Panel marks Gem school funds

Marcos appeals for wealth sharing

MANILA, The Philippines (UPI) — President Ferdinand F. Marcos appealed to the world's rich nations today to share their wealth with the Third World or face the alternatives of "war or death."

Saying that the lines were drawn between the "threatened peninsula and the threatened continent," Marcos proposed that the 13-year-old U.N. Conference on Trade and Development be made into a body with bargaining and decision-making rights on a par with the International Monetary Fund to sustain Third World development.

BOISE (UPI) — After lengthy hassling and consideration of six separate motions, the legislative Joint Finance Appropriations Committee today recommended giving Idaho's public schools an increase of $1.5 million from the general fund for fiscal year 1977 over the previous year.

Another $8.2 million was recommended in federal revenue sharing for the state's school districts if the money was available.

A vote finally came on the fifth option, although the committee had not yet voted. Approved was a recommendation that the legislature authorize $85 million from the general fund as the state's share in financing public schools. The vote to accept the motion, sponsored by Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, was 12-8.

Proposals offered the committee ranged from a low of $83.9 million, which was the amount recommended by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus in his budget address to the legislature to a high of $92.5 million.

Last year, the legislature appropriated $76.9 million from the general fund to the state's public schools. The State Board of Education had requested that this session give $81 million in public school support.

Sen. E. V. McCallum, R-Ketchikan, argued that actually the committee adopted the higher figure being considered it would only amount to about a $2 million increase.

His contention was that the impact on local school districts last year was reduced approximately $7 million because the legislature gave that amount in tax relief at the local level when it reduced the mill levy from eight to four mills with use of surplus funds.

Meantime, the House Revenue and Taxation Committee introduced two bills to reduce the low-to-four-mills-the-fineer reduction for fiscal 1977 with $6.8 million in general fund surplus. The other, effective in fiscal 1978, finances it directly out of state sales and use tax revenues.

Sen. J. Wilson Steen, R-Idaho Falls, warned the committee that if the legislature approved proposals for the school aid would mean a tax increase at the local level.

But Sen. Dick Egbert, D-Tonia, said the amount appropriated for schools was "the only tax relief the school districts ever have."

"Whatever doesn't come out of the foundation program has to be made up at the local level,"

Egbert said.

Sen. Larry Jackson, R-Boise, said he was "amazed at the big brother act" on the school appropriations. He said it was the responsibility of the school districts to use their money wisely.

"If they get into trouble later on it's their problem," he said.

Later Jackson toned down his remarks, saying the school districts had "more than their responsibility as we have."

He said they had "the same responsibility" to balance their budgets as the legislature had to balance the state budget.

Jackson also said he didn't want to inhibit school district use of revenue sharing and proposed a general fund recommendation of $85 million with $8.2 million in revenue sharing.

New drive elited

NEW YORK (UPI) — Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said here Sunday Lebanon may be drawn deeper into the Arab-Israeli conflict if it attempts to "Islamize" that nation.

Rabin said Lebanon is the only Arab nation that does not have Islam as a state religion because of the sizeable number of Christians among its population.

Rabies menaces TF boy

TWIN FALLS — Unless the owner of a large black dog which bit a paper boy Friday night can be located, the 12-year-old boy will have to begin a series of rabies shots.

Ty Empey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Empey, Twin Falls, was attacked by three large dogs as he was collecting his Times-News route on Madison Street Friday night.

His mother said the bites were not serious, but five broke the skin and her son received another three or four bruises, all on his legs.

His physician said rabies shots will have to be started Tuesday or Wednesday at the latest unless it can be determined the dogs have had rabies shots. If the bites had been on the boy's face, the shots would have to have been started Saturday, as the closer the wound is to the head the sooner the shots must begin. It cannot be determined that the dogs have received vaccine, the physician told Mrs. Empey.

Mrs. Empey said her son was not positive that all three of the dogs bit him, but knew at least two did. Two of the animals were black and one was grey and the three were running in a pack down Madison Street.

Sunday the Empeys found the grey dog, a Norwegian elkhound, and said they called the dog together at about 7:30 a.m. Dennis Cannon, animal control officer, said when he came on duty at noon Sunday he answered the call then and had considerable difficulty capturing the animal. But it finally was taken to the dog pound where it is being held for observation.

According to Keith Seville, senior animal control officer for the city, dogs are kept for observation for 10 days unless the veterinarian decides they can be released to the owner.

Mrs. Empey said she and her son rode around the area Sunday and also found where one of the black dogs lived and learned that this animal has had rabies vaccine.

The police officer who owner's identity will mean the difference between the Empey boy having to receive the painful rabies shots or not, is described as a black hunting dog of medium length hair. Mrs. Empey said her son said the animal was not a Labrador.

Anyone with information about the dog may call the Empeys, the police humane officer or the Times-News.

Garment workers' strike headed off

NEW YORK (UPI) — The International Ladies Garment Workers Union agreed early today on a new contract with clothing manufacturers and averted a strike by 55,000 workers in eight states.

A spokesman for the union said the agreement was reached about an hour before a 3 a.m. MST strike deadline and included wage increases of more than 20 per cent.

Newark teachers walk off job

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Teachers went on strike in the Newark public schools today, but a wind-swept snowstorm closed the schools and kept the 74,000 pupils home.

The 4,000-member Newark Teachers Union voted 9-1 Sunday night to strike over the lack of progress in contract negotiations with the Board of Education.

Explains stand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld said in a television interview Sunday the United States should spend enough on defense to keep a "rough equivalence" with the Soviet Union.

Does not mean spending a new dollar every time the Russians do, Rumsfeld was interviewed on CBS' "Face the Nation."

Anti-recession plan Rome erisks key

ROME (UPI) — Efforts to form an interim minority cabinet to end Italy's 72-day-old government crisis lined today on the contents of an emergency anti-recession program placed together by two economic experts.

Nino Andreatta of the Christian Democratic party and Michele Giannotta of the Socialist workers through the weekend on drafts of emergency economic measures to combat Italy's 7 per cent unemployment and 17 per cent inflation.

Portuguese ignore Red slowdown

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — A Communist appeal for a one-hour work stoppage today to protest a bombing campaign against the left drew little response from Portugal's workers.

In the capital, some factories and construction projects were affected by the walkout, but it was business as usual for most firms. Reports reaching Lisbon indicated a similar pattern was evident elsewhere in the nation.

Union allied with the Communist party organized the walkout to protest a wave of more than 100 bomb attacks against leftist targets in the past three months.

Boston fire destroys apartment block

BOSTON (UPI) — A raging five alarm fire of suspicious origin today destroyed a block-long, six-story business apartment complex.

Five firefighters sustained minor injuries and more than 150 persons were left homeless.

The converted "shoe factory" was destroyed with a loss estimated at more than $1 million.

HELPING HAND is extended through the railing of the George Washington Bridge in New York City Sunday to a man identified as Dorian Murphy, left. Moments later Murphy is seized by police and pulled to safety, right. He had climbed onto an abutment of the bridge after riding his bicycle from Washington, D.C., to New York and halfway across the bridge. Murphy threatened to jump 250 feet into the icy Hudson River for two hours before he was rescued. His bicycle fell into the river. (UPI)

Defense budget cutters eye missile update work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., of the Senate Appropriations Committee said today Congress may order a "modest slowdown" in aircraft and missile modernization in an effort to cut the defense budget.

McClellan, in a statement opening hearings to conduct a continuing review of the $10 billion fiscal 1977 military budget — the largest in history — "to determine if any programs can be feasibly reduced or eliminated and to make recommendations accordingly."

"This is the largest defense budget in the history of our nation — the previous high of $9.5 billion having been appropriated in fiscal year 1942 during the height of World War II," McClellan said in his opening statement.

"Yet, we are at peace and in an era of détente with our international rivals," he added. "The American people are asking for an explanation of this paradox — if we are at peace and in an era of détente, why must we carry the burden of the largest military budget in our two centuries of Independence."

The five target areas pinpointed by McClellan were the proposed increases of $8.1 billion for procurement; $6.24 billion for Navy shipbuilding; $1.4 billion for research and development; of $1.1 billion for operation and maintenance; and in personnel costs.

McClellan noted the budget would initiate procurement of five new aircraft systems — the F-15 fighter, the F-16 fighter, the U-28S helicopter, the Carrier-board delivery aircraft, and the C-135E helicopter.

"We may want to consider a modest slowdown in the rate of modernization in aircraft and missile procurement programs," McClellan said.

On Sunday, Rumsfeld said the United States should maintain a defense system roughly equivalent to Russia's, but it does not necessarily have to spend a new dollar on weapons every time the Soviet Union does.

Fast move seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said today the chances are "fairly" the Senate can act within 30 days to correct legal problems in the Federal Elections Commission but House action is questionable.

Mansfield said "there's hope in the Senate" for legislation reconstituting the membership of the FEC, which was found to be unconstitutional last Friday by the Supreme Court.

Mr. T-N says

If an Idaho rockhuck sees his shadow, does that mean six more weeks of winter?

Shadow hints

6 more weeks

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa. (UPI) — Punxsutawney Phil rubbed his sleep from his eyes, pulled his thick fur coat lightly around him and ventured forth from his groundhog burrow today.

— and by an icy blast of wind — and left little doubt there will be six more weeks of winter.

According to the legend, if the old groundhog sees his shadow, the country is in for six more weeks of the wintry weather. No shadow means an early spring.

But there was little doubt that winter was keeping its icy grip on the country. There were scattered clouds, which allowed Phil to see his shadow as the sun rose. The temperature was 10 degrees below zero and the wind chill factor made it 50 degrees below zero.

Marine chief defends corps' role

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reporting "the troops are looking good," Marine Corps Commandant Louis H. Wilson today defended the Marines' historic role as an amphibious assault force against assertions the corps' present military role is outdated.

"If we expect diplomatic efforts to be effective, we must maintain a capability to defend these interests whenever and wherever necessary," Gen. Wilson told the House Armed Services Committee in a 34-page prepared statement.

"The need for this capability in crisis management is fundamental."

A report by the Brookings Institution "Where does the Marine Corps go from here?" asserted the traditional role of amphibious assault was outdated and urged the Marine Corps to adapt to modern technological warfare.

Gen. Wilson promised the committee a report by March 31 re-examining Marine Corps force structure in relation to the needs of the 1980s. But he also disclosed he considered $41.9 million targeted for research and development to be a limited resource and "primarily for programs in support of our statutory development responsibility — i.e., landing force requirements for amphibious operations."

Wilson, nevertheless, reported the Corps is in good shape.

"Tens of thousands of today's Marines are as good or better than any who have ever worn the uniform: smarter, stronger, well-motivated and well-led."

"In a word, the troops are looking good," he said. "They are ready."

The Brookings report said the Marines were primarily an amphibious force and noted that the last opposed amphibious landing was at Inchon, Korea, in 1950.

Beirut schools reopen

BEIRUT, Feb. 2 (UPI) — Some schools, shops, factories and offices reopened today and Premier Rashid Karami said the government was "very satisfied" with the security situation since the Jan. 2 truce ending the Lebanese civil war.

Some schools were open for the first time in two years.

Karami, speaking after a cabinet meeting, said a program of political reform, essential to ensure peace, would be announced after a forthcoming visit to Syria by President Suleiman Franjeh.

No date for the visit was announced other than soon.

Karami said national reconciliation talks were reported for the first time this year. Most had not been in work since October, the last brief period of peace.

With the cease-fire holding in all areas, after a rash of violations during the weekend, some schools reopened for the first time since the summer holidays.

Of the 40 government schools in Beirut, 10 began classes today and about 30 per cent of all private schools reopened, a spokesman at the Ministry of Education said.

Teachers at other schools enrolled pupils and should begin classes by the end of the week, he said. The Ministry had a 90 per cent turnout of its own administrative staff of civil servants.

Factory hands and office workers reported for duty for the first time this year. Most had not been in work since October, the last brief period of peace.

The main industrial sector at Mkalles, in outer Beirut, remained idle as power lines to factories still had to be repaired.

Post office workers started digging into mountains of delayed mail and telegrams dated Dec. 19 and later, finally delivered.

Telephone callers, however, had no luck in raising operators at the international exchange to book calls to foreign countries although incoming calls were connected.

Karami called on all citizens to mobilize themselves in a "workshop of reconstruction" and announced that the 1976 National Budget would be announced by Presidential decree — instead of through Parliament — "to speed the return to normality."

Karami condemned the weekend violence that claimed nine dead and four wounded in attacks on two left-wing newspapers in suburban Beirut. The attack was carried out by members of the Salqa Palestinian guerrilla organization but Salqa officials said "undisciplined elements" were responsible.

Basques push for amnesty

MADRID, Spain — New antigovernment demonstrations have erupted in the restless Basque and Cantabria regions, where police fired rubber bullets, tear gas and smoke bombs to disperse thousands of protesters demanding political amnesty and democratic reforms.

The demonstrations Sunday came as Socialist Christian Democrats wound up a three-day congress in Madrid, the first open-political convention in 36 years.

In the Catalan capital of Barcelona, riot police fired rubber bullets and tear gas to disperse thousands of marchers. Some of the protesters set up small barricades and disrupted traffic.

Several thousand persons trying to demonstrate in the Basque city of San Sebastian stoned police who responded with smoke bombs and baton charges.

A half dozen demonstrators were reported hospitalized with slight injuries. Several policemen were also reported injured but there was no official confirmation.

Both street actions were called to back demands for democratic freedoms and an amnesty for some 1,250 persons still imprisoned for political offenses.

Juan Ajarlague, the president of the Basque Nationalist party, said in a speech to the Christian Democrats: "The recurrent regime is incapable of solving the Basque problem."

Storm buries Northeast states

By United Press International

A Groundhog's Day snow and ice storm, powered by 50 mile an hour winds, shackled ground and air traffic in the heavily populated Northeast Monday.

New York City's commuter and subway trains ran late. Thousands of morning rush hour motorists were stalled on ice-glazed highways. New York's Kennedy, LaGuardia and Newark airports were closed to both incoming and outgoing flights. The New York Stock Exchange had to delay its opening.

State offices closed in Albany, N.Y. Both the New York and New Jersey legislatures called off sessions. Courthouses closed in eastern Pennsylvania's Bucks and Montgomery counties.

Punxsutawney Phil, the weather-forecasting ground hog of Punxsutawney, Pa., poked his nose out of his burrow and was startled by both his shadow and an icy blast of wind.

According to legend, that means the country is in for six more weeks of winter weather.

The high winds tore down power lines throughout the East. In southeastern Pennsylvania alone, more than 14,000 "households" and businesses were left without power.

The Penn Central Railroad reported delays of 30 minutes to an hour on all main line trains between Washington and New York City. The New York-Thruway was closed from Spring Valley to Rochester, a 240-mile stretch. The mercury skidded 30 degrees in five hours in New York. A similar drop in temperatures turned rain-soaked New England roads into ribbons of ice. Hundreds of cars skidded off highways. Portlands of Interstate 91 in the Hartford, Conn. area were blocked in both directions by stalled vehicles; and one truck stalled.

Storm buries Northeast states

Another fast-moving storm dumped up to five inches of snow in the Kansas City, Mo., area. Heavy snow warnings were posted in northwest Missouri and western Iowa.

Ullman audit halted?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, allegedly received favored treatment in the Internal Revenue Service audit of his 1974 taxes. It was reported today.

Columnist Jack Anderson said the Oregon Democrat was marked for a full audit until he told the IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander.

"Once he spoke to Alexander about it, the audit was botched and Ullman's tax forms were pronounced satisfactory," Anderson wrote.

Ullman denied any intention to exert pressure, and said he had only mentioned the audit to Alexander in passing after calling the commissioner about an unrelated matter, Anderson added.

The Washington Post quoted three independent sources in the IRS as saying Alexander had personally intervened and expelled the audit.

Pressure then was brought by other IRS officials to "close the audit quickly without any adjustments," two sources said.

Question...
What is the difference between a Veteran's pension and Veteran's Compensation?

Answer...
Pensions may be paid to honorably discharged wartime veterans who are credited with 90 days or more service and are permanently and totally disabled for reasons not traceable to their service. This is a substitute or living allowance payable on the basis of need, when a veteran's income falls below a certain level. Compensation is payable to veterans who suffer from a disability incurred or aggravated by their service in line of duty. This is payable regardless of the veteran's income. Pensions and compensation also may be payable to surviving widows, children and parents who qualify to receive them. # Para-ski contest scheduled in SV

SUN VALLEY — The second annual Cuevo National Para-Ski Championships will be held at Sun Valley March 9-10. The events will be run at Elkhorn with ski runs on Dollar Mountain and parachuting at the base of Elkhorn's ski lifts. Contestants from the United States and Canada will compete for $5,000 in prize money and the titles of U.S. men's and women's national para-ski champions.

Para-skiing requires skill in accuracy parachuting and slalom skiing. The competitors make two jumps toward a three and a quarter-inch diameter target from a jet helicopter flying at 3,000 feet. The next day they make two ski runs down a Nastar giant slalom course. Points are awarded for both events. The men's champion will take home $1,000 in prize money and the winner of the women's event will win $500. All contestants in the Cuevo national championship must hold at least a Class C parachute license which means they have made a minimum of 100 jumps and passed certain proficiency requirements. During accuracy jumps para-skiers leave the slow-flying helicopter or airplane and free-fall for up to five seconds before opening their parachutes. The jump from 3,000 feet above the ground normally takes about three and a half minutes. The parachutist attempts to strike the target with a foot and then roll onto the seat of his pants. Touchdown is at a speed of about four miles an hour with a landing shock roughly equivalent to that of jumping from a six-foot ladder.

Boise man arrested

BOISE (UPI) — Boise police arrested Andrew Johnson, 25, at the Idanha Hotel Saturday on charges of assault with a deadly weapon and armed robbery in connection with the slaying of a retired Boise school teacher.

Claude E. Ader, 57, was slashed on the right forearm at his home Friday evening after his assailant tried to rob him, police said. Ader said Johnson had stayed at his home for several days in late December after a friend of the pastor asked Ader to give him a place to stay. Ader said in the past he had provided a temporary home for ex-offenders, including the person who sought a room for Johnson.

Robber flees

BOISE (UPI) — A young robber who handed a motel clerk a misspelled note fled from the Safari Motor Inn Saturday afternoon without any money, Boise police reported. The robber, believed to be in his mid-20s, kept his hand in his jacket pocket, indicating to the clerk that he had a gun, police said. No weapon was seen, however.

The man placed a note on the counter, stating that a holdup was taking place and the clerk should hand over the motel's money. One word on the note appeared to the clerk to be misspelled, police said. The clerk told the would-be robber security guards were in a nearby room and the man grabbed his note and fled.

Three blocks evacuated

GLENN'S FERRY, Idaho (UPI) — A broken natural gas line spewing gas and fumes into downtown Glenn's Ferry Saturday night resulted in an evacuation of three blocks of the town. The Elmore County Sheriff's Department reported a motorist struck a gas meter in Glenn's Ferry, breaking the line beneath the ground. Thick gas fumes spread from the break and were noticeable up to one and one-half blocks away.

Two bars in the vicinity were evacuated as authorities tried to stem the gas, which created a danger of fire and explosions. An employee of Intermountain Gas Co. had to be rushed over from Mountain Home to shut off the gas flow. No injuries were reported in the incident and no fires occurred, a department spokesman said.

Waitresses, busboys walk out

BOISE (UPI) — The general manager of Rodeway Inn, Ralph Jones, said Saturday waitresses and busboys who walked off their jobs there did not work for the inn. Jones said he wanted to clarify that the employees worked for Willard Wood's Cock of the Walk Restaurant, which is located in the Rodeway and leased to Wood. Eleven waitresses and two busboys quit Friday because they had been told they would have to share their tips with cooks.

Teens take money

BOISE (UPI) — Two teenagers used a stick and knife to steal an undetermined amount of money from Hollywood Market in Boise Saturday night, according to Boise police. The young robbers, believed to be 17 to 19, threatened clerk Virginia Aldrich with the weapons, police said. The robbers demanded that she hand over the store's receipts which they took and fled on foot. Officers said one robber had a stocky build and was wearing a tan and green parka with a gray fur coat; the other robber wore a dark blue ski cap over his face and was described as 5 feet 11, 165 pounds, with blue eyes.

Truck driver injured

BOISE (UPI) — A Caldwell truck driver for J.R. Simplot Co. was admitted to a Boise hospital with leg injuries Sunday after his truck overturned on Interstate 80 about 20 miles east of Boise. Idaho State Police said Paul G. Kesner, 31, was in the east-bound lane of the freeway when his Simplot company truck ran off the road and overturned onto the median separating the east and westbound lanes.

Hansen 'optimistic'

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI) — Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, said Sunday he was "optimistic that all debts of the George Hansen for Congress Committee would be paid in full within a few weeks." Hansen said a highly successful mail campaign which just ended netted the committee nearly $50,000 and a follow-up effort is underway. He added the year-end report filed with the Clerk of the House last week listed the final 1975 debt of the committee at $43,842. This was "a substantial reduction from the debt of $82,125 listed in the previous report on Oct. 10, 1975," Hansen said.

Retired teachers meet Friday

TWIN FALLS — The regular meeting of the Twin Falls Magic Valley Retired Teachers' Association will be a luncheon held Friday, Feb. 6, at 12:30 p.m. at the Rogerson Round Up Room. The Girls' Discovery Club from the junior and senior high schools will put on a skit, "Boston Tea Party," directed by Mrs. Ed Keenan, Mrs. Norman Beers, program chairman for the day, will introduce Mrs. M. E. Shirkov, who will present "Spotted on the Bicentennial."

Tax booklet available

TWIN FALLS — A booklet on school taxes has been compiled by the League of Women Voters of Idaho and is available to the public. Material from many different state reports has been collected and usefully assembled.

It explains the sources of Idaho school taxes and compares them to other states. It shows how school funds are distributed over the state and points out major problems. The data is grouped according to the size of school districts and can be readily compared.

The booklet contains definitions such as "floor district" and "joint district." A map of school districts is included which shows district 314 to be completely surrounded by district 312 and other interesting area distributions. There is much other information of value to all taxpayers and parents.

Send orders for "Your School Taxes at Work" to League of Women Voters of Idaho, 3300 Kelley Way, Boise, 83704. To help cover expenses there is a charge of $1 per copy with a 10 per cent discount for orders of 10 or more.

Gem win seen for Ford

TWIN FALLS — The executive director of President Ford's Idaho campaign believes the President can win the May 25 Idaho primary election, despite his slow start. Roy Elguren, executive director of the Idaho President Ford Committee, said here that despite early campaign bumbling, he expects the citizens' strong identification with Ford to win him votes in Idaho. Elguren said there "Isn't anything we can do to dispel" the President's image as a bumbler. "It comes via the press," he said. "Reagan has had some of the same problems."

But according to Elguren, "The President was quoted as saying most Americans do fumble and bumble and they identify with that." The Idaho campaigner said Ford's greatest strength is his "leadership — in the way people can identify."

"A lot of people talk about the good old days when people like Harry Truman said their piece and were open and candid about it." He said many Americans identify Ford with that same "candid quality."

The Idaho Ford campaign will stress Ford's experience, performance under "trying circumstances," the advantage of his incumbency, his "electability," and his "strong economic game plan," he said. Elguren said the Idaho press has said Reagan leads in the state. He said the Ford supporters have taken no surveys and cannot challenge the speculation.

However, he said, "51 per cent is a winning figure. We're going to try to get it. We're going to do everything we can do to get it." Elguren, a second-year law student at the University of Idaho, is currently on leave for a semester to push the campaign drive.

New CIA head faces major rehabilitation job

Helping small towns provide services

The loss of ambulance service in Buhl points out the problems many small towns have providing community services.

Magie Valley Ambulance Service of Twin Falls last year provided ambulance service in Buhl because the city could not afford its own ambulance vehicle and drivers.

But the Twin Falls ambulance firm lost nearly $6000 in Buhl last year, because of the small number of calls.

As a result, Magie Valley Ambulance closed down the Buhl ambulance service January 24.

The problem of financing ambulance service in Buhl comes from having a tax base in the town which isn't large enough to fund every community service.

In other Magic Valley towns, when roads aren't paved, hospitals aren't built and sidewalks aren't installed the reason again is usually because the local tax base is too small to fund the projects.

To get needed community services, small town leaders must become adept at getting the attention of county and state officials who have access to more money than is available at the local level.

In Buhl, for example, the city council should explore the possibilities of having Twin Falls County pick up a larger percentage of the ambulance bill.

Other money from State agencies can help build judicial and law enforcement buildings in small towns. Federal money can be used to find doctors for small towns and the state can be tapped for some public works projects.

State legislators have a responsibility to help small towns meet community needs. Although more votes can be secured by helping large towns than by channeling services to small communities, the small towns actually face a more critical shortage of community services than the large centers.

Twin Falls county commissioners surely will work with the city of Buhl to get ambulance service functioning again. In the long run, however, leaders in many small towns will have to become shrewd businessmen and hustlers if their towns aren't going to fall victim of an age where small communities take the back seat to the metropolitan areas.

Thoughts for today

"All government — indeed every human benefit and enjoyment; every virtue and every prudent act — is founded on compromise and barter." — Edmund Burke, English statesman and orator.

"Set yourself earnestly to see what you were made to do, and then set yourself earnestly to do it; and the fatter your purpose is the more sure you will be to make the world richer with every enrichment of yourself." — Phillips Brooks, American clergyman.

Berry's World

"How do I stay so well informed about important events? Simple, honey, I read Soap Opera Digest!"

Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON — George Bush, the new director of the Central Intelligence Agency, faces the formidable task of rehabilitating the battered spy agency.

The 51-year-old politician-diplomat has the requisite enthusiasm for the job. His unquenchable optimism will be put to a stern test, however, for the agency is wracked with morale problems and doubts about his role in the world.

Bush will not have the problem that burdened his predecessor, William Colby, who spent most of the past few months defending the agency's operations and secrets with limited success.

Bush's background in politics and diplomacy will be of some advantage to him. While he has had no experience in intelligence, his service as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and as head of the U.S. liaison office in Peking, China, has taught him something about the wickedness in the world and the need to keep tabs on it.

As a former Texas congressman and chairman of the Republican National Committee, he has some appreciation of congressional pride and prejudices and of the political constraints under which any executive agency must function.

His New England background will provide him with a kinship with many CIA officials. Bush attended Phillips Academy at Andover, Mass., graduated with honors from Yale, and owns a distinguished record as a Navy combat pilot in World War II.

Bush has the manner and appearance of a paragon alumnus, the cheerful "rah-rah" type. But the facade is somewhat deceptive. He was born in Connecticut, the son of the late Prescott Bush, a banker who became a U.S. senator from 1952 to 1963.

But rather than "live in the shadow of a most beloved and industrious father," as he once put it, he migrated to Texas to enter the oil business, starting out as a supplies salesman but winding up as a millionaire with his own drilling firm.

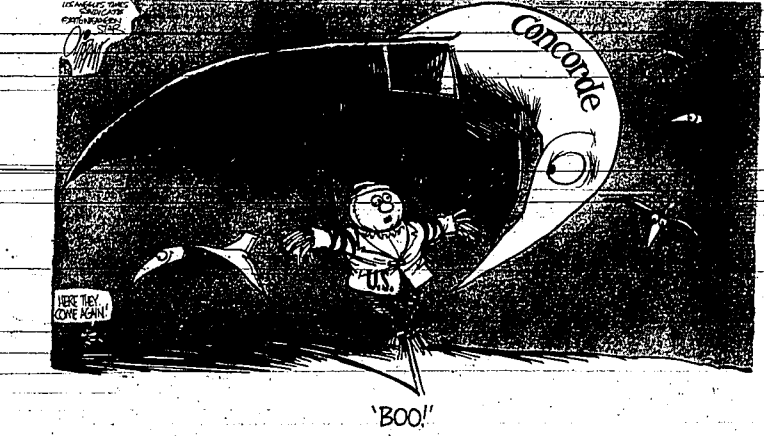

But at bottom, Bush's first love has been politics. He lost two U.S. senate races but was elected to two terms in the House, where he served with House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford.

Former President Nixon sent him to the U.N. in 1970 and brought him back to Washington to head the GOP National Committee in 1972. Bush remained unwaveringly loyal to Nixon throughout the Watergate revelations, defending him almost to the end. On the day that Nixon's complicity in the Watergate cover-up was finally established, Bush sat down and wrote Nixon that he ought to resign.

Bush had hoped the CIA post might promote his political fortunes. But he soon learned that, if he clung to what he called his "political bright light," he risked being rejected by the Senate. The President was compelled to put in writing that he had no intention of picking Bush as his vice-presidential running mate. If he should win the GOP nomination this year.

Bush is a gregarious, well-met individual, with considerable humor. He is an avid tennis player and bicyclist, a staunch advocate of physical fitness. The resilience and energy he has displayed in his previous assignments will be fully utilized in his new post.

Mr. Arbuthnot on the '76 campaign

O.N.Y. Times Service

WASHINGTON — Having soaked for seven days and seven nights in the clichés of the world's most awesome political reporters, I am ready to take questions about the national political situation. Do I hear a question?

Question: Sir, what kind of faces does the American voter want in this year's presidential campaign?

Answer: The American voter wants fresh, new faces, although on the other hand this could be a year when old, familiar faces may shock the political experts.

Q: What kind of faces do the political experts have?

A: It depends upon the species you interview. Veteran political experts have deeply seamed faces which smell of old cigar smoke. Grizzled political experts have worn, whiskery faces. Canny political experts have sty, ferret faces, and the faces of California political experts are sun-tanned and have expensive face lifts.

Q: With what, and to what degree, are the American people disillusioned?

A: They are deeply disillusioned with Washington.

Q: What worries politicians as a consequence of this deep disillusion?

A: Politicians are worried that the American people have become cynical, not only about the great institutions of government, but also about the entire political process.

Q: To what math do the politicians ascribe this cynicism?

A: To the aftermath.

Q: The aftermath of what?

A: The aftermath of Watergate.

Q: Why can George Wallace not win the Democratic nomination, and in what role do other Democratic contenders nevertheless fear his entry into the race will cast him?

A: Although George Wallace cannot win the Democratic nomination because he has run too many times before and lost, his diminishing enthusiasm for his former admirers, other Democrats nevertheless fear his entry into the race will cast him in the role of spoiler.

Q: I have heard Wallace described as a "populist." Is he the famous "Oklahoma populist" of whom political reporters write?

A: No, Wallace is always called "the Alabama governor." "The Oklahoma populist" is Fred Harris. Would someone please ask me why Morris Udall has not done better in the polls?

Q: Why?

A: He has failed to find a constituency.

Q: Would you tell us the appropriate phrases for uttering about the other candidates during conversations about the campaign?

A: Gladly. When referring to Birch Bayh, the appropriate phrase is "the Hoosier Democrat." Senator Jackson "acks chojama" and "has not caught on." Ronald Reagan is "a great communicator." Eastern liberals "will be making a great mistake if they underestimate Reagan." Sargent Shriver is "testing the magic of the Kennedy mantle." Jimmy Carter is "a man to be reckoned with." "Rocky" is "a kind of convention the Democrats could well have for the first time in almost half a century."

RUSSELL BAKER

different and politically sagacious? A: You can say, "Unless Humphrey enters one of the late primaries and does well, he has almost no chance at all of being nominated."

Q: Don't the two Humphrey statements contradict each other?

A: This is the class in political reporting. If you're looking for the logic lecture, it's upstairs.

Q: What would it be a mistake to do about President Ford, and how serious a mistake would it be?

A: It would be a grave mistake to conclude that President Ford is really the amiable stumbling buffoon the cartoonists make him out to be.

A: Why?

A: Because of what he is underneath.

Q: What is underneath?

A: Underneath, he is a wise, tough-minded veteran of the political wars. Does anyone know what veteran Capitol observers point out?

Q: What?

A: That Ford was a ruthless political brawler on Capitol Hill. Can anyone describe his path?

Q: His path is strewn. But with what?

A: With defeated opponents who failed to take him seriously until it was too late.

Q: Does this mean that Ford will win the election?

A: There is only one person who can say for sure at this stage of the campaign. Can anybody tell me who that one person is?

Chorus: Nobody can say for sure at this stage of the campaign!

A: Excellent. You are all now qualified for promotion. Next week, comic strips!

Concorde subsidies senseless

On Wednesday, we are expected to hear from the secretary of transportation whether the British and French may schedule six flights per day across the Atlantic, including two to JFK, two to Dulles.

There are other authorities floating around with substantial powers to delay, appeal, and even override Mr. Coleman's decision, but it will be heavily significant symbolically. On one side you have the diplomats, the science-minded and the go-internationalists, on the other, the environmentalists, the residents who live near the two airports, the Luddites, and — subtly — America's airline industry.

The environmental arguments have been widely discussed. On the basis of a quick reading, and an intuitive feel of the matter, I would tend to score the ozone-worriers as hysterical, the fuel conservation people as irrelevant, the noise abatement lobby as serious but not conclusive, and indeed each of these could be written about separately.

What has not been publicly pondered in any detail, that I know of, are the implications of highly subsidized competition. To escape the emotions of the SST for a moment, let us suppose that the Common Market powers agreed to subsidize all airlines expected to fly to the United States to the tune of, let us say, 75 per cent. This would mean you could pick up a new Volkswagen for a thousand dollars, a Renault for about the same, a Jaguar for $2,500, and so on.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

The classical economic texts, pursuing most honorably and most correctly their presumptive opposition to a tariff, will tell you: why should we buy it if in effect the taxpayers of Western Europe desire to make a gift to American automobile buyers? But we will be forced to reply that this is one gift horse we'd be wise to look deeply in the mouth of. The objective of the Common Market powers would less likely be to take pity on the underprivileged American class of car buyers, than to drive Detroit out of business; and having done so, advance toward a cartel in the automobile world.

Now the Concorde's promoters began by selling their governments on the vision of 400 airplanes. Thirteen years ago, $13 billion later, there are orders for 16 airplanes. But hear this. Deep study of available routes, on the assumption that every major nation votes to receive the Concorde, establishes that the Anglo-French combine can, only hope to, sell, minimum, 45 airplanes. And still more — on the manufacture of these airplanes each of the two countries stands to lose $30 million per plane.

Now once the airplane is airborne, the extent of the operating loss — the capital cost is irrevocable — will be determined by the size of the surcharge and, of course, the occupancy rate. The planes are expensive to operate (two to four times as much fuel per passenger mile) and have a small payload (maximum 144 passengers).

The French have reluctantly agreed to a 22 per cent premium over first-class fares on the run from Paris to Rio. The English haven't yet decided but are temporarily asking only 10-15 per cent more. If the International Air Transport Association (IATA) continues to set rates with some reference to economic costs, it may decree a premium of 20 per cent.

Even so, the Concordes, though they would be losing money per plane sold, and per trip taken, would minimize their losses substantially depending on the extent of American patronage. American business men as a single class of people might, in substantial numbers, pay the huge premium for the luxury of cutting travel time in half. And they would be willing to do so — you guessed it — because their travel costs are for the most part tax-deductible.

And so we have an ironic situation. The United States government would be subsidizing two foreign airlines to drain from American carriers passengers whose patronage is (in some cases) marginally critical. That doesn't, make sense, even for us free-traders.

And perhaps one of the questions that should be thrown into the hopper for discussion is for so long as the governments of France and Great Britain subsidize the Concorde, should IRS disallow deductions for American travelers electing this form of management.

DEMOCRACY John Adams speculated in January, 1776, at the imminence task facing the colonies in forming a new government.

"You and I, my dear friend, have been sent into life at a time when the greatest lawyer of our antiquity would have wished to live. How few of the human race have ever enjoyed an opportunity of making an election of government, more than of air, soil, or climate, for themselves or their children! Now, before the present epoch, had 3,000,000 people full power and a fair opportunity to form and establish the wisest and happiest government that human wisdom can contrive? I hope you will avail yourself and your country of that extensive learning and intelligence which you possess to assist her in the formation of the happiest governments, and the best character of a great people."

Maine Dems like Carter

By United Press International

Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter has collected the largest share of delegates on the first day of Maine's month-long Democratic party caucus, the first public indication of candidate strength in the northeast.

On the Republican side, Ronald Reagan has made a substantial jump in voter popularity and pulled to within two percentage points of President Ford, 46-44, among Republican and independent voters, according to a Harris poll released today.

Carter won 58 of a possible 135 delegates Sunday, the first day of caucuses. An uncommitted slate received 51 delegates. Carter's closest rival was former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris, who had 12 votes.

It was the first delegate selection in the East. Carter outscored the other Democratic candidates in Iowa but trailed Alabama Gov. George Wallace in Mississippi.

Maine, which sends 20 delegates to the national convention, is the only state given permission by the Democratic party to caucus during an election because of distances to be traveled and the wintry weather. Most of the results will be in by mid-February.

In the Harris poll, the President held the same 46 per cent he had when voters were asked to choose between the two in November and December: Reagan's new support, up 4 per cent, came from the ranks of undecided voters.

Ford had held a 35-25 margin over the former California governor when a similar poll was taken in August and September. The latest survey was taken between Jan. 5 and 14.

In Dearborn, Mich., the Midwest Republican leadership conference ended Sunday with the President's supporters saying they are convinced he can stave off Reagan's challenge. Backers said a private poll showed Ford leading in New Hampshire, but they declined to cite figures.

Ford campaigned in Michigan Saturday, calling for a resurgence of state and local government power and said he would reduce unemployment without resorting to "dead-end" federal job programs.

In other developments:

Newsweek magazine reported independent candidate Eugene McCarthy will announce his return to the Democratic party this week to seek its presidential nomination. But his national campaign chairman, Ron Coome, said the report is "not true, at least to my knowledge. I'm sure he would have said something if his national campaign manager."

Wallace was cheered in St. Augustine, Fla., Saturday night when he called for "a return to the electric chair and swift punishment" as an answer to the crime problem.

Federal Election Commission quarterly finance reports show Reagan collected nearly $20,000 more than Ford last year. Reagan collected $1.92 million and spent $1.51 million. Ford took in $1.69 million and spent $1.47 million.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., in a statement from his home state, proposed the United States seek peace in Angola through diplomatic contacts with the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola, the Soviet-backed faction.

Gas price battle end may be near

Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON — A decades-long fight by the natural gas industry and its supporters in Congress to end federal price controls may be nearing victory. This week's developments could be decisive.

Rep. Robert Krueger, D-Tex., a freshman from an oil-and-gas-rich section of western Texas, is the sponsor of legislation that would do away with price controls on new onshore natural gas and would phase out controls on old gas and offshore gas.

The fact that a freshman representative will be leading the floor fight is indicative of the many unusual aspects of the long-building battle.

Not least among these unusual elements is the controversial role of Speaker Carl Albert.

Until Christmas, Albert had mostly stayed aloof from the controversy over whether the Federal Power Commission's authority to regulate natural gas prices should be ended, and he had deferred to committee chairman.

Two skeptical subcommittee chairmen, John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of an energy subcommittee, and John Moss, D-Calif., chairman of an oversight and investigations subcommittee, had been holding hearings for weeks to determine whether the half-century natural gas shortage was real and whether deregulation, if the effort succeeds, will have intolerable economic effects.

Krueger had estimated that deregulation would force consumers to pay $5 to 10 per cent a year more for their natural gas supplies for the next few years.

But he and the industry spokesmen have been arguing that without deregulation there will be a permanent shortage of natural gas. This, they say, will inevitably lead to higher prices for alternative fuels.

MD's reject plan

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Doctors protesting rising malpractice insurance rates say a proposal by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. to end the monthlong work slowdown is no solution at all.

"I don't know what's in the governor's mind," Dr. Lewis Weintraub said after a meeting of nearly 1,000 physicians in the suburban San Fernando Valley Sunday.

"But I think what he's doing is galvanizing every physician who has not yet gone out," he said.

A show of hands at the meeting indicated almost total rejection of the proposal by Brown and a Los Angeles Assemblyman. It calls for doctors to voluntarily join a state-operated program costing them $4,000 the first year and at least 15 per cent each subsequent year.

The plan also sets a $1 million maximum protection with extra rates for doctors who want more coverage, and requires doctors to come up with a "workable plan" for voluntary service to the needy.

'Bilking' assailed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., accused the Office of Education today of letting North American Rockwell "bilke" taxpayers of $2.1 million for trying to develop a way to keep an eye on government contractors.

Proxmire said Rockwell was given a $78,000 nine-month contract to develop the computer system but that the "feasibility study" stretched out to nearly five years and costed $2.1 million, three times as much.

"The Office of Education mismanaged the management improvement contract to such a degree that the North American Rockwell Corporation was able to bilk the American taxpayer out of $2.1 million," Proxmire said in a statement.

He said the Office of Education gave the contract to Rockwell in 1968 without competitive bidding.

American Music Awards presented

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Olivia Newton-John and John Denver dominated the American Music Awards, taking three top spots apiece. The three hosts of the show — Miss Newton-John, Glen Campbell and Aretha Franklin — all won awards.

Miss Newton-John was honored as the number one female pop-rock singer and country singer and for recording the top pop-rock album. Denver was named top male pop-rock and country singer and took first place in the country album category.

Campbell won best country single honors for "Hillbilly Cat" and "The Cowboy" and Miss Franklin was named top female soul singer.

In the soul category, Barry White was named top male singer — the Temptations won the best album award and KC and the Sunshine Band took the single record award for "Get Down Tonight."

The awards, presented Saturday, were sponsored by ABC-TV.

ANTOINETTE Garrison Clarke or "Clarke," Brighton, Mass., was born in Rhode Island Feb. 1, 1909, where she spent most of her life working as a housekeeper. There was a party for her at the Regent Nursing Home in Brighton, where she now resides, with a large cake topped off with a big 107. (UPI)

Officials eye Aspen drug traffic

DENVER (UPI) — Federal drug officials say the more than 14,000-foot elevation of Aspen, Colo., isn't the only thing keeping the ski resort community's residents high.

John Ray Enright, regional head of the federal "Drug Enforcement Administration," said recent drug arrests in other states and abroad prompted the agency to believe Aspen has become "a base of operations for at least a dozen major narcotics dealers."

"If the people of Aspen were using all the drugs that we've found destined there, they wouldn't need ski lifts to get up on the mountain," Enright said.

He said authorities in Thailand, Mexico, Mississippi and Georgia had in recent months seized unusually large quantities of heroin, cocaine, hashish and marijuana that were to be delivered to Aspen.

Enright blamed the increased drug traffic in Aspen on local law enforcement officials who he said "have been less than enthusiastic."

Aspen officials, however, said they were concerned about the city's drug problem but objected to the federal drug agency's interference.

"I don't think there is a factual basis for the DEA claims," said deputy district attorney Barry Bryant, who said the Aspen Police Department doesn't get along with the DEA.

"The sheriff's office doesn't get along with them. I know what they do. I know their kind of tactics." Councilman Steve Wishart, a bartender, said the DEA's primary source of information was from undercover work which "is unfavorably looked upon by city residents."

Rape victim wins suit

ROCKVILLE, Md. (UPI) — A woman who won $385,000 in damages from two men who raped her says she hopes the award will encourage more women to report rapes.

Mary Knight's attorney, Barry Knight, said the award of $40,000 in compensatory damages and $325,000 in punitive claims — was apparently the first of its kind granted a rape victim.

"I'm really fed up with chills who say they're scared to do anything about it," Miss Knight said. "I may never collect, but that's not the point. The point was, I won. I want something done about these people."

Judgment, the defendants' families offered Miss Knight $2,500 to drop her suit in Montgomery County Circuit Court.

"I didn't want the money," Miss Knight said. "That's not the point. I don't think all the money in the world will make up for what they did to me. It won't."

"I won't even go down to the laundry room alone. My boy friend has to go with me," she said.

after me. I wasn't able to have any kind of decent relationship with anyone for a year," she added.

One of the defendants, William Christianson, 31, is serving a 12-year sentence for the attack. The other man, Edwin David, 32, now works as a garage mechanic after serving one year of a six-year sentence. Miss Knight is seeking to have David's salary withheld to pay the claim.

Miss Knight, who was 23 years old at the time of the assault, said she was leaving a Washington restaurant the night of Aug. 20, 1972.

License no problem

SEATTLE (UPI) — Douglas Poth has found out age is no barrier to becoming a licensed private investigator.

Poth, 13, was awarded a license after he provided the Seattle Department of Licensing and Consumer Affairs with $5 and a letter from a private detective firm.

Two city clerks took Doug's fingerprints, affixed his photo to the license and had him sign it — that's all there was to it.

The letter was provided by Doug's dad, Herold Poth, owner of a private detective agency, who said he wanted to prove the city would license anyone to become a private detective.

Taft's proposals

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, blames the seal of federal regulatory agencies for raising the costs and the administrative overhead of businesses.

Taft recommended the judicial and prosecutorial functions of regulatory agencies be divided because "it is a violation of our Anglo-American judicial concepts that any person should be tried by the same party (that) brings the charges."

It takes all kinds

GRANTHAM, England (UPI) — Dick Harris poured a glass of beer in his girlfriend's head, rammed her ear, then opened fire on it with a rifle.

She loved every bit of it. "Instead of hating Dick for what he did, it made me realize how much I loved him, 20-year-old Penny Leeson told a British judge."

"I agreed to marry at once. I realize now I went to all the time."

Harris, 29, pleaded guilty to six charges, including shooting at Miss Leeson's car with an unlicensed firearm and driving dangerously without insurance.

He was fined $30 and was given a six-month suspended jail sentence.

Cancer warning

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) —

Marella Bayh, wife of Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana and a cured cancer patient, says 54 million Americans now alive will get cancer, and "the dreaded disease is an epidemic."

"There are 115 million cured patients in the United States today living full and happy lives because they were alert to the early warning signals and because the American Cancer Society has been working for years in progress against this disease," Mrs. Bayh said Saturday night at an ACS training conference.

"However, there is still much work to be done."

"This last year 50 per cent of the approved research projects went unfunded," she said. "Perhaps the causes and causes of many kinds of cancer can be found in some of the unfunded projects."

The United States is the world's largest grain exporter, Canada Number Two.

DEAR ABBY: I am sorry for SERIOUS IN N.Y., who is considering suing his parents for $100,000 for having him circumcised while he was a helpless infant and unable to fight back. He claims that he was "disfigured," which is hardly valid, because most of us wear sufficient clothing so that no one will know whether we are circumcised or not.

When I was born 73 years ago, circumcision was not very popular, and I doubt that my parents, who lived on a minister's salary, even considered it. I fervently wish that they had circumcised me because much of my life I have had trouble.

In the years before men wore clothing, the foreskin provided some protection. Perhaps if nudism comes in, circumcision will go out.

—RETFRED MINNISTER, ASHVILLE, N.C.

DEAR ABBY: As a dull-witted Englishman, the "brotherly love" characterized by the American people who sue each other on the slightest pretext is still beyond my comprehension. I refer to that SERIOUS male moron who wants to sue his parents for having had him circumcised when he was an infant. Well, now I have heard everything!

Lawsuit surgery

May I inform "Serious" that circumcision is not only practiced by the Jewish people, but also among the male members of the English royal family? Yours, truly,

JOHN R.

DEAR ABBY: I hope that man in N.Y. uses his parents and collects the $100,000. I, for one, am opposed to any kind of surgery unless it is absolutely necessary. There is entirely too much chopping up these days, and the one who benefits most, of course, is the doctor.

If the good Lord had meant for males to be born without foreskins, He would have made them that way. It is an insult to God to try to improve on His work.

—SERVANT OF GOD.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell SERIOUS IN N.Y. that here in Jefferson County, Ky., it would be against the law for him to exhibit his "disfigurement."

RUSSELL MCDANIEL
CHIEF OF POLICE

DEAR ABBY: The 32-year-old fellow who wants to sue his parents for having circumcised him should have his head examined. I have been circumcised (doctor's orders), and I am over 60! It is embarrassing and not an operation one can boast about in one's old age.

A friend of mine told me that years ago, he and his fraternity brother got liquored up and "circumcised" each other. They ran into a lot of trouble and had to hunt up a urologist for repairs shortly afterwards.

It's best to have it done in infancy.

—AN OLD MAN

DEAR ABBY: So SERIOUS IN N.Y. wants to sue his parents for having circumcised, thereby "maiming and disfiguring" him. Well then, why not sue parents for having their children vaccinated? That also leaves a scar, doesn't it?

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

today's weather

Stocks at midday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bluechip prices plunged early Monday but heavily defended trading on the New York Stock Exchange as traders cashed in on record January gains.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 6.5-point winner Friday, was off 8.87 points at 1,061 1/2 around noon EST. The Dow gained a record 122.87 points, or 14.1 per cent, in January, including a 21.33-point gain last week.

Turnover during the first 45 minutes amounted in about $2 billion, trading on the NYSE was delayed an hour and a quarter, from 10 a.m. to 11:15 a.m. EST, because of icy, windy weather conditions in the New York City area.

Trading Friday, a record 12,211,976 million shares were traded and 19.76 million were traded through the second hour. Friday's 39.5 million shares was the busiest day ever on the NYSE and contributed to January's 635-million-share all-time monthly record.

Most analysts said they would not be surprised to see volume profit taking this week in light of the market's record January gains. However, a number of analysts said there is considerable buying power left in the new year rally.

Analysts have been encouraged by lower interest rates and prospects of an improving economy.

Luxury hotel opens for animals

Chicago Sun-Times — New York may be going through an unprecedented financial crisis, but for at least some of the city's wealthier families, life doesn't seem to be suffering. Case in point is a new luxury hotel that opened its doors last week. Called The Kennelworth, the hotel is New York's newest, and is located at 519 E. 72nd st., on Manhattan's fancy East Side.

Fur coat prices soar

Chicago Daily News — CHICAGO — If you're in the market for a new fur coat, expect to pay through the nose if you wait until fall to buy it. A mink coat could cost you anywhere from 15 to 25 percent more than 1975 prices, according to estimates from Chicago Furriers.

to affect prices before the fall buying season, but that the same quality mink that cost $4,000 last fall will cost close to $5,000 this fall, and that a $2,500 lynx probably will climb to $4,500 in fall '76.

Max Alper of Alper-Richman said he expects his prices this fall to be up 15 per cent on ranch mink; 25 to 30 per cent on lynx and fox; perhaps 20 per cent on racoon, and 10 per cent on muskrat.

Lee K. Thorpe of Thorpe Furriers, which buys skins at auctions and makes its fur garments, also expects his ranch-mink prices to shoot up 25 to 30 per cent, and prices on longhairs such as lynx and fox to go up about 25 per cent.

Expected price hikes reported by the various furriers referred to categories. Within any category, there may be some skins so exceptionally fine that the price shoots up astronomically.

David Meltzer, president of Evans, Inc., one of the world's largest furriers, said prices on ranch mink in the fall will be up about 25 per cent; lynx, 40 per cent, or more; fox and racoon 20 per cent; badger, 30 to 40 per cent, and muskrat 20 per cent. He said the price of skins has gone up in higher percentages, but by buying ahead, and because of Evans' large volume, he's able to stay 10 to 15 percent under the increase on skins prices.

Uneaten Shoshone school lunches increase

By MELBA THORNE
Times-News writer
SHOSHONE — School lunches in Shoshone cost over twice as much as they did in 1951, yet much more of the food is coming back to be scraped out, according to Mrs. Josephine Lequerica, supervisor of the program the past 23 years.

In her years as supervisor, Mrs. Lequerica said state hot lunch requirements have aided in having quality food served. She feels the food is as good today as ever, yet the return of uneaten food is definitely on the increase.

She said "the food is as good or better, but children's eating habits have changed."

"There isn't that much difference in the types of food served now, she said, except that Vitamin C must be in every day's meal. Iron at least three times a week and Vitamin A in four meals a week if the 12½-cent per lunch subsidy is received by the local district."

Despite a charge per pupil of 45 cents grade school age, 50 cents high school and junior high age, and 60 cents grade school age, 50 cents high school and junior high age, and 60 cents adults, plus some government surplus commodities, the local lunch program is in the red again this year, the supervisor said.

Last year the school board provided an additional $1,000 to help out, but that didn't quite bring them out of the red at that time and so far this year they just haven't been able to get on top. However, there are more children eating lunch this year than last, a fact that she attributes to a snack eating place near one of the schools having closed.

Surplus commodities of hamburger, turkey, chicken, fraters, vegetables and fruits, cheese and shortening, are received but not in enough abundance to handle the year's needs.

To qualify for the 12½-cent per lunch, a Type A lunch must be served. Mrs. Lequerica said.

There are about 100 students from the high school who eat the lunch and between 130-150 at the grade school, she said. Popular items on the menu include tacos, hamburger, hot dogs, pizza, while those returned — usually — are miscellaneous and cheese, cranberries and sweet potatoes.

In view of the economy, Mrs. Lequerica said she purchases hamburger patties, as they are, not only cheaper than in bulk but they are eaten better by the students. Soy beans is added to the bulk and the patties already contain the allowed amount.

Discussing reasons for the uneaten food on so many plates, Mrs. Lequerica said she felt the "amount" of money students have per week at the high school, building, attributes to this.

She said — she has had students return a plate full of food to be scraped out and come to her for change, stating they are going to use the change in the pop and candy machines at the high school building.

Donations of food in enough quantity to serve the entire enrollment are appreciated and do not jeopardize the subsidy. However, small amounts are not satisfactory. She said the Stimpsons donated seven sacks of potatoes last fall.

Powdered potatoes are used in the local program, except for salads.

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
I hope you can relieve some of my anxiety. My husband has been treated with lithium carbonate. He is deeply depressed and has been for many months.

How long does it take before signs of improvement are seen? What are the side effects of lithium carbonate? How does it work? What is it and what is it supposed to do for the patient? How is the patient affected? Why does it help manic-depressives? — Mrs. J.R.

This drug has become popular in treating manic-depressives. You are wise to want to learn as much about it as possible, a good idea with regard to any medication.

Lithium is a naturally-occurring earth metal. In the form of lithium carbonate, it is present in very small amounts in the body as one of the "trace metals."

Lithium data asked

Years ago its therapeutic potential was tried in various ailments, such as arthritis and gout, but without success. Lithium fell into disrepute as a medicinal agent about 15 years ago its value in mental illness was demonstrated — particularly for the manic-depressive state, which is characterized by "up and down swings of the emotions — is not effective, however, in schizophrenia, another "mental" disturbance which can result in manic-depression.

How it acts physically is unclear, but it has been shown that there are chemical derangements in mania and depression and that lithium apparently corrects this, thus minimizing the emotional swings.

The effects are rather rapid — a matter of seven to 10 days. Signs of improvement are a decrease in the hyperactive phase of the mania and the depth of the depressive phase. When withdrawn, a relapse can occur, so in many cases prolonged therapy is required.

Side effects have been noted — chiefly a mild depression of thyroid gland activity, nausea, vomiting and occasionally skin rashes. Careful dosage control through monitoring of blood lithium levels is important.

In severe depression, specific anti-depressant drugs are sometimes used along with lithium.

Lithium does not always work, but in general it has been of tremendous help in selected psychiatric patients.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
I am 66 years old and have an undescended testicle. Recently I met a doctor who told me that it has to be removed by now. Is there any time limit within which it can become cancerous? He made no recommendations about what should be done.

What would you do if you were in my position? — A.T.

You shouldn't accept this casual (and unfortunate) remark made in an apparently informal conversation as a substitute for a diagnosis.

Cancer in an undescended testicle is rather rare, but the testicle should, nevertheless, be looked at. My consultant states that if the testicle is not tender and not enlarging, it could be left alone at your age. But it does require periodic evaluation.

Oswald: "The advanced declarer should use the C of ARCH and count winners. He has six tops in the red suits and needs just three in the blacks. Then he leads his four of clubs. If West grabs this with the ace South will now have four club tricks. If West ducks, South abandons clubs, knocks out the ace of spades and has his nine tricks."

The correct time is when the hand is over, but if declarer wishes to do so, he may claim them during the play. A defender is not allowed to claim until the hand is over since "in so doing he would be giving his partner illegal information."

Vandals hit marshal's car

HAILLEY - The front, back and passenger side windows in the Bellevue marshal's personal car were smashed either Friday or Saturday.
Marshal Bud Taylor feels the vandalism was done by juveniles he has arrested.
The car was damaged by a 1968 Pontiac Firebird into the Merc parking lot Friday afternoon to do some shopping there. He said he could not start the car when he came out and had to leave it Friday night.
The windows were smashed between 6 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Saturday, Taylor said it will cost more than $500 to fix the car. The car will probably be totaled, he said.
Taylor said Saturday he has turned over some leads to the Halley Police Department which is continuing the investigation.

Planner questions development

By BILL LAZARUS Times-News writer
CHEYENNE, Wyo. - Powder Mountain Ski Corp. is very unlikely to gain permission to develop Mesa County, Colo. properties into a planned ski resort village, according to the county's senior planner.
Conrad McDonough, senior planner responsible for land-use and development, told the Times-News that Powder Mountain has not applied to Mesa County for a permit to build a ski resort village on its property on top of Grand Mesa. If applied for, he doubted that such a permit would be granted.
McDonough was to be a witness for the Wyoming State Department of Insurance in hearings last week on Sierra Life's financial condition. The department maintains that Sierra is insolvent as defined in Wyoming law and that it licenses to write new business in Wyoming through a receiver.
One substantial portion of the department's case was that Sierra mortgages on about 1,000 acres in Mesa County, Colo., are not admissible as insurance company assets under Wyoming law.

The department had brought in McDonough to testify on the property. But, she never testified because Sierra "stipulated" or agreed with the department that the Colorado properties would not be admissible assets under Wyoming law. After this agreement was made, her testimony was not needed.
However, McDonough was willing to talk about the property.
McDonough's statements vary from some findings made by Walter Bithell, a Boise attorney who preceded over an Idaho hearing on Sierra's financial condition. Bithell found Sierra to be solvent under Idaho law. He sided with Sierra in about every instance where its assets had been in question, including the case of the Colorado properties.
According to Bithell's concluding report

Sierra was assigned mortgages on about 1,000 acres of about 1,300 acres of "Powder Mountain Ski Resort real estate." Sierra accepted the Powder Mountain land as security for at least $2.2 million in promissory notes. Powder Mountain, assigned the promissory notes as partial payment for its purchase of Greater Idaho Corp. and Western Skies Motel from Sierra.
The question before Idaho's Bithell was whether the property was worth enough to secure the money promised to Sierra.
One of Sierra's appraisers had valued the properties mortgaged to Sierra at $20 million. Another Sierra appraiser valued them at $20 million. But the state's appraiser maintained the properties were worth only $273,000, according to Bithell's report.
Bithell decided that the properties were worth enough at least to secure the money owed in Sierra's case. The decision, however, because he decided the Mesa County properties were to be developed with "condominiums, single family and commercial development."

He concluded that the Bithell, Powder Mountain never applied to Mesa County to develop a ski resort village on the property.
She said that a couple of years ago Powder Mountain did apply for a building permit to put up a "modular" building on the property. But, she said, this was not completed and there has been no work on it recently.
Powder Mountain would be "very unlikely" to gain permission to build a ski resort village on the property because of guidelines in the county's "comprehensive plan," she maintained. While the plan does call for a "reasonable number of lodgings" for skiers and tourists in the area, it does not call for any ski village type development, she said.
Any village-resort development, with single family dwellings and commercial enterprises, must be in the "designated areas" already existing on Grand Mesa, McDonough maintained.
She said that approval of another community development would be unlikely because it would overly tax the county and because it would serve to change the character of Grand Mesa. While the county wants to "protect and retain in its present character."
Besides a ski lift put on the property, McDonough did not know of any other completed improvements on the Powder Mountain land. She said there is some question as to who owns the land.
In this report Bithell maintained "there is a road now under construction to service the subject development." He said the "preliminary cut" had been made.
However, McDonough said there is no road under construction. She said that only a bulldozer had run over the property, smashing down some of the thick and tall Oak brush vegetation on the land.
Early in the Wyoming hearing, Mesa County appraiser George Hatter testified that there was an apparent "canalouge" sewer system on his Powder Mountain property. But, his testimony was stricken from the record after Sierra agreed that its mortgages on some of the Powder Mountain property would not qualify as insurance company assets under Wyoming law.
Sierra President Fred Frazier refused to talk with the Times-News today when called about the Colorado properties.
Dr. Glenn Smith, deputy commissioner for the Wyoming Insurance Department, told the Times-News following the hearing that he had gone to see the Colorado property and could see no improvements on it other than a ski lift. He said however, that he was unable to go on the property Sierra holds mortgages on, since there was no road leading to it.
The road access to the Powder Mountain property, he said, was a gravel road leading to the ski lift.

Burley police seek lone gunman

BURLEY - A lone gunman robbed a service station on Overland Ave. here early Saturday.
A young, white male held up Betty Thompson, attendant at Overland Car Wash, about 2:15 a.m. Saturday. The amount taken has not been announced.
The attendant said she heard the window at her cashier cage open and a man pointed a snub-nosed black revolver at her. She said she could see the shell in the cylinder.
The bandit tossed a paper bag at her and demanded she put all the money in it. She said the gunman was shaking during the holdup.
"I mean business," she quoted him as saying. "Give me all the money or I'll shoot you." She said she put the money from the till in the bag and told him the business no longer kept any money in the safe. He was arguing with her when a pickup truck pulled into the station.
The attendant said the robber fled south on foot and turned east on Railroad Ave.
The culprit was described as 18 to 20 years old, about 5 foot 6 inches tall and weighing 150 to 160 pounds. He had dark-brown, neck-length hair worn in a pony tail and had brown eyes. The attendant said his face was post-marked.
He was wearing blue jeans and a tan suede coat, fringed with light-colored fur.

Legal action set against solon

BURLEY - Legal action will be filed this week against a beauty salon operated in a Burley residence.
City Attorney William Parsons said Friday he will file suit against Claretta Jones for violation of ordinance restrictions concerning businesses in residential areas.
It will be the first court case under the Burley zoning ordinance passed in July, 1973.
Parsons said he notified Mrs. Jones and complainant Richard Dalton during the past week that he will begin the action this week.
Mrs. Jones is operating a beauty shop in a remodeled garage at her home, 2010 Yale Ave. She said she moved the salon from a bedroom to the garage about a year ago.
The beauty operator claims that she has had the business in her home for five years and should be allowed to continue operation under the "grandfather clause," which permits continuation of prior uses.
Dalton has questioned operation of the shop before the zoning ordinance was adopted and pressed for legal action, although Parsons told the city planning and zoning commission last month he had reports that Mrs. Jones did have a shop in her home prior to 1973.

Minico school action plan sought

By SHANE O'NEILL Times-News writer
RUPERT - An affirmative action plan to prevent discrimination in employment still faces the Mindoka County School District.
Superintendent of Schools Darrell Hatfield has asked school board members to make recommendations for an affirmative action committee.
Nominations for the committee will be considered by the school board tonight at the district's central office.
All school districts in the nation must have an affirmative action plan by July 1 to prevent discrimination in employment on the basis of sex. Dr. Hatfield has proposed that the Mindoka district develop a plan to prevent any discrimination covered under federal law.
That would include the Civil Rights Act's Title IX (sex or marital status), which went into law last fall, and the earlier Title VII race, color, religion, age, national origin or mental, physical or sensory handicap).
Hatfield said Sunday that he envisions a plan similar to the one adopted by the Cassia County School District.
The Cassia district adopted its plan under mandate from the Office of Civil Rights after the Department of Health, Education and Welfare ruled it was in non-compliance on civil rights because of alleged discrimination against Mexican-Americans in employment, education and disciplinary measures.
Hatfield said the committee will probably have 12-15 members because it must be balanced according to sex, minorities and other aspects.

Mindoka district administrators attended a workshop on affirmative action at Burley in November. They planned to attend another in January, but it was cancelled.
Hatfield said he does not know whether or not that workshop is to be rescheduled.
The instructional materials review committees are to be appointed by Tuesday, according to the new policy adopted Jan. 19.
That policy, adopted after months of controversy, provided for appointment within 15 days. There are to be two committees, one for elementary level and another for secondary.
A member is to be selected from each trustee zone for each committee, Hatfield said.
The superintendent said that no action is planned tonight on the school calendar for next year.

The board received a committee recommendation two weeks ago that would open school on Aug. 30 and have no October harvest vacation.
Other items on tonight's agenda include proposals to rehire Roger King as district legal counsel, hire Mary-Kay Douglas as elementary music teacher for Acequia School, approve a vehicle field trip for eight boys to Salt Lake City and Provo, Utah, next Monday under Milton McDaniel and release of Roger Westendorf from his contract.
Westendorf has asked for the release so that he can join a private business. He is a psychology and English teacher at Minico High School.

Contract negotiations proceed

TWIN FALLS - Contracts with Magie Valley Memorial Hospital pathologists and radiologists were still in the process of being negotiated today, while doctors continued to work without a formal contract.
The contracts with doctors heading the X-ray and pathology departments expired Dec. 31, hospital administrator James Rosenbaum said today.
"We are presently still negotiating contracts and hope to have them available for approval by Feb. 16, which is the next scheduled meeting of the hospital board," Rosenbaum said.

Rosenbaum said that although he could not comment on the status of negotiations, the new contracts, if agreed to by Feb. 16, would be made retroactive to the first of the year.
Earlier Rosenbaum said the hospital plans to have a fourth pathologist and three radiologists. He said he expected the percentage of departmental after-expense income allocated to the doctors would be cut from its current 62.5 percent level.
He said the hospital hoped to bring average fees to $83,000 a year for pathologists and $90,000 a year for radiologists.

Blaine eyes negotiations

By BART QUENSELL Times-News writer
HAILLEY - The Blaine County Education Association has turned over a list of negotiable items to the school board, signalling the kick-off of one of the hottest negotiations seasons ever begun in the county.

Contract negotiations with administrators in the Blaine school district say the negotiation could go late into 1976.
About 20 general issues were handed to board chairman Ronald Hunt who was asked to sign his name, indicating that any of the issues listed could be negotiated.
Bob Magladry, BCEA president, said a broad outline of issues was presented to the board, but some will be dropped later. The BCEA had until Jan. 30, he said, to submit the issues. Five negotiators now will go through the issues and submit a condensed form to the board by Feb. 16.
Formal negotiations begin March 15, he said.
Salary structures will be an important issue, Magladry said.
He would not outline how the teachers' proposed negotiating list is to say "we hope to achieve a more meaningful and informative proceeding for ourselves, the school board and the public."
The board and BCEA agreed last year to give out mutual press releases after negotiation sessions. Some of the releases were incomplete, he said. Magladry said. The final release was not seen by the BCEA until after the board had sent it out, Magladry said.

East Minico break-in rekindles fuss

By SHANE O'NEILL Times-News writer
RUPERT - Someone wielding a boltcutter forced entry into East Minico Junior High Saturday night.
Principal Lee Eisenbarth said nothing appears to have been taken in the break-in but the incident has rekindled a controversy over whether Minico schools should avoid use of chains to keep school doors locked.
Both Mindoka and Cassia County schools have been wrapping chains and locking them on the crash bars of school doors.
Burley High School came under fire a week ago when the Labor Department ordered Burley-Flee Chief Douglas Still to remove the chains at the gymnasium or the Buftoy-Minico basketball game would be stopped.
Still had the chains and locks cut from four doors. The labor official said he would have the building emptied if locked chains were found on the doors again during a public event.
Mindoka schools now use padlocks, but Hatfield has ordered school officials to have the chains unlocked at any time students are in the building. The Labor Department says the chains never be locked on the doors when an employee is in the building.

The new Idaho Life Safety Code, which went into effect Jan. 1, stated, "No lock, padlock, hasp, bar, chain or other device or combination thereof shall be installed or maintained at any time or connected with any door on which panic hardware is required by this code if such device prevents or is intended to prevent the free use of the door for purposes of egress."
Cassia officials say they also have issued orders that the exits not be locked during school or public events, but the Labor Department action reportedly stemmed from staff complaints. Similar complaints also have been lodged concerning the Oakley gym.
Hatfield said Sunday that the crash-bar type doors will come unlocked if they are yanked.
He made a similar statement in a talk last week before the Rupert Kiwanis. In explaining the purpose of the chains and padlocks, Hatfield said the district faced decisions on how to handle burglary and vandalism or continuing to chain the doors.

He said he knew of no instances when the doors had remained chained during school hours or public events. He said the chains are a function of the doors when students begin to arrive in the morning.
Tonight's Mindoka County School Board agenda will raise the possibility of the district hiring Robert Riggs to provide a security patrol on some or all schools.
Hatfield said the district has not used a security patrol. The only protection has been the regular law enforcement agencies.
The superintendent said he has mixed feelings about Riggs' proposal for a minimum of five checks per evening at each school. He said the service would be expensive, "yet a couple of good, heavy break-ins would make it seem worthwhile."
Hatfield has eyed the Life Safety Code since last fall. Two months ago he warned the school board that some buildings may not meet the new standards and asked approval to hire a consulting expert to inspect the schools and advise the district on economical methods to meet safety standards and conserve energy in the face of rising costs.

The board rejected his proposal and favored seeking such advice from local officials, such as Odel McClane (now fire marshal) for the entire county.
Hatfield said the district's maintenance superintendent will be in Boise this week at a building inspector school to learn more about state standards.
During a Life Safety Code inspection by a Labor Department official last week, a short in the East Minico fire alarm was found, as well as a door problem at Minico Junior High School. Hatfield said both were repaired.
The inspector also prohibited use of the high school whirlpool because of a code violation.

Farm Food Stamp reform begun

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate farm leaders who began work on a food stamp reform bill by tentatively adopting a comparatively liberal stamp eligibility plan, have scrapped their initial work and decided to start all over again in late February, aides said Friday.

month standard deduction. Aides said this plan, cosponsored by Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Robert Dole, R-Kan., would allow a working family of four with gross earnings of about $9,300 a year to qualify for stamps. For welfare families not subject to income taxes, the ceiling would be $7,900.

Drafting work on the stamp reform plan began with a meeting last Monday of a Senate Agriculture subcommittee headed by Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala. On Tuesday, the panel met again but the session was less than several of its members had several engagements.

However, it is more liberal than a plan proposed by administration officials which would cut off eligibility at gross earnings of about $6,500. The McGovern-Dole formula would bar stamps for families with higher incomes who currently can at least theoretically qualify by using a complex series of gross income deductions for items including educational costs and excess housing and medical costs.

ORVs termed 'detrimental'

"Disturbances of desert environments by off road vehicles did appear detrimental, at least in the study areas."

This was a conclusion by a scientist involved in a recently evaluated study of off road vehicle impact on two desert sites in Southern Nevada. The study was conducted during the year of 1975.

area was set aside as a control where no disturbances were undertaken. In adjacent areas, soil and vegetation were subjected to a single pass by a truck and by a motorcycle. Also, areas were used for multiple passes. This included 20 by the truck and 50 by the motorcycle. At Crystal Springs there was a control and multiple (20) passes by truck, and 20 by motorcycle.

Wool men convene in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY — "Blueprint for Expansion," was the theme of the National Wool Growers Association (NWGA) and National Lamb Feeders Association (NLFA) Annual Convention, in Wichita, Kansas, January 26-29.

Study leader, Dr. Richard E. Eckert, ARS scientist and an adjunct professor at the University, pointed out that the study showed increases in runoff and erosion following soil disturbances by the ORVs.

Two sites were involved in the study, one in the Blue Diamond area near Las Vegas and the other at Crystal Springs outside of Ilko in Lincoln County in Nevada.

More rural doctors heading for hills

Medical students from rural backgrounds who specialize in family medicine are the most likely to set up practices in rural areas where physician shortages exist, according to a study from the University of Missouri.

It was the combination of background and specialty that produced the largest proportion of practitioners for these traditional scarcity areas, which include 26 per cent of the nation's population, but only 13 per cent of its physicians.

Soils damaged by waste

LAS VEGAS — "The use of agricultural soils primarily for animal waste disposal is not recommended."

"With growth in the number of cattle feedlots in Nevada during the early '70s," said Dr. Ralph A. Young, "there was interest in disposal of animal wastes with minimal or no environmental impact. The major reason for the study was to see if such wastes could be applied to agricultural crops at exceedingly high rates without diminishing crop yields, or polluting either soils or ground water."

Bullets nip Warriors

OAKLAND (UPI) — Guards Phil Chenler and Dave Bling combined for 42 points Sunday, pacing Washington to a 101-99 victory over Golden State and helping the Bullets snap a six-game losing streak to the Warriors in a nationally televised NBA game.

The Bullets, who lost four straight to the Warriors in the NBA Championship series last season and the first two games against them this season, took a 101-99 lead with 1:17 to go on a driving jumper by Bling, who scored 16 points.

That proved to be the winning basket, but the Warriors made it interesting as Phil Smith connected on a jump shot with 43 seconds left, trimming the lead to one point.

A swarming call on Wes Unseld gave Golden State a chance to take the lead, but Smith fumbled the ball off his foot, giving the Bullets the ball again with 14 seconds remaining.

Chenler, who scored a game high 26 points, then was fouled by rookie guard Gus Williams and made one of his two free throws for a 101-99 lead with three seconds remaining.

Golden State, losing for only the third time in 23 home games, called time to set up one play, but Elvin Hayes intercepted Charles Dudley's inbound pass intended for Rick Barry and time ran out.

Washington led most of the way, building a 12-point lead in the third period behind the shooting of Chenler, who scored 10 of his points in the period.

But Dwight Davis came off the bench and scored 10 points as the Warriors outscored the Bullets 16-10 to pull to within 77-72 at the end of three quarters.

Barry and Smith each scored 22 points for Golden State. Unseld topped all rebounders with 17 and also had a gameligh eight assists.

Jazz defeats Cavaliers

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Pistol Pete Maravich scored 36 points, including a driving layup with 10 seconds left to play, to lead the New Orleans Jazz to a 96-95 win over the Cleveland Cavaliers Sunday night.

The Cavaliers' Jim Chones hit a hook shot over Otto Moore to give Cleveland a 95-94 lead with 20 seconds left in the secesaw final minutes, but Maravich came back after a time out, taking the inbound pass and driving in for his fourth layup in 3.7 minutes.

Cleveland lost its last chance when Chones was short with a shot over Moore from 19 feet away and B.E. Coleman grabbed his 15th rebound of the night for the Jazz.

Bingo Smith was Cleveland's top scorer with 18 points.

Celtics whip Pistons

DETROIT (UPI) — Dave Cowens scored 27 points and got 15 rebounds Sunday night to lead Boston to a 114-109 win over the Detroit Pistons, extending the Celtics' winning streak to six games.

Detroit led most of the game, but Cowens scored 11 points in the fourth quarter to bring the Celtics back.

Cowens made two straight buckets to shave a six-point Detroit lead to two, 95-93, and then tied the game, 99-99. He broke a 101-101 tie with a three-point play.

Charlie Scott had a gameligh 29 points for the Celtics. Curtis Rowe led the Pistons with 21 and Bob Lanier added 20.

Atlanta tops Chicago

ATLANTA (UPI) — John Drew pumped in 34 points and Connie Hawkins supplied some much-needed defense in the final minutes to help the Atlanta Hawks to a 84-80 National Basketball Association victory over the Chicago Bulls Sunday night.

Drew scored Atlanta's first nine points as the Hawks pulled out front early in the game. They led 26-19 at the end of the first quarter.

The Hawks retained the lead throughout the second quarter and took a 49-33 advantage into halftime.

The Bulls rallied in the third quarter to cut the Hawks' lead from 66-51 to 66-61 with 21 seconds left in the quarter.

In the final period, the Bulls moved ahead briefly on a layup by Eric Fernsten and tied the score three times before Tom Henderson scored a layup with 2:16 remaining to give the Hawks an 82-80 lead and put them ahead for good.

Ben Crenshaw wins Hawaiian open with record score for second win in a row

HONOLULU (UPI) — Ben Crenshaw shot a birdie-studded six-under-par 69 Sunday while Hale Irwin and Bob Murphy ran into bogey trouble to grab the $23,000 Hawaiian Open and become the new season's first back-to-back winner.

The 24-year-old Crenshaw snapped a two and one-half year slump by winning the Crosby National 1975-76 last Sunday at Pebble Beach, Calif. He never led in the Hawaiian Open this week until a string of five birdies in the first nine holes of the final round moved him a shot ahead of Irwin, the 1974 U.S. Open champ who seemingly was in command all the way this week despite a heavy cold.

Crenshaw wound up with a tournament record 18-under-par 270 and an easy four-shot victory over Larry Nelson, a 28-year-old Alabaman looking for his first victory since 1962, and Irwin Nelson had a final round 69 while Irwin, who started the day three shots ahead of Crenshaw, slipped to a one-over 73. They finished at 14-under 274.

The victory was worth $46,000 and boosted Crenshaw's 1976 earnings to $38,690, almost twice as much as runner-up Johnny Miller, who opened the year by winning the Tucson Open but did not play here. Nelson, who ranked 66th on the money list last year with $39,810, and Irwin, who won $205,380 to rank fourth, earned a check for $21,275.

There were two back-to-back winners on the tour in 1975: Miller started the year by winning at Phoenix and Tieson while Roger Maltbie used consecutive victories at Quad Cities and Pleasant Valley in mid-season to win Hooke of the Year honors.

Murphy, who started the final round only a shot behind Irwin, bogeyed five of six holes from the 11th through the 16th to finish with a 74 and an 116 at 276, six shots behind Crenshaw.

Mike Morley matched Crenshaw's 66 to tie U.S. Open champ Lou Graham, former Masters champion Charles Coody and Al Geilguser, who was runner-up to Gary Player in the 1975 Hawaiian Open, at 13 under 275. Murphy was in with Gene Littler, Mac McLendon, Lee Trevino, Ed Sneed and Wally Armstrong at 276.

Mark Hayes, Jerry McFee, Alan Tapie and Maltbie wound up at 277 while John Schlee, the 1974 Hawaiian champ, Larry Wadkins and Billy Casper finished at 278. Arnold Palmer, still the biggest gallery favorite, although he has gone without a U.S. victory in three years, wound up at 279.

Crenshaw's birdies came on the first, second, sixth, eighth and ninth holes on the front side, which he turned in 31, and on the 10th and 16th coming back for a 35. His putt on the 16th, which he really didn't need, was a curling 35-footer.

His victory here was a new carbon-copy of his Crosby-Triumph seven-days earlier. In the Crosby, he closed with a 69 to beat Morley by two shots while Jack Nicklaus, the third round leader, skied to an unbelievable 82. Irwin didn't blow as high as Jack but he didn't play the kind of round that wins tournaments, either. He made the turn in 35 and came back in 32, missing short puts at the 14th and 15th holes for bogies that put him out of contention.

Judy Rankin wins Burdines

MIAMI (UPI) — Judy Rankin, battling driving rain and near-gale-force winds, shot a one-under-par 71 Sunday to win the $40,000 Burdines Invitational Golf Classic, the first stop on the 1976 LPGA tour.

The 39-year-old veteran notched the 16th victory of her 13-year career despite two rain delays, totaling an hour and a half, and the threat of postponement until Monday because of darkness.

Rankin rallied from behind to defeat runner-up Pat Bradley by three shots. Rankin's 54-hole total was 213, three under par over the 6,300-yard, par-72 Kendall Lakes Country Club course.

Bradley shot a final-round 74 for her 21st total. Another shot back at 217 was second round co-leader Jane Blalock, who carded a 76 Sunday.

Kathy Whitworth, the other second round co-leader, shot a 77 to tie Mary Mills at 218. Mills shot a 76.

Winds gusted to near 50 miles per hour and temperatures dropped to 68 as the sun set and play finally finished.

Rankin clinched the win with a birdie two on the 17th hole and then held on for a par four on the 18th as the last threemile of the day finished their round in complete darkness.

Because of the rain delays and wind-stowed play that sent scores soaring, it had been thought for a while that the last few threemes would have to mark their balls and complete the tournament from that point Monday morning.

Spirits stop Spurs

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Marvin Barnes' 22 points led the St. Louis scoring attack Sunday night to give the Spirits a 108-104 victory over the San Antonio Spurs.

The Spirits, who led throughout most of the game, had 16 points each by Ron Boone and M.L. Carr and 15 points each by Caldwell Jones and Don Cheney.

The Spirits had as much as a 15-point lead at 42-27 in the second quarter, but the Spurs scored 26 points in nine minutes to trail by only one, 56-55, at halftime.

The lead changed hands 10 times in the third quarter but St. Louis went ahead for good on a basket by Carr to make the score 79-78.

Silas and George Gervin added 27 points each for San Antonio. Silas set a new team record by running his streak of consecutive free throws to 32. He has hit 65 of his last 66.

Giants, San Francisco go to court Tuesday

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The city of San Francisco goes to court Tuesday, unless there is another postponement, to see if it can persuade a local judge to continue a restraining order that has prevented the baseball Giants from being sold and transferred to Toronto.

The city gained a temporary restraining order against the National Exhibition Co., Inc., which owns the San Francisco Giants, and the National League on Jan. 9 after Horace Stoneham, Giants president and principal owner, announced he had reached agreement to sell the team to Toronto interests for $125 million.

Of that amount, Stoneham was to receive $8.25 million in cash with the remainder to be used to pay off the 19 remaining years of the Giants' 35-year lease on Candlestick Park and cover legal costs of a move to Canada. With the Giants' rental at $125,000 a year, it would take $2,375,000 to satisfy the lease, and San Francisco city officials say they are entitled to a lot more and if a sale and transfer of the club is made, they will sue for upwards of $100 million.

Mayor George Moscone attended a meeting of National League owners in Phoenix two weeks ago and pleaded for time to find buyers who would keep the Giants in San Francisco. He said then he had three different groups interested in buying the club but as of this past weekend the Giants say no offer has been made except the one by the Toronto group, which is made up of Labatts-Brewery, the Toronto Mail and Globe newspaper and a Toronto bank.

Originally, a hearing on San Francisco's temporary restraining order against the Giants was set for Jan. 28 but the NL asked for a postponement because its attorney, Louis Hoynes, was involved in baseball's suit in a Kansas City federal court seeking to overturn an arbitrator's ruling that recently made pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally free agents.

There has been no indication as yet who will represent San Francisco in the hearing Tuesday in Judge John E. Benson's court. It could be the city attorney, one of his assistants or an outside attorney hired by the city. James Hunt will represent the Giants and Hoynes the National League.

If the judge rules against San Francisco, then NL owners probably in a telephone vote, almost certainly will approve the sale and transfer of the Giants to Toronto. It will take nine yes votes from the other 11 club owners to approve the transfer.

SOAP PREMIUM

Soap used to be made in long loaves and peddled by the pound. Sellers of same just chopped off chunks and weighed them. That wasn't good enough for Benjamin T. Babbit. In 1851, he pre-cut his soap, packaged the individual slices in distinctive little wrappers, and thus introduced the first "bars" of soap. Unfortunately, potential customers didn't like soap they couldn't see. Nobody bought. Mr. Babbit got desperate. Bring back the wrappers and I'll give you discounts on your next purchases, said he, or words to that effect. It was the first premium offer ever. And it changed up modern merchandising considerably.
