

Special report in Sunday's T-N

When the Japanese attacked the U. S. fleet at Pearl Harbor a kind of frenzy seized the West Coast. Fearing sabotage by Japanese sympathizers, a decision was made to uproot people of Japanese heritage, including American citizens, and ship them to guarded camps inland.

About 10,000 persons from the Seattle and Portland areas were shipped to Hunt, Idaho, where they endured dust, economic and social deprivation.

Yotchi (Ted) Matsuda and his wife Fumi were among those who came to Hunt.

During the evacuation and his stay at Hunt, he kept notes in his personal diary, a document the Times-News believes is of historical and literary importance. Ted's "Evacuation Diary" begins Sunday in the Times-News.

Offensive launched

By United Press International
Despite heavy casualties, anti-Soviet forces in Angola have launched a major offensive to capture a strategic railroad in the eastern part of the country, according to a national movement leader.

In Moscow, the Soviet Union Thursday again defended its Angolan involvement and indicated it would continue to support the Marxist Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola.

George Sangumba, foreign secretary for the Union for the Total Independence of Angola said Thursday in Lusaka, Zambia, his troops are pushing forward in the sparsely populated eastern part of Angola to capture the border town of Teixeira-de-Sousa on the important British-owned Benguela railroad.

Other sources said mechanized South African forces were helping in the attempt to dislodge the Soviet-backed Popular Movement from its last major stronghold along the vital railroad.

Union leader Jonas Savimbi said his forces suffered enormous losses in fighting in the east, mainly from barrages of mobile Soviet-built rocket batteries.

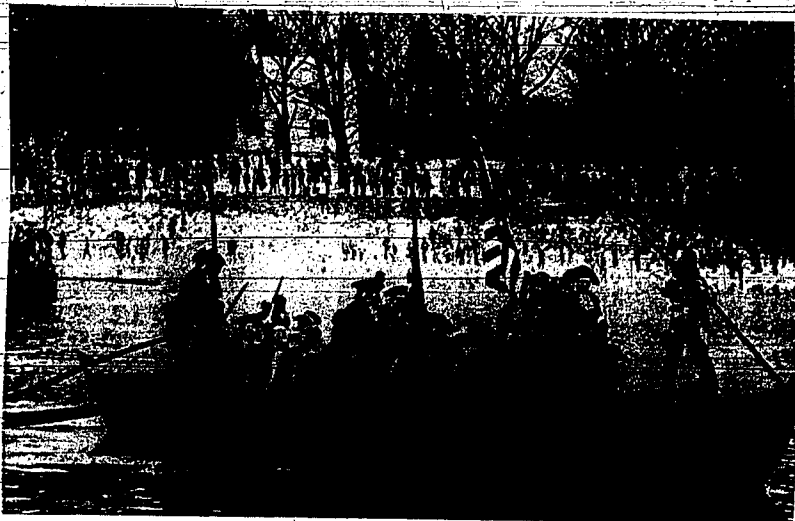

Union forces total some 20,000 men in Angola, many of them unarmed.

Sangumba also said the Jan. 10 meeting of the Organization of African Unity meeting in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, would be a failure unless states that have recognized the Popular Movement as Angola's legitimate government came to the table in a flexible mood.

The Kremlin remarks were apparently in response to warnings from Secretary of State Henry Kissinger that continued Soviet involvement in Angola could harm U.S.-Soviet relations.

"It is quite natural that assistance to the (Popular Movement) should be continued," said an article in the government newspaper, Izvestia.

The statement — which can be taken to reflect Soviet thinking — was softer than a similar article Wednesday that described Angolan aid as "an important principle" of Soviet foreign policy and scolded those who sought to misinterpret the Moscow attitude.

WITH a crowd of some 2,500 watching from the Pennsylvania shoreline, Washington's 1776 crossing of the Delaware River north of Trenton is re-enacted by 75 participants in colonial dress Thursday. The original crossing caught by surprise Hessian troops celebrating Christmas in Trenton and the resultant colonial victory marked a turning point in the revolution. (UPI)

Syria cracks down on reds

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Syria, a longtime recipient of military aid from the Soviet Union, has launched a crackdown on the Communist party, according to reports today in Cairo's three Arabic-language dailies.

The reports also said Syria has asked the United States for food supplies for 1976.

The reports were printed on the front page of the newspapers Al-Ahram, Al-Akhar and Al-Gomhouria. Al-Akhar attributed the story to news agencies, but the other two cited it as a special.

Mao Tse-tung 82 today

HONG KONG (UPI) — Chairman Mao Tse-tung, frail and in falling health but still in command of the world's most populous nation, today marked his 82nd birthday.

The official New China News Agency did not mention Mao's birthday and apparently no special events were held in Peking to celebrate the occasion.

President Ford and a dozen or more other foreign leaders who met in Moscow this year will talk about how well he looks physically for a man of his age and how mentally alert he seems.

Thailand delays withdrawal

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Thailand is attempting to delay the withdrawal of U.S. combat forces set for next spring because of border problems with its Indochina neighbors, military sources said today.

Without referring to specific borders, Defense Minister Pramarn Adireksarn said the U.S. pullout must be "step by step."

Thailand's primary difficulties focus on the Mekong River boundary with Laos. Thailand unilaterally closed the border Nov. 17 when Pathet Lao soldiers fired on a Thai navy patrol boat, killing one officer.

Too efficient

RUPERT — Too much efficiency has left Minidoka County with the wrong kind of postage stamps.

Anticipating an increase in first class mail rates to 13 cents, Minidoka County Assessor Scott Irwin ordered hundreds of 13-cent stamps from area post offices a few weeks ago.

But a court injunction last week indefinitely blocked the first class increase to 13 cents, leaving postal patrons with the 10-cent stamps and leaving Minidoka County with a huge surplus of 13-cent stamps.

Assessor Irwin took his problem to the Minidoka County commissioners Monday. The commissioners decided to hold on to the 13-cent stamps in anticipation of a future rate increase.

In the meantime, Irwin was asked to order a few hundred 10-cent stamps to keep Minidoka County offices stocked until the 13-cent stamps can be used.

Christmas ends too soon

By United Press International
As always, Christmas Day seemed to end too soon.

During the 23-hour period when much of the world celebrated the birth of Jesus Christ, eyes were cast to the sky where violence has become a way of life enjoyed by a temporary peace.

In Israel-occupied Bethlehem, about 15,000 persons visited the traditional birthplace of Jesus Christ. Israeli troops observed the throng from the roofs of churches. It was the largest group of visitors since Israel captured the town in the June, 1967, Middle East war.

Pope Paul told 90,000 persons in Vatican City young people are turning to Christ for answers not found in the materialistic world, which has lost its glitter.

"The emptiness, young people, has devastated you, and an intimate and powerful longing has brought you back, almost unconsciously, to the sphere of our faith which cannot be rejected. Come to the faith you who are weary and find life burdensome, and I will refresh you," the pontiff said in his annual Christmas Day message from St. Peter's Square.

Beirut, Lebanon, was quiet on Christmas, but the effect of months of civil warfare between Christians and Moslems was felt. A child accustomed to the street battles asked if Santa Claus had been killed or kidnapped. About 6,000 persons have been killed and 12,000 wounded in the fighting since April. Beirut radio broadcast Christmas carols — and the gunmen spent 4 grim days behind barricades.

Security precautions were in effect but no real fighting was reported Christmas Day. The comparatively peaceful day came in the wake of a left-wing guerrilla attack on an Argentine army arsenal which ended early Wednesday. More than 100 persons were reported killed.

In the United States, Americans reduced the presents under their Christmas trees to piles of opened boxes and torn paper.

Special yule gifts

MAGIC VALLEY — Christmas babies were special gifts to four Magic Valley area families this year.

Hospital officials report that sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Rex Hansen, Twin Falls, and to Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler O'Harrow, Rupert, and daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Lynch, Jerome, and to Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Mercado, Burley, all on Christmas Day.

Comedian starts fast

ATLANTA (UPI) — Comedian and civil rights activist Dick Gregory has begun a seven-day fast at an Atlanta church with a prediction that food riots are in the nation's near future.

Gregory said in an interview the riots would occur during the next six months because many Americans are too poor to feed themselves.

"And if that happens," he added, "this country can kiss their Blethenstein good-bye." Some 120 persons, including boxer Muhammad Ali, rock music star Stevie Wonder, actors Richard Dreyfuss and Ryan O'Neal, and California Congressman Ronald Dellums are expected to join Gregory during parts of the hunger strike which began Christmas Day at the West Hunter Street Baptist Church.

Rev. Ralph Abernathy, pastor of the church and president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, also is scheduled to participate.

"We are just thankful to Ralph Abernathy for letting us use his church," said Gregory. He said most of the 120 persons who have said they will join the strike are students.

"What we are doing in this weeklong fast through New Year's Day is attempting to dramatize the food crisis which exists not only in the world but right here in America," Gregory said.

He said he would like to see a federal law passed that will allow Americans to purchase staples, such as beans and rice, for 10 cents, with the government subsidizing the remaining costs.

He also proposed a cabinet post, "secretary of food and nutrition," to be established to deal with food problems.

Gregory said he plans to run from Los Angeles to New York City early next year in an effort to focus attention on food problems. He said he will arrive in New York March 30 and expects to leave Los Angeles July 4.

Jerome bombing probe continues

By CHARLOTTE BELL
and CHRIS PECK
Times-News writers

JEROME — Police are still looking for a motive and bomb experts are still examining the evidence in a bombing which seriously injured a Jerome man Tuesday.

Jerome Police Chief Howard Dubois said today his office has yet to establish a motive for the blast which sent Robert Miller flying from his pickup Tuesday night.

Miller's pickup was destroyed and the Jerome man suffered severe leg injuries and cuts from a bomb which exploded as he sat in his truck Tuesday night in a parking lot near the Jerome Bowling Alley.

State arson and bomb inspector Dan Kelley, Shoshone, said today the bomb was a "large charge" capable of killing Miller.

Kelley would not confirm the bomb was a black powder device, saying that he is still examining the evidence and will wait for the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Laboratory in Salt Lake City to determine the type of explosive used.

Kelley said by the time he arrived at the scene of the bombing, chemical fire retardants had been used on the pickup which obscured any smell of a black powder charge if that was the type of explosive used.

If a black powder bomb was used in the explosion, Kelley said, whoever set the bomb would not have needed to know much about demolition.

"We've had 15-year-old kids build black powder bombs," he said.

A bomb investigator from the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms office in Salt Lake City has been requested to enter the case but has not yet arrived in Jerome, Kelley said.

Both Kelley and Police Chief Dubois said the case is unusual for Idaho but that many unfounded rumors surround the bombing.

"Everybody is trying to ask questions that would match this case to TV shows," Kelley said.

The injured Miller was X-rayed this morning in St. Benedict's Hospital and is listed in serious but stable condition.

Palestinian talks asked

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Defense Minister Shimon Peres today called for talks with the Palestinians, but warned that the Palestine Liberation Organization was "doomed to destruction."

WHILE most Magic Valley people spent Christmas Day relaxing with their families, there were a number of people on the job making the holiday a safe, enjoyable time. Times-News photographer Lou Freeman also was at work, bringing recognition to some of these forgotten people. See his photo report on page 13.

Jerome woman wins wager over biblical 'proof'

JEROME — A Jerome woman apparently has won her wager that there is no biblical proof that Christ was born on Dec. 25.

Mrs. Slape said today she had received telephone calls from across the nation, including some from Tennessee, Pennsylvania and Illinois. "All are favorable," she said. "They are all agreeing with me."

Mrs. Slape's offer to pay $1,000 to anybody who could show her a Bible verse which set Christ's birth on Dec. 25 had received national attention after it was first reported in the Times-News.

Some of the letters "have literature that isn't scriptural that is supposed to prove the true date of Christ's birth," she added. "But they are coming up with different dates. They don't all agree."

"The people have been pleasant and some of them have talked quite a length of time on long distance."

"I'm rather surprised," Mrs. Slape said. "I rather supposed there would be some angry people call."

Asked how long she intended to maintain the cash offer, she said, "There's no need to recall it. I'm not worried because I know there is no scripture."

Mrs. Slape's offer was published Tuesday by the Times-News and distributed nationwide by United Press International.

She said the offer was made to "get some people to do some searching. My objective is to get at the truth... too many people believe error."

Critical of the Watergate affair and "falsehoods in our government," Mrs. Slape said, "It is time for all of us to be more responsible about anything we think is true."

Man wounded by yule gift
 PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — Larry Johns says the model cannon he gave his wife for Christmas is "really dangerous," even though he ended up in a hospital because of it.
 "I just wasn't using my head," said Johns, 31, of Hanna City, Ill. "It was my fault."
 Johns said he started to play with the cannon around midnight Christmas Eve and couldn't get it to fire.
 "It's like an old-time cannon where you touch the match to the powder in the hole. But it didn't fire. Somehow it sparked or something while I was trying to disarm it and it went off," he said.
 Johns said he shot a knot of paper wadding into the palm of his hand and doctors had to clean out the wound, then suture it.
 "Sure it penetrated," he said. "You put enough velocity behind anything and it'll penetrate."
 Doctors said the wound was not serious. Johns said he did not know the cannon's maker. He said most of them are "thought for make pieces, for a decorating thing."
 "I'll leave it at the corner now," he said, adding he probably will not try to light it again.

Truck rolls at Paul
 PAUL, — A Heyburn resident was listed in good condition in Minidoka hospital this morning after his milk truck rolled over early Wednesday morning.
 Velyn R. Amen, 39, Heyburn, suffered a compound fracture of the left leg in the accident.
 Amen was driving an Associated Dairies of Boise milk truck north on 8th W. Road about 6 a.m. Wednesday. The truck hit a dry spot about two and one-half miles north of Paul, slid off the road and rolled one time.
 The truck tore out about $50 worth of fence owned by George M. Watson, Rupert. Damage to the truck was estimated at $1,000.

Family observes holiday despite loss of home
 SALMON — Mr. and Mrs. James Stackpole of Salmon lost their home and all but a few belongings in a fire Dec. 18.
 Thanks to their friends, co-workers and the community they were able to say: "We had a Merry Christmas. There are some wonderful people here. There is no way we can ever show our appreciation or thanks for what they have done for us."
 Everything they owned, except a couple beds and a dresser, were lost in the fire that destroyed their four-bedroom home.
 Friends and employees raised some $450 to assist the Stackpoles and they were taken in by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burke at their home.
 The Stackpoles have two sons, Kenneth, 12,

hospitals
 Harold, 11, and a daughter, Theresa, 9. They spent Christmas with Mrs. Stackpole's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scheibling.
 After Christmas they plan to move into a three-room log house offered them by Glen Stevens, Salmon.
 The fire at the Stackpole home developed when Kenneth attempted to start a fire in the kitchen stove with gasoline to heat his father's supper.
 Stackpole was finishing his shift at The Intermountain Co. sawmill and Mrs. Stackpole was at work as a cook at the Salmon River Cafe.
 Besides the money collected by individuals and organizations, clothing and food also have been donated to assist them.

New Gallup poll gives Ford lift
 VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — Buoyed by a family reunion and a new Gallup poll showing an upswing in his job performance rating, President Ford cheerfully admits to more play than work during his Christmas vacation in the Rockies.
 "It's good to get away and get a little relaxation," Ford told reporters Thursday between ski runs. "I'll be fresh when I go back to Washington on Tuesday."
 Midway through an eight-day sojourn at this mountain resort, Ford said he has been spending about three hours a day skiing and about 2 1/2 hours of golf business.
 The rest of his time has been enjoyed with his family — all four Ford children are on hand — and attending Christmas parties.
 Both Ford and his friends say he has never skied before. The President himself appeared fit and unworried about the challenge from former Gov. Ronald Reagan of California for the 1976 Republican presidential nomination.
 White House press secretary Ron Nessen said Ford got a Christmas bonus with his wife's latest Gallup poll — taken just after his return from China — that showed his job performance rating has jumped by five points.
 The President told reporters in a brief chat at the top of Vail Mountain the best part of Christmas was "having all the family together. It was a nice get-together under the tree."
 The Fords, who attended church services Christmas eve, were up early in the morning to exchange gifts under the ceiling-high tree in their borrowed, Swiss-style chalet. The President, who had hinted he needed a turn-lens jersey for Christmas, said he got a dozen.
 He also was delighted with a fresh snowfall, which vastly improved skiing conditions.
 Asked how he arranged for it, Ford grinned. "I have a special connection."
 He said skiing "couldn't be better."
 "Feel great," he said. "I haven't been winded or had any weariness in my legs. I've never been in better shape."
 Ford skied with a large retinue of Secret Service agents, ski patrolmen and friends on a slope that had been closed off for him.
 Described by friends as an "advanced intermediate" skier, Ford said he hoped to make some runs with the U.S. Olympic ski team when it comes to Vail.
 Mrs. Ford found a ski outfit from her husband under the Christmas tree but it turned out to be "too tight," according to her press secretary, Sheila Woldenick.
 "First-family gifts ran mostly to books and clothes — although for youngest son Steve, who has worked as a ranch hand and ridden in rodeos, there was a down payment on a new saddle."
 In the evening, the family and a few White House staffers lapped for a turkey dinner with the trimmings, topped off with peach pie a la mode.

Leaders can't rely on polls

Two of the nation's best known polling services have contradicted themselves on who is the most popular presidential candidate in the early going of the 1976 campaign.

A Gallup poll released Tuesday showed Ronald Reagan and President Ford easily defeating Hubert H. Humphrey for President. Only two days later, the Harris pollsters had announced the Minnesota Senator could comfortably beat either Ford or Reagan.

The Gallup poll suggests one third of the American voters switched their presidential preference in less than a month.

When polls show exactly opposite results in such a short time frame, the credibility of the polling process as a true indicator of American preferences must be questioned.

Statistically the accuracy of polling services has been good but every poll has one serious flaw. The preferences expressed in a poll cannot be guaranteed to stand up for more than a day. Since polls are taken only sporadically their significance as a long-term indicators of public sentiment is seriously hampered.

Unfortunately, politicians have come to rely on polls as an almighty source of information.

Politicians reason the polls are a reflection of what the electorate wants. When a poll shows a switch in public sentiment, many politicians are quick to adjust their gears.

President Ford vetoed the common situs picketing bill, for example, after a poll showed Ronald Reagan would gain political strength if Ford signed the bill into law.

His veto came only days after he assured labor leaders and his own Secretary of Labor that he would sign the bill.

Last year in Oklahoma a woman state senator tearfully changed her mind on the Equal Rights Amendment vote in the state legislature, after a poll showed her constituents wanted the ERA turned back.

That vote came even though the legislator had been a strong backer of the ERA.

In Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus has said he wouldn't take an official position on the coal-fired generating plant south of Boise until he saw the requests of the Idaho tomorrow poll which he hoped would reflect Idahoans' preferences on the Pioneer plant.

Unfortunately for the governor, the Idaho Tomorrow poll showed the state-split evenly: split on the coal-fired plant, apparently leaving him with a tough decision to make without knowing the political ramifications of supporting or opposing the plant.

When politicians begin using polls as their major tool in formulating policy, the democratic process breaks down.

The responsible elected official doesn't wait for the results of a poll to make his stand. Taking an unpopular stand, one which polls indicate is politically damaging, sometimes is necessary for the good of the people or because a man has to stand by what he thinks is right no matter what.

At their best, polls only suggest what part of the people probably thought about an issue two or three weeks ago. Leaders who have no deeper vision that the latest results of a poll shouldn't be given the power to govern.

In the long run, the public usually ignores and discards politicians who only regurgitate the rhetoric which he believes people want to hear.

A year for tidying up after old blunders

WASHINGTON - In a few days, 1975 will be gone, another drop of time, and most Americans seem to be saying "good riddance."

It was mainly a year of tidying up after old blunders and extravaganzas: of high prices, unemployment and inflation, of sweeping away the stench of Vietnam and Watergate, all useful work, long delayed.

Years have harder tasks than listening to a whisper or a sigh. Stephen Vincent Benet wrote in 'The Golden Corpse' but mainly 1975 whispered and sighed. Like many previous years, it knew what it didn't want, but not what it wanted, and it didn't produce a single memorable speech or exciting vision of the Coming Age.

The year was overshadowed on New Year's Eve with the collapse of Justice William O. Douglas, who had served on the Supreme Court of the United States for 36 years, longer than any other member in the long history of the high bench.

On New Year's Day, four former members of the Nixon administration - John Mitchell, H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman, and Robert C. Marlowe - were indicted by a jury on all counts in the Watergate cover-up trial. It was a symbol of the past that was going, but nobody knew what was coming.

The rest of the year was much the same: Nothing fundamental changed, but everything seemed in the process of changing. There was almost no movement in the relations between the United States, the Soviet Union and China, because nobody knew in these three capitals who would be in charge a year or so from now.

1975 was a reminder of the fragility of human life and power. It buried Franco in Spain, Chiang Kai-shek in China, and Haile Selassie in Ethiopia, the last of the leaders of the Thirties. In Portugal, 1975 saw the last of the old empires. In Bangladesh and Chad, it saw the murders of new leaders and foreshadowed the coming struggles of the new independent states. In India, it saw the daughter of Nehru, presiding over "the largest democracy" in the world, seize dictatorial power.

Nothing disastrous happened in 1975 to change the balance of power or sanity in the world, but everything seemed "a little shaky." The economies of the free nations were so wracked by inflation and unemployment, that many thoughtful men and women wondered in public whether democracy could withstand the pressures.

Still, there were some modest gains in 1975. If it didn't make things much better, it didn't make them much worse. It was a year of caretakers in world politics, concentrating on stopping bad things rather than on venturing new things, and it made some progress or at least negotiated some compromises.

In the Middle East, there was a partial withdrawal of Israeli forces in the Sinai, and the Suez Canal was opened to world commerce for the first time in eight years. The British people voted to stay in the European Common Market, which was much better than if they had pulled out.

Also, the United States, Canada, Europe and the Soviet Union met in Helsinki and signed a declaration of political and personal principles, which may mean nothing now, but is at least a benchmark for political judgment in the future. And at the end of the year, the major industrial powers were meeting together, and talking with the oil-producing powers, the underdeveloped nations, and even with the basket cases about prices, raw materials, money and other common problems.

It is, of course, slightly goofy to engage in calendar-worship. Life is too long and complicated to be divided and analyzed usefully by mathematical years; historically, 1975 had its special uses.

For depending on how you read the calendar, it was the last year of the third quarter of the most violent century in the history of the human family, and alternatively, the third quarter of all that has been at least better than the first quarter with World War I, or the second quarter with World War II and the Great Depression.

Also, philosophically, the years are useful, for at least they make us pause for a moment where we are and where we're going. Maybe the most important thing about 1975 in the United States is that 1976 may not have been as boring as we thought. Even if they haven't settled anything in these last 12 months, they have been analyzing everything - maybe subjecting life to more analysis than it can bear.

To talk to any thoughtful person, you know, whether old or young, about the family, the church, the schools, the press, or politics, and you find that they are troubled but also that they are searching.

This is a profoundly disturbing experience, which can either tear us apart, or after great turmoil, bring us together. So far, you just about out of the coat of 1975, and no more in the world has dared to look at the conflicts of private and common life so severely.

The issues of abortion and busing, the constitutional conflicts between the privacy of the individual and the freedom of the press, the struggle between the Federal executive and the legislature over the conduct of foreign policy in the area of Cyprus, the requirements and dangers of the CIA and, the FBI in a violent world all these have been under the most searching microscope in the history of the world.

They have raised great doubts. They have eroded our optimism and even another. But as Walter Cronkite says, "That's the way it is" at the end of 1975.

It wasn't our best year, but at least we struggled.

Protest from O'Leary

Editor, Times-News:

I & the students of Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School are writing to Chris Peck concerning the article he submitted in the Sunday, Dec. 7, 1975 edition of the Times-News. We are deeply offended by many of his statements. The information he received about our school was not correctly quoted. The picture of junior high students portrayed in the article is misinforming the public. Individual cases do not reflect the true image of junior high students.

Mr. Peck's implications are totally pessimistic: without showing an optimistic viewpoint. The undersigned are students concerned with your view of junior high students because you are incorrectly influencing public opinion.

Letters

Possible ties questioned

Editor, Times-News:

Open letter to the Twin Falls Police Department: Voters remember this when you cast your next ballot.

On August 1, 1975 at about 8, I was in the vicinity of North Street and First Street East. I had stopped at the stop sign at this location, and my car battery went dead. I couldn't pull over to the curb due to the fact that there were two girls on bicycles also stopped there.

I left my car at the stop button and proceeded on foot to the Lynwood Shopping Center to use a pay-phone to summon assistance. To my dismay, the pay phone was out of order so I proceeded to the pharmacy at Penny Wise Drug. The phone there was busy so I had to wait my turn and when I was able to use the phone, I was unable to reach my party.

I then returned to the location where I had left my car and found it gone. I went to the Twin Falls Police Department and was informed that since I had parked my car in the middle of the street it has been impounded at Silgar's Northwest Crane and Rigging Co.

I went to the house there to inquire about my car only to find that Silgars had sold out their towing and wrecking business to a party named Dave Samsen.

I went to a pay phone on Addison Ave. West and dialed Samsen's phone number. I was informed that there was a towing charge due on my car of $15.00 plus $1.50 for outside storage making a total of $16.50 - all because of a dead storage battery.

To make matters worse, the driver of the towing service didn't want to release my car until Monday morning. I held out the $16.50 in the palm of my hand and the driver didn't want to give me a receipt for the amount of the towing service so I refused to give him the cash until he did.

Is the Twin Falls Police Department, in cahoots with the towing service? S. N. FALCON Twin Falls.

Unity sought

Editor, Times-News:

Each veteran must realize that without unity and a strong voice, our benefits could be taken away with the stroke of a pen as was done after World War I.

We cannot let this happen. We need you, your past needs and most importantly, your dependents' welfare must be considered. The Nation's economy is, as you know, very unstable. National legislators have long looked towards cutting the budget as well as consolidating the VA with Health and Welfare. Do we as veterans want this to happen?

We can't just stand still. For this to happen the veterans organizations needs the support of all veterans or all our benefits are going down the drain. Whether you believe in it or not, we will defend ourselves and join the Veterans of Foreign Wars and help our legislative officers to be able, by being strong membership wise so they will have the power when they go before the legislative body with a bill that should be passed to our benefit.

Proper dress for worship

Editor, Times-News:

This is an open letter to women who wear short skirts and other sexy apparel to church.

For those of you who spend much of your time futilely tugging at your skirts as though you could stretch it over your knees, you could very easily solve the problem by wearing a skirt that is long enough to begin with. Then there are those who make no pretense at all.

To many, this type of clothing is distracting. To others who take their religion seriously, it is very disgusting.

It's a simple matter to understand what a church is for. Then it should also be easy to understand what a church is not for, such as a place for sexual enticements and glorification of one's own body. Many of us who disagree with such things, do not readily agree that the human body is beautiful and so is sex, in its proper place. But there is a proper place.

Of course, this is being said in the belief that God does exist and that the church is a gathering place for worshipping Him and learning more of Him, as well as a place for spiritual fellowship, rather than just a gathering place for social activities.

Shouldn't our churches have some kind of dress code concerning the wearing of scanty clothes or will they continue to sacrifice principle for the sake of convenience?

Simply treading on this problem won't solve it. If our church leaders continue to allow these things in their churches, then why should they bother to call the church, "The House of God?" ROGER ROBINSON Twin Falls

Snowfall brings travel headaches

By United Press International
 But it was a dreary Christmas in many places. Snow and freezing rain made travel hazardous in more than half a dozen states under skies casting a pall.
 Temperatures fell well below zero in New England and New York, although generally light piled up in the already snowpacked area. Up to two feet of snow was on the ground from a series of storms that swept through much of New England early this week.
 The band of snow stretched from the Northeast to the mountains of the West and dipped into southern Missouri, northern Arkansas, eastern Oklahoma and northern Texas.
 At Madill, Okla., the weight of 12 inches of snow caused the roof of an automobile dealership to collapse, damaging or destroying 20 cars.
 Oklahoma City had its first white Christmas since 1942. Light snow fell most of Wednesday and early Thursday but melted away by late afternoon. There have been only six previous Christmas days that snow fell in Oklahoma City since the National Weather Service began keeping records in 1890.
 The weather service said a foot of snow blocked highways at Mena, Ark., and 10 inches fell at Hartford and Waldron, Ark., topping trees and power lines. Telephone service was interrupted in several western Arkansas communities.
 Rain-and-temperatures-in-the 30s and 40s washed most of the snow away later Thursday, particularly in central Arkansas. Streets were clear.
 A tornado hit the small southern Alabama community of Silver Hill, tearing down power lines, ripping the tops off trees and damaging houses and barns. No injuries were reported.
 Strong winds kicked up high seas on the Gulf of Mexico, sinking two boats off the Louisiana coast. Seven men were rescued but one was reported missing.

Mild weather slows fuel use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Natural gas still will not be as plentiful this year as last, but warmer than usual weather in November and early December indicate shortages will not be as severe as initially forecast, according to the Federal Energy Administration.
 What shortages that do occur are not expected to hit homeowners or small commercial customers but will fall upon industries and electric utilities which are readily switch to an alternative fuel, the FEA said Thursday.
 FEA Administrator Frank Zarb said in a statement that the possibility of industrial shutdowns still exists in some areas — notably North Carolina, Ohio and Pennsylvania — because increased supplies may not meet needs.
 He said an onset of severely cold weather could put a serious strain on supplies, particularly propane for North Carolina, Ohio, South Carolina, Tennessee and West Virginia.
 But, Zarb said, "the gas supply and alternative fuel outlook have significantly improved" in Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey and Virginia.

Stages destroyed

FIREMEN pour water as bulldozers move through the ruin of two sound stages at the Samuel Goldwyn Studios in Hollywood Thursday. There were no injuries but damages were estimated at $3 million. The stages destroyed were used for the popular TV series "Cannon" and "Barnaby Jones."

$3 million fire destroys stages

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — A $3 million fire destroyed the sets of the television series "Cannon" and "Barnaby Jones" Thursday, the flames racing through two sound stages at the Samuel Goldwyn Studios so fast a fireman compared it to "lighting a Christmas tree."
 There were no injuries. It was the second major fire on the lot in less than two years and the third in 18 years.
 Except for one guard, James Velthuis, the studio lot was deserted when the fire broke out in one of the lot's eight 100-by-300 foot stages, which resemble airplane hangars, and spread to another.
 "Both sound stages were just completely destroyed," Velthuis said. "The whole 'Cannon' set was in there — his apartment, his office. It's all been destroyed. 'Barnaby Jones' was shot there too and that set's gone."
 The lot's history dates back to the heyday of silent films in the 1920s, when it was Pickfair Studios, owned by Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks.
 In the 1930s it was the United Artists lot. Movie mogul Samuel Goldwyn bought it in 1939 and Howard Hughes made films there in the 1940s.

Ex-Kennedy aide sniffs at story

BOSTON (UPI) — Kenneth P. O'Donnell, an aide to the late President John F. Kennedy, says the allegations linking Kennedy to Judith Campbell Exner is just a "sex story."

"It's just a sex story now and not a very good one at that," O'Donnell, appointments secretary of Kennedy and chief of his White House staff, said in an interview with the Boston Herald American.

He referred to allegations that Mrs. Exner had a close, personal relationship with Kennedy's "bodyguard" and "fixer." She leaped into the national spotlight when the Senate Intelligence Committee learned she knew Kennedy at the same time she also had close connection with two alleged Mafia figures, reportedly recruited by the CIA in a plan to assassinate President Fidel Castro of Cuba.

During a news conference, Mrs. Exner said she talked with Kennedy more than 70 times on the telephone, lunched with him about 20 times in the White House and met him in several places, including Florida.

"Even Jacqueline Kennedy didn't have lunch 20 times with the President in the White House. As for the phone calls, that's a different matter, but just as ridiculous. Some gal in California would call Evelyn Lincoln (Kennedy's secretary) and ask to speak to the President, Evelyn Lincoln, a nice lady, would take a call from anybody. But that doesn't mean the caller actually spoke to the President," O'Donnell said.

On one occasion Bobby Kennedy and Vice President Lyndon Johnson had access to the President's office without first getting clearance from me. Every morning I would receive the list of phone calls he had received the night before. I never heard of this woman who now insinuates she had been his mistress.

"She admits she is going to write a book. That's what this is all about. In a way, it's similar to Fanne Foxe and Wilbur Mills. But they were caught and pictures were taken. The President and this girl were never caught because, in my opinion, there was nothing to catch. And there certainly were no pictures.

O'Donnell also denied the claim of the former Hollywood nightclub hostess that she (O'Donnell) has been aware of her relationship with the President.

"I never met the woman and I never talked with her. I had forgotten about her until I was asked several weeks ago by Sen. Frank Church's Senate Intelligence Committee who she was."

"The committee had subpoenaed material from the JFK Library in Washington which included a memo former FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover had sent to Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy and me about the President's association with an 'unidentified friend' of two Chicago hoodlums.

"I had never shown the memo to the President and had forgotten about it. In these days, you'll remember we were on the verge of a nuclear war. We were on a head-on confrontation with the Soviet Union. I received about 500 memos a day and I certainly didn't show all of them to the President.

"Besides, knowing that Atty. Gen. Kennedy and Hoover knew of the alleged association I assumed a memo was for my information only," O'Donnell said.

He added, "As for the second memo, Hoover is said to have given JFK warning about the woman's hoodlum connections. I also attended that luncheon and saw no memo. I was called away for about two minutes to answer a phone call pertaining to national security but I can't believe Hoover slipped Kennedy the memo while I was gone. It doesn't make sense," O'Donnell said.

Heavenly landlords

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Although the Christmas star is not on the list, the Maryland Academy of Science is selling real estate this holiday season that is literally out of this world.

Ranging in price from $5 for a start to $25,000 for the Sun and in distance from nearby planets to remote galaxies, the properties make heavenly landlords of their owners.

Frank Dillingham, the academy's development director, is responsible for the gimmick which has already raised more than $30,000 towards a $155,000 project for the science center's planetarium.

Family has Christmas anyway

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Christmas was returned to the Wendling family. Last week Mr. and Mrs. John Wendling, both physically disabled, discovered that all the Christmas presents they had purchased for their four children had been stolen from a storage room in their apartment building.

Dependent on government assistance checks, and with no more money coming into the home until after New Year's Day, Mrs. Betty Wendling lamented, "I don't know what we can do."

But some friends knew.

Soon after the family's situation was publicized, gifts began pouring into the family's home.

Mrs. Wendling, confined to a wheelchair because of a heart condition and an arthritic hip, cried when the gifts began arriving.

"I didn't know things like this could happen," she said. "It has brought back my belief in people."

Mrs. Wendling said she wanted to send "thank you" notes, but many of the gifts arrived anonymously.

"So, I'm saying a prayer for each and every person," she said.

HAW to stress long range plans, growth

RUPERT — Long-term planning will be stressed by the State Department of Health and Welfare, Minidoka County commissioners were assured Monday.

Scott Cunningham of the Region V staff told commissioners that, under Mill Klein, the department "will take a systematic, responsive view of looking at long-range planning and long-range growth."

Klein, head of Region V, has been appointed, state director of the department. His last day at the regional reins is to be Jan. 19.

Cunningham and Dennis Murray, mental health director for Minidoka County, presented a request for $4,000 from the county for 1976. The figure included money for mental health care for the first time.

Cunningham admitted "the department cannot demonstrate the ability to reduce its services," but said it can cut them if the services are not considered essential or mandated by the county.

"We're sensitive to the counties," he said.

Cunningham said health services have grown in the last five years as much as might be expected in "a normal evolution of 20 years."

"It's catching up for a lot of growing that needed to be done," he remarked.

"If we have the increase in the next five years we got in the last five years, where will we be?" asked Commissioner Elmer Ketterling.

Murray and Cunningham agreed.

Murray said federal grants fund 90 per cent of the personnel cost this year, cut to 80 per cent next year and decreasing for the next six years. He added that the federal government says, for that money, the states must "do more and more."

Cunningham said the department will take a close look at federal grants, considering the problems of continued services beyond the length of grant money.

The $4,800 budget request includes $3,540 for social services and for medical and financial assistance. The remaining $1,260 is for mental health care, a new cost the region is asking the county to cover.

Cunningham said no changes in services are contemplated in Minidoka County, although the regional staff plans to place one more person in the Rupert office.

Mental health was not charged to the county in 1975 because it was new last December and the department did not have a staff in Minidoka County.

The mental health request was based on a December-to-December count of cases.

Will owl return to home?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Will Athena, the "monkey-faced" owl which has lived in a deserted tower of the Smithsonian Castle for the last year and a half, came home for Christmas?

Athena hasn't been seen since a guard spotted her in flight a week ago Friday. The board chairman of the area Audubon Society climbed a series of ladders to the owl's lair in a five-story tower at the north-west corner of the building Friday and found a cold egg — but no Athena.

There was still no sign of the owl when Edward F. Rivinus, who also is getting director of the Smithsonian Press, made a return trip on Tuesday.

Reports of Athena's disappearance have caused several residents outside the area — including one Maryland farmer — upset because one of his chickens was killed — to call the Smithsonian and declare they've "got your owl," an employee said.

But officials think she may be somewhere closer to home, looking for a boyfriend.

Owls began making their home in the towers and crannies of the Smithsonian Castle after the building's completion in the 1850s. But the migrating birds were "unlucky" and a hundred years later guards began locking the windows of the tower and the owls had to look elsewhere for a home.

When S. Dillon Ripley, a "bird lover," became a Smithsonian secretary, he ordered the windows opened in an attempt to lure owls back. That didn't work, so he arranged to have the National Zoo send Athena and her mate, Alex, in February, 1974, to take up residence in the tower.

The pair of barn owls, also known as "monkey-faced" owls, hatched a brood of six owlets that spring, but they flew away. Alex hasn't been seen since last spring.

"The chief bird man at the zoo thinks there's evidence the owl may be using another nook or cranny in the Smithsonian buildings," Rivinus said.

State lifts land sale moratorium

ROSE (UPI) — The State Land Department lifted its two-year moratorium on the sale of state land today and at the same time ended the procedure requiring formal applications for land purchases.

The department said beginning next year primary consideration will be given to the sale of farm land and small tracts intermingled with private lands.

Requests for the sale of land classified as chiefly valuable for forestry, reforestation, recreation and watershed protection and lands bordering a lake or stream having public value for recreation; hunting, fishing or access will not be considered for inclusion in the sales plan.

The department said the annual land sale plan for 1976 will be submitted to the state land board for approval early in February. Persons interested in acquiring land should contact appropriate department area offices before Jan. 18.

Lifting of the moratorium resulted from a decision by the State Land Board to sell state lands without applications based on the state's capital inventory and capital classification program through an annual land sale program.

Denise Erickson, president of the Sunday school, gave a talk entitled "The True Meaning of Christmas."

Songs were performed by the Junior Sunday school with Mrs. Kent Durfee and Mrs. Rulon Koyle directing and Mrs. William Jones accompanying.

The congregation sang Christmas carols with Mrs. William Tracy directing and Mrs. Curtis Durfee accompanying.

Prayers were given by Jack Erickson and Bruce Durfee.

Special services set in TF

TWIN FALLS — The Church of Twin Falls has scheduled special services for Jan. 1.

John Cook, Nampa, a graduate of the International Bible College and a former teacher at Golden Oaks Bible College, will speak each evening at the church.

The special services begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Church of Twin Falls, 211 Fourth Ave. E.

Almo children perform

ALMO — Almo school children presented "The Lilliputian Christmas" Monday night at the Almo Ward LDS recreation hall.

Alvin Carpenter, teacher, was in charge of the program. Mrs. Rulon Koyle was in charge of music and songs.

The primary children recited verses and sang a Christmas song. The ward choir sang a Christmas carol with Mrs. Elbert Durfee directing and Mrs. Ivan Darrington serving as accompanist.

Santa Claus distributed treats to the children. Punch and cookies were served by officers of the primary and Aaronic Priesthood and the young women's organization.

Caroling party held at Filer

FILER — Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Lierman were hosts for a caroling party for the Junior choir of the Peace Lutheran Church.

The children sang carols at the homes of a number of Filer people and afterwards held a party at the church. Mr. and Mrs. Rod Sligar and Mrs. Tom Steele assisted in transportation for the group.

Tree decorated at Filer

FILER — Peace Lutheran Walthier League decorated the Christmas tree at the church and afterwards had a pizza party in Twin Falls.

The group will assist the pastor, Rev. R. C. Mubly, in the Sunday morning church service. Sunday evening they will have a song party at the Ralph Lierman home. Mr. and Mrs. Kent Lierman are counselors.

Episcopal Church ordains lesbian

NEW YORK — Ms. Ellen Marie Barrett was ordained a deacon in the Episcopal Church Dec. 15 by Rev. Paul Moore Jr., bishop of New York.

Ms. Barrett, an acknowledged and professing lesbian, was ordained in St. Peter's Episcopal Church in New York City. She is reported to be the first known lesbian to be ordained into holy orders in the Episcopal Church.

Ms. Barrett has served as associate editor of "Integrity," the national publication of homosexuals in the Episcopal Church in Fort Valley, Ga., which reports that she has an A. B. degree from Albert Magnus College and a master's degree from New York University in addition to the master of divinity degree (with honors) bestowed on her by the Episcopal Church's general theological seminary in New York City last May, at which time she was a known lesbian.

According to the March 1975 issue of "Integrity," Ms. Barrett is a former teacher, a Gay activist and a writer. She has served as co-chairman of DOB/NY (lesbian organization), a moderator of Gay Students Liberation of NYU, and as a member of Gay Liberation Front, Radicalesbians, et al. She lectures frequently on Gay liberation, on sexuality in general and on women's history — as she puts it, enough so to make a fruit-riding preacher queasy.

Governor supports school prayer law

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — Gov. James B. Langley said today he would support legislation establishing prayer in public schools.

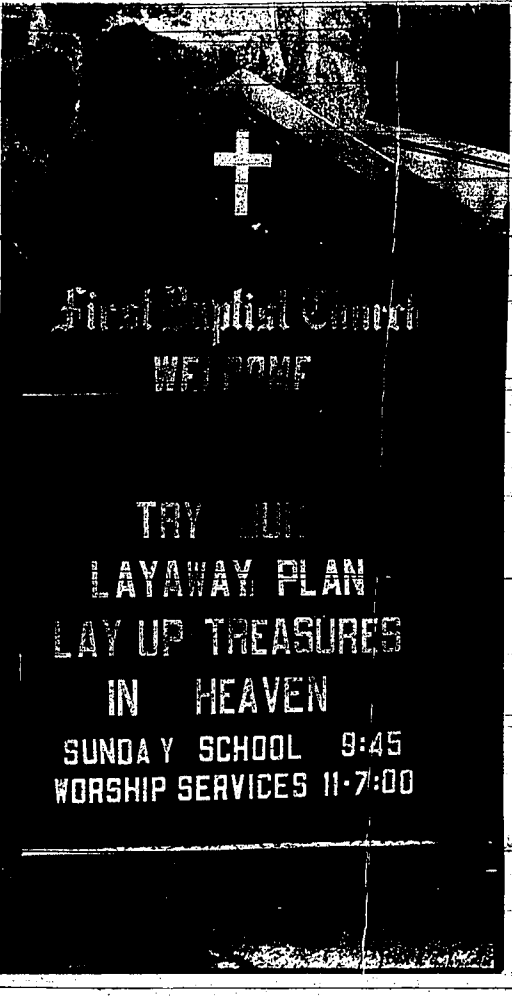

Langley appeared at his regular weekly news conference with four persons who are working on a petition drive to have prayer returned to the schools. Langley said the banning of school prayer violates the constitutional guarantees for religion and expression.

"I feel strongly that freedom of religion is one of the most precious things offered by our constitution," Langley said. "I have felt and feel even more strongly now that the taking of the opportunity of prayer from our schools violated this guarantee of freedom of religion and freedom of speech, as well as the protecting of a constitutional guarantee."

Langley said he would ask Attorney General Joseph Brennan to look into assisting groups which want school prayer returned.

Honored

WILLIS Owens, former Castleford mayor and Baptist layman, is listed in a new publication "Who's Who in Religion" published by the Marquis Publishing Co., Chicago. He has served as Sunday school superintendent and youth director of the Castleford First Baptist Church, as a director of the town's youth center and now heads the Foster Parents organization of Twin Falls County.

Americans finding God in novel, exotic places

BY ROY LARSON
Chicago Sun-Times

An ancient prophet declared: "Say to the cliffs of Judah, 'Behold your God.'"

In the year of some peoples—1975—a wistful cynic might respond to that announcement by saying, "Fair enough, but where do I look?"

Many, apparently, still are finding Him "in all the old, familiar places"—churches and synagogues, prayers and liturgies, creeds and modern-religiosity, the United States, has not yet been Sveredicated.

At the same time, quite a few Americans are finding their God in novel guises and exotic places. Their God "ain't what he she used to be," and that seems to please them just fine.

Although this "curiosity for the marvelous" has been one of the facts of American life for several years now, it still is too early to decide whether it bears the marks of what Theodore Roszak calls "an authentically spiritual quest" or a "healthy sign of spiritual resurgence."

Neither here nor there are those who neither expect nor desire to behold "God" (the quotations marks are theirs). Reasonably happy secularists, they are, for the time being at least, secure in their unbelief. They only take seriously the more sophisticated kinds of superstitions—i.e., scientism, etc.

The least satisfied Americans are those who, according to Flannery O'Connor, "neither believe nor contain (themselves) in unbelief and who search desperately, feeling about in all experience for the lost God." Like A. T. Arnons; they address the empty place where the god that has been deposited lived.

"The empty place" is silent, but certly so. The emptiness is filled with the unguaranteed promise of a sound. It leaves one hoping and fearing the silence will be broken.

For those still at home in their spiritual homes and for those who have found congenial new homes, religious or secular, there is no need to find clues that might lead to the "lost" or "deposed" god. "My God is not dead, sorry about yours."

However, for those still engaged in a "desperate search," clues, however small, are more than welcome. In his study of the poetry of William Carlos Williams, Rod Towmley drops one clue in a briefer story:

"An old rabbi was once asked why no one nowadays sees God. The sage replied that people are not willing to look that low."

Perhaps, instead of singing "Glory be to God on high," they should be singing "Glory be to God below."

Martin Buber believed this. Said the Jewish philosopher: "Man cannot approach the divine by going beyond the human." Expanding on this idea of reaching "the eternal Thou" only through "particular in hours," Buber writes:

"Only he who learns to love men one by one reaches, in his relation to heaven; God is the God of all the world. He who does not love the world can only refer, in his relationship to God, to an equally solitary God or to the God of his own soul. For he learns to love the God of the universe, the God who loves his world, only in the measure in which he himself learns to love the world."

Similarly, the traditional Christmas story is an account of the transcendent God who "regarded the low estate of his handmaiden" and came to earth in the form of a helpless child. The birth did not take place in a palace, but in a stable. It can be safely assumed that the angels surrounding the newborn were not the inmates of churches, but the more familiar and more earthy odors of an ordinary bar.

A latter-day wise man from the East, Rabindranath Tagore, also believed the search of god involved looking "that low."

Here is Thy footstool, and there Thy feet where live the poorest, and lowliest and lost.

When I try to bow to Thee, my obedience cannot reach down to the depth where Thy feet rest among the poorest, and lowliest and lost.

Pride can never approach to where Thou walkest in the clothes of the humble among the poorest and lowliest and lost.

My heart can never find its way to where Thou keepst company with the companionless among the poorest, the lowliest and the lost.

Doctor operates own Peace Corps

WEST BLOOMFIELD, Mich. (UPI) — Dr. Harris Mainster operates a one-man Peace Corps, using his annual vacation to give unpaid medical treatment to patients in such areas as Azamgarh, India; Voinjama, Liberia; Bluefields, Nicaragua; and Kudjip, New Guinea.

"The more primitive, the better," said Mrs. Mainster, who joins her husband and their four daughters, aged 5 to 14, on the four-to-eight-week trips.

Mainster, 39, said he got the idea for the project in 1962 after the Peace Corps rejected an application by him and his wife, Phoebe.

"They wouldn't accept couples with children," he said. "So we decided we would organize our own Peace Corps."

But it wasn't until 1971 that the Mainsters made their first trip—when a fellow doctor told him about the need for physicians in Bluefields, Nicaragua.

They went, stayed a month and were hooked on the idea. Mainster pays all his family's expenses.

He has only two rules:

—The people in the area he chooses need medical treatment and area doctors need introduction to newer methods of surgery.

The area must have some sort of medical facility, even if it is only a primitive native clinic.

Mainster spends between 14 and 16 hours a day treating patients and teaching local doctors.

Mrs. Mainster does everything from preparing bandages and taping while their daughters, Robin, 14, Arlene, 13, Sharon, 12, and Jill, 5, do such chores as washing medicine bottles and pushing hospital carts.

"It's great," Mainster said. "I'm able to share a great adventure with my wife and children and at the same time, I have the satisfaction of knowing that I'm helping people."

Although he receives no money from patients, Mainster often is given artifacts ranging from spears to ceremonial garb by grateful patients.

DEAR ABBY: Our 22-year-old daughter (I'll call her "Amy") has been living with her boyfriend for three months. Although I don't approve of the arrangement, I can't do anything about it without cutting off all communication with her, and I don't want to do that. My problem is that I feel terribly awkward when a relative or close friend inquires about Amy. One question leads to another, and I am inevitably asked where Amy is living and with whom.

I don't feel comfortable talking about her living arrangements, but I have to say something. What should I say?

I'm sure lots of parents have the same problem these days, so you'd be doing all of us a favor by answering this in your column.

MOM IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR MOM: Simply say, "Amy's living with a friend, going to school for (working) and seems to be learning for (enjoying life)." Period. If the inquirer wants to know more, talk about Amy and leave the "friend" out of it. And if the interrogator wants to probe further, change the subject. Matter of fact, no matter if "relative" or "close friend" inquires, Amy's life is her own, and you should not explain, defend or apologize for it.

'Roommate' problem

DEAR ABBY: It is quite common for friends to take pictures of their children from their wallets and show them off.

I usually say, "Hi (or she) is very nice-looking," or, "He (she) favors you," which the case may be.

What I'd like to know is what is the proper comment to make if the child is obviously very homely?

Recently my boss showed me a picture of his teenage daughter, and the picture is an adolescent mess. She has stringy hair, big nose and bad complexion. And she didn't favor him. I couldn't force myself to use either of the two comments I usually make because it would have been lying. And had I lied, I'm sure my insincerity would have been obvious.

What is an appropriate remark to make under these circumstances? A person has to say something.

SPEECHLESS

DEAR SPEECHLESS: You can always say (without lying), "My, how proud you must be!"

DEAR ABBY: I am a successful executive, age 55, and recently married a wonderful woman who is 40, trim, beautiful and looks years younger than her age.

She has too much time on her hands and has seriously considered modeling dresses, suits, sportswear and swimwear. She possesses all the necessary attributes to be a first class professional model.

Her first agency she approached wanted to sign her immediately. So far, she hasn't signed because I have discouraged her. I'm afraid that she will find herself surrounded with unweicome advances from manufacturers, buyers and designers. Also, for that she may be man-handled, and the privacy of her dressing room will be invaded.

She says none of my fears are legitimate: Can you tell me just what fashion models can expect?

HER HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: If you don't want your beautiful bride to display scantily clad before strange men, say so, but don't have any fears of her having to fend off "unweicome advances," being man-handled and having her privacy invaded are unfounded.

The one legitimate objection to her working as a fashion model you didn't mention. It is very hard work.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 89700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Envelope stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

TV eccentricities draw some wild results

Chicago Daily News HOLLYWOOD

Farr, the tough Toledo kid who wears all those gaudy frocks — or M-A-S-H, admitts his "make-believe" eccentricities can have some wild results.

"Like the time I was walking into ABC to see a guy about his game show — I love me on game shows — and I got past a line of people waiting for Let's Make A Deal," Jamie recalls. "Some guy yells out, 'Hey, there's the weirdo who wears those dresses.' I look around, there's this guy pointing at me. He's dressed like a giant ear of corn."

"So next I am being called a weirdo by a fool cop of corn," Farr, interviewed on the set of the long-running CBS show, said there has been very little negative reaction to his drag getup, principally because of the very cautious way the show handles the character of Cpl. Klinger, a man whose owns a GI nurse would envy.

"I have to be careful how I deliver my lines, so there isn't any homosexual connotation. It's the same thing with my body movement. I have to watch that my walk and stance are very masculine," he explained.

Farr said nobody, so far, has written CBS hinting that he may be a latent homosexual, although one woman wrote a local newspaper TV critic saying she wasn't letting her kids watch M-A-S-H any more.

"What is this," she wrote,

"about CBS allowing Jamie Farr to wear a dress on prime time?"

The critic responded that Jamie was "jaseuline and off-camera, that he has a wife and two kids, and that the writers were just trying to show that in a gaudy situation, place like South Korea, soldiers might do anything for a laugh."

"On the other hand, people do root for me, for the Cpl. Klinger character," Farr said. "I may be on a trip and people will spot me and give me a 'hooray' and a big OK sign. On the freeway people will pull alongside and give me a thumbs up or a V sign."

"You know, here's a guy fighting the Establishment. They appreciate his courage. He's saying, 'I don't like being here. I don't like killing people, and this whole Korean thing is dumb...' and I'm trying to get out the best way I know how."

"And he's taking a chance on winning up in the stockade."

Cpl. Klinger is a very heroic character, if you think about it."

Producer Larry Gelbart invented the character four years ago, jokingly naming him after a buddy. Farr played him as one-shot.

"I had a couple of lines. The producers liked it, asked me back, and I was in six or seven shows. The next year about 12. Third season they put me under contract. It has done marvelous things for me."

Farr said.

"You know, I've been practically out of work for 20 years. Just hanging in there, getting guest shots from time to time. Now everybody wants me. And I'm doing something very daring for me. I'm putting together a nightclub act."

Jamie's first engagement will be in January in the Hotel Fairmont in Dallas.

"I've never done stand-up before," he said. "It's hard work. But it's exciting. Imagine somebody would pay to see me as a kid from the north end of Iceland."

"I don't tap-dance. I don't sing. I don't do magic tricks. I tell stories, like Danny Thomas, and I come out as Klinger. I bring somebody up from the audience and put a dress on him. You know a guy wonders what it's like. And I sing a song. 'Look at That Face' — from 'Rear of the Greenepalm'."

Farr also gets a lot of lost from a baking company for his commercials with the tag line, "If it isn't fresh, I'm outta business." He's very hairy-chested masculine in those spots as well.

Couple weds

HAILEY — Marilyn Gail Shilue, and Marlon Wade McCreary were married in a Nov. 27 wedding at the home of the bride's parents on Crox Creek.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Val McAttee. Hailey, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roland McCreary, Wallawa, Ore.

Mrs. Larry Hees, Wallawa, was matron of honor. Flower girls were Melissa and Monica Cherry, La Grande, Ore.

Oran McCreary, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Robert Shilue, son of the bride, was ringbearer.

After a honeymoon trip to Sun Valley, the couple resides in Wallawa where the bride owns and operates a pharmacy and the bridegroom is a rancher and serves as a county commissioner.

Now you can walk on water

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — For $8.95 you can walk on water. Or so say the inventors of a gadget which claims to provide relief for persons who stand up all day. They call it a "waterbed for the feet."

It's a hollow plastic inner sole that is filled with water. The cushion of water provides a constant massage as you walk.

"Having started in the waterbed industry and knowing what it is to sleep on a waterbed, it seemed like it should be comfortable to use in other aspects besides sleeping," said Beverly Burch, of the Waterbed Factory in San Francisco, who invented the device along with her partner, Dino Davis.

In the inner sole, which can be removed from a shoe, the water is kept in cells to maintain a cushion for the whole foot.

"The water won't go to one end of it because the cushion keeps it dispersed evenly," Ms. Burch said.

The soles have not yet been clinically tested, she said.

"All we really know is that people are wearing them and they are coming in and buying more after they buy one pair," she said. "We've sold a lot of them to beauticians, waitresses and nurses. It seems to be a more comfortable way to wear shoes if you have to stand up."

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 Can you explain hemolytic anemia to me, its cause and treatment?
 My granddaughter, age 4, has this. Her problem began with orange urine and with the whites of her eyes colored. This was first diagnosed as hepatitis. Her blood count was down, but has improved with drugs, a corticosteroid and is staying up.
 Will she outgrow this disease? — Mrs. C.C.C.

Tot's problem

Hemolytic anemia is excessive destruction of red blood cells. The average life of a red blood cell is about 120 days. Any factor altering the quality of these cells will cause them to disintegrate abnormally. This is hemolysis.
 There are several possible causes, the chief one being an hereditary defect in the blood system. In adults, the cause may be toxic, as from lead, benzene, etc.
 Since your granddaughter's disorder revealed itself at such an early age the likelihood of its being a familial disorder (occurring in families) is great. This could involve an abnormality of the hemoglobin, the pigment of the cells, or there might be an enzymic deficiency that is affecting the stability of the cells.
 Since a transfusion has not (to judge from your letter) been necessary, it seems that her production of red blood cells has kept pace with the deterioration process.
 A mild jaundice (the urine and eye color changes you mention would suggest hepatitis). But liver studies ruled this out in your granddaughter. This led to the diagnosis of hemolytic anemia rather than to the liver problem. Nothing unusual there.
 The drug you mention is the treatment of choice, at least temporarily.
 In some instances removal of the spleen is done. Red blood cells are ordinarily destroyed by the spleen, and it could be that that organ is overactive in this regard. She could manage nicely without it.
 The prognosis is good, particularly with the excellent response to the corticosteroid therapy.
 Whether she will outgrow this depends of too many factors for me to comment on at this distance. The attending physician is the obvious one to answer that question.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 I have had hair loss as a result of low thyroid function. When the thyroid is brought back to normal, will my hair return also?
 — M.A.C.

When the thyroid function is normalized by use of thyroid substance the hair quality should improve along with the quantity. The thyroid does have much to do with both hair and skin texture. Your skin quality, too, should improve if there were any problems related to malfunction of the thyroid gland.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 I have just found out that I have diabetes and I'm taking 20 c.c. of insulin daily. But when I take the shot I get black and blue on my legs. Does this mean I'm doing something wrong? I feel fine. Please let me know. My doctor says everything is fine. — Mrs. H.H.

Try using a shorter needle, and pinch the skin before puncturing it. As to your dosage, I believe you mispoke yourself in your letter. You are taking 20 "units" a day, not "20 c.c." There is a big difference.

For example, with the "U-100" strength insulin, the "10" refers to insulin units per c.c. of the fluid. In the "U-40" strength there are 40 units for each c.c.

Be sure you are not making any mistake in this and that you understand your doctor's prescription thoroughly.

Vaginitis can strike any woman at any time in her life. You can find out about the causes — and the cures — for this troublesome complaint in Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Vaginitis: The Hidden Ailment." Dr. Thosteson's newsletter reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 Thanks for your booklet on vaginitis. I found it most informative and helpful. You don't mention use of gentian violet, which my doctor has recommended for moniliasis, a vaginal infection I've had. Do you recommend it? — Mrs. R.R.

It is one of the effective anti-fungal agents in certain vaginal infections. It, like others, is available in tampon-type suppositories, and if it has helped you, good. I'm glad you found the booklet helpful.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission thinks half the nation "pays too much money for proper vision."
 The commission, noting that nearly every other American wears eyeglasses, has proposed eliminating bans on advertising the price of prescription eyeglasses in hopes of reducing their cost.
 In announcing its position Tuesday, the FTC said many state and local regulations and the ethical codes of private associations limit such advertising by ophthalmologists and optometrists in all 50 states and the District of Columbia, and by opticians in nearly half the states.

 More than 160 million Americans — nearly half the population — use corrective lenses and last year Americans spent $1.83 billion for prescription eyewear — glasses, contact lenses, and frames, the FTC said.
 If the proposed rule takes effect, "glasses could and would be sold at lower prices," said Mrs. Joan Bernstein, acting director of FTC's bureau of consumer protection. It would not, however, require the advertising of prices, she said. The rule-making process could take at least one year to complete.

The action came one day after the FTC filed an antitrust complaint against the American Medical Association and other segments of the medical profession. That complaint charged that ethical codes and regulations prohibiting advertising of doctors' services and fees eliminated competition and resulted in higher fees.
 The FTC plan would affect the prescription services of the nation's 8,300 ophthalmologists, physicians who can examine eyes, prescribe glasses and perform surgery, 16,400 optometrists who can examine and prescribe but are not medical doctors, and 11,000 opticians who dispense glasses.

 A representative of the Opticians Association of America cautiously endorsed the FTC proposal, but said price advertising by itself could be misleading for consumers if the FTC does not impose guidelines to keep such advertising free of half-truths and to relate prices to the particular product.
 The American Optometric Association said in a statement that its code of ethics has no prohibition on advertising and its board of trustees is looking into the FTC proposal.

Ruekus damages prison

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — More than half the cells at New Hampshire state prison were damaged beyond use by inmates angered over refusal to release dozens of prisoners from solitary confinement for their Christmas Day meal.

Three persons were injured in the four-hour ruckus Thursday and about 100 prisoners were transferred to new locations.

Martin Gross, a member of the New Hampshire Prison Board of Trustees, said 230 out of 240 cells were damaged so badly they could not be used to house inmates.

The prisoners set fires but did not battle with guards and state police who restored order.

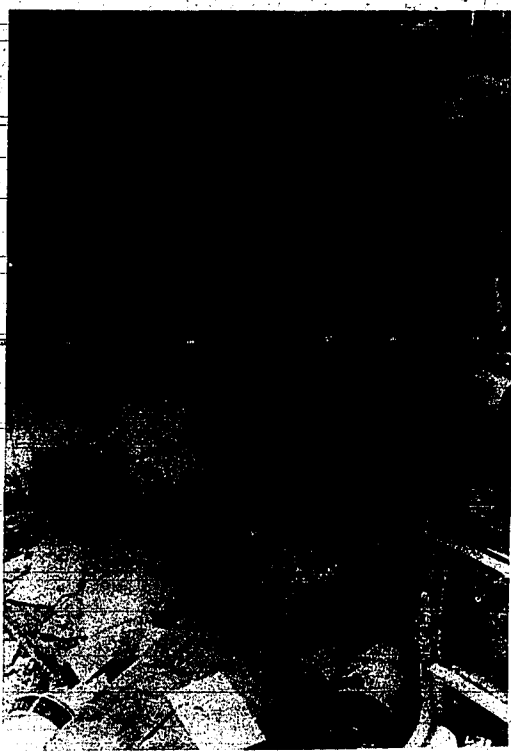

By evening, Gross said, the inmates were cold, hooded and obviously wanted no part of any more disturbances.

State Attorney General Warren Rudman went to the prison and said he would investigate and prosecute leaders of the uprising if they could be identified. Gov. Meldrim Thomson also visited the prison but left after it was secured.

The disturbance began at noon when about 200 inmates demanded release for Christmas dinner of a dozen men in solitary confinement. Prison officials said the inmates took control of the dining room, seized four employees and set a number of fires.

State police equipped with riot gear and tear gas were called in to restore order. Gross said there was no physical confrontation between the prisoners and the police because the inmates moved voluntarily to the recreation area, where they were contained. The hostages escaped in the confusion, Gross said.

Firemen took several hours to put out the fires. The injured were treated at hospital and released. Prison steward Patrick Ingerson was taken to Concord Hospital with a head injury.

Facilities damaged

EXTENSIVE damage resulted to the kitchen storage facilities at the New Hampshire State prison in Concord Christmas day after a fire broke out when inmates took control of the prison facilities. Prisoners were removed later that night to various correctional facilities. (UPI)

Opposition against refugees melts

BIRD ISLAND, Minn. (UPI) — First there was the opposition to foreigners. Then came a Vietnamese refugee family of 17. Then came Christmas.

A man who was opposed to the family's moving here brought them two chickens.

A couple who objected to them because the Vietnamese might intermarry and "don't want short grandchildren" chipped in $35 for them.

Twenty residents incorporated and sold shares to raise the $5,000 needed for a down payment on the two-story green frame house where the family of Ky-Van Nguyen lives.

"It is almost like a miracle has happened," said the Rev. Paul Sorlien of Our Savior's Lutheran Church. "The opposition was what one time was strong, has melted."

The Ky family, including a 65-year-old grandmother, Ky's wife, sons, daughters, sons-in-law, grandchildren, nephews and nieces, moved to this southwestern Minnesota community of 1,300 five weeks ago.

Neighbors continue to be generous. The Ky family spends only $14 a week for food, the balance comes from surrounding farms. However, the family buys a 100-pound sack of rice every 10 days.

Six members of the family are working, one of them as an aide at the school helping the Vietnamese children learn English.

Steve Stensberry, principal of the Bird Island Elementary School, organized a buddy system for the six Vietnamese children.

"We gave each child a buddy for the first week or so and then we gave them two buddies so they could get more of a cross-section of the school," he said.

The family, strict Roman Catholics, attended Christmas mass in St. Mary's Catholic Church. When invited to a Christmas party at the Lutheran church, the family felt they first needed permission to attend from a priest. They got it. How do members of the Ky family feel about their new life? One, a 15-year-old boy, expressed his feelings in a poem: "Vietnam my native country is far away."

Yule mass, parade held in Saigon

SAIGON, South Vietnam (UPI) — The first midnight mass in eight years and a parade through Saigon streets Thursday marked South Vietnam's first Christmas at peace since World War II.

Authorities lifted the 1 a.m. to 5 a.m. curfew Christmas eve and residents responded with one of the biggest celebrations ever in Saigon.

Restaurants were jammed day long as Vietnamese returned to the traditional celebration of Christmas.

Minimum wages to rise Jan. 1

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New Year's Day should bring pay raises for nearly 4 million American workers now receiving less than the $2.30 an hour mandated under a new minimum wage law.

For most of those affected, the minimum wage will rise from $2.10 to $2.30 with lesser increases for others depending on classification whose wages will not rise to that level until Jan. 1, 1978.

Labor Secretary John T. Dunlop said Thursday the 1974 amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act, provided for three different minimums, each raised by annual steps, "to lessen their inflationary impact."

About 53 million of 57.4 million persons covered by the act now earn more than $2.30, Dunlop said. Among those who must receive raises in minimum pay levels this New Year's Day, he said, are:

— More than 1.2 million nonfarm employes, from $2.10 an hour minimum to $2.30.

— About 2.5 million other non-farm employes, from $2.20 to $2.30.

Decision reversed

JEROME — The Supreme Court of Idaho has reversed the decision of the Fifth District Court dismissing charges against William Delos Campbell.

James M. Cunningham, Fifth district judge in Jerome County, had ruled that since a $20,000 check issued by Campbell was given in payment of a pre-existing obligation it would be impossible to prove an intent to defraud under Idaho Code 18-106 (b).

The Supreme Court held in a unanimous decision written by Justice Robert C. Baker that the fact that a check is given in payment of a pre-existing obligation does not preclude prosecution under the statute. The opinion said that in that situation, the prosecutor is not entitled to presume an intent to defraud but must present "proof" the defendant "did intend to defraud."

GREENVILLE, S.C. — Construction of a medium-priced, three-bedroom family dwelling heated with solar energy—designed by the U.S. Agricultural Research Service—is nearing completion.

The completely insulated attic of the house serves as the solar collector and a 12-inch thick layer of crushed rock beneath the floor of the house serves as a heat storage tank.

The house is conventional in other respects.

The heating system is simple in design, according to the agency. Two layers of translucent fiberglass replace conventional roofing on the south roof slope and transmit sunshine or solar energy into the attic where it is absorbed by a black plywood floor. This heats the air in the attic and the heated air is circulated to heat the house and the rocks beneath the house.

The heated rocks can store a four-day supply of heat to warm the house at night and during cloudy or rainy weather.

The solar heated house was designed by architect Harold F. Zornig. It is part of the ARS effort to lower the operating costs of rural housing with a low-cost, low-maintenance heating system, using solar radiation as the energy source. Such a heating system could be modified to match the demands of other geographic and climate areas.

Zornig predicts that at least 75 per cent of the house heating load during the coldest months in Greenville can be supplied by solar energy. To meet the small need for extra heat during the heating season a slightly larger than normal hot water heater is used as an auxiliary heat source.

Hot water is automatically pumped from the hot water supply to a heat exchanger in the air distribution system when and if the house has no solar heat in the attic or in storage.

The rocks that are used as a heat storage tank in winter can keep the house at a pleasant daytime temperature during the warm months. This is achieved by bypassing the heat from the solar collector and allowing the rocks to cool at night.

The prototype house has a calculated average heat loss of 216,000 BTU per day in the Greenville area in January. In this same month there should be available a calculated 49 BTU per day of solar energy.

Hearings slated

TWIN FALLS — Complaint hearings that could result in cancellation of intrastate permits held by three southern Idaho motor carriers will be conducted by the Idaho Public Utilities Commission Jan. 6, at Twin Falls.

An IPUC permit held by B & T Trucking, Inc. Burley, has been suspended pending disposition of a complaint alleging failure to file a proper certificate of public liability and property damage insurance with the Commission.

Also suspended pending disposition of a complaint is a permit held by Walter F. Ritter, Richfield, charged with failure to keep a proper tariff of rates and charges on file with the Commission.

The Commission also will hear two applications filed by Henry Products Co. Inc. Kimberly. The applicant presently holds permitted authority to transport fertilizer over irregular routes within a 50-mile radius of Twin Falls and between points south of the Salmon River, and transportation of machinery and equipment over irregular routes south of the Salmon River. Applicant requests amended authority to transport agricultural commodities between points south of the Salmon River. The Commission hearings will commence at 9:30 a.m. in the Twin Falls City Hall Council Chambers.

Christmas day workers

Sgt. Mick Tarver at Police Department

CHRISTMAS workers were on the job Thursday throughout the Magic Valley maintaining essential services and helping make the holiday merry. Among those photographer Lou Freeman found were workers at the hospitals, power and telephone companies, policemen, firemen, service station operators and waitresses.

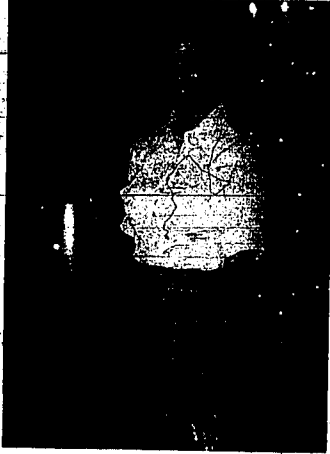

The workday schedule resumed today for most private sector workers, but federal and state employees were given Friday off following executive orders by President Ford and Gov. Cecil Andrus.

Parking lot plan draws varied views at Rupert

By SHANE O'NEILL

RUPERT — The Minidoka County commissioners and the Rupert City Council are at loggerheads over a parking lot proposal for downtown.

Councilmen Tuesday were resentful of a letter from Robert Nielsen, counsel for the county commissioners, which criticized the city's

Hearings set on museum site

RUPERT — January hearings are planned to discuss the possibility of building the Minidoka County Historical Museum in Rupert.

The Rupert City Council tabled a request Tuesday night for the 11th Street Park as a museum site, but without discouraging the suggestion.

Martin O'Donnell and Harvey Hollinger, representing the Minidoka County Historical Society, were told they should get signatures of adjacent property owners indicating no objection to the site for a museum.

Councilmen also favored hearings on the proposal. The matter was tabled at Councilman Clark Cameron's motion "for further consideration and discussion and to get the pulse of the community."

The museum now is in the old city jail on E Street. O'Donnell reminded the council that the historical society had asked in 1970 that the old jail be preserved and "that was the direct beginning of the museum."

O'Donnell remarked that "it was very nice for its site" and had served 8,342 registered guests since that time.

"Our problem now is we've outgrown the jail," he said.

He explained that plans had been made for a new building and had been looking for a site in Rupert when the Minidoka County Fair Board offered four acres of land at the fairgrounds.

"It turned out the offer was in error," O'Donnell said. "We can't get that much land."

The county commissioners rejected the four-acre site in the northwest corner of the fairgrounds because it would eliminate too much parking. The fairgrounds also has the problem of an undivided interest held by the National Guard in land in that area.

Commissioners suggested Monday that one and three-fourths to two acres might be made available with joint parking area.

"We would very much sooner have our museum in Rupert," O'Donnell told the council Tuesday night.

The site proposed is the 11th Street Park along the canal. It is 600 feet long, just under two acres, but there could be parking along the street.

Hollinger admitted, "It's smaller than is recommended, but if we can't get anything larger, it's pretty good looking otherwise."

Hollinger said considerable time was lost under the assumption that the fairgrounds was all right. Since the rejection in late August, he said, the groups have been trying to find an adequate area at the fairgrounds.

Several hurt in TF mishaps

TWIN FALLS — Several persons suffered injuries in holiday accidents in Twin Falls.

Two drivers and their passengers were treated for minor injuries Wednesday afternoon after a two-car accident at the intersection of Kimberly Road and Eastland Drive. The accident occurred about 2:10 p.m.

Vehicles driven by James Todd, 17, Kimberly, and Kristine A. Strawser, 15, Twin Falls, collided at the intersection. Miss Strawser was cited for failure to yield right of way. Craig Egan, 16, a passenger in the Strawser vehicle, and Jeff Burdick, 16, a passenger in the Todd auto, were also treated for cuts and bruises and released at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Alan Walter McInroy, 32, Twin Falls, suffered lacerations and bruises when his vehicle and one driven by Brenda Sue Bolton, 31, Twin Falls, collided Wednesday afternoon at the intersection of Third Avenue West and Second Street West.

Officers cited Miss Bolton for failure to yield right of way. All of the injured were treated at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and released.

rejection of a parking lot at the corner of Seventh and H streets.

Nielsen said the commissioners may require that the city "widen all the streets around the courthouse" for parking if the lot isn't approved.

A crowd that packed council chambers voiced solid opposition to the proposed parking lot during a Rupert Zoning Board hearing. However, Nielsen said other residents not at the meeting favored the parking lot.

He added that the commissioners are conducting a survey regarding the need for additional parking at the county courthouse.

The parking lot was planned to provide parking for courthouse employees and for those that have business at the county complex.

Mayor Wendell Johnson said the council could take up the matter with commissioners at a meeting sought to discuss other matters.

Councilmen agreed to try to meet at the city hall with commissioners at 1:30 p.m. today.

Mayor Johnson admitted the streets around the courthouse "are getting to be a congested area."

Councilman Dwinelle Alfred agreed that parking is needed, but added that the county feels there is reason to reconsider it should approach the zoning commission with its new facts.

Alfred said he had talked to "one woman" in favor of the parking lot who had attended the public hearing. He said she felt intimidated by the vocal opposition and felt her opinion would not carry weight anyway amid the objections.

Clark Cameron, the councilman who serves on the zoning commission, remarked that several people told him they think the county should eliminate the trees south of the courthouse and use that area for parking.

Those in favor of the parking lot should have appeared before the council or the zoning commission, remarked Councilman George MacDonald.

MacDonald had been appointed to a joint committee to investigate possibilities for a parking lot along Eighth Street with land from the LDS Church and the Johnson Estate. He said the county never contacted him or activated the committee pursue that possibility.

"All the possibilities haven't been explored," MacDonald stated. "The county shouldn't have gone ahead and purchased the lots."

The commissioners had agreed to pay $26,000 for the two lots at Seventh and H, giving $5,000 down to Ted Gresson, then Rupert councilman, but leaving the city to practice law in Lewiston.

According to Elmer Ketterling, county commissioner, the LDS property would more than double the cost of land for the parking lot.

Nielsen said commissioners are attempting to relieve traffic congestion and parking problems with off-street parking. The new law enforcement and judicial buildings were cited as reasons additional parking is necessary.

He contended that parking to serve new facilities is required by ordinance.

Study accuracy challenged

BURLEY — Two Magic Valley companies have challenged the accuracy of a study linking them with foreign investor in their businesses. Agri-Center of Idaho, Burley, was reported to be owned by Canadian interests in a study dated November 1975 by Martech Co., Portland, made for the Pacific Northwest Regional Commission.

However, Harold Wilson, manager, said the Canadian company, Glen Mount Holdings Ltd., sold its interest in the company in January to Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hipes of Minidoka.

Hines, according to Wilson, is a large cattle and row crop farmer who was named "Farmer of the Year" recently. Wilson pointed out that their advertising stresses the fact that they are "locally owned" which has resulted in several inquiries since the study was reported.

Magie Valley Foods Inc. President Roger Jones has also complained that the Portland firm's study incorrectly shows a $1 million dollar Japanese investment in his family-owned corporation.

The study lists Okura and Co. Ltd., Japan, as having invested in Magic Valley Foods Inc. as early as 1971.

Jones flatly denied that Magie Valley Foods had ever had any outside investors. Harry Lang, spokesman for Martech Co., expressed surprise about the claimed mistakes and told the Times-News he would check his records and explain the situation as soon as possible.

MV ski areas open daily

TWIN FALLS — Ski areas in the Sawtooth National Forest will be operating on a daily basis through the holidays with some reporting very good skiing.

Operating daily throughout the season are Sun Valley, Pomerelle and Soldier Mountain. Magic Mountain is not yet open.

Pomerelle reports very good skiing conditions with a good base of hard packed snow and a light covering of new snow which fell Christmas Eve. Reports show 36 inches at the lodge and 48 inches at the top of the ski slopes. Lifts run daily from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Both chair lifts are in operation.

Soldier Mountain reports 12 inches of snow at the lodge and 20 inches at the top of the ski runs. The lower chair lift only is operating. Roads are good and the area will operate daily through

Jan. 4.

Sun Valley lists 28 inches at the top of Bald Mountain, 22 at the Roundhouse and seven inches on the valley floor. Dollar Mountain has 12 inches of snow.

Cross-country skiing is reported fair to good in most areas and snowmobiling is good. There is three feet of snow at Galena Summit.

Holiday accidents bring big rush to TF hospital

TWIN FALLS — An emergency situation developed at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital about 6:45 p.m. Christmas Day when 10 persons, victims of several traffic accidents, and one heart attack victim, arrived at the hospital within a 10-minute span.

Hospital Administrator James Rosenbaum said although none of the injuries was serious, all had to be treated immediately.

It was necessary to call seven additional physicians, several technicians and emergency room nurses from local homes to the hospital to assist with handling the large number of injured persons. While the accident victims were being treated, Rosenbaum said, the heart attack victim arrived. Extra surgery personnel was also called in, he said, and had the injuries been serious the mass casualty program at the hospital would have been put into immediate operation.

The first physician to arrive decided not to call the casualty program crews because of the absence of serious or critical injuries.

Two of the 10 accident victims were hospitalized. These included Maxine Williams, 49, Buhl, suffering a dislocated hip, and Debbie White, 24, Hazelton, with two broken wrists. Both were in good condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital today.

Deputy Sheriff Buddy Dewesse, Twin Falls, was treated and released following a traffic mishap. (See photo below).

Deputy injured

DEPUTY Sheriff Buddy Dewesse was one of 10 persons injured in traffic accidents in Twin Falls Christmas night. He said his vehicle, with emergency lights and siren operating, was driving to an accident call when it collided with one driven by Pat Wildman, Twin Falls, at Fifer Avenue and Locust Street. Both drivers escaped with only minor injuries. Mrs. Wildman was traveling with the green light. Dewesse's car is at left.

Brucellosis quarantine for Texas cattle Jan. 5

DALLAS (UPI)—The U.S. Agriculture Department will quarantine Texas Jan. 5 to prevent the spread of brucellosis cattle disease from the state. The USDA will remove the certification status of all Texas cattle and require that officials of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, the actions will be taken because Texas failed to comply with the uniform methods and rules for the eradication of brucellosis in cattle and because measures in effect in Texas to eradicate brucellosis are inadequate to prevent the interstate spread of this livestock disease.

On Jan. 1, USDA will also:

- Stop paying indemnity to owners of infected cattle in Texas, and
- Cancel a funding agreement for the state for testing cattle at federal expense.

The quarantine will provide for designating "qualified" herds in a quarantined area—those shown to be free of brucellosis by two consecutive negative herd tests. The qualifying herd tests must be performed at specified intervals. Cattle for shipment from qualified herds must be individually tested and found negative for brucellosis within 30 days of interstate movement.

Under the quarantine, steers and spayed heifers (6 months old) can move without restriction. Stocker and feeder heifers from nonqualified herds can be shipped out of Texas only if branded with an "S" on the left jaw and shipped to a quarantined feedlot or to slaughter. Cattle for immediate slaughter must be "S" branded or from a qualified herd and tested to move across state lines.

Cattle reacting to the brucellosis test very little growth before cold weather set in. Moisture conditions have been reported favorable in all areas of the state.

Packer, creditor approve debt payoff plan

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—American Beef Packers Inc. and its mainline creditor Tuesday signed a $36.5 million agreement which paves the way for immediate approval of a plan to begin paying creditors holding some $25 million in ABP debts.

Frank R. West, ABP board chairman and president, signed the agreement with General Electric Credit Corp., Stamford, Conn.

The $36.5 million new line of credit was necessary to fund ABP's plan of arrangement to pay creditors. The overall plan was to be presented to federal bankruptcy judge David Crawford in Omaha Tuesday for Crawford's expected approval.

Robert Gulnan, an Omaha attorney representing ABP's creditors committee, said the agreement with GECC was completed Monday night.

ABP filed for Chapter 11 of bankruptcy in Crawford's court last Jan. 7, and intensive negotiations have been underway for the past three months leading towards the signing of the credit plan by West.

West, 56, who built ABP from a small hog operation in Harlan, Iowa, into one of the nation's largest packers in 10 years, has agreed to resign as ABP board chairman and president once Crawford approves the overall plan. West's resignation was one of the key stipulations placed upon ABP by General Electric Credit for the new money. West will still remain on the ABP board and receive $7,500 annually, or half of his present salary, as a consultant to the firm.

Joseph E. Skram, 64, elected to the ABP board last month, is expected to assume the ABP presidency until the creditors are paid. Skram, a veteran in the meat packing industry, is the owner of Packers Consultants Association, Sterling, Colo.

Genetic research proceeds

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI)—By altering the genetic properties of such crops as wheat and corn with enzymes, superior breeds can be created that would revolutionize food production, according to University of Idaho biochemist Dr. G. M. Hass.

Hass said the procedures are being researched at the University's College of Agriculture.

"Another exciting line of research is aimed at increasing the utilization of feed by livestock."

"Animals can get nourishment from feedstuffs containing large amounts of lignin or cellulose if these hard-to-digest materials are broken down through biochemical processes—enzymes."

Enzymes are change agents, facilitating the processes by which living cells continue to function and renew themselves, Hass said.

Each enzyme performs a specific kind of change. Due to their high degree of specificity in function, enzymes can be put to work carrying out desired changes in a very precise manner.

"One enzyme of tremendous interest to geneticists is nitrogenase. Bacteria containing this enzyme are able to fix and use nitrogen from the air."

To introduce this enzyme into cereal crops, scientists are attempting to merge genetic material from bacteria with genes of wheat and corn.

If successful, the cereal crops such as wheat and corn could gain the ability to trap atmospheric nitrogen, or, in effect, fertilize themselves.

ISU opens tour into midwest

POCATELLO — Although the basketball season is only seven games old, Idaho State has already traveled some 4,500 miles in the team's Sun Valley-Key Airlines charter plane. That air mileage will be increased considerably when the Bengals board the plane Friday for a mid-West trip to Illinois and Indiana.

The travel itinerary has ISU in Normal, Illinois, for a Saturday night game with unbeaten Illinois State, and in Terre Haute, Ind., for the Indiana State Hall of Fame Tourney on Monday and Tuesday. ISU's first-round opponent Monday is the University of Pacific, with a 4-4 record.

The Bengals leave the friendly and spacious confines of the ASISU沐indome with a 4-3 record following Saturday's 80-69 win over Cal State Fullerton.

"I was surprised we won by such a wide margin," commented ISU Coach Jim Killingsworth. "They are a fine ball club and they have had some great wins this season. Our players did an excellent job and we were able to get many of our reserves into the game for long periods of time."

ISU led by as many as 20 and the score was 61-43 when the first string left the game for the final time. Sub-forwards Stan Klaus and Brand Robinson were both in double figures, which encouraged Killingsworth to believe he would finally get the depth that ISU's pre-season workouts had led him to expect.

Offensively the Bengals continue to be led by 7-4 center Steve Hayes, 6-7 forward Greg Griffin and 6-3 guard Ed Thompson. Hayes tops scorers at 20.7, and his 12.3 rebound average should again lead the Big Sky Conference ahead of Gratin's 10.0. Griffin is scoring at a 17.3 ppg clip, and Thompson is right behind at 15.7. The team averages 73.8 shooting, including 51 per cent from the field, and his 91.9 per cent from the free throw line may again be the league's best. 6-4 Dennis Green (6.6 ppg) and 6-7 Frank Krahn (5.0) round out the starting five.

Idaho State may be walking into a lion's den at Normal, Illinois. Illinois State is 6-0 on the season with four of the wins coming on the road. The Redbirds were seventh last week in NCAA Division I scoring at 86.5, and they have out-rebounded their opponents by 11 a game. They beat Bradley to Bradley to win the Bradley Invitational.

Pacific, ISU's IOP Tourney opponent, has a rugged defensive club with a pair of centers who will harass Hayes all night. 6-9 George Fowler averages 6.9 ppg and 7-0 Steve Manker averages 7.1, splitting playing time. IOP's leading scorers are a pair of 6-6 forwards with Mike Peet at 11.5 and Vic Baker at 11.2. 6-1 guard Jim Hurley (11.4) and 6-0 guard Bill Russell (6.0) complete the starting five.

Tuesday night ISU will play either Indiana State, the tourney host, or Virginia Military Institute. In either case the Bengals will get no bargain. VMI is 6-1 with a small but aggressive team led by 6-6 forward Will Byrum (16.9 ppg) and 6-4 guard John Krovic (16.4 ppg). VMI has not played since December 12, so they will be well rested. Indiana State is 2-5, but those five losses were by a total of only 18 points. The Sycamores are under the direction of former New Mexico mentor Bob King, who will undoubtedly be glad to return to Terre Haute after being 9-3 on the road. Their top players include 6-11 center Darcus Webster, whose 15.5 rebounding average has him third in NCAA stats, and 6-8 forward Rick Williams, a 17.6 ppg scorer with a 55 per cent shooting mark from the field.

Tourney begins

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Kentucky state fails the 10th-ranked, Louisville, Cardinals, while Texas-A&M and Seattle clash in the opening round of the Citizens Fidelity Holiday Classic Friday night.

"Our guys and the coaches have been waiting for this game a long time," says Kentucky State Coach James Oliver. "If we didn't get up but for one game this year, this would be the one. Our guys will definitely be ready for Louisville," he said.

"They had better be ready for us," Oliver's team will carry against the Cardinals, a perfect 6-0 mark into the game and the Thorobreds have reeled off 18 straight regular season wins. Louisville will take a 5-1 mark into the game.

PLAYMAKING GUARD Robert Taylor of Lakeside high school, of Seattle, will lead the Lions against Gooding at 7 p.m. Saturday, to open the Wood River holiday basketball tournament. Wood River meets Butte of Arco in the nightcap with the meet winding up with two games Monday night.

N.C. roster grows

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (UPI) — The NCAA has reversed an earlier ruling and decided to consider North Carolina a "home team" in the Big Four Tournament, allowing it to bring 13 players to the event instead of just 10.

In informing Bill Cobey, assistant athletic director for the Tar Heels, of the reversal, NCAA officials acknowledged that the Tar Heels have traditionally used the Greensboro Coliseum, site of the Big Four Tournament, for home games.

In the past three years, the Tar Heels have used the coliseum for six single game games.

Under the earlier ruling, North Carolina would have been considered a "visitor" and entitled to bring only 10 players, while the other participants could have brought 13 to the tournament Jan. 2-5.

Marchibroda credited as reason for Colts' showing

BALTIMORE (UPI) — For 14-National Football League seasons, Ted Marchibroda labored in relative anonymity as an assistant coach under Bill McPeak and George Allen. Last Feb. 15, the one-time pro quarterback was thrust into the most difficult mission of his career—coaching the Baltimore Colts, a 1971 playoff team that fell to consecutive seasons of 59, 4-10 and 2-12.

His touch proved magic as the Colts finished 10-4 and won their last nine games. Saturday, they travel to Pittsburgh to meet the defending NFL champion Steelers in a first round playoff match.

If they win, Marchibroda, a 44-year-old native of Franklin, Pa., just might give Santa Claus a good run as most popular "man" around the Chesapeake Bay this Christmas season. "I didn't expect it to be this good," Marchibroda commented after the Colts completed their next-to-last Thursday "prior to their departure for Pittsburgh Friday afternoon.

Even with a Christmas day practice, he stands No. 1 with his players.

"He's a helluva man," said 24-year-old quarterback Bert Jones, a third-year man who found pro stardom this season. "He's instilled both desire and knowledge in us. We have the same team we had last season, but we're winning. He's been the difference."

But this year's success was not instant. The soft-spoken Marchibroda said during the pre-season that a break-even year was his goal. Just the Colts got off to a 1-4 start, hitting bottom with an embarrassing 21-10 loss at New England, before starting their turnaround.

"As we started to win games after losing four of our first five, I began to remember those stories I read as a kid about 'The Miracle' Boston Braves of 1914, a baseball team that went from last place to first," said Marchibroda.

He said he knew the Colts could be turned around. "I saw George Allen do it twice—when I worked for him in Los Angeles, and then he made it happen again in Washington. I'm a believer."

Marchibroda worked with Allen for nine seasons—five in Los Angeles as an assistant and four in Washington as offensive coordinator. But he's not concerned that people still refer to him as Allen's prize pull. "It doesn't concern me at all," he said. "I knew I had to be my own man when I came here."

Collegians begin second football season Friday

By United Press International
College football's second season begins today, the start of a nine-game bowl week that is expected to confirm what most people already believe—Ohio State is No. 1.

The Buckeyes, an overwhelming choice for the top spot in the final regular season poll and the only unbeaten team in the top five, are heavy favorites to repeat their October rout of UCLA when they meet in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., next Thursday afternoon.

Before that, however, the stage belongs to some of the minor bowls, beginning today when Pitt, which shares a No. 17 national ranking, meets No. 19 (tie) Kansas in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., and No. 7 Arizona State faces No. 5 Nebraska in the Fiesta Bowl on the Arizona State campus at Tempe.

Pitt, featuring Tony Dorsett, beat Notre-Dame but couldn't beat Navy or West Virginia, while Kansas crushed

Oklahoma 24-9 in the year's biggest upset. Both Sun Bowl games, however, finished at 7-4.

"The Sun Bowl could set us up for next year," says Tony Dorsett, Pitt's star running back whose 1,544 yards this season pushed him over the 4,000 mark in three college years. "We want to show people what Pitt football and Tony Dorsett are all about."

Kansas, under first year coach Bud Moore, led the Big Eight in rushing with quarterback Nolan Cromwell (1,124 yards) and halfback Laverne Smith (864) providing most of the power.

Cromwell, who started the year as a free safety or defense, became the third quarterback in NCAA history to rush for more than 1,000 yards—and Moore, who saw plenty of wildcat quarterback while an assistant at Texas A&M and Alabama, calls Cromwell "the best option quarterback I have ever seen."

The Fiesta Bowl represents a chance for Arizona State to rebut the critics of Western Athletic Conference football—the Sun Devils were voted no higher than No. 7 despite their 11-0 record—and a chance for Nebraska to rebound from the 66-0 loss to Oklahoma that cost it an Orange Bowl spot. At first, the Cornhuskers declined the Fiesta invitation but later they agreed to go.

"There was a little letdown after the Oklahoma game," said defensive end Bob Martin of the Cornhuskers. "The next day, after people had slept on it, they decided they didn't want to go out losers. They wanted to go out and play another fine game. Our people want to redeem themselves."

Defensive back Mike Hayes of Arizona State says the contest is "the most important game" of his career. "We've always wanted to play a team that has a reputation like Nebraska and this is great for us," he said.

Rose bowl opponents return to drills

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — With the Christmas celebration and trip to Disneyland sealed in their memory book, Woody Hayes is bringing the meeting to order for his Ohio State Buckeye football team.

"I plan to run the turkey out of them Friday," Hayes said of a proposed heavy workout for his squad.

Another tough practice was planned for the UCLA Bruins by Coach Dick Vermell.

The Buckeyes and Bruins clash New Year's Day in the 62nd Rose Bowl football game.

For Ohio State, the game means a fourth straight trip here and a chance to clinch the national championship. For UCLA, two touchdown underdogs, it means another opportunity to play giant-killer in the role it had a decade ago when the Bruins stunned top-ranked and undefeated Michigan State, 14-12.

Both Hayes and Vermell gave their teams the day off Thursday to celebrate the Christmas holiday.

And for several of the coaches and players, the holiday away from home brought a twinge of homesickness, perhaps summed up best by Buckeye quarterback coach George Champ.

"I have three little girls," Champ said. "One 5 years old and the others 2-year-old twins. I would like to have a Christmas at home with them and my wife."

"This will be the fourth straight Christmas that my 5-year-old has spent in a hotel here. It's just not the same as celebrating Christmas at home."

The Ohio State athletes, coaches and aides celebrated Christmas Eve with a huge party together at the Sheraton Huntington Hotel here, replete with musical entertainment and the traditional exchanging of gifts.

Wives and children of the coaches and the five married players on the Ohio State team also took part in the celebration after being flown here late Tuesday.

Some of the coaches and players took advantage Thursday of a trip to the Balboa Yacht Club. They swam in an outdoor swimming pool on a beautiful sunny afternoon with temperatures in the low 70s and also enjoyed yachting around the harbor.

Huskies favored in Far West classic

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Unbeaten Washington heads a field of eight strong college basketball teams in the 59th annual Far West Classic.

Washington, one of the favorites in the strong Pacific 8 Conference, opens the tournament against Florida State, which won the Classic in 1972.

Oregon State, off to a 5-3 record in a tough pre-season schedule, plays tonight's second game against improved Northwestern, which has broken even thus far.

Saturday night will see Colorado State against Texas Tech and defending Classic champion Oregon playing Duquesne.

Oregon is led by all-American guard candidate Ronnie Lee. Coach Dick Harter's "Kamikaize Kids" have a 5-4 record but are still considered a dark horse in the Pac-8 race. Duquesne, 4-1, has lost only to highly-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas.

Colorado State is off to a 4-2 start and Texas Tech is 4-1, having lost only to Notre Dame.

Idaho slates first basketball reunion

MOSCOW — The first University of Idaho basketball reunion and the annual "Battle of the Palouse" will highlight the debut of basketball in the Kibbie-ASUJ Dome next month.

Washington State's highly regarded Cougars (6-2) will visit Moscow on Wednesday evening, Jan. 21, to battle the U Vandals (2-5). Making the event more colorful and meaningful for Vandal Boosters will be the first-ever UJ basketball reunion. And to top it off, the ex-Vandals will battle former Cougars in the preliminary game on opening night.

Activities for the two-day celebration in Moscow will begin at 6:30 p.m., Jan. 20, at the leadership awards where the Latah County Chapter of Vandal Boosters will sponsor a basketball reunion dinner-party for all former players and the general public. Tickets for the event will be on sale soon.

The preliminary contest (5:30 p.m.) will see in play for the Vandals all recipients of the Ronald White (most outstanding), Jay-Gano (most inspirational) and Oz-Thompson (sportsmanship) awards and the leadership awards from 1950-74. Already most of the great names in Idaho college history have given tentative confirmation to be in attendance for the two-day celebration in January.

Topping the list is perhaps the greatest Vandal of all time — Gus Johnson, Jr., of Akron, Ohio. The former rebounding sensation who played in the National Basketball Association for a number of years will visit the Inland Empire for three days. He will speak before the sportswriters and broadcasters (SWAB) in Spokane, Wash., Monday, Jan. 19, to promote the reunion activities.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, DEC. 27, 1975.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are able to devise a better course of action by thinking out an intelligent plan of action and gaining the support of a very influential person. Make plans for the coming year.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Know what your responsibilities are and gain the assistance of higher-ups to aid you. Get rid of any association problems.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A new attitude toward an associate will get fine results now. Handle civic work wisely and gain more prestige. Keep poised.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Attend to necessary chores early in the day so you will have more time for interesting activities later. Relax tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Good day to come to a more heart-warming relationship with loved one. Show your capabilities to one who can help you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study your home well and see what needs to be done to make it more comfortable. Search for the data you need in a new project.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take time to make long-range plans for the future. Avoid one who is all bluff and nonsense. Use extreme care in motion.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Use good sense in handling monetary affairs that are important to you. Avoid a tendency to neglect blood ties. Be happy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Contacting one who understands you and your views is wise. Alone-team work can accomplish a great deal. Be logical.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Gain advice from an expert on ways to handle your commercial affairs. Acting overly independent is unwise now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Listen to what a dynamic friend has to suggest so that you can get a personal matter handled properly. Think constructively.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan just what should be done to gain the goodwill of a bigwig. Follow your hunches now, since they are very accurate.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Extend your circle of friends and make sure they are worthwhile. Take steps to become successful in your line of endeavor.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... ...he or she will be a born organizer and upon maturity will be able to get an accurate picture of a situation. Teach to work early in life for best results, no matter what your financial status. Don't neglect ethical training.

The motor car, what a boon! So observed the magazine "S.A." just 74 years ago: "Improvement in city conditions by the general adoption of the motor car can hardly be overestimated. Streets clean, dustless and odorless with light rubber-tired vehicles moving swiftly and noiselessly over their smooth expanse will stimulate a greater part of the nervousness, distraction and strain of modern metropolitan life." That's what the citizenry believed then, all right.

IT'S THE MOON more than the sun that has to do with how potatoes grow, according to a British scientist.

SECOND MARRIAGE Many is the second marriage that works out: sure enough, frequently better than the first. Still, a divorcee's chances of happiness in a remarriage are only half as good in the second marriage, if you trust the statistics. And it is widely known her chances of success grow slimmer upon each remarriage. Every year's records, including last year's, prove that.

Q. "WHERE'D we get the word 'hobo'?"
A. Didn't I mention that? From hoo boy. The hobo is the aristocrat among those three categories of characters known as the hobo, the tramp and the bum. The hobo travels and works. The tramp travels and doesn't work. The bum neither travels nor works.

CAPRICORN Our Zodiac man contends the Capricorn girl is a highly domestic type. She likes nothing better, he says, than to cook, clean up the apartment, do the wash. Remember that, mister, if your ladyfriend is a Capricorn. Come her birthday, give her a sack of soap.

RECENT LONGEVITY STUDIES indicate that the men and women in Congress can expect to live somewhat longer than the average citizen for some mysterious reason.

THOSE LITTLE BOYS described by the medical fellows as hyperactive outnumber those little girls likewise described by six to one.

OUR PROPER JOB CLUB not only lists Mr. Plank of East Moline, Ill., as the president of the Mr. Plank Lumber Co., but as chairman of the boards.

service news

TWIN FALLS - Army Pvt. Ronald L. Tilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Tilson, Twin Falls, recently completed the new "One Station Unit Training" (OSUT) program at Ft. Polk, La. OSUT provides basic and advanced training with the same unit on the same post.

JEROME - Coast Guard Yeoman 1 C. Allen L. Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Robinson, Jerome, recently participated in the seizure of a fishing vessel while on a law enforcement patrol off the southern coast of Cuba.

He is a crewmember aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Diligence, homeported at Key West, Fla., which apprehended the vessel after a Coast Guard helicopter crew recovered two bags, later determined to contain marijuana, that had been seen thrown from the vessel. The fishing vessel was detained and escorted to Miami for further investigation.

A 1966 graduate of Twin Falls High School, Robinson joined the Coast Guard in October 1967.

Aliens must report

WASHINGTON, D. C. - John J. Reddy of the Immigration and Naturalization Service says that aliens in the United States will be required to report their addresses to the attorney general within the near future.

All aliens with few exceptions, who are in the United States on Jan. 1 each year must report their addresses by the end of that month.

Only the following classes of aliens are exempt from this requirement: (1) accredited diplomats; and (2) persons accredited to certain international organizations.

Forms with which to make the report can be obtained from any post office or Immigration and Naturalization Service office during the month of January.

ISU college renamed

POCATELLO - The college of medical arts at Idaho State University, which has existed as a college since July 1, 1968, will have a new name effective July 1.

The college will become the college of health-related professions, more accurately descriptive of the programs which it encompasses, according to Dr. F. D. Leiby, dean of the college since July 1974.

The designation medical arts implies the teaching of basic medical science, but the college at ISU is not a medical school," says Dr. Leiby. He notes that much incoming mail indicates that many persons are misled by the title into believing some type of medical school exists at ISU.

It is also an "archaic label," according to Dr. Leiby. He notes that in researching for a new title for the college, no college, school or university could be found offering similar health-related majors which uses the term "medical" at all.
