Bridge tower crashes to ground

Perrine bridge tower crashes

By DAVE HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The 200-foot tower at Perrine Bridge was nearly down, suspended just 20 feet from the ground, when a supporting pole buckled and the steel giant fell with a crash.

The accident occurred Thursday as workmen lowered the cableway tower on the north rim of the bridge site. The south tower came down Wednesday with no hitches.

"Once the pole buckled, it came right straight down and hit the ground and was bent all to hell," said Ken Upton, project manager for Allied Structural Steel, the contractor for the new Perrine Bridge.

A subcontractor "was lowering the tower and was just about down with it," Upton said today. "The tower was swung a little bit to the east and this temporary pole just buckled and let it come on down to the ground."

Both towers are needed to dismantle the old bridge when the new one is completed late this summer. Asked if the mishap means a delay in the project, Upton said, "I don't foresee it causing any delays whatsoever. We're shooting for August 15 to open the new bridge."

He said it will be "up to the experts" to determine whether the damaged tower must be replaced.

"Certain sections definitely can be repaired but other sections are questionable."

Whatever the decision, "it's going to cost quite a few dollars," Upton said. "They don't give them away."

"These things happen no matter how well you plan," he added. "The reason — nobody knows for sure."

The same "temporary tipping pole" was used to bring down the south tower Wednesday, according to Upton, and everything went as planned.

Frazier says US probe doesn't involve Sierra

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Sierra Life Insurance Co. President Fred Frazier reportedly said Thursday that Sierra is "not involved" in secret federal grand jury proceedings being held in New Mexico.

The Albuquerque Journal has reported that records of Sierra and its New Mexico subsidiary Sandia Life have been subpoenaed by the grand jury, which is investigating the now-bankrupt Western American Life-New Mexico company in which Sierra owned majority interest during 1956 and with which Sierra has had important business transactions since.

Frazier has not been available for comment to the Times-News about the grand jury proceedings, but he did comment to KTFI news.

When asked if he had been served a subpoena, Frazier was recorded as telling the station: "Of course not. We're not involved in that thing at all. That is something I don't know what they're talking about. I don't know who they're after but it's a grand jury investigation regarding Western American Life as I understand it."

"And the grand jury just asked for information about a number of companies that had had dealings. Some of those companies that we mentioned I don't even know anything about. So, we haven't been served nothing."

Besides records of Sierra and Sandia, the Albuquerque Journal reported that the grand jury sought materials on Organized Security League-Oblivious firm merged into Western American in the late 1960s, Life of Montana and Liberty Investors Life of Oklahoma and New Mexico.

The newspaper also reported that the grand jury also reportedly asked for correspondence between New Mexico Dept. of Insurance Ralph Apodaca's office and various individuals connected with the various companies whose records were subpoenaed.

Sierra sold almost all of its non-Idaho insurance policies to its newly-formed subsidiary Sandia on the last day of December. To serve as reserves for the policies sold, Sierra put over $9 million in assets into Sandia. Most of these assets were being challenged by the Wyoming Department of Insurance.

Apodaca approved the new Sandia assets at their given value, "notwithstanding the fact that any particular asset might not have been eligible as a direct investment by Sandia because of the amount or character thereof," according to the Sierra-Sandia contract.

Jerome police to remain in courthouse til May 15

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — The Jerome City Police Department will remain in offices at the county courthouse — at least until May 15.

The city police department has been given until midnight Thursday to either pay $5,000 in back rent or move out of the joint city-county law enforcement complex at the courthouse.

Ultimatums given in letters carried back and forth between city hall and the courthouse by Jerome County Sheriff Elza Hall and Chief of Police Howard DuBois finally resulted in a temporary agreement between the City Council and county commissioners Thursday.

The first letter delivered to the county commissioners from the City Council contained a check for $3,655.00 — which, according to the council, was in compliance with the recommendation set forth by the arbitration committee from Boise.

The committee, which met with city and county officials Wednesday in an attempt to arrive at agreement over cost sharing at the joint law enforcement complex, included John Bender, chief of law enforcement for the state of Idaho; Chuck Palmer, Add County sheriff; John Church, chief of police for the city of Boise; and Fred Grant, attorney for the law enforcement planning commission.

According to the city's letter, it was the recommendation of the committee that a reasonable figure for maintaining the joint communications for the year 1975 is $20,000. The check was figured on the basis of the $20,000 a year amount. In a three-page letter, the county commissioners rejected the city's check, stating their understanding of the committee's recommendation was not the same as that of the city.

According to the county's letter, the final recommendations of Bender, Church, Palmer and Grant were that the city should contribute the sum of $2,000 per month for the months of January, February and March as well as the city paying its own telephone bill and prisoners' meals before arrangements are made.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Hall and Chief DuBois were to acquire actual figures on usage of the facilities, including percentage of telephone calls, dispatch and use of all the facilities, including the jail, and the two met with Chief Church and Sheriff Palmer and their associates in an effort to arrive at a formula similar to the Ada County-Boise City operation.

The letter further states it was understood by all that after the formula was set it was to be applied retroactively to January 1.

The county's letter was delivered by noon. By 2:30 p.m., the city had returned to the county a claim form in the amount of $4,000, plus $211.20 for the city's telephone bill and $92 for prisoner meals.

The claim stated it was for two months rent, namely January and February. The claim was delivered without a letter or note from the city.

County Commissioner Milford Jones signed the claim form and returned it to the city with an attached condition. The county stated it understood the claim would be based upon "the parties following the recommendations of the committee... that the city should contribute the sum of $2,000 per month plus prisoners' meals prior to arrangement and pay the city's share of the telephone bill, pending the acquisition of usage figures by Hall and DuBois and subsequently holding their meeting with Palmer and Church."

After recommendations by Hall, DuBois, Palmer and Church as to a formula, "the city and county shall finalize a formula no later than May 15, 1976."

Cost of food down sharply

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer prices in February posted their smallest monthly increase — 0.1 per cent — in more than four years.

The Labor Department said today. The minuscule increase came mostly because of the largest decline in food costs since 1956.

Department officials said food costs dropped 1 per cent last month, the sharpest decline in 20 years when a similar dip occurred. The last time a larger decline was registered was Nov. 1953 when food costs dropped 1.2 per cent.

The 0.1 per cent increase was the smallest since Sept. 1971, and showed the continuing slowdown in the rate of inflation. The Consumer Price Index rose 0.4 per cent in January and averaged 0.6 per cent average for the last three months of 1975.

Seasonally adjusted index figures showed an overall 1 per cent decline in food prices, due mainly to a 1.5 per cent drop in grocery foods. That followed a 0.4 per cent decline last month.

Administration economists had predicted Thursday that inflation would continue to moderate in coming months, primarily due to prospects of future declines in food prices.

The February statistics indicated gasoline prices also declined while charges for consumer services rose, but at a slower rate than in January.

Prices for some foods rose despite the overall trend, including coffee, white prices for restaurant meals and snacks away from home rose 0.8 per cent, the same as in January.

Commodities other than food increased 0.3 per cent, continuing a moderate rate of advance. Clothing prices also rose moderately.

The Labor Department said sharp increases in auto insurance rates accounted for much of the 1.3 per cent rise in transportation services prices.

The figures by the Bureau of Labor Statistics also showed real gross average weekly earnings were essentially unchanged from January.

Although the recent reduced inflation is expected to become less dramatic in the months ahead, White House economist James Page predicts there is "still some room for improvement in food prices."

Wholesale farm and food prices, which have a direct impact on grocery prices, have been falling at a drastic rate over the past four months. That decline was reflected only recently in consumer food prices, which fell 0.2 per cent in January, the first such drop in five months.

Overall, consumer prices rose 0.4 per cent in January — an improvement over the average monthly increase of 0.6 per cent over the previous three months.

This moderation, combined with the falling unemployment rate and four straight months without an increase in wholesale prices, has provided new impetus for President Ford's claims.

Reagan asked to withdraw

By LEWIS LORD
United Press International

Nine of the nation's 13 Republican governors today urged Ronald Reagan to withdraw from the presidential race.

In a statement released in Raleigh, N.C., near where Reagan was campaigning, the governors said: "We cannot afford the luxury of divisiveness nor can we wait to marshal all of our resources toward the common goal."

Their statement came two days after a group of Republican mayors urged Reagan to quit.

But President Ford, who earlier called his Illinois victory over Reagan a "clincher," seems to be sending a quiet message.

In an interview with a North Carolina television station made public today, the President said even if he beats Ronald Reagan again in North Carolina next week, it may not be a "knockout punch."

Reagan reiterated he is still in the race and that the campaign is in the final "fining. You don't take your hat and go home."

Ford's comments came in an interview Wednesday with Charlotte, N.C. television station WSOC that was made public today. He said a victory next Tuesday "would be very helpful but I wouldn't categorize any particular election as a key election. When you accumulate (primary victories) and you add them up, that, of course, has to have an impact. I am going to be very encouraged and my opponent will be quite discouraged."

What's that?

SEATTLE (UPI) — Seattle Fire Department statistics issued by its computer say aid car personnel last year delivered six babies, five to women and one to a man.

"Either the computer goofed or one delivery made medical history," the department's newsletter said.

Chase hurts 2 in Jerome

JEROME — Two Jerome men were shot by a Jerome County deputy sheriff during a high speed chase Thursday night.

Jeffrey Hayes, 22, and Thomas Cecil Wood, 20, were apprehended late Sunday night by Jerome County Sheriff's Department officers after the two men tried to elude a deputy during the chase.

Sheriff Elza Hall said Wood is accused of attempting to evade two deputies who wanted to stop the man for a traffic violation. Hall said the chase deputies included Dennis Lauman and David White, fired on the car driven by Wood when it allegedly attempted to run down the officers.

The deputies said the auto failed to heed the warning lights on their vehicle, pulled in behind a service station and when the officers got out of their car, Hall said the auto attempted to run the deputies down.

The car took off again, Hall said, and officers pursued the vehicle west of Jerome.

Wood and a passenger in the car, Hayes, both were ejected by officers' gunfire.

Wood was treated for a wound in the hand and Hayes was wounded in the leg by a fragment from a bullet. Both were released from St. Benedict's Hospital today.

Wood is being held under $4,700 bond. Sheriff Hall said charges against Hayes are pending further investigation.

Hearst jury given final instructions over case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The judge in the Patricia Hearst trial today gave jurors final instructions to guide their deliberations on whether the defendant was a victim or a volunteer in the robbery of the Hibernia Bank.

U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter ordered the courtroom doors locked during his hour and a half of instructions to the panel of seven women and five men. Immediately following the instructions, the panel was to begin its deliberations.

Miss Hearst, 22, is charged with armed bank robbery and was of a foreign in commission of a felony.

The judicial instructions will set the limits of the jury's discussions, outlining such things as the requirements for finding the defendant guilty or innocent on each of the charges she faces, the definition of "reasonable doubt," and the weight that should be given to various items of evidence.

The arguments and testimony wound up Thursday with an impassioned plea by Miss Hearst's attorney who said she had no choice but to join the bank robbery or die. The prosecutor said her tale was "too incredible to believe."

"We ask you to return a verdict of guilty on both counts," said U.S. Attorney James L. Browning Jr.

The jury must still through more than a million words of trial testimony, the stories of 42 witnesses, 225 pieces of government evidence in reaching their verdict on Miss Hearst's participation in the robbery of a neighborhood branch of the Hibernia Bank on April 15, 1974.

Chief defense counsel F. Lee Bailey said the verdict of guilty or innocent "will either be the most horrible saying that Patricia Hearst has ever heard in one word, or the symphony the SCA says we couldn't deliver in 35 years."

If found guilty, she faces up to two years in prison. Or it is possible that she could receive no jail term at all and be placed on probation. No matter what the verdict, she still faces other charges in Los Angeles and may stand trial again.

Leaving a microphone and lectern behind, Bailey stood next to the jury box and spoke directly to the panel members in his final appeal, sometimes speaking in such a low voice as to be almost inaudible to courtroom spectators.

"It is a case of dying or surviving — that is all Patricia Campbell Hearst thought about," Bailey argued. "And the question is, 'what is the right to live? How far can you go to survive?'"

He said the 22-year-old newspaper heiress, "rudely snatched from her home, blotted on the side of the face with a gun hull and taken as a political prisoner," succumbed to "the brutalization and terror of her kidnappers and joined them in the bank only to postpone death, and yet 'never quite bought their program.'"

Bailey said the only person still alive and willing to talk about the robbery was Miss Hearst herself, and he said the jury must weigh her testimony carefully as bolstered by the defense's expert psychiatric witnesses that she indeed was coerced into acting as a member of "the Symbionese Liberation Army."

Contrasting the Hearst case with the real television courtroom solutions of Perry Mason, Bailey said the evidence in the case is "troubled with doubt, and always will be. No one is going to be sure."

Nixon treaty stalled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A treaty banning underground testing of superpower nuclear explosives, negotiated by Richard M. Nixon a few weeks before he resigned, may never be ratified.

The U.S.-Soviet "Threshold" treaty has a March 31 deadline, and State Department spokesman Robert L. Funseth said Thursday the administration is debating whether to ask the Senate to ratify it by then.

The decision is contingent on reaching agreement by that date on a related treaty to limit and control explosions for peaceful purposes, such as blasting rivers and harbors.

Negotiators have run into difficulty on several key issues, principally a U.S. demand for on-site inspection by both sides of all peaceful nuclear explosions on each other's territory to guard against the use of such explosions to gather military information.

An official told UPI the Soviet Union has accepted the principle of on-site observers but negotiations are bogged down on complex details.

Indicating the seriousness with which the administration views the current status of the negotiations, Funseth told reporters:

"We have under consideration what to do if the March 31 deadline for the Threshold treaty should arrive without a successful conclusion of the PNE (peaceful explosion) talks. We just have not decided what we are going to do."

The immediate question is whether to seek Senate ratification of one without the other.

Ratification could not be accomplished in the time remaining before the deadline, but if the administration decides to submit the Threshold treaty, it will issue a declaration to the effect that it intends to abide by the treaty limitations pending ultimate ratification.

The Threshold treaty was one of Nixon's last official acts, at the Moscow summit meeting with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev in July, 1974. Nixon resigned Aug. 9.

Providing for U.S.-Soviet ratification by Mar. 31, 1976, the treaty limited underground tests of nuclear weapons to a maximum yield of 150 kilotons, or the equivalent of 150,000 tons of TNT. It also provided that the United States and the Soviet Union should agree on a PNE treaty.

Anticipating ratification of the Threshold treaty, the United States has pressed ahead with massive underground testing in advance of the deadline. It detonated two nuclear devices Wednesday, both with yields in the range of 200,000 to 500,000 tons of TNT, well above the "Threshold" limitation of 150,000 tons. The World War II Hiroshima bomb had a yield of 20,000 tons.

Nevada restricts A-waste firm

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Gov. Mike O'Callaghan has imposed restrictions on an atomic waste disposal firm following discovery in Nevada homes of more than 12 truckloads of radioactive tools and building materials that were supposed to be buried in the company's nuclear dump.

O'Callaghan laid down a series of conditions Thursday that Nuclear Engineering Co. must meet to regain its state license, including completion of radiation poisoning tests on six to eight residents of the town of Beatty.

Federal and state officials have said the low level of radiation involved will not cause death.

"We have been extremely lucky that this involved radioactive waste of low level," the governor said. "We cannot allow luck to play such an important role for future generations."

State officials reported that a door-to-door search last week in Beatty, about 100 miles north of Las Vegas, turned up tons of contaminated material stolen or scavenged from a 15-acre nuclear waste disposal ground operated by Nuclear Engineering.

Searchers found "hot" hand tools, electric motors, radio equipment, pipe, building materials and steel tanks in Beatty yards, storage sheds, garages and inside two homes, said Roger Troumday, director of the department of Human Resources.

Large steel tanks, in which the contaminated items had been sealed for burial, had been converted into water tanks.

"It required about a dozen pickup truck loads to return the material," Troumday said, plus more trips for material "too big or heavy for a pickup."

Investigators said some of the contaminated material may have been taken from the dump, 11 miles south of Las Vegas, as long ago as 1967, and some may have been sold and taken to other Nevada towns.

Nuclear Engineering, a Kentucky-based firm, operates half a dozen nuclear waste dumps around the country, including sites in Illinois and Washington state.

The governor said that before the firm can resume operations in Nevada it must complete radiation poisoning tests of some Beatty residents. It must also material that should be in the dump and show that any thing removed has been found and returned, pay fines for violations, develop new safety systems, agree to many federal and state inspections and file an annual report to the state legislature.

Gem ski resorts plagued by wind

TWIN FALLS — Winter was back at most ski resorts in the Snakehead National Forest Friday with several reporting new snow Thursday night.

Winds were also reported strong throughout the area Friday but roads were open in all chains or study, they reported.

Sun Valley reported a total of 1.8 inches of snow at the top of Bald Mountain with 36 inches at the Roundhouse and 17 inches on the valley floor.

Maize Mountain reports 5.5 inches of snow at the lodge with several inches of snow on Thursday night. The area is operating Saturdays and Sundays only for the remainder of the season.

Pomeroy reported about 10 inches of new snow this morning with 90 inches at the lodge and more than 100 inches at the top of the slopes. The area is operating daily.

Hotspur of Hatley has 16 inches of snow at the base and will operate Saturday and Sunday for the remainder of the season.

Cross country skiing and snowmobiling are reported good although warm temperatures earlier in the week resulted in some softening conditions. Both snowmobilers and cross country skiers are urged to exercise caution in steep canyons because of continued avalanche possibilities.

Claude N. Cheney

TWIN FALLS — Claude N. Cheney, 73, Twin Falls, died Thursday at Sky View Manor after a short illness.

Born Feb. 19, 1902, at Fairview, Utah, he came to Twin Falls in 1906. He worked for the Amalgamated Sugar Co. for 25 years, retiring in 1957.

He was a veteran of World War I, having served in the U.S. Army.

Mr. Cheney married Emma Hutchler in 1928 at Twin Falls.

Surviving in addition to his wife are one son, Ted Cheney, Twin Falls; a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Anderson, Buhl; three brothers, Royal Cheney, Heyburn, and C. H. and D. M. Cheney, both Buhl; one sister, Mrs. Della Tinius Ketchum, six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Cremation funeral services will be at 4 p.m. Saturday at the Twin Falls Cemetery by Staley Cheney.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by White Mortuary.

Madrid, Spain (UPI) —

Pressed by worker militancy and public indifference, the government of King Juan Carlos has taken steps toward its promised democratization of post-franisco regime.

At a regular meeting Thursday night, the cabinet of Prime Minister Carlos Arias Navarro raised the minimum wage 23 per cent and approved changes in Spain's penal code to enlarge the rights of assembly and political affiliation.

The penal code modifications, which must be ratified by Parliament, would legalize all political parties except communist, separatist and others "whose aim is violent subversion, the destruction of lawful order or the implantation of a totalitarian regime."

President Ford nominates new defense secretary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today nominated Thomas S. Gates Jr., defense secretary during the Eisenhower administration, as the new U.S. envoy to China.

"This is a very, very important post," Ford said in announcing Gates' nomination. "We feel that our relations with the Peoples Republic of China are of the utmost importance and it is essential with any nation throughout the world."

"I confirmed" by the Senate, Gates would succeed George Bush, who left the Peking post in December to take over as the new CIA director. Ford said he will ask the Senate shortly to approve giving Gates the rank of ambassador.

Church's bid hurts liberals

By United Press International
 Morris Udall, the self-styled lone hope of progressive Democrats, says Frank Church's sudden candidacy diminishes the chances of a liberal becoming president.

"I've come a long way to be the leading progressive candidate," the Arizona congressman said in Milwaukee. "It hurts to have a candidate come in after the hard work has been done. It confuses and complicates the campaign."

Church insisted, however, that his candidacy announced Thursday in the Idaho mountains is viable.

"It's never too late, nor are the odds ever too great, to try," the Idaho senator said.

Reagan is campaigning for Tuesday's North Carolina primary, tried to reverse the tide of suggestions he withdraw from the GOP.

Funds denied minor hopefuls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has taken the first step to crack down on taxpayer subsidies for minor presidential candidates. It could still have an impact on this year's race for the Democratic nomination.

The Senate voted Thursday to deny federal matching funds to candidates who fail to get 10 per cent of the vote in two consecutive primaries. They could begin dipping into the federal purse again by getting 20 per cent of the vote in a subsequent primary.

The proposal — tentatively part of a revised campaign reform law which has yet to clear Congress — was adopted as the Federal Elections Commission announced it has approved another $583,273.68 in matching funds for seven candidates.

The cut-off is designed to go into effect as soon as the bill is enacted. It could, therefore, affect later primaries this year.

The amendment was proposed by Sen. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, and accepted by voice vote.

"I believe the majority of Americans don't want to see their public funds go to dead candidates to keep them alive," Taft said.

Had the amendment been in effect, payments would have stopped for anti-abortion candidate Ellen McCormack after the Vermont primary March 2 and for Sargent Shriver, Milton Shapp, Birch Bayh and Fred Harris after Florida the following week.

Bayh quit after Massachusetts; Shapp after Florida, and Shriver after Illinois. But Harris and McCormack have not withdrawn.

Thursday's certification raised the total given 14 presidential candidates to $11.6 million. The government matches any contribution of $250 or less after the candidate first raises $100,000, including $5,000 in each of 20 states.

The money went to President Ford, $232,865.36; his challenger for the GOP nomination, Ronald Reagan, $83,045.50; front-running Democrat Jimmy Carter, $149,336.82; Morris Udall, $68,412; Bayh, $15,942.10; Shapp, $8,003.50; and Scler, $5,620.

Senate takes 3-day breather

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate is taking a three-day breather from its confusing, sometimes disorderly, debate on changes in the federal election campaign law.

Its first three days of action on the bill ended Thursday after a filibuster threat forced withdrawal of the last of several Republican leadership efforts to attract a majority to their substitute proposal.

The GOP leaders had proposed a bill which would do little more than simply extend the present Federal Election Commission, but with the new rules appointed by the President.

A Supreme Court order, to do that is what brought the matter back to Congress in January. The court said the commission could not perform executive functions while half its members were named by Congress.

President Ford recommended that he simply reappoint the present members for the balance of the election year, but major changes in FEC procedure are being pushed in both House and Senate.

After one extension of time, the Supreme Court has set a Monday night deadline for Congress to meet its objections to the current law. After that the FEC would be powerless to distribute federal matching funds or enforce its regulations.

"The debate in the Senate so far has not been heated. There has been heated debate, dozens of amendments, and a confusion of motions to stop debate or limit debate or reconsider previous votes."

"At one point, changes were being offered to both the pending bill and a proposed substitute with some members unaware which version they were amending."

After the first republican substitute was defeated Thursday for the second time, 55 to 39, Cannon offered to substitute which would have had the effect of cutting off further amendments and preserving all of those previously passed. And assistant GOP leader Robert Griffin filed again to win a simple extension.

But Sen. James Allen, D-Ala., objected and started a filibuster, forcing its withdrawal. So the Senate adjourned for a long week-end to think it over.

Aide asked to help in probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's chief of staff has asked Howard Callaway, Ford's former campaign manager, to cooperate with a federal probe of his Colorado oil lease — and the White House has washed the hands of the affair.

"I feel we should not get involved with the investigation," Ford told a group of newspaper editors Thursday.

"The White House should not be involved in the investigation for obvious reasons and in fact will not be getting any reports on it," presidential press secretary Ron Messon told reporters earlier Thursday.

Callaway stepped down from his campaign post last week following allegations he tried to get federal land for the Created Butte ski resort while he was secretary of the Army last year. Attorneys sat in on the White House meeting.

SEN. FRANK CHURCH, left, D-Ida., laughs as he shakes hands with Louie Lane, leader of Gresham Senior Citizens Hot Shot Band, who greeted the senator on his arrival in Portland International Airport Thursday. Portland was the first stop on the senator's campaign tour after announcing earlier in the day he was an active candidate for the Democratic nomination for President. (UPI)

Phone equipment right listed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FCC made public Thursday a decision expanding the subscriber's right to use telephone equipment not manufactured by the agency that non-AT&T equipment likely would be inferior, would lower the quality of service to subscribers and might even damage the nation's telephone system.

Thursday's ruling did away with those exemptions. AT&T suggested during lengthy proceedings before the agency that non-AT&T equipment likely would be inferior, would lower the quality of service to subscribers and might even damage the nation's telephone system.

In the second phase of a case involving the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.'s longtime monopoly over the equipment it would permit subscribers to connect to telephone lines, the Federal Communications Commission ruled 5-2 that AT&T must allow the use of equipment made by others for most home and business phone uses.

In November the FCC ruled subscribers could use such subsidiary devices as extension phones and telephone recorders not manufactured by AT&T and without having to use AT&T connecting devices.

But, it exempted the main

A positive step for fishermen

On the eve of tomorrow's 'fish-in' to protest the plight of Idaho's salmon and steelhead population, the governors of Oregon and Washington have spoken up for their neighboring states.

Oregon Gov. Robert Straub and Washington Gov. Daniel Evans now say they will press to have Idaho included in the Columbia River Compact — the single most important step Idaho could hope for to preserve its salmon and steelhead.

Idaho has sought entry into the Columbia River Compact for 10 years. Until now, Oregon and Washington haven't listened to the requests. Their change in attitude is applauded.

The Columbia River Compact is the document which outlines what fishing rights Washington and Oregon have on the Columbia River. Included in the compact are the terms of commercial fishing and an outline of how many anadromous fish must be allowed to travel upstream.

Organizers of tomorrow's 'fish-in' on the Salmon River should be cheered by the news that Idaho may at last get into the Columbia River Compact.

While entry into the compact won't mean Idaho's salmon will return overnight, it does mean the state can make a claim on a certain number of downstream salmon which must be allowed to travel back upstream, improving the prospects that salmon fishing will return to Idaho.

Nuclear Power Plants Called Dangerous

Salt Lake Tribune
Scientists, it was once widely believed, base their conclusions on hard facts arrived at after thorough testing under controlled conditions.

Now, when you can get a group of respected scientists declare that nuclear power plants are a definite threat to human safety while other, equally prestigious, experts contend there is, at worst, only a minimal risk.

The ongoing nuclear power plant safety debate is, thus, the latest controversy in which scientific opinion has lined up on opposing sides. Laymen who once turned to physicists, chemists, medical researchers and other specialists for the unvarnished truth can no longer expect to get it.

Obviously, the truth whatever it may be hasn't changed. Facts are facts. Why can't competent scientists agree on such things as whether the Concorde supersonic airliner will endanger the ozone layer or on whether certain artificial sweeteners cause cancer in humans?

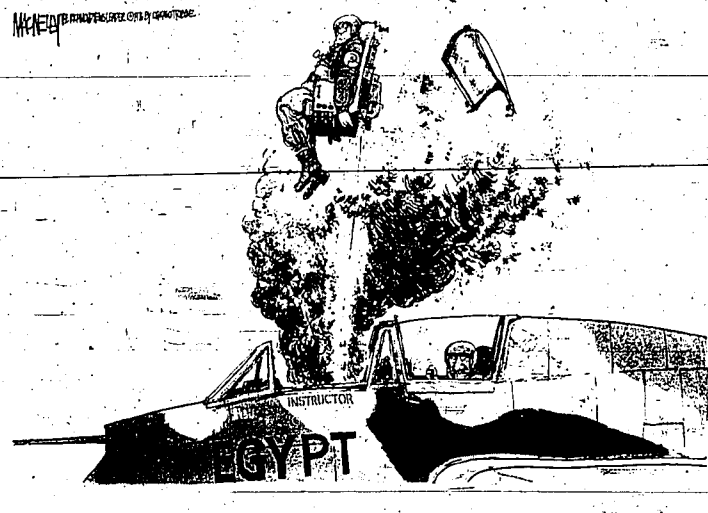

In a large extent the conflict in expert opinion springs from a single judgment rather than dispute over scientific data. Scientists on opposing sides of an issue such as the Concorde might agree on the data at hand and even on the effect it produces. But one will see the results as conclusive while the other does not. Each then becomes an advocate for his opinion, and debate ensues.

Separation of opinion, value judgment, from fundamental scientific evidence is the crux of the present expert vs. expert dilemma. One solution currently receiving attention is the so-called "peer review" system.

The court, made up of qualified and impartial persons, would have evidence in support of and against conflicting conclusions in a given issue. There would be cross-examination of witnesses and other judicial trappings. After weighing all data the judges would publish a report identifying what they considered established scientific facts in the matter. Ergo, the truth at last?

Not quite. The science court is an intriguing proposal. But like countless other schemes before it, the court, we suspect, looks better on paper than it will in practice. The judges' verdict would lack the critical element of finality.

In a court of law a judge or jury's decision can be accepted without further question even if it is wrong because in such instances only the immediate parties usually suffer. But a science court, depending on the case, for example, would not only remove the threat of ozone depletion if it exists by concluding that there is no danger. And a mistaken conclusion could injure billions. The court's ruling, therefore, might always be subjected to doubt.

Rehabilitation views stated

Editor, Times-News:
Dear fellow citizens:

This is to make myself known regarding recent comment on our Sen. Jim Yost's attitude on the costly rehabilitation program recommended.

All power to you Jim — we need more young folks like you — older ones, too!

We know you perhaps know better than most people on this issue. We have known you all your life and are glad you expressed your views, whatever.

Whenever people make themselves drunk it seems they ought to feel big enough to get straightened out the same way. They had THAT desire, and all they need do is have a desire to live a life that is worthy of the beauty of life.

All about we can see there are many who choose to walk a straight line in correspondence to the beauties of our countryside. So who is so small to admit they are too feeble to go straight? Led by their dad (and) by their own hands. Surely they are big enough to stand firm and lead themselves from it also.

— One would think that those who are "spineless" do you think? Would any of them feel proud for their families to see them in this state? Would any of them care to view their conduct on the screen? Hear what they say? No. I can't believe they would.

Getting "blasted" isn't "big" — by any means! Anyone in need of rehabilitation for whatever the bad habit cannot be helped unless they have that burning desire to leave it alone. So regardless of what is being said of this being an "illness" will much too much emphasis as this also creates an excessive fear among them they feel, and when big men and women do such big things — and then admit they are controlled by a little habit, and their downfall started with a tiny "sip." No, we cannot have such weaknesses surely.

I would advise if anyone may have this desire creating a dependency toward this habit — breathe a tiny prayer: "God help me help myself to be big and strong, and upright." If He never has turned a deaf ear to our needs; NO, never feel He doesn't care! We, too, do.

I could write a book on these things, good never has good come out of it. Why add fixation of which we all ready have, to much far something that cannot be corrected, anyway, without "big people admitting they have a need" and accompany it by a determination to let something alone that does them harm?

Rehabilitation — whatever it may be — cannot be without a determination from within the individual to rid themselves of the bad habit whatever it is.

So the place to start is each individual, the same place the habit started with and within. In the first place. So let us see our big men and women being big, strong and upright! That is as they surely want to be.

More power to you Jim for your having the intestinal fortitude to speak out on this strong issue. We are behind you on it. We have seen enough of its damages to homes and families and individuals to know what we are saying. Do believe me. Most sincerely for rehabilitation from within each heart.

Farmer plight ignored

Editor, Times-News:
You keep saying "Write me a letter and give me your opinion" and although I hate to because I know it is a total waste of my time — the old "dander" is up and here goes.

I cannot tell you how the secretary of the Times-News has failed to tell the story of the real minority in our midst. The paper is full of everything from "soup to nuts" and the story of the farmer problem is omitted from anything but the back page — not even the back page — just the farm news.

The President of the United States and the secretary of agriculture pleaded and promised and carried on that the farmer was the man of the hour and was to lead the country out of the food crisis and raise 100 million to sell to alleviate starvation and all that jazz! In exchange Mr. Farmer was to receive a free market.

Mr. Farmer raised a great crop of wheat beautiful golden grain. And the expense of raising this grain was costly. The seeds were high, the fertilizer, the highest it was in ages, and the machinery to plant and to harvest was way out of sight! Gas has doubled and labor has advanced. But, no matter, the market was there and free and just waiting for the harvest!

— And then — along comes Mr. Meany — and he exerted the market place and the consumers and got to the President and the populace. He was the noble knight who screamed "If we sell the wheat, we will 'tilt' short ourselves, and bread will go to a dollar a loaf, etc and etc."

The President listened, and the people listened — and the secretary of agriculture was told to clean up and quit reminding the combined agitators to remember promises, etc.

And a big fat embargo was slapped on grain going to Russia and we lost a bundle of sales — Russia needed feeding and went shopping elsewhere. And Mr. Meany — he was not worried about the consumer — his big deal was to control the market for the stock market — the boys who had the ships.

It seems that it is planned to lead their own ships and save a little money. Mr. Meany had his own axe to grind and he did not give a hoot who suffered or who he did to the President or anyone as long as he got what he wanted.

— Wheat dropped exactly one-half on the market places. The price of bread has not gone down a dime, a cent or a half-cent. The wheat that is in bread is not that important. There is just not that much wheat in a loaf of bread. But it sure is hot news when the price of farm products go up but no front page propaganda when the price goes down!

So far, this area has been a prosperous area — due to the fact that our business here on the farm — the farmer — is the center of the economy. People are coming into our part of the country from other areas of unemployment and its problems. But the farm people are facing grave problems — the market has gone down with the wheat. And now, our leaders are using food as an international bargaining tool. The food dollar has made the value of our dollar on world trade important, and talk of the use of food has come from Kissinger for a negotiating point.

"This is our product we raised and we can't sell it. We sit on our bushels of grain and watch the mess, and pay storage, and interest, and wonder what to do next."

In the past few days there has been a step-up in the news coming over the air that the farmer was treated badly and there is evidence that the President is trying to patch up his image with the boys on the farm.

But the biggest disappointment to me has been the Times-News. It seems to me that you have not given equal time to what is happening "down on the farm."

MRS. JOE WISECAVER

Editor's note: Most of the farm-related stories mentioned were carried on p. 1 of the Times-News.

Sadat move risky, wins nod from US

© Chicago Daily News:
WASHINGTON — From this capital's standpoint, President Anwar Sadat could not have better timed his move to abrogate Egypt's friendship treaty with Russia.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, who has shrewdly cultivated Sadat's friendship and helped to separate him from both the Russians and the more extremist Arab leaders, is trying hard to persuade Congress to approve the so-called six C-130 transport planes to Cairo.

To deny the sale, Kissinger has argued, would humiliate Sadat (as though he has been promised the planes) and President Ford. Ultimately, it might drive him back into the arms of the Soviets, Kissinger has contended.

At the moment, Kissinger maintains that would not serve the interests of the United States or Israel. The Israelis remain suspicious, however, claiming that Sadat has long since denounced the Soviet treaty and that his actions may have been timed to convulse with the congressional debate over arms sales to Egypt.

The Israelis are said to fear that the six C-130's, which reportedly cost about $70 million, would be the start of a steady supply of military hardware, such as tanks, guns, and fighter aircraft. Kissinger has assured pro-Israeli groups in Congress that only the C-130 sale is contemplated now and that it has no effect on the military balance in the Middle East. Congress would be fully consulted before other arms were supplied, he has said.

PETER LISAGOR

From a political standpoint, Sadat's action in cancelling the Soviet friendship treaty and threatening to close Egyptian ports and naval facilities to Russian warships is bold and risky, but some officials here see it as utterly predictable.

The Egyptian leader has reported rumors with the Russians when they intervened to prevent India from supplying Egypt with spare parts for the MiG-21s the Russians had supplied the Egyptian air force.

Sadat has been warned by the Russians that he would "bear grave responsibility" for his actions. Egypt still has these economic links with Russia, which, among other things, has underwritten the Helwan steel plant and other vital Egyptian enterprises.

The Russians also can use Syria and Libya against Egypt. It is noted here, however, that he wants and believes he is making his mark with his divorce from Moscow. Sadat has not assured a peaceful future for himself, diplomatic officials here emphasize.

"He's not out of the woods, by a long shot," one official said.

Sadat apparently has decided to stick the arms he wants and believes he is making his mark with his divorce from Moscow. Sadat has not assured a peaceful future for himself, diplomatic officials here emphasize.

Sadat's decision to reaffirm his longstanding ties with Russia is seen here as a bold move by Kissinger's Middle Eastern policies and approach. Even Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a Democratic presidential candidate and consistent critic of Kissinger, has applauded the policy that encourages policy operative industries.

But no realistic policy operative industries have been able to participate against Sadat in ways that will contribute to trust and stability in the area. Nor does he overrate Kissinger's ability to help Sadat in his quest for arms, given the strong Israeli opposition to it.

Food stamps find support

Editor, Times-News:
Once again the county commissioners say they will no longer support the food stamp program.

Cassia County has approximately 2,200 senior citizens who are eligible for the program plus many disabled old and lame people citizens. These people make up a major portion of our citizens who deserve help, particularly seniors, and mothers trying to rear their children to become our future leaders, etc.

It's not easy to even accept the stamps when eligible. These people must swallow much pride and feel like beggars when the commissions, especially, continue to reduce the program. You'd think the administrators would be coming out of their own pockets.

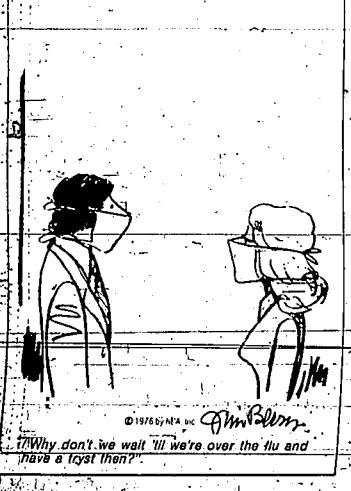

They should put themselves in the shoes of the needy people and then for sure they'd have more compassion.

I worked for Mr. Beck in the IRS during the war picking stamps. It was a far different person then. We work back more than one year and worked for all the Becks, Walkers and Bingham's — all successful farmers and church people.

Let the church (LDS) take care of their own as they are obligated to do and let the county carry the rest of the load. It has a far different person then. We work back more than one year and worked for all the Becks, Walkers and Bingham's — all successful farmers and church people.

I have been on welfare 13 years and raised three prominent citizens and have a 10-year old who will be the same. Also my property and sales tax.

Idaho legislature hopes to end session tonight

BOISE (UPI) — The 43rd Idaho Legislature neared the end of its second regular session today, hoping to call it quits by nightfall after 75 days of "caretaker" legislation.

Senators planned to debate the need for raising more money for highways while the House braced itself for another floor fight on abortions.

The House sent to the Senate 46-24 Thursday a bill to impose on diesel fuel a tax increase comparable to the one-cent per gallon hike already approved on gasoline.

This brought out of committee in the Senate two other House bills — one to shift funds and the other to raise fees for motor vehicle registration. These three bills — with the gas tax increase already signed into law — would produce a net $8.2 million increase for the state highway fund.

Senate Minority Leader C. C. Chase, D-St. Maries, is opposed to the diesel tax increase. But he agreed — after agreement from the majority that the fund shift and registration fee bills would be sent to the floor — to suspending rates so it can be debated and considered by the Senate.

In the House, a move to amend a Health and Welfare appropriation to remove a prohibition against spending public money on non-therapeutic abortions was tabled. But opponents of the prohibition vowed to battle again.

This battle, depending on how many want to change the bill, could block final adjournment until Saturday.

Meantime, the House had up for one more look today a bill to allow police officers to detain for 24 hours without a hearing persons whose mental attitude might pose danger to themselves or others.

This one passed the House once but was reconsidered just before the House adjourned for the day Thursday.

Elsewhere on the legislative scene —

The House amended down by $1,000 and then approved a Senate bill to raise the pay of public utilities commissioners. The Senate wanted to hike them to $26,000 a year from $21,500 but the House reduced that to $25,000. The Senate must concur in the amendment and then act on the bill again for it to pass.

A Senate-initiated pay raise for Supreme Court justices and district judges made it through the House 62-2. It would raise the justices to $31,500 from $30,000 and the district judges to $29,500 from $27,000.

US secretary to officiate

BOISE (UPI) — When Secretary of the Navy J. William Middendorf III arrives in Boise Friday, Jerry Ford will be waiting for him to "do the honors" of swearing him in for another six-year hitch.

When Engleman I.C. Ford, a recruiter in Pendleton, Ore., learned that the Secretary of the Navy would be in the area he asked if Middendorf would officiate at his re-enlistment. The secretary will be in Boise to meet with the local Navy League, Navy recruiters and Navy and Marine Corps reserves.

1975 appeals top previous records

BOISE (UPI) — The annual report from the Idaho Supreme Court released Thursday said more new appeals were filed in 1975 than in any other year since reliable records have been maintained.

The report from the court's administrative office said that case filings in both 1974 and 1975 rose at a slower rate than in the early 1970's. The court is hopeful that there is a trend away from the sharp increases which occurred in 1971, 1972 and 1973.

On the criminal side, the number of alcohol-related driving cases decreased by 15.5 per cent in 1975 and the number of drug abuse complaints filed in Idaho decreased by 29 per cent for the second straight year. Court officials said they were unsure whether the figures indicate a decrease in alcohol and drug abuse activities. Other agencies have shown a decrease in reported arrests for alcohol-related driving offenses.

Lawyer magistrates were hired in a number of communities at the request of local officials upon retirement of a number of lay magistrates and for the first time since court reorganization there are more lawyer magistrates than lay magistrates in that division — 34 to 30.

Chaburn feted

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. J. Vard Chaburn, R-Albion, and the J. R. Simplot Company of Caldwell were honored Wednesday by the Idaho Public Lands Resource Council as Idaho Conservationists of the Year.

Chaburn was recognized as the outstanding individual winner in the first presentation of the award; the Simplot company won in the group category and industrial division.

Simplot's nomination was based on its Caldwell water treatment program where extensive research at the potato processing plant enabled them to achieve an Environmental Protection Agency target of zero discharge of effluents into the Boise River within nine year leadway.

Chaburn won the award for his years of leadership in the legislature in conservation efforts and extensive work in private life in such areas as range management and tree planting.

Detention mullied

BOISE (UPI) — The House passed 44-26 and then reconsidered Thursday a bill which would allow a police officer to detain a person for 24 hours if he had the individual's state of mind was a threat to himself or others.

Rep. Dan Emery, D-Boise, led the move to reconsider the measure 43-21 and hold it on the debate calendar overnight for another look on Friday.

He said that while he has a grave concern for those persons who are mentally or emotionally unstable "I have a graver concern for a law that let's me declare my enemy has something wrong with him and call the police."

"Please consider the burden you place on the innocent to correct the guilty," Emery said.

Rep. Rudy Andersen, R-Boise, one of the backers of the bill, said the measure was drawn after a lot of study by the sheriff's association and is needed to protect society.

But Emery countered: "Whenever the police start drawing the law then we've got to be nervous."

Candidates listed for Gem presidential primary

BOISE (UPI) — Secretary of State Pete Cenarrusa announced the listing Thursday of two Republicans, seven Democrats and two American Party candidates for Idaho's first presidential preference primary ballot scheduled May 25.

Cenarrusa said the ballot in Idaho is substantially the same as the ballots that will be used in Oregon and Nevada.

The deadline for candidates to be placed on the ballot is March 28 and he said candidates still could be included by submitting petitions with 3-104 qualified electors of the state of Idaho.

Republicans who will be on the ballot are President Gerald Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Democrats include former Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia, Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, former Sen. Fred Harris of Iowa, Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington, Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona and Gov. George Wallace of Alabama.

American Party candidates are John R. Harick, a former Louisiana congressman and Thomas Anderson, national chairman of the party and the 1972 vice presidential candidate for the party.

A statement released by Cenarrusa said he included members of a qualified party in Idaho and who have attained national candidate status. He said Gov. Jerry Brown of California was not listed because he presently is a California candidate and not a national candidate.

The seven Democratic candidates all are listed on the Oregon ballot.

Longtime Idaho newspaper publisher dies in Boise

BOISE (UPI) — The former owner of the Idaho Statesman, Jim Brown, 76, died Thursday at his home in Boise after a long illness.

The Statesman in honoring Brown as a distinguished citizen on the 100th anniversary of the paper described him as "a musing" of the paper for 25 years who was a working publisher although he did not assume that title.

His peers of the time called Brown a legend in Idaho's newspaper publishing circles.

He became manager of Statesman in 1946, helped to acquire the old Capital News in 1947, and inherited the Statesman newspapers in 1959 on the death of Margaret Cobb Allshie, owner and publisher for more than 30 years.

Brown on Oct. 1, 1963, sold the then Idaho Daily Statesman, Idaho Sunday Statesman and the Idaho Evening Statesman to Federated Publications of Battle Creek-Mich. The evening edition was abandoned and the morning paper was purchased by Gannett Company, Inc., of Rochester, N.Y.

He was born May 1, 1899, in Yale, Mich. His formal education ended after a few months of high school and he learned the printing trade from his father. From 1917 until 1927 he worked on the Post-Huron, Mich., "Times Herald" and the "Battle Creek Inquirer and News."

Brown was a philanthropist from the time he became general manager of the Statesman until his death. He insisted on anonymity in his philanthropic activities which included assistance to the numerous community endeavors.

He provided the funds, for example, to refurbish Christ Church, the oldest Episcopal Church in Idaho, and its placement on the campus of the former Boise Junior College which later became Boise State University.

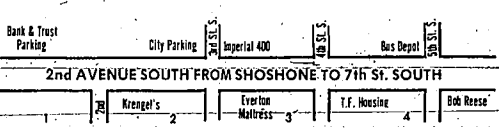

When he sold the Statesman in 1963, Brown was deluged with letters and good wishes from persons and organizations including The Lewiston Morning Tribune which called Brown a "personally retiring but extremely vigorous executive who has become something of a legend in journalistic and political circles in Idaho."

"Despite his determination to stay out of the spotlight of personal publicity, he became one of the most influential and colorful men in Idaho. He was noted for his firm and sometimes fiery opinions on political issues."

Brown is survived by a daughter, Margaret Eisenbauer, Carson City, Nev.; a brother, Colin Brown, Saginaw, Mich.; three grand children, seven great-grandchildren and nephews and nieces.

Services are pending at Alden-Waggamer Chapel in Boise.

Ex-agent tries to sell book

EXHIBIT (UPI) — Former CIA Agent Victor Marchetti is trying to sell his book, "The CIA and The Cult of Intelligence" on the college lecture circuit, along with a couple of ideas about how he thinks the agency should be run.

Marchetti said Thursday he thought the CIA should be divided into two parts — one for gathering information and the other for spy missions.

Marchetti, 40, who quit the CIA after 14 years, said there really should be two separate agencies, both directly responsible to the President and Congress.

Jennings to quit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Paul Jennings, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers, says his health forces him to resign before the union goes into contract negotiations.

Jennings, 58, officially will step down June 1.

A IUP spokesman said Wednesday Jennings' resignation won't affect the negotiations. The union's contracts with General Electric and Westinghouse expire June 27 and July 1.

Rampton steps down

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Calista Rampton says he will not run for an unprecedented fourth term as Utah's Governor despite a public opinion poll that puts him way ahead of the other candidates.

Rampton told reporters Wednesday he thought the Democratic Party could retain the governorship without him.

After 12 years in office, Rampton said he wants to go back to private law practice and improve his ball game.

Extension eyed

HONOLULU (UPI) — Adm. Noel Gayler, commander-in-chief of American Forces in the Pacific, said he thinks the U.S. can get an extension on the Saturday deadline for reaching an agreement on whether American troops can stay in Thailand.

Gayler said Wednesday negotiations with the Thais over a force of 6,000 persons were proceeding satisfactorily.

"This is not in a difficult situation right now. Their parliament has been dissolved, elections are scheduled and they are having trouble with insurgents," he said.

Customer makes amends

HOWELL, Mich. (UPI) — Bruce Guilmette, 22, left the Clock Restaurant in Howell last week without paying his tab.

Thursday, Guilmette spent three hours washing dishes at the restaurant — part of his sentence handed down by District Judge David Gee.

Gee fined Guilmette $10 for defrauding an innkeeper, ordered him to pay $5 for the meat he consumed and directed him to make amends for his misdeed by washing dishes from noon until 2 p.m.

Advanced registration asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford asked the Senate Thursday to approve an agreement calling for all objects launched by the United States into outer space to be registered in advance with the United Nations.

For the past 10 years, nations have been asked voluntarily to register with the world body objects sent into outer space. The new Convention on Registration of Objects Launched into Outer Space would require U.N. member states to give all information on launches to the U.N. secretary general.

Greeks give solution

ATHENS (UPI) — Greek politicians say the solution to Cyprus' identity crisis is not division but a mixing of Greek and Turkish populations.

Former Premier Panayotis Camellopoulos told newsmen a solution of the Cyprus problem should lead to co-existence, not the separation of the two communities.

Camellopoulos said the Turkish minority should be given special rights and guarantees "to make them united and equal."

Ford gets A-plus

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Presidential politics colors every dollar spending decision by the federal government. But economist Walter Heller says the Ford Administration has been unusually good about watching the budget.

Heller, former chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, said Ford is the first president in recent years to fight the temptation of free spending during recession campaigns.

Scouts sighted, swallows due in Capistrano today

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (UPI) — Romantics take heart: Ignore the unfeeling cynics. This is your day, the day for those who feel that charming legends, like secret dreams, are true.

Today is the day the famous swallows, started in legend and song, come back to Capistrano.

They almost always do, regularly as clockwork, on March 19, St. Joseph's day.

The legend says the swallows come winging landward and nests in the caves of the old mission church — built in 1776, the oldest existing building in California — because the Spanish padres gave them a home there. The arrival ends a month-long, 6,000-mile journey from Argentina, where the flock spends the winter.

A spokesman for the mission said the "scout birds" sighted regularly each March 19, appeared as usual Thursday.

Ignore the skeptics who say the "scouts" are birds that have been there for weeks, or perhaps never left. "These birds are always there," proclaimed an impassioned sheriff's deputy, less interested in the birds than the crush of tourists they bring. The legend says the swallows once made their home in the caves of an inn, but the annoyed innkeeper evicted their nests. A passing Franciscan priest took pity. True to the traditions of the order's founder, animal-loving St. Francis Assist, he urged the birds to "come to the mission and we will give you shelter."

Ignore the skeptics who say the swallows apparently lived in the nearby cliffs for centuries before the white man came and would return to their ancestral nesting ground whether there was a mission church there or not.

The return brings out thousands of swallow watchers — the town fathers predict up to 25,000 this year — drawn by the romance of the popular ballad of the 1930s, "When the Swallows Come Back to Capistrano."

Turn a deaf ear to the skeptics who point out that although the swallows may follow their ancient timetable to the day, the parade and other festivities which bring in cash-seeking tourists have been scheduled for Saturday, when more can attend.

Pay no heed to those observers who say the swallows straggle in in disorderly groups over a period of weeks.

Nevada strike continues

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Hotel managers have endorsed the government's call to submit to binding arbitration to end an eight-day-old casino strike that cuts deeply into the state's tax revenues.

"There is simply no way the hotels can abdicate their responsibility to manage," said the reply to Gov. Mike O'Callaghan by an organization of 15 hotel-casinos Thursday.

"We are responsible to our shareholders for increases in labor costs, and simply cannot shift that responsibility to persons who are not accountable to the owners."

O'Callaghan, immediately ordered state Labor Commissioner Stan Jones to hold round-the-clock conciliation meetings with management and union leaders, which began Thursday night.

Bicentennial 'smile'

MIAMI (UPI) — For $150, Miami dentist David Vine will give denture wearers a bicentennial smile.

Vine says for that price he will make "white and blue" dentures with stars and stripes. And for some extra money, he'll engrave "1976" on the teeth.

A man who turned his dentures will "see dentistry back 200 years," said he hasn't had any takers yet.

'Diet' sparks prisoner move

WOODLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Manson cultists Sandra Good and Susan Murphy, convicted of conspiring to mail death threat letters, have been transferred from the Sacramento County Jail to the Yolo County Jail because of the food.

John Moulds, who served as co-counsel for Miss Good and Miss Murphy, said Thursday the women were taken to the jail in nearby Woodland because the Sacramento Jail could not satisfy their vegetarian diets.

Moulds said the women at one time considered filing a suit against Sacramento County because its jail could not provide them with a vegetarian diet. He said the Yolo County jail agreed to provide such a diet.

Mayor upset by permit charges

JEROME — Mayor Charles Hancock became extremely upset this week when he learned the city would have to reduce its charges for building permits on trailers and modular homes because of state orders.

Following the reading of building permits at the regular City Council meeting, Lynn Bingham, fire chief and building inspector, remarked that if the council had not noticed the amount of the building permits for the trailer approved was less than it has been.

Bingham said he has been told by state officials that the trailers have been inspected at the factory and a building permit was charged by the state. Bingham said this information also applies to the modular homes, such as those Cascade and Royal Homes. He said that it would be a double building permit charge if the city maintains its past price schedule.

Hancock said there was "no way" the city was going to charge the guy who builds on the site more for a building permit than the guy who brings in a house or double trailer. Speaking to Hancock, Hancock said "have you got this in writing? We are not going to do anything until I

Communication needed

GOODING — Lack of communication with the public already has surfaced as one of the biggest needs in the Gooding Elementary School's current needs assessment project.

Edna Gilboas, school principal, and Chairman of Committee members Tuesday night "saw through" what we were doing a pretty good job in this field, but we found we're not.

He and Sharon Illnes, member of the steering committee for the needs assessment project, outlined the purpose of the study and had chamber members fill out questionnaires on the school's effectiveness.

Mrs. Illnes said the committee wants to obtain opinions from a cross section of the community to see what the strengths and weaknesses of the school system are, and then the group will formulate a plan to meet these needs.

This project, currently underway in all school districts throughout the state, will eventually serve as a tool for accreditation of elementary schools, Gilboas said.

Presidential primary signup starts in Jerome

JEROME — Registration for the forthcoming presidential primary election, scheduled for May 25, has begun in Jerome.

Virginia Bicketts, county clerk, said residents can register to vote with their precinct registrars until May 11. "It's important for people to realize that if they have moved to another precinct or if they have even moved to another address within their present precinct they must register to vote again. This also applies to anyone who has moved into the area from somewhere else or has changed their names," Mrs. Bicketts said.

She noted that if they are not registered they will not be able to vote in the upcoming primary election.

"If anyone has any question about whether or not they are registered they should contact their precinct registrar or her office."

The following people have been appointed to serve as registrars by the Jerome County Commissioners.

For the Bishop precinct, Mrs. Elton Capps, 220 East Ave. D, Canyonside precinct, Ruth Martens, Rt. No. 3, courthouse precinct, Ruth Wallington, 600 First Ave. East, Falls City precinct, Lorna Werner, Rt. No. 3, Northeast precinct, Mrs. Stephen Hagler, Rt. 1, Northwest, Joyann Hall, Rt. 1, Box 13, Greenwood precinct, Joyce Bragge, 727 East Ave. G, and southwest, Mrs. Roberts Harding, Rt. 2, all Jerome.

In the east end of the county registrars for the Eden precincts are Leona Rogers, Box 284, Eden, The Greenwood precinct, Mrs. John Papp, Rt. 2, Box 104A, Hazelton, and for the Hazelton precinct, Mrs. Edith Crainner, Box 136, Hazelton.

In addition to $20,000 general damages the plaintiffs seeks $300 damages to the cycle, $1,500 in wages lost by Barsness and $3,700 in current and future medical expenses.

Jerome council adopts budget

JEROME — The Jerome City Council, under suspension of the rules, adopted a $1,462,329 budget for the city for 1976.

While over 40 people attended the City Council meeting Tuesday night, no one in the audience voiced any objection to the budget during the budget hearing.

Although it was suggested earlier in the meeting that perhaps the city should take a closer look at where the money appropriated in the street division of the budget was going, since in the opinion of

TF man guilty of forgery

TWIN FALLS — Marion Kessler, 21, Twin Falls, was found guilty of forgery Thursday judgment by Fifth Judicial District Court jury.

He was charged with forging a check on the account of Sarah E. Bell in the amount of $12 and cashing it. The check was made out to Kessler. The jury deliberated approximately five hours before returning the verdict.

Donald Gene Ballard, 29, 1414, charged with burglary at the Kingsbury Pharmacy Feb. 15, 1976, and to charges of delivery of a controlled substance, pleaded guilty to both counts in District Court Friday.

A pre-sentence investigation was granted by the court.

Richard Bruce Mausfield, Twin Falls changed his earlier plea of innocent to guilty on charges of possession of a controlled substance.

Richard Bruce Mausfield, Twin Falls, with intent to deliver, He was also granted a pre-sentence investigation by the court.

Veterans benefits reported

TWIN FALLS — Veterans and veterans dependents in Twin Falls County received $663,065 in federal and $3,743 in state benefits during 1975.

The Veterans Administration reports that the county's veteran population at 6,302. The benefits are not automatically made, but must be applied for through the county veterans service officer, Willard Swartley. Twin Falls veterans service officer handles county applications.

Other Magic Valley counties, the number of veterans and total state and federal benefits include: Gooding County, 1,229 and $111,000; Blaine County, 1,149 and $111,000; Lincoln, 572 and $30,870; Comas, 127 and $19,890; Cassia, 2,311 and $139,075; Blaine, 876 and $68,640; and Mindoka County, 2,436 and $26,130.

Damages sought in accident

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man is seeking damages on behalf of his son as a result of a motorcycle and car accident last June.

In the complaint filed in Fifth Judicial District Court here, Raymond L. Barsness, guardian of John Barsness, asks $20,000 general damages as a result of a motorcycle and car accident June 17, 1975, at the corner of Martin Street and Addison Avenue.

The complaint alleges the defendant, Carol E. Schleyer, Twin Falls, drove her automobile from Martin Street into Addison Avenue colliding with the cycle operated by John Barsness. Further the complaint alleges negligence on the part of the woman.

Bombs planted near reactors

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Explosives have been planted near U.S. nuclear reactors since 1969 and bomb threats were made but not carried out in more than 100 other cases.

A spokesman for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission said dynamic tests found outside a research reactor at the University of Illinois, Urbana—in 1962—a pipe-bomb was found at the Point Beach Atomic Power Station in Wisconsin a few months before the plant began operation in late 1970.

Both were detected and defused before any explosion could occur but the spokesman was unable to supply details Thursday night.

"These are the only two incidents where explosives were actually found near the reactors."

But he said there have been more than 100 bomb threats made against nuclear power plants, research reactors and nuclear fuel fabrication plants in the past seven years.

The NRC said it had turned over a list of all threats since 1969 to a Ralph Nader organization, which requested the data under the Freedom of Information Act.

"These were all cases where somebody called the plant or made some other threat," the spokesman said. "Generally speaking, if a threat or nuclear facility gets a threat like they report it to us and we turn it over to the FBI."

Nader has been campaigning for a nationwide moratorium on new nuclear reactors, basing many of his arguments on the threat posed by terrorists who might damage a plant and let radiation escape or might break into a plant and steal bomb-grade uranium to achieve a nuclear blackmail capability.

Blacks select hopeful

CINCINNATI (UPI)— Ronald V. Dellums, three-term congressman from California, has been tapped by the leadership of a fledgling black political party to run for president this year.

The executive council of the National Black Political Assembly announced Thursday it will nominate Dellums when the organization convenes its national convention Saturday night by selecting its presidential candidate.

Although other persons can be nominated by the 3,000 delegates, Dellums is the heavy favorite to become the group's standard bearer because of his endorsement by the executive council.

Dellums, a 39-year-old black from Berkeley, Calif., was elected to Congress in 1970. He has accepted an invitation from the convention officials to speak Saturday night, indicating he probably would accept the nomination.

Highly touted in the National Black Political Assembly, controversial Dellums would have a chance against the Republican and Democratic party nominees.

CARNIVAL by Dick Turner

It's the night of the carnival, and the city is in a festive mood. The streets are lined with stalls and games, and the air is filled with the sound of laughter and music. The carnival is a tradition in the city, and it always draws a large crowd of people. The stalls are filled with a variety of games, and the prizes are always exciting. The carnival is a fun and festive event that everyone enjoys.

Hailey's proposed budget for '76 shows hike of 8%

HAILEY — The proposed Hailey city budget for 1976 shows an about 8 per cent increase over last year's budget of $135,325.

The City Council has proposed a budget totaling $201,515 for 1976.

According to City Clerk Connie Ellway, last year the city spent only $157,300 of the amount budgeted. She said overestimation of tax revenues for 1975 caused the city to have to borrow $24,283 from the sewer and water revenue fund. Sewer and water revenue funds are not included in the general fund. The city's 1975 revenue totaled $132,907.

Mrs. Ellway said the fund is used to pay about $5,000 in monthly bills and to make principal and interest payments to the Farmers Home Administration on the sewage treatment plant loan.

She said sewer and water bill revenue and new hookup fees go into the fund. The money borrowed by the city was paid back when the city's certificates of deposit matured during the year, she said.

In this year's budget, the street department portion has increased $30,000, mainly due to inclusion of snow and ice removal funds. The actual street department operating budget has increased slightly over $2,000 and city street commissioner Claude "Hop" Porter loudly demanded a higher budget during the executive portion of a City Council meeting Monday. The street department budget totals $70,000 for 1976.

The Hailey Police Department budget is set at $67,975, up from $57,335 in actual expenditures during 1975. Of the amount spent in 1975, $6,665 was designated for capital outlay. No Police department capital outlay is planned in 1976.

The parks and recreation operating expense rose to $3,330 for 1976, from $2,156 in 1975. Planned capital outlay for the parks department is down to $500 from $755 last year.

Legislative salaries rose from $4,620 to $6,350 and financial and administration expense rose to $14,990 from $13,479 last year.

The library operating expense rose to $5,320 from last year's $3,931.

The city received $50,666 in state revenue sharing funds last year, with $11,326 from the federal government. Ad valorem taxes amounted to $56,514 last year.

City officials estimate assessed valuation in the city will rise about $163,000 this year. Last year's total assessed valuation was $3,234,367.

2-year-old trips alarm

LIVINGSTON, N.J. (UPI) — A toddler's craving for a lollipop brought a squad of policemen to the Orange Savings Bank Wednesday.

The boy, 2-year-old Michael Weinberg of Lackawanna, crawled away from his grandmother's side to reach for a box of lollipops behind a bank officer's desk.

Suddenly, four police cars pulled up to the bank.

It seems that Michael accidentally tripped a silent burglar alarm while reaching for the lollipops.

Damage estimated at $400

TWIN FALLS — Peggy Greene, 266 Buchanan St., told city police Saturday someone knocked down a cinderblock wall at the rear of her property, causing an estimated $400 damage.

She said the incident occurred while she was away between December and the current time. Officers said it appeared a vehicle had been driven into the wall and then additional blocks pushed over by hand or kicked over.

Ranch manager

SALMON — Lew Meeks of Salmon has been named general manager of the Flying B and Root ranches in Idaho Primitive Area. The ranches are owned by Flying Resort Ranchers, Inc.

Meeks recently returned to Salmon from California where he was employed in the marketing and sales of electronics equipment in Palo Alto.

The Flying B Ranch is located on the Middle Fork of the Salmon River, while the Root Ranch is in Chamberlain Basin.

The two ranches have 150 members who own the ranches as shareholders.

The Flying B is the main ranch and has a capacity to handle about 45 persons.

The Root Ranch has a lodge under construction to handle up to 25 persons.

Larry Clinton is remaining as ranch manager of the Flying B. Mrs. Meeks will serve as bookkeeper.

Meeks will serve as principal of the two ranches and will operate as L and L Air Charter. The Meeks have established an office in Salmon and will reside here.

Meeks said the ranches plan to offer their services to the public as well as their members.

Nude model sues Miami magazine

MIAMI (UPI) — A 26-year-old fireman who moonlights as a model has sued a local magazine for "men who like" for printing nude photographs of him originally taken for "Playgirl."

Bill Cashman, who was a lieutenant at the time the pictures were taken two years ago for a fee of about $700, has sued the magazine Blueboy and photographer David Vance for $2 million.

Cashman said the result of publication of the pictures in Blueboy has been that he has been embarrassed, ridiculed, held up to public scorn and shame and has suffered a loss of income and a loss of earning capacity as a model.

Attorneys for Vance and for Blueboy say the complaint is "wholly without merit."

Cashman said Vance took a number of nude photographs of him in 1973, which were sent to Playgirl magazine. He said the magazine was interested, but sent its own photographer to take some more pictures, which were used in the magazine the following year.

"I thought I'd get a lot of laughs out of it—the Playgirl pictures. I figured I could meet a few stray chicks through it," he said.

Cashman said he had agreed with Vance that his pictures could be included in a photographer's book of slides.

But, he said, last year the pictures appeared in Blueboy and in two Blueboy advertisements, and now "the whole thing has gotten out of hand."

Almo society observes anniversary

ALMO — The Almo LDS Ward Relief Society observed the 14th anniversary of its organization with a dinner, social and program Tuesday night at the church cultural hall.

Robert Ward was minister of ceremonies for the program which included a patriotic talk by Bishop David Bidon, a reading by Mrs. Wallace Taylor and a musical number by Julie Durfee, Jeanette Durfee and Kathleen Durfee.

Children of the Almo School presented a musical number and drill under the direction of Mrs. Rutan Koyle.

Decorations for the hall and tables at the potluck followed a patriotic theme and were arranged by Mrs. Douglas Ward, Mrs. Gary Jones and Mrs. Carl Erickson.

Mrs. Winn Dewarson and Mrs. Kent Durfee were in charge of the program and in charge of the party were Mrs. Zenith Taylor, organization president, assisted by her counselors, Mrs. Rosemary Ward and Mrs. Bert Tracy.

Special guests attended from Vernal, Utah, a neighboring community.

Prayers were given by Jack Erickson and Rosemary Ward.

Adventists set visitors day

EDEEN — Visitors' day is scheduled for Saturday at the Eden Seventh Day Adventist Church.

A special Sabbath school program has been arranged by Mrs. Edith Carlson and will begin at 9:30 a.m. Classes for all age groups are planned.

Worship services will begin at 11 a.m. with pastor Herbert W. Stratton speaking. The services will be followed by a potluck dinner. Visitors are welcome to attend the dinner.

Visitors are always welcome at the church services. Special visitors' day programs are planned twice yearly in March and October. The church is located two blocks north of the L and I. Marker in Eden.

GF Methodists set special meeting

GLENS FERRY — A special meeting on the re-establishment of a Sunday school program will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. at Greer Hall in the Glenns Ferry-First Methodist Church.

Two guest resource leaders will be present to assist with planning.

Church members plan to purchase two road signs which read, "Give Thanks for your freedom, ATTEMPT CHURCH." The signs cost about $10.

JWJL discusses women's lib

FILER — Mrs. Reuben Lerman led the topic discussion on the Women's Liberation Movement at the Pioneer Lutheran Women's Association luncheon meeting at the March 17 meeting.

Mrs. Walter Mueller and Mrs. Arthur Egbert were hostesses for the meeting in the fellowship hall.

Rev. R. C. Mijby presented the opening devotional service. Mrs. Harvey Maxson, vice president, presided at the business meeting.

Mrs. Dol Butterfield and Mrs. Inez Schlangue were appointed delegates to the LWAL convention in Still Lake City in May. Mrs. Elmer Haber will serve as alternate.

The group donated $50 to Christy Gregg who will four Germany this summer as an exchange student. The constitution by-laws were amended to make election of officers to be held in November. A committee will be appointed to make some necessary changes in the kitchen usage rules.

Mrs. Butterfield and Mrs. Schlangue are hostesses for the April 3 meeting. Mrs. Lerman will present the topic "Love Thy Neighbor — In Spite of Everything!"

Concert planned in Twin Falls

TWIN FALLS — Way Station Ministries and Fellowship Productions present in concert Maranatha Recording Artists "Faith Flight" tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Christian Center, 181 Morrison St. There will be no admission charge but a free-will offering will be taken.

According to a news release, Faith Flight is an established, Christ centered, full time Christian band originating in the Southern California area. The release says their music is "original and consists of various styles, mostly rock and country rock. The band consists of Kip/Scoones, electric guitar and vocals, Jack Merenda, electric guitar and vocal, Susie Meredith, piano and vocals, James Maples, bass and vocals, Bruce Everett, drums, with Christopher Webster as sound engineer.

The Way Station Ministry staff urges everyone to attend this concert.

Declo stake holds meeting

DECILO — "Breaching the Spirit and Growing Spiritually" was the theme of the Declo Stake Relief Society leadership meeting held Friday afternoon at the stake center.

Prelude music was played by Mrs. Jay Nielson. Mrs. Del Garner of the stake Relief Society presidency conducted the meeting.

Mrs. Cleve Smith spoke on the theme. A diet was sung by Mrs. Don Jacobs and Mary Beth McCombs with Mrs. Norman Hurst as accompanist.

Singable was directed by Mrs. Gene Baxter and Mrs. Nielson as accompanist.

The theme was carried out in the cover display arranged by Mrs. Ned and the following:

Bookends and sessions were held for ward officers, and teachers directed by stake leaders.

The opening prayer was given by Nellie Christensen and discussed as from the departments.

The next business meeting will be held on April 19.

Brethren pray, shun medical aid

CORTEZ, Colo. — "Is any sick among you? Let him call for the elders of the church; and let them pray over him... and the prayer of the faith shall save the sick..." Peter 1:14.

There have been sick, fatally sick children among the several hundred members of the Church of the First Born in this small agricultural town in southwest Colorado. But, in accordance with their interpretation of the Scriptures, the congregation prays instead of seeking medical help.

A few weeks ago, a boy, 3, died of diphtheria, an acutely contagious bacterial disease of the respiratory tract. Sixteen months ago, his cousin, 4, died of the same disease. Yet the brethren of the church, which claims loose affiliation with thousands of other members in assemblies across the country, have refused immunization, as they always have. They agreed to voluntary quarantine instead.

The situation in Cortez exemplifies what public health authorities consider a nationwide problem, especially in inner cities and rural areas. In October, medical experts warned that millions of American children — perhaps one-third of the total — are not immunized against such highly contagious diseases as diphtheria, tetanus, polio and measles, leaving them susceptible to epidemics.

DR. HERB WORKS

DR. K. TEEGARDEN

PAUL BEARD

Assembly set in TF

TWIN FALLS — The 7th regional assembly of the Christian Church of South Idaho and Utah will be held March 26-28 at the Valley Christian Church in Twin Falls.

Featured speaker is Dr. Kenneth Teegarden, pastor of churches in Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas. Dr. Teegarden is general minister and president of the Christian Church — Disciples of Christ. Dr. Herb Works, Northwest Christian College, will also be speaker.

Also featured is Paul Beard who will present piano settings prior to each session.

Jehovah's Witnesses convene in Filer

FILER — Don W. Emshoff of the world headquarters of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society in Brooklyn, N.Y., arrived this week to complete arrangements for the two-day convention of Jehovah's Witnesses to be held at the Filer High School.

The convention is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday. All sessions will be in the school auditorium.

Emshoff has a long and active career in the ministry. As a district director he now covers parts of Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Washington and Wyoming. His activity includes organizing and managing numerous circuit conventions throughout the year, such as the one in Filer.

The theme of the program will be "Become Doers of the Word" based on the biblical text from James 1:22. The program will aid those in attendance to become even better "doers of the word." Those in attendance will be shown how to make improvements in their lives that will bring greater happiness now and a sure hope for a better future, according to Roy V. Shaw, Twin Falls representative for Jehovah's Witnesses.

Emshoff has the program's principal speaker will deliver the 7 p.m. Sunday public address on the thought-provoking theme "Are You Doing What God Requires of You?"

The convention program begins at 9:25 a.m. Saturday. The public is invited to all sessions. They are free and no collections are taken. Show says.

Waylighters appear in Magic Valley

Musical troupe sets MV concerts

BUHL — The Northwest Christian College "Waylighters" will appear at the Buhl Christian Church Sunday evening at 7:30.

Other appearances of the Waylighters in the Magic Valley area will be Saturday, First Christian Church, Kimberly; 7:30 p.m.; Sunday, First Christian Church, Rupert, 11 a.m.; Monday, First Christian Church, Burley; 7 p.m.; Thursday, First Methodist Church, Hagerman; Friday, First Christian Church, Gooding, and Saturday, March 27, at the Regional Assembly of the Christian Church of South Idaho, meeting at Valley Christian Church, Twin Falls.

This musical troupe is composed of nine students attending Northwest Christian College, Eugene, Ore., who travel throughout the western states representing the college. This is a special group that has sung at sacred concerts, school assemblies, youth rallies, civic clubs and church worship services. Within the group are girls and boys quartets, duos, mixed quartets, soloists and guitar artists.

Members of the group are Sue Cosgrave, Sanger, Calif.; Jeff Maguire, Portland, Ore.; Vainey Slabaugh, Beaverton, Ore.; Becky Baird, Sunny-side, Wash.; Brenda Sargent, The Dalles, Ore.; Dean Shearer, Kent, Wash.; Gary Brown, Missoula, Ore.; Doug Gaslin, Coquille, Ore.; and Dave Nelson, Albany, Ore.

The public is cordially invited to attend any of these appearances of this singing group.

LDS officers named

SHOSHONE — Mrs. Janet Sandy has been named the coordinator for the Junior Sunday school of the Shoshone LDS Ward.

She replaces Mrs. V.F. Perron who has served in the position for a number of years.

Other new officers sustained for the ward include Mrs. Joan Hansen, Junior Sunday school music director; Barbara Stoddard, Sunday school secretary, and Kenneth Patterson, Sunday school teacher.

Quartet performs

THE MARANATHA Quartet of Nampa will present two programs Sunday in area churches. The Sunday morning service will be at the Church of the Brethren, 461 Filer Ave. West, Twin Falls, at 11. The evening service at 7 will be at the First Mennonite Church in Filer.

The quartet consists of (l. to r.) Keith Miller, Phil Earnest and Lonnie Roth, all Nampa, and Lyle Miller from Boise.

The quartet is accompanied by Bob on the rhythm guitar and Lowell Yoder, from Boise, on the bass guitar. The public is invited to attend. No admission will be charged but free-will offering will be taken.

Day-to-day life in tie business

Whenever I visited my company's home office in Smithville, Ontario, I'd stop in at Apollo Knitwear which made high quality knit ties that were sold in stores all over Canada.

After a few visits to Apollo, I got to know the owner, Gordon McWayne, and one day he took me into the plant and showed me the intricacies of the two old German-made Ludwig full-fledged knitting machines.

WASHINGTON — President Ford was the center of an old-fashioned prayer meeting recently for himself and for the spiritual welfare of the nation.

Hundreds of them wept for joy as the President stepped forward at the back of the Reg. Legation, a Baptist preacher and evangelist from Palm Beach, Fla., who asked the President and others to join hands in prayer for the nation.

The gesture is in keeping with a determination by a majority of the country's nearly 40 million Evangelicals to use the Bicentennial year as a period for national prayer and repentance.

Ford stepped forward to address the conventions at the Shoreham Americana Hotel after Evie Torquist, 1, of Italy way, N. J., saying a soulful rendition of "Jesus Loves Me."

To make his evening of old-fashioned religion complete, he sang a medley of songs after he spoke which included the words, "All to Jesus I surrender — I surrender all" — a longtime favorite on the revival scene.

While the president was not the main "preacher" at the evening (Rev. Jon B. Conlan, R-Ariz., a staunch evangelist, was) he nonetheless told his "congregation" that the "faith of our fathers which sustained a young nation when it was weak and very poor — that same faith can sustain us today with the added responsibility of being the world's most prosperous and powerful nation."

Recounting the place Deity and the Scriptures had in the thinking of the Founding Fathers, Ford said, "I believe it is no accident of history, no coincidence that this nation, which declared its dependence on God even while declaring its independence from foreign domination, has become the greatest nation in the history of the world."

Ford said that in the nation's youth "We became living proof that a nation could govern themselves successfully, that the divine right of kings was a false doctrine for Americans, that in truth, all men are created equal in the sight of their creator."

Choir appears

THE Ebenezer Congregational Church in Paul will host the 46-voice Ambassador Choir from the Multnomah School of the Bible in Portland, Ore., in a program of inspirational music, under the direction of Frank Eaton. The program is scheduled for Monday at 8 p.m. at the church auditorium at Second West and Clark Street.

Many aspire to follow spiritual healer's steps

Chicago Daily News — Chicago — Maybe no one ever will take the place of the late Kathryn Kuhlman, the spiritual healer who preached to millions in person and on radio and television.

But it won't be far back as aspirants to Miss Kuhlman's crown as acknowledged queen of those evangelists who follow the yellow brick road of the "healing ministry."

Frank Baker, of Long Beach, Calif., is packing them in up and down the West Coast and has three different weekly television programs out of Los Angeles.

George Martin, publisher of New Covenant magazine, a national Pentecostal publication, said "Maybe no one will replace her," said Art Nersessian, administrator of the Full Gospel Business Men's Assn. International of Los Angeles.

Miss Kuhlman's secretary said she talked to 5,000 people in one sitting.

The Singing Shooks Baptists sponsor Singing Shooks

TWIN FALLS — The Singing Shook Family will be presenting a program of family-style gospel music at the Bible Baptist Church, 315 Shop Ave. W., Sunday.

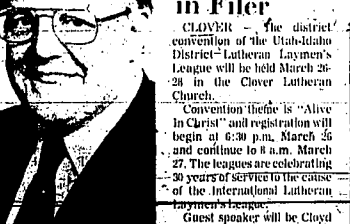

They will be singing in both the morning service at 11 and the evening service at 7:30.

According to Kenneth Rhoades, minister, this family has been presenting sacred music concerts for more than ten years in the western and mid-western states, and expanded into the eastern states in 1974.

In past years they have entertained in some of America's finest hotels, clubs and auditoriums, but have not dedicated themselves to the rebuilding of American families through their ministry in the judicious, fundamental, Bible-believing churches, working to carry out the great commission, Rhoades said.

The Shook Family instruments include the piano, organ, electric guitar, electric bass guitar and the harmonica, included in their repertoire are the old and new favorite hymns and spirituals and many songs they themselves have composed. They have recorded 11 albums, the latest being entitled, "Pleasant Valley Church."

Pastor Rhoades extends a friendly invitation for all to come, and hear the Singing Shook Family.

Lutherans set confab in Filer

CLOVER — The district convention of the Utah-Idaho District-Lutheran Laymen's League will be held March 26-28 in the Clover Lutheran Church.

The convention theme is "Alive in Christ" and registration will begin at 6:30 p.m. March 26 and continue to 8 a.m. March 27. The leagues are celebrating 30 years of service to the cause of the International Lutheran League.

Guest speaker will be Cloyd "Bud" Croft, executive director of the International L.L.L. who will report on the League's worldwide program of Christian service. A banquet is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. March 27 in the Holiday Inn, Twin Falls.

Methodists to hear former TF pastor

TWIN FALLS — Rev. Walter A. MacArthur, Tacoma, Wash., former pastor here, will speak at the Spring Fellowship dinner at the Twin Falls First United Methodist Church Tuesday and Wednesday.

REV. W.A. MACARTHUR

The potluck dinners, scheduled for 6:30 p.m., are for church members only. But the public is invited to view the talent displays being held at the church from 5 to 9 p.m. the same two evenings.

The displays of special interest, including hobbies of church members, will range from model trains, art work, antiques, wedding sculpture to needlework, sewing and plants.

The items will be displayed in 13 different rooms throughout the church, mostly on the main floor, but if too many items are received some may have to be placed on the upper floor, according to Margie Page and Irene Brown, co-chairmen. Rev. MacArthur, who served the Twin Falls Methodist Church from 1952 to 1960, is now district superintendent and resides in Tacoma. He pastored the Olympia, Wash., church, for some years after leaving Twin Falls.

Twine binding rejected

JEROME — The Lincoln County Marketing Association has announced it will not accept wool fleeces which are tied with sisal or black plastic twine.

The decision to ban fleeces tied in this manner was reached during the association's annual meeting.

At the meeting, association members were informed by Lew Williams, of the Idaho Wool Growers Association, that acceptance of such wool into the 1976 pool could cause the entire pool to be rejected by wool buyers.

Williams also said that fleeces should be taken by growers so that bits and pieces of sisal and black plastic twine are not picked up in the wash during the fleecing process.

The association is now taking a poll of the members by letter to see whether they would favor the Association handling wool socks and wool twine for the benefit of the members.

Charles Kimball has been elected president of the association with Forrest Armstrong serving as vice president and Dean Hopkins, secretary-treasurer.

Directors elected for the coming year include Kimball, and Ruben Steinmetz, both Hazelton, Armstrong, Hieffeld, Owen Bolan, Wendell, and Newton Falkerson, Jerome.

The association has approved awarding trophies to the 4-H or FFA outstanding breeding ewe at the Jerome.

Market reporter sets return to TF

TWIN FALLS — Eddie Collins, nationally known farm and market reporter, will return to Twin Falls next week to continue his beef promotion program.

Richard Parrott, Twin Falls County Farm Bureau, said Collins, who addressed the annual Farm Bureau dinner here several weeks ago, will be purchasing cattle and selecting farm youth to assist in the promotion plan when he returns Wednesday.

Collins is proposing a display of western beef cattle in New York City, with a group of 15 or more young western college students as "ambassadors."

who will contact news media in the area with reports and stories on the beef industry.

Through the program, Collins hopes to help the beef industry of America combat the importing of poor quality meat from other countries in competition with the American produced quality animals.

Parrott said there are several youth in this area who are being considered for appointments as "ambassadors." Collins will attend the Wednesday livestock sale to select a number of animals for the program.

Wintry breezes blow in Idaho

TWIN FALLS, Northside, Burley-Rupert area — A strong, cold wind is blowing through Saturday. Mostly cloudy and cool with a chance of snow flurries, through Saturday. High 50 to 55, overnight lows 20 to 25.

Outlook for Sunday — partly cloudy with a chance of precipitation.

Hailey-Camas Prairie, lower Wood River Valley — Mostly cloudy, windy and cool with a chance of a few snow flurries through Saturday. Highs near 50. Overnight lows to 15.

The outlook for Sunday — chance of a few snow flurries.

Synopsis — The storm front moving across Idaho during the night brought some heavily heavy amounts of precipitation in northern Idaho, but only light amounts were reported in the southern part of the state.

All areas of the state reported strong gusty winds, with the strongest being reported in the Magic and upper Snake River Valley. Both Burley and Pocatello had gusts to 45 to 50 miles per hour during the night. Gusty winds will continue in most areas of the state today, diminishing somewhat tonight.

Cold air is pushing eastward behind the front and stockmen's and traveler's advisories are in effect for portions of Utah, Montana, Colorado and Wyoming for today and tonight.

There is another front moving across the eastern Pacific toward the Pacific northwest. It isn't expected to bring much change in the weather pattern.

The outlook for Sunday through Tuesday calls for a slow warming trend with a chance of light rain toward the end of the period. Highs will be mostly in the 50s and lows in the 20s.

Northwest spud growers helped

PORTLAND (UPI) — A short European potato crop last year has meant a boom to Northwest spud growers.

Bob Bralicka of the Port of Portland said, "Some shoppers are finding here on it. The shipping lines have been leasing all the empty 40-foot containers they can.

Thousands of tons of fresh and processed potatoes are being shipped to Europe for the first time. Buyers in Scandinavia, Portugal, England and other countries are reported to be paying almost twice as much for the transportation cost as for the potatoes.

Larry Rutland, trade manager at General Steamship Corp., agent for the Johnson Steamship line, said, "We've managed to provide enough containers, but it gets down to the way at times."

Rutland said five general cargo ships have left from Portland and Seattle for Europe this year. The last vessel to leave March 12 carried 600 tons of processed potatoes.

The said processing plants in Eastern Oregon and Idaho are operating at about maximum capacity to fill the orders.

Most of the processed potatoes are frozen or dehydrated.

Most producers, processors and dealers to have the export boom is a one-time thing because of last year's poor European crop, but some hope that at least a smaller market will continue for french fries or other specialty products.

Norm Heiler, president of the Gourmet Foods french fry plants at Boardman and Metolus, said Wednesday he has a contract to supply 15 million pounds of low grade frozen fries to the United Kingdom by June 1.

Local softies indicated only fresh potatoes are being exported from Eastern Washington

February storms aid water flow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — February storms brightened the outlook for irrigation water supplies this summer in most parts of the West, the Soil Conservation Service says.

The report added that heavy rain in the Sierra Nevada range in California and parts of Nevada and Arizona still lack enough snow cover to provide normal flow in streams this spring.

The SCS, an Agriculture Department agency, bases its stream flow forecasts largely on surveys of snowpacks in mountain areas which will melt later in the season to provide water for streams.

Officials added, however, that carryover storage in western reservoirs is "adequate to excellent in most areas," and will provide much needed supplemental water.

Officials said their report of improved prospects in most parts of the West assumes that rain and snowfall during the rest of the winter and early spring will be normal. The winter-spring snowfall, they noted, provides about 70 per cent of the annual Western water supply.

What's Herbigation weed control service? In this area, it's another way of saying weed control with Eptam™ herbicide metered into irrigation water. Water does the work of application. You get excellent weed control and bigger yields.

Set up an Eptam drum, with an inexpensive metering spigot, over the irrigation ditch. For sprinkler irrigation, meter Eptam in the line near the pump. Eptam will control 38 kinds of weeds, including nightshade, barnyardgrass, quackgrass, pigweeds, wild oats and crabgrass. Get full-season weed control in alfalfa and potatoes. For late-season weed control in sugar beets, apply after thinning.

Take the hard work out of weed control. See your Stauffer supplier for information on Herbigation weed control service with Eptam. Always follow label directions carefully. See your Stauffer supplier for Eptam.

ATTENTION POTATO GROWERS!

You have been well represented in four grower meetings across the state in the past two weeks, called to discuss pre-season contract negotiations. The message we received from hundreds of growers was that you want and deserve $3.60 per cwt. for the potatoes you grow on contract.

PGI has already negotiated pre-season contracts for the 1976 crop with five major Idaho processors. These contracts will yield from $3.60 per cwt. to $3.80 per cwt. to the average grower. Negotiations are advancing with the remaining processors in the state with the exception of J.R. Simplot. The Bargaining Committee of Potato Growers of Idaho has faithfully advanced your viewpoint in subsequent meetings with J.R. Simplot Co. Notwithstanding your position, they have decided to invite growers to sign contracts which pay only $3.30 to $3.35 per cwt.

PGI has left the door open for further negotiations. Your cooperation is essential to keep it open and to help achieve a fair price for your potatoes.

If you are offered this contract, say, "No, thanks". Invite the field man to come back when there is a fair price.

If you are anxious to sign a contract within a few weeks, why not sign a wheat contract for September or later delivery? At current prices, 160 acres of wheat will net you from $3000 to $9000 more than potatoes priced at only $3.35 per cwt.

Are we going to share in the two cent per pound premium from Idaho potatoes after they are processed into french fries? It's up to you.

We remind you again of your commitment to PGI and your industry.

BARGAINING COMMITTEE POTATO GROWERS OF IDAHO

Time running out in Grain Belt

By United Press International

Ray Uehling farms wheat on the normally fertile blackland prairies of southwest Kansas. But this spring his land withers at the edge of the nation's worst drought area.

Uehling says wheat farmers in his area need rain within 10 days or "we're in trouble...we're in real bad trouble."

But as bad as prospects are in the Ness City, Kan., area, Uehling says things are even worse in other parts of the drought region extending into Colorado, New Mexico, and the Oklahoma and Texas Panhandles.

"Speaking locally," Uehling said Wednesday, "if the weather breaks there will be some good wheat in Ness County and north and east in Kansas. But from here to the southwest, it's going to take an act of God to salvage any of it."

Inadequate moisture levels at fall planting time and a lack of significant rain or snowfall this winter have combined to form a vast drought area from the Great Plains to California. Wind erosion, which began about a month ago in the nation's grain belt, continues in parts of Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Minnesota, New Mexico and Texas.

Many farmers and food industry officials said it is too early to tell whether there will be any effect on grocery prices.

"I would have to agree with the farmers — you can't read anything into it right now," said Ed Stone, wheat quality control expert for International Multifood Corp. in Minneapolis, who recently completed a 1,800-mile trip through wheat-producing areas.

"Yes, there are troubles. To what extent, we can't tell until we get an evaluation on how much was damaged by blowing."

Recent rains have improved the outlook for wheat. But the Agriculture Department said the dry plains areas still need more rain.

Department policy makers said the worst of the drought is confined to areas producing about 20 per cent of the nation's wheat crop and the 1976 crop will not be expected to handle exports without queuing consumer supplies.

But many farmers are feeling the economic pinch.

The Federal Reserve Bank in Dallas reported sharp increases in loans, loan extensions and loan renewals by drought-stricken farmers and ranchers. It said 34 per cent of the banks in Texas, northern Louisiana, southeastern Oklahoma, southern New Mexico and southeastern Arizona have reported increases.

In Minnesota, there has been more wind erosion this year than at any time since 1933, prompting the state commissioner of agriculture, Jon Weed, to warn the Great Plains may become a dust bowl as in the 1930s.

Weed said the lack of snow this year has contributed to the "blowing dust bowl." He said farmers have overreacted to the U.S. Department of Agriculture call for maximum-food production. They have worked too many marginal lands, he said, and taken down too many windbreaks.

With droughts the past two years and with little water and soil conservation, "you're setting yourself up for a dust bowl," he said.

"You don't fool with Mother Nature. All this is coming home to roost."

Idaho milk output up during February

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho milk cows produced 117 million pounds of milk during February, 10 per cent more than during the same month last year, the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today.

The number of milk cows on farms in the state during February, however, totaled 143,000 — or three per cent less than last year. Milk production per cow during the month was up 100 pounds at $20.

Meantime, the reporting service said calving and lambing progressed normally throughout the month with lambing approaching completion at month's end.

Fall seeded grains generally were in good condition with northern areas in above average condition.

Statement, timber plan available

McALEE, Idaho (UPI) — The timber management plan and final environmental statement for the Payette National Forest are available for public review and comment. Forest Supervisor William B. Smith said today.

The plan was developed to provide orderly and sustained guidance in developing and utilizing the timber-growing capacity of the forest. It identifies an average annual programmed yield over the next 10 years of 31.4 million board feet per year.

The environmental statement is designed to evaluate the overall effect of implementation of the timber management plan on the environment, society and economy.

Comments on the plan should be submitted to Regional Forester Vern Hamre in Ogden or to Smith prior to April 19. After that date the comments will be analyzed and changes, if appropriate, will be made.

Nation of origin for meat proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Cliff Hansen, R-Wyo., said today all food products made from foreign meat should be specially labeled so buyers know it has not passed United States inspection.

Hansen told a Senate Agriculture subcommittee that many consumers prefer to buy meat produced in this country because they know it has passed United States inspection standards.

"But a consumer who wishes to do so cannot restrict purchases to domestically produced and inspected beef and meat because the consumer has no way of knowing the origin of the meat in most products," he said.

Hansen said foreign meat and meat products which are imported in a cooked or processed form must be labeled, but he said many food products manufactured in the United States from foreign meat are not.

The Wyoming Republican has introduced a bill which would require all products made in whole or in part of imported meat to be labeled "imported" at all stages of distribution through delivery to the consumer.

Jobs for food stamp users receive push

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill to help unemployed food stamp recipients back to work is more important than their personal feelings about labor unions, according to Assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard Feltner.

That is why the Agriculture Department is proposing a regulation under which stamp recipients could be required to accept a job because of union considerations, Feltner said in an interview.

The little-noticed proposal was made last month buried in a massive package of sweeping reforms of the program.

"It got little attention because it was overshadowed by controversy over other proposed changes which would deny stamp benefits to people with net incomes above the poverty line and drop an estimated 5 million persons from the $5.8 billion program under which about 10 million Americans now get government help in paying their grocery bills.

Existing rules, which limited and unemployed stamp recipients are required to register for work and can be dropped from the program if they refuse "suitable" jobs.

A separate provision of the current rule states, however, that the recipient cannot be dropped if his refusal is based on an employer's demand that he stay out of a labor union, or if he turns down a job where union membership is required.

Under the proposed new rule, which is open to public comment until March 29 as part of the overall stamp reform package, both exceptions would be dropped. An able-bodied stamp recipient who turned down a job because of pro- or anti-union sentiments could lose his stamp aid.

"What we're trying to do is close the loopholes in the work requirement section of the program," Feltner said. "We decided that it's more important that they work than anything else...including philosophical questions about unions."

Experts set talks

BOISE (UPI) — Two nationally prominent safety experts will be featured speakers at the 13th biennial governor's statewide conference March 25-26 in Boise.

Vincent L. Tofany, president of the National Safety Council, and Dr. Morton Corn, assistant U.S. secretary of labor, will address the conference.

Rent hike wins nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Interior Committee has approved legislation to make the federal government pay more rent on lands it owns in the west, Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, said today.

Hansen said he supports the committee-approved bill which would provide for payments in lieu of taxes to counties where the U.S. Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management are big landowners.

The proposal provides for payments to counties based on a formula of acres and population. Payment ceilings are provided in the legislation of counties with large populations but large federal land holdings, Hansen said.

The formula being proposed would pay either 75 cents per federal acre, less timber and mineral payments already being paid, or a flat 10 cents per federal acre.

Land takeovers bring protests

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — Sharecroppers and small farmers came into the capital Thursday to protest land takeovers by Communist agricultural workers.

The farmers planned to demonstrate in front of the agriculture ministry in downtown Black Horse Square.

The farmers want Socialist Agriculture Minister Antonio Lopes Cardoso to restore farmlands occupied last summer and turned into cooperatives by Communist agricultural workers.

The government has promised to restore illegally occupied lands and give fair compensation to those whose lands were expropriated under the land reform act but the process has been moving slowly.

Of the 25 million acres expropriated last year, at least 1.7 million were seized illegally, the agriculture ministry said.

In an effort to restore small land holders in the center and north who feared their land would be next, the government has partitioned the nation into two sections.

The agrarian reform law was to apply in the south, where the huge holdings of absentee landlords have dominated land-holding patterns, but not in the north.

Lopes Cardoso admitted that sharecroppers and small holders in the agrarian reform area had been "often forced to abandon the lands they cultivated or in other cases obliged to join against their will in collective farming, which does not correspond in any way with their natural inclinations."

In the south, a nurses strike lingered with a "go-slow" move in response to a government order to return to work or face prison. But the Social Affairs ministry said work-in-hospitals in the center and north was returning to normal.

March beef prices decline across US

DENVER (UPI) — The American National Cattleman's Association Wednesday said average beef prices across the country declined during March for the eighth straight month.

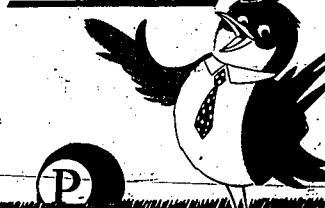

A survey of prices for five representative beef cuts in 19 cities nationwide showed an average per-pound price of $1.34 on March 11, ANCA officials said. That was down four cents per pound during February and a 44-cent decline from July 1975.

ANCA President Wray Finney said the decline in prices was attributable largely to an increased supply of beef. He said total beef production in the country this year was up 7 per cent from 1975, including substantially larger supplies of grain-fed beef.

Average prices for the five beef cuts declined in 12 cities, rose in five and remained stable in two, he said. Prices for round steak, sirloin and Thone steaks and chuck roast decreased while the average price for a pound of ground beef rose one cent.

Finney said lowest average prices were found in Denver, $1.08; Phoenix, $1.10, and Cincinnati, $1.14. Highest prices were noted in New York City, $1.89; Portland, $1.65, and Atlanta, $1.52.

Abby

DEAR ABBY: When my wife asked me what I wanted for Christmas, I said, "You'd never give it to me, so forget it." She nagged me until I finally told her that I wanted a wife who didn't smoke.

She thought for a minute, then put out her cigarette and asked, "How long do I have to quit for?"

"Forever," I replied. "But if you quit for a year, I'll be satisfied." (She was a three-pack-a-day smoker.)

Well, she hasn't had a cigarette since, and I'm really happy because I know she's better off. But now she's giving every body who smokes a hard time.

She's put all our ashtrays away, and if we have guests over who start to smoke, she says, "If you MUST smoke, please go outside!"

Reforms, then pushes smoke, she says, "Yes, I'm allergic. I'm glad she quit smoking, but how can I get her not to make such a big deal out of it?"

LONG-SUFFERING HUSBAND

DEAR SUFFERING: Anyone who can quit cold turkey after having been a three-pack-a-day smoker deserves a hand. But she shouldn't give the back of her hand to others who have yet to recognize the hazard of their habit—or are unable for unwilling to give it up.

DEAR ABBY: The hostess who was upset by early arrivals is making mountains out of molehills. Some folks are compulsive early arrivers. I know, I'm married to one. If I could sell the time I've spent sitting around in airports because my wife didn't want to "miss the plane," I'd have a fortune.

But the solution to early arrivals for a party is simple: Point them toward the magazine rack or give them today's newspaper. Oh, and assign them the task of greeting other early arrivals. That way you very neatly get the whole problem off your hands.

UNRUFFLED BY EARLY BIRDS

DEAR UN: Thanks for making molehills out of mountains.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has a chance to win an all-expenses-paid trip with me to Bermuda.

My problem: We would be flying to Florida, which I don't mind, then we'd go to Bermuda by boat through the Bermuda Triangle.

I have heard that planes and ships have been lost and never heard from again after going through the Bermuda Triangle.

If this is true, I am afraid to go because I have two children and I don't want to take a chance.

Club hears reports

TWIN FALLS — "Favorite Gardening Tricks" was the roll call topic at a meeting of Salmon-Tract Homemakers Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Bill Clark.

Mrs. Dave Kramer was co-hostess.

Reports were given by Mrs. David Lohr and Mrs. R.J. Olson on women's rights and biology.

Mrs. Bruce Kunkel gave a report on the "enchanting evening" cooking school which she attended. Members were told that pressure cooker testing will be conducted May 19 and 14 at the extension of Mrs. Kramer gave information on the International Peace Garden.

Ken Himple from Western nursery gave a lesson on house and garden plants. Celia Black, extension home economist, gave helpful hints for gardeners.

Betty Clark and Mrs. Owen were co-hostesses.

The next meeting will be April 21 at the home of Mrs. Gary Aufferheld with Mrs. Raymond Ulrich as co-hostess. The lesson will be on stain removal.

Jerome girl named exchange student

JEROME — Becky Clark, a Jerome girl, has been chosen as an exchange student for the Youth for Understanding program.

Miss Clark is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Clark and will travel to Germany next year.

While the exact destination in Germany is not yet known, she will spend 11 months in the country and will attend German schools during her junior year.

The trip will be financed personally, however, she will accept any funds from a community organization that wishes to help her with the trip.

What is your advice?

SCARED UP NORTH

DEAR SCARED: The captain and crew want to live as much as you do, and if there were any possibility of danger, they wouldn't take that route. If your husband wins the trip, go. Bon voyage!

Sen. Church makes his announcement speech in Idaho City

Church reveals 'winning' plan

BY CHRIS PECK
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — How is Sen. Frank Church going to get the Democratic nomination for president? No one on Church's staff has a concrete answer to that question, but the senator's press secretary has outlined a two-phase scenario which Church believes could take him to the White House.

According to Bill Hall, former editorial page editor of the Lewiston Morning Tribune and now Church's press secretary, this two-phase march to the White House is right on schedule.

The church for President theory goes like this: Current Democratic front-runners, Jimmy Carter, Henry Jackson and Morris Udall, haven't got sufficient strength at this time to win a first ballot victory at the Democratic National Convention, Hall said Thursday.

No other candidates for the nomination will emerge between now and the convention, leaving the Democrats with a choice between the three current front-runners or possibly only two of them.

"The first phase of our election strategy is to have all of the other candidates hang themselves," Hall said, "and from what we can tell, this first phase is proceeding right on schedule."

Hall said he felt the continuing Democratic in-fighting will now allow former Gov. Jimmy Carter or Henry Jackson to get enough delegates to win on the first ballot of the nation nominating convention and Carter and Jackson will become such political enemies neither candidate will concede at the Democratic convention.

"The second phase of this campaign is up to us," Hall said. In this second phase, Church will try for at least two primary wins, in addition to Idaho.

Nebraska, Oregon, and Rhode Island are the most likely targets for Church in the primaries.

Church also will enter primaries in Montana, Idaho and California. Originally counting on a good showing in California, Hall said Gov. Jerry Brown's entry into the contest as a favorite son candidate scotched Church's plan for a California victory.

Hall said Church's strategy is to pick up the late primary wins and use them for leverage into the national convention in July.

With the momentum of the late primary wins and the deadlock over Carter and Jackson, Church could emerge as the Democratic choice, at least in the minds of his campaign aides.

TF students out for spring break

TWIN FALLS — Next week will be spring vacation for Twin Falls students.

All public schools will be closed Monday through Friday.

According to assistant superintendent Camden Meyer, the spring break this year is longer than the typical Easter break.

"Meyer said the decision was made to hold a week-long vacation now because Easter, which falls on April 19, "comes so late this year."

In the past, he said, the spring break has coincided with Easter vacation. This year students will be released for Good Friday only to participate in activities over the Easter weekend.

Meyer said the school administration will remain at work next week but all other staff will have the week off. There are no local workshops scheduled for teachers, he said.

He said the administration office will remain open in part to process applications for graduating college students seeking teaching jobs who will also be on spring break from their schools.

"It's really a pretty busy time for us," he said.

MV cattlemen plan annual meet

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Cattlemen's Association will hold its annual meeting and banquet Saturday at the Holiday Inn, Twin Falls.

A social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m. followed by a steak dinner at 7:30 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door.

Southern Idaho Livestock Hall of Fame rancher Tom Prescott, Jerome, will speak on matters of interest to livestock producers.

Betty Schell, Miss Rodeo America, will be a special guest.

Dances will follow the meeting and Zeb Bell will act as master of ceremonies.

Typical March weather

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Typical March weather kept highway and power company crews working Thursday night and early this morning in Magic Valley.

Idaho State police and Department of Highway personnel reported several areas of hazardous driving conditions this morning with one section of state highway closed by snow and drifting.

U. S. 31 south of Berger into Nevada was reported ice covered and extremely hazardous by Idaho State Police this morning, Switzer Pass in the Jupiter area near the Utah state line was also reported icy and a ground blizzard was under way this morning near Juniper.

Department of highway officials said Idaho 66 between the junction of U. S. 31 near Timmerman Hill and Mountain Home is closed because of high winds and drifting snow. Ice spots and snow flow conditions were reported between Ketchum and Stanley with some winds in that area. Other roads in the district were reported good.

James Johnstone, maintenance superintendent for Idaho Power Co., said crews were out during the night in the Burley, Oakley, Murtaugh and Kimberly-Hansen areas after winds blew transmission lines together, resulting in power outages. He said several areas were without power for up to 30 minutes, but there were no serious failures. One high voltage line was down in the Burley-Oakley area but service was restored within a short time.

A number of lines and other installations were damaged by falling tree branches, he said.

Most ski resorts reported new snow during the night but several said winds were blowing this morning.

Sierra petitions to halt suspension

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Sierra Life Insurance Co. has asked a Wyoming court to overturn the Wyoming insurance commissioner's decision to suspend Sierra's license to sell new policies there.

Wyoming Insurance Commissioner John Langdon suspended Sierra's license on Feb. 20 in a decision in which he found the Twin Falls based company to be insolvent under Wyoming law.

Sierra President Fred Frazier was not available for comment on the act today.

According to Deputy Insurance Commissioner Glenn Smith, Sierra Tuesday petitioned for a review by the Wyoming First District Court of Langdon's decision. Sierra claims the suspension was not in compliance with Wyoming law, capricious and not supported by substantial evidence, Smith said.

Sierra also petitioned for postponement of enforcement of Langdon's suspension order while the review is pending, Smith said.

He said he would expect the court to rule on the petition for stay in a few days.

Smith said the court today also is scheduled to consider a motion by supervising examiner Tom Power to dismiss Sierra's suit against Power.

Last month Sierra sued Power and Times-

News reporter Bill Lazarus for $100,000, charging Power with having made libelous statements and Lazarus with having reported them. Lazarus has not yet filed a response to Sierra's suit.

In his response, Power claims sovereign immunity as a state employee, and says that the Wyoming court lacks jurisdiction in the matter, and that "there is a failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted."

On another matter, the Wyoming Insurance Department has asked for information from Sierra, but Sierra has refused to provide it, state officials say.

According to Smith, on Feb. 25 the department asked Sierra to supply the names, addresses, and, where applicable, the cash value of Wyoming insurance policies which Sierra sold to its wholly-owned New-Mexican subsidiary Sandia Life at the end of 1975.

People have been calling the department and have been asking if they should cash in their policies, Smith said. "We don't advise them what to do. We attempt to give them the facts which we don't have and which Sierra won't give us," he said.

Smith said the department wanted to be able to tell the policyholders both how much money they would receive if they cashed in their policy on April 1 and how much the policy is worth at face value.

Gem economy shows drop

By GORDON JUDD
Times-News writer

BOISE — According to the latest economic data released by Idaho's Department of Employment, there has been a slight worsening in most key areas of Idaho's economy.

Three of the five "leading indicators," comprised of reports of non-agricultural job placements, initial unemployment claims, average manufacturing work-week production and building permits, show economic declines for January.

The three indicators which have shown a downward trend are non-agricultural placements, initial unemployment claims and non-residential building permit figures. Average manufacturing workweek and residential building permit figures were up for the period.

The "leading indicators" are reported by the Department of Labor to predict the economic future, while the present is charted by the department's "coinciding" and "selected indicators" (15).

The "coinciding indicators," comprised of such things as personal income, job openings, unemployment, and bank information, also showed a decline for the same period. Most of the declines were slight, however.

The "selected" indicators were split evenly between gains and losses. New car and truck registrations, workers' average hourly earnings and retail trade employment figures showed increases. Food product industry employment, as well as contract construction, and lumber and wood product employment figures showed a decline.

The department reported that their future economic predictions will include "lay-off rate" information for both Idaho and the nation as a whole.

DAR convention underway

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Idaho State Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, opened their 64th annual convention in Twin Falls Thursday with business sessions today.

A brief memorial service Thursday afternoon originally opened the two-day convention, followed by a tea honoring state and chapter officers.

Gene Hall, Twin Falls, an instructor at the College of Southern Idaho and a brigadier general with the U. S. Air Force Reserve, addressed delegates during the annual banquet Thursday night.

Hall praised the patriotic women's organization for its staunch support of American ideals. He said there is a great need in America today for this type of belief in democracy.

Convention sessions are being held in the Holiday Inn with today's program including reports by state officers and committee chairmen. Amy L. Mason, Boise, state regent, opened the convention and was scheduled to address a luncheon meeting today. Mrs. Reed Walton, state vice regent, was in charge of presentation of state awards.

Election of a nominating committee and a call for invitations for next year's convention were scheduled this afternoon.

About 100 delegates from throughout the state gathered here for the group's meeting. Membership is open only to descendants of America's earliest settlers. Phyllis Ridgeway, Twin Falls, president of the host chapter, is in charge of local arrangements, assisted by other local delegates.

'Mr. Duval' strikes again

TWIN FALLS — The mysterious "Mr. Duval" who borrowed a film projector from the Child Development Center in Twin Falls last week is up to his old tricks in Idaho Falls this week.

Police in Idaho Falls say a man identifying himself as "Mr. Duval" and "saying" he represented the Idaho Falls hospital borrowed a 16-mm film projector from the Seventh District Health Unit Wednesday. The projector has never been seen since and the hospital there has no idea who borrowed it.

The Twin Falls Child Development Center, was also told "Mr. Duval" was from the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital when they invited him to pick up their projector at the Presbyterian Church. "A similar attempt" was made to borrow a film projector from the Health District office in Twin Falls, but the caller was told the district had none available.

UCLA tops Wildcats; Arizona upsets UNLV

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Defending NCAA champion UCLA, ahead by only one point with nine minutes left, methodically wore down Pepperdine Thursday night to score a 70-61 victory and join the "killing" Arizona in the final of the West Regional.

The Wildcats, scoring all 17 of their overtime points from the free throw line, recorded the biggest upset of the playoffs when they knocked marquee-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas, 114-109, in another semifinal game.

The finals will be held at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion Saturday.

The Waves trailed only 52-51 with 9:11 left after being behind 40-35 at the 10-minute mark. But the fifth-ranked Bruins simply had too much depth and stamina to pull away at the end.

Marques Johnson and All-America Richard Washington, the Bruins' brilliant forward combination, had 18 and 16 points, respectively, while Marcos Felice, Pepperdine's 6-10 center from Brazil, and teammate Dennis Johnson each had 16.

Pepperdine, which has virtually no bench, used slow-down tactics against the Pacific-8 powerhouse and it kept the Waves close.

The surprising Western Athletic Conference champions earned the right to face the winner of Thursday night's other semifinal game, pitting defending national champion UCLA against little Pepperdine.

Herni Harris, a 6-foot-5 junior guard, connected on a free throw with 14 seconds left in regulation play to send the game into overtime at 103-103.

In the five-minute overtime session, Harris made four more free throws and was the game's top scorer with 31 points.

Bob Elliott, Arizona's 6-10 center who scored only two points and picked up three fouls in the first half, finished with 20 points, including four free throws in overtime while Pepperdine's playing superstar, a painful foot injury suffered in the first half, added 24 for the Wildcats.

Arizona took the lead to stay with just 12 seconds gone in overtime when Elliott converted a pair of free throws to make the score 105-103. Harris then made two more free throws 26 seconds later and the Wildcats were on top 107-103.

When 6-10 Lewis Brown made a layup with 22 seconds left, it cut the Arizona lead to two points at 111-109. But Gary Harrison made a free throw with 17 seconds left and Gilbert Myles hit two more with five seconds left for Arizona.

For Nevada, which had lost just once in 30 starts going into Thursday night's game, it was a devastating defeat. The Rebels fell 11 points behind in the first half but came back to get within four at halftime 51-47.

Las Vegas suffered a severe blow when 6-6 junior Eddie Owens, its No. 1 scorer with a 23.5-point average, fouled out with 13:10 left in regulation.

Bill Taylor added 18 for the Wildcats, 16 in the opening half, but Al Fleming, Arizona's all-time career scorer, was held to just six points.

Sam Smith and Brown paced Las Vegas with 26 and 24 and had four of the losers' six overtime baskets. Owens had 21 before fouling out and Robert Smith made 18.

Trio shares lead in Jacksonville Open golf tourney

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Lanny Wadkins, still struggling to emerge from a two-year slump, Hay Floyd, a winner of this tournament seven years ago, and four sophomore Danny Edwards each shot four-under par 68's to share the first round lead in the $175,000 Greater Jacksonville Open.

The obvious disappointment of the crowd, many of the superstars, including Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller and Hale Irwin, didn't bother to show up, and those who did didn't fare very well.

That left the field more than a stroke ahead of Brian Allen, Mike Hill, Peter Oosterhuis, Nipper Starke and Barney Thompson.

Tom Crenshaw, the only competitor who has won two tournaments so far this year, was two back after a 70. Gary Player, rated a favorite because he has played well in the South, led from South Africa, led a 73, and Arnold Palmer, still the sentimental favorite, led a 75.

Wadkins, seven years Floyd's junior, lost a playoff to Billy Casper last week in Italy.

Mark Hayes, who backed into a second place tie with Nicklaus this past Sunday at Doral, and Bruce Devlin were among the grip at 70 along with Crenshaw. Bobby Cole was among the many 71 shooters and J. C. Snead, who has been a threat almost every week since winning at San Diego, was among those at even-par 72.

Floyd won here in 1969, the same year he won the PGA championship. When he went into this tournament three years ago, was the turning point in his career.

"I had just been married about three months and was playing poorly. After I shot a high first round here and withdrew, my wife and I sat down and talked about my career."

"That's when I decided it was time to buckle down, to get serious about this game. The next week I did well and my game has been progressing since."

Wadkins, seven years Floyd's junior, lost a playoff to Billy Casper last week in Italy.

Wadkins was a bit more erratic, picking up two early bogeys, but settled down to play the last 12 holes in 5 under.

Edwards, an all-American golfer at Oklahoma State in 1972, has not finished higher than 13th in two and a half years as a pro. He was 19th two years ago in the Citrus Open when he closed with a 69.

"The course played a little better than usual," said Floyd in explanation of the higher-than-expected scores. "The greens were fantastic, but a lot of people weren't reaching them."

Kentucky edges by Providence

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kentucky guard Larry Johnson drove almost the full length of the court in the final seven seconds Thursday night and scored on a left-handed layup to insure a 73-71 victory over Providence in the semifinals of the National Invitation Tournament.

In the other semifinal game, North Carolina State met UNC-Charlotte.

Johnson's last-second basket spoiled a 24-point comeback by the Friars.

Billy Eason, who finished with 25 points, scored on a layup with eight seconds left to give Providence the lead for the first time since the Friars lead 53-51.

Eason's basket capped a Providence rally that had wiped out an 11-point second-half deficit after the Friars earlier had come back from 16 points down in the first half to tie the Wildcats.

Following Eason's last basket, Kentucky's short-inbound pass went to Mike Phillips as he streaked by and Kentucky junior leapt past him and into the basket.

UNC-Charlotte led Kentucky with 29 points while Phillips turned in another outstanding and half performance to finish with 19. Johnson finished with 19.

Las Vegas suffered a severe blow when 6-6 junior Eddie Owens, its No. 1 scorer with a 23.5-point average, fouled out with 13:10 left in regulation.

Bill Taylor added 18 for the Wildcats, 16 in the opening half, but Al Fleming, Arizona's all-time career scorer, was held to just six points.

Sam Smith and Brown paced Las Vegas with 26 and 24 and had four of the losers' six overtime baskets. Owens had 21 before fouling out and Robert Smith made 18.

NFL owners reject instant replay use

CORONADO, Calif. (UPI) — National Football League owners Tuesday rejected use of the instant replay as final arbiter in controversial plays this coming season, but left the door open to an unannounced experiment with video tape to test its feasibility.

The owners also refused to outlaw the head slip, made famous by Deacon Jones or to give quarterbacks greater role protection from the defensive rush.

But NFL Executive Director Jim Kocsal told sports writers of a news conference that the 28 club owners adopted rules ordering teams to complete lopsided scoring contests, banning any form of vaulting to block a kick, and permitting teams to take advantage of a penalty after scoring a conversion point.

In an afternoon session, the owners talked with Dick Anderson, newly elected president of the NFL Players' Association, who asked for the meeting after the players sued the league for unspecified damages, including the present and former players under the Rozelle Rule.

"We are ready and willing to sit down and start to bargain not only on the Rozelle Rule but on all the issues involving collective bargaining," Anderson said. "We do have hopes that we can get together with the owners as early as next week."

He urged the meeting with the owners a "good faith gesture" on the part of the association's new executive committee and said he planned no negotiating session with the owners.

Kensil said the owners rejected video tape for 1976 because the league's competition committee reported "increased insight into the real problems of judging from the instant replay" after spending two days viewing game films.

He said the owners' decision was not considered permanent and that the league will probably discuss the instant replay at a later date and also consider its possible testing under game conditions, but without the knowledge of the participants.

Among rule changes adopted by the owners was one permitting a team kicking a conversion point to take advantage of a penalty assessed during an extra point play even when the point is scored.

Kensil explained that under past procedure a penalty called meant the kicking team could decline or take the penalty, repeating the play. The new rule permits the kicking team to take the penalty yardage on the ensuing kickoff.

Another rule change will require the completion of all games to maximize final scores.

Spring camps finally open

NEW YORK (UPI) — While baseball's owners made plans for a meeting here Saturday to plot their next move in the labor negotiations with the players, spring training camps were opened in Florida, Arizona and California Thursday after a 17-day lockout.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, convinced that progress had been made in negotiations, ordered the camps open Wednesday night following an all-day meeting of the players' representatives during which they asked for federal mediation to help iron out their problems with the owners.

Meanwhile, the owners, some of whom were unhappy at the commissioner's decision to end the lockout, were to handle here Saturday to decide on what course of action to pursue in the negotiations. No further talks with the players' association are planned until after the owners' meeting.

While not accepting the owners' latest proposal, the players have not rejected it entirely either. There are parts of it they are willing to accept but they feel there are several portions of the proposal which have not been discussed thoroughly and which, in their present form, they are against.

The players have asked for a federal mediator to step in to help get the contract dispute settled, but John Gaherin, chief negotiator for the owners, is against the use of a federal mediator.

"I don't think mediation is the answer," said Gaherin. "I don't feel a third party is needed. I doubt that we would have any interest in a third party."

Most of the players, however, seem more interested in playing baseball than in negotiating. Many regulars were on hand at the various camps Thursday, and the season which begins in only three weeks.

"All the fellows showing up show signs of enthusiasm," said Danny Ozark, manager of the Philadelphia Phillies who greeted 34 players at Clearwater, Fla. "I just have to hold them back now. The nice thing about this workout is that I haven't heard anybody talk about negotiations. All they want to do is play."

One manager, Billy Martin of the New York Yankees, expressed concern about the two-week layoff and felt it would have some adverse effect on several clubs.

"Three-weeks is enough for players," said Martin, who put 14 players through a workout at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. "But pitchers, no. Usually, a pitcher will work seven times before the season. I can't see anybody pitching more than that. In fact, the means it's doubtful any pitcher will be ready to go into an opening day. You might even see some clubs using a different pitcher every two or three innings."

"I had planned to go North with no more than nine pitchers. Now, I may have to go with 11."

San Antonio blasts Spirits

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Larry Keon scored 25 points and grabbed 14 rebounds Thursday night as San Antonio defeated St. Louis 115-105 in an ABA game.

The Spirits' Ron Boone and San Antonio's Mark Oberding got into a fight with 3:49 left to play and were separated by other players. The officials charged Oberding with an elbowing foul and Boone with a punching foul.

Tom Owens, George Gervin and James Silas had 15 points each for San Antonio.

Silas also handed off seven assists for a total of 399 to break the team record he set last year.

Marvin Barnes paced St. Louis with 41 points, while Moses Malone hit 25 and Boone had 18.

Bullets rally by KC 110-102

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — Elvin Hayes scored 17 of his game high 32 points in the final period Thursday night to rally the Washington Bullets from a three-point deficit to a 110-102 National Basketball Association victory over the Kansas City Kings.

The Bullets, playing without injured center Wes Unseld, trailed several times in the second half and could not get their fast break into gear until the 39-point final period.

Erving leads Nets by Nuggets

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — Julius Erving scored 32 points and added 16 rebounds to give the New York Nets a 119-98 victory over Denver in an ABA game Thursday night.

For New York, Erving and Richie Jones scored 21 points in the first period and John Williamson added 12 in the second as the Nets moved to a 68-56 halftime lead. After Denver closed the gap to five points in the third period, New York spirited again and finished the third period ahead by 10 points.

Phoenix whips Detroit 106-100

PHOENIX (UPI) — Gar Heard scored 27 points and pulled down 18 rebounds to lead the Phoenix Suns to a 106-100 NBA win over Detroit Thursday night.

Nine of Heard's points came in the third quarter when the Suns fought back from a 59-49 halftime deficit to within 84-81.

Warriors pass Braves 110-109

OAKLAND (UPI) — Phil Smith tallied 27 points Thursday night to lead the Golden State Warriors to 110-109 NBA victory over the Buffalo Braves.

Trailing 100-98 with 4:13 left, Golden State burst for a 10-2 scoring run to take a 108-102 lead with 66 seconds left and appeared to have the contest safely in hand.

Biologist optimistic about improved anadromous runs

BOISE (UPI) — An Oregon biologist working on the Pacific Northwest Regional Commission fisheries study said Wednesday he is optimistic that anadromous fish runs will improve in the Snake River Basin in the near future.

Dr. L. Edward Perry, Beaverton, Ore., told the commission it is "comprehensive" that dams on the Snake and Columbia Rivers are the principal sources of the problem of the depleted fishery.

But he said a program of trucking the salmon and steelhead around the dams has been successful and in the next year can be expected to handle two million fish. Last year, 800,000 fish were trucked around the dams.

In addition, he said the Corps of Engineers has completed screening part of the turbines on the dams and this has increased the number of fish caught.

However, he said the flip-flops on Bonneville Dam installed to cut down on nitrogen saturation that poisons the fish have not worked as well as expected. Perry said he was not too worried about that because changes scheduled for the dam will alter conditions considerably.

One of the problems is that "presently there are no real rights for fish" in water management programs. Proposed state water plans offer promising improvements, he said. He hopes eventually there will be an interstate water compact for the management of the basin's waters.

He reported that hatcheries are doing reasonably well, that the Hapit River hatchery is one of the best in the basin, but the hatchery at Dworshak Reservoir has not been as successful as other hatcheries. State agencies are working to solve the difficulties.

In other areas, he said the courts have set out the allocation of fish harvests and "there is not much to gain by not proceeding as outlined by the courts."

"Demonstration projects" for identifying the fish at their points of origin will help determine the numbers harvested in the sea.

Gov. Cecil Andrus said he met with federal officials in Washington to discuss plans for mitigation on the Lower Snake River dam and is suspicious that the federal agencies are holding up the $30- to $40 million investment that the Office of Management and Enterprise Services has approved in amount over the next two years.

"If they are playing that kind of game the only thing that will stop them will be pressure from the people out here," Andrus said.

AEA news conference later the governors announced that Gov. Robert Straub of Oregon was elected chairman of the trilateral committee "which allocated federal funds on a regional basis according to priorities set by the local governors."

Straub said a study on the power needs for the Pacific

Frazier, Foreman ink fight plans

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joe Frazier caught up with George Foreman for the first time in more than three years, Thursday when the two ex-champions, attempting to buy recent fight nightmares, signed for a fight in late May or early June at an undetermined site.

The fight, promoted by Jerry Perenchio and Caesars Palace of Las Vegas, represents a rematch of their January, 1973, title bout in Kingston, Jamaica, when Foreman, then no more than a muscular, unproven fighter, floored Frazier six times in two rounds to strip him of the crown.

"It's been duckin' and dodgin' me for three years," said Frazier, dressed in a red jumpsuit and white turtleneck. "We tried to get a fight with George the next day but somehow we just couldn't pin him down. There's not much love between us but there's an awful lot of animosity."

A 24 watched Foreman fight some real rugged bouts. I see

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 20, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES You have a great urge now to complete whatever has been delayed. Any undertakings should be successful if you don't allow your emotions to rule your good judgment.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Conversations with others keep you inspired today and you can easily gain your wishes. Sidestep any arguments.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) By being objective you can handle problems at hand in a most intelligent way. Use new tactics with loved ones.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Know what it is that associates expect of you and then aim to please. Be more active in handling outside matters.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Handle business matters first before you go out for pleasurable pursuits the more patient if delays occur.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) Engage in recreations with congenials that bring greater happiness. Don't worry about what you can do nothing about.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) You now have time to make improvements to your surroundings. Show increased devotion to friends and relatives.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 23) Use more direct methods in dealing with associates and get better results. Don't neglect your duties.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) Engage in activities that will bring you a sense of purpose in the future. Show others that you have common sense.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Plan how to have more favorable conditions around you and then take steps in the right directions. Be calm.

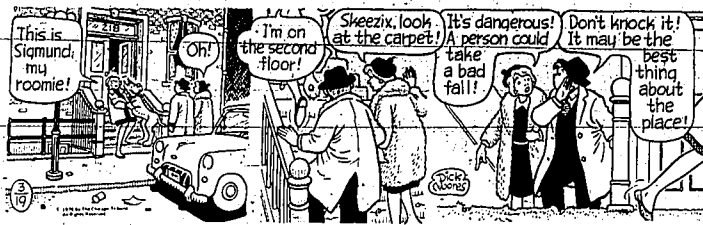

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Ideal day to handle those accumulated tasks that need to be done. Use more diplomacy in dealing with others.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) Plan how to have more accord with friends in the future. Engage in favorite hobby with congenials.

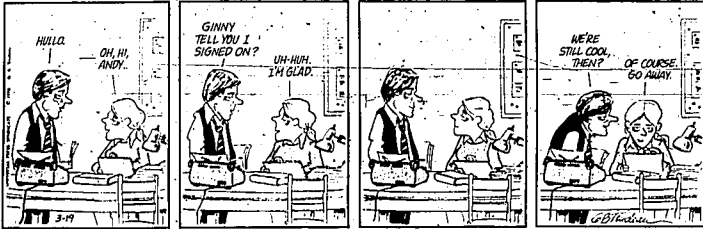

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) Good day to handle outside affairs in a most intelligent way. Attend the social and show that you have charm.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have a brilliant mind, so plan to give your gifted progeny as fine an education as you can. Include the study of foreign language since there could be much travel here. Don't neglect ethical training. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Question arises as to whether women make good front line soldiers. If just doing their job were all there were to it, they'd be fine. There's more, though. Most of the male soldiers who face them as enemies can't stand the notion of being beaten by females. So those enemy troops fight harder against women and hold out longer. Israel found that out: it no longer uses its lady soldiers at the front, and that's why.

That time of year when strong drink hits you hardest is noon. It's said: Has to do with how the inner body clocks tick. That bird hunter who goes out to bag a white mallard duck might bear in mind that his statistical chances of doing so run one in 20 million.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY

Q. "Who can be buried in Westminster Abbey?"
A. Anybody the Abbey deans decide to permit there. Not just noble folk of royal renown. Ever hear of Jack Broughton? He was a prizefighter. They buried him there.

Why the fingernails on the hand that you use most tend to grow the most quickly is obvious, isn't it?

Surveys show only one group out of every three can name all four of the first books in the New Testament. And more than half can't name any of them.

LANGUAGE

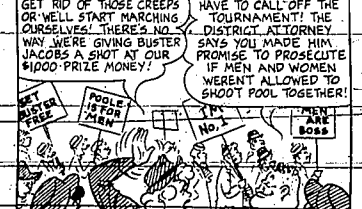

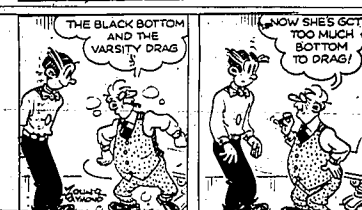

The word "diligence" comes from the Latin expression meaning "I like." And "indolence" comes from the Latin "to grieve." Our Language man would like to point out the old basic: People appear to be diligent doing what they enjoy, but seem indolent when they're sad. The thing changes over the years, true enough. But how people act and react doesn't change all that much, and some of these word origins show it.

Again the question arises why most women rack the bathroom tissue so it unwinds down the back of the roll rather than down the front. Nothing to it. When pawing toddlers are turned loose in the bathroom, they can unravel a roll of tissue in nothing flat just by slapping at it, if it unwinds down the front. Young mothers soon learn this, so rack to the back.

Assume the age of the earth is 4.5 billion years. Express that theoretically into one 24-hour day. In such a relative measurement of time, the human cave dwellers only came alive about a second ago. The last five centuries account for only 1/100ths of a second. And the 50 years you put in on your job amount to a mere 1/1000ths of a second.

Jerome considering inspector

JEROME — In order to meet with the requirements of a state law, the Jerome County commissioners may hire a full-time building inspector.

The Idaho Building Code Advisory Act (SB 1011) was passed by the state legislature last year. The law requires all Idaho cities and counties to adopt the IBC and seven other codes relating to building and fire safety.

The other codes required are: Universal Fire Code, Universal Code for the Abatement of Dangerous Buildings, the Mechanical Code, the Housing Code, the Life Safety Code, the Gas Code and the American Standard Specifications for Making Buildings and Facilities Accessible and Usable by the Physically Handicapped.

The law also requires inspectors to be licensed by the state.

Abatement of Dangerous Buildings, the Mechanical Code, the Housing Code, the Life Safety Code, the Gas Code and the American Standard Specifications for Making Buildings and Facilities Accessible and Usable by the Physically Handicapped.

Although the law went into effect last July, little has been done by the state in terms of enforcement.

Thus far the county commissioners have not adopted the IBC, but plan to do so.

John Yeats, with the Maple Valley Association of Governments, has approached the commissioners about resigning the week which began Sunday and continues through Saturday as American Legion Week in Idaho.

Yeats receives $800 a month with the MVAG which is paid by the county would make him one of the highest paid county employees.

If Yeats is hired by the county and passes the certification test he will be qualified to inspect most buildings in Jerome County of two or less stories.

Other inspections would require state inspector. The county will also now leave all of the inspections up to the state until a qualified inspector has been hired.

American Legion Week now

BOISE — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has issued a proclamation, designating the week which began Sunday and continues through Saturday as American Legion Week in Idaho.

This observance is made in recognition of the legion's 57th birthday anniversary during March. March is the traditional birthday month for the legion because it was on March 15-17, 1919, that outfits of the American Expeditionary Force of World War I convened in Paris and the legion was born.

Since that time the legion has grown to include 2.7 million veterans of four wars residing throughout the U.S. and in several foreign countries and overseas territories.

'Slim down' programs offered

TWIN FALLS — Several programs are being offered this spring to help women slim down for the new fashions.

The spring schedule offers everything from special swimming exercises to belly dancing.

A slimnastics program heads the list and will be offered each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 4:45 a.m. and on Tuesday and Thursday at 7 p.m. The classes are free to YWCA members and $15 to non members. The eight week session will begin March 29. The swim and slim program combines body exercises in the water with free style swimming. This also begins March 29 for eight weeks and will be held each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 9:45 a.m. and 8 p.m. It is free to members with a $15 charge to non members.

Volleyball is also good exercise and good fun. YWCA officials say. The games will be available for play at 9:30 a.m. each Tuesday in the Presbyterian Church Gymnasium. Child care is available and a charge of 35 cents per morning is made for non members.

Melinda Miller, formerly with Ballet West, will be teaching a modern dance program in two four-week sessions. YWCA officials say dance is certain to slim down the waist line and tighten up the body. Classes are scheduled on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 to 11:30 a.m. with a fee of $15 for members and $20 for non members. The first series begins March 30 and the second April 27.

Belly dancing also provides great exercise and "muscle toning," Y officials say. Joani Cochran, will instruct the belly dancing classes beginning March 31 at 7 p.m. Times for classes and skill levels will be established during the opening session.

Signal installed

TWIN FALLS — The new traffic signal installation at the intersection of U.S. 30 (Kimberly Road) and Eastland Drive is complete, according to district highway officials in Shoshone.

The signal will be operating on "flashing" for approximately a week before being placed on full signalized operation. This is to familiarize drivers with the signal operation.

Drivers on Kimberly Road will see the amber flashing lights, while those on Eastland Drive will be faced with the red flashing lights and must stop.

A "signal ahead" sign with a "bouncing ball" flasher is in operation east of the intersection.

The signal installation. "We would urge drivers to use extreme caution in approaching the intersection until people become used to the new signal," district officials warn.

Woodpecker causes call for help

TWIN FALLS — When a citizen of the city needs help in an emergency he usually calls the police department.

A man who resides on Adams Street did that Wednesday afternoon. His problem, he said, was a serious one and he needed help. He told police a persistent woodpecker has been drilling holes in his expensive willow tree and is slowly killing it.

The problem was turned over to the city animal control officer, Keth Seville who reported, true enough, the woodpecker had drilled a hole straight through the tree trunk. Seville made several suggestions as to how to rid the premises of the vandals but no arrests were made.

Eckankar schedules film

TWIN FALLS — The organization, Eckankar, will have a lecture and film entitled, "The Path of Total Awareness," at the YM-YWCA at 8 p.m. Tuesday March 23 at 8 p.m. Room 4. The admission will be 25 cents.

The lecture is about experiences out of the body, different spiritual exercises and soul travel. Also, two or three members will tell of their experiences.

Ski proposal now available

BOISE — The final environmental study statement for the proposed expansion of the Bogus Basin Ski Area is now available for review.

Boise National Forest Supervisor Edward C. Maw said copies may be obtained through the Boise Forest headquarters. The expansion is proposed for the Pine Creek drainage on the east side of Slater Butte.

Mrs. Jackie DeGlee, special education teacher, was granted permission to make five of her students to the Special Olympics to be held in Rupert.

Bill Heaps, principal of the Filer Elementary School, received permission to do preschool screening at the school rather than at the Child Development Center as in past years.

The letters of intent from the tenure teachers are back and signed, according to Supt. Baker.

Needs assessment discussed

FILER — Reports on the needs assessment program were discussed at the Tuesday evening meeting of trustees of School District #13 at the high school.

Dog attack reported

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls woman and her two-year-old son were treated by a physician Tuesday afternoon after they were attacked by three large dogs southeast of Twin Falls.

TF man promoted in USAF

TWIN FALLS — A former Twin Falls man has been promoted to the rank of major general with the U.S. Air Force.

Major Gen. Lewis G. Leiser, son of Mrs. Constance Bowers and the late John Leiser, Twin Falls, was recently promoted from brigadier general to major general in command of the 24th North American Defense Region at Mislimon Air Force Base near Great Falls, Mont.

General Leiser is a graduate of the Twin Falls High School and has had 30 years service in the U.S. Air Force. He graduated from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, entering the service in 1916. A command pilot, he served in both the Korean and Vietnam wars.

In the Korean war, he flew 100 missions in the F-84 jet and in Vietnam, he flew the F-100 Super Sabre while assigned to the 5th of the 7th Air Force.

General Leiser is a graduate of the 24th North American Defense Region last August and was named brigadier general in March, 1973. He and his wife, Barbara, are the parents of two sons and one daughter.
