Economy climb gaining speed

WASHINGTON — The economic upturn gained momentum in the first quarter of this year, with total production rising at an annual rate of 7.5 per cent, the Commerce Department reported Monday. At the same time, the inflation rate dropped sharply to 7.3 per cent, the smallest price increase for any quarter since the summer of 1972. The 7.5 per cent rise in production, measured in terms of "real" gross national product, was larger than most analysts had expected. It reflected a sharp rise in inventories. Real GNP — the volume of goods and services, produced, as distinct from the inflated dollar value — had increased at an annual rate of 5 per cent in the fourth quarter of last year and analysts generally had expected a similar advance in the January-March quarter of this year. The gain in the first quarter was the fifth consecutive increase in GNP following the end about a year ago of the worst recession since the great depression of the 1930s. Total output now has risen 6.9 per cent since the bottom of the recession, but still is a shade below the peak reached at the end of 1973, before the recession started. GNP rose at an annual rate of 3.3 per cent in the second quarter of 1975, as the economy started to pull out of the recession, then spurted at a 12 per cent rate in the third quarter before settling back to a 7.5 per cent rate in the fourth quarter of last year. The strong gain in the first quarter of this year, although the figures are only preliminary, indicates that total output this year will increase by more than the 6.2 per cent prediction of the Ford administration.

Administration officials recently have said privately that they were raising the internal forecast to about 6.5 per cent. Some economists expect a gain of about 7 per cent for the full year. Recovery from the recession is moving faster than the administration and most independent economists had expected. Beside strong gains in production, the unemployment rate has dropped from a peak of 6.9 per cent last May to 7.5 per cent in March, improving on most predictions. Inflation has also subsided more than anticipated. These favorable economic developments presumably are boosting President Ford's election chances and blunting the main campaign issue of the Democrats. The strong upturn also has reduced the enthusiasm of the Democratic Congress for big new spending programs to spur the economy. However, some economists still warn that the recovery may falter next year. The administration's basic policy, endorsed by the Federal Reserve Board, is intended to support a gradual, moderate upturn as the best way to avoid a new cycle of inflation and recession. Critics contend the cautious policies may not be adequate to reduce unemployment to acceptable levels. The big rise in GNP in the first quarter may heighten concern about a resurgence of inflation, although the inflation rate dropped to 3.7 per cent from 6.8 per cent in the fourth quarter of last year. These figures measure inflation by the so-called GNP price deflator, which is a broader yardstick than the more widely known indices of consumer and wholesale prices.

Court sets review of EPA waste rule

Arab slain in latest clash
JERICHO, Israel-occupied Jordan (UPI) — Israel troops killed one Arab and wounded three others today in breaking up demonstrations against a march by Jews who trekked across the occupied West Bank to dramatize their belief that all the Holy Land should be under Jewish rule. A military spokesman said a patrol came under attack from a rock-throwing crowd at Nablus, 28 miles north of Jericho, and warning shots wounded three persons, one of them fatally.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today agreed to review the powers of the Environmental Protection Agency to regulate waste discharges into the nation's rivers and streams. Eight major chemical companies challenged EPA's authority to set maximum levels of discharge for sulphuric acid plants. They argued that the agency could issue only broad guidelines — not the kind of specific nationwide maximum tolerance standards that have been laid down by EPA administrator Russell Train. Other issues include whether U.S. district courts or courts of appeal should review EPA regulations.

The Ford Motor Co. had argued that a 1966 law improperly permits an automaker to be fined while merely exercising his privilege to appeal a fine to court. But a lower court said a company can avoid this situation by bringing a separate legal action. In other actions, the court: — Agreed to examine federal court authority to order reinstatement of non-tenured public school teachers. — Refused to examine a 1974 government industry-union agreement aimed at curbing discrimination by race and sex in 73 per cent of the basic steel industry. — Refused to examine a decision that the president may not order a domestic organization wrapped up if it is neither a foreign agent nor collaborating with a foreign power. — Refused to give speedy attention to presidential candidate Morris K. Udall's efforts to get on the May 3 primary ballot in Indiana. — Agreed to decide whether states can enforce labeling laws that are stricter than federal standards.

Lebanese war halt steps set
BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Lebanese and Palestinian representatives agreed today on practical steps to halt the year-old Lebanese civil war.

In a case involving air pollution, the court rejected without comment claims by the Tennessee Valley Authority and private power companies that federal law permits use of cheaper but less effective means of cutting down sulfur dioxide emissions.

The justices also ruled in a brief order that auto manufacturers have no constitutional right to challenge safety recall orders without risk of fines.

Rhodesian guerrillas close road
SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — Black nationalist guerrillas shot and killed three South African whites and injured a woman in an attack staged on Rhodesia's main road link with South Africa, a security force statement said today.

The present master contract with Firestone, Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., R.F. Goodrich and Uniroyal covers 70,000 workers at 47 plants throughout the country and expires at midnight Tuesday.

Negotiations continued today in Cleveland with Firestone, Cincinnati with Goodyear, New York with Uniroyal and here with Goodrich. A news blackout was in effect.

India offers new Pakistan ties
NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — India has offered to resume diplomatic relations with Pakistan, broken during the bloody two-week war of 1971 that cost Pakistan its eastern wing, a foreign office spokesman said today.

UAW source said the union had information indicating that the auto plants did not have the stockpiles they said they had on hand.

General Motors Corp., Ford and Chrysler all indicated they would be able to continue production for about 30 days on most models if a strike did materialize.

Hearings on oil rig deaths set
NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Coast Guard hearings into the sinking last week of an oil rig in the Gulf of Mexico will kick 13 men open Wednesday, with survivors of the ordeal and marine inspectors high on the list of witnesses.

UAW source said the union had information indicating that the auto plants did not have the stockpiles they said they had on hand.

With sauce?

MANCHESTER, England (UPI) — A "mar burrito" into a Manchester shop Sunday, brandished a switchblade and laid up the owner for one order of fish-and-chips, worth $1.66. "I know potatoes are expensive," said shop owner John Thompson, "but this is ridiculous."

Teng target for Chinese

HONG KONG (UPI) — China called on millions of Red Guards, soldiers and ordinary citizens Monday to sharpen their pens for intensified denunciations of Teng Hsiao-ping, down and out but not yet utterly discredited. "We should pick up our pens as our knives and guns and concentrate on the criticism of Teng... and we should push the struggle to beat back the right deviationist wind," said the official Communist party newspaper People's Daily. "Teng, the loser in a power struggle with party ranker led by Chairman Mao Tse-tung, was purged of all his posts April 7 in the wake of the worst rioting in Peking in more than a quarter-century."

Church eyes 'miracle'

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — Saying he hopes only to make a "good showing," Sen. Frank Church said today it will take a "political miracle" for him to win his first presidential primary May 11 in Nebraska. Church, who started out on a campaign swing into Montana, Oregon and Nebraska, told a news conference his "life" might "take" the Democratic sweepstakes and the full ball in Nebraska make his first contest a tough one. With even Sens. Hubert Humphrey and Edward Kennedy on the ticket, he said, "it would be a political miracle for me to win." But Church said he hopes to gain momentum in the late spring primaries and become the "matinee idol of the closing days" of the campaign. He said he expects an open convention this summer and one that will turn to new leadership. Although he hopes to be the candidate to provide that leadership, he said he could accept any of the other Democratic candidates except Alameda Gov. George Wallace. "The effect of this (Wallace's) candidacy would be divisive in the land," he said. "It looks now as though Jimmy Carter has replaced Wallace as the candidate from the South." If the former Georgia governor continues to win, primaries, he said, he deserves the nomination.

"Millions upon millions of army men and civilians are indignantly denouncing the arch-representative capitalist rouser... and the handful of class enemies who created the counter-revolutionary riots," said People's Daily. But the newspaper indicated that supporters of Teng's more moderate approach to China's continuing revolution have not given up. "The class enemies have received heavy blows, but they will not be reconciled to their defeat," the People's Daily said. The New China News agency said "a vigorous new drive" was under way "to advance the criticism" of the former vice chairman of the Chinese Communist party, vice premier and acting chief of the armed forces general staff. Premier Hua Kuo-feng, the most prominent victor of the Mao-Teng conflict, met Monday with a delegation from Egypt seeking a new arms supplier to replace the Soviet Union. Huo and Chang Tsi-chien, a deputy chief of China's general staff, conferred with Egyptian Vice President Hosni Mubarak, six Egyptian generals and Cairo's minister for military production, CNCNA said. Diplomatic analysts specializing in Chinese affairs said the emphasis of the meeting undoubtedly was on military aid needed to fill the gap caused by a cutoff of Soviet assistance.

Tire makers set strike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The United Rubber Workers union Monday prepared to call a nationwide strike against the Big Four of the rubber industry and to institute a world-wide boycott of Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. products. The present master contract with Firestone, Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., R.F. Goodrich and Uniroyal covers 70,000 workers at 47 plants throughout the country and expires at midnight Tuesday. Negotiations continued today in Cleveland with Firestone, Cincinnati with Goodyear, New York with Uniroyal and here with Goodrich. A news blackout was in effect. UAW President Pete Bommario met here Saturday with about 60 top union officials from throughout the country in a strategy session. Bommario said following the meeting he had been given authorization to call a selected strike against one of the tire making firms or against all four and indicated that if a strike is called it would be against all four. "The tire industry outside of the rubber industry to be hit by a UAW strike would be auto production." UAW source said the union had information indicating that the auto plants did not have the stockpiles they said they had on hand. General Motors Corp., Ford and Chrysler all indicated they would be able to continue production for about 30 days on most models if a strike did materialize. "But that's not what we understand," said the UAW source. "We understand their stockpiles are pretty well depleted." Bommario said one of the reasons the boycott would be called against Firestone was that it supplied GM with 30 per cent of its tires and Ford with 20 per cent of that firm's tires. Bommario said he had the support of organized labor in the United States in the boycott and would get the support of labor in Europe later this month. March sales in the auto industry jumped 50 per cent over 1975 and were the best for any month since November 1973 when the Arab oil embargo was instituted.

Church backers head east

By BABY QUESSNELL Times News Writer
KETCHUM — A charter busload of 35 campaigners for Sen. Frank Church will leave Twin Falls tonight en route to Nebraska. Captained the "Church of Victory," bus the 35 volunteers will meet Sen. and Mrs. Church at Scottsbluff Tuesday. Betty Lavery, Ketchum, tour bus coordinator, along with Betty Hansen, Lewiston, said the tour will spread across Nebraska from west to east. Co-chairmen for the Church for President Committee, Roy and Sheila Truby, Boise, will be on the bus plus a scattered contingent from around Idaho. "The bus will meet another tour group from Nebraska to plot strategy for the Idaho senator's late starting campaign for the presidency." Supporters will cover Ogden, North Platte, Grand Island, Lincoln and Omaha on the trek and many small towns. All 35 are volunteers and making the trip at their own expense. The bus will return to Idaho April 25. A contingent of political pros will enter Nebraska May 6, according to Lavery for a "last minute" campaign for the May 11 primary. Nebraska, with a total population of 1.5 million people is basically a GOP stronghold, Lavery said. However, the Democrats in the state are excited about Church's president bid, she said. Jimmy Carter, a leading Democratic contender and winner of most of the primaries so far, has been in and out of the state several times in the last year, she said. Lavery said groups from Alaska, Colorado, California, New York and Washington, D.C., will be coming into the state soon to campaign for Church. "Joe McCarter, Corral, Nebraska state coordinator, Jean Taylor, former Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus' staff member, and Margo Tregoning, former north-Idaho legislator, are setting up the statewide campaign from the capital city of Lincoln. "The initial group of supporters in Nebraska have erected nearly 500 signs across the state. The Idaho contingent will be distributing literature, singing songs and traveling with Church wherever he makes political speeches along the trail. Mary Grace Cox, former Idaho legislator, is coming from Boise to join the tour. Lavery, a state legislator for 10 years, said "We have to look at Idaho, but first the president of the United States is there from the time of the election."

Idaho demos support Church

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — A statewide poll conducted by The Idaho Statesman shows that Idaho Democrats overwhelmingly support Sen. Frank Church's bid for the presidency, and President Ford leads over rival Ronald Reagan by a slim margin.

A copyrighted story in the Sunday Statesman said that Church had more support among poll participants than the combined backing of Jimmy Carter, the national front-runner, and the others in the seven-man field.

Telephone interviews were conducted last week with 699 primary voters in 28 of Idaho's 44 counties. Results showed that Gerald Ford had support from 51.4 per cent of the voters, with the remaining 47.6 per cent supporting Reagan.

Church was supported by 64.5 per cent of the voters, with 20 per cent of the participants indicating a preference for Carter. Other percentages among Democratic primary contenders were: George Wallace, 4.5; Hubert Humphrey, 4.0; Henry Jackson, 3.5; Morris Udall, 3.0; and Fred Harris, 0.5.

Andrus urges repeal

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus urged the Senate Friday to endorse legislation which has been introduced in Congress to repeal an act that could cost Idaho $36 million a year in Medicaid grants if permitted to stand.

Andrus said the law, which was passed last December, provides that states could lose up to ten per cent of their federal Medicaid money if they refuse to waive their constitutional protection against certain lawsuits.

The governor said the law was an example of the problems caused when rules and regulations change—the original intent of a law. "We find that after Congress enacts legislation creating programs intended to aid the people, that the administrators come up with rules and regulations that subvert the original intent, making it difficult to administer those programs."

Andrus told HEW Secretary David Mathews that state and local governments are outperforming the federal government in administering people programs.

The governor was speaking at a recent meeting with Mathews and representatives of the nation's county commissioners, mayors and state legislators in Denver. Andrus was representing the nation's governors in his capacity as chairman of the Human Resources Committee of the National Governors' Conference.

Symms cancels

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI) — Rep. Steve Symms said Friday he is cancelling his trip to speak before the European Parliament in Dublin next week to stay in Washington to work on pending legislation.

It is important to finish the legislation pending in the House agriculture and interior committees is of vital interest in our state. I feel it's necessary that I be in Washington in preparation for the mark-up on the BLM Organic Act, the extension of EPA's pesticide administration authority, and amendments to the Food Stamp program, Symms said.

Symms and 15 other members of the House of Representatives were invited to participate in the Dublin talks which will cover detente, agricultural trade, multinational corporations and Mediterranean problems.

The Idaho congressman was scheduled to give a speech on world food politics, but in his absence the text of the speech will be submitted for the record by the American delegation.

Energy plan failure stressed by Church

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (UPI) — Democratic presidential hopeful Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, says President Ford's energy policies have failed to lessen the nation's dependence on foreign oil.

"Ever since the Nixon administration declared Project Independence, we have become more and more dependent on foreign fuels," Church said Saturday during a campaign talk.

As chairman of the subcommittee which is charged with the responsibility of developing alternative energy sources, we have to prod the Ford Administration along every step of the way."

Church, speaking earlier in Denver, said he would like to see a change in present tax laws which favor earnings made overseas compared to those made in the United States.

"This costs the U.S. 150,000 jobs a year," he said. "It also encourages businessmen to invest overseas — one reason why we have the highest unemployment rate of any of our industrialized nations."

Church, who entered the crowded Democratic race last month, also said he would make a major announcement Monday during a five-minute national television address. He refused, however, to say what he would discuss except that it would have a three-part theme.

Distortions warp flu vaccine plan

Member of Audit Bureau of Circulation and UPI, Official City and County Newspaper pursuant to Section 60-108 Idaho Code...

Chicago Sun-Times WASHINGTON — When President Ford on March 24 announced a plan for universal vaccination of Americans against swine flu...

But Dr. Martin Goldfield of the New Jersey Health Department in Trenton, who isolated and identified the new "swine virus" at Ft. Dix, says that no such assurance as Ford gave can be made with certainty.

"Adverse reaction rates could vary from 1 per cent to 10 per cent over-all," Goldfield asserts. On a nationwide basis this translates to somewhere between 2 million and 32 million "sore arms" or worse.

"In small children," Goldfield goes on, "you could expect marked febrile (fever) reaction in 20 to 70 per cent of cases. That's what you want the biological cost would be. It is foolhardy to talk about immunization as an irreversible step."

Public health officials already have quietly abandoned Ford's announced goal of immunization for "every man, woman and child. Children below the age of 5 will not be vaccinated because of the reaction Goldfield spoke of. Persons with egg allergy will also be advised not to be vaccinated. Already these exclusions cut out several million persons.

The "biological cost" that Goldfield mentioned will be assessed some of the objectives of vaccination are set for late this month.

These trials, which under federal law must be successfully carried out before any vaccine is approved for general use, will take place at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, the National Institutes of Health just outside Washington, the Army Air Force Base in Denver, and the Influenza Research Center of Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Scientists at each place will organize volunteers into 13 squads of about 20 persons each. Companies capable of producing swine flu vaccine, Merck Sharp & Dohme, Merrell-National Laboratories, Wyeth Laboratories, and Parke-Davis — will supply the vaccines to be tested.

"The vaccines will be furnished in shots of identical volume (one-half cubic centimeter) but of different strengths," says a spokesman. "The first shot will be a placebo (dummy) shot, identical in appearance to all the others but containing no killed virus. This sets the stage for a classic 'double-blind' experiment in which neither the subject nor the administering the dose knows what is being given. The placebo group acts, in such a trial, as a control against which the experience of the real subjects can be measured.

Blood samples will be taken before the shots are given and again four weeks afterward. Comparison of antibody levels in the blood, before and after, will measure effectiveness of the various candidate vaccines. A follow-up look at the volunteers two days after vaccination will reveal the degree of reaction to the shot and thus measure safety.

As a result of these trials, by late May, one vaccine out of the 12 will be selected as the one to be mass-produced by all four manufacturers. Just how effective the resultant vaccine will be remains to be seen. Although most Americans over 50 carry circulating antibodies to the old Spanish-type flu in their blood, no one is believed to be resistant "any longer" to that virus. For practical purposes, then, the U.S. population can be said to be "virgin."

How effective are vaccines in protecting virgin population? That depends on whether they contain live virus (like the Sabin oral polio vaccine) or killed virus (like flu shots). Live virus vaccines have a theoretical effectiveness close to 100 per cent, and killed virus vaccine are up to 70-80 per cent effective, according to some public health officials. But in 1966, say one doctor who took part in a mass immunization of a truly virgin population, only about 70 per cent of a large group in the Marshall Islands got protection against the Hong Kong strain of influenza.

Some doctors in and out of government — Ralph Nader's health research aide Sidney M. Wolfe included — say they are worried about quality control and the possible danger of vaccine production. In an ordinary year, about 20 million doses of flu vaccine are produced; this year manufacturers are being asked to turn out 10 times that much.

At an "influenza workshop" Feb. 20 at the National Institutes of Health, the question of expanding production came under scrutiny. A warning came from a top scientist for one of the makers, Merck Sharp & Dohme.

"If you are going to make this vaccine," Dr. Maurice Hilleman said, "I think you have got to think simple. You try to use swine flu and use the simplest method probable for production, and that is to go back to the old days when we used the Sharpies centrifuge. You would have to relax the standards for limiting potency and pyrogenicity (ever-causing potential) and so forth that you worked so hard to produce."

"In summary, I would just say if the pandemic holds off until the fall of '76, if you could use an optimal ordinary pig flu virus, my conclusion would be that industry could crank out a helluva lot of vaccine by fall.

"But it is going to take a lot of heroics. There would have to be some very heroic decision-making very soon and it would have to be a heroic effort on the part of industry. It would have to be heroic dollar risks. It would have to be heroic public relations campaigns. And there would have to be heroic changes in the regulatory minutiae.

The industry has made it abundantly clear to the government that if there are to be "heroic dollar risks," somebody else will have to take them. That is the real genesis of the Ford request to Congress for $135 million — of which something close to 80 per cent will go for direct purchase of vaccine.

Dangerous virus

NEW A swine virus, radically different type mixed with viruses of the 1920's and 1930's, is shown as it appears when viewed through an electron microscope, magnified 132,000 times. (UPI)

"NOW WHAT??"

Hilleman's remarks about simple methods, relaxation of standards and heroic changes in "regulatory minutiae" — plus a warning that "there are needs for indemnification" (supposedly to hold industry harmless from lawsuits growing out of adverse vaccine reactions) — all added up in some minds to a "quick and dirty" approach to the production of 200-odd million doses of vaccine this year.

Assuming that the vaccine trials set for late this month go off well and a safe, effective vaccine is produced on time and in sufficient quantity, two questions of vital importance remain.

Question No. 1: If a need should arise for mass vaccination this fall, could it be carried out under the Ford formula of public-private cooperation and — without a great deal of regimentation — Goldfield says no, and marshals this argument.

Such of the effort would be in the hands of private physicians. In his own state of New Jersey, doctors would have to administer up to 200 shots a day, six days a week, for six weeks to get the job done. This is an impossibility, he insists even in New Jersey, which is better off than most states in respect of area-population and physician-patient ratios.

Goldfield and Wolfe see, additionally, another classic medical ripoff, with doctors charging their patients (or Medicaid and Medicare) for administering the shots even if they can't charge for the vaccine itself. "The whole thing is a nightmare," says Goldfield.

Question No. 2: Suppose, as Goldfield contends, there is no pandemic this year and suppose the government goes ahead with mass vaccination anyway. What would happen if swine flu hits with hurricane force in 1977-78?

In that case, Goldfield says, the vast preparedness of immunity from shots given in the fall of 1976 will have disappeared. This will leave the public as sitting ducks in 1977 unless another vast immunization program is organized and carried out.

Public reaction to a second alarm in as many years might be the same as that of the villagers in the fairy tale who heard the boy cry "wolf" once too often — in this event, it would be up to the creaky U.S. health-delivery system to attempt to cope with a medical disaster that could cost hundreds of thousands of lives.

A little light on the subject

War on flu not simple battle

A few weeks ago the Ford administration declared war on the swine flu. Everyone applauded.

Recalling vivid horror stories of the 1918 swine flu epidemic which killed thousands of Americans, Ford pledged $138 million to find a vaccine to prevent another outbreak of the flu this fall.

The nation breathed a sigh of relief. At last an example of the government responding to the needs of the people.

Not quite. Although $138 million sounds like a huge chunk of change, the anti-flu fund falls millions of dollars short of the amount needed to administer the vaccine to the American people.

Health officials estimate another 23 cents for every man, woman, and child in the country is needed to administer the vaccine. That figure assumes doctors will donate their time to give the shots, the states will receive the vaccine at no charge from the pharmaceutical companies, and that schools will be used to give the shots.

In Idaho this means a minimum of $160,000 will be needed to immunize against swine flu.

Even more alarming, perfection of the vaccine against swine flu will take at least six months, meaning production of the vaccine won't begin until late summer. Drug manufacturers now say they cannot possibly produce enough vaccine to immunize the entire nation by fall.

In other words, a substantial portion of the population won't get vaccinated in time to ward off the flu this winter.

Unless 60 per cent of the population is vaccinated against the flu, health officials say the immunization program will not successfully ward off widespread illness.

With these facts in mind the $138 million war against swine flu doesn't sound quite as good.

But don't panic. Only one case of swine flu has been isolated in the U.S. this year and no sign of a flu epidemic has surfaced anywhere else in the world.

The government cannot be faulted for taking early precautions against the swine flu but the war against the deadly bug will likely be lost unless better planning is done soon to make the $138 million vaccine effective.

Church spending more

A typographical error in a column written by Chris Peck in Sunday's Times-News incorrectly quoted the amount of money Sen. Frank Church is spending in the Nebraska primary.

Church is budgeting about $150,000 for the primary effort, not $15,000 as appeared in the column.

The Times-News regrets the error.

Tactical errors shake Carter supporters

WASHINGTON — The furor over "ethnic purity" has shaken key supporters and advisers of Jimmy Carter more than they admit because it recalls the specter of McGovernism.

To 1972 McGovern campaign veterans who dominate Carter's 1976 cadre in state after state, the self-inflicted wound brings back nightmare memories. Although George McGovern's reflexive liberalism was a major asset against any stalemate with even the racist overtones, his political ineptitude has recently resurfaced in Carter.

The "ethnic purity" problem when it is tactical, not substantive. Coming just when Carter had to resume his "offensive" for the presidential nomination, it knocked him back on a defensive, leaving him with a high in the political wilderness, his underdeveloped housing patterns. Carter's supporters, now question whether Carter and his Georgia-bred staff are truly capable of sustaining a presidential campaign.

Inept loser, his appeal disappears. This is why his single tertiary issue so damaged Carter. Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers (UAW), for weeks has been boosting Carter in various colloquies. When the UAW high command met last week in Detroit behind closed doors, the discussion was dominated by "ethnic purity." The result: Woodcock (believed certain) endorsed Carter for the May 18 Michigan primary.

UAW leaders were not the only liberals stopped dead in their tracks. One nationally prominent McGovernite, singing Carter's praises for weeks prior to expected endorsement, advised friends last weekend he is pulling back indefinitely. Texas liberal about to back Carter against favorite son Sen. Lloyd Bentsen are reconsidering. Black Democrats moving toward Carter in New Jersey have stopped dead.

These setbacks may be short-range, balanced by gains among ethnic voters in Pennsylvania's critical April 27 primary (thanks partly to Sen. Henry M. Jackson's incredibly ponderous and ill-tempered assaults on Carter). Nevertheless, this and other tactical errors by Carter and his staff pose long-range problems.

Tactical Error No. 1: In taking the perfectly scientific position that the federal government should not break up homogeneous neighborhoods (agreed to by Jackson and Rep. Morris Udall) — Carter in his now-notorious April 2 interview with the New York Daily News used the formulation "ethnic purity" with no advance preparation at all.

Tactical Error No. 2: Neither Carter nor his staff caught the inflammatory aspect of the phrase when it appeared in print April 4. When questioned about it throughout April 6, Carter did not back off — as he could have without any damage. Instead, he compounded the problem with another dangerous formulation — "gilt groups." Explanations by Carter in aidors that these phrases conform to Georgia's way of talking about racial problems only led Carter as a provincial politician.

Tactical Error No. 3: Responding to complaints from black politicians, Carter suddenly switched positions and endorsed the Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill — a seeming effort at appeasing the black vote. In fact, Carter had decided to switch when the bill was amended to his liking but failed to announce it when it might have been politically fruitful.

Even before these blunders, supporters had perceived a decline in Carter's earlier tactical mastery. He laid ground in the Wisconsin primary by permitting himself to be put on the defensive. At the moment the "ethnic purity" furor enveloped his campaign, Carter was being advised to resume the offensive by assailing Jackson and Udall for over-promising.

What has happened to the flawlessly structured campaign which brought the obscure Southern governor to the front of the huge Democratic pack? The answer privately given from within the campaign is the candidate's fatigue (though the recent lengthening leg of his campaign days and weeks in itself is a deterioration from previously moderate scheduling).

Beyond scheduling, the areas of "doubt" are raised about the Carter campaign. First, Carter's general staff, composed mainly of intimates new to national politics, may be inadequate in the "new phase" of his campaign following the initial breakthrough, usually plague, presidential campaigns, the Carter staff may lack the sophistication vital to win the presidency.

Second, when he departs from his carefully memorized answers, Jimmy Carter may partly share George McGovern's political insensitivity. His early blunder on mortgage tax deduction did no great damage. His gratuitous assault on Sen. Hubert Humphrey probably lost votes, though not a victory, in Wisconsin. But his bungled discussion of neighborhoods has, at the least, shaken the confidence of his supporters.

'Final Days' defended as 'basic reporting' job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Carl Bernstein and Robert Woodward, who uncovered the Watergate scandal, said Sunday their latest book about Richard M. Nixon's last days in office is "basic reporting" which might contain minor errors but is "the best obtainable version of the truth."

Infallibility. This is reporting, the best obtainable version of the truth a year and a half after the event... We are reporters, we make mistakes... But both authors emphasized that everything they wrote had been told to them by several sources and "the thrust of what's there" was true.

Fund shortages forcing cuts by Demo contenders

By United Press International Money makes the world go round, according to the old song, and the lack of it cripples political campaigns. In Pennsylvania, for instance, the Democratic presidential contenders are sitting on "Buddy, Can You Spare a Dime?" Morris Udall and Henry Jackson apparently are in weak financial positions, and Jimmy Carter has cut back his advertising plans in the state.

according to federal election commission financial reports. He has cancelled his chartered aircraft, and has been traveling on commercial flights and trains for the past week. Udall has sent out 35,000 pieces of mail asking for funds, but the success of that appeal could be limited since the contributors have already been solicited three or four times.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Environmental Protection Agency head Russell Train said Sunday he expects some "bad air alert situations" in the nation's capital as millions of tourists come this summer for the Bicentennial.

Air quality fell to "fair" levels Sunday, but a National Weather Service spokesman said it probably would rise Monday morning as commuters drive into the District of Columbia.

Troop morale boost sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It takes courageous, motivated, prepared and willing people to decide battles, says a Pentagon study which proposes steps to boost morale of U.S. troops.

The Defense Department's Manpower Commission prepared the study at the request of Congress two years ago. Published Sunday, it suggests some deterioration of U.S. troop morale, partly because top military leaders tend to flow service, men and women as impersonal statistics.

'Chorus Line' tops honors

NEW YORK (UPI) — "A Chorus Line," the story of what makes a dancer dance, won nine Tony Awards Sunday night, including best musical of the year. Tom Stoppard's "Travesties" won the 1976 award for best play.

The top award for best actor in a play went to John Wood for "Travesties," performed by Britain's Royal Shakespeare Company and closed after a relatively short run. Irene Worth won the Tony for best actress for her performance in "Sweet Bird of Youth."

Richard Burton won a special "Welcome Back to Broadway" medalion for his starring role in "Equus" by playwright Peter Shaffer.

Donna McKechnie of "A Chorus Line" won the award for best actress in a musical, and George Rose won the actor's award for his role in the revival of "My Fair Lady." Produced by Joseph Papp, "A Chorus Line" also won Tonys for best book, score, director in a musical, choreography, featured actor and actress in a musical, and lighting.

Ellis Rabb was named best director for "The Royal Family." The best actor award had been a close race between Wood and George C. Scott for "Death of a Salesman." Other nominees were Moses Gunn ("The Poison Tree") and Donald Sinden ("Hobbes Corpus").

Miss Worth was the favorite over Rosemary Harris ("The Royal Family") for best actress; dramatic performances usually have an edge over comedies. Others nominated were Tovah Feldshuh ("Yentl") and Lynn Redgrave ("Mrs. Warren's Profession").

Also nominated for best play were "First Breaze of Summer" by Leslie Lee, "Knock Knock" by Jules Falfer, "Lamposi Reunion" by Louis LaRusso II, and "Travesties" by Tom Stoppard.

The 50th annual presentation of the Tony Awards — given by the American Theatre Wing for excellence in the Broadway theater and named after the late Antoinette Perry — was shown on ABC television for the 10th straight year. Producer Alexander H. Cohen and writer Hilly Paris (Mrs. Cohen) once again concentrated on the entertainment side of the two-hour show, including Richard Burton and Trish van Devere.

Missing stockbroker contacts newspapers

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI) — Missing stockbroker Estel Blevins, sought in connection with a scheme to collect a $250,000 life insurance policy, claims he pretends to be dead to avoid underworld figures he fears might harm him.

Blevins, who indicated he planned to remain a fugitive, asked the Clearwater Sun to "make some sort of effort to protect my wife and family from the pressure of these people."

The Sun received an undated special-delivery letter from Blevins Saturday, postmarked Fort Mill, S.C. On that same day, the Chicago Tribune reported receiving a phone call from the Clearwater stockbroker.

In the letter, Blevins said, "I've done wrong and I know it, but answering to the law is not nearly as frightening to me as what will happen if I am found by the people I know."

"Please contact my wife and assist her. I've told her I would go to the police for help and she's more concerned for me than for herself."

"I don't know what to say or ask, but would you please make some sort of effort to protect my wife and family from the pressure of these people."

Add DST to Franklin's idea list

Chicago Sun-Times — Add Daylight Saving Time to the list of ideas that sprang from the fertile brain of Benjamin Franklin. But don't assume that the inventor-statesman had noble motives when he thought it up.

Franklin came up with DST, which will be back with us Sunday — because he was having trouble following his own "early to bed, early to rise" maxim.

first American minister to France, Franklin attended the share of parties at the court of King Louis XVI and Queen Mary Antoinette. Sometimes the revelry extended into the morning.

On waking one day after having partied late, the American found himself wishing the day included just one more hour of daylight. This could be accomplished, Franklin figured, simply by turning the clock ahead one hour — the whole idea behind Daylight Saving Time.

Franklin's idea didn't catch on until nearly 150 years later. During World War I, this country put DST into effect, cutting electric power consumption in war plants by adding an extra hour of daylight at the end of the workday.

But as recently as 1966, only 18 states were on Daylight Saving Time, with about 10 other states having the system in some form. So Congress made a law that took effect in 1967 that said any state that adopted DST must schedule it from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October.

Daylight Saving became the law across the country in 1971, in the middle of the energy crisis and in the middle of the winter.

TF library releases mini-reviews

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Public Library has released several mini-reviews. "The Young Person's Guide to Love" by Morton Hunt. This book deals with the emotional relationship known as love and all that is involved in it, including sex. The author seeks to give the young reader an understanding of the confusing emotions he or she may already be feeling; a clear idea of what lies ahead in the love relationships of adulthood, and an elementary familiarity with love's major variations and disorders. "Trinity" by Leon Uris. The trinity consists of the Larkin family of Ballylogan, generations of Catholic farmers in Donegal, fighting for survival against the harshness of the land, and the injustice of the regime.

"The Democrats" by Herbert Parmet. Will Rogers quipped, "I'm not a member of any organized political party. I'm a Democrat." Every informed and concerned Democrat and many Republicans as well, will want to read this important book. "In the three decades since FDR, the party ranks have swelled and encompass an uneasy alliance of differing, sometimes diametrically opposed groups, rich, poor, middle class, new generation reformers, organized labor, big city intellectuals, old-line backroom politicians and minority groups. The party is straining at the seams attempting to placate innumerable caeteris surrod dominant individuals in order to achieve a winning party.

AAUW plans officer elections Tuesday

TWIN FALLS — The American Association of University Women will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Phyllis Culver. Election of officers will highlight the business meeting. Members will vote on proposed constitutional amendments. Board members will present annual reports. Final plans for attending the state convention at Pocatello on April 29-May 1 will be discussed. Applications for the annual Elizabeth Peavey Scholarship are being accepted. The $200 scholarship is awarded to a College of Southern Idaho sophomore woman planning to continue her college education.

Conor Larkin is disquieted by the longings of his people for their freedom and his star-crossed affair with a Protestant girl. The hubbub, representing three centuries of British aristocracy, and the Mac-Cleods of Belfast, whose ancestors were planted in Ulster to secure the Crown's interest. This is the oil and water of the Irish epic that would never mix: a beautiful and terrible

Then, since East held all five spades and West all five hearts, he could never collect thirteen tricks. Had he stopped to think, he would have played the jack of spades from dummy. Then he would have been able to finesse twice against East's ten-nine. What was his third record?" Oswald: "The loudest squawk about bad luck I have ever heard."

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am nearly 13, and I have been reading your column since I was about 11. From the looks of the way married people hate each other, it makes me afraid to get married.

I don't think it would be very much fun to be grownup because they have so many problems like getting jobs, paying taxes and the whole political mess. I don't know what I am going to do when I get out of school, but I think I'd rather just spend my whole life in school than be an adult in a world like this one. People keep talking about peace and love, and all they do is go around hurting and killing each other.

What do you think I should do?

AFRAID TO GROW UP

Adult world looks 'bad'

DEAR ABBY: Grow up anyway. We need adults who are disappointed with a world filled with people who say they want peace but go around hurting and killing each other. And don't decide against marriage either. My column is a trouble dump. There are plenty of good marriages, but nobody ever writes to Dear Abby to tell me how happy he is.

DEAR ABBY: Is yawning a sign of physical fatigue? Or is it a sign of boredom?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: It can be either or both. It's usually an involuntary opening of the mouth when you wish others would shut theirs.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the distressed parent who was shocked at her daughter's "dishonesty and bad taste" in choosing to wear a white wedding gown when everybody knew she was to virgin provoked me into writing this.

My daughter is divorced, over 30, and no virgin either, but she is planning to be married soon, and she has chosen to wear a white gown. In fact, I am knitting it for her now, and couldn't be happier. I don't feel that my daughter is declaring herself a virgin by wearing white. She is declaring herself a bride. For that I am thankful. She could have chosen to live with her partner instead of marrying him.

ALL FOR WHITE IN VA.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

your health

Dear Dr. Tholeson: As I was reading your column the other day, reprinted again at the discovery of yet another set of symptoms I have thus far been spared, a thought occurred: you are in a marvelous position to provide an additional service to the public, and to physicians and pharmacists as well.

Would you kindly devote a column sometime soon to the medical reasons why refilling of prescriptions is limited by the law or by the prescriber?

As a retail pharmacist I find that I am constantly trying to convince my customers that the limitation on refills is for their own good. Sometimes I find that my concern for their health is not appreciated. They sometimes seem to regard the pharmacist as an unwitting collaborator in a physician-inspired scheme to "get the patient in for another visit" to enhance the doctor's financial security.

Refill limit prudent idea

A few lines from you dealing with such questions as why a prescription for an antibiotic that may have helped someone last September might not help her (or her sister) in the following February; even though the symptoms are the same, could do much to educate the public in this respect.

Antibiotics are not the only problem, of course. Sometimes even more difficult for people to understand is why the physician has limited the number of refills on a diuretic, on a muscle relaxer, or on a hypotensive, etc. — F.H.

Of course, your points are well-taken in connection with all prescription drugs, including the ones you mention. The "Physician's Desk Reference," a book with which you must be familiar, is filled with detailed information on possible side-effects of thousands of drugs available to physicians today. It is just common sense for the prescribing physician to want to periodically monitor patients who are taking any of them.

I have emphasized this indirectly in the past. Thanks for making the point more dramatically, from the pharmacist's standpoint.

Dear Dr. Tholeson: In urinating I get excruciating pain at the very end of my penis. The pain then leaves and does not appear for several days. Your suggestions would be appreciated. — R.A.K.

Since the pain does not occur with each urination (you have several days free of symptoms) it is possible you may be passing small blood clots or even small stones. Infection and obstructions of the urethra could be factors. In fact, the problem can lie as far distant as the bladder.

Any such pain during urination demands a rather complete investigation, preferably by a urologist.

Cancer crusade involves family

SALMON — Cancerj has deeply touched the lives of the Elmer Buster family of Salmon. Their son and brother, Bobby, died at the age of 15 of Hodgkin's disease. That was in 1969.

Because of her son's death, Mrs. Buster (Virginia) has become more deeply involved in the volunteer work of the American Cancer Society.

GF finds softball sponsor

GLENN'S FERRY — A sponsor has been found for the softball game for girls 13-15 years of age. Coaches are needed to help the girls get started. Anyone with time to help and willingness will be welcomed. All that is needed is the time, for instructions regarding the rules of the game would be given. As soon as three coaches are found a meeting will be set up to work out schedules for practices. Anyone interested is invited to call 366-2433.

GF pursues fun director

GLENN'S FERRY — Applications for a director of the summer recreation program are being taken, according to city councilman, Robert Whitlock. A meeting will be held in the Glenns Ferry City Hall on Thursday. Anyone interested in the summer recreation program is urged to attend this meeting at 7 p.m.

She has served as a volunteer the past 26 years and has been treasurer the past 12 years for the Lemhi County Unit.

Tracy Andrus, the daughter of Gov. Cecil Andrus, at a recent meeting in Boise, thanked the society, saying that through it she had been discovered for Hodgkin's disease, the same type she had. Mrs. Buster noted.

"Ten years ago this was considered terminal cancer. If everyone could shoulder what they have been giving to the April Cancer Crusade, we could be a year ahead of what we normally are on research and be that much closer to other cures. If the research were speeded up someone else could be saved."

"In March when Tracy was talking, I couldn't help but think if we had given more generously my boy would have been here too."

SV Co. wins lawsuit

SUN-VALLEY — A jury has decided not to award damages to a husband and wife whose son was hurt and whose daughter was killed on a steep hillside at Sun Valley in July 1973.

Joseph and Judy DiBacco sued Sun Valley Co. and TelePrompTer, DiBacco's employer, for negligence in the case. The DiBaccos claimed both Sun Valley and TelePrompTer invited the plaintiffs and their minor children to a picnic at Trail Creek Cabin.

The invitation specifically invited the children to play on the steep hillside adjoining the cabin, according to the complaint.

The plaintiffs contend that at about 5 p.m., Kimberlee A. and her younger brother Jeffrey DiBacco, were playing about 100 feet up a steep hillside when a rock about the size of a basketball dislodged above them.

The rock struck the boy a glancing blow and hit Kimberlee in the center of the scalp. She died in her father's arms en route to Moritz Community Hospital.

The plaintiffs then sued both companies for $150,000 punitive and $1,050 special damages. A $75,000 mental damage suit was filed as well as a $50,000 suit against all defendants.

The defense argued generally the DiBaccos assumed any and all risk while attending the function at Trail Creek Cabin.

Pony League organized

GLENN FERRY — A Pony League baseball team, sponsored by the Haney Seed Co. of Glenn Ferry, is being organized for 13-15-year-olds of the area.

Robert Mullen, organizer, states that more coaches are needed, or anyone who could donate some time to these youngsters would be welcomed. Anyone interested is invited to call the league manager, Neil Morris, 366-2015.

Mankind enlarges deserts

WASHINGTON — Growing populations, foraging for food and energy are laying waste wide areas of Africa, Asia and Latin America, even as wealthier countries try to help the poorer lands develop their food production resources, a new research study warns.

"The deserts are creeping outward," Erik P. Eckholm, author of the study, said at a news conference here. "The deserts are pulled outward by humans."

Eckholm's study was sponsored by the Worldwatch Institute, a Washington research organization where he is a senior researcher, with support from the United Nations Environment Program. His work, titled "Losing Ground: Environmental Stress and World Food Prospects," is being published in book form by W.W. Norton & Co. of New York.

TWIN FALLS — Some Twin Falls parents, convinced the U.S. government is trying to snatch the rearing of children from the family, recently planned to petition against the federal "Child and Family Services Act."

What provoked local parents into this fear of this bill was an anonymous letter circulated last month in the Magic Valley. The letter claimed the Child and Family Services Act was an attempt to take the control of children from parents.

An investigation by the Times-News shows the letter criticizing the controversial bill is not based on a sound interpretation of the supposedly dangerous bill.

The Senate bill is sponsored by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and a similar measure in the House of Representatives is sponsored by Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind.

One of the reasons the Mondale-Brademas bill has not come up for vote is the circulation of the anonymous letter, which, according to Jim Fields, legislative aide to Sen. James A. McClure, R-Id., has brought a barrage of angry letters from Idaho parents.

The letter, which arrived in Twin Falls somewhat later than it hit other parts of the country, quotes from the Congressional Record, without identifying the source of the material cited or the speaker.

The letter says the "Charter of Child's Rights of the National Council of Civil Liberties" is "becoming part of the Act."

Some of the rights of children cited in the letter would be "the right to protection from any excess claims made on them by their parents." For instance, the letter says, "If the mother or father asked the child to take the garbage out and the child doesn't want to, the parents have no right to punish the child."

In addition, the letter says, "Children have the right to freedom from religious or political indoctrination." According to the letter, "this means that parents could not insist on children attending church, Sunday school or synagogues. It also means the parent could be reported to authorities for expressing himself if the child reported this to the authorities."

An investigation shows that nowhere in the actual legislation is there any reference to "children's rights."

The current Senate and House of Representatives bills say "the family is the primary and the most fundamental influence on children; child-and-family-service programs must build upon and strengthen the role of the family and must be provided on a voluntary basis only to children whose parents or legal guardians request such services."

The current bill was designed to provide child day-care, before- and after-school and summer programs, prenatal care, food and nutritional services, diagnosis and treatment of mental, hearing, speech, medical, dental, nutritional, and other physical, mental psychological and emotional handicaps for the children of economically disadvantaged families.

Most letters received by congressmen and senators concerning this bill were based on the misinformation contained in the anonymous letter. All investigations into the source of the letter have run into a dead-end.

Research into the citations in the letter revealed they were taken from extraneous material inserted into the Congressional Record by Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb. In 1971 when a similar bill was debated in the Senate.

That bill was passed in both houses, but was vetoed by then-President Richard M. Nixon.

Vicki Steffen, a Twin Falls mother and housewife, said, "While I am embarrassed that I was taken by that phoney letter and almost started a move against the legislation because of it, it did get my attention. In the matter, and now I am better informed and will instead support the legislation."

Ketchum burglary probed

KETCHUM — A large burglary Friday night or Saturday morning resulted in the loss of over $200 in cash and merchandise to Chick's Mobile Gas and J and G TV two miles south of Ketchum.

Blaine County sheriff's officials report someone made a forced entry through the front door of the service station between 10 p.m. Friday and 7:30 a.m. Saturday.

A four inch diameter hole was found in the glass in the front door.

The station lost $1,120 in cash, while J and G TV lost televisions, CB radios and stereos.

Burley recruits praised

BURLEY — Burley Police Department recruits have been praised as an outstanding "caliber of officers."

The city received a letter praising the "professionalism displayed" by officers attending the Idaho Law Enforcement Academy sponsored by the Peace Officers Standards and Training advisory council.

Larry Plett, executive secretary of POST, wrote the letter to Mayor Chuck Shaddock and Councilman Leonard King, chairman of the police committee. He said he "noticed considerable difference in attitude and professionalism among these officers."

He also praised the background screening program of the Burley department, adding that chiefs in large Idaho cities have commented they would rather be without an officer "than get one undesirable."

Montana man returned to TF

TWIN FALLS — Michael Max Lane, 26, Missoula, Mont., was returned to Twin Falls Friday evening by city officers to face charges of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder.

L. Tim Qualls, chief of the Twin Falls Detectives, said Lane was returned from Eureka, Calif., where he was being held in custody by authorities on a felony charge.

Lane was arrested in California by Twin Falls authorities on a warrant with $30,000 bond.

Lane is being held at the Twin Falls County Jail. He will be arraigned today in the Magistrate court.

L. Qualls said the assault which Lane is being charged with occurred Oct. 11, 1974. A complaint was signed against Lane on Oct. 16, 1974.

GLENNS FERRY — April 25 to May 7 has been designated as Spring Cleanup for Glenns Ferry, Ed Bostic, city clerk, said Monday.

Plans for the cleanup were discussed at Thursday's city council meeting. Gem off-road travel plan revised; groups approve

By SHANE O'NEILL
Times-News writer

HEYBURN — Off-road vehicle enthusiasts who originally were critical of a Sawtooth National Forest travel plan now say they can live with the guidelines set for motorcycles, four-wheel-drives and horses.

A revised plan for the southern division of the Sawtooth National Forest has been drafted with the help of the Concerned Citizens for Public Lands, a group of off-road vehicle users.

"If they do what they informed us they would do, our group's for it," Lee Moyle, spearhead of the Concerned Citizens for Public Lands, said Saturday.

Bill Price, Burley Forest Service district ranger, said a revised plan is being drafted and will probably be "much less restrictive" of vehicular traffic than one that aroused controversy last month.

Several thousand signatures opposing the proposal to the travel plan in the southern Sawtooth Forest were presented to the district ranger in Burley.

As a result, a new off-road vehicle travel plan is in the process of being drafted.

Bill Price, Burley Forest Service district ranger, said the revised plan stems from "a new direction" from the regional forest office.

The new direction means that the travel guidelines for off-road vehicles will be less restrictive, he said.

Under the new plan, deer wintering areas are to be maintained at the southern end of the Black Pine Mountains toward Strevell and the north end of the Sublett Mountains.

Moyle said there also will be localized control areas, such as at Magic Mountain. But he added that Twin Falls District Ranger Lew Munson, had presented a plan not as restrictive as the Burley District plan.

Moyle said he understood Munson probably will reduce the deer wintering area south of Twin Falls. He said that plan left "quite a bit of open space."

Trail-bikers had asked that one hill be designated for hill climbing. Moyle said the Forest Service said it would consider the request, but he had no indication whether or not it would be granted.

Bellevue marshal turns in badge, car

By BART QUESNELL
Times-News writer

BELLEVUE — Drivers can forget about the cop with the fast-blinker who once waited for speeders in Bellevue.

The Volkswagen Rabbit with the red bubble on the top lasted for just two months for the city marshal — now sits in the yard of Bellevue Mayor L. T. "Pat" Johnson.

But Taylor has turned in his marshal's badge, gun, and car to the mayor saying he is sick and tired of the city council and mayor who would not work with him.

Bellevue is just a small town, although Taylor feels the population is nearing 1,000. The city has employed a city marshal for law enforcement for years.

Taylor has worked for the city for two and one-half years. This is the second time, he said, the city got rid of the car.

Last year, a problem started when the automobile Taylor was driving cost the city about $500 a month for gas and repairs.

"I pointed out time and time again how much that car was costing the city," Taylor said.

The city got rid of the car this year and leased a New Volkswagen Rabbit. Although the car was costing the city far less, Taylor said city officials now are questioning the trips Taylor takes in the car to Ketchum and Halley.

Taylor said he must travel to Ketchum to the county prosecutor's office on all arrests.

"For all formal complaints, I have to go to Ketchum," he said, "that's been one of the complaints of officers in Blaine County, that they have to go far."

Taylor has the backing of the people in going to quit over the repair bills to the car as well as the fact that he is a private citizen. He was elected voting support for Taylor. He stayed on as marshal.

"I got along real well with the adults here," he said.

There are about eight delinquents, he said, running the streets of Bellevue, who will probably continue to cause trouble until a new marshal figures them out.

So, Taylor's 12-hour minimum seven days a week, for $63 a month has ended. He said he would go back only if the council and he can work together.

Bellevue Mayor Johnson said today the VW police car remains on his lawn.

The city is planning a meeting to see what to do about a new marshal.

"I suppose we need something," Johnson said, "in the week without a marshal. Bellevue's been vandalized and fire extinguisher foam sprayed over books."

Sims Family Drive-Inn was burglarized and the burglars damaged games in the game room, took $3 in small change and $10 to $15 from a juke box.

A private residence also was burglarized with watches, blankets, a cast iron pan and salad bowl stolen.

Pollution laws costly for TF?

By DAVE HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A strict interpretation of federal pollution laws might require costly improvements at Twin Falls' new $7-million sewage treatment plant, according to an official of the engineering firm that designed the plant.

Although the facility is "the most advanced plant in Idaho and perhaps in the Northwest," it can't eliminate all pollutants from waste water discharged into the Snake River, Danny Fouldapour, Boise, vice president of Hutton and Voeller, Inc., said Tuesday.

"A new technical plant can accomplish zero pollutant discharge," he added.

The intent of federal water pollution standards is "to eliminate pollution" from the nation's waters, Fouldapour said. "And if you take that literally it means that you cannot put any kind of pollutants into the streams and lakes."

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has set a national "goal" of zero water pollution by 1985, but the concept serves only as a guideline and is not legally binding. Unless Congress makes it a firm deadline, pollution sources such as the Twin Falls plant won't be affected.

Many experts see zero pollution as an unrealistic goal, according to Fouldapour.

"It's very unlikely that zero discharge will be demanded. Congress intended to require the best practicable technology . . . and to the people in the field that does not mean zero discharge. It means you do the best you can at the best cost."

If removal of all pollutants is required, the Twin Falls plant might be forced to stop discharging wastewater into the Snake and turn to a "land application scheme."

"That plan would include spraying the wastewater on land "for beneficial uses such as crop growth." It could be spread on a canyon properly near the plant or pumped over the canyon rim for use on farmlands, according to Fouldapour.

When the Twin Falls plant was designed in 1972, land application "was not widely accepted" and wasn't considered as an option to a completely mechanical operation, he said. But it's "now known as a very effective way of disposing of wastewater."

If the Twin Falls project was designed again today the land application technique would be considered as an alternative, Fouldapour added.

Reasonable ratios pushed for schools

By BOISE — Max Yost, executive manager of the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho, says Idaho's teachers and school boards should try to develop reasonable teacher student ratios as they negotiate on next year's salary.

Yost said he believes school districts are hiring too many teacher specialists which makes less money available for teacher salaries.

Using average daily attendance records, Yost claims the trend in many Magic Valley schools over the past 5 years has been to dramatically increase the number of professional educators per student.

As an example, he cited student-teacher ratio drops in Blaine County. Filer, Buhl and Kimberly school districts.

He compared 1970 to 1975 figures. In Buhl the ratio dropped from 20.2 to 17.1 during these years. Filer, from 19.1 to 15.3. Kimberly, 19.6 to 16.5; and in Blaine County, 17.8 to 15.0.

He said the Jerome and Twin Falls district were not so dramatic. Twin Falls dropped during these years from a ratio of 20.8 to 19.1 and Jerome dropped from 19.6 to 16.9.

Yost feels efficient use of educational money in a medium to large-sized school district requires the ratio of professional educator to student average should be kept at 20 to 1.

He agreed in smaller districts that ratio would be difficult to maintain.

From 1970 to 1975, Yost said the per student expenditure in Idaho had grown from $888.77 to $1,189.38. He said the addition of so many specialists in the school system was largely to blame for this increase.

The Associated Taxpayers of Idaho is an organization which "fights the battle of taxation" by attempting to get as an efficient an operation of government as possible, according to Yost.

"We have been in operation since 1946 and have many members from the Twin Falls and Magic Valley areas."

The organization looks at the budgets of counties, cities, school districts, highway districts, as well as the state budget.

Businesses eye Tempo site

TWIN FALLS — Owners of the Tempo Store which is scheduled to close in

Twin Falls about the end of the month are negotiating with two other department store chains.

Oliver Goodbroed, Nampa, manager of Daum Industries, said "There's a lot of interest in the building. It shouldn't be vacant long."

If negotiations with either of the department store firms is finalized, Goodbroed said he expects the Twin Falls facility will be remodeled and a local outlet of that firm opened.

If neither of the department stores purchases the property, the official said, "Several other businesses are interested."

While closing date for the local Tempo store is not yet finalized, Goodbroed said employees are trying to get "sold down" so they can close about the end of April.

The Tempo store, located in the Blue Lakes Shopping Center in Twin Falls, has operated for 11 years.

Gambles-Skogmo Corp. decided to close both of its Tempo stores in Idaho earlier this year.

January grabs Champions Tournament

CARLSBAD, Calif. (UPI) — Slow-walking, slow-talking... veteran Don January... unrattled when young Ben Crenshaw charged to within two shots of the lead on the front nine, calmly carded a four-under-par 68 Sunday to win the $225,000 Tournament of Champions by five shots.

front of Crenshaw, finished with a 72-hole of 277, 11-under-par and won the biggest prize of his 20-year career, $45,000. He had previous rounds of 71-68-69.

Crenshaw, 24, eagled the second hole and then birdied Nos. 5, 7 and 8 to cut January's seemingly unshakable advantage to two strokes. It looked like a new ball game.

Green, the first-day leader with a 69 in the wind and rain, finished all alone in second place for a $27,000 payoff when Crampton double-bogeyed the final hole — by three-putting from 25 feet. Green had a final-round 63 for a 122-100.

For January, it was his 12th career victory, his second in seven months and second in the U. S. C. He captured this tournament in 1968, the last year it was held in Las Vegas, Nev., before it was moved to California.

Rankin cops third LPGA tourney win

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Judy Rankin, playing with very little pressure from her fellow competitors, shot a three-under-par 69 Sunday to win the $60,000 Karsten-Ping LPGA tournament, her third victory in six events this year.

Rankin, who started the competition with two straight 68s, won the $14,000 first prize with a 54-hole total of 205 for a seven-shot advantage over runnerup Sandra Post, who matched the winner's final round of 69.

Rankin, raising her season winnings to nearly $57,000, started the day with a six-shot lead and only once saw that advantage cut.

Post, playing with Rankin, made the turn at three-under 33 to trail by five, only to bogey the par-four 11th hole and drop back again.

Rookie Gary Koch wins at Tallahassee

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Gary Koch, a tour rookie out of the University of Florida, had a steady two-under-par 70 Sunday to ease past veteran John Mahaffey and win the Tallahassee Open with an 11-under-par 277.

in picking up the $16,000 top prize. Koch won four times as much as he had previously earned playing golf.

Koch beat Mahaffey by a single stroke, needing a six-putt on the final green for the par that won it.

Koch started the final round two strokes behind third-round leader Bob Eastwood. He targeted the front nine in 1 under but bogeyed No. 10 before ranning home birdie putts at 11 and 12 which moved him two strokes ahead of Mahaffey.

All of the tournament winners of the past year, except Jack Nicklaus who took this week off, skipped this $80,000 tournament to play in the Tournament of Champions.

Arnold Palmer, one of the very few "name" golfers present, played his best round of the tournament, a three-under par 69, but wound up seven strokes off the lead, with a four-under 284. Palmer still commanded the largest gallery and buzzed the course in his jet when he left.

Koch said he is far ahead of his schedule. "When I joined the tour, my long-range plans were to play in 30 tournaments and try to make the top 60 money winners list. I may change my plans now. With this win, I can play less than 30, play five or six weeks in a row and then take off for a few weeks."

Nets nip Spurs for ABA playoff win

SAN ANTONIO-Tex. (UPI) — Julius Erving scored 11 points in the final period, including a three-point play in the last 33 seconds Sunday, to lead the New York Nets to a 110-108 ABA playoff victory over San Antonio.

Each team has won two games in the best-of-seven series. The fifth game will be played Monday night at Uniondale, N.Y.

Braves oust 76ers from NBA playoffs

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Bob McAdoo scored 34 points, including two clutch foul shots to send the game into overtime and two more with 17 seconds remaining Sunday, to propel the Buffalo Braves to a 124-123 victory over Philadelphia, eliminating the 76ers from the NBA playoffs.

Buffalo held the lead throughout the overtime period and John Shumate's basket with 2:56 remaining gave the Braves a 118-113 lead. The 76ers crept to within one before McAdoo hit two foul shots to make the score, 122-119.

After the 76ers crept to within one again, Ken Charles hit two foul shots with seven seconds remaining to assure the win. Philadelphia brought the final margin to one point on Lloyd Free's layup at the buzzer.

The Braves forced the nationally-televised game into overtime when McAdoo hit two free throws with one second to play after being fouled during a scramble for a rebound. Fred Carter had hit a jumper with six seconds to play giving Philadelphia the lead.

The 76ers held a 64-65 half-time lead, but McAdoo scored 15 points in the third quarter to enable Buffalo to pull within two, 89-87.

Shumate, who wasn't expected to play after suffering a concussion in Friday night's game, scored 11 points in the fourth quarter. His three-point play with 6:02 to play gave the Braves a seemingly commanding 95-96 lead.

But the 76ers came back, pulling to 109-107 on Lloyd Free's short bank shot. Doug Collins then hit a long jumper and, after Shumate was called for an offensive foul, Carter hit the jumper that put the crowd 13,087 into hysteria.

Pistons drop Bucks from NBA playoffs

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Milwaukee Bucks Coach Larry Costello was trying hard Sunday to put up a brave front after his team was eliminated from the NBA playoffs by the Detroit Pistons.

He squared his shoulders; took a sip of beer to calm himself and then told reporters it had been a good year, that his young players learned a lot and next year would be better. But deep down, it was easy to see the loss had been a bitter one — and it was hard to forget the look of utter disgust on his face as he had trudged to the locker room.

The Bucks lost to Detroit 107-104 in the final seconds when they stole an inbound pass and turned it into a basket that led the Detroit Pistons to a 2-1 victory in the three-game playoff qualifying series.

Suns whip Sonics for series lead

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Gar Heard and Paul Westphal scored 16 points each to lead Phoenix to a 103-91 win over the Seattle SuperSonics Sunday night, giving the Suns a 2-1 edge in their best-of-seven NBA Western Conference semifinal series.

Four other Suns scored in double figures, with veteran guard Dick Van Arsdale coming off the bench to get 15. Curtis Perry and Alan Adams had 14 each and Riley Sobers 12. Silk Watts led Seattle with 18. Fred Brown, who averaged 39 points in the first two playoff games, got 16 along with Willie Norwood.

Nastase defeats Rod Laver

KEAUHOU-KONA, Hawaii (UPI) — Undeclared Ili Nastase qualified for the World Championship Tennis Challenge Cup semifinals Sunday by beating Rod Laver, 7-6, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3, but said Romania's Davis Cup coach might prevent him from fulfilling further WCT commitments.

Laver said he felt there was a "remote chance" of beating Nastase in straight sets when he began the match. "Ten thousand dollars is a good figure to work for," he former grand slam winner said. "I didn't come here to sit in the sun and drink pineapple juice."

Nastase revealed after the win that his country's Davis Cup matches against Great Britain are scheduled for May 17-23, the same period the WCT's $50,000 winner-take-all semis are slated to be run off.

Nastase scored two big points on a forehand winner on the fifth point, and on a backhand winner down the line. The last point was scored on a backhand winner.

Nastase used his backhand passing shot to catch Laver going the wrong way on several occasions. Laver, on the other hand, said he could not hit a passing shot because he lost confidence after missing on his forehand early in the match.

Nastase holds a 3-0 record in the Challenge Cup, joining Ken Rosewall, 2-1, in the "unbeaten" list. Laver, who had to win in straight sets to remain in contention for the semifinals, was eliminated with a 1-2 record.

No British runners are expected to be among the leaders in this year's race, which will be held without Laver, top Amateur marathoner Bill Rodgers of suburban Melrose, last year's record-breaking winner, will skip the race along with

A group of Latin American runners, more conditioned to hot weather, will be the ones to watch. THE BORN LOSER

what's what

L.M. Boyd

In rehearsing a play, the last line must not be spoken according to the dictates of superstition. Client asks why. Am told the notion had a practical beginning. Actors once tended to over-rehearse the last line. This caused them to deliver it in a wooden manner without sufficient thought concentration to make it frayed.

Our "Love and War" man, long under the impression that love is universal, puzzles over the fact that numerous primitive cultures don't even have a word for it. Odd.

Takes the sun two minutes seven seconds to set from the moment it touches the horizon until it entirely disappears.

Two out of three second-marriages last a lifetime, please note.

HOWARD HUGHES

Q. "How will the death of Howard Hughes affect Jane Russell's life-long contract for $50,000 a year?"

A. That wasn't a life-long deal. It reportedly was for 20 years, so would have expired a year ago.

Q. "What's the average cost now of keeping one of our congressmen in Washington, D.C.?"

A. About $489,000 a year is the latest estimate. Some are kept for less, some for more.

COLLECTIONS

When you were a youngster, how many different sorts of things, like stamps and matchbook covers and bottle caps, did you collect at one time or another? Average child undertakes six such collecting projects before high school graduation, surveys show.

Did I say that World War II aircraft known as the Messerschmitt 109 was extinct? Not quite. The plane remains in shape with the Confederate Air Force at Rebel Field in Harlingen, Texas.

Those forward-looking businessmen of Lake City, Pa., have budgeted $6,000 to build a landing strip for flying saucers.

It's common knowledge that some people who ordinarily speak pretty well develop a stutter under stress. Less widely known is the fact that others who usually stutter don't do so under stress. This is another of the several paradoxes that make speech impediments among the most difficult to treat. I'm told.
