Pioneer on Ada ballot

BOISE (UPI) — Ada County commissioners have decided to call for an advisory vote on the proposed Pioneer coal-fired power plant when the voters ballot in the presidential primary May 25.

The commissioners said they will put seven questions on the ballot concerning growth and energy in Ada County and the seventh will ask whether the voters think Idaho Power Company's proposed $228 million plant should be built.

Last February, the commissioners turned down a proposal to put the question on the ballot. They said the question is of regional rather than just Ada County concern.

Lebanon calls elections, fighting slows

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — President Suleiman Franjeh, after months of defiance, Saturday agreed to elections for his successor. Syria began implementing a few peace plan, reportedly including secret concessions to Lebanon's Moslem leftists.

Socialist party chief Kamal Jumblatt met with his Moslem leftist allies in a crucial session to review the accord.

Beirut newspapers said the plan contained secret provisions demanded by Jumblatt, including a Syrian pledge to lift an arms blockade in Lebanon and start withdrawing some of the 6,000 troops from Lebanese soil within 48 hours.

exchanges across Moslem-Christian lines in Beirut subsided after 51 persons died and 115 were wounded in 24 hours. The war toll topped 17,400 dead and 35,600 wounded.

Cautious optimism mounted that the new peace accord worked out in Damascus Friday by Syrian President Hafez Assad and Palestinian guerrilla chief Yasser Arafat would finally resolve the yearlong sectarian strife.

Two Syrian veterans of past cease-fires, army Col. Ali Madani and Mohammed Kholl, arrived Saturday to revive a joint Syrian-Lebanese-Palestinian military committee charged with supervising the truce.

demand of leftist Moslems and Christians, signing into a law a constitutional amendment allowing immediate elections for a new president, six months before his term was to expire.

Parliament approved the amendment one week ago and will probably meet this week to choose a new head of state, political sources said. Elections would then begin, after a delay for months of leftist pressure to quit.

Halling the new developments, the right-wing Phalangist radio Lebanon had apparently entered "the beginning of the end of armed clashes.

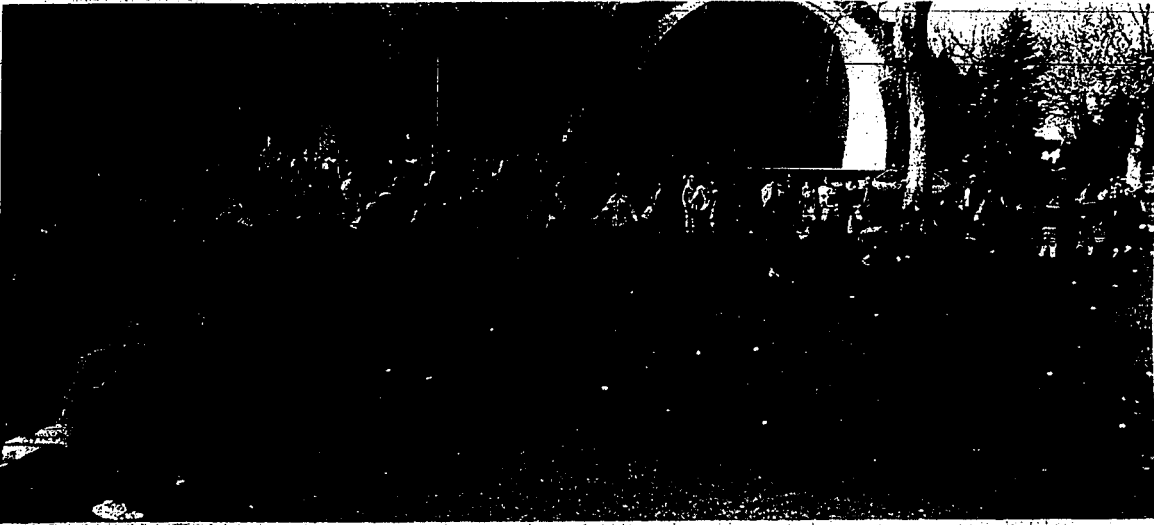

inviting death and those who still dream of military victories are harboring illusions," the radio said.

Beirut newspapers said the accord worked out between Assad and Arafat included several secret provisions in addition to a Syrian withdrawal. They were:

Creation of "Palestinian-Lebanese development council" to supervise the truce and the continued presence of Syrian-based Palestine Liberation Army troops in Lebanon.

Organizing a round-table national conference to work out political and social reforms satisfying leftist aspirations for greater power in Lebanon.

Ending the bitter war of words between Jumblatt and pro-Syrian leftists in the country.

Private mails could hurt rural areas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Postal Service says private mail delivery firms might ignore rural residents and ghetto dwellers and serve only high-profit areas if Congress allows them to deliver first-class mail.

In an unpublished position paper obtained by UPI, the service also questions whether private mail firms would protect the mails from theft and tampering, block junk mail on request or provide other convenience services.

William Bolger, deputy to Postmaster General Benjamin Ballar, drafted the Postal Service response to those who claim competition from private mail firms would improve efficiency and reduce mail costs.

"Private mail delivery services would, no doubt, offer services in areas where homes are relatively close together and there is a larger volume," the Postal Service statement says.

"Whether private enterprise would offer delivery services to the ghetto areas or the rural areas is questionable."

Says loss of revenue to private competitors would probably close some post offices and inconvenience those whose homes are not located near their private mail firm.

Asks who will protect mail boxes from tampering and mail from theft, since federal law safeguards only U.S.-mail handled by the Postal Service and not privately delivered mail.

Questions what will happen when a citizen moves to a new area not served by his private mail firm and asks whether private firms will hold mail for vacationers as the Postal Service does.

Was phony report a 'little Watergate'?

By CHRIS PECK Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Idaho's Republican State Chairman thinks a phony report outlining low morale in the Department of Health and Welfare may have been an Idaho version of a 'dirty trick' — reminiscent of the Watergate days.

GOP state chairman Vern Ravenscroft said Friday a bogus Health and Welfare report could have been sent to him from someone who hoped his Republicans would release the report and they suffer the political consequences which it was determined the report was a phony.

Ten-days ago Ravenscroft received a report which appeared to be an internal study of low morale problems among the 3500 employees of Health and Welfare.

The report, printed on official Health and Welfare letterhead and mailed from Boise to Health and Welfare envelope, said morale was the lowest it has ever been inside Idaho's largest state agency.

Ravenscroft said he read the report "with considerable interest" and thought at first it could be useful to the Republican Party as a tool to reform the Department of Health and Welfare.

At a top level meeting of the Republican Action Committee, a statewide advisory group which judges set Republican strategy, discussed the implications of the phony report last week.

After reviewing the document more closely the Republican Action Committee decided it had better check the authenticity of the document.

Last Thursday, Ravenscroft concluded the document was a fake and decided not to pursue any political use of the "low morale" issue.

"Right now I don't know if this thing is a little Watergate," Ravenscroft said, "but I think it is possible somebody was trying to play political hanky panky."

trap the Republican Party," he said.

On Friday Alan Korhonen, administrator of the Division of Management for Health and Welfare learned of the report.

Korhonen immediately denied the report had come from his department.

An internal study to improve management of the Health and Welfare is underway, Korhonen said, but the Boise State University study is not designed to measure the morale of H and W employees but rather to improve the lines of communication in the Health and Welfare Department, he said.

"All I can say is that this report about supposed low morale in Health and Welfare has absolutely no relationship to this department," Korhonen said. "The morale in the department is improving and I don't think it is at a low ebb."

Guns surround Jerusalem's Easter

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israeli guns Saturday protected thousands of Christians from around the world whose pilgrimage will culminate Easter Sunday in services marking the Biblical resurrection of Jesus.

At Ramallah, eight miles north in Israeli-occupied Jordan, hundreds of Arab rioters Saturday in the streets in the first disturbances on the West Bank since Palestinian nationalists dominated the municipal elections last week.

Shopkeepers shut down stores and schools were closed in sympathy strikes after one person was killed and two wounded in a scuffle between a pro-Israeli politician and his rivals. Informants said Israeli troops trying to put down the demonstrators shot an Arab youth.

At the cream-colored Church of the Holy Sepulchre in the Old City of Jerusalem, Msgr. Joseph Beltritti, Roman Catholic Patriarch of Jerusalem, will recite the joyous Easter Sunday mass.

Israeli troops with automatic rifles and green berets stood ready to guard thousands of pilgrims who are expected to crowd into and around the small church, built on the hill revered by Christians as the site of the crucifixion of Jesus.

The church, dating back to Crusader times but which has been periodically rebuilt because of earthquakes, is the focal point of observances by the pilgrims who visit the Holy Land each year for Easter.

who believe it contains the tomb of Jesus.

No disturbances were reported during the somber Good Friday trek when about 10,000 Christians wound their way along the narrow Via Dolorosa to the church, solemnly retracing the Biblical route that Jesus took to his death on Calvary Hill.

Pilgrims in cassocks, habits, pantsuits and jeans walked alongside each other under the sunny sky, passing the 14 stations of the cross where Jesus stopped on his way to be crucified.

TF Canal Co. will face lawsuit

BY KEN HODGE Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Canyon View Irrigation, Inc., will file court Monday in an effort to begin its right to survey along Twin Falls Canal Company's High Line Canal.

The organization was denied further right to survey along the 80-mile waterway last Tuesday before a meeting with the canal company's board of directors. Canyon View officials sought permission to carry additional water through the canal system to irrigate a 20,000-acre development south of Bell Rapids in Twin Falls County.

John Hepworth, attorney for Canyon View, said, "We were advised before the meeting that we would be permitted to survey, but this has been withdrawn."

A petition for a writ of mandamus given continued surveying will be filed in Fifth District Court Monday, according to Hepworth.

"This is litigation only to get permission to finish our surveying," Hepworth said. "We haven't any choice."

Canyon View reportedly has purchased water rights from Rockford Canal Co. entitling it to about 2,500 acre feet of storage space in American Falls Reservoir, according to Hepworth.

According to the petition that will be filed Monday, Canyon View is proposing to pay for the cost of all engineering and construction necessary to increase the capacity of the canals to allow the passage of its water to the "land locked" areas it wishes to irrigate.

The petition continues, "The respondents have refused to negotiate with the petitioner for the use of respondents' canal system and it appears that the respondents will force petitioner to bring suit."

According to the petition, the corporation must be allowed to survey the canal system from Milner Dam along the High Line Canal and along Lateral 1-A in order to prepare the necessary engineering information to properly present petitioner's case to the court in the event that said suit is ultimately filed.

Kimberly man killed

KIMBERLY — Joe Dille, 57, Kimberly, died Friday night of injuries sustained in a two-vehicle accident two miles west here on Sugar Factory Road.

Cpl. James Whitehead, Idaho State Police, said the man was alone in a small pickup truck and was traveling south on a county road when he collided with the eastbound four-wheel-drive pickup driven by Larry D. Helmbeck, 31, Kimberly. The accident occurred about 8:15 p.m.

Officer Whitehead said the Dille vehicle came from a stop road onto the Sugar Factory Road. He said both drivers were alone in their vehicles and neither was thrown out. Dille was taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital by Magic Valley Ambulance and died there about one and a half hours later.

County Coroner Cloyce Edwards said death was caused by internal injuries.

Officers said Helmbeck's heavy vehicle hit the Dille pickup head-on, demolishing it. Helmbeck was treated at the hospital for leg injury, cuts and bruises and released Friday evening.

'Gag order' case begins
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black once said that "free speech and fair trials are two of the most cherished policies of our civilization, and it would be a trying task to choose between them."
 The Supreme Court will tackle that "trying task" and examine two conflicting constitutional rights Monday when Nebraska news organizations ask the justices to overturn a sweeping "gag order" that barred reporting of some details in a sensational criminal case after they were heard in an open court in Nebraska.
 Nebraska courts imposed the order to curb pre-trial press coverage in the case of Ervin Charles Simons after he was charged with the murders last October of six persons in Sutherland, Neb. The order, as modified by the state Supreme Court, forbade publication of any information suggesting Simons was guilty.
 In an open court at a preliminary hearing, that indicated Simons had confessed to the crimes.
 Also applied to detailed statements from his relatives that left a note implicating himself.

Gunshot kills woman, sheriff investigates

JEROME — The Jerome County Sheriff's Department is investigating the death of a Jerome woman who apparently died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound.
 Eliza Hall, sheriff, said Jeanette Cartwright, 41, Jerome, was found with a bullet wound in her chest about 3 p.m. Saturday by her husband, J. D. Cartwright.
 Hall said the preliminary investigation suggests an apparent self-inflicted wound, however, according to Hall the incident is still under investigation and no official ruling on the death will be made until tests are completed on Mrs. Cartwright and the weapon.
 Hall said Mrs. Cartwright was dead at the time he arrived at her home north of Jerome where the shooting occurred. According to Hall, Cartwright was working on the farm when he heard a gunshot and went to the home to investigate.
 Cartwright found his wife's body next to the family car in the driveway by the home. Hall said a 357 Luger, apparently kept in the family car was found beside Mrs. Cartwright's body.

Church buys TV time

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, a Democratic presidential contender, has purchased five minutes of television time on CBS to explain why he regards President Ford as a "weak" chief executive.

Church said Friday he asked the three commercial television networks to sell him 30 minutes of prime time to present his views but all refused. CBS offered to sell him five minutes Monday night and Church accepted.

However, the Church campaign staff said it still is demanding half an hour of time for a broadcast explanation of the senator's views.

Church said the five-minute speech will be aired Monday night at the end of the CBS program "Medical Center."

In the presentation, taped Friday in Washington, Church faults Ford as a "weak" president who does not take seriously the excesses of intelligence agencies.

Church was chairman of the Senate Intelligence committee which investigated abuses in domestic and foreign intelligence activities.

In the broadcast, Church also criticizes the other candidates for neglecting foreign policy issues in their campaigns.

New generation nuclear power plant challenged

WASHINGTON — A report prepared for the Joint Economic Committee has challenged some of the assumptions behind the nation's $1.85 billion fast breeder reactor program and seems certain to add to the growing controversy over the nuclear power.

The breeder reactor is the proposed next generation of nuclear power plants.

The report suggests that the breeder reactor may not be needed to meet the nation's energy needs as urgently as the government insists.

The report also asserts that the program, if it goes ahead, may burden future generations with unmeasurable environmental costs.

The report was written by Mark Sharefkin of Resources for the Future, a Washington-based think tank that focuses on the environment and that is largely financed by the Ford Foundation.

Two staff economists from the committee managed and edited the study.

The report is the second this month to raise questions about the expensive breeder reactor program. The Joint Committee on Atomic Energy is looking into a General Accounting Office report that suggests there may be management problems with the contract governing the Clinch River demonstration project in Tennessee.

Sharefkin made these major points in his study:

"It may be erroneous to argue that the nation faces uranium shortages that make it necessary to find some other way to fuel nuclear power plants. The breeder reactor will be fueled by plutonium, a waste byproduct of fission.

In 1958, Sharefkin says, the ratio of oil reserves to production was about 12. "It would have been a serious error, however, to argue that the United States would run out of oil in 12 years unless something drastic was done," he said.

"Although oil production has increased at 7.5 percent per year, oil's 1974 reserve production ratio was 18. To argue similarly about uranium in 1976 probably is just as wrong."

Electricity growth rates beyond 1980 may be closer to 2 per cent a year than to the historical growth rate of 7 per cent. If this is true, Sharefkin said, the breeder program could be delayed while it is studied more thoroughly.

All available studies of the fast breeder reactor are incomplete, Sharefkin argued, "because they ignore the possibility that substantial costs in the form of long-lived radioactive wastes and their consequences will be transferred to future generations."

Plutonium, which is more toxic than the substances known to man, poses substantial disposal problems. It has a half-life ranging into the hundreds of thousands of years.

Sharefkin said the nation lacks a "broad consensus on the social costs and benefits of nuclear power."

Kentucky welcome

Carter bids for 'black' vote

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter, the "outsider" seeking the presidential nomination, came to the nation's capital and became a promising candidate like some of his fellow Democratic contenders.

Seeking votes in the May 4 primary in the overwhelmingly black District of Columbia, Carter promised that he would name blacks to his Cabinet if he makes it to the White House.

"You can depend on it," he said.

But he promised only "top-level advisers" for old people and Spanish-speaking citizens on the White House staff to represent their interests.

And Carter continued his attacks on the "horribly bloated, confused, overlapping federal bureaucracy" in a city where the U.S. government is by far the largest employer and other jobs depend on its presence.

His major promise was to seek "the most rapid improvement in individual health care the nation can afford" through a new, universal, compulsory health insurance system financed by payroll taxes and other federal levies.

Critics who complain that Carter is too vague on the issues might have noted that he ducked the hard decisions on the role of private insurance companies and the share of the cost that would be paid from general treasury revenues.

DEMOCRATIC presidential hopeful Jimmy Carter, left, was welcomed by Mayor Harvey Skeate of Louisville on his arrival Friday to attend two fund-raising receptions. Carter gained the endorsement Friday of Kentucky Governor Julian M. Carroll. (UPI)

But the Carter plan did include tough provisions for federal setting of fees to be charged by doctors and hospitals — a proposal that is sure to meet heavy resistance from organized medicine.

The former Georgia governor outlined his health insurance plan before a nearly all-black convention of the Student National Medical Assn.

It was his first appearance before a predominantly black audience since his controversial remark about preserving "ethnic purity" of neighborhoods. He later apologized for using that phrase and said the federal government should support the right of blacks and others to live wherever they choose.

The young blacks studying to be doctors gave Carter a relatively cool reception — sitting quietly throughout his half-hour talk and then applauding for just over 30 seconds when he finished.

Answering reporters' questions later, Carter said he could not provide an estimate of how much his national health care plan would cost. He did say it would be phased in over four years, with those most in need getting benefits first.

His proposal differs from the bill sponsored by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) by placing greater emphasis on preventive health care, broader distribution of doctors, more use of paraprofessionals and its adoption by states.

LA's 'triforium' controversial art

Chicago Daily News — Now, four months after its dedication, the Triforium is still controversial enough to merit just this week an article in a national magazine and a long feature in the Wall-Street Journal.

This week, too, the city council authorized a $22.6 million bill for the remodification of the sculpture's lighting system, bringing the total tab to $85,000, which is below the $95,000 everybody said it cost.

Los Angeles Times writer Dave Smith noted that his survey of letters to the editor proved that each correspondent believed the cost "was not just the amount needed to finance rapid transit, the cleanup of postal service, a cure for boils and the fight against goddess communism! Or all of the above."

'Dead man' near 'surrender'

CHICAGO — The hospitalized wife of Florida stockbroker Estel Blevins says her missing husband phoned her within the past 24 hours, said he was in Tennessee, and was "on the run" because he owed thousands $250,000.

Chicago homicide detectives disclosed that Mrs. Blevins also said her husband told her he planned to "write a letter to Chicago police, trying to explain" the bizarre, body-switching insurance fraud scheme police say he attempted to pull.

Investigators said Mrs. Blevins mentioned the call to a friend, who tipped off Clearwater police. Clearwater detectives then interviewed Mrs. Blevins and relayed the information to Chicago police.

Comdr. James O'Grady, chief of criminal investigations in Chicago, said the tenor of the call — if Mrs. Blevins is telling the truth — may indicate that "Blevins may be getting ready to surrender."

O'Grady said Mrs. Blevins related that her husband, who is being hunted nationwide:

— Said he was calling from Knoxville, Tenn.

— Said he feared for his life because he had accumulated huge debts over the past two years and to pay them off he had borrowed nearly $250,000 from mobster "Juice" loan sharks — with no hope of making good on the loans.

The quarter-million-dollar figure was the same as the total of life insurance policies that Blevins took out during the past year, and then schemed to collect on by faking his death.

Detectives noted that if the phone call report is accurate, it would mark the first time Blevins has surfaced in nearly a year of his disappearance.

Last Sunday, he called another key figure in the case, brother-in-law William R. Hamilton, of Jackson, Mich., and told him it appeared that his plot to defraud his insurance companies, by faking his death with another man's body, had fallen through because the body he had tried to pass off as his own had belatedly been identified as a Chicago man.

As a result of the call to Mrs. Blevin, O'Grady said Chicago police have alerted Knoxville authorities, and have asked telephone company officials there to attempt to determine if such a call had been placed from Knoxville to Clearwater's Morton Plant hospital.

Mrs. Blevins has been hospitalized there since March 23, the day after Blevins left his Clearwater brokerage house job at lunchtime, then later called back to leave word that he was flying to Chicago for two days on "personal business."

Mrs. Blevins has been recovering in the hospital from a concussion suffered in a March 23 auto accident, and from an ensuing virus attack.

Montana offers job to retiring senator

MISSOULA, Mont. (UPI) — The University of Montana has invited Sen. Mike Mansfield to return to his teaching position after he retires from the Senate.

Mansfield was a professor of Far Eastern history at the school until his election to the House of Representatives in 1942. After serving several terms in the Senate and as majority leader, Mansfield announced his decision to retire at the end of this year.

University of Montana President Richard Bowers said he talked briefly with Mansfield recently about returning to the teaching post. The official invitation was sent Thursday.

"We want to make a little money off lots of people — Not a lot of money off just a few"

Corn crop 'boosted'

CHICAGO — Encouraged by mild weather, American farmers are gearing up to boost corn planting by 6 per cent this spring, strengthening the possibility of a second straight record crop that could stabilize food prices.

The Agriculture Department has reported that farmers planned, as of April 1, to plant 82.7 million acres of corn this year, the most since 1959.

They planted 77.9 million acres of corn in 1975, which yielded a record harvest of nearly 5.8 billion bushels.

At the same time, soybean growers, apparently discouraged by the sharp drop in prices for their big 1975 crop and the loss of some European markets, are slashing planned acreage by 9.7 per cent to 49.3 million acres.

American soybean growers have been pushed lower by an influx of Asian palm oil and hefty Brazilian soybean crops. As a result, many Corn Belt farmers are switching to corn, which is easier to grow and harvest and carries a better profit margin.

JAMES RESTON

Henry appears a winner in the lion's den

N.Y. Times Service

WASHINGTON — The scene was a luncheon in the Shoreham Hotel, which rises at this time of year out of a blizzard of azalea and dogwood blossoms on a steep bank above Rock Creek Park in Washington.

The audience — was the American Society of Newspaper Editors, whose papers have lately been giving Secretary of State Kissinger a hard time. The speaker, Henry Kissinger.

It was an amiable confrontation, a reminder to the editors of the basic change that has taken place in the capital in the last couple of years. The same old struggles over power and ideology go on, especially in a presidential election year, but the savage bitterness of recent years is gone.

Kissinger dramatized the point. He is actually more concerned about the American editors than they are about him, but in public he laughs about the conflict to keep from crying. He has the gift of astuteness, of saying serious things in a light-hearted way, and disarming his critics by exaggerating their criticisms.

He complained with bogus solemnity that the editors had restricted his freedom of speech under the First Amendment to five minutes. It was not easy, he said, for him to relate his "humility" to his "brilliance" in such a short time. He poked fun at his "distinguished presumptive successors," particularly, at Zbigniew Brzezinski, the Polish scholar at Columbia University, who has been writing Jimmy Carter's foreign policy speeches. It was difficult, Kissinger observed for him to understand people who spoke with an "accent," and he said he reminded Brzezinski that the U.S. Constitution did not insist that the secretary of state be "foreign born."

These in-house jokes mask a serious purpose.

Kissinger is now in transition from official to private life, and before he goes, he is obviously trying to get the public record straight, so that what he said and did as a public servant can defend later on as historical.

The other night, he went to a little private reception here and the Georgetown School of Foreign Service for Peter Lisagor, editor of the Chicago Daily News, just because he respected Pete; but in the process he said some things the American editors here assembled may want to think about.

First, he said, "skepticism and scrutiny of public policies and public men are clearly the business of the press... we have passed through a destructive and divisive war, and through this nation's greatest constitutional crisis since the Civil War. But just as armies are demobilized when a war is won, is it not now time to ask whether we can demobilize some of the attitudes, assumptions, and techniques that proved so indispensable during Vietnam and Watergate?"

"Skepticism is healthy," he continued, "and condemnation often deserved, but no freedom canning exist if the people lose faith in its essential values. In a free world, one cannot demand perfection of the price of confidence... have we perhaps fallen into the malaise of retired generals, endlessly re-fighting the battles of wars long past — battles whose lessons may ill prepare us for future conflicts."

"I do not claim that the press edit or should create faith in government where there is no reason for that faith. But I believe we must recognize that decisions of public officials, in the real world, are often made in circumstances where the facts at hand are ambiguous... unless there is some level in the public debate, some minimal degree of understanding... yes, and compassion — of the complexities of the issues and of the uncertainties about projecting the future in decision making, we risk bringing to life Cardinal Richelieu's dictum: 'Give me six lines written by an honest man, and I will find something in it with which to hang him.'"

Okay, you can argue it either way, but the main thing about Kissinger is that he does take on the argument. The editors may scold him, and some may even call for his resignation, but he accepts their invitation at the Shoreham and submits to their questions.

Why, he asks, should the government be assumed to be guilty if it cannot prove its innocence, when this is not the principle and order of the nation?"

Why should the press ignore his most careful public definitions of American foreign policy in public speeches, and then turn over its front pages to less important and often misleading documents, just because they were "leaked" out of the "secret files?"

Fortunately for Kissinger, however, he has not only intelligence and information, but physical energy. When the editors ask the President to defend his policies, he is out to lunch. But Kissinger takes on his detractors, and shows up to pay his respects for wonderful old troopers like Pete Lisagor, and somehow manages to laugh at his tormentors.

The editors in that luncheon dungeon here this week got the point. Many of them probably came prepared to condemn and even to sneer at him, but they gave an ovation at the end. He made them laugh and think, and nobody has produced that combination around here for a long time.

Cutting down federal salaries

A favorite sarcasm among working people is to ridicule the performance of fellow workers with the phrase — "not bad for government work."

Government employees are regarded by many working people as having a fat, easy life which they have done very little to earn.

Undoubtedly, many government workers put in long hard days just as non-government workers do. There is no question however, that government workers get paid more, have better pension plans, and get more time off than workers in the private sector.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the average government employe in Washington D.C. earns $17,000 a year. The average employe in private business earns only $10,000 a year.

Government workers also get 50 per cent more time off than private workers and government employes generally have shorter hours and longer vacations.

Upon retirement, government workers fare much better than private sector employes. Government workers retire at 55 with full pension. And, the government's retirement program is designed to always keep ahead of the cost of living index no matter how long a person draws from the kitty.

Government is the largest single employer in the nation and the salary scale and retirement program offered by the largest employer in the land has to be considered the standard for all other companies.

The gap between what government workers make and what the private sector earns sends a dangerous ripple through America.

People begin feeling as though they aren't getting paid what they are worth simply because a person doing the same job for the government gets more money.

Government salaries should not rise at a rate faster than the private sector.

Unlike workers in private industry, government workers aren't putting out a product which earns them a wage. All Americans pay wages for government workers and then scramble to collect what is left for their own salaries.

One good way to reduce government spending would be to tie government salaries back in line with the rest of America.

Every worker deserves a good day's pay for a good day's work. But working for the government shouldn't entitle workers to extra benefits which are being financed by all taxpayers.

Humphrey's bad tactics

Wall Street Journal

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey is one of the most engaging and likable men in public life. It's sad to see him driven away from his usual "politics of joy" and into an ugly bit of name calling.

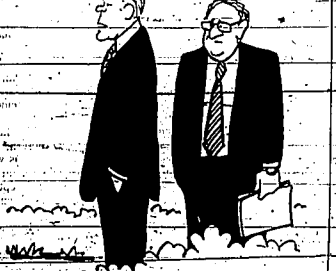

The Senator dragged out the "racist" tarbrush at a reporters' breakfast the other day, liberally smearing everyone who had an unkind word to say about any of the pollees he has so long championed. "Candidates who make an attack on a candidate are making mistakes in government programs and do the poor, on blacks, on minorities, on the cities. It's a disguised new form of racism, a disguised new form of conservatism."

Happily, the nation has outgrown the day when Joseph McCarthy and the like made political points by equating liberalism with communism; the last outpost of such thought was the John Birch Society, now faded into a well-deserved obscurity. Perhaps someday a similar maturing process will overcome the equating of conservatism with racism. But it still remains common enough, and Senator Humphrey had stopped with attacking conservatives his comment would be unremarkable.

But in essence, he has applied the "racist" label to the American electorate, which this year is clearly responding enthusiastically to the anti-Washington rhetoric he considers disguised racism. The public can see that good intentions are not enough, that many of Washington's programs are simply not working. Surely, the time has come to translate that observation into politics without having their moral integrity called into question.

We can understand Senator Humphrey's desperation. As each successive candidate is eliminated from the race for the Democratic, presidential nomination, the chances of a deadlocked convention decline. The collapse of George Wallace is a particular blow to Senator Humphrey's nomination strategy, and he is probably right in calculating that the strategy can be salvaged only by coming out swinging now.

US anti-detente feeling brings shifts in Moscow

By DAVID K. SHIPLER, N.Y. Times Service

MOSCOW — The anti-detente sentiments running through the American Presidential campaign have begun to stimulate shifts in the mood in Moscow.

Some Soviet insiders, concerned by President Ford's responsiveness to criticism from the right, are predicting a new restraint in Moscow's foreign military involvement during the coming months, particularly in southern Africa.

Simultaneously, however, they see Soviet-American relations entering what one well-placed business observer described as a period of smart deeds where we try to hold on to what we have, but produce nothing bright and shining."

This outlook does not reflect a dramatic change of policy or severe a sudden pessimism, but rather a subtle cooling of expectations whose tone was caught by a Soviet journalist the other day as he described a book he was writing on Soviet-American affairs. He had originally planned to call it "Dialogue Develops," he said. But now he has chosen a new title: "The Limits of Detente."

To some extent, the current strains between the two nations derive from their different definitions of detente and their contrasting notions of its limits.

For the Russians, the relationship has a somewhat narrower justification than for the Americans. In Moscow's view, it rests on two pillars — the prevention of a nuclear holocaust, and the expansion of trade with the West. Other issues, such as the competition between the United States and the Soviet Union in India, the Middle East and Africa, for example, seem to Moscow to lie outside the main field of detente.

Therefore, the Russians have expressed no surprise at continued American efforts to gain attitude toward the rapprochement was shaped by this.

As Vietnam became the centerpiece of Americans' debate about their role in the world, the prospect of avoiding other Vietnam-style engagements became a primary justification for improving relations with the Soviet Union. But the matter of big-power conflict in the third world, a question the Russians considered peripheral to detente, was integral to the American definition.

Evidently neither side fully understood the other's view until Soviet weaponry and Cuban troops were committed to one faction in the civil war in the former Portuguese colony of Angola. The Soviets supported side won rather quickly.

Moscow maintained its right to support "wars of national liberation." The outcry from the United States prompted Soviet experts and even some Western analysts to accuse Americans of being "naïve" in thinking that "detente" could eliminate such competition.

"You Americans tried to sell detente like detergent and claimed that it would do everything, detergent could do — one Soviet specialist on American affairs remarked several months ago.

"Our government doesn't understand American society and the American system too well," a Soviet scholar said. "We thought that because America was tired of foreign involvements after Vietnam it wouldn't get involved in Angola. That was right. But we didn't understand that because America was tired, the reaction of American society would be stormier."

Only in recent weeks do some Russians seem to have grasped the seriousness of the American reaction, and only lately do some experts here appear to have understood that the end of the Vietnam War and a sense of helplessness have contributed to the resurgence of conservative elements in American politics.

A few months ago Soviet officials were dismissing the American conservatives' attacks on detente as "mere election-year propaganda" that would evaporate after Nov. 2. Now they are not so sure.

These days notes of worry creep in among the optimistic pronouncements in the Soviet press that most Americans support improved relations. Last week, Georgi A. Arbatov, director of the U.S.A. Institute, the Kremlin think tank, wrote in Pravda:

"The elections pass, but the consequences of pre-election demagoguery and the concession made in the course of the election campaign continue to influence American policy, sometimes creating serious difficulties."

"The failures in U.S. foreign policy, specifically in Southeast Asia, have caused obvious ripples into cold war thinking by some of the U.S. leaders," Arbatov continued. "The defeats in Southeast Asia, the changes in Portugal, the miscalculations in the eastern Mediterranean and the events in Angola have caused dissatisfaction in the ruling circles of the U.S.A.," he said. "But emotions do not remove the need to establish correctly the causes of political miscalculations. And these spring in the first place from the fact that the U.S.A. invariably took up the defense of unjust and lost causes."

In private conversations with Westerners, some Soviet officials have indicated that the specter of a swing to the right in Washington have made the Kremlin wary of further such adventures for the moment.

One Soviet insider assessing this shift in Moscow's posture by citing an analysis Secretary of State Kissinger's strategy of "winning" foreign policy as a product of "win, often" confrontation, influences: "A missionary zeal and a bureaucratic pragmatism."

The Angola involvement grew out of the missionary zeal of the Russian staff. Now, he explained, the pragmatic bureaucracy has gained ascendancy and the Angola development are not likely to be repeated in the near future. Some Western diplomats have speculated that Moscow might choose to give "cover" support to guerrillas in Rhodesia.

At the same time, Moscow appears to be focusing more and more on its most fundamental element — the avoidance of nuclear war.

"The way of life existing in the U.S.S.R. is not the same as in the U.S.A.," Arbatov wrote, "while the Soviet people do not like the American way of life, Detente does not remove this, nor can it. But it demands that despite all the differences and problems, the two powers should learn to live side by side so as not to jeopardize the existence of their own people and of all mankind."

influence in the Middle East. "We assumed that the United States would not change its policy and would continue pushing... one Soviet expert on foreign affairs told an American correspondent recently. As for Washington's successes and Egypt's swing toward a pro-American position, "we're mad at the Arabs, not at the U.S.," he said.

In the United States, however, detente emerged in another context and carried a different set of expectations. The desire to improve relations with the Soviet Union gained strength in the years when American foreign-policy concerns were dominated by the divisive legacy of the Vietnam war, and the popular American

Money always problem in elections

Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — One of the big problems in a national election is money.

Most of the presidential candidates who have dropped out have said they did it because the money ran dry. Macabee, a friend of mine, is bitter about the system and blames our allies for this.

"Whenever a foreign country has an election the United States gives their politicians money. Why don't they give us money when we have an election?"

"Well, for one thing, Macabee, it's against the law."

It's against the law in their countries, too, but that doesn't seem to stop the CIA from financing elections all over the world. Look at Italy. The CIA has poured millions of dollars into Italian elections.

"You would think Italy would show its gratitude by giving our politicians some money in exchange. After all, friendship isn't a one-way street."

"I don't think you understand," I said. "The reason we support politicians in Italy is so the country won't go Communist. It's to our interest to see the strong government doesn't get in Italy has nothing to fear from us no matter which party wins, so there is no reason for her secret service to bribe any of our candidates."

"That's just an excuse. I think the Italians are cheap. They don't want to spend a nickel on our elections. All their politicians know how to do is take money from us. But when the shoe is on the other foot and our candidates are going broke they look the other way. I think we should pass a law which says that we don't interfere in any country's elections unless they're willing to interfere in ours."

"That's not fair," I told Macabee. "Most of the politicians we've supported in other countries have accepted money from the CIA on the condition they wouldn't have to give it back."

"How would we look if we went to a foreign dictator and said 'Look, we've put you in office

Now it's your turn to give us the wherewithal to put one of our people in power."

Macabee said, "What's wrong with that? Look what we did in Chile. We made it possible for a bunch of unknown army officers to take over the country. Without our dough they might never have been able to do it. They're riding high now. The least they could do to show their gratitude is finance our presidential elections in 1978."

"But it would be wrong," I protested. "If Chile financed our presidential candidates they would be interfering in our domestic affairs. You don't want that, do you?"

"I don't interfere in their domestic affairs. I'll bet you there hasn't been an election in the free world that the United States hasn't tried to swing with money. I'm not against it, all I'm saying is there should be a 'quid pro quo.' If we help them get elected they should help our people get elected. That's what allies are for."

"The only thing wrong with your argument," I told Macabee, "is that intelligence agencies of these countries don't have money to throw around the way the CIA does. A million dollars to be one of our politicians is a lot of money for them to spend."

"I don't buy that argument," Macabee said. "You know what I think? Most of our so-called friends don't care about our elections. Oh, they may pay lip service to them, but when it comes to putting their money where their mouth is, they pretend we don't exist. The United States has been the most generous country in the world. Whenever a foreign politician asks for we give him without question. But when our politicians run out of money not one foreign intelligence agent says, 'Is there anything we can do for you? I tell you, they're all playing us for suckers.'"

"I'm sorry you feel that way, Macabee," I said. "I'm not the only one," he replied. "A lot of Americans are getting sick and tired of bribing foreign politicians and getting nothing back for it in return."

people 'New West' goes on sale

LOS ANGELES — Clay Felker, the New York journalist, commended his invasion of California this week, producing a 172-page first edition of a magazine that, except for the names and places, seemed to have been transplanted virtually intact from Manhattan.

New West magazine — a westernized version of Felker's successful New York magazine — started life with 131,000 charter subscribers. With newstand sales, Felker predicted that initial circulation could exceed 200,000. The first issue of the twice-monthly magazine has 93 pages of advertising, which Felker termed "the largest amount of advertising for a new publication in publishing history."

While his new publication has impressed many people in the publishing and advertising industries here, some commented that New West must still prove that it can sustain and expand advertising and circulation in what has been a perfunctory marketplace for new publications.

Much of the magazine's large initial circulation is a result of an expensive promotional campaign and bargain subscription rates — $5 and $7 for first-year subscribers. Advertising rates during the first six months have been discounted by up to 40 per cent, Felker said he expected advertising in the second issue to be down to about 40 pages.

Felker said that about $1.6 million had already been spent on the project and that he expected the investment to range from $3 million to $4 million before the magazine breaks even in about three years.

From the type face and style of the cover, to an article describing a search for purportedly the best fetucial Alfredo in southern California, the new magazine follows the Felker formula for New York magazine.

With New York magazine, a weekly, Felker pioneered magazine journalism oriented to a single urban region, attempting to explore the peculiar problems and opportunities of living there.

With New West, he has raised his sights to cover not just a city, but a complex region, at least nominally, the entire West. Most emphasis, however, he said would be on southern California where there is already a successful, monthly magazine called Los Angeles, that has covered much the same ground. Some journalists and advertising people here are asking whether there will long be room for both.

Felker has had to contend with criticism here that he and some of his staff imported from New York were "carpetbaggers" who would write about Californians with the same kind of condescending prism that has appeared to some Eastern writers in the past — that is, acting like sophisticates humoring the people of Lotusland, with its infernal freeways, preoccupation with materialism and strange cults, and supposed lack of cultural interest.

Book-of-the-Month hits 50th year

NEW YORK — The Book-of-the-Month Club, rounding out its 50th anniversary this month and still at its self-appointed task of selling books to the nation, is looking at its present state and past achievements with what might be called middle-aged pride.

Its membership stands at 1.25 million, a record figure for the club and one that does not include the 200,000 people who belong to its seven subsidiary book clubs. It slips out 12 million books a year from its warehouse and processing plant at Camp Hill, Pa., a 105-acre spread not far from Hershey. A Honeywell 3000 computer makes child's play out of the multirarious requests in the 100,000 letters that pour into Camp Hill each day. Five million books are stored there, and 25,000 packages are mailed out every day.

The club likes to indulge itself and observers with figures, and it can provide some impressive ones: Since its founding in 1926 by Harry Scheerman, Robert Haas and Charles and Albert Boni, it has distributed 300 million books. More than 6 million copies of Will and Ariel Durant's "Story of Civilization" series have been sold, more than 5 million of Winston Churchill's history of World War II, William L. Shirer's "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich" has been a persistent seller since it was first issued in the fall of 1959, and more than a million copies of "The Catcher in the Rye" have gone out to its subscribers.

These exertions have not been without their reward. For the year ending June 1975, the Book-of-the-Month club earned $4,352,861, or $3.11 a share, on revenues of $62,710,581, all the figures representing increases over those of the preceding year. It has also enriched the coffers of author and publisher alike.

Last 'stooge' dies

COLUMBUS, N.C. (UPI) — Kenneth Luckey, a member of the original Three Stooges slapstick comedy team, died Friday at St. Luke's Hospital following a lengthy illness. He was 74.

A native of Plymouth, Ind., Luckey teamed with Moe Shorowitz, who later changed his name to Moe Howard, and Moe's older brother, Shemp, to form the comedy team in 1923.

Luckey, who attended the University of Illinois, got his vaudeville start with Ted Healy. He later joined Earl Carroll's Vanities, a Broadway act, and stayed in show business until 1927, when he returned home and became active in local politics.

He served as a clerk of U.S. District Court in Indiana until retiring to Columbus in 1965.

When Luckey moved to Columbus, he continued his participation in politics and the theater, becoming chairman of the Polk County Board of Elections, and directing a number of plays for the Tryon Little Theater.

'Fun', 'games' planned in Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI) — Officials called it "a festival of Communist labor," but for most of the 140 million Soviets who volunteered for the annual day of unpaid work Saturday, it was no holiday.

If not putting in a shift at their factories for the state's coffers under their own pockets, they were obliged to wield brooms, rakes, shovels and paint brushes to clean away the Russian winter's grime.

By coincidence the spring event, known as the "subotnik" for Saturday, fell this year on the 106th anniversary of the birthday of Vladimir I. Lenin, the founder of the Soviet state who introduced the "subotnik" 57 years ago.

"We wake with the feeling that something pleasant will happen today," the newspaper Moskovsky Komsomolets said in a comment typical of the sloganeering that went with the annual nationwide mobilization.

"Today is a holiday," the newspaper said. "It is a day of Communist labor and we are participants in it."

Although officially described as voluntary, Soviets had little choice but to take part in the subotnik because of the social pressure and in some cases heavy sanctions — facing them if they stayed home.

When the practice of making Russians do something for nothing first began in 1919, there was some revolutionary fervor behind it. But for countless office workers and intellectuals now, the event is at worst a drudge and at best a day in the open air. One of the coldest and gloomiest winters in recent years finally seems to have lost its hold, and workers in Moscow had a fine sunny day, marred only by the haze caused by rubbish bonfires all over the city.

The winter left plenty for the "subotniki" to do, with streets potholed and creviced by the ice, mud and muck everywhere and flower beds in need of turning after their long burden of snow.

Glen won't talk about new lover

HOLLYWOOD — Glen Campbell doesn't want to discuss his personal situation with Mae Davis's estranged wife — or his plans to take her to the altar as soon as the courts will allow — however, Glen isn't a bit reticent in delivering an opinion as to why Davis's latest TV series has failed.

"The Mae Davis Show" was canceled by NBC this week, and to hear Campbell tell it, Mae's mistake was in ever allowing himself to get involved with "another of those gilly network variety programs — where there's always an executive telling you what to do, and where you're always stuck doing the same old tired routines and clichés."

The public has gotten bored with such nonsense, Glen's convinced — and he cites as proof the fact that "Even when Mae Davis had Bob Hope on a show, the show came in only 55th in the ratings. If you can't better than 55th even with a Bob Hope..."

King helps celebrate

LINDSBORG, Kan. (UPI) — King Carl XVI Gustaf of Sweden, delayed nearly two hours by a leaking fuel truck in Denver, flew to Kansas Saturday to help this small Swedish community celebrate America's Bicentennial.

The king arrived in nearby Salina at 1:50 p.m., nearly two hours late because of the trouble during refueling of his plane, a United Airlines charter. The airlines said the flight also was delayed because the craft had to be defueled due to weather conditions.

Carl Gustaf greeted a well-wishers who had waited patiently at the airport for his arrival. He then joined a motorcade to Lindsborg.

Gov. Robert Bennett was among a throng of some 500 who were disappointed at the delay. But Bennett said, "The king's got his schedule and will do his best to keep it."

Local officials and those connected with the king's tour of the United States frantically rearranged the scheduled to include as many of the planned ceremonies as possible.

The crowd waiting at the airport dwindled to about 30 following announcement of the delay, but many returned after lunch.

Charles Brumbach Says: "My Jeep Cherokee Answers All My Family's Driving Needs."

"My wife likes our Jeep Cherokee for shopping and in-town travel, and I like it because it's powerful in rugged driving situations. I've yet to meet a driving challenge my Cherokee can't handle," says Mr. Brumbach.

Jeep Cherokee is really two cars-in-one. It offers you the tough fighting spirit of a rugged 4-wheel drive recreational vehicle plus the extra roominess of a comfortable family car. Jeep calls it "the Jeep-and-a-half" for young families on the go.

And Cherokee offers a lot for your money. Just a partial list of its standard features are:

- 4 wheel drive, an economical 258 161 cc cylinder engine, a virtually maintenance free electronic ignition system, an open end-front axle designed for tight turns and easy service, a fully synchronized 4-speed floor transmission, an energy absorbing steering column with steering lock, two-speed Dono 20 transfer case for extra low speed and power needs, and a large cargo capacity for up to 2000 pounds of people and cargo.
- If you're looking for one of the finest multi-purpose, town and country vehicles on the road today, look no further than Jeep Cherokee. Like many Jeep Valley families, you may find it suits your needs perfectly. You might also discover why Charles Brumbach calls his Jeep Cherokee "the most professional and responsive vehicle he's ever driven."

Salt on road $200-million

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Salting roadways during the winter costs six times the national budget for snow removal, causes $3 billion in damages and upsets the natural ecological balance, according to Cambridge researchers.

ABI Associates issued a report for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, saying it cost $200 million a year to salt the U.S. highways during winter months.

SNOW fence is placed Friday along the Souris River in Minot, N.D., to help hold the dikes from washing away. The river is scheduled to crest on Sunday. (UPI)

River 'fenced in'

Town raises dikes against flood

MINOT, N.D. (UPI) — The people of Minot, fighting the Souris River, wind, rain and mud, learned Saturday they must raise some of their big clay dikes to hold a higher crest and keep record flood waters from swamping a third of the city of 32,000.

The Souris reached the earlier predicted crest level, 6.5 feet above flood stage, in Minot Saturday. But because of heavy rains Friday and early Saturday the river now is expected to crest another 1.5 feet higher Easter Sunday night and hold near that level for five days.

About 13,000 persons abandoned their homes at Minot; a few hundred have fled their flooded homes east of the city and 1,200 of 3,600 residents have left their homes at Velda, 22 miles downstream.

More than 400,000 acres of ranch and farm land were flooded in four counties along the valley, county agents estimated, and a number of ranchers were flooded from their homes.

One death was blamed on the flooding. John Henry, 48, Dunseth, N.D., drowned when a truck slid into the flood waters downstream west of Bottineau.

President Ford declared nine counties of North Dakota a major disaster area because of flooding, making them eligible for federal aid, and Gov. Arthur Link came to Minot to see the battle against the floodwaters.

Workers in rubber boots sloshed through mud laying snow-fencing along the waterline of the 10-to-20-foot dikes to slow up erosion.

James Ruyak of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said about one mile of the 35-mile dike system should be raised a foot to hold the higher crest. He said the dikes should be dry enough for trucks and bulldozers to do the job Sunday morning.

Chief Deputy E. W. Hellman said, "Somebody must not like somebody in Sawyer," a town of 400 downstream from Minot.

"Someone dug a 2-foot-deep trench across a dike and water was starting to run through it when a dike-walker saw it," he said. "That could have flooded half the town. It was pure sabotage."

At the east end of Minot, the river spread out a mile or more wide and flooded the stockyards, an elevator, farmhouses and buildings, scattered suburban homes, a number of roads and bridges, plus farm fields and woods.

Rodney Williams, 6, pumped away on his backyard swing as flood waters lapped at a 3-foot homemade dirt dike only 20 feet away.

His uncle, Randy Williams, said, "I thought it was going to wash away everything for sure the way it was raining last night."

Connally denies bid for Kissinger's job

HOUSTON (UPI) — Former Texas Gov. John Connally denies making a deal to replace Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in a new cabinet in return for supporting President Ford's bid for the Republican nomination.

"It is totally untrue," Connally said of a report published by the Los Angeles Times.

"I want to say this story is a speculative rumor that's the product of a distorted imagination."

Connally, who switched from the Democratic party to the GOP in 1973, has said he will support neither Ronald Reagan nor Ford in Texas' May 1 primary.

The Times' report was based on a source described as "close to Connally." These so-called sources close to Connally "don't exist," Connally said. "I'm amazed by their (the Times') reliance on so-called sources close to me."

Arsonists strike in Italy

ROME, Italy (UPI) — Christian Democratic party secretary Benigno Zaccagnini Saturday blamed a series of arson attacks against Italy's big business on "a prearranged subversive plan" to increase social tension.

In an article to be published in Easter Sunday editions of the party newspaper, Il Popolo, Zaccagnini vowed the Christian Democrats would fight to "break this chain of violence" and guard public order.

Political arsonists began attacks on big business since earlier this month, hitting a Fiat-Whitney plant, a warehouse and automobile assembly line in Turin, the Florence office of Texaco, a Milan cake factory and two Turin supermarkets.

After setting fire at Rome's Standa department store warehouse Friday, a group calling themselves "The Proletarian Action Squad—Mara Congo" left a statement claiming responsibility. The radical leftist group was named after a woman radical killed last year in a shootout with police.

"The persistent attempts against many factories and places of work clearly reveal a prearranged subversive plan that disturbs public opinion already worried over the grave economic and social situation," Zaccagnini said.

Saturday to start preparing immediately for an election battle against the increasingly powerful Communists.

Fanfani, a rabid anti-Communist, told party members in his Tuscan hometown of Arezzo the party directorate was unanimous in backing a last attempt by party secretary Benigno Zaccagnini to avoid elections a year early in June.

Fired leader goes to Japan

MOSCOW (UPI) — Dmitry S. Polyansky, fired as agriculture minister because of Soviet crop failures, was appointed ambassador to Japan Saturday with a new and challenging task — retarding Tokyo's developing ties with Peking.

Western diplomats said this would be Polyansky's main assignment, reflecting the Kremlin's increasing concern over Japan's growing friendship with Moscow's Communist arch rival.

Polyansky, 58, once tipped to become Soviet premier, was the only man dropped from the Soviet Union's ruling Politburo last month. He was also fired as agriculture minister, having being made the scapegoat for last year's disastrous grain crop.

But unlike another disgraced Politburo member, former KGB secret police chief Alexander Sholepov who was ousted last year, the Kremlin did not plunge Polyansky into oblivion.

He retained his membership in the Communist party Central Committee and the Tokyo "ambassadorship is considered one of the most important in the Soviet diplomatic service.

Polyansky succeeds Oleg Troyanovsky, who left Tokyo for Moscow Saturday after nine years in the post during which he became the dean of the foreign diplomatic corps in Japan.

A fluent speaker of Japanese and an adept negotiator, some Soviet sources believe Polyansky will become the next ambassador to the United States.

Polyansky is scheduled to arrive in Tokyo on April 22.

Not only will he be in the front line of Moscow's diplomatic offensive against China, but he will also be concerned with improving Soviet-Japanese relations.

These are still complicated by the failure of the two countries to sign a formal, World War II peace treaty, because of Soviet refusal to relinquish two islands occupied during the war which the Japanese claim.

Coast Guard adds ships for patrol

WASHINGTON — The Coast Guard, faced with the chore of enforcing a 200-mile fishing zone instead of the existing 12-mile limit, plans to increase its patrol fleet by only three ships — all of them currently mothballed World War II cutters.

Coast Guard Commandant Adm. Owen W. Siler announced his new sea patrolling strategy Thursday. He said planes, helicopters and orbiting satellites would be used for expanded surveillance of fishing activities in the vast new patrol area.

Siler had said on previous occasions that at least six reactivated cutters would be necessary for "reasonable and effective" policing of the extended zone.

He said Tuesday that the plans for only three assume that other nations will respect the new zone. "If there are confrontations, more than the Coast Guard will be involved," he said.

President Ford signed the 200-mile limit into law Tuesday.

Uganda blasts Kenya

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Uganda Saturday accused Kenyan authorities of murdering many Ugandan men and women and said it had moved troops to the Kenyan border.

The attack on Kenya, issued in a rambling commentary by a military spokesman on official Uganda Radio, revived recent tensions between the two African countries.

"Very many men and Ugandan girls have been killed in Kenya," the broadcast said.

The spokesman said even visiting Ugandan government officials had been dragged out of their hotels by authorities.

He said Kenyan forces recently captured 17 Ugandan officers and men who had chased cattle rustlers across the border but the men and their two helicopters were subsequently released.

"At the time of the incident, Uganda moved troops to the border," the spokesman said, but these had since been replaced by police.

The spokesman indicated that Ugandan troops had wanted to attack Kenya in retaliation but President Idi Amin ordered "all hot temper officers to cool down."

Church's campaign gets big boost

BOISE (UPI) — A fund-raising letter from Sen. George McGovern and support from Oregon Democrats gave a boost to Sen. Frank Church's presidential campaign Friday.

The letter is part of a mail fund-raising campaign being conducted by the Church organization before the "May 11" Nebraska primary, Church's first. While the letter does not endorse Church for the presidency, McGovern, the 1972 Democratic presidential nominee, said Church "has the qualities of leadership, the compassion, and proven record to push through the vital programs we so badly need here at home."

An article in the Oregon Journal in Portland gave the Church campaign its second boost, when it quoted informed Oregon Democratic Party leaders as saying that Church, Carter and Hubert Humphrey are the front-runners. Citing Church's popularity in Oregon, the article said that the Idaho Democrat had been the favored candidate in a poll of 200 Multnomah County Democratic precinct workers.

Church, the latest Democrat to announce his candidacy for the presidency, entered the race March 18. Church's press secretary, Bill Hall, said that the Idahoan should start gaining momentum after the Nebraska primary.

National news attention has been concentrated on covering each primary rather than following individual candidates. Church's Nebraska campaign will be covered by two network television crews, both wire services and a reporter from the Washington Post.

The Church for President Headquarters in Idaho will be opened officially Monday in Boise from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. with Gov. Cecil D. Andrus as a special guest.

Mayor Ostyn proclaims Private Property week

TWIN FALLS — Mayor Paul Ostyn Friday proclaimed April 18-24 as Private Property Week and urged Twin Falls residents to join more than 500,000 Realtors and Realtors-Associates across the nation in this observance with a propiate—and significant—program of civic betterment.

In issuing the proclamation, Ostyn so called attention to services of the Twin Falls Board of Realtors.

Mayor Ostyn noted that community has benefited from Realtor efforts to protect the right of real property ownership. Realtor also have provided the community with a sound economy through use of their professional skills in locating, appraising and managing stores, office buildings and apartment complexes; he said.

Desert park opens

JERICHO, Utah (UPI) — The Bureau of Land Management today officially opened its Little Sahara Recreation Area, 62,000 acres of free-moving sand dunes, juniper-covered rolling hills, and sagebrush flats.

The main attraction is the sand dunes, covering more than one third of the total complex, and making Little Sahara the most popular area in Utah for activities associated with sand dunes.

"Someone once said that to enjoy being in the desert requires the mind of a philosopher, the feeling of an artist, the soul of the poet, and a good four-wheel drive vehicle," said Rep. Allan Howe, D-Utah, at the dedication.

"If we were in an airplane now, and could see the entire 60,000-plus acres of this spectacular site, I'm sure we would appreciate that sentiment even more," Howe added.

"I especially want to compliment the BLM on the selection of this area in Utah for the pleasure of those who enjoy camping, studying nature, playing in the sand, and exploring the rugged terrain in off-road vehicles."

He said Utahns traditionally and historically love the out-of-doors, "and I know that this recreational area will be well-used and well-cared for both by Utahns and by our guests from other states and nations."

Howe lauded the federal agency for setting aside public lands for a multiplicity of uses, including recreation. "Our appreciation for this concept is increased as we realize that parks are not only preserved places, but managed places."

"They are among the few areas in our country where there is a vested public interest in an overall quality environment. We want public lands to be used and enjoyed without causing excessive damage either to the environment or to the enjoyable experience of the visitor."

"The identification of recreational sites for motorized off-road vehicles reduces the detrimental impact they might otherwise have on unidentified areas."

"The Utah Democrat said there are more than 7 million off-road vehicles registered in the United States.

"Obviously, the damage that could be caused by that many wheels is of pressing concern to everyone who loves the wilderness."

"Sometimes unfortunate conflict is caused between people who think motorized off-road vehicles are damaging to the environment, and the vehicle owners who love to use them and feel that they have a right to their pleasure."

He said sites such as Little Sahara define areas where such use will cause minimal damage.

"Recreational sites such as this provide a place where the owners of motor bikes and all-terrain vehicles can enjoy the exhilaration of exploring relatively untraveled land and the opportunity to escape the pressures of high-density civilization."

The sand at Little Sahara originated from massive sandbars deposited along the southern shoreline of prehistoric Lake Bonneville during the late Pleistocene Era.

Redford burned in effigy

KANAB, Utah (UPI) — Southern Utah residents, bitter at the loss of the Kaiparowits Power Plant Project burned actor Robert Redford, EPA Administrator Russell Train and Salt Lake Mayor Ted Wilson in effigy Saturday night.

"They also plan to call for an investigation of alleged environmental abuses by Redford at the Sundance Ski Resort near Provo, Utah — abuses involving timber cutting and the placement of a horse corral near a river."

A resort spokesman said the charges were unfounded, and Redford issued a statement saying backers of the Kaiparowits project were wrong about his being a "radical environmentalist."

"I'm not some kind of radical environmentalist," said the actor, who spoke proposed coal-fired power plant on a national television program. "I'm not opposed to air progress."

Redford said southern Utah should be developed carefully to provide economic growth, but without ruining the area's scenic splendor.

A consortium of southwestern utility companies announced earlier this week they would not build the 3,000 megawatt plant in southern Utah — because of — bureaucratic — delays — environmental challenges and increased costs.

and Vital Energy — called the anti-environmentalist rally for the Kane County Courthouse parking lot.

The sponsors said they were angry over the role Redford and other environmentalists played in the collapse of Kaiparowits and are seeking legal advice on how to prevent "the obstructionists" from blocking other power projects in southern Utah.

Alive Executive Director Jim Carrico said those attending the rally would draft resolutions asking various environmental protection agencies to investigate Redford's resort and to force Mayor Wilson to immediately bring Salt Lake City into compliance with the Clean Air Act.

Carrico said he had information that Redford owned a horse corral on the North Fork of the Provo River that violated water quality standards. He also said the actor's ski-resort had ruined some valuable timberland by cutting new ski trails.

"We will also have another resolution calling on Mayor Wilson to comply fully with EPA clean air standards that he is two and a half years behind in developing," said Carrico.

A spokesman for Sundance said the resort had been notified by the Utah Water Quality Council last year that the horse corral violated clean water standards.

"And we intend to move it this spring," said the spokesman.

'Bleeps' result in suit

CHEYENNE (UPI) — Disk jockey Ted Karadenes left a party fast Christmas to work the night shift at radio station KMTN-FM in Jackson, Wyo., and wished his listeners a happy (bleep) holiday.

"I'm going to play the (bleep) record," witnesses quoted him as saying during the obscene broadcast. "I'm going to blow your (bleep) mind."

On went the show: "I love everybody...Aw, (bleep) man...and we are off and running...Aw (bleep)."

Shortly afterwards, new voices arrived belonging to men in blue coats and badges.

"For what?"

"Breath of the peeper."

"Hey listen..."

"Stand up, hands behind your back."

"I am."

"Get him out of here."

"What are you doing?"

"What the hell goes?"

"Oh (bleep) (bleep)...let go..."

"How do you turn this thing off?" said one of the voices in blue.

"See the red label...turn it down."

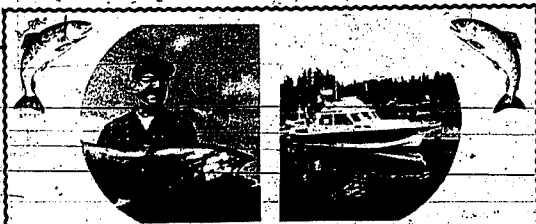

That was the end of the broadcast, witnesses said at the federal court trial of Karadenes, 28, who is now an ex-disk jockey. A jury in U.S. District Court Friday convicted the Jackson resident of using obscene, indecent and profane language over a radio communication.

Several witnesses said they heard Karadenes use four-letter words during the unusual broadcast, and one woman played a tape recording to the court that backed-up her testimony.

Karadenes testified he left a party Christmas night after drinking for about six hours, but denied he was intoxicated. Kenneth Richens, one of three youths who heard the broadcast and dropped in the station to investigate, said the disc jockey's language was "loose" and he looked "Uh, drunk."

Karadenes admitted using the obscene language, but told the court he didn't know the microphone was turned on.

U.S. District Judge Clarence Brimmer did not set a sentencing date.

Artist displays paintings at CSI

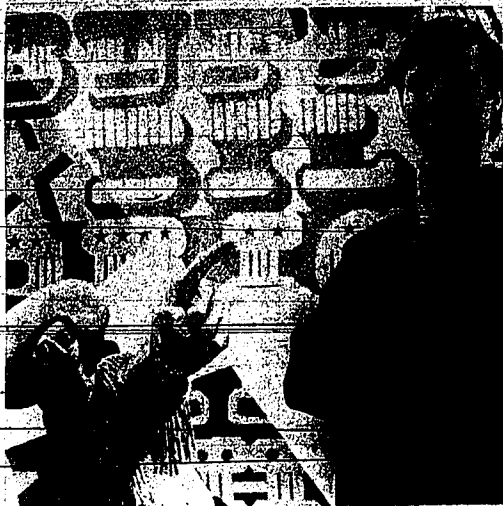

TWIN FALLS — This month College of Southern Idaho galleries will feature the paintings, drawings and prints of Mike Youngman, an artist from Piler.

Born in New Ulm, Minn., Youngman has traveled extensively as the son of a career military man and first studied art as a 12-year-old in Breux, France, under Siegfried Hain, an artist of renown.

Raised in Redlands, Calif., the artist attended Brigham Young University receiving a bachelor of arts degree in art in 1968.

After serving in the military for two years, Youngman attended Utah State University where he attained an M. F. A. degree in drawing and painting.

Youngman currently has two paintings in the 40th Idaho Artists Annual Show in the Boise Gallery of Art. Mike has also shown in Printmaking West 1972 and 1973, Utah Painting 1972, Dinosaurland Festival of Art, Vernal Utah (grand prize winner), Three Man Show at Utah State University 1973, Two Man Show, Utah State University 1972, and Mormon Festival of Arts, BYU.

Breakthrough seen in birth control

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — A major breakthrough in the field of birth control may be in the offing, according to a Massachusetts Institute of Technology researcher.

An instrument called Ovitulter has been developed to detect a woman's fertility period — the time she can become impregnated.

MIT researcher Louis Kopito said recently that although the device has been tested only on a limited basis, "It's been very successful in aiding women (who had trouble conceiving) to pregnancy."

Kopito claims Ovitulter to be 100 per cent safe. If it can be developed to have the same success rate for women who want to prevent pregnancy, it may become a major development in the field of contraception, he said.

Ovitulter is designed for use by gynecologists treating women who have difficulty conceiving.

Ovitulter Inc., manufacturer of the device, said a consumer version is being developed for home use, "providing women with a means of accurate and natural family planning."

The instrument detects fertility by measuring the fluidity of cervical mucus within a woman's body.

"It's 100 per cent safe. No chemicals are involved and it doesn't interfere with a woman's cycle. It just measures," said Kopito. "You could say it's a totally passive method."

"Ovitulter has been tested for over two years — in 1,340 tests on fertile and infertile women — and through 69 full monthly cycles."

Silicone implants urged

Washington — Two physicians with the prestigious Mayo Clinic have called for wider use of silicone implants for cosmetic and psychological rehabilitation in women who have undergone mastectomies for breast cancer.

The implants — plastic bags filled with silicone and not to be confused with the dangerous and illegal injections — are inserted under the skin. They restore the contour of breasts removed in surgery.

The implants are best suited for women who have undergone a modified or simple mastectomy — a procedure in which the breast, but not the underlying muscles, are removed, the physicians said in an article published recently in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Candidates for the implants should be women who had cancer in its earliest detectable stage, or those who have undergone surgery to remove a breast because of recurring benign cysts, which are regarded as possible precursors of cancer, the physicians said.

"The advantages of normal or near normal contour after surgery are obvious: normal dress patterns may be followed and psychic trauma is minimized," said Drs. John E. Woods and W. Spencer Payne.

The implants can not be placed by a plastic surgeon until three to six months after a mastectomy and a patient must wear a brassiere night and day for up to 12 weeks after the implantation, they said.

Some 89,000 women will be diagnosed for breast cancer and at least three-quarters will undergo surgery to remove a breast, the physicians said.

A large number of patients who undergo the modified or simple surgical procedures could benefit from the implants, the physicians said.

plants, the physicians said. "It is hoped that with an increasing awareness of the possibility of this type of restoration, the procedure will be more widely applied," they said.

The cosmetic surgery can include the construction of a nipple from skin grafted from the flaps, but the physicians reported that in their experience most women were content with the simple restoration of contour.

Women who have been treated with a radical mastectomy can also be rehabilitated with the implants.

British prince not supporter of 'lib'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, says women's libbers are "idiotic" and that he is firmly opposed to divorce.

Charles, at 27 one of the world's wealthiest and most eligible bachelors, also said he had no plans for marriage in the near future.

In an interview with Good Housekeeping magazine in his private study in Buckingham Palace in London, Charles also said advocates of women's liberation were "idiotic."

"These idiotic women go around telling all the other women to think the way they do — basically, I think because they do to be men — are, to my mind, totally wrong," he said.

"I think a lot of women forget that bringing up children is one of the greatest responsibilities that any woman can have," Charles said.

Temperatures 'below normal'

KIMBERLY — Temperatures in southern Idaho are expected to average slightly below seasonal normals during the next 30 days, according to the National Weather Service.

say that precipitation is expected to be near normal over the state.

The prediction indicates that probably there will be less than the usual number of days favorable for field work but cancellations and cool season croops should make good growth, according to the Weather Service outlook.

Water supplies for irrigation are expected to increase with more than the usual amount of snow, falling in higher elevations.

Frost can be expected until about May 15, according to the records of average dates of last freezing temperatures. With some warmer days and nights to offset the cold ones, average temperatures by May 1 in the Magic Valley are usually high in the mid or upper 60s and low in the mid to upper 30s.

The average precipitation for the period in the Magic Valley is about one inch, including one inch of snow.

Paul council favors demise of provision

PAUL — City councilmen here Wednesday expressed satisfaction at the apparent death of a Minidoka county comprehensive plan provision regarding use of forced account labor.

Mayor Robert Larsen told the council that even Charles Clark, chairman of the committee that drafted the requirement, admitted that "some concession" might be necessary.

The mayor appeared on behalf of Paul at last week's public hearing, voicing opposition to the proposal that "all tax supported public works within Minidoka County shall submit each year audited cost accounting statements to the county commissioners to justify their use of forced account labor and equipment."

He also filed a written statement of opposition by the city.

Larsen reported Wednesday that nearly all entities in the county filed objections to the

'76 budget increased in Lincoln

SHOSHONE — The Lincoln County budget for 1976 will be changed, with permission of Fifth District Court Judge Douglas Kramer, to meet what was termed "an emergency."

Judge signed a petition for the change as presented by county commissioners, asking specifically that the budget for the sheriff's department be increased to cover salary increases deemed necessary for the sheriff and his two deputies.

Also included in the order for change in the budget were a salary increase from $4300 to $4800 for the magistrate court clerk and giving authority for the county to "transfer the budget" to any adjusted salaries of officers as set by the state legislature.

The budget for the county sheriff includes salary for the sheriff of $9,100, instead of $8,400; for Deputy John Davis, $9,020 instead of $7,020; and Deputy Gordon Hall for $8,720 instead of $5,320.

Commissioners explained that the amount of increase was originally set for overtime and guarding of prisoners, but that state laws forbids paying law officers on the overtime basis and it was necessary to increase their salaries to compensate for the work.

Noise bothers Heyburn group

RUPERT — An old problem returned to haunt the Minidoka County Zoning Commission Thursday as residents near Heyburn appeared to complain about the unsightly appearance and noise at a neighboring property.

Target of the complaints is Albert McGinnis, who is renovating a moved house in the Millard-Adfield Subdivision north of Heyburn.

The zoning commission rejected McGinnis' request to move the house last July, then gave approval in August on the assumption that the house would meet requirements of the Uniform Building Code and the state electrical and plumbing codes.

Other residents of the subdivision complained that the property has been turned into a junkyard, there is a lot of noise at night and McGinnis has numerous animals on the property.

Commissioners decided to investigate the matter individually before taking any action. Robert Nielsen, legal counsel for the commission, said notices will be sent to anyone in violation of the county ordinances.

"That" action was taken previously, but Nielsen said the area would be investigated and new notices sent out to clean up properties within 10 days of each other.

Nielsen said the zoning commission has no control over noise in the area and suggested objectors contact County Prosecutor William Manning. He said they might also have a civil remedy, particularly if they felt their own properties were being devalued, and suggested they consult a private attorney if they felt so.

Zoning Administrator William McClung said McGinnis "may be the worst violator with piles of materials on his property, but he added that there are other violators in the subdivision."

McClung told the commission that the subdivision zoning never had been changed to residential and is a totally locally R-1 (residential-agricultural) because it is within the one-mile buffer zone of Heyburn.

He said the building department has been lenient on owner-builders and has allowed several to take 1-2 years. He cited the ordinance requiring work on renovations of the old house to begin within 120 days of the commission's approval and prohibiting suspension or abandonment of the project for more than 120 days after it began.

McGinnis dug footings for the foundation in January and covered all the windows and all but one door in February. He explained that the work had been held up because the pacemaker serving his wife's heart had failed, causing heavy hospital bills and loss of time.

McClung said he has assurances work on the house will be steady starting in May. Meanwhile, he said, McGinnis has piled building materials, blocks, brick and lumber he plans to use for barns, coops and in the house renovation.

He said McGinnis also has a camper trailer in the yard, as well as four cars, two owned by a son who plans to move them. He said there also are rabbits, geese, ducks, chickens, calves and a pig.

McClung said the animals are within 200 feet of one neighbor, but that neighbor has no objections.

Other neighbors including Clinton Jensen, do object to conditions.

Jensen asked about noise and "harassment of neighbors." He said there is pounding in the middle of the night.

Mrs. Jensen said they have two dogs and complained that the dogs drag home rabbit pelts thrown out by McGinnis. But McGinnis denied any pelts are thrown out and offered to assure that he would not operate his tractor other than between sunrise and 10 p.m.

Commission Chairman Roy Honsinger said that perhaps "there is too much salvage materials in the yard."

Knights, Spurs pick members

The IK is a national sophomore men's, honorary and Spurs is a national sophomore women's honorary.

New Spurs members include Jan Belliston, freshman business accounting major, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Belliston, Glenn Ferry; Kay Greenwald, freshman general studies major, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Greenwald, and Sally Jo Muscat, freshman physical education major, daughter of Funeral service reported 'good'

TWIN FALLS — Funeral directors have released results of a nation-wide study made by Central Surveys Inc., showing their customers contend 86 percent of the funeral directors did a good job of explaining services and charges.

George Paul, Twin Falls funeral director and member of the National Association of Funeral Directors says the survey figures present a direct contrast to recent government studies released.

The survey, he said, was made by Central Surveys Inc., based on a nation-wide total of 1,085 personal interviews with adults who have made arrangements for funeral services within the past ten years. Interviews were conducted by WATS, a telephone firm from Central Survey's general office in Shenandoah, Iowa under centralized control and supervision. A cross section sample of residential telephone numbers was provided by the Marketing Information Center of the Reuben H. Donnelley Corp.

Of those contacted, the association release states, most feel funeral directors charges are "in line" rather than high or low.

Statistics show 97 percent of those contacted said the funeral director and his staff were helpful and considerate in all ways. Most of these people said they would call the same director again and only a very small minority had any unfavorable comment.

Funeral Directors Association members have contended since the Federal Trade Commission began its inquiry into their practices that the vast majority of Americans are well-satisfied with the directors and the service. Survey figures substantiate this contention, the association says.

Most respondents said they selected the funeral director on a basis of the firm's reputation; because of personal acquaintance or because of convenience, in that order.

Recreation union opposed in Heyburn

HEYBURN — Consolidation of recreation programs in Mindoka County continued to face strong opposition Wednesday from Heyburn city councilmen.

"We're for cooperation, but not consolidation," Mayor Harold Hurst commented. Councilmen indicated satisfaction with their own recreation program and continued opposition to a provision in the Mindoka city-county comprehensive plan calling for consolidation of programs in the county under a single recreation director.

Friday on possible changes in the plan.

Wilcox' proposal would call for cities to take advantage of coordinated programs on an optional basis.

As if to emphasize its stand, the council approved hiring Dennis Hansen, head football coach at Minto High School, as city recreation director for the summer. It set the salary at $1,600, the same as paid last year.

The city also sent out a call for coaches, umpires and scorekeepers for its youth baseball program. Volunteers are being asked to contact the city office.

The council also decided to call again for bids on construction of two tennis courts. The city asked bids on tennis courts a year ago, but rejected them all as too high.

The council did not set a date for publication of the new call for bids, leaving that to Mayor Hurst when the specifications have been prepared. Hurst estimated that the two courts would cost about $7,000-$8,000.

The council discussed making a major effort toward more park work this summer.

The city has hired a man for park maintenance. It now has two developed parks and a ballpark and has housed in dirt for developing Dayley Park.

Mayor Hurst said there have been some problems regarding the potential park east of Highway 21. He said some people ride horses and motorcycles there and have approached the city about keeping the area for that use.

The city council feels the park should be developed primarily for family uses, such as picnics.

The comprehensive plan recreation provision which aroused city opposition would encourage cities and counties to consolidate their recreation activities into one program and hire a recreation director and adequate staff to coordinate the activities.

Councilman J. L. Brown commented Wednesday that a county program, probably would concentrate on competitive athletics, keeping less talented youngsters that still participate in city programs from participating.

Commission OK's variance

RUPERT — A variance that will eliminate a mobile home on a farm west of Rupert was approved Thursday night by the Mindoka County Zoning Commission.

The variance was requested by Bruce Neibaur to allow three homes on a total road frontage of 587 feet, instead of the 200 feet each established by county zoning ordinance.

Neibaur currently has a permit for a mobile home in which his daughter and son-in-law, Bruce Burtenshaw, live.

William McClung, zoning administrator, told the commission Neibaur and neighbor Benton McKensie plan to deed enough land to Burtenshaw for one acre of land to build a new home between their two farms.

The council discussed making a major effort toward more park work this summer.

The city has hired a man for park maintenance. It now has two developed parks and a ballpark and has housed in dirt for developing Dayley Park.

Mayor Hurst said there have been some problems regarding the potential park east of Highway 21. He said some people ride horses and motorcycles

Yellow kite sign of prayer answer

By BEVERLY NEWMAN

I stood at the window and watched the neighborhood children flying their kites on the hill behind our house. My 4-year-old son Michael stood next to me with his face eagerly pressed against the glass. Then, looking up at me with pleading eyes, he again asked if he could have a kite like the other children.

It was easier not to go into a long explanation, but actually Michael was too young to fly a kite all by himself, and that meant that one of his parents would always have to go with him to help. Because of my health, I simply didn't have the strength or energy, and my husband was usually at work.

As I turned from the window, I felt like crying myself. I found the room the furniture was similar about the same, and the walls were badly in need of paint. We had moved so many times, and each time it seemed like the neighborhood was a little older, each one in need of repairs.

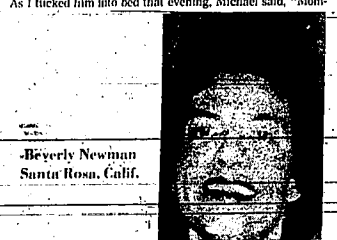

My husband Bill worked long irregular hours at his job and earned a good salary. However, there was never enough money, and we kept going deeper in debt. I had lost three children through miscarriages and the complications which followed caused me to make several emergency trips to the hospital and to be constantly under a doctor's care.

It all looked so hopeless; even God seemed to have forgotten us. I prayed a great deal about our problems, asking God for help, but things only seemed to get worse. I found myself thinking, God doesn't care, and I guess I don't either.

In the last few months, my husband had grown rather quiet and we did not talk much. Bill had not said a word about the house, but he had made a special effort to get me interested in new things, but I did not respond. In fact, I did not respond to him in any way, and he did not know quite how to handle me any more.

Michael was the one spark of life left for me. He could make me smile, and when he hugged me, I would feel love. I clung to him much in the way one would cling to a life preserver. He needed me and I knew it.

As I tucked him into bed that evening, Michael said, "Mommy, may I pray to God to send me a yellow kite? Maybe He doesn't think I'm too young."

"Yes," I said. "We will leave it up to Him to decide about it once and for all." I was tired of the whole thing and hoped that maybe this would make Michael stop talking about it.

Two days went by and I did not see the kite. The children stared at the sight that met my eyes—a string hanging down in front of the window. Not quite able to believe the thoughts that were being put together in my mind, I found myself running out the back door and into the yard. There it was, a yellow kite, caught on the roof with its string hanging down.

"Oh, thank You, God, thank You!" I repeated over and over. "I was thinking Him for the boy that was flooding his way out. He had answered the prayer of a little boy, just a little prayer, but by answering that prayer, He had also answered my prayer for help."

Suddenly I remembered Michael—I ran to his room, scooped him up in my arms and carried him into the backyard. He clapped his hands and bounced up and down in my arms when he saw the kite. "Mommy, Mommy, and it's even yellow!" He exclaimed. I smiled at him and added, "It's a miracle too."

He hugged me and said, "I knew God would answer my prayer. I just knew He would."

I thought to myself, This was why I had been so depressed. I had lost my faith. I turned my back on God, and then insisted that He had stopped caring.

We moved several times in the years that followed, and the yellow kite always went with us. My depression left me, my health improved, so did my relationship with my husband.

TWIN FALLS — The Craters Loop National Monument is now open, according to Robert J. Hentges, superintendent of the monument.

A light snowpack has allowed for the early opening. Hentges cautions park visitors not to walk out on snowfields dotting the lava flows as these snow islands may be covering rock crevices that could cause severe injury.

Counties pay dues only once

TWIN FALLS — Counties with membership in the Idaho Association of Counties will now be paying dues to only one organization but will have the services of other subsidiary county associations.

Merl E. Leonard, chairman of the Twin Falls County commissioners, said Friday Twin Falls has joined the Idaho Association of Counties and county officials will also continue affiliation on a local area basis with such organizations as the Association of County Sheriffs, Idaho Association of County Clerks and Commissioners and other specific official organizations.

Leonard attended a meeting of the Association of Counties in Boise this week with delegates from the other 40 member counties. He said plans were made at that time for the Association of Counties to assume the assets of two previous county organizations, the Association of Commissioners and Clerks and the Association of County Officials.

This will unify the efforts of all county officials in the state with the Association of Counties serving as an "umbrella" organization and handling financing and other administration.

Under this association will be the "in-house" groups in local areas. Such as associations for county treasurers, assessors, sheriffs and other elected officials. Dues paid to the Idaho Association of Counties will cover these other organizations, Leonard said.

Heyburn collection point for Minico youth's fund

HEYBURN — The City of Heyburn will collect contributions to send one of its youngsters to national competition of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America.

Contributions are being accepted at the city office to help pay for the trip of Sylvia Abrego, Minico High School senior.

Miss Abrego won state competition at Escalante in health occupation. She appeared at Wednesday's council meeting to ask city help.

Councilmen felt the city could not legally contribute funds for the trip, but agreed to have the city serve as a central collection point.

In another matter, the council approved a 7 per cent rate increase for garbage collection by Teal Sanitation Service.

The action cuts the amount kept by the city from the $2 monthly rate paid by residents from the present 25 per cent to only 18 per cent.

Councilmen were concerned about resident complaints about missed pickups and other service problems. They discussed withholding part of the increase until services improved, but dropped that idea when Mayor Harold Hurst said Teal would be reminded of contractual obligations.

The city plans to watch service closely. Mayor Hurst urged that residents with complaints phone the city office. He said the complaints will be taken up with Teal.

Hurst said painting and striping of city streets will begin as soon as weather allows it.

The council plans to adopt a new traffic ordinance as soon as the painting is completed to regulate parking and traffic direction.

City Attorney Thomas Church has been working on the ordinance draft. Councilmen discussed the

4-H club slated for youthful CB'ers

TWIN FALLS—Interest in Citizen Band radio has grown so in this area that a 4-H club is being organized for youthful enthusiasts.

Francis Johnson, Murtaugh, said the first meeting of the new club, claimed to be the first CB interest 4-H club in Idaho, is scheduled for April 25. The organization meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Twin Falls county agent's office in the old Twin Falls County Hospital building.

Officers will be elected at that time and members will display their projects at the county fair in the fall. Johnson said first-year youths will make crystal sets and second-year members will make wireless microphones. The third-year members will work on building a simple CB radio transmitter and receiver, Johnson said.

He said he has been told there are "something like" 25 young people interested in such a 4-H club. Requirements are that the members are between 12 and 18 years of age, and their parents must have a Federal Communications Commission license or have applied for one.

There are approximately 1,000 youths involved in 4-H activities in Twin Falls County, and something like 66 different kinds of projects. While many of them deal with traditional farm-life or homemaking, there are many others which are definitely urban projects, Johnson said.

4-H members have projects dealing with everything from tropical fish to model rockets and nationwide the emphasis in recent years is to involve urban youths, he said. Youths may live anywhere in Twin Falls county and be eligible for the new CB club, he said.

Ballet Folk, Idaho's professional ballet company, is based in Moscow and received a special grant from the Association for the Humanities in Idaho to tour the state with its program.

The Filer presentation is being sponsored by the Twin Falls American Association of University Women and the Filer Bicentennial Committee. It is offered free of charge to the public.

your health

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

We have a teenage son who, when he was young, had nephrosis. He has not had an attack since. What we want to know is: Could it return in his old age more dangerous for him than for other teenagers? They all seem to experiment at this age. — Mr. and Mrs. G.

There are different types and causes of nephrosis, a term referring to a specific disease of the kidneys. I presume that what your son had was lipid nephrosis, which frequently affects young persons. In this there is liquid retention in body tissues, certain changes in blood protein and lipids (fats), and swelling of the kidneys.

The expected outcome in this is quite good with modern treatment. However, relapses are known to occur.

You don't indicate how long ago your son had this problem. He should be checked periodically for kidney function. They should also include blood chemistry tests, urinalysis, blood pressure determination, as well as kidney function tests. It is a teenager, and since the disorder is one affecting the kidneys, I

Suit filed in court

TWIN FALLS — Grace A. Anglin, Burley, and Builders Diversified Services Inc., of which she is vice president, have filed action to foreclose on a $900,000 promissory note from National Funding Corp. and Greater Idaho Corp.

The complaint filed in Fifth District Court here this week asks Idaho for the full $900,000 plus 6.25 per cent interest and $50,000 in legal fees.

The complaint states Builders Diversified Services Inc., a California firm, and Mrs. Anglin on Dec. 30, 1974, loaned National Funding Corp. $900,000 with the stipulations it be repaid over a 15-year period on a 30-year amortization and with 6.25 per cent interest.

The complaint states the first year's payment has not been made and demands for the payment have been unheeded.

Further, the complaint charges in the second count that Greater Idaho Corp. on May 10, 1975, executed a promissory installment note payable to National Funding Corp. for $900,000. This note was assigned to the plaintiffs as additional collateral to guarantee payment of the plaintiffs' note with National Funding.

Lung cancer test accurate

NEW YORK (UPI) — The director of the National Lung Program in New York says a new test for early detection of lung cancer has proved twice as accurate as predicted.

Dr. Myron R. Melamed said Thursday that testing of 6,000 men for early signs of lung cancer detected 61 cases of either suspected or proved cancer. None of the men tested had displayed symptoms of cancer before the tests, he said.

At the outset of the study, sponsored by Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, it was predicted that three out of 1,000 persons tested would be found to have cancer, Melamed said. The results after 18 months showed its accuracy to be seven per thousand, more than twice as accurate, he said.

The study included men 45 years or older who smoke a pack or more of cigarettes a day.

Divorces granted

TWIN FALLS — Divorces granted in Fifth Judicial District Court in Twin Falls include Walter B. Seelin and Terrell Seelin; Tamera L. Andrews and James C. Andrews; Rikki Villers and Wayne Villers; Clara Pierce and Terry K. Pierce; Marjorie Tracy and Brent Tracy; Rachel Ann Shutes and Gary M. Shutes; Michael R. Kulesza and Elizabeth K. Kulesza; and Clifford E. Isom and Betty Jo Isom.

Bankruptcy discharged

BOISE — Bankruptcy Judge M.S. Young in the U.S. District Court of Idaho, has discharged the bankruptcy filed by Crown Printing Inc., Twin Falls. The firm filed for bankruptcy Jan. 11 and has been released from all dischargeable debts, the court advises.

Other firms in Magic Valley which have filed bankruptcy include Gregory D. Johnston doing business as Four Winds Inc., Magic Valley Funeral Chapel and Allied Security Patrol.

Alcohol won't mix think he should defer the experimenting until he is older. Tell him to explain his medical situation frankly to his friends. Except for those fortunate enough to have received transplants, we only get one set of kidneys to last us all our lives. They rate a top priority as far as disease prevention is concerned.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

A friend of mine got your booklet on reducing and said it beats most of the other diet schemes. So, first of all, I'd like you to send me a copy. I'm sending you 35 cents for it in care of this newspaper, plus a stamped, self-addressed envelope. I'd also like you to answer a somewhat related question for me.

Can too much thyroid medicine hurt your heart? My doctor prescribed some for me. My gland is underactive.

I weigh 127 pounds, a bit heavy for my size. I'm told that an underactive thyroid can be a factor in weight gain. I can't lose, even when I take extra thyroid pills. — Mrs. B.E.

Your letter is representative of others I get which show a dangerous tendency to use thyroid medication for what might be called "emotional" ailments. By this I mean use of medication beyond what is required by the malfunctioning gland.

I don't know how much "overweight" your 127 pounds reflects, but I doubt it is very much. I suspect from your letter that you are arbitrarily taking extra pills because you want to lose weight — a dangerous practice. Thyroid medication is prescribed very carefully to avoid rebound effects — such as nervousness and extra heart activity. The restriction of diet for weight reduction is more important than medication for this purpose.

With due modesty I feel my booklet on reducing is a good one, because it avoids much of the nonsense involved in many of the fad diets. I hope it helps you. There's no "scheme" involved, though, just commonsense.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

I am 17 and have been taking natural vitamin E for two months now. It's supposed to help clear your skin of pimples. So far I have had no results. Is this really a natural vegetable oil? Also, it costs $7 a bottle for 100 capsules. — L.F.

The role of vitamins in acne, which I assume is what you are speaking of, is not established, although vitamin A therapy has been tried because of its effect on the formation of hard, scaly skin (keratinization). It is sometimes worth a try.

Vitamin E is found in greatest concentration in vegetable oils. I know of no evidence suggesting it is helpful in treating such skin conditions, and at that price you ought to be pretty sure it's going to help.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

How do you get a proud, stubborn 87-year-old man to go to a doctor when he doesn't want to? — Mrs. P.R.

He may be proud and stubborn, but chances are he's no dummy. So ask him if he wants to become a proud, stubborn 88-year-old.

Acne is a terrible problem for anyone growing up. If you are afflicted with it or have children who are, write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of this newspaper, for a copy of his booklet, "Controlling Acne, Blackheads and Pimples." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Health officials meet with TF commissioners

TWIN FALLS — Seven health officials met Thursday with the Twin-Falls County commissioners to discuss solid waste disposal problems in the county.

Presently areas such as Bell Rapids, Glue Gulch and Magic Water projects are handling their own disposal matters because of their great distance from established landfills.

Health officials and Bureau of Land Management representative Bob Mitchell, Boise, expressed concern over the increasing solid waste problem and urged county cooperation in a program to provide satisfactory and adequate disposal programs for solid waste areas.

Gerald Hurst, South Central Health District Director of Environmental Health, along with other district representatives, Mike Cimlich, Bill Allred, Ron Howard and Alan Bierman, Ed Barber, Health and Welfare Department, Mitchell and Ed Woods county zoning administrator attended the meeting.

Health officials told the commissioners their major concern is the disposal of containers of poisonous herbicides and pesticides following spray operations on farm lands. They said users are being urged to properly dispose of these to protect animals and humans.

Demand soars for older homes

TWIN FALLS — Current demand for housing in Twin Falls has boosted the price of homes higher than ever, especially for older homes.

"The first of the year there has been a 'terrific increase' in the value of older homes, according to Doug Voelmer, a local appraiser.

He said last year the demand "remained stable" with a little increase but nothing significant, but "it started picking up three or four months ago."

What he termed "unbelievable" prices are being paid willingly for older homes because, he says, they provide an opportunity for new homeowners to "see what can be done" to improve them.

Mike Gray, Twin Falls Realtor, estimates volume of businesses in his firm has increased about 50 percent over last year. He looks for the upward trend to hold at "least through the election this fall."

He said last year sales handled by the 28 multiple listing firms in Twin Falls totaled about $42 million. He expects the figure for 1978 to be between $75 to $80 million.

Gray feels the popularity of older homes depends upon the availability of new housing. One reason older homes are bringing such good prices, is because there is a shortage of new houses, he says.

Officials of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Twin Falls agreed that there is a demand for older homes. Loan officer Paul Moseley said most of these older houses were being purchased for use as single family residences instead of multi family use.

Moseley said that, well maintained, older houses were capable of bringing high appraisals which would allow 80 percent to value loans.

Both Jim Saint Clair of First Federal Savings and Loan and Pete Youngberg of Equitable Savings and Loan Twin Falls agreed that loan officers of Twin Falls agreed that there is a demand for older homes.

Youngberg said his impression is that of late there are more young people who can qualify for loans. He attributed this to the "secondary incomes" that are being earned by the wives and pointed out that the dual income families have come to the area making it possible for both husband and wife to be employed.

Based upon national figures, Idaho is growing at a faster rate, 11 to 14 percent, than the national average, but the growth here "has not been so rapid we can't keep up with it," Realtor Gray says.

While Gray agrees that homes are bringing higher prices here than ever before, he said he finds that is a "consistent" development throughout the country, resulting both from inflation and the increased real cost of construction.

Cost of building materials fluctuates somewhat according to demand, with prices on certain kinds of material sometimes lower this time of year before the building seasons gets under way.

"The federal government in projecting housing needs throughout the nation for 1978 has revised its estimates several times already, Gray said. The original estimates predicted a need for 1.5 million new single family units. This was adjusted in January to 1.1, but at the end of February revised upward to 1.8 million.

If this nationwide holds steady, he says, it will uphold the demand both for material and investment money available for mortgages and result in higher costs.

Twin Falls' location in the center of a broad based agricultural economy plays a large part in the increasingly good real estate market, according to Youngberg. He said it means they aren't dependent upon one large industry but the presence of large employers, like Tupperware and Kellogg plants in the area have given a secondary income to many families.

"This often means the difference is whether a family is able to have the down payment for their home," Voelmer said.

Gray says, "We're riding on two past years of excellent farm income" even though some commodity prices are currently depressed.

Endangered species?

Bud fans

'frustrated'

TWIN FALLS — Serious Budweiser drinkers have been frustrated lately in their pursuit of "Bud."

Anheuser-Busch-Brewing Company has halted production of Budweiser because of a strike.

Although the Magic Valley distributor of Bud has a good stock of the beer, he has been rationing it out to local stores and bars in hopes of providing at least some of the drink to consumers while the strike lasts.

Wes Dustin, manager of the Blue Lakes Seven-11 store, said for the last couple of weeks he has been receiving only 50 percent of his usual shipment.

"All we have now is 15 the 12 ounce cans, we can't get the 16 ounce cans or 12 ounce bottles," Dustin said.

Several large supermarkets here and in Burley report their usual shipments have been cut by half also.

Brent-Preece, manager of the Twin Falls Warehouse, said it was his impression from the driver who brings his Bud that the strike will end soon and things will be back to normal.

Meanwhile, beer drinkers who are devoted to Bud struggle in the face of the crisis.

"One man I mented that only one bar in Blaine County is serving Bud on tap and that tap was moved to a Cassia County bar last Monday."

He claimed the Bud strike is getting to be a bi-annual labor problem with the brewery. Two years ago draft Bud in kegs was unavailable in the Western States and even the 12 ounce cans became scarce.

"This bi-annual suffering has got to cease," the Bud drinker insisted. "Geez."

Later, Idaho Insurance Commissioner Monroe Gollaber found Sierra to be defunct since its liabilities did not meet its recognized assets.

But Sierra protested. A closed hearing was held and as a result the final examination report released by Idaho found Sierra to be solvent and legal.

Edgerton, who represented the other states conducting the examination, however, refused to accept the Idaho final examination report.

Agenda listed

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Included on the agenda is the capital improvement ordinance; animal control ordinance; selection of city flag details from the City Seal; 2000 insurance claim; bid on ball field illumination, recommended date of May 14; appointment of a special police officer; out-of-city sewer service for Lucich Ford Tractor Co.; presentation of intermediate certificate to police sergeant Pat Berringham, and appointment of a voting delegate and alternate as officers' representatives of city at AIG conference June 28-30.

Sierra Life Insurance Co. loses U.S. court lawsuit

TWIN FALLS — Sierra Life Insurance Co. Friday lost its bid in U.S. District Court to prevent the release of a multi-state report critical of its financial condition.

The Twin Falls based life insurance company charged that the examination report is "erroneous" and would "cause great and irreparable harm" if released in the complaint Sierra also sued Utah Insurance examiners Burr Gottfredson and Ross Edgington personally for $250,000 for having sent a summary of their findings to Nevada's commissioner of insurance.

But Friday in Boise U.S. District Court Judge Ray McNichols granted Utah's Department of Insurance a summary judgment to dispense the case.

Lloyd Webb, Twin Falls attorney who helped defend the Utah Department of Insurance, said that the judge's decision now frees the Utah Department to distribute the examination report to insurance departments in other states.

The report, however, says the insurer does not know whether Sierra would appeal the decision.

Sierra President Fred Frazier was unavailable for comment Friday on the situation. Insurance examiners from Idaho and Utah originally conducted a joint examination of Sierra. The examiners found more than $6 million of the firm's claimed assets unacceptable.

Fatal pickup

TWIN FALLS — The objectives of the Magic Valley Association of Governments (MVAG) may switch from land use planning to economic development if efforts to revive the two-year-old organization are successful.

MVAG's board of directors voted in January to disband the eight-county organization June 30. But a meeting has been scheduled in Jerome later this month to reconsider the decision.

The Times-News learned Friday that MVAG executive director Del Taylor has held several meetings with a representative of the U.S. Economic Development Administration (EDA) to discuss possible funding through the federal agency.

MVAG currently is funded for land use planning purposes by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). Those funds are administered by the Idaho Planning and Community Affairs office. After the vote to disband, MVAG informed the state agency that it would not request further HUD planning money after June 30.

However, an official in the state planning office Friday said Taylor is "trying to revitalize (MVAG) for economic development purposes only."

EDA representative Al Ames, Boise, has been working directly with the Magic Valley group regarding economic development grants, according to Ray Mickelson, a technical assistant specialist in the Idaho planning office.

Taylor and Ames were out of town and could not be reached for comment.

A secretary in Ames' office confirmed that Taylor and Ames have held several talks. Mickelson said if MVAG receives EDA funds, it would be "strictly economic development oriented and not oriented toward land use planning and comprehensive planning."

EDA funds can be used to cover costs for a wide range of projects geared to stimulate growth in areas with depressed economies and high unemployment. Mickelson mentioned possible job-oriented types of businesses and industries and sewer and water projects.

"If they do change their mind along the lines of continuing the organization for economic development," MVAG still might be eligible for HUD funds, according to Mickelson. If the board of directors retains the required level of eight-county representation, we sure would be receptive" to renewing the allocation of HUD money, he said.

DAVE SHERWIN

Johnny Horizon meet scheduled

TWIN FALLS — A final organization meeting to prepare for the May 1 Johnny Horizon Day in Twin Falls County will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

William L. Chaney, chairman of the one-day county-wide cleanup project said he hopes to ascertain Tuesday night how many crews and how much equipment will be available from all participating organizations and agencies.

Chaney asked organizations to send a delegate to the meeting so assigned areas can be worked out with area chairmen and available crews. The meeting will be held in the Judicial Building in Twin Falls.

About 700 youngsters and adults are expected to help in the project covering rural roadsides, parks and other right of way. Large trucks will be available to haul away the several tons of trash and debris which will be collected during the work effort.

All land fills will be open May 1 with no charge made for those hauling trash for disposal.

MV man eyes presidential bid

HAGERMAN — Times-News writer interviews running for office, you just missed a chance to get a non-political on your presidential ballot this year.

The PonderaInbow Party, branch of Maurice C. Smith. Hagerman, had set April 15 as the deadline for signatures on petitions which could have placed Smith's name on the Nov. 2 ballot.

"I got a few signatures," Smith said after collecting his petitions this week.

He didn't sound rattled by his failure to comply with the state law requiring 150 signatures.

"I'm going to figure out how to get on as a writer," Smith said Friday.

Smith's desire to become the next president of the United States isn't just a passing fancy, with him.

"For a long time a fella talks about a lot of stuff before he does it," Smith said.

What do Smith and the PonderaInbow Party stand for? As his petition says, "This party shall be based on truth and honesty, according to the commonest definitions of Webster's dictionary."

Asked to describe the changes he speaks of in his petition, Smith said, "Well, you have to go back and start at the beginning."

The 36,900 square foot retail outlet will stock more than 45,000 items of pre-cut lumber and building materials, hardware, plumbing and electrical supplies, paint, housewares, recreational equipment, arts and crafts supplies. An additional 7,000 square feet of outdoor space will house a complete nursery, featuring both indoor and outdoor plants, shrubs, trees, gardening supplies and equipment.

Exterior of the home center will be built of split face concrete block walls with a stained cedar facade and a mansard roof over the main canopy area. Trimmed-in sluces. Development contractor is John Price and Associates, Salt Lake City.

Twin Falls will be the second Ernst Home Center for Pay 'n Save Corp. in Idaho. The company has a store in Pocatello, and is planning a third outlet in Nampa, scheduled to open this fall.

Pay 'n Save Corp. operates Pay 'n Save Drug Stores, Bi-Mart Drug Stores, Lamonts Apparel, Sportland and Sportswest stores. In addition to Ernst Home Centers, in 143 locations in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Utah, California, Hawaii and Alaska.

Trueblood calls more primitive study useless

BOISE (UPI) — The president of the River of No Return Wilderness Council said today it is "ridiculous" to talk about more study of the primitive areas in Idaho because there stacks of studies already have been completed.

Ted Trueblood, council president, said the recent statement by John B. Fory, president of Boise Cascade Corp., that 800,000 acres of the two primitive areas should be studied for possible commercial timber cutting is saying in different words the company is determined to log country that has been managed as wilderness since the 1930's.

"Talk about more study is ridiculous," said Trueblood. "We have a stack of study reports two feet high. Every aspect of the Idaho and Salmon River Breaks primitive areas has been studied exhaustively."

"We don't need more study. We don't need logging, either. What we need now is an act of Congress to give them permanent wilderness status — and protection from commercial development, primarily roads and logging."

The council, a one-purpose organization with 1,500 members, has asked for a wilderness of 2.3 million acres — combining the two existing primitive areas and including several contiguous areas of wilderness quality.

Total acreage of the two primitive areas is 1.4 million. The United States Forest Service after studies and hearings recommended 1.5 million acres of wilderness. Gov. Cecil Andrus has asked for 1.8 million acres.

President Ford's recommendation to Congress was for 1.1 million acres, cutting out the Chamberlain Basin, which, Trueblood said, is the finest elk range in America and the very heart of the wilderness.

Trueblood said populations of bighorn sheep, Rocky Mountain goats, elk and moose all would be jeopardized by roads and logging in the area.

The limited amount of timber in the area doesn't justify this sacrifice, he said.

Strike could cripple plants

DETROIT (UPI) — For the first time in two years, indefinite layoffs in the U.S. auto industry will fall below the $2,000 mark next week as General Motors resumes second shift operations at two California assembly plants.

But the nation's "Big Three" automakers warned Thursday a strike by the United Rubber and Tire Workers next week could cripple car production. They said there are enough tires in stock or in transit for a week of production before the effects of a rubber strike would be felt. GM will resume second shift operations Monday at the Van Nuys auto assembly plant and the Fremont truck factory.

The move reflects higher demand for GM's compact models — the Chevrolet Nova, Pontiac Ventura, Buick Skylark and Oldsmobile Omega — and light trucks. GM will recall 1,800 workers at Van Nuys and 800 at Fremont. The afternoon shift at Van Nuys was eliminated in December, 1974, and Fremont's second shift was dropped a month later.

Reflecting the continuing slow sales of the ultra-small cars, Ford Monday will close its Metuchen, N.J., plant for one week — laying off 700 workers who build the Pinto and Mercury Bobcat models.

Another 925 hourly workers will be out of work for the week at scattered manufacturing plants.

GM still has 32,000 workers on indefinite layoff; Ford has 7,175; Chrysler Corp. 4,700; and American Motors 2,581.

The 46,356 workers listed as long-term layoffs represent about 6 per cent of the blue collar labor force — well below the 212,000 idled during the winter of 1975. Heavy layoffs began in January, 1974, three months after the start of the Arab oil embargo that triggered the industry's two-year slump.

The four companies have turned out 2.6 million automobiles this year, a 50 per cent increase over the 1975 pace that marked the industry's worst year since 1962.

MV dance club

DANCING is enjoyed by many Magic Valley residents and 75 couples currently participate in the Magic Steppers Dance Club. Here board of directors member Bob Wills, left, and his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wills, all Twin Falls, enjoy the final dance of the season for club members. Five dances a year are held by the club, with the final event as guest night.

Ballroom dancing remains popular

TWIN FALLS Ballroom dancing is still popular in Magic Valley and one of the organizations responsible for making it available is the Magic Steppers.

The club was organized three years ago by a number of couples who enjoy dancing and has now grown to a membership of 75 couples representing nearly all Magic Valley communities.

Al Jenkins, club president, said the membership includes a number of young married couples as well as some retired residents.

There are four dinner dances held each year through the November to April season with one final guest night which is a dance only with light refreshments served.

All dances are held in the Elks Lodge and all are semi formal. The annual guest night is less formal.

Live music is provided for each of the dances with bands from Boise, Twin Falls, Pocatello and Sun Valley having played this year.

The Sun Valley trio played for the final event of the season Saturday night.

Purpose of the club, Jenkins said, is to build good relations throughout the Magic Valley and to provide enjoyment for those who relish ballroom dancing.

The Magic Steppers is one of the few such dance clubs still in existence in Magic Valley, Jenkins says, but many of the members belong to at least one other similar club.

In addition to Jenkins, club officers include four directors, Margaret King, Georgia Wills, Greg Fuller and Bonnie Christensen.

Abby

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. My beautiful 24-year-old daughter is ruining her life. She refuses to listen to me because she thinks that I'm old-fashioned.

She would like to get married, but she comes on so strong she scares all the men away. She is into this Women's Lib thing and doesn't believe in waiting for a man to call her. If she wants to go out with him, she calls him up. She even takes her own car and brags that she picked up the check!

Abby, this daughter has a college degree, is beautiful and has a 36 D bust. (That's another problem. Some stupid saleslady told her, "If you got it, flaunt it," so now everything she owns has a plunging neckline.)

If she doesn't quit coming on like the U.S. Marines, she will never get a man.

How can I convince her that she is going about it all wrong, and if she wants to get married, she will have to play hard to get and be more ladylike?

WORRIED MOTHER

Daughter aggressive

DEAR MOTHER: I know you mean well, but there is nothing you can do to help your daughter get a man. Let her be herself, and one of the days she will find a man who likes an aggressive, honest girl who doesn't play games.

DEAR ABBY: My love (whom we'll call "Janis") is half my age, has somewhat of a past, but says things like, "We should always be honest with each other." But the other day she came to me with the tale that her 90-year-old grandmother in Detroit is ailing, that she'd have to fly there for a week to be with her and that she'd write or phone me. She never wrote or called. And she stayed two weeks.

No sooner had her plane been airborne, Dear Abby, that I found out through friends at the terminal that Janis didn't go to Detroit—she went to San Francisco where she has an old boyfriend.

I also found out that she had told her employer that she was going to Florida.

So what do I do? Confront her, punch her lying mouth or gently drop her and in so doing give up the nicest thing that's happened to me in a long time?

PETE

DEAR PETE: In light of her "we should always be honest to each other" preaching, confront her. And then drop her—unless you want a "love" with a lying mouth.

DEAR ABBY: A big "THANK-YOU" for asking your readers to be a little more patient with dead people. So many of us are treated as though we were imbeciles.

Dead people should learn to read lips. I have been totally deaf for 10 years, and 10 years before that I had a severe hearing loss. When I wore a hearing aid, I was frequently ignored, too. Many people still associate deafness with "dumbness"—even if dead people speak to them!

Since I've stopped using my hearing aid and have learned to read lips, most people are cooperative. Sometimes I ask them to write a bit and they don't mind. If they refuse, I just figure it's as much their loss as mine, and I go my way and they go theirs.

Please ask your readers to talk a little slower—and to look DIRECTLY at us. That also helps.

Mrs. P. W. Hicks, director, presided at the luncheon at the Ramada Inn.

Mrs. Robert E. Tillotson, president of Idaho State Federation of Garden Clubs, was honored guest.

Mrs. Hicks said April 30 is Arbor Day and said the national federation has asked each club to plant a "liberty" tree this Memorial Day. She suggested each member write her congressman in Washington, D. C., about making the City of Rocks a national park.

Mrs. Hicks said the district has awarded certificates of achievement for the Smokey Bear art contest to students at Jerome and Castletford.

Three districts in attendance plan to plant a liberty tree and two plan patriotic red, white and blue gardens.

The Leaf and Petal Club is celebrating its 20th birthday.

The Mini-Cassia Club is conducting a children's contest for the tallest and largest sunflower and is attempting to have a large roadside sign removed.

The Twin Falls Club has ordered 14 trees for planting this month. Its continuing projects are Harbor House, Child Development Center, Twin Falls Public Library and YM-YWCA grounds.

Mrs. Wilma Hodder and Mrs. G. Nuttle conducted a class in gardening at a nursery garden school in March.

Mrs. Marguerite Knoll read a poem and Mrs. Lavern Schell, Jerome, spoke on "gardening on your own terms." the bicentennial year...

fancy that

By Norma Herzinger

Do you have a pet peeve? I have several, and the one that really surfaced this week is labeled conversation openers.

Certain conversation openers, even on the brightest, sunniest day, can set your teeth on edge and elude what could be a perfectly good discussion.

The other day I overheard a woman say no one seemed interested in her views or what she had to say. After listening for a minute, I couldn't help but wonder if perhaps the noninterest came from not necessarily what she had to say, but how she was saying it.

A negative approach just naturally turns many people off and a conversation opener of this kind can be a real downer. Depending on the situation, of course, many openers can be down-right annoying, others innocuous and many ambiguous—all under the guise of good conversation.

Take the person that begins by saying, "I hate to complain, but..." Immediately you know you really don't want to hear what she has to say. And, even if you did, it sounds like trouble, which you want to avoid.

Then there're those who come on with "promise me you won't get mad when I tell you this..." or, "this probably isn't a good time to ask you..."

A negative approach like this often will end up with results just as negative. Chances are if you were not mad to begin with, after that opener you're naturally on your guard and "mad" is just around the corner. And, the time probably was A-okay, but again, you're on your guard.

Here're some "good" openers you hear every day.

- "You're not going to like this, but..."
- "I'm no expert, but..."
- "You may not be interested, but..."
- "I hope I'm not interrupting anything, but..."
- "I know I shouldn't say this, but..."
- "I realize you're too busy to do this..."
- "I know you're opposed to this, but..."
- "You're a nice guy, but..."

Along the same lines you have those who insist on ruling your day with "my goodness, you look exhausted this morning" or "don't you feel well today?"

It started off as a good day but some just can't leave it alone and continue to add insult to injury with "you sure look pale. Are you sure you feel all right?" or "You certainly are in a rotten mood. Did you get up on the wrong side of the bed?" Perfect way to start the day.

Last but not least, you often hear the openers that are intended to suck you right into the corner like "Would you do me a favor?" "Hey, sugar, you want to help me with this?" or "You're the only one that can advise me on this?" Remember the old Johnny Mercer song that began with "You've got to accentuate the positive eliminate the negative..."

Oh, and by the way... Rumor has it Harrison School has big things in store for the community May 1 with "This Is Your Life America." Billed as Harrison School Fair, it is planned with entertainment, games, events and demonstrations from America's past and scheduled from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. You'll be reading more about this as the event draws near.

Curtis re-elected symphony conductor

TWIN FALLS — Larry Curtis, head of the music department at the College of Southern Idaho, was retained as conductor of the Magic Valley Symphony for another year Tuesday night.

At the symphony's annual business meeting, Ron Brackett, Buhl, was elected vice president, and Joan Sutcliffe was retained as business manager. Ernest Moss, president, and Mrs. Morton Krahn, secretary, are holdover board members. Plans were discussed for next year's season which includes two concerts, held in November and February. Pro's and con's were expressed about the youth concert, initiated this past season, when five young people performed short selections.

Some members said they felt more time should be given to music involving the youth symphony, but general consensus was to continue the youth concerts, with auditions for soloists slated this fall.

Members also approved continuing the idea of performing in other area towns the night previous to the Twin Falls performances. Last fall the symphony played in Burley, and was scheduled for Gooding in February, but that concert was canceled because of a storm.

Curtis said he hopes to arrange for an appearance at Sun Valley this fall.

Morehead, who sat South, proceeded to "take" all the tricks. It wasn't too difficult. Dummy's nine covered the eight. East played the Jack and Al won. Three trump leads left Al in dummy to lead the 10 of hearts. East's queen lost to the ace and West's seven spot fell.

Now it was a simple matter to enter dummy with the King of clubs, lead the deuce of hearts and take a successful finesse with the four spot against East's five. This made it possible for Al to discard dummy's queen of diamonds on the six of hearts.

Ask the Jacobsys

A Delaware reader wants to know why we show so few hands where declarer fails to make his contract.

The answer is that people like success and while we do show some examples of brilliant defense we feel that most of our readers prefer to look at winners.

North's jump to four spades showed a minimum opening bid with good spades. South decided not to use Blackwood in an effort to reach a grand slam.

It was well that he did. Had he bid four notrump, North would have responded five diamonds and East could have doubled to ask for a diamond lead against the eventual spade contract.

A diamond lead would have almost surely led to defeat of the six-spade contract, but West opened the eight of hearts and the late Albert

TORCH holds Easter party for TF special ed classes

BY KRISTEN COLEMAN

TWIN FALLS — The Teen Organization for Retarded Citizens (TORCH) is a group of local junior and senior high school students who dedicate a little extra time to their fellow students in special education.

This past week TORCH held an Easter party at Robert Stuart Junior High where special education classes meet.

"I really like it," says Karen Gillette, vice president of the group, of her time spent with retarded students. She says she is also a candystriper at the hospital and gets "personal satisfaction" from both volunteer efforts.

The high point of the Easter party, Miss Gillette says, was a dance including the "bunny hop" and "hokey pokey."

"They were really good," she says of the dancers.

Miss Mitchell says it is not difficult to communicate with special education students. In fact, relating to retarded citizens may be easier than with most people in some ways because if "you're really nice to them they mind you really good."

"They appreciate any little thing like a little piece of candy," she says.

"They get along (with each other) so good, if one wins they all clap. They don't get mad. Normal kids get jealous."

Miss Gillette says in admiration of this "special" group's temperament.

Upcoming projects for TORCH include a "bike bike," which is similar to last weekend's walkathon except that participants are on bikes instead of foot participation in an "Optimist" Club parade scheduled for May 8 and a trip to the bowling alley, also in May.

The group also gave a Christmas party for the special education class, sends presents to the Nampa State School and works at the Adult Development Center in Twin Falls.

There are 15 members of the Twin Falls chapter of the club — from O'Leary, Stuart and the high school. All are girls, although boys have been members in the past and are eligible for membership.

Officers-elect for the club are coming up and Miss Gillette says "Now members are encouraged to join. Any member of the club may be contacted for information on joining the club."

Other officers are Linda Strope, president, and Laurie Thornton, secretary-treasurer. Denise Mulligan is the district representative and Penny Stevens, special education teacher, is the club adviser.

The group meets once a month.

Easter bunnies

EASTERTIME is a memorable time of year for children, with the anticipation of Easter baskets and new linery. Kindergartners at the Buhl Elementary school got to help the Easter bunny Thursday. Dressed out with rabbit ears, right, and cotton tails, both morning and afternoon kindergarten students lined up to parade through the halls and bring a little Easter cheer to the older students, some had a little trouble keeping their tails intact during the excitement.

Golf tourney set

An Easter Seal golf tournament will be held at Canyon Springs April 24-25, reports Head Professional Mike Sessions. Sessions said the $250 entry fee is established for men, women and children. Prizes will be donated merchandise, equal to the amount of entry fee, he added. Winners will be paid in net and gross divisions.

Goobagong win title

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Top seeded Evonne Goobagong of Australia added $40,000 to her bankroll Saturday by outlasting Chris Evert of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., in a torrid 6-3, 5-7, 6-3, final of the $100,000 Virginia Slims Tennis Championships at the Sports Arena.

New Iberia repeats

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. (UPI) — New Iberia, La., repeated as the intermediate division champion in the National AAU Junior Olympic Club Basketball Championships Saturday by outlasting Memphis 50-34. Murfreesboro called briefly in the final quarter, but fell victim to the accurate outside shooting of Pam Crawford and Jayne Osborne.

Crawford, named Intermediate Most Valuable Player, finished with 19 points. Shelby Watkins captured third place in the senior division of the tournament, downing St. Joseph, Mo., 56-30.

McTear sets record

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — Speedster Houston McTear, 18, broke the 100-meter dash in 10.1 Saturday in the San Jose High School and Junior College Relays to break his own national high school record. McTear, a senior and co-holder of the 100-yard world record of 9.9, set the old mark of 10.3 earlier this year at Gainesville, Fla. In the 200-meter event he took first place with a time of 20.3, a tenth of a second off the national high school mark.

Houston names coach

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Tom Teletz, UCLA assistant track coach, has been named head track and field coach at the University of Houston. It was announced Saturday by the athletic directors at each school.

Deacons win again

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Wake Forest won its 10th consecutive Atlantic Coast Conference golf championship Saturday by defeating Clemson-Parker-Moore-Look top individual honors by firing his second straight four-over-par 68 to edge defending champion Curtis Strange of Wake Forest. Wake Forest's five-man team finished with a three-day total of 1264 on the 6,610-yard Lakes course at North Ridge Country Club. The Deacons, finishing up 16-under-par on the par 2 course, were 30 strokes ahead of second-place Maryland.

Breaks prep record

BOZEMAN, Ore. (UPI) — Bob McChesney of South Eugene High School ran the 5,000 meters in 14:13.3 Saturday, more than a full second faster than the national record for a high school junior. McChesney ran third in an open 5,000-meter race preliminary to the University of Oregon-Washington State Pacific 8 track and field meet.

Former UO runner Paul Gels and Mike Long, now competing for Oregon Track Club came in 1:2 ahead of McChesney in 14:07.7 and 14:09.2. The national prep record for Juniors of 14:14.6 was held by Craig Vergin, now at the University of Illinois, and Alberto Salazar, now a high school senior in Connecticut. In two other preliminary open events Scott Daggett, formerly of UO, won the 800 meters in 1:50.6 and Pete Squires of the New York Athletic Club, won the 1,500 meters in 3:49.3.

Tyson sidelined

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals, Saturday announced second baseman Mike Tyson has been placed on the 15-day disabled list as of Friday. Tyson has not played since he suffered a thigh injury in the opening night game April 9 against the Chicago Cubs. He was injured when the Cubs' Bill Madlock slid hard into second base, breaking up a double play.

Bees delay game

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds-San Francisco national television game was delayed 35 minutes Saturday when thousands of bees swarmed the field, forcing Giant players to evacuate the dugout. The bees' target was the television camera located in a booth adjoining the Giant dugout. The Reds' ground crew spent some 30 minutes spraying water on the bees in an effort to drive them away. Foam-dispersing fire extinguishers also were put into use. Hundreds of fans, sitting behind the dugout, also tied their scarves, waving their hands in the air in an attempt to fight off the bees.

Starr encouraged with camp results

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Coach Earl Starr closed the Green Bay Packers spring camp Saturday encouraged by the results, especially the play of quarterback Lynn Dickey and his tight end choices, Mark Roncan and Mike McCoy. "We've had a great effort and tremendous enthusiasm, and when you have those ingredients, you have to be encouraged," said Starr. "We were extremely pleased with Mark Roncan and Mike McCoy. We felt they were all they were trumped up to be. They both came in with an excellent attitude and worked very hard." Starr's tight end choices, Roncan, a 6-foot-4, 268-pound offensive tackle, in the first round, and McCoy, a 5-11, 183-pound defensive back, in the third, both played at Colorado. "I was very much impressed with Lynn Dickey," Starr said. The Packers gave Houston quarterback Tom Braden, cornerback Ken Ellis and two draft choices for the second training camp. "I liked the way he ran our club," the coach said. "He made his presence felt there; he stepped right in and took over."

January fires 69 to open up five-shot lead for tourney of champions finale

CARLSBAD, Calif. (UPI) — Hubert Green was just leaving the press room at the $225,000 Tournament of Champions Saturday when 46-year-old Texan Don January, the five-shot leader after three rounds, slowly ambled in in no particular hurry. "Get that old guy a wheel chair," Green smiled. "If it's the same tomorrow, January retorted wryly, "I'll be able to buy my own wheelchair." The aging pro from Dallas, who looks his age and then some, notched a three-under-par 69 that allowed him to widen the gap from one shot after 54 holes in the Mutual of New York-sponsored event. "Naturally," January said, "I enjoy my position. This week I've tried to slow down the tempo of my swing by taking the club back longer." "It must be working. He's zeroing in on the second victory of his comeback. "The next time I quit, it'll be when I drop dead," he said. "The first time was voluntary. The next time will have to be non-voluntary." January won the PGA title in 1967 and ranked ninth on the tour's money list with $33,754 in 1963. But he made $69,034 last year for the best money showing of his life. "I think I play as well now as I did then," he remarked. "There's a lot more money to be made, too. The money is the big difference.

"I'm not playing any better, but I'm playing just as well, and all those years helped. I don't make as many mistakes as I used to." January, who retired from the tour for two years to build golf courses and then returned in 1975 when his money got tight, carded four birdies and a single bogey in the sunshine over the difficult La Costa Country Club layout. He has a 54-hole total of 206, eight under. He had a 67 for second place at 213 over Bruce Crampton, the dour Australian who is playing in pain because of a stress fracture of his ribs, and first-day leader Hubert Green. Crampton, who played in the same twosome with January, shot a 72 while Green, who mastered the wind and rain for his 69 Thursday, came in at 73.

Finishing a disappointing 33rd in the Masters last week. For three rounds, he has 13 birdies. Masters champion Raymond Floyd shot the second straight 70 and that moved him into a tie for eighth place at 218 behind Ben Crenshaw, 71, and Tom Watson and Art Wall, both 217. Floyd had a 73 Thursday. January, who switched to a Zebra putter before he posted his 11th career victory in Texas last year, needed just 30 putts in his round that pined him five shots ahead of the field of 22. He chipped a 15-foot putt on the second hole, knocked in a 12-footer on the fifth and went eight under par for the tournament with a 20-footer on the par four 333-yard eighth hole, all for birdies. "When he sank a 12-foot putt for a bird on the 10th, he was nice under. But he bogeyed the 104-yard 11th hole. He went nine-under again when he birdied the 12th, but took his second bogey when he missed a 37-foot putt on the 15th.

Scoring off baseline

RICHFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — Thurmond hit a pair of free throws to put the Cavs ahead to stay 31-3 with 5:22 left in the second period. The Cavs then outscored the Bullets 10-2 in the next five minutes.

Washington's offensive show suffered a jolt when sharp-shooting guard Dave Bing picked up his third personal foul with 3:09 left in the first period and finished with only four points. The Bullets cut to 17-10 at the end of the first half, topped the Cavs with 17 points.

The large and vocal crowd watched the Cavs put up a lead in defense and take a 2-1 lead in the seven-game playoff series. Game No. 4 is slated for Wednesday in Washington. The Cavs, who nipped the Bullets Thursday night on a last second basket by Smith, grabbed a 21-15 first period lead and Carr's not shooting gave Cleveland a 43-37 half-time lead. Eastwood clings to Tallahassee lead

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Bob Eastwood fired a twounder par 70 Saturday for a 208 total and led January, here by virtue of his playoff win over Larry Hanson in the San Antonio-Texas Open in October, shot previous rounds of 71 and 68 after all week and now is just trying to keep the momentum going. "I think switching to the old putter I used back in college really has made a difference. It just took me five years to realize my old putter was better for me. It has made me a good putter. I am now stroking the ball instead of hitting it." Mahaffey said he doesn't get upset with himself when he makes a bad shot. "I don't worry that I have won but once. I think a golfer reaches his peak between 26 and 36 years of age, and I won't be 28 for awhile yet."

Rookie Gary Koch had the day's second best score, 67, and held third place at 207. Veteran Ed Snodgrass is at 208 and Lynn Lott at 209. "I'm sure feels good to be leading the bunch," Eastwood smiled after his round. "A heckava lot better than where I was this time last year. Eastwood finished last at Tallahassee in 1975. "It sure would be nice to get that first win, which is the hardest, of course, but I'm not going to try anything special tomorrow. I'm just gonna play it hole by hole and hope whatever I shoot is good enough to win."

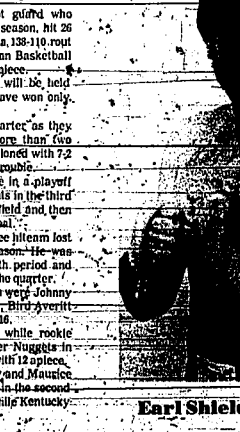

Arnold Palmer shot another even-par 72 and is seemingly out of it at one under 215. Palmer, playing Saturday with Chi-Chi Rodriguez, said he had hoped to get it moving. "I had a chance on the back side but when I hit a red ball shot on 17, it just wasn't there. I needed to hit a 130-yard shot on 18 to make that charge. "I think I'm just as aggressive as I was five years ago, but they just aren't falling like they were. I'm probably going to take a little time off soon...I've tried to play game back in shape, but it hasn't worked. I can't seem to get it all together and I won't play much now until the U.S. Open in June."

Kentucky trounces Denver in playoffs

DENVER (UPI) — Louis Dahpler, a 6-foot guard who averaged only 13 points per game in the regular season, hit 26 Saturday night to lead the Kentucky Colonels to a 138-112 rout over the Denver Nuggets and even their American Basketball Association semifinal playoff series at home game 4. The third game of the best-of-seven playoff will be held Monday at Freedholm Hall, where the Nuggets have won only three games in the past nine years. The Colonels began the rout in the second quarter as they jumped to a lead of 17 points with slightly more than two minutes before the half. Most of the lead was fashioned with 7.2 Arjile Gilmore sitting on the bench because of foul trouble. Dahpler, the only player in ABA history to be in a playoff series for nine straight years, scored 12 of his points in the third quarter. He missed his first two shots from the field and then went on to hit 11 straight, including a three-point goal. Nugget coach Larry Brown wasn't on hand to see Gilmore hit only his fourth game in his career this season. He was ejected with two technicals at 10:10 of the fourth period and Denver went on to rally as much as 60 points in the quarter. Gilmore's scoring in double figures for the Colonels were Johnny Neumann with 20 points in the first half, Bird Yvett with 20, Jim McDaniel with 15, and Gilmore with 16. Captain Dan Jazel led Denver with 24 points, while rookie forward David Thompson had 20. The only other Nuggets in double figures were Gus Gerard and Byron Beck with 12 apiece. Gilmore finished with seven fouls for Kentucky and Maurice Lucas, who was held in seven points, had six fouls in the second period. Denver hit only 46 per cent of its shots, while Kentucky connected on 15 or 24 for 65 per cent.

Earl Shields to headline Twin Falls boxing program

Earl Shields and Mark Knup of Twin Falls and Joey Keene of Boise will headline an amateur boxing card at O'Leary Junior high school gymnasium Saturday night. The 12-bout program features largely protégé of Magic Valley boxing Club Coach Bob Moran. Kraup, 165-pound International AAU novice champion, will take on Jim Croner of the Boise Vista lab in one of the highlights. But Shields and Keene are scheduled for the main events.

Shields, who may or may not be making his last appearance locally, will take on Eric Prosser, the 1975 Northern California amateur heavyweight champion. He weighs 193 against 192 1/2. Shields will meet Mike Starnoff of Pocatello in a 100-pound feature. "Shields, who six weeks ago suggested he had only one fight left in his amateur career, didn't repeat that idea Friday night. The regional AAU tournament is scheduled at the end of the month and I figure since I'm in good condition for this fight, might just as well go on to fight. Then the nationals will be in May and I'd like to qualify for that," he said. "But right now Shields is more interested in making a fight for Moran. "I suppose I owe Bill half my life," Shields said. "He's given me a lot of his own money and time training me and sending me to tournaments all over the country. I'd like to see a big tournament (Saturday night) and feel I'd done a little to help repay him." The lineup for the card includes: 75 pounds — Jesse Castro, Twin Falls, vs. Marck Croner, Pocatello. 120 pounds — Rusty Hostetter, Twin Falls, vs. Perry Sittz, Pocatello. 125 pounds — Jim Carole, Twin Falls, vs. Jim Hobart, Boise. 130 pounds — Al Abel, Boise, vs. Carlos Castro, Twin Falls. 147 pounds — Tommy Avey, Twin Falls, vs. Kenny Greyson, Pocatello. 165 pounds — Mark Knup, Twin Falls, vs. Mark Spilker, Boise. Croner, Boise. 165 pounds — Don Shields, Twin Falls, vs. Joe Dotsen, Marsing Job Corps. 210 pounds — Blessing Bird, Boise, vs. Paul Dillon, Pocatello. 132 pounds — Kit Chacon, Pocatello, vs. Louie Lopez, Boise. 130 — Pounds — Travis Pickering, Boise, vs. Dick Tolver, Pocatello. 200 pounds — Willie Daniels, Marsing, vs. Riscoe Jolley, Pocatello. 160 pounds (main event) — Joey Keene, Boise, vs. Mike McNabb, Pocatello. Light heavyweight (main event) — Earl Shields, Twin Falls, vs. Eric Prosser, Sacramento, Calif.

Glenns Ferry takes dual over Wendell

GLENN'S FERRY—Junior Tom Wicher and senior McAnulty brought Glenns Ferry's weight events to the fore in a dual meet with Wendell this week.

Wicher backed his previous best for the season of 160 with a loss of 164-65, and had four throws over 150 feet. That type of consistency was most pleasing to Coach, Bob Holliston.

McAnulty, one of two Glenns Ferry seniors, already the lead among A-3 and A-4 shotputters in the state, laced his mark to 40.92.

Glenns Ferry fairly well dominated the event as the Pilots scored 103 points against 42 for Wendell.

Don Sims picked up three individual victories for the Pilots while Chris Bickel again doubled in the distances.

Archibald, in the intermediate hurdles, and Trowbridge, in the 880, were the only Trojans to break Glenns Ferry's first-place dominance on the track.

Lutmer, pole vault, and Burke, long jump, got the other two Wendell decisions.

Team scoring — Glenns Ferry 115; Wendell 42.

Wicher — 160 lbs. W. Wicher, W. and Steve, G. 5 1/2

Steelhead crop of 1,250,000 assured

WENDELL—An estimated harvest of one and one-quarter million eggs already is in hand in the continuing battle to keep steelhead part of Idaho's wildlife scene.

Friday night at least 436 superintendents of the Niagara Snake hatchery, said. Friday night at least 436 superintendents had been taking at the Pahsimeroi weir and the ratio of females had slipped up to 67 per cent.

"We know there are some things going on here that we haven't counted and put in the holding ponds," Quidor said. "But right now it appears we will get as many or a few more eggs than last year."

So far the department has taken 853,000 eggs and the number of females ripening in the holding ponds should push that up to 1,250,000 estimate.

Quidor and the department are not estimating how much longer the run will last. Still, the success this far has been encouraging because this was the crop that was severely reduced by necrosis as fingerlings, the bulk of that crop destroyed to stamp out the plague.

The usual middle Snake River strain was replaced by eggs taken from the Dworshak hatchery on the Clearwater. That strain seems to be an early runner and for that reason, no one wants to estimate how much longer this year's run will last.

"Generally we think of from now until the end of the month as the peak of the run," Quidor said of the usual Snake River returns. "But these Clearwater steelhead started running in water temperatures lower than usual. We seldom had any upstream action when the water was 40 degrees or colder in past years. This year this strain started coming into the weir with the water temps at 38 degrees."

He added, however, he hoped the run would last the usual next four weeks.

Although the returns this year basically are one-year-in-the-ocean fish, they are running 24 to 25 inches in length. Some of the regular strain, head a year and one-half at the Pahsimeroi before being released, have returned and they also are in the 24 to 25-inch area.

On the other end of the program, Quidor said 1,200,000 smolts have been transported from his hatchery for release in the Pahsimeroi. That is a total of 187,000 pounds of steelhead. Daily hauls continue.

CSI bows to Lane, Mt. Hood in triangular track meet

BUGEN—Elite Community College dominated the field events and swept the high jump Friday to defeat CSI and Mt. Hood in a triangular track meet.

The meet, the second in three days for College of Southern Idaho, gave both Lane and CSI coaches a chance to start adding up the possibilities for the region 16 junior college championships.

CSI Coach Jim Blaisdell said the event went "pretty much as we expected. We knew that Lane was strong and I'd heard Mt. Hood was a good track team. They were. We had a couple of disappointments but some bright spots, too, so I suppose it evened out."

Mt. Hood, although an Oregon school, belongs to the Washington junior college conference, which is competing in the regionals early next month.

Coach Blaisdell said "all these teams up here are strong in the field events and they should put in on Lane's point totals there. But if (regionals) is going to be close. We might win it, we might not."

Lane ended the day with 60 points while Mt. Hood had 52 1/2, and CSI 51. Not helping CSI's effort was a dropped baton in the 400-yard relay. Lane won it in 43.3 against CSI's best of 42.2.

Mt. Hood also dropped the baton so the point totals could have been considerably closer.

Among the bright spots for CSI was a 4:24.1 time by fresh Lee Bomb-ripped off of 47.4 yard dash. Sophomore Neil McIntyre grabbed two wins for CSI, taking the 100 meters in 10.8 and the 200 meters in 21.5.

CSI's mile relay team qualified for a spot in the nationals by running the event in 3:46.2. It was the same alignment that grabbed second in the national indoor last month.

Team scoring — Lane 60; CSI 51; Mt. Hood 42 1/2.

100 yard dash — Lee Bomb, CSI 10.8; McIntyre, CSI 11.2; Hill, Mt. Hood 11.5.

200 yard dash — Lee Bomb, CSI 21.5; Hill, Mt. Hood 22.0; McIntyre, CSI 22.5.

400 yard dash — McIntyre, CSI 47.4; Hill, Mt. Hood 48.0; Bomb, CSI 48.5.

800 yard dash — McIntyre, CSI 1:35.0; Hill, Mt. Hood 1:36.0; Bomb, CSI 1:37.0.

1600 yard dash — McIntyre, CSI 3:10.0; Hill, Mt. Hood 3:11.0; Bomb, CSI 3:12.0.

3200 yard dash — McIntyre, CSI 6:20.0; Hill, Mt. Hood 6:21.0; Bomb, CSI 6:22.0.

5000 yard dash — McIntyre, CSI 16:00.0; Hill, Mt. Hood 16:01.0; Bomb, CSI 16:02.0.

10000 yard dash — McIntyre, CSI 32:00.0; Hill, Mt. Hood 32:01.0; Bomb, CSI 32:02.0.

20000 yard dash — McIntyre, CSI 64:00.0; Hill, Mt. Hood 64:01.0; Bomb, CSI 64:02.0.

40000 yard dash — McIntyre, CSI 128:00.0; Hill, Mt. Hood 128:01.0; Bomb, CSI 128:02.0.

80000 yard dash — McIntyre, CSI 256:00.0; Hill, Mt. Hood 256:01.0; Bomb, CSI 256:02.0.

A-2 and A-3 cage shuffle possible

Next spring's district basketball tournaments may be considerably changed if current reports circulating through Magic Valley are true.

The big differences will come in the A-2 and A-3 circles but the majority of the changes will be contingent on the state board allowing schools to "peel down." Always, before schools only could "ettian up" in competitive classification but there are those who say the current realignment of classifications by enrollment also allows peeling down in the "adjustment periods."

It is far certain that Filer will be in the A-2 ranks next year. There also are reports the Gooding and Wood River, both under the 400 mark but above the 350-A-3 breaking point, will ask to be placed in A-3.

If that is allowed, the A-2 district tournament will consist of Jerome and Bull — unless the state board does some district boundary realigning. Jerome and Bull could play a best of five for the title.

The A-3 would jump to nine teams and that would omit newcomers Westside and Grace, improving the lighting system and installing some creature comforts.

Mayor Paul Ostyn said the $20,000 probably would just cover new lighting around the infield, installation of dugouts down both baselines and sanitary and drinking fountain stations.

Hopefully, Ostyn said, the rest could come in the ensuing budget. But not even the mayor will hazard a guess on when adequate permanent seating can be expected.

Meanwhile, the Jaycee Park diamond is in excellent condition.

Renovation of Jaycee Park continues with the next fiscal budget including a $20,000 stipend for improving the lighting system and installing some creature comforts.

American league forges ahead with Toronto expansion plans

NEW YORK (UPI)—Washington and baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn were left out in the cold today after American League owners voted unanimously Friday to proceed with their plans to expand to Toronto.

Kuhn's authority was strongly challenged by the AL owners and AL President Lee MacPhail, who said he "disputed" the authority of the commissioner to retroactively interfere with (re-expansion to Toronto).

The AL voted March 26 to expand to Seattle and Toronto for next season, but a week later Kuhn blocked the proposed move to Toronto unless the league first lived up to a prior commitment to replace the Washington franchise which moved to Texas five years ago.

The AL submitted a compromise plan which would have scheduled a certain number of games in Washington next year, but Kuhn found the compromise unacceptable.

Although the American League does not recognize any obligation on its part or on the part of professional baseball to either place a franchise or replace a franchise, MacPhail said in a written statement, "in an effort to cooperate, the American League has offered to play a significant number of regular season games there in 1977."

This offer has apparently been turned down and is now withdrawn.

"Toronto is a permanent member of the American League," he has been directed by a unanimous vote of our league to proceed with our program to place a team and play an American League schedule of games in Toronto in 1977."

The National League, which came "1958" to sending the Giants to Toronto this season before now ownership was found to keep them in San Francisco is still interested in the "Canadian City as well as Washington."

"I have today advised all clubs that I am giving the National League two weeks to put into effect its proposed expansion plan for Washington and Toronto. Kuhn said he based his decision on baseball's longstanding promise that Washington would be given consideration in the event of expansion.

Shorter, Wohlhuter set meet marks during rain-plagued Kansas relays

By TRACY RINGOLSBY
UPI Sports Writer
LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — Frank Shorter, who won the marathon at the 1972 Olympics, and Rick Wohlhuter, 880-yard runner, Saturday set meet records in the 5,000 meter and 1,500 meter runs at the rained-out Kansas Relays.

Shorter, ranked second in the world in 10,000 meters, cut two seconds off the Relays record in the 5,000 meters and edged Columban Domingo Tibaduzza by just two-tenths of a second for the championship, winning in 14:17.2.

"Four years ago I couldn't have won this race," said Shorter, who plans to enter the 10,000 meters at the Olympics in Montreal this summer. "I feel I am getting faster and stronger and developing mentally as well as physically."

Wohlhuter won his third straight 1,500-meter run at the Kansas Relays with a blazing 1:38.62, four seconds better than the old meet record of 1:42.8 set by former world record holder Jim Ryan in 1968.

Meet records also were set by Texas Jim McGorick with 2:09.14 in the university college discus throw; Bill Knapold of Iowa with a high jump of 7-11; Randy Smith, unattached, with 8:33.68 in the 3000-meter steeplechase, and Terry Porter, unattached, and Larry Jesse of the Macabali Track Club, who both went 17-7 in the pole vault. Porter set the pole vault, which like the high jump was moved inside because of the weather, on fewer misses.

Eve Jennings of Mississippi State won the 400-meter dash in 1:45.33.

Preston runs fastest 200
LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — Arkansas State's Ed Preston ran a 20.2 to win the 200 meter dash at the Kansas Relays Saturday, easily the fastest time in the nation for the event according to Track and Field News statistics.

His 20.2 in the 200 was 3 off the American record and 4 off the world record of 19.8. Preston also won the 100-meter dash with a 10.1. Preston, unbeaten in nine races this year, has won two events at the Kansas Relays for two straight years.

Ed Preston of Arkansas State won the open 100-meter dash with a 10.13 and came back in the afternoon to take the 200-meter sprint... in 20.2 while Michael Bordell of the Pike's Peak Track Club won the open marathon with a 2:30:14.

In university college events, Scott Sorochik of Nebraska won the javelin with a 229-10; Kevin Sloan of Kansas State won the long jump with a 23-9; Anthony Coleman of Kansas won the 110-meter high hurdles in 13:88 and Mike McKee of Southern Illinois won the 100-meter dash in 10.17.

In an exhibition event, Theo Hamilton, formerly of Kansas, won the long jump with a leap of 26-0 1/2 and Wesley Smith of the Kilgore Track Club was second at 25-1.

The Texas Christian 340-yard relay team set a meet record with a time of 4:11 while Arkansas edged Kansas State by less than a second in the distance medley relay with a 9:40.26 but Kansas State came back to win the mile relay with a 7:28.14.

In other relay events, Kansas on the university mile relay with a 3:08.8 as Randy Benson ran a 46.2 on the last leg; Eastern Illinois won the college division mile run in 3:12.16; and Eastern New Mexico won the college division distance medley relay in 9:54.07.

Jan Howell of the Colorado Track Club won both the masters mile with a 4:37.0 and the masters 800-yard run in Kansas' Nolan Swannell, who two weeks ago turned in the world fastest 400-meter intermediate hurdle time of the year of 49.7 at the Texas Relays, was named outstanding athlete of the meet. He won the hurdles Friday with a meet record of 49.8 and finished first leg of the Kansas championship mile relay team Saturday.

College of Southern Idaho and Treasure Valley battled through four games in two days Friday and Saturday and wound up even.

Treasure Valley had a good Friday, sweeping the doubleheader 4-1 and 6-2 with the Eagles' bouncing back Saturday to claim 5-1 and 1-0 victories, the last one going nine innings.

CSI returns the visit to Ontario Tuesday holding a 4-2 lead in the season series. CSI came within a throwing error of taking three of the games, blowing the first one Friday with a pair of errors while luckless loser Randy Olson was trying to protect a 1-0 lead.

The Eagles picked up the lead when Jack Fandl appeared to try to check his swing but he still knocked the ball out of Jayce's park.

Olson struggled to protect that until two were out in the seventh (and last) inning. Then an error on a routine bouncer to shortstop led DeGo live. Olson walked Webb and Fetzer to load the bases and the tying run crossed the plate when Nielsen's bouncer to shortstop resulted in a throwing error.

Skinner and Nielsen lead their teams with singles.

In the second game, Skinner cracked a solo homer in the second and Aaronson added another in the third to send TVCC up 2-0. After Aaronson's blast, DeGo singled, Webb lived on an error and Skinner blasted his second homer of the game — a three-run shot. Not to be outdone, Aaronson belied his second homer of the game an inning later.

CSI got both its runs in the fourth when Bob DePasquale singled, Wimmer walked and Fandl plated both with a double.

It started looking like a CSI Saturday when McMannon opened the Eagles' half of the first inning with a homer. But the Chukars came back in the third to tie it at one on Kabeck's solo shot.

But in the sixth, Fandl led off with a homer and after Denny Trammell had singled, Doppler hit another round-tripper. Jeppson followed with a walk and eventually scored on a wild pitch.

The final was a tight pitchers duel with CSI's Billy Haynes and Stover, relieving in the sixth inning, gaining the 1-0 edge on four TVCC hurriers.

Fandl started the decisive ninth with a single and moved to third when Trammell's bouncer was error. He scored when Gilbert failed to sacrifice fly to centerfield.

Rankin hikes lead to seven strokes

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Judy Rankin carded a second straight round of 68 Saturday to take a seven-stroke lead into final round of the $80,000 LPGA Karsten-Ping Open.

Mrs. Rankin, making a bid for her third tournament win this year, finished 18 holes and a 10-hole playoff for the second round of four-under-par. The round over the 4,142-yard McCormick Ranch course was played under sunny skies after a cold, rainy first round Friday.

The closest challengers in Sunday's final round for the $14,000 first prize will be Sandra Haynie, Sandra Post and Carol Mann all with 36-hole totals of one-under-par 143. At even par were Jeanne Carter and Amy Alcott.

Sandra Palmer who entered the round in second place, two strokes behind Mrs. Rankin, soared to a 76 for a two-round total of 146, and Marlene Hagge who had a 71 Friday, also had a 76 in the second round.

The field was cut to 60 with the cutoff at 155.

Conditions were great today although there's still a lot of standing water. "Mrs. Rankin, who has won more than $42,000 this year, said, "The greens are in very good shape, a little fast but very true."

The 44-year-old veteran said she enjoyed her seven-stroke margin. "With a big lead, if you play a good round, no one is going to catch you," she said.

She said the double bogey on the par-four, 370 yard 13th water hole "brought me back to reality." She hit into a bunker and three-putted. She got the two shots back with an eight-foot birdie on the 15th and a 36-foot birdie putt on the 17th.

Mick Haynie scored a hole-in-one on the 170-yard No. 8 hole with an eight iron. The ball hit above the hole and rolled back in for her second ace in the last two tournaments and the third of her career.

Schmidt smashes four homers as Phils nip Cubs 18-16 in 10th

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mike Schmidt said he "was only trying to get a single" when he belted his fourth consecutive home run of the game to set a modern-day National League record, and lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 18-16 triumph over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

"I was only trying to get a single to get Dick Allen in scoring position," Schmidt said. "No, I was not trying to get a home run because I wanted to win this game."

Record holders

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies' Mike Schmidt set a modern-day National League record by hitting four home runs in a game, and only the fourth to do it consecutively. He was the first National League to hit four homers in a game since Willie...

"I've been off to a very slow start, if you can call less than 20 times at bat a slow start," Schmidt said. "The team has been in somewhat of a slump and I have been trying to figure out what I've been doing wrong. After all, a .167 batting average in the first four games was not anything to write home about."

It's kind of nice, but I'm one guy who doesn't think about records... Schmidt's third consecutive homer in the eighth inning off losing pitcher Darold Knowles, a three-run shot, carried some 450 feet from the plate. "It was a fastball over the plate," Schmidt said. In the 10th inning, Schmidt hit a high-inning homer...

The speedy Gaelic Christian went to the front at the start and was followed by Double Descent and an Act with Shoemaker quickly moving up to close to the leaders. It was mid-way down the backstretch when an Act got the lead, but Crystal Water moved up to third position and took aim on the frontrunner going into the final turn.

ISU wins all-Idaho meet; Bond leads CSI to fourth

BOISE — Idaho State took the team championship in the all-Idaho track meet Saturday while frosh Leo Bond led CSI to fourth place.

Idaho State finished the day with 162 points, followed by Boise State at 145, Idaho State at 137, CSI 119, Ricks 29, NNC 14, North Idaho 9 1/2, and College of Idaho 6.

"We couldn't be disappointed over our showing," said CSI Coach Jim Blaisdell after the meet. "We only entered five or six events and it was our third meet in four days. We didn't get to Boise (from a triangular in Eugene Friday afternoon) until 4 a.m. Saturday and had to be up by 3 a.m. for breakfast. But the Eagles also had a couple of highlights. Not the least was the 47.5 quartet mile clocking by Bond to account for the Golden Eagles' only event victory."

"Leo's starting to get in shape. His legs are healthy now and everytime out he's running a little better. I expect him to bust a 46 in the next meet or two," Coach Blaisdell said.

The mile relay also was good battle between CSI and Idaho State. Kevin Blaisdell got the Eagles off to a lead with a 49.6 opening leg and Alan Moses, although dropping to third at one point, kept it there with a 48.5. Neal McIntyre's 49.8 third leg coupled with a poor handoff — left the Eagles behind ISU about 10 yards.

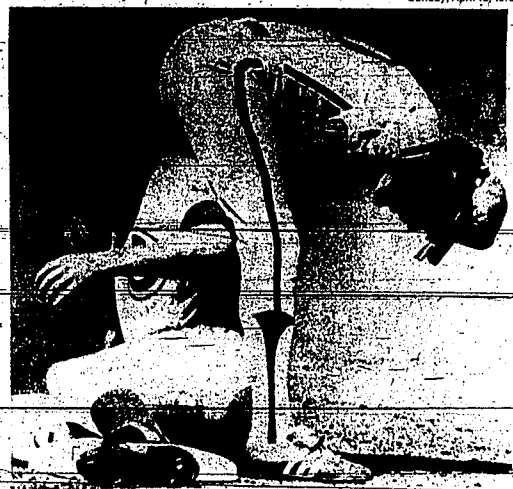

Bond then charged up the backstretch to challenge at the second curve. The two men ran shoulder-to-shoulder until the final yards when ISU pulled into a three-tenths of a second win at 3:15.6.

"The boys really didn't want to run it (the mile relay) but I told them this was a good chance to run against some real good competition. We had two poor handoffs, the first and third one, where we had to take a couple-three swipes with the baton to get it to the next man. But it was exciting," Blaisdell said.

Coach Blaisdell also was happy with the fifth place showing of John Hunter in the steeplechase. "He ran an excellent time for the third time in four days," the coach said.

"CSI will take some individuals to a meet at Pocatello next week against Idaho State, BYU and Weber State. On May 1, CSI will run at home for the first time in its history, entertaining Northwest Nazarene and Ricks."

49ers fill exhibition exhibition calendar

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers completed their six-game National Football League preseason schedule Saturday with the announcement that they will meet two conference champions: the cross-city Oakland Raiders and Los Angeles Rams.

The 49ers, under new head coach Monte Clark, will open the preseason slate Aug. 1 against the expansion Seattle Seahawks in Seattle. San Francisco will then play at home Aug. 8 and 15 against Denver and Kansas City before traveling to Honolulu Aug. 22 to face the San Diego Chargers. Oakland will visit Candlestick Park Aug. 29 and the 49ers round out their schedule Sept. 4 in Los Angeles against the Rams.

Clark also announced two pre-training camp orientation programs for the first rookies and free agents and the second for veterans.

The first group will assemble at the 49ers' regular season training headquarters at Redwood City, Calif., April 29 for a three-day session which will include physical examinations, strength, speed, endurance and agility tests and an introduction to the terminology and teaching techniques to be employed by the new coaching staff.

"It will also be a time of getting to know each other," Clark said. "And it will give us a good measurement from which to gauge their progress between this initial session and the time they report for training camp in July."

The veterans' orientation program will follow the same basic pattern and will be held from May 6-8.

"This will not be an annual thing for the veterans," Clark added. "But it will give us added information we need to have. We feel it is necessary this year to bring the veterans and the new staff together before training camp actually begins since we are all starting out on a new project."

The 49ers also announced the additions of Fred Schybak as assistant trainer and Dick Daniels as scout.

Tax service vetoes Dolphin write-offs

MIAMI (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service has disputed $2.2 million in tax deductions taken for player depreciation by the Miami Dolphins. It was reported Saturday.

The Dolphins were believed to be one of several NFL teams involved in such a dispute as the result of a ruling involving the Atlanta Falcons, prohibiting depreciation of players for tax purposes.

An appeal of the Falcon ruling is pending in the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and the Dolphins had agreed to delay resolution of their case until that matter is settled.

The Miami News said the Dolphin case came to light in late 1976 — in Washington because William Frales, a part owner during the years in dispute, had since sold

Baseball season may generate billion dollars in business

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's decision March 18 to order baseball players to begin spring practice despite labor negotiations involving $1 billion — worth of business.

The decision affected the ball players, who will be paid in the neighborhood of $30 million this year; the ball clubs, whose net income is about $150 million to $175 million a year; the U.S. and state governments, which will receive millions of dollars in taxes.

It also concerned the $50 million concession business at ball parks, the $50 million television networks and advertising sales paid for broadcast rights, up to $8 million worth of air travel business and the $2 million worth of hotel team business.

Kuhn's order influenced the multimillion-dollar sporting goods business — and little guys like Richie Bennett, who makes his living carting team equipment to and from New York airports.

"Not only is baseball the national pastime, it is a big economic factor. Commissioner Kuhn's office estimates team income, including inflation factors, between $150 million and $175 million a year. That averages out to about $6 to $7 million per club."

Broadcasting magazine said the networks and local-regional broadcast media bid a record $50.6 million for radio and television broadcast rights to major league baseball for 1978.

ABC-TV and NBC-TV each signed four-year contracts to televise major league baseball — first time ever that two networks will televise. ABC-TV, according to Broadcasting magazine, bid about $50 million for four years of coverage while NBC-TV bid $43.3 million.

ABC advertising rates for its Monday night baseball will be $50,000 a minute; NBC's rates for Saturday games $45,000 per minute. After the regular season, ABC will charge $50,000 a minute for day games of the playoffs and $75,000 a minute for the night games.

NBC will air the World Series and will charge up to $13,000 a minute for their advertising time.

Television sources and Ed Street analysts such as Woodward Atorino, a media specialist for Smith Barney, Harris Upham, said the networks do not make large profits covering baseball and in many cases actually lose money.

"Why? Because it will cost ABC, for instance, somewhere in the neighborhood of $500,000 to televise each game, or a total of $8 million for the 16 games the network plans to air this season."

"They televise them for prestige and loss-leader purposes," Atorino said. The loss on the games leads to other and profitable ventures.

Jim Abernathy, an ABC vice president, said ABC "will just about break even on the 16 regular season night games we plan to air. Assuming there are eight games in the playoffs, we are going to make some pretty good bucks." He stressed the playoffs must go eight games, however, for the network to make money.

Local stations form regional networks and generate considerable advertising revenues by broadcasting magazine, there are approximately 650 radio stations and 227 television stations involved in airing major league baseball in the United States and Canada. An increasing share of this revenue is going to owners, according to Media Decisions magazine, and can spell the difference between a club profit or loss.

"The radio and industry sources say baseball concession business amounts to about $80 million a year. It is of tremendous significance to the teams — and to the kids doing the part-time work. In many cases, concession money is one difference between a club making a profit and reporting in red ink.

One veteran vending executive said the average fan spends about $2 a game. Take that figure and multiply it by the total attendance and you get an idea of what the concession business means."

Using that formula, fans spent $2.99 to $3.10 a game, $59,579,826 at the concession stands last year. The ball clubs get from 30 to 40 per cent of the gross, according to industry sources. Using the higher figure, the ball clubs received approximately $22,249,004 in 1975. The concession figures do not include parking fees or the breakup of monies from them.

Patek sparks Royal victory

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Fred Patek extended his hitting streak to six games Saturday night by capping a five-run first inning with a two-run double that carried the Kansas City Royals to a 5-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians in game called after 4 1/2 innings because of rain.

Cleveland starter Dennis Eckersley set himself up for first inning Kansas City blitz by walking Al Cowens and Amos Otis to open the game before giving up a run-scoring single to George Brett. John Mayberry then drew another walk and Hal McTear slapped a two-run single to knock out Eckersley and bring on reliever Rick Wallis.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bold Forbes set a stakes record and stamped himself as a strong challenger for Honest Pleasure in the Kentucky Derby by winning the $112,000 Wood Memorial Saturday by 4 1/2 lengths at Aqueduct.

Bold Forbes, owned by E. Rodriguez-Tizol and ridden by Puerto Rican jockey Angel Cordero, covered the 1 1/4 mile distance in 1:47 2/5, shattering the Wood Memorial record of 1:48 4/5 held by Bold Ruler and last year's Kentucky Derby winner Foolish Pleasure.

Having started his racing career in Puerto Rico, Bold Forbes has become the biggest favorite of the New York Latin community since Canonero 2nd and was made favorite at 2-5 by the crowd of 18,446 for an unseasonably warm, sunny day. Bold Forbes paid $2.80, $2.60 and $2.40, with 50-1 shot On the Sly finishing second and returning $13.40 and $5.40. Sonkisser paid $4.20 to show.

The victory was the sixth stakes triumph of Bold Forbes' career and increased the three-year-old colt's career earnings by $67,560 to $201,439.

Purchased as a $15,000-yearling, Bold Forbes entered the Wood with consecutive victories in the San Jacinto at Santa Anita and the Bay Shore, but it was questionable whether the speedy son of Irish Castle (Comey) Nell would be able to endure the 1 1/4-mile route.

His strong stretch run, in which he pulled away from his six opponents, had to leave trainer Laz Barrera more than just pleased.

Entremont Farms' Cojak broke out of the gate first with Sonkisser and Bold Forbes third entering the first turn. Coming out of the turn, however, Bold Forbes had gained the lead by two lengths over Sonkisser.

With a quarter mile to go, Sonkisser and the rest of the field made their run at the leader, but Bold Forbes had plenty of kick left and handily drew away.

The victory, only two months after a second-off Riva Ridge's Aqueduct track record of 1:47 for nine furlongs, definitely earned Bold Forbes a trip to Louisville and a matchup with honest Pleasure.

Balmak Stables' On the Sly also may have thrust himself into the derby picture with his surprising performance.

A nine-stakes winner, On the Sly edged Sonkisser by a neck for place money.

Elmendorf's Play the Red, also aiming for the Kentucky Derby, was fourth, with Cojak fifth, Lord Henri Bee sixth and Eustace last.

Improviser collects Pan-American 'cap

HALLANDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Elmendorf Stables' Improviser stalked the speedsters for a mile, then made his run in the last quarter to gain a narrow victory in the $144,800 Pan American Turf Handicap at Gulfstream Park Saturday.

Rated to perfection by jockey Jean Cruguet, Improviser was all out to hold off the stretch surge of longshot Green Room, ridden by Jeff Anderson, by a half length. Pampered Jabneh and jockey Craig Perret closed for third money, another seven lengths back, leaving the favored Lord Henham in fourth position in the 13-horse field.

Improviser, running the grueling one-and-one-half mile for the first time, finished in the good time of 2:28 3/5, one second off the track record. As third favorite of the crowd of 16,748, Improviser paid $12.20, $7.40 and $5.40 across the board.

Green Room, which ran as an entry with Anono, returned $11.20 and $7.80. Pampered Jabneh paid $8.80 for show.

Improviser, a four-year-old, Maryland-bred son of Speak John, earned 486,888, nearly double his previous earnings in 14 races. The colt is owned by Max Gluck.

Holman wins bowl title

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Marshall Holman, a 21-year-old third year pro-bowler from Medford, Ore., defeated top seeded Billy Hardwick, Louisville, Ky., 203-98 in the finals of the $125,000 Firestone Tourament of Champions Saturday and claimed the $25,000 first prize.

For Holman, competing in his first Firestone after winning two titles last year, it was a dream come true.

"When I was a youngster, I used to go to bed nights and dream about striking in the 10th frame against someone to win the Firestone," he said.

He did not strike in the 10th and did not need to in the close battle all the way against Hardwick, holder of 18 major titles including one in Toledo the prior Saturday. When Hardwick spared and struck in the 10th frame for 188, all Holman needed was a spare.

Coyotes blamed for lamb price

KIMBERLY Idaho (UPI) — An official of the National Woolgrowers Association charged today the consumer will be sharing his traditional lamb dinner with the nation's coyotes.

Larry Noh, Kimberly, predator-control chairman of the national organization, said the consumer could thank the politician in Washington, D.C., for not taking steps to control the coyote.

He said the kill of sheep and lambs by the coyote has resulted in the highest lamb prices in the history of the country.

A leg of lamb — "a traditional Easter favorite" — is at an all-time high price of nearly $2 a pound in the markets, "due in part to the large hike in the increasing coyote population is taking out of the country's lamb crop," Noh said.

He said the last complete government survey of sheep and lambs in the country was taken in 1974 when 2.5 percent of the breeding crop were destroyed.

"Things haven't got any better," he said, adding last year sheep numbers again dropped sharply and two lamb slaughter plants closed down for a lack of supply and retail

More wheat, barley, spuds

BOISE (UPI) — Gen. state farmers have indicated intentions of increasing their acreages of spring wheat, barley, potatoes, hay and corn but plan to plant less sugar, dry beans, dry peas, oats and mixed grains.

The Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said a survey April 1 showed the prospective plantings of spring wheat at 550,000 acres — up 12 per cent from last year. Barley plantings are at 890,000 acres or 11 per cent above the 1975 acreage and hay fields will total 1,350 acres or two per cent above last year.

All field corn is expected to total 168,000 acres — a five per cent increase.

"The expected total potato acreage in the state is 335,000 or three per cent above last year. The breakdown of the potato acreage includes 31,000 in southwest Idaho — a six per cent drop from 1975 — and 204,000 acres of a four per cent increase in the remainder of the state compared to last year.

Sugar beets are 11 per cent below the 1975 crop; commercial dry beans are nine per cent down; dry edible peas are down 28 per cent and mixed grain is declining by 29 per cent.

Australia urged to open doors

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz said today Australia may have to relax restrictions on American goods before the United States will open its door to more Australian beef and dairy products.

"When we are asked to open our borders, wider, the question arises about the restrictions which other countries have placed against us," Butz told stockmen during a visit to the Royal Easter Livestock Show.

Butz said American livestock interests hope to win permission to sell grain fed luxury-processed beef and cattle semen in Australia.

He told reporters later that he found a "willingness to discuss" relaxing the restrictions in both Australia and New Zealand.

Butter and Eggs

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bulk selling prices as reported by USDA:

Butter—prices paid delivery to Chicago unchanged: 93 score 90.50-91.00; 92 score 89.50-90.00; 90 score not established.

Eggs—prices paid to delivery weaker.

Prices to retailers (Grade A, in cartons delivered): extra large 59-61; large 57½-59½; mediums 49½-51.

Only 30 per cent of all wives worked in the mid-1950s but the figure has now sailed past 55 per cent, according to the Conference Board.

Trappers now practice their trade for stockmen

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — Trappers and hunters who in years past made a living from the wild animals of Idaho's wilderness have moved into the 20th Century by practicing their trade as a service to stockmen.

Rick Phillips of Teton, Idaho, is a district field assistant for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service working as a predatory animal hunter and trapper.

He is responsible for protecting the livestock from areas that takes in range land of eastern Idaho and parts of Wyoming.

Unlike trappers of old, Phillips and the 18 other men in Idaho, performing similar work do not collect a bounty on the animals they kill. Salaries are paid mostly by Idaho sheepmen through a special assessment based on the number of sheep in the state.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service reported more than 3,000 head of sheep and nearly 200 calves killed by coyotes in Idaho during fiscal year 1975. The market value of the animals was estimated at $146,000.

"At different times of year Phillips must contend with a variety of animals that kill stock. The Saw Mountain lions, bobcats and bears cause trouble sometimes but coyotes are the major problem.

Human testing set on vaccine

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first experimental batches of swine flu vaccine have been delivered to the Food and Drug Administration for testing on human volunteers will begin next week, the FDA said Friday.

The announcement followed President Ford's signature Thursday on a law setting up a $125 million program to inoculate 215 million Americans by fall and prevent a repetition of a 1918 flu epidemic.

About 23,000 doses of the vaccine from four manufacturers are now under refrigeration; the FDA said today, and testing involving three different levels of dosage will begin about the middle of next week.

The Farmer's Slice.

He gets the revenue from about 3 slices in a loaf of 18 slices. So very little of the retail food prices you pay gets back to the farmer.

In fact, there is only about 5 1/2¢ worth of wheat in a 35¢ one pound loaf. Much of the cost for bread goes for other things: Packaging, shipping and the middlemen between the farmer and the supermarket shelf. Added all up it accounts for 85% of the retail price.

On products with a high degree of processing, farmers receive very little of the retail cost. Even if wheat farmers gave their wheat away, a loaf of bread still would cost 29 1/2 cents.

The farmer's slice: It's not as big as it once was.

Faster growing, leaner beef cattle

Cattlemen challenge both US, unions on high costs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American National Cattlemen's Association has thrown down the gauntlet both to labor unions and the federal government, challenging them over government regulation and price controls.

ANCA passed a resolution at its recent national convention pledging efforts to improve the situation and inform the public about it.

"It is worried that as retail costs of beef continue to go up without increases in productivity in the distribution end of the industry, fewer consumers will be able to afford beef and the cattlemen will be caught in a cost-price squeeze."

ANCA has issued a background study as the basis for its campaign in which it attacks what it describes as unnecessary government regulation and union featherbedding.

The study cites the sort of things the "producers' group wants to do away with. ANCA President Vray Wincey says that because of them, productivity in some sectors of the industry actually has declined in recent years and costs to the public have been increased about $1.5 billion per year.

Among the union practices ANCA would like to see ended are such things as "limitations on the number of slabs a delivery truck can make in a day and requirements that two men be required on some delivery trucks."

In supermarkets ANCA attacked such restrictions as one in the Chicago area where the meat cutters union has forbidden the sale of fresh meat after 6 p.m.

More common restrictions are ones in which union rules forbid use of fully automated wrapping machinery and delivery of pre-cut meat to markets, forcing tons of bone and waste to be hauled to stores and then carted away again after the meat is cut.

The background study quotes an Agriculture Department task force report which concludes that retail beef costs could be shaved by a minimum of five cents a pound by use of pre-cut meat and other labor savings.

On the government side, ANCA cites the proliferation of government agencies in recent years and says there are 14 of them regulating the meat industry, often overlapping in their responsibilities and disagreeing on how plants should be run. Some of the regulation is duplicated at state and local level.

One typical example, according to ANCA, involved an Occupational Safety and Health Administration inspector requiring a cutting machine to be closed up for safety reasons but an Animal and Health Inspection Service inspector ordering it left open so he could see what was going on.

Others involve trucking regulations that forbid carriers to haul loads on return trips and a poorly regulated railroad system that keeps boxcars idle close to 90 percent of the time.

ANCA said that losses of productivity because of these examples "plus numerous other plants because government inspectors are not present, are paid for by the consumer in the long run."

"Most of the regulations are designed to give the public still more protection," the study says, "but if consumers were able to evaluate properly the cost-benefit relationships, they would begin to realize they are paying a high price for a small value."

ANCA says it will seek legislation to end proliferation and duplication of government regulation. It doesn't have a solution for ending union featherbedding beyond urging unions to be more responsible, but it does suggest that some work rules may be in jeopardy of trade and should be challenged in the courts.

Chianina cattle provide 'answer'

By KEN HODGE Times-News writer
MAGIC VALLEY — New government inspection standards, rising feed and production costs and lower market values for beef cattle are forcing many cattle growers to look for new answers.

The American Chianina Association has an answer: crossbreeding with Chianina cattle.

Chianina (pronounced koy-ay-nee-na) is an Italian breed of cattle noted for its long, lean, meaty carcasses. Its unassisted calving ability and its rapid growth rate which yields high weight-grain per pound of feed.

According to Bruce Biel, Murtagh, state director for the American Chianina Association, "I'm not saying that Chianina is the breed, but if a cattlemen is going to make money, he is going to have to change with the times. We are moving toward longer, leaner cattle for market."

"I think the breed of cattle will help the cattle industry out," Biel added. Richard E. Koonce of the "American Chianina Journal" writes that the Chianina breed leaves a definite stamp upon the offspring when crossbred. The breed, according to Koonce, is noted for its longer, taller and cleaner body type. They exhibit uniformity of depth, firmness of middle and structural correctness.

There overall body structure greatly aids the breed in calving time. The calves are long and tall at birth appearing much like young colts. In a Canadian sponsored test consisting of 338 calves sired by Chianina bulls, 88.6 per cent of the calves are born unassisted and 100 per cent assisted births were recorded by seven of the eleven test sites.

The really beneficial attributes of Chianina are realized after the calves are born, though. They respond to feed and management more than any other breed ever introduced to this continent. Chianina cattle grow rapidly, often gaining over 100 pounds per month.

In the Meat Animal Research Center test at Clay Center, Neb., Chianina-sired calves out of Angus and Hereford cows weighed an average of 20 pounds more at weaning than the calves of the other six breeds used in this specific program.

Chianina will play an important role in crossbreeding programs producing high performance cattle particularly in the areas of gain, feed efficiency and carcass suitability and desirability.

Chianina bulls sire commercial calves explosive in growth rate, thereby producing a maximum amount of weight per day of age. Chianina suitably fulfill this when mated to females of moderate size that produce enough milk to take advantage of the Chianina calf's tremendous growing potential.

"From weaning through slaughter Chianina-sired cattle continue their phenomenal growth rates. They can gain faster and more efficiently under present feedlot conditions than most other breeds of beef cattle."

A Nebraska feeder was extremely pleased with his first experience of feeding Chianina. He said, "We could weather the bad part (market) with Chianina. The other custom feeders were losing $50 a head. We were making $50 to $70 — just on the cost of gain factor."

Commenting further he added, "The rest of the cattle at the lot were gaining 2.4 pounds per day. The most. The Chianina gained over 4.00 pounds per day. The other calves' cost of gain was running as high as 60 cents per pound and ours was under 40 cents." Chianina cattle are more flexible in the feedlots, too. They can be marketed at traditional weights (1200 pounds live weight) or can be fed to heavier weights without any significant reduction in feed efficiency or rate of gain.

Chianina yield lean, meaty carcasses. Being perfectly designed for the recently implemented beef grading modifications, they consistently produce yield grade-1 and 2 (most desirable) carcasses of choice quality. The carcasses have minimal outside fat cover, yet Chianina meat is tender, juicy and tasty.

Housewives like lean, fine textured Chianina beef. Meat retailers appreciate the lack of waste, trimmings and yield of the carcasses.

Big, meaty percentage Chianina bulls have set the pace for weaning and yearling growth, both on farms and in bull test stations.

More sexually aggressive than other yearling bulls, many were tried by U.S. cattle raisers. Their verdict — the percentage Chianina bulls are the most active, athletic bulls ever turned out with cows. Their offspring calve unassisted and have an accelerated growth pattern.

In live and carcass competition Chianina steers have won grand championships at major livestock exhibitions in Louisville, Chicago, Denver, Fort Worth, Kansas City and Phoenix. Chianina steers furthermore have won prizes at a multitude of local, district and state fairs. The champion steers in 1975 and early 1976 have grossed their owners over $125,000 when sold at auction.

There are seven regions of the American Chianina Association in the United States," Biel said, "At different times of the year, they have a regional sale. That is where you take your better cattle to market to get premium pieces."

The demand for Chianina steers, both for the feedlot and in the showring, has buyers scouting the country for feeder calves. There are presently not enough feeder calves to supply the demand, according to Koonce.

Crossbreeding with Chianina, then, may be one answer to the cattlemen's woes. The lean, meaty carcasses, the unassisted calving, the rapid growth rates and the feed efficiency are desirable characteristics which can be introduced genetically to existing breeds of cattle. And in the face of inflated feed and production costs such qualities may help to make the cattle business more profitable for the American grower.

Farmers grow more corn

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American farmers are increasing corn acreage by 6.0 percent this year, strengthening the possibility of a second straight record crop which could hold down retail food prices, the Agriculture Department announced Thursday.

The department also said consumer grocery prices for the first half of this year may average 4.5 percent above a year ago instead of the previously forecast 6 percent.

The department's Crop Reporting Board said a survey of planned later plantings, indicated 82.7 million acres of corn would be planted this spring.

This is compared with plantings of 77.9 million acres last year, which yielded a record harvest of nearly 3.8 billion bushels.

But combined plantings for all livestock grains — corn, sorghum, oats and barley — are expected to total 128.5 million acres, up 3 percent or 3.6 million acres from 1975.

Carey given 'earth' book

BLAINE Soil Conservation District chairman Millard Meane, right, presents a booklet series on earth ecology to Arlen Dilworth, Carey elementary school teacher.

SCS gives booklet on ecology

HAILEY — Blaine County elementary students have been given booklets prepared by the Soil Conservation Society of America depicting the Earth's ecology throughout time.

The soil conservation district hopes the series of booklets will give children a better understanding of the planet.

Millard Meane, chairman of the Blaine SCD, Harvey Bickett and Betty Laverly, all members of the education and stewardship committee, made the presentation to Hemingway, Bellevue and Carey elementary schools.

Subjects covered include the use and misuse of land, the wonder of water, wildlife and their relationship to the land and man's part on earth.

Meane said the objective is to show the school children how to care for the land now and in the future. "If we can build an awareness of our environment in our youngsters, every inhabitant of our planet, both human and animal, can benefit," he said.

Firm gains

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Gannett Co., the newspaper publishing concern, had a 27 per cent gain in earnings for the first quarter to $86.5 million or 40 cents a share from $68 million or 32 cents a share a year ago.

Revenues rose to $91.9 million from $79.95 million. Chairman Paul Miller said advertising lineage in the 33

Gannett dailies was up 3 per cent from a year ago. Gannett also had a 3 per cent rise in Sunday circulation, resulting from adding Sunday editions in Burlington, Vt., and Lafayette, Ind.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, APRIL 18, 1976
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Some changes which you do not like should be made now and will lead to greater success in the future. Expand your social activities in the afternoon with congenials you enjoy.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You may be delayed at home in the morning, but later all goes smoothly. Try to understand the views of others.
AURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Your intuitive faculties are not working as well today as usual in the early part of the day, but they are more reliable later.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Others are in a poor mood in the morning so wait until the afternoon before dealing with them. You can turn annoyances into advantages now.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Carry through with the work ahead of you without expecting too much cooperation from others and accomplish a great deal.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Handle the duties that must be done early in the day so you will have time for entertaining good friends in the afternoon and evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you could make an issue of something trivial at home, a big ruckus could ensue. Show more understanding and all works out fine.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You get a message that could be disturbing but immediate action on it turns everything in your favor. Come to the aid of a loyal friend.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you get yourself into debt that you now regret, let it be a good lesson to you in the future. Don't lose your temper.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A past situation could be annoying so forget about it. Do now and later you will know how to solve it. Relax tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) No exciting dramatic today and thus no possible trouble. Learn more on the cooperative side of things.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care you don't commit yourself too heavily where monetary matters are concerned. Follow the advice of a good friend.

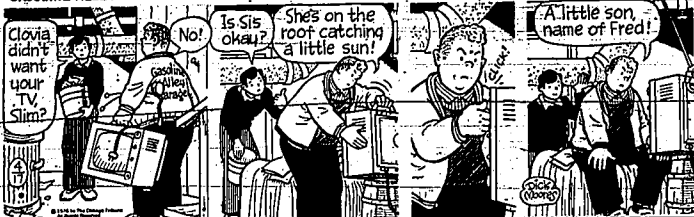

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) While outside affairs are not as well as you wish, it is best you are careful in the handling of career matters. Don't neglect pressing bills.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY - he or she will do well in the field of philosophical matters so be sure to give the finest education possible. Guide your progeny in the right directions with ethical and religious training early in life. Sports are a must here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel!" What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

"That eminent family physician Dr. Joseph Peck noted: 'In the small towns of our earlier days when automobile wrecks were not so commonplace, everybody on the street would follow the ambulance to the doctor's office. I made a rule that all the men should go outdoors before they fainted, and all the females hurry should put on gowns and get busy helping me clear up the mess. The female is much more durable than the male in gory situations.'"

Blind people who smoke cigarettes rarely inhale... it's reported. And they tend to smoke far more rapidly than do sighted smokers.

No, ordinary dandruff isn't contagious, not at all. A "Whisker of England's kings had leprosy!"

A. The Joplin kings were Henry III and Henry IV. The famous Robert Bruce of Scotland was a leper, too, incidentally.

There was this great block of marble. Inside it was an exquisite statue. All the sculptor had to do was carve away the little pieces which concealed the interior figure. Such was how Michelangelo explained his technique in carving his masterpiece "Night."

That liquor drinker with a real problem rarely reveals how much booze he actually puts away. So if you find yourself on the morning after announcing the world the number of ounces you gulped off the night before, that's a sign you're probably not a confirmed alcoholic. Or so says a medical specialist on addictions.

TO QUIET CHILDREN
 That dentist who wants to keep small children quiet in the chair ought to set up a movie projector to show cartoons on the ceiling, suggests a savvy Pennsylvanian.

Young fellow, would you care to retire at age 38? If you're 14 years old now, that may not be too unlikely. Some experts predict the average man will retire at age 38 by the year 2,000.

It's difficult to account for the fact that the divorce rate is lower among lady schoolteachers than among just about any other group of professional women.

Used to be the sawyers only could turn about half of the log into usable lumber. But now they're using some pretty fancy little pieces which concealed the interior figure. Such was how Michelangelo explained his technique in carving his masterpiece "Night."

Church leaders discuss future of religion pp. 6-9

Valley comment

QUESTION: Why do you think Idaho students have been declining in performance on various nationally standardized tests?

Jim Giannone, Buhl:

In middle America kids are disenchanted with the way schools are run. Instructors don't get enough pay to teach with any desire to communicate with the kids. The teachers are not personable enough. Students feel like just another piece of meat sitting in the chair. They don't have any desire to do well in school.

Emma Fetzer, Twin Falls:

Passing a course doesn't seem to take as much work as it used to. The educational system is not serious enough about getting students to perform. The students have too much time on their own. They seem to be out of school more than they are in school.

George Kelley, Buhl:

It doesn't do any good to teach people all those reading tests. I don't do them any good when they get out of school. Most kids know enough about reading and writing and math when they get out of elementary school to get by in this world, anyway. What good does all this education do you if you stop out and can't get a job? What you need is a trade. A lot of people running around with college degrees are digging ditches. Too many chiefs and not enough Indians.

Ray Delay, Twin Falls:

I don't know what the problem is now but when I graduated from an Idaho school in 1969, the curriculum was incomplete for today's society. We didn't have economic studies, or current events. Most of our text books were out of date. The state should appropriate more money for education. That is the only way to keep up with national standards.

Dan Obenchain, Twin Falls:

I don't have total confidence in the various forms of tests that they give our students. I think there are too many variables that can adversely affect or complement the results. Like, what is the student's attitude at the particular moment, what's on his mind. I think, ultimately our students, when they get out, can compete very well, even on a national scale. That's what we are after. Kids are not losing interest now, any more than before. Mrs. Ernest J. Piqua, Murtaugh.

Kathy Long, Twin Falls:

I didn't learn nothing. I learned how to type, that's all. And I can't even do that very well. I passed all my classes, but, you know, I didn't learn anything. I made Bs and Cs. I got good grades in math, but if I sat down to do a math problem now, I couldn't do it. Too many teachers just stand up there and tell you what you're supposed to learn, then walk off and if you don't learn it, that's your problem.

It seems to me like to begin with, the children are just not as interested in education as they used to be. Students used to be more settled down and there wasn't no dope in school. There is just too much dope and drinking in the schools. The kids are searching for something they can't find. They don't look forward to school and they don't go to church to find it. If more students had a faith in what they are doing and what it will mean to them in the future, I think the hope of our country in the world would be there. Bible teachers and parents are left out of it now and

Mrs. June Beresford, Bellevue:

From what little I know, it's the administrators who are at fault. If the kids aren't doing as well as they used to.

Alive and well

Religion is alive and well in Twin Falls. After a period when membership in local churches fell off, as it did nationally, Twin Falls people are enthusiastically rejoining in religious worship. Economic hardships and the Charismatic movement, which began in the late 60s are credited with bringing religion back to the people. Five local religious leaders speak of the meaning of religion today and its importance in the future.

Woman suffers abuse over newest hairdo

By ERMA BOMBECK

Remember the girl on television who sat around in her slip trying to get a comb through her hair (which looked like an unmade bed) and she never had dates and confided to her roommate, "I can't seem to beat the frizzes"? Well, it has just taken me three hours and $15 to get my hair to that state.

I can shake my head and nothing moves.

I could get sucked up in a tornado and there wouldn't be a hair out of place.

If someone stretched out a curl and let it go, the impact would knock me senseless.

It's called a poodle cut, and I haven't seen a hair style catch the fancy of women since Veronica Lake was willing to settle for 50 per cent vision.

Before all of you rush out and get your hair chopped off to within an inch of your head, let me warn you. This is not a hair style to be worn by the timid, the frail, or the coward. When you say goodbye to teased, plastic collifures and hairspray, you say hello to humiliation and abuse.

The first reaction to my poodle cut was uncollected for and uncollected for. A poodle bit me on the ankle.

My mother, upon seeing my hair for the first time, said nothing. Then she snapped her fingers and I was bleached. That I remind me—I've got to clean my oven Wednesday.

My husband viewed it and commented, "You look like one of the Marx Brothers."

"Which one—Harpo?"

"No, Karl," he said. "My children gazed at it, then sulked. When your hair looks like that you won't let us go to the store with you.

That's all right. Sticks and stones may break my bones... Pacesetters of hair styles—down through the ages have had to endure the slings and arrows of an unimaginative public. Remember Lady Godiva, whose long hair was boobyed by weirdos who lined the streets of Coventry?

There was Marie Antoinette, a "standing" who was never appreciated. She went through—pain—you wouldn't believe to make her hair look like an 8-terred cake and you know what finally happened to her.

And finally, there was the bravest trend-setter of all... St. Joan of Arc, who opted for a blow-and-go hair style rather than spend hours under a hot dryer.

NBC losing, gaining a few

NBC is canceling 10 shows and moving away somewhat from the traditional series form of TV presentation for the 1976-77 season.

The canceled shows, the loss of which will not cause any tears, are: six crime programs (Petrocelli, Ellery Queen, Joe Foster, Algwyn John, City of Angels and McCoy); two variety shows (The Rich Little Show and the Mac Davis Show); a truck driver adventure show (Movin' On) and a situation-comedy (The Dumpings). All these shows were in their first season except Petrocelli and Movin' On, both in their second.

The new big-ticket, non-series programs on the network's fall schedule are The Big Event, a Sunday night show that will range from angles to sports, and Best Sellers, a collection of multipart dramatizations of popular novels.

In network parlance, a series is a show in which the same main characters return week after week. Television executives have long believed that this type of show is the most successful because it builds a loyal audience of viewers who tune in weekly to see their familiar friends, such as Kojak or Archie Bunker.

But many series, including several on NBC, faltered this season while huge audiences turned in non-series "event" programs such as ABC's Rich Man, Poor Man and Winter Olympics coverage, CBS' "Halter Steller" and NBC's "World-Series coverage.

The Big Event normally will run for 90 minutes, but occasionally will expand to two, or even four hours.

Among its presentations will be the first television showing of the movie, "Gone With the Wind"; a four-hour, self-congratulatory special marking NBC's 50th anniversary on Nov. 21; and a dramatization of Arthur Halley's novel "The Money Changers," starring Kirk Douglas.

Best-sellers will be on for an hour every Thursday and will feature adaptations of from four to six novels over the course of the television season, with a varying number of episodes for each novel.

The novels already set for the program are "Captains and the Kings" by Taylor Caldwell, "Once an Eagle" by Anton Myrer, and "Evening in Byzantium" by Irwin Shaw, author of "Rich Man, Poor Man."

The network will have eight new series premiering next fall. They are:

Quest. The only Western on TV next season will star Ryan Reynolds and Tim Matheson as two young brothers searching for their sister who has been captured by Indians. — Gibbsville, Gig Young and John Garange will star in an adaptation of the John O'Hara short stories about newspaper reporters in a small Pennsylvania town during the Depression.

Fluorides draw blame

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

A couple years ago researchers in Florida noted that certain cuttings of foliage plants developed tip burn or yellowing while rooting.

It was noted that some plants are sensitive to fluoride, including chlorophyllum, dracaenas, marantas and yucca. Where did the fluoride come from? The air, soil, water, German peatmoss, superphosphate and a sterile rooting material known as perlite.

The "fluoride problem" was one which mainly affected commercial growers who root the foliage plants from cuttings by the thousands.

Word spread all over the country and the term "fluoride injury" is applied to every house plant that develops scorch or leaf burn, or any kind of symptom. Now due to this unwarranted publicity, when many home gardeners have plants that have a scorch or some kind of injury, they erroneously blame it on fluoride. In short, we've experienced a fluoride toxicity craze.

Perlite, the volcanic ash rooting material which is working so well for thousands of commercial growers and amateurs alike, has been accused of flaming plants, but this is not a fair accusation. Only a few plants are sensitive to fluoride, and even so this is when they are being propagated.

So, if your house plants aren't doing well, forget the fluoride. The biggest cause of what's more likely to cause scorch or tip burn. We'll name a few:

- (1) Drying out of soils. Probably the No. 1 cause.
- (2) Excess soluble salts (too much fertilizer).
- (3) Dry air (low humidity).
- (4) Leaves next to cold window panes.
- (5) Leaves exposed to hot sun, hot radiators, drafts.
- (6) Calcium deficiency, as with spider plants (Chlorophyllum).
- (7) Pesticide burn.
- (8) Disease organisms.
- (9) Cats chewing on tips of leaves.
- (10) People brushing against ferns, etc.

Perlite in a potting soil is perfectly safe. In fact, we recommend adding more to a potting soil because it improves air and water drainage, and has the ability to latch on to hot salts in solution and prevent roots from burning.

We wish all plant trouble were due to fluoride injury because it's the easiest thing in the world to correct. You add limestone to make the pH reading around 6 or 6.5. The fluoride is tied up so plants can't take it up.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if we could check this easily, diseases such as Alternaria, Ascochyta, Cephalosporium, Cercospora, Fusarium, Phytophthora, Rhizoctonia and dozens more which prey on your house plants?

Avian 'dirty trick'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — In the latest in a series of investigations into space launches and wildlife, a bird pulled a "dirty trick" on space technicians before the launch of the Saturn II satellite.

A technician entering through an access hatch on a spin room 15 hours before liftoff Friday noticed some "material" not called for in the specifications. At first, it was feared a bird might have become trapped inside the protective shield covering the spacecraft. But a closer examination revealed no bird — just bird droppings.

The hatch was cleaned up and the launch went on schedule, after officials determined the spacecraft was not contaminated.

The bird is only one of a number of creatures to cause problems for space agency personnel in the 26 years that rockets have been fired from the cape.

Years ago there was a woodpecker that pecked away at a rocket until the mission was canceled. A woodpecker was also found to have caused a change to lightning bolts away from the launch and area.

On one of the Saturn launches, security police found a small pond with sirens screaming to get out of the water. The sirens were rare pink birds —

They were feared the blast of the rocket might have killed them. The birds also had to contend with "rough" weather conditions and were also found to have caused a change to lightning bolts.

The alligator that decided to swim in the launch pool basin.

undertaking is to find trees that are 200 years old. How do you tell the age of a tree?

There's only one way — use an increment borer, an instrument which is screwed into the trunk. This takes out a core or plug of the wood and you count the annual rings to determine the age.

People who know nothing about trees may think that drilling a hole into the trunk is injurious. Have no fear. Let's explain how it works. First, the borer penetrates the bark (which is dead tissue), then it penetrates a living tissue called cambium — about one cell thick.

Then the borer reaches the woody structure of the tree, also dead tissue. Most plugs taken out are about the size of a lollypop stick, some half the size of a lead pencil.

As soon as the puncture is made, tree people will spray the small hole with a disinfectant, pound a hardwood dowel into the opening and saw it off flush with the bark. Within a year or so the tree grows around the puncture, and it's as good as ever.

Foresters have been using the increment borer to check the health of trees for years and the technique is perfectly safe. Some people will tell you they can tell the age of a tree by measuring the circumference. Don't believe this.

There are only two ways you can tell the age of a tree accurately: (1) Cut the tree down or (2) use an increment borer. The latter method is the best way to tell if a tree has reached a bicentennial age and still keep on growing.

WILTED DANDELION GREENS

If you want a good iron tonic try this: 2 qts of dandelion greens, 1 cup mild vinegar, 2 tablespoons of bacon fat and add 1 tsp. of salt. Wash greens thoroughly, cut finely with tappers, place greens in skillet and add bacon fat, vinegar and salt. Cover until greens are wilted, and then serve at once.

RED CABBAGE

If you want a cabbage to doll up your salads, grow a red cabbage. Any cabbage variety will do, but one which holds up well after harvesting. It stands up well in the garden without sprouting as some early varieties do.

Red Cae is an early red cabbage worth trying. Heads are well colored, medium-sized and tender. Start a few cabbage plants in Lily 7 pellets or Lily Pots.

BROWALLIA IN HANGING BASKETS

If you're looking for a flowering plant to grow in sun or shade, try the browallia. Browallia is fine for borders, beds, pots as well as hanging baskets. Note: If you use tobacco, be sure to wash your hands with soap and water before handling.

QUESTION BOX

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: D. F. of Twin Falls: "I know you've answered this question before, but I wish you'd settle an argument: I want to put in a water softener, but my husband says the water from it will kill the plants. Is that true?"

Yes, in most cases water from a mechanical softener does have a harmful effect on plant growth. As we've mentioned many times before, hard water is hard because it contains huge amounts of calcium and magnesium.

Softeners swap the calcium (which is harmless to plants) for sodium (which is harmful to plants). Some plants are more sensitive to sodium injury and will die from it.

Sodium is more harmful than calcium because it has a tendency to puddle the soil (make it sticky) or to use a college term "flocculate" it, leaving such a soil in poor physical condition. To add to this, sodium is taken up by the plants, forming a toxic substance. Our advice would be to have the softener in the hot water line only.

Many people who read this will say they use water plants with softened water have had no ill effects. However, sooner or later some of their plants can't. Will you please write and tell us how you feel about softened water on house plants?

R.F. of Halley: "We want to plant some shade trees and wonder if bare-rooted ones are as good as those that are balled and burlapped."

Bare root trees or shrubs have kept in cold storage all winter and should be planted in early spring, before the buds break out. Bare root stock is cheaper than balled and burlapped stock, but it has greater mortality rate.

No reason why you can't use bare rooted stock, with a few exceptions in planting. Strip the roots back 1/2 inch or so, to encourage the tree to develop roots to grow. Soak the roots in a pan of water for a few hours, and it won't do a bit of harm to add some liquid plant food to the solution.

If the tips have not been trimmed back, it's a good idea to cut the entire plant back 1/2 to compensate for root loss when plants were dug last fall.

Newly set roots or tips dry out or are exposed to sun or wind. If you can't plant immediately, keep the roots in moist burlap and keep in garage until planting time. Water thoroughly at planting time.

Youth approve federal response

By SCHOLASTIC MAGAZINES EDITORS

A 68-per-cent majority of junior and senior high school students surveyed in a nationwide poll feel the federal government responds at least moderately well to the needs of the people.

"I like the congressmen from around here," says Great Lincoln. 17, of South Wayne, Wis. "If you need something from the federal government, they'd try and help you." Classmate Dennis Bryce, also 17, adds: "Sen. William Proxmire... he goes along with what people want."

In the survey, taken by Scholastic Magazines, 20 per cent of about 20,000 respondents say the federal government — Congress, the White House, agencies and departments — is "very responsive," while 48 per cent think it is "moderately responsive," and 7 per cent say "not at all responsive." Girls seemed more favorable toward Washington than the boys were.

The students' positive view of the federal establishment contrasts with the widespread hostility young people felt during the Vietnam war years.

It also seems to be a less cynical view of the government than that held by the elders. According to pollsters and newsmen following this spring's primaries, many adults see the federal establishment as impersonal and indifferent to the needs of individual citizens.

Recently, Scholastic asked:

"In your opinion, how responsive is the federal government (including Congress, the White House, and the various agencies and departments) to the needs of the people?"

In follow-up telephone interviews, some of the highest praise for the government's agencies came from black students. In Gary, Ind., a 17-year-old black girl cites welfare payments, food stamps and federally funded summer jobs for teenagers as specific responses to people's needs.

	Boys	Girls	Total
	Per cent	Per cent	Per cent
A. Very responsive	20	20	20
B. Moderately responsive	45	53	48
C. Not particularly responsive	26	22	25
D. Not at all responsive	9	5	7

A. Very responsive
B. Moderately responsive
C. Not particularly responsive
D. Not at all responsive

"They're looking out for people," she says.

But even students with a generally positive view think Washington could do a better job of listening to the people. Lloyd McClendon, 17, also of Gary, Ind., says that even though the government is "trying to help... they're not relating to the people. Instead of finding out what's happening in a friendly way, government employees are looking at you with a suspicious eye. They're not trustful."

To Andrew McComas, 17, of Novi, Mich., the government's problem is not so much a lack of responsiveness as inefficiency. He concludes that the federal government would respond to his own demands, but "it wouldn't be too quick."

George Huse, Jr., 18, of Perryville, Mo., is even less optimistic. He feels people within government are "too busy playing politics in an effort to rise higher" in the bureaucracy. George also feels that "there's too much tiddling around with too much paperwork" instead of attending to people's needs.

He says that when he recently applied for admission to West Point, he had to fill in three identical sets of paper and put down his Social Security number four different times — "too much," he says.

But the biggest frustration for teenagers is the feeling that the federal government is too large for an individual to have an impact. To Bruce Currie, 16, of Texas, the federal government "is a big machine not paying very much attention. They wouldn't listen to me. I'm just one person."

Dan Bryce, 18, who lives in the suburbs of Chicago, feels that an individual stands little chance of influencing the government unless he is rich. "Money is everything. If you were rich they'd pay attention to you. Look at Frank Hearst. Look at all the things they're doing to get her off."

"But the average guy gets thrown away. Big government doesn't pay that much attention to him," Russell Richardson, Jr., 17, of Big Fork, Minn., voices the majority view. "We get the point across, but not all the time. They listen, but don't always implement what the people want."

Spayed, neutered animals solution

By LINDA MERRY DVM

Question: If you print this in your paper, it may be... "More?" column today. I read in the paper yesterday that the county pound—and shelter—in Oregon (where I live) gassed to death 1,204 cats and dogs last month. Only 10 animals found homes. How incredibly pathetic!

Yet people let their animals have litter after litter of unwanted puppies and kittens and then dump the whole litter at the pound to get rid of them. Don't they realize most of them end up on death row and will be destroyed? This necessary slaughter DOES EXIST and it's heart-breaking.

Get your animals spayed and neutered now. If you don't think it's necessary, take a tour of the pound and see all the pairs of eyes looking at you with hope. Call the Animal Birth Control League and your vet for spaying and neutering information. You're the animal's only hope.

Answer: This letter could have come from anywhere. U.S.A. Daily: thousands of animals are being killed (humanely and otherwise) because they have no homes and no hopes of homes. The owner for his dog's pups has only condemned an equal number of another animal's babies. There are simply not enough people to go around.

Scientists are working diligently on birth control devices and drugs which will eliminate the need for surgical neutering. But, until those solutions are found, surgical intervention is the best means we have for controlling pet population.

Religion in Valley not dead

By LINDALEE

Times-News writer

MAGIC VALLEY — Religion in the Magic Valley is experiencing a period of growth and development, in spite of the fact that nationally church attendance has been on the decline.

During the social revolt of the 60s, many young people left the church, feeling that it did not serve the demands of modern life.

Even in this somewhat isolated community the effects were felt.

Then as the 70s brought economic "hardtimes" — unemployment, high inflation — and a real disillusionment with government, people began returning to religion hoping to find a personal direction in the surrounding confusion, according to religious leaders in the area.

In the last two to four years, reports that their membership lists have more than doubled. In addition new churches have been organized.

The re-awakening of religious fervor was heralded in the late 60s by two movements.

One was known by the rise in what were called "Jesus Freaks." Large groups of young people, many former hippies, began spreading the word of God and Jesus.

They held huge rallies, a famous one was held in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas, Texas. At the same time, the Charismatic Movement within the church began. It was a spontaneous movement, beginning in many places and many denominations at the same time.

The charismatic experience brings about a renewal of faith and a rededication to the church. It is accompanied by evidences of the Holy Spirit such as speaking in tongues, healings, prophecies, miracles and other supernatural acts of God.

Whether the renewed sense of religion is brought by hardtimes or the charismatic experience, there is plenty of indications that faith has been reactivated in the Magic Valley.

From the two mysterious young people who held a meeting in the Hiawatha Hotel in Halley last month to tell of the U.F.O. which would come within the next 30 or 40 years to take believers to eternal life on another planet to the establishment of the Christian Center in Twin Falls or the doubling of the membership at the Episcopal Church of the Ascension in Twin Falls, it is clear that people here are seeking answers to the meaning of life.

Religion came to the Magic Valley with the pioneers. Established in 1842, it continued to spread until today there are over 200 churches representing about 40 different faiths.

The largest religious group in this area today are the Mormons and the Catholics. They have a majority in Twin Falls, Idaho.

of Magic Valley church members belong either to the Church of Jesus Christ — of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) or to one of the many protestant churches.

In the spring of 1879 in an area which is now known as Oakley, a group of 14 Mormons organized the first L.D.S. church.

Shortly thereafter, the first church of the Wood River Valley was built in Bellevue. It was a Presbyterian church had been organized. The Baptists organized the first church in Twin Falls in January 1868.

In that same year, the Methodists, the Presbyterians, the Mormons, the Episcopalians, the Christian Church and the Roman Catholics began holding services and building churches in Twin Falls.

Today many other faiths are represented in the Magic Valley. In addition to these Religious Science, the Church of Dutch Reform, the Burley Bible Hall, the Christian Center, and the Church of Twin Falls.

Five religious leaders in Twin Falls were asked to speak to the meaning of religion in the lives of people today. Here are their comments:

Rev. Albert E. Allen Episcopal Church of the Ascension

"I'm an optimist, not the

God's creation of the world which took six days.

As a charismatic priest, he does not speak in tongues, as do many charismatics, but he says, "I see a real joy in working for our Lord." He feels the Charismatic Movement which began in the late 60s had a profound effect on the Episcopal Church.

"The Episcopal church has been undergoing traumatic changes. The Book of Common Prayer which was last revised in 1928 is now being revised again. The church is trying to be communicative with the man in the pew."

"The church like the Sabbath was made for man not the other way around. The church keeping true to her lord has to adjust to meet the needs of man."

"The things that I've noticed over the years, from the 50s when church was the thing to do to the 60s, and the great put down of institutions, is that people in the 70s are moving into very positive relationships with the church. And the Church has made great changes, too.

Rev. Allen says that even though nationally there has been a tremendous drop in church membership since 1965, here in this parish church attendance and membership has more than doubled in the last two years.

Due to changes in the church school schedule, Rev. Allen says more youngsters are organized by R. W. Hill, a pioneer missionary.

After the founding of Twin Falls, churches proliferated rapidly in that town. According to the notes of S. J. Hamilton in "A Folk History of Twin Falls County," the town-site company granted a building site to every church group desiring to build, encouraging the building of churches.

Hamilton says, "The first Sunday school was held in the shade of the willows along Rock Creek, but before 1904 ended a Union Sunday school original settlers. They include Assembly of God, seven different denominations of the Baptist Church, Bible Missionary Church of the Brethren, Christian Science, Church of Christ, Church of God — Community, Jehovah's

Witness, Lutheran, Missionary, Nazarene, Pentecostal, Reorganized L.D.S., Salvation Army and Seventh Day Adventist.

There are many other lesser known religious groups that operate in the Magic Valley. Included are Bahai' Faith, the Mennonites, Wesleyans, kind that says 'God is in his heaven and all is right with the world,' but I believe 'In the beginning' is right now. It keeps me young. God's process is on going."

Rev. Allen says he believes people who accept that "God is the creator and sustainer of life" will have a secure base for their lives.

In his church, Rev. Allen preaches that the Garden of Eden can be accepted as an allegory. He points out to the people the similarity between Darwin's theory of evolution which is in six stages and spending more time in church. He says the kids are picked up after school one afternoon a week and are taken to church for their "Sunday school" lesson during the week rather than Sunday morning.

Before this change, he says, "We found that about 13 hours a year were spent by youngsters in worship at church school." Largely because this area has such fantastic outdoor recreation, many families are out of town on Sunday.

Now he says with the new system, 90 per cent of the kids spend 45 hours a year in worship or church school.

Rev. Allen also says he has reorganized the church school

Rev. Slagel, 275 to 350 people fill the sanctuary on an average Sunday morning, but he says on some occasions as many as 753 people have attended.

The Christian Center is non-denominational. "We are not here to fight doctrines or denominations, but to work with all people to find the answer in Christ. We are a fellowship of spirit rather than custom or religious law."

There are no prayer books and no membership lists. Their source of inspiration comes from the Bible.

Some families attend both the Christian Center and a denominational church. Rev. Slagel says the governing board of the church includes "The thing I've noticed over the years, from the 50s when the church was the thing to do, to the 60s, and the great pull-down of institutions, is that people in the 70s are moving into very positive relationships with the church. And the church has made great changes too.

lessons and his sermons so that all members of the family are learning similar lessons at the same time and can share their church experiences more effectively.

Technological innovations are another change in church. Video and audio tapes are now used to help communications in the church.

"If this or any other process aids in the communication of the gospel, the good news, then it ought to be used. I feel that our Lord used the best audio-visual aids possible — whatever was available."

"Anyone who comes into contact with Jesus is changed. When a life is changed, it becomes compelling to tell someone else. That is what the church is all about, having the religious experience and communicating it to others."

—Rev. Sheri Slagel
 Christian Center

The Christian Center, according to Rev. Slagel, is one of a kind. It is not formally affiliated with any other churches, either in Twin Falls or anywhere else.

—Rev. Dal Story founded the church in November, 1972. He was a charismatic religious leader. His church was begun because of the recent Charismatic Movement. He died in 1975 in an air crash.

The Christian Center members began work on their 800 capacity sanctuary in February, 1973. According to Catholics, Methodists, Presbyterians, Nazarenes and Mormons.

Rev. Slagel is a charismatic pastor. He speaks in tongues, as do other members of his congregation. But he emphasizes that the Holy Spirit within the person can be evidenced with or without speaking in tongues. It is not required of Christian Center members.

The charismatic experience is above all, Rev. Slagel says, the renewal of faith and rededication to the church.

"The greatest purpose of the Christian Center is through this renewal to provide a shifted effort of people seeking real answers to life beyond tradition."

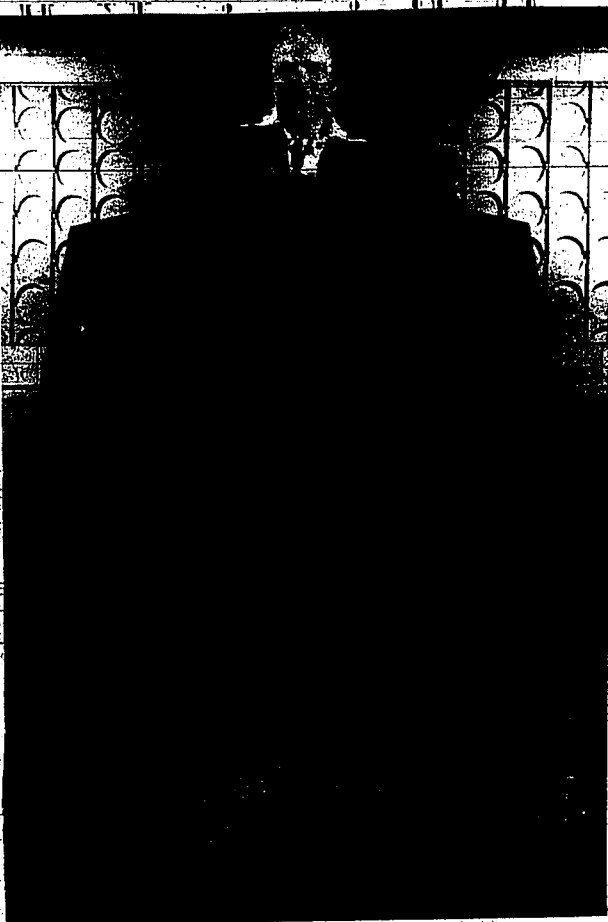

Rev. Slagel says he preaches a positive gospel — Christ in the inner man. He feels that in hard times such as people have experienced lately, the church grows because people find they can possess a supernatural strength and peace through Christ.

"I don't see an end to hard time. I think the movement toward Christ will not stop. I believe this is the culmination of the ages: the beginning of the end."

"We are coming to the end of what this creation on life was planned for — we are coming to the reign of Christ."

—Rev. Doreen Williams
 Religious Science

mind," Rev. Williams says. "It's a positive, creative thinking process of your own beliefs."

"There's one power. Call it God or universal consciousness or intelligent energy. We individualize it."

Rev. Williams says Religious Science is not so much a religion as a way of life. There are no dogmas or superstitions.

Religious Science was founded by Ernest Holmes in 1925. Rev. Willa attended the Religious Science School of Ministry in Los Angeles for three years, then moved to Twin Falls, her first assignment.

She started here in June, 1974 with 6 members. There are now 45 members. Most of the Twin Falls members came to Religious Science from other religions.

"They were tired of rummage sales, fund-raising, pot-luck suppers. They wanted a Sunday service for spiritual uplift — some spiritual communion to carry through the week."

Rev. Williams delivers sermons on Sunday mornings in the chapel at the Twin Falls "Y." She says it is an "up-church church."

Religious Science teaches that we are not subjugated by. (Continued on page 8) life, but are part of life. "There is one power, one truth, one essence, one reality. This power is greater than you are, but you are part of it," she says.

By your thinking you are creating your life. If you think about it and want it bad enough you'll probably get it, through a process of believing in yourself and the one power which you are part of."

Meditation and prayer are two very important aspects of Religious Science. Meditation, she says, can be done any way you want, as long as it is time alone, communing with yourself.

Prayer is a form of spiritual mind treatment. Rev.

Williams says it is a time for affirming and declaring our oneness with life.

"Sickness and ill-fortune are all due to man's negative thinking and all can be avoided through positive, creative thinking."

She says we can only blame ourselves if our lives are not in the state we want them. "I'm the world's most unsympathetic person. Giving sympathy doesn't help."

She tries to get people to realize that the "future is for them to realize. The only God that is within them."

"We don't try to change people, we just try to get them to realize the responsibility for the state of affairs is with the individual. The power for healing anything is in the mind of the individual."

Rev. Williams gives a science of mind class on Tuesdays to help people learn the creative thinking process.

Rev. Kenneth Rhoades, Bible Baptist Church

The Bible Baptist Church is a fundamentalist religion. Adherents to this faith believe in the literal word of the Bible.

According to Rev. Rhoades, fundamentalists believe that God created the heavens and the earth in 6 days and rested on the 7th. They believe that Jesus Christ the son of God will return to the earth, battle the forces of evil and set up a 1,000 year, on earth. After this reign those souls which have not accepted Him as their saviour will be cast into hell; and the saved will reign in heaven with Him.

"I believe the second coming of Jesus Christ is near," Rev.

Rev. Segel is a charismatic pastor.

He speaks in tongues, as do other members of his congregation. But he emphasizes that the Holy Spirit within a person can be evidenced with or without speaking in tongues.

The charismatic experience is above all . . . the renewal of faith and the dedication to the church.

Rhoades says, "but I wouldn't be foolish enough to put a date on it."

"Christianity means a personal relationship with Jesus Christ. I think everybody is religious. They have creeds of ethics and moral codes. Most people believe in God, but Christianity's different."

Religions that do not accept Jesus Christ as the God are cults, he says.

"If we have a personal relationship with Jesus Christ, the son of God, all powerful, all knowing, then Jesus will take care of all our needs. He will give us peace and victory and help us overcome trials and tribulations."

"The Bible does not promise me I won't have trials and tribulations, but it does promise victory in the midst of trials. Everything that happens to me happens for my own good, teaches me something."

Rev. Rhoades says he believes hard times make people realize that someone else rules the universe, brings people to the church. He says affluence brings about self-reliance, makes people think they are gods.

The Bible Baptist Church started 6 and a half years ago in Twin Falls with 10 members. Today Sunday morning services attract about 120 to 135 people. The membership list is over 200.

Rev. Rhoades says a lot of the new members have come from the ranks of the un saved. He says the Bible Baptist Church is very interested in reaching people who have not yet recognized Jesus Christ as their savior.

He feels that a lot of churches that have been losing membership over the past ten years are those churches that keep going through the same ritualism and formalism that they have done for years.

"We follow the Bible, our only source, and we have a hymnal." Churches need to teach that man is a sinner, that Jesus Christ died for our sins and that the only way to heaven is through Jesus Christ.

Rev. Rhoades says the charismatic movement so important in other religions today is of no importance to the Bible Baptist Church. He says he is not against science which he says is taught in schools as truth and the theory that it is because of this, he feels some young people have been led away from the church. "Spontaneous creation should be taught in schools as an alternative to the evolution theory. I'm not against science or research. Scientists study the world God created. They are in search of truth, but when they find it they will find God's truth."

Milo Price, Public Communication Director, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, Twin Falls, Twin Falls

West, Jerome, Richfield The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (L.D.S.) has one of the largest followings of any religion in the Magic Valley.

Milo Price says 19 per cent of the people in this area belong to the L.D.S. Church. He says other counts of the church membership are as high as 26 per cent of the Magic Valley population.

Latter Day Saints was founded as a religion in 1830 by Joseph Smith in the State of New York. Confused by the existing religious faiths of his day, young Smith sought guidance through prayer. God and Jesus Christ came to him in a vision and told him that if he proved worthy, the original church founded by Jesus Christ but lost from the earth through apostasy would be restored through him.

Some time later the Book of Mormon, a history of ancient civilizations in America and a record of the ministry of Jesus Christ in America after his crucifixion in the Holy Land, was revealed to Smith. This book was the basis for the L.D.S. religion.

According to Price, the church which evolved was a reconstruction of the original church, with 12 apostles, unpaid clergy, priest, teachers and elders.

David L. Carter, president of the Twin Falls stake, a governing body which oversees the many congregations in Twin Falls, says, "The church is a way of life, it does not just play a role in life."

"The family is the most important unit of the Mormon church. Couples can be joined together in marriage for eternity."

Joel Tate, president of the Twin Falls West stake, says, "The church does affect every home that will follow part or all of the teachings in a variety of forms. For example, all members are taught to abstain from tea, coffee, tobacco, and alcohol, and most members observe this."

"All families are encouraged to hold family home evenings once a week where the parents can teach their children to pray and to follow the teachings of the saviour."

"The Church does not change from day to day or year to year. People change only as they accept or reject truth. This principle will apply one hundred years from now."

"The attempt of crime in the nation, the attitude expressed by T. V. and other news media toward sex and our life should not change basic doctrines or what is acceptable by the Saviour. "Immortality is immortality no matter who smiles and says, 'Well times are changing.' Dishonesty is dishonest at any age or in any place, regardless of what our politicians may say."

"I can only hope that people will realize where the action really is and that in the building of God's kingdom here on earth and in our lives each person can eliminate crime, immorality, dishonesty, and other offenses against man and God from their own lives and then join a force for righteousness in developing through active leadership a youth capable of dealing with tomorrow's problems and in so doing prepare a generation to meet their God."

Prayer is a form of spiritual mind treatment. . . sickness and ill-fortune are all due to man's negative thinking and all can be avoided through positive, creative thinking. . . We can only blame ourselves if our lives are not in the state we want them . . .

The perm of tomorrow is here today.

If you're into the new, natural look in hair fashions you probably think perms are out for good. Not true!

Redken has created a system of perming without free ammonia (and its harsh results). Formulated for today's hair fashions, the Redken Trichoperm System uses protein polyphosphates and a low pH (close to your hair's natural pH). The combination of a low pH, no free ammonia, and protein polyphosphates results in a perm that cannot set harder, to match more natural looking.

The Redken Trichoperm™ System

If you want your hair to be as soft as the baby, no-look of yesterday's perms, you want the Redken Trichoperm System. Available in a formula specifically suited to every type of hair. Make an appointment for the perm of tomorrow today!

gossip column

By ROBIN ADAMS SLOAN

Q: I hear that Liza Minnelli and her husband are spending Liza's money as fast as she earns it. Wouldn't the specter of her late mother, Judy Garland, dying broke and in debt be an example to her? — T. D. Corpus Christi, Tex.

A: Your information is wrong. Liza's income has been invested carefully and she'll never have to worry about money for the rest of her life. As for her husband, Jack Haley Jr. — he's from one of the rich families of Hollywood. His father became a millionaire investing in California real estate.

... coming up the film

Q: We don't hear anything new about that romance between New York's Gov. Hugh Carey and Ford heiress Ann Ford Uzelli. Is that over? — E. T., Birmingham, Mich.

A: We think it's still a very viable romance—but the couple has some underground to avoid publicity. No more nightclub appearances unless necessary — just small dinners with discreet friends. Why all the secrecy? Well, maybe Carey wants to preserve the heart-tugging image of the brave widower in case he gets a call to the Democratic ticket this summer.

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: Why are some journalists wary of saying anything unflattering about actress Ann-Margret? We've heard that two reporters who were slightly critical received telephone threats to be careful about what they said or they'd be in deep trouble. Does Ann-Margret know she's such loyal supporters?

Q: What is the game of "throlf"? — D. V., Tempe, Ariz.

A: "Throlf" is sometimes called the slowest growing sport in the world. It is a passive thought up by fun-loving collegians spending vacation in Bermuda. The game consists of throwing a golf ball around the course instead of using clubs. Surprisingly enough, the latest world champion — New Englander Joe Flynn, gained his title with a score of 22, which is not bad even for straight golf.

"Throlf" rules allow a running toss for a drive but fairway throws are made with the feet in place. Don't laugh, players report that the strain on the arm is murderous.

Q: Are we going to find out that Truman Capote in his first movie role is as good an actor as he is a writer? — H. O. D., Brooklyn, N.Y.

A: No, you're definitely not going to find that out. An admittedly premature review of Capote's performance was "terrible, terrible, terrible."

Q: Will Britain's royal family do anything to punish that young Roddy Llewellyn who figured in the Princess Margaret-Lord Snowdon split? — U.M., Denver, Colo.

A: He certainly won't be welcome at the palace but otherwise we're sure the matter will be handled without crude personal reprisals. The rumor is, however, that Roddy's father, Col. Harry Llewellyn, who is president of the British Show Jumping Association, would indignantly be expected to gain a knighthood, has been stricken from the list.

Q: Can the Beatles possibly have turned down $50 million offered for a reunion concert? — A. L., Madison, Wis.

A: Paul McCartney seems to feel that when the price climbs to the stratosphere like that, it becomes a scandal rather than an offer. He feels the money simply tarnishes the idea of a reunion and makes it much too commercial.

McCartney believes that if the quartet were ever to reassemble again it will be for a really good cause or for some appealing musical reason but not just for money. Has anybody thought to mention the Bicen-

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: Why is publisher and TV talk show host William Buckley Jr. smiling? Perhaps because his recent novel, "Saving the Queen," which he dashed off in his spare time for the fun of it, has been topping "throlf" for several weeks on the best-seller lists.

The latter book, of course, was authored by the very literary Gore Vidal a long time job of Buckley. Once in a TV debate battling Bill threatened to punch Vidal in the mouth. But, beating him, if only briefly, in the literary sweetstakes must be an even sweeter revenge.

Q: What happened to Shirley MacLaine's idea to do a movie about aviatrix Amelia

JACK and LIZA
... plenty of money

Earhart? I remember her boyfriend, Pete Hamill, the writer, was collaborating with Shirley on the script. — G. E., Saint Louis, Mo.

A: Shirley's pressing job with this project and has raised about $3 million for the film which will get started this summer. Only trouble is she may get scooped by a TV version of the Earhart story planned for this fall.

... be careful what you say

Q: Is it true that your mood can be influenced by the ionization of the air around you? — J. G., Burlington, Vt.

A: Scientists have been telling us for a long time that an abundance of negative ions in the air is refreshing and can lift the spirits. This is the kind of feeling you sense after a thunderstorm.

Positive ions, on the other hand, can be depressing, as when the storm is approaching. Catalysts that produce the proper electrical numbers are being marketed.

Q: Does a person's IQ remain fixed or can it be raised? — R. R., Burlington, Vt.

A: Many studies give evidence that I-Q's can be improved with intensive instruction and now experiments with a new drug called Nootropyl show promising results on both laboratory animals and human subjects. Though testing has been limited, people given the drug have exhibited a definite increase in memory and problem-solving capabilities.

Q: Is Diane von Fustenberg expected to marry film executive, Barry Diller? — G. A., Elko, Nev.

A: Diane, now running her own multi-million dollar dress designing business, is doing so well on her own she may prefer to remain independent. So don't hold your breath waiting for a wedding. And furthermore, we understand that her estranged husband, Prince Egon, met Diller on a plane to Los Angeles and the two have become friends. Somehow that doesn't seem to advance the prospects of a marriage.

Q: Does Orson Wells have a daughter who is an actress? — D. B., Boca Raton, Fla.

A: Daughter Beatrice, 20, has tried just about everything else but acting. So far she has had brief flings as a model, journalist and housewife. Her latest career plan is to become an oceanographer and she has signed up for a four-year oceanography course from Oxford University in England. Can you swim, Bea?

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: Who is the latest well-known woman to do her bit for the liberation movement? None other than Margaret Truman, daughter of the late president, who is writing a book called "Women of Courage" about 12 American heroines.

According to the author, the book, which will be published in November, demonstrates that women can be every bit as selfless as men when it comes to displaying selfless bravery.

Q: Is there talk of reviving the old "Batman" TV series? — D. L., Omaha, Neb.

A: The lasting power of the "Batman" remains has again sparked speculation that the comedy series might be revived. But neither Adam West nor Burt Ward, who played the Batman and Robin parts in the original, is much interested.

West is still trying to make it in movies and Ward—who hasn't acted since the series quit, sees no reason for optimism. "I still make a little money appearing before kids in the old costume," says Ward, "but who is going to believe me at 30 as an aerobic teenager?"

Q: What are the reasons for all these rumors about a rift between Al MacGrav and Steve McQueen? — H. G., Ogden, Utah.

PAUL McCARTNEY
... music, vast money

A: Al is reportedly getting more and more restless as Steve becomes more and more reclusive. Only recently at an American Ballet Theatre performance in Los Angeles Steve stalked out in indignation. Al is estranged with Natalie Wood.

The next day he barely made it out to the airport to board the flight Al was on just moments before takeoff. Although there are difficulties, friends agree that McCartney would do anything not to lose Al.

Home lost over $28 unpaid bill

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Patricia Scoggin has given up her fight to hold on to her home, sold by the city 11 years ago because she was nearly four months late paying a $28 assessment.

Mrs. Scoggin, 44, a cocktail waitress, took her battle to the U.S. Supreme Court, which refused to hear her plea. Now she is suing the city of Portland in federal court for compensation for loss of the house.

The home, valued at $17,000, was sold by the city to State Construction Co. in 1965 for $229.44. Mrs. Scoggin said she was not informed of the sale until three years later when the city mailed her notice that the deed had been turned over to the construction firm.

Her story, as revealed in court proceedings, began when the city billed her $418.67 in 1959 for construction of a sidewalk. She and her husband were divorced in 1964 and the house was placed in her name.

"My ex-husband was paying the sidewalk payments," she said. "When we got divorced my folks paid off my home so I wouldn't have to make any house payments."

"I didn't even think of the sidewalk payments. If I had known about it—all that was due was $229—I would have gone right down and paid."

The city maintains that in 1965 it notified her it would sell the house to obtain a $28 installment less than four months delinquent.

The Oregon Supreme Court and the 9th U.S. Court of Appeals both ruled against her. She appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, which denied a hearing earlier this year.

Mrs. Scoggin said she still hopes for compensation.

"I raised my children there," she said.

Erisbee toss PE course

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI) — Students at the University of Iowa can earn one-half hour of college credit by throwing a Erisbee.

A course in Erisbee, the plastic saucer which has become a favorite pastime of many young people, is being taught through the physical education department's requirements in physical education skills.

The instructor says the course is serious, although the idea is to increase the enjoyment of playing Erisbee.
