today in brief

Winter Olympics open at Innsbruck

INNSBRUCK (UPI) — The 12th Winter Olympic Games, originally scheduled for Denver, were officially opened at 7:17 a.m. MST in this town nestled at the bottom of the Tyrolean Alps before an estimated crowd of 50,000 people. The United States delegation of 120 athletes, the largest in the Games, entered the Berg Isel jumping stadium next to just among the 36 participating countries and received an ovation equal to that of host country Austria and neighboring West Germany.

U.S. confirmed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate today voted to confirm W.J. Urey Jr. as labor secretary despite opposition from Republican conservatives. Urey was expected to be sworn in shortly, bringing President Ford's Cabinet up to full strength. The veteran of management labor negotiations was elevated to the Cabinet by Ford.

Mr. T-N says
This is the Year of the Dragon... and a lot of us are.

Judge declares players free agents

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A federal judge today upheld an arbitrator's ruling that pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally were free agents, a decision ending the indefinite control by major league baseball club owners over players' contracts.

French troops free hostage pupils

DJIBOUTI, The Afars and the Issas (UPI) — French troops today stormed a school bus hijacked by nationalist gunmen and freed a group of French children and the driver. One girl was killed along with six nationalists in the gun battle and several schoolchildren were wounded.

Officials said the authorities in this tiny French East African territory decided to launch the military attack after the hijackers refused to free their 21 hostages — 20 children aged 10 to 12 years, and the driver — despite unspecified political concessions by France.

Connally choice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will name John Connally to the Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board, administration sources said today. The former Texas governor resigned from the board upon his 1974 indictment on bribery charges. Connally was acquitted 10 months ago and, according to the sources, Ford now wants him back on the panel. Ford plans to strengthen the advisory board as part of his reorganization of the federal intelligence community.

New York tenement blaze kills 7

NEW YORK (UPI) — Seven children ranging in age from 1 to 12 and three women suffocated early today in a three-alarm fire that spread thick smoke through a six-story walkup tenement on the Upper West Side. Fire officials said they believed the blaze, possibly caused by someone carelessly discarding a cigarette, started on a living-room couch in a first-floor apartment at the rear of 311 W. 94th St., near Riverside Drive. Fire Commissioner John J. O'Driscoll said "the fire on the ground spread through some pipe recesses to three rooms on the second floor and continued to the upper floors. It appears it was carbon monoxide poisoning that killed them."

Building purchase rumor denied

BOISE (UPI) — The state director of administration denied rumors today that the State of Idaho is planning to purchase the Sierra Life Insurance Building for office space in Twin Falls. The firm is asking $1.95 million for the 29,000-square-foot building. The Twin Falls based company has the office building for sale as part of preparations to move out of Twin Falls County and possibly out of Idaho. "Chilberg said the state has been contacted by a number of local Twin Falls Realtors regarding the property belonging to Sierra Life but at the price they are asking, the state is not interested."

Wet tramp to school

TRUDGING through falling flakes and a deep blanket of snow already on the ground, a girl crosses Twin Falls City Park on the way to school this morning. Most snow left a covering on tree branches and the dense fall of flakes cut visibility sharply at times.

Heavy snow falls over Magic Valley

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

MAGIC VALLEY — A heavy snowfall blanketed Magic Valley Tuesday night, with six inches reported in many valley areas and two inches at higher elevations. Highways throughout Magic Valley and in the Boise, Nevada and Idaho Falls areas were reported snow covered and slick this morning. Idaho State Police reported no serious accidents. Officers in Twin Falls said a number of vehicles had left the roadways but all accidents were of a minor nature. Only one school district, Shoshone, closed schools this morning when new snow in that area began drifting. Other schools were open with bus routes snow covered but not blocked. Floyd Dayley, Twin Falls Highway District manager, said he had seven graders working on roads in the area. Three were in the Bell Rapids and Magic Water localities, where only about two inches of snow fell. He said Rogerson and Hollister had about four inches and about the same amount fell in the Kimberly and Hansen regions. "Unless we get some wind, we'll be all right," Dayley said. He said his sander-truck-and-saltting equipment were working on rural intersections in Idaho Department of Transportation officials in Shoshone said highways were snow covered from Hollister to Stanley and from Twin Falls to Bliss. They said about six inches of snow fell in the King Hill and Bliss areas. Six inches of drifting snow fell at Timmerman Hill. Six inches was reported in Shoshone and 10 inches at Tom Cat Hill near Carey, Fairfield, Burley and Twin Falls all had from five to six inches of snow and Halley and Ketchum reported about two inches. Sun Valley Ski Patrol members said three inches of snow fell on the mountain and about the same amount on the lower runs. Reports showed 39 inches at the top of the mountain and 28 inches on lower Warm Springs for total depths. The valley floor has 14 inches. Pomerelle ski resort south of Burley reported two inches of snow this morning with overcast skies. At lower elevations, Burley received about five inches of snow. High winds were reported in Blaine County, but school buses were able to complete their routes on schedule. Jim Dorr, bus manager in Halley, said there might be an early closing of schools if winds continue. Wayne Fagg, superintendent of schools in Carey, said drifting was serious in the Picabo area but schools were open. The Buhl School District reported schools open with no problems except for one late bus. A bus idling on the road on the Clear Lakes grade shortly after 8 a.m. and another bus had to be sent out to bring in the students. There were no injuries and no damage to the bus, officials said.

Angola allied units advance

LUSAKA, Zambia (UPI) — Allied military sources today said that pro-Western forces in southern Angola are advancing on the road junction of Alto Hama in an effort to drive rival Marxist troops from that strategic position north of Huambo. The sources said troops of the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola were moving on Alto Hama with regular forces and guerrilla units which have already been operating behind the lines of the Soviet-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola. "All Hama controls access to Huambo, the southern capital of allied forces about 50 miles to the south, to UNITA's military headquarters at Silva Porto, 100 miles east and to Lobito and Benguela on the Atlantic coast.

Just prior to Yarborough's remarks, Brassey answered that he thought the contingency fund would eliminate the need for the institutions coming back to the legislature for supplemental aid. "I hope we'll get it all back," Sen. Walter Yarborough said. The budget committee had been granted contingency funds to the board and both times the board ignored the committee's direction. "But I'm willing to go along with them one more time," High added. Sen. Walter Yarborough, R-Grand View, said he added the contingency fund onto the governor's general fund recommendation of $47,500,000 was like "putting another quarter million in the overall budget."

Finance panel OK's college budget

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' proposed budget for Idaho's three universities and one college was approved by the legislative Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee today with a $250,000 contingency fund tacked on. By an 11-6 vote, the committee approved an appropriation of $47,752,400 in lump sum to the State Board of Education from the general fund, including the contingency money for the University of Idaho, Idaho State University, Boise State University and Lewis-Clark State College. Sen. Vernon K. Brassey, R-Boise, made the recommendation which the committee bought. This same proposal by Brassey was killed Tuesday on a 10-10 vote.

Just prior to Yarborough's remarks, Brassey answered that he thought the contingency fund would eliminate the need for the institutions coming back to the legislature for supplemental aid. "I hope we'll get it all back," Sen. Walter Yarborough said. The budget committee had been granted contingency funds to the board and both times the board ignored the committee's direction. Central America quake toll high

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI) — A major earthquake inflicted heavy damage in Guatemala City today and strong tremors rocked Salvador and Honduras. Heavy loss of life was feared in this city of 800,000 where hundreds of houses were reported destroyed. The death toll in Guatemala City was not immediately established. First reports said 50 persons were killed. A Guatemala City radio station said as many as 300 bodies had been found and an American relief agency said as many as 500 were killed. William Salas, the CARE director in Guatemala, reported to his New York office: "Estimated dead in Guatemala City 500, and 2,000 injured, and the toll is going up. The heart of the city is reported 50 per cent destroyed."

Hundreds of houses were reported destroyed when the earthquake struck, sending thousands of citizens running through the streets in panic. Heavy casualties were feared. A Guatemala City Radio station heard in Bogota, Colombia reported that firemen had recovered at least 300 bodies and that both the Holy-Rite Continental and the Roman Catholic Cathedral of Guatemala had suffered heavy damage. "The quake, which registered 7.5 points on the open-ended Richter Scale, first struck at 4:00 a.m. EST and aftershocks were being felt four hours later. President Anastasio Somoza of Nicaragua, who directed relief after a Dec. 23, 1972 quake killed 10,000 persons in the capital of his country, immediately flew to Guatemala City to offer his advice and aid to President Kjell Laugerud of Guatemala. When the quake struck, many citizens fled their homes to seek refuge in their parked cars, the streets littered with shattered glass from smashed windows. In the area where their correspondent lives, wide cracks opened in the streets. Electricity, telephone and water services were knocked out by the quake, but they were resumed two hours later. Aurora International Airport was closed for more than three hours but reopened when a check showed the runways had suffered no damage.

US grants Concorde trials OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Transportation Secretary William Coleman Jr. is rejecting arguments of environmentalists, today authorized the British-French Concorde supersonic jet to operate on a 16-month trial basis at both New York and Washington. Coleman's decision was a blow to opponents of the controversial SST, which cost the British and French governments $3 billion to develop. Immediate court challenges appeared certain. Ignoring the compromise expected by SST supporters and opponents alike, Coleman's ruling authorized six Concorde flights a day to the United States — the full number sought by British Airways and Air France. Coleman said each airline could operate two SSTs at New York's John F. Kennedy Airport and one SST at Washington's Dulles Airport on a daily basis between the hours of 7 a.m. and 10 p.m. local time. Scheduled commercial SST flights linking the United States with London and Paris would start as soon as late April, Coleman said. Coleman's ruling is all that is needed to permit SST operations at Dulles, a federally-owned airport. But additional permission must be granted by the New York Port Authority before the Concorde can land at Kennedy. Coleman said it would be "extremely unfortunate" if the port authority banned the SST, as some feel it will because of still New York opposition to the new jets.

In Caracas, Director Gunther Fiedler of the Venezuelan Seismological Institute registered an earthquake of 6.1 on the open-ended Richter scale. But readings from other locations put the quake's intensity as high as 7. "The earthquake was very powerful and must have had considerable effect on Guatemala's Pacific coast," Fiedler said. The U.S. National Earthquake Information Service in Golden, Colo., reported that a major earthquake occurred 125 miles northeast of Guatemala City and on the Guatemala-Honduras border and placed the time of the tremors at 4:02 a.m. EST. It put the magnitude at 7.5 on the Richter scale. Seismologist Roger Hunter said he had been in telephone contact with the U.S. embassy in Guatemala City and an embassy spokesman told him everyone at the embassy was safe. Amateur radio operators reported that land-slides had blocked several highways to the northern part of this Central American nation. As soon as the initial tremor subsided, brigades of police took to the streets of Guatemala City to prevent looting. Firemen and Red Cross workers removed the injured, initially numbered at 2,000.

Concorde opponents have based their strongest arguments on the SST's noise, saying the "thunder" of its four engines is four times louder than the noisiest subsonic jets and eight times louder than newer, quiet jumbo jets. "Noise is the factor which has generated by far the greater part of the controversy surrounding the British and French request," Coleman said, "and it must be this factor, if any, that compels me to restrict or ban Concorde flights to either of the two airports." He said the SST's unique low-frequency rumble raises no danger of structural damage to buildings near Dulles and Kennedy "and little possibility of annoyance."

Diseases strike

JEROME — Flu, chicken pox, measles and mumps have struck in the Jerome schools. Nearly 20 per cent of the students in the District 261 schools are absent from school because of illness, according to Supt. Percy Christensen. If the absentee rate reaches 25 per cent Jerome County schools would be closed, Christensen said. He said he has been in contact with the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare in connection with the high number of absent students. Elementary school children in Jerome's Washington School were the worst hit by the flu. But the junior high has 10 confirmed cases of mumps and scattered cases of chicken pox. A few teachers in each Jerome County school also have been bitten by the flu bug, according to the superintendent.

Patty Hearst's trial starts

© Chicago Daily News
SAN FRANCISCO — Patty Hearst, a spoiled kid with rich parents and a rotten horoscope, saw her trial for bank robbery begin today, two years to the day after her kidnapping by revolutionary crazies.

On Feb. 4, 1974, at 9:30 p.m., she cried out, "Oh no! Not me! O God! Please let me go!" when a squad from the tiny, arrogantly-styled "Symbionese Liberation Army" grabbed her.

On Feb. 4, 1974, at 9:30 a.m., her lawyers, led by famed F. Lee Bailey, made much the same plea to the federal government on the frightened, 35-pound girl's behalf, saying she is still a victim, now of a much bigger force.

Bailey filed a motion to dismiss the case, which he knew he couldn't win, and another to make the federal prosecutor limit his opening arguments to the time frame between Miss Hearst's kidnapping and the robbery of the Hibernia Bank exactly 70 days later. He hoped to win that.

The bank robbery, with a possible penalty of 35 years in prison, is all Miss Hearst is charged with in federal court.

But the saga of the young newspaper heiress went on and on, to shootouts in Los Angeles, tape recordings of her voice denouncing her parents and proudly declaring her conversion as the revolutionary Tania, a girl who'd gun you down if you made the mistake of "getting in the way," and that's what Bailey would like to keep out of the record.

"We just want a fair trial," Bailey said.

The weeklong chore of jury selection reached a climax at 5:37 p.m. Tuesday when associate defense counsel J. Albert Johnson raised his right hand to signal the press the 30th prospective juror had been chosen.

U.S. District court Judge Oliver J. Carter ordered all 36 to report in at 9:30 a.m. Their bags packed for a long stay, when the lawyers would then exercise their peremptory challenges — thinning down the jury list to 12 actuals and 4 alternates.

The unchosen were to return home and the rest were to start their long stay in the charge of the U.S. marshal, until the trial ends to 5 weeks from today, by the judge's estimate. The judge, however, also figured the jury selection would only take 2 days, instead of 7.

Carter set the arguments on the defense motions next, to be followed by opening arguments by both sides, spelling out what they intend to prove, or disprove.

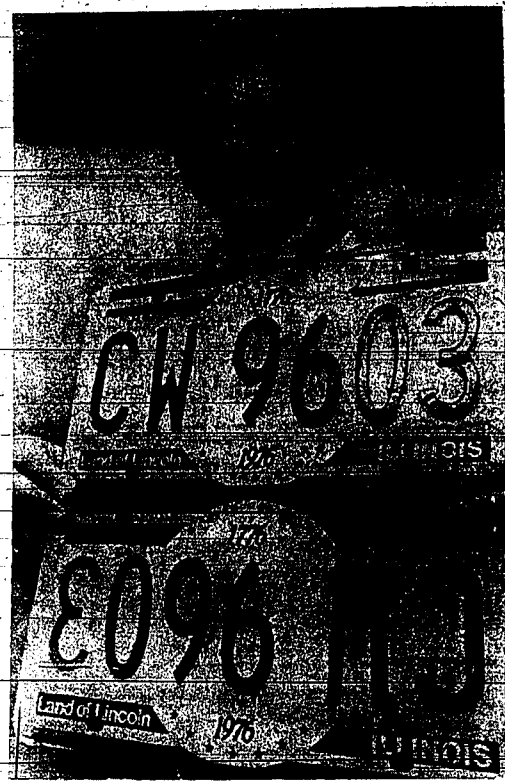

U.S. Dist. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. was first, and said he intended to take an hour. Bailey was next, and said he scheduled 40 to 50 minutes.

Before the jury was sequestered, and locked up out of sight and sound of newspapers and television, Bailey Bailey filed his final pre-trial motions, including one he won — an order for the judge that the defendant be taken to a doctor for a head X-ray.

In an elevator interview, Bailey said Miss Hearst had been slimmed in the head with a rifle butt during her capture by the S.L.A. in the apartment she shared with fiance Steven Weed. He said he hoped a hairline fracture would show in the film.

Weed, in his new book, "My Search for Patty Hearst," relates that Patty was "hit in the face with a rifle butt and thrown into the trunk" of a waiting convertible after he was unable to thwart her kidnappers, led by Donald De Franco, the self-designated "General Field Marshal Cinque" of the S.L.A.

Weed figures to be one of the first government witnesses — and certainly the first defense witness if Browning doesn't put him on the stand, Bailey has said.

Ownership in question

BISE — There may be some question as to who owns mortgages on Mesa County, Colo. property which Sierra Life Insurance has held.

In late December Sierra transferred its mortgages on these properties to Sandia Life Insurance Co. to back up about 8,300 policies it had sold to Sandia. Sandia is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Sierra which the Twin Falls-based insurance company formed in December.

In Wyoming hearings last week, Sierra claimed it no longer holds mortgages on the Colorado properties and several other assets being challenged by the Wyoming Department of Insurance.

Wyoming Insurance Commissioner John Langdon, however, decided the department has a right to examine the assets since the transfer to Sandia was not an "arms-length" transaction.

Monday the Times-News reported on the Colorado property mortgages held by Sierra. The paper did not mention the ownership complication that Sierra had transferred these properties to Sandia.

Panel aids probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate ethics committee announced today it is cooperating with federal agencies in an "indepth investigation" of alleged illegal campaign donations from Gulf Oil Corp. to several senators.

In a carefully worded two-paragraph announcement, the Select Committee on Standards and Conduct said it has had already three meetings to discuss the contributions.

AMC lists sales skid

DETROIT (UPI) — American Motors Corp. reported today that its late January new car sales slipped nearly 17 per cent. from last year's rebate-inflated sales pace.

The drop in sales by AMC, the first of the four U.S. automakers to report January new car sales figures, broke a string of 12 consecutive periods in which sales topped the corresponding year-earlier periods.

A practical solution to funeral expense

Recent surveys of families who have had experience in making funeral arrangements, shows that more than 60% recommend that other families make such arrangements in ADVANCE of need.

Such pre-need arrangements are easy at White Mortuary. All decisions are made in advance and recorded in our permanent file. Financing is simple through existing insurance; purchases of our low-cost Purple Shield Funeral Insurance; or through time payments. Painted Lady shares affections with US

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — Idaho legislators are getting ready to honor a Painted Lady who shares her affections with all of North America.

At the request of schoolchildren in the Idaho Falls area, the House State Affairs Committee has introduced a bill to designate the Painted Lady Butterfly as the state insect.

Last year, the legislature considered conferring that distinction on the noble Leaf-cutter, but the proposal failed. This year, however, again this year, to honor the little Leaf-cutter and a bill probably will be put before State Affairs this week.

Sponsors of the Painted Lady are trying to head the Leaf-cutter off at this time. They say it is only fitting to designate the little butterfly the state insect because, in the larva stage, it eats Canadian thistle.

"And everybody knows how important that is to an agricultural state like Idaho," they say.

What they may not know, however, is that this pretty little butterfly Idaho wants to call its own.

is a "migratory butterfly." It's found all over the world and especially in North America south of the Arctic.

Hugh Homan, extension entomologist at the University of Idaho, says it's here every year but not in great numbers.

"There is really an abundance of them only occasionally," Homan says. "It's nothing we have in Idaho forever."

Dr. Charles Baker of the Boise State University science department agrees.

"We see massive flights every few years," Dr. Baker says. "They come in to reproduce."

Robert Chehey, supervisor of microbiology at the Idaho State Laboratory and an amateur lepidopterist, says the Painted Lady, also known as cynthia cardui, is "the most cosmopolitan species of butterfly in the world."

It's found on every continent, probably due to its tendency to migrate.

A few individuals winter out in Idaho, Chehey says, but the cold weather bugs most of them.

53 bills offered

BOISE (UPI) — Tuesday was the final day for all but the Finance and State Affairs Committees of the Senate to introduce bills, with 53 pieces of legislation being introduced.

The Senate held its first afternoon meeting of the session to allow the committees to introduce the legislation. Introductions included 52 bills and a resolution.

Public approval for game aides?

BOISE (UPI) — The House Resources and Conservation Committee Tuesday held until next Monday for further discussion a bill proposing the public rather than the Senate confirm fish and game commissioners.

At present, the five commissioners are appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. This proposal, brought in by Rep. Noy Brackett, R-Twin Falls, would require the public to confirm the appointments at the next general election.

Fish and Game Director Joe Greenley, who worked for 15 years under an elected commission in another state, told the committee such legislation could be devastating to fish and game programs.

He said because of the controversial nature of fish and game management it could lead to quick turnover in commissioners.

Pearson sets bid

BOISE (UPI) — Kelly Pearce, 36, executive director for the Lava Hot Springs foundation for the past 32 years, plans to announce his candidacy for the Democratic congressional nomination Friday.

Pearce said he will resign his post with the foundation to devote full time to campaigning for the seat now held by Republican George Hansen of Pocatello.

He said his campaign will focus on government's response to the people, government reorganization, zero-budgeting, and improving the nation's agricultural potential.

Fund shift stalls

BOISE (UPI) — Introduction of a bill to take transfer funds from Boise's proposed performing arts center and use it for establishment of an alcohol-treatment center in Ada County was blocked in the Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee today.

The committee voted to hold the measure, sponsored by Sen. James Yost, R-Wendell.

Yost's attempt was called "unfair" by Sen. Ric Cobbs, R-Boise, who said he had not been informed of the proposed move. Cobbs moved to table the bill in committee then asked it be held.

Today is the last day for introduction of bills by Senate committees other than State Affairs and Finance.

Yost said he has been criticized for not coming up with a solution to the alcohol problem. "This would be a solution to a large portion of our problem," he added.

"If the treatment center is needed," Cobbs said, "let's take all the liquor funds from all the counties."

Idaho roads snowy

BOISE (UPI) — An overnight snow storm left many of southern Idaho's major highways now covered and slick today and forced closure of two of them in the eastern portion of the state.

By road, this was the report from the State Departments of Transportation and Law Enforcement:

- U.S. 95 — Maring to Oregon line, snow floor, chains advised; Mesa Hill to New Meadows, icy spots.
- State Highway 55 — Banks Canyon to New Meadows, icy spots.
- State Highway 21 — Boise to Lowman, snow floor, slight drifting.
- Interstate 80N — Boise to Caldwell to Burley, snow floor, slight drifting.
- State Highway 68, U.S. 20-26, — Mountain Home to Craters of the Moon, snow floor, slight drifting; Arco to Idaho Falls, closed.
- U.S. 93 — Twin Falls to Lost Pass, snow floor, slight drifting.
- State Highway 21 — Brunson to Nevada line, icy spots, broken snow floor.
- Interstate 15W — High winds.
- Interstate 15 — Monida Pass, closed.
- U.S. 20 — Rigby to West Yellowstone, broken snow floor.
- U.S. 30N — Bode Springs to Grace, snow floor, snowing.

Lockheed payoffs disclosed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said today Lockheed Aircraft Corp. paid bribes to government officials in West Germany, Switzerland, Scandinavia, Italy and Japan.

Church made the revelation in an opening statement before his senate subcommittee on multinational corporations which is probing Lockheed's admitted bribes and kickbacks of $22 million over the past five years.

Church said Lockheed "used an off-the-books account to buy business intelligence and pay the officials of major European airline consortium that include Lufthansa, SAS and Swiss Air."

Church also said Lockheed made political contributions in Italy which gave the Italian Communist Party "its electoral election issue, corruption."

Church said Lockheed had bribed a paid agent "a prominent leader of the ultraright wing military political faction in Japan." He did not name the official.

Church's panel and the Senate Banking Committee, chaired by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., tried without success last August to obtain letters, contracts and memos dealing with sales of Lockheed's L1011 aircraft to overseas customers.

Sunday sale bill offered

BOISE (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee voted without discussion Tuesday to introduce a local option bill authorizing Sunday liquor by the drink sales in Idaho.

Rep. Rudy Andersen, R-Boise, brought in the bill which would permit such sales now prohibited — between the hours of noon and 10 p.m. if local voters approved.

Meanwhile, the committee sent to the floor with a favorable recommendation a bill to increase the number of judges on the bench of the Fourth Judicial District to five from four.

Merger idea unpopular

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. Lyle Cobbs, R-Boise, is drafting legislation to require merger of the Boise, Meridian and Kuna school districts because the present alignment does not make sense for the taxpayers.

Cobbs unveiled his proposal Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the Ada County legislative delegation with Meridian school district and city officials. He predicted it would be unpopular with the school boards. "It was correct."

He said he is drafting the bill because of the way the Meridian district comes to within the shadow of Capital High School in west Boise.

Rather than sending students living on the edge of the Meridian district to Capital, he said, they are put on an "expensive bus and sent clear across the county."

"This is not good sense as far as the taxpayers of Ada County are concerned," Cobbs said.

Local option tax a good proposal

Local option taxes for Idaho cities would go a long way toward helping smaller communities provide better community services.

A local option tax bill—introduced in the legislature Tuesday gives Idaho cities such options as taxing beds, retail sales and liquor-by-the-drink. Voters in a community would have to approve the additional taxes before they could be imposed.

The local option bill currently being considered is flexible enough to give a wide variety of communities needed taxing authority. Ketchum, for example, could benefit greatly by the bed tax segment of the local tax bill while the household and sales tax provisions would help more stable communities such as Jerome, Rupert and Bull.

Since Idaho and Alabama are the only two states without a broad local option tax measure, it appears most of the nation has utilized local option taxes as successful tools to meet the financial needs of smaller communities.

Local option taxes will increase Idaho taxes. While no one likes the idea of paying more taxes, the option of paying a higher local tax to get paved streets, better hospital facilities or better libraries is an example of local control versus state control.

At the present time Idaho cities may only impose a property tax on the residents and must rely on the state legislature for any additional funds for local projects.

While the local option tax proposal won't lower taxes it will provide a way for cities to assume better financial control of their own budgets. The Idaho legislature would do a service to the state by approving the local option tax bill.

Naming Idaho's state insect

Things must be a little slow at the state legislature this year.

With nothing else to talk about, the legislature this week took up debate on the important issue of what the Idaho State Insect should be.

Last year, during a lull in the lawmaking, the solons almost approved a measure naming the leaf-cutter bee as the state insect.

But on the advice of constituents under age 10, the legislature swatted down that idea and now seems on the threshold of endorsing the Painted Lady Butterfly as the state insect.

No one has yet suggested what the state reptile should be, or named the contenders for state weed.

Partisan politics don't seem to be playing much of a role in the battle to establish a state insect. It seems the legislators are unanimously in favor of getting this important question out of the way.

The implications of naming a state insect could be far-reaching.

Idaho may be the first state to outlaw flyswatters. Or we may have to change our license plates from "Famous Potatoes" to "Famous Insects."

The state flag may have to be redone and a new building honoring the insect may have to be funded for one of the state's campuses.

With this year's decision to name a state insect legislators may find enough related issues to keep them busy all next legislative session.

Egg on Ford's face as envoy quits

Chicago Daily News WASHINGTON The latest chapter in the flamboyant saga of Daniel Patrick Moynihan has ended with egg on President Ford's face.

Moynihan called on the President last Wednesday and got another vote of approval for his work at the United Nations, he neglected one thing—according to White House spokesmen.

He didn't tell Ford he would be leaving the U.N. post because his leave from Harvard would run out by the end of the week.

Instead, Moynihan returned to New York, and after lengthy conferences with colleagues there, he decided to return to the White House Saturday.

Informing the President that "today is the last of my leave from the university, I must return now, or must give up for good my professorship there and, in effect, give up my profession as well."

The President was in Dearborn, Mich., Saturday and did not learn of Moynihan's action until he was airborne, headed for an engagement in Williamsburg, Va. His chief of staff, Richard Cheney, told him that Moynihan had quit.

Cheney, who had talked to Moynihan by phone after learning of the resignation letter from national security assistant Brent Scowcroft at the White House, told Ford Moynihan's leave from Harvard had expired and that he couldn't get it extended beyond the month of February, during which time the U.S. delegate will serve as president of the Security Council.

The President was said to have been equally surprised when another aide suggested that perhaps Moynihan intended to run for the U.S. Senate from New York, as had been speculated in the press.

Moynihan's resignation appeared at first glance to have been the result of a running controversy with the State Department over his tactics and style in the U.N. forum—it came on the heels of a cable, which was leaked to the New York Times and in which Moynihan berated anonymous department officials for alleging that he was "needlessly pro-active" in his debate with the World Council of the U.S.

Moynihan said in the cable, which he asked the department to circulate to all U.S. embassies throughout the world, that his actions had in fact helped to break up the anti-U.S. blocs.

The cable was published in last Wednesday's Times, and White House spokesman Ron Nessen said with a straight face that it had not been discussed when Moynihan met with the President.

Moynihan's thesis is that the United States suffers from a kind of auto-hypnosis. We are every now and then one of them leaks out, and one of them has just now done so in which many subtle points are made with wit and force. What Mr. Moynihan is saying is this:

Buhl farmer views union's state

Editor, Times-News: Part of my message to the State of the Union, the President and government of the United States of America:

Our family farms are going on the rocks and it seems that nothing is done about it.

We used to have lots of small farmers but they are fast disappearing and large corporations are taking over which is bad for the country.

When we first came to Idaho in 1818 there was lots of 80-acre farms—many 40-acre farms had 2 houses on them and the married hired man and his family was living there, so that made 2 families making a living on 80 acres. Now one man will farm 500 acres or more by himself and his family which puts about 6 families on the rocks—how can you do it?

They went broke on the farm so they drift into the towns and cities which creates more unemployment. I think it is high time to do something about it if we want to get this country back on its feet.

These prices should be adjusted or a parity of 1.00 per bushel for wheat and 1.25 for corn. If our beans are down to 13 and 16 cents now. There is no way you can raise beans for that price with the price of machinery. The interest, carrying charges and the wages—there is no way a hired man will charge you about $24 an acre. That would be 2 cents of beans at 12 cents a pound. By the time fall comes and the harvest is over the hired man owns all the beans. So what does the farmer have?

They went broke on the farm so they drift into the towns and cities which creates more unemployment. I think it is high time to do something about it if we want to get this country back on its feet.

Why not put about $2 billion into the F. H. A. all over the country and let us have it at 6 percent so our young people could buy themselves a small farm, exist and keep him from wandering into the city.

Moynihan's cables best specimens

Before I forget to say it, I wish that when Daniel Patrick Moynihan retires from public life, a generation hence, he will set up an Institute on Cable Writing.

His are the highest specimens of the art. They are as lucid as stop-signs, as exuberant as a bursting springhead, as charged with a narrative tension as a diplomatic thriller. And know ye all, even unto the disbelievers, there is in them no hint of jargon. In a perfect world Mr. Moynihan's cables would be sent directly to the Associated Press, and the scheming governors and slavemasters of the world, abandoning other fleshly pursuits, would sit back in their thrones and enjoy.

Unfortunately, his cables are secret. But every now and then one of them leaks out, and one of them has just now done so in which many subtle points are made with wit and force. What Mr. Moynihan is saying is this:

The bureaucratic types in the State Department and out of the State Department are so shocked by the transference of candor brought by Moynihan to the United States mission at the United Nations that they began early on predicting that Moynihan's approach was bound to fail.

Having predicted that it was bound to fail, they are now having to defend their own slyly commitments by insisting that the policies have failed.

In doing so, they have enlisted the cooperation of lazy hind-out processors who relay inaccurate information. "This mission," Mr. Moynihan ends one paragraph, "does not expect such persons to change their minds. We do ask, however, that out of a decent respect for their profession they stop blabbing to the press what is not so."

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

Moynihan's thesis is that the United States suffers from a kind of auto-hypnosis. We are every now and then one of them leaks out, and one of them has just now done so in which many subtle points are made with wit and force. What Mr. Moynihan is saying is this:

Samaritans aid injured tuber

To Good Samaritans: Like the good Samaritan of Jesus' parable whose birth name is not known, neither do I know the names of many of you who showed such concern and compassion Sunday afternoon at the forestry litter tube area in the South Hills.

A group of youth from our church had come up to enjoy the snow. My youngest daughter was one of them, but on arriving was immediately injured in a freak accident.

Many of you who were there came to her aid. Some of you furnished blankets. A nurse from one of the hospitals in Twin Falls, who had also been injured, watched over her for an hour until the ambulance arrived. A deputy sheriff put a call in for the ambulance. Quale's T.V. van provided a warm place to keep her in. A Mrs. Cogswell also helped by staying close by.

To express our love for you living examples of Jesus' Good Samaritan. And my wife and I wish to thank you for "Thanks." In this open letter. By the way, our daughter is doing fine and back in school.

Abort foes turn drive against ruling to House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Stung by a Senate setback but buoyed by President Ford's statement on the issue, antiabortion advocates turned to the House today with scores of proposals to overturn or bypass a 1973 Supreme Court ruling.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chairman of the House civil and constitutional rights subcommittee, scheduled the start of public hearings for today on the legal and constitutional aspects of antiabortion proposals.

Staff members say 40 or 50 pieces of legislation have been introduced, although many are duplicates.

Tuesday, Ford said he disagrees with the Supreme Court's 1973 ruling which resulted in liberalized abortion rights.

In a CBS television interview, the President said abortions should be available on a limited basis in cases of rape or in other unfortunate circumstances—but favored a constitutional amendment permitting each state to set its own abortion standards.

That proposal, introduced by Rep. William Whitehurst, R-Va., is among those being considered by Edwards' subcommittee.

Other proposals would outlaw abortions altogether or with certain exceptions, some extend legal rights to 37 weeks and one redefines the word "person" to include the unborn in the sixth and 14th amendments.

A variation of the states' rights approach also has been offered to permit both Congress and the states to protect rights legislatively at every stage of biological development.

Sources said the hearings were expected to last six or eight days and efforts would be made to avoid duplicating the record of testimony amassed by Sen. Birch Bayh's constitutional rights subcommittee during 18 months of hearings in the Senate.

The Bayh subcommittee ultimately defeated all proposed changes. The Indiana Democrat said he considered the abortion debate to be over, at least for the current session of Congress.

Most of the witnesses at the House hearings will be lawyers who have handled abortion rights cases or law professors who have written extensively on the subject. The initial hearings will review laws from the 19th century to the 1973 ruling and outline the legal efforts to date.

Later hearings will focus on aspects of the abortion issue not covered by the Supreme Court. These include the impact of the Edelin case, involving a Boston physician convicted of manslaughter for performing an abortion, and questioning of parental or spousal consent.

ROBERT STRAUSS asks for funds

March 1. Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss asked emergency action by Congress to keep the payments flowing to Democrats and two Republicans running for the White House.

But Strauss' failure to endorse a revival of the six-member commission brought charges of a "backroom deal" between him and Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, key congressional figure on the needed legislation.

Fred Wertheimer, vice president and chief lobbyist for Common Cause, accused Strauss of sacrificing the FEC in return for a new law that would continue payments to the presidential candidates.

"There's a Democratic party scandal in the making," Wertheimer told reporters as they emerged from Strauss' news conference at Democratic Party headquarters. "This is Wayne Hays' idea."

Legislation is necessary before March 1 because the Supreme Court has ruled the commission was created in an unconstitutional way and must be reformed if it is to exercise its powers and distribute the primary election payments to eligible contenders.

Hays, chairman of the House Administration Committee, wants to abolish the commission and keep the funds flowing through the comptroller general or some other federal agency.

Also at stake in the controversy is another $16 million for the Republican and Democratic National Committees to pay for expenses of a presidential nominating convention.

Common Cause has accused Hays of trying to subvert the 1974 election reform law by undermining the election commission. It wants Congress to pass a simple law to let the President name all six members of the commission to meet the Supreme Court's objection that two seats were named by the Senate and House.

Commission Chairman Tom Curllis, a former GOP congressman from Missouri, made the same point, declaring that an independent commission is vital.

The Senate is considered likely to pass a bill to comply with the Supreme Court ruling on the make-up of the commission. The House, where Hays is a dominant figure, clearly is the major obstacle for Common Cause and other reform-minded lobbying organizations.

The high tribunal upheld the public financing provisions of the campaign law under which the commission has authorized payment of nearly $5 million so far.

Ford pushes extension of revenue share plan

By United Press International

President Ford, in addition to stating his "moderate" view on abortion Tuesday, made a pitch for extension of revenue-sharing. His campaign committee said Ronald Reagan would do away with the multibillion dollar program and thus force localities to raise taxes.

A spokesman for Reagan said his economic policy would not have that effect because "tax revenues would be returned to the states" for local application. "As long as the federal government controls the money," he said, "it can control what can be done with it."

Ford and Vice President Nelson Rockefeller urged Congress Tuesday not to delay getting the $6.5 billion revenue-sharing program passed by July 1 so states and cities could plan on the funds in their budgets. Ford said the effect of a delay "would be catastrophic."

The President Ford Committee put out a statement quoting three Florida mayors "deploring Reagan's plan to eliminate all revenue-sharing plans," which provided the crucial primary state with $180 million in fiscal 1975.

Reagan, campaigning in Ft. Lauderdale, responded through a spokesman: "It's obvious those mayors have not read what the governor has said. What he said specifically is that under his plan, tax revenues would be returned to the states so they could run their own programs."

One day after spraining his knee while being carried onto an airplane, Alabama Gov. George Wallace told an overflow crowd in West Palm Beach, Fla. Tuesday he was "physically able to carry your message."

Wallace called his injury "uncomfortable" but added it was "no hindrance" to his campaign.

He called for a constitutional amendment "that would protect the lives of unborn children and nullify the Supreme Court decision" on abortion. He said it was "another example of a destruction of true values in our society."

Ford, interviewed on CBS about abortion, said, "I'm in a moderate position in that area. I do not believe in abortion on demand. I do not agree with the court decision."

He said, "There are instances when abortion should be permitted. The illness of the mother, rape or any other unfortunate things that might happen."

— Rockefeller said he has not campaigned for Ford because he hasn't been asked by campaign manager Howard Callaway, whose public criticism of him preceded the vice president's withdrawal from the ticket.

— Democrat Jimmy Carter, speaking at Clearwater, Fla., Tuesday, said he would take the Army Corps of Engineers "out of the dam building business entirely" and that he would cut fat from the Defense Department, "the most wasteful bureaucracy in Washington."

— Milton Shapp, also in Florida, proposed setting a national goal, like the space program, "making the United States independent of oil from other nations within 10 years." There has been a rape of the space program in allowing so many talented people to leave the team "... The same team could move from space to energy."

Iran ponders arms cutback

N. Y. Times Service

WASHINGTON — Iran, the Pentagon's largest foreign customer, is threatening to cut back its arms purchases because of the rising cost of weapons and a dip in oil revenues.

The immediate issue, according to officials of the Defense Department and State Department, is whether Iran will go ahead with its order of six Spruance-class destroyers costing some $2 billion.

Iran had been encouraged by the Pentagon to buy the destroyers, which are among the most advanced ships now joining the U.S. Navy, so it could establish a naval presence in the Indian Ocean.

Gun backers shift plan

Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON — Lobbyists for the National Rifle Association have been trying a new tactic in an attempt to kill gun-control legislation that is advancing through the House of Representatives.

The lobbyists have been visiting congressmen who are members of the House Judiciary Committee, or their staff aides, and urging that the legislation under consideration be strengthened, not weakened.

EVERY MORNING AT 9 AM OUR PRESIDENT GOES THRU 12 CANS OF DOG FOOD.

He does everything but taste it. He checks the aroma. Examines the consistency. Compares the color. And reviews the contents of a dozen cans. Sometimes more.

To personally make sure each batch of Blue Mountain doesn't meet national national standards, but exceeds them.

"What's good enough for the National Research Council isn't good enough for me."

Mr. Harkin is joined in this ritual by four or five other top executives. Every day. They've been watching over quality like this for over 20 years now. Just to make sure your dog gets the taste he likes and the nutrition he needs.

Fortunately, we're still small enough to pay this kind of personal attention to our products. Maybe that's why we're so popular with people who know dogs. And dog foods.

13-year-old boy sentenced to jail

GOLDEN, Colo. (UPI) — Ronald L. Peters gets special treatment at the Jefferson County Jail. He's the only 13-year-old inmate in the place.

Peters was sentenced to 30 days in jail last week after being found guilty of his third traffic offense in three years. Although the boy is three years under the minimum driving age in Colorado, he nearly ran over some neighborhood children during his last venture in a car.

"Jail was the only alternative to someone getting injured," County Judge Howard Baker Jr. said. "And the boy's father agreed a few days in jail might do him some good."

Baker said he would meet with Peters later this week and said he might shorten the youngster's sentence if the boy showed a change in his attitude.

"In the meantime, Peters gets crackers and milk each night before going to bed. And he attends school each day under special arrangements made with jail authorities."

A State Department spokesman disclosed Tuesday that Kissinger paid a "courtesy visit" to Nixon Monday afternoon, traveling by Marine Corps helicopter from Los Angeles, where Kissinger spoke to civic groups.

Panel rejects allegations

CAIRO (UPI) — An investigating committee has rejected as false allegations made by an Egyptian journalist that late President Gamel Abdel Nasser had made illegal financial acquisitions in Egypt.

The three-man committee, led by Ahmed Zaido, governor of the central bank, denied Nasser had deposited $15 million contributed by the late King Saud of Saudi Arabia into private bank accounts in Switzerland.

The money in question consisted of two checks of $5 million as an outright gift and a third check for $10 million as a loan.

Mrs. Mellon wins custody

NEW YORK (UPI) — The divorced wife of Pittsburgh multimillionaire Seward Prosser Mellon won custody of their two daughters Tuesday after telling the judge she feared Mellon might try to take the girls by force.

Mellon, president of the Mellon Foundation, had claimed custody of the girls — Catherine Leigh, 7, and Constance Elizabeth, 5 — under terms of a Pennsylvania court ruling.

Karen Boyd Mellon, 32, told Manhattan Supreme Court Justice Manuel Gomez that Mellon has hired off-duty New York State troopers to dog her and the two girls and that men posing as FBI agents had questioned her parents about where she was staying.

The couple was divorced in June, 1974.

Teens have spending spree

FORT EDWARD, N.Y. (UPI) — Three teen-age boys had a spending spree with $5,000 they stole from an elderly woman who had saved the cash to cover her funeral expenses, authorities said.

The youths were arrested Monday night. Police said they bought motorcycles, motorcycles, food and clothing and gave their school mates whatever money was left, "like candy."

The money was apparently stolen Jan. 3 but the woman did not discover the loss until Friday, police said.

Neither the victim nor the boys, who were all younger than 16, were identified.

Animals get Mondays off

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The animals at Mexico City's zoo have been given Mondays off to calm down.

About 6 million people visit the 2,500 animals every year, Jean P. Schloch, chief of the Chapultepec Park Zoo said.

"Some of them get so nervous, they have heart attacks and die," he said.

Giving them a day off each week, he said, "will contribute to the better conservation of the 315 species we have here."

Queen of diamonds wins

COYLE, Okla. (UPI) — Fred Carnes and Ed Ford each received 75 votes in school board election so they decided to draw cards to determine the winner. But it wasn't that simple.

Both men drew eights the first time. A second drawing was held and both drew twos.

The cards were shuffled again and a third drawing was held. Ford picked an eight. Then Carnes slowly reached into the deck and pulled out the queen of diamonds to win the race.

'Nice' guy robs bank

HACKBERRY, La. (UPI) — "I don't think we could have been robbed by a nicer guy," the bank president said.

A thief broke into a branch of the Cameron State Bank Sunday night and stole a pouch containing deposit slips and negotiable checks, but dumped everything in a mailbox because there was no cash.

"We could have stood some loss," bank president E. J. Dronet said Tuesday. "Some of the items could have been negotiated further by someone who knew what to do with them."

The thief smashed a glass panel to break into the bank and snatched the pouch from a teller's window. A postman found the pouch in the mailbox Monday. It had been all open but nothing was missing.

"Apparently the robber thought the pouch contained cash," Dronet said. "After he slit open the bag and found out there was no cash at all, he just left everything intact and threw it in the mailbox."

"That was real nice of him."

Oddity probed

BARRANQUILLA, Columbia (UPI) — A pig with some human features reportedly was born on a small farm last weekend, but it died two hours later.

German Garcia Cardona, a veterinarian, said the creature's mouth, checkbones and nails resembled those of a human. He said the corpse was being studied at his clinic.

Garcia Cardona said the piglet was one of two born to a sow on the farm of peasant Julio Alberto Sanchez in Sabanalarga, a nearby Caribbean coast town. The second pig was apparently normal, but it also died shortly after birth.

The oddity caused some panic in the area among local peasants, some of whom considered it a "diabolical creature."

Mystery baffles Scotland Yard

LONDON (UPI) — The Case of the Clean Corpse began in the early hours of Monday, Jan. 19. More than two weeks later, it still baffles the best brains of Scotland Yard.

"There are so many mysteries here," said Detective Chief Inspector John Harris. "Every answer we find just seems to raise more questions."

It was 1:33 a.m. when the curtain rose on a case as baffling as any — Agatha Christie ever invented. A taxi driver passing through an underpass about a mile from Euston railway station spotted a body by the road.

It was a teen-age boy. He was alive, unconscious and horribly injured — a head wound and multiple injuries "which would be consistent with a fall from a considerable height," Harris said.

The cabbie took the boy to a hospital. He died without regaining consciousness — and the mysteries began.

"The first thing was that the body was so clean," Harris said. "Spotless. There wasn't even any scale between his toes. It was as if he'd been thoroughly scrubbed."

Then there were his clothes. They didn't seem to belong to him. They were his height, but several sizes too wide. They were spotlessly clean — no blood, no dirt — and freshly pressed. Only his shoes had scuff marks on the back of the heels, as he had been dragged.

His pockets held nothing, not even lint.

Doctors said the injuries showed no sign of textile patterns, as they would if a blow were struck "through clothes."

Conclusion: the boy was injured first, then scrubbed, dressed and taken to where he was found.

At the time a newspaperman noticed a resemblance between Scotland Yard's description of the body — and that of a boy missing from his home in North Wales.

Quickly the body was identified — Peter Watts, 15, of Colwyn Bay, Wales. But that made the mystery even worse.

What was he doing 230 miles from home? He was a bright, happy boy from a good home with no reason to run away. How did he get to London? On the day before he died, Peter had lunch with his parents, Percy and Hazel Watts — and his brother, Mark, 17. Later Mr. and Mrs. Watts took Mark for a driving lesson. They never saw Peter again.

They returned to find a note saying he'd gone to visit a friend in Chester, 20 miles away. Police found a ticket bought by a youngster who didn't get on the train there.

They found a soldier who thinks he chatted with Peter on a train to London. The boy was cheerful and calm, he said.

LeROY CRAIG, chairman of the College of Southern Idaho board of directors, presents Louise Flowers, secretary to Dr. James Taylor, with a silver tray engraved from the college.

Long-time employe resigning from CSI

TWIN FALLS — Louise Flowers, secretary to Dr. James Taylor, and the first permanent employe hired other than Dr. Taylor, is resigning from the College of Southern Idaho. Mrs. Flowers is leaving to join her husband, Gus Flowers in their new eat shop in Jerome County. Flowers is a wedding and metal sculptor. Mrs. Flowers was employed in April, 1965, to serve as Dr. Taylor's secretary as the college was being established. She has had three maternity leaves of absence in the 11 years, but otherwise has worked continuously since that time. She first worked in the temporary offices on Third Avenue East. Mrs. Flowers was honored Friday afternoon in the CSI administrative staff meeting. Other members of the administrative staff attended. LeRoy Craig, chairman of the CSI board of directors presented her a silver tray engraved from the college. She also received a book from the secretarial staff.

Random shot leaves victim 'critical'

HOUSTON (UPI) — Richard Cavazos is a man everyone likes, his father says. But Cavazos was in a hospital bed today in critical condition from a gunshot wound in the head — a wound inflicted by someone who didn't even know him. Cavazos, 20, his wife, Marilma, 19, and their 11-year-old son were sitting in their car last weekend waiting on a traffic light to change. The Cavazos car was in the left turn lane and a man in a van across the street reached out the window and shot Cavazos with a .22-caliber handgun. "He was in the left turn lane and the guy was in the van opposite him," a police officer said. "The guy in the van just pulled out, shot him bang, bang, and turned right like nothing had happened." But patrolman W.E. Byrd was sitting in his car nearby and saw what happened. He apprehended two men and a woman in the van. "I don't know why I did it. I'd never even seen him before," Byrd quipped on the spot. James Thomas Suddeth, 27, and Daniel Steven McJannet, 27, were charged with criminal attempted murder and held in lieu of $100,000 bond each. The 18-year-old woman was released without charges. "The baby was sitting right next to her father," said Mrs. Cavazos. "Thank God, he didn't get shot." She said she heard a pop, felt glass shatter and then looked at her husband. "He was just sitting there, he wasn't making the car go," she said. Then, she looked closer, saw the splattered blood and ran for help.

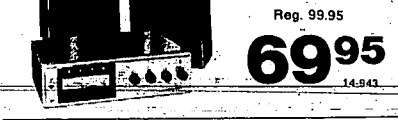

Inmate denied writ

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court denied an appeal for a writ of habeas corpus Monday from a state prisoner who claimed he was improperly placed in maximum security after the March 7, 1973, prison disturbance. The court upheld the decision of Fourth District Court Judge J. Ray Durtsch. Terry Burl Calkins, an inmate at Idaho State Penitentiary, claimed among other things that he was denied his right to an impartial judge at the disciplinary hearing as required by the recent decision of the U.S. Supreme Court in Wolff vs. McDonald. In affirming the order of the district court, a majority of the Idaho Supreme Court agreed with the petitioner that the Wolf decision establishes that "there is no iron curtain drawn between the Constitution and the prisons of this country." The opinion, written by Justice Charles R. Donaldson, recognized that the Wolf opinion required an impartial decision maker but the court found the Wolf standard was not applicable to Calkins because that decision was to have prospective application and Calkins was disciplined before the Wolf decision was issued.

Dairymen want raise

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — The president of the Idaho Dairymen's Association said Monday he hoped Congress would override President Ford's veto of a bill to raise federal milk price supports. Alvin Smutny of Twin Falls said dairy farmers need the extra insurance offered by the bill to maintain the current level of production. If adopted, the bill would raise federal milk price supports to 85 per cent of parity. Smutny said Magic Valley dairymen already are getting more for their milk than the 85 per cent level but should the market be flooded with imported milk products, prices in this country could go down. He said that is when American dairymen would need the assistance from the government. The present federal milk price support level is 78 per cent of parity. Smutny said if Congress failed to override the veto, the market could be vulnerable to the same kind of conditions which forced many producers to go out of business two years ago.

Pathologist speaks at meeting

TWIN FALLS — Dr. Dennis Venzon, pathologist at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, was featured speaker at a meeting of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, Monday.

Dr. Venzon spoke about the thermometer and blood refrigerator recently purchased by the auxiliary. The meeting was in the fireside room of the First Methodist Church.

Betty Jackson, tea chairman, assisted by Ida Mae Lincoln and Helen Rose Anderson, served refreshments in a Valentine theme.

Early plane re-enacts Boise flight

BOISE — An historic re-enactment will take place April 6 when a restored Swallow biplane is piloted from Pasco, Wash., to Boise by Maj. E. E. "Buck" Hillbert, Civil Air Patrol.

The plane, the same type which made the first flight on April 6, 1908, will follow the same time schedule and route flown on that flight by Leon D. Goddard, chief pilot for Varney Air Lines, a predecessor company of United Airlines.

Goddard's flight marked the beginning of permanent scheduled airline service in the United States. The re-enactment flight will commemorate the 50th birthday of the original event to be celebrated with a parade, luncheon and other activities in Boise.

This loser-on-loser play enabled her to ruff her last diamond with one of dummy's low trumps and her last heart with dummy's ace of trumps and make her contract.

Of course, it would have failed if diamonds broke 8-1 but 8-1 breaks are most unlikely while 5-2 breaks occur some 30 per cent of the time.

Ask the Jacobys

A Massachusetts reader wants to know if there is or ever was a rule that allows a player with no ace-king-queen-jack or 10 to demand a new deal.

The answer is a decided no. When you play rubber bridge and pick up a bad hand you are stuck with it.

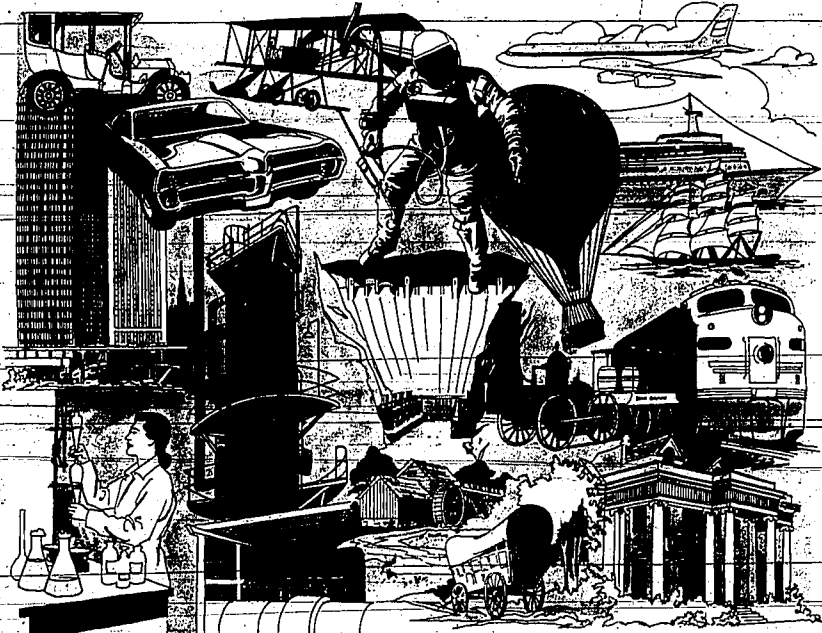

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Bridge teacher, Sally Johnson of Westport, looked over the dummy happily. Not only had she reached a good slam, but the play she intended to adopt would be fine for teaching her advanced pupils. She could try for seven. That would require a 3-3 club break and a 3-1 or 3-2 trump split. She hadn't bid seven so she discarded that line.

Then there was the simple line. Try to ruff two hearts. She would ruff one low and the last one high and be home safely against all 4-3 and some 5-2 heart breaks.

Then she found the best and winning line. She won the first diamond, cashed the king and ace of hearts, led a third heart and carefully discarded dummy's second diamond.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 16 years. He's a wonderful husband and devoted father to our two children, ages 12 and 14, but he's terribly stubborn about one thing—and that is my problem.

Three months ago he was laid off from his job (machinist at an aircraft plant), so he took a job at a local department store as a salesman. I take-home pay is about one-fourth of what it was previously.

When I suggested that I also get a job to help make ends meet, he became furious. "No wife of mine is going to work," he screamed.

Abby, I know he means well, but every time I try to discuss it with him, he becomes upset. Please help. I hope GLENDA IN GLENDALE

DEAR GLENDA: If I can help by saying that it's no reflection on a man's masculinity if his wife works—I've helped.

Hubby won't budge

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter has been sexually active for a number of years with quite a few partners. Now that she is in her middle 20s she is marrying one of those partners who probably knows about the real.

We are happy for her and approve of the marriage, but she wants a white gown and veil!

We are shocked at her dishonesty and bad taste. So many of our friends and relatives are aware of her lifestyle. We are not trying to punish her by refusing to go along with her wishes, but we're reluctant to make a mockery of what a white wedding stands for.

There must be other parents with this problem and other young people in this situation. Will you and your readers help?

DISTRESSED PARENT

DEAR PARENT: In planning a wedding, the wishes of the bride and groom should take priority. The bride who wears a white gown and veil is not necessarily declaring herself to be a virgin.

DEAR ABBY: My father has had a drinking problem for as long as I can remember. My poor mother is about to have a nervous breakdown because she just can't handle it any longer.

My sister and I are married and living away from home. We've both tried to talk to Dad rationally and calmly about his problem, but he won't even admit he has one.

He refuses to listen to anyone from Alcoholics Anonymous, and he says if we ask the minister to come and talk to him, he will throw him out. Please don't suggest a psychiatrist. My father would never go to one.

Abby, my sister and I are at the end of our rope. How can you help a person who won't help himself? Heaven knows we have done our share of hoping and praying.

HOPING AND PRAYING

DEAR H AND P: There is no way to help someone who refuses to help himself. One day he might admit that he needs help, and he'll call Alcoholics Anonymous. I hope so because A.A. has brought sobriety to more alcoholics than religion and psychiatry combined have.

your health

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'm a 14-year-old girl with a problem that's been bothering me for years. Once a month, sometimes more often, I get cold sores (I don't know the proper name) on my face. Since my mother has it also, I've been told it runs in the family.

It is very discouraging to face people with a face full of sores. Please tell me if there is a medicine or a way to get rid of them.

Dr. Thosteson:

Cold sores are a problem. They are uncomfortable, unsightly and—worst of all—they tend to recur in some people. The medical term is herpes simplex infection. The specific virus involved is herpes virus 1. The sores are evidence of cell damage this virus has done.

Cold-sore problem

Most of us harbor the virus, so in a sense we all possess the potential for the sores. Most of us fortunately have sufficient antibodies in our systems to keep the virus suppressed after an initial attack. Others, as yourself, aren't so lucky and the virus is never completely suppressed or eliminated.

For such people, a severe cold or any illness accompanied by a fever will give the virus free rein. Other possible causative factors can include exposure to the sun, emotional states and menstruation. Since your sores seem to appear on a monthly basis, you might suspect the latter factor. In some cases an allergy can be the culprit.

Whatever the cause, there is no cure for the recurrent cold sores themselves, and you can only try to minimize the effects.

Try dabbing the sores with rubbing alcohol or a camphor stick. Otherwise, the sores are best left alone.

Staying healthy is important. Be sure you haven't fallen into poor eating habits, as so many others of your age group have. Eat well-balanced meals, and be sure you get sufficient sleep to avoid fatigue.

You may find the sores appearing with less frequency and severity with the years, although I have known cases where they have plagued patients till their lives. Although I know of no evidence to support the heredity idea, I would suppose that the tendency toward developing cold sores might well run in families.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'm a beautiful figure. When she eats anything fattening she puts her finger in her throat and vomits to get rid of it. I am a little chubby; so I thought I would try it, but my mother caught me and gave me a lecture. She said it's not natural and maybe that's why my friend is so pale and has black circles under her eyes.

Can you tell me if there is anything wrong with vomiting on purpose?—M.M.

This horrible practice continues, and I've commented on it here before. Proceed with caution, except in cases of immediate emergency such as the ingestion of poisonous substances, is dangerous because of unnatural pressures it places upon the digestive tract. She also loses stomach juice and fluids.

Foreign grain complaint list given low priority

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Department officials have given low priority in the past to growing foreign complaints about the quality of American grain shipments, a department audit report showed Monday.

Complaints which some officials have warned are increasing the confidence of foreign buyers in American grain.

Among other steps, Butz said officials have accepted the audit report's proposal to send inspectors from the department's grain division overseas on a trial basis to spot check random samples of American grain as it arrives in foreign ports.

Also, an official of the department's Foreign Agricultural Service has been named to coordinate handling of foreign complaints and agricultural attaches abroad will be given standard forms which buyers can use in making complaints.

Schools on grains set in Valley

BOISE (UPI) — One-day cereal grain schools have been scheduled for next week in five Idaho communities to discuss grain production problems and marketing.

The schools are sponsored by the University of Idaho Cooperative Extension Service, Idaho Feed & Grain Association, Utah-Idaho Grain Exchange and Idaho State Wheat Growers Association.

Nevada cowmen tell grazing complaints

ELKO, Nev. (UPI) — Several hundred Nevada ranchers descended on this eastern Nevada community Monday to try to talk the Bureau of Land Management out of its plan to kick their cattle off the range two to four months each year.

BLM State director Ed Rowland told them he understood their objections, but that closing the range was designed to help ranchers. He said livestock must be kept from eating tender young plants as they sprout in the spring if forage conditions are rangeland are to improve.

Rowland repeated BLM statements the range is badly overgrazed and must be rehabilitated. He said the end result of the 12-to-16-year program would be a much more productive range that could support many more head of sheep and cattle in order to rejuvenate the range.

Arguments between the two groups at the Stockmen's Hotel continued late into Monday night.

Rowland said the BLM statements the range is badly overgrazed and must be rehabilitated. He said the end result of the 12-to-16-year program would be a much more productive range that could support many more head of sheep and cattle in order to rejuvenate the range.

Richfield accident

Richfield man 'critical'

By MELBA THORNE and CHRIS PECK Times-News writers RICHFIELD — A 36-year-old Richfield man remains in critical condition today following a train-truck accident Tuesday morning.

JACK Hubsmlth, brother of critically injured Ray Hubsmlth, surveys the damage to the pickup driven by Ray which was demolished when it was struck by a freight train crossing north of Richfield. The accident sent three members of the Hubsmlth family to the hospital.

His wife received a broken shoulder and the baby has head injuries which do not appear serious, according to St. Alphonsus Hospital spokesman in Boise. The father and daughter were flown by helicopter to Boise hospital the accident. A hospital spokesman said today Hubsmlth entered the hospital in critical condition and has not improved. He is in the intensive care unit of St. Alphonsus.

Fire chief appointed

CASTLEFORD — Robert Sample was appointed fire chief at the Castleford City Council meeting Tuesday night. Mayor E.F. Pinkston said Sample also is city marshal, for which he is paid a small amount. The fire chief, like the town's firemen, is a volunteer post.

Council adopts complaint rules

By TIMEV HORSMAN Times-News writer TWIN FALLS — An ordinance adopted Monday by the Twin Falls City Council lays down ground rules for handling complaints by city employees. City Manager Jean Millar said the new grievance procedure is effectively a duplicate of an old law, but goes a step further in setting specific time limits for taking action on the complaints.

Chamber banquet Thursday

TWIN FALLS — The annual Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce banquet Thursday night will serve as an introduction of 1976 officers to organization members. James Sinclair, current president, will announce the newly elected officers and directors and introduce them during the banquet program.

2 juveniles apprehended

TWIN FALLS — Two juveniles were apprehended Tuesday night at the Immanuel Lutheran School in connection with burglaries of school buses at the school. City police said officers flushed one of the boys from a bus and recovered a first aid kit from a trash can near the bus after he fled. A fire extinguisher also was recovered later from their vehicle.

Engineers inspect AF Dam

TWIN FALLS (UPI) — A team of nine engineers inspected the American Falls Dam Tuesday to re-evaluate the condition of the deteriorating structure which has forced a curback in dam storage by 30 percent. The team included engineers from the Bureau of Land Management, the American Falls Reservoir District and the group which performed the first inspection on the dam five years ago.

Wendell sets quota

WENDELL — There will be a Red Cross blood driving from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday at the Wendell American Legion Hall. According to blood driving officials, the quota has been set at 75 pints. Prospective donors and previous donors are all encouraged to participate.

Bureau 'should pay' BID AF Dam costs

BURLEY — The Bureau of Reclamation should pay for most of the construction of the Burley Irrigation District at American Falls Reservoir, according to the district's legal counsel. Norman H. Nielson, attorney for BID, plans to recommend that the district ask the bureau to pay for nearly 140,000 acre feet in the replacement dam. If it does not, he proposes that an action be filed in federal district court to maintain its water rights and collect damages for any interference with them.

Deadline draws near on SV strike proposal

By BART QUENELL Times-News writer SUN VALLEY — The United Transportation Union has until Monday to accept a new settlement offer from Sun Valley Co. Wally Huffman, vice president of recreation for the company, said Tuesday that little was accomplished Monday in a meeting with UTU regional boss Fred Timmerman. Although some wording was changed in the union contracts, Huffman said the major issue of an open or closed shop arrangement still is blocking any settlement.

Negotiations have taken place with a federal mediator and the dispute has boiled down to three basic issues, Sun Valley Co. wanted its employees to have the chance to choose after 30 days whether to join the union, the company wants the right to subcontract work to non-union labor if needed and still intends to pay about a dollar less an hour than what the union wants.

Filer council approves budget

FILER — The Filer City Council Tuesday night approved a 1976 budget of $233,724, including $34,054 in revenue sharing funds. No city residents appeared to protest the budget at a hearing scheduled before the council meeting. Filer school superintendent Ray Baker and Ed Marshall, high school principal, attended the meeting to request continued police surveillance during basketball games and around congested parking areas.

Budget hearings to begin Monday

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer TWIN FALLS — Public hearings on the Twin Falls County's proposed 1976 budget of $10.3 million will begin Monday morning in the county judicial building. County Commission Chairman Merl Leonard said department heads will be present to answer questions about their budget requests at scheduled times. Taxpayers with questions about a certain department should plan to attend at the correct time.

Rezoning request denied at Jerome

By CHARLOTTE BELL Times-News writer JEROME — The Jerome City Council Tuesday night denied a rezoning and annexation request for 6.89 acres of land southeast of Jerome. The council voted unanimously to accept the recommendation of the Jerome Planning and Zoning Commission. Roger Michener, had requested the R-2 and C-2 commission make a favorable recommendation to the council for annexation of the 6.89 acres of land on South Fillmore and East 1, adjacent to the city limits.

They said at this time they have people available how nice some of the retirement mobile home areas are. "We need this type of housing in Jerome. We have a large number of retired citizens who are finding it difficult to find a decent place to live," Michener said. In other business, the council gave first reading to an ordinance providing for a fine of up to $10 against motorists who park longer than two hours at one time in the main section of downtown Jerome.

Members of board meet Tuesday members of the board next Tuesday. It will be presented officially at the board meeting next Tuesday afternoon. If accepted, Nielson's recommendation apparently means that the district will not attempt to halt construction of the replacement dam. That action had been posed by district officials as a possibility prior to announcement of the bureau's approval of the replacement project last month. Burley Irrigation District and the Minidoka Irrigation District did not approve repayment contracts on bonds to finance the construction when "most" spaceholders held elections last month. About 80 percent of the spaceholders did approve the contracts.

Construction project will replace the existing deteriorated dam

The construction project will replace the existing deteriorated dam, now operating at a maximum of 65 percent of capacity under federal directive. The cost is estimated at $37 million to $44.7 million, financed jointly by 35 spaceholders and Idaho Power Company. If the full amount is required for construction and the interest rate on the bonds is 8 percent, BID would face capital costs of about $2,023,911. The figures are based on $1.08 per year for each acre foot of storage. Spread over 40 years, the cost per acre for Burley waterusers would be about $3.

Bob McAdoo, Dave Bing lead the East past the West in NBA All-star game

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — League-leading scorer Bob McAdoo put on a display of his run-and-gun style with 22 points, but Dave Bing poured in all 16 of his points in the second half to win the Most Valuable Player award and lead the more-experienced East squad to a 123-109 triumph over the West in Tuesday night's NBA All-Star game.

The victory was the 17th for the East in the 26-game history of the All-Star classic and was earned despite very loose defense, and poor shooting by both teams.

A hot hand by the Washington Bullets' Bing in the third quarter, when he scored 10 points, shot the East out to its biggest lead of the game to that point, 76-69, as it reeled off an 8-2 streak in two minutes.

The East carried an 83-80 lead into the final period and built it up to 108-94 with 5:38 left in the game on the shooting of Buffalo's McAdoo and Bing, who combined for 18 points in the fourth quarter.

The teams exchanged the lead often before the East finally took control midway through the third period.

Rick Barry of Golden State made a steal and three-point play to cap an 11-3 burst at the end of the second quarter that put the West ahead, 50-

45, after the East had led most of the first half. Any doubt of the players' desire was dispelled on the play as Barry knocked the ball loose from McAdoo, took a long feed from Nate Archibald and was then floored by McAdoo on the breakaway layup.

Barry scored 11 points in the first half, seven in the second quarter, while McAdoo notched 12 points on six of eight field goal shooting.

Paced by Philadelphia's Doug Collins' six points and some fine movement of the ball, the East pulled out to a 28-21 lead after the first period.

Los Angeles' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who finished with 22 points, then took over domination of the backboards, grabbing seven of his 12 first-half rebounds and along with Barry brought the West back.

Boston's John Havlicek scored nine points to move ahead of Jerry West as the fourth-leading scorer in All-Star game history.

Six of the West players were appearing in their first All-Star game, while the East dominated throughout the game by veterans, had an average of twice as much All-Star experience than its opponents.

Olympics to open with 36 nations

INNSBRUCK (UPI) — The one-woman Lebanese team called to say she couldn't make it, but athletes from 36 other nations will parade in the Berg Ischgl ski-jump arena Wednesday for the opening of the 12th Winter Olympics and 12 days of competition.

Cindy Nelson will carry the U.S. colors in the opening ceremony as well as America's best hopes for a medal in the prestige Alpine skiing section. The U.S., with a team of 120, has the largest contingent among the estimated 1,500 athletes, followed by the Soviet Union with 110.

Stacked against the might of these two sporting giants is Argentina, with a family team of three brothers and their father as managers.

The 90-minute ceremony will be acted out in the shadow of the 90-meter jump, beckoning like a giant finger over the arena. From the top of the jump, these intrepid ski divers cannot see the landing spot, but have an unobscured view of the local cemetery.

The ceremony will begin with the arrival of Federal President Dr. Rudolf Kirchschlaeger, who will be welcomed by Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, and other IOC officials and Innsbruck civic dignitaries.

Ten drummers in white uniforms then lead nine standard bearers into the arena, followed shortly by the athletes marching in formation.

After an introductory speech from Killanin, President Kirchschlaeger officially will open the Games to the accompaniment of the Olympic fanfare and the hoisting of the five-ring Olympic flag.

One thousand balloons will be released before the handing over of the Oslo flag, carried by Olympic downhill champion Yukio Kasaya, representing Sapporo, site of the 1972 Games. The Sapporo delegation is headed by the mayor, Takeshi Itagaki, who will present the flag to his Innsbruck counterpart, Dr. Alois Lugger.

A three-gun salute, fired by a howitzer battery from the Austrian Army, signals the release of carrier-pigeons carrying the message "Olympic flame arrived in Innsbruck-Bergisel stadium on 4.2.1976, 3 p.m."

Austria's 1964 luge gold medalist Josef Feistmann will then enter the stadium with the Olympic flame, mount the steps and ignite the 1976 torch.

As soon as the Olympic fire is burning, he passes on the flame with his torch to 1964 Olympic downhill champion Christl Haas, who ignites the flame in the 1964 bowl.

The two Olympic flames, representing the 1964 and 1976 Games, will then burn on the mountainside above Innsbruck until the closing ceremony Feb. 15.

Carey hangs first loop loss on Camas

CAREY — Lanky David Iyle and Beau Peters sparked a second-half comeback Tuesday night that allowed Carey to hang the first conference loss of the year on Camas County 56-51.

Iyle hit 25 points and Peters, replacing an ailing starter, came up with eight points to spark the decision after the Mushers had run off to a 38-25 halftime lead.

The defeat trimmed Camas County's Northside Conference lead to one game — in the lost column — over Carey and Richfield. The Mushers travel to Richfield Friday night for what should be the pivotal game of the conference year.

The teams took turns with big halves. Camas County hit 43 per cent in the first half and 23 in the second but lost the 12-point, half-time battle. Carey, opening with 25 per cent, finished with 37 per cent from the field. But the big difference

US hockey team makes finals

INNSBRUCK (UPI) — The good news came early in the evening when the U.S. hockey team justified six months of touring by qualifying for the championship round of the Olympic Games.

The bad news followed the Americans on the ice, however, in the final game of the night when the awesome Russian machine crushed host Austria, 16-3, without really trying.

What makes all this so ominous for the Americans is that their first opponent in the round-robin championship on Friday is the Soviet Union.

Still, in the jubilation of an impressive 8-4 victory over Yugoslavia Tuesday evening, the Russians were just another annoyance that had to be overcome by the too-young, too-inexperienced and too-cocky Yanks.

"We're looking forward to it," said team captain Steve Seritch, who scored a threegoal hat trick and added an assist against Yugoslavia. "Sure it's a big challenge for us, but we have everything to gain and nothing to lose against them. We wouldn't bother to go out if we didn't think we had a chance."

NBA contract option clause eliminated

Squires still alive

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — The Virginia Squires, following an invitation to meet with city officials, Tuesday postponed a decision on whether they will become the fourth American Basketball Association team to fold this season.

Officials of the financially struggling franchise were invited to meet with City Council Wednesday morning in "what amounts to an emergency session," said Squires spokesman Henry Callitri.

"I don't have any idea what the City Council has in mind and I don't think anybody in the organization does," Callitri said. "We'll know tomorrow."

Callitri said, "The situation now is that any decision has been put off possibly to Friday."

The Squires have been trying to sell advertising banners, at $5,000 each, to remain solvent.

NFL union praises pro basketball pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chief spokesman for the pro football players' union highly praised the pro basketball owners and players for reaching a settlement, which will drastically change the college draft and player contract option rules.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players' Association, said, "It's a big step forward."

He said that NBA commissioner Lawrence O'Brien and his counterpart in the basketball players' union, Larry Fleisher, both deserve congratulation.

"It was a great move on their part to get it settled," Garvey commented. "It was a breakthrough in which both sides tried to reach a sensible compromise rather than one side trying to defeat the other. It just takes leadership, that's all."

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The controversial option clause and basketball's version of pro football's "Rozelle Rule" were eliminated and a $5 million settlement for past damages was agreed upon Tuesday when the NBA Players' Association and the owners reached an out-of-court agreement on the long-pending Oscar Robertson anti-trust suit.

The settlement appears to represent a near total victory by the players in their longstanding battle with the owners.

Settlement of the suit opens the way for open merger talks between the NBA and the American Basketball Association. The NBA was barred by an injunction, which would be lifted, from discussing merger until the Robertson suit was settled.

The settlement of the six-year-old case still must be approved by U.S. district court judge Robert Carter. Player spokesman arrangements will be made to present the settlement issue to Carter Friday and it may take as long as 10 weeks before a decision is reached and the suit withdrawn.

The class action suit filed in 1970 by former Players Association president Oscar Robertson charged NBA owners with unfair restraint of player's freedom through the college draft. The option clause which bound a player to his team for one year beyond the length of his actual contract and the "compensation clause," a variation of the Rozelle Rule whereby a team must compensate another club for the loss of a player.

The out of court settlement provides for doing away with all three practices as they currently exist over a four-year period. Players employed in the league between 1969-70 and now are presumed to have been damaged by the three practices and will receive an estimated total settlement of $5 million.

Player Association counsel Larry Fleisher said the main points of the settlement are as follows:

Beginning in May this year a drafting team will hold the rights to a player for only one year. If he does not sign with that team, his name goes back into the pool of players eligible for the next draft. If he is drafted by a second team and does not sign within a year's time, he becomes a free agent.

Beginning at the end of the 1976-77 season, the option clause will no longer exist, excluding those exceptions. Any rookie signing for only one year will also have a one-year option clause. New York player rep Bill Bradley said the theory was that a team should have a guaranteed two years to evaluate new player's talent and worth. Any player wishing an option clause may negotiate for one.

Beginning in 1980, the existing "compensation plan will be replaced by one termed "the right of first refusal," in which a team with a player whose contract has expired will have the opportunity for 30 days to match another team's offer. If the original team refuses to match the offer, no compensation may be determined by the commissioner to be paid by the second team.

"We arrived at what we believed at a workable, equitable system for professional basketball," Fleisher said.

Bradley said of the settlement, "This agreement is not entirely in any way. It provides a gradual, reasonable granting of freedom to players."

Regarding compensation, Fleisher would not go into details but said the reported $5 million would be distributed on a sliding scale according to seniority and length of time in the league. Seniority would be determined from the 1966-67 season.

Fleisher said the agreement also calls for the owners to pay all legal costs incurred by the players since the suit was filed in 1970.

There was some confusion when the settlement would become legally binding. The owners indicated it would be incorporated into the next players' contract before it was signed.

Austrian superskis fail in debut

INNSBRUCK (UPI) — Austria's Franz Klammer unveiled his "superskis" Tuesday and then promptly got beat by defending champion Bernhard Russi of Switzerland in the final Olympic downhill training runs for Thursday's gold medal race.

For the past two weeks Klammer's ski manufacturer has been promising to unveil the new ski which, it was claimed, would take a second of a racer's time in a 60-second stretch.

The skis was unveiled Tuesday and the main feature was a hole in the tip which, it was claimed, would also give the racer more stability, especially over a rutted course.

Russi, who has struggled to find his form on the World Cup circuit this season where Klammer, 22, has won four times, posted a time of one minute, 40.01 seconds. Klammer could only make fourth place.

Three Canadians, led by second placed Jim Hunter, made the top 10 which saw U.S. hope Pete Patterson of Sun Valley, Idaho, claim ninth spot in 1:49.80.

Klammer still is the favorite for Thursday's race, but the unofficial betting is he'll race on his old, trusted, skis despite the expenditure of $138,000 on project "superskis."

Andy Hill of Aspen, Colo., who had an argument with a friend's before leaving for the village.

Nordio line had disappointing World Cup season this year, but she won over the course in the pre-Olympic competition last year and considers she has a good chance of retaining her championship.

"I think I'm among the three or four girls who can win," said Nadig.

"I can't predict whether we'll win any medals here. I wouldn't be an honest athletic judgment," said Tauler.

On the eve of the games, the U.S. hockey team faced its most important game of the tournament when it met Yugoslavia in a preliminary. Victory would put Coach Bob Johnson's young team into the championship bracket, a loss would drop them into a consolation series, a sad return for six months of hard work.

At the luge track, the favored East Germans still were in trouble with their competition who claimed they were heating their runners and the Germans, naturally, denied the charge.

The upset of it all was that the International Luge Federation ordered all luges to be checked at the competition to help to eliminate any doubts about the legality of the German runs.

It was alleged the East Germans were using some sort of chemical which generated heat to the runners during the trip down the 1,220 meter track.

FORMER NBA players Bill Sharman (L), and Tom Gola (R) along with long time Temple coach Harry Litwak (L) and Notre Dame standout Edward "Moogie" Krause (R) have been named to the National Basketball Hall of Fame II as announced Tuesday. (UPI telephoto)

ABA wants a merger

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — American Basketball Association President John Y. Brown said Tuesday the out of court settlement between the NBA Players Association and the owners of the Oscar Robertson anti-trust suit will pave the way for serious merger talks despite continued opposition by NBA owners.

The NBA Board Governors maintained Tuesday they still did not want a merger, but Brown believes that the owners were only saying that to give them a stronger bargaining position when talks eventually develop.

"Any owner that does not want to discuss the possibility of a merger must have a death wish for pro basketball," said Brown.

Brown, whose wife owns the Kentucky Colonels, said the suit had prevented the two basketball leagues from discussing the possibility of a merger, but the settlement should clear the way for talks about a merger to "fully promote" pro basketball could begin.

"It certainly removes a roadblock that has prevented us to hold discussions," Brown said. "Certainly all the logic is there to discuss a merger, and any owners that care about the sport would certainly have to let their interests to accept our proposals."

The ABA has already lost three franchises, Baltimore, San Diego and Utah this year and two — Virginia and St. Louis — are considered shaky. The league feared it would formally petition for membership into the NBA.

Rams owner ignores Namath

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Owner Carroll Rosenbloom gave a vote of confidence Tuesday to his head coach, Chuck Knox, and his current quarterbacks on the Los Angeles Rams roster, and at the same time gave the cold shoulder to Joe Namath.

Namath, the mainstay of the New York Jets, and Ram manager Edward "Moogie" Krause, has been named to the National Basketball Hall of Fame II as announced Tuesday. (UPI telephoto)

Rosenbloom, not mentioning Namath by name, issued a statement to news media saying he hoped to end speculation that the Rams will make a trade involving a quarterback.

He did mention by name the current trio on the roster — James Harris, Ron Jaworski and Pat Haden, the former Southern California star who played part of a season with the Southern California Sun of the defunct World Football League and now is studying at Oxford in England as a Rhodes scholar.

"We have two fine young quarterbacks in Harris and Jaworski, and a third joining us in Pat Haden. Both Chuck Knox, winner of three consecutive NFC Western Division titles with the Rams, has been sought by some other owners but about to sign a new contract for five years with the Rams.

"Chuck will be coaching the Rams as long as he wants to," said Rosenbloom. "In his statement on the quarterback situation, did not slam the door shut on a future trade, saying:

"I am always interested in doing anything that will improve us to the benefit of both our team and our fans, but there have been no serious talks concerning quarterbacks, nor are there any on the horizon."

him from the Jets. They'd just have to take care of his salary which runs around half a million a season.

"I can't promise the Rams he was asked.

"The Super Bowl," he replied.

Namath said he believed the Rams would not have to offer any large compensation to get him from the Jets. They'd just have to take care of his salary which runs around half a million a season.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, FEB. 5, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Now you have a day when you are able to put in motion a new plan you have in mind, that is expansive and requires a considerable amount of energy. Be conservative in promises.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Discuss a plan now with allies that will bring you much success. Take time for the social tonight and enjoy yourself.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Most fortunate so that you know how to plan your future more intelligently. Be with the one you love and be happy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Being with good friends and making the right plans for the future is wise today. A new contact can be very helpful now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Talk over with higher-ups how you can become more influential and happier. Involve yourself in a civic venture.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make those changes you have long thought about and you advance more quickly now. Avoid the temptation to cheat today.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find the right system with which you can operate more successfully in the future. Have greater rapport with creditors.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Talk with associates and gain their ideas so that relationships can be better in the future. Strive for happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have fine ideas for improving the quality of your work and should put them in operation quickly. Improve your health.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A creative talent you have should be put to good use during your spare time. Engage in favorite hobby this evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you change your attitude at home, you find you can have more accord there. Avoid one who is a fair-weather friend.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are thinking very clearly now and will be able to get much accomplished. A flattering invitation may arrive today.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Concentrate upon how to have more of this world's goods by utilizing your finest talents. Consult a business expert.

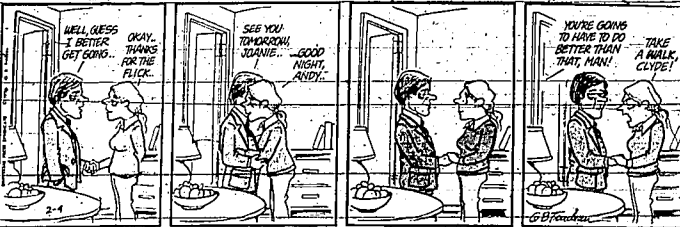

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who can learn easily, so be sure to give as much education as you can and success is assured. Teach to complete wholeness has once been started. Be sure to give religious and ethical training early in life.

It's widely known that a blonde is more likely than a brunette to get a divorce. But our Love and War man would like to point out that a blonde is far more likely than a brunette, too, to remarry.

Long before we ever referred to a shelter for airplanes as a "hangar," the French used the term to identify a garage for carriages, reports our Language man.

Client asks if the infamous mustard gas of World War I really was made of mustard. No, it is a clear oily solution of carbon, hydrogen, chlorine and sulfur which sent up fumes that blistered the lungs. Its name came mostly from the smell.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q. "Where's that place called 'The Town Without a Toothache'?"

A. No doubt you refer to the metropolis of Herat in Iran. Natural fluorides in the water there are said to prevent dental decay. In fact, Texans in general have fewer cavities than most people elsewhere for that same reason.

Q. "Why is fish known as a halibut so called?"

A. Halibut comes from the word haly, which is the traditional Christmas dinner dish long before turkey or ham got into the act.

Q. "What sports are most commonly sponsored by private companies?"

A. Bowling, softball and golf.

PERSONAL

When I was a little boy in grade school, I watched a small girl get up and tell the teacher that South America and Africa must have been one big connected continent once, because it was obvious in looking at the world globe that their coastlines, if pushed together, would fit like two pieces of a jigsaw puzzle. The other day in a scientific magazine reported some experts are now convinced that such was the case for exactly that reason.

What's new in household light switches since Thomas Edison first invented the electric bulb? Not much. Only the so-called mercury switch. Design of the old-fashioned clicker hasn't changed in all these years.

Say you expose a laboratory mouse in the middle of the night to just enough radiation from an X-ray machine to kill it. That same amount of radiation exposure in the daytime will only make the mouse sick. Odd thing: The time doesn't change the strength of the radiation, certainly not. But the mouse is more vulnerable to it at night. Contrarily, most poisons that would kill a mouse during the daytime will only make it sick at night. How do you figure it?
