US ponders open aid to Angolans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger disclosed today the administration is "seriously considering" asking Congress to approve open financial aid to pro-Western factions in Angola.

Kissinger also told the Senate subcommittee on Africa Affairs there are unconfirmed reports the Soviets will send jet fighters to the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola, the pro-Soviet faction in the Angolan civil war.

"There are unconfirmed reports that the Soviet Union will provide the MPLA with MIG 21 aircraft to be piloted by Cubans," he said.

Seeks accord

WASHINGTON (UPI) — W. A. Huey Jr., President Ford's nominee for secretary of labor, pledged to find some way to get labor and management representatives back together during the critical year ahead in construction industry bargaining.

Huey made the pledge during confirmation hearings before the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee Wednesday.

Rabin, Ford conduct third meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford and Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin today held a third round of official talks on the Middle East situation.

The third meeting, according to diplomatic sources, became necessary when Ford and Rabin failed to reach agreement on new Middle East peace strategies during two lengthy sessions Tuesday and Wednesday.

Sniper shots echo across Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — One week after a Syrian-led force used tanks to liberate the people of Lebanon from a year of sniping, the sound of gunfire was heard in Beirut today.

Only scattered sniping in the suburbs and four street kidnappings in Beirut marred an otherwise peaceful day Wednesday as army units and Palestine Liberation Army troops firmly supervised the cease-fire.

Sneers at US

HAVANA (UPI) — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro says he is not anxious to improve relations with the United States, which has objected to Cuban involvement in Angola.

He also called again for lifting the U.S. economic blockade against Cuba. "We are not interested in relations if it means they are on the basis of humility," Castro said.

Italian socialists seek program

ROME (UPI) — The Italian Socialist party said today it would try to work out an acceptable economic recovery program with the Christian Democrats that would allow it to support a one-party minority government.

The Socialist leadership said it was prepared to discuss economic measures with Premier-designate Aldo Moro "and on the basis of the results will make known as soon as possible its judgment on the possibility of a vote of abstention."

Canada ready to sell S. Korea reactor

OTTAWA (UPI) — Energy Minister Alastair Gillespie says Canada has concluded an agreement to sell a nuclear reactor to South Korea and can now reopen negotiations with Argentina for a similar deal.

Since India used a Canadian reactor to develop a nuclear device tested in 1974, Canada will not sell its CANDU reactor unless the purchasing nation signs a treaty banning development of nuclear arms.

OPEC trims aid fund to $800 million

PARIS (UPI) — The oil cartel nations have trimmed their $1 billion aid program for underdeveloped nations to $800 million, complaining of financial problems of their own.

Two of the 13 member nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries said they could not contribute to the fund.

Fishing rights extension wins nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will sign a bill extending the nation's territorial fishing rights to 200 miles offshore, the White House said today.

The Senate passed the bill 77 to 19 Wednesday over objections that it could be enforced only by gunboats.

White House Press Secretary Neesen said Ford would have preferred to have the territorial limit question settled by an International Law of the Sea Conference scheduled to convene later this year.

Whistle-blowing panel for CIA?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate intelligence committee today proposed creation of a permanent committee with power to review covert intelligence operations in advance and expose security secrets "if the national interest would be served."

Committee chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, introduced the bill on the Senate floor and Sen. John Tower of Texas, the panel's ranking Republican, immediately condemned it as "hastily conceived and very simplistic."

Committee sources said they expected President Ford would strongly oppose such a powerful new Senate oversight committee on grounds it might cripple the CIA and cover intelligence operations and lead to a torrent of national security leaks.

In the House, meantime, chairman Otis Pike canceled a scheduled session of the House Intelligence Committee. His panel was preparing to fight on the House floor against a House Rules Committee vote Wednesday night that it not open a controversial 238-page report on covert activities until President Ford can be interviewed.

The Senate committee's oversight bill is the product of the panel's year-long investigation of alleged abuses of power by the CIA, the FBI and other intelligence agencies.

Church said the proposal would be the first time bringing the entire national intelligence community under the budgetary authority of Congress and the close scrutiny of a single Senate committee.

House Republicans members of his panel Tower, Howard Baker of Tennessee and Barry Goldwater of Arizona — refused to endorse the bill.

Its main provisions:

- Creation of a panel of nine senators to oversee the operations of the CIA, the National Security Agency, the Defense Intelligence Agency, the intelligence units of the Defense Department and the intelligence activities of the FBI.

The panel would get regular briefings on the full range of intelligence activities conducted by these agencies and could direct them to supply any supporting documents it wants.

It may also, in the language of the bill, "disclose any information upon the committee's determination that the national security interest would be served by such disclosure." The President would get an opportunity to object, but not veto, a disclosure decision. The committee also has the option to refer disclosure decisions to full Senate vote.

Intelligence agencies must inform the panel of "any significant covert or clandestine operation in foreign countries" before they begin. An accompanying analysis of the bill said this would allow the panel "to advise the executive" on the proposed operations. It apparently could not veto them, however.

— Congress must authorize budget funds for each agency each year. Intelligence budgets are now concealed within the requests of other departments.

The House Rules Committee voted 9 to 7 Wednesday night to hold up the House intelligence committee report until Ford could consent.

Demos may pull SV meet

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times News writer
SUN VALLEY, IDAHO — The six-week-old strike by Sun Valley Co. employees may drive the Democratic State Convention out of this resort community.

The site of the convention, currently scheduled in Sun Valley in mid-June will be thrown open for reconsideration at the Feb. 28 meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee in Boise.

Twin Falls reportedly will be a strong contender for the convention if it is moved.

— Deekie Rice, Idaho Falls, state Democratic chairman, today confirmed that "one of the reasons" for reconsideration "is the fact that management and labor are having some differences in Sun Valley."

She said she has received "a number of calls" from Democrats throughout the state complaining that "they would rather not be where labor felt unwelcome and uncomfortable."

Sun Valley bus drivers went on strike last December for higher wages and retention of some contract language. The drivers' picket lines were honored by members of Sun Valley-Kelchum Trades Council, who refused to report for work.

The strike is still unsettled although negotiations have continued.

The American public in general is aware that the Democratic Party has always been quite sympathetic to the family breadwinner," Mrs. Rice said today.

"Democrats are oriented toward the people who are the slight houses at a time and take the paycheck home to support a family," she added.

Steve Carter, Twin Falls, County Democratic chairman, today said the move from Sun Valley is almost certain.

Asked if move is a foregone conclusion, Carter said, "I think it could safely say that."

He also said "Twin Falls" winners of the convention are "excellent." When Sun Valley was selected as the site for the 1976 convention, Twin Falls was the second choice, according to Carter.

He said the labor strike is the "major reason" for reconsideration of the convention site. "We will not allow ourselves to be used as a tool for other labor or management" in Sun Valley, he said. "It would create a controversy that we don't need."

Mrs. Rice confirmed that the Democratic chairman in Twin Falls and Ada counties have "notified me that they would like (their counties) to be considered" for the convention.

Daughter saved

BOISE (UPI) — Six House members from eastern Idaho introduced today a bill to shorten the second regular session of each legislature and limit its deliberations to emergency matters.

It would designate the first regular session as a budget and general session and the second one as a fiscal session.

In the first session, all measures without limitation could be considered, including appropriations for the biennium commencing on the succeeding July 1.

But in the second session only emergency appropriations and emergency revenues measures could be considered and that session would be limited to 30 legislative days.

In addition to the emergency fiscal measures the lawmakers could consider any measure upon request of the governor or on approval of two-thirds of the members of the House or Senate.

Reps. John Sessions, R-Idaho; Melvin Hammond, D-Idaho; Kurt Johnson, R-Idaho Falls; Wendell Miller, D-Idaho Falls; Elaine Kearnes, R-Idaho Falls; and Clifford Seoresby, R-Idaho, introduced the bill. It is similar to one defeated last year.

"Presently," Sessions said, "there's been over 800 bills presented to the data center for processing."

This is an increase of some 200 bills over a year ago at this time," he said. "Many of these bills are re-run like this."

He said the six want to keep the issue in front of the people so they are introducing the proposal once again. He said they still think it would be workable and would amount to a savings of $20,000 to $40,000 a year.

Few bills, he acknowledged, improve with age unless there is additional work or research on them. Once killed, he said, they should remain dead for the rest of the biennium unless there is more work on them.

Sessions said annual sessions and annual budgeting have had a dramatic impact on state budgets. Since annual sessions began, he said, the general fund has climbed from some $55 million a year to some $250 million.

Exports rise

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — Venezuelan oil exports have climbed by over 10 per cent since Jan. 1 when the South American republic nationalized its giant industry and the outlook is for further growth, according to government spokesmen.

"Petroleum," the Venezuelan state oil monopoly which replaced some 40 U.S. and other foreign oil companies here reported Wednesday it has reached agreements to export 1.7 million barrels per day. This is a 200,000 barrel per day jump from the level of exports on Jan. 1.

"At present, all kinds of requests to purchase oil are raining down on us," Petroven executive Jose Giacomplini Zarrago reported.

Interest high

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Otis Pike, chairman of the House Intelligence Committee, was asked Wednesday how much of his 238-page report had been leaked to the press and published.

"Volume-wise about 5 per cent," he said. "Filtration-wise about 75 per cent."

Chile vote meddling reviewed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department's criminal division is reviewing Senate subcommittee testimony in 1973 about the International Telephone and Telegraph Co. and the CIA played in a 1970 Chilean election, it was reported today.

The Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on multinational corporations sought to determine in hearings three years ago whether ITT and the CIA were involved in moves to block the election of socialist President Salvador Allende.

Assistant Attorney General Richard L. Thornburgh said the Justice Department criminal division is investigating "a number of aspects of the Chilean situation," but declined to specify what they were.

The Washington Post said it learned the investigation concerns the accuracy of testimony given by subcommittee witnesses, including ITT Board Chairman Harold Genseen, and former CIA Director Richard M. Helms.

Spokesman had previously said the criminal division is checking records of the Senate intelligence committee inquiries into past CIA covert activities but have not verified the names of any targeted officials.

The Post quoted a subcommittee source as saying the Justice Department in December requested the entire file on the Chilean investigation.

Genseen, in his testimony, denied ITT contributed money "to any person or to any agency of any government."

Coast-bound power asked to cross MV

BOISE — Pacific Power and Light has asked permission to build a high voltage power line to carry energy from Wyoming plants to California and other coastal users.

The utility asked the Idaho Public Utilities Commission permission to construct the Idaho portion of the 500,000-volt line from the Midpoint substation northeast of Jerome to the Idaho border west of Boise.

From there the line would continue across Oregon to the northern California border where it would connect with the major coastal power grid serving customers in California, Oregon and Washington.

The planned line was first reported in 1974 by the Times News.

The Idaho portion would cross the Snake River near Hagerman, continue west to a point three miles south of the Bruneau Sand Dunes State Park and across the Owyhee Mountains.

The line would be constructed on tree standing metal towers with a typical height of 120 feet and a typical minimum line clearance of 38 feet above the ground.

The company contends the line is necessary to transmit energy from its generators in the Rocky Mountain region to the Pacific Northwest to meet southern Oregon power needs and provide "a vital link in the transmission of the Pacific Northwest Power grid."

The company must secure approval from commissions in both Idaho and Oregon and the U.S. Bureau of Land Management before building the line. The BLM is preparing an environmental impact statement on the proposed line.

The Idaho commission noted that after receipt of written protests it will determine whether or not formal hearings will be necessary before U.S. Bureau of Land Management before building the line. The BLM is preparing an environmental impact statement on the proposed line.

John Cheek, project coordinator for Pacific Power and Light said today the primary purpose of the transmission line was to get energy from his company's coal fired power plants in Wyoming. He said this would include the Jim Bridges, Dave Johnson, and soon-to-be completed Wyodak plants.

Although Pacific Power and Light serves the Sandpoint, Idaho region, Cheek said that the line would benefit Sandpoint residents only indirectly.

Cheek termed the transmission line "essential for the needs of the Northwest." He said that although this line, the highest voltage line in Idaho, is not being constructed to benefit Idaho directly, it will make surplus power available to Idaho.

Cheek said the needs of the Northwest region are winter needs while the Idaho needs are traditionally summer farming needs.

Cheek said there are no plans to tie the line in with the Pioneer coal-fired plant which Idaho Power is seeking authority to build. However, he did not discount the possibility that this might benefit both Idaho Power and Pacific Power and Light in the future.

Cheek said the line must be built by 1978 to allow Pacific Power and Light to stop using Idaho Power transmission lines across the state which Idaho Power expects to use exclusively.

Hearst jury effort bogs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Handcuffed and in chains, Patricia Hearst was brought to the federal courthouse today for the third day of her trial on bank robbery charges.

The defendant faced another day of waiting while a jury is selected to begin hearing the prosecution evidence charging her with participating actively in the violent Symbionese Liberation Army holdup of a neighborhood bank after her kidnap.

Miss Hearst was brought into the 20-story federal building about three hours before the court session. She rode behind the waist and in handcuffs, she is accompanied by marshals in the two-car caravan bringing her from the San Mateo County Jail 30 miles south of the city.

She was wearing a white turtle-neck sweater and dark pants.

Four jurors were tentatively seated Wednesday during extensive questioning of prospective jurors by the judge behind closed doors.

U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter's earlier prediction that a jury would be seated after two days proved to be wrong when up to an hour was needed to interrogate prospective jurors individually about any biases or opinions which could prevent them from judging the case impartially.

Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey said it was possible the 12 jurors and four alternates could be chosen by Friday, "but if we do, Thursday will be a busy day."

After hearing the proceedings at the request of the defense, Carter asked questions of seven members of the panel of 38 chosen by lot as the first prospective jurors. Among the 22 women and 14 men were a dozen housewives, a number of retired men, a dental assistant, a carpenter, a woman employee of the YWCA, a machinist, a San Francisco city employee, several divorcees, a bank employee and a retired Navy man.

Of the seven, four were tentatively seated and three were excused.

Those excused were dismissed "for cause" — that is, it was established there was something in their background, their predisposition in the case or other reasons why they should not serve.

It was expected that once Carter finished interrogating the 38, he would return to open court. At that time the prosecution and defense would be able to brook the "prosecutive challenges" and dismissal of a juror just because they don't like his looks or have a hunch he might already have formed an opinion about whether Miss Hearst is guilty or innocent.

The Auburn-haired defendant is charged with the armed robbery of a San Francisco bank branch along with 400 members of the Symbionese Liberation Army which kidnaped her nearly two years ago. If found guilty, she could be sentenced to 35 years in prison.

Carter's questions came from a list of 152 proposed by the prosecution and defense, and while he was not obligated to ask all of them, the lengthy questioning indicated he was "sizing many."

One of the excused witnesses, Mrs. Wilma F. Brookhauser, said the question of whether the 21-year-old granddaughter of a Sunday newspaper magnate, William Randolph Hearst, had participated in her own kidnaping had come up. She said she told the judge she had suspicions Miss Hearst either helped plan it or had advance knowledge of it.

She also said she felt she had been precluded by seeing photographs of Miss Hearst standing with a gun in the bank she was accused of robbing.

Algeria accuses Morocco

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — Algeria has accused Morocco of civilian massacres, bombing raids on refugee camps and germ warfare in fighting for control of the former Spanish Sahara. Morocco denied the charges as "incredible fabrications."

There were conflicting reports on whether Algerian-backed guerrillas and Moroccan troops clashed Wednesday at the desert oasis of Amgala, 100 miles from the Algerian border.

Algerian officials said the fighting flared up at sunrise in the area of Amgala, a stronghold of Algerian-backed Polisario Front guerrillas who seek independence for the desert territory.

But in the Moroccan capital of Rabat, Minister of Information Taieb Benhima said there were no reports Wednesday of a resumption of fighting in Amgala between Algerians and Moroccans, or of any Moroccan land or air military actions.

The Algerian government-controlled news service APS said Wednesday Moroccan warplanes bombed three Saharan refugee camps near the coastal town of Dakhla, 600 miles from the Algerian border, killing women and children.

Benhima denied the charges as "incredible fabrications" and revised to 24 the number of Algerian soldiers he said were captured after a "vicious desert fire fight" Tuesday in Amgala.

"The presence of regular Algerian soldiers fighting at the side of a band of rebels brings an ominous air to the Sahara," Benhima said.

Western journalists who recently visited the front said pro-Western forces were dug in at the Queve River, about 100 miles north of Huambo, despite claims by the Marxist Popular Government for the Liberation of Angola of deeper penetration.

National Union leader Jonas Savimbi said his forces might be able to continue fighting for between three and six months.

But, "we shall never surrender," he said.

The pro-Western troops received help Wednesday from 100 British mercenaries who left Luanda to join the fighting.

Savimbi has been touring southern villages preparing tribesmen for guerrilla warfare, which he called "phase two" of the civil war.

Western military experts said National Union soldiers could harass the Marxists indefinitely in the south because of support among the Ovimbundu tribesmen.

Veto override sets back Ford's economy campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's election-year economy drive has sustained a major setback with congressional passage of a $5 billion measure turning two government agencies and a variety of social programs over his veto.

The measure also contains the strongest anti-busing language passed by Congress so far to prohibit the Department of Health, Education and Welfare — but not the courts — from busing students beyond neighborhood schools.

The Senate voted 70-24 — seven more than the required two-thirds — to override the Ford veto Wednesday. The measure automatically became law since the House voted 310-113 to override on Tuesday.

The bill provides money for HEW and the Labor Department during the 15 months ending Sept. 30. It was about $1 billion more than Ford asked, although within congressional spending targets for the current fiscal year.

Seventeen Senate Republicans joined 53 Democrats in overriding the veto.

Ford, in his veto message, called the bill "a classic example of unchecked spending" and said it was "inconsistent with fiscal discipline and with effective restraint on the growth of government."

But congressional backers said the President's proposals would cut spending below last year's levels and not even allow for inflation. Another factor was the popularity of social programs carried in the legislation — especially in an election year.

"It seems that everytime that Congress works its will on domestic programs, people progress... we hear a resounding 'no' from the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue," said floor manager Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., in reference to premiums paid to vets.

Fired

TOP federal public housing official, H. R. Crawford, was fired Wednesday by President Ford after the Justice Department launched a conflict-of-interest investigation. Crawford allegedly helped other persons obtain government jobs.

Info swap near

PALO ALTO, CALIF. (UPI) — Teams of American and Russian scientists may soon agree on exchanging information about nuclear fusion, the world's most promising source of energy.

Bill Gough, program manager of Fusion Research at the Electric Power Research Institute, said Wednesday a Russian scientific team visited the institute last year and left with a proposal under which American scientists could use a planned test facility in the Soviet Union for fusion research.

"Fusion is effectively an infinite energy source," Gough said. "If we can harness it, it would provide all nations of the world with ample energy."

The planned Russian facility, T-20 Tokamak, would be the largest fusion machine in the world when completed, Gough said.

CBS reported Wednesday that under a proposed agreement, Soviet scientists would provide two engineering modules in the fusion plant for use by researchers from the United States. Technological data gained from experiments at the facility would be exchanged.

Ford has vetoed 23 bills, including six pocket vetoes, during this Congress. The Labor-HEW measure is only the fourth veto to be overturned and the first this year.

Sen. Milton Young, R-N.D., the only senator to speak in favor of sustaining the veto, said: "These greater expenditures will increase the debt and the deficit which are already too high."

Other Senators, however, said funding for social programs carried in the legislation has been delayed for long. These programs include child and maternal health, mental health funding, nutrition programs, rural housing programs and money for cancer, diabetes and heart disease research.

The anti-busing language in the bill prohibits HEW from ordering school districts to bus students beyond the school nearest their homes for integration purposes. Neither court-ordered busing nor busing initiated under threat of court order — which constitute the vast majority of cases — would be affected.

Rail fund bill passes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress has passed a $4 billion railroad aid bill designed to revitalize bankrupt freight railroads in the northeast, prevent others from going bankrupt and take another step toward a super passenger railroad between Boston and Washington.

President Ford, who threatened to veto the bill earlier, agreed to sign it after his sponsors worked out a series of compromises with the Department of Transportation over the Christmas holidays.

Officials seek PCB ban powers

WASHINGTON — Two top federal officials have asked Congress to pass laws giving them the authority to ban the chemical PCB, described as a significant hazard to health and the environment.

"No matter how painful the solution may be, I support a national ban on all domestic and imported PCBs," said Assistant Interior Secretary Nathaniel P. Reed.

Reed and Russell Train, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, were the first witnesses Wednesday in hearings called by a House Fisheries and Wildlife subcommittee on the recently recognized dangers of PCB.

Train, who announced new EPA rules in December designed to cut down on PCB use, said his authority is limited by existing law. He told the subcommittee that all of the toxic substance control bills now before Congress "would greatly strengthen our hand in beginning to control the problem of PCB substances entering the environment," including PCB.

PCBs — polychlorinated biphenyls — are used in the manufacture of capacitors, transformers and other industrial products in the United States and many countries. They are similar to DDT in chemical constitution and not readily biodegradable.

State and federal laboratory tests have linked PCBs in a variety of human illnesses from skin lesions to miscarriages. In a broader sense, they affect the chain of life, first contaminating basic foods and then invading human body fat.

Striking MD's pay premiums at last

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Waiting until the last minute, striking doctors grudgingly hastened to pay larger malpractice insurance premiums before their coverage lapsed today.

An estimated 80 per cent of Los Angeles County physicians paid the 27 per cent higher premiums which set off a doctors' strike that they paid unwillingly, warning of higher medical bills and stepping up strike action in the 21-day old walkout.

In Sacramento, Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. announced agreement with key legislators on what he called an "immediate solution" to the crisis. There was no immediate indication doctors would accept his plan, which reportedly contains provisions which they have vowed to resist.

Physicians facing premiums from $4,000 to $40,000 a year muted, sent or carried checks covering their first quarterly payment to insurance brokers' offices where premiums open until midnight. The Travelers Insurance Co. had warned that those who did not pay by midnight would lose their coverage, retroactive to Jan. 1.

"The last one came in the door at 11:30 with a certified check for $3,979.92," said a spokesman for the broker, Johnson and Higgins.

Taft plans 'solo'

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Son Robert Taft, R-Ohio, who has had plenty of warming up with numerous campaign and Senate speeches, will narrate Aaron Copland's "Lincoln Portrait" at the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra's bicentennial program on Feb. 8.

Although it will be Taft's first appearance with the symphony, his performance is in the family tradition. In 1970, Taft's uncle, Cincinnati city councilman Charles P. Taft, appeared as a narrator.

'Spraying' ordered stopped

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Former state Rep. Webber Borchers, a wealthy man, can easily afford the fines (totaling $6,650, and even 25 weekends in jail) are probably more a nuisance than a genuine hardship.

But for the publicity-conscious Borchers, whose impassioned and colorful statements have appeared in print and on the air almost daily since his 1968 election and throughout his theft and misconduct trial, the five-year "gag order" imposed on him Wednesday is probably most difficult to bear.

The order, unusual since it came after rather than before during the trial, was the last condition of Borchers' five-year probation handed down by Sangamon County Circuit Court Judge Richard Mills. The Democrat Republican was convicted of stealing $1,650 from the state through an expense-account kickback scheme.

Mills, who is running for an appellate judgeship, told Borchers he ordered the partial gag because "the manner in which you've blasted everyone — the grand jurors, this court, the prosecutor — tend to bring the whole court system into question."

Mills said Borchers' liberal distribution of press releases during his trial, including one entitled "The Three Nightmares of Representative Webber Borchers and his Family," resulted in "truth being lost, procedures being dissolved."

The judge said Borchers should take his complaints about the gag imposed on his client may violate first amendment free speech guarantees.

Therefore, Mills said, Borchers may not talk to reporters during his probation but "any further aspects of this case" unless he clears it with his lawyer.

Borchers' attorney, Glenn O. Fuller, said the theft and official misconduct convictions will be upheld. He also said the gag imposed on his client may violate first amendment free speech guarantees.

Frustrated teens

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A couple of high school boys apparently did not like it when girls refused to dance with them and the windshields of 27 cars also took a hard

The teenagers boys told police they smashed several car windshields in recent weeks because they were frustrated after girls would not dance with them at night spots they frequented.

Damage to windshields and windows of 27 parked cars was estimated at between $1,000 and $4,000.

Police said a baseball bat with glass embedded in it was found in the car the suspects were in when arrested. The two were booked on criminal damage misdemeanor charges.

Privacy or fishbowl?

SALEM, N.H. (UPI) — Bambi Udall, the 21-year-old daughter of Democratic Representative and Presidential aspirant Morris Udall, doesn't want to live in the White House.

The Vassar College senior, who took a year off to campaign for her father, said "nobody really lives in a fish bowl. I really do enjoy my privacy." She said Wednesday she would live "anywhere but the White House."

Mechanical body parts available

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — They won't be the same as used in television's $6 million man by the University of Utah's Artificial Organs Division, but a new, more wide array of mechanical body parts.

The center hopes to provide future recipients with everything from nuclear powered hearts to eyes, ears, arms, legs — and a portable artificial kidney.

In reviewing recent research at the center, Dr. William J. Kolff, division director, said Wednesday the arm should be ready within one year. Kolff said the doctors and engineers hope to expand their arm research into development of artificial legs.

Dr. Steven Jacobsen, an engineer who helped build the arm, said it should be able to lift at least two pounds, enough for most normal tasks. The arm's mechanics are based on a series of string-like "muscles" which shorten when twisted.

Jacobsen said the arm is controlled by a series of electrodes implanted in the shoulder muscle. He said the arm can predict and duplicate normal arm motions "with a considerable degree of accuracy."

Further in the future are an artificial eye and nuclear-powered artificial heart.

The researchers said the eye camera, sending its signal to a grid of electrodes implanted on the surface of the brain. They hope to give the totally blind black-and-white vision, with about the same quality as the first pictures sent to earth by astronauts on the moon.

The university has used artificial hearts implanted in calves for years. One animal was kept alive for 94 days on a heart powered by an air compressor. But the one designed for humans would be nuclear-powered with a small power cell implanted in the abdomen.

"I will be disappointed if the heart is not ready for clinical use in three years," said Kolff. "And three years ago I said the same thing."

Awards presented

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso, left, presented awards to 110 outstanding Connecticut women Wednesday for their contributions to society.

The ceremony was sponsored by the Connecticut United Nations Association of the U.S.A. and the awards were for contributions to "peace, equality and development." The ideas comprising the themes of the UN's International Women's Year.

Historian Barbara Tuchman, right, and newspaper editor, Fox Brosius were given special awards for peace. Singer-composer Judy Collins and attorney Catherine Roraback were given special awards for equality.

President invited

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Gerald Ford, whose wife has attended functions recalling her days as a Martha Graham dancer, has been asked to join in a tribute to the time he was a male fashion model.

Carole Conover said Wednesday she has invited the President and Mrs. Ford to a charity benefit gathering of former Conover Everglades Feb. 14 in a tribute to her late father, Harry Conover.

"Harry and Jerry modeled together for John Robert Powers," she said.

Bones found

SANTA ANA, CALIF. (UPI) — Genevieve Harmon thought the remains of her late husband had been cremated and the ashes scattered at sea. It was a shock when his bones were found in a county dump.

Mrs. Harmon, 74, filed suit Wednesday in Superior Court against a Westminister mortuary, demanding $200,000 compensation for mental anguish and emotional distress.

Mrs. Harmon's husband, Hugh, died 17 years ago and was buried. She contracted last year to have his remains disinterred, cremated and the ashes scattered at sea.

Trashmen found a battered metal coffin at the county dump Dec. 17. It burst open, revealing human bones.

Grocery credit increase bites dust in 31-37 vote

BOISE (UPI) — A move to grant $3.825 million in ongoing income tax relief bit the dust 31-37 in the House Wednesday after a 29-minute debate which crossed partisan lines.

This bill would have increased the grocery credit or refund on income taxes to 22¢ per person from 15¢. The grocery credit is an allowance to offset sales taxes paid on groceries.

Two Senate bills to require expiration of motor vehicle registrations on Dec. 31 and to allow the Department of Law Enforcement to extend the life of existing motor vehicle license plates were approved by the House Transportation Committee. Proponents of the bill to extend the life of the plates said it would reduce the Law Enforcement budget by $1.1 million in fiscal 1977.

The same committee agreed to introduce a bill which gives local authorities full and complete authority to determine the need to put up and maintain stop signs at railroad crossings.

And it reported to the floor for action with its approval a bill to provide special license plates for the handicapped and allow them free parking.

September Gem primary election proposed

BOISE (UPI) — Apparently convinced it's a long, long time between May and September, the House State Affairs Committee called for introduction today of a bill moving the primary election to September.

At present, the regular primary is conducted the first Tuesday in August. There is a presidential-preference primary scheduled for the fourth Tuesday in May and there is a bill to consolidate the two elections on the May date.

As an alternative, Rep. Dorothy McCann, D-Wallace, put before the committee a bill to move the date of the regular primary to the second Tuesday in September. Rep. Gary Ingram, R-Coeur d'Alene, said Washington state has a primary on that date and that it has not worked out. Mrs. McCann disagreed, saying Washington legislators she knows prefer it.

Ingram contended that a primary that close to the general election would create campaign problems — especially for congressional candidates — in reserving billboard space, getting printing done and yard signs made.

But Rep. Patricia L. McDermott, D-Pocatello, urged the committee to consider the voters rather than the candidates. She said the August primary comes at a "very inconvenient time" for the voters.

By having a primary the second Tuesday in September, she said, voters would be back from vacation and children would be back in school.

Rep. Peggy Bunting, R-Boise, told the committee that if it changes the date to September it will "pull the shade on the Sunshine Act," which sets a three-month time limit for the secretary of state to disclose campaign violations. That time frame, she said, will have to be changed, too.

Urging the committee to consider further consolidating the two primaries in May, Rep. John Reardon, R-Boise, said the nice thing about it is "the legislators' records are fresh in the mind of the voters."

ERA goes around again

BOISE (UPI) — Recession of the Equal Rights Amendment gets another go around in the Idaho today, as legislators hoped getting more than a majority vote — not enough for approval.

A joint resolution, which requires a two-thirds majority for passage, is up for final passage.

It follows by three days an effort by proponents to pass a concurrent resolution rescinding ERA — a measure that supporters contend would take only a simple majority. But the resolution was sent to State Affairs Committee on a vote of 18-6.

Wednesday, the State Affairs Committee held the concurrent resolution. Committee Chairman Dan Summers, R-Boise, said he preferred a ruling on whether the resolution would take a two-thirds majority or simple majority to approve it.

Sen. Dan Watkins, R-Idaho Falls, sponsor of the concurrent resolution, urged the committee to report it out "so it could run along with" the joint resolution introduced by the State Affairs Committee.

Idaho Power gains plant share

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Power Co. says it has entered an agreement to own 10 percent of the Boardman coal-fired generating plant in north-central Oregon.

President James E. Bruce said the company made the decision to protect its customers against a potential supply shortage as customer requirements continue to grow.

Idaho Power made the agreement with Portland General Electric Co. for 53 megawatts of the 530-megawatt plant, beginning in 1980 when the plant is expected to be completed.

Bruce said the Bonneville Power Administration plans to pay Idaho Power in cash, instead of energy, for transmission services to BPA's southern Idaho customers in the 1980's.

This, he said, would deprive Idaho Power of up to 400 million kilowatt-hours in July and August when the utility experiences its summer peak demand.

Gem dental X-ray units recalled

BOISE (UPI) — Nearly 2,000 dental X-ray machines — 20 of which are in Idaho — are being recalled by the Food and Drug Administration for repairs.

Bob Funderburg, acting supervisor of the radiation control office of the State Department of Health and Welfare, said the X-ray machines are GE-1000 and GE Paneltype dental machines. He said there are 10 of each in the state.

The FDA said the machines could emit excessive radiation. Funderburg said the problem, however, does not pose a health threat to Idahoans.

"The problem with the units is pretty minor as far as radiation safety is concerned," he said.

"GE originally said the units were accurate to within plus or minus 10 percent on voltage output and plus or minus five percent on the timers.

"The FDA made tests and found that these statements were not true," he said.

Bill ready

Views asked on coal plant

BOISE (UPI) — The Citizens for Alternatives to Ploover is urging Idaho residents to write to elected officials and the Public Utilities Commission to express their views on Idaho Power's proposed coal fired generating plant.

The organization will hold a public meeting at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Boise YWCA to discuss the power plant proposal.

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus says an anti-obscenity bill, drawn to meet latest U. S. Supreme Court decisions, is ready and will be forwarded to the legislature within a week.

Drawn by Attorney General Wayne L. Kidwell at the governor's request, the bill changes wording of what constitutes obscene material and defines "reckless conduct" of persons selling obscene material who say they have not read or seen the material themselves.

It also involves strengthening of child penalties.

Andrus said he plans to meet with the legislative leadership concerning the bill and will have the proposal to the legislature within a week "in one form or another."

Kidwell said the bill is in accord with the latest U. S. Supreme Court decisions.

"We gave it the best legal shots we could," Kidwell said.

Viet prostitutes attend school

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Former Saigon prostitutes are going to become "healthy, cultured and useful women," according to the new government in Vietnam.

Radio Hanoi, in a broadcast monitored in Bangkok, said the 306 young women are attending a "school to rehabilitate women's dignity" in Saigon.

The broadcast said the school day begins with morning exercises, followed by cultural or political classes.

"The afternoon is devoted to job training such as sewing, basketwork and mat weaving. The report said the evenings "are usually reserved for artistic activities."

According to the broadcast, the purpose of the government-operated school "is to re-educate former prostitutes under the U.S.-Thieu regime into healthy, cultured and useful women for the building of a socialist society."

The communist government, which replaced the Nguyen Van Thieu regime last April, said late last year there were 350,000 prostitutes in the city of three million when it took over.

The fate of the rest of the prostitutes has not been reported.

Recruits hired for Angola fight

LONDON (UPI) — More than 100 leather-jacketed British mercenaries hired to fight against Soviet-armed Angolans left for Africa Wednesday, possibly funded in part by U.S. money despite a congressional ban on such aid.

A group of 43 recruits, many unshaven and scruffy-looking, left Heathrow airport for Brussels to catch a flight to Kinshasa in Zaïre. A second contingent of about 60 leather-coated men in open necked shirts followed two hours later.

The solemn-faced recruits, the first of about 200 former British paratroopers and soldiers of fortune expected to make the trip, were generally close-mouthed with reporters.

But a man claiming to be a spokesman for the pro-West National Front for the Liberation of Angola said some of the funds for the operation had come from the United States. He said the mercenaries would be paid through Zaïre.

U.S. aid to Angolan combatants was cut off Tuesday, when the House of Representatives joined the Senate in cutting off all such aid.

One British recruit said the mercenaries were being paid $300 a week tax free by the Zaïre government for joining the war against the Soviet-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola.

The man, one of many Scotsmen in the group, added that — also — had been promised an airline ticket "to anywhere in the world" as part of the pay.

Les Aspin, a former arms smuggler involved in the recruitment, said last week the mercenaries were as interested in fighting communists as in financial gain.

But a hairy recruit, clad in leather jacket, jeans and dark glasses, said: "We're in it for the money. Nothing else."

The Scot said the mercenaries will be given a month's paid leave after six months in Angola, plus the chance to sign on again for another six-month tour.

"This is a spearhead," he said. "There could be a lot more following. It has all been arranged through the Zaïre government and we have been dealing with a Mr. Les Aspin. But I can't tell you anymore."

California blaze started by welder

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (UPI) — A brush fire that destroyed 14 expensive homes and damaged many others near Richard Nixon's retreat was started by a Marine welder, the Marine Corps said Tuesday.

The fire swept out of Camp Pendleton last Wednesday, blazing into an area of homes worth $50,000 to $100,000. Hundreds of residents were evacuated and the fire covered 2,400 acres before it was controlled.

Residents at first blamed the fire on Marines using incendiary ammunition and flares in dry brush, but a spokesman for the camp headquarters said the fire was begun by a welder working at an abandoned pistol range.

An inquiry was ordered.

Mother, sons run last 'coney' shop

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — "I've been slicing hot dog buns for the last 46 years," recalls Mrs. Frances Arvenitis, 67, owner and operator of The Original Coney Island in downtown St. Paul.

Her sons Loucas, 44, and Harry 42, work closely with their mother. Loucas says theirs is the last "coney" shop in the Twin Cities.

Loucas runs the bar in an adjoining room. Harry spends most of his time putting the hot dogs, mustard and chili on the buns his mother has sliced.

Mrs. Arvenitis, spry and small, has complete control of the operation. She says she loves working with her sons because it is the way it should be with a mother.

"Why I even get to boss them sometimes!" Mrs. Arvenitis said.

"My husband Nick, he's passed on now, came to the United States in about 1924 and got the business going. Then in 1917 he came back to Greece and married me."

"I came to the U.S. with him and started helping him and we raised a family together. We had four daughters and Harry and Loucas. My daughters don't like work in the Coney."

She sits at a table, and, with the precision of a diamond cutter, slices about 100 buns a day. And she washes the dishes, serves customers and has lengthy conversations with regulars.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune & N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14. Almost 15. My parents won't let me smoke. My brother got to smoke when he was 15, but when I ask my parents if I can smoke, they say, "No, it's not feminine."

Abby, I milk cows, bale hay and even clean cow gutters, and you sure can't say THAT'S feminine. All my girl friends get to smoke in front of their parents, so why don't they let me run my own life?

MYSELF

Abby says don't start

DEAR MYSELF: Because they don't want you to run it in a way that may be damaging to your health. Fun with me, I've the best advice I can give to nonsmokers is—DON'T START!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were invited to a dinner party at the home of a very high-class, prominent society leader who has a reputation for entertaining beautifully.

My husband's widowed sister came to town unexpectedly, so I phoned my hostess and asked if we could bring our houseguest.

She asked, "Is your houseguest a male or female?" I said, "She's my husband's sister."

And would you believe this so-called high-class society lady replied, "That's too bad. We already have three extra women. If you could bring a man, I'd be delighted, but we don't need any more women."

Have you ever heard of anything to top this? SPEECHLESS

DEAR SPEECHLESS: No. And I thought I'd heard everything.

DEAR ABBY: I couldn't help but smile when I read your comment about people who run ads in the classified section to meet a partner. Agreed, they must be desperately lonely, and they do run the risk of meeting some creepy characters that way, but did you know that this practice is entirely accepted in Europe, specifically in Germany?

Believe me, I have run into creepy characters in the U.S.A. and Canada in distinguished public places where a lady would think she is safe from creeps. I also know that many Europeans have found decent companions by placing ads in newspapers or going through a marriage agency.

The adage "different countries, different customs" still holds true so please don't condemn that custom altogether. For some, it works.

T.L.K.

DEAR T.L.K.: Many wrote to defend the practice of advertising in a newspaper for companionship, and even marriage. But those who wrote were invariably winners. I'd like to hear from some losers.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (26¢) envelope.

Simple, sensual emphasized in fashions

PARIS (UPI) — Emmanuel Ungaro highlighted the second day of the Paris spring and summer fashion shows with a light-hearted, graceful display emphasizing two themes — the simple and the sensual. The 1969 Neiman Marcus prize winner's collection was presented Tuesday. Unlike some other designers, he showed no traces of oriental influence. There were two main looks: the first was simple, almost naive, just skimming the body with fresh silks and linens. The second was more sensual, emphasizing bust and hips with delicately swirling flower-printed skirts. Ungaro, like many other designers, chose to use stripes for many of his designs — black and white crepe de chine shirtdresses with white linen jacket, black and violet stripes with an eye-catching red jacket, or ivory, red and blue stripes for a simple looking two-piece suit.

Just as successful were the numerous check prints, like the skirt and overblouse in black, pink and red worn under a simply cut white wool coat. Short white jackets looked summery over pleated or lightly flounced dresses whose bodices were often bloused at back over a narrow belt. Another design was a return to the short middie blouse, just skimming the hipbone, with matching print skirt. Pants were few and "fifties" between at Ungaro. "Fifties" evening wear, however, showed several youthful jumpsuits, the top smocked to hug the ribs. This smocking also was used for bareback flower-printed floor-length dresses, clinging over the bust to where the skirt swirled out from just below the hips down to bare feet-in sandals. BRING PEACE OF MIND back to driving with a safety checked car.

your health

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
I have been bothered with peptic ulcers for the past four years. Now I have been told by my doctor that I have diverticulosis in the lower colon.
I need to lose 30 pounds. Blind diets are required for this, but they also seem to irritate. I also understand that I do need sufficient bulk for the diverticulosis. I have been constipated. Can you unravel this set of problems? — Mrs. A. S. B.

That is a pretty tough challenge. You need the soft, bland foods to avoid irritation of your peptic ulcers, and yet you do require some bulk to keep the diverticulosis under control. Some fiber, too, might help alleviate your constipation.

It is very important that you find a suitable compromise, and you may require the help of a dietitian to arrange a suitable diet for you.

MR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

MR. AND MRS. CHAD WRIGHT

Cherie Anderson, Wright recite vows

EDEN — Cherie M. Anderson and Chad W. Wright were married in a Jan. 10 ceremony in the St. George Utah LDS Temple.
The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Anderson, Eden, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ward Wright, Hurricane, Utah. Besides their parents, the couple's grandparents, Lottie Anderson, Eden; Alice Wilson, Hurricane, and Mr. and Mrs. Mont J. Garrett, Burley, accompanied them to the temple.
The bride wore a gown of white tiffany jersey styled with a high neckline and bodice of semi-encrusted lace. The dress featured a chapel length train and long fitted sleeves trimmed with lace.
Completing the bride's costume was a hooded cape of white tiffany jersey with the hood, front and train trimmed with white feathers.
She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and velvet streamers.
Mary Ann Anderson, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor. Bridesmaids were Ellen Anderson, Boston, Mass.; Carol Anderson, Eden; Penny Barker and Kathy Gillson, both Provo, Utah; and Cindy Wiggins, Ogden. Laura Anderson, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.
Sam Wright, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Dick Wilson and Judd Turner were ushers.
The couple was honored at a reception at the Hazelton LDS Church Cultural Hall.
Jim Bragge was master of ceremonies. Sharon Stors and Bragge were soloists with Julia Sorenson and Debbie Hammond serving as accompanists. Debbie provided music for the reception.

The three tiered white wedding cake was surrounded with six smaller cakes and was decorated with blue flowers and snow-flakes and was topped with a miniature replica of the St. George Temple. Doll shaped cakes fed to match the bride and bridesmaids' dresses were also placed on the bride's table. Mary Mclenher, Eden, baked the cake.
Assisting with the reception were Jackie and Cheri Christopherson, Linda Henry, Laurel Taylor, Mowana Newland, Gay Miller, Patrice Okleberry, and Rhonda Henry. Tracy Garrett and Kenneth Anderson carried gifts. Cheryl Soklasky was in charge of guest book.
Special wedding guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Criss, Hagerman, and Lottie Anderson, Eden, grandparents of the bride.
Out-of-town wedding guests attended from Rupert, Hagerman, Gooding, Halley, Hurricane, Provo and Ogden, Utah, and Durston.
Following a short wedding trip, the couple lives in Provo, where the bride is a sophomore and the bridegroom a senior at Brigham Young University.
The bride was honored at a pre-nuptial shower given in Twin Falls by Mrs. E. J. Morgan, Twin Falls, and Ellen Anderson, Boston.
The couple was also honored at an open house in Hurricane. The bridegroom's parents were hosts for a dinner Jan. 10 in Hurricane.

VALUES DON'T MISS SEEING ANY OF THEM. Read today's Classified Ads.

I can suggest some possibilities for you. For example, smaller, more frequent feedings could include small portions of milk. If your ulcers can tolerate that, cooked vegetables and fruit, which are tolerated—and these also should be helpful for your constipation problem.

There are bland bulk-producing preparations available. A mild laxative (as prune juice) would not harm the ulcer and would help ease your constipation.

Also, if you are the nervous type, and most ulcer patients are, then you could help both your ulcers and your constipation by sleeping to take life a bit easier. Quite often, this is all that is required to make a difference.

My booklet on peptic ulcers goes into this in more detail than I can here. Readers can get a copy by enclosing 25 cents to me in care of this newspaper, with a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Since overweight can be a factor in more illnesses of this type than we realize, it is advisable to lose weight. You should be able to do this no matter what other diet restrictions you have. Lean meat and the cooked fruits and vegetables (graped, if necessary) should be a good foundation for your complicated dietary needs.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
I have been taking an anti-coagulant drug for the last couple of years. I have heard that leafy vegetables like lettuce and spinach are rich in vitamin K, and that this vitamin counteracts the effect of the anti-coagulant drugs. My prothrombin level is checked every week.
Do you think this is true? I do like lettuce and other greens. — J.D.

It is true that vitamin K is important in the production of prothrombin, which is essential in blood clotting. It is also true that the vegetables you mention are a rich store of vitamin K. However, taking in through a normal serving of the leafy vegetables would not be sufficient to cause any problem. Vitamin K is an essential part of the body's nutritional needs, and without it you would be in trouble.
Your periodic blood checks are to monitor the clotting factors, and the anti-coagulant effect.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
After smoking cigarettes for about 60 years I quit four months ago. I am 75 and retired. Though I quit the day after I quit, but at times now I have a depressed feeling. Could this be a desire for a cigarette? — C.S.

There are other reasons for depression at your age and I would doubt that a desire for cigarettes is your problem. After four months the cravings should have left.

Having kicked the habit and lost the cough associated with it, you should now be in considerably better health. The advantage of this and find some new interests. This could help in dealing with the psychological causes for your depression.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "The Way to Stop Constipation." For a copy write to him in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Serenity shed for nursing home

N.Y. Times Service
MARLBOROUGH, Conn. — After 20 years—alone with the animals, birds and flowers of the Connecticut woods, Albert Teatreault has given up his serene life in a handbuilt shack for a place in a rest home.

"I can't cut my own wood and it's difficult to get water," the small supple looking recluse said in a spontaneity of himself and the familiarity that is creeping over him with age.

Since Friday, he has been staying at Lord Marlborough Manor, where he has come to terms with the electric heat, soft beds, square meals and other creature comforts.

"I'd rather be in this place," Teatreault said, widening his dark, haggard eyes.

Teatreault, who will be 70 years old on April 6, sometimes felt faint in the mornings when he walked the half mile from his shack in the woods to the simple water hole he had dug.

Teatreault had also been increasingly annoyed by the sounds of bulldozers and developers cutting into the Bear Swamps, which he had turned informally into his own reserve over the last three decades.

Until 25 years ago, Teatreault worked in town, even while he lived in the woods—moving lawns, cutting brush, doing the sort of odd jobs he had done before. Then he learned he could maintain himself without the work.

Until 15 years ago, he took long walks in the woods, photographing trees that had outlived that suggested animals and the flowers that appeared to him. His favorite was the trillium, with its three leaves and blossoms and delicate blades.

He was on close terms with the wildlife there, and there was rarely another human in his tract. He had a pet dog in eastern Conn. his human had an occasional sting.

"They'd come to my banquet—'bossoms, coons and skunks, sometimes a fox and when they did, I'd shoot," Teatreault said, explaining how he managed to dress on the meals he put on the table with his own Special Security check and with the turkeys and such other things as he could grow in his garden.

"I'd put bread and meat scraps out for them," he said. "I call that the animal's banquet."

He would lie in wait in his shack, the barrel of his .22 Winchester—practicing from one of the "sawdust piles," he had piled up in the front door and to the back wall. Sometimes, he found an animal and did not kill it, the ensuing wait could be long.

"They go away and they tell the others," Teatreault said. Sometimes it would take a month, two months before they would come around again.

U.S. Postal Service lobbies for funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Postmaster General Benjamin Holt says the U.S. Postal Service is lobbying for more money that it may have to borrow funds just to pay its employees.

He said Tuesday the service ran up a $1.1 billion debt during the first six months of the fiscal year — adding to a cumulative debt of $3 billion — and that things will get worse later in the year unless Congress raises the Postal Service's subsidy.

Testifying before the Senate Post Office Committee, Holt said the postal service is caught in the front door and the back wall. He said that higher postage rates are forcing a decrease in mail volume which, in turn, sharply cuts into revenue.

He said losses are so large that "we may be forced to borrow before the end of the fiscal year to meet our payroll."

"Unless increased public funding enables us in the near term to slacken the pace of rate increases, we may be caught in a vicious cycle of rate increases to compensate for volume decreases brought on by rate increases," he said.

Holt also said he strongly opposed repealing the postal service's monopoly over first class mail to allow cheaper competition from the private sector as was proposed by the President's Council on Wage and Price Stability.

He warned that repeal of the monopoly would result in variable postage rates "with all the apparent disadvantages for mail in thinly populated areas; the increase in regulatory red tape, and the complexities and confusions for many citizens that would inevitably attend such a change."

Sunny days, cool nights told

Twin Falls, Northdale, Burley, Rupert area: Fair and mild through Friday. Patchy areas of evening and morning fog. Highs 40 to 45 Friday. Overnight lows 20 to 25.

Halley, Camas Prairie, lower Wood River Valley: Mostly fair and mild through Friday. Patchy areas of morning fog. Highs 35 to 45 Friday. Overnight lows 5 to 15.

The outlook for Saturday: Little change.

Synops: Fair weather continues over Idaho today. Temperature extremes this morning were 1 at Fairfield and 10 at Aberdeen to 54 at Lewiston. There were reports of fog in some valleys early this morning where winds were mostly light. Mild sunny days with clear cool nights are due to the stationary high pressure system over the United States. This is causing Pacific fronts to weaken as they approach the West Coast and pushing their movement north into Canada. Not much change is expected in the way of weather until this high pressure system starts to move.

The extended outlook for Saturday through Monday: calls for more sunshine and mild daytime temperatures for the weekend. Continental dry with highs mostly in the 40s and overnight lows in the 20s.

Banana bribery charged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Without admitting or denying guilt, United Brands Co. has consented to criminal charges that it agreed to pay $2.5 million in bribes to Honduran officials in exchange for a low export tax on bananas.

The company also allegedly paid $750,000 to officials of a European country, believed to be Italy, for a period of about five years.

In consenting to the charges Tuesday in U.S. District Court, United Brands agreed to appoint a special committee to review company books to determine whether any other alleged illegal activities occurred during the period.

United Brands, the largest fruit importer in the United States, distributes bananas under the "Chiquita" label.

In the past three years, 44 corporations have been convicted of, charged with or voluntarily disclosed making illegal campaign contributions, bribes, kickbacks and questionable payments exceeding $400 million.

Judge Thomas Flannery signed the order of permanent injunction under which the firm agreed not to pay bribes or falsify its financial accounts in the future. By agreeing to a consent order, however, the company did not admit performing any such activities in the past.

The consent order directs United Brands to appoint three nonmanagement members of its board of directors to a special audit committee to review company records for the past five years. The committee work will be overseen by Columbia University dean of law Michael Sovern before it is submitted to the SEC within 120 days.

'Bird' frightens Texas residents

EAGLE PASS, Tex. (UPI) — Police Capt. Donald Smith read the report with the indifference of a veteran cop handling a routine investigation.

"A creature standing about six feet tall attacked a 21-year-old man at 12:45 a. m.," he said. "The creature, either a bird or an animal, is described as having a brown or almost black body, bright red eyes and thin wings of a bat."

"The man says it stood on short, stubby legs and had two arms, each about 2 1/2 feet long. It had pointed ears, the face of a pig, but didn't have a snout. He says it hissed at him, took a short hop and jumped on his shoulders," he says when it touched him, he became very shy.

Smith would elaborate no further except to say the report was under investigation.

It was another sighting of "Big Bird," a larger winged creature reported throughout South Texas for the past several weeks. And though Smith says the reported attack is just another police case, other officers in his command say it's a hoax.

But the Eagle Pass attack, reported Wednesday by Francisco Magallanes, 21, is the first such attack being given credence by officials. Primarily because Magallanes's doctor has verified the marks on the man's shoulders are those of some type of animal or bird.

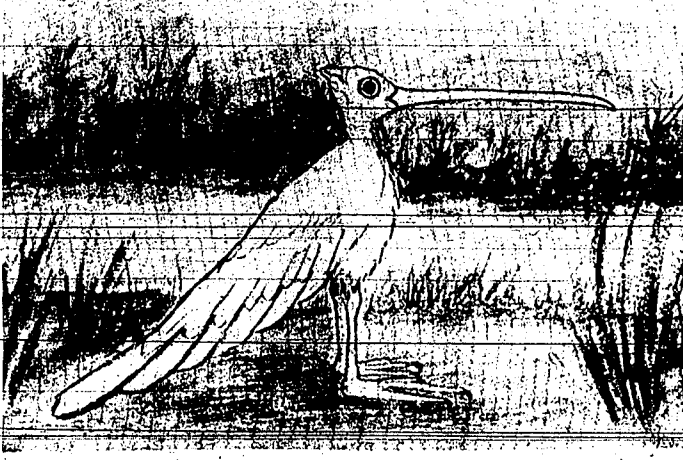

However, Magallanes admits he was drinking before the incident. Police also say oaks, other large birds of prey and large dogs are not unusual in the city which sits atop the Mexican-American border. And many of these could be responsible.

Officials said they had not yet questioned Magallanes closely because his doctor had him under sedation, but anticipated talking with him either today or tomorrow. They say they hope he will voluntarily submit to a lie-detector test.

Police say they will take an official position on the attack until they question Magallanes, but they frankly admit they'll try to shake his story.

But what if the lie-detector says he's telling the truth, and what if he can't be shaken from his story?

Smith's reply: "No comment."

'Big Bird' drawing

If this composite drawing of "Big Bird" is anything like the real thing, it's no wonder that some of the people who have reported seeing it have been scared out of their wits. Many residents of the Texas Lower Rio Grande Valley have reported sighting the creature, claiming it has a wingspan of about 15 feet. (UPI)

Judge Ward gives sentences to four

TWIN FALLS — Francisco Garcia, 33, Twin Falls, was sentenced last week to five years in the Idaho State Prison and then placed on three years probation by Fifth District Judge Theron W. Ward.

Garcia was arrested by Twin Falls city police April 18, 1977, and a large amount of marijuana confiscated. He entered a plea of innocent but Judge Ward changed the plea to guilty on charges of possession of a controlled substance.

Defense attorneys and county assistant prosecutor Melvin Edwards agreed to recommend the court withhold judgment. In view of this Judge Ward said he would withhold judgment and, if at the end of the three-year probation or at anytime during the three years, the probation officer feels Garcia has completed a good probation, he will be allowed to return to court and enter a plea of innocent and charges will be dismissed.

Attorney Golden Bennett said Garcia, who is a bartender by profession, cannot obtain a license if his record shows a felony. He said the man has had no previous felony arrests.

Roger Dennis Bolton, 39, Twin Falls, was sentenced to five years and placed on 32 months probation, after pleading guilty to one of three counts of receiving stolen property. He entered a plea of guilty to receiving a $239.95 item of property reportedly stolen from Kregel's Hardware.

Two other men are charged with grand larceny in connection with the theft. George McCracken, 35, Bulli, was sentenced to 14 years in the state prison and placed on 24 months probation after pleading guilty to forgery charges.

TF commissioners meet with mayors

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County commissioners have called a meeting for Thursday noon in the Rogerson Hotel dining room to discuss solid waste fees with mayors of cities in the county.

Commissioner William Chancy said the county will discuss 1978 fees with the mayors. Each city in the county currently pays 25 cents per household for solid waste assessments. This covers city trash contracts and city trucks carrying trash and debris to the landfills which the county owns and operates.

There is no charge for the individual household who takes trash to the landfills unless the trash includes large items requiring special handling. Chancy said, "We hope to maintain fees which the cities can live with, but which will sustain the landfill operations. If we can do this, we can cut down the property tax levies and make it a little easier on the property owner," Chancy said.

The county, in addition to fees collected from cities and contractors, levies 1.89 mills for solid waste programs.

In addition to maintaining the solid waste landfill sites, the county is making a long-range effort to clean up old dump grounds which developed in the past on public lands around the county.

Pocatello garbage topic for hearing

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — A public hearing will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Pocatello High School for the city council to explain why it wants to charge to plastic garbage bags for residential refuse collections.

A new contract to begin in May would increase garbage collection fees to $2.25 per month from $1.95 for each residence. Pocatello residents are complaining about the proposed fee increase and that there has not been enough study on the system.

The council opened bids Jan. 20 for a new refuse collection pickup contract. The apparent low bidder was El Ramos Company of Las Vegas, Nev., with a bid of $1.3 million to cover the five-year period.

The new contract would have the collection company supply packages of 25-gallon bags once each quarter, allowing three bags per week. The cost of the bags is included in the monthly collection fee.

Members of the public have protested that the system will be too costly for the contractor, that no provisions have been made for other persons having to carry the bags to the curb, that even though some persons will not use three bags per week they will have to pay for them.

There have been predictions from the public that the collections under these conditions proposed in the contract will amount to $650,000 and $700,000 per year.

City Councilwoman Donna Boe who headed the refuse study committee said research on several systems was conducted from April through December.

She said that plastic bags and large cans and tubs were used on 600 Pocatello homes.

New site tops list

BOISE (UPI) — Moving the location of the Democratic State Convention from Sun Valley to another area will top the agenda at the Feb. 28 meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee.

Decker Rice, state chairman, said requests to move the convention from Sun Valley have been coming in from every section of the state and the executive committee of the party has agreed that the site location should be reconsidered.

The committee also will elect three temporary delegates and three temporary alternates to the standing committee of the Democratic National Convention. The delegates will serve on the platform committee, credential committee and rules committee.

FmHA questionable

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An aide to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus says the Farmers Home Administration's housing program is a "mixed blessing" for Idaho.

Dale Alvord, told a joint congressional committee investigating FmHA rural loan policies that among county commissioners in Idaho the most numerous complaints about the program have been funding of urban sprawl subdivisions.

Problems include existence of defective houses and no provisions in some subdivisions for water, sewer or fire protection, Alvord said.

Oldest British home sold

STONOR, England (UPI) — The Camoys family came to live at Stonor Park before 1066 and it has since been lived there ever since — until now. After nearly 1,000 years, the owners of Britain's oldest family home are selling out.

"It would be easy to cry," said Sherman Stonor, the last American sixth baron, inherited Stonor in 1937 he has when 1,000 people came to view items on sale — was Stonor Park open to the public. Now inflation has done what the tumultuous centuries could not do.

The house costs $51,000 a year in upkeep. Heating oil alone is $4,000 a year. Since Sherman Stonor, the last American sixth baron, inherited Stonor in 1937 he has spent $500,000 on repairs. The burden was too much. Last October Lord Camoys, once an enthusiastic parachutist but at 62 a semi-invalid, and his ex-socialite wife decided they were broke.

They moved into a five-bedroom house on the estate and called in the auctioneers. Stonor Park was put up for sale.

Black Jack celebrates

ARLINGTON, Va. (UPI) — Today is the 220th birthday of Black Jack, the famous riderless horse at the funeral of presidents and generals.

A party was scheduled with butter pecan birthday cake — his favorite.

Black Jack weighs half a ton and is five feet tall. Named after World War I Gen. John J. "Black Jack" Pershing, he is the last horse with the army's U.S. Band.

U.S. 'image' threatened

WASHINGTON (UPI) — French Ambassador Jacques Kossusko-Morizet said today "refusal" to let the supersonic Concorde jetliner land in the United States could destroy America's image as a leader in technological progress.

"I must tell you this is not a minor issue, that it involves much more than governments, because on the question of the Concorde the French people — from left all the way to the right — are of the same mind," he said.

The ambassador, in a speech prepared for delivery to the Foreign Affairs Council in Pittsburgh, said refusal of landing rights could destroy the image of the United States in France as a leader in technological progress.

"It is this image that might be destroyed," Kossusko-

Morizet said.

He added: "There could be a worse time for a division to occur among the Western allies with the Soviet super-sonic airliner Tupolev, now beginning to take the sky."

The Concorde recently inaugurated commercial service with flights from Paris to Bahrain in the Persian Gulf and to Brazil.

A two-day sale today and Thursday will dispose of almost everything in the room house. The 17th-century fourposter bed, the Georgian furniture, the library's books, and the Persian carpets are expected to bring about $200,000.

Stonor Park itself is for sale for $812,000 and the University of California is reportedly interested in the house, which nestles in 500 virgin acres of parkland in the best covered Chiltern hills, 40 miles north of London.

The price includes a history no house in England can match.

William, the Conqueror came in 1066 and parceled out England to his Norman knights, but the Camoys stayed at Stonor Park.

The War of the Roses came, but the Camoys stayed. The Reformation came, and the fiercely Roman Catholic Camoys sacrificed everything, today at Stonor Park.

Catholics were literally hunted to death in the Reformation's fierce religious battles. Stately homes still show off "priest holes" where priests were hidden from puritans. Stonor is riddled with them.

It sheltered Edmund Campion, declared a saint in 1970, and other English martyrs in the 16th Century. Campion set up a secret printing press at Stonor in 1580. It's still in the attic.

The Camoys held on only by selling off every other possession to pay staggering mortgage bills. They were never a great family again, though a Camoys had commanded the right wing under Henry V at Agincourt.

Through the Civil War, through the Industrial Revolution, through two world wars the Camoys kept Stonor.

Not once in more than 900 years — until last Saturday.

'Death' defined by Hawaiians

HONOLULU (UPI) — The Hawaii State legislature is considering a bill which would define death as the absence of both "spontaneous brain function" and "spontaneous respiratory and cardiac function."

The measure was introduced by Rep. Stanley Roehrig of the Island of Hawaii, where a court order recently resulted in the withdrawal of life support equipment from Alice Cameron, 27-year-old mother of two.

Mrs. Cameron had been diagnosed, as dead by her doctor after she had been for two weeks in a coma brought on by a cocaine overdose and tests showed no brain activity. Her heart and lung functions were being maintained by machines.

The matter of whether or not she was dead was taken to court because of an earlier restraining order on plans to transplant her heart and kidneys.

Judge Shunichi Kimura avoided the question in ordering the life support system shut off by citing the 1969 Hawaii Anatomical Gift Act, which says a patient is dead when so diagnosed by physicians.

Amtrak fund 'inadequate'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church says President Ford's proposed $450 million budget for Amtrak is inadequate to continue existing rail passenger service let alone extend it to southern Idaho.

Church said the time the administration started talking "coherently" about transportation in the United States, and he will try to increase the appropriation for Amtrak.

"The president speaks of an energy crisis — one moment and a reduction in funding for a fuel-efficient form of transportation the next moment," Church said.

"One plain Idaho taxpayer is being denied passenger train service while being taxed to provide it elsewhere."

Woman ejects strange bedfellow

TWIN FALLS — City police were investigating reports of an attempted rape reported by a Twin Falls woman Wednesday. The woman told officers she went home late Tuesday night and went to bed. She awoke a short time later to find someone in bed with her. After a struggle, she said, she got away from the man and finally talked him into leaving her home. Police found a bathroom window in the house had been pried open and entry gained to the house.

Sierra denies Wyoming claims

By BILL LAZARUS Times-News writer CHEYENNE, Wyo. — Sierra Life Insurance Co. Wednesday attempted to have dismissed most of the issue on which the Wyoming Department of Insurance is questioning Sierra's solvency. The Wyoming department is challenging the value and admissibility of about $9 million of the about $11 million in total assets held by Sierra and its subsidiary.

stead of $16 million in Sierra liabilities. "His liabilities will be $5 million." Jordan included among Sierra's assets an about $1.5 million promissory note from Sandia in payment for the policies sold. But he said the promissory note was not considered a liability of Sandia.

he said, Sierra received stock in Sandia, valued at between $600,000 and $700,000. Asked by commissioner Langdon what actual policy had been put into Sandia, Jordan said $35,000 worth of policies.

said that if Sandia were to go into conservatorship, because of insolvency or impairment, "these assets Sierra had transferred would be frozen."

Office slated in Ketchum

By BART QUENELL Times-News writer KETCHUM — Idaho's first new employment office in 20 years is planned for Ketchum. A federally-funded employment office for Blaine County will open in April on Warm Springs Road in Ketchum. The office will operate for two years on a trial basis and "will not cost the taxpayers a cent" according to Joe Skaug, Jerome employment office manager. Skaug said the major reason the new facility being opened is a tripling of population in Blaine County in recent years and the "terrifically high unemployment rate."

He said the office will be of great benefit to Blaine County employers who continually have to rely on seasonal help. In addition, all unemployment claims now must be processed 80 miles south of here in Jerome, Skaug said. He said 75 per cent of all unemployment claims that go through the Jerome office are from Blaine County. Out of the 1100 claimants in November, he said, 800 were from Blaine County.

The Jerome office has been traveling here every other Wednesday to take claims. During the big Sun Valley Company layoff periods, the department sets up huge tables inside the company's facilities to take unemployment claims. The Rural Manpower Service, sponsored by the Idaho Cooperative Extension Service will be phased out, Skaug said. That office could not take claims or officially sign up people for training programs, he said.

The Jerome office was officially serving as the placement center for Jerome, Lincoln and Blaine Counties. Skaug said it was ridiculous trying to fill jobs here from Jerome. The new office, to open at 1007 Warm Springs Road will be a full service state employment agency. The new office will process unemployment insurance claims and will work with the area four Manpower Advisory Board and function in the usual role of job service placement and matching, according to Glenn Nichols, director of the Idaho Department of Employment.

Competitive exams will be conducted for the manager's position by the Idaho Personnel Commission. Some 75 per cent of all jobs in the Sun Valley area are of a temporary nature, which causes a high turnover problem. Gov. Cecil Andrus said, in announcing the new office, "We want to assist area employers with this major service of keeping their businesses adequately staffed."

Minidoka aides OK ag proposal

By SHANE O'NEILL Times-News writer RUPERT — A density of one dwelling per 10 acres without subdividing was set for agricultural zoning Wednesday night as the land use committee completed its section of the Minidoka city-county comprehensive plan. The committee spent two hours and 15 minutes settling the single issue that remained for consideration Wednesday. It finally approved a proposal by Chairman Frank Garner that anyone dividing land, "for the purpose of residential development into five or more smaller parcels in close proximity and/or of a density of more than one dwelling per 10 acres shall plat and subdivide the parcels of land in question or supply adequate evidence to warrant a variance."

"We never had a foolproof situation," Garner said. "You might as well scrap that." He defended "in close proximity" rather than a definite distance, saying that left individual cases to "human discretion."

Senate OK's HAW chief

BOISE — The Senate voted unanimously Wednesday to approve of Mitt Klein to head the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare Wednesday. Klein, 56, Twin Falls, was named by Gov. Cecil Andrus last December to take charge of the state's largest agency. Klein formerly headed HAW's region 5 office in Twin Falls.

Following hearings on his confirmation to the sensitive post, Sen. John Barker, R-Boise, who was the floor sponsor of the confirmation, told the Times-News "I am really very pleased."

"I would say that he (Klein) is a very honest individual," he said and added, "he was very forthright in his answers to the committee."

Barker sees Klein's biggest job in the months ahead as analyzing the cuts being made in federal aid to state programs and making Idaho's welfare programs fit its budget. Barker added that he did not think it likely that state general funds would be increased during his legislative session.

Sen. James Yost, R-Wendell, wasn't as enthusiastic, terming Klein's confirmation by the Senate as "expected." Yost said he voted for confirmation "not particularly because of the job he (Klein) will do, or his expertise, but because of the very few times that anyone is not approved."

Yost said that the appointment of Klein by Gov. Andrus went contrary to his philosophy of appointing persons for their educational ability as compared to their ability to exercise common sense.

Asked if he felt Klein lacked common sense, Yost replied, "Based upon my previous association with Mitt Klein I think he is too much of a bureaucrat to make any substantial improvement in the department."

Yost told the Times-News today that he thought the biggest problem facing HAW, and therefore its new director Klein, is the need for streamlining the department to "get rid of dead weight and get the aid to the people who are in need."

Yost said he had nothing against expanding regionalization, which Klein has said he favors, if it were done without a corresponding increase in the size of the department's staff in Boise.

Yost added it clear, however, that he thought that the danger of regionalization, or any program which increased the department's personnel budget, was that it took money. He warned "you have nothing left when you get to the people."

But, he said, in the life insurance industry there is a law that when the commissioner of insurance has agreed to the "bulk re-insurance" sale of policies the company that purchased the policies holds all the responsibility for them.

In this case, superintendent of insurance in New Mexico Ralph Apodaca approved the bulk re-insurance sale. "There is authority that says Sierra Life is off the book," Jordan said. Jordan did not say, however, that on the basis of contract law, a policy holder could sue Sandia if Sandia were not able to meet its obligations and possibly might be successful.

He added, however, that in his judgment, Sandia will be able to meet its obligations to its new policy holders.

Jordan specified the assets put into Sandia. Almost all the challenged property was included among Sandia's assets. The liability for the policies sold to Sandia, he said, was accepted by Sandia Co., he said. Instead of Sierra's holding $18 million in assets, it now holds $10 or $9 million in assets. "An Intermediate view of these assets. Langdon took another view. If the transaction with Sandia was "arm's length" he said, he might agree that the assets are not relevant to the Sierra case. But Langdon did not believe this was an arm's length transaction.

"It's like taking it out of my left pocket and putting it into my right and then saying I've corrected the problem," he said.

Tom Bower, supervising examiner for the state of Wyoming, had other perspectives on the transaction between Sierra and Sandia.

In the event of the insolvency or the liquidation of Sandia, the company's liabilities to its policy holders would revert to Sierra. If this were to happen, he maintained, Sierra could be in a worse situation because it has already transferred its assets to Sandia Life. He

He maintained that since Sandia is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Sierra Life, the Wyoming Department of Insurance has an obligation to examine the assets of Sandia.

Power said his understanding from Jordan's testimony is that Sierra transferred bonds at par value to buy a capital for Sandia. He said that, as he reads the Wyoming code, the bonds should be listed at market value, not at par value.

Market value would be the current value of the bonds, while par value would be the value at maturity.

Power also said he would not consider the about $1.5 million promissory note from Sandia to Sierra in payment for the insurance policies it purchased as a proper asset of Sierra. Since the about $1.5 million note is not listed as a liability on Sandia's balance sheet, he does not see how it could be an asset to Sierra.

In his testimony, Jordan told Langdon that a number of factors would "ease your mind as to the welfare of the policy holders of Sandia."

He said Sandia is in the process of insuring all of its policies "except possibly it will retain $1,000" in risks. He said the re-insurance will be with "some very large insurance company."

He also said that Sandia will have no overhead, no officers' salaries and no insurance agents. Sandia will pay Sierra "on a cost basis only" for the work performed for Sandia, he said.

Sandia "will probably be as profitable as any insurance company in the United States," Jordan said. Also, he said, that an agreement was made with the insurance superintendent of New Mexico that unacceptable Sandia assets will be replaced by "high grade bonds, primarily utility" bonds over a period of time.

Jordan said that all but a very few "anomaly" policies which Sierra had in Wyoming were sold to Sandia. He said that if it had not been for some technical legal problems, these anomaly policies probably also would have been sold.

He said, however, that Sierra plans to continue selling life insurance in Wyoming. Sierra now plans to put its reserve fund into "the highest grade bonds" he said.

The sale of non- Idaho policies to Sandia was "one of several of the last alternatives that we had," Jordan said.

On one point, Jordan's testimony seemed to contradict statements made previously by Apodaca.

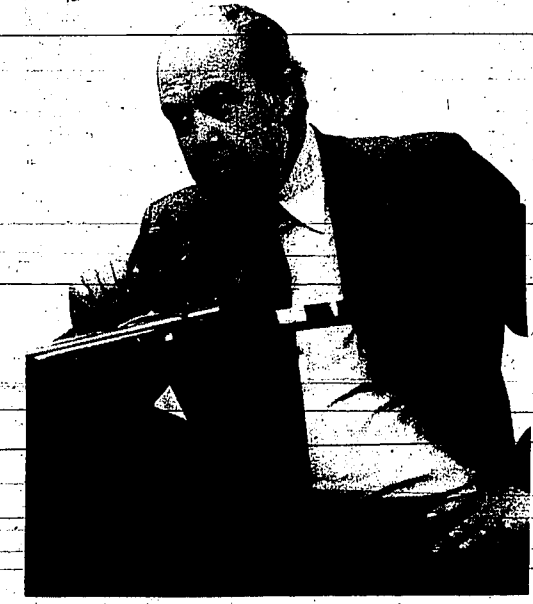

Earlier this month Apodaca told the Times-News that assets had not yet been transferred by Sierra to Sandia. Apodaca said he had not approved the assets. He said he could not approve them until he had seen them. He said the New Mexico Department of Insurance will examine the assets and the financial condition of Sandia after the company makes its financial statement on March 31. But, Jordan testified that all but one of the assets transferred to Sandia were delivered on Dec. 30, 1975. He said Apodaca dated the bulk re-insurance treaty on Dec. 29. But he said Apodaca actually signed it on Dec. 30, after his examiners had reviewed the assets delivered to Sandia.

Jordan also testified that Apodaca did not approve the agreement with the understanding that Sierra's assets would be audited. He said that Apodaca's approval of the assets of Sandia was not contingent upon a favorable audit. But Jordan later said in his testimony that he understood that an audit would be conducted after Sandia turned in its March 1 financial statement.

During the hearing, insurance examiner Power maintained that Wyoming is obligated to examine the assets of Sandia even though they have been approved by Apodaca. But Sierra's attorney Applegate questioned this.

Art Hanscum, attorney for the Wyoming Insurance Department, asked Power if he ever had seen a bulk re-insurance agreement in which the assets of Sandia were audited and any applicable code section. Power said yes — in the bulk re-insurance treaty between Sierra and Sandia, signed by Apodaca.

A provision that that treaty states: "Sandia shall be permitted to hold and retain as admitted assets for all state accounting and examination purposes all assets assigned and transferred by Sierra to Sandia as reserves for the policies assigned and re-insured hereby at the values set forth on exhibit D (attached), notwithstanding the fact that any particular asset might not have been audited, or a direct link was established by Sandia because of the amount or character thereof."

TF aides, architect study plans for judicial building

TWIN FALLS — County commissioners here are meeting with Architect Richard Heindt to prepare plans for expansion of the Twin Falls County Judicial Building.

The county hopes to call for bids on a 4,500-square-foot extension structure by early May, Commissioner William Chancy said.

Last year the county budgeted for a second story on the existing structure and remodeling of the judicial building and old county courthouse. Bids exceeded available money and the plans were dropped.

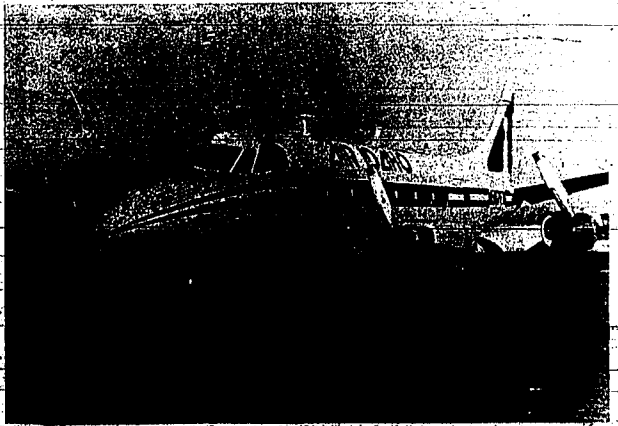

Commission Chairman Merl E. Leonard said the county is now planning to build a ground floor addition which will provide space for magistrate court, including two magistrate offices and quarters for three judges. Any remodeling to the present judicial building, Leonard said, would be minor such as removal of a wall to add space for court files. The building will be designed, he said, to allow for other expansion in the future if the O'Leary Junior High School property is available for county purchase.

Chancy said bids are being prepared with an alternate to cover air conditioning and new heating equipment in the old county courthouse and possibly other remodeling for county offices utilizing the old building.

The commissioners plan to use revenue sharing money for the building. The county has about $1.5 million in revenue sharing, because last year's budgeted funds for the judicial building expansion were not used.

Only a portion of this is planned for the building extension. Other projects, including $135,000 for the county fairgrounds, are part of the revenue sharing budget.

Air Idaho's 16-passenger DeHavilland Heron airplane remained grounded Thursday. The airplane, which was impounded following a court hearing Tuesday, could be released if Air Idaho posts a bond. County officials were not available for comment. Plans to secure such a bond and the aircraft remainer parked near Ruppert Flying Service.

Sex data available for youths

By LORAYNE O. SMITH Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Information about sex is now available to youths throughout the area, on an informal basis, despite a reported "brick wall" response from school district administrators.

The nearly two dozen professionals who took a comprehensive course entitled "Communication in Sexuality" last year are putting what they gained to good use, according to Lucille Jacobson, supervising nurse of the South Central Health District, but not quite in the way first planned.

Teachers, counselors, nurses and social workers attended the class. She said when the course was arranged to be given here for graduate or undergraduate credit with Idaho State University, Pocatello, the idea was to obtain cooperation from area schools to implement the course by having teachers and counselors return over the material to students.

that school, but that teachers were free to attend the course if they wished," Mrs. Jacobson said.

The fact that 21 did, including two who drove each week from Carey, shows the need for such a course, she says. The counselors and physical education teachers probably now are able to talk more freely with students on any aspect of personal problems.

One of the first things the "pupils" had to do, Mrs. Jacobson said, was to list all the terms, slang or otherwise, used to describe sexual anatomy.

This was hard for many, she said, but after this hurdle was passed, it was much easier for them to talk on the same level as students.

At least the counselor now will know what the young person is talking about, the supervisor said.

changing sex role in today's cultures. Different life styles also are part of the curriculum. The course, taught by Paul Grover, psychologist at the mental health center in Twin Falls, was sponsored by the Family Planning Council and leaders hope to repeat the course again, especially in the Burley-Rupert area.

Mrs. Jacobson said several from that area signed for last year's class, but did not ever get there.

She said the professionals who took the course would be willing to speak at various youth groups at the Y or a church, but only if the entire scope of the course could be included, in a series of sessions. The course is too comprehensive to teach in one meeting, she said.

Information on birth control, venereal disease and other aspects of sex education have been available for some time at the health district, located in the old American Legion building in Twin Falls. Mrs. Jacobson said depending on circumstances at the health department was authorized by the state legislature several years ago.

Stocks at midday

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market opened mixed Thursday in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow Jones industrial average was off 0.70 point to 950.65 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines, 228 to 176, among the 983 issues crossing the tape.

Most analysts have not been surprised at the profit taking of the past two sessions. Many traders are nailing down the gains they made during the first three weeks of the new year.

Many veteran observers felt the pullback would be healthy for the market in the long run. Most do not anticipate a cover-up or prolonged slide.

Some of Wednesday's selling was attributed to news that Congress had passed President Ford a major defeat when the Senate voted to override his veto of a $4 billion health, welfare and labor bill.

Analysts said that vote was a blow to the administration's attempts to curb spending and prevent inflation.

Trading in most remained strong. Some improved earnings reports, dividend increases and the lower interest rates have provided the investor incentives.

Humane Society supports bill

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls County Humane Society are urging support for a bill introduced by Rep. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., for humane treatment of animals while being transported.

The U.S. Congress bill also makes it a federal offense to engage in dog fighting when animals have been moved in interstate commerce.

The bill, H.R. 5808, was introduced by Foley as chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

Chairman Foley said the bill will probably reach the House floor for action sometime in February. He said 89 other members of the House have joined him as co-sponsors of the bill.

The bill would authorize the secretary of agriculture to issue regulations providing no interstate shipment of dogs and cats and other animals less than 8 weeks old, or such other age as the secretary shall set, and providing humane treatment of animals by carriers and intermediate handler. It requires suitable containers, feed, water, rest and ventilation for all animals being transported. The new law would pertain to all types of conveyance, including aircraft.

He said the other portion of the bill results from widespread complaints about dogs fighting in various parts of the country with money bet on the fight. Usually the fights continue until one or both of the animals dies, he said. The new bill provides a $5,000 fine and one year imprisonment for those convicted of violations of the pit fighting portion of the law.

Fines of $1,000 are provided for violations of the transportation portion of the law in civil matters and a $100 fine and one year in prison as a maximum criminal penalty.

Bobbi Glassman, Twin Falls Humane Society, has urged area residents to write their congressmen asking their support of H.R. 5808.

Rich man's collection auctioned

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Guardians of the estate of the late eccentric millionaire L. B. Redfield led a dog released 197 bags containing 407,596 uncut silver dollars to a coin wholesaler who bid $7.3 million at an auction.

District Judge John Gabrielli approved the sale to Steve Markoff of Los Angeles, who until early this month had the inside track to buy the collection for $5.9 million.

Markoff Tuesday topped the final bid of $7.2 million submitted by James Ruddy, Los Angeles coin auctioneer who was bidding blind since, under a court order, Markoff was the only bidder who knew the exact contents. Markoff had seen an inventory which listed date of manufacture and the mint mark of the coins, many of which had been hoarded in Redfield's fieldstone house. After his death, bags of coins were found buried in his garage and stored behind false walls.

Markoff originally had been approved as the buyer in a contract negotiated after estate attorneys told Gabrielli the estate was in need of cash to offset estate tax interest. Markoff bid $5.9 million and was to have taken possession of the coins Jan. 19. But Gabrielli voided his approval of that sale when a Ruddy representative deposited a check for $6.5 million, and the judge ordered the auction.

However, the judge said neither Markoff nor the estate could disclose quantities, mint marks and dates of the collection coins. To do so, he said, would lower their value on the market. A Markoff attorney said it was the first time in the coin collecting world such a hoard of coins came on the market at once.

HUMMINGBIRD, made from tying long slim balloons into unique shape, is shown here by Mr. Penguin, Joseph Hughes, Portland, Ore. He is currently visiting Twin Falls schools, kindergarten and hospitals.

Talented 'penguin'

'Mr. Penguin' — balloon man

TWIN FALLS — Mr. Penguin, who is also known as Joseph W. Hughes, Portland, Ore., is entertaining elementary school students in Twin Falls this week. He appeared at Glickett school

Wednesday morning, at the Children's Village and Magie Valley Memorial Hospital pediatric ward.

Today his schedule included Donna Maudlin's kindergarten, Lincoln School,

Head Start and the Harrison school.

Friday he will visit Immanuel Lutheran, Episcopal church school, Morningstar and Sawtooth schools. Mr. Penguin, sponsored by the Grizzly Bear Pizza, also appears each night from 5:30 to 9 p.m. in the pizza restaurant.

His entertainment consists of tying long thin balloons into Disney type animals such as dogs, ducks, humming birds, tumble bees or from a short thin balloon, an apple.

Mr. Penguin says he uses 100,000 balloons a year in his shows and just in meeting people in the towns where he works.

"This is a lifetime dream," he said. "I have always wanted to spend my time entertaining children and adults and with the help of a sponsor can travel throughout the country doing what I enjoy most."

His balloon magic is accompanied by stories for each animal or article he fashions in a matter of a few seconds. He will be in Twin Falls through Friday night. Several hundred youngsters will have balloon animals and unique characters as a result of his visit.

Albertson's blamed

TWIN FALLS — A woman who slipped on a cupcake wrapper in front of Albertson's store in Twin Falls is suing more than $500,000 in damages from the store.

A complaint filed by Larry and Dorothy Tommerup, Twin Falls, has brought action against the store, charging Mrs. Tommerup fell on the wrapper and suffered a bone fracture of her foot. She charges the store was negligent in letting the cupcake wrapper and other debris collect in front of the store.

The incident occurred Sept. 11, 1977, the complaint states.

Pininfitts charge they received a letter from the Albertson firm stating the firm would cover medical expenses in connection with the accident.

Mrs. Tommerup said part of the expenses were paid, but when she presented another bill in November 1975, Albertson's officials said statutory time has run out and they will pay no further costs.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommerup ask $10,000 in past and future medical costs, $125,000 for fraudulent conduct by the defendant, $100,000 general damages and $250,000 punitive damages.

Bankruptcy deadline nears for creditors

TWIN FALLS — A Feb. 25 deadline has been set for creditors of Keith Lee Harrell, Twin Falls, to object to an assignment of assets under bankruptcy proceedings.

Bankruptcy Judge for Idaho, H. S. Young, Boise, said creditors are being notified of the deadline in the proceedings has assigned assets on behalf of creditors and, unless there are objections to the accounting filed by Feb. 25, the assets will be distributed and the bankruptcy closed.

Creditors may file objections to the accounting, object to the discharge of the debtor or file complaints to determine the dischargeability of a particular debt prior to Feb. 25 with the Bankruptcy Court, Box 2755, Boise.

Total assets divided among creditors amount to $2,705. Of that amount, the Internal Revenue Service was awarded $890.10; the Idaho Tax Commission, $127.65, and the Twin Falls County Treasurer, $36.20. The remainder has been divided among other creditors.

Commission approves bear trapping plan

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Fish and Game Commission approved a plan today to trap bears from north Idaho and move them to other parts of the state to protect elk calves from predatory bears.

The department will begin trapping bears in May this year on the northside of Cool Water Ridge of the Lost Lake drainage.

Traps will be set for 10 to 15 bears. The first nine bears will be marked and released. Other bears will be captured and removed from the study area where there has been a problem with bears killing the elk calves.

The bears will be immobilized with tranquilizers and taken to Fenn, Idaho, then trucked to other release sites in Idaho.

FDA recalls X-ray machines, chilies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration Wednesday announced the recall of nearly 2,000 dental X-ray machines and more than 7,800 cases of canned chilies but reversed itself on the X-ray recall of television sets in history.

In a series of separate actions, the FDA said more than 1 million Zenith color TV sets will not have to be repaired because the radiation hazard originally suspected has turned out to be negligible.

The FDA ordered the repairs in October but since then Zenith turned over more than 500 pages of data which convinced the FDA the sets do not "constitute a significant risk of injury."

The problem involved a capacitor which could fail over a period of time, and emit some radiation, the FDA said. But even if that happens, it said, the radiation leakage is "quite small" and the danger to consumers is "minimal."

The agency said that "after thorough and extensive review" of the data it is "satisfied that the sets are not hazardous."

The dental X-ray machines were identified as 1,065 GE-100, and 909 GE Panelise dental machines, manufactured and recalled by General Electric Co., Medical Systems Division, Milwaukee.

The agency said "unnecessary radiation exposure" was the reason for the recall and the units were expected to be repaired by August of this year.

The chili recall involved "white, roasted and peeled green chilies" distributed under three brands — "Panchito's of Texas, El Molino and Little Panchito" — and "whole roasted and peeled Jalapeno Peppers" distributed under the "Little Panchito" and "El Rio Mexican Style Foods" brands.

The FDA said the recall is being conducted by the manufacturer, Ashley's Inc., El Paso, Tex.

"The FDA said the products were being recalled because 'failure to control acidity in the canning process ... may pose a potential for bacterial growth.'"

The chilies were distributed nationwide while the jalapenos were distributed only in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Utah and Pennsylvania.

Floods plague Yankees

By United Press International
Rain, snow and ice jams combined with a January thaw in the Northeast are expected to produce rampaging rivers and streams that drove hundreds of persons from their homes.

Floodwaters also closed scores of highways and secondary roads from the Middle Atlantic states to Maine, delayed trains and tractors, closed schools and racetracks and resulted in widespread property damage.

At least six highway deaths were blamed on the weather as rivers swelled and overflowed from New Hampshire and Vermont to New Jersey and New York.

At least 100 deaths were reported in New England, two in Connecticut and one in Massachusetts.

"I could have slid to work instead of driving," said Margaret L. Brassey, a secretary who works in Londonderry, Mass. "It's a dreary day—I wanted to stay in bed."

"However," counter temperatures slowed the runoff in eastern New York where flood waters and streams receded late Wednesday.

But floods drove about 300 persons from a senior citizen housing project and mobile home parks in Bratleboro, Vt. Thirty others fled to higher ground from homes in Arlington, Vt.

Residents also had to be evacuated from a mobile home park in Pittstown, N.Y., and from homes in Catskill, Center Falls, Ulster and Saugerties, N.Y. A number of families also were driven out by high waters along the Schuylkill and Lehigh rivers in eastern Pennsylvania.

In Malden, Mass., Beebe Junior High School was closed because of basement flooding, and "thousands" of students in Narragansett, R.I., and Massachusetts' Suffolk Downs were forced to cancel the day's activities.

Two trainloads of Amtrak passengers were delayed in Vermont when the Connecticut River washed out the Boston and Maine Railroad tracks.

The Delaware River carried away water at a near-record pace today, threatening to cut the throat of flooding from heavy rains and melting ice. At Trenton, N.J., the swollen river carried ice chunks and debris seaward at the rate of 600 feet per minute. Ice jammed up tree trunks, boat docks, oil drums and natural gas tanks from cabins and cottages along the shore.

Bennett, Lava deer hunts closed by F&G commission

BOISE (UPI) — Fish and Game commissioners Wednesday changed recommendations from the state department for big game hunt openings and made an across the board midweek opening for general deer and elk seasons.

The commissioners changed the dates so the general deer and elk seasons begin on the second and fourth Wednesdays of September and October — Sept. 15 and 29, Oct. 13 and 27.

Last year the commission tried midweek openings as an experiment. The reaction they received was favorable enough they decided to use midweek openings for general deer and elk seasons.

In setting hunting seasons, the commissioners closed units 45, Bennett Mountain, and 52, Lava, to deer hunting but made no decision on unit 44, Camas, for either deer or elk. They asked for more information on herds in that area and at the May meeting will make a decision on units for that unit.

Units 1-A, Crooked Creek, and 63A, the atomic energy site, were closed to mountain lion hunting. Opening dates for controlled antelope hunts No. 436, 437-1, 437-2 and 437-A were moved back from the department's recommendation of Sept. 18 to Sept. 25.

They approved a late hunt for elk in unit 8-A, Pollatch, for archers.

In unit 51, the Little Lost River, the department recommended consolidating the two hunts in that unit but the commission, stuck with the two hunts as were listed in the 1975 regulations.

A mountain goat archery hunt in unit 51 was closed but a new archery hunt was opened in unit 30-A, Hawley Creek.

The department recommended dividing unit 12, Lochsa, and allowing a muzzle load hunt for deer and elk but the commission turned down both of those recommendations.

Also, there will be no early hunt in unit 12, so both deer and elk hunting will open Sept. 29.

Commissioners promised the muzzle loaders consideration on a new hunt to replace the one lost in unit 12 but put off a decision until the May meeting on a location for that hunt.

The commission did not reach a decision on how to make more equitable the controlled hunt drawings so some hunters do not draw more than one permit in the same year.

They left open the possibility that would be changed next year but they wanted more time to discuss the situation with sportsmen and wildlife clubs. For this year, they will not change the system.

Williams Lake ice fishery maintained

BOISE (UPI) — The State Fish and Game Commission agreed to leave the fishing season open at Williams Lake until the scheduled closure in February despite a petition from property owners in the area who are disturbed about vandalism.

The commissioners Wednesday agreed to discuss closing the winter fishing season for Williams Lake when they set the regular fishing seasons in the fall.

Department officials said the fishing is not hurting the fish population of the lake and showed figures that the lake is a popular fishing spot, used mainly by Salmon area residents.

The petition from Williams Lake property owners complained about damage to private property from vandalism because the lake has been kept open for winter fishing and accused the department of opening the winter fishing season there to get money from license sales.

The commission approved a plan to trap bears from the Lochsa drainage of north Idaho and transfer them to other areas of the state in a program to protect elk calves from predatory bears.

The department will set 10 to 15 traps in May this year on the north side of Cool Water Ridge. The first nine bears will be marked and released. They will trap as many bears as possible with all but the first nine removed from the area where there has been a problem with bears killing elk calves.

The bears will be immobilized with tranquilizers and taken to Fenn, Idaho, then trucked to other release sites in Idaho. The Fish and Game Commission will negotiate with the U. S. Forest Service to determine where the bears will be released.

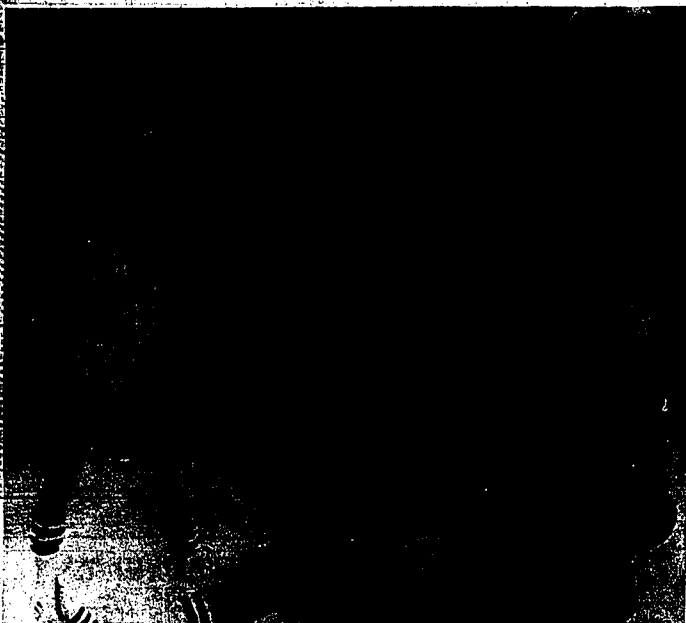

The department for three years has been studying elk calf survival in the Lochsa area and for 10 years has studied habitat in the drainage.

During 1977, calves will be captured with radio collars attached to evaluate changes in the situation brought on by the removal of the bears, to see if there is an increase in the calf population.

Burt Trueblood, a Homedale farmer, suggested the commission work on project to enhance farmland pleasant habitat. He did not specify any particular area of the state for the project.

Commissioners said they favored the project but needed specific plans before approving it. They asked for a plan to start a pilot project, outlining how the department should be involved in it, and said they would discuss it further at the May meeting.

The plan will be put together by Trueblood, the Soil Conservation Service, Wildlife Federation, Fish and Game Department and interested farmers.

Judge concludes reserve clause hearing

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Attorneys for major league baseball's owners say the Players' Association's desire to exclude the reserve system from the 1970 and 1973 working agreements was instrumental in the owners allowing a grievance procedure in the contracts.

The grievance procedure was a difficult problem for us," said Louis Hoynes, attorney for the National League. "One of the aspects that made it possible for us to come to an agreement on the grievance proposal of the association was that we had approved an article which took the reserve system outside the basic agreement."

Hoynes was the final witness in a hearing on the owners' suit challenging the authority of arbitrator Peter Seltz to declare invalid the reserve clause. Final arguments were made Wednesday in U.S. District Judge John W. Oliver said a decision would be rendered shortly next week.

Hoynes said during negotiating sessions leading to the 1970 working agreement, Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players' Association, agreed to deal with the reserve system under "house rules" if it was excluded from the contract.

"He went on further to say no grievances would be brought over the reserve system," said Hoynes. "Thus the concerns we had expressed about enforcing the reserve rules under the exclusion were put to rest."

Messersmith and McNally have attacked what the owners term "the guts" of the reserve system. They argued, and Seltz upheld, that they played last year without signing a contract, thus blowing out their option and becoming free agents. The owners argue they have perpetual control over contracts.

Harry Thomson, who presented the case for the owners, said in closing arguments the reserve system was excluded from the grievance procedures, which include the use of an arbitrator.

"Everything dealing with the reserve system was excluded," said Thomson. "Exclusion means exclusion."

Richard Moss, attorney for the M.L.B.A., said the only items excluded from the grievance process were those mentioned in the grievance provision of the contract — the players benefit plan and dues checkoff.

"The clubs, during their testimony did not offer any evidence to show the negotiation of Article 10 (the grievance section) of the collective bargaining agreement excluded anything other than what was listed," Moss said in closing arguments.

Palmer hopes to end 3-year victory drought

HONOLULU (UPI) — Old gallery favorite Arnold Palmer, hoping to catch lightning in a bottle one of these days soon, takes on golf's newest crop of "Young Turks" starting Thursday in the $230,000 Hawaiian Open, a tournament Arnie almost won a year ago.

It's been nearly three years to the week since Palmer won his last tournament — the 1973 Bob Hope Desert Classic, an event he has dominated over the years with five victories. Palmer has won a couple of foreign tournaments since the Hope but they don't mean that much to him.

He came out three weeks ago to help launch the 1976 PGA tour with the Tucson Open but embarrassingly failed to make the cut. This, though, is a new week and a different tournament. Palmer has won here before and his game in many ways is suited to Waialeale's wide fairways and big greens.

Palmer was on the verge of winning last year's Hawaiian Open until the rain struck. He was tied for the lead with young Gary Grob and Al Gelfinger after nine holes of the final round when they came to the closing holes, Gary, playing the 16th, and Arnold, playing the 17th, were tied for the lead with Gelfinger one back. But Palmer bogied the 17th when he missed the green while Grob, birdied the 18th to win it. Moments later, Gelfinger also birdied the 18th to grab second place as poor Palmer went up third.

"I can't remember a time I have been more disappointed than that," Palmer said of last year's finish.

Among those Palmer will be battling this week are Grob, British Open champ Tom Watson and Ben Crenshaw, the young Texan who came from out of the pack last Sunday at Pebble Beach to win the Crosby-National Pro-Am. Off that victory, Crenshaw is the red-hot favorite here, and he feels he can win again this week.

"I believe in strings," said the 23-year-old Crenshaw who snipped a two and one-half year slump in winning the Crosby. "I was fortunate to win last week and I have my work cut out for me here, but the way I am putting now, I just might win again."

Watson, who has earned $16.165 thus far this year with good finishes in three events, loves the Waialeale course, especially the greens. He feels he is on the verge of winning a tournament because of his consistent play thus far at Tucson, Phoenix and Pebble Beach.

"The greens here are among the best I've ever played on," said Watson, "and the way I am putting I hope to make a run for the title."

Grob, naturally, is happy to be back here. When he won the 1975 Hawaiian it marked his first victory. Also, it's his only victory to date.

"It's good to be back," Grob said. "I feel like I'm among friends here in Hawaii."

Among the missing are Jack Nicklaus, who skied to an 82 in the final round of the Crosby, and Johnny Miller, the Tucson winner. Nicklaus is in Japan on business while Miller is resting at home in Naples, Calif.

While rain forced a one-day delay in last year's tournament, the weather forecast for the next four days is promising — scattered showers, mild breezes and a temperature in the mid 60s.

Out of job?

Namath's desire to leave Jets might be accommodated if he doesn't keep mum

NEW YORK (UPI) — If Joe Namath keeps talking long enough, he may talk himself right out of the New York Jets.

Namath, with another year to go on a two-year contract calling for $450,000 annually, has said he would welcome a deal sending him to the Los Angeles Rams and his comments were heard by Phil Iselein, the Jets' chairman of the board.

Iselein said Wednesday the Jets would like to have Namath with them next season, but they do not want him if he'll be unhappy and if he wishes to go to the Rams, then maybe something can be worked out.

"We'd like to have him stay, naturally, but if he keeps insisting he wants to go somewhere else, we might accommodate him," said Iselein.

He has said nothing to us about wanting to leave. He still has another year with us under his contract, but all I keep hearing is how he wants to go somewhere else.

"Well, as I said, we'd like to have him, but if he keeps talking about going to another team, we don't want anybody with us who'll be unhappy."

Iselein, president and chairman of Monmouth Race Track, made his remarks at the Thoroughbred Racing Association's Eclipse Awards luncheon honoring John A. Morris as the TRA Man of the Year, Braulio Barea as the Jockey of the Year and 19-year-old Jimmy Edwards as the Apprentice Jockey of the Year.

QUARTERBACK Joe Namath, shown here warming up for the sport-casualty tourna-ment, may get his wish if he keeps talking about leaving the New York Jets. Namath has said he'd like to be traded to the Los Angeles Rams. (UPI telephoto) with Al Woodall and J.J. Jones as their remaining quarterbacks.

It is known that Iselein would be willing to sit down with Rams' owner Carroll Rosenbloom and talk about a deal involving Namath.

Namath, originally paid $400,000 by Sonny Werblin to join the Jets, is the highest paid football player and is generally credited, for being instrumental in establishing the American Football League as a credible competitor to the older National Football League.

The colorful native of Beaver Falls, Pa., is best remembered perhaps for leading the Jets to an upset Super Bowl victory over the Baltimore Colts in 1969.

Confidence is key to wins — Griffin

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The way Archie Griffin looks at winning, it's all in the heart. Griffin, two-time Heisman trophy winner, says he wanted to win the Heisman this year. So he set his sights on it and he won.

The Ohio State talkback says all you have to do is believe in yourself. "I wanted to win the Heisman again this year," said Griffin, who accepted the Maxwell Club Award Wednesday as the nation's outstanding college football player. Also honored at the club's banquet was Minnesota Vikings quarterback Fran Tarkenton.

"You want to feel that even if you're not better, you're at least as good as you were."

The 5-foot-8 senior said he expects to play pro ball.

"I don't think size has anything to do with it," he said. "It's the heart. I heard the size thing in high school. It takes a gruffie. They told me in high school I was too small to play in college."

"I had a guidance counselor in high school who passed away and he always talked about desire, dedication and determination. I always keep that in mind."

"I don't really have a preference as to where to play. I just want to go to a team that drafts me. Without the draft, a lot of people would be left out."

Griffin said he also has patience. "I'm not saying I expect to start right away because I realize you have to learn the systems to play professional football." When asked about the conservative system used by his coach, Woody Hayes, Griffin countered: "I don't know that you can call it outdated, he's winning. I think a lot of Coach Hayes. I think he's a great coach. Ask the players who played for him who are on the inside of his program, and you'll get a different picture of him."

"When you say he can't win the big game, what are you talking about? The Rose Bowl. Don't forget, we won the year before."

UCLA soundly defeated the Buckeyes New Year's Day, crushing a third chance for a national championship.

TF hosts Idaho Falls and Caldwell, Minico invades Highland tonight

Twin Falls and Minico, Magic Valley's two entries in the tough Southern Idaho Conference, go against the upper crust this weekend.

The SIC games are part of 23 that will be played in Magic Valley.

Minico opens the weekend by traveling to Highland Thursday night. The Rams just dropped a one-point decision to Idaho Falls and could still be a little sore.

The Spartans will be facing perhaps their biggest height disadvantage of the year since Highland stands 6-9 and 6-6 with underclassmen — an element.

Meanwhile, Twin Falls is regarded on the eastern portion of the state to be the best team in Idaho. The Tigers have been pressed only once — last one-point victory over Highland in Pocatello last week.

Coach Les Roh has perhaps the best overall height, running from 6-1 to 6-8 in the starting lineup. Not the least of those in Reed Jussi, a 6-4 guard.

Caldwell has shown a tendency toward deliberate basketball in an effort to get back on the winning tradition. Just a couple of years ago, since the Cougars are leaving before Twin Falls fans will see Caldwell team here again.

The Cougars also offers a couple of key games in area conference races. Friday night could be last call for the Caldwell Wolves who will be battling Ratt River. The Wolves are topped Tuesday. Caldwell fell a game behind Ratt River in the Magic Valley conference. Another loss could be fatal. Should Ratt River lose to Caldwell, the Wolves at Caldwell by three — the race would start anew.

Saturday night Glenns Ferry and Kimberly, sharing the Little Five League lead, will be competing for the high ground. The Wolves at Kimberly will be at Kimberly. The Cougars will be at Glenns Ferry.

In other Friday action, they will be at Jerome for an intra-county matchup. The Cougars hope to repeat an early season surprise when it goes to Wood River. The Wolverines' 6-6 center Randy Linderman should be getting back to good health again, a fact that won't hurt the struggling Wolverines.

Glenns Ferry steps out of the league to play at Filer, which saw an early January happy situation fade on the heels of three straight losses.

Burley re-enters the EIC race to entertain Madison with the Bobcats hoping to reverse an earlier road setback.

On the Northside, Richfield will be at Bliss while Carey entertains District, with a new Coach Ken Meservey. Gooding State will be at Fairfield to test pace-setting Camas County. Saturday finds Caldwell at Twin Falls, and Borah at Minico.

Buhl, leading the SIC, opens the second half of the loop slate by invading Gooding. Wood River will be at Filer.

The Northside, Richfield will be at Bliss while Carey entertains District, with a new Coach Ken Meservey. Gooding State will be at Fairfield to test

Burley remains home to Rigby in another EIC affair. One of the top contenders in the Northside race is going to get a setback when Carey visits Richfield. Bliss will be at Delirich in the other game.

Another non-league battle will find Declo at Valley.

Montreal will stage Olympics on schedule

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Quebec minister in charge of the 1976 Summer Olympics said Wednesday the main Olympic stadium will be fully completed but Montreal will go ahead with plans to stage the games as scheduled July 17.

Quebec Minister Affairs Minister Victor Goldbloom, the head of the Olympic Installations Board, said he will give "an optimistic progress report to the International Olympic Committee at its meeting this weekend in Innsbruck, Austria."

The report was prepared by a team of consultants hired mainly to detail construction progress on the Olympic Stadium and to chart a new "critical path" for completion of minimum facilities.

"As we leave for Austria," Goldbloom told newsmen, "I am able to state that as long as we have the continuing cooperation of all concerned — and this is a vital point — we will be able to provide a stadium and swimming pools that will be ready for the games."

"I have said that the stadium will be ready, I have indicated that it will be complete."

"For in these last 10 weeks it has been clear that it would not be completed. But it will be sufficiently ready for the holding of the games. We shall complete it afterwards."

Goldbloom would not specify which parts of the stadium and the swimming pool complex would not be completed, apart from seats. There were reports that plans called for portable restrooms and dressing rooms for athletes and the public at the stadium.

"In what respect the stadium will not be completed — this is exactly the kind of detail that I am obliged to keep for the IOC," the minister said.

"There will be facilities that will be adequate for the athletes, for the team officials and for the public."

Goldbloom said the minimum capacity required for the games was between 55,000 and 70,000. He said the permanent capacity for the main stadium is now expected to be between 50,000 and 55,000.

"It was forecast from the beginning that there would be 15,000 to 20,000 temporary seats," he said. "There may be somewhat more than that when the stadium opens for the Olympics."

The minister said also he could give no up-to-date figure for the cost of hosting the games, beyond the $1 billion-plus price tag which was announced earlier this year.

"We don't have any over-all global figure, the previous figure may change, I cannot say that it won't, but we are trying to keep the costs down as much as we can."

Goldbloom said he was confident the IOC would give Montreal the go-ahead for the games. He was to meet with the IOC executive Saturday and with the full committee Monday in Innsbruck.

"I am optimistic about the meeting with the IOC," he said, "because I am optimistic the stadium and other facilities will be ready by the July 17 opening date."

The OIB chief noted he has been in weekly contact with IOC President Lord Killanin since the Olympic Installations Board was set up 10 weeks ago and he has been fully briefed on progress at the games site.

While the minister repeatedly emphasized that the Olympics can open as scheduled July 17, he has also stressed the cooperation of all concerned, he said he did not expect any further labor strife.

Goldbloom said OIB members have had daily contacts with labor representatives on the Olympics site and "we have nothing but full compliments for them."

"If anybody tried to get the men to interrupt their work I would think their response should be, 'Our pride is involved in getting this completed.'"

"Labor strife, construction costs, inflation and technical problems have plagued the Olympics since Montreal was awarded the right to host the 16-day sports spectacular in August in 1976."

The Quebec government stepped in and set up the OIB last fall when it became obvious "the city of Montreal could not cope with the mounting financial and construction problems."

The OIB was charged with reviewing contracts awarded by the administration of Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau, in aid contractors running out of city funds and to cut "trills" from facilities.

When the OIB took over last November, Drapeau's administration had awarded $80 million in Olympic contracts. That was more than triple the $25 million proposed budget in 1974 when Drapeau still spoke of the entire Olympics being self-financing.

The Olympic organizing committee's own budget, including the Olympic Village to house the more than 12,000 athletes and officials, has also more than tripled from $50 million to about $200 million.

Total direct costs will bring spending to more than $1 billion, revenue from such financing schemes as the sale of Olympic coins and stamps, various lotteries and broadcast rights is forecast at about $425 million, leaving an overall deficit of about $600 million.

Costs of the centrepiece stadium were estimated originally at about $100 million, but soaring construction costs and inflation have pushed that figure beyond $264 million.

Boise State sets home games with Big Sky-leading teams

BOISE, Idaho — The two top-ranked basketball teams in the Big Sky Conference, Northern Arizona and Weber State, came into Boise Saturday weekend to meet the Broncos. Boise State hosts NAU-Friday and Weber-State-Saturday.

The Big Sky games will begin at 8 p.m. in the Bronco Gym. Both visiting teams have 22 league games while Boise State is 2-2 in Big Sky action.

The Broncos are now 9-7 for the year and suffered their second loss in the league Saturday night, 80-74 at the hands of the Idaho State Bengals in Pocatello. That same night Weber State was defeating Northern Arizona in Ogden by a 95-73 score.

Raymond Tsingine 13.5 ppg and 9.4 rbs). The wingmen will be 6-7 sophomore Mark Gosswiller (7.8 ppg and 9.4 rbs). The wingmen will be 6-7 sophomore Mark Gosswiller (7.8 ppg and 9.4 rbs) and 6-6 freshman Wendell King (6.6 ppg and 6.6 rbs).

The Weber State Wildcats carry a 12-6 season mark into their Friday night game with Idaho State. Even though Weber State holds a 10-3 series lead over Boise State, the Broncos have beaten Weber State in their last three meetings. Last year, BSU beat Weber State 81-76 in Boise and 80-76 in Ogden.

WSC's 6-8 center Al DeWitt, who suffered a broken hand a week ago, will not see action on this road trip, but the block has been taken up by 6-9 Junior Jim Erickson (6.9 ppg and 5.2 rbs). He scored 21 recently against Utah State and 16 in the Wildcat's win over Northern Arizona Saturday. DeWitt may have the cast off his left hand in 10 days.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JANUARY 30, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An important day to wind up whatever has been started—and to refrain from beginning anything new which can be done tomorrow. Clear up kinks in any plans. Get a good night's rest. You really need it.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good pal can assist with any and all tasks, then you can get into some new project with enthusiasm. Forget the social in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Apply yourself and straighten out perplexing problems. Pay pressing bill. Be economical where pressure is concerned.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Clear up responsibilities, chores before dashing into intriguing new outlet. A new contact could steer you wrong; be on guard.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use judgment about new ideas to avoid grave errors. Show more understanding for mate who may not be feeling well.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Please associates more and come to a far better understanding. Avoid one who opposes you. Keep out of any personal troubles.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) You have important work so forget recreation until tomorrow when the planets are more favorable for such. Help younger one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get rid of points of tension at home which may be getting out of hand. Later, handle business affairs briskly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Care in driving avoids trouble and expense. In communicating with others, be on the peaceful side. Guard temper.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 30) Don't be dismayed if temporarily out of cash, but consider your overall position, which is good. Find helpful new outlet.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 31 to Feb. 19) Take the right kind of exercise and treatments to make you feel less again and stop worrying about money.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You feel limited and want to lash out at others, but consider your overall position, which is good. Find helpful new outlet.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will want to solve problems by getting right at the root of them, so encourage this. Give as fine an education as possible so your progeny will become a boon to humanity upon reaching maturity. Do not neglect religious training early and give an opportunity to participate in sports. Build up the body here as well as the ego.

The Stars Impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

The word "hesokuri" in Japanese means "to hide in the novel." Hesokuri is what the Japanese girls call that same sort of cash referred to by American women as pin money. Was once the custom of those Oriental ladies to conceal such funds in the front of their waist sashes, that's why.

Client asks the population of Miami Beach. About 85,000 year-round-with maybe a million in the winter. It's widely known that Miami Beach attracts numerous retired citizens. But please note they go there to play, not to die. Miami Beach has no cemetery.

SOLAR HEATING

Q. "What's come Woody Allen's real name?"
A. He was born Allen Stewart Konigsberg. Just 40 years ago. His dad engraved jewelry in Brooklyn.

Q. "How many states will give you a tax write-off if you put in a home solar heating system?"
A. Eight. Montana, Maryland, North Dakota, New Hampshire, Colorado, South Dakota, Illinois and Oregon.

Q. "With what kind of animal is the male known as a boomer end the female a filer?"
A. They're synonymous with buck and doe for kangaroo.

A musician has to be capable of blowing breath at hurricane velocity to play the flutes, realize that?

SQUIRRELS

Why squirrels like the taste of lead-covered cable I don't know. But they do. A lot of them get electrocuted when they gnaw through same. A lot of telephones are knocked out, too, because of that.

The tale is told that a hotel cashier once shot himself to death, leaving a note to say he thought he had lost his mind because he had been unable one night to tally up a consistent total of the day's cash no matter how many times he tried. The first count gave him $690. The second, $700. Again he again he counted, getting one of those figures alternately each time. In checking out the suicide, police made a count to find a bill was printed $10 on one side and $20 on the other. No-it wasn't counterfeit. It was an error on a real U.S. Treasury bill. The cashier had simply turned over the stamp with his habit with each recount, and the irreconcilable irregularity must be assumed, finally got to him.
