Towering inferno

Supreme Court schedules review of 5 death cases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, which banned the death penalty in 1972, today agreed to review capital punishment cases from five states. The justices set March 20 arguments on the controversial issue.
The specific cases involve six convicted murderers in Georgia, Texas, North Carolina, Florida and Louisiana.
But the final decision could decide the fates of more than 400 persons awaiting the death penalty in prisons across the country. There has not been a legal execution in the United States since June 2, 1967.
The justices accepted a death penalty case from North Carolina last term and heard arguments on it, but did not issue an opinion. No arguments had been scheduled yet this term.
The order issued by the court today asked the U.S. solicitor general for his views on capital punishment.
The new cases will give the court a broader view of the death penalty, since the earlier North Carolina case was based on an action of the state supreme court, rather than the legislature.
The new action also takes account of the retirement of Justice William O. Douglas and the arrival of Justice John Paul Stevens to replace him.
The high court ruled 5 to 4 in 1972 that the death penalty was unconstitutional as then applied. The court said there were too many ways for some to escape death while others did not with the result that the law was applied in a freakish and arbitrary manner.
The constitutional test is whether the penalty is cruel and unusual punishment.
Thirty-five states have capital punishment laws on their books.
The NAACP Legal Defense Fund, which is representing several defendants in the capital cases, said 41 persons were on death row in 20 states as of a recent check with state prison officials.
No one has been legally executed in the United States since Luis Monge, 48, was put to death in Colorado's gas chamber June 2, 1967, for killing his wife and three of his 10 children.

Cease-fire in Lebanon gives Moslems control

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Warring factions in Lebanon's nine-month civil war agreed to a new cease-fire today leaving Moslem militiamen and their Palestinian allies in control of at least two-thirds of the country.
A joint statement released by a Lebanese-Palestinian-Syrian truce committee said the cease-fire would take effect at 8 p.m. (11 a.m. MST) today, halting the bitter conflict that took at least 10,000 lives and wounded more than 20,000 other persons.
The latest round of fighting saw units of the Palestine Liberation Army enter Lebanon on the side of the Moslem leftists, and the combined forces won control of right-wing Christian territory in eastern Beirut and in Beirut.
The Christians in the capital were left in a small triangle in eastern Beirut when the Moslems swept out of their strongholds in the western suburbs.
Beirut Radio announced the time of the cease-fire six hours after a spokesman for President Suleiman Franjeh revealed news that all sides had agreed to a truce.
The announcement followed the fourth attempt to mediate peace in Lebanon by Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam, and was the fifth cease-fire in the civil war and the fourth since last Saturday.
Political circles pointed to the fact that this time the Syrians were directly involved in supervising the cease-fire which raised hopes that it could meet with more success.
Khaddam, along with Syrian Chief of Staff, Maj. Gen. Hikmat Chibehi and the Syrian Air Force Commander, Maj. Gen. Najib Janati, reached agreement on the cease-fire in Lebanon with the Lebanese army chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Saïd Nasrallah, and Palestinian guerrilla leaders Zuhair Mohsen and Salah Khalaf.
The committee will issue successive statements on further resolutions. It appeared to all sides to abide by these agreements.

AF Dam gets green light

BOISE — The $15 million American Falls Dam replacement project was given an official green light today.
The decision was made today at a summit meeting of principals in the project, including the American Falls Reservoir District board of directors, the reservoir spaceholders' executive committee and representatives of the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation and the Idaho Power Co.
The 17-million-acre-foot reservoir's storage had been cut by a third because the dam was deteriorated dangerously.
The spaceholders' executive committee, commonly called the Committee of Eight, voted 7 to 1 in favor of proceeding with the replacement project. Committee member Clifford Darrington, who also sits on the Burley Irrigation District board of directors, cast the lone negative vote.
Bureau of Reclamation regional director Rod Vissia had said earlier that his agency would rely heavily on the Committee of Eight's recommendation in deciding whether to approve the project.
Robert Hogg, an Idaho Power Co. consultant, Wednesday said the go-or-delay decision was "completely up to the irrigators." If they decide to go, that's it. The Committee of Eight represents the irrigators.
The go-ahead action means wateruser organizations that rejected the replacement proposal in recent elections must join the project or forfeit their water rights.
The dissident waterusers include the Burley and Minidoka Irrigation Districts, which have water rights for about 11 per cent of the 17 million acre-foot of storage in the reservoir.
About 52 per cent of the storage share has been voted by irrigation districts and canal companies with 20 per cent supporting the replacement project and 17 per cent against it. Spaceholder organizations representing the remaining 3 per cent will vote in March.
Today's decision clears the way for awarding about $1 million in equipment contracts and issuing about $5 million in bond anticipation notes to pay for initial construction costs.
Officials hope construction of the replacement dam can start this June.
Up to $41.2 million in bonds will be sold to finance the new dam. Idaho Power Co. will pay about $22.9 million of the capital cost and reservoir spaceholders will pay the other $18.3 million.
If all the bonds are sold at 8 per cent interest, estimates put the annual cost to spaceholders at $1.08 per acre-foot over the 40-year repayment period.
Water rights held by organizations that do not join the project will be administered for three years by the Bureau of Reclamation.
Upon request, the agency must lease the rights to the dissident organizations the first year. However, the rights may or may not be leased to the same waterusers the second year. After three years, if the organizations still have not joined, their rights will be given to other waterusers, the federal government or Idaho Power Co.

TF golf pro may stay for season

By DAVID HORSMAN
TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls' golf pro may get a chance to stay on the job until the end of this year's season.
City Councilman Chris Talkington today said he would be "receptive" to a proposal that golf pro Clyde Thomson keep the job until the end of the season.
Councilman Stephen Bancroft said he would "consider" the idea.
The City Council, in a 3-2 vote Monday night, rejected a proposal to renew Thomson's annual $10,000 contract for the coming season.
Talkington, Bancroft and Mayor Paul Ostyn cast the negative votes. Ostyn could not be reached today for comment.
Talkington stressed that he has not changed his mind about firing Thomson, "but I would be receptive to a reconsideration of the termination this year."
He said he doesn't see "anything wrong" with letting the date back to a time "more convenient for (Thomson's) financial well being."
"Some of his supporters said it is unfair to let him go in February (Thomson's current contract expires Feb. 29) when he has already worked the season's amount of equipment," Talkington said. "They said it would be more fair to release him in November after the prime golfing season."
Talkington said reaction has been about 4 to 1 against his negative vote. He said he has been inundated with a recall petition and "physical harm" by critics.
He also said he "strongly" resents numerous "insinuations that Mayor Ostyn bought my vote." Thomson has charged that Ostyn has a personal grudge against him.
Talkington said he worked Monday night was influenced by people who had contacted him and complained of "inequitable treatment" by Thomson at the golf course.
Bancroft said reaction to his vote has been about evenly split between supporters and critics.
Asked if he would support a delay in firing Thomson, he said, "I would consider it — mainly because I have no vendetta whatsoever against Clyde Thomson."
"But I'm not saying which way I would go" on such a proposal, Bancroft added.

Henry cites 'progress' in Moscow arms session

MOSCOW (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said today he has made "some progress" in strategic arms limitation talks with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, and the gap between the sides has narrowed.
"We have made some progress on a number of important issues," Kissinger said in a brief chat with newsmen "so far the negotiations have been serious with both sides making responsible proposals and narrowing the gaps."
The Soviet leaders requested that this morning something be delayed until 6 p.m. (10 a.m. EST), apparently because of a secret meeting of the ruling Politburo, U.S. officials said.
Kissinger said, "I think we are off a course in which we can take the progress made in Washington and see where we get from there."
"We are not on any particular schedule," Kissinger added. "Our schedule is the one needed for the peace of the world."
At a luncheon in his honor, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko voiced concern about U.S. military efforts.
Kissinger repeated his belief that progress had been made in the SALT talks and further progress was possible.
He gratefully greeted the Soviets about Angola, saying "conditions in other parts of the world can create temptations for gaining unilateral advantage and that is a danger to world peace. Just as we oppose those who seek to topple abroad from our country, we shall resist efforts abroad to achieve military gain."

Fog halts TF flights

TWIN FALLS — Fog stopped morning scheduled airline flights out of the Twin Falls airport Wednesday and today according to airlines at west officials.
They said fog was heavy early in the morning, but nearly gone by about 11 a.m. Wednesday. They said they expected today's fog to dissipate in time for later flights to take off at scheduled times. Officials said operations were normal Wednesday except for the early morning delay.
William Galkin, National Weather Service, said the fog has mostly been south of the river. He said it was clear in Burley this morning, but fog was heavy in Hagerman at 8 a.m.
Galkin said an approaching storm should bring a little wind and some rain to the area Friday, dispersing the fog.

Speedy death for ERA rescinder?

BOISE (UPI) — Rescinding the Equal Rights Amendment appears headed for another speedy death in the Idaho Senate, although a prime mover to knock-out-ERA doesn't share that feeling.

Sen. Dan Watkins (R-Idaho Falls) said the issue will stay "alive" despite the surprise action of the Senate State Affairs Committee Wednesday.

Without debate, the committee voted to introduce a joint resolution calling for repeal of the ERA. But there's a catch: Approval of the resolution requires a two-thirds majority and there's doubt among some senators it would receive a simple majority.

In the last two sessions, the Senate has quickly disposed of the question after a rescinder barely passed the House. Since it was approved in 1971, it has remained an emotional issue with attempts to repeal.

Wednesday's action by the State Affairs Committee caught Watkins by surprise. He told newsmen he had planned to introduce a concurrent resolution requiring only a simple majority for adoption.

Although Watkins admitted he did not know what action he would take next, he said: "we will keep the issue alive. We are not out of the woods yet."

The motion to introduce the joint resolution was made by Sen. Dick Smith, R-Bozeman, who said legislators have been receiving requests from all parts of the state on a vote to rescind.

"Since no one has taken action to give us an opportunity to vote on the issue, I have introduced the measure," Smith said.

In the House, the Business committee agreed Wednesday to introduce legislation forcing health insurance companies to allow ill, unemployed workers to convert to individual from group policies.

But while the committee okayed the bill for introduction — with one change — members indicated it faces a rocky road ahead at this session of the legislature.

State Insurance Director Monroe Goltfarer made an impassioned plea for the measure, saying it was "model" legislation proposed by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners.

"I feel very strongly about this bill," Goltfarer said, saying in nearly 10 years with the department he has seen many persons become chronically ill, have to quit work and then lose their health insurance.

"I cannot overemphasize the social injustices that have been suffered by those people in the past," he said.

Goltfarer acknowledged that the insurance industry is less than excited about the proposal.

"It will indeed rack a lot of comfortable beds in the insurance industry," he said. "Insurance actuaries will have to sharpen their pencils. The insurance industry has turned their backs on these people and left them to solve their own financial problems on their own."

"We're faced with almost immediate federal intervention in the insurance industry if we don't come up with something meaningful," he said.

Non-property city tax proposal goes to panel

BOISE (UPI) — House taxwriters referred to a subcommittee for study Wednesday a proposal to allow cities, with voter approval, to impose up to 12 non-property taxes.

Rep. Perry Swisher, D-Pocahontas, counseled the full committee against introducing the proposal at this time, saying some may find some of the options repugnant and the bill might have a better chance if the committee drafts its own version.

To send it to the printer now, he said, might help advance the measure briefly. But in the long run, he said, it would be harmful if local chambers of commerce are discussing a bill the legislature really is not considering.

Rep. Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls, chairman of the subcommittee to which the bill was referred, asked his members to suggest priorities on the type of taxes they would prefer to see in the bill.

Floyd Decker, director of the Association of Idaho Cities, brought the bill to the committee. He called it the "Sanctuary of measures passed by the House last year and then killed by the Senate in Committee of the Whole.

He said there are a number of differences between this year's bill and last year's proposal. Chief among them, he said, is a limitation on the number of taxes the cities may impose.

Under this bill city officials could not impose any of the taxes without approval of the voters residing in the city. The proposed tax would be for a specific duration and could not be extended without voter approval or changed in any way without voter approval.

If a specific tax were rejected at the polls, Decker said, this bill would prohibit the proposal from being resubmitted to the voters for one year.

Decker said the bill proposes authorization of so many different taxes because "the economic bases of our communities differ."

"A liquor by the drink tax in Rexburg won't raise a cent," Decker said. "But with liquor by the drink tax on Saturday night in Stanley you probably would be able to abolish the property tax."

Resort communities such as Sun Valley, he said, favor a motel or hotel occupancy tax.

Cuban-led forces open path

LUSAKA, Zambia (UPI) — Western officials have said Soviet-backed Angolan troops spearheaded by Cubans have captured victory in a southern battle to open a southern corridor to the heart of pro-Western territory.

Communist-controlled Radio Luanda said the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola smashed through strong pro-Western defenses to capture the towns of Celo and Santa Comba, about 250 miles south of the Marxist capital of Luanda.

The towns control the northern end of a 100-mile road leading south to Huambo, the political capital of two pro-Western groups.

Jonas Savimbi, president of the pro-Western-National Union for the Total Independence of Angola, made no comment Wednesday on the developments.

Top court rules 'no change'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled 5-4 today that federal courts may not require sweeping changes in dealing with complaints about police brutality without first proving top police officials conspired to violate constitutional rights.

The majority overturned a lower court order requiring the Philadelphia Police Department to submit a complaint review system along detailed guidelines supplied by the court.

Writing for the majority, Justice William H. Rehnquist said the lower courts failed to find any intentional policy by the department or Mayor Frank Rizzo's administration to infringe the constitutional rights of minorities who brought the federal lawsuit.

Therefore, Rehnquist said, there was no justification for the sweeping court order.

Justice Harry A. Blackmun wrote the dissent accusing the majority of overturning traditional concepts that supervisors are responsible for the constitutional violations of their employees. Blackmun was joined by Justices William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall, with new Justice John Paul Stevens not participating in the decision.

Madrid lockout ends
MADRID, Spain (UPI) — The Standard Electric Company — Spanish subsidiary of I.T.T. ended a lockout of its 20,000 workers today and a wave of industrial stoppages and street protests receded in Spain.

The company closed the doors on its plants and research centers about two weeks ago after workers staged wildcat strikes in support of pay demands. Another U.S.-owned company, Chrysler Espanola, ended a similar lockout three weeks ago but its 10,000 workers have refused to come back unless the company reinstates dismissed colleagues and police free arrested strike leaders.

The return of Standard Electric workers cut the number of workers idled by labor disputes in the Madrid area to less than 50,000, far below last week's peak of 200,000. An estimated 20,000 were still on strike in the provinces.

The strikes center on pay demands, but have been accompanied by political street demonstrations.

WHY Now?
Why can't we come in our own way?
Because—There is a way which seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death. (Proverbs 14:12)

Why, then, will you perish? Why not receive God's offer of pardon and eternal life now?
Salvation is "the gift of God through our Lord Jesus Christ" (Rom. 6:23). "Not of works, lest any man should boast" (Ephesians 2:9).

For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (John 3:16).

He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him" (John 3:36).

Now—today—is the accepted time to receive the Lord Jesus Christ as your Saviour. Tomorrow may be too late!

"Seek ye the Lord while He may be found, call ye upon Him while He is near." Isaiah 55:6. "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved" (Romans 10:13).

T-N will stay in the kitchen

A recent rash of criticism, both negative and positive, demands a managerial explanation of the Times-News editorial policy and its staff responsibilities.

The reader asks why is the Times-News "attacking" Sierra Life? Why were the doctors' $100,000 contracts at the hospital questioned? The answers to these and many other questions are centered in the Times-News management's view of the duties of a free press in its community. These views are founded in a belief that the public needs factual information to enable informed decision making.

Where we come under the greatest criticism is for the areas we explore to bring needed information to the public. In our opinion no above-board newsmaker or institution should fear public scrutiny. This view has been the basis of constitutional preservation of a free press in this land for 150 years.

A free press has been guaranteed freedom, what that of its responsibilities?

The press has the responsibility to disseminate factual information, and its failings are subject to the same laws that govern any individual. Libel and defamation are crimes punishable in the courts.

But the press has other areas of responsibilities. It also has the responsibility to put forth information regardless of personal bias or degree of controversy. It has the obligation to search out corruption, mismanagement, untruths, and other social ills for the betterment of the community.

The fact that accurate information is put forth will not by itself solve any problem. Public action in a responsible manner is the correcting force.

Going back to specifics, why did the Times-News investigate Sierra Life's assets? The story began when reports came from surrounding states that Sierra had been barred from selling insurance policies. Why? According to the states' insurance officials, Sierra's assets were insufficient to back its policies. Again, why? This question precipitated the T-N investigation.

The newspaper's investigation is important because it bears directly on the security of insurance policies held by citizens of Idaho as well as other states.

Why question the doctors' contracts at the hospital?

Because as a county hospital, Magic Valley Memorial is required to prepare a budget each year to present to the county commissioners. The Times-News reviews this budget to inform the public in the ways its tax dollars are spent.

In reviewing this budget it was determined that doctors in pathology and radiology departments were to be paid an average income exceeding $100,000 a year. A check with numerous medical sources suggested this figure was too high.

After the story was printed, the hospital board finally made public the hitherto secret doctor contracts. And the hospital administrator announced the intention of adding an additional pathologist and adjust the doctor contracts. These changes would reduce per-doctor income to the $80,000 range. Ironically, the same time this was following the newspaper's recommendations, it was issuing a strong attack against the newspaper's "interference" in hospital affairs.

It is the intention of the Times-News management to continue this kind of accurate thorough reporting, regardless of the "heat."

Sensitive issues such as alcohol and drugs in the schools and the effects of a proposed power plant upwind of the Magic Valley will continue to be queried in print.

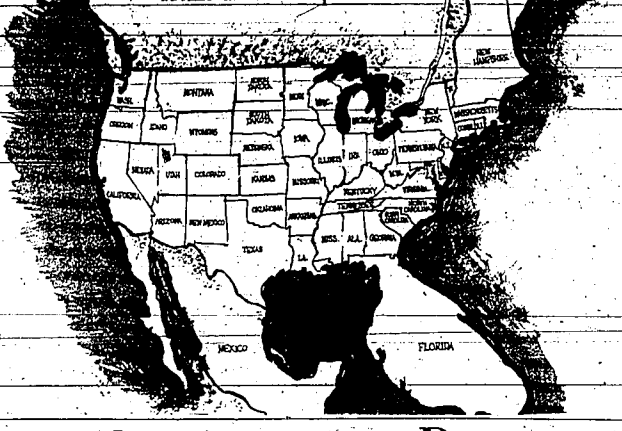

Problems are never solved by ignoring them. Nor are our responsibilities administered by becoming docile. We believe a healthy, forward looking community must have the news.

We will stay in the kitchen.

Byrd on the wing among Democrats

© Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — Not many people look to Sen. Robert Byrd, of West Virginia, to swarm out of the pack as a dark-horse Democratic presidential nominee.

But if the pack should falter or collapse, Senate observers agree, Byrd would be in his feet, acceptance speech in hand, issues drawn, strategy laid out, ready to go. By his own account, hard work, dedication, and "stick-it-to-them" pay off in politics, and his career is proof of it.

While nobody was paying much attention to him in 1971, Byrd knocked off Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the Massachusetts "golden boy," as Senate deputy minority leader, or whip. His diligent concern for detail, shrewd use of the small favor, and competent management of the legislative agenda have been the talk of the Senate.

Byrd, whose boyhood was rooted in poverty, is a middle-school law degree, his political ambition led him into the Ku Klux Klan as a young man, a move he regrets and wishes people would stop remembering. His other comparable blemish, mars his record.

Despite the far-left response in his announced candidacy, Byrd insists he has "no good chance as anybody else" to be nominated. Asked about the campaign organization he said tersely, "It is in the embryonic stage, adding I have no way to do it."

The guess here is that Byrd hopes he might be tapped for the vice-presidential spot, and he won't deny his interest in the second spot. His idea of a "balanced ticket," he admitted, would be a Humphrey-Byrd or Jackson-Byrd combination. "And you could turn them around," the senator, smiling with him at the top and keep the balance.

As Byrd views the country, his middle-of-the-road position, with a tilt to the conservative side, "fits the mood of the people." He is opposed to forced school busing and the registration and licensing of handguns, declaring that both run counter to the Constitution. However, he voted to ban the so-called "Saturday night special," the cheap-pop-the-counter gun that figures as a much street crime.

Byrd rates crime high among the issues that demand solutions. He supports an attorney general, federal judges and prosecutor who would vigorously act against criminals. He would favor laws providing mandatory sentences for crimes against people, including muggings, the use of a deadly weapon, and he would add jail time to second, and third offenders.

As for détente, Byrd said U.S. policy should be one of "eyes open and guard up." He conceded that "we have to live with reality," but maintained that relations with Russia have not been a "two-way street." He said he would promote détente with "wisdom and caution," and favored the use of American hostages as "a powerful instrument of diplomacy." He would use it in an effort to get the Russians out of Angola, he said.

Byrd said he has been studying the possibility of breaking up the Department of Health, Education and Welfare into three separate departments because "HEW" is becoming "so top-heavy as to be inefficient."

The West Virginia ruled out Kennedy as a drafted candidate, saying most politicians except Kennedy at his word that he's not interested or available. He said any of the other Democratic candidates, either President Ford or Ronald Reagan, and end the period of divided government that has led to "stagnation and inaction."

Byrd has made political capital with his tidbit playing in West Virginia. He's obviously ready to take his tidbit into the main.

Cost at Z way up there

© Los Angeles Times
WASHINGTON — NBC came up with a new logo a few weeks ago after hiring a research company for what is reported to have been $250,000.

It turned out to be the letter "N." Much to their horror and surprise, the NBC die stars discovered that the Nebraska Educational Television Network was using the same N which they had developed for less than $100. The only difference in the design was that NBC's N was red and blue while Nebraska's was all red.

Everyone was laughing at NBC, but it's not funny. Selecting a new logo for anything is a serious business as I discovered when I decided to change the one on this column.

I went to Cratcher & Thumb, the industrial designers, and gave them the problem: "The logo on my column seems old-fashioned and out of date. I would like you to design a new one which would look modern and catching to the eye."

Cratcher said, "We can do it, but it's not going to be cheap."
"Money is no object," I told him. "When someone changes his logo, he has to be prepared to pay for it."
Thumb said, "We may have to hire some outside help. We only have 100 industrial designers on the payroll."
"I leave it in your hands," I said. "After all, you know your business."
Four months later we had the big meeting.

It was in Cratcher & Thumb's private screening room.
The lights were dimmed and the first slide was illuminated on the screen.
"It was a large A superimposed over a large B."
"How do you like it?" Cratcher asked.
"It's not bad," I admitted, "but is this the image we want to give? It seems to me the B dominates the A. Don't you think both letters should be the same size?"
"Yes, we do," said Thumb. "That's why we threw that one out and came up with this one."
He buzzed for the next slide.
I studied it closely. Finally I said, "The A and the B are the same size, but they seem awfully small. There is a much wider space around it. Editors hate white space of any kind. They're afraid someone in advertising might try to slip a classified ad into it."

"You're observant," said Cratcher. "Thumb and I both caught that, as you said, the artist did it to us. So we came up with this radical idea which I'm sure will knock you dead."
The next slide just showed the letter B.
"Where's the A?" I asked.
"That's just it," Thumb said. "Everyone is going to say where's the A? It will call attention to the logo and you'll double your readership."
Cratcher said, "Look at NBC. They have only an N. One-letter logos are the wave of the future."
"Well, why can't it be an A then instead of a B?"

ART BUCHWALD

"I can," said Thumb, buzzing to the next slide. "Cratcher and I and the entire staff all decided last week it should be an A instead of a B."

The A came on the screen. "It looks just like an A," I said.
"Notice," said Thumb, "has not an ordinary A. The right leg is longer than the left leg."
"I think the left leg should be slightly longer than the right one. It gives me a running start," I said.
"So did we. It's amazing how our thinking runs along the same lines. Here's a left-legged A. We tested it in 2,000 supermarkets and everyone knew it was your right away."
"Gosh, you fellows did a great job. What do you want?"
Thumb said, "Six hundred and thirty-five thousand dollars, including the cost of the art materials."
"Why," I said surprised, "that's $100,000 less than NBC paid for its logo."
"That's because your name started with an A," Cratcher said. "The further along in the alphabet you go, the harder it is to design a letter."

Eulogizing obscures Chou's way

I am this day making provisions in my will to retain the services of NBC's Jack Reynolds as eulogist.

By the time he is through with me, he should be able to find not one Mexican bishop, but a half dozen to propose my canonization... It was something to see and hear, the other night.
Chou En-lai. His emaciated body lying in state in Peking. The mourners filling by weeping, all the old soldiers, the comrades-in-arms. Their wives, even the wife of Mao Tse-tung. How they wept.

They'd have wept thusly, the old Nuremberg crowd. If it had been a state funeral for Adolf Hitler, Hitler was an absolutely first-rate killer, and I would not wish to disgrace his talent, or sully lightly his appetite. But Chou En-lai was in a class apart. As principal executor for Mao Tse-tung, he presided over policies that, in the first 10 years of Maoist rule, resulted in the death of 6 million of his own citizens — Hitler's achievement — but 3 and possibly 4 times that many people.

An equal number died, under the reign of Chou En-lai, in the forced labor camps. The estimates range from a total of 30 million people to 60 million people. They were not around to sweep at the tier of Chou En-lai and it is not rewarded. But Mao's Jack Reynolds ever remarked their departure from this earth, not in a hospital in Peking, but from a bullet in the head, or from starvation or torture.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

The estimates quoted are given by Franz Michael and George Taylor, in the book, The East in the Modern World, by George Beckmann in The Modernization of China and Japan, and the Central Intelligence Agency, in the State Department of State. The Soviet Union made its own official estimate of the highest loss of Chinese Communism, giving the figure of "25 million" — the Soviets are skilled at estimates of this kind.

China was to Mao much more than his country, it was his Hitler — his longest-lived, his best, his only. He was a critical catalyst of Maoism, incidentally in charge of a foreign policy that caused 30,000 American deaths in Korea. Reynolds was absolutely right in calling him China's "indispensable" man. He was Mao's man, then, all coming around the tier.
Finally, Ching Ching, the wife of Chairman Mao, one of the leading forces of the cultural revolution. Reynolds makes this sound like "one of the leading forces in the European Renaissance." "Finally Chou came from a traditional Chinese white patch of mourning" — the Soviets are skilled at estimates of this kind.

Have I got a bargain for YOU How 'bout a new logo for us say - 750 grand?

House panel places Gem income at $252 million

BY BILL LAZARUS
Times-News Capitol Bureau

BOISE — The legislature quietly passed a major hurdle when the House Revenue Projections Committee predicted the state will have a $252 million general fund income for fiscal 1977.

That projection stood $1.2 billion above Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' projection of $250.8 million. The committee's projection of general fund revenue for this fiscal year at $226.6 million, stood $2.6 billion above the governor's prediction and $10 million above the appropriation set last year.

The closeness of the governor's and the legislature's projections at least allows agreement on the amount of money the state has to spend. Last year this was not the case. The legislature predicted the state would have less income than the governor predicted and this led to some drawn-out battles over what areas in the governor's budget proposals to slash.

This year the battle won't stem from different revenue projections.

But as usual, many Republican legislators are calling for tax relief instead of higher state spending. Some of the tax relief proposals would take money from this year's "surplus" funds. Two other proposals, stemming from Magic Valley legislators, would bring "permanent" tax relief.

Appropriations are based on revenue predictions. According to the current legislative prediction of fiscal 1976 revenue, this year's appropriations stand $10 million below expected revenue. So there is a $10 million surplus. Since surplus cannot be forecast, these funds generally are not used for "ongoing" programs which would have to be funded again, but are used for one-shot projects or tax relief.

The governor has proposed that most of this year's surplus funds be used for construction of state buildings.

But, the governor's proposal will have to compete against at least two legislative proposals for tax relief out of the surplus.

One of the measures would increase the per person "grocery tax" deduction from state income tax from the current $15 to $20. This would cost the state $3.8 million.

Another proposal is to continue this year the four-mill levy reduction in property tax relief on the local level. If funded fully, this property tax relief would cost the state another $6.8 million.

Taken out of a $10 million surplus, these two measures would allow an extra money for construction or other surplus fund proposals by the governor. In fact, taken together, the proposals for tax relief are larger than the surplus.

But the $6.8 million property tax relief measure would likely be "one-time" only. If the legislature would set a definite amount under the $6.8 million for property tax relief and if any more unexpected surplus money were to develop during the rest of this fiscal year, it would be used to help fund more property tax relief, up to the $6.8 million.

According to Rep. Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls and chairman of the House Revenue Projections Committee, another proposal would make the four-mill property tax levy reduction permanent. That would mean that each year the $6.8 million would have to be set aside for property tax relief.

REP. STEVE ANTONE listens to speaker

Another permanent tax relief measure has been proposed by Rep. John Brooks, R-Gooding. Brooks' proposal would repeal Idaho's $10 "head tax" which each taxpayer must pay. The construction or other surplus fund proposals by the governor. In fact, taken together, the proposals for tax relief are larger than the surplus.

A third permanent measure, which legislators refer to as "tax relief," would actually only "prevent" a tax increase, at least temporarily.

R-Twin Falls, would transfer the $7 million more money to divide among the other users of the fund.

At the same time, however, there would be $7 million less to spend in the general fund since law enforcement would take up those monies.

According to House Majority Leader Wall Little, R-New Plymouth, the chances of Brooks' proposal getting through this year are good. "It being an election year most legislators are reluctant to vote for a tax increase, be it on gasoline or anything else," Little said.

Little predicted the $7 million could be taken out of surplus funds this year to fund law enforcement. But, he said, since it is an "ongoing expense" there would be an eventual increase in taxes. "We'd get by this year fine, but a year away... we'd have to raise taxes."

Little also saw the likelihood of an "open-ended" tax bill to reduce property taxes by four mills if the surplus develops. But, on the whole he did not foresee much else in the way of tax relief.

"When we had this tremendous surplus a year ago (about $25 million) we weren't very successful in getting tax relief... now our surplus isn't nearly as large," he said.

Senate Majority Leader Phil Batt said he expects the legislature will again pass the four-mill reduction on the property tax. He hoped that the legislature "can find enough money to fund law enforcement from the general fund." This, he said, would probably make unnecessary any gas or vehicle registration tax increases.

Batt expected that much of the tax relief money would have to come out of the money the governor has proposed for construction of state buildings.

But, outside the continuation of the property tax relief and the transfer of law enforcement, Batt did not expect other tax relief proposals to meet with success.

Olmstead said that the tax relief measures which are now being proposed will have a "total popular support" in the legislature. But the measures, which together add up to between $19 million and $20 million in tax relief, are "highly unlikely" to all be approved, he said. He particularly doubted that all the measures could make it across the governor's desk.

Rep. Steve Antone, R-Rupert and chairman of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee, expected that the four-mill property tax reduction and possibly the grocery tax credit would make it through this session.

But, he expected that Brooks' $10 head tax repeal proposal "would probably get a lot of opposition on the floor of the House" because that is dedicated to the building fund.

Hearing slated

BOISE (UPI) — Bowing to public demand, the Senate Local Government and Taxation Committee agreed today to hold a full-scale hearing during the first week of February on three land use planning proposals.

The hearing will be Monday, Feb. 2, starting at 8 p.m. in the Gold Room in the Statehouse.

Chairman Lyle Cobb, R-Boise, told the committee he had received at least 200 calls to the past week from people wanting to be heard on the bills.

Economy segments reverse

BOISE — Several portions of Idaho's economy have taken an about-face from how they looked last year, according to Rep. Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls.

Data gathered by the House Revenue Projections Committee, chaired by Olmstead, show that, in general, the state's economic outlook is "healthy compared to a year earlier," Olmstead said.

Some "soft spots" last year now look stronger. But, some other portions of the economy which seemed to have been doing well now appear to be having problems, he said.

A year ago "there" was a "notable weakness" in Idaho's housing, and forest products industries. But now, Olmstead said, these industries are looking toward a 10 per cent to a 12 per cent growth for the coming year.

The dairy industry, which was having troubles last year, has "come back strong" this year with an 8 to 10 per cent growth, he said.

But the reverse trend is true for sugar beets, wheat and dry beans, Olmstead said. In 1974 wheat reached record prices and crop size. But in 1975 the price has been depressed and there was less production.

For sugar beets, production was strong but the price was cut to half of what it was in 1974. And the 1975 crop of dry beans, Olmstead said, will return only about one-fourth to one-half of the revenue the 1974 dry bean crop revenue, he said.

For purposes of prediction, Olmstead said, the revenue projection committee figured that the 1976 crop year would be similar to the 1975 crop year.

The food processing industry presented the committee with a "level" prediction with how it would fare this year, Olmstead said.

The cattle industry, which a year ago was "one of the worst depressed," Olmstead said, "has seen recovery to a degree."

Last straw

LONDON (UPI) — Mrs. Ronald Piller's attorney told a court Wednesday why she left her husband and accused him with causing her bodily harm.

The last straw in their 15-year marriage, she said, came on the day she was hospitalized.

Piller hit her four times in the face after she nagged him about bringing home too much sugar.

—He ordered her out of the house, threw her clothes in the garbage and threatened to kill her unless she left their village, Chelmsford, within an hour.

—After spending several hours at friends', she came home to cook dinner. He dumped it on the floor along with two cups of coffee. Their four children sat quietly watching television.

—He went upstairs to the bedroom to watch a portable TV and drink rum.

—When his wife came to bed, he poured four glasses of rum on her and dropped a lighted cigarette down her nightgown.

—He threatened her with a meat knife, whereupon she jumped out of the bedroom window and broke her knees on landing.

Piller, 40, has pleaded innocent. The trial is continuing.

Zsa Zsa leaves No. 6

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Zsa Zsa Gabor left her husband Wednesday — their first wedding anniversary — demanding he put her rolls Royce back together and finish her nightgown.

Miss Gabor, 56, asked for a divorce from Jack Ryan, 49, a millionaire inventor who worked among other projects on the Hawk missile and the Barbie doll.

Quitting not so easy

HOUSTON (UPI) — Andrew A. Trahan, 28, told police several members of the Bansee Motorcycle Club robbed him and broke off several of his teeth with pliers because he quit the club.

Police arrested Charles Douglas "Rollie" Grabow, 32, and John Gilbert "Reaper" Parkerson, 32, and charged them with aggravated robbery.

Trahan said he was asked to go to Parkerson's home last weekend to discuss his leaving the club.

He told police seven men held him down while a man known to him only as "Chunky" broke off several of his teeth with pliers.

McGovern returns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George McGovern returned from a trip to Vietnam, says Saigon is better off now than under the previous regime and that the United States should recognize the Communist government.

The South Dakota Democrat said that as a result of his visit the South Vietnamese are releasing two Americans who stayed after the Communists took over last year.

Lepers among refugees

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — There were 39 lepers among the Vietnamese refugees admitted to the United States according to Dr. James Chin of the California Department of Health.

Ninety of the cases were turned up in California and others in refugee camps elsewhere, he said, out of 27,057 adult refugees examined. Four of the cases were in the contagious stage.

Because of modern drugs, leprosy is no longer the threat it once was and is less contagious than tuberculosis, Chin said in a report. About 45 cases of leprosy a year are diagnosed in California, mostly among Mexican immigrants.

Four men apply

STON, England (UPI) — Britain's new sex equality laws prohibited advertising for a "pantymaid," so exclusive Eton College worded theirs very carefully.

"Wanted: Somebody to help in the pantry and dining room, a person to share a flat with another woman."

The first four applications were from men.

Chicago teacher called 'heroine'

CHICAGO (UPI) — A masked man held a gun between the eyes of a first-grade school teacher and forced her to undress in front of her class Wednesday. But she fought off his "attacks" before the eyes of 28 children.

Timothy King, principal at Simon Gugenheim Elementary School, called the 41-year-old teacher a "heroine."

"It was a hysterical situation, but she was in control," King said. "Anybody in that situation" that would think of her class before herself, knowing what was probably coming, is "pretty heroic."

Police said the unidentified teacher pleaded with the gunman, "Please don't do this to me. Please don't do this to me. Please don't do this to me."

She resisted his "attacks" until he finally settled for $16,000 her purse and fled.

Then several students ran to the principal's office for help.

Police Lt. Joseph Curtin said the "masked man" entered the classroom in a mobile unit about 10 feet from the main school building "under a pretense of looking for a student."

Once inside, he drew a small automatic pistol and "told the children to put their heads down."

"Of course, with a first-grade class of 28 students, they're not going to put their heads down. I'd say most of the students did observe the whole thing."

"Surprisingly, for a first-grade class, the kids were very alert and sharp-minded. They reacted right away that something was happening. They were scared."

Curtin said the gunman first ordered the teacher into one of two classrooms at the back of the mobile unit, but "apparently one of the kids must have screamed out and he changed his mind."

The attacker then forced the teacher into the doorway of the classroom.

"He put the gun right between her eyes and told her to disrobe or he'd blow her head off," Curtin said. "She disrobed when he told her to."

"Then he exposed himself to the children, but he did not lower his trousers. He tried to rape her in front of the class."

She "screaked" and "didn't do this in front of the children," she stressed.

King said children came to his office moments after the episode and he, other school officials and 15 to 20 policemen rushed to the scene.

The teacher was treated for minor bruises and stuck at a hospital. The children were sent home for the day.

"They were all frightened, worried that the teacher would be all right," King said.

Isn't that clear now?

'Wind chill index'

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — For all those who don't quite understand what a "wind chill" index is, the National Weather Service has an answer.

According to the forecasters, "The air temperature is not always a reliable indicator of just how cold a person will feel outdoors. Other weather elements, such as wind speed, relative humidity and sunshine also exert an influence."

"In addition," says the weather service, "the type of clothing worn, together with the state of health and the metabolism of an individual, also have an influence upon how cold you will feel."

The forecasters say the term "wind chill index" is used to describe "the relative discomfort resulting from combinations of wind speed and temperature."

For example: If the air temperature is 20 degrees and GOODING — Gooding's independence day celebration is planned for July 3. Thelma Ferguson, bicentennial chairman, told chamber of commerce members Tuesday.

She said interest has been expressed from Jerome and the Gooding-County communities participating in the Gooding celebration. Soccer groups, Grange and Boy Scouts and other organizations are being contacted, she said.

Members of other new chamber committee chairmen highlighted Tuesday's luncheon meeting at the Lincoln Inn. It was the first meeting for the newly elected president, Jan Rock. She was introduced by Jess Burns, retiring president.

Mrs. Rock presented certificates to Tom Christensen, who has opened a bakery and Sweet Scooter Scones, Jr., who opened his own law practice here this past year. She said the chamber will try to recognize and welcome each new business opening in Gooding.

A certificate will be presented to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Young, who recently purchased Morrow's Market from Don Morrow, new Gooding mayor.

Judge dismisses Hansen suit against Demo aide

BOISE (UPI) — A federal district judge dismissed Wednesday a suit brought by Idaho Congressman George V. Hansen and his wife against a Pocatello jeweler who obtained a credit report on the Hansen during the 1974 political campaign.

The Hansen had charged the jeweler was personally and politically damaged after Pocatello Jeweler Mel Morgan obtained the report and turned it over to then Congressman Orval Hansen, who in turn gave it to a House committee investigating George Hansen's campaign financing.

In granting a summary judgment for Morgan and the Nate Morgan Jewelers, Judge Russell E. Smith of Montana said the firm was a member of the Pocatello Credit Bureau and entitled to receive the credit report.

Originally Hansen and his wife sued for $8 million but this later was reduced to slightly more than $200,000.

Morgan's attorney, Patricia L. McDermott, said she could not comment until she read the decision.

"But I'm delighted," she said. "This has been a terrible burden on my client and his family."

Morgan, reached by telephone at Pocatello, said, "I feel a lot better today."

feel much relieved. Justice wins out. I've always believed we were right all the way through. I knew I hadn't done anything wrong."

The Hansens had contended that Morgan, at the request of Rose Bowman, of Boise, obtained the credit report and then delivered it to Orval Hansen, who was defeated in the Republican Primary by George Hansen. Orval Hansen then delivered it to the House Administrative Committee which was looking into George Hansen's campaign financing.

George Hansen and his wife, Connie, sought relief under the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

Law effective

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Department of Law Enforcement reminded motorists today that the new recreational vehicle law became effective Jan. 1 requiring licensing and display of special stickers in addition to valid license plates.

Vehicles such as travel trailers, motor homes, truck campers, camping trailers and van conversions must be licensed.

Rate-hearing set Friday

BOISE (UPI) — A hearing is set for 9 a.m. Friday before the Idaho Public Utilities Commission on a petition from Idaho Power Co. for clarification of the allocation of rates granted the company in a 16.3 per cent rate increase.

The company wants clarification of the allocation of rates set forth as they apply to "sales for resale."

In its order, the commission found Idaho Power requires additional revenues in the amount of $17.1 million. Of that amount, the commission assigned $1.686 million to increase revenues anticipated from the sale of electricity to other utilities.

Idaho Power contends in its petition that since the Federal Power Commission regulates sales for resale, the commission has no jurisdiction to assign revenue increases to that category.

Idaho Power asks that the commission spread the $1.68 million across all other classes of customers in Idaho.

The impact of the request on other increases granted in the commission's order would be 11 per cent. The 15.3 per cent increase allowed for residential class customers would become a 17 per cent increase.

Taxing-powers denied

BOISE (UPI) — An opinion from the Idaho Attorney General today said the home rule provisions of the Idaho Constitution cannot be construed to "invest" taxation powers in municipal corporations.

The opinion, written for Councilman E. W. Raskelley of Pocatello, president of the Association of Idaho Cities and Mayor Dick Eardley of Boise, said the constitution gives home rule powers to cities and counties in police power matters.

But "the constitution and Idaho case law limit police power to territorial limits of municipalities and restrict the exercise of police powers in conformity with the local government's charter or general laws."

'Faith restored'

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — An order dismissing a damage suit against the former treasurer of the Democratic Party "restored my faith in the judicial system," the party's state chairman said Wednesday.

Debbie Rice said she was delighted that U.S. Judge Russell E. Smith of Montana dismissed Rep. George Hansen's suit against Mel Morgan, Pocatello.

Mrs. Rice said she could not understand how anyone who has followed the case could feel Hansen had a cause of action against Morgan.

The judge's granting of a summary judgment, she said, means "even a Congressman, with all of the muscle he has, can't go after a constituent and get away with it."

Hearings ordered

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has ordered further hearings on a request from Utah Power & Light for a 32 per cent general rate increase.

The commission will hold a hearing at 9:30 a.m. at the commission office building in Boise to hear the commission staff and intervenors the opportunity to cross examine UP&L witnesses on the company's revised cost of service study.

On Feb. 10, the commission has scheduled a hearing in Pocatello to offer staff and intervenors the opportunity to present their direct cases in the rate proceeding. That hearing will be at 9:30 a.m. in Room 407, Student Union Building, Idaho State University.

The utility filed its application for a general rate increase Sept. 9, 1975, requesting an increase in Idaho revenues of $10 million. Public hearings were conducted in October and December.

Demos offer federal unemployment plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democrats, giving their view of the state of the union, have accused President Ford of inept, panicky management of the economy and called for new programs to "substantially" reduce unemployment.

The national television Democratic party rally in Ford's State of the Union speech, Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine also criticized U.S. policies in Angola, saying an American foreign policy should be conducted openly.

The President's plans for the economy are penny-wise and pound-foolish," Muskie said Wednesday night. "Under them, America's factories are producing only three-fourths as many goods as they actually could."

to combat unemployment, Muskie proposed:

• Direct employment programs in which federal dollars would pay for public service jobs such as classroom teaching aides and hospital attendants.

Federal assistance to local communities for short-term public works projects and to avoid layoffs in local government services such as police and fire departments.

Ford says the plan to attack unemployment is to make the economy generally healthier. He proposed tax depreciation advantages for businesses in areas of high unemployment as an incentive to create more jobs.

Muskie said Ford's budget "offers no new jobs" and that Ford even plans to veto the limited short-term job-creating bills pending in Congress.

He said the present administration did not cause the country's recent economic problems but compounded them "partly by inept, often panicky management of the economy, starting with the first Nixon administration."

"What the nation needs at this time is leadership that will not jump from one economic panic button to another," he said.

On Angola, Muskie said "as in Vietnam, we find ourselves deeply committed without prior notice or consultation with our people in a country where U.S. interests could not possibly be served at all prices."

Referring to current U.S. aid to factions in Angola, he said: "Let us seek a foreign policy we can talk about in public and agree to in advance."

Muskie also made these economic proposals:

• Additional tax cuts without increasing federal spending. He said Congress should reject Ford's proposal to raise Social Security payroll taxes.

— An energy policy that would keep oil and natural gas prices at "reasonable levels" until the economy can absorb increases.

— A food policy giving farmers "a guarantee of reasonable incomes and consumers a guarantee of reasonable prices."

A wage-price council "which will make life miserable for any big corporation that raises prices without very good reason."

An antitrust policy to "move immediately to prevent powerful firms from gaining too much control over both markets and capital, not spend years in court arguing cases after it is too late."

But the central theme was jobs. Muskie said "most economists" believe that under Ford's policies unemployment will reach 10 to 12 percent in this decade.

But government and industry experts he said "tell us that we can, if we choose, significantly reduce the present unemployment during the next five years."

Reporter admits snooping

WASHINGTON — A former television correspondent has told the Senate Intelligence committee that, while covering the United Nations in the late 1950s and early 1960s, he also reported regularly to the Federal Bureau of Investigation on the activities of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations.

The former correspondent, Sam A. Jaffe, confirmed in a telephone interview Wednesday that he had begun his relationship with the FBI as an unpaid informant in the early 1950s at the FBI's behest and had worked in that capacity during his subsequent career with the Columbia Broadcasting System and, to a lesser extent, after joining the American Broadcasting Co.

He worked for CBS from 1955 to 1961 and then for ABC until 1965.

Dividend verdict issued in crash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Transportation Safety Board has issued an unprecedented split verdict on why a Trans World Airlines jet hit a Virginia mountain on 14 months ago, killing all 92 persons aboard.

Unable to agree on the probable cause of the worst U.S. air disaster in more than two years, three members of the board formally reported Wednesday the pilot was at fault and two said an air traffic controller must share the blame.

The Air Line Pilots Association called both verdicts incorrect. It said the real culprit was Federal Aviation Administration management of the air traffic control system — not a single pilot or a controller — and that the TWA tragedy may be repeated because the problems behind it have not been solved.

The Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization generally endorsed the majority report but joined ALPA in calling the FAA's "inability to act quickly to solve air hazards" a root cause of the crash.

Hearst bank heist trial delayed day

Chicago Daily News

SAN FRANCISCO — U.S. District Court Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli put off Patty Hearst's bank robbery trial for a day, until next Tuesday, so another judge could rule on whether a jury can hear results of a lie detector test favorable to the newspaper heiress.

Judge Zirpoli refused, however, a second defense request that Boston psychiatrist Harry Kozol be stopped from interviewing the 25-year-old defendant.

Chief defense counsel F. Lee Bailey argued heatedly that Kozol had disused a prejudice against Miss Hearst and that she was subjected to conduct by him that was "totally offensive to any sense of decency." The judge did not allow him to explain.

Zirpoli was sitting in for U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter, who underwent minor surgery on the neck at the time the hearing was held Wednesday. Carter relayed that he would be on hand Monday to preside over the trial.

Judge Zirpoli, noting there were other defense motions to be considered, ordered that the trial be put off a day so Carter could hear the pleas Monday "or at such further time as the court shall direct."

The main motion to be considered, defense sources said, was that the federal court would admit into evidence the results of a lie detector test that backed up Miss Hearst's claim that after her kidnapping she became involved in a bank robbery only under threat of death. This is the principal defense claim for her innocence.

The bank robbery charge is the sole issue of the federal case in San Francisco.

TF miss, Feldhusen exchange promises

TWIN FALLS — Constance Louise Perkins and Mark John Feldhusen were married in a Jan. 3 ceremony at the First United Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Robert D. Van Nest conducted the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Perkins, Jr., Twin Falls, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Feldhusen Jr., Kimberly.

The bride wore a Victorian-style gown of candlelight chantilly lace and pearl de sole, styled with a high neckline, long fitted sleeves and A-line skirt. The sleeves and bodice insert were made of lace. The neckline was trimmed with a lace ruffie. Wider ruffled lace outlined the bodice insert and the skirt swept to a cathedral train. The dress was trimmed with seed pearls.

Her veil was held by a cap of chantilly lace and pearls. She carried a nosegay style bouquet of minette roses, stephanotis and baby's breath accented with pearls.

Mrs. John Peter Holm, Camarillo, Calif., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. James R. Hollifield, Gooding; Mrs. James P. Tate, Twin Falls; Sherry Bigan, Teton; Iran and Cindy Ewing, Meridian; Carrie Beth Perkins, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid; Nancy Bonetta Holm, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Carl H. Feldhusen, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Brent and Phillip Perkins, both Twin Falls; Todd Claborn, Kimberly; David Wilken, Kendrick; and Mike Stone, Nampa. The couple was honored at a reception at the Fireside Lounge of the church following the ceremony.

Minette roses, rosewood daisies, silver candelabra and tuffets with lace styling decorated the bride's table. The four tiered wedding cake was topped with fresh roses and daisies and decorated with rosewood ruscus.

Reception assistants included Christine Wyatt, Larline Nafziger, Gretchen Nafziger, Phyllis Champin, Susan Jesser and Carolyn Jesser, all Twin Falls.

Following a wedding trip to San Francisco, the couple lives in Moscow until their graduation from the University of Idaho in May, after which they will engage in farming in Kimberly.

Jerome FB dinner set

JEROME — The annual Jerome County Farm Bureau dinner will be at 7 p.m. Friday at the Jerome Elks Lodge.

A dance with live music is planned following the dinner.

Tickets are available from Del Hlatt, Shey Patterson, Lorna Werner, Don Tolman, Ed Bruns, LeRoy Rehwalt, Don Atkinson or Carl Montgomery, all members of the board of directors. Tickets are also available at the multi-county office south of Jerome.

A no-host social hour is planned for 6 to 7 p.m., preceding the dinner.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Prefers Skirts," who wants to determine dress for all the women in the world.

"Thanks to you and your kind... 100 million American women are learning the following things: Any woman—not physically handicapped—is strong enough to open a door and move a chair. Waitresses should be paid a living wage by their employers and not have to depend on the generosity of the customer as if waitresses were performing dogs rewarded with bits of food.

We are also learning that all the "gentlemanly courtesies" you extend [when you are in the mood] are not worth a 60 per cent pay differential, and that when we earn our own money with our own labor, we can pay our own bills and maintain our self-respect as adult human beings (commonly known as "feeling like a man").

And meditate on this for a little while, pal: One hundred million American women get up and dressed every single day without giving one second's thought to how you feel about their outfits.

Feel free, Abby, to use my name.

SHARON S. MILLER, DETROIT, MICH.

Man gets dressed down

DEAR ABBY: "Prefers Skirts" who refuses to tip a waitress in trousers has got to be some kind of nut.

In the first place, the boss decides what the employees shall wear.

I'm a 26-year-old mother of two who applied for a job as cocktail waitress in a supper club.

The hours were fine and so was the pay, but when I saw the costume I had to wear, I told the boss I was applying for a job as a cocktail waitress—not a striptease dancer. Needless to say, I didn't take that job.

I'm not putting down waitresses who work in such costumes. If they're hungry enough, they'll wear them. Thank heavens, I wasn't.

MODEST IN HAWAII

DEAR ABBY: I am one of those lucky women who has always looked at least ten years younger than my age. Consequently, when I got into my 40's I started lying about my age.

Not only did I lie to my friends about my age, I also lied to my doctor, which has been costing me money.

You see, I recently went into a hospital and didn't want to admit my real age, so I didn't use my Social Security Medicare card, and I had to pay for everything myself. (The same with my doctor bill.)

How can I overcome this feeling of embarrassment about my real age?

LOOKS YOUNG

DEAR LOOKS: Look at it this way: A person who looks younger than his age has something to which to be proud. So why not admit it!

The dealer bid five trump to ask for kings since he was interested in just one king. The king of trumps!

North and South were an expert partnership and were using a variation of the Culbertson grand-slam force as an adjunct to Blackwood.

South wanted to be in seven if North held the king of trumps in addition to his two aces and the six-club bid said, "Partner, bid seven if you hold two of the three top honors in trumps."

Mr. Penguin

Mr. Penguin sets TF appearances

TWIN FALLS — Mr. Penguin, who ties balloons into animal figures and performs magic tricks, will be visiting in Twin Falls Jan. 28 through 31 to entertain area youngsters.

When not appearing as Mr. Penguin for his special performances, he is Joe Hughes, Portland, Ore., a nationally known entertainer of television and stage shows.

He will be sponsored in Twin Falls by the Grizzly Bear Pizza Parlor and will appear there each night to entertain customers. During the day time he will be visiting all of the elementary schools in the area, including parochial Lutheran and Seventh-Day Adventist classes.

Plans are also being made for a Mr. Penguin visit to the pediatric department of Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and other children's hospital wards or homes.

In his balloon presentation, he tells stories illustrated by twisting and tying long balloons to form ducks, cartoon-type characters resembling horses, dogs, mice and pussy cats.

He says he has used more than 500,000 balloons in his programs and nearly as many new ideas in presenting his "balloon magic" before audiences of all ages.

While in Twin Falls he will appear at the Grizzly Bear daily from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. for a nightly four-hour show.

Rupert City Council okays bicycle path

RUPERT — Design on the city's proposed bicycle path was approved Tuesday night.

The Rupert City Council gave the okay for forwarding design to the State Department of Transportation. The state has approved a 36-foot bike path and pedestrian walk route for the city.

City Engineer Don Courtright presented the design to the council Tuesday. He said the city already has expended its share toward the project.

The path will run from the irrigation canal north on the west side of A Street (Meridian Road) to 18th Street.

The proposed path will include removal of existing asphalt and rebuilding the grade before laying new asphalt.

Courtright said the state has agreed to an eight-inch line competing with its storm drainage line near the A Street intersection.

Financing of the project has not been established. Councilmen are considering a local improvement—district—bond issue.

Dwinnelle Allred, council liaison on the traffic safety committee, said the city intends to install additional paths after developing an overall plan.

"We have to recognize the problems with children on these well-traveled streets," Allred said. "We have to do something to help them out."

Courtright told the council that the city will fill the area

9 city plans recommended

By GORDON JUDD Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls county planners were told Wednesday night that they should consider abandoning a county-wide comprehensive plan in favor of nine separate comprehensive plans.

State planners Ray Mickelson and Mike Frost, Bureau of State Planning and Community Affairs, told members of the Twin Falls County Joint Planning Council at their annual meeting that such an approach would have advantages over a single comprehensive plan for the whole county.

Mickelson said he saw the biggest advantage to the nine-city plan as greater identification with each city, and a secondary advantage of easier amendment procedures when changes become necessary.

Both Mickelson and Frost spent time in Twin Falls during planning sessions. Council chairman Jack Muldoon requested assistance from the state in "putting the collected data (assembled by fired planner David Richey) together and developing it into proper format as outlined in the Local Planning Act of 1973."

pressed to them called for an approach similar to that being used by Canyon County (Nampa and Caldwell) who prepared one document which contained all the "background" and supporting inventory information for each of the cities or jurisdictions of their county, coupled with one comprehensive plan document for each city.

These nine comprehensive plans for Twin Falls County would then set forth the separate goals and objectives along with their own projects, annual use map and amendment procedure.

Later at the annual meeting Mickelson explained in detail what areas he and Frost had found Twin Falls County comprehensive plan deficient as it now stands.

Mickelson concluded his portion of the presentation by emphasizing that he and other state planners cannot prepare the plan but can only "assist in the development of the plan."

Mickelson then gave his recommendations which included the hiring of a "staff planner" to assist in developing the plan and to carry on the planning process after completion of the plan. Initiation of a "work program" by the council as soon as possible. That steps be taken to "strengthen the council's position in the various planning agencies and other local agencies" and "that the council and elected officials of the area reach some kind of agreement on a good planning process that they want."

Mickelson said he saw the biggest advantage to the nine-city plan as greater identification with each city, and a secondary advantage of easier amendment procedures when changes become necessary.

Freitas calls for end to NFL bickering

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Jesse Freitas, player representative and No. 2 quarterback for the San Diego Chargers, today urged National Football League players and owners to find agreement on the issues that divide them.

"There is enough strife in the news these days without turning to the sports page and reading about a divided house in pro football," Freitas said in a letter intended for publication.

In his call for an end to the tension between owners and players, Freitas said he felt compelled to speak out.

"What I feel is happening basically can be summed up in the passage of scripture that states, 'A divided house cannot stand.' I feel the players and management are coming more and more divided and I fear if something doesn't unite them again, the house of professional football will no longer stand."

He said he played very little in the Chargers 2-12, 1975 season and "would like to release some of my energy" in an effort to benefit the sport.

"I feel that we players must take a hard look at our objectives in attaining a collective bargaining agreement," he said in his letter. "We must realize that although for the most part we all love to play the game, we also are strongly motivated to play this game for the monetary benefits it gives."

"I also feel that the men who sit in the owners' boxes around the league every Sunday and enjoy professional football must also remember that their sole purpose in owning a pro football team is not to give grown men a chance to play games so long as their bodies are young enough to do so. I feel the owners must also remember they are looking for a return on their investment."

"I believe both players and owners are entitled to these monetary benefits. However, as a player and I have no means must not lose sight of why the game does make money. My belief is that the fans are paying for the game of pro football because they want to be entertained."

He proposed that NFL players "examine our personal motives and learn the issues and considerations" not on the issues and that owners "examine their motives."

"I feel the owners are certainly entitled to a fair return on their money but let's not divide the house," he said.

"I don't have selfish motives, because I would like to play on a team that wins more than two games," he concluded.

"However, if I never play another down of football, I would still like to kick my feet up on Sunday afternoon and watch some good, clean competition between NFL teams."

Ali terms million-dollar match 'cheap'

SAN JUAN, P. R. (UPI) — "Boxing is no fun any more," says Muhammad Ali, thrusting his hands into his pockets. "It's just a business, that's all it is."

The world heavyweight champion, flanked by a 20-man police escort, arrived in San Juan Wednesday to begin training for his little bout Feb. 20 against Belgian challenger Jean-Pierre Cooman and was greeted by 200 fans yelling "Ali! Ali!"

The crowd could not raise the spirit of a sullen and tired champion, who is expected in his first fight of the year to post a costly victory over Cooman.

Ali charged the $1-million he has been guaranteed.

"It is a cheap fight," he said.

The champion said he was tired and he looked it. He rarely smiled at the press conference held in a reception room at San Juan's international airport.

Wearing a black sport shirt and slacks, he slumped his shoulders and talked quietly.

He shook his head when asked if he was still writing poetry.

"I'm not so cheerful now," he said. "I'm tired."

He said he fights five bouts a year while "most heavyweight champions fight only once a year."

All said the purpose of his heavy schedule of bouts was to "win freedom" for American blacks, whom he described as the "people's worst enemy on the planet."

Asked if he also was supporting the cause of "freedom for Puerto Rico" — which is now a semi-autonomous state, closely linked with the United States — All said "you have your own flag, your own state, your own music. American blacks don't even have their own names."

Asked if the Cooman bout would be an easy match, the fight "has been widely criticized as being too soft for Ali," the champion said his challenger "won knock me out. There is a possibility he could beat me."

"There is a possibility he could last as long as George Foreman."

All knocked out Foreman in the 8th round in a title fight in Zaire in 1964.

"I'll fight anybody if the money is right," he said. "You got to make the money right."

He said he expected to win $25 million this year but after taxes "I will get to keep only about $8 million."

Non-profit plan scored by Short

EVERETT, Wash. (UPI) — Bob Short, former owner of the Washington Senators, Wednesday defended the American League's rejection of a nonprofit plan to buy and operate the Seattle Pilots in 1970, calling the plan "a sham, a deceit."

Short testified for the second day in a multimillion dollar antitrust suit brought against the league by the city of Seattle, King County and the state of Washington.

The nonprofit ownership proposal was submitted to the league by a group of Seattle businessmen whom it became apparent the owners of the Pilots were negotiating to sell the club to a Milwaukee group. The Pilots became the Milwaukee Brewers after owners of the Seattle franchise went into bankruptcy court and were ordered to sell the team.

Short, testifying as an adverse witness called by the plaintiffs, said he refused to be a party to the proposal because "I was opposed to taking in a nonprofit partner for a business operated for profit."

The Seattle group proposed to turn any profits over to charity.

Short said he was convinced there never would be any profits. "It was a sham, a deceit," he said.

Earlier, Short testified he was interested in moving his Senators to Milwaukee before the move of the Pilots was approved. The Senators later became the Texas Rangers.

The suit charges the manner in which the one-season Seattle franchise was moved constituted fraud, breach of contract and violation of antitrust laws by the league and 12 team owners.

Under direct examination, Short conceded there was some kind of commitment on the part of the American League to Seattle.

Gooding hosts 15-match ring card Saturday night

GOODING — Dyrek Godby of Gooding will take on Canadian champion Lloyd Belale in a five-round main event of a boxing card at Gooding high school Saturday night.

The card again pits the top boxer in the Pacific Northwest against the western Canada boxing team. Action begins at 8 p.m. with tickets available at The Merc, Wylene's Bar and Miramar Bar, all Gooding; Casino Bar, Ketchum, and Newton's Sports Center, Twin Falls.

Promoter Bud Godby reports all of the boxers have qualified for the national AAU, golden gloves or Junior Olympics, during their amateur careers.

Dyrek Godby enters the main event as the western golden glove champion in the 136-pound class. Belale is the Canadian 136-pound title.

Another area favorite, Earl Shields of Twin Falls, will battle in the 175-pound class. Shields was a national AAU finalist in 1974. Another AAU finalist will be Joey Kenna of Emmet in the 165-pound class.

Blessing Bird, better known for his football prowess as a lineman for the Boise State Broncos, will fight one of the heavyweight features are included during the evening.

Godby pointed out purchase of tickets prior to arriving at the gymnasium will result in savings. Advanced general admission tickets are selling for $14 but will go at $10 at the gate.

Twin Falls will be the site of two games Thursday night.

The high school Bruins will host the Burley Bobcats in a non-league go with the girls teams of the two schools colliding in the preliminary at 6 p.m.

Magic Valley loop action spices weekend schedule

The top four teams in the Magic Valley Conference tonight Friday night to highlight a 29-game high school weekend schedule.

The key Friday games will send Raft River to Oakley, both of them being led by the lead and co-leading Castledorf to Hagerman, which is one step off the pace.

With the second half of the season getting underway, the other conferences still are largely in a postponing state and the weekend won't affect their overall placements.

The Little Five Conference practically is on sabbatical, only a Saturday meeting between Shoshone and Valley showing their co-leading Kimberly and Glenn's Ferry aren't non-league wars.

In the South Central Idaho Conference, all the "contender" play comes Saturday night.

Buhl, leading at 3-0, will be at Wood River, 2-1, and at the Wolverines' camp at Teton, another loss since only four games will remain. Filer, tied for second with Wood River at 2-1, will be at Jerome (0-3) and Gooding hosts non-league Mountain Home.

The Friday schedule will bring Pocatello to Twin Falls for a Southern Idaho Conference game.

Three inter-league games are set up between SCIC and Little Five foes. Wood River will be at Wendell. Filer at Shoshone and Gooding at Glenn's Ferry.

The Magic Valley loop state is full with Raft River at Oakley, Castledorf at Hagerman and Decla at Marianda.

The Northside Conference after Gooding State at Rigby field. Bliss at Carey, and Dietrich at Camas County.

In that alignment, Dietrich will be at Camas County where the Mustangs' winless non-league play is undoubted in the conference. Dietrich currently ranks second with a 2-1 record.

Saturday brings the renewal of the Minnie Burley rivalry. Burley won the first one in overtime after being well outplayed in the first three quarters. But the Bobcats

Clark pleased by draft delay

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Most National Football League team officials dread the delay of the college and expansion drafts, but not new San Francisco coach George M. Clark.

"The postponement of the draft was a godsend, a real bonus," Clark declared Wednesday at his first San Francisco news conference after being named to succeed Dick Nolan last week.

"One of my top priorities is to evaluate the squad and to make a determination as to what we'll need in the draft, so the extra time helps," said Clark, who turns 39 Saturday.

The other important order of business is hiring a staff, that's why I stayed in Miami for the Super Bowl," he added.

"I conducted a few interviews, and it was very productive."

Clark, a former three linemen, comes to San Francisco after serving the Dolphins' Don Shula as offensive line coach and running game coach the last six years.

Marquette wins

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The second-ranked Marquette Warriors scored 10 straight points midway through the first half for a 38-19 lead and coasted to an easy 76-62 win over the Creighton Bluejays Wednesday night.

Earl Tatum and Butch Lee scored 18 points apiece to lead Marquette to its ninth straight win and 13th in 14 games. Loyd Walton had 12 assists to tie the season record set against St. Mary's of California Dec. 7, 1964.

The loss ended Creighton's five-game winning streak and left them with a 13-3 record. Reserve forward Tim McConell led the Bluejays with 12 points.

WSU trims Idaho 84-67

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — George Haveling Wednesday guaranteed at least his best season yet as Washington State University basketball coach as the Cougars beat Idaho 84-67 in a nonconference game.

The win pushed the Cougars to 11-3. Haveling's previous best season in four years at WSU came last year when the Cougars went 10-16.

Forward Ron Davis, who was battling the flu earlier this week, led all scorers with 22 points, and Steve Pulkoski added 19.

The two teams battled closely in the first few minutes until the Cougars pulled ahead to as much as 10 points. WSU led 38-32 at the half.

SMU seeks Myer

DALLAS (UPI) — University of Nevada-Las Vegas' Ron Meyer apparently is the No. 1 choice for the vacant SMU head football coaching position, but school officials have avoided making it official.

Meyer, 49, attended the state North Texas State basketball game Tuesday night following an afternoon of meetings with school president Dr. James Zumbarger and athletic director Dick Davis and reporters heard one athletic department official congratulating Davis on "getting his man."

SMU has been searching without success for a man to succeed Dave Smith since his resignation became effective Dec. 31.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) The patience that is necessary to complete specialized work. Later confer with associates regarding future projects.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Anything of a creative nature is best done in the morning. Later you can engage in routine work that needs handling.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Attend to unkempt work early in the day, and then you will have the time to be with congenial friends.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take time to improve your surroundings. Don't neglect important correspondence. Show increased devotion to loved ones.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be sure that you are conscientious in handling credit affairs. Later engage in favorite hobby with congenial.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Morning is fine for handling personal matters, but later get down to financial affairs. Take health treatments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A private anxiety should be taken care of early in the day. Later you can engage in activity that is more pleasant.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A good friend can give you the advice you need in the morning. Postpone a personal aim for the time being.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Contact business experts for information you need in a new project you have in mind. Think constructively.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can now obtain the data that has eluded you in the past. Don't waste time putting a new plan into motion.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take care of an important payment and then engage in new projects that are profitable. Listen to advice of experts.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will want to study seriously early in life and as a result there could be much success in this chart upon reaching maturity. Much brilliance here but careful handling is necessary to attain goals.

Authorities on romance in Great Britain contend that one out of every four English wives has an extramarital gentleman friend. They blame British husbands for this peculiar social condition, claiming they're too unresponsive. Our Love and War man is appalled.

A magazine reporter who looked into the matter says a professional sword swallower are indeed more likely than average citizens to apply for Workmen's Compensation.

Last I heard the price of a Mercedes 450SCL was about $90,000 in Britain.

Kindly explain why a scalp hair grows twice as fast as an eyebrow hair.

CHANCE
Q. "What are the chances that Charles Manson will survive appeals by other convicts to kill him in San Quentin Prison?"
A. Research fails to turn up any relatively reliable professional odds maker willing to give the line in this matter. Reports out of the walls, however, indicate the amateur bettors therein are actively speculating.

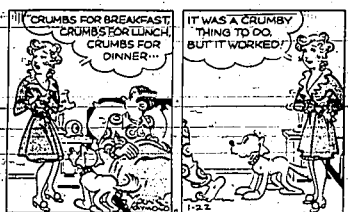

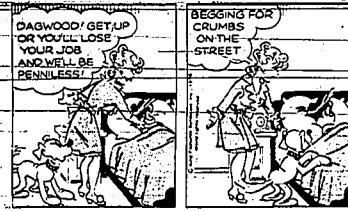

"Seed money" is what you call money invested first to attract the investment of more money, right? Now it has been learned there is such a thing as "seed litter," too. People are inclined to clutter up places that are already cluttered up. So if you throw a bit of trash over the car window where no trash is in sight, you can fairly well count on the probability that others behind you likewise will throw trash there. What you've thrown is "seed litter."

THE HARD FACTS
That comestible which most probably will first be sold in metric units hereabouts is wine... Most of the octopuses in this world are about the size of a man's hand... No other place gets as many thunderstorms as the island of Java with at least 223 days per year of same... You know that cougar on the Lincoln-Mercury TV commercial? He's Chauncey, by name. His performance pay runs $300 a day... Lack of enough money to pay doctor bills is still the one sort of indebtedness that results in the most personal bankruptcies.

Theories abound as to why rich people get more cavities than do poor people. But I submit the price of sugar is significant in this matter.
