders met Thursday afternoon at the Ponderosa Inn. Hobday will be one of three representatives to make the numerous decisions on construction of the dam. The American Falls District, as primary construction agent, names a representative and Idaho Power Co., participating in funding of the project, appoints the other.

Roger Vissla, Pacific Northwest regional director for the Bureau of Reclamation, told spacheholders Thursday that the bureau has reviewed plans for dam reconstruction, drafted by Bechtel Corporation, and they are good.

"We couldn't do it cheaper," he said.

Vissla said the bureau will "do all we can to provide water during construction." Earlier Terry Gulley, operations supervisor, warned irrigators that water would be shorter in set for June, 1977, to May, 1978.

It will include completion of concrete placement on the dam, excavation and filling of the right embankment and completion of the left embankment.

The old dam will be breached as the water in the reservoir recedes. Rosholt said, with storage behind the replacement dam scheduled to start Nov. 1, 1977.

The reservoir is to be drained at an accelerated schedule to empty it by mid-September, creating a shortage of available water for downstream users.

Before that decision is made, Rosholt said, construction progress, climatological and labor conditions and other factors will be reviewed to see if work can be completed next winter season began by Nov. 1, 1977.

Even if new problems arise to delay completion after draining, Rosholt assured, 600,000 acre feet of water could be stored for irrigation in the new facilities.

Tentative agreement has been reached by American Falls spacheholders to share the waters delivered below the dam during the period from draining to Nov. 1. Rosholt said some districts have not returned formal authorizations and urged them to do it.

August and September, 1977, because the dam would have to be emptied by Sept. 15.

Elections in various irrigation districts are scheduled Jan. 12 to approve the pro-rated shares' shares of construction costs provided President Ford signs a bill exempting bonds from taxation.

"Let them know the facts so they're not voting on emotional attitudes," Vissla urged.

John Rosholt, Twin Falls attorney, presented spacheholders with the plan for operation of the American Falls Reservoir during the two-year construction period from June, 1976, to May, 1978.

It has tentative approval of the Bureau of Reclamation subject to water approval.

No suspects in poisonings

By BART QUESNELL
 Times-News writer
HAILEY — Halley police are baffled by the rash of dog poisonings in Blaine County and still have no suspects and no leads.

Dr. Robert Beede, Ketchum veterinarian, has confirmed that 20 dogs have died of poisoning since November. A dozen other dog deaths have been reported to police but not all of these have been positively identified as poison cases.

City patrolman Dennis Peterson said there have been nearly 50 reports of sick or dying dogs in the two month period.

Police are being assisted by the United States Department of Agriculture and the USDA is poisoning mystery. Peterson said the USDA is trying to gain information about where strychnine can be purchased in Blaine County.

Beede said last week the stomachs of some dead dogs contained small bits of bone and meat.

Samples of the material were sent to laboratories for analysis, but the first report received by Halley police was actually a report of some other test, not related to the Blaine poisonings.

Police have still not determined if poisoned meat was thrown into yards. Peterson said all dogs killed last week "were running loose." None were tied in their yards, he said.

There was an epidemic here about five years ago," he said; "where dogs were poisoned, shot and stabbed to death with ski poles.

Every variety of dog was killed last week. Peterson said, from small puppies to St. Bernards. "There was no particular location, although it seemed to be where there were the most dogs, he said.

Basket list prepared

TWIN FALLS — Hopefully, no one needing help this Christmas in Twin Falls will be missed, according to Karen Prince, YWCA director.

"For some years the Y of Idaho has coordinated the city's Christmas basket effort here so there will be no duplications and no one will be missed.

She said there is always the possibility of other organizations that check with the Y duplicating efforts, but the Y personnel have coordinated their names with the Salvation Army, Catholic Church and other large groups assisting Santa with food baskets.

Miss Prince said canned goods and other staples for the baskets from the Y were donated by grade school and junior high students. She said the response from the schools has been "tremendous."

Junior high students at Robert Stuart and O'Leary have taken the assignment as a school project, with each school trying to outdo the other in its response, Miss Prince said.

She picked up two full carloads of canned goods at Stuart Thursday and was to gather the O'Leary donations today. She said at O'Leary each room had decided upon

Ski areas listed

Ski areas open on the Sawtooth National Forest are Pomerelle, Soldier Mountain, and Bald Mountain and Dollar Mountain at Sun Valley. No new snow has fallen since last weekend.

Pomerelle reports 36" of snow at the Lodge and 48" on top. They are open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The new lift is now in operation. Chains or snow tires are required.

Soldier Mountain reports 12" at the Lodge and 20" on top. They will be open each day thru January 4th and then go back on the Wednesday thru Sunday schedule. Christmas Day Soldier Mountain will open at 1 p.m. At present, the top chair lift is not operating. Roads into the area are dry.

Sun Valley reports 36" on top of Bald Mountain, 25" at the Roundhouse and 8" on the valley floor. Hours are 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Dollar Mountain has approximately 12" of snow. Runs are in very good condition.

Cross-country skiing is reported as very good in most areas. Snowmobiling is reported as quite good in the Heglar Canyon area and all access roads into the area are open. In the South Hills, at the Diamondfield-Jack area snowmobiling is only fair with approximately 24" of snow.

SA readies yule program

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Salvation Army is preparing for its annual Christmas giveaway program of toys and food to needy families in the Magic Valley.

Lt. Len Blix of the Twin Falls Corps Community Center of the Salvation Army is still accepting applications from families who are in need of help this Christmas.

"We are working in conjunction with the Y, St. Edward's Catholic Church and the Dept. of Health and Welfare to find families who will not be able to provide Christmas for their children," Blix said.

The Salvation Army Center is asking for donations of new or used toys that can be given to the less fortunate children, according to Lt. Barbara Blix, wife and co-worker of Lt. Len Blix.

They hope to wind up the collection of toys for their giveaway program by Sunday. The center will be open on Monday and Tuesday for the parents who have been selected to come in and get toys for their children.

Those families selected to receive toys will be given tickets to present at the door on the giveaway days and exchange for the toys of their choice.

In addition to the toys, the Blix team is planning to provide food for a Christmas dinner to needy families.

"We sent a letter of appeal to community people asking for money donations to buy food for the needy," Lt. Blix said.

The money collected is deposited in the bank and food vouchers are given to selected families. The vouchers can be turned in to a grocery store in exchange for food.

"The only thing you can't buy at a grocery store with them are liquor and tobacco," Lt. Blix said.

The food vouchers along with the toy tickets will be sent to the needy families in the mail.

Anyone who has toys or money to donate or anyone who wishes to apply for the giveaway should contact the Salvation Army office at 801 Second Ave. N. or call 733-8720.

Stipends given

TWIN FALLS — Several students from the Magic Valley are among recipients of Idaho State University scholarships for upperclassmen for the 1975-76 spring semester.

Those who are recipients from the college of business include Marilee Diehl, Jerome, and Steven Peterson, Castletown, both seniors, and Javier M. Cardiel, Burley; Barbara S. Stefan, Rupert, and Barbara A. Carlton, Twin Falls, all sophomores.

From the college of education recipients include Sandra F. Hayes, Twin Falls, and Terry J. Gunning, Wendell, both seniors; Deborah D. Silver, Jerome, a junior, and Garin-Rae Dawson, Twin Falls, sophomore.

From the college of liberal arts recipients are Calvin B. Short, Rupert, and Caryl Tickner, Twin Falls, both sophomores.

Recipients from the college of medical arts include seniors Maria W. Parrott, Buhl, and Marvella Bassett, Rupert, and sophomores Margaret Havesoy, Twin Falls; Michael Strickling, Wendell, and Cheryl Suter, Galdwin.

Groups compete

FOUR Twin Falls service clubs will compete Saturday in the annual Salvation Army Christmas fund drive to see which organization can raise the most money. Representatives are, from left, Don Rabe, Lions Club; Bob Seibel, Rotary; Lt. Len Blix, Salvation Army; and Dick Reed, Kiwanis Club. Redolay Boys also are competing and the group raising the most money will be awarded a traveling trophy.

Colts move within win over Patriots of completing 'miracle in Baltimore'

By RICK GOSSELIN UPI Sports Writer

The miracle of Baltimore is still one game from completion. Completion—and by a tie-point margin—is expected to come Sunday when the Colts are home to take on the New England Patriots, a 3-10 disappointment which has not won a game in six weeks.

The Colts shocked the Miami Dolphins in overtime last Sunday, 10-7 to guarantee themselves a berth in the American Football Conference playoffs, pending, of course, a victory over the Patriots Sunday or a loss by the Dolphins at the hands of the Denver Broncos Saturday in their finale.

If Baltimore and Miami both win and the Cincinnati Bengals lose, then the Dolphins will gain the wild-card berth which had all but been awarded the Bengals two weeks ago. But Cincinnati lost to Pittsburgh last week to drop its record to 7-7 and finds itself in a must-win situation this Sunday against the 2-11 San Diego Chargers.

Over in the National Football Conference, all the playoff berths are spoken for, but three teams are still jockeying for the home-field advantage awarded the teams with the two best records for the first round of the playoffs.

Minnesota was upset by Detroit last week to throw the playoff home field maneuvering into a jumble. The loss left Minnesota tied with Los Angeles for the best record in the NFC at 11-2 and both clubs have more than "challenging" assignments this weekend.

The Vikings must travel to Buffalo Saturday to take on the Bills and O.J. Simpson while the Rams are at home that night to take on the defending Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

Simpson needs 200 yards rushing to reach the 2,000 yard plateau for the second time in three seasons. But don't count the Juice out after he rushed for 200 yards against the New York Jets on the final day of the 1973 season to get the first 2,000 yard rushing season in NFL history.

But the Vikings, ranked first offensively in the NFC, should provide more of a challenge for Simpson than the Jets did.

The Rams must face the hottest team in pro football in the Steelers, who have won 11 straight games and are coming off a sound 35-14 thrashing of the Bengals. And the Bengals, it may be noted, have the second best record in the AFC at 10-3.

In another game of importance, St. Louis trades away Pontiac Stadium to take on the Oakland Raiders with Terry Metcalf, who sat out last week's victory over Chicago, needing 119 yards in total offense to set a new NFL record.

The Cardinals still have a mathematical chance at one of the two home field berths, but it would take lopsided losses against the Vikings and Rams and a romp over Detroit for St. Louis to play at Busch Stadium next weekend.

Elsewhere, Kansas City visits Oakland, New York Jets, Cleveland meets Houston, Philadelphia journeys to Washington, Atlanta is at Green Bay, Chicago travels to New Orleans and the New York Giants close out at San Francisco.

Patriots optimistic about keeping Plunkett's service

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) - A New England Patriots official said after a five-hour meeting Thursday with Jim Plunkett the club was "optimistic" about signing the quarterback to another multi-year contract.

Assistant General Manager Peter Hadzazy said no agreement had been reached at the Schaefer Stadium session between Plunkett, Oakland and Wayne Hooper, Patriots President Bill Sullivan and General Manager and Coach Chuck Fairbanks.

"But I would say we left on very amicable terms," said Hadzazy. "We thought it was an extremely good meeting and a productive one. We're optimistic as to the results."

Plunkett had requested the meeting to discuss his future in pro football. His present five-year contract expires after Sunday's final season game against Baltimore but Plunkett would have to play out his option year with the Patriots in 1976 if he wanted to negotiate with another NFL team.

There also have been reports that the San Francisco 49ers, who play 30 miles from Plunkett's San Jose, Calif. home, are interested in a trade for the former Heisman Trophy winner. Plunkett attended Stanford and has indicated he would like to play ball near his home.

Hadzazy, however, talked only in terms of signing Plunkett.

Finley, who fired manager Alvin Dark earlier this year, broke precedent and signed Tanner to a three-year contract, reportedly for the same $70,000-a-year the old Milwaukee Brave and Chicago Cub had been getting from the Sox.

"I'm not implying anything. But you don't really look at the longevity as being as great as 30. I'm implying absolutely nothing about how long he'll be manager. But that was one of the things that made us so interested in Chuck Tanner—it's nice to have an insurance policy."

Baylor Coach Grant Teaff, back for another try as South coach after losing in 1972, noted his team was "real small, especially in the defensive line. But overall, I'd say this squad is better than the one we had in 1972—we're small, but have good quickness" and the defensive people go to the ball well."

Southern Methodist's Wayne Morris, who gained 123 yards against Cotton Bowl bound Texas Tech last week, noted Carolina's James Betterson will carry the running duties for the Gray team. Missouri's Tony Galbreath and Minnesota's Dexter Friele will handle the ball-carrying for the Blue squad.

"Both teams have real good personnel," said Stanford Coach Jack Christiansen. In his third year as coach of the North. "Really it comes down to two different philosophies. We're going to put the ball in

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Get home in good condition so you can have a happy time with your own household over the Christmas festivities. Do whatever errands are possible and keep cheerful.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Decide how to have conditions with kin and in home more ideal and harmonious. You can now easily handle problem difficult before.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Exercise care driving or shopping. Choose words well with friends who are touchy and don't get upset by one not feeling well.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You may feel lack, but if you stretch your dollars you can make this Christmas a happy one. Just the same. Blame increases in income.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be patient about delays and all works out fine later. Improve vitality and appearance. Don't get too friendly with strangers.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study small jobs and get them done. Mate may be in a maddening humor, but pay little attention and all is fine.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Not a good day to cultivate friendship with one who is too busy now. Avoid group meeting where much argument could develop.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Not a good day to approach bigwigs for favors since they are tied up or tired out, so await a better time. Shop. Relax in p.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Handle duties at home and don't go running off wasting time. Forget new contacts suggestions which aren't good for you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Some wrong hunch could send you on a wild goose chase, so forget it and all is fine. Show more devotion for mate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Something makes you fighting mad with a partner, but realize it is not his or her fault. Handle important private matter.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get at tasks awaiting your attention and they pay off handsomely. Revitalize energy. Do some home decorating in p.m.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Postpone good times until after your Saturday duties are done, particularly creative ones. See irresponsible youth with patience.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... ...he or she will see just how to work out other persons' problems of almost any kind, so start the education along such lines and give a good grounding in psychology. Teach early not to ever feel sorry for self or this could become a destructive trait. Make the home-life as happy and understanding as possible.

"The Stars-impel, they do-not-compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

It's now known that a South American male fish discharges a different sort of electrical current than does a South American female electric fish. And our Love and War man says research reveals those fish do a lot of tampering with their built-in rheostats when they approach each other. To say they get a charge out of the association is to put it precisely, however low the vernacular.

SO YOU THOUGHT Louisiana was the only state in the nation without any counties, did you? Not so. Alaska has no counties, either. What Louisiana calls parishes, Alaska calls divisions.

APOSTLES

The Apostle John was the only one of the 12 who died of natural causes. What did the others die of?
A. Ten were murdered, by crucifixion or otherwise. How Matthew died remains in some doubt, although most biblical scholars think he was murdered, too.

NOW THE POSTMEN estimate that they'll deliver this year 44 Christmas cards per family.

IT'S UP AROUND the Arctic Circle where you see those special rabbits that run around on their hind legs when scared.

VIOLINISTS

As late as 300 years ago, most persons who played violins did so by fingering same with the right hand and bowing with the left. What eventually brought about the reverse technique? Just can't say.

MEDICAL MATTERS: ... A frequently quoted medical journal reports that three out of five women taking The Pill are unmarried. ... JUST ABOUT 17 out of every 100 doctors practicing hereabouts were trained in foreign countries. ... STATISTICAL ODDS indicate that you and I each will need an ambulance twice in our lives. ... EYE DOCTORS say their recent studies show 97 out of every 100 Americans over 45 need glasses. ... WHY WOMEN generally remember their dreams better than do men is another medical mystery.

ON THE DAY that Prince Charles of England got his bachelor's in history from Cambridge, he became the first heir to the British throne ever to visit a university degree.
