Mercury ban hits Valley grain

BY DAVE HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A federal ban imposed Wednesday on production of nearly all pesticides containing mercury may mean big problems for Magic Valley grain farmers.

Larry McElliot, owner and assistant manager of Globe Seed and Feed Co. in Twin Falls, today said, "every pound of seed that we put out in this area, in fact all over the country, is treated with mercury."

The chemical treatment has been the primary and most successful method of combating "soybean, cucumber and arborvitae disease" in grain crops, he said.

Until a comparable substitute is found, farmers will have to pay "five to ten times" as much for a combination of chemicals with the same disease-fighting capabilities, or will have to accept treatment with a single chemical that offers less protection of grain crops, according to McElliot.

The federal ban was announced in Washington by Russell Train, chief of the Environmental Protection Agency. He cited cases of nervous system disorders caused by mercury poisoning in Japan, Iran and the United States as evidence that unchecked use of mercurial pesticides would pose an unreasonable human health hazard.

The EPA order-hits production of all mercurial pesticides used as bactericides or fungicides in paints, varnishes and inks.

In addition to the ban on seed treatment, it also puts an end to the use of such pesticides on turf, including golf course greens and other golf course areas.

However, the order stopped short of banning all mercury. It allows continued production of fungicides containing mercury compounds to treat lawns and lawns intended for continued use outdoors, for the control of brown mold on freshly sown lumber and for the control of Dutch elm disease.

Globe Seed and Feed is sole distributor of the mercury-type pesticide in a four-state area, including Idaho, Utah, Montana and Colorado. McElliot said the ban imposed Wednesday rules out interstate shipments of the pesticide but does not prevent distribution of existing stocks within individual states.

"We heard a rumor ... about a month ago about the impending ban and ordered about 3,000 gallons of the mercury-type pesticide," McElliot said. About 2,000 gallons already have been distributed, leaving about 1,000 gallons on hand in Twin Falls, he said.

This "should get us through the spring planting season" in Idaho, he added, "but come fall we're going to have to be looking for something."

Globe Seed and Feed distributed about 10,000 gallons of the pesticide last year. McElliot estimated it takes one ounce to treat an acre of grain.

He said production of a pesticide containing methyl mercury was banned five years ago. It reportedly killed pheasants who ate the treated grain.

But manufacturers challenged a ban on pesticides containing phenyl mercury and their court appeals have kept that type on the market until Wednesday's federal order.

McElliot charged that damage caused by phenyl mercury "doesn't come from seed treatment," but from "large users who dump waste mercuries into waterways. The amounts that are dumped do cause some contamination — some problems."

"The actual mercury that we put on an acre of ground is equivalent to a No. 2 buckshot," McElliot said.

If grain isn't treated, fungus-type diseases can spread "from field to field" and reach epidemic stages, according to McElliot.

He warned that, if substitute treatments are not expensive, the farmer "isn't going to pay the price ... and he's probably not going to treat his grain. This is where we're laying ourselves open for problems."

AF Dam battles

BURLEY — Three dissident irrigation districts have agreed to form a united front and take legal action if necessary to fight construction of a new American Falls Dam.

Legal action to block the new dam will be taken if the dissident spacersholders fail to convince other districts of the "defective and dangerous conditions" of the contract authorizing the new dam and turn around the current majority approval to go ahead with a new dam.

Legal counsel Norman Nielson of Burley Irrigation District, Lawrence Duffin of Minidoka Irrigation District and Ben Cavness of Falls Irrigation District met for nearly six hours Wednesday to discuss their mutual and independent problems stemming from the vote last month to approve replacement of the dam.

Nielson said William Holden, Idaho Falls, representing three dissident canal companies, missed the meeting because a storm blocked roads from Idaho Falls to Burley. Nielson said he would contact Holden and fill in details of the meeting.

William Burpee, regional solicitor for the Bureau of Reclamation and Larry Vincenhauer, who negotiates the bureau contracts, attended. The Boise-based bureau officials were invited for background information and discussion of contractual rights prior to the proposed contract.

Also attending were several directors of BID and MID, along with interested waterusers. The three attorneys agreed to draft a joint statement of the position and spacerholder rights of the irrigation districts and how the new contract would affect these rights.

The group basically attacked the MID position paper to be amplified by Cavness with the suggestions from the other irrigation districts. They face a Feb. 26 deadline set by the Department of Interior in agreeing that the secretary of Interior would not sign approval of the new contract before that day.

BID Chairman Jay Holbrook had wired a request for the delay until after Wednesday's meeting, claiming that "serious contractual rights are being violated."

A reply dated Tuesday from DONALD N. Satch, deputy assistant secretary of Interior, said, "We must have the statement developed at your Feb. 18 meeting by Feb. 26 so that we can give it full consideration prior to taking final action on the contract."

Rep. George Hansen wired Nielson late Wednesday that he had notified the northwest regional office of the BLM of the secretary's delay.

CHARRED, mangled wreckage of a truck cab shows where two California men lost their lives Wednesday night. The truck and tractor left 1-80 about five miles east of the U.S. 93 junction, overturned and burst into flames about 11:45 p.m. Both victims were trapped in the flaming cab.

Fiery Jerome crash kills 2 truckers

JEROME — Two California men died in the flaming crash of a heavy truck on Interstate 80 Wednesday night.

Idaho State Police reported the accident occurred at 11:45 p.m. five miles east of the U.S. 93 and 180 junction.

The victims were identified as driver Raymond B. Anderson, 47, Tustin, and his passenger, George Morris, 29, Norwalk. Both were trapped in the cab of the truck and died when it burned.

State Policeman James Whitehead said the driver may have gone to sleep. The truck was westbound when it went off the left edge of the roadway, traveled nearly 1,000 feet, then struck an outcropping of rocks and overturned, bursting into flames.

The truck was owned by Big Sky Truck Co. of Montana. It was carrying a load of paper products. Officers from Jerome County assisted with the investigation and in removing the bodies and truck cargo.

Sheriff Elza Hall said today it has been learned the two men stopped at the 180 Mobile Station about five miles east of the accident scene and both left the rig to make telephone calls. They then headed west, passing another truck shortly before going off the highway.

Sheriff Hall said the truck was so badly damaged it was difficult to tell if a front tire may have gone flat or if a mechanical failure occurred to cause the vehicle to leave the highway.

Another truck, traveling on the eastbound section of the highway, told officers he saw the truck heading into the median and thought it would continue into his lane of traffic, but instead it struck the rocks and overturned.

Sheriff Hall, acting coroner, said he believed one man died of burns as witnesses reported he was calling for help when they first arrived. The other, he said, probably died of injuries.

Sheriff Hall said both fuel tanks exploded, making it impossible for passing motorists to get to the victims in time to help them. He said the fire was so intense the metal cab of the truck melted.

The Jerome Fire Department was called to the scene to extinguish the fire. The bodies were taken to Hove Funeral Chapel, Jerome, where funeral arrangements are pending. Both are expected to be returned to California for services.

NIAGARA SPRINGS — It was a fisherman's dream. Bill Yacowich and Jerry Hesselbine, Twin Falls, weren't having much luck fishing the Snake River Wednesday afternoon.

As they absent-mindedly cast their spinners into the water shortly after 3 p.m. they looked up to see a truck slip off a road leading from Niagara Springs to Crystal Springs, north of the river in Gooding County.

The two fishermen reeled in their lines and ran to assist the driver and the truck. Then they discovered the good news.

The overturned truck belonged to Clear Springs Trout Farm and when Yacowich and Hesselbine arrived on the scene, two tons of rainbow trout were spilling out of the truck into the river.

"I told Jerry to head me my rod," Yacowich said, "and I began pulling in fish every cast. It was the most amazing thing I've ever seen."

An estimated 3,000 pounds of 14-inch trout were in the truck when it tipped on its side.

Yacowich said the water "was all boiled up" by the fish that had spilled into a pool.

Half a dozen fishermen happened on the scene right after the spill, Yacowich said. "Everybody was getting their limit as quick as they could cast," he added. "The driver of the truck was not injured in the accident and damage to the tanker was minimal."

"We had a ball," Yacowich added with a chuckle.

Ski racing Pattersons welcomed on SV return

SUN VALLEY — The competition didn't end at the Olympics for young Pete and Susie Patterson, the Sun Valley brother and sister ski racers who are home now.

Pete, 19, finished in 13th place in the downhill competition at the games completed at Innsbruck, Austria. Susie, 20, finished 14th in the girls downhill.

Although the 12th Olympic Games have ended, the pair continues to train on B&B Mountain for a crack at the U.S. National Finals on Copper Mountain, Colo., next week.

Then there are always the world cup races later this year where they will both compete.

Susie said this morning, "I would like to say yes... to another winter Olympic shot in Lake Placid, N.Y., in four years, 'but that's a long time off."

"I was pleased with my performance," Susie said.

Few racing enthusiasts gave the American team much notice before the games began.

A big push was on, she said, to get the Americans in shape for the Olympics. Susie outlined the year-round schedule of skiing, racing and conditioning during 1975 leading up to the Olympics.

"Some people thought we trained too hard and paid too early," she said.

Both Pattersons are graduates of Wood River

High School and the two home town heroes were welcomed home by a crowd and lifetime ski passos on Bald Mountain.

The high school band played for their arrival and large posters were hung welcoming the pair.

The tense competition on the slopes at Innsbruck did not continue inside the village core where the athletes lived during the games. Susie said.

"Everyone was really friendly," she said. However, she added, security inside the core area was heavy. "There were guards everywhere in the village," she said.

Demos push Connally in NH

By United Press International
A write-in campaign for former Treasury Secretary John Connally began today in the New Hampshire presidential primary, not on the Republican but on the crowded Democratic side.

The one-time Democratic governor of Texas who switched to the GOP has disavowed the move by conservative theoretician Richard Viguerie, who placed ads in nine daily newspapers and one weekly in the state.

The ad consisted of an insert containing an envelope with a four-page flyer, a sample ballot, a Connally campaign brochure and a postcard of Connally and his wife.

"John Connally is a dynamic, forceful and strong leader," the brochure said. "He's one of those rare men in this world who personally can turn major situations around when he decides something needs to be changed."

Candidate travel, slowed down Wednesday by a snowstorm, switched today from the Democrats to the Republicans as President Ford prepared to embark on his second campaign trip to the state in less than two weeks and Ronald Reagan prepared to follow him Friday and Saturday to answer any presidential attacks.

In a neighboring Massachusetts, a coalition of consumer groups today rated presidential contenders on energy issues, giving Birch Bayh, Morris Udall and Fred Harris perfect marks for their stands on eight energy-related pieces of legislation, Ford was "right" on only one issue, for a 125 mark and Reagan was rated at zero.

A snowstorm delayed

Democrat Jimmy Carter's campaign stops. Wednesday and forced Sen. Birch Bayh, another Democratic contender, to cancel a visit to a home heated by solar energy.

The Indiana senator jabbod at the administration's energy program — a major concern in chilly New England.

"It is outrageous that the Energy Research and Development Administration is willing to spend only a measly two per cent of its budget during the coming year on solar energy research and development," Bayh said.

The Ford administration will push solar energy, Bayh said, "only if the major oil companies figure out a way to collect royalties on the sun."

Democrat Fred Harris stood in the falling snow today at Manchester and said "political talk, especially now, is cheaper than electric bills," Harris challenged other Democrats to match his plan to cut electric rates for the poor and end tax breaks for utilities.

Ford's New Hampshire visit is his second of the campaign. As soon as he leaves Friday, his GOP challenger, Ronald Reagan, will arrive for two days of campaigning before Tuesday's vote. By the end of the week Ford will have spent four days campaigning in the state and Reagan 15.

The Connally write-in campaign is being financed by Texas native Richard Viguerie, a conservative who says he wants to offer New Hampshire Democrats "an alternative to the pack of liberals" seeking the nomination.

Connally, a former Democratic governor of Texas who became a Republican during the Nixon administration, has not endorsed the effort. He created more political speculation Wednesday by inviting all 50 GOP state chairmen to visit his Texas ranch on March 10 — the day after the Florida primary. The stated purpose is to discuss Congressional races.

Other developments:

— Jimmy Carter accused three senators — Bayh, Henry Jackson and Lloyd Bentsen — of using their congressional mailing privileges to send political material to voters.

The former Georgia governor said friends in Georgia had received campaign-related material recently from all three, mailed free.

— The chairman of Ronald Reagan's campaign committee, Sen. Paul Laxalt, disputed President Ford's statement that Reagan favors making Social Security voluntary.

King yielding

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Don Juan de Borbon y Battemberg, 10th duke of the Spanish royal family and father of King Juan Carlos, again will surrender his claims on the throne to his son, the government newspaper Arriba said today.

Arriba said the 39-year-old Juan Carlos next month will travel to his father's home in Portugal to be formally told of the decision.

"Don Juan never recognized the late Francisco Franco's decision to pass leadership of Spain on to Juan Carlos."

Ada board mulls vote

BOISE (UPI) — Ada County commissioners are taking a "wait-and-see" attitude toward requests they call for an advisory vote on Pioneer Idaho Power's proposed coal-fired generating plant.

Commissioner Gene Crawford said he opposes making a decision until the power company applies to Ada County for permission to build the plant.

And the Public Utilities Commission may rule on the question before that application is made.

4 THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW

God has already provided for your salvation

For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life (John 3:16).

God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us (Romans 5:8). He hath made Him (Christ), who knew no sin, to be sin for us, that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him (II Cor. 5:21).

You must choose now — Christ or Wrath for eternity

For God sent not His Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through Him might be saved (John 3:17).

He that believeth on Him is not condemned; but he that believeth not is condemned already (John 3:18).

He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life; and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him (John 3:36).

Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners (I Tim. 1:15). Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved (Acts 4:12).

House OK's Indian Hills

BOISE (UPI) — After a debate interrupted for lunch, the House voted 49-26 Wednesday to give the "little fellow a chance" to build a future on the Indian Hills desert of southern Idaho.

It approved and sent to the Senate a bill which would give the Water Resource Board authority to plan, finance, acquire, operate and own the 5,000-acre project and help potential farmers develop it under the Carey Act.

Originally developed by the Hoodco Corp., the land reverted to the federal government when the Bureau of Land Management successfully contended that corporate development violated the spirit of the Carey Act.

The Carey Act was passed to encourage a family farm development of desert lands at the turn of the century.

Floor sponsor Angus Condit, R-Preston, said the bill would encourage development of 320-acre family farms.

Although the Carey Act limits acreage to 160, he said, a pending lawsuit may clarify a woman's rights to 160 acres along with her husband.

By having the state encourage small but private development, he said, the bill would prevent other developers from reaping a "windfall" from work already done on the land by a previous developer.

He explained that Hoodco Corp. had cleared the land and even raised crops on it before the U. S. Bureau of Land Management challenged the manner in which the company acquired the land.

A court subsequently held that the company did not acquire the land properly under the Carey Act and that it must relinquish it.

Condit said the Department of Water Resources can finance the project's start through its revolving development fund and subsequently finance development of it by loan from the U. S. Reclamation Bureau for small development project or use its authorization for issuance of revenue bonds.

Rep. Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls, objected to the bill on three grounds:

- There are a number of wildlife projects scattered throughout the acreage and the prospective land-owners would be boxed in from adjacent expansion.

- No criteria for experience are established to ensure that those who get the lands are capable of farming them profitably and that successful aspirants for the lands will sell them to corporate interests after patenting them.
- This proposal competes with private enterprise. He said private developers have spent a lot of money to make successful more marginal lands than these without government help.

Revisions backed

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate State-Affairs Committee gave "do pass" recommendations and sent to the floor Wednesday for bills to revise the 1974 Sunshine campaign disclosure and lobbyist registration law to make it more workable and effective.

Committee members sent a fifth bill out for amendment to make possible changes affecting corporation lobbying and eliminating the exemption of state elective officials from the lobbying section.

The committee also reported out bills to increase the salaries of members of the Industrial Commission from $21,500 to $23,500 yearly; Public Utilities Commissioners from $21,500 to $26,000 per year, and members of the Tax Commission from $21,500 to $23,500 annually.

Siting bill held

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, attempted Wednesday to have the Senate Resources and Environment Committee take action on his amended power siting legislation, but the committee decided to put it off until the next meeting.

Peavey said several amendments had been made to the original bill to take care of objections and include changes voiced at a public hearing.

He told the committee Utah and Idaho were the only states which did not have legislation concerning site locations for power plants.

The bill would spell out for the Idaho Public Utilities Commission the process it would follow in considering requests for location of future power plants in the state.

Sen. Art Manley, D-Coeur d'Alene, said "some responsible organization should make the decision for the people of Idaho. I think that's what we should be concerned with."

Manley said Peavey's bill spoke to this.

But Sen. Fred Budge, R-Soda Springs, said he felt the PUC had the authority now and would consider all the factors that with which Peavey's bill dealt.

Andrus' energy bill dies

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' proposal for energy planning and conservation died in committee Wednesday after being attacked by oil and gasoline industry spokesmen.

Three motions — two to send it out for amendment by the Senate and one to refer it to the Resources and Environment Committee — were killed on 5-11 votes.

The bill would have given the State Division of Budget, Policy Planning and Coordination the responsibility of energy-planning and conservation.

Oil and gasoline industry spokesmen said it would create "an energy czar." They also attacked a section of the bill providing supervision would prevent other developers from reaping a "windfall" from work already done on the land by a previous developer.

He explained that Hoodco Corp. had cleared the land and even raised crops on it before

Oil Heat Institute, charged it would set up an "energy czar" while Boise Attorney Eugene Thomas, representing the Institute, said it would provide, a "czar of sorts."

Administration officials denied this contention.

Hal Turner, director of the Division of Budget, Policy Planning and Coordination and Matt Mulaney of the Office of the Governor both told the committee the bill was not an attempt to set up an energy czar.

Biennial budgeting buried

BOISE (UPI) — By a vote of 8-6, the House State Affairs Committee buried Wednesday an attempt to hold Idaho state government to biennial budgeting and eliminate rerun legislation each year.

Rep. John Sessions, R-Driggs, urged the committee to consider the bill by and other individual legislators introduced. He said annual budgeting is costly to the taxpayer and that in unrestricted second session of each legislature is leading to a huge increase in legislation — most of the bills re-run from the previous year.

His proposal would turn the second session into a session to review legislation limited to 20 days in length and only to that other subject matter put before it by the governor or with backward approval of one house or the other.

Rep. Dorothy McCann,

D. Wallace, an opponent of the bill, took note that this measure, too, is a rerun of legislation previously considered.

Other objections to the bill included the question of whether the second session in gubernatorial year would be a highly political one and whether the budget actually could be held down.

Rep. Robert Hosack, D-Moscow, said he felt budgeting for a two-year period would have to consider a greater margin for error and therefore would contain more padding.

The bill was held for further study.

Treatment center needed in Idaho

An estimated 40,000 alcoholics in Idaho try to drive on the state's highways, function in the jobs, and keep up their families every day.

Two Bliss men, Archie Walker Jr. and Robert Hatch, are trying to start a program to aid Idaho alcoholics. The men have proposed the vacant Gooding tuberculosis hospital be revamped as an alcoholic treatment center.

Idaho taxpayers would have no financial responsibility for the center except to maintain the building during the first few years of operation.

Other states, most notably Minnesota, have endorsed privately-run alcoholic treatment centers as a major part of a statewide alcoholic treatment program.

Patients pay for their own treatment just as they would at a hospital. In Minnesota, the privately-run centers actually operate at a profit and are not a drain on that state's taxpayers.

Idaho's Land Board currently has jurisdiction over the old Gooding tuberculosis hospital. The building has been vacant for years and the state currently is paying an estimated $120,000 in upkeep on the building.

Since operation of an alcoholic treatment center would cost the state no more than it currently spends maintaining the building, Walker and Hatch were confident the Land Board would grant their request to use the old hospital.

Instead, the Land Board tabled the request to use the hospital as a treatment center. The decision to hold up approval of the plan is unfortunate. The Land Board has cut off a valuable program in the treatment of alcoholism if the Gooding center cannot be utilized.

Attorney General Wayne Kidwell said he needs to know the opinions of other state agencies treating alcoholics before he can commit a state building to private treatment of alcoholism.

The state won't be spending any more taxpayers' money to help alcoholics by approving the proposal by the two Bliss men. The Gooding treatment center would be privately-owned, privately financed with the state paying only maintenance costs of the building while the program is organized.

On March 9, the Land Board will make the final decision on whether to allow a private alcoholic treatment center to go into the vacant state hospital. The Land Board must realize the need for the treatment center and the opportunity the center poses to help Idaho alcoholics without any increased burden on the state taxpayer.

Bicentennial heroes cast in old mold of 1776

WASHINGTON—We will be hearing a great deal this year about the heroes who 200 years ago twisted the tail of the British lion.

In keeping with the bicentennial spirit, perhaps nominations are in order for contemporary heroes cast in the same mold. Two names come to mind: Ray Godfrey of Rapid City, S.D., and Howard Dearborn of Fryeburg, Maine.

These gentlemen are engaged in single combat with the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, better known as OSHA. If they had been hanging around Boston a long time ago, they would have pitched the tea in the harbor.

Godfrey is proprietor of the Godfrey Brake Service at 110 Poplar Street in Rapid City, S.D. In mid-December, he was minding his own business in his own garage, when there came a knock on the door. It was a total stranger.

Godfrey asked who was he, and the stranger said he was an inspector for OSHA. Says who, says Godfrey. Says me, says the stranger. Izzar so, says Godfrey. And, with that, Godfrey reached into his desk drawer and pulled out a handy-dandy form. Fill it out, says Godfrey, to the stranger, and we'll see.

It was an "Official Public Servants Questionnaire." South Dakota has been plagued with phony feds bearing phony credentials. Godfrey wanted to be certain whom he was letting on the premises. His preparation of form inquired of the stranger's age, residence, race, sex, education, and whether he had a criminal record. It asked a lot of other questions — the same kind of damn-fool questions the government regularly puts to business men.

The stranger went away in high dudgeon, and a week or so later Godfrey found himself on the defendant's end of a suit in U.S. District Court. The Department of Labor was seeking a court order to compel Godfrey to admit the stranger to his shop. On Dec. 31, Judge Andrew Bogue took the matter under advisement, and as of this past Monday that was where it rested. Meanwhile, 125 other employers in the Rapid City area have met at Godfrey's garage to see what additional OSHA tea they can toss in the harbor.

An OSHA inspector also came to call on the metalworking plant of Howard Dearborn, Inc., in Fryeburg, Maine. This was on June 24, 1974. The proprietor is a Yankee facsimile of the kind of character known in the South as an unreconstructed rebel. Dearborn's plant is engaged in highly sophisticated work. Even the bureaucrats have conceded that Dearborn's operation "is in good physical condition, is safety conscious, and does its best to comply with safety regulations."

Nevertheless, the inspector found a welding electrode cable with damaged insulation, OSHA bill Dearborn with a $25 fine, and Dearborn hit the roof. He said he was an honest business man running an honest plant, and he refused to pay. He took it to the OSHA Review Commission. There the penalty was upheld. Dearborn still refuses to pay. His pestilence is that nobody but nobody can track his waywardness through the thousands of pages of OSHA regulations. If the inspector had merely asked him nicely to replace the cable, he would have replaced it on the spot. He long ago replaced it anyhow. The case has cost him $3,000 in legal fees, and he's directed his attorneys to appeal to the courts.

Godfrey and Dearborn are exceptional men. Last year OSHA's 1,241 inspectors visited 82,800 establishments. They found 64,000 violations with an average of about five violations each. The inspectors proposed penalties totaling $9.5 million, or roughly $150 per citation. Only 5 per cent of the cited employers appealed to the Review Commission; the other 95 per cent figured it was cheaper to pay the penalty than to pay lawyers to fight it.

In the five years since its formation, OSHA has managed to become one of the most despised arms of the federal colossus. This is not because employers are opposed to safety. The notion is absurd; it is because the agency has delivered itself of a past ocean of regulations that no employer can make through — and because OSHA sends out inspectors who wouldn't know a brake shoe from a horseshoe. At any rate, that is the universal complaint.

A pessimistic prophecy is in order that the two mavericks will finally be corralled. The judge will order Godfrey to let the inspector in, and the inspector will penalize him 20 bucks for failing to provide a full-sized cusplid. Dearborn will spend another $1,000 to a futile appeal.

But if we're giving out bicentennial medals, marking revolution against tyranny, save a couple of silver ones for them.

Iran cuts back F-14 order

BETHPAGE, N. Y. — The government of Iran is reported to have decided not to order any more F-14 fighter planes from the Grumman Corporation beyond the 80 planes currently being produced for the Iranian Imperial Air Force.

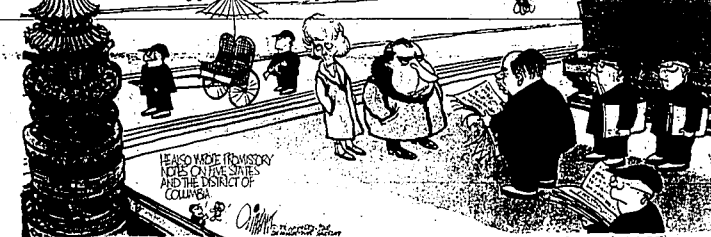

Grumman had hoped to sell an additional 40 F-14's to Iran, and negotiations on the projected contract were being carried out in Washington and in Teheran. The reported Iranian decision has been conveyed to the Long Island-based company in an informal letter, as well as personally to Grumman representatives in Teheran.

"We don't need any more," Gen. Hassan Toufanian, Iran's vice minister of war, said in an interview with The New York Times in Teheran.

Although he declined to elaborate, other Iranian officials in Teheran as well as aerospace industry representatives in this country, said that Toufanian and other industrial members of Iran's military high command had maintained privately that, at $22-million a plane, the Grumman F-14 Tomcat was proving too costly.

These reports come amid a controversy between Grumman and Toufanian over a $28 million commission that the general said last week that Grumman had agreed to pay Iran. Grumman had originally contracted to transfer the money, which would have come out of its profits, to private agents in Teheran.

Grumman, after having paid $5 million to the agents, Stratford International and Shabam Inc., which are operated by Americans, not Iranians, then was ordered to turn over the entire $28 million to the Iranian government

Idaho citizen raps refunds

Editor, Times-News: A recent news release by A. C. Hartley, manager of the State Insurance Fund, reported a proposed refund from the State Insurance Fund to policyholders of workmen's compensation insurance.

This article creates the manifest illusion that large savings were incurred in the program due to the efficiency and competence of the Fund's managers, while in reality these "so-called" savings are, I believe, to be a direct result of shaming, delaying, and denying just claims of injured workers and their dependents, and are due almost wholly to the machinations of the insurance industry and their retained, thimble-rigging attorneys.

A system covering workmen's compensation whereby every employer, public or private, pays directly into a fund administered by the state, and not by the insurance industry (as in the anachronistic method still retained by the State of Idaho), is long overdue.

However, due to the exorbitant and outrageous profits generated by premiums collected from insurance policies covering workmen's compensation, the insurance industry, its lobbyists and such legislators as are sympathetic to the insurance industry, are excessively militant in their zeal to prevent any such change from the status quo.

A. C. Hartley, fund manager, sees the refund to policyholders as "a most gratifying pleasure to have them share it, and confident of another dividend next year (sic)."

Essentially, A. C. Hartley is saying: "The rip-off of the injured worker, by the insurance industry, will be continued and the State of Idaho will, not only condone it but actively aid and abet it."

Planning act info offered

Editor, Times-News: The Twin Falls League of Women Voters is concerned about criticism being leveled at land use planning in Idaho. The League supported the Local Planning Act of 1975 because local governments are required to develop plans for orderly growth.

The stated purpose of the Act is to promote the health, safety, and general welfare of the people of the state of Idaho as follows:

- a) To protect property rights, and enhance property values.
b) To ensure that adequate public facilities and services are provided to the people at reasonable cost.
c) To ensure that the economy of the state and localities is protected and enhanced.
d) To ensure that the important environmental features of the state and localities are protected and enhanced.
e) To encourage the protection of prime agricultural, forestry, and mining lands for production of food, fibre, and minerals.
f) To encourage urban and urban-type development within incorporated cities.
g) To avoid undue concentration of population and overcrowding of land.
h) To ensure that the development on land is commensurate with the physical characteristics of the land.
i) To protect life and property in areas subject to natural hazards and disasters.
j) To protect fish, wildlife, and recreation resources.
k) To avoid undue water and air pollution.
The League opposes HB 389 and other amendment efforts to weaken the Local Planning Act, because they threaten existing efforts of local governments to plan for the health, safety and general welfare of residents.

After several years of study the League of Women Voters of Idaho arrived at the following position in regard to land use planning: Idaho needs comprehensive land use planning to provide for orderly growth and development, promote wise use of natural resources, protect the environment and enhance the quality of life. Development should be judged on the basis of need and social and environmental goals as well as economic gain. The League believes local units of government should make local land use decisions but it is the responsibility of the state to determine general policies and to establish a process for land use planning.

In order to retain local control of planning, citizens must speak out against amendment attempts to destroy the Local Planning Act. Further information about the Local Planning Act and the current bills being considered is available from The Twin Falls League of Women Voters.

Nixon's own explanation a puzzler

Richard Nixon was the most feverish defender of executive prerogative in the recent history of the presidency.

He vowed and he vowed again that he would not undermine the office of the presidency, giving that as the reason why he would not sign his records to a Senate committee investigating charges leveled against him of impeachable gravity. He was forced by the courts to back down, but the arguments he made before the courts, and before the American people, survived the controversy, and history has not passed judgment on who was right on the theoretical point.

The shaky authority Gerald Ford has in foreign policy is in fact directly attributable to the deconstruction of the presidency under Richard Nixon. And now he is going back to China.

His trip is in no sense that of the private citizen. He is being received by the Chinese as something of a leader-in-opposition. The Chinese do not apparently know that Richard Nixon is not the leader of anything at all these days. He has less influence on the Republican Party than Howard Cosell. The Chinese clearly believe that they snookered Nixon, and they want to do more of it; and somehow they believe that having him back and giving him regal treatment is going to affect American politics. It may, but not in the way they think.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

It has already been widely observed that Nixon's trip will correspond with the New Hampshire primary. Since, inevitably, Nixon will be in the news more conspicuously than at any time since he left office, it is a singular odor of illegitimacy is bound to affect adversely Ford's fortunes.

Although I continue to believe he was wise and charitable in granting Nixon the pardon, mine is a minority point of view. And the spectacle of Nixon, wining and dining with the national media, and with such as Howard Hunt, Ron Inell, and Mitchell and Ehrlichman and Holdeman live brokes trying to pay their lawyer's fees, will aggravate sentiments of injustice which can only be exercised at the expense of Gerald Ford.

But that part of the aside on Nixon's own explanation for the trip most baffling. Good relations with China are, he writes, "if anything, more important than four years ago." Let us suppose that to be true. It probably is, given the speed with which the Soviet military has surpassed us — thanks extensively to the policies of President Nixon. But if that is so, isn't it supremely the moment to get out of the way of the President of the United States, who is in charge of defining our relations with China? Or, if one disagrees with the policies of the President, is it not the moment to speak out?

Either openly in the press, or confidentially over the telephone? At least before he scheduled the present trip to China, Nixon had no problem in getting through to Ford on the phone.

Nixon went on: "In 1972, I went to the People's Republic of China because I concluded that a new and constructive relationship between the United States and the PRC is indispensable if we are to have lasting peace in the Pacific and in the world."

Well, he certainly miscalculated on that one. Since 1972, we lost the first major war in what was then called the Far East, and the whole notion of Vietnamization, established a detente that brought such peace to the world as they are nowadays enjoying in Angola, dismembered the NATO alliance through ineptitudes that grew out of the settled conviction of the leaders of the way that the United States didn't know what it was doing, and that the chief executive who got himself impeached energized the Congress now bent on pulling out of the world.

In 1972 it was bad enough. But in a sense excusable as respolitic; Nixon was there to fraternize with the tensions among the three superpowers; to make sure that the Chinese would feel that there was an alternative to rapprochement with the Soviet Union. He attempted this at great psychological cost — undermining American opinion that Communist revolutions affected by totalitarian means are odious.

But this time Nixon, not merely a private citizen, but a parish, will have nothing to do except to drink toasts to the great achievements of Mao Tse-tung. He will not be there to offer the Chinese a U.S. intelligence secret. He will be in Los Angeles, or even U.S. ping pong players. He has to offer; only sympathy.

To the only nation in the world that, at this point in time, as they used to say in the White House, is disposed to honor America's export.

House revives felony murder measure

BOISE (UPI) — The House killed 34-36 and then reconsidered 43-25 Wednesday an attempt to reinstate the felony murder concept in Idaho criminal law — making it second-degree murder at the least.

Then the House put the proposal at the bottom of Thursday's final consideration calendar.

Opponents said they felt killings committed in the perpetration of rape, arson, robbery, burglary, kidnapping or mayhem should be first-degree murder — a crime punishable only by death in Idaho.

Rep. John Reardon, R-Boise, argued that to threaten a person with a gun while committing or attempting to commit such crimes amounted to premeditation should the criminal shoot his victim. Therefore, he said, the crime should be murder in the first degree.

Proponents of the bill said there still are statutes that spell out first-degree penalties for premeditated murder and that this bill does not water them down, Reardon disagreed. He said the very wording of the bill eliminated those crimes from the first-degree category.

Floor sponsor Ed Rice, R-Boise, said the bill does not change existing law. Willful killing, he said, still is first-degree murder.

"We are merely giving the prosecutor a few more tools with this bill," Rice said.

But Rep. Ralph Giles, R-Nampa, argued that felony murder was classified as first-degree murder in Idaho prior to enactment and repeal of the new criminal code and reinstatement of the old code. He said it inadvertently was omitted from the reinstatement.

Road user revenue proposals offered

BOISE (UPI) — The House Transportation Committee introduced two more highway user revenue proposals Wednesday, raising to 12 the number now under discussion for raising road-building revenues.

The committee also discussed various proposals briefly with some members of the Senate Transportation Committee but received no consensus.

House Chairman John Sessions, R-Driggs, asked members of both committees to fill out a ballot on their top three choices in an effort to reach one, however.

Sessions also told the two committees he would ask the leadership of the House to put the question before the two parties regarding guidance and hoped his Senate counterpart would do the same.

During discussion of some of the alternatives several members expressed interest in raising automobile registration fees, and, possibly, boosting the gasoline tax a penny a gallon.

One of the new bills the committee voted to introduce would put a new tax of 85 cents per hundredweight on automobiles. This would raise a gross of $11.1 million, of which $8.2 million would go to state highways.

The other would put a two percent tax on the value of cars. This would raise a gross of $7.4 million — including $4.6 million for highways.

Both proposals drew stalle during discussion later.

The House committee also introduced a bill to set up a distribution formula for certain revenues now received and some anticipated that would give the Department of Law Enforcement its own fund from which to anticipate revenues.

Gem pay plan wins nod

BOISE (UPI) — A bill to establish a new evaluation and compensation system for state employees was approved for introduction Wednesday by the Senate State Affairs Committee.

It was sent out with an understanding it would undergo revision.

The committee was told by Sen. Phil Batt, R-Idaho, the bill would cost an additional $3.8 million from the general fund and "we don't feel we have that much."

The measure is essentially an implementation of an employee evaluation and compensation system devised by Hay Associates, a consulting firm, and would not be effective until July 1, 1977.

Mental unit funds asked

BOISE (UPI) — The House Health and Welfare Committee recommended to the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee that it fund all existing mental health institutions.

There are no funds for the joint committee to reduce funding in this area to phase out State Hospital North at Orofino.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus recommended $2.8 million from the general fund to operate State Hospital North, State Hospital South at Blackfoot and a psychiatric care unit at the State Penitentiary at Boise.

State Health Officer John T. Ashley told the Health and Welfare Committee the state would "save" no money by transferring the patients from State Hospital North to community general hospitals or State Hospital South.

Ashley said, however, "It's doubtful State Hospital North could ever be certifiable under federal programs." He said "sooner or later we'll have to face facts...and not continue to fund it."

He said the legislature can't close the Orofino facility now because the State Department of Health and Welfare needs "lead-time" to develop alternate sources of care for persons needing mental health care.

Option taxes gain

BOISE (UPI) — House taxwriters approved Wednesday and sent to the floor a bill to permit cities and counties, with voter approval, to impose up to three non-property taxes.

Under normal procedures, the bill could come up for a final vote of the House late this week or the first of next.

Whittled down considerably from its original form, the bill permits imposition of sales and use, income and household taxes provided a majority of voters approved the ordinance.

It requires the cities or counties to set up a property tax relief fund to reduce property taxes when the non-property taxes produce more than needed for the budget.

Another feature requires the duration and exact rate of tax to be written into the ordinance.

Gem liquor board asked

BOISE (UPI) — The House Business Committee introduced Wednesday a bill to establish a three-member State Liquor Commission to study the state's liquor industry and make recommendations to the governor and legislature.

The bill provides that the commissioners be appointed by the governor from three geographic districts of the state with advice and consent of the Senate. As more than two could be from the same political party.

N-power plant shutdown urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A nuclear engineer told a congressional committee Wednesday all of the nation's 57 nuclear generating plants should be shut down until they pass safety inspections.

Daily Bridenbaugh was one of three nuclear engineers who quit General Electric's Nuclear Energy Division in San Jose, Calif., this month because of concern over the safety of nuclear energy. The others were Richard Hubbard and Gregory Minor.

All three men agreed in a Joint Atomic Energy Committee hearing that tighter inspections are needed at nuclear plants to bring them up to modern safety requirements.

Bridenbaugh recommended that all 57 nuclear generating plants be closed until they are declared safe. Hubbard suggested that the oldest plants should be closed for inspections because "they are the farthest from today's standards." Minor said all should be shut down, but they should be examined.

"The program has gone too far too fast," said Bridenbaugh.

Phillips admits aid

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The president of Phillips Petroleum Corp. personally handed a $50,000 illegal corporate political contribution to Richard Nixon in Nixon's New York City apartment in 1968, according to statements filed by the oil company in federal court.

There was nothing in the document to indicate that Nixon knew the money was an illegal corporate donation, the court said.

The legal was recounted in a document filed in U.S. District Court settling a suit against the firm over such illegal political contributions.

The statement said that board chairman J.S. Hubbard told W.W. Keeler, then president of Phillips, to give the money to Nixon.

Keeler "contributed money on Adams' instructions, this time in the amount of $50,000 to the Nixon campaign."

Hall on ticket again

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gus Hall has accepted the nomination of the Communist Party and expects to get on the ballot in only about 30 states.

Hall, 65, accepted the nomination Wednesday as he stood before a portrait of Lenin and told Americans "You get the biggest clout for your vote when you vote Communist."

He said he hoped to get his name on ballots in 25-30 states for the November election. The Communist party slate was listed in 13 states in 1972 when Hall was the candidate then also, but he said the total party following was impossible to calculate because "in many cases the votes are not counted."

A native of Minnesota and a 1930s union organizer in the Midwest, Hall served eight years in jail in the 1950s for violation of the Smith Act, which outlawed advocating violent overthrow of the government.

Flag Use

Congress, in a joint resolution on June 22, 1952, codified civilian usage of the flag. Among the numerous prohibitions then established, it was ruled that the flag is not to be dipped to any person or object, it should never be placed upon it any word or design, it should never be used as a receptacle for carrying anything, it should never be used to cover a statue or monument, it should never be used for advertising purposes and it should never be used as a drapey.

Racism charges split Demo party

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (UPI) — Charges of racism in the Elks Club have split the Democratic party in one of the nation's oldest towns.

A decision by the Democratic Town Committee to hold a victory party at the Middletown Elks Club despite charges the club restricted blacks from membership nationally has created bitterness.

Black leaders in Middletown, incorporated in 1651, say Democrats, traditionally the favorite of black voters, are insensitive. Committee members say the issue has been blown out of proportion.

"The state leadership may want to take a look at the situation here," says committee member Vincent LaFrieda. "If they let the thing go on as a statement of how the party feels without action, it's a disgrace."

Democratic state chairman John O'Neill said he didn't think the reference to meetings in the rules applied to social functions.

Indians complain

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Plans by singer Bing Crosby and his business partners to refurbish the resort at Mineral Hot Springs, Calif., will lead to desecration of an Indian burial ground, Indian groups complain.

"That's like digging up your own 'grandmother's grave,'" protested Joe Benintende of the Kumeayay tribal council Wednesday, speaking for the 17 Indian groups of the San Diego area.

Romana protests

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Romana — Banuelos, former U.S. Treasurer, complains that the Treasury Department does not hire enough Mexican-Americans.

Mrs. Banuelos, who built a career from sland into a multimillion-dollar Mexican food business, was appointed to the treasurer's post during the Nixon administration. She said that when she was appointed out of 1,000 employees in 11 divisions of the Treasury Department, only one had a Spanish surname.

Body concealed in bundle

CHICAGO (UPI) — The big, green bundle inspired little curiosity for at least 10 hours — lay at the curb on the South's street. No one paid much attention.

Then a child gave it a good kick. Horrified, the child drew back, watching a splat of blood on the green blanket.

When police arrived Tuesday and unwrapped the bundle, they found the body of Virgil Hayes, 56, who had been missing since Friday night.

"It is almost unbelievable that nobody was curious enough to check," a homicide investigator said. "It is possible the body was there from Monday night, and we cannot explain why it was not found earlier."

Laird picks Ford

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Former Defense Secretary Melvin Laird does not believe President Ford's pardon of Richard Nixon will affect Ford's election campaign.

"It has been my feeling that a major portion of the American public did not want Nixon to go to jail for lying," Laird said.

World war veterans bristle at long hair

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The crewcuts have gone or they're thinner and gray, but veterans of the two world wars still bristle at the sight of long hair and beards.

"America's two major veterans organizations are faced with a combination of a younger generation and a credibility gap in Pennsylvania, where the former soldiers of World Wars I and II number 1.8 million.

But the problem probably isn't as hairy as it sounds.

The doughboys of World War I are now in their 70s and 80s and "half the 802,000 GIs of World War II are approaching 65, yet they still dominate the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

They have found recruitment of the state's 327,000 Korean and 409,000 Vietnam veterans a tough battle.

"Too many of our posts have never reached out and made the Korean and Vietnam vets welcome," said Frank Rinaldi of Canonsburg, the Pennsylvania VFW commander.

"The long hair, beards and jeans just turned off the old-timers, and some of the young vets are just not mature enough — not ready — to settle down.

But Rinaldi is optimistic. "I'm sure they'll come in eventually and help us fight for veterans benefits and goals," he said.

"We seem to have lost the Korean vets," said Legion assistant Adjutant Charles Neubaum of Harrisburg. "They melted back into the woodwork and no one knows who they are."

Even the idea of having to go out and recruit new members rankles some older vets.

"Men from the first and second world wars rushed to join the organizations," Neubaum said. "Now the new machines and the one-armed bandits financed elaborate post homes and fat bank accounts.

So they banded the machines and turned to social membership as a means of raising money.

Tragedies spark safety campaign

CARLYLE, Ill. (UPI) — Safety has been a passion for years with Norbert J. Moorleghen.

When he first moved to Carlyle, where he is regional superintendent of schools, he lived next door to a widow who had lost two daughters in a railroad crossing accident.

As a school man, Moorleghen, 56, has campaigned for the widening and strengthening of bridges over which school buses must pass.

Now, safety has taken on a special — and tragic — meaning for him.

His sons, Allen, 15, and Robert, 13, were among 12 persons killed Feb. 7 when a train smashed into a camper at Beckemeyer, Ill.

Moorleghen has launched a campaign — in letters to President Ford, Illinois legislators, railroads, units of government, the public — for gates and warning lights at grade rail crossings.

In an open letter to the Centralia, Ill., Evening Sentinel, Moorleghen wrote: "I petition everyone to act now to demand action now to spare other parents and relatives the agony, the anguish and the unbearable

Filer school approved

By MARJORIE LIERMAN Times-News Staff Writer

FILER — Supt. Ray Baker reported to the trustees of School District 413 that Filer High School has been approved for accreditation.

Baker said at the meeting Monday evening in the high school that the Northwestern Association for Schools and Colleges had commended the school for a report with no deficiencies from standard.

Richard Dykes of the Filer Teachers Association spoke at the needs assessment meeting of the teachers last week. A community speak-out will be held Friday at the Filer Elementary School and one will be held Tuesday at the high school. The reports will be compiled and published at a later date.

Filer's Kuykendall basketball coach, reported on the girls regional basketball tournament. He said a number of people have expressed disappointment for the way the games were scored and he has sent a letter to the Idaho High School Activities Association registering protest.

The trustees approved the state recommended guidelines for students eligible to free or reduced price lunches according to incomes.

Bill Heaps, principal of the elementary school, spoke on athletics and displayed the new girls basketball outfits which were purchased from proceeds of concessions, exhibition games and other fund-raisers.

The senior class has requested permission for a one-day outing in the spring and Ken McBurney, class president, will meet with Supt. Baker and Principal Edwin Marshall to discuss the matter.

200 YEAR HAM SALE

- BILL OF RIGHTS

One of the great freedoms guaranteed to us in the Bill of Rights is the freedom to buy all the ham we want (Article XYZZ) wherever we want at the best price we can find. And as long as government regulation, controls and interference remains at a minimum, this special "right to buy ham" will continue for many more years unimpeded as it has in the past. While it's true that the price of ham may go higher or lower as time passes, the availability or "right to buy" will always be there as long as government interference doesn't ruin the ham producing machinery.

YOUR RIGHT TO BUY HAMS has never looked brighter than at Swensen's Magic Markets this week-end! Featuring beautiful whole hams at prices that will make the Bill of Rights and 200 years of Independence seem twice as good.

We'd be exaggerating if we said this is the lowest ham price in 200 years... but it certainly is the lowest ham price you've seen in a long time on...

Tougher test due for food stamps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Agriculture Committee, on a 7-6 vote, agreed Tuesday to impose a tougher test of assets on food stamp applicants and also heightened work registration requirements.

The committee voted to limit food stamp eligibility to individuals with $1,500 or less in liquid and nonliquid assets and to larger households with $2,250 or less in assets.

Current food stamp regulations impose a $1,500 limit on liquid assets such as cash on hand and bank accounts but set no limit on nonliquid assets such as cash value of life insurance policies, real estate or other investments that are difficult to turn into cash.

The committee excluded from the assets limitation the applicant's principal house and lot to the extent that equity does not exceed $25,000 ($35,000 in Alaska and Hawaii), a motor vehicle if the equity does not exceed $1,200 and household goods and personal effects if the equity does not exceed $1,500.

Also excluded would be property used in a trade or business essential to self support.

The committee's action is less restrictive than a proposal by conservative senators in one of the reform bills under consideration. That measure would have used "market value" rather than "equity" when dealing with a family home, car or personal property.

Current food stamp regulations do not take into account the market value or equity of a home or car.

The committee also strengthened work registration requirements for persons between ages 18 and 60 who are getting food stamp aid to ensure persons are trying to find work.

The proposal would require food stamp recipients to register with a state employment service, inquire regularly about employment and agree to accept employment or public work at the minimum wage or higher. Excluded would be a parent or other member of a household charged with the care of a dependent child under the age of 12 or an incapacitated person.

The committee rejected President Ford's proposal to deny food stamps to persons who engage in labor strikes. However, the committee did exclude persons who quit their jobs unless they were previously eligible for food stamps.

Members also agreed to eliminate the present "automatic eligibility" for persons eligible for welfare programs and excluded college students who are or can be legally claimed as tax exemptions by families that are not eligible for food stamps.

The committee has not yet reviewed proposals to limit the food stamp program to households at or below poverty level and eliminate the "cash up front" requirement for purchase of food coupons.

Crop comes through

SPOKANE (UPI) — Washington Wheat Commission spokesman Scott Hansen said today wheat crops in eastern Washington have apparently survived without damage this winter.

Hansen said a recent survey showed no clear evidence of any losses at this point.

Winter crops in the Midwest and some eastern states have been devastated by adverse weather conditions which first removed protective snow covers and then subjected the dormant crop to the elements, which destroyed them.

Hansen said the protective snow cover was lost in much of eastern Washington, too, but there have been no accompanying temperature reversals.

"As long as there are no temperature reversals or super cold conditions, the crops will be okay," said Hansen.

A total of 25 million acres of winter wheat was planted in the state.

PCA re-elects Gooding man head

TWIN FALLS — The Southern Idaho Production Credit Association re-elected Manning Patterson, Gooding, as president at its organizational meeting.

Max W. Martin, Burley, was named vice president. Other directors are Raymond Butler, Hansen; Eugene Grill, Twin Falls; L. A. Cullie, Paul; Howard Hill, Shoshone; and James Faulkner, Bliss.

R. W. Stuart, Gooding, was named general manager, replacing Earl Stanzell who retired on Jan. 31 after 34 years of service.

L. W. Lickley was named assistant general manager and manager of the Twin Falls office; Curtis Wilkins, manager of the Burley office; and Walter C. Nelson, manager of the Gooding office.

The association has a membership of 4,378 ranchers and farmers in the eight Magic Valley counties. During the 1975 loan year farmers were furnished $106 million in credit through the association.

Downtrend strikes in futures marts

COURTESY SINCLEAR & CO. CHICAGO — A downtrend hit the commodity futures market half Wednesday.

The May delivery of Idaho russet potatoes lost another 25 cents, closing at 11.30 per hundredweight.

Active News Service said active trading failed to lift Maine potato prices more than 15 points over the 75 point 1/2 limit down positions held most of the day in April and May. March fluctuated between 5 and 46 points off the Tuesday close and maverick November gained 43 the close.

Drops in the cash market prices along with effects of last week's stocks in storage report were behind the decline.

Slight prospects of moisture in the wheat belt produced heavy liquidation in wheat and losses of 11 to 13 cents. Heavy spot loss selling touched limit sellers briefly in March.

Soybeans followed a cautious pattern after reflecting initial uncertainty in wheat, with oil performing negatively and meal capitalized on commercial demand.

Forecasts of light showers in the dry wheat country sent only minor negative vibrations into the corn pit, where a balanced commercial trade brought enough stability to settle corn half a cent to 2 1/2 cents easier.

Live cattle closed with substantial losses, at the lows of the day in spot February and slightly above those levels in the back months. February and April led declines with losses of 87 cents.

Pork bellies finished 1/2 cent down in all contracts, as lower live-markets—weakness in dressed channels and a ruling that February could be traded for liquidation-only—combined to pound the market down.

Hogs broke sharply, closing 25 to 95 points lower, with nearly February trailing, closing at 49.17 — a 25 point loss — compared with top cash of 50.50 at Peoria. Weakness in dressed pork and beef and lower prices in other meats were reflected in hogs.

Sugar 11 traded in a 30 point range before closing 4 to 6 points off on spot March and a point down on far months on a volume of 5,145 contracts. Sugar 12 was untraded, settling 5 points down. The world spot price was up .05 cent at 13.5 cents a pound—the domestic spot was unchanged at 15 cents a pound.

New York gold spent a languid day, closing with 20 to 30 points gains on an estimated 1,499 contracts. The selloff in wheat was reflected in gold's performance.

Chicago Board of Trade Silver spent an unspectacular day, opening slightly higher but showing little effect from wheat's negative performance and closing with 20 to 80 point gains.

Gem wheat panel sees no shortage

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Wheat Commission agreed Tuesday that the possibility of a domestic wheat shortage caused by a severe drought in the Midwest grain belt is remote.

"It's too early to tell what the effects will be on the 1976 harvest," said chairman Earl Hoopes of Rexburg. "I will probably affect yields but those big wheat producing states have never had a crop failure yet."

Hoopes and his fellow commissioners pointed to the large stocks of wheat on hand and the fact that the United States will use only one-third of the 2.2 billion bushels of wheat produced last year.

"News of the drought is likely to encourage larger plantings of spring wheat wheat," he said. "In other business at their monthly meeting, the board expressed disappointment and concern over the level of funding for the University of Idaho's agricultural research programs."

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have friends we will call "The G's."
When the G's son was married, we received an invitation to the wedding. We attended. We also sent the young couple a gift. My husband bought a gift, and we didn't count our pennies. We purchased it.
The wedding took place in November, and when we received a Christmas card from the G's, out fell a "thank you" note for our wedding gift. It was handwritten and signed by the bride and groom.
Is this considered proper etiquette? I realize that postage is higher now, but shouldn't a thank-you note be individually sent in its own envelope?
JUST ASKING

Etiquette questioned

DEAR JUST: Yes, according to the authorities on etiquette. But a thank-you note acknowledges thanks whether it comes by the king's special messenger, carrier pigeon or the in-law's Christmas card.

DEAR ABBY: With all the talk about the high cost of malpractice insurance for doctors, I am reminded of something I read in your column about 15 years ago. It seems that while performing an abdominal operation on an attractive young woman, the surgeon accidentally severed her navel. This was about the time bikinis were introduced. The girl wanted to know if she should sue the doctor, and you told her she could probably do better if she sued the doctor in on the profits from all the bets she could win.

STILL LAUGHING IN ST. LOUIS

DEAR ABBY: I am a 60-year-old woman, and I am surprised at what I heard at a club meeting last week. "Always thought syphilis was a young person's disease, but now I hear that older people can get it, too."
I also heard that one can get syphilis when he is in his teens, and it may not show up for 40 or 50 years. Also, the first sign of syphilis can be a small sore like a cold sore or a pimple on the lip, in the mouth or on the sex organs, but it is so small and painless that it can come and go without being noticed. Then, many years later, even though the disease never caused any trouble, it can show up again.
Please verify this and let me know how a person knows for sure if he has it or not. Thank you.
AMAZED IN MEDFORD, MASS.

DEAR AMAZED: What you heard is true. And the only way to determine whether one has syphilis or not is to be examined by a physician.

Kathi Hulme, Meyers say vows

BUHL—Kathi Hulme and Robert Meyers were married in a Feb. 5 ceremony at the Logan LDS Temple in Utah.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hulme and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Meyers, all Buhl.

A wedding dinner honoring the couple was given by the bridegroom's parents following the ceremony.

The bride wore a traditionally styled gown of chantilly lace featuring an empire waistline. The dress had a scalloped neckline, victorian-style sleeves and an attached cathedral-train. The dress was accented with white satin bows.

Her ballerina length veil of illusion net was attached to a flower petal cap accented with seed pearls. She carried a colonial-style bouquet of red sweetheart roses, white carnations, baby's breath, and ming ferns trimmed with ribbons and lulle puffs.

Billie Robertson, Buhl, and Nancy Kennedy, Provo, Utah, were bridesmaids.

David Higginson and Brent Ring, both Buhl, were groomsmen.

Terri Richeson, Buhl, was in charge of the guest-book. Karla Harvey and Wendy Guest, cousins of the bride, received gifts.

The couple was honored at a reception Feb. 6 at the Buhl LDS Church.

Quartet tables were covered with pink cloths with centerpieces of red roses in baskets and three cupids filled with gladioli, carnations and pom pom chrysanthemums in red, pink and white.

Assisting at the gift table were Mrs. Bill Roberts, Mrs. Lee Harvey, both Buhl, and Mrs. Willard Brown, Jerome, all aunts of the bride.

Mrs. James Guest, Jerome, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Willie Meala, Provo, Utah, sister of the bridegroom, served cake. Mrs. Bill Ruffing, Wendell, aunt of the bride, served punch.

Following their marriage, the couple lives in Logan until commencement in June, after which they will be farming near Buhl and working with Weiser Irrigation.

A National Grange radio news program was discussed and will be decided upon at a May meeting in King Hill. In addition, a spring festival was considered and will be voted upon by subordinate Granges.

Mrs. Steven Waters said more people should enter the National Grange sewing contests. The quota for Elmore County is nine dresses or pantsuits. Handwork and embroidery or edgings will be considered later in the year.

Old man Z was back at the bridge club again. He wasted no time bidding four spades after Y, his favorite partner, had opened with a slightly irregular one notrump and East had overcalled with a bid of three diamonds. East's three diamond call was one of those fancy new conventions designed to show both red suits.

West opened the king of clubs. Z studied the dummy carefully and remarked, "I played a hand just like this for Milton Work's column back in 1924. Of course, the game was auction and I was playing just three spades, but it was important to make four if I could."

Then Z proceeded to let the king of clubs hold. The suit was continued and West was allowed to hold tricks with his queen and jack. Finally, Z ruffed the fourth club, drew trumps and dummy's ace of clubs became his 10th trick.

For the benefit of most of our readers the four players in a newspaper hand back in the '20s were called A, B, Y and Z. Z sat South and was always declared while Y was dummy and poor A and B had to defend.

By KRIS COLEMAN Times-News writer

several firms have been involved," he said referring to the need for interviews with four other planning firms, "we're in a lot more trouble than if we did it daily a few more weeks," he added.

Twin-Falls County commissioner, said reports that the county commissioners want to combine the personnel of the joint council and the county planning and zoning agency at this time are untrue.

around, but outside of that. The joint council, we think, as city officials must determine city and county jurisdictions over these areas.

He said the suggested 10 per cent rate hike would be "just an inflation raise" and wouldn't reduce the gap between income and costs.

A larger raise wouldn't be "acceptable" to water users, many of them elderly people in fixed incomes, according to Millar.

Mayor Paul Ostyn and Councilmen Chris Talkington and H. E. Cheney voted against maintaining the existing rates. Councilmen Leon Smith, Stephen Bancroft, Stephen Lincoln and Henry Woodall voted in favor of the proposal.

Flu bug hits Castleford

CASTLEFORD — Castleford students have been hit by the flu bug and schools were closed today.

"There's no magic number," said Peters as to when the school must be closed, "but when we get over 25 per cent out and another 10 per cent in school who should be in bed" the school should be closed.

Peters says students appear to be suffering a "flu type" illness. Symptoms of the sickness are sore throat, fever and cough, he says.

Snow and high winds forced a one-day school closure in the county. It was reportedly snowing hard again this morning in Halley. The area reports a 17-inch snowfall over the past four days, with an estimated four additional inches this morning.

Backers push 'port revenue bond plan

By GORDON JUDD Times-News writer
BOISE — Magic Valley regional airport backers are sponsoring legislation to allow them to issue revenue bonds to finance a new airport.

A general obligation bond is one which is backed by the general taxing power of the agency issuing it. A revenue bond, on the other hand, is one which depends solely on some other source of revenue. In this case airport landing fees and space rentals, to guarantee payment of interest and principal to its holder.

Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, said it was his recollection that at the time the legislators were drafting the original law in 1967 it was felt that general obligation bonds would be the only type of bond available.

17 apply for TF golf pro position

TWIN FALLS — Seventeen golf professionals have applied to take over management of the Twin Falls Municipal Course and two more are expected to apply by the deadline Friday, according to City Manager Jean Millar.

Gooding fire chief felled by smoke

GOODING — Fire Chief Jack Waldschmidt is in the hospital as the result of smoke inhalation suffered while fighting a house fire Wednesday.

Sen. Robert Saxvik, D-Burley, who sponsored the new legislation which he doesn't see why anyone would oppose the legislation which is remedial in nature, as written the bill allows the words "regional airport authority" to be used instead of the word "city" in the Revenue Bond Act where appropriate.

By DAVE HORSMAN Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Mayor Paul Ostyn has sent a letter to three state legislators from Twin Falls politely condemning their negative votes this month on a House memorial encouraging renewal of the federal revenue sharing program.

The memorial was defeated 32-35 in a House vote Feb. 1 and was turned down again the next day in a 34-35 reconsideration vote.

"Unless you have information unknown by me, it [is difficult] to understand this position," Ostyn said.

Lurie confident of purchasing Giants in week

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bob Lurie is as optimistic as he can be that a week from today he and his partner, Bob Short, will own the San Francisco Giants.

He may be right but there is no guarantee, even though a San Francisco judge accepted Lurie and Short's offer of $8 million to purchase the club from Horace Stoham and his National Exhibition Co. as valid and viable.

Their offer was made last week and after the judge was convinced of its merit, he granted the city of San Francisco its request for a temporary injunction. The city had sought the injunction to prevent Stoham from selling the Giants to Lablatts Breweries and moving it to Toronto.

As long as the injunction is in force, there is no way the club can be moved to Canada. But as valid as the Lurie-Short offer may be, Stoham is balking.

That's because he wants Lurie and Short to assume about $1.8 million in indebtedness as well as give jobs in the new organization to his son Pete and son-in-law Chuck Rupert. Reportedly, those concessions were included in the Toronto offer.

Lurie said Wednesday progress had been made toward completing the deal but admitted there are stumbling blocks.

"Outside of a couple of things," Lurie said, "we are in general agreement with the Giants. I'm as positive as hell that we can formalize everything within a day or two. We've made a lot of progress in our talks."

While Lurie remained optimistic, James L. Hunt, Stoham's attorney who is handling the sale, dropped out of sight Wednesday. His office said he was not available for comment and would not be available at any time in the foreseeable future. That seemed strange for a man who made himself as available as possible only the day before when he said formalizing the sale to the Lurie-Short group was far from being accomplished.

In the end the Giants turn down the Lurie-Short offer, which seems unlikely from a dollars and cents standpoint, only two alternatives remain inasmuch as the club can not be moved out of San Francisco while the court injunction is in force. The first is for the National League to operate it and the second is for Stoham to declare bankruptcy.

Neither alternative seems logical. The National League, for economic reasons, might find operating the club a staggering burden. If Stoham declares bankruptcy he will not receive a cent for the club. While his debts are prohibitive, a sale for $8 million would leave him something for his trouble.

K-State drops Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Sophomore Mike Evans scored 30 points Wednesday night to lead Kansas State to a 65-53 Big Eight Conference victory over Nebraska.

Evans, who scored 16 of his points in the second half, hit two free throws with 5:41 remaining to put the Wildcats ahead at 49-44. Nebraska could not get closer than within two points the rest of the way.

The victory gave the Wildcats an 8-2 conference record and sole possession of second place in the Big Eight. The Cornhuskers fell to third place with a 7-3 record.

Fort Led Nebraska, now 16-7, with 16 points and Bob Siegel added 15. Chuck Williams had 13 for Kansas State, which upped its record to 17-6.

Players await response on proposal from owners

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Owners' negotiators met with the Major League Players Association Wednesday and asked for a response to a proposal they made last week in order to break the deadlock over the reserve clause.

The clubs proposed last Friday a system wherein a man who has played eight major league seasons can elect to play out a one-year option period.

Wednesday's meeting at the Los Angeles Marriott Hotel was the 19th negotiating session between the two sides.

"Baseball needs a system to guarantee competitive balance and continuity, which form the basis for fan loyalty," said John J. Gaherin, chief labor negotiator for the clubs.

"The clubs also need some assurance that their investments in player development, which averages $500,000 per player who makes it to the major leagues, will be protected."

"Both the clubs and the Players Association have a vital interest in getting on with spring training and another successful season. We look to the Association to offer us a meaningful and detailed response to our proposal so we may successfully conclude these negotiations."

—Marvin Miller, the Association's executive director, met with players at the Marriott Tuesday in the first of six national meetings in two weeks.

The next negotiating session between the owners and the Players Association is scheduled for Saturday in New York at Gaherin's office.

The owners have said they won't open spring training unless a new contract agreement is reached.

Plunkett sure he'll be fit to play, but not sure where

BOSTON (UPI) — Quarterback Jim Plunkett predicts he will be physically fit for the next National Football League season — wherever he plays.

The five-year pro from Stanford said Wednesday, before flying home to San Jose, he has made no decision on whether to sign another five-year contract with the Patriots or play out his option and become a free agent at the end of the season.

"The decision will be made before the (NFL) draft," said Plunkett in a telephone interview from attorney Bob Woolf's office. "I probably wouldn't say even if I had made a decision but to be honest, I have not made up my mind."

The college draft, scheduled for Feb. 24, has been delayed indefinitely by a legal dispute over the proposed NFL expansion draft. Until that dispute is settled, Plunkett's decision will remain a mystery.

Plunkett first will have to prove to his 1976 employer that he is fully recuperated from two shoulder injuries and a knee bruise that sidelined him for nine regular season games last year.

He had another small-shoulder operation this third in five months to shave and clean the bone and had it with dactron to keep the bone down," said Plunkett. "I just had the stitches removed last week and I feel pretty good."

"I'm not worried about it at all and I'm looking forward to working out again."

Plunkett said he would resume workouts around his home after picking up cleats and other equipment during a quick visit to Schaefer Stadium.

"I went to Schaefer Stadium only to say hello and see my friends," he said. "Coach (Chuck) Fairbanks wasn't around and that's not what I was there for, anyhow."

The Patriots have said publicly they want to keep Plunkett. But if he decides to play out his option, they would have to trade him this season or be faced with getting no compensation from any other team, once the quarterback becomes a free agent.

The teams most mentioned, if Plunkett asks to be traded, are San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Judge orders loop to set new hearing

DALLAS (UPI) — A U.S. district judge, saying the rights of universities had been given more attention than the rights of athletes, Wednesday reinstated suspended Texas A & M basketball players Karl Godine and Jarvis Williams.

Judge Patrick Higginbotham ruled the players could continue to play for the Southwest Conference, leading the conference granted the players a full hearing on allegations they have violated NCAA regulations.

The judge admitted a new hearing by the conference might end with the same result as one conducted earlier this month — suspension through the 1976-77 basketball season. But he said the players deserved a fair hearing and that as yet they had not had one.

The order of the new hearing to take place within 30 days.

"There appears to be no malice involved here," Higginbotham said in his ruling. "But the practices involved are not geared to the rights of the individual athletes. Rather, they are geared to members of the conference."

He said the conference's practice of trusting individual schools to notify players of action against them was not enough. He said the conference must contact the players directly.

Godine and Williams were declared ineligible by the conference last Sunday because of alleged recurring violations and missed Tuesday night's game at Houston.

what's what

L.M. Boyd

The two words "rape and "capture" have in common is they both come from the Latin word "rapere" meaning "to carry away." What else do they have in common? Not much, anymore. Our Language man says they date back to when would-be husbands stole their future matrimonial mates by physical force. Today, sure enough, rape is generally listed among the ugliest of all words, rapture among the loveliest.

Only fish with a body temperature higher than that of the sea in which it lives is the tuna.

Remember, the treat that beetles gnaw down from bread falls the wrong way, the chimney little beasts. Good dam builders, ers, sure, but lumberjacks, no.

HEART SURGERY

Q. "Does anybody know who first performed heart surgery?"
A. Credit for that remarkable feat generally goes to a German surgeon named Rehn. At least, he was the first to save a man's life by closing up with stitches a heart wound. In 1896, it was Dr. Rehn the next year reported it in detail to the German Surgical Congress.

It's now known a substance called L-tryptophan is a natural sedative. And it's also now known that this substance is in milk. So evidently there's something to the elderly notion that a glass of warm milk before bedtime tends to bring on the sleep.

TALK ON MONDAY

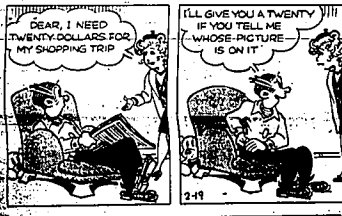

Why not ban all television broadcasting one day a week? Just so everybody can get a little practice regularly in the art of conversation. What, you think the nation is ridiculous? Maybe so. But that's the situation in Hungary. No-TV on Mondays there.

Music historians will tell you the first blues song ever published as such originally was written as an election campaign tune. W. C. Handy did it. For E. H. Crump in the local election at Memphis, Tenn., in 1909. That dirty started out as "Mr. Crump." But you and I heard it later as the "Memphis Blues."

If you make the stairs and the porch and the front door just a little bit smaller, the man walking up and over and toward same will appear just a little bit bigger, when photographed, not certainly. That's why the old Hollywood carpenters built their camera sets on a scale of seven-eighths the actual size. Thus were our gunglins' film heroes magnified to appear larger than the pedestrian average.

Strip of property sought by state

TWIN FALLS — A condemnation suit has been filed here by the Idaho Department of Transportation seeking right-of-way from property owned by Norman and Donna Garlington.

The action seeks a strip of property along Addison Avenue for the proposed widening of Highway 83. The Garlington property is located at the corner of Taylor Street and Addison Avenue.

The suit asks the court to award the state a five-foot strip along the Addison Avenue side of the Garlington property and to determine an equitable price for the property.

Man appears in court

TWIN FALLS — Bond was set at $200,000 Tuesday afternoon for a man accused of kidnapping and assault with intent to murder his former wife.

Robert Dix Birch, 34, formerly of St. Anthony, appeared in magistrate court before Judge Paul Smith on charges of second degree kidnapping resulting from the alleged abduction of his former wife Monday night. He also answered to a charge of assault with intent to commit murder which was filed by Twin Falls police on a warrant issued for his arrest last October. Judge Smith appointed the public defender to represent Birch on a temporary basis until his own attorney is available.

Birch asked preliminary hearings of both charges and was returned to the Twin Falls city jail in lieu of bond.

He was apprehended early Tuesday morning northwest of Twin Falls after police from throughout Twin Falls County and Jerome set up roadblocks and searched the area. A report was received in the Twin Falls police station at 11:17 p.m. stating Birch's former wife had been abducted.

Detective Capt. Tim Qualls said the Birch vehicle was stopped and when the victim saw a police car approaching she ran toward it.

Clam eating champ bested

DAILY CITY, Calif. (UPI) — For as long as anybody can remember, 250-pound Al Nicolini was considered the clam eating champ of the 37 Club. For instance, one night he devoured 102 steamed clams, three pitchers of beer, and 10 slices of french bread before going to a friend's house for dinner.

But today, there is a new champion.

At about 100 watched Monday, Daily City patrolman Randy Desha, a relatively avile 220-pounder, and Nicolini went at it in the first annual Daily City Steamed Clam Eating Contest.

One judge left the scene early and noted that while the contestants seemed happy in their eating, the officials were getting sick while keeping score.

The contest was halted after 43 minutes and 20 seconds and the scoreboard showed that Desha had bolted 162 clams while Nicolini, who made the tactical mistake of chewing each clam before swallowing, had to settle for 113.

Hansen students to swim at YWCA

HANSEN — Hansen Grade School students will be able to take swimming lessons at the YM-YWCA pool starting the last of March.

Supt. Garth Miller said school trustees approved allowing students from the third through sixth grades to participate in the sessions if they have parental approval. There will be two swim sessions per month, Miller said.

The board discussed high school English graduation requirements at the monthly meeting Monday night and decided to accept the state requirement of only three years.

The school calendar for next year was discussed and it was announced the Hansen-High-School has received full accreditation by the Northwest Accreditation Association.

In other business, trustees approved purchase of three sets of filchers for the football field from Jerome.

Decided to have Richard Hazler, guidance counselor, assist with coaching next year.

Discussed attendance problems with three sets of parents. Miller said 12 students have been absent more than 10 days allowed and they each must meet with the board.

Hospital PR panel appointed by board

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Board has appointed a committee to be responsible for hospital public relations.

Joseph Savage, board chairman, appointed Dr. Ben Katz, a hospital trustee, as well as staff doctor, chairman of the new committee.

The committee will be looking at more and better ways of interpreting to the public the hospital's activities and prospects for maintaining the existing quality of service.

Mary Goe, staff director of public relations said, "Savage and I will assist with committee activities. Other committee members include Ivan Skinner, Ted Pence and R. W. Pierce, all board members. Pierce is also chairman of the hospital public relations committee."
