Patty Hearst arraigned in LA

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Patricia Hearst, already convicted of bank robbery, was whisked into Los Angeles today for arraignment on charges of kidnaping, robbery and assault with a deadly weapon in a hearing which took only five minutes. Defense attorney Albert Johnson did not enter a plea to the charges at this time, but was granted a continuance in the case until April 14.

US boycotts Manila fund meeting

MANILA, The Philippines (UPI) — The United States, maintaining its stand against any aid to North and South Vietnam, has decided to boycott a fund raising conference opening here Tuesday on medical assistance to the two war-ravaged countries, an embassy spokesman said today. A spokesman for the World Health Organization Western Pacific headquarters in Manila which initiated the two-day conference said that in addition to the United States, two other countries invited to the meeting — China and Britain — sent word they would not attend.

Veto hint out

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld said in a television interview Sunday President Ford will "give very careful consideration" to vetoing a military spending bill if it is less than the $100.1 billion. That figure has been sought by the Ford administration. Rumsfeld appeared — on the "Issues and Answers" program.

10 Valley solons slate '76 races

By DAVE HORSMAN

TWIN FALLS — Ten of Magic Valley's 15 state legislators already have decided to seek reelection in November, according to a Times-News survey.

Four are undecided and Rep. E.V. McLean, R-Ketchum, announced he would not seek a fourth term. "I've been in here six years and want to do a little traveling. It's becoming quite confining," McLean said.

Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, and James Yost, R-Wendell, and Reps. William Roberts, R-Buhl, and J. Ward Chaburn, R-Idaho, haven't made up their minds yet.

Yost said he would run for a second term if "enough people want me to run and if they feel I have done a good job." An official announcement must wait until he hears from his constituents, Yost added.

Barker, who is completing his fifth term, said he is evaluating his business operation in Buhl and probably will decide in the next two weeks. Six-term representative Roberts said he is "undecided at the moment. I have some things that I've got to check out first." If he decides to run and is re-elected, Roberts said he would push for new legislation requiring legislative review and acceptance of the proposed state water plan. Gov. Cecil Andrus' recent veto of this year's measure "was detrimental — to the water users of southern Idaho," he said.

Chaburn, Magic Valley's senior legislator with 10 terms, said he would "probably make an announcement in the near future if I decide to run again."

High, who is completing his fifth term, recently decided against a bid for the Congressional seat held by Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho. He is seeking to get re-elected to the State Senate and do a good job there.

Saxvik and Hale, both Burley, will seek fourth terms. Assistant minority leader during the last session; Saxvik said he has "a few projects" lined up. Hale said he would like to "cut down on the amount of non-essential legislation that comes through. There's so darn much that doesn't need to go on the books."

Olmstead, who has served two terms, said "One of my goals has been to reduce the expansion of government or stem the tide."

Freshman representatives Brackett and Stivers promised to work for lower governmental costs. "I'm still not satisfied that we're getting our dollar value in Health and Welfare and those things," Stivers said. "Too many dollars are going to administration rather than to need."

Brackett said he will continue to campaign for "a dollar's return for every tax dollar spent."

Peavry, winding up his third full term, said "The biggest thing I can do for my constituents is try to do things that will hold the cost of electricity down." He has testified against the Pioneer coal-fired plant proposed by Idaho Power Co.

Brooks said he would work on many things if elected to a second term, including a push for stronger state laws dealing with "controlling of public property."

Freshman Hoffield said he is interested in tax reform and controlling the growth of government.

Antone will seek his sixth term as a representative.

Hanoi wants aid

PARIS (UPI) — North Vietnam demanded anew today that the United States provide financial aid to rebuild Vietnam in exchange for any attempt by Hanoi to track down American servicemen still missing in Indochina.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Friday in Washington that the American embassy in Paris had sent a message to the North Vietnamese embassy proposing a normalization of relations between Hanoi and Washington, including North Vietnamese information on 2000 still missing Americans.

A spokesman at the North Vietnamese embassy in Hanoi said Monday that Hanoi's "three-year demand that the United States respect Article 21 in the 1954 peace treaty providing that the United States fulfill its obligation to contribute to healing the wounds of war and reconstruction of postwar Vietnam."

Explosive tanker upsets on road

KINGSTON, Tenn. (UPI) — A tractor-trailer carrying a "highly combustible and toxic chemical" overturned on an isolated stretch of Interstate 40 on Hickwood Mountain today. State troopers sealed off the highway for one mile on either side of the wreck.

About a dozen mountain families in the area were ordered from their homes until a special demolition team from Ft. Campbell, Ky., could arrive to try to neutralize the chemical.

Sadat starts Europe tour in Bonn

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — President Anwar Sadat flew to West Germany today on the first stop of a two-week European swing to seek economic aid for Egypt and political support for the Palestine Liberation Organization. Sadat was greeted at the Bonn airport by President Walter Scheel.

Offices hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Specially trained teams of FBI agents broke into New York City offices of the Socialist Workers Party and two affiliated groups at least 92 times over a six and one-half year period, according to documents made public today. The nearly 400 pages of FBI reports were obtained by the party through a $27 million damage suit.

'Outraged' Musevites complaining

MOSCOW (UPI) — More American diplomats received telephone calls Sunday night from "outraged Soviet citizens" who complained about attacks on Soviet offices and buildings in New York, U.S. Embassy officials said today. But none of the callers made threats of violence against the diplomats, as was the case last week when the embassy community came in for an intense two-day campaign of telephone harassment.

Bulgarian Reds laud absent Leonid

SOFIA, Bulgaria (UPI) — President Todor Zhivkov opened Bulgaria's 11th Communist party congress today, echoing the Soviet Union's foreign policy in a speech that contained no surprises. The general secretary of the Soviet Communist party, Leonid I. Brezhnev, did not appear for the opening session and so did not hear Zhivkov praise him as "the most highly esteemed political leader of our political age." It was a routine tribute to Brezhnev from Bulgaria, the Soviet Union's staunchest ally in Europe.

Levi pledges guards on wiretaps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Edward H. Levi promised today that under a proposed wiretap bill the Justice Department would never engage in domestic electronic surveillance without a court warrant.

Bureau of Reclamation receives AF-Dam papers

By SHANE O'NEILL

Times-News writer

BUHL — Contracts for replacement of the American Falls Dam have been delivered to the Bureau of Reclamation for signature.

John Barker, Buhl, president of American Falls Reservoir District No. 1, said today the contracts were delivered to Rod Vissia, regional director for the Bureau in Boise, on Friday.

The contracts involved included the government contract, the falling water rights contract with Idaho Power, and the water quality control contract, as well as twelve bond repayment contracts for irrigation spaceholders.

In addition, Vissia received the spaceholder contract of Idaho Power. The government also must sign the repayment contract for the Mecloud Division of the Fort Hall Indian Reservation, whose repayment would be guaranteed by the government.

Delivery of the contracts to the bureau came one day after a lawsuit was filed concerning approval of the repayment contract on the largest single spaceholder in American Falls Reservoir.

The lawsuit was filed in district court in Shoshone Thursday, challenging the contract executed by American Falls Reservoir District No. 2 on the dam replacement program.

Plaintiffs in the case are William Kerner, director and former board president; Charles Barnes, director; and water users Corwin and Floyd Silva.

New board president R. Wendell Johnson and the rest of the directors of the district are listed as defendants.

Johnson was elected president of the board, after Kerner refused to sign the contract when approved by the directors ten days ago.

Attorney James Annett, representing the plaintiffs in the case, said this morning, "Under the circumstances that exist at American Falls Number Two, a judicial determination of the problems should have been undertaken before anybody executed that contract, and certainly, under the language of Section 404 (Idaho Code) a contract signed by any officer of the district without confirmation proceedings would be of questionable validity."

The timeliness of required confirmation proceedings on the assessment of benefits and allocation of costs within the districts, as well as confirmation of the contract itself, is one of the major points in the legal action.

Cecil Hobbey, attorney for American Falls District No. 2, said this morning that there has been no confirmation process. He said those proceedings should come after the contract has been signed.

Hobbey said it was possible that the lawsuit would hold up the construction program, but that "the general contracting bids are still scheduled to be opened April 20."

As for the replacement of Kerner after he refused to sign the contract, Hobbey said, "I don't think that has any bearing on the lawsuit. Hobbey said he received a copy of the complaint over the weekend but has not had a chance to examine it yet."

Minkidoka and Burley Irrigation Districts are watching the Shoshone lawsuit carefully. Both districts have rejected the replacement program and their individual repayment contracts and have informed American Falls Reservoir District No. 1, as constructing agency in the project, that it can no longer represent them in any way in connection with the American Falls program.

Economic index slows

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government index that is supposed to forecast future economic activity increased 0.8 per cent in February, a substantial slowdown from the rise in January, the Commerce Department said today.

The index measured eleven sectors of the economy. By charging them on a percentage basis, government economists say future industrial production and employment is often foreshadowed.

No one has been legally put to death in the United States since 1967. But the Legal Defense Fund of the NAACP, which is sponsoring efforts to void capital punishment, estimates that 59 men and women are on death rows in 26 states.

Death penalty airing set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Is the death penalty so harsh that in the name of decency it must be abolished, or is it a useful deterrent society needs to protect itself from violent criminals?

The Supreme Court will devote nearly six hours to that question and others Tuesday and Wednesday when it again hears arguments on whether capital punishment is cruel and unusual, and violates the Eighth Amendment.

It will be the third time in four years the arguments have been heard. In 1972, the court abolished the death penalty as it was then applied on grounds too much discretion was given judges and juries to decide who should live and who should die for the same kinds of crimes.

Since then, 31 states have passed new death penalty laws that, in varied ways, cut down or eliminate discretion. In some states, death is mandatory for certain crimes such as murder or forcible rape. In others, death is called for if the crime is aggravated by torture or depravity.

Minico death said accident

RUPERT — A Rupert youth died Saturday night of an unrelated gunshot wound suffered months earlier in the day.

Richard Lee Dudley, 19, died about 10 p.m. Saturday at St. Anthony Hospital in Pocatello.

Dudley was shot while trying to clear a jam on a .22 caliber rifle about 2 p.m. Saturday in the Kimama Butte area north of Pocatello.

Minico County Coroner Kim Christensen said the rifle misfired. He said the bullet entered under the right eye and there was no exit wound.

A companion notified authorities and Dudley was taken to Minkidoka Memorial Hospital by Mini-Cassia Ambulance. He was later transferred to St. Anthony Hospital.

Christensen said there will be no autopsy or inquest.

Evacuation set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pentagon officials said today that evacuation operations are being prepared to evacuate American citizens from war-torn Lebanon, but an evacuation operation does not appear imminent.

Defense officials said the primary means of evacuation would be aircraft. Navy sources said the helicopter carrier Guadalcanal and other ships are in the eastern Mediterranean, within 24 hours sailing of the Lebanese coast.

The attack carrier Saratoga is also in the eastern Mediterranean, in port at Split, Yugoslavia.

Named Miss Rodeo America last fall, Miss Schnell has already traveled from coast to coast. She led the Scouts of her experiences in appearing at many functions throughout the nation, many of which she said are Biennial celebrations.

She encouraged the young women to compete in national contests with other young women, explaining no matter how small or large the scope of the contest if offers an opportunity to meet and enjoy many new friends.

Delegates closed the three day convention at CSI Sunday following a "Scouts' Own" ceremony in the morning and farewell meeting.

Girls attended from nearly every community in southern Idaho and eastern Oregon which is the area covered by the Silver Sage Council.

Aides elected in May vote

TWIN FALLS — County Clerk Harold Lancaster reminded political party officials Friday of the change in elections this year with all precinct committee members to be elected in May.

He said the first presidential primary election in Idaho this year gives voters of the state two primary and one general election. He said ballots for the May 25 election will include the names of presidential candidates for both parties and precinct committee candidates.

In the August primary election, nominations will be voted on other U.S. and state offices which are to be filled this year along with the county offices of sheriff, coroner and prosecuting attorney and two of the three county commissioners. Meri E. Leonard, commission chairman, and Ann Cover hold the expiring terms.

Lancaster said voting machines will be used in all three elections. Registration books are now in the hands of registrars and voters are urged to contact the registrars in their own precincts if they are not registered, or if they are in question about registration.

Forms available

BURLEY — Applications for scholarships to the University of Idaho Natural Resource Workshop are available now in the Cassia County extension office, according to Wayne Cole.

The applications must be submitted by May 12. The fee for the workshop is $20. But Cole said several sponsoring organizations are offering scholarships.

The workshop is scheduled for June 7-12 at Camp Alpine, near Palisades Reservoir, and is open to high school men and women who have completed their first year of high school or who are older, according to Cole. For more information, contact the Cassia County extension office, 670-9461 or write Box 318, Burley.

Forest Service resource assessment report indicates expanded needs

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer
WASHINGTON, D. C. — Copies of a summary of the Forest Service Renewable Resource Assessment with recommendations for a Renewable Resource program on public lands are now available.

The summary report which followed an extensive study, public hearings and site public input called for under the Renewable Resources Planning Act of 1974, covers six major categories of public lands.

These include outdoor recreation and wilderness, wildlife and fish habitat, range, timber, land and water and human and community development.

Based on public input and technical studies by Forest Service specialists, the recommendations point toward expansion of uses and needs in nearly all of the six categories. In public hearing several alternatives were established by the forest service for selection by those attending hearings, or those submitting written comment.

Copies of the summary report are available from local Forest Service offices. Growing interest in outdoor recreation indicates, the summary shows, the 125.0 million recreation visitor days of 1975 will increase to between 129.3 to 140 million in 1980, and 220 million by 2020. Emphasis, the Forest Service says, appears to be on continued dispersed recreation use (as opposed to developed site recreation) with private sector providing the increased developed recreation facilities.

Under the recommended program, the Forest Service would continue the current share in developed recreation, but would encourage private development of such services, as ski resorts or summer resorts where demand and interest warrants.

An increase in wilderness areas from the present 32 million acres of wilderness designated lands to 15.2 million acres by 1980 and up to 25 to 30 million acres by the year 2020.

Public desire and Congressional direction indicate an interest in preserving a greater amount of the natural land heritage in its original or wilderness state for enjoyment of future generations, the summary indicates.

The recommendations call for increased use and enjoyment of fish and wildlife resources with protection of threatened and endangered species. The report says the program would provide for greater species diversity and wildlife and fish populations through a substantial increase in habitat management.

Recommendations are to increase wildlife habitat improvement from 175,000 acres in 1975 to more than 1 million acres in 1980. Further, the report recommends greater cooperation with other federal and state agencies in improving habitat management activities and encouraging private land owners to include habitat protection and development in their own programs.

Increased emphasis on range feed in the face of rising costs of grain and other farm produced feeds calls for producing of larger amounts of forage on forest ranges, the report states.

The proposed program would improve the efficiency of resource allocation and range condition for other values such as watershed protection and wildlife. It would provide forage to the extent benefits are commensurate with costs without impairing land productivity. Livestock grazing on National Forest lands would increase from the current 11.3 million animal unit months to 13.3 million animal unit months from 1975 to 2020. To reach the goals, the report calls for improvement of unsatisfactory range condition and improved grazing practices.

Recommendations for timber would increase yields from the present 2.7 billion cubic feet to about 3 billion in 1980 and up to 4.1 billion cubic feet by 2020.

Efficient timber management with concentrated investments on the most productive sites in the National Forest System would be used to meet the goals.

Water yields on forest land would be increased through a recommended program of improved soil productivity, greater fire control measures and better control of other timber caused erosion. Further the study recommends assistance be given on state and private lands under forest cover. Through the land and water programs, close coordination with other divisions such as wilderness and recreation would be required to meet the goals, the study shows.

In the human and community development field the study calls for expanding the Youth Conservation Corps from 10,000 to as many as 39,000 by the year 2020.

Other manpower programs would continue at about the present level, but assistance to communities would increase from the 300 now covered to 1,800 by 1980 with this level to continue through 2020.

This assistance would include urban and community forestry with possibly some rural community fire protection. Research in this category would be expanded in the fields of insect or disease outbreaks and the development of new kinds of timber products or recycling of salvageable wood materials.

Costs of the various phases of the program would be largely offset by income from the expanded and intensified programs and from the revenue the expanded programs will generate.

Annual costs estimated for the recommended programs include: Recreation, about $246.9 million by 1980 and $337.7 million by 2020.

Lincoln landfill in plan stage

SHOSHONE — The sanitary landfill for Lincoln County is still in the planning stage, with county commissioners initiating a tour of the dump site north of Shoshone.

Within the site will be garbage disposal areas, a dead animal pit, an area for burning logs and trees and a location for heavy metal items.

Overall plans include the usual pickup of garbage by the city of Shoshone with the county providing a pickup in outlying areas. The collection routes will be in the Birchfield, North Shoshone and Kimama.

Pits will likely be built in which containers will be placed for refuse. The container would be hoisted out

How important is the Kissinger issue?

Ronald Reagan won his first presidential primary in North Carolina last week largely by playing up "the Kissinger issue."

North Carolina voters listened intently to Reagan's warnings that Dr. Kissinger is selling American military strength down the drain by constantly seeking to lessen tensions between this country and the Soviet Union.

Criticism of Kissinger's foreign policy has emerged as one of the few real issues in the presidential battle between Ford and Reagan. If North Carolina is any indication, the Kissinger issue will become an even hotter potato in coming weeks as Reagan tries to make up lost ground against the President.

What makes Dr. Kissinger such a controversial figure is that he now appears to single-handedly dictate American foreign policy.

This worries many Americans.

Dr. Kissinger has scored some major victories in his reign as America's best known diplomat, most notably in the Mideast. At the same time, Kissinger has authorized such things as the secret bombing of Cambodia, the CIA involvement in Chile, and most recently, military aid to Egypt without the public knowing anything about it.

Kissinger appears convinced he knows the path to international peace. Kissinger also is sure the policy of detente isn't weakening America's military strength compared to the Soviet Union.

The North Carolina vote shows the good doctor hasn't convinced voters that what Henry says is right.

In the seven years Kissinger has been involved in foreign policy decisions the public has become increasingly isolated from the policymaking machinery. A blanket of secrecy and silence now muffles foreign policy decisions, a development which many Americans have begun to criticize.

No matter what its merits, Dr. Kissinger's foreign policy will not be successful if American voters don't understand the policy and approve it.

The Kissinger issue, on the surface, is simply a fear that American military might isn't what it used to be. This superficial worry about American strength isn't so significant since this country still possesses an awesome military club which scares the wits out of everyone, including the Soviet Union and China.

The underlying significance of the Kissinger issue however, is one of extreme importance to Americans.

The nation has had enough secrets, enough doubletalk from the men in high places. Dr. Kissinger's foreign policy has to be an open policy for all to see.

Americans want to know what their nation is doing abroad and then want to discuss it with the politicians.

Dr. Kissinger's secrecy and lack of frankness has become a political liability for President Ford and one which he should not allow to continue.

Thoughts for today

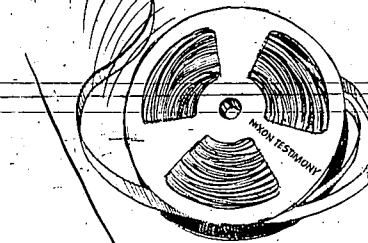

"Life is certainly not worthwhile as it represents struggle for worthy causes. There is no struggle in perfect security. I am quite certain that the human being could not continue to exist if he had perfect security." - Dwight D. Eisenhower, 34th U.S. President.

"One fool judgment is worth a thousand honest counsels. The thing to do is to supply light and not heat." - Woodrow Wilson, 28th U.S. President.

Berry's World

"I don't care if perms for men ARE very popular now - I'm not ready for one!"

"My insurance company? Why."

Ford's consumer setup generates controversy

WASHINGTON - The Ford administration's new program for improving the federal government's responsiveness to consumers has provoked a storm of protest from consumer groups and congressional Democrats...

"How can an in-house consumer representative be expected to be a tough advocate... Unlike the proposed independent consumer agency, the critics added, the consumer representatives will have no legal authority to subpoena information or appeal government decisions in court..."

President Ford initiated the new program one year ago as an alternative to the independent consumer protection proposal Congress was preparing to consider...

"I recognize the legitimate public and congressional concerns that departments and agencies be more responsive to the interests of consumers," Ford wrote to agency supporters on Capitol Hill last April...

Administration spokesmen told the 10-member panel that "in-house" consumer representatives who will monitor agency activities regularly and establish a close working relationship with other employees will be much more effective than having one outside unit attempt the job...

"The one thing the President's plan really does is offer the consumer point of view at the decision-making level," said Joan Braden, who told the committee that as consumer representative for the State Department she would present consumer positions on matters such as international trade and commodity agreements...

"It would take the Ford administration to concoct a consumer fraud, wrapped in a bureaucratic nightmare, and paid for by the beleaguered taxpayer in order to stop a genuine anti-bureaucratic consumer protection agency..."

Foreign policy to fore

DALLAS - Las Monday, the gleaming DC-9 of the secretary of state arrived - at taxpayer's expense - in this Texas Republican stronghold for two days of pontifical or demagogic President Ford's campaign.

In a speech Monday night, Ford's surrogate out-Reaganed Reagan to his hawkish audience, leaving 1,200 Texans with the general impression that if Fidel Castro doesn't shape up he had better redouble the beach patrol at the Bay of Pigs.

On Tuesday, at meetings with the mayor, the Dallas City Council, civic and business groups, the Ford campaigner pooh-poohed suggestions that his visit had anything to do with the primary election to be held five weeks from now.

At a news conference, the President's representatives claimed that the Defense Department and the Joint Chiefs were in happy harmony with him on what Reagan has characterized as the give-away of the Panama Canal; the secretary of state, with typical diplomatic subtlety, said: "The issue emphatically is not to give away the Panama Canal."

Also on Tuesday, back in Washington, Texas Republican Sen. John Tower - heading the Ford campaign in this state - hailed the Dallas Kissinger speech, and claimed that the President was leading Reagan in Texas. He hinted that the results of the North Carolina primary would have its impact on the undecided, and readers here wondered if they would see what Lone Star politicians call stamped.

Stimulated by White House sources, rumors have been printed that former Texas Gov. John Connally would help seal the tomb of the Reagan zombie by announcing his support for the President at some propitious moment before May 1.

Then came Tuesday night's Reagan upset in North Carolina - the margin curiously less than Ford's close win in Florida; but what a difference winning makes - and an electric shock crackled through Texas following day.

Republican politicians here interpret the relatively small swing that changed Reagan's Florida defeat to North Carolina victory to (1) voter reaction to press accounts riling Reagan out of the race, which were exploited well by the new underdog (2) overconfidence in the Ford camp, which began to believe what it was reading, and (3) Reagan's belated replacement of a "pseudo-commandment" with a "vigorous attack on an outdated foreign policy."

An observer with more experience than most in Texas politics thinks that the primary situation today is remarkably volatile - a 10 per cent swing, 5 per cent each way, is possible within 24 hours. It is thought that Tower is unlikely to be claiming any lead here for Ford today.

In economic good times, the main topic of chatter in foreign and his surrogates ignore the hard-line demands of Reagan, they suffer as one-way detentists; if they accept to them, as the President's men surely have been doing, they make it appear that the un-elected challenger is making foreign policy decisions for the un-elected president. And what if John Connally, who has long been saying that foreign policy would determine the outcome of the coming election? Is he the President's secret Southwestern weapon, primed to boom his support of Ford on Texas primary eve? The outspoken ex-Treasury secretary, who would surely not mislead an old comrade in arms, tells me: "I was not contacted until last Sunday night. One of the President's campaign officials did talk with me - about becoming involved in the Ford campaign in a limited way. I explained that my own commitments would probably prevent me from performing that service."

WILLIAM SAFIRE

"We need a great deal of effort," Connally continued. "To obtain a larger percentage of Republicans in Congress. That's what I've been doing for six months and hope to continue. To become involved in the Ford campaign in a limited way. I explained that my own commitments would probably prevent me from performing that service."

"We need a great deal of effort," Connally continued. "To obtain a larger percentage of Republicans in Congress. That's what I've been doing for six months and hope to continue. To become involved in the presidential primary (I might call do harm to that work, and I'd sure have to think a long time about abandoning that work in order to inject myself into the presidential campaign at this late date."

That makes sense; the endorsement of big guns, and the visits of celebrities should not interfere with the Choice of Republican voters in the next big primary. And-if-Jimmy Carter snarles one of the spots on the Democratic ticket, John Connally (How come everybody's initials are "J. C.") would be a natural choice to be part of a Republican ticket to keep the South from returning to the Democratic fold.

The Reagan campaign song is now "What a Difference a Day Makes." When the euphoria ebbs, the Californian will still have an uphill battle; however he has now had the experience of letting early leads in New Hampshire and Florida erode, and may have learned what is not to do.

What not to do, in Reagan's case is to shadowbox in a meaningless personality contest. What not to do in Ford's case, is to send supposedly nonpolitical emissaries to his own political campaigning. Foreign policy, say the Reagan campaign people, emerging as the issue of 1978: this is the serious issue to be joined by the principals themselves this coming month in Texas.

Watergate acids keep on corroding

WASHINGTON - The Watergate experience is proving to be like one of those awful acids they used to warn about in freshman chemistry.

It keeps biting. Time scarcely dilutes it. Lately the acid has been eating at a thoroughly decent American, Howard H. "Bo" Callaway.

It's a sad business all around. There was a time when we gave at least lip service - and usually more than lip service - to an old concept. This was the concept that a person, charged with some offense, should be regarded as innocent until proved guilty. There was also a time, before Watergate, when we clung to what Henry Kissinger has called "a minimum level of confidence" in persons in public life.

The corrosive effects of Watergate have terribly damaged those civilized propositions. Three and a half years have passed since the date of corruption began to unfold. The acid still eats at human relationships. We live in a milieu of doubt, breathing acid fumes of suspicion. As in a dream, I hear myself saying to an old friend, "If you've left a smoking pistol, Bo, I've got to know it."

Callaway served as a member of the House from Georgia from 1955 to 1966, and then returned to public service in May, 1973, as secretary of the Army. He served in that capacity until July 4, 1975, when he resigned to become manager of President Ford's campaign. Now he's out.

Wallace hints power play, '79 retirement

By United Press International

George Wallace says his health seems to be a problem to his campaign, but even though his legs are useless, "at least I'm not paralyzed in the head (like) some of the people that have been running our government."

GEORGE WALLACE

... his plans drawn

Ronald Reagan still was trying to buy prime television time which the networks were reluctant to sell, for a speech. Morris Udall said he would accept the vice presidential nomination on either a Jimmy Carter or Henry Jackson ticket. And three separate polls showed varying results.

Francis interviewed on NBC TV's "Meet the Press," said that if he cannot win the nomination his main concern was using his delegates to ensure the party represents "the great middle class." He also said that if he is not nominated he will end his political career when his term as Alabama governor expires in January, 1979.

Reagan's campaign media managers said they would try again today to buy time for the planned nationwide speech. CBS denied it refused the time. NBC said the request was not made far enough in advance and ABC had no comment.

Reagan Saturday called it a "ridiculous situation." His press secretary, Lyn Nofziger, said Sunday the next step had not been decided.

Nofziger told reporters Reagan may take his campaign into Texas soon and said Reagan tentatively plans to "go back out on the road a week from Monday."

Udall, asked about the vice presidency during a New York television interview, said: "I wouldn't refuse a call of my political party." Asked if he could serve with Carter or Jackson, Udall said, "Yes, yes."

Udall said of Jackson: "I'm not sure I want him in the presidency, or at least I think I would be better..."

Carter, he said, "liberated us from this idea that southerners can't seek national office, and we're a better country for that." One national and two statewide polls had varying results Sunday.

A national telephone survey by the New York Times and CBS News found Carter, apparently, has translated his primary victories into broad support among Democrats.

He now leads his closest rival, Jackson, nearly two to one among active candidates. Wallace, according to the new poll, has lost more than half the support he had six weeks ago. Noncandidate Hubert Humphrey still outdraws Carter among Democrats.

On the Republican side, President Ford was favored by Republicans two to one nationally.

A poll by the Minneapolis Tribune showed 80 per cent of independent Republicans felt Ford would be the strongest GOP candidate. True to their favorite son, nearly seven of every 10 Democrats considered Humphrey the strongest candidate for their party, with 14 per cent favoring Carter.

Valium abuse rise nearing 'epidemic'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Valium, a drug commonly prescribed for anxiety relief, can create fatal problems if mixed with other drugs, warns the Executive Director of the National Council on Drug Abuse.

Dr. Jordan Scher said Sunday over 25 million Americans pop Valium, and claimed about 500 deaths were caused in 1974 by accidental or intentional mixing of the tranquilizer with other substances, including alcohol.

"Valium abuse and misuse have reached almost epidemic proportions," he told the Third National Drug Abuse Conference.

"Valium today is being prescribed as casually as is aspirin and by responsible physicians who seem to be insufficiently informed about the problems and dangers," Scher said.

He warned physicians to use extreme caution before prescribing Valium to pregnant women, and said, "Get a full drug history of your patient. Do not be too ready to administer Valium to a patient you are seeing for the first time."

"Begin administering with the lowest possible dose. If a patient demands a higher dose, suspect a problem patient," he said.

Arms policies hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon's replacement policy for U.S. forces is "detrimental to our national well-being" and shows the United States apparently bent on "unilateral disarmament," Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today.

Proxmire, a frequent Pentagon critic, made the remarks in a speech prepared for delivery on the Senate floor.

"The United States appears to be engaging in its own form of unilateral disarmament," Proxmire said. "Insistence on ever more sophisticated weapons, irreversibly leads to lower force levels."

"The only conclusion that can be drawn is that the defense department is engaged in a replacement policy detrimental to our national well-being."

Proxmire said Air Force fighter and attack squadrons have been reduced by 13 per cent since 1961, and Navy and Marine tactical fighters and attack planes by 30 per cent.

He said the U.S. fleet has also suffered a reduction since 1943 of more than 400 vessels — leaving the country with the smallest number of ships since 1939. He said the reason could be traced in part to the Pentagon's "obsession with the large aircraft carrier task force."

Liquor heir marries

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Samuel Bronfman II, the Seagrams liquor heir who was kidnapped and released on a $2.1 million ransom last summer, has married a girl he met at college in Massachusetts.

Bronfman, 22, and Melanie Ann Menz, 21, daughter of a West Los Angeles car dealer, were married Saturday at St. Alban's Episcopal Church in Westwood, Calif.

The groom was kidnapped at gunpoint in August from the driveway of his mother's home in Purchase, N.Y. He was released unharmed after his father, chairman of Seagram Co. Ltd., paid the ransom. The money was recovered and two suspects captured and charged with the kidnapping.

Women propose to Brown

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — California's bachelor governor, Edmund Brown Jr., 37, has been deluged with letters from women proposing marriage and requesting dates, an aide reports.

Patricia Morris, his private secretary, said during the weekend Brown may read the letters — depending "on the contents."

During 1975, Brown's office received 527,535 pieces of mail, making him the biggest letter-getter of any California governor, it was reported.

Nixons visit Roosevelt

CORONA DEL MAR, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Richard Nixon and his wife were dinner guests during the weekend at the home of James Roosevelt, eldest son of the late President Franklin Roosevelt.

"They were our guests and we had a very enjoyable visit, an informal family evening," Roosevelt, who served as Southern California chairman of Democrats for Nixon in 1972, said after the two-hour visit.

Mrs. Roosevelt cooked and served the meal, he said.

The Nixons were driven to the home on a bluff overlooking Newport Harbor by a Secret Service agent. No other aides or family members accompanied them.

Roosevelt said he, his wife and another couple dined last month at Nixon's home in San Clemente, about 20 miles down the Pacific coast.

Rockefeller on tour

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Vice President Rockefeller left Singapore early today, midway through a nine-country goodwill tour that takes him next to Australia.

Rockefeller and his wife, Pippy, left aboard Air Force Two for a 24-hour visit to Singapore where the vice president talked with Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew.

The Rockefelleres planned to stop at the resort island of Bali in eastern Indonesia for eight hours before continuing the journey to Australia.

Rockefeller arrived in Singapore Sunday from neighboring Malaysia.

Mattress burns

JOLIET, Ill. (UPI) — A mattress fire broke out in a room Sunday at the Joliet Sheraton Inn, where civil rights activist Rev. Jesse Jackson and his three sons were staying.

Neither Jackson, head of Operation PUSH, nor his sons were injured in the blaze, but one person was hospitalized and another was treated for minor injuries.

Authorities said the fire began when an ash tray containing a lit cigarette was knocked over.

Pioneer film star, Arlen, dies

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Pioneer film star Richard Arlen, who starred in the first Oscar-winning motion picture, "Wings," was an aerial daredevil in life and the movies.

Arlen, who appeared in more than 250 silent films and starring features during his 37-year career, died Sunday at the age of 73 at Riverside Hospital, where he was hospitalized four weeks ago for treatment of a severe emphysema attack.

Patty planned to leave SLA 'friends' for Boston

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst, in an open break with the Symbionese Liberation Army, planned to leave for a women's collective in Boston before she was arrested Sept. 18, according to a copyrighted article said Miss Hearst, convicted of armed bank robbery March 20, already had decided to desert SLA members William and Emily Harris when FBI agents caught the trio in San Francisco.

She and the Harris face charges in Los Angeles related to a shooting incident at a sporting goods store in May 1974.

Blind can hear machine

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Dr. Paul Hegstad, a physiology professor at the University of Texas Health Science Center, is legally blind, but a new machine allows him to read by "hearing" individual letters and words.

Hegstad, 33, lost his sight 18 months ago because of diabetic retinopathy, a degeneration of the retinas.

He can distinguish between light and dark and the general shapes of furniture and people — but not the details.

However, by using the new electronic device, Hegstad will be able to read without using braille.

He is learning to use a machine about the size of a small flashlight which is connected to a battery case he wears around his neck.

Similar to sonar operators who perfect the sorting of underwater mines and constantly tell the sound of a submarine from a whale, Hegstad is memorizing the sounds of individual letters and words.

Annual academy awards ceremony slated tonight

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Will the best picture of the year be history's boxoffice champion, "Jaws," or the critics' favorite, "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest"?

Will the Oscar go to Jack Nicholson or Al Pacino for best performance by an actor in 1975?

The 48th Annual Academy Award ceremonies ends the suspense tonight on its internationally telecast show with a galaxy of stars on stage and nominees in the audience awaiting the opening of the sealed envelopes.

Closest competition involved Nicholson for his performance as a psychotic crazed asylum inmate in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" and Pacino's masterful portrayal of a willful bank robber in "Dog Day Afternoon."

In a nod to the 1975 year were "Cuckoo's Nest" and "Dog Day Afternoon," pictures nominated for best film of the year were "Barry Lyndon" and "Nashville."

Competing with Nicholson and Pacino for best actor of the year were Walter Matthau ("The Sunshine Boys"), Maximilian Schell ("The Man in the Glass Booth") and James Whitmore ("Give 'em Hell, Harry").

The race for best actress was not nearly so clearcut as the apparent two-man contest between Nicholson and Pacino.

Louise Fletcher, who played the pioneering nurse in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," was a slight favorite. She was matched against Glenda Jackson ("Hedda") who has won twice previously. Other best actress nominees were Isabelle Adjani ("The Story of Adele H."), Ann-Margret ("Tommy") and Carol Kane ("Hester Street").

Rock, roll records burned

SHELBY, N.C. (UPI) — Young members of the Bethel Baptist Church held a bonfire Sunday night and used about 200 rock and roll records as fuel.

"We're just trying to teach our young people that you don't have to be caught up in this satanic force of rock music in order to be popular," said Pastor J.M. Ewell.

Donald Baltzgrler, youth coordinator and music director at the church, said he had suggested to youngsters last year that they burn the records but they rejected the idea.

"This year when I suggested it, though, it was overwhelmingly accepted," he said. "They changed their minds I guess because some of them have been growing in the Lord."

Baltzgrler said he felt the pulsating beat and suggestive lyrics of some rock and roll music is not a good influence on young people.

"Anything in Christian life other than Christ himself being a dominant force, we feel is not right," he said.

Kevin Leigh, a 16-year-old member of the church, agreed. He said he had burned all of his rock and roll records in the bonfire in the church parking lot.

"The Lord just told me in my heart this was the wrong kind of music to be listening to," he said.

Group promotes industry

HILLISTER — The Magic Valley Cattlemen's Association reports it has compiled a long list of achievements in furthering the beef industry this year.

The association, with the Idaho-Cattlemen's Association, co-sponsored a mini-convention in Twin Falls to answer questions on finance from livestock-producers in the area.

An animal health clinic was held, co-sponsored by the College of Southern Idaho Agriculture-Department and directed by the Magic Valley Veterinarian Association. A four-session course was offered four nights a week and attended by over a hundred persons.

Eddie Collins, a livestock market reporter, spoke at a meeting open to the public and co-sponsored by the Twin Falls County Farm Bureau, Twin Falls County National Farmer's Organization, Commodity Marketing Association board of directors and the cattlemen's association.

Last fall the association presented five trophies for 4-H and Future Farmers of America participants at county and district fairs and contributed to the High School Rodeo Association.

No problem on eggs

© Chicago Sun-Times

CHICAGO — For those who have been worrying that President Ford will have trouble getting the 50 million to 100 million eggs needed for the swine flu vaccine, relax. The problem isn't what it's cracked up to be.

"We can respond to consumer demand very quickly," said a spokesman with the Poultry and Egg Institute of America, based in Kansas City, Mo. He said the total U.S. egg production annually is 64 billion so that 100-million eggs "isn't much of an impact. Besides, it takes only 21 days for a chick to be hatched."

He added that the egg demand won't have much impact on the price of eggs either.

President Ford urged a government-supported campaign to vaccinate all Americans against a new flu virus, which must be grown in fertilized hens' eggs.

Certified superstud feted

ELBURN, Ill. (UPI) — His mother was billed as the greatest who ever lived. His three brothers all won gold medals. But Pastronaut, an Astronaut is a certified superstud.

The million-dollar bull is leaving thousands of cattle behind him as proof. Astronaut's sons, daughters and their offspring number some 900,000.

"He's a very eager worker," said Miles McCarry, director of the agricultural relations for the Curtiss Breeding Service, which houses the bull for its stud production center near his northern Illinois town.

Astronaut has never sired through natural means, but his beautiful semen production is used to artificially inseminate thousands of cows. The pure-bred Holsteins he has sired total 29,700 alone, a world record.

Some 100 prominent Holstein dairy cattle breeders sipped gold-medal ratings from the Holstein Freisian Association in Brattleboro, Vt.

Astronaut has been better than average, too. The paternal bull produces 5,000 offspring by artificial insemination.

Although he is in "much demand," he has continually been able to provide sperm four times a week, helping him easily outdistance his competitors.

"Like I say," McCarry said, "He's a tiger."

Compete in contest

White House against intervention in sugar

BY BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A confidential White House study on sugar policy indicates administration leaders are likely to continue to resist any return to substantial government intervention in the sugar economy.

Officials familiar with the study by the White House Council on International Economic Policy decline to discuss some of its contents. But one source told UPI that while the paper offers no flat conclusions, its authors reported that "most projections" for the future indicate sugar supplies will be in generally fair balance with demand over the next few years.

"In other words, no great surpluses or shortages are foreseen," the spokesman said.

As long as that forecast is accepted as the base for policy planning, there would be little likelihood that the Ford administration — which is strongly devoted to reliance on the free market for farm products — would seriously consider any major change in its current sugar policy.

Until 1974, sugar marketing in the United States had been tightly regulated for 40 years under a law which required the Agriculture Department to determine how much sugar could be sold in the country each year, and then to carve the consumption quota into individual marketing quotas for domestic growers and more than 30 foreign countries.

The law expired at the end of 1974 after the House unexpectedly voted down an extension. Administration farm officials cheered the development because it fitted closely with their desire to wind down government involvement in the agricultural economy.

Since January, 1975, the United States sugar market has been basically free to all foreign and domestic producers except Cuba. President Ford has set a 7 million ton quota on imports, but that figure is so far above actual or probable imports that it pays no real part in regulating the market.

An official who participated in the new White House study said it was being kept confidential because its factual review sections were interwoven with material dealing with potential bargaining positions for U.S. representatives in coming talks on an International Sugar Agreement.

The official said, however, that the study makes no firm recommendations on future sugar policy. He said it merely lays out a range of options ranging from a return to controlled marketing to continuation of a free market.

Given those options, sources familiar with administration policy in the past said they had no reason to think future choices would favor renewed controls.

One reflection of that fact was voiced publicly recently by Assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard Bell in discussing the opening of international sugar agreements.

Bell said "traditional" international market-regulating arrangements like the present International Sugar Agreement and restrictive domestic laws like the old U.S. Sugar Act "are clearly not consistent with the aims of our present national agricultural policy."

"We are not interested in outdated concepts where price ranges are set and supplies and markets allocated among participants," Bell said.

He added, however, that U.S. officials could agree to "international agreements which facilitate the exchange of market information and provide mechanisms for international consultation on short-term commodity problems."

Agency buys beans for peace

WASHINGTON — Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, said Friday the Department of Agriculture has purchased 32 million pounds of pinto beans under its Food for Peace program, and plans another purchase of around 2 million pounds.

Hansen said he was told by department officials the purchases have gone and will continue to go primarily to earthquake victims in Guatemala.

Hansen, who once headed field operations for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, was instrumental in getting the Commodity Credit Corp. to add beans to the foreign purchase program to alleviate surplus and low prices being experienced by farmers in Idaho and other western and mid-western states.

"Hopefully, these purchases will assist farmers in getting better markets and better prices as they move toward financing a new growing season," Hansen said.

Abby bridge

No honor in Harold's play

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-H. V. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm in love for the first time, and the circumstances are a bit unusual. Tim, 26, and Rob, 19. Before you say I'm crazy, please listen to the facts. I'm a school teacher who is very petite and who looks like a teenager. Rob is very mature for his age. We met while bowling. When I told him my age, he was surprised, but he said it didn't matter. It was love at first sight, Abby. After the second date it was as though we'd known each other all our lives.

When we're together alone it's sheer heaven, but for some reason Rob doesn't want to go out in public with me. It can't be my age because he told me I look 18. I accidentally ran into him in the shopping center once, and he ignored me. That really hurt. Later he apologized, saying he was self-conscious because he'd never been in love before. Abby, I want to marry Rob. Please don't think I'm a silly kid. How can I bring him around?

STARS IN MY EYES

He doesn't 'know' her

DEAR STARS: No man who loves a woman would ignore her in public—or anywhere else. (He may have something going with another girl and doesn't want to be seen with you.) Rob has a lot of growing up to do before he qualifies for marriage. I say, toss him back. He's not a keeper.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 54, have been a widow for four years and have recently started dating a man who is 35. He looks older than he is and I look younger than I am, so I'm not sure if the difference in our ages is the problem. The other day he told me that he was invited to spend the weekend with his best friend who is married and lives out of town, and he asked me to go along. I said no because I'm old-fashioned. He said I was silly and old-fashioned. Was I?

OLD-FASHIONED

DEAR LADY: I see nothing "improper" about accompanying the gentleman you're dating on a weekend trip as long as you maintain separate sleeping quarters. If he expected you to double up, that's a different story.

DEAR ABBY: My wife recently died. We had been married only two and a half years. She was 48. I am 66. It was a second marriage for both of us—a short but happy one. I have just discovered a diary among her things. I never knew she kept one. It may be recent or one she kept prior to our marriage. I am tempted to read it, but I'm not sure it would be right. Please advise me.

CURIOS

DEAR CURIOS: What was, was. Destroy it immediately to remove the temptation.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: The person who isn't interested in politics is like the person who is drowning and isn't interested in water. If you are not properly registered to vote, call the headquarters of the political party of your choice, and find out where to register and when to be eligible to vote in the next election. To quote Edmund Burke: "All that is necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing."

Jim: "I don't think much of South's jump to three notrump. Five diamonds spreads."

Oswald: "Our opponents did bid five diamonds. I opened the three of clubs against three notrump. Mike thought for two minutes and played the eight on dummy's nine. Had he played an honor South would have made at least four notrump and won the board. As it was he went down and lost the board and the tournament."

Ask the Jacobys

A Pittsburgh reader wants to know if it is a misdeal when the dealer has a card left over at the end and, if it is not a misdeal, is it correct simply to give that card to the player who is one card short.

The answer is that it is a misdeal and the same dealer should redeal.

Cattle 'sex' change 'disaster' for ranch

© Newhouse News Service

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Tax Court, in a sporty excursion into the intricacies of breeding cattle, has ruled that the Montere Ranch of Ovando, Mont., lost money in 1967, 1968 and 1969 because the owners tried, among other things, to change the sex cycle of their cattle.

This was a disaster, the Tax Court concluded, but said it didn't mean the owners of the ranch, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Barbour, weren't trying to make a profit. The court ruled that they did not have to pay an extra $16,793 in income taxes that the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) had been trying to collect.

IRS had contended that the Barbours were turning their ranch into a country estate, were not interested in making a profit, and therefore should not be allowed to deduct their losses on their federal income tax returns.

The Barbours conceded that they were wealthy, that they had a good life on the ranch, and that it was fine place to raise children. But a country estate? The Tax Court said it didn't even have a swimming pool, guest cabins or entertainment facilities. It was, the Tax Court said, "a functioning cattle ranch."

Anyway, said the Tax Court, "It is possible to enjoy one's life and still want to make a profit." The Barbours had operated the ranch profitably for many years until they decided, upon what they and the Tax Court felt was reasonable advice, to change the type of cattle on their ranch, and to change the timing of cow breeding so that calves would be born in the fall instead of the spring.

But many of the cows didn't take to the new breeding cycle, and some of the few calves that were born had defects and died before they could be marketed. In addition, market prices were lower than in previous years.

The Tax Court glibbed at contending that the Barbours "were clinging to an ahistorical hope that the market would rise to a point that would permit an understocked ranch to slow a profit."

"Whether it is amorphous or not is unimportant," the Tax Court ruled, adding that the ranch has not understocked. It said the Barbours were raising two types of cattle, and had to keep a lot of empty land between the herds so the bulls wouldn't make calls in the wrong herd.

Epic 'crawl' underway

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI) — Hans Mullikin, a Texas Baptist evangelist who's been crawling toward Washington for the Bicentennial, says he is still convinced he'll make it by the Fourth of July.

"I've got a mission in mind and a message to preach as a preacher," Mullikin said. "That is, America, we must go on our knees in prayer or we'll lose our country."

He's met some obstacles along the way: leeches, heavy trucks coming too close, and Louisiana troopers who refuse to let him crawl along Interstate 10, a more direct route.

Despite slow progress — an average of 10 miles a week — Mullikin said he hopes to complete the 1,200 mile journey to Washington by July 4.

elaborate show-business production in the fall. That's where I met Barry. His parents were in the chorus and had urged Barry to join. We girls were in for a treat because he was just a dream. We could hardly wait for each rehearsal, so we could gaze at him. After a while, I had told a few people, hoping it would conveniently get back to me. Boy, was I in seventh heaven!

Even though we weren't actually dating, because he didn't have a driver's license, I invited him to a hay ride, our church was having. We were both disappointed when we discovered he would be away in Pennsylvania on a trip with his parents. But he reassured me that he wanted a rain check on the invitation.

About that time, a movie came to town that was church-sponsored. I remembered what Barry had said about the rain check, so I asked him if he wanted to go. In reply, he wrote me a letter saying he couldn't go, but that wasn't all. The letter was filled with things that proceeded to tear my world apart. There was another girl. He described her in detail and proclaimed his great love for her.

I was alternately very sad and then very mad. My heart told me not to let him get away with this. So I collected my thoughts and wrote him a letter, wishing him all kinds of good luck with his new girl.

I told Barry not to worry about me as "really" hadn't liked him for a while because I found his mirror to be too much competition.

After that we each became aloof, irritating each other at every opportunity. I had accomplished my goal; I had hurt him deeply. But he had started to dream up more ways to hurt me.

Then came the final blow. It was music-contest time, and one of my entries was a difficult clarinet solo by Bach. I had practiced for four months. I was dreading my time with the judge, and as I walked into the contest room, there sat Barry. As I started to play, my fingers shook over the keys with the difficulty of the solo. But Barry gave me the most humiliating of revenge as he deliberately set out to distract me from my music. I began to fall apart, though somehow I made it through to the end. Tears started down my cheeks as I ran from the room, feeling very much like a fool.

From that time on, Barry and I didn't speak to each other at all and went out of our way to avoid one another.

Meanwhile, the Lord was helping me to feel differently about all this. I began to realize that as a Christian, I should practice what I had believed all these years — that forgiveness can be there, just for the asking.

I arranged a meeting through our music teacher. The feud had troubled her greatly and she was just as anxious to see it end. I prayed hard that God would help me to say the right things.

When Barry walked into the room, he looked like he was about to be executed. I began slowly, with God as my guide, to ask Barry to forgive me for all the things I had done to hurt him.

"Isn't a year long enough to be enemies?" I continued. "Isn't it about time we ended this cold war?"

He walked across the room silently, and I thought my efforts had been in vain.

Then he turned toward me, and I could see the relief flooding his face as he said, "You don't know how many times I've tried to say, 'I'm sorry.'" Suddenly we were, talking and laughing in the excitement of being friends once again.

Barry and I are still good friends to this day, and I treasure that friendship for all it cost us. He's different now, and so am I. We both did a lot of growing up during that time.

And we learned a valuable lesson — that unless someone takes that first difficult step, the circle of revenge and bitterness will never be broken. That's something I'll remember all my life.

Back in school

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls pupils returned to their classrooms this morning after a week of Spring vacation.

All public schools here were closed from March 22 through 28. Students will also have a day off April 16, Good Friday.

Twin Falls schools will close May 28 for the next school year and reopen Aug. 24 for the next school year.

MAGIC VALLEY — Magic Valley-area residents reportedly are flocking to their courthouses to save money on their car registrations. It comments by Twin Falls and Jerome county officials are any indication.

A clerk in the Twin Falls County assessors office said today, "We are swamped, you might as well come down and join the rest of them."

Jerome County officials indicate they are also busy taking care of residents who are buying registrations for vehicles whose licenses expire before Oct. 1.

The 1977 Idaho legislature passed an increase in vehicle registrations in the closing two weeks, and the increases take effect on Oct. 1. Vehicle registrations which expire before Oct. 1 can be renewed by April 1 with no loss of registered days.

In other words, a license which would normally expire Sept. 30, 1978, may be registered before April 1 and will then expire until April 1, 1979. Since the registration increase does not take effect until April 1, residents have two more days after today to save.

The amount of the car registration depends on the year of the car. If a resident has a 1974 to 1977 automobile and purchases his registration by 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, it will cost $18, on Thursday it will cost $29.30.

For a 1972 or 1973 automobile, the cost up until Wednesday is $15, on Thursday it will be $27. For a 1970 to 1971 automobile it is now $12.50, the increase will be to $21.

For 1969 and 1968 cars, the charge is now $9.50 and on April 1, it will be $18. For any car older than 1967, the present charge is $7.20 and the new charge will be $12.60.

Persons wishing to re-register their cars must have proof of insurance to do so.

Wendell site option asked

WENDELL — Henry Schutte has requested a 60-day option on two city blocks in Wendell which the city was unable to sell at auction last fall.

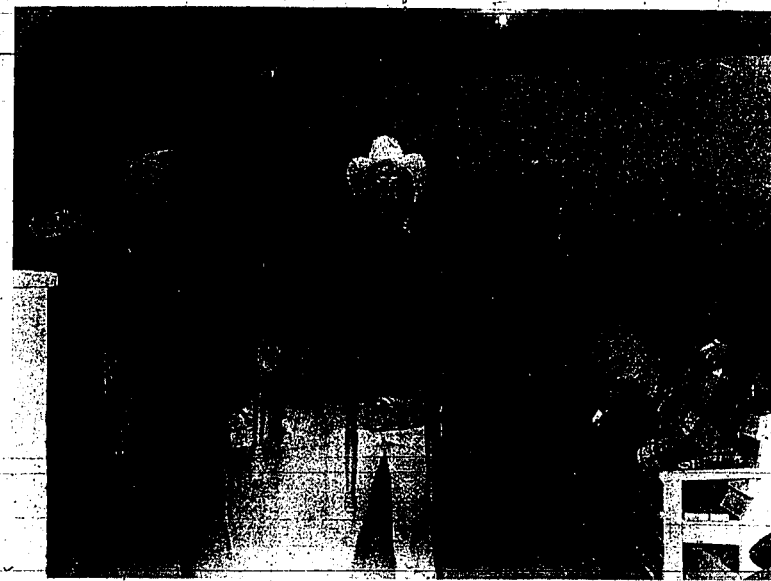

Schutte met last week with the city council to discuss the possibility of purchasing the land for construction of potato storage buildings. He offered the council the appraised price of $3,184 for each lot and provided $500 earnest money toward the price of each.

The council, meeting Thursday night, also heard requests for a water line extension and for the continuation of several sections of water.

John Wert and Don Robertson requested water service from the city lines to their property just west of the city boundary. They estimated 300 feet of pipe would be needed to carry water to the property on which they plan to build potato storages.

Robertson has acquired the property and has obtained necessary easements. The builders will pay the cost of installing the water line extension.

Gale Knutsen requested the city extend Seventh Avenue East from Boise Street to Pocatello Street and Boise Street from Sixth Avenue East to Seventh Avenue East as well as extending Pocatello Street from Sixth Avenue East to Seventh Avenue East.

Trunk auctioned at Jerome

Jerome raises $2,700

BY CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — A public auction Friday helped to boost operation chairlift into the home stretch of the drive to raise funds for chairs for the auditorium in the new high school.

About 250 people attended the auction, which featured items ranging from German chocolate cake through original paintings, all donated by area residents.

Karen James, who assisted with the auction, said about $2,700 was raised, enough to purchase 45 chairs. This brings operation chairlift within 140 chairs of its final goal of 908 chairs. So far, the operation chairlift committee has raised over $45,000 through donations and fund raising events.

Mrs. James said the committee feels sure it will have no problem obtaining the rest of the chairs. She said all of the money so far collected has been drawing interest and the interest will be used to purchase additional chairs.

Each chair costs $50 installed and any who donated $50 or more will have his name engraved on a special plaque.

Mrs. James said the committee has discussed the possibility of putting in a special plaque just for the auction; so that the people who donated over $50 worth of merchandise and those who purchased over $50 will both be listed.

Top buyer at the auction was Leroy Craig, who purchased enough items to pay for seven chairs. The second highest purchaser was Del Hyatt, who spent enough to pay for four chairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Barker and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry James spent enough to pay for three chairs. Jackie and Denny Larson, J and E. Farms Inc., Mr. and Mrs. Jim Messersmith and Bert and Alisa Rosen all purchased enough to pay for two chairs.

Those spending enough to pay for one chair included Charlotte Bell, George Van Lelsouth, Connie, Rusty and Curt Ruby, H and H Grey, Maxine Bell and Joe Ibusko.

Those donating items which brought over $50 included the Blue Lakes Trout Farm, Bessie Stanley, Norris Nielson, Mickey Miller, Simplot Soilbuilders, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Selver, G and L Electric, the Clinic on Aging, Shoemaker Electric, Ruth Brink, Ken Wright, Third Ward Relief Society, Town and Country Homeaches, Helen Epperson, and Valley Sand and Gravel.

This was the first auction Jerry James had conducted since attending auctioneers school.

Blaine teacher talks 'closed'

BY BART QUESNELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Teacher negotiators and the Blaine County School Board have decided to close 1976 contract negotiations sessions to the public.

A news release from the district office after the Wednesday night meeting read "closed meetings with bilateral press releases was decided upon for this time. Both sides retain the privilege of additional information releases."

Lynn Stewart, Blaine teacher negotiator, said the school board withdrew its request for open meetings.

Teachers pushed for the closed sessions, because negotiations could proceed more smoothly if two groups sat down without the worry of seeing their statements in print.

"We can all say things we might not say in public," Stewart said.

He said it would also take away the urge for some people to grandstand for an audience.

"No place else in the state has open negotiations," he said.

He said the negotiations will be opened later when the two sides begin discussing salary increases. The teachers were presented a preliminary budget from the administration, he said, which is being studied. That money battle is expected to begin in about two weeks.

Both sides have agreed on a single statement after each session. However, either group can issue an additional release or statement.

In addition to the open meetings and releases, the two sides agreed to respect all rights of the board under Idaho law not to negotiate away any of those rights.

The two sides agreed:

- Not to invalidate the contract if any part is found illegal.
- Complimented the board on the reduction of class size over the past several years in the district.
- Agreed all schools and teachers will be notified if there are vacancies and retirement positions available. There have been one or two instances, Stewart said, where a retirement or vacancy was quietly held and filled.
- Meeting will be limited to two hours in length.
- The salary contract will be prepared by board members, teachers and one parent from each trustee zone.

The next meeting will be Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Wood River Junior High School all-purpose room.

Cassia aides to capital

BURLEY — Two Cassia County commissioners took their fight against the food stamp program to Washington, D.C., this week.

John Clark, chairman of the commissioners, and Weldon Beck, in charge of the county's welfare program, left Sunday for Washington.

They will make a presentation in hearings before the House Agriculture Committee Tuesday in opposition to the present food stamp program.

Cassia County was invited by Rep. Steve Symms to testify at the hearings after commissioners took a firm stand against any further participation in food stamps. The commissioners early this month rejected a bill for $154 to cover stamp transactions in January at the Burley Post Office, the only outlet for the stamps in Cassia County.

The county pays about 45 cents per transaction, billed to it by the State Department of Health and Welfare.

James Wilson, administrator of the state division of welfare, will also testify before the committee.

Clark and Beck will take with them the support of organizations within the county, including letters adopted almost unanimously by the Burley Chamber of Commerce and the Burley Rotary Club.

Both organizations called for drastic revisions in the program. The Rotary Club favors abolishing the present program and substituting a food placement payment in addition to other support programs.

Duvillard takes title

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (UPI) — World pro ski champion Henri Duvillard, out of his first race in seven weekends, came back after the slalom to defeat Terry Palmer in head-to-head competition Sunday for the Lange Cup combined title.

Duvillard, a 27-year-old Frenchman, fell in the qualifying run that picked the 16 finalists for the slalom, ending his string of seven straight race wins and 36 consecutive head-to-head dual race victories.

Palmer, 23, Kearsarge, N.H., defeated his brother Tyler, Canadian Alain Cousineau, and Frenchman Patrick Russel to advance into Sunday's slalom championship final.

Then the former American Olympic skier, who prepared for the race by parrying all night, edged Josef Odermatl of Switzerland to win his first race of the 1976 season.

But the night without sleep finally took its toll when Palmer had to go against a rested Duvillard for his fifth race of the day.

Duvillard, who has already won this year's pro skiing title, easily won the first run by 834 seconds, and the second by 430 seconds to take the combined title in the seventh annual Lange Cup. The Frenchman advanced into the combined final by winning Saturday's giant slalom — also on Grayhawk Peak.

Palmer had to power his way through several inches of new snow in his four dual slalom races, and finally ran out of strength.

Hearing eyed on bridge

BLISS — The Idaho Transportation Department has announced the opportunity for a public hearing on the proposed King Hill Canal bridge southwest of Bliss.

The proposed bridge would replace the existing structure across the King Hill Canal on the Sheehy Road.

The structure would be located immediately west of the present bridge. It would be a single-span, 52-foot, two-lane roadway of prestressed concrete designed for a 30m. p.h. speed limit.

Plans call for the existing bridge to be left in place until the new bridge is completed. The new bridge would have a 100-foot right-of-way.

Persons wishing a public hearing on the structure have until April 22 to state their desire in writing to a hearing officer through P.O. Box 7129, Boise 83707.

If a public hearing is requested, it will be held May 5. If no hearing is requested the project will be considered acceptable and the Twin Falls Highway District will proceed with development.

Heyburn budget down 4 per cent over last year

HEYBURN — The Heyburn City Council adopted a 1978 budget Friday night that is 4 per cent lower than city expenditures last year.

It also approved the $29,000 plus bid of Pingree Co. for purchase of an aerial bucket truck and discussed the city recreation program and the city-county comprehensive plan. Mayor Harold Hurd said the city will be represented at the public hearing on the plan at 7 p.m. April 8.

No residents appeared to comment on the budget, which has a general fund total of $22,530. The city spent $28,600 last year.

City officials say this year's decrease of 4 per cent is desiring because only three categories list lower figures than the 1975 expenditures. The key one is in highways, streets and roadways. The city spent $75,901 there last year as it poured its revenue starting money into storm sewers. The budget for the category this year is only $47,993.

Irrigation water is shown at $30,124, down from last year's $34,389. The other drop stems from having paid off the sewer bonds, which carried for $1,540 in 1975.

The city now faces a new sewer project to meet Environmental Protection Agency standards. It is awaiting EPA approval on its recommendation for construction of a mechanical secondary treatment plant for the city.

Parks and recreation, combined a year ago at $14,551, is separated in this year's budget. The listing for parks is $5,430, while recreation is to get $15,317.

Sanitation costs were $18,246 in 1975 and are budgeted at $19,650 this year. The total for all environment and transportation costs last year was $144,647, taking a big drop to $118,513 for 1978.

General government expenses are up this year from $57,375 to an estimated $68,714. Legislative expenses are listed at $12,074, compared with $11,515 last year. The city superintendent's office spent $12,287 in 1975 and is budgeted for $14,628 this year.

Financial and administrative costs are expected to jump from 1975 expenditures of $28,900 to this year's estimate of $37,211. Legal fees are listed at $4,800 after $4,305 was spent in 1975. Enforcement and protection this year totals $36,363, up $5,800 from the 1975 expenditure of $30,564.

The bulk of those expenses are in the police department, budgeted for $27,600 after spending $24,927 last year.

Building inspections are expected to nearly double this year, going from the 1975 expenditure of $3,670 to this year's budget of $6,525. Annual control has been boosted from $1,788 to $2,238.

The general fund budget, at $224,590, is well under general fund revenues for last year. The electrical fund budget is $313,000, up from revenues of $509,539 in 1975.

Rupert meeting on proposed city sewage lagoon site uncertain

BY SHANE O'NEILL
Times-News writer

RUPERT — A city of Rupert proposal for a meeting concerning objections to the projected city sewage lagoon site appears to have fallen short of its mark.

Mayor Wendell Johnson said a meeting was tentatively set for 7 p.m. Tuesday, inquiring on whether Blaindoka County commissioners could attend.

But protest leader Donald Kester and a half-mile Roger Ling said they had not been officially notified of the meeting as of this morning.

They added that a Tuesday meeting probably would not allow them enough time to prepare for it or to choose the representative committee suggested by the city.

"We'd like to present a pretty good case

Ling said. "We'd like to present our side as thoroughly as they can."

Both men said they learned of the possible meeting only last Thursday. Kester read about it in the newspaper. Ling said his law partner, lawyer Johnson said he hoped that Hamilton and Vobler, the city's consulting engineers, could answer some of the questions raised by protesters. Johnson said he also hoped to have a statement of the Environmental Protection Agency's position on the lagoon site in time for the meeting.

Classification of the federal land for transfer to the city under the Recreation and Public Purposes Act was approved early last week by the Department of the Interior. A federal grant to fund 75 per cent of the $4.4 million project is pending in EPA's regional office at Seattle where a response to resident protests is being drafted.

But Kester said he wants to have an engineer present on behalf of objectors and was not sure he could be prepared by tomorrow. The protest leader also said he believed some of those who should be at the meeting will be out of town that day, but he was checking to see if people would be available.

"I think the meeting would be a good idea. If it's going to be meaningful," Ling said. "But I think it should be something mutually agreed upon so that we can make sure we're all there."

Speaking of the city's proposal that it meet with a committee, Ling said, "I'm not sure I'm in a position to say who the six to eight interested people are that should be there, because there are an awful lot of interested people. I think they're going to have to get together and see who is going to be there."

Ling said he felt a meeting could produce a lot of the answers, but the problem was whether the protesters could be prepared to present their side of the issue by that time.

"If they're going to get into their engineer's responding," Ling said, "I'm past history as an indication, they're going to get in here and change everything to suit their side."

Ling cited the question of seepage as a typical example of protester doubts.

"Everything said there was going to be some seepage," he said, "and now all of a sudden there's zero seepage. There are a lot of questions. We'd like to know how much more it's going to cost to get that zero seepage."

A solution to the possible seepage problem would not end the objections of area residents. They feel that as long as the city contemplates irrigation with the effluent "we'd still have the same pollution problems."

Ling said protesters are particularly worried "right at a time when we're so concerned with polluting the aquifer, and the worst form of pollution that comes from this seepage."

The attorney cited a recent call by the South Central Health District Board for a moratorium on waste discharge well permits because potentially hazardous contaminants were found in some springs in the Hagerman Valley.

Jimmy Connors regains form

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Jimmy Connors, seeking to regain his status as the world's top player, won the $200,000 American Airlines Tennis Games Sunday at Mission Hills Country Club with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Roscoe Tanner.

Connors, playing consistently throughout the one-hour, 20-minute match, picked up a check or $35,000 while Tanner won $17,500.

Michigan only obstacle for Hoosiers title hopes

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Michigan Wolverines, who have come the closest to beating Big Ten rival Indiana this season, are the only obstacle left between the Hoosiers and the national championship that has eluded them so far during their two-year domination of college basketball.

Only the 1958 Kentucky Wildcats, 23-6, have won the national title with as many as six losses. And Michigan, 25-6, is not ranked as high as the Alabama, Marquette and UCLA teams the Hoosiers already have beaten en route to the NCAA final.

Michigan coach Johnny Orr said Sunday in anticipation of the 8:15 p.m. EST Monday title game, "Although, I don't know what's so fortunate about playing Indiana three times."

game but probably will be able to play Monday night. Quinn Buckner, who had one of his best games of the season against the Bruins, and Bobby Wilkerson are the starting guards.

Oakland A's top nine are still without contracts

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — Nine of the Oakland A's best players remained unsigned Sunday and the possibility that any among the group will sign soon seemed remote.

Ottman posts record score in state bowling tournament

TWIN FALLS — Mary-Lou Ottman of Min-Cassid rolled a 650 to gain the lead in the scratch singles and post a handicap singles record 764 in the women's State Bowling tournament this weekend.

1952. The Stardust Travelletes still hold on to the scratch team lead at 2094 and are trailed by Curt and Hal Dodge girls with 2070 and Kanomits, at 2058.

Joanne Golch's 1700 was good enough to hold on to the scratch all events lead.

The quality of the bowlers in this year's tournament is good and although some of the scores posted thus far are excellent it is likely more records will be made in the five weeks of competition still to come.

Only one four-letter word in English, when printed in capitals, reads the same upside down as right side up. Can you name it? Never mind, it's "NOON".

At least 22 of this nation's 100 senators have been categorized—as millionaires—although sometimes much of the money is in the names of the wives.

If you pay by check at the supermarket checkout counter, you're in the minority. Only one out of every five shoppers does so. Cash is still the way to go, trust believe.

Another sport that has no particular season is tennis with a tournament going on somewhere or other 52 weeks out of the year.

WOMEN IN BLACK

Those color experts aver that the women who prefer to wear black tends to be both saint and sinner in character. She may not be a split personality exactly, but it's likely her public life is far different from her private life. She is a player of games, they think, and if she turns up at a party in a black costume, it's probable she's looking for a man to play one of her games with.

A. 83.

Client ask what proportion of those charged with drunk driving are convicted. About 63 per cent, at last report. Chicago lawmen did a study on this thing. They claim a DWI conviction costs the defendant as much as $10,000. In legal fees, fines, down time from the job, whatnot.

THE HARD FACTS

The money men during the Great Depression foreclosed on one out of every four farmers... Number of childless couples nationwide has multiplied not just by two or three but by four, in the last six years... About half the people murdered in this country are killed with mail-order guns.

Still another definition of gout is "the agony of d'feet." Does the ardent always forage at night and sleep during the day? So inquires a customer. Not necessarily. Light or lack of same doesn't regulate that little beast. Temperature does. Its body heat normally runs about nine degrees F. lower than that of most mammals. Whether it goes out to romp and stomp at high noon, twilight or midnight depends on how best it can keep its temperature up to a lively level in whatever the weather.

'Free bleeders' warned of aspirin, other drugs

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard or read recently about aspirin causing bleeding. I am an arthritic and have to take large amounts of aspirin to ease the symptoms. Can you comment? I have no bleeding problem that I know of. — Mrs. T.W.

Many drugs can cause increased bleeding among persons who are "free bleeders." Aspirin is one. Most persons, like yourself, can take aspirin safely, but those who bleed more easily than others should be aware of the problem. A recent report in the Journal of the American Medical Association by Emily F. Caspary, M.D., of Children's Memorial Hospital, Chicago, states that a satisfactory substitute for such persons is acetaminophen. This drug, according to the report, can control the discomfort without the bleeding problem.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I live in an apartment building which has a whirlpool and a swimming pool. The lifeguard adjusts the temperature of both to suit us elderly tenants' preferences. The temperature of the whirlpool is usually about 107-109 degrees. But some of us feel that this may be too warm and might be harmful.

Can high temperatures be detrimental for persons with high blood pressure or heart conditions? We will appreciate your opinion as to the best temperature settings. The pool is usually 85 degrees. Oh, yes — does it make any difference whether you go from whirlpool to pool, or should this be reversed? — Mrs. J.K.A.

It is true that older persons with high blood pressure or heart problems should not be subjected to high temperatures in baths or saunas. At 100 degrees your stiff muscles would readily relax.

The mid-80s is the temperature of most such pools, and there should be no problem there.

Going from the pool to whirlpool (at a higher temperature) would be preferred. If you whirlpool first, I suggest you wait a few minutes to cool off gradually before exposing yourself to a cooler temperature.

I must say I am envious of your pool. Swimming is a splendid exercise. The whirlpool is a dandy idea, too. You, as well as other readers who have recently written to me on hypertension, might find other helpful thoughts on this subject in my booklet, "How to Control Your Blood Pressure." A copy costs 25 cents, which you should send to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What are the possibilities of a woman, 48, having a child? If there is a possibility, what are the disadvantages of such an age? Is it true that men can sire children up to the 70-year-old bracket? — I.E.

The late 40s is a gray zone. A woman's fertility is low at such a time, but there is always a chance of pregnancy, especially if she is still having her periods. I cannot quote exact odds. The chance is nil if she has gone a year without a period.

Depending at least in part on the general health of the woman, uncomplicated pregnancies and healthy children are possible at age 48, but there is a greater tendency toward obstetrical problems as well as an increased risk of birth defects in the child.

It is true that most men remain fertile well into the 80s — and beyond in some cases.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband's problem is constant thirst, frequent urination and tiredness. From the time he gets home from work he always has a glass in his hand (pop, tomato or orange juice, milk or water). Usually he falls asleep in front of the TV about 7:30 p.m., wakes up about 10 p.m., then goes to the bathroom, then to bed.

During the night he is up four or five times to urinate. This has gone on for two months. What can or should we do? — Mrs. R.T.R.

The sugar-containing pop is not helping a bit. Have him see a doctor at once. The symptoms you describe are classic in the diagnosis of diabetes.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For a better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper, for a copy of his booklet, "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.
