Patty receives maximum term

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter, at the request of the defense, today sent Patricia Hearst to a federal institution for 90 days of psychiatric study.

In order to do this, the judge imposed maximum sentence of 35 years, but said this sentence would be modified after he receives the psychiatric report.

Thus Miss Hearst will go to an institution to be designated by the attorney general of the United States and a later court date will be set, either at the end of the three-month period, or after a three-month extension.

The judge sentenced Miss Hearst "for the maximum period of law" which would be 25 years for bank robbery, plus 10 years for use of a firearm in committing a felony.

But the judge said he has no intention of making the final sentences run consecutively but will at the final sentencing impose concurrent sentences for a possible maximum of 25 years.

Carter also indicated strongly that he has no intention of placing Miss Hearst on probation when she returns to court.

He read the applicable law to a packed courtroom, noting it gave him alternatives of granting probation, affirming the maximum sentence, or modifying the sentence.

But the judge said, "That is the very question that the jury debated. This was and has been decided by the jury."

Before the court appearance, at which Carter had been expected to impose the final sentence, Miss Hearst had expressed fear that if she were sentenced to prison she would be an easy target for revolutionary assassins behind bars.

"California prisons are known as hotbeds of revolutionary activity," defense attorney Albert Johnson said during the weekend. "They are full of radicals."

Johnson said that as a result of published reports the client would become an informant radical activities she would be safer out of prison but "under controlled conditions of security, including bodyguards."

He said she often has expressed fears of terrorists' reprisals against herself and her family.

PATTY HEARST ... long wait over

San Francisco woes worsen

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A strike by suburban computer bus drivers added to San Francisco's transportation woes today.

But the traffic jam on the Golden Gate Bridge because of the walkout was not as great as expected.

Union negotiators, frustrated over a lack of progress in the 13-day strike by city craft workers, asked for the services of Labor Secretary W. J. Usery as mediator.

Because of traffic jam fears, thousands of commuters left their Marin County homes for San Francisco early. Between 6 and 7 a.m. traffic was three times heavier than normal but eased off during the normal peak rush period.

Buses operated by the Golden Gate Bridge District normally carry 9,250 commuters to San Francisco. Vehicle flow today between 6 and 8 p.m. was 12,699, about 3,000 more than normal. Three hundred drivers went on strike at midnight in a wage dispute. Until their contract expired March 31, they earned base-pay of $17,300-plus fringe benefits raising the total to $26,000.

Members of Local 1225 of the Amalgamated Transit Union rejected a proposed 27-month contract which would boost the total to $28,500.

The call for the entrance of Usery as a mediator came Sunday night after 11 hours of talks in the San Francisco city workers strike, which was separate from the city bus drivers' walkout. The city's buses, streetcars and cable cars have remained in the yards because drivers refused to cross picket lines set up by striking "craft" workers.

Police scatter Cypriot mob

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Police firing tear gas grenades today scattered some 5,000 angry and American Greek Cypriots who tore through a police barricade and attempted to attack the U.S. embassy.

Some demonstrators hurled rocks at police before fleeing.

There were no immediate reports of arrests or injuries.

The demonstrators, protesting the $1 billion U.S.-Turkish military aid agreement, marched on the embassy after a downtown rally.

Some 600 riot police had been detailed to protect the embassy. The demonstrators, estimated by police to number about 3,000, were stopped briefly by riot police and a barricade of barbed wire across the main street leading to the embassy. But they soon tore the barbed wire apart and burst through.

On reaching a second barricade, the demonstrators made another attempt at breaking through.

At that point, police attacked with tear gas, scattering the crowd. Many fled toward nearby Cyprus Hilton Hotel where a couple of tear gas shells landed on the lawn.

At the rally, the demonstrators shouted anti-American slogans among them, "Kissinger murderer."

Relaxed air time wins court's nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A U.S. Court of Appeals Monday upheld relaxed "equal time" regulations which allow radio and television stations to broadcast press conferences and some debates by presidential candidates without providing air time for other candidates.

In the 2-1 decision, the court upheld a ruling last year by the Federal Communications Commission overturning 1962 decisions which held equal time must be provided for debates and press conferences.

Under the new FCC ruling, broadcasters can use their own news judgment to determine whether a press conference or debate is a bona fide news event. Under the FCC decision affirmed Monday, debates among candidates sponsored by broadcasters must still meet strict equal time rules unless exempted by Congress. But debates staged by non-broadcasters can be televised if in the judgment of news organizations they are "newsworthy."

Last April, CBS asked the FCC to overrule its 1962 decision that debates between candidates could not qualify as "on-the-spot coverage of bona fide news events" under 1959 amendments to the federal communications law.

Last July, CBS asked the commission also to overturn its earlier decision holding that presidential press conferences by an announced candidate for reelection fell under the equal time provisions.

The FCC agreed with CBS in September and said the law permits "reasonable latitude for exercise of good faith news judgments by broadcasters and networks" by giving them "the initial determination" as to what kinds of political events are exempted from equal time requirements.

The FCC decision permitted relaxed standards for broadcasting news conferences by all presidential candidates, not just the incumbent.

The Democratic National Committee opposed granting exemptions to press conferences, Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., and the National Organization for Women opposed exempting non-studio debates. All three appealed the FCC decision to the Court of Appeals.

In upholding the FCC, Circuit Judge Edward A. Tamm said the federal communications law "provides substantial support, although inconclusive, for the commission's interpretation."

"Under these circumstances, we believe it our duty to defer to the commission's interpretation of the statute which it is charged with administering."

Plans changed

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — Jack Carter, the son of presidential candidate Jimmy Carter, has canceled plans to campaign in Idaho for his father this week and instead will make a trip through the state the week beginning April 26.

Lloyd Walker, chairman of the Carter campaign in Idaho, said he was postponing the weekend change plans to send young Carter to Idaho for two days of campaigning.

"They decided to send everyone to Pennsylvania instead," Walker said.

Tug of war raging over US forests

BY DAVE HORSMAN Times-News writer TWIN FALLS — The crucial tug-of-war now raging over the nation's forests is perhaps the ultimate in Bicentennial shows.

It pits the environmentalists, who see the forests as a 200-year-old time capsule containing the fragile remnants of a pristine America, against the progressives, who see them as the lifeblood of several modern industries.

At stake is the management program for 90 million acres in the national forest system. Most environmentalists line up behind national legislation proposed in February by Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va.

The bill sets strict guidelines for management of the forests, requiring that timber cuts be limited to moderate slopes, away from streams, and that environmental benefits be put on an equal footing with timber harvesting.

The progressives, including the logging industry, homebuilders and lumber workers, are pushing another measure introduced in March by Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn.

It effectively reaffirms the current management practices of the U.S. Forest Service, giving the agency wide latitude in choosing proper cutting methods. The Forest Service and many political leaders in the timber-rich Pacific Northwest have sided with the Humphrey bill.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, is a co-sponsor of the measure and Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus supported it in Congressional testimony last month.

Critics of the Humphrey bill claim it will allow repetition of "past mistakes" in managing the forests, including large clear cuts that ruin scenic beauty and cause severe erosion of the jobs and siltation of streams and rivers.

On the other hand, critics of the Randolph measure say it will tie the hands of the Forest Service, preventing it from using better management techniques.

Forest Service Chief John McGuire has testified that the Randolph bill would "reduce annual yields of wood products (from national forests) by an estimated 60 percent," driving up consumer prices for all timber-related items.

The bills and the debate were sparked by the so-called "Monongahela decision." Last year the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that an 1897 law banning clearcutting that takes immature trees. The decision dealt specifically with the Monongahela National Forest but forced the Forest Service to suspend timber harvesting in the national forests of West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina.

The critical portion of the 1897 law upheld by the court allows timber sales involving only dead, physiologically mature or large trees which have been individually marked for cutting.

Clearcutting, which removes all trees from a designated area, including those that are immature, would effectively be eliminated by the ruling. It is currently the predominant harvesting technique used in the national forests.

"A draft impact statement on the ruling," the Forest Service said, "should the Monongahela interpretation be applied nationwide, the volume of timber available for harvest from national forests would be reduced by approximately 45 to 50 percent. Since the national forests presently supply about 25 percent of the wood used, there would be a severe, long-term economic effect on the forest products and housing industries and a collateral impact on other areas of the economy. Within the national forests, multiple-use management would be adversely affected. Finally, the cost of selling timber would be increased, chiefly because of the individual tree marking requirement."

The court recognized that its decision would cause immense problems, but pointed to Congress for solutions.

The judge wrote, "It may well be that this legislation enacted over 75 years ago is an anachronism which no longer serves the public interest. However, the appropriate forum to resolve this complex and controversial decision is not in the courts but in Congress."

The Humphrey and Randolph bills represent Congressional answers to that judicial challenge.

Proponents of both measures claim their proposals will reinstate clearcutting as a legal management tool while protecting the environment.

Michael McCloskey, executive director of the Sierra Club, says the Randolph bill is "a basic reform act for the national forests that reflects an even-handed commitment to the goals of both protecting the environment and providing a reasonable amount of timber."

Armored car guards slain

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two armored car guards were shot to death early today by four masked gunmen who were waiting in ambush for them as they were making a cash pickup at a Times Square movie theater.

Guards William Cotter, 55, and John Clarke, 65, employed by the Purulot Security Inc. armored car company died shortly before 11 a.m. of shotgun wounds.

Hijackers' jet reaches Karachi

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI) — A Philippine Airlines jetliner carrying three Moslem hijackers and five hostages landed at Karachi international airport today but Pakistani authorities refused to allow the plane to stay overnight.

Pakistani authorities, reversing an original decision, granted landing rights on "humanitarian and compassionate grounds," officials said. The airline touched down at dawn following a five-hour flight from Bangkok, Thailand where the gunmen and hostages had been stranded for three days.

Aid mullied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former defense secretary James Schlesinger said in a television interview Sunday that while he was Pentagon chief "he was included in 'speculation' at cabinet level on military assistance to Red China."

Schlesinger also said that Soviet military buildup has forced the United States into policies close to those of the "cold war" years of the 1950's. He was interviewed on "Meet the Press."

Saudi transport forced down

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Israel jet fighters today intercepted a Saudi Arabian Air Force C130 transport plane with three Americans among the crew and forced it to land at Ben Gurion airport near Tel Aviv.

Authorities released the three Americans into the custody of the U.S. embassy after questioning. The Israeli command said the plane also carried a Saudi Arabian pilot and 23 passengers including a number of Saudi Arabian soldiers.

Benefit dinner set at Eden

EDEN — A benefit pancake feed for a critically burned Eden woman is scheduled for 5 p.m. tonight.

The pancake supper, in the Eden American Legion Hall, has been organized by residents of Eden and Hazelton to help Marilyn Bates who remains in extremely serious condition today in a Texas burn treatment center.

Mrs. Bates was injured as she tried to rescue her 5-year-old son from their burning home last Tuesday. The boy died in the fire which also destroyed the Bates home.

Lebanese fighting dies down; Syrians move in BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Free-for-all fighting that raged through Beirut and its suburbs all night died down early today, sparking hopes the country's latest round of fighting might be over. On the eastern front, Syrian armored columns were reportedly advancing through the Bekaa Valley. The latest battles erupted in Beirut as a leftist group sought to extend the 10-day-old ceasefire until the end of the month. Mortar, rocket and artillery duels between leftist and rightwing militia factions left at least 35 dead and 55 wounded in Beirut. The sounds of battle, which echoed across the city all night, finally died away in the worst suburban trouble spots early this morning. The fighting broke out almost immediately after leftwing parties meeting under socialist leader Kamal Jumblatt issued a statement accusing Syria of invading Lebanon and the United States, with meddling where it was not wanted. The left-wingers warned of further bloodshed unless the Syrians withdrew the 6,000 armor-hacked troops they charged had entered north and southeast Lebanon since Friday. But at the same time, the left-wing parties said they preferred a "constitutional political settlement" to war and they had agreed to extend the truce, scheduled to expire at noon (3 a.m. MST) today, until the end of April. However, minutes later tension that had been building all day erupted into shelling across the checkerboard battle lines of the shattered city. The fighting appeared to be a free-for-all among Christian left-wingers and Muslim left-wingers, rebel Lebanese army troops and Syrian forces and rival Palestinian guerrilla groups. Mortar and artillery fire rained across the eastern, western and central sectors and along the road to Beirut airport, witnesses said. The boom of artillery, the wall of sirens and the rattle of machine guns also echoed through the city streets. In the Bekaa Valley region east of Beirut, left-wing Lebanese army troops skirmished with Syrian armored columns, slowly advancing west and northwest from the border posts they captured Friday, according to Arab newsmen in the area.

Left-wing sources said they understand the Salqa guerrilla forces, whose ranks have been reinforced by Syria over the past few months, had arrested three key commanders of the rebel Lebanese Arab Army in southern and northern Lebanon. The report could not be confirmed. In the southern part of Sidon, 30 miles from Beirut, Salqa units enforcing a supply blockade against the left-wingers shelled and sank a ship unloading weapons, left-wing sources said. The left-wing party statement charged Syria with "posing grave dangers to the Arab region" and rejected foreign mediation.

Church sides with Carter

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Ida., said Sunday Jimmy Carter should not be judged on his "ethnic purity" remark. "That was one of those tempests that campaigns bring on," Church said. "I think too much has been made of that, apparently, was an unfortunate phrase." Church, opening a three-day campaign swing through Nebraska where he will face his first primary test, said the campaign should be conducted with restraint and candidates should "fairly judge even our opponents." "There is nothing in Carter's record to suggest he is a racist," Church said.

Pope issues peace appeal

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI appealed to the world's young people in a Palm Sunday Mass to slay violence and in Christ spread the message that only Jesus Christ can bring peace. The 78-year-old pontiff addressed more than 20,000 pilgrims who filled St. Peter's Basilica for the ritual blessing of the palm branches and the liturgical Mass on the fourth of the world's 260 million Roman Catholics. "On one side — His side that of Jesus Christ — there is the current of peace and universal brotherhood among those who are His followers," the Pope said. "On the other is the stream of violence, division and conflict, and in the end that of war. "Which voices are best fitted to announce this blessed message to the world? They are the voices of the People of God — your voices young people, you who are assembled for this wonderful and mysterious present — confirm your choice and your promise, yes, we will be Christians." Following Roman Catholic tradition, the Pope blessed the dried olive branches, which in Italy represent palms, on the parterre of the basilica, — the largest altar in the world. He distributed them to 18 cardinals and other Italian bishops and priests before leading them inside. The Palm Sunday Mass opened a full calendar of Holy Week observances for the Pope.

Thousands flee Dakota flooding

By United Press International Floods have forced thousands of persons from their homes in Minn., N.D., and cold, blustery winds sent shivers from the Midwest to the Northeast and sank a Chicago police car in Lake Michigan. Workers today raced to repair and raise 35 miles of dikes along the Sparta River, which emptied through Minn. Floodwaters were expected to tollge to eight feet over flood stage in a week. About 12,000 of the city's 32,000 residents were ordered from their homes on the flood plain along the meandering river. "The latest prediction by the Weather Service says the river will crest 4 1/2 feet Monday at eight feet over flood stage with water flowing through town at the rate of 10,000 cubic feet per second," a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers spokesman said. "Some evacuees stored their furniture in warehouses and headed off to stay with friends or relatives on higher ground. Others put their belongings on the second floor and moved to motels or hotels." "It's all voluntary so far but by Thursday it is mandatory that they are out," said the spokesman. Cold winds swept the Midwest and the Northeast Sunday, sending temperatures plunging 35 degrees. Ten-foot waves pounded Chicago's Lake Michigan shoreline, causing a police squad car to founder. The wintry weather forced postponements of major league baseball games in Chicago, Milwaukee and Cleveland Sunday. It looked like winter in upstate New York. More than two inches of snow fell in New York's Adirondacks and light snow dusted other upstate areas of the Empire State. Temperatures were in the 20s. "This is ridiculous," an elderly Rochester, N.Y., lady complained as she climbed a hill of snow from her car before driving to church. "It better not be like this next Sunday or I won't be able to wear my new Easter hat. It was made for snow — and neither am I when I get home in the middle of April."

Union seeks Usery help in SF talks

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Union negotiators, frustrated over a lack of progress in a 13-day strike by city craft workers, want Labor Secretary William Usery to mediate the dispute which has halted the city's "pump" transportation. The labor representatives said Sunday night after 11 hours of talks they wanted Usery to "arbitrate" further bargaining. "The Board of Supervisors" the city's ruling government body "called a meeting for today to consider the action." Traffic congestion during morning rush hours was intensified by a strike by bus drivers for the Golden Gate Bridge District in a demand for higher pay. District officials, to promote the use of car pools, eliminated bridge tolls for cars carrying three or more passengers. The craft workers' strike shut down the Municipal Railway buses, streetcars and cable cars because drivers were honoring picket lines. The Thursday also freed the closing of the Zoo, all municipal swimming pools, the de Young Museum and Hall of Flowers to Golden Gate Park and cancellation of performances by the San Francisco Symphony. The city strike involved 20 plumbers, electricians, machinists, elevator workers, glaziers, carpenters, steel erectors and gas fitters. Some 14,000 other municipal employees were not honoring the picket lines.

Telegrapher dies in Basque region

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — A telegraph operator who was shot by Basque gunmen for refusing to stop at a road check died today, becoming the latest victim of violence in Spain's Basque region. Felipe Suarez, 28, died from bullet wounds he received when civil guards opened fire on the car in which he was riding Saturday night. The paramilitary rural police fired on Suarez's car when he failed to obey a signal for a road check, the Spanish news agency Europa Press said. Suarez' death came 16 hours after a 41-year-old civil guard was electrocuted while trying to remove a booby-trapped Basque nationalist flag from a high-tension wire. It was the eighth death this year blamed on the Basque separatist organization Basque Homeland and Liberty. The booby-trap killing came despite public outcry against the murder of a Basque civilian Angel Hernandez by the separatist group early Thursday. Moderates in Spain fear that the separatist violence will brake the already slow reform undertaken by the first government of King Juan Carlos. Extreme Right-wingers claim that any democratization encourages left-wing political violence. Fifty-five members of the National Council of the Movement for the Franco-fashism right-wing union — have petitioned the Basque government to examine — pending — reform proposals. During the 1930s the Basque region of northern Spain was autonomous under the Second Spanish Republic. But autonomy ended after the 1936-39 civil war victory of the forces of Gen. Francisco Franco and the Basque flag was outlawed.

Question . . .

After all these years in Twin Falls my husband is now retired and because of my health we are moving to Phoenix, Arizona. Can you recommend a mortician in this community to us?

Answer . . .

Being prepared in a new community is no good judgment. It will neither accelerate nor postpone the need for mortuary services. You will need a mortician much earlier for anyone should the need arise. A recent statement by the St. Louis City Health Commissioner advised necropsies to St. Louis there medical crisis for them could possibly be averted if they choose a physician in advance of need and establish contact with him. Telephone or come by our office and we will give you the name of an associate who can recommend a mortician in your new location. Brezhnev absence puzzling

MOSCOW (UPI) — Where is Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev?
The question pops up with increasing frequency since the 69-year-old Communist party general secretary has not been seen in public for more than five weeks.

He last was photographed on March 7, two days after the end of the Soviet Communist party Congress, at a reception in honor of International Women's Day.

What puzzled Western observers in Moscow was Brezhnev's absence from three recent meetings and the postponement of a fourth. They were:
— The Bulgarian party congress, March 29-April 2, Western diplomats were surprised that Politburo member Pyodor Kulakov, instead of Brezhnev, led the Soviet delegation.

— A meeting last week with the visiting Prime Minister of Sweden, Olof Palme. Soviet officials first dropped hints such a meeting might take place, then announced Brezhnev was "not in Moscow."

— The Czechoslovak party congress opening today in Prague. Again, a Politburo member Andrei P. Kirilenko, led the Soviet delegation.

— A visit to Moscow in mid-April by Gianni Agnelli, president of the Italian automobile giant, Fiat, to sign a new cooperation agreement. The trip reportedly was put off until late May or June because Brezhnev had "other, undelayable commitments."

So where is Brezhnev? Western observers play down the theory Brezhnev is too sick to work.

Illness did force him out of the public spotlight for prolonged periods last year. But during the recent Soviet congress, Brezhnev delivered a grueling, five-and-one-half hour speech, sat through dozens more orations and met numerous foreign delegations and delegates.

Could it be a political ruse? "This physical illness? These symptoms even less likely, according to the observers. The congress was a personal triumph for Brezhnev, they say, and he emerged from it solidly "number one" in the Kremlin leadership.

Western observers' most popular theory is the Soviet leader has been just taking it easy — probably vacationing at the Black Sea. And they theorize his absence could signal an altered role he may have decided to play in the leadership.

At the age of 69 and with his resounding success at the party congress, Brezhnev may have decided to raise himself above many of the leadership chores, the observers said. They said they expected in the future to see more men like Kulakov and Kirilenko at functions instead of Brezhnev himself.

Just Another Dish? Valued at $1750.00

NORTHBROOK, Ill. — A major art exchange here reports that a man who found several "dishes" in his attic was amazed to learn that one was valued at $1750.00.

The exchange says that, while this price is unusually high, exceptional collector's plates have been appreciating quickly on the market.

To aid investors, the exchange offers a free report on what to look for, when to buy, what to pay and much more, including opportunities in promising plates still at low prices.

To get your free report with no obligation, just send your name, address and zip code to the Bradford Exchange, 7813 Bradford Place, Northbrook Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. To be sure of receiving your free copy please mail your request before April 23, 1976.

JOHNNY Horan Day, May 1, is expected to attract the participation of more than 700 adults and youngsters in a one-day clean up of all of Twin Falls County. Planning participation in the event are Jerry Hillman, Camp Fire Girls representative, Candy Durham, Buhl Jaycees; John Freeman, Buhl City Council and William L. Chagney, general chairman, all from left.

Plans under way

Chinese military supports Mao

HONG KONG (UPI) — Members of the Chinese armed forces have held rallies across the country to demonstrate their support for Chairman Mao Tse-tung and his decision to strip Teng Hsiao-ping of all posts, including armed forces acting chief of staff, the New China News Agency said today.

As Peking municipal authorities reported the Tien An Men (The Gate of Heavenly Peace) Square to the public for the first time since rioting erupted a week ago, Peking Radio reported pledges of support for Mao and the Communist party Central Committee—pouring in from military, government and Communist party officials in the provinces.

The broadcast, monitored in Hong Kong, said members of the People's Liberation Army have vowed to "truly more closely" around the party Central Committee headed by Chairman Mao.

They "angrily denounced the reactionary crimes of the unrepentant capitalist ruler—Teng Hsiao-ping and the crime of a handful of class enemies in creating a counter-revolutionary political incident at Tien An Men Square," the agency said. There were indications the rioting in Peking was not an isolated incident. Peking Radio reported Sunday that a "similar incident" took place in Chengchow, capital of Honan province in Central China. One person was killed in that incident, Chengchow authorities said. They gave no details.

NJ EPA target?

RENTON, N.J. (UPI) — A New Jersey environment official says the federal government is picking on the Garden State. Environmental Commissioner David J. Bardin said the Environmental Protection Agency has imposed stricter fuel-burning standards on New Jersey than on neighboring states.

"I can't believe what EPA is doing to New Jersey. EPA enforces standards in New Jersey which are completely ignored in other states," Bardin said this weekend. He said glass manufacturers and utilities in southern New Jersey were dealt a "death sentence" last month when the EPA ordered them to burn costly low-sulfur oil. The result, Bardin said, was higher electric bills and higher prices for glass products.

Bardin said federal enforcement of the Clean Air Act varied from state to state and called for uniform practice. "We have to do everything according to the book, while other states in other regions somehow bypass the bureaucratic red tape and do what they want."

On orders from the 82-year-old Mao, the Central Committee last Wednesday dismissed Teng as vice-premier, vice chairman of the party, member of the Politburo and acting chief of the general staff of the armed forces. Hua Jue-feng, the minister of security who leap-frogged Teng to become acting premier after Chou's death, was promoted to premier.

Appeal possible in Quinlan case

DENVILLE, N.J. (UPI) — Karen Quinlan's former legal guardian says he will decide this week whether to appeal a New Jersey Supreme Court ruling leaving the way open for the comatose girl's parents to turn off the respirator keeping her alive.

The court has ruled that Joseph and Julia Quinlan, of Hightstown, N.J., may terminate use of the respirator which has sustained their daughter in a coma for almost a year if they can convince a medical board Karen can never recover.

But Thomas R. Curtin, Newark's court-appointed protector until the high court decision, says he and his attorney, Daniel R. Coburn, are studying the court's ruling and will soon announce if they plan to ask the U.S. Supreme Court to intervene.

Curtin was appointed Karen's guardian after the family complained of bad relations with Coburn, Karen's first guardian.

Curtin, who earlier said he would not appeal, said he changed his mind after the state attorney general, Morris County prosecutor, Karen's doctors and hospital officials all decided they would not pursue the matter.

"Before I shut the door conclusively on an appeal I feel I must sit down with Dan Coburn and thoroughly go over the ruling together with him," Curtin said. Coburn said they had expected other parties in the case to appeal.

Karen has remained in a coma in St. Clare's Hospital in Denville since last April 14, when she took a combination of alcohol and tranquilizers while celebrating a friend's birthday at a tavern.

The family's legal battle began last October when their request to end Karen's life went before Superior Court Judge Robert Muir Jr. in Morristown. The judge refused

'Heat mirrors' may cut expenses

BOSTON (UPI) — Future homeowners may be able to use sunlight to cut down their winter heating bills by applying transparent "heat mirrors" to their windows, according to a scientist at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The mirrors — actually, transparent films — are ultrathin layers of metallic compounds which allow short wavelengths of light to pass through, but trap the longer heat energy waves. Dr. John C.C. Fansaid.

Development of the mirrors and parallel studies to improve the energy-absorbing materials used in traditional solar energy collectors, could be a key in making solar energy an efficient source of power, Fansaid.

Highly conventional energy is twice as efficient as solar energy, he said. The "mirrors" could probably best be used for storm windows, out of reach from the inside but able to trap heat inside the house while allowing light to pass through, he said.

Has Castro become hero to black African lands?

Devoted to the citizens of Magic Valley... William E. Howard, Publisher... Richard G. High, Managing Editor... Monday, April 12, 1978.

LONDON — (LENS) — Fidel Castro flew into Guinea's capital of Conakry on March 14 to meet the man he brought to power in Angola, President Agostinho Neto. Another Neto was Castro countries that the task of "liberating" Angola is over.

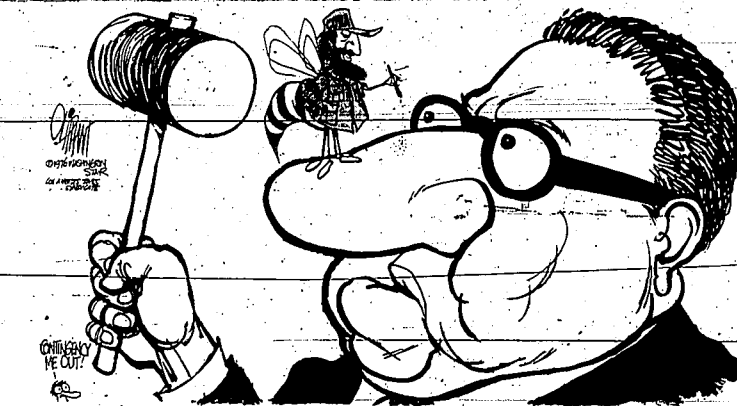

They will also help to suppress the guerrilla war that Jonas Savimbi, the leader of the anti-marxist movement defeated by Neto and the Cubans, has promised to unleash. Cuban technicians and administrators are staying on to set up some Cuban-style socialist institutions.

seem to be carving out for themselves, and there has been some friction between Cuban and Angolan soldiers. But Castro does not regard himself as a foreigner in any African country: "We are a Latin American and a Latin African nation as well."

Guinea-Bissau and Senegal Toure of Guinea. It gave warning that "the destiny of the people of Namibia, Zimbabwe and South Africa" was involved in the Angolan struggle. Neto is trying to resurrect an old alliance, the Conference of National Organizations of the Portuguese Colonies, to coordinate "progressive forces" in southern Africa, and Cuba is evidently expected to play its part.

$2 bill returns, dollar doesn't

Two dollar bills return to general circulation tomorrow. The new bills aren't collectors items but rather an attempt to save the government the expense of printing $1 bills. The government has figured out that printing up 225 million $2 bills is cheaper than printing 450 million $1 bills.

Triangle arouses speculation

NEW YORK — The disclosure last December that President Kennedy and two major Mafia figures maintained close friendships with the same woman — Judith Campbell — has puzzled many private citizens, disturbed some law enforcement officials and aroused extensive speculation in and out of government.

The speculation has been stimulated because the two Mafia figures, John Roselli and Sam Giancana, maintained the relationships with Mrs. Campbell at the time she said she was having an affair with the President. And both men had been involved in the Central Intelligence Agency's abortive plots to assassinate Premier Fidel Castro Cuba.

But the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, which investigated the CIA plots, referred only briefly to Mrs. Campbell's relationships, devoting not a page to them in its 348-page report last December. The report did not identify Mrs. Campbell (now Mrs. Judith Exner) by name or sex, and left a number of questions unanswered.

Among them were whether Mrs. Campbell used her relationship with Kennedy to benefit the Mafia, and what the President learned as a result of the Campbell friendship that the CIA was working with the Mafia on a plot to kill Castro.

During the last two months, the New York Times, in interviews with current and former Justice Department officials, and in both the plots and underworld figures, has examined these questions and found the following:

Several recommendations were made within the Justice Department in 1962 for a thorough investigation of Mrs. Campbell's Mafia ties, but no investigation was conducted. When high Justice officials learned about her friendship with Kennedy in early 1962, they looked upon it as a "domestic matter," as one of them put it, and merely passed information on her to the White House.

— Sam Giancana — who was slain last June — and John Roselli boasted to fellow gangsters about sharing the affections of a woman who was seeing the president, but they do not appear to have known further from their knowledge of Mrs. Campbell's friendship with Kennedy.

While the Senate committee found no evidence that Kennedy knew about the CIA-Mafia plots to kill Castro, the possibility appears likely to some former Justice officials that Robert F. Kennedy, then the attorney general, told his brother about the plots in view of what he learned about the relationships of Giancana, Roselli and Mrs. Campbell in 1962 and early 1963.

When the Senate committee investigated Mrs. Campbell's friendships not only did the committee not call Frank Sinatra, who introduced Mrs. Campbell to both Kennedy and Giancana, but other key individuals were merely interviewed rather than questioned under oath, even though a deeper inquiry might have produced information affecting the committee's conclusion that Kennedy did not know about the CIA-Mafia plots against Castro.

A spokesman for the committee, Spencer Davis, said the panel's mandate was to determine whether Mrs. Campbell was involved in an intelligence operations and not to conduct a broad investigation of her Mafia ties.

"We found that she was not engaged in intelligence," he said.

A close friend of the two Mafia figures said Mrs. Campbell's initial contact with the Mafia was with Roselli, who was born in Italy, immigrated to Boston as a child, joined the Mafia in Chicago and later became involved in labor racketeering in Los Angeles.

She was first seen staying out of sight since Giancana was slain last year; his two friends he first met Mrs. Campbell in 1951 — she was then Judith "Immooor" — when she was 17 years old and "hanging around the studios" in Hollywood. Roselli, who had served three years in federal prison for extorting money from the studios, was then associated with an independent production company. Miss Immooor had ambitions of becoming an actress.

Roselli stopped seeing her when she married William Campbell, an actor, a short time later, according to the friend of the two Mafia leaders.

The couple was divorced in 1958, and a year later she began to date Sinatra, she said in the outline for a book she plans to write. Mrs. Campbell said she ended her affair with the singer because their tastes in sex differed, but continued to travel with the Sinatra crowd.

In reply to this assertion, Sinatra issued this statement: "Hell has no fury like a hustler with a literary agent."

Miss Campbell said in the outline that Sinatra introduced her to John F. Kennedy on Feb. 7, 1959, in Las Vegas, Nev., and they made plans to meet in early March in New York, where they began to have an affair.

After her New York meeting with Kennedy, according to the outline, she accepted an invitation to meet Sinatra in Miami Beach, where he was performing at the Fontainebleau Hotel, and the entertainer introduced her there to Giancana.

Five months later Giancana and Roselli became involved with the CIA in plots to kill Fidel Castro — recur in Miami Beach, where he was performing at the Fontainebleau Hotel, and the entertainer introduced her there to Giancana.

His contention is supported by participants in the plots, including Robert Maheu, who has acknowledged bringing together the Mafia and the CIA. Mrs. Campbell said in her book outline that she had "no knowledge of CIA involvement with the Mafia."

'Ifs' aplenty confront putting FEC in business

By United Press International

If Congress reach agreement, and if both House and Senate approve it, and if President Ford signs it and then appoints the six new Federal Election Commissioners, and if the Senate confirms them — then presidential candidates again can draw federal funds by easier.

Congress starts a 10-day recess at midweek, and with only three working days left, it appears to be a long shot chance all the steps can be completed to put the FEC back into the business of doling out matching funds.

The House committee report on the bill to create the process can be completed by late Thursday, the cash window will reopen two days to help candidates in the next day's Pennsylvania primary or the May 1 Texas balloting.

Senate-House negotiators scheduled another effort today to work out a bill acceptable to House, Senate, White House and Supreme Court. But the wedding plans of the chief House conferee, Ohio Democrat Wayne Hays, will cause problems if another session is needed Tuesday.

Most candidates are already on credit. Only President Ford and Henry Jackson had healthy bank balances when the cash flow stopped three weeks ago.

The FEC is still in business. Only its power to enforce regulations — and dispense matching federal money was suspended by the Supreme Court ruling. On Saturday it published the only three financial statements to be received by week's end.

One was from Ford, who said he has taken in a total of $5.6 million in matching funds and $2.5 million. The other two were from Democratic Senator Robert Byrd, running as West Virginia favorite son, and Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh, who has withdrawn as an active candidate.

Byrd had taken in $207,261 and spent $91,417. Bayh had taken in $440,471 and spent $378,458.

Henry Jackson, interviewed on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" from Philadelphia, said he is enough of a realist to realize many Pennsylvania voters prefer Hubert Humphrey.

"In an election," he said, "a number of these people have as their preference Hubert Humphrey but they're going to vote for me."

He said that if Carter does poorly in Pennsylvania, it will have "an enormous impact" on the Georgian's drive for the nomination.

Carter took Sunday off, as usual. Questions about "ethnic parity" followed him from Pennsylvania to Ohio to Missouri by week's end, and he asked reporters why they continued to ask about the words, since he had apologized for them.

In California, Democrats began choosing a 280-member or convention delegation. Gov. Edmund Brown ran ahead among the 20,000 to 30,000 party members turning up at caucuses in all 43 congressional districts.

Jackson claimed a 56 per cent majority of delegate candidates in the second stage of the selection process in his home state of Washington.

Stamp plan backed

ATLANTA — The Southern Conference of Black Mayors urged Sunday the creation of a system of "energy stamps" to assist the nation's poor in paying for the increased costs of fuel, electricity and gasoline in the same way that the food-stamp program assists in food purchases.

The 90-member organization, holding a four-day conference, resolved to "request the Congressional Black Caucus to research these proposals, draft legislation and introduce said energy stamp act in the House and Senate."

Persons to receive energy stamps, the mayors suggested, would be the poor, the unemployed, the elderly and others living on fixed incomes.

'Symbolic racism' on rise

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) — While overt racism is on the wane in the United States two social scientists say it has been replaced by "symbolic racism" among well-educated whites.

The "symbolic racism" is sprouting in the nation's affluent suburbs, especially in the north, among whites who see blacks "making unfair advances" on the expense of the whites that make the nation great," according to Drs. John B. McConahay and John C. Houch Jr.

"Unlike the old-fashioned racism which denied that blacks had the right to an opportunity for the good life, symbolic racism grants this right but holds that blacks want more than simply the rights that everyone else has."

McConahay, an associate professor of psychology at Duke University, and Houch, dean of the theology faculty at Claremont College in California, presented their findings in a 35-page paper prepared for the Duke Policy Sciences Institute.

The new racism is said to express itself in reaction to symbols — many white find offensive, including wolfare, black militance, riots, crime in the streets, affirmative action programs and fair housing laws.

The "symbolic racism" is not generally founded on personal dislike of blacks, but on a feeling that blacks are violating some abstract standard that whites adhere to out of respect for their value system.

Northerners morally supported blacks while the civil rights struggle was in the south, the professors said, but when the struggle moved north demands for reform were not specific and as limited as in the south.

Blacks then "threatened every northern institution," the two said. "Here was the conflict was between a different kind of black and a different kind of white."

Tennis hustler's son found dead

MANOR HAVEN, N.Y. (UPI) — The unemployed son of Bobby Riggs, the flamboyant tennis hustler, has been found dead in a Long Island rooming house, authorities reported.

Nassau County police said James Riggs, 22, was found dead in his bed at a Long Island address by his roommate Saturday evening.

Police said a "narcotic implement" was found nearby the body. But they would not say if Riggs' death was caused by drug use. homicide detectives said there was no indication Riggs was slain.

The spokesman for the county medical examiner's office said the body was identified Sunday by James' brother, John. An autopsy had been completed, the spokesman said, but the cause of death was pending until toxicological and microscopic examinations could be made.

James was one of Bobby Riggs' six children by two former wives.

The 58-year-old tennis pro was notified of his son's death by police in Los Angeles, where he was participating in exhibitions at a sportsman's show. He was reported enroute to New York.

Thorn visit

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Gaston Thorn, president of the government of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, arrived with his wife, Liliane, Sunday for a four-day official visit.

Thorn told newsmen Mexico was one of the "most dynamic" developing nations and said relations between Mexico and the European Economic Community should be better.

Government officials were at the international airport to receive the Thorns.

Pope stays

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican Sunday denied a report published in a news newspaper that Pope Paul VI might travel to Philadelphia to August.

L'Observateur Romano said Saturday the pope might accept an invitation to attend the closing of the International Eucharistic Congress Aug. 8 in Philadelphia.

"It is a case of an oversight ... which lacks any foundation whatsoever," a Vatican spokesman said.

Plumber shares hippo cage

TOKYO (UPI) — A drunken plumber attending a cherry blossom viewing party in a park suffered slight injuries when he entered a hippopotamus cage and dived into a pool shared by two female hippos, police said today.

A police spokesman said Hideyuki Sato was hospitalized with minor cuts and bruises after he was found unconscious and wearing only his shorts in the hippo cage of an amusement park in Otta City on the southern island of Kyushu.

They said Sato and his friends had been having a traditional cherry blossom viewing party in the park prior to his dive into the pool occupied by 22-year-old hippo "Tama" and her one-year-old daughter "Fuku."

Jealousy leads to shooting

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police say Carlos de la Torre, 30, went on a shooting rampage at a home in the Highland Park area out of jealousy over his estranged wife's new boyfriend.

Officers called to the scene Sunday by neighbors who heard the shots found the wife, Maria de la Torre, 30, her father, Angelo Prado, 64, a retired Cuban judge, and her mother, Olga, 57, dead in the home.

The assailant, who apparently shot himself with his .38-caliber revolver, lay critically injured and died a few minutes later.

His wife's friend, Jerry Steinaur, 27, was seriously wounded in the incident but was the only one to survive.

Birth control practice

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (UPI) — A researcher says tadpoles practice birth control — not on themselves, but on fish sharing a pond with them.

Steven Boyd, a research assistant at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, said Saturday tadpoles apparently produce and release a chemical substance which blocks the reproduction of smaller fish.

The mechanism is apparently a way to make certain the tadpoles get their share of the limited resources in a pond, he said.

"I noticed that when ponds have a high density of tadpoles there is also a low diversity of fish species," Boyd said.

"Through a series of experiments I narrowed it down to some sort of substance the tadpoles are producing" that inhibits reproduction.

Wussler named

NEW YORK (UPI) — Robert Wussler, who began his career at CBS in the mail room, has been named president of the CBS television network.

A company announcement Sunday said Wussler would succeed Robert Wood, who resigned to organize his own production company in southern California that will create programs exclusively for CBS.

Wussler, 39, vice president in charge of sports for the network since July 1974, began his career at CBS in 1957.

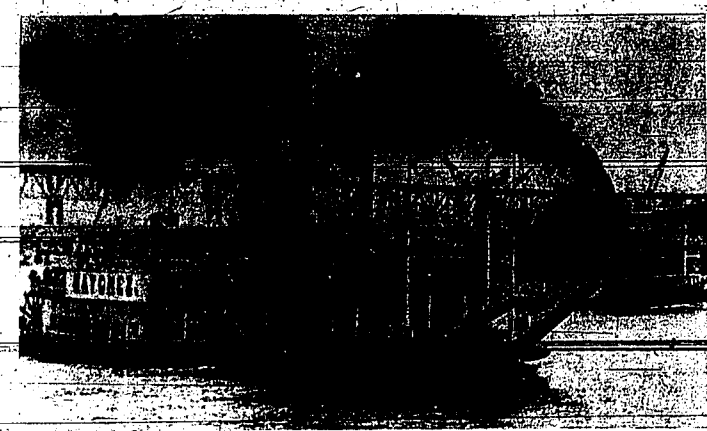

Playboy reshuffled

CHICAGO (UPI) — Hugh Hefner is leaving his post as president of the Playboy empire he built but will continue as board chairman and chief executive officer of the multimillion-dollar corporation, the magazine disclosed during the weekend.

Lee Gottlieb, Playboy vice president for public relations said the move was decided upon by the year ago as part of "an orchestrated reorganization of the Playboy empire."

Gottlieb said Hefner in no way was stepping aside as the controlling force of Playboy.

Second victory

Natchez scores 2nd year victory

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Captain Ernest Wagner says old age cost the Delta Queen the Great Mississippi River Steamboat race.

"The old lady just ain't what she used to be," Wagner said of his 52-year-old vessel.

"When you saw that black smoke you knew that was it. When you're makin' smoke you're not makin' steam — and a steamboat ain't much good without steam," he said.

The hometown, Natchez, whipped the Belle Queen of Choudanville handily Sunday for the second year in a row.

Engineer Jimmy Allen offered another excuse.

"There wasn't enough air forced to the boilers to burn the fuel," Allen said. "We hope to get a second forced air fan down there next year and that should make a lot of difference."

The Delta Queen was a length and a half behind the Natchez when the hometown boat crossed the finish line marked by fireboats spraying arcs of water across the river from Jackson Square in the French Quarter.

The Natchez gave the Queen a 500-foot headstart at Audubon Park, five miles upriver, because of claims last year the hometown entry had jumped the gun.

But with callops blowing thru more than 800 passengers cheering her on, the hometown sternwheeler steamed ahead and won the second contest in 28 one-year-between-the-two 19th-century style boats.

"It was a good clean race — no trickery here," winning Captain Clarke "Doc" Hawley said as his boat crossed the finish line ahead of the Delta Queen.

The win allowed Hawley to keep a rack of weatherbeaten antlers bolted to the wall of his pilot house, a symbol that his steamboat is the swiftest on the Mississippi.

In the last leg of the race the Queen's callops played. "Dixie" and "The Bonnie Blue Flag."

"You're a Southern man on a Southern boat," Wagner roared to Hawley. "We're playing Dixie and flying the Bonnie Blue Flag, so show an old lady some respect ... slow up and let us by."

THE stern-wheeler Natchez edges out the Delta Queen Sunday in their race down the Mississippi in New Orleans. It was the second victory for the Natchez who took the inaugural race, the first in 100 years in New Orleans, by a large margin last year. (UPI)

Reye's syndrome claims four lives

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reye's syndrome, a rare and often deadly disease whose victims are children, has claimed at least four lives in the United States in recent months.

Medical authorities say there is no reason for panic. They believe there have been only about 900 known cases of the mysterious disorder in the world and chances of catching it are remote.

The disorder attacks the central nervous system and liver. The only known cure is complete blood transfusion every 12 hours.

According to research conducted at Dalhousie University in Halifax, Nova Scotia, the disease may be triggered, in part, by chemicals used in pesticide spraying.

Canadian researchers indicate several petrochemical solvents — usually utilized in dissolving insecticides and herbicides — may interact with certain viruses. And although the research is inconclusive, researchers suspect this interaction may help trigger Reye's syndrome.

"The truth is, nobody knows a hell of a lot about this illness," said Winfred Van Atta, spokesman for Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center, The New York City facility had treated nine youngsters afflicted with the disease.

"Of the nine, we lost three," Van Atta said. "We saved six and they are completely all right. We want to emphasize this is a very, very rare disease. Chances of getting it are less than one in a million."

The disorder, which often starts with a cold, usually attacks children between the ages of seven and 12.

The latest victim here was Leslie Smith, 12, who died at the hospital last Friday after lapsing into a coma. She never regained consciousness.

"Leslie first developed just an ordinary cold," Van Atta said, "and the next day she was in a coma. There was not a bump that could have been done to her."

In Lexington, Kentucky, Ralph Moore, 12, died last Friday at the University of Kentucky Medical Center. The diagnosis — Reye's syndrome.

Claims marriage

ACTRESS Terry Moore claims to have been married to Howard Hughes for eight years starting in the late 40s. Miss Moore married Hughes when she was 18 and his death caused her to "lose the best friend I ever had." The gardenias in the foreground were given to her by a guest at the hotel where she is staying. (UPI)

Treatment funding cut protested

NEW YORK (UPI) — They call it "The Forgetting City."

About 150 former New addicts have camped for five days on the sidewalk outside Mayor Abraham Beame's residence, Grace Mason, protesting state and city treatment programs.

Their ranks swell to 300 on most days, but Sunday 1,000 residents and supporters of six drug-free programs took treatment programs matched to silent protest through a park surrounding the mayor's home.

The demonstrators bundled in blankets and tents each night against the cold — have had no word from Beame or any other official.

Kevin McEneaney, a former addict who is director of public information for Phoenix House, one of the treatment centers, offered coffee and chicken soup to three policemen.

"We're a forgotten city," he said. "Nobody cares for far, no public or elected official has come to talk with us."

Then why continue? "We have no choice," he said. "If we have to let the residents go, many will end up in the street anyway."

As part of an experiment cutting curfew hours, the state legislature reduced funding for drug treatment programs by 40 per cent — a loss of $8.6 million.

The city, which narrowly avoided a last summer, proposes about $4.5 million of its support for the program, a 50 per cent reduction.

"That doesn't impress Steve Maxwell, a former addict and counselor at Daytop Village, who peered through his pile of blankets.

"We were up in Albany and the response wasn't too encouraging. It's insane that New York is spending the much money to put a Bessie trial charge in the water, what about people who live in the city?"

Laurie Brock, 23 said, "Kicking the habit isn't hard — staying off it is."

Miss Brock, from Buffalo, N.Y., said she tried liquidation in Israel and was arrested for trying to steal $1 from a plainclothes city policeman.

She said she was referred to a treatment center by the courts, spent seven months there and is now in a "re-entry phase" working as a messenger — dispatcher and attending college.

"My mother is a society buff," she said. "All my parents know is I'm in school."

Bonnie Ullman weds in Seattle nuptials

TWIN FALLS. — Bonnie Marie Ullman, 21, and Mark Antoncich Jr., 27, were married at a Nuptial Mass March 27 at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Seattle.

Valley favorites

- MRS. JOHN LURIE
Rt. 1, Eden
- APPLE STUFFED PORK CHOP ROAST
8 to 10 1/2 lbs. loin pork chops
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 medium sized onion, chopped
4 to 5 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter or margarine
1/2 cup water
2 cups cornbread stuffing mix
1/2 teaspoon leaf sage, crumbled
2 jars (14 oz.) each, spiced apple rings in syrup
Celery leaves or parsley
Sprinkle chops evenly with salt and pepper. Saute onion and celery in butter in a medium sized saucepan until soft, about five minutes. Remove from heat. Add water, stuffing mix and sage. Mix well. Drain apple rings, reserving syrup.
Stand chops together, fat side up with two apple rings and a small tablespoon or so of stuffing between them. In a shallow baking dish or roasting pan, skewer chops together at each end or tie with cord to hold securely.
Roast in a moderate oven, 325 degrees, for 30 minutes per pound or about one and one-half to two hours. A meat thermometer should measure, 170 degrees. Some of the reserved syrup may be brushed over the roast about one-half hour before done. Remove to serving platter and garnish with crisp celery leaves or parsley and any remaining apple rings.

Abby

DEAR ABBY—Your reply to that wife who "prettied herself up" and laid down on the sofa with nothing on because her husband called and said he was bringing her a surprise was a surprise.

Why shouldn't a man be furious with his wife for pulling such a stupid stunt?

Husbands often bring home unexpected company. To find his wife stretched out on the sofa without a stitch on when he opens the door accompanied by two business associates would embarrass any man with an ounce of brains.

In recent years it seems that more people are obsessed with the idea of parading around naked. I guess maybe they don't realize that most folks look a lot better with something on.

'Surprise' draws comment

PUZZLED AT YOUR ANSWER

DEAR PUZZLED: You can be right, but my mail has been running 50 to one in favor of the wife. Read on.

DEAR ABBY: I wrote that her husband had called, saying he was bringing home a "surprise" for her and asking her to fix a pitcher of martinis. She thought it was the diamond earrings she had wanted for Christmas, so she prettied herself up and stretched out (sans clothes) on the sofa as a "surprise" for him.

Abby, that husband must be crazy! How lucky can a man be to come home with two business associates to a pitcher of martinis and a wife stretched out naked on the sofa? He must be the envy of his entire company! I can't understand why he should be upset with her. She is being wise by putting her in that embarrassing situation. That husband should hotfoot it to his local jeweler for those diamond earrings.

She gets my vote for being an ideal wife, and if you won't tell Mr. Why, I'll make her these earrings myself!

PENNSYLVANIA JEWELER

DEAR ABBY: I'm with you! That husband who came home to the wife who wanted to surprise him because he said he was bringing HER a surprise had no right to be furious with her.

He owes her not only the earrings, but also a matching necklace, finger rings and a Mediterranean cruise!

Meat, sugar, palm oil on policy panel agenda

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's new Agricultural Policy Committee doesn't expect to be confronted with consideration of grain export embargoes and will be concentrating in coming months on issues including palm oil imports, sugar policy and closer monitoring of meat imports, administration spokesmen says.

Ford created the new committee last month, naming Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz to head it, to help quell a rising tide of unrest among farmers.

Farm spokesmen have protested grain export embargoes in recent years, charging that decisions affecting farm interests were dominated by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and other officials.

Meeting Thursday will reportedly review early stages of the new panel's work. Assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard Bell said the group may be fully organized and predicted Butz will play a leading role in its activities.

"He's chairman. The chairman has the power to initiate action and decide how matters will be presented... that has a lot to do with decisions," Bell said.

The new policy committee, replacing older panels headed by nonfarm officials, also includes Kissinger, Treasury Secretary William Simon and nine other administration officials in addition to Butz. If the committee had been in place last year, Bell said he personally doubts President Ford would have agreed to a temporary embargo on grain sales to Poland while a Soviet embargo was in effect.

"With the Secretary (Butz) as chairman, he makes sure the advice which goes to the President reflects all views, including our (Agriculture Department) own," Bell said.

Does that mean Ford was not given all relevant arguments before the 1975 temporary Soviet embargo was extended to Poland? "I don't know," Bell said.

Bell said the new committee will meet every two months in the White House cabinet room because Ford said at an initial session April 1 that he would like to participate in the meetings.

The official said the committee, which Ford said will advise him both on domestic and foreign agricultural policy and trade issues, will expect to focus decisions on export embargoes in the foreseeable future because grain supplies are adequate.

Bell added Butz has made it clear he intends to concentrate the committee's work on "broad policy," avoiding what farm officials feel are "operational matters" which should be scotched directly by the Agriculture Department and the White House without "intervention" by other agencies.

Broad policy issues listed for early consideration, Bell said, include what steps the administration should take about "fears that rising palm oil imports will damage American farmers. Also, he said, the panel will be interested in setting up closer monitoring of meat imports to make sure they do not again exceed levels agreed on with shipping nations.

Bell said farm officials will try to keep other agencies out of "operational" matters like domestic farm price support levels. This year's decisions, he said, were delayed by consultation with "layers of committees."

Bell said he and Don Paarlberg, the Agriculture Department's chief economist, will serve as executive secretaries of the new top level policy committee — Bell for matters including farm policy and international trade, and Paarlberg for monitoring domestic food prices and international food aid.

In addition, the two men will serve as joint heads of an Agricultural Policy Working group, including representatives of other government agencies, which will meet at least monthly to prepare policy papers, studies and outlines of alternatives for the policy committee.

Butz claims beef prices rising

CHICAGO (UPI) — Beef prices are going up because supplies are dwindling and farmers are no longer losing money on their cattle, Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz said Friday.

"We've been in a period where beef prices have been low," Butz said at a news conference. "Cattle prices have been very low."

He said cattle feeders were losing up to $30 a head due to the low prices, but now that supplies are going down, prices are rising.

"The price of fed beef has improved in the last couple of weeks," he said. "I think it will hold up, but it will still be below where it was two years ago."

Butz also said he thinks farmers who were angry at President Ford over the Russian grain sale embargo are now "coming back" into the GOP fold.

He noted more foreign grain sales have been made under Ford than under the Lyndon Johnson administration when Sen. Hubert Humphrey was vice president.

"I think we're going to run against Hubert Humphrey this fall," he said, smiling. "Jerry Ford thinks we're going to run against Hubert Humphrey. Hubert Humphrey thinks we're going to run against Hubert Humphrey."

Butz said the trade tour he has scheduled beginning this week is not expressly to help new agricultural business for the United States but "it is in the interest of promotion."

He said his first stops will be in New Zealand and Australia, major exporters of beef, wheat and dairy products.

"My position there will be that we need to stick side by side in the forthcoming negotiations in Geneva to lower tariff barriers on these products in the European community and Japan," he said.

"We've got to stand tight on lowering trade barriers in Europe."

Idaho economic outlook good in quarter

TWIN FALLS — The outlook for Idaho's economy in the second quarter is generally excellent, according to the First Security Bank News Letter.

Lumber demand should further strengthen as residential construction improves nationwide. The outlook for most agricultural commodities is generally good and some increase in beef prices is anticipated by midyear. Construction and mineral production are expected to remain at high levels.

The latter eggs on to point out that Idaho's economy experienced significant improvement in the first quarter of 1976. Employment and production in the mineral industry, the lumber industry and other manufacturing segments rose sharply.

Construction activity continued substantially above-year-ago levels. The rate of increase in retail sales accelerated in the first quarter.

Lumber production in Idaho for the month of January totaled 123.9 million feet board measure, 49.3 per cent above the depressed level of a year ago.

Although crop prices in Idaho in the first quarter of 1976 remain in a range similar to those in effect a year ago, major livestock commodity prices continue from $6 to $12 per cwt. above last year.

Prices of hogs and lambs in February continued approximately $10 per cwt. above last year.

Total sheep number in the United States as of Jan. 1 continued the decline characteristic of the past decade, falling eight per cent in one year. In Idaho, total number of sheep declined by 10 per cent.

If the present favorable price structure continues and a workable solution to the wool problem is achieved, an attempt to reverse the declining trend is expected.

Milk production in Idaho increased ten per cent in February, over the same month a year ago. Production nationally was up three per cent.

The value of Idaho's major crops for 1975, excluding sugar beets, was six per cent below the previous year. The decrease resulted primarily from lower production values for wheat, barley and dry beans.

A recent survey indicates Idaho farmers intend to seed seven per cent less spring wheat in 1976, two per cent less barley, but six per cent more oats.

Intended sugar beet plantings in 1976 are six per cent less than a year ago.

Building permit counts for Idaho locations totaled $4.1 billion two months of 1976, an increase above a year ago.

Number of new dwellings under construction while the dollar value of construction was up 25.2 per cent, the first two months of 1976 were 45.5 per cent from a year ago.

Total employment in Idaho reached 325,200, a 3.5 per cent increase over a year ago.

Retail trade, as shown by sales tax receipts, is up. Receipts for 1976 generally reflect sales in December of 11.5 per cent from a year ago. Receipts for the first two months of 1976 reached $2.5 billion, a 3.5 per cent increase over a year ago.

Bank deposits in Idaho as of mid-March total $1.29 billion, a 7.7 per cent increase from a year ago. Demand deposits at these agencies totaled $722 million, an increase of 11.5 per cent over a year ago, while time savings deposits, at $1,418 million, had increased 14 per cent from March a year ago.

Voluntary contributions to the state tax extension fund have been $1.5 million, a 7.7 per cent increase from a year ago. Demand deposits at these agencies totaled $722 million, an increase of 11.5 per cent over a year ago, while time savings deposits, at $1,418 million, had increased 14 per cent from March a year ago.

Freeways helping modern rustlers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The automobile may have crowded out the horse but freeways are a boon to the bans of the Old West, the horse rustler, according to Sheriff Peter Pithers.

Horse thefts increased 20 per cent last year, he reported. Freeways give the modern horse thief an advantage because he can load the horse in a trailer, hitch it to a truck and be four counties away by the time the owner realizes Old Paint is gone.

A horse can be stolen at 6 a.m. and sold hours later hundreds of miles away, Pithers said.

He noted that the penalty for horse stealing, while not as severe as in the 19th century when "due process" consisted of a rope over the nearest tree limb, is still up to 10 years in prison.

Ford seeks abuses end

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — President Ford said Saturday more careful federal supervision of grain inspection at coastal elevators should eliminate the abuses which have undermined U.S. trade credibility and shortchanged farmers.

Ford, in a speech to the Texas Grain and Feed Association at the civic center, said his administration is working "hard and fast" to put an end to corruption in the grain inspection and weighing business, and the sooner the better.

Inspection is handled by private companies, and some critics suggest the government should do it. Ford expressed hope Congress "does not overreact by federalizing the entire system."

"Your very fine industry has been affected because a few grain inspection agencies have not properly carried out their responsibilities," Ford said. "It is absolutely essential that we maintain the confidence of our export grain customers who buy such a large percentage of American farm production."

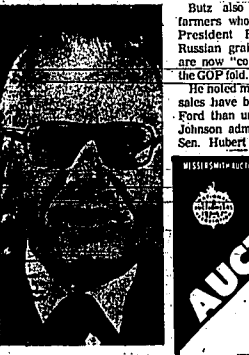

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., a possible Democratic presidential candidate, is the chief sponsor of a bill to federalize the inspection system.

"We must not — we cannot — do it by turning over more of your business to a government bureaucracy in Washington," Ford said.

Ford said he favored an approach "which provides for more careful federal supervision" of grading and weighing.

EARL BUTZ, Secretary of Agriculture, is off on tour.

Beekeeping hobbyists increasing

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Utah Agriculture Department says it has noted a recent increase in beekeeping activity in the state by hobbyists who may be breaking stigmas long unknown.

John Knighton, state bee inspector, says all owners of beehives, whether hobbyists or commercial beekeepers, must register their colonies with the department.

Knighton said many of the new beekeepers do not realize that bees are subject to diseases that could result in total destruction of the hive and infect others.

The inspector said, "The majority of these new beekeepers find it a fascinating and rewarding pastime," but he is urging all new beekeepers to register their hives so the colonies can be inspected.

From these bees come about 1.6 billion pounds of honey annually in Utah. And not only are bees important because of honey production, but also for pollination of many fruits and vegetables, thus increasing the yield and providing more food for us.

BLM issues permit rule

BOISE (UPI) — The Boise District office, Bureau of Land Management, announced today that special recreation permits are required for commercial boating use of the Beuneeau, Larhidge and Owyhee rivers in southwestern Idaho.

Dean Bibles, district manager of the BLM office, said private parties also are asked to obtain permits for use of those rivers.

Queen signup deadline nears

GLENN'S FERRY — Thursday is the sign-up deadline for this year's Elmore County Fair Queen contest.

The competition and activities are open to all junior and senior class girls, except those who won scholarships last year.

This year's winners will receive trophies, gifts and scholarships, including $300 for the queen, $200 for first attendant and $100 for second attendant. Trophies will be awarded to all contestants with special awards going to the first three places in talent, most enthusiastic, most gracious, best model, best response and the coveted Miss Congeniality.

The contest begins with orientation May 8th at the Mountain Home Air Force Base, to which all contestants are invited. At orientation, contestants will receive free instruction in modeling, hairstyling, makeup and wardrobe.

A queen contestant tea will be held May 15 in Mountain Home and is a requirement for all contestants. This is the first time queen hopefuls will meet and speak with the judges.

Talent competition will be held May 22 in Mountain

Home. This is another must for all contestants and judges will be present.

The pageant will be held in Glenn's Ferry. This is the highlight of the contest. It is a formal affair for all girls. The public is invited to attend — admission will be 50 cents per person or $1 per family to help defray contest expenses.

The contest will culminate with the Elmore County Fair, Glenn's Ferry, where the queen will be riding in the parade. On the last night of the fair, the queen's dance at the Glenn's Ferry City Hall will conclude the queen's activities and the agent's office in the court house. For more information call 567-4626 or 567-4651.

National Folk Ballet of Yugoslavia

Dinner held

GLENN'S FERRY — A pot-luck dinner was held Friday evening at the Veteran's Memorial Hall by the Union Pacific Old Timers Club of Glenn's Ferry.

The members were holding the annual general committee meeting. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. J.G. Stewart of Los Angeles, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. Mel Thrall of Salt Lake City, Utah; and Mr. and Mrs. R.E. Wyant of Boise.

The group discussed the national convention in Long Beach, Calif., on Sept. 21 and 23. The meeting will be held on the Queen Mary, anchored on the beach. Free charter buses will run from Nampa and spend a night at Reno enroute to Long Beach.

Concert slated April 21 at CSI

TWIN FALLS — Community Concert memberships for the 1978-79 season are now being accepted by mail or at the membership campaign headquarters in the Music Center, 221 Main Ave. E.

Association president and concert chairman, John Doerr, said the coming season will feature two concerts which are already assigned and two others to be selected later.

The George Shearing Quintet will be performing for Community Concert members April 20, 1977.

The National Folk Ballet of Yugoslavia featuring 45 colorful ballet dancers from Bojgrade will perform here March 5.

All concerts will be held in the Fine Arts Auditorium of the College of Southern Idaho and are open to members only.

A season membership is $10 for adults, $5 for students or $30 for the entire family. Memberships may be mailed to Community Concert Association of Magic Valley, 1347 Fremont Drive, Twin Falls.

Other officers this year include Laverne Koblitz, secretary; Ludmila Wiedeman, publicity chairman, and C.L. Fisher, treasurer.

2 Carey students honored

CAREY — Two Carey High School students received recognition at a recent convention of high school office education students.

Bazille Roberts was elected to the office of state parliamentarian and Kaitie Coates was named second alternate to a full scholarship to Boise State University. The chapter taken presentation won first place.

Concert member plan under way

TWIN FALLS — Marion Morrey Richter, pianist, composer, scholar and lecturer, will present a concert at the CSI Fine Arts Auditorium April 21 under sponsorship of the Idaho Federation of Music Clubs.

Dr. Richter will present a matinee at 1:30 p.m. April 21 for all students from grade school through high school.

At 2:30 p.m. the younger students will be excused and Dr. Richter will play a more advanced concert for those remaining. All piano students will be excused from school to attend if they have written excuse from home.

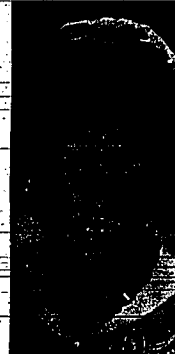

Senior citizens and adults are welcome to attend. Tickets are $2 for senior citizens, $3 for adults and $1 for students.

Widely heard as a concert pianist, Dr. Richter has lectured extensively for clubs, schools—and professional groups and has given many recitals for children and youths. She has been on the faculties of the Julliard School and Teachers College, Columbia University, and has traveled widely, bringing American music to nations throughout the world.

Dr. Richter knows her subject thoroughly and is a mistress of the art of turning a talk on music into a very attractive and instructive entertainment, according to Mrs. Youtz.

She is a splendid pianist, the chairman said, and all piano teachers are urged to sell tickets to their students. Parents and other interested adults are also urged to hear the pianist, described both as "a fine educator and musician."

Drillers find more hot water

By SHANE O'NEILL Times News Staff Writer
MALTA - Drillers uncovered more hot water Friday at the Raft River geothermal test site, offering more encouragement that Idaho may one day have a commercial geothermal power plant.

geothermal power plant probably is years away. Still, more drilling is planned at the Raft River site to try to determine the size of the underground hot water reservoir.

Clear cut patches in Sawtooth National Forest

Tug-of-war rages over US forests

(Continued from p. 1) Robert Arfalu, first vice-president of the National Association of Home Builders, claims the Humphrey measure will establish "broad guidelines and specific objectives governing use of the forests, including harvest and sale of forest products."

In the Sawtooth, clear cuts average about 12 acres, according to Straub. "This is many times the size of the natural stands, which are not very big."

heavy attack by the timber industry," he said. "The even flow principle said the timber supply should not have peaks and valleys, with large cuts of old growth and 'total disaster to the rest'."

TRIUMPH - A cross country skier, 10 miles from the nearest road, suffering with a twisted ankle was rescued Sunday after a nine hour ordeal.

At the local level, Phil Straub, Twin Falls, a member of the timber project staff for the Sawtooth National Forest, said clearcutting is an essential tool in promoting healthy stands of Douglas fir and lodgepole pine, the primary types of marketable timber in the forest.

Ravenscroft warned that the Randolph bill would have a "disastrous effect on the big mills and loggers" of Northern Idaho.

Richard Fiddler, Seattle, Wash., chairman of the Northwest Conservation Committee for the Sierra Club, said the "Randolph measure" is what we really need to reform the way the national forests are run.

TRIUMPH - A cross country skier, 10 miles from the nearest road, suffering with a twisted ankle was rescued Sunday after a nine hour ordeal.

Both are "shade intolerant" and need direct sunlight to prosper. The clearcut also is necessary to control diseases such as mistletoe, according to Straub.

"The question is whether there will be a quick job, telling the Forest Service to go ahead and do what it has been doing, or to tell Congress to take another look at the entire spectrum of timber management."

"The bill contains 'merely specific guidelines for how timber should be managed,' Fiddler said, but it doesn't eliminate the options of professional foresters.

Wheeler said extremely soft snow, which caused snowmachines to sink completely, to the ground in spots was responsible for the long recovery time.

Asked if the bill would curtail timber-related jobs in the state, Straub said he "couldn't put a handle on it but I think it would grossly affect employment."

"One of the most important provisions that supports an even flow, sustained yield principle" in the forests.

"It also would lend support to forestry professionals who are 'under pressure' to favor timber interests over environmental concerns."

Small was brought out on a stretcher behind one of the machines after the eight person crew reached him. Wheeler said the two men had been in the back country about four days on a skiing trip.

"I personally don't like 50 to 100-acre clear cuts. They shouldn't be too big because they do affect the ecosystem, including temperature and moisture."

Rostron sees continued growth for MV

BY BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News Staff Writer
TWIN FALLS - Continued stable growth will assure a healthy economy in Twin Falls and Magic Valley, says Ray Rostron, Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce manager.

Rostron, who probably has a finger closer to the economic pulse of the area than any other individual, says in the past six years 1,400 new jobs have been added to this area through new and expanded industries.

horoscope

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 12, 1978
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's oncoming Full Moon finds you getting along well with others. Associates are inclined to show more consideration for your wishes at this time. Reconciliations can be made now.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr. 19) An associate could give you trouble in the morning so be tactful with this person. Sidelstep an opponent who is conniving.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't argue with a co-worker in the morning. Take a little time in the middle of the day and restore your energies.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make plans for whatever you want to do and carry through in a positive fashion. Be with congenials in the evening and have fun.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You may find it difficult early in the day to get started on important tasks. Later obstacles are removed and success is yours.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study your assets and liabilities properly and make long range plans for the future. Avoid a foe who does not understand you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) The planets are most favorable in the afternoon, so you can get much done after careful preparations in the morning.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You may feel stalemated in the morning but if you figure out the cause, you can soon rectify matters. Go after personal desires tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) The morning is not good for getting the information you need, but the afternoon is fine. Attend the social this evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A friend who understands your problems can be of great assistance to you now. Make new acquaintances in the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Morning is not good for handling a civic affair, but you can get good results later in the day. New applications can help you in your work.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do not expect any comfort from a person whose views are different from yours. Be care of one who has an eye on your assets.

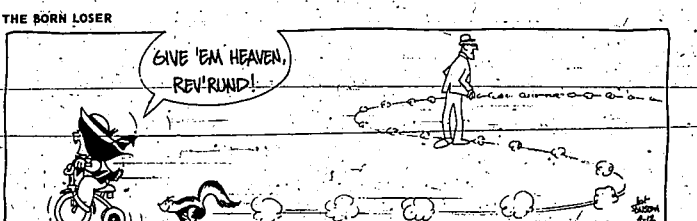

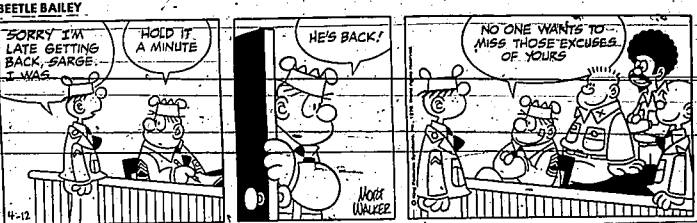

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be sure to keep those promises you have made to others. Take it easy in the evening. Show more devotion to loved one.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will need much affection early in life to pave the way for future success. There is fine ability at cooperating with others. Your progeny could do well in big organizations and in whatever requires neatness and precision.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Argument continues over whether beer should be poured into a glass or drunk straight from the can. One set of experts insists the pouring to put a thick white head on it improves the flavor. Another set claims the pouring tends to flatten it slightly. I know of no authority who can settle this question with a certainty: Do you?

PURPLE PERASATION
 In his novel "The Sun Also Rises," Ernest Hemingway described a waiter who excused purple perasation. A literary student asks if such is a medical possibility. It happens, though rarely. The records show a 37-year-old woman in Defiance, Ohio, likewise perasated purple. Examining doctors called the condition "chromidrosis."

During World War II, U. S. Army researchers checked out the foot measurements of 100,000 soldiers. To learn the most common size, they found that 63,000 of them made footprints between 11 and 12 inches long. According to the record, that's the length of the footprints supposedly left in the Tibetan Himalayas by the Abominable Snowman.

Power firms win battle, may lose war

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — Although power companies may have won a battle in a state court ruling involving emissions from coal-burning power plants, a state official says they may have lost the war in terms of future energy development.

What all that means in a hypothetical situation, Clayton said, is that two dirty powerplants could saturate the air with the maximum permitted level of sulfur dioxide emissions, although as many as seven plants could have been located within the region if they had low sulfur dioxide.

Gymnast takes 7 firsts

GLENNIS FERRY — Laura DeCorte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ramond Valenzuela, has made an outstanding record in gymnastics.

Her instructor, Mrs. Paul Shrum, describes her as "one in a million" as she has scored several firsts at every gymnastics meet in which Glennis Ferry High School has competed.

At the end of the season Laura has a total of 287.51 points to her credit. She has perfect scores in vault, uneven bars and in track, and ribbons and trophies in swimming and diving. In early March at the district gymnastics meet, Laura took first in seven events and a second in one event out of a possible eight entries.

Laura was born in Malibu, Nova Scotia, and lived in England for a time before moving to Mountain Home.

Litter-pickup

THESE young workers are lending a hand to the Idaho Division of Highways on a part-time basis under the federally sponsored program — the Commemorative Employment Training Act. Last year alone, litter-pick up cost Idaho highway users over $47,000 — more than double the cost ten years ago.
