

Postal rates hit 13¢

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mailing a letter costs three cents more today — 13 cents. Chief Justice Warren Burger refused to grant a last-minute reprieve and allowed a $2.5 billion postal rate increase to become effective at 12:01 a.m. local time across the country.

At 6:10 p.m. EST Tuesday Burger denied a plea by bulk mailers to block the increase indefinitely. Burger issued an opinion, merely noting on the mailers' appeal the word "denied."

Officially, the average 26 per cent increase on all classes of domestic mail is only temporary, pending a ruling by the independent Postal Rate Commission on what rates should be made permanent.

Such a ruling is not likely until at least June, according to Postal Service officials. In the past, the rate commission has taken up to 22 months to act.

The Postal Service says it needs the additional income to help offset a projected $2.6 billion deficit for the current fiscal year. It is losing $225 million a month.

Seventeen states, an association of bulk mailers and the Eastern Seal Society all filed lawsuits seeking to prevent the rate increase. Federal District Judge John Sirica enjoined the hike, which was originally set to begin last Sunday.

The U.S. Court of Appeals lifted the injunction Tuesday. The heavy mail users asked Burger to reinstate Sirica's order. Burger waited six hours before delivering his decision.

The bulk mailers told Burger the Postal Service had violated its procedures in winning permission from its board of governors to file the increase proposal with the rate commission.

New York (UPI) — Authorities ordered all parked lockers at New York's three airports out of service today for an indefinite period in a move aimed at preventing a possible repetition of the bombing of LaGuardia Airport.

The Port Authority of New York, which operates LaGuardia, Kennedy International and Newark airports said it took the unusual action because of the Monday night bombing which killed 11 persons and injured 75 others. The airlines also requested the action, the Authority said.

Investigators, baffled in their search for the bombers who planted the device that had the explosive force of 25 sticks of dynamite, sifted through debris for clues.

Scores of city detectives were joined by 300 FBI agents in their search for the bombers and in questioning hundreds of persons who were in the terminal Monday night when the bomb exploded in locker A of the World Airways' baggage area.

"We don't know the reason for the bombing," Chief of Detectives Louis Cotel said Tuesday. "Because of that, the investigation at this time will have to explore many, many avenues."

Investigators already have questioned more than 100 persons who were in the terminal at the time of the blast, Cotel said.

"In addition to the World Airways baggage area, several hundreds of anonymous phone calls had added, 'I personally don't place too much faith in these falls.'

LaGuardia, with much of its main terminal building undergoing quick repairs, reopened Tuesday night more than 24 hours after it was closed by the blast.

The airport normally handles a 400 flights and about 38,000 passengers daily.

The locker that contained the bomb was located between two baggage conveyor belts in an area shared by TWA and Delta Air Lines. The powerful explosion destroyed the entire inside area, shattered plate glass windows 30 feet high and sprayed glass over 125 yards of roadway along with chunks of metal from the lockers.

"We are convinced this device was purposely set to go off at a precise time," Lt. Kenneth O'Neill, head of the police bomb squad said.

Church delays decision on bid

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church will delay a decision whether to seek the Democratic presidential nomination until Feb. 26 — the day his Special Senate Intelligence Committee ends its job.

Prior to the Christmas recess Church indicated he would announce for the nomination in time to campaign for the March 4 Massachusetts presidential primary and told Washington, D.C., reporters he would resign as committee chairman if he sought the nomination before committee work was done.

Mamie Eisenhower hospitalized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mamie Eisenhower was taken by ambulance from her Gettysburg, Pa., farm home to Walter Reed Army Medical Center, the Secret Service said today.

Secret Service agents assigned to the widow of President Dwight D. Eisenhower called for a Gettysburg Fire Department ambulance about 9 a.m., and she was taken to Walter Reed under police escort, a spokesman said.

No US pumps for Indian mines

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — The United States has no plans "at this time" to ship any pumping equipment to Chassala in eastern India where 72 miners are entombed in a flooded coal pit, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said today.

Shortly after the American official's statement, a Russian fleet carrying technicians and about 60 tons of pumping equipment landed at New Delhi's Palam International airport, an Indian government official said.

The official said arrangements have been made to fly the Soviet experts and equipment to Chassala. He gave no further details.

Vorster pushes Angola involvement

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Premier John Vorster said today only a greater involvement by the West in Angola can prevent a Soviet enslavement of Southern Africa.

In a New Year message, Vorster said "many more thousands will probably be killed" in the civil war unless Africa and the "free world" unite to break the Russian hold on Portugal's former oil-rich colony.

Udall tries to stem speculation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., today attempted to quash speculation that he plans to drop out of the Democratic presidential race to run for senator from Arizona.

In a written statement, Udall said supporters of some other candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination "apparently have sought to advance the notion" he was considering abandoning the presidential campaign.

Electronic equipment stolen

TWIN FALLS — Electronic equipment valued at $400 was taken from the Rock Creek Saloon west of Twin Falls.

Sheriff Paul Corde said someone entered the building by removing a temporary cover from a broken window. Terry Groves, owner of the business, said an amplifier, a four-channel recorder and eight-track tape deck were taken from the building.

The burglary occurred sometime before 4:30 a.m. Sunday.

Stamp line grows Business booms at post offices with attempts to beat 13¢ rate

TWIN FALLS — The last-minute rush to mail letters before the advent of the new 13-cent stamp brought large crowds to post offices Tuesday.

"It was just like Christmas all over again," according to Twin Falls supervisor of mails Russell Pletz.

A court decision had cleared the way for an increase in the price of a first-class stamp to 14 cents. The new stamps were required beginning at 12:01 a.m. today.

"We did a huge amount of business Tuesday because people were trying to beat the midnight deadline," Twin Falls Postmaster Lloyd Libert said. The supply of 10-cent stamps reportedly ran "very low" before the post office doors closed.

Customers who were inside the doors were waited on, as is the usual custom at closing time.

"We had lots of inquiries as to when the rate increase was going into effect," Bob Downing, longtime clerk, said today. "There were also many phone calls and several businesses speeded up and got their statements mailed Tuesday so as to beat the increase."

Asked if the clerks heard many complaints about the much-debated rate hike, Downing said many persons indicated they wished they would have had more notice as to the effective date of the increase.

Postmaster Libert said postal officials had tried to judge their supply of 10-cent stamps so "we'd be down to the lowest possible level," but clerks were beginning to wonder if the supply would last.

However, the Boise Post Office ran even shorter, and requested additional 10-cent stamps from the Twin Falls office, which complied with the request.

In the past postal rate increases have had little appreciable impact on mailings, Libert said, but he feels the current rise will "have some impact."

Downing reported "business was booming" all day Tuesday after Monday's U.S. Court Appeals decision cleared the way for the rise to go into effect Tuesday night. It was originally scheduled to be effective Dec. 22.

"We sold lots of 10-cent stamps and lots of 3-cent ones," Downing said today.

He said the local office's supply of the new 13 cents appears adequate and also the number of 3-cent stamps, but wondered if some offices might have been caught short.

Libert said he understood smaller postal offices had been ordering the new stamps "all along." It has been known all fall that the price increase would take effect sometime, he said, but in the past there always has been adequate notice of the effective date.

Downing said Tuesday's situation reminded him of the time, years ago, when 3-cent stamps went up to 6 cents and people lined up for 1-cent stamps. "That time they were just about out of 1-cent stamps, he said.

The officials agreed people expected the rate hike, but were caught unaware at the last-minute decision.

Ford predicts '76 election win

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today predicted he will be nominated as the Republican presidential candidate in 1976 to face Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., in the general election that Ford said he will win.

Ford met with reporters in the Oval Office on the last day of 1975 to review events of the year and forecast what will happen in the coming year.

Ford forecast he would win the Republican nomination over rival Ronald Reagan and predicted that Humphrey would be the Democratic presidential candidate.

"Regardless of the nominee, I think I can win," he said.

Ford said "We have a record. I think it's an impressive record... I'm going to run on it and I'm going to win on it."

Ford said he has a vision for America in 1976 and his New Year's resolutions are: — To dedicate himself to the strengthening of spiritual and moral values among 215 million people. — To resolve, to do everything possible to improve the economy and well-being of people throughout the world, because it contributes to stability at home and worldwide.

— To bring about peace at home and "within ourselves." — In foreign policy, Ford reaffirmed U.S. détente policy with the Soviet Union but again attacked Soviet-Cuban action in Angola.

Asked about détente, he said "I reaffirm it today. I think what's being done in Angola by the Soviets, in conjunction with the Cubans, is not constructive in the framework of détente."

"Angola is one area where détente has not worked as it should have worked," he said. "But he said détente had been helpful in the Middle East."

Ford told the Washington Post in an interview published today that he would remain in the 1976 presidential race even if he is defeated by Reagan in the early primaries.

Responding to questions, Ford also said:

— He will decide within a week on steps to overhaul the U.S. intelligence gathering agencies and will submit recommendations to Congress early in the new session starting Jan. 19.

— He does not believe the description of him as physically clumsy is accurate, but it irritates his pride because he knows it isn't true. He added that he thought if one keeps comparing and doesn't get rattled, things will work out pretty well. I have total confidence in my own ability and I think the record will prove it.

— He believes that in the long run, some of his unpopular decisions will be recognized as "right," although he is aware that his actions sometimes are seen as lacking in compassion and not humanitarian.

Classes due on Albion campus

BY SHANE O'NEILL
ALBION — Last members of the former Albion State Normal School plan to resume educational activities on the campus.

Harold Teeples said Tuesday his sons are continuing proposed development of various classes on the campus as soon as a lawsuit by the city of Albion is resolved.

Teeples, who at one time managed activities at the campus, said his sons are working on additional financing for development of the campus and have received assurances of monetary backing when they resume educational courses there.

Two couples — Dr. and Mrs. Douglas Teeples and Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Teeples, hold a 99-year lease on the property for "educational purposes."

The city of Albion has filed suit in an attempt to break that lease. The Teeples filed a countersuit for $450,000 in damages on the grounds that the city prevented them from operating the campus as the Oregon Trail Festival of Arts.

Andrus predicts belt tightening for '76

BOISE (UPI) — A New Year's message from Gov. Cecil Andrus predicted a belt tightening for state government in 1976 and urged care be given to spending tax money on people needs — not on desires of departmental administrators.

He also urged Idahoans to take advantage of the opportunities in 1976 to vote for issues and candidates at the polls.

"Unfortunately, not all of us go to the polls on election day. Some of us are not enough concerned to take the few minutes required to mark our ballots."

"If we believe there's a need to revise our spending priorities we can register our desires by voting for those candidates who most nearly represent our views."

"If we think taxes should be reduced, or at least held at present levels, we can express ourselves to our city, county and school district officials and our state legislators."

But Andrus said there is a need to remember "that if we want to maintain governmental services at their present levels, or even increase them, we can't cut revenue."

He said the financial outlook for 1976 "appears to be less rosy" than in the past several years when there have been substantial surpluses in the state's general fund.

"The indications are that we will have to tighten our belts a bit."

"That means that we can't increase appropriations for some state agencies, despite the fact that they can slow a need. We must be even more careful than in the past to be certain that our spending priorities are based on people needs, not on desires of departmental administrators."

"I have said many times I will not approve a general fund tax increase," he reiterated that pledge now.

Andrus said that "one of the valuable tools we will have to work with in charting our course in 1976 is the Idaho 'Tomorrow' program which solicited comment from citizens throughout the state on what they wanted Idaho to be like in the next 20 years."

"An overwhelming majority of Idahoans want their public officials to think of the effect on the environment before approving any program."

"They want continued economic progress, but they don't want it at the expense of the quality of living which is attracting an ever-increasing number of people to our state."

He said some additional land use planning legislation is needed, supplementing the basic law enacted in 1975. Any changes, he proposes, will retain that local control, he said.

The governor predicted that in 1976 "we will continue to provide the necessary governmental services on a fiscally responsible basis, we will continue to maintain the quality of life we now enjoy and we will end our bicentennial year convinced that the democratic form of government devised 200 years ago still is the best on earth."

Utah Power granted OK for interim rate hike

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission Tuesday granted Utah Power & Light a 15 per cent interim rate increase for all Idaho customers pending the outcome of a rate proceeding.

The interim increase applies to all classes of customers and is refundable in the event the commission determines in its final order that lower rates are just and reasonable.

The Energy Research and Development Administration and Monsanto Company, both large volume special contract customers, will be credited for existing fuel adjustment provisions in their contracts.

The utility filed an application with the IPUC Sept. 9 requesting a general rate increase of 32 per cent to generate increased revenues of $10 million for its Idaho customers.

Public hearings were held in October and December. In its order, the commission said, "Based on the record and the evidence presented to date, the commission is of the opinion that some immediate rate relief to applicant is necessary and justified."

"Nevertheless, the commission is also of the opinion that further proceedings in this case are necessary prior to the issuance of a final decision by the commission."

"Since the interim rate will be subject to refund, the public is assured protection should this commission determine after further hearings that the interim rates are excessive or not justified."

Tax measure filed

BOISE (UPI) — Bills providing for a county option sales tax and for repealing Idaho's Fair Trade Law have been drafted by two state senators, the office of Lt. John V. Evans reported today.

The tax measure by Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Lewiston, provides a county may levy a one per cent sales tax with the approval of the voters. The tax would be placed on all items presently taxed by the state.

Administering the proposed law would be the Idaho Tax Commission, which would be responsible for returning funds collected to the county and cities within the county on the basis of population.

The Fair Trade Act repealer was pre-filed by Sen. Stan Kress, D-Firth.

Gas cutback expected

BOISE (UPI) — Intermountain Gas Company said Tuesday it expects to curtail service to some firm customers by the middle of January.

Intermountain president R. Dean Grimm said he expects the curtailments to last one month to six weeks and will interrupt service primarily to third, fourth and fifth class boiler fuels.

He said the rate increase was aggravated because they were not able to pass along a rate increase on Zama Gas from Canada and because of this and the cost, "and we turned it back to the suppliers for reallocation to other distributors in the northwest."

He said some of the gas is coming to the company now and within the next two weeks they expect to fill the shortfall.

Reed Penning of Intermountain Gas said, "Our best estimate is the curtailment could last about 45 days."

He said during that time, it may affect 100 per cent of the boiler fuel, or maybe only 50 per cent, depending on the weather.

Confinement ruling issued

BOISE (UPI) — State mental health authorities, not courts, have exclusive rights to determine the facility in which a person acquitted of a crime on the grounds of insanity should be confined, the Idaho Supreme Court ruled Tuesday.

The court further held, however, that the state mental health authorities could not discharge or conditionally release a person from its custody without prior approval of the district court.

Kernell Timothy Nielson after acquittal on the grounds of insanity in the murder of a young Pocatello woman was ordered committed to the state penitentiary.

Since the inception of the maximum security mental health treatment facility at the State Prison, he has been confined to that unit.

The state mental health authorities petitioned Sixth District Court in Bannock County for authority to transfer Nielson from a maximum security to a moderate security mental health treatment facility. The district court denied the petition.

Nielson filed an amended petition seeking a declaratory judgment that the district court had no authority to interfere with the state mental health facility to which Nielson would be confined.

Rate hearing Jan. 6

BOISE (UPI) — A public hearing will be held Jan. 6 in Boise by the Idaho Public Utilities Commission on an application from Idaho Power Company to institute a new rate schedule governing extension of overhead line facilities.

The rates and conditions generally apply to construction of power lines to new subdivisions and rural areas.

The commission noted the rate schedule is similar and related to the Idaho Power Company's schedule for underground line extensions. The commission will consider both schedules at the Jan. 6 hearing in the commission hearing room at 9:30 a.m.

Fee study sought

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — University of Idaho President Ernest Hartung Tuesday asked the Idaho Board of Regents to review the school's student fee structure.

Hartung's request comes about three weeks after a ruling by a university administrative hearing board that part of the uniform student fee is illegally-charged tuition.

The hearing board held that the state constitution prohibits the university from charging students for the cost of instruction, but $30 of the $200 fee is used just for that purpose.

The hearing board's ruling was not considered binding at the time by university administrators, and Hartung said Tuesday he considered the ruling "advice."

The regents are to consider the matter at their Jan. 9 meeting in Boise, and Hartung said if undergraduate fees are lowered, fees for students taking professional courses could be raised to make up the difference.

Professional courses include architecture, forestry, education and pharmaceutical sciences.

Hartung said he hopes any action by the board would be effective no later than the start of the next school year.

Nessie claims made

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Nessie, the Loch Ness monster that has been haunting Scottish folk for centuries, has been haunting the Smithsonian for years. The Smithsonian has been increasing and diffusing knowledge, has at last been let out of the scientific closet."

Geologist George R. Zug says — or at least he appears to be trying to say — that Nessie "indeed, a whole family of Nessies," is really and truly, actually living in the ancient peat-clouded Loch.

With this impressive imprimatur of the Smithsonian Institution stamped on the legendary Nessie, the old family of sea serpents — or whatever they are — is entering a new era of respectability.

Zug, 37, curator of reptiles and amphibians at the Smithsonian, has never actually been to Loch Ness, although he would love to go, but he did attend a Loch Ness Monster symposium this month in the British House of Commons and he did examine evidence of Nessie.

Professionally, he agreed with the consensus of the participants that the evidence presented is not fallacious and indicates the existence of a population of large animals in the ancient Loch.

"I saw a strobe, time-lapse photograph of the head of an unknown animal," he recalls. "It was taken underwater from a distance of about 8 feet."

Beyond that, Zug would not go. He would not care to speculate on size, on a prehistoric species, nor would he care to doodle a drawing of what Nessie might look like.

One got the impression that the zoologist feels he has gone far enough already. Other august members of the Smithsonian body scientific still continue to squabble about Nessie and rank her right along with the Abominable Snowman.

Zug, however, feels that a serious expedition should be launched — with the emphasis on protecting an endangered species, not harpooning and beheading it.

He believes that surface water pictures are not as valuable as underwater shots simply because more of the creature can be seen underwater. It's much like trying to determine the shape of a whale from a surface view, as opposed to an underwater view.

Also, he thinks a movie camera should be mounted in about 35 feet of water and focused toward the surface. It should be run continuously, and only in the daytime so as to capture a silhouette.

"Only when we have some sort of idea of what we're dealing with should we even begin to think about trying to capture it," he says. "Even then, I might be best to leave it alone."

Zug was one of more than 20 scientists who attended the Dec. 30-31 symposium in England. His colleagues met in London after a symposium was canceled in Scotland in the wake of heavy publicity.

Several members of Parliament, believing the cancellation would only reinforce public impressions that the entire matter was a hoax, offered the House of Commons for the meeting.

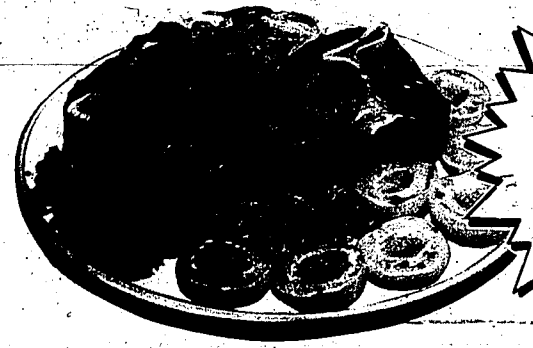

The Loch Ness monster has been assigned the scientific name "nessiteros Rhombogeryx."

Hubert settles debts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Min., has settled $250,000 in debts left over from his 1972 campaign, but a spokesman Tuesday denied it was a prelude to another bid for the presidency next year.

Humphrey settled with creditors for $35,000 — about four cents on the dollar.

David Gartner, Humphrey's administrative assistant, said the senator now has two loans totaling $81,500, remaining to be settled, and agreements on those debts are expected no later than Feb. 15.

Humphrey's settlement covered 11 individuals, most of them wealthy businessmen, who helped finance his unsuccessful 1972 presidential campaign. The books were closed on those debts after the creditors agreed to a 4 per cent settlement.

The money used to settle the loans came from fund-raising efforts earlier this year by a committee formed solely to repay 1972 debts. The committee will disband when the two remaining loans are settled.

Gartner said the settlement had nothing to do with a possible presidential run in 1976. He said Humphrey had decided "this is something we had to do way last spring, before any talk of presidential politics. These debts had been hanging over us for 3 1/2 years and we had to make some effort to get them settled."

Humphrey has said he is not a candidate for the 1976 nomination and will enter no primaries. But he says he would accept a draft and make his fourth bid for the White House if his party turns to him at the national convention.

The largest outstanding debt is $20,500 owed to the estate of Irving J. Kahn, a San Diego real estate developer. Gartner said lawyers for the estate have agreed to a $2,600 settlement, but it must be approved by the court.

The kind of settlement to which Humphrey's creditors agreed will not be permitted in future campaigns. But the Federal Election Commission waived that limit in the case of settlements for contributions specifically intended for payment of past debts.

Gartner said the settlements included a $175,000 debt to Joseph E. Cole, a Cleveland, Ohio, key manufacturer who accepted $7,000.

Former justice robbed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two men robbed former Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark outside his home Monday night, police reported.

Clark, who served as an associate justice on the Supreme Court from 1949 to 1967, was not injured in the incident which occurred as he was returning home from grocery shopping about 8:25 p.m. About $155 was stolen in the attack.

Police said they had no suspects.

Alternatives to JUB should be explored

Only three months ago the Twin Falls-Joint Planning Council was so fed up with the controversial stance of their planner that the council fired David Richey halfway through the writing of the county land use plan.

Wardle and Sale were accused in 1974 of being in the pocket of land developer DeWayne. Bills who also served on the Ada county planning commission.

Later, the two planners shifted their employment to J-U-B engineers and still swing from working as developers and then back to working as planners.

Now's our chance, Hay, Mr. President, may we have your autograph?

WASHINGTON — In sharp contrast to President Ford's total victory claims in the tax fight, his advisers were dragged kicking and screaming into a compromise after being fully prepared to adjourn Congress without any tax cut extension at all.

After reluctantly accepting the final compromise (privately described by one presidential aide as "us giving 60 per cent, them giving 40 per cent"), Ford publicly declared a "100 per cent victory."

defied political convention, there is little doubt the Democratic Congress next year will further extend the tax cut without obeying Ford's spending guidelines.

This is clearly not the triumphant turning point in his presidency which Ford's advisers anticipated Oct. 6 when he proposed $28 billion equivalent cuts in taxes and spending.

Long's idea could avoid confrontation and commended it to Treasury Secretary William Simon. Simon retorted that a six-month extension was a "trap," Congress would surely extend it for the second half of the election year.

Simon and other presidential advisers were content to let withholding rates rise to pre-1975 levels on Jan. 1 and blame the Democratic Congress. But most Republican Congressmen correctly saw this as suicide.

furious and surprised the House had sustained the veto and sure Ford would suffer for it.

This confrontation was averted only because Russell Long, in late afternoon, Dec. 18, invited two men to his Capitol office: Rep. Joe Waggoner, a Louisiana conservative Republican, and a conservative Democrat who voted to sustain the veto but privately suggested the compromise to Long weeks earlier.

Protest loud warning

WASHINGTON — A top money-raising man for Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, one of those putative presidential candidates, puts it this way in his New York West Side argot.

Final returns showed that Moscone, the fairly heavy favorite, won by 51.1 per cent of the vote to Barbagelata's 48.9 per cent.

When they saw it the next morning, senior presidential aides were not interested. Conabie argued that Ford had made his point and risked now give ground. The White House acquiesced, and the Senate passed the new bill.

Andrew Tully, a New York City lawyer, is the prime example. In effect, New York is working for its own good, and the Soviet people have many good words to say about it.

That's what Joseph Barbagelata's army was voting against in San Francisco. The new mayor will ignore that protest at his peril — and so will all those candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Good for Soviets

MOSCOW (UPI) — Pravda today summed up 1975 as a good year for the Soviet Union but not so good for the capitalist West.

Andrew Tully, a New York City lawyer, is the prime example. In effect, New York is working for its own good, and the Soviet people have many good words to say about it.

British protest medic's torture

LONDON (UPI) — Britain has recalled its ambassador to Chile to protest the alleged torture of a British surgeon who says she was treated to a bed and terminated with electric shocks for treating a leftist guerrilla leader.

Dr. Sheila Cassidy, 37, returned to London Tuesday after almost two months of captivity in Santiago. She said she now plans to become a nun.

Dr. Cassidy was met at the airport by Ted Howlands, a British Foreign Office official who announced that Britain had recalled Reginald Secombe, its ambassador to Britain. He left for London Tuesday.

Howlands also said Britain would deliver an official protest to Chile and refer the matter with the United Nations Human Rights Committee.

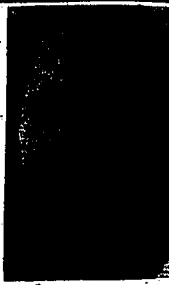

The Chilean embassy in London denied the allegations. Dr. Cassidy said she was arrested Nov. 1 in a police raid on a friend's house where she was treating a sick nun.

She said the police questioned her about a wounded man accused of being an urban guerrilla leader and whom she performed surgery on for gunshot wounds last October.

She said they resorted to torture to try and make her reveal the whereabouts of "the leader," although she said she had no idea where he actually was.

"They drove me to what I assumed to be one of their houses of torture," she said. "After a brief questioning I was submitted to electric shock. I was tied to a bed. It was total body shock."

She said Chilean security police "ripped off all my clothes" and "told me that this could go on and on until I talked."

Terrorists in Tripoli

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — The six pro-Palestine terrorists who abducted 11 oil chiefs in a raid on a Vienna oil meeting have flown to the Libyan capital of Tripoli, according to a police source.

There was no official statement on their departure Tuesday from Algiers, where they landed after their hijacking last week.

"The terrorists, who killed three persons in the raid Dec. 21, never asked for political asylum in Algeria and never were under arrest, official sources said.

According to Algerian government sources, the terrorists traded their freedom for the lives of two oil ministers before they surrendered Dec. 23.

The terrorists raided the Vienna headquarters of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries during a meeting of oil ministers.

Beirut gun duels erupt

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Gun duels between Christian and Muslim militias terrorized downtown Beirut today despite an agreement to begin clearing the streets.

A state radio announcer appealed for peace, saying that citizens trapped in their homes were "dying a slow death" from starvation.

Police said at least 17 persons were killed and 30 wounded over the past 48 hours, raising the casualty toll in nine months of civil war to nearly 6,650 dead and 14,100 wounded.

Gunfire, echoed throughout downtown Beirut throughout the morning as rival gangs traded fire around the main squares. In the suburbs and the uptown sector, however, the latest cease-fire was reported holding.

Rival militias had agreed to begin withdrawing from the streets today, Police sources said the pullout was being carried out in some areas, but the downtown shooting halted the pullback there.

State radio announcer Sharif Al-Akhalawi appealed for peace "so that we may finally bury this sad and tragic year behind us and make 1976 a truly happy New Year."

He told of one man who sold his blood to buy bread for his starving family and gave so much that he collapsed and had to be given emergency transfusions.

"Many similar citizens are dying a slow death in their homes because they cannot secure bread," he said.

Overall, security began to improve in the capital following a sudden deterioration Tuesday when word of a political deadlock over a Syrian-backed peace plan spread.

A Christian Phalangist party spokesman said his party's gunmen would begin leaving most of their positions today.

"We hope the other side will also comply with the withdrawal," he said.

Bodies identified

O.N.Y. Times Service WASHINGTON — The North Vietnamese government has informed Sen. Edward M. Kennedy that it is prepared to return the remains of two marines who were the last American servicemen killed in the Vietnam war.

The Massachusetts Democrat's office made public Tuesday a letter from Nguyen Duy Trinh, the North Vietnamese Foreign Minister, stating that the Provisional Revolutionary Government in South Vietnam had found the place where the two men had been buried and had identified their remains.

The two marine corporals, 19-year-old Darwin E. Judge, of Marshalltown, Iowa, and Charles McElhannon, 22, of Webster, Mass., were killed in a rocket attack on Jan San Nhut Airport on April 28 during the American evacuation from Saigon.

Station going in

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — About 200 Egyptian construction workers and technicians today began building an electronic surveillance station atop a craggy hill in the Israeli-occupied sector of the Sinai Desert.

The Egyptian station and an already existing Israeli surveillance post in the strategic Gidi Pass are designed to give both sides advance warning of possible attacks by the other.

The sources said an Egyptian truck convoy of workers and building materials, accompanied by Israeli and U.N. escorts, rolled along a two-lane asphalt road into the Gidi Pass area of the Sinai about daybreak.

The first task for the Egyptians was to build a road linking the site of the new station to the main road through the mountainous pass.

The monitoring station itself will be built under and on a 1,740-foot hill, 720, named for its height in meters.

The Egyptian crew was to have begun work Sunday.

Peron wins court nod

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — A federal judge has cleared President Isabel Peron of any wrongdoing in her handling of public charity funds that triggered an investigation of alleged corruption in her administration.

Judge Alfredo Nocelli Fasolino ruled Tuesday Mrs. Peron had made an "involuntary mistake" in August when she deposited $740,000 drawn on a public charity into the estate of her late husband, President Juan Peron.

Mrs. Peron shares the estate with the two sisters of Eva Peron, late wife of the former president.

New citizen

JUST as proud as she can be, Mirka Mims, New York, shows off her citizenship papers Tuesday after being sworn in. The 31-year-old woman, who fled Communist Albania in 1959, was granted U.S. citizenship by a special act of Congress. The bill waived residency, English language proficiency and U.S. history requirements. (UPI)

Burglars trapped

MHAN, Italy (UPI) — A quick-thinking apartment superintendent trapped two burglars in his building's elevator with their load of loot by switching off the electricity, police said.

Police turned it on again and arrested Salvatore Cappiello, 19, and Antonio Stallone, 23, both of Naples.

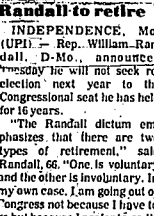

Steven wants job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Steven Ford, the President's 19-year-old son, is dropping out of Utah State University.

Steven, an outdoorsman, is hoping to find a parttime job in California raising horses while also going to school there.

Shella Weidenfeld, Mrs. Ford's press secretary, said Tuesday Steven will head for Southern California Jan. 3 and look for work.

Steven was a freshman at Utah State last year when he worked on a ranch in Montana.

Randall to retire

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UPI) — Rep. William Randall, D-Mo., announced Tuesday he will not seek reelection next year to the Congressional seat he has held for 15 years.

"The Randall detumescence emphasizes that there are two types of retirement," said Randall, 66. "One is voluntary and the other is involuntary. In my own case, I am going out of Congress not because I have to go but because I prefer to go."

Menninger III

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — Psychiatrist Karl Menninger is seriously ill from the effects of a brain tumor, a spokesman for the Menninger Foundation said Tuesday.

Menninger previously was listed in satisfactory condition at Stormont-Vail Hospital.

It was the first time any Menninger or hospital spokesman disclosed the existence of the tumor, believed to be responsible for the 62-year-old doctor's partial loss of hearing and recurring dizziness.

Prima remains 'critical'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Nightclub singer Louis Prima of "That Old Black Magic" fame remained in critical condition Tuesday at Cedars-Sinai Hospital where he has been in a coma since undergoing brain surgery in October.

The 63-year-old band leader, singer and composer, stayed home along with his former-wife, Keetley Smith, for his fast-paced singing duets during the 1950s and 60s. Some of his compositions included "Sing-Sing, Sing" and "Sunday Kind of Love."

Wide choice of welcomes

By United Press International

It can cost a lot to bring in the new year — unless you are among the many Americans who stay at home and watch Guy Lombardo's band play "Auld Lang Syne" on television.

A UPI survey shows prices for an evening's entertainment range from more than $250 per couple to the cost of a few drinks at the neighborhood tavern.

"Millions will about 'Happy New Year' and kiss their spouses, lovers and friends — not necessarily in that order — at midnight tonight.

It happens at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, with Lombardo's band in the flesh and Artie Franklin doing the vocals. The cost per person is advertised at $80 to $90 for the works.

The "works" include filet mignon and the balloons, hats and hosiery items traditionally present at the affair.

For those willing to settle for a little less, but eager for an evening out, there are clubs with such fanciful names as "Forbidden Passion," "Cockle Jar," and "Adam & Eve."

These feature topless performers and hold out the promise of free admission, buffet and New Year novelties. What the liquor bill may come to is anyone's guess.

The New York pattern more or less holds true for most large cities.

On Florida's Gold Coast, the highest priced show features Bob Hope at the Regency ballroom in the Diplomat Hotel in Hollywood, a suburb of Miami. Prices are based on how close your table is to the stage — from $100 for ringside down to $35 a table near the kitchen door.

The menu at the Diplomat for the evening will include avocado Acapulco, roast sirloin of beef with truffe sauce, asparagus, browned potato, trays of fruit, Grand Marnier ice cream glaze. A spokesman at the hotel said sales for both shows were "fantastic" and added that the $109 ticket "goes easier than the others. We've had no trouble selling them."

Reports from San Francisco indicate prices are up as much as 40 per cent over last year.

The classic and most expensive show in town is probably at Victor's Dining room on the 32nd floor of the St. Francis Hotel. Limited to 70 couples, the price is $130, up $20 from last year. Patrons get a 10-course dinner and at midnight are handed a bottle of Dom Perignon Brut, 1966 champagne.

The Rowan Brothers and a buffet dinner at the Old Waldorf Bar & Grill on California street are available at $6 per person for those with "less cash."

At San Quentin prison inmates can see a "Bicentennial 1976" show on New Year's Day. The show has 20 groups such as Merlo Haggard and the Strangers — but the price of admission is a bit steep.

Bricklayer 'swears off'

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Bricklayer Miguel Angel Frias had too many tequilas at a friend's wedding reception last Saturday and went into a warehouse near Mexico City's International Airport to sleep it off.

"Next thing he knew, he found himself 5,000 feet up in the cargo section of a Colombian plane bound for Bogota."

On arriving in the Colombian capital Sunday night, the aircraft's crew turned Frias over to immigration authorities, who ordered his immediate deportation to Mexico.

Frias returned to Mexico City Tuesday and said, "I've always wanted to visit South America — but not this way. I never got to see anything but the airport."

"I'm never going to get drunk again," he vowed.

Mother, boy friend face murder charge

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Police are holding a mother and her boy friend whom they say battered one of the woman's two children to death Christmas Day and severely injured the other child.

Mrs. Diane Lamar Mims, 23, and James Turner, 30, of Birmingham, were arrested Tuesday and charged with murdering 2-year-old Shequita and severely injuring the 6-month-old Denise Lamar and beating Shequita's 6-month-old brother, Anthony DeWayne Mims.

Police said the two children, were apparently severely beaten and — punched on Christmas Day and a child and a bell. Mrs. Mims told hospital officials Shequita was injured, when she had fallen out of her bed and they didn't know how the baby was injured.

The 2-year-old girl died on Monday in Children's Hospital. When police went to the Mims' residence in the southwest section of Birmingham, they found the six-month-old boy suffering from a broken leg, a fractured skull and two broken vertebrae.

The baby was listed in fair condition in Children's Hospital, Turner and Mrs. Mims were charged with murder and child abuse. Police said no bond will be set.

Kennedys hit slopes

SNOWBIRD, Utah (UPI) — Not only did the Kennedy clan bring a welcome snowstorm with them, they also received special treatment at Snowbird Ski Resort — from a friend of President Ford's.

All the Kennedys except Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis enjoyed the foot of new snow that fell Tuesday, and while the rest of the more than 3,000 skiers had to stand in line for a ride, Snowbird assigned a ski patrolman to each of the Kennedys — allowing them to cut to the front of lift lines.

Mrs. Onassis, Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., and their relatives are spending New Year's week as guests of Dick Bass, one of the resort owners.

President Ford was also a guest of Bass on his Christmas week stay at Vall, Colo.

DEAR ABBY: I can't understand how this happened, but it did, and here are the facts:

My wife and I have been happily married for 27 years. My trouble began a few months ago when our youngest son found a stray dog. The next day I saw an ad in the local newspaper describing the dog and offering a reward for his return.

Of course, we contacted the owner who said he'd be right over to pick up the dog.

Well, a knock on the door brought joy to the dog owner, but sorrow to me because my wife, who is almost 50, is now carrying on an affair with the dog owner, who is a 19-year-old boy! She doesn't know that I am on to the whole business.

Rush your advice, please.

GONE WITH THE DOG

DEAR GONE: It's not unusual for a menopause mama to try to recapture a bit of her youth. But it's usually in fantasy—not in fact. Be patient. It will probably pass.

Dog leads to affair

DEAR ABBY: My son died two months ago, leaving a young widow I'll call her "Mary" and three small children. He was only 34.

Mary said she was so helpless and upset she couldn't function, and she asked if she and the children could move in with me until she got "straightened out." My husband and I welcomed her.

Within a month, Mary was dating nearly every night, and I was the babysitter.

On her first date she asked the fellow in, and he stayed until dawn. I heard noises in the living room, and when I went to investigate I saw them "making out" (I think that's what you call it) on theavenport.

Abby, I'm not saying Mary shouldn't date, but I'm not ready to see my daughter-in-law making out on myavenport so soon after my son's death.

My husband and I had words about it. He's on Mary's side: He says I can't expect her to stop living. I say, she can go on living, but if she wants to make out so soon after my son's death, she should consider my feelings and not do it in my house.

By the way, my husband was not the father of the son who died; he was his step-father. Could that make a difference?

GRIEVING MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Yes, a big difference. I'm on your side. I think your daughter-in-law is extremely insensitive to your feelings to behave as she does. Now that she can function, she should have a place of her own.

DEAR ABBY: Is there a certain age limit when a woman should stop bearing children?

I'm quite concerned about this because my 41-year-old mother who is expecting has been subjected to some very rude and cruel remarks, such as, "Didn't you know that abortions were legal now?" and, "It must have been an accident. Surely you didn't want a child at your age!"

What's wrong with having another baby after the others are grown? My mother was very happy at the prospects of having another child until people started cutting her down. Please comment.

HURT DAUGHTER

DEAR HURT: The good Lord and Nature determine the child-bearing years. And when a woman is "too old" to bear a child, she won't be able to.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

By Oswald & James Jacoby.
The Alcatraz coup was given that name back in the early '50s when a particularly slimy expert first tried it. Today's hand illustrates this play at its worst.
South is worried about the 10 of trumps. He is going to have to ruff the third heart. If West started with three spades to the 10 South won't be able to shut it out. If he started with 10 and one South can ruff high and pick it up but if West started with two small and South ruffs high it is going to establish the 10 in the East hand.
Our unsavory character found a way to have his cake and eat it too. He ruffed the second heart with the nine of trumps. West overruled with the 10. Dummy asked, "No hearts, partner" and South found a heart.

He took back his nine, followed suit, proceeded to ruff high the next time, dropped West's 10 and managed to make the contract. He gave it back after West threatened to punch him in the nose and North told West to go ahead.

Ask the Jacobys

Today's article was prompted by a Cleveland reader's request about what to do when someone perpetrates an Alcatraz coup. In duplicate the director should not only adjust the score in favor of the victim, but if he believes that the offense was deliberate, should assess a severe disciplinary penalty. In any major tournament he surely would and the tournament committee would back him up. In rubber bridge games it is up to the other players to see that the offender mends his ways.
Do you have a question for the expert? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelope are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of "JACOBY MODERN."

Extra second planned

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI)—Scientists will add an extra second to the age of the earth now before the world grows one year older at midnight Wednesday.

The "leap second" will be added at the stroke of 5 p.m. (MST) to make up for a slow down in the rotation of the earth during 1975, according to Dr. James Barnes of the National Bureau of Standards.

"It's just a discreet step in time," Barnes said Monday. "The earth's been slowing down. We just put in an extra second. It's done on an international basis with just about all major countries."

your health

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
Once you start taking pills for high blood pressure you have to take them always. I am 63 and have high blood pressure 14 times. — Mrs. G. P.

Your statement that you have high blood pressure "at times" is a bit confusing. Your blood pressure can vary according to your mood, indicating any serious problem. For true hypertension to exist the pressure must be sustained at an unacceptably high level over an extended period of time.

Then if your hypertension is of the "primary" type (having no known cause), the treatment decided on would be for life. The level of dosage, though, might vary depending upon how effective other steps are in lowering the pressure. Weight loss, if needed, salt restriction, and avoidance of stressful situations.

This could be a temporary thing which might correct itself as the body resumes normal blood production. But he may need appropriate supplements. Report these symptoms to his doctor.

Also, the skin changes its tone with age, and this combined with the excessive sweating could magnify the itching problem. It is doubtful that at this age he would be developing a specific allergy, which in a younger person might account for the itching. But you might have him use one of the non-perfumed, non-colored soaps.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
Could you let me what U.R.I. means? — A.B.

Hypertension explained

This is, of course, another good reason why such therapeutic drugs are prescribed and can't be purchased indiscriminately. The dosage that is good for today may be too much (or too little) for you in the years ahead.

"Most hypertension is primary, and then it is usually necessary to take the drugs for life. But your first step would be to determine whether or not you really have the problem."

"Often the cause of hypertension can be found in a glandular malfunction... a kidney problem or some other treatable condition. In gain, dosage levels of blood pressure drugs would depend on how successful your doctor is in treating these."

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
My father has a terrible itching and the spells seem to be getting more regular. His age is 77. After a bath or after being in contact with the air it seems to be more severe. Various preparations didn't seem to help. I should say, too, that for months prior to this itching we had to have blood taken from him every month because his body was making too much. Now he does a lot of sweating. He is badly in need of relief. — Mrs. L.H.

"From your description of your father's symptoms and his recent history of blood-letting, the possibility of anemia or other blood disorder immediately comes to mind. Excessive sweating can be a symptom of iron-deficiency anemia."

mean something entirely different to your doctor.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
Every other month or so, when I get my period I pass clumps of blood. Sometimes they are quite large. I've never had any cramps or pain. Is there reason to worry? Can you tell me what might be causing this? I am in my mid-20s, on the pill, and am also diabetic. But my Pap tests have been negative. — Mrs. D.D.

Generally menstrual blood clots do not vary much unless the volume of flow is large. In the absence of an anal and with your negative Pap tests, you would appear to have no cause to worry, but nevertheless you should bring it to the attention of your doctor.

To find out what causes high blood pressure and what can be done to treat it, send for a copy of "Controlling Your Blood Pressure (Hypertension)" by Dr. Thosteson. Write to him in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 25 cents.

2 plan experts 'controversial'

BY GORDON JUDD
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — The two Boise planners who have been recommended to finish the Twin Falls County landscape plan were charged in 1974 with not properly doing their planning jobs and with being too sympathetic to land developers.

Mike Wardle and Larry Sale, both employees of J-U-B Engineering, were recommended to the Twin Falls Joint Planning Council six weeks ago to finish the Twin Falls County land-use plan.

Two weeks ago the planning council recommended to the county commissioners that J-U-B's Wardle and Sale be hired to finish the land-use plan.

Investigation shows both Wardle and Sale worked as planners for Ada County and the city of Boise in 1974 where both men became embroiled in a controversy over special interest groups manipulating the planning office.

On Aug. 2, 1974, 16 city and county planning staffers in Ada County issued a public statement complaining about special development interests influencing land-use decisions in Ada County.

In their memorandum the disgruntled personnel at the Ada County planning office said they were frustrated by "having policies and programs constantly defeated."

The memorandum specifically complained about the interference in the planning process by Dewey Bills, then member of the Ada County Planning Commission and also a major land developer in Boise.

Both Wardle and Sale quit the planning staff in Boise after the memorandum was released and went to work for developer Dewey Bills.

In the 1974 memorandum Wardle and Sale were specifically mentioned as showing "consistent reluctance to request analysis and commitment of regional planning staff concerning applications or to acknowledge comment when offered."

According to an editorial printed in the Idaho Statesman concerning the charges against Wardle, the planner personally presented many of developer Bills' applications for projects in Boise.

State police out in force

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley driver who celebrates too much and then takes to the highways tonight will have a better than usual chance of meeting state police officers.

Lt. Roy Thomas, officer in charge of the Magic Valley district of the Idaho State Police, said he will have all available officers on the Magic Valley highways New Year's Eve to discourage drunken driving and to prevent accidents. He said officers normally off on Wednesday night will be working and taking their time off after the holidays.

Thomas said he would like to see a good storm for New Year's Eve.

Russ Carter, the former head of regional planning for Ada County who personally worked with Wardle and Sale in Boise, raised the question Monday the two J-U-B planners might be unable to work objectively on the Twin Falls landscape plan. Their parent firm, J-U-B Engineers, has projects in Twin Falls County.

Carter said he personally "would have some difficulty" switching roles in a firm whose interests include private developments and municipal planning.

Carter suggested Twin Falls should consider hiring a firm such as CH2M or Stevens, Thompson and Runyan Inc., both planning firms which he thought had planning departments devoid of private developer interests.

When asked about the 1974 controversy in Boise about the entire story was not told by the staff memorandum.

"You need a little more background, that was it," he said. Sale said the Ada County Planning and Zoning Commission officially has gone on record saying his service was "more than adequate."

Wardle could not be reached to comment about the 1974 charges stemming from his work on the Boise planning commission.

In an earlier interview with the Twin Falls planning commission and the Times-News, Wardle said he "sincerely" didn't see any problem of conflict of interest in working for Twin Falls.

Wardle said then he would work to present "some pure planning philosophy" if hired to complete the Twin Falls land-use plan.

Sale said that he did not believe his past or present work with developers would prevent him from helping Twin Falls County do some effective planning.

"There can be no conflict of interest because none of the J-U-B people, involved are in a position where they are going to make any decisions," Sale said.

"We certainly do serve the interests of some land development clients but I prefer to think we do that work because we're the best," Sale said.

"We have turned down clients because their proposals were not in agreement with the county's comprehensive plan," he added. "Basically we are honest people."

TF sets blood quota

TWIN FALLS — A quota of 200 pints of blood has been set for the Red Cross drawing Tuesday at St. Edward's Parish Hall in Twin Falls.

Gary Collins, bloodmobile chairman, said hours of the drawing will be from 11 to 7 p.m.

Collins said the blood is transported in the Red Cross blood center in Boise immediately after the drawing is completed for typing and testing.

The blood is then prepared for use either as whole blood or made into components depending upon the need at the time.

As requests are received from the various hospitals, the blood is packed and delivered, according to Collins.

Police urge caution

TWIN FALLS — Thefts of entertainment and highway radio equipment from commercial and private vehicles have been continuing on a frequent basis, city police warned today.

Officers said vehicles with such equipment should be watched closely and should not be left unlocked or parked in areas where they are out of view.

Cable Vision employees reported the removal of two-way radio equipment from two of their trucks Tuesday night. The estimated loss was $300.

Ron Garrison, 321 Fifth Ave. E., told police someone entered his pickup truck Monday night and took a citizen-band radio from the vehicle while it was parked at his home. Loss was estimated at $189.

Kathy Ward reported the theft of a stereo player and tapes, from her vehicle while it was parked at her home, 1214 10th Ave. E. She estimated value at $178.

TF police probe burglaries

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls City police were investigating three vehicle burglaries today.

Steven Helms, 323 Polk St., told police someone broke into his 1969 pickup and took a citizen-band radio valued at $400.

Norman Kent Smith reported a burglary of his pickup truck and the loss of a stereo and two speakers valued at $128. Smith is from Paisley, Ore.

Dean Reddick, 178 Moreland, reported someone entered a storage compartment in the rear of his pickup truck while it was parked at his home Monday night. Missing were sleeping bags, camping equipment and bedding, valued at $147.

TF crime rate reverse of national trend

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls has an encouraging reversal of the national trend of growing crime rate.

While serious crime in the United States for the first nine months of 1975 rose 11 per cent, Twin Falls statistics show a decrease of 9 per cent, according to Ben Shinn, Boise, of the Idaho Department of Law Enforcement records division.

Shinn said the increase of serious crimes for Idaho as a whole was 5.2 per cent, about half the national average. The crimes included in the serious crime category by the FBI's uniform crime reports, include homicide, forcible rape, robbery, assault, burglary, larceny and motor vehicle thefts.

City, police and county law enforcement departments send monthly reports to the state and these statistics are used to compute the national percentages. The nine-month report was issued Monday by US Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi.

The national figures are part of a regular quarterly report compiled by the FBI, according to John W. Burns, Butte, special agent in charge of Montana and Idaho division.

According to figures reported Monday from the records division at the Twin Falls police station, the number of crimes in these seven categories reported in 1974 was 11.85 while the 1975 total for the same nine months was 933.

Twin Falls police chief Frank Barnett said the figures are not comprehensive enough to be "really significant," although he agreed that "compared with national figures we're doing pretty good, especially considering the increase in population."

Shinn said of nine major cities in Idaho in the 15,000 to 25,000 category, crimes listed in the FBI report were up 17.4 per cent, even though Twin Falls is one of the nine cities included in the report.

"We haven't kept records such as this long enough to be able to make any statements as to their significance," Shinn said. Next year he hopes his agency can make some forecasts, but as yet "we don't have the history to do it."

He stressed, as did Barnett, that the figures from Twin Falls over the period from January to September for the two years "are so small that they can be misleading, especially if put into percentages."

Shinn said, for example, since there was one case of forcible rape reported in Twin Falls in 1974 and two this year. "You could say rape was up 100 per cent and you'd scare every woman to death."

The same theory holds for homicide in Twin Falls with three murders reported in 1974 and none during the same nine months in 1975 for a drop of 300 per cent.

Burglaries were up in 1975. Chief Barnett said, the state figures on Twin Falls. Shinn said, showed burglary up 52 per cent, but larceny dropping by 38 per cent.

According to the national FBI report, cities in the 100,000 population category have a 9 per cent increase in the volume of Crime Index offenses, while suburban and rural area communities show a 12 per cent rise.

Geographically, the Western States showed the smallest rise in reported crimes. They reported an 8 per cent climb compared to 13 per cent for the Southern States, 10 per cent for the North Central and 11 per cent for Northwestern States.

According to FBI director Clarence M. Kelley, serious crime for all 1974 was 18 per cent higher than in 1973 and during the first six months of 1975 rose 13 per cent, so the current increase is not as large as in past periods which is "encouraging."

"But it must be remembered," the report says, "the figures show an increase and the crime rate remains at an intolerable level."

New snow for skiers

TWIN FALLS — Record numbers of skiers have been taking to the slopes this week and local resorts expect the trend to continue for New Year's Day.

Both Magic Mountain and Pomereulle report excellent skiing with about 6 inches of new snow at Magic Tuesday and a foot of new powder this morning at Pomereulle. Magic Mountain, which opened for the season Monday, observed "the best day's operation, with a big workload."

Pomereulle crews have been the largest in the resort's history, according to owner Woody Anderson.

Sun, Valley and Soldier Mountain report new snow and are also experiencing heavy use of lift facilities.

Soldier Mountain reports 34 inches of snow at the top of the chair lift and 18 inches at the lodge, with one inch of new snow and are also experiencing heavy use of lift facilities.

Sun Valley also has an inch of new snow, with 30 inches at the top of Bald Mountain, 18 inches at the Road House, and 6 inches at the valley floor.

Milar sees good year for TF

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Jean Milar, Twin Falls City manager, expects 1976 to be a good year for the city, marked by completion of a $7 million sewage plant and a new law enforcement building.

Milar said the new secondary sewage plant already is operating partially.

He said the liquid treatment unit is now completed and in use with the solid waste treatment equipment to be added in early spring.

Milar said the plant is designed to handle about 50,000 population, probably adequate for the next 20 to 25 years.

"Another goal for 1976 is the addition of a new law enforcement building to the city facilities at Second and Third Avenue East. This building is now under construction and expected to be completed by early fall or late summer.

Milar said when it is completed at a cost of about $500,000, the old building which has served since the early 1900s will probably be demolished to add parking in the downtown area.

There are no major projects to begin in 1976, Milar said. This will be the final year for revenue sharing under the present program and much of the city's $400,000 revenue sharing bonus will go toward the new law enforcement building.

The city is planning to begin a several stage program to install a sprinkler system for the municipal golf course. He said the most difficult areas to irrigate will get the first sprinkler units with others to follow until the entire course is sprinkler irrigated rather than by the present hose and flood irrigation methods. This is expected to cost about $250,000 for the entire system, Milar said.

Street, water and sanitation departments will generally continue their existing programs although the city will be cooperating with the state for improvement of the Second Avenue where one-way streets carry federal highway traffic through the city. The city's "Urban-D" funds for improvement of main roads have been earmarked for this cooperative program, Milar said.

Under the Community Development project being directed by LaMar Orlon, the city hopes use 1976 revenue to acquire property for development of residential and recreational purposes along Rock Creek Canyon and in the canyon below.

Milar said public hearings will probably be held in April or May on the comprehensive plan for Twin Falls city and county. It is hoped the plan can be adopted in early summer.

With 1976 being the bicentennial year, Milar said the city will cooperate with or assist any group planning a special observation. He said a number of events are on the schedule and the city may stage such things as fireworks displays and help promote events planned in the community.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JANUARY 1, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Study ways to organize your affairs to yield much greater returns. Uncover flaws in your methods and replace with more satisfactory ones.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Plan how to make the new year a better one. Learn how to handle bigwigs better also. Make this a happy family time.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study fine new ideas. Make new acquaintances which can blossom into fine friendships. Evening is best for this.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get rid of duties left undone as the old year closed and handle them carefully. Follow hunches in p.m., but not in daytime.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Forgive that partner who was only out of sorts when speaking hastily. Come to a better understanding with all in p.m.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan how to become more efficient in future and get busy-handling work you left undone, which is important to you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Rid yourself of tensions at home, then you can have a fine social evening. Do creative work that you like.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Relieve any tensions at home early, then you can get much done without worry. Entertain in p.m., but don't stay up late.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Difficulty in communicating is possible during day, but the evening is fine. Make a new plan for happiness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Analysis of your monetary position may seem bleak in a.m., but later you find it better than you thought.

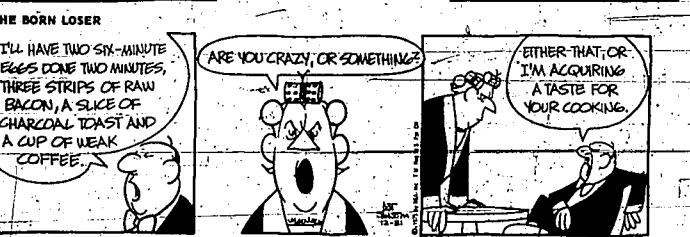

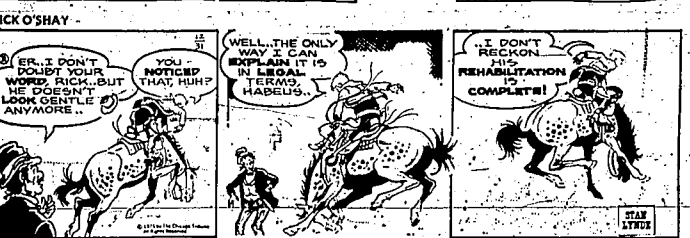

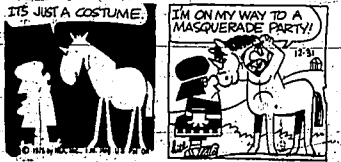

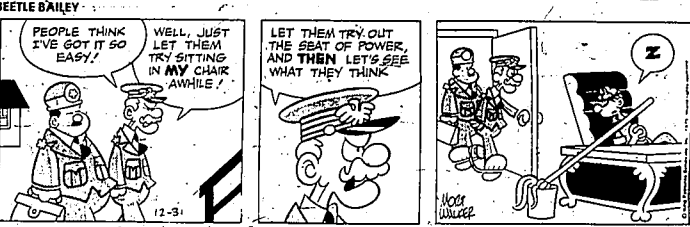

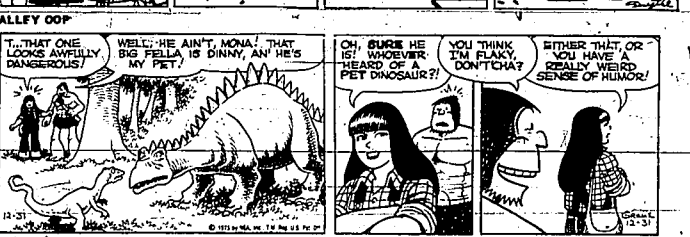

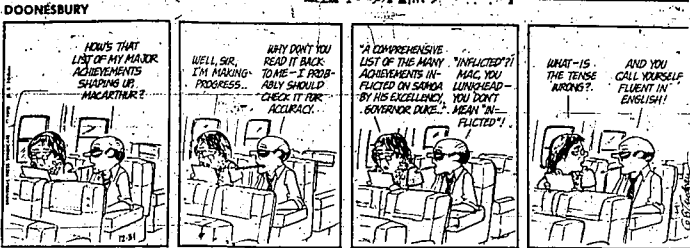

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Help others more during day instead of expecting them to help you, and in a few days they give you all the aid you need.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You may feel you have not progressed sufficiently recently, so analyze the situation well and make needed improvements.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Slew class of an old friend who is in a depressed mood which could rub off on you. Tensions lift in p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...... he or she will have a most serious manner literally from birth and should be taught early to cultivate a sense of humor. Give up the idea of being a doctor, since there is much ability at organizing. Much success is possible in big business, government, teaching, etc. Upon maturity the nature becomes lighter and real popularity sets in. Give sports early, also, and religion.

Q "Where did that caress known as the butterfly kiss originate?"

A Possibly in Bali. There it's highly popular. And the mouth kiss is unknown, or was unknown in bygone years. So says our Love and War man.

WHO'S BOSS in a litter of puppies. That, too, has been researched. If it's an all-male litter, the largest takes charge. If it's an all-female litter, the loudest does so. In a mixed-litter, the biggest-male-and noisiest female tend to debate the issue at some length.

YOGA Everybody has heard about "yoga" but for many realize it means literally "yoked with God."

Were you around these parts when that clockmaker Laurens Hammond created the first practical electric organ? If you're more than 41 years old, you were. He did it so recently as 1934.

Q "WHAT'S the oldest building in California?"

A. The First Chapel of the Mission San Juan Capistrano, Note 1777 as the construction date.

WHAT TOO MANY amateur birdhunters can't seem to get through their heads is the effective range of the average shotgun. Say 55 or 65 yards. They go on banging away at out-of-range fowl, scarring the landscape with nothing but noise. So reports a seasoned shooter.

DOCUMENTARY The best documentary film I've ever seen is "The Rise and Fall of the CIA."

DO YOU KNOW how the early Chinese made the first jams? They picked them in wine brine and smoked them over tea leaves.

CONSIDER all those citizens who for the first time in their lives hotfoot it out to buy a new car. A third of them are women.

CLIENT ASKS why all the Pony Express horses had black hooves. Because the black hooves were harder, said the buyers. About 80 lads of 18 years or so rode more than 500 such horses between Sacramento and St. Joseph, in 1860, that started. The same year that Oliver F. Winchester turned out the first repeating rifle, that Stephen Foster wrote his "Old Black Joe," that some unknown baseball fan inaugurated the seventh-inning stretch. Oh, you thought a U.S. president years later started that seventh-inning stretch custom? No, records reveal it was a common practice as far back as the Pony Express days.

Nation's traffic death toll drops in spite of increased travel

By United Press International
 The nation's traffic death toll for the year 1975 will drop by about 1,000 in spite of increased travel, marking the second straight yearly decline in fatalities and the lowest death toll in 14 years, according to a spot UPI survey of all 50 states.

Authorities are hard-pressed to explain the drop but suspect it is partly because of stricter enforcement of the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit.

The latest traffic death figures from each state show a total of 42,599 fatalities compared with 43,492 for corresponding periods a year ago.

When the energy crisis hit in late 1973, authorities had ready reasons for the decline in traffic fatalities from 55,500 in 1972 to 46,200 in 1974. They attributed it to a drastic curtailment in travel and the newly imposed nationwide 55 mile per hour speed limit to save gas.

But this year travel is up about 3 per cent from last year and equal to that in the record year of 1973, and side-road speed limits, lowered at the height of the energy crisis, are rising again. Still, the death toll will be close to 45,000, assuring the lowest fatality rate per hundred million miles traveled since World War II.

"We're holding our own with the energy crisis," said Don Lhotka, a spokesman for the National Safety Council's statistics division, "but we've been unable to pinpoint the reason for the reduction in deaths to any one factor."

He said it appeared to be a result of several factors, including slower speeds, increased use of safety belts and stricter enforcement of the speed limit by state troopers.

Georgia's public safety director, Col. Herman Coker, said speeding arrests there soared to 120,000 this year compared with 94,000 a year ago. Traffic deaths through Dec. 21 were down 156 from the same date a year ago, the biggest dip in the Southeast.

Georgia state highway patrol officials said drivers are now doing 60-65 miles per hour where they used to go 60 and 65.

Traffic figures for late December dates were available in bill, except four states. In Illinois, Louisiana and Pennsylvania figures were available only through Nov. 30, and New York had figures only through Oct. 31.

A total of 29 states plus the District of Columbia reported reductions in traffic deaths from corresponding periods in 1974, two states were about even and 19 others had increased death tolls.

Texas officials blamed the state's increase of 255 deaths on poor enforcement of the speed limit.

Display ordered by FTC

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission today ordered manufacturers and retailers who offer warranties to put them on display so consumers can become better comparison shoppers.

Under the rules, warranties must be made available to shoppers in one of four ways:

— As a text in "close conjunction to the product."

— In a binder available on request for inspection.

— In the product package in such a way as to be visible.

— On a sign displaying the warranty text.

In addition the rules specify that those offering warranties for any product actually costing the consumer more than $15 must write the guarantees in a meaningful way.

The warranty must spell out what is covered by or excluded from coverage, and the warrantior will do in the event something goes wrong, including who will pay for what, and a "step-by-step explanation of what the purchaser should do to get the warranty honored."

Those rules, which implement the 1974 Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act, go into effect on Jan. 1, 1977.

Indira scores outsiders

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi accused unnamed foreign powers today of responsibility for the continued instability in neighboring Bangladesh.

Mrs. Gandhi said that India desired stable and friendly relations with its neighbors.

Mrs. Gandhi was speaking at the All-India Congress Committee — the policy-making body of the ruling Congress party — which is meeting at Chandigarh, about 180 miles northwest of New Delhi.

"But some countries had not liked this," the prime minister said, "and had intervened in the Bangladesh affairs and brought about the present situation in that country."

India's relations with Bangladesh have been rocky since the August military coup that wiped out the pro-Indian government of the late Sheikh Mujibur Rahman.

Asylum grant denied

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — The Algerian ambassador to West Germany said today his government has not granted political asylum to the pro-Palestinian terrorists who stormed Vienna headquarters of the Organization of Petroleum-Exporting Countries on Dec. 21.

The ambassador, Mohamed Sahoun, told the West German news agency RFA that the six terrorists were still under the control of Algerian authorities.

Sahoun described reports alleging that Algerian authorities had granted political asylum to the terrorists as "pure speculation."

According to earlier reports from Algeria, five members of the terrorist gang were being held in comfortable government flats under military guard, while the sixth, wounded when the gang raided the OPEC meeting and took oil ministers hostage, remained in a
