Throng scatters
MADRID, Spain (UPI) - Interiors minister Manuel Fraga Iribarne has moved to end the government policy of tolerance and crack down on street demonstrations and political strikes, sources close to the government said today.
The sources said Fraga's new policy went into effect over the weekend when thousands of riot police in Madrid, Barcelona and other cities, forcefully put down demonstrations calling for political freedoms and amnesty. More than 100 persons were arrested in Madrid alone.
The sources said outlawed left-wing groups planned to hold demonstrations and political strikes throughout April to culminate in a nationwide general strike on the days before Labor Day, May 1, in an effort to bring down the government.
They said Fraga feared a strong right-wing reaction and had given orders to Spain's 150,000 policemen to deal forcefully with any public protest.
The crackdown caused a rift between liberals and conservatives in the cabinet of Prime Minister Carlos Arias Navarro, according to Spanish press reports.
Thousands of demonstrators taking part in an illegal protest in Barcelona were dispersed Sunday by club-swinging police. It was similar to a Saturday night riot in Madrid backed by the political opposition which has been a traditional refrainum on whether to replace King Juan Carlos' fledgling monarchy with another form of government.
Police said they released most of the persons arrested in their Madrid demonstrations, including American freelance reporter Eduardo Cuevas, who was detained Saturday while covering the protests in downtown Madrid.
In political developments, two Christian Democrat factions met over the weekend to consider support for a new center-and-right alliance that opposes the current regime.
The Democratic Left and the Democratic Popular Federation both said they would participate in a 3-party opposition alliance under certain conditions, including a ban on violence as a tool for reform.

Question
I was ineligible to receive a widow's veteran pension when my husband died because we had been married less than five years. Is it true this has been changed?

Answer...
Entitlement to receive a widow's pension based upon the service record of a deceased veteran now requires only one year of marriage. If the veteran and his wife were married for one year or more; or if they had a child born of their marriage, the widow may be eligible to receive a pension.
A widow's pension may be payable to a wife of a deceased veteran if the veteran's service record shows that he was entitled to a pension (or was eligible for one) for at least one year before his death. This eligibility applies to a widow who loses her Social Security benefit when her youngest child reaches age 18. Child ren of a veteran may be eligible for a pension although their mother is not eligible.

GOP unit adopts resolution

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho College Republican League Convention this weekend adopted a resolution urging Gov. Cecil Andrus "to abide by the Idaho Constitution and act on all legislation within 10 days of adjournment."

Andrus has maintained the 10-day period for him to sign or veto bills begins when they land on his desk, rather than when the legislature adjourns.

The annual convention of the college Republicans also adopted resolutions calling for an end to deficit spending so more money would be available to create jobs in the private sector and endorsing a negative income tax as an alternative to welfare programs.

The league elected Jim Redinger, Moscow, of the University of Idaho, as its new state chairman, replacing retiring chairman David Warnick, also from the University of Idaho.

Other officers chosen were Pat Peterson, Cambridge, from Boise State University, as vice chairman, and Glenda Wilford, Boise, also from BSU, as secretary.

Kim R. Smith, Preston, a graduating senior from the University of Idaho who will attend law school at the University of Arizona, announced his candidacy for chairman of the Western Federation of College Republicans. The federation consists of the 13 western states.

Pete Wagner of the University of Idaho and director of the Pacific Northwest College Republicans announced that the Pacific Northwest convention will be held on the Moscow campus April 23-24.

Food scientists 'cautioned'

NEW YORK (UPI) — An internationally recognized authority on food technology today cautioned food scientists to be aware of "the great and increasing concern about cancer."

Dr. Emil M. Mrak, speaking at opening sections of the American Chemical Society at its centennial meeting in New York today, said:

"The publicity about carcinogenesis — cancer causes — is fearful and alarming. So much of it seems to relate to the environment and food and agriculture are certainly components of the environment."

"The food scientist of today must maintain an intense interest in potential causes of cancer, and this certainly includes all aspects of foods from production to consumption."

"He must be well informed on intentional and incidental additives for he is the one who is responsible for the wholesomeness of food."

Dr. Mrak made the points about cancer while presenting the 1976 Atwater Lecture, given in cooperation with the Chemical Society and the Agricultural Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Accident claims 2 teens

NEW MEADOWS, Idaho (UPI) — Two Council teenagers were killed instantly Sunday morning when the car in which they were riding left U.S. 93 north of New Meadows and struck a tree.

Idaho State Police identified the victims as David B. Roberts, 16, and Jerry L. Hoffman, 19.

The driver of the vehicle, Byron J. Day, 17, also of Council, was hospitalized in New Meadows. Idaho State Police said the car was traveling at an estimated speed of 100 miles per hour early Sunday when it veered off the roadway.

Aviation Day set

BOISE (UPI) — Flying enthusiasts will gather in Boise Tuesday to celebrate what has been officially proclaimed by Gov. Cecil Andrus as "Aviation Day" in Idaho.

The star of the event is a silver and blue Swallow biplane that will be used to re-enact the inauguration of regularly scheduled commercial airline service in America.

The biplane will stop in Boise on a flight from Pasco, Wash., to Ellik, Nev. Pasco was the origin point of the first airline flight on April 6, 1926, 50 years ago.

Club meets

Thursday

TWIN FALLS — The Bowdocks Four-Wheel Drive Club will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Shields Building at the College of Southern Idaho.

The club will discuss events planned for the summer, according to Dean Fischer, president. Fischer said Bowdocks and members of the Magic Valley Four-Wheel Drive Club attended a lesson on first aid last week presented by Travis Hodgson of the Idaho State Police Department. The patrolman told of basic steps to take for emergencies which might occur while on "boondock" trips.

The group plans to view several more first aid films during the summer, to be given by the Idaho State Police and many set up a series of first aid courses to be taken either this summer or next winter.

Fischer reported 15 vehicles and their occupants went on the drive to Murphys' Hot Springs and Jarbidge, Nev., over the weekend.

Do Double trouble

BO BOISE (UPI) — Mountain Home resident Jack Fletcher Edge, 56, lost both his car and his freedom Saturday.

His car caught on fire at a rest stop east of Boise and two fire fighting agencies refused to come, reporting the rest stop was outside their jurisdictions.

Ada County Sheriff's deputies used a small fire extinguisher to try to put out the blaze, but it spread over the entire car after the extinguisher gave out.

In a check on the automobile, deputies found that Edge was wanted in Oregon for driving on a license suspended in 1972 on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Edge was arrested and taken to Ada County Jail.

Bicycle 'experiment'

BOISE (UPI) — Bicyclists will be allowed on five sections of Idaho's interstate highways this summer to find out how many will use the freeways.

James Pline, traffic supervisor for the Idaho Transportation Department, said the sections are being selected and signs will be changed in May. One site will be chosen for every highway district office in Idaho, he said.

Results of the experiment will be relayed to the Idaho Transportation Board probably sometime this fall, Pline said.

Race proceeds earmarked

MERIDIAN, Idaho (UPI) — The first race at the Meridian Speedway Easter Sunday already has a winner: Muscular Dystrophy.

The initial race of 1976 will be a benefit staged by the Western Idaho Racing Association and firemen from Boise, Nampa and Caldwell to raise money to combat the disease.

Benefit Chairman Jerry Gould said the major portion of the money raised will be donated to Mercy Medical Center in Nampa, state center for Muscular Dystrophy.

Brian Cook, Nampa, the 1975 Muscular Dystrophy Poster child, will help with trophy presentations at the races. Post-Easter Sunday show will open at 1 p.m.

Funding applications eyed

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Commission on the Arts and Humanities received 58 funding applications for arts programs at a meeting Friday and Saturday.

Chairman Arthur Troutner said this was the greatest number of applications received by the commission at a single funding session.

The commission also voted on 18 nominations for the Governor's Biennial Awards for Excellence in the Arts and Support of the Arts. The awards will be presented at an October luncheon in Sun Valley.

MV board holds meet

TWIN FALLS — The board of directors of the Magic Valley Car Club Association met Thursday evening to welcome new directors and make plans for the year.

Business included outlining a membership campaign in the Burley-Rupert area and an increase in dues in 1977, according to Dave Martin, secretary.

Also planned for sometime in August was the annual summer family picnic which will be held in conjunction with an event planned by the Desert Gold Cow Belles, Martin said.

New directors for the season are Norman Schmitker, Twin Falls, and Bob Williams, Paul.

Admiration not altered

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Enclina High School students in a course on the late President John F. Kennedy say stories about his extramarital love affairs failed to alter their high esteem of him.

"His life in office has nothing to do with his private life," Wendy Padilla, one of 120 Enclina High School students who took the social studies course, said during the weekend.

The students, mostly 16 years old, read recent disclosures about Kennedy's private life with unfair and they did not alter their admiration of the former President as a historical figure.

"I think they should let things be," Tina Fisher said. "Let him be, because he's dead. They shouldn't keep on battering and battering."

Snowdon silent

LONDON (UPI) — Lord Snowdon refused comment Sunday night on an Australian newspaper report he had been offered $2 million by Jackie Kennedy Onassis for the memoirs of his marriage to Princess Margaret.

"In a joy to avoid photographers," Snowdon remained on the plane at Heathrow Airport after other passengers had disembarked.

Judy weds

CARPINTERIA, Calif. (UPI) — Actress Judy Norton, 18, who plays Mary Ellen on "The Waltons" television series, was married Sunday to singer Douglas Taylor, 27.

The wedding took place at a seaside ranch owned by Taylor's grandmother, former silent screen actress Olive Carey.

Miss Norton appeared in such series as "Felony Squad" and "The Tammy Grimes Show" and in the movie "Hottel" before landing the role as the eldest daughter in the Walton family.

Feminists expand

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Feminist Kate Millet said the women's liberation movement has expanded from the demand for equal pay to the fight against rape and wife-beating.

"We're becoming increasingly absorbed with the use of force against women," Ms. Millet said during the weekend.

"On his arrival in Washington Sunday, he was given a private tour of the almost-completed Air and Space Museum with its display of the machines which took Americans from the dunes of Kitty Hawk to the surface of the moon in less than a century.

After a sightseeing tour of such attractions as the Jefferson Memorial and the National Archives today, Giscard was to visit the downtown hotel. He and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., were scheduled to attend a panel on employment and balanced growth.

DeFreeze convicted

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Carl DeFreeze, brother of slain Symbionese Liberation Army leader Dennis "Claude" DeFreeze, faces death in the electric chair or life in prison for killing a Cleveland man.

DeFreeze, 22, of Cleveland, was found guilty during the weekend of aggravated murder, aggravated robbery and two counts of felonious assault. The verdict was handed down by a jury in the killing Dec. 27 of Jesse Smith, 63, owner of Bellman's Lounge.

King tours

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sweden's King Carl XVI Gustaf turned his attention today from air and space to jobs and economic growth.

On his arrival in Washington Sunday, he was given a private tour of the almost-completed Air and Space Museum with its display of the machines which took Americans from the dunes of Kitty Hawk to the surface of the moon in less than a century.

After a sightseeing tour of such attractions as the Jefferson Memorial and the National Archives today, Giscard was to visit the downtown hotel. He and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., were scheduled to attend a panel on employment and balanced growth.

MICHELLE McCouiston, 21, Sobrante, Calif., will soon be discharged from intensive care unit of Children's Hospital Medical Center, Oakland, where she has been a patient since Feb. 10. She will leave with Intellect intact, able to walk, talk and use her hands and almost as perfect as she was before she was found at the bottom of her grandparent's swimming pool on Feb. 9. (UPI)

Premiere showing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The movie "All the President's Men" opened Sunday night in the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, an ironic stone's throw down the Potomac from the Watergate office building where it all began.

Almost all the President's men — those who served Richard Nixon or those who serve his successor, Gerald Ford — stayed away from the premiere.

The movie, faithful to the facts, tells the story Washington Post reporters Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward told in their book.

How Woodward was assigned, on a slow June weekend in 1972, to cover a local story, a break-in at Democratic headquarters; how Bernstein, hungry for a byline, homed in on the story; and how the two persisted, over their own doubts, their editors' misgivings, the White House's denunciations, the competition's indifference and the public's apathy, to uncover the cover-up that finally unseated a president.

The picture is "terrifying," says Warner Brothers' program manager, because the "victims of the conspiracy are the very people seated in the audience viewing the picture."

Robert Redford produced the movie and portrays Woodward. Dustin Hoffman plays Bernstein.

Redford and Hoffman, Woodward and Bernstein attended the opening, and 1,500 others paid $25 each to benefit the Fund for Investigative Journalism, and to share drinks, hors d'oeuvres, music and glamor, later, atop the Kennedy Center, with Woodward and Bernstein, Hoffman and Redford.

Michelle recovers

EL SOBRANTE, Calif. (UPI) — Little Michelle McCouiston, 21, was breathing again Sunday, a real fighter, a real scrapper, a real fighter. Three weeks ago she was lying unconscious at the bottom of a swimming pool.

"She's been outside playing, riding her little motorcycle and just having a ball," said Don Cushing, a neighbor who administered artificial respiration after the 3-year-old girl was pulled from the pool. Michelle wasn't breathing and her heartbeat had stopped. But Cushing said Sunday, "I knew she wasn't dead."

"She's a real scrapper, a real fighter. I think if it had been any other kid, they wouldn't have made it."

Michelle's medical odyssey began Feb. 9 when she fell, hit her elbow, became ill and turned vomit "over" — grand parents' swimming pool.

A series of events then occurred in which doctors called an "unbelievable, fantastic sequence that saved her life."

Michelle lay at the bottom of the pool for an undetermined amount of time before she was spotted. Her aunt, Nita Anton, just home from school, jumped in and pulled her out.

Cushing gave artificial respiration until the San Pablo, Calif., Fire Department arrived.

Michelle still was not breathing and her heart was beating only after arrival at Doctors' Hospital in Pinole. A priest administered last rites.

A husband-wife team of internists, Drs. Pat and Daphne Hammer, spent 11 straight hours working to revive Michelle's vital functions.

The girl was transferred to the Intensive Care Unit of Children's Hospital in Oakland and put on high concentrations of oxygen.

Family honors King

ATLANTA (UPI) — The family of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. honored the slain civil rights leader in a brief graveside ceremony on the eighth anniversary of his death.

Coretta Scott King and her children were among 10 persons who marched to the grave after Sunday morning services at Ebenezer Baptist Church.

Martin Luther King III, 19, carried the wreath in the one-block procession. King's 13-year-old daughter, Bernice, laid the wreath on her father's grave.

Dr. King served as co-pastor of Ebenezer with his father, the Rev. Martin Luther King Sr., who was in New York Sunday.

The Rev. Joseph Roberts, present pastor of the church, led a short prayer at the gravesite before the family passed for a moment of silent prayer.

King, recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize in 1964, was shot by a sniper as he stood on the balcony of a Memphis, Tenn., motel on April 4, 1968.

Abe legend 'cock and bull' story

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — "Honest Abe" Lincoln didn't earn his nickname by walking barefoot for miles to return a few cents, but because his Illinois neighbors thought he was a good referee for cock fights, a college sociologist believes.

Dr. Clifton B. Bryant considers a myth the story that Lincoln earned the "Honest Abe" nickname by his like to peddle his pants to a careless merchant.

"He got the name as a referee of cock fighting matches," said Bryant, chairman of Virginia Tech's sociology department.

After several years of research, Bryant concludes other American heroes who were cock fighting fans include George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and, probably to no one's surprise, Andrew Jackson.

Jackson's memoirs included a section on how to feed a cock before a fight," he said.

The Blacksburg, Va. professor says his research indicates cock fighting is sport known in ancient Persia, frequently influenced the English language with words such as "cocktail," "cocky" and "cockpit."

Bryant concluded after surveying 600 fans that cock fighting is more than a $10 million a year industry in the United States although illegal in every state.

Bryant, who plans to publish his findings in a book, "Cockfights, Spurs and Blood," said Texas, South Carolina and Arkansas are "three" states where cock fighting is most popular, but adds most northern urban areas have a fair share.

"There are at least at least 250 cockpits in New York City alone and 70,000 U.S. breeders of cocks — specially bred roosters, so magicians, they must be kept from mirrors or deep water to avoid killing or drowning themselves," he said.

"The birds wear steel spurs on their feet, typically ending a five-minute match bloody in defeat, he killed."

"The word 'cockpit' comes from cock fighting," said Bryant, who notes the popularity of cock fighting in medieval England. "At one point the word 'cockpit' was used to describe a part of a boat — the bloodiest part."

One of the two explanations for the origin of the word "cockpit" is that a winning alcoholic drink made up of as many ingredients as he had feathers in his tail. Bryant said other phrases derived from "cock" fighting include "getting your feathers ruffled" or "showing your white feather," a traditional way of describing a coward.

Head Start marks young child week

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Head Start will ask local people to focus on the needs of young children this week, the national Week of the Young Child.

Dorothy Miller, site supervisor of the Twin Falls County Head Start, is inviting the public to an open house from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday.

The affair will be held at the Head Start facilities at the St. Edward's school building, 139 Sixth Ave. N., across from the city park in Twin Falls.

According to Miller, invitations are being sent to various child-related government agencies, but all interested people are welcome.

Head Start is a federally-funded pre-school program for children 3 to 5 years of age and their parents. It is designed to serve the needs of low-income families.

This year's funding grant from Health, Education and Welfare went to the South-Central Community Action Agency to support Head Start programs in Twin Falls, Cassia and Jerome counties. The three areas share the $269,900 grant according to the number of children they serve.

Twin Falls Head Start serves 89 children in the pre-school program and another 14 in a cooperative baby-sitting program. The three counties together serve 225 children.

Miller says the Twin Falls center is using the Week of the Young Child to spruce up the Head Start facility and encourage volunteer help.

"We couldn't survive without volunteer help," she said.

The sprucing up of the building was done mostly with the help of volunteers and donations. Paint was provided by many Twin Falls businesses.

The CETA programs provided workers to use the donated supplies to paint the walls. CETA is a program through the Department of Employment that provides jobs for the unemployed.

Joe Murray, son of Mrs. LaVeta Murray, a Head Start teacher, volunteered his time to design large animal drawings for the walls. Joe is a sophomore at Twin Falls High School.

The open house will include a tour of the facility, an explanation of the program and refreshments.

Besides the pre-school sessions which run in the morning and afternoon, the Head Start program includes family, nutrition and employment counseling, free medical and dental service, and English classes for Spanish-speaking parents.

Children are transported to class with Head Start buses. They receive a snack, a full lunch meal and a session with the toothbrush. The program puts emphasis on preparing these young children for first grade.

Miller says she is now in the process of accepting applications for next year.

Idaho Angus calf New York bound

TWIN FALLS — A 500 pound black Angus calf will soon travel from Magic Valley to New York City as part of a national program to improve beef production.

Eddie Collins, national broadcaster and market reporter, selected Magic Valley as the area for launching his special program. He has purchased the 500 pound Angus calf from Ranchers Auction Co., paying as the first of 100 animals he plans to purchase from western producers to be taken to New York City where they will be fattened for market.

Collins paid 50 cents a pound for the calf, the price he expects to get when he sells it in New York City. He said yearling cattle should be bringing 45 cents to the cow-calf man, and fat cattle 50 cents per pound.

Collins will take 100 calves no New York City for display, fattening and auction. He also plans to take about 15 young college age western boys and girls as ambassadors of the beef industry. These young people will be able to answer questions about beef production and meat quality for consumers and retailers in the metropolitan area.

They will make radio and television appearances, write columns for newspapers and will appear in supermarkets and stores to fondle, barbecue and serve beef of the quality grown in the Western states.

One day each week they will be comparing prices through special stores displays to gain attention of the public. Two days each week they will be available to service clubs and news media.

In exchange for three months work—the young ambassadors will receive $1,000 college scholarships.

Collins said he chose Magic Valley as the area in which to launch the program because of the enthusiastic support from the people of the area.

"People here are different in that they are ready to get something done and not just talk about it," Collins said.

Acme Manufacturing, Piler, has agreed to donate a piece of farm equipment to local ranchers for auction.

Gates open at Magic Reservoir

SHOSHONE — Magic Reservoir gates were opened Wednesday morning.

"According to Leon Grieve, manager of the Big Wood Canal Co., a large unbroken sheet of ice with an estimated thickness of 11- to 2 feet prompted the opening of the gates. Water content is at 150,000 acre feet and surface is only seven feet from the bottom of the spillway.

Last year the gates were opened after April 1 for the same reason. The reservoir contained 123,000 acre feet at that time. When full, the reservoir contains 94,500 acre feet of water.

This week American Falls Reservoir contained 1,000,000 acre feet, practically the same as a year ago.

Grieve said the Miller Gooding project should have plenty of water without having to buy any extra this year, providing the water comes off the snow shed properly. The water was turned out of the South Gooding Main Canal Monday to allow maintenance work to be done.

Fighting fungus disease long problem for spudmen

ABERDEEN — Prevention of fungus diseases is going to be a "long-term problem" for Idaho's potato industry, according to Dr. James H. Davis, plant pathologist at the University of Idaho Research and Extension Center here.

Davis said the recent appearance in Idaho of a fungus which causes black dot disease should be a "timely reminder" that Idaho's agriculture must be prepared to fight a wide variety of disease organisms with many different weapons.

"There is no cause for alarm just because the black dot fungus has found its way to Idaho," he emphasized.

"However, we need to be on our guard against the many disease-causing organisms which are here — building up in our soil — plus those new ones which may invade the state in the future."

Davis described the fungus causing black dot disease as an "apparently mild-mannered pathogen, under most conditions." The characteristic symptom of black dot disease is small, flattened, small black bodies on infected plants stems. Plants are weakened by the disease. Damage can be severe to plants growing in unfavorable environments.

The U.S. College of Agriculture scientist said researchers are trying to determine under what conditions the fungus might cause extensive damage to Idaho potato crops — but he will not say in combination with other fungi.

Studies now in progress indicate the black dot fungus may be a contributing factor in some cases of "early dying" potato disease, Davis said.

Also involved in outbreaks of early dying has been the fungus which causes verticillium wilt.

Before 1971, the black dot fungus had never been observed in Idaho. Now, the fungus appears to be distributed widely in the state. Its presence has long been noted in potato-producing areas elsewhere in the U.S. and abroad.

Through the years, soil-borne pathogens have been building up in the older potato-growing areas. At present, disease-causing organisms are settling in motion a similar "population explosion" in Idaho's farmland," Davis said.

Crop rotation and other cultural practices may slow the spread of fungus-caused diseases, he said. Current research is aimed at measuring the extent to which "various cultural practices suppress the growth of important pathogens."

"Verticillium wilt, a serious potato disease in Idaho, is less troublesome in some areas than in others," Davis explained. "There appear to be several reasons — including cultural practices — why the disease is less prevalent in some locations."

"In a statewide survey undertaken in the summer of 1978, Davis and other Idaho researchers sampled the soils in different regions of Idaho in order to determine the kinds and numbers of soil-borne pathogens which are present."

By comparing this data with crop yields, they will have an indication of the dimensions of the problems caused by fungus diseases.

Looking to the future, Davis sees the need for biological controls which will protect crops from fungus diseases.

"Chemical treatments are expensive," he said. "Farmers need a cheaper, more efficient way of protecting their crops from pathogens."

He thinks farmers may someday be able to use beneficial fungi to control the harmful fungi. "This kind of biological control is currently happening in nature, and we are trying to identify exactly how fungi interact and control one another," Davis said.

Testing plants for resistance to fungus diseases is an important step, he said.

portant activity at the Aberdeen, Research and Extension Center, University of Idaho scientists are always seeking disease-resistant cultivars they can use in their potato breeding programs.

"Since many weeds serve as hosts to disease-causing fungi, weed control is seen as a promising means of checking the spread of disease."

Potatoes and other crops in which disease can be transmitted from one generation to the next through infected seed, treatment and inspection of seed are major defenses against disease-causing fungi.

Adequate nutrition has been found to be essential for the growth of healthy plants. When plants lack nitrogen and other nutrients, they are more susceptible to disease.

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune & N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR READERS: As I have stated in a previous column, I have signed The Living Will. It is simply a document that a person signs stating that he does not want to have his life prolonged artificially after his physician decides that there is no reasonable hope for recovery. I have given copies of this document to my physician, lawyer, clergyman and to members of my family.

On February 23rd I published the official Jewish view on the right to die with dignity submitted by Rabbi Bernard S. Rankin. On March 15th I published a statement from the Rev. Norman Vincent Peale concerning the Protestant view. The following letter was received from the Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen:

My dear Abby: I was to hear from you, but I had not had the pleasure of seeing you for such a long while.

In answer to your question, "What is the official Catholic view on the right to die with dignity?" it is not necessary to use extraordinary, artificial means to keep a person alive. Wishing you every blessing, and with the warmest of personal greetings, I am,

Sincerely yours in our Lord,
FULTON J. SHEEN

Sincerely yours in our Lord,

'Living Will' supported

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and considered very pretty. I am going steady with a great guy who is 32. We really love each other, and he wants to marry me. The problem is, he is very bald and my mother told me that bald men are always unfaithful to their wives.

HEIDI: If you love him—marry him. Most bald men started fooling around when they HAD hair.

DEAR ABBY: Last weekend I was a bridesmaid at the wedding of a close friend. When it came time for the bride to throw her bouquet, the photographer lined up all the bridesmaids for a picture of the memorable moment. Well, the bride threw her bouquet directly to her younger sister (the maid of honor); and dummy me reached in front of her and intercepted it! Everyone was horrified—especially the bride and her sister.

I suppose I should have known better, but I honestly did it without thinking.

Abby, if the bride wants a certain person to have the bouquet, why bother tossing it? Why not just hand it to her?

I've been severely criticized for what I did, but I honestly did it without thinking. Was I wrong?

SORRY IN ALABAMA

DEAR SORRY: Forget it. You acted on impulse.

DEAR ABBY: I have a suggestion for the mother of that nut who is suing her for $100,000 for his circumcision. She should countersue for back womb rent.

Jim: "How about a discussion of the principles of restricted choices?"

Oswald: "It is a pretty tough subject, but it will be well worth the time of any of our readers who want to learn about it."

Jim: "Today's hand is simple enough. South is in three notrump and is going to make three, four or five depending on how the spade suit works out for him. He wins the heart lead and plays a spade at trick two.

Oswald: "West plays low and obviously South starts proceedings by playing the jack from dummy, losing to East's king. A heart comes back and South leads a second spade. Again West plays low. As you can see the winning play is the queen. It is also correct play."

Jim: "The reason for the play is that if East had held both the ace and the king, he might well have won the first spade with the ace. In other words, the king was an automatic play from king-10."

It wouldn't have been automatic from ace-king.

"WE SERVE TO SERVE AGAIN"

EVERYTHING FOR THE HOME

223-2nd-Ave. E. Twin Falls 733-1804

Ed Beckman, Twin-Falls diver, readies diving equipment for big plunge

Twin Falls diver will 'pull plug'

Pat Cilampan, Miller Construction employe, said the Twin Falls firm was hired because "We already had barges large enough to operate the crane from up there for another job in the area."

Beckman actually will make three separate dives to complete the task for which he will be paid $1,000. First he will go down about 35 feet from the barge to the top of the 65-foot structure "built over" and around the bulkhead in the lake floor. There he will hook cables to the trash screens covering the top of this structure which is 30 feet in diameter — has five concrete pillars 65-feet high. The screens — in two sections — keep debris from working inside the deep structure, once the heavy bulkhead is removed.

After the bulkhead is lifted the trash screens must be replaced over the top of the structure. The two trips to remove and replace the trash screens will be minor compared to the descent to the lake bottom.

Chapman said there are mechanisms in the bulkhead lifting apparatus to allow both air and water underneath the huge piece of concrete to give it enough buoyancy so it can be raised to the surface.

Chapman said he did not know the reason, but the construction of the dam and power plant was planned to have the bulkhead removed in this manner.

"It's no goof," he said.

Beckman hopes the bulkhead is no more than 10 feet below the surface. He expects the water will be in the "neighborhood of 30 degrees" as the lake drains from the nearby Teton Mountains.

"The water will be colder than any I've ever experienced and this poses the 'only real danger,' according to Beckman, who earns his living here as a drywall sub-contractor. The extreme cold water makes a diver weaken much quicker, Beckman said.

He has purchased a special dry suit which should protect him "absolutely" from any contact with the water and will allow Beckman to wear thermal underwear.

The dry suit has special capability for buoyancy control and compensation. By pushing a button on his chest, he can obtain more air into the suit, and by releasing a valve, he can let air out, thereby providing considerable control over his movability, despite the pressure at such depth. He also will use a special regulator with oil filled first stage to equalize ambient water pressure.

Beckman said that with his special suit he can lift 75 pounds, despite the weight of his air tanks. He has a set of "Twin 50" aluminum tanks which will provide him more air than normally used in scuba diving. He will have 105 cubic feet of air, with 15 more cubic feet in reserve.

The Twin Falls man feels confident about his big job. He says he has the best possible equipment, has planned for every possible emergency and will be in good physical condition.

Asked if he would like to make his living as a commercial diver, the young man grinned and admitted "it provided unlimited opportunity" for both money and adventure.

Sentencing date set

BURLEY — Sentencing has been set for April 26 on five people charged with theft of ski equipment from Pomerelle Ski Resort, Fifth district judge Merlin Johnson has set sentencing for 1:30 p. m. April 26 here.

The five were found guilty of grand larceny in a two day jury trial last week.

Convicted were Bob Parker, also known as Raymond Jaynes, of Maryville, Mo.; Mary Parker, also known as Marilyn Sue Baynes, 26, Belle; N. M.; John Henry Richardson, 22, Liberty, Mo.; Tommy Peterson, 25, Raymond, Neb.; and Steven Ross, 20, Teton, Id.

The five were arrested by Cassia County sheriff's deputies and state police after a roadblock on Feb. 8. Rental ski equipment with Pomerelle identification was found in their car.

Ketchum council meets tonight

KETCHUM — The Ketchum City Council will meet tonight in regular session, the last one for a month.

Members have decided to abandon council meetings until the middle of May, because of a lack of quorum of council representatives expected due to the slack period.

Water plan workshops set

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Department of Water Resources will hold 20 information meetings this month on the draft State Plan of the Snake River Basin.

Arren Reynolds, chief of the department's Planning Bureau, said the information meetings will assist public understanding of the plan's recommendations.

On the series of workshops will be followed by hearings in May. The Water Resource Board will formally accept public comments and suggestions before adopting a State Water Plan for the Snake River Basin, Reynolds said.

Burley coach mulls course

BURLEY — Head basketball coach Dave Cole is still considering today whether or not to remain at Burley High School after public efforts of the past month to have him removed.

"I'm still sitting on it and mulling it over," Davis said this morning. "I haven't decided on anything yet."

Davis was out of town last Wednesday when the Cassia County School Board held a special meeting including an hour and a half executive session before voting support for Davis and head baseball coach Bruce Cole, who is also an assistant in football and basketball.

Davis had indicated he would make a public statement Friday, citing the board's vote to support him and ask the public to do the same. Davis said today he will not issue any statement.

"The board has apologized to me and encouraged me to stay," he said. "I have the complete support of the board and of the administration."

Davis said he was considering leaving the school anyway because of the furor, but was "encouraged" by the "tremendous reaction of some fans who have seen improvements in the program."

Davis had come under severe attack early last month at a school board meeting with some members of the public saying the district is not in the best financial shape. A lack was reported last Monday, but strong support for Davis also was raised at the regular school board meeting in Malila.

Petitions for both sides were presented to the board and the issue was reportedly discussed in an executive session that evening.

The following day, Cole and Davis were approached by Superintendent of schools Harold Blayner and High School Principal Tom Gruwell and asked to resign.

Students circulated petitions at Burley High and Burley Junior High, obtaining more than 700 signatures in Cole's behalf. The petitions were presented at Wednesday's special board meeting.

After public support for Cole that included some of the critics of Davis, the school board met in closed session for one and a half hours.

Tot class push set in Minidoka

By SHANE O'NEILL Times-News writer

HAPPENING — Another bid for a kindergarten program in Minidoka County school district schools will be made tonight.

Mrs. Billy Fox, Rupert, and Mrs. Charles Pawson, Heburn, leaders in the effort to convince the school board that the county needs a kindergarten program, will present some research filed on kindergarten programs in the Mini-Cassia area.

The group of mothers approached the board in early February, but the board flatly rejected a public kindergarten program at this time.

They did so despite the statement of superintendent of schools, Darrell Hatfield that he favored the program.

Opposition was led by trustee Fern Hunter. She said the cost was too great and the board was committed to improving other programs, rather than starting new ones. She also said the districts who started kindergarten, under the state program last year probably are "sorry now because they just did not get enough to fund it."

The mothers had presented a petition to the board saying only 12 houses refused to sign while they were circulating it.

Final presentation of research is expected to go toward showing the success of the program in other districts in this area.

The school also is to consider a request from the administration to hire engineer James Smithwood to make an assessment of the district's buildings and a presentation of budget priorities for maintenance and operational cost increases.

"I have discussed assessment of some of our buildings with local contractors and they feel an engineer would be needed to give a fair assessment," Hatfield said. "I see the need for planning our long range building needs in reference to health and safety and energy reductions."

Hatfield had made a similar recommendation late last fall, but the board rejected it. Smithwood recently made a presentation to the board that appeared to interest them in a building needs assessment.

Hatfield said he will present priorities on anticipated increases for operation and maintenance priorities.

Hatfield also is bringing before the board consideration of a vacation policy for non-certificated personnel. The superintendent presented the board earlier with a copy of the Packer policy, explaining that the district has been working without a written policy on when vacation times accrue, (i.e. non-certificated workers).

The board also will consider a leave request for speech therapist Gary Meacham to complete his masters degree for re-certification. Hatfield said Meacham had said that he cannot get the classes required during the second session of summer school.

Minico High School football coach, Dennis Hansen, has asked permission to attend a football clinic in Oregon. Hatfield said the district has approved the time off in previous cases and part of the expenses have been financed by the athletic department.

Also on the agenda is an increase in salary for two custodians at East Minico Junior High school.

New employment office opens

KETCHUM — A new Idaho Department of Employment Office opened here this week.

Officials supporting the new set-up said the office has been generally packed with people seeking unemployment benefits or jobs.

Tom Valasek, Pocatello, has been named manager of the new post based on competitive exams conducted by the Idaho Personnel Commission. The new office is the first opened in the state in over 25 years.

The nearest full-service employment office was in Jerome. Many people had to drive to Jerome or wait for the weekly arrival of personnel here to file unemployment claims.

The rural manpower service was serving the function of job placements but could not offer full service.

Idaho Governor Cecil Andrus in a release said, "The various employers in the Sun Valley area and the Blaine County Commissioners have been seeking the establishment of such a facility for a long time."

"About 75 per cent of the Sun Valley jobs fall in the temporary category which causes high turnover problems."

Area and state dignitaries will officially dedicate the building May 13. Andrus is unable to attend. Gov. John Evans will fill in.

Recreational need eyed

JEROME — Magic Valley county commissioners will begin coordinating a recreational area needs study in order to maintain recreational revenues within the Magic Valley.

County commissioners from the eight Magic Valley counties have been warned that efforts are being made to again introduce legislation next year that would switch recreational funds from one area of the state to another.

Dean Huntsman, Boise, told the commissioners that a bill that almost passed in the legislature this year will be re-introduced. According to Huntsman, the bill will allow any surplus snowmobile and waterways funds to be transferred from one area with low population to an area with higher population.

"This would also provide for 20 per cent of the money received by the counties on the sale of snowmobile and boat licenses to be channeled into a state recreational organization," Huntsman said. He said that once the state gets a hold of the money, it would be hard, you'll never get it back."

He recommended that the Magic Valley counties coordinate their efforts in providing recreational areas and not rely on any surplus moneys, but spread it around the eight counties and provide for area residents needs.

Claude Bernard, Jerome County commissioner, said that efforts are being coordinated in respect to the snowmobile money. He said that those who pay for snowmobile licenses are permitted to vote on which snowmobile area they want the money spent on. He said the counties have been working together to improve snowmobile and waterways areas.

It is the general agreement of the county commissioners that more of an effort will be made to adequately disburse the funds and improve area recreational needs.

The eight Magic Valley County commissioners meet periodically during the year to discuss mutual problems and programs. At a meeting last week some of the commissioners voiced their disappointment in the recent veto by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus of a house bill which would have allowed the counties to collect rent for space the counties provide for Health, Education and Welfare.

Leonard didn't mention IP

JEROME — A statement published Friday in the Times-News was incorrectly attributed to Twin Falls County Commissioner Merl Leonard.

The statement read "instead of butting heads cities and counties should join together in lobbying in order to nullify the effects of powerful interest groups that influenced the legislators' decisions," such as Idaho Power.

The statement should have read "instead of butting heads cities and counties should join together in order to protect themselves from out of state interests." The reference to Idaho Power were made in a statement by Dean Huntsman, Boise, for the Association of Idaho Cities.

Huntsman also cited banks, labor lobbyists and industrial lobbyists as well as special entry lobbyists as more potential trouble than any dispute between cities and counties.

The statements were made during a meeting of the District 4 County Commissioners meeting held in Jerome.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)—Carry through with personal matters and gain aims easily now. Get out to the fun places with congenials. Pay bills.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Gain important wishes quietly and efficiently. Then you accomplish a good deal of your wishes. Take health treatments.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study ideas others have for your advancement. Look to good friend for assistance you want to gain soon.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be more civic-minded to advance more quickly in the business world. Pay more attention to small details. Help with project.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Go after what is most important to you using different approaches. Make new contacts whose views are not like yours.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Follow through on contracts you have made and to see settled. Be more affectionate with your mate.

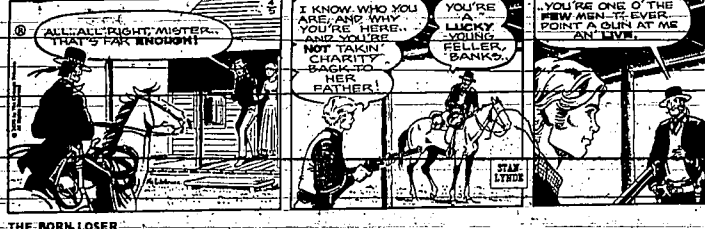

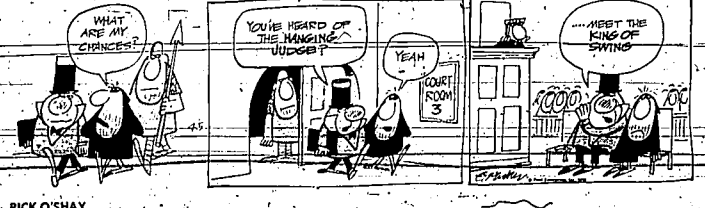

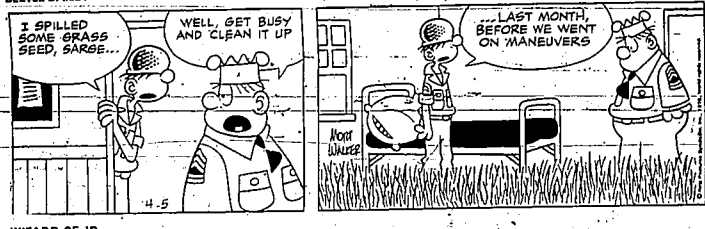

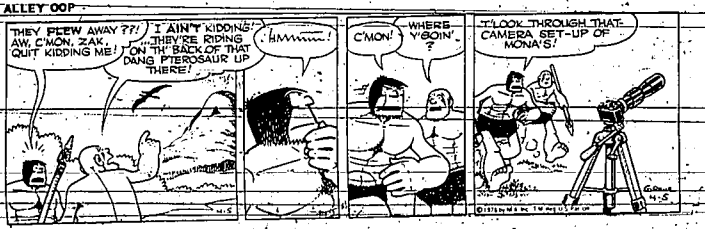

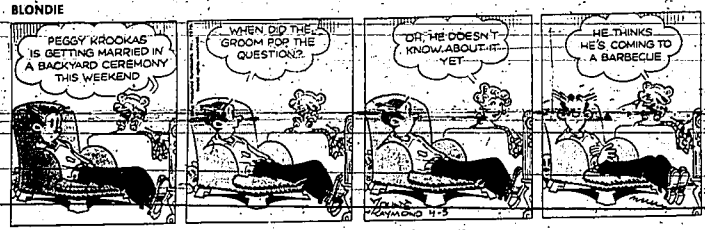

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find out what partners expect of you, then work in unison. Have a reconciliation with one you have had a long siege with.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Improve work schedule to accomplish most in least time. Take treatments proven satisfactory in the past to retort special illness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan recreation. Some special talent you have can be expressed ideally now—Be careful of a fair-weather friend.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...he or she will be a charming, home-loving person with a sensitive nature, who needs careful handling and a good diet early in life. There is much ability at selling and business, and the education should be started along such lines, in particular. Sports are a must, and religious training should be given early in life. Some musical talent should be cultivated, also.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

what's what

L.M. Boyd

Bustiest nights of the week in singles bars are Wednesdays and Fridays.

Now the merchandising boys say the average shopper in a supermarket drops 93 cents per minute.

Credit that religious group known as the Shakers with the invention of the clothes pin, modern towel rack and power-driven washing machine.

The headline writers should be the most talented professionals on the newspaper. That's the contention of a seasoned journalist who quotes the professor of Print David Ogilvy. "On the average, five times as many people read the headline as read the body copy."

LOVE AND WAR

O. "I just can't believe your Love and War man's claim that 95 per cent of the American women either have blonde or light brown hair."

A. That wasn't the contention. It was they were born either with blonde or light brown hair. More than half of them end up as brunettes.

Am asked to name the politician who first propounded the claim, "No man can earn $1 million honestly." That was the repeated cry of William Jennings Bryan. Please note, he earned that line into his platform performance in July of 1906, considerably before the time when he made his own first $1 million.

A chameleon will turn brown, if it sits on a brown leaf, that's widely known. Not so well reported is the fact it will also turn brown, whatever the color of the leaf, if it gets cold.

SWEAT OF BROW

There's a line in Genesis wherein Adam is told "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread until thou return unto the ground." But contrary to popular belief, nowhere in the Bible does it say that man need earn his living by the sweat of his brow. Poet John Milton actually was the first to make such a literary motion. Thomas Carlyle later seconded it. But Henry David Thoreau called it bunk, or words to that effect.

That word "venereal" as in venereal disease originally referred to the Roman Love goddess, Venus... Funny thing about bleach, it doesn't remove rust stains, but intensifies them... The four buck teeth of a pocket gopher grow just about six times the length of its body in any given year... Cup for cup, instant coffee has less caffeine in it than does brewed coffee, research reveals... It's customary in Japan for those who attend a funeral, to contribute a little something toward the cost of it.

Bamboo slips hold China's old laws

HONG KONG (UPI)—China's earliest laws discovered so far were found on bamboo slips in a recently excavated tomb, the New China News Agency announced Saturday.

Some 1,000 bamboo slips, most with law and documents dating back 2,200 years, were found in one of 12 tombs excavated in Yanning County in Central China, NCNA said. The finds were discovered by peasants digging a drainage canal.

The official news agency said:

"The three laws of the Chin Dynasty unearthed are China's earliest laws and sets so far discovered and the bamboo slips well-preserved and with legible characters, are the first discovered of the Chin Dynasty (221 B.C. to 207 B.C.)."

The finds date from the late years of the warring states period (475 B.C. to 221 B.C.) and "provide important historical evidence of the how the Chin Dynasty followed the legalist line and imposed the dictatorship of the landlord class over the slave-owning class," NCNA said.

Preliminary studies show the bamboo slips include a document of a governor in 227 B.C. laws, acts, judicial cases, a book on the ways of officials, and a chronicle of major events from 306 B.C.

Also included are specific cases showing how court trials were conducted.

"The records of laws and acts of the chin Dynasty and of earlier periods had been lost for centuries," NCNA said. "Chin Shih Huang was the founder of the dynasty."

Among the new finds are acts on farmland, currency, appointment of officials, self-exiled chin subjects and dismissal of officials.

NCNA said "specially important" among these Chin bamboo slips are 14 which reflect the "sharp struggle between restoration and counter-restoration and Chin-Shih Huang's uncompromising defense of the legalist line and suppression of the restorationist forces of the slave-owning class."

uncompromising defense of the legalist line and suppression of the restorationist forces of the slave-owning class."
