AF Dam vote in progress

MAGIC VALLEY—Farm and city property owners from most of the Magic Valley voted today on a proposal to replace the deteriorating American Falls Dam.

Polls opened at noon and remained open until 8 p.m.

Most city and farm property owners in the Valley are eligible to vote.

(Voter qualifications, polling places, p. 11)

The proposal calls for borrowing up to $44.7 million to pay for a new dam. The current dam reportedly is deteriorating, and the American Falls Reservoir's 17 million acre-foot capacity has been reduced by one third as a safety measure.

If the proposal is approved, reservoir spaceholders will repay an estimated $1.06 per acre-foot of reservoir storage per year over a 40-year period. The cost estimate assumes that all the authorized bonds will be sold at a 7 percent interest.

Irrigators would repay $21.8 million of the capital costs and Idaho Power Co. would repay $22.9 million in exchange for the right to use falling water from the dam-to-generate electrical power. Idaho Power would guarantee all the bonds.

Per-acre costs among irrigation districts will vary widely according to their reliance on American Falls Reservoir water in the Magic Valley. They will range from a high of $6.73 per acre per year for new land irrigators in American Falls Reservoir District No. 2 to 70 cents per acre for water users in the A & B Irrigation District.

Most irrigation district spokesmen support the proposal, but a few aren't sure it is the best answer to the problem of the deteriorating dam.

John Rotholtz, Twin Falls, attorney for the American Falls Reservoir District, today said "I'm hopeful and optimistic. I think the people recognize that this is a necessity."

Al Peters, manager of the Twin Falls Canal Co., predicted the proposal "will carry in a pretty big way. I'm very hopeful anyway."

Practically everybody we talked to has been favorable," Hobbey said. "This water is vital and they're going to need it. I just can't visualize anybody not voting for it."

Cecil Hobbey, Gooding, attorney for American Falls Reservoir District No. 2, was optimistic that voters would support the proposal.

"There apparently were some unfounded rumors and some late questions, but when they were answered, I think the project was supported," Hobbey said.

However, William Nichols, chairman of the Mindoka Irrigation District Board of Directors, said the results of the elections are "anybody's guess."

"The old guys are optimistic and the young guys are brave," he said.

Nichols said he isn't sure the current replacement proposal is the best, "but if it goes through I'll go with it and try to make it work."

The American Falls Spaceholder's Executive Committee and the American Falls Reservoir District Board of Directors have been working toward today's election since March of 1974. It was determined that the existing dam should be replaced as soon as possible.

The present proposal was authorized by Congress with the passage of a 1973 federal law.

If approved, the dam will be rebuilt and turned over to the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation for operation.

Land plan foes picket in Boise

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

BOISE—Demonstrators against land-use planning legislation picketed at street corners around the Idaho Capitol Building this morning and later moved into the Capitol itself.

Only about a dozen demonstrators were protesting land use planning early this morning, but a bus load from the Mini-Cassia area and other demonstrators were expected to come in later.

Meanwhile, the governor's three proposed land use bills were up for consideration in the Senate by the local government and taxation committee, headed by Republican Sen. Lyle Cobbs, Boise realtor and past opponent of most of the governor's proposals.

Cobbs predicted his committee would send out the three bills to be printed "out of courtesy to the governor." "My feeling is that we have lost the bill passed last year requiring cities and counties to adopt comprehensive plans and we should see what impact that bill has before we give consideration to other land use bills," he said.

The bills Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has proposed are essentially the same as measures he introduced last year. However, he has dropped two of the more controversial bills he proposed last year.

One of the proposed bills would strike out the state's current definition of subdivision. This law now allows agricultural land to be divided into parcels as small as five acres without being considered a subdivision.

In lieu of a definition of subdivision, the bill proposes that "cities and counties shall adopt their own definition of subdivision."

To subdivide farm land, county approval must be obtained, but the law is not considered subdivided, so such approval is necessary.

According to David Alvord, planner for the governor's division of budget, policy planning and coordination—all of Idaho's agricultural land could be split up into five-acre parcels without being considered subdivisions under the current law, Alvord said.

Some counties, such as Camas and Mindoka want to make the definition of subdivision broader. He said Mindoka has proposed that divisions of farm land into less than 20-acre parcels be considered subdivision, while Camas County has proposed a 4-acre limit.

Under the governor's proposed legislation, he said these counties would be able to adopt these regulations.

The second land use bill proposed by Andrus provides for hearings on developments with "regional impact." Under this measure, if city council or a county commission decides by a two-thirds vote that a development under consideration by another unit of government would have an adverse impact, the council or commission could demand a hearing on the development at which it would be represented.

The hearing, however, would be conducted by the original county commission or city council considering the development.

A regional impact hearing would also have to be conducted on petitions by 1,000 voters or seven per cent of the total population of the city or county which would be affected. The governor's division of budget, policy planning and coordination also could demand hearings on proposed developments with regional impact.

The third land use bill provides for state assistance to local government upon request. The measure also would require counties and cities to submit plans and zoning and subdivision ordinances to the division of budget, policy planning and coordination for review. But, the bill states, "such review shall not constitute any state approval power over local plans or ordinances."

The governor has not proposed two bills he called for last year. One would set a date by which local governments would have to adopt comprehensive plans without the state. Last year the legislature passed a bill which requires adoption of these plans, but it sets no date by which adoption would have to be made.

The second bill proposed last year and not up for consideration this year, would have allowed a small portion of the state's total land to come under state jurisdiction if it were considered to be of statewide significance.

Israel bars PLO talks

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Israeli Ambassador Chaim Herzog said today his government was ready to negotiate with its Arab neighbors but not with the Palestine Liberation Organization which he said was out to destroy Israel.

"We will negotiate only on the basis of a recognition of Israel's sovereign rights," he stated. "We will not negotiate our own suicide."

"We are not ready to be dictated to and we will not accept a dictate," he declared emphatically.

Valley white

KIMBERLY—A fresh coat of snow covered most of southern Idaho today in the wake of a storm Sunday.

William Galkin, National Weather Service, said the snow, though not heavy, was general. He said amounts in the Magic Valley area ranged from one inch at the Weather Service Office at the Snake River Conservation Research Center near Kimberly to three inches at Rupert and Hagerman and five inches at Fairfield where there is a total of 23 inches of snow on the ground.

He said snow flurries are expected to continue through Tuesday and another Pacific storm may bring more light snow to the area by Wednesday. No important changes in temperatures are expected, he said.

Pileup injures Kimberly couple

TWIN FALLS—A Kimberly couple was hospitalized this morning following a five-car accident caused by icy conditions on Kimberly Road east of Twin Falls.

Lauren Ho, 22, Kimberly, was expected to be released today from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, and his wife, Judy, 23, was still being X-rayed at press time. Another of the five drivers, Joseph Wagner, Twin Falls, was examined at the hospital and released.

State Patrolman William Van Dusen said the pileup occurred when a Dg car driven by Grace Scofield, Kimberly, who was driving west toward Twin Falls, struck at about 2:40 a.m. Her car collided with the Ho vehicle, which also was headed west.

The Ho car then skidded into the eastbound lane and collided with the Wagner vehicle. The Ho vehicle bounced off the Wagner car and hit one driven by Erma Robinson, Twin Falls. The fifth car involved, driven by Kelly Moore, went into the borrow pit.

The patrolman said Wagner, Moore and Robinson were all headed east. The other drivers were not injured, "just shook up," the officer said.

Bomb found

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Security guards found a suspected bomb on a ramp outside the U.N. library Monday a few hours before the Security Council was scheduled to start its formal debate on the Middle East.

The guards wrapped the object in a bomb blanket and ordered the building, known as the Dag-Hammarskjold Memorial Library, to be evacuated as a precaution. The New York City police bomb disposal squad was summoned.

Gem banks sued over insurance sales

BOISE—Three nationally chartered banks in Idaho are being sued in federal district court here for soliciting and selling credit life insurance allegedly in violation of federal law.

Idaho First National Bank, First Security Bank of Idaho and Bank of Idaho have been named defendants in a far reaching lawsuit, brought by four Idaho independent insurance agents.

Representatives of two of the banks involved in the suit would not comment today.

"I haven't seen a thing yet, except what I have read in the papers," Ralph J. Constock Jr., president of First Security Bank of Idaho, Boise, said today. "I don't know where the newspapers received their information. They have much better sources than we do. As one of the alleged defendants in the suit, I should have thought we would have received the information by this time. I have not seen the suit or been advised of any of the particulars involved," Joseph A. Moore, chairman of the board of the Bank of Idaho, Boise, said today. "Until such time as I have seen it, I would have to decline comment."

At stake are millions of dollars in commissions. The Boise firm of Robson and Kroner is bringing the action in behalf of the agents. Former Idaho attorney general Robert Rossman is also named in the suit. He is representing Bank Americard and one contending the interest rates on credit cards are in excess of the legal rate.

The lawsuit contends that under the National Bank Act, "banks chartered by the United States are prohibited from selling insurance within the state of Idaho in towns or cities with a population of more than 5,000 persons, ac-

US court strikes NY invective bars

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court, with its newest justice sitting for the first time, today struck down a New York law aimed at punishing "politest" candidates who make deliberate misstatements about their opponents or use racial invective in their campaigns.

The justices acted in a brief order affirming a three-judge court's decision that although states can forbid malevolent campaign oratory, the New York law was too broad and could easily "chill" legitimate political speech.

John Paul Stevens, the new member of the court who took the place of retired Justice William O. Douglas, was present for the first time, oral arguments today, as the justices returned from a month-long holiday recess—bringing with them actions on several cases besides the New York campaign speech law.

Stevens voted with a unanimous court to summarily affirm the lower court's decision that the New York law regulating political speech was unconstitutional. No opinion was issued.

The justices faced a full workload, including many important issues which had been postponed because Douglas was absent most of the past year recovering from a stroke. He resigned last November and Stevens was named to replace him.

The justices also agreed to decide, probably in the spring, whether a state can set a minimum age 18 but require males to wait until they are 21. A special three-judge federal panel upheld the Oklahoma law on grounds it was a reasonable means of cutting down on traffic accidents which "involve more teenage boys than girls."

The court also dismissed an appeal upholding Connecticut's "no-fault" auto insurance law. The justices have never ruled on the constitutionality of such laws, and the Connecticut ruling was based primarily on the state constitution. The Supreme Court said the case "failed to present any 'substantial' federal question."

With two justices dissenting, the court declined to review a ruling which permits California employers to eliminate overtime wages for 1.2 million workers nationwide although overtime is required by state law, there is no similar provision for men. The lower court held this violated federal laws against sex discrimination.

The New York campaign law was the toughest state regulation of political speech. At least 19 other states have laws regulating some speech

Strike effects spreading

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A doctor's strike in California has spread to the nation's second largest metropolitan area as progress gradually but noticeably has been no dramatic turning point, no emergency yet. But day by day the effect mounts. The pressure shows in the waiting rooms of public hospitals—the only source of medical help for many of the area's seven million residents.

The doctors are striking over a 10 percent increase in the cost of malpractice insurance. They say they will stay out until a new law limiting their liability insurance bill to $4,000 a year.

Lawmakers say that could take until September.

Physicians say more doctors will join the strike this week.

At the University of California Center emergency room, six had two doctors for her 16-year-old son who was born with a neurological defect. One suspended practice entirely and the other—a family friend—told her to take him to a public hospital.

The two hospitals within five minutes of her home aren't accepting patients. At UCLA, they joined the lines of waiting patients. Four-hour-long waits have been in effect because of hospital bed by now," she said.

While thousands of doctors stopped work on their own, setting almost 100 of the 224 private hospitals, others unwillingly joined them. By this week, 3,000 hospital workers had been fired and another 12,000 to 14,000 were put on four-day weeks or given pay cuts.

A radio network guides suddenly unfamiliar, maze of helpless hospitals the way a jefferson through a cloudy sky. Administrators advise the radio dispatcher which hospitals have enough doctors to operate an emergency room, or when there is, for example, a neurosurgeon available on the west side.

Hospitals with government contracts to operate emergency rooms were closed off because of staff shortages—ambulance drivers can't decide which specialist an emergency case needs. "If they keep driving long enough they'll find a place," one health official said.

The individual sick and injured do the same. By the hundreds every day they call a central number set up by the county medical association, to be told where they might find a doctor accepting patients.

Most stand up in the public hospital emergency rooms.

"I had to wait from 8 p.m. last Thursday until Saturday morning in the surgery line at county general hospital because all the emergencies had to go first," said Molanet Tromley, 20.

"I had all lines but couldn't eat or drink anything because you can't if you're going into surgery," said a woman with a broken ankle, who was not an emergency.

Mary Ann Korm was her husband Irvin said he called "what seemed like 50" doctors and hospitals when she developed severe back pains before taking her to UCLA.

"Because he came by ambulance she was moved right into an emergency ward," he said. "But it still took three hours to see a doctor."

Lebanese army move expected

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Warring gunmen battled with rockets, mortars and machine guns across Beirut today, increasing speculation that Lebanon's 16,000-man army would enter the conflict.

Christian forces clamped a food blockade on a third Palestinian refugee camp in Beirut today, a Palestinian spokesman said.

A showdown between the army and Palestinian guerrillas was averted at the last moment Sunday but did nothing to ease civil war that has claimed at least 65 dead and 125 wounded in the past 48 hours.

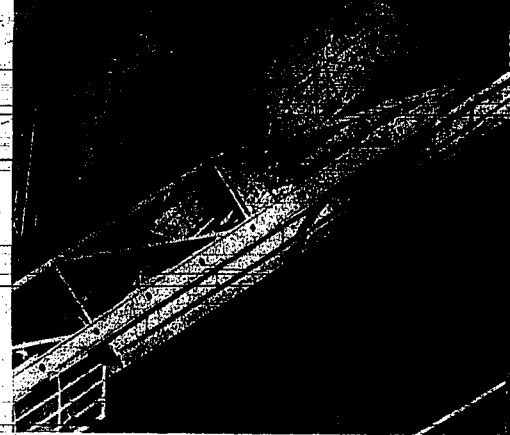

Political observers here said there were increasing indications that the Christian-dominated army, fed up with nine months of chaos was considering intervention to restore order by force.

A split between squabbling Christian and Muslim factions paralyzed Premier Rashid Karami's government.

The claimed toll of nine months of civil war rose to about 8,300 dead and 17,700 wounded.

Christian militia men surrounded and cut off the roads leading to Dbaayeh, a Palestinian refugee camp on the coast seven miles north of Beirut. The camp is one of three besieged by Christian forces battling Palestinian guerrillas east of Beirut River for the sixth straight day.

The current round of fighting was touched off when guerrillas from the Za'atari and al Pasha camps tried but failed to break a supply route through Christian lines.

Victim removed

FIREMEN remove a body from an upper-story window of a Pathfinders Hotel in Fremont, Neb., after the six-story structure was ripped by an explosion Saturday. A dozen persons were killed and several were still missing today. (UPI)

Blasted hotel searched

FREMONT, Neb. (UPI) — A rescue team picked up a body among through piles of rubble in the basement of the shattered six-story Pathfinders Hotel today for the bodies of at least half a dozen missing persons.

The casualty toll stood at 12 dead, 14 hospitalized and more than 40 treated for injuries following Saturday's blast, which ripped through the hotel and damaged or destroyed 18 nearby shops and stores.

The blast, believed to have been caused by leaking natural gas, occurred in the business district of this city of 23,000.

Authorities said the number of people missing was only an estimate because there was no way of knowing who may have been visiting in the hotel when the explosion occurred.

The search was slowed for a time Sunday because authorities feared that the hotel walls might fall, endangering lives of rescue workers. It was resumed after several buildings—engineers inspected the hotel, which was reduced to a shell by the blast and resulting fire.

Police Chief Fred Witt said police were compiling the danger areas to permit business people to reach their offices and stores. The cordoned-off danger area, at one time as large as 12 blocks because of fear of gas leaks and falling walls, had been reduced today to 2½ blocks, Witt said.

The disaster was described as the worst in Nebraska history in terms of deaths and injuries. Fourteen persons were hospitalized at Dodge County Memorial Hospital for injuries suffered in the blast and some 80 persons suffered minor injuries.

The 12th body was uncoaxed Sunday. Four of the dead were found on the top floors Saturday afternoon and seven other bodies were located Saturday night.

The victims included two employees of Nebraska Natural Gas Co., who were in the basement investigating a report of a gas leak. A third employee, district manager Bill Van Meter, was among the missing.

Utility officials said they received a call on an emergency repair number complaining of a possible gas leak in the hotel's basement and sent Van Meter and two other employees to investigate. Company officials said the three were on the scene about 30 minutes before the explosion shattered the building.

Madrid-rails blasted
MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Saboteurs bombed suburban railway tracks today and police used tear gas against demonstrators in the Madrid and Barcelona regions to quell a growing wave of protest.

Interior Minister Manuel Fraga Iribarren warned that the government will crack down hard on "those who try to disturb the peaceful process" of turning post-Franco Spain into a more democratic country.

In Madrid, where opposition groups called for increased strikes and protests to turn today into a "day of struggle," the engineer-of-the-first morning train linking suburban Carabanchel with the city reported the rails had been damaged by an explosion.

Police found the blast had been caused by explosives and defused a total of six unexploded bombs along the tracks. The line and its stations were closed down for more than six hours.

Question...

I lost contact with my father when I was a small child, and I was raised by my mother's family. My father and I are now living in the same town, if he should pass away, am I responsible for his funeral expenses?

Answer...

Although circumstances may alter this specific situation, there is, in general, no way a mortician can force a child to defray the cost of a parent's burial, unless the child voluntarily assumes the responsibility. If your father should have an estate, you are the only heir, the proceeds of the estate will go to you after the funeral expenses have been deducted. Funeral costs are among the first to be paid from estate assets.

Today there are so many funeral and burial benefits available to almost everyone, that funeral costs rarely are paid from private funds. These benefits are constantly changing. A very important aspect of our service is your family is determining that they are receiving their total entitlements to death benefits.

Directors support proposal

NAMPA, Idaho (UPI) — The directors of Nampa-Meridian Irrigation district have written a letter to the Meridian School District supporting its proposal for a building moratorium on subdivision development.

The letter specifically opposes the proposed 320-acre Cherry Lane Village development one mile northwest of Meridian, which would include 1,063 housing units, a six-acre commercial center and a golf course.

The irrigation commission opposes the development because there are no provisions for irrigation or drainage to residents and it would "impose a burden and interference" with three of the district's main water laterals.

GOP heads back committee plan

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Republican leaders voted unanimously Saturday to organize a labor relations committee to try to bring the GOP and organized labor closer.

Former party chairman Bob Layton, Boise, who made the surprise motion to create the committee, said he senses changes taking place in the country that indicate union members and Republican philosophy are closer together than most politicians suspect.

Re-enactment flight set

BOISE (UPI) — United Airlines will commemorate the beginning of permanent airline service in the United States by re-enacting the initial flight from Pasco, Wash., to Boise.

On April 6 of this year, a re-enactment flight will mark the 50th birthday of the commercial air transport industry and United Airlines. United Capt. E. E. "Buck" Hilbert will fly his restored Swallow biplane on the same time schedule and route flown on April 6, 1926, by a pilot for Varney Air Lines, United's predecessor.

Body identified

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI) — The body of an elderly Lewiston man found in the ruins of Hotel Idaho after a Friday fire has been identified as that of Mike Mandell, about 88.

Lewiston Fire Chief Vernon Lane said he found the man's body during a search Saturday morning in the remains of the second floor hallway of the three-story hotel, which burned early Friday.

Lane said the body was severely burned and identification was made from a wallet found beneath the victim. Coroner Don Appleford listed the cause of death as smoke inhalation.

Firemen rescued 13 residents of the hotel, but believed Mandell was not in the building at the time of the blaze. Later, personal belongings of Mandell were found in the rubble and a search was started.

No trend indicated

By United Press International.

An official of the Idaho Innkeepers Association does not believe that financial difficulties experienced by two of Idaho's major hotel-convention centers indicate a trend in the business.

"The motel business is like any other business," commented David Hand, executive secretary of the association. "It is subject to all the variations in the business climate."

He said that the national average return for hotels is six per cent., while the average return rate for other businesses is five per cent.

The two hotels running into problems recently have been the Rowdway Inn in Boise, subject of a foreclosure action for non-payment of debts which could force the sale of Boise's biggest motel, and the Ponderosa Inn in Burley, sold last week by the Internal Revenue Service for non-payment of $121,889 in taxes.

The lawsuit filed against the Rowdway by Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York charges the inn has paid only $11,759 of a $5.5 million loan. The IRS has released the Ponderosa Inn after a federal bankruptcy court approved a request for its reorganization and rehabilitation.

The Ponderosa Inn and Rowdway Inn ran into trouble for separate reasons, not because of a trend in the business, Hand said.

Snow, low temps hamper search

POCATELLO (UPI) — A new snowfall and below-freezing temperatures hampered search efforts today for two Pocatello hikers who disappeared in the Scout Mountain area south of Pocatello Saturday afternoon.

Dave Hudson, 30, and Tom Drake, 27, and a dog named Sandy, were reported missing Saturday evening after they failed to return from hiking in the area.

Today's search efforts were centered in the Kincaid Creek area and the top of Indian Mountain. The Bannock County sheriff's department, Bannock County Search and Rescue and cross country skiers from the Idaho State University outdoor program office participated in the search.

Prison inmate 'gets away'

NAMPA, Idaho (UPI) — An inmate of the state prison got away from a guard while visiting relatives in Nampa Sunday night.

Samuel Jay Taylor, 30, fled from his family's home about 8:30 p.m. He was wearing a brown leather jacket, over a green sweater and a white and red flower print shirt, blue jeans and brown boots when last seen.

Taylor was serving two concurrent five-year sentences for first-degree burglary.

Rupert lagoon documents forwarded to bureau

RUPERT — A new report on Rupert's application for lagoon waste treatment and recreational acreage north of the city has begun to filter its way back toward the secretary of interior.

The "program decision optional document" was forwarded Thursday by the Shoshone District office of the Bureau of Land Management. It is expected to reach the secretary's office again within eight days.

The new analysis reaffirms the district's original report approving the release of 1,040 acres of Bureau of Reclamation land for recreation and the lagoon system.

Don Sweep, chief of the division of resource management at Shoshone, Friday said: "The recommendation was essentially the same as the initial decision."

The new document will be considered this week at the state PLM office in Boise. Then forwarded to the BLM office in Washington for study before a recommendation to the Secretary of Interior.

The transfer of the proposed sewage treatment site to Rupert at a nominal cost had received approval of BLM, which holds the land for the purpose of the study.

The Secretary received the documents in November and last month requested a new analysis in light of two protests filed with his office. The appeals were filed by John O. Lees on Nov. 20 and by Roger Ling, attorney for several area landowners, on Dec. 10.

Sweep said that the Shoshone office had the appeals only 3-4 days for review. The Secretary of Interior has requested the program decision optional document be in his office by Jan. 19.

"We tried to get it (the new report) out as rapidly as possible," he said, "to facilitate the city as much as we can so far as whatever decision the Secretary might reach — at least give them a decision as soon as possible."

The report lays out again the alternatives to the Secretary of upholding the decision of the lagoon system or remaining the application for other action.

Sweep said the district "commented on the points of the appeal and the position of the district office of the BLM has not substantially changed."

Sweep said the basic issue the appellants presented to the Secretary was "they felt the city had not adequately explored other alternatives and there were other lesser-cost alternatives not explored."

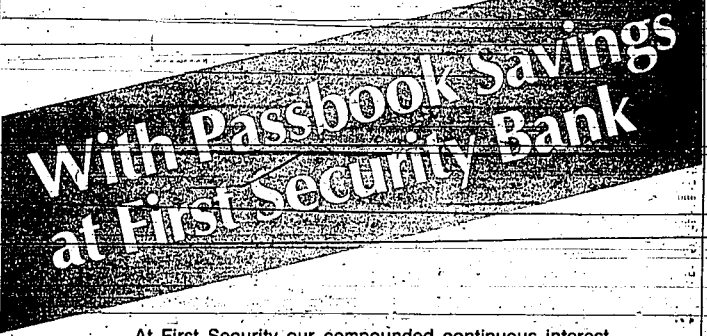

The appellants want the lagoon system located on some other site and the Bureau of Reclamation Land eventually released for agricultural purposes. The city believes it has explored the situation and chosen the least expensive site for the lagoon system, despite the cost of piping the raw sewage about five miles to the site.

"The consideration that we must make," Sweep said, "is whether the use proposed by the applicant is in accordance with the law under which they (the city) applied."

The application was made under the recreation and public purposes act.

"The proposal they made under that act is a valid one," Sweep said Friday.

Experts at euphemism translation

By ROBERT SIONER

WASHINGTON — In the oblique world of international intrigue, euphemisms often prevail... After the murder of Welch, Fifth Estate issued a statement asserting that if anyone is to blame for his death, "it is the CIA that sent him there to spy and perhaps even to intervene in the affairs of the Greek government."

Welch was shot to death Dec. 23 outside his suburban Athens home, a known residence for CIA officials in Greece... The editors are a youthful crew of men and women who are for the most part veterans of the anti-Vietnam war movement.

helped get the publication started with a big, splashy bash in 1972 and who wrote a short critique of the CIA for Counter-Spy's spring-summer issue of 1975... But the basic work is done by a small group of people led by co-editors Tim Butz, 28, and Doug Porter, 25. They work at home and use a postal box mailing address.

Doubts about Reagan in New Hampshire

CONWAY, N. H. — Ronald Reagan signally failed, despite three days of per-fervid disclaimers, to satisfy critics here that his hopelessly complex proposal last September for a massive $90 billion switch of federal spending programs to the states would not end New Hampshire's unique tax advantages.

Silver Creek sale opposed

Editor, Times-News: Perhaps I'm ill informed but I have been of the opinion Silver Creek, located in the Wood River Valley, belongs to all the people in the State of Idaho... I'm not adverse to fly fishing, but I'm certainly adverse to an agency of state government regulating the type of pole, reel, and line we can use on any stream in our great state.

Furthermore, if we fishermen old and allow the sale of this section of Silver Creek to be consummated together with the existing restrictions it will be promoted nationwide as a fly fishing stream for a select few again, and we Idahoans will be standing with eggs on our faces... I'm of the opinion the fish and game commission should be promoting projects for the benefit of all, and working for revision of the fly fishing regulations.

Theme of works ignored

Editor, Times-News: The life and works of Simone de Beauvoir reflect her concern for all humanity... In choosing only fragments reflecting the personal opinion of de Beauvoir, Ms. Hatley ignored a central theme of de Beauvoir's works: a society which denies or restricts (for reasons of sex or age, for example) the freedom of choice (the right to choose, exercise options, seek alternatives) for selected individuals while granting that freedom to other selected individuals impedes the development of the potential of each of its members and imprisons the upward flight of the human spirit... I believe the concerted effort to gain the right to choice is a valid part of the "Women's Movement"... FAYE HOOKER BELLIN, Buhi

2-Demo hopefuls reject Wallace as running mate

By United Press International

The candidacy of Alabama Gov. George Wallace still rates as a prime question whenever Democrats get together...

Wallace said he is a serious candidate who may be elected in this, his last, national campaign.

Appearing on CBS' "Face the Nation," Wallace said this was his last national campaign unless he is elected president.

Four of the seven Democrats who spent the weekend seeking support in Iowa appeared on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Wallace said he would fight busting if elected by appointing an attorney general and Health, Education and Welfare secretary.

CLARENCE M. KELLEY ... leftists set bomb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director Clarence Kelley says the La Guardia Airport bombing that claimed 11 lives Dec. 29 probably was the work of left-wing terrorists.

Kelley said the culprit could be a "mad bomber" but added, "My feeling is, and this is my experience and the experience of my associates, that in all probability, it was a terrorist activity."

He identified terrorist groups in the United States as representing "the political philosophy of the so-called, 'New Left' in the late 1960s, the Weathermen and others of that stripe."

In an interview on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers," Kelley said there was no evidence as to who planted the bomb in an airport locker. The blast also injured some 75 other persons at the New York airport.

"There is no indication to show that it was a terrorist activity ... In other words, we have not come to any determination," he said.

"However, the preponderance of feeling among the law enforcement people is that it is terroristic by virtue of the fact of the circumstances and the apparent lack of motive.

Kelley said he welcomed congressional review of the performance of the FBI and the airing of possibly illegal FBI tactics when they occur.

But he said sometimes disclosures should be made to Congress in executive session to protect the safety of informers and agents.

Kelley denied a report published Sunday in the San Diego, Calif., Union that the FBI under J. Edgar Hoover sponsored a right-wing organization established to thwart an antiwar movement during the Vietnam war.

Kelley said the organization was investigated and informers may have been paid, but that "we did not sponsor or condone any terroristic activities that were in violation of the law."

The FBI director said that in 12 years as police chief in Kansas City, Mo., he had never heard of a CIA program to train police officers in break-ins and snafeking. The Washington Star reported Sunday there was such a program.

CIA gave crime courses

WASHINGTON (UPI) — CIA documents obtained under the Freedom of Information Act show the agency trained Washington area police in safe cracking, breaking and entering and repairing wall plaster to cover the burglaries.

The documents were obtained by the Washington Star, which said Sunday the CIA gave demonstrations in explosives to the police, field banquets for police chiefs and suggested training in photo surveillance, surreptitious entry, audio surveillance and "wall restoration."

The Washington Post reported today that former CIA Director Richard Helms, now ambassador to Iran, is expected to be prosecuted on a misdemeanor charge within a month for the 1971 break-in of a Fairfax, Va., photo studio. The burglary, but not Helms' alleged approval of it, was revealed in the Rockefeller Commission report, the Post said.

Though the documents it got were heavily sanitized, the Star said it showed for more detail on CIA aid to local police in the late 1960s and early 1970s than was previously reported by the Rockefeller Commission.

The papers showed the training was conducted for police of the District of Columbia, Fairfax County, Va., Montgomery County, Md., and in some cases for members of the Fairfax City-Arlington-Palme Church, Alexandria and state police forces in Virginia and the Prince Georges County, Baltimore and state police in Maryland.

The Star documents also showed CIA training and equipment went to about a dozen police forces in the Los Angeles, San Diego and San Clemente, Calif. areas.

One CIA memo said "senior officials" of the D.C. police department requested the training "basically predicated on the need to combat the tangible threats posed by radical-terrorist groups within its jurisdiction."

Chest pains fell hopeful

SALEM, Mass. (UPI) — Democratic presidential candidate Terry Sanford, stricken with "minor chest pains," spent a comfortable night in Salem Hospital and tests performed were reported normal, a spokesman said today.

The spokesman said he expected Sanford would see a doctor and be released from the hospital later in the day. However, the candidate canceled campaign appearances in several New Hampshire communities.

His spokesman said, "Terry Sanford spent a very comfortable night with no complaints of any chest pains at all and all tests were normal."

Sanford, 58, president of Duke University and a former governor of North Carolina, was admitted to Salem Hospital at 1 a.m. Sunday after becoming ill at a campaign appearance at a private home.

Kennedy tops ADA 'liberal' list

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans for Democratic Action Saturday ranked the "liberal quarter" of 12 men it said were possible 1976 presidential candidates. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., finished first, President Ford was last.

The ADA report was based on the congressional voting of the dozen present and former members of Congress either seeking or frequently mentioned for the major party nominations this year. Candidates who never served in Congress were not rated.

ADA, which rates all members of Congress with the ratings, ADA excluded that "all but two" of the Democrats "ranked equally as liberals, with Senators Edward Kennedy and Edmund Muskie leading the pack and Senators Henry Jackson and Lloyd Bentsen bringing up the rear."

ADA broke down the ratings — into categories, and found Jackson and Bentsen, with 23 and 33, lowest rated on foreign and military affairs. But 33, lowest rated on foreign and military affairs.

Beating, haircut lead to killing

MOSCOW (UPI) — A 14-year-old boy stabbed his father to death because the man beat the boy's mother and tried to tie his son up to give him a haircut, the weekly magazine Ogonyok said Sunday.

Ogonyok said the boy was "justly and severely punished" by being sent to a punitive labor colony.

"It's all the same to me. I'll be in prison for 10 years — but the main thing is that he will not torture my mother any more," the magazine quoted the boy as saying.

It identified the victim as Viktor M. Fedotov, a 43-year-old electrician of the northern city of Novgorod.

The son, Igor, told a juvenile court his father had beaten his mother for as long as he could remember.

All relations between the boy and his father came to an end over the question of a haircut, the magazine said. Fedotov tried to tie up his son to cut his hair.

Shortly after this, the boy found his father alone in the apartment and "with grave feelings in his heart" stabbed him in the chest. He then went to a girl friend's house to confess, Ogonyok said.

"At no time did the boy show any remorse for what he did, it said.

Book says JFK had rare disease

LANTANA, Fla. (UPI) — John Kennedy was the victim of a rare blood disease that nearly proved fatal three times before he became president, but his friends and family kept the illness secret for political reasons, according to a new book about Kennedy.

Joan and Clay Blair Jr., authors of "The Search for JFK," said Kennedy suffered from Addison's disease, a hormone deficiency considered fatal until the late 1930s.

"On at least two occasions as a member of Congress," the Blairs wrote, "Kennedy was so close to death from the disease that he was given the last rites of the Catholic church."

An excerpt from the Kennedy book was released Sunday by the National Enquirer, which is publishing a condensed version of the work in a series of copyrighted articles.

The Blairs reported details of Kennedy's illness based on information from Kennedy's mother, Mrs. Rose Kennedy, his brother-in-law, R. Sargent Shriver, and family friends.

His political associates, friends, family and doctors kept the illness secret because, the newspaper article quoted Shriver as saying, "in that period, in the 1950s and 1960s, if you put out a statement that Jack Kennedy had Addison's disease everybody would have said, 'He's going to die.'"

Shriver reportedly said his wife Eunice also suffers from the same disease, which is treated with cortisone and

25 tons of marijuana seized in NC

RAYBORO, N.C. (UPI) — About 25 tons of high-grade marijuana worth as much as $25 million was seized Sunday and nine persons jailed in the biggest narcotics case on record in North Carolina, authorities said.

Fifty-five state, local and federal agents swept down on a 112-foot fishing trawler early Sunday at a remote location on the Pamlico River, arresting most of the suspects as 50-pound bags were being unloaded from the trawler, federal agents said.

The street value of the haul was initially put at about $15 to 20 tons worth $10.5 million, but State Bureau of Investigation Director Hayward Starling said Sunday night agents revised their estimate to about 25 tons with a street value that could run to $25 million because of the quality of the marijuana.

"We couldn't count them accurately," said Starling, adding it might take until Wednesday to complete weighing and valuing the seizure.

"They were stacked in the hatch from the bilge to the top of the hatch and in two large panel trucks. We were unable to get an accurate count," he said.

Seven persons were arrested as the agents moved in, and two more were caught in a marsh in a daybreak manhunt in which a state helicopter took part.

A search continued in the area for four or five men thought to have slipped through the cordon of local, state and federal agents.

Attorney-General Rufus Edmisten said the marijuana was "high quality Colombian type" packed in 50-pound bags.

The trawler, the Lillian B., belonged to one of the suspects, Ernest Mayo, 49.

All of the suspects, said officers, were charged in federal warrants with conspiracy to smuggle marijuana. Preliminary hearings were expected to be scheduled this week.

Ryan charged

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Rep. Leo Ryan, D-Calif., has been charged with drunken driving after police saw his car traveling on the wrong side of a street.

Police said Ryan, 50, a former state assemblyman, flunked a roadside sobriety test Saturday and was taken into custody. He was freed without bail 2 1/2 hours later.

Ryan will appear in municipal court Jan. 28 for arraignment.

Cockatoo returned

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The kids who stole a cockatoo from the San Francisco Zoo have decided the bird in the hand isn't worth time in the slammer.

Police disclosed Sunday that a volunteer worker at the Steinhart Aquarium learned several youths stole the Greater Sulphur-Crested Cockatoo Tuesday and he contacted them.

Police Inspector Phil Roebbling said the volunteer promised the boys they would not be turned over to police if the feathered creature was returned.

The volunteer got the cockatoo and brought it back to the aviary, Roebbling said there would be no criminal charges.

Allon's 'Appensement'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon says increased recognition of the "Palestine Liberation Organization" is "a very ugly expression of appeasement."

"Any comparison between the PLO and movements for national liberation" is misleading, "Take the Mau Mau in Kenya, the FLN in Algeria, the common denominator of all of us was to get rid of a foreign ruler," Allon said in an interview with Time magazine released Sunday.

World record broken

MACOMB, Ill. (UPI) — The world's record for the longest jazz performance was broken during the weekend by the Western Illinois Jazz band.

The band played for 76 hours — from 12:07 p.m. Thursday to 4:07 p.m. Sunday — and raised just over $6,000 for a trip to Yugoslavia planned later this year.

Sears criticized

CHICAGO (UPI) — The mayor of Gary, Ind., has called for Black leaders throughout the country to wage "war" against large companies moving from the inner city.

He is also singling out Sears-Roebuck and Co.

At an Operation PUSH meeting Saturday, Mayor Richard Hatcher said he would like to see PUSH's National Board of Directors act against Sears during its meeting Tuesday in Washington.

QUENTIN KOPP ... heads board
JOHN BARBAGELATA ... city supervisor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bombs in candy boxes have been received in the mail by City Supervisors Quentin Kopp and John Barbagelata, but neither device exploded.

Police disclosed during the weekend that the bombs were received Saturday at the officials' homes.

Kopp is president of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors. Barbagelata was defeated in a runoff election for the mayor's job by former state Sen. George Moscone, but Barbagelata is paying for a recount.

Police declined to say whether the two city officials opened the candy boxes and what type of bombs were found in the boxes. They said an underground group claimed responsibility.

The investigation was turned over to postal inspectors because the bombs were sent through the mail.

Meat handler seminar

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.
 Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 I'm a new mother. My specific question is whether there is a certain age at which a baby should sleep through the night. My baby is four months old and he still wakes up several times a night for feedings.
 One friend says I should let him cry and break the waking habit. Another neighbor says babies will sleep through the night when they are ready, and ignoring their cries can make them insecure and even more demanding.
 I just want to do what is best for my baby. What do you advise? A.J.J.

Baby's cry distinctive

There is an endless variety of reasons why a baby cries. Not only will you be able to interpret this "language" and act accordingly.

You will learn the colicky cry, the hunger cry, the distress cry, the cry of boredom. This latter variety is the remarkable anguish that ends in mid-cry as you pick the infant up.

It is difficult to say at what month a baby should sleep through the night. This varies. You should not necessarily expect it at 4 months or at 6 months. The best advice is to put yourself in the infant's place. His only means of communication is the cry, and no infant will cry for "no reason" at all. The cries can mean only a desire to feel the warmth and comfort of being held by the mother. That is reason enough.

Some authorities are now suggesting that babies fed "on demand" cry less in the long run than those fed on rigid time schedules.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 I was told by my doctor that I have a ganglion cyst on my wrist. It seems to be pressing on a nerve. My doctor told me not to worry about it. He said if it really hurts a lot to let him know and he would remove it.

The pain is from my thumb up into my shoulder. Could you tell me if this is serious and what can be done for it? What do they come from? Are they common? I have had it for six months. — Mrs. M.F.

Such a ganglia (cystic swelling in a tendon) often occurs on the wrist, usually on the back of it. It is not entirely clear why this happens. Often, it is not a occupational problem, as with typists or others who must use the wrist extensively.

They usually present no great problem, except that of appearance. However, a particularly large one, as you appear to have, can cause pressure on a nerve and cause wide ranging pain.

Surgery is reserved for the more serious cases. It involves excising the cyst sufficiently so that there is no recurrence. The surgery is not particularly extensive. Your doctor preferred to wait and observe the progress.

From your description, I believe it is time to return to your doctor and inquire about the possibilities of surgery to remove the cyst.

Proposed health law discussion planned

TWIN FALLS — Proposed legislation will be discussed Wednesday at a public meeting at 7:30 p.m. at the District Health Department conference room in Twin Falls.

The proposed legislation would require approval by the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare of plans for health facility construction and expansion.

Roy Miller, Pocatello, will conduct the meeting of the task force on health care cost containment. The task force is part of the Governor's Advisory Council on Comprehensive Health Planning.

The proposed legislation is called "Certificate of Need" and is available for public inspection at the seven regional offices of IDHW. Persons attending the meeting are encouraged to present oral and written comments.

After the public meeting, and five others scheduled statewide, a final bill will be drafted for introduction during the current session of the Idaho Legislature.

The purpose of the proposed law is to improve planning of health care facilities and avoid duplication of those facilities. The proposed law would require providers of health care to obtain the approval of IDHW prior to construction or expansion of facilities.

Health care facilities affected by the legislation would include hospitals, nursing homes, intermediate care facilities, home health agencies, health maintenance organizations, physical therapy centers, surgical centers, district health facilities and HAW facilities.

SALMON — Joel Frykman, Odean, a consulting forester, says the timber values of the Central Idaho primitive areas are great although these values are belittled by the proponents of wilderness.

Frykman said that his study of the Idaho and Salmon River Breaks Primitive Areas revealed there are 8.7 billion board feet of timber on productive forest land.

"This volume of timber could support an annual allowable cut of 113.1 million board feet," he said here.

"This would more than support sawmills such as those at Emmett, or a combination of mills like those at McCall, Council and Cascade, or a combination of mills such as at Salmon, North Fork, Rigdon, Horger, or Bend and Tamarack.

Frykman noted the Forest Service projects an annual allowable cut in Chamberlain Basin of 16 million board feet.

"A mill cutting 18 million board feet in three months would cut 72 million board feet annually, a plant comparable to the Emmett or Horger mill," he said.

"During depressed market periods, Idaho and Salmon River Breaks Primitive Areas timber might in part be non-economic, but during the better market periods all this timber is marketable.

"The Chamberlain-Basin area timber is particularly suitable for intensive timber management since the timber stands are extensive and the topography is moderate, some of the best in the Payette National Forest."

Frykman said that "an impassioned plea, based on emotions, and not facts, is now being made to the public about the creation of a major wilderness area in Central Idaho, a 2.5 million acre proposal by proponents of wilderness."

There are also proposals by Gov. Cecil Andrus for a slightly smaller wilderness, the Forest Service proposal of 1.5 million acres, excluding the Chamberlain-Basin area, and the House Cascade proposal of 600,000 acres.

Frykman said the latter proposal corresponds to his recommendations which would include a recreation management unit of about one-half million acres along the main Salmon River and the Middle Fork of the Salmon.

Frykman said that the salmon and steelhead fish values are frequently stated in the millions, "implying that no other values in these two primitive areas approach, though."

According to the calculations made by Frykman, possibly 17,400 salmon and 6,600 steelhead enter the primitive area streams.

The value of the above run in fish prices would be $240,000. By contrast, the timber values in the two primitive areas allowable cut priced at $2 per thousand board-feet, for stumpage would be $28,200. If stumpage prices went to $60, as it has in recent times, the value would go to $9,068,000.

"The millions alluded to by wilderness proponents for salmon and steelhead become the most of a few hundred thousand dollars."

TWIN FALLS — A photographic exhibit of the work of Imogen Cunningham, "the grand lady of American photography," will be on display at the College of Southern Idaho until Jan. 20.

The exhibit, "Imogen!" features 85 photographs spanning a period from 1910 to 1973. Artistically active at 92, Cunningham's impact on American photography stretches back to 1901 when she took her first photographs.

Her work covers more than half the life time of photography itself. She has been influenced by, and influenced, such famous photographers as Alfred Stieglitz, Edward Weston and Ansel Adams.

The exhibit is on display in the CSI Fine Arts Center.

DEAR ABBY: This is to thank you for your Thanksgiving Day column. It gave me the strength to make it through another day.

I am in the Army, stationed in South Korea, and I find it hard to be thankful for anything while I am unwillingly separated from my dear wife and two children. I am under constant pressure from my buddies to go out with the local "girls," and I'm criticized because I won't. I am in a race with myself to see if I end up in a hospital from too much alcohol or from a nervous breakdown. I volunteered to work today to keep my mind off the fact that it's a holiday. After reading DEAR ABBY today, you make me realize that as homesick and blue as I am, lots of people have it worse. Thank you.

THANKSGIVING IN KOREA

Abby helps Army blues

DEAR THANKSGIVING: Hang in there. Your letter made my day. If you'll permit me a little unsolicited advice: Stay away from the bottle. One drink is too many and a hundred isn't enough. Write home every day, keep busy, stay out of trouble, and, yes, pray. And before you know it, you'll be home with your family. God love you.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the people downstairs whose sleep was frequently disrupted by the noisy mattress scrobatics of the couple upstairs calls to mind my husband's famous faux pas.

We moved into an apartment and had the same problem with the Smiths, whose bedroom was directly over ours. The first time my husband ran into Mr. Smith, he told him, with a knowing wink, that their noisy nocturnal reveling had been interfering with our sleep.

My husband received an "A" thank you.

We later learned that Mr. Smith worked nights.

FOOT IN MOUTH IN CHICAGO

DEAR ABBY: I was glad to see in your column an item about hostesses who are always pushing food on their guests. Thanks for saying "An ideal hostess never comments on how little a guest is eating."

I have always been a very small eater. When my hostess would call attention to how little I was eating (or worse yet, loudly announce how "hard" she had worked preparing the meal and how "hurt" she was that I didn't "like" it), I'd proceed to stuff myself.

Then I would go home and be physically sick!

Finally, I decided that rather than subject myself to such needless torture, I would simply decline invitations from people who tried to make me guilty for not eating more than my stomach could comfortably hold.

EATS LIKE A BIRD

DEAR EATS: I'll print your letter for all those well-meaning food-pushers who need reminding.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 1, L.A., Calif. 90059. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Family-style fantasy recommended reading

By DEBRA PARK

Public Library

Fantasy is ageless. This makes it a perfect choice for family reading together. J. R. Tolkien, Lewis Carroll and Lloyd Alexander are classic creators of fantasy worlds which attract children and adults alike.

"The Dark Is Rising" by Susan Cooper is another terrific fantasy with a strong character, vivid imagery, suspense and subtle theme of good and evil. Light and dark which would appeal to both youngsters and parents.

The large Stanton family lives in Buckinghamshire, England. Will Stanton, the protagonist who learns on his 11th birthday that he is one of the mystical "Old Ones," receives hints from neighbors and pets that this holiday will be extra-ordinary. From Midwinter Day when the story begins to the climax on Twelfth Night, Will's emotions are constantly churned into joy and sadness.

"The Dark Is Rising" revolves around English Christmas traditions and mystical legends.

As the last Old One, Will is given the task of collecting six ancient signs, all the shape of a circle with a cross inside, yet each is constructed out of a different material. Wood, fire, water, iron, stone and bronze symbols all demand unique tasks to find and collect them.

Will and his family's Christmas celebration is plagued with threats from the evil Dark, a vicious snowstorm and freezing cold spell, trying to inhibit Will's actions. With the help of other Old Ones in the village, Will fights hard to counter the rising darkness by joining all six symbols on his belt.

The strength of the story is found in the sensitive and wise 11-year-old, his relationship to his family and the adventure involved in searching for the symbols.

When cold nights set in and a child's mind begins to think of Christmas, consider reading chapter by chapter. "The Dark Is Rising" together in front of your fireplace — the experience should be warm and enriching for the entire family.

'Biorhythm' calculated

Chicago Daily News
A New Jersey firm has introduced a new calculator that it sold measures an individual's "biorhythm."

Casio Inc. said the device, called a "biolator," measures a person's physical, emotional and intellectual condition on the theory that these factors fluctuate in individual cycles of from 23 to 33 days.

The fascinating theory of biorhythm has created an entirely new market for us, said Akira Shimizu, Casio vice president.

"Imagine knowing in advance what your biorhythm will be on certain days simply by using the biolator. Books, tables, charts and other parapsychological devices needed to compute these statistics are now obsolete."

Casio said it expresses no opinion as to the validity of the biorhythm theory. For adherents of the theory, the biolator offers a quick and inexpensive means to calculate the biorhythm's guide numbers, Shimizu said.

Minor-Suit transfer asks slam

Remember, you have gone from one rump all the way to the three level. With a good hand you should usually use the minor-suit transfer as some sort of slam suggestion.

Jim's (Abby's) North, implicitly raised by three trump. He saw no reason to show his six-card club suit. Had he transferred to clubs, South with 16 high-card points might well have made some slam move.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "The Jacoby transfer can also be extended easily to the minor suits. The simplest way is to use the two-spade response to one trump as the transfer-to-clubs and the three-club response as the transfer to diamonds."

Oswald: "With a bad hand you should only use a minor-suit transfer when you really want to play the suit."

Stockholders meet Tuesday

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Canal Co. will hold its annual stockholders meeting Tuesday at the College of Southern Idaho. Alfred Peters, manager of the Twin Falls Canal Co., said stockholders will meet at the Canal Company office on 2nd Avenue West at 10 a.m. and then will move to Room 108 at the Vocational-Technical building on the CSI campus at 10:30 a.m. The agenda will include election of new directors; reports from the general manager, auditor and attorney; general discussion of Canal Company issues; and a pictorial presentation of improvements and problems in the canal system, according to Peters. Five new directors will be elected from each of the five districts served by the Twin Falls Canal Company, one each from the Kimberly-Murrough area, Twin Falls, Piler, Buhl and Castledale. Peters said stockholders can vote their stock for new directors from 11 a.m. until 6 p.m. at the Canal Company offices. After nominations for directors have been completed, reports will be presented by the general manager, Peters; the auditor, Gary Robbins; and the attorney, John Rosholt. Following these reports, stockholders will engage in general discussion of issues important to the company. Peters expects the American Falls dam to be an important topic. "The directors are 100 per cent for construction of a new dam at American Falls," Peters said. "It is a must if we want to deliver the same amount of water as we have in past years and if we want to hold a water reserve for dry years." Other discussion topics, Peters, expects, include how the minimum water flow in the rivers and streams will affect farmers and how the Environmental Protection Agency policy will affect them.

10.5% pay hike seen at Jerome

JEROME — Jerome County employes are expected to receive a 10.5 per cent pay hike this year. The Jerome County commissioners have approved increasing the county employes' pay from $50 to $60 a month. County employes who make $75 per month will receive the $60 per month increase, while those who are earning $40 or more per month will receive the $50 per month increase. The starting pay for county employes also will be increased from $375 to $400 per month. The county commissioners are also reviewing the hourly scale workers. In a 4-1 vote, the commissioners agreed to give across-the-board salary hike of $700 per year for elected officials. In July 1975, Virginia Hicketts, auditor and clerk, received a $700 hike to bring her salary to $9,000 per year. Ezra Hall, Jerome County sheriff, received an increase of $850 for a $8,900 yearly salary. Receiving $700 increases were Howard Jensen, assessor, and Carl Stephens, treasurer, for an $8,800 yearly salary. There are presently 33 county employes. The proposed pay hike of 10.5 per cent will cost the county $13,800. With a $4,700 increase for elected officials, the total cost of the pay raises will be $22,500.

Police seek lone gunman

TWIN FALLS — A lone gunman robbed a Seven-Eleven store in Twin Falls Sunday night, Twin Falls police reported today. Tim Qualls, chief of detectives, said a man entered the store at 720 Blue Lakes N. about 7:30 p.m. and used a handgun to force the attendant to empty the cash register. The man was not wearing a mask, he said. Exact amount of the money stolen is not yet known, but Qualls said he understands it is less than $100. Robberies have occurred several times at the other two Seven-Eleven stores in Twin Falls.

Power outage reported at Paul

PAUL — Power was out for some parts of an area southwest of Paul Sunday for about seven hours. The electrical current was cut off while Rural Electric Company was repairing damage to a pole and lines caused by an auto accident early Saturday evening southwest of Paul. John Brog, manager of Rural Electric Company, said the pole was broken in three places. He said normally linemen work on the lines while they are hot, but the pole was so badly damaged, they could not determine the extent of the repair needed. Power was out from 1:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. as REC and Bonville Power Administration workmen made the repairs. The pole carried four circuits, two each for REC and BPA. Brog said the repair ran into more time than had been expected because two wires had snapped together and burned. The accident occurred about 9:10 p.m. Saturday, two miles southwest of Paul. Alvin Fuentz Martinez, 25, Paul, was headed west on 200 south road when he lost control of his vehicle. It ran off the north side of the road and hit one power pole, continued west across the intersection to the area between the main line and another power pole. The car was demolished. Mindoka County sheriff's officers said a citation is pending in connection with the accident. Officers said Martinez complained of injuries.

Gooding meet set Wednesday

GOODING — A meeting of the Gooding County Planning Commission has been called by Chairman Wayne Matthews for 8 p.m. Wednesday in the courtroom of the courthouse. First on the agenda is a report from the ordinance on Sweden's water quality. The commission will work on the zoning ordinance.

SUNDAY night's snow-fall caused slick streets and sidewalks in the Magic Valley. This man was busy shoveling snow from a sidewalk on Main Avenue downtown Twin Falls early this morning. Gingerly stepping pedestrians were appreciative of his work.

Slight improvement seen in Gem economic picture

By GORDON JUDD Times-News writer. Although all industries in Idaho have suffered, the lumber industry continues to be the "chief victim" of the recession," the department states. "This is especially significant for Idaho," the department points out for when "construction" is slow nationally, the Idaho lumber industry and eventually all of Idaho's industry suffers. New home construction is doing well, however, apparently because of local population immigration which appears to have been stimulated by the recession. Idaho population, estimated by the Bureau of Vital Statistics at 2,000,000 in 1974, rose 1.3 per cent above the revised 1974 estimate. The Department's reports offered this grim note: "Deficit spending which necessitates governmental borrowing, has the effect of raising interest rates which are intolerably high," the publication states. "Nationally this leads to dampen business expansion, hence unemployment increases, so we have high unemployment and a high inflation rate."

Committees set Minidoka meet

RUPERT — A second joint meeting of four committees on Minidoka County's comprehensive plan is scheduled tonight. The health, recreation, education and civic committees will meet at 7 p.m. today in the Minidoka County Courthouse here. A meeting last week covered the recreation and open space sections of the plan, combining several policy proposals and making some drastic wording changes, but without any major changes of intent. One additional policy was approved to encourage more planning and development at Lake Wildcat. That suggestion came from Charles Clark, a planning commission member. The comprehensive plan is for a full week of study. The land use committee, center of controversy during the fall because of an agricultural restriction on residential dwellings, will meet Wednesday. Dr. Taylor maintains that the college was given a lump sum appropriation last year and was not told exactly how to spend the money. Therefore, he says, it is impossible to say what the appropriate percentage should be. For the current fiscal year the legislature appropriated for the college a total sum of $14.1 million budget to the college. For next year, the governor has recommended a $1.56 million budget, apparently up 10.2 per cent. But according to Schlicht, under the governor's budget the college does not have to pay $31,200 in employer social security expenses for non-professional staff the college paid last year. Instead, the money for fiscal 1977 will come out of the sales tax from the State Auditor's office, under the budget plan. To compare apples to apples, he says, this $31,200 must be deducted from the fiscal 1976 appropriation, making a 12.7 per cent increase recommended by the governor. Dr. Taylor concedes this might be an appropriate comparison. But, Schlicht also says another $63,000 appropriated in the college should be deducted from the fiscal 1976 budget for a proper comparison with the fiscal 1977 budget. When this is done, it shows the governor's recommendation for the next fiscal year to be 18.1 per cent above the current appropriation. Schlicht says the $23,000 was appropriated last year for the college to pay for the employees' share of social security taxes for its professional staff. But, he says, the college did not have to pay this cost since the State Auditor's office paid it out of the sales tax. He says the $63,000 was part of an 18.5 per cent in personnel benefits increase, which the college claimed it needed. But, without the social security cost, the actual increase necessary was seven per cent below that, he says. Schlicht says he asked CSN why because of the $63,000 and was given no answer. "Since they couldn't justify it, it therefore isn't an actual expenditure," he says. So, he maintains the budget should be deducted from this year's budget before comparing it to the governor's proposed budget for next year. "Hell, you can't deduct something that's already been expended," Taylor says. He says the college was not involved in deducting social security costs for the professional personnel, and only realized it got a lump sum of $1.4 million to spend as it chose for the college. To deduct $63,000 because it was supposedly destined for one type expenditure doesn't make sense, he says.

Views clash over CSI budget funds

Most can vote on AF dam plan

By DAVID HORSMAN Times-News writer. MAGIC VALLEY — Nearly all property owners in Magic Valley irrigation districts, including most city residents, can vote in today's American Falls replacement dam elections. Unless the land has been partitioned out of the districts, owners are entitled to vote even though they don't pay water assessments. Each qualified landowner and his spouse may vote. They must be at least 18 years old and live in a county served by the district in which they vote. The polls will be open from noon until 8 p.m. today. American Falls Reservoir District takes in Twin Falls County north of the High Line Canal, southern Jerome County, southern Gooding County and a small portion of the eastern Elmore County. In Twin Falls County, the polling places are the county courthouse, the Twin Falls Grange Hall, the Kimberly Grange Hall, Murrough High School, Filer City Hall, the Buhl-Moose Lodge and Blik and Reese Produce Co. in Castledale. In Gooding and Elmore counties, the polling places are Wendell City Hall, Bliss City Hall and the home of John Parker, four miles east of King Hill. Jerome County polling places are Jerome Junior High School and Hazelton City Hall. American Falls Reservoir District No. 2 includes northern Gooding County, the Hunt area in northern Jerome County, and parts of Lincoln County. Polling places in that district are Lincoln County Courthouse, the Norman Johnson farm at Hunt, the Reichfield city library, the Charles Johnson farm in the Reichfield area, the office of Carriere and Oakley in Gooding, Gooding City Hall and the Bob Esterbrook farm north of Gooding. Hillsdale Irrigation District is in eastern Jerome County. Ballots will be cast at Hazelton City Hall. In the Milner Low Lift Irrigation District, which takes in western Cassia County and eastern Twin Falls County, the polling place is the district office. The A & B Irrigation District is in eastern Jerome County and western Minidoka County. Votes will be cast at the homes of Harold Holton and Robert Kildow, the east end west water-masters' offices and the district ditch rider's home at 300 North and 1550 West. The Minidoka Irrigation District takes in most of Minidoka County and some parcels in Cassia County. Polling places are the home of Juan Irigoyen, the Acequia school, the Paul Highway District office, Heyburn City Hall and the local water master's office. Burley Irrigation District includes most of the irrigated lands in Cassia County. Polling places are Declo, City Hall and the LDS Church in Springdale, View, Pella and Star.

Petition seeks better wildlife management

By BART QUESNELL Times-News writer. FAIRFIELD — A life-long Fairfield farmer and his son, concerned about the declining deer and elk herds and sage-grouse, have started a petition drive directed toward the Idaho Fish and Game Department to better manage wildlife here. Lee Tucker and his son, Craig, said the decline in wildlife started years ago but the depletion of game and sage grouse has become severe in the last two years. Starting with petitions in Fairfield and Gooding, Tucker said he has collected nearly 600 signatures in three weeks to close Soldier Mountain Game units 43 and 44, including deer and elk with hunters only in a strict permit basis. "The permits should not exceed more than half than the antlered game," the petition reads. "Deer and elk herds in the above area are being diminished severely by over-hunting and by limiting hunting to antlered deer and elk the herds will have an opportunity to increase to a reasonable level," the petition says. A second petition seeks the closure of sage grouse hunting in Camas County for two years. The petition says, "The sage grouse population is seriously depleted by over hunting. A two year closure would allow the population to increase to a point where hunting could be allowed on a limited basis." Tucker said he has not had "quite the support" on the sage grouse closure as he has on the petition for antlered animals only in units 43 and 44. The only opposition we've had on the deer and elk petitions is some people who wanted to close the units completely," he said. "We didn't think the Fish and Game Department would go for a complete closure, because most of their budget comes from hunting permits. The sage grouse season in Camas County ran from Sept. 13 to Sept. 21 in 1975 with a two grouse daily bag limit. Tucker, who has lived in Camas County all of his life since 1975, said he was the only person he has seen for sage-grouse. He feels it would not hurt Fish and Game Department plans to make Camas County a test project to see if a hunting closure helps. He said hunting caused the decline in Camas County. "The only thing that can cause a heavy sage grouse kill is a cold wet spring which affects the hatch," Tucker said. "The depletion of deer and elk herds is causing ranchers near Fairfield to question Fish and Game practices the most. "I used to have 17 head of deer right here on my place two years ago," he said. "Now there are none." Tucker lives two miles north and three miles

300 attend open house

WENDELL — More than 300 Wendell school patrons visited the new physical education building Sunday during an open house. Physical education classes are expected to begin in the new facility next Monday. Paul Lawrence LaRue said, and basketball practice classes three days already have been held in the new building. The new building was financed by a bond issue approved by voters in April, 1974. The Dorsey Construction Co., Caldwell, was the prime contractor. School board trustees who were in office at the time the bond issue was approved were recognized by LaRue during a program at 2 p.m. Sunday. They include Frank Orr, Joe McLean, George Serr, Fred Nantz and Vard Melzer. Orr, who served as chairman, told of efforts to get the bond issue passed. LaRue said the new facility will mean the district's physical education program can be expanded. Some of the grade school classes will be brought to the building for P.E. classes. "We haven't had a gymnasium installed in the gymnasium floor and there are a few other details to be completed, the superintendent said. The new structure includes separate gymnastics, wrestling and weight training rooms in addition to dressing facilities and a regulation size gymnasium floor.

Stocks at midday

NEW YORK (UPI) - Overcoming early profit-taking pressures, the stock market headed higher Monday in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange, keeping a steady near parity.

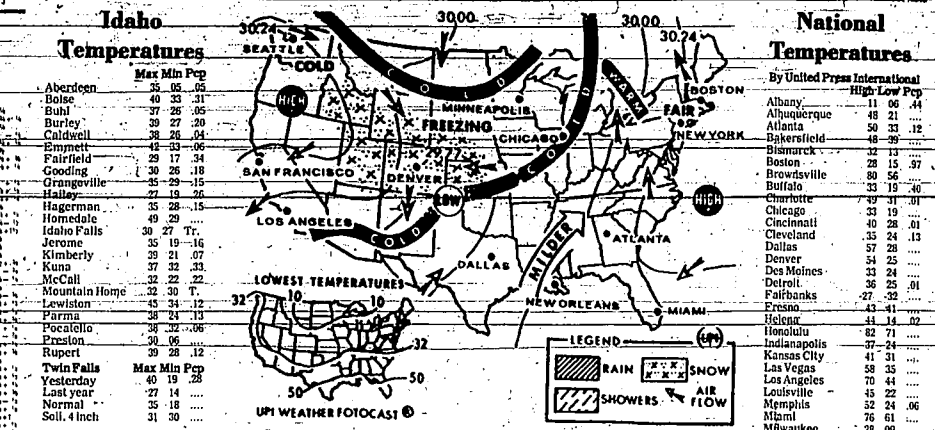

Some investors were encouraged by a Commerce Department report which projected industrial production will rise fast enough in 1978 to boost the real Gross National Product by 6 to 7 percent, despite a slowdown in government spending.

Shortly before noon EST, the Dow Jones Industrial average, off more than 20 points at the outset, was ahead 2.76 points to 913.89. The closely watched average was a 52.42-point gainer last week, the second largest weekly gain in its history.

today's weather

More snow flurries expected

Twin Falls, Northside, Burley-Rupert areas: Occasional light snow through Tuesday morning. Partial clearing at times Tuesday. Overnight lows near 20. Highs Tuesday 30 to 35. The outlook for Wednesday, mostly cloudy with a chance of snow.

Halley, Camas Prairie, Lower Wood River Valley: Periods of snow through Tuesday. Windy at times, decreasing by Tuesday morning. Overnight lows in the teens. Highs Tuesday in the low 30s. The outlook for Wednesday, mostly cloudy with a chance of snow.

Synopsis: Overcast skies with scattered snow were the norm throughout the state this morning. Winds were gusting to over 20 miles per hour in the upper Snake River Valley this morning. The storm that passed over the state Sunday left a blanket of snow over southwest Idaho. Snow amounts ranged from one inch at Kimberly, three inches at Rupert and Hagerman and five inches at Fairfield. Fairfield reports a total of 23 inches of snow on the ground. The weather pattern over the state will continue about the same for the next few days as strong moist flow aloft continues over the southwest. This will cause snow flurries to occur throughout the valley through Tuesday evening. Another storm in the Pacific is expected to bring more precipitation to the Magic Valley area, possibly by Wednesday.

The extended outlook for the Magic Valley area for Wednesday through Friday calls for a chance of rain or snow for the lower valleys and snow in the higher areas mainly Thursday. Temperatures will be in the upper 20s and 30s, with lows in the mid teens to lower 20s.

Stock market upturn predicted

Chicago Daily News - Stock Market investors are hoping 1978 will be 18 months long - six months to reimburse them for the missing part of 1975 and 12 months of 1976.

They may get their wish. Investors who crept into 1975 looking for a little action discovered that the rally had started without them. In the first day of trading, the Dow Jones Industrial average tacked on 15.80 points and closed at 629.94, a level that turned out to be low for the year.

After suffering through a 1974 investing season when the Dow had dropped 28 1/2 points and 225 points, the heady dawn of 1975 worked like a narcotic.

The buying never seemed to stop. By the end of the first half, the Dow had recovered all of its 1974 loss and then some, turning in its best performance in 42 years; June 30 close of 878.99, up 42.6 per cent or 262.75 points. Two weeks later, the Dow set a new high for the year at 881.81.

Then nothing. The buying stopped, and the game was over.

For the next six months, investors contented themselves with swapping stocks back and forth with all the excitement of trading baseball cards in December.

Crises came and went, but the market languished in a narrow trading zone. The Dow momentarily slipped below 800 in late summer but generally seemed stuck in the 800-900 range.

The once-hardy Dow piddled to bed on the final trading day of 1975 at 852.41, unchanged from the previous day and virtually the same spot it was in at the end of 1973, when it closed at 850.86.

If the Dow had maintained the same rate of growth in the second half of 1975 as it chalked up in the first half, it would be sitting around 1,200, an all-time high.

On the second look, 1975 will go down as a good year. After all, the Dow was up 31.3 per cent and advancing issues in the year outdistanced losers 1,154 to 363 on the New York Stock Exchange and 1,065 to 206 on the American Stock Exchange.

Investors somehow felt they were cheated - out of six months' trading time.

The immediate prognosis isn't encouraging. Despite having laid a year to digest the 236.17 point gain, the market is in bad need of consolidation, analysts say.

Donald D. Rann, director of investment research for Becker Securities, expects the Dow to soon to the 725-775 level in the first quarter this year - a scenario favored by many analysts.

But beginning sometime in the second quarter, the market will resume the upward trend it abandoned in 1975.

Many analysts expect the Dow to top its all-time high of 1,051.20, reached on Jan. 11, 1973, before 1976 has run its course.

Their optimism stems from several sources, including the gradual recovery in the economy as a whole. But the important variables - interest rates and corporate profits - will provide the major impetus.

Long-term interest rates are expected to decline gradually in 1976, as the Federal Reserve Board accommodates the economic recovery by pumping extra cash into the economy.

Corporate profits are rebounding strongly from the anemic levels of 1974-75, thus generating a significant portion of the money industry will need to rebuild plants and equipment. The bond market will be spared the strain of providing the necessary capital, at least for most of 1976.

In addition, the quality of corporate earnings will be markedly superior to those of recent years, when profits on investments provided much of the earnings gains.

Offsetting these positive factors will be some concern for prospects for 1977, especially that economic growth will ignite a new round of double-digit inflation late in 1976 and early 1977.

In addition, short-term interest rates are likely to work higher following a cyclical pattern dampening investor enthusiasm.

The result of these cross-currents - a rosy economic statistics but concern over short-term interest rates and 1977 economic outlook - will be to keep price-earnings ratios for the stock market as a whole roughly around current levels.

Gold rush a 'failure'

NEW YORK - By most assessments, the national gold rush of 1975 has been a failure.

Americans were legally empowered a year ago to buy gold bullion for the first time in 31 years. Consumers were bombarded with offers of gold ingots and coins, and promoters held out visions of a gold bar under every mattress.

Today, buyers who took advantage of their new freedom to buy gold have lost as much as 30 per cent on their original investment. Furthermore, some sellers of gold bullion have gotten out of the business, and many gold-investing securities have declined in value - even in a sharply rising stock market.

"Sales have been far, far lower - than even the most conservative estimates," John R. Toedman, a vice president of England Industries, said of gold.

Merrill Lynch & Company, which last year founded a new jointly owned precious metals company with Samuel Montagu & Company and Handy & Harman, said it sold only 25 to 30 per cent of the gold bullion it had expected to sell during 1975. Richard G. Freiburg, Merrill Lynch vice president, said a downward shifting economy - falling stock market, and adverse publicity - were heavily to blame.

Even the most aggressive gold marketers and pundits concede that the gold boom has not yet materialized. For example, the Republic National Bank of New York, which had previously sold gold coins to its customers, added gold bullion to its list last Dec. 31. Gold sales slumped, however, and the bank says it actually sold less gold in 1975 than it did in 1974.

Hess's department-store chain in Pennsylvania initiated gold-selling a year ago with a well-publicized offer of a 30 per cent discount to the first 50 customers buying gold. The chain says it sold 200 ounces the first day, and then got out of the business. "Gold never took off, and we decided it wasn't for us," a spokesman said.

James Dings, a long-standing advocate of gold ownership, predicted in mid-November 1974 on a televised panel show that the price of gold would double in the next 12 to 24 months. Instead it dropped to about $140 an ounce from a high of nearly $200 at the beginning of 1975.

BUHL — The Twin Falls girls dished the Buhl Indians girls 59-34 Saturday night. Twin Falls showed a good balance in their attack against the early game.

Buhl's Karen Mendenhall played outstanding defense and was able to hold the Buhl's Karen Brown to only 9 points.

Twin Falls — Brown 8, Fehst 7, Hamilton 13, Kasei 6, Lansbury 2.

Buhl — Gould 2, Meier 24, Meltzer 2, Bell 4, Hoffaker 2.

Portland tops Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI) — Bill Walton, scoring a career high of 36 points and dominating the backboards, led the Portland Trailblazers to a 116-109 win over the Atlanta Hawks Sunday night.

Walton dropped in 17 of 22 shots from the field and grabbed 22 rebounds to dominate the game, even though he played with caution most of the game with three first-quarter fouls.

Portland jumped out to a 27-18 lead in the opening period, but Atlanta bounced back for a seven-point lead midway in the second quarter. An 11-4 Trailblazer spurt at the quarter's end gave Portland a 62-59 halftime advantage.

Portland kept its lead close through the second half, until Atlanta tied it at 97-97 with 7:35 remaining in the game. Still tied at 105-105 with three minutes the game became Portland's in another 11-4 rally.

A Walton jumper with 31 seconds remaining widened Portland's lead to five points and put the game out of the Hawks' reach.

Aiding Walton in the Trailblazer effort was Sidney Wicks with 18 points. Atlanta's John Drew had a season-high of 42 points.

Cleveland nips Bullets

RICHFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — Fools Walker stole an inbound pass and put in a layup with four seconds left Sunday night to give the Cleveland Cavaliers a 106-104 come-from-behind NBA victory over the Washington Bullets.

The victory moved the Cavs to within one-half game of the Bullets in the Central Division of the Eastern Conference.

The Bullets, who had led from the opening tip, had a 104-102 lead with 11 seconds to play, but Jim Brewer picked up a loose ball at mid-court and stuffed it through the nets to tie the score with eight seconds left.

After the Bullets called time out, Walker made the steal of the season that moved the Cavs to three games over the .500 mark for the season.

76ers defeat Celtics

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Doug Collins and Steve Mix combined for 59 points Sunday night to help the Philadelphia 76ers wipe out a 15-point deficit and defeat the Boston Celtics 118-107.

Trailing 70-55 with 10:28 left in the third quarter, the Sixers reeled off 14 straight points to make it 70-69 with 6:22 left in the third quarter.

Boston opened up two 5-point leads again at 81-76 and 83-78 and then the Sixers came back to lead 86-85 entering the final period.

Philadelphia led by 11, 111-99 with 2:44 remaining and the Celtics never got closer than 7 points.

Collins scored 31 while Mix added 28. George McGinnis had 18 and rookie Joe Bryant had 16 for the winners.

Charlie Scott led the Celtics with 19 points while JoJo White had 18 and John Havlicek, Dave Cowens and Paul Silas had 16 points each.

The victory cut Boston's Atlantic Division lead over the Sixers to one-half game.

Bucks defeat Lakers

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Jim Price scored 20 points and Junior Bridgeman came off the bench to add 18 Sunday night in a 95-89 victory by the Milwaukee Bucks over the Los Angeles Lakers.

The win enabled the Bucks to take a one-game lead over Detroit in the NBA's Midwest Division.

The loss was the fourth in a row for Los Angeles and the eighth in their last nine games.

Milwaukee broke open the game at the start of the second quarter. Leading 31-27, the Bucks scored 10 straight points, four of them by Price, for a 41-27 advantage. The Bucks then led by as much as 20 before settling for 58-43 lead at the half.

Los Angeles, led by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Don Ford, closed to within five points at 85-80 with 4:20 left but then Brian Winters and Bridgeman hit jump shots to put the game out of reach.

Abdul-Jabbar led the Lakers with 35 points while Ford finished with 14. Winters had 19 for Milwaukee.

Knicks nip Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Bill Bradley and Spencer Haywood scored seven points in the last 1:19 Sunday night to lead the New York Knicks to a 99-88 NBA win over the Phoenix Suns.

The Suns led 96-92 with 1:31 remaining, but a Haywood stuff and two free throws by Bradley tied the score at 96 with 43 seconds left.

Haywood converted one of two free throws with 13 seconds on the clock, and Bradley clinched the victory with a pair from the line with four seconds left, after the Knicks had blocked a Phoenix shot.

Haywood finished with 29 points, Bradley with 25 and Walt Frazier with 18 for the Knicks, who won the game by converting 23 of 32 shots from the charity line. They had 28 field goals compared with 40 for the Suns, who converted 18 of 22 free throws.

Keth Erickson had 21 points and Paul Westphal 19 for Phoenix, which suffered its fifth consecutive loss.

Kings outlast Pistons

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Nate Archibald scored 31 points and handed out 16 assists Sunday afternoon in leading the struggling Kansas City Kings to a 105-99 win over the Detroit Pistons in the NBA nationally televised game.

In winning only their third game in their last 17 outings and pulling to within four games of first place, Milwaukee in the NBA Midwest, the Kings also got double-figure scoring from Glenn Hansen with 19, Scott Wedman with 12, Larry McNeill with 20 and Sam Lacey with 15. Lacey also had 14 rebounds and McNeill six.

Curtis Rowe led Detroit, which has now lost three in a row and is a half game behind Milwaukee, with 16 points, while George Trapp had 16 and Earl Williams, filling in for injured center Bob Lanier, had 17 rebounds.

The game was tied eight times in the first quarter, the last time when Archibald hit two free throws to even the score at 21-21. The 6-0 guard from Texas-EI Paso came back to score on a layup, seconds later and then an offensive free throw to put the Kings up for good at 24-21.

Archibald, who had 13 points in the first quarter alone, picked up assists on the Kings' first four baskets of the second period and after sitting out the first three minutes, came back to hand out three more assists and lead the Kings to a 60-47 halftime lead.

Johnny Miller takes third Tucson Open

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Johnny Miller almost felt bad about winning the $200,000 Tucson Open Sunday for a near record third straight time.

The young Californian charged in from the third hole of the final round, then fought off challenges by British Open champion Tom Watson, young Howard Twitty, former PGA champ Dave Stockton and Tom Weiskopf twice to win by three strokes with a final round 68.

"When I came up to the 16th green, the crowd gave me a big cheer," Miller, 28, who now has won $387,152 and needs only $12,841 to become golf's youngest and ninth millionaire, said. "That made me feel good, but, if I was them, I would have been rooting for someone else. I'm surprised they aren't tired of seeing the same guy win again."

The 68 — a score Miller predicted he would shoot to win — gave him a 74-hole total of 14-under-par 274 and a three-shot triumph over Twitty, a 1972 graduate of Arizona State, who also had a final round 68 to win $22,800, his biggest paycheck since joining the tour last year.

Miller, who won the Tucson last year with a 25-under-par score of 263, said he would have liked a big lead going into the final round because he feels that once he gets on top he can win. As it was he and Watson started the last 18 tied for second, a shot behind Weiskopf, who eventually finished third at 278 and won $14,290.

"It was close," Miller said. "I played my game, and the other guys fell back. Laverne once hit a 150 it looked up, but once I made that birdie putt on the 16th, I knew I was in pretty good shape. I feel anytime I get in front by two strokes, I have an excellent chance to win."

By winning, Miller became the seventh player in history to win the same tournament three straight years. The record is four consecutive triumphs, and that was set by Walter Hagen in 1929.

The 28-year-old blond Californian won the 1974 Tucson with a 16 under par score and last year took the event with an incredible 25-under-par 263.

This year, he took the lead for the first time with a birdie putt on the 57th hole, then held off challenges by British Open champion Tom Watson, former PGA King Dave Stockton, young Howard Twitty and Tom Weiskopf to win with a 72-hole score of 14-under-par 274.

Weiskopf, who went into the final round with a one-shot lead over Miller and Watson, dropped back by making the turn at the long Tucson National Golf Club course. In seven par-5s, he came back with a 60-foot eagle putt on the 15th, that left him only two shots back.

But Miller, playing in a threesome ahead of Weiskopf, birdied the 16th and then Weiskopf took a double bogey on the same hole to put Miller safely in front with a hole to play.

Miller, who wound up with a final round 68, won a prize of $40,000 to boost his career earnings to $387,152. That leaves him only $12,841 short of becoming golf's ninth millionaire.

He plays next in the Phoenix Open this week and he has won that tournament in both of the last two years.

Chris Evert takes top women's money

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Chris Evert has learned her lesson about Evonne Goolagong. And she showed Sunday she has learned it well.

When the tennis darling from Florida meets her chief competitor from Australia, Evert knows she has to go all out, sitting back waiting for something to happen is not going to get the job done.

So Evert went out and made it happen Sunday, successfully defending her Women's World Series of Tennis title with a 6-3, 7-6 victory that brought her $50,000 — the richest prize in women's sport.

"I'm taking more chances with her now and playing more aggressively and the results have been better," said Evert, who has had a long series of exciting matches with Goolagong.

"I've played her cautiously before and have lost. I like to go to the net more because it is exciting and it is challenging to me."

"I used to be nervous when I played Evonne. Now I'm very confident. I just don't worry about matches anymore."

Evert had cause to worry in the second set, however, as Goolagong three times seized a service break advantage. But the Australian, who won $25,000 for being runner-up in the exclusive four-player tournament, double faulted at set point to lose her advantage and concentration.

"I thought I really gulped it out in the second set," said Evert.

"I thought if she had won the second set she would have won the match. She was jumping around the court like she could have lasted three more hours."

Evert jumped in front, 4-0, in the opening set and although Miss Goolagong rallied to make a match of it and three times took a service break in the second set, the Australian double faulted away her chance to win the second set.

Goolagong settled for $25,000 runner-up prize in the exclusive four-player tournament.

Playing on a blustery, chilly day, Evert appeared ready to win in a walk. But Goolagong, who qualified for this tournament by winning the Australian Open, fought back and appeared to have captured the momentum through the grueling second set.

US pros finally whip Russians

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — It could have been an international incident, but fortunately cooler heads prevailed during Sunday's bizarre ice hockey match between the Philadelphia Flyers and the Soviet Union's Red Army team.

When 11 minutes gone in the first period, the Philadelphia Flyers Bill Barber stepped into the Soviet's premier left winger, Valeri Kharlamov, inside the Russian blue line.

Kharlamov was streaking down the right side with the puck a few seconds later when defenseman Ed Van Impe sent him head-first to the ice.

Kharlamov, a legend in his native country, appeared to be seriously injured and his teammates demanded referee Lloyd Gilmour send Van Impe off for tripping.

When the Soviet winger had made it to his feet, Loktev had already pulled his goalie and the team was playing for the dressing room.

It appeared the long-awailed confrontation for the title of the best hockey team in the world was over.

NHL President Clarence S. Campbell conducted some hurried diplomacy in the corridors of the Spectrum arena.

"I talked to the head of our delegation and said this was no way to terminate a series," Campbell said after the Flyers had the game, 4-1. "He agreed and they decided to come back."

"They left under the pretext that Kharlamov was hurt but that was far from it. It is never justified for any team to leave the ice."

Flyers' captain Bobby Clarke, who put Kharlamov out of the Team Canada-Soviet series in 1972 with a stick on the ankle, said Van Impe's check was "a clean one, one of the best he's ever made."

"I thought they were trying to psyche us up by going off the ice," said Flyers policeman Davu Schultz. "I think some of those guys wanted to quit — they wanted to stay in the dressing room."

Pig Bowl draws record crowd

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — It took 22 policemen and sheriff's deputies who billed themselves as pigs to draw the largest athletic crowd in Hughes Stadium history.

Officials said an estimated 25,000 fans packed the stadium Saturday to see the Sacramento County Sheriff's Department and the Sacramento Police Department battle to a 6-6 tie in the second annual "Pig Bowl."

Only 12,000 fans paid to see the NCAA Division II Camella Bowl championship football game last month.

Despite the fact the proceeds from the game went to charity, why would so many people pack themselves the chilly, 46-year-old stadium under cloudy skies to watch what might, best be described as hardly a threat to the Super Bowl?

"We want to see the cops beat each other up," said Roger Boyette of Sacramento, who brought a van to the stadium parking lot the night before to get a good spot for the traditional tailgate party.

Besides, the Pig Bowl is the only thing in Sacramento besides St. Patrick's Day.

Marsha King said she and her friends came from Dallas, Tex., "because we don't have any sense."

Dave Carlson insisted he flew in from Denver just to see the game. "I came out to watch a bunch of 30-year-old men make fools of themselves," he said.

The previous record turnout at Hughes Stadium went into the books on Nov. 6, 1948 when 23,876 people saw University of Santa Clara upset the University of Nevada 14-0.

Nets drop Pacers

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — Julius Erving put on one of his spectacular one-man shows Sunday with 20 points, seven rebounds, seven assists and six steals to lead the New York Nets to a 112-102 victory over the Indiana Pacers.

It was the Nets' seventh victory in as many starts against the Pacers this season and the loss was Indiana's eighth in its last nine games.

The Nets jumped to a quick 13-0 lead and led 35-19 after the first quarter. New York led by as many as 22 points in the second half and the closest Indiana ever got was within 10 points.

John Williamson added 20 points for the Nets and Sven Nater tossed in 14 points and grabbed 15 rebounds. Dave Robisch tallied 29 points to lead the Pacers with Dwight Lamar finishing with 19.

It was the Nets' second and last game under interim coach Bill Melchioni as head coach Kevin Loughery sat out the second game of a two-game suspension leveled against him last Friday by NBA Commissioner Dave DeBusschere. Under Melchioni the Nets were 1-1.

Spirits nip Colonels

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Randy Denton and Marvin Barnes made jump shots in the final two minutes of the game Sunday night to give the Spirits of St. Louis a 113-111 victory over the Kentucky Colonels.

Denton led the game at 1:09 with an 18-foot turn around jumper from the left side, and on the next time down the court, Barnes sank a jumper from the key with slightly more than one minute remaining.

With 15 seconds left, Kentucky inbounded the ball under its own basket but Artis Gilmore, who led all scorers with 32 points, missed a shot.

M.L. Carr padded the Spirits' margin with two free throws with only four seconds remaining before Maurice Lucas, playing his first game in St. Louis since being traded for Caldwell Jones, scored for Kentucky at the buzzer.

Barnes and Ron Boone led St. Louis with 26 points each and Denton had 21. The Spirits have won five of their last six games and four straight at home.

Kentucky's Wil Jones suffered a dislocated finger on his right hand in a collision under his own basket in the second half.

Braves drop Sonics

SEATTLE (UPI) — League-leading scorer Bob McAdoo poured in 38 points and Ken Charles led a career-high 23 points to lead the Buffalo Braves to an 125-104 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics Sunday night.

Leading 41-38 with five minutes to play in the first half, the Braves outscored Seattle 16-2 and 18-9 in the second and third quarters to make it 84-59. Charles scored eight points in the break.

McAdoo, with 7-of-11 field goal attempts in the first half, completely dominated Seattle center Tommy Burleson. Burleson left the game in the third quarter without scoring a point and chalking up four personal fouls.

The victory moves Buffalo to within 4½ games of Atlantic Division leader Boston.

Seattle was led in scoring by Leonard Gray with 20 points and Herm Gilliam with 17 points. The loss dropped the Sonics to 8½ games behind division leader Golden State and a half game ahead of third place Los Angeles.

Baseball's No. 1 draft pick signs

DETROIT (UPI) — Steve Kemp, a dropout from Southern California who was the first player to be picked in last week's major league baseball draft, has signed a major league bonus contract with the Detroit Tigers for an undisclosed sum, the club announced Sunday.

Jim Campbell, general manager of the team that had the worst record in baseball last season, flew to Kemp's home in Arcadia, Calif., to make the signing of the Tigers' top selection.

The signing during the week-end of Alex Johnson and Kemp gave Detroit a full 40-player roster.

Kemp, 21, will probably be optioned to the minors but he will attend spring training with Detroit at its Lakeland, Fla., camp.

The youngster is a left-handed hitter and thrower. Detroit felt he would be an ideal hitter in Tiger Stadium, which always has been an advantage to left-handed hitters with his short right field fence.

Kemp stands a shade under 6 feet and weighs 175 pounds. He dropped out of school after his junior year specifically to be drafted. His coach at USC, Rod Dedeaux, called him perhaps the best pure hitter he's ever had.

Ashe wins tourney

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Top-seeded Arthur Ashe fought off a stiff challenge by Andrew Pattison to win the $60,000 World Championship Tennis Classic here Sunday afternoon, 3-6, 6-3, 7-6 in a 1½-hour match.

The finals were played at SL John Arena on the Ohio State University campus before 6,077 fans.

Pattison, a Rhodesian, now living in Lakeway, Tex., started with assurance, breaking Ashe in the fourth game of the first set, and coasting to a relatively easy win.

The rangy 27-year-old then broke Ashe's of Miami, Fla., again in the opening game of the second set and built up a 40-love lead on his own serve.

At this point, Ashe, hitting numerous forcing shots, combined with crisp volleys, worked his way back into the game, running off five straight points to break again.

Ashe broke Pattison's serve back in the eighth game and then served out for the set.

Both men held serve to six-all in the final set. At this stage, with the 13-point WCT tie-breaking in effect, Ashe won easily, seven points to four, after building up a comfortable 6-1 lead. On the final point, Ashe put away a backhand overhead off a weak Pattison return.

Ashe, the 1975 Wimbledon and WCT singles champion, then picked up where he left off last year—with his sights clearly set on Moody Coliseum in Dallas and the WCT Finals in May.

He earned $17,000 for his victory Sunday. Pattison picked up a check for $7,000.

The event will be seven more WCT tournaments for Ashe before Dallas. His next tournament is next week in Indianapolis.

Ashe earned his way into the finals of the WCT tournament here with consecutive straight set victories over Bob Hewitt of South Africa, Alex Metreveli of the Soviet Union and Phil Dent of Australia.

Australian team grabs tennis win

HOBART, Australia (UPI) — Australia's Tony Roche and John Newcombe took only 19 minutes Sunday to finish up the Eastern Zone Davis Cup semifinal against Indonesia.

Newcombe defeated Alot Wijono, 6-2, 6-1, 6-1; and Roche beat Justido Tarik, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2, to make it a clean sweep for Australia, five matches to none.

The series was one of the easiest on record for Australia. Indonesia won only 25 games in the series.

Australia now goes into the zone final against either India or New Zealand at Brisbane, Feb. 27-29.

India and New Zealand will meet in Auckland, New Zealand, next Friday.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JANUARY 13, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Live only the most proven principles you have found to be acceptable, acting in a scrupulously conscientious way, for you can make an error in judgment that could cause you to lose out where it counts the most. Be alert.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Read the small print as well as the large in any important papers before you sign them. Use extra care in motion.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be careful, conscientious, money dealings. Be practical. Wrong money deals could prove costly later. Show more concern for mate.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Not a good day to make big decisions since you are considering only surface conditions. Avoid one who is easily angered.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Although you may feel restrained in some way, you had better keep promises made to others. Then all is fine.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Ask friends about their wives—and you can handle these persons more intelligently now. Avoid social affairs which could result in argument.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Improve credit. Don't try to put a bigwig down or you get hurt. A friend could be helpful to you in p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Analyze new outlets carefully if you want them to operate with greater success. Get better organized and be happier.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Fringes, especially dependable, could get you off center today, so use only your finest judgment. Be patient with loved one.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Being sarcastic with partners could result in trouble, so sweeten your disposition and all is fine. Avoid one who opposes you.

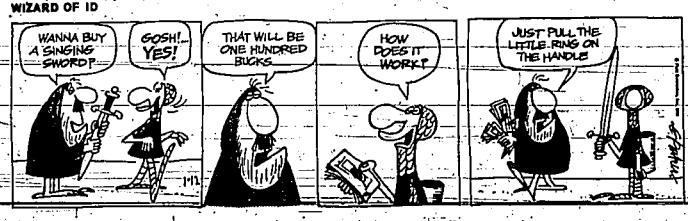

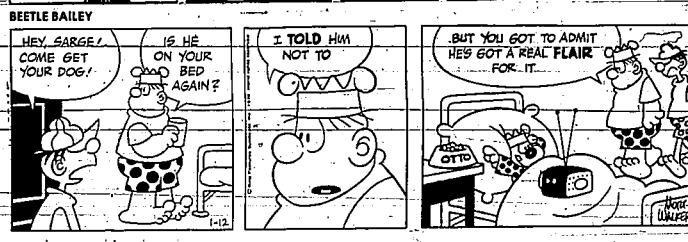

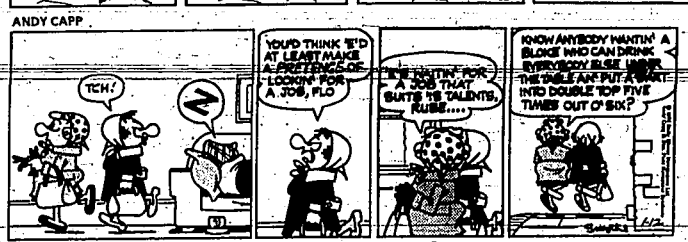

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get yourself in the right mood early if you want to polish that work off efficiently. Take treatments for vitality.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Not a good day for desired amusement, but fine for planning it. You have some particularly ideal that needs execution.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You want to get conditions bettered at home, but this is not the right time, for there could be big arguments.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: he or she will like to solve problems and could easily create some fun to show this ability, so train early to become involved in pleasant and profitable activities, as your progeny could get into trouble otherwise. Give as fine an education as possible and steer it toward financial pursuits. Teach early to be more practical, ambitious.

O...You say there's only one other word, besides angry and hungry, in the English language that ends in 'ry'? I give up!

A. Puggry. That's a variation of pugore or puggare. It's a light turban worn in India. The "gy" spelling is in the World-Book Dictionary and a few other references, but not in most dictionaries.

That stickum you and I call glue more likely is a gum or cement or an adhesive. To be true glue, it has to be made from animal-hide and skin or from bone or from fish.

ODDBALL FOODS

Of all the athletes, the baseball players are the most superstitious. You've heard that. But were you aware that the firefighters are known to be the most "oddball" eaters? romantic? As for the track stars, they're the most likely to diet on oddball food combinations, like peanuts with horse-radish or carrots under maple syrup or roast beef in buttermilk.

In India is a single town with three names: Timbunval, Tamil, Nadu. Average temperature there year-round runs 84.7 degrees F. That just matches the average year-round temperature in that well-known African spot called Timbuktou, Mali. Those metropolises are said to be the hottest worldwide.

LOVE AND WAR

Would be hard to find any music that could more enhance the romantic atmosphere of a midnight bedroom than the exquisitely tender compositions of Johannes Brahms. Our Love and War man admits that. He points out, however, that the midnight bedroom was not where Brahms put together his masterpieces. He most usually did his cunning creations at dawn while quaffing down black coffee and puffing on cigars.

The honeybee population around here is getting smaller. And fast. Blame pesticides, or herbicides, or both. Anyway, if the honeybee becomes an endangered species, and it looks as though it will, honey, sweet, trouble is yours! Ask your family mathematician to divide 10 into two parts in such a manner that one of those parts is five times larger than the other. The genius should say: One and two-thirds. Eight and one-third.

Lincoln farmers elect officers

SHOSHONE — Don Roberts was re-elected president of the Lincoln County Farm Bureau Thursday night. Elected to serve with him were Ernie Davis, vice president; Mrs. Don Roberts, women's chairman, and Mrs. Ervin Braun, secretary-treasurer.

David Newey, Richfield, and Eldon Braun, north Shoshone, were named to the board of directors, and a third member will be named from the Dietrich area.

Garland Blair and Charley Jaynes reported on the state convention they attended in Coeur d'Alene recently. They were county delegates.

County membership meetings were planned, to be held in conjunction with upcoming board meetings. There will be talks on commodities and plans were made to discuss legislation at the first meeting.

Tentative date for the annual banquet was set for March 16. Various members will be in charge of the menu, ticket sales, speaker, entertainment, complimentary tickets, master of ceremonies and table decorations, door prizes and other details.

A state leadership conference will be held in Ontario, Ore., Jan. 14-16. Named to attend were Garland Blair, Ernie Davis and Eldon Braun.

Blair was cited for having obtained four new members for the county organization. He was presented a Farm Bureau cup and hamster, presentation made by President Roberts and district 3 fieldman, Jay Cole, Buhl. A statewide membership program is being carried out with the awards a special recognition for achievement.

Open-house planned

SHOSHONE — Open house will be held at the new office building for the Shoshone district, Bureau of Land Management, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Jan. 20.

Construction of the office building was begun in December of 1974 and first occupied around Dec. 15, 1975. Willis Construction Co., Twin Falls, was prime contractor.

The office building costing around $400,000 is the first of a several phase program planned within the district, with eventual hopes to have all of the BLM operations for the district located in the vicinity of the new building.

For the present fire-fighting operations will continue to be located on the northern outskirts of the city.
