Santa, admirers confer

SERENADING Santa Claus takes a moment to make a point for a pair of his young admirers in downtown Twin Falls Saturday afternoon. Santa was helping the Rotary Club's bell ringers with their stint at the Salvation Army's kettles. That was only one of several endeavors of the day and of the weekend in which organizations were displaying their holiday spirit by helping or entertaining others.

Angola chills US-Cuba thaw, menaces detente

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said Saturday Cuban military intervention in Angola has destroyed any chance for improved U.S. Cuban relations, and he warned Moscow its Angolan involvement could jeopardize detente as well. At an impromptu news conference, Ford also indicated he still may try to get covert aid through to anti-Soviet factions in Angola despite Congress' moves to stop such aid. "The Congress has tied our hands," he said, "and I think that is a serious mistake." Ford discussed Angolan and domestic political issues with White House reporters one day after the Senate voted to halt covert U.S. aid to Angolan factions. The House then froze the main source of Angolan funds by refusing to vote on the issue. The President has warned the Soviet Union before — as he did Saturday — "if you could jeopardize relations with the United States by its policy of supplying vast quantities of military aid into a favored Angolan faction. But both sides in Cuba were startlingly blunt and appeared to shut off Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's painstaking efforts to thaw relations frozen since the early 1960s. "There are between 4,000 and 6,000 Cuban combat military personnel in Angola," Ford said. "The incline by the Cuban government in sending combat forces to Angola destroys any opportunity for improvement in relations with the United States. "They've made a choice which, in effect — and I mean it very literally — has precluded any improvement in relations with Cuba." As it is to go any chance he would be misunderstood on this issue, Ford later said he was also angered by Havana's effort "to get Puerto Rico free, and clear from the United States." That plus Cuba's Angolan intervention, he said, "ends, so far as I am concerned, any efforts at all to have friendlier relations with the government of Cuba." Asked what effect Moscow's Angolan policy might have on stalled negotiations for a second-round U.S.-Soviet nuclear arms limitation agreement, Ford said: "The persistence of the Soviet Union in Angola with $100 million or more worth of military aid certainly does not help the continuation of detente." He said he intended to "maximize our efforts" to persuade the Soviets and Cuba to withdraw from the Angolan conflict, perhaps with the aid of the Organization for African Unity. But he suggested he may not be through trying to channel more aid to favored Angolan factions even through Congress action Friday seemed to put the main block of covert funds out of reach at least until after the congressional recess.

New tax cut goal with Ford budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, claiming a "100 per cent" victory in his battle to make Congress link tax reductions to spending limits, said Saturday he would recommend a $28 billion tax cut to begin July 1, when a six-month tax-cut extension expires. The President said he would propose the fiscal 1977 $295 billion budget he will table for fiscal 1977, providing an "outback in growth of federal spending" he said he has "fair chance" of getting Congress to operate under that ceiling. Ford said he would sign a $6.4 billion bill which Congress revived Friday to extend 1975's tax cuts for the first six months of next year. But, he told reporters at a news conference, "I under no circumstances believe that I backed off the very fundamental principle, which was if you are going to have a tax reduction you have to have a corresponding limitation on the growth of federal spending." "I am on that issue 100 per cent, and if you tie that principle which the Congress has agreed to with the budget ceiling that I am going to submit of $395 billion, it does mean that the Congress will have to respect their good faith commitment and operate within the $395 billion figure." The House failed to override Ford's veto of an original bill extending the 1975 tax cuts. Congress then revived the bill and passed it Friday with some new, nonbinding language saying it would lower federal spending by an amount of any future tax cut. Ford promised to sign the bill, probably on Monday, and aver that effectively would be a Jan. 1 increase in taxes for Americans. Ford said the compromise offer made by Democrats in Congress was for a "dollar for dollar" reduction in taxes and a dollar for dollar reduction in federal spending. Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford would try to hold Congress to its pledge to lower federal spending by the amount of any future tax cut. (Continued on pg. 3)

today in brief

OPEC holds price line

VIENNA, Austria (UPI) — The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries kept the price of oil frozen Saturday at its annual year-end meeting. But it did not rule out another price increase when the present freeze expires June 30. The international oil exporting cartel also retained the strengthened American dollar to quote its oil prices. "We are helping the world economy by keeping the price of oil frozen until next July," Iranian Oil Minister Jamshid Amouzegar told newsmen. "Only until July?" he was asked. He did not answer. With the price of oil frozen until June 30, and the stronger dollar side from attack, the meeting of the oil ministers of the 13 OPEC members was routine. An OPEC spokesman said mainly internal matters such as the budget and a planned move to a new, larger secretariat building was on the agenda. At their meeting here the end of September the oil ministers raised the price 10 per cent to $11.51 a barrel for the "marker grade" Saudi Arabian light crude oil. The ministers said the price would be frozen until June 30, 1976, and there was no change in this decision at the year-end meeting. The dollar has strengthened so much recently that it was not even on the meeting's agenda, the spokesman said. OPEC was reluctant to say so, but the OPEC decision to switch from dollars to special drawing rights of the International Monetary Fund appeared to be barred, at least for the time being.

Birds counted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One yellow-bellied sapsucker, two purple finches and several house sparrows in an oak tree were spotted on the White House grounds Saturday, in the seventh annual bird count at the executive mansion. Fred Evenden, executive director for the Wildlife Society, made the 90-minute walk around the fenced in grounds marking the start of the official Audubon Society's North American continental bird count. "Elegant species were observed, and 58 individual birds were seen," Evenden said. There were no turtle doves, partridges or mallards-milking for that matter.

Argentine revolt reported over

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — An air force spokesman Saturday night said "agreement has been reached" on the crisis sparked by a group of rebellious air force officers demanding the ouster of President Isabel Peron and her government. (Earlier story, p. 12) The spokesman said rebel-held Buenos Aires metropolitan airport and the Miron air base, on the outskirts of the capital, would be returned to loyal forces on Sunday.

Bentzen raps deficit spending

CHIEFENNE (UPI) — One of the earliest cutbacks in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, Sen. Lloyd Bentzen, D-Tex., Saturday said deficit government spending must stop and a more efficient administration of federal agencies be instituted. "The number one issue in this election is the economy," Bentzen, 54, said during a news conference. "There's too much red tape in federal government. We are spending $18 billion on government forms."

Probe eyed

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Saturday he would like to see a special prosecutor named to investigate the 1968 assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King. Church said the Senate intelligence committee has found no evidence the FBI or the CIA were a sufficient number of questions to warrant a further investigation.

Israeli envoys assn PLO role

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two Israeli diplomats charged Saturday that the presence of the Palestine Liberation Organization at next month's Security Council debate on the Middle East was aimed at spiking the chances of a negotiated peace in favor of an imposed settlement. "Israel will not be a party in any future negotiations," said Simcha Dinitz, the Jewish State's ambassador to the U.S.

Afriann guerrillas kill pair

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Guerrillas rained down a farmer's wife and son Saturday on the terrace of their homestead in disputed South West Africa. Radio South Africa said. The attack at Grootfontein — 100 miles south of the border with Angola where South African anti-insurgency troops are massed — was the first on white settlers in the area in more than 10 years.

Recovery seen

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The world economy should recover by 1978 because the real gross product, the total goods and services produced worldwide, is likely to increase over the next two years, an economic report forecast Saturday. The report, compiled by Project LINK, an internationalist supported group of economists, said the gross product of the world should increase by 5 per cent in 1976 and by 6.2 per cent in 1977. Dr. Lawrence R. Klein, a finance and economic professor at the University of Pennsylvania, and a member of LINK, said the world already has come through a "severe recession." "The physical volume" of world trade fell significantly in 1975, Klein said. LINK estimates the drop at 6.6 per cent. This is most unusual for the volume of world trade to fall. But Klein added, "Recovery should be moderate in 1976 and more robust in 1977. However, the recovery of trade volume in 1976 will not be strong enough to regain the trade level of 1974."

Swedes, Swiss take lead in per capita GNP list

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is no longer the world's richest industrialized nation on a per capita basis, the World Bank Atlas reported Saturday. Sweden and Switzerland moved ahead in 1974, dropping the United States to third place, it said. The World Bank bases its conclusions on each nation's gross national product, divided by its population. The figures are weighted over three years ending 1974 to avoid yearly aberrations. Swedish per capita GNP in 1974 was $6,720 followed by Switzerland at $6,630 and the United States at $6,610. The United States was the leader in 1973 at $6,290 compared to Switzerland's $6,100 and Sweden's $5,910. It was the first time in the 10 years of Atlas reporting that the United States was not first among industrial nations. For all countries, the tiny oil-rich United Arab Emirates continued to have the highest per capita GNP, $13,500. Another oil country, Kuwait, was second at $11,640 followed by Sweden, Switzerland and the United States. Saudi Arabia which has the world's richest known oil reserves, ranked well down at $2,800. But the figures for the petroleum countries were outdated by the 400-per-cent oil price increase in 1974, the Atlas said. In an appendix dealing with the members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting countries, the Atlas estimated the Arab Emirates' per capita income-to have nearly doubled, to $22,000. Kuwait was estimated at $20,700 and Qatar $10,538. Wealthy 13 OPEC countries also improved substantially, but others remained among the world's poorest nations. Indonesia had per capita GNP of only $180. Nigeria $10 and Ecuador $50. Libya at $4,890 and Saudi Arabia $3,090 along with the UAE, Kuwait and Qatar were the only OPEC countries with per capita GNP exceeding $3,000. The Atlas also showed the gap between rich and poor nations widened in recent years. Economic growth among industrialized nations exceeded the increase in population indicating better living conditions for their people, it said. But in developing countries population growth outstripped economic improvement, it said, and in some cases, including drought-stricken African nations and Cuba, there was no economic growth. The Atlas said Europe, North America, Russia, Japan, Israel, China, Middle East oil nations and South Korea were growing richer. Countries were growing poorer — in South America, Asia, and Africa, including India, Bangladesh, Pakistan, Jordan, South Africa, Niger, Mexico and Cuba, it said.

AF Dam measure, tax cuts linked

By SHANE O'NEILL Times-News writer BURLY — Hopes of the nation's taxpayers for continuation of current tax cuts rest of Idahoans' hopes for reconstruction of the American Falls Dam. Two bills were sent to President Ford late Friday with provisions exempting bonds for American Falls Dam construction from taxation. The exemption would bring an estimated yearly savings of $1.1 million and make the bonds more marketable. One bill is specifically for the bond exemption. A rider is attached presenting President Ford with the compromise tax cut measure that would continue federal withholding taxes at the present reduced levels. The President has given assurances that he would accept the Senate's compromise language in the tax measure hammered out following veto of an earlier bill. But to be on the safe side, the American Falls Dam tax exemption was also attached to the Medicare bill. Both bills were passed only moments before Congress recessed for the Christmas holidays. The Medicare bill has passed the Senate on Wednesday, but was sent to a conference committee because of differences between House and Senate versions.

The Senate passed the Joint Medicare version and sent it to the House early Friday, where it also received approval, and was sent to the President. Both American Falls measures would exempt from taxation the interest on nearly $45 million in bonds for financing construction of a new dam at American Falls. Ben Yamagata, council for the sub-committee on energy research and water resources headed by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Friday the exemption "amounts to a couple of percentage points on floating the bonds and makes them more marketable." Both Senators Church and James McClure, R-

Idaho, have worked for the bond exemption to allow replacement of the dam. Cracking in the present structure has become so severe that the safety of the entire dam is compromised. At one time four mezzanines were on the Senate floor carrying the American Falls bond tax exemption. A McClure spokesman said the senator "had attached it to everything he could." Construction of the new dam is estimated to cost $44.75 million and will be privately financed. Idaho Power Co. has agreed to pay up to $22.9 million for the falling water rights. # Suspects face hearings in paper heir slaying

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The bizarre tale behind the knife slaying of young newspaper heir John S. Knight III will begin to unravel this week.

Two suspects in the killing face preliminary hearings in Common Pleas Court Tuesday. Their trials are expected to begin soon after, although motions to move the trials out of the city because of excessive publicity are likely and could cause delays.

The murder of the 36-year-old millionaire has been splashed across the front pages of the city's three newspapers since the Dec. 7 slaying.

John S. Knight III, newspaperman and scion of the family of John S. Knight, editorial chairman of the Inquirer and Daily News, was stabbed in the hallway down-town apartment after he was bound, gagged and terrorized.

The apartment was ransacked and Knight was already dead before two of his houseguests, stepping in a guest bedroom, awoke.

Leads from investigators said Knight, special projects editor for the Daily News, had homosexual contacts.

The events leading up to the slaying have trickled out of police headquarters. The only substantive information came after arrest warrants were issued for three south Philadelphia men.

But the story then became even more complicated.

In a fast-breaking chain of events, one suspect, Isaac "Felix" Melendez, 30, was found dead on a rural road in Pine Hill, N.J., and another, Steven Malen, 25, surrendered to police.

The third, Salvatore Salerno, 37, was found in Miami, Fla., staying with two young girls, one was a stripper who turned him in.

Several days later, Salerno was charged by New Jersey authorities in the death of Melendez.

Knight's houseguests the night of the murder, Mr. and Mrs. John McKinnon, of New Haven, Conn., returned to Philadelphia to view a police line-up.

Lawyers for Soll and Melendez jubilantly declared that they were unable to positively identify their clients as the intruders who entered Knight's apartment at 3 a.m. and stabbed Mrs. McKinnon after Knight was killed.

A post-script was added when it was announced that Knight left no will.

Rubdown joints object to police surveillance

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police have been parking their black and white squad cars in front of Hollywood massage parlors and questioning customers as they enter and leave in order to discourage patronage.

Owners of two of the rubdown joints, the Palace of Love and the Hollywood Fox Club, sought an injunction against alleged police harassment but a federal judge denied their petition Friday.

U. S. District Court Judge Irving Hill, however, was critical of what the police call "intensive surveillance."

He told Lawrence Nagin of the city attorney's staff, lawyer for the police, "what you're doing under the cloak of an investigation is to intimidate by a show of force."

The judge added, "You will forgive me for expressing some skepticism but is it just a coincidence that the police are parked in front of these two establishments?"

Indo refugees resettled

FT. CHAFFEE, Ark. (UPI) — The first American home for 50,000 Indochina refugees closed Saturday, marking the end of one of the largest refugee resettlement programs in American history.

More than 140,000 Vietnamese and Cambodian refugees were resettled in the United States following the fall of their countries last spring.

A 10-minute ceremony at Ft. Chaffee's main gate marking the end of the resettlement program concluded when the last husband of 25 refugees left for the Fort Smith municipal Donald G. MacDonald, senior civil court donor, said the act as the refugee program ended on the eve of this nation's bicentennial celebration. It shows the helping hand and spirit of the first Americans is still alive."

Dr. Lien Cong Vu, a Vietnamese pathologist who resettled in Ft. Smith, expressed the appreciation, on behalf of all refugees, for the generosity of the American people.

"Once again Americans have remembered their heritage and been true to their traditions. Once again we have welcomed a new people.

Chicago borrows millions

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mayor Richard J. Daley says Chicago banks have agreed to loan $55 million to the city until $76 million in federal revenue sharing funds can be released.

Daley Friday also criticized U. S. District Court Judge Prentice Marshall's decision to withhold the revenue sharing money because of a discrimination suit against the Chicago Police Department.

A U. S. Court of Appeals hearing on the withholding of the funds is scheduled for Jan. 6.

Should additional funds become necessary, Daley said an ordinance was being prepared to levy $76 million in additional real estate taxes to compensate for the money that is being unlawfully and illegally withheld by the federal court.

Angola hurts detente: Ford

Sunday, December 21, 1975 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho

N-weapons go out

The President said the Senate's vote to halt U.S. funding for aid to Angola had sharply limited American options there, but indicated that some way to temporarily maintain the assistance might be found — telling a reporter who asked if the aid would have to stop now: "I never say 'no' through."
He said he hoped the Congress would reverse its position quickly after a Christmas recess.
The thumbs-down Senate vote came after an intense lobbying effort by the White House for aid to Angola failed.
The 54-22 Senate vote to halt covert military aid to Angola was the first time the Senate used the power of the purse to halt a covert CIA activity authorized by a president. The House passed similar action until after the Christmas recess ends in late January.
Ford had said Friday the action "will profoundly affect the security of the United States," marked the first time the Senate had used the power of the purse to halt a covert CIA activity authorized by a president.

In response to questions about domestic issues and the 1976 political campaign, the President also:
— Said he still expects to beat Ronald Reagan for the Republican presidential nomination and win the general election despite a Gallup-poll that found the former California governor ahead among both GOP voters and independents. "I think the final answer comes in the ballot box and I'll do the job (as President) ... that will be the test, not any interim polls."
— Gave strong endorsement to his campaign manager, Howard "Bo" Callaway, by saying "I think over-all Bo has done a good job" and that, on the basis of weekly reports he has been getting, "I'm convinced we are in good shape in most states" for the GOP primaries.
— Said he would propose a $25 billion budget for the fiscal year starting next Oct. 1, with a recommendation for a tax cut of about $28 billion to take effect next July.
— On Monday, Ford said he would sign the six-month extension of 1975 tax cuts just approved by Congress and he felt the last-minute addition of a nonbinding pledge by Congress to lower federal spending in proportion to future tax reductions was "a good compromise." But he said he in no way "backed off" on the principle he was fighting for and, in that respect at least, "I won ... 100 per cent."

— Said he hoped to decide over the weekend if he should accept compromise legislation that would establish a new comprehensive energy conservation program and had been given advice "on both sides of the issue" from his advisers.
— Gave no indication if he would sign or veto a bill, sought by labor, to give unions more picketing rights in the construction industry. He said Labor Secretary John Dunlop urged him to sign the measure, but 600,000 messages calling on him to veto the bill had been sent to the White House.
— Asked if he expected Dunlop to quit his post if the bill were vetoed, Ford said "I know he feels very strongly" about it but "there's been no indication to me that he might resign."

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada will rid itself of its last nuclear weapons when it goes ahead with a planned replacement of its home-defense interceptor aircraft. Defense Minister James Richardson said in a weekend interview.
Richardson said the replacement interceptor will be equipped with conventional rather than nuclear weapons, "mainly because the new fire power capability is equal to the nuclear."
Asked if Canada finally is going totally non-nuclear Richardson said "we would with the replacement of the (Starfighter) 101."

He said now that Canada has made its decision on purchase of long-range anti-submarine patrol aircraft and upgrading of its European tank forces, "We will be looking at the replacement for the 101's, the interceptors."
However, he said he did not expect the decision to be made soon as it would take time to absorb the cost of purchasing the patrolcraft and tanks.

Ford to propose another tax cut

"For every dollar over $30 billion that they go, they will be voting to reduce the additional tax cut that he will have proposed," Nessen said.
"So this issue isn't over — It is just beginning. This will be an issue every time a spending bill is voted in Congress. It's a whole new way of doing business."
The compromise on the six-month extension of current tax cuts came just before Congress adjourned and was worked in such a way that both sides could claim victory. Ford because he forced insertion of the vague promise to hold down a spending and Congress because it did not have to agree to a specific ceiling.
American taxpayers also won something — a Christmas gift of no tax increase beginning in January.
"All we're trying to do is put Santa Clause back in the sleigh in time for Christmas," said Sen. Russell Long, D-La., who with Sen. William Roth, R-Del., worked out the compromise after it appeared there was no hope that Congress and Ford could get together.
Although the battle over the tax bill was settled, several major pieces of legislation were threatened with presidential vetoes. Among them was a measure to provide for a comprehensive new energy conservation program, another to expand union picketing rights in the construction industry, and a $6.5 billion railroad aid package aimed primarily at the Northeast and Midwest.
— Nessen said Ford was unlikely to act on any of those over the weekend and probably would not call Congress back early for a special session if he did veto any of those bills or others.
The President devoted most of the morning to work on the fiscal 1977 budget.

Soviets fly for Syria

TEL AVIV — Russian pilots are flying advanced Soviet Mig-25s for Syria, according to Israeli Defense Minister Shimon Peres.
The reason, says Peres, is that the Soviets do not want to risk their most sophisticated warplane falling into Western hands.
Last month, U.S. intelligence reports showed that the Soviet Union had agreed to send a squadron of MIG-25s to Syria, where they apparently were to be manned by Soviet pilots. However, there was no confirmation that the planes and pilots had been sent.
The intelligence reports said the planes likely would be reconnaissance versions of the MIG-25. During the 1973 Yom Kippur War, Soviet-piloted MIG-25s stationed in Egypt reportedly made reconnaissance passes over the Sinai Desert.
Asked whether the United States has an aeronautical match for the MIG-25, Peres said the F-15, which already has been cleared in Washington for delivery to Israel, would suffice.

Bomb wrecks London bar

LONDON (UPI) — A bomb planted at an Irish community bar in north London exploded late Saturday three minutes after it was discovered and the bar cleared, a Scotland Yard bomb squad officer said.
Police said they had reports of six persons injured, most of them apparently suffering minor wounds from flying glass as they fled the pub.
The blast caused extensive damage to Biddy Mulligan's bar in Kilburn High Road, heartland of London's densely packed Irish community. It smashed windows on both sides of the busy street.
Bomb squad officers declined to speculate on who was responsible for the blast.
But it came 24 hours after bomb attacks claimed by extremist Protestants killed four persons and injured 27 at two bars in the Irish Republic in Northern Ireland in a loyalist backlash against the outlawed Irish-Republican Army. Both bars were used by the IRA.

A Protestant extremist group calling itself the Red Hand Commandos claimed responsibility for the two bombings.
One bomb was hurled into Donnelly's bar at Silverbridge, three-miles north of the Irish Republic border late Friday. It killed at least three persons and injured at least six others, security officials said.
Four hours earlier, a bomb planted in a car exploded in front of Mulligan's bar — 10 Dundalk nine miles inside the Irish Republic and a known hangout for IRA sympathizers. Authorities said one person was killed and 21 injured.
Northern Ireland security forces said the two bar bombings could herald a new wave of violence in the province.
Bars used by the north London Irish community have

'Squeaky' starts time in prison

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Lynette Fromme, sentenced to life in prison for trying to kill President Ford, arrived under U.S. marshal escort Saturday at the federal Metropolitan Correctional Center.
Miss Fromme, 27, was driven here from the Sacramento County Jail with all her personal belongings including the red robe she wore when she pointed a pistol at Ford in state Capitol Park. She will be given a prison classification and an evaluation at the center and then transferred to a permanent federal prison.
U.S. Marshal Arthur Van Court said in Sacramento that Miss Fromme was "very cooperative" and seemed "in a very good mood" during the transfer.
Earlier a federal prosecutor said she told the judge during her trial she "had thought" of killing Ford even though she did "not fire" the automatic pistol.

Dam exemption, tax cuts linked

The remaining $21.2 million is to be paid by speculators, with the American Falls Reservoir District acting as prime contractor for construction.
The various irrigation districts in the upper Snake River Basin are holding elections, most of them on Jan. 12, to authorize, speculator contracts and impose assessments for repayment of their proportionate shares of the cost of financing and construction.
The storage provided by the reservoir is the foundation of the existing irrigation development in the upper Snake River Basin and contributes almost half the usable storage on the main stem of the upper Snake.
Nearly 900,000 acres of land now receive irrigation water from the American Falls Reservoir.
Its original capacity of 17 million acre feet was cut by a third in 1972 because of deterioration caused by chemical reaction of aggregate upon the cement of the structure. Cracks had been reported as early as 1929, but became increasingly more

Poison suits filed

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Two former employees of a now-defunct Hopewell pesticide firm have filed suit claiming they have suffered severe injuries from the ant and roach poison produced at the plant.
John L. Gibb and William A. Moyer Jr., in a suit filed in U.S. District Court Friday, asked for $1 million and $3 million in damages respectively.
Earlier this year, 10 former employees of the Life Science Products Co. filed suit seeking a total of nearly $25 million. At least 28 employees of the firm have been hospitalized

Another deficit for Christmas

President Ford and Congress have given the taxpayers a Christmas present. They agreed on a compromise tax cut for next year which will permit taxes to drop a bit for most people...

It doesn't mean a thing. The same budget procedures will be followed in the future and the same Congress will be making the appropriations. In the same President may be trying to be a nice guy...

Why not a Christmas amnesty for Viet exiles?

WASHINGTON - Before we come to the end of the old year, and go on to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence in 1976, it is not possible at least to think about an unconditional Christmas amnesty for the defiant exiles of the Vietnam War?

Helpful training

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Georgia A. Zeller became the first female graduate of the Kansas City Fire Academy Friday, but she says she never intends to fight fires.

"I knew the training would help me in my work," said Ms. Zeller, who works as an ambulance paramedic for the Lee's Summit Fire Department.

"Several times during the firefighting training I had to tell myself to keep it up, even though it was pretty rough at times." Her training at the academy included 10 weeks of classroom work and actual experience fighting fires.

"Weighing 110 pounds, I ran into a few physical barriers that a 250-pound person could overcome, but not I," she said. "But they (the other 20 trainees) treated me fair."

Ms. Zeller said she became a paramedic because she enjoyed science and humanities.

"At first I used to get a lot of double takes when I went out in the ambulance," she said. "But soon I was accepted the same as anyone else."

Free on hall

PLEASANTON, Calif. (UPI) — Fearful but elated Wendy Yoshimura, 31, was released from a rehabilitation center here Friday under $25,000 bail.

Miss Yoshimura, who was Patricia Hearst's roommate before her arrest, said she would not try to return to the underground where she spent three and one-half years. Previously, her bail was set at a high figure because officers feared she might disappear.

Shoplifters shovel snow

DULUTH, Minn. (UPI) — Persons caught shoplifting in Duluth used to be sentenced to clean the city's streets at the Duluth zoo. Starting Friday, they shovelled snow instead.

One person was "convicted" of shoplifting Friday and inaugurated the new program which calls for 40 hours of snow shoveling outside the residences of elderly citizens and the infirm.

Yank flees Mexican prison

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — A male prisoner of Mexico City's Lecumberri penitentiary, identified as a United States citizen, donned women's clothing and escaped from the jail two days ago, prison authorities said Friday.

The inmate, identified as Dwight James Barker, had been serving an 18-month to six-year and nine-month-for illegal importation of narcotics.

Authorities said he fled the prison Wednesday, 30 minutes after being married in a mass ceremony, along with 11 other couples.

Dog wins reprieve

The dog promptly bit the judge on the hand.

Mother flying to Poland to free son from prison

© Chicago Daily News
CHICAGO — Stanislaw Jellinski has departed for Poland on a mission to free his son from prison. In her purse, she carried $11,000 in $100 bills — her life savings.

Mrs. Jellinski scribbled hours here for nine years to save the money. A week ago, a robbery snatched her purse as she walked home on the Northwest Side and fled with the $11,000 in it.

But the purse was recovered with the $11,000 still wrapped in paper that the robber had overlooked.

"Ten-thousand of it is for an escape," said Robbery Investigator Ralph Vucko. "She told us she has to go to Poland for the money."

Mrs. Jellinski's 14-year-old son is serving the fifth year of a life term prison sentence. She has limited his political prisoner.

Vucko and his partner, Frank Ifigio, dogged considerable of day hours to help Mrs. Jellinski prepare for her journey. They tried in vain to persuade her from carrying her savings in cash.

Sisters, brother in joyous reunion

© Chicago Sun-Times
CHICAGO — Sara and Esther Berkovics survived Auschwitz and Dachau, thinking no one else in their family had.

Bul Thursday night in Esther's Evanston home, they again saw and talked with their brother Bernat, 35 years later. Berkovics, 53, and his sisters Mrs. Esther Scher, 51, and Mrs. Sara Garber, 50, spoke in Yiddish, the only language they have in common. The joy of their reunion was tinged with sadness.

"They were saying it was the rest of the family couldn't live," said Sara's son, Ed Garber. He explained that when the Germans overran Czechoslovakia and interned the Jews, the mother in the family chose to go with the younger children. She and they were exterminated.

Bernat was sent to a different concentration camp than Sara and Esther, which one they didn't know. After they were liberated, both married Lithuanians they had met in the camps.

The sisters, who came to this country some 25 years ago, assumed Bernat was dead. But 10 years ago a friend who was visiting relatives in Russia discovered Bernat was living there, raising a family and

Rare puma slain

CALI, Colombia (UPI) — For the second time in less than a month, a rancher along Colombia's Pacific coast has shot and killed a rare wild animal. This was "cutting livestock, but this time not even the residents are happy.

the excess weight, 10 of the boxes were returned to Vucko's auto.

"She indicated they contained clothing for her son," Vucko said.

Vucko and Ifigio had driven the elderly woman to police headquarters where her savings had been locked up for safe keeping, then to the International Terminal at the airport.

They shadowed her in the waiting room before flight time — on the alert for another purse snatcher. There were no incidents.

Mrs. Jellinski was scheduled to return here in three weeks.

"There is a 67-year-old woman with a had heart involved in this, foreign intrigue," Ifigio said. "She is going to come back without a dime."

Cranes arrive

TOKYO (UPI) — A pair of greater sandhill cranes, a gift from President Ford to Japan, arrived from the United States by airplane Tuesday night.

The cranes, named George and Martha, were presented to the Japanese people when Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako visited the United States last October.

The cranes were taken to Ueno Zoo in downtown Tokyo on arrival.

George and Martha were raised at the Interior Department's Patuxent Wildlife Research Center in Maryland.

Rate change paper filed

BOISE (UPI) — Intermountain Gas Co. filed two rate applications Friday, one which would give residential customers a small break and the other which seeks nearly $1 million in increased rates from industrial users.

The utility requested a 27-cent credit in January to the average residential customer under an Idaho Public Utilities Commission order that it must pass along a price decrease it received from its chief supplier in October.

The commission also was asked to approve a $247.54 rate increase for industrial users without suspending the Jan. 19 effective date. In most rate case proceedings, the commission suspends the effective date to give it time to review the rate structure and application.

The utility said the rates need to be increased to pay for increases in the cost of debt and labor and allow the company a rate of return as authorized in the last general rate case of June, 1974.

It requested that the commission defer a detailed examination of the rate structure until the next general rate increase application, which will be filed during the gas company's current fiscal year.

The utility emphasized the $1 million rate hike was requested strictly for large volume users "to increase the differential between large volume firm non-interruptible and interruptible rates."

Auto inspection repeal pressed

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — State Sen. Dan Watkins is confident the next legislature will repeal Idaho's motor vehicle inspection program but a Department of Law Enforcement spokesman said the program is paying off.

The Idaho Falls Republican said the inspection program should be dissolved because it has not accomplished the purpose under the 1967 law.

Information officer Steve Lory said from 1967-1974 there was a 30 per cent increase in vehicle registrations in Idaho but only a 5.9 per cent increase in accidents caused by defective equipment.

He said the program is potentially worth $1 million in federal and state highway funds and if the state suddenly dropped the program, the U.S. Transportation Department may threaten to stop the federal funds.

But Senator Watkins said no state has lost federal highway funding because of not having an inspection program. Idaho is one of 41 states requiring vehicle safety inspections. The fee for the annual inspection is $2.

Watkins also is concerned over the lack of standardized vehicle inspections in the state, that he knows of instances when stations have failed to properly inspect a vehicle.

He feels this is the time to repeal the act because of strong pressure to increase the fees. During the 1975 legislative session Watkins' repeal bill passed the Senate but died in the House transportation committee.

Energy task force set by Idaho GOP

BOISE (UPI) — The State Republican Party has set up a task force to air the issues involving energy and the environment, GOP chairman Vern Ravenscroft announced today.

The Environment & Energy Task Force will be headed by Laird Noh, Twin Falls County Republican chairman and the chairman of the National Woodgrowers Predator Committee.

The task force will include Jim Bax, former director of the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, Sen. Wilson Steen of Glenns Ferry, Rep. Vard Chabnam of Alton and Dave Mead of Twin Falls, a bank executive and member of several conservation organizations.

Ravenscroft said the task force is one of several set up by the state party. It will explore the immediate and far ranging implications of the issues regarding energy and the environment.

Fund holdback set

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — An across-the-board two per cent holdback of operating funds for all University of Idaho departments supported by the general education budget was announced Friday by school president Ernest W. Hartung.

Hartung said still further cutbacks might be implemented in the future if the university does not receive a proposed $182,000 supplemental appropriation from the legislature to pay for increases in utility costs during the current fiscal year.

Plates expire

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Department of Law Enforcement is reminding motor vehicle and trailer owners whose license plates are not on the staggered numerical system that their plates expire at midnight on Dec. 31.

Vehicles such as truck campers, trailers, motor homes and van conversions must be licensed and display a recreational vehicle sticker in addition to any valid license plate needed for the vehicle. Fees for recreation vehicles are assessed at $5 per $1,000 valuation, with recreation units over $10,000 market valuation being taxed at $5 plus 0.5 per cent of the value over $10,000.

Canyon recreation area approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation to create the Hells Canyon National Recreation Area along a 14-mile stretch of the Snake River between Oregon and Idaho received final congressional approval Friday.

The bill prohibits construction of proposed hydroelectric dams on the Middle Snake.

The legislation was sent to President Ford when the House agreed to a minor change made by the Senate in the bill as passed earlier by the House.

The bill would create a 157,000-acre national recreation area, which also includes wilderness to be kept in its primitive state. As originally proposed, the bill would have put about 100 miles of the fast-flowing river into the recreation area. However, the House voted instead to cut for study of 34 miles of the river for possible future inclusion.

The 34-mile "study" section of the river extends from the northern boundary of the recreation area in Asotin, Wash., the site of a proposed federal dam.

The legislation also repeals congressional authority for construction of the Astin dam, for which Congress has failed to appropriate funds.

If President Ford signs the bill, it will mark the end of a long battle to build a power dam below the existing Hells Canyon Dam.

Senate delays appointment

Heyday for drunks

'Kitty' sued by 'Mitty'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate today confirmed the nominations of three top Defense Department officials, but did not take up the nomination of George Bush to head of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Bush, approved 12-4 Thursday by the Senate Armed Services, is being opposed by some Senate liberals who consider the appointment too political despite President Ford's decision to rule the former GOP national chairman out of consideration as a possible vice presidential running mate.

"Ambassador Bush and I agree that the nation's immediate foreign intelligence needs must take precedence over other considerations and there should be continuity in the CIA leadership," Ford said.

"Therefore, if Ambassador Bush is confirmed by the Senate as Director of Central Intelligence, I will not consider him as my vice presidential running mate in 1976."

RIDGECREST, Calif. (UPI) — Police refused for the fourth day Thursday to give traffic tickets or make arrests for drunken driving or public drunkenness to protest city council's refusal to build a new jail.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Has "Waldo Kitty" hurt "Walter Mitty"? Helen Thurber, widow of author James Thurber, says yes. She sued NBC and a television production company Thursday for copyright infringement in connection with the "Thurber" classic, "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty."

Goldwyn Productions, owner of film and television rights to the short story, claimed the infringement for the animated children's series called "The Secret Life of Waldo Kitty."

"Waldo Kitty" is produced by Filmation Associates for NBC and the plaintiffs contended it contains "extensive materials which were copied largely from the copyright story and copyrighted motion picture" including similarities in "the weak, inadequate, day-dreaming man character," "Defendants have unfairly compelled and will unfairly compete with plaintiffs," the suit stated in the complaint filed in U.S. District Court.

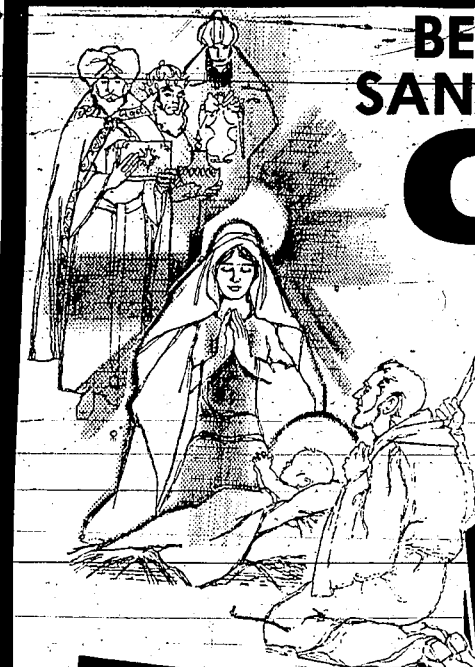

"Walter Mitty" was first published in the New Yorker Magazine in 1939, and Goldwyn made it into a movie starring Danny Kaye in 1947.

Bush, approved 12-4 Thursday by the Senate Armed Services, is being opposed by some Senate liberals who consider the appointment too political despite President Ford's decision to rule the former GOP national chairman out of consideration as a possible vice presidential running mate.

Confirmed by voice vote were former Rep. Robert Ellsworth of Kansas to be a deputy secretary of defense and assistant White House Press Secretary William I. Dreener of Virginia to be an assistant secretary of Defense.

Also confirmed was Thomas C. Reed of California to be secretary of the Air Force.

BEFORE THERE WAS A SANTA CLAUS — THERE WAS CHRIST

As the 1975 Birthday of Jesus Christ draws near. All of us at Swensen's hope it will be widely noted that Christ's gifts to us were not material, but rather the spiritual gifts of eternal life and his teachings of love for one another. He gave of himself. We express our firm conviction that "Peace on Earth" and happiness in our individual lives can only be found by endeavoring to follow Christ's teachings. That you and your loved ones may enjoy a wonderful holiday season and happiness throughout the coming year is Swensen's sincere wish.

Directory assistance levy nixed

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Nevada Bell's plan to levy a 25 cent charge for calls to directory assistance has been nixed by the State Public Service Commission.

The commission said the proposal had been rejected previously. The telephone company suggested that it allow three free calls to directory assistance a month and then charge 25 cents for all subsequent inquiries.

This was included in a request for a $5.9 million rate increase, on which the PSC is now holding hearings. The rate increase would have saved $500,000 in company costs. It says this will now have to be added to the general rate increase making it $6.4 million.

Robert Crowell, counsel for the staff of the commission, said the directory assistance charge should be eliminated because the commission had dismissed an identical plan early this year.

Company witnesses had admitted earlier that information calls have been reduced by 50 per cent when it changed its number from 411 to an eightdigit number.

Tom Edwards, general manager for Nevada Bell, said he was disappointed with the decision and that the financial burden will have to be shifted to all rate payers. He said, "Now to meet our earnings needs, the requirements will be 40 cents more a month per phone."

Meanwhile Barbara Bennett, a former operator and staff clerk, testified the firm was losing $1.2 million a year through waste and mismanagement. She complained about bonuses and free telephone calls for company executives; subsidies for the employees' cafeteria; company lobbying programs at the legislature and the company newspaper.

Mystery solved

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (UPI) — Madison County officials said Friday they have solved the mystery of their missing 150 pounds of marijuana. They blamed it all on a stinking teenager.

Ferry L. Dickerman, 17, Granite City Ill., was accused of climbing through a crawl space and squeezing between metal bars to steal the pot from the evidence room of the county jail.

Dickerman, held in lieu of $10,000 bail, was jailed earlier this year on a 50-day sentence. Authorities said he was arrested as an outside ruse and slept in a basement room adjacent to the evidence room where the marijuana was kept. They said Dickerman pulled plywood cover from a small crawl space near the ceiling and entered the evidence room.

Home blazes across US claim 34 lives Saturday

By United Press International
Home fires in communities from coast to coast killed more than 30 persons; many of their children, with cold gripping much of the nation during the night hours of the last weekend of autumn.

By early Saturday, the total of deaths stood at 32-16 children and 16 adults.

In the worst of the blazes, a mother and six children were killed in a fire in a Chicago suburb. In a fire that might have started in shorted Christmas tree lights, and a father and five children were killed in a fire in their home at Reading Center, N.Y.

A father and two boys were killed at Oakdale, Pa., Friday night in a fire, and a nine-year-old girl, her grandmother and an uncle perished in a house fire at Hughson, Calif., southeast of Modesto.

A seven-year-old boy, a girl, 14, and two adults were killed in two house fires in Montgomery County, Md., and three were killed at Peekskill, N.Y.

A man and wife died in an Omaha home fire; a woman was killed in a home blaze in West Philadelphia, Pa., and a mother and child died in a New York City blaze.

Pre-dawn blazes took two lives, those of a 66-year-old man and a 62-year-old woman, in Virginia where temperatures were in the teens.

The "Tinsel" Park blaze burned through a family home in a split level residence and sent heavy smoke pouring through the sleeping rooms. Neighbors said Mrs. Josephine Shine, 38, the mother, ran to a neighbor, summoned help, then ran back to her death in the burning house. She died, apparently trying to rescue the six children, four boys and two girls ranging in age from 2 to 14.

The father, a Chicago detective, was at work, authorities said.

Two of the children were from a previous marriage and one was a foster child. "It's a terrible thing about Christmas," said a Cook County coroner's office spokesman.

Douglas Parker, 32, four boys and a girl aged from 7 to 11, years, were killed in the blaze at their story home at Reading Center. In the New York Finger Lakes area, Mrs. Parker and two children, a daughter, 16, and a son, 13, escaped with injuries.

N-test set off

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI) — Scientists, conquering technical problems and aided by subsidizing upper level winds, Saturday exploded the 16th acknowledged U.S. nuclear experiment of the year, a blast up to 10 times more powerful than the atomic bomb used in World War II.

The underground nuclear test, packing a punch of between 20 and 400 kilotons, was triggered at 1 p.m. MST and sent shock waves across the desert floor that shook high-rise buildings in Las Vegas some 80 miles away.

Agreement reached

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Northwest Airlines and stewardesses said Saturday they have reached a collective bargaining agreement.

Details were not disclosed.

Ray Erickson, spokesman for Northwest, read a statement which said:

"Northwest Airlines and the Airline Pilots Association representing cabin attendants reached a new collective bargaining agreement today, covering rates of pay, rules and working conditions. When the parties have mutually agreed on scheduling rates, the agreement will be submitted to the membership for ratification."

Erickson would not elaborate, saying only that both parties agreed to the statement. The pilots' association could not be reached for comment.

Earlier Judy Henney, chairwoman of the Minneapolis-based cabin attendants, said stewardesses have been without a pay raise since Jan. 1, 1972.

The stumbling block to an agreement reportedly concerned vacation rules issued by Northwest. The airline wanted to offer vacations during December and two other heavily traveled months.

Pen makers OK contract

MILFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Striking union employees at the Bic Pen Co. voted unanimously Saturday to ratify a three year contract calling for $1.26 hourly wage hikes over the length of the pact.

Approval of the contract by the 900-member Local 134, United Rubber Workers Union, ended the first strike in the history of the Milford plant, the world's largest producer of "writing" instruments.

WASHINGTON — Reversing an earlier position, Sen. George S. McGovern (D-S.D.) said Friday he will not be a candidate for President in 1976 unless a deadlocked Democratic convention turns to him.

McGovern said he does not expect a draft and that he will do nothing to organize it.

Earlier, the 1972 Democratic nominee had said he might become a candidate again if no other "progressive" favorite emerges and the nomination seems to be going to a conservative.

Fog stalls holiday travel

By United Press International
Thick fog in the Pacific Northwest Saturday threw a wet blanket over holiday air travelers already caught up in the snarl of strikes by United and National Airlines.

A potential third strike was headed off at the pass.

The fog left airports in Portland and Seattle "wall-to-wall people," narrowed to 200 to 300 people at Minneapolis-St. Paul airport and stranded 1,000 or more passengers at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport.

"A Northwest Orient Airlines spokesman in Chicago said the airline "must have spent $30,000 to $50,000 Friday night putting travelers in hotels."

There were a few bright spots in the holiday travel picture.

Northwest and its stewardesses announced Saturday they had reached agreement covering pay, rules and working conditions, thus

REV. JESSE JACKSON
...awakening giant

Jackson sets goals for PUSH

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson said today two new thrusts for his Operation PUSH in 1976 will be toward awakening the black "sleeping giant" in Washington and toward buying stock in corporate America.

PUSH — People United to Save Humanity — celebrates its fourth anniversary Christmas Day. It has branched from its headquarters on Chicago's South Side to include offices in 32 U.S. cities, most recently Boston and Washington.

"I'm really excited about Washington," Jackson said. He said he intends to split his time, and perhaps his residence, between Chicago and Washington.

"We've been terribly naive about Washington," he said. "It's the heartbeat of the nation and without a heartbeat you're dead."

Blacks make up about 70 percent of Washington's population, he said, "and our people are like a sleeping giant there."

Jackson said PUSH began its drive on Washington with a visit to FBI Director Clarence Kelley last week.

Of the 8,500 FBI agents in the country, 100 are black — less than would be required under the affirmative action program, Jackson said.

"We want to start monitoring the hiring and implementation of these (affirmative) agencies," he said.

Jackson said PUSH also is trying to buy stock in 200 major corporations "so we can attend the board meetings" to get more voice in hiring and other policies of major U.S. business.

"If 70 per cent of Washington were Chinese, you can bet it would affect our policy toward China. If 70 per cent were Cubans, you can bet it would affect our policy toward Cuba."

But "people haven't been mobilized to make a difference," he said. "I want to revive the belief that demonstrating matters," he said. "Former President Richard Nixon convinced us demonstrations didn't matter because he kept saying so while he was worried enough to be infiltrating them and everything else."

Program promoted

BOISE — A program to gather information on the Northwest's timber, agriculture, rangeland and urban resources using satellites and high-altitude aircraft has been selected as one of 200 innovative community projects to be given federal recognition and promotion during the nation's bicentennial year.

The program, the "Land Resource Inventory Demonstration Project," was begun in 1974. It has as its goal the collection of resource inventory data that can be used by planners and managers in Idaho, Oregon and Washington.

"With funding and guidance from the Pacific Northwest Regional Commission, which is a tri-state economic development agency comprised of Governor Andrus of Oregon, Governor Evans of Washington and Federal Chairman Jack Padrick, a Land Resource Inventory Task Force began meeting last year to discuss common planning and management problems related to land resources."

Argentine rebels target of loyalist air strikes

U.S.-armed Skyhawks, French-built Mirage's and British-made Canberra's bombed and strafed the suburban Moron Air Base, again and again, to break the will of 1,400 rebels holed up inside.

After nearly two hours of non-stop raids, the loyalists called off the attacks for 45 minutes "to try to resume a dialogue to put an end to" the air force rebellion.

Authorities made a television appeal to the rebels "to abandon their position in obedience to their superior officers and the constitutional liberties of the nation."

The government ordered the evacuation of the downtown Casa-Rosada, presidential palace after the multitudes threatened to attack the five-story building in retaliation for the strikes.

But a government spokesman said Mrs. Peron was still at the palace in mid-afternoon being treated by a doctor and a nurse for an "indisposition."

In a possible escalation of the revolt, the head of the prestigious Army War College reportedly joined the uprising to protect the use of loyalist forces to attack the rebels.

"I cannot accept the idea of a single soldier dying to defend an attack—this government," the Noticias Argentinas news agency quoted Gen. Rodolfo Mujica as saying.

The loyalist warplanes began attacking Moron at 3:30 p.m., bombing, rocketing and strafing the base in a dramatic show of strength.

A UPI reporter outside Moron said the rebels fired back with antiaircraft guns as the loyalist warplanes made repeated passes over the sprawling suburban base.

The reporter said one bomb touched off a loud explosion.

The Soviet Union Saturday rejected a U.S. proposal for preparatory Middle East peace talks without the participation of the Palestine Liberation Organization, but agreed to a bilateral Moscow-Washington meeting instead.

In the Middle East, an American diplomat took his peace mission to Cairo and the Israeli ambassador to the United Nations said the General Assembly was "destroying itself by castigating and vilifying Israel."

In Moscow, the Soviet Union said it delivered a note to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger two days ago turning down a U.S. proposal for talks to set the stage for a new round of the Geneva Middle East Peace conference.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda quoted the Soviet note as saying "all the sides immediately concerned should take part" in the talks proposed by Kissinger.

"The idea set forth by the American side to hold some sort of preparatory conference but without the participation of the P.L.O. representatives cannot be taken otherwise than as an intention to avoid convening the Geneva conference," the note said.

But the note agreed to an American recommendation that the Soviet Union and the United States—the two chairmen of the Geneva conference—sit down to try to get the talks going again.

In Cairo, Egyptian officials awaited the arrival of Alfred Atherton, U.S. assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern and Asian affairs, for consultations on future moves toward an Arab-Israeli peace.

"The Assembly has really turned into an organization which devotes 50 per cent of its time—to castigating and vilifying Israel," Herzog told the Israeli national radio in a telephone interview from New York.

He said the anti-Israeli attacks were so intense they tended "in the final analysis to destroy the credibility of the General Assembly."

Bishops issue rights call

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Spain's Roman Catholic bishops issued a call Saturday for civil rights, amnesty for political prisoners and urgent action to combat unemployment and redistribute wealth.

The Spanish church already is on record as strongly pro-reform, but the declaration by the 24th Bishops Conference was especially significant because it coincided with other public agitation for change.

Francisco Franco and free an estimated 2,000 political prisoners.

Strikes and demonstrations are illegal in Spain.

The bishops' statement stressed the problems of unemployment and inflation above all.

Despite dramatic economic progress in Spain, it said "hundreds of thousands of brothers cannot find work and are living in poverty and insecurity."

"Many Spaniards, and among them many priests, find their pay each time more limited because of inflation," the statement said.

The Cortes parliament — under Franco a rubber-stamp body — has come to life in the last few days, with both the right and left demanding the government explain its policies and outline future programs.

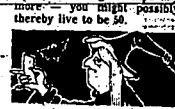

Left-wing and pro-reform groups also have staged numerous demonstrations to pressure King Juan Carlos to soften the right-wing policies he inherited from Generalissimo

Beirut fighting flares

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Masked gunmen killed a leading Moslem politician Saturday in a farcopic fighting that threatened to wreck the shaky cease-fire in Lebanon's eight-month-old civil war.

The assassins gunned down 60-year-old Kassem Al-Imad, who was seriously wounded in the couple left home in the northern port city of Tripoli.

Police said the masked gunmen cut down Al-Imad, one of Lebanon's six governors, as he was about to enter his car. Security forces launched a widespread manhunt for the killers.

Chamoun, a leader of Lebanon's Christians, warned that the slaying of Al-Imad "might be the beginning of a series of assassinations aimed at escalating the current instability."

Chamoun said the killing coincided with alarming reports received over the past few days of "serious" violations in Lebanon.

Al-Imad was a supporter of Kamal Jumblatt's left-wing Progressive Socialist party. He had been head of the press section in the Information Ministry and director general of the Defense Ministry before becoming governor in 1967.

Scattered shooting kept streets deserted in Beirut, Lebanon's war-torn capital, and Tripoli, the nation's second largest city and major port.

In Beirut, clashes broke out in the traditional neighborhoods of Chbab, Ain Rummaneh, Sin El-Fil, Nabaa, Dikwaneh, Furn E. Chabak and Hazmieh. Beirut radio warned motorists to use caution on all the city's roads.

Lisbon taxes up

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — The government announced new taxes on cars, luxury goods and land Saturday in a mounting austerity drive to revive Portugal's ailing economy.

Politicians said they expected a ceiling on wages to be imposed following a cabinet meeting next Tuesday.

The government told the nation to be prepared to make additional sacrifices — which some observers said could include a drastic hike in the cost of gasoline to nearly $2.50 a gallon.

The new measures included:

- A one-shot tax on cars, figured according to the size and age of the car.
- Taxes of between 20 and 40 per cent on unspecified "less necessary items" and luxury goods.
- New property tax tables increasing levies on high-value property but lowering them for most small holdings.

The measures are intended to shore up the Portuguese economy, buffeted by a 25 per cent inflation rate and an unemployment rate of 13 per cent.

Salpers also killed six persons in Beirut to push casualties to more than 700 dead and 4,000 wounded since the latest round of religious warfare began two weeks ago.

More than 5,500 persons have been killed since fighting between Christian and Moslem Muslims erupted last April in the divided nation of 3 million.

New traces of ancient man found

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American and French anthropologists have found new evidence in Ethiopia to support the growing picture of man roaming Africa's Great Rift Valley more than 3 million years ago.

The National Geographic Society reported Saturday the scientists recently discovered the fossilized bones of two infants and three to five adults "which apparently was a people on the shore of an ancient lake."

One of the researchers, Dr. Maurice Taieb of the National Center for Scientific Research in Paris, said the ancient people might have been overtaken by a sudden disaster, perhaps a flash flood, that trapped them in the gorge.

Dr. Donald C. Johnson, of the Western Reserve University in Cleveland, said it was possible the individuals were related, or possibly represented a family.

Cyclist, dog collide as dog leaps from pit

FILER — A motorcyclist escaped serious injury late Saturday afternoon, but the dog he collided with was killed. Bob McRill, 46, Filer, was traveling east on Clover Road a quarter of a mile west of Filer about 4:40 p.m., when a small dog leaped out of a borrow pit into his path, according to investigating officer Steve Cazier, a state police trooper. McRill had just come to a rise in the road, Cazier says, when the dog ran in front of his Yamaha 350. He was unable to avoid running over the dog which caused his cycle to flip, then slip down the road, Cazier says. The helmet saved him from any head injuries, but it was scuffed up pretty good, Cazier says. McRill was taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. His condition was "fair" Saturday evening and he was expected to be released later the same night. Cazier said it appeared McRill sustained bruises to his shoulders and other parts of his body. The motorcycle was relatively undamaged, Cazier says, except for some damage to the frame which held the windshield in place. The windshield "popped out" in the accident.

Larry decorates first yule tree

Larry Ek decorates tree for first time in life

TWIN FALLS — Larry Ek put the tinsel on his Christmas tree this year and it represented a big step forward. "Always, before, I watched my mom and sister do it," Ek said. A friend put on the lights and ornaments. Ed said he was still afraid he might break them, but he did have his first experience putting on the tinsel tinsel. "It was fun." Ek received an electronic "brain pacemaker" implant, in October at St. Barnabas Hospital, Bronx, New York to relieve the crippling effects of cerebral palsy. The operation was made possible by a community fund drive which netted $11,000. The muscle control improvement made possible by the implant will "come a little at a time," Ek said. "I won't be able to notice quite as much as other people." According to Ek, his friends see a lot of improvement. He is walking and talking better and his mom says he is putting on weight. Ek said he can cook better. There are fewer broken eggs and he said he can smash patties better for making hamburgers. People who have seen "Bill on" his three-wheeled bicycle say he is controlling that better. But he said he still can't button buttons. "If my hands had not been frozen 75 per cent by May or June, the doctors say they will do more brain surgery," Ek said. In the meantime, Ek has entered the JayCees, a youth growing contest for the Rice Memorial. He began growing his beard two weeks after returning from New York in November. He said it is long enough now for his nephews, Joe and Paul Whelan, to pull on it, and they often do. Ek will spend Christmas eve and day in Filer with his sister, the mother of Joe and Paul. "I'm having a good Christmas with my family — that's the only thing that counts," Ek said.

Strike nears settlement

SUN VALLEY — Sun Valley Co. and United Transportation Union representatives are still negotiating a contract, hoping to end a week-long strike by the union's bus and drivers. Wally Huffman, vice president of recreation for the company, said both the union and the company have decided to "maintain it" while discussions are under way. Huffman did say "it looks better than it did for all sides concerned" but there has been no agreement reached. Sun Valley Co. and the UTU met all day Friday and Saturday. Huffman said it was always possible a Federal mediator could be called in. No mediator is in Sun Valley at the present time, he said. The Ketchum-Sun Valley Trades Council voted to honor the strike last week. Sun Valley has hired non-union personnel to maintain the mountain equipment and the buses. Sun Valley officials contend the strike has not affected business and the resort is "operating as usual." Sun Valley Co. dropped the contract this spring that the UTU had been operating under for nearly 25 years. Language in the contract pertained to bus drivers transporting passengers from Shoshone when the resort was under the management of Union Pacific Railroad. Sun Valley financial vice president Tom Meyer said he decided the language was outdated and had it rewritten. The union did not accept the rewritten agreement. Union representatives say many benefits have been scrapped. Meyer said the contract offered by the company gave employees the choice between a new or a closed shop (no union vs. union working conditions). The old union contract called for collection of dues through payroll deductions, something the new proposed contract has written out. The company offered a $5 an hour wage to the drivers this year — a 10-cent increase with promises of 10-cent increases the next two years. Union spokesman Bill Henry said that offer was mocked and not acceptable.

Growth plan out

KETCHUM — A new growth control plan which would set a yearly upper limit on Ketchum's growth has been scrapped for now by the town's new mayor Gerald Seiffert. City administrator Charles Corvin, who drafted the plan, said he would make no comment Friday morning on the move. Corvin's plan would allow Idaho City and County residents to vote on how much growth was wanted each year. It would give cities and counties the option to set a yearly upper limit on construction. The proposal would have to be approved by the State legislature before any city or county could adopt it. During a regular city election, a two-thirds majority of voters would have to approve the plan if it were to be adopted locally. Voters would also choose what percentage of growth was wanted in the town each year. Voters would mark from 0 to 30 per cent on the ballot. Those percentages would be added together and averaged. If the average of all the numbers was 10 per cent, and the permanent population was 2,600 people, then the yearly allowable increase would be 260 people. A building review board then would be established to decide what type of housing and business construction was needed, to accommodate 260 people each year. Mayor Seiffert said Friday "It was the right ball at the wrong time." He said after talking it over with City Council members he decided to call it "W. Street" Twin Falls, who promised to introduce the measure at the state legislature this year and tell him to "forget about it." "I decided the city would be better off using existing methods to control growth through our own P and Z (planning and zoning) and the existing ordinances," Seiffert said. He said it would take a great deal of time and take away from other bills that are of immediate importance to Ketchum.

TF Humane Society asks county for new shelter

BY LINDA LEE Times-News Writer TWIN FALLS — A petition with close to 300 signatures was presented to Twin Falls County Commissioners Friday by 15 members of the Humane Society. It was a request for $50,000 to $60,000 for a new animal shelter and $10,000 in yearly operating funds. The commissioners suggested the society call a meeting right after the first of the year with elected officials from each city and town in the county to discuss possible solutions to the growing small animal problem. A referendum for a county vote on the proposed facility may be held. "We are not rejecting the petition," Commissioner Merl Leonard said. "We want to find out whether other communities are having the same problem as Twin Falls city." The Humane Society expressed confidence about county commissioner support. "I feel very good about it," Bobbi Glassmann, society president, said about County Commissioner response to the petition. "I think they are going to do something because they do realize now there's a very bad animal problem in the county and those that survive become feral." Glassmann said the present Twin Falls Animal Shelter facility near the Stockgrowers Livestock Commission Co. is under-funded and poorly located in consideration of the growing animal problem. According to Glassmann, the city and county are facing overpopulation of dogs and cats. "People dump pups and kittens out in the country and those that survive become feral."

Bliss robbery nets $750

BLISS — The Area Truck and Car Stop on Highway 30 in Bliss was held up early Saturday morning by a young man with a gun. According to Edward Harbaugh, owner of the station, the robbery occurred at 3:30 a.m. while his son, Terry Joe, 18, was on duty alone. Young Harbaugh said the man who robbed him was carrying a shotgun which was never pointed at him. He said the man told him, "Just take it easy and you won't get hurt." "So I gave him everything he wanted," Harbaugh said. Edward Harbaugh said a count of the cash box indicated the robber got away with $751. After Terry Joe turned over the money, he said he was tied up with duct tape, which he worked off within ten minutes and called his father. The Gooding County sheriff's office is making a composite drawing from Terry Joe's description of the robber. He was a dark complexioned man about 24 years old with long hair, maybe 6 feet 3 inches tall and 160 to 170 pounds according to young Harbaugh. He wore a green duck down coat. About the robbery, Terry Joe said his assailant drove toward Boise in a 1968 to 1969 yellow Dodge Charger. Edward said the station has been in his family for over 50 years and this is only the second robbery he can remember. The first one occurred two months ago, also at 3:30 a.m. He said the men accused of that robbery are in jail in Gooding County awaiting trial.

Center for youth serves Castleford

BY LORAYNE O. SMITH Times-News writer CASTLEFORD — This tiny community in the far southwest corner of Twin Falls county may hold some sort of record for continuous operation of a youth center. The Red Barred, begun by a Baptist minister here nearly 10 years ago, continues to function as a center not only for youths to meet after the school games, but also as a gathering place for many community groups. The center, directed by a community-wide board of directors and supported entirely by donations, has had its "ups and downs" but always has been in continuous operation. And many times over the last decade it has been the nucleus for "varied" community activities, according to Mrs. Willie Owens, who with her husband was one of the center's original backers. Currently, the Castleford "Men's Club" (comparable to Chamber of Commerce and service clubs combined) holds luncheon meetings in the Red Barred twice monthly. Part of the food is donated and proceeds go toward operation of the facility. The center also serves as an "meeting place" for the Scouts and the Good News Club, an interdenominational youth organization program conducted by Joyce Reynolds, Mavis Easterday and Ida Kaufman. Monday afternoons the large room is crowded with grade school children who hear bible stories, have activities and refreshments. Special events are held there such as workshops sponsored by the local Flower Club, according to Doris Kramer, who is in charge of the December luncheon for the Boys' Club. She said a different person handles the meals each month. Mrs. Owens said one of the prime reasons the Baptist minister promoted formation of the center was to provide "a place where the kids could wait for their parents to pick them up after school activities out of the cold" as well as the additional amenities of being able to have a coke or use the telephone. The first year the center was in operation Owens was still a girl so she "spent a lot of time there." All of the work surrounding the former site into a viable community center was donated, much of it by Owens, a former mayor of Castleford. The building has served various uses over the years, everything from a "church to a beer parlor" according to Mrs. Owens. She recalled that the pipes had frozen when the former caterer operation closed and "we had a real mess." The kitchen at the center has been renovated several times, and the Baptist church assisted substantially with the project under Rev. Kennedy's leadership. Now there are representatives on the board from all segments of Castleford which Mrs. Owens describes as a "closely knit community."

Throughout the years, though activities of youths at the Red Barred there has been a riding club and children based in Filer for swimming lessons. "Sometimes there have been long stretches when all that went on here were the after game activities," Mrs. Owens said, but sometimes class parties have been held there. One summer a successful street dance was held on the town's Main street in front of the center. Mrs. Owens said Castleford is still one of the places where the millinery school district community feeling still exists. A large majority of the area youth live on farms and the town is geared to rural schedules.

Injured youths leaving hospital

TWIN FALLS — Two teenage boys who were hospitalized as a result of injuries received in a car-train collision in Shoshone, Tuesday night are reported doing well. Keith Schmidt, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell B. Schmidt Gooding, was released from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital in Twin Falls Thursday, according to hospital officials. He suffered fractured ribs. Pat Thomason, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Thomason, Shoshone, is expected to be released from St. Boniface's Hospital in Jerome today or Monday. Hospital officials say he is "doing fine." Three other teenagers, one boy and two girls, were killed in the same car-train collision which injured Schmidt and Thomason. Number of errors corrected. HUPBERT — A story appearing in the Dec. 18 issue of the Times-News concerning criticism of Mindoka Magistrate Jerry Wogman contained a number of errors. The Times-News incorrectly identified two men in the story. First, District Judge Douglas Kramer was incorrectly named as Judge Douglas Huppel. Second, Mindoka County Sheriff Theo Johnson was incorrectly identified as Theo Thomason. A third error said the criticism of the judge's tardiness in court dates came at the Magic Valley Association of Government meetings. The criticism actually came at an annual meeting of Magic Valley County Commissioners in Jerome. The Times-News regrets the errors.

SEC draws reprimand

WASHINGTON Star — The Securities and Exchange Commission, which regularly slaps the wrists of business firms for improper activities, has itself been cited for improprieties by the Civil Service Commission staff.

The improprieties involve the SEC's practice of allowing commissioners and staff members to accept reimbursement for travel and other expenses they incur in making speeches before trade associations of the industry they regulate.

Ironically, although the SEC continually prods corporations to make more corporate secrets public, the commission staff has refused to make public its own thoughts on what changes it will recommend to the commissioners on what the agency ought to do to bring itself into compliance with government-wide ethics rules.

Redline ban bill passes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill designed to discourage banks from refusing to make mortgage loans to buyers of homes in aging city neighborhoods awaits President Ford's signature.

The measure would require banks and savings and loan institutions to publish areas to which they refuse to make mortgage loans so consumer and neighborhood groups could bring pressure on banks which engage in the practice known as "redlining."

"Redlining" is refusing to make loans to certain areas — enclosed in a red line on a city map — which a bank considers to be heading toward decay.

Escalator heads up

COST OF living continued to climb in November, U.S. Labor Department figures showed Friday. The increase of 0.7 percent for the month translates into an annual rate of 8.4 percent. The index means that goods which cost $100 in 1967 now cost $116.60. (UPI)

Futures trading summary

TWIN FALLS — Following is a summary of commodity futures trading activity during the past week, compiled by the office of Hornblower and Weeks.

POTATOES — During the past week potato futures extended their recent recovery. The market was aided late in the week by a cold storage report which indicated a seasonally small increase in the frozen french fried holdings. The limit up close on Friday basis may could spark new buying early next week. However, this market must still confront a huge total supply—second only to last seasons record level, a factor which could ultimately influence renewed pressure.

Futures suggesting potential vulnerability on any further advances. This Monday, Hornblowers Special Trading Recommendation on potatoes will be available in the Twin Falls office.

LUMBER & PLYWOOD

Futures continued their steady advance through midweek, lending support in cash markets as wholesalers again built speculative positions with the mills by buying heavily for early January shipment. As long as the futures maintain strength it is anticipated that the wholesalers will continue buying lumber and plywood.

EGGS — The cash market is clearing up well but there is some evidence of buildup in the early pipeline suggesting the possibility of early downward adjustment in cash prices over the next two years.

CATTLE

Weakness in cattle futures early in the week was influenced by a bearish construed USDA seven state cattle on feed report which indicated a sharp increase in placement of cattlegirl feed lots relative to last years corresponding level. Continued favorable feeding ratios are reducing the amount of grass fed available for slaughter but there are still

HOGS

Federally inspected slaughter continues to run well under 1974 levels. The current production appears to be more than ample for demand. The pork complex was on the defensive early in the week as chain-store buyers interests were—on holidays—their production appears to be more than ample for demand. The pork complex was on the defensive as cash buyers bid lower for available supplies as their cut-out margins were substantially in the red. Cash paying prices in the interior markets hit new recent lows of $17 to $18.

Futures prices rebounded about midweek on heavy trade and commission house profit taking but the trade was nervous all week in front of upcoming 50 State hog and pig report Dec. 22.

Man flees with kids into hills

FORSYTH, Mo. (UPI) — James Hatfield, his son, pregnant daughter and two grandchildren fled into the Ozark Mountains because of a court order giving custody of the grandchildren to another relative.

For two months they hid in the ravines and hills of the rugged mountain country and eluded officers who wanted Hatfield for assault and a series of armed robberies.

But finally Thursday, freezing temperatures, lack of food and clothing and an increasing manhunt drove Hatfield from his lair.

Hatfield, cold and hungry, was captured in an abandoned mine shaft and led officers to the hiding place of the other family members.

"He first took us in the wrong direction and was reluctant to tell us where they were," said Taney County Sheriff Chuck Keithley. "But some of the officers started talking to him and got him worried about the welfare of his family."

Hatfield and his daughter, Janice, were wanted for a series of armed robberies. Both were named in a warrant for a grocery holdup last week in Peel, Ark.

The search for the Hatfields began in October when Hatfield allegedly assaulted his sister-in-law at her home in Williamsville, Mo. She had refused to surrender his grandchildren given to her by a court order.

Janice, 23, was taken to a hospital. Hatfield, 43, was in custody at the Forsyth jail waiting for Arkansas officials to pick him up.

"She was wearing men's overalls when we found them," Keithley said. "The children were wrapped in blankets. They were scratched and one may have had frostbite on his foot, but they were in pretty good condition."

Hatfield, his son, Robert, 8, Janice and her two children, Ingrid, 5, and James, 3, had eluded authorities since Oct. 10 in the rocky, wooded hills.

"It's a big relief to all of us that it's all over," Keithley said. "It's the only case we had with a fugitive that involved children. Our main concern was for those kids."

Hatfield was captured after a court order.

Andrus to join in food stamp revision

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told a news conference today that he will meet with the secretaries of agriculture and health, education and welfare next month to try to clean up the food stamp program. Andrus and eight other governors met with President Ford and his cabinet at the White House Thursday to discuss this and other problems confronting the nation and its individual states. He said the three main points discussed were: — More input by the states into federal program regulations before they are promulgated. — Possible relaxation of stringency program requirements in federally-funded programs, especially if the federal government cuts back its financial support for them. — Revision of the food stamp program. "If they would just come through on the first three points," he said, "we could save the taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars."

GOV. CECIL ANDRUS ... eyes stamp cleanup

"And many people who should take advantage of food stamps ... are not because of the stigma attached to them." Eligibility, he said, "has got to be reduced." "For example, college students shouldn't be eligible for food stamps unless their families are eligible," he said. And, he said, food stamp eligibility should be computed on all the family income and not just that of one member. Often, he said, if both the husband's and wife's incomes were added together the family would not be eligible for the stamps. In addition, he said, the paper work involved must be cut down so that governmental employees can spend more time in delivery of services to the public. "It takes 37 separate pieces of paper to qualify for food stamps," he said. He said even with a qualified, experienced person assisting it takes 55 minutes to fill out the initial forms and two weeks to complete the paper work before the applicant can get his stamps. Andrus said this program is not the only one in which regulations must be changed. He said if the federal government is going to cut back on its spending then it must relax some of the stringent requirements for participation in federal programs at the state and local levels. Because of federal regulations, he said, there are one and one-half employees at the Idaho State School, and Hospital at Nampa for each of the patients they serve. He said the governors urged the president and his cabinet to require federal bureaucrats to contact the National Governors Conference for comment before making new regulations by publication in the Federal Register. The governor said the president and the cabinet also often are unaware of some of the regulations promulgated by third level bureaucrats and during the nearly two and one-half hour conference Thursday the president turned to cabinet members for clarification of policies mentioned by the governors only to find out the cabinet officer had no background, either. "Maybe that'll change," Andrus said. Andrus said Agriculture Secretary Earl Butts told the governors that grain exports to foreign markets are exceeding 100 million bushels tons and at least 60 million tons are wheat. He said Butts told them Soviet Russia and other foreign countries are having a problem with their winter wheat crop and there will be a shortfall of 50 to 60 million tons in the coming year. "We anticipate more sales in the coming year," he said. Andrus said the federal government wants the states to collect social security payments from other units of government on a monthly instead of quarterly basis in the future. He said this will cost the State of Idaho $1.1 million in lost investment interest and extra manpower. He said the governors protested the change—but protested in vain. "I have a suspicion that's one battle we might lose," Andrus said.

Stations open on holiday

BOISE (UPI) — A survey by the Idaho State Automobile Association indicated there will be enough gas stations open across Idaho on Christmas to take care of motorists, providing they anticipate their needs. Ken Miller, manager of the Idaho AAA, said in Boise at least one 24-hour restaurant and truck stop will be open both Christmas and New Year's while several self-service operations will be open from 7 a.m. until 11 p.m. Miller said Twin Falls, American Falls and Idaho Falls will have 24-hour stations while Bliss, Jerome, Pocatello, Burley, Ketchum, Caldwell, Lewiston and Clarkston will have daytime and early evening gas available on Christmas. Gas price will range from $3.9, for regular, in 68.9 for premium with no lead or two cents lower than premium. The AAA manager said motorists should drive off the top half of the tank since Christmas Day usually finds a higher percentage of stations closed than any other holiday.

THE IDAHO Department of Fish and Game is shown experimentally blasting a combination warmwater fish and waterfowl pond on a 90-acre Fish and Game owned island near Declo. If a series of blasts could construct a large pond at a reasonable cost, it would be planted with bluegill and bass for a warmwater fishery.

It beats digging

DALE Turnipseed and Norris Burton observe the shallow water begin to fill in an experimentally blasted pond. Two old river channels on this Fish and Game owned island are the source of water since the water is near the surface.

Pond blasting, sanctuaries eyed by F&G

With help from the Idaho National guard, the Idaho Fish and Game Department hopes to blast out some wildlife habitat on a Snake River island.

Dale Turnipseed and a crew of department men touched off a test blast on a 90-acre department-owned island in the Declo area. The desired result is a large pond at reasonable cost which would provide a home for warm fish species and some loafing area for ducks.

Bluegills and bass would be planted in the pond if it comes into being.

Currently Turnipseed is working with a demolition unit, part of the Idaho Falls national guard, to see if they'd like to provide the powder and expertise to carve out the pond.

"We thought it might give them a site to experiment or practice their blasting on and provide some help for us, too," he said.

Turnipseed added if anything comes of the proposal the first charges probably won't be set off until next spring.

In another recent development, the regional office has been offered the chance to spend $45,000 in federal funds for wildlife mitigation and perpetuation on newly reclaimed lands.

"The money is part of federal taxes on hunting equipment. Turnipseed is looking at two large sections in the Grindstone Butte and Belle Rapids reclamation projects. The first fight will be over control of the lands, which already have been filed on for desert entry by private interests.

The initial judgement on these applications has been rejection under the provision of the sert entry regulations which allows the Bureau of Land Management to withdraw lands if it considers wildlife and recreation use more advantageous to the public.

The appeal will doubtlessly be made and the final state judgement is expected early next year. Another appeal could carry to the final decision in Washington, D.C.

In an effort to obtain these lands for wildlife enhancement, Turnipseed is preparing reports outlining the steps the department will take to improve them.

He is proposing alternating plantings of hedgerows, trees and grass strips.

"We are making other provisions to reduce the administrative and construction costs to a bare minimum. By that we hope to be able to use volunteer organizations and get help from wildlife interests which will allow us to put just about all the money into purchase of seeds, trees and things that will be put on the sites," he said.

The two land parcels run 450 and 575 acres, which, if maintained with wildlife the primary objective, could become sanctuaries for birds that in the summertime would use a wide area surrounding it.

While the projects would provide some nesting, the basic relief would be wintering areas for birds that would be left coverless in the surrounding agricultural fields following harvest.

"If we get the land and the money, we hope to make both of these sites showcases for other wildlife management groups to use in similar projects across the country. We wildlife interests need something like this to be able to show the people in Washington what can be done for wildlife enhancement if we have the chance," Turnipseed said.

If the land is provided, Turnipseed said the project would begin with a thorough inventory of species and population counts to form the base for comparisons as improvements are made.

"I've said maintenance of the projects would be covered in two or perhaps three proposals. One would be total land control by the department, a second would be share cropping with private farming interests.

The first would be a continuing financial burden while the second could offer relief from early expenditures.

"I share-cropping could be something like the farmer could plant a certain percentage in crops with the department's share being something like a requirement that our grasses, trees and hedgerows would be watered three or four times a year. Hay and grain planted by the farmer would be beneficial to the wildlife but we also realize that he would have to plant potatoes and beets which don't provide any winter cover."

"They are many interesting angles to these projects and we'd love to have a chance at putting them together," he said.

Hints by Swen

We may lose it all

I am taking this time to report to you that I am concerned about the future of our game lands. If present trends continue there will be no where to hunt any more.

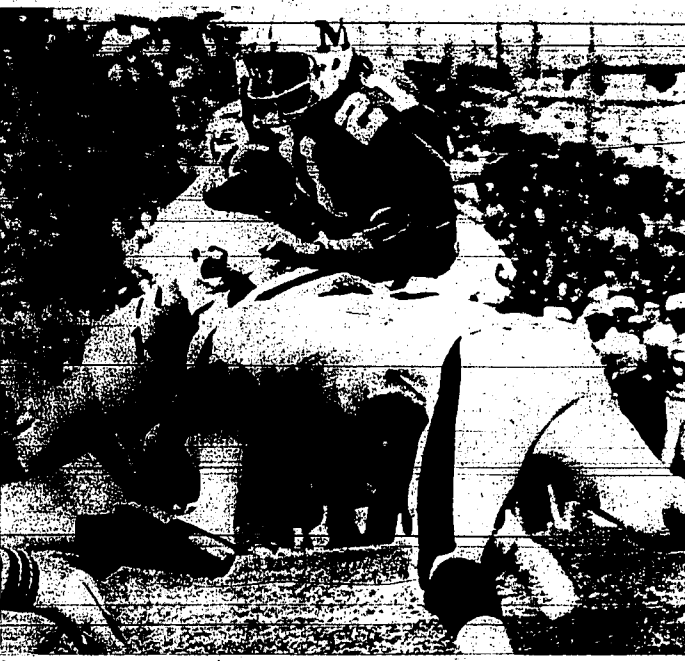

As of right now wildlife habitat is being taken up by private groups that have filed on the lands in Twin Falls and Elmore counties. Presently the Bureau of Land Management has denied entry into these lands. These two groups of land $13.93 acres in Twin Falls county and 480.23 acres in Elmore county are but a small bit of land that was once chosen for wildlife.

Groups that have filed on these lands intend to place them into farming and ranching operations much like the Bell Rapids project. If any of you have been to this project you can see that not a shrub or a blade of grass is left. Every inch of ground is under cultivation leaving no cover and no food for wildlife.

So, while you are looking about the possible loss of your guns why not get on your stick and yell to the high heavens about the loss of our public lands.

If it is these lands, because of the modern method of farming that will be the future of the game population in Idaho.

Send me your cards and letters. I will forward them to the proper agencies.

Miami wins Tangerine bowl by defeating S.C. 20-7

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) - Workhorse Rob Carpenter ran for two touchdowns Saturday as Miami of Ohio won its third straight Tangerine Bowl victory, 20-7 over South Carolina.

Carpenter, the game's most valuable back, scored on plunges of one and five yards in a busy day which saw him carry the ball 29 times for 120 yards.

Miami's placekicker Fred Johnson booted a 47-yard field goal, his longest of the season and a Tangerine Bowl record, and then added a 30-yarder.

A crowd of 20,247 watched the Miami Redskins whip a southern team for a third time in the Florida bowl.

South Carolina's only score came late in the third quarter when Tom Amrein swept three yards around right end after triple option quarterback Jeff Grantz had moved the Gamecocks from their 27 with a passing barrage.

Miami, which finished the regular season with a 10-4 record, scored first with a 15-yard pass to tight end Tommie Smith. Carpenter hit off right tackle for five yards and a touchdown. Johnson kicked the point.

Quarterback Sherman Smith passed for 20 yards to Steve Joekken and 12 yards to Randy Walker to set up the score. Smith, hitting 10 of 14 passes for 137 yards, moved Miami 89 yards in the second quarter with one 27-yard pass to split end Joekken and another 15-yarder to fullback Walker. With a fourth

Johnson's 47-yard field goal came with 10:59 remaining on the clock in the third quarter. He kicked the 38-yarder with 5:02 left in the game.

South Carolina took the opening kickoff and moved smoothly to the Miami nine. Where Grantz' assault stalled, Bobby Marlow missed a 36-yard field goal attempt with 6:32 left in the first quarter.

It was the Gamecock's deepest penetration until the final seconds of the game when a drive ended with the clock on the 5-yard line.

Miami's middle guard Jeff Kelly was named the game's most valuable lineman, his contributing to Miami's total of 375 yards. Smith ran 17 times for 64.

Texas 'make work' job probe widens

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) - University of Texas athletes were given make-work jobs in the Senate print shop at the same time regular employees were laid off. UPI has learned Saturday.

The athletes were hired under what some insiders refer to as a "quota system" of employing individuals selected to the Senate by the Texas athletic department.

Although they benefited from it, some of the athletes apparently were not even aware they were given preference for summer jobs over other applicants and in some cases persons already employed by the Senate.

Four athletes have admitted drawing unearned pay, however, for periods of two to three weeks or longer when they were on state payrolls but did not show up for work.

Taking unearned pay from state is illegal. National Collegiate Athletic Association rules also prohibit athletes receiving unearned pay.

Senate Secretary Charles A. Schubel hired the athletes, ordered pay raises for them in June and assigned them to the Senate print shop. But he said he was not aware they quit coming to work in August before they were taken off the payroll.

"At the beginning of the summer they'd be there. Then when they were just absent or helping the old man, one print shop worker told UPI.

"They're mostly just in the way. About the only thing you could get them to do was collating (arranging pages in their proper order). If you asked them to do any printing or cutting, they'd just mess it up. Nine out of 10 times they're just sitting around doing nothing.

"We don't make jobs up here," said Sen. Don Adams, D-Jasper, chairman of the Senate Administration Committee. "That is not the policy of the Senate - that anybody comes up here and sits around. If we don't need the people we terminate them. We have a policy of no patronage."

Idaho beats Regis

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) - University of Idaho hit just 40 percent of free throws, but managed five of seven in the final 40 seconds to defeat Regis of Denver 82-75 in a nonconference basketball game Friday.

Regis came back from 62-46 deficit midway through second half by scoring ten straight points as the Vandals went cold.

The Hangers went ahead 62-62 on a jump shot by Tony DeCruz, who the game's high scorer with 25 points.

But the lead changed hands several times before Idaho's Ervin Brown broke a 75-75 tie on the first half of a one-and-one situation with 40 seconds left.

Tommy James made all four of his free throws in the next 20 seconds, and Chris McGuire scored with two seconds to play to give Vandals their second victory against five losses. Regis is 1-4.

McGuire had 24 points for the Vandals, while teammate James added 23 to pace the win.

Michigan cops title

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) - Freshman center Phil Hubbard ignited a 141 buzzer entry in the second half Saturday to help Michigan rout Miami of Ohio, 90-76, and win its own Michigan Invitational basketball tournament for the fifth time in six years.

Princeton didn't give up a single free throw and rode the scoring of guard Armond Hill to take Southern Illinois, 69-59, in the consolation game of the last Michigan Invitational. It is being discontinued until at least 1979.

Blue nips Gray at buzzer

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) - New Mexico's Steve Myer, a virtual-unknown nationally despite tying for second among college punters this season, has shown pro skills he can throw the bomb.

Myer led his Blue squad to a 14-13 come-from-behind victory Friday night in the closing seconds of the 38th annual Blue-Gray Classic.

Myer, who had thrown 21 touchdown aeriels during the season for a 6-5 New Mexico squad, engineered two final period touchdowns, the last one on a 52-yard bomb to Stamford's Bill Singler with 31 seconds left.

The winning pass to Singler came on the next play.

Myer, who gained 2,501 yards by completing 190 of 353 passes during the season, shared quarterbacking duties for the Blue team with San Diego State's Craig Penrose, the nation's leading passer during the season with 199 completions in 349 attempts for 3,600 yards.

Penrose got most of the program publicity, but he was ignoto move the Blue offense past midfield during his two quarters of play. Myer was also unable to move the team in the second period, but made good for that with his fourth period heroics.

The first Blue drive of the final period ended when Missouri's Tony Galbreath fumbled on the Gray 2, but the Blue got the ball back with seven minutes remaining and drove 47 yards, with Pride plunging over from the two. Two Myer aeriels of 26 and 42 yards to Missouri's Henry Magshel set up the score.

Myer got his final chance with 2:45 remaining after Baylor's Danny Hicks missed a 47-yard field goal. He took only five plays to move 80 yards, including the final 52-yard dash.

Until Myer stole the show in the final period, most of the attention had concentrated on Virginia quarterback Scott Gardner, who was voted the game's most valuable player while his team was still leading 13-0. He ended with 11 completions in 24 attempts for 123 yards, but had three interceptions.

Kentucky's Thomas Hamlet, playing both as a nose guard and a linebacker, was the keystone of the Gray defense, making 11 tackles and recovering a fumble. Iowa nose guard Dave Bryant was the standout player for the Blue defense, making 10 tackles and batting down a pass.

American Falls tips

Buhl in final half

Buhl.—American Falls broke past Buhl in the third quarter and turned to the foul line in the final minutes to win 59-54 Friday night.

The Beavers jumped into an early lead with Buhl then coming back for a 21-17 first quarter edge and expanding that to 36-23 by intermission.

But a cold spell set in as the second half started and Buhl struggled over six minutes without a point. Meanwhile, American Falls had a 19-point period and had moved up by eight points before Nathan Perkins got Buhl off 36.

American Falls mounted an eight-point lead midway through the final period before Buhl battered back on points from Gary Schmeckpeper and Huise to within two.

At that point Klinger hit for the Beavers to make it 54-50 with Brad Hellwig replying for the Indians. American Falls went into a freeze with Swalley picking up two free throws when Buhl was forced to foul.

Another foul set up two points for Braulito with 27 seconds left and that clinched it.

CAREY.—The Oakley Hornets shook off an early Carey blitz and rallied to a 62-39 decision Friday night.

It was the first win for the Hornets after five tries and Carey's first defeat in five games.

Carey started out hot, rolling to an 18-9 first-quarter lead.

But Oakley started back in the second period, narrowing the margin to 29-26.

Carey ran into foul troubles, losing both starting guards, in the third period and 65 Dave Huise went to the rest area with two minutes left.

Oakley then turned its attention inside and Swan came up with nine points in the quarter to spark the Hornets into a 46-42 advantage. In the last quarter Gorrige picked up 10 points — largely on drives — to pull Oakley out of reach.

TF girls outlast

Buhl 49-44

Twin Falls girls relied on superior outside shooting to outlast Buhl 49-44 Friday night.

Karen Brown and Melanie Hamilton provided the outside punch that let the Bruins carry the victory although they never came close to stopping Buhl inside. Karla Melder tanked 26 points and repeatedly drove through a zone defense for easy buckets.

Buhl led much of the first period before Brenda Falseth sparked Twin Falls with four points to give the Bruins the lead for keeps. Twin Falls held leads up to 14 points but in the closing minutes Buhl chopped it down to four on two occasions.

Dolphins block late field goal to nip Denver 14-13

MIAMI (UPI) — Shift-legged Earl Morrall relieved Don Strock at quarterback in the second half and reserve safety Barry Hill blocked a field goal on the final play Saturday to give Miami a 14-13 win over the Denver Broncos, keeping alive the Dolphins' slim chances for a playoff berth.

The 41-year-old Morrall, playing with a brace on an injured knee that had sidelined him for three weeks, directed the winning touchdown drive that ended with 1:14 left in the game when Norm Bullock powered over from the two.

Hill blocked a 35-yard field goal attempt by Jim Turner on the final play to save the win for Miami.

Morrall had gotten Miami, trailing 10-0 at the half, back into the game with a 10-yard scoring pass to Howard

Denver had taken a 10-0 halftime lead on a 39-yard field goal by Turner and on a touchdown when Fran Lynch took a handoff on the two, fumbled into the end zone and tight end Riley Odoms recovered.

Turner added another 39-yard field goal in the fourth quarter for a 13-7 Denver lead and the Dolphins' winning drive followed. It started on the Miami 20 and was kept going by a roughing-the-passer penalty against linebacker Bob Swenson, a 12-yard end-around by Freddie Solomon, and a 20-yard pass to Nat Moore. Solomon's run was sprung by a block by Morrall.

Morrall took the Dolphins to a touchdown on their first possession of the second half. Driving from the Miami 24 in 10 plays, Morrall hit tight end Jim Mandich for 10 yards on a third down situation and then came back with a 31-yarder to Solomon.

A key third-down holding penalty on cornerback Louis Wright gave Miami a first down on the 15. Mercury Morris got five yards, and Morrall hit Twilley for the score.

Gooding seniors share Christmas

Giving and receiving

BEULAH Lanter pins corsage on Elsie Gerard, left, at the Gooding Senior citizens' Christmas party. The reason? "Just to be nice." Above, Everett Webb, Gooding, opens gift.

Holiday setting

He's real Santa Claus

CLAY Salladay, left, hasn't shaved in 12 or 13 years and is easily recognized by the young in heart every where as the original Santa. He said often children greet him anytime of year with "Hi, Santa" and "even hippies holler at me, too." Now a Gooding resident, Salladay worked as electrician, carpenter, and "jack of all trades" for many years at Jerome.

It's beginning to sound a lot like Christmas

By BARBARA COTHERN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Liz Pierce's, life-long association with music has taken her to fashion shows, private parties, recitals and now to the bank.

She is currently providing Christmas music at the Twin Falls Bank and Post Office as part of the banking institution's effort to bring Christmas enjoyment to the community and its customers.

She will be playing background music at the organ each business day from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. until Christmas.

Liz has spent most of her life with music, until recently specializing only in piano. During the last few years she has begun playing organ and says the organ is more suited to her present endeavor.

"Entertaining at the piano for a length of time is very, very difficult," she says.

As a pianist, she has accompanied many other musicians and says her role as a solo performer is something different and excellent experience.

Accompanying allows the musician to forget herself, she says, and concentrate on helping another with his or her performance. A whole different mental attitude is necessary to move from accompanist to performer and it can be a difficult transition to make, she believes.

Through the years she has assisted music students by coaching and judging music. Although she is not presently giving lessons she has in the past and finds there is "no greater thrill than helping people with their music and witnessing their improvement."

In addition to the musical program the bank is planning open-house programs and even a model train display.

John Angerbauer, public relations representative for the bank, said this year the first open house at the bank was held Dec. 10 with some 250 guests served refreshments.

Another was held Dec. 17 and the final open house will be Dec. 23 from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

He said all of the bank's friends and customers are asked to drop in for the Christmas celebration.

The bank's lobby is decorated with a 12-foot Christmas tree and under the tree is a reminder of the era when every child hoped for a model train set for Christmas.

Two model trains are in operation around the tree. These were provided by Clarence Dudley, who collects the fascinating "toys." Both models are from the 1930s, he says. Outdoor chimes can also be heard throughout the mall from the bank.

Liz Pierce provides Christmas music from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

I have been considering cataract surgery, but have been told that it is plenty of time and no need to hurry. So I've been taking my time, considering the various methods of removal, and which would be best. I understand most of them, but can't find out much about a new one in which no surgery is needed and the cataract is drawn out by suction, or some thing like that.

Do you know anything about this? Also, please send me your booklet, "Cataracts and Glaucoma," for which I'm sending 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. — J. E. [unclear]

Cataracts discussed

In the procedure you refer to, the clouded material of the lens (the cataract) is liquefied and drawn off. As I understand it, ultrasonic vibration is used.

You may know that your own doctor does not have this procedure in his surgical "repertoire." It is relatively new, and apparently does not tend to use on all cataract patients. Its main advantage is a briefer recovery period. Let your doctor decide the appropriate method of removal in your case.

You are correct about the time element. Cataract is one of the few medical problems in which the patient and physician the unusual luxury of time.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

I am 54 years old and have been moderately troubled by allergies most of my life. I seem to have allergic reactions to wheat, egg whites, milk products and chocolate.

I have a definite reaction in my heart rate after eating these foods. Exercise doesn't seem to bother me, but the above-mentioned foods will cause my heart rate to increase from 70 to 90-100 per minute in the resting state. Also I notice skipped beats and some rapid beats during these periods.

Is there well-established medical experience with foods and allergies aggravating or causing problems as erratic heart beats? — G.E.O.

There is hardly a part of the body that cannot react allergically, particularly to food allergens.

According to Claude A. Frazier in his book, "Coping with Food Allergy," some specialists in the field believe that cardiac allergic reactions are quite common. He adds that they are usually so mild as to be scarcely noticeable.

Two there have been documented cases of rapid heart beats (as you describe) attributed to such allergic reaction. In other cases, angina pectoris seems to have been controlled by elimination of food allergy sources.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

My husband had prostate surgery seven years ago. Since then one of his testicles has enlarged. He does not have any pain or discomfort, but it bothers him.

It is unhappy about this since he has talked with other men who have had the same enlargement and had none of those problems. We would like to know if this is something that his penis frequently aches or swells, and also what can be done about it. — Mrs. J.C.

The first thing he should do is to be examined to determine whether this is an enlargement of the testicle proper or an accumulation of fluid in the scrotum. This can be followed by surgery of the prostate.

If it is fluid, this can be drained to give some relief from the discomfort. One should not allow such symptoms as he reports to go unchecked at any time.

To learn the major causes of prostate trouble, symptoms, treatment, how to best recover, read Dr. Thosteson's book, "The Prostate," for a copy send him 50 cents of this Times-News, enclosing a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail, but regrets that the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to include individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in columns whenever possible.

Miss Van Ostran marries Hedberg

BUHL — Shelley Van Ostran and Marty Hedberg were married in a 7 p.m. ceremony Dec. 5 at the First Christian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Van Ostran, Buhl, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hedberg, Kuna. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Harrie Young in a setting of candle arrangements with poinsettias, holly and Christmas greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an old fashioned style gown made of muslin trimmed with natural colored lace. A sash of forest green velvet marked the waist of the dress. The dress featured a high collar, a round lace-trimmed yoke and leg o' mutton sleeves gathered to elbow with cuffs.

She wore a circle of roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and ivy on her head. She carried a colonial style bouquet of roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and holly.

She wore for great grandmother's pin on the collar of her dress, earrings given her by the bridegroom and a ring which was given her by her parents.

Teresa Wagner was maid of honor.

Marvin Hedberg, Twin Falls, was best man. Ushers were Larry Hill, Castleford and John Priester, Buhl; Johnny and Jeff Priester were ring bearers.

The couple was honored at a reception following the ceremony at the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth over red. Red and white candies were used as table decorations.

The tiered cake was iced with ivory frosting and decorated with red trim. An arrangement of small chrysanthemums and red roses was placed on the cake.

Mr. Hedberg was in charge of the guest book. Celeste Priester and Marissa Hedberg cared for the gifts.

Assisting with the reception were Sydney Priester, Marty Hedberg and Marcella Hill.

Shop offers hairdos with spirit

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Bored when you have to spend a couple of hours getting your hair done.

Tony Francois believes he has a remedy. After a year, Francois, operator of Salon Francois beauty shop, obtained a liquor license this past week and Wednesday began selling wine and champagne to customers.

"When somebody goes to a beauty shop or salon it can get really boring," he said. "You're sitting there under a dryer or getting your hair cut and there's really not that much to do. I'm just doing this as an accommodation to our customers."

"I've been getting phone calls from people all over who can't believe I have all this," he said. "Once they hear about this, I think others will try. This could be a trend."

The liquor license allows Francois to serve all types of alcoholic beverages. For now, the selection will be limited to champagne and still bottles of wine.

"Who knows where this may lead," he said.

His operators cut both men's and women's hair and the salon, located in one of the city's busiest shopping centers, offers massage, whirlpool and sauna services.

"You know, a lot of people can't pronounce the name of our place and they have called it Saloon Francois," he said. "Now I don't care what they call it."

Service to please

TONY Francois, left, the proprietor of a beauty salon in Des Moines, serves a glass of champagne to one of his customers, Jean Vitaleo. Francois, this past week clinched a year-long effort by obtaining a liquor license for his establishment, and began this past week selling wine and champagne to customers. (UPI)

Hospital takes on festive look

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Memorial Hospital sports festive Christmas decorations again this year, despite the disorder created by remodeling construction.

Members of the hospital auxiliary have decorated the hospital for the 25th year, using silver with blue accents as the color theme. Most of the decorations were made by hand with many of the materials having been donated by auxiliary members.

Decorations include silver spheres and topiaries suspended from the ceiling of the front lobby. The doctors' lounge, the quiet room and business offices have also been decorated.

On the second floor, "package people" wrapped in folli decorato each door and the waiting area for expectant fathers.

On the third floor there is a decorated tree in the silver and blue theme with wreaths on each door. In the pediatrics wing, wreaths, bells, candy canes and the tree are all handmade of patchwork.

The fourth floor features silver and blue handmade wreaths on each door. The intensive care unit is decorated with Christmas wreaths.

The fifth floor is decorated with miniature tinsel trees, with a large tree near the elevator.

The front lawn of the hospital features a large decorated tree which is visible from all of the front hospital rooms.

In addition to such work as providing Christmas decorations, auxiliary volunteers deliver mail, transport patients, help patients with menus, offer baby pictures or television rentals and push a bright pink cart with items for sale and free magazines for patients.

The volunteers also conduct the sale of artificial floral arrangements in the front lobby. Proceeds from the sales are used to purchase equipment for the hospital.

Auxiliary volunteers also work mending hospital linens and sewing plastic puppets which are given to all patients under the age of 12. New babies are tucked into a bright red Christmas stocking during the holiday season, another gift from the volunteers.

Auxiliary officers include Mrs. E.M. Harper, president; Mrs. Harold Stanger, first vice president; Mrs. John McKain, second vice president; Mrs. Milton Hansen, recording secretary; Mrs. Morton Carter, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harry Chatterton, membership secretary; and Mrs. James Rosenbaum, treasurer.

Volunteers assisting with the decorations for Christmas include Penny Harter, Hermine Fraeouf, Edythe Gibney, Lois Martens, Lella Salles, Vivian Hicks, Shirley Gould, Mahel Barron, Mary Lou Atkins, Mebs Brumbach, Beth Shields, Maude Shotwell, Elsie Rosenbaum, Flo Harper, Jane Wilkison, Alice Bowman, Bernette Brown, Gladwin Theener, Florence Shank, Dorothy Milar, Gail Clark, Margaret Lincoln, Stella Bell, Carol Douglas, Betty Smith, Ernestine Buergerer and Dorothy Ehlers.

Make bite-size biscuits a part of your next party menu. Use a one-inch biscuit cutter or drop them by teaspoons. Add cheese or onion to the dough or fill the biscuits with sliced ham or turkey.

PATCHWORK Christmas decorations done by the members of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Auxiliary for the pediatrics wing are shown by Alice Bowman who helped make them. She said the committee that worked on the decorations included, besides herself, Jane Wilkison, Elsie Rosenbaum and Flo Harper who had the idea for the decorations.

Lobby decoration

PENNY Harter, chairman of the women's auxiliary Christmas decorating committee, is holding a Christmas trophy which was made by the Pink Ladies to hang in the front lobby on the first floor. Besides Penny Harter, Hermine Fraeouf, Edythe Gibney, Lois Martens and Lella Salles worked on first floor decorations.

Toy pistol gets 'shot down'

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A toy firm has decided to phase out sales of a toy pistol that can be loaded with real bullets.

Ed Fryer, marketing administrator for Kusan Inc. of Nashville, said Thursday the firm's tentative plans to end production of the silver-barreled "Stallion 45" were speeded up by a father's discovery that the toy will accommodate .38 and .38 caliber bullets.

"We've been marketing it this year and last as a collector's item," Fryer said. "We don't plan to sell it next year."

Thomas Clifton of Fort Myers, Fla., purchased the toy for his 8-year-old son recently, and became alarmed when he was able to place some .38 caliber bullets in the toy's ejection mechanism.

"They went right in," he said. "I didn't know how many other bullets would fit."

A sheriff's spokesman said the gun would not fire the bullets in tests, but would not rule out the possibility.

The owner of the toy store where Clifton bought the pistol told reporters he had never seen it listed as unsafe by the Consumer Safety Commission.

Hints

For that post-game huddle around the fondue pot, why not try double cheese fondue? Melt two tablespoons butter in a one and one-half quart saucepan. Blend in three tablespoons all-purpose flour and one-half teaspoon each salt and nutmeg.

Remove from heat; stir in one and one-half cups milk. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir one minute. Remove from heat; stir in two cups (eight ounces) shredded cheddar cheese and one-third cup crumbled blue cheese. If necessary, return to heat to finish melting cheeses.

Transfer to fondue pot. Serve as a dip for apple and pear slices, honeydew chunks or orange sections. Makes two and one-half cups.

Give her TAHITI for Christmas...

10 FANTASTIC DAYS DEPARTING FEBRUARY 11, 1976

Tahiti and the islands of French Polynesia provide an ideal setting for the 1976 Times-News Annual Tour. Hotels on the outer islands are bungalow-style with white sand beaches that offer the traditional Tahitian way of life. The larger islands with major cities offer shopping, dining and nightlife to make this tour a perfect combination. This year's cost of $975.00 per person includes Round trip air fare from Twin Falls to Tahiti (Economy Class), transfers from island to island, first class hotel accommodations throughout, baggage portage, all tax and tips other than meals, and it's fully escorted.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Three months ago, a middle-aged woman moved into our apartment building on my floor. She lives alone with her dog. She's always dressed as though she's going to the opera—furs, capes, feathers and a different wig for every day of the week.

She talks to herself and carries a suitcase wherever she goes. I'm sure she's not all there. She's not very friendly. When I say hello to her, she answers curtly and keeps going. Yesterday she walked down the hall stark naked to empty her trash basket! I couldn't believe my eyes. I phoned the manager immediately, and he said the woman pays her rent time and doesn't bother anybody so he couldn't do anything about it. He said the police would have to catch her in the act, at which time they could take her down and book her.

Abby, I don't want to cause trouble for this poor woman, but she must have family somewhere who should be notified.

What should I do? My husband says it's none of my business.

CONCERNED NEIGHBOR

Old stalker needs help

DEAR CONCERNED: Your husband is wrong. It IS your business. The woman is obviously disturbed and in need of treatment. Call your local Mental Health Association and report the incident to them. In the meantime, try to make friends with her. Nearly everyone responds to kindness.

DEAR ABBY: How do we shape up our children's table manners (ages 8, 10 and 12) without causing complete disruption at mealtime?

DAD

DEAR DAD: Consistent and gentle reminders plus adult examples should do it.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter who is not yet 16 wants to date a 20-year-old divorced man. I have tried to talk her out of it, but she doesn't want to listen. She is a good student and has never been in any kind of trouble, but I think she is too young for a man his age. Especially a divorced one.

What do you think? Also, when he calls, is it my place to ask him to please not call my daughter anymore?

WORRIED MOM

DEAR MOM: When he calls, let your daughter tell him not to call anymore. I agree he's too old for her, divorced or not.

DEAR ABBY: My husband insists that he is not an alcoholic because he doesn't drink any alcohol—only beer. But he drinks a six-pack every evening and on weekends he can put away a couple of cases. He gets very drunk. At least he acts drunk to me. Yet he tells me that as long as he drinks only beer, he is not an alcoholic. Is that right?

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: No! There IS alcohol in beer, and anyone who drinks as much beer as you say your husband drinks qualifies as an alcoholic in my book!

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Cancer recovery 'miracle'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Vatican says the recovery of a boy afflicted with cancer was a miracle, attributable to the late Bishop John N. Neumann.

In validating the miracle, the Vatican Thursday cleared the way for canonization of Bishop Neumann, founder of the first parochial school system in the nation.

A spokesman for the Archdiocese of Philadelphia said the miracle involved Michael Flanagan, now 19, of Wildwood Villas, N.J., who recovered from an advanced case of cancer after his mother prayed at the Bishop's shrine in North Philadelphia.

MR. AND MRS. THEO GIHRING

Open house scheduled for 50th observance

JEROME—Mr. and Mrs. Theo Gihring, Jerome, will observe their 50th wedding anniversary with an open house Dec. 28.

The couple's children will be hosts for the event at the Peace Lutheran Parish Hall, Filer, from 2 to 4 p.m.

Mary Reinke and Theo Gihring were married Dec. 22 1925, at Clover. They have four children: Leo Gihring, Buhl; Mrs. Bill (Garnet) Ockerman, Portland, Ore.; Mrs. Dale E. (Dorothy) Patterson, Twin Falls; and Dan Gihring, Anaheim, Calif. All of their living children and 14 grandchildren will attend. A son, Ralph Gihring, is dead.

Gihring was born in Freedom, Mo., and moved to Iowa in his infancy. He moved to Idaho Falls in 1916 and came to the Buhl area in 1918.

Mrs. Gihring was born in Byron, Neb., and came to Idaho in 1915 with her parents.

The couple are lifetime members of the Lutheran Church, first at Clover and now at St. Paul's in Jerome. Gihring served on the Clover Church Council for many years and on the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Board from 1946 to 1956 during the construction of the present hospital. He also served on the Hightline Canal Board for 15 years.

Mrs. Gihring is a member of the LWML and is a charter member of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Guild.

The couple farmed in the Clover and Knoll areas until 1972, when they moved to Jerome.

All of the couple's friends and relatives are invited to attend the open house. They request no gifts.

Bethlehem postmark popular

BETHLEHEM, N. H. (UPI)—These days when he isn't shoveling snow or putting mail into 525 lock boxes, Postmaster H. Newell is unwacking a green rubber stamp 10,000 times onto Christmas cards which people around the world want post-marked Bethlehem.

"We've received boxes of Christmas cards that would be mailed from anywhere in the United States asking for a cancellation around Christmas time," Newell said.

"We also get mail from all over the world to be post-marked. They send us the envelopes and an international reply coupon which pays for the local postage," he said.

Some persons drive from Massachusetts to this White Mountain village—about 100 miles north of Concord, population about 1,500—to mail their cards. They get to put the green stamp, called a cachet, on the cards themselves.

"It's a rubber stamp depicting a rural town set in a mountain area, a peaceful scene. It says Bethlehem on it. They get it along with the Bethlehem cancellation," Newell said.

For the rest, "We all put the cachet on in our spare time, lunch time, anytime."

Newell, postmaster here for five years, estimates 10,000 cards a year are sent to Bethlehem for the special postmark and cachet.

The whole town sees Newell and his staff—never more than one assistant at a time—applying the cachet, because there is no town mail delivery. Everyone comes to the post office to pick up mail from 525 individual boxes.

"We know everyone on a first-name basis. The post office is a kind of meeting place. People come in, from five miles around," he said.

Bethlehem's population around the world want post-marked Bethlehem.

to be even greater in the holiday of the great resort hotels.

Newell grew up down the road in Whitefield, where he joined the service as a substitute carrier, rising to clerk, supervisor and postmaster.

"A postmaster in a small town is a little bit of everything. We do have a janitor but we're only allowed two hours a day of janitor service," Newell said.

"If it snows when he isn't here, you know who shovels off the walks so the people can get in."

THE GIFT OF FRAGRANCE

By Mary Sue Miller

To delight a lovely the most, gift her with fragrance. The oft-beat, the unexpected, the luxurious! Merely as suggestions:

• A New Scent. A newly-developed oil—grass oil—has the fresh air of rare grasses from around the world. It sprays both perfume and cologne.

• Ring For Her Finger. A costume ring, studded with "emeralds" in an antique lique gift setting, holds solid perfume. It smooths on with the silky softness of crepe de Chine. There's no chance for spill or spoil. Instead, it's a chance to carry fine fragrance literally at your fingertips.

• Mistletoe. A young, fun mist that attracts kisses like mistletoe. Not to mention the available lip glosser that justifies Christmas candy.

• For A Budding Beauty. With the picture of a little girl traced on it, a clear glass bottle holds the lightest scent.

• Stocking Stuffers. An Oriental garden of perfume sticks make delightful extras. Chinese characters decorate the cases, colored to suggest the solid scents—mimosa, sandalwood, jasmine, rose, lotus and orange blossom.

• There's more, much more. Keep those pretty eyes open.

THE EYES OF YOUTH

You are not lost to youthful beauty because of dark circles, puffiness, or wrinkles around the eyes. These problems can be brought under control by proper skin care, cosmetic applications, health habits and facial expressions. Methods are detailed in my leaflet, THE EYES OF YOUTH. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing 15-cent fee coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

carded a diamond from dummy. East was in with the ace and the third and last trick. East led a third heart. South ruffed with the king and led his seven of spades. West ducked, but South who had carefully played dummy's eight of spades earlier was able to play the six and leave his own hand on lead. The five of spades was overtaken by dummy's six spot. Dummy's jack of trumps pulled West's last tooth while allowing South to chuck his high diamond and dummy was good.

Ask the Jacobys

A Pennsylvania reader asks what the best response to a two-spade opening is when you play the Herbert convention.

The Herbert convention provides that when you respond to a forcing two bid you bid the next suit (not two notrump as the negative response). Thus, the negative response to two spades becomes three clubs. This is rather unsatisfactory and is promptly played his ace of spades and dummy's eight.

Mountain Bell offers holiday suggestions

DENVER—(UPI)—Officials of Mountain Bell have a suggestion for those who plan to make Yuletide calls this year. Use the telephone the day before or the day after Christmas.

Another suggestion for callers is to use the phone during television programs, not on the hour or the half hour when they end. Call volumes coincide with the start and end of many television shows.

Mark Notestine, division manager of the company, said that in many parts of the state, because of the high volume of calls, more than 2,500 operators, central office supervisors and area supervisors in Colorado were on duty Christmas to handle the calls.

Notestine says people also correct telephone numbers and dialed calls are faster and operators, he explained.

Earthquake prediction close

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI)—Within a decade, scientists will be able to accurately predict earthquakes due to information gained from discovery that the earth's crust is moving sideways, a noted geologist said Thursday. Dr. Robert Dietz, a visiting professor at Washington State University, said the new scientific information related to transform faults. Dietz said these fault fracture lines in the earth's crust move sideways at the same speed that tectonic plates move up and down. The discovery was announced in a paper published in the journal "Geology" and also moving sideways in the same direction about the same speed that tectonic plates move up and down about three times as fast.

He said the San Andreas fault, which runs length of California, is a transform fault that either creeps or jumps about six inches every 100 years. "If we could predict earthquakes quite accurately in the near future, I'd say within a decade," Dietz said. He said the San Andreas fault, which runs length of California, is a transform fault that either creeps or jumps about six inches every 100 years. "If we could predict earthquakes quite accurately in the near future, I'd say within a decade," Dietz said.

Dietz said this movement eventually puts Los Angeles into the Alutian Trench. Dietz and a fellow scientist, the late Dr. Harry Hess of Princeton, were the first to recognize the phenomenon of "sea floor spreading." The term was coined in 1961.

Partridge in pear tree cheaper this year

LONDON (UPI)—The British government's anti-inflation policy has cut the cost of Christmas this year — at least for anyone planning to give his true love all the gifts suggested in the carol "The Twelve Days of Christmas." In 1975 the cost of providing a partridge in a pear tree along with all the other fowl and an assorted collection of singers, dancers, milkmaids and leaping lords amounted to $5,656.60. In 1974 the cost rocketed to $9,810. But this year it has been reduced by about 20 per cent.

to $7,856, according to the World Wildlife Fund, compilers of this unlikely economic indicator. The list of gifts suggested by the carol was dreamed up in a feudal age long before union rates affected prices. Last year, wage-led inflation hiked the cost by 70 per cent. Eight maids-a-milking went up from $5.92 for an eight-hour day to $11 following a pay award to agricultural workers. Negotiations by the Matelons Union led to a big increase in the rates for hiring drummers. Similarly, the cost of ten pipers more than tripled, from $208 to $665.60. This year, prices have fluctuated and the government's $12 ceiling on pay claims has stabilized wage rates and prices. The cost of three French hens and four calling birds has declined. But two turtle doves are a bargain at $10. Last year they cost three times that much. The package deal for a partridge in a pear tree is a reasonable $11 compared with $18.40 a year ago. Five gold rings still cost $18 each. But six geese cost 20 per cent more at $72 and seven swans are $38 more expensive at $179. Musicians now charge for each performance rather than by the hour; so nine drummers would cost $275 and 10 pipers could be hired for $240 — although neither group would likely play all day for that money; a World Wildlife Fund spokesman said.

The hiring of eleven ladies dancing is still something of extravagance — $1,040 for the day compared with $600 at Christmas, 1974. "We are hiring them from the Ballet Rambert," the spokesman said. But the price of twelve lords-a-leaping, hired at the House of Lords' daily attendance rate of $17, is unchanged from last year.

St. Nick overcoated at national lighting

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It was so cold Santa Claus wore an overcoat. The First Lady arrived late. But President Ford brought a shivering crowd of 7,500 to his feet Thursday at the lighting of the national Christmas tree. "We are a national family called America, we have different dreams but we are united this Christmas to one another," Ford told the audience bundled in overcoats, boots, mufflers, scarves and blankets. "This is the time, he said, "to hope more than to doubt, to hope more than to despair, to love more than to hate, to be generous than to be selfish."

SANTA NINFA, Sicily (UPI) — Seven hundred school children from Santa Ninfa have each written one parliament member, telling what it is like to live in unheated makeshift barracks eight years after an earthquake destroyed their homes.

Three hundred Italian senators and 400 members of the Chamber of Deputies are going to receive the unusual Christmas mail.

"We don't want anyone to believe that we are exploiting children," said the Rev. Antonio Riboldi, the parish priest who arranged the letter-writing campaign. "The fact is that they suffer as much and more than we from life in the barracks."

Santa Ninfa was one of six western Sicilian villages razed by an earthquake in January, 1953—eight years ago next month—which killed more than 250 persons.

Although the Italian government allocated $460 million for reconstruction work, Riboldi said, only 200 regular houses have been built and 70,000 persons still live in makeshift barracks.

"I am an 8-year-old girl who has to sleep with grandmother because in my parents' barracks there isn't enough space for me," Italcuba Truglio wrote. "I wish I would have my mother closer to me, especially at night or when I am unwell, and I have such need of a home."

"Hon. Senator," wrote 13-year-old Cristina Caramita. "We have urged you for so long but you are insensitive. It will soon be Christmas and for the eighth year we have to spend it again in the barracks."

Angela DeCis, 11, wrote: "This Christmas and New Year, too, we will spend in this sort of tunnels while you live in big buildings. But do you think about these poor families who are freezing to death? Let's hope you will soon make us houses, so we will no longer die from the cold. There are old men who cannot bear it and during the winter they die."

Claudia Martin, 11, tersely: "I am 8 years old and a second grader. I live in the barrack. It is small and cold. I have my sick mother in it. Best wishes and seasonal greetings."

But the slowness in rebuilding Santa Ninfa is not unusual by Italian standards. Sicilian regional authorities six years ago allocated funds until the year 2003 to build housing—for descendants of Sicilians left homeless in the 1908 Messina earthquake.

Mafia query ends

ROME (UPI) — A parliamentary commission ended 13 years of investigation into the Mafia Tuesday without immediate recommendations on how to fight the criminal society.

Members said it may eventually suggest setting up another commission.

The commission of 15 deputies and 15 senators, which repeatedly promised to come up with explosive information but never did, announced it had completed its information gathering task.

It said it would vote in mid-January on three conflicting reports offered by Christian Democracy commission president Luigi Ciarra, the Communists and the neo-Fascist Italian Social Movement.

The commission did not announce the contents of the reports.

The anti-Mafia commission, set up in 1962 following a wave of Mafia crimes in Sicily, has often come under fire from civic figures and news media for allegedly breaching too easily, especially by investigating links between the Mafia and the political world.

Grave diggers find Betsy Ross

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — When grave diggers went looking for Betsy Ross, they discovered all of her relatives before they found the remains of the legendary seamstress. They found her third husband and a box containing the remains of her grandson or great-grandson. The anthropologist commissioned to move her remains to a courtyard next to the Betsy Ross House, a national monument, was becoming quite embarrassed. But Dr. Allan Mann of the University of Pennsylvania finally found the coffin containing the remains of America's most famous flag-designer when digging resumed on Tuesday.

"I'm glad things did work out," Mann said. "I didn't want to get blamed for losing Betsy Ross." Mann and his grave diggers began work Monday at Mt. Moriah cemetery in southwest Philadelphia. "I must say it was a bit upsetting," Mann said. "We dug up a coffin Monday, but that turned out to be her grandson, or great-grandson." So the grave diggers were ordered back to work. After hours of excavating, Mann found the remains of John Claypoole, Betsy's third husband. Then he found Betsy Ross herself. "There's no question about this one," he said. "All indications point to this one. It was a great distance away from the grave marker, but it was put up in 1923 and that's 50 years after she was moved to the cemetery."

She was buried in Mt. Moriah after the city purchased the Free Quaker Cemetery in 1837, where she was originally buried following her death in 1836 at the age of 84.

A court order sought by descendants, the Betsy Ross Memorial and the American Flag House, required her remains be reburied in the courtyard next to her home before 1976.

"We found her in a grave at the opposite end of the family plot," Mann said. "Those buried on the plot include her three husbands." Mann said the remains of her third husband, John Claypoole, also apparently were recovered today.

"We found her between two old marble tombstones," Mann said. "We dug down to the bottom of the grave and found a rotted away set of two boxes."

'Life forces' photograph

Five Gonzaga students say discovery 'all wet'

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Kirlian Photography, a 1939 discovery by a Russian scientist who claimed to be able to photograph "life forces," may be all wet.

Five Gonzaga University chemistry students spent last summer and a small grant to study the process and determined the "life forces" really just water.

Scientist Semyon Kirlian discovered that objects placed through an electric current produced a glowing, shimmering, colored film. The Soviet Union wrapped the discovery in mystery and secrecy. Kirlian's discovery was a possible precursor to the "life forces" that existed and could be photographed.

Medical scientists thought the glow might be used to diagnose an illness or pending illness. Kirlian claimed the process showed the physical, chemical and dynamic characteristics of the objects, transformed into electric characteristics which are represented on film as "life screens" in geometric, dynamic, colored films.

The Kirlian effect is a natural phenomenon. Kirlian's discovery was a possible precursor to the "life forces" that existed and could be photographed. Kirlian's discovery was a possible precursor to the "life forces" that existed and could be photographed.

Thief steals funds for needy

NORTHEAST, Colo. (UPI) — A thief isn't going to spoil a Christmas project at an Adams County restaurant even if he did set the project back.

Earlier this week the thief walked out of the 24-hour restaurant with $225 collected for four needy families in the area. The money was in a milk can near the cashier stand. "We're very disappointed," assistant manager "Plavin" Mann said Tuesday. "But we're determined to see this thing through." He said another milk can was donated and chained to the wall to prevent another theft.

Early 19th-century slung for the shilling in England and Ireland was the hog. To spend all one's money in one place was to go "whole hog". Bone sewing needles one to two inches long with eyes bored at both sides have been found in cave dwellings dating from 10,000 to 5,000 B.C.

Bantam rooster takes trip

The rooster, but, distinct sunrise crowing of a half-frozen-hitchhiking-rooster startled a quiet residential area, earning a prize Japanese Bantam a warm foot bath and a breakfast of hot oatmeal.

The rooster's unusual ad-venture began Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. H.H. McDowell visited their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Evans, across town. McDowell and Evans decided to take advantage of the pleasant weather to build a new chicken house for the fancy Bantams Mrs. Evans raises. While they worked, she allowed her chickens to roam about the yard, pecking at a few remaining bits of green grass.

The weather changed quickly, however, with the arrival of an ice storm and all the chickens were soon back in the warmth of their coop. All but one, which could not be found anywhere.

The McDowells drove home through the thick of the storm that night, unaware of the special passenger clinging desperately to the undercarriage of their truck.

As they were eating breakfast the next morning, the McDowells were startled by an unexpected noise in their driveway.

"It amazed me when I heard a rooster crowing," McDowell said. "This is a residential district and no livestock are allowed. You can imagine our reaction at hearing a rooster, especially as loud as it was."

McDowell followed the sound and eventually located the unhappy bird sitting on one of the braces that holds the tender to the truck's body.

"When I brought him in, my wife wrapped him in her housecoat. We gave him some hot oatmeal and washed his feet in warm water. He seemed to enjoy the hospitality," McDowell said.

"After we got him thawed out here in the house, I put him in a heated utility room. He just crowed all day and seemed to be enjoying himself before we took him home."

Tuesday the wayward rooster was reported doing fine back in the comfort of his coop, but McDowell is amazed the Bantam lived through the adventure.

Parlor pretense backfires

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Randolph G. Grant, 32, tried to get his money back from a nude massage parlor on grounds he had been acting as an undercover policeman when he paid a visit, but the ruse backfired.

Grant was suspended from his job as a University of California campus policeman and arrested on a charge of attempted petty theft.

City detectives said he paid $30 for a visit at the Intercity Consultant Agency on Dec. 8. They said he was wearing a Navy reservist's uniform when he visited the massage parlor.

The next day, they said, he showed up at the parlor in his campus uniform, told employees he was working undercover for the city Police Department and demanded a return of his money on grounds he had used city cash.

Farms going way of auction block

WONEWOC, Wis. (UPI) — The rain and a chilling wind made most of the people around the farm auctioneer turn up their collars and thrust their hands deep into their pockets.

About 100 came to bid on chains, wrenches, wagons, rakes, buckets of bolts and other odds and ends that accumulated on a farm during the years.

It was the day Harlan Klinge Sr. was selling out.

Klinge's son, Harlan Jr., rented the 190-acre farm from his father for nearly two years, but decided to quit because, like other farmers, he found he couldn't afford farming. That made Klinge decide to sell his farm.

"Some day people are going to wake up and wonder what happened to all the farmers," Klinge's daughter-in-law, Marshella, said.

Holding her 6-month-old son, Nathan, she sat in the farm house where the purchases were recorded.

The Klinges are one of the 1,000 families that have been leaving their farms in Wisconsin each year for the past decade. There are only 104,000 Wisconsin farmers today compared with 200,000 in 1925, according to the State Department of Agriculture.

Last year, Wisconsin accounted for 10 per cent of the milk produced in America, but most of that came from big farms. Dairy farming is big business. "Generally bigger farms, generally big herds, a lot more money and capital, and a lot less labor — I don't see anything that will stop this trend."

Dick Halback, an assistant with the University of Wisconsin Extension, said, "Farms are going to get larger," he said. "The guys who will do the best are in the 30-to-40-cow herd group who don't have much debt."

Another Sauk County farmer, who wished to remain anonymous, had a large herd. Still, like the Klinges, he sold and left a farm he rented for six years.

"His earnings were high. He bought hay and about 60 per cent of the corn he fed his herd. But last year, the cost of crops went up because of heavy rains, drought and an early frost the previous season.

Then the price of milk per hundredweight, or per 12.5 gallons, dropped $2.

"Costs just doubled and tripled," he said. "It was just ridiculous. It's ridiculous to work all this time and not even make enough to feed your own family without taking it out of your securities."

"I never lost money faster in my life — more than $1,000 a month. I love the cattle. I'm a true dairy farmer. I guess."

"We kept hanging on," his wife said. She said they thought the situation would change. "But it didn't," she said.

US Angola aid began in January

WASHINGTON—The Ford administration's initial authorization for substantial Central Intelligence Agency financial operations inside Angola came in January 1975, more than two months before the first significant Soviet build-up, well-informed officials report.

It could not be learned on what specific basis the agency now approval to deepen its clandestine involvement in Angola at that point, but William E. Colby, Director of Central Intelligence, told a secret congressional hearing two months ago that the January increase in CIA activity was needed to match Soviet aid.

The Soviet Union has been involved in Angola since 1956 but, according to well-informed American intelligence officials, did not substantially increase its support for one of the liberation armies in Angola until March and April of this year. At that time at least two shiploads and two plane loads of Soviet war materiel were sent

Told of the administration's decision of January 1975, number of government officials and lawmakers considered that it was impossible without more information to determine whether the subsequent Soviet build-up had been purely aggressive and expansionist, as Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and others have contended, or whether it might have been in part a Soviet response to the action by the United States.

The administration's high-level intelligence review panel, known as the 40 Committee, discussed Angola at its January meeting — the first such discussion of the African nation since the mid-1950s.

Officials said the panel's group agreed to permit the CIA to provide $200,000 clandestinely to Holden Roberto, the leader of one of three factions now seeking control of Angola.

At the time, Roberto, whose links with the CIA began in 1961, was on a $10,000-a-year agency retainer for "intelligence collection," the officials said. Roberto leads the National Front for the Liberation of Angola, which also has been aided by Zaire and China.

During the same 40 Committee meeting in January, the officials said, the CIA unsuccessfully also sought authority to provide a $100,000 subsidy secretly to Jonas Savimbi, leader of the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola.

At the time, movements led by Roberto and Savimbi since merged — were trying to negotiate settlement with the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola, a third liberation group, which has been supported by arms and aid from the Soviet Union since its formation in 1966. Those talks failed.

There was a sharp division Thursday among government officials and some lawmakers about the significance of the 40 Committee's decision in January to increase the funds available to Roberto.

Some officials belittled its importance, and argued that the funds, which reportedly were not meant for direct military support, were supplied merely to reassure President Mobutu Sese Seko of Zaire that the Ford administration was not going to permit the Popular Movement to win the Angolan civil war. Mobutu, who is Roberto's father-in-law, was an early advocate of American intervention.

Many others, including senators and representatives who have had access to secret CIA briefings on Angola, believe that disclosure of the January decision to increase the American involvement raises new questions about which nation — the United States or the Soviet Union — initiated what inside Angola.

"I think it's very important," one well-informed official acknowledged. "That money gave him a lot of extra muscle. He'd been sitting in Kinshasa for nearly 10 years and all of a sudden he's got a lot of bread — he's beginning to move."

In an extensive recounting of Washington's Angola decision-making, well-informed officials also made these points:

CIA statistics as of early last month show that the agency had paid $5.4 million to ship what was listed as $10 million in arms to Angola between late July and October. The high shipping costs were described by many knowledgeable officials as evidence that the agency had been systematically underestimating the value of the weapons shipped thus far, in an effort to make the United States role appear as minimal as possible.

The intelligence agency was explicitly authorized by President Ford on July 27, 1975, to begin at $200,000 in formal program inside Angola as part of a 40 Committee decision to begin major shipments of United States arms there.

The precise date of the 40 Committee's meeting in January, 1975, could not be learned, but January was a pivotal month in Angola.

On Jan. 5, leaders of the three liberation movements met in Kenya and signed a political accord that was viewed as paving a way for independence for the Portuguese territory. On Jan. 10 Portugal formally agreed to grant independence in Angola in the following November.

On Jan. 31 — the three liberation movements agreed to share cabinet posts and power equally with a Portuguese contingent until the formal date of independence.

The three liberation movements further agreed to prepare for and hold national elections for a constituent assembly. Those elections were never held, however, as the coalition dissolved over the next few months and warfare broke out.

American officials were interviewed, repeatedly by correspondents of the New York Times, in recent weeks, but none suggested what Colby and other CIA officials have said in recent secret briefings in Congress — that Soviet build-ups in Angola before this year were in any way a factor in the subsequent United States decision to intervene directly in July 1975 with shipments of arms and aid.

Consolidation set

BOISE (UPI) — Attorney General Wayne Kidwell said today that some Monday the investigative units in his office would be consolidated under one arm.

Kidwell said he was reorganizing the investigative divisions to "eliminate one bureaucratic level." Currently there are four investigative units — consumer, intelligence, civil and criminal.

Dave Rowe, presently chief investigator in the office, will head up all the investigative functions.

Kidwell said Rowe will coordinate investigations for all the deputy attorneys to make sure that the work they need is completed.

"I don't think several investigative units are necessary," Kidwell said. "It creates a bunch of little empires."

With the investigative branch, there will be more efficiency, the attorney general said.

"It won't change the type of investigation done since those with criminal investigation will be used in criminal investigation," he said.

Happy soldiers

Snow maker fails

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — John William Zofchak set his "bioplasmic energy-gathering" pyramid to "snow" Monday and sat back to await a bitzard, planning to laugh all the way to the bank.

But Mother Nature threw a wet blanket on his hopes, yielding only a cold, drizzling rain.

Zofchak, 28, a "ball-bearing" repairman, had promised to prove the worth and profitability of his "bioplasmic energy-gathering accumulator" by dropping 2 inches of snow on Akron Dec. 15. He claimed all the credit for unseasonably warm weather in northeast Ohio this autumn.

The accumulator, set up on a hilltop, consists of a 36-foot-high pyramid modeled after the Great Pyramid of Gizeh. Zofchak operates the plastic-covered steel wool and aluminum foil pyramid by adjusting a pair of billiard cues mounted on revolving steel pipes. The cues are connected to the pyramid by wires.

"Well, it got too warm for snow," Zofchak said, explaining Monday's failure.

"That's what happened. I've been in operation trying to keep weather patterns coming in from the south for a month and a half. When you get the energy going in a stream it tends to continue. I just wasn't able to stop it in one day."

Zofchak's faith in the accumulator, scoffed at by government officials, weathermen and patent attorneys, remained unshaken. "If I can't get it to snow, I'll just keep it with no snow," he said. "A lot of what I have done has been through trial and error, so sometimes I can make a goof like this."

Before he trudged up the hill north of the city Monday evening to adjust his accumulator, Zofchak worried that he might have blown his test earlier in the day when he tried to demonstrate his machine for a television station.

Fear-of-flying classes end

NORTHERN EAGLE (UPI) — A planeload of worried passengers made a lazy loop over central Georgia Tuesday, ending a seven-week course designed to teach people to overcome the fear of flying.

"I just grew up with some false fears," Betty Bradford, an Atlanta housewife who never flew before, said as she looked at white cloud tops 19,000 feet over Macon. "I had no idea it would be so smooth."

Only two of the 87, mostly middle-aged students in Capt. Truman "Slim" Cummings' flight-fear course backed out of the trip, which began and ended at Atlanta's airport. Two others flew petrified, gulping pint bottles of champagne, beer-stein drinking from the bottle with one hand and squeezing the arm rest with the other.

"This has got to be the most exhilarating moment of my life — it's beautiful, beautiful," said Margaret Cooper, who said she makes dozens of flights each year "but never without tranquilizers or a couple of drinks" for the nerves.

"It's like Alcoholics Anonymous — we're not free of your fears forever," she said. "You take it a day at a time, or a trip at a time. We've learned to let the courageous part of ourselves overcome the fearful part."

Cummings, a 29-year veteran flying for Pan American Airways, holds a psychology degree and has conducted the Monday night fear-of-flying courses in Miami and Houston. For the "graduation" flight, Pan Am provided a Boeing 707, three pilots and four stewardesses chosen for their enthusiasm.

Cummings and Dr. Ken Morin, a Georgia State University psychologist, taught the class tension-relieving exercises. During the seven weeks of classes, the fearful fliers also toured the Hartsfield Airport control tower and a Delta Airlines maintenance plant, to see how everything was taken care of for flight.

"Wiggle your toes, breathe deeply, rick with the millions of the plane. Let it pull you back into the seat," Cummings said over the airplane's sound system as the jet took off. "Close your eyes and think of a pleasant experience, someone you like."

Cummings did not fly the plane, staying with his passengers to explain the meaning of each kind of rattle — such as wheels locking, flaps lowering, or engine accelerations.

Car makers agree to tests

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — The United States, faced with an influx of 800,000 imported foreign automobiles and trucks each year, gained European agreement today to start standardizing testing regulations for motor vehicles.

A special group to establish test procedures will be set up within the European Commission for Europe, a United Nations agency.

There are now 46 regulations in the United States, 31 of which have 59 corresponding testing procedures among the 32 EC standards.

Military not convinced of blame in sheep deaths

DUGWAY, Utah (UPI) — Seven years after the U.S. Army paid for 6,400 sheep apparently killed by a nerve gas experiment, military scientists at Dugway Proving Ground still aren't convinced they did it.

But if it ever happens again, they will know for sure.

Since the sheep deaths, biologists have been conducting studies of animal and plant life on the sprawling 81,000-acre test range 30 miles southwest of Salt Lake City to determine the exact effects of military testing on the desert environment.

If we killed the sheep. "We never had any baseline data on the effects of VX nerve agent on a local animal population in order to see how far they dispersed."

"We probably got the Russians wondering how we got VX to travel 30 miles the farthest it ever drifted before was eight miles," he said.

The sheep mysteriously died in March of 1968 after grazing on snow-covered rangeland in Skull Valley — just outside the boundaries of the proving ground.

The Army initially denied responsibility, but later agreed to pay $376,000 damages for 6,400 sheep.

A year and a half after the sheep kill, the United States unilaterally discovered the use of biological agents in warfare and adopted a "STRICTLY DEFENSIVE" stance regarding the use of chemical weapons. Six years later, at the urging of former Rep. Wayne Owens, D-Utah, Congress finally ratified the 1925 Geneva Protocol banning chemical and biological warfare.

This year, the military announced cutbacks of Dugway due to a reduction in germ and poison gas programs.

The primary mission of Dugway, according to Maj. Ray Bills, is all the field testing of offensive systems — against both chemical and biological attacks — such as gas masks, vehicle filter systems, protective overgarments, decontamination procedures and sensing equipment.

Much of the testing is done with simulants — non-toxic substitutes for poisonous agents.

Such careful tests are a far cry from the mid-50s and early 60s when scientists fired artillery shells loaded with deadly toxins across the desert.

Only minute quantities of biological agents are still stored at the base — three tenths of a pound of staphylococcus and 100th of an ounce of botulinum, both food poisons.

"We keep the cultures because they are pure and it's easier to store them than to try to recreate them," said Spauldine.

The two toxins will be used in sophisticated, top secret, sensing device now being developed at Edgewood Arsenal, Md. — a device that will help detect the presence of biological agents.

"The bugs won't come to us labeled from Russia with love. They will come surreptitiously," said Spauldine.

"It's damn hard to detect them."

But until the device is ready for testing, Dugway must sit and wait.

Meanwhile, the remaining scientists at the Life Science Lab at Baker Lab — it is known on the base as "buggy" — are busy themselves with a variety of environmental and public health studies that call on their knowledge of germs and how to spread them.

Baker Lab has a contract with the Energy Resources Development Agency (ERDA) to study the health effects of steam mist from nuclear power plants.

Spauldine and other scientists at the lab also participate in extensive research with university students in the spread of disease by aerosols, airborne mists.

"Vapors coming from sewer stand pipes on houses are the source of a lot of intestinal infection," says Spauldine. "Hospitals and hotels are even worse and sewage treatment plants worst of all."

But a regional monitoring system developed by Dugway researchers proved useful to public health officials in detecting and controlling outbreaks of other forms of disease, some of them deadly to man.

Baker Lab must also make sure the proving ground complies with federal environmental protection laws enacted in 1970. The lab houses a large collection of desert rodent specimens. Biologists study the animals and Great Basin plant life, collecting data useful in preparing environmental impact statements prior to military experiments.

Ironically, the job of protecting Dugway against itself — plus a host of other environmental research projects — have provided new work for scientists and laboratories that once devoted their energies to plotting ways to kill enemy armies.

Old germ warfare labs are now used to do environmental impact studies for both the base and other government agencies.

Prior to the 1968 sheep deaths, the Army had only limited knowledge about what its field tests of chemical and biological agents were doing to the environment, says Dr. J. Clifton Spendlove, director of Dugway's Life Sciences Laboratory.

"We weren't lying when we said we didn't do it," said the biologist. "We just didn't know to my satisfaction what killed the sheep," says Col. Adelbert E. Toepel, Dugway commandant.

Toepel and the controversy, the Army elected to pay the bill and we've been taking a beating ever since."

Toepel added that, while the Army paid for 6,400 sheep, Dugway personnel can recall burying only 3,800.

The sheep deaths proved a turning point in the military role of Dugway, which for two decades was the main center for field testing offensive chemical and biological weapons. The incident coincided with the birth of the environmental movement and a public backlash — in the Vietnam War where chemical defoliants were widely used to destroy jungle cover.

When real agents are used, however, the tests are conducted in closed gas chambers and laboratories. One stainless steel test chamber — 50 feet long, 35 feet wide and 27 feet high — is capable of simulating a wide variety of environments, from a minus 40 degree arctic setting to a 125 degree jungle complete with rain.

"Such careful tests are a far cry from the mid-50s and early 60s when scientists fired artillery shells loaded with deadly toxins across the desert."

But until the device is ready for testing, Dugway must sit and wait.

Chicken pluckers battle washroom ruling

MONTREAL (UPI) — A group of chicken pluckers has launched battle against a company rule allowing only two trips to the washroom a day. One employee has been fired and 54 others suspended for taking extra trips.

The 54 employees returned to work Wednesday after serving two-day suspensions for protesting a new program that limits the number of times, when and how long employees may use washrooms.

"Another employee was fired and 10 more were reprimanded during the same dispute," said Paul Andre Lavolette, union spokesman for the 180 employees of the Quebec Poultry Co. Ltd.

The new rules allow employees to take two toilet trips daily, once before lunch and once after. They are banned for the 30-minute period preceding and following lunch breaks, Lavolette said.

Company officials sought for comment on the dispute were unavailable at a variety of meetings.

Even the daily-toilet-trips can be cancelled unless an employee can find a fellow worker to replace him or her at work, Lavolette said.

Tightening the rules still Further, the company Tuesday installed supervisors in washrooms to list names of employees — using the washrooms — and to time the period spent there.

Reading from a company statement on the new rules, Lavolette quoted it as noting that employees were free to use the toilets before and after their shifts ended.

Lavolette vowed the employees would not be daunted by the new rules and would battle enforcement of contract language allowing employees to use restrooms "as quickly as possible" when necessary.

Coffee price increase coming along shortly

Events in the United States, Italy, Colombia and Brazil spell bad news for coffee drinkers, who should expect higher wholesale prices to be passed along shortly.

Recent sales of stockpiled coffee begins to European interests have liquidated much of the ready supply of coffee. First it was the sale of 600,000 bags (each weighing 122 pounds) stored in Brazilian Coffee Institute warehouses in Trieste, Italy. Then came the sale of 300,000 bags stored in the United States.

And as producers hoped, these sales — coupled with the lingering results of Brazil's devastating July frost and reports that Colombia may have lost 30 per cent of its current crop due to heavy rains — have forced prices up.

The market is very tight, according to a coffee broker for Volkart Bros., a New York commodity-trading-house. "These stockpiled coffees have been hanging over the market. Now they have disappeared, and roasters here will have to replenish their supplies."

An even lighter market is expected by some in view of the Brazilian Coffee Institute's announcement this week that Brazil will restrict sales abroad if monthly exports exceed 1-million bags for an extended period.

Trading in coffee futures in the last 2½ weeks has been heavy and marked by price increase of as much as 2 cents a pound — the daily limit. Wednesday's losses, apparently due to profit taking, were more than erased by yesterday's close. December contracts closed at 84.50 cents a pound, up 1-5/8; March, 87.00 to 87.20, up 1.55 to 1.65.

Meanwhile, the cash-market price of coffee has also risen with Colombian green coffee beans recently selling for about 84½ cents a pound compared with 87½ cents three months ago and Brazilian beans selling at 98 cents, up 6½ in little more than a week.

Retail prices, traders say, don't fully reflect these increases, and roasters will probably raise prices on ground and instant coffee early next year.

Check advised

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Vern Burlison, extension forester, University of Idaho, suggested that tree growers check tree plantings every two or three weeks during the winter and early spring looking for early warning signs of rodent damage.

"Mice and other rodents can build up extremely high populations during the long periods of snow cover," he said. "They also thrive in heavy grass or weed cover. Rabbits move into tree plantings when the grass mat becomes scarce, and pocket gophers move in from adjacent habitats for the same reason."

If you can't name the 12 countries that border on Soviet Russia, your old geography teacher would be ashamed of you. Norway, Finland, Poland, Hungary, Romania, Turkey, Iran, China, North Korea, Afghanistan, Mongolia and Czechoslovakia. No other nation has as many frontiers to guard. Some contend that has made the Russian national spirit a bit paranoid.

ARGUMENT CONTINUES as to whether a panda is a raccoon or a bear. Though that was settled by Vincent Sarich of the University of California did a microscopic study on the blood proteins of the beasts. Unquestionably, says he, a panda is a bear.

PRETZELS World's first pretzels were turned out by French monks in A.D. 610. The strips of dough were crisscrossed to represent arms folded in prayer.

HAVE YOU EVER had the occasion to watch any flying squirrels? They almost invariably end their long glides at the bottom of tree trunks, not on open ground. And they look as though they're going to spread down full till until they flip their tails to make air brakes that let them stop on their hind feet.

IT IS SPECIFICALLY prohibited in the British Parliament for one member there to refer to another as a jackass, but it is ruled permissible for a member to call another a goose.

COFFEE It's a rare bird that can make a good cup of coffee, that's common knowledge. But why is less widely un-derstood. The standard measuring cup for most kitchen recipes contain eight ounces. But there is no standard coffee cup. The producers of coffee think six ounces of water is needed to make five and a half ounces of coffee. The producers of coffeemops measure their cups in four, five or six ounces, whichever. They just haven't come together on how much of which makes what. So the aforementioned bird, poor girl, can't count on written recipes. Trial and error is her alternative.

IN GREAT BRITAIN, a woman with a bust measurement of less than 32 inches doesn't have to pay tax on the dresses she buys. If her bust measurement exceeds that, she's called upon to pay 10 percent sales tax on said dresses. This came about when the Graduated Parents Association there lobbied in some tax relief for the clothing of school girls. But correspondents say it's now being treated as a sort of consolation prize to little ladies without.

'Dropout' nuclear physicist invents

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—A "dropout" nuclear physicist at North Judson, Ind., fires up his invention. A bright light emanates. A soft glow. Energy.

All from firewood.

Carl Johnson, 29, earned a University of Chicago graduate degree in nuclear physics in 1967, after undergraduate work at Purdue University. He soon decided he was no career scientist.

He went into high school teaching in his hometown in Chicago's south suburban area. That did not wholly satisfy him, either. So he and his wife, Judi, bought a farm.

"We made a deal that I would continue teaching and he would work on his projects," said Mrs. Johnson, a physical education and health teacher at Knox High School.

Health is not his goal, Johnson says. But his project most likely to make money is a free-standing wood furnace or "Super Fireplace" efficient enough, he believes, to heat the couple's 2.5-story farmhouse.

The wood furnace was Johnson's answer to liquid propane prices that soared from 17¢ to nearly 35 cents a gallon. He designed and built the machinery to make it—the JUCA (Judi-Carl) Corp. Its basic model is pyramid-shaped furnace with a flat top, glass loading doors on the sides, blowers to force air out of either or both sides and humidifiers for room-thermostat and a device in the flue to provide steady draft. The furnace is nearly as efficient as full capacity, Johnson said. A cool fire always "steals" most of the heat before it leaves the furnace, he said.

The "Super Fireplace" is meant to be seen, but can be a backup to a regular heating system or may be hooked to hot air ducts in a home's basement.

Even prices of $400 per cord for wood, the safe, family-owned heat for a season of less than $200, using only four to five cords compared with seven to ten for a stone fireplace. Many rural people, of course, get firewood cheaply or free.

He charges $280 for one model, $350 for one as heavy as his own, he said, and customizes them somewhat to buyers' wishes.

"I'm kinda disappointed in our country," he said. "I'm a little worried that someday things might come seriously apart—I wanted to make sure we could get by in that case."

'Sophistication' endangers fair

ATLANTA (UPI)—The pungent aroma of sawdust, buttered popcorn, cotton candy and barnyard animals which mingled over the Southeastern Fair for 60 years may be gone forever—a victim of sophistication.

The fair, an annual event in Atlanta since 1914, attracted millions of Southerners during its 60-year history. But the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, scheduled Tuesday, Jan. 30, and its operation because of declining attendance and revenues.

With family-oriented amusement parks flourishing around the city, the fair's staid-churning thrill rides have become less of an attraction to kids.

And the topless nightclubs have caused the "hochie koochie" dancers in the Star & Garter Tavern to lose some of their glamor.

"I can understand their position, although it's disappointing and depressing," said fair General Manager Buddy Welby. "We did the best we could. Suddenly Atlanta has too much of a sophisticated audience."

Welby, who has been with the fair only two years, made an attempt this past year to coax back the urban residents by eliminating most of the livestock exhibits and placing the emphasis on child-oriented entertainment.

"As the community changed, the fair had to change," said Welby. "They tried to give them the same old stars every year." The last two years we tried to make changes. We certainly slowed the drop in attendance but we didn't get out of the deficit situation."

The fair boomed in the '50s but began to have problems in the late '60s as the neighborhood in which it was located deteriorated. A stabbing incident in 1967 scared people and caused a dip in attendance, although it bounced back to a peak of 450,000 in 1970.

By 1975, however, attendance was down to 226,000. The fair has had many exciting and embarrassing moments over the years.

Youth asks brother be given to father

DALLAS (UPI)—Jimmy his fearful mother sat in the courtroom, 17-year-old Wilmy Risher Thursday described his feelings about her homosexuality and asked a jury to grant his father custody of his 9-year-old brother.

The youth said his mother's homosexuality embarrassed him and caused his friends to shy away from him. Because of that, he said, he went to live with his father.

The youth said he found out two years ago that his mother, Nancy Risher, 28, was a lesbian who "liked the way she lived and would live the rest of her life that way."

"My friends began to steer clear of me and did not have anything to do with me after they found out what my mother was," he said, discussing why he moved in with his father. "It just seems like a more suitable environment than living with two women or two men together."

The boys' father, Doug Risher, has asked custody of the boys be taken from their mother and given to him.

Ms. Risher, a nurse at a local hospital, and Ms. Foreman, an assistant auditor at a local bank, testified earlier their homosexual relationship would not interfere with raising the boys.

Soviets test plane

MOSCOW (UPI)—A senior aviation official said today the Soviet supersonic airliner that goes into service next week will fly initially over remote, unpopulated areas because "some unresolved questions" about the craft remain.

The 1,550-mile per hour TU144 begins regular flights between Moscow and Alma-Ata in Central Asia on Christmas Day, a month before the Anglo-French Concord starts its service.

But Nikolai P. Bykov, deputy minister of civil aviation, said the TU144 would carry only freight and not passengers until the last half of 1976.

Bykov was asked at a news conference whether there were any dangers connected with the so-called "Concordist"—a modified version of the plane that crashed at the 1973 Paris air show, killing 17 persons.

"This is being studied by us and by the French," he said. "There are some unresolved questions, but we have found no dangers. But in order to study these questions we have selected the Alma-Ata route."

He gave no indication of what the unresolved questions were, but Western aviation experts said the Alma-Ata service apparently was largely for testing purposes and had been started primarily to be completed.

Development of the TU144 over the past 10 years has been slightly ahead of the Concord.

QUESTION: Do you believe in Santa Claus?

Richard Quigley, Twin Falls:

Yes. Because there's so many books about him and he brings me presents.

Chad Miller, Twin Falls:

Yes, because I give him a treat every Christmas and it's always gone. Usually it's cookies and hot chocolate, and he always eats all of it.

Lyric McBride, Twin Falls:

Yes. On the stores, everybody puts pictures of him up and there's so many signs about him.

Tiara Kramer, Twin Falls:

No, because there already are presents under our tree.

Clark Berg, Twin Falls:

I guess so. You get presents.

Shannon Nelson, Twin Falls:

No. If I didn't believe in Santa Claus, he wouldn't bring me any presents.

Tracy Gutierrez, Twin Falls:

No. Last year I saw my mom and dad sneaking up and putting presents under the tree. I was out of bed, waiting. I had to solve that mystery.

Robyn O'Connor, Twin Falls:

Yes, because he brings me presents. And I leave cookies and milk and he eats them.

Christmas spirit

Christmas lighting contests weren't officially sponsored by any organizations in the Magic Valley, but this Twin Falls family decided to get into the Christmas spirit even without the urging of outside groups. The traditions of Christmas and the unique freshness of every Christmas season is the subject of this week's Idaho magazine feature beginning on page 8.

Candy well-informed

Candy Bergen is interested in doing a talk show but only if it is on her own terms and she can have control over who her guests will be. Although Candy is not considered an intellectual, she is one of Hollywood's most well-informed actresses. See Robin Adams Sloan's Gossip Column on page 15 of today's Idaho magazine.

Persistence pays off

Mike Royko writes a column on page 4 of today's Idaho magazine about a young man attacked by thugs. When he attempted to get his attackers arrested the young man himself wound up in jail.

Lou Freeman captured the glow of the Christmas lights on the cover this week. The brightly lit house he photographed is located on Eighth Avenue between Blue Lakes and Shoshone in Twin Falls.

Tree trimming no small job

BOISE (UPI) — "Tree" and "Trouble" usually are not synonyms but they are this year for the Idaho Statehouse workers assigned to decorate a 33-foot Engelmann-Spruce as the State Christmas Tree.

The tree was too big to go through the doorway into the Statehouse, too heavy to pull upright in the Rotunda and too large for the supply of blue and gold decorations.

The tree was donated by Mr. and Mrs. William R. Eberhart of Park Circle Drive after reading a United Press International story that no one had offered a suitable tree for the Statehouse Rotunda.

The evergreen stood 45 tall in the Eberhart yard and was causing problems for them because it was too close to their driveway.

Chopped down to size by the Statehouse building services crew aided by trussies from the Idaho State Penitentiary, the tree resisted efforts to bring it through the State Street entrance to the building until some of the branches were cut back and a block and tackle were rigged to pull it inside.

The crew worked six hours just getting it inside the building. Boughs at the base measured 20 feet in diameter. Thomas Paine, building services administrator, said it took most of a second day to get the tree upright, centered and tied in place.

By noon, Tuesday workers finished decorating the part of the tree visible from the second floor but the first floor boughs were empty. The three-man tree crew already had spent a half-day longer than they usually need to complete the decorating but tree work stopped because there were not enough blue and gold lights to complete the task.

Paul Whitson, maintenance worker heading the decoration crew, said strings with 500 lights but some of the cords have been damaged, others have disappeared and with the larger than usual tree they ordered special cord from Portland to prepare new light strings.

He does not expect the work to be done until Friday. The tree usually is up and decorated by Dec. 1.

"We have the bulbs, we're picking up the sockets here in town but the special cords are available only from Portland."

"They will arrive by truck because of the air lines strike and Whitson said he did not know what the cords would cost.

"We had a great deal of trouble getting it into the building and up," he said. "It was shorter than some of the trees we've had before" but the larger base made it harder to handle.

"Last year the tree was taller but we leaned it over, put on the decorations and stood it back up again. This year we had to put up scaffolding to work on it."

Whitson said the tree task had not slowed the regular maintenance work in the Statehouse. Supervisors are doing the work while the tree team strings lights, hangs glass balls and drapes tinsel with a cane pole.

Mrs. Eberhart told UPI she picked the old Engelmann that grew in their yard for the 17 years since they moved to Park Circle. The stump rings show it was close to 40 years old.

"It's so bare I almost weep every time I look out the window," she said.

A new Engelmann will be planted near the old stump "but we're going to put it out farther so it won't crowd our driveway before we die."

JUST A SPOONFUL OF VACATION

by MARY SALISBURY

It is important to take your vacation. Consider what a vacation does. It refreshes the spirit, washes the windows of the mind; and puts perspective back into living. There is a wonderful world out there waiting to be seen, to be fully almost impossible to comprehend. There are exciting sports to engage in, to stretch your muscles while laughing and unwinding. Pick a far away place and go with the spirit of discovery. You will return with mind and body wiser and able to take up the "daily work" with renewed enthusiasm and more productivity. You will enjoy the sense of pride in the fact that your mind and body were equal to the quest and feel younger for the experience.

Forced Idahoans to visit to the sea is a great refresher. Climb on a great yellow/blue bird and in the time it takes to enjoy an out-of-the-ordinary dinner, a nap and a movie, you have arrived at a beautiful ocean liner. Hang your clothes in the stateroom and you are home for a week or two. Each day your surroundings are different, beautiful. You enjoy the spectacular view from the deck. You can visit the island, enjoy people who look different and do it all differently. Kind gentle people who would never understand your reasons for hurrying. Stop awhile, buy their spices, examine bright fabrics and colors, there is Bluebeard's Castle. It is fun to see where "The Tamarind Seed" was filmed.

Remembering one purpose of vacation is rest. It is good to give in to the temptation to stay on the ship in some harbors. Days could be well spent comparing the sea with the sky from a lounge on deck. A few laps around the ship and a visit to the gym-sauna will take care of the physical. Entertainment served in the dining room. You may want to go dancing after the evening stage show. There are so many other enticements on a ship it is hard to choose. Whether you choose the latest movie or early to bed... Never neglect taking your vacation.

'40s rice diet 'resurrected'

© Chicago Daily News
CHICAGO — Rice diet, the treatment rage of the 1940s for high blood pressure, has been resurrected for massive obesity.

More than 100 patients lost at least 99 pounds each after a diet consisting largely of rice and fruit juice, eaten for up to a year. The greatest loss was 201 pounds and the average was 140.

Dr. Walter Kempner of Duke University introduced the rice diet in the 1940's and hundreds of patients with serious hypertension flocked to Durham, N.C., for the treatment.

The advent of effective pressure-lowering drugs in the 1950s cooled off the pilgrimage but it could resume for the excessively heavy.

Patients continue the monotonous diet of rice and fruit juice for at least a month. Then some vegetables are added and, still later, some lean poultry or other meats. Calories never exceed 1,000 a day. Vitamins are supplemented to prevent nutritional deficiencies.

Persistence pays off

Chicago Daily News

CHICAGO — The guilty get away with a lot these days. The police are too busy, the courts are overloaded, and all kinds of thugs and thugs walk out of court with their hands on their hips. So it is satisfying to hear of a case where somebody doesn't beat the rap.

This, then, is the story of one persistent young man who refused to let the guilty go unpunished.

The story begins last summer. Bob Rosen, 20, a student and bank employe, was sitting in front of a friend's home in Skokie.

Mike
Royko

It is a quiet, residential neighborhood, so Rosen became indignant when he saw a car filled with teenagers near down the street. As it sped past, he shouted at the punks to slow down.

Being modern suburban youths, and not accustomed to having their conduct criticized, they stopped, backed up, and told him what he could do.

He told them a thing or two, everybody said. "Oh, yeah? Oh, Yeah?" and drove off.

But a few minutes later they were back. With friends. About four cars filled with friends.

They poured out and began playing a game something like football. Except Rosen was the ball. Several of them tossed him against his own car, slammed his head into the hood and punched him. They knocked him down and kicked his head.

About 15 of them got in punches and kicks before somebody in the neighborhood called the police.

By the time the police appeared, Rosen was a mess. He had a broken nose, his face was swollen, his lip was torn. He was covered with dark bruises. The skin on his face was blistered from scraping on the sidewalk. When he got to the hospital, it took 30 stitches to close his wounds. His lip was so badly ripped that he now wears a mustache to

Santa's helpers work overtime

HELSINKI, Finland (UPI) — The world's children are writing to Santa Claus in record numbers this year, and 19 of his helpers are working overtime to make sure each letter is answered.

Although—the children know they must be good to receive presents from Santa, the letter from Aig Cassidy of St. Joseph, Mo., summed up the situation. "I know I have been pretty bad at times, but I wish I could have a few things," she wrote.

Michael Sutton of East Marney, England, added an enticement for Santa's visit. "I will leave you a glass of gin and some chocolate," he wrote.

The letters were among thousands received from around the world. Many post offices that receive mail addressed to Santa Claus at the North Pole, Christmas Land or other exotic places send the letters to Finland.

The Helsinki Post Office gives them to the Finnish Tourist Board, which has produced a letter with Santa's own handwriting, pictures of him and a puzzle on the reverse side. Santa's letter concludes

"Together with all my Christmas elves, I wish you and your friends and family a really good and merry Christmas. Santa also hopes that the gay and friendly spirit of Christmas will continue long after Christmas as well — right up to the following Christmas."

The tourist board estimates it will answer at least 30,000 letters this year, with about half coming from Finland. About 1,500 letters arrive daily and 10,000 have already been answered.

Last year the board replied to 10,000 foreign letters.

Some children send cash to cover costs and a tourist board spokesman said the money was given to the Red Cross.

Letters have arrived from as far away as New Guinea, Vietnam, Japan, and Argentina, but most come from Europe and the United States. Although mostly children write, sometimes parents send a plea.

The mother of a child in West Germany wrote,

"Will you please send my son a Christmas card as I want him to believe in Father Christmas, for his teacher said Father Christmas was dead and it upset him very much."

But the police weren't as upset about the incident as Rosen thought they should be. They viewed it as more of a youthful brawl than anything else.

When Rosen said he wanted to bring charges against the entire gang, the police suggested that it was a case of simple battery—a misdemeanor. It usually brings a tap on the wrist and a lecture from a judge.

Rosen figured that being stopped by somebody wearing engineer boots was more than a simple case of battery. He wanted the gang charged with a felony.

The police said the charges wouldn't stick. The case would wind up in Juvenile Court, where judges routinely handle murders, rapes and robberies. The judges would be trying the crime on a street fight in Skokie and probably would lose out the case.

So Rosen went to the state's attorney's Skokie office and asked what could be done. The prosecutor told him to go to the police.

Back and forth he went for almost a month. And about all the police did was call in the parents of five youths, whose names had been provided by witnesses. Incidentally, the witnesses had confirmed Rosen's story.

The police lectured the parents on the inadvisability of their sons stopping people on the head with boots. The parents promised that their lads wouldn't do it any more.

But Rosen was so persistent the police finally said they would do something. But only if he would get them the names of all 15 youths who beat him. In other words, Rosen had to identify the gang.

So he did. He asked around, talked to people in the neighborhood, and one evening when he got home from work, somebody told him that the leader of the gang was hanging around a nearby park.

Rosen went to the park and found a big, husky 16-year-old kid. He told the kid he wanted the names of everybody who had been in on the beating.

The youth laughed in his face.

This got Rosen mad. He said something and the big kid said something. And Rosen punched him in the nose.

That simple punch in the nose did the trick. It was the catalyst that finally got everybody going on Rosen's case. The police and the prosecutor suddenly moved ahead, quickly and sternly.

The police arrested Rosen. The kid's nose was broken and his parents brought charges. Rosen was locked up and spent a night in jail before he could get out on bond.

The state's attorney's office presented the evidence of the broken nose to the grand jury, which voted to indict Rosen on a charge of assault. This is a felony.

Rosen has been arraigned by a judge and will have to now stand trial in the Criminal Courts Building. If he is found guilty, he could be sent to jail and will have a criminal record.

See? Just shows what one citizen can accomplish if he is persistent. He can hang himself.

Grandma, youngsters pass in the night

By ERMA BOMBECK.
My mother is funny about Christmas.

She gets annoyed when she has to buy gifts that she can't spell. But she doesn't have the foggiest notion what they're used for. (e) leak grease.

"Why can't I just buy my grandson a drum and a rubber toy for his bath?"

"Because he's 20 years old."

"It's no fun doing your Christmas shopping in an auto supply store. Tell me again what I bought him last year."

"A mag wheel."

"And the year before that?"

"An RF-60 FM stereo wireless radio chamber."

"I'll bet it's never been hemmed."

"They were headphones."

"If you ask me, kids grow-up too fast. I liked it better when we could buy them toys and games."

Remember that game where you sunk each other's battleships? I hate to brag but I downed 11 destroyers and six cruisers before they even got the hang of it."

At Wit's End

"I remember."

"And the popcorn machine. I loved the popcorn machine. That little thing made a pretty good batch of caramel corn."

"I remember."

"But the electric hockey was my favorite. I tried to tell 'em, it's coordination. Skunked every one of them. And Monopoly. I had 'em so they couldn't land anywhere on that board unless they printed their own money. So, what does he want this year?"

"Take your pick. He's into photography. You want to get him the 273 auto. A thyrister bounce flash 9-30 with read tilt."

"No."

"Write it down."

"How about a little stocking stuffer like a couple rolls of EX 135-30 Ektachrome ASA 64-19?"

"Write it down," she said tiredly.

"As I watched her go off with a note in her hand, I couldn't help but reflect sadly that somewhere in our quest to reach down to children and their quest to reach up to maturity, we pass one another in the night."

Hints for keeping "Christmas trees"

By GEORGE ABRAHAM
CHRISTMAS TREE
NOTES: This year's 6,000 Christmas tree farmers will cut and sell about 3,000,000 trees for the holidays. No one knows how many millions of wild trees are cut each year, but it is a fact that Christmas tree farming is a sizable—over $210,000,000 and employing about 100,000 people.

It's a good idea to buy your tree early when the selection is good. There are many kinds of evergreen used—Balsam Fir—Halds needles—Juniper—have permanence—like—Fragnere—Douglas Fir—scout needles 3 weeks indoors. Pines such as Scotch pine, has short needles which molt up well.

White Pines—long and good keeper—Spruces scout needles fast, are practical. Best for outdoors.

Christmas tree needles should be green and should not pull off easily. Give the needles a tug. If they come out easily, freshness is gone.

Some people rub their finger across the butt end of a tree. If it's sticky, chances are the tree is fresh. If you bounce the stump hard on the ground a couple times, and notice needles are shedding, it's not good but the tree has started to dry.

Before you erect your tree, cut off an inch or two from the butt end, and at a slant. Then peel back the bark another inch. This will store it in a cool spot, preferably standing up with the butt in water.
After you put up your Christmas tree make sure the butt is kept in a water reservoir to keep the foliage fresh and green. It also helps to provide fire protection.

A Christmas tree takes up 2 quarts of water a day, so the water level should be checked daily.

If a Christmas tree is dried before you decorate it, it will continue to dry out even when standing in water. Canadian tests show that Scotch pine foliage becomes matchlightable at about 65 per cent moisture content, and burns violently at less than 20 per cent moisture. In other words, if the tree is allowed to become too dry it can be a hazard.

A fresh Christmas tree is a safe tree—at least as far as fire hazard is concerned.
It's the moisture in the tree that makes it resistant to fire. As a final note, picking a tree by color can often be misleading. If trees have been sprayed with a colorant, you could be fooled. Normally, a bright color would suggest freshness.

There is no fool-proof way to fire-proof a Christmas tree.

SCABIES AND PLANTS: Something new has come up to blame plants for human problems. We received this letter: "Our child came home from school with what was diagnosed as scabies. An itch, due to mites, presumably, plant mites, is there any truth to the idea that red spider mites will cause scabies on people—if so we will discard our plants."

Plants have been blamed for a lot of things, but this is the most ridiculous one yet.
Plant mites DO NOT affect poisonous and should not be left near cats or dogs. If the animals eat the leaves, they might get sick, but this is the same would happen if they drank household bleach.

but you can keep them down to size with a little pruning. Green thumb tips:
Give the bright or sunny window, temperature 72 degs, and soil equal part of sand, peat and loam. Keep plant watered regularly, but not soggy. Start new plants in a peat moss, perlite or vermiculite any time of.

scale is like a needle-like tube, which is inserted into the plant to get food and large amounts of sap. The insects excrete a clear, sticky substance (Honeydew) upon which a fungus ("Sooty mold") develops. The crawling stage is the mobile stage, the only time this insect is vulnerable to spraying.

Scales are covered with a waxy, almost impermeable shell and even their eggs are deposited within the shell. CONTROL: Not easy. Adding a systemic pesticide on soil surface is effective. We've passed the posts by hanging a piece of No-pest paper on the plant and covering with a plastic sheet. Scrubbing the stems with soap and water, using a tooth brush helps.

green thumb

people. Scabies is a condition due to a human mite only and if will NOT live on plants. This is one of those things that pop up due to ignorance—more than anything else. Here are a few more myths that should be debunked:

- (1) Poisoned plants are toxic and should not be left near children.
- (2) Handling croton leaves will cause cancer.
- (3) Plants and cut flowers are dangerous in homes and hospitals, at night.
- (4) Wave of flowers are a reservoir for infection in hospitals, hence should not be sent to sick people. This may be true if the patient drank water out of the vase of flowers.
- (5) Philodendrons are

Instead of down grading plants with half-truths and rumors like those mentioned above, people should spend more time praising the beneficial effects of plants on human life.

FLOWER OF A DAY: A handsome house plant that needs to be grown more in the "Rose of China" or "Waverley" day. (Hibiscus, rosassinensis). There is a single and double-flowered form of the common Chinese hibiscus of Florida and Hawaii. Leaves are glossy, green, large and waxy.
Also there's a variety called Hibiscus cooperi, grown for highly variegated leaves with metallic green, white, pink and crimson. Indoors the plants may grow shrubby like

Friendly host best

LONG GROVE, Ill.
(UPI) — A health expert who believes that the host of a party should be a friend and not a "land-buster" who loads the drinks of unsuspecting guests has some helpful hints for the holiday season.

John J. Lavino, director of health services for the Kemper Insurance Companies, calls cocktail parties "the biggest drug ring in the county."

"People at cocktail parties are often strangers to each other and are a little tense or ill at ease, and often hungry," Lavino said. "The hosts are too busy running the party to mingle properly and introduce strangers."

"The result can be boredom which promotes prolonged drinking at a pace that is often faster than normal while the hosts push strong drinks at anyone whose glass is beginning to look empty."

Behind. No ears were near enough to hear him murmur that he must stay back, out of sight. He wasn't worthy. He wasn't white.

At the stable, the Christ Child looked at the humbled pride of kings kneeling on an earthen floor. But His eyes looked further. To the sorrow in a small lamb's eyes. The lamb's gray car-cars were—just—barely visible at the back of the stable. Yet the Child called him forward to his manger. Kings—moved their golden robes aside to give the weary one. The Babe reached out his hand to the lamb's wrinkled face. And the lamb was blessed—for suddenly his fleece was as white as the light that shone round about them.

In cathedrals all over the world the infant Savior is pictured in kneeling Manger. But, look closely. His Baby-Hand rests not on the frankensence, myrrh, or gold. It lies, with a heavenly light, on a little gray lamb that was changed to white.

QUESTION BOX

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: E. D. of Twin Falls. "We have a glass greenhouse and want to cut down on heating cost by using plastic sheet. Do you put the plastic on the inside or the outside?"

Your idea of using a plastic barrier is a good one to cut down on heat loss. Greenhouse operators use the plastic in two ways:
over the glass and inside.
Some feel that placing the plastic sheet over the glass is better than placing the polyethylene inside.
The advantages of placing the plastic over the glass are: It's easier to install and it will deflate and will allow new to melt if it is overloaded. A saving of fuel cost of 30 per cent can be realized in a tight glass house, and as much as 50 per cent if the greenhouse is poorly glazed, or full of leaks.

Commercial growers who apply plastic over the greenhouse say that it results in more uniform temperatures in the greenhouse and also less glass slippage.

One advantage: plastic sheet applied on the outside are apt to wind whip and tear.

G. H. of Ida: "We have a fine collection of begonias and something serious has happened. We notice scale insects on the stems and undersides of leaves.
We've sprayed and have done everything to stop them but to no avail. Will our plants, is there a control?"

Scales are tough insects down on the little figure but his answer was cold:

"Hurry away, little lamb that prays this night. I cannot give thee a fleece of white."

The lamb faced into the wind and tried the clouds.
If only they'd give him a coat of snow he would be fine as any other lamb in the flock. But the clouds secluded away.

Suddenly a brilliant star

It began on a winter night like most others. Shepherds watched flocks that lay like snowdrifts against the hills of Bethlehem. Only one little lamb with its fleece of gray was out on the hillside alone. The lamb was watching the moon with a weary face. Finally he spoke. "Mr. Moon so fair and bright, give me a time. Now, a fleece of white."

appeared—in the heavens just where the clouds had been. The lamb blinked his eyes several times thinking he must have imagined it.
There it stayed, however, and now the shepherds had seen it, too. They began to follow, herding their sheep along before them like white marshmallows. No one noticed that patiently, longingly, a little gray
lamb limped sorrowfully.

'Personal happiness' top youth aim

BY SCHOLASTIC MAGAZINE EDITORS

Even more than their parents' generation when they were teens, young people recently surveyed by Scholastic Magazines consider "personal happiness" their foremost aim in life.

In the recent poll of 52,000 junior and senior high students, a 52 per cent majority of young people chose "personal happiness" over money, fame or service to society as their ultimate goal.

In a similar poll in 1945, conducted among 52,000 students, 74 per cent plurality opted for "a simple but secure and happy life" as the goal.

Despite a difference in the wording of the two polls, the fact that in both, students put happiness first suggests that the chief aims of young Americans may not have changed appreciably in 30 years — even though the moods of the times when each poll was conducted are so dissimilar. (The September-1945 World War II had just ended, and young people then could look forward to a more peaceful future. This September, the nation was still struggling through the worst economic recession since the Great Depression.)

"I'd rather be happy than have a lot of money," says Kim King, 16, of Belcherown, Pa. "That's the most important thing, even though I wouldn't mind having a little bit of fame and a little bit of money."

Yet it is clear that those values have changed since 1945. The recent poll shows that its participants are far more money-oriented and less interested in fame and prominence than young people were in 1945.

Recently, Scholastic asked:

"What is your foremost aim in life?"

	% Boys	% Girls	% Total
a. Money	21	10	15
b. Fame and prominence	12	7	10
c. Personal happiness	52	66	59
d. To serve society	15	17	16

In 1945, Scholastic asked:

"Which of the following comes closest to being your ultimate aim in life?"

	% Boys	% Girls	% Total
a. To make a lot of money	6	2	4

b. To be a prominent and respected member of my community 17 14 15

c. To reach the top in some field of work and become famous 27 48 44

d. To live a simple but secure and happy life without making a lot of money and becoming famous 37 48 44

e. To serve society and help improve the health and welfare of my fellow man 9 12 10

f. Don't know 8 6 7

In both polls, "personal happiness" takes a wide lead over the other objectives, with "money receiving only 15 per cent in 1975 and 4 per cent in 1945," "fame and prominence" receiving 10 per cent in 1975 and a combined total of 35 per cent in 1945; "service to society," 16 per cent in 1975 and 10 per cent in 1945.

Interestingly, a greater percentage of girls than boys voted for "personal happiness." In both polls, 1945, 41 per cent of the girls named "a happy life" their aim, compared to 37 per cent of the boys who did. And in 1975, 66 per cent of the girls vote for it, compared to 52 per cent of the boys who do.

"Personally," says Cathy Fisher, 15, of Winshoro, Tex., "I don't really care how everybody else is doing as long as I'm happy and I'm making the people I love happy." Sharon Coufal, 17, of David City, Neb., says being happy, "when God wants and" is what you're supposed to do when you're on earth."

On the other hand, both polls show a greater percentage of boys than girls concerned with money. In 1945, 6 per cent of the boys said money was their goal, compared to 2 per cent of the girls; this year, 21 per cent of the boys vote for money, compared to 10 per cent of the girls who do.

Yet among both sexes, money has gained 11 percentage points since 1945 as a life objective. "You have to have money to have anything in today's society," says Jerome Radwin of Los Angeles. "You can't even get from here to there without a car, and they don't happen to be free." Sharon Coufal is convinced that "money doesn't make you happy," but admits that "if you have it, people look up to you."

piness" specifically indicated that choice did not include working to get rich. "I'm being sent to a prep school that's getting me ready for Harvard or Yale and then to be a doctor," he says. "But I'm not interested in making money of money. I don't want to be pressured the way my family and friends are. Like my father is, who gets up at 6 in the morning and doesn't come back till 6, 11 o'clock."

Fame and prominence, on the other hand, slipped 25 percentage points in their desirability among students. "To get your name in lights is kind of stupid," says 14-year-old John Maatz, of Denver, Colo. He voted for personal happiness, which he defines as "becoming an architect."

Many young people say they're looking to gain self-respect and not recognition from others. Micky McConnell, 17, of Roseville, Calif., says fame and prominence conflict with his intent to lead "a very spiritual life. I want to work on getting myself to grow. You know, from within."

The group remaining roughly constant in both polls were those who say they want "to serve society." In the poll 30 years ago, 10 per cent voted for service to society; this year, 16 per cent do.

Most of the present respondents who choose service to society do so out of a deep sense of altruism. David Curry, 17, of South Carolina wants to serve society as a musician and an electronics technician. "These are communications fields," he says. "And we get people to communicate better — get them to exchange their ideas — than something good is accomplished."

Last Vietnamese refugees leave Army post for homes in Dixie

FT. INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa. (UPI) — To those who had known it as a bustling city of up to 16,000 persons during the last seven months, Ft. Indiantown Gap seems like a ghost town today.

The green and white barracks are empty and silent. The volleyball nets in the parking lot are gone and so are the sounds of children at play.

The last of 22,923 Vietnamese and Cambodian refugees who began coming to the camp in late May left Indiantown Gap this past Monday.

The families of two Vietnamese fishermen who arrived in camp last June 26 — Hoang Van Dan and eight relatives and Nguyen Van Tra and his 21 relatives — were the last ones out.

Dan was bound for New Orleans where a Catholic-parish sponsored the family. Tra was going to Foley, Ala., where he and other relatives had jobs in a fish processing plant.

Two of the children in the Nguyen family were U.S. citizens — a 7-month-old child born on Guam and a 3-month-old child born in the camp.

When the two families were leaving Harrisburg International Airport, a woman walked up to four of the Vietnamese men and pressed into their hands, white envelopes, each of which contained a $20 bill.

"I just love these people," she said. "The woman refused to give her name."

According to Lt. Matt Segal, a Defense Department spokesman, a total of 21,905 refugees came into the camp. There were 128 births and 10 deaths. All the deaths were from natural causes.

Segal said the total cost of running the camp over the seven-month period was about $15 million and the average cost per refugee each day was $19.50. The average time in camp was nine weeks.

He said 5,534 of the refugees who came to the Gap went to sponsors in Pennsylvania.

Although the local residents at first seemed to oppose having a refugee camp in Lebanon County, the reception turned out to be a warm one, Segal said.

"People in the county sponsored a total of about 320 refugees," he said. "That's about nine times the national rate."

Segal said Army workers will immediately begin to tear down partitions that were built in the barracks and begin cleaning the 18,000 mattresses used by the refugees.

By next summer, the camp once again will be a training center for Pennsylvania-National Guardsmen.

Christmas traditions still live

By CHRIS PECK
Times-News writer

Americans as a rule don't put much stock in traditions.

We change holidays for the convenience of three day weekends, we sever family ties by moving miles away from our parents and relatives, and we constantly ponder the future, forgetting yesterday's memories like an old newspaper.

But each December our trendy, faddish society renews dozens of the ancient traditions of Christmas.

Cutting a tree, singing carols, putting a garland on the mantle, sending Christmas cards, eating turkey, and going to midnight Christmas Eve services are traditions which started hundreds of years ago.

The first celebrations of Christmas contrary to what most people believe, did not occur until at least 200 years after Christ's death, historians say.

The December 25th celebration probably isn't tied to the exact birth of Christ, either. Instead, Christmas Day is closely tied to ancient celebrations of the winter solstice.

Probably the two oldest Christmas traditions still widely in use are the singing of Christmas songs and construction of nativity scenes.

"Oh Come All Ye Faithful," for example, dates back to the year 1250. The well known carol wasn't translated into an English version until this century.

In the year 1227, St. Francis of Assisi constructed the first nativity scene, or Creche, so his followers could relive the Christmas scene in Bethlehem of more than 1,800 years earlier.

By the mid-14th century, most European households had adopted the custom of cutting a Christmas tree and putting it in the house.

Santa Claus, although an outgrowth of St. Nicholas of the 4th century, wasn't widely associated with Christmas until the late Middle Ages.

In the early years of America, eating a Christmas turkey was already part of the yearly Christmas celebration. The Christmas turkey was a carryover from European custom of the Renaissance.

The United States ambassador to Mexico, Joel Roberts Poinsett, brought the first red-flowered poinsettias back to the U. S. in the 19th century.

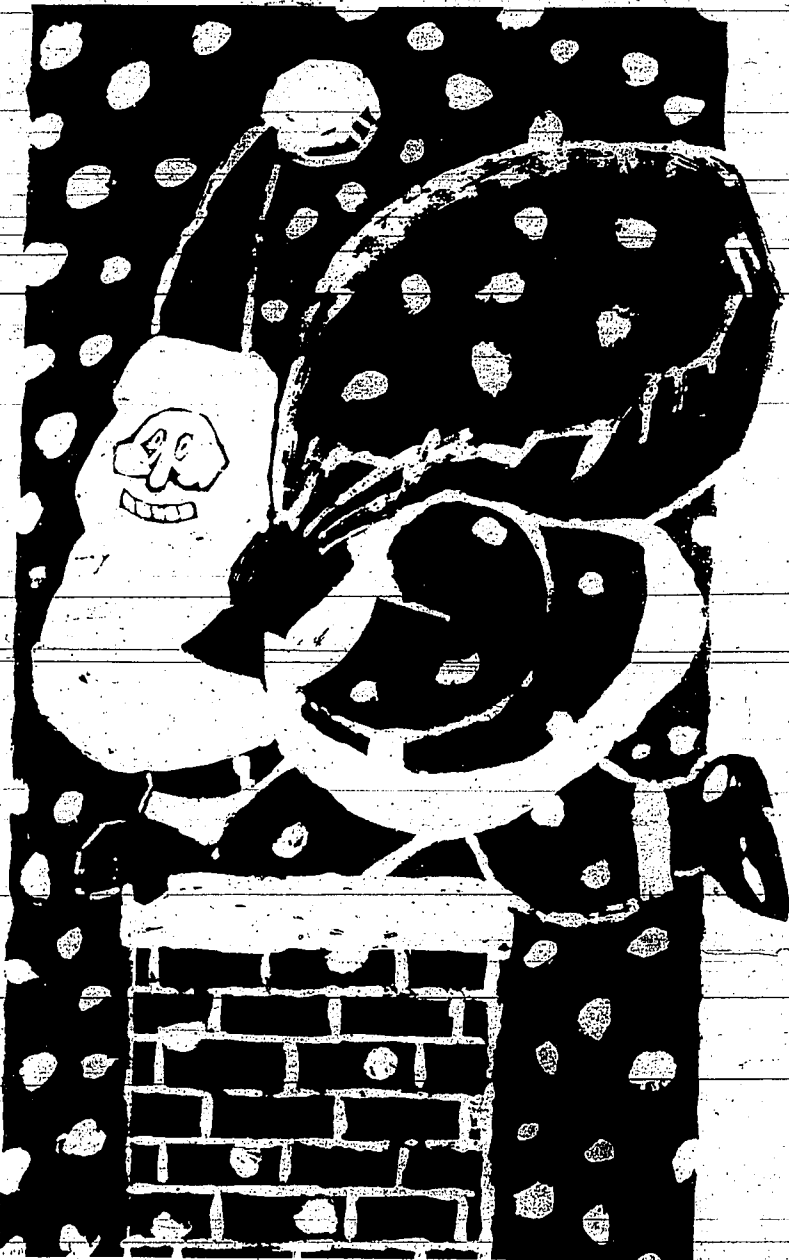

London historian Henry Cole drew the first known Christmas cards in 1843 with American printers popularizing Christmas cards in the 1860s.

Some traditions of Christmas have been lost in the modern era. Slightrides which thrilled young hearts at the turn of the century now are only memories, like gaudies on Christmas trees.

One last Christmas tradition still clings to this modern age. The spiritual aura of the Christmas season when families are given a dose of hope and optimism about the future, stubbornly refuses to buckle, from the predictions of human doom.

Nearly 1,800 years after the first celebration of Christmas modern men still issue a hopeful Christmas pledge for peace on earth, good will toward men.

Merry Christmas.

Prisoner seeks aid of inmate

BOISE (UPI) — Fourth District Judge W. E. Smith has ordered a new hearing for a prison inmate who claims he was denied the right to have fellow inmate Carl Cletus Bowles represent him in a classification hearing.

"Maybe this is a case where an inmate should have counsel," Judge Smith said Wednesday when he ordered the penitentiary to hear again inmate William Hughes Jr.'s request for reclassification from maximum security status.

Hughes, serving time for burglary, was one of eight inmates arrested last August during a drug raid at the prison and he was put in maximum security for possession of marijuana. Captain Josef Munch, chief of security for the prison, said Hughes declined Monday to accept

BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET

"We don't have any trouble making the ends meet - it's getting the middle together
that's the problem."

"Considering all the criticism being aimed at the Administration in some quarters, perhaps they should change the name of the edifice to the
"Why? House."

Flying would be lots more fun if they could eliminate take-offs and landings.

A man with time on his hands should tighten his wrist watch strap.

Hosts toast

John Davidson and Ed McMahon (left) toast with coffee cups on a recent "Tonight Show" appearance. Davidson returns to guest-host NBC-TV's "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson" this week.

... a series in the offing

BY ROBIN ADAMS SLOAN

Q: I saw Candy Bergen-host a TV talk show the other night and wondered why she doesn't do it more often and in a more serious way. She seems to be as bright as she is beautiful. — T.K., Phoenix, Ariz.

A: Candy Bergen, while not considered terribly intellectual, is one of Hollywood's most well-informed actresses. She is very interested in the idea of doing a talk show but only if it is on her terms and she can have control over who the guests will be.

Q: Don't you think that Kurt Vonnegut used his influence to help his son Mark get "The Eden Express" published? — D.W., N.Y., N.Y.

A: We're sure that Kurt didn't lean on a single publisher. The proof is that son Mark's book, about his battle with schizophrenia, was turned down by more than a dozen publishers before one agreed to take it on.

Q: Are they actually going to make a TV show on the life of Jesus Christ? — S.A., La Jolla, Calif.

A: Apparently so. It will be a British-Italian coventure and has already cast a spell on a couple of actors. Englishman Robert Powell, who will portray Christ, immediately set about getting legally hitched to the girl he had been living with.

On the day of his marriage Olivia Hussey, who has the Virgin Mary part, divorced her husband, Dino Martin (that's the son of Dean-Martin Sr.), and announced that she will avoid all male entanglements while preparing for the role.

MOOD INDIGO: Polly Bergen sent a gift of a mood ring to Barbra Streisand — one of those stones that goes from blue (when the wearer is happy) to green to yellow to black (for nerves and apprehension). Barbra's thank-you note said, "I have put it on and Jon is now cutting my hair and the ring is going from blue to black. Thanks a lot!" She was kidding, of course!

Q: Isn't it true that the marriage rate is going down and the divorce rate is going up and there is about one divorce now for every four marriages? — L.G., Sacramento, Calif.

A: The number of marriages is declining and divorces are on the rise but the gloomy figure is one divorce for every two marriages.

Q: Is Lee Hazziwill, Jackie Onassis' sister, expected to get married again? — O.Q., Columbia, Me.

A: There are some rumors of a mysterious older man who may figure in Lee's future marriage plans but the best bet is that she will marry American lawyer Peter Tufo, who has been her regular companion of late.

This would be Lee's third marriage, and the second for Mr. Tufo, who is 35 and six years younger than she is.

Q: Nancy Walker is the funniest woman on television. Why does she only get to play mothers and mads? — Z.L., Chicago, Ill.

A: Fred Silverman, ABC programming chief, agrees with you and has signed Nancy to a network contract in order to develop a series especially for her varied talents. Rhoda's replacement mother next season will probably be Vivian Vance, Lucy's popular old sidekick.

Q: Is Ireland still a tax haven for artists and writers? — X.C., San Antonio, Tex.

A: Yes. The Irish government still allows creative artists to live on the Emerald Isle without paying income taxes. But the political troubles in Ireland have prompted some artists to seek an alternative site and they may have found one in Sri Lanka, formerly Ceylon, where the prime minister, Mrs. Bandaranaike, has said she looks favorably on the idea.

Already Robin Maughan, nephew of the late W. Somerset Maughan, has announced plans to leave Ireland for that tropical island off the southern tip of India.

Q: Care you'll run the word whether Ezio Pinza's widow ever remarried and where she lives? — E.J., Pittsburg, Pa.

A: Mrs. Ezio Pinza never remarried and lives in Palos Verdes Estates in California. Their daughter Gloria, a brilliant scholar, attends Harvard Law School.

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: What's so peculiar about Julie Eisenhower's cookbook for children? Strangely enough

BANDARANAIKE

... Sri Lanka tax haven?

Julie never uses the Nixon name anywhere in the book. She also neglected to include a recipe from her mother, although she has a celebrity section with recipes from such people as Lynda Bird Johnson Robb.

Q: How come we don't get any details about the Burton-Taylor reconciliation. It used to be if Liz had her split ends trimmed we'd hear about it. — R.L., Wellesley, Mass.

A: You're right. There has been a shortage of details. And the reason? Both of the Burtons have sold their separate versions of the romantic story to publications. The bidding was hot and we know that the Ladies Home Journal won Liz's story by offering more than $50,000.

... on his own

Q: Have you heard anything about a stick-on pill? — S.C., Yuma, Ariz.

A: We understand the over-experimenting pharmaceutical people are planning to bring out a form of pill which can be taped against the skin (behind the ear for instance) instead of being taken orally.

This new pill for birth control or other purposes is being hailed as a boon to those who have trouble gagging down medication and is said to be even sweeter than the swallowing kind in getting its ingredients to your bloodstream.

Q: I can't help thinking what an unlikely match that is between New York's Gov. Hugh Carey and the Ford heiress Anne Uzielli. How did they get together and is it serious? — H.H., Minneapolis, Minn.

A: Phyllis Cerf Wagner, the wife of former New York Mayor Robert Wagner and Bennett Cerf's widow, introduced the couple.

Carey, a widower, told friends that he fell it was time to resume a public sort of social life. However, it's doubtful that this is a serious romance.

Carey is a church-going Catholic and Ms. Uzielli has been married twice. Besides, his kids hate the idea; particularly his daughters, who feel their father is "robbing the cradle" by dating a girl half his age.

Q: How do the people in Santa Fe, N.M., feel about John Ehrlichman living in their midst? — R.R., Lafayette, La.

feel about John Ehrlichman living in their midst? — R.R., Lafayette, La.

A: Many of them think he's a nuisance and bad news. Some locals blame recent incidence of vandalism on weirdos who came to Santa Fe to catch a glimpse of the Watergate celebrity.

Ehrlichman, who has stayed in Santa Fe for the past nine months, leaving his wife in Seattle, is said to like the town because everyone minds his own business. It may be that old John doesn't know the difference between respect for privacy and an ice cold shoulder.

Q: I liked the movie "Smile" which was about a beauty contest. I was wondering if they had the same kind of problems in the recent Miss World competition. — D.S., Wichita, Kan.

A: The Miss World extravaganza had its share of difficulties. Miss South Africa was disqualified for not having lived in South Africa long enough.

A group of French-speaking contestants refused to turn their backs to the judges because they said it made them feel like animals at an auction. This made Judge Oliver Reed, the actor, furious.

And the promoter, Englishman Eric Morley, was presented with a winner, Winifred Merced from Puerto Rico, who can't speak English although she must tour the world and talk at many functions where English is the accepted language of communication.

Q: Looking at some pictures of Liza Minnelli in a magazine I noticed she was wearing something that looked like a little gold ring on a chain around her neck. I couldn't figure it out. — C. McB., Houston, Tex.

A: That charm is a gift from writer Fred Ebb as a thank-you, present for stepping in and taking Gerd Verdon's place in the lead of the Broadway musical "Chicago" when Verdon had to go to the hospital. The charm isn't a ring. It's a solid gold Life Saver. Which is just what Liza was.

'Lifers' take on Christmas project

MENARD, Ill. (UPI) — Just like communities in the free society, Menard State Penitentiary has its pillars, and many of them are members of Lifers, Inc. The chartered nonprofit organization of felons engaged in philanthropies inside and outside the prison walls have 55 members. All of them will be around for a while. Lifers, less than a year old, this month put the finishing touches on its most ambitious project so far — sending 60,000 Christmas cards to penal institutions throughout the state.

"The Hallmark company contributed a little over 30,000 Christmas cards and we provided another 29,000," said John Knippenberg, 38, the Lifers president who is serving a 30-to-60-year sentence on a murder charge. The project will mean that each adult and juvenile under jurisdiction of the Illinois Department of Corrections will have at least six Christmas cards to mail to family and friends. Lifers Inc. at Menard had its origin after an inmate complained to Warden Thomas H. Israel that most of the prison's programs at that time overlooked the long-term offender.

Hammer, control?

JOSEPH H. Gerard's firm grip on the "Sunday Morning Special" and the severity of his expression indicate his feelings about hammer control. It's tongue in cheek, because what he's really talking about is gun control and no gun control. (UPI)

Campaign set to ban hammers

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Joe Gerard, a telephone company property records administrator, is leading a national campaign to ban hammers—what he calls the "Sunday Morning Special." Gerard, a life member of the National Rifle Association, formed the Committee Opposed to Hammers, in an attempt to salarize forces working for stronger gun control laws.

"The main purpose is to try to show the nonsense of any sort of restriction on any item—particularly firearms," Gerard said. "FBI statistics show 99.6 per cent of all firearms owners have never been charged with a crime."

"It is ridiculous to ban firearms on the grounds that it's going to reduce the crime rate. My hope is to demonstrate the idea of gun control is just as ridiculous as that of hammer control."

So, Gerard has been collecting hammers. His campaign calls for law-abiding citizens to turn in their hammers to local police. "Hammer hazards were first drawn to my attention when I read the Consumer Product Safety Commission fact sheet number 75," Gerard said. "It discussed injuries associated with hammers and I found out more than 30,000 persons received hospital emergency room treatment for such injuries."

Gerard said it was then he discovered the viciousness of some hammers, particularly the cheap imported cast iron ball-peen type.

"It's easily concealed, can be obtained easily, cannot even pull nails and serves only to beat things, mostly thumbs," Gerard said.

"I think the term 'Sunday Morning Special' particularly applies, considering those who get into the most trouble with hammers often do so on Sunday mornings, when they should be in church."

More seriously, Gerard said his study of gun control has shown it does not work.

"In New York, one of the strictest gun control states, the crime rate continues to rise annually," Gerard said. "In Massachusetts, which has just enacted strong controls, it seems to be serving more of a hardship on law-abiding citizens than deterring crime."

If, his ban the hammer campaign catches on, Gerard said: "I'll call for the outlawing of nails."
