

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The prosecution in Patricia Hearst's trial, bolstered by a judge's ruling that she "voluntarily" confessed to a bank robbery, has just about "wrapped up its case against the newspaper heiress.

Prosecutor James Browning said he had only four or five more witnesses and expected to rest his case by Friday at the latest.

He won a major victory when U.S. District Judge Oliver Carter decided Wednesday the prosecution could present evidence about events after the April 15, 1974, bank holdup — including a Los Angeles shooting and kidnaping and taped and written confessions made by the defendant.

"The motion to suppress is denied," said Carter. "The court finds that by a preponderance of evidence the government has established that statements of the defendant after the bank robbery were made voluntarily."

Miss Hearst had testified she was forced to make the statements after being raped, beaten and threatened with death "in hundreds of times" by her Symbionese Liberation Army kidnapers. She grimaced when the judge announced his decision.

Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey indicated the ruling probably will force him to put Miss Hearst back on the stand in front of the jury to tell about her 19 months in captivity. She testified Monday she acted out of fear of both her captives and the FBI.

The jury of seven women and five men, who had spent only a half hour in court all week, returned after Carter's ruling and heard two men repeat their stories about the shootout and kidnaping in Los Angeles May 16, 1974.

When they finished, Browning had put all his major witnesses on the stand. He spent two days last week using a surveillance film and 19 witnesses to show Miss Hearst was in the Hilbert Bank with a carbide in her hand during the robbery.

The two witnesses to the Los Angeles incidents — Thomas Matthews and Anthony Shepard — returned to the stand Wednesday to describe Miss Hearst's blasting of a sporting goods store with automatic weapons fire and her admissions about the bank robbery to another kidnap victim.

Matthews was abducted by SLA members William and Emily Harris and drove around with them and Miss Hearst for 11 hours in his stolen van before they let him go.

The college student, who said he was "more excited than scared" and thought his captors "some of the nicest people" he'd ever met, told the jury Miss Hearst said she was a "willing participant" in the San Francisco bank robbery.

Matthews said he at first did not tell police Miss Hearst was among his kidnapers "because they were so nice to me" and because Harris had warned him the SLA knew where he lived. His father and girlfriend convinced him to tell the whole story the next day.

Shepard, a sales clerk at Mel's Sporting Goods, testified that bursts of automatic weapon fire came from a van across the street from the store when he tried to subdue Hijris on the sidewalk after catching him shoplifting.

Public aid payments zoom

© Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON — Total national public assistance payments zoomed almost 22 per cent in October, 1975, over the same month a year earlier, the Health, Education and Welfare department reported today.

The statistics, the latest available, showed that total payments went from $1.8 billion to $2.2 billion, an increase of 21.9 per cent.

In the category of aids to families with dependent children, payments per person went from $63.45 in October, 1974 to $71.45 a year later. The number of AFDC recipients in October, 1975, was five per cent higher than 12 months earlier.

California's $122 million led the nation in AFDC payments, according to the HEW million led the nation in AFDC payments, according to the HEW statistics, followed by New York's $137.6 million and Illinois' $84.5 million.

Bar offers corruption guards

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Eighteen months after Richard Nixon resigned the presidency, the American Bar Association's governing body is being asked to approve recommendations to prevent government corruption at high levels.

The association's house of delegates, which meets next week after the current midyear convention, is expected to approve recommendations by a special committee named 21 years ago during the Watergate crisis.

The committee has recommended a system for naming a special prosecutor, such as was used to investigate Watergate, but only when the attorney general or a special appointing court finds there is a need to go outside the Justice Department.

The report specifically opposes creation of a permanent special prosecutor's office to serve as a government watchdog.

In another recommendation, the President would be barred from — naming a partisan political aide as attorney general.

Evidence in his Watergate trial disclosed John Mitchell knowingly helped cover up the break-in investigation while sitting as attorney general.

Reagan campaign still far in debt

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ronald Reagan continued to raise more funds than President Ford during January but his campaign is deeply in debt while Ford's is solvent.

Both Republican candidates filed monthly campaign statements Wednesday with the Federal Election Commission. Reagan has raised $2.8 million and Ford $2.6 million.

The figures include nearly $500,000 in matching federal funds received by Ford and $100,000 by Reagan during January. During the month Reagan raised $786,626 and Ford $708,274, according to the reports.

Ford reported he had $692,000 on hand at the end of the month, with debts of $8,000. Reagan reported $83,000 on hand but debts totaling $635,000.

For the first time a new report required under the campaign reform act disclosed where the two GOP contenders were spending their money. It showed Ford and Reagan picked the same key states and that Reagan was outspending the President in all of them.

Reagan's main target was Florida, where he reported spending $132,000, compared with $42,000 for the President. Ford's most expensive state was Illinois, where he reported spending $47,000, only to be outspent by Reagan's $66,000.

Both spent heavily in relatively small New Hampshire in their effort to win that state's first-in-nomination primary Feb. 24. Reagan spent $29,000 there to Ford's $40,000.

But the report showed Reagan also was spending heavily in Massachusetts, which holds the second primary the week after New Hampshire.

Dye ban enforced now

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thanks to an appeals court ruling, the Food and Drug Administration today began enforcing its ban on the use of Red Dye No. 2, the nation's most widely used food coloring.

The U.S. Court of Appeals Wednesday lifted a temporary stay against enforcement of the ban but said it will hold a full hearing April 15 on an appeal by food and drug manufacturers.

The FDA had ordered an end to any further manufacture of food or drug products using the dye, because of unresolved safety questions, including the possibility it can cause cancer.

The dye, used to create orange and purple colors as well as red, has been found for years in hundreds of such products as soft drinks, wieners, cake mixes, candy, ice cream, pill coatings, cough syrups, lipstick and dog food.

Missile new target

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Air Force Secretary Thomas Reed went so far in his defense of the B1 bomber that he began casting aspersions on another Air Force weapon, the air-launched cruise missile.

His aides spent part of Wednesday correcting Reed's enthusiastic statements.

The Air Force wants the B1 to replace the 25-year-old B52 as the No. 1 U.S. bomber for nuclear war. It is sophisticated and expensive — about $80 million, at last estimate.

Supporters say the B1 can penetrate sophisticated Soviet air defense systems with nuclear short-range attack missiles, or SRAMs, and is more likely to survive a surprise nuclear attack.

Although a final decision has not been made, the 1977 Pentagon budget contains a $1 billion request for the first three production model B1s. A flight is expected in Congress.

Mixed reaction to city-county tax idea

Idaho schools due $8.1 million in state funds

BOISE (UPI) — Public schools apparently are going to get an increase of $8.1 million in state aid from the general fund next year.

Senators approved an $85 million general fund appropriation 35-0 Wednesday and Rep. William Roberts, R-Boise, co-chairman of the budget committee, predicted the House will okay it too.

At this level, general fund support would be $1.1 million higher than that recommended by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

Under normal procedures the bill should come up for final consideration in the House about next Monday.

"I look for it to pass in the House," Roberts said. "Everyone recognizes there has to be some increase over the governor's recommendation."

Members of the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee are about halfway through their budget deliberations, Roberts said, and could complete them by the end of next week. But he said it may take some afternoon and evening committee meetings to do it.

Roberts and other legislative veterans have their eyes set on March 5 as a target date for final adjournment of this session. That would be the first day.

"We've got about in excess of 200 programs to go yet (in the joint committee)," Roberts said. "We're actually about four days behind last year on the point we've gotten to in this session."

"We've got to make up some time. We're looking right now at the idea of some evening sessions and some afternoons, too."

Health and Welfare and the Department of Administration are the big-budgets still to be decided by the committee. And the committee right now is $3.7 million above the governor's recommendations on the budgets it has approved.

A revenue projection by the legislature is $1.2 million higher than the governor's so this means about $2.5 million must be trimmed from other programs to balance the budget.

Roberts said there are several areas where the lawmakers can look, including reductions in the "increased" numbers of state employees recommended by the governor and increased space charges for office rentals.

Resolution killed

BOISE (UPI) — Giving second thoughts to previous action, the House killed 25-11 Wednesday a resolution asking the state budget be put in smaller packages for voting purposes.

After an hour of debate just before lunch, the House approved the resolution 36-34. Later in the day it voted 39-27 to reconsider its action and then, after a second but briefer debate, killed the proposal.

Proponents of the move are dissatisfied with the way a number of programs are lumped into a single bill for an agency.

Medical aid OK'd

BOISE (UPI) — The Joint Finance Appropriations Committee recommended $55,000 for a four-state medical training program Wednesday but left dangling a move to send medical students to Utah.

As a state without a medical school, Idaho must participate in medical training programs outside the state — buying "seats" in these schools.

Earlier, the State Board of Education told the joint committee it has decided to put all its medical money in the basket for WAMI — an agreement whereby Idaho, Montana and Alaska students attend the University of Washington.

Southeastern Idaho legislators want funds to send medical students to the University of Utah, too, and Wednesday Rep. Doyle Miner, R-SL Anthony, moved that $133,000 be appropriated from the general fund for 10 seats there. His motion failed on a 9-1 tie vote.

Miner then tried to get $66,500 for five seats but before his motion could be considered a substitute motion to delay any consideration until everything else on the committee's agenda is handled was approved 10-9.

JEROME

BOISE (UPI) — A city-county tax proposal in the drafting stage drew mixed reaction from business, civic and governmental leaders today at a hearing of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Spokesmen for cities and counties backed the proposal but businessmen gave it both low and high marks.

Revised several times from the original proposal the bill now permits cities and counties, with voter approval, to levy three non-property taxes — income, sales and use, and household.

It stipulates that money raised beyond that budget must be put into a property tax relief fund and that any ordinance proposing one of the taxes must say how long the tax will be in effect.

Floyd Decker, Boise, executive director of the Association of Idaho Cities, said the bill does not contain everything the cities asked for but that it certainly is a bill cities can favor.

P. K. Harwood, Caldwell, a lobbyist for the Idaho Association of Commerce and Industry, registered the strongest protest against the bill — attacking it section by section.

He questioned whether Idaho needs such "massive new taxing authority." Of 192 cities in the state, he said, only five — Coeur d'Alene, Wallace, Winchester, Mountain and Lava Hot Springs — have reached the maximum mill levy on property permitted by law.

Only a few of the counties have reached their maximum mill levies, he added. Later, Dean Huntsman of the Idaho Association of Commissioners and Clerks corrected that statement, saying 23 have reached the maximum mill levy and more counties are within one mill of the maximum allowable levy.

Harwood also criticized the bill for not containing a definition of a household tax, asked if a county-wide tax pool in a city in that county had adopted a non-property tax would automatically repeal the city tax and said the bill adds new taxing authority without reducing existing authority.

Robert E. Davis, Pocatello, said his chamber of commerce opposed the original bill but can "live with" this new one. He also applauded the extension of the optional authority to counties as well as cities.

He suggested, however, the bill be changed so that merchants do not have to make separate itemization of state and local sales and use taxes.

J. Tim Hrennan, executive director of the Idaho Retailers and Food Dealers Association, also expressed concern about itemization — saying it would force merchants to add an extra sales tax key to their cash registers.

Education bills killed

BOISE (UPI) — The House Education Committee voted today to kill two bills sponsored by Rep. C. L. "Dutch" Otter, R-Caldwell, which would allow non-compulsory education in Idaho. Otter said the bills would repeal the state requirement making it compulsory that children attend public schools or an alternative designated by the state.

Tough penalty sought

BOISE (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee introduced legislation today to require punishment for criminal conspiracy by at least half the maximum penalty prescribed for the crime itself.

One bill would also limit the control of the State Board of Education by excluding supervision which interferes with parents' freedom of choice regarding "how, where and by whom their children are taught and cared for."

Other bills would: — Make it a misdemeanor to knowingly lie to law enforcement officers. — Permit five-sixths of a jury to convict or acquit a person of a felony or misdemeanor and allow fewer than 12 jurors to try a felony or fewer than six to try a misdemeanor providing the parties agree. — Include unloaded or defective guns under the definition of "deadly weapons" in the law prohibiting assault with a deadly weapon. — Broaden peace officers' arrest authority and spell out when private citizens may make an arrest. — Prohibit cities and counties from imposing by ordinance criminal penalties lower than those already set by the general laws of the state.

Vote recording denied

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. Joe Wagner, D-Lewiston, tried and failed Wednesday to be recorded on four roll-call votes taken during his absence from the floor of the House.

Church due ballot place

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Secretary of State Pete T. Cenarrusa plans to ask his Oregon counterpart to place Sen. Frank Church's name on that state's presidential primary ballot this year.

Minority Leader Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello, first asked unanimous consent that Wagner be recorded as voting "aye" on the four bills — noting his vote would not change the outcome on the measures. Rep. Gary Ingram, R-Coeur d'Alene, objected and served notice to the House he will object on all future such requests. He said many times lawmakers are unable to beat the floor to vote and that is the way of the legislature.

Piracy hit

BOISE (UPI) — The House approved 42-24 and sent to the Senate Wednesday a bill prohibiting reproduction for sale or offer for sale any sound recording without consent of the owner of the master recording.

Although Church has yet to announce, Cenarrusa said "if the senator announces 'we will put him on our ballot without question.'"

Rep. Edward W. Rice, R-Boise, said the bill is aimed at halting the growing practice of "tape piracy." He said tapes are being copied and bootlegged in many communities.

CIA bans clergy, media relations

Chicago Sun-Times
 WASHINGTON — The Central Intelligence Agency banned any formal relationship with U.S. reporters and clergymen, but it has refused to disclose the names of those who have worked with it in the past.
 CIA Director George Bush denied any "impropriety" yesterday in the longstanding practice of recruiting reporters and clergymen as intelligence agents in foreign countries.
 But he said the CIA now recognizes the "special status" of the press and religion under the Constitution — and allusion to charges that the CIA has been violating the freedom of the press and the separation of church and state.
 The Chicago Sun-Times disclosed Wednesday the CIA was seeking to prevent the disclosure of 89 cases in which it had a working relationship with reporters. One was said to have allowed the CIA to write some of his columns word for word.
 Bush insisted that the CIA's past dealings with reporters and clergymen had "not been aimed at influencing or improperly acting on any American institution."
 But for the sake of "appearance," the newly-installed director said he had decided the agency will no longer "enter into any paid or contractual relationship with any full-time or part-time news correspondent."
 Former CIA Director William E. Colby maintained that the practice of hiring full-time correspondents had been stopped two years ago but that the use of part-time "stringers" had continued.
 Bush said that even those relationships would be ended "as soon as feasible."
 His statement, distributed to major news bureaus yesterday evening, asserted that the CIA no longer has any "secret paid or contractual relationship with any American clergy or missionary." He promised to maintain that practice.

Suit seeks files

Chicago Sun-Times
 CHICAGO — A suit seeking access to FBI records of the 1953-54 surveillance of J. Robert Oppenheimer, father of the atomic bomb, has been filed by Field Enterprises Inc., publisher of the Chicago Sun-Times and The Chicago Daily News.
 The U.S. District Court suit, filed under the Freedom of Information Act, charges the FBI failed to respond to a request for the records within the time limit provided by the act.
 The suit further contends that the FBI's parent body, the Justice Department, also failed to act on an appeal to it following the FBI's inaction.
 Clarence M. Kelley, Federal Bureau of Investigation director, was named a defendant in the suit, along with the FBI.
 The suit grew out of a Nov. 26 request by Stuart H. Loory, Chicago Sun-Times associate editor, for the FBI data.
 Although the material wasn't forthcoming, Loory on Dec. 22 disclosed how the FBI wiretapped and bugged conversations between Oppenheimer and his lawyers after his security clearance lapsed in 1953.

Teamsters' fund called 'risky'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scripps-Howard News Service said today it has obtained the loan portfolio of the Teamster's $1.277 billion Central States Pension Fund showing most of the money invested in risky, low-return loans to gambling enterprises, resorts and land development schemes.
 The union's Central States Pension Fund is currently under investigation by the federal government under provisions of the new pension law, which went into effect Jan. 1, 1975.
 A copy of the super-secret portfolio, obtained by Scripps-Howard reporters Dale McPeckers and Carl West covers the fiscal year from Feb. 1, 1974, to Jan. 31, 1975.
 McPeckers and West wrote that unlike any other known pension fund, the Central States fund has invested nearly 75 per cent of its money in real estate loans. They said the fund has concentrated its loans among a few favored borrowers and become a major backer of casino deals in Las Vegas and land speculation in California.
 Their story cites loans to such diverse enterprises as a cemetery, a newspaper, a dairy cooperative, a jail-alal fronting with license problems, a fundamantal preacher's show business enterprise and an Indiana University dormitory.
 It said the Central States loans covered in the portfolio earned a return of only 4 per cent — less than the least lucrative savings account in a commercial bank — on a large amount of investment activity.
 In fiscal 1975, it said, the fund sold $563.8 million in assets while acquiring $1 million in new assets. It said the funds also carried under $2 million in its portfolio over $47 million in enterprises that have gone broke.
 In addition, it said, there were $31 million in loans that paid no interest.
 The Scripps-Howard report said the fund's largest single investment, comprising 12 per cent of its total investment assets, is $151.2 million in loans and land holdings tied up in a San Diego real estate development called Penasquitos.
 Based in Chicago, the Central States Pension Fund is set up to provide retirement money for 400,000 Teamsters in 38 states. Operated by 16 trustees — eight from the union and eight from the trucking industry — it receives $22 per week per member from the employers.

Archeologists find 2,000-year-old port

SALONICA, Greece (UPI) — Archeologists are uncovering a seaport more than 2,000 years old with well preserved remains of houses, stables, workshops, oil presses and bakeries. The minister for northern Greece said today.
 The minister, Nicholas Martis, said the ancient town of Mesimvris is situated near the Turkish border not far from Alexandroupolis in Thrace, extends over a 3,000-squareyard area and once was surrounded by a protective wall 10 to 13 feet thick with large towers at its corners.
 He said the port was intersected by five roads, first settled in the 5th Century B.C. and possibly ruled from the island of Samothrace, an important religious center in antiquity.
 Finds at the site include silver coins, a group of fine silver plaques showing gods and goddesses and — in the east end of the city — the torso of a marble statue dating from the Archaic period (700-500 B.C.), the first such find in Thrace, Martis said.

Generous youths distribute funds

CHICAGO (UPI) — It was a grownup's dream. There it was, an attaché case, stuffed with money — about $7,000 in all.
But they were just children, and money doesn't mean all that much to a child. So Norma Koszarek, 12, Jeffrey Evrard, 10, and Jeffrey's brother, Steve, 8, started giving away the bills.
And what they didn't give away or lose, they hid when they thought "they were in trouble for their discovery." Police were still looking for it today.
Patrolman James Koska said Wednesday the three found the attaché case on their way home from school on Chicago's South Side.
Koska said police recovered $2,666 from the children but that "anywhere from $4,000 and up" was hidden or lost.
They did give a lot away, supposedly, Koska said.
He said Norma, Jeffrey and Steve "were coming home from school and just saw this attaché case there. They opened it and found all this money."
He said they went in a department store and "just started passing it out to people who were in the area."

Security police in the store detained the children and called police.
Koska said the three became panicky because they had so much money and hid it in the store. He said Norma told him she put the money under a pants rack. Police were unable to find it.
"They thought they were in trouble for finding the money," said Koska. "They were a little hysterical and were crying when we found them, but they calmed down once we explained they weren't in trouble."
"They didn't want to be taken home to their parents, because they thought their parents would give them a beating," he said.
But Norma's mother, Mrs. Charlotte Koszarek, said she was surprised about the incident.
"All the children were shocked by it," she said over the shoulders of her children. "I know I was really surprised. I'm a nervous wreck."

Teen kidnaps highway patrolman

GLENDALE, Calif. (UPI) — A 15-year-old boy kidnaped a highway patrolman at gunpoint in the officer's own patrol car Wednesday.
Officer Bobby Lee Joe, 30, said he sighted the youth hitchhiking at an entrance to the Golden State-Fresno and picked him up for investigation as a possible runaway.
Inside the car, the boy pulled a .25-caliber automatic pistol, later confirmed to be loaded, pointed it at Joe and said, "You're my hostage and you'll take me where I want to go."
After driving for about 30 minutes, the patrolman pulled into a service station and ejected the boy buckle his seat belt. When the boy grabbed the driver and lowered the pistol for an instant, Joe overpowered the 5-foot-3, 112-pound youngster and seized the gun.
The highway patrol identified him as a runaway from Albany, Ore., who apparently stole the pistol from somebody who had given him a ride.

Patriotic patrol cars

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A lot of policemen these days wear American flags on their uniforms. But that's not enough for the Salt Lake County Sheriff's Office in a bicentennial year.
Sheriff Delmar "Svede" Larsen has ordered 40 new patrol cruisers painted red, white and blue. The vehicles, which go into service April 1, will have red tops, white trunks and hoods and blue bottoms.
The special paint jobs add $50 to the price of each car.

Adlai in Cairo

CAIRO (UPI) — Sen. Adlai Stevenson arrived Wednesday night for a three-day visit during which he will meet Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy and House Speaker Sayed Marci, the Middle East news agency said.
The agency said Stevenson, chairman of the senate subcommittee on oil and gas production and distribution, will travel to Jeddah Friday for a similar visit to Saudi Arabia.

Rush hour solution

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Lijana Arbibler has a $25 ticket for driving a dummy to work.
To encourage car pools and cut down on the number of smog-producing autos, some Southern California freeways have "car pool only" lanes during rush hours. Only cars carrying at least two persons are allowed to use the faster-moving lanes.
Highway Patrolman Steve Judson thought Miss Arbibler's "passenger" looked a bit pale and far from lively Wednesday.

Service to end

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Completing a ride on Amtrak's National Limited from Kansas City, Mo., to St. Louis, Sen. Thomas Eagleton said cutting service "could be the death sentence to rail passenger travel."

Betty backs ERA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Betty Ford has backed her support for the Equal Rights Amendment with a personal check for $50.
The First Lady made the contribution Wednesday at the White House to two leaders of ERA America: Lia Carpenter, former press secretary of Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, and Billy Peterson, former vice chairman of the Republican National Committee.
ERA America is a new umbrella organization which includes all of the groups promoting ratification of the Constitutional amendment.

President returns $1 contribution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has written to 8-year-old Kristen Bucknam of Nashua, N.H. and returned with appreciation for her $1 contribution for his "campaign."
Kristen told the President in a hand-written note when he arrived in Nashua for a weekend of campaigning. "You just look like a very nice, honest person and I would like to give you this dollar, to help you in your campaign (sic) to be reelected as president. I really earned this money myself by doing housework for my mother."
In response, Ford said: "Your letter welcoming me to Nashua helped to make my visit a very happy one. It also told me that you love our country very much and are glad to be someone involved wherever you are needed.

"Although I must return the dollar you enclosed with your letter," he said, "I want to assure you that I am deeply grateful for your friendship. The fact that you earned this dollar yourself makes your generosity all the more meaningful to me. I am proud to count you among my friends."

393-store chain files bankruptcy

NEW YORK (UPI) — W.T. Grant Co., the country's third largest variety store chain, is more than $1 billion in debt and wants to go out of business.

Attorneys for the 70-year-old firm asked a federal bankruptcy court Wednesday to declare Grant bankrupt, a move that would make it the biggest retail business failure in U.S. history.

In size among variety chains, Grant ranks behind only F.W. Woolworth and S.S. Kresge.

But at the hearing, attorneys for Grant and its 11 major bank and trade creditors listed the firm's debts at $1.1 billion and presented a resolution in which they agreed it would be virtually hopeless to continue trying to reorganize the firm.

Federal Bankruptcy Judge John Galguy said he needed more information "as to the viability of W.T. Grant's future" and ordered the hearing continued today.

Grant filed a voluntary bankruptcy petition Oct. 2 in an effort to remain in business while it tried to reorganize and repay its debts.

Since then, Grant has reduced the number of its employees by more than half to about 30,000, withdrawn its operations from the West Coast, the Midwest and the Southwest, and closed 712 stores.

If the judge approves the bankruptcy motion the chain would close its last 393 stores, which are concentrated in the Northeast.

Leonard Rosen, a lawyer for the chain, said it would take a generation to restore the financially crippled firm.

Judge studies 'bare' facts

NEWPORT, Ky. (UPI) — The judge is yet to get down to the bare essentials in determining whether a justice of the peace should be stripped of his authority to perform marriages because he officiated at a nude wedding.

Justice of the Peace Earl Leonard, 69, had been ordered into Campbell County Judge Leonard Hebl's court Wednesday to "show cause" why the judge shouldn't revoke his authority.

But the case was continued for one week, with the judge ordering Leonard's attorney, William Oldfield, "to produce the authority under which Mr. Leonard performs marriages."

"The controversy stems from a well-publicized nude wedding at a Newport nightclub last Thursday. Although Leonard kept his clothes on, he married a stripper and her boyfriend who were in the nude. Four other members of the wedding party also were in the buff.

Judge Hebl complained that Leonard had "removed the image of dignity from the office of magistrate and demeaned the solemn rites of marriage."

Demos urged to support Humphrey

By United Press International

Although Hubert Humphrey insists he isn't a candidate for president, Democrats in New Hampshire are being urged on radio spots to write in his name in the nation's first primary this month.

Ronald Reagan campaigned in New Hampshire with Gov. Melvin Thompson who said the Republican contender "has God on his side." President Ford, who plans another trip to New Hampshire before the Feb. 24 primary, flies Friday to Florida for his first swing across a Southern primary state.

The Humphreys ads, sponsored by a committee of New Hampshire residents, air a tape in which the Minnesota senator says he would "go out and win" if the party turns to him. Humphrey has disavowed the write-in effort.

Ford will spend two days stamping Florida. He was arranging his White House schedule so he could campaign on weekends and was being urged to set aside the following weekend for a New Hampshire trip.

GOP officials worked out a housing problem that had jeopardized plans to hold the party's national convention in Kansas City. There had been talk of moving the August convention because of a shortage of hotel rooms, but hotel operators renewed and increased their pledges of nearly 15,000 rooms.

Early returns from the Alaska Democratic delegate caucuses indicated the state — like others which have held local party meetings — has a large number of uncommitted voters. With results in from about one-fourth of Alaska's state advised, 11 Democrats and two Republicans their names will be on the May 11 presidential primary.

Counties can't agree on airport

Forschler worked hard in the mid-60s to overcome suspicions between Magic Valley counties over where to locate a regional airport.

For example, Forschler urged the Mini-Cassia area to drop its support of an airport site near the Hansen Bridge in eastern Twin Falls County even though that site was the closest site to Burley.

Forschler argued that Twin Falls and Jerome counties would never agree to the Hansen Bridge site.

Cassia and Minidoka (SIRAA) trustees said they wanted to have the airport site closer to them like the Hansen site while two Twin Falls County trustees said they did not support any site unless it was south of the present I-80 interchange, less than four miles from downtown Twin Falls, Forschler recalls.

On the south side men like Warren Barry and Ed Woods mounted full-fledged public relations campaigns to convince Twin Falls residents that a regional airport on the northside would be in their best interests.

Initially, residents of Twin Falls supported the idea because the regional facility would mean Twin Falls could share the costs of the regional airport rather than singlehandedly provide the tax base to support Joslin Field.

Even with the work of SIRAA Chairman Forschler and well-known Magic Valley aviators Woods and Barry, Magic Valley counties couldn't agree on a new airport site until March 1971.

Internal bickering on the interim board of directors of the SIRAA was fierce in the mid-60s during the debate over location of the facility.

"This jealousy is now a thing of the past," recalls Neil Weir, former chairman of the SIRAA board, "but the biggest hurdle we've ever overcome (in the SIRAA) was the feeling by Minidoka, Cassia and Twin Falls counties that each of the counties would get the other out."

In 1971 the SIRAA managed to come up with a unanimous vote from the board of trustees endorsing a regional airport site on the north side of the Snake River near the Highway 93-Interstate 80 connection.

In the meantime, Twin Falls had turned its back on the regional airport.

While SIRAA trustees debated the location of the regional airport, Twin Falls in 1968 had to give serious attention to improving the airport it already had — Joslin Field.

Airwest, the only major airline serving the Twin Falls city-county facility, that the runway at the airport had to be enlarged to handle DC-9s.

Long before Twin Falls County had to make a decision whether to fund the regional airport, the county had to decide if it would pour thousands of dollars into improving Joslin Field.

Without much debate Twin Falls County officials decided in early 1969 to go ahead with the runway extension demanded by Airwest.

"If Joslin Field had lost its service as a jet stop we would have had a difficult time getting jet service back even if we built two regional airports," SIRAA head Forschler admits.

By 1970 Airwest jets were landing at Joslin Field. The SIRAA trustees still had not identified where the proposed airport would be.

Twin Falls residents, after improving Joslin Field, weren't very receptive to the regional airport plan when the issue finally came to a vote in 1972.

Predictably, Twin Falls residents voted not to join the Southern Idaho Regional Airport Authority on Oct. 26, 1972.

Blaine and Camas counties also voted not to join the SIRAA.

Blaine County immediately began expansion of Friedman Memorial Airport in Holey.

Only five counties joined the authority — Cassia, Jerome, Minidoka, Lincoln and Gooding counties.

Next: A credibility gap between the Southern Idaho Regional Airport Authority and the public developed in the mid-60s which still hampers the regional airport.

Break out the foul weather gear

Twin Falls, Northside, Burley, Rupert areas:
Mostly cloudy through Friday with an increasing chance of rain by Friday. Gusty winds at times tonight and Friday. Highs near 45 Friday with overnight lows near 25.
The outlook for Saturday — showers.
Halley, Camas Prairie, lower Wood River Valley:
Mostly cloudy through Friday with a chance of snow tonight, changing to rain and snow mixed Friday. Gusty surface winds through Friday. Overnight lows mostly in the 20s. Highs Friday in the upper-30s to lower 40s.

Saturday's outlook — showers.
Synopsis:
The ridge of high pressure that has been protecting the Magic Valley area the past few days — finally gave way last night. This has allowed the strong east-west flow of warm moist air aloft to spread over the valleys, causing mostly cloudy skies throughout southern Idaho.

Rain or snow fell over much of northern Idaho last night. Mullin reported one-half inch of precipitation this morning from the front that passed through there Wednesday night. This front was approaching the Boise area this morning — but has weakened enough — to only bring cloudiness to the Magic Valley area this morning.

Another more vigorous system is developing in the eastern Pacific. This system is expected to bring rain to the Magic Valley area by Friday along with gusty winds.
The extended outlook for the weekend calls for showery conditions through the period with rain in the valleys and snow at the higher elevations. Highs will be mostly in the upper-30s to lower-40s with lows in the 20s.

Lincoln's 'presence' felt at birthplace

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Abraham Lincoln left his Springfield home 115 years ago and never returned. Yet, his presence can still be felt there.
National Park Service employees say.
"The house is not haunted. There's nothing evil about this. But things have happened which make me feel Mr. Lincoln's presence," said Shirlee Laughlin, who has ushered visitors through the two-story frame house since 1972.
The most startling episode occurred in 1973. Mrs. Laughlin said, "It was at night, and the night watchman called me. He said strange things were happening, and he wanted someone there to confirm them, to prove he wasn't losing his mind."

"I thought it was his imagination," she said, "but when I got there, there was movement in the house. You could hear footsteps and doors closing."
Mrs. Laughlin said she sought a natural explanation "but the Weather Bureau said there was no wind, earthquakes or anything else that could cause it."
A sophisticated alarm system, installed when the National Park Service took charge of the Lincoln home, has gone off mysteriously several times.
"In each instance, the alarm company swore the equipment was perfect," Mrs. Laughlin said. "The only way it could have happened is if there were movement in the house."

Once, Mrs. Laughlin found a key with a ribbon attached. She took it to a curator who said it was in use around 1857. It was tried on a locked drawer for which the key was lost. The new-found key worked.

Other times, Mrs. Laughlin said, she has seen Lincoln's rocking chair rock — with no one in it. She once tried to move a chair out of Mrs. Lincoln's bedroom because its authenticity was in question. She felt tapping at her shoulder but no one was there. Later, the chair was determined to be one Mrs. Lincoln owned.

Bruneau visits hit high

BRUNEAU, Idaho (UPI) — Visitors to the Bruneau Sand Dunes State Park hit an all-time high of 80,020 last year, according to Wes Whitworth, park manager.
Whitworth said the total compared with 64,000 visitors in 1974. He said it was the highest in the park's seven-year history.
Day-use visitors accounted for 75,314 of the total park usage and overnight campers totaled 5,306, he said.

Solo Everest climb refused

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — An American priest who wanted to climb Mt. Everest alone has been denied permission by the Nepalese foreign ministry, a ministry spokesman said today.

The Rev. Roger Ford of Anchorage, Alaska, was told that he could, however, make an attempt to scale the world's tallest peak provided he organized a climbing team consisting of at least four members, the spokesman said.

Lincoln's budget stands as printed

By MELBA THORNE

TWIN FALLS — The Lincoln County budget for 1976 will stand as published, according to a mid-afternoon decision Monday by county commissioners.

The $5,350,000 budget approved as proposed in a meeting with the additional raises granted for county employees as had been solicited during the day by three selected officials.

County clerk, Mrs. Joy McClure, showed figures to the commissioners on the county payroll of the past year, and the proposed wage scale for this year, that indicated the county has the minimum wage raise.

Lowest paid employees of the past year were three new deputies who were paid $212; $213 and $216 per hour. This year they are averaged on a 37 1/2-hour week period, Mrs. McClure said. Others deputies and office help in the county received wage raises, ranging from that to the highest paid deputy, who receives $3.22 an hour. With a 25-a-month increase for this year, the lowest paid deputies will receive $2.28 an hour.

Meeting with the commissioners to request higher wages for their office help were Assessor E. D. Spavnik; Myron D. Johnson, treasurer, and Sheriff B. J. Anderson.

The matter of pay for prisoner care is still under consideration, however, with the prosecuting attorney, Howard E. Adkins, asked to secure an opinion of the attorney general on whether the person who guards prisoners at night must be an officer and whether or not the wages of a regular officer must be time and a half.

Sheriff B. J. Anderson reported he was cutting overtime in his office to a bare minimum until the matter is resolved.

In making a plan for increased wages for his office, Johnson pointed out that the income the county receives from his office handling the food stamp program will more than offset his requested increase.

Spavnik urged the commissioners to at least raise wages in Eastern County to match those in surrounding counties.

The budget as approved for 1976 shows $29,901.25 in current expenses, up from $21,599.07 last year. From this section of the budget the county officers are operated.

The budget calls for $400 pest control fund, compared to $300 a year ago; $600 in memorial fund again this year; $5,000 in independent fund against $35,000 again in the hospital fund; $10,000 in the junior college fund, up from $3,000 budget ($7,000 having been spent last year); $8,375 in health fund, up from $7,253; $5,276 in fair fund, up from $5,500; $14,851 in weed fund, down from $145,000 last year; and $200,000 in the sanitary landfill fund.

service news

HAGERMAN — An official of Mountain Home AFB has announced the promotion of Douglas C. Glauner to sergeant in the U. S. Air Force.

Sergeant Glauner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hale J. Glauner, Hagerman, is a fuel systems specialist with a unit of the Tactical Air Command.

The sergeant is a 1972 graduate of Hagerman High School. His wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Bruhn of Hagerman.

KIMBERLY — Navy Lt. J. G. Dale C. Sugg, 26, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Callan, Kimberly, recently visited Rijeka, Yugoslavia, while serving aboard the destroyer USS Bigelow.

During the week-long goodwill visit, he and his shipmates toured the local area and competed in a variety of athletic events with their hosts. This marked the first time in three years that a U.S. Navy ship had visited Rijeka.

His ship, presently deployed with the U. S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean, is homeported in Mayport, Fla.

A 1972 graduate of the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., he joined the Navy in January 1967.

KING HILL — E-4 Larry Elliot of the U. S. Army left Friday for Frankfurt, Germany, where he will be stationed.

Mr. Elliot and son Michael are staying in King Hill at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Elliot, uncle and aunt of Larry, until he is permanently settled and can send for them.

GLENNIS FERRY — S. SGT (AT2) Donald Holmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cole, has returned to his home base at North Island in the San Diego, Calif., waters.

He left his base in June 1975 for Mediterranean waters aboard the U. S. S. aircraft carrier, John F. Kennedy, and was about being unring the collision that killed and injured a number of seamen.

"Collapsing Mountain" — The famed Matterhorn in the Swiss-Italian Alps is self-destructing. As avalanches wear away its softer lower slopes, the mountain's upper pyramid acquires more of an overhang. Some day thousands of years from now the massive "horn" will topple.

Tipster to sue feds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former government informer who gave tips on heroin smugglers plans to sue the government for $3 million damages for refusing him protection despite what he said were attempts on his life.

Frank Peroff, living under a false name in fear of gangsters' reprisals, said his "cover" was blown three weeks ago. Since then, he said, someone has telephoned threats, followed his car and once tried to force him off a road.

After being in a car blasted with shotgun pellets Wednesday night, Peroff said in an interview, he pleaded with the Justice Department for a new cover but was turned down. "It (the blast) missed my head by no more than six inches," he said.

Peroff said he has gone out heavily armed nearly every night to guard his houses while his wife and children sleep.

Peroff wants the court to order the Justice Department to provide him with a new identity. He also is asking $1 million damages for failure to protect him.

A spokesman confirmed the department is refusing his request for protection on grounds he had violated an earlier protection agreement. The spokesman would not say just how the violation occurred.

Peroff had a falling out with the department's Drug Enforcement Administration in 1973 after he quoted an underworld figure as saying financier Robert Vesco, now a fugitive, was to finance a $300,000 heroin smuggling deal.

The DEA later said it could find nothing against Vesco. But Peroff told the Senate permanent investigating subcommittee the DEA held back because Vesco contributed $250,000 to Vesco contributed $250,000 to Richard Nixon's 1972 campaign.

The subcommittee concluded Peroff's cover change could not be proved. But it said DEA made some "highly questionable decisions" in dealing with Peroff's tip.

Auto firm accused of cheating

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

The Federal Trade Commission Wednesday accused the nation's three largest automobile manufacturers of cheating with making unfair profits when they repossess cars.

The commission said General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. repossessed cars from buyers who were behind in their payments, sold the cars for more than the buyers owed and pocketed the surplus.

In addition to the three auto makers the complaints also named the credit subsidiaries of each — General Motors Acceptance Corp., Ford Motor Credit Co. and Chrysler Credit Corp. Also named were one West Coast dealer for each of the manufacturers.

The commission proposed that in future cases of repossession the companies should notify defaulting buyers when there is a surplus from the sale and give the surplus to them.

It said the companies "reconciled" surpluses from defaulting customers. It said the three credit subsidiaries and dealers were "unjustly enriched" in the process.

An FTC official said it was the first case of its kind. The companies have a right to a repossessing.

Hamilton firm sues Greater Idaho, Regal

TWIN FALLS — Lloyd Hamilton Agency, Twin Falls, has filed an action in Fifth Judicial District court here against Greater Idaho Inc. and Regal Manufacturing Co.

The suit asks $50,000 allegedly owed in back insurance premiums plus 13.9 per cent interest on the amount.

Sherra Life Insurance Co., Twin Falls, filed an action against Air Idaho seeking payment of a premium note. The complaint charges a 100% of $100,000 was signed for Air Idaho on June 6, 1974, and the same amount was again advanced the airline in June, 1975.

Sherra Life is seeking payment of the note plus interest and other fees by the court.

5 Hall of Fame honorees selected

BY BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Five members of the livestock industry in Magic Valley will be inducted into the Southern Idaho Livestock Hall of Fame Feb. 24.

The annual Hall of Fame banquet will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Holiday Inn. The five honorees were selected in January by the hall of fame board of directors.

This year's honorees are O. J. Harris, Shoshone; Tom Prescott, Jerome; Earl Taylor, Almo; Richard Blincoe, Heyburn; and J.C. Merrill, Paul.

O. J. Harris, born in Portage, Utah, grew up on the sheep and cattle production business. He came to Idaho in 1945, residing first in Nampa and later in Shoshone. He has been described as one of the best judges of dairy animals in the county and has been active in the dairy industry for many years. He also has been active in the livestock sales business.

He began in the dairy business about 30 years ago in Nampa, buying top animals from as far away as Canada and Washington to build up a quality dairy breeding program. In 1953 he moved to Shoshone.

He purchased the Shoshone Sale Yard in 1959 and has built it into one of the major livestock sales centers in the area. He also has a "long-standing interest in good horses, being active in Quarter Horse organizations and events. He served as president of the Southern Idaho Horse Racing Association and has been active in chariot racing.

Tom Prescott, a Jerome

County rancher and businessman, is a native of Idaho. After his graduation from the Southern Idaho College of Education in Albion, he taught school at Dietrich and for several years worked for the government and taught school in Wendell. He served in the U. S. Navy during World War II and joined the Jerome in 1946 at the close of his military service. He worked for Hells Investment Co. and later purchased the firm along with LeRoy Craig.

He has been active in civic and service organizations, has been treasurer of the Jerome County Fairboard and served on the St. Benedict's Hospital Board. He was drill master for the Jerome County Mounted posse.

Prescott entered the agricultural field in 1955, when he purchased his first farm. He now has 1,644 acres of farm and ranchland. On some of the land he has developed an extensive program of rest rotation. The grazing land is divided into four pastures for this purpose with underground irrigation systems. He has been president of the Milner and Star Lake Cattle Association, operates a beef herd of about 700 cow-calf pairs, and keeps individual records on each cow.

Prescott has purchased outstanding herd sires and owns interests in some of the leading beef bulls of the nation. He has served as president of the Western Charolais Association and has also been active in horse racing organizations and 4-H programs.

Earl J. Taylor, Almo, was born and raised in this county and operates at 75 years of age. He continues an active interest in the livestock industry. He and his wife reside in a brick home they built on their ranch, which he purchased in 1942 from his parents.

The ranch is located at the foot of Mount Independence and Taylor runs his cattle on Sawtooth National Forest range during summer months. He has been a fire guard for the forest service for so long no record could be found as to when he began.

He served as president of the Almo Cattle and Horse Association for 22 years. He has been a 4-H leader for many years and has worked through other youth programs. Taylor served as master of the Raft River Grange. He is known for his assistance in the community and to his neighbors.

When electricity first reached Almo, he did the wiring in most of the homes in the community. He has spent much time and effort upgrading the quality of cattle in his herd and is the oldest "cowboy" still riding in the Almo Cattle Association.

Richard Blincoe, head of the Blincoe Farms, resides near Heyburn and has guided the family's agricultural business since the 1940s. He was born on the 60-acre farm his father, Daisy Pelt Blincoe, homesteaded in 1864. After graduation from high school, he moved to Ogden, Utah, to work in a defense plant. He returned to help his father with harvest problems in late 1942 and remained in the farm operation.

Since that time he and his father have expanded into livestock feeding, slaughtering and processing and are feeding cattle and sheep. David developed their own successful pellet production system.

In addition, Blincoe has served as county grassman in 1956; president of the Idaho

Cattle Feeders Association; member of the board of directors and has been active in promoting the Cattle Fax Market news reporting for the feeding industry in Idaho. He has been vice president of the Mindoka County Beet Growers and a director of the Idaho association as well as an A. S. C. S. board member for a number of years.

Jack Merrill started a poultry farm in 1924 in Paul with a borrowed Model T Ford, seven brooded roosters and 60 hens.

His hatchery business developed into one of the largest such operations in the United States, with baby chicks being shipped from Paul to all parts of the country, including Hawaii. The poultry operation now employs about 25 persons and is presently producing 6 million baby chicks per year with 40,000 breeders on the farm.

Born in Utah, Merrill moved to Paul in 1926, planning to homestead. He recalls his first farming endeavor, on the outskirts of the irrigated project, met with problems when jackrabbits moved in to devour his crops.

He later purchased 100 head of Holstein cows from a Buhl herd but found poultry was more profitable. In 1939, he again went into the dairy business with a purebred Guernsey herd which he operated somewhat as a hobby until his retirement.

He has served on the board of directors of the Idaho Egg Producers Association for 26 years, was active in the Idaho Poultry Improvement Association, was a charter member of the Paul Lions Club, served on the Paul School board 18 years and later as Mindoka County School Board member.

today in brief

TF market named in suit
TWIN FALLS — American Strevell Inc., formerly Utah Wholesale Grocery, Twin Falls, has filed action in Fifth Judicial District Court here to take possession of inventory, furniture and fixtures of Denny's Market.

The complaint charges Dennis and Carol Huk, owners of the store, owe $2,207 on open account with the wholesale grocery firm. On April 4, 1974, the defendants signed a security agreement for $27,038 with the stock and fixtures of the store offered for security.

The action filed in court this week asks the court to award the plaintiff possession of the property.

Castelford begins panel selection
CASTLEFORD — Part of the affirmative action committee has been selected for the Castelford School District, Supt. Richard Peters said Wednesday.

He reported on the status of the program at the monthly trustee meeting here Tuesday afternoon. Patrons must be represented on the committee and these still need to be selected, the superintendent said.

TF miss remains 'serious'
TWIN FALLS — Tereisa Braby, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Braby, Twin Falls, remains in the hospital today with a skull fracture suffered in a tubing accident Sunday.

The girl was injured when she rode an inner tube down an incline and off a 10-to-15-foot embankment, landing on the gravel road below the Pomerelle ski resort and Howell Canyon Snowmobile area.

Emergency personnel picked up the unconscious girl after she was her car on the side of a drift into the roadway. She was taken to the ski resort where ski patrol members and a physician who happened to be on the ski slopes administered emergency treatment. The doctor advised she be taken immediately to a hospital.

Officials at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital said today she is being treated for a skull fracture and a fractured arm. She continues to be semi-conscious but is listed as improving.

Space provided for BLM office
TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County commissioners have completed plans for providing office space for the Bureau of Land Management on an itinerant basis.

Commission Chairman Meri Logsdon said the county will make space available in the old hospital building. The BLM district, headquartered in Burley, will send one man to Twin Falls, probably one day a week, to meet with public land users in this area.

Logsdon said the action is being taken as a convenience to cattlemen and others in this area who need to confer with BLM officials but find the drive to Burley inconvenient. A telephone for the BLM will be maintained in the office of the county zoning administrator. Calls will be taken and returned by the BLM representative during the day he spends in Twin Falls.

Lodge bid rejected
KETCHUM — Provident Federal Savings, Boise, has rejected a Halley man's bid to buy the bankrupt Prosperator Lodge. Jack Howell, Provident executive vice president, said Clarendon's Resort owner Pat Ryan's offer of $334,886 is not enough for the property.

Two other state offers are being considered, reportedly in the neighborhood of $700,000.

Ryan was prepared to pay cash for the lodge if several lawsuits brought by former owner James Doyle against Provident were dropped. Doyle was prepared to drop the suits if Ryan's offer was accepted.

Ryan's creditors meeting regarding the Doyle Enterprises bankruptcy is scheduled Feb. 17 at 11 a.m. at District Court in Boise.

During the Boise controversy, Sale and Wardle were charged in an Ada Council of Government "ACOG" memo with "consistent reluctance" to ask for ACOG analysis of the zoning changes and proposed subdivisions. It was after these charges that Sale and Wardle left their posts to join Bills.

Neither Sale nor Wardle referred to the Boise controversy in Wednesday night's presentation before the joint council, although Wardle said after the meeting that charges of conflict of interest in Boise had been "pure poppycock."

He said that both he and Sale had at one time or another recommended denial of Bills' proposed developments while working in the Boise agencies. He said the controversy was politically motivated.

"We were getting calls at night," Sale added. "We finally got to a point that we couldn't live with the situation."

Wardle worked for Bills for one year before joining the Boise office of J-U-B. Sale was employed by Bills for two years before being hired by J-U-B last spring.

Appearing before the joint council, Sale and Wardle said that J-U-B would ask its staff not to take on private projects during the tenure of the proposed Twin Falls contract. If those private projects would involve Twin Falls County or City zone changes.

"We would ask our people to represent only persons with approved ground," Wardle told the council.

Sale added that neither he nor Wardle would represent private developers while employed by the county.

"I don't feel it would be appropriate for either mine or to appear for any land developer while employed for you," he said.

Wardle said neither he nor Sale would be in a decision-making post while completing the comprehensive plan.

"I sincerely do not see a (conflict of interest) problem with J-U-B," he said.

Council member Clyde Van Deusden suggested it would be the responsibility of the council itself to make sure that no conflict of interest took place.

Discussion then turned to what the council would get for its money should the J-U-B contract be signed.

Sale told the council the contract would not include the drawing up of separate comprehensive plans for each of the eight municipalities in the county, an approach which had been recommended by state planners.

J-U-B representative Dale Riedesel, who had briefed the council on the firm's contracts in the county prior to Sale and Wardle's appearance, said the proposed $15,000 contract would bring the county's comprehensive plan to the public hearing stage.

Sale told the council the most important step under the proposed contract would be to draw up a projected land-use map for the county.

He recommended that areas of impact for each of the county municipalities be drawn up at an early stage "and then become the planning areas for the eight cities."

Riedesel said the contract, stating precisely what J-U-B will do, for the $15,000, could be drawn up within two weeks. Sale estimated he and Wardle could be at work on the plan within a month.

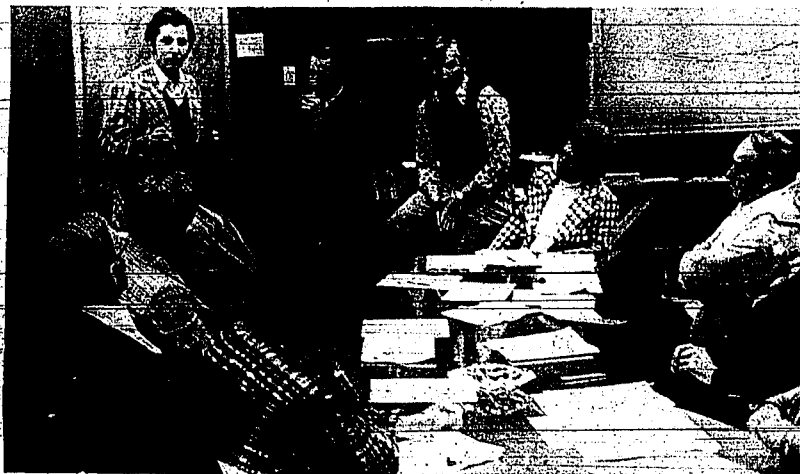

Sale and Wardle said after the meeting that they would conduct extensive field investigations in Twin Falls County before beginning work on the plan and would then return to their Boise offices to put the plan together.

The council was unanimous in its decision to send a letter to state representatives calling for defeat of the House-passed bill which would allow a property owner the option of not having his land included in any land-use planning.

The action followed a discussion in which council chairman Ann Cover charged the bill would wipe out not only the council, but also the county and city planning and zoning agencies.

Cover said she was confident Gov. Cecil Andrus would veto the bill if it should pass the Senate.

For the bill to become law, she said, would set state land-use planning back 25 years.

Plant site bill opinions clash

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News Capital Bureau

BOISE — Citizen groups and utilities presented different views of what power plant siting legislation would mean to Idaho in public hearings here Wednesday.

Representatives of the League of Women Voters, the Idaho Conservation League and the American Association of University Women spoke in favor of the siting bill before the Senate Resources and Environment Committee and the House Resources and Conservation Committee.

They maintained it would help both the public and the utilities by making energy planning more systematic and more open.

Representatives from Idaho Power Co., Utah Power and Light, other Idaho utilities, the Association of General Contractors and the Association of Commerce and Industry opposed the bill, which is being sponsored by Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert.

Many of the utility and business spokesmen said a power plant siting bill would serve the interests of those who favor "no growth" and would be detrimental to the consumer. They questioned the need for the legislation and said it would delay construction of power facilities and boost costs.

Conley Ward, assistant attorney general assigned to the Idaho Public Utilities Commission, explained the power plant siting bill which drew up.

Ward divided the proposal into four main features:

- Long range 10-year plans by electric and natural gas utilities would be required to be filed with the IPUC each year.
- A filing fee for an application to build energy facilities would have to be made. The fee would vary according to the cost of the plant. For an $80 million plant, such as Idaho Power's Pioneer, the fee would be $75,000. The money would be used to fund independent studies of a proposed project.
- Various state departments would be notified of the application to build the plant and all individuals filing a timely motion would have the right to appear and present their views on the proposed projects.
- Specific guidelines are given on what factors the IPUC would have to consider in making a decision on an energy facility proposal.

Jeff Fereday, representing the Idaho Conservation League, said the league is "not pushing for enactment of this legislation because we want to slow down growth because we oppose power plants."

He termed the siting bill a "rational, codified, systematic approach" to power plant siting. He said it would give the IPUC 18 months to make a decision on an application to build a power plant, although, if an application was deficient, an extra 30 days might be granted.

Conservation of Idaho Power's current proposal to build Pioneer already has taken 15 months and is likely to take six more, Fereday said. But under this bill, 18 months would be enough, he said, because the IPUC would know what to expect. Long range plans would have been presented and the commissioners wouldn't awaken one day to open the newspaper or their mail and find that a major project is being proposed, he said.

"What we want is a defined system, a defined process for dealing with this very important land-use issue, this very important water issue, this very important energy issue," Fereday said.

He maintained that a $375,000 fee is not unreasonable. He said the utilities' rate payers, who would benefit from the project, would pay for it. Instead of all of Idaho's citizens through use of tax money for studies.

But Logan Lanham, representing Idaho Power Co., took another view. He said that the current law governing power plant siting is "adequate and sufficient to allow the commission to make an informed decision in a more flexible and fluid manner." He maintained that the siting proposal would "prevent or hinder the commission from adopting rules and regulations as needed."

Lanham said the proposal "sets forth specified requirements which are costly and wasteful and time delaying." He said the bill calls for at least two years advance notice before building a power line to a business or an irrigation pump after hearing to it. He said it could take three or four years to get permission to build the line.

Lanham, along with other utility representatives, specifically objected to the bill's inclusion of 34,500-volt power lines as energy facilities which would need to be applied for. He maintained lines this size are "distribution" lines.

Sunday opening rejected

KIMBERLY — A request for Sunday opening of the Towne House Inn was defeated Tuesday night in a tie vote of the Kimberly City Council.

Charles C. "Moody" Given, new manager of the Towne House, asked councilmen to change the city ordinance which now prohibits Sunday opening of such businesses. Given said the serves sandwiches and pizza as well as soft drinks and beer and felt it would be a convenience for older persons in the community "to be able to get a sandwich on Sunday without coming to Twin Falls."

The four councilmen split on the motion to change the present ordinance, and since Mayor Von Nebeker was out of town, there was no one to break the tie. Therefore the motion was defeated, according to Edythe Widmer, city clerk.

This is the third time the Sunday opening issue has been raised before the council, she said. In the past petitions have been received against the opening.

Bill Block, city engineer, gave a progress report on plans for the new water improvements to be financed by the $150,000 bond issue approved by voters last December.

The bonds will be sold March 18 with a special council meeting scheduled to open the bids. The project will include a new 250,000-gallon storage tanks and improvements on the present city lines.

Block reported on cost estimates for the various types of storage tanks, but no decisions can be made until the bonds are sold, Mrs. Widmer said.

Water supplies 'adequate'

BOISE (UPI) — Based on Feb. 1 snow water equivalents, the Soil Conservation Service has forecast adequate water supplies for the 1976 irrigation season on all drainages with storage facilities.

A report from Amos I. Garrison, Jr., state conservationist, and Jack Wilson, state snow survey supervisor, said the water supply outlook for other watersheds will be dependent on weather conditions during the remainder of the winter.

Snowpack accumulations in the mountainous watersheds of Idaho range from a low of 57 per cent of average on the Little Wood River drainage to a high of 136 per cent of normal on the Teton watershed.

Snowpack is above to well above normal on all Snake River and tributary drainages above Milner Dam and below average on the remainder of the tributary watersheds to the Clearwater River which shows 108 per cent of normal.

Streamflow during January was above normal on most

Idaho streams but not conducive to flooding from runoff. Reservoir storage is good to excellent throughout the state.

The forecast streamflow for the April through September season ranges from a low of 65 per cent of average for inflow to Magic Reservoir on the Big Wood River to 106 per cent of normal for Snake River near Hite.

In general, January was mild with above-normal temperatures and below average precipitation. Frequent and substantial precipitation fell during the first half of the month but the remainder of the month was predominantly dry.

Field work for Iowans

TEMPERATURES in Iowa rose into the middle 50's at midweek, sending this farmer near Iowa City into the field to begin preparing for spring planting. But elsewhere in the Midwest and notably in the wheat belt, dry soil, brisk winds and temperatures in the 70's and 80's stirred clouds of dust and new worries about the development of the 1976 wheat crop. ## Insurance plans may cut pesticide threat WASHINGTON (UPI) — A scientific advisory panel says new insurance plans protecting farmers against loss from insect damage might help reduce future threats of pesticide buildup in the environment.

The proposal was included last week in a lengthy report on chemical pest controls issued by the National Academy of Sciences. It got little initial attention because it was buried in a 506-page document backed up by five separate volumes of subcommittee reports, but there were indications today the suggestion may spark some interest in Congress.

The insurance proposal was developed initially by a corn-soybean study team, headed by Prof. James P. Houck, head of the University of Minnesota Department of Agriculture, which contributed to the overall pest control study. Houck's subcommittee report noted that corn and soybeans are "in many ways the backbone of U.S. agriculture" because they provide the basic raw materials for meat, milk and poultry production.

The subcommittee said chemical pest controls have played a vital role in expanding production of the two key crops, and it predicted that farmers will continue to rely primarily on chemicals — including new safer, less persistent products — to protect the crops from insects, diseases and weeds over the next 10-15 years.

At the same time, however, the panel warned that chemical pest control in corn and soybeans "represents a sizeable portion of the total pesticide load introduced by man" in farming. And a "substantial portion" of the insecticides used on corn are applied routinely as insurance against possible damage rather than as a counter-attack against existing serious outbreaks, the report said.

To reduce needless use of pesticides before serious insect threats appear, the scientific group recommended stepped up efforts to monitor and predict pest buildups. But in addition, the panel said, there should be studies of broadened crop insurance programs which would include insurance against pest losses.

Such insurance written by public or private agencies would help achieve economic security for individual growers and thereby reduce insurance applications of chemicals, the report said.

"It is important to prevent (insurance) chemical applications on soybeans from becoming as widespread as they are now on corn," experts added. Congressional sources said that recommendation may be examined by a Senate Agriculture subcommittee which is expected to make a review this spring of a series of proposals for reforming farm disaster relief and crop insurance programs.

The corn-soybean study team said also that government and farm leaders should be developing backup plans to combat sudden and unexpected insect and plant disease problems which "can explode at any time with disastrous results" like a 1970 outbreak of corn leaf blight disease. Among other things, the team said, government and private officials should be building inventories of chemicals which

Vietnam farm taxes levied

SAIGON, South Vietnam (UPI) — South Vietnam will tax farmers this year but only on a maximum 15 per cent of agricultural output, the director of taxation said.

The official Gioi Phong (Liberation) daily newspaper quoted an official of the department director Tran Dinh Trap as saying there would be different tax schedules ranging from 5 to 10 per cent.

But, the article said, "These tax schedules will cover no more than 15 per cent of the annual taxable agricultural production."

Trap was quoted in the article as saying the Viet Cong had made the tax levy decision as long ago as 1969 and that it would apply to "terrace and collective farms in the liberated zones in South Vietnam" before the U.S. backed Saigon government fell last April 30.

No taxes will be levied on the poorest farmers, Trap said in the article.

"Agricultural taxes will be calculated on the size of the farmer's family and any family which does not produce as much as 200 liters (about 5.5 bushels) of rice is not entitled to pay any tax at all."

Land being newly reclaimed by the relocation program in the South will not be subject to the tax "for a year or two," Trap said.

Cattle price increase by summer looms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government survey indicating cattle numbers Jan. 1 were down 3 per cent from a year earlier points to a "substantial" increase in cattle prices this spring and summer, an Agriculture Department analyst says.

Whether retail prices for beef also will rise substantially remains uncertain because it depends on what happens to middlemen's margins. When cattle prices declined last month, much of the drop never reached the consumer because middlemen expanded their margins, agriculture records indicate.

If the margins shrink later as they often do when live cattle prices are rising, the middlemen may absorb some of the future gains in raw product, prices before they affect consumer bills for steaks and hamburger.

The Agriculture Department cattle survey, an annual estimate of the number of cattle on farms or in American beef-cows-as-cattle numbers passed the peak in the cycle which began in 1967. Estimates showed beef cow numbers at 42.7 million, down 4 per cent from a year earlier in the first drop since 1958.

George Hoffman, an Agriculture specialist in livestock economics, said in an interview the decline in total cattle numbers was slightly greater than experts' and expected.

Hoffman said a review of the figures indicates little change in previous forecasts of beef production and price prospects for this year, but does show a "more bullish picture" for 1977, especially for feeder cattle.

Farmers and feedlot operators who fatten cattle on livestock producers' choice grade and other supermarket beef reportedly pulled back into profit positions in many cases last fall after a long slump. But ranchers who produce calves and lightweight animals normally destined for feedlots have, in many cases, been losing money for several years.

For this year, the expert said, prospects indicate "some real substantial improvement in both feeder cattle and grain fed slaughter cattle this spring and summer" barring some unexpected worsening of feed grain production prospects.

Price stability goal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Future government farm policies should put more emphasis on efforts to stabilize supplies and smooth out wide swings in retail food prices, a National Planning Association report recommends.

The report, drafted for the NPA's Agriculture Committee by University of Missouri economist Harold Bremley, said key ingredients of a new policy should include higher crop support loans to set prices on commodity prices and a more formal program of commodity reserves.

Building a reserve, Bremley adds, is particularly important to the government—continue to negotiate long term food supply deals like the five year grain deal signed with the Soviet Union last year.

Bremley said it is an increasing proportion of each year's crop is going to be "locked up in advance in foreign commitments. American consumers would find themselves "residual claimants" — able to get only what was left over after all overseas orders had been filled. In years of short crops, the Missouri economist indicated this could threaten high food prices for consumers unless reserves were available.

Without reserves, Bremley said, consumers would rebel against the "residual claimant" role. The economist said existing law is weighted in favor of grain and cotton farmers and against the interests of livestock producers. The law provides protection for crop producers by providing deficiency payments if their prices drop, "but it does little or nothing to stabilize the supply and prices of feedstuffs to livestock and poultry producers, of food to U. S. consumers, or of the several commodities to export buyers," he said.

NPA officials said the report was drafted because "now is a crucial time for decision" on future food and agricultural policy because grain stocks have been comparatively low in recent years, federal supply and price support programs designed for surplus eras have been largely unresponsive in recent years, the NPA said. Agriculture Department of

Idaho water use openings remain

BOISE (UPI) — Opportunities for water resource development remain in Idaho although some "may require construction" of storage through raising existing dams or new dams, the state director of water resources said today.

R. Keith Higginson told the Southwest Idaho Development Association the current interest in the Idaho Legislature in minimum stream flow legislation is occasioned by the increased interest in the diversion of water from the Snake River and its tributaries for land development projects.

"He said a department study showed that as of May 1975, there were irrigation projects diverting water from the Snake River between Milner Dam and the Weiser gaging station serving 167,323 acres.

"Additional permits had been granted for new projects totaling 284,916 acres. At that time there also were pending in the department unapproved applications for another 150,199 acres.

"The effect of those proposed uses of water were analyzed and compared to current stream flows. The result was a projection that the average monthly flow of 6,800 second feet in August in the gaging station near Murphy would be reduced to 4,000 second feet if all currently permitted projects were constructed and further reduced to 2,000 second feet if all pending applications were approved and projects constructed under them."

He said the low daily flow would be changed from 6,800 second feet to 1,900 second feet if all permitted projects and pending applications were constructed.

The effect would be a loss of 8.2 per cent of the current annual hydro-electric power generation in Idaho Power Company's Hells Canyon power complex and a loss of 40.5 per cent of the August generation.

Higginson said there have been 100 applications for withdrawal of land under the Carey Act in the past two years, calling for irrigation of 400,000 acres of land.

"The problem is not caused by a lack of water supply, but by a lack of flows during the summer months," he said.

Solutions could be the redistribution of existing water supplies and uses, extensive ground water pumping, artificial recharge, modification of existing upstream diversions and construction of new storage.

He said studies by state and federal agencies have concluded the new storage will be extremely expensive in the future both because of rising construction costs and dwindling supplies of unappropriated water.

Consideration of future storage construction will have to take in economic, social and environmental consequences of any proposed project, he said.

William L. Matthews, state director of the Bureau of Land Management, told the same meeting there are 1,260 applications pending for 405,000 acres under Desert Land Entry provisions in addition to the Carey Act applications.

Unfortunately, he said, many applicants feel that an opportunity exists for windfall profits without fully considering the high risk, and the very high cost and capital investment required.

Matthews said it is unfortunate that some people are going to lose money and some may lose their shirts.

Family held five hours for $15 parking ticket

LEWISTOWN, Ill. (UPI) — For nearly five hours, police held Stephen Spanich, his wife and two small children in a small room. The purpose: to serve Spanich with a $15 parking ticket.

Naperville Police Lt. Robert Harper said Wednesday it wasn't his idea.

The police dispatcher at Lewistown said it wasn't his either.

Fulton County Sheriff Meredith Ellsworth said, "It was just plain silly."

Spanich, 29, his wife Terri, and their children, 4-year-old Jason and 1-year-old Nicole, were simply trying to forget the whole thing.

The Spaniches were headed home Sunday night to McNabb, Ill., after visiting old friends in Quincy, Ill.

When Spanich, athletic director at Pulaski County High School, stepped out in Duplex, Ill., a squad car pulled him over.

The officer gave Steven a warning ticket. Mrs. Spanich said, "And I guess by the time we got to the ticket, he had fed our license plate number into the computer."

Flashing red lights met the family in Astoria, Ill. A state trooper pulled them over.

"He said, 'Spread 'em, I'm gonna frisk you. You're wanted on a murder warrant for all we know,'" Mrs. Spanich said.

Spanich actually was wanted for a $12 night parking violation in the Chicago suburb of Naperville, 100 miles away, incurred last Sept. 6.

Astoria police took the Spaniches to the sheriff's office in Lewistown.

Dispatcher Rick Monti said, "I asked Naperville they wanted to do with them and they said they'd be down here to straighten it out."

Harper said, "We had hoped the authorities down there would accept bond and release him on the basis of the teletyped information. But they said we better come down there, so we did."

Four hours and 160 miles later, Harper and another officer arrived at Lewistown to serve the warrant on Spanich, assign him a court date and watch him post $25 bond.

Mrs. Spanich said the jailers didn't lock the family up, but "they left us in a room for almost five hours with three wooden chairs and a desk."

"We were the butt of everyone's jokes."

'School bus' ride longest in world

BY CARL HAYDEN
Special to the Times-News

JACKPOT — Chestnut-haired vocalist Sherri Wilmoth, 13, Fremont, Calif., has the longest "school bus" ride in the world. Not only the longest but also the fastest.

Sherri made her professional stage debut Jan. 30-31 at a Jackpot casino, returned Feb. 5-6 and will be back Friday and Saturday.

A ninth grader at Fremont, Sherri boards Hughes Alvest Friday afternoon at San Francisco, Calif., flies the 600 miles to Twin Falls, and is transported to Jackpot by car.

She returns Sunday and is home by mid-afternoon. Round-trip flying time is three hours.

Sherri, who stands 4 feet 8 inches and who weighs only 84 pounds, is accompanied by Joseph Mount, San Francisco, manager of the California Cowboys, a professional troupe from Burlingame, Calif.

How did Sherri, who brought down the house on her first appearances, develop her love?

Solely by herself. Neither her father, Ben Wilmoth, who is a Fremont city employe, nor her mother, Mrs. Marilyn Wilmoth, are musically inclined.

"She just began listening to records, the radio and television and singing around the house," Mount, who investigated after receiving a telephone call from Mrs. Wilmoth, a California Cowboys fan, says.

At 9 years of age she began writing letters to radio disc jockeys, saying she wanted to sing and to make records.

"No one answered. Her mistake was trying to give her age," another child listener wanting to be heard, recipient's thought.

Sherri's "spare time" between school and stage is now taken up with dance and guitar lessons.

Sherri's 12-year-old brother doesn't show any inclination to follow in his younger sister's footsteps.

But a 5-year-old sister gives indications of future competition for Sherri.

Giants' move to Toronto stopped by late bid

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants, on the brink of financial disaster and strongly wooed by a wealthy group in Toronto, Canada, were prevented from leaving Wednesday when an eleven-hour bid of $8 million in cash was made for the National League franchise.

Although the new buyers — local sportsman-financier Bob Lurie and one-time owner of the American League's Washington-Texas entry Bob Short — have not officially purchased the Giants, Superior Court Judge John E. Benson effectively stopped the team from making its second cross-country journey to a new home in 19 years by granting the city of San Francisco a requested preliminary injunction.

The next step for the prospective new buyers is to persuade the Giants' parent company, the National Exhibition Co., of which Lurie is a board member, to accept the offer.

However, attorneys for National Exhibition gave no indication when the directors would gather to act on the matter. If the sale is agreed to within the next few days, National League owners conceivably could vote on approval of the new owners when they meet in Chicago Wednesday. Nine ayes are needed to complete the changeover.

"What I'd like to do now is find out the exact terms of the offer," said James Hunt, attorney for the Giants. "Let's find out what the offer is. Then we'll be in a better position to present this to the directors and meet with Short and Lurie and discuss the nuts and bolts of the proposal."

Short concurred. Before leaving for his Minneapolis home to be with his hospitalized wife, he said, "I'm ready to sit down with the Giants now and try to work out a memorandum of some kind at least. The offer is open until such time it can be taken to the board."

The Short-Lurie proposal was put together and completed by Mayor George Moscone only an hour before Judge Benson was to rule on the injunction.

The city initially sought the injunction Jan. 10, a day after Giants owner Horace C. Stoneham announced the sale of the team to the Canadian consortium of Labatt's Brewery, the Toronto Globe and Mail and a Toronto bank for $12.5 million.

The Short-Lurie purchase price is $5.25 million under the Canadian bid, but is equal in that the $8 million is for only the baseball team — free and clear of all liabilities.

Under the terms of the Toronto offer, the $5.25 million was to be placed in escrow to indemnify the city on the team's 35-year lease at Candlestick Park.

Tanner victim of financial game

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chuck Tanner, former manager of the Chicago White Sox and current manager of the Oakland A's, may become the victim of a financial game between A's owner Charles O. Finley and Bill Veck, new head man of the White Sox.

Tanner was relieved as manager of the White Sox when the Veck group took over the club and was offered another task in the organization. Instead he accepted a three-year contract to manage Oakland.

Finley revealed Wednesday the A's contract calls for Oakland to pay Tanner $25,000 a year and the A's owner assumed that the White Sox would have to pay Tanner $25,000 a year to make up the balance of his $60,000 a year contract.

"The Sox are lucky that I signed him to a three-year contract," Finley laughed. "I could have signed him year by year and the Sox would have been obligated for the full $60,000 if I let him go. It's the longest contract I've ever given a manager."

But Veck took issue with Finley's position. "All I can say is if that's true, then Chuck gave up a well-paying position for one that doesn't pay as well," Veck said. "He's not going to get anything from the White Sox."

Veck said the Sox "did not feel obligated to pay because Tanner resigned. He wasn't fired," Veck said.

Plaintiffs discuss suit halt

SEATTLE (UPI) — Plaintiffs in a multi-million dollar suit against the American League met for the first time Wednesday to discuss the possibility of halting the legal action, but no decision was reached and another meeting was scheduled for Friday.

David Marshall, a spokesman for Mayor Wes Uhlman, said a decision "probably" would be reached at the Friday talks.

Among those at the meeting Wednesday were Uhlman, State Attorney General Slide Gorton, King County Executive John Spellman, City Council members and various attorneys and staff members.

Marshall said city officials wanted to hear the position of the state and county and review documents which would put an American League expansion team in the county's famed stadium in 1977.

He said only city officials planned to attend the meeting Friday. There was no representative from the league at the Wednesday meeting and Marshall said there were no plans at present to have one on Friday.

Gibron fetes sports writers

CHICAGO (UPI) — Abe Gibron threw a party Wednesday, to thank the media for their treatment of him during his three-year tenure as coach of the Chicago Bears, and he made no distinction between friend and foe.

"I just wanted to say thanks the way I've been treated," he said. "All of you treated me nicely, but some of you did it with a handshake in person and cut me up in your stories. But you were only doing your job and I can understand that."

Gibron, released by the Bears at the end of the 1974 season, signed on briefly last year to coach the Chicago Winds of the World Football League, but hardly had time to recognize the players before the franchise folded and he was out on the street looking again for work.

He found it for 1976, assistant coach to John McKay with the new Tampa Bay franchise in the National Football League.

"I don't know whether I'm defensive coordinator or defensive line coach, or what," Gibron said. "John hasn't assigned job titles yet."

He said he assumed that he would be an active advisor in Tampa's draft selections, both in the choice of players from other NFL teams in the expansion draft and in the selections from colleges. Both drafts have been deferred because of court action.

Gibron didn't expect his new team to find great talent in the expansion draft. "They can freeze 20 players," he said, "and after each team does that, there won't be a great deal of great talent for us to pick from. Besides you know there are going to be some fine players who don't want to play in Tampa, and they'll be on the available list."

"But how can we pick them, knowing they won't play for us. All we'd be doing would be losing a draft choice."

Gibron, whose wife, Susie, accompanied him in saying a temporary goodbye, said he would maintain his home in nearby Michigan City, Ind., and as Susie put it, "we'll have a northern house for the summer and a southern one for the winter."

Holmes faces drug trial

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Big-burly Ernie Holmes has attracted a lot of followers in his years as a member of the Pittsburgh Steelers' Front Four.

The fans, the groupies and the writers — they're not too much of a bother to the man who once shaved his short Afro into the shape of an arrow.

But there's one thing on his trail that Holmes says he would really like to shake — Trouble.

Holmes, 27, was indicted Wednesday in Amarillo, Tex., on a felony drug possession charge — a crime that carries a sentence of up to 20 years in jail and a $10,000 fine. He is accused of being caught possessing 250 milligrams of cocaine in a motel men's room and could be tried on the charge as early as next month.

The indictment comes just a few months after Holmes' good conduct court shot a five-year probation imposed after he went berserk during an apparent nervous breakdown and shot up three moving trucks, a helicopter and camp in Ohio.

"I've been under a lot of pressure so long," Holmes, who is free on $1,000 bond, told a reporter shortly after his drug arrest.

"I don't know why these problems keep following me around. Pretty soon, I'm going to be known as Courtroom Ernie." Holmes being placed in probation and setting out on a rescue after that 1973 escapade, providing legal and medical help that resulted in highway patrolman.

'New look' Bruins invade Pocatello, host Skyline

A "new look" Twin Falls Bruin team will be unveiled this week when Coach Ron Watson takes his troops to Pocatello Friday night and entertains Skyline Saturday.

Coach Watson has added two sophomores, Dave Wetter and Randy Kolpar, to his varsity outfit in an effort to increase team depth, quickness and size.

Meanwhile, Minico, trying to finish the year with a winning flurry, will be at Skyline Friday night.

Although he anticipates some reaction from his boys, Coach Watson said "I haven't rushed into this thing. I've given it a lot of thought. Several of my friends urged me to take the action as long as a month ago and some even before the season started."

"But I've felt that we've been just around the corner from becoming a pretty good team. I've waited a long time and it seems that we just haven't been able to get there. This isn't a late-season desperation move. It's a calculated one that we feel might be the nudge we're required to get there."

Wetter, who had a 60-point weekend for the sophomores, adds a 6-4 guard to the diminutive line the Bruins have. Kolpar, a 6-3 sophomore, is regarded as one of the most rapidly improving youngsters in the system.

"We don't anticipate these two sophomores walking out in a starting role and blowing everyone away," Coach Watson cautioned. "We feel they can help us in certain game situations and most during practices where their size and ability will make the upper classmen work harder."

"If you've followed our season, you've noticed that we haven't played particularly well on the second night. I think that's a direct result of depth. We've had a lot of injuries among our forwards all season and have been hurt badly on the offensive boards. We need help in our rebounding, particularly the second night."

"We have two goals right now, both of them difficult. The first is to get ourselves together as a team and the second to get to a break-even record. We'd have to win our last three games to become 10-10 and two of those are on the road so we know it will be difficult."

"But if we can accomplish our first goal of getting together, we might be able to give a good account of ourselves in the tournament," he concluded.

Answering a question, Coach Watson said "Coach (Ron) Boyd was very cooperative and willing to let us have these two boys off his sophomore team. We already had (Dave) Nutting and Coach Boyd was having a fine year. This will hurt his record but he's very happy to give the boys a chance to play varsity ball and maybe turn us around that corner."

In Pocatello Twin Falls is facing a smaller but quick team, one that took a decision from the Bruins on their home court. Coach Watson used a spearhead last time out, which limited the Indians' usual high point scorers but saw Sonny Warren and Mike Dunn hit over their averages.

Skyline is still a zone defense team that likes to be patient and work the ball inside. Twin Falls' loss to the Grizzlies at Idaho Falls was directly attributable to the following scoring of Hendrickson who canned 16 points and has been in double figures only twice this year. He stands 6-6.

Skyline's top player is 6-3 Dick Miller, third in SIC scoring, and Skyline works hard to get the ball to him.

Minico shattered Skyline with its pressure tactics at Rupert and Coach Gerald Mayes feels the key to repeating that is getting pressure defense without excessive fouls and going into an early offense before Skyline can set up its zone.

Skyline is not considered an overly talented club but one that is dangerous because it always maintains its poise and game plan.

Raft River guns for title

Raft River can wrap up the Magic Valley Conference title Friday, but the rest of the conferences are in a state of limbo on this the next-to-last weekend of the regular season.

Raft River will entertain second-place Oakley which not only must beat Raft River Friday but hope that Decio can defeat the Trojans next week to get a share of the title.

In the other races, Buhl doesn't venture into an SJC game although it needs only one win to clinch sole possession of the title. The Indians could win it, however, as second-place Wood River hosts Gooding Friday and must win to keep its mathematical chances alive.

The same is true in the Little Five league. Kimberly isn't playing league fees while Glenns Ferry will travel to Valley Friday night. The three-way leaders of the Northside Conference will be going against second-division clubs Friday and Saturday with Richfield having perhaps the hardest chore in hosting fourth-place Dietrich.

Except for the Magic Valley and Little Five leagues, Friday is a non-conference night. Buhl repays a trip to Shelley while Jerome leaves the area to play at Mountain Home. That leaves only the Gooding-Wood River game among the A-2 clubs.

Kimberly takes its 16-1 record to Filer in non-league play with the rest of the Little Five sending Glenns Ferry to Valley and Wendell to Shoshone.

In the Magic Valley league, the teams will be playing for district tournament bracketing. Hagerman will be at Casteford while Murtaugh is at Declo, Declo being A-3 not figuring into the playoff status. Richfield is at Gooding State for the only Northside loop play with Carey hosting Mackay in a second game.

Saturday night Buhl travels to Burley while Jerome returns home to entertain Kimberly. Glenns Ferry plays host to Wood River while Filer goes to Wendell in a succession of A-2 vs. A-3 games. Hagerman will be at Valley, Dietrich at Richfield, Gooding State at Carey and Bliss at Camas County in the other hills.

FBI chief predicts terrorism

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

Blaming eight underground groups, FBI Director Clarence Kelley said Wednesday terrorism is increasing in the United States and could cause violent "fireworks" at bicentennial celebrations.

He said terrorist groups might carry out many new acts of violence unchecked if Congress restricts too severely, in the name of civil liberties, the FBI's ability to carry out "preventive investigations."

Kelley testified before the House civil and constitutional rights subcommittee, which is considering new FBI guidelines to eliminate abuses of power uncovered by congressional investigations over the past year.

Congressional reports on the FBI's "Counterintelligence Program" against dissidents in the 1960s and early 70s said the program often included illegal harassment of many citizens who "merely held political views opposed by administration officials."

Kelley said guidelines designed to eliminate such activities through outside congressional and judicial control could go too far and prevent the bureau from combating actual terrorists.

"Terrorist acts are increasing globally," he testified. "But more to the point, terrorist activity is growing in the United States."

He said there had been 83 bombings attributable to U.S. terrorists in 1975 — nearly double the 1974 amount and more than triple the 1973 total.

He reported 11 persons killed in terrorist acts last year, six of them in bombings, and 27 injured. He estimated terrorist property damage at more than $2.7 million.

Kelley said four recently published issues of the Weather Underground newsletter contained a threat to disrupt bicentennial celebrations with violence, especially in July 4. He quoted the newsletter as saying:

"The rulers have set the time for the party; let us bring the fireworks."

The Weather Underground developed in the 1960s as an antiwar and political reform group. It provided the "Weathermen" who battled police at the Democratic National convention in Chicago, drifted into violent activities and moved underground.

Kelley accused these eight groups of responsibility for current terrorist acts in the United States:

- The Weather Underground; the California-based New World Revolution Front; the FALN, an armed group pressing independence for Puerto Rico whose favorite targets, he said, are banks, government and corporate offices in New York City, Chicago and Washington D.C.; the Continental Revolutionary Army; the Red Guerrilla Family; the George Jackson Brigade; the Milagro Zapata Unit; and the Chicano Liberation Front.

Utah skiing encouraged

ALTA, Utah (UPI) — President Ford skis at Vail, Colo., and Sen. Ted Kennedy prefers Sun Valley, Idaho. So Rep. Allan Hows of Utah wants to open Utah's powder skiing to several of his fellow representatives.

"The idea for the ski tour was born a year ago when I hosted a reception in Washington, D.C., to acquaint the members of Congress and the people who work on Capitol Hill with Utah's exceptional skiing," Hows said today.

Rep. Bob Ford, D-Mich., was the first to arrive today, with his wife Martha. Also joining the group later today will be Reps. Bob Carr, D-Mich., and Ned Patton, D-N.Y.

"I'm very pleased that my colleagues and staffers from Capitol Hill have decided to spend some of their vacation time and money in Utah," Hows added.

"I believe that one of the important duties a congressman is to act as an ambassador for his state, and that's why I'm hosting this tour. I'd like to make the tour an annual event."

"In the future years, I would like to expand the time in Utah and take the tour to ski resorts outside the Salt Lake area." He said the group, including wives, family members and staffers, will ski

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 I am a boy, 18 years old, with a voice problem. My mom tells me it's only a temporary thing having to do with puberty, but it really bugs me. My voice croaks and squeaks, especially when I get talking fast and when I yell.
 Is there anything I can do to speed up things to get rid of this? — J.P.

Physical growth in adolescence is not limited to genitalia, breasts, etc. Growth spurts occur throughout the body including in the larynx where voice structures are located. The problem is one of "catching up" with this structural change, rather like learning to play a trombone after having become good at playing a clarinet. It can take time, but I don't believe it calls for any special efforts. The change in instruments will come about naturally.
 Girls go through this, too, but a bit earlier than boys. Some youngsters go through such changes so gradually that it is hardly noticeable. Your problem should be behind you a few months or a year from now.
Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 I've read somewhere that a thyroid deficiency can cause high cholesterol. I've had a toxic goiter and have taken pills, also radioactive oral treatment for this.
 It seems my physical condition has never been too good since. Are there any after effects of this on cholesterol? Also, will you send me your booklet on cholesterol? I'm enclosing 25 cents care of this newspaper and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. — Mrs. A.

You could be on the right track. The radioactive iodine treatment for a toxic goiter does correct the overactivity of the thyroid, but an underactivity can result. Blood cholesterol can be elevated with a low thyroid condition.

Boy's voice 'bugs' him

 Your condition should be reevaluated by appropriate thyroid tests because you may now be exhibiting symptoms of low thyroid.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 For some time I have been having trouble with my legs. An active walker for over 80 years, I now find myself weak and wobbly on foot and a few blocks is my limit. I have a tendency to stumble and fall.

Would this be a circulation problem or simply old age trouble? Often sitting in a chair at night, my feet seem to go to sleep and are lacking in circulation. Any suggestions would be welcomed. — Mrs. R. G.

Doubt if I can help much. "Old age trouble" is usually a matter of faulty circulation, and at 80 this is quite likely. One of the results is weakened muscles. You probably stumble because you don't lift your feet as you once did. You may have developed a shuffle.

I suggest you stay as active as you can to keep muscles toned and your circulation as brisk as possible. Wiggle your feet and tense your calf muscles while resting in the chair should help.
 Why not try a cane? You don't have to be ashamed of using one. Just carry one with you. When the legs seem to be giving out a bit, use it. One can be very decorative with the appropriate cane "style".

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 For several years I have been taking estrogen. Will this cause excessive amounts of hair on the face? — Mrs. G. H.

Estrogen is responsible for the development of what are called secondary sex characteristics in women, including the distribution of hair. It could be the cause of your excess facial hair. I suggest you report this to your doctor. He may want to alter your dosage.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pain? The answer may be simple — wrote to Dr. Thosteson, in care of this newspaper for a copy of his booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pain." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — An attorney was arrested Tuesday night as he swam under a bridge in diving gear, awaiting a $200,000 payoff in a bizarre extortion scheme involving a famous millionaire, police said today.
Police charged Albert George Steyer — 57 — with threatening to kill Mrs. Maribel Blum, widow of chairman of the board of Jim Beam Distilleries and one of one of the nation's most successful thoroughbred racing stables.
 Investigators said a 400-word message written in plastic tape fastened to sheets of paper was received by Mrs. Blum Monday.

 It said in part: "Whether you live or die depends on the decision you are about to make. You will deliver two hundred thousand dollars according to the given directions." Police said the note came with a package containing an electric blasting cap.
 The note also said another package could be found on the balcony of her apartment. "It is harmless, but the meaning is clear," the message said.
 The package contained a dead fish.
 Detectives said the note also offered to demonstrate that the extortionist was serious.
 "Have one of your servants stand on your balcony between 9 and 9:05 a.m. tomorrow. A steel jacketed bullet fired from a high-powered rifle will tear off a portion of his skull," it said.
 Mrs. Blum called police, who later called in the FBI.
 The widow of Harry Blum, who died in 1971, was ordered in the message to send an employee, Milton Young to a certain bank of telephones at Miami International Airport with the $200,000 plus $300 expense money by 5 p.m. Tuesday.
 Young, followed by plain clothesmen, went to the airport with the money and received a call on one of the pay telephones. He was told to go to a telephone booth at Pumpernik's, a restaurant at Miami Beach.
 When he arrived, he was told to proceed to the Singapore Motel where he was told to go to a restaurant on the 79th Street Causeway, which links Miami and Miami Beach.

Miss Robbins, Lassen say vows

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune. N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My ex-husband's parents who live far away insist upon sending my son Christmas and birthday gifts, and I wish they wouldn't. Jimmy is 6 now and old enough to question where these gifts come from. So far I've been saying, "they're from some friends of Mommy's," but I don't know how much longer that will suffice. I divorced Jimmy's father and married again when Jimmy was 2. My husband adopted Jimmy, so he's the only father the boy has ever known, but I would rather not tell him about his "real" father until he's older and better able to handle it.

The time is now

I suppose I'm not being realistic because so many people know about my first marriage that someone is sure to tell him. However, I don't want Jimmy to know just yet. When the time comes, should I tell Jimmy, or should my husband? I want it to be an O.K. experience, not a traumatic one. Can you or your readers who have been through this help me?

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: The time to tell Jimmy is right now! Say, "Before I married your father, I was married to another man, and HE is your natural Daddy. We decided it would be better for both of us if we ended our marriage, so we got a divorce. Then I fell in love with your father and he adopted you, making you his LEGAL son." Then tell him about the set of grandparents you've been unfairly hating all these years. The sooner you tell Jimmy, the easier it will be. Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: I have a relative who cannot make a statement without using vulgar or profane language. He says he has the right to use any kind of language he feels like using. I am sick and tired of it. What should I do? And how do you feel about vulgar language, Abby?

OFFENDED

DEAR OFFENDED: If you have told his person that his language offends you and he makes no effort to clean up his act, you have the right to absent yourself from his company. I don't appreciate vulgar language, either, but the more I like the person, the less I'm offended by his language.

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago, a guy I went with gave me a gold charm bracelet. ("I'll call him 'Pete.'") Pete and I broke up, and I married a good friend of his. My husband and I see Pete about once a week. I haven't worn the bracelet for two years, and I probably won't ever wear it again. It's very pretty, but it doesn't mean anything to me now. I was wondering if it would be tacky of me to pawn the bracelet. We could use the money. What would you do?

UNDECIDED

DEAR UN: I'd return the bracelet to Pete.

FILER — Debra Robbins and Warren Lassen were united in marriage Jan. 31 in the Clover Trinity Lutheran Church by Rev. Andrew Loesel officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira J. Robbins, Buhl, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Lassen, Filer.

The bride wore a floor-length dress of cotton-polyester gylet with beige embroidery and eyellet trim. The dress had a tie belt, long sleeves gathered onto buttoned cuffs and a wide ruffle on the bottom of the skirt. It was made by Doris Mais, Boise, friend of the bride.

The bride wore a cap-length candlelight veil and veil of the same material as the dress. She carried a bouquet of red, white and candy-striped carnations with ming fern baby's breath and red and white lace ribbon.

Becky Chandler, Twin Falls, was matron of honor, and Roxanne Rehn, Boise, was bridesmaid. Richard Pedrow, Boise, served as best man, and Stanley Ryals, Salt Lake City, was groomsman.

Ushers were Mark Huston, Pendleton, Ore.; Tim Chandler, Twin Falls, and Greg Lanling, Boise.

Karen and Julie Fouts, Twin Falls, cousins of the bride, sang at the wedding ceremony, accompanied by Debbie Lutz, Filer, organist. They also sang at the reception.

A three-tiered wedding cake was made by Mrs. John Ortel, aunt of the bridegroom, was decorated with red roses and white bells and topped with a silver christogram.

Serving at the reception were Rosemary Hilland, St. Paul, Minn., and Gloria Hand, Boise, sisters of the bridegroom; Nancy Eckert, Buhl, sister of the bride, and Jolene Robbins, Twin Falls, sister-in-law of the bride.

In charge of gifts were Kathy Rieter, Hansen; Gina Fouts, Filer, and Becky Fouts, Twin Falls, all cousins of the bride; Connie Sheehan, Boise, was in charge of the guest book.

Special guests included Mrs. Elma Fouts, grandmother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Theodor Rangen and Jens Lassen, grandparents of the bridegroom. The parents of the bridegroom hosted a rehearsal supper at their home. The bride was honored at a pre-nuptial shower in Boise by Roxanne Rehn and Janice Taylor.

The bride is a graduate of Twin Falls High School and attended the College of Southern Idaho. The bridegroom graduated from Filer High School and Boise State University.

The couple will live in Boise, where they are employed.

TF pair to observe 60th year

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. High, Twin Falls, will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary Sunday at an open house.

The celebration will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert High, 1242 Lawndale Drive, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Friends and relatives are invited.

Nina Griffith and Samuel High were married on Feb. 13, 1916, at Grand Junction, Colo. They have three children, Richard S. and Robert G. High, both Twin Falls, and Mrs. Robert (Lucille) Medway, Phoenix, Ariz. They have 14 grandchildren and 7 grandchildren, children and 7 great-grandchildren.

High was born in a Butler County, Neb., farm and moved to Fruita, Colo., at the age of 10. He was educated in Nebraska and Colorado schools.

Nina Griffith was born in Basalt, Colo., and was educated in Colorado schools before her marriage in 1916.

The couple lived in Colorado, where High was an engineer on the Utah Railroad, a narrow-gauge mountain railway.

Later the couple moved to Phoenix where High became watermaster for the Salt River Valley Irrigation system. Later he became superintendent of irrigation for Cortez Farms near Tucson, Ariz.

In 1945 he and his two sons formed S. A. High and Sons, an irrigation pump business, in Phoenix. They moved with the business to Twin Falls in 1950.

The business turned to farming in 1953, bringing farms out of sagebrush in Twin Falls and Jerome counties.

The partnership currently owns and operates two farms in Jerome County.

JEROME — Mark Bright, Jerome, has been selected to serve on the Idaho State University student senate as senator from the school of vocational-technical education.

FILER — Diana Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller, has been named Wrestling Spirit Queen of Filer High School. Other candidates for the honor were Carmelle Blastock and Cynthia Hoke.

Altrusans plan past president fete

TWIN FALLS — Plans were made for the Twin Fall Altrusa Club's past president's party and the Founder's Day banquet when members met Tuesday evening at the Colonial House.

The past president party is set for 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Furr Club, and the Founder's Day fete at 7 p.m. April 22 at the Rogerson.

Dorothy Rowe, first vice president, was in charge of the business meeting with Norma Herzinger reporting on the membership committee; Virginia Hancock, vocational service committee; and Margaret Watts, Altrusa information.

Mrs. Bancroft announced the Girls State competition is scheduled for Feb. 22 at St. Benedict's Priory.

The nominating committee reports its slate of officers for the ensuing year. Mrs. Rowe was nominated president; Rosemarie White, first vice president; Virginia Lee, second vice president; Ann McCullough, treasurer; Doris Hyall, recording secretary; Evelyn Myers, corresponding secretary; Marie Sanders and Adele Stoddard, hold-over board members; and June Brown and Olla Cannon, new board members.

A report was given on a recent biennial planning meeting attended by Mrs. Rowe and Elaine Nesbitt. It was reported a rummage sale will be held in the near future and the rings planned for a fund raising project are here and ready for distribution to members.

The KTFL Homemakers school is scheduled for March 4, with members of the Altrusa Club serving as models for the fashion show.

The club's Feb. 26 meeting will be at the home of Mary Helen Perry with Jan Reynolds and Mrs. Rowe as hostesses. The vocational service committee is in charge of the program and three of the club's sisters of the month will be honored. The dinner meeting is at 6:30 p.m.; March 9 at the Colonial House.

Carroll Righter

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This can be a difficult day if not handled correctly. However, by intelligent application to whatever problems arise you can accomplish a great deal, especially if you avoid the temptation to allow yourself to feel you're a martyr.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Some situation at home could be quite annoying, but control your temper and you can solve the matter easily.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Exercise utmost care in motion of all kinds. Ignore those in any way sarcastic and leave them to their ignorance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Use more courtesy with others and you need not spend too much money to gain affection. Make home repairs to improve comfort.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Keep objective and do not feel you are imposed upon. Accomplish much through tenacity, practical approach.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get right down to work, then you soon throw off dependency. Be patient with loved one if in bad humor because of problems.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Forcefulness to gain goals will backfire on you. Refuse an invitation if you feel others present will irritate you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Exercise great care in the world of action today, or you could get into trouble. Don't back higher-ups. Watch credit.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) All kinds of new ideas come to you despite all income happenings, but don't act on them yet. First clear off past business.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If bogged down with work, plow in and it's soon done. Keep promises calmly. Be happy with the one you love.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Do not be overly sensitive with partners due to the planetary positions, or you alienate them. Carry through on promises.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Schedule your time and activities well so others do not disturb you and you get much done. Do not feel imposed upon.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get busy on creative jobs and forget fun time, then you accomplish a great deal. Give male special thought. Avoid a worry war.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will do good work but at the same time expects appropriate praise, so be sure to encourage your progeny early in life to "do his or her best." Teach to be concerned with his own satisfaction. Ideal chart for work with the public in general, with the government, with medical and legal organizations. Religious training early.

what's what

L.M. Boyd

Like a lot of beginning piano players, a lot of beginning stamp collectors give up. You know that. But do you know what is most likely to make them give up? Girls. Typically, it's the hobby of a man, stamp collecting, a man who started when still in grade school. If he stopped, chances are what stopped him was a budding interest in the opposite sex. Or so says a scholar who has analyzed the matter.

Do you realize that about 75 per cent of everything you eat comes from some sort of grass? ... The word "stark" in stark-naked used to be "stare," and before that, it was "steak," which meant "all," so the original expression was "naked to the taint." Our Language man suggests you file that, too, solemplace.

BIRD WITH POUCH

A. "Name the bird that carries its young in a pouch." O. No doubt you refer to the male American Finch. It's seen in Brazil and Mexico, mostly. Under each wing of the male is a piece of skin and feathers wherein said bird keeps a couple of chicks quite securely even when swimming or flying. That species is known in the vernacular as the flying kangaroo, for no mysterious reason.

Maybe big canines make the best guard dogs on unattended property, but they don't make the best watchdogs around a home with people in it. Little dogs make the best watchdogs. Little dogs usually can hear a lot better than big dogs. They tend to be quicker to bark.

THE HARD FACTS

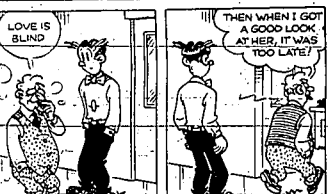

Plastic surgeons in Great Britain report that three out of every 20 patients who have their faces lifted are men... Nobody seems to care that the only continent without a desert is Europe... Isn't unusual for the bark on a Sequoia tree to grow two feet thick, you know... It's said people who wear seat-belts are more likely than others to be stung by bees... During the rush hours on Japanese trains, the passengers outnumber the seats by almost three to one, I'm told.

Was no heavenly whim that gave the world's highest waterfall, Angel Falls in Venezuela, its name. They were so called in honor of the explorer who ballooned there to the western world. Namely, Jimmy Angel.

Not even many Seasoned Citizens realize that the first acting job ever tackled by the classic tough type James Cagney had him dance in a skirt as a female impersonator.
